Russians Keep U.S. Convoy Blocked

BERLIN (AP) — Russian troops briefly halted a French military convoy today on its way toward a U.S. Army convoy bottled up by Soviet armored cars at Marienborn checkpoint near West Germany. After the French convoy started up again on the 110-mile trip over the autobahn through East Germany, a Western source in Berlin said the French were under orders not to go through the Marienborn checkpoint to West Germany unless the U.S. convoy blocked there is allowed to pass. The 10-vehicle French convoy carried 50 men. Forty-four men were in the 12-vehicle American convoy held at Marienborn by three Soviet armored personnel carriers blocking its forward movement toward West Berlin. Two other Soviet armored cars bottled the convoy in from the rear. The French convoy was stopped shortly after 5 p.m. (11 a.m. EST) when it reached the first checkpoint outside Berlin at Babelsberg. The Russians asked the men to dismount for a headcount and the French commander refused. This was the same set of circumstances that halted the U.S. convoy at Marienborn Monday morning. In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk described the Russian blockade as "a very serious matter." President Kennedy was keeping in close touch with the situation. At the United Nations, British Minister of State Peter Thomas warned that the "spirit of Moscow" might be jeopardized by continued Soviet interference with Western access rights to Berlin. Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, campaigning in Scotland for a seat in the House of Commons, called for a peaceful settlement of the blockading tactics.

Rusk Labels Blockage 'Very Serious Matter'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk described as "a very serious matter" today the Russian blockade of a U.S. convoy on the road to Berlin. Rusk made the comment to newsmen after appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. President Kennedy was keeping in close touch with the situation, both by telephone and by direct briefings from McGeorge Bundy, his assistant for national security affairs. Foy D. Kohler, U.S. ambassador to Moscow who has been vacationing in London, was ordered to return quickly to his post in connection with the crisis. Kohler launched a formal protest in Moscow last month, after a similar Soviet tie-up of a U.S. convoy on the autobahn. It was assumed the action would be repeated in the present case. Rusk, leaving the Senate committee briefing, said that "unless the situation has changed in the last hour, the other side is attempting unilaterally to change procedures that have long been in use. "Of course that cannot be permitted. We look upon it as a very serious matter." He had said earlier that "Berlin is on a moment-to-moment basis." Kennedy talked by phone with both Rusk and Llewellyn E. Thompson, his chief adviser on Soviet affairs.

State Hospital Board Leases Two Local Tracts

Bids for lease of two tracts of land owned by the Big Spring State Hospital Monday were accepted by the board for State Hospitals and Special Schools. Largest bid was $5,010 by Taylor Implement Co. on a 370-acre tract. A 35-acre tract went to Keeton and McGibbon Big Spring Truck Terminal for $3,570. The two-year lease rental for the acreage totals $8,580, compared to current two-year rental of $5,000 for both plots. Four bids were submitted to the board for consideration. A 900-acre lease belonging to the McKnight State Tuberculosis State Hospital near San Angelo went to Wayne Hudson of San Angelo on a high bid of $4,478 for the next two years. Current rental on the land is $3,500. The board authorized travel for Dr. Preston E. Harrison, superintendent of the local hospital, to Atlanta, Ga. Jan. 19-25 at no cost to the state. Out-of-state seminar travel was the target of criticism from Walter F. Woodul, Austin, former lieutenant governor and a member of the board, when the board reviewed and approved requests for travel expenses by state staff members. Woodul charged his colleagues with indiscriminate authorization of "nice trips." High representation by state hospital representatives to many of the meetings were defended on the grounds that by attendance the groups can find out about new developments far in advance of their appearance in medical journals. The board overrode Woodul's objections and approved 50 out-of-state travel requests whose estimated cost to the state will be $5,301. Twenty-two of the requests did not involve state funds. C. E. Bentley, Abilene, was named chairman of the board's site-selection committee to determine a location for a new state school for mentally retarded. About three-dozen West Texas communities, including Big Spring, have expressed interest in getting the new school. The school was authorized by the 58th Legislature, although funds were not appropriated for it. The only stipulation was that it be located west of the 100th meridian. Criteria established by the board, however, stipulate that there be 200 acres of usable land, reasonably level; the site should be within or adjacent to a city limits; access roads, water, sewer service and other utilities must be guaranteed; that professional personnel be available, and, preferably, facilities of a college or university nearby; and that it be far enough from the Abilene State School to avoid overlapping of service areas.

Democrats Spur Search For Runners

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is running into difficulties in its search for lively candidates for governor and senator who might help President Kennedy carry big electoral vote states in 1964. New York and California are giving the Kennedy candidate-pickers a variety of troubles. There are storm flags flying in Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Michigan remained unsettled and, for the Democrats, unsettling. All of the extra-curricular efforts of Stephen E. Smith, the President's brother-in-law, to bring some order out of the Democratic chaos in New York have not yet reached the point where the White House can begin to focus on a candidate to oppose GOP Sen. Kenneth B. Keating. Mayor Robert Wagner is described in administration quarters as eager to make the run. Upstate Democrats insist on one of their own Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady is pushing his claims. There is tacit agreement on the part of all concerned to wait until the first of next year to decide what shall be done about the case of Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., whose seat will be at stake in the elections. Engle, under treatment for a brain tumor, has been permitted to leave the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital for weekends. Whether he would be able to campaign for re-election is questionable. If Engle is forced by illness to step out, there is every indication that administration strategists would encourage Gov. Edmund G. Brown to get into the senatorial race. Brown's term does not expire until January, 1967. In Illinois, there is some obvious administration worry about the strength of Democratic Gov. Otto Kerner. The White House denied Monday any connection with a poll the Chicago Daily News said indicated Kerner could be beaten by either of two GOP contenders, Secretary of State Charles Carpenter or industrialist Charles Percy. Sargent Schriver, another of the President's brothers-in-law, who heads the Peace Corps, has been mentioned as a possible substitute for Kerner.

UF Collection Gains Speed

Gaining traction after slipping at intervals last week, the United Fund showed signs today of grinding out more gains. Reports from virtually all divisions Monday added another thousand dollars, making the new total slightly over $88,400, said Jack Y. Smith, campaign chairman. Cosden Oil & Chemical Company and American - Petrofina came in with an additional $340. The companies, together with their employees, have given over $12,000, which is more than one-tenth of the total goal. Another group taking a second look and upping its share is the Big Spring Beer Distributors Association, which added $100. This brings to $600 the association's support of the campaign. Based on informally reported returns, which have not been made to headquarters, Smith said he could see where the campaign was within reach of the homestretch. Back home from a business trip, he was busily engaged Tuesday morning in contacting division leaders and in seeking to organize cleanup efforts. If all divisions make a strong effort this week, the campaign could be cleaned up next week, he predicted.

Yarborough Said Ready For Race

FORT WORTH (AP) — Don Yarborough of Houston is due to enter the race for governor Dec. 12, the Star-Telegram said today. The newspaper quoted a source close to Yarborough, saying many have considered the Houston man a good bet to take on Gov. John Connally. Yarborough, a favorite of so-called liberal and Loyal Democrats, lost to Connally by 26,000 votes last year.

Diem Brother Given To Viet Nam Rebels

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Ngo Dinh Can, boss of central Viet Nam in the regime of his brother, President Ngo Dinh Diem, was turned over to South Viet Nam's new revolutionary government today after he sought asylum at the U.S. consulate at Hue. U.S. officials were understood to have received assurances from revolutionary officials that Can "would not be lynched and would receive the due process of law." Diem and another brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, his closest adviser, were captured by the rebels Saturday. The revolutionary government said they committed suicide, but reports have been widespread in Saigon that they were assassinated. Unconfirmed reports circulated in Hue, capital of central Viet Nam, that 180 bodies had been found in a mass grave at Can's mansion there. Responsible Vietnamese officials said rows of filthy dungheons were found in an old French arsenal on property owned by Can just south of Hue. Mobs on Monday sacked and destroyed the home Can was building there. Buddhist leaders, students and others in Hue long have charged that Can ruled his bailiwick as a bloody tyrant. ASKS REFUGE Can, who dropped from sight when the coup overthrew Diem's regime last weekend, reportedly went to the U.S. consulate in Hue Monday night and asked for refuge. Consular officials notified the revolutionary government. Late this afternoon Can was flown 400 miles south to Saigon in a U.S. military plane and turned over to officials of the new government. The military junta Monday night named former Vice President Nguyen Ngoc Tho to be premier of a new provisional government that will govern South Viet Nam under the watchful supervision of the military leaders. Recognition by the United States and a number of other nations was expected to follow quickly the approval of the predominantly civilian government by the ruling military junta Monday night. REPUBLICAN Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, 47, leader of the coup that ousted the Diem regime, said in a proclamation that a republican form of government will be retained although the junta will be the country's final authority. Minh, who assumed the position of chief of state, said his committee of generals will give its chief attention to direction of the war against the Communist Viet Cong. Until revision of the 1956 constitution, Minh said, legislative and executive power will center in the junta but will be exercised by the provisional government.

Rocky Slates Announcing

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is expected to formally declare Thursday that he is a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination. Informed sources say only an unforeseen development could force him to postpone the announcement. But in case of postponement, an alternate date — probably Nov. 12 — is being kept open. Rockefeller's long-expected announcement will be made in Albany. Rockefeller backers in New Hampshire announced Monday they would open a Rockefeller-for-president headquarters in Concord, the state's capital, Friday. New Hampshire will hold the first of 1964's presidential preference primaries March 10. Rockefeller is expected to enter it.

Shifting Dirt Slows Down Rescue Of Trapped Miners

BRISTEDT, Germany (AP) — Shifting earth delayed rescuers today in their attempt to reach 11 men trapped in a flooded iron mine since Oct. 21. A report to the surface said some in the group were getting edgy and requested tranquilizers. The rescuers had hoped to reach the men by Wednesday but at noon engineers said they were running 12 hours behind schedule because of difficulties in their drilling operations for both a rescue shaft and a supply shaft. Engineers working on the rescue shaft reported that they had to halt the lining of the shaft with cement because the earth had shifted at a point 125 feet down — 61 feet from the men. They said they would have to resort to using the drill again but it had not gone into use by noon. Shifting earth also troubled borers of a supply shaft through which surface crews plan to send tools and building materials to the men below. This shaft had gone down 138 feet when the earth shifted, halting cementing operations. "Some of us are getting edgy and restless," Bernhard Wolter, 28, reported over a telephone link. "Send down some tranquilizers." Later Wolter reported back that only two of the men had taken the pills. Forty-three men were trapped in the mine when a nearby dam broke. Eighty-six escaped when the flood hit, and three others were rescued last Friday. Thirty men had been given up for dead but a test boring located 11 of them Sunday. This fired rescuers to bore at two other points in hopes of finding the 19 miners still missing. If all goes well, the rescue may be completed Wednesday. "The men are not too excited and they have told us that they are confident of being rescued," said Dr. Heinrich Kellner, a physician in touch with the trapped men. One of the two exploratory borings broke through to an air bubble 240 feet below late Monday night. After exhaustive checks, mine officials announced that there was no life in the air pocket. Completion of the other test boring was expected today, but a mine spokesman said: "We have the smallest hopes of finding survivors there."

