Hopes Rise For Limited Nuclear Test Ban Treaty

Delegates Happy As Session Ends

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. and British delegates met with Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko for about three hours today amid signs of increasing hope for agreement on a formula to outlaw all nuclear weapons tests except those underground.

The Western delegates — U.S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman and Lord Hailsham of Britain—departed smiling broadly. They drove off together in an American limousine. Meanwhile, Premier Khrushchev met with French Ambassador Maurice de Jean, whose government is standing aloof from the test ban talks.

There was no immediate information on the subject of the Khrushchev - De Jean meeting. Khrushchev opened the talks with Harriman and Hailsham at the Kremlin Monday. Gromyko took over for the Russians today.

Before the negotiators sat down, Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin was asked by a Western newsmen if he believed the talks were proceeding satisfactorily.

"In my opinion, yes," Zorin replied. This is the second time in six months, however, that prospects have appeared bright for a breakthrough in the deadlock.

Predictions of success were therefore restrained. Positions taken by the Western powers and the Soviet Union in the opening negotiating session Monday were cloaked in secrecy. If any stumbling blocks developed, they were not being discussed publicly.

Optimism among Western diplomats stemmed primarily from the warmth with which Premier Khrushchev welcomed the U.S. and British negotiators to the Kremlin and the obvious good mood in which the Westerners left 3½ hours later.

A statement issued Monday night disclosed little more than that Gromyko would speak for the Soviet Union in today's meeting.

The assignment of Gromyko maintained Soviet participation on a high level. It also indicated the meeting was getting down speedily to the problems involved in working out any test ban agreement.

The communique said "questions related to the discontinuance of nuclear tests" had been discussed. It said some other unspecified matters of mutual interest also had been taken up.

ISSUES LISTED Presumably the latter included such issues as the continuing tension in Laos, Khrushchev's renewed proposal for a non-aggression treaty between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the European Communist bloc, and the possibility of an agreement among the nuclear powers not to transfer nuclear weapons to other countries.

Harriman and Hailsham have instructions to negotiate only on a nuclear test ban.

But Harriman had let it be known he would bring up Laos. The Kennedy administration is worried about preserving the Asian kingdom's neutrality in the face of continuing pressure from Laos' pro-Communist Pathet Lao faction and neighboring North Viet Nam.

Khrushchev, receiving Hailsham and Harriman in a Kremlin conference room, teased Harriman about his age. Harriman is 71; Khrushchev 69. When the two envoys got Khrushchev to pose between them for photographs, he quipped about being surrounded by "imperialists."

SHARP CONTRAST His banter contrasted sharply with the chill treatment accorded Chinese Communist representatives who came here early this month for negotiations on the Chinese-Soviet struggle for leadership of the Communist bloc. Khrushchev is not known to have received them at all.

The split in the Communist camp is another reason mentioned for bright prospects in the test ban talks. Western experts believe Khrushchev may be deeply interested now in building closer ties with the United States and Britain. But collapse of the last round of test ban negotiations is still fresh in the minds of Western experts here.

Airmen Killed In Highway Crash

AMARILLO (AP) — Two Amarillo AFB men died Monday night in a car-truck accident a mile east of here. Two other airmen were injured.

Killed were Patrick Cook, 19, of Atlanta, Ga., and Jesse Householder, 24, of Reckton, Ark.

In critical condition were Albert Love, 20, and Paul Bradshaw, 21. Two other men in the car reportedly fled the scene.

Police said the car hit a semi-trailer truck.

UF Budget Set Monday

Trustees of the United Fund Monday adopted a campaign budget of $104,874. This is an increase of only $800 over the 1963 budget. Included in the total is $94,874 for over a dozen agencies. The balance is for shrinkage, operations and campaign expense.

Four were given slight increases, three took cuts. The Red Cross voluntarily shaved its budget for one year to help hold the over-all outlay in line.

Jack Y. Smith will serve as campaign chairman, and his associate will be Winston Winkle. Plans for the campaign are now being developed, and the main effort will come in late September and October. Andy Glenn again will serve as office manager.

Dr. Lee Rogers, UF president, expressed appreciation to the budget committee headed by Jack Davis for its work.

"I feel this is a realistic goal, one that we can all live with and one that we can raise," he said. "All of us want to give agencies what they request, but the total goal then would have been $124,000. We have to try to strike a balance between requests and what we feel can be raised."

Agencies represented in the United Fund are the YMCA, the Lakeview YMCA branch, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army, Westside Youth Center, Summer Recreation Program, Howard County Rehabilitation Center (Crippled Children), Boy Scouts, Texas United Fund, Milk and Ice Fund, Red Cross, Texas Rehabilitation (Gonzales Warm Springs), Air Force Aid Society.

Approximately 30 trustees attended the meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

Few changes were made from agency budgets for the past year. Four were given slight increases, three took cuts. The Red Cross voluntarily shaved its budget for one year to help hold the over-all outlay in line.

JAKE THE BARBER, EX-CON, BECOMES A U.S. CITIZEN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Describing himself as "the luckiest man alive," John F. (Jake the Barber) Factor became a United States citizen before the same judge who once tried him on an income tax charge.

Factor, 70, was among 10 persons who took the oath Monday before U.S. Dist. Judge Leon R. Yankwich. Like some of the others, Factor's right hand trembled as the ex-convict-turned-philanthropist raised it to swear his allegiance.

The group was split into five units for the oath-taking and Factor was treated individually.

Judge Yankwich, noting that the English-born Factor once appeared before him as a defendant in an income tax evasion case, said it gave him "great joy" that he now qualified for citizenship.

Although Factor lost the tax case some years ago, Judge Yankwich said he became convinced at that time the man had rehabilitated himself from what he called the "delinquency of his youth."

As late as last December, the Immigration Service attempted to start deportation proceedings against Factor because of a six-year term he served on a 1943 conviction of mail fraud. Officials dropped the action when President Kennedy gave Factor a full pardon.

Factor first made headlines in 1933 as the victim in a sensational Chicago kidnaping case. Roger (The Terrible) Touhy, convicted as the abductor, served a long prison term and then met death in a gangland-style slaying soon after his release.

Factor, who moved to California in 1949, has since amassed a fortune in the real-estate and insurance fields after starting on borrowed capital of $5,000. A close friend estimates that he has given nearly $4 million to various charities.

Anti-Duvalier Leader Is Reported Slain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Terrorist leader Clement Barbot, who broke with Haitian President Francois Duvalier to become his chief political enemy and the most hunted man behind the voodoo curtain, has been shot to death, the Haitian government says.

The government-controlled Haitian radio was quoted by the State Department Monday as announcing that Barbot and his brother, Harry, had been surprised by security forces while trying to set aflame a cane field and were killed in exchange of gunfire.

The U.S. Embassy in the Dominican Republic picked up the broadcast and officials were unable to check out the report. But a State Department spokesman said there was no reason to doubt the broadcast.

Once Clement Barbot, who organized the president's dreaded militia, was described as the No. 2 man in the Duvalier government.

A year ago he and "Papa Doc" Duvalier had a falling out. Barbot fled to a hideaway from where he organized terrorist opposition to the voodoo-preaching doctor who rules the little French speaking Negro country.

Demos, Kennedy Talk Rail Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressional leaders discussed the railroad strike threat with President Kennedy today and said they were hopeful of agreement to head off a walk-out.

Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds said the report will run only 20 pages or so. "We don't want it too bulky; we want it to be something the congressmen will read," Reynolds said.

The report, containing no recommendations but merely the facts and issues in the dispute as the special committee has found them, will go to President Kennedy Friday.

The President intends to send the report to Congress Monday along with his recommendations for legislation to solve the crisis. That would give the Senate and House just seven days to act before a July 29 deadline.

