New Court Action Seen As 'Knocking On Door'

"What effect will the reopening of the Gay Hill - Center Point school annexation litigation have on any expansion activities or bond proposals the Big Spring Independent School District may undertake or need to undertake?"

MRS. FRED TURNER
... killed by burglar

Officers hustled the man to headquarters for questioning.

Her face was beaten so badly that officers could not at once determine the cause of her death and reported she was shot to death.

The Negro was captured when Russ Craddock went into a storeroom at the rear of his home two blocks from the Turner mansion.

On the floor he noted Turner's picture and some documents bearing Mrs. Turner's name.

He quietly called officers who arrested the man in the attic.

Apparently the burglar remained in the house from sometime before 4 a. m. until about 8 a. m. hiding in some of the many rooms of the mansion.

Turner was in Las Vegas, N. M., where he had been for a week supervising his extensive ranching interests.

Turner is best known nationally as the owner of Tomey Lee, the 1959 Kentucky Derby winner.

Mrs. Turner, in her early 60s, was alone in the home.

A cook found the house in disarray when she arrived and she called Clarence Scharbauer Jr., Mrs. Turner's son-in-law.

A Negro gathered the family, servants and the sheriff at gunpoint, backed out the front door and fled.

Officers said the man apparently entered the home to rob it and was surprised by Mrs. Turner.

At 7:35 a. m., a cook arrived for work and found the downstairs area in disarray.

The sheriff called the sheriff and asked him to meet them at the Turner home.

The sheriff and Mrs. Scharbauer found Mrs. Turner lying on her dressing room floor, her body covered with a bed spread.

The sheriff said the man lined up the group at gunpoint and then backed out the door and fled.

Turner gained national notice in oil circles when he filed suit claiming that a portion of the Yates oil field in Pecos County, Tex., was vacant — that no one owned the land.

He won the suit. It was his big start in the oil business and he extended his holdings rapidly.

Dr. Carl Marcum, president of the Chamber of Commerce, found Sandy McComb's sales pitch too good to resist, so he would buy with the first tickets to a chili supper being sponsored by Band Boosters Friday before the game with Midland. Tickets are 75 cents for students and $1 for adults.

New Court Action Seen As 'Knocking On Door'

"The judgment of the Texas Supreme Court is a final judgment. I have told the school officials to consult with their attorneys and bond men on the issue of what would be the situation if the appeal is accepted by the high court. Personally, I do not think there will be any change in the situation as it now is regardless of whether the high court agrees to hear the appeal."

Dawson Area Business Up

LAMESA (SC) — A new census of the nation's business population on a county-by-county basis shows that there are 1,048 commercial establishments in the Dawson County area as compared to 1,003 in 1959.

This includes all non-farm business—retail, manufacturing, service and other—that employ one or more persons and are covered by social security. Comprising the region covered is Dawson, Andrews, Gaines and Martin counties.

Of this number 640 are establishments with 1-3 employees. Those having 4-7 on the payroll total, 209; and those with 8-19, 124.

The census shows that the area business is well diversified. Although there are many more small-size firms, there is no lack of large businesses. About 93 per cent have fewer than 20 employees each.

Gainful employment was provided by the non-farm units last year with 6,603 persons working compared to 5,462 in 1959. Payrolls have risen considerably since 1959 with the figure of $25,908,000 for last year considerably above the 1959 tabulation of $19,436,000.

Ginny's Rains May Relieve Arid East

CHICAGO (AP)—No general break in autumn's severe and costly drought appeared in prospect today but possible rains from hurricane Ginny may bring some relief in eastern parts of the nation.

Rain, showers or snow were forecast for broad areas of the East and South. The rains, if heavy and widespread, could be of benefit in alleviating drought conditions, curtailing the rash of fires in forestlands and replenishing dwindling water supplies.

Forecasters said Ginny was centered about 250 miles south of Cape Cod and moving northward, aiming at southeastern New England and threatening strong winds and rain for New York City and Long Island.

Heavy rains were indicated in eastern Long Island and eastern Connecticut, with tides running up to six feet above normal.

Gale warnings were displayed from Eastport, Maine, to the Virginia Capes.

If Ginny continues on her present course, most of the rain would hit only coastal areas rather than the tinder-dry inland sections. Weather officials said New York City's six up-state reservoirs, based on Ginny's present movement, would not get much benefit because of the inland locations. Residents in the nation's largest city have been asked to conserve water.

Meanwhile, the drought continued to cut deeper into many segments of the nation's economy. Property and crop losses have been estimated in the millions of dollars.

Showers the past few days in scattered areas of the vast drought belt, which extends from the Southern Plains into New England, brought only temporary relief from the prolonged dry spell.

Nearly a half inch of rain fell Monday in many areas in New England, which has been hard hit by drought and scores of forest fires. Earlier, fairly heavy rain hit parched areas in Upper Michigan, northern Missouri, Southern Illinois and central Kansas.

Shorter Week Drive Mapped

WASHINGTON (AP)—Labor leaders campaigning to cut the 40-hour work week estimate that more than 55 million Americans already have contracts calling for shorter hours.

And the AFL-CIO, at its convention in New York next month, is almost certain to ask Congress to cut the work week of another 20 million Americans by reducing the present 40-hour minimum.

George Meany, president of the big labor organization, says it is the only answer to full employment.

But labor's argument that it would not lead to inflationary price rises is apparently finding few receptive ears in Congress, the Labor Department or the White House.

The administration fears it would lead to rising prices and inflation.

The prime motivation now and in the past for shorter-work contracts, an AFL-CIO spokesman says frankly, is the fear of unemployment.

Some labor spokesmen believe cutting the 40-hour week would come close to halving the current unemployment figure of 3.5 million.

The cause of labor's growing concern is the steady loss of jobs to automation while the nation's labor force climbs inexorably higher.

Although the Labor Department does not keep figures on the number of workers with less than 40-hour contract weeks, the AFL-CIO's research department places the figure at 10 to 15 per cent of the nation's non-farm wage and salary workers—between 5.5 million and 8 million persons.

Does the shorter work week help spread employment? "Not as much as we had hoped," an AFL-CIO spokesman said, adding that automation has been taking up the slack faster than anticipated.

NOT PAUL-LIKE

It is not Christ-like; neither is it Paul-like for a preacher to refuse to discuss the word of God with someone who disagrees with his doctrine.

Paul was "set for the defense of the gospel" (Phil. 1:17). He discussed the word with all kinds of people whose beliefs differed from his; with those of the Jewish faith; with men of the heathen religions; and with brethren who had drifted into error. (Acts 9:29; 17:17 and 18:1, 2 etc.)

Paul taught the people to "prove all things" (1 Thess. 5:21). Why should a man not desire to "hear both sides" before he accepts a teaching? And why should any teacher who sincerely believes his teaching is true, refuse to have it tested?

If one is going to buy a piece of real estate, he wants the title examined. If the seller refuses to have it examined, something is wrong.

Jobs Talked For FDR Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The No. 2 spot in the government's chief business agency may seem an unlikely place for Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., but he could be headed from there into a new political career.

Roosevelt expresses enthusiasm for his job—undersecretary of commerce—and says he is making no plans for a new political future.

Still, rumors about big things ahead are constantly bouncing along the gray walls of the Commerce Department building. Here's the gist of them:

1. Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, 65, will run for governor of North Carolina next year and Roosevelt, 49, will succeed him as secretary.

2. Roosevelt will run next year for the U.S. Senate seat held by Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y.

3. He'll bid his time and aim at the New York governorship in 1966.

And if you want to carry it farther along the daydreaming trail, there is even talk that the Roosevelt name would add something to a Lyndon B. Johnson presidential ticket in 1968.

"I read the papers," Roosevelt says, "and I know they say the White House will ask me to run against Keating. But I disagree that. We have lots of good men available."

He named New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Rep. Samuel S. Stratton as two possibilities.

There is some indication that

Volunteers To Receive Pins

Nearly 50 volunteer workers at the Big Spring State Hospital today will be honored for service time ranging up to 6,500 hours. The event will be conducted during a meeting of the Volunteer Council.

Twenty volunteers will receive pins for passing the 100-hour mark and another 13 have given in excess of 500 hours. Three more will be honored for 1,000 hours and two for 2,000 hours. One individual will be recognized for having passed the 2,500-hour mark, another for 3,000 hours and another for 3,500 hours.

Two volunteers have surpassed the 6,000-hour point. One will be cited for this accomplishment and another for reaching 6,500 hours.

The program was originally slated for two weeks ago, but was postponed. Dr. J. H. Burnett, chairman of the council, will be in charge of the meeting and recognition program.

Opening lead: Ten of ♠

An unusual series of uppercuts in the trump suit by East enabled his partner, West, to score the setting trick against today's small slam contract with the singleton eight of spades.

West led the ten of hearts against six spades, although the eight of trumps would have been a much more effective choice. Declarer put up the dummy's ace of hearts and, observing that he had four top tricks available in the side suits, it appeared to him that the best play for the slam hinged on scoring all eight spades separately, i. e., via a complete crossruff.

South cashed the dummy's top club honors and discarded his remaining heart. Observing the fall of West's queen of clubs, declarer decided to ruff himself in with a small heart.

The ace of diamonds was taken and a diamond trumped with the four of spades. Now, if just one more heart could be singled in with his six of spades, South could complete his crossruff with assured safety, for he would be down to the top five trumps.

East had other thoughts however, and, when the third round of hearts was led from dummy, he carefully trumped in with the nine of spades in order to prevent declarer from making good another small trump. South was obliged to overruff with the king of spades.

A diamond was ruffed with the ten of spades and, on the next heart play, East ruffed with the seven of spades to force out the ace. Dummy was reentered by trumping another diamond but, when South tried to score his 12th trick by ruffing a club, West overruffed the six of spades with his singleton eight and declarer fell short of the goal.

he would prefer a shot at the governorship.

OVERNIGHT

"Things can change overnight," he says. "There are advantages to being on the legislative side of government, but I like the administrative end. I'm happy right here. I have the feeling that if I do this job day by day, the future will take care of itself."

