Highway Appreciation Luncheon

Jake Roberts, district engineer, points out one of the local highway projects on a map here for Earl Woodward (left) member of the Texas Highway Commission. The city's service clubs met today for luncheon in a joint session at the Settle Hotel to honor the visitors and hear about highway plans for this area.

Borden, Vealmoor Ask To Consolidate

A petition asking an election on consolidating Common School District 25 (Vealmoor) to Borden County Independent School District No. 901 was presented to County Judge Lee Porter Monday.

Thirty-three residents of the Vealmoor district signed the petition.

A similar election, held Nov. 18, 1961, on the same proposal was defeated by three votes.

Porter said he would have to consult with C. C. Nunnally, Borden County judge, before an election date can be set. Vealmoor district is a county line school. Part of its territory is in Howard County and the remainder in Borden County. The school building is in Howard County.

Under the law, where a county line school district seeks to consolidate with another district, particularly in cases where the other district is in another county, both county judges set the election date and call the election.

The election cannot be less than 20 days from the time the petition is presented.

Porter said he would contact Nunnally immediately. Vealmoor is now the sole surviving Common School left in Howard County. Aug. 1, Judge Ralph Caton in 118th District Court, signed an order which terminated the existence of Gay Hill and Center Point Districts and annexed their territory to the Big Spring Independent District.

The consolidation election effort is no surprise to observers. The same proposal was attempted at an election some time ago. Borden County voters overwhelmingly approved the consolidation but the Vealmoor patrons rejected it by a vote of 29 to 32.

The Vealmoor district will have 32 potential enrollees when school opens this fall. It teaches only through the sixth grade. Boys and girls who are in the seventh, eighth and higher grades attend Sands Independent School District, to the west of Vealmoor or go to Gail in the Borden school district.

Vealmoor owns a modern school plant, complete with gym, cafeteria, teacherages, and buses. It employs three teachers. Bill Daugherty is principal.

Good Meeting Reported In Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the railroads and the engineers' and firemen's unions met today in what a Labor Department spokesman called a useful session.

It was the first time in weeks that both sides had met across the bargaining table in a renewed effort to settle their strike-threatening dispute over work rules and other issues.

Government officials have been meeting with the two groups separately.

A similar meeting between carrier representatives and officials of the brakemen's, conductor's and switchmen's unions was arranged for this afternoon.

Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds, describing the meeting as exploratory, said "both sides are seriously addressing themselves to suggestions that Secretary (W. Willard) Wirtz made for bargaining."

Wirtz's suggestions were advanced last Friday but details have not been disclosed.

TWO ISSUES

Reynolds has said that all talks in the past two days have been concerned with the two principal issues in the dispute — firemen's jobs and train crew makeup.

Engine crew union representatives stayed on for a time with Reynolds after the carrier representatives had left the morning session.

Both parties were put on a standby basis for possible further talks later in the day.

"In another 24 to 48 hours, we should know whether we're shadow-boxing or really making progress," J. E. Wolfe, the carriers' chief negotiator, said Monday night.

Wirtz called today's joint meetings after lengthy sessions Monday with each side.

He refused, however, to say whether any progress had been made.

Meetings were set up between the carriers and the representatives of the engine crews—engineers and firemen—and between the carriers and the train crew unions — conductors, brakemen and switchmen.

ON HAND

Wirtz said he would be on hand for both but also has to appear before a closed session of the House Commerce Committee which is keeping an eye on negotiations while studying President Kennedy's legislative recommendations for settling the work rules dispute.

To avert a strike over new work rules—designed to eliminate thousands of rail jobs, principally those of diesel freight firemen—Kennedy suggested turning the dispute over to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The unions strongly opposed the Kennedy plan, calling the ICC management-oriented. The carriers supported it.

To give Congress time to act, the carriers postponed the new work rules until Aug. 29.

The Senate committee received a statement Monday from the railroads which was termed a supplemental rebuttal to union arguments against the President's proposals.

AT IMPASSE

"The parties are at an impasse and the national interest is threatened," said the statement. It said some action must be taken and only the legislative branch can take it.

The statement criticized an alternative proposal by AFL-CIO President George Meany to postpone the work rules deadline for another 60 days while negotiations go on under the thumb of Congress.

The railroads charged that the unions oppose the administration bill "because it will accomplish exactly what they meticulously and methodically avoided for 4 years, settlement of the dispute."

A Labor Department spokesman said Monday's sessions concerned the dispute's two chief issues: the firemen's jobs and the make-up of train crews.

The union spokesman would only say "we're still negotiating."

A railroad spokesman described the sessions as exploratory.

Fighting Soldiers

These are seven of the thirteen men involved in the fighting in Korea. They are, left to right: Pfc. Roger Chalfour, Manchester, New Hampshire; Pfc. June McKinney, Lexington, Ky.; Pfc. Nicolas Dunbar, Belvidere, Ill.; Pvt. James Amby, Puxico, Missouri; Pfc. Vernon Allen, Campbellsville, Ky.; Stemplen, (No first name or home town); and Pfc. Dewey Isom, Richmond, Indiana. (Man in the center is not identified).

Americans Set Up Ambush, But Korean Reds Stay Out

WITH U.S. 1ST CAVALRY DIVISION, Korea (AP) — A heavy American force set up ambush positions in the demilitarized zone Monday night and withdrew at dawn today without contacting any Communist North Korean troops.

The combat-ready Americans went into position at dusk Monday. They set up three traps for Communist patrols that have been striking into United Nations territory and on occasions launching strong attack on U.S. units.

The exact number of American troops involved was classified. But the U.S. force is known to have been much larger than the small patrols that normally guard the U.S. sector of the 151-mile truce line established after the Korean War.

It is obvious that the U.S. command is determined to stop all North Korean movement—by large Red forces or small units—into what the 1953 armistice agreement termed U.N. territory.

Orders were given that the American force hold its fire until Communist troops moved in close. "We were to use grenades and bring back the meat," one sergeant said.

Armored personnel carriers moved to within a few thousand yards of the demilitarized zone and stood by in the event a fight developed.

The scene was about 13 miles east of Panmunjon near a road junction where two Americans were killed in a North Korean ambush July 29.

The legislation, which has the backing of President Kennedy and the Pentagon, is aimed at keeping men with experience and skills in uniform.

Thus the House did not propose raises for enlisted men and officers with less than two years service because many are draftees or serving the minimum length of time for a commission.

However, the Senate bill would give those with less than two years of service who are in grades E-4 (corporal or petty officer) and above an increase of 5 per cent for enlisted personnel and 8 to 12 per cent for officers.

If the Senate passes the measure, a House and Senate conference committee will have to iron out differences between the bills.

Also on the Senate docket are an appropriation of $5.49 billion to run the Department of Labor, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and their related agencies for the year, and an authorization of $5.51 billion for the space program.

Senate May Vote Today On Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders gave top priority today to a military pay increase bill which would add more than $1.2 billion a year to the income of some two million officers and men in the nation's fighting forces.

Majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., calling up the bill for action, said he expected the Senate to pass it within a few hours.

Passage would send the bill back to the House which previously gave overwhelming approval to a similar bill.

The measure provides increases of $5 to $230 a month for most personnel and special "hostile fare pay" for servicemen on hazardous cold war duty in such hot spots as South Viet Nam and South Korea.

The bill, cleared Monday by the Senate Armed Services Committee, differs from a similar bill voted by the House on such matters as pensions and how much service is needed to win the raise.

The Senate bill would cost $1,227,330,000 a year, about $5 million more than the House plan.

BUT HAVEN'T TAKEN TOWN YET

Haitian Rebels Surround Nation's 2nd Largest City

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—A spokesman for Haitian rebels who invaded the north coast of Haiti said today that two columns of troops have surrounded Cap-Haitien, Haiti's second largest city.

He said the invaders have not captured the port city of 25,000, as was rumored in Santo Domingo this morning, but now command the Palin du Nord in front of the city and much of the area around it.

The rebel forces, under the command of Gen. Leon Cantave, was reported composed of exiled Haitian soldiers.

They struck ashore Monday at Fort Liberté, 18 miles east of Cap-Haitien, with the aim of toppling the terrorist regime of dictator Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier.

Duvalier, the voodoo-preaching physician turned strongman, acknowledged Monday night there was an invasion on Haiti's north coast.

FORCES ALERTED

The Dominican frontier forces and navy were alerted after news of the invasion and Haiti charged that some of the invaders came from adjoining Dominican Republic, which shares the island of Hispaniola with Haiti.

Dominican President Juan Bosch conferred with his armed forces chiefs at the national palace.

The newspaper Listin Diario reported that a number of Haitian officials have crossed into the Dominican Republic seeking asylum. Some Haitian soldiers also reportedly fled across the border.

