OVERFLOW CROWD GATHERS OUTSIDE CHURCH FOR BOMBING VICTIMS' FUNERAL
Three of four dead Negro girls buried in Birmingham as leaders call for federal occupation

'Not In Vain' Eulogized At Girls' Funeral

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — "They did not die in vain," said Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. before grieving thousands buried three Negro girls killed in a bomb blast during Sunday school.

"God still has a way of bringing good out of evil," he assured the parents Wednesday. "The innocent blood of these little girls may well serve as a redemptive force for this city."

Denise McNair, 11, Addie Mae Collins and Cynthia Wesley, both 14, were buried a day following the funeral of the fourth victim of Sunday's unsolved bombing, Carole Robertson, 14.

TWO MORE
Still to be buried, next Sunday, are two young Negro victims of violence that broke out a few hours after the bombing of the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church.

Meanwhile, seven Southern integration leaders went to Washington to report today to President Kennedy on the racial crisis in Birmingham, where Negroes have generally followed their advice against retaliation for the dynamite blast.

The seven included King, who said at Wednesday's funeral:

WHITE SIDE
"This tragic event may cause the white side to come to terms with its conscience in spite of the darkness of this hour we must not despair, we must not become bitter."

"We must not lose faith in our white brothers. Life is hard at times as hard as crucible steel. But today you do not walk alone."

The children, King said quietly, were "the modern heroes of a noble crusade for human dignity and freedom."

Police estimated that 4,000, including numerous white persons, went to the funeral although only about half that number could get inside the Sixth Avenue Baptist Church, across town from the church where the girls met their deaths while studying a lesson on "the love that forgives."

NOT ALONE
Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said:

"We came to this place to restate our determination to press on undeterred in the crusade that is not ours alone—a crusade for the righteousness and redemption of the soul of a nation."

One white clergyman participated in the service. The Rev. Joseph Ellwanger, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, spoke of the Christian hope of resurrection.

JFK, Negro Leaders Talk Over Crisis

Federal Troops Asked For 'Bama

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy meets today with the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and six other Negro leaders to discuss the simmering racial situation in Birmingham, Ala.

On Monday, five of the Negroes called on Kennedy to send federal troops to Birmingham to control "civil disorder."

Long weeks of racial tension in the Alabama steel city reached a climax Sunday when a bomb was tossed into a Negro church, killing four children and injuring 23 others in later incidents the same day, two Negro youths were killed.

In advance of Kennedy's late afternoon meeting with the Negro leaders, many civil rights leaders across the nation called for recognition of next Sunday as a day of national mourning for victims of the Birmingham church bombing.

'Soldiers Aren't Solution' — Bobby

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said today he does not think that sending federal troops to Birmingham would solve the racial crisis there.

"We're not going to get the answer to this problem with bayonets," Kennedy said on the National Broadcasting Company's television show "Today."

"For Washington to step in and say 'Everyone's going to get along or we'll prick you with a bayonet' would not erase the antagonism between the races," the attorney general added.

A bipartisan group of senators, headed by Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democratic leader, has introduced a resolution calling on Kennedy to proclaim Sunday "a day of national observance in memory of these children and a day of reeducation in the nation to the principles of law, equality and tolerance."

The senators, who also include Thomas H. Kuchel of California, assistant Republican leader, sent a similar request to President Kennedy by letter. Asked for reaction to it Wednesday, Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said "it's in the hands of the Senate."

A group of religious leaders, including Catholic, Protestant and Jewish leaders, called on House Speaker John McCormack and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy Wednesday, seeking support for a "Sabbath of silence" or silent prayer period on Sunday.

RIGHTS MARCH
In New York, leaders of the 10 organizations that sponsored last month's civil rights march on Washington issued a statement "calling upon all Americans to observe this Sunday as a day of mourning."

Observances are also planned in other cities.

The situation in Birmingham brought a call Wednesday from Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for the federal government to "cut off every nickel and every dime going into Alabama."

Wilkins told a news conference here that President Kennedy should start by "closing down Maxwell Air Force Base at Montgomery immediately."

STUDENT RESTRAINED . . . in Michigan riot

Racial Uproar Hits Michigan

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Classes resumed peacefully at police-guarded Parkside High School today after troubles Wednesday during which stones were flung at police and nearly a score of white and Negro youths were taken into custody.

Fifteen policemen in contrast to the customary one officer, were stationed in the immediate area of the newly opened $3 million school.

After a few uneasy moments in a crowded hallway of the school, all students went to their rooms without incident.

TO ROOMS
A Negro girl walked into a crowd of Negro students blocking the hall and told them to go to their home rooms. Most did so promptly. A few stayed to see the others but then also went to their rooms.

Negro teenagers threw stones at police Wednesday after an incident in the school parking lot. Some shouted references to "Alabama" Wednesday night police broke up a crowd of 100 to 150 Negro adults who had massed at a residential street corner.

Principal George Kiesel indicated he felt the racial troubles in Birmingham, including Sunday's church bombing in which four children were killed, contributed to unrest here.

Parkside had 205 absentees today, compared to an 86 daily average. Kiesel said the absences were hardly noticeable.

Ten students, including a white girl, were arrested after the hour-long disturbance Wednesday afternoon. Seven white youths were picked up later and released after questioning.

POLICE ATTACKED
Four policemen were assaulted by a mob of Negro students which also hurled rocks at the policemen and at passing cars. Police Chief Roscoe Gray, who said his "show of force didn't work," dispersed about 18 Negro youths at one point with a fire extinguisher.

The president of the Jackson chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Harold White, asked Gov. George Romney to investigate.

Dr. Elven Duvall, Jackson school superintendent, planned to appeal to the students in an assembly for an end to the incidents and tension.

The school is located on the southwest side of Jackson, a Southern Michigan city of 56,000.

After classes ended Wednesday several hundred students—mostly Negroes—gathered in the parking lot. About six Negro and white girls began shoving each other, witnesses said.

Cut Needs People's Support — Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has urged the people to speak up in support of his tax reduction program. He said its benefits would range from new washing machines for families to new strength around the world for the American dollar and freedom.

"But that bill is in danger of being weakened or deferred," declared Kennedy. "It needs your help, your voice."

Thus through a national radio and television speech, the President sought to light a grassroots fire under Congress on behalf of the $11-billion tax reduction — which he called the most important domestic economic measure in 15 years.

FIRST HURDLE
The first major hurdle will come next Wednesday when the House is expected to vote on the tax program. But Kennedy was also looking toward the Senate where the bill faces a stormy time.

Kennedy directed his appeal all along the economic front, from businessmen to factory workers, from families watching their own shaky budgets to citizens worried over the government's unbalanced budget.

He asked for quick passage of the bill without a proposed Republican amendment tying tax cuts to curbs on spending.

Almost as soon as Kennedy finished his address, William E. Miller, Republican national chairman, fired off telegrams to the networks asking equal time to reply to the President.

Retorting to GOP charges of fiscal recklessness, Kennedy said:

NO WASTE
"No wasteful, inefficient or unnecessary government activity will be tolerated on the grounds that it helps employment. We are pledged to a course of true fiscal responsibility, leading to a balanced budget."

Much of his appeal was directed to people like the $8,000-a-year family whose prospective benefits he singled out as an example. The head of such a household, he said could look to the tax cut for for enough extra take home pay to meet "the installments on a new dishwasher for his wife."

Other families, he went on might prefer to use theirs on a new spring wardrobe, or a washing machine, or a longer vacation trip, or a down payment on a new car or a new home. "And he said the demand so created would help the country "skip a recession" and provide the 10 million jobs needed in the next 2 1/2 years.

SEEKING HELP
Kennedy obviously was looking for some help from Republicans, too.

"This is not a question of party — it is a question of jobs and growth. It is a question of whether our taxpayers and businessmen and workers will get the break they deserve. As the Congress prepares to vote on this issue, I strongly urge you to support this bill for your family's sake . . . and for your country's sake."

The tax proposal that Republicans have put forth would provide that the tax cut, which Kennedy wants to start Jan. 1, would not take effect unless he submitted spending budgets not greater than $97 billion for the present fiscal year, which started July 1, and $98 billion for next year.

This would mean cuts of about $1 billion from this year's spending and perhaps as much as $3 billion to $4 billion from next year's which has not yet been estimated in detail.

MAJOR RISK
The Weather Bureau revised downward its prediction of a major rise on the Sabine River at Deweyville. The agency now says the river should crest at 14.5 feet — just above flood stage, and stay that way for the next day or so. Earlier, the prediction was for a rise four feet above flood stage of 14 feet.

The Red Cross said in Houston it has closed all its evacuation shelters at Beaumont and Orange. The agency said flood waters had receded enough to permit all families to return home.

$10 MILLION
Cloudbursts of the past two days subsided, meanwhile on occasional light showers. All but a few of several thousand evacuees were able to return and start shoveling mud from soggy homes.

Emphasizing that losses could not be appraised accurately until flood waters finish ebbing, the Jefferson County Civil Defense Council estimated damage might reach $10.5 million.

The council appealed for Texas Gov. John Connally to declare the county, which includes Beaumont and Port Arthur, a disaster area. Rains measuring up to nearly two feet drained into the Neches River and created the threat to Port Acres, 10 miles south of here and just west of Port Arthur.

Spokesmen for the U.S. Engineers said if water topped an eight-foot levee protecting Port Acres, it could gush into 600 of the town's 1,000 homes and rout more than 2,000 people.

Floods Menace Coastal Cities

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Slowly rising waters at the eight-foot levee protecting suburban Port Acres intensified a critical situation today, and an emergency call went out for fresh workers to bolster sandbagging operations.

If flood waters topped the levee they would pour into hundreds of homes.

"The situation is still very critical," said Sawyer Wilson, Civil Defense coordinator for the southeast Texas area slapped by hurricane Cindy and swamped by subsequent massive rains.

"We need at least 200 more workers," Wilson said. "Most of those who worked through the night have either dropped out from exhaustion or returned to their jobs."

There was no way of telling if heavy runoffs upriver would push the water level at Port Acres over the levee.

THREE JAILED IN TRUCK THEFT

GARDEN CITY (SC)—Three persons, one of them a juvenile, were taken into custody at Laredo today as an aftermath to the theft of a pickup here Wednesday from W. C. (Pete) Underwood.

Sheriff Royce (Booger) Pruitt was preparing to leave for Laredo in an effort to get custody of the trio. Charges of car theft are being lodged against Roy Carter Blankenship and Kenneth C. Grantham, both of Odessa.

The 1961 model pickup belonging to Underwood was stolen from the rear of the store here about 5 p.m. It was later found stripped and abandoned at San Angelo. The wheels were taken along with some tools and a rifle in the truck.

The trio was captured at Laredo in a new car reportedly mused at San Angelo.

MYERS PLEA 'NOT GUILTY'

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—John Edwin Myers of Chicago, accused of slaying a Belleville man and his daughter in August, 1961, pleaded innocent today.

Judge Joseph Flemming appointed Ray Freeark and John Rafelle to defend him. Myers said he was unable to pay. No trial date has been set.

Myers was returned from Big Spring, last week, where he was sentenced to death for killing Arthur DeKraai, an Iowa hitchhiker. A new trial was ordered, however, and delays were encountered. Texas authorities decided to let Illinois proceed with its case.

He is accused of murdering George Ballard, 47, and his daughter, Carol, 11, Aug. 31, 1961.

Donna Marie Stone, 13, who accompanied Myers during his travels, has pleaded guilty and is serving an indeterminate term in Illinois.

The Ballards were shot while fishing at nearby Hooker Lake.

Myers and the Stone girl were arrested Sept. 2, 1961, near Big Spring. At the time authorities said Myers and the girl admitted killing the Ballards for their money and car.

JANITOR FINDS EVIDENCE

Courthouse Trash Can Yields Traces Of Post Office Theft

By SAM BLACKBURN
Ordinarily the waste receptacle under the washbasin in the men's room at the courthouse contains only soggy paper towels, a few crumpled cigarette packs and other drab and unimportant miscellany.

When such a receptacle begins to yield uncashed bank checks, unpaid money orders, as well as a clutter of envelopes and opened mail, one naturally gets to wondering.

"I didn't notice anything unusual at first," said D. C. Trantham, one of the Howard County courthouse janitors. "I went in the men's room in the basement Wednesday afternoon. I pulled out the wastebaskets and dumped the contents in my cart. Then I went into the Red Cross office to get the trash. When I came back out,

I looked in the cart and saw this bank check. I examined it and found it had not been cashed. I put it in my pocket to turn in later. A little later, I saw something else in the cart—an unpaid money order. I got to examining the stuff from the rest room and there were about 100 envelopes all addressed to Sears or to the Big Spring State Hospital."

Trantham turned the accumulated trash over to Chief Deputy Aubrey Standard and Deputy Bill Whitton in the sheriff's office. Standard called the post office and A. A. Porter, assistant postmaster, took the letters in charge. Porter said there were at least 100 opened envelopes in the clutter. He said that there were numerous checks and a number of money orders.

From the dates cancelled on the envelopes, Porter estimates that the letters had been stolen Tuesday night.

Apparently, officers said, the mail had all been taken from the lock boxes of Sears and the state hospital. How the raider got into the boxes has not been determined. Porter said he has notified the post office inspectors of the matter and that an investigation into the theft will be made.

Man Arrested For Assault With Snake

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — A white man has been jailed in this racially troubled city after he allegedly pushed a live snake into a Negro's mouth.

Sheriff James Clark said Dean Barber Jr., 23, of Selma, is charged with conduct intended to incite a riot. A Negro was charged with assault and battery in the same incident.

Clark said Barber pushed the non-poisonous snake into the faces of four Negroes who were standing outside a church where an anti-segregation rally was in session.

Johnny Creer, one of the Negroes, said he struck at the snake and at Barber. Creer was arrested at the scene. Barber was picked up about an hour later.

Another of the four Negroes, James Gildersleeve, said Barber pushed the snake into his mouth, but he jerked his head away. He said Creer then struck Barber.

Home Life Sad, Say Dionne Quints

NEW YORK (AP)—When Papa Dionne got his millionaire daughters away from the crown and Dr. Allan Dafoe, he put them to work cleaning the bathrooms in the mansion he built with their money, the quintts say in their autobiography.

"It was the saddest home we ever knew," they added.

The life story, as told to James Brough by the four remaining quintuplets — Annette, Yvonne, Marie and Cecile—appears in the current issue of McCall's magazine.

CAREFUL SECRET

In it they tell how the secret of the fifth quintuplet's epilepsy (Emilie died after an attack in 1954) was carefully guarded because "the family considered her illness a shameful thing," and how the five little girls made to feel set apart from the rest of the family, and filled with a sense of guilt.

"If love begets love, guilt begets guilt," the 29-year-old quintts said. "The air of the big house was thick with it. Mom and dad behaved toward each other as though they had been partners in some unspoken crime in bringing us into the world. We were drenched with a sense of having sinned from the hour of our birth."

The quintts, who spent their first seven years in a special government-built and government-supervised nursery on the family farm at Callendar, Ontario, were "wards of his majesty" by an act of the Canadian Parliament and were cared for by a corps of nurses, teachers and guards superintended by Dr. Dafoe, the country doctor who had delivered them.

"Dad wanted us and the quintuplet funds in his own exclusive custody," the sisters said. "In the beginning he needed money for the sake of the other children. But afterward, his fortunes improved, it made no difference. By then, it was a matter of self-esteem that he should win. We were such a prize."