Rep. Oliver P. Bolton, R-Ohio, predicted Monday that Kennedy would ask for a 30-day cooling off period for one more attempt to settle the issues throughout mediation.

In case that failed, Bolton said in a newsletter to constituents, the President would also ask authority to enforce compulsory arbitration with "the threat of government seizure in the background."

Kennedy has set next Monday for the special board to report and for sending legislation to Congress to head off a strike. Both sides in the dispute have agreed to withhold any action for another week after that, until July 29.

The board, keeping pace with an emergency timetable, called both management and union spokesmen into its session today for final arguments on what they call featherbedding.

Wednesday the six-man group, headed by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, will begin writing its report with a preliminary draft scheduled to be ready by nightfall.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told reporters that "we're very hopeful there will be a settlement in the discussions now going on in the presidential board" about the dispute over work rules "because if there is not there will have to be a presidential move."

Asked whether anything developed at this morning's session with Kennedy that was the basis for feeling hopeful, Mansfield replied, "Well, we're always hopeful."

More Heat For Texas

By The Associated Press

Simmering heat maintained its grip on most of Texas Tuesday. A familiar scattering of thunder storms was in prospect again by night in Northwest Texas, and forecasters expected them to spread into North Central Texas by Wednesday.

The Weather Bureau predicted slightly lower temperatures in the thunderstorm belt, but the few showers in prospect elsewhere gave no promise of relief from temperatures in the upper 90s and above.

For the third night in a row, parts of the state were under a severe thunderstorm alert Monday—this time the northeast corner of the Texas Panhandle and the Red River Valley area including Wichita Falls. The alert expired without word of appreciable storm damage.

The mercury mounted Monday afternoon to 106 degrees at El Paso, 103 at Laredo and Wink, 102 at San Angelo, and 100 at Abilene, Austin, Junction, Midland, Mineral Wells and Waco.

A severe thunderstorm struck Seminole near the New Mexico line during the night causing some damage. Winds up to 80 miles an hour broke tree limbs and downed some power lines west of the town. About .50 inch of rain fell.

Wallace At Hearing

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, testifying before the Senate Commerce committee on proposed civil rights legislation, declares that a "President who sponsors legislation such as the civil rights act of 1963 should be retired from public office." He warned enforcement of the proposed bill would require all the country's armed forces.

Wallace Would Ignore U.S. Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama declared today he would make no effort to help enforce a federal public accommodations law nor would he encourage compliance with it in his state.

"I would just go ahead and be the governor of Alabama and let the federal folks try to enforce it," Wallace told the Senate Commerce Committee.

In that connection the governor restated his view it would take an army of federal agents or troops to enforce a law opening restaurants, motels and theaters and other places of business to racial integration.

Wallace returned to the committee to complete the fiery testimony against President Kennedy's bill which he began Monday.

BOBBY DEFERRED Meanwhile, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's appearance before the Senate Judiciary Committee on the President's over-all civil rights program was deferred until Wednesday. That will be Robert Kennedy's third round at the Capitol in the civil rights fight—and undoubtedly the toughest in view of the weight of Southern membership on the committee.

After arriving at the packed hearing room, Kennedy was told by Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., that he might as well return to his Justice Department office since a number of committee members had opening statements to make.

Eastland is one of the strongest foes of the administration civil rights package has on Capitol Hill.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said it would take him about an hour to read his statement even if he hurried through it.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., a sponsor of the administration program, said he would withdraw a statement he intended to make, in view of what he called urgency of acting on the legislation.

Hart said that in his judgment the nation had come "closer to disaster in Birmingham than in Cuba."

Another supporter of the bill, Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., said he would put his statement in the record, but both Sens. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said they had brief statements they wanted to make.

It became apparent that Kennedy would not have a chance to testify before the Senate met at noon, and unless an exception to the rules is granted, committees may not sit after that.

Wallace's declaration he would not help enforce a public accommodations law came during an exchange with Hart, which even got into the question of whether Heaven will be segregated.

The governor had concluded a lengthy friendly questioning by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., with the assertion he bore no hatred for Negroes or anyone, that he believed in God, and tried to follow religious teachings.

Hart, a member of both the Commerce and Judiciary Committees, said since Wallace had introduced this "solemn note" into the proceedings, he would like to ask "What you think Heaven will be like, will it be segregated?"

BLACK OR WHITE Wallace answered that "I don't think any of us knows what Heaven will be like." He went on to say "God made us all. He made you and me white, and He made others black. He segregated us."

Hart said he would not pursue it further except to comment that he presumed "we would all be one (See WALLACE, Page 6, Col 6)

DEAR ABBY

Open House — All Season!

DEAR ABBY: Summer is here and so are the parasites who flock to our lovely summer cottages and "vacation" at our expense in the name of friendship. Last summer I worked 16 hours a day cooking and cleaning for three solid months. No time off either. Sunday was our "busiest" day. I am not young any more and I can't take much more of this. Must we sell our lovely summer cottage and give up our own pleasure because people take advantage of us? I should add, my husband is the type who is always saying, "Come to the cottage!" What does he care? He sits in the boat all day.

ALMOST DEAD
 DEAR ABBY: Your problem is your husband, not your friends. To some people, "come to the cottage" is a gilt-edged invitation. When your husband quits inviting people, you'll have your privacy. And those who come uninvited should be told, "ask us—we're all filled up!" (It's true—you are.)

DEAR ABBY: I've solved the "food-wasting" problem. When eating out, I order a full course meal and a child's portion meal. My 11-year-old daughter eats the full course meal, and I eat the child's portion. By the way, I am 6 ft. 1 in. and weigh 185.

CHARLES IN TAMPA
 DEAR CHARLES: Wonderful! But how tall is your daughter, and what does SHE weigh?

DEAR ABBY: When I was 18 I left the farm and went to the city. My first job was waiting on tables. A nice-looking man (let's call him "Carl") came in often. He was very polite and I liked his smile. One evening, just before quitting time, "Carl" came in and asked to drive me home. I accepted, and invited him in for coffee. The longer we talked, the more I liked him. He told me his wife was paralyzed from the waist down, but he'd never leave her. When he said good-night, he blurted out, "I would like so much to hold a WHOLE woman in my arms again." Within six months I was involved with him up to my neck. One day I picked up a newspaper and my eyes fell on a picture of a Ladies' Champion Bowling Team. The captain was "Mrs. Carl" — (Same name as my friend.) I thought it must be a coincidence, so I called the team manager and asked where Mrs. Carl's husband worked. Sure enough, she was his wife. Many years have passed, Abby. I'm older now, and smarter. I'm in business and have met many men, and if every wife who was SUPPOSED to be on her death bed REALLY was, there'd be wall to wall funeral homes from New York to Chicago. (Sign me) GULLIBLE

Prosecutor In Court Tangle

HOUSTON (AP) — Robert Tarrant, a lawyer, and Lee Ward, a prosecutor, fought a bloodless draw Monday in front of Dist. Judge Edmund Duggan's court.

Deputies broke up the fight. It was the third time Ward has been in a doneybrook inside the courtroom. His record is one win, one loss and Monday's draw. He scored a technical knockout over another lawyer and refused to fight a woman who battered him to his knees a month ago.

Reporters heard the two men arguing about a bond forfeiture just before the brief fight broke out. Ward, 42, is a light-heavy at 175. Tarrant, 34, is a 185-pound heavyweight. "You know, I'm aware that I'm not the most popular prosecutor around," Ward said. "But if this keeps up, I'm going to get me a manager and demand a guaranteed purse."

Americans Are Fined In Spain

PAMPLONA, Spain (AP)—Two American youths visiting the Pamplona festival have been fined for what Spanish officials said was "the improper display of an American flag on their car" in a nearby campground, U.S. consular officials said today.

They were identified only as Harry Leimbach of Texas and Roger Paul Lusch, address unknown.

