FOR CIVIL RIGHTS

Christians Urged To Join In March

By The Associated Press

Calls for thousands of white Christians to join in the civil rights march on Washington next month were sounded Saturday in Chicago at a national meeting of Catholics.

The appeal came from both Catholic and Protestant leaders, who appeared before an audience of laymen and clergy at an emergency conference of representatives of 57 Catholic interdenominational councils across the nation.

Dr. Robert Spike, director of the Commission on Religion and Race of the National Council of Churches, said his congregations will participate in the march, planned for Aug. 28 to encourage adoption of civil rights legislation.

Mathew Ahmann, executive director of the National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice, sponsors of the meeting, said he planned to lead a delegation from his church in the march.

In Brooklyn, a civil rights group led by a Negro minister announced "total mobilization" of the Negro community, including children, to protest alleged job discrimination against nonwhites in the construction trades.

However, the Rev. William A. Jones, coordinator of Job Opportunities for Brooklyn, retreated on "total mobilization" of the Negro community, including children, to protest alleged job discrimination against nonwhites in the construction trades.

However, the Rev. William A. Jones, coordinator of Job Opportunities for Brooklyn, retreated on an earlier claim that 20,000 children might march in the borough Monday.

A hospital construction site there has been the scene of mass demonstrations and arrests the last 10 days.

In Los Angeles, the executive director of the National Urban League said that unless Negroes receive "realistic reparation for past injuries and wrongs" equal opportunity will remain a figure of speech.

Whitney M. Young Jr. made the statement at a news conference prior to Sunday's opening of the league's annual convention.

Motion picture actor Marlon Brando joined more than 120 civil rights demonstrators in Torrance, Calif., where they picketed a white housing tract. Before his arrival about a dozen Negro pickets were arrested during an attempted sit-in.

Negro and white college students at Huntington, W. Va., staged demonstrations for more civil liberties in that area.

A Negro leader said in Topeka, Kan., that the state discriminated against his race in employment and warned that protests might not always be peaceful if the practice continued.

In Seattle, real estate spokesmen objected to a biracial "operation windowshop" which is scheduled to start Sunday. The operation is an inspection of homes for sale or rent designed to promote open housing for Negroes.

Train Reports Narrow Brush With Death

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Passengers from a tourist-crowded express train from Athens, missing in the southern Yugoslav earthquake disaster area, arrived in Belgrade Saturday with all reported safe after a narrow brush with death.

Their Athens-Cologne Hellas Express had just pulled into the station in Skopje when the earthquake struck that city at dawn Friday. The station building collapsed, and persons waiting to board were struck down by falling debris only 10 yards from the train itself.

However, the train was undamaged, and no one aboard was reported injured.

The express pulled out of Skopje for Belgrade soon after the devastating upheaval, but railway officials ordered it to a siding north of Skopje.

For the next 24 hours, emergency trains carrying relief supplies were given priority.

Finally, a second Hellas Express picked up the passengers and carried them to Belgrade.

COL. H. J. WITHYCOMBE Webb's Commander Nominated For Star

Col. Howard J. Withycombe was due in at Webb this weekend to assume command of the 2560th Pilot Training Wing, and he was arriving with a bright new distinction—being nominated for Brigadier General.

Colonel Withycombe was one of 18 Air Force colonels whose names have been presented by the President to the Senate for confirmation to one-star rank. He was the only Air Training Command officer in the group.

Webb Air Force Base (or properly, the Pilot Training Wing) a few months ago was designated as a facility to have a brigadier general as commanding officer. Col. Withycombe—when his promotion becomes effective—will be the first officer of such rank here.

The new commander is assuming duties Monday. While Mrs. Withycombe will be here for a couple of days this week checking on their new quarters, she will not join the colonel permanently for a few weeks.

Colonel Withycombe has been chief of staff at the Air Force Academy since July, 1960. He is rated a Command Pilot with more than 5,000 hours. He served briefly at the Big Spring Bombardier School in 1942.

Over 600 Found In Grim Search

SKOPJE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Workers shrugged off the fright of new tremors and danger-laden debris early Sunday as they recovered additional dead in this quake-devastated city.

The count of recovered dead passed the 600 mark as workers expressed belief that an additional 500 bodies still remained under the wreckage left by Friday's killer quake.

First planes in an emergency aid convoy of U.S. Air Force planes arrived in Belgrade from Wiesbaden, Germany, Saturday night. They brought with them material for a military hospital to be set up for the thousands of injured.

The casualty count rose inexorably as rescue crews pressed their grim task of digging through ruins of countless buildings.

Eight Americans, the only persons from the United States known to have been in the area, emerged from the catastrophe safe and sound.

Red Cross authorities estimated 2,000 persons may have perished in this Macedonian metropolis and tourist center of 270,000 persons. A city official expressed fear the toll may reach 6,000.

With medical supplies and other aid streaming in from abroad, field hospitals treated more than 2,000 injured.

President Tito flew in for a first-hand look at what was left of the fourth largest city in his nation of 19 million. He saw desolation, a wasteland, pain and anguish.

The American survivors made their way to Belgrade, the Yugoslav capital 210 miles northwest of Skopje.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Nocella of Willow Grove, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. John Bobinec and their daughter, Julianne, of Warren, Mich.; Dr. Bernard Phillips, a Boston University sociology professor; and two of his graduate students, David Rheubottom and his wife, Shirley, of Lansing, Mich.

"The quake was terrible, really terrible," said Phillips, 32. "You were left standing, but they were really ruined."

The Hotel Macedonia, a four-story stone structure, collapsed on its sleeping guests. Officials said 260 persons—Yugoslavs and foreigners—died there. Also demolished was the Hotel Skopje, another four-story stone building. The toll there remained undetermined. The Jadran was among structures that came through with less damage.

Fear of infection and epidemics led to orders for the burial of all bodies immediately after their recovery. Those not identified were photographed, if still recognizable, for possible identification later.

Government officials announced soon after noon that 600 bodies had been recovered. Dazed survivors worked with soldiers, police and firemen in the quest for other victims, living and dead.

Medicines and material poured in from nearby countries—from Greece, Austria, Switzerland. A 13-man group of doctors and surgeons came from Sweden.

President Kennedy pledged American help and U.S. forces in Europe acted to get 20,000 pounds of medicine and 6,000 pounds of blankets flown in.

Harriman Says Bomb Can Still Be Used In War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Commerce Committee cut short a hearing Saturday on President Kennedy's rail legislation with a plea that both sides get down to serious collective bargaining.

In recessing the hearing until Monday, Acting Chairman John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said he thinks "a better purpose would be served" by giving the carriers and the brotherhoods time to negotiate.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz announced in advance that as soon as the hearing was over he would resume meetings begun Friday night in a renewed effort to work out an agreement.

The only witness the committee heard was H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (AFL-CIO), who strongly opposed Kennedy's proposal as a form of compulsory arbitration.

Under the measure, the 4-year dispute over job-cutting work rules proposed by the railroads would be turned over to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Harriman Says Bomb Can Still Be Used In War

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—W. Averell Harriman said Saturday night the test ban treaty initiated in Moscow is "a very important first step" in improved East-West relations, and that it in no way inhibits the use of nuclear weapons in war.

Harriman, undersecretary of state for political affairs, held a news conference after making a report to President Kennedy on his talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Harriman returned just Saturday from Moscow, where he was the chief U.S. negotiator of the treaty to ban atmospheric, space and underwater nuclear tests.

He brought a personal message from Khrushchev to Kennedy. He declined to characterize its tone or to divulge its contents.

One official described it as "very friendly."

Harriman's 12-minute news conference followed a 90-minute meeting with Kennedy at the summer White House on Squaw Island.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and William C. Foster, director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, were among the conferees.

Rusk is expected to go to Moscow late next week for the formal signing of the test ban agreement which Harriman initiated on behalf of the United States.

Harriman said questions of whether the agreement would interfere with use of nuclear weapons in actual war were "spoken of quite openly" in the Moscow talks, but that the language of the treaty makes it clear that it "in no way inhibits the use of nuclear weapons in war."

It is a test ban treaty, and there is no basis for a conclusion of that type, Harriman said.

He said there were no detailed discussions about the attitude of Red China and France to the test ban treaty. Neither nation is expected to sign it.

Harriman said he did not discuss in detail with Khrushchev the subjects of Berlin, or a non-aggression pact.

The matter of halting hostilities in Laos was discussed, Harriman said. He called the exchange of talk "useful but inconclusive."

Harriman said it was not his province on this occasion to discuss Cuba or Berlin "but only to discuss the test ban."

Reporting to the nation Friday night on the treaty, Kennedy called the limited test ban agreement "an important first step—a step toward peace—a step toward reason—a step away from war."

TULSA FLOODED Rainmaker Tries To Halt Rain

TULSA (AP) — A record rainstorm flooded Tulsa Saturday and a mysterious rainmaker who had promised to bring showers said he would try to turn off the downpour.

Nearly eight inches of rain fell, mostly in torrential showers during mid-morning. The 7.50 inches recorded officially by the Weather Bureau topped a 7.30 inch rain in May of 1943 as the most rain in a 24-hour period. Downtown the Weather Bureau said 8.00 inches fell.

Streets throughout the city were awash and police asked boat owners to volunteer for rescue work. Some families left low areas.

Dozens of underpasses were flooded, cars stalled in deep water throughout the city and at least 14 fires were reported started by lightning. Numerous scattered power failures were reported.

At one point, the fire department reported "every truck in town" was out on a call. Off-duty police were called in and some Civil Defense workers turned out to aid evacuations.

The "rainmaker" who had vowed Thursday to bring at least two inches of rain to Tulsa within 72 hours, said he had never tried to stop rain once it started, but added, "I believe it (his process) would work in reverse."

He agreed to try to stop — or at least slow down — the rainfall.

The rainmaker keeps his identity and his method secret.

The Weather Bureau had no comment on the rainmaker. It called the heavy rain "just a local phenomenon." It forecast possible scattered thunderstorms Saturday night and Sunday.

The rain had started to abate in some areas before he agreed to try to stop it, but clouds were still heavy and rain was still falling in many areas.

The storm extended in a 60-mile belt around Tulsa and up to five inches of rain was measured in surrounding areas.

The Tulsa River forecast center issued a flash flood warning cautioning residents along creeks and streams and in low areas to be alert for possible floods.

The heaviest rain came in a two hour period around noon.

At 12:45 p.m., the Weather Bureau said 8.00 inches of rain had been recorded in downtown Tulsa.

Speech Course Earns Praise

Praise for the SPEED SPEECH method of learning Spanish comes from a university professor. John H. Hammond, chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages, Texas Christian University, has written William Archer, author of SPEED SPEECH, as follows:

"Your method of using the direct approach and stressing the speaking ability before the reading and writing ability is completely in line with the most recent findings of experts in methods of teaching foreign languages. Your approach serves the important purpose of ridding the student of his natural fear of intricate grammar materials and actually gives him practice in simple conversation where grammar is put into practice without the student's knowing it. Also, with your materials the student can express simple ideas and wants immediately and can put his knowledge to practical use after a comparatively short period of study. Again, congratulations on the success of your efforts. May your future activities be more fruitful."

The Herald currently is offering for a limited time the working materials perfected by William Archer, and response has been tremendous. Many families plan to learn together to converse in practical Spanish.

Available, at low prices because of the public-service nature of this program, are (1) Archer's SPEED SPEECH textbook; (2) a dictionary of working words; and (3) a set of two 45 rpm records to help master pronunciation.

Each of the items sells for only $2.95, plus six cents sales tax, or $3.01. You can order all three, or in individual units. You should start with the textbook. If you are not completely satisfied that this method will help you, as you give it earnest study, your money will be refunded.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

What is there that makes one spot of highway more deadly than others? The Hartwells overpass five miles west of town is like dozens of other places on IS 20, yet it has been the scene of several wrecks, two or three of them fatal. It happened again last week when a dairy semi-trailer driven by Delbert Lee Kinney ricocheted off a column across two medians and into a field. Kindie was the county's sixth traffic fatality.

There were other deaths, too, and unexpected ones. Two long time residents and valued friends, Jess T. Thornton Jr. and Archie Thompson died of heart attacks.

What appeared to have been another of those bar room roughing-ups turned out a lot differently. Beaten in a fight, S. A. Miller, 60, was taken to a hospital for observation, but two days later he died. Charged with murder was Raymon Quintana.

Our friend, Bob Walker (who, incidentally was cited recently for superior performance in his job with the Office of Information Services) was doing a little research on—Class 43-6 of the old Big Spring Bombardier school. One of his replies was from Frank D. Littell of Bronxville, N.Y., who indeed remembered Big Spring. It was here he met and married his wife, whom we likewise will remember. Mary Whaley Littell was for many years our valued woman's editor.

Short ceremonies today at 12:30 p.m. will mark formally the opening of the new school building. (See THE WEEK, Col. 8, Pg. 6-A)

IN DIPLOMACY Freeman May Get New Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talk of shifting Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to the diplomatic field is growing in official circles — much of it being promoted by his friends and admirers.

Other close associates, however, discount such speculation and say Freeman expects to stay in his present post for two full Kennedy Administrations.

Discussions of a transfer, for the most part, picture Freeman as ambassador to Mexico where he would be directed to help put more life into the lagging Alliance for Progress program to help Latin and South America develop their economies.

It is being said that Freeman's talents should not be wasted at the Agriculture Department where, some administration leaders say, there is little prospect for him or anyone else making progress toward adoption of Kennedy administration farm policies.

Freeman started out in 1961 to put into operation a broadened program of farmer-approved government commodity control programs designed to stabilize prices and supplies and eliminate surpluses. All hands agree that the secretary has worked diligently. But he has met with little success.

The Democratic-controlled Congress refused to give him stricter control measures, except in the case of wheat. And wheat con-

Girl Seriously Hurt By Shot

Robbie Cline, 13, was taken to the Medical Arts Hospital in Big Spring about 4:30 p.m. Saturday for treatment of a gunshot wound. Her condition was serious at press time and an emergency call was put out for blood.

Howard County sheriff's officers investigated and reported that the girl was accidentally shot, with a .22 calibre revolver, by her brother, Stephen, 15. Stephen was also in the hospital in shock, and unable to make a statement. Parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cline. They live about two miles west of Fairview.

Young Horsemen Take Trail Ride

This group of Howard County Young Horsemen started on a long trail ride, from in front of the American Legion Hut on the Country Club road, early Saturday morning. Each carried his own sack lunch and the group stopped for lunch on top of South Mountain.

The ride took them to the Morgan ranch. Adult sponsors of the horse trail ride invited all young persons who owned or could get a horse to make the trip.

Cattle Feeding De Luxe

Massive Feed Pen Layout Takes Shape

Work is moving rapidly, with a goal of being in operation in September, on a major "agri-business" development for the Big Spring area. This is the custom-feeding operation of Howard County Feed Lots, located 12 miles from the city on the Snyder Highway. It is designed to accommodate 4,000 head of livestock in the latest automated feeding, watering and finishing procedures for getting cattle in prime shape for market. An extensive layout of pens, feeding alleys, water and utility lines, plus feed mills and operational headquarters is on a 50-acre tract. It represents an investment of around $200,000. A number of prominent Howard County farmers and ranchmen have large interests in the project, along with Midland and Snyder investors. Local names include W. L. Wilson Jr.; W. L. Wilson Sr.; Horace Garrett, L. S. McDowell Jr., Everett Lomax, Ed Martin and Kent Morgan. COMMERCIAL FEEDING The project will do commercial feeding on a custom basis, either limited or full method, as the customer desires. Cattle, generally speaking, will be in the pens for 90 to 120 days. The layout is in three rows of pens (a total of 40 of them), served by two service alleys which will be paved. Along the alleys, trucks with power auger equipment will put feed into J-shape bunkers which actually form a part of the fencing. All fencing is of steel piping set in concrete, and that part not along the feed bunkers is of steel cable. Concrete aprons are in front of the feed bunkers for cattle to stand on. There is a complete automatic water circulating system, to insure fresh water at constant temperature at all times. Four bowls, set on concrete pedestals, are located in each pen, and cattle actuate the water flow as they drink. The entire feeding area will be lighted at night. LOCAL FEEDS With milo maize constituting the main portion of the finishing diet—with cottonseed hulls, meal, and protein supplement added—the Howard County Feed Lots project will buy its feed locally. Main object of the operation, it was pointed out, is to provide custom feeding for stock raisers of the immediate area, and creating a local grain market for growers of the area. The lots' feed mill will be of 500,000-pound capacity, and the entire mixing process will be so automated that it is virtually a one-man, push-button control operation. There will be two 4-ring milo tanks, with auger system carrying grain up to a 70-foot elevator, from which feeding trucks will be loaded. There are other tanks—self-unloading—for protein supplement and roughage. EXPERIENCED OPERATOR The operations center has a 50-ton set of scales, measuring 12 by 50 feet. The mill and mixing operations will be in a 50 x 60 foot building surrounding the scales. Much of the construction is well along, including installation of the scales, setting of posts in concrete, paving working surfaces, and stringing miles of fencing cable. The work is being done under general supervision of John D. Cowser, general manager of the feed lot operation, with C. C. Rippey as assistant manager. Cowser has a degree in agricultural engineering from Texas A&M College, and has had years of experience in livestock feeding operations, in South Texas and at Bryan. His family is to join him here soon from Bryan. Rippey's family also will be moving here from Brady.

Parents Are Urged To Get Immunization Information

September is just over a month away and wise parents are already beginning to make preparations for the return of their youngsters to school. Bearing this in mind, Sebron B. Williams, assistant superintendent of the Big Spring Independent School District, has suggested that students begin getting immunizations required by the district and certificates of proof acquired. This year vaccinations against polio, either the Salk or Sabin inoculation in a series of three, and a current vaccination against smallpox are required for all students in both elementary and secondary schools. Pupils in grades 1-8 also need diphtheria and tetanus vaccinations, and students below the age of 11 must also be immunized against pertussis (whooping cough). All local physicians have been provided forms which can be filled in and returned to the school as proof that policy requirements have been met, Williams said. This record becomes a part of the student's permanent school file. If the immunizations have been obtained outside Big Spring, a form may be obtained from the school and sent to the administering doctor for his signature. It is not necessary, however, a simple letter from the doctor stating which inoculations have been given will suffice. In the event that the requirement cannot be met for health or religious reasons, a signed statement from the doctor or parent to that effect must be included in the student's file.

At Short Course COAHOMA (SC) — Gerald Oakes, vocational agriculture teacher at Coahoma, will leave Monday for a three-day short course at Texas A&M College on "Preparation of Materials for Teaching." The workshop will be taught by staff members of the vocational agricultural education department of A&M College.

Joe Leach Accepts Houston Position

Joe Leach, physical director of the Big Spring YMCA since 1960, has resigned his post here to take a similar position with the Houston association. He leaves here Aug. 4 and will take over his duties there Sept. 1.

"I have enjoyed my experience with the YMCA here," he said in submitting his resignation to the board, "particularly where it has been closely allied with the kiddoes."

"At the same time," he said, "I am looking forward to the work in the bigger program at Houston and applying many of the learning experiences I have had here. Nigel and I have made many friends in Big Spring and it has been a wonderful experience for us. We hope to visit here often," he added.

Leach is a native of Shreveport, La., and a 1950 graduate of LSU, where he played football. After college, he coached football and track two years at Enid, Okla., two years at Plainview, and another year at Miller in Corpus Christi.

At Corpus Christi came a turning point in his life when he decided to make the YMCA his career. In 1956, he became physical director of the association there, a position he held until coming to

JOE LEACH

Big Spring in 1960 in a similar position.

Leach was interim general secretary here, after James M. Hardy left and before the arrival of Francis Flint. The handball courts were built during his tenure, and he organized the program using them.

He has worked closely with youth, serving also as youth secretary for the past year. He has attended, as sponsor, all sessions of the Youth in Government program since coming here. Local youngsters under his direction have marked up distinguished records in the area sports festivals and swim teams.

"The aspect of Y work I have liked most is working with young people," Leach said often.

Outside the Y, Leach was a member of the Big Spring Traffic Commission, the Lions Club, a charter member of the Y's Men's Club, Big Spring Pastors' Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Cotillon Club and played the part of Joseph in the Y's Christmas pageant. He also worked in the annual United Fund and Y Membership campaigns.

Mrs. Leach has been a teacher at Marcy Elementary School since coming to Big Spring. She has also been active in the various civic drives and is currently secretary of the Marcy P-TA.