Today, three of the quintts are married and mothers and the fourth, Yvonne, is in a convent. Cecile, the wife of television technician Philippe Langlois, was the first of the quintts to have a child. She now has three sons and a daughter. Two of the boys are twins.

Annette, whose husband, German Allard, is a finance company executive, has three sons, and Marie, wife of government clerk Florent Houle, has two daughters.

GOOD HEALTH

Fortune Mounts For Fischer Five

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—The Fischer quintuplets squirmed and squaled in their hospital nursery today while their fortunes and chances for survival continued to mount.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer, parents of the four girls and one boy, got good news from several directions Wednesday.

They will someday live in a new house costing up to $100,000.

A potful of money (some say about $50,000) is coming their way for an exclusive contract signed with the Curtis Publishing Company.

Authorities at St. Luke's Hospital reported the quintts still improving, eating more and showing lots of life in their isolettes.

It is estimated that gifts and money received by the family so far total some $250,000.

ACCEPT OFFER

E. C. Pappas, president of the Aberdeen Chamber of Commerce, told a news conference Wednesday night that the Fischer family has accepted the chamber offer to build the home, which may cost up to the $100,000 mark.

The site and size of the home have yet to be determined.

Don Schanche, managing editor of the Saturday Evening Post, announced that Curtis has secured radio, television and publishing rights to stories and pictures about the famous quintts.

He refused to disclose any details of the agreement. Unofficial reports set the purchase price at about $50,000 for rights to the story for a few issues of the Post and Curtis' Ladies Homes Journal.

BEST THING

Schanche said his company was "very happy to have concluded the agreement and thinks it is the best thing for all concerned."

He pledged the story of the quintts would be handled "with dignity and decorum."

A hospital bulletin reported the quintts were "still tolerating their food well" and the food intake has been increased beyond the tea-spoonful or so of artificial milk formula and water being received every two hours.

The boy, James Andrew, remained the most active of the infants.

"He lets you know he's a boy," one nurse reported.

Also reported highly active and healthy were the four girls—Mary Margaret, Mary Magdalene, Mary Catherine and Mary Ann.

Court Queries Estes Lawyer

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Lawyer Jack Bryant of Abilene has been ordered to appear in El Paso Oct. 1 for questioning about the finances of his client Billie Sol Estes.

He recently arranged for the purchase of a home in Abilene for Estes and substituted for the Austin firm of Cofer and Cofer in representing him in bankruptcy proceedings.

Allan L. Poage, as lawyer for Harry Moore, trustee in bankruptcy, asked that Bryant be required to come to El Paso for questioning. Bankruptcy referee J. C. Brookie issued the order.

Estes is scheduled also for questioning at the same time but is not expected to testify. He has refused in the past to submit to questioning about his financial empire, which collapsed last year.

17 INCHES

The babies haven't yet been weighed or measured but unofficial estimates place their weight at between three and four pounds and their length at about 17 inches.

Dr. James Berbos, the family physician who delivered the brood last Saturday, said they had not gained any weight since their birth but that this was normal for premature babies. He said they were developing normally and "nothing apparently is wrong."

The quintts were expected to remain in the hospital for at least two months but Mrs. Fischer, 30, was due for release later this week.

The infants, he said, are irritable and hard to handle—like all premature babies. They still are being fed through plastic tubes inserted into the nose and leading to the stomach. The doctor said he would take the infants "off the tubes" as soon as possible.

Premature babies are not fed by nipple and bottle until they acquire a sucking instinct.

Premium Nearly Came Too Dearly

DENVER (AP)—His insurance premium was $6.71, but Edward Fowler Jr. mailed off a check for $900,006.71 to his insurance company.

When he blamed the mistake Wednesday on his office check-writing machine, an insurance company official agreed to overlook it.

Have The Churches Failed?

In considering the sad conditions of morals in America, the senior editor of Look Magazine, tells us the churches have failed. Religious leaders are quoted to verify the statement. I am not here to deny it. The evidence is too great. For the most part, the churches of America have failed. This does not mean that Christianity has failed. Christianity has never failed. It cannot fail; for it is of God. Men have failed to practice and foster Christianity. There can be no other explanation.

For the most part, the churches have failed to be truly Christian.

How, then, can a church be truly Christian? By following the

No Marshals For McDowell

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Cleve McDowell, now the only Negro student at the University of Mississippi since the graduation of James H. Meredith, expects to be treated like any other student.

McDowell, 21, registered Wednesday for the fall term at the university's law school—his second semester.

Like Meredith, he drove to school in a small, foreign sports car. He purchased the auto from Meredith.

Like Meredith's later days at the university, he drew some stares but no jeers or catcalls.

Like Meredith, he was housed in a dormitory on campus. He and Meredith shared a room in Baxter Hall dormitory during the summer. This term, he is in Leavelle Hall. Both McDowell and school officials refused to say if he had a roommate.

Unlike Meredith, McDowell was not accompanied Wednesday by federal marshals or Army troops.

He refused to talk to newsmen.

Husky Bandit Nets $9,000 At Allen Bank

ALLEN, Tex. (AP)—Officers sought today to solve the robbery Wednesday of $9,000 to $10,000 from the Allen State Bank.

The robber, described as being six feet and three inches tall and weighing about 240, escaped in an old car and headed south toward Dallas, 25 miles away.

Dudley Robertson, president of the bank which opened last April, estimated the loss. He said the robber entered the bank and said he was a mechanic wanting a loan. Then, said Robertson, the man pulled a snub-nosed pistol and demanded money.

Robertson and an employee, Cashier Jerry Cauthen, were alone in the bank. Both were bound with their own belts.

FBI agents questioned Robertson and Cauthen.

Texas Rangers aiding in the investigation were led by Sgt. Lester Robertson of Dallas, J. S. Hunt, Collin County sheriff, and Sheriff Wiley Barnes of Denton County also were present.

CHRYSLER 300
Victories in sports car rallies

Many New Features Added To 1964 Chrysler Models

Reclining seats, head rests, a new console-mounted automatic transmission lever, a seven-position adjustable steering wheel and a four-speed manual transmission are among the many new features in the new 1964 Chrysler line.

One model in the new line, the New Yorker Salon, has more than 40 items of extra equipment, including an improved air conditioning system, as standard. Seven models offer a reclining front seat on the passenger side. Front seat head rests are optional on those models.

The new Chrysler will be introduced at Gillihan Motor Co., 600 E. 3rd, Friday.

All 1964 Chrysler retain the basic dimensions and crisp lines of their predecessors but they have a new, sleeker appearance. The rear window is larger. All three series—the economical Newport, sports series 300 and deluxe New Yorker—have new and personalized grille designs. They have new rear metal sculpturing and bold, new tail lamps with a strong hexagonal appearance.

NEW 300K FEATURED

The 1964 version of Chrysler's "alphabet" series of high performance cars, which originated in 1955, is the 300K which has a sports car interior with a center transmission console and a 413 cubic-inch police pursuit type engine with a four-barrel carburetor and dual exhausts. A ram induction engine with two four-barrel carburetors and heavy duty suspension and braking is optional on the 300K. Available in 1963 as a hardtop, the 300K this year will be expanded to include a convertible.

STEERING WHEEL TILTS

In all Chryslers a new steering wheel which tilts to seven different driving positions is optional.

Wheel position is selected by means of a lever just below the turn signal on the left side of the steering column. Lifting the lever unlocks the tilt mechanism to permit an up-and-down movement of the wheel.

Auto-Pilot, a speed control device which enables the driver to dial his speed and remove his foot from the gas pedal, is standard on the sedan and optional on all automatic transmission-equipped cars having power brakes. Seat belt anchors are relocated for greater convenience and neater appearance. There are improvements in seat construction for greater comfort. The air conditioning system, which goes into about a third of all Chrysler cars, has improvements which provide better cool air distribution.

Oil Industry Told To Seek Own Solutions

HOUSTON (AP)—Jim Langdon of the Railroad Commission has urged the oil industry to try to solve its gas and oil problems itself before turning to the federal government for help.

"Problems, subject to being resolved by industry, should be resolved by its management, or at least on a state or local level, before they are presented to the federal government," Langdon said in a speech to natural gas men.

Langdon said actions of the Federal Power Commission should be kept under "careful surveillance if expansion of federal controls in the gas industry are to be curtailed."

"Buck-passing by industry management and state turns local issues into national problems on arrival in Washington," Langdon said.

"This leads to congressional study committees, the creation of new regulatory agencies and more rules and orders all too frequently."

Many new mechanical features for 1964

Valiant Models Offer New Gains In Car Economy

Building upon a world-wide record of sales success this year, Valiant moves into the 1964 model year with design changes giving emphasis to further gains in economy of operation and reliability. The new Valiants will go on display Friday, at Gillihan Motor Co., 600 E. 3rd.

The front end of the 1964 model is extensively changed. The bumper is wider and is mounted high to provide superior protection to the grille. The grille has a new horizontal design extending the full width between headlights. In the rear, the most noticeable change is in the tail lights which are vertical in shape and follow the contour of the rear quarter panels.

NINE MODELS OFFERED

The 1964 Valiant line consists of nine models in five body styles

—2-door sedan, 2-door hardtop, 4-door sedan, convertible coupe and 4-door station wagon. In the deluxe Signet series, an attractive new sporty looking vinyl roof is available as an option on the two-door hardtop.

Mechanical features include high compression for both the standard 170-cubic-inch, 101-horsepower engine and the 225 cubic inch 145-horsepower engine plus improvements in fuel and ignition systems.

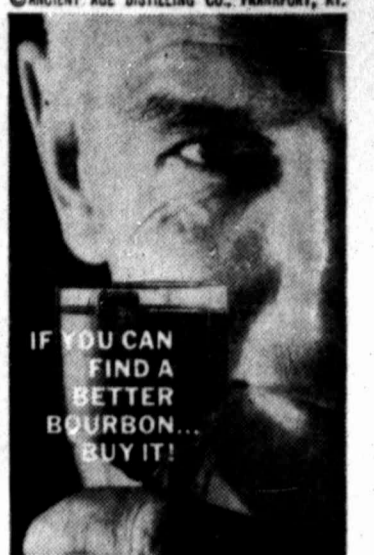

4-SPEED TRANSMISSION

New features, available for the first time in the Valiant line, include a Chrysler Corporation-engineered fully synchronized, floor-mounted 4-speed manual shift transmission; a Sure-Grip differential to minimize rear wheel spinning on slippery surfaces, and a push button electric windshield washer.

Valiant engines have a new, diaphragm-type automatic choke. The vacuum-operated diaphragm is enclosed in a self-contained unit mounted alongside the carburetor body. Its function is to assist in opening the choke blade after the engine has started.

New Plymouths To Be Shown Friday

Performance and quality, the dominant themes in the 1963 Plymouth line, are further enhanced in the 1964 models. The new Plymouth goes on show at Gillihan Motor Co., 600 E. 3rd, Friday.

Plymouth for 1964 has increased head room, improved driver vision, and an increased overall length of 1 1/2 inches. Although their overall width is unchanged at 75 1/2 inches, the new models give the impression of greater width because of fresh new horizontal styling themes, front and rear.

Engine options include a new 426 cubic inch V-8 for high performance enthusiasts. Suitable for street use, it is a modified version of the Super Stock 426 engine which established a great number of drag strip and track records in 1963.

All 1964 Plymouths have a new look. The most distinctive is the two-door hardtop which has a completely new roof line combining a fleet appearance with a convertible motif.

The 1964 Plymouths are further improved in trouble-free operation, according to C. F. Briggs, vice president of Chrysler Motors Corporation.

The improvements include additional underhood splash shields, a new automatic choke design, a new spark plug cable assembly and other refinements in the engines, transmissions and differential, as well as in body design and assembly.

WIDE RANGE OF ENGINES
Plymouth for 1964 offers a wider range of engines than ever before. They include an improved six with compression increased from 8.2:1 to 8.4:1, a competition V-8, and four V-6's designed for conventional owner use with displacements ranging from 318 to 426 cubic inches.

HEAD ROOM INCREASED
Plymouth retains its fully unitized body construction. There is a modification in the silhouette because of structural changes to accommodate a new, more vertical windshield. The roof is higher, providing an inch more head room in front in all closed models and in the rear of all sedans, four-door hardtops and station wagons.

Other new features are: an attractive new center console with "stick shift" type gear selector for the automatic transmission in the Sport Fury; a new Chrysler-engineered four-speed manual transmission with a floor-mounted shift lever, synchronized in all forward speeds and available on Commando and Super Stock engines; an improved three-speed manual shift; an electric push button windshield washer which operates independently of engine vacuum and gives the driver full control of washing action; a remote control outside rear view mirror with the control mounted on the door; new crash-tested door latches, which provide exceptional resistance to door openings in a collision.

26 MODELS OFFERED

The Plymouth line consists of 26 models in seven body styles and in four series — The Savoy, Belvedere, Fury and Sport Fury. There are two-door and four-door sedans, two-door and four-door hardtops, six passenger and nine-passenger station wagons and convertible coupes.

NEW DODGE CARS
Standard model above, Dart model below

Jones Motor Co. To Unveil 1964 Model Dodge Cars Friday

The new line of Dodge motor cars for 1964 will be unveiled for Big Spring at Jones Motor Co. First at Gregg Friday. Tom Guin invited all area residents to inspect the Dodge Dart, Dodge 880, and standard Dodge for the coming year.

Fresh styling, engineering refinement and quality-first manufacturing techniques distinguish the standard - size, low - price Dodge in 22 models. Commenting on the new models, Dodge General Manager Byron J. Nichols said:

"The five - year, 50,000-mile warranty on our engines and power train is modern evidence of the dependability that has been a Dodge tradition for 50 years."

NEW STYLING
The styling of the 64 Dodge is new, clean and uncluttered. The lines are graceful but forceful. The front is keynoted by a massive wrap-around bumper and a convex, bright-aluminum grille of thin, vertical bars.

A new windshield provides better visibility, and two-door hardtop models feature a "semi-fast-back" roofline. Larger front door openings make it easier for passengers to get in and out.

The 22 models in the standard size Dodge line are in three series: the low - price 330, the middle - line 440 and the deluxe Polara. The 1964 model line - up includes a wide variety of sedans, hardtops, station wagons and convertibles. Polara 500 sports packages are available on the Polara two-door hardtop and convertible. The sports packages feature bucket seats, a center console and luxurious all-vinyl interiors. Selector levers for either the four-speed manual or the three-speed automatic transmission are placed in the console, which also houses a storage compartment. A console-mounted, transistorized, electronic tachometer is optional.

Fourteen different exterior color and 16 subtle two - tone combinations are offered.

All 1964 Dodge models except station wagons are built on a 119-inch wheelbase. The over - all length of sedan, hardtop and convertible models has been increased almost two inches. Headroom has also been increased in both the front and the rear.

CHOICE OF SIX ENGINES
Buyers of the 1964 Dodge have a choice of six engines. The six-cylinder powerplant has a displacement of 225 cubic inches and a higher compression ratio (8.4 to 1), which improves fuel economy.

Like the six-cylinder engine, the standard 318-cubic-inch V-8 operates efficiently on regular grades of gasoline. Both of these engines have proved their ability to provide top mileage by amassing a series of victories in the annual Mobil Economy Run.