In another incident involving visitors to the festivals, student Gale Greer of Sherman, Tex., and John Kennedy of Fort Worth, Tex., a soldier on leave from his post in Germany, were detained temporarily after a Spanish policeman was punched in a brawl. They were released without charges.

Well Plugging Orders Issued

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission has issued the first in a series of orders requiring plugging of some oil wells in East Texas.

The orders are based on data which the commission says it gained "through its slant-hole investigation in the East Texas field."

The orders apply to 12 wells operated by Dart Oil and Gas, and one operated by McCubbin and Stegall.

The commission said wells on the leases involved were removed from production after one well on each lease was found to be illegally slanted.

"Keeping the wells open for any further extended period of time will be of no benefit to the commission in its administration of its conservation regulations," the order said.

The commission said 12 similar plugging orders will be issued periodically to allow commission personnel time to carry out the orders. The wells involved must be plugged by July 30 unless the commission receives a request for a deviation survey on the wells, or a government agency intervenes. The attorney general won postponement of two earlier plugging orders because the wells were involved in litigation.

Drama Art Degree

AUSTIN (AP)—The University of Texas reports it will become the fourth school in the country to offer a doctor of philosophy degree in drama art.

Bottom Hole Surveys Ordered

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission has ordered that bottom hole location surveys be run on seven wells in the East Texas field.

The surveys, to determine the bottom hole locations of wells owned by the L&G Oil Co. in Gregg County, was requested by the Amerada Petroleum Corp. under a commission rule which provides that complaining operators can have slant-hole surveys run by outside firms if the commis-

A Devotional For The Day

"If any one forces you to go one mile, go with him two miles." (Matthew 5:41. RSV.)
PRAYER: Father, give us the courage to do the extraordinary, to go the extra mile of love in our day-day living. We pray in the name of Thy Son, who went the full distance to the cross for us and taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven... Amen."

Back In Orbit

Congress may yet have to resolve the issue of the propriety of or guidelines for the astronauts selling exclusive contracts for their personal stories. The breakdown in negotiations between Field Enterprises Educational Corp and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration throws the whole question back into orbit.

Field Enterprises sought book, magazine, newspaper, television, radio and motion picture rights to 16 astronauts' personal accounts of their anticipated experiences in the two-man Gemini capsule flights to begin next year and in the subsequent Apollo project up to the initial moon landing. The offered price: $3.2 million paid over a 10-year period.

A Field Enterprises spokesman noted mainly criticism that it would be inappropriate for publicly employed astronauts to be on a private payroll. That is not, however, what we would consider the main objection, or the most important issue which NASA—or, if the space agency fails to come to a satisfactory conclusion, Congress—has to resolve.

The main issue is whether the astronauts really have any marketable "personal stories," in connection with actual flights, that do not constitute information which should be in the public domain. The total of their flight experience is tax-financed—at multibillion-dollar costs—and so it seems to us that the total of that experience, except for classified material, should be free public information.

There is no doubt a strong popular feeling that the astronauts should somehow be financially rewarded beyond their relatively modest public pay. But it would be contrary to freedom of information principles of our society and government to allow them to withhold and privately market what should be releasable news of nationally vital and tremendously expensive public projects. Even their emotional reactions during publicly financed space exploration constitute news, not "personal stories."

Where should the line be drawn? Can we be drawn? That is the real and unresolved question. And the public interest—not the astronauts' private interest, however admired they may be—should determine the answer.

What's Behind The Red Split

On Or Off The Record?

The U. S. House of Representatives has unmuzzled itself. By some sort of an agreement reached in the cloakrooms, representatives once more can gain unanimous consent to "revise and extend" their remarks and "include extraneous matter."

For more than a week representatives alternately chewed their fingers and complained indignantly when they were refused unanimous consent to address the House for one minute, or to introduce material into the appendix of the Congressional Record. Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Ohio did most of the objecting, apparently after someone objected to his request for unanimous consent to address the House. In the process he brought out clearly the abuses of a practice which cluttered the Record and its appendix and, in the Record, gave the false impression that a member spoke on the House floor when in actuality he was out playing golf.

The high point in this family controversy was reached when Hays objected to a request from Rep. Bruce Alger of Dallas (made for him on the floor by Rep. Donald L. Short of North Dakota) to extend his remarks in the appendix "in five instances."

He went on to charge that Mr. Alger made a speech earlier today in which he objected to the printing of certain agricultural bulletins and yearbooks, and said that the Congress could save a lot of money if he refused to send them out. Hays also charged his Texas colleague had included enough material in the Record to total $13,000 plus.

The reference was to the cost of approximately $85 a page for matter in the Record and the appendix. The Record itself did not record the reaction of representatives to this unusually sharp criticism of a member.

Having made his point Hays, who alternated in objecting with Rep. Paul C. Jones of Missouri, cut down drastically on his objections.

There is hope (it cannot be said to be very substantial, alas) that both the Record and the appendix will in the future reflect more accurately what really takes place on the floor of the House. There is hope, too, that representatives will be more selective and more disciplined in their entries so as to save taxpayers substantial sums in printing costs.

OLD FRONTIER TRICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The deepening break between the Russians and Red Chinese has left the West as confused about the future as it was when Nikita Khrushchev suddenly repudiated Stalin in 1956. Even Secretary of State John Foster Dulles admitted at the time: "It is too early to judge its full meaning."

The American Communist party said in an editorial in the Daily Worker: "The shattering revelations made by Khrushchev show what a gigantic transformation is taking place in the Soviet Union."

WHAT WAS shattered was the myth of the Russian leadership's infallibility. Around the world Communist parties suffered convulsions. Some were heretical enough to criticize the Kremlin. Russia had to crush Hungary's anti-Red revolt. The Soviet hold on the satellites was weakened, if only a little. But its hold on the Red Chinese was weakened enormously for a reason which may have been overlooked then but isn't now.

While Khrushchev attacked the memory of Stalin at the 20th Party Congress on Feb. 24, 1956, 10 days before that he made suggestions which today are presentational in the Russian-Chinese split.

HE SAID international problems should be solved by negotiation, that war isn't necessary for communism to triumph, and that the West and East should sign a nuclear test ban agreement and even a non-aggression pact.

The Chinese disagree on all counts. And these are the main points they throw at Khrushchev now in their accusation that he is undermining world communism.

But today in Moscow, Americans, Britons and Russians are discussing a test ban. The Americans and Britons are waiting to hear what Khrushchev says on a nonaggression pact. And there have been a number of international negotiations.

Once again around the world Communist parties, watching world communism split into two huge camps, are having some convulsions.

IT SEEMS plain that the Communist parties in the West will go along with Russia; the Asian parties will stick with Red China. Out of this division competition to win over the backward non-Communist countries everywhere is inevitable.

Out of the competition will come conflict of one kind or another between the two worlds of communism. This will take up much of the energy, attention and resources of the two camps. To this extent the West will benefit.

The split may even drive Russia into closer association and cooperation with the West.

But the blessing is not unmixt. The Russians are accusing the Chinese of promoting anti-white racism. From this it can be assumed, if true, that the Chinese will appeal to all the non-white peoples to divide the world into big camps: white and non-white.

THAT'S HORRIBLE enough, but the West must be prepared for another specter.

For a while the Chinese may stay behind their frontiers, leaving the rest of Asia pretty much alone because they are not militarily strong enough to challenge the West or risk a war.

That won't last. They'll develop nuclear weapons, perhaps within two years. It may take them some time longer to complete good delivery systems.

people develops slowly and in many instances can be kept under successful control indefinitely. Diet has no effect.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a bachelor, 45 years old, and was getting acquainted with a girl and was interested in marriage until I found out her age.

How late in life can a girl marry and expect to be able to have a child? At 30, or 35 or 40—J. A.