Domingo said at least 500 well-armed men, trained for guerrilla warfare, landed Monday at Fort Liberté, 18 miles east of Cap-Haitien, and quickly captured the towns of Fort Liberté, Deric, Trou and Limonade.

There were rumors that another force of exiles landed on Haiti's long coast in the night.

WAR FOOTING

Cap-Haitien was placed on a war footing and a curfew imposed. Reports reaching here said American families were evacuated to Cap-Haitien from the U.S.-owned Dauphin sisal plantation on the orders of the Duvalier government. The plantation lies near Fort Liberté, about 5 miles west of the Dominican border.

A news source in Port au Prince said Monday night little was known in public there except that a rebel force apparently was fighting the Haitian army in the north. Censors barred correspondents from sending out news by cable.

Gen. Cantave led the invasion under the banner of the National Democratic Union. Cantave told an interviewer recently he was not interested in becoming president, only in ousting Duvalier.

STAGING AREA

Paul Verna, a former Haitian diplomat representing the National Democratic Union, said an unidentified island off the coast was used as a staging area for the invasion. Some of the invaders were identified as former Haitian army officers who had been living in Santo-Domingo.

Verna said the rebels expect to form a military-civilian provisional government in north Haiti.

Cantave, a career officer, became chief of the Haitian army in December 1956 after the overthrow of President Paul E. Magloire. He quit on May 25, 1957, to avoid involvement in his country's turbulent politics, and has been in exile for six years.

Duvalier, 54, a Negro country doctor, became president of Haiti in 1957. He has survived strikes, violence and a dozen plots against his life. He gave himself an illegal second term, extending until 1967, after a rigged election in 1961.

His constitutional term expired last May 15, and underground opponents vowed to assassinate him before then. But he survived and last month his forces killed the two chief leaders of the underground, brothers Clement and Harry Barbot.

Duvalier has built up a civilian militia of about 5,000 and a force of 5,000 terrorists known as the TonTon Macoute, Creole for bogeymen.

He has been distrustful of the regular army since an attempted coup in 1959. The army has been cut to about 3,500 men and many of its professional officers driven into exile. The purge was accelerated after an abortive army plot in April.

Haiti's 4 million Negro people, always impoverished, reached new depths of depression under Duvalier. U.S. economic aid was cut off last year and the United States suspended diplomatic relations when Duvalier remained in office after expiration of his constitutional term. The Kennedy administration resumed relations on June 3.

Moderate Voices Muffled As Negro Militants Move

By JUNIUS GRIFFIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Voices of moderation in Northern and Southern Negro communities are muffled.

In vogue is a Negro militancy, conceived in frustration and impatience.

Radical organizations preaching inflammatory tactics have emerged in ghettos where most Northern Negroes live.

In the South, the militant leadership seeks to organize largely un-disciplined would-be followers into concerted action.

If the moderate Negro in the South or North speaks against demonstrations that might result in violence, he often is branded an "Uncle Tom" and a coward.

For a Negro to express a moderate view on any civil rights issue is to risk his reputation and perhaps his personal safety.

MEREDITH CASE

An example of the radicals' vehemence was evident in Chicago

when James H. Meredith and the Rev. J. H. Jackson, president of a Negro Baptist convention, counseled a conservative course at the convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Meredith, who risked his life and the safety of his family to establish the right of a Negro to attend the University of Mississippi, was attacked by a youthful wing of the NAACP with such bitterness that he admitted publicly

"I wept my first tears since I was a child."

Jackson, head of the largest Negro religious organization in the nation, narrowly escaped injury before being escorted from the convention.

In Savannah, Ga., where National Guardsmen were summoned to quell racial demonstrations, Dr. William Payne, president of Savannah State College for Negroes, was attacked by a group of white youths who beat him with clubs and stones. (See MODERATE, Page 7, Col. 3)

Negro Waiter Spurns Connally Appointment

AUSTIN (AP)—Booker T. Bonner, the Negro waiter who sat for 26 publicized hours at Gov. John Connally's office to get an appointment with the governor, refused today to use it.

Bonner, opposing Connally's civil rights stand, arrived with several Negroes but balked at using his appointment when Connally said he would talk only to Bonner.

"I asked that I and a small group be permitted to see him," Bonner said after a two-minute stay in the governor's inner office. "I can not talk for one million Texas Negroes."

Asked about his plans, he said, "I don't know. But I do know I'm not going in there by myself."

Howard Rose, Connally's administrative assistant, said, "It was made clear to Mr. Bonner when he received his appointment that it was for him personally."

Rose said that Bonner's letter requesting the appointment said that he and a small group would appear to request to see Connally.

"But he (Bonner) showed up by himself and asked for the appointment and it was granted to him," Rose said. "The governor was here ready and willing to see Mr.

Bonner and he simply chose not to utilize his appointment."

He was granted an appointment after sitting in Connally's outer office most of July 29, spending the night just outside the office and then on the floor of the Capitol rotunda.

Bonner said then that he wants Connally to change view on civil rights outlined in a statewide television speech about three weeks ago.

In the speech Connally said he favors complete integration of public facilities but opposes President Kennedy's bill to force integration of private facilities.

Bonner originally said he was not representing any organization, but since has identified himself as head of a local group known as the Freedom Now Committee.

He led pickets in front of the governor's mansion for an hour the night of July 29. There have been several small demonstrations, by college students with signs, since the initial picketing.

More than 60 persons, led by Bonner, staged rousing demonstrations Monday night around the mansion and on the Capitol ground.

There were chants of "Freedom yes, Connally no" from the crowd, which carried signs reading "Full and complete rights—AFL-CIO" and "Goldwater, Wallace, Barnett and Connally."

About 10 college age youths heckled the marchers from across the street but there was no violence.

Bonner called on the marchers to demonstrate again tonight. He predicted that "Connally is not going to give us what we ask for."

Oil Investors To Be Repaid

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—U. S. Dist. Judge Bailey Brown ordered two Texas men Monday to repay the money lost by 10 investors in a dry oil well.

A default judgment was entered against George Fewell, 32, of Abilene, and W. A. Lewis, 46, of Denton.

Fewell and Lewis were accused of obtaining more than $20,000 by fraud in the drilling scheme.

Brown's order said testimony from a criminal trial in June supported the investors' claim that the two men sold interests in an oil lease through false statements.

The Texans were accused of forming Permian Operation Co. of Abilene to drill and explore for oil on the Burton Lease in Comanche County, Tex.

Fewell was fined $1,250 in the criminal trial and is under federal indictment charging he failed to register securities and used the mails to defraud.

Lewis also was indicted under similar federal and state charges. He was too ill to be tried with Fewell in June.

Alabama Orders Course In Bible

MONTEGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Alabama public school children will be required to take a course in the Bible under a ruling of the State Board of Education.

In practice, however, there will be little change, if any, from current Bible-reading requirements.

The board's order to put Bible-reading in the required course of study came Monday as a result of a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling.

The court barred reading of the scriptures and recital of the Lord's Prayer as part of required classroom exercises, but did not rule out reading the Bible as part of the course of study.

A Devotional For The Day

Go home to thy friends, and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee. (Mark 5:19.)
PRAYER: Our Father, may we be willing and eager to share with others our knowledge and love for Thee; through Christ our Lord, who has done great things for us. Amen.

Continuing Influence

The warmth of personality and friendship that radiated from Frank Kelley will be missed in West Texas, but though that which was mortal will be laid to rest Thursday, there will be a lot of Frank Kelley around for a long, long time.

This spare, ruddy, almost frail man had the happy quality of sincerity and concern which endeared him to all walks of life. He was as much at home sitting on a coral fence talking about horses or a lease as he was at a formal affair honoring leading state figures.

He had a homespun philosophy and manner, and he could disagree without being disagreeable. In his own casual manner, he could get to the heart of a problem or situation.

Frank Kelley had a penetrating, perceptive mind. He habitually took the long look. This wasn't always the popular thing to do, but more often than not the wisdom of his position was borne out by unfolding events.

For instance, Colorado City's stronger educational system is due in part to his vision and courage. So is the general economy of this area, and certainly the well-being of Colorado City to which he gave exemplary hometown service. But he was a bigger man, working earnestly to improve understanding and relations between the Anglo and Latin American populations, both as a private citizen and as a member of the Texas Good Neighbor Commission. He devoted a good part of his energies to undertakings which raised the condition and dignity of human beings.

He also radiated a great faith in the future of this area, and in this connection he saw water as one of the few limiting factors. That this part of West Texas is moving ahead to greater water security rather than fighting the old back-to-the-wall battle for survival is in a measure a tribute to the statesmanship of Frank H. Kelley.

