Padre Island Land Given To Government

AUSTIN (AP) — Signatures by three state officials put 91,243 acres of state-owned land today into the hands of the federal government for creation of the Padre Island National Seashore area.

Gov. John Connally, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr and Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler, the three members of the School Land Board, are signers of the deed conveying the land.

The sandy, slim island between Corpus Christi and Brownsville will be the nation's third national seashore area.

Congress enacted a bill two years ago authorizing the seashore along 82 miles of the island.

Before state lands could be deeded, the legislature had to authorize conveyance. The state-owned lands are submerged.

The submerged lands now held by the state are to be turned over to the federal government without charge.

SCHOOL SONG RE-WITTEN Aggie Land Shook Up Again

By The Associated Press

Aggie land, whose former residents sometimes speak so loud and clear you'd think Texas centers on it, got shook up again Friday—but no worse than from a few other tradition breakers this year.

The shakeups are not only in Texas A&M traditions. They are in the academic field, too.

The people who run the school hope the academic changes, at least, will make it among the best in the world some day.

Old Aggies say it already was the best in the world. They are a proud clan.

The latest step is the name change.

Today is the day they tore up a part of the sentimental school song and rewrote it. It didn't rhyme any more.

The way it formerly read:

"The Aggies are we, we are from Texas AMU."
Now students and exes must sing, if they sing accurately:
"The Aggies so true, we are from Texas AMU."

The official name now is Texas A&M University.

Dropped are the words "agricultural and mechanical." For one thing, the words didn't fit for the school now teaches some of the most sophisticated courses in the nation.

The initials "A&M" are absolutely meaningless. A close observer of the struggle to change the name says the initials were retained only to pacify the old grads, who seem to feel almost any change is bad.

The change to the designation of university, in addition to an upgrading of status, simply is an accurate designation. A&M qualified as a university years ago.

Two other traditions fell hard this year.

One was the admission of Negroes. This was done voluntarily without court pressure.

The other really set afire the old grads of the tradition-forever type. This was the admission of women.

Old grads didn't like this even though the only women to be admitted now to regular term courses are families of faculty, staff and students. Actually, hundreds of women have attended A&M, but only in the summer.

President Earl Rudder took the date of the name change as an occasion to "reflect on our progress and our future."

"Our goal is excellence," said Rudder. "By insistence upon excellence in every aspect of our university, we will best serve the needs of Texas."

He pointed to a "blueprint for progress" issued by the board last year after a major study by a group of Texasans.

"Since the blueprint was published we have made significant advancements," Rudder said. He cited re-examination of courses, addition of doctorate courses in new fields, strengthening of the faculty, better housing for students, and new and better classrooms and laboratories.

R. V. Polk Due In Ordination Rites

Rev. Robert F. Polk, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will preach the ordination sermon and charge to Lester L. Morriss Jr., Sunday at 3 p.m. during ordination ceremonies at the First Baptist Church in Midland.

The new minister to be ordained is the son of Dr. L. L. Morriss, pastor of the Midland church. He was a ministerial student at Baylor and pastor of a Baptist church near Waco.

Dr. Morriss is well known in Big Spring and several local residents will be on hand for the ordination service.

Sadler Seeds Clouds, Light Rainfall Results

By The Associated Press

State Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler got credit Friday for limited success in trying to make it rain near San Angelo in West Central Texas, but there was no word of any gullywashers.

Sadler took to the air and seeded clouds with dry ice Thursday in the drought-plagued San Angelo area as temperatures mounted and most other sections of the state baked even drier.

The mercury hit an afternoon high of 107 degrees at Presidio in the Big Bend of West Texas. While light showers dotted parts of Southeast, Central and West Texas, there was no rain of consequence.

Sadler, who has taken credit for Central Texas showers which followed cloud seeding from his plane, tried the same procedure at the invitation of a business men's group formed to seek rain—San Angelo Weather Information Center, Inc.

As the land commissioner sprinkled about 550 pounds of crushed dry ice, James Green, president of the San Angelo rain seekers, and State Rep. Forrest Harding watched from a second plane.

"When they threw that stuff in there," Green related, "it seemed to us like everything started to boil." The reaction began about two minutes after the dry ice was dropped, Harding said, adding: "We circled around one cloud that was seeded. It was just like water flowing out of a water spout."

There were no reports of sizeable rainfall amounts, however, to the Weather Bureau. San Angelo residents observed a rainbow across the sky to the south.

Sadler reported clouds were seeded from Christoval to Eldorado, then back toward Wall and Suzan Peak.

"The area directly north of Wall got a good heavy rain," Green said. "They got rain southeast of Wall also."

Skies were clear to partly cloudy throughout the state Friday morning and expected to stay that way. Weather Bureau observers predicted a few thunder-showers in West and South Texas.

In addition to Presidio's 107-degree high Thursday, Laredo and Wichita Falls recorded 102, Mineral Wells 102, Austin, Midland and San Angelo 101, and Abilene, Childress, Fort Worth and Victoria 100.

COURT ORDER

Charleston To Integrate Schools

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Charleston has been ordered to admit 11 Negroes to its all-white schools on Sept. 3. School officials reluctantly bowed to the ruling Thursday by U.S. Dist. Judge J. Robert Martin Jr.

Two white high schools and two white grammar schools in this port city, smoldering from summer-long racial demonstrations, will be integrated.

Judge Martin's order covered 13 students involved in the original integration suit, but one has graduated from high school and another has moved from the district.

Judge Martin cleared the way for integration of all city schools. He said no qualified Negro can be denied admission to a white school after September, 1964.

The order affects School District No. 20, which has 3,108 white pupils and 9,539 Negroes.

"Every child in School District No. 20 has the right to attend a school freely selected without regard to race or color," said Judge Martin.

District trustees decided to go along with the order and admit the 11 Negroes. But they instructed attorneys to appeal the ruling.

Laurence O'H. Stoney, board chairman, said it remains to be seen whether the school system can be operated in 1964. He urged all residents to respect the board's decision "and to maintain and observe proper discipline."

All secondary schools in South Carolina are segregated. But Harvey Gantt, 20, a Charleston Negro, was enrolled without incident at state-supported Clemson College last January under federal court order. Two Negroes are scheduled to enter the University of South Carolina next month.

Judge Martin's ruling came just 16 days after a two-day hearing on a desegregation suit filed in 1962 by parents of the 13 Negro children.

The hearing was held in Columbia because Charleston was already tense from racial troubles. More than 600 Negroes have been arrested in demonstrations that forced more than 100 downtown merchants to agree to a desegregation program. Judge Martin said the school board can apply for any reasonable modification of his order to solve administrative difficulties. But he warned that "futile, burdensome or discriminatory administrative procedures" would not be permitted.

Farm-Labor Panels To Meet

The Farm-Labor Committee for Martin County is in session today at the county commissioners room in the Martin County courthouse, Texas Employment Commission office manager Leon Kinney said.

The meeting is to consult on the potential cotton crop in the county, determine the number of workers needed, and the dates when such workers will be required.

The Martin County meeting is the first of three such meetings to be held by TEC Farm Labor Committees in the three counties served by the Big Spring office.

Howard County and Glasscock County meetings are to be Thursday, Aug. 29.

The Howard County meeting will be at the TEC office at 9:30 a.m. The Glasscock County meeting is to be in the St. Lawrence Gin office at 2 p.m.

Members of the Martin County committee are the Rev. John Pierce, Jerry Hansen, Leo Turner, Jett Hogard and Bob Cain.

The Howard County Committee: Carlton Chapman, the Rev. Patrick Casey, Jack Irons, Harvey Adams and Ted Fields.

Glasscock County Farm-Labor Committee members are: E. D. Bednar, Sidney Hirt, and Fritz Henrichs.

Crop Duster Dies

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

One reader insists that instrumental music in worship is authorized by the New Testament. He goes into the Greek. He is not satisfied with the great English Bibles which we have.

My friend's claim is that the instrument is "included" in the Greek word for "psalms" (Eph. 5:19).

Robertson is quoted to the effect that the Greek word "psallo" originally meant to strike an instrument like a harp, and that this was Jewish usage. Then Robertson left off defining the word and gave his opinion as to what the "early Christians meant" to do.

It is admitted that at one time in the history of this Greek word, the instrument was included in the word; as Robertson said, "originally" (long before the New Testament).

Thayer is also quoted by my friend; but only partially quoted. The whole quotation brings out that "in the New Testament" the word means to sing. Only singing is authorized.

Water Supplies Are In Decline

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Water Commission reports ground water supplies in some areas of the state are plentiful but generally declining.