Many women marry at 30 or 35 and have children; quite a few have babies in the early 40's. After 45 motherhood is much less likely, but it depends on when menopause starts, which may be a few years earlier or later than 45.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has been operated on twice in the last two years. Each time the surgeon warned him to give up drinking. He would quit for several months and then begin again.

The surgeon said his liver has started to "harden." Please advise what will likely happen: The symptoms (he has none now), how long it will take before it really gets him, how long he has to live if he keeps on drinking, etc. The surgeon really scared him the first time, but the scare wore off.

The Daily Mail

Age and volume seem to have an adverse effect on the quality of the stuff the postman brings. When young, you don't usually get much mail. So scarcity makes it equally interesting—whether it is a scented envelope from a pretty stenographer you met on a vacation visit or a rejection of your enlistment in the Peace Corps.

As the years pile on, the mail piles up. The more mail you get, the less there's worthwhile in it.

One of the things you find out about mail as you grow older is that, after you leave college, very, very few people in this world send you money in a letter. They will ask you to send them money in a letter, but they won't send it to you.

Now and then you might catch the government people off guard and get them to send you a tax refund by mail—but that happens more and more seldom as you grow older, too.

The nature of a man's mail seems to be determined largely by his age bracket.

A young businessman at the start of his career is flooded with invitations to borrow from loan agencies, subscribe to naughty art magazines, and join keen groups of guys and gals in a water mad vacation by camel and geyser ski across the Sahara Desert.

As his stomach thickens and his hair thins, he gets more "family-type mail."

This consists of invitations to buy encyclopedias that will save his children from growing up dullards like himself, retirement plans that will enable him to live in Fictious Orgies after 65, and notes from the bank saying that if he doesn't make another mortgage payment he'll come home some night from work and find his wife and kids sitting on the sofa in the sidewalk in the rain.

From 50 to 65, a man finds his mail bulging with invitations to invest in Abyssinian mining stocks, and appeals to join a "select group of your fellow-minded Americans" in a philanthropic crusade to wipe out snail fever in the Middle East.

After 65, the tide of mail slackens off abruptly. Once you are off a regular payroll, it's amazing how few people write to you.

Around The Rim But Please Not Me

Time was when your humble servant was somewhat of a crusader. He saw injustice rampant and, in high dudgeon, avowed he would set things right. He saw squalor and inequality and human rights abused and trampled. These things, he said, must be corrected, and he was just the bright-eyed, auburn haired boy to get the job done.

AFTER HE HAD rammed his head against a stone wall a couple of dozen times, had been threatened with death on several occasions, had been summarily advised by the leaders of the town that they did not appreciate his efforts to make the place a better, cleaner and more honorable community, ("It hurt business") he began to lose the driving zeal which had powered his initial effort.

He came to the disturbing conclusion that everyone wants the bad things in a community corrected—provided (1) that someone else does the correction; (2) that they are in no way personally involved; (3) that whatever corrections may be made must in no manner hamper the business activities of any one and (4) whatever has to be changed must be done without any increase in taxes.

SO, DISILLUSIONED and weary, he pulled off his somewhat dented armor, laid aside his blunted lance and decided to be wise.

OF ALL THINGS, the U. S. Food and Drug Administration is making a Federal case, and a narcotics case at that, out of the morning-glory. Out of this beloved annual vine that, until the government levied charges a few days ago, millions upon millions of American partisans regarded with the same reverence as motherhood, the American Red Cross and baseball!

BUT NOW THE government is investigating charges that the morning-glory, which has never been in trouble before, is guilty of bearing seeds that, when chewed, produce hallucinations, hipster visions and—or intoxicating effects.

This charge makes not gardeners or flower lovers but pushers of every one of us morning-glory aficionados!

In behalf of the defense, I would like to say that I have known the morning-glory intimately since childhood, when it tumbled over our side porch in Caldwell, Idaho, in friendly rivalry with the honeysuckle. I knew it when its only color was blue.

AND I HAVE known and grown in it its later hybrid period as it now comes in a vivid shade of red called "Scarlett O'Hara" and in snowy white, as well as blue. Indeed, for years, I have planted the three together, to form a living red, white and blue banner—a sort of beautiful flowery flag.

Now, the prosecution charges what is patently absurd because it is patently impossible. It charges that persons who are hooked on morning-glory seeds must chew from 250 to 500 seeds to achieve intoxication and hallucinations.

ANYONE WHO has planted morning-glories for as long as I know that the seed is diamond-hard. Nobody, but nobody could chew a morning-glory seed except a citizen with a nutcracker jaw and uppers and lowers of stainless steel. Or, possibly, a concrete mixer.

Instructions on a package of morning-glory seeds almost invariably warn the purchaser, in the interest of hastening germination, to soak the seeds overnight in lukewarm water before planting.

SO FAR, SO GOOD. However, the planting instructions often suggest that it is wise to take a sharp instrument (translation: paring knife) and nick the seed before peeping in the water.

Did you, perchance, every try to nick a BB shot? That is excellent training for attacking a morning-glory seed with a paring knife. There is no quicker way of losing a left thumb and an index finger (always providing you are right-handed; reverse if left-handed) than in attempting to nick a morning-glory seed.

I HAVE LONG skipped that mutilating part of the process and just soak the seeds a few hours longer, as a matter of self-preservation. This is the place to let nature take its course.

As usual, the government is investigating the wrong end of this problem, always providing there is a problem. Uncle Sam ought to be examining anyone with a jaw capable of making a dent on a morning-glory seed. If we are developing an American strain with jaws of iron, it could be very significant; although of what I can't for the life of me deduce at the moment.

FINALLY, before I ignominiously submit to charges of guilt by association with the morning-glory, I intend to organize an M.G. Defense Committee. Forward under the slogan: "In youth it sheltered me, and I'll protect it now!" (Copyright 1963, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

In Defense Of The Morning Glory

The Atmosphere Of Action-Now

WASHINGTON — Sen. Mike Monroney (D-Okl.) is a tall, silvered ex-journalist, lofty of purpose, gifted with gray matter, and co-author of the only modern reorganization of congressional procedures.

Monroney had been talking a little and brooding a lot over the Public Accommodations bill before the Commerce Committee. This bill would make use of the overused interstate commerce clause of the Constitution. It would force virtually all proprietors of private business to serve the public, regardless of the owner's desire to discriminate.

"I'M ALL IN FAVOR of ending discrimination," Monroney told a reporter, who had been observing his meditation from the press table. "But I'm wondering how far this bill is taking us in bringing the federal government into private business. I wouldn't want a situation where the federal government would be licensing, say, plumbers."

Monroney still has a lot of thinking and consulting to do, so it would be unfair to pin him to a premature conclusion. But one of the ideas he's weighing is a constitutional amendment which would outlaw discrimination in places of employment and accommodation, yet not open the door to unlimited federal intervention.

BUT IN THE PRESENT Civil Rights atmosphere of "Action-Now," Monroney's contemplative approach would seem to have little chance. It would take at least two years for Congress and the states to approve a constitutional amendment. It would take this session of Congress and the next to conduct a depth study of how to apply the commerce clause to Civil Rights without inadvertently making it apply to other aspects of business.

The Kennedy administration seemingly can't wait—and the Negro insurrectionists won't wait—that long.

IN A LATE afternoon Senate session, with only himself on the floor, and with the President's brother in the chair, Hubert Humphrey filled six columns of the Congressional Record with a rabble-rousing harangue that was more like the radical young agitator of ten years past than the respected and mature veteran of parliamentary affairs that Humphrey has become. His fiery diatribe was not meant for his colleagues, who weren't around to hear him, but it will doubtless go through the mails and add fuel to the flames of demagoguery which are already licking the edges of our cities.