Maybe A Crack

A note of caution is in order now that the treaty has been signed by major atomic powers banning nuclear testing underwater, in the atmosphere and outer space.

First of all, ratification is required before such a treaty would be binding. Secondly, treaties are effective as they are honored in spirit as well as in letter. Thirdly, other powers may elect not to become signatories.

Only subsequent events will reveal the significance of this event. At the moment, it appears to be a crack in the door, emitting a narrow shaft of hope. Realizing this, we can be alerted, not only to possibility of repudiation but also to co-operation.

Marquis Childs The Problem Of East Germany

WASHINGTON — When President Kennedy looked over the wall in Berlin he stared straight at the Communist bloc complicating the nuclear test-ban treaty and the new approach to Moscow.

Put simply as possible it is: Will a relaxation of tensions with the Communist bloc help the captive peoples in the satellite countries to greater freedom? Or will their hope of eventual liberation be sustained by keeping the pressure on and encouraging resistance to dictatorial regimes?

THE ANSWER to the first question within the Kennedy Administration is an unqualified yes. The view has long been held that it is only through relaxations, such as followed the Poznan uprising in Poland, that concessions can be won with satellite peoples moving gradually toward greater freedom of choice.

The answer of a great many Republicans and some Democrats is no. At one extreme they argue that any accord with the Soviet Union brings a despairing acceptance of the hated order imposed by the might of Moscow and, therefore, the end of all hope for eventual liberation. This promises to be a major conflict in the debate over the test ban.

THE SAME conflict divides the politicians of West Germany, which is a key piece in the effort to arrive at some form of nonaggression pact and broaden the area of relaxation. It came into the open recently when Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin and his press chief, Egon Bahr, made definite proposals to increase the contacts between East and West Germany. They argued that only by such steps could the reunification of the two Germanys be brought about.

BAHR PROPOSED that the present semi-official representatives of East Germany and West Germany, who sit in Berlin and negotiate agreements covering $600,000,000 in trade between the two zones, be given a larger scope. They should have authority over all practical questions, he said.

The goal must be to improve living conditions in East Germany. By easing tensions, so the argument went, it will be possible to find out whether gradually the East will allow more traffic between the two halves and through the wall.

THIS BROUGHT an indignant outcry from the Christian Democrats in Bonn who have so long dominated policy. Former Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer set themselves sternly against recognition of any change in things as they are. One consequence was a stormy cabinet meeting, since the present Foreign Minister, Gerhard Schroeder, had given an interview in which he approved the test-ban treaty and indicated that a nonaggression pact between East and West might be possible if it did not mean any degree of recognition of East Germany as a separate state.

THE FACT is that West Germany has

Her Book Went West

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — A recent visitor from Illinois, browsing in a local book store, was surprised to come across a book dedicated to her.

Miss Deborah Graves, 15, of Robinson, Ill., was looking through a bin of books priced at 25 cents each when she spotted "Captain Adam" by Donald Barr Chidsey.

The book, which was written in 1953, carried this dedication:

"To a different Deborah, daughter of Dean and Virginia Graves, is dedicated this little lesson in how-to-get-your-man."

'ALL SET FOR THE CIVIL RIGHTS MARCH'

James Marlow Haiti's Ruler Is In For Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP)—In Louisiana there's an old saying: "God hates ugly." It means you'll get yours in time, if you're a heel or you hurt people. Yet Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier, who isn't pretty, is still Haiti's dictator.

But time is running out. He's had trouble a-plenty. He's made plenty. Monday night about 500 exiled Haitian officers and soldiers reportedly landed and started an invasion of this island which Columbus liked.

If this flops, Duvalier can expect something else. His opposition within Haiti has been chopped to pieces by mass arrests, exile, murder, and political blackmail. He's too hated to sleep well.

Last month young rebels fought his regime in the mountains until they were crushed. He had a crisis in April with an army plot against him. It failed. But his army suffered. Top officers fled.

Hal Boyle Big Question Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—Peter Sellers, regarded by many as Britain's delectable comic actor, looks at life with a big question mark in his eyes.

Wherever he is, he seems faintly puzzled to be there.

"I'm a very serious person in my private life — the funniest person alive," he said.

"Humor tends to make you melancholy, because comedy is the most serious form of acting. People who specialize in it become morose."

Peter is noted for his wide range of roles. He has played everything from a duchess to a union leader in such films as "The Mouse That Roared," "I'm All Right, Jack," and "Heaven's Above."

In his first American-made picture, "The World of Henry Orient," he portrays a fumble-fingered pianist who would rather chase married women than give concerts.

Since his parents, his grandmother and eight uncles had been in show business, it was perhaps inevitable that Sellers would get in the act, too. He started on the ground floor—as a theater sweeper.

During World War II he headed Royal Air Force planes with bullets and bombs.

"It was short of a dead end," he remarked. "I didn't see much future doing that on civvy street."

Self-taught, Peter developed his gift for mimicry by appearing in camp shows. Then he became a vaudeville, radio and television star before making his first picture, "Let's Go Crazy," in 1950.

"It was so bad it never was released and it bloody well never will be," he said. "I bought it out myself to make sure."

What is the real Peter Sellers like? Wearing dark-rimmed eyeglasses, and looking like a curly haired old surprised by daylight, the actor, 37, found it a bit embarrassing to talk about himself.

He is no playboy.

"The big problem of men my age is to avoid coronary attacks and still achieve success," he said.

"I like to be alone a lot when I'm working, because I concentrate a lot and involve myself completely. You have to. This is a highly overpaid profession; therefore one owes it to the public to give the best one can, and this requires complete dedication."

"I like driving at night in precision-made cars" (Peter has owned more than 50), photographing people in candid situations, getting plenty of sleep, I need eight or nine hours or I'm finished, watching and reading other humorists.

This is the creed he lives by: "The only way to succeed — to be happy with yourself — is through kindness. I will do anything for anybody who asks me, but if I am told to do it, I revolt against it."

"I don't believe in an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, but I haven't quite reached the point where I can turn the other cheek."

To Your Good Health Rabies Is A Virus Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I understand the rabies in humans can be contracted only by being bitten.

What about vegetables planted in soil that may be contaminated by a rabid animal?—E. B.

There are only two known ways in which rabies is spread, by a bite, or by the saliva from an infected animal getting into an open wound—a small cut or a scratch.

Rabies is a virus disease and viruses must have a compatible environment in which to live. Thus a rabid animal might temporarily contaminate the soil, but the virus wouldn't survive for long. Neither would it affect vegetables grown in the soil.

Rabies spreads from animal to animal. Once it was thought that only dogs (and sometimes cats) spread the virus. Now we know that many animals can carry it.

In Mexico several years ago I saw cattle infected with rabies by the bites of vampire bats. More recently the so-called domestic dogs of temperate zones farther North have been shown to carry rabies. Indeed, bats may well be the "reservoir" of rabies, since they can carry the virus and not die from it.

Skunks, foxes, coyotes—all sorts of animals contract rabies.

Once introduced into the system, the virus usually takes from one to two months for incubation, which allows time for the Pasteur treatment or immunization with anti-rabies serum. However, this doesn't mean it is safe to take liberties with the problem. Incubation can develop in as little as 10 days if near the brain (or face) and sometimes the virus remains dormant for six months or more before the disease develops. Hence treatment should be started quickly after a bite from an animal suspected of rabies.

More recently hyper-immune serum has been developed that should be used in severe bites, particularly on the face.

Dear Dr. Molner: I'm a farmer's wife. For several years every fall to late spring I have a rash, mostly on my right hand but a little on the left thumb. My doctor advised a skin specialist, but as we are some distance from the city, I have found it impossible to consult one. I have tried various creams and salves but the rash stays. Perhaps I should stay away from the farm. How can I get help?—MRS. W. P.

I don't know that you should "stay away from the farm," but I do have a suspicion that you should stay away from something or other that you use in the fall and winter, since that is when the rash develops. It could be such a simple thing as a dust mop, nickel from scissors, or something like that—the paint on a handle, for instance. I've known of such cases. What do you hold in your hands (and mostly with the right one) part of the year, but don't use much in summer?

If you want to solve the problem by yourself, without the aid of a skin specialist (or an allergist), you may find that it's a contact dermatitis—a skin irritation from something you touch.

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend of mine went on a starvation diet last year. She is 18 and was not overweight. Now she is so thin and weak from the loss of 35 pounds that she cannot participate in any activities. She had to miss over a week of school because she couldn't walk upstairs. Her face is swollen and hardly recognizable. She has been going to her family doctor for a few months but he doesn't seem to be "building her up." We, her friends, are very concerned.—L. D.

And people wonder why I oppose "crash diets."

Sometimes they come out without great harm—but sometimes they don't. In this case, obviously damage has set in, and it may take more than food to correct the condition. I send my sympathy to all concerned, especially the doctor who is trying to correct the aftermath of a senseless "diet."