Madame Nhu Waiting For Reunion With Children

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An aide says Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, heartened by a number of sympathetic messages from Americans, is considering returning to the United States after a reunion with her three younger children in Rome. Mrs. Nhu, originally scheduled to leave today for Rome, postponed her trip 24 hours in order to receive telephonic assurances that her children are in Rome before she leaves the United States. More than 3,000 telegrams and messages have poured into Mrs. Nhu's hotel since the military coup Friday which overthrew the regime of her brother-in-law, Ngo Dinh Diem, the aide said. SYMPATHETIC Most of the messages were sympathetic, he added. Col. William K. Elicsu of New York City, a former Secret Service officer who has accompanied Mrs. Nhu on her U.S. tour, said many of the messages mentioned her personal loss while others supported her anti-Communist stand. Mrs. Nhu's husband, Ngo Dinh Nhu, Diem's political adviser, was killed in the coup—or committed suicide—along with his brother. Mrs. Nhu had feared her three younger children, ages 15, 11, and 4 had been killed in the bombardment of the presidential palace. But the new Vietnamese government, through the U.S. State Department, informed Mrs. Nhu her children were safe. TO ROME Mrs. Nhu disclosed Monday the contents of a telegram she had sent Secretary of State Dean Rusk the day before asking that she be permitted to return to Saigon to take care of her husband and her three children. As an alternative she suggested that the State Department send the children to Rome via Los Angeles. Instead, Mrs. Nhu received a telegram from the State Department late Monday telling her the children were being flown to Rome, via Bangkok, Thailand. Mrs. Nhu had one important guest at her suite Monday—her father. It was the first meeting between Mrs. Nhu and Tran Van Chuong, 65, since she arrived in the United States. The father, former Vietnamese ambassador to the U.S., and daughter had long been at odds over authoritarian policies of the Ngo Dinh ruling family. After spending approximately 45 minutes with his daughter, Tran Van Chuong said: "There was no need of reconciliation because as soon as I learned the tragic events my heart was very near my daughter." He declined to say who contacted whom first.

American Woman Scientist Named Nobel Prize Winner

STOCKHOLM (AP) — An American scientist today became the first woman to win a Nobel Prize in physics in 60 years. She will share the prize with a second U.S. scientist and a West German. Winding up the 1963 Nobel awards, a West German scientist and one from Italy were named to share the prize in chemistry. The Swedish Royal Academy of Science announced these winners of the physics and chemistry prizes, each worth $51,158. Physics: Mrs. Maria Goeppert-Mayer of the University of California and J. Hans D. Jensen of Heidelberg for their work in determining the nature of the shell of the atom's nucleus. She is the first woman residing in America to win a Nobel physics prize and the first to be named since Marie Curie of France shared the prize in 1903. GROUNDWORK Eugene Wigner of Princeton University who helped to lay the groundwork for the present advance study of nuclear physics. Wigner will get half the prize. Mrs. Goeppert-Mayer and Jensen will divide the other half. Chemistry: Prof. Karl Ziegler of West Germany and Prof. Giulio Natta of Italy for their work with molecules that has helped to speed the development of useful plastics. The award money comes from a $9-million bequest by the late Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite, who directed that the interest on the bequest be distributed among those who benefit mankind. IN DECEMBER The formal award ceremony will be held Dec. 12 in Stockholm. At her home in La Jolla, Calif., Mrs. Goeppert-Mayer exclaimed: "I really don't know what to say. . . it is really true? I still can't believe it's true. Oh, how wonderful!" In Heidelberg, Jensen said: "That's fantastic but I can't believe it until I get the official notification." Wigner was away when the news was telephoned to his home near the Princeton University campus. Said his wife: "I haven't been awakened so suddenly since my neighbor's gas furnace blew up a few years ago." Mrs. Wigner said her husband has devoted considerable time to research into the peaceful uses of nuclear power and added: "But I think he is a good teacher also." "He is a sincere physicist," she said. "I'm delighted that he got it." Wigner, who is 61 and a native of Hungary, was educated in Budapest and Berlin. He joined the Princeton faculty in 1930 as professor of mathematical physics. OTHER PRIZES Wigner in 1958 received the Fermi Prize and in 1960 was awarded the Atoms for Peace Prize. Mrs. Goeppert-Mayer, 57, was born in Kattowitz, Germany (now Katowice, Poland). She took her doctorate at Goettingen, Germany, in 1930, and then was on the staff of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore for 10 years along with her American husband, Joseph Mayer, a professor of chemical physics. Jensen was born in Hamburg in 1907, and went on the staff of the university there in 1937. He has been professor of theoretical physics at Heidelberg since 1949. Mrs. Goeppert-Mayer, after a period at Columbia University in New York in World War II, joined Argonne National Laboratory, where she worked for 15 years. At the same time she served as professor at the University of Chicago. Since 1960 the two Mayers have occupied chairs at the La Jolla branch of the University of California.

DEAR ABBY
Foreign Tongue

DEAR ABBY: When the Dodgers won the Series, my father was so mad he kicked in our television set and now it isn't working. He has a terrible temper and he curses us kids out in a foreign language so loud everybody on the block can hear him. I said to him, "Pa, if you're going to yell at us in front of the whole neighborhood, why don't you learn English?" For this he smacked me right in the mouth. Do you think he had a right to do that?

ANGELO IN BROOKLYN

DEAR ANGLO: He had a "right"—but he was wrong. If I have your pa pegged, I think you're lucky he didn't say what he said in English.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a ten-year-old girl wearing nylon stockings and a garter belt? My fifth grader tells me that I'm "old-fashioned" because I tell her she's too young for them. About eight in her class have them. I refuse to budge. Am I wrong?

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD-FASHIONED: No! And don't let her wear you down with that old saw—"But mother—all the other girls do."

DEAR ABBY: I feel I must respond to "NOTHING UP MY SLEEVE," who is 44, handsome, and will marry any woman with money regardless of her age or what she looks like. I am an English woman who was married to this type for 22 years. I finally divorced him and came to your country to start a new life. Doesn't this handsome bloke realize that a woman with money doesn't need to marry for company? She can buy all she wants. I plan to return to England next spring. It's a pity that man is so attractive. I'm seeking a permanent partner who is elderly, bald-headed and seldom gets a second glance—one I won't have to share with the whole universe. Sincerely,

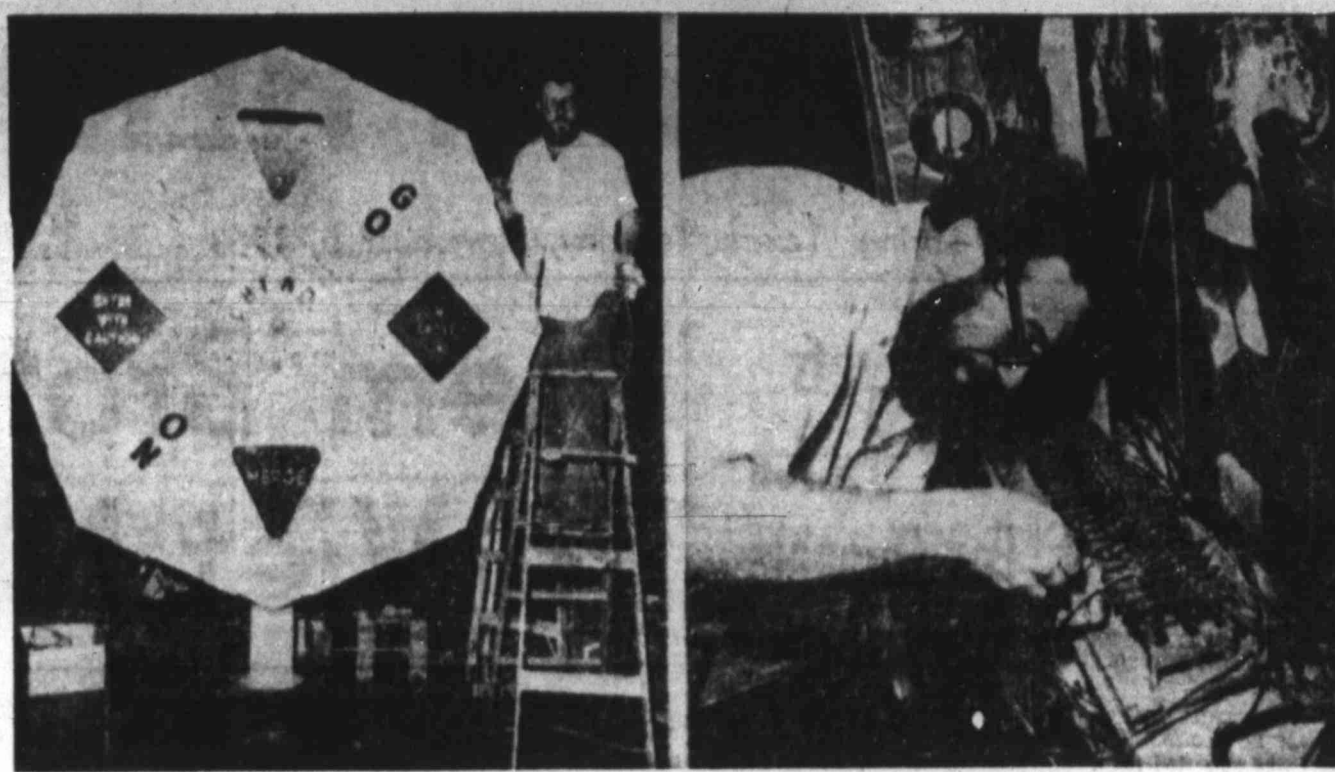

"D" FROM LIVERPOOL

CONFIDENTIAL TO HORRIFIED: Don't believe all the wild rumors you hear about high school students. I refer to the number of marriages, pregnancies among unmarried girls, the drinking orgies, dope addictions, etc. And don't repeat such rumors. If you want the facts and figures, ask the high school principal.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Storage Planned
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Construction will begin in December on a $14 million petroleum storage facility for the government oil company, Petroleos Mexicanos, at Culiacan in Sinaloa state.

A Mechanized Poem

If you ask poet-sculptor Gerd Stern what he is doing he will probably tell you he is working on a poem and the title is "Contact Is The Only Love." The seven-foot diameter, octagon-shaped "poem" incorporates neon, fluorescent and incandescent lighting, sign flashers, eight loud speakers, amplifiers and a loop tape recorder. Stern says that he turned from classic poetry forms to visual and contemporary media because "in our generation the word has its strongest impact when used visually as in signs or in light and sound." His work is on display at the San Francisco Museum of Art. (AP WIREPHOTO)

TEXAS PRODUCTS WEEK

Ice Plant, Sweet Shop Have Long History Here

The Big Spring branch plant of the Southern Ice and Cold Storage Company has been in operation for over 40 years, according to M. R. Ray, manager. Located at 105 1/2 Johnson, the plant covers almost an entire city block.

In addition to serving Big Spring residents with block and crushed ice with three city routes, the firm produces all of the block ice sold by the branch plants in Midland and Odessa.

Ray said the brine freezing units are capable of producing 90 tons of ice each day. Six 300 pound blocks are frozen at the same time. "It takes 72 hours to freeze it right," Ray said. The manager said the firm is in the process of completing winter repairs. "We're doing a lot of painting," he said.

