PRICES ADVANCE

Cost Of Living
Increases Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of living rose in July by one half of one per cent to a record high for the second consecutive month, the Labor Department reported today.

With food and gasoline leading the way, prices advanced for most major types of goods and services.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the July consumer price index was 107.1, compared to the 1957-59 base of 100.

$10 ITEMS NOW COST $10.71

This means it cost $10.71 in July to buy the same items that could be bought for $10 in the 1957-59 period.

The July index standing was 1.5 per cent above a year ago, primarily, the bureau said, because of higher prices for food, housing, medical care and tobacco.

The July increase was the biggest since September of last year. Despite this, Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the bureau, characterized the overall situation of the past year as "reasonably stable."

WORKERS GET ALLOWANCE HIKES

As a result of the July cost increase, living allowances based on quarterly reviews were increased by 1 to 3 cents an hour for about 1,025,000 workers, primarily in the automotive, aerospace, and the farm and construction equipment industries. Of these 775,000 will receive a 2-cents an hour increase in the automotive industry.

Increases for 25,000 other workers, largely in the trucking and cartage industry, will range from 1 to 8 cents. Sixteen thousand employees will receive 2.5 to 4.5 cents an hour based on reviews of city indexes.

Railroads Planning To Stop Service Prior To Deadline Unless Congress Passes Legislation

'LET US KNOW'
Notices Lacking, But Rail Personnel Uneasy

Texas and Pacific Railway Co. employees and officials were moving ahead with their regular duties in routine fashion Tuesday despite the nearness of the critical walkout deadline.

There seemed to be a tension, however, and grave concern was manifested by all contacted. "If you hear anything, let us know," they said.

No word of any kind from the railway officials in St. Louis or from the unions had reached the rank and file workers at the railway center here.

If an order to stop accepting freight is to be issued, it has not as yet been sent out. No changes in train schedules have been posted.

Officials here said the only development so far was the posting of the official notice of the work changes slated for midnight Wednesday in the event some agreement does not develop.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said that the post office is watching developments with deep concern.

Some weeks ago, when it appeared the strike would go into effect Boatler was instructed on procedure to be followed relative to handling the mails. These still hold good.

These limited acceptance of second, third and fourth class mail. Only such mail assigned to not more than 150 miles will be handled. First class and airmail will be dealt with as normal as possible. Instructions also provide for laying off unneeded workers should the strike hold on.

Unless Congress Passes Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The railroads, confronted with the possibility of a nationwide strike Thursday, said today that most lines will stop accepting freight before the strike deadline.

Also, a railroad spokesman said, most lines will not schedule passenger trains which would be unable to reach their final destinations before the strike begins.

The railroads have announced that they will put the new job-cutting work rules into effect at midnight Wednesday and the five operating unions have said they will strike when the rules go into effect. It appears doubtful that Congress can enact before that hour legislation to head off a strike.

Senate Spinning Its Wheels

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate appeared today to be spinning its wheels on legislation to avert a nationwide railroad strike Thursday and leaders doubted the emergency measure could be passed in time.

Although there was speculation the railroads would withhold strike-triggering new work rules if Congress appeared to be on the verge of passing legislation, a railroad spokesman said.

NO EXTENSION

J. E. Wolfe, chief negotiator for the carriers, said on Monday they definitely would not grant an extension of their deadline, 12:01 a.m. Thursday.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said "with a little bit of luck, we will finish up today or Wednesday," with rail legislation.

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., who accompanied Mansfield and other Democratic congressional leaders to a weekly breakfast conference with President Kennedy, said the House will act on the rail situation Wednesday if the Senate disposes of the question today.

In response to a question, Mansfield said there is no thought of seeking a further moratorium on rail strike action should Congress fail to pass legislation by the strike deadline.

During the long Senate debate Monday, there were mutterings for less talk and more action.

"When are we going to start voting?" demanded Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H. "We can't settle this thing on hot air."

AGREEMENT

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, floor manager for a bill approved by the Senate Commerce Committee which he heads, said he thought there could be general agreement on a measure tonight, although passage might be delayed beyond the deadline.

To move things, Magnuson, D-Wash., said he would be willing to accept a more limited arbitration bill approved Monday by the House Commerce Committee. The House hopes to vote on this bill Wednesday.

An amendment was offered to bring the Senate bill into line with the House measure, and indications it was picking up support. But the track was far from clear.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., announced that if the Senate leaders intended to rush the bill through "I serve notice they will not succeed."

Request Delay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic and Republican leaders today called on the railroads to delay imposition of new work rules so that Congress can act on legislation to avoid a nationwide strike.

Saras said Throne's blood pressure when he was brought to the surface early today was down a little from normal but considered very good. Fellin's blood pressure was normal.

Saras said he didn't expect Throne to remain in the hospital for much longer than 48 hours. He will be X-rayed and given heart and other psychological tests later today.

Fidulla said he planned to keep Fellin in the hospital for about a week just to make certain everything is all right. He said Fellin came through in fine shape, and that his mind was clear.

Saras said Throne's blood pressure rose slightly after he was transferred to Hazleton Hospital where both men were given a complete physical examination.

Up From The Depths

Henry Throne, his face blackened from two weeks' imprisonment 339 feet underground in a Hazleton, Pa., coal mine, is swung out of an escape shaft drilled to where he and a companion were trapped since Aug. 13. David Fellin, one of the owners of the independent coal mine, also was saved. A third miner is missing. (AP Wirephoto.)

Rescued Miner Concerned About Third Man's Fate

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—David Fellin and Henry Throne, rescued from nearly two weeks entombment in a coal mine, were reported in good condition today but deeply concerned about the fate of the other man trapped with them.

Although Fellin still hadn't begun to catch up on his sleep he worked from his hospital bed with state officials to help map plans for determining what happened to Louis Bova, 42, trapped in a separate chamber in the Aug. 13 cave-in.

Fellin's wife, Anna, said his mood, merry through the rescue in a special safety harness by way of escape shaft, has turned to preoccupation with Bova's fate.

TRY TO HELP

"I've got to try to help my buddy," Fellin said again and again.

Even as Fellin fretted, crews were drilling a 12-inch hole toward Bova's burrow, over 300 feet down, similar to the one by which the other two were saved. Authorities said this hole may be completed by tonight. The boring so far was reported to be to a depth of 135 feet.

Bova has not been heard from since last Tuesday.

He was separated from the others by 25 feet of debris. Four efforts to drill a small lifeline to his chamber, driven down to Fellin and Throne — failed.

The rescue of Fellin and Throne climaxed a drama that captured the world's attention, a drama blending faith, courage, frustration, good humor that flowed constantly from Fellin, 58, and Throne, 28.

Throne started up at 1:50 a.m. and reached the surface at 2:07 a.m., a 17-minute trip he described as "the best ride I ever had." Fellin started at 2:33 a.m. and reached the surface at 2:41. His rescue took 8 minutes and 15 seconds.

Although grimy, both men appeared in good shape when they reached the surface.

H. B. Charnbury, Pennsylvania secretary of mines, reported that drilling of an escape hole to Bova similar to the 18-inch shaft used to free Fellin and Throne, was started at 6:45 a.m. Only a handful of workers were at the scene when the drilling of the 17½-inch hole began.

Charnbury said a new three-inch lifeline drilling toward where Bova is believed to be also would be started shortly.

The men were examined in a first aid tent, then quickly removed by two helicopters to the Hazleton State Hospital nine miles away, where a special ward was prepared for them.

EXCELLENT SHAPE

Throne and Fellin were pronounced in excellent shape by physicians who examined them after their 14-day ordeal.

Dr. Peter Saras, who examined Throne, and Dr. Anthony Fidulla, personal physician to Fellin for the past 10 years, said they were both amazed that the miners survived in cramped quarters in such excellent shape.

Saras said Throne's blood pressure when he was brought to the surface early today was down a little from normal but considered very good. Fellin's blood pressure was normal.

Saras said he didn't expect Throne to remain in the hospital for much longer than 48 hours. He will be X-rayed and given heart and other psychological tests later today.

Fidulla said he planned to keep Fellin in the hospital for about a week just to make certain everything is all right. He said Fellin came through in fine shape, and that his mind was clear.

Saras said Throne's blood pressure rose slightly after he was transferred to Hazleton Hospital where both men were given a complete physical examination.

GOOD SPIRITS

"Throne was absolutely in good spirits," said Saras. "He had no complaints except for a swelling in his right hand which he had bumped on some coal and suffered lacerations."

Fidulla said Fellin told him that "after the first seven days he was confident he could come out safe. He said he prayed."

Fellin was given a hamburger, soup and coffee while Throne had a hamburger with all the trimmings, two bottles of beer and a stogie.

The wives of both men were waiting for them at the hospital.

INTO TUB

At the hospital the men first helped into tubs to wash off the accumulation of grime. Shortly before 4 a.m. Fellin wondered when he could see his wife.

He had another request, too: for a sandwich, soup and coffee.

At 4:08 a.m. just five hours short of two weeks after her husband had disappeared in the mine, Mrs. Fellin was reunited with him. She had been kept waiting almost an hour in the hospital after his arrival.

Calm, Dignity Pledged For Washington March

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders continued to pledge calm and dignity for their massive civil rights march on Washington Wednesday. But apprehension still hung in the air—about transportation, about the uncertainty of numbers, about an unexpected spark of violence.

The railroad unions have set a nationwide strike for midnight Wednesday night if new work rules go into effect then. It is a strike that could leave thousands of weary demonstrators stranded and milling in Washington.

Congress was set today to continue its try at legislation that would prevent the strike.

The uncertainty about numbers was accentuated early today when a spokesman for the march headquarters, Sy Fosner, reported that about 2,000 of the persons around the country who had planned to join in the demonstration were having financial difficulties and would not be able to come to the capital.

Fosner said the Southern Christian Leadership Conference led by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. had sent about $2,000 to its headquarters in Atlanta to help cover the transportation costs of 200 marchers from Albany, Ga., and 100 from Savannah, Ga.

Police, meanwhile, prepared to cope with the massive crowds, but they still were not sure just how many people trains, planes, buses and cars would stream into the city for the march.

But police were sure the crowds would be big. Estimates range from 100,000 to 250,000. With crowds of this size come the potential for trouble.

A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Sleeping Car Porters and the director of the march, told the National Press Club Monday. "We have taken the utmost precaution to see that violence will not occur."

But, he added, "I will not stand here and tell you I know there will be no violence. Human beings are fallible."

Some special trains and buses being rolled toward the capital today, carrying demonstrators from afar. A special freedom train, for example, is scheduled to start on its way no later than 6 p.m. and head through Florida, Georgia and South Carolina, picking up passengers in the South. The train is expected in Washington before 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Most special trains and buses, however, will not start on their way until early Wednesday.

There was more concern in Washington about the departure of demonstrators than about their arrival. Even without the threat of a strike, officials showed concern about the problem of moving so many people out at once. The strike threat has compounded the concern.

Actually no one seemed sure just what the railroads would do in case of a strike. Randolph said he hoped all demonstrators would leave Washington by 7 p.m.—two hours after the demonstration ends. But one rail source said that railroads face with a strike usually don't start a train moving unless they are sure it will reach its destination before the deadline.

About 30 helicopters will arrive from Ft. Bragg, N.C. today to provide rapid airlift for troops if a strike holds on.

Howard County Grand Jury, which had hoped to finish its work by noon today and was still behind locked doors at the noon hour.

It was said that at least one more case had to be investigated by the body and that there was no hope of a report to the court before the middle of the afternoon.

There were also reports that matters which have arisen in the last few hours may also be placed before the grand jurors.

Attendants said that the grand jurors had not begun checking into the murder charge against Ramon Quintana at 11 a.m.

This was one of the nine matters slated for action by the grand jurors.

BIBLE FUND MIGHTY SICK

Although staunch friends kept the campaign alive, the Bible Class fund was getting mighty sick Tuesday.

Generous individuals and Sunday school groups brought in $65.31, but from new on funds will have to come in at three times that rate if the campaign is to attain its goal.

The way things are shaping, nearly 100 high school students who want this credit course will be lucky to get a half a year of instruction. So if you can help, won't you join the many who already have cast their votes with dollars in behalf of this fine program.

Anti-Integrationists Asked To Stay Away From Austin

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. John Connally, saying he fears an incident, asked today that anti-integration forces stay away from Austin Wednesday when civil rights advocates march on the Capitol.

However, the leader of a segregation organization planning to counter march declared it is too late to call off the demonstration.

Grand Prairie grocer Bob Joiner, head of the Indignant White Citizens Council, said that when he arrives in Austin he will take a vote of his group.

"If they say march, we will march," Joiner promised.

Connally appealed to Joiner and his followers to cancel their scheduled 11 a.m. march in downtown Austin Wednesday.

PREFER LETTERS

"I would prefer that those Texans who agree with my position do their demonstrating by writing me at the Capitol," Connally said.

A group called the Indignant White Citizens Council has obtained a parade permit for 11 a.m. Wednesday preceding the scheduled 2 p.m. march to the Capitol grounds sponsored by the predominantly Negro Freedom

Police have said that anywhere from 100 to 10,000 persons might appear.