Around The Rim Just Before The Deadline, Mother

One group sternly admonishes: "Procrastination is the thief of time... plan your work and work your plan... never put off until tomorrow anything you can do today... early to bed and early to rise make a man healthy, wealthy and wise."

The other group croons:

"WHAT'S YOUR HURRY?—there's always a tomorrow... never do anything today that you can possibly put off until tomorrow... things may change; tomorrow's situation may completely reverse that of today... early to bed and early to rise make a man lanky, dull and put bags under his eyes."

I gladly concede there is absolute truth in everything the first group decrees, and I only regret that I am of such weak stuff I cannot follow their teachings.

I am a follower, alas, of the second group. I mean well, I certainly intend to do better. I am a very promising guy—I'll promise nearly anything. Only, please, don't push me.

IN OTHER DAYS, one of the chores on my skinny shoulders (they were skinny then) was to write a column of 1,200 or more words daily six days each week. I was required to have the column in the hands of the printer not later than 2 p.m. on the day before its appearance in the paper.

The smart thing, naturally, would have been to get a dozen or two dozen columns ahead and then, with religious devotion, write one each day. Thus, I would have been always far ahead of the printer, and when one of those dread days came when inspiration would not give me a nod, no crisis would be created. Yes, that is the way it should have been done.

I WROTE that daily column six days a week, 52 weeks a year, for 32 years. Never in that long stretch of time was I ever more than three days ahead of publication date and when something developed that I did happen to get a little ahead, I invariably loafed until the reserve had been used up. Then I had to get back on the old merry-go-round just as before.

If the deadline for tomorrow's copy was 2 p.m., the printer got the material about 1:50 p.m. If I did get ambitious and beat out the stuff ahead of that, the foreman of the printshop would look at me with an owl glare and ask if I was sick.

SO IT IS NOW that once each week I am charged with filling a little space on the editorial page of this newspaper. I have seven long, delightful days from one Tuesday to the next. I can usually beat out one of those things in a matter of 15 to 20 minutes.

I should, certainly, stay at least two or three weeks ahead. If I did this I would erace the reproachful and worried look from the editor's face and doubtless win applause from the high brass. (I would also get scornful stares from the others who share this stint; they would mutter something nasty such as "Whatcha tryin' to do—be smart or sumpin'!")

My new deadline is 11 a.m. Monday. It is now 11:45 a.m. Monday, and this is the end of line. (His watch was wrong—Ed.) I may be a procrastinator, but I think it's fun.

Inez Robb Fashion Without Tears

The last 10 days of July comprise a period of agonizing uncertainty for every womanly woman in this country. During those nerve-racking days the Paris fashion collections are shown to the breathless world press.

The woman back home, reading with incredulity of fashions aimed primarily at the rich beatnik, daily murmurs, "What hath God wrought?"

I HANG ON every written word out of the fashion ateliers, waiting with ill-controlled impatience for the part I like best. It always comes at the end of the buttons-and-bows Olympics, but it is worth waiting for.

That moment arrives when Yves St. Laurent, one of the latest designers to show, heralds the end of his collection by coming to the runway and bursting into tears. There hasn't been such a persistent public weeper as M. St. Laurent since Niobe or Rachel or Weeping Willie, or since the old-fashioned public sprinkler disappeared from the streets of America.

OVERCOME BY the beauty or the horror or the pain of it all, M. St. Laurent's dissolution into tears is merely the annual signal for a water spectacle second only to Niagara and the Aquacade. With the maestro's first tears his models turn on the water works, and they are joined in turn by the world press and such customers as can squeeze their way into the salon.

Everyone has a hawl! Boys and girls together, they all have a good old cry. It releases tensions developed during this long summit of the seams, and purges the emotions, unbearably taut by uncertainty about hemlines and sleeve lengths.

TO COME CLEAN, I have a pretty good idea of the reason M. St. Laurent burst into tears last week. He was ashamed of himself, and well he might be. Wiping away their tears before they got to their typewriters, some of the fashion writers frankly described St. Laurent's line as, God forbid, a return to the sack.

Clean-minded, right-living American men and women fought the battle of the sack to a standstill several years ago and won hands down. But there is, in the fashion world, a group of "grand" designers who are extremely allergic to women except as customers. This group, and it includes a number of important designers, has never ceased trying slyly to revive the sack, the ugliest and most unbecoming garment ever to swindle women in the name of fashion.

AS FOR TEARS, I could hardly contain mine as I read the recent printed tea leaves telling which way the Paris fashion winds listeth. I have never been able to afford even a handkerchief from the great ateliers, but, if I could, my money this time out would go to Chanel and Givenchy.

At least their collections sounded as if they were still designing for women and not moneyed beatniks encased in leather jackets, tight pants and high boots, the better to stomp people to death in the park, Red Riding Hood.

WELL, THIS STUFF, too, will pass. In the meantime, we shall have to put up with a flurry of pictures of this guff in the fashion magazines, as we waste time under the dryer.

But American designers will continue to turn out wearable clothes for American women, despite the spate of les boys along Seventh Avenue. And, somehow, the American woman will be able to achieve fashion without tears.

Holmes Alexander This Senator Wants The Proof

WASHINGTON—"I'll have to have satisfactory answers to the key questions before I vote to ratify this treaty," said Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash.) of the Armed Services and Joint Atomic Energy Committees.

In this series of interview columns, trying to get significant reactions on the Nuclear Treaty from crucial-vote senators, I have talked with Byrd of Virginia, Cannon, Dodd, Saltonstall, and I expect to see Symington tomorrow.

ALL OF THEM have pulling power among their colleagues and in their spheres of influence: in the South and the West, in conservative and ultra-conservative circles, among business folk and journalists. On Capitol Hill it is said that Majority Leader Dirksen will be the swing man who makes or breaks the treaty ratification. But it's said that at the White House, the vote and the support regarded as hardest to get, and most meaningful to have, belong to "Scoop" Jackson.

This could be because Jackson, although amiable and relaxed, is made of what scientists call "impervium"—the mythical metal that is totally unyielding. He is not going to be moved by White House pressure, by political considerations (he's up next year for re-election), by peace-mongering, by sentiment or self-doubt.

ONLY IF THE FACTS come down hard on the side of a positive case for the treaty is Jackson going to give it his blessing. And before that happens, he will have obtained convincing evidence of the treaty's worth from top scientists, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and civilian authorities on foreign affairs. The overriding military question in his mind is this:

Does the treaty protect the nation-shielding, peace-keeping deterrent by which we could inflict the nuclear death-stroke upon a nuclear foe?

TO GET A satisfactory answer, Jackson needs to know whether Russian quality in weapons can outpace our present superiority in quantity. This involves a review of the Russians' capacity to paralyze our strike ability by anti-missile devices, their capacity to penetrate our defenses, their ability to smash our hardened sites. It involves the administration's ability to maintain our national scientific workshop when above-ground testing has been banned, and the ability of that workshop to maintain progressive achievement despite the hobbles of non-testing.

THIS LAST applies both to anti-missile development and to our offensive weapons. If scientists fail to convince Jackson that they don't know and can't learn enough about enemy capacities, and about our own capacity under the treaty terms, I take it he will not support the treaty. If the military witnesses aren't reasonably confident that they can live with the treaty, I take it that Jackson won't be on the side which asks the country to ignore their informed opinion.

As to the foreign affairs viewpoint, Jackson will need some convincing on American gains and Russian motivations. If, by taking the Free World lead in disarmament, we have sacrificed Western unity, Jackson is likely to think it is a bad bargain. If the treaty is a Russian ploy for dividing NATO, and if Russia cannot logically be expected to keep the treaty terms in view of Red Chinese rivalry for Communist leadership, Jackson will have unresolved skepticism that will tug him away from ratification.

IF HE DOES oppose President Kennedy on the treaty, Jackson will be following his own precedent for hard-line decisions. In the 1940's, he supported Lewis Strauss in an unpopular but successful fight for the H-bomb. In the mid-1950's he helped keep Admiral Rickover in the harassed business of producing a nuclear submarine. Earlier this year, along with Russell and Symington, he instigated a warning to President Kennedy, relative to far-reaching concessions on nuclear disarmament.

How does he feel about an obligation not to humiliate the President before the world by rejecting this treaty?

"WELL, IT'S something you wouldn't do without being backed up by correct information. But this isn't just another treaty. It deals with our deterrent. I've got to have proof before I can support it."

Start Chewing On Demos, Is Goldwater's Advice

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater called on Republicans today to "stop chewing on each other and start chewing on the Democrats."