Roosevelt's resemblance to his late father—in feature and gesture—is so great that at times you expect him to break out a long cigarette holder and perhaps utter something like, "My friends," or, "The only thing we have to fear, etc."

He has FDR's habit of throwing his head back when he laughs. At 6-foot-4, he is more robust than his father and his voice is more resonant.

The FDR image was invaluable to John F. Kennedy in Kennedy's drive for a primary showing in West Virginia in 1960—a contest that proved to be a turning point in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Among the factors in that West Virginia victory was the work done by young Roosevelt in a tireless five-week campaign stint.

Kennedy's appointment of Roosevelt was widely interpreted as the payoff of a political debt.

Despite liberal leanings, Roosevelt often speaks a language businessmen can understand. He operated an automobile agency in Washington for several years, although he has been a lawyer and politician most of his adult life.

BUSINESS

Does he have any trouble with businessmen who remember the elder Roosevelt as an exponent of organized labor, a president unfriendly to business?

"Well, that's a popular misconception about my father," Roosevelt says. "I don't believe there would be any business if he had not taken the steps he did. It might have collapsed completely and some other system might have replaced it. Of course, we have a modified free enterprise system now."

Some businessmen come in this office just out of curiosity—to see if I have anything besides sawdust between the ears. They leave, I hope, with the idea that we are trying to help business."

Some 15 years ago, he challenged Tammany Hall—again, in the pattern of his father—and came out ahead by 2-1 in a race for Congress. In 1954, he took a shot at the governorship of New York but succeeded only in cornering the nomination for attorney general—and he was beaten by the Republican nominee, Jacob K. Javits, now a U.S. senator.

Increasing Prosperity Forecast For America

NEW YORK (AP)—Increasingly good business in the next two months—a seasonal hesitancy perhaps in the first couple of months of 1964—and then a moderate but quite healthy gain in the spring.

That's the pleasant expectation of the majority of industrial executives and their economists now being proffered Americans in a steady flow of predictions.

Minorities on both sides of the average offer their variations. Some see a strong advance for all of 1964. A few others think the present upswing in the economy is in its final months, with or without a federal tax cut.

EARNINGS
 But autumn's flow of increasing corporate earnings, many sweetened by higher profit margins in sales, and the happy excitement in the stock markets with each piece of good news, strengthens the expectation of the majority of business executives that good times are likely to get better before they peter out.

And the majority discounts all indications that the turnabout already may be gestating.

MORE DEBT
 Personal incomes continue to swell, as do consumer spending and the taking on of additional consumer debt. Retail sales hit a record in the summer and seem sure to better the mark in the final months of the year. Auto sales are booming, and that always reassures the public.

Industrial production has climbed higher fairly steadily. All of this has raised the Gross National Product to a record high, well above what had been expected at the start of the year. This dollar total of all goods and services produced is put at an annual rate of $388.5 billion in the third quarter, a hefty $8.9 billion gain over the April-May-June quarter. A further rise in the final months of this year seems all but in the bag.

32 MONTHS
 So why does the small minority of economists fret?

For one thing, the current business upswing is 32 months old, against an average of 27 months for this phase of the business cycle. The worriers caution that all that goes up must come down. And they add that a federal tax cut, if any, may come too late to stave off the downturn, but merely cushion it a bit.

For another, the economy's two chief weaknesses—the hard core of unemployment and the deficit in international balance of payments—may be alleviated a bit from time to time but still are fundamentally unsolved.

No New Court Dates For Estes

By The Associated Press

Billie Sol Estes, the promoter whose financial structure collapsed March 29, 1962, with his arrest, apparently will be out of the courtroom for some time.

Estes, 38, has been convicted twice.

One was a state case in Tyler where he drew eight years on charges of swindling.

Another was a federal conviction in El Paso, where he got 15 years.

Both convictions are on appeal. Estes is free on bond. He moved this year from Pecos to Abilene.

Trial dates have not been set in three other criminal cases.

An indictment on price-fixing charges is in state court at Amarillo. A federal case is pending in Dallas, charging false swearing. A federal trial at Pecos on mail fraud charges also awaits action.

The Tyler appeal is scheduled to be heard Wednesday in Austin. Estes need not be present.

The Court of Criminal Appeals is the final tribunal in Texas in criminal cases. Should the verdict go against Estes, he could ask for numerous rehearings, or appeal to federal courts if his lawyers feel a constitutional question is involved.

Estes' lawyers also have appealed the federal conviction to the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans. A delay until after Nov. 15 for a hearing was granted the defense, but no actual date has been set. The government has not completed the records necessary to fight the appeal.

Federal lawyers say no date has been set for Estes trials at Pecos and Dallas.

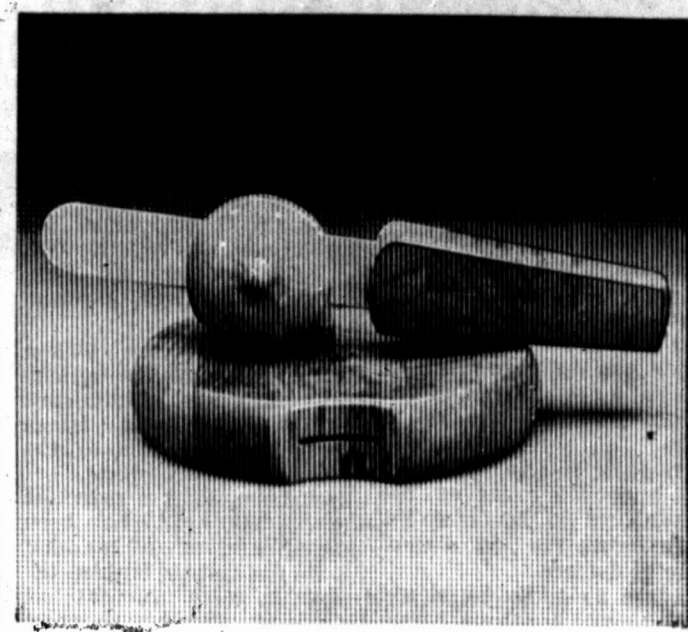

One source at the Dallas federal courthouse says he believes no decision will be made on trial dates until after a final decision is reached on the present conviction.

A PLEASURE TO WATCH

Darker Picture Drawn By Oil Industry Chief

DALLAS (AP)—The man who has been chief spokesman for 7,000 independent oil operators the past two years said today economic conditions within the industry probably will get worse.

Harold Decker of Houston said the general economy is booming but the domestic oil producing and drilling industry continues in its own private recession.

In his final presidential report to the Independent Petroleum Association of America, Decker said the industry has made little gain in correcting chaotic supply and marketing conditions.

HINDERING

He said the industry's failure to correct such conditions is hindering the development of sound solutions to the oilman's major governmental problems.

"For six years, we have gone from one price war to another in the marketing of the bread and butter product of crude oil, gasoline," he said. "In this same period, crude oil prices have declined 18 cents, or almost six per cent. The cost of drilling and completing oil wells, in the same time, has increased almost nine per cent.

"The recent rash of crude oil production is an indication the cost-price squeeze on producers and the unhealthy conditions in the industry generally are likely to worsen before they get better."

PRESIDENCY

On completing his report, Decker turned the presidency of the 40-state trade group over to H. A. True Jr. of Casper, Wyo. True, 48, is immediate past president of the Rocky Mountain Oil & Gas Association.

Decker said the industry's most pressing economic problems result from domestic and world surpluses of crude oil, unreasonable refinery runs, and product and crude oil price erosion in the face of increasing costs.

"It is beyond time for the oil industry, from the wellhead to the gasoline hose, to abandon the volume motive and get back to the profit motive," he said.

"If this is to be accomplished, the larger industry units which buy the crude oil and manufacture and sell the products of crude oil are going to have to exercise some overdue management leadership.

"Continuation of the prevailing trends can only, in the end, liquidate the independent oil producer who finds himself in the grips of a cost-price squeeze over which he has no control."

Dazzling Profit Reports Sprout From Automakers

NEW YORK (AP)—Dazzling profit figures are sprouting from the dizzy production and sales pace set by Detroit's auto makers.

They gave promise of warming the hearts—and palms—of stockholders, including the more than one million of the General Motors Corp.

Of the "Big Three" automakers, only Ford Motor Co. remained today to be heard from following GM's report of all-time high earnings and dollar sales in the nine months ended Sept. 30.

Chrysler Corp. last week unfolded another financial chapter in its spectacular. Directors promptly voted a 2-for-1 stock split, the second in less than a year, and in effect doubled the dividend.

GM's pattern of rewarding its shareholders — whether by more liberal dividend treatment or possibly a stock split—will be decided when directors meet Monday in New York.

In the first nine months, GM cleared $1,086,000,000, or $3.79 a common stock share, on unprecedented sales of $11,681,000,000.

The results suggested strongly that GM was on the way to shattering 1962's records for a full year of $1,459,000,000 in earnings and $14,640,000,000 in sales, levels unequaled by any manufacturing corporation.

The nine-month figures compared with $962 million, or $3.36 a share, cleared in the comparable 1962 period, on sales of $10,451,000,000.

"It's in my hip pocket in the shape of a card," he said. "I pace every course I play. I know the distances, not by just looking, but by knowing. I don't play by visual guessing of distances."

Power To Feed Four Big Spring Circuits

The substation transformer at left steps 138,000 volts of electricity down to 69,000 volts to power the four circuits in Big Spring east of Webb Air Force Base and West Big Spring. Texas Electric Service Co. has three of these sub-

TESCO Able To Furnish Power Even In Disasters

How would Big Spring users of electricity fare if a catastrophe occurred on both sides of the city? Texas Electric Service Co. is prepared to take care of any emergency cutting power from any one or up to six lines coming into the Big Spring Switching Station. There are three 138,000-volt lines and four 69,000-volt lines coming into the switching station. Power can be taken from any direction on the lines.

GRAHAM PLANT
The company's main source is the Graham plant. A large block of power is funneled through to Midland and Odessa from the Morgan Creek station, which is also connected to Graham.

