Agreement On El Paso Land Due In 10 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agreement on the long and touchy dispute between the United States and Mexico over a piece of land in El Paso, Tex., may be announced within the next 10 days or so, informants say.

These sources said earlier this week that the final major barrier to an agreement has been overcome in the Chamizal case—referring to the Chamiza, or brush which abounds in the area. The problem began in 1864 when the Rio Grande, which forms part of the U. S.-Mexican border, changed its course at El Paso.

OLD RIVER COURSE

Gradually U. S. citizens moved into the area. But Mexico claimed it as part of its own. Sources close to the negotiations say engineers have drawn a line over what they believe to be the almost century-old course of the river.

Under terms of the agreement a new channel eventually will be cut along the line, diverting the Rio Grande back to its old course.

The barrier that was overcome this week concerned compensation for certain public buildings on the land which will be returned to Mexico. The Mexican government, feeling the land has always been Mexico's, reportedly has balked at a cash payment for the buildings, which it wants. But the problem was solved, it was reported, when Mexican private business interests and public corporations agreed to work out plans for acquiring the buildings.

BACK FROM EUROPE

Mexican Foreign Minister Manuel Tello is expected to return to Mexico City Monday from a European trip, and informants here say the U. S.-Mexican agreement could be announced within the next week or two after that.

After the agreement is signed and announced comes the task of drafting a formal treaty which must be ratified by both nations. Then comes the job of putting it into effect, including removing American citizens from Chamizal and cutting the new channel.

Highway Death Toll Continues To Go Higher

By The Associated Press
Deaths in traffic accidents on the nation's highways reversed an earlier trend and took an upturn in the long Independence Day weekend and the heavy traffic of homeward-bound motorists was yet to come.

Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, said there was a strong upward trend which indicated that highway deaths might exceed the record high of 599 set in 1961, the most recent four-day July 4 observance.

An Associated Press tabulation late Saturday reported 383 deaths in traffic accidents, 33 in boating accidents and 101 by drowning.

The council had estimated that 350 to 650 persons would die in traffic accidents between 6 p.m. Wednesday and midnight Sunday. The record for a four-day Independence Day observance was set in 1961 when 599 persons were killed in traffic accidents.

The record for a holiday of any kind was set in 1956 when 706 persons died during a four-day Christmas holiday.

The Associated Press conducted a survey for comparative purposes of a four-day nonholiday weekend from 6 p.m. June 19 to midnight June 23. The death toll in traffic accidents was 458.

Multiple deaths in traffic accidents occurred in a number of states.

Six members of one family died in an accident at Butler, Pa. The family was taking a pleasure ride in a new car.

Five persons died in a collision near Springfield, Ohio, and five also died in an accident at Lansing, Mich.

Texas Chalks Up 16 Road Deaths

By The Associated Press

Texas as usual was the big killer in Texas where the violent death toll for the long July 4 weekend rose Saturday to 46. The highways were death traps for 16. The critical homeward traffic jams still were ahead.

The Associated Press count started Wednesday at 6 p.m. and will end Sunday at midnight.

Drownings took 15 lives and homicides accounted for most of the other tragic deaths.

The latest deaths included:

Rudy Gonzales Orozco, 33, was stabbed to death Friday night in Dallas.

John Albert Denny, 50, fell 20 feet from a Fort Worth stairway to his death in an accident Friday night.

Mrs. W. M. Buckley, 81, was found hanged on her back porch in Dallas.

Shelley Curry, 30, and his son, Shelly Jr., 8, of Denison drowned in Lake Texoma Thursday night.

Jay Pinkston, 37, a mechanic, died in a fire that swept his house in Baytown Saturday.

Clyde T. Johnson, 43, of Wichita, Kan., drowned Saturday when he waded into Lake Texoma in an attempt to retrieve a boat that had drifted away. His body was found in 13 feet of water.

China On Attack As Sino-Soviet Reds Confer

Moscow Talks Conducted In Secret

MOSCOW (AP)—With attacks on Premier Khrushchev still coming from Peking, Red Chinese and Soviet Communist party officials conducted Saturday their first full day of talks in the clash over communism's way to world supremacy.

Everything was in secret and the Soviet press avoided any direct plunge into the argument that has split the world's two largest Communist powers.

Leading the Chinese is Teng Hsiao-ping, short, broad-faced general secretary of the Chinese Communist party. He has six experts with him.

Mikhail Suslov, a member of the Soviet Communist party Presidium, is the chief Kremlin negotiator.

Westerners here speculated Suslov was attempting to get the talks finished by July 15, when U.S. and British officials come to Moscow for a conference on a nuclear test ban agreement.

Khrushchev was out of town. He was in Kiev, the Ukrainian capital 500 miles south of Moscow, on an unannounced mission.

Both the Chinese and Soviet negotiators are experts in Communist doctrine. At the heart of the dispute is the interpretation each side gives to the principles laid down by Lenin for a Communist world.

The Chinese claim Lenin meant Communists must set off violent revolutions to crush what Peking calls imperialism and colonialism.

The Kremlin holds that peaceful coexistence — spreading communism via nonviolent methods — is consistent with Lenin's teachings.

Either way, however, neither side wants to relinquish the fight to spread communism throughout the world.

The Chinese attacks seem aimed more at Khrushchev than at Kremlin theorists who supposedly draw up world policy.

Without mentioning the meeting, Pravda, organ of the Soviet Communist party, published a sober defense of Khrushchev's aims. Its tone contrasted with the bold assaults on the premier from the Red Chinese camp.

In Hong Kong, a Communist Chinese newspaper linked Khrushchev's name with that of President Kennedy.

It said Khrushchev and Kennedy each sought to be "the world's greatest hero" with one using the other in his attempt to attain the goal.

WOMEN AMONG 175 APPLICANTS FOR NEW ASTRONAUT TRAINING

HOUSTON (AP) — The Manned Spacecraft Center said Saturday more than 175 civilians, including two women, have applied for astronaut training.

Recommendations from the military services and the reserves will not be received until July 15. Center officials said the military will screen applicants before passing the recommendations to the space center.

The center will select 10 to 15 applicants to augment the group of 16 men now training for the Gemini and Apollo flights. The final selection will be made this fall, probably in October.

The spacecraft center would not reveal the names of the two women applicants.

Only the names of astronauts selected for training are disclosed.

Report Glenn May Step Into Politics

WASHINGTON (AP)—Military circles are buzzing with speculation that Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. might step out of the space program next year and take a crack at politics.

Some Ohio politicians say they would not be overly surprised if Glenn turned up as a candidate for the Senate seat now held by Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young.

Glenn, at 41 the oldest of the astronauts, has maintained silence about his future. He told reporters recently he knew of no plans for any of his group to leave the program in the next year.

Nevertheless, the situation in Ohio is such that politicians think Glenn would make an attractive candidate if he decides to take off his Marine uniform. The astronaut's political affiliations are unclear at this point.

YOUNG UNCERTAIN
Young, 74 last month, has left

Republicans are maneuvering warily toward a possible primary clash next May between John W. Bricker and Rep. Robert Taft Jr. Bricker, who lost his Senate seat to Young in an upset, has made it clear he wants to try for a comeback. A former governor and former senator with a strongly conservative record, Bricker is well-known to the voters in the state.

Taft has going for him a warm personality, service in the state legislature and Congress and the family name, always potent in Ohio politics. He has put off any decision on the Senate race until next fall or later.

Arlington Man To Become Lubbock City Manager

ARLINGTON (AP)—City Manager William J. (Bill) Pitstick resigned Saturday to accept a similar post in Lubbock.

Pitstick, a native of Iowa who grew up in Nebraska, has been in Arlington since January of 1956.

He has a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering from the University of Texas and formerly worked in Kerrville, first with the state health department and then as city manager.

A father of four who is active in Boy Scouts and the Presbyterian church, Pitstick is current president of the Texas City Managers Association. He is past president of the North Texas City Managers Association and the Arlington Rotary Club.

Unions Saying 'No' To Last Rail Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Signs mounted Saturday that the rail unions will turn down a plan advanced by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz to head off a nationwide railroad strike.

Although none of the union officials would say so outright, their comments indicated that their answer will be "no" when they and railroad representatives meet Sunday afternoon with the secretary.

In St. Louis, H. E. Gilbert, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, described the Wirtz plan as "unacceptable."

In Cedar Rapids, Iowa, George Harris, senior vice president of the Independent Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen, said, "We wouldn't reject the proposal until after the meeting."

Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds went over the details of the plan with representatives of the five operating unions Saturday. He said later he had no idea what the unions' answer would be.

Meanwhile, a Labor Department source said the fact that union representatives sought further clarification from Reynolds raises at least a "glimmer of hope" that they might accept.

Union officials have a meeting scheduled Sunday morning. Only at that time, said one, would a final decision be made on what to tell Wirtz.

The long-standing, bitter rail dispute came to a head Wednesday when the railroads said they would impose new work rules, which would eliminate thousands of jobs, at 12:01 a.m. next Thursday despite union objections.

The unions subsequently said that in this event they would immediately call a national strike.

In an effort to head off such an eventuality Wirtz advanced his plan Friday. In essence, it would use a Presidential Emergency Board's recommendations that some 40,000 firemen's jobs be dissolved by attrition as the basis of negotiations for 20 days, beginning Sunday. If the talks failed, Reynolds would prescribe procedures for a final settlement.

At the same time, in an effort to work out a long-term solution, union-management boards would study the work rules with a view to making binding recommendations at the end of two years.

If the union and rail members could not agree, neutral members would be added to make binding recommendations.

The unions have been adamantly opposed in the past to final determination by outside neutrals and it is on this point that the Wirtz plan may founder.

If the secretary is turned down, President Kennedy probably will send to Congress early next week emergency legislation to forestall a strike. He probably will call for compulsory arbitration.

Tells Of Ordeal After Crash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 100-pound housewife told Saturday of surviving six days on a desolate New Mexico mesa beside her dead husband and their crashed plane.

Mrs. Wendell Tweed's only food through the long ordeal was a piece of pastry. Her only drinking water was what she could catch on maps when rain fell last Tuesday. Days were broiling, nights near freezing.

She dragged tree branches over her husband's body to guard it from animals and said last rites.

"My prayers and my determination to live saved me," Mrs. Tweed, 47, of the suburban Van Nuys, told the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner by telephone from a bed in a Grants, N.M., hospital.

A Civil Air Patrol plane found her Friday in a semidesert area 7,100 feet above sea level six miles southwest of Grants.

A helicopter took her to Cibola Hospital. She had second-degree burns on the feet, a cut over the left eye and numerous other cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Tweed, a technologist at the Burbank, Calif., medical center, and her pilot husband, 47, a Marquardt Aviation Co. engineer, were flying home from Iowa last Saturday.

Multiple 'Crib Deaths' Add To Research Puzzle

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—In the last two weeks of June, 30 apparently healthy babies were put to bed here for the night and died—adding a new puzzle for medical researchers to unravel in their long study of so-called "crib deaths."

In reporting the rash of deaths Saturday, city medical examiner Joseph W. Spelman said he could not explain them.

Asked about a report that the recent high incidence of deaths might have resulted from a severe heat wave and dehydration of the victims, Dr. Spelman commented:

"It's true, more or less, that the deaths coincided with the heat wave . . . but . . . we had a couple more Friday and there certainly was no heat wave."

And a pathologist who studied many of the crib death cases for Dr. Spelman's office, Dr. Marie Valdes Dapena, says some objective studies support the dehydration theory. But, she adds, "this is just one little brick in the wall."

Dr. Dapena, on the staff of St. Christopher's Hospital for Children, said that in about 85 per cent of the cases she lists the death cause as undetermined.

Spelman said that Philadelphia annually averages about 150 crib death reports, with the highest incidence in the cooler months. Normally, the summer month average is about 5—compared with 15 a week for the last two weeks of June. It was in this period that Philadelphia experienced eight straight days of 90 plus temperatures.

The victims in this surge ranged in age from 2 weeks to 15 months.

The parents who are checked "usually say they just don't know what happened," Dr. Dapena said.

Man Booked After Slaying Two, Wounding Three More

LINDEN, N.J. (AP) — Police took Richard (Teddy) Coleman, shaking and remorseful, to a funeral home Saturday to identify the bodies of his wife and sister-in-law, who authorities say were slain by him in a berserk shooting spree.

The burly, 36-year-old father of four also faced Mary Kaminski, the pretty, 18-year-old blonde police said he abducted Friday night after slaying the women and shooting three other persons, including his brother.

Coleman was booked on a charge of murdering his wife. Other charges were expected later as an investigation to the multiple tragedy continued. An arraignment was scheduled for Sunday.

IDENTIFIED
Miss Kaminski, whose family was held at gunpoint by Coleman for four hours, identified the suspect as the man who abducted her. The girl, calmed by sedatives after suffering through "a terrible emotional state," was released from Elizabeth General Hospital and confronted Coleman in police headquarters.

Coleman was captured in Newark early Saturday. The girl was found wandering in a street in Elizabeth.

Family problems apparently triggered the murderous outbreak. After several hours of questioning by police, Coleman, a Negro, told newsmen "I'm very tired, I'm sorry about the whole mess."

He choked back a sob when asked about the abduction of Miss Kaminski, who is white.

DRINKING
Detective Capt. Michael Valvano added that Coleman said he had been drinking and that he blamed the rampage on constant arguments with his wife and her relatives and the fact that his wife was leaving him.

"He's sorry for what he did. He realizes he's in a pack of trouble," the officer said.

Hospital authorities refused to discuss whether Miss Kaminski had been raped, but Valvano said a doctor who examined her said, "It was a possible rape."

Coleman shot his wife Millie, 37, his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ruby Coleman, 43, his brother, Harry, 32, and then a neighbor, Lettroy Edwards, 48, who was washing his car nearby.

He entered a nearby home and wounded Mrs. Marianna Kube. Then he apparently walked several blocks and barged in on the family of Nicholas Kaminski and held seven members at gunpoint.

He took 18-year-old Mary as a hostage in a car owned by a member of her family.

When she was found in Elizabeth six hours later, her hair was matted with blood that had streaked her white blouse and Bermuda shorts.

Kennedy European Trip Draws Goldwater Fire

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater Saturday assailed President Kennedy's recent European trip and said Negro leader Roy Wilkins "would destroy our Constitution."

During a news conference the Arizona Republican also said, "I haven't even got around to thinking of announcing for the presidency."

He said it would be foolish to announce this early.

Assailing President Kennedy's trip, Goldwater said: "I don't know of one Russian who has left Cuba because of the President's trip. I don't know of any change in the situation in Laos or Viet Nam because of the trip."

"I suggest, instead, that it would be better to visit Birmingham, Detroit and other American cities where people have problems."

Concerning a statement by Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), Goldwater told a questioner:

"I think Wilkins' position is a purely political one taken by a Negro politician."

Wilkins had remarked that the Republican party's attitude on segregation and the Negro might be the key in the 1964 Presidential election.

Goldwater said: "The Republican party is the only one which has done anything for the Negro."

"I have invited him (Wilkins) to come to my office and talk to me repeatedly in the past three years, but he failed to come. "And yet I'm still the prime target."

"The question is whether our Constitution can survive against the pressures of this group. We will give them exactly what the Constitution calls for and nothing more."

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

Our own area got through the holiday without violence, but the week was not without its sorrow. Milton Davis, 25, was killed a week ago today when the car he was driving left the road north of Ozona and overturned. Before the week was out, two former residents, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Bob Watson, were injured in a Dallas crash that claimed two lives.

Our area economy apparently continues on an even keel, according to bank figures. The three banks here and the one at Coahoma showed $38,335,000 in deposits at the end of June, about half a million more than the same time a year ago. Loans jumped by $4.3 million to reach $30,402,000 and establish a new all time record.

The week was one that the Weldon Rainey's of Coahoma will not soon forget. They learned from a previous resident that a coffee can in the garage contained nitroglycerine. After a lot of tender handling, it was removed to the dump grounds and detonated. The noise of the blast was only slightly stronger than the sigh of relief.

Today, following morning services at East Fourth Baptist Church, the Rev. Jack Strickland will embark on the fulfillment of almost every minister's dream—a visit to the Holy Land. The (See THE WEEK, Page 6-A, Col. 1)

July Moisture Would Put Finishing Touch On Crops

If July will just live up to its 60-year average and produce 2.05 inches of rain (preferably within the next week or 10 days) farmers in this county will be happy.

Crops are looking better than they have in many years. The rains of May and June have given the fields a big boost. Cotton in some areas is already blooming. Herb Helbig, county farm agent, said he had seen a few minute cottonbolls on some of the earlier planted cotton.

Insect trouble has not built up to serious proportions although the fleahopper problem is in danger of becoming serious. The woolly caterpillars are eating border rows in some fields and in a few cases farmers have had to poison to combat these two early invaders.

There are reports a few cotton boll worms have been found in some fields but not in sufficient numbers as yet to be a real threat.

Helbig said that the major problem now—if there is a real problem—is the need for more rain before the middle of this month.

"We could use a good rain," said the agent. "The two inch average that July has produced in the past would be just fine if it could be delivered at the right time and in the right way."

Last year there was three inches of rain in July for one of the wettest months of the year. Six inches of rain fell during the month in 1961 so Helbig and the farmers have reason to hope that the current month will walk in the path of its two predecessors.

Grain sorghums look good, Helbig said, and pastures are in the best condition in a long time.

Water Use Down

LAMESA (SC)—Water consumption in Lamesa tumbled over six million gallons last month. Several moderate rainfalls accounted for the dip. Total usage was 60,996,000 gallons after two consecutive months in which the consumption rate exceeded 67,000,000 gallons.

Mrs. Robb's Mother Dies

Mrs. B. W. Herrman, for many years a resident of Big Spring and the mother of Mrs. J. Y. Robb, died Thursday morning in a hospital at Santa Monica, Calif.

In declining health for some years, she apparently suffered a heart attack. Notified of her mother's illness, Mrs. Robb, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. George O'Brien Jr. of Midland, left for California, but Mrs. Herrman had succumbed before they reached there.

As Mrs. R. F. Harris Sr., the deceased came to Big Spring about 1907, and resided here for some 30 years. She had rental property on Lancaster Street, site of the old family home. Following Mr. Harris' death, she was married to B. W. Herrman, and they had made their home in Santa Monica since the late 30's. They made frequent trips to Big Spring.

Funeral services will be held in Santa Monica at 3 p.m. Monday, under direction of the Pierce Brothers Funeral Home. Floral tributes are being handled through the Anderson Flower Shop, 1512 Pico Blvd., Santa Monica. The family address is 1034 25th St., Santa Monica.

Gen. Gent In AF Hospital

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Air Force said Friday that Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Gent Jr. apparently shot himself in the right temple two weeks ago in his apartment at Tinker Air Force Base.

The Air Force did not say whether the shooting was intentional or accidental.

Gent was transferred earlier this week to Lackland Air Force Base Hospital at San Antonio. His wife, who was hospitalized here for treatment of shock, accompanied him.

The Air Force said evidence indicated Mrs. Gent was not involved in the shooting. She told investigators she was in the bathroom when Gent was shot.

Gent, former commander of the 32nd North American Air Defense Command, was due to transfer to Ft. Monroe, Va., when he was wounded.

NUMBER PLEASE

Just Which Do You Mean?
442-09-7255 Or 79720 (21)?

DEAR BOSS:
You know what? We do not have to fear engulfment by the Reds or economic disaster.
Our real problem is: We are to be overrun by IBM machines. We are to become gibbering idiots as time passes—driven to madness by the mounting total of numbers and combinations of numbers we have to retain in our little pointed heads.
I went home the other day, Boss, in a calm and peaceful frame of mind. In my mail box I found a folder. It was from the Post Office Department. This it read is "your zip code number." Honest, Boss, I didn't really need a zip code number. But, it seems I must hereafter attach this number—79720—to my return address. And when I get mail, it will be addressed to me plus my zip number. Then end of this card I took from the mail box, is detachable and I am told to keep the number.
Boss, already I am a swarming mass of numbers. My billfold bulges with cards bearing numbers. I have my Social Security number; I have a number on the credit card I use to buy gasoline. I have a number on my driver's license and a number on my library card. I have a number on my house. I have a telephone number (to which I am now asked to add three additional digits as my area designation) I am a number in the files of the Internal Revenue Department. There is a number on my motor car; another on my gas meter and others on the water and electric meters.
I get cards punched full of weird holes. I am told not to fold this card but to make sure it goes back just as received. (Along with my check, that is.) The holes, it seems, fit certain pins or electrical gadgets on huge computing machines.