"Some Texans have indicated that they plan to come to Austin to 'protect the governor' against Booker T. Bonner, 25, the Negro waiter and organizer of the demonstration to support national civil rights legislation. Earlier, he predicted about 4,000 with half from out of town. The two-mile long march from a city park in the predominantly Negro section of Austin to the Capitol is set to begin about 2 p.m. Wednesday."

Bob Joiner, Grand Prairie grocer heading a group called the Indignant White Citizens Council, has predicted he will lead a counter demonstration of about 3,000 marchers Wednesday morning. Joiner received a parade permit from the Austin City Council. The permit specifies that Joiner's group must begin its march before noon.

Lodge-NHU Confer Army Rule Is Relaxing In Troubled Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge conferred for more than two hours today with Ngo Dinh Nhu, the influential younger brother of President Ngo Dinh Diem, on South Viet Nam's political-religious crisis.

They met at the request of Nhu, who heads the secret police.

Whatever the trend of the discussion, there were indications the strict army rule of Saigon was relaxing, even though the people were warned soldiers have orders to shoot into any illegal gathering.

Continued tension was reflected in postponement of a National Assembly election scheduled for Saturday. The official Viet Nam press agency announced in a broadcast dispatch Diem has ordered the election put off until further notice.

Relaxation of martial law was suggested by lifting of the Saigon curfew and according to the Viet Nam press, in some provincial towns.

Barbed wire barricades were removed from the uptown area where Saigon University's faculties of law, medicine and pharmacy are situated. Teachers were notified that schools and universities, closed last weekend, may reopen soon.

Civilian censors supplanted military censors in processing news dispatches relayed abroad.

But there were increased troop concentrations in downtown Saigon.

School starts this week, and your Herald carrier boys, because of class schedules, will be a bit later starting on their routes than they have been during the summer months.

But they will make every effort to be prompt. Please understand that school hours will delay them some, and your paper of necessity will be some later reaching your door.

Shotgun Blast Leaves Man Barely Alive

A shotgun blast aimed directly in the face early today left Isaac Smith, about 27, of 205 NW 7th, in critical condition at Howard County Hospital Foundation.

A second man, who lived in that vicinity, was in city jail facing a probable charge of assault with intent to murder.

Officers said that Smith was struck by the blast from a 12-gauge shotgun at almost point blank range.

Police detectives handling the case, were appearing before the Howard County grand jury today and said they would have very little time to pursue the investigation until after they were through there.

Both a woman witness and the accused man said the shooting occurred in a home on the Northside where the two Negro men and two Negro women were visiting after meeting in a tavern. Both said a 12-gauge shotgun, borrowed from the brother of the witness, was used in the shooting.

The two made statements to detectives last night after a River ambulance took the wounded man to the hospital, and police took the accused man to the station along with the witness. Others in the group will be questioned later as officers continue the investigation.

TRY BIG SPRING

Spending Is High, Fall Season Opens

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A larger than usual pack of problems crowds the final week before Labor Day. The long weekend will start the fall season for many businesses and consumers.

But there is an offsetting bundle of firm statistics and high hopes.

This preholiday week will see another deadline in the long-bubbling feud between the railroads and their operating unions over work rules and employment. Both this and the racial turmoil dramatized this week by the march on Washington hold potential threats to industry and citizens alike, if the issues aren't solved.

This week will see continuing arguments in Congress over the nuclear test ban treaty and the proposed tax on American purchases of foreign securities and the bill to cut individual and corporate income taxes. All affect phases of business planning and operations and go deeply into basic issues and problems ahead.

But in spite of all the strife and uncertainty this summer, consumer confidence apparently still holds high. And so does individual spending and business activity.

More persons plan to buy new houses and cars than did last spring. In July the quarterly survey of consumer buying intentions by the Department of Commerce found 2.1 per cent of the 17,500 families polled saying they plan to buy a new house within the next 12 months, compared with 1.9 per cent of that mind in April.

And 8.4 per cent said they plan to buy a new car within 12 months, compared with 8.1 per cent in April.

But those planning to buy household durable goods slipped to 16 per cent in July from 16.7 per cent in the spring. This summer's percentage topped the year ago figures of 15.3.

The surveys are regarded as a

Mexican Exports Have Increased

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Exports to the United States increased 7 per cent during the first half of this year compared to 1962. Mexico's undersecretary of industry and commerce, Placido Garcia Reynoso said Monday.

He said the results have been mainly due to "determined efforts" by Mexican manufacturers and exporters seeking to improve their foreign markets.

Garcia Reynoso said exports to Central America were 42 per cent ahead of last year and that Latin American Free Trade Association countries increased by 150 per cent their purchases here over those of 1962.

guide to consumer confidence. Plans can change, but they do show how people are feeling about their own and the general economic outlook. For a current guide to consumer confidence the economists watch retail sales and housing starts.

Building has held high, with apartment houses accounting for most of the total increases in recent months.

Retail sales are well above a year ago. And merchants are looking for a rise after Labor Day from back-to-school and other seasonal buying and then the long buildup of holiday goods.

The auto industry is expressing confidence that the new models coming out in the next few weeks will spark a third straight year of good sales.

In one section of the household durables market, the American Home Laundry Manufacturers' Association reports that July factory sales of washers and dryers ran 9 per cent ahead of last year. Sales in the first seven months of 1963 topped the like period of 1962 by 8 per cent.

Both industrial production and personal incomes set records in July.

All of these measures of current activity and consumer and business confidence can be chalked up on the plus side while the nation struggles with this week's quota of disturbing problems.

Further Steps Expected To Be Taken For Schools

LAWRENCEVILLE, Va. (AP) — Further steps toward renewed free education for Prince Edward County's Negro children are expected to be taken tonight by trustees of the private organization which will operate a desegregated school system.

High on the trustees' agenda will be the hiring of a superintendent and teachers for the private schools.

About 1,700 Negroes in Prince Edward have had no formal classroom instruction since 1959, when the county closed public schools to ease desegregation orders of federal courts. While children have attended private segregated schools.

Missing Boa Is Found At Home

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — A missing seven-foot boa constrictor turned out to be a real homebody. The boa, a family pet known as Boots, vanished Aug. 6 from her pen at the Roland B. Tomkins home. Tomkins found her on Monday, comfortably twined around a drain pipe of the home and well camouflaged by ivy, also twined around the pipe.

Neighbors had been uneasy since Boots vanished, despite Tomkins' assurance that she was harmless. They look forward to fall when Tomkins' son, John, says he will take Boots with him to the University of Oregon to be a fraternity mascot.

Board To Ponder Tax Rate Ballot

Taxes for the Big Spring Independent School District will be of prime importance at a special meeting of trustees slated for 7:30 p.m. today in the school administration building, 100 E. 10th.

Trustees will be asked to consider a petition to set a maximum rate of $1.50 on each $100 valuation for maintenance for the entire district, including the recently annexed Gay Hill and Center Point areas. Although all of the areas are currently operating under this maximum, only one has a tax rate of $1.50 for maintenance.

Currently, the rate for the Big Spring Independent School District is $1.70 on 60 per cent of the valuation. Of this amount, $1.44 is allocated to local maintenance and 25 1/2 cents is for the interest and sinking fund. Gay Hill, with a tax rate of $1.40 on 20 per cent of the valuation, is divided into $1.29 for maintenance and 11 cents for interest and sinking fund. Center Point has a tax rate of $1.85 on 20 per cent of the valuation divided into $1.50 for maintenance and 35 cents for interest and sinking fund. The only limits on the interest and sinking fund are determined by the amount of bonded indebtedness, which cannot exceed seven per cent of the total valuation of the district.

The election called for in the petition does not change the rates now in existence in the areas, but is required since the consolidation of the Gay Hill and Center Point areas into the local district.

However, trustees will also be asked to consider the differing tax rates within the district. The local rate was previously adopted by trustees and the rate for the two common school districts was given tentative approval earlier by the county school board before completion of litigation in the annexation.

Also slated for discussion by trustees is appointment of a board member to serve out the unexpired term of Johnny Johnson, who resigned at the Aug. 13 meeting.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Coyotes and wolves cause livestock losses of about 10 per cent in the northern state of Chihuahua, Dr. Del-finio Gonzalez D., a veterinarian, reported Monday. He said in some areas the losses soar to 25 per cent and an intensive control campaign should be launched.

No Decision In Recall Election Being Asked

CRYSTAL CITY (AP) — Lawyer's for this town's all-Latin American city council and an opposition group seeking a municipal election argued their cases Monday but no decision was reached.

Dist. Judge Ross Doughty said he would rule on the matter Wednesday or Thursday.

A citizens' group opposing the council asked the court to order a recall election Oct. 1. This faction petitioned the city council earlier to change the city charter and create a seven-member council. It now has five members. The council refused.

Legal time limits for appeal and absentee voting cast doubt, meanwhile, on prospects for any election before the regular balloting in the spring of 1965. Mayor Juan Cornejo and his council come up for re-election then.

Arthur Gochman of San Antonio, lawyer for the council, said he will appeal the decision if Doughty orders an Oct. 1 election. He would have 30 days to appeal. If the 4th Court of Civil Appeals then affirmed Doughty's decision, there would be another 30-day lapse for absentee voting.

Soccer Star Treated Well

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — International soccer star Alfredo Di Stefano, held for two days by pro-Communist terrorists seeking world attention for their cause, says he was frightened but treated well.

"They cocked their guns every time I moved," Di Stefano said shortly after he was released near the Spanish embassy Monday. But he said he was assured he would not be harmed.

Di Stefano, center forward for Spain's Real Madrid team here for the Little World Cup games, was abducted from his hotel room Saturday by four agents of the Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN), which is trying to overthrow the democratic government of President Romulo Betancourt.

Soccer buffs viewed the kidnapping the same way baseball fans would react to the disappearance of Mickey Mantle with the New York Yankees in a hot pennant race.

The kidnap band was headed by Maximino Canales, an Interior Ministry spokesman said. Canales, a Cuban Communist, engineered the FALN's spectacular hijacking of the Venezuelan freighter Anzoategui in February. This ship was recovered in Brazil.

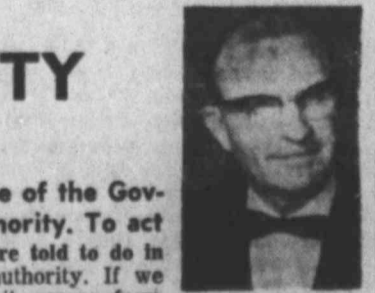

The spokesman said the kidnaping was not just a Venezuelan affair, but an operation of international communism and opponents of the Franco government in Spain.

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' 2 per cent sales tax will bring in $180,116,442 this fiscal year, says state Comptroller Robert S. Calvert.

Authority

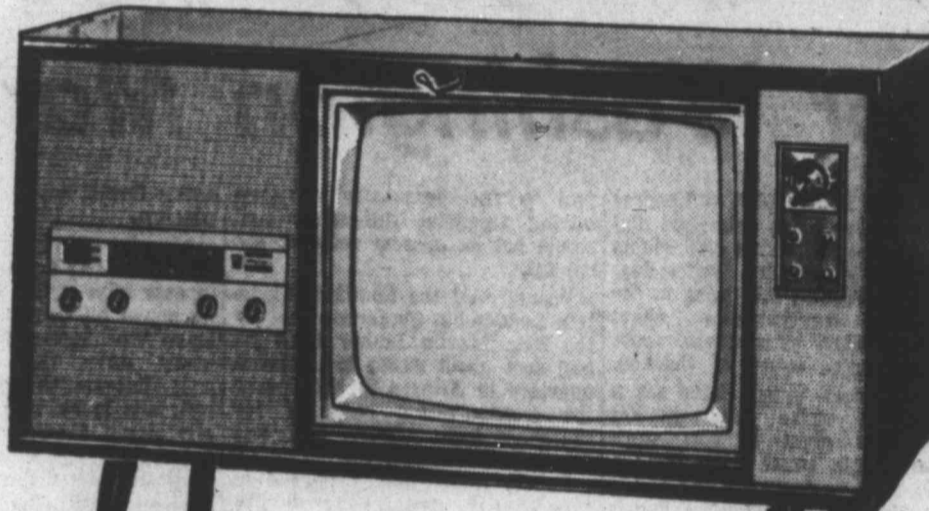

For one to act in the name of the Governor, he must act by his authority. To act in the name of Christ (which we are told to do in Col. 3:17), we must act by His authority. If we have His authority for anything, it comes from His Book, the New Testament. Thus, we must have New Testament authority for all we do in religion. The New Testament tells us to teach; thus we have authority for having Bible classes and using blackboards. For with these things we teach and doing nothing else.

The New Testament tells us to sing (Col. 3:16, etc.). This does not give us authority to have instrumental music; for playing an instrument is something different from singing. While they may be commonly associated, they are two different things. Playing an instrument is not a method of singing. The authority is to sing. We cannot speak "as the oracles of God" (1 Pet. 4:11) and worship with the instrument. It is unauthorized. By T. H. Farber, preacher, Church of Christ, 200 West Highway 80, where you are always welcome. —Adv.