Leach will be associated with the Southeast Branch Y at Houston, which serves an area comprising 300,000 people. There are about 11,000 members, 7,000 of them youngsters. Through extension services, the Y serves the Pasadena area and the new NASA community, where Leach will guide the program for the astronaut community.

Guard En Route To Fort Hood

Around 30 members of Battery A, 3rd Battalion, 132nd Artillery, of Big Spring and Colorado City, began loading up for the trip to North Fort Hood Saturday. The National Guard unit was scheduled to move out at 3:30 a.m. today and arrive at 3:30 p.m. for two weeks training.

1st Lt. Johnny P. Hooper, battery commander, said the unit would return to Big Spring Aug. 11. Sgt. Douglas Hedges supervised preparations for the trip.

The men will join the two separate "task forces" as soon as they reach camp where the 49th Armored Division will train. One-half the division's combat units will go to the field the first week, and the second half the next week. This is necessary because the Regular Army's 1st and 2nd Armored Divisions are based at Fort Hood.

Texas Gov. John Connally is expected to review the troops Aug. 3, which will give the men a slight break from field duty.

CANTACUMBER?

Crazy Cantaloupe Apes Cucumber

By SAM BLACKBURN
Agricultural note:—Do not plant your Japanese cucumbers adjacent to your cantaloupes. If you do you may turn out with a weird sort of hybrid dangling on your cantaloupe vine—a fruit which has some of the characteristics of a cucumber, some of a cantaloupe and some with a fantastic blend of both. The taste of this off-brand fruit is a combination cantaloupe-cucumber flavor. You may like it. On the other hand, you may not. Most folk who have tried the taste figure they can take it or leave it. So generally they leave it. "I'm not saving any cantaloupe seed this year," remarks O. W. Laws, "I'll just buy new seed and start all over." Laws, who lives north of town on the Birdwell Lane road extension, is the fellow who came up with this mixed-up vegetable. "Cantaloupes?" ponders Laws. "Or maybe cucumbers?" Laws planted a row of Japanese cucumbers in his garden patch last year. Along side, he planted a row of cantaloupes. The cantaloupes having turned out real nice, he saved seed for this year. What happened shouldn't happen to any gardener. His cantaloupe vines began producing not only round tasty cantaloupes but likewise yielded elongated, yellow-colored things. These grew and grew until some of them weighed six or seven pounds. They had the traditionally lacy markings on their yellow hides of their brother cantaloupes and the perpendicular indentations found on the melons. Inside they appeared like a cantaloupe but had a taste like someone had mixed in a big helping of cucumbers. "Some folk," Law said, "like 'em. We don't." Another oddity, Laws points out, is that the hybrids are produced only on the cantaloupe vines. The Japanese cucumber vines alongside just produce cucumbers. "I guess," said Laws, "you might say that the cucumbers are the papas and the cantaloupes the mamas." He said that the Japanese cucumbers are king-sized models. Until they get too long and tough, they are tasty and like any of their smaller brethren. Laws plans a little segregation in the garden next year. Cucumbers and cantaloupes are close relatives in the vegetable family, perhaps a little too close. Perhaps a little distance will help matters, so the cucumbers will be planted on one side of the patch and the cantaloupes on the other next year.

Catholic Churches Hold Summer Religious Schools

A series of summer religious schools have been completed in Catholic Churches here and at Coahoma. Aiding parish priests were seminarians from the Mary Knoll Seminary in New York. At Immaculate Heart of Mary Church where a three-week school was completed Thursday, the Rev. Francis Beazley addressed the children and briefly stressed importance to those who attend public school to take part in the summer session to learn more of their Catholic faith and how to daily apply it. Classes began at 9 a.m. and closed with a 11:30 a.m. mass. Teaching the classes were Bro. John Bartt and Ed Hoar, seminarians. Assisting in arrangements were Mrs. James Reidy, Mrs. C. E. Renfro, Mrs. A. J. Eldridge, Mrs. Joe Holten, Mrs. R. J. O'Leary, Mrs. Donald Hine, Mrs. J. R. Lootens, Mrs. Olin Brock, Mrs. Lawrence Oliver, Mrs. Louis Sturn, Mrs. E. Haiman, Mrs. C.

M. Levenduski, Mrs. Wayne Baden. Mrs. Herman Bauer, president of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, headed the entire program which drew about 75 children daily. The seminarians also taught a book for teen-agers on how to communicate ideas. At St. Joseph's Church in Coahoma, the Rev. Robert J. McDermott was assisted by seminarians Wayne King and Joe Towle in the 4 p.m. classes. About 90 attended. Around 250 children took part in the St. Thomas Parish religious summer school with Bros. King and Towle as teachers. They were assisted by Tony Marin, Big Spring youth who is a seminarian at Corpus Christi, and Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Molino, J. Fierro, Mrs. M. Rever and others. Mrs. Mary Jenkins served as accompanist. Children of the St. Joseph and St. Thomas parishes were feted with a party on the final day.

Worley Accepts Apine School Principalship

Roy D. Worley, district manager for a book concern and a veteran school man, has accepted the principalship at Apine High School.

He and Mrs. Worley will be in Apine this week seeking to locate housing. Jack Frost, superintendent of schools at Apine, announced the contract effective Aug. 15.

Worley has served as a teacher and school administrator in five places, including 10 years as principal of the Big Spring High School. For the past three years he has been district manager for the World Book Encyclopedia.

A native of Parker County, Worley attended school at Jacksboro and at Graford. At Southwest Texas State College, he majored in business administration and economics when he took his bachelor's degree. In his master's degree work, he also majored in administrative education.

He taught a year at Ballinger, then went to Sinton and returned to Ballinger where he had a double attraction — a junior high principal's post and a young lady by the name of Helen Moore. They were soon married.

His career took him to Fayette, and back to Ballinger where he served as business manager for the Ballinger baseball club, which was then the scourge of the Longhorn Baseball League. He was associated in this venture with his father-in-law, William Moore, and more recently a state representative.

In 1948 he became assistant high school principal here, and from 1950-60 was high school principal during the time the senior division was moved to its new home. In 1960 he joined the Field Enterprises with the encyclopedia division.

Worley is a member of the Masonic Lodge, a former Downtown Lion member, member of professional organizations including Texas State Teachers Association, the NEA, Texas Association of Secondary Principals and its national affiliate. The Worleys are members of the First Baptist Church, and they have three sons, Mike, 20, is a junior at the University of Texas, Bill, 17, is a senior here, and Bob, 15, is a sophomore.

Treaty Gets Response

More May Sign Pact Views In Congress Russians Are Happy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians bubbled with joy Saturday over the initialing of a treaty to limit nuclear testing. But in some Western embassies there was concern that the United States and Britain had committed themselves to support a Soviet-proposed nonaggression pact.

"I have the impression the Russians have done very well," said one diplomat from a North Atlantic Treaty Organization country. "The Russians feel that the test ban communique amounts to a pledge for the United States and Britain to push for a nonaggression pact with the NATO nations. Some allies of Britain and the United States were raising these points about the nuclear treaty: —Moscow isn't the best place for Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home to sign the final agreement. This makes Moscow appear to be 'The City of Peace,' as one Western diplomat in Moscow phrased it.

—As viewed by West Germany, a nonaggression pact would not only amount to tacit recognition by the West of the Communist East German government but would rule out eventual German unification unless it is achieved under supervision of Moscow.

—The Russians now believe the United States and Britain are their salesmen with the NATO nations to sell a nonaggression pact to the Western alliance.

—Some Western governments are concerned about the agreement to carry on the talks on a nonaggression pact despite the assurance from President Kennedy Friday night that the treaty is not "conditioned on any other matter."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said Saturday the nuclear test ban treaty may serve as a brake on defense spending.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., called for a searching examination of the pact.

Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader, appealed for Republican support for an agreement with Russia and Britain to ban all except underground testing.

Dirksen, the Senate GOP leader, withheld any commitment. He said in an interview that the terms of the treaty must be subjected to minute examination before the Senate is called upon to ratify it. But he indicated he would not oppose action in this session of Congress.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Undersecretary W. Averell Harriman, who negotiated the treaty in Moscow, will testify on it at a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Monday morning.

Mansfield is well aware that he will need Republican support to rally the two-thirds Senate majority required for ratification.

He said in a statement that while the agreement would not be likely to justify any cutback in defense spending, it could provide "a stabilizer rather than an increase of those expenditures."

"If this agreement is approved it does not mean that there will be total or unilateral disarmament either soon or in the future," he said.

"What this new agreement will give us is more clean water and food for our children, less strontium to pollute the air, and some basis for hoping that future generations will grow up as normal, healthy human beings."

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said in a separate statement that President Kennedy had stated the case for the treaty well in a speech Saturday night — "that the known risks of a test ban are not as dangerous to our security as the nuclear arms race."

But Cooper said the administration is going to have to provide every senator with the "fullest information political, military and scientific, which bears on the proposed treaty."

Satellite Is Jockeyed Back

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Scientists Saturday discovered the Syncom 2 communications satellite drifting through the wrong way but quickly jockeyed it back on course by firing small gas jets aboard the space package.

A project official said the firing of the jets reversed the satellite's drift from east to west. The jets, which shoot out streams of hydrogen peroxide gas, were turned on by a radio command from the ground after careful calculations were made of the spacecraft's position, angle and drift rate.

Communications experiments with the satellite were reported running smoothly.

The satellite was rocketed into orbit Friday from Cape Canaveral when it was high over East Africa, a small motor ignited to place it on a tight path ranging from 21,280 to 22,760 miles above the earth.

This was slightly lower than the intended orbit, which space agency officials said accounted for the eastward drift.

With perfection, Syncom 2 would have moved westward for eight days until it reached a point over the equator above Brazil. The plan is to fire nitrogen gas jets by radio command to stop the payload at that point and make it the world's first synchronous satellite — one which hangs over one area of the globe because it travels at the same relative speed that the earth rotates below.

Parts Of State Receive Relief

By The Associated Press

A cool front that brought temporary relief from summer heat continued to touch off thunderstorms across Texas Saturday.

The thunderstorm activity was reported from El Paso eastward across the central part of state to the Louisiana border.

High winds blew down a revival tent at Tyler with an estimated loss of $1,800. A wind gust on Eagle Mountain Lake overturned one boat in the national snipe junior championships and snapped the masts of several other craft.

Cloud-flecked skies and showers took the edge off temperatures at scattered points briefly. Lufkin which had an inch of rain reported an early afternoon temperature of 69 degrees only to see the mercury shoot up to 90 degrees later.

Maximum temperatures Saturday ranged from 89 degrees at Galveston to 104 at Presidio. Minimal readings for Fort Worth had 100. Elsewhere readings were in the 90s.

Lamesa Council To Consider Air Raid Warning System

LAMESA (SC) — A proposal to establish a new air raid warning system for the City of Lamesa will be presented to Lamesa City Council in August.

The system would cost an estimated $11,670, half of which would be paid by the federal government on request.

A scaled map layout with recommendations was recently forwarded to the city from the Federal Sign & Signal Corp. of Blue Island, Ill. It contains provisions for six dual tone sirens situated at strategic points to cover the city completely. They would be used only in natural or war-induced emergencies.

Proposed controls could be actuated by telephone, radio or manually. Approval by city council would give Lamesa a modern and fully-accredited defense system, said Johnnie L. Smith, director.

Zuckert Denies Stalled Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Secy. Eugene Zuckert denied in testimony made public Saturday that the Pentagon stalled the TFX war plane contract to let the General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth "catch up" with a rival bidder's better design.

Zuckert told the Senate investigation subcommittee the General Dynamics version was superior from the start to that of its rival the Boeing Co.

The committee is investigating whether favoritism or bad judgment might explain why General Dynamics won the contract last November with a bid $130 million higher on its face than Boeing's.

Zuckert challenged both the cost figures and suggestions some of the investigators have voiced in hearings that the negotiations were prolonged through four successive rounds of design competition.

He contended this could have let General Dynamics catch up with superior design features Boeing had proposed in the early rounds. Top military officers had rated these features as sufficient

The New Macedonia Hotel in Skopje, Yugoslavia, shown in this view last month, was leveled and most of the guests were killed in an earthquake, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said. A large photograph of V. I. Lenin, founder of Russian Communism, can be seen on the side of the building.

Swift Airlift Will Test New Strike Command

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department expects to stage a swift airlift of a whole Army division to Europe later this year in a full-scale, realistic test of its new combined Army-Air Force Strike Command.

The mass movement of about 15,000 soldiers across the Atlantic would be the biggest such overseas deployment for training purposes. Previous similar exercises have involved units of only battle group size.

It also could be one of the most expensive training exercises. Estimates of cost are still being worked up. However, the cost would run into millions of dollars.

The money question may sidetrack the plan. The House has trimmed $114 million from funds for operations and maintenance for all the services for the coming fiscal year. That item embraces field exercises by the armed forces. The Defense Department has asked the Senate to restore $98 million.

Key to the capability of the Strike Command is fast air transportation. The Air Force now has more than 30 C135 jet-powered transports, in addition to other older or shorter-range airlift planes. There has been no actual use of the planes in a big, division-size airlift.

To make the proposed test realistic, the Defense Department would like to put into effect with as little advance notice as possible — except to allay alarm by Russia.

The seven Army divisions and the dozen wings of the Tactical Air Force are kept in readiness for a quick move. A 15,000-man division might be ferried to Europe within three or four days.

The whole division could not be moved in one airlift operation, because not enough planes are available for airlift.

Obviously at some point in the future — when still more and faster jet transports become available — the capability to get a whole division to a threatened area within three or four days could make it possible to bring home part of the presently assigned forces.

Peru Returns To Civilian Rule Today

LIMA, Peru (AP) — After a year under military control, Peru returns to civilian rule Sunday with the inauguration of Fernando Belaunde Terry, a U.S.-educated architect, as president.

Promising to build homes for the poor and give land to peasants and illiterate Indians, Belaunde takes the leadership from Gen. Nicholas Lopez Lindley, one of the military men who took over one year and 10 days ago ousting President Manuel Prado at the end of his term.

A non-Communist leftist, Belaunde is widely considered to be pro-U.S. and has said his government would make no moves to re-establish diplomatic relations with Cuba. Peru was among the first of the larger Latin American nations to denounce Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba.

He has concentrated on the domestic and social problems of Peru, a nation of mountains and deserts on South America's west coast. Peru has nearly 11 million people, most of them descendants of the ancient Incas.

One top priority project is building highways to the interior of the country to tap the nation's rich natural resources.

Peru's economy, based on sugar, meat, cotton, minerals and fish exports, is considered one of the soundest in Latin America.

Working to his disadvantage may be the Communists. They had thrown unsolicited support his way in the election. Some in Lima fear they will try to dominate Belaunde and infiltrate his government.

But Belaunde is likely to try to keep the Communists at bay. This could mean the Communists might switch to the opposition camps in an attempt to sabotage his administration.

Any concerted Communist effort might force the military to move in again.

Bear Mauls Little Girl

SANTA SUSANA, Calif. (AP) — Sheriff's officers say a huge black bear and a young girl's mother engaged in a frantic tug-of-war when the little girl playfully put her hand through the bars of a circus cage.

Lynn Seely, 4, escaped the claws of the bear only after a bystander bludgeoned the animal with a length of pipe. The child suffered a double arm fracture and the loss of one finger.

Investigators gave this account of the struggle late Friday.

Mrs. Margaret Seely and her daughter were visiting the circus when the child put her arm into the cage. The bear, a 5-year-old male, at first only licked the arm. But this caused a circus employee to scream a warning. Before the child could withdraw her arm the bear attacked.

Mrs. Seely grabbed Lynn's other arm and pulled. She yanked the bear's fur in a desperate effort to free her daughter. But the bear held on until Steve Peltier intervened with the pipe.

He will succeed Robert Forche, who becomes chief of police of Baytown Aug. 1. The Baytown police chief, W. R. Montgomery, died in June.

Market Takes 3rd Straight Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — A cautious stock market, plagued by various economic doubts, took its third straight loss last week on the highest trading of the year.

It was a moderate loss and the market still remained reasonably high in view of its tremendous recovery from the 1962 lows and the frequently-heard comment in Wall Street that a "correction" of that rise was necessary before a further substantial advance could be mounted.

The Dow Jones industrial average last week fell 4.51 to 689.38.

Shopping Center For Six Flags

DALLAS (AP) — A $14 million project to be named "Six Flags Regional Shopping Center" was announced Saturday by Great Southwest Corp. President Angus Wynne Jr.

The enclosed half-million square foot center with an air-conditioned mall is to be built on 100 acres at the intersection of U.S. 80 and Texas 360.

Mrs. Hogue Dies, Rites Set Today

Mrs. Lillie Audrey Hogue, 69, member of a pioneer Howard County family, died at a local hospital at 10:15 a.m. Saturday after a lengthy illness. She had been living with a niece at 1421 E. 6th during her illness, but her home was in Lenora.

Mrs. Hogue was born Feb. 25, 1895 in Llano County. She came with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cardwell, to Howard County in 1908. She was married to Tommie Hogue in Big Spring Aug. 13, 1934. They moved to Lenora in 1946 and operated a general store until Mr. Hogue's death in 1956. She continued to live in Lenora until her illness. She was a member of the Lenora Baptist Church.

Funeral will be held in the Nalley-Pickle chapel at 5 p.m. today with the Rev. Robert F. Polk, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Big Spring City Cemetery under direction of Nalley - Pickle Funeral Home.

Survivors are two brothers, E. T. Cardwell, Odessa, and W. H. Cardwell Jr., Fredericksburg; five sisters, Mrs. Carl Black, Cleburne, Mrs. Viola Henderson, Llano, Mrs. B. L. Curtis, Tacoma, Wash., Mrs. Olive Anglin, Big Spring, and Mrs. Fannie Merwous, Abilene.

pallbearers will be Edward Pollock, Bill Howell, Bernice Calaway, Mon McCaskie, Walton Morrison and Cecil Bell.

THE WEEK

ing of Bennett House, a nursing home without a peer in this area. You ought to take time to see it this afternoon. You'll be impressed and proud that our town has such a facility.

There's nothing like old friendships, to lure people, especially when they are flavored by old-fashioned barbecued beef and mutton, with typical chuck wagon trimmings. At any rate, the annual Old Settlers Association reunion Friday packed 'em at the City Park for what may have been the largest turnout in the event's 39th year history. Those who had a hand putting it on deserve a big hand, too.

A hometown boy who continues to make good is John Stiff. A graduate of Big Spring High, student at Texas A&M and graduate of Yale University school of engineering, Stiff will give up his city manager's post at Garland to accept one offered last week to him at Amarillo.

Ever wonder what it would happen if a big piece of machinery on those trailers toppled off an onto a car? Well, Mrs. Eva Lieber fortunately can answer that. A 15-ton D-6 tractor rolled off its carrier on a curve near the air base, luckily caught only a portion of the car. That would give us enough cold chills to air condition us the remainder of the summer.

And that brings us to the weather. Everybody was talking about it and nothing was being done, according to the old quip. Cotton at last had reached the hurting stage, and the first load of prematurely cut grains came in. This week will be a crucial one for crops.

Another big highway project is in the making here. Oldt Construction, Fort Worth, and Glade Construction, Dallas, combined for a low bid of $794,035 for the four-lane Gregg Street overpass. Contract is due to be awarded and work will start around Sept. 1.

Dr. Margie Kirkpatrick, who formerly was a physician here benefited by an automobile mishap disabled her, won a distinct honor last week. Now the medical director at Texas Rehabilitation Center in Gonzales, she was chosen as the physician of the year by the Texas Rehabilitation Association.

Dr. Charles Warren, who came back home to open his dental practice two years ago, had an honor, too. Howard County Junior College trustees named him as the successor to the late Dr. Charles W. Deats, and thus he became the first former HCJC student to serve on the board.

It seemed for a time as though the east end of town was going up in smoke; actually it was only old tires in a salvage yard burning. But they burned with such intensity that a power line pole was consumed and a main feeder into town was snapped.

For adults, 57 years is getting close to an average lifetime. For G. F. Reynolds, it represented the span of a career in railroading — a career he found just as fascinating last Tuesday when he retired as the day he first signed on.

MRS. LILLIE AUDREY HOGUE, age 69. Passed away Saturday morning at Big Spring. Services Sunday, 5 p.m. at Nalley-Pickle Chapel. Interment in Big Spring City Cemetery.