Boss, it's real bad with a fellow like myself. I do not dig mathematics. In high school, in order to get my diploma, it was essential I pass a geometry quiz. There was just one problem. I looked at it. I wrote down a lot of gobbledy-gook and finally, time having run out, handed it to the teacher.
He read it over. He read it again. I saw his brow corrugate. Once again he waded through the answer I had written down and as he did so, he sadly shook his head. Finally he shoved it to one side and sat for a few minutes staring at it. Then he said: "You didn't do the problem right, but I can't figure out just what it is you didn't do nor how you did it. So I am going to pass you. I am going to grade your test 76."
That's how I got out of high school at the tender age of 27, Boss. What will become of me now? I barely can remember my home address. I have to look at the disk on the phone to remember my phone number.
How, in the name of all that's holy, can I remember my Zip number—especially a number five digits long?
We are being buried under a mass of numbers and IBM cards, Boss, and many of us will never rise again.

Bulldoggin' Added To List Of County's Junior Rodeo

Bulldogging has been added as a new event to the agenda of the Howard County Junior Rodeo, which will be presented in its 18th edition here Aug. 8-10, Herb Helbig, general superintendent, announced last week.
The bulldogging event is for young rodeo hands 16 through 19 years of age only. The rodeo board of directors has also dropped one event formerly featured—the boot scramble. This contest was for younger performers.
Helbig said that a contract has been signed with Jack Aull, Lubbock, to supply stock for the rodeo. J. R. Gahagan, Lubbock, has also been employed as the clown for the show.

The directors of the Howard County Junior Rodeo Association, sponsor of these annual events for 4-H and FFA rodeo performers, met last week to go over initial plans. A county-wide 4-H Club meeting will be held July 16 to set final plans for the show.
Directors of the association are Bud Saunders, Donnie Anderson, Mary Thornton, Bob Adkins, H. K. Elrod and Freddie White.
The rodeo is sanctioned by the American Junior Rodeo Association, which means all events are scored as points in selection of

Re-Organization Effected For Units At Webb AFB

The dual deputy commander organization for Webb Air Force Base was announced last week by Capt. Don G. Harris, chief of plans and programs.
Capt. Harris said 3560th Pilot Training Group, 3560th Maintenance and Supply Group, 3560th Civil Engineering Group, and 3560th Consolidated Maintenance Squadron would be phased out.
In their places the Pilot Training Group activities will come under the deputy for operations; M&S Group activities will come under the deputy commander for material, CE Group will revert to squadron status and be under the command of the base commander (Air Base Group); and CAMS personnel will be redesignated into two newly-organized field maintenance or organizational maintenance squadrons.
Wing staff agencies going under the command of the base commander will be chaplains section, comptroller, staff judge advocate, procurement, manpower, information, administrative services, and personnel. Added to these agencies will be base training and base services.
Base training will have collateral training, base range training, management training, NCO Prep Course, and monitor disaster control training.
Base services will have control of the commissary, food services, officers open mess, NCO open mess, base exchange facilities, clothing sales, photo laboratory, housing, salvage yard, contract maintenance, laundry, and central base funds. Personnel Services will become a section under base personnel.

Under Air Base Group will be a headquarters squadron section and a civil engineering squadron. Capt. Harris said the reorganization of local units would not mean an increase or a decrease in manning or in mission capability.

In a message from ATC this week on the change, the effective date is retroactive to June 24. However, Webb's changeover will not become effective until mid-July.

THE SABBATH

If we were to keep the Sabbath, we would have to keep Saturday, Sunday is the first day of the week, and when the Sabbath ends the first day of the week dawns. So says Mat. 28:1.
While on earth, Christ kept the Sabbath. He also kept the other ceremonies of the law, for we are told that he was born under the law (Gal. 4:4). The law was taken away at His Cross.
After saying that the handwritten decrees were blotted out and nailed to the cross, Paul then says: "Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of a holy day, or of the new moon, or of the Sabbath days: which are a shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ." (Col. 2:14-17).

The early Christians met on the first day of the week for communion and worship (Acts 20:7). We invite you to meet with us today, 9:30, 10:30 and 7.

DEAR ABBY

Not Designed For Guests—

DEAR ABBY: We have just returned home from a weekend with some friends who have a beautiful, expensive, push-button home. The guest room was unbelievably furnished. There was one three-quarter-sized bed. (The room was large enough to accommodate one large double bed or a pair of twin beds.) There was one small, decrepit straight-back chair, a tiny hooked rug and one thin blanket. The mattress sagged in the middle, and to top it off, there was NO mirror in the room. My husband said that they intentionally furnished the guest room poorly to discourage guests from returning. Considering that the rest of the house was so elegantly and comfortably furnished, could my husband be right? NO NAME PLEASE

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere in a modest home is the luckiest woman alive, and I'm sure she isn't even aware of it. The "Other Woman" usually writes a tale of woe. I am the "Other Woman" but I have no "tale of woe" because of a decision I have just made. This wife I speak of is lucky because her children are healthy and well-behaved. They have a pleasant, middle-class home, with good food, good clothes and a good car. Their lives are secure. Her husband is with her, and he always will be. If I could tell this wife one thing, it would be to LOVE her husband and let him know it. He wanted me, and I wanted him, and only God knew how much. But when people are basically good, they refuse to hurt innocent people. Especially children. He's the man I've been searching for all my life. I love him and he knows it. But he is HER husband, and THEIR father. And he has integrity. I wish he were mine. But he's not and he never will be. Thank you, Abby, for letting me say this. I feel better now.

DEAR ABBY: We have neighbors who do not have a telephone, but they have given all their friends OUR telephone number, and we have to run and get them when they get phone calls. When they first moved in, we told them they could use our telephone for emergency calls, but so far they have been using it for gossip and gabbing and we are getting tired of this. How can we tactfully get our point across? FED UP

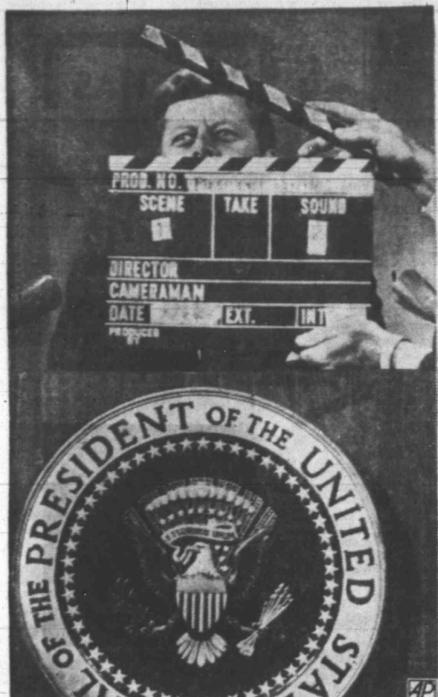

DEAR ABBY: There is a darling boy who collects tickets at the theatre in my neighborhood. The last time I was there he gave me a special look that he never gave me before. I have secretly liked him for a long time and think he likes me a little. My problem is that he is on the shy side and so am I. How can I let him know I like him without being forward?

TIRE OF POPCORN
DEAR TIRE: There is NO way a girl can let a boy know she likes him without being forward. The quickest way to kill your chances with a shy boy is to let him know you like him. Let HIM blaze the trail—if there is going to be any.

SPEECH TO BAR

Carr Upholds The Judiciary System

DALLAS (AP)—Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr cautioned the State Bar of Texas Saturday of a growing complacency toward the law and said disagreement with decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court must not be allowed to destroy the judicial system.

"The fact that you and I may disagree with a decision of the Supreme Court, as we frequently do, does not mean that the system itself is faulty," the attorney general said.

"While we may disagree, we should not destroy nor allow the destruction of our judiciary system, nor allow conditions to become so intolerable for our justices so as to destroy courage and independence on their part."

"It is right and proper, however," he said, "to insist that only men of great ability, learning and integrity be appointed or elected to our judiciary so as to insure the proper administration of justice."

CLOSING ASSEMBLY
He spoke at the closing general assembly of the 81st annual meeting of the State Bar.

The attorney general also announced plans for the first attorney general's youth conference on juvenile crime to be held in Austin Aug. 17-18 in making a report on the first six months of his term as attorney general.

A group of 400 outstanding Texas youths will conduct youth-led seminars and workshops in what the attorney general called a "totally new concept toward curtailing the juvenile crime rate."

PUBLIC SUPPORT
Carr asked Texas lawyers to work toward rejuvenating public respect for the judiciary.

"In a sense, the courtroom is the depository of everything we own, our freedom and our lives. It is here that they are protected and it is here that they can be taken away."

These are the facts the public must be made aware of to reawaken a healthy respect for the law, he said.
Carr said in his report the backlog of cases has been cut from 3,700 to 3,270 since he took office in January, and the number of opinions pending has been reduced from 24 to five, an all time low.

A reorganization of the attorney general's office, based on studies by Albert Jones, noted Texas attorney, has revamped the 16 existing departments into five divisions. The changes were inaugurated last Monday.
The bar elected Ralph Britz of San Antonio chairman of the board of directors.

Postmaster General Offers Defense For U.S. Spending

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Postmaster General Edward Day accused former President Dwight Eisenhower Saturday of being unrealistic in criticisms of federal spending.

Day noted a June 30 speech by Eisenhower in which the former chief executive struck at "paternalistic government" and "unnecessary" subsidies and called for "sturdy self-reliance."

In a speech prepared for a testimonial dinner for Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex., Day said Eisenhower "was forced to be more realistic" when he said in his 1960 budget message "a rapidly growing population creates virtually automatic increases in many federal responsibilities."

Supporting his thesis that the true extent of federal spending is grossly overstated by administration critics, the Cabinet member made these assertions:
Since World War II federal spending has increased 69 per cent, while state and local government spending has increased almost 400 per cent.

Since 1947 the federal debt has

Tower Blasts Provisions Of Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., denounced the administration's public accommodations bill and other parts of its civil rights program Saturday and said "a lengthy filibuster" against it can be expected.

Tower, the only Republican senator from the South, predicted "it would take a virtual police state to enforce" the proposed ban on racial discrimination in stores, restaurants, theaters and other privately owned places of public accommodation.

Tower takes part in the strategy sessions of Southern senators opposed to enactment of the administration package bill.

Calling for action on a voluntary rather than a compulsory basis, Tower said the measure has implications far beyond civil rights.

PRIVATE PROPERTY
"I think it brings the federal government in this business of regulating the use of private property," he said in a transcribed broadcast for stations in Texas.

Tower said that substantial progress has been made throughout the South and elsewhere in the country in voluntarily desegregating places of public accommodation. He cited Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and other Texas cities as examples.

Tower also objected to administration proposals which he said would allow the attorney general "to act as the counsel and the lawyer for plaintiffs in civil rights cases."

The legislation provides that, under certain circumstances, the attorney general may bring injunction suits on behalf of individual citizens to force desegregation of schools and places of public accommodation.

Tower contended this "could give rise to an awful lot of court cases that are really not necessary."

Webb Chaplain Is Project Officer For Conference

Chaplain (Capt.) Neil F. Wolfe, Webb AFB, was recently appointed as the Gloriaeta Spiritual Life Conference project officer by Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Robert P. Taylor, USAF chief of chaplains. The conference for Protestant military personnel and their families in this area will be held Aug. 29-Sept. 2 at Gloriaeta, N. M.

The Gloriaeta conference is sponsored by the Chief of Chaplains, Air Force and is second year. An Air Force retreat has been held in the southwest. About 600 are expected to attend.

Chaplain Wolfe said military personnel are authorized permissive travel, at no expense to the government, to attend the conference. Time at conferences does not count against annual leave.

Old Settlers To Plan For Reunion

Officers and members of the Howard-Glasscock County Old Settlers Reunion will meet Wednesday to complete plans for their 29th annual reunion barbecue and celebration, Jess Slaughter, president, said Saturday. The date is July 26.

"We will find out just how much money we have and how much we will need," said Slaughter. "We will make arrangements for the purchase of the food for the barbecue and complete all other arrangements."

The reunion is held each year in the Big Spring City Park under the shelters built by the association.

The barbecue and celebration is financed by gifts from well-wishers.
Slaughter said anyone who wishes to make a contribution to the fund is invited to send the check to him.

Recent Sunshine Boosts Martin Crop Prospects

STANTON — Crop prospects for Martin County are much brighter than they were at this time last year. The rains have come at the right time, and despite some early season damage from sand and isolated hail storms, the cotton crop is doing well. The last two weeks of sunshine has spurred growth and caused the irrigated cotton to start heavy fruiting.

Dale Kelly, who sends in crop forecasts to the government, says dryland cotton is at least 95 per cent of normal. There are only a few really dry areas in the county. The only trouble at present is insects, and the wooly worms in particular. These may be a type of salty, marshland caterpillar, according to Gerald Hanson, former county agent. He says the worms leave the dried-out pastures and start foraging on the nearest cotton fields. Farmers are now poisoning for the insects, and Hanson thinks the worms should soon be under control.

He said fleashoppers were also in most fields, and that a few boll worms are being found. They do not ordinarily do much damage un-

Lamesa Building Has Healthy Gain

LAMESA (SC) — June construction soared to the highest point in five months and pushed 1963 well ahead of the building pace set in Lamesa last year. Total for June was $350,275, which gave the city a first half aggregate of $1,562,015. During June nine new residences and four commercial structure permits were approved.

Will Fly Again

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The only one of three crew members to survive a Mohawk Airline plane crash Tuesday took off for home yesterday with high hopes of flying again for the airline.

Miss Mary Anne Miara, the stewardess on a twin-engine Martin 404 that crashed seconds after takeoff from the Rochester-Monroe County Airport, expressed thanks to God for saving her and 35 of the plane's 40 passengers. Seven persons, including her two fellow crewmen, were killed.

Says Negro Lacking In Capability

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said Saturday he suspects that many Negroes "are attempting to use their color to camouflage their lack of capability."

Ellender cited figures which he said show that the ratio of murders, rapes, robberies and burglaries in the capital is much higher than the national average. The latest FBI figures on the over-all crime rate place Washington 13th among the nation's 25 largest cities.

Negroes make up about 55 percent of the city's population, but neither they nor the other residents have any voting voice in the local government. It is administered by three commissioners, appointed by the President and approved by the Senate. Congress controls the city's purse-strings and writes its laws.

TEACHERS
Ellender noted, however, that more than 55 percent of the District of Columbia employees and 70 percent of its public school teachers are Negroes.

Ellender also reiterated a previous contention that Negroes haven't yet shown themselves capable of effective self-government.

The senator first made this remark in Africa last year and as a result was banned from new African countries. He repeated it in a recent television appearance and as a result some African ambassadors stationed here protested.

Ellender took note of this criticism and observed that the African diplomats "have gone so far as to suggest that the President censure me personally."

INEPT GOVERNMENT
He insisted that Liberia, Ethiopia and Haiti—countries long governed by Negroes—"show the greatest evidence of inept government of any I have come across."

He said that if improvements made in those three countries by Europeans and Americans were removed "there would be little or nothing left to show by way of progress and improvements."

"It is a sad spectacle, to say the least, and it leads one to the inevitable conclusion that up to now the Negro race has not shown itself capable of effective self-government."

BRITAIN FEARS MORE VICE Easy Virtue Profitable

LONDON (AP)—She stood in the dock of West London Magistrates Court convicted of helping to run a brothel.

She was just 19, a pretty slip of a girl. Her long hair was black, her eyes were big, dark and sultry.

Her sentence: one month in jail. The magistrate recommended her deportation to Ireland, saying, "We don't want Irish prostitutes here. We have enough of our own."

He may have been thinking, as other people have in recent days, that there soon may be many more prostitutes in Britain. For tons of newspaper have been devoted in the past few months detailing the hard cash to be gained by easy virtue.

RICH GIFTS
Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies, 18, pert blonde, revealed in a recent court case that she found herself at 16 with a well-heeled protector who presented her on her 17th birthday with a high-priced auto, mink and jewelry.

When he died, said Mandy, "I had enough in jewelry and mink to keep me over the next years."

Mandy is a pal of Christine Keeler, the party girl whose affair with ex-War Minister John Profumo touched off a government scandal.

Both girls testified at the pre-trial hearing of Dr. Stephen Ward, the society osteopath who introduced Christine to Profumo.

Christine came to London with apparently no assets beyond her attractiveness to men and the willingness to make fullest use of this. By doing so, she gained an entry into famous homes and met on equal terms important people whom other girls call "sir" or "madam."

Christine is not being socially ostracized. Instead she will go down in history as the redhead who rocked the government. At 21, she is collecting a lot of money from newspapers for her life story.

How must this image seem to all the other equally pretty young girls—the nurses, typists, teachers—as they go wearily home after collecting their meager pay.

WHY NOT EVERYBODY?
"The answer," said one woman in a letter to the Sunday Telegraph, "must be obvious: Why not all become prostitutes? This seems to me to be the real moral lesson to be drawn from the sensational revelations of the past two weeks."

One of those alarmed by the situation is Miss Alice Bacon, a leading Laborite legislator. She said in the House of Commons Friday that prostitution had become glamorized in recent weeks.

"We cannot grumble if we see young girls thinking that prostitution leads to fame, fortune and films—not forgetting VIP treatment at airports," she declared.

One woman writer to a newspaper suggested that part of the trouble might be traced to the use by news media of the euphemistic term "call girl." The writer suggested de-glamorizing these women by calling them by the old Anglo-Saxon word "whore."

SPECIAL REPORT
Lord Stotham, a life peer and former Laborite member of Parliament, is expected to bring the attention of the House of Lords Monday to a special report on the spread of prostitution.

He suggests there is evidence of an increase in procuring, exploitation of and trafficking in women since the passing of the Street Offences Act of 1959 designed to clear streets of prostitutes. He plans to ask the government if it will make an immediate inquiry into the act's effects.

Scientist Prepares For Space Flight—In Case

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—If the U.S. space agency ever decides it needs an astronaut who is a scientist as well as a jet pilot, he won't be hard to find.

Starting this fall, astrophysicist F. Curtis Michel will be camped virtually next door to the Manned Space Craft Center at Houston, Tex.

Dr. Michel (pronounced Michael), a 29-year-old Air Force Reserve captain who has 500 hours of jet flying time, begins a new job this September as assistant professor of space science at Rice University.

Rice's President, Dr. Kenneth Pitzer, recently described Michel as "a possible candidate as scientist-astronaut" and said he was one of the very few men in the United States who has the necessary qualifications.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has never said it wanted a science-trained astronaut. As a matter of fact, this is a controversial subject.

Many scientists believe one of their number should have a seat in the first three-man Apollo moonship. "This is a scientific venture," they say. "If we are to get as much scientific information as possible, a scientist should go along."

AVAILABLE
Military sources insist that only a pilot with many hours of jet training will have the mental and physical reflexes to meet emergencies. They say scientists are thinkers, not doers.

What does Michel say?
Torn between modesty and desire, Michel simply says: "I'm available—and how I'm available!"

Michel won his Ph.D. in physics a year ago at the California Institute of Technology here and since has been a research fellow in astronomy, studying distant radio stars.

He turned down a job in industry to take the post at Rice, which he wanted very badly.

"I expect to teach some graduate courses and possibly do some research with the reaction of elementary particles in magnetic fields. But I'll have to admit that the proximity of Rice to the manned space center was not exactly a deterrent."

Michel, tall and slender with a grin that makes you grin back, speaks frankly of his hopes of entering the space program sooner or later.

"I don't want to be put in the position of telling NASA what it should do," he says. "NASA knows the requirements for the first space flights much better than I do."