Other power sources are from the Permian Basin plant at Monahans, the Leon Plant at Eastland (through connections), and from the Morgan Creek plant. The company could lose two of its 138,000-volt lines and still provide sufficient power to its local customers.

The TESCO switching station is just east of Big Spring. There are three sub-stations on the 41 acres. One steps 138,000 volts down to 69,000 volts, and lines from that go to Lamesa, the Chalk Oil Field, Stanton, Coahoma and small town east. Another steps the power down to 12,500 volts to serve Big Spring. There are four 12,500-volt circuits from the switching station covering all of Big Spring except Webb Air Force Base and the West Side. Two circuits from a sub-station on West Fourth and Old US 80 serve the last two areas.

TO MIDLAND
The 138,000 volts coming into Big Spring, and shunted to Midland-Odessa, are stepped down to 69,000 volts for transmission purposes. If a higher voltage is needed there, it is again run through transformers and stepped up.

If a Big Spring circuit is broken the company can shut power from weather circuit through the broken one, from the other end. This forms a loop which brings power to disrupted areas in a matter of minutes, or at least a short time.

LARGEST USER
The largest power user in the Big Spring area is Cosden Refinery where 138,000 volts are furnished. The refinery has its own sub-station to transform power to the voltage needed.

The Veterans Administration Hospital gets a full 12,500 volts and has transformers to provide proper voltage in its facilities.

One cotton gin takes 2,300 volts for its operation. Transformers reduce that for certain purposes, like lighting and small equipment.

A T&P railroad spur runs into the switching station area to handle heavy equipment. Some of the transformers weigh several tons and are too heavy to move over the rough terrain on the roads available.

POWER
The next time you turn on your light switch, remember that behind that light is an abundance of power to keep it burning, even though the source from one or more directions fails.

The company could lose one of its 138,000 volt lines and still have power left to serve all its feeder lines.

The power line from the Graham plant runs through China Grove, where it is divided. One line comes straight to Morgan Creek, and then into Big Spring. Two other lines are shunted from Morgan Creek to the south of Big Spring, through the oil fields, and into the Permian Basin area. They can be shunted back from the west if needed. The line from Monahans goes through Midland-Odessa and into Big Spring.

Day And Night, T&P Cars Busy Moving Products

Day and night, in fair weather or foul, there is a Texas and Pacific freight train thundering somewhere along the road's 1,800-mile main line stretching from New Orleans through Big Spring, to its western terminus in El Paso, hauling raw materials to factories and finished products of the nation's markets to the consumer.

DEPENDABLE
Texas and Pacific Railway has provided safe and dependable freight transportation for nearly a century. T&P is proud of its service, and the patronage it has enjoyed through the years. It is proud of the close relationship which exists between the railway and communities along the line.

T&P keeps pace with progress in the field of transportation. New and specially designed freight-carrying equipment has replaced outmoded cars. The old flatcar, simple in its design, is now equipped with special bulkheads for faster and easier loading of wallboard, fibre pipe and similar bulk commodities.

The flatcar is now the workhorse of the railroad's piggyback service. With the addition of side rails and end braces, the cars are readily adapted to hauling loaded highway trailers, gondola and hopper cars, specially equipped with covers, provide better protection for shipments of coiled steel and tinplate, as well as such items as polystyrene plastic, salt and feeds.

TOFC OPERATION
Through the railway's TOFC operations, loaded trailers are transported on railway flatcars. Combining the efficiency of long hauls by rail with short hauls by truck, T&P began its piggyback operations seven years ago with the inauguration of its "Truck-Rail" service. Since that time, this unique and highly efficient method of freight transportation has expanded considerably, pointing up its popularity.

In addition to normal freight transportation service, T&P has accelerated schedules for rapid movement of carload and piggyback shipments to the West Coast. Schedules like these mean many things to freight shippers and receivers, but most of all they mean a saving in time and money.

MACHINES
As an aid to its customers, T&P uses the latest techniques of electronic machines to determine the location of every trip of freight routed over the lines. This accurate, up-to-the-minute information, is a deciding factor in helping the manufacturer know when a shipment will arrive so he can properly schedule production. Instant car-reporting is just another reason why more and more freight men are routing their shipments over T&P.

Its fleet of powerful diesel-electric locomotives, and a varied assortment of specially designed freight cars, coupled with coordinated rail-truck service, let the Texas and Pacific Railway provide fast, efficient, safe and dependable freight transportation for the nation's industries.

TOFC Freight Service By T&P

Texas and Pacific Railway's TOFC (trailer-on-flatcar) freight service combines the efficiency of short hauls by truck with long hauls by rail. The service is safe, economical and dependable, providing store-door delivery for Southwestern industries.

Cleopatra Too Had A Roach Problem
Poor Cleopatra couldn't do a thing about roaches, and all the wealth of the Egyptian empire could not keep them out of the Ptolemy kitchens.
Modern housewives, moreover, have some things not known to Cleopatra, because of chemical research. They agree that the most effective and cleanest way of controlling roaches and ants is with Johnston's No-Roach.

Alarm Too Quick For Cameramen

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The Air Force called a B52 bomber alert for visiting newsmen Monday—and did it so well that some were caught with their cameras down. But officers obligingly restaged the first part of the exercise—a mass mad-rush exodus of bomber crewmen from their underground quarters at this Strategic Air Command base.

Airmen Begin Space Test

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Four young airmen will step into a 9-by-25-foot steel cabin Monday to star a make-believe space flight that is due to last more than a month.

Scientists say the test, at a simulated altitude of 27,500 feet, will duplicate conditions expected on Gemini and Apollo space voyagers.

Six airmen have volunteered. Four will be selected just before the start. The other two will stay outside the cabin so doctors can compare their physical reactions to those of the men inside.

The six candidates, all single, are from the Air Force Training Center at Lackland Air Force Base here.

They are Jerry Huber, 18, of Hope, Mich.; Philip Jameson, 17, of Clearwater, Fla.; Gary Morrill, 18, of Eaton Rapids, Mich.; Thomas Rusieck, 18, of Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Ronald T. Askey, 19, of Westernville, N.Y.; and George Vandall, 21, of Milford, Mass.

The four selected will spend 30 days breathing pure oxygen. It is to be the longest known exposure to pure oxygen at the reduced air pressure of extreme altitude.

Capt. James Herliocher, of Wollrich, Pa., in charge of the experiment, said:

"We are studying the effects of the subjects to prolonged living in this particular space cabin atmosphere. We are not isolating the men and they have no set work routine as was the case in some of our previous cabin tests."

The newsmen were on the base for their first inspection of the 15th Air Force's new combat operations center—a computer-packed control building capable of taking over direction of the nation's air might if SAC's center at Omaha, Neb., should be knocked out in war.

The 15th's commander, Lt. Gen. Archie J. Old Jr., told newsmen in a briefing that more than 50 per cent of the 15th's bombers here and at other bases could be put in the air in eight to 10 minutes.

The practice alert his men staged later in the day—without warning to bomber crewmen—made the general out a piker. Eight of the nine huge jet B52s lined up outside the crewmen's standby quarters were ready to roll in four minutes.

A horn sounded at 2:30 p.m. just as the visitors were emerging from a tour of the so-called "alert facility," a fenced-off building where crewmen await an emergency they hope will never come.

Some of the visitors had to move fast to avoid being trampled in the rush of uniformed youngsters who rushed up a ramp to the concrete apron outside.

In less than one minute the first B52's powerful eight-jet engines were roaring.

By 2:34 p.m. the engines shut down and the crewmen, proud and expecting praise, came back to their quarters.

Tactfully, their superiors explained that they had responded to the alert so fast that many of the cameramen missed the first part of the scramble, and would they please do it again? They did—for the cameramen.

Tom Connally's Body Flown Back To Texas For Funeral

WASHINGTON (AP) — The body of former Sen. Tom Connally—often described as "the senator who looks most like a piker"—was to be flown back to his home state of Texas today.

Connally, retired since Jan. 3, 1953, after serving 34 years in Congress—10 in the House and 24 in the Senate, died Monday at the age of 86.

The former chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a razor-tongued statesman who fought many battles during his Senate years, died of pneumonia. He had been ailing for years.

AT BEDSIDE

Since his retirement, Connally and his wife had lived quietly in their brick home here. His wife was at the bedside when he died.

In 1942 Connally married the widow of his late colleague, Sen. Morris Sheppard of Texas.

Besides his son and widow, he leaves a sister, Mrs. Sparks Mc-

Kay of Tyler. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the First Methodist Church at Marlin, in Central Texas, where he was a member. Burial will be in nearby Calvary Cemetery.

AT FUNERAL

The Rev. Asbury Lenox, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Marlin, will officiate at the funeral services.

President Kennedy said on learning of Connally's death that he "played an influential part in guiding the legislation that did so much in the difficult days following World War II to redress the balances on the side of freedom—the Truman Doctrine, NATO, the Marshall Plan and Point Four."

Vice President Lyndon Johnson, once Connally's junior colleague in the Senate from Texas, called him "one of the authentic giants of the century" and "a man who was not only a part of history but who helped to shape it."

Finally the Texan could stand it no longer. "Hell!" he shouted. "Haven't we done anything?"

At one bed he talked to a tall, skinny and smiling Negro soldier who had lost an arm in the Pacific. After several minutes, Connally said:

"Well, boy, I guess we're cousins under the skin, 'cause I got a lot of relatives with your same name from the same part of the country."

A few days later the Negro soldier told a reporter: "I guess he's just about the greatest man, next to Mr. Roosevelt, who ever lived."

But on a tour of McCloskey General Hospital at Temple during World War II, Connally treated Negro and white veterans alike as he made his way through the wards of the Army's and "a man who was not only a biggest a m p u t e e center. He shook hands with each patient, asked what theater of the war he was from, where his home was and about his parents or wife and children. President Roosevelt and his chiefs of staff recited all the things the Japanese had done. It went on and on.