Since 1937

Doyle Vaughn has operated Vaughn's Sweet Shop at 508 Gregg since Sept. 27, 1937.

At one time, the firm had 25 to 30 employees, and the bulk of the business was with wholesale customers. Now, Vaughn has dispensed with most of the wholesale service. "We're mostly retail," Vaughn said. "We still make some deliveries, and fill special orders," he added.

The owner said the scarcity of "old-time" bakers, competition from large bakeries and rising costs are reasons why he prefers to operate a "hand-shop."

The firm produces nearly every variety of baked goods that a large bakery does including bread, buns, pies, cakes, cookies and doughnuts.

Equipment includes a six-shelf oven capable of baking five 30-bun pans on each shelf, an automatic doughnut machine, two large cake mixing machines and one small one, and a dough break machine.

In addition, a sizable refrigeration room keeps dough fresh and available when needed. Vaughn estimated average annual gross sales at $70,000 to $75,000.

Part Of Complex

A multi-million dollar operation closely allied with the oil industry in Big Spring's chemical complex east of the city is Sid Richardson Carbon Company. The plant is now well into its third year of operation.

Completed in July, 1961, it went on stream the following month. Since then it has steadily extracted carbon black from residual fuel oil obtained from Cosden. The plant can process 30 million pounds of black a year when it is operating at design capacity.

Two grades of black are made — HAF carbon black, of which most of the production to date has consisted, and the ISAF variety. The product is used mostly by the rubber industry for manufacture of tires and other products. The abrasive quality of the black gives tires long life.

Heading the operation here is John M. Hogg, plant manager, who came on the scene during construction and has remained since.

The annual payroll is about $200,000 and another half-million dollars is pumped into the local economy through the purchase of raw materials and services.

Makes Blinds

Hall Venetian Blind and Awning Co., 107 W. 13th, has been in operation in Big Spring since 1937 in the same location. Alfred G. Hall Jr., owner, with Mrs. Hall's help, has furnished blinds, awnings, curtains, shades and drapes for buildings all over West Texas and a part of New Mexico.

The Halls build and repair canvas awnings, venetian blinds, window screens, canvas covers of all kinds, tarpaulins, vertical blinds, window shades, metal awnings, and luggage covers from 250 available materials.

Mrs. Hall's part of the business includes drapes, bed spreads, sofa pillows and cushions. They have two regular full time helpers and another on call at any time.

"I have been in Big Spring for 54 years," Hall said. "Those needing my services know what I can do and have done well by us."

Newest Industry

One of the newer Big Spring industries, and the one with the newest plant, is GAMCO, Inc., producers of a variety of chalkboards, bulletin boards, tack boards, wall cases, etc.

In addition, GAMCO and its sister corporation Math-Master Labs, furnishes a host of instructional aids produced by others.

GAMCO operates in its factory building on the Snyder highway. It has 35,000 square feet of space, and fully half of this is given over to processing of all types of chalk or wall boards. Facilities include preparation rooms, an automatic painting device, 90-foot infrared ray oven consuming 1,000,000 BTU of gas per hour, an additional room for lining, cutting and framing the boards. Other equipment includes a machine to laminate wood, hard board, steel or asbestos.

GAMCO has a staff of 23 and last year reported sales of $355,206. Trends indicate a half million volume this year. The payroll approximates $90,000 per year and is increasing.

SAME CLAIM

"Early in the turmoil of the Protestant Reformation, a few rugged reformers arose in Europe who urged that the Christian faith, as then practiced, needed to return to the doctrinal purity of its beginnings. But the leaders of the Reformation declined to go as far as purifying the church as these other reformers wished, so this intrepid group attempted it on their own." (tract by Southern Baptist S. S. Board, under heading, Baptist Beginnings).

From this it seems that in one thing, Baptist Churches, and churches of Christ are making the same claim, viz., that the Protestant Reformation did not go far enough; that the need was to return to the doctrinal purity of original Christianity, and that they represent a return to the original. Both groups could not be right in this claim. The Bible is the standard for measuring the matter. Study it for yourself. That is what we are trying to get you to do. Is that fair?

INTRODUCING THE DEPENDABLES FOR '64

We have designs to get you in our power

Our engineers are a wily group of guys who spend most of their time dreaming up ways to win your approval. Take the Dodge Polara 500. You'd be hard-pressed to find a car that's got more going for you. Deeply-padded, contour-formed bucket seats. All-vinyl upholstery. Silt-to-silt carpeting. Padded dash. Center console. And lots of other trimmings. But that's only the half of it.

Perhaps our approach to power will further illustrate the point.

With the Polara 500 you aren't baked in on a certain engine. You can choose from a standard 318 cu. in. V8 up to a street-version of our wallowing, all-out 426 cu. in. Ramcharger V8. Compromise? Nope. We just feel that a freedom of choice is the surest road to your approval.

That's our way of doing business—giving you lots of car and lots of satisfaction at a price that's hard to quarrel with.

Your Dodge Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the point.

Pulpit Empty In Red Land

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Under the pulpit in Prague's St. Vitus Cathedral, a lonely woman kneels in silent prayer.

A tourist guide, his voice echoing through the near empty nave, points out the 600-year-old Gothic splendor to a group of visiting Russians. One lights a cigarette in studied boredom.

An old priest shuffles about in the shadows.

The pulpit is closed by an iron grill with a rusty lock. It has been empty nearly 14 years. The last to preach from it was the Most Rev. Josef Beran, archbishop of Prague and Roman Catholic primate of Czechoslovakia.

ONE RULER

Communists took over Czechoslovakia in 1948. On a Sunday in June 1949, Archbishop Beran preached from his pulpit that "there is but one ruler above us—God." He was arrested on the spot.

The regime released the 75-year-old archbishop last month. Officially a free man, he is still barred from resuming office. Defiant and in indomitable spirits, Archbishop Beran now awaits the outcome of negotiations between the regime and the Vatican. He lives in a Catholic old-age home in the nearby village of Mukarov. On Sundays he celebrates Mass on a tiny altar flanked by wooden statues of Holy Mary and St. Joseph and covered with coarse linen.

SYMBOLIZES

His way from the gilded magnificence of St. Vitus, through police interrogation and solitary confinement to the little house in Mukarov symbolizes the course of Czechoslovakia's Catholic Church.

BETTER OFF

The Protestants, concentrated mainly in Moravia and the western part of Czechoslovakia, are relatively better off than the Catholics. With the help of Protestant officials holding influential positions in the economy, they managed to work out a kind of truce with the regime on a live-and-let-live basis.

Church-state negotiations entered by the Vatican under Pope John XXIII were resumed by Pope Paul VI within the overall program aimed at a revision of relations between Catholicism and communism. In neighboring Hungary the Church is gradually approaching a settlement of its outstanding problems but no immediate solution appears in sight for the Czechoslovak church.

the country, save a few serving as cultural showpieces, are dilapidated. Many have been closed. The clergy, robbed of revenues since all church property was socialized, lacks funds for repairs. Parochial schools were shut down long ago.

Officially, parents are free to send their children to religious lessons but few do. "I would lose my job if I let my boy go to the priest," a Prague factory worker said.

LESS THAN HALF

Of the country's 7,000 Catholic priests before the Communist takeover, less than half are left to practice their vocation. The others are believed to be in jail or to have taken jobs in factories or collective farms. The number of monasteries and convents was cut from over 1,000 to about 100, most of them serving as old-age homes.

All 14 bishoprics are vacant. The bishops were jailed without exception and sentenced to long prison terms on charges ranging from sabotage and espionage to "antistate activities." Although freed since, the prelates are still barred from their sees except for three who head bishoprics in Slovakia, a part of the country whose ethnic minority is predominantly Catholic.

PLACES OF WORSHIP THROUGHOUT

Places of worship throughout the country, save a few serving as cultural showpieces, are dilapidated. Many have been closed. The clergy, robbed of revenues since all church property was socialized, lacks funds for repairs. Parochial schools were shut down long ago.

Ex-Mexico Chief Ortiz Rubio Dies

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Pascual Ortiz Rubio, who descended from ancient Mexico's Indian kings to become modern Mexico's 51st president, is dead at the age of 86.

Ortiz Rubio, who held the presidency from 1930 to 1932, died Monday. His term was marked by good relations with the United States and progress in restoring his country's international credit.

An engineer by profession, he visited a fellow engineer, President Herbert Hoover, at the White House and began what was called an era of "straight fine" tactics between the neighboring countries.

On his inauguration day, Ortiz Rubio was struck in the jaw by an assassin's bullet as he left the National Palace after taking the oath of office. His jaw heavily bandaged, he took up his duties a month later.

The assassin was one of a group of Mexicans who regarded Ortiz Rubio as a front man for powerful financial interests.

Despite this opposition, Ortiz Rubio was known for his personal integrity. He was Mexico's minister to Germany and ambassador to Brazil before becoming president. His survey of irrigation systems in Europe and Asia led to construction of similar waterworks in Mexico. Born at Morelia in the province of Michoacan, he was a direct descendant of the kings of Tarascan, a tall and handsome Indian people who reigned in Mexico before the Spanish conquest. His father was governor of the province.

U.S. Feed Grain Program Cost Pegged At $2½ Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department report showed today that its feed grain program has cost $2,505,000,000 to obtain a reduction of 25,700,000 tons in the surplus supply of corn, barley and sorghum grain.

Payments to farmers for re-purchase of their feed grain land and for price supports were $782 million in 1961, the first year of the program, and $848 million in 1962. Payments this year are estimated at $875 million.

When the program was started by the Kennedy administration, the reserve and surplus supply of feed grains was 84.7 million tons. In today's report, the department estimated this would be down to 59 million tons by the end of the 1963 crop marketing year next Oct. 1.

The administration's goal is to get the reserve supply down to about 45 million tons. Administration officials say the cost of these programs to taxpayers is less by more than $1 billion than would have been spent eventually by the government had there been no cutback in feed grain acreage. They say the surplus supply would have increased with the government being required under price support programs to buy and store the extra production.

The feed grain program has two years to run. Officials now expect the 1964 version to cost upward of $1.1 billion. They increase over this year reflects official expectation that more land will be retired than was the case this year.

Effectiveness of the feed grain program in reducing the surplus has declined each year. In 1961 it cut the oversupply 12.9 million tons, in 1962, 9.3 million bushels and in 1963 an estimated 3.5 million.

Since he lacked the intermediate cards in hearts, declarer had nothing to gain by giving up a trick early. In fact, by so doing, he surrendered the one legitimate opportunity that was available to him. He might just as well have cashed the ace and king after drawing the trumps, in order to learn how the hearts were divided.

When West shows out on the second round, South's only chance is to execute an end play on the opponent who is out of hearts.

Declarer first cashes the top clubs and then ruffs a diamond in dummy. He trumps North's last club and then leads the ten of diamonds. West covers with the jack and South permits him to win the trick as dummy discards a heart. Now, whether West returns a diamond or a club, declarer can dispose of North's last heart as he ruffs in his hand. The only trick that is lost is a diamond.

North's three club response is conventional and asks the n trump bidder to show a four card major if he has one. North was prepared to support either hearts or spades. When the opening bidder has both majors, he shows the higher ranking suit first. When South bid three spades, North elected to make a slam try by overbidding the game in spades.