TRAINED MEN
"But I personally believe it can't be very long before we must send scientifically trained men into space. We are going into

Higher Rates Are Confirmed

Howard County has the debatable distinction under the new schedule for car liability insurance, of being one of the four highest-rated counties in West Texas.

This county has been lumped with Ector, Midland and Scurry and rates will be jumped from $36 per year to $41.

Statistically, the four counties for the last three years had a combined total of 170,000 private cars insured and 11,866 claims.

The new rates, forecast some days ago, were approved by the state board last week. The hike ordered will raise insurance rates by about $12,000,000 annually. Of this, $6,500,000 more will be for liability insurance and $5,500,000 more for collision. Liability changes become effective Aug. 1.

Statewide the rates are increased 6.2 per cent on liability insurance and 8.4 per cent on collision coverage.

Highest county in the state is Harris County where the rate was upped to $63 from $62.

Lowest counties are Uvalde, Blanco, Bandera, Edwards, Gillespie, Kendall, Kerr, Kimble, Llano, McCulloch, Mason, Maverick, Menard, Medina and San Saba. Rates in these counties were boosted from $24 to $27.

Fuss Among Negro Group Discounted

CHICAGO (AP) — Friction between James Meredith and other leaders of the NAACP youth division over leadership in the Negro civil rights was discounted Saturday by Roy Wilkins, the NAACP executive secretary.

He told a news conference that impatience and dissatisfaction of younger members was a vital force in the rights movement.

Meredith, pioneer Negro student at the University of Mississippi, criticized what he termed the "very low quality leadership present among our young Negroes and the childish nature of their activities."

Meredith, still smoldering Saturday, issued a statement from his hotel room bitterly commenting upon platform criticism of his speech at a youth banquet Friday night by John Davis, a NAACP youth division director and sub-sequence cheering of Davis. Davis also is a Negro.

SHED TEARS
Meredith said that he was unable to sleep and added, "I shed my first tears this morning since I was a child."

He said he could not endure intolerance and "to be so dishonored by my own people." "If we are to take the same characteristics as our oppressors and our enemies," Meredith said, "I feel that certainly our cause may be doomed."

Wilkins told a news conference at the close of the six-day convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People that "nerve, enthusiastic, imaginative, impatient Negro youth were one of the moving forces of this year's convention."

DISSATISFIED
"They were dissatisfied, and we want them to be dissatisfied," Wilkins said. He added that it was because of this we were at a loss to understand Meredith's charge of "childish antics."

He told reporters that youthful impatience was good but, "There are some things you don't learn until you are 50 about civil rights and other matters."

Lines of attack on segregation in public school education and labor unions were drawn in resolutions adopted Saturday.

The NAACP closed its convention by deploring use of police dogs and other devices used as physical offensive devices for crowd dispersal.

USED IN CHICAGO
The police dog resolution took note of the use of police dogs in Chicago by foot patrolmen in some Negro neighborhoods.

"We deplore the continued and expanded use of police dogs, of electric prodders, of fire hoses against citizens by police departments in many cities throughout the country," the resolution continued.

"The flagrant use of such inhumane tactics were odiously displayed in such places as Birmingham, Ala.; Danville, Va.; Jackson, Miss., and Gadsden, Ala."

Two Licenses Are Cancelled
Bill Flynn, with the Texas Liquor Control Board, said Saturday the board had ordered the cancellation of the beverage licenses held by Sam's Cafe and by the Jaisico Cafe.

He said that Sam Mendoza, operator of the former establishment, had immediately filed notice of an appeal from the board's action and obtained a court order permitting him to operate until a hearing can be held on the charges. Flynn said the hearing would be sometime in July in district court. The complaint against the place, he said, was permitting drunks to remain in the place, selling beverages to intoxicated persons and permitting girls to solicit on the premises.

The charge against Jaisico Cafe, operated by Trinidad Torres, was for breach of the peace. The complaint, he said, stemmed from a shooting in the cafe some weeks ago in which a young Mitchell County man was wounded.

George Oldham, El Paso-Dixie jobber, is in Corpus Christi attending the Texas Oil Jobber Association Management Training Institute. The school is conducted by the Extension Division of the University of Texas. It is being held at The Robert Driscoll Hotel and ends Wednesday night.

Petition Out For Recall Of San Benito City Heads
SAN BENITO, Tex. (AP)—An attorney for a group of residents of this Rio Grande Valley town of 16,000 said Saturday his supporters are circulating a petition to oust the city commission.

The petition stems from the attorney's charge that a San Benito policeman used excessive force on many of his prisoners since he joined the force four years ago.

The attorney, Abel Toscano Jr. of Harlingen, said he is confident the required number of signatures—ten per cent of the population—will be acquired.

Toscano's charges were investigated, then tabled, by the city commission. The Cameron County district attorney calls the allegations "hogwash."

But U. S. Atty. Homer Lopez of Brownsville took a look at Toscano's evidence and put the FBI to work on the case Friday.

Lopez said Toscano's evidence alone is sufficient to let the federal grand jury study the case for possible civil rights violations.

Road-Blocking Wreck

This butane-loaded transport rammied a railing and rolled over early Saturday morning on SH 176 a few miles northwest of Big Spring. The highly-inflammable liquid began to trickle over the slab and highway patrol officers blocked traffic. A tank truck was sent to the scene and a pump rigged to drain out the butane. Traffic on the highway was completely blocked for some hours and partially blocked for several hours longer. The accident occurred about 1:30 a.m. and the wrecked truck was not put back on its wheels and on its way until 10:15 a.m. Saturday. It was said to be owned by International Marketing Corp. of Abilene. The driver, whose name was not available, was not injured.

SOUTH AFRICAN GOVT. OBJECTS

Embassy Mixed Party Creates Stir

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's white government strongly objects to social gatherings of whites and Africans.

On July 4, U.S. embassy officials and other white guests mingled with blacks at an Independence Day reception on embassy grounds.

A minor storm is still blowing over it. South African government officials boycotted U.S. embassy Independence Day celebrations in what one South African newspaper called a "clumsy rebuke" to a friend.

In an attempt to get around the rules of Verwoerd's segregation (apartheid) policies, U.S. Ambassador J. C. Satterthwaite decided on the Fourth of July celebrations at Pretoria, the nation's administrative capital.

One was scheduled in the morning for government officials and diplomats. It was all-white. The second was an afternoon reception to which both Africans and whites were invited.

Government representatives boycotted the morning reception. The decision apparently was made some time in advance.

The foreign ministry issued a statement before the reception saying the government was not represented at the reception.

The statement suggested, however, that the reason for the boycott was not racial but rather in line with a directive issued to the diplomatic corps a few weeks ago by Foreign Minister Eric Louw.

The directive said that morning diplomatic receptions often were the cause of "considerable inconvenience" and asked embassies to discontinue them.

Louw knew when he issued the directive that the U.S. embassy had planned the morning reception for whites, and the multi-racial afternoon reception.

Satterthwaite intends to continue inviting nonwhites to U.S. receptions here.

"Our government has decided as regards our Fourth of July receptions that we should from now on follow the customs of our own government rather than those of the South African government," he said.

Government representatives boycotted the morning reception. The decision apparently was made some time in advance.

The foreign ministry issued a statement before the reception saying the government was not represented at the reception.

The statement suggested, however, that the reason for the boycott was not racial but rather in line with a directive issued to the diplomatic corps a few weeks ago by Foreign Minister Eric Louw.

The directive said that morning diplomatic receptions often were the cause of "considerable inconvenience" and asked embassies to discontinue them.

Louw knew when he issued the directive that the U.S. embassy had planned the morning reception for whites, and the multi-racial afternoon reception.

Satterthwaite intends to continue inviting nonwhites to U.S. receptions here.

"Our government has decided as regards our Fourth of July receptions that we should from now on follow the customs of our own government rather than those of the South African government," he said.

THE WEEK

month's tour will include several countries, including a brief time in Russia.

June rain reports at the U. S. Experiment Farm showed 3.29 inches — and many if not most parts of the country actually had more. Total for the year, most of it within the past 90 days, stood at 11.72 inches. It was no small wonder that crops were growing like magic. Although gardens and some pastures could stand a shower, most farmers were content to soak up the sunshine. It was no small wonder, either, that June water demands dropped by 164 million gallons in the member cities (Big Spring, Odessa and Snyder) of the Colorado River Municipal Water District—an 18 per cent decline.

Bennett House, an operation of B Corporation owned by James Bruce Frazier, et al, is to have its formal opening July 29. This will cover the first 100-bed unit, but within 30 days the twin unit will be ready. Meanwhile, key staff positions have been filled, and plans are on the board for a small laundry plant to serve the two.

The City of Big Spring is going to undertake some improvements to dress up the entrance to Webb AFB, principally by traffic separation and defining of lanes. The project will cost some $12,000, and later the State Highway Department will be asked to consider improvement of the state road in proximity to the entrance.

Webb lost a couple of its official family through retirement last week. Lt. Col. Maxwell O. Bence, personnel officer, stepped down as did Lt. Col. John Rodzanski. Tomorrow will be the last one for Col. and Mrs. Wilson Banks.

Spraberry pay was extended in northwestern Martin County when Gordon Knox, et al No. 1 University, 16 miles northwest of Tarzan, flowed at the rate of 27.7 barrels of new oil after acidizing a section from 8,469-501.

During the week the Herald carried a page of pictures on some of the key elements of commercial construction jobs which have amounted to $2½ million so far this year. There are a few other jobs in the making which could substantially fatten this figure during the last half.

An unexpected "off season" election is coming up in Stanton where five out of six council members submitted their resignations. This is tied in with a referendum on whether to continue an urban renewal program into phase two.

The regular season for Little League is drawing to a close here, and playoffs will begin during the week. In all, counting the Majors and Minors, four leagues have had something like 600 youngsters playing. Add to these the Teen-age League, the Pony League and then the Legion team, and you come up with something like 800 boys playing baseball. And while this has been going on, several hundred have been in the Citywide Recreation and YMCA programs, and a couple of hundred in Scout camps. These are all a source of pride—not trouble.

CARD OF THANKS

They Tackle Flies With Hand Sprays
STANTON—Despite the lack of a fogging machine such as Big Spring and other cities have, Stanton has developed its own means of fighting flies. By using a bit of ingenuity and some old-fashioned elbow grease, the city's sanitation department is keeping the flies down to a minimum.

"We are doing it with hand sprays," said M. H. White, city secretary. "When the men unload a garbage can, they give it a squirt or two, then they also spray the garbage before it is dumped. It's not the most modern method, but we don't have nearly as many flies as a few weeks ago."

White says the city uses one part endrin to 14 parts water, at a cost of from $50 to $60 per week. The work has been going on about two months.

B'wood Banker Dies In Dallas
DALLAS (AP) — W. W. Dees, 73, chairman of the board of the Citizens National Bank of Brownwood, was found dead Saturday in his hotel room. Death apparently was due to a heart attack.

Dees was en route to his home following a vacation trip to the Orient. He was accompanied by his sister, Miss Lola Dees of Hughes Springs. His wife died last December.

Funeral services are to be held at the First Methodist Street Church in Brownwood at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Two Men Quizzed In Dallas Slaying
DALLAS (AP) — Two Dallas men arrested by state police in Decatur were quizzed Saturday in the butcher knife slaying of an Oak Cliff X-ray technician.

The suspects, a 23-year-old ex-convict and his 20-year-old companion, were arrested Friday night, two hours after Rudolph G. Orozco, 33, a technician at Chester Clinic, was found mortally wounded in his home.

Detectives said Orozco, who lived alone, was stabbed in an apparent robbery shortly before 10 p.m.

Hand Mangled In Kitchen Mishap
T. C. Hutchins, 17, a dishwasher at the Ranch Inn Pizza House, suffered a mangled right hand at 10:40 p.m. Saturday when he caught the hand in a meat grinder. He was brought to the Howard County Hospital Foundation where surgeons were working on his injury. River ambulance was called.

Cars In Collision
Willard Rutherford, Monahans, and Lonnie Stockton, 3706 Caroline, were drivers of vehicles which collided shortly after noon Saturday. The accident occurred at Third and Main. There were no injuries.

More To Be Called In TFX Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said Saturday they plan to call more witnesses in an effort to resolve conflicts in testimony now marking the TFX warplane hearings.

Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., senior minority member of the Senate investigations subcommittee conducting the often stormy probe, disclosed the plan. Other subcommittee sources, declining to be quoted by name, said they agree with him that more testimony will be essential.

The subcommittee is attempting to establish whether favoritism figured in the Defense Department's decision to override recommendations of the military and award the huge TFX fighter-bomber contract to General Dynamics Corp., with Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. as the chief subcontractor.

CONTRADICTIONS
Military witnesses, including the top-ranking uniformed officers of the Air Force and Navy, have testified a rival design and proposal by the Boeing Co. promised a better, cheaper plane.

Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth, leading off for the Pentagon's civilian top command in what has been viewed as the final rounds of testimony, contradicted what the uniformed witnesses said.

He insisted the General Dynamics-Grumman proposal would produce a faster and more potent

TFX at less cost and in less time than Boeing's.

Mundt told a reporter this leaves no choice but to call back more of the top critics of the award, and possibly others who might help to establish which evaluation is correct.

Mundt suggested Adm. George Anderson, whom the White House did not reappoint as chief of Naval operations after he had testified critically against the award, could be one of the witnesses to follow the civilian chiefs.

Awaiting Word From Engineer
Robert Owens, Victoria engineer who was offered the post of Howard County engineer last week by the Howard County Commissioners Court, has not as yet informed the court of his decision.

Lee Porter, county judge, wrote Owens advising him of the court's offer. He asked the engineer to reply as soon as he could by stating whether he would accept and when he would be able to report for duty if he did accept.

Owens had applied for the post but had expressed the hope the court could increase the salary somewhat. The original offer was $7,200 per annum. In their offer, the commissioners boosted the pay to $7,800.

The county has had no engineer in its road and bridge department for more than two years.

T-Patchers March Before Governor

NORTH FT. HOOD (AP) — The 36th (Texas) Infantry Division, switching from field fatigues to clean crisp khakis, marched in review before Gov. John Connally and 11 generals here Saturday.

It marked the 15th annual governor's day review for the T-patchers, held under the hot, sultry Central Texas sun, where the Texas National Guard outfit is undergoing its annual two-week encampment.

Maj. Gen. Selden Simpson, Amarlito, commander, led the review of 8,500 infantrymen, artillerymen and tankers in their full dress and accompanying colors.

Included in the regalia of the governor's day review were unit and individual awards.

AWARDS
A split unit, 36th Division support and band, located in Austin and New Braunfels, was awarded the sought-after Eisenhower Trophy.

Gen. Simpson presented the handsome trophy to Col. Vaiden P. Hines, of Abilene. The award goes to the outstanding unit in the Texas National Guard for the preceding calendar year.

The governor's trophy was won by another Austin-headquartered unit, the 36th Administration Company. Gov. Connally presented the three-foot high trophy to 1st Lt. Gayle D. Drago, Austin, unit commander.

The Baytown rifle unit, Company B, 2nd Battalion, 143d Infantry, received the infantry trophy. The unit was also designated as the division's honor company.

Most Patients Get Blood Through Donor System

By JOHNNIE LU RABORN
An emergency call for aid at an accident puts the wheels of a life-giving bank into operation. Even as the ambulance screams its way to the hospital, doctors, technicians and volunteers prepare to save another life. And as Big Spring has no community blood bank, patients must rely on the supply systems the one federal or four private hospitals.

The American Association of Blood Banks recommends that blood be kept a maximum of 21 days at four to five degrees centigrade (approximately 40 degrees Fahrenheit). Fresh supplies are maintained by a system of pickups at the commercial banks. If a certain type is not used by a hospital in about 10 days it is picked up and taken where there is an immediate need. Locally, the donations meet the demand, except in cases of emergency. Hospital technicians estimate an average of 30 pints used here per month, although the total varies.

With heavy reliance on voluntary donations, the technicians have a problem in acceptability of donors. A list of 50 restrictions must be overcome before blood is acceptable. Many of these are uncommon diseases but a few general restrictions are common. Age is the first consideration for the prospective donor. Donors between the age of 17-21 must have parental consent. Between the age of 21-39, only personal consent is required. If the donor has eaten in the previous four hours, he must wait to give blood. Other common, yet not well known, restrictions are hay fever, asthma, hives, poison ivy, pregnancy within nine months, and blood or plasma transfusion within the previous six months.

Books And Still More Books

Kay Crowner, library intern for the summer, replenishes depleted juvenile reading material at the Howard County Library.

Record Posted For Books Circulating

June scored the biggest month in the number of books circulated in the history of the Howard County Free Library. Mrs. Opal McDaniel, librarian, said that 11,073 volumes were checked out in June, passing the previous high record of 9,165. This was achieved a year ago last June. Circulation for June this year was well ahead of May when 7,276 books were loaned. Mrs. McDaniel said that a considerable part of the increase in library use here stem from the children's reading club she initiated this spring. This enterprise, designed to encourage younger patrons of the library in books, turned out to be a popular movement. More than 300 boys and girls are enrolled in the club and their interest is so intense that the book shelves for younger readers is kept seriously depleted. "We have ordered scores of additional books for the youngsters," said Mrs. McDaniel, "and we still can't stay ahead of the demand." The reading club continues through July and ends Aug. 15. Boys and girls who have completed the required reading program by that date will be sent certificates from the Texas Library Association.

Cheer Leaders Sponsor Supper

STANTON (SC)—Cheer leaders of Stanton High School sponsored a hobo supper at the Cap Rock Electric building Thursday to raise funds to send them to a school in August. Leaders for the 1963-64 school year are Mary Glaspie, chief, Claudene Nowlin, Evonne Welch, Mary Stewart and Betty Glaspie.

Bennett Named District Attorney

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. John Connally announced the appointment of Calvin Bennett as district attorney for the 109th Judicial District, which includes Crane, Winkler and Andrews counties. Bennett will fill the unexpired term of Dan Sullivan who resigned June 30. Bennett's term expires Dec. 31, 1961. The new district attorney has served as both city and county attorney in Crane where he has lived since 1948.

Little Girl Restored By Quick Life-Saving Work

Little Janice Majors probably owes her life to the efficient and prompt action of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson, Modesto, Calif.

Janice, 11, swimming in the Sands Motel pool with several other children, late Friday afternoon, lost her grip on the pool edge and sank in water over her head.

Her uncle plunged into the pool and brought Janice to the surface. His wife, wasting no time, began artificial respiration on the unconscious child. In a few seconds, according to Mrs. Jesse Majors, 1802 Alabama, her little daughter began to gasp and cough. A River ambulance took her to the Howard County Hospital Foundation.

Saturday, Janice was reported in excellent condition and it was said she would be dismissed from the hospital Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson and their two sons, Frankie, 13, and Paul, 6, arrived Friday from California for a brief visit with the Majorses. Mrs. Majors is Patterson's sister.

The Pattersons were at the Sands Motel and late Friday, the Majors family — including Janice, Theresa, 13, and Charlotte, 8, her sisters were at the motel. The five children were swimming.

Janice said her hands slipped from the edge of the pool and she sank in fairly deep water. Her disappearance was noted and Patterson plunged into the pool and brought the child to the surface. Mrs. Majors helped to get the little girl out of the pool. Patterson raced to the office for help and Mrs. Patterson took over with artificial respiration which soon brought Janice back to consciousness.

The Pattersons have to go back to California today and their brief visit has been interrupted materially by the mishap. "One thing we have learned from this experience," said Mrs.

Majors, "We intend to familiarize ourselves with artificial respiration. None of us, except my sister-in-law, knew how to administer this first aid. We know how well it paid off."

Janice said that she could swim "but not very good."

Baptists Refuse VA Lease Due To Racial Uncertainty

DALLAS (AP)—Baptists have refused to renew an office lease to the Veterans Administration in Dallas, declaring President Kennedy's equal employment opportunity rules have not been fully written.

The lease expired June 30 in a downtown building at 511 N. Akard, owned by the Southern Baptist Convention.

Government officials said that under the present lease the General Services Administration had the option to extend the lease, thus allowing the VA to remain in the building.

