Long Wait Ends

AUSTIN (AP) — Walter Booker T. Bonner ended his civil rights demonstration in Gov. John Connally's office Tuesday about 26 hours after it began.

The Austin Negro went home after a Connally aide gave him an appointment to see the governor Aug. 6.

Bonner had vowed to wait at the office until Connally returned from out of town. He said the appointment will not end demonstrations which began at the Capitol and governor's mansion Monday night. They will continue each night, he said.

Three pickets, all University of Texas students, appeared in front of the mansion Tuesday night. They said the daily demonstrations would be small.

Bonner interrupted his vigil at the governor's office long enough to lead about 50 pickets to the mansion Monday night.

He wants to negotiate with Connally about the governor's position on civil rights outlined in a recent television speech, Bonner said.

Connally said at the time he favors complete integration of all tax-supported institutions but opposes President Kennedy's public accommodations bill because it violates traditional rights of private property.

Bonner called the speech an affront to Texas and described Connally as "a Jim Crow governor of the worst kind."

Connally said he does not feel there is anything to negotiate concerning his position on civil rights.

Bonner, a part-time waiter at a private club, said he is not representing any particular group. He ran unsuccessfully for the Austin city council last spring and said he plans to run for county commissioner next year.

Pickets Keep Demonstrating

NEW YORK (AP)—Demonstrations for more construction jobs for Negroes and Puerto Ricans resumed today despite what civil rights leaders described as harmonious discussions toward settling the grievance.

Antidiscrimination pickets returned to publicly financed construction projects and sit-ins continued at the mayor's and governor's offices.

Police arrested 12 persons at a Brooklyn hospital site, 2 at a Queens apartment project, and 3 at the mayor's office.

A young white woman, a bearded white man and a Negro man sat with linked arms against the gate to Mayor Robert F. Wagner's office—a tactic which police had said they would not tolerate and which caused the arrest of three sit-in demonstrators three Monday.

Two policemen helped a woman employ of the mayor's office over the pickets, who remained against the gate more than an hour before being arrested.

"There ought to be access to the mayor's office," said Roy Wilkins Tuesday when asked about the earlier arrests as he left a City Hall conference.

Records Help Speed Study

To gain confidence as you start speaking Spanish the SPEED SPEECH way, you will be helped greatly by records which you play along with your textbook studies. You will be amazed at how rapidly you progress, when the records and textbook are used together in learning the Spanish language.

William Archer, who developed SPEED SPEECH, assures that if you give 24 hours of purposeful study to his method, you can be communicating in Spanish. Many Big Springs right now are engaged in their studies.

The Herald will continue for a short time to offer the SPEED SPEECH items at a low cost. These consist of the textbook, the set of two 45 rpm records, and a handy dictionary of words you ordinarily would be using in conversation.

Each is offered for only $2.95, plus six cents sales tax, for a total of $3.01. You may use coupons from The Herald to order, or you may come by The Herald office, where there is a limited supply.

Expansion At State Hospital

The foundation for a new $450,000 medical and surgical unit at the Big Spring State Hospital is the first visible part of the single-story, T-shaped building which will rise shortly in the quadrangle of hospital units. The progress shown is on the base of the T. Shown at the rear is the most recent addition to the hospital—the new rehabilitation center. Contractor for the medical unit is J. W. Cooper of Odessa. Work should be completed by April of next year.

LEGAL STRUGGLE ENDING

Rehearing Denied In School Case

Gay Hill and Center Point Common Schools, to all appearances, have lost their three-year legal struggle to evade being annexed to the Big Spring Independent District.

Wednesday, the Texas Supreme Court dealt the two schools the coup de grace when it refused to rehear their motion for a writ of error against the Eastland Court of Civil Appeals.

Thursday morning, Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, will rule on a petition by the Big Spring district asking that an injunction, which has kept it from absorbing the two common schools since May 1960, be set aside.

In view of the ruling by the Texas Supreme Court and because the two common schools have no plans to protest the Big Spring petition, it would not be surprising if the court dismisses the injunction. It has been reliably stated the two common schools will have no attorneys in court to protest the request for dissolving the injunction.

MAY BE ENDING This means, it was explained by the attorneys, only one possible avenue still remains open for the schools if they should elect to continue their fight to evade being annexed. This would be an effort to get their case into the U. S. Supreme Court on constitutional grounds.

Legal observers appeared agreed that this is the end of the road for the two common schools. On May 4, 1960, the Howard County school board by a 3 to 2 vote, ordered the annexation of the two common schools to Big Spring. Immediately, the schools went into court to block the order becoming operative.

The litigation over the annexation has been through the district court, the appeals court and the Supreme Court. At each step, the courts have upheld the order annexing the districts.

STATUS QUO The injunction, which Judge Caton will be asked to dissolve on Thursday morning, was an early step in this fight. It has kept the three schools on what has been termed a "status quo" basis since that time.

The schools have operated as usual but have been restrained from making any major financial or physical changes. The injunction has had its impact on Big Spring district in that the independent district has been severely handicapped in any plans that would involve voting bonds.

In the three years which have passed since the matter first arose, the members of the boards of the two common schools have changed almost entirely. One of the county board members who voted for the annexation and one who opposed it are still on the county board.

A large number of routine steps, some of which will take considerable time, will have to be pursued if the court dissolves the injunction and the Big Spring District moves to take over the two districts.

POSSIBLE STEPS An election will have to be held to clear the way for the enlarged Big Spring district to absorb the bonded indebtedness of the two common schools and to clear the way for the setting of tax rates.

Pending contracts with teachers will have to be approved or other action taken. Plans for the teaching of the classes in the two schools for the school year which opens Sept. 1 will have to be worked out.

Gil Jones, who was attorney for the original county board which issued the order and who has continued as attorney for the Big Spring district, said there is time to clear all of these hurdles by Sept. 1 if prompt action is taken. School officials and court officials alike voiced the hope that now the long court fight appeared ending, the transition which will follow can be made amicably and harmoniously.

AFFECTED DISTRICTS Gay Hill Common School (District 6) is approximately 20 miles north and east of Big Spring. It encompasses 95.15 square miles of territory. Valuation for the district for tax purposes last year was $7,038,900. The school has a modern plant, including an auditorium, teacherage, and other physical properties. It employs 9 teachers and last year had an enrollment of about 90 boys and girls. It teachers only through the eighth grade.

Center Point Common School (District No. 7) is located about seven miles north and east of Big Spring. It's northern boundary adjoins the Gay Hill district and its southern edge is contiguous to the Big Spring northern boundary. The district covers 41.50 square miles. Valuation in 1962 for tax purposes was $1,696,250. The school has a new building only occupied a few years ago. It had an enrollment of 113 boys and girls last year and employed five teachers. Like Gay Hill, it teaches only through the eighth grade.

The tax rate for Gay Hill last year was $1.40 per hundred dollar valuation. The rate in Center Point district was $2.20 per hundred dollar valuation.

Watch For Signs Of Major Action

U.S. Delegates Plan Formal Treaty Signing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and a bipartisan delegation including five senators will leave for Moscow Friday night to attend the formal signing of the nuclear test ban treaty.

The White House announced the plan today and named the senatorial delegates as Democrats J.W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and John O. Pastore of Rhode Island; and Republicans Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and George Aiken of Vermont.

The list notably omitted Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader from Illinois and Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, senior GOP member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Both of these Republican leaders have indicated they did not want to attend the Moscow signing and have left it open as to how they might vote on the atomic test ban treaty when it comes before the Senate for ratification.

A White House source told newsmen that neither Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, nor Dirksen had been invited because of a feeling that their presence was needed here in view of the Senate vote.

The source said he did not know whether President Kennedy had talked to Dirksen on the matter. He declined to discuss what other senators might have been considered for the trip and their response.

However, it appeared plain from other administration informants that Republican representation fell somewhat short of the level the administration had hoped for.

Kennedy would like to have Senate ratification soon and by as wide a margin as possible. A two-thirds Senate majority is needed.

The formal ceremony for signing the treaty, initiated last Thursday in Moscow by U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman, is expected to take place Monday.

Secretary General U. Thant said at United Nations headquarters Tuesday night that he would be on hand in Moscow Monday for the event.

FORT WORTH (AP)—Some 54 Texas beauties will make their debut tonight before the footlights for the coveted prize of Miss Texas and a chance to enter the Miss America contest.

The lovelies rehearsed in the Will Rogers auditorium Tuesday. Preliminaries continue through Friday night, with the finals and the crowning of the new Miss Texas on Saturday night.

With the title goes $3,000 in scholarships, a $500 fashion award and a $1,000 wardrobe.

Merchants distributed 25,000 tickets for the first two nights of the preliminaries.

There are ominous signs that the Red Chinese, angry and frustrated because of Premier Khrushchev's policies of peaceful coexistence, are hell-bent for reckless action in Asia. They may even be toying with the idea of risking renewed war in Korea.

The Red Chinese attitude, reflected in recent statements by Asian Communist leaders, appears to be a direct result of the Soviet-British-U.S. agreement to discontinue all nuclear tests except those underground.

Shootings Now Called Isolated

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. military chiefs watched today for signs indicating whether the outbreak of shooting incidents in Korea might foreshadow major action by the Communists.

So far, the disposition in the Pentagon is to regard the incidents this week as isolated.

Any further ambushes by North Korea's Red marauders or encounters with them could raise the level of concern, sources said, because they might point to development of an offensive pattern.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff were being kept abreast of the situation along the demilitarized zone, but for the present were leaving the reins in the hands of U.S. commanders in Korea.

NO SPECIAL ALERT There has been no special alert of American forces outside Korea, authorities said.