That was the Arizona Republican's reply to the action of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on Monday in sidestepping an Albany news conference question on whether he will back Goldwater for president if the latter becomes the 1964 GOP nominee.

All Rockefeller would say was: "We've got a long way to go." The governor also raised again the issue of whether Goldwater is a "captive of the radical right."

Asked about this in an interview, Goldwater said he is getting tired of Republicans knocking other Republicans. He said that's just what the Democrats want them to do.

"It's time for us Republicans to start chewing on each other and stop chewing on the Democrats," he said. "The Democrats are beter fed now that they are in power and they are getting soft. We ought to get our teeth into them."

Asked if he will support Rockefeller if the New York Governor becomes the 1964 nominee, Goldwater said "he hasn't even announced that he is available." He

Negro Leaders Speak Their Minds On Racial Problems

By TOM HENSHAW AP Newsfeatures Writer

When Roy Wilkins was a boy in St. Louis, the doctrine of separate but equal facilities for Negroes stood unchallenged as the law of the land.

The eminent Negro Booker T. Washington counseled his people to work hard, get an education and, above all, do nothing to upset the delicate balance of peace between races.

There were no National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, no National Urban League, no sit-ins, no freedom rides.

This was 60 years ago: 40 years after the Emancipation Proclamation and the 14th Amendment, which provided equal protection of the law to all citizens.

The other day, Wilkins, now 61, executive secretary of the NAACP and a leader in the current Negro drive, reminisced a bit and looked into the future.

IN HIS LIFETIME

"Things are happening in my lifetime now that I thought I would never live to see," he said. "I've seen goals that I dreamed of as a young man suddenly attained."

Several years ago Cincinnati, one of our largest cities, had a Negro vice mayor; last fall Massachusetts elected a Negro attorney general; Connecticut elected a Negro treasurer.

"When I was growing up in St. Louis and rooting for the Cardinals I always hoped for it and worked for it but I could never visualize a Hank Aaron or a Willie Mays or a Jackie Robinson."

Only 25 years ago, high hopes of Negroes revolved around an anti-lynching measure, that failed to pass Congress. Now, some see the ultimate goal in sight.

"The ultimate goal is simply equal opportunity for all," says Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the Urban League.

NEVER PERFECT

"There will never be perfect equality—but there would not be an artificial barrier standing between a man and his potential.

"The millennium will have arrived when we see nothing unusual in a Negro occupying a high place in life; when we see Negroes in all situations and it is not a novelty."

Henry Lee Moon of the NAACP sees the ultimate Negro goal as the Negro and white man standing side by side as average people.

"A Negro should not have to be a Ralph Bunche or a Robert Weaver in order to take his rightful place in society," Moon said.

"The big battle is to lower the barriers," says Wilkins. "It's quite important to remember that the chief target is not private or personal prejudice—which may never be eliminated—the chief target is prejudice in public life that influences opportunity and rights."

"The goal is simply equal opportunities," says Jackie Robinson, the first Negro to play major league baseball and a member of the baseball Hall of Fame.

"There will be prejudice as long as people exist. There's prejudice in every group of people; even among members of the same family."

"There's prejudice on baseball teams—but it doesn't keep them from playing ball together. They have found that they can't win unless they play together."

HAS IT MADE

Robinson may be considered to have it made. He's vice president of a restaurant chain and lives with his family in a fashionable suburb in Connecticut.

Still, he lends his name and presence to the Negro cause. "Sure, I have quite a lot," he says. "And I also have three kids. What is going to happen to them? What opportunity will they have? 'Until the Negro in the deepest South has it made, I have to keep fighting.'"

Progress in education and politics, say Negro leaders, is moving fast; employment and housing are dragging their feet.

Says Moon: "The country is even more ghettoized now than it was at the turn of the century. A large number of Negroes have moved into the cities but they have only expanded the ghettos. Most cities in the north with their big ghettos are more segregated than the South."

WILL ALWAYS LAG

"The area of employment will always lag behind the others," Robinson says. "A Negro does not have the same opportunity to learn a skill. If he applies for a job and can't pass the requirements in skill, the employer—and remember he's a businessman—says: 'Sorry, I'm in business. I have competitors. I have to compete with them. I can't hire you just because you're a Negro. My business would suffer.'"

Wilkins feels that the ultimate goals will be achieved "within our generation."

He is so sure that he is starting to look beyond the goal of opportunity.

"There will be a lot of work to do in the Negro community after the barriers are down," he says. "The competition in the white world is fierce. And it has nothing to do with color prejudice. A Negro won't be able to hide behind the excuse: 'They did it because I was black.'"

"I don't entertain many fears that the Negro cannot compete in the white world. The good ones have already been sharpened by the extra competition of prejudice."

"If you unshackle the Negro, you'll find there are the weak ones, there are the fast buck guys, there are the con-men. But there are also the solid Sunday-go-to-Meeting people and even geniuses."

"All the Negro wants is to be let loose. Eventually he will shake down and find his place—his rightful place."

Heavy Rains Deluge Iowa

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms dumped up to five inches of rain on parts of Iowa on Monday night and Tuesday, and the Weather Bureau warned of possible local flooding along Four Mile and Beaver Creeks at Des Moines. More than two inches of rain fell there in less than six hours.

Elsewhere along the frontal system stretching from the Rockies across the Central Plains and into the Midwest, rainfall generally was less. The town of Limon, Colo., was hit by a two inch rainfall, however.

Skies generally were clear over the rest of the nation. Widely scattered thundershowers fell in New England and the South.

A high pressure area over the central Appalachians brought 60-degree weather to much of the East. The southern third of the nation had readings in the 80s.

Missing Hiker Walks To Safety

CANYON, Tex. (AP)—A hiker, missing since Sunday in rugged Palo Duro Canyon State Park, walked into a ranch headquarters Monday unharmed.

Harlin Grant, 18, of Amarillo had disappeared while two companions were not watching. Grant said he got lost and walked most of the afternoon. He found two residences but no one was at home. He slept until this morning, then found the Reynolds Ranch headquarters.

With him were Boyd Raef and Rex Hudson, both 15 and from Amarillo.

The two told searchers they heard Grant calling to them from a distance about 20 minutes later but they were unable to locate him.

Hiroshima Pauses To Honor Victims

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—The people of Hiroshima paused today to mourn the victims of history's first atom bomb attack, made on their city 18 years ago today.

At 8:15 a.m.—the exact time that the American B29 "Enola Gay" dropped the bomb on Aug. 6, 1945—a swarm of doves wheeled into the air and the Hiroshima peace bell began its sorrowful toll.

A crowd of 15,000 stood with bowed heads for a minute of silence before the simple, arched memorial to the city's atomic dead.

Mayor Shinzo Hamai, dressed in black, referred to the Moscow treaty in his memorial address, expressing "great gratification that at long last a pact for the partial banning of nuclear weapons has been concluded by the United States, the United Kingdom and the Soviet Union."

The memorial ceremony was brief and restrained, in marked contrast to the confusion and political hickering which broke up the opening Monday night of the Communist-dominated ninth world conference against hydrogen and atom bombs.

Delegates from Red China, Soviet Russia and many other countries were present at the commemoration today, but they were relegated to the background.

Gasoline Prices Back Up, But Expected To Drop

The gasoline price war, which during the past several weeks has driven prices as much as seven cents below the normal price on regular grade gasolines, has apparently ended.

Most stations in Big Spring this morning posted prices of 29.9 cents a gallon for regulars and 33.9 for premium grades. A few isolated stations on US 80 west, mostly independents, are still waging the price war with regulars tagged as low as 20.9 cents a gallon.

Gulf was apparently the first to hike prices about mid-afternoon Monday with Mobil and Humble following that evening.

By mid-morning today most majors in the city were back to normal prices. The high postings are not expected to remain for long, however.

Rumblings among service station operators are that prices will go down again shortly.

Oil Taxes Cut By $20 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—House tax writers, reversing a previous vote, have eliminated a provision in the new tax bill that would have netted the government $20 million a year from the oil industry.

The action by the Ways and Means Committee Monday leaves in the bill an estimated $40 million in new taxes on oilmen, compared with the $20 million recommended by President Kennedy to offset proposed tax cuts in other areas.

The committee had previously approved $60 million in added oil taxes.

The vote Monday cut out a provision to impose stiffer taxes on the sale of oil wells. The provision which would have netted the estimated $20 million involved the cost of drilling and developing oil property. Such costs can be written off against current income.

Even though when the property is sold, the full profit is taxed only at the capital gain rate.

The defeated provision would have recaptured some of the written-off development expenses as ordinary income, taxable at a higher rate than capital gains.

Independent oil producers had fought the proposed change, contending it would discourage exploration for new oil properties.

They said the market for U.S. crude oil is already restricted because of foreign imports and sharply limits their financial ability to explore new ground.