HUMPHREY, acting floor leader in the absence of Mike Mansfield, quoted an advertisement columnist to attack the Senate itself. "What kind of a legislative body is it that cannot or will not legislate?" He jeered at the "bleeding of the hearts" of fellow senators who, earlier in the day, had spoken against the slave state of Cuba. He threatened Congress with the warning that the best way to prevent a massive Negro demonstration next month would be to pass the Civil Rights package —now.

PLAINLY THIS IS a bad time of history for the contemplative legislator, of whom Monroney is not the only exemplar. It is a bad time for the reflective citizen who might hope for something better than laws passed in haste and repented in leisure.

In the atmosphere of "Action-Now," it's devil take the hindmost, alias those Americans who might want time to think these matters through.

Billy Graham

In the years before I found Christ, I developed many habits that I find impossible to break. At times I become so discouraged and feel like giving up. Can you help me? —N. K.

Some habits can be broken by a simple act of the will. Just determine that they will never be repeated, even once. Never allow an exception to occur. Provide as much as is possible, something to take the place of the habit, whatever it may be. These three things are essential; the resolve, allow no exception, and provide a substitute.

There are those habits that defy every usual method of breaking. Remember that what is impossible with man is still possible with God. Such habits are not usually broken by resolution or determination, but rather by submission and surrender. When you submit to God in an act of faith, you give him the opportunity to come into your life and into your problem. He is far greater than you, and will take your weak will and make it strong through His might and power. Recognize your weakness, and commit it to God through Christ, who will undertake for you. You are strongest when you surrender.

Strategy On Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON—No one in these deeply troubled times accuses the Congress of any pronounced skill in political engineering. With all its antiquarian inheritance of seniority, not to say senility, it becomes a favorite whipping boy for every failure.

But some careful strategic planning has gone into preparing for passage of the President's far-reaching civil rights program. If it can be pulled off, and at this point there is considerable optimism, the program will be adopted in its basic form, including the public accommodation provision.

AN IMPORTANT element in the strategy is timing. The threat hanging so darkly in the air has been a coincidence of events. The massive civil rights demonstration in Washington on August 28 would occur as the Senate was caught up in the emotional tension of a filibuster. Tempers would be strained by prolonged sessions and inflammatory speech-making.

The Negro demonstrators would react to these emotions as the extremists feared the flames for their own personal and ambitious ends. The peril, legislative leaders have said in private, is that with a demonstration getting out of hand the Congress would simply go home. That would leave a vacuum to be filled by increasing violence growing out of a sense of hopelessness and frustration.

THE PLAN IS to have the civil rights measure acted on first in the House. The bill—hopefully it would come up after the House has acted on a tax cut—could be cleared by late August or early September. Speaker John McCormack and Majority Leader Carl Albert have told the President that this is not beyond the bounds of possibility. They are cautiously optimistic.

Then the measure, as passed by the House, would come before the Senate. The strategy is to pass virtually the same bill. By resisting amendments and holding to the straight line of the basic program obstructionism can be kept to a minimum. Under this plan the moment of

Leukemia In Old People May Be Controlled

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: When a woman of 70 has a white corpuscle count of 85,000 has leukemia developed? My red corpuscle count is still real good. Is there a medicine that will control the white count so it will not increase? Is there a diet that will help? What is the difference between the kind of leukemia that affects old people and the kind that attacks young people?—MRS. T. D.

That white count is highly suggestive of leukemia, but other blood studies are necessary to determine the type.

Leukemia among older people usually is a chronic form of the disease, and is called lymphatic leukemia. Various medications and sometimes X-ray treatment usually control these cases quite well.

The acute leukemia which is more prevalent in children and young people attacks a different type of white cell—that is to say, there is an immense increase in the number of cells and they do not develop correctly. Rather, they are immature, imperfect cells.

In the acute cases, use of some extremely powerful drugs (cortisone, 6-mercaptopurine, etc.) can prolong life for a while, but that is the best that can be said of this very tragic disease.

The chronic leukemia of older people develops slowly and in many instances can be kept under successful control indefinitely. Diet has no effect.

Good-Risk Convicts

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State penal authorities report success with their new Reasonable Assurance Release Program.

The plan allows good-risk convicts to be paroled even if a job is immediately forthcoming. A sponsor is needed—someone to furnish room and board for up to 45 days while the inmate seeks employment.

Of 39 convicts released in the past few months, officials say, only two have been returned.

Woman Of '63 Is Announced

Mrs. Alice Sellers was named Woman of the Year for the Cactus Chapter of American Business Women's Association during an awards dinner Monday night at the Downtown Tea Room.

Mrs. Sellers came to Big Spring in 1959 from the Ora Negra Chapter, Abilene, to become a charter member of the Cactus Chapter. She served as president of the chapter in 1961-62 and was instrumental in bringing new members.

Her perfect attendance this year to the local meetings is augmented by her various trips to the national and district meetings.

Her travels for the group include:

A national convention in Memphis, Tenn., and district meetings in Odessa, and Albuquerque, N.M. At the Albuquerque meeting, she served as scrap book judge. When the Cactus Chapter sponsored a new chapter in Snyder, Mrs. Sellers served as installing officer. She also served on the ways and means committee of the local group.

Aside from her chapter duties, Mrs. Sellers owns and manages a children's shop. Before going into business for herself, she spent five years as supervisor for the junior department of a chain department store. Later she spent 13 years as buyer for the store.

While at these posts, she took extension courses at the University of Texas on sales and public relations.

FAMILY AND HOME
Grandmother of nine, she is also a member of the Church of Christ and Chamber of Commerce. For recreation she reads and swims and would like to travel more after retirement. Mrs. Sellers makes her home with her grandson and mother at 404 Westover St.

Charms were presented to the other members being honored by the group. Mrs. Caribel Laughlin received a charm for her activities as president for the past year.

For perfect attendance during the year, Mrs. A. C. Moore, Mrs. Eunice Hickson, Mrs. Mary Schulte and Mrs. C. L. Rowe also received charms.

The next meeting is set for Aug. 19.

Lemon Mayonnaise

Ever thin mayonnaise with a little lemon juice and heat gently over hot water? Makes a quick pleasant sauce for canned asparagus.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Dear Heloise: I throw my metal brush hair curlers in hot suds and swish them around and rinse them well. I dry them in the hot sun on newspaper.

And let's remember, we use these between shampoos when our hair is not perfectly clean and germ-free, so do not put them into freshly washed hair unless they are clean.

If your hair dries out before it gets all rolled up, run the curler under water and then use it. It's easier than rewetting the hair.

And dear Heloise, I use mole skin (ladies, it's a type of plaster such as we use for corns on our feet and can be bought at any drug store) and attach pieces to the bottom of my vases, ash trays, and any items that are likely to slide across a varnished or painted surface, and it prevents damage to furniture.

I also stick some on the bottom of those irksome metal containers that are apt to rust rings in cupboards, or on shelves.

Mrs. Mitchell

Dear Heloise: I have often wondered what to do with angel, sponge and similar cakes and cookies that are left over and dried out.

I have learned that these leftovers are wonderful when used to use everyday, put them in large fruit jars, and seal with a screw top.

Your silver will always be bright, and you can see what you are reaching for... also you can save many a precious minute ordinarily needed to unwrap silver... let alone clean it.

Dear Heloise: Is it true that you can add a lump of sugar to olive oil and it will prevent it from going rancid?

The couple flew to Lexington, Ky., where they were met by their son, EUGENE, who took them on an automobile trip through the mountains and back to Charleston, W. Va. When they had completed their visit with their son, they flew back to Dallas for a short stay in the home of MR. and MRS. SID CARPENTER who live in Grand Prairie, and then spent five days in Breckenridge with Mrs. Carpenter's mother, MRS. C. B. SEARS. They returned to Big Spring by train.