Take Stock Of Winter Coats

NEW YORK (AP) — During high school and college girls begin to learn about big fashion investments, for the choice of a winter coat is entirely theirs, without parental influence.

It's either their own hard-earned money they're spending, or an allowance with frustrating limitations, and they have to play it close to the line.

The learn to take stock of their wardrobes, and then search for outerwear investment with the largest fashion dividends.

Often they double their money with reversibles that are sportive or dressy.

COMMON STOCK
One thing they learn to avoid is common stock. Who wants to look like the girl next door? Whatever its price, a good coat ought to have chic, good lines, and fine construction. In other words it should be strictly blue chip.

Preferred stock among the wise investors this fall are coats that fake out the skins of wildcats, as well as imitation leathers and suedes with not-really-snakeskin trim.

Also seeing plenty of action on the trading board are turncoats. They have quiet, well behaved color that gets along with everything on one side, and on the other a lively plaid guaranteed to cheer up a drab day.

Among the glamor stocks are shaggy, deep-pile coats, in white, bright hues, and pastels, too.

SHREWD INVESTOR
But the very shrewd investors are not overlooking the utilities—coats that are water repellent, easily cleaned, and warm without being tiringly heavy.

Girls research carefully before they buy. Is the hood a permanent fixture? Or does it zip off? Is the collar tall enough to ward off chill winds?

If it is a slim line, is it nevertheless ample enough to top bulky woollens likely to be worn beneath it without being uncomfortable? If it is a cape-style, are the arm slots right are there extra buttons?

ONE NOT ENOUGH
These days a girl finds that one big coat investment is not enough. She needs casual or sportive styles for school and daytime wear, but she requires elegant simplicity for dressy occasions, says the New York Coat and Suit Association.

Still, usually when she discusses the matter with her banker, he (Dad) is so impressed with his daughter's fashion-business acumen he is not the least bearish about floating a loan for the second investment.

All in all, the market experience is invaluable training, excellent background for a girl who is working her way up to mink.

HINTS FROM HELOISE by Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise: Here is a little trick I wonder if you know...

How to put butter on hot cakes and waffles without mashing them!

Have you ever thought of putting a stick of margarine in your freezer? Then remove it, grate quickly into an old fruit jar, and store in freezer.

Next time the lucky day rolls around when you are in the mood to make pancakes or waffles... just remove this jar, take a spoon and scoop out as much of the frozen, grated margarine as you need and sprinkle on top of those waffles and hot cakes! It melts instantly!

The butter is evenly distributed and you don't have to take your knife to spread it, and mash that good hot cake or waffle until it looks like a flat tire!

This grated frozen margarine is also wonderful on baked potatoes. While it's still frozen, sprinkle it with a little ketchup... it adds not only to baked potatoes but the mashed ones! And it's wonderful on top of carrots, peas, etc.

This is also good to use on toast. In fact, it can be used for almost anything.

Reader Heloise

Dear Heloise: When going swimming... tuck your hair into a nylon stocking before putting on your bathing cap. The cap goes on and off with ease and you don't have all the trouble of trying to get your hair tucked into the rubber cap.

Mrs. J. A. Dear Heloise: I just discovered another wonderful use for your nylon net. I use it to strain paint!

After the net catches all of the unwanted particles in the paint jar, just turn the piece of net over on a piece of newspaper and all of the particles will fall off. Same piece of net can be used over and over. I thought even professional painters might like this tip.

Acm. Burke Speaks Against Test Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, former chief of naval operations, recommended today the Senate reject the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

"I believe it may be ratified but if it is we will regret it," the former top naval officer said after three hours of closed-door testimony before the Senate Armed Services subcommittee.

He had newsmen outside that he recommended that the Senate reject the treaty although this had not been included in a 54-page statement made available earlier.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who presided, said "Adm. Burke came out flat-footedly against the treaty."

And Burke confirmed this a moment later.

In his prepared testimony, Burke urged senators to demand some system of verification or limited inspection of Soviet nuclear facilities before ratifying the treaty, to prevent cheating by the Russians.

Dr. George B. Kistiakowsky, who was White House science adviser to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, testified he endorsed the treaty without "the slightest reservation."

Eisenhower urged Monday that the Senate attach a reservation to its approval of the treaty. He said this country should specifically reserve the right to use nuclear weapons to halt any aggression involving its vital interests.

Treaty supporters contend the pact would not limit any wartime use of nuclear weapons, and say no such reservation is needed.

Kistiakowsky said under questioning he was not qualified to testify on legal points raised by Eisenhower "but from the weapons point of view, I see no need for a reservation."

Kistiakowsky testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, while Burke appeared at a closed session of a Senate Armed Services subcommittee. A copy of his statement was made available to newsmen.

Burke suggested that this country and the Soviets dismantle existing nuclear testing sites or agree upon some limited inspection plan, such as Eisenhower's "Open Skies" inspection proposal, which the Soviets rejected when it was made in 1955.

Although urging reservations and predicting that Russia will cheat, Burke said:

"It looks as if this treaty will be ratified in the near future. I have grave misgivings as to whether this will be a step toward peace or a step toward decreasing the security of the United States."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., proposed meanwhile that withdrawal of Soviet troops from Cuba and leveling of the Berlin Wall be made the price of ratifications of the treaty.

Goldwater, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said in a prepared Senate speech that if the Communists decline to take these actions and do not live up to their promises in Laos "then the treaty is just a scrap of paper anyway."

Eisenhower wants the United States to reserve the right to use nuclear weapons to halt any aggression involving its vital interests.

He endorsed the treaty Monday in a letter to Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But the former president said he had no reservation in mind.

"The reservation that I suggest would provide that in the event of any armed aggression endangering a vital interest of the United States this nation would be the sole judge of the kind and type of weapons and equipment it would employ as well as the timing of their use," Eisenhower wrote.

Some witnesses have expressed the fear that the treaty would bar the United States from furnishing nuclear weapons to an ally under attack.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told reporters that this proposal—one of the reservations previously suggested by Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission—already is "inherent in the treaty."

Mansfield said that if it were adopted as a formal resolution "it could well kill the treaty because it would be subject to renegotiation."

The Senate sponsors did not think that a 100 per cent endorsement of the treaty by former President Harry S. Truman—announced Monday by Fulbright—would offset the jolt the general had given them.

Fulbright suggested that Eisenhower's use of the term "reservation" might not be precise.

"It is a basic right of every nation to provide for its self defense," Fulbright said. "That right is guaranteed in the United Nations charter and it should not be necessary to reiterate it constantly."

Fire Station Plans OKed

Plans and specifications, a bid sites for two new fire stations provided under the Master Plan bond program were given approval by the Texas Fire Insurance Commission Monday in Austin.

They, along with a report on the progress being made in improving fire protection, were taken to Austin by City Manager Larry Crow.

One of the new stations will be located in the City Park, just south of Wasson Road and east of Parkway Drive. The other will be on a plot of ground, given by the Big Spring Rodeo Association, between the rodeo grounds and Airport School.

"The commission was highly complimentary of the progress and of the design for the two stations, both of which will be alike," Crow said.

Two booster trucks, purchased by the city for April 1 delivery, have been held up because of a strike at the Howe fire equipment company. Crow said the trucks were now scheduled for delivery in two weeks.

Although urging reservations and predicting that Russia will cheat, Burke said:

"It looks as if this treaty will be ratified in the near future. I have grave misgivings as to whether this will be a step toward peace or a step toward decreasing the security of the United States."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., proposed meanwhile that withdrawal of Soviet troops from Cuba and leveling of the Berlin

Junior Volunteers Recognized For 9,556 Hours Of Service

The standing-room-only sign was hung up early Monday night at the Veterans Administration Hospital as an unexpectedly large crowd of more than 175 persons gathered for the annual recognition and appreciation ceremony for junior volunteers.

The recreation hall in which the event was held is designed to handle about 70 persons, and chairs had to be rushed in to handle the crowd. V. J. Belda, hospital director, said.

A total of 81 awards were made for services ranging upwards of 600 hours. Several persons received special awards for exceptional service.

In this category were Martha Davies, cited for editing and publishing the weekly "Junior Volunteer News" during the summer; and Derrell V. Murphee and his group of young singers from the First Baptist Church, for providing a song festival each week for patients of the long-term ward at the hospital.

Receiving certificates of outstanding service were John Callihan, with 590 hours of service and John Sherred, for a high of 638 hours. Paul Sturdevant received a commendation of service for 468 hours and Billie Dickson, for 575 hours.

In addition to certificates, volunteers who had given more than 100 hours received a badge indicating the number of hours they have given. It can be worn on jacket or sweater, much like a school letter.

The 88 volunteers during this summer worked a total of 9,556 hours, according to Mrs. Ara Cunningham, director of volunteers.

Special events included music of Dixieland Band and a German Band, under the direction of Joe Burdfield, music director at Rannels Junior High School. Also, a movie of junior volunteer work was presented.

Hospital personnel provided and served refreshments after the award ceremonies. Hospital administrators and chiefs of areas in which volunteers worked presented the citations.

Drill Bit Seeking Louis Bova Now

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Drilling of a 17 1/2-inch escape hole for Louis Bova similar to the one used to free Henry Thron and David Fellin began today less than five hours after Thron and Fellin were lifted to the surface unharmed in a safety harness.

The drilling began with only a handful of men on the scene at 4:45 a.m. amid optimism by Bova's relatives and Thron and Fellin that Bova is alive after 14 days underground without food.

Shortly thereafter workers began drilling a four-inch lifeline hole toward where Bova, 42, is believed trapped more than 300 feet underground.

By 9 a.m., the big drill had penetrated more than 66 feet while the smaller one had reached a depth of 20 feet.

Four previous attempts at establishing a lifeline hole, similar to the one through which contact was first made with Fellin and Thron on Aug. 18 and through which food was lowered them, have failed.

All three miners were trapped in a cave in Aug. 13 but Bova was separated from Thron and Fellin by a wall of debris and was believed about 25 feet away from them, reportedly injured. He has not been heard from since last Tuesday when Fellin reported he made contact with him.

Fellin, 58, and Thron, 28, while being examined by doctors, said they could not believe that Bova was dead. They said he probably still lay trapped under a pile of rubble and that the search should continue.

Fellin suggested that a hole should be drilled about six feet east of the lifeline hole through which contact was first made with them. The drilling began promptly.

Bova's wife was not at the rescue site when Fellin and Thron were pulled to the surface. A relative said she had been under great strain and had been taken to a hospital Monday night.

Driller Wins Plaudits For His Work In Rescue

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — "I don't know of any comparable feat. Mike can peel an orange with that thing. But the last six inches nearly drove me out of my mind."

Speaking was Nelson Stauffer, who had charge of drilling operations for the rescue of two trapped miners.

Mike is Mike Rank, 39, of Bethel, Conn., who operated the giant drilling rig for the final hours of completing the escape hole for David Fellin, 58, and Henry Thron, 28, Monday night.

So ticklish was the work that near the end observers could count the revolutions and figure to inches just how far Rank had bored in an hour. And this with an 18-inch bit on the end of more than 300 feet of steel tubing while operating a 65-ton machine that can cut a 48-inch hole through solid rock.

The last seven inches took almost an hour.

"I just felt the last few minutes I would go out of my mind," said Fellin's wife, Anna.

"It didn't bother me a bit until I was through—then I got a little shaky," said Rank. "I think I'm about as pleased as anybody."

Rank also was at the controls when the escape hole was first opened on Friday. Both times he faced the possibility that a wrong move could send tons of coal crashing down on Fellin and Thron.

At 3:15 p.m. Monday, Fellin said he would pull the plug at the bottom of the escape hole. At 3:17 he said it was too tight to be pulled out—and Rank's nervous drilling resumed.

He stopped the drill every few minutes: At 5:30 p.m., men in the communications tent estimated six inches to go.

Rank resumed drilling at 5:37. Then — dramatically — rescuers heard Fellin shout: "Take it up! Take it up!"

The time was 6:23—Rank's drill had completed the escape hole.

Rank, a solidly-built six-footer, is employed by the Gill Drilling Equipment Co., of North Branford Conn. He was on a service call in nearby Carbonate when his boss asked him to stop by the cave-in.

After the initial breakthrough Friday, he went home to keep a doctor's appointment then came back because "I had to be here."

"This time was five times worse than the first," he said. "You have to be more careful—there are a lot of things involved."

Gordon Smith, deputy state secretary of mines, turned to Rank after Fellin's dramatic "take it up, take it up" cry.

"Take it up, take it all the way up, Mike," said Smith. "you did a good job, Mike."

Irving Schools To Refuse Federal Aid

IRVING, Tex. (AP)—The Irving School Board said it is tired of being told what to do by the federal government, and voted Monday night to refuse any further funds under the National Defense Education Act after the coming school year.

Supt. W. P. Hanes told the trustees that accepting funds from the government implied that the schools also would accept a mandate to offer certain courses and supply certain equipment.