CIVIL RIGHTS

"Often when asked about his stand on civil rights questions, the shaggy-haired senator would throw back his head and say: 'I've never had much truck with the Negro.'"

Redistricting Hearing Set For Nov. 8

HOUSTON (AP) — A pre-trial hearing in a suit asking that current state legislative districting laws be held unconstitutional is scheduled Nov. 8.

The five Democrats who filed the suit object to parts of the Texas Constitution and statutes which limit a county to no more than one senator and restrict a county with more than 700,000 persons to only one more representative per 100,000 population.

Defendants include Gov. John Connally and other state officials.

The plaintiffs are Bill Kilgarrin, Harris County Democratic chairman; State Rep. Bob Eckhardt of Houston; State Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth; State Sen. Franklin Spears of San Antonio and State Rep. Jake Johnson, also of San Antonio.

Their petition asks the court to reapportion legislative districts on the basis of population unless the legislature acts to eliminate what they describe as the current "discrimination."

The hearing will be held by the three-judge federal court which on Oct. 19 ruled Texas congressional districting laws unconstitutional. The judges, all from Houston, are Joe Ingram, John R. Brown and James Noel.

DEAR ABBY

All Sons Not 'Lost'

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the debate on whether boys or girls were preferable: You never spoke truer words, Abby, when you said, "Wait for your sunset years and see who gives you more attention." I am the mother of married sons and daughters. My daughters call me every day and always find time to drop by to see Dad and me. Our sons have grown apart from us. It makes no difference how loving a son is, once he is married (except in rare cases) you might as well kiss him goodbye. Nine times out of ten his wife takes him over to her side of the family.

ONE WHO KNOWS
DEAR ONE: Are the parents of your daughter's husbands complaining about the attention you get? Things even out. Besides, don't generalize. All married sons are not "lost." And more often than not, Mom and Dad retain the devotion they've earned.

DEAR ABBY: No problems, but I want to tell you how much my husband and I enjoy your column. By the way, we raise basset hounds and one of the best females we ever owned was named Abigail. She has helped many a champion.

ANNETTE
DEAR ANNETTE: I've whelped a couple myself. But could your dog write?

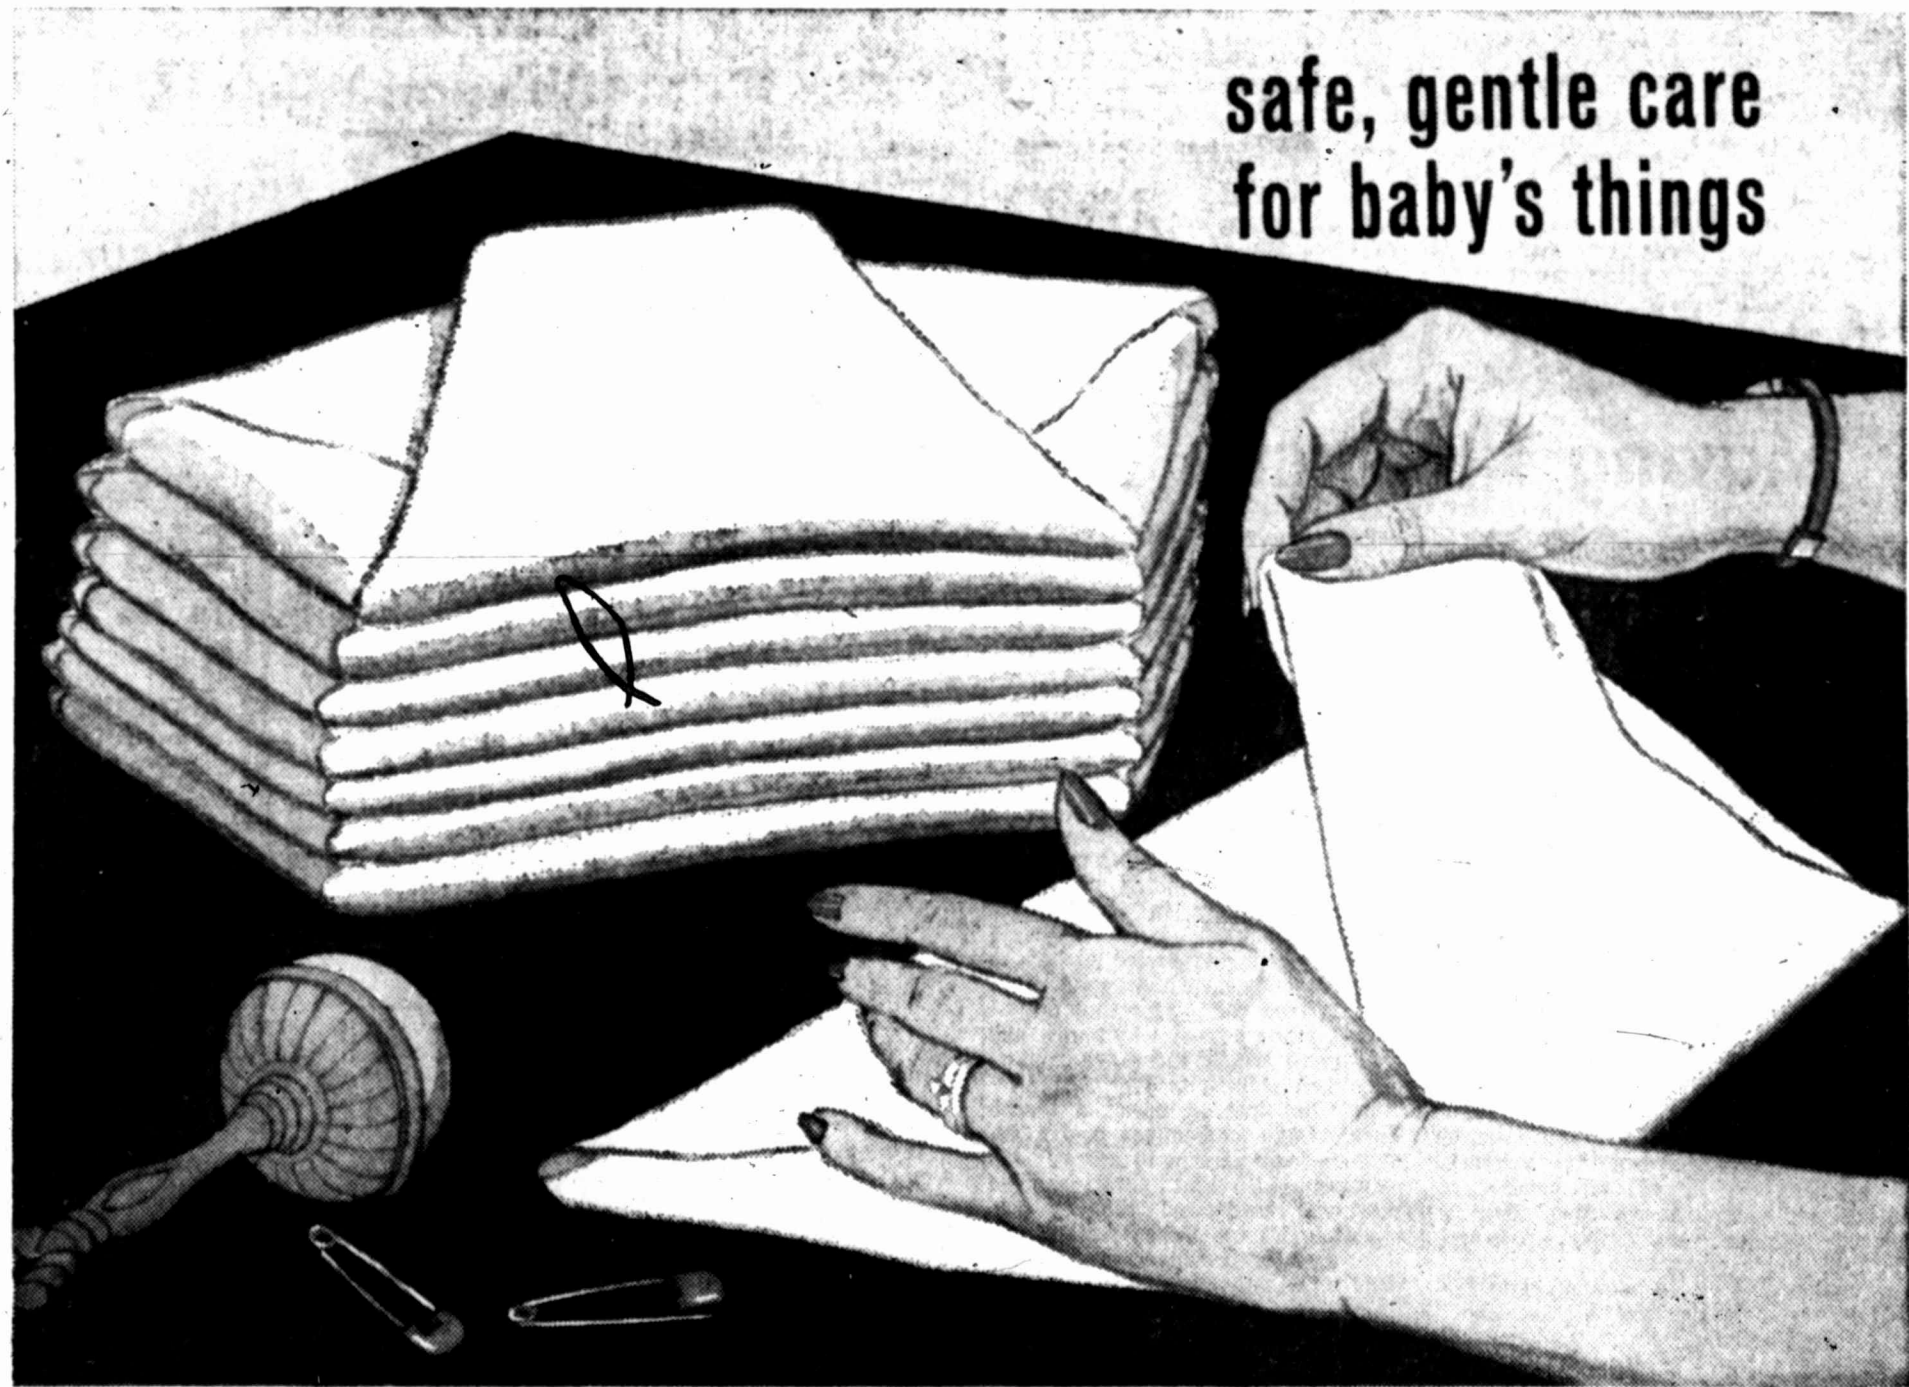

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you published a letter from a truck driver's wife. It seems her husband came home from a run with a long scratch on his thigh. He told his wife it must have been caused by a sharp feather in the motel mattress. Wife was suspicious. And YOU, Dear Abby, didn't help matters much when you replied, "A likely story! They don't put feathers in mattresses anymore. It was probably the whole chick." Well, I have news for you. This morning I awakened with a handsome scratch on my backside. I know they don't put feathers in mattresses anymore, and since there were no chicks around, I investigated. I found they do put steel springs in mattresses these days, and one sharp coil had come loose and worked its way through to me!