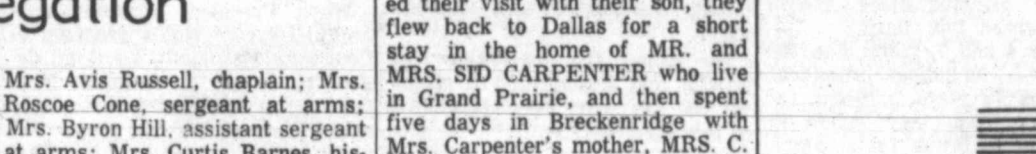

I firmly believe that if one lets it be known where he is from on vacation trips, he will always find a person who knows someone in his home town.

While visiting in Little Rock we attended a Little League ball game in which Paul Parsons, who incidentally, came home with us, was playing. His coach is EUGENE HUNDLEY who is with the Veteran's Administration and with whom former resident CARLETON CARR once worked. Also he was MRS. ARA CUNNINGHAM's supervisor when they were both located in Bonham. Also we talked with Scott Farrell who mentioned he had a few days before met a Big Spring couple, MR. and MRS. BOB TRAVIS. As tourists are wont to do, we stopped to buy some honey at a specialty shop some miles out of

Sports Of Husbands Required

NEW YORK (AP)—Sports wear is so dreadfully expensive; says its designer John Weitz blushing, that it requires a good sport of a husband to finance it. He was shown Sunday to the nation's fashion writers.

Among the items were the world's ritziest track suits, the chicest judo suit for home defense, the sharkiest fisherman's coat and undoubtedly the dandiest smoking jacket.

The event was the second day of fall fashion previews which are a part of an American Designer Series arranged by Eleanor Lambert. Miss Lambert formerly directed the semiannual press week activities of the New York Couture Group which just completed its six-day schedule of fashion reviews.

Obviously, loafing will be an important sport borrowed from the Regency era if wife's velvet loafing costumes are widely copied, as they are likely to be.

Later, fashion writers paid a visit to the home of Mollie Parnis, favorite designer to the former First Lady, Mamie Eisenhower. Miss Parnis was in Moscow attending a film festival but a telegram of greeting and her fall collection were at home.

The collection consisted of both high-bosom costumes with flaring skirts and low-slung waistlines under shaped bodices. The collection included secret pockets, leather-belted suit skirts and ring collars that turned out to be separate scarfs, and quilted fabrics in classical silhouette for formal wear.

A "Texas-size" fish landed by L. K. GLADDEN at the Queen Harbor Yacht Club, Jacksonville, Fla., won for him the prize money in the largest fish competition. The fish measured 3 feet 7 inches. It weighed 15 1/2 pounds, and will be mounted and sent to him from Miami, Fla.

NEWS BRIEFS

DALLAS (AP)—The government may use the contract post office program as an indirect means to encourage privately-supported colleges to drop race bars, the Times Herald said today.

The pressure would be brought under the Post Office Department's new anti-discrimination policy which forbids discrimination of any kind on the premises where a contract post office is located, federal sources said.

An official said this edict could "most assuredly" be applied to college student unions on all-white campuses, for instance, and could result in a school being without its own post office.

More Screwworm Cases Reported

Four confirmed cases, and one believed certain of confirmation, have brought the spring and summer total of proved screwworm infections in Howard County to 16, Herb Helbig, county farm agent, said today.

Ed Carpenter, Vincent, brought in a sample today which Helbig said is undoubtedly a screwworm case.

Earlier, cases on the Charles Creighton ranch, west of town; the E. T. O'Daniel ranch, 18 miles east on the Snyder Highway; J. E. Norris ranch, 10 miles north of Big Spring, and the Noble Kerner ranch, one mile south and a mile west of Elbow, have proved screwworm infections. Air drop of sterile male screwworm flies have either been made on the places or will be made this week, Helbig said.

He urged all ranchers to continue the lookout for cases of infection.

By the time Robinson and Jackson returned, 500 Negroes had gathered outside, facing a force of Guardsmen.

Jackson hoisted Robinson, a diminutive man, on his shoulders and Robinson told the crowd: "Our people are being released, so we won't march tonight."

The Negroes dispersed and shortly thereafter the 14 were returned to Cambridge.

Mrs. Richardson promptly told newsmen: "There will be another demonstration at 3 p.m. tomorrow."

Release of the 14 brought this comment from Dr. Arthur Parker, president of the city council: "I'm very much disappointed. If this type of (Negro) leadership could be neutralized, things could be brought back to normal more quickly."

At Annapolis, Gov. Tawes met with officials of Cambridge, Dorchester County, the National Guard, state police and others.

At the Judiciary Committee hearing, Ervin reviewed each of the seven parts of the administration's omnibus bill and denounced the whole package as unconstitutional, undesirable and unnecessary.

He called the legislation "as drastic and indefensible a proposal as has ever been submitted to this Congress."

Much of Ervin's criticism was directed at the public accommodations provision, with which the committee is dealing as a separate measure. Ervin said it is "condemned by its manifest unconstitutionality."

Ervin also argued that liberty is being destroyed in a drive for equality and that "the rights of all are being sacrificed for the special rights of a few."

Long contended the proposed legislation does not seek to create any right that does not already exist.

Market Enjoys Mild Rebound

NEW YORK (AP)—Motors, steels, and airlines were higher as the stock market rebounded mildly early this afternoon. Trading was light.

Most gains of key stocks were fractional, a few going to a point or so. Recoveries by some of the volatile "glamour" issues went to about 2 points.

Rails were irregularly lower, reflecting the overhanging uncertainty of the unsettled labor dispute in the railroad industry. Utilities were uneven. Brokers said the trend toward higher interest rates was depressing sentiment toward these issues which base much of their attraction on their dividend income.

The Associate Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 2 at 269.6 with industrials up 4, rails off 3, and utilities up 1.

A few last minute appeals were heard by the board Monday. Other than for these actions, the court held a routine session.

Sand Is Heavy, Rain Is Light

A severe sandstorm, which moved across the county around 9 p.m. Monday, caused some damage to cotton, according to Herb Helbig, county farm agent. The dust, which was one of the most severe in recent weeks, was trailed by light rains. Some parts of the county got dust only; others showers and dust. All portions of the county shared equally in the blowing sand.

The dust was dense enough to cut visibility sharply for a time and made driving on county roads difficult.

The heaviest rain reported officially seems to be around .10 inch. There were reports, which could not be confirmed, up to .50 inch. Most parts of town got either just a sprinkle or, at best, around .05 to .07 inch.

Five miles north of town, no rain fell but cotton was given a searing by the sand. Vincent had no rain but had some cotton damage due to sand, according to Ed Carpenter.

The U.S. Experiment station gauge showed .03 inch rain.

Utility companies reported no difficulties developing from the wind and sand.

Water Usage Is Remaining High

Water consumption in Big Spring dropped below nine million gallons Monday when 8,151,000 gallons were registered. The high day for the year was July 10 when 10,322,000 gallons were used. Readings went over nine millions on five days, and the July total through Monday went to 124,345,000 gallons, or an average of 8,289,600 per day.

Beginning with the July 11 reading, water metered includes: 9,814,000; July 12, 9,387,000; July 13, 9,032,000; July 14, 9,995,000, and July 15, 8,151,000 gallons.

The weather forecast indicates that the next two days will be extremely hot with temperatures running from 100 to 105 degrees. This should continue to keep water usage high.

Pool Hall Ordinance Is Discussed By Commission

An ordinance regulating pool halls was discussed at a called breakfast meeting of the city commission today at Coker's Restaurant. Pool halls became legal Aug. 23 in Texas. The ordinance sets up procedures for securing licenses for operation, sets the time for expiration, provides for investigation of a building before it is approved for a pool hall, provides investigation of those making applications, and sets out zones in which pool halls may be located.