He said he would like to see the budget arranged "so nobody could tell us what to offer except the people of Irving."

In the past two years, Irving schools have accepted about $54,000 through the National Defense Act, he said. Irving is in Dallas County.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took a fairly sharp dip early this afternoon as Wall Street kept its fingers crossed about the possibility of a nationwide railroad strike Thursday. Trading was fairly active.

Deputy Collapses, Undergoes Checks

J. B. Hall, deputy sheriff, collapsed Monday afternoon as he sat in the office of the district attorney attending the grand jury session.

He was taken by ambulance to Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital.

Last week Hall became ill while on night patrol and summoned a highway patrol car to his aid. He was admitted to the hospital on that occasion and after an overnight stay was dismissed. He complained of having difficulty in breathing.

Miller Harris, sheriff, said that tests were under way at the hospital in an effort to diagnose the difficulty.

Members Vote In Favor Of Labor Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — An unprecedented six-year labor agreement with 75 shipping companies appears to have the backing of the 40,000-member National Maritime Union (NMU) rank-and-file.

Members in six of 30 ports where the union has offices and on 98 ships at sea have voted 4,680 to 25 in favor of the pact.

The agreements, which contain a no-strike pledge, would extend work contracts from the current expiration date June 15, 1965, until June 15, 1969. They are expected to increase the cost of seagoing labor about 8 per cent.

The contracts provide improved pensions and set up an automation fund for the union's members, who are unlicensed seamen. Wage reopenings are called for in 1966 and 1968.

Also to be set up under the agreement is a service fee for seamen who do not join the NMU when serving on ships under contract to the union.

The voting concerns agreements signed since Aug. 17 with the American Merchant Marine Institute and the Tanker Labor Service Committee, which represent operators of 600 deep-sea vessels. The lone holdout, Gulf Oil Co. which operates 22 tankers, joined other companies Monday in signing identical terms, the NMU said.

The Brotherhood of Marine Officers, a 1,000-member affiliate of the NMU, seeks a similar contract extension for ship officers.

There's Little Chance For Cooler Weather In Texas

If you're inclined to bet on the weather, don't wager Texas is going to cool off soon—because it probably won't.

Temperatures sailed up to record highs for the date at several points Monday. Fort Worth equalled a 62-year-old high of 104 degrees for Aug. 26. Dallas hung up a new mark of 103.

Clear to only partly cloudy skies throughout the state Tuesday held a promise of more searing heat. Except for a possibility of isolated thundershowers in extreme Southwest Texas, the weatherman held out no hope for drought-easing rain.

There was no moisture anywhere in the state Monday. Top afternoon temperatures elsewhere included Presidio 103, Austin, Mineral Wells and Wichita Falls 102, and College Station, Laredo, Lufkin and Waco 101.

Alpine, in the Davis Mountains of far West Texas, recorded a comparatively comfortable high of 88. It was the only weather station where the mercury failed to hit 90 or better.

We have no more right to consume happiness without producing it than to consume wealth without producing it. G. Bernard Shaw

DAILY GUIDE—If things blew up in your face lately, settle back now and examine yourself to find out why. Too many people are out to get something for nothing, eternally concerned with the "fast buck." It seems evident that some adjustment to reality has to be made. A sense of values may have to be learned the hard way. Bad judgement may have developed a dangerous situation; now we have to count the costs.

Mercury moves into Libra now so the Librans will have more to say in the next few weeks, backing up their recent aggressiveness with plans and ideas. This means that Arians would do well to listen, and Cancerians and Capricornians tend to their knitting and watch developments.

The moon is in Sagittarius so Sagittarians can move ahead, and they will be well supported by friends and loved ones. Aquarians and Gemini's also have a period now in which to work smoothly, enjoying social activities or contacts with those at a distance. Today is too jumpy for comfort; wait for a more favorable climate in which to function tomorrow.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, VIRGO! —You can be getting some of the extra surprises promised Virgoans now. Your popularity is high, but you will need to take care that you don't become too erratic. The sudden bright light of attention can make you jittery, so watch drains on your vitality.

Finances should be good now, with added income throughout the year. Neighbors, near-kin are still a doubtful factor; some confusion can reach a peak early in October.

Although this is a one-in-a-lifetime, opportunity to assent yourself, care should be taken not to go too far in making changes, unless you are willing to take the excitement of surprises and big changes. This is a self-centered period of development.

Lose Arguments—Win Games

Three St. Louis Cardinals who participated in Monday's game with the Giants in San Francisco were unhappy when plate umpire Lee Weyer called them out on strikes. Voicing opinions of the umpire's eyesight and ability are, from the left, centerfielder Curt Flood, third inning; first baseman Bill White, fourth inning; and shortstop Dick Groat, seventh inning. They must have felt better when the game ended with a 6-3 victory for the Cardinals and a solid second place berth in the pennant race. (AP WIREPHOTO).

Dodgers Need Hitter, Reds Kayo Leaders

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Wanted: Man to join first-rate team. Short hours. Good salary. Bonus in October if successful. Only requirement—must have had with base hits. Call collect, Walt Aiston, Los Angeles Dodgers. HURRY.

There's no doubt that's the Dodgers' big need.

Jim O'Toole again emphasized the fact Monday night, holding the National League leaders to a mere five hits as the Cincinnati Reds survived a two-men-on-the-base situation and posted a 3-1 victory.

It was the Dodgers fourth loss in the last five games, and trimmed their lead to 5½ games over second-place St. Louis. Los Angeles now has managed to score only four runs in the last 35 innings and collected just 36 hits in five games.

The Dodgers regular hitting over .300 is Tommy Davis, the defending batting champion who is striking away at a .338 clip. No Dodger is among the leaders in home runs or runs batted in and collectively the team is hitting a meek .250.

The Reds pulled a page from the Dodgers' book and wound up with two men on second base in the sixth inning after Vada Pinson singled and Frank Robinson walked. Pinson was picked off, and in the rundown, both runners stood staring at each other on second. Robinson was ruled out.

The Cardinals, took the runner-up spot by beating San Francisco 6-3, dropping the Giants to third, 6½ back, and preventing Juan Marichal from posting his 20th victory. Milwaukee whipped Houston 11-7 in the only other game scheduled.

In the only American League action, second-place Minnesota remained 11½ games behind the New York Yankees by splitting a two-night doubleheader with Washington. The Twins won 5-2 on consecutive seventh inning homers by Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison before the Senators took the nightcap 7-3 as Dick Phillips drove in four runs.

O'Toole, 16-11, had lost eight of his last 10 decisions, but got the only runs he needed when Gordy Coleman tagged Don Drysdale, 15-15, for a two-run homer in the fourth inning. The Dodgers scored in the bottom half on a double by Willie Davis and a single by Tommy Davis, but that was it. The Reds final run crossed in the eighth when Tommy Harper raced home from first base on a single by Pinson.

The Cardinals won with a three-run ninth inning uprising against Marichal, 19-7. A walk to Carl Sawatski and singles by Curt Flood and Dick Groat scored the

TONY LEMA, pro golfer:
"The PGA tour is a situation not well in hand. I think they ought to cut the tour and put up one million dollars in prize money and split it between Palmer, Nicklaus and Player. Everybody—the sponsors and so on—want those three. They think if they don't get them they don't have a tournament. Take Julius Boron, who won the National Open, and three or four other fellows like that. When they sign up for a tournament, it doesn't seem to count."

LINDY McDANIEL, Chicago hurler, commenting on the current use of telephones between the dugout and the bullpen:
"The other night the telephone rang in my hotel room and I jumped out of bed and started to warm up."

DAVID BLOOM, Memphis sports writer:
"I'd pay to see Mickey Mantle play. I would have paid to see Charlie Conerly play, and Babe Ruth... Mickey Mantle is one great baseball player. He is exhilarating at bat and in the field. He goes after a fly ball with unconscious ease, a pattern of grace and great reflexes. He swings a bat with fluid power and there are times when he's looked good to me striking out. There are those who say Al Kaline is a better player, and Willie Mays is a better player. But if I were a manager of a big league ball club I'd rather have Mays or Kaline for one simple reason. They're in there every day."

JIMMY CANNON, New York scribe:
"The maps were not altered by Stan Musial. No governments were improved by his acts. He led no crusades and his cause was a boy's game. But if you measure him and accept him for what he is, Stan is good as few men are. He held onto what he was supposed to be and neither adversity nor success defaced his personality. Baseball is only a device to kill time. But it is not an inconsequential achievement to remain pure and to be loyal to the dream of boyhood. This is what Musial has done. Not many made it into their 43rd year with their ideals untouched by avarice or envy."

BILLY SOUTHWORTH, then manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, when asked by 400-hitting Don Padgett why he was being kept on the bench:
"Because you're a .399-fielder."

Don Crockett, in charge of ticket sales for the 1963 Big Spring Steers football games, announced Tuesday that after one day of sales 150 five-game booklets had been sold.

"I'll pick up more at the end of the week," he said. "We're average right now. We won't be able to really tell if we're going to have an increase this season until next week, when the tickets will be thrown open to anyone. But it looks like a good year."

Tickets are on sale this week for old ticket holders. Next Monday the ducks will be available to anyone on the first-come, first-serve basis.

Beginning Sept. 11, individual tickets for the first game against the Lamesa Tornados Sept. 13, will go on sale.

tie-breaking run. The Giants had moved into a tie in the eighth on Felipe Alou's run-producing single after George Altman's two-run homer in the top of the eighth inning put St. Louis ahead 3-2.

Ed Matthews, pinch hitter Don Dillard and Hank Aaron homered for the Braves while John Bateman hit an inside-the-park home for the Colts. Dillard's shot in the fifth tied the score 6-6, then the Braves moved ahead to stay on Gene Oliver's sacrifice fly in the sixth inning.

The Senators pulled into a 2-3 tie in the opener on Chuck Hinton's two-run homer in the sixth, but in the seventh, Killebrew hit his 29th homer and Allison followed with his 27th. Both blows came off Ed Roebuck.

Phillips was the key in the nightcap, belting a two-run homer in the fourth, forcing in a run with a bases-loaded walk in the fifth and collecting another RBI with a sacrifice fly in the seventh. Allison, Don Mincher and Jimmie Hall homered for the Twins.

Pony League Has World Series

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Marietta, Ga., and Evansville, Ind. met tonight in the second round of the annual Pony League World Series after opening round victories Monday night.

Marietta beat Conoga Park, Calif. 3-0. Evansville bombed Bridgeport, Conn. 7-0. The two losers also play tonight in the second round of the double elimination tournament.

Sparkling pitching performances featured the opening round action by the winning teams.

Larry Koerner fired a two-hitter for Marietta and Steve Lambert gave up just one hit in Evansville's romp.

Kenner struck out 15 and walked three in the seven inning game. The only hit off Lambert came off the bat of the Bridgeport lead-off man in the first inning.

Some Indians Are Rankled Over Brawl

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Many laughs and several funny stories emanated from last Wednesday night's Cleveland-New York brawl at Yankee Stadium, but some bitterness lingers, too.

The Yankees' Joe Pepitone and the Indians' Fred Whitfield, among the chief combatants in the melee precipitated by a bean-ball between the rival pitchers, were kidding about it the following afternoon but Manager Birdie Tebbetts of Cleveland indicated not everybody is laughing.

Certainly not Larry Brown, the Indians' rookie shortstop, who needed four stitches to close up a spike wound on the heel of his left foot. Nor Dick Houser, Brown's injured predecessor, who suffered a much less serious spike wound.

"Such fights cast a long shadow," said Tebbetts, who majored in psychology while at Providence College. "Some scars take a long time to heal."

"I think the Yankees were silly to get into a fuss with us. They're winning and have nothing to gain by it. Our guys are not likely to forget it."

"Nothing may come of it for awhile. But some day, some year, at an appropriate time, they'll remember and it could prove costly to the Yankees."

On the lighter side is Yankee Manager Ralph Houk's recounting of an incident that took place during the heat of the scuffle. Houk had run out to protect Pepitone who seemed to be more than holding his own against Whitfield.

"Next thing I know I'm on the ground, on top of this guy in gray flannel, wearing No. 12," said Houk, an ex-Ranger who is generally regarded as one who can take care of himself with words or fists.

"Who the hell do you think I am," replied Houk.

"I got off quickly, Woodie and I have been friends for years. Then I start looking for my hat. Where do you think it is? On Head's head."

Yogi Berra, who rarely allows himself to become involved in such disputes, almost got into this one.

"I look up and see big Joe Adcock with his huge arms around our Phil Linz. He's holding Linz about shoulder high with Linz kicking his feet in the air but going nowhere."

"Ain't you ashamed of yourself, picking on a little guy like that? I should be Adcock."

"You're right, Yogi," he yelled back. "I think I'll let him go and go after you."

"No, no, Joe," I said. "You stay right where you are. We're both doing' all right the way we are."

Dennis Ralston Bids For More Net Glory

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—If tempestuous Dennis Ralston can adequately demonstrate that he's grown from a Peck's Bad Boy to an angry young man the United States may be on the way toward regaining its long-lost tennis prestige.