Altho the bidding in today's hand was a shade on the aggressive side, the final contract of six spades was eminently reasonable. Had the adverse hearts been divided three-two, as is the normal expectancy, declarer would have experienced no difficulty in taking 12 tricks. While the bad break in the suit presented an unexpected complication, it was balanced, by a favorable distribution which existed in another side suit, but unfortunately the declarer failed to capitalize on the available opportunity and he went down to defeat.

North's three club response is conventional and asks the n trump bidder to show a four card major if he has one. North was prepared to support either hearts or spades. When the opening bidder has both majors, he shows the higher ranking suit first. When South bid three spades, North elected to make a slam try by overbidding the game in spades.

What About A Quick Cleanup?

How about a whirlwind autumn cleanup? We've had enough timely showers to either sustain the growth of tumbleweeds or to cause late weeds and brush to flourish. In many places these have furnished harborage for paper and other trash.

As unseasonably as this may be, it is nothing compared to the hazard that will exist once the first frost (in about two weeks) comes along. Dry weeds will be like a tinderbox, and piled against fences or loosened so that high winds may roll them against houses and out buildings, a first class chance for fire exists.

If everyone would tackle this soon, the results would be gratifying. Our city would be safer, no doubt healthier and—for sure—more attractive.

Change But No Guarantee

The expectation is that the junta which seized control of Viet Nam during the coup of last weekend will command wider popular following than the Dinh family. Thus, the war against the Viet Cong Communist guerrillas is supposed to progress with more enthusiasm and effectiveness.

Based on the reactions of most observers who have been on the scene, the element of popularity may come nearer being realized. It does not automatically follow that this will result in greater resoluteness to throw out the harassing guerrillas. It remains to be seen if relieving of oppression against the Buddhist majority will stiffen this major segment of the population. So much of Viet Nam is in humble peasant stock whose chief concern has been getting to work in the rice fields rather than to whip the Communists.

In so many words, unrestrained enthusiasm is premature.

While none denies that the autocratic Dinh rule with its preoccupation of maintaining Catholic supremacy in government to the persecution of the overwhelming number of Buddhists was a cocklebur in our relations, the fact is that turnover has been achieved by a military junta. This is the same sort of thing which has taken place in Latin America with disconcerting results. One may hope that this will progress into responsible, stable democratic rule, but admittedly the wish is the father of the thought.

Marquis Childs Politics Stalls Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON — Twelve months from this date the nation will have come through, if advance indications mean anything, one of the bitterest Presidential campaigns in our history.

For all practical purposes during this interval any initiative in foreign policy is ruled out. The best that can be hoped for is a kind of "still pond, no more moving," with no violent interruption on the foreign scene.

THIS MAY BE too much to ask of a world in revolutionary turmoil and particularly since the Presidential exercise gets stretched out for a longer and longer time. Just as four years ago Sen. John F. Kennedy had already been campaigning for months, so today Sen. Barry Goldwater is almost ceaselessly on the move and his office in the old Senate Office Building resembles the strategy headquarters that was the Kennedy office in 1959.

The pious declaration of another era was that "politics stops at the water's edge." This is hardly a preface of that today. The wheat deal, the nuclear test ban, Viet Nam, Cuba, charges and counter-charges already reverberate over these trouble areas. Any neutral ground on which national interest might be expected to prevail over partisanship, threatens to shrink to zero.

IN THE PRINCIPAL spots where political volcanoes smoulder under the surface what are the chances of simply holding the line? What serves the American interest—a waiting period—may also serve the Soviet interest. Premier Khrushchev is wrestling with Red China and with an internal economic crisis of serious dimensions.

As Secretary of State Dean Rusk told the assembled American ambassadors in Bonn this week, there is no real relaxation of tensions—no detente. What we have is simply a hunting license to try to find a detente. Despite reports to the contrary, approval of a Moscow-New York plane line may still be worked out. And the deal to open consulates in both countries is also in slow-motion progress.

BUT THESE are minor steps and nothing else is expected. A non-aggression pact was never seriously contemplated despite the cries of alarm of some who set it up as a whipping boy. Unless Khrushchev decides in his own interest to stir up a crisis in Berlin perhaps—the likelihood is for more of the present pace.

As to Cuba, the best information is that the Administration contemplates no drastic move. Except for noises from Red China the Communist bloc seems to be pulling back from support of Fidel Castro. The economic deterioration within Cuba is more rapid and an internal explosion cannot be ruled out.

THE SAME TERMS apply more or less to Viet Nam. The McNamara-Taylor mission put off the beginning of victory until early 1965 even though some American troops might be removed earlier. The prayerful hope here is that the coup against the Diem regime will provide a stable government with much wider popular support.

So with a little bit of luck the roof may not fall in. But this appraisal omits one point at which the showdown is already set for a date certain. The Kennedy round of tariff negotiations next spring in Geneva will put the gravest strain on the Western alliance at a time when the taste of the chicken mess is still bitter.

RUSK FOUND the Europeans deeply resentful over what they considered undue pressure to reduce the tariff on American chickens. The new German chancellor, Ludwig Erhard, told Rusk that he would have to give full support to German agriculture in the Kennedy round. Erhard, who will have the backing of the French, is coming here to meet with the President.

This will be another chance at least to look at the time bomb and see if perhaps it can be defused. It is impossible to imagine a President in a Presidential year not defending to the bitter end American agricultural exports.

IN BONN Rusk held a background briefing with German correspondents. The German press was off running like frightened hares over the report that American troop commitments in Germany would be cut back, thus reflecting quivering German insecurity. Rusk told them:

"You seem always willing to ascribe the lowest motives to us. We cannot live this way."

As the angry noises of a Presidential campaign can be heard even now in the background, his words have a broader application. If each partisan charge is taken for fact the next 12 months can be disastrous.

Billy Graham

I am almost eighteen and feel that I should have some contact with religion. I have never joined a church and my parents object to it saying that I'm too young.

H. T. I do not believe that you are approaching this problem correctly. Your problem is not so much the age of joining the church, but rather we do not join the church to be in contact with some religion, but to have fellowship with those who love Christ, and to participate in the mission of the church. To have such fellowship, you need to find Christ as Saviour and Lord first. The Bible says that "The Lord added unto them (the Church) daily those that were being saved." If you should join the church without a personal faith, you might do damage to both the church and yourself. Take Christ as your Saviour, and then you will be spiritually ready.

If They Like Them

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station maintains a garden of more than 100 varieties of perennial flower plants. Thousands visit it annually.

Dr. Robert O. Miller, who directs care of the garden, says one of its main purposes is to allow home gardeners to see growth habits of particular plants in order to judge whether they want them in their own plots.

PANHANDLING FROM A CADILLAC

James Marlow Foreign Aid Hostility Grows Since 1947

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's like a gloomy class in arithmetic: subtract, add a little, subtract, subtract. This is the way Congress handles foreign aid, as it did in the past and is doing now.

One thing is sure: The President gets less than he asked. Hostility to the program grows yearly, in and out of Congress, as it has since it started in 1947. It's worse now. The aid in 1964 has gone over $100 billion.

Tactics and figures tell the mood and the story. LAST YEAR President Kennedy asked almost $5 billion. The House, always quicker with the clippers than the Senate, cut it fiercely. The alarmed Senate voted more than the House although less than Kennedy requested. Because the two houses differed, they had to reach a compromise. The result: Congress voted roughly $4.8 billion, or, again, roughly, $300 million below Kennedy's figure of almost $5 billion.

But—and this is an important but—this was only the starting point. This was just Congress voting its authorization on how much could be spent. It was the ceiling. Congress still hadn't voted a dime for spending.

IT HAD to do this in the next step: its appropriation bill. Some more pulling and hauling between the two houses, another compromise, and finally Congress voted about $4 billion, or $1 billion less than Kennedy's figure.

This year the same problem but with complications because Kennedy meanwhile had appointed a committee of distinguished citizens, headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, to examine the whole foreign aid program and make recommendations.

Last January Kennedy asked $4.9 billion, or almost as much as the year before. But then the Clay committee came in with its report which seemed to suggest, although this all got confused, Kennedy could do with $4.4 billion.

ONE OF the most constant critics of foreign aid in Congress met this suggestion with some derision. This was Rep. Otto Passman, -D-La. He said the committee suggestion was "absolutely meaningless."

He observed that Congress "cuts the President's foreign aid request an average of $1 billion each year." Anyway, Kennedy, repeatedly quick to compromise when he runs into trouble in Congress, compromised. Bowing to the Clay proposal, he said that instead of asking $4.9 billion he would settle for $4.5 billion. The House got to work.

ON AUG. 25 House Republicans and Southern Democrats made Passman a good prophet by voting only $3.5 billion, or $1 billion less than Kennedy asked.

Kennedy, as he has before when his own Democrats teamed up with Republicans to give him a drubbing, denounced the Republicans and called the House action "shortsighted, irresponsible, and dangerously partisan."

This criticism, in view of what followed, may have taken some of the economy out of the Republicans' mouths, besides some outright opposition, there is a chilling coldness in the Senate to foreign aid.

THE SENATE Foreign Relations Committee rejected the House figure of $3.5 billion—the billion-dollar cut—and decided on 4.2 billion, which is $300 million less than Kennedy asked but $700 million more than the House thought right.

But then the committee's bill went to the full Senate floor where a fight has been going on for days to chop the committee's figure. Finally Democratic and Republican leaders got together and decided:

What the House approved was too little but what Kennedy and the Foreign Relations Committee suggested was too much. So the two parties leaders said foreign aid should be $3.8 billion. The fight goes on; the Senate hasn't voted.

Hal Boyle Cary Grant Wants To Cook

NEW YORK (AP) — Cary Grant has decided to learn how to cook.

"Maybe if I learn how to cook, somebody'll marry me if I play my cards wrong," he said.

"I once got a Boy Scout merit badge for cooking. But about all I remember now is that you have to cook things longer at a mountain altitude."

"If a man really goes into it, he makes a better cook than a woman. Take Danny Kaye—he's fantastic. My cook is rather jealous of his ability."

AS A FIRST step in acquiring culinary skill, Grant is having a modern electric kitchen installed in his hilltop home north of Beverly Hills.

The agless movie actor, who recently completed his first starring film, was in a merry mood. The evening before had been notable. The Theater Owners of America had presented Cary with their "Star of the Year" award. Two young ladies also had followed him into the men's washroom to kiss him—an impromptu award for which he had no prepared speech or ready ad lib.

NOW, the morning after, as he dressed for a luncheon date, Cary pranced around his hotel suite as gay a college sophomore.

As he went under the shower, he sang "Mother Machree" in a bathroom baritone that would never win him a Metropolitan Opera audition. He emerged a few moments later clad in a white towel.

Time is scattering more and more gray hairs on his head, but he still has the youthful build of a pro football halfback—lean, tanned and muscular.

Asked if he could touch his knuckles to the floor, Cary said he'd never tried, then bent easily down several times and knuckled the living room rug without strain.

"I DON'T take any regular exercise—I just move around," he said. "And I ride a lot. You can meditate well on a horse."

"I'm credited with living on a strict diet, but I really don't. I just try to please my stomach. I eat whatever I want whenever I want—but sometimes I go two days without eating at all."