Optional engines are: a 383-cubic-inch V-8 with two-barrel carburetion; a 383 V-8 with four-barrel carburetor; a new 426-cubic-inch V-8 with a four-barrel carburetor; and the nationally known Ramcharger 426 with dual four - barrel carburetors. The horsepower of the six engines ranges from 145 to 425. The new Dart, new family-size compact, offers durability and safety. It also features a new look in styling and significant improvements in engine performance. Built on a 111-inch wheelbase, the Dart is offered in nine models, including two convertibles and two station wagons.

SALES UP 145 PER CENT
Nichols pointed out that Dart sales in the 1963 model year were more than 145 per cent higher than sales of the comparable Dodge car in 1962.

A major styling change for the Dart is a new, broad grille composed of fine, vertical lines. A rectangular bar across the face of the grille displays the Dodge name in block letters. A simulated air scoop on the hood is outlined in chrome, and distinctive new modeling along the sides appear to give the car added length. The rear window has been increased a full three inches in width, providing more attractive styling and better rear vision for the driver.

An increase in compression ratios has improved the efficiency of the Dart's 170- and 225-cubic-inch, six-cylinder engines. Both operate economically on regular grades of gasoline.

The medium - price line of Dodge 880 and Custom 880 cars for 1964 feature new styling and many convenience and performance innovations.

Dodge again offers nine models for "the buyer who wants big car luxury at a moderate price." Six are in the deluxe Custom 880 series and three in the lower-price Dodge 880 series. All are built on a 122-inch wheelbase.

NEW TILT STEERING WHEEL
New features of the 880's for 1964 include: an optional steering wheel that tilts to seven different driving positions; a new four-speed manual transmission with floor shift; more effective air-conditioning; and a series of engineering refinements which provide fast starting, improved fuel economy and better acceleration.

"The Dodge 880 and Custom 880 have firmly established themselves since their introduction in early 1962," said Nichols. "We firmly expect that the styling and engineering advances in the new models will strengthen their position in this important sector of the new - car market in 1964."

Atlantic Planning Waterflood Work

DALLAS (AP) — Atlantic Refining Co. disclosed Wednesday plans for a major waterflood project in West Texas for secondary recovery of oil.

The unit, due to be operating by early next year, will be about 25 miles northwest of Odessa in Ector County.

Company officials said the Goldsmith-Cummins San Andres unit will include more than 100 miles of oil flow and water lines and a water injection pumping station with initial capacity of 45,000 barrels daily.

Atlantic Refining will be the operator. The unit will combine operations of 18 companies.

Plans also call for eight automatic test stations, the initial electrification of 95 producing wells, centrally located oil-water separation facilities, oil storage tanks, and a data collection station automatically receiving production statistics from the remote test stations.

The unit has a present combined allowable production of 1,049 barrels of oil per calendar day from 177 wells on approximately 5,300 productive acres, officials said.

Atlantic engineers estimate the waterflood operation will increase production to about 4,600 barrels per calendar day.

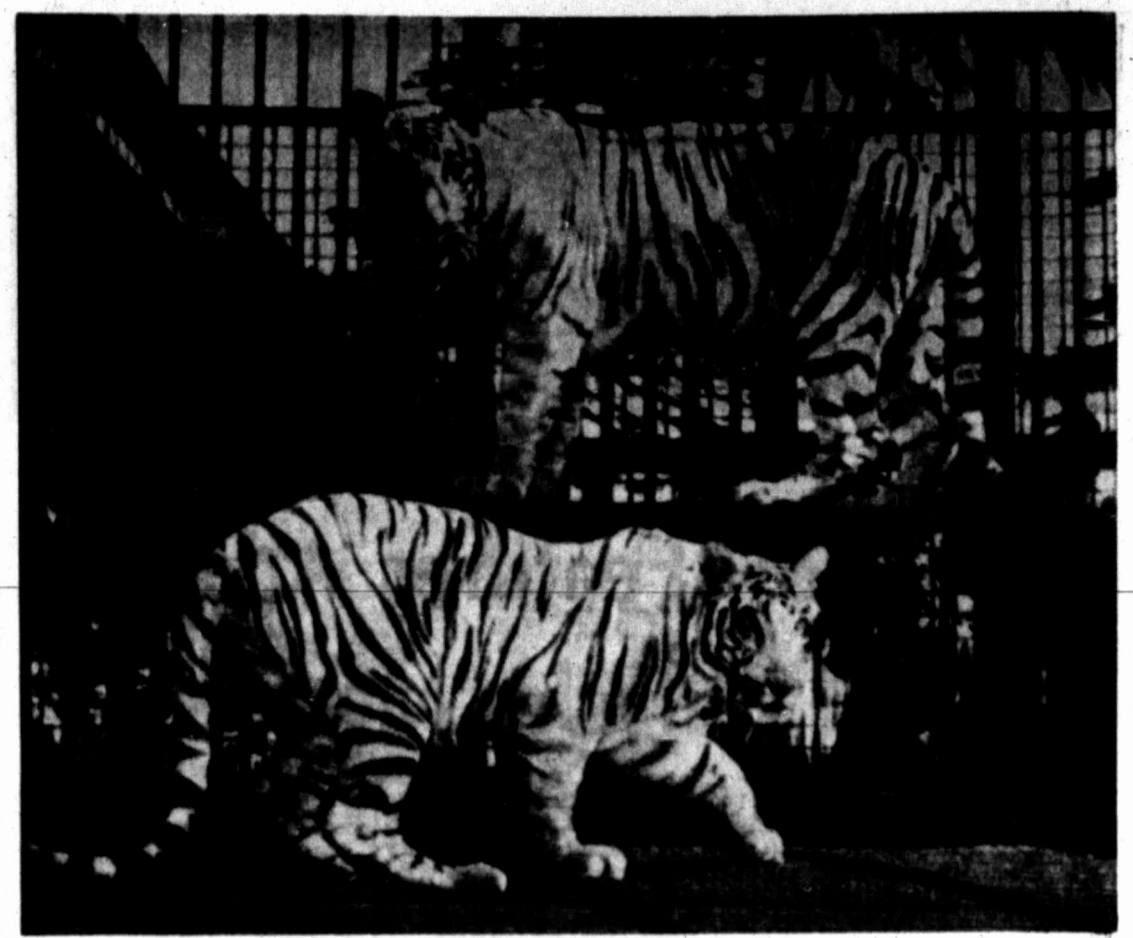

The oil, automatically tested at the remote stations, will flow to the central battery area. Any water will be separated there for re-use for injection with purchased water through 20 injection wells, a spokesman said.

The unit is in the northwest sector of the Goldsmith Field, discovered in 1934. The field now contains 1,112 wells on 31,000 productive acres. Secondary recovery operations have been in effect in portions of the field since October, 1954.

Relatives Attend R. L. Myers Rites

Before his retirement several years ago, Mr. Myers was terminal trainmaster for the Texas & Pacific Railway Company at El Paso. At one time, he was a T&P employe in Big Spring.

NEWS ANALYSIS Tougher Years Coming For Defense Finances

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We've had a couple of good years. Now it looks like we may have a couple of tougher ones."

This was the way one senior Pentagon official sized up today the prospects facing the Defense Department in the light of what appears to be a toughening mood in Congress.

The realization is expected to act as one more factor in holding down next year's defense budget requests, although even before the congressional pattern became clearer Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was putting on the brakes himself.

The feeling that Congress no longer will be relatively openhanded in defense appropriations — as it has been for the past three years — was underscored by actions of the Senate Appropriations Committee two days ago.

The committee restored only about half of the $577 million the Pentagon had asked be put back after the House had slashed the current fiscal year's defense money bill.

The bill sent to the Senate totals $47,571,407,000, more than $1.6 billion below what President Kennedy asked in January.

Thus, for the first time since the Kennedy administration took office in January 1961, Congress is wielding a sharp scalpel on its defense-spending proposals.

Last year Congress gave the administration $48,350,000,000 for defense, somewhat more than it had asked.

In 1961, Kennedy's recommen-ditions for big increases over the Eisenhower administration's military spending went through without difficulty.

Congress voted large increases in 1961 in response to arguments that the nation's missile striking forces and conventional fighting power were badly in need of beefing up.

Another factor was the Berlin crisis of two years ago when the Soviet Union was threatening military action to drive the United States and other Western nations out of Berlin.

The intercontinental ballistic missile buildup is well on its way, and Congress has appropriated all the money needed to build the Polaris submarine fleet to its goal of 41 boats.

Also, the armed forces now have about 200,000 more men than when the Kennedy administration took office. They now total about 2.7 million men.

Lausche Switches To Oppose Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, previously counted as a supporter of the limited nuclear test ban treaty, told the Senate today he will vote against its ratification.

He said that the ban on all but underground testing of nuclear weapons could "create a condition that will bring Russia to a position of supremacy in power."

He added if that occurs, he has "great misgivings about what will happen to our country." He said that peace has been maintained only because of U.S. military might.

Lausche had been regarded as a supporter of the treaty since, as a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, he lined up with the majority in its 16-1 vote. At the time, he reserved the right to change his mind.

He became the 14th senator to announce his opposition to the pact. His switch from indicated support reduced to 80 the number of senators who have announced their support of the treaty or indicated they will vote for its ratification.

President Kennedy has asked for a big margin "to show the world that the American people want a just peace."

He made a fresh bid for support of the treaty in his national radio and television address on tax legislation Wednesday night, saying the pact is "the first concrete limitation on the nuclear arms race since the bomb was first invented."

The Senate held its longest session of the treaty debate Wednesday — running almost 11 hours, and more speechmaking was on schedule today.

The opposition — the 13 senators who so far are committed against the treaty — concentrated its efforts on an attempt to attach two reservations to the ratification resolution. Senate leaders were confident the reservations will be rejected when they are called up for votes.

Shrine Circus Wednesday

When Eugene Scott and 20 tons of elephants come into the center ring at the rodeo grounds next Wednesday, the Shrine - Rudy Bros. Circus will be back in town.

This is the second year that the Big Spring Shrine Club has presented the circus as a benefit for Shrine activities. Tickets for two performances are now on sale by Shriners and at the rodeo grounds box office prior to each performance.

The name of E. P. Althoff is in Europe what the name Barnum is in America. The E. P. Althoff elephants, under the direction of Eugene Scott, have achieved a degree of fame throughout the world.

Recently returned from a tour of the Orient, these five four-ton elephantine ladies have been known to rock seismographs during some of the more active moments of their act. These elephants have appeared in more motion pictures than any other troupe in motion picture history.

Ranked third in animal intelligence tests, the elephant, like the chimpanzee, is one of the comparatively few mammals that scientists claim can "really think for themselves." A few minutes of watching this herd between performances or at a parade and witnessing the mischievous pranks and practical jokes they invent proves it.

Police Check On Two Thefts

Mrs. Bertha McLemore, 1007 W. 5th, returned home from vacation Wednesday and discovered burglars had stolen property valued at over $200 from the house.

Police said a hasp had been pried off a side door. Loot taken included 12 sheets, eight pillow cases, two bedspreads, a case of soft drinks and a portable TV.

C. B. Edgerton of St. Lawrence reported $400 worth of repair parts for a cotton picking machine stolen from his pickup at the Travelodge Motel Tuesday night.

PATIENTS GET MELON FEAST

Andy Brown, Ackerly farmer, transported two pickup loads of watermelons to Big Spring State Hospital this week for the patients.

The melons were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Barney Nichols, Knott.

Mrs. Brown said her husband has been taking watermelons to the hospital for the past three years.

"A few area farmers who have an abundance of melons have supplied them in the past," she said.

Carpenter Winds Up Credit Course Here Wednesday

Management techniques employed by credit managers was the topic of Lowry M. Carpenter, retail credit specialist from the University of Texas, Wednesday noon at a meeting of the Big Spring Credit Womens Club.

Carpenter has been conducting a course in retail credit procedures the past three nights at the First Federal Savings and Loan Community Room for area businessmen.

Course completion certificates were presented to 39 businessmen Wednesday night during the final session of the course.

Rules for cashing checks, how to identify forged checks and location of debtors was discussed Wednesday night.

Subjects covered in the course were open accounts profitably, reduce credit risks, increase credit volume, control accounts safely and decrease collection problems.

Carpenter's appearance here was under the sponsorship of the Big Spring Credit Womens Club and the Retail Merchants Association.

"Response to the instruction this year was good, and we hope to have better participation next year," said Mrs. Ruth Apple, Retail Merchants Association.

Free coffee and doughnuts were served during rest periods.

Tank Explodes At Burkburnett

BURKBURNETT, Tex. (AP) — An explosion of a gasoline tank injured two persons, one seriously, today and set two other storage tanks and two buildings on fire.

Several homes near the burning tanks were endangered.

The tanks are at the Williams Oil Refinery, a half to three-quarters of a mile south of downtown Burkburnett.

The towering smoke could be seen in Wichita Falls, 18 miles to the southeast.

Each storage tank contains at least 15,000 barrels of gasoline.

One of the buildings that burned was the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stanley.

The refinery is within the city limits of Burkburnett, a North Central Texas town of 7,630 which once was a roaring oil boom center.

Landowners Form Political Group

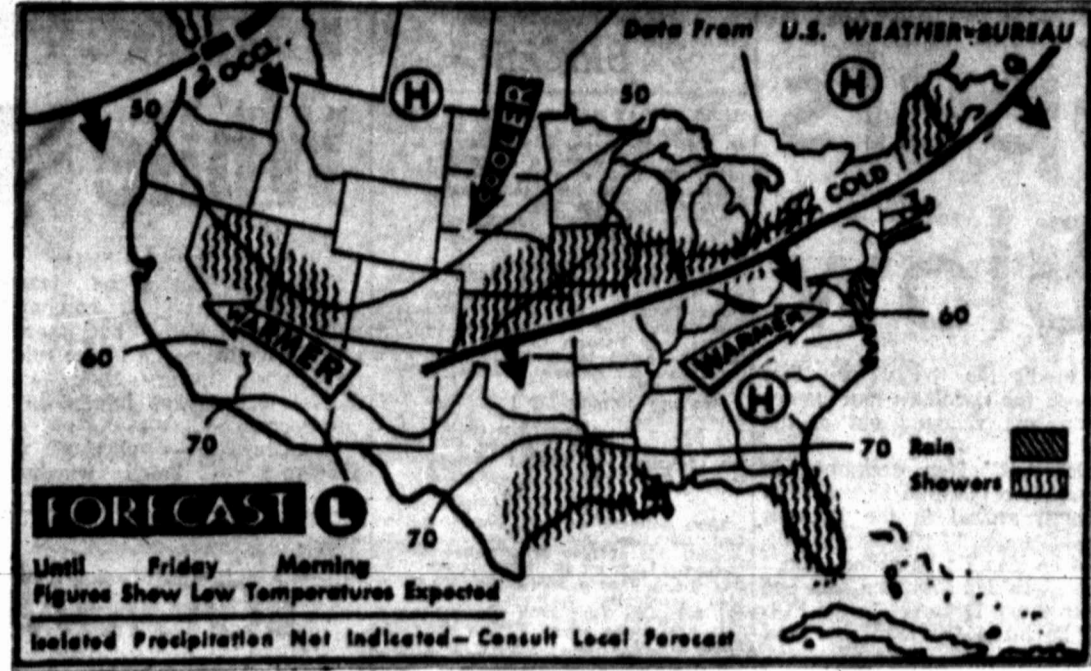

AUSTIN (AP)—A group of East and South Texas landowners formed a political education committee today.