The acid test of the 21-year-old

Californian with the checkered tennis past begins Wednesday on the carefully manicured courts of Forest Hills' West Side Tennis Club in the U.S. National Singles championship.

Ralston, the rangy stylist from Bakersfield, is seeded third behind bounding Chuck McKinley, the Wimbledon champion from San Antonio, Tex., and Australian Roy Emerson, the Australian French champion, Rafael Osuna of Mexico is seeded fourth.

The tourney proper begins Friday, but qualification eliminations for the huge field of 224 players, including more than 100 foreign champions, open Wednesday with 64 men competing for 16 spots in the championship bracket of 128.

The pressure is squarely on Ralston, not only to demonstrate his maturity—and with it the ability to channel his temper toward demolishing opponents. Instead of throwing rackets—but also to solidify American hopes of again becoming an international tennis power.

Ralston was regarded as one of the country's most promising players a few years ago, then drew a year's suspension for his temper tantrums on the court during Davis Cup eliminations.

He re-emerged as potentially one of the world's best in a spectacular display against Mexico in American Zone Davis Cup semifinals two weeks ago in Los Angeles. He beat both his Southern California roommate, Osuna, and Antonio Palafox and teamed with McKinley in beating the Mexicans who hold the Wimbledon doubles title.

Then, last week, he again teamed with McKinley in sweeping to the U.S. National doubles title at Brookline, Mass., a strong indication that the U.S. doubles team may be able to compete on equal footing with the world-dominant Australians.

McKinley is generally regarded as the world's No. 1 singles player, particularly since Emerson has played erratically since winning the Australian title in January.

But if the United States is to make a successful challenge to Australia—providing the American Davis Cup team gets that far—in the Challenge Round, it must have a strong No. 2 singles player.

That's where Ralston comes in. Forest Hills is his proving ground.

He is in the same bracket with British Davis Cupper Roger Taylor, India's Primit Lal and Ken Fletcher of Australia. Opposing McKinley in his bracket are Vic Seixas of Philadelphia; Orlando Zuleta of Ecuador and Donald Dell, Bethesda, Md., among others.

Marking Time

Harold Hall (left) and Jay Hatch are two linksters who figure to be busy during the annual Big Spring Invitational Golf tournament starting at the Country Club Friday. Hall will double as director of the tournament. Hatch, former employe in the pro shop, probably will be a participant. More than 200 golfers are expected to take part in the four-day meet.

TOURNAMENT NEARS

Robert Smith Is Low Qualifier

Robert Smith of Webb AFB has turned in the low qualifying score thus far, with a one-under par 70. He's not eligible for the medalist's prize but is certain to rate the 32-man championship flight.

Waymon Burns of San Angelo turned in a 73 and appears certain to rate the title flight. Jack Wallace, Big Spring, is in at 74. Jerry Green, the club pro, said he believes a 76 or better would be good enough to get in the contention.

Only those who qualify Friday will be eligible for the medal award.

Bobby Wright, the local club's best bet to win the championship year in and year out, turned in a 72-hole score of 279 for the local Fina-Cosden Cup matches but he may not be on hand.

Wright may instead play in a Partnership tournament at Alexandria, La., which will be underwritten by the same time.

Bobby Blum, a former Big Spring resident who lives in Lamesa, toured the course in 66 strokes Sunday. He wasn't qualifying for the tournament but if he plays that well Friday he'll have to be rated a championship contender.

The tournament starts Friday and continues through Monday, Sept. 2.

Mixed opinion has been expressed concerning the fact that the champion will be determined by 72 holes of medal play by dusk tomorrow.

The matches, which will be over 18 holes, will begin between 12:30 and 1 p.m. Friday. Dewey Burkhardt of Midland is the visiting captain while Eddie Don Harris is the local leader.

Mixed opinion has been expressed concerning the fact that the champion will be determined by 72 holes of medal play, including 36 on the final day. Some prefer matched play, no doubt, but it is generally agreed that the best golfer usually emerges in a medal-type tournament. The same thing doesn't always apply in matched-play.

Sands To Organize Quarterback Club

ACKERLY — Organization of a quarterback club for Sands will be attempted at 8 p.m. today.

Doyle Fowler said that a meeting had been called at the football stands in Ackerly, and that all parents and other friends were invited. Coaches and players will be introduced, and if there is ample interest, the officers will be elected.

Sands has never had a quarterback club or any formal booster group for its athletic teams, and Fowler said several had expressed a desire to close this gap in the program.

Little League Meet

The National Little League will have its annual organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the justice of peace courtroom on the second floor of the courthouse. W. R. (Bill) Smelser, president, urged all parents, managers and others to attend the session for a discussion of plans and election of officers.

LIONS PLAN BARBECUE

Football fans of the hungry type are in for a treat before the first Big Spring Steers game against Lamesa Sept. 13.

The Big Spring evening Lions Club will serve a barbecued chicken dinner (one-half a chicken on each plate) from 5-7 p.m. on the day of the game in the high school cafeteria. There will be a charge of $1 with plates to be for those who cannot eat in the school.

Demand Safety For Refugees

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Eight Latin American envoys have demanded that Haiti guarantee safety of 44 refugees granted asylum in their embassies here. The diplomats asked the Organization of American States Monday to demand that Dictator-President Francois Duvalier grant the refugees safe exit from Haiti. The refugees include 12 military officers sentenced to death in absentia for an abortive plot to kidnap Duvalier's children in April.

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—The United Nations command accused Communist North Korea today of violating the Korean War armistice agreement 259 times between May 1 and Aug. 20. The Communists countered with a list of 307 alleged violations by U.N. personnel between July 11 and Aug. 15, plus four last week. Charges were traded at the 350th meeting of the armistice commission.

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian Foreign Secretary Paul Martin and U.S. Ambassador William W. Butterworth opened talks on Canada's proposed 12-mile fishing limit Monday. The talks are an outgrowth of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's election pledge to extend the three-mile limit and establish a 12-mile coastal area barring foreign fishermen.

Combination Of Work, School Is Saving Some

A down-to-earth program in 16 New York City schools is giving potential dropouts a chance to combine work and schooling. Called STEP—School to Employment Program—the project finds half-day work for 320 youngsters who are notoriously poor students, checks them on the job and relates the academic subjects they study in the other half day to their employment.

Army Claims Eighth Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington: ON TARGET: The Army has claimed the eighth test success for its Nike Zeus antimissile. The Army announced Monday that a three-stage Nike Zeus, launched from Kwajalein Island in the Central Pacific, intercepted a Titan I intercontinental ballistic missile fired from 3,000 miles away at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. Neither carried warheads.

AIRPORTS: The Senate has sent to the House a three-year extension of federal aid to airports. The Senate approved the $75 million a year program Monday after rejecting Sen. William Proxmire's attempt to pare the authorization to $50 million. The Wisconsin Democrat said the money was going to "the most heavily subsidized industry in America."

HIGH FINANCES: A U.S. space agency spokesman says a deal "is cooking" with Life magazine to sell the personal stories of the Gemini-Apollo astronauts of the U.S. man-to-moon program. "It is not yet signed, but I think we will have a contract—I don't know what could fall through at this stage," a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Monday. However, Life Editor Edward K. Thompson said in New York "we are still dickering."

NEW SEASON
More Medical Series Due On Home TV Screens
By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—With the premier of ABC's "Breaking Point" on Sept. 16, television audiences will have access to 10 network hours of drama each week dedicated to the sick, sore, lame and disabled. The statistic includes four returning evening shows, "Dr. Kildare," "Ben Casey," "The Eleventh Hour" and "The Nurses." There are also the afternoon agony serials, "The Doctors" and "General Hospital." It is axiomatic in television that one popular series spawns a rash of similar ones, but the question most often asked of "Breaking Point" producer George Lefferts these days is why a second series dedicated to exploring the labyrinths of mental and emotional illness, "Eleventh Hour," returns after a modestly successful NBC season, is staked out in exactly the same area—psychiatry and psychoanalysis. Lefferts insists there is a need for still another series. "I think such a series does perform a constructive social service," he explained. "We're not interested in effecting instant cures for dramatic effect. But we are moving in areas where problems exist for many people and simply exposing them—ventilating them—trying to give some insight

Union Leader Calls For Fighting Spirit

HOUSTON (AP)—President H. S. Brown of the state AFL-CIO has called for a fighting spirit among union members promising it will bring freedom to the oppressed and more influence to organized labor.

He also proposed a stronger coalition with groups that have similar goals. Such a coalition can sweep forces friendly to labor into the legislature and into Congress in 1964, he said. "Labor in this state is still a sleeping giant," Brown told about 1,000 delegates and guests at the opening of the AFL-CIO state convention Monday. "Our members are still playing Rip Van Winkle."

"The labor vote alone will not win any statewide election, but when we join with minority groups and support the same candidates, we will have a victory in Texas," Brown emphasized that victory will not come cheap. "We will pay the price for freedom," he said. "Political and economic freedom are not cheap commodities. They will not be achieved by people who haggle about price."

Oil Production Reports Increase

TULSA (AP)—U. S. oil production rose 4,375 barrels a day last week to an average of 7,374,475, the Oil and Gas Journal said today. Most states showed little or no change. Arkansas produced 75,000, Colorado 101,000, Louisiana 1,467,675, New Mexico 302,000, Oklahoma 556,500 and Texas 2,637,000.

Franklin Long Resigns Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Franklin A. Long resigned Monday as assistant director of the disarmament agency, effective Aug. 30, to return to his teaching assignment at Cornell University. President Kennedy, in accepting the resignation, expressed "my personal gratitude for your contribution to the scientific understanding and development of several approaches to disarmament and especially for your outstanding contribution in the field of science to the test ban treaty." Long is assistant agency director for science and technology.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Khrushchev Apparently Making Little Ground

PULA, Yugoslavia (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev continued private talks today with President Tito amid speculation that he has made little headway coaxing the Yugoslav leader into closer ties with the Soviet bloc.

The Communist leaders conferred on political and economic problems at Tito's island hideaway at Brioni, three miles from this Adriatic resort.

Details of the talks were not disclosed but observers said Khrushchev, believed to have counted upon strengthening Soviet bonds with Yugoslavia, appeared to have gained little ground.

Both Khrushchev and Tito have expressed optimism over the future of Soviet-Yugoslav relations. Both also have lashed out at the Chinese Communists, who are embroiled in an ideological dispute with Moscow.

Since arriving Aug. 20 in Yugoslavia, Khrushchev has voiced all but blanket endorsement of Tito's policy of acting independently of the Soviet bloc. This policy caused a rupture in Yugoslav-Soviet relations 15 years ago.

Khrushchev surprised Soviet affairs experts with favorable comments on the workers factory self-management councils pioneered by Yugoslavs. He even hinted that the Russians might adopt the idea.

There seemed little prospect, however, that Khrushchev for all his praise and endorsement would get Tito back into the Moscow bloc.

The Yugoslavs apparently are determined to stay apart from the rest of the Communist camp politically and ideologically, but have expressed interest in closer economic connections.

Tito has been refused observer status in the Eastern bloc Council for Mutual Economic Assistance—Comecon. This time Yugoslav officials appear convinced Khrushchev will yield.

But the same officials stress that Yugoslavia has no intention of seeking membership in Comecon.

Observers have noted subtle differences in approach between Khrushchev and Tito toward ideological problems still separating them.

Khrushchev appeared to be pressing for some sort of accommodation.

Tito reportedly has advised that the longer the problems lie undisturbed, the less important they will become.

Freeman Reports On Farm Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman said today the country needs a "comprehensive, unified and organized program of agricultural patching up of old farm programs."

There will be no major changes in the 1964 agricultural conservation program, Freeman says.

Farmer-elected Stabilization and Conservation Committees still will administer the program.

In a report on 1962 to President Kennedy, Freeman said he expects further improvement in the general farm situation this year. He predicts cash receipts will be a little higher than in 1962 due to increased marketings of livestock.

In calling for a new farm policy, Freeman said it must be directed toward these basic goals:

- "It must assure a continued abundance, at fair and stable prices, of food and fiber, including reserves adequate to meet any foreseeable emergency, while avoiding the waste that results from production of more than we can use."
- "It must do this within a framework that will assure the efficient family farmer an opportunity to earn a fair income, without exploitation of either the taxpayer or the consumer; and at the same time it must seek to solve the very difficult problem of submarginal land and in depressed rural areas, where not even 10 per cent of parity prices would bring a decent income."
- "The problem of adequate income in rural America has these two aspects: On the one hand, there is the low income that results from chronic overproduction and the inability of the market to absorb at a fair price all that our efficient farmers can easily produce. On the other hand, there is rural poverty which can be met effectively only by educational and sociological—as well as economic measures."

Westbrook Baptist Open Revival Sunday

WESTBROOK (SC) — Revival services for the Westbrook Baptist Church will begin Sunday and will continue through Sept. 8th with services at 8 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. during the week. Yielding, pastor, said cottage prayer meetings are scheduled this week in the Hoyt Roberts and W. A. Bell homes.