Officials of the Southern Baptist Annuity Board said the lease was not being renewed because of a contract clause requiring compliance with President Kennedy's equal employment opportunity regulations for government office space.

Baptist officials said the lease was not being renewed, because they believe the Annuity Board should not be bound to rules and regulations which haven't been written as yet.

They said racial discrimination is not involved, but that it is simply a matter of liabilities that could result and of compliance with governmental rules which might prove impossible.

FUTURE REGULATIONS

Under new regulations for office space bids issued by the GSA, the inclusion of a clause in each lease contract is required which makes the landlord subject to future regulations which may come out of the President's committee on equal employment opportunity.

GSA representatives are looking for new space to house the VA. They said Saturday they may attempt to negotiate a 30-day or 60-day lease with the Annuity Board while the search is being made.

Dr. Alton Reed, executive secretary for the Southern Baptist Annuity Board, explaining why a new bid was not submitted to furnish space for the VA, said:

"We cannot bind ourselves to rules and regulations which haven't yet been written down. It is a question of liabilities that could result—especially with governmental regulations which are yet to be formulated, and with which compliance might prove impossible."

"The board feels that it cannot expose more than $100 million in trust funds (which helps operate the building) to such liabilities which cannot yet be determined."

Check Collections Exceeding Hopes

The hot check collection department in the office of Sheriff Miller Harris collected $53,616.01 from writers of bad checks during the first 18 months of its operation. The department was established Jan. 1, 1962. The money has been refunded to the merchants who cashed the checks.

Aubrey Standard, chief deputy, said that in the first year and a half of its existence, the department had processed 5,410 worthless checks and had been able to run down the writers and collect on 3,043 of these.

When first established, the optimistic hope of the sheriff was that the department might be able to collect $10,000 or $12,000 a year in the flood of worthless checks. No one, Harris said, expected the department to collect as much as $53,616 in its first 18 months.

Standard pointed out that in June there were 27 worthless check charges filed in the county court and seven felony check cases in the district court. This, he said, is a part of the activity of the department which is closing down sternly on offenders who have failed to take advantage of the opportunities to pay off their obligations.

During June, the deputy said, there were 242 worthless checks processed and 142 of those handled were collected. This represents 71 per cent of the total. Dollar-wise, the collections totaled $2,529.11 compared with $2,972 last month. In June 1962, the collections were $2,759.

Of collections during the month $2,548.64 were made directly to the merchants.

Capt. Scott Visits Here

Capt. Russell J. Scott, one of 14 men in training in the aerospace training school at Edwards AFB, Calif., visited here Friday night with his parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Nalley.

He took advantage of a break in his astronautical training to get in some cross-country flying time and put down at Webb AFB, where he earned his jet pilot's wings.

Capt. Scott has just completed a three-weeks biomedical space program at Brooke Medical Center in San Antonio. Into this course was packed a welter of information about body reactions in space environments, physical problems which space pilots might encounter, briefings on some basic bodily functions and in medical terminology so that a spaceman could communicate with doctors on the ground.

He and other astronaut trainees are now back on the regular program at Edwards, studying astronautical space vehicles, space environments, orbital mechanics, and assorted subjects. Always there is a flood of the highest branches of mathematics.

This phase of the program is due to continue until December, said Capt. Scott. Those completing the course will be assigned to space projects, research and other jobs.

Capt. Scott is a graduate of Bowie High School and of Texas A&M College. He earned his jet pilot wings here in 1955-56, and in August, 1957 he was married to the former Janice Nalley. They have two daughters.

Low Water Bills Slice City Income

Most Big Springers were grateful for June rains, and lower water bills which followed, but to the City of Big Spring the penny did not look so bright. The rains cost the city more than $20,000 in revenues.

Income from water, on which the city depends for much of its finances, dropped to $77,668.01 during June, according to C. R. McClenny, city secretary. This is $26,530.64 below the $104,198.65 of June, 1962. The savings to the more than 8,700 customers of the water department averages out to $3.20 each.

Water consumption during June was down 23.7 per cent, bringing on a 25.3 per cent decline in revenue. During June of 1962 Big Springers took 221,905,000 gallons. This year they used 169,253,000 gallons during the same month. The 1960 and 1961 figures were 294,245,000 gallons and 170,132,000 gallons, respectively.

Water usage lagged all during the month as spotted rainfall every three or four days eliminated much of the need for watering lawns and shrubbery. Only during the last week of the month, when moisture from the June 29 rains was gone, did consumption even approximate normal usage.

Rainfall for the month can be spotted with fair accuracy by a glance at the water consumption chart. The first rain, gauged at 21 inch, fell June 5. That day's water usage was 4,283,000 gallons compared to 6,964,000 gallons the day before.

Rain fell three times between June 8-12. On only two days during that period did customers use more than five million gallons of water. The lowest consumption was June 20, when rainfall of 1.34 inches cut usage to 3,870,000 gallons.

June of 1963 had only four days on which more than eight million gallons were used and three of these came at the end of the month. There was only one day when more than seven million gallons were recorded.

By comparison, during 1962 there were seven days on which more than nine million gallons were purchased, six days with eight million or more gallons and five seven-million-gallon days.

Lowered income during June has not helped the city's finances, but the city is not hurting for funds yet, McClenny said.

"If water usage is normal during the next two months, we will get by in good shape," he said.

At Record High

AUSTIN (AP)—The Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas reported Saturday that Texas business activity hit a record high during May.

Appeal Trials Begin Tuesday In County Court

Corporation and justice of peace court appeal cases will be called up for trial starting Tuesday, in the same order they appear on the docket prepared for this week's session by Judge Lee Porter.

He said he has called a jury panel to report at 9 a.m. Tuesday. At that hour, all of the appellants from the lower courts, who have cases pending, have been notified to appear. When the docket was sounded last week, Judge Porter said all of the cases were tentatively announced ready.

He said that where a case is called Tuesday and neither the appellee nor his attorney answer, bonds will be forfeited. Where a report is made of being ready, the petition will be studied and it will be determined if the appeal is valid. If it is so found, a jury will be empanelled and the case tried.

The city court appeal cases on the docket are brought by Claude Cooper, Ranson P. Huffman, George McGann (2), Charles Reico, A. N. Jackson, (2), Linda Burris, Juan Juarez (2), Sam E. Williams Jr., Robert DeLaGarza, Jesus Hernandez Jr., Dennis W. Hayworth Jr., Francis Carrillo, Charles Clark, Billy Ausmus (3), Tommy Simmons (3), Clyde E. Thomas Sr., Lillie Avery (2), Bobby Spinks, George T. Thomas, James T. Luney, Gaylon Dubois (2), Thomas A. Welch, Aubrey Pitts Jr. has an appeal on file from Justice Court, Precinct 1, Place 1 and Shelton Shipman Jr., an appeal pending from Justice Court, Precinct 1, Place 1.

Porter said these are all of the appeals currently on the county court docket from the inferior courts. He pointed out he and Wayne Burns, county attorney, are making a strenuous effort to keep the appeals docket, as well as the regular criminal court docket, current.

He has a criminal docket set for trial with jury starting July 29.

Screwworm Plan Working Well Here

Statistics show that the campaign to eradicate screwworms as a ranching hazard is working admirably in Howard County.

Herb Helbig, county farm agent, said Saturday there have been only a fourth as many confirmed screwworm infections in the county this spring as in the same period a year ago. The total through June was nine cases, he said. For the same six months a year ago, the total was 37. No recent outbreaks of the pest have been reported, he said.

He also pointed out that the Screwworm Eradication Association is now prepared, where a proved outbreak of worms is found, to provide the equipment, chemicals and manpower to spray infected animals. Where such spray activities are undertaken, the entire herd in which the infected animal or animals are found, is treated.

He said the spray equipment and crew will come to any ranch where infections are confirmed.

During the week June 16-22, 114,241,850 sterile screwworm flies were released. During the same week, headquarters reported it received and confirmed 144 screwworm cases in the Southwest, compared with 1,971 cases confirmed the same week in 1962.

Helbig said the recent establishment of a sterile fly distribution center at Sweetwater has greatly speeded up and broadened the distribution of sterile males in this area.

Two aircraft are on duty at Sweetwater to make drops over infected areas as quickly as the presence of the worms is established and confirmed.

Two Numbers Change Monday

Two telephone numbers in Big Spring have been scheduled to be changed Monday according to Harry Sawyer, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The numbers involved are "information" and "telephone repair service." Sawyer said at present customers who want a telephone number not listed in the directory are asked to call 113. For customers who wish to report a telephone out of order (and this according to Sawyer happens on an average of about once every seven years) the present number is 114.

Beginning Monday, both numbers will change. "Information" will be reached by dialing 411 and telephone repair service will be 4102. Sawyer said the new "service code numbers" will eventually become uniform throughout the Bell system.

Col. Banks Leaves Here For New Post

Col. and Mrs. Wilson H. Banks are making their departure from Webb AFB and Big Spring Monday, ending his tenure as Base commander that has lasted a little less than two years.

The family over the weekend checked out of commander's quarters, and Colonel Banks wound up details in connection with surrendering his command.

With their daughter, Jacque, they will drive to Washington, D. C., where for some weeks Colonel Banks will be attending a special Foreign Mission Institute. The three plan to depart the states from Charleston, S.C., about Aug. 27 for New Delhi, India, where Colonel Banks will have a Military Assistance Group assignment.

Two Meetings Set This Week

Two Chamber of Commerce committees have scheduled meetings this week in the chamber conference room. Tuesday, the civic development committee will meet at 4 p.m., followed Wednesday by the convention and tourist committee at the same time.

Chairman Clyde McMahon will present a plan for civic improvement to his group. The plan, initiated by San Antonio and used successfully by other cities, includes renovation of vacant lots, alleys, and approaches to the city.

Two programs are on the agenda for the convention committee with payment for highway signs the main item. The members will look into the financial aspect of payments due on signs placed in El Paso and Weatherford, encouraging tourist trade.

The other item involves publishing a convention questionnaire to be passed to business and professional groups in the city. The questionnaire will attempt to find out the average size of groups at these organizations convention and seek to secure Big Spring as the next convention site.

During the interim in Washington, they will be able to visit their elder son, Will Jr., who is a student at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The younger son, Ronnie, who will be a senior this next term, is to remain in Big Spring for the school year, and receive his diploma from BSHS.

On the eve of their departure, Colonel Banks wrote a letter to the citizens of the city. It reads:

"It is with deep regret that I am departing Webb Air Force Base and the Big Spring community. I feel I am leaving the finest community in the entire United States. I will always remember this as one of the best assignments I have had during my career.

"Mrs. Banks joins me in expressing our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the loyalty, support, and cooperation the citizens of the community of Big Spring have given us. We ask that you give the same loyalty and support to Colonel and Mrs. Withcombe who are replacing us."

Stanton Shy On Rental Housing

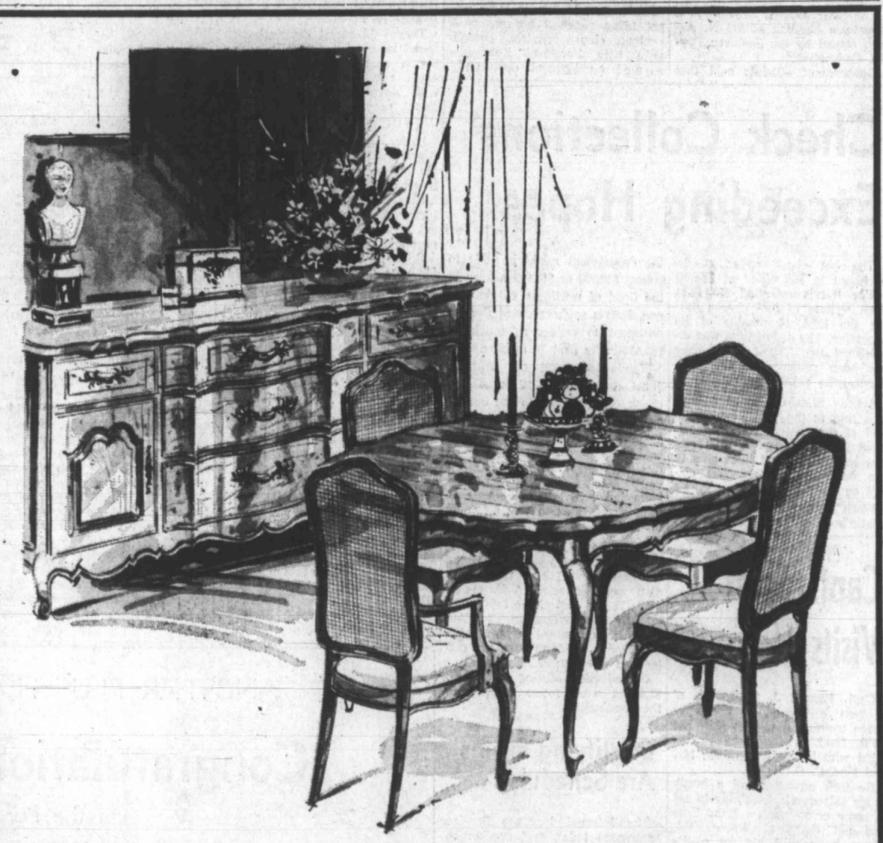

STANTON — Although rental housing has been scarce for several years, it is almost non-existent now. Mrs. Maurayne Varnadore, manager of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce, says she gets calls every day for houses, but few are available.

"We have some small houses, but not the two and three bedroom units that people want," she said. "When there is a nice house built in Stanton, it is usually for the owner's own use. Occasionally when a new home owner moves out of the older house, we can rent it."

Most of the calls come from local residents, though several families living in Big Spring and Midland but working at sub-stations and other rural installations would like to move to Stanton.

Thomas' Name Is Clarified

The E. W. Thomas who pleaded guilty July 1 to a charge of DWI is not the E. W. Thomas, who lives at 904 E. 16th. The latter Mr. Thomas said the similarity in names has caused some confusion and embarrassment to him. The Thomas who pleaded guilty and was sentenced to serve three days in jail and pay a fine of $50, is listed as a resident of Rt. 1. His age is given as 53 and he is further identified on the police card by the nickname "Ted."

Game And Fish Group Parleys For Last Time

By The Associated Press
The last scheduled meeting of the State Game and Fish Commission will be held in Austin July 11-12.

Incidentally, the Game and Fish Commission will spend its last few weeks of existence in a new home. This past week the commission spent four days moving equipment and personnel into the first, second- and ground-floors of the new John H. Reagan State Office Building, back of the Capitol.

Conservationists are predicting that Lake Proctor on the Leon River in Comanche County will become one of the state's best fishing spots. After a rough fish kill with chemicals, the Possum Lake fish hatchery released 157,700 black bass fingerlings and 21,700 channel cats in the new lake.

Some new fishing records are being set: At Port Mansfield, Grover Jenkins of Raymondville weighed in a 12-pound speckled trout, the largest caught in the area in the past 10 years.

Something new is being offered in party boat fishing on the upper coast. At Freeport, special kingfish boats go out twice a week, similar to the bottom-fishing snapper trips offered along the coast for years. The kingfish boats will concentrate on king and ling fishing, either trolling or anchored chumming.

Some fishing prospects: Trinity Bay — Prospects good with some July 4 strings running as high as 70 fish.

Galveston Bay — Good action with one string of 32 trout up to four pounds. Good king catches offshore from Galveston.

Lake Houston — Plenty small catfish hitting but bass and crappie slow.

Freeport — 16th annual Freeport fishing fiesta opened with C. W. Camfield of Brazoria boating a 6-foot-6½ tarpon while Dr. David Broyles, Houston, had a 6-foot-5 sailfish.

Port Aransas — Tarpon and trout being taken in the surf and piers, while kingfish and ling biting off shore.

Texoma — Big sandie catches still reported, particularly on minnows at night; some good black bass catches; Crappie activity picking up around baited spots.

Whitney — Crappie and sand bass catches fair; few blacks and catfish.

Possum Kingdom — Crappie fair to good, also some good blacks.

Caddo — Black bass hitting good on top water lures.

Yankees Club Tribe Behind Al Downing

CLEVELAND (AP) — The New York Yankees scored seven runs in the second inning — the first three on a Yogi Berra homer — then coasted to an 11-6 victory Saturday over the Cleveland Indians. Yankee rookie Al Downing struck out 14.

Downing, a left-hander brought up from Richmond a month ago, had 11 strikeouts after five innings — one more than his total of last Tuesday when he hurled a 3-0 one-hitter at the Chicago White Sox.

The 22-year-old lefty didn't allow a hit until the fourth inning when Max Alvis hit his 10th home run.

In the next inning Willie Tasby connected for a solo homer.

The crowd of 57,621 (only 15,416 paid), largest in the majors this season, gave Downing an ovation when he left the game in the eighth inning during a two-run Cleveland rally which Hal Reniff quelled.

Berra, in his 18th season with the Yanks, clouted his fourth home run of 1963 into the right field stands after Roger Maris and Joe Pepitone singled to start New York's big second inning.

Maris smashed his 19th home run into the right field upper deck in the sixth inning. Downing, who has a 4-1 record, gave up six hits.

Richards' Contract Extended 6 Years

HOUSTON (AP) — The National League Houston Colt .45s announced Saturday they have extended Paul Richards' contract as general manager for six years.

Roy Hofheinz, Colt president, said "Richards has done an outstanding job of laying the foundation for a successful club in less than two years."

"We wanted to make certain that nothing interfered with his task of building the .45s into a contender by giving him a long-term contract," he added.

Richards came to Houston after resigning the field manager's job at Baltimore in September, 1961.

"I feel that our team has made some progress," Richards said. "Certainly, the efforts of our entire organization should be directed toward further development. The cooperation of Roy Hofheinz and Bob Smith has been most helpful these first two years and their dedication to bringing Houston a winner convinced me that I wanted to be a part of this city's baseball future."

R. E. Smith, chairman of the Colt board of directors, said: "The problems connected with accomplishing our goal of building a contending team are now safely in the hands of the master developer of ball players."

The results of our minor league operations this season indicate clearly that Richards is collecting the young talent we must have to build a first division team."

Richards, a native of Waxahachie, Tex., has spent 36 years in professional baseball as a player, manager and general manager.

He broke into baseball as a $1,000 bonus boy with the Brooklyn Dodgers and played with the New York Giants, the Philadelphia Athletics and the Detroit Tigers.

INDIAN AND FEDERAL OIL

Worth $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Oil production from federal and Indian lands has become big business. The royalties alone reached a new high of $160 million last year, up 11 per cent from 1961. The affected states and Indian tribes, the Federal Reclamation Fund and the U.S. Treasury share in the royalties from such production.

Interior Department figures show that 32,000 wells on lands under supervision of the Geological Survey yielded 318 million barrels of oil last year, with a value of more than $1.1 billion. The Geological Survey, an agency of the department, said the production represented 12 per cent of the nation's total oil output for the year. All the figures are new highs. The previous highs, set in 1961, were 30,065 wells, 291 million barrels of oil and a total value that was $100 million short of the 1962 figure.

Geological Survey figures show the agency had 144,000 oil and gas leases under its supervision at the end of 1962, involving 100 million acres of public, acquired, Indian, military, outer Continental Shelf and Naval petroleum reserve lands. The agency said this amounted to an increase of 80 per cent in leases and 75 per cent in acreage in the last 10 years.

Its figures show that at the close it had under its supervision 858 oil, sulphur, salt and phosphate leases involving approximately 4,000,000 acres of outer Continental Shelf lands off the shores of California, Florida, Louisiana and Texas.

First Half Potentials Lag Far Behind 1962

Drilling in the area during the first half of 1963 is up by 22 per cent over the same time a year ago, but the figures for new potential on completions does not look nearly as bright. The 21,573-34 barrels at this point is down 13,252.96 barrels, or 38 per cent, from a year ago.

Through June, 1963 operators completed 307 projects and recorded 64 dusters. A year ago the figures were 252 completions and 62 dry holes. New locations for the current year have fallen behind by 14. There are 288 this year compared to 302 during 1962.

Howard County showed the best advance for the year, more than doubling the six-month total for last year. This year the county has recorded 4,253.16 barrels, compared to 2,039.39 a year ago.