MRS. ISBELLE DIES HERE FRIDAY

Funeral for Georgia Anna Isabelle, Big Spring, will be held Monday at 10 a.m. in the Lamar and Smith Chapel in Dallas with Dr. Wallace Bassett officiating. Interment will follow in the Laurel Lane Cemetery in Dallas with arrangements by the River Funeral Home, Big Spring.

Mrs. Isabelle, 91, died at 8:45 p.m. Friday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

Carbon Plants Here Report High Total Of Production

By JOE BEYER
Enough carbon black has been made in Big Spring during the past year to make tires for every one of the more than seven million new cars produced in America this year.

About four pounds of carbon black go into each tire of size 7.00 by 16. Capacity production at the Sid Richardson Carbon Co. and Cabot Carbon Co. plants here could thus equip some 8½ million cars. With new-car production surpassing the 7,130,000 mark already, the automobile industry has required more than 142 million pounds of carbon black to put out its product. Another 210,000 new cars are expected to be produced before the industry halts its assembly line operations about mid-August for the changeover to the 1964 models.

Sid Richardson can churn out 50 million pounds of carbon black a year when producing at design capacity. Cabot Carbon can produce 120 million pounds a year. Cabot Carbon produces rubber grades of black and sells almost 100 per cent of its products to tire manufacturers, Dave Davenport, superintendent of the local plant, said. John Hogg, manager of the Sid Richardson plant, said his plant's production of ISAF and HAF types of black are also sold almost exclusively to manufacturers of rubber hydrocarbon products.

The black gives tires greater wearing qualities. Whereas a tire of straight rubber might last less than 3,000 miles, its life can be increased by a factor of 10, to about 30,000 miles or more, by adding carbon black during its manufacture. The kind and quality of black added controls such things as its abrasive qualities, ability to withstand heat and pressure and resilience.

Summer tends to be slow for the carbon black industry, with automobile plants shutting down to make the changeover before they begin kicking out new models. Frequently, tire manufacturers also shut down during the summer to allow all of their employees to have a vacation at the same time. The effects of the shutdowns trickle down to the local plants.

The boom year for the automobile industry has been reflected in Big Spring with stronger demand for carbon black. At the current time the Sid Richardson plant is producing at about 75 per cent of capacity, below the average for the year, but very good for this time of the year. Hogg said. Davenport reported a similar good demand for Cabot products.

"We have been operating at capacity all year," he said. "Whenever cutbacks have to be made by the company, they are usually made at other plants."

He also noted that Cabot is currently expanding facilities in Louisiana. Davenport said the past year has been good for the industry generally, with sales up a couple of percentage points over last year.

Second Pay Hit In Madera Area

BTA Oil Producers of Midland completed No. 1 Johnson, 10 miles southeast of San Angelo in Tom Green County, as the second Canyon sand gas-distillate producer in the Madera two-pay area.

It rated a calculated, absolute open flow of 4,400,000 cubic feet of gas daily with a gas-liquid petroleum ratio of 59,300-1, from perforations at 4,606-10 feet. Gravity of the liquid was 32.2 degrees.

It is 2,173 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 30, block 25, H&TC survey and ½ mile northwest of the Canyon sand gas-distillate discovery in the field.

Earlier it was completed as a discovery from the Tillery sand for a 24-hour pumping potential of 96.78 barrels of 30.5-gravity oil, plus two per cent water, from perforations at 4,475-87 feet.

Sunray DX Oil Co. No. 2 Florence Hall is to be drilled to 3,900 feet, seven miles northwest of Eden in Concho County.

It is to try for gas production in the Strawn C-1 zone and is one mile southeast of the nearest of the two producers from that horizon in the Speck, South field.

The location is 1,320 feet from north and 3,220 feet from east lines of J. N. Gibbs survey 3.

Harlan Production Co. of Monahan completed No. 1 M. J. Elliott-Glorieta (formerly No. 4 Elliott) as a pumping discovery from the Glorieta in Southeast Ward County, three miles north and slightly east of Royalty.

On the potential test it pumped 20 barrels of 38-gravity oil, plus 87 per cent water, in 24 hours from perforations at 4,674-78 feet, after treating with 2,000 gallons of acid.

The location is 1,800 feet from northwest and 1,880 feet from northeast lines of section 3, block 34, H&TC survey. It is one location south of a producer on the Miller-Buck B-29 (Pennsylvanian) pool and adjacent to old, shallow producers from pay above 2,700 feet in the Ward, South field.

The Harlan strike is 5¼ miles

Nortex To Ask For New Trial

DALLAS (AP)—Attorneys for Nortex Oil & Gas Co., which lost its $5.8 million damage suit against Ebro Oil Co. over the purchase of East Texas oil wells it claimed to be leased, said Saturday they may ask for a new trial.

A 134th District Court jury Friday found the dissolved Ebro firm had properly represented the oil properties it sold to the Dallas-based Nortex Oil & Gas.

Ruling on the principal question in the case, the jury found that Nortex did not rely on any representations Ebro made in the sale of the wells.

The jury, which ruled that the wells had not been leased, deliberated nearly four hours.

Erich F. Klein Jr., one of the Nortex attorneys, said Saturday that Nortex will probably file several motions, which, if overruled, will be followed up by a motion for a new trial.

Humble Flows Gas At Upton Wildcat

Humble Oil & Refining Co. No. 2-B X. B. Cox Jr., East Upton County wildcat, 18 miles northeast of Rankin, flowed gas and condensate in a drillstem test of the Fusselman.

The section at 11,484-544 feet was tested for 1½ hours. Gas surfaced in three minutes and flowed at the rate of 2,174,000 cubic feet per day. The gas was accompanied by a spray of condensate on which there was no gauge.

Conoco Slates Canyon Venture

Continental Oil Co. No. 1 Emma Moore is planned as a 5,800-foot Canyon sand venture, four miles northwest of Roby in Fisher County.

It spots 660 feet from north and west lines of section 28, block 2, H&TC survey and ½ mile east of Thomas & Saxon Drilling Co. No. 1 Wood, discovery and lone producer in the Terry (Canyon sand) pool.

Keystone Drilling Co. No. 1 University is slated as a 9,300-foot Spraberry venture, 15 miles northwest of Tarzan in Northwest Martin County.

It is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 43, block 6, University survey.

Humble Oil & Refining Co. No. 1 Charles J. Walker, 25 miles west of Fort Stockton, was flowing gas at the rate of 78,000 cubic feet per day from open hole at 18,815-19,246 feet.

During the latest 24-hour period the wildcat flowed out 402 barrels of load water, along with the gas. It still has 125 barrels of 1,150 barrels of load water to recover.

Operator has not reported having recovered any petroleum liquid from the section being tested and has not identified the formation.

The explorer is 1,960 feet from north and east lines of section 19, block 49, T-9, T&P survey eight miles northeast of the Hershey pool and 8½ miles southwest of the Rojo Calabos area.

Martin Yates III of Artesia, N. M., No. 1 Bilby is scheduled as a 4,500-foot prospect in Lea County, N. M., five miles south-west of Hobbs and 2¼ miles southwest of the multipay Hobbs field.

It is 1,980 feet from south and 790 feet from east lines of section 19, block 49, T-9, T&P survey eight miles northeast of the Yates sand.

McGrath & Smith of Midland will drill No. 2 Johnson as a step-out to the two-well 5,100-foot Strawn lime gas area in the Christoval multipay field in Tom Green County.

The location is seven miles northeast of Christoval and 2,000 feet from north and east lines of C. M. Dunn survey 548. The project is contracted to 5,300 feet.

Marathon Oil Reports Income

FINDLAY, Ohio—Marathon Oil Co.'s net income for the first six months of 1963 totaled $22,461,000, J. C. Donnell II, president, has announced. This is an increase of 44.5 per cent over earnings of $15,541,000 in the similar period last year.

On a per-share basis, net income for the half year equaled $1.51 on 14,854,356 shares in 1963 compared with $1.07 or 14,547,933 shares in 1962.

The company's net income for the second quarter of 1963 was $10,643,000, exceeding the second quarter of 1962 by 44.7 per cent.

Marathon's sales of Libyan crude oil, which began at mid-year 1962, were the principal factor in the improved earnings this year, Donnell said. The volume of these sales in the first quarter was substantially higher than the company's one-third share of production from the Dabra field, while in the second quarter they were brought nearly into balance for the six-month period.

Average prices received for refined products improved slightly over the low level of a year earlier, he noted.

Rig Count Still Falling

The count of rotary rigs in the United States continues to fall, according to reports to the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Company.

The latest tabulation July 22 had 1,512 rigs listed, a drop of 28 from the 1,540 of the previous week and down 131 from the 1,643 of a year ago. Texas, which during the week lost another 14 rigs dropping to 496 units, recorded nearly 30 per cent of the year's drop. From July 23, 1962 to July 22, 1963, the state dropped by 51 from 547 rigs to 496.

Texas handily retained its lead over second place Louisiana, which had 293 rigs. That state, however, has shown a healthy increase in drilling over the year.

A year ago the count was 249 rigs, a month ago it was 273, last week it was 286. Most of this rise is in drilling over water. Oil operators last week had 96 rigs working in inland waters, compared to 69 a year ago, and 87 offshore projects, compared to 68 at this point in 1962.

Other leaders in the nation are: Oklahoma, with 135 rigs; New Mexico, with 92; California, with 86; and Kansas, with 76.

The latest tabulation for Texas by area shows: South Texas and Gulf Coast (inland waters) four; South Texas and Gulf Coast (land) 150; South Texas and Gulf Coast (offshore) none; North Texas 54; Texas Panhandle 32; East Texas 44; West Central Texas 121 and West Texas 91.

COSDEN
meet the 'SENIORS' of the Cosden family...
JOHN M. NOBLES

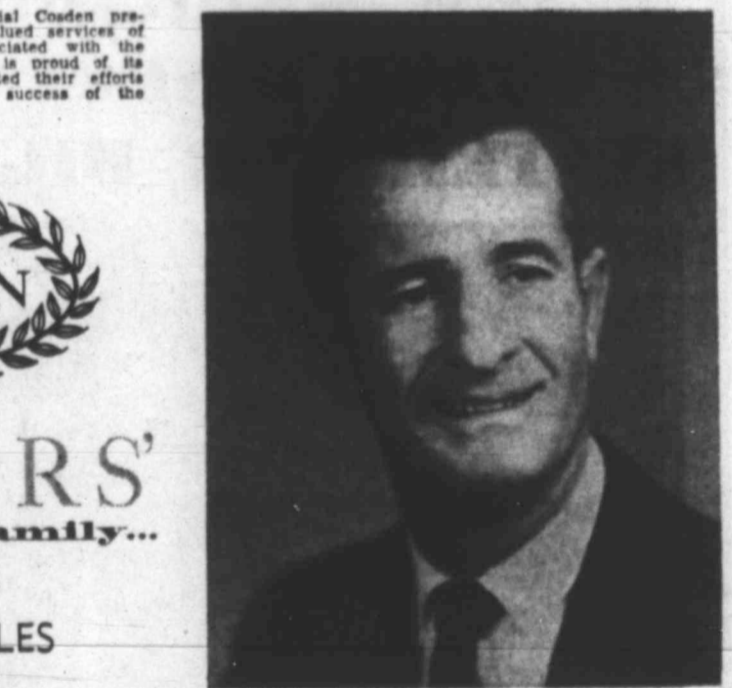

John Miles Nobles has seen the whole petrochemical portion of Cosden refinery emerge since he joined the company April 19, 1948. As a matter of fact, he has the distinction of having helped bring on stream three of the complex's units—the cat cracker in 1949, the BTX three years later, and the polystyrene plant in 1958. Now No. 1 Operator at the polystyrene facility, he has also worked at the Dubbs, the crude unit and the poly plant.

A Big Spring native, Nobles graduated from high school with the Class of '41 and attended Sul Ross College. For three years he was in the Infantry, seeing action in the European theatre and coming out as a staff sergeant. Mrs. Nobles is the former Flora Alice Haymes of Munday; she teaches second graders at Marcy School.

Nobles hunts and fishes and has long been an avid horseman. The home on the Old San Angelo Highway has ample ground for two mares and a colt. The Nobles' daughter, 15-year-old Cynthia Lee, shares this interest wholeheartedly, so her parents helped organize the Howard County Youth Horsemen this year. In the club's May show, Cynthia showed the reserve champion mare and stallion.

With his family, Nobles is enrolled at First Methodist Church. He is a Mason.

Hot Weather Taking Toll Across Texas

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Hot and generally dry weather is taking its toll in Texas. From farm agents reported this week a need for rain. Water levels in stock tanks are dropping.

John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said, however, that crops are being pushed to early harvests.

First bales of cotton have been ginned in North Central Texas. Some grain sorghum has been harvested in the Rolling Plains. Ranges turned brown under the blazing sun and grass fires have become a hazard, the director said.

The South Texas drought is again becoming critical. Ranges are deteriorating rapidly. Some ranchmen are again starting to feed. The cotton harvest is gathering steam with yields below average.

South Central Texas needs rain. The corn harvest has started and yields are low. Cotton is maturing fast and hands are needed. The hay harvest is on; peanuts look promising, and land is being prepared for carrot and cauliflower planting.

Cotton is popping open in the upper Gulf Coast area. The corn and hay harvests are on. Rain is needed. Insects are plentiful. Some fall planting has started. Livestock are generally in fair condition. The watermelon harvest is about over.

Moisture is short in East Texas; pastures are low average; and livestock marketing is steady. Hay baling and pasture moving were listed as major activities. Moisture is spotted in Northeast Texas but is generally short in most counties. Cotton is fruiting, corn is in the hard dough stage, the hay harvest is on and the tomato harvest is over. Harvesting of watermelons and peaches goes on and pecan prospects are good. Livestock are in good condition but pastures are average to below.

A few local showers failed to relieve the drought in Central Texas. Cotton is maturing fast and a few bales were being ginned. Boll weevils are causing some trouble. About 75 per cent of the sorghum has been harvested and yields have been very good. Corn is maturing; peanuts look good but need rain. Pecan prospects are good. Pasture grasses are dry and grazing and stock water are short. Livestock sales have been noted due to the dry weather.

Moisture is short in most of North Central Texas and crops are suffering. Ranges are below average but livestock are in fair condition. The sorghum harvest is becoming general with some good yields.

Rain is badly needed for all crops and stock tanks in West Central Texas. Dry pastures are fire hazards. The dry weather is controlling cotton insects and is causing some pecan shedding. Some spot cutting of grain sorghum has been noted. Livestock are in good condition; lambs are moving to market; and goat shearing has started.

A general rain is needed in Far West Texas. Sorghum is heading and cotton fruiting well. Livestock are in good condition.

Moisture is needed in most of the Rolling Plains. Sorghum is being harvested for silage and some sorghum has been harvested. Hay harvesting is general.

Most South Plains counties need rain. Cotton is making good progress with the older fields blooming. Harvesting of cucumbers, potatoes and onions is on. Irrigation of sorghum was going full blast. Irrigation of cotton was beginning. Ranges needed rain.

Showers failed to relieve the Panhandle but cotton is making good growth. Sorghum needs rain but is making good growth. Livestock are in good condition. Ranges need rain.

Patient-Society Relations Subject Of Panel Study

The return of hospital patients to the community will receive special study at a meeting of the Veterans Administration Voluntary Service Advisory Committee to be held Thursday. It will be at 3 p.m. Thursday at the Big Spring VA Hospital.

In reporting on the 1963 annual meeting of the VA's National Advisory Committee, Dr. H. C. Ernsting, chairman of the local committee, will stress assistance which local organizations can give these returning patients. Such assistance might take the form of financial help, visits, employment, transportation to clinics, stores or church, recreation or other personal services.

Other business will include discussions of recruitment for adult volunteers, orientation and training programs for them and recognition for junior volunteers.

Shoots From The Saddle

Commission To Open Road Bids

Howard County Commissioners Court will consider bids at 10 a.m. Monday for paving of eight miles of county roads. Proposals also will be received for gravel or rock aggregate.

Billy Paul Thomas, acting engineer, estimated that the paving should cost less than $2,000 a mile. He said all of the roads slated for surfacing are ready. They have been built by the county road and bridge department.

The county makes no effort to pave its roads. It builds them to the point where paving is to be laid and awards a contract to a professional company to do the surfacing.

The roads to be paved: Lomax Road, two miles, off FM 818. Elbow Road, two miles, off FM 818. Old Colorado City Road, two miles, off Snyder Highway 9 miles east of town.

24th Street Road, one half mile, off south Birdwell and 25th Street. Allendale Road, one half mile, off South Birdwell.

Jonesboro Road (and Gatesville Street), one half mile, off North Birdwell. Barnes Addition Road, one half mile, off Snyder Highway 5 miles northeast of Big Spring.

Thefts Of Tires, Wheels Reported

Tires and wheels were reported stolen from two vehicles in Big Spring Friday. Carl W. Ford, 1203 Mesa, told police some one forced open a door vent while his car was parked at the Red Onion, 1620 E. 3rd, and took the tire and wheel valued at $30. Alfred Ham, 2005 S. Monticello, reported a tire and wheel taken from his pickup while parked in his driveway.

A stuffed pink dog was taken from a car owned by Airman Philip A. Rankin while parked at the 66 Cafe just before 11 p.m. Friday.

The manager of Penny's Drive-Inn, 800 W. 4th, called police about 10:45 and alleged a car-hop had left with receipts of approximately $16.

3-Wheeler Proves Ideal For Getting Pesky Weeds

A three-wheel motorcycle, formerly used by the Big Spring Police Department, is now being used as a portable spray vehicle. Arthur Hernandez, department of public works employe, has been assigned to use the vehicle and sprayer in the business area of the city to kill weeds growing along curbs and sidewalks, and next to buildings.

A small drum, containing the weed-killing poison, is mounted, along with a gasoline engine and compressor, in the rear compartment of the motorcycle. Hernandez rides the vehicle up to the spot, turns on power, adjusts the nozzle, and sprays the weeds without getting out of his saddle.

"It isn't a pretty sight to see weeds growing out of cracks in the sidewalks, along the curbs, or next to the buildings in the business area," City Manager Larry Crow said this week. "We have had the embarrassment of finding tumbleweeds growing in the sidewalks right near our downtown planters which were put out for beautification. We are waging war on them," Crow said.

The three-wheel motorcycle, and a two-wheeler, found surplus to the police department, were replaced by a car. The two-wheeler was sold outright. The three-wheeler was turned over to the city barn as a delivery and utility vehicle.

"It is less expensive to operate than a car or pickup," Crow said, "and parking is no problem anywhere. Besides it's a weed-killer."

A NEW GARBAGE & TRASH DISPOSAL SYSTEM FOR BIG SPRING

During the next few days, the City of Big Spring will be installing the new Pak Mor container system for the handling and disposal of trash and garbage. This will provide a cleaner, more sanitary operation and a cleaner, more attractive community.

Containers will be placed for the convenience of our customers at stores, shopping centers and large apartment houses. The contents of these containers will be mechanically emptied into a sanitary garbage truck and hauled away for disposal. Since both containers and truck are covered, there will be a minimum of spilling and blowing of trash.

We do not anticipate any increase in garbage service charges to the customer for this improved service. However, there may be a few isolated instances where charges may be adjusted on the basis of actual costs.

The more common questions concerning this type service can be answered as follows:

- Question: How often will the containers be emptied?
Answer: As often as required, but at least twice a week.
- Question: Will each establishment have its own containers?
Answer: No, in those cases where there is a small volume of refuse, one container might serve several establishments.
- Question: How many containers will we have?
Answer: Enough to take care of each customer without wasting container space.
- Question: What about my old garbage cans and containers?
Answer: They are yours; to be removed from the alley. Since they cannot be utilized in connection with this more efficient system, the City will not empty them once containers are installed.
- Question: This sounds good; what are the requirements on the businessman?
Answer: He must see that all his trash is placed properly in the containers, so they may be utilized effectively. He must see that cardboard boxes, crates, etc., are broken down so that space in the containers will not be wasted.

We sincerely believe that this is a major step forward for our community. We know that it will take some time and experimentation to get the containers properly placed for maximum convenience, so we ask your cooperation and consideration. If you have any problems or questions arising from the installation of this new system, please call City Hall, AM 4-4611, so that we may help you.

Today we are concerned with the question, "When is a guess not a guess?" The answer might be stated briefly: "Choosing a line of play which, even if it succeeds, cannot win the hand, is not really guessing." Examine the heart suit in today's deal. Ostensibly, there is a guess for the queen of hearts. Actually there is not.