Child Killed When Auto Turns Over Near Lamesa

LAMESA (SC) — Jose Ramon Martinez, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Asencion Martinez of Lyford, was killed Monday when the car his father was driving overturned 2 1/2 miles northwest of here on Texas 83.

The youth was dead on arrival at Medical Arts Hospital in Lamesa shortly after the 1:55 p.m. accident. The driver escaped unhurt.

State Highway Patrolman Ralph D. Ward said Martinez reported that he lost control of the car in a slight curve of the road. The car skidded off onto the north shoulder and went 340 feet before Martinez whipped it to the left.

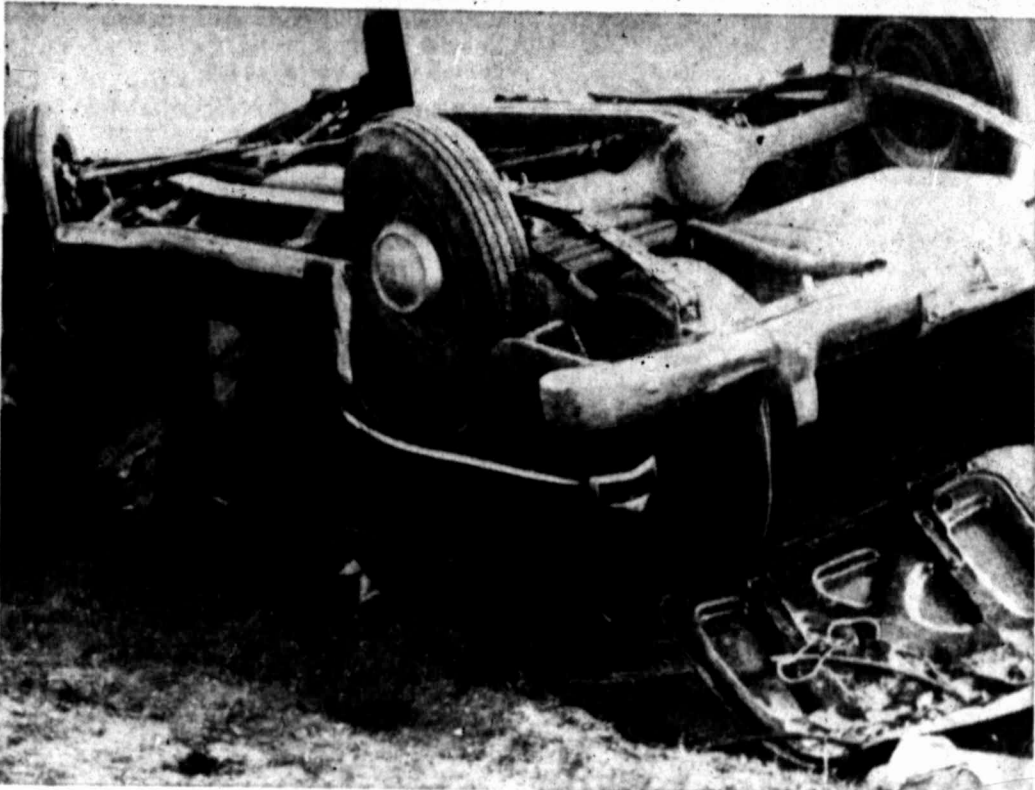

The auto careened across the highway and overturned 1 1/2 times, coming to rest on its top against a three-strand barbed wire fence.

The youngster was pinned under the car. A winch truck passed by the scene shortly after the accident was used to raise the car so passersby could remove the tot's body.

The 1962 model sedan was demolished.

Ward said the family has been living near Loop harvesting cotton.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Higginbotham Funeral Home here.

Negroes Riot In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Hundreds of Negroes surged through a North Philadelphia neighborhood Monday night protesting the slaying of a Negro by a policeman. Many of them broke windows, looted stores or menaced white drivers, authorities said.

Policemen estimated about 500 Negroes rioted through the streets before they were dispersed by about 60 policemen. Shattered glass littered the streets until garbage trucks and street cleaners moved in this morning.

Twenty-three persons, 19 of them minors, were arrested on charges of malicious mischief, disorderly conduct or breach of the peace.

Frank Johnson, 38, a policeman, was struck on the head by a milk bottle while trying to break up one mob. He fell to the ground unconscious and was taken to a hospital.

Other policemen were pelted with stones or bottles but none required treatment.

The neighborhood has been tense since Saturday's slaying of Willie Philayaw Jr., 24, a Negro. Police said he was shot by patrolman John Tourigian after lunging with a knife at the officer. The policeman who is writing Philayaw for shoplifting.

A Devotional For The Day

(Paul) lived there two whole years at his own expense . . . preaching the kingdom of God and teaching about the Lord Jesus Christ quite openly and unhindered. (Acts 28:30-31. RSV.)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, help us to see our little selves and plans as only a part of that great plan which is in Thy hands. When we cannot understand, strengthen our faith to know that Thou doest all things well. Forgive us our sins. We pray in Christ's name. Amen.

Passing Of A Man And An Era

The passing of Sen. Tom Connally symbolizes the passing of an era. He appeared every inch the conception of a senator, flowing silver hair, black hat. Even the cut of his suits, the contour of his frame, the sonorous eloquence of his speech, marked him as a senator indeed.

Foreign Relations Committee and was privy to historic developments at one of the most critical times of all. Zealous for and jealous of the Senate's prerogatives, he authored the famous Connally amendment restricting executive latitude in treaty making. Yet, he was one of the chief architects of the United Nations.

He came to be chairman of the

Delayed Action

The steady mechanization of agriculture, particularly in cotton, is having its effect on modes of business as well as on the producers.

Just a few years ago, this time of the year would find downtown streets jammed on a Saturday afternoon as braceros knocked off for a little looking around if we were lucky enough to get a brisk norther, or a cool, wet spell, spending stepped up as these workers from warmer climes scrambled to buy jackets and blankets. Gradually, the tempo of business activity increased until it peaked out about Christmas.

Now, strippers and pickers are handling the bulk of the harvest. Most of those doing the remaining hand harvest are domestics and their spending habits are not as seasonal as the imported laborers. This, coupled with the delay of mechanical harvest until frost kills off the leaves and cracks most of the remaining bolls, means that the harvest reaction on business is much slower than in former years.

Accustomed as we are to things getting to hum about the middle of October, this can be a somewhat frustrating if not disheartening experience. However, this calls for patience as much as anything. Last year we got our first real taste of mechanized harvest, and it looked like a mediocre autumn for business. Then, when the strippers really got to work and the cotton began to roll, we headed into the biggest year-end business on record. There are pros and cons, of course, connected with this trend, but it is generally agreed that more of the mechanized harvest money stays home to be spent for more costly consumer goods. Anyhow, the trend isn't going to be reversed or changed. We may as well adjust our habits to it.

Marquis Childs Republican In Mississippi

McCOMB, Miss.—There is something new under the political sun—a Republican candidate for Governor running in the fall election in Mississippi with every outward determination to win.

Rubel Phillips and the candidate for Lieutenant Governor, State Senator Stanford Morse, are carrying their campaign to the farthest boondocks. Nothing like it has been seen since Reconstruction days and then Republican governors were imposed under the rule of Yankee bayonets and not lawfully elected.

THE CLIQUE that has dominated Mississippi for so long under a one-party system doesn't like it at all. As Phillips tells every audience, if he had not become a Republican and issued the challenge it would have all been over on August 27. That was the date of the Democratic primary, one of the bitterest in Mississippi's history, with Lieutenant Governor Paul B. Johnson Jr. winning over former Governor J. P. Coleman by a landslide majority.

PHILLIPS, an attractive-appearing corporation lawyer, links himself with Sen. Barry Goldwater. As at his evening meeting here in the football stadium before a crowd of perhaps 600, including many teen-agers, the loudest applause comes when he says Goldwater will be the Republican nominee and pledges himself to vote and work for him. It was on the occasion of Goldwater's fund-raising dinner in Mississippi a year ago that Phillips saw the light. And on a visit to Washington in March he was persuaded to get into the race.

His contention is that the plan of the Mississippi Democrats to put up a slate of unpledged electors will simply be throwing away the state's electoral votes. In the unlikely event that the Presidential election a year from now is so close as to be thrown into the House of Representatives, President Kennedy would win in a walk since 65 per cent of the Democratic state delegations in the House are pro-Kennedy.

THIS MAY BE a subtlety over the heads of his listeners but they are left in no doubt that he is against the Kennedys and all their works. Warming up the crowd before the candidate arrives are singing stars of the Grand Ole Opry who play from a lighted stage that lets down from the van in which they travel. Their most rousing song is "Knock Out the Kennedys."

The Phillips-Morse billboards generously sprinkled along the highways carry the caption in big letters "K O the Kennedys." The most devastating Phillips charge is that Johnson and Gov. Ross Barnett made a deal with Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy at the time James Meredith was admitted to the University of Mississippi. So the picture Johnson used in his primary campaign, showing him defying the United States marshals, was in Phillips words, "just rooster fighting."