The committee proposed no change in the present 27 1/2 percent oil depletion allowance, which was not at issue.

Chamizal Pact Opposed

EL PASO (AP)—A legal move to block the Chamizal settlement proposal is planned by James Hammond. He said Monday he will ask for court order to force the Texas attorney general to challenge the settlement in court.

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr cited last week the treaty under which Texas was taken into the Union. He said this gave the government full authority to adjust boundary disputes with Mexico.

Insisting the settlement, now being prepared for submission to the Senate and Mexican Congress in treaty form, is unconstitutional, Hammond said he will ask the Texas high court to hear his application for a writ of mandamus.

Favorable action could lead to the filing of a federal suit calling for a declaratory judgment on the question of the government's authority to cede land to Mexico without the consent of Texas, either through a popular vote or by legislative action.

Terms of an agreement under which disputed Chamizal land would be returned to Mexico, together with additional acreage in exchange for land in undisputed Cordova Island, were announced last month.

The brotherhood meets on the Monday following the last Sunday of each month. The associational meeting is Aug. 26.

OIL REPORT

Fusselman Pay Extended Half Mile By Standard

Standard of Texas is preparing to potential the No. 1 E. S. Whately et al as the second well in the Jo-Mill (Fusselman) of Dawson County pool. Preliminary tests indicate that it will be even better than the company's No. 1 Canon, which opened the pool in May with production of 91 barrels a day.

The No. 1 Whately is one-half mile southeast of the field opener. A third site has also been filed for the pool. On 2 1/2-hours of testing, the confiner flowed 132 barrels of oil through 14-3/4-inch choke, or a daily rate of 1,367.2 barrels. Tubing pressure was 970 pounds, casing pressure was 600 pounds and the gas-oil ratio was 256-1.

Location is C SE NW, section 27-33-5n, T&P survey, on a 320-acre lease about 15 miles east of Lamesa.

The Key (Spraberry) pool in Dawson County has gained its fifth

Nonaggression Pact Will Have To Wait

MOSCOW (AP)—American and British foreign policy chiefs told the Russians today negotiations on Premier Khrushchev's proposal for an East-West nonaggression pact will have to wait until the NATO allies have discussed it, diplomatic sources said.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk also made it clear that when the matter does reach the bargaining stage, the United States will push for guarantees for Western interests in Berlin, these sources disclosed.

Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home were reported to have made these points to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in talks that followed the signing Monday of the partial nuclear test ban agreement.

Conference informants said Gromyko insisted that the three powers get to work on the nonaggression treaty, which Khrushchev originally proposed should be signed at the same time as the nuclear test ban treaty.

HAD AGREED The Russians, however, had agreed to conclude the test ban treaty first and give the allies within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization time to talk over the nonaggression pact among themselves. Rusk was said to have told Gromyko that he could go no further on this subject until the NATO discussions are completed.

A crowd of about 500 applauded the Big Three foreign ministers enthusiastically when they left their morning conference in the skyscraper Foreign Ministry.

The Muscovites' mood reflected the optimistic glow with which the whole Soviet press greeted the nuclear ban and contrasted with the grim silence which has usually confronted Western statesmen here.

The three drove to a villa in the Lenin Hills to continue over lunch their exploratory talks intended to find out whether the nuclear ban had created a breakthrough in East-West relations that could lead to new peace moves.

Two Suits Filed Asking Damages

Two suits for damages were filed Monday in 118th District Court.

One, styled Eldon Calk et al vs. W. A. Bradley, asks for $29,659 damages. Calk, a resident of Schleicher County, is suing Bradley, who lives in Midland, as result of a car accident Aug. 13, 1961 on a Carter County ranch road. He alleges injuries.

The other suit stems from a less serious motor accident of Feb. 19, on FM 700. Charles Lee Price is the plaintiff and Boris J. Sursky is the defendant. Approximately $900 is asked in the petition.

Guilty Pleas

There were two pleas of guilty in Howard County Court Monday. Frank Watson, charged with writing a worthless check, was fined $25 and costs. James E. Hilton, charged with a similar offense, drew the same penalty.

No New Clues To Identity Of Man Hit By Train

Walter Grice justice of the peace, said today that he had revisited the scene of Sunday morning's railroad tragedy east of town today in the hope he might come up with some overlooked clue to the identity of the young man who was killed in the accident.

"We walked out the entire area along which the body was strewn," said Grice, "but we could find nothing to help find out who the man is."

The body is still at River Funeral Home.

Fingerprints taken from one of the hands, which escaped mangled when the train ran over the victim, have been dispatched to the State Department of Public Safety.

If these prints fail to establish identity, officers say there are no other avenues to follow. The victim will have to be placed in a nameless grave in Potter's field.

Sinatra Jr. Now A Star

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—Frank Sinatra may have sired his most challenging rival.

Frank Sinatra Jr., 19, came back to Disneyland Monday as a star—almost a year to the day when, as an amateur, he walked up to the bandstand and asked to sing a few choruses with the orchestra.

He sang with the reincarnated Tommy Dorsey Orchestra—using the same arrangements that made his dad famous in 1939-41. He sings again tonight.

Spindly like his father, the youth wowed a big audience, especially the bobby-soxers.

City To Get T-33 Aircraft

The City of Big Spring is one airplane richer today and Webb AFB has one less aircraft to account for. Last Friday Mayor George Zachariah accepted for the city, the title to one T-33 aircraft, number 51-4900 and pledged the city to maintain the aircraft.

The aircraft will be given a permanent home on the campus of Howard County Junior College, facing Birdwell Lane, in front of the college gymnasium.

The movement to obtain the aircraft began last year following the announcement that the new supersonic T-38 would replace the old T-33, as the basic trainer at Webb.

Although the Chamber of Commerce made the initial contact with Webb officials, it was the city that made negotiations. Chamber officials submitted the formal request to the base.

A committee was appointed to select a permanent site, Ike Robb, chairman of the chamber's military affairs committee, working with the base community council headed by Col. Wilson H. Banks, former Webb Commander, asked that recommendations for a permanent site be submitted for consideration. Four sites were suggested: Howard County Junior College, the Howard County Airport, City Park and the City Hall.

The aircraft is now in the Webb shops where it is being prepared for delivery.

Watchful Air In Mississippi During Voting

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Election officials kept an uneasy watch for Negro votes today as an estimated 450,000 Mississippians began voting in the Democratic primary.

Reports circulated that unregistered Negroes would invade the polls despite a ruling by Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson that such a move would be illegal.

The racial tension climaxed a campaign which centered on an effort to keep either from winning a majority, leaving the South in position to bargain for racial concessions.

Coleman said he supported Kennedy only after the state's U.S. senators called on Mississippi to support the national ticket to insure their retaining important senatorial committee assignments.

TWO ON ONE Sullivan and Coleman attacked Johnson for not saying during the 1960 campaign how he stood. He was regarded as a loyalist but said last month he voted unpledged.

Johnson concentrated his attention on the university crisis. When Gov. Barnett's plane was grounded by fog shortly before Negro James H. Meredith was due to try to enter the campus, Johnson, representing Barnett, blocked the entrance.

He mentioned several times that he was scared during the rioting when he "stood up for Mississippi."

Coleman stressed during his campaign that there was no integration which he was governor.

Last week Johnson brought in charges that Meredith had gone to a Coleman rally, and he said he had an affidavit from Oxford Police Chief James D. Jones to back it. Coleman denied it and said he had an affidavit from Jones saying Meredith did not attend the rally.

SEVERAL LOSSES Johnson, son of the late Gov. Paul B. Johnson, who died in office in 1943, entered the 1947 governor's race and lost to Wright in the first primary. He also lost in the 1951 primary.

Sullivan finished third behind Barnett and former Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin in 1959. He surprised the experts by polling 131,000 votes and trailing runner-up Gartin by only 20,000 in the first primary after entering as an unknown.

Johnson did not conduct an organized campaign.