In South Korea, patrols have been strengthened and vigilance increased along the 150-mile no-man's-land separating Communist and non-Communist halves of the country.

Three U.S. soldiers and a South Korean policeman have been killed this week battling raiders near the demilitarized zone. Four North Korean Communists infiltrators died violently Tuesday six miles south of the armistice line.

A U.S. spokesman said two of the infiltrators committed suicide when surrounded.

American diplomatic officials studied the flare-up in Korea against the background of the Chinese Communist cleavage with the Soviet Union and Red China's espousal of a hard line against the West.

ALIGNED The North Koreans have aligned themselves with the Red Chinese, who supported them in the Korean conflict.

A State Department spokesman, Richard I. Phillips, said Tuesday the North Koreans' aggressiveness appears to be a demonstration of truculence connected with the 10th anniversary of the armistice which brought an end to big-scale fighting in Korea.

However, I would not want to exclude the possibility of their being linked to wider developments in Asia," Phillips said.

By this he meant reports of a Red Chinese military buildup along India's frontier, which Communist Chinese troops penetrated last fall.

NO REPORTS Phillips told newsmen there have been no reports of troop movements inside China.

The United States and South Korea are in an infinitely better military position than they were 13 years ago when the North Koreans poured across the 38th Parallel in a surprise attack.

The only American fighting men in Korea then were about 500 military advisers stationed with Korean forces. The last U.S. combat troops had been pulled out more than a year before.

The South Korean army in mid-1950 had only about 65,000 combat-ready men and was badly outfitted by the North Koreans. The South Korean air force numbered 22 planes.

Now, there are 50,000 American military men in South Korea, including the 1st Cavalry and 7th Infantry Divisions.

SOUTH KOREANS The South Koreans have a 500,000-man force equipped and trained by the United States.

The U.S. 8th Army in Korea lives in a constant state of readiness. Heavy weapons are trained on Communist positions.

Backing up U.S. Army and Air Force units in Korea are 40,000 men on Okinawa, strong air elements in Japan, on Okinawa, in the Philippines and on Formosa. And the mighty 7th Fleet patrols the waters not far from Korea.

Red China Rejects Test Ban Treaty

TOKYO (AP)—Red China officially rejected the U.S.-British-Soviet nuclear test ban agreement today in an attack on the Soviet government indicating Peking may be near a formal break with Moscow.

A government statement distributed by the official New China news agency said the Peking regime would not adhere to the pact initiated in Moscow last week because the agreement's main purpose was to bar Red China from obtaining nuclear weapons.

The statement described the partial test ban pact as a "dirty fraud" and said it was designed "to prevent all the threatened peace-loving countries, including China, from increasing their defense capability."

"The indisputable facts prove," it said, "that the policy pursued by the Soviet government is one of allying with the forces of war to oppose the forces of peace, allying with imperialism to oppose socialism, allying with the United States to oppose China, and allying with the reactionaries of all countries to oppose the people of the world."

There is no record of a similar public criticism by the Peking government or the government of Russia. The language was the kind usually employed by a government which contemplates some serious step in relation to the other.

The Chinese and Russians have in the past few years used endless words to criticize each other. But until today they have done so only on the Communist party level.

Guns Found That Killed 2

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The Communist guns which killed two U.S. soldiers and wounded a third Monday just south of the demilitarized zone were the same weapons carried by North Korean soldiers killed Tuesday, a U.N. command spokesman announced.

"Ballistic tests have proven conclusively that submachine guns taken from two North Koreans killed Tuesday afternoon are the same weapons used in the Monday morning ambush attack," Col. George Creel said.

Creel explained that the "markings on the bullets taken from the 404th (American) cavalrymen compare with the markings on bullets fired from the captured submachine guns."

U.S. soldiers "exchanged fire with the enemy" early today for the third consecutive day just south of the demilitarized zone separating North and South Korea, Brig. Gen. Charles Pershing Brown announced.

Brown, acting commander of the 1st Cavalry Division, said: "No one was wounded or killed on our side and there were no definite results from the contact."

NEWS ANALYSIS

Frustrated In One Area, Chinese Turn To Another

to have lost all control over the North Koreans. This may be true, too, in smoldering Indochina.

Backed by the Chinese, North Korean Communist leaders are sounding as truculent as they did before an armistice halted the Korean action 10 years ago.

Recently a high-ranking North Korean Communist toured Red China. On his return last week to Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, he said in a speech that "one half of our territory (meaning South Korea) is under the occupation of the U.S. imperialists and we have not yet completed the national liberation revolution."

"National liberation" is a Communist way of describing a war to advance communism. It is Red China's contention that Khrushchev's policy of easing tensions with the West hampers the "national liberation movement."

The North Korean leader called reunification of Korea—by which he meant Communist domination over the whole country—the "supreme national revolutionary task of 30 million Korean people." As is customary when Communists are preparing to act, he accused the United States of preparing for an aggression.

If the Red Chinese start something dangerous in Asia, they could put Khrushchev on an uncomfortable spot, demanding that he choose between his Chinese allies and the West.

ALL MEN

No accountable man, anywhere, escapes the obligation to repent. "And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men every where to repent" (Acts 17:30). All men must yield; die in their sins. The unconverted man must repent. "Repent ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out" (Acts 3:19). This was addressed to the unconverted. The following Scripture was addressed to a man who had been converted, then had sinned. "Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray God, if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee" (Acts 8:22). Verse 13 shows that this man had truly believed on Christ before this. Without repentance there is no forgiveness. Without forgiveness one dies in his sins. One dying in his sins cannot go where Jesus is (John 8:21). All men must repent of their sins, to get to heaven! By T. H. Yarboll, preacher, Church of Christ, 2000 West Highway 86, where you are always welcome. —Adv.

New Green Stamp Center To Open

The Sperry & Hutchinson Green Stamp Merchandising Co. will open its new merchandising center at 903 Johnson, Big Spring, Thursday at 9 a.m. The center has been moved to the new location from 905½ Johnson and now has approximately double its previous floor space.

Mrs. Lurline Lawson, who has been with the center three years, continues as manager. Mrs. J. R. Burks and Mrs. E. J. Minchew will be assistants.

OFFICIALS HERE
Wayne Foster, Lubbock, district merchandise manager, was at the new store Tuesday and Wednesday helping to get the interior arrangements complete. He will also be on hand when the store opens Thursday morning. Other officials expected are Bill Anchor, San Angelo, area salesman; John Darden, Fort Worth, Southwestern (Reg. V) merchandise manager for Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico, and Gene Morris from the district office. Perry Wenzel, zone sales manager from Lubbock, has been at the new location to oversee arrangements but will be unable to attend the opening.

Foster said Tuesday the new store would permit a larger volume and larger stock selection of merchandise.

The merchandise showroom is almost twice the size of the former room, and the stock room is over twice the former size.

The show window will have two raised furniture display floors; the distinguished merchandise (silverware, glassware, china, and like items) will be in display racks and shelves across the rear of the room; pictures, carpets, card tables, infants' needs, rugs, spreads, and blankets, will be prominently displayed on the north side of the room.

VARIED DISPLAYS
Sports merchandise, toys, hobby items, kitchen items, luggage, lamps and hassocks, will be across the south wall.

A glassed-in case will be in front of the distinguished merchandise display, and will hold the glassware, jewelry and similar items. Four other display racks will be in the center of the merchandise room and will hold housewares and appliances. All fixtures are new.

New flooring, ceiling, and lighting fixtures, will provide ample lighting for all displays. The stock room is equipped with ceiling-height metal racks for stock, and a work room, for opening and checking incoming merchandise for the stock shelves, will be just inside the rear entrance.

Newsom Completes W. 3rd Food Center Renovations

From the tip of the corner brick, to the tripped parking area, the newly remodeled Newsom Food Center, 501 W. 3rd St., will open its doors Thursday for a three day preview of the facilities.

The store, which was remodeled last in 1952, will feature a Butcher Shop, market area, and household goods area shaded by rustic gables laden with shingles in redwood. The household goods shelves are another addition in the renovation. The all new shelves have been turned, numbered, and spaced to allow more room between for the customers and special displays.

A new ceiling, in an off white color, provides a softer lighting effect for the entire store. Another addition comes wrapped in candy stripes. The new candy rack is shaded by a canopy of red and white stripes. The same colors only a broader striped version, appears over the vegetable bins.

A partial covering of tornado brick has been added to the front and sides of the building. Space has been cleared to the side of the building for more than three times as much parking area.

"Although the store remained open throughout the remodeling, we want to give the customers a look at the final product," said Sonny Wetzel, store manager. Wetzel, who has served with the store for eight years, was appointed manager one month ago.

Earliness Of Horse Sleeping Sickness Cases Causes Alarm

Mosquitoes are infecting Howard County horses with sleeping sickness. Three confirmed cases have been reported and hundreds of horses have been vaccinated as a result. All of the sick horses recovered from the illness.

Dawson County currently is having a near epidemic of the disease. Six horses are known to have been infected and one has died.

Dr. H. F. Schwarzenbach, Big Spring veterinarian, said that his clinic has administered at least 1,000 vaccination shots since the disease first appeared here. The three cases, he said, were in the first two weeks of July. Since then no additional cases have been reported.

Dr. Akin Simpson, the other veterinarian in the county, is out of town but his clinic said the three cases were known to Dr. Simpson. Demand for vaccine has been brisk at the clinic, it was reported.

The disease is one of three types of encephalitis. The type found in the three cases here is known as "Western" strain. Dr. David L. Smith, Lamesa, who is treating the horses infected in Dawson County, described this as the least lethal of the three types, however, fatalities occur in 40 per cent of such cases.