John Shaw of Lovelady and C. Y. Jacobs of Yoakum were named co-chairmen of the Texas Land and Mineral Owners' Political Educational Committee.

The group met Wednesday with the Texas Landowners and Independent Oil and Gas Producers Association, headed by Stanley Woods of Houston.

Fire Snuffed Out

Firemen extinguished a blaze at 8:05 a.m. Thursday when a carburetor "backfire" caused heavy damage to the wiring and battery of a car in the 600 block of Ridge, owned by Mrs. Gladys Wilkerson.

Weather Forecast

Scattered showers or thundershowers are expected Thursday night in the extreme north Atlantic and southeastern Atlantic coastal areas, the west Gulf coast, the Lakes and Ohio valley westward through the central Plains into the central Pacific.

It will be clear to partly cloudy elsewhere. It will be cooler in the upper Lakes and central Plains and warmer in the north Atlantic coastal area, the southern Plains and central and southern Pacific coastal areas. (AP Wirephoto Map)

'Latins For Barry' Begin

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A leader of the 1960 Viva Kennedy clubs is banding together Latins with Goldwater, out of what he terms "bitter disappointment with the new frontier."

John A. Flores, national chairman of the Viva Kennedy clubs, announced formation of the Latins with Goldwater organization in Beverly Hills. It will seek the election of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., as president of the United States.

Flores said the group would concentrate its efforts in California, Texas, Colorado, New Mexico, and Arizona, where about four million Spanish-speaking people live.

Officials of the group will also be opened to seek the Spanish-speaking vote of Chicago and New York City.

"Goldwater's chances of winning away the Spanish-speaking vote for Kennedy are very good. Our people spent much time, effort and money in the Kennedy-Johnson campaign but have not received proper representation nor any recognition for their efforts," Flores said.

"Few if any of us have even received a simple letter of thanks. But what's worse, the Kennedy administration has not made one Spanish-speaking federal appointment to date from the entire state of California, where about two million Spanish-speaking people live."

OIL REPORT

Cities Service Completes Lower Spraberry Strike

Cities Service Oil Co. has completed No. 1-A Miers as a lower Spraberry sand discovery in Dawson County, about 10 miles northwest of Lamesa.

On 24-hour potential, it pumped 71 barrels of 34.6-gravity oil, plus 63 barrels of water, from perforations at 8,172-86 feet after treatment with 1,000 gallons of acid and 20,000-gallon fracture.

The project was drilled to 8,416 feet in barren Pennsylvanian before checking the upper Spraberry through perforations between 7,390-405 feet. No oil was developed in either zone.

Location is 550 feet from the south and 1,650 feet from the west lines of section 2-3, D. L. Cunningham survey, about five-eighths mile northwest of the Britt (upper Spraberry) pool.

Strawn Has Shows

Orbon H. Tice and B. L. Coulson, Abilene, No. 1 V. T. McCade, Strawn test in Mitchell County, indicated production from the Strawn on drillstem test from 6,066-078 feet and from 6,117-300 feet.

Operator checked the upper zone for two hours and recovered 1,350 feet of gas plus 40 feet of oil-cut mud. The lower section, on one-hour test, surfaced gas in 28 minutes in quantities too small to measure and returned 90 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud along with 180 feet of heavily mud-cut oil.

Drilling is continuing below 6,445 feet in lime and shale. Location is 660 feet from the south and 2,001 feet from the east lines of section 3-1-A, H&TC survey.

On 24-minute test, operator recovered 1,500-foot water blanket, with water surfacing in 15 minutes. Oil came to the top five minutes later. Packer was pulled loose and a full string of oil, not gauged, was reversed out. Recovery included 15 feet of basic sediments with a light odor of sulphur on the top.

The bidding:

6 ♠ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Jack of ♠
Declarer permitted a juicy plum to slip from his grasp when he failed to select the best line of play in today's slam contract.
The slam was reached on an aggressive but nevertheless reasonable sequence of bids. South's jump to three spades was based in part on the distributional fit with partner's clubs. Had North's original response been in South's void suit, hearts, a mere two spade rebid by the latter would be considered adequate.
North had an opening bid himself and, when South jumped on the second round, a slam try was in order. Since North had no feature bid available, his invitation took the form of a leap beyond game to five spades. Holding first round control of both unbid suits, South proceeded to slam. The opening lead was the jack of hearts which declarer ruffed. It appeared to him that there was nothing more to the hand than trumping out his losing diamonds, so he proceeded to cash the king and ace of diamonds and ruff the third round in dummy. A heart ruff put him back in his hand to trump the last diamond. He now had to shorten himself a third time in hearts in order to come off dummy, and this left him with only three spades. When the trumps broke badly, South wound up a trick short of his goal.

Declarer required a favorable division in both diamonds and spades in order to succeed. A better line of play would have been to establish the dummy's club suit. After ruffing the opening lead, South pulls trumps in four rounds. Now a club is led to the ace. When the queen falls from East's hand, declarer must proceed with caution. A small club suit, hearts, a mere two spade rebid by the latter would be considered adequate.
North had an opening bid himself and, when South jumped on the second round, a

In the evening, councilmen gathered at City Hall to canvass the election. While awaiting completion of tabulations, many reports of irregularities were stated by citizens who dropped by City Hall for a report on the outcome of the elections. About midnight the tally was completed, and the council started canvass of election. Irregularities were evident and the council was in partial agreement to impound the ballots. One councilman abstained from voting because the people had been deprived of their right and privilege to vote their opinion and choice in a dignified and legal manner. It is the contention of this councilman that the election be declared null and void and a new election be held in the immediate future according to our state election code. Although bewildered by irregular methods used to bring in voters during the election, a degree of satisfaction was found in the number of people who wanted to cast a vote. Perhaps it did impress upon them that the only power the people possess in forming policies, laws and selecting people to govern them, is their legal privilege to vote. This voting privilege is a sacred trust to many of us and is cherished as the one way we may be able to win back our dwindling freedom.

Suggests New Referendum

To the Editor:
On Sept. 10, 1963, an election was held in the City of Stanton, Texas, to get a public opinion vote on whether or not we should continue in an Urban Renewal program. An election to select four councilmen was also held at this time.

WOUNDED, CAPTURED, TREATED

Life Of A Viet Cong Soldier

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—What is a Viet Cong? They captured one near Quang Ngai the other day and this is his story.

A machine gun bullet knocked his arm loose from his shoulder so the arm had to be amputated. This made him a pretty sick young man.

He said his name was Chahn but nobody believed him. He is doomed for worse than what already has happened if the Communists get him again. Viet Cong aren't supposed to be captured.

WEST NORTH Nine years ago when officials set up a force dividing this country by the same recipe as Korea — one part Communist and one part Western — Sgt. Chahn of the 803rd Viet Cong Regiment went north with the Reds.

He really didn't like army life but Viet Nam having been fought over for 2,000 years left little choice for Sgt. Chahn. He had to soldier in somebody's army so he picked the Viet Cong.

The 803rd Regiment offered a good life because Chahn was an artilleryman. The Viet Cong had stolen so many weapons left by the French, who'd gotten most of them from the United States, that it was pretty near cleaning up that old 57 mm. recoilless rifle every day, firing it on the range now and then, and going down at night to new targets.

SETTLE DOWN Chahn went on to new interests, however. By 1960 the recoilless rifle was no longer his greatest concern. He had settled down in North Viet Nam, left the artillery and joined a production team.

You can stay closer to home marching to work in the fields wearing your smart white uniform and singing Communist songs as you parade in formation with other members of the team.

Last February, Chahn said, he prepared to infiltrate into South Viet Nam. He didn't give the reason, and U.S. Maj. Dave Lemm didn't push him on this point.

It can be assumed the sergeant was homesick. Lost his girl, or was drafted by the Communists to return to his home and fight for its liberation from American imperialists.

MOUNTAIN TRAIL Anyway, Chahn went into training at Xuan Mai in the Na-Dong Province of North Viet Nam. In March a little brown-skinned guy about five feet tall came down the mountain trail in Quang Ngai Province where the trees tower more than 100 feet and rice paddies dot the valleys.

Chahn said he returned with a work battalion. The 25,000 professional Viet Cong soldiers and their 25,000 guerrilla-type helpers inside Viet Nam have political advisors, production teams and a communications system just like their opponents — the United States — advised army of the Republic of Viet Nam.

One day this month, an air strike ripped into a Viet Cong nest 100 miles north of Saigon. Next day about 60 Viet Cong were knocked off in a fire fight south of Saigon.

TWO RIFLES Somewhere since spring the 95th Viet Cong Battalion near Quang Ngai became the possessor of two 57mm. recoilless rifles. They had to find someone who could shoot them and Sgt. Chahn wound up leading a squad.

Twenty miles south of Quang Ngai, Chahn saw what looked like a tank approach down the tree-lined road. It really was an American armored personnel carrier. The personnel inside were Viet Nam sol-liers hunting down the Viet Cong. "Fire," somebody ordered. Chahn.

The first salvo was indirect and whistled off into the bush. Chahn admitted later that he was surprised the personnel carrier did not blow up.

Instead it wheeled around, lumbered its 50-caliber machine gun and killed everybody in Chahn's squad except him.

STRENGTH GONE Somehow he struggled out of the area and was found walking down the road, his right arm in shreds and his strength gone.

Col. Robert Byrne, of Sacramento, Calif., who is senior advisor to the Viet Nam 25th Division, suggested Chahn be hospitalized immediately. In a hospital operated by Medico at Quang Ngai, Dr. Stanley Froelich, of Toronto, amputated Chahn's arm to save his life.

Froelich is watching over Chahn just as he watches over other patients in his 15-bed hospital. He is confident the Viet Cong soldier is going to live.

Soviet Chides Red China On Border Issue

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today cautioned Red China that good neighborly relations depend on respect for borders.

It made clear Moscow will not side with Peking in any Chinese conflict with India.

The apparent reference to reported tensions on the Soviet-Chinese border appeared in an editorial in the Communist party organ Pravda, assailing the Chinese attitude in its border dispute with India.

As for the Soviet Union, it treats with respect those countries on its borders. It understands that good neighborly relations are possible only with respect for the frontiers established between states.

"In the question of frontier disputes, we hold to the Leninist view and are convinced that there are no such disputable questions which cannot be settled by peaceful means, by negotiations, without bloodletting."

Bus-Train Tragedy Puts Bracero Issue In Spotlight

SALINAS, Calif. (AP)—Mounting investigations and outcry over Tuesday's railroad crossing crash which killed 28 Mexican migrant workers raised a question mark today over the status of the nation's bracero program.

As probes were pushed on both federal and state levels, Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., called for defeat of a pending bill which would extend for one year the right to import Mexican laborers, or braceros, to do farm work.

Such an appalling accident, which occurs in every harvest season, should cause every American to take to heart the plight of one million migratory farm workers," stated a resolution passed by the committee.

Six of the more than 30 injured in California's worst vehicular accident in history remained near death.

bodies tumbled on both sides, was in jail in felony manslaughter charges.

Federal and state investigators planned to question him further as to why, after stopping, he started across the tracks near Chualar eight miles south of Salinas, as the three-diesel freight bared down on the crossing.

Foreign Film Club Opens Season Tonight At HCJC

The Japanese production "Throne of Blood" will open the 1963 season of the Foreign Film Club at 8 p. m. today at the Howard County Junior College auditorium.

In all, 14 countries will be represented by the 24 films slated to be shown during the season.

Two shorter features also slated today are "The Jins," from Italy, and "The Mischief Makers," a French film. The main attraction is a 105-minute black and white production of William Shakespeare's "Macbeth," set in Sixteenth Century Japan.

Advance ticket sales have not been promising in this attempt to revive the club after one year of inactivity. Only about 50 season tickets have been purchased to date, Maj. John Wood, who heads the effort, said. A minimum of 100 members are required.

Season memberships are available at $5 from the chamber, Mellinger's Store and Southwestern Investment Corp. They will also be available at the door before the show today. Tickets to individual performances will not be sold.

Each month's show between now and May 14 will include at least two hours of top entertainment. Four of the main attractions are in color, four in black and white.

Other main attractions slated during the next seven months are "Sadko," a Russian film; "Scandal in Sorrento," Italian; "Bette Goes to War," French; "Mouse That Roared," English; "Roses for the Prosecutor," German; "Sawdust and Tinsel," Swedish; and "Eroica," Polish.

Board Recommends Park Improvements

The Big Spring Parks and Recreation Board Wednesday approved recommendations for improvements to existing parks in the city, as presented by Park Superintendent Johnny Johansen. Improvements at Moss Creek Lake, up to $12,000, were also recommended for consideration by the city commission.

The board heard Capt. Jim Marlin, of Webb AFB, in a request for improvements to the Prairie Playhouse in City Park. He said the building, owned by the city, was partially worked over about two years ago by members of the Little Theatre group. He listed a number of improvements needed to bring the building up to a usable standard and estimated to cost $5,497.

Capt. Marlin, accompanied by Bob Lewis and Dr. M. W. Talbot Jr., requested the board's consideration in placing the improvements to the building under the Master Plan bond program. The board took no action on the request but members agreed to inspect the building for discussion at the October meeting.

Recommendations for improvements to the municipal golf course were also passed to the October meeting. Mrs. H. W. Smith and Jack Watkins, board members, said they felt that not enough people of Big Spring used the golf course to justify expenditure of the estimated $24,450 for improvements, including a sprinkler system for the back nine holes.

Moss Creek Lake improvements included improvement of the lake manager's residence, addition of lights, and other facilities. Members indicated the belief the lake property is one of the biggest assets for future development for the city.

Improvements to the city park swimming pool were passed over by the board pending a visit by a representative of a firm to inspect the filter system and suggest changes and costs.

Suggested improvements to the main city park estimated to cost around $7,900, exclusive of the swimming pool, included repair of tennis courts, sprinkler system for Area No. 1, additional improved area, equipment, two new double tennis courts, and an insecticide sprayer.

Birdwell Park improvements and facilities, including two 20x40 pavilions, additional equipment, and restrooms, would cost an estimated $6,220. Westside Park improvements, $1,482.20; Hillcrest (Eastside) Park, $3,005; Jefferson Street Park, $977; Northside Park, $557.20. The estimated labor cost for all improvements is around $5,000.

Northwest Park improvements, with new facilities included: drainage $500, sprinkler system $330, chain-link type fence $3,239, combination recreation hall and apartment $5,000, playground equipment $692, repair of existing pavilion $250, totaling $10,011. This was the park to receive further consideration on building cost before approval.

The consideration of an Arbor Day method of adding trees and shrubbery to parks by women's clubs, boys organizations, and schools, was held over pending more information from national sources on the plan's operation.

Dismissal Fails For Ranger Suit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Asst. Atty. Gen. Sam Wilson failed Wednesday in an attempt to get dismissed the suit against Texas Ranger Capt. Alfred Allee, filed by Juan Cornejo.

Neither Cornejo, mayor of Crystal City, nor Allee was in the courtroom when U.S. Dist. Judge Adrian Spears rejected the motion.

Spears granted a motion to strike a reference in the complaint which referred to Cornejo as a Latin American.

Cornejo, in the suit filed May 8, seeks $15,000 damages and a permanent injunction against Allee's intimidating him.

Allee is charged in the suit with physically shaking Cornejo twice in the City Hall at Crystal City.