South reached a contract of three no trump. On the combined holding, the play for game is not good but it is rather difficult to avoid the pitfall. North's free bid of two diamonds does not meet with our approval. Making a free bid in a higher ranking suit forces partner to speak at an inconvenient level and is consequently a drastic step. A free bid of two clubs would have done justice to the holding but South, with a double spade stopper and excess values, would have carried on and game would have been reached anyway.

The queen of spades was opened and taken by the king. The diamond suit is not available, for West's spades will be established before the diamonds. Declarer, therefore, drove out the ace of clubs and a spade return set up the suit for West.

It is clear that declarer must win four heart tricks if he is to bring home the hand. He led the ace and then the ten, letting it ride. West took the queen, then came the deluge. "Sorry, partner, I misguessed the queen," South pleaded.

This was no guess for, as declarer played the heart suit, it was not possible, against proper defense, to win four tricks. If East has four hearts to the queen, he plays low and declarer cannot pick him up. If East has the queen and less than three guards, he simply covers the ten and West will stop the suit with four to the nine.

Declarer's only hope to win four heart tricks is to find West with either Q x or Q xx. He should, therefore, have led a heart from his own hand and finessed the ten. This was no guess, it was a "must."

Bateman Blow Boosts Colts

HOUSTON (AP) — John Bateman's eighth-inning home run settled a pitching battle between Bob Bruce and Roger Craig Saturday night...

Bateman's homer on the first pitch in the bottom of the eighth was only the fourth hit of Craig, who lost his 16th straight.

For the Mets, the loss was the 10th in a row and the 21st straight on the road, extending their major league record.

Bruce checked the Mets on two singles and didn't allow them a semblance of a threat through eight innings, but needed to be bailed out of a jam in the ninth by Hal Woodeshick.

Craig, a 24-game loser last year now is 2-18 and hasn't won since April 29. Bruce won his fifth against seven defeats.

Marichal Halts Pirates, 3-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three Pittsburgh throwing errors in the eighth inning gave San Francisco two runs for its sixth straight victory, 3-1, over the Pirates...

The right-hander won his 17th against five losses.

With the score 1-1 entering the last of the eighth, Jose Pagan rapped a leadoff single against reliever Alvin McBean.

McBean threw for a force at second and went the ball into center field. Bill Virdon tried to catch Pagan going into third and threw the ball away.

Pagan scored and Marichal romping to third.

Harvey Kuenn filed to short right and after bluffing Marichal back to third, Roberto Clemente threw the ball far over catcher Smokey Burgess' head and Marichal scored.

Piersall Now With Angels

BOSTON (AP) — Jimmy Piersall — antics-maker, author and outfielder — was signed as a free agent by the Los Angeles Angels Saturday. Manager Bill Rigney immediately put him into the lineup.

"I had a little knee trouble before but I feel fine now," Piersall shouted over his shoulder as he emerged from Rigney's office and hustled to the field. "All I need is a couple of hits."

The 33-year-old athlete was batting third in the order, spelling Albie Pearson, and was facing his original major league bosses, the Boston Red Sox.

To make room for Piersall, the Angels sent infielder Charley Dees to their Honolulu farm club. Rigney indicated he would platoon his outfielders now that Piersall has been acquired.

Jim was hitting .194 with only two runs batted in for 40 games when he was released by the New York Mets earlier this week. He had hit the headlines only when he ran out his lone home run of the season backwards.

The signing had to be delayed until the legal waiver period had elapsed.

"Piersall told me he's been trying to get a halo for three years," Rigney said referring to the Angels' baseball caps which have a silver halo sewn into the top of the deep blue head-piece.

"I feel great about getting him," said Rigney, who was the first to emerge from his office. "I told him just to go out there and play."

"He says he feels good now. He said he was swinging all right this year but that the hits just weren't dropping."

"The way he used to play against us was always a good defensive man with hustle. He should be a fine hitter in our home park. He's not a home run hitter but he should do real well for us."

One writer asked Piersall if he had any trouble.

"Yeah, my hitting," Jim replied.

Piersall was wearing No. 4. He could not wear his old familiar No. 7 because that belongs to pitcher Ken McBride but Piersall managed to get the locker next to McBride's.

Snead And Palmer Tie For Lead In Western

By JERRY LISKA Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Arnold Palmer, sinking a closing 18-footer for a birdie, and Sammy Snead, putting as if he owned the course, tied for the 54-hole lead in the $50,000 Western Open Golf Tourney with 6-under-par 207s Saturday.

Finishing in the final threesome right after Snead closed with a 3-under-par 68, leading money-winner Palmer, thrilled an announced Beverly Country Club

Course crowd of 15,700 by rolling in his 18-footer for a 67.

Snead opened the day's play four strokes and Palmer five strokes behind the halfway leader, Fred (Hardluck) Hawkins, who slumped to a damaging 76 which gave him a 54-hole total of 211.

Hawkins, who has only won one tournament — the 1956 Oklahoma City Open — in 16 years on the PGA circuit, had held the 36-hole lead after rounds of 67 and 68.

Fourth at the three-quarter mark of the chase for the $10,000 top prize was Lionel Hebert, whose 72 over the windswept par 36-35-71 Beverly Course, gave him 212.

Notched at even par 213 were Bob Nichols, Charles Sifford, Harold Kneedee and U.S. Open champion Julius Boros.

Snead, jaunty king of golf's Old Guard, quipped "I got no idea of winning anything, I'm just here for the fun" but the 51-year-old star obviously was pleased by his 35-33-68 round on which he had eight one-putt greens.

Palmer, who shot a closing 31 after an opening 36, had seven one-putts, and bagged four birdies and five pars in his hot second nine.

Bateman Blow Boosts Colts

HOUSTON (AP) — John Bateman's eighth-inning home run settled a pitching battle between Bob Bruce and Roger Craig Saturday night...

Bateman's homer on the first pitch in the bottom of the eighth was only the fourth hit of Craig, who lost his 16th straight.

For the Mets, the loss was the 10th in a row and the 21st straight on the road, extending their major league record.

Bruce checked the Mets on two singles and didn't allow them a semblance of a threat through eight innings, but needed to be bailed out of a jam in the ninth by Hal Woodeshick.

Craig, a 24-game loser last year now is 2-18 and hasn't won since April 29. Bruce won his fifth against seven defeats.

Veteran Shag Sees Better Days Ahead

By HAL PARIS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A fellow who has spent a lifetime in baseball believes there are better days ahead for the minor leagues. He is 80-year-old Frank J. (Shag) Shaughnessy, a personable Canadian who is the president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. Shaughnessy, as vice president of the association, inherited the job when minor league boss George M. Trautman died last June 24. He'll be at the helm until December when the minors hold their annual conclave. Then directors are expected to elect another man to the post, probably choosing a younger successor. Shaughnessy, who guided the International League for 24 years until his retirement in 1960, heads an organization that can best be described as shaky. But he appears unperturbed by persistent reports that the minors are on the brink of disaster. "I am optimistic and look hopefully to the future," Shag says. Given all the facts, an electronic computer might not agree. Since 1949, the minors have shown a gradual decline in the number of teams, leagues and attendance. In that peak year, the minors boasted 483 clubs and 59 leagues and a total attendance of 41,982,239. In 1961, the minors were reduced to 147 clubs playing in 22 leagues before 10,100,966. Last year, the teams dropped to 134 operating in 20 leagues with an over-all attendance of 10,047,568. This season, members in the association number only 130 who perform in 18 circuits. The attendance, although no official totals are available, is a bit lower than last year. "The weather has been the main reason we're down a little but I'm hopeful we will match last year's 10 million figure," Shaughnessy says confidently. Shag, who has taken over the presidency with a refreshing zeal, says he believes the minors have reached a leveling off point. "There's a definite trend toward stabilization. We're looking hopefully now to the future," Shaughnessy says he is amazed at the amount of things the association handles and at the inducements offered young players today. He cited bonuses and college scholarships as two factors bringing more youngsters into the game. "I think baseball is the greatest game in the world and I think the fans do love it. They like a good ballgame and like it live, rather than on TV." Shaughnessy contends the biggest boost to the minors this year has been the player development contract agreement with the major league club owners, a plan through which the majors provide substantial subsidies and other benefits. "The plan has worked very well in Class A and AA ball. But it's not the complete answer in the Triple A leagues. But I'm sure that eventually a solution will come that will benefit both the majors and minors." Shag says fan interest seems to be at a higher pitch than ever before. "I think the new rules, such as the new strike zone and others designed to cut down the time of a game have provided more interesting and better baseball." Shaughnessy is a member of baseball's rules committee and had a hand in effecting some of the new legislation. Another change in the minors resulted in the association's six classifications being cut to three—AAA, AA, and A, the latter including the previous classifications of B, C and D. "There's a lot less confusion for the fans and the new system has worked out very well," Shaughnessy asserts. Currently, there are only two Triple-A leagues—both 10-team circuits—but there have been general discussions about going back to three higher classification loops consisting of two eight-team leagues and one with six clubs. Such a step could mean the revival of the old American Association. Eventually, Shaughnessy declares, the minors will consist of as many clubs as the majors can support. "We're hopeful they will support more as time goes on. There's always talk about further expansion in the majors. Well, the players have to come from somewhere." The optimistic association heads sums up his feelings in this manner: "We're indispensable to the majors. They just can't get along without us."

Terry Wins 11th Behind Yankees

NEW YORK (AP)—Tom Tresh and Joe Pepitone drove in all the New York Yankees runs in a 5-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins Saturday as Ralph Terry won his 11th with a seven-inning, Harmon Killebrew's 23rd homer leading off the ninth spoiled Terry's shut-out bid. Tresh drove in three runs with a two-run homer in the third and a sacrifice fly in the first following singles by Tony Kubek and Bobby Richardson. It was Tresh's 17th homer. Pepitone also hit No. 17 off loser Bill Pleis in the second inning. Pepitone's single off relief man Jim Kaat knocked in Roger Maris whose third inning double had knocked out Pleis. The Twins had five of their hits in the first three innings when they left four men on base. The Yanks were held hitless in the last 5-1/3 innings by Kaat and Ray Moore. MINNESOTA NEW YORK

Tips By C. K. Yang Help Ex-Resident Set Record

Pole vaulter Ken House looks like an almost sure bet to become another member of the somewhat famous 16-foot pole vault club. As a freshman at Glendale College in Glendale, Calif., House set a school record this year in the Santa Barbara Relays on March 28 when he cleared 14 feet, 1 1/2 inches to erase the old mark set back in 1959 by Bob Johnson of 14-1/4. House, grandson of Mrs. Marvin House of 1504 Main, is no newcomer to many Big Springers who can still remember him going to Washington Place School up until he was eight and his parents moved to Snyder. He was born in Big Spring. He now lives with his mother in Glendale. His father is Marvin House Jr., of El Paso. The 18-year-old high-flying trackster, who never made good in high school track, credits his success to two things—a Formosan and the new fiber-glass poles. Before the Santa Barbara meet, House's best mark was 13-6. UCLA's C. K. Yang, world's decathlon champion who cleared 15 feet in the meet, told House to look up instead of at the cross bar and to get his feet into the field of vision. Using this principle, House set the school record and then barely missed topping 14-6. When asked about fiberglass, he said, "When I first started using one (a fiberglass pole) last year, I didn't know the technique, so it didn't help me at all—it was just like an aluminum pole. But this year, I've learned the secret of the pole and it has helped me quite a bit." House, the only track man in a family that has long been in athletics, hopes to go to UCLA on a track scholarship this fall and continue his pre-identical courses there. If this doesn't materialize, Glendale College will be lucky enough to have a top-flight pole vaulter for another year.

U. S. Tracksters Win Easily Over Poland

WARSAW (AP) — The United States track and field team, striking back after a close call in Moscow, finished up with a one-sided 125-85 victory over Poland—rated the second best team in Europe—in their two-day dual meet Saturday. The Yankees won 16 of the 20 events over the two days. That was an all-time high for this series, dating back to 1953. The United States has now won all four meetings. The Americans rolled up their biggest margin, 131-81, last year in Chicago. The American girls, under fire for a happy-go-lucky attitude, buckled down, too, and lost only by 58-47 to the Polish women, their best showing. The score last year was 62-45. The 400 meter hurdles set the strongest team event, a sharp contrast to the grim struggle atmosphere in Moscow last weekend, when the Americans won their narrowest victory in history. The day's only real struggle on the track was the 800 meters. Jim Dupree of Los Angeles overhauled Poland's Witold Baran on the backstretch and beat off Baran's challenge down the finishing stretch to win by four yards in 1:48.2. The Polish girls took the 200, 800 and discus, but two American girls, Francis Davenport of Vista, Calif., and Willye White of Chicago, captured the javelin and broad jump—both surprises. That gave the American girls four victories in the 10 events. They failed to win one at Moscow. Miss Davenport's throw of 166 feet, 10 1/4 inches was the best of her life. Miss White's broad jump of 21 feet 3/4 inch was only a shade off her best.

Tigers Oppose Midland Colts

The Big Spring Tigers, sporting an impressive 16-7 record, play the Midland Colts at Steer Park today at 1:30 p.m. in a doubleheader. The visitors have lost only two games. Henry Carr of Arizona State tied the meet mark in the 200 meters with a smooth-striding 20.8 seconds, and Paul Drayton edged Poland's veteran sprinter, Marian Folk into second place. Folk holds the record tied by Carr, and had won the race in the last two United States-Poland meets.

Sandlot Ball Successful And Enduring At Seguin

SEGUIN (AP) — Ever wonder where all the town baseball of the dim yesterdays went? A lot of it stayed right here in Seguin, a town of 16,000 that always has liked its baseball no matter who played it. In the buggy and tin lizzie days, every hamlet had a sandlot ball team. Each Sunday the sporting crowd found its way to the local ball park for the game involving the local, home-grown team and a neighboring rival. After World War II, semi-pro baseball became popular, but declining in the early 50s the demise of semi-pro and town ball started almost at the same time as pro baseball began hitting the skids. But in Seguin the White Sox have been playing regularly since 1922. Actually, the game began that year but the Seguin White Sox have been known by that nickname since the year the Chicago White Sox had their spring training here. The Seguin White Sox are now members of the South Texas League, in their ninth year. Each Sunday the town ball game is a doubleheader, one each from Austin and San Marcos and four from San Antonio. The secret of success for the White Sox is simple. No one, including players, the manager or the public-spirited officers of the team, gets a cent. A pre-season ticket sale grosses nearly $1,000, through box seat and season ticket sales. The only expense involved are park rental, umpires and baseball equipment. The White Sox average around 300 fans for their home games and their 32-game summer schedule shows about 200 or more. The top gate this summer was on July 4 with more than 700 fans. The team is composed of local players, except for Texas Lutheran College players who stay in Seguin for the summer to work and play ball with the Sox. "The fact that we've continued to have a team year after year is probably the biggest reason for the success both at the gate and in the box office," said White Sox President Malcolm Tate. Ironically, the Sox seldom play on Sunday afternoon any more since TV and air-conditioning has cramped attendance on what was usually the best day for a game. Instead, it's Saturday night. The manager is Veri Westergard, the football coach at Texas Lutheran and a former pitcher in the Chicago White Sox farm organization. He works free.

These Are Real Old Timers

J. O. Miller, a resident of Modesto, Calif., who was declared the pioneer who travelled the greatest distance to attend the reunion.

Reunion Has Big Attendance

The 39th annual Old Settlers Reunion broke all records for attendance Friday, and association members called on Jess Slaughter, president, to keep the good work going for another two years.

He was re-elected as was Cecil Long, vice president, who handled the herculean chore of preparing the food for approximately 2,400 participants. Mrs. Herman (Dorothy) Taylor was named secretary, succeeding Mrs. Ruth Wilson.

Slaughter, who has been busy as a bee for several weeks, had great praise for all who helped make the big party possible.

"We want to say thanks to everyone who helped in any way, especially to those who handled the cooking, helped prepare the food and serve it, to the many who made donations of food and cash, who helped with registration and in many other ways," he said.

Long and his helpers served up 2,000 pounds of barbecued beef and upwards of 500 pounds of barbecued goat meat, together with 200 pounds of pinto beans, and worlds of other food. Before the last of the long lines had passed the serving table, the son-of-a-gun stew had disappeared. However the barbecue held out — barely — and everyone was served.

"We can't tell exactly how we came out," said Slaughter. "We more than broke even on the dance, but we'll have to see whether we have enough donations to cover the expenses. In spite of all the generous donations of food, etc., it takes about $1,500 to put on one of these things."

Pack 48 Stages Moss Creek Meet

Cub Pack 48 held a family outing Friday evening at Moss Creek Lake with swimming and contests for the youngsters.

After swimming on the south side, Cubs took part in a watermelon eating contest at the pavilion. Winners were Scott McLaughlin, Jessie Armstead and David Lewis. There also was a cracker eating and whistling contest before a picnic dinner was spread.

District Due New Record

The Colorado River Municipal Water District has been cited by the American Water Works Association for excellence in safety.

Out of 93,808 hours worked during the past year, the district had only eight hours of last time due to an accident on the job. A plaque will be sent to the district from the national association, said O. H. Ivie, assistant manager.

Families Attend Rites In Kerens

Several Big Spring families have returned from Kerens, Tex., where they attended funeral services for John W. Phillips, 69, who died unexpectedly at his home following a heart attack shortly after visiting here.

Mr. Phillips succumbed July 15 and was buried in the Kerens cemetery the following day. Until his retirement, Mr. Phillips operated a store at Rural Shade near Kerens.

Attending last rites from here were Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Phillips and family and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Phillips. The latter two men were sons of the deceased. Another son, Ware Phillips, and his family attended from Longview.

Good Progress On Highways

One important state - federal road job was completed last week and another of even greater importance was initiated.

Joe Smoot, resident engineer for the State Highway Department, said that the department has accepted as complete the rebuilding of a segment of US 80 on the east ends of Third and Fourth streets. This project, under way for several months, represents an expenditure of $273,000.

The State Highway Commission Wednesday indicated that a Dallas - Fort Worth bidder was low for the proposed reconstruction of the Gregg Street viaduct. This project, planned to get under way in September, will represent expenditure of nearly $900,000.

State and federal road building projects under way in Howard County at this time or slated to start in the immediate future, represent the expenditure of around $6,000,000, Smoot pointed out. These jobs are providing employment for a large number of workers and contributing importantly to the general economy of the county.

Meantime, progress is reported on the big one — the IS 20 loop around the city. Smoot said that the department gets official progress reports only once a month, and these show that both legs of this multimillion dollar program are moving ahead.

Two overpasses — one on SH 350 and the other on US 87 — are nearly ready to be put into service. Smoot said the bridges themselves are completed. The contractors are busy on the approaches. He estimated both would be opened to traffic by the middle of August.

Two major structures, one over the Texas and Pacific Railway tracks on the east end of the loop road, and the other across a salt lake west of town, are well along. Steel is being placed on both, and Smoot said the jobs are well in hand.

Ranch Roundup Begins Monday

The second Ranch Roundup begins Monday at St. Mary's Episcopal Church. It concludes Friday at 8 p.m. with a Grande Fiesta.

Under the direction of the Rev. Gayland Pool, curate, and Mrs. Frank Johnson, the Roundup is open to all children from four years of age through the seventh grade. It includes daily worship, horseback riding or rides in a huckboard, crafts and the opportunity for Christian development. It meets each day from 9-11:30 a.m.

Each person attending will be placed in a ranch outfit, with the various groups competing against each other for awards in singing, skits and worship. Awards will be given out Friday. Mrs. Johnson is in charge of outfit bosses and Mrs. Ralph Hughes will direct Junior Ranchers — youngsters who have not yet completed the first grade.

A Church wagon will furnish refreshments. Assisting in the many areas of work will be the young people of the church.

Stanton Rotary Club Has New Members

STANTON (SC) — The Rev. C. R. LeMond, pastor of the First Methodist Church, was the speaker at the Rotary Club meeting Wednesday noon at Rite Way Restaurant. Rev. LeMond used as his topic, "My Motto." Three new members Beryl Clinton, Rev. C. R. LeMond and Neil Estes, were introduced.

VERNON LONG

Vernon Long Wins Honor

COAHOMA (SC) — Vernon Long, of the Coahoma FFA Chapter, received the Lone Star Farmer Degree in ceremonies conducted Thursday during the state convention of the Texas Association, Future Farmers of America, in Lubbock. This is the highest degree which may be earned in the state Future Farmer of America work.