Dr. Schwarzenbach said that there were only three cases in the county in 1962. "These cases," he said, "came late in August which is the usual time we encounter this disease. The earliness of the cases this year is alarming. There is a danger of an even larger outbreak at the normal season."

He added that horse owners have been so alarmed by the cases that hundreds of horses have been vaccinated. This may blunt or prevent the development of a new outbreak. There seems to be no advance warning a horse is falling victim to the disease, veterinarians explained. By the time the symptoms become recognizable, the horse is sick enough to require intensive treatment.

The virus is carried by mosquitoes. The disease attacks the animal's brain. A sluggishness develops; there is a discharge from the nostrils. If not dealt with promptly the animal may die.

Today's hand came in the mail recently from a correspondent who was requesting adjudication. It seems that he and his partner bid six hearts and suffered a setback which was magnified by the fact that a six diamond contract could have been fulfilled with ease. The bidding proceeded as indicated in the diagram and, since there were errors on both sides, perhaps we had better analyze the sequence in detail.

The first mistake was committed by South when he jumped to three hearts. Although he does have a long suit and considerable playing strength, he lacks the high card holding required for a jump rebid. Inasmuch as partner has made a response at the two level, he is not likely to drop the bidding abruptly and South should be content simply to rebid his suit.

The second mistake was North's. Having shown clubs on the first round, he should bid diamonds next. A four diamond call would not only give a better picture of his distribution but it would also serve to announce great strength, since it forces partner to the five level to show a mere preference for clubs. Had North bid four diamonds, South had a handy Blackwood call available to him, for, with his distribution, a diamond slam hinges merely on the number of aces partner has.

South could still have saved the day by bidding four diamonds himself over four clubs, for North would no doubt have then proceeded to slam in that suit. When South returned to four hearts instead, North finally bid five diamonds. By this time South probably took this call to be ace showing rather than a suit and he attempted to sign off at five hearts.

We cannot find it in ourselves to criticize North's final call for, after South had bid hearts so many times and with such enthusiasm, it was reasonable, to assume that he had a solid suit. West opened the queen of spades against the heart slam and the defenders took one spade and one heart.

New Specter Of Inflation Looms

EDITOR'S NOTE—A record high cost-of-living index is raising the specter of new inflation. Business economists say they don't think it's a real threat, but that prices do seem to be perking up.

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
NEW YORK (AP)—Government statistics invite fears that inflation may be straining at the leash again.

Businessmen seem agreed that it probably won't get loose. But they concede there has been more raising in recent months than in a long time.

The government cost of living index for June took its biggest spurt in months, reaching a record high of 106.6 per cent.

This figure, strongly influenced by an unusual increase in sugar prices, can't be taken too seriously by itself. But businessmen are studying the index for what it reveals about the over-all pattern.

For years that pattern has been deflationary, many businessmen say. There has been a buyers' market, with stiff price competition, since about 1958.

During this period, wholesale price indices slipped downward and retail averages held about steady. The cost-of-living index inched upward, but this was almost exclusively because of higher charges for services—haircuts up 12 per cent, hospital care up 33 per cent, etc.—shelter and taxes. Food prices have been almost steady for several years.

Real estate prices kept rising, partly because of property taxes, but by last year, they too had about flattened out.

This stability had some bad sides. Businessmen complained of a profit squeeze. Unemployment grew. A host of items—lead, zinc, aluminum, sugar, cocoa, plastic resins—sank to near-record lows.

In the climate, U.S. Steel tried unsuccessfully to boost its prices, bringing the historic clash with President Kennedy in the spring of 1962.

This spring, the steel industry tried again but on a smaller scale. This time it worked. Then Aluminum producers gingerly raised some prices. Some brass and copper makers followed suit. Then came more aluminum boosts, rises in some electrical and electronic components, wood products, petroleum products, auto tires, boxes and plastics ingredients. Increases were announced for fall clothing. Furniture boosts were predicted.

At about the same time, sugar prices zoomed from near-record depths to near-record heights. Tin and cocoa prices also climbed.

Some see a new inflationary climate emerging from these developments. Many economists say this is illusory.

The sugar and cocoa rises, these economists say, are highly individual things, having little to do with the general economy. And both appear to be headed downward again.

Briefing Given On New Nursing Home

Rotarians, at their Tuesday meeting, heard Bruce Frazier give a review of the Bennett House, the new geriatric home.

Hal Woodward, member of the Texas Highway Commission, will be the speaker on the highway projects in this area when other clubs meet next Tuesday with the Rotary Club.

Frazier said the first guest at the house was Shine Phillips, a pioneer Big Spring pharmacist, who gave him his first job. The second was Bernard Fisher, another old timer.

"We had eight guests registered on Monday," he said, "and more were coming in today. I didn't have an opportunity to see how many were in before I came to this meeting, but I am humble, and gratified at the response received so far."

Frazier said some of the equipment did not arrive on time for the open house. He told of the arrival of the beds at 3 a.m. Sunday and the mad scramble to get them up and ready.

"We have a third building under construction," he continued, "which will house a laundry, bar-

Says Human Rights Issue, Pastor Recalls Long Ministry

To the Editor:

The civil rights struggle that we are reading about daily is nothing less than a full-scale social revolution by Negroes and their supporters that has as its objective the realization of real democracy for all Americans, regardless of their color or race. Real democracy simply means that every citizen shall have equal opportunity to achieve "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

If this objective of full democracy is reached soon, our beloved country will be immeasurably strengthened both at home and abroad. If it is not reached soon, we may be in for the worst blood-letting our country has experienced since the Civil War—and our position as leader of the free world will be greatly weakened. For the hypocrisy of talking about liberty and justice throughout the world while denying it to Negroes at home is plainly repugnant to the citizens of Asia, Africa and South America.

As Gov. Connally pointed out recently, Negroes in Texas have made rapid advances in recent years. But there is still much prejudice and discrimination in our state to be overcome. There are other areas of our country where Negroes daily suffer the most devastating kind of treatment. Recently in Greenwood, Miss., 2,000 Negroes tried to register for voting privileges but only seven were accepted! In Petersburg, Va., a Negro woman critically ill could not be admitted to any hospital; enroute to the nearest hospital that would allow her admittance (20 miles away), she died. In Georgia, Negro churches have been burned to the ground because their pastors were talking about the Gospel in concrete rather than in abstract terms. In Chicago unemployment among Negroes is higher now than it was during the depression.

Thus American Negroes have finally risen up against such treatment and said, "Enough!" But the remarkable thing has been that this protest does not take its direction from those who advocate violence—but from the teachings of Jesus, Tolstoy, Thoreau and Gandhi. Non-violently, the Negro is seeking to overcome evil with good and to respond to injustice with love and forgiveness.

Rather than resenting what is happening, we should all be grateful that this movement is being led by men of a high moral stature instead of by those who advocate violence and hatred. The latter may yet gain the following of many Negroes if the efforts of Martin Luther King and others are not successful or seem too slow. That is one reason the civil rights struggle has entered the critical stage this summer.

Regular channels, still used, proved frustratingly slow and costly. Nine years since the Supreme Court decision of 1954, only 8.3 per cent of the Negro students have been integrated. At this rate it would take 92 more years—almost another century—before the blight of segregated, inferior schools would be removed! And civil rights achieved through our courts is a terribly expensive procedure from an economically poor minority group.

Demonstrations are not an expression of anarchy but of respect for genuine community to rise up against unjust laws and ordinances, as was done once at a famous "Tea Party" in Boston.

Many are worried that the currently pending civil rights legislation in Washington will infringe upon property rights. The real question, however, is human rights. When the two conflict the latter is the more important. Abraham Lincoln showed us this 100 years ago when he freed the slaves. What is being sought today is simply the fulfillment of what he promised in the Emancipation Proclamation.

Sincerely,
RICHARD DEATS

Big Spring

To the Editor:
Memory recalls that two years ago Sunday we began a one week revival in the First Baptist Church in Big Spring, which was brought to a close a pastoral relationship which began on Pearl Harbor day two decades before. At the close of that revival we baptized 11 candidates which brought to 1,094 the number we had had the privilege of baptizing during a pastorate of 1,014 Sundays.

We recall with the deepest gratitude those years in Big Spring. We saw the city triple in size with a comparable growth in the church (now three churches by reason of missionary activities). Our heart-beats quicken when the faces of loyal members come into view. It is pleasant to recall our association with the church staff. I feel I must mention the name of Mrs. Inez Lewis, who never frowned at anything I suggested and always did more than was required. Surely no pastor ever had a more dependable board of deacons.

After the baptizings we remember with greatest gratitude the growth of missionary support which rose from less than $2,000 the first year to well over $20,000 the last year. The church which does not go cannot stay.

What of the two years since we gave up the pastorate? We have perhaps preached twice as much as we would have in a Sunday by Sunday schedule. We have had 44 revivals, each ending in a baptizing. We are now serving briefly as interim pastor of Richmond Plaza church in Houston, and have a full schedule of revivals through 1964. The Lord has given both Johnny Kay and me good health, but we confess to a homesick feeling.

We are deeply grateful to God for sending Brother Robert Polk as the pastor of the flock we loved so long and well. Drop us a line at 1942 Wink Drive, Houston 77024, Texas.

To the Editor:
I am a former resident of Howard County, just moved back and would like to write a few lines about the Gay Hill and Center Point annexation suit. It isn't fair. The county board told the people of these school districts they would not annex them; they would have a vote on this... I feel sorry for people in these districts. A few years back it was nip and tuck to keep their kids in schools near them. So this thing happens. The county board says it is for the good of the children, but all they are after is the tax money. Why would the public take sides with a deal like that?