GOUND'S

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise: I am only a bachelor, live alone and like it, but I do like to experiment with salads.

Instead of throwing dressing on salads, try taking a package of cream cheese and mashing it through your tea strainer. It makes a great topping, not only for fruit salads but even lettuce! I also use this method with plain old soft cheese when I top a slice of pineapple on a lettuce leaf.

HELOISE

George: It's fabulous. Thanks a hundred times. And did you ever try mashing up Roquefort in bottled French dressing? It's a knockout.

Dear Heloise: I stopped the squeak in one of my hardwood floorboards by pouring liquid detergent into it. Evidently, after it dried it acted as a buffer.

Dear Heloise: When I open a can of sauerkraut, I take my butcher knife and cut it before removing it from the can. Try it. You'll like it. Cut as many times as you wish. Chops it in a hurry and it's easier to eat.

Dear Heloise: Here is a simple, delicious frosting for brownies.

As soon as they come from the oven, cover them with pieces of milk chocolate candy bars. The cheaper the chocolate bar, the thinner it is, and the quicker it melts. As soon as the chocolate has melted, take a little knife and spread it out. Presto, a deliciously rich covering and no bowl to wash.

Dear Heloise: Take any bits of leftover roasts or meats of any kind, put them in your blender with some pickles, relish, eggs, etc. It blends into an excellent sandwich spread.

Those who need cream cheese and have some cottage cheese on hand, put it in your blender, and it requires only a little blending ... makes beautiful cream cheese.

Dear Heloise: I have used a toy egg beater for years in my kitchen ... My handyman husband put a larger handle on it for me so it is easier to hold. It is perfect for mixing a dab of this and a dab of that.

A cup makes a good mixing bowl for those of you who are single, live alone, or if you just want to mix a dab of something. This is the best investment I ever made. They may be purchased at dime stores in the toy department.

Dear Heloise: When using boxed cakes which call for water, I take out two tablespoons of water and put in two tablespoons of cooking oil. The cake is delicious and stays nice and moist and makes a bigger and better cake.

Dear Heloise: If you knit, try using the little plastic clips that come on some plastic bags that contain rolls and breads. I used to have difficulty keeping track of rows of stitches when I knitted or crocheted. I can now write the number of rows on the plastic with a pencil and then rub it out with my finger, when I count the next number.

Also these little plastic tabs come in several colors and can be used as index tabs, plant and bulb labels, etc. I use several as cook book markers.

(Mail letters to Heloise in care of the Big Spring Herald.)

TUNA MARENGO IS DELICIOUS DINNER PARTY FARE
Tuna combines with mushrooms and tomato sauce

Serve Tuna Marenango On Hot, Fluffy Rice

Tuna reaches across the seas to Spain for exciting Tuna Marenango perfect for a party, and a grand dish for the family, too. The original Marenango recipe was concocted in the town of Marenango in Spain not by a Spaniard, but by a French cook—Napoleon's cook, to be exact—in celebration of the victory of Marengo.

French cook or not, the ingredients are very much Spanish and worth celebrating. Mushrooms, tomatoes and tomato paste, oregano and basil are all redolent of the sunny peninsula of Spain. To this ambrosial mixture we add substantial, flavorful tuna—to produce a main dish that is as delicious, economical and nutritious as any one could wish.

TUNA MARENGO

- 4 cans (6½ to 7 ozs. each) tuna in vegetable oil
- 1 garlic clove
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 lb. mushrooms, sliced
- 2 cans (1 lb. each) tomatoes
- 1 can (6 ozs.) tomato paste
- 1 can consommé
- 1 tsp. monosodium glutamate
- 1 tsp. oregano
- 1 tsp. basil
- 2 tps. salt
- ¼ tsp. pepper
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 3 tps. flour
- 6 tps. water

Drain oil from two cans of the tuna into deep kettle. Add garlic, onion and mushrooms. Cook, stirring occasionally, until tender. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, consommé, Accent and seasonings. Cover; cook over low heat 20 minutes. Add tuna; cook 10 minutes longer.

Mix flour and water to make a smooth paste. Gradually add flour mixture, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Serve with hot cooked rice. Yield: 8 servings.

TUNA SUPPER SALAD

- ¼ cup salad dressing
- ¼ tps. lemon juice or vinegar
- 1¼ tps. capers
- ¼ tsp. salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 can (7 ozs.) tuna, drained and coarsely flaked
- 1 can (8 ozs.) 1 cup peas, drained
- ½ cucumber, sliced
- 3 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- Lettuce or water cress

Combine salad dressing, lemon juice or vinegar, capers, salt and pepper in medium-sized bowl. Add tuna, peas, cucumber and eggs; toss lightly; cover and chill. Serve on crisp lettuce or water cress. Makes 4 servings.

ITALIAN TUNA AND NOODLES

- 2 cans (6½ or 7 ozs. each) tuna
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup chopped celery
- 1 clove garlic, finely chopped
- ¼ cup butter or other fat, melted
- 1 can (1 lb. 13 ozs.) tomatoes
- ¼ cup water
- 1 can (6 ozs.) tomato paste
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1¼ tps. salt
- Dash pepper
- ¼ tsp. whole oregano
- 1 tsp. crushed sweet basil
- 1 whole bay leaf, crushed
- 1 pkg. (8 ozs.) noodles
- 2 cups grated cheese

Drain tuna. Break into large pieces. Cook onion, celery, and garlic in butter until tender. Add the next nine ingredients and simmer for 1 hour. Add tuna and simmer for 5 minutes.

Cook noodles as directed on package, drain. Arrange the noodles, tuna sauce, and cheese in alternate layers in a well-greased pan, 11 x 7 x 1½ inches.

Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 35 to 40 minutes or until heated through and melts.

Serve 6.

TUNA TURNOVERS

- 1 can tuna
- ¼ cup chopped salted peanuts
- ½ cup condensed cream of celery soup
- 1 tablespoon grated onion
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 2 cups pastry mix

Drain and flake tuna. Combine all ingredients except pastry mix. Prepare pastry as directed. Roll very thin and cut into 12 circles, 5 inches each.

Place 2 tablespoons of filling in center of each circle. Moisten edges with cold water; fold over and press edges together with a fork. Prick tops. Place on cookie sheet, 15½x12 inches. Bake in a very hot oven, 450 degrees F., for 12 to 15 minutes or until brown. Serves 6.

Plan On Tuna In Variety

Nutritionally, tuna is one of the greatest of all protein foods.

The value of tuna to the homemaker, however, extends far beyond its nutritional qualities. Its main advantage is versatility.

Not only does tuna make a flavorful dish when served alone, but it lends itself in combination with many other foods.

Consider how well it blends with such extenders as macaroni products, rice and potatoes; or with egg dishes such as omelets and souffles; or with an endless number of vegetables.

TUNA-COCONUT CURRY

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1 cup chopped peeled apple
- 2½ tablespoons curry powder
- 1 tablespoon flour
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2½ cups milk
- 2 cans (7 ounces each) solid pack tuna, drained and flaked
- ½ cup flaked coconut
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1½ cups (5-ounce package) pre-cooked rice
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups boiling water

Melt butter in large saucepan. Add onion and apple and saute about 2 minutes. Add curry powder, mix well, then cook 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Mix flour, ginger and ½ teaspoon salt with a small amount of the milk to form a smooth, thin paste. Add to curry mixture; blend.

Gradually add remaining milk, stirring constantly to avoid lumping. Simmer gently about 25 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add tuna and coconut. Just before serving, add lemon juice.

While curry is simmering, add rice and salt to boiling water in saucepan. Mix just to moisten all rice. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 13 minutes. Serve curried tuna over rice.

Makes 4 servings.

TUNA BISCUIT ROLL

- 2 cans tuna
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ½ cup milk
- ¾ cup grated cheese
- 2 cups biscuit mix

Drain tuna. Flake. Cook onion in butter until tender. Blend in flour. Add milk gradually and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add cheese and heat until melted. Stir in tuna. Prepare biscuit mix according to directions. Roll into a rectangle about 12x8x½-inch.

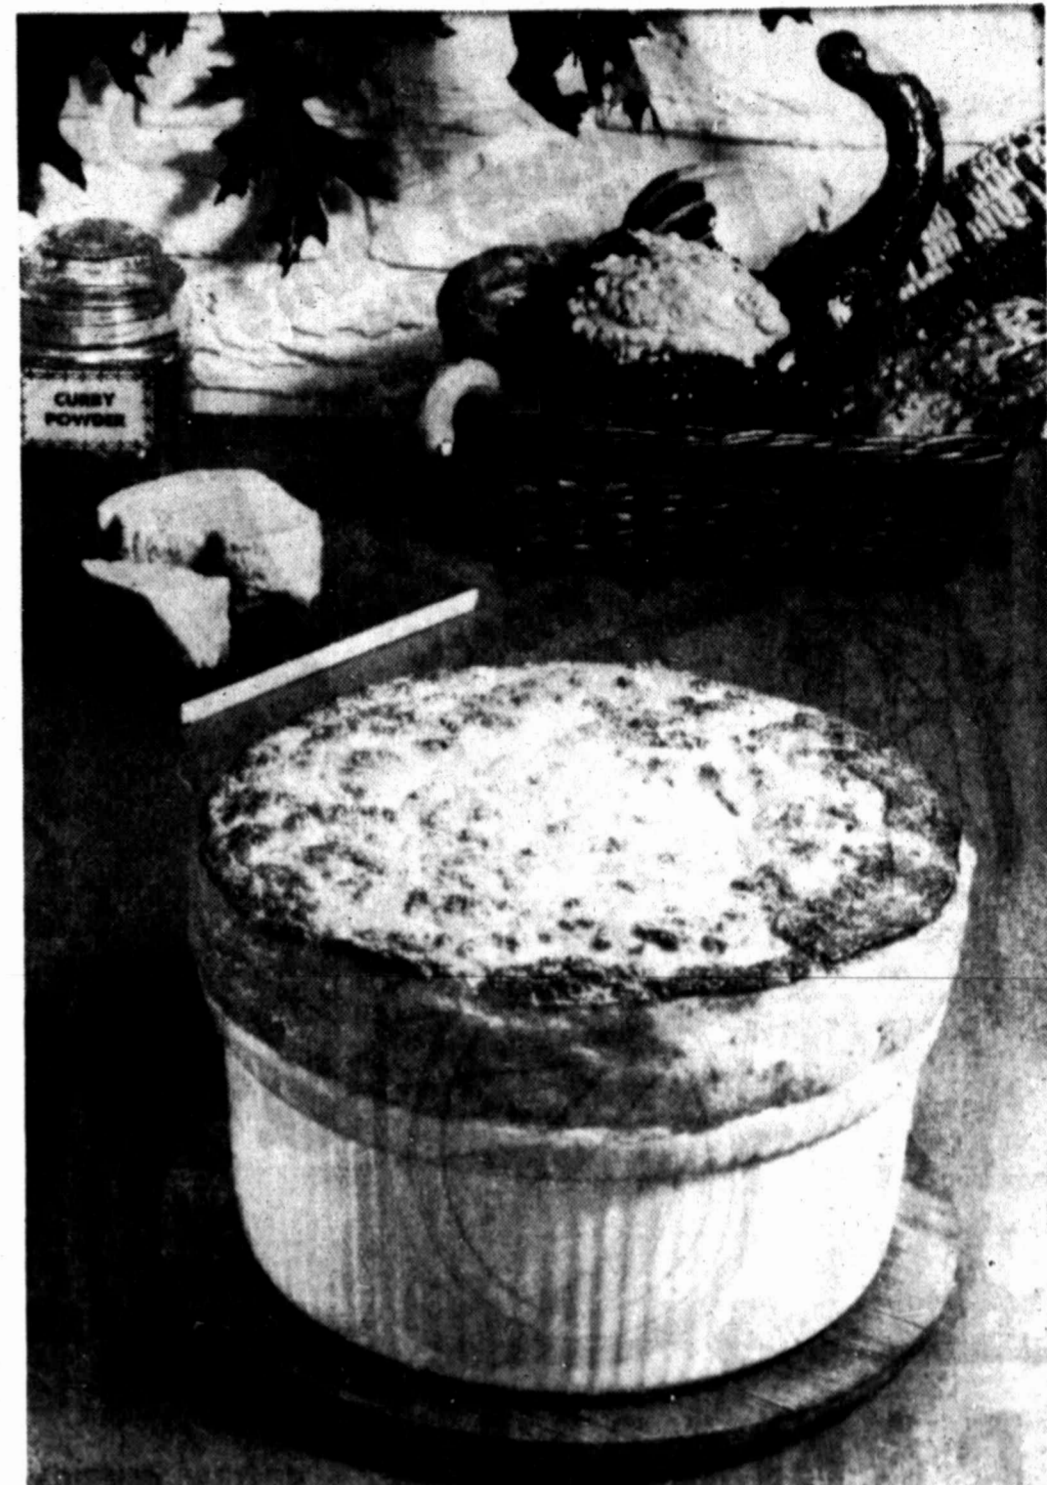

Spread with tuna mixture. Roll like a jelly-roll and seal ends and edge. Vent top of roll.

Place on well-greased baking sheet. Bake in 400-degree F. oven for 15 to 20 minutes, or until brown. Serves 6.

HOT TUNA CANAPE

- 1 6½-ounce can chunk-style tuna, drained
- 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 3 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
- ½ cup chopped anchovies
- 1 tomato, chopped
- ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 3 tablespoons chili sauce
- 3 tablespoons mayonnaise
- Toast rounds

Combine ingredients except for toast; mix well. Spread on toast rounds. Broil 3 to 4 inches from source of heat 5 minutes.

TUNA SOUFFLE IS HANDSOME DISH
Serve it as soon as it comes out of the oven

Make A Tuna Souffle, It's Light But Hearty

Light and fluffy and delicate are adjectives to use when describing souffles. While most women love souffles for these qualities, men somehow shrink from them unless they are on the hearty side. To remedy this, the very next time you're in a souffle-making mood, try one using canned tuna.

TUNA SOUFFLE

- 2 tps. butter or margarine
- 3 tps. flour
- ½ tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. curry powder
- ¼ tsp. thyme
- Pinch pepper

1 cup light cream or milk

- 4 eggs, separated
- 2 cans (6½ to 7 ozs. each) tuna, drained and flaked
- Melt butter in saucepan; blend in flour and seasonings; gradually mix in cream. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir a little of hot mixture into egg yolks; stir back into saucepan then add tuna. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; fold in tuna mixture.
- Turn into greased 1-quart souffle dish and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 35 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

TUNA POT PIE

- 2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna
- 1 cup cooked carrots
- 1 cup cooked peas
- 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
- ½ cup water
- 1 cup biscuit mix

Drain tuna. Flake. Place tuna alternately with carrots and peas in a well-greased 1½-quart casserole. Combine soup and water, stirring until smooth; heat. Pour over tuna mixture.

Prepare biscuit mix as directed. Drop by teaspoonsful on top of the tuna mixture. Bake in a very hot oven, 450 degrees F., for 30 minutes or until biscuit browns. Serves 6.

FOR FUN AND PROFIT

Lively Lady Travels Abroad; Labors At Home

By JO BRIGHT

Down around Ben, Tex., near San Saba, Armour Brazil was known as one of the seven active children of Cal and Abbey

Brazil—but here she is more likely one of a kind. Now Mrs. Armour Long—and 74 years old—this delightful lady is more energetic and vibrantly alive than many women half her age. In recent years, she has toured Europe, taken a ride on Mexico's "enchanted railway," and impulsively traveled alone over much of Alaska. If that presents a picture of a lady of leisure—look again. Neither retired nor retiring, Mrs. Long cares for a six-room home without help, does all her yardwork, and much linen to be laundered each week.