(Continued from Page 1) refused to make public statements on the situation. The city's Negro community branded him an "Uncle Tom." But some NAACP officials acknowledge that the nationalists are a thorn in the side for conservative leaders. NAACP membership is about 4,000 in Harlem, a community of more than a half million Negroes. Most members pay dues and carry membership cards but do not attend meetings. Who leads the community and pulls the strings? Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., exercises control of a large element from the pulpit of the Abyssinian Baptist Church, the Harlem Democratic Club and a variety of civic organizations of which he is sponsor. The Harlem Democrat attacks the presence of white men in positions of authority in the "big four" civil rights organizations and recently has been vocal in his support of Malcolm X, Harlem's Black Muslim leader. NO SOLUTION Malcolm X attracts thousands with tirades against the white man. But Negroes more often than not leave his rallies without having found solutions to their problems. A young Negro leaving a Muslim rally commented: "I dig this cat. But I am not about to become a Black Muslim. I've never been to Africa and don't want to go. I don't care for his religion. What I need is a job so I can make some bread (money)." About 13 per cent of Harlem's labor force is unemployed. This represents more than twice the percentage for the city of New York at large. Asked if he had sought employment through the Urban League and other organizations, the young man replied: "I don't even know where their offices are." At least 50 others on Harlem street corners, in poolrooms, taverns and restaurants did not know where the NAACP, CORE or Urban League offices were. "It is pure bigotry to say, as some engaged in the racial struggle now do, that if one is not a Tom Paine in the racial battle he is necessarily an Uncle Tom." The magazine said that the current racial revolution needed its Tom Paines as did the American Revolution, but they were seldom able to make the benefits of revolutions permanent.

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—The American chairman of the Lutheran World Assembly's committee on group discussions submitted a report Monday saying "The great question of whether God exists... is one which often sorely tries even many Christians today." Ralph Loew of Buffalo, N.Y., presented the report that voiced warnings to all Christians. The report covered the findings by 26 discussion groups during three debate sessions last week during the fourth assembly of the Lutheran world federation. The assembly's chief theme is "Christ today." The report dealt at length with the re-examination of the doctrine of justification by faith, based on teachings of Martin Luther 400 years ago.

The bidding: Three of ♠ Careless induced by a failure to count his tricks contributed to the downfall of a highly seasoned campaigner in a vulnerable slam contract.

South opened the bidding with one club and North responded with one diamond. South's rebid was a simple call of one spade. This may seem unduly conservative to some players but, despite the fact that South's hand is worth 19 points, counting high cards and distribution, it does not measure up to the requirement for a jump shift. When North jumped to three spades announcing the equivalent of an opening bid himself, South was aware that the partnership held the assets for a slam undertaking, and after checking for aces he proceeded to six spades.

West opened the three of hearts and East's queen brought forth the ace from South. The king of trumps was led and when the seven dropped on declarer's right, he proceeded cautiously by playing the queen next. East showed out discarding the seven of diamonds, but this left South safely in position to finesse West for the jack of spades.

A third round of spades was led and the ten was played from dummy when West followed with the five. The queen of clubs was put thru next for a finesse, but West won this trick with the king and now returned a trump to clear that suit from all hands. South made the somewhat belated recognition at this point that he had only 11 top tricks—four spades, four clubs, two hearts, and one diamond. When neither red suit responded favorably to declarer's efforts to secure a 12th trick, he went down to defeat.

South should have done his counting much earlier. When the jack of spades is located on the second trump lead, declarer should have abandoned spades temporarily to complete his side work. The best procedure is to lead a club toward dummy's queen intending to concede a trick in that suit while communication is retained between the two hands.

West will put up the king of clubs and probably return a trump. Dummy's ten of spades is finessed and now declarer can play ace and another diamond, trumping with his last spade. The North hand is reentered with the queen of clubs in order to draw West's jack of trumps as South discards the ten of hearts. Declarer comes back to his king of hearts and takes the last three tricks with high clubs.

Water Grows Precious As Hear Continues

By The Associated Press
Threats of water shortages arose in South Central Texas and a move was afoot in one West Texas city to hire a rain maker Thursday.

No break appeared imminent, meanwhile, in sweltering heat which gripped all sections of the state.

The dwindling water supplies prompted concern along the Guadalupe River in South Central Texas. Robert Vahrenkamp, director of the Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority said six hydroelectric generating plants presently are able to operate at only 10 to 12 per cent of capacity.

Vahrenkamp said the level of the Guadalupe had dropped so low there was an immediate threat to Seguin and Gonzales, which draw water from a stream. Seguin has started using a water well drilled during a 1956 drought.

The Guadalupe has stopped flowing above Canyon Dam in Comal County for the first time since 1956, Vahrenkamp reported.

At San Angelo, James Green reported $3,500 had been raised in a drive for $10,000 to hire a professional rain maker.

Green, who heads the Texas Tank Car works, wants to employ a rain maker who was on the job July 27 when a 75-inch downpour caused flash flooding and forced evacuation of some homes in Tulsa.

The Tulsa rain maker, who refused to be identified or tell how he works, said of the San Angelo project:

"It sounds good down there. It's hot and dry and that would be a real good test. I understand it hasn't rained in two months."

Official forecasts meanwhile called for clear to partly cloudy skies, continued heat and possibly a few showers.

Union Organization Strengthens

AUSTIN (AP) — Union and business leaders agree that political activity is the key to union growth in Texas.

But asked identical questions, they express widely differing views on why unions have not grown more.

"Texas resists union organization because its people are independent and are wary of unions entering politics," says Ed Burris, executive vice president of the Texas Manufacturers Association.

Union organization in Texas is crippled primarily because of "anti-union legislation and charges by employer spokesmen that workers will lose their jobs to Negroes through the efforts of pro-Negro rights' union," says Frank Brown, president of the Texas AFL-CIO.

Asked the same questions, there was agreement on only one: "Have there been any recent major union organizing victories or defeats?"

Burris, of Houston, said he knows of none. Brown of Austin, said overall no, but qualified that by saying that there have been gains in organizing interstate business, losses in organizing intrastate business.

It is the independent stock of the people that is against unionism," said Burris. "A great resistance to the union is not from a unionizing effort but a political effort. . . . The unions are looking more and more to elections to get their men elected and solve their problems. This causes resistance even from persons not close to the situation. They are afraid the union might take over politics."

"The traditional anti-union feeling. . . is involved in the civil rights issue. Many anti-union employers and employers' spokesmen inflame workers against unions by charging that pro-Negro rights' unions will give their jobs to Negroes," said Brown.

"Union organization of interstate business is crippled by state anti-union legislation," he said.

Burris said this anti-union feeling probably will not change in the foreseeable future."

Brown says he will in perhaps 25 years, "as coalitions of labor, Negroes, liberals and Latin Americans become more politically successful and force a change in public policies."

And, if Texas doesn't lose its anti-labor feeling, says Brown, "There is no hope at all for economic progress." He emphasized the need for progress by saying that the per capita income lags below 70 per cent of the national average, a figure caused "by less union density."

Burris denies that there is a lag. "Maybe from the civil war to 20 years ago," says Burris, but since then it's advancing faster than most areas.

Court To Hear Carrier Suit

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court said Monday it will hear arguments Oct. 23 on a suit seeking to determine if a newspaper carrier is an independent agent or an employee.

Gerald Love of Corpus Christi filed the suit against Newsprinters, Inc., owner of the Austin American Statesman, after an April 11, 1959, collision injured his wife and four children and killed another child.

Police reported C. E. Cargile, a route carrier for the newspaper, turned from the right-hand to the center lane of a three-lane highway near Austin. A car behind Cargile, driven by Otis Franklin, went to the right, hit a soft shoulder and ran into the Love vehicle.

Love won a $99,165 judgment from a district court jury in Austin. It found that Cargile's turn was the proximate cause of the accident. The court of civil appeals here upheld the verdict.

The Texas Supreme Court will hear arguments on contentions that (1) Cargile was an agent or servant of the newspaper and (2) that Cargile was not an independent contractor.

Lawyers for the Love family filed statements that the newspaper exercised the power to control of Cargile's work and the jury properly found that he was an employee and not an independent contractor.

Kiwanis Wins First Game In Tourney

The Big Spring Kiwanis advanced to the semi-finals of the state Junior Teen-Age League tournament Monday night as they beat Cleburne, 5-4, in a game that came very close to being an upset.

The Kiwanians took what looked like an unbeatable 5-1 lead but a fired up Cleburne nine stormed back in the top of the seventh inning for three big runs and almost sent the game into extra frames.

Charles Burdette was the winning pitcher for the locals as he went 6 1-3 innings after relieving starter Hank Pope. Gary Messers pitched to the last man in the game.

Elam was the loser for the Cleburne crew.

Johnny Stone, center fielder, was the big man at the plate for the Big Springers as he pounded out a double and a homer in three times at the plate.

Elam got the only extra base knock for the losers as he bashed a double.

The Kiwanians move farther into the double-elimination tourney tonight at 8 p.m. when they meet a nine from Brownwood.

No Roundtable Set This Month

The Cub Scout Leaders Roundtable, normally held each second Thursday, will not be held Aug. 8, W. D. (Slim) Broughton announced Tuesday.

A joint meeting, and cookout, will be held at the City Park pavilion Aug. 22 at 8:30 p.m. Cub Scout, and Explorer leaders will join in planning for the annual fall round-up, Broughton said.