Educators Seeking Answer To Puzzle

By HARRY MOSKOS
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Why does a bright youngster lose interest in school?

This is a question puzzling many educators today. In Albuquerque, an attempt is under way to help these troubled students find themselves.

Four years ago an organization, Human Resources Foundation, was established with the goal of getting troubled students interested in school again.

"The students working with us have adequate intelligence, but they have difficulty in directing their abilities," Dr. James J. Calvert, director of the Human Resources school, said.

"Our main goal is renewing their natural interest in education," Dr. Calvert, who has an Ohio State Ph.D., said.

He said the students of the special school (presently there are 16) may be referred by public school officials, doctors, social workers or other professionals. Many, however, hear of the school's operation from their friends.

"Most of the students," Calvert said, "are youngsters of above average intelligence. Our primary goals are teaching the children to think more clearly, to better understand themselves and to establish meaningful life goals."

Dr. Calvert said the problem of dropouts in public schools is of national concern.

"Students that drop out of school often turn into marginal juvenile delinquency cases, or in other ways become a burden to our society rather than an asset," he said. "Many of these children have tremendous potential, and we can ill afford to waste this talent."

The Human Resources Foundation operates as a therapeutic school in which Dr. Calvert, his three full-time teachers, and several part-time instructors work with the 14 to 18-year-old students in groups of four to six.

Dr. Calvert said in the public schools one teacher has so many students that he seldom has the time for special work with youngsters who have the talent but who have lost interest. The small, seminar-type classes at the foundation are much more flexible and allow for much personal attention and help, he added.

"We set only the outside limits," Dr. Calvert said. "We listen to what the youngsters have to say. Many problem children have seldom had an adult really listen to them without judging them."

"There is no set teaching method," Dr. Calvert said. "Each child has to be approached in a slightly different way... it is mostly individual work."

The curriculum includes the basic English, history, mathematics, general science and biology classes in addition to special subjects such as creative writing and a civics-philosophy course.

The school is aimed for junior and senior high school students but an occasional university-level student who finds himself academically in trouble may enroll at the foundation.

The foundation, approved by the New Mexico Department of Education, has returned about 85 per cent of its students to the public schools. Boys outnumber girls by three to one.

"It is time for society to recognize that the average child does not exist and to assume the responsibility of developing the unique abilities of each individual," Dr. Calvert said.

NOW IS THE TIME TO CHECK THE LIGHT YOUR CHILDREN USE FOR HOME STUDY

Even children who pass the eye chart test with ease need special light for home study. Reading and other close visual tasks require plenty of good light to make seeing easier and to prevent eyestrain and fatigue. For best light from a table lamp, use at least 150-watt illumination. The lamp should be tall enough to spread light evenly over the work area and properly shaded to shield the light source from the eyes. A diffusing bowl is recommended to soften the light and prevent glare. Check your children's study light now. Better light means better sight and better grades.

A Devotional For The Day

He said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee: For my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me. (II Corinthians 12:9.)

PRAYER: Gracious Father, we would love Thee more than we love Thine abundant gifts. If suffering be our lot, teach us to use it as an occasion to glorify Thee. Thus may our joy be pure and full, our life a blessing, and our example useful for the kingdom. Thine be the glory, through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Regulatory Reform Seems Mired

Among the initially high, but as yet unrealized, hopes of the Kennedy administration was that of achieving long overdue reforms in the administration of the independent regulatory agencies. The effort now appears to be hopelessly mired in congressional indifference.

Soon after taking office in 1961, President Kennedy created by executive order the Administrative Conference of the United States, and appointed to it political scientists, agency officials, and attorneys whose practice is before the regulatory agencies. Its purpose was to recommend ways to improve administrative efficiency and to prescribe ethical standards for agency relations with the industries regulated.

The Administrative Conference's tenure expired last December with little accomplished, but with extensive studies unfinished and reports—including a reportedly highly critical one on the Federal Trade Commission—unpublished. Kennedy decided not to extend the commission's life by executive order but, in the belief it could not be effective without permanent statutory status, requested Congress to re-establish it. Bills to that purpose are stuck in Senate and House committees with no indication that they will be moved this session, or next.

Neither the administration nor Congress appears interested in pursuing the matter. The Securities and Exchange Commission is alone in adopting Administrative Conference recommendations on ethical rules on the relations between the regulators and the regulated. So, history is repeating, and proving a point: There is little chance of gaining reforms in government regulation except in the immediate wake of nation-shocking scandal. The next opportunity is not anticipated with any relish, but it is rather safe to predict that there will be one.

Rebuke Of Negro Necessary

The United States has no honorable realistic choice but to rebuke severely the Diem government in South Vietnam for reneging on assurances to settle its Buddhist crisis by conciliation and for ruthlessly raiding religious sanctuaries and brutally suppressing opposition leaders. Toleration of tyranny would condemn America in the eyes of the Southeast Asians—and indeed the world—whose support and security in the anti-Communist cause are the justification for spending millions in aid to rickety American lives in that miserable little jungle land.

The grave and uncertain question is how much good the rebuke will do. President Ngo Dinh Diem, or the behind-the-scenes powers bending his will, apparently acted in confidence that the United States has too great a stake in South Vietnam to withdraw it for any cause. He also appears confident that Washington sees no alternative to his regime that would not open high risks of chaos likely to forfeit the country to the Communist Viet Cong guerrilla forces.

Diem's confidence on both counts must be shaken, if South Vietnam is to be saved. That is the delicate and dangerous policy determination that must be made in Washington and carried out by newly arrived U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

If the situation in South Vietnam continues to deteriorate, there will come a point where the United States must decide whether the cost of supporting the Diem government—in dollars, lives and Asian influence—is not exceeding that country's strategic value in the containment of Red Chinese expansionism. Such a reappraisal has reportedly already begun in Washington.

Marquis Childs Treaty Testimony As Expected

WASHINGTON—At this halfway point in the ratification process there is little evidence that the testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has swayed votes one way or the other.

Those who were for the treaty have had their stand reinforced by most of the witnesses, including all those in high government position. Those opposed from the start have taken the dramatic presentation of Edward Teller, the chief opponent, as confirming their opposition.

BY ROUGH ESTIMATE 68 voters are assured for the treaty—57 Democrats and 11 Republicans. That is one more than the required two-thirds majority for ratification. Perhaps another 10 senators are leaning toward ratification.

Of the remaining 22 what appear now as nine sure "no" votes can be counted—seven Republicans and two Democrats. The other 13 doubters would probably like to come down on the negative side, although where they will end up is unpredictable. Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), deeply involved in the issues of security and military preparedness and particularly in the TFX investigation, is the most conspicuous example in this group. These senators seem to be hoping that they will find valid reasons to vote against the treaty overweighing the sentiment for peace and what cynics have called the "mother vote."

TELLER, THE NOTED physicist and "father of the H-bomb," thus far has been their mainstay. In his impressive and highly emotional day before the Foreign Relations Committee he denounced the treaty as endangering America's security and said ratification would be an even greater mistake than signing the pact. He based this largely on the need to continue atmospheric testing to try to perfect an anti-ballistic missile.

But Teller's vehement opposition had long been known and therefore to some degree discounted. He was supported by John S. Foster Jr., director of the Livermore, Calif., radiation laboratory. This is, in effect, Teller's own laboratory in which he has done some of his most brilliant work.

THE ONLY OTHER witness in flat opposition was Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of the Strategic Air Force. Power has also long been known for opposing any check on arms development. He gave his testimony in a closed session of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee of the Armed Services Committee. This has been a kind of private sideshow, with secret testimony given out from time to time. Chairman J. William Fulbright of Foreign Relations invited the full Armed Services and Joint Atomic Committees to sit with his committee and participate in questioning witnesses.

ALL FOUR of the Joint Chiefs of Staff testified on the balance they favored ratification. But Gen. Curtis LeMay in closed session made it plain that he was more reluctant than the others and might have opposed the test-ban agreement if it had not already been signed.

Two scientific witnesses refuted Teller's principal charges. Harold Brown, director of research and engineering in the Pentagon, said that the military risks in the treaty were small and America's nuclear lead undeniable. Brown was at one time head of the Livermore laboratory. Norris E. Bradbury, director of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory which is engaged in weapons development, supported Brown.

THE CASE for the treaty was made principally by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara. They made presentations that most senators agreed were impressive. On McNamara's comprehensive testimony, covering every aspect of nuclear armaments and disclosing many new and startling facts about the extent of the American arsenal, the argument for security rests. President Kennedy spoke with feeling of McNamara's case when at his press conference he asked how much was enough when it was already possible to kill 300,000,000 people in 60 minutes with the present weapons.

IF SURPRISES ARE in store they have been carefully held back. The goal now is to close the hearings with week with some private sessions at which military and scientific witnesses will be recalled. Then, after the committee has reported, the Senate itself will proceed to give its advice, and, as it now appears, its consent to an historic treaty.

BILLY GRAHAM

Even though I am a Christian I worry about little things. How can I stop worrying? H.T.

Worry is so useless and never accomplishes anything except frayed nerves, a wrinkled face, and a dwarfed spirit. Jesus plainly said to all His followers: "Let not your heart be troubled." This word "let" indicates that we have some control over our worrying. Worry and anxiety are actually states of mind, and are not necessarily created by valid causes. I know some people who have every cause to worry but don't, and others who have no cause for worry, but they worry anyway.

Life is the business of growing—growing physically, mentally, and spiritually. Worry is a deterrent to growth. Jesus hinted that it is when He said: "Which of you by taking thought can add to his stature one cubit?" One can become so self-centered that over-concern about himself will actually cause him to be dwarfed. We are to be like the lilies of the field which never worry about their growth, and just lift their faces up to the sun and the rain and flourish. If we would learn to lift our faces to God in prayer, praise and adoration, we would grow beautifully also. Stop worrying and begin growing and living.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am surprised that you didn't tell "M. B." that his post-nasal drip might be caused by allergies. I endured one for 15 years and only discovered the cause by accident when I developed more severe reactions—hives and asthma.

Skin tests revealed I was allergic to certain foods. Eliminating them stopped the post-nasal drip and other symptoms.—D. D.

Allergies cause a lot of trouble, but I try not to emphasize them so much that people overlook other symptoms.

The basic causes of post-nasal drip are obstructions, and chronic irritations. Allergy can, of course, be irritating.

If a person has allergies, it is almost automatic to investigate that aspect when post-nasal drip is present. But if other signs of allergy are not apparent, then one does not tend to expect it only in the post-nasal drip.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please send me a copy of your booklet, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." I enclose 20 cents in coin and the requested stamped, self-addressed envelope.

James Marlow March Has Ancient Heritage

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wednesday's civil rights march in Washington by perhaps 100,000 Negroes and whites—to protest racial injustices and to try to pressure Congress into passing a civil rights bill—has an ancient heritage.

From antiquity—by ones, twos, thousands, millions in fiction, fact, literature, mythology and religion—people through disobedience and non-violent resistance have asserted themselves against what they consider unjust treatment, laws, or edicts.

Yet, the history of their protests is full of contradictions and ironies.

ERICH FROMM looks upon the first act of disobedience by Adam and Eve, in eating from the forbidden tree of knowledge, as an "original sin" which, instead of corrupting man, "set him free to become fully human."

Four hundred years before Christ, Socrates defied the government of Athens by refusing to stop encouraging the youth to question the ideas of their elders. While he was wrong to disobey a superior, he said, he would obey the gods rather than the government. He was sentenced to death.

Then he refused to escape his death cell. To do that, he said, after he had been condemned, would injure the government.

It was civil disobedience, but non-violent, when Sophocles' Antigone defied King Creon's order not to bury her mother. He walked her in to die for that.

AND AESCHYLUS' Prometheus at terrible cost to himself befriended mankind by stealing fire from the gods. For this Zeus chained him to a rock for the vultures to gnaw on.

In the New Testament's Sermon on the Mount, Jesus, who had driven the money changers from the temple, preached non-violence with his admonition to turn the other cheek and walk two miles if anyone compelled you to walk one.

The ascetic Essenes, a sect of pre-Christian Jews, took an oath to injure no one. And after Christ thousands of Jews used non-violent resistance against the Romans. So did the early Christians martyrs although the Christians gradually moved from pacifism to the just war to the Crusades.

The Quakers, whom Merle Curti called the "conscience of the 18th century," were pacifists.

RALPH WALDO EMERSON, in 1843, theorized on civil disobedience five years before his friend, Henry David Thoreau, did in his famous "Civil Disobedience" essay.

Thoreau had an effect on Leo Tolstoy and, later, on Mohandas Gandhi. Tolstoy went to extremes in his view of non-violence and civil disobedience. He made no exception for the use of violence by a man to defend his country, his life, his family or even to save society from lunatics and criminals. Because he looked upon all governments as immoral, he advocated paying no taxes at all.

It was Gandhi who achieved the most sensational results in history with his policy of non-violent resistance against the British to end their rule in India. Millions of Indians went along with him until they decided to get violent.