The inside walls of the immaculate home have been sheetrocked, otherwise the house is almost as it was when built by a Judge Littler in 1900. The entrance hall is high and wide, with an archway near the back made of decorative wood. In earlier days, it was draped with velvet curtains. All the rooms are large with high ceilings. In two of the rooms are raised tie fireplaces topped with large mirrored mantels.

Mrs. Long came to Big Spring in 1946. She received her formal education at Baylor University, teaching school in the Rio Grande Valley for a short while but never satisfied with the career she had chosen.

More to her liking was operating the dairy, "Bismark Farm," that her family purchased in San Angelo during the early 1920s. She and a helper milked 30 cows daily until the Nasworthy Dam project enveloped their land.

MARRIES AT 58
When the family moved to Brady, she operated a tailor shop until 1943 when she went to work at Camp Hood. It was there, when she was 58 years old, that she met and married Pete Long.

"He softened my life," said Mrs. Long simply. "He was a fine gentleman, and those were wonderful times."

She was widowed seven days before their second anniversary. Mrs. Long closed the cafe they had operated, but continued to make her home here where she had first friends. She attends the First Baptist Church where she is a member of the Bykota Sunday school class and the Evening Circle of the Women's Missionary Union.

Living alone tempts many people to eat out or snack, but Mrs. Long cooks regular meals.

EATS FOR ENERGY
"I always cook a good breakfast to keep me going," she said. For the noon meal, she usually has meat, salad and vegetables, but cooks very small portions to eliminate left-overs. She buys large roasts, but divides them in thirds for the freezer. The evening meal is light, often just a bowl of cereal. What entertaining she does usually is connected with church activities.

Mrs. Long's eyes sparkled, and her voice was gay as she said of her life. "Oh, it's been wonderful." She and a fellow member of the City Home Demonstration Club are already talking about a trip to Hawaii next summer.

Here are recipes Mrs. Long likes to use.

TUNA FISH SALAD

- 2 cups tuna fish
- 2 cups celery, chopped
- ½ cup horseradish
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 tsp. salt
- Lettuce

Break tuna fish in parts and combine in salad bowl with celery, horseradish, salt and mayonnaise. Arrange individual servings on crisp lettuce. A garnish may be added if desired such as slices of hard boiled egg with a dash of paprika.

SUGAR DROP COOKIES

- ¼ cup margarine
- 1¼ cups flour
- 1 cup nuts
- 1 egg
- 1 tsp. milk or cream
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- ¼ tsp. baking powder
- ¼ tsp. salt

Combine ingredients and drop by spoonfuls on cookie sheet. Bake until done at 425 degrees.

GELATIN LEMON CAKE

- 1 pkg. yellow cake mix, sifted
- 1 pkg. lemon gelatin
- 2 3 cup water
- 2 3 cup cooking oil
- 4 eggs
- 1½ tps. almond or lemon extract

Combine ingredients and beat several minutes at high speed. Bake in angel food cake pan for one hour at 350 degrees. Remove from pan and glaze with mixture of 1 cup powdered sugar and 3 teaspoons lemon juice.

CHEESE PIE

- 1 pie crust
- 2 cups sugar
- 4 eggs
- ¾ cup melted butter
- 1 cup rich milk
- 2 tps. cornstarch
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- Salt to taste

Separate eggs and beat yolks. Combine the salt, cornstarch and sugar. Cream eggs and sugar together. Melt butter and add, then add milk and vanilla. Beat egg whites and fold into the custard. Pour custard on top of crust in pie pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes, then at 300 degrees until the pie is done, usually about an hour.

Sentimental Treasures

Mrs. Armour Long points to a glass-domed clock, made in Germany, which has been in her possession since World War I. The clock requires winding only once a year. This, and other mementos, Mrs. Long displays with her china and crystal in two built-in cases.

Road Labor Law Is Still On Books

AUSTIN (AP)—"Gentlemen: Please report at 6 a.m. to begin your five days of enforced hard labor on the roads."

Could that happen? It could in Texas.

The legislature passed a law in 1876 requiring all men 21 to 45 years old to work at least five days each year on the county's roads.

Texas has never gotten around to repealing that law.

LOOPHOLES
Like most laws, there are some loopholes. A person could get out of doing the work by providing the county with the "use of wagons, plows or scrapers and necessary teams to operate the same."

Preachers were exempted in 1876. Later, National Guardsmen, militiamen and volunteer firemen won exemptions. Then the legislature forgot about the law.

Enforcement varied, old-timers recall. Some say it was not invoked. Others say their grandfathers either worked on the roads or hired someone else to do the work. Keeping lanes from their homes to a county road repaired sometimes met the requirement.

OVERSEERS
The Texas law allows counties to name "overseers" in each precinct. The overseer could summon each healthy man in the predict for five days of work, not to exceed eight hours each day.

The worker was required to bring "an axe, hoe, pick, spade or such tools as the overseer directs."

Escapes from the work could be obtained by paying $1 for each day a person was required to work or by furnishing an "able-bodied" substitute. Many persons paid the $1, leading to the law being called a "head tax."

Told about the old law still on the books, one Highway Department official remarked: "I wish the state could use the law and get people out to pick up litter along the highways."

Counties still can.

Bulldog Reneges, Takes Over Cats

PLANO, Tex. (AP)—The last time Ladessa Jenks, 15, had a cat, her bulldog named Gidget drove it away.

Thus Ladessa was astonished a couple of days ago to discover her dog had adopted a kitten.

Gidget took over after a mother cat deserted the day-old kitten. With tender care the bulldog gives her founding a bath every few minutes.

Ladessa takes care of the feeding, a mixture of condensed milk and water in a tiny bottle.

Rice Losses In Hurricane May Run To $1.8 Million

HOUSTON (AP)—Losses to rice farmers in the flooded Beaumont area could run as high as $1.8 million, a State Department of Agriculture expert said today.

Clyde Stearnes estimated one million barrels of rice remains unharvested in the flood area, in which 77,000 acres of rice were planted this year.

Stearnes said production had been estimated at 18 barrels per acre and now a loss of three to five barrels per acre is expected.

This would be a loss of about 200,000 barrels, and each barrel is valued at about $9, so the loss could reach $1.8 million.

"If the rains should discontinue, and they can drain these fields, and if the weather doesn't turn off too hot, and if the rice doesn't start sprouting, you will have very little loss because the combines can pick it up," Stearnes said.

"If it does stay wet, though,

Better Late Than Never

ATHENS, W.Va. (AP)—In 1883, a smallpox epidemic forced Concord College to close before graduation exercises. Among the graduates deprived of a diploma was Nannie Bee Gore.

Wednesday, 80 years later, President Joseph Marsh of the college visited a small rustic home near here and formally presented a diploma to Nannie Bee Gore Hearn.

"Better late than never," joked Mrs. Hearn, a spry, 99-year-old great-great-grandmother.

More Foreign Trade Sought

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy urges American manufacturers and farmers to sell $2 billion more of their products abroad each year. Or, to put it the other way, he wants foreigners to buy $2 billion more of American goods.

He says Americans could increase the total of exports if they looked beyond home markets, put more hard-sell into their efforts abroad, and if they lowered prices to meet competition from other industrial countries.

MORE ASSETS
Foreigners presumably could find the money to buy more from us by buying less from our competitors, and by using more of the dollar assets they pile up from sales of their goods and raw materials to us and from our foreign aid and other federal spending programs, and from dollars received as private investment overseas by Americans.

In spite of all the forebodings about growing foreign competition U.S. export totals have been growing year by year. They came to $20.5 billion in 1962.

American business has been able to expand many of its markets and hold others because of superior product, service, or efficiency of manufacturing and distribution. It has done so in the face of rising production costs at home, sharply contrasted to generally lower production costs—particularly labor—in the fast-rising industrial lands of Western Europe and Japan.

MARKETS FALLEN
The rub has come from this: While the total of exports has grown, the share of the world's markets has fallen. U.S. exports were still expanding, but those of other nations were increasing much faster.

Rising wage scales and other production costs in Europe have led many Americans to believe that the price advantage some European products have in world markets was shrinking. But statistics issued by the Commission of the European Economic Community show that while prices paid by the consumers in Europe are rising, the prices on exported goods have gone up very little.

President Kennedy has told American producers they might try the same thing—boost exports by producing more and keeping prices low, instead of the other way around.

JOBS INVOLVED
Labor's stake in the U.S. export markets is considerable, too. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz says more than three million workers here, about 6 per cent of the total, have jobs tied directly or indirectly to exports. He says a swing of a billion dollars in exports could mean 150,000 domestic jobs.

Farmers' stakes also are high. About one-fourth of the total exports are farm products. Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman is hoping that an all-out push this year could bring farm exports to $5.5 billion. Part of the push is the government policy of selling surplus supplies at lower prices than prevail at home.

The reason behind the drive for more exports just now is that imports this year have been rising faster than exports. In 1962 the surplus of exports over imports topped $4 billion. This year it may be less.

President Kennedy is anxious to sell $2 billion more abroad because a trade surplus of $6 billion would go a long way toward offsetting other deficits in our other financial dealings. These deficits have meant that for several years more dollars have been going abroad than have been returning. This hurts the good name of the American dollar. It has also led to a drain of our gold reserves.

If Americans, one way or another, could sell more abroad the over-all deficit could be pared, the gold reserves protected and the good name of the dollar be beyond reproach.

We must all hang together, else we shall all hang separately. —Franklin

DAILY GUIDE—Franklin, who by the way, understood and used astrology, was very wise in his understanding of human nature. Today's news, conferences, announcements and comments should make it clear that we need to be thankful for small agreements we can come to with our neighbors and friends, and most of all for those made with our enemies.

This is an excellent day to confer with those in important positions, to seek favors or cooperation with others, to seek accord in discussions or even in small talk.

Evening gatherings are likely to enjoy good conversation. Contact those who are important to your own projects, but do not aggressively seek your own way. Well-come consideration of both sides of the question.

Those born in the last degrees of Virgo are in line for exceptional news. Pisceans share in good relationships. Librans and Arians enjoy exchange of favors.

A little stiffer competition enters picture tomorrow.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, VIRGO! If little details in communication or transportation are delaying you or are annoying, wait until the end of the month to follow through; then you will have a chance to move forward.

Some confusion regarding your daily environment or contacts made there can become increasingly troublesome from now through early October. Watch health, as you may be working too hard or worrying about your work, and this could reach a peak in February.

Continue to save gains made in financial matters; this is favored until April. Next year some of your new freedom can be curtailed through the demands of others, responsibilities through marriage or business associates.

Rocky Heads For Europe

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York leaves Monday on a 12-day swing through Western Europe that is expected to provide background for discussion of U.S. foreign policy during his expected bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

The governor and his wife will visit Rome, London, Bonn, Berlin, Brussels and Paris, returning to New York City Oct. 4.

Legislator Asks To Keep Poll Tax

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. George Hinson of Mineola wants to retain the poll tax and he says he will work to keep it.

"I may favor poll tax repeal at sometime in the future, but this is not the time," Hinson said Wednesday.

A statewide committee is working for repeal of the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting. Texans will decide Nov. 9 when they vote on a constitutional amendment.

Marriage On Rocks For Heiress Gamble Benedict

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — American heiress Gamble Benedict Porumbeanu is ending her marriage to the penniless Romanian ex-chauffeur she wed in defiance of her guardian and the courts. She charges him with misconduct.

Her Swiss lawyer, Eugen Curti, has announced Mrs. Porumbeanu, now 22 and the mother of two sons, is seeking a divorce from Andre Porumbeanu, 37, after three years of marriage.

The lawyer said Mrs. Porumbeanu, who inherited a $20-million Remington typewriter fortune, also has withdrawn powers of attorney her husband had held.

Her husband is in New York, where he is well known in cafe society circles. He declined comment.

The couple's whirlwind romance from Long Island beaches to Paris night clubs drew worldwide headlines and bitter opposition from Katherine Geddes Benedict, Gamble's grandmother, who called Porumbeanu a fortune hunter.

FAMILY FORTUNE

Gamble and her grandmother never were reconciled but Mrs. Benedict left Gamble the bulk of the family fortune at her death Oct. 29, 1961.

Several months earlier, when Gamble's first son was born, she had expressed the hope that some day "Grammie will sincerely show concern for me and my family."

Porumbeanu's first wife, Madl, whom Porumbeanu divorced three weeks before his marriage to Gamble, said at the time Gamble "doesn't know what she is letting herself in for."

HAIR DRESSER

Porumbeanu and Gamble met in the summer of 1959 on Long Island. Porumbeanu was a society chauffeur then and later became a hair dresser.

Instead of finishing her freshman year at Briarcliff College, Gamble took a freighter to Belgium with Porumbeanu in January 1960. They turned up in Paris night clubs. Family lawyers took Gamble back to New York after two weeks. New York court declared her a wayward minor.

In ensuing legal battles, Gamble tried unsuccessfully to obtain control of the family fortune and was made to promise she would not see Porumbeanu until he was no longer married. Porumbeanu promised he would not see Gamble until she was 21.

But the lovers defied the courts and applied for a marriage license in Dillon, S.C. They were turned down there but encountered no difficulty in North Carolina. They were wed April 6, 1960, before a justice of the peace in Hendersonville, N.C.

30 DAYS

When the dark and handsome Porumbeanu returned to New York, he was given a 30-day sentence for breaking his promise not to see Gamble. The sentence was voided on appeal. Porumbeanu spent only four days in jail.

While Porumbeanu moved in high circles, he never seemed to have much money. When his ex-wife sued for alimony, Porumbeanu testified he couldn't even support Gamble.

The couple appeared to be happy. At the birth of her first son, George Mihai, April 2, 1961, in New Jersey, Gamble said: "I have found one year of happiness. Having a child is indeed an overwhelming event, since for me it symbolizes the love that my husband and I so dearly fought for."

They moved about the United States and eventually settled in Zurich, where their second son, Grigoreo, was born last Nov. 30.

Porumbeanu has a daughter, 13, by his first marriage.

Beef Grading System Changed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has proposed to modify its beef grading system to restore conformation of the animal carcass as a factor in determining quality of the meat.

It will abandon a so-called dual grading system tried out during the year ended June 30. Under that system, quality was based on the marbling, color, texture, firmness and maturity of the lean meat. It added a system under which the "cutability" of a carcass was judged — "cutability" meaning the quantity of lean meat in the carcass. Thus the carcass of the highest retail cut-out of lean meat was judged best.

But many cattlemen and packers disliked the idea of eliminating the conformation factor in determining quality, by conforming they meant the fullness and roundness of a carcass.

The proposed new grading system will restore the conformation factor and continue the cutability standard tried out under the dual system. The net effect is expected to favor the purchased beef over crossbreeds and dairy type animals.

Interested persons have been given 60 days to present views on the proposed modification. Use of the federal grading system is voluntary to the cattle and beef industry.

Bomb Protested By Labor Group

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Revolutionary Labor Federation expressed "a most strong protest" Wednesday over the bombing of a Birmingham, Ala., church in which four Negro girls were killed.