It based this statement on a study of the Red River, Sulphur River and Cypress Creek drainage areas in North Texas, a 31,000 square mile area including all or parts of 54 counties.

The report, third in a series on ground water, was released Thursday.

"A number of aquifers were found to contain large amounts of useable ground water in large areas of the basins," the report said.

It mentioned the Trinity group, Woodbine and Wilcox formations, and Carrizo Sand in Northeast Texas, the Blaine gypsum and Quaternary sands in the central section and the Ogallala formation in the High Plains.

However, the report said, "the problem common to almost every aquifer of primary and secondary importance is declining water levels."

The Ogallala formation is losing as much as five feet a year, the report said, and elsewhere water levels are declining as much as 12 feet per year in the Woodbine formation, 6.5 feet per year in the Trinity group and 3.3 feet a year in the Carrizo-Wilcox.

May Be More Money Hidden

TROY, Ohio (AP) — A section of timbers splintered five or six years ago at the Altman Mills feed plant north of here, and some excavation had to be done to make repairs.

The work took five days and an employe recalls Russell Stacy Altman, the elderly mill owner, kept an eagle eye on the workmen.

Now he knows why.

The excavators had dug within five feet of where Altman buried some of the huge fortune in U.S. currency which millhands, digging again this week, have unearthed.

On top of the earlier discovery of two 10-gallon milk cans stuffed to the brim with about $350,000 in small denomination bills, the workers turned up a five-gallon can Thursday with more than $150,000 in it.

Guards remained at their posts today to keep intruders from doing some digging of their own. No one was sure there wasn't still more of the Altman fortune underground.

Much of the place already has been dug up, on order of Altman's heirs, a son and daughter whom he told from his deathbed July 28 that he had buried his money.

They had only half believed him, thinking their 76-year-old father might be delirious.

The son is George Altman of Irwin, Pa. The daughter is Mrs. Mary Jane Ward of Troy.

Altman was known during his lifetime for his distrust of banks.

New Program For Keeping Fit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's Council on Physical Fitness unveiled a new program Thursday to keep adults slim and trim by exercising.

The program is contained in a booklet, "Adult Physical Fitness," which is available from the government printing office for 35 cents. It is for both men and women.

The program, which starts with an "orientation program" of 10 exercises any adult should be able to do, includes knee lifts, body benders, sitting stretches and, for men only, pushups.

Sergeant's Home Is Set Ablaze

MARCAZ, Venezuela (AP) — Terrorists set fire to the home of an American Air Force sergeant with a gasoline bomb Thursday, police reported.

The attack on the home of Sgt. William Elliott of the U.S. Air Force mission was attributed to members of a pro-Communist terrorist organization calling itself the Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN). They have made previous attacks on American homes in recent months.

LOVE YOURSELF!

Jesus once declared: "Love your neighbor as yourself." (Mark 12:31.) It seems strange that the One who would ask us to hate our "own lives" (Luke 14:26) would now affirm that we are to love ourselves! What can it mean?

New Testament love is not erotic affection. The original word itself is hardly accurately translatable into the English language. But the nearest English expression for the word that Jesus used is to "do good willingly." How, then, does a man love himself?

We love ourselves when we are anxious to provide for the well-being of our physical bodies. They are the temples of the Holy Spirit. (1 Cor. 6:19.) We love ourselves correctly when we endeavor to make a clean name for ourselves in the community. One whose life is tainted with shame and disgrace in the eyes of his fellows can hardly be one who loves his name. Christians are told to "provide things honest in the sight of all men." (Rom. 12:17.)

But the highest form of holy love is to love one's own soul enough to save it from sin! He who will submit to the commands of his Savior can truly be said to be loving his own self as God desires. "Save yourselves!" admonishes Peter. (Acts 2:40.) "Work out our own salvation!" pleads Paul. (Phil. 2:12.) Friends, have you obeyed the Lord's commands? Will you do so today?

Then tell others about God's plan of salvation and "love your neighbor as you love yourself!"

The Northside church of Christ welcomes you! 601 N. Runnels.

 In today's hand South's bid of three hearts on the second round may appear to some players a distinct effort to be "fancy." Actually that was not his intention. After North's raise to three clubs, he could, of course, on the basis of values held, leap directly to five clubs; but there is always the temptation to seek a shorter way home and he did not wish to abandon the prospect of a three no trump contract if North had some mild stopper in spades. North on the other hand could hardly be blamed for taking South at his word and proceeding quite reasonably to four hearts. It is true that South might have retreated to the more comfortable terrain of five clubs, but in a sporting mood he decided to fight it out in hearts. With a bit of cooperation on the part of the defenders he was able to bring home the somewhat bizarre contract.

West led his fourth best spade and the five was played from the dummy. East put up the ace and returned the jack. He hoped to put West back in with the king in order to obtain a diamond shift thru North's holding. West won the second spade trick, but unfortunately he misread East's purpose. West, perhaps unwisely, decided that East had a doubleton spade and wished to overruff the dummy on the next round.

A diamond was discarded from dummy on West's spade return and South ruffed in his hand. A club was led over to the king and a heart was returned. When East played low, South put in the jack of hearts which held the trick. The ace of hearts was cashed as all hands followed and another club was led to the ten. East showed out, discarding a diamond. The king of hearts was cashed and, when the queen did not appear, East was revealed to have a trump trick.

South could at this point continue to lead clubs until East ruffed in with his high trump, but in so doing he would give up all chance to make the contract, for he has no entries left to his hand to run the good clubs. He therefore led the dummy's remaining trump and conceded East his heart trick. If the latter had one more spade, the defense would have been able to cash the setting tricks in that suit. Fortunately for South, his opponent had to exit with a diamond and declarer took the rest of the tricks.

A five club contract would have gone on the rocks when the diamond finesse failed. West could and probably should have defeated four hearts by shifting to a diamond at trick three. Since South has bid clubs first, and later called hearts, it becomes increasingly unlikely that he will be found with as many as three spades.

TEC Estimates Area Crop Yield

It's cotton crop guessing time again, and Texas Employment Commission is the first to take the plunge.

Tentative estimates on cotton for Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties, have been made by the TEC. Leon Kinney, manager, said.

"These are subject to important revision," he explained. "Should we be lucky enough to get good rains in the next week or 10 days, I think we would be able to up these figures materially."

The estimates as released set the 1963 cotton crop in Howard County at 36,251. This compares with the TEC estimate of last year of 22,251. (Actual production for the year was slightly above 24,000 bales.)

TEC guesses only 500 bales of Howard County cotton will be hand picked. The pulled cotton will be 10,400 bales and the machine-picked cotton 25,430 bales.

Martin County's total crop is estimated at 75,085 bales. Last year's TEC estimate was 37,339. The TEC thinks 25,000 bales will be hand-picked; 16,160 bales pulled and 33,925 picked by machine.

Glasscock County crop is estimated at 9,690 bales. In 1962, the TEC estimate on Glasscock County cotton was 10,879. The TEC thinks 1,000 bales of Glasscock cotton will be picked; 2,990 bales pulled and 5,700 machine harvested.

Previously, Dawson County production was estimated at 143,200 bales. Of this it was predicted 1,325 bales will be picked, 34,575 pulled and 107,300 bales machine harvested.

Spend Honeymoon At Youth Camp

CHIGWELL, England (AP) — Maurice and Sylvia Clark, newly married vegetarians, are spending their honeymoon in separate dormitories.

He shares a cabin with 19 men at a vegetarian youth camp. She sleeps in the girls' hut.

Sylvia, 22, explained: "We booked for this camp before setting our wedding date but then decided to come here anyway for our honeymoon."

Johnston pursued several careers, some of them simultaneously, starting as a grade-school newspaper carrier to help support his widowed mother. He worked his way through the University of Washington as a door-to-door vacuum cleaner salesman, graduating just in time to become the Marine Corps' youngest major in World War I.

He was best known, perhaps, as head of the motion picture industry, serving 18 years as president of the Motion Picture Association of America. His annual salary was $100,000.

Educated as a lawyer, he pursued a career in business, pyramiding his interests on the Brown-Johnston Co., a Spokane, Wash., electrical firm. He formed the Columbia Electrical and Manufacturing Co. to produce the appliances sold by Brown-Johnston, and held posts with other firms.

In 1942 he attained national prominence on election as president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. In the post he led a drive for business cooperation with President Franklin D. Roosevelt and an end to Roosevelt-baiting. He served four terms gaining stature as an eloquent spokesman for the free enterprise system.