He acknowledged influences on him from all directions: the Sermon on the Mount; the Bhavad Gita, part of the Hindu epic which Gandhi called his spiritual reference book; Thoreau; Tolstoy; and even John Ruskin who urged the teaching of justice and gentleness.

BUT BEHIND Gandhi's thinking was the long religious experience of India—Hinduism, with its peaceful acceptance of the caste system in this life as preparation for moving up to the next caste in the next life on earth and with its complicated prohibitions against doing violence to others; Jainism, which forbade killing anyone or thing and required the wearing of a gauze mask so insects wouldn't be inhaled and killed; and Buddhism, originally an ethic protest against Hindu religious practices, stressed love of others.

Hal Boyle That's A Lot Of Beef

NEW YORK (AP)— Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail: Americans now eat more than their own weight in red meats each year. The average of 1963 is expected to pass 166 pounds.

Prosperity note: The United States has about two-thirds of the world's motor vehicles.

Odd legislation: Iceland passed a law requiring all children to learn to swim.

An awful lotta water: The Pacific Ocean is so huge that all the continents would easily fit into its 63.8 million square miles. Incidentally, we use about 5 million pounds of water per person annually.

Worth remembering Comedian Marion Powers says that today inflation is simply a drop in the bucket.

Divided city: Despite the wall that keeps 33,000 East Berlin workers from their jobs in the Allied-occupied part of the city, West Berlin is still Germany's highest industrial center. It produces one of every two light bulbs used in that nation, every second cigarette, and every third dress bought in Germany.

Nature notes: Rattlesnakes are found in every mainland state except Maine and possibly Delaware. Alligators don't count their calories—but during six or seven months of the year they usually don't eat. One survey showed that 43 per cent of chickens lay their eggs between 9 and 11 a.m.

Woman's work is getting easier all the time. Someone has figured out that only 30 per cent of the soup consumed in the United States is home-made.

The best wisecrack of the week: Actor Yul Brynner says he doesn't know whether rock 'n' roll music is dying—but it always sounds as if it is.

How long can your pet cat live? The commonly accepted limit is 21 years, but there is one on record of a cat that was finally put to sleep in her 35th year.

It was Somerset Maugham who observed, "American women expect to find in their husbands a perfection that English women only hope to find in their butlers."

free diet. Where can I get menus or recipes?—MRS. M. B.

Not "purine-free" but "low purine." Avoiding all purines would be virtually impossible.

Anyway, you don't need recipes or menus; just avoid the high-purine foods. These include the "organ" or "gland" meats—sweetbreads, liver, kidneys, heart; the legumes, such as peas and beans; and herring and anchovies. Go easy on red meats. Poultry, most fish, boiled or smoked ham, lamb and shellfish (crabs,ysters, lobsters) have much lower purine content.

Evidence is mounting that diet is much less important in gout. Some caution in diet is helpful, but proper drug treatment (such as with benemidol) to prevent excess accumulation of uric acid in the system, is bringing excellent results.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does eating liver or other foods to increase iron in the blood cause high blood pressure?—E. K.

No. The blood will take up what iron it needs, and then stop. Too little is bad. Just enough is fine. A little too much won't do any harm. And this will not cause high blood pressure.

Around The Rim Our First Car

A few weeks after the Armistice was signed in 1918, Dad reached a momentous decision.

We had never owned an automobile, and Dad decided the time was ripe for this condition to end.

"We will buy a car," he pronounced.

THE SMALL OIL FIELD town where we lived had a shortage of available used cars. (It was never even suggested that the Blackburns buy a new car; that was out of the question.)

After a few days shopping the limited field, Dad said: "O.K. kid—we'll go to Fort Worth and buy that car."

We boarded the train and landed in Fort Worth in a deluge of rain. Hotel accommodations in our financial bracket were unavailable. Besides, we were just in the city to buy a car.

ALONG THE AUTO row of the day we strolled. Eager salesmen swarmed around us. One glib character had what he called a "real jim dandy,—just what you want." The jim dandy was a Model T Ford "touring car," a little on the rusty side but possessed, as far as we could tell, of all basic essentials. After considerable bickering, the deal was closed. Then it came out that my Dad had never driven a car of any kind.

"That's easy," said the glib salesman, "I'll teach you."

We went out on a quiet street on the outskirts of town, and the salesman gave Dad a short, short course in automobile operation. Then he took us back to the car lot, shook our hands and walked off.

DAD CRANKED THE car. He crawled behind the wheel. He pondered the advice given him. Somehow, although it was about as jerky a performance as I ever saw a motor car offer, we got rolling. We made it to the edge of the city and on the road west.

The rains continued. The unpaved roads were rutted and muddy. The clay was slippery, and Dad's ability as a driver was not extensive. The car slowed here and there. I clutched one of the metal brackets which supported the top as the car pitched from side to side.

SUDDENLY OUR CAR left the road, plunged across a ditch, up an embankment and crashed through a six wire fence. The engine died. And there we were in a field. Dad got out, walked around and around the car. Apparently it had survived the mishap without serious damage. Somehow, he got it started again and back on the road.

The first day's journey took us from Fort Worth to Rhome. Rhome, I see by the maps is about 30 miles from Fort Worth. We really covered ground. When we got to Rhome, there was an odd sort of rattle in the engine. A blacksmith shop, with the sign recently painted over to read "garage" loomed before us. The operator listened few minutes to the clatter. "Burned out rod," he said tersely.

WE PERSUADED him to work that night doing whatever it is you do to fix a burned out rod. Next morning, still in the rain and still in the mud, we hurried on. That day, by driving late, we reached Wichita Falls. We spent the night there—the car in storage. We were not so fortunate. We sat out that night in the rail-road depot.

And the next day, we whipped off the remaining 28 miles home in less than four hours.

People said we really made good time.

—SAM BLACKBURN

Inez Robb We've Found Our Sea Serpent

Men have been making such monkeys out of themselves all summer that the animal kingdom has had little chance at the headlines and the front page.

On the sea serpent front there has been dead quiet through a season during which such phenomena usually flourish. Little or nothing has been heard of the Loch Ness monster, the patriarch of them all.

I DON'T KNOW whether tourists have been looking more and reporting less, or whether this has simply been an unproductive sea serpent summer.

There have been a few dog stories here and there, such as the Tucson, Ariz., pet whose mistress died but directed in her will that her pet be well cared for. Legal administrators of the estate interpreted this injunction as an order to provide the dog with a $300-per-month companion (human), a limousine for daily airings and food served in a sterling silver reproduction of the Paul Revere bowl.

(IN THE MEANTIME, certain good people of Tucson were trying to provide shoes for underprivileged kids against the opening of the school year.)

And of course, there were the four dogs whose owners left up to the pooches the choice of paper to cover the walls of the foyer they all share in a New York cooperative.

BUT THESE ARE rather pale and palliative items. In war there is no substitute for victory, and in summer there is no substitute for a sea serpent. If winter comes, can a sea serpent be far behind, undulating in stately majesty across some loch or briny deep?

The answer is "no." And although it is very late in the season, a sea serpent has appeared in the nick of time. Granted, it has most gotten in under the wire, but more important than that is the fact that this is no foreign intruder, but a genuine American sea serpent.

AT LEAST, the last sea serpent of summer has just been sighted off Sandy Hook, N. J., and how much more American can you get? Furthermore, this All-American sea serpent was not sighted by any cruising picnic party full of beer or worse.

Our national sea serpent was first spotted by a group of dedicated sobersides from a United States agency, to wit: the Marine Research Laboratory of the Fish and Wildlife Service, an appendage of the Department of the Interior.

So distinguished a scientist as Dr. Lionel A. Waldford, director of the Marine Laboratory, who sighted the serpent majestically plowing the deep (such hyperbole comes naturally in writing about scaly monsters of the sea) declares, "It resembled a transparent sea monster."

"IT LOOKED LIKE so much jelly," he continues. "I could see no bones and no eyes, nose or mouth. But there it was—undulating along, looking as if it were almost made of fluid glass." Forty to 50 feet long it is, too, according to the scientist, and from five to seven inches in diameter. (On the other hand, other scientific witnesses in the same boat with Dr. Waldford, when the monster was sighted, feel it was larger.)

At all odds, summer has been saved in a sort of Garrison finish. Not only has a sea serpent surfaced, but an American one, and unique as all get out, at that.

MAN, WHAT WE'VE got on this side of the Atlantic is a real gone sea serpent, one that makes the Loch Ness entry seem an also ran. Transparent, like fluid glass, resembling undulant jelly. Look, Ma, no bones, no eyes, no nose, no mouth.

What other sea serpent can make these claims?

Holmes Alexander President's Problem With The Treaty

WASHINGTON— President Kennedy's Nuclear Treaty now threatens to fall him in two fields where, unhappily, he has failed before—his credibility and his judgment.

He has led us to believe that the suspension of above-ground testing could be militarily and scientifically justified at no additional peril to the national safety. He has sent his administration spokesmen to Capitol Hill with slickly prepared testimony that bore the evidence of collaboration and ghost-written unanimity.

SECRETARY RUSK, Secretary McNamara, Atomic Energy chairman Seaborg and Joint Chiefs of Staff chairman Taylor, each in turn, swore up and down that the risks were minimal and the advantages manifest. But I do not think anyone could listen, as I have done, to Gen. Curtis LeMay, the Air Force chief of staff, and to Dr. Edward Teller, the nation's foremost nuclear physicist, without feeling that the President's case for the treaty is little else than a political appeal to Russia and to "world opinion." As a proposition for military and scientific sufficiency the treaty has reached the brink of unbelief.

THE TREATY asks to accept nuclear parity, when what we need is superiority—and preferably supremacy. It asks us to swallow the theory, voiced by McNamara and blasted by Teller, that we can go underground and successfully test the components of the unimaginably complex anti-missile defensive system without ever trying the system in the atmosphere as a whole. It asks us to believe that the President—after making himself the author and advocate of this partial disarmament pact, and the hawk of all the horrors of nuclear weapons—could, after so doing, creditably use nuclear threats and nuclear arms in a short-of-war action to deter, for example, a Red Chinese invasion of India. It asks us to believe, as Teller pointed out, that we can deny atmospheric, anti-missile weapons to European allies who are faced with Russia's nuclear arsenal, and yet not expect the NATO alliance to be blackmailed by fear.

MR. KENNEDY'S plausibility as a wise treaty-maker lay in a near-shambles before the LeMay-Teller testimony. And his judgment did not look much better. In the promotion of the treaty he seems to show himself more as the political campaigner whose fluffs and mistakes will be forgotten tomorrow, rather than as the leader who is making decisions that must stand the unrelenting proof of time.

For his form of presentation has left many senators and observers with the impression that he demands a Cabinet and military staff who will sing for their supper. His political approach has given credence to Teller's accusation that our atmospheric tests of 1962 were stopped short of the need to surpass Russia's advantages—stopped at a point where public and "world" opinion might go against the administration.

THE PRESIDENT has denied this serious charge, as he might be expected to do, and his administration witnesses have backed him up. But the tests were feeble compared with Russia's. They are said in military circles to have been "psychological" rather than scientific. They were not satisfactory to Gen. LeMay, among others, whose job is to win our wars. In these circumstances, as in the question of what side deals may have been discussed with Khrushchev, Mr. Kennedy stands in need of a credibility rating which was not high when the treaty was broached, and has not been recently improved.

"INSTANT PICTURES"

AP PHOTOFAX MACHINE INSTALLED AT THE HERALD

Pictured at right is AP Photofax, a facsimile machine which receives pictures, ready for immediate use, from any part of the United States and from most nations of the world. It is being installed in The Herald as this newspaper becomes a part of the world-wide Associated Press Wirephoto network. Via this machine, The Herald will receive pictures from New York, Washington, Chicago, Los Angeles—or London and Paris—in as little as eight minutes.

This means that The Herald, beginning September 1, will be able to print in its editions each day top news pictures of events that have happened only a short time before. Readers will have illustrations that have moved over the wires as promptly as the news stories. This is another forward step taken by The Herald to bring you a better, more complete newspaper, with a content matching that of any metropolitan publication.

The world-wide services of the Associated Press Wirephoto network—of which The Herald becomes a member on September 1—to bring its readers "Instant Pictures." The AP has more than 400 picture transmitting machines in the U.S. alone, with more than 30 network "splits" to permit fast, flexible handling of state and regional pictures. Now, with the news today, you see the pictures today!

Socialist Slogans Used To Bring Literacy To Algeria

By ANDREW BOROWICZ ALGIERS (AP)—"Socialism is happiness. To be socialist means to love the people."

Throughout Algeria, tens of thousands of turbaned men and veiled women repeat those words after their instructors.

It is part of the government's vast anti-illiteracy campaign, consisting mainly of slogans praising socialism and the revolution.

The slogans are placarded at collective farms and nationalized factories, scribbled on blackboards in schools, printed on every page of the new primer.

More than a year after its independence, Algeria's password is the Revolution, the Revolution of the Workers and of the Starving Fellahin (peasants).

So far it has not brought bread and happiness. The people are told that the road ahead will be hard, that in addition to building their own nation the Algerian people should liberate other, still colonized African peoples.