In a prepared statement, the federation said it urged U.S. labor groups to "redouble their efforts to achieve racial integration and put an end to the hateful discrimination which remains a shame for the people of the United States."

A Devotional For The Day

When Jesus therefore had received the vinegar, he said, It is finished: and he bowed his head, and gave up the ghost. (John 19:30)

PRAYER: O Lord, we feel our inability to thank Thee for Thy love expressed to us in Thy Son and in His sacrifice for us. In the silence, help us to ponder the meaning for us of His words "It is finished." In His name we ask. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

The Harvest

It is a sorrowful truth that it is almost impossible not to drink the cup of hate when wells are being poisoned all around.

Two youths, described as model boys, faithful in Sunday School attendance and both Eagle Scouts, inexplicably fired a fatal shot at a Negro youth. Apparently no words were spoken. They were on their way home from an inflammatory race meeting, and impulsively they fired the shot.

Or did they? Or was it, as one courageous Birmingham businessman put it, everyone who has added fuel to racial fires, plugging ears to communication, barring attempts at understanding, and indulging in crude, obscene racial stories? No, the wells cannot be poisoned with impunity, because we and the innocent and immature must drink from them.

Silence Can Invite Disaster

Saturday voters in the enlarged Big Spring Independent School District will go through a technical step in voting on validation of the tax rate and assumption of bond obligations by the total area.

State law requires this, even though enlargements may have been tested by courts, voters or whatever means.

If voters do not validate rates and acknowledge bonds, then there is no tax rate except for bonds. (Each bond election carries with it a pledge to levy a tax sufficient to retire that particular series of bonds, come what may.) This would mean that there would be no local maintenance (operational) tax levy. No local school can begin to carry on a school program without this vital source of income.

Based on budget estimates of the three school districts which now comprise the Big Spring district, local maintenance taxes would yield $1,218,467 this year.

This is roughly about 40 per cent of the total budget. It is about 45 per cent of the total with debt service charges taken out. Moreover, that remaining 55 per cent of funds from state, federal and miscellaneous sources is dependent to some degree upon the districts, meeting certain minimum standards, which obviously it could not begin to do without its quota of operational funds. So outside support also would be cut sharply.

We could operate considerably less than half a program, and that would affect every child no matter where he attended school in the district.

If this is what a majority of voters want, then they should register that decision at the polls. If, on the other hand, they want to avoid financial chaos for the school program, they had better register that decision at the polls. The question may be a technical one, but silence on it could invite disaster.

The Baying Of The Bloodhounds

NEW YORK CITY — John F. Kennedy, who holds a number of honorary academic degrees, can also qualify for an earned title that is generally related to the fields of sport—Master of Hounds, in this case, the bloodhounds of government.

The President has a fascinating First Lady and a horse-riding Attorney General, but he's never cared much for the chase of animals. Yet when it comes to setting Federalized bloodhounds on the trail of political predators and disturbers of New Frontier sanctuaries, the President seems to have standing orders for the Keeper of the Kennels—turn loose the pack.

NATURALLY, a Washington correspondent doesn't have to come to New York for that sort of story, so you could call it traveler's luck that I ran into this one. One purpose of this trip was to meet Victor Lasky, author of the heretical biography, "JFK: The Man and The Myth." With the runaway success of his book, Lasky became an authentic celebrity, and, as I learned, something of a political earthquake force in next year's presidential election.

ALWAYS PLEASED when a celebrity looks and acts the part, I would have thought my journey worthwhile just for the fun of sitting in the Overseas Writers' Members' Bar with the effervescent, well-fleshed and terrible while he waved a cigar to the top of his talk. He had a jolly nickname ("Hello you Fascist Beast!" he'd hail a fellow conservative) for all who passed our way. Many they were, too, from the New York news media and from the ends of the earth.

"TROUBLE ABOUT writing out of New York," rambled Lasky when we left this congenial scene and were taxing to an East Side political gathering, "is that I'm on the phone to Washington every 35 minutes. Today I had a call from an investigator. Lasky named him, who told me that the Immigration Service agents had been ordered to find out all they could about me."

Why the Immigration Service? Except that this bureau is part of the bloodhound kennels of the Federal, and directly under Attorney General Kennedy, Lasky didn't know.

"The worst they can do," he chortled, "is deport me to Brooklyn, where I was born."

LASKY, LIKE OLD Samuel Johnson, whose biographical portrait in Boswell's Life he greatly resembles, likes to fold his legs and have his talk. He hardly requires a bloodhound pack to run him down. Personal reminiscences, scathing opinions of the First Family, political background and literary motivations can be had by any and all within the sound of Lasky's ceaseless voice.

He was a press agent, rewrite editor, reporter and columnist before he turned presidential biographer, very much without portfolio. He says he knew the Kennedys when they were so conservative that they talked like embryonic Birchites. JFK hit the liberal sawdust trail, says Lasky, in search of glory, rather than from conviction, and it was the nature of this conviction which intrigued Lasky to explore the Kennedy story.

FURTHER, LASKY recalls that from the time Richard Nixon became Vice President the Democratic National Committee set up archives, in what was known as the Nixophobia room in Washington, in order to have a ready cache of derogatory material on the man called Tricky Dickie Lasky, in turn, set out about three years ago to collect documented debunkery on JFK. Only about one-third of the material appears in the 600-odd paged, multimegabyte political bomb which Lasky's publishers touched off this month.

WHEN WE REACHED the East Side Republican Club, the featured speaker, Congressman Ashbrook of Ohio, hadn't arrived but he wasn't missed. Lasky was called to the rostrum by popular acclaim, and soon had the audience eating out of both his hands.

You don't have to partake long of the Lasky fare without recognizing it as rare ribs of Old Goldwater, served hot and spicy. And in no time at all, you will understand why the New Frontier bloodhound might well be turned loose on this man's traces, and why the Master of Hounds himself might even offer a bounty on Lasky's ample, unsharpened head.

FOR VICTORY LASKY, not open to attack as a Radical Rightist nor an ambitious politico, is going to be a very special nuisance to the Kennedys from now on, and conversely, a very hefty asset to all who wish the Kennedys ill.

Hence, as Lasky and his book roam the country in this pre-campaign season, don't be surprised if the voice of the bloodhound is heard in our land.

First Aid

TRENTON, Mo. (AP)—"We need first aid," said a spokesman for a group of young men who approached the nurse's station at the North Central Missouri Fair.

Mrs. Harold Hamilton, nurse on duty, noting most of the group seemed to be shielding one member, asked if she could help.

"Yes," replied the spokesman handing her a badly torn pair of trousers. "Can you patch these so our friend here can get home. We came over the fence but he didn't quite make it."

Billy Graham

I am a Christian but I bear resentment toward a friend who has wronged me. This makes me miserable, but just how do I free myself of this resentment?

K.C.

Modern psychology says to send out "positive thoughts" instead of negative ones. That perhaps would be helpful, but humanly we find it hard to "accentuate the positive."

Jesus had an answer? To resentments, and I have found it to be very practical in my own experience. He said, "Pray for those that spitefully use you." I have tried this and it works beautifully. I simply cannot harbor resentments toward anyone I pray for. When I bear them up to God in prayer, it seems that I remember Christ's words: "And if ye forgive men their trespasses, God will forgive your trespasses." And at the throne I find forgiveness for my unforgiving spirit, and the grace to forgive those who have in some way wronged me.

Handling resentments is difficult in your own strength, but you can conquer them with God's help. The "I-can-do-all-things-through-Christ" is the attitude that will win.

President Feeling His Way On Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has had to feel his way toward the $11-billion tax cut he asked the people to support Wednesday night in his television and radio broadcast.

His argument can be put this way:

Taxes are too high and have been for years. If they're cut, people and corporations will have more money to spend. This, by pepping up the economy, will be insurance against another recession.

Concern about a recession has been on his mind since he took office in 1961 although the word "recession" can be a delicate one with presidents. Eisenhower on Jan. 18, 1961—two days before he turned over the White House to Kennedy—told Congress in his economic report that there had been a "decline" in the economy.

KENNEDY went a lot stronger than that 11 days later. In his State of the Union Message to Congress on Jan. 29, 1961, Kennedy said "we take office in the wake of seven months of recession, three and a half years of slack."

He pointed back to the recession of 1958—which Eisenhower at the time had also called a recession—and said this country's recovery from that one was incomplete.

By the end of June 1961, after he had been in office six months, he reported the United States "had emerged" from the recession. "But fear of another one was high in his mind, as he showed later.

He referred Wednesday night, as he had before, to four recessions since the war: 1948-49, 1953-54, 1958-59, and 1960-61. He said high tax rates had helped cause the last two recessions.

IN HIS first year Kennedy proposed various measures to bolster the economy but by 1962 he had definitely settled on a tax cut as a program to pursue, although in the beginning he only inched up to the problem.

In his budget message in January, 1962, Kennedy didn't mention a direct tax cut but suggested Congress give him stand-by authority to cut taxes if the economy began to show sickness.

Later in the year he went further and talked of wanting Congress to cut taxes across the board for individuals and corporations in 1963, a cut applying to 1963 income. This didn't get anywhere.

BUT, STARTING out this year, he made the across the board tax cut his major program for 1963. It eventually became apparel, as this tardy Congress dawdled along, that even if it approved a cut it wouldn't apply to 1963 income.

Then last week he got over his first big hurdle when the House Ways and Means Committee, which handles tax matters, approved 17 to 8 a tax cut of $11 billion.

Fifteen Democrats and two Republicans teamed up to approve the measure over the opposition of eight Republicans. Approval by this committee was a necessary preliminary before the full House could get a chance to vote on it.

THE FULL HOUSE tackles it next week and Wednesday night Kennedy used some of his television time to take a swipe at foes of the bill, mostly Republicans. Republicans quickly announced they will demand equal television time to answer.

But even if the House gives Kennedy the tax cut he wants, there can't be any tax reduction unless the Senate also approves, and it may be weeks before a Senate committee even begins hearings, and more weeks before there can be a full vote on the bill in the Senate, if it ever gets there.

Today's Office Is Pawn Shop

NEW YORK (AP)—The average business office today is a pawnshop without the usual gilt three-ball sign.

"Neither a borrower nor a lender be," wrote Shakespeare a bit of advice from the bard that is honored more in neglect than in observance.

The employees of most firms spend at least part of the working day borrowing from each other, and the custom has many social as well as financial advantages.

IT HELPS them to pass the time, it improves their arithmetic, it enables them to find out who their real friends are (if any), and it keeps alive some wretches who might otherwise starve between paydays.

While office borrowing isn't universal, it is practically so. A crisp new $5 bill, loaned to one person in the morning, may travel briefly through half a dozen pockets before nightfall—as it is borrowed and reborrowed. Sometimes it even winds up in the same pocket from which its journey started.

IF YOU look around your own office, you may find the following types of white collar borrowers:

"The competitor"—If he sees you lend $3 to someone, he immediately asks you for $6—because he can't stand to see anybody else get ahead of him at anything.

"The tragedian"—Before he makes his touch, he breaks your heart with a tale of woe. "All I want is carfare and enough to buy one red rose," he weeps. "My daughter is having her adenoids out, and I want to visit her in the hospital."

"THE GRAND EVADER"—"Don't bother me with trifles," he says loftily when you ask him humbly for the $25 he has owed you since Christmas. "I'm working on a deal now that'll make us both rich."

"The compulsive wheeder"—If you don't have any ready cash, he'll borrow anything else you have. It's a matter of pride with this guy never to go away empty-handed.

"The hypochondriac"—You can keep your money. It's your medicine this fellow wants.

"The pyramid artist"—On payday he pays you the $5 he borrowed, and the next day he borrows $10. He keeps building up his debt this way until, when he is fired at the end of the year, he leaves you with holding the sack for $10.

of the other types of exercise that I mentioned. Walking up and down stairs, once, would be too much for them. But such individuals know it.

Generally, it is good for a heart patient to have as much exercise as can be tolerated without discomfort: without huffing and puffing and being out of breath, certainly without any heart pain without a feeling of being "popped out," which may be all right for the young folks who need to use up their energy and harden their muscles.

For the person with angina, if bicycle riding causes no bad effects—either shortness of breath or pain—it is good exercise. Any form of steady and regular exercise within those limitations is good. It will strengthen the heart by gradually increasing circulation through development of small blood vessels. Overdoing, indicated by pain or breathlessness, will not help. It will do damage, or pain—it is good exercise. Any form of steady and regular exercise is also acceptable.

To Your Good Health

Mild Exercise Beneficial In Some Heart Cases

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I understand that bicycle riding is excellent exercise for heart patients. I ride every day and, as I have angina, I wonder if you approve. I don't notice any bad effects.—MRS. G.S.

I approve, subject to several qualifications.

Under normal circumstances bicycle riding is mild, pleasant exercise.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, bless his heart and bless his advice on care of the heart, rides a bike. However, many other forms of exercise are just as good: not excessively strenuous, but steady and pleasant. But some may not suit your temperament and circumstances, or lend themselves as well to daily use. It may not be as easy (or it may, for some, be easier) to do a little swimming, a little bowling, some calisthenics, a little work in the garden, some walking, some work in a basement workshop, padding a canoe or rowing a boat.

Golf, leisurely, probably 9 holes rather than 18, on a not-too-hilly course, is also acceptable.

All of us need exercise unless some problem of health interferes. There are heart patients for whom riding a bicycle would be too strenuous. This is also true ple do, and some don't, have tender skin that these creams can irritate. The only answer is to try them. If you have a tender skin, you'll soon know it. In which case, stop using the creams.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is ptyeolophritis? What are the symptoms? Does it make you dizzy and tired?—E. G.

It means inflammation of an important part of the kidney (or kidneys). Symptoms may include fever, cloudy urine, burning sensation when urinating, pain in the kidney region. The infection can cause fatigue, and fever and toxicity may cause dizziness.

Count your calories the easy way! To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write Dr. Molner in care of the Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

there, it reminds me a lot of going to the hospital. Everyone is sympathetic, offers condolences, agrees that things are tough all over, and promises to do the best possible to pull the patient through. Sure enough, the patient makes it, but I'm warned to take it easy for a few days and watch that oil pressure.

And whether the garage or the hospital, a whopping bill is sure to follow. Unfortunately, there is no Blue Cross for the car. In my opinion, there is a field wide open for some enterprising young insurance man—a hospitalization plan for broken down old cars.

SOME FOLKS DREAD the sight of the doctor shaking his head and saying, "We'll have to take it out," referring to a tonsil or an appendix. What's worse, in my estimation, is the mechanic making the exact same motion and saying the exact same thing, but referring to the crankshaft. The latter is far more expensive, and there's no sure way to civil rights legislation and put the lid on any filibuster by the Eastlands, the Russells, the Longs and the Elenders?

Must the nation wait on the pleasure of Congress until our Rome is in flames and burning out of control? How much longer will it sit in its marble halls, paid for by both white and Negro taxation, and, through inertia or worse, encourage the present rapidly deteriorating situation?

THE VAST majority of Americans, North and South, are sickened by Congressional callousness to a situation that worsens daily, and one in which far more than Mrs. Murphy's sacred boarding house can be swept away. To say that Congress lacks guts in this crisis is not true. What it lacks is sensitivity to a crucial situation and to the national mood—and that is far more serious.

This nation cannot and should not be expected to tolerate or endure more violence. We are shamed before ourselves and the world for what has happened in Birmingham where Negro children are not even safe in the House of God.