Most of this year's loss can be attributed to decreased drilling in Martin County's Spraberry Trend Area. Martin County, which last year at this point had 745.89 barrels of new potential, this year so far has chalked up only 2,775.39 barrels. Also down by more than 3,000 barrels is Dawson County, which last year was 10,580.62 barrels, compared to 7,280 at this time.

Operators had another small month during June with 34 completions tallied for 3,299.50 barrels. Although the figures better the 2,492 barrels of May, it is still the second from the bottom of the first six months of this year.

There were 58 new locations filed, more than for any month since December, 1962.

A glance at June activity in the eight-county area follows.

each picked up a good oiler for the only two completions recorded in the county during June. They had a combined potential of 350 barrels. Other activity was at a standstill, with no dusters and no new sites filed.

DAWSON

Leader for the area during June was Dawson County, whose six completions made 1,171 barrels of new oil. The county also paced the area with 21 new sites picked up. One wildcard was a duster.

Completions were: Two in the Ackerly field and one each in the Britt, Cedar Lake, Southeast, Smith and Lamesa, West fields.

Three of the new locations are wildcats and eight are in the Welch field. Ackerly field picked up four. Other single new projects are in the Britt, Cedar Lake, Southeast, Jo-Mill, Key, Tex-Ham and Wells fields.

GARZA

The county could tally only a pair of completions during June for 128 barrels of new potential. The Post and Rocker "A" fields each picked up a well. Two projects, a Kirkpatrick and a Justiceburg, Northwest venture, were plugged and abandoned.

Operators filed four new locations, three in the Post field and one an exploratory project.

GLASSCOCK

Two Zant (San Andres) wells gave Glasscock County a total of 63 barrels of new oil during the month. On two other ventures brought to completion, there was no production. One was a wildcard and the other an effort to complete a well in the Howard-Glasscock field.

Nine new sites were staked in the Spraberry Trend Area for all the new locations of the month in the county.

HOWARD

Howard County led the parade of completions with 13, but was able to bring in only 719 barrels of new oil. Almost a third of it was produced by one Spraberry Trend Area well which made 236 barrels. An Iatan-East Howard well made 41 barrels and the rest was attributed to 11 new wells in the Howard-Glasscock field.

The county also had 12 locations spotted. Eleven are in the Howard-Glasscock field and the other is a prospector. There were no failures.

MARTIN

Texas Crude et al finalized the No. 1-253 Knox in the Devonian for discovery oil at the rate of 126.5 barrels a day for the only new production recorded in Martin County during June. The prospector had brought about a renewed interest in the area of the strike, but that was short-lived. After spotting projects in the vicinity, Texas Crude plugged two wildcats trying for the Devonian, one before it was half-way to the pay formation.

Only other activity was staking of two wildcats and one Spraberry Trend Area project.

MITCHELL

Six new wells were finalized for 378 barrels of new oil. Four are in the Iatan-East Howard field, one is in the Westbrook and one is in Sharon Ridge (1,700).

Six new projects were filed. Two are wildcats, three are in the Iatan-East Howard field and the other is a Nena Lucia, West venture.

STERLING

Big news for the county during June was completion of Shabben No. 1 Sellers as a Wolfcamp discovery about 20 miles northwest of Sterling City. It flowed 284 barrels of 40-gravity oil about 1 1/2 miles west of the two-well Triple M (Wolfcamp) field. The Herrrell field also picked up small production at one well to bring the total month's new potential to 364 barrels.

Two more prospectors have been set and one more Howard-Glasscock site was filed. One wildcard was a duster.

Second Week Of Decline In Rotary Count

For the second consecutive week rotary drilling activity in the Permian Basin Empire registered a slight decrease on the Friday survey of Reed Roller Bit Co.

The latest tabulation registered 217 working units in the two-state region, a drop of four from the 221 listed the previous Friday. The latest figure was also down 22 from the 239 rigs credited to the West Texas-Southeast New Mexico area on the comparable Friday of last year.

Lea County, N. M., showing a gain of eight, up from 51 to 59, held first place.

In the local eight-county area, Dawson County paced other counties with seven rigs, two less than the nine it recorded a week ago. Howard County, with four, an increase of one, was in second place. The counties had a total of 20 units, two below last week.

A county-by-county look at the tabulation for Friday follows. The previous week's figures are shown in parenthesis.

Sharp Rise Seen In Need For Oil

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Demand for petroleum products the next 20 years is expected to dwarf consumption of the past.

Experts estimate demand between now and 1980 will approximate 270 billion barrels. World consumption since the start of the industry more than 100 years ago has totaled only 140 billion barrels.

Those at the World Petroleum Congress in Germany were confident this sharp increase in consumption can be met.

M. J. Rathbone, keynote speaker and chairman of the Standard Oil Co. New Jersey, said some people might be concerned because the 270 billion barrel estimate is not far below current world reserves of 300 billion.

"NOT CONCERNED"

"I do not share this concern," he said. "Ever since petroleum became a major fuel, proved reserves have been rising from one year to the next, through new discoveries and better methods of recovery, even faster than the increase in oil production."

Rathbone said there were 14 barrels of proved reserves for each barrel of production in the 1950s.

"Today the ratio is better than 30 to 1," he said. "It seems certain enough new proved reserves will be developed to provide for the rising oil consumption which we anticipate for many years to come."

NEW FIELDS

Rathbone said new fields will be discovered and the percentage of recovery of oil in fields already known will be increased. He said refining technology will keep pace with production and meet product requirements of the future.

"We are constantly finding ways of 'squeezing the sponge' a little harder and recovering a greater percentage of the oil which we know is there," he said.

The world industry currently is recovering only about 35 per cent of the oil in existing reservoirs but scientists at the Frankfurt conference expressed hope research projects under way and being developed can boost this to as high as 60 per cent.

"This progress already has come to a point where the industry might well claim reserves one half again as great as those now stated," Rathbone said.

1962 Was Big Year In Dawson

LAMESA (SC)—Record oil production in Dawson County last year exceeded by more than a million barrels the 1961 output and 99 new wells were logged during the period.

Discoveries in the Adcock, Patricia and Tex-Ham fields contributed largely to the big jump in production along with net increase of 47 new wells in the booming Ackerly field.

Total accumulative production in 811 wells in the county through Dec. 31, 1962 was 64,352,889 barrels. The overall 1962 yield was 6,165,699 barrels, compared to 5,035,556 for the previous year.

Even the rich, 22-year-old Welch field showed an increase of 25 new wells and a big production increase. The field now has 432 wells and yielded 2,061,483 barrels in 1962. Second largest producing field was the Ackerly (Dean Sand) at 907,492.

Ten Dawson fields each produced over 100,000 barrels in 1962. Of the 1961 producing fields only four failed to yield last year.

Not all of the fields showed increases but the huge gains posted by some, coupled with new discoveries, was more than enough to offset any of the declines.

Conoco Sets Howard Site

Continental Oil Co. has picked a new location in Howard County. It is No. 26-A H. R. Clay, in the Howard-Glasscock field.

The new location spots 2,173 feet from the north and 1,787 feet from the west lines of section 139-29, W&NW survey, on a 240-acre tract, is 3 1/2 miles east of Foran. It is projected to 3,350 feet by rotary tool.

A new Welch, Southeast (Spraberry) location is BTA Oil Producers No. 1 Middleton, projected to 7,900 feet by rotary tool. The Dawson County venture spots 550 feet from the north and 1,400 feet from the east lines of section 2-4, D. L. Cunningham survey, on a 320-acre lease about 10 miles northwest of Lamesa.

Elevation is 2,540 feet. Total depth is 7,425 feet. Well was logged at 7,322 feet, 4 1/2-inch casing set at 1,425 feet and the well formation was traced with 30,000 gallons through perforations between 7,542-76 feet.

STERLING

L. E. Foster No. 1-C TXL is a new Herrrell well in Sterling County. It pumped 58 barrels of 29-gravity oil, with 78 per cent water, on initial pumping test. The gas-oil ratio was 168:1. It was spotted with 2,000 gallons, elevation is 2,523 feet. Operator set 4 1/2 inch casing at 1,318 feet and perforated at four intervals between 2,780-809 feet.

Commission Reports 125 Oil, Gas Wells

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Railroad Commission reported 106 oil well completions and 19 gas well completions in Texas the past week.

The oil completions made a total of 4,283 so far this year, compared to 5,308 for the same period last year. There have been 1,282 gas wells completed this year, compared to 1,708 in 1962.

One wildcard was reported in Dist. 3 and another in Dist. 9.

A total of 129 wells were plugged, including 80 dry holes.

The total average calendar day allowable was 2,866,331 barrels, an increase of 25,757 barrels over the previous week.

Plastics Firm Starts New Plant

Construction on a new $300,000 pipe coating plant is under way in Odessa at the production site of Plastic Applicators, Inc., Houston.

The West Texas project will provide manufacturing facilities for the firm's Plasticap 600, a new internal plastic coating for waterflood operations. It is designed for water handling and is the result of more than two years research and development. Scheduled for completion in mid-August, the 25,000 square foot plant will serve waterflood operators throughout the Permian Basin.

Fifteen years ago Floyd H. Smart came to visit in Big Spring from his hometown of Broken Bow, Oklahoma. The 18-year-old tried for a job at the Couden refinery and was signed as a yardman March 24, four months ahead of his brother, Robert.

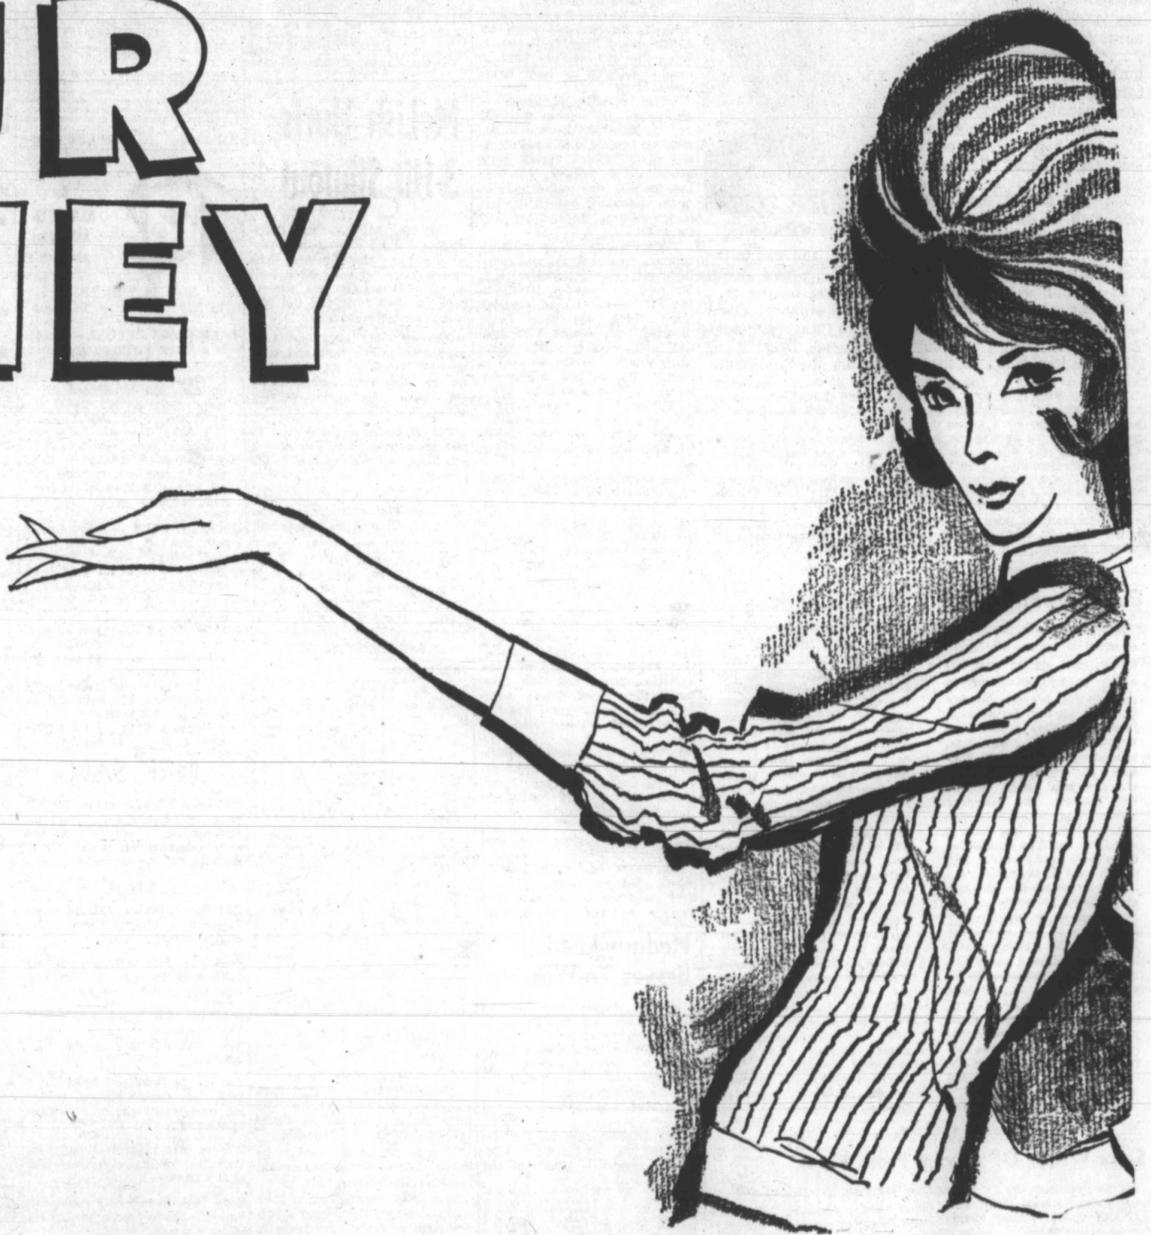

His varied experience at the plant includes assignments in the paint shop, at the laboratory, the catercracker, the paraxylene and crude units. He helped bring the BTX on stream in 1952. He has been at the Alkar unit since its construction 2 1/2 years ago; his classification is No. 1 Operator.

Smart married a local girl, Patsy Ann Neel, on August 14, 1949. They make their home at 1309 Tucson with their two daughters. Sybil Ann, 12, will be an eighth grader at Runnels Junior High. At 10, Sherry Dell is destined for the sixth grade at Boydston.

A member of Local 826, Smart serves the IUOE as a steward at the Alkar unit. Frequently he manages to get to the refinery well ahead of his shift so he can challenge the boys to a game of dominoes. Fishing and water skiing at Lake J. B. Thomas are the family's recreation.

Landry Sees Better Days For Cowboys

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, without attendance competition for the first time, start training this week for their fourth season in the National Football league. The Dallas Texans are no more, having moved to Kansas City to become the Chiefs. This eliminates competition for the attendance dollar.

Championship hopes also brighten. Even Coach Tom Landry is optimistic, but with more caution than the fans.

"I think this is going to be the next great team in pro football," he says. "I don't say when this team is going to jell, but when it does it will be a great one." Then he points out several reasons why it might be better. All the Cowboys need is better defense. They were among the best offensively last campaign. He has some bright prospects to bring the defensive improvement about — Lee Roy Jordan of Alabama, Jim Price of Auburn and Harold Hays of Mississippi Southern. He has veteran line-backing strength in Jerry Tubbs, Chuck Howley and Dave Edwards, who was on the taxi squad last season.

"It is the first time I can go to the training camp with a defensive team that might start the season," he said. So good are his line-backing prospects that Landry is willing to trade Mike Dowdle, one of his veterans. He did it to get Jim Riddle, a San Francisco veteran who he expects to plug a gap in the defensive secondary.

He also believes it was a master stroke to get Jim Ray Smith, the all-pro guard from Cleveland, to bolster his offensive line although he had to give up right tackle Monte Clark. Dallas made a number of trades and got veteran material. For instance, Mel Hammack was obtained from St. Louis to become the No. 2 fullback behind Amos Marsh. J. W. Lockett, who held that position, was traded to Baltimore. Hammack has eight years in pro football. Lockett has only three.

Buddy Humphrey, quarterback who was on and off the taxi squad last year, was traded for Hugh McGinnis, a veteran tight end with St. Louis. Dallas also got Sonny Gibbs, the giant Texas Christian quarterback, but Landry says whether Gibbs plays much depends on the showing of regular quarterback Eddie LeBaron and Don Meredith.

"It takes two or three years to develop a rookie at quarterback," Landry points out. He thinks Gibbs is a great prospect, however. Bill Howton, the veteran cowboys split end, needs only 19 pass-receptions and 47 yards to break two all-time NFL records, both held by Don Hutson of Green Bay. Bill seems certain to attain both — 480 receptions for 7,922 yards.

If Landry had to work out a starting lineup now he would go with these:

Sam Baker, who booted 50 of 51 points after touchdown, 14 of 27 field goals and punted for a 45.4 average, will handle the kicking. Hedges Leads Braves To Win

Johnny Hedges' two doubles and a single led the Braves Friday night in the National Title League.

Hedges also got credit for the win. Dave Duncan, the starter for the Braves, was charged with the loss.

Gary Newsom collected two singles for the losers while Duncan had two one-base raps for the Braves.

Whatever Happened To Easy Opener, Asks Coach

LUBBOCK (AP) — Whatever happened to the custom of beginning a schedule with an easy opponent? Washington State, meeting Texas Tech in the opener here the night of Sept. 21, is expecting its best team since the 1958 squad which posted a 7-3 mark and narrowly missed a Rose Bowl bid.

Returning 23 of 34 lettermen, including nine starters, the Cougars have excellent depth, another strong offense, and look to be stronger defensively than they were last year in posting a 5-4-1 record.

Orioles Edge Twins, 2-1

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles scored twice in the third inning on Jackie Brandt's triple and hung on to beat the Minnesota Twins 2-1 in a duel between southpaw pitchers Saturday.

Dave McNally, 20-year-old Baltimore fast-baller, collected his third victory against as many defeats, although he required help from Stu Miller in the eighth inning.

McNally had yielded seven hits and only one run—Bob Allison's 21st home run in the sixth inning—when he was taken out with Harmon Killebrew on first, two out, and Allison at bat. Miller fanned Allison.

Brandt's two-run triple off Dick Stigman came with men on first and second and two out.

McLish Hurls 3-Hit Shutout

CHICAGO (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies clipped the wings of the high-flying Chicago Cubs Saturday with a 6-0 victory built on Don Demeter's two homers good for five runs and Cal McLish's airtight pitching.

Demeter's big blows came in succession in the first and third innings, knocking out Bob Buhl for his sixth loss and cracking the Cubs' five-game winning string.

McLish hurled a three-hitter to pad his record to 8-4. He struck out three and walked two in his second triumph of the season over the Cubs.

Don Hoak also homered for the Phils, his second, in the second inning.

Demeter, who ran his home run total to 15, teed off on Buhl in the first inning after Johnny Callison and Tony Gonzalez had singled. His third inning shot over the left field bleachers followed Roy Sievers' single.

Most encouraging news concerning Washington State is that All-America end Hugh Campbell, star of the All-America Bowl in Buffalo, has graduated. Still, no receiver is any good without someone to get him the ball, and that fellow, quarterback Dave Math-

Girls In State Home--Products Of 'Jet-Propelled' Age

Editor's Note: Students at the Gainesville State School for Girls look like most any school students. But there's one thing that's different about them. They're the state's girl delinquents. The following story tells how the school is only one of the kind in Texas—operates, and what its students are like.

By RONNIE THOMPSON

GAINESVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Tiny, single-bed rooms at the Gainesville State School for Girls house examples of one of America's most serious problems—juvenile delinquency.

These rooms are "home" for many of Texas' neglected teenage girls.

Hundreds of girls from 10 to 18 years, from almost every county in Texas, come to the 47-year-old institution. They've been declared delinquent by a juvenile court.

Their wrongdoings fit into a shocking pattern. Statistics show that most of their troubles have roots in the home.

To one woman who has dealt with them for the past 28 years, these girls are "products of the jet-propelled age."