Thursday Funeral For F. H. Kelley

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Final tributes will be paid Frank H. Kelley, 66, at 2 p.m. Thursday in the First Methodist Church. Burial will be in the Colorado City Cemetery under the direction of Kiker and Son Funeral Home. The casket will be closed an hour prior to the service and not reopened.

Mr. Kelley, prominent Colorado City oilman and civic leader, died unexpectedly at his home Monday at 8:30 a.m. after suffering a heart attack.

In his two score years in West Texas he had played a leading role in its development. He blocked the acreage on many of the area's oil pools, including one on the Foster ranch south of Iatan around 1926. This was within a couple of years after he had become Magnolia's landman at Colorado City. Within a couple of years he was acquiring leases on the Roberts Ranch in southeast Howard where soon big wells were roaring in. Years later he persuaded his company to retain leases in Scurry County when others were dropping them, and his faith was vindicated by discovery of the fabulous reef field.

Twice he was president of the Chamber of Commerce here, for 26 years was a member of the school board with much of it as president. He was a member of the Governor's Water Advisory Committee, later of the Texas Water Committee and had a hand in work that led to creation of

Banners, Buttons Have Arrived

Big Spring merchants were urged today to visit the Chamber of Commerce and pick up their lapel buttons and window banners for the "Try Big Spring First" campaign.

The Chamber has the advertising articles, but does not have the personnel to deliver them to retailers, Carroll Davidson, Chamber manager, said.

16 Rattles And A Button On This One

John Robinson, Garden City, used a spade to kill this giant rattlesnake he encountered on the road from his home to Big Spring Saturday night. The snake had 16 rattles and was nearly six feet long. Lovell Hamilton took the picture.

Urban Renewal Voting Date To Be Set Tonight

STANTON — Stanton City Council will meet tonight to set a date for the referendum on the Second Urban Renewal Program here.

In response to instructions issued last week by the council, Harvey White, city secretary, has prepared all required papers and notices which he will hand the councilmen tonight. The council will then set an election date.

The same election at which the sentiment of the Stanton residents on the Urban Renewal Project will be sounded will elect city councilmen to fill offices deemed vacant. All of the councilmen resigned some weeks ago at the time the first debate over the Urban Renewal project arose. They are serving, according to Bob Deavenport, one of the members, until an election can be held and their successors named.

A protest against the Urban Renewal Program was laid before the council and a request for a referendum on the matter was filed. The referendum is not binding on the city council. It will merely voice the sentiment of the public.

Eagles To Meet

The Fraternal Order of Eagles chapter will hold its first regular meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. on the Settles Hotel mezzanine. Officials urged all chapter members to be present for the discussion of important business.

Gossett Calls For Change In The Electoral System

A group of about 40 Big Springers Monday night heard an indictment of the electoral college system of electing Presidents, and an appeal for support to bring about a constitutional amendment to replace it.

Advocate was Ed Gossett, for many years a member of Congress from the Wichita Falls district, and now general counsel for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Gossett, while in Congress in 1950, was co-sponsor of a proposed amendment to change the presidential election method, and has worked for the proposition ever since. He currently heads volunteer groups trying to bring about a constitutional amendment.

The electoral college, Gossett said, is no longer operating as the founding fathers conceived it. Under it, there is a possibility that a President can be elected without having attained a majority of the popular vote (this has happened). There is no rational relationship, Gossett said, between popular and electoral vote. It permits, he continued, election of a President by organized minority pressure groups—those bloc votes which can be obtained to help carry a big state with the most electoral votes.

Because both parties work to woo these minority groups in the big cities of the big state, the electoral system tends to destroy the integrity of the parties, the former congressman contended, and "makes hypocrites of the party leaders."

Gossett said that many efforts have been made to reform the electoral system, and actually it has few defenders, even in the Congress. However, there is no organized effort to bring about reform, he said, and it is a victim of political inertia.

He pointed out that a change in the system could be achieved by Congress calling for a constitutional amendment (this takes two-thirds majority in both houses, and has not yet been brought about); or for two-thirds of the states' legislatures to call upon Congress for a constitutional convention, which would be mandatory.

Advocates of electoral reforms are pursuing both campaigns, Gossett said. He reported that his group already has 10 states lined up to call for an amendment on the question, and these include Texas.

There are several methods proposed for changing the electoral system. The plan Gossett advocates is to (1) abolish the electoral college; (2) abolish electors; (3) provide for direct voting of President and Vice President; (4) retain the electoral vote of each state as at present (to retain state sovereignty) but provide that each electoral vote be divided in exact ratio with the popular vote. This would mean that if a candidate got 50.9 per cent of the popular vote in a state, he would receive 50.9 per cent of the state's electoral count. As it is, he receives the state's full electoral vote.

Another plan is to name electors by congressional districts in each state.

Husband, Wife Both Must Have Taxpayer Numbers

In Texas, both husbands and wives will need a taxpayer identification number for future income tax filing, according to Joseph P. Gordon, administrative officer at the Big Spring office of Internal Revenue Service.

"The community property law creates many situations where both husband and wife have income that belongs to only one spouse in other states," Gordon explained. "Quite a few wives feel that they do not need a taxpayer identification, or social security number, because they file a joint return with their husband. There are times when it is to their advantage to file separate returns. Naturally, the wife can not report her share of dividends, interest and other income on a separate return without having a taxpayer identification number. However, she still needs the taxpayer identification number in filing a joint return because of the community property law in Texas."

Taxpayers who do not have an identification number should secure a Form SS-5 from their nearest Post Office, Internal Revenue Service office, or Social Security Office, complete the application and get a number assigned.

O. L. Page Dies, Rites Wednesday

SAN ANGELO—O. L. Page, 63, resident of 918 Coburn for 12 years, died at 9:18 p.m. Monday in a local hospital. He lived in Abilene 20 years before moving to San Angelo.

Mr. Page was born Oct. 8, 1899, in Stephenville. He was a Mason and member of the Elks Lodge.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Johnson's chapel, San Angelo. Graveside services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Trinity Memorial Park, Big Spring, with Johnson's Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Survivors are a son, Oscar Page, San Angelo; two daughters, Mrs. W. O. Barber, Anson, and Mrs. K. L. Ronding, Houston; a brother, George Page, Abilene; two sisters, Mrs. Clara Smith, Big Spring, and Mrs. Grady Richey, Gilroy, Calif.; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Principals Make Plans

Teacher assignments and other planning for the coming school term were pushed nearer completion Monday morning at a meeting of principals. Another session is slated to begin at 2 p.m. Thursday to continue unfinished business, Sebron B. Williams, assistant superintendent, said.

Principals were tentatively selected for the Kentwood school and another local elementary school, subject to approval of the board of trustees at their next regular meeting.

The principals set up a Civil Defense Workshop Aug. 19-21 for all administrative staff members and for one teacher representative from each school. Purpose of the Texas Education Agency sponsored workshop is to develop an understanding of the role of the individual, family and community in disasters, to disseminate knowledge of local survival plans and to inform school personnel of protective measures they can take to cope with nuclear or natural disasters. All neighboring schools have been invited to participate in the workshop.

Workshop sessions will be from 8 a.m. to noon on Aug. 19 and 21, and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Aug. 20.

Other business included discussion of legislative changes which affect schools and setting pre-registration days.

Big Turnout Of Entries Expected For Junior Rodeo

If entries sent in by mail are indicative, this year's How a r d County Junior Rodeo which opens Thursday night will see the largest turnout of young rodeo hands in its history.

Herb Helbig, county agent and superintendent of the show, said that so far 90 mail entries have been received which is many more than were received at this date last year.

Total entries taking part in the 1962 show was 152. Deadline for entries is 5 p.m. Wednesday. A grand rush of applicants to compete, most of whom will be on hand in person, is anticipated Wednesday. Many phone calls from all parts of the district have been received from potential competitors who have said they will be here for the show.

Meantime, plans are rapidly taking shape. Stock is due today, Forty-seven head of roping calves from the Herman Virden herd in Ballinger are already on hand.

Announcement has been made that Lawrence Davis, Coahoma, will probably serve as field judge. He will replace Toots Mansfield, who usually occupies this post. Mansfield will not be able to take part this year due to the illness of Mrs. Mansfield.

Tickets are on sale. They can be bought at the office of the county agent in the basement of the court house (rodeo headquarters) or from boys and girls of the 4-H Clubs.

The big parade, which is the initial event on the three day program, will move at 4 p.m. Thursday. Helbig said the parade forms at Eleventh and Main. It will move north along Main to Second Street, east to Scurry and south to Eleventh Place where it will break up.

Addition of bulldozing to the official program this year is possibly one factor which is causing the augmented interest in entries. In the past, bulldozing has not been on the agenda. Eliminated this year is the boot scramble which formerly was a special event for smaller cowboys and cowgirls.