Sincerely yours,
MRS. EDNA YOUNG

To the Editor:
Is there a particular reason that your newspaper does not carry a schedule of local movie showings? Most of the newspapers with which I have come in contact have some sort of listing telling the reader specific times that features at local theatres will commence.

During my stay here in Big Spring as a student pilot I have had to call the local theatres to find out what time a particular movie started at least 50 times. This appears to be a definite inconvenience for the moviegoer and for the theatre as well. I should think a listing in the pa-

Because over 99 million people, in 9 out of every 10 households, read newspapers.

Are they all birds of a feather? Nothing could be further from the truth. People of all tastes and persuasions, in every age group, educational level, income bracket find a private sanctuary each day in the daily newspaper they choose to call their own. Pair Chosen As Second Year Winners In 4-H Dress Revue

By JOHNNIE LU RABORN
A set of winners walked off with their second year blue ribbon stylings in 4-H dress making competition last evening in the Community Room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Co., Building.

Robbie Brown, 15 year old from Knott, led the senior division and earned the right to compete in the district review at Lubbock Aug. 6.

As will 12 year-old Carolyn Crawford, junior division winner. The pair were county winners last year and will again compete with the other 20 county winners. Miss Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown, Knott, attends high school in Ackerly and is a member of the County-Wide 4-H Club. For the competition, she made an Electric blue, wool dress fashioned with a high round neck, elbow length kimono sleeves, and a slightly flared skirt with a front, inverted pleat. Her accessories included a black felt hat, black kid slippers and bag. Her jewelry was a gold pin-wheel pin at the shoulder.

Miss Crawford, who will enter Goliad Junior High this fall, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delaine Crawford, 2605 Carol and also a County-Wide Club member. She will compete, wearing her dress of cotton satin designed in brown, gray and muted orange print. The jewel neckline was ornamented with a gold pin, while the sleeves were short, and the bodice belted at the waist in black leather. Her flat heel slippers were in patent.

JUNIOR DIVISION
In the other junior divisions, blue ribbons went to a County Wide member, Joan Crawford, and Lomax Club member, Carla Perry, for their first year skirts and blouses. In the first year skirt division, Debbie Anderson, and Marsha Heard, County Wide Club, received blue ribbons. These girls are not eligible for district competition.

Judging was done by a panel in the office of the Home Demonstration Agent in the Howard County Court House prior to show on Tuesday. Point evaluations came on a four category rating basis. Most important in the judging was how the outfit looked on the girl and was worth 50 points. They rated on the basis of general appearance, suitable fabric style and color, fit and accessories. Other points included the posture, poise, grooming and attitude of the model, construction of the garment, accurate cutting and quality of work, record of 4-H projects and leadership in the projects.

Judges for the competition were Miss Jane Keener, assistant county home demonstration agent for Gainer County, Mrs. Jack Alexander, Mrs. R. C. Thomas and Mrs. Frances Zant.

ALTERNATES
Alternate for the senior division will be Kathy Shaw a blue ribbon winner from the County Wide Club. Junior alternate will be Martha Couch, from the Gay Hill Club.

One red ribbon was presented in the senior division to Penny Frazier, County Wide, and three white ribbons went to Jane Murphy, Gay Hill, Margie Newman, County Wide, and Regina Rhoads, County Wide.

Blue ribbon winners in the junior division of dresses or skirts and blouses were Sherry Thomas, County Wide, Betty Lou Little, Gay Hill, and Cheryl Jones, Knott. Red ribbon winners were Kendra Thomas, Margaret Zike, and Linda Crawford, all of County Wide. White ribbon winners in this division were Jackie Kemper, Knott, Carol Sturm, Gay Hill, Corky Grantham, Center Point, and Carolyn Underwood, Gay Hill.

In the first year skirt and blouse division, red ribbons went to Molly Adkins, Lomax, and Diane Stallings, County Wide. Two white ribbons were awarded to Sandra Kay Williams, Knott, and Betty Lee McIlvain, Lomax.

One red ribbon in the first year girls making only skirts went to Ellen Gossett, County Wide. White ribbons went to Rita Jones, and Pamela Jones, Knott.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

by Heloise Cruse

By HELOISE CRUSE
Dear Gals:
We have been asked so many times to repeat "how to save soap-filled steel wool pads" that I just have to do it.

But let's not make a habit of repeats. We have too many new ideas just waiting for space. Anything that you might take a fancy to hereafter... clip it out and file it away.

First and foremost — a penny saved is ten cents earned. (If you save ten per cent of your income.) Besides that, we all hate rusty soap-filled pads!

Here's what I do:
Take any old peanut butter jar (I don't use a peanut butter jar myself, because one day I happened to look in my cabinet and spied a beautiful sugar bowl and thought to myself, "Now, I have had that 15 years and though it's an antique... why not use it daily?")

Anyway, take a jar and drop any soap-filled pad in it, fill it about two-thirds full with hot water. Be sure the water covers the pad. Let this sit overnight.

In the morning you will find a goopy substance. This is terrific for many things. You can take any scourer and dip into this goopy mixture and scrub.

But, the best part is that you can pick out the steel wool and squeeze it a bit, then scrub any pot or pan. Wash the steel pad off and place it back in that good jeweler's rouge and scrub away for days without rust!

But the best part of it is: You will have no hard pad to ruin your manicure and fingernails. The pad will be so soft that it will get into those creases in your pans.

Also, when you are scrubbing that skillet with all the scrambled egg residue, the scrambled eggs can be washed out of the pad (so odors and rust won't form) and it's clean.

And remember: No rust as long as the pad is under water, it's soft, it's cleanable (as you have saved all that beautiful goopy stuff for next time) and I find it much more sanitary.

If your goop gets low... add a little water and if you run out of goop before the pad is worn add some liquid detergent to the jar!

Charges Cover-Up Of Commie Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Mississippi state senator charged today that Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy was guilty of "a brazen cover-up job" when he said there was no evidence of Communist control of current civil rights demonstrations.

The charge was made by John C. McLaurin in testimony before the Senate Commerce Committee which is considering President Kennedy's public accommodations proposal.

McLaurin also proposed as a solution of the racial problem a massive relocation of Negroes so that the population of each state would be about 10 per cent Negro. He said the Negro population now ranges from 42 per cent in Mississippi to less than one per cent in some northern states.

McLaurin today repeated charges made earlier in the hearing by Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi and George Wallace of Alabama.

During his testimony two weeks ago, Barnett displayed a picture which he said showed the Rev. Martin Luther King, a Negro leader, at the Highlander Folk School in Tennessee — a school which Barnett said was a Communist training school.

Subsequently, Atty. Gen. Kennedy told the committee that the government has evidence that its top leaders of the major civil rights movements are Communists or Communist controlled.

McLaurin told the committee: "When he (Kennedy) says there is no evidence that Martin Luther King or any of the top leaders of the major civil rights groups are Communists, or Communist controlled, then he has either deliberately misstated the facts or is the most ignorant attorney general this nation has ever had."

"I tell you, gentlemen," Atty. Gen. Kennedy is not an ignorant man. I charge that he is deliberately whitewashing the Negro leadership, with which he is in daily contact, and that in doing so he has, with full knowledge, deliberately ignored pertinent facts in the files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and facts available to him, and to you, from the files of the House Committee on Un-American Activities or your own Senate subcommittee on internal security."

Across the capitol, meantime, Negro leaders were urging the House Judiciary Committee to strengthen the administration's proposed civil rights legislation. A particular request is for addition of a fair employment practices bill.

Tuesday, they got the assurance of Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., that he'll go along with them. The votes to do it will be harder to come by.

The beginning of the play of strategy in the House marked the approaching end of the preliminaries in the civil rights battle. In the Senate signs of progress are hard to detect.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who has spent four days listening to Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-S.C., question the constitutionality of key parts of the legislation, is due back for another session today, and Ervin says he still has a long way to go.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., suggested night hearings in order to speed things up.

Plaintiffs To List Amounts

TYLER (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Sheehy directed counsel Tuesday to submit amounts the defendants must pay as damages in two suits over slanted oil wells.

Juries have held the plaintiffs should collect in both cases but the details remain to be worked out. The jurors decided wells owned by the defendants angled to draw oil from underneath leases of those bringing suit.

One suit by Pan American Petroleum Corp. and Socony Mobil Oil Co. asked $600,000 in damages from Tyler oil operator H. L. Long, other investors in certain wells and Southwestern Life Insurance Co.

Texas, Inc., sought about $95,000 in the other suit, against H. M. Harrington Jr., Longview oil man, and others.

Judge Sheehy instructed lawyers for the plaintiffs to furnish the amounts claimed from each party to defense counsel. If the defense agrees to these figures, the jurist said he will record judgments.

In event the litigants cannot agree, Judge Sheehy said he will decide the matter.

New Garbage Truck Speedier

"The new Pak-Mor garbage pickup truck and one man picked up more trash in five hours last night than the old truck and three men picked up in an average 10 hours," Director of Public Works Ernest Lillard said this morning.

The 24-cubic yard packer body, equipped with hydraulic lifts, is being used for the first time in the downtown business area. More containers will be placed in shopping centers, at hospitals, and at the larger apartment houses.

The all-metal, covered containers, in three- and four-cubic-yard sizes, are being placed in the alleys. A few will be put near curbs where no alley or drive-in area is feasible.

"We may have to do a little moving around when the best locations are finally determined," City Manager Larry Crow said.

"A schedule for pickups will also have to be worked out as we see how the whole system operates."

Cans, barrels, and boxes will no longer be placed in the down-town alleys and pick-up locations.