Vernon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Long, Stanton, formerly of the Vincent Community.

To qualify for the Lone Star Farmer Degree a student must have demonstrated outstanding ability in leadership in the local chapter and school, must have an outstanding supervised project program in vocational agriculture, and must be above average scholastically in all school subjects. He also must be recommended by his vocational teacher.

al agriculture teacher, principal, and superintendent. His application must be passed on by a board of review in the area, composed of several teachers of vocational agriculture, and the state committee composed of several state student officers and some members of the VA Education staff of the Texas Education Agency.

Vernon was selected as the Lone Star Farmer of the El Rancho District during a meeting in May. He is currently serving as president of his local chapter, and was re-elected to that post recently.

TUFTS AND ROSES, in a billowing cloud of white cotton, with a sculpturesque bodice is the gown to be worn by Miss Virginia Morris when she appears as "Miss Big Spring" in competition for the title of "Miss Texas." The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Morris, 1012 Stadium, she will leave July 30 to enter state competition at Fort Worth. She will be chaperoned during the week by Mrs. Leland Graves. Also attending will be a Big Spring delegation comprised of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Morris, Charles Beil, Jack Orr and Gordon Cizon.

Aspires To Title Of 'MISS TEXAS'

GOOD GROOMING is the keynote to beauty Miss Morris believes. Hair styling and care, for an attractive appearance, are essential in the good grooming program. Here she studies facial contours to determine the most flattering style for her hair.

FROTHY WHITE layers of cotton form the wrap-around skirt for a playsuit, converting it into appropriate attire for morning coffee wear or just to gadabout. The boy pants are white, shown right, with yellow the predominant color in the bold, pastel print top. Here Miss Big Spring takes a coffee break.

A LONE STAR BEAUTY will be chosen Saturday, Aug. 3, in Fort Worth. Aspiring to the state title, Miss Morris is presently engaged in practice sessions and consultations. She will give her original poem, "Infant Earth," and sing "Day In, Day Out" in the talent contest. During her free time she relaxes by reading a good book—her favorite pastime.

WOMEN'S NEWS

Big Spring Daily Herald

SECTION C

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JULY 28, 1963

PARTY ATTIRE for the Fort Worth events will include this dream of a dress in yellow and white cotton. It is designed with a plunging back, fitted bodice and full, gathered skirt. With this, Miss Big Spring wears yellow patent pumps and short white gloves.

Miss Grooms Complimented

A pre-nuptial event, Saturday at the Big Spring Country Club, complimented Miss Telie Grooms, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Jordan Grooms of Amarillo, formerly of Big Spring. Miss Grooms is the bride-elect of Jerry Hewett, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Hewett of Lomax.

Hostesses for the luncheon and personal shower were Miss Winnie Greenlees, who will serve as maid of honor to Miss Grooms, and Miss Mozelle Groebel, bridesmaid. They were assisted by their mothers, Mrs. Winifred Greenlees and Mrs. Ted O. Groebel Sr.

The bride-elect's colors, blue and white, were featured in a motif of hearts and flowers. The couples' pictures were mounted in blue and white twin hearts surrounded with blue and white flowers. Blue candles and white maline flanked the center arrangement on the luncheon table.

Pearls formed twin hearts in the blue and white corsage received by the honoree, and place cards repeated the twin hearts and colors. Place favors were heart-shaped bottles of cologne, backed in white maline and tied with blue ribbon and forget-me-nots.

The hostesses' gift was a silver heart engraved with the couples names and the wedding date, Aug. 17, 1963. The ceremony will be performed in Amarillo.

Brightness Retained

Cut green foliage will stay bright for a long time with little care. Either mash woody stem ends of the foliage with a hammer, or cut long slits in the thick stem ends to permit their absorption of water. Foliage so-treated should be rolled in wet newspaper, and stems inserted in a pail or other container of hot water for several hours, or overnight, before the foliage is arranged in water-filled containers. When fresh flowers are added, their stem ends should be cut diagonally with a sharp knife so they will absorb moisture.

HINTS FROM HELOISE by Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:
I would like to share my dishwashing method with you and your readers.

This started as an easy way to do them on a vacation, and now has become my only mode of doing them.

I have a flat sponge (a thick one is not as easy to work with) and I squirt a little of my favorite liquid soap on it. I use this to wash off all soil and then hold my dishes under hot, clean, running water.

My mother says I use a lot of hot water this way but I do not think it is any more than the old greasy dishpan method because I am not rinsing the dishes first, and I always used to do that and let my water run while I rinsed them, anyway, I know I use lots less soap and half the time. This method is also good for doing up odds and ends of in-between-meal dishes.

Dear Heloise:
Sometimes water is cheaper than energy and expensive soap! I agree wholeheartedly.

FROM HELOISE'S CLOSET
Dear Heloise:
Do you have a pair of shoes with a worn inner sole? And hate to spend money to have it replaced?

Here's my answer:
Remove the old worn inner sole from your shoe and place it on top of some adhesive-backed plastic and cut a new one! Any scrap of it you happen to have around the house will do. Remove thin film from back and stick the new inner-sole in shoe.

If you buy some, I suggest you purchase black. It sure looks neat in my shoes!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I save much precious time on scrubbing-and-waxing day by using an electric fan to dry my floors.

Set a table model electric fan on the floor in the doorway of the floor which you wish to wash and wax (aim it at the floor itself.) I have the floor washed and waxed in one-quarter the time it took me to do it the old way of letting it dry by itself. The fan dries the floor so fast and saves so much of your time that you will be amazed.

Dear Heloise:
I cook a lot of stews, soups and sauces, and I have found it best to use an asbestos pad over my gas burner for simmering.

My gas stove does not happen to have simmer cycle so I place a plain round asbestos pad about

The pads are plain and have a crimped metal edge. Since they have a ring on the edge, they may be hung on a hook out of sight or kept in the storage compartment of your stove.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
Dear Heloise:
For your children, who are nail-biters . . . rub the nails along a cake of bar soap and then rinse them.

Just enough soap will remain under the child's nails to make the whole "process" unpleasant and serves as a reminder if the little ones keep on trying to break themselves of the habit!

Helen Bolesh

Dear Heloise:
I smiled to myself when I read about the woman holding a fresh tomato over heat to remove the skin. Well, I have an easier method!

All one has to do is to take a tomato in one hand and the paring knife in the other. Take the blunt end of the knife and pretend to peel the entire tomato. (You are actually loosening the skin from the tomato itself.) Then take the blade and, pierce the bottom of the tomato and peel it. The skin comes right off.

There will be no juice running down your fingers, no using hot water or heat, and it's a cold tomato that can be served at once.

WARNING OF DANGER
By HELOISE

Dear Folks:
This is most important! Read it and remember it!

Many people have written that they are defrosting their refrigerators by filling their electric skillets with water, connecting them, putting them in their refrigerators and letting the steam defrost the refrigerator.

DO NOT DO THIS!

Before I print letters containing such suggestions, I consult authorities. My electrical safety consultant, Mr. Francis McKinney, has informed me that five people have died in the last two months from similar circumstances. Awful!

When you plug that electric skillet into a socket and place it in your refrigerator, which may be grounded (and if properly connected it should be) and touch the refrigerator anywhere . . . even the door. YOU will have completed a shock circuit to ground yourself!

Gals, funerals are expensive nowadays. Our budget doesn't allow for 'em. Besides, it's cold six feet under. Live!

Your refrigerator doesn't have to be grounded for you to be dead either. If your skillet is faulty in any way . . . you still have a funeral bill!

Ladies, bachelors and anyone who has a refrigerator, I beg of you NOT to defrost with an electric skillet.

This column is NOT written lightly. Many of you wonder why I do not print all of your suggestions. This is one of the reasons . . . why!

You may send your inquiries about any electrical-type hints in to me and I will check on them.

Miss Delores Howard, organist, presented a program of traditional music and accompanied the vocalist, Mrs. Vonnie Downey, who sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "Whither Thou Goest."

Attired in a ballerina length gown of white imported French lace over nylon tulle, the bride was accompanied to the altar and given in marriage by her father. Designed with long tapered sleeves and scooped neckline of scalloped, sequined lace, the gown featured a full, tulle skirt with an overlay of lace petals. A crown of rhinestones and drop pearls secured the bridal veil of silk illusion. A white Bible and a lace handkerchief, which belonged to the bride's great-grandmother, was carried with a cluster of white feathered carnations centered with two white orchids.

Miss Kathy Cone, the bridegroom's sister, was maid of honor. Her blue, silk organza dress, worn over taffeta, was styled with a round neckline, cap sleeves and full skirt. A single rose at the waistline was repeated in the veiled headpiece. She carried a nosegay of pink Sweetheart roses and white pompons.

Light blue satin was the dress worn by Miss Barbara Smith of Corpus Christi, who served as bridesmaid. The semi-sheath was designed with three-quarter sleeves, a round neck and a satin overskirt trimmed with rosebuds of the material. Her hat and shoes were of matching blue.

Dan Cone served as best man to his brother, Roger Hubbard, who was groomsman and ushers were Mike Paige, the bride's brother, and Dick Meacham, who also lighted the tapers.

Teresa Rankin, the bride's cousin, wore a light blue silk organza dress over taffeta to serve as the flower girl. She carried a basket filled with rose petals.

RECEPTION

White gladioli and carnations centered the white, net-covered refreshment table. Appointments were of silver and the three-tiered bride's cake was frosted white and embossed with confection roses. The bridal figurines were placed on the top tier.

Try A Cold Meat Leftover Treat

What is the best manner of serving leftover meats in the summer? Cut the chilled meat into cubes or strips and feature a cold meat salad as your main entree on a hot evening. Combine the meat with fresh vegetables or fruits and a dressing. Ready-to-serve meats are also delicious in meat salads.

Plants Perk-Up Ugly Room Areas

If you have dull strips of wall between windows and doors, too narrow for effective use of pictures, try placing flowers or small green plants in wall containers there. Such "ugly duckling" areas then will hold "their own" in your decorative scheme.

Intriguing, but what is it? Papua, one of the darker races of Oceania, has a fascinating way with batik-ing. Pile Trimmings In Muffin Tray

Does the menu call for hot dogs grilled over wood charcoal briquets? Then use one or more muffin trays to serve the trimmings. The bowl-shaped compartments are ideal to hold mustard, catsup, sauerkraut, chopped onions, chili and corn relish.

Small spoons in each compartment encourage diners to help themselves. The tray can be refilled in one trip to the kitchen.

A muffin tray also holds toppings for charcoal-roasted potatoes. Crumbled bacon, chopped onions, pats of butter, minced chives and cottage cheese are good choices. Use the tray to hold dips when snacks are grilled on the charcoal hibachi.

If the tray is a permanent patio utensil, you can decorate it with colored tape or other festive touches. It's a handy addition to all barbecue parties.

Handbook Published On Flowering Trees

Novel as the idea may seem at first, a garden of flowering trees is not mere fantasy, but rather a practical solution to the landscape problem of providing a continuous succession of bloom over an extended period of time with a minimum of initial effort and after-care.

This sound advice from E. L. Kammerer of the Morton Arboretum, Lisle, Ill., is the keynote of the contents of the latest Handbook published by the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, titled "Flowering Trees."

Evening Nuptial Rites Performed For Couple

STANTON (SC)—Miss Martha Day Johnson and Thomas John Bergman pledged wedding vows Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the First Baptist Church of Stanton with the Rev. J. R. Williams, Courtney Baptist Church, officiating.

DO-IT-YOURSELF

And before closing, friends, if you want real eye-glamour for that evening party or for the forthcoming luau you won't have to play around with those adhesive falsies; you can just make your own. The latest mascara deal comes equipped with that little soft downy substance which makes your lashes as you apply the brush. It's great.

Also new and noted during the glamour hour at the local beauty clinic this week was a small square board which you can play with, while at the same time do some figure trimming. It's inexpensive and fun. All you do is stand on it and it works as a twister, operating on a ball bearing base. The little wonder takes up no space and can be whisked away in a drawer or closet at a moment's notice.

Dimensions Given In Foliage Styling

A foliage arrangement should never be less than 1 1/4 times the height of the container used. For a table centerpiece, both the container and arrangement should be low. The width may be 1 1/2 to 2 1/4 times the container's diameter. In all arrangements, it's easier to start with the tallest foliage and then fill in. Fresh flowers should always be inserted at the focal point of the arrangement used.

MRS. JOHN PAUL AMOS

Vows Are Repeated In Candlelight Ceremony

In a candlelight setting, Miss Rebecca Sue Forshee became the bride of John Paul Amos when marriage vows were pledged Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The double ring service was read by the Rev. Joe Leatherwood in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church.

The altar scene was marked with a central sunburst arrangement of white gladioli, mums and stock. Cathedral tapers in tall wrought iron candelabra and emerald fern flanked the altar flowers. Pews were marked with white satin.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Dietrich, 255-A March Circle, and Mr. and Mrs. George P. Amos, 2100 Main St.

BRIDAL GOWN

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of tulle and Chantilly lace over white satin. The bodice, accented with pearls, featured a scooped neckline outlined with tulle pleating. Short, shirred sleeves, caught with pearls, were complemented with white lace gaunlets, also edged with tulle pleating. The flounced, hooped skirt was styled with an overskirt of lace which tapered from the front to terminate in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle was secured by a pearl encrusted crown.

The bridal bouquet, carried with a white Bible, was a cascade of frenched carnations showed with tulle leaves and white satin piost ribbon.

Miss Martha Thompson, the maid of honor, wore a gown of orchid organza over taffeta designed with round neckline, cap sleeves and full skirt. She wore a blush veil and rose headpiece. Pink and orchid mums, showered in matching satin, formed the nosegay which she carried.

Bridesmaids, Miss Vicki Amos, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Judi Forshee, the bride's sister, and Miss Phoebe Rice, wore pink dresses styled like that of the honor attendant.

Tommy Newton was best man for the bridegroom. Ushers were Jerry Richbourg, Marvin Simmons and Alton Fields. Don Johnston served as candlelighter.

RECEPTION

A reception, following the wedding, was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church with the couple, the parents and the grandparents receiving guests.

A white floor length cloth of organza covered the bride's table, centered with a five branched candelabrum tied with a satin bow surrounded by rosebuds at the base.

Her triple-tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Lavender and pink confection roses decorated the white cake.

Guests were registered by Miss Gloria Greenwood. Serving at the table were Mrs. W. L. Thompson and Mrs. Jack Alexander, Mrs. Sam Mellinger and Mrs. Floyd McGraw. Others in the house party were Mrs. Clyde Johnston, Miss Cleo Thomas and Mrs. Jim Bob Chaney.

WEDDING TRIP

For their wedding trip Mrs. Amos chose a white pebble-crepe suit trimmed in turquoise with matching slippers and bag. Her corsage was the white carnations from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1963 graduate of Big Spring High School. Amos attended Big Spring High School also. Following a trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple will reside in Big Spring.

MRS. JIMMY D. HENSLEY

Nuptial Vows Pledged At E. Fourth Church

Nuptial vows were exchanged by Miss Susan Paulette Morris and Jimmie Doyle Hensley Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in the East Fourth St. Baptist Church. The Rev. Billy Rudd officiated in the double ring rites.

White gladioli, stock and mums, with fern trees, candelabra and lighted tapers, formed a background for the ceremony. The bride's aisle was marked with white standards joined by white satin ribbon. Satin also marked the pews.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Ewing B. Thorpe Jr., 2308 Alledale Road, and E. D. Morris, Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hensley, 405 Valley.

Morris accompanied his daughter and gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of white Alencon lace over white taffeta. The lace, scalloped at the neckline, formed cap sleeves. Detailed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, the bouffant lace skirt was floor length and hooped. The fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a crown of pearls and iridescent sequins. Her flowers were a cascade arrangement of french carnations centered with red Sweetheart roses and showered with satin and tulle. To the bouquet was attached a small silver horse shoe, with bridal blossoms and a small white dove, sent from England by the bride's aunt.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Carol Ann Morris, the bride's sister and maid of honor, wore a day dress of aqua-tinted nylon net over taffeta styled with bouffant skirt. Her headpiece of nylon tulle was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried white glamelias tied with aqua satin. Miss Doris Hensley, the bridegroom's sister, served as bridesmaid, wearing a pink dress fashioned like that of the honor attendant.

Darwin Billingsley was best man, with the bride's brother, Gordon Morris, the groomsmen. Kenneth Hamby and Mark Price were the ushers.

Necha Aston was the flower girl, and Douglas Aston, the bride's cousin, served as ring bearer.

RECEPTION
The honored couple, Mr. and Mrs. Thorpe, Mr. and Mrs. Hensley and the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Clark of England, were those who received guests in the Blue Room of the Cosden Country Club.

Laundry Is Fussy About Weather

Laundry is quite a bit fussier than people are about what makes perfect summer weather. We'll settle for any balmy, un-muggy, rainless summer day, when the sun is up, and the humidity down—and we do get a few like that. But what it takes to have perfect clothes drying weather is a steadily flowing, gentle breeze of dry air to remove moisture; constant bouncy breezes to flex fibers and tumble the drying laundry to fluff softness; even warmth, without strong, searing sun; complete privacy away from birds, insects and people—especially those carefree youngsters who dare to think their own backyard is a place to play; pure, clean, "laboratory" fresh air, without even a breath of an out-door breeze to blow dust and dirt around the clean washing as it dries.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

If you haven't had your vacation this summer and plan to get one, it is my advice to hurry. July is about to slip away and August plans for starting school are heading up.

Teachers are getting their days laid out for beginning of the term workshops and mamas are mentally laying out wardrobes for their scholars. Before we know it the buzzers, instead of the bells, will be bringing the children into the classrooms and all trips and travel will go on the shelf until next year.

Our young guest, PAUL PARSONS, left Friday for his home in Little Rock, Ark., after spending two weeks here.

From the Kermil paper comes word of the approaching marriage of DIANTHA LANCASTER, daughter of MR. and MRS. JONATHAN LANCASTER. She is the granddaughter of J. B. PICKLE.

The wedding will take place at the First Methodist Church in Kermil on August 31. The prospective bridegroom is DON HASKELL ALSPAUGH, son of MR. and MRS. HASKELL ALSPAUGH of Kermil.

The REV. J. P. LANCASTER of Colorado Springs, grandfather of the bride-elect will officiate for the ceremony.

MRS. BILL DROKE of Denver, Colo., has returned to her home after spending a week with her parents, MR. and MRS. BILL MCCREE.

MRS. W. J. GARRETT is in San Angelo this week where she joined her eight sisters for their annual reunion. The hostess for this year is MRS. PAUL J. BROWN who has some special pictures to show the group during the visit.

Mrs. Brown and her three married daughters toured Europe early in the season and have some very interesting slide pictures which Mrs. Garrett was to have seen earlier. The slides include pictures of the wedding procession of Princess Alexander and a good shot of Queen Elizabeth, cousin of the bride. Also there are some views of Pope John as he held his last audience at the Vatican.

Mrs. Garrett will be in San Angelo until the middle of the week.

MRS. LAURA BAKER will accompany her daughter, MRS. A. B. HARWELL, back to her home in Lamesa today after spending a week with her niece, MRS. MILLER HARRIS.

FIRST UNIT OF BENNETT HOUSE
... opens officially here this afternoon

Bennett House Schedules Open House Here Today

Bennett House, one of the largest nursing homes in the state, will open officially with brief ceremonies today at 12:30 p.m. at 9th and Goliad.

Dr. Louise Worthy, daughter of the late Dr. M. H. Bennett for whom the facility is named, will cut the ribbon, and Shine Philips, who inspired Bruce Frazier and his family to build the home, will receive the keys as the first resident.

Doors will be opened for public inspection of the three-quarters of a million dollar plant. Actually, it will be in operation Sunday because Philips will have moved there Saturday; but most of those who have applied for places will begin arriving Monday.

The nursing home is just what the name implies, and although by nature most of the residents will be elderly individuals, convalescents of any age or others needing nursing care will be welcomed.

Centrally located, the initial 100-bed unit of the facility fronts on Goliad. The second 100-bed unit, will be ready for occupancy within a month. Not long after that, a service center containing open dental clinic, barber and beauty shop, laundry and storage will be completed. Both units will overlook Birdwell Park to the east.

The B Corporation, in which Frazier, his wife, and his mother, Mrs. Nell Frazier, are the stockholders, will operate Bennett House.

"Definite objectives have been built into this institution," said Frazier. "First of all, we have aimed at best possible care for residents at the most reasonable prices. The comfort, welfare and security of our occupants is the prime consideration.