As he completed his dressing chores, Cary gave tidbits of information about himself:

"I don't believe in luck. People make their own life by setting up their own problems."

"My biggest failing? Talking when I should be listening. I suppose."

Smiling and now faultlessly attired, he left for his luncheon date, looking as much like a matinee idol as he did 25 years ago—still charming and cheerful at 59.

To Your Good Health Caesarian Delivery Is Doctor's Decision

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a woman insists, will her doctor deliver her baby by Caesarean? There is no medical reason in my case, but I become utterly terrified at labor. Why shouldn't I have the right to choose? I haven't asked my doctor yet.

I would refuse, unless there are good reasons for this procedure. Caesarean delivery is warranted only when it avoids some greater danger. Under normal circumstances, regular delivery is safer for mother and child. The doctor's responsibility is to provide the greatest safety for both you and the baby, and that's why you don't have the right to choose.

I do think, however, that you might benefit by attending classes, now offered in a good many communities, for women preparing for childbirth. These include simple stretching and squatting exercises which condition the muscles for easier delivery. Such classes are attended not only by women who want "natural childbirth," but also by those who expect the usual anesthesia and want to make the birth easier and safer for the baby.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a 19-year-old son who has acne. The doctor says it will go away when he is in his 20's, but it hasn't improved. I've used all sorts of creams. He also has a fungus in both ears which we are treating with boiled white vinegar and a grease I got from the doctor. Is that the right way?—MRS. J. R.

It's true that acne usually subsides in the 20's, but by that time a good deal of pitting and scarring of the skin sometimes takes place.

Therefore I'm opposed to the idea of just waiting for it to end by itself. There isn't any magic medicine that will cure acne overnight, but there are ways of preventing it from being so severe, and of avoiding much of the subsequent scarring. You can treat it at home at negligible expense. I suggest that you send for my booklet, "Acne, the Teen-Age Problem," writing to me in care of The Herald.

Around The Rim Charlie's Impotent Hawleg

One of the best peace officers I ever knew was a slow talking fellow by the name of Charlie Hawthcock.

Charlie was born in Alabama and spent much of his earlier life in that state. He talked with a southern accent so thick that he could carry on conversation with the deep south Negroes exactly in their own dialect.

HE AND HIS partner, Elmer Byrd, a native Oklahoman, were unbeatable when sent on a case. They had both served for years in the law enforcement agencies in the town. Every criminal, big and small, in the community was known to them. They knew all of his little quirks, all of his relatives and friends. They knew his drinking and eating habits. They were familiar with the particular crime he most commonly committed, and, what was more to the point, they knew how he would most likely go about committing that crime.

Many times I have watched them work on a burglary case.

THEY WOULD PROWL about the scene of the crime. They would squat and look at the safe, if it was a safe job, or at the doors or drawers if there was any evidence of "jimmying."

Then Charlie would remark to Elmer:

"Sorta looks lak it might be old Jim, don't it?"

And Elmer would nod his head in agreement.

"Well," Charlie would say, "yet's yuh and me go fin' him."

In about nine times out of ten, the fellow they picked up would be the right guy.

CHARLIE, naturally, carried a pistol. The regulations required it, although Charlie personally, had little use for the gun. I never knew of a time in all of his years of law enforcement when he pulled a gun or even threatened to do so. The big pistol dangled from his hip, and I used to ask him if the gun would actually come out of the holster.

TIME WAGGED along. A small community near my town got itself all excited when a movie actor, then riding high in popularity, bought a ranch near it. The little town decided to honor this film and radio celebrity by changing the name of the town to that of the star.

He came through with a deal to originate one of his national hookup radio broadcasts from the little village. His forte was western roles, and the radio play was a cowboy-Indian deal.

THE SCRIPT CALLED for the firing of three pistol shots as the opening effect. My old pal Charlie was invited to provide this feature. He climbed up on the platform, whipped out the old revolver, pointed it skyward. At a signal from the director, he pulled the trigger. The gun clicked. Nothing happened. Charlie cocked the gun and tried again. Same result. So it was for six attempts. An alert sound man saved the day by feeding a recording of pistol shots into the network.

I SAW CHARLIE a little later, somewhat sheepishly examining his pistol. With big blunt fingers he was extracting the greenish-hued old cartridges from the cylinder.

I grinned at him. He looked at me a minute and grinned back.

"Reckon I better put me some new cartridges in here?" he asked.

"What for?" I replied. "They'd wind up as bad as these."

Charlie nodded.

"Guess you're right," he said.

He jammed the old gun back in the holster and waddled away toward his car.

Something Else Built For Two

If you saw, walking past your front yard, a figure with two heads, one trunk, three arms and four legs would you—

- (1) call the police?
- (2) call a psychiatrist?
- (3) call Alcoholics Anonymous?
- (4) or call it quits?

WELL, SIR, I probably would make the fourth choice. However, we must brace ourselves for such phenomena. Or should that read phenomena? Anyway, brace! Because I have a hunch that something called a "tweeter" is about to sweep the nation, or at least its campuses.

A tweeter, in case you don't know, is a single sweater-type garment designed for double occupancy. Literally, it is a two-in-one garment that advances the concept of togetherness into an entirely new field, that of clothing.

LET ME SEE if I can paint a picture of this garment. It has one jumbo size body and two turtle necks, one for his and one for hers. I say one for his and one for hers because obviously, the tweeter is not only an advance in togetherness but is the revival of an even earlier American concept: bundling.

All right, if that is clear, let us advance a step further and suppose a going-steady couple is about to take off for a football game or a country walk. They stand close together, the boy on the right hand of his date. In the next operation, timing is everything. They pick up the tweeter and, at a given signal, pull it on over their heads—a turtle neck for each.

HIS RIGHT ARM, naturally, goes through the starboard sleeve; just as naturally, her left arm goes through the port sleeve. This maneuver completed, she is left with a right arm unaccounted for, and he with a left in similar position. However, the tweeter provides for egress for both hands.

At approximately waist level at center-front there is a slit or hole in the tweeter through which the young couple can thrust the inside hands. Since the opening is too small to offer much opportunity for movement, and the tweeter is an awkward garment for golf, tennis, badminton, or bridge, the wearers are literally compelled to hold hands.

HAND-HOLDING may have been the object of the tweeter from the beginning, although when I was a campus type we managed that activity without the expenditure of $25 for a tweeter-built-for-two.

The tweeter is definitely a spectator-sports hug-me-tight. It takes two to tango, but not in this highbinder. (If there should ever be another flood, it would be an ideal garb for that two-by-two waltz up the gangplank into the ark.)

EVER SINCE I got my first glimpse of a tweeter a few days ago, I have been certain that its invention was as unpremeditated as Newton's encounter with the apple and gravity. Something tells me that some unsuspecting heroine, knitting her first sweater, became lost in the instructions and wound up knitting one and purling two until the yarn ran out and the tweeter was born.

What admirable ingenuity to convert a seeming disaster into a double-dip success! The Treasury could use a woman like that.

AT ALL ODDS, this will alert the nation to the double-headed sweater, worn by sloppy-time gal and her beau, as sweet a gruesome twosome as fashion is apt to produce this season.

As the television commercial says, the tweeter "doubles the pleasure, doubles the fun; doubles the date, gets two for the money." It's the ultimate in the big, economy-size package.

Capitalism Is The Thing

AIRBORNE IN LATIN AMERICA—From Washington, in November, 1961, President Kennedy's long interview with Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubel, the editor of Izvestia, seemed a fair enough statement of the American attitude. But with what dismay the traveler in Latin America now rereads one section of Mr. Kennedy's remarks! The President said:

"MR. JAGAN, who was recently elected Prime Minister in British Guiana, is a Marxist; but the United States doesn't object — because that choice was made by an honest election, which he won. If the people of any country choose to follow a Communist system in a free election, after a fair opportunity for a number of views to be presented, the United States would accept that."

Against the background of our attempt to win the Cold War in Latin America, Mr. Kennedy's statement is a heart-sinker. JFK forgot that the nature of the Communist revolution will take advantage of codes of honor which mean much to the Western World but are a mockery under the Red flag.

IN LATIN America there are hordes of ignorant, bewildered peoples who would vote for the proposition that a full belly is better than an empty belly, and that little else matters. But two of the oldest legends in all literature are about the folly of selling one's birthright for a mess of pottage, and of listening to cunning deceivers, beginning in the Garden of Eden. It is a disheartening omen for the Free World that an American President should give any encouragement at all to the Communist tempters. Free elections and helping the other fellow are only good ideas when they are backed up by good motives. It is a safe assumption that never-repeat, never-do the Cheddi Jagans or the Fidel Castros have motives any higher than those of Beelzebub. Rather than let British Guiana leave the Commonwealth and set itself up as a Communist "republic" under Jagan, the British Navy, the American Marines and the Angels of Heaven ought to intervene, without apology.

UNTIL THE anti-Communist world goes unapologetically anti-Communist, it will be hard to be optimistic about winning the Cold War in Latin America. Wherever the United States is slow to see that communism is winning over a weak or conniving but "elected" President, as has happened in the Dominican Republic, in Honduras and which might happen in Brazil, we are making a compromise with the chief Devil at large in the world today. Whenever we fail to discriminate between military dictators—some are power-grabbers but some are caretakers—we are failing in the mission of ultimate freedom.

The unblinking assertion of a policy of Capitalism—with an upper case "C"—is a crying necessity in Latin America. Capitalism with a conscience, by all means—but Capitalism, the ultimate freedom of human endeavor.

WITHOUT MAKING the bold contrast, without naming Capitalism as militant anti-Communism, there is no dialogue which permits us to converse with Latin America.

Leap Year Revives Sex For Fashions

NEW YORK (AP)—It is only sporting to warn America's 19 million bachelors that designer Bill Blass has reinstated sex appeal in women's fashions in time for leap year.

The provocative woman was the star of Blass' spring collection previewed by international socialites and fashion reporters Monday.

She is a far cry from the past season's lady of style, who has been wearing bowlers, boots, knee socks, turtle-necks and vests.

For example, there are frounces of black Chantilly lace over flesh pink, which look more like boudoir costumes than date dresses.

It would be impossible not to attract attention with vivid pastel linen jacket costumes, other bright hues as linings and still others as blouses.

Also good for stares are polka dots, especially bold yellow ones on navy silk sleeveless princess coats and turbans.

Other eye-catcher weapons are the floral prints, soft and wispy on tailored organza jacket costumes. As the show moved along, floor length dinner gowns with tantalizing slashes up the side and ball gowns with yards of fabric in the skirts relied on still bigger and bolder prints.

Mannikins undulated in silks and linen dresses bias-cut to slither across the figure. Sexy sheaths, belted at the middle exploded into curves elsewhere.

And the date-bait collection was fussy and feminine with ruffles on necklines, hemlines, cuffs, and all the way down the middle of dresses and blouses.

Seven Rescued After 21 Hours In Snow-Bound Car

EAST PORTAL, Colo. (AP)—Death brushed three women and four children before they were rescued Monday from their snowbound car in which they were trapped for 21 hours.

Help came after the children's father, Hans Farwig, 29, struggled through waist-deep snowdrifts at the start of an arduous 10-mile hike to a railroad where he stopped a passing freight train.

The trainmen radioed for help.