It's an age, Mrs. Maxine Burlingham, superintendent, says, in which morals have broken down, standards have been lowered and an increasing number of parents have failed to accept their responsibilities.

Normally, about 300 girls live at the Gainesville school.

They're not treated as criminals. The school has no walls, bars or handcuffs. They do not wear uniforms.

Statistics taken on 290 inmates showed:

- 154 committed for disobedience, 70 for immoral conduct, 34 for stealing and five for violence.
- 203 had a previous court history and the remaining 84 had none.
- The average age was 15 years, 7 months.
- 215 were first timers; 75 were repeaters.
- The parents of 119 were either divorced, separated or had deserted.
- The median grade reached in school was 7.6 years.
- An average of only 5 1/2 months elapsed between re-admission of the 75 repeaters.

The institution, located two miles east of Gainesville in North Texas, is the only fully supported school for girls of its kind in Texas. It looks like a private school.

A chapel, built in 1958, accents the campus which spreads over the crest of a large hill. Surrounding it are seven dormitories, an administration building, a school building, recreation building and several other structures.

"This, for many, is the best home they've ever had. They finally have some real friends, some guidance and even a reason for living," Mrs. Burlingham explained.

"The sad part comes when they don't want to leave," she said. A visitor finds no outward signs of hostility. Often visitors are greeted with smiles and waves from the girls.

Through vocational training, the "students" can leave as trained beauticians, clerk-typists, photographers' assistants, waitresses or "homemakers and mothers." The school has Texas Education Agency accreditation to the eighth grade.

Mrs. Burlingham estimates that the school rehabilitates only 60 per cent of the girls sent to them. The average length of stay is about nine months.

"We seek to remove any hostility that might have developed," she said. "Yes, we have our problem children, our agitators.

"But in view of the fact we have no walls, no fences, nothing to keep them from escaping, you would be surprised at the small number who try to escape. It is extremely low."

The girls live in 40-room buildings, one to a room. They have a small bed, vanity tables and chair. Doors are locked at 9 p.m. each night—lights out 30 minutes later.

A few of the feminine "necessities" are denied, such as fingernail polish remover, which delinquents have been known to inhale to get a "buzz." No matches or cigarette lighters can be carried, although smoking is allowed to a degree.

The only sign of a "jail-like" life is in the special treatment cottage where the agitators are housed until they show an improvement in their attitude.

Strict discipline is maintained, although no instructor is allowed to strike a child. Punishment ranges from removal of privileges to confinement to rooms.

Throughout a girl's stay at the school, she is in constant contact with her case worker, who tries to solve the girl's problems at the school and at home.

"We won't send a girl back to the same type of life that sent her here in the first place," Mrs. Burlingham said.

Parents may visit once a month. The girls must write home at least twice a month.

"These are kids who got mixed up in their feelings," Mrs. Burlingham says.

One inescapable conclusion, she adds, is that juvenile delinquency must be stopped in the pre-school and early school years.

Stanton Looks For New Site Of City Dump

STANTON — The city's dump, which has been catching Stanton's refuse since 1908, will soon be turned out to pasture, or perhaps plowed up as cropland. The city is now in the process of obtaining a new site where 40 acres will be used as a new dump.

There are two reasons for abandoning the area south of town, according to Stanley Wheeler, mayor. Several people registered complaints about the location, and the area was too small.

"Within the next five to 10 years we would have definitely outgrown it," said Wheeler. "There are only five acres out there and it's pretty well covered with trash."

Wheeler said he could not reveal the new location, because negotiations are still underway. The site has been selected, however, and a price agreed upon.

Under a joint city-county agreement, each will pay an equal share of the land price. The county will build whatever roads are necessary to reach the new dump, and the city will build the fence and dig the pits. Maintenance will be the responsibility of the city.

Cable Unit Names Sales Manager

James Kimrey, Tyler, has been appointed sales and promotion manager for Texas Community Antennas, Inc., which operates the Big Spring Cable TV.

Kimrey served 11 years in sales and management for a variety store chain. He attended Oklahoma University, East Central State College and Austin College, Sherman, where he majored in business administration. Kimrey resides in Tyler with his wife and two children.

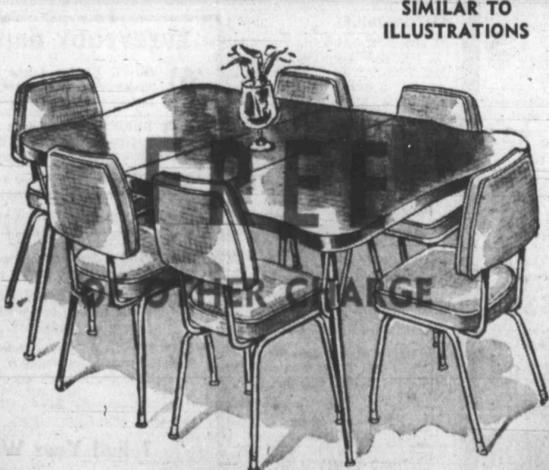

Serving approximately 6,000 homes, the company also has operations in Nacogdoches, Sulphur Springs and Mineola, Texas, and in Springdale and Mentonville, Ark.

Spirits Of 4th

George Washington seems to have gotten into the spirit of Independence Day a little too deeply. As a result, the 56-year-old namesake of his country's founding father, was in the Howard County jail Saturday. He was arrested Thursday night on the County Club road. Bill Whitton, deputy sheriff, charged the man with having too much spirits.

Formula For Marriage Isn't Cut And Dried

TORONTO (AP)—There's no cut and dried formula for a successful marriage but a realistic look at the practicalities, responsibilities and necessary adjustments will help.

This is the feeling of the Social Planning Council of Metropolitan Toronto which is conducting an experimental community-wide non-denominational marriage education program for those "just married" or "thinking about it." Harold C. Knight, in charge of the program, says he is amazed at the number of first year marriages "that go on the rocks because people have no idea of what they are getting into."

The six-session course includes discussion by experts of the social changes affecting marriages today, the relationship of the family in the community, personality, emotions, finances and home management as well as medical knowledge.

VULNERABLE PERIOD
Barbara Chisholm, a Toronto social worker participating in the program, described the period before and in the early months of marriage as "a very vulnerable time at which it is not easy to sit back and coolly analyze."

Yet that is the very time a couple should decide exactly what they expect from their new relationship and whether or not this agrees with what they expect from life in general, she said.

"Our society has oversold romance frightfully—taken it out of balance. Marriage takes work, not romance."

Many young girls who complain they are bored and have lost interest in their marriage are just hiding the fact that they don't have the practical skills, such as knowing how to wax floors and make casseroles, Miss Chisholm has discovered through her work.

She also said "marriage is not postponed for economic reasons the way it once was." Young couples feel they have to have everything—furniture, car and all the other things which make life easy—right away, and the pressure from this feeling often leads to trouble in early marriage.

Mary Jury, a social worker with Toronto's Family Service Association, has found that "because there are so many inter-cultural, religious, and racial marriages today, young couples often cannot use their parents' marriages, no matter how happy, as a pattern for their own."

MUST ADJUST
She added that the trend to shorter engagement periods and young people moving alone to cities and becoming engaged, even before families meet, also accounts for the failure of many young people to recognize the adjustments necessary in marriage.

"Also many people know intellectually that there will be many adjustments which have to be made, but they can't see them in terms of themselves."
Dr. Kirk L. Martin, a marriage counselor here since 1956, says "Too many people who get married suffer from a lack of spiritual strength."

Without religion, young married people are like lost sheep—with no spiritual belief and no belief in each other, he says.
More than 130 people ranging in age from about 18 to 30 attended the first session of the course last week. "Our aim is to reach those not drawn into existing church and agency programs," said Knight.

Jackson Clan Has Reunion

KNOTT (SC)—A family reunion of the Jackson clan was held on the Fourth of July at Colorado City Community Center.

Plans For Fall

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. (Bill) Schlicht announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Judi, to Jim Snyder son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snyder of Bremen, Ind. The wedding date is set for Sept. 21.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Young has as her holiday guests, J. N. Garner, her brother, and his daughter, Mrs. M. E. Taylor, of San Angelo.

Miss Lillian Lucille Burnett and Ivan Wayne Williams were married Friday morning in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. John C. Black Jr. at the First Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Burnett, 1112 Main St. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Williams, 609 Steakley St.

Baskets of green fern flanked a sunburst arrangement of white gladioli centering the altar. The bridal aisle was roped with white satin and pews were marked with large satin bows.

Traditional nuptial selections were played by Mrs. Bob Simpson at the organ. She accompanied Ira Schantz, who sang "Because" and "I Love Thee" by Grieg.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal street-length gown of white Chantilly lace over layers of net and taffeta. A lace panel accented the front of the empire waisted gown, designed with scalloped neckline ending in a deep point at the back, and petal point sleeves. The full gathered skirt featured a scalloped hemline. Her white silk veil of illusion fell from a tiara encrusted with pearls. The traditional blue garter she wore had been used in the weddings of several close friends.

The bridal bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by white feathered chrysanthemums in a cascade arrangement, carried atop a white Bible belonging to Miss Lynn Clawson.

ATTENDANTS
Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Carolyn Thompson. Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Burnett, sister of the bride and Miss Kathleen Soidan. All were dressed identically in sheaths of yellow polished cotton, fashioned with rounded necklines, and short sleeves. Matching bows accented the belt front and back of their veiled pillbox hats. A reception was held in Fellowship Hall, immediately following the ceremony. Parents of the couple and the feminine attendants joined the couple in the receiving line.

Embroidered white linen covered the refreshment table. The centerpiece was formed of bouquets carried by the bride and her attendants. The tiered, all-white cake, designed and made by the bride's father, featured layers separated by swan-figured stands. It was topped by revolving musical bride and groom figurines, playing the wedding march. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Mrs. Robert Fields, Odessa, registered guests. Alternating at the refreshment table were Miss Karen Williams, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Doug Davis, Lubbock; and Mrs. Mary Elder.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Stewart and sons, Mark and Terry, Portales, N. M.; Mrs. L. R. Anderson, Willis Point; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith and Steve Mills, Abilene; and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hart and family and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Williams, San Angelo.

The bride attended Big Spring High School where she was a member of the Latin Club, Future Teachers of America, and a band majorette. While attending Howard Luther McDaniel and family of Harrisburg, Pa., are visiting here for three weeks with his parents, the Hank McDaniels, City Park Road.

The senior McDaniels, their four sons and their grandchildren observed the Fourth of July holiday with a reunion at the McDaniel cabin on Lake Thomas. The gathering included the Luther McDaniels, the Pat McDaniels and their children from Odessa, the Don Hank McDaniels and Terry McDaniels of Big Spring.

Also present for a day of boating, swimming, fishing and barbecuing were Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Anderson, Mrs. Luther McDaniels' parents, and Mrs. Pat McDaniels' parents, Mr and Mrs. Bud Fletcher, of Oklahoma.

County Junior College, she served as secretary for the college "Y" Club. She has been employed at the First National Bank.

Thorpe Jr., 2308 Allendale Road, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Susan Paulette Morris, to Jimmie Doyle Hensley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Hensley, 405 Valley. The wedding will take place at the East Fourth Baptist Church at 7 p.m. July 27.

Wedding Performed In Wichita Falls Church

Miss Consuela Romyne Fox exchanged wedding vows with Billy Bob Wilson Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Lamar Baptist Church, Wichita Falls. The Rev. Billy Roy Hall, uncle of the bride, and pastor of the First Baptist Church in Taloga, Okla., officiated in the rites.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn W. Fox, Wichita Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Wilson, 809 Settles, Big Spring.

A white prie dieu centered the altar which was marked with white classic urns filled with white gladioli before a background of woodwardia fern. Cathedral candelabra and white tapers illuminated the scene.

Nuptial music, provided by Loren Blevins, vocalist and Mrs. Lem Tittsworth, organist, included "Whither Thou Goest" and traditional selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her princess styled gown was of white silk organza over taffeta. Reembroidered Alencon lace outlined the scalloped neckline and formed the brief sleeves. The bouffant skirt, styled with deep unpressed pleats, was detailed with lace and seed pearls. The fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. A white orchid with cascades of lily-of-the-valley and French nylon illusion formed the bridal bouquet which was carried with a white Bible.

SQUADRON SCROLL
Yoricks Have Barbecue For July Fourth Guests

By NANCY FRANCO
Class 64-E took advantage of Thursday's holiday by gathering at the home of Lt. and Mrs. Rich Yorick for an outdoor barbecue.

Four charcoal grills were required to cook the chicken, steak and hamburgers for the hungry guests. Each of the wives contributed a salad and most of the people managed to sample each one.

"Hi ho, Silver" was the password after dinner as some of the more athletic members of the class acted as horses for the junior cowboys. For some reason, the "horses" became exhausted long before the children.

After watching home movies of the Howard County Air Show and Red Carpet Day, most of the guests watched fireworks at the base. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the picnic, although Friday was a working day.

OTHER PARTIES
The wives in D Flight of Class 64-D met at the home of Mrs. Robert Meyers Wednesday afternoon, where they enjoyed coffee-punch and cookies.

Class 64-D held a pool party yesterday at the Officers Club. Lt. James Hendrickson was in charge of arrangements.

Lt. and Mrs. Larry Seale are being visited by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ferritt, from Lake Charles, La. The Ferritts will return home with their other daughter, Kay, who has been visiting her sister here for the past month.

Mrs. Bontia Thompson traveled from Memphis, Tenn., to attend the birth of her first grandson, David, who was born last Saturday. Mrs. Thompson is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. Lynn Forrest.

Wednesday evening, the wives of Class 64-E challenged their husbands to a softball game on the base. The teams were formed by drawing numbers and the men batted left-handed to make for matched competition. With all the excitement, plus several injuries, no one remembered to keep score, but everyone agreed that mixed softball games are well worth the effort.

A Matter Of Pride

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tubbs, right, are recent newcomers to Big Spring. Tubbs, transferred from Abilene, is chief switchman for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. They are understandably proud of the pretty young ladies who are their daughters. From left to right are Joan, Pamela, Roxie and Barbara, who will be glad when school starts so they can meet more members of the younger set.

Thank Heaven For Little Girls And A Good Sewing Machine!

By JO BRIGHT
 "What do you do to occupy your time, Mrs. Tubbs?"
 Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tubbs glanced at the divan where their four daughters sat, a little primly and very proper. They were Barbara, 14, Roxie, 10, Pamela, 7, and Joan, 4. All looked brand new, leaving an instant impression of neat black patent, starch-scented summer frocks and shining, healthy hair.
 Tubbs spoke up quickly. "I can answer that question. She keeps busy being a mother." This is obviously true. Mrs. Tubbs looks like the kind of woman who starts her family's day with a good breakfast and ends it by closing her sewing machine. She knows that the sugar and spice that little girls are supposed to be made of is only the frosting. The basic ingredients are the result of washing on Monday, ironing on Tuesday and keeping track of the hair rollers always.

CHIEF SWITCHMAN
 Recently transferred here from Abilene, Tubbs is chief switchman for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. He heads the central office repair force, keeping a check on the long distance facilities out of Big Spring, the toll plant, and the local switch room. The area under his supervision includes several smaller towns where the system's equipment is in use.
 Tubbs and his then future wife, grew up in Hamilton County in Central Texas, both graduating from the Jonesboro High School. His 16-year association with the Bell Co., began shortly after their marriage at Fort Worth in 1947.

 Determined to continue his education, Tubbs requested and received a transfer to Lubbock, attending classes at Texas Tech whenever his job allowed. By the time he was graduated in 1960, he had earned a BA degree and acquired four daughters.
FINDING FRIENDS
 "If we have to move again, it will not be during the summer months," said Mrs. Tubbs. "It's harder for the children to get acquainted after school is out, but they have met some of the younger people at our church, the 14th and Main Church of Christ."

 Barbara, a National Honor Society member, will be in the ninth grade this fall. She plays the violin and enjoys gymnastics. Roxie, a Girl Scout, is learning to sew and likes to swim. Pam has just completed the first grade with a straight-A report card, so she already has something to live up to. Joan helps her mother run the home and waits anxiously for the older girls to come home from school.
 Tubbs, an outdoor type, plays golf when he can. Roxie used to enjoy going to the course with her father until the day in Dallas when a player's hefty swing connected with her head instead of the ball. The resulting knot was golf ball size, and she understandably lost interest in the game.
 Mrs. Tubbs is a bridge player. With four daughters to raise, it's a long time between games.

Miss Weaver Bride Of Oel Castner

LAMESA (SC)—Miss Catherine Louise Weaver and Oel DeWitt Castner were united in marriage at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the chapel of the First Methodist Church, Corpus Christi.
 The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Weaver of Corpus Christi, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Castner of Lamesa.
 Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta featuring a lace bodice. The bodice was accented with a scalloped neckline embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. The white tulle veil was attached to a tiara of lace embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.
 The ceremony was performed before an altar flanked with branch candelabra and arrangements of stock, delphinium and daisies.
 Mrs. Robert Nolan Jr. of San Angelo served as matron of honor, while the bridegroom's father served as best man.
 The bride is a graduate of Corpus Christi Ray High School and Del Mar Junior College there. She is presently attending the University of Texas. The bridegroom, a graduate of Lamesa High School, attended Texas Tech and Abilene Christian College.
 The couple will make their home in Austin following a brief wedding trip.

HERMIT PURSUES DREAM FOR STANTON

Huge Cavern Carved Out Of Caliche

By JOE BEYER

Clemmens J. Peters has a dream. He will make Mariensfeld, the city which was eventually re-named Stanton, live again. For 20 years Peters has been carving out that dream under his hundred acre ranch northwest of Stanton. Time has passed Mariensfeld by, but Peters is building on what he hopes some day will be a memorial to the beginning of the first West Texas town between San Angelo and Amarillo.

Clemmens J. Peters is a hermit tucked away on his hundred acres, where the past reigns supreme in a barn-like building he calls home, plus a well and cavern, both dug by hand, amidst trappings of 30 or more years ago.

ALONE

With pick and shovel he has dug a 70-foot hole five feet in diameter and hauled the chippings to the surface a bucket at a time. Underneath another part of his estate he has chiseled out a cavern with as much floor space as a basketball court and enough headroom for the tallest player.

Most of the older generation around Stanton steer clear of Peters' hermitage, but now and then youngsters make their way there for a dip in his tank. Admission is a 10-cent cigar.

Last week I visited Peters with Mrs. Bill Varnadore, manager of the Stanton Chamber of Commerce, and F. O. Rhodes, a Stanton resident who had made the journey before. Perhaps the jaunt should be recounted in chronological order. It is a trip from the unbelievable to the fantastic.

Even the road leading to his place is a relic. The bottom of a modern vehicle scrapes the hump between the ruts and a motorist is forced to drive atop the hump and to one side to avoid damage to his car.

THREE ROOMS

Peters' "home" consists of three rooms which show the years of bachelor living. Groceries are stacked on the floor of the hut and a large wood stove in one corner does the heating and cooking chores. Another room is littered with hammers, the two-curved pieces of draft harness to which traces are fastened, wrenches, farm implements of horse-drawn variety and stacks of National Geographic magazines dating back perhaps 50 years. The bedroom holds the same kind of equipment, most covered with cobwebs.

At the rear, over which several cows browse, stands the hull of one of the last Maxwells ever made.

Seventy years old and spry as a teen-ager, Peters looks like any hard-working farmer. Jagged rings of salt stain his khaki clothes and his face is thin and browned. He welcomed us and proudly led us to the well he had dug nearest the house and invited us to visit, while he explained the geologic significance of his discoveries below. For 20 years Peters has been scraping at the walls and floor of this well for clues to water formations which lie underneath. He has found the information he has been seeking, he says, and has mastered the "geology" of the structures.

'DON'T WORRY'

"Don't worry. That ladder will hold a thousand pounds," Peters said as he scrambled down a ladder made of two strands of cable into which had been inserted metal bars to form rungs. We took him at his word and followed.

"Notice the core holes? I'll explain the geology of them to you," he said, pointing to numerous crevices out of which he had scraped fill sand with his hands. "That's how water gets down below."