PERHAPS the blow that rocked Phillips hardest is the charge in full-page advertisements that he was a "moderate." The ad carries quotations of earlier years counseling moderation on race questions and accusing him of voting for Adlai Stevenson in 1952 and '56. Yes, Phillips says, making a clean breast of it. I did vote for Adlai Stevenson. What is worse in 1948 I voted for Harry Truman. And so, he adds, did Paul Johnson, but he will not have the courage to tell you.

Billy Graham

One of my instructors at the university said that science is now replacing religion, and told us to forget about our "outdated religion."

It is your instructor who is "outdated." In all generations there have been those who thought science would eliminate religion. As a matter of fact science is bringing to light truths which God established from the very beginning. You need have no fear of proven scientific facts discrediting your faith in God and in His Son. It is only where men speculate and let their speculation go at variance with divine truth that they get in trouble.

Remember, too, that the Gospel of Jesus Christ is needed today as it has always been needed because it has changed many of the conditions under which men live but it has not changed the human heart. We still need the cleansing and redeeming power of the Christ of Calvary. Man needs the good things science makes possible for living but all of these things will eventually pass away. Only through Christ are we prepared to live now, and only through Him can we be prepared for the life which is to come. Let me suggest that you show your instructors, and your fellow students, that your faith is fixed in the One who never changes. Do not parade your religion or boast about it but let everyone know your faith is fixed and real.

'JUST KEEP TAKING THE ASPIRIN'

James Marlow Congress Unmoved By Conflict Of Interest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five years ago Sen. Richard L. Neuberger, Oregon Democrat, complained that nobody polices the politician, that "Congress can investigate the whole area of government but nobody polices Congress."

For example: The head of a government department must rid himself of his stock before the Senate, to prevent conflict of interest, lets him take office. This is to prevent his profiting from some company he may do business with.

can have all kinds of outside interests, and even fight for a law to help those interests, but he doesn't have to rid himself of anything or reveal anything about his total income.

Neuberger said: "I fear it has a corroding effect on government generally when a member of the President's Cabinet can be ordered to jettison his corporate portfolios by senators who themselves may be dabbling in oil, cotton futures, television, hotel chains or uranium."

If federal commissioners are to be pilloried for accepting airplane tickets to Palm Beach, how can senators and representatives continue profitable associations with law firms retained by banks, railroads, labor unions and utility companies?

IN SHORT Neuberger was calling on Congress, which has passed laws to prevent conflict of interest on the part of federal officials and other government employees, to pass a conflict-of-interest law on itself.

Congress ignored him with great calmness, as it has ignored similar proposals by other members of both houses for years. Recently two former members of Congress were convicted of influence peddling while they were in Congress.

Neuberger died in 1960. His wife, now Sen. Maurice Neuberger, also an Oregon Democrat, was elected to succeed him that same year. Last week she picked up where her husband left off.

SHE AND Sen. Clifford P. Case, New Jersey Republican, asked consideration of a bill they had introduced requiring top government officers, members of Congress and their staff to report their yearly incomes, including gifts of substance and assets and liabilities and their financial transactions to the comptroller general, with these reports available to press and public.

Case has made this kind of proposal repeatedly, and like the late Neuberger, has been ignored.

HE AND the present Sen. Neuberger made their pitch in a letter to Sen. B. Everett Jordan, North Carolina Democrat who is chairman of the Senate Rules Committee which today begins an investigation of a former Senate employee, Robert G. Baker.

Baker, who was paid about $20,000 a year, resigned this month as secretary of the Senate Democrats after newspaper disclosure that he seemed to have an extraordinary number of outside financial interests.

Hal Boyle Julie Andrews In Ecstasy

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the rarest things in show business are a modest operatic tenor—and a happy actress.

But English actress Julie Andrews right now is dwelling on a peak of ecstasy.

"I'm happier than I have ever been in my life—and I've had a very happy life," she proclaimed, attacking a luncheon plate of eggs Benedict.

The sources of her joy are threefold—marriage, motherhood and career. All are flourishing.

Julie came here to complete a film. With her came her husband and childhood sweetheart, producer Tony Walton, and their chubby-cheeked daughter, Emma Kate, who is in the learning to walk and spilling food on the floor stage.

Motherhood has brought to maturity the bloom of beauty which shone in Julie's performance as the Cockney lass in "My Fair Lady," which she sang over 1,300 times here and in London.

She is reconciled now to the fact that Audrey Hepburn was picked to play the film role.

Her own career is full of so many pending projects she has little time to mull over disappointments. She plans more films, a London musical, and perhaps more television shows.

Julie, tall, blonde and stately of bearing, has a warm, friendly, almost madcap quality when she is among friends. She likes to recall the merry times she had when she first came to Broadway.

"We got paid on Fridays," she said, "so on Thursday my roommate and I usually had nothing to eat except eggs we bought at a delicatessen and cooked in our room."

As she spoke, she spilled on the table some sugar she was putting into her tea. Unconsciously, she picked up a few grains—as if they were salt—and tossed them over her left shoulder.

"I might as well. It can't hurt," she said.

"No, I'm not really superstitious. But I'm super, super careful I always take the joint very well before I take a step in any situation."

Julie said that in her the important things in life are "love, health, and a bloody good sense of humor."

To Your Good Health Electrolysis Removes Hair Permanently

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: After much expense and many treatments I find that hair removed by electrolysis seems to be growing back. I would hate to have to do this again. Previously I had hair removed by the hot wax method in a beauty shop and found it satisfactory. Is the latter method harmful to the skin? —MRS. M.B.

The wax method is not particularly irritating such as chemical depilatories may be. The hairs are pulled out, but as you know, they will grow in again. Electrolysis is a tedious process, but it is the only method I know which destroys hair permanently. Any apparent regrowth actually is of neighboring hairs which you may not have noticed.

Here's an explanation of the principal methods:

1—Shaving, of course, just cuts the hair off at the surface. It does not make the growth heavier or coarser, despite the fond hopes of adolescent boys, or the fears of girls and their mothers.

2—Abrasion used to be popular and effective to the same degree as shaving. Pumice stone rubbed across the skin grinds off the hair.

3—Depilatories are chemicals in cream or other form which dissolve the hair.

4—Wax removal pulls out the hair. The follicles remain, however, and new hair will grow. This is the equivalent of plucking.

Admittedly, some ulcers won't yield to anything short of surgical removal, but most can be cured. More than medicine is required, though. The patient has to do his part—as outlined in detail in the booklet. Tension and emotions play a great part in stubborn cases. These factors need attention too and are often overlooked.

Count your calories the easy way! To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has had duodenal ulcers and has been taking medicine for a year. Is there any cure for them? Please send me your booklet on ulcers. I enclose the addressed envelope and 20 cents in coin.—MRS. M.G.

Around The Rim The Kid Learns About The Truth

I was just 18, and it was my first job on a daily newspaper. My managing editor was a grouchy, bull-necked veteran of that journalistic swashbuckler, The Denver Post of the days of Tammen and Bonfils.

The town had an organization of ex-service men of tremendous power, civic and political. It was only a few years after the First World War and the memories of French villages was very green. This group had proposed to build a replica of a French village on top of a nearby mountain.

THE ORGANIZATION waged a city wide campaign for funds and raised a sizeable sum—several thousand dollars, as I remember it.

Somehow the actual building of the village bogged down. The money was in the bank gathering dust and perhaps a little interest. The group decided that there was no sense in building the proposed French village replica. The money, members voted, would be used for something else.

I wrote a news story about the matter.

THE NEXT DAY a delegation of about 20 of the irate members of the organization showed up at the office and got me in a corner. These citizens were mad as wet hens and were highly in favor of hanging me to a nearby lamppost. Or so it seemed to me from the tone of their voices and the expressions on their faces.

I was fighting them off as best I could when the managing editor barged into the scene.

"What's the matter?" he demanded. The spokesman for the group in-signantly told him what I had done—how I had knifed the great and noble organization he represented in the back.

THE BOSS got a copy of the paper. He read the story through and then read it again.

"Anything in this story that's not a true statement of the facts?" he asked the members. No, they replied, it was true enough, all right, but they didn't want any publicity on the action. It made them look like they had gone back on their word.

"Well," said the boss, "haven't you?"

No, said the delegates, they just felt it would be better if they changed the plans and didn't build the village.

"THEN THERE'S nothing wrong with this story except you did not want the fact you have changed your plans in paper?" asked the managing editor.

Well—yes, agreed the delegation. "In that case, good-afternoon, gentlemen," said my boss, and he turned his back on the delegation and went back to his desk. They struggled out of the office.

The organization met the next night to rescind its first action.

The boss walked over to my desk.

"HEY, KID," he growled. "Get up to that meeting and cover it."

The meeting was on the second floor of an office building. I saw to it I didn't sit too close to an open window. Even though they had refreshments that night, I didn't enjoy them at all.

Women Bolster Armed Services

WASHINGTON — There is in the United States a small group of women entitled to call themselves DACOWITS.

That name invariably and understandably produces in the listener a look of astonishment. He usually asks, "What's that, again?" and leaps to the conclusion that the woman has identified herself as (1) a halfwit, (2) a survivor of the dread Nazi extermination camp or (3) a member of some obscure native Indian tribe.

WELL, WE ARE none of these DACOWITS. It indicates that we are civilian members of the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services. We are each appointed for a three-year term by the Secretary of Defense.

The 50 members of DACOWITS, created 12 years ago at the suggestion of the late Gen. George Catlett Marshall, meet here semi-annually on invitation of the Department of Defense to consider the utilization of women in the armed services, to discuss their problems and, when we return home, help interpret to the public the role of and need for such women.

AS OF NOW, there are approximately 31,000 women in the armed services, including about 9,000 nurses and medical specialists. Of this number almost two-thirds are serving in U. S. military installations overseas. They serve at American bases in the Orient, in Europe and in Africa.