Dawson Gins Ask For Test Service

LAMESA (SC) - Twenty-one gins in Dawson County have applied for the U. S. Department of Agriculture's new micronaire cotton testing service. More than half of the gins in the Lubbock cotton classing service territory asked for the service.
Cost of the micronaire service is eight cents per sample. Ginners will be billed for the service and may include it with the cost of ginning as a separate fee or as an additional customer service.

Lamesa Installs Wind Indicator

LAMESA (SC) - A wind indicator meeting specifications of the FAA has been installed at Lamesa Municipal Airport by the aviation committee of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce.
The illuminated wind cone cost about $200. Manufactured locally, the cone is designed to be easily visible and is illuminated at night by three lights above it. Primarily a pilot aid, the cone is much larger and easier to see than the wind indicator formerly used at the airport.
The cone is 36 inches in diameter, 16 feet above and has a base of 17 feet above ground level. The lights are controlled by a photoelectric eye, 10 feet above the cone.

Rape Charges

DALLAS (AP) - Police filed rape charges against a Negro Monday in a knife-wielding sex attack on a white girl, 16, Thursday.
John Hornsby, 32, was named as the assailant who held a knife at the throat of the teen-ager in her home and raped her twice. The girl was hurt alone.

Steward Goes Back To Prison To Await Trial

James Monroe Steward 37, under indictment for the murder Dec. 1, 1961, of Travis R. Hicks, 37, is on his way back to the state penitentiary today.
Steward has been in Howard County jail since Jan. 11 of this year. Prior to that, he spent some time in the Martin County jail. He was brought to Howard County from the state penitentiary where he was serving six years for burglary.
He has been held here since January, and is now being taken back to prison because the district attorney's office announced it cannot say when he can be tried. No date for a trial is planned in the foreseeable future, the office stated.

Miller Harris, sheriff, took the convict back to prison and filed a hold order for him with the prison officials. This will make the man available any time the courts here desire to go to trial with the case.
Hicks, an itinerant electrician, was last seen alive sometime around the last of November, 1961. His badly decayed body was found by a farm worker Sept. 1, 1962, in a lonely field, just across the Martin County line. Investigations led to charging Steward with the slaying. It is alleged that Hicks was shot to death in a Big Spring motor court and his body hauled to the place where it was found.
Harris will deliver Steward to the prison and take custody of Homer Gene Whitaker, another convict, who is wanted here on forgery charges. He will return Whitaker to the county jail.

Policeman Quits, Cites Low Pay

Big Spring Police Patrolman Ed Kenemer has submitted his resignation to Chief Jay Banks, effective July 31. Banks said Tuesday morning, Kenemer has been with the department since June 23, 1962. He stated, in his letter of resignation, that it was necessary for him to secure other employment to provide for his family.
"Kenemer came to us from the Air Force where he served with the air police," Banks said. "He has been a good officer."
"He has received a lot of training with the police department and we sincerely regret losing him, not only from an efficiency standpoint, but because it costs the city a lot of money to train good officers," Banks continued. "He has asked to continue voluntary work as a reserve patrolman and we are fortunate to have him."

Motor Patrol To Ride At Snyder

The Shrine Motor Patrol of Big Spring will ride in the Snyder Rodeo parade Wednesday and give an exhibition of intricate maneuvers on the town square.
The Shrine riders will be in full dress and have their color guard for the exhibition on white motor scooters. Jay Banks is captain of the patrol.

Rocky Losing In N. Jersey

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's formerly excellent chances of getting New Jersey's 40 votes at the 1964 GOP convention appear to be dissolving in a trend toward an unstructured delegation.

While New Jersey Republicans traditionally go to the convention at least nominally uncommitted, until Rockefeller's remarriage to a divorced mother of four children it was expected they would swing to the New Yorker the first chance they got. Now whom they will support seems up in the air.

The evident disengagement of New Jersey Republicans appears to be part of a pattern of collapsing strength in the Eastern industrial state complex Rockefeller had expected to form the foundation for his nomination bid.

HALTING TREND

Rockefeller's weekend thundering at the Republican fight was interpreted as aimed at halting this trend and at re-establishing himself as the candidate of the heavy electoral vote states.

In his blast, Rockefeller said the strategy of supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., is to try to win the presidency with Southern and Western electoral votes while writing off the North—a strategy the New Yorker said "would not only defeat the Republican party in 1964 but would destroy it altogether."

Monday night, at Massena, N.Y., Rockefeller said he was concerned that Goldwater might become the captive of "the extreme elements in his following." And, he added, it "should be of the greatest possible concern to Barry himself."

"I have great respect for Barry's patriotism and dedication to political life, and he is a personal friend of mine," Rockefeller said in a question-answer session following a speech to the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors. But, Rockefeller said the implications of what he called extremist forces in the Goldwater camp must be considered "in terms of the future of our party."

DENIES STRATEGY

Goldwater, who was not mentioned by name in Rockefeller's weekend statement, denied Monday in an interview that he ever advocated the strategy ascribed to him. And, the Arizonan said, he regards Rockefeller's attack as "just his formal declaration of candidacy."

Neither Rockefeller nor Goldwater has said he is seeking the nomination.

Republicans have "got to go after every available vote in the big cities and everywhere else," Goldwater said. He added that he wasn't giving up on the Negro vote although he thought it would be "very difficult" for the Republicans to get it.

The Negro vote is heavy in New Jersey but even Rockefeller's strong stand on civil rights does not appear to be offsetting the political damage done to him there by his remarriage.

Former Sen. H. Alexander Smith, the patriarch of the New Jersey Republican party, has criticized Rockefeller sharply for his remarriage.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., who thought in March that Rockefeller was the only serious contender for the nomination and that he "would have no difficulty supporting him," has confined himself recently to saying cautiously that the governor has damaged himself politically.

BECOMES SILENT

GOP national committeeman Bernard M. Shanley, who was saying months ago that Rockefeller was certain to get New Jersey's support, has become silent.

The state's Republican county chairmen have agreed among themselves that it would be best to have an unstructured delegation which could look over the field at the convention before committing itself.

Tradition seems likely to rule out Case as a favorite son candidate, although he undoubtedly would have the delegation's enthusiastic support if developments indicated he could emerge as the man around whom the anti-Goldwater forces could rally.

Case said recently he was pleased that he was being considered in some quarters as a potential "liberal thinking" candidate. But he added he was "not a candidate in the sense that I am going out and beating the bushes and spending my money or anybody else's money for the job."