In 1944, on a visit to the Soviet Union, Johnston met the world's No. 1 Communist, Soviet Premier Josef Stalin. The capitalist told the Red dictator: "I like your manganese. It doesn't know it's socialist. You like our machine tools. They don't know they are capitalistic."

In 1946, in a valedictory address to the chamber, Johnston summed up his views on free competitive enterprise. He appealed for a "new capitalism"—"a competitive economic system designed for the enrichment of the many."

After the war he served as administrator of the Economic Stabilization Agency in 1951 and as chairman of the International Development Agency from 1952 until his death. President Dwight D. Eisenhower sent him to the Middle East in 1953 as a special ambassador and President Kennedy appointed him to the Citizens Commission for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Pork-Barrel Blues

Pork-barrelling has been revived as an issue of public life in recent weeks. First, Edwin J. Neelan, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, levelled his guns on this subject and stirred a hornet's nest by asserting that there is something downright immoral about it. With interesting timing, Life magazine came out with a sobering blockbuster on the subject, charging billions have been and are being pooled off.

Of course, both of these utterances have foundation. There is—and there has been—a deplorable amount of pork-barrel legislation and appropriations. And when it is done, as is not infrequently the case, for the purpose of winning friends and influencing people (voters), it is immoral. When it becomes a grab for purely provincial interests, it can't exactly be put in the class of Sunday School ethics.

There are at least three ways to look at pork-barrelling — objectively and disdainfully when someone else gets it, defensively and righteously when we get it, and quizzically when it fits into that nebulous zone which conceivably serves both the national and local interest. Thus, not everyone can agree on what is pork-barrel.

Nevertheless, it is a fact of life that provincial interests will roll their own logs, generally out of a firm conviction that it is beneficial and right. It also is an unhappy fact of life that a lot of cynical back-scratching goes on in order to swing appropriations. But in a time when we are clamoring for tax reduction—and need it, too—we ought to take a close and stinky look with the view of trimming a whale of a lot of fat. That's one way to accomplish both and to balance the budget.

Valachi Sings A Dirge

It is said that "the family," which is a cozy name for a viperous national crime syndicate, has put a price of $100,000 on the head of Joseph Valachi. This is understandable, though one may wonder why the price is not much higher. For Valachi has, during the course of a year or so, been singing to federal law enforcement authorities about who is who and what is what in organized crime.
 It has been known for years that some sort of a nationwide organization was responsible for a heavy percentage of the crime that milks billions of dollars from the economy and spreads the blight of corruption throughout the country. Not until Valachi told what he knew about the organization, in which he had long been involved, where law enforcement agencies able to move effectively against the syndicate. Now, armed with his disclosures, they are working to consolidate their evidence for a series of grand jury investigations.

 In this effort they are aided measurably, too, by the new system under which law enforcement agencies cooperate with one another and with state and local police. This pooling of information and coordination of activity is the thing that may at last break up, if not actually destroy, organized crime.
 The public will learn a good deal more about the monster called Cosa Nostra when Valachi is brought into the Senate investigations subcommittee's hearings on narcotics and various other rackets. Until then, he is being held at Fort Monmouth under extreme security. It begins to look as though we are about to witness that unusual thing, the thwarting and downfall of criminal masterminds. Nothing should be allowed to interfere with the impetus of this onslaught.

Traveling Salesman Khrushchev

WASHINGTON — Premier Khrushchev is turning traveling salesman to try to capitalize on his policy of peaceful co-existence. Along with other journeys being prepared for a crowded schedule he expects to go to Cuba in September or early October.

That, at least, is what he told United Nations Secretary General U Thant at the time of the signing of the nuclear test-ban treaty in Moscow. But the Secretary General reported afterward that he is convinced Khrushchev will not come to New York for the meeting of the U.N. General Assembly, despite rumors to the contrary.

IF THE SOVIET Premier were to fly from Havana to New York thousands of Cuban refugees would seize the opportunity to demonstrate. The threat would be a repetition of the chaos of the 1959 Assembly session when battalions of New York police were called out to hold back the demonstrators. The appearance of Khrushchev would be the signal for other heads of government to flock in compounding the chaos.

WHY KHRUSHCHEV should choose this time for a visit to Fidel Castro is the subject of wide speculation among government specialists on communism. Is he coming to reconfirm the allegiance to the Soviet Union, as against Red China, which appeared to be sealed during Castro's stay in Russia this past spring? Whatever the prejudices and predilections of the bearded Cuban in the ideological field, the only source of substantial aid is the U.S.S.R.

ANOTHER POSSIBILITY intrigues the official Kremlinologists. Is he prepared to announce in Havana that since Castro's own forces have been brought to a high degree of training all Russian combat troops have therefore been removed? His visit to Cuba would, in itself, stir anew all the intense emotional and political feelings in this country over the presence of a Communist-dominated dictatorship just off America's shores.

This would cast a long shadow of doubt over whether there is any real desire in Moscow for an easing of tensions. But Khrushchev might figure that by announcing the troop removal he would take out some of the sting. The speculation throws into sharp perspective the continuing dilemma of Cuba and the role it is likely to play in both domestic and international politics.

Billy Graham

What is your opinion of the cheap books that are sold everywhere? Should Christians read them?

F. H.
 It is not the cheapness, or the expensiveness of a book which determines its worth, it is what is inside the covers. Frankly, most of books which you probably refer are definitely harmful because they glorify sin and fill our minds and hearts with lustful and vicious thoughts. The Bible says, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." If our thoughts are constantly on evil things, then evil will predominate our lives. At the same time, there are many interesting and exciting Christian adventure, even detective stories, which offer us an hour of relaxation and which have no harm in them. Here the question is whether they become an obsession with us and we waste time on them we should be using for more profitable things.
 It cannot be stated too strongly that the tastes of the average American reader seem to have turned more and more to crime and sex. Some say a novel cannot be successful unless it portrays one or the other. This is not true, but only too often it appears to be so. Christians have so many worth-while things to read and to do. If the book we are thinking of reading is one we believe Christ would have us read, then enjoy it. If it is one you feel in His heart would dis honor Him, then avoid it as you would the plague.

Music On The Turf—With Lunch

TANGLEWOOD, Mass. — The music lover who wants informal comfort with his concert can listen to the ravishing music of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in shoesless, tieless, coatless ease while stretched out on a chaise longue under the ancient trees that shade Tanglewoods velvety lawns.
 That is one of the privileges to be found in this yeasty, widespread cultural enclave which has grown up around the Boston orchestra's summer festival, which offers us on home ground what so many Americans annually go to Europe to find.

It's More Fun

NEW YORK (AP) — The thing that puzzles men most about women is that they enjoy being women.
 Now and then a man, worn out with the office politics of earning a living, has a kind of masculine envy of his wife.
 "You got it made, baby," he tells her. "When you get tired of pushing buttons on all these modern labor-saving devices, you can lie down on the couch and rest your worn finger."
 "If you don't want to dust a table now, you can dust it later. If you don't feel like sending out the laundry today, you can send it out tomorrow."
 "Boy, if I ever get the chance to be born again, I think I'd choose to be born a woman."
 "Actually, however, that is the last thing on earth he'd choose to be. A lion? Maybe. An elephant? Perhaps. But a woman? Never, never, never!"
 Now and then I discuss this subject with my wife.
 "Tell me the truth, Frances," I say to her. "If you had it to do all over again, wouldn't you rather be a man?"
 "No indeed."
 "Why?"
 "Because it's more fun being a woman."
 "Fun? For the life of me I can't figure it out. Where's the fun?"
 Admittedly, a man's life is full of woe. Every morning he has to

What Republicans Must Do To Win

WASHINGTON — Senator Goldwater's decision to stay out of the presidential primaries is based, he says, on "a study of history." The fact is that no presidential aspirant in either party who has gone into the primaries has ever won contests in enough states to play a decisive part in getting the nomination itself. Of the 16 candidates in both parties from 1932 through 1960, not one entered primaries in as many as one-fourth of the states. Most candidates have declined altogether to go into the primaries.