"Our second major aim is that individuals will keep their identity, that they always be regarded and treated with dignity and individuality. Another objective is the security of our residents. Finally, we are planning many things to give them a sense of adventure."

Assignments will keep in mind the most efficient means of serving residents. For instance one wing will be for receiving where new individuals will become oriented to their homes, or where temporary convalescents will be served. Another wing will be given over to cases demanding intensive care. Two wings will be devoted to long-term patients, many of whom will be ambulatory or semi-ambulatory.

The home will offer numerous special services. In addition to recreation rooms, there will be a closed circuit television for announcements and staff programs; also central TV and radio connections if desired; assistance in obtaining special RN or LVN nursing service, therapists, physicians, etc. A regular nursing staff is on duty at all times, and from central kitchens residents may be served in their rooms or the dining room.

While the facility is centrally located, there is a bus with side door which can accommodate wheel chair as well as other passengers. Adjacent is a city park, three churches, a shopping center hospital. The downtown area is only 10 blocks away.

Chapels Included In Accommodation

Although Bennett House is within walking distance of almost a dozen churches, each unit has its own chapel, just off the main lobby near the reception desk.

The chapel is non-denominational for the use of all guests and will serve as a place for residents to meet with their pastors or to hold small services. A special sculpture by Rodin, the Praying Hands, will be the only feature on the altar.

Residents To Have Unique Furnishings

Furniture and fixture are all unique in the Bennett House.

A rugged, western look is given the tables, chairs and throughout the modern building, through the use of Ranch Oak furnishings. This furniture is built for permanency and easy maintenance, plus being put together to stay. Even the administrative offices are furnished in this heavy duty furniture, which is designed to please the eye.

The dining room, living room, lounge and the activities rooms, carry this same motif.

Throughout Bennett House, vinyl tile was installed to give long wear and add to the hand-someness of the building. Three areas have carpeting—the chapel, and two administrative offices. Rooms of residents are prohibited by law from having carpeting.

Draperies throughout the building are fireproof as are the mattresses on all beds. Beds are the "hospital" type, that is, they allow the resident to select the position in which he prefers to lie.

Convenient ash trays of aluminum are wall mounted in the corridors.

Indirect lighting is a feature throughout the building, in residents' rooms as well as in corridors and meeting places. These also fit the building's decor.

Three Buildings Comprise City's New Nursing Home

Bennett House is actually three buildings, located at Eighth and Goliad, comprising two units of housing for residents, plus an auxiliary building for extra services.

The living units are identical and shaped like the letter "E,"

Radio, TV Provided

You can bring your own or make arrangements for one.

Television and radio are part of the accommodations of Bennett House. Residents may bring their own, if they wish. Or, the management will furnish them.

One aspect of this program includes plans to originate television programs in the activities room, which will be carried on closed circuit network to the various rooms. These Bennett House programs will feature guests as well as other things of interest to residents.

Bruce Frazier, administrator, will apply some of his talents to this facet of the program. He has many years experience on local radio and television stations.

"We haven't planned our programming definitely yet," he said, "but residents will see such things as the daily menu broadcast from the kitchen and local entertainment organizations. He added that residents will probably be recognized on their birthdays and new residents will be introduced over the closed channel.

"It will be a lot of fun for all of us," he said. In addition, he is planning a bingo game.

Each Resident Has Own Mail Box

Mail-time for Bennett House guests will be the same as for other post office patrons in Big Spring.

Each resident will have a post office box at the nurses' station in his wing. Mail will be put up at a regular time daily and residents may call for it merely by walking down the hall.

For bedfast patients, they merely ask the nurse to bring their mail to them, by using their intercom connection. This special mail service is planned to give residents identity, one of the basic aims of Bennett House.

with the two longer legs (wings) including the living areas and the shorter leg housing the kitchen and service areas.

Each unit is independent of the other and will house 100 residents. There are 25 rooms on each wing, which branch off the main corridor.

Entering the building, visitors walk into the formal living room, cornered by the reception desk. The chapel faces off this area. Following through a modern partition, is the dining area and den. The kitchen and food preparation area is directly behind, as is the administrator's office.

The chief nurse's office adjoins the lobby area. On the main corridor is an examination room, for use of residents and their doctors. Next to it, across from large linen storage areas, is a laundry room with coin-operated machines for residents who prefer to do some of their own laundry.

At the junction of the main corridor with the wing corridors, is a nursing station and central bath area. Although 12 rooms have complete toilet and bath facilities, the remainder have toilets only. All guests may use the wing bath facilities, however, which feature large showers and tubs of almost pool sized proportions. These also feature electric lifts for the infirm, for getting in and out.

With the exception of two, all residents' rooms are alike. They feature spacious closet areas, with drawer storage beneath. Indirect lighting highlights colorful drapes which shade windows large enough to crawl through in the unlikely event of fire.

Heavy furniture of Ranch Oak style, designed for pleasant appearance and low maintenance, enhance the rooms. There are twin beds and a switch for summoning a nurse is within easy reach of the bed area. Mattresses are fire and moisture proof. Beds are the type that can be raised to any position and all have guard rails.

A chest for each resident is in maple, to match the bed. Ample tables and a place to mount the television, if desired, round out the furnishings.

The average rooms are about 12 x 20 feet. However, in each wing there is one larger one available, about 20 x 20 feet. This larger room has large walk-in closets and fronts on the main street.

An activities room, for special events, is at the rear of one wing and an outdoor recreation room, screened-in, is at the rear of the other. Both areas are for the use of all patients.

Rooms with private bath—there are 12—are shared between two rooms.

The area most visitors will see is the mammoth living room and den area. A fireplace flanks the den, where television will be available to those who do not choose to have a set in their room.

The entire building is fire proofed, with zones behind automatically-closing doors. Even the attic has these safeguards.

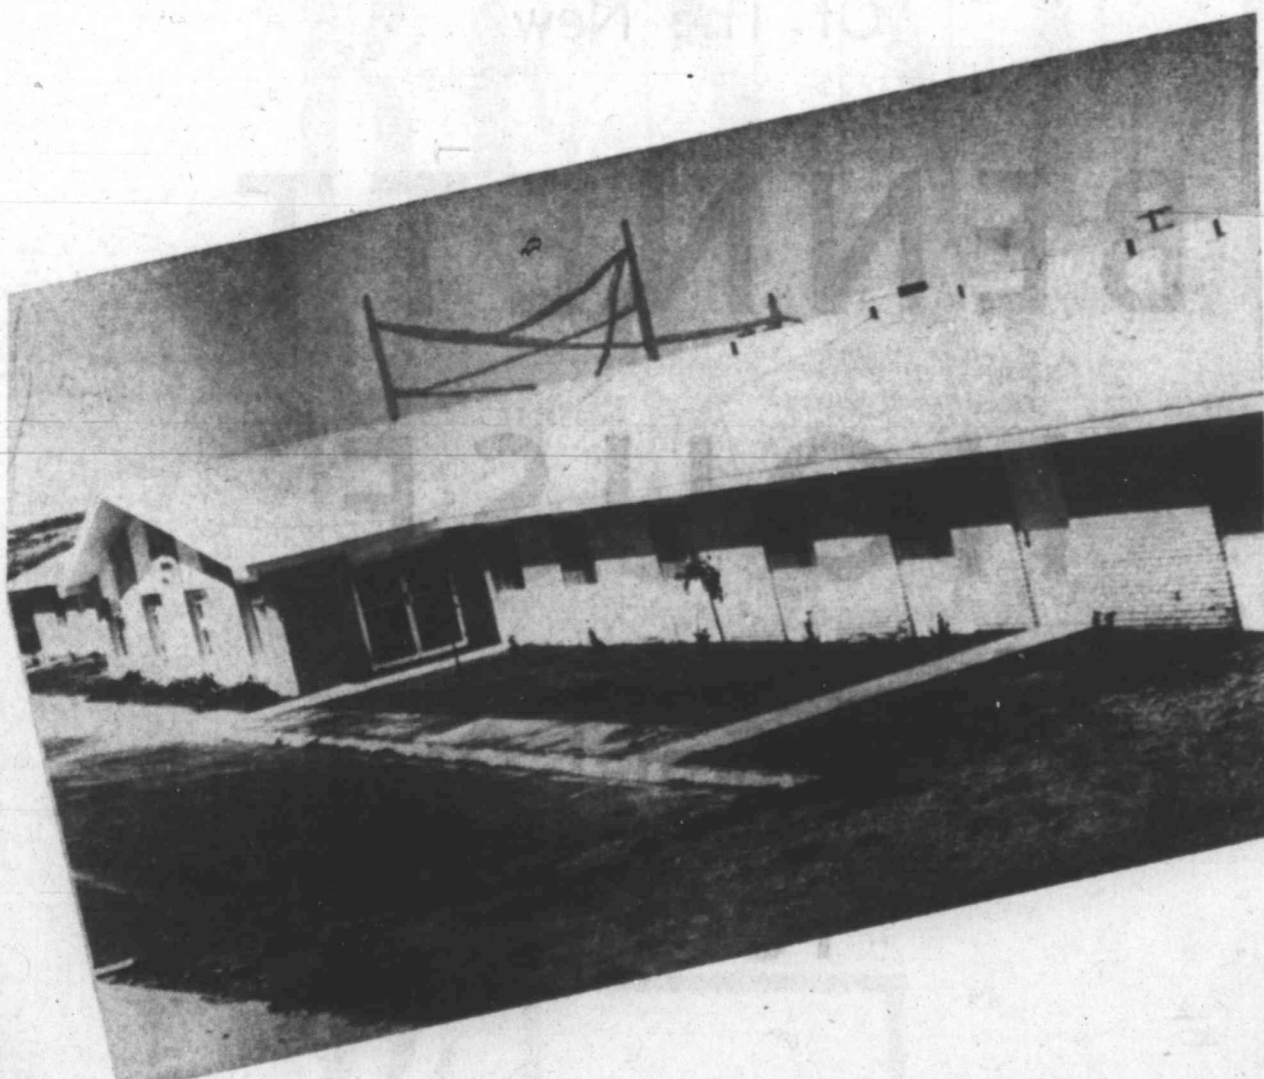

Each of the Bennett House units cost some $200,000, or about double that including furnishings. The units include 22,500 square feet which is comprised of white brick exterior with asphalt shingle roofing. The buildings blend in with area architecture.

Staff Sociologist To Work In Social, Recreational Area

Making the stay of residents in Bennett House a happy, satisfying experience is the objective of Dennis W. McClure.

McClure is the staff sociologist and will be in charge of activities, will work with admissions and adjustments that may need to be made.

McClure brings much enthusiasm to his job. He is a native of Lamesa, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. McClure still reside. After he was graduated from Lamesa High School in 1958, he attended Texas A&M College for a year as an engineer major, then transferred to Howard County Junior College where he took a pre-agricultural engineering course which put him in several classes under James Bruce Frazier.

When he returned to A&M he had decided on a career in sociology. In the meantime, attending a social for nurse trainees in Houston, he met Dorris McCune of Henderson and they subsequently were married. He completed his degree requirements and was graduated with a sociology major in June of this year.

He and Mrs. McClure make their home at 1601 Owens. He is a member of the Baptist Temple.

Unusual Man, Unusual Facility

A most unusual man has come up with a most unusual facility for Big Spring — the 200-bed Bennett House nursing home.

James Bruce Frazier has more irons in the fire than a cattle rustler, but this is his biggest and hottest one. Like many other projects he has conceived or supported, he has put boundless energy and enthusiasm into it. Even though the doors are just opening officially today, Frazier is still dreaming dreams for this double unit, regarded as perhaps the third largest in the state.

Whether this crowds out some other activities from his busy schedule remains to be seen, but on the basis of past performance, likely not.

Ostensibly his profession is that of college instructor. Yet he is up to his ears in real estate development, radio and news telecasting, tourist tours, civic improvement, and heading one of the biggest and most fascinating families in the area. How he gets around to all these things is a minor mystery.

Bruce Frazier was born in Electra and came here with his parents when only three years of age. He graduated in 1941 from Big Spring High School, where he had known a young co-ed, Jimmie Fay Rogers, whom he was destined to marry.

He entered Texas A&M, but after two years he went into the Army Air Corps. Asthma overwhelmed him, however, and late in 1943 he was carted off to a hospital. Even after a long stay there and building up, he weighed only 135 pounds when released with a medical discharge.

So he turned back to A&M, but a faculty advisor urged him to forget it. He didn't, and in 1945 he received his bachelor of science degree in agriculture. Then he took a job instructing veterans on the farms in Robertson County, which permitted him to continue studying toward his master's degree at A&M. However, his mother, Mrs. Nell Frazier, and his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rogers, were in Big Spring, so they came home about the time Big Spring was kicking up its heels with the big centennial celebration in 1949.

In addition to helping run his mother's farm west of the city, he got a job as agriculture instructor at Howard County Junior College. Not long afterwards, he completed work on his master's degree.

Soon he had cooked up a radio program over old station KTXC which he later transferred to KBST. Some seven years ago he began a daily television show, too. Frazier actually started when he lived in Bryan, broadcasting over KORA on agriculture and gardening.

He also managed to squeeze in some in-service short courses offered here and held some other miscellaneous jobs. Later he and Mrs. Frazier acquired 62 acres from the late Mike Phelan in the hilly country southeast of Big Spring, and before long he was marking off 14 streets, selling acreage.

Frazier became interested with several other young Big Spring people in community improvement and helped form the Big Spring Civic Improvement League. Among other things, the league wanted to get an urban renewal project to upgrade some of the city's northwest slums. Other community interests pinned his ears back, but not his dream, for he bought acreage in the area and sunk $35,000 in utilities, curb gutters for Carver Heights where he hopes to see low cost housing rise.

His work at HCJC led to establishment of a geology department, and his field trips became legendary. Once he took 88 (any one interested could go) and spent a weekend preparing 800 meals on an open wood stove. Frazier also "discovered" the Chihuahua el Pacifico railroad nearing completion after a half century of building, and as a principal booster has led scores on tours over it. He also organized a safari to Europe.

While the Bennett House development has been going on, he also has been making plans for an industrial district on part of the family farm on IS (US 80) west of town. He has been in negotiation with one sizable industry, plus some prime motel firms.

Meanwhile, he has found time to make his family his No. 1 interest. He and Mrs. Frazier have nine children ranging from a high school graduate to a baby. They have them pretty well organized—"we couldn't operate if we didn't"—and half a dozen of them have helped in some way with getting Bennett House going.

Frazier has taken an active part in his church (14th and Main Church of Christ) and frequently preaches in Spanish to the Church of Christ on the north side. On his Mexican journeys, he usually delivers a sermon or two. He fills probably more speaking engagements in the area than anyone.

His day begins at about 4:30 a.m. ("I got in the habit when I carried the Star Telegram and can't get out of it") and may end late at night. Anyone else would have sprouted an ulcer, but Bruce Frazier has grown chubbier and happier.

CHARLIE BURKS

Charlie Burks Is Engineer

Along with others, Charles S. (Charlie) Burks can hardly wait to see Bennett House in operation. Charlie is the plant engineer and in charge of operations and maintenance. During the past three weeks he has been helping in the final preparations and getting acquainted with the building and the equipment.

Burks is a native of Howard County, having been reared at Knott and Big Spring. While a student at Howard County Junior College, he studied agriculture under James Bruce Frazier, head of Bennett House, and Frazier got to know and admire his work.

He also worked for Texas Tele-casting Corp. here and for the time that he attended Texas Tech at Lubbock. Burks returned here and in all put in seven years with the concern.

Burks was married last year to Dell Oaks, and they make their home at 633 Settles. They are members of the Carl Street Church of Christ.

Auxiliary Building Provides Services

Work is well along on an auxiliary building to Bennett House, near the intersection of Goliad and Eighth, that will house a dental clinic, laundry area, barber shop, beauty shop, repair shops, and storage area. In addition, Administrator Bruce Frazier said the building can be used as a fallout shelter.

The dental clinic will use the equipment of the late Dr. C. W. Deats and will be called the Deats Dental Clinic. Residents may have their dentist use the facility for treatment.

This auxiliary building is located conveniently to both units of Bennett House, a short walk for residents to use its services.

Kitchen Had Top Priority In Planning

The kitchen and meals were given top priority in Bennett House planning. Arrangements were made to provide practically any special diet a resident may require. In addition a food cart will deliver meals to rooms, where residents are unable to come to the dining area.

Steam tables and buffet serving are features of the dining room, which can accommodate about 30 guests at a time. Should a rush develop, residents may wait in comfort in the den.

Two giant walk-in refrigerators were built into the kitchen for keeping large quantities of food available. In addition, there is a mammoth pantry and a freezer. Visitors can inspect a complete bakery section, cooking section which features stove top area and pressure cooker, salad sections, plus the coffee and dairy bar.

Nurses Are Close By For Assistance

Nurses are but a step away from any room in Bennett House. Each wing of each unit has a nurses' station at the intersection of corridors. From that vantage point, the nurse can see the door of every room on her wing.

In addition to an intercom system, through which she can talk with any room on her wing, she has the record sheets for each resident. Also, a signaling system is connected to each room so a nurse can be summoned.

Behind two locks, the medicines for special prescriptions of residents are kept. These are kept closely secure, so unauthorized persons may not tamper with them. In addition, various storage space is available for various supplies for the rooms.

Is Family Affair

Opening of Bennett House may be something of a family affair. In one way or another, Mr. and Mrs. James Bruce Frazier have involved most of their large family. Some of the children have worked on the job, others have served as night watchmen, etc.

The Fraziers have nine children—Jim Bruce, Penny Carol, Roger Mack, Elizabeth Fay, Edward Clarence, Robert Patrick, Bennett Lane, Timothy Scott and Jennifer Nell. Most of them will be on hand today to help show visitors through the new plant.

It's A New Career For Mrs. Frazier

The opening of Bennett House will be the beginning of a new career for Mrs. Nell Frazier, mother of James Bruce Frazier, head of the family corporation which has developed the modern nursing home.

Mrs. Frazier will be the counselor for Bennett House, advising with families and with prospect residents as well as with occupants who may be in need of her services.

She is looking forward eagerly to it, yet in away it is marked with sadness. For the past 28 years she has been teaching music and giving up her pupils has been a heart rending experience. Yet she has sold her studio and retained only one piano which she has put in the recreation room of Bennett House.

MRS. NELL FRAZIER

By odd coincidence, she won't be here for the opening because she is committed to a trip to New England. Mrs. Nan Philips, wife of Shine Philips, the inspiration for Bennett House and its first resident, will fill in pending her return.

Nell Frazier — that also was her name before her marriage—was born in Hillsboro and was graduated from school there. She attended the University of Texas before transferring to the Cincinnati Conservatory to major in music. Returning to her home, she taught briefly before her marriage.

Meanwhile, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Frazier, had acquired 13 sections southwest of Big Spring and had moved here.

Special Chair, If You Need It

Here's a chair that won't tumble over. At Bennett House, it is called a "geriatric feeding chair" and is designed especially for the infirm.

The chair is so balanced that it can't be turned over even deliberately unless it is picked up. A resident can stand on the foot rest at front and the chair will not bobble.

A tray slips over the arms of the chair at meal time. This special chair is available to all residents of Bennett House who require it.

A Devotional For The Day

We give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers. (1 Thessalonians 1:2.) PRAYER: Eternal God, our heavenly Father, we pray that Thou wilt unite Thy children in one great circle of prayer for peace and brotherhood. Flood our lives with the spirit of the Master's new commandment — to love one another as He loves us. Bestow upon us Thy presence, Thy pardon, and Thy peace. In His name we pray. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

How About Those Exams?

It is human to wait until the last-minute to do things, but parents of children starting to school for the first time this year can help themselves and others by attending to a chore now.

Beginning pupils must have copies of their birth certificate, together with certificates of vaccination against the basic communicable diseases. It is most advisable if they also have a physical examination by the family physician.

If this can be done now, it will help avoid long waits at the doctor's office. It will help doctors who may be snowed near the start of school, and it will help the clerk's office in supplying copies of birth certificates.

Venture Of Public Concern

Today begins the operation of an institution which is entitled to a fruitful future in our community.

Bennett House, a major nursing home venture, is equipped to serve a growing demand for the happy, comfortable care of elderly individuals. With 200 beds, this facility ranks as one of the largest of its type in the state. Yet it is based so that charges will be reasonable for this quality of service.