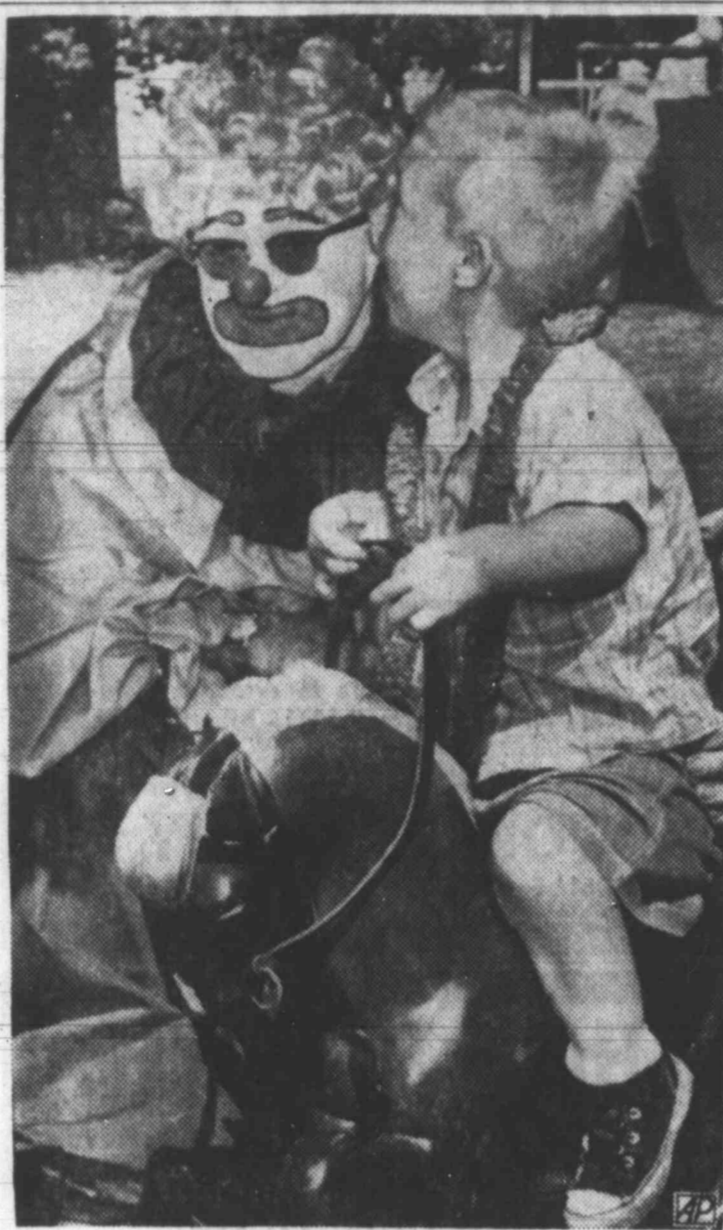

OPEN QUESTION

Case called it "still an open question" whether Goldwater will turn more moderate or "whether he is going to represent what some of the people who were for him hope that he'll represent, that is the extreme right wing or reaction."

Rockefeller is expected to follow up his assault on the Republican right by championing civil rights at the national governors' conference beginning Sunday at Miami Beach.

He has submitted to Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison of Nebraska, chairman of the conference's resolutions committee, a resolution calling for establishment of a committee of 5 to 11 governors to "recommend" administrative ways for states and local governments to better carry out responsibilities in the civil rights area.

Monday night, a Southern Democratic governor, George C. Wallace of Alabama, said he would do all in his power to keep Rockefeller from using the conference as a forum to "further his personal political ambitions by trying to out-Kennedy President Kennedy" on civil rights.

State Suit Asks Reapportionment

HOUSTON (AP)—A suit filed Monday by five Democrats asks the U.S. District Court to reapportion Texas legislative districts according to population.

The suit also asks a halt to any elections in the state until the reapportionment is carried out.

"When people from big cities are represented with less votes than people from rural areas, they are deprived of due process of law," said State Rep. Bob Eckhardt of Houston, one of those filing the suit.

Other plaintiffs are Bill Kilgallon, Harris County Democratic chairman; State Sen. Frank Spears and State Rep. Jake Johnson of San Antonio, and State Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth.

Defendants are Gov. John Connally, Secretary of State Crawford Martin, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, State Republican Chairman Peter O'Donnell, Harris County Judge Bill Elliott and County Clerk R. E. Turrentine.

The suit describes present apportionment provisions for the legislature as discriminatory.

"In Texas, with a population of about 9.5 million people, Harris County has about 1.25 million which barely entitles us to 19 representatives out of 150 rather than the 12 we have and about four senators rather than one," Eckhardt said.

He said the present apportionment system in Texas is a violation of the 14th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution.

In March, 1962, the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that Tennessee citizens had the right to challenge the apportionment of their state legislature, Eckhardt said.

Another reapportionment suit was filed two months ago by five Harris County Republicans, also in federal court. It seeks reapportionment of congressional districts in Texas.

U. S. Dist. Judge Allen Hanay has been assigned the case, but the suit requests a three-

Voter Registrar Is Given Choice

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The voter registrar at Hattiesburg, Miss., has until July 30 to obey a federal court order or go to jail.

The choice was given to Theron C. Lynd, 43, Monday when he was convicted of civil contempt by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Lynd declined to comment on the decision.

To stay out of jail, Lynd must register 43 Negroes, rejected as incapable of passing the voter test, and show he no longer discriminates against Negro applicants.

If he doesn't meet the July 30 deadline, he'll go to jail until he does comply.

Patient Little Coon

While one racoon drinks milk from a baby's bottle, another waits patiently perched on the shoulder of Margery Gould at Richmond, Maine. The baby racoons were found a month ago whimpering in a farm shed of Nell Bishop, who couldn't find the mother. Bishop took over spoon-feeding the twins and now the racoons drink heartily from a bottle. The farmer has applied to the Inland Fisheries and Game Department for a permit to keep the orphans.

Canada Studies Action Against Union Leader

OTTAWA (AP)—Labor Minister Allen V. MacEachen today studied a judicial inquiry's recommendation that maritime union leader Hal C. Banks be run out of office and that a three-man trusteeship take over the waterfront unions to bring peace to shipping on the Great Lakes.

Banks, 54-year-old ex-convict, is president of the Seafarer's International Union (SIU) of Canada. He is paid $20,000 a year, and gets another $20,000 in expenses and a new Cadillac each year.

Justice T. G. Norris of the British Columbia Court of Appeals assailed Banks in a 318-page investigation of labor strife and shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes.

Banks, a native of Waterloo, Iowa, is "capable, decisive, egocentric, intolerant and ruthless," Justice Norris said.

"He is a bully, cruel, dishonest, greedy, power-hungry, contemptuous of the law."

The judge also charged that Banks has the support of U.S. gangster elements in holding dictatorial sway over sailors and shipowners alike.

Banks said, "It isn't true."

Norris also suggested that the government look into the possibility of deporting Banks and pressing criminal charges of conspiracy, intimidation and coercion against him.

The judge noted that Banks entered Canada in 1949 and obtained the status of a landed immigrant but had been denied Canadian citizenship because he served time in California's San Quentin Prison on a bad check charge.

MacEachen said it would be up to the Justice Ministry to file criminal charges. The labor minister said he would study Norris' other recommendations and proposals would be submitted to the Cabinet.

MacEachen also promised renewed efforts to resume talks with U.S. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, AFL-CIO President George Meany and President Claude J. J. Connors of the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) to bring labor peace to the Great Lakes.

Red China Jabs Soviets, Calls For Asian Support

TOKYO (AP)—Indirectly criticizing the Soviet Union, Red China Monday broadcast a call to Communist nations around the world to support Red Guerrillas fighting in South Viet Nam.

The call was made by Kuo Mo-jo, vice chairman of the Standing Committee of the Chinese National People's Congress and chairman of the China Peace Committee.

"It is the internationalist duty of all socialist (Communist) countries to give all-round support and assistance to the people of South Viet Nam in their revolutionary struggle," he said.

Speaking at a rally in Peking, Kuo said "certain persons"—obviously, the Russians—are "embellishing U.S. imperialism and trying to induce the revolutionary people to harbor illusions about it."

JFK May Not See March

WASHINGTON (AP)—There was speculation today that President Kennedy may be in Texas to help celebrate Vice President Lyndon Johnson's birthday during a massive demonstration planned here Aug. 28 by Negro integrationists.

Democrats are toying with the idea of making Johnson's 56th birthday Aug. 27 the occasion for a big party fund raising affair. It probably would be held on Johnson's Texas ranch.

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said Monday he knew of no definite plan for Kennedy to go to Texas. Nevertheless he appeared not to discourage speculation that such a trip was a possibility.

Some sources said the fund raising phase of the Johnson birthday celebration might be delayed until fall because many people take vacations in August.

Another factor that may be holding up a decision on a Texas trip is the birth of President and Mrs. Kennedy's third child, expected the latter part of August.

Asked whether Kennedy might visit other places in Texas, Salinger said he knew of no such plans.

If Kennedy goes to Texas for Johnson's birthday, he presumably would remain overnight and not return until after the Negro demonstration.