To Your Good Health

How To Combat Chiggers

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.
 Dear Dr. Molner: My three-year-old son has been getting chiggers.
 The doctor told me to dust his clothes with sulphur, but it doesn't seem to help. I haven't dusted his bed clothes. Would the sulphur hurt his eyes or do any damage if it got in his mouth?
 Is it possible for the chiggers to get in his system and do real damage—MRS. R. M.
 The sulphur dust might or might not irritate his eyes, but would not be harmful if he got some in his mouth. However, there are some other tricks for combating chiggers.
 These pesky mites attach themselves to the skin, then drop off in about four days after having caused violent itching. The itch is from a fluid which the chigger injects into the skin.
 Scratching the areas may, obviously, lead to infection, but the chiggers do not invade beyond the skin, so you need have no fear of systemic harm.
 If the trouble is not readily cleared up, find out where the Super-boy is getting the chiggers. Presumably he doesn't roam too far. Take pieces of black cardboard and set them up edgewise on the ground in various likely places.
 The chiggers, if in the area, will climb to the top edge of the cardboard.
 Once you have found the place, or places, spray the area. The U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends chlordane, toxaphane or lindane. Children should be kept out of the area until the spray has dried.
 For the victim, washing with a thick, soapy lather will remove most of the chiggers, but where itchy spots remain—from the insect's injected fluid—dab them with antiseptic.
 For people who know they are going into a chigger-infested area, clothing can be impregnated with a repellent. Dimethyl phthalate or benzyl benzoate can be used for this. Add the repellent to a soapy solution, then swish clothes around in it until they are soaked, then let them dry.
 Anyone wanting more detailed information—and chiggers are quite a problem in a lot of places—write for Leaflet No. 403, U. S. Department of Agriculture. For a copy, send 5 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.
 Dear Dr. Molner: On my doctor's advice I have been taking a rather large vitamin pill every night at dinner time. By next morning this pill passes through my system completely undissolved. I am evidently getting no benefit from them, and they are quite expensive. Maybe the pill has too hard a coating, or perhaps something is wrong with my digestive system. Can you advise me?—E. M.
 I wouldn't be concerned about the digestive system. Either the coating of the pill is too hard, or the motility of your digestive tract is such as to cause the pill to go through too rapidly. Switching to another preparation, one in a gelatin capsule, for example, or a liquid, should solve the problem.
 Dear Dr. Molner: During the menstrual period it is common to pass large clots? I am in my 20's and am worried sick, as I have always been extremely healthy. However, our family has been under quite a nervous strain lately.—L. M.
 Clots are not unusual, particularly in the first day or so, so you might benefit doubly, if you are so worried, by seeing a gynecologist. It would put your mind at ease—and could have a secondary effect, since nervous tension can alter one's cycle.

Around The Rim
 The Future: Farming And Living At Sea

Antics of adults waiting out a drought become almost comical. People will do almost anything, including an old-fashioned rain dance, for those precious droplets of water which will pay off a bank note or assure a new car or new furniture next year.

THEY HAVE GOOD reason to be dismayed by the lack of rain, but what is even more saddening is that some of them are thinking ahead only to next year with today's comforts in mind. They think in terms of today and tomorrow and few have any conception of the even greater importance which water, or the lack of it, will play a half-century from now. The signposts are there, but few take the time to read them. The urban dweller doesn't think about it at all.

THE ROAD of the future leads only in one direction—to the sea. As more of the earth's productive surface becomes covered with housing, as soil is leached of its growing capacity by wasteful and selfish agricultural practices, as bodies of inland water are polluted through carelessness, men will have to turn to the only large source of reasonably clean water available.

Coastal cities are already beginning to extract drinking water from the seas, even though it is an expensive source at present. Most still look upstream of a river for their main source of water, but within the foreseeable future that supply will have to be cut off completely for inland use. Inland cities are now straining for an adequate supply of water fit for human consumption. The problem will only be enhanced with doubled and tripled population. The day will come when gigantic purification plants will supply the coast and all areas which can be economically served inland, at costs undreamed of today.

FOOD SUPPLIES can now be provided at reasonable cost, but each year thousands of acres must be sacrificed to grazing and even then they are marginal and provide a marginal quality of meat. An acre of water will produce many times the pounds of meat that one acre of land will produce. The sea has an almost unending and self-perpetuating meat supply. Men will be forced to turn their ingenuity to methods of harvesting that supply of food. In that event, taste standards may drop as hunger rises. Fishheads and rice for dinner will not be a joke.

IN OTHER respects also the seas are superior to land for production, although the produce may not be as palatable. As a growing medium water can support several times as much as an equivalent amount of land and the seas are not limited to a thin stratum of a few inches to produce food. We will be farming out of boats sooner than we realize. A ready supply of food and water has always attracted settlement of people. As nations become more dependent on the seas, it is only logical that the sea will become home for many people. The earth's land area of 58,331,000 acres already has a population density of more than 50 persons per square mile. When men run out of elbow room, at first the more venturesome and then permanent settlers will head for the sea and its 136,812,000 square miles of 'roominess.'

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE
Dear Folks:
Tired of trimming grass around the sidewalks and driveway? I was too, until...
I learned that I didn't have to. There is nothing more backbreaking than trimming, but the worst part of it is that it has to be done week after week. It's an endless job.

I have found that any weed killer will eliminate this trim job if used correctly. This may be bought at garden shops, etc. It comes in powder form (and can be mixed with water) or it comes in liquid form. (Read Joe Blow's directions on the box and follow them. Read caution directions, too. Some are very poisonous.)

This type of product kills vegetation for about a year and prevents vegetation of all kinds. So, it dawned on me, "Why not mix it up and pour it around the concrete next to my sidewalks and driveway?" I did. Here's how:

I put the solution in a small water can with a tiny pouring spout. I then poured the solution in a thin small stream around the walks, driveway and the flower beds (which were outlined in rocks) being very careful to put it close to the concrete. It was especially good near the curved beds next to concrete and bricks. That old lawnmower just would not get close enough.

Now, here's what's going to happen:
In a few days, the grass where you poured the stuff will turn yellow. (The solution has soaked to the roots and it is doing a good killing job.) Don't touch it. Leave it at least a week. Don't water it either.

This will leave you with a dead trough along your beds. As the grass grows weekly, it will hide the part where the grass died. It never shows as the lawn grows an inch or so taller and it will give the appearance of being trimmed by a professional.

Your lawnmower wheels will fall into this "dead" area and it's a snap to mow the lawn. Also eliminates complaints from your better half (according to who is doing the lawn!).
CAUTION: Do not let any of this solution spill on anything that you want to grow. Nothing will grow where this has been spilled. Cut your grass before you use this, or any similar method, because if any of the weed killer hits a blade of grass, the killer will sink to the roots. Therefore, if the grass is cut first, you can see exactly where you want to pour the stuff and you can get a better and more perfect edge.

Don't use too much. Far better to mix up another batch the following weekend and pour another stream than to have a bald spot for a year.

This stuff is also good to pour in cracks in concrete where those little misplaced blades of grass and weeds grow. It doesn't cost much either.

Now take that extra hour you will have saved each week and enjoy yourself when you see your neighbor all bent over, edging his lawn.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
Dear Heloise:
My toddler learned to climb out of his crib, and every morning would quietly go about the house tearing it apart. A neighbor jokingly suggested that we harness him to the crib. We did just that!

We linked the two retaining straps together and looped it around the crib bar and hooked it to one side of the harness.

This way he can easily roll over, sit up, and even stand up. He does not mind at all and I think this idea has spared me a nervous breakdown. S.M.N.

Dear Heloise:
For those of you who always have leftover meat loaf... do not bake it all after mixing. Mold part of the meat loaf in a toy-size loaf pan (enough for one individual serving), remove from the pan after it is frozen solid and store in a pint-size plastic bag. To serve bake on a sheet of foil in a moderate oven about one hour. They are wonderful (when you have accumulated enough loaves) for last-minute guests or for a daytime lunch when you are really hungry yourself.

My little one used to upset the wastebasket that I kept near my sewing machine. Now I take a small paper sack (or bag) and tape it on the sewing machine table. It catches all of the basting thread and scraps of material. It is easier to hit, too! I do not have to aim for the basket anymore! L. Celsie Popken

REV. DENDRINOS

Visiting Pastor Speaks Sunday

Peter Dendrinos, who spent most of his life in Cairo, Egypt and served as a pastor there, will speak at both services of the South Side Church of God, 1000 Runnels, on Sunday.

He will be in the pulpit at all the a.m. and 7 p.m. worship services, said the Rev. John Kolar, pastor.

Rev. Dendrinos is the father of Mrs. Clyde Brown, and he and Mrs. Dendrinos are midway in a fortnight's visit.

For several years now, he has been doing evangelistic work, principally among Greek congregations in the New York area. However, his ministry is considerably broader than that for he speaks French and English as well as some Italian and Arabic.

In Cairo, he served many years as pastor of the Greek Church of God.

Methodist Lay Meet Next Week

Methodist men in the Big Spring district are gearing for a large turnout here Wednesday to hear one of the outstanding missionaries of this generation, Dr. E. Stanley Jones.