Will Hear Both Sides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Commerce Committee aims to hear once again from each side in the railroad-labor dispute, then wind up its hearings on President Kennedy's plan for averting a nationwide strike.

"If we could just keep both sides guessing for a while as to what we will do, they might do some effective bargaining," acting committee chairman John O. Pastore told newsmen Tuesday night.

The Rhode Island Democrat has been pressing the railroads and the five operating unions to settle their work rules wrangle through bargaining rather than through legislation.

Pastore said he hoped to end the hearings Thursday night after hearing from carrier spokesmen Tuesday and then "it probably will be fair to hear from the brotherhoods again."

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz went for two hours with carriers' representatives and a Labor Department spokesman said he probably will meet with both sides today.

The spokesman said some progress was made in Tuesday's session "but not enough to warrant any undue optimism."

Mercury Doesn't Affect Water Curve

The 99-degree temperature Wednesday did not bring water usage in the city up to the high marks set for several days last week.

Big Spring water usage reported for Tuesday and Tuesday night showed only 7,974,000 gallons. The last day on which 10 million or more gallons were metered was on July 26.

Readings dropped below 8,000,000 gallons on both Monday and Tuesday of this week for the first time this month. The first 10 million and more gallons used showed on July 10.

Hopes of showers, and showers falling around Big Spring, have curtailed watering of lawns. Cooler nights for the past few days have cut down on air conditioner water consumption.

Oil Report

Glorieta production was picked up in the Garza (San Andres) pool in Garza County at Brown Brothers et al No. 1-G-A Montgomery-Davies. The well, located about 1 1/4 miles southeast of Post, pumped nine barrels of 37.5-gravity oil, along with 30 per cent water, on initial potential.

The nearest Glorieta production is about three miles to the north in the three-well Garza, East field. Operator drilled from elevation 2,547 feet to a total depth of 3,594 feet and picked up the Glorieta at 3,500 feet. Casing was set at 3,568 feet and perforated between 3,500-505 feet. The zone was stimulated with 750 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio was 175-1.

Location is 2,050 feet from the west and 175 feet from the north lines of section 5-5, K. Aycock survey.

8,600-foot Ellenburger test about three miles southwest of Justiceburg. The new project is Consolidated Oil and Gas Co., Inc. No. 1 Miller. It will be drilled, from elevation 2,395 feet.

The project spots 447 feet from the south and 3,750 feet from the west lines of section 41-6, H&GN survey, on a 320-acre lease.

Cities Service No. 1-A Miers is continuing to core below 7,405 feet in sand and shale after lifting 50 feet from a section between 7,355-405 feet.

Recovery from 7,355-68 feet was sandstone with stain and shale partings. There was one vertical fracture in shale returned from 7,392-93 feet but no shows. A section from 7,399 1/2-400 feet had good fluorescence, odor and stain, as did a section from 7,402-04 feet.

Drillsite is 550 feet from the south and 1,650 feet from the west lines of section 2-3, D. L. Cunningham survey. This Dawson County project is about 10 miles northwest of Lamesa.

Operator Coring

At today's hearing Judge Sheehy told the Longview School Board today to integrate this fall and not to delay until 1964 as the board proposed.

The Longview board, complying with an earlier order, had submitted a grade-year plan to begin next year.

At today's hearing Judge Sheehy said the plan did not comply with the court's earlier ruling. He said he will issue a decree next week.

Among the things the decree will contain, Judge Sheehy said, is that the schools integrate this fall, that at least the first grade be integrated and that at least one grade a year be segregated.

Police Arrest 21 In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Police arrested 21 persons Tuesday night as they dispersed about 1,000 white persons who milled around an apartment building into which a Negro family moved on Monday.

On Monday night, police had arrested 10 persons as they held back a crowd of about 500 from the building in a predominantly white neighborhood.

Police said of the 21 arrested, 14 men and one woman were charged with disorderly conduct.

About 45 policemen and a canine squad were sent into the area after the crowd began gathering early in the evening. Police ordered three streets closed to traffic.

The apartment building has 30 flats of which 13 are reported vacant.

A second Negro family moved into another apartment building about a block from the scene of the disturbance. However, no crowd appeared at the building.

Commissioners To Consider Budget

A preliminary hearing on the Howard County budget for 1964 is to be held by the Howard County Commissioners Court on Thursday, it was announced by Wade Choate, county auditor.

Choate said the new budget, which will be studied by the commissioners, is subject to some revision and change.

He said the budget is figured on the probability the total valuation for tax purposes in the county will be up about $250,000. Final figures are not yet available.

Pritchard and Abbott, tax engineers, have not as yet turned in their findings on valuation of oil and gas properties.

He estimated the new budget will be from $15,000 to $20,000 greater than the one for the current year. Total expenditures set in the 1963 budget were $960,000.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the suit, filed in U.S. District Court in Birmingham, demanded that local registration officials be ordered to stop discriminating against Negro applicants.

Birmingham is the largest city in which the department has sought through court action to secure equal voting rights for Negroes. Today's was the 43rd voting suit filed, the eighth in Alabama.

Attendance Records For North Side Church Shattered

North Side Church of Christ is breaking all attendance records in church activities, according to David Tarbet, minister.

The July 28, Sunday morning worship service totaled a record-breaking 162 persons. The Sunday School Bible classes had 113 attendees, the revival services, 242 persons and the Vocational Bible School recorded 1228.

The goal set by the church for Bible school attendance is 125 by Sept. 8. At present a series of cottage Bible classes are meeting weekly in homes of interested persons.

Beside the attendance work, the church is partially sponsoring a missionary in Australia. Tarbet, who is full time minister, will return to Abilene Christian College in the fall to finish work on a bachelor of arts degree while commuting to Big Spring on the weekends.

Ward Found Guilty Today

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Stephen Ward was convicted today of two charges of living on the immoral earnings of prostitutes.

The society osteopath, lying gravely ill in a London hospital from an overdose of drugs, was found innocent on three other vice charges against him.

The verdict was reached on the trial's eighth day by the jury of 11 men and one woman after 4 1/2 hours of deliberation.

Conviction on all prison charges might have meant a sentence of 25 years in prison.

Court officials said that Justice Sir Archie Marshall would not sentence Ward until he is well enough to be present.

Ward still was in a coma five hours after admission to the hospital. Doctors and nurses were administering oxygen in an effort to bring him around.

Christine Keeler, alleged by the prosecution to be the star attraction in a circus of prostitutes run by Ward, was stunned.

Hospital authorities indicated that Ward was expected to recover.

The presiding judge completed his summing up of the evidence and his instructions to the jury after cancelling Ward's bail of $5,000 pounds ($8,400) and instructing the police to "take the normal steps to ensure greater security" of Ward.

The five charges against Ward are all misdemeanors although they carry a possible total penalty of 25 years in prison.

Ward, 50, an osteopath and artist, was found unconscious this morning by a friend, Noel Howard Jones, in whose Chelsea district flat he had spent the night.

Ward had been found "loose and lots of notes."

A source close to Ward said that among the notes was one to Julia Gulliver, 22, his constant companion in recent weeks; one to Barry O'Brien, a newspaper reporter who testified in his defense at the trial, and one to his lawyers.

Ward, charged with two counts of procuring young girls for immoral purposes and three counts of living off the proceeds of prostitution, could get a maximum of 25 years in prison.

Tuesday, at his trial, Ward was rebuked by Justice Marshall for interrupting the proceedings. He apologized and said he was under quite a strain.

Ward is accused of operating a stable of prostitutes in which Christine Keeler, the former mistress of ex-war minister John D. Profumo, and Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies were star attractions.

Another of Christine's former lovers, Negro jazz singer Aloysius (Louis) Gordon, was freed Tuesday by an appeal court from three-year prison sentence. The court quashed his conviction on charges of beating up the 21-year-old call girl in April.

New Cornfed Series Due On Fall TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After CBS' "Beverly Hillbillies" topped last winter's popularity ratings, the network announced that Bea Benaderet, man-hunting Cousin Pearl in the show, would star in a new series called "Ozark Widow."

This led to speculation whether television was ready for two cornfed series. But the title of the show has been changed to "Petticoat Junction" and it bears not the slightest resemblance to "Hillbillies."

SKILLFUL

Miss Benaderet, a skillful actress in any role, developed a new character, primarily by reading the first script 75 times.

"It is in no way at all the child of 'Beverly Hillbillies,'" she said Tuesday. "It's comedy, but it's not farcical, and the comedy stems from character development."

The locale is deliberately vague so the viewer's own background and memories can place it. Bea plays an attractive, gray-haired mother of three and owner of a small town boarding house. Many plots revolve around passengers on a railroad spur line. Clothes are unobtrusively modern; accents are easy but not recognizable Deep South or Down East.

NEVER UNKIND

"The show walks a rather fine line between legitimate situations and comedy," Bea said. "It's tongue-in-cheek but never unkind."

Bea has been a featured player since 1936 but this is her first role as a star. She created a Brooklyn telephone operator, Gertie Gearshift, on the old Jack Benny shows, played a maid on "Ozzie and Harriet," a Swedish housekeeper on "Peter Loves Mary," and for eight years was George Burns and Gracie Allen's next door neighbor, Blanche Morton.

For the past couple of seasons she has been the voice of Betty Rubble on "The Flintstones."

NOVEL PREMIER

ABC has dreamed up a novel introduction for its "Breaking Point" series about psychiatrists. It's a two-part story that starts on "Ben Casey" Sept. 9. The Patient is referred to the doctor in "Breaking Point," which premieres a week later at the same time. Casey then moves to Wednesday night, starting Sept. 18.