While Bennett House is a private venture, it is of public concern. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Frazier and his mother, Mrs. Nell Frazier, have taken a bold step in creating this nursing home. Had this been a public institution or a new industry, our community leadership would have fought tooth and toenail to secure it. Yet this has come to us without any community involvement because of the vision and humanitarianism of a public-spirited family.

Bennett House represents a considerable investment, well over three quarters of a million dollars when all costs are figured in. It will create not only a respectable payroll to staff its operations, but it also will create a market for goods and services.

More important, however, it brings to this vicinity an institution which is expressly conceived, constructed and maintained for an increasingly important segment of our population. More and more people are living and will live longer, thanks to medical science and other advances. These people want to maintain their individuality and independence, and yet many of them do not want to be bothered with the care, uncertainty and responsibility of maintaining a household. Many, who have been afflicted by the infirmities of age, do not wish to be put in what seems to them a position of imposing on their families.

For them, this modern facility provides a happy answer to the question of how they can have good, comfortable care and security, and where they can be with others of similar age and interests. Nor is this a provincial enterprise, for it is inevitable that it will attract residents from a wide area and even from distant points. It follows, then, that this will draw in relatives and friends who will come to visit.

Thus, Big Spring as well as the founders, has a stake in the success of Bennett House. It is therefore to be hoped that, as in the case of hospitals and similar institutions, our individuals and organizations will find ways to sow among this new community of elderly and convalescent the seeds of human kindness, which so distinguishes our people.

The Negro Vote In 1964

WASHINGTON — There appears in the current issue of "Newsweek" a poll conducted by Louis Harris, a veteran pollster, which should be examined carefully by Republicans as well as Democratic strategists interested in planning the 1964 presidential campaign.

The poll shows that President Kennedy would get 91 per cent of the Negro vote in the 1964 election if Goldwater were the Republican candidate. Also, the tabulations indicate the result would be about 89 per cent if Rockefeller or Romney were the Republican nominee. The poll points out, moreover, that in 1960 Mr. Kennedy got 85 per cent of the Negro vote, while 11 per cent went to Mr. Nixon, and a 4 per cent could not recall how they voted.

SO IT APPEARS that the Republicans got an inconsequential proportion in 1960, and they would get less in 1964. It also appears that Mr. Kennedy has made little gain among the Negroes despite his energetic efforts in their behalf in "civil rights" matters. It is surprising that he didn't get 100 per cent of the Negro vote in the recent poll.

Recently Sen. Goldwater has been attacked by some critics as being interested in making the Republican party "illy white" or a "white man's party." The question naturally arises whether the presence of a substantial number of voters in any party—permits the coloration of that party's name. Would it be proper now, for instance, to call the Democratic party "the Negroes' party" because the Negro voters happen to be prepared almost unanimously to support the Democratic nominee in 1964?

MORE IMPORTANT than party labels, however, is strategy. Will the Republicans continue to try to outpromise the Democrats on "civil rights" just to woo the Negro vote, which the polls for the last 25 years or more have consistently shown to be on the Democratic side anyhow by a comfortable majority in every presidential election?

The Negro vote began to shift heavily from the Republican party to the Democratic party in the 1932 election due to economic conditions. Many Negroes found themselves on government relief in the 1930's and in subsequent elections they showed their gratitude for the aid they received from the Democratic administration. They put aside memories of what Abraham Lincoln and the Republicans had done for them and deserted their historic position because they were far more interested in jobs and wages and something to live on than they were in what happened in the 1860's.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY today is sorely in need of a new strategy. Some of its leaders came from heavily populated states, like New York and Illinois, in which, if the division were close in these areas, the Negro vote could hold a balance of power. But the truth is the "integration" problem has aroused many protests among the white population in the populous states of the North, and it is doubtful whether President Kennedy could carry, for instance, either Illinois or New York if he loses any substantial part of the "white vote" on such issues as school integration or unemployment among whites that may be brought about through favoritism shown Negroes.

THE RACE disturbances in the North in recent months indicate that "civil rights" is by no means a simple issue. Resentments are created, for example, when arbitrary "quotas" are set to limit the right of parents to send their children to public schools in their own neighborhood so that Negro children from distant neighborhoods may be permitted to attend those same schools.

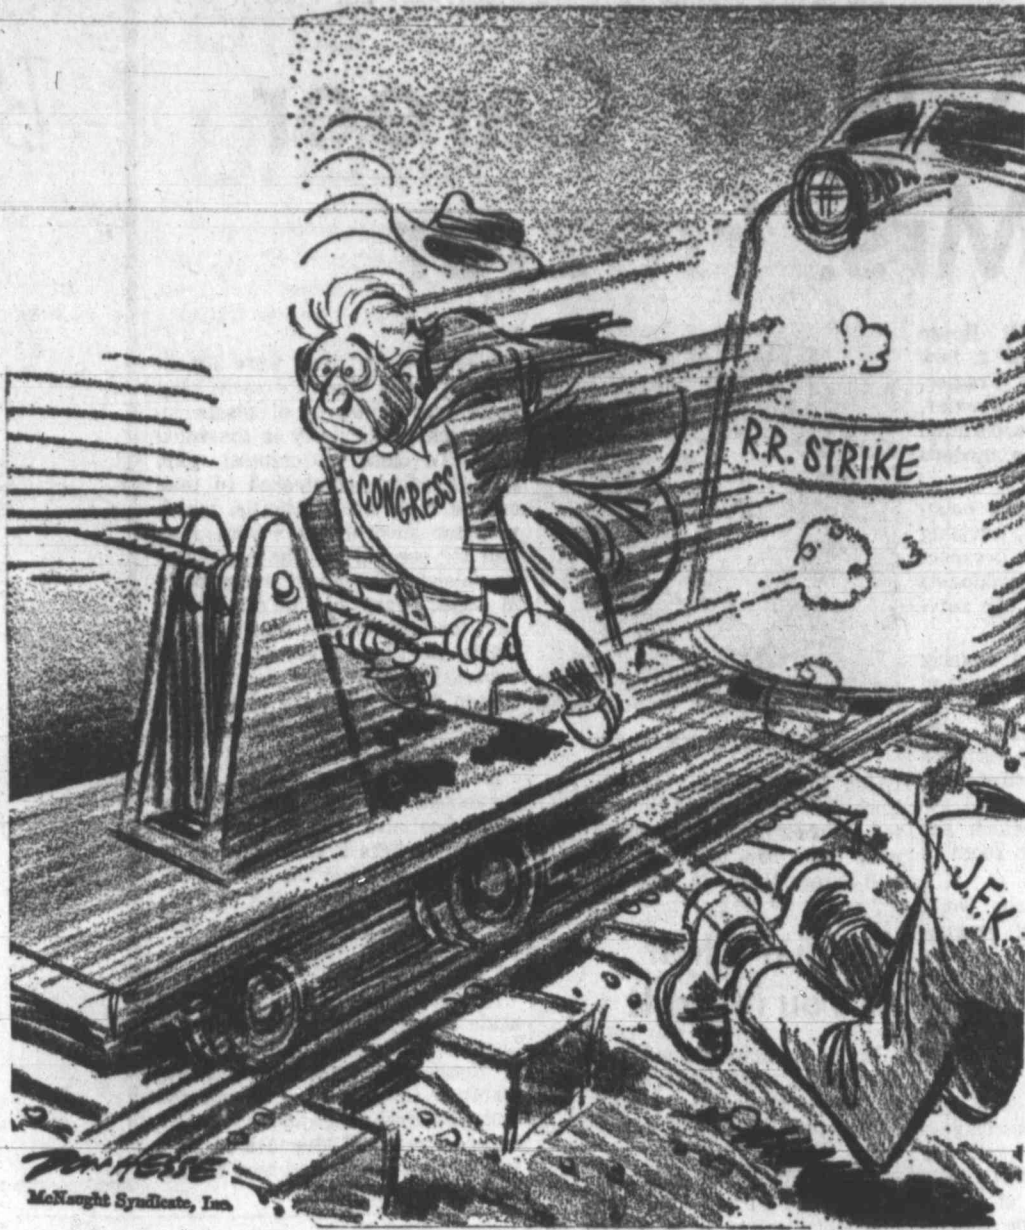

The South, of course, has potentially a big resentment vote that probably will be cast either for unpledged electors or for a Republican nominee if he shows any signs of independence as distinguished from subservience to a minority group.

IN THE NORTH, the Republicans who examine the latest polls will see that they have little chance to win the Negro vote. But they do have a chance to gather to their fold numerous votes from those persons who resent the disturbances stirred up in recent months, particularly the "non-violent" demonstrations that become violent. The naive of some of the sincere men who are backing the "demonstrations" is best illustrated by a comment of Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, chief executive officer of the United Presbyterian Church, who participated in a "demonstration" at Baltimore recently and was arrested. In testifying before a House committee on "civil rights" legislation, he said the Baltimore demonstration was peaceful and that there was no trouble until a crowd of "counter demonstrators" showed up. But don't the "counter demonstrators" have a right to demonstrate, too, and who can guarantee that a "non-violent demonstration" will not turn at any moment into a violent one?

THESE "DEMONSTRATIONS" now have become a political issue. They have publicized widely the controversy over "civil rights" and have emphasized that some of the demonstrators are not satisfied even with equal rights but openly call for what they term a "special break." This can be regarded as a form of racial discrimination. Some politicians may have been assuming that the minority vote of an estimated Negro population of 10 million of voting age—of whom probably only a half go to the polls—is more important than the 60 million or more non-Negro voters. But such thinking may change when polls are taken among white voters on how they feel about enforced discrimination against them in housing, in employment and in schools. This could change Republican strategy.

LBJ Still Filled With Energy, Optimism

WASHINGTON—The activity in Suite 274 of the Executive Office Building could hardly be more intense if it were the command post of the White House itself, which is a step away across a narrow closed street. This is the office of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson who has pitched into the struggle over the race issue with the driving energy that has characterized his entire career.

He darts across the street to take part with the President in the conferences that have seen thousands of citizens of every kind and condition come to Washington to hear the plea for support for laws meant to put an end to inequality in every department of life. He speaks with the fervent rhetoric that is his stamp.

I TAUGHT SCHOOL in the early years of my manhood, he told the women's group gathered in the East Room, and I think I know something about mothers. . . there is a thread of aspiration that runs strong in them. . . it is the fiber that has formed the most unselfish creatures who inhabit this earth. . .

If as a Texan, a Southerner, judged a conservative in comparison to his rivals for the Democratic nomination for President in 1960, he had any doubts about pursuing this radical course—radical certainly as compared to anything even contemplated a short time ago—they have long since vanished. The vice president is committed, as he made clear at the Governors' Conference in Miami Beach. Not only is there no turning back but for a man of his temperament troubling afterthoughts are not allowed to get in the way.

IN HIS SANGUINE make-up optimism is an unflinching element. He will tell you that the gains in the eight weeks since President Kennedy on May 21 made his civil rights address to the nation are more than in all the previous years. Of 500 cities over 10,000 population in the 11 states of the Confederacy and the four border states, 199 have already desegregated most or all of their places of public accommodation.

Those who know Johnson, whether friend or foe, know that ambition is also an important part of his make-up. It was just three years ago that he failed to get the presidential nomination when with all of that same drive and optimism he had made himself believe he would win the prize. Then to the amazement of even his closest friends the next morning he accepted second place on the ticket with John F. Kennedy who had bested him.

HE WILL BE 55 next month and anyone who thinks he has given up his ambition simply doesn't know Johnson. To keep the franchise open in his own home base of Texas is essential and needing him on the score of the Texas right-wing swing is today a favorite sport of his political enemies. A Texas editor recently wrote that "Johnson's intimates" were quoting him as saying that if the presidential election were to be held today Barry Goldwater, as the Republican nominee, would sweep the state.

BUT the vice president's office has a poll showing, as of July 3, that if Kennedy were running today he would get 61 per cent of the vote against Goldwater. The poll indicates that Gov. George Romney of Michigan would do better than Goldwater in Texas, running stronger than any of the Republican possibilities. The polling organization is said to be the same that last year predicted Gov. John Connally's election by a narrow majority.

BUT, POLLS TO one side, the Republicans today have two out of the 22-man House delegation from Texas and one senator, John G. Tower, an all-out right-winger with a strong Goldwater attachment. And that raises a delicate question for 1964.

Up for re-election is Sen. Ralph Yarborough, rated a liberal Democrat. He was one of the little band who tried to stop the administration's successful drive to turn Telstar over to private interests. Yarborough and Johnson have made no secret of their dislike for each other, with the senator telling his colleagues that the vice president has kept him from his share of federal patronage. Yet if Yarborough is beaten by a Republican next year the Democratic party will suffer a heavy blow and so will Johnson.

AS HE ZOOMS about the country speaking to large audiences more often than these days on the race issue he gives no outward sign of concern for his own future. Not long ago he invited members of United Nations delegations representing 22 countries from every corner of the globe to his ranch home in Texas. Then they went on individual tours around the state receiving wherever they went friendly hospitality. This is one answer, as Johnson sees it, to the alarmist charges of the right-wingers about the U.N. and all its works.

No vice president has ever before had an office deep in the heart of the executive branch of government. No vice president, so far as the record shows, has worked in such close partnership with a President. This, in the view of Johnson's backers, is proper on-the-job training.

Around The Rim

Say That Again—

Since we are freely conceding that most newspaper reporters can't pass a third-grade test in spelling, I suppose it should be no libel to say that many radio announcers fall somewhat short of perfection in the pronouncing of words.

THE ACCEPTED technique in handling commercials seems to be to shout as loud as possible and this covers a multitude of sins. On newscasts, the thing to do is adopt a pontifical tone, so that a mispronounced word at least carries some dignity.

What some newcomers to Texas microphones do to the names of Texas towns at times is enough to make an old-time Texan cringe. There's generally trouble with Pecos and Waxahatchee, not even mentioning Refugio and Quitaque.

AND WHEN A NEW announcer comes to town, he ought to work out a pronunciation guide of names of some of the city's newsworthy citizens, or at least the sponsors of the programs.

But after all, news reporters get caught in the same trap. It takes some time for them to know that some Greens spell their name Greene. That there are Phillips and Philipps, and some Smythes who really ought to settle for Smith.

Anyway, I have lately come over into the announcers' corner.

A RECENT ISSUE of Holiday magazine had an article on the radio business, and included was a piece of test material that one major network requires all announcer - applicants to read. I don't know what the passing grade would be, but if a guy who wanted a job in front of a big-time microphone could do no better than I did, he had better get back to the farm and use his mellifluous tones on the livestock.

Here's the test reading; be real honest with yourself and see what you would do with it:

"THE OLD MAN with the flaccid face and dour expression grimaced when asked if he were conversant with zoology, mineralogy, or the culinary arts. 'Not to be secretive,' he said, 'I may tell you that I'd given precedence to the study of genealogy. But, since my father's demise, it has been my vagary to remain incongruous and irreparable family schism. It resulted from a heinous crime, committed at our domicile by an impious scoundrel. The Southern Commander

WASHINGTON — In the opinion of many colleagues, the man who will bark the signals in the civil rights filibuster might have become President if he hadn't been from Georgia.

Because he is from Georgia, Sen. Richard Brevard Russell instead will command about 18 Southern senators who will try to talk to death President Kennedy's civil rights program.

THE TALL, balding senator with the George Washington nose will be pitting canny strategy and an unequalled knowledge of the Senate rules against an emotional surge generated by Negro demonstrations and police-dog reaction.

It remains problematical whether Russell's opponents can collect the necessary two-thirds approval of those voting and apply the cloture rule to end debate, thus killing off the filibuster.

BEFORE THAT happens the cots may go up in the cloakrooms for around-the-clock sessions to test the stamina of Russell's troops.

Whatever the outcome, Dick Russell seems likely to retain his position as the most powerful individual in the Senate.

At 65, with 30 years of Senate service behind him, Russell remains the quiet, courtly gentleman who reflects his heritage as the bachelor son of a struggling country lawyer who rose to be chief justice of his state.

RUSSELL CAN turn tiger on the Senate floor when he detects what he believes are unfair assaults on states rights. But his colleagues continue to respect him even as he shows his claws.

As a representative of moderate conservatism, Russell had two shots at his party's presidential nomination and was defeated in each largely because he was branded as too sectional.

In the 1948 convention which nominated President Harry S. Truman, Southerners piled up 263 protest votes for Russell, who wasn't even on hand. When many of his Southern brethren bolted, Russell stayed—silent but regular.

IN 1952, THE GEORGIA senator went after the nomination. The fact that he got only 292 out of about 1,200 votes demonstrated again that a man whose record and personality probably would have been acceptable had he hailed from the North, West or East could not surmount the political disadvantage of his ties to the South.

Philosophical about this, Russell maintains his party regularity despite his strong opposition to parts of his President's program.

"WHILE I AM always for those who are running on the Democratic ticket," he said, "I must confess that I have had varying degrees of enthusiasm for various candidates on the ticket."

Russell helped campaign for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in 1960. But even the persuasive powers of his longtime friend and close associate, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, may not be enough to get him into the 1964 campaign after the President's civil rights stand.

Politics Of Desperation

MIAMI, Fla.—Nelson Rockefeller tried hard at this hot-tempered Governor's conference to play the role of a man dedicated to the serious subject of civil rights, but the impression he left upon this observer was not so much of dedication as of desperation.

This is particularly unfortunate in a Republican candidate for President because we recently saw much of that quality in Richard Nixon. The former vice president, and 1960 standard bearer for the GOP, was always a man giving the dice of life a desperate roll for stakes that were far beyond his means of attaining by any way except the gamble.

THIS IS NOT meant in unkindness to Nixon. He is out of public life and is beyond the hurt of political critics. But it's a fact that he never was the caliber of a man who should have been running for the presidency. In the last week of his presidential campaign of '60, and again in the last week of his gubernatorial campaign in California, Nixon often behaved like a man who feels his luck running out and who must become more reckless still to win the high stakes.

ROCKEFELLER brought to this conference much of that all-or-nothing air which Nixon carried around. The New York governor's friends are saying of him that he no longer cares for the challenges and satisfactions of public life on the state level. He is said to know that he cannot win another term as governor in 1966. The taxes and fees he has imposed in his state have cost him his once-high popularity. The scandals within his administration have taken the gloss off his glamour.

ROCKEFELLER is in the position of having to run for the presidency in 1964, even though the time is not propitious, or never to run at all. The talk of New York Republicans is that if Rockefeller fails to get the GOP nomination next year, he will resign the governorship to Lt. Governor Malcolm Wilson and fade back into private life.

But, meanwhile, the glitter of the White House has become all the more alluring as Rockefeller's handicaps increase. Mr. Kennedy proved that precedents are not very binding in American politics. Unearned wealth and Catholicism, a mediocre record in House and Senate, did not stop JFK. He overcame all by his boldness and grim will-to-win when only numerous people named Kennedy thought he had any chance.

ROCKEFELLER'S disadvantages are hardly less formidable than Mr. Kennelly's were. Rocky will have to overcome the two-term White House tradition, a poor record as governor and a private life that is open to criticism.

Indeed, if Rockefeller's political associates know his mind, Rocky may be following the Kennedy example very closely, especially as it relates to the state primaries. The governor is said to be ready to go into the New Hampshire election next March with the same kind of money and thoroughness that carried JFK to his big win in West Virginia in 1960.

"ROCKY," SAID ONE of his fellow New Yorkers over a tart martini, "will pour so many dollars into New Hampshire that people will forget about the issues and see nothing but the greenbacks. The race won't be a contest of ideas. It'll be a battle in public relations. While Barry Goldwater is definitely more popular in New Hampshire, I think it's far from impossible that Rocky would beat him—on organization alone."

Billy Graham

Will you please explain the Scripture: "Let the dead bury their dead." I find this very puzzling. —H.J.

To understand these words it is necessary to remember the occasion on which they were spoken. Here is the passage in question: "Jesus said to another, Follow Me. But he said, Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father. Jesus said unto him, Let the dead bury their dead; but go thou and preach the kingdom of God." (Luke 9:59, 60)

Here is Jesus calling a man—in all probability a young man—to follow Him. He had a work for this man to do as a preacher of the Gospel. But the man evaded the challenge and offered a polite excuse: "Let me first go and bury my father." It is almost certain that the man's father was not yet dead, nor was he even dying. What this man was saying in effect, in answer to the call of Jesus, was, "Not yet, Lord, perhaps some other day." It was then that Jesus said, "Let the dead bury their dead."