Expert secretaries, trilingual telephone operators and gifted mechanics and drivers (assigned to the motor pool) largely comprised the first group of 200 WACS sent overseas to Allied headquarters in Algiers in January, 1943, at the request of General Eisenhower.

TWENTY YEARS later, highly competent women in the four services are engaged in psychological warfare programs, in intelligence work, in logistics, in air traffic control and in map-making, to name only a few of the areas in which they operate.

Women chemists in Uncle Sam's uniform work on the testing and development of missile fuels; with Admiral Hyman Rickover at the Atomic Energy Commission, and in the radiological hazards branch of the Special Weapons Center at Albuquerque, N.M.

THERE ARE WAVES on the staff of the Naval guided missile schools in Virginia and California. WACS work with the "Missile Master" units as radar console operators and plotters. One of the few audiologists in the world is a WAF who rides jets to measure their noise in reference to eardrum pressures. And women Marines are experts on automation, data processing and all that really advanced jazz.

Women in uniform run service hotels, manage PX's, serve as judge advocates and hold down responsible jobs in NATO. And then there are the invaluable and indispensable Nursing Corps of the Army, Navy and the Air Force, and the medical specialist corps, to boot.

ALL IN ALL, one cannot help but feel, with a great sense of pride in these women in uniform, that they do, in all truth, comprise a hand-picked corps of specialists, in whom Uncle Sam and the rest of his family can take immense pride.

J. A. Livingston Little Man Bucks The Government

Proportionate to its total volume, the ABC Manufacturing Co., of Philadelphia, is a big supplier of the Federal Government.

Yet last March when the General Services Administration rejected its low bid on a contract, senators, representatives, and influential corporation lawyers didn't rush in with tumultuous whys. Nor were generals, admirals, and Air, Army, Navy, and Defense secretaries called by a Congressional Committee to testify.

There was no tumult. ABC is small business.

YET, IT WAS big business to ABC when a Chicago firm, with a $72,000 bid, won the contract which ABC offered to complete for $63,000. The blow was equal to if not greater than Boeing's loss of the $7,000,000 TFX fighter-plane contract.

ABC makes hammers, dolly blocks (used to smooth dents out of automobile bodies) and other hand tools. It functions in a "little shop" of 4,000 to 5,000 square feet. In good years, sales run to $150,000, about half government.

WHEN ABC'S $63,000 hammer bid was turned down last March, 80 per cent of the employees were "let go"—eight in number. Two remain, along with the co-owners, Nathan Leskin, a stocky five-foot-eight bundle of indignation, and Myer Karlin, who was an all-city high school quarterback but never went to college. Karlin, 48, is the shop man. Leskin, 54, an accountant, is the office man.

ABC lost the contract after a government inspector infirmed some of its sample hammers in water for 24 hours and, lo, rust appeared on the ballpeen heads.

LESKIN PROTESTED. Such a test was not set forth in the original bid specifications. Had contractors been forewarned of this test, a little paint baked on the hammerheads would have taken care of the rust.

Leskin's initial protest was rejected.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Flattened Seersucker Easily Rejuvenated

Dear Heloise: I ironed my husband's seersucker suit with a hot iron. It completely "flattened" the material. What can I do now?—Budgeteer

Dear Budgeteer: You failed to say if your seersucker is synthetic or what. Once seersucker has been mashed flat, the best way I have found to remedy the situation is to wring a bath towel out in hot water. Lay it on your ironing board. Cover it with another piece of cotton cloth. (A clean dish towel will do.)

Lay the crushed seersucker on top of this and using a thin pressing cloth... gently touch your mashed material with a warm iron.

The steam should bring back all the crinkles in the material (providing your seersucker wasn't synthetic and you melted it in the first place). Lots of crinkled crepe can be rejuvenated in this same manner.

I am a member of the National Institute of Dry Cleaning, and would like to pass along this hint:

I have had so many complaints when we did not get a spot out of a housewife's dress or their husband's suit. Here is a little hint that has proven invaluable.

A piece of blackboard chalk is a wonderful idea for a woman to keep in the kitchen drawer. When there is an unusual certain spot... take the piece of chalk and draw an "X" over the spot which should have special handling, or place a safety pin or piece of paper attached with a straight pin — at least the cleaners will know that this identified spot deserves special handling.

I, along with all the other dry cleaners in the nation, would appreciate this hint being printed in your column so that we can service "complaints-with-a-smile!" — Dry Cleaners

Dear Heloise: I remove the printing from my rice, flour and other cotton bags by soaking them in kerosene for several hours.

The bags may be either soaked in kerosene or just dashed with a bit of it, rolled into a ball and left for two or three hours.

I then wash them thoroughly by hand in detergent suds and hot water.

Later, I throw them in my washing machine and run them through the hot water cycle to which I have added a dash of ammonia.

I never hang the bags on the clothesline. I lay them out flat on the grass and let the sun dry them. Sometimes I take the garden hose and sprinkle them. Then I let them dry again.

I wash the bags again in suds to which a little bit of ammonia has been added and lay them back on the grass. All the print comes off my cotton bags this way.—Sophia

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

This touch of cool weather is a welcome thing in our part of the country. I don't remember when it was so long in coming, but it did seem strange to be sitting in an air-conditioned house as late as the middle of October.

Our green patch is flourishing like a fall green patch should, and we feel that it, at least, knew the time of year even though it had some mighty warm days to come through.

I hesitate to mention this but in case the followers of the progress of our mixed-up peach tree are interested, our peaches haven't ripened yet. They are a nice peachy color but are as hard and green as gourds inside. We don't think they will make preserves this year.

Back from Austin, where they spent the weekend and attended the Texas-Rice game, are MR. and MRS. TOM GUIN, MRS. HENRY JONES and MRS. ROY WORLEY. The Guins and Mrs. Jones visited the TOM HENRY GUINS and Mrs. Worley spent her time with her son, Mike, a Texas University student.

Students home for the weekend from colleges included JANE HARRINGTON and DON GREGORY from NTSU and KAY CROWNOVER and JAKE GLICKMAN who attend Texas Tech.

Friends of DR. P. D. O'BRIEN, former First Baptist pastor here, will be interested to know that he is scheduled for a revival in Odessa next week. A call from the Rev. Paul Miller, pastor of Trinity Baptist, 1228 S. Jackson in Odessa, invited local people over for the services. The meeting will begin on Sunday, Nov. 3, at 11 a.m. and continue through Nov. 10. Sunday evening services will be at 7 and week days the hour is 8. Morning services will begin at 9:30.

PAMELA BRITTON

Strive To Keep Body Both Thin And Firm

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—When I first met Pamela Britton she was discouraged because she had gained back in two days weight that had taken her two weeks to take off.

"It was quite a struggle," she told me the other day on the My Favorite Martian set at CBS. "I decided the only logical thing was to stop eating the foods that get me in trouble."

"It is not easy to change your taste in food, but if you want to you can learn to like new things. My weight has not changed in seven years." Pamela stood up in her beige sheath to show what a nice figure she now had.

"I have worked for this, but I don't miss my old favorites any more. I seem to get along very well on salads instead of sandwiches—it's all that bread that makes the padding. And I've given up those sweet rolls for breakfast, for a bran muffin.

"When I want a snack, I make a drink of half tomato juice and half buttermilk. It's really quite complete, because you have your protein, minerals and vitamins all there."

Pamela's latest discipline is making herself exercise every morning. "Being thin isn't enough. Your body has to be firm, too. I was so stiff when I started, I only worked four minutes a day, but now I keep it at 12. If you get too ambitious," she said, showing her dimples as she smiled, "you know what will happen—the whole project never gets off the ground because you never find enough time."

If you feel the need of exercising and would like Pamela's "10 Exercises for Beginners," send for Leaflet M-111. For a copy, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Lydia Lane, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P. O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.

Six Lights On Agenda

A police department request to install traffic signals at six intersections was on the agenda of the city traffic commission at a regular meeting set for 3:30 p.m. today.

Intersections involved are located at: State and Ridgeroad, Fifteenth and Main, Fifteenth and Johnson, Fifteenth and Owens, Eighteenth and Main, and Seventeenth and Pennsylvania.

Other items on the agenda included: consideration of a proposal to make Northwest Fourth a through street, consideration of a traffic signal change at Eighteenth and Goliad, making Goliad the through street, consider installation of a stop sign at Twelfth and Austin, and review of no parking signs on the south side of Sixth, across the street from the Howard County Public Library.

Congressman Asks Inside Story On Mystery Gal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican congressman has asked the administration to reveal the inside story of a German beauty who was whisked out of the country after reportedly boasting of amorous frolics with Washington figures.

Officials Plan To Attend Parley

LAMESA (SC) — At least seven City of Lamesa officials are planning to attend the 51st annual convention of the Texas Municipal League in Houston Nov. 3-5. About 2,500 delegates are expected.

Making tentative plans to attend from Lamesa are Mayor Clyde Branon, Councilmen Jack Mitchell, Guy Weekes and Charles F. King, City Manager C. A. Taylor, City Secretary Leila Holt and City Attorney Ralph Kinsey.

man beauty who was whisked out of the country after reportedly boasting of amorous frolics with Washington figures. "Members of Congress and the public are entitled to know whether there was any element of security violation concerned in this speedy and hitherto unpublicized deportation," Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, told the House Monday.

The West German defense minister identified the statuesque brunette as Mrs. Elly Rometsch, 27. He said she and her sergeant husband had been called home last August on the basis of intelligence reports about her behavior.

HARMLESS
The defense minister said the woman had no contacts with persons from the Soviet bloc and "the whole thing seems harmless."

Sgt. Rometsch had been assigned to the West German military mission in Washington.

Officials here said the kiss-and-tell frau was sent packing after a quiet investigation by the FBI but that she was not deported.

WITH BAKER
Gross linked Mrs. Rometsch's case with the Senate investigation of the business affairs of Robert G. Baker, who resigned as Senate Democratic secretary after allegations he used influence to help his business interests.