An hour earlier he will be guest of honor, but will make no formal address, at a dinner for Methodist laymen in Fellowship Hall. OUR GOD IS EVER PRESENT

That God will bless us no matter what our sin, comprises the International Sunday School lesson for Sunday, Aug. 25.

Using Gen. 28:10-22 as an example, the lesson points to the case of Jacob when he was fleeing from his brother Esau, whom he had cheated. Even in this time, God stood by Jacob.

The Golden text is - Gen. 28:15 when God tells Jacob that he will be with him no matter where he goes. The example is aptly made, as Jacob was a tricky character and hopeful of making a bargain with God, who nevertheless recognized his feeble strivings forward and rewarded him.

The church was stabilized with apostolic doctrine nearly 2,000 years ago; the stream of Christian literature, giving us the 27 books of the New Testament have never been perverted nor changed from their original purpose and meaning; they contain all that is necessary for doctrine, reproof, correction and instruction which is in righteousness that the man of God may be complete, thoroughly furnished unto every good work.— II Tim. 3:16-17. If men today diligently follow the New Testament the church of today will be cast in exactly the same mold of the first century and the concord and harmony will be perfect between then and now; this is as God wants it. You cannot have an apostolic church without apostolic doctrine! Drop that so-called chain of church succession and so-called apostolic succession; get back to the Bible, back to the word "The seed of the kingdom is the word of God"—Lk. 8:11. "The words that I speak unto you they are spirit and they are life"—Jn. 6:63. "Preach the word"—II Tim. 4:2. Mankind is guilty before God of ignoring what the New Testament says about many things. What God teaches about the church is being this moment judged by the law of man's conceit! Must God come to you or me or to us to learn wisdom? "Oh, the horrid arrogance of senseless dust." Christ and his word are final. Elbert R. Garretson, Minister

Anti-Religious Forces May Bolster Church, Says Scholar

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, Associated Press Religion Writer

Thanks be to God, the Christian scholar said, for the blessings bestowed on the faith by those two atheists, Karl Marx and Sigmund Freud.

It may sound strange for the world's two most noted disbelievers to be cited as sources of value to religion.

Yet among many theologians and philosophers, the thesis often is expressed.

They maintain that Marx, founder of communism, and Freud, founder of psychoanalysis, have contributed stimuli and insights to Judeo-Christianity that were neglected.

A long-standing church concept holds that God frequently may work through antireligious forces and individuals to correct, lead and strengthen the church.

It was at the Anglican World Congress in Toronto, Canada, this month that a British churchman, Canon Max Warren, stressed that divine guidance may come from outside the Christian fold—from other religions, science, and even atheists.

SOCIAL CONCERNS

Christian concern for social righteousness "owes not a little, under God, to the stimulus of Karl Marx," he said.

He said the church also owes thanks to God "for His grace to bring in Sigmund Freud, in bringing the light of psychiatry to bear on the healing of men's spirits—their personalities.

Both Marx and Freud spurred religion as wishful thinking. Marx saw it as a kind of mass transplant to obscure the exploitation of common people.

Freud considered it a kind of ob-

Church To Launch Stewardship Drive

The First Baptist Church begins a stewardship campaign and every member canvass this week.

L. D. Williams, Dallas, is to open an office in the third annex Monday and will begin immediately coordinating preparations for the actual contact phase. Some 50 members already have accepted parts in the effort to visit every family in the congregation.

In addition, pledges will be sought for the church and for its building fund. The church has a 13-acre site on the Marcy Drive, and plans for a new plant are almost complete.

New Church Home May Be Occupied

Prospects are that the Stadium Baptist Church will be able to occupy its new home in the College Parks Estate area by Sept. 1.

The Rev. J. William Arnett, pastor, said that plans for not only occupying the building but also for dedication services might be talked at the business session of the congregation Wednesday.

Pews for the church are being assembled and installed. The church has been meeting in a space in the College Parks Estate Shopping Center for the past six months pending construction of a new home. All but $8,500 of bonds issued for the project have been sold.

Paving Due Soon For Wesley Church

Paving is to be installed on E. 12th Street, and this is a cause of rejoicing by the Wesley Methodist Congregation. Currently the work is stalled while utilities are rearranged, but when complete the work will cut down on dust and mud which have presented a real problem for the church, especially since its new sanctuary was constructed.

Two Missionaries Begin Tour Of Duty In Local Area

Missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints are new to the Big Spring area, are Elder Bruce P. OrNSTEAD and Elder Don C. Williams.

terrey, Park, Calif., has been in the mission field for nine months, serving here for the past month. Arriving Thursday, Elder Williams is from El Monte, Calif. He has been a missionary for six months.

Pleased with reports of the local church's growth, Elder OrNSTEAD said that they want to contact as many people as they can.

The local branch of the church is located on Wason Drive. Sunday school is at 10 a.m. Sunday morning with preaching services at 6 p.m. The priesthood meeting is at 8 a.m. Sunday morning.

Revival Extended For Second Week

Berea Baptist Church, on the old San Angelo highway, is continuing its revival meeting another week, the Rev. Darrell Robinson, pastor, announced today.

The meeting began last Sunday and has had good response, including nine additions. It is being held at an open-air meeting and has had about 175 attending the services at 8 p.m. These are preceded by prayer meetings at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Robinson is serving as evangelist and Kenneth Address, West Side Baptist minister, as song leader.

Board To Consider Petition For Bond, Tax Ratification

Three items of business are slated for consideration at a special meeting of school trustees set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the administration building, 100 E. 10th. The special session was called by Harold Talbot, president of the board for the Big Spring Independent School District.

Of primary importance will be consideration of a petition for an election to vote a tax rate for the combined Big Spring-Gay Hill-Center Point School district. The petition calls for a rate not to exceed $1.50 on each $100 valuation, for maintenance of the schools. It is the same as was in effect in each of the districts before annexation of Gay Hill and Center Point into the Big Spring district.

Trustees will be asked to set a date for the election, establish polling places, select judges and complete other election details. Trustees also will consider appointment of a new board member to fill the unexpired term of John Johnson, who resigned at the Aug. 13 meeting. Another business item on the agenda is establishment of a tax rate for the Gay Hill and Center Point areas, whose rates were given tentative approval by the county school board earlier before incorporation of the areas into the local district.

Hot Weather Film Special

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD — The new movies — hot weather hint: See "The Haunting" for sustained chills.

"The Haunting" harks back to a host of other movies about bewitched houses. But it is slickly directed by Robert Wise for the utmost thrills. The plot is simplicity itself: A scientist (Richard Johnson) enlists some researchers to live in what is claimed to be a bona fide haunted house. His helpers are a troubled girl (Julie Harris) experienced with poltergeists (noisy ghosts) and another (Claire Bloom) who is expert in extrasensory perception. Also on hand is a scoffer (Russ Tamblyn) who will inherit the house and wants to watch his investment.

They settle down for the night and the strangest things start happening. Muffled cries. Turning doorknobs. Cold blasts of air. Doors that bend like rubber. The action and the ending are valid—if you believe in ghosts.

Does a movie have the right to bore its audience? Some film-festival juries, European directors and highbrow critics seem to think so.

Don't Ask For Water With Meals Or Insist On Coffee

Don't ask for a glass of water with your meals if you are traveling in Europe, and don't expect to have your coffee served with the food. H. W. Smith, member of the Big Spring Kiwanis Club, warned his fellow club members Thursday of these situations. He was speaking of a prolonged tour he and Mrs. Smith made of Europe last spring. "They won't serve you water with your meals and you're just wasting your time asking for it," he said. "You may be a country boy like myself and prefer to drink your coffee when you eat. They'll promise to bring it but they won't. After you've eaten, they fetch the coffee — then you are so sorry you ordered it." He said that European officials

DEAR ABBY It's Real Motherhood

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the letter from "MOTHER OF FIVE" who took you to task for calling a woman with a prefabricated family a "mother in the highest form": She asks, "What does a woman who has adopted four children know about the joy of first learning that she is to bear a child? What does she know about the beauty of carrying a child under her heart? What does she know about the thrill of hearing a child's first cry?" I would like to answer her, Abby: I have known the joy of first learning that I was to bear child five times, only to lose them all near the end of my time. I even had the thrill once of hearing my child's first cry, only to be told three hours later that I had lost her, too. But I did experience the fulfillment of motherhood because, thanks to an adoption agency, we were "blessed" with three healthy, beautiful, well-mannered, well-adjusted and loving children. We could not love them more if they had been born to us. PLEASE CALL ME "MOTHER" DEAR "MOTHER": To the adoption agency goes the credit for "blessing" you with healthy, beautiful children. But they became well-adjusted, well-mannered and loving because of you. DEAR ABBY: I am a boy who is going to be 15 soon. I have a boy friend my age. One day I went over to his house when he was home alone. He told me to walk in, so of course, I did. He shocked me. He was all dressed up in his MOTHER'S clothes! He said "Take a look at me." Then he said it was "fun", and I should get dressed up in ladies' clothes, too. I said, "Drop dead if that's all you have to do in your spare time. I will see you later." I walked out of the house. I am wondering now—is he sick? What should I do about it? I'm sure his parents don't know. I am all shook up over it.