Almost Half Of Reparations Paid

TOKYO (AP)—Japan had paid $421,111,111 or 41.3 per cent of its World War II reparations commitments to Southeast Asian countries by the end of March, the foreign office announced Tuesday. Japan has promised to pay $1,018,888,888 to the Philippines, Burma, Indonesia, Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

DAILY GUIDE—plenty of gossip making the rounds. Political news being glossed over with rumors and deceptive explanations. Read the fine print and watch all the angles. Avoid repeating errors. Leos, Scorpios, Aquarians and Taurans should be especially on the alert to self-deceptive ideas or the manipulation of the truth by others. Remembering that there has been, and still will be, an undercurrent of such disillusionment in some matters for a long time.

Socially things begin to tone up with a lighter note continuing for most of August. Leos are highly favored while Sagittarians and Arians share in the social pleasures.

In the late hours do not take any chances of tangling with authorities of the law.

Plan relaxing activities for tomorrow; a good day for trips, excursions, outings, visits, as well as shopping, taking care of correspondence. People on the go seeking distractions. Make plans for a typical summer vacation weekend if you can—nothing to indicate you won't enjoy one.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, LEO! Two accents remain the same through this year, your personal relationships and conditions at home base. Through other people, mate, or public you are limited in your personal freedom to act or go where you wish.

However, travel is favorable this year, but some restraint is needed near the end of August. You may be mentally stimulated and take some rash action around the 26th. Domestic surroundings continue to be uncertain or upsetting, with a special emphasis in early October climaxing present problems.

Finances offer the biggest challenges in the next few years. In the next few weeks take care of details which developed recently; this week and next have an accent on finances.

Patrick Hurley Dies In Sleep Tuesday

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Retired Gen. Patrick Jay Hurley, wartime ambassador to China and the last living member of the Hoover cabinet, is dead of a suspected heart attack at the age of 80.

The tall, gregarious Hurley, born on the Choctaw Nation before Oklahoma became a state, died in his sleep Tuesday night at his elegant hillside home overlooking the New Mexico capital.

The man who rose from an Army private in 1902 to major general in 1943, was best known recently as ambassador to China and the man who carried his fight for a U.S. Senate seat to the Senate floor in 1954 before losing a roll call vote.

PATRICK JAY HURLEY

When he resigned his ambassador's post at the end of World War II he issued a bitter blast at American policy in Asia and said a third World War was in the making.

Hurley came back into the news in 1962 when the State Department released its secret and controversial China papers of 1943. Included was a report from Hurley to then President Franklin D. Roosevelt, saying Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had grave doubts about attending a summit meeting with Josef Stalin because of the Soviet Union's desire to communize China.

Hurley told the president "In my opinion Marshall Stalin is now committed to the proposition that communism can succeed in Russia alone without an attempt being made to force it on the rest of the world."

Last year Hurley, in discussing the report, said the war and diplomatic situation changed entirely between 1943 and 1945.

"The United States had by that time saved the Soviet and Stalin changed his policy completely," Hurley said.

In 1946 he made the first of three attempts for the U.S. Senate. Sen. Dennis Chavez, the Democratic incumbent, defeated him in a close race.

Hurley again was the Republican nominee in 1948. Sen. Clinton

Witnesses Give Dallas' View For Airport

DALLAS (AP)— Fourteen witnesses called by Dallas testified Tuesday there would be serious economic effects of any move to abandon the city's Love Field and make Fort Worth's Greater Southwest Airport a regional air center.

They appeared at a hearing before Civil Aeronautics Board examiner Ross Newmann.

In most cases, those testifying for Dallas said a major advantage of Love Field is the fact that it is close to the downtown business district.

George Linskie, head of a metal contracting firm quartered six blocks from the entrance to the Dallas municipal airport, said closing the field "would ruin us."

Unlike some homeowners who complained earlier of jet aircraft noise, Linskie said he and his family lived directly under the flight pattern and often entertain and cook outdoors.

"The flights do not interfere with making full use of our property," he testified.

Numerous exhibits designed to emphasize how the Dallas economy is linked closely to air service at Love Field were offered by Avery Mays, past president of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

Look Who Has A Peace Pipe

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev laughs as he examines closely the Indian pipe of peace that U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, left, presented to him in the Kremlin. Khrushchev accepted the pipe saying, "I don't smoke, but I take it as a symbol."

Freeman visited the Russian leader while on a month-long tour of Soviet and Eastern Europe agriculture areas. The pipe was decorated in green and black, with the stone bowl a deep brown, as if stained by years of smoking.

Defendants Win Delay

EL PASO (AP) — Three co-defendants of Billie Sol Estes won further delay Tuesday on entering prison to serve mail fraud sentences.

Lawyers asked U. S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomason to let the three men stay free to testify in pending criminal cases and scores of civil suits growing out of operations by Estes, the bankrupt West Texas promoter.

Judge Thomason agreed to postpone until March 1 the deadline for the trio to go behind bars.

The three men are Harold E. Orr and Ruel W. Alexander of Amarillo and Coleman T. McSpadden. They pleaded guilty 18 months ago to part of the mail fraud charges on which a grand jury indicted them with Estes.

Judge Thomason sentenced them last Sept. 20. Orr and McSpadden drew 10 years in prison, Alexander six years.

Estes, since tried and convicted by an El Paso jury, was sentenced to 15 years. He is appealing both the federal conviction and one in state court for swindling, which carried an eight-year sentence.

Insecticides Blamed For Killing Wildlife

WESLACO, Tex. (AP) — Cotton insecticide drift was blamed for killing citrus trees, fish and wildlife, and creating a hazard for humans in the Lower Rio Grande Valley at a protest meeting here Tuesday night.

More than 200 persons at the Valley Chamber of Commerce discussed methods of poisoning cotton. Most of them said too much insecticide was being blown from application areas to surrounding land.

W. W. Anderson, a farmer and member of the Sportsman's Club, complained that poison is killing his fruit trees and also fish and wildlife.

"We can't grow citrus in the Lower Rio Grande Valley if this continues," Anderson said. "And without fish and wildlife down here, tourists probably won't come down."

"In a few years we won't have anybody left down here but a few cotton farmers, a few pesticide men, and some transient workers."

Mrs. Dee Wilson of Donna said the drift creeps into her home, and on its way kills ornamental plants.

Jack Gothard of El Paso said "we farm for a profit" and offered a solution. He said he and his associates have lowered insect control costs on their 1,300 acres of land in the El Paso valley, from $28 per acre in 1956 to $3 per acre now by using small parasitic wasps which kill worms and larvae in cotton. He said the plan was developed by Dr. Stanley Flanders of the University of California.

Rex Rankin, a valley entomologist, said "personally, I don't know of any answer."

The meeting was sponsored by the citrus subcommittee of the Valley chamber's agriculture committee and the Texas Citrus Mutual.

Cecil Lanier, president of the mutual and chairman of the subcommittee, told the group the meeting was not called to antagonize anyone. He said it was to seek a solution to a problem which has plagued all farmers in recent years, and especially citrus farmers.

Aerial applicators drew the most criticism. They were accused of being careless in applications thus increasing drift.

Experts said, however, that the valley will have drift from both aerial and ground applications because of almost constant winds from the Gulf of Mexico. They added it can be minimized.

Frank Shuster, chairman of the committee, who farms about 1,400 acres of cotton, vegetables and citrus near Pharr, said he feels some sort of controls are needed.

Almost everyone agreed, however, that government controls aren't needed, including Hank Hubbell of the Federal Aviation Agency.

"I don't think regulations are going to solve your problems. We have too many regulations in the government now," Hubbell said. He said the only current regulations which control crop dusters are rules regarding distances planes must stay from people, homes, cars or other congested areas.

It All Started With A Horse

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—It all started when a horse knocked over a hive.

Bees swarmed out and stung the horse, which promptly kicked over two more hives. More bees came out fighting.

A horseman, Duane V. Ogle, was thrown to the ground and kicked in the head, but escaped serious injury.

Ely Swearingen, 63, a commercial beekeeper, came running out to help and was stung 50 times. His wife suffered more than 75 stings. Their daughter, Roberta, 18, was stung more than 100 times.

All were reported recovering in a hospital. A horse they own died of stings. Ogle's horse is recovering.

It might have been even more serious, but firemen and police came out and helped drive off the bees.

A Devotional For The Day

We give thanks to God and the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying always for you. (Colossians 1:3.) PRAYER: Help us, O Lord, to be fervent in our prayers for others. Undergird them with divine love and strength, give continued joy to those who rejoice, raise up those who are ill, comfort those who mourn. Lord, be with us, enfold us in Thy love. In Jesus' name. Get After The Feet Draggers

City police have noted a big difference now that the collection boxes have been placed in use, allowing drivers who get overtime tickets to settle them for half price if they pay on the same-day the ticket is issued.

The difference is primarily in the revenue from tickets, for this has been cut in about half. This would seem to indicate that the faithful payers are taking advantage of the boxes and are getting a cash discount for their promptness. On the other hand, those who normally drag out tickets seem to be doing just that as usual.

What to do about it? Chief Jay Banks has indicated that notices will be sent within a matter of days to those who do not pay, and if these do not get results warrants will be issued.

This seems to us a logical, sensible approach. No use to get upset over a revenue loss, for revenue is not the justification (though it may be the temptation) for employing parking meters. In the past the prompt payers have been carrying the load for the feet-draggers. Now they are getting a break for their prompt response.

There is no point of anyone paying a red cent unless all who are guilty of the same offense pay. And, as the place of action indicates, there is no point in letting tickets drag on and on and on.