His meaning is clear. Any dead soul can attend to the burying of dead bodies! Let those who are alive unto God engage in a nobler calling: "Go thou and preach abroad the kingdom of God!"

The emphasis is upon the urgency of the service of God's kingdom. Our Lord also stresses the priority of His claims over all other claims. When HE calls, there must be instant and complete obedience.

Active Civic Worker Is Nursing Director

Her name is Ella R., but almost no one knows her by anything except as Bo. And it's a familiar name, too, for Bo Bowen has been active in a legion of things good for the community.

She now is embarking upon another such experience as director of nursing for Bennett House. A native of San Angelo, she long since has accounted Big Spring as her hometown. After completing her nurse's training at West Texas Hospital in Lubbock, she spent five years as an office nurse in Corpus Christi. In December, 1947 she came to the Howard County Hospital Foundation staff, where she worked over four years before going to the VA Hospital for four and a half years. Then in 1955 she accepted the position of nurse with the city-county health unit, which she resigned after nearly eight years to take this new position.

Bo Bowen long has been active in Epsilon Sigma Alpha, having been named the Alpha Chi chapter's beauty queen nominee, also second choices in district outstanding competition. Her scrapbook also won top state honors for the district.

She was a charter member and president of District 21 of the Texas Graduate Nurses Association. She also is a charter member of the Big Spring District 24. Bo Bowen served as president of the City Federated Clubs, had conferred on her a lifetime membership in the P-TA for her work in health and mental health. She has been representative of the Howard Chapter in state meetings of the Texas Tuberculosis Association. Active in the crippled children's program, she was instrumental in inducing James Tompson to serve as therapist for the newly formed Howard County Rehabilitation Center. She serves as assistant teacher of the six-year-old class at Wesley Methodist Church. She also has been on the polo chapter board.

Two years ago she built her home at 2509 Fisher with the avowed purpose of avoiding grass by landscaping with gravel and cactus, a mild switch for a lady who is president of the Spaders Garden Club.

IDEA GREW FROM OTHER CIVIC WORK

A chain of circumstances gave Bruce Frazier the idea for Bennett House, the city's new nursing home.

Frazier had become interested with several friends in various civic problems. On a visit to the Big Spring State Hospital he was impressed with the need for a place to house elderly people. About that time, Shine Phillips, who had given Bruce his first job as a lad and whom many regard as Mr. Big Spring, had a disabling stroke. Because of lack of local facilities he had to go to San Angelo, and Bruce vowed that he'd find some way to bring him home. Meantime, others were interested. Roy Reeder financed a survey which showed an adequate demand. After two years of negotiating with FHA, Frazier found G&G Construction of Lubbock, which built and helped arrange financing.

Encouragement Came From The Background

Bennett House could not have come to fruition except for the encouragement and inspiration of a housewife who modestly stays in the background.

"People think because I had nurse's training, Bennett House was my idea," said Mrs. James Bruce (Jimmie) Frazier. "Actually, it was all Bruce's idea."

But she's as much sold on it as he is and will assist in the operation as assistant administrator. In addition, she's bringing her Registered Nurse requirements up to date so she can fill in if needed.

This is a remarkable undertaking for a young matron who has a family of nine children.

Mrs. Frazier was born Jimmie Fay Rogers at Waco and came here in 1927 with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rogers. A national honor society graduate of Big Spring High School in 1941, she had been in junior and senior high with Bruce Frazier, although they dated other members of the band.

For a year after graduation, she worked under the late Dr. M. H. Bennett and then, although only 17, was accepted at Baylor School of Nursing in Dallas. In 1945, four months before her graduation, she and Bruce Frazier were married. In the intervening years, she got to put in only two days of nursing, although she had plenty of practice at home.

While Bruce went to school and taught vocational agriculture to veterans, she kept home on a three-acre place north of Bryan. He not only earned his bachelor of science degree but completed most of his master's requirements while they were there.

Jimmie Frazier has been the one who kept the home fires burning, who listened to her husband's dreams and encouraged him in them, who directed nine busy youngsters whose activities include everything from band and football to Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H Club and church activities.

She formerly was a member of the Jubilee Hyperion Club and was first president of the Spader's Garden Club, although she is now in the After Five Club. She is qualified as a National Flower Show judge and is a member of the HGJC Faculty Mom's Club.

Somehow she manages to keep a 15-room house (including five baths) without any regular domestic help.

Long Experience Equips Mrs. Edwards As Bookkeeper For Bennett House

Twenty years of bookkeeping and work in accounting offices have equipped Mrs. Dorothy Edwards for her assignment as bookkeeper for the Bennett House.

In the busy getting-ready process, she has been doing a little of everything and obviously has enjoyed it.

Mrs. Edwards is a native of Philadelphia, Pa., and she took her bachelor of arts degree in Spanish and religion at Oberlin (Ohio) College. She had set her goal on medical training, but on a visit here she met the late Will Knox Edwards and within a short period they were wed.

She also had training at the Oklahoma School of Business and Accounting at Tulsa, which led to a career in the business field.

Mrs. Edwards left in 1939 after 10 years in Big Spring, and returned in 1960, working with accounting firms.

Two of her chief interests are her sons, John Sanford (Sandy)

He had the distinction of being named instructor of second year Spanish, the first time a student had been named an instructor at Tulsa. Originally he spent two years in the ROTC at the University of Texas, then went to Tulsa after active duty in service. He now has a teaching fellowship while he works on his mas-

Mrs. Edwards has several activities, including serving as pianist for assemblies of the primary department at the Webb AFB Sunday School, as librarian and substitute teacher. She is a member of the First Baptist Church and was a charter member of the Big Spring Music Club.

Two Recreation Areas Provided

Two recreation areas are located in each unit of Bennett House, an activities room in one wing and an outdoor, screened-in porch on the other.

The outside porch is equipped with lounging furniture and overlooks Birdwell Park and the high school area. For the resident who wants to rest outside, without the discomfort of direct sun and noisome insects, this is the ideal spot.

Stress Of Battle

Victor French and Larry Mann can be seen starring today in "The Slave" at the State Theatre. They are shown in one of the exciting scenes from the World War II story. Sharing the billing will be "Battle of the Worlds."

Hutton, Prentiss Team In Comedy

Jim Hutton and Paula Prentiss, who scored with the successful "Where the Boys Are," join their talents again in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer laugh-getter, "The Horizontal Lieutenant."

On its second time around in Big Spring, the movie of the adventures and mis-adventures of an Army lieutenant plays Sunday through Thursday at the Sahara Theatre. Based on the novel "The Bottletop Affair" by Gordon Cotler, it is offered in CinemaScope and Metrocolor.

Hutton portrays a lieutenant who has a penchant for falling on his face (hence the title) in his efforts to apprehend a mysterious Japanese holdout on a Pacific island seven months after the island has been captured.

The man-made river constructed by MGM and used for such films as "Showboat" and "Huckleberry Finn" is used once again as the setting for the movie. The river was drained and an island constructed, using to advantage the foliage growing along the river site, which resembles that of a Pacific island.

Another pair from "Where the Boys Are" is George Wells, writer, and producer Joe Pasternak.

Rome Lives Again In 'Slave' Drama

A drama of conflict, pageantry and heroism is unfolded in color and CinemaScope Friday and Saturday with "The Slave" as the lead of a twin-bill at the Ritz Theater.

Leading role of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer spectacle is Steve Reeves, familiar muscle man, cast in a likewise familiar role. With sword in hand he rips through the film in a manner resembling that of Spartacus, whose son he portrays, although with not nearly the finesse of his famous father played by Kirk Douglas in the "Spartacus" epic.

Sharing the billing for the two days is Robert Taylor in "Cattle King."

In "The Slave" Reeves takes up his father's sword to free a country of slaves from cruelty and tyranny. He is seen as Raudus, a Roman centurion sent by Julius Caesar to Lydia to corroborate Caesar's belief that the governor of that province, Caesar Grassus, is plotting to overthrow him. Raudus finds out he is the son of Spartacus and takes on a dual personality, still playing the part of a centurion, yet taking every opportunity to don the masked helmet and sword of Spartacus to lead in revolt.

Filmed on location in Egypt with enough extras to give it a "spectacular" label, it sweeps through bloody battle scenes, horsemanship, hand duels, shipwreck and torture to warrant the label. In one spectacular battle, the slaves roll huge boulders down a hill crushing to death soldiers and horses below, somewhat reminiscent of the fire-rolling scenes from "Spartacus."

Providing the beautiful girl background is slinky Ombretta Colli. Others in the cast are Jacques Sernas, Gianna Maria Canale, Claudio Gora, Ivo Garrani and Enzo Fiermonte.

America's early West, rife with episodes of warfare between cattlemen of opposing interests, offers a backdrop for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Cattle King," with

Robert Taylor in the starring role. The period of "Cattle King" is that of the Wyoming Territory of 1863, when lobbyists tried to get passage of a National Trail bill to establish a cattle drive trail from Texas through Wyoming and into Canada. Taylor has the part of

"SLAVE" Steve Reeves is cast in lead role.

"CATTLE KING" Robert Taylor and Joan Caulfield star in western.

Sam, a cattleman with fenced-in holdings, who would be hurt by unlimited grazing. His bitter enemy is Clay Mathews (Robert Middleton) who wants the territory opened.

The lady is Joan Caulfield. Larry Gates has the part of President Chester A. Arthur, 21st President of the United States, who makes an inspection trip of the ranch country depicted in the film.

Jerry Lewis Stars In Double Feature

Misadventures of an Army misfit have been transferred to the screen in uproarious fashion in the Hal Wallis film "The Sad Sack," which opens Wednesday at the Sahara Drive In.

Jerry Lewis, in a twin-bill opposite another starring role for himself, plays the part of the fumbling G.I. Lewis stars in "Delicate Delinquent" in the second half of the billing.

Filmed in VistaVision, the Paramount comedy co-stars David Wayne, Phyllis Kirk, Peter Lorre, Joe Mantell and Gene Evans.

Private Meredith Bixby (Lewis) after 17 months of training, is still out of step with the Army. Phyllis Kirk, a pretty WAC major, psychologist, is assigned to make a good soldier out of him. Add a bit of Moroccan intrigue and you have all the ingredients for another Jerry Lewis demonstration of comedy.

Won Four Emmies

Rod Serling, who provided the script for "The Yellow Canary," has carried off four Emmies for his television plays. The award winners are "Patterns," "Requiem for a Heavyweight," "A Town Has Turned to Dust" and "The Comedian."

Canary Gives Boone New Role

Pat Boone, popular singing star, plows through a drama calculated to kill the audience with both the well-known voice and a new act, that of a ruthless manhunter, in "The Yellow Canary," which opens Wednesday at the Jet Drive In.

Although he has sung in every movie he has made, for the first time Boone is cast as a singer. Also in an unusual role, her first as anything but a sweet, young ingenue, is Barbara Eden.

A pair of award-winning television men were teamed to bring off the movie in stirring fashion. Rod Serling, who most persons know for his popular TV series "The Twilight Zone," wrote the script for the thriller. To direct the film, 20th Century-Fox picked Buzz Kulik, a recent graduate from television who has only one other movie under his belt.

"The Yellow Canary" begins in soft fashion as Boone, cast as singing idol Andy Paxton, treats the audience with the sound for which he is so highly paid. The tone quickly changes, in typical Serling fashion, as Paxton and his wife Lissa (Barbara Eden) discover their infant son has been kidnaped and the nurse murdered.

Intrigue is piled upon intrigue as Paxton and the police try to bring about safe return of the child without loss of the $200,000 ransom being asked by the kidnapers.

Boone is called upon for four numbers in his dramatic portrayal, including one performance which is a pre-arranged signal to the kidnapers that he has raised the money for his son's ransom. Before the movie is far along, the smooth crooner appearance is gone and Boone picks up a couple of bad habits he has avoided in previous roles — he puffs stogies with regularity and he stages a wallowing drunk scene. Another new angle for Pat is that for the first time he is portrayed as a married man.

"The Yellow Canary" took 12 days to shoot. Perhaps because of their television backgrounds, Serling and Kulik required the short schedule.

"We had several things going for us," Kulik said of the movie, "including a complete script and a good one when we started."

Based on the novel "Evil Come, Evil Go" by Whit Masterson, the CinemaScope picture has all the qualities for a top-notch thriller.

Co-starring in the picture are Steve Forrest, an off-and-on actor-script writer who is now under long-term contract with the 20th Century Fox as an actor, Jack Klugman and Milton Selzer.

Pair From Thriller

Robert Mitchum and Polly Bergen are starring with Gregory Peck in a new thriller which plays at the Jet Drive In Theatre Saturday. They can be seen in "Cape Fear," a Universal-International release. Also showing that night will be "Geronimo," featuring Chuck Connors.

Tortures Depicted In "Slave" Film

Tortures of ancient days make up a part of the excitement of MGM's "The Slave." It is against such tortures by a tyrannical governor that Steve Reeves, portraying the son of Spartacus, rouses the slaves into revolt.

The film's early scenes depict thousands of slaves chained together and dragged across the desert, whipped by guards. In another sequence, prisoners are given the "water torture" treatment by being tied to stakes in a tank and slowly drowned.

Another instance of cruelty takes place aboard a Roman ship, as slave rowers who become exhausted are thrown alive into the sea.

Long Conversation

Director Buzz Kulik and Rod Serling, script writer for "The Yellow Canary," did not once see each other during the filming of the movie. Serling was busy-teaching at Antioch College in Ohio. The gap was bridged by long distance telephone conferences.

THOSE WHO KNOW RECOMMEND TSO For Professional Eye Care

Texas State Optical's list of satisfied patients continues to grow... longer every year. Why? Because patients, who appreciate the fine professional eye care they consistently receive at TSO, tell their friends and relatives about the service. More and more, new TSO patients visit the offices throughout the state because of a recommendation. They know they can depend on TSO, because of the reputation for high standards and fine quality that TSO has been building since 1935. Guard against eye disease and poor vision with an annual, three-phase examination at Texas State Optical. The TSO Doctor of Optometry first records a complete visual history. Second, he examines your eyes internally for evidence of disease or defect, such as glaucoma or cataract. Finally, your eyes are examined for visual abnormalities, such as near or farsightedness, astigmatism, or muscle imbalance. Should the need for glasses be revealed, they will be carefully and accurately prescribed and fitted at TSO. And the cost is reasonable—as low as $14.85 for single vision glasses — as low as $17.85 for invisible bifocal glasses, including examination, lenses and frame. Or if you have been considering contact lenses, single vision TSO Micro-Sight contact lenses are $65 complete, and bifocal contact lenses are also available at a reasonable cost. Convenient credit is available at no extra charge. So, if someone hasn't already—don't wait for a recommendation. Guard against eye disease and poor vision—visit the TSO office nearest you soon.

Weather Hastens Harvest; Crop Holding Up Fairly Well

Continued hot, dry weather is forcing farmers to harvest some of their grain sorghum several weeks ahead of a normal schedule.

Two loads of maize have already been delivered to buyers in Big Spring. Others will be brought in this week.

Floyd Hull, who lives northeast of town, was the first man to deliver 1963 grain to the city. His load of 10,000 pounds was brought in Wednesday and sold to the Big Spring Grain and Commission for $1.10 per hundred. It was extremely moist — rated at 26 per cent by the buyer.

Thursday afternoon, Ralph Proctor, who lives north of town, brought in 10,720 pounds of grain he had combined off his fields. This was sold to Kimbell Grain Co., which paid $1.50 a hundred. It rated moisture content on the load at 19.06 per cent.

HOT SPOTS
Both farmers said that only

"spots" in their fields were combined. The two loads set an all time early date for delivery of harvested sorghum to local buyers. Generally, the harvest does not begin until mid-August.

Howard County has about 45,000 acres planted to grain. Herb Helbig, county farm agent, said that bulk of this crop, planted fairly early, will yield around 2,000 pounds of grain to the acre. The grain which was sowed later in the season will have to have rain if it is able to match this production figure.

Helbig pointed out that grain is not a good money crop for the grower. Even if a producer gets a top price of $1.60 per hundred, he has little more than a chance to break even as a general rule.

SORGHUM MIDGES
A new worry has developed, Helbig said that he has run into a number of fields where sorghum midges have hit. These small orange colored insects lay their eggs in immature grains and three days after hatching the midges emerge. Helbig said these pests are usually expensive to poison. So far they have not caused too much damage.

A rain, Helbig said, would benefit early-planted and late-planted sorghum alike. It would bring an end, perhaps, to the falling over tendency which is forcing early combining of crops. It would insure the younger heads maturing.

BEGINS HURTING
Rain is also badly needed by the cotton planters. Fields generally are not as badly hurt by prolonged drought and heat as might be expected. So far, most fields continue to grow and bolls are developing well in most fields.

Insect threat has been at a minimum. Other than for a few fleahopper invasions and some caterpillar damage, the farmers have been able to escape serious trouble.

Farmers are already beginning to consider the problem of harvesting their 1963 cotton.

It is agreed this year's crop will probably be at least 90 per cent machine gathered. Last year, when bracero help was removed, farmers turned heavily to strippers. Many found the machines satisfactory, and they made extra money by using them instead of manpower.

MECHANICAL HARVEST
This year, with the labor situation unchanged, even those farmers who last year hustled enough handpullers to gather their crop, are shopping for strippers.

A few mechanical pickers will be in operation. The costly mechanical picker is more profitable for long staple irrigated cotton rather than for the cotton on dryland farms. Laurence Adkins, who lives in the Lomax Community, used two mechanical pickers on his irrigated fields last year and was pleased with the result.

Strippers are simpler, cost much less, are relatively trouble free. Walker Bailey said it cost only a few dollars to get his ready, and he is planning on stripping 100 per cent.

July has been extremely dry. The U.S. Experiment Farm gauged .76 of an inch for the month. A few sections, notably Luther and Knott, got substantially more in showers, while Lomax and Elbow had none.

Ranches were in fair condition, but grass was beginning to burn badly and needs rain soon. Stock pond reserves are ample. Rain this week or early in August would provide prospects of one of the best harvests in years.

DEAR ABBY

Notice To Travelers!

DEAR ABBY: Please give the gas station folks a break and ask the vacationing public to have mercy on us. They drive up, grab a hose and rinse off their cars. It doesn't bother them that they make a mess for others to walk through. They want their windshields cleaned, but don't need gas. And they've bought their oil by the case somewhere else. They even ask to borrow your tools. They pile out in droves to use the restroom. Sometimes they spend half an hour in there—changing clothes. Our regular customers can't get in for the free loaders. In a nice clean business like a liquor store, the customer spends more in 30 seconds than he does at a service station for a 500-mile trip. And the clerk doesn't have to clean windshields, check lighter fluid or anything. The customer doesn't expect a thing except the right change and a paper bag to put the bottle in. He even gets oiled on his own time and off the premises. Thanks a lot.

method is best for you. There are many.

DEAR ABBY: You say there is no discrimination in cities. Well, you are 100 per cent wrong. At this very moment there is discrimination against hiring overweight people for stenographic work. I went on interview after interview and was turned down. I was finally told outright that I wasn't hired because of my weight. I am only 27 pounds overweight and am trying to lose it. But in the meantime I have to live. If given a chance, I'm sure I could do as good a job as any thin girl. This is certainly not the land of opportunity for the heavy-set person.

STARVING
DEAR STARVING: While "appearances" do play an important role in job-getting, a 27-pound roll shouldn't disqualify you for every job. There must be other factors.

DEAR ABBY: We run a restaurant and have hired a good professional organist. We have a few patrons who like to play "a couple of ditties" on our organ when they come in. When they ask, we hate to turn them down, so we tell them to go right ahead and play a "PIECE OR TWO." The trouble is, once they sit down we can't get them to quit. It offends the hired organist, and besides, the other patrons don't enjoy these amateurs as much as the amateurs think they do. Other restaurant owners must have this problem, too, Abby. Will you print this with your answer and help us all?

BOX NO. 660
DEAR BOX: The way to solve your problem is to put a stop to it before it starts.

Tell your troubles to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Just Flip Switch For A Nurse

Need a nurse?
If you're in Bennett House, just flip a switch. Each wing of each of the two buildings has a nurses' station only a few feet away. By working a switch in any room, the nurses' station gets the signal and a light goes on in front of the room signaling.

A communication system allows the nurse to answer immediately. This gives the patient immediate response to a call and saves the nurse a trip. She can bring whatever is needed, without having to first find out, then go back for it.

Switches are located for the convenience of residents, one near the bed and the other in the bathroom. At all times, the resident is just a switch away from a nurses' assistance.