SHOOK UP DEAR SHOOK: Tell your parents—but no one else. The boy apparently is "sick."

DEAR ABBY: That "Dr. K." who said that there were only two cases on record where women over 46 have given birth to babies has a lot to learn. I was the last of nine children, and my mother was 50 when she gave birth to me. And I'm sure I didn't make medical history. Enclosed is a recent clipping reporting that a 70-year-old woman has given birth to a baby in Eastern Nigeria. Sincerely Yours, M. S. in CHICAGO

Fair Conditions Reported Through Most Of Nation

By The Associated Press The nation's weather pattern showed only minor changes today, with generally fair conditions in most areas. There were showers and thunderstorms in scattered sections of the country but no severe storms were reported. Showers dampened parts of the Pacific Northwest. Showers or thunderstorms hit areas along the Atlantic Coast and from the Rockies into the Plains. Light rain sprinkled areas in Upper Michigan. Earlier thunderstorms rumbled across sections of the Southeast with fairly heavy rain in some sections of the Carolinas and Florida. Fairly mild weather prevailed in the major part of the nation. Temperatures were generally in the 60s in the South. Southerly winds from the Gulf fanned warm air northward to southern sections of the Great Lakes and New England, keeping temperatures in the 70s. The cool spots, with readings in the 50s, were reported in the Rockies, northern New England and along the Pacific Coast.

BUT MEN ARE LESS TALKATIVE

Drilling Moves At Steady Pace For Trapped Miners

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Drilling of the new escape hole for the three trapped miners moved at a steady pace today, but the two of them in communication with the surface were considerably less talkative than usual.

The voices of Henry Throne, 28, and David Fellin, 58, seemed as strong as usual, but they seemed to be pre-occupied with their own thoughts as the 12-inch drill headed for their 14 1/2-foot chamber, 331 feet underground.

Two previous escape hole tries have failed, the latest one Thursday.

If all goes well, the 12-inch drill will break through around noon today. The next step would be to enlarge the hole to 17 inches. This probably will take another 30 hours.

A second drilling rig, much smaller than the 10-story-high one boring the escape hole, is drilling a four-inch-hole toward the area where Louis Bova, 48, is believed trapped.

Bova was separated from the others by about 25 feet of debris after a cave-in 10 days ago — about 9 a.m. Aug. 13.

A six-inch lifeline hole reached Throne and Fellin last Sunday, but Bova has had no food since the cave-in except what he might have had with him.

Throne and Fellin sleep fitfully at random times.

Two mechanical breakdowns delayed the escape hole drilling for a total of 3 1/2 hours before dawn today.

Experts on the drilling rigs expect difficulties as a matter of routine in going through hard rock. They have a complete duplicate set of parts on hand at all times.

Optimism prevailed for Throne and Fellin. Bova's fate was uncertain. There have been no reports about him since Tuesday night, when Throne and Fellin said they heard brief shouts and tapping. A Navy survival expert at the scene said Bova's survival chances appeared slim.

On the third front, specialists with radioactive material rushed in from all over the nation, stood ready to make further probes to determine how close a previous 12-inch hole came to Fellin and Throne.

Initial efforts with a Geiger counter Thursday failed to disclose the distance.

Lt. Richard Anderson, of the Naval Medical Research Institute in Bethesda, Md., a physician well-versed in survival techniques, gave advice to Fellin and Throne early today.

He said, "As long as there's food, water and hope, they're going to get along fairly well."

Anderson said the fact that Bova has been trapped without food or water for 10 days doesn't mean

Mrs. Bova Visits Rescue Site

Mrs. Louis Bova (center) wife of injured miner trapped in coal mine near Hazleton, Pa., since Aug. 13 is assisted by an unidentified relative as she walks from communications tent at mine rescue site. Accompanying Mrs. Bova is Rev. Edmond Roman, Louis Bova's pastor.

the communications to the men, asked Fellin: "Do you have a cold?"

Fellin replied: "I don't know. I put on a heating pad, though."

Charmbury said he was "not too optimistic" about the tests with the radioactive probe, but further tests were scheduled to augment the rescue operation, in which all stops are being pulled out.

The third 12-inch hole was begun about 6 p.m., Thursday night, but it was halted less than two hours later when the Geiger counter was lowered into the original six-inch lifeline to Fellin and Throne. At the same time a piece of radioactive cobalt was raised and lowered into the second 12-inch hole which missed the trapped men.

After an hour and a half nothing much more than background radiation was received on the Geiger counter, surface workers indicated, and the probe was abandoned. Drilling resumed immediately.

Already, unsuccessful efforts on the two previous 12-inch holes—the first of which had to be abandoned because it was too close to the men and caused secondary rock falls—resulted in the loss of more than 40 hours. The second 12-inch hole apparently missed the men by a few feet. They are in an underground pocket, about 14 feet long and 9 feet wide.

Plans for the final rescue effort called for drilling a 12-inch hole and then reaming it to 17 inches and, if necessary, depending on the condition of the men and other factors, to 24.

Rock and earth between the 12-inch shaft that went astray and the pocket where the men are located was apparently too dense or the radioactive cobalt too light for a sufficiently strong reading.

Fellin's voice could be heard clearly by some 200 persons gathered behind restraining ropes 100 feet from the rescue area as he methodically read off figures from the Geiger counter.

Authorities asked, when they lowered the Geiger counter, if either of the men knew how to use one.

"I used one in the Army," said Throne.

"Then you teach Davy (Fellin)," said Gordon Smith, deputy secretary of mines.

Fellin and Throne continued to hold their spirits high with a stream of humor to rescuers above, boosting their morale.

Bova has not been heard from at all by rescuers at the surface. Fellin reported he heard him Tuesday night and that he was in a weakened condition. Some mine experts in the rescue party, however, questioned Fellin's report.

Bova's Father Frequently Cries, Refuses To Eat

SHENANDOAH, Pa. (AP) — Joseph Bova is in his late 70s. He cries frequently and he does not want to eat.

His son, Louis Bova, 42, is one of the three miners who have been trapped 331 feet underground since Aug. 13. Louis Bova is separated from the other two, who have a six-inch lifeline through which food and supplies are lowered to them. Bova has been without food for 10 days. His fate is uncertain.

Joseph Bova, a native of Italy, lives here with a son, Joseph, and daughter-in-law, Marie. He went through a similar nightmare in 1928 when a third son, Peter, was trapped in a mine for seven days. Peter was rescued.

Marie often drives Joseph Bova to the site of the rescue operation.

"He feels very bad about his son," she said. "He doesn't want to eat or do anything because he said his son isn't eating and he doesn't feel like eating."

"He's very sick over the fact they haven't reached his son yet. He's crying in the day and he is very concerned and he asks questions."

"But we all have a lot of hope and we're sure if it's God's will he's going to be alive. He's (the father) just sitting and praying that his son's alive."

"He's very quiet. He just sits thinking of the three poor guys down there. We don't only think of his son. He's (the father) worked in the mines, too, and he knows what it's like. He retired 20 years ago."

"We were there Wednesday night because we had great hopes of them breaking through. We were over and looked at the drills."

Marie said the father was not told until Thursday night that a 12-inch hole to two of the miners missed its target.

Study Of Course OK'd In Lamesa

LAMESA (SC) — Lamesa City Council has approved a study of costs, maintenance and other related details for a municipal golf course here.

Petitions bearing 224 signatures were presented to solons here this week as a "show of support" for the proposed links.

Three spokesmen for the petitioners, Bill Kidd, Gene Heald and Walter Smith Jr., were named to a special committee to work with the city park board and city manager on the project.

The panel was instructed to visit neighboring West Texas municipally-owned courses to get information and cost data.

It was also suggested that the committee check with the privately-owned Lamesa Country Club to see if it would be willing to enlarge its facilities to an 18-hole course and open it to the general public.

Cards Salvage Last Game In LA Series

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals, almost left high and dry by Curt Flood, took off for Houston today after salvaging the finale of a three-game set with National League leading Los Angeles and temporarily at least, throwing the Dodgers' runaway chances overboard.