We had stopped at the first plateau of the four-level well. Overhead a patch of sky appeared through the hole. We again boarded the cable ladder for the trip to the second level, this time feeling a bit more secure after safe passage to the first floor.

Again Peters went through his staccato spiel about the geologic importance of the formation around us. At each level he had hewn out the sides of the well to provide firm footing and headroom. The descent to the third level was a repeat of the first two trips. Only Peters went to the fourth and final level some 70 feet below the surface.

'GOING TO QUIT'

"I'm going to quit digging after my next birthday," he said. "Ever since the last birthday I have been short of breath, sometimes even at night. That didn't used to happen."

But Peters will quit only when he is ready too. His independence shows in other ways. Despite his years, he refuses to accept a pension or Social Security. And he still does not have his acreage leased for oil exploration, although Spraberry Trend Area production is on all sides.

The trip to his hand-dug cavern was another adventure. The mouth of the cave looks as though it might have been scraped out with a bulldozer, but inside the walls show scars of pick and shovel. A stout pillar of caliche was left in place at the entrance to help hold up the roof. Inside, with about 20 feet of earthen roof, there is the coolness of a natural cavern.

The main tunnel leads some 100 feet to a widened enclosure which forms the main room. Throughout, the cave floor is littered with hay and cow manure. Peters has used it as a shelter for his few animals.

DEAD COW

At the rear lies a carcass of a dead cow which Peters could not get removed. It has been dead several months but the odor is almost undetectable. From this room leads another tunnel carved at a right-angle to the east for perhaps another 75 feet. The main room and the end of the side tunnel received light through holes which are covered by windows forming a home-made skylight.

Rooms lead off the main tunnel. In one of them, lying on its side, is a metal bed. Peters said he sometimes spends the night here. The room looks lived in. Another large room leads from the main tunnel on the west side and on the east is a smaller dugout which houses a blacksmith shop.

"Best blacksmith shop in town," Peters sang out. "Never have to worry about it burning down," he said as we inspected the charred stone walls.

Within the main room are two wells, one drilled by conventional methods and bottomed in brackish, black water; the other a hand-dug pit whose bottom is just above the water zone. At the rear of the main room and above ground lie parts of what may some day be a windmill tapping the good water zone which Peters insists lies underground.

If Peters has a fault, it is his penchant for talking. The hardest part of the trip was leaving without hurting his feelings. He gladly explained his plans for his memorial to Mariensfeld.

WANTS A PARK

He would like to have his hundred acres turned into a park. He envisions it containing a baseball diamond for children, a golf course, a swimming hole and fishing pond — all designed as a natural tourist attraction. With these plans he anticipated the current tourism boom by at least 15 years. Twenty years ago he tried to get people interested in making it a park.

RESPONSIBLE HOMEMAKERS KNOW WHAT'S BEST FOR THEIR FAMILIES

many depend on TSO for professional eye care

Over the years, many responsible homemakers have learned through experience, or from friends, about the dependable, professional eye care available at TSO. At TSO members of your family receive a three-phase examination. First, a complete visual history is recorded. Next, the eyes are examined internally for evidence of disease or defect; then, for abnormalities of vision. Should glasses not be needed, there is only a $3.00 charge for the eye examination.

And the cost of fine eyewear is most reasonable. Single vision glasses are as low as $14.85. Invisibile bifocals are as low as $17.85, including eye examination, lenses and frame. Single vision Micro-Sight Contact Lenses, if preferred, are $65 complete. Bifocal contact lenses are also available at reasonable cost. Guard against eye disease, eyestrain and poor vision — with an annual, professional eye examination at TSO. Convenient credit at no extra cost.

A Devotional For The Day

As thy days, so shall thy strength be. (Deuteronomy 33:25.)

PRAYER: Gracious Father, we look to Thee for strength sufficient for the stresses which confront us this day. Enable us to rejoice and be glad in it. In Thy Son's name and in His spirit we pray, as He taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Something Needs To Hatch

There has been some discussion about possible courses of action to strengthen and maintain vitality of the downtown area in the face of modern pull toward the community perimeter. Out of this has come one loose confederation dealing with sales promotions and a few common problems. There also has been a seeming recognition that ultimately another grouping would need to take place for an attack on the fundamental problems.

But with this recognition, the idea seems to have entered the cocoon stage. None can quarrel with this so long as ultimately there is a hatch.

But the matter should not be left to lie and become atrophied through inaction. The downtown is too important for that. We have contended previously that the city needs a virile downtown section, just as it needs other growth including the outlying commercial areas. Downtown is the financial and public center of activity and should be equally vigorous commercially. While the modern shopping center has recognized one of the strengths of downtown through its variety by assembling basic enterprises in shopping areas, no shopping center can duplicate the wide range of services and goods that a downtown section has accumulated over the years. The downtown area also has the advantage of unlimited common traffic.

But the downtown area must look to the shopping center for elements that make them attractive. For instance, accessibility and convenience are prime assets. Being generally newer in construction, the shopping centers have innovations in materials and architectural treatments.

Downtown must measure up to these, or else see its strength diminish. This calls for imagination, ingenuity, initiative and investment. These ultimately must be undertaken with bold confidence.

So much is wrapped up in investment and influence that all parts of the city—including outlying shopping areas—can ill afford to allow downtown to develop anemia.

Softball Tournament

Underway in Big Spring is a district softball tournament, which will attract several teams. Each of these will have a roster of a dozen or more players, and they will be in town for several days.

Of course, a number of establishments will feel some economic impact from them. Aside from this, however, we will be delighted to have these sportsmen in our city. We hope that our citizens will go out of their way to be hospitable to our visitors.

We hope also that some consideration will be given subsequently to broadening the facilities for softball play. There are a surprisingly large number of teams here, and if there could be more fields, the number would be larger. Moreover, the unorganized "sandlot" teams would have a chance to play. As a by-product of this, our facilities would then make it possible for us to entertain state or regional tournaments, drawing several score participants.

JFK'S Influence In Italy

ROME — This ancient city has seen so many Caesars, so many triumphal processions, so many conquerors come and go that it cannot be moved by a President of the United States who bears none of the outward trappings of power.

Oddly enough, the Italian visit more than any other stop showed the uses of power, not to say its misuses. For it was here that the President came up against the stubborn forces of the past that under the form of democracy prevailing in Italy apparently cannot be rested in behalf of a stable future. And this is despite the fact that the glitter of prosperity is everywhere evident.

ONLY the boldest statistician would undertake to say what the cost to America has been in helping to achieve the recovery of a nation ruined by Fascism and war. Liberation was enormously costly in human life. Billions of dollars went from Washington for the recovery effort. In the elections of 1948 the United States went all out to try to help check the rising tide of communism. The cost in money was largely concealed but it must have been considerable. A number of Americans threw themselves into this struggle with genuine ardor. The Communist tide was checked.

IN THE LIGHT of all this the quiet debate within the Kennedy Administration over the extent to which the President should go in influencing the course of politics in Italy has a splendid irony. The very word intervention has a sinister sound. Any crude attempt would be sure to backfire, with the Communists seizing on it as evidence of imperialist America seeking to impose its will on the subservient parties of the right.

MUCH of the counsel the President received was on the side of caution. Yet Kennedy has determined to follow a bold policy, as he did here in Italy. He believes that with events shifting so rapidly it is shortsighted not to recognize that a political opposition exists in each free country and that it is important to come into contact with the leaders of that opposition.

President Antonio Segni, who was unhappy over the President's desire to meet and talk with the leaders of the left, represents the timid inhibitions of the past. In the right wing of the Christian Democratic party he is against a repetition of the "opening to the left" which in the Fanfani coalition government had seemed to offer a hope for stability beyond the rise and fall of fragile combinations dependent on eccentric splinter parties.

IN THIS SETTING it is tempting to think in classical parallels. At the beginning of the second century after Christ the Roman Empire was being pulled apart at the peripheries. Cracks were showing in the once-mighty facade. At this juncture Rome had the good fortune to find an emperor in Hadrian who was a hard-driving, vigorous administrator determined to end the rot and hold the line against all incursions. Hadrian traveled constantly to the farthest reaches of the empire, using skills beyond the simple force that once prevailed.

WITH HISTORY incredibly compressed by the speed of communication and travel in today's world it may not seem too fantastic to suggest that Kennedy is a kind of Hadrian. If one substitutes alliance for empire, his mission on his just-concluded punishing exercise has been the same—to try to hold together a structure threatened in so many ways. History will judge whether his skill matches his zeal.

One reason for the Communist gains in Italy's recent elections was the government corruption reaching down into so many aspects of Italian life. This ancient evil has repeatedly, since the end of the war, given the Communists their opportunity as the gap between the extremes of wealth and poverty has narrowed all too slowly.

TO WHAT DEGREE the President may have prevailed against the stubborn forces of the past in his brief frenetic visit can only be a guess. But it was an effort that, given his temperament and the times, he was compelled to make. (Copyright, 1963, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

THE word "Grace," in relation to Christianity, has two meanings. First, it is the "unmerited favor of God toward man." It is a love and consideration we have not earned. It is best described in John 3:16: "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." It is the golden clasp that binds together sinful man and a Holy God. That is the first meaning.

The second meaning is this: "Grace is the Divine influence working in man to make him pure and morally strong." In other words, Grace flows from God, but it also flows from man back to God in good deeds and gracious acts. Grace, on God's part, is unmerited love. Grace, on our part, is gratitude and unstinting service to Him.

One other thing: The Scripture suggests "means of Grace"—ways in which we may grow in grace. Prayer, worship, service, communion, witnessing, are all means by which we grow stronger, spiritually. Unless these exercises do something in me, to me, for me, and with me, they become a form of Godliness without the power thereof.

Eclipse Coming Scientists Prepare For Celestial Studies

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The sun, earth and moon have a date July 20 for a dazzling celestial treat—a total eclipse of the sun.

For some ancients, an eclipse was a case of a dragon swallowing the sun.

For today's scientists, it's a rare opportunity for a host of studies and measurements, with some astronomers planning to chase the moon's shadow in airplanes, and space satellites engaging in some special snooping, too.

FOR THE PUBLIC, it can be an awesome display as the sky darkens and the air cools, as stars appear and the great pearly halo or corona of the sun springs into view.

Only a relative handful of Americans will be lucky enough to see the full spectacle, for the eclipse will be total only along a path, averaging about 60 miles wide, sweeping across Alaska, Canada and Maine. In Maine, totality will occur between 4:42 and 4:44 p.m. EST, depending on an observer's location.

BUT, WEATHER permitting, almost everyone else can see the sun partially eclipsed as the moon swings between the sun and the earth. The sun will be 94 per cent covered for watchers in the Boston area, 49 per cent for those in Miami, 77 per cent in Chicago, 54 per cent in Denver, and 34 per cent in San Francisco, for example. Hawaii loses out altogether.

Your eyes can be irreparably damaged unless you take the greatest precautions in watching the show. Experts advise using a double thickness of black and white film which has been exposed and developed to maximum density. Ordinary sunglasses or a hunk of smoked glass are by no means safe enough, they warn.

IN ALL AREAS where the eclipse is not total, indirect viewing is safest. One method is to make a small hole in a piece of cardboard and hold it toward the sun, letting the sun's image be projected through the hole onto a white surface. On that target, you can watch as the moon takes a bite out of the sun.

The big treats come to those in the path of totality, and Maine is expecting scores of thousands of eclipse viewers. Television cameras will try to record the big show, too.

Gradually the moon moves over the sun's face, and for a minute will cover it completely in Maine, but with one-millionth of the sun's ordinary output of light and heat coming to earth. The sky darkens to about half the light from a full moon, and stars and planets become visible.

THE ECLIPSE begins in northern Japan about dawn, then the dark racing shadow of the moon sweeps over the Pacific entering Alaska near Nunivak Island, across the Yukon Territory and Great Slave Lake, over Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario and southern Quebec, then into central Maine. The path dashes out to sea at Bar Harbor, Maine, less than three hours after it touched Japan.

Japanese astronomers and scientists get the first crack at special eclipse studies, and are setting up for measurements of the presunrise zodiacal light and the colors and polarization of light from the sun's corona.

IN ALASKA, where the American Astronomical Society is meeting at the University of Alaska, professional and amateur astronomers will have front row seats.

Some astronomers aboard a specially equipped Royal Canadian Air Force turbo-prop plane will speed along the moon's full shadow path, hoping to win an extra 18 seconds of total eclipse over the 100 seconds available on the ground.

A DC8 rigged as a flying observatory is set to fly from California into the Canadian eclipse path in a joint venture of the National Geographic Society and Douglas Aircraft Co.

ASTRONOMERS from the Hayden Planetarium in the New York and Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatories in Cambridge, Mass., and some newsmen and photographers will fly nearly eight miles high over Maine for a super view of the eclipse aboard a special American Airlines jet eclipse flight.

A Tiros weather satellite may help forecast cloud conditions for astronomers with equipment at locations on the ground, and other instrumented satellites now circling the earth may, from their high vantage points, take revealing peeks at phenomena associated with the eclipse.

AUTOMATION: A labor department official estimated Thursday that automation and technology will eliminate 22 million jobs in this decade.

Testifying before the Senate Small Business Committee, Seymour L. Wolfbein, director of the department's office of manpower, automation and training, explained: "This does not mean that persons in these jobs will necessarily become unemployed."

But it does mean that there has to be a big enough economic growth and demand for goods and services which, in turn, will generate enough demand for workers to account for all of these jobs affected by our advancing technology.

The ones hit the hardest, he said, will be workers with little education or skill.

Trying To Park In A Park

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—It's often an exasperating job nowadays to find a parking place. But imagine the plight of a helicopter pilot who couldn't find a big city park. And his boss was along late for a speech.

The helicopter was transporting Maj. Gen. Harry H. Critz, commanding officer of Ft. Campbell, Ky., to an address at Vanderbilt University. But the pilot couldn't find Nashville's Centennial Park. To make it more embarrassing, the park is spread over 134 acres.

The poor pilot couldn't drop into the nearest service station and ask directions. So he just circled around until someone sent up a flare to lead him in.

To Your Good Health Localized Loss Of Hair Curable

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Today's problem involves a particular type of baldness, and what I write about it may have little or no bearing on general loss of hair.

However, this special kind is frequent enough to bring quite a few questions. Here's one: Dear Doctor: I have bare spots on my head that appeared only recently. I use no dye or rinses, and only mild shampoos. The spots are the size of a 50-cent piece. Can anything be done for this?—Mrs. A. B.

Possibly yes. In fact, probably yes.

The description precisely fits a condition called alopecia areata—localized loss of hair. Two widely different approaches are employed. The first is to look for some local disease of the scalp—fungus infections, ringworm, a dermatologist (skin specialist) is the proper specialist for this aspect.

If no such skin infection is found, then nervous tension is frequently the cause, and sedatives or tranquilizers are used.

An example of this was an attractive but highly tense office worker who was on the verge of getting a wig because of such bald spots. The hair trouble in turn made her nerves worse. In her case, reassurance that such things happen and are correct, plus giving her some tranquilizers, got her nerves under control. The hair grew back normally, and she hasn't had any further trouble in that regard.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes angina pectoris? Is there a cure? Does it indicate a serious heart condition?—L. C.

There are different causes of angina, but heart disease is by far the most frequent, and it should be regarded as serious unless a case is proved to be otherwise. Rather than go over the angina story again, I suggest you send for my booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," and read it carefully. It discusses angina in detail. (For a copy of this heart booklet, send 20 cents in coin, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner, in care of The Herald.)

Dear Dr. Molner: I have extremely hard calluses or "pump bumps" on each heel. How can they be removed?—MISS L. R.

The calluses formed as a result of pressure or chafing. The heels or heel straps of your shoes caused the pressure. You can keep the area softer with a lanolin ointment. You may be able to reduce the size a bit by rubbing with a block of pumice.

Remember that if you wear the kind of shoes that make "pump bumps," new calluses will keep forming. Consider a different style.

Dear Dr. Molner: I fell heavily on the sidewalk, and a week afterward an abscess (so the doctor called it) built up. It was lanced and disappeared.

Several months later it swelled up again, and another doctor drained it but said the same trouble will recur every few months, or even weeks, unless I have surgery. He says there is a sac or duct which should be removed when quiescent. Is he right? I am 32.—E. W.

Infected cysts behave just as you described. It may well be that your fall brought on the trouble, but the cyst must have been forming before then. Your doctor gave you the right advice. Cysts can drain (either from being lanced, or the painful process of forcing a way through from pressure inside), but they then close up again, only to do the same thing all over. Surgical removal is the permanent solution.

Mocking Birds Versus A Cat

Authors have written about the law of tooth and tongue, of the survival of the fittest, and of the driving instinct of hunger. All these, I suppose, have been involved in one of Nature's by-plays that has been going on right outside our kitchen window, and it has been a fascinating thing.

THE CONFLICT has involved a pair of mocking birds and a scrawny stray cat. The birds some time ago elected to establish a home in a dense photinia shrub at our back gate, and we watched as they busied themselves for days bringing in the twigs and putting the nest together. In the normal span of time, the eggs came, and then Papa and Mama Mocking Bird were completely domestic, preparing for the coming event, you might say.

AGAIN IN due time the little ones arrived. I had no thought of disturbing the family, and it was unintentionally that I passed too close to the bush on my way out the gate. Out of the blue, like an F-104 buzzing the tower, swooped one of those birds right at my head, and I learned quickly that molesters were not welcome. I thereafter kept my distance.

I took up surveillance from the safety of the house, and a few days ago, saw this mangy feline appear on the scene.

I DON'T KNOW how a dumb cat knew that there were baby birds in that shrub, but he did, for sure, and he started a stealthy prow toward the place.

What he didn't know was that Papa and Mama Mocking Bird, out looking for worms, kept alternate watch over the homestead from a nearby phone wire.

One late afternoon old Zoom started his safari across the yard. Zoom! here came one of those birds, wings working and little feet outstretched, and made a dive right for the cat's head.

OLD TOM quickly turned over and played dead. He would lie motionless until his senses told him the irate parents had gone. Then he'd start to slink a few more steps. Wham! the birds were dive-bombing him again.

The battle raged for some time, until I intervened by getting a broom and slapping old Tom out of the yard. Interfering in something that was none of my business, I suppose, but I felt the featherless fledglings in the nest were entitled to some assistance.

CHASED THAT cat out of there three or four times, and deliberated feeding him to keep his mind off the little birds. But I didn't want that cat to take up with me, and a wise friend said you just can't stuff a cat enough to keep him from relishing a baby bird.

But the parents apparently managed to keep the intruder out, as far as a human could tell without checking the nest, and I didn't want the birds to think I was on the cat's side.

BUT JUST THE other day, one of the offspring achieved enough strength to venture out of the nest, and immediately plopped to the ground. Papa and Mama were swooping around, terribly distressed by this turn of events, and I helped 'em by keeping a watch out for old Tom.

By the time this appears in print, the brothers and sisters probably will have tried their unsteady wings. They will have gone, whether winging their way to the freedom that birds enjoy, or into a stray cat's gullet. I'll never know. —BOB WHIPKEY

Review Of Presidential Journey

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy got little or no heckling on his trip to Germany, Ireland, Britain and Italy, and no overt stiff-arming by the heads of these governments—ergo, the journey, while a commendable effort by an earnest statesman, tells us nothing we did not know.

PARADOXICALLY, it is from the stormy and strife-marked visits by national leaders to foreign lands that we learn our lessons. Poor Nixon, who was mobbed in Venezuela, came home wiser than he did from Poland, where he was virtually worshipped. Poor Ike showed us more from his rejection in Japan than from his adulation in other parts of the Far East. Khrushchev, toiling in the Spirit of Camp David, was a falsification, whereas Big K pounding with his shoe at the United Nations and bawling insults at the bused-up Summit Meeting of Paris was honestly instructive.