Repugnant Alternative

A treaty which calls for a ban on atmospheric and underwater nuclear explosions has been initiated and is due to be signed by representatives of most major powers.

The Senate is expected to ratify the agreement after a long and deliberate look. The only alternative is to reject the idea, and thus throw open the door to competitive testing.

There is a general awareness that no treaty is a panacea, and that a treaty is only as good as its performance. There is a general understanding, too, that in dealing with Russia constant vigilance is required. They have abrogated a d scrapped treaties on other occasions, and they could this one too. Such an event might put us at some disadvantage, but not a monumental one if we have the good judgment to have clear course of action mapped and ready to implement if needs be.

There are two overriding considerations which must be taken into account. One is as the President pointed out, that this is not a case of an advantage or disadvantage for one country over another but of an advantage for mankind through halting the cumulative effect of atomic pollution. The other is the hard necessity of trying to make such an agreement work, and by so doing open the way ultimately for broader areas of understanding.

Marquis Childs Church And State—Two Views

WASHINGTON—There's supposed to be a "wall of separation between church and state" erected under the Constitution. At least so the Supreme Court of the United States has said. But something happened in Washington last Thursday which indicates that the wall apparently bars entry from only one side.

For while the government cannot direct what prayers, if any, shall be used in the public schools or institutions, the government presumably can be directed by the churches as to what laws shall be passed on any subject. Whether it is in the field of "conscience" or "commerce," the principal religious organizations of the nation now assert the right to interpret these words for themselves and to take part in the pressures being exerted in the lobbies of the Capitol to secure the enactment of certain laws barring racial discrimination.

SPOKESMEN for the three big national organizations of churches—Catholic, Protestant and Jewish—have just told Congress that all forms of racial discrimination should be abolished by law.

Three committees of Congress heard the arguments presented by the churches dealing with proposed legislation on "civil rights" in respect to retail stores, restaurants, hotels, and motels as well as discrimination in employment in various businesses, whether governmental or private.

IN WHAT WAS described by the church sponsors as "an unprecedented and indeed historic event," a formal statement containing identical words was read before each of three congressional committees. A Catholic clergyman representing the National Catholic Welfare Conference appeared before a Senate committee and said he spoke for his own and the two other church groups—the National Council of Churches and the Synagogue Council of America. The same declaration was read before another Senate committee the same day by a Jewish rabbi, who, too, testified that he spoke for all three organizations. A Protestant clergyman likewise presented the same statement before a House committee, in behalf of the three church groups. The declaration said in part:

"THE RELIGIOUS conscience of America condemns racism as blasphemy against God.

"Major religious bodies hold simply that God created all men regardless of color, race or national origin, with equal rights and dignity. They affirm that differences among individuals stemming from such factors as heredity, education, cultural background and opportunities do not in any way affect basic human rights. Thus they have specifically condemned racial discrimination, segregation, and prejudice as incompatible with the principles of faith in God."

BUT WHICH church, if any, is to determine authoritatively for Congress what are the "principles of faith in God?" Although the three major church groups can send clergymen to the committees of Congress to tell them, in effect, that unless they pass certain laws, they will be violating the "principles of faith in God," two atheists from Maryland recently persuaded the Supreme Court of the United States to rule that children in the public schools should not be allowed to pray or to express even in the vaguest terms their support of the principles of faith in God. Spokesmen for various Christian and Jewish church groups welcomed the ruling.

So there appears to be a one-sided wall of separation between church and state.

THERE HAS BEEN as yet no referendum taken among the members of these churches throughout the country—approximately 116,000,000 according to the 1961 figures—to determine how a majority feel about the asserted right of the church organizations to speak for them on matters of legislation. Will some individuals risk "excommunication" if they take a dissenting view?

The campaign of some of the church organizations goes beyond mere statements to congressional committees. A commission of the National Council of Churches, a leading Protestant organization, has just issued a public appeal for 40,000 members to take part in person in the "march of Washington" on August 28. Many ministers, white and Negro, have already participated in the "demonstrations" in different parts of the country, and some have been arrested for disturbing the peace.

BUT THE REAL significance of all the new developments is that there may be a movement started to permit intermarriage. What people in the South have always feared is that enforced social relationships between Negroes and whites of both sexes would eventually bring about intermarriage on a wide scale in America. This, to be sure, is at the root of the problem of the integrated school and is responsible for much of the opposition to mixing of races or social relationships in eating places, hotels and housing facilities. The expressed position of the churches today on racial discrimination could lead logically to a legal sanction of intermarriage or at least a declaration that for a state to forbid it is "a blasphemy against God."

Billy Graham

In your opinion, will all religious people go to heaven?

C. B. It is not being "religious" which saves one, for one may be very religious but center one's affections and faith on something or someone who has no power to save them. It also makes no difference how sincere one may be because we can be sincerely wrong. The Bible is very explicit on how men are saved. Here are four verses which make this plain. John the Baptist said: "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life; and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him."

Jesus said: "I am the way, the truth, and the life, no man cometh to the Father but by Me." Peter said: "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Paul said: "For there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the Man Christ Jesus." From this we see that it is not religion which saves us but faith in Jesus Christ as the Son of God and the Savior of our souls from the guilt and penalty of sin. Remember, this is not my personal opinion but it is the clear teaching of the Bible. God's Word.

CASE OF THE SHRINKING PILLOW

James Marlow

There Are Duties, Too

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern politicians have attacked President Kennedy's civil rights bill, now in Congress, from seven main directions.

But Mississippians particularly have personally attacked the President and his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Although the announced purpose of the bill is to guarantee Negroes equal treatment, the Southerners, all Democrats, have spent little time on Negroes' rights.

HERE ARE the seven directions they've taken so far in statements at congressional committee hearings:

The Kennedys are trying to grab more power and have encouraged the Negroes' demonstrations; Communists must be mixed up in the Negroes' activities; and the bill is unconstitutional, is a shortcut to tyranny, is an invitation to violence, and would deprive all Americans of personal and property rights.

The most controversial part of the bill—the one which has brought the most strenuous Southern objections—involves public accommodations.

THE PERSONAL attacks on the President and his brother came from three Mississippians—Gov. Ross Barnett, Atty. Gen. Joe T. Patterson, and Sen. John F. Stennis—and from Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace.

Barnett accused the President of "sowing seeds of hate and violence," said his brother is personally responsible for "putting mobs in the street," and blamed both Kennedys for encouraging demonstrations, sit-ins, and local law violations.

Patterson said Robert Kennedy has "demonstrated his immaturity, irresponsibility, and fiendish delight" in wielding power and that the two Kennedys are "far more responsible" for racial violence than the "ruthless leaders who are promoting racial unrest."

Stennis CALLED the civil rights bill a "colossal grab for power by the attorney general." Wallace accused the President of bringing the nation "to the brink of civil war."

South Carolina Gov. Donald Russell denounced the bill as "coercive legislation" which will "breed resistance and perhaps violence." Louisiana Rep. Joe D. Waggoner said the President has issued an "open invitation to mass violence" by warning that if Congress fails to enact his bill Negroes will seek a "remedy" in the streets.

Kennedy, anticipating this kind of argument when he sent his civil rights bill to Congress along with his message explaining it, said: "Abraham Lincoln, in issuing the Emancipation Proclamation 100 years ago, was also accused of violating the property rights of slave-owners. Indeed, there is an age-old saying that 'property has its duties as well as its rights.'"

To Your Good Health

There Are Many Kinds Of Hepatitis

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. Again the coloring matter is diverted and you have "jaundice." Of many varieties, here are the principal ones:

Infectious hepatitis, caused by a virus, which can be acquired from a carrier or from contaminated food or water. Seafood probably is a more likely offender in the food line. Shellfish from waters contaminated by sewage, for example, have been withheld from distribution because of this.

Homologous serum jaundice, in which the germ (a virus, again) is in the blood. That's why blood banks refuse prospective donors who have had hepatitis within the last year or so.

Toxic hepatitis—the liver has been damaged by some poison, such as carbon tetrachloride or other dangerous chemical.

The obstructive type—clogging of the bile duct.

Having had the disease is no guarantee against re-occurrence, especially some other type of it. Prevention? Avoid contaminated water or seafood (which means we have to look to public health departments to guide us on this); if one knows he has been exposed to infectious hepatitis, a dose of gamma globulin is an effective preventive.

For homologous serum hepatitis, care in choosing blood donors and strict sterilization of needles of syringes (which could transmit the virus) are necessary.

How long hepatitis lasts is not easily answered. If it is a case of duct obstruction, removal of the obstruction brings rapid recovery. In toxic cases, especially if the material isn't quickly identified, trouble can go on and on. For in-between cases, hepatitis is usually a matter of some months.

NOTE TO G.W.J.: "Contact dermatitis" means that you are sensitive (allergic) to something you touch. The "cure" is to find out what it is and avoid it. Meanwhile local treatment to reduce itching, irritation or infection can be helpful.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for a copy of the leaflet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Get Ready If It Comes

Texas Water, a monthly publication of the Texas Water Conservation Association, presents some glowing prospects and a grim outlook practically in the same breath.

ON THE ROSY side, it quotes the National Planning Association as having predicted that 70 per cent of the Southwest's economic activity will be concentrated in Texas during the next 13 years. This will have the effect, if the predictions become reality, of raising our per capita average from the present $1,900 to $3,000 per annum. Texas ranks first among the national states for planned private construction this year. Many phases of activity may almost double within the next decade or slightly over.