AS A NATION, the least we can do for those children who died by violence is to insist that Congress finally pass the civil rights bill and enforce the guarantee of equal protection before the law. That is the only memorial and atonement that Americans can offer these children.

Around The Rim

Dreams . . . And Bumpy Reality

It's a sad time of the year around our place. Beginning this week and continuing for another month, the car manufacturers will announce and display their new models. And we will wishfully read the ads and visit the dealer's show windows with a wistful gleam. Then, it's back to the old heap and a bumpy ride home.

EACH YEAR WE plan to swap the buggy in for a fancy new model. But something always comes up, like a major engine overhaul, a new transmission or other expense that exhausts the meager family treasury. And so, the new car dream waits another year.

There is a theory that it's better to swap in an old car on a new one because it saves maintenance costs. I agree. But once the family bus starts falling apart, how does a fellow hang onto enough shekels to get a new one?

I'M NOT SURE it's true, but the rumor is circulating at the garage where our car is kept pieced together that the boss depends on our monthly stipend to make his house payments. Our vehicle breakdowns are that regular and dependable.

I've heard it said down there they would refuse to sell me a new car; they couldn't afford the loss in revenue. I haven't had a chance to put it to the test. Usually, I make that scene with the car barely rolling or coughing its last gasp as I ease into the garage. Actually, the old car spends so much time down there, I'm half afraid that they might start charging me for storage.

EVERY TIME I take the car down

This year, we will be making the rounds again, leaving our fingerprints on the shiny new demonstrators and bluffing the salesmen long enough to drive one around the block. Then, that bumpy ride home.

A Call For Civil Rights Action

There is one final obligation that decent Americans, grieved, humiliated and outraged by the Birmingham massacre, owe the six young girls and boys who were the innocent victims of that maniacal violence.

The least we can do for these children, killed by dynamite and by bullets, is to write or wire our Congressman demanding—not begging, not pleading, not asking—the immediate consideration and passage of the civil rights legislation which the current do-nothing Congress has comfortably managed to ignore for so long.

THE AMERICAN Rome has been smoldering for months. It has been patent to everyone in the nation with the exception of a do-less Congress that the century-old patience of the Negro citizen is finally exhausted. His frustration further fed by almost a decade of piddling tokenism in integration of the public schools.

In the face of intolerable and growing riots in the North and South against the lawful aspirations and constitutional rights of the Negro, a complacent Congress has continued to contemplate its navel. It has set idly by while the Governor of Alabama has defied Federal authority.

RESPONSIBLE elements in the nation have every right to charge the Congress of the United States with criminal negligence. Twenty million Negroes, asking only for justice, can accuse it of indifference and inaction in the death of six Birmingham Negro children.

How much longer will the Congress, by its stately unconcern with the most pressing domestic issue in the nation, continue to encourage more Birmingham? More riots in Chicago? More violence in Philadelphia suburbs? How many more Negro children must die before the Democratic leadership will decide that it is possible for the civil rights measure to be considered before Christmas?

HOW MANY MORE Birmingham will it take to force the Senate to give thought, much less attention, to civil rights legislation and put the lid on any filibuster by the Eastlands, the Russells, the Longs and the Elenders?

Must the nation wait on the pleasure of Congress until our Rome is in flames and burning out of control? How much longer will it sit in its marble halls, paid for by both white and Negro taxation, and, through inertia or worse, encourage the present rapidly deteriorating situation?

THE VAST majority of Americans, North and South, are sickened by Congressional callousness to a situation that worsens daily, and one in which far more than Mrs. Murphy's sacred boarding house can be swept away. Reason Vs. Passion

WASHINGTON — The tragedy of Birmingham reflects the conflicts of angry men. It emphasizes a defeat for the rule of reason and a triumph for the spirit of mobocracy.

To preach non-violence, yet to sanction street "demonstrations" which incite to violence, is to stir up the deepest emotions. Under such circumstances, men on both sides tend to feel rather than to think.

RESPONSIBILITY for the recent outbreak of violence will be attributed by each side to the other in the "integration" controversy. It will be said that, if the churches themselves had not become active participants in the public demonstrations, there would have been less resentment in the communities. It will be argued in reply that there was no other way to dramatize what was felt to be an innate injustice both in law and morality.

There is no question about the fact that the bitterness of those who have been discriminated against because of race or color produces an anger that often brushes aside pleas for a rule of reason and for the operation of a system of law. Not so many years ago, the anger of the mob caused the lynching of many an innocent man. The mob always felt sure that the suspect was guilty and cried out, "Why wait for the courts—he's guilty!" The cry today is: "Why wait for the process of law—it's too slow!"

THE AIR IS filled with threats. It is being said that, unless this or that reform is immediately granted, there will be race violence. No constructive purpose is served by such threats and, when uttered by clergymen, they are even more discouraging. For what is lacking in the controversies today is the restraint that comes from a true religious spirit.

It will be of little avail to accuse any one in public office—or the people of Birmingham—of responsibility for last Sunday's crime. This will tend only to increase bitterness all around.

THE ANSWER to the country's race problem will not come from bombings any more than it will come from "demonstrations," however orderly they may appear to be. The right of petition under the Constitution can be effectively exercised in less spectacular ways.

Whatever Congress may do at this session will be regarded as inadequate by angry men anxious to accomplish overnight what must take a long time to achieve. For, as past experience indicates, customs and ways of life are not surrendered under threat or in an atmosphere of passion.

THIS COUNTRY has prided itself on its constitutional system—a government of written laws. Unjust laws are not repealed by mob violence but by steady and persistent pleas in the court of public opinion. The means of communication are numerous today and are available to proponents or opponents of any legislation.

The theory that "demonstrations" are essential to the winning of public opinion fails to take into account that, in an atmosphere of anger and bitter resentment, there is no human progress if laws are passed before the electorate has really been persuaded of their justice through application of the rule of reason. Violence begets more violence. It doesn't vanish when provocative speeches are made in the name of "non-violence."

IT IS A TIME for self-examination by all sides of the current controversy. There surely are in every community men of all races who can sit down together to work out needed reforms and gradually put them into effect through city ordinances. They can also bring about the passage of the necessary state or federal laws to deal with particular barriers to the better understanding which should prevail among all races.

Even this process, however, takes time for education of the citizens and a legal determination of where private rights end and public rights begin. Time and reason can solve any difficulty, but the passions of anger will solve nothing—not even in the relations of governments or nations, as the wars of the past have tragically proved.

Nightmarish Inflation Plagues Brazil; Fires Add To Woe

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Luis Prestes Pinheiro, an accountant, stopped at a fish market to buy some shrimp.

The price was 800 cruzeiros a kilogram—2.2 pounds. He found he had left his wallet at home and went back to get some money.

When he returned the price on shrimp had gone up to 1,000 cruzeiros a kilo.

To Pinheiro and millions of other Brazilians inflation is a nightmarish spiral of increasing prices which make it more and more difficult to make ends meet on outdistanced salaries.

Living costs shot up 30.8 per cent in the first half of the year after rising 52.7 per cent in 1962, one of Brazil's worst inflation years. They are still going.

Heaping woe on the economic picture was a report from the semi-official Getulio Vargas Foundation that economic growth this year would be only 2.4 per cent while the population would increase 3.1 per cent. Population increasing faster than the national production spells trouble.

Brazil's budget deficit is expected to be from 600 billion to a trillion cruzeiros.

The cruzeiro, Brazil's monetary unit, smashed the 1,000 cruzeiros to the dollar barrier for the first time this month.

Brazil has a $25.5-million debt coming due in the United States next month and about $176 million in commercial bills coming up before the end of the year.

One foreign economist likens Brazil's efforts to meet its obligations abroad to a "man filling up old holes by digging new ones."

Even nature is contributing to Brazil's woes. Forest fires have swept over one of the nation's richest states, Parana, destroying valuable crops, timber, livestock and leaving thousands homeless. Labor unions are again demanding high wage increases. The bank workers' union, for example, wants a 125 per cent hike now followed by 70 per cent in six months.

Except for a few preliminary measures, the ambitious three-year plan to slow up inflation and stabilize the economy never got off the ground. Finance Minister Carlos Carvalho Pinto insists, however, that he still is working rigorously within the general framework of the plan in an effort to make some order in Brazil's fuzzy financial-economic household.

Carvalho Pinto is confident the government can increase its revenue through tax reforms and other measures he has instituted.

How well Brazil fills up its foreign debt holes and withstands snowballing inflationary pressure could be decisive for the nation's economic future.

As one foreign observer put it: "Brazil still is some distance from true economic chaos. But the distance is getting shorter every day."

Freeman Says He's Willing To Sell Wheat To Russians

MONTICELLO, Iowa (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman told an audience of eastern Iowa farmers Wednesday that he would be willing to sell some of this nation's surplus wheat to the Soviet Union, if the Russians pay "our price."

Freeman explained that he favors selling American wheat to the Communists only at a non-subsidized price. American wheat currently moves into world trade with about a 70 cents a bushel U.S. subsidy, in order to compete with exports from other nations.

Canada and Australia recently agreed to sell a substantial quantity of wheat to Russia. Freeman, who recently returned from a month-long trip to the Soviet Union, noted that the Russian wheat crop is short this year.

He said it would require approval "in the highest circles of government" to sell U.S. wheat at the subsidized price to Russia.

"This involves high international policy," Freeman said. "But if the Russians are willing to pay our price, I think we ought to sell them the wheat."

Indonesia Voices Regrets Over Riot

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—faced with a British break in diplomatic relations and provoked by Washington, Indonesia expressed regret today for the mob burning and looting of the British Embassy and other property.

Strong forces of Indonesian troops appeared to have restored order in this capital after Wednesday's rampage by about 10,000 Indonesians protesting against the new, British-sponsored Federation of Malaysia. But in the uneasy calm, British women and children were preparing to quit Indonesia.

President Sukarno's government issued a conciliatory statement deploring the mob violence, worst demonstration ever staged here against a foreign power. British Foreign Secretary Lord Home had denounced such uncivilized behavior and threatened to sever diplomatic relations unless assured British subjects and property would be protected.

U.S. CONCERN

The Indonesian government statement was issued after U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones called on Sukarno with a message from Secretary of State Dean Rusk expressing the U.S. government's concern over the rioting. Rusk voiced similar concern to Indonesian Ambassador Zairin Zain in Washington.

The Indonesian statement said the government "certainly does not approve" of mob action and blamed the outbreak in part on "the destruction of the Indonesian Embassy in Kuala Lumpur (capital of Malaysia)."

That riot followed Monday's stoning of the British and Malaysian embassies in Jakarta.

The Indonesian mob, screaming "Crush the British" and "Crush Malaysia," vented its fury against Britain's support of Malaysia, four-day-old nation formed in a federation of Malaya, Singapore and the British Borneo territories of Sarawak and North Borneo.

BORNEO ISSUE

Sukarno opposed the federation on the ground it would perpetuate British colonialism in Southeast Asia. British officials believe, however, Sukarno is more interested in trying to take over Sarawak and North Borneo, which share the island of Borneo with Indonesian territory.

The Indonesian government said it had taken steps to prevent further violence.

In Kuala Lumpur, about 30 anti-Indonesian demonstrators seized the former Indonesian Embassy residence and threatened to burn themselves and the building if police tried to eject them. Protesters in the Jakarta riots, they vowed to stay inside until Malaysian diplomats returning from Jakarta were safely home.

The Philippines, also opposes Malaysia because of some territorial claims on North Borneo but has not been as vocal in its opposition as Indonesia. Malaysia has broken relations with both Indonesia and the Philippines.

Postal Policy To Be Kept

DALLAS (AP)—Sidney Bishop, acting postmaster general, asserted Wednesday that the equal employment opportunity will still be stressed by the Kennedy administration in the postal system.

Bishop, here to address the National League of Postmasters convention, added that the Post Office Department under the Kennedy administration has made significant strides in equal employment.

Three Dallas Negro post office employees were promoted three months ago over white employees who ranked higher on the promotion list.

Joe Pool of Dallas protested the promotion.

On the Dallas post office employees promotion issue, Bishop asserted the promotions were in conformity with the promotion program and President Kennedy's executive orders on equal employment opportunities.

Search Off For Rocket

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force today called off a search for the United States' first winged spacecraft, which apparently sank in the Atlantic Ocean.

Officials decided after studying reports from Wednesday's 19-hour hunt that possibility of finding the 1,100-pound payload was remote.

Although the main goal of retrieving the craft was not achieved, project personnel reported some positive results.

The six-foot-tall payload flew its prescribed course and radio devices sent valuable information on pressures and temperatures which punished the vehicle.

A second launching in the series is scheduled in December.

Rehearing Asked For Air Hijacker

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Rehearing of the case against an Arizona who tried to hijack an airliner for Cuba was requested Wednesday on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

A lawyer for Leon Bearden, 39, of Coolidge, Ariz., filed the petition.

The court denied a Justice Department request for a rehearing in the case because the petition was filed after the deadline for such action was passed.

Bearden and his son, Cody, 17, drew pistols and ordered the pilot of an airliner to head for Cuba in August 1961. Instead, the pilot put the plane down at El Paso. The father got 20 years. Cody Bearden pleaded guilty as a juvenile delinquent.

DEAR ABBY

You've Got A Winner

DEAR ABBY: My husband manages a Little League baseball team. The boys think he's tops, but, oh, the parents! My husband tries to play all the boys, but recently, during the all-star game, we were behind and my husband was afraid we'd lose the game, so he played the boys he thought could win for us. Well, two boys didn't get to play. After the game the mother of one of the two boys came over and called my husband every low name in the book. My husband just said, "I'm sorry, ma'am." Then the father of the other boy stepped up and cursed my husband, and said baseball was only a game and it was more important to play all the boys than to win the game. My husband just said, "Yes, sir," but I could see he took it hard. He loves working with those kids, Abby, but he can't take the abuse from the parents. Should I make my husband quit? MANAGER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No, I'm sure there are box seats behind the dugout in heaven reserved for Little League managers who have taken abuse from grown-ups in order to teach young people good sportsmanship. Your husband is one of them.

DEAR ABBY: My son graduated from high school in June. I sent invitations to our close relatives. All my husband's side of the family sent him a card of congratulations or a gift. But not one word came from MY side of the family. I was hurt and shocked. We went back to where my family lives for a vacation this summer. When I saw them I let them know how they had hurt me. Since we have returned I haven't heard one word from them. My husband says they're probably annoyed because I brought up their thoughtlessness, and I should forget it. I can't forget it. I feel terrible. Should I write each one and apologize? HEARTBROKEN

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Your husband is right. Forget it, and give them a chance to forget it, too.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14, and the oldest of five children, so it is my job to help my mother with the housework and with my younger brothers and sisters. They are a pain and I don't think it is fair that I have so many household responsibilities. Whenever I complain about the washing or ironing or baby-sitting, my mother gives me the old routine about what good "practice" it is for later on in life. Please help me. I plan to be a model or an actress and I don't NEED all this practice.

DEAR SLAVE: That's what YOU think. What do you think happens to all those breakdown models and actresses?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOYAL TO MY WIFE": Your kind of "loyalty" is far from admirable. If your wife finds your parents "objectionable," go to visit them without her, and take your children with you. It isn't fair that your parents see nothing of you or their grandchildren just because your wife "doesn't care" for them.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., for Abby's new booklet, "How To Write Letters For All Occasions."