Despite a base-running boner by the sure-footed Flood, the Cardinals kept the Dodgers from building their lead to a whopping 8 1/2 games by edging the front-runners 3-2 Thursday night in a game punctuated by missed opportunities.

Flood, racing around third on Bill White's hit, with the score tied 2-2 in the fifth, missed the bag and had to retreat. By the time Flood, who had four hits for the night, retraced his steps, it was too late to try and score.

As it turned out, the Cardinals snapped the tie in the sixth on a double by Ken Boyer and Julian Javier's single, ending the Dodgers' winning streak at seven games and trimming their lead to 6 1/2 games.

The Cardinals, who came into Los Angeles only 5 1/2 games back and riding a three-game winning streak, now will be looking to make up ground against the Colts while the Dodgers tackle the suddenly potent Milwaukee Braves.

The Braves, who have moved into sixth place by winning eight of their last 10, lost to third-place San Francisco 4-6 as Juan Marichal posted his 19th victory despite a grand slam homer by Milwaukee's Joe Torre. The Giants are 7 1/2 back.

Take A Deep Breath

Prospective candidates for Coach Don Robbins' 1963 version of the Big Spring Steers football team came together for the first time Thursday in the dressing room as a doctor was on hand to give physicals. Howard Bala, a junior linebacker, didn't seem the least uneasy as the doctor listened to his heart. Coach Herman Smith wrote down the results.

ON GRID FIELDS

Grounds Keepers Busy At Schools

With the opening of football season only days away, Big Spring's practice and playing fields are being whipped into shape by a dedicated crew of grounds keepers guided by Pat Murphy, assistant superintendent.

The three main areas that will be used this fall are the practice field directly behind the high school, the old stadium northeast of the school and the new stadium on the Howard County Junior College grounds.

The new stadium is in good shape, according to Murphy and head football coach Don Robbins. "We've used a couple tons of fertilizer on the field this year and the water bill has been $300-$350 a month," Murphy said Thursday.

A new addition has been made to the stadium—a cyclone fence has been installed on the north end three feet from the cinder track still in the area enclosed by the stadium fence.

"We have had trouble in the past with people coming in on the wrong side of the field and then having to go completely out of the stadium to get on the other side,"

Upstarts Still In Contention At Brookline

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Uninvited but not at all embarrassed to be party-crasher, Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., and Allen Fox, of Los Angeles, are the only unseeded, team remaining in the men's quarter-finals of the National Doubles Tennis Championships.

They go hunting for the fourth-seeded team, British Davis Cupper Bobby Wilson and Roger Taylor in one of today's matches at the Longwood Cricket Club that will shrink the field to four.

Fox, a graduate student at UCLA, and McManus, captain of the University of California varsity, are old friends and tennis court enemies, but never had paired before this week.

"I've been to Longwood four times—with four different partners," said Fox. "I entered this time without a partner and they put me with McManus, who was alone, too. Good break for me."

McManus, an exceptional doubles player, was a quarter-finalist last year with Bill Hoggis, with whom he ranks second nationally.

Co-favorites Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox of Mexico and U.S. Davis Cupper Chuck McKinley of San Antonio and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., will have to apply themselves for the first time this week.

The Mexican Wimbledon titleholders and winners over McKinley and Ralston in last year's title match, play Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., and Larry Nagler of Hollywood, Calif. Ashe and Nagler are seeded fifth.

Sixth-seeded Don Dell of Bethesda, Md., and Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., will try to oust second-seeded McKinley and Ralston.

Had, Alworth Kayo Oilers

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The combination of John Hadl and Lance Alworth that was disrupted in the latter's rookie year with San Diego because of injuries bloomed anew as these two teamed up Thursday night to whip the Houston Oilers 21-3.

Hadl passed 15 yards to Alworth, the former Arkansas speedster, for a touchdown in the first period and then flipped one 60 yards to him to set up a second touchdown in the third period.

And Alworth would have gone all the way had he not run into the injury bugaboo again. He pulled a leg muscle while in the clear and was overhauled at the Oiler 20.

Hadl also passed 42 yards to Bob Jackson for a fourth-quarter touchdown and for the night completed 14 of 28 throws for 200 yards. It was a little irritating to 23,353 Houston fans who turned out for the American football League exhibition.

Hadl passed Rice dizzy in the Bluebonnet Bowl in 1961 when he had 500 yards and five touchdowns.

Pan Am College Loses Two Boys

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP)—Pan American College, the NAIA basketball champion, lost a couple of players today.

Jim Harters, stand 6 feet-9 and slated for center, will undergo an operation for a tumor of the tongue and throat. A freshman prospect from Donna, Paul Chambers, will study for the ministry at LeTourneau College in Longview.

Mosely Is Named QBC President

COAHOMA — Paul Mosely was chosen president of the Coahoma Quarterback Club when it held a meeting Tuesday in the high school auditorium.

Other officers for the coming year chosen by the 16 members present were: Donald Webb, first vice president; Jack Williams, second vice president; Bill Read, secretary; and Johnny Justice, treasurer.

Movies of the Bulldogs games this fall will be filmed with a camera, which the Quarterback Club will purchase.

Clubs are invited to the next meeting Sept. 3.

Night Time Activity In Golf Expanding

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

SEWELL, N.J. (AP)—Okay, so nighttime golf is here. Now what? "We won't play the National Open under arca any time soon," said P. J. Boatright, assistant executive director of the U.S. Golf Association. "It's interesting and it's fun, but you can't expect it to take the place of daytime play."

"Night golf should lend itself particularly to the overcrowded public courses." "It has its problems," added Fred Corcoran, tournament director of the International Golf Association. "I remember I predicted back in 1939 that golf courses one day would be lighted, but it'll be a few years before this becomes a general fact."

Boatright and Corcoran were two of the many golf personalities invited to Tall Pines here this weekend to see a bit of golf history made—lighting of the first regulation course.

At a cost of $63,000 121 powerful mercury floodlights of 1,000 watts each have been mounted on 76 40-foot wood poles around the nine-hole course, pouring out light equal to the flame of six million candles.

Although driving ranges, miniature layouts and some 200 sporty par-three courses are illuminated for night play, this is the first man-sized course to beat the darkness barrier. Tall Pines, a private club, has holes comparable to those the pros play on tour, with 28 deep sand traps, 1,000 added trees and out-of-bounds on five holes.

QUARTERBACK HURT Bearcats Suffer A Heavy Blow

GARDEN CITY—Earl Plagens, outstanding sophomore quarterback for the Garden City Bearcats, will be out of action for a period of six to eight weeks, coach Jack Woodley has revealed.

Plagens, a 5-foot-10, 145-pound freshman letterman, lost part of one of his fingers between the first and second joints when he attempted to get his brother loose from a combine. His brother, who was caught in the machine, had one arm mangled badly before he was able to get free.

Two Are Tied For Top Spot

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP)—A rivalry that began nearly a decade ago between a pair of teen-agers in Washington State resumes today in the semifinals of the 63rd Women's National Amateur Golf Championship.

Machinery May Be Set In Motion For Affiliation With State Organization

Machinery may be set in motion for affiliation with the state organization when officials of the Sophomore Teen - Age Baseball League meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the Police building.

The circuit functioned the past season as an independent unit although the Junior Teen-Age league qualified for the playoffs and won the State championship.

Plans for the 1964 season will be discussed at length tonight. For that reason, all persons interested in the welfare of the circuit are being urged to be in attendance.

The league operated with four teams this year and the showing was regarded as a success, although the Junior Teen-Age circuit had to help with finances.

The league season ran six weeks. The Angels, sponsored by the Saunders Company and managed by D. R. Gartman, emerged as champions.

Golf Barbecue Set Saturday

Members of the Big Spring Golf association and their families are eligible to attend a free barbecue at the amphitheatre at the City Park Saturday.

Serving hours will be from 6 to 8 p.m.

New officers of the organization will be formally seated at 7 p.m. They are Novis Womack, president; Dan Bustamante, vice president; and Lefty Don Reynolds, secretary-treasurer.

The outgoing officers are Paul Mosley, president; Buck Buchanan, vice president; and Eddie Acri, secretary-treasurer.

Rex Bishop was in charge of preparing the barbecue while Bobby Rutherford arranged for the drinks.

A speaker is being lined up for the event. The association now has in excess of 150 members.

331st Planning Football Team

The 331st Squadron at Webb AFB will add to its athletic program in the fall when it branches into eight-man tackle football.

The locals, with a 24 man team decked out in black and gold uniforms, will join the 29th Air Defense Command league, which was dominated in 1962 by the Sweetwater Hawks.