"THE ONLY thing on the horizon to mar this most promising outlook is the specter of prolonged drought, due to hit this region during the next 13 years. It is predicted to be much more severe than the 1950-56 drought period which history shows to be the most severe Texas has experienced within the 74 years for which rainfall records are available. Texas experienced 11 droughts during this 74-year period," said the article.

IT GOES ON to recount that at the end of the most recent and most severe drought, Dr. Walter Orr Roberts, director of the High Altitude Observatory at the University of Colorado and an internationally known weather scientist, predicted that "by 1972 or 1973 we're likely to have seen a drought on the Great Plains more severe and more sustained than the recent droughts of the 1930's and 1950's." There are appearing signs of a dry condition already fixing its grip on Texas and the Southwest.

OUR OWN AREA has had four distinct periods of drought since 1900. The worst was in 1934 with a 41-month period of dryness. But it an abnormal 7.35 inches in May and 4.30 inches in June of 1954 are ruled out, that drought held on for about 72 months.

The leanest year came during the 1917-18 period with 1917 registering only 4.68 inches. That drought covered 37 months. The 1946-48 period covered 37 months of dry weather.

Several other shorter periods of drought inflicted themselves on the area, among them the 1937-39 era which was touching the hem of the garment.

SO WE HAVE HAD drought, and if history repeats itself, we will have more. If esteemed forecasters are correct, "we ain't seen nothing yet."

For our own locality as well as the Southwest, this applies the pressure for making water supplies more secure. Most large water reserves are overtaxed now, so that leaves surface reservoirs as the only practical and immediate answer.

These take time, and they take lots of money. Can they be provided in time? No one knows, but one thing about even the worst of our droughts—they generally have one or two months in which gully-washer rains fall. Because of the denuded landscape, there is great runoff, and properly placed dams can catch and hold a certain amount of water. We all hope the experts are wrong, but we'd better get ready in case they are right.

A Bull Fight Is To Talk About

Dear me, I belong to a generation that remembers the ONLY American bullfighter as a Brooklyn boy named Sidney Franklin. He was unique in his time, and never mind my conviction that he ought to have had his head examined.

Now a new American fighter turns up annually in the bull rings of Spain. Another one made his debut a week or so ago, and I wish him nothing but the best—which is to give up this madness and get out of the ring as quickly as possible.

IF ONE DOES not like bullfighting, and I don't, there is a simple prescription for avoiding them when in Spain: Just don't go. There's no law requiring attendance.

That takes care of actually witnessing a fight. What is almost impossible to avoid, I discovered last May while in Spain, is the American aficionado. Spain is full of 'em.

THERE IS certain to be at least one of 'em (aficionados) at every luncheon and dinner. And the odds are a thousand to one that he will spend the whole afternoon or evening (Spaniards are serious eaters, and Americans there soon abandon their hit-and-run luncheon methods) in analyzing each fighter and each bull he has seen in action during his last six visits to the bull ring. And that's an awful lot of bull.

In truth, the aficionado's performance is not unlike Aunt Hattie's post-mortem on her last 24 bridge hands. It may not be interesting or literate, but it's nonstop.

IT ONLY TAKES from three weeks to three months to graduate, cum laude, an American expert on the Spanish art. And the shorter the time, the more authoritatively the aficionado speaks. And he specializes in the fine points.

For instance, I spent an evening of glazed boredom while one of my countrymen explained in a painful detail the moment of truth for the bull. That comes when the stupid animal lowers his head a bit and plants both front feet parallel and close together.

THUS, THE BULL signs his own death warrant. The poor beast has assumed the true stance when the muscle or flesh at the hump invites the sword to the hill, since this posture guarantees the bones are in the most favorable position to receive the blade.

Luck favored me the next night when I drew a dinner partner who was an expert on the matador's as well as the bull's feet. A matador of the first flight, we were informed, proves it by meeting the bull's onslaughts with his (the matador's) front feet close together and parallel.

IF A MATADOR keeps one foot slightly behind the other, that proves he has a yellow streak a yard wide, since it enables him to take a quick backward step—thus often saving the life that is his own—if the bull comes too close. It figures that the matador who keeps his feet close and parallel may be brave as the boy on the burning deck, eating peanuts by the peck. But he may also be dead.

At one memorable gathering, when a three-weeks expert all but swooned in admiration for a matador who had received both ears the day before, an American woman said, "What do you mean 'received both ears'?"

"IT MEANS the matador was so good they cut off both the bull's ears and gave them to him," the aficionado explained, and added, "It's like giving Joe Louis his opponent's ears in the old days when he used to knock 'em out in the first round."

"Well, I saw every Louis championship fight," the woman said indignantly, "and he was a good, clean fighter who never took anybody's ears, and you know it!" (Copyright 1963, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Opposition To Test-Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON—The adjective "hard-line," used to describe an adamant position against all things Communist, can also be accurately used to describe an unmovable position against all things Kennedy.

These two attitudes combine in the Senate today against ratification of the pending nuclear test ban treaty. There is not the only opposition, but it needs to be primarily noted.

THE OLD GUARDSMEN of the Senate—led by Barry Goldwater—are backed in their consciences, as well as in their constituencies, by the absolute conviction that any accommodation of communism is nothing less than shameful surrender. Their beliefs have taken the Old Guardsmen out to many a brink, and they will not shudder at this one. The Old Guard is already committed to oppose any nuclear treaty except one that unilaterally disarms the Communists.

THEN THERE ARE the hard-liners against JFK himself, particularly those who oppose his racial policies. I would judge it impossible for Mr. Kennedy's nuclear treaty—in any foreseeable form—to get more than a minimum of support from Southern senators who look upon him as a socialist, a waster, a Constitution-nibbler, a business-buster and a race-leveler. In theory, the domestic issues should not becloud the foreign issues. In practice, the hard-liner at home is very exceptional if he is not also a hard-liner when he looks abroad.

THESE TWO categories will subtract substantially from the votes Mr. Kennedy can hope to get for a nuclear treaty. Another group which lines up against him is the military-minded membership of the Senate. Richard Russell, chairman of the Preparedness Subcommittee, Henry Jackson, Barry Goldwater and Strom Thurmond, committee members, have already taken tentative positions on the doubters' bench. Three of these are Southerners and one is Mr. Conservative. They would have to be forcibly convinced, and persuaded by the most overwhelming military testimony, that President Kennedy is right—just this once. No such testimony, however, will be forthcoming.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff do not favor nuclear disarmament in any form.

FINALLY, AGAINST the treaty before it ever comes to the floor, is a history-minded group. These members are not exactly hard-liners, but hard-thinkers. They are not bookish persons, who often bother to recite Russia's record for treaty-breaking in letter and spirit, but cogitating persons, who comprehend the existing Russo-American relationship.

In looking for an apt expression of this relationship, I have found it in President Kennedy's own words spoken as recently as July 17th. The President was telling his news conference of a joint Russo-American moon shot effort would be impossible. He said:

"THE KIND OF cooperative effort which would be required for the Soviet Union and the United States to go to the moon would require a breaking down of a good many barriers of suspicion and distrust and hostility which exist between the Communist world and ourselves. There is no evidence, as yet, that these barriers will come down . . ."

Senators who recognize that "these barriers apply with even greater force to nuclear disarmament, rather than to moon-shooting, will very likely join with the hard-liners and the military-minded in opposition to the test ban treaty.

MR. KENNEDY will have to find his supporters among senators who fit none of these descriptions. It won't be easy. (Distributed by McNaughton Syndicate, Inc.)

LAGRANGE, Ky. (AP)—The LaGrange Kiwanis Club was grasping for money-making ideas when its scholarship fund for needy college students dipped to $25.

"Let's buy an old school bus, turn it into a traveling kitchen and sell lunches at real-estate auctions all over the county," suggested club member Johnny Yochum. In the one year interval, the club has paid for the bus and has more than $200 in its growing scholarship fund.

First Ford And Its Producer

Automobile magnate Henry Ford sits at wheel of first car produced by the Ford Motor Co., and looks over a mode of transportation he was instrumental in supplanting. Photo was made in 1933 on 30th anniversary of the company's founding. In Dearborn, Mich., the centennial of Ford's birth will be celebrated. The first car, which still runs, is in a museum in Dearborn, Michigan.

Medical Chief Inspects Hospital

The Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital today received a once-over from Dr. Albert H. Fechner, who for the past month has been the area medical director for the St. Louis Medical Area of the VA system.

DR. ALBERT H. FECHNER

Dr. Fechner was appointed area medical director June 30 to replace Dr. Charles H. Besley, who became director of the Jefferson Barracks Hospital in Missouri. Dr. Fechner has been with the VA since 1947. His past experience has included serving with the Central Office as chief of the Hospital Psychiatry Section for four years and as director of the VA Hospital in Salt Lake City, Utah since 1952.

Dr. Fechner is the doctor's first trip to Big Spring. His job will require him to work mostly in St. Louis or Washington offices. Inspection trips henceforth will probably be made by other personnel from the area office.

Longer Schedule Marks Opening Of Burger Chef

Big Spring's new Burger Chef Hamburgers will be served from 10 a.m. to 12 midnight during their grand opening Thursday through Sunday, marking the formal opening by slightly longer hours. Regular hours will be from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. seven days each week.

Equipment is stainless steel, and the most modern and finest money can handle 600 hamburgers an hour, he said.

'Go On Without Me'

Owen Stubbfield Jr., 21, crys on the shoulder of an unidentified rescuer after the body of a 20-year-old companion is recovered from a rain swollen Oklahoma City, Okla., creek. Stubbfield and Jerry McGill, both of Oklahoma City, were in a canoe which capsized in the Deep Ford Creek during a cloudburst that dumped up to 3.24 inches of rain in 2 1/2 hours.