Farwig's station wagon stalled Sunday afternoon in snow near the summit of the 11,500-foot Corona Pass, formerly a railroad track bed. The road is not maintained in the winter.

Farwig, a Denver auto dealer, had taken the group on the 45-mile motor trip from Denver, intending to drive over the pass to Winter Park.

With him were his wife, Corina, 22, their children, Janet, 6, Sonia, 5, Yojana, 3, and James, 2. Mrs. Farwig's mother, Mrs. Mari Lopez, 58; and Rosario Pradel, 41, a family friend.

After the car stalled, the adults alternated at staying awake during the night and running the automobile's heater for short periods. Overnight temperatures were below zero.

A road grader driven by Francis Cieloha and carrying Paul Galvan, a railroad maintenance foreman, plowed within a mile of the stalled car.

Galvan trudged through the snow and led the women and children on the mile walk to waiting automobiles driven there by rescuers.

Farwig and the women and children were pronounced in good condition.

Both vacancies were created when former Mayor S. W. Wheeler and Councilman Sam Martin resigned following a Sept. 10 election. Ed Robnett, a councilman, has acted as mayor pro tem since Wheeler resigned. Three other councilmen are Jul Read, Delbert Franklin and Sam Houston.

A protest, based on alleged voting irregularities, had been filed and the ballots impounded by order of District Judge Ralph Caton. Several members of the former council resigned when an Urban Renewal project for the city brought criticism. The project was approved in a referendum when a new council was elected, but no decision has been reached on that project.

The special election will be held in the basement of the First Methodist Church. Absentee voting will begin Nov. 13, White said, and will close Nov. 30.

None File In Stanton Mayor's Race

STANTON—The City of Stanton's next mayor, to be named in a special election Dec. 3, will be elected by write-in vote. No candidate had filed for the position when the deadline fell at midnight last Saturday, City Secretary Harvey White said Monday.

Only one candidate had filed for the lone city councilman's place. He is Albert A. Johnson.

MEETING TODAY

City League To Laud News Media Reporting

HOUSTON (AP)—The Texas Municipal League was expected to adopt a resolution today lauding news media for "alertly and responsibly" reporting municipal affairs throughout the state.

A resolution to that effect was prepared Monday for presentation to the 2,300 delegates at the league's 51st annual conference.

The resolution states in part: "The league urges upon all its member cities and their officials continuation of constructive cooperation with representatives of the public information media, recognizing that the informing of the public is the basic strength from which municipal progress comes and will continue in Texas."

At the opening session, league president Robert Willis Jr., mayor of Livingston, said he saw no genuine conflict between rural and urban areas and no situations making it necessary for the state to give financial aid to cities.

Willis warned that if cities permit their budgets to be supplemented by state funds they will lose their "self reliance, self pride" and destroy their initiative and incentive.

He said Texas' city governments are the most self-sufficient in the nation but "our municipal ability to keep up with the mounting costs of local services is declining."

"One reason for that decline is the limitation imposed restricting cities in Texas to almost exclusive reliance upon property taxation."

WHAT IS ARTHRITIS?

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C.

Arthritis is essentially an inflammation of the surfaces of the joint. This inflammation involves not only the bony surfaces, but the musculature and the ligaments surrounding the joint. In many instances, this joint inflammation results from excessive stresses and strains arising from improper functioning. This is a matter of faulty body mechanism, arising from bad posture, curvature of the spine, bones out of place, and other conditions which would induce body imbalance.

Another factor that is often involved in arthritis is faulty calcium metabolism. This means the body's ability to utilize for its own purpose the natural calcium salts found in certain foods.

Recent research has demonstrated that there is definite relationship between arthritis and upset nervous system. Disturbances in the nervous system interfere with metabolism. The chiropractor, in dealing with arthritis, seeks to restore normal body balance, and normal functioning of the nervous system. By removing the pressures which clog, re-establish the body's proper calcium metabolism as well as the correct mechanical functioning of its joints. When he does so, many times symptoms of arthritis are relieved or reduced and the patient is much more comfortable.

This car dealer found out that arthritis can be helped through chiropractic. He came to this office after suffering for six weeks with a particularly bad spell. Bad enough, that he couldn't sleep and work, and could barely get around. Immediate relief was impossible but in three days he came in and danced to show how much better he felt and throughout the year he has felt better in almost all respects. No. 2069.

Call the Hansen Chiropractic Clinic and let us see if there is hope for you and let chiropractic see if you are a chiropractic case. We don't take everyone, but almost everyone we take, we help. Across from Piggly Wiggly. AM 3-3324.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

There is likely to be a great deal of telephoning this week among the women. The City Council of Parents and Teachers is very active in their legislative division and are anxious that each person eligible to vote make his way to his polling place on election day. In order to get the word to each voter various members of the numerous P-TAs take a telephone list and call.

People who have the chance to vote and don't can't say they didn't know about the issue up for decision if someone takes the time to inform them personally. All this week there will be information in the Herald concerning the matters that are to be voted on. Read about them, make up your mind and then vote.

When the Baylor Homecoming activities reached their climax at Waco Saturday with the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, there was another part of it that interested Big Spring folk. HINTS FROM HELOISE

Thermos The Thing For Coffee Saving

Dear Coffee Friend: If you are one of those who like that half-cup-o-coffee during the day but hate to keep heating and reheating that coffee pot because it makes the coffee bitter . . . try putting the leftover coffee in a Thermos bottle and capping it as soon as breakfast is over.

This will not only save time later but you can wash the coffee pot while you are doing breakfast dishes and get the kitchen clean and completed all at the same time.

Then when you need that half-cup-o-coffee, pull the stopper out of the Thermos bottle and pour you a half-cup . . . This not only saves you turning on the gas or connecting your coffee pot each time and having the coffee get stronger and stronger and more bitter, but it's ready in an instant.

Mrs. Della Anderson presided at the district meeting of the Food Handlers Association when it met in the school cafeteria this week. Fourteen members heard a talk by the district president and planned future projects. The next meeting will be at Elbow in the Forsan Junior High School.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Craig spent Friday in Lubbock. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Bailey and daughter, Kathie, were visitors in San Angelo Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Jones attended the Stanton - McCamey football game in Stanton Friday evening. Their weekend guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harley Grant and sons, Jimmy, Gary and Rickey, from McCamey.

Poppy Day Event Planned By Local Auxiliary Unit

Poppy Day was discussed Monday night during the American Legion Auxiliary session at the Legion Hut. The event is scheduled for Saturday, with members of the Junior Auxiliary and the Adult Auxiliary to participate. Headquarters will be at the Settles Hotel. Miss Judy Dunlap, junior sergeant at arms, is named as the Poppy Girl. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foy Dunlap.

This annual event is the auxiliary's way of raising money for rehabilitation and child welfare programs of the unit and the Department of Texas.

Also discussed was the gift shop for the VA Hospital. The shop will be set up Dec. 8-11, and all members are urged to help at this time.

This coffee will keep hot for hours and hours. If you have no vacuum bottle, it might pay to buy a small one.

We have had bachelors write that after preparing breakfast now, they pour the leftover coffee in a Thermos and when they come home from work they just unplug the stopper and have a wonderful cup-o-coffee instantly.

Really a great idea for those of you who are coffee friends.

Dear Heloise: It finally dawned on me that I could brush our bed springs with liquid floor wax and eliminate the squeaks. Paste wax will do the same thing and probably allows for a much better job, but I didn't have any.

I suggest that women dip a rag in any paste-type wax and run this around all the metal parts where metal scratches against metal, or metal against wood.—Vera N.

Dear Heloise: When I buy a pound of bacon, I heat my oven at 350 degrees and while the oven is pre-heating I spread the bacon on a wire cake rack — just barely overlapping each strip of bacon.

I bake this until most of the grease has baked out. Then I set the wire rack with the bacon on a large platter or pan until cool.

When cool, I divide the bacon and lay it on sheets of waxed paper and put it back in the refrigerator. It will keep a week or so (if your refrigerator is properly regulated) and never get "tacky" when reheated.

Instead of fatty pieces of bacon, which usually pucker, most of the grease will be gone. This is especially good for those who are on diets.—I.P.B.

Dear Heloise: When having company to dinner and you want baked canned corn in a hurry . . . I take a little saucepan and heat the can of creamed corn on top of the stove.

I then take a glass casserole dish and put a dab of butter right in the center of the dish. I do not bother spreading the butter around the casserole.

When the corn has heated in the little saucepan, I pour this on top of the butter in the dish thereby allowing the butter to spread around the casserole, saving a greasy messy job.

Place this casserole in your oven and let it bake along with your biscuits and roast (or whatever you may have for dinner that night). This can also be varied by sprinkling the top with breadcrumbs or some type of cereal.

Corn, peas, string beans, etc., can be done the same way. I always put a little butter on the top of any casserole dish before baking. The purpose is to save time! — Miss Bean Cruise

Push Slated For Bill To End Cotton's Two-Price System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of a bill that would eliminate the two-price system for cotton by providing a domestic subsidy will try to put the measure through the House in about two weeks.

Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., chairman of a House agriculture subcommittee, said today the bill probably will be called up for House debate about Nov. 19.

Meanwhile, he said, cotton state representatives favoring the bill are seeking to line up support.

Gathings conceded that the bill, opposed by many Republicans, some urban Democrats and the Farm Bureau, faces rough going.

The bill would make cotton mills at world prices, about 8½ cents a pound below the domestic market. This would be done through a payment, in cotton, amounting to 8½ cents.

In the complex cotton situation, growers received a supported price of 32.47 cents a pound. This means that the grower sells cotton commercially if the price is above 32.47 cents a pound. If the price is below that figure he sells to the government.

This, in turn, puts U. S. cotton higher than world prices. In order to move the cotton in world trade the government pays an export subsidy of 8½ cents a pound.

Domestic mills say they cannot continue to compete with foreign mills under the price differential and ask some sort of equalizer. Without one, they contend, they cannot continue to purchase cotton and will turn to use of more synthetic fibers.

Opponents of the bill take the position that the domestic payment would amount to a third subsidy. They argue that the solution to the problem lies in reducing the price of cotton by lowering the support price.

The bill to be considered by the House provides for such a reduction — from 32.47 cents a pound this year to 30 cents in 1964, 29½ cents in 1965 and 29 cents in 1966.

Hard Rains Hit Southern Texas

Blinding rains struck in South Central to Southeast Texas and along the upper Texas coast during the night and early Tuesday. One storm was blamed for a highway crash killing four persons.

Houston measured 2.23 inches of rain in downpours which tapered off before dawn after a brilliant electrical display. For a time traffic was slowed to a crawl.

Hail was mixed with rain falling Monday night as two cars collided near the west edge of College Station. The crash killed four dining hall employees at Texas A&M University—Bobby L. Dalby, 20, of College Station; Larry Rathjen, 17, of Lyons; Charles J. Phillip, 17, of Caldwell; and Camella Castoria, 16, of Bryan.

College Station and Bryan measured 1.04 inches of moisture.

There were still a few showers along the coast, forecasts called for no further moisture anywhere in the state through Wednesday. Somewhat lower temperatures were predicted Tuesday night in North Central and Northeast Texas.

Top marks Monday ranged from 87 degrees at Fort Worth down to 71 at El Paso.