Liberation of Africa's remaining colonies is the guiding light of Premier Ben Bella's foreign policy. Through it, he hopes to give Algeria a leading role in Africa, to build up a debt of gratitude.

Some 1,000 Angolan fighters are training in Algerian camps. South African nationalists have set up propaganda offices in Algeria. Ben Bella has called on his people to "die a little" to free their African brothers. They roared approval by countless rallies because approval was what they were asked for. They chanted "down with apartheid" though few likely understood the word.

And they returned to their hamlets crowded with unemployed, to apartments taken over from fleeing Europeans, wondering where tomorrow's bread would come from.

It comes mainly from unemployment funds provided from French funds and from American surplus wheat which has kept the country from starving since independence.

The figures of unemployed are staggering — nearly two million able-bodied men or 75 per cent of the total labor force. Since independence, 300,000 persons in urban areas have lost jobs.

Unemployment projects are being launched with U.S. aid but so far are a drop in the bucket. The state farms have not begun paying off. Four per cent of the farms are still in European hands and they pay taxes to keep others going.

Most of the country's 1,700 doctors have left. Doctors have come to help but they have been unable to fill the gap.

In major cities, public utilities have functioned regularly with European supervisory staffs sent from France, and local workers. The police do hardly more than direct traffic. Many criminals go unpunished.

The new state is accumulating a staggering budget deficit every month. No department or ministry makes long-range plans. French aid is the main hope for survival. This year alone, France has given more than $400 million.

Are Algerians still happy with independence, with their revolution?

They are glad to see their own policemen trying to cope with traffic. They are glad to see their own green and white flag. They can go anywhere without feeling unwanted.

They are now a nation and they are proud of it.

But they are weary of slogans and realize that they have lost many material advantages of French rule.

They hope that perhaps tomorrow will bring a change, a change for the better.

Explosion Hits School Room, None Injured

BURAS, La. (AP) — An explosion late Monday night wrecked a classroom and started a fire at a Buras Roman Catholic school which has been boycotted since it was briefly integrated last year. No one was reported hurt.

Officials at Our Lady of Good Harbor school said the blaze was put out by the fire department shortly after the explosion shook the building at about 11:50 p.m.

The blast blew out a wall in a room adjoining the wrecked classroom, cracked the wall into teachers lounge and in two lavatories.

Officials said sisters at the school had received a telephone call over the weekend warning that the school would be blown up.

The recently built school near the mouth of the Mississippi River about 40 miles south of New Orleans, inhabited Aug. 30 under orders of Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel, head of the archdiocese of New Orleans.

White attendance, which ran about 380, dropped slowly until Sept. 15 when no children appeared. The five Negroes, who had integrated the school, had stopped coming earlier.

Most of the white children transferred to public schools in the area.

Presbyterian Youth Attend Area Meeting

Nine young people, as representatives from various Presbyterian churches in Howard County, attended the Southwest Presbyterian Senior High Convention held in Midland last weekend. The youth viewed three films, "Question 7," "Mark of the Hawk," and "Boundary Lines," and these were used as the subjects of discussion and study.

Reports from the two representatives of the Presbytery to NARPYA (The North American Reformed and Presbyterian Youth Assembly) held at Purdue University were also given.

Kathy Seddon, a member of St. Paul Presbyterian Church, was installed as a member of the Presbytery Youth Council. She serves as a moderator of District II and editor of the Presbytery youth newspaper, Rev. E. A. J. Seddon, pastor of St. Paul, served as a discussion group leader and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lusk of the First Presbyterian Church and Stephen P. Lazarus of St. Paul attended as sponsors.

District Governor To Visit Stanton

Louis D. Crothers is wasting little time in making official visits to the Lions Clubs of District 2-A1. Tuesday noon, Sept. 3, he will be at Stanton for a session with that club, advising and assisting club officers in the promotion of an active program. During the year he will visit approximately 50 clubs.

Lions Launch Plans For Annual Barbecue

Evening Lions will skip next week's meeting because it falls on Labor Day. The following week, Sept. 9, will be devoted to a barbecue in preparation for the club's traditional chicken barbecue in advance of the first home football game, Sept. 13.

Ted Hull, zone chairman, announced the first zone meeting will be held at the 66 Truck Stop Cafe at 8 p.m. Sept. 10. A directors meeting has been scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Sept. 3 at Coker's.

Ambulances Slowed

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Ambulances may travel no faster than 45 miles per hour in Mexico City, officials directed Monday. Several recent accidents involving speeding ambulances caused the city to issue the new order.

Two Pool Hall Sites Checked

Two applications for pool hall operations were being processed by Big Spring officials Tuesday morning. Neither was complete. Locations proposed were at 205 and at 311 Rannels. These buildings were formerly occupied by Barrow Furniture Co. and Barr Photo Center.

Police Chief Jay Banks, Building Inspector Tom Newton, and City Attorney John Burgess were going over building layouts to determine their suitability to meet ordinance specifications on pool halls.

"It is our responsibility to see that ordinance specifications are carried out rigidly," Banks said. "The city commission's intent, in passing the ordinance, was to permit only halls suitable for families and young people, as well as men. Both of these buildings with some alterations, seem to meet requirements."

The new ordinance regulating pool halls specifies a glass, or transparent opening across at least 60 per cent of the front of the buildings. No walls or partitions, except for sanitary facilities, will be permitted in the buildings. They must also be well lighted. No beer or alcoholic beverages may be sold or used in the halls.

All applications when finally approved by the police chief, fire marshal, building inspector, and health inspector, must be approved by the city commission for approval.

Cox Predicts He Could Beat Ralph Yarborough

DALLAS (AP) — Oilman Jack Cox, twice defeated as a candidate for governor, said Monday he could beat Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., in a U. S. Senate race.

Cox, 41, a Republican who now lives in Houston, quickly added that he's not a candidate at the moment. He said if he runs for any office next year, however, it will be for the Senate seat held by Yarborough.

The view of Cox, who turned Republican after losing a race for the Democratic nomination for governor, were expressed in a question-and-answer session before Dallas members of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

Cox acknowledged that he has read and heard that Democratic Vice President Lyndon Johnson might seek the Senate post.

Could Cox beat Johnson? Cox said he hadn't considered that possibility.

"It would be a real campaign," he said.

What influence does the John Birch Society have in the Republican party?

"I don't believe the Birch society or any other organization has any role to play in the Republican party," he said.

On GOP presidential hopefuls, Cox said: "I'm a Goldwater fan. I'm working in his behalf."

Predicting Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., will win the nomination, Cox added: "He has an excellent chance to beat Kennedy in 1964."

A match between President Kennedy and Goldwater would give people the choice they deserve between liberal policies of Kennedy and conservative views of Goldwater, Cox asserted. Cox lost as a Democratic rival in 1960 of former Gov. Price Daniel, the incumbent. In 1962 Cox was a Republican candidate and lost to Gov. John Connally. Cox said Connally "to a large extent owes his election to the Negro group"—if you don't believe that a good many Negro voters are disappointed by Connally's opposition to the public accommodations section of Kennedy's proposed civil rights legislation, he said.

VISITED CUBA

Students Are Returning Home

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Fifty-four American students, who encountered the State Department's wrath by going to Cuba and Fidel Castro's red tape in getting out, hope to leave Madrid for New York Thursday.

Another student, Barry Hoffman, 26, of Brookline, Mass., left Cuba with the group Sunday but got off the airliner in Bermuda and flew to New York Monday. A State Department agent took up his passport and the FBI questioned him. Hoffman declined to talk to newsmen.

All 55 students face possible prosecution for violating a State Department ban on unauthorized travel to Cuba.

A group of Cuban exiles greeted the Americans in Madrid with jeers.

The students declined to talk to newsmen but one of their leaders, Levi Laub of New York, said:

"We will have plenty to say when we get home. We expect to have a public meeting, probably in New York Town Hall, in mid-September."

Of the 59 who arrived in Havana June 30 as guests of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Communist government, one, Warren Hill, 29, of Brooklyn, died July 14 while swimming a hotel pool. Two pregnant women and the husband of one of them did not make the homeward flight because the women were expected to give birth soon.

Spanish police took two of the students into custody when they failed to produce passports. One, identified as Charles N. Buchanan, was released when police accepted a temporary passport issued by Swiss officials in Cuba after he reportedly lost his American passport.

The other student was identified as Lee Raisner. Friends said he lost his wallet containing documents.

The students were forced to take the 8,000-mile route instead of a 90-mile hop from Havana to Miami, because of the U.S. ban on unauthorized travel between the United States and Cuba.

The students flew to Cuba via Prague, Czechoslovakia.

The Castro government paid their transportation both ways and all expenses while they were official guests, until July 27. The students paid their own expenses after that date and some ran out of funds.

Any student convicted of violating the ban on travel to Cuba could be fined up to $5,000 and sentenced to five years in prison.

Two Firemen, Policeman Are Killed

DALLAS (AP)—Two firemen and a policeman suffered fatal injuries as a fire truck answering a false alarm and a police car collided today. Three other men suffered injuries.

Police said the car, equipped with siren and blinker lights but otherwise unmarked apparently was hurrying to intercept a speeding motorist. Officers in another car halted the speeder a minute or two earlier.

The collision occurred shortly before 1 a.m. at an Oak Cliff intersection.

Fire Capt. W. J. Jones, 39, of Mesquite and fireman J. H. Jones, 37, of Dallas died in the crash. Policeman R. A. Underwood, 27, died on a Methodist Hospital, operating table three hours later.

The injured are policeman L. B. Kirkpatrick, 33, reported in critical condition; fireman W. A. Massie, said to be in serious condition, and fireman W. B. Strickland, who escaped with minor injuries.

Fire officials found the hook and ladder truck was answering a false alarm turned in from a signal box a few blocks from the scene of the crash.

A fire engine just ahead of the ladder truck cleared the intersection moments before the crash, in which the police car struck the ladder section about the middle. The truck driver, A. F. Chesney, was unhurt.

Temple Announces Integration Plan

TEMPLE (AP) — A modified stair-step plan of integration Sept. 9 has been adopted by the Temple School Board.

The plan calls for integration of grades 1 and 2 this school year, grades 3, 4 and 7 in 1964-65; grades 5, 6, 8 and 10 during 1965-66, and 9, 11 and 12 in 1966-67.

Negro citizens attending a board meeting Monday said they were pleased.

Lt. Jas. Goodman First To Solo

Lt. James D. Goodman, a member of Class 65-A was the first student of his class to solo the T-37. Goodman was one of two members of 65-A who had been cleared for solo take-off, but Goodman eased into takeoff position about 30 seconds ahead of his competition for "first" solo honors.

Goodman is a native of Little Rock, Ark., and a graduate of the USAF Academy; he entered training here July 15, this year.

DEAR ABBY
It's All Or Nothing

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man ten years younger than myself. We had both been divorced and were lonesome, and he said it made no difference that I was older, as he didn't care for the younger girls. He's a nice-looking man in his 30's. I have a grown son and daughter both working. I held a good job and had money in the bank and a nice home, all paid for. He asked me to sell my house, trade in my car for a new one, quit my job and move to another city with him. This I did gladly. I bought another house and got another job. He's working, too. My heartbreak came when we were at a night club one night and he said, "If we run into anyone I know, I will introduce you as my AUNT!" Now I find out he has told everyone that he is a bachelor. I am so hurt and sick. Please tell me what to do, Abby. Should I leave him?

HIDDEN WIFE
DEAR HIDDEN: Don't convict your husband on circumstantial evidence. Put it to him this way: "Are you ashamed of me? Would you prefer to be a bachelor. Make up your mind. I'm your wife in private and in public. Or not at all."

DEAR ABBY: Our young son was given a cute little baby duck last Easter, and now it is a full-grown nuisance. He is up at dawn, quacking worse than a rooster. He was hit by a motor scooter and suffered a broken wing so we took him to the vet's to have his wing set. Another time he pestered our collie dog and got most of his feathers torn off. He also lost an eye. Just last week he ate some poison berries and we had to take him to the vet's again. This crazy bird has cost us $33 in doctor and drug bills. We can't kill it because he's a "pet." Does anybody wanna buy a duck?

DUCK TROUBLE
DEAR DUCK TROUBLE: Not with the recommendation YOU'VE given it. The answer is easy as duck soup. Call your S.P.C.A. and tell them you are all fowled up.

DEAR ABBY: My dear father-in-law died six months ago. Had he lived a little longer, my mother-in-law and he would have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary next month. My sister-in-law wants to give a big anniversary party, complete with guests and gifts anyway. She argues that the "family" has looked forward to this golden wedding anniversary for so long it is only "fair" to give Mother the party. My husband and I believe such a celebration would be improper. What is your opinion?

JUST WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: Your husband and you are right. Since your father-in-law is not living, such a celebration would be out of order. Give your mother-in-law a corsage and invite her to a quiet family dinner.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell that stupid Mother of Five in Philadelphia that bearing a child does not make one a mother any more than buying a piano makes one a musician.