Among the unconfirmed stories making the rounds is that Mrs. Rometsch was often at the Quorum Club, of which Baker was a charter member. It has been an elegant gathering place for lobbyists and members of Congress. Quorum employees insisted they never heard of her.

DIVORCED
As for Sgt. Rometsch, the London Daily Mirror quoted him in a dispatch from Bonn as saying he divorced his wife last month—a month after returning from Washington—and adding: "I had no idea of irregular conduct."

"Then on Aug. 14 my superior told me that my wife had been indulging in amorous adventures. Seven days later Elly and I were on our way back to Germany. My wife denied everything."

The Mirror said Mrs. Rometsch is hiding out with her 5-year-old son in a hut on her parents' farm.

Entombed Miners Wait For Drilling

BROISTEDT, Germany (AP) — Three high-spirited men trapped in an iron ore mine since Thursday continued cracking jokes with their rescuers today as a rescue shaft passed the halfway mark.

"Don't send down too much stuff—we'll only have to bring it out of the shaft again," one of the miners quipped over a supply tube that has been bored down to them 259 feet below the surface.

Hot food, warm clothing and the sports sections of newspapers go down to the three via the six-inch tube.

If boring operations continue at the present rate of five feet per hour, the men could be rescued Wednesday. But Rudolf Stein, the mine director, warned that geological variations in the earth could slow the speed of the drilling.

After 46 hours of drilling, the rescue shaft had reached the halfway mark.

A more powerful drilling rig was put into action today on a second rescue shaft.

The three were trapped in an air pocket in a gallery when a nearby dam burst and flooded the mine. Eighty-six miners managed to escape, but 40 others are still unaccounted-for and are believed to have drowned.

OWC Decorates Hospital Ward

Members of the Officers Wives Club Monday completed their third major work project at the Big Spring State Hospital. The dormitory for adolescent boys was the center of their attention, as the women gave it a completely new look with new drapes, bedspreads and throw rugs. About 25 members turned out for the renovation project. Previously the women had done the same thing for the dormitory for girls at the hospital. Their first major project was to install a library in the education building and to fill the shelves with books, educational records and other materials.

Supper Planned

Wesley Methodist Church will hold a family night supper at the church Wednesday, beginning at 6:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend and to bring a friend. Cost will be 25 cents per person.

Cotton Troubles To Be Discussed With Freeman

A delegation of Howard County and area cotton farmers and businessmen will be on hand in Lubbock Nov. 4 for a visit there by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Carlton Chapman, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce agricultural committee, said the number going from Big Spring will be determined at a 10 a.m. Thursday meeting of the committee.

West Texas cotton farmers and businessmen related to cotton production are primarily interested in making known to the secretary economic losses resulting from the lack of insecticides capable of controlling the tobacco budworm and beet army worm.

Petitions asking for help with the problem have been circulated among Howard County and other area cotton farmers, ginners, land owners and others. They will be turned in Thursday morning, photostated and the originals given to Freeman at Lubbock.

"It is important that we make known to government officials the disastrous effects of insects on production in the West Texas cotton belt," Chapman said.

Dryland cotton farmers are spending from $10 to $20 per acre yearly for insecticides currently available. Irrigated cotton is requiring expense more than double that of dryland farming.

"If this situation continues, the economic loss to a large area of our state will be astronomical, and cotton production will not be economical," the chairman said. "We are urging that cotton insect control research be accelerated and new and more effective ingredients be compounded and made available for use by distressed cotton producers."

School Unit Has Program

FORSAN—The Howard County unit of the Texas State Teachers Association met at the Forsan school Monday night.

Feature of the program was a panel discussion of the TSTA code of ethics by four Coahoma teachers, Mrs. Tye Renfro, Mrs. Helen Beard, Mrs. Doris Tiller and Willie Lundy. The panel used original cartoons to illustrate its comments and was introduced by Mrs. Lorna Wynn of Coahoma, the Howard County unit's program chairman.

Tom Spell explained the TSTA minimum foundation, its background and function. President W. M. Roman appointed members to the TSTA code of ethics, auditing and legislative committees.

Mack Alexander gave the invocation to open the meeting, and Forsan students Danny Kennemur and Dianne Banks presented two musical selections. Refreshments were served to 85 members who attended.

Cemetery Picked As A Shrine

LAMESA (SC) — Dawson County's oldest burial grounds, the Pioneer Cemetery, has been designated a shrine by the county historical survey committee. Plans are being made for its restoration and improvement.

Records show 24 grave sites in this plot were enclosed by a picturesque rock fence in 1942. The committee plans to clean up the cemetery through a cooperative effort. The committee also hopes to form a Pioneer Cemetery Association with elected officers to perpetuate a program for the upkeep and beautification of the plot.

No Work For Jury

A jury panel which reported to 118th District Court at 1:30 p.m. Monday earned its $5 per head with little effort and small loss of time.

Judge Ralph Caton, who had called the panel to serve in the trial of a civil docket set to open Monday, told the jurors there was no work for them to do.

Only two cases had been marked as "ready" when the docket was sounded Monday morning. By 1:30 p.m., when the first of these was to have gone to trial, that case had been settled.

The second, which had been tentatively docketed to be tried Thursday had to be passed by agreement.

The case settled was styled Dorothy Buford vs. O. T. Tilley et al. It was an action for damages.

Christine Charged With Perjury And Conspiracy

LONDON (AP) — Playgirl Christine Keeler was held for trial today on charges of perjury and conspiracy to obstruct justice. Conviction on these charges carries a maximum penalty of 28 years in prison. Miss Keeler and her co-defendant, Bailey Court were Christine's three co-defendants. The action was taken after a preliminary hearing by Marylebone magistrate's court. The others are Christine's apartment mate, Paula Hamilton-Marshall, 23, their housekeeper, Mrs. Olive Brooker, 56, and West Indian Rudolph Fen-ton, 39. Their trial before a jury was ordered by the judge after the police prosecutor finished presenting evidence charging that Miss Keeler and her co-defendant concealed relevant facts in the trial of Christine's ex-lover, Jamaican jazz singer Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, when he was convicted earlier this year of having beaten her. Christine, 21, whose affair with former War Minister John Profumo rocked the British government, was charged with committing perjury to get Gordon, a Negro, sent to jail.

Deposed President Heads Dahomey's Government

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP)—Col. Christophe Soglo, Dahomey's new military ruler, announced a provisional government today and named deposed President Hubert Maga to it. Soglo, chief of Dahomey's 800-man army, took over supreme powers Monday in a bloodless coup after striking workers in four days of street demonstrations demanded Maga's ouster. Soglo dissolved the National Assembly and suspended the constitution. Then he reappointed the three-man provisional government Maga had named in an effort to appease the demonstrating workers. In addition to Maga, who leads the Democratic rally, the provisional regime includes Sourou Migan Ahyi of the public party, who was vice president under Maga but also his political rival, and Justin Ahomadegbe, a former president of the Legislative Assembly whose Democratic Union party Maga dissolved in 1961.

Ecumenical Tones Down Debate On Virgin Mary

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council de-emphasized its consideration of the Virgin Mary today, voting narrowly to incorporate a separate document concerning her in a larger schema on the Roman Catholic Church as a whole. The action is expected to have wide implications for efforts to promote Christian unity. Protestants often have criticized Roman Catholic emphasis on Mary.

In another major action, the council approved a document endorsing efforts to work out an international perpetual calendar and a fixed date for Easter. The vote was 2,134 in favor, 21 against, and 16 in favor with reservations. Two ballots were null. The vote on Mary was closer. A council spokesman said 1,114 prelates voted to incorporate consideration of the Virgin's place in Catholic theology in a broad schema or topic on the nature of the Church, while 1,074 voted to consider a separate schema on Mary. Two council fathers voted for incorporation with reservations, and three ballots were blank. It was one of the closest votes in the council since the assembly of 2,300 prelates opened more than a year ago. Council decisions usually require a two-thirds majority, but the action today was considered procedural and required only a majority.

Three Killed As Train Hits Car

JACKSONVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Three persons en route to work were killed today when their car and the Missouri Pacific passenger train, the Eagle, collided. Killed were Phillip Curtis, 18, his wife Judy, 16, and her father, Willie Lindsey, 46, all of near Jacksonville. The three victims were thrown from their car which was carried 50 yards down the track.

DAILY GUIDE—A good day for regular routines, for getting things done smoothly. Late hours active and social. Arians have two days to collect luck due them for past efforts. Leos and Sagittarians can also count on pleasant social activities, travel, inspiration today and tomorrow. These three signs have a continuous influence of this nature for a few more months so should actively pursue a course calculated to bring them benefits. Scorpios making the most of communications. Cancerians and Pisceans can take pleasure in correspondence getting around to meetings, shopping, calling up friends. All should give greater concentration to news, conferences, paper work. Straight thinking should be the aim in the next few weeks. Sagittarians have a chance now to take direct action and should come down to earth and be realistic, not too idealistic. ly optimistic. Keep ideas and plans to yourself until the middle of next month, but keep busy now. You may be too frank, outspoken, so watch that impulse to speak your mind. A busy day tomorrow with many concluding matters needing attention. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, SCORPIO! You can keep busy now working out details of plans already put in operation in the past few weeks. You may have to discuss these with others; be sure you do not confuse the issues with unrealistic enthusiasm. Watch spending now and through to middle of November. Some complication in finances could involve new friends or unusual people next week. In February some disturbance in domestic affairs likely. Choose older and more practical ties in the summer months. You are due for some luck in June and December through your alliances or marriage. From spring all personal relationships improve.

City Launches Clean Up Drive

City manager Larry Crow Monday said a clean up program for alleys and city right-of-way on the northside is being undertaken this week. "This is part of our continuing clean up campaign," Crow said. "Clean up work on the north side began last Thursday and will continue through the remainder of this week. We should be finished by Saturday," Crow said. The city manager said the clean up campaign is being conducted "in conjunction with the wishes of civic leaders who live in the north side area." City firemen Monday began a periodic campaign to test and repaint all fire hydrants in the city. "The hydrants are tested by flushing," Crow said.