Visiting Dignitary

Mrs. Allyn Bradbury, Houston, state department president of the Texas Auxiliary to Veterans of World War I, second from right, stopped in Big Spring this morning to confer with officers of the local WWI Auxiliary. Welcoming her is Dr. H. C. Ernsting, chief of staff of the Big Spring VA Hospital. Mrs. Bradbury visited the hospital to tour the facility and discuss volunteer work. At left are Mrs. Fred Eaker, VA Voluntary Services alternate representative for the local WWI Auxiliary, and Mrs. T. J. Walker, president.

Buddy Poppy Sale Slated

Buddy Poppies go on sale Saturday as the American Legion Auxiliary continues a custom begun following World War I. Members of the Junior Auxiliary will go on duty at 7 a. m. in the downtown area and work around the city. They will work until 6 p. m. The project has a tri-fold purpose, according to Mrs. Leonard Barlow, chairman. Wearing Buddy Poppies started as an honor to the American servicemen who did not return from the flower-covered battlefields of France. The modern version of the tribute has been extended to include the memory of the American Veterans of all wars and is traditionally held on Veterans Day, Nov. 11. Disabled veterans in VA hospitals benefit from the Buddy Poppy sales. They make the paper replicas of the Flanders Field Flowers and sell them to various American Legion Auxiliaries throughout the world. All funds from the sale are used by the Auxiliaries in rehabilitation programs for veterans. The Big Spring unit will use proceeds to provide patients at the local VA Hospital with presents at Christmas and to gift-wrap and mail the packages. Although usually called a Poppy Day Sale, the annual program is not a sale. Donations from dimes to dollars are accepted, but the Auxiliary wishes everyone to wear poppies and to recognize the day in tribute to the war dead. Poppies are furnished whether or not a donation is made. The first donation this year will be sold by Poppy Girl Judy Dunlap, Junior Auxiliary sergeant at arms, to her father, Foy Dunlap, Headquarters of the drive will be the Settles Hotel. Co-chairman is Mrs. Foy Dunlap. Big Spring Mayor George Zachariah has joined in the effort to make the drive a success, urging all citizens to wear a poppy. Zachariah is past-commander of the American Legion Post.

Two Burned In Explosion

Two men were burned, one seriously, at 10 a. m. today when an asphalt pot being used to re-roof a silo at the Cabot Carbon plant exploded. The pot and the men were atop one of the 250-foot silos at the plant. Both were employees of the West Texas Roofing Co. Most painfully hurt is Billy Barnhill, 36, Stanton. He suffered extensive burns about his face, hands and arms. He is in Medical Arts Clinic - Hospital where doctors said his condition is satisfactory. They added that he was gravely burned, however, and that his recovery from the burns would be slow. His eyes, the surgeons said, were not injured. Also in the hospital but expected to be released later today was Otis Riffey, another West Texas worker. He was not as near to the exploding pot as his companion. Only Barnhill and Riffey were on top of the silo at the time of the blast. River Welch Ambulance brought Barnhill to the hospital.

Two Injured In Accident

The wife of a Webb AFB airman and a youth were injured in a two-car collision about 3:20 p. m. Monday at Nineteenth and Johnson, according to police. Gaylon Calvin Knowlton, 2504 Carlton Drive, was taken to Cowper Clinic and Hospital for treatment of scratches and bruises. Doctors said he was released later. Mrs. Ronald Ernest Garner was treated and released at the base hospital. She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband. Some $400 damage resulted when an H. G. Counts and Co. truck driven by Booker T. Mackey Jr., Midland, crashed into a traffic signal in front of the Ellis Homes on Airport Road about 3:50 p. m. Monday. Mrs. W. O. McMeans, wife of the manager of the homes, said the top of a trailer being hauled by the truck hit the traffic signal.

Local Man Not Involved In Case

The Clyde Huff who pleaded guilty in 118th District Court Monday to a charge of DWI second offense is not the Clyde Huff who lives at 508 Sunset Boulevard. The man who pleaded guilty is a resident of Atoka, it was explained. The Big Spring Clyde Huff, a civil service employee at Webb AFB, has no connection with the Atoka resident. The local man said he had been subjected to some embarrassment by the coincidental names and wants it understood he has no connection with the case or the defendant named in the complaint. Mrs. Petty said all ballots and supplies for Saturday's election are ready at her office. She asked that the precinct election judges pick up their boxes as soon as possible. The polls open at 8 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m. There are no other issues on the ballot than the four proposed amendments. Voting will be conducted in all of the county's 16 regular voting boxes.

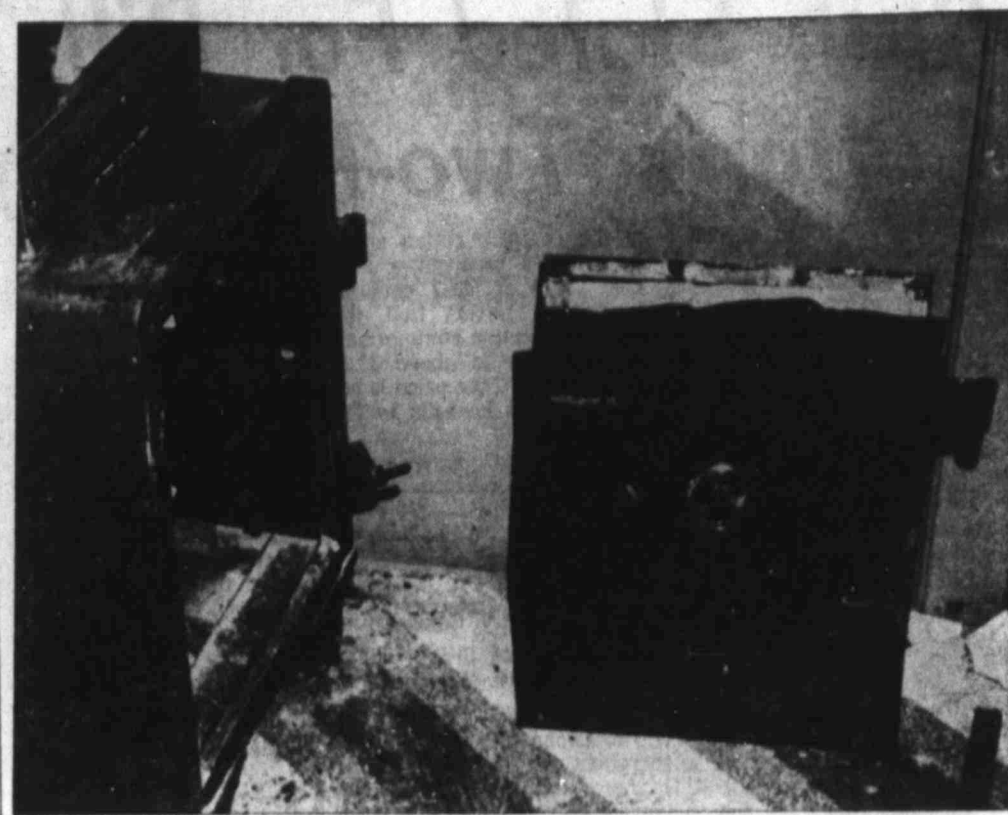

Marlin Resigns Little Theatre Presidency

Capt. James W. Marlin, president of the Little Theatre since May, resigned Monday night at a regular meeting of the group. Art Clonts, former president and currently a member of the board of directors, was chosen interim presiding officer until a new president can be selected next May. "I will still work with the group whenever I can," Capt. Marlin said. "However, because of other duties I will not have the time to give the theatre the attention it needs. Capt. Marlin has been with the group for more than three years. He first directed "Warrior's Husband" in 1960 and has directed two other productions, as well as acting in one other. Roles were firm up for "My Three Angels," which is slated for showing Dec. 6-7. This Christmas comedy is the tale of three convicts in a French Guiana penal colony who are assigned to work in the home of an amiable shopkeeper. They find that their host and his daughter are about to be victimized by a pair of scoundrels, so they proceed to see that justice is done. Cast as the three angels are Tony Gardina, Jerry Kasher and Daniel Kester. Kenneth Burt and Sandra Storz will play the parts of Mr. and Mrs. Ducotel, the intended victims, and Sally Carr is their daughter. Others are Evelyn Pfeil as Madame Parole, Donald Kusel as Paul, fiance of Miss Ducotel, Jay Laurer and Earnest Lee. Representatives of the Little Theatre group will meet with members of the cultural affairs committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p. m., Nov. 18 to coordinate efforts to boost the Little Theatre.

Santa Claus Is Coming To Big Spring Dec. 6

The Christmas shopping season in Big Spring will be officially opened Nov. 29, Christmas lights in the downtown area come on Nov. 25, and Santa Claus will arrive Dec. 6. These dates were agreed upon at the meeting of the retail committee of the Chamber of Commerce this morning. Store hours will be left to the individual businesses. The downtown area will be decorated with the same kind of ornaments and lights as last year. Bids were to be opened and considered at the Chamber of Commerce office at 1:30 p. m. today, and the committee voted to let the contract, for installing the lights, to the lowest bidder. Three bids are expected. The First Christian Church will install a Nativity scene on the courthouse lawn as it did last year, and a home lighting contest will be sponsored, with prizes being awarded by Texas Electric Service Co. The group asked that the county commissioners court be contacted to discuss lighting the courthouse. Tally Electric has agreed to provide strings of lights, with five colors of bulbs spaced two feet apart, and to install them on building outlines for all business houses wanting them. They will be connected to outlets at each business. All businessmen were requested to call Tally Electric and some have already made these arrangements.

Absentee Vote Reaches 37

Thirty-seven voters had cast absentee votes at 11 a. m. today in Saturday's election, Pauline Petty, County Court Clerk, announced. Deadline for such balloting expires at 5 p. m. today. This is one of the lightest absentee votes cast in a state election in a long time, Mrs. Petty said. The election Saturday is to approve or reject four amendments to the state Constitution. One of the amendments, which has created the most discussion over the state, is a proposal to abolish the constitutional stipulation that to vote in a Texas election, the elector must have paid his poll tax. Mrs. Petty said all ballots and supplies for Saturday's election are ready at her office. She asked that the precinct election judges pick up their boxes as soon as possible. The polls open at 8 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m. There are no other issues on the ballot than the four proposed amendments. Voting will be conducted in all of the county's 16 regular voting boxes.

New Auto Show Set Saturday

A complete showing of all the 1964 model automobiles is scheduled for Saturday, in a joint presentation of the First National Bank and the city's franchised new-car dealers. An array of the newest in automotive transportation will be set forth on the First National's parking lot at Fifth and Main, from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Saturday. Ten dealers are participating, each with several models. Added attraction of the auto show will be free registration for a $700 console color television set, and all visitors at the show are invited to sign. It is not necessary to be present at the drawing to win the set. New cars are to be shown by the following dealers: Jones Motor, Gilliland Motor, McEwen Motor, Pollard Chevrolet, Shasta Ford, Truman Jones Motor, Shroyer Motor, McDonald Motor, King Pontiac and Western Car Co. The cultural affairs committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, meeting Monday night, voted to support and lend help to the Civic Theatre group in completing the Prairie Playhouse in city park. They will meet with directors of the theatre group at the building at 7:30 p. m. Nov. 18 to coordinate efforts to boost the Little Theatre. The building needs heating, air conditioning, and some interior finishing to make it fit for use as an all-year playhouse.