Practices from 7-8 p.m. on week-days and 9-11 Saturdays are being supervised by head coach M. Sgt. Jack Poole. His assistants are Sgt. Arthur Andrews, Lt. Hoppy Hopkins, and Sgt. Jim Syfert.

Contest On Air

Play-by-play action of the pro football exhibition between the Dallas Cowboys and the Los Angeles Rams, scheduled to start at 9:30 p.m. Saturday in Portland, Oregon, will be carried over radio station KBYG Big Spring 1400.

Going Bald?

Several of the nocturnal enthusiasts thought an iridescent ball—one painted yellow as used in the early days of big league baseball under lights—might be an answer. Somebody suggested jestingly, a miner's cap with a strong light focused on the lie of the ball as added equipment.

A few players lost balls in the rough. One marked his ball on the green with a dime, then couldn't find the dime.

"What frightens me," said another of the pioneers of moonlight play, "is what happens if the fuse blows and all the lights go out. You would need a seeing eye dog to get back to the clubhouse."

Negroes To Play For Arlington

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—Four Negroes will be on the Arlington State football squad when it reports for fall practice in September.

A member of the new Southern Conference, Arlington State had an integrated student body the past school year. The official decision to accept colored athletes, however, was made only recently.

Negro candidates in football will be Johnny Jones from Fort Worth Kirkpatrick, Alvin Johnson and Robert Jones from Grand Prairie, Dalworth and Melvin Witt from Fort Worth Dunbar.

Tulsans Climb To 2nd Place

The fast-changing Texas League race shuffled again Thursday night and Tulsa now is in second place. El Paso third and Austin, in a disheartening slump, is fourth.

San Antonio increased its lead to three games because of Tulsa's rise as the Bullets clouted El Paso 12-9.

Had, Alworth Kayo Oilers

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The combination of John Hadl and Lance Alworth that was disrupted in the latter's rookie year with San Diego because of injuries bloomed anew as these two teamed up Thursday night to whip the Houston Oilers 21-3.

Hadl passed 15 yards to Alworth, the former Arkansas speedster, for a touchdown in the first period and then flipped one 60 yards to him to set up a second touchdown in the third period.

And Alworth would have gone all the way had he not run into the injury bugaboo again. He pulled a leg muscle while in the clear and was overhauled at the Oiler 20.

Hadl also passed 42 yards to Bob Jackson for a fourth-quarter touchdown and for the night completed 14 of 28 throws for 200 yards. It was a little irritating to 23,353 Houston fans who turned out for the American football League exhibition.

Pan Am College Loses Two Boys

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP)—Pan American College, the NAIA basketball champion, lost a couple of players today.

Machinery May Be Set In Motion For Affiliation With State Organization

Machinery may be set in motion for affiliation with the state organization when officials of the Sophomore Teen - Age Baseball League meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the Police building.

Negroes To Play For Arlington

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—Four Negroes will be on the Arlington State football squad when it reports for fall practice in September.

Tulsans Climb To 2nd Place

The fast-changing Texas League race shuffled again Thursday night and Tulsa now is in second place. El Paso third and Austin, in a disheartening slump, is fourth.

Frisco Buildings Getting High Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco builders, probably mindful of the 1906 earthquake disaster, refrained for half a century from erecting tall structures in the city. Now, suddenly, they are reaching for the sky.

The city's building code is strict — but doesn't limit height.

A 43-story Wells Fargo Bank building when completed early in 1966, will tower 561 feet above Montgomery Street in the financial district. Planners say it will be taller than any building west of Texas.

For many years the city's two tallest buildings barely nudged 435 feet. No one is quite sure what's behind the new spurt upward.

Some say it's a vigorous economy and a peninsula-bound city — with no direction to grow but upward.

Alfred Goldberg, assistant superintendent of the city's bureau of building inspection, declares,

Your Stars Today

By Constello

The idol of today pushes the hero of yesterday out of our recollection; and will, in turn, be supplanted by his successor tomorrow.

—Washington Irving

DAILY GUIDE—Some changing image is moving into place now. Enthusiasm can run high this week, optimism obscure good reason, recklessness bring danger. Whatever we go overboard about now can look very different to us soon. At the moment leaders are so busy projecting what they hope will be a popular image to the people they are in danger of building up to a big "bust." Try to deduct from present estimates. Right now everything can be exaggerated. Don't go overboard in the excitement of the moment.

In the next few days it is going to be important to concentrate on real values, to seek reality, to listen to reason. There is a strong accent on pleasure so if vacation and recreations are possible through the weekend, take advantage of opportunities to play, to enjoy activities that are kept under control. This is a high point of the summer. The weather emotionally and literally could reach a high pitch.

An active, high-gear day coming up.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, VIRGO! If you think you have had your share of changes up to date, be assured that you haven't seen anything yet. You are due for a long cycle of changes so don't try to settle down.

This can be the most progressive period of your life if you take advantage of opportunities to express your individuality and inventiveness. Nothing will be quite the same again. This week watch finances, especially use caution in using security funds. Health may be a factor, so take it easy.

Too much excitement will be costly. Conditions in your everyday environment continue to prove troublesome or hard to understand at times, with some development to be expected around October 3.

Mueller May Be A Surprise

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When outspoken D. Brainerd Holmes quit as boss of the U.S. moon program a lot of people predicted his successor would have to be a quiet plugger who would never argue with space boss James E. Webb.

Those people are in for a surprise when Dr. George E. Mueller (pronounced Miller) takes over Holmes' job in Washington Sept. 1.

Compared with Holmes and Webb, ex-professor Mueller is quiet, but there his resemblance to the forecast image ends.

He is a brilliant scientist—not just a plugger—and when convinced he is right, friends say, he'll do more than argue—he will fight until he drops.

Deeply emotional, much more so than his almost ascetic face and figure hint, Mueller once sat at a launch control panel at Cape Canaveral, Fla., for more than 20 hours without rest.

He was 40 then, but he wore younger men to exhaustion fiddling with dials trying futilely to make the third-stage injection rockets of ill-fated Pioneer 1 fire and go into orbit around the moon.

The bird just wasn't responding to radio commands. But Mueller stayed with the task until all hope was lost.

That was five years ago. Mueller is confident the job can be done, and that he can do it. He says his first concern will be the $20-billion to $40-billion moon program, but he is also looking far beyond.

Yugoslavia To Bring Back Golf For Tourists

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — The plan to bring golf to Yugoslavia involves an American diplomat and the Yugoslav desire to make things attractive for tourists.

The Communist government is cautiously exploring the possibility of laying out a course.

Before World War II, when the nation was royalist, members of the royal family, foreign diplomats and other upper crust elements played the game. With the change to communism, Yugoslavia's two golf courses, in Belgrade and in Bled, were turned into general recreation fields.

The impetus for a golf revival came from Robert Cleveland of Washington, counselor for economic affairs at the U.S. embassy here.

An ardent club swinger himself, Cleveland put around the idea that golf could help in Yugoslavia's drive to attract tourists.

The Tito government thought it over, concluded he might be right and called for the survey.

Wanted Freedom, And He Ran For It

KRUENBACH, Germany, (AP) — Freedom was all Conrad Schumann wanted when he leaped from East to West Berlin over freshly strung barbed wire two years ago.

A picture of Schumann leaping the fence in the uniform of an East German border guard was printed on front pages. For many it became a symbol of daring to surmount any obstacle in the quest for a life of one's own choosing.

The photograph of Schumann was snapped by Peter Leibing of Contipress, Hamburg, and distributed by The Associated Press. It won prizes and press awards.

The prize Schumann got was freedom.

Did he get what he wanted? "Yes," he says firmly, "I am free now. I enjoy being out of East Germany and I wouldn't dream of going back unless the Communists go."

Schumann, 21 now and a father, works as a laborer at a bottling plant.

He was one of the first East German wall guards to defect af-

Meteor Flashes Across Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — A brilliant meteor flashed above South Central Texas Thursday night and disappeared in a brilliant flash west of Austin.

An airlines pilot who saw the final flash as he flew 50 miles west of Austin said it "looked as though someone has turned on the floodlights."

The meteor also was seen at College Station and Lufkin.

The meteor appeared to be the largest and most brilliant observed in Texas since the annual perseid meteor shower began Aug. 11. The shower lasts for 25 days and may be seen at night in the northeast quadrant of the sky.

Egg Smugglers Being Sought

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Treasury Ministry says it is intensifying a campaign to halt smuggling of eggs into Mexico.

Officials said that eggs smuggled into Mexico over its northern frontier are damaging Mexico's own egg-raising industry.