THE CURIOSITY seekers are always with us, and they turned out in their millions to see and hear the handsome and eloquent President. But I was with Vice President Johnson during his tumultuous welcome to Bonn and Berlin in the summer of 1961. The time was far more dramatic than now. We had suffered a great failure that April at the Bay of Pigs. The Russians in East Berlin were just in the process of building the Wall and were threatening to take the whole city. Johnson then had the same supporting cast as Mr. Kennedy did last month in Berlin, principally the heroic Julius Clay and the popular Willy Brandt. Johnson rode the same adulation circuit as Mr. Kennedy did through the blubbery mobs of Hitler's one-time capital. Like Mr. Kennedy, Johnson gave Berliners the same assurances of total American protection and received superlative compliments and applause. Yet, within a fortnight, Johnson's visit might have been a stone dropped into a pool. The ripples died. The object of impact disappeared.

SOME SAY THAT the President should not have gone. My opinion is that it makes little difference whether he went or stayed; except that the trip was expensive and exhausting, not just in money and physical strength, but in the fluctuating currency of prestige. It is not likely that JFK can return to these countries and draw the same attention to himself and his programs when something is really at stake.

One would surmise that the central purpose of this European campaign was to overthrow the political domination of De Gaulle, who is now cock of the European poultry pen. But the place to have defied De Gaulle would have been in France. Mr. Kennedy tried to do it from West Germany by flattering Adenauer and by trading bits of "isolationist" with the great Frenchman.

MR. KENNEDY, perhaps because he sensed a campaign air about his trip, cut loose quite a bit of extravagant and contradictory rhetoric. No one would be sure from these speeches and statements whether we are conciliatory or defiant toward communism, whether Gaullism or Marxism is the worst menace, whether we regard it as more important to share nuclear weapons with the Allies or abolish nuclear weapons by dealing with Moscow, whether American troops are welcome to stay in Europe or whether Europe is on the point of inviting us to get out.

STILL, IT'S probable that Mr. Kennedy did not really harm. In that, he is far ahead of President Wilson, who botched the work at Paris; President Roosevelt, who lost our shirt for us at Yalta; President Truman, who sort of got to like amiable "Old Joe" at Potsdam, and President Eisenhower, who lost a grinning match to Khrushchev and Bulganin at Geneva.

Like a lot of baseball teams, our Presidents don't do much winning on the road. (Distributed by McNought Syndicate, Inc.)

We Yield On A Moral Principle

WASHINGTON—These are days when the administration here talks loudly about "moral issues" as superseding all else, including legal issues. On the Fourth of July particularly, Americans spoke proudly of the revolution by which they won their freedom. But, oddly enough, the United States government, following the paths of expediency in international affairs, is failing to express a condemnation of the immorality that prevails among the governments of the world.

LESS THAN a month ago, the United States government failed even to cast a ballot when a committee of the United Nations voted to accept the credentials of the Hungarian delegation. This is the first time that the puppet regime in Hungary has been elevated to a formal place in the United Nations since the days of the bloody suppression of the Hungarian revolution in 1956 by the Soviet army.

The United States abstained from voting, either fearing to offend the Communist bloc countries or else wishing to see the alleged Hungarian representatives admitted to a parity with those of the free nations of the world, despite the role played by the Soviet dictatorship in Hungary.

THE UNITED NATIONS charter itself states that the purposes of the organization are opposed to acts of aggression and in favor of the "self-determination of peoples" and a respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms. Under these circumstances, it was odd that the United States refrained from even casting a ballot to express its moral indignation. Sen. Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut, Democrat, in a speech to the Senate, said:

"I CAN DERIVE no solace from the fact that the United States delegation abstained from voting. Like Pontius Pilate, we gave in to the clamor of the multitude; and, again like Pontius Pilate, we turned our face the other way in the belief that by so doing we could somehow escape responsibility for the consequences of our actions. "Even if every single member of the credentials committee voted against us, I believe it was our duty to stand on principle and to vote to reject the credentials of the Hungarian delegation. I will go further, I believe it was our duty to carry on a vigorous campaign for the rejection of the credentials of the Hungarian delegation; and I believe that if we had carried on such a campaign, the credentials would not have been approved.

"WITH OUR PASSIVE acquiescence, the United Nations has, for all practical purposes, closed the book on Soviet aggression in Hungary. In doing so, it has written a prescription for the successful violation of the United Nations charter and the successful defiance of United Nations resolutions. It has, in effect, told the Soviet Union and other potential aggressors that, no matter how flagrantly they violate the U.N. charter, no matter how bloody the aggression of which they are guilty, no matter how many resolutions of condemnation are passed by the General Assembly—all will be forgiven and forgotten at the end of five or six years if the aggressor nation still remains in control of the victim nation at the end of that time.

"OUR PASSIVITY in this situation is perhaps the inevitable outgrowth of our tragic passivity at the time of the Hungarian revolution. . . .

"History has already exacted a high price for our 'neutrality' and inaction at the time of the Hungarian revolution—and I am afraid that we shall have to pay a still higher price before the present decade has run its course."

ALL THE Fourth of July speeches referred to as a rule to the tyranny which the American colonists faced in 1776. But these exclamations have a hollow sound as the United States government, under its present policies, ignores moral issues and, in effect, forsakes the peoples of captive countries—including the patriots in Hungary—who look to the United States to lead a world movement to emancipate them from the yoke of Soviet tyranny. Martin County's Annual Reunion Slated Tuesday

STANTON — This community is turning back the clock — getting in the mood for the 30th annual Old Settlers Reunion which will be staged Tuesday.

Actually the first proof of the nearness of the annual event was Saturday when many shopkeepers and clerks showed up at their posts wearing costumes which dated back half a century or more.

A meeting of the Old Settlers Reunion Association, sponsor of the annual event, was held July 1. M. S. (Fiddle) Estes is president.

The celebration runs through Saturday, Sunday, Monday but the real emphasis is to be Tuesday.

The official parade, always a highlight of these annual get-togethers of early day settlers, moves at 4 p.m. Tuesday and will wind its way through the business district. A caterer has been employed to serve the barbecue at 7 p.m. After the barbecue, a formal program will be presented.

A memorial service to honor old timers who have died is a special event each year.

Gift certificates go to the winners in the most colorful costume contest. The competition includes awards for the most authentically dressed couple, the most elaborately dressed family; best dressed man or woman clerk; most stylishly dressed person in the most attractive early period garb.

There will be displays in stores of old fashioned merchandise and relics of other days. Some stores will have sidewalk sales and others will offer special bargains.

The best decorated floats in the parade will compete for prizes of $15, $10 and $5. The parade begins at the Methodist Church on St. Anna Street.

The Stanton High School band will play and old timers born prior to half a century ago will ride on a special float.

George B. Shelburne, city judge, will conduct the memorial service.

The arrangements committee is composed of Mrs. M. S. Estes, Mrs. Woodford Sale, Mrs. Dee Rogers, Bob Deavenport, Morgan Hall, Mrs. F. O. Rhodes, Ohmer

Kelley, J. W. Graham, Sammy Houston, Edmund Morrow, Edmund Tom, Dan Saunders, Billy Houston, Fiddler Estes, Mrs. Leo Turner, George Davis, Bob Haislip, Mrs. Glen Brown and George Shelburne.

Welcoming committee members are: J. C. Sale, John Peters, Tom Stewart, Sam Cox, Morgan Hall, John Blocker, Alton Turner, Jim Webb, Mike Anderson, Tom Angel, Mrs. Joe Stewart, Mrs. W. A. Corvair 700 Club Coupe

The hardest part about parking a Corvair is finding a nickel

That may be a slight overstatement, but such jauntiness comes easily when you're a Corvair owner.

And you can usually back it up—as easily as you can back up a Corvair. You'll find yourself doing that occasionally, if only to adjust the brakes—they're self-adjusting. That's all there is to it, and that's a good example of how delightfully easy Corvair is to own, drive and maintain.

But since we began by talking about driving, let's stick with that awhile. A large factor in the fun of driving a Corvair is the location of its engine in the rear. Why the rear? It gives Corvair extra traction on any road surface. It provides a nearly flat floor for more useable interior space. Best of all, it produces steering so light, so responsive, you wonder why no other American-made car thought of it.

Corvair's engine is also air cooled, we might add, which means there's no antifreeze or water for you to add. Ever.

All that pleasure from something so practical almost makes you think Corvair is unique among American cars. Which isn't surprising, because it is!

Great Escape

Put a risk in front of these men and they will take it. Steve McQueen thrusts a hard proposition to his compadres in this scene from the drama, "The Great Escape," beginning Thursday at the Ritz Theatre.

JOHN WAYNE & LEE MARVIN
They're just good friends

Wayne Goes To South Seas

From the wilds of Africa in "Hatari," John Wayne now switches to the exotic South Seas for his new comedy-adventure film, "Donovan's Reef" in Technicolor and opening today at the Ritz Theatre. Directed by John Ford, the cast also includes Lee Marvin, Dorothy Lamour, Elizabeth Allen and Cesar Romero.

Wayne plays the role of "Guns" Donovan and "Donovan's Reef" is the name of his saloon situated on a tropical island. Donovan is a Second World War hero who remained on the island after the Japanese surrendered. In addition to the saloon, he also owns a small fleet of sailing ships that transport passengers and goods from island to island. With him on the island is his old war buddy, Dr. Dedham, played by Jack Warden, who stayed behind to build a hospital and treat the natives' ailments. Marvin plays "Boats" Gilhooley, another ex-

G.I. who is the island's most notorious drunkard, brawler, and bun. Although Gilhooley and Donovan are close friends, they can never resist the opportunity to fight with each other—and in the process they usually wreck Donovan's saloon.

Romantic interest for Wayne and Marvin is provided by Miss Allen and Miss Lamour. Miss Allen is perhaps best known as the girl who said "And away we go" on the old Jackie Gleason Show. Since then she has appeared in many stage and TV roles, the most notable of which was Juliet in Peter Ustinov's "Romanoff and Juliet." This is her first featured role in a motion picture. Dorothy Lamour seems right at home in a South Sea movie, no doubt because she became famous as the "Sarong Girl" and appeared in scores of movies set in the tropics.

Miss Allen plays Amelia Dedham, Dr. Dedham's daughter. She is a very proper Bostonian who travels to the island to check up on her father who never returned to Boston after the Second World War. Before long she meets Donovan, and soon falls in love with his brawling, masculine ways. She also has to fight off the attentions of Romero, who plays the fortune-hunting, foppish governor of the island. Miss Lamour plays Fleur, the local torch singer. Fleur wants to marry and settle down with Gilhooley who loves her but loves booze and fighting with Donovan more than anything else. "Donovan's Reef" is full of the John Wayne brand of action and comic situations.

Writer Sets Sail On Lonely Raft

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Writer-lecturer William Willis set sail aboard a raft last week on a solitary 12,000-mile Pacific voyage. He is trying to prove that older Americans are rugged and need not retire at 65. Willis is 70.

Willis, of New York, expects to reach Sydney, Australia, in four or five months aboard the Age Unlimited, a 32-by-20-foot steel pontoon raft powered only by sails.

Lee Marvin Does Switch, Now A Bum

Lee Marvin, who is best known for his roles as sinister gangster, or as a cop in his popular TV series "M-Squad," now does a complete switch in "Donovan's Reef."

TV viewers who are accustomed to seeing Marvin as a tough, conscientious cop trying to preserve law and order in the Chicago underworld will be shocked when they see their detective-hero play the role of a drunken, brawling, but always lovable beachcomber who carries a beer bottle and cigar instead of his detective's badge.

Marvin has the fictitious role of "Boats" Gilhooley, a World War II hero who hails from Fall River, Mass. Gilhooley has been bumming around an island in the South Seas since VJ Day with his ex-buddy John Wayne. Although they are now close friends, they can't resist the opportunity to clobber each other whenever the opportunity presents itself—all because of a grievance the cause of which neither can remember.

Those who have marveled at the TV feats of Marvin, arch-foe of crime, can enjoy a good laugh as their hero peers through his heavily lidded eyes at Wayne, wondering if the time is ripe to give him a clout or two. Amusement should overshadow their chagrin as Marvin loses all of his battles with big Wayne.

Suit Settled Out Of Court

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A suit by actress Donna Reed against Universal Pictures Co. for salary she claimed the studio owed her has been settled out of court for undisclosed terms.

Attorneys told Superior Court Judge William H. Levitt that a compromise had been reached.

Miss Reed claimed Universal owed her $70,192 under a 1956 contract.

She said she had been promised $200,000 for leading roles in three pictures to be made within eight years. When the first script was sent her, she said, she found she had only a supporting role.

The studio contended it was entitled to recover $57,532 already paid her because she refused the role.

Plan To Marry

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Robert Goulet and actress Carol Lawrence obtained a marriage license Friday.

Goulet, who won prominence in the Broadway musical "Cameo," said they planned to be married this week. He declined to say where the ceremony will be held.

And Away She Goes—Into A Bright New Film Future

Beautiful Elizabeth Allen won fame in show business speaking four words, "And away we go!" on the Jackie Gleason television show. These four words, spoken by Miss Allen to officially open each Gleason show, made Elizabeth a familiar and popular personality with millions of viewers across the nation.

Now the young actress is co-starring with John Wayne and Lee Marvin in "Donovan's Reef." Now one can safely say that Elizabeth's motion picture career is in high gear.

The trim, graceful Allen figure first steered Elizabeth into modeling, and her career as a fashion mannequin and cover girl was as successful as one look at Elizabeth in person would indicate. After three years of top modeling on both sides of the Atlantic, she auditioned for the Portrette role of the Gleason Show, won the part and the resulting fame.

Though she was the original deliverer of the "Away we go!" line, Elizabeth soon began entering into the skits on the show as Reggie Van Gleason's girl friend, a secretary or various other roles. Finally, she sang several numbers with Ray Bloch's orchestra.

When Peter Ustinov's comedy hit, "Romanoff and Juliet," opened on Broadway, critics and audiences alike agreed that his choice of Elizabeth for the role of Juliet had been an inspired one. As she played the role during the play's long Broadway run, her following among theatergoers increased as the weeks rolled by.

Since she played Juliet, Elizabeth had distinguished herself in musical comedy with appearances at the Starlight musicals in Kansas City as Babe in "Pajama Game" opposite John Raitt and Frenchy in "Destry" with Dick Shawn. She also toured in the coveted role of Nellie Forbush in "South Pacific" with Howard Keel. Miss Allen made her screen debut in "From the Terrace," "The Gay Life" marked Elizabeth's musical comedy debut on Broadway.

Fists Bring Treat For Wayne's Fans

Those John Wayne fans who love watching him engage in slambang brawls on the screen are in for a treat when they see "Donovan's Reef."

Acknowledged by ex-champion Sugar Ray Robinson as the best movie-fighter, in the business, Wayne tangles three times with Lee Marvin and is involved in a free-for-all Donnybrook with six Australian sailors.

In contrast to practically all of Wayne's previous film fights, however, his opponents in "Donovan's Reef" are not enemies—a fact which in no way tempers the fury of the encounters.

Duke and Marvin portray ex-shipmates in Uncle Sam's Navy who prefer life on a South Pacific island following World War II. Pals under the skin, they nevertheless take pleasure in trying to maim each other at the slightest provocation, and the carnage is dreadful.

In their last picture together, John Ford's "The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance," these two were deadly enemies; and when they met, it wasn't with their fists. However, Wayne did knock the stuffing out of Marvin's two benches.

The imbroglia with the Australian sailors in "Donovan's Reef" is one of those things that can happen in a bar when the juice has been flowing. The Aussies take offense at being called "Limeys," and the battle is on. In this fracas, Wayne and Marvin are on the same side for a change—along with another heavyweight, Dick Foran. The kingly joust ends with all combatants harmonizing on "The Wild, Colonial Boy," an old Australian folk song.

Although Wayne has had countless memorable battles before the cameras, such as with Victor McLaglen in "The Quiet Man" and with Montgomery Clift in "Red River," he is proudest of the slugfest with Randolph Scott in "The Spoilers," made in 1942.

Duke and Randy started swinging at each other in an upstairs room, continued on down a long flight of stairs, through a saloon and out into the street. The classic struggle took one week to make, covered two reels of film and is considered the greatest two-man fight in talking pictures.

1863-1963 UNITED STATES 5 CENTS EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION NEW COMMEMORATIVE Chicago Sale Begins Aug. 16 Commemorative To Mark Proclamation

By HAROLD C. PERDUE
A special U. S. commemorative stamp will mark the 100th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation. It will go on sale first Aug. 16 in Chicago on the opening day of the Century of Negro Progress Exposition here. The stamp was designed by Georg Olden of New York City, the first of his race to design a U. S. stamp.

The five cent stamp depicts a severed link in a massive black chain, placed against a blue background. "United States" is in red, flanked by "1863-1963" and "5 cents" in blue. Also in blue is "Emancipation Proclamation." First day covers may be serviced in the usual manner by the Postmaster, Chicago, Ill.

Four additional commemoratives have just been announced by the Post Office. One is a cartoon type stamp, drawn by Norman Rockwell, for the 100th anniversary of City Mail Delivery. It shows a postman, a young boy, and a dog in 19th century attire. In 116 years of stamp production, this is the first "humor" stamp.

Also to be honored this year will be Sam Houston, Cordell Hull, and John Muir. Houston, well known to every Texan, died in Huntsville in 1863. Perhaps Texas will have another First Day of Issue. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State under Franklin Roosevelt from 1933 to 1944, will be honored Oct. 5 with first day sales at Carthage, Tenn. John Muir is one of America's best known naturalists. He is credited with the establishment of Yosemite National Park and the preservation of the Sequoia trees. All four stamps will be in five cent denomination. The "Fine Arts" stamp will be

Almost Half Of Honor Grads To Attend Junior College

By JOHNNIE LU RABORN
Eleven Jayhawks and six Longhorns will emerge this fall to account for 17 of the 25 honor graduates of Big Spring High School. Other Texas schools and one out-of-state college will take the remaining eight.

Howard County Junior College will snatch up 11 of the graduates including the valedictorian and three students on the top 10 list. Only those with a 90 average could make the honor grad classification.

Kathleen Martin, valedictorian with her 95.24 overall average, plans a pre-med major at HCJC with tentative plans of going to Hardin-Simmons in Abilene following her two years here. As most of the future Jayhawks say, "It's close to home and I'm not ready to leave yet." Also launching into a pre-med major is Joyce Davidson whose 92.3 average earned the 10th place in her class.

Education courses will fill the time of two graduates. Fifth ranked Cheryl Whiteside will follow the teaching profession as will Teresa Mackin. Miss Mackin, having received a scholarship, will enter the elementary education field and continue her studies at North Texas State University.

Sixteen-year-old Camella Ryan will continue at HCJC this fall with a probable business major. She is attending the summer session now and says she wants to stay close to home. "Even though I will be 17 then," she said, "I'm just a little young to go away."

Louise Jackson will be starting into a business administration major and hopes that the two years here will help to make up her mind exactly what to do. Texas Technological College is her choice for college after HCJC.

One engineer and dentist will start their training in the fall. Amado Molina will major in engineering, with no special field. George Rice will begin dental training and names Texas Tech or the University of Texas as the school he will attend.

The liberal arts or non-major group will have three join its ranks at HCJC. Carolyn Hoover "just hasn't decided for sure." Working and attending night classes is the schedule for Mary Wilson. Glenn Whitley will take basic courses to help him decide.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS
A trio of engineers will share college experiences, a room and a major at the University of Texas this fall. Salutatorian Tommy Gentry, who "always wanted to go to UT" will join Don Bradford and Dale Bullough in W.K. Hall to begin their specialized field of electrical engineering. The three were members and officers of the National Honor Society in high school and ranked second, fourth and fifteenth respectively in their class.

Three female cohorts will also travel down to Austin. Karen Kee, ranking seventh in her class, will major in music and voice. Brenda Cowper, who is still undecided about her major, will get her first look at college during sorority rush Sept. 8. Carole Haralson will begin a liberal arts major with emphasis on psychology and room with a local girl graduate of two years ago. "They have so much to offer," Carole says, "that I don't know what to decide."

Shannon School of Nursing in San Angelo will enroll Sandra Poole this fall. After her four years of training, she plans to join the Peace Corps.

Launching a business career, Judy Williams plans to start working this fall. She was editor of her high school newspaper and hopes to work on some industrial publication.