Mr. Rankin, a Spanish-American War veteran, has been retired for the past dozen years. Services will be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday at the Nalley-Pickle Chapel with Dr. H. Clyde Smith, his pastor at First Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park. Born in Jefferson City, Tenn., Aug. 26, 1882, Mr. Rankin lived in Eastland before coming to Big Spring in 1913. The family home had been at 204 Nolan Street most of the time since then. For a time, he engaged in farming, but when a natural gas company was formed in the late 1920's to serve Big Spring, he went to work for it, continuing with its successor, Empire Southern Gas, until his retirement in 1947. Mr. Rankin was a member of the First Methodist Church. For the past two years he had been in failing health. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Martha Rankin; two sons, Wesley X. Line, Fort Worth, and D. W. Rankin Jr., Big Spring; three daughters, Mrs. Hazel Tucker and Mrs. Nell Rose Cooper, Austin, and Mrs. Florence Canova, Amarillo. He also leaves eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

First Trial Begins In District Court

Pablo Ramirez Jr., charged with DWI second offense, went on trial in 118th District Court Tuesday morning. A jury was selected and seated in the box at 10:45 a. m. Presentation of evidence began immediately afterwards. His is the first case to be tried at this week's docket. Tommy Jack Simmons, charged with DWI second, who had been slated to go to trial as No. 2 case on the docket, elected to plead guilty Tuesday. He was sentenced to serve one year imprisonment in county jail, probation, and pay a fine of $250. He was given nine months in which to pay the fine. The Ramirez case is expected to be completed today. Grave difficulty arose Monday afternoon in getting enough jurors on hand for the needs of the court. Of the 102 member panel drawn from the wheel and notified to report, only 35 showed up for duty. By the time excuses and legal claims for non-service had been handled, the panel had shrunk to 28. The minimum number of panel members for criminal court to function is 32. Because of the tangled character of the jury wheel law the court had difficulty in determining just how the depleted panel could be expanded. Finally, it was ordered that 20 additional names be drawn from the wheel as talesmen.

Yeggs Get $199 From Gound's Safe

Wayne Gound, owner of Gound Pharmacy, 800 Main, received an unpleasant surprise on his 31st wedding anniversary today. Arriving at work about 8:30 a. m., he discovered yeggs had forced open a company safe and stolen $199.50 in cash. Investigating officers said the safe job probably was the work of amateurs. Lt. R. H. Bronson, police detective, said a hammer and chisel apparently was used to break into the safe. "They used more brute strength than technique," he said. A plate on the front of the safe had been chiseled away from the lock. Entry was gained through a vent in the ceiling of a back room. Police said the burglars used a ladder to get on top of the first level of the roof. "They pulled the ladder up behind them and used it to reach the second level," said Sgt. Robert Husson. The ladder was recovered. The burglars reached the inside of the building by sliding down a rope through a hole in a vent on the south side of the building. The rope also was recovered. The firm was being checked for fingerprints Tuesday morning. The last safe burglary in Big Spring occurred in March at the Hull and Phillips grocery store, Ninth and Scurry, when someone made off with about $2,000.

Darrell Royal Frets Over Lack Or Punch

Coach John Bridgers of Baylor doesn't quite agree with that analysis. He thinks the Longhorns are going to have to do some scoring in the last half if they expect to hold their rating. Also, Royal didn't think his team's defense was quite so hot Saturday when Southern Meth-

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: JOHNNY NICHOLS, Rice University guard: "SMU hit harder than Texas. But then SMU hit harder than any team we've faced. They're so little and quick, you know. One of these days, Hayden Fry's going to have some fine teams at SMU."

JOE NEWBILL, Midland Lee coach, when asked if Albert Fierro needs a lot of time and protection to uncork long passes: "In the film we had of the Odessa game, Fierro takes the ball from center with one hand and as he turns he's wetting his fingers of his throwing hand. We figured the pass covered 61 yards from the point it was thrown and the man for whom it was intended (Tommy Erhardt) knocked himself out in diving for the ball. But when they brought the stretcher out to cart him off the field, he still had the ball in his grasp for a complete."

HARRY STUHLREHER, one of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen: "Texas is a powerful team and a balanced team but lacks the one single outstanding game breaker who can go all the way. . . . Pittsburgh is playing the same style football as always under coach John Michelson, in spite of what you might have heard concerning 'wide open' changes 'ordered' by Chancellor Litchfield. The change at Pittsburgh has been brought about by the new sophomore quarterback, Fred Mazurel. . . . Navy is one of the country's finest, smartest teams. That's in a big measure due to quarterback Roger Staubach, one of the greatest I ever saw operate."

BUD SHRAKE, Dallas News scribe: "Ford Frick, puppet of the majors, says 3,387,427 boys played in organized, uniformed amateur baseball programs this past summer. That's nearly 7,000,000 parents who skipped the professional games."

HERB CAEN, San Francisco columnist: "Cleveland's Jimmy Brown, the greatest player in pro football today, was passed over as a draft choice by the San Francisco 49ers several seasons ago. Instead, they picked the never-to-be-forgotten what's-his-name."

JOHN BRIDGERS, Baylor football coach: "A damp field doesn't hurt a passing team at all. I'm sure of that. The receiver knows where he's going. It's the defensive man that the wet field hurts. Besides, did you ever see a passer wet his fingers before throwing? Well, with a wet ball there's no need. The only kind of rain that hurts is the drenching type during the game itself."

CASEY STENDEL, summing up Yogi Berra on one occasion: "That fella who hits the ball where nobody can catch it is a very bad early-inning hitter. He's kind of careless, sort of forgets to start the game with the first inning. He's out there saying hello to this guy and that guy and pretty soon you get to wondering if this is a baseball game or an American Legion convention. Oh, he's a very scorable fella all right. But sometimes he acts like home plate is his living room."

HANK FOLDBERG, Texas A&M coach, on why Baylor's Bears are better than they were a year ago: "It's their defense rather than their passing. They threw just as well last year, but now they're taking the ball away from people."

Elliotts Will Meet In Gridiron Wars

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The Pete Elliott residence is a white house with a red walk on Green Street.

A frequent visitor is 70-year-old Mrs. Alice Elliott, who lives in Bloomington, 50 miles away. She is the mother of Pete, football coach of Illinois, and also of Bump, football coach at Michigan. The sons — Bump at 28 is a year older — are the only head football coaching brothers in Big Ten history.

Their teams meet here Saturday. Illinois is unbeaten but once tied, sharing the Big Ten lead with Ohio State and Michigan State with a 3-0 record. Illinois is 1-2-1, its first conference victory coming as a 27-4 stunner over Northwestern last Saturday while Illinois was smashing Purdue 41-21.

"I'm not going to attend the game, says Mrs. Elliott. "I just couldn't win either way. "I don't think they'll play a tie, although that would solve my feelings. Some one will have to lose. I'll feel sorry for him. And I'll feel happy for the winner."

"I don't want to be there to show my emotions, I'll listen to it on my radio at home in Bloomington."

The trim, sparkling Mrs. Elliott has seen the other three games between Pete's Illinois and Bump's Wolverines. Pete has lost all of them — 6-7 in 1960, 38-4 in 1961 and 14-10 last year. The 1962 victory was the only one for Bump's Wolverines in Big Ten competition that season.

"All I can say about this one is that it's another tough, important game for the Illini," says Pete, who knows a defeat would jolt chances of a title and Rose Bowl trip.

The coaches' father, Dr. Norman Elliott, died four years ago. He was an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist and also coached football at Illinois Wesleyan in Bloomington. He once served as line coach at North-western.

Clay, Liston May Tangle In February

DENVER (AP) — Loud-mouthed Cassius Clay and silent Sonny Liston, the champ, confront each other in a hotel room today to sign a contract for their long-rumored world's heavy-weight championship fight.

Most guessers predicted the two Negroes will fight 15 rounds in Los Angeles next February. The details will be announced at the contract signing scheduled for 4 p. m. EST.

Talkative Cassius blew into town Monday night in his private bus festooned with signs proclaiming: "I'm the greatest" and "Cassius Clay, next heavy-weight champion."

The Louisville, Ky., lip spouted his customary kind words for Liston. "He's too ugly to be world's champion," Clay told reporters. "I'm pretty as a girl."

Liston, dressed like a dude from London's Bond Street, turned up at the Denver airport to meet former champion Joe Louis and his wife, Martha, who planned in from California. Mrs. Louis is a lawyer for Liston, who makes his home in Denver. "I came along just for a free ride," Louis said.

Liston, resplendent in an executive-style gray suit, smart black hat and gold-handled swagger stick, was accompanied by his wife, Geraldine.

Louis predicted Clay would last longer against Liston's sledge hammer fists than Floyd Patterson who lost the title to Liston in the first round at Chicago and absorbed another first round knockout in the rematch at Las Vegas, Nev., last July 22. Liston's record is 35 victories, one loss, no draws and 25 knockouts.

"Clay has a better defensive style and moves better," Louis said. "I don't think he can beat Sonny, but any time two big men meet in the ring anything can happen."

Liston, in a rare mood at the airport, joked with reporters about Clay and said he was prepared "to go 30 rounds — 15 running after him and 15 fighting him."

McCamey last Friday. Johnson was chosen for his defensive efforts and his leadership. He is a 163-pound senior. Thompson, a 155-pound senior who stands 5-11, copped the honor for the second straight week. He is a tower of strength in the Stanton line.

BACK — A 195-pound fullback named Mike Hall gains the distinction this week. "He's our bread and butter man," his coach, Bill Milam, says. "He'll make us a fine fullback next year."

COAHOMA LINEMAN — Teddy Merrick, 142-pound sophomore left guard, was singled out for the manner in which he carried out his blocking assignments. "He just blocked his man all over the field all night," his coach, Jimmy Spann, said. He played on offense only. It was Teddy's first game as a starter.

BACK — Eddie McHugh, great on defense and equally impressive on offense, again is recipient of the honor this week. Eddie was one of the heroes in Coahoma's upset victory over Rotan. He was especially hard to bring down when he had the ball.

SANDS LINEMAN — For his splendid blocking in the New Home game, sophomore right tackle Mike Gregg earns the honor this week. Time after time, Mike opened holes in the New Home line for Mustang backs. He also made six tackles on defense. Since the middle of the season, he has come on strong to earn a spot in the Sands lineup as a regular.

BACK — Fullback Don Boyd, a 167-pound senior, carried the ball 20 times for a total of 67 yards. He gained most of his yardage over Gregg's position. It was his best effort of the year. On defense, he made eight tackles. The only senior on the starting lineup, Boyd is playing his first year of football.

GARDEN CITY PLAYER OF THE WEEK — Dennis Seidenberger and Riley Chandler share the honor this week. Coach Jack Woodley says it would be impossible to choose between them. Against Imperial, Seidenberger carried the ball nine times for a total of 136 yards and scored touchdowns on runs of 35, 72 and 18 yards. He also made 11 tackles. Chandler, feared lost three weeks ago, caught two touchdowns passes, one on a run of 20 yards and the other for five. He also ran one over from 40 yards out and blocked two punts, got three key blocks that helped spring Garden City ball carriers loose for long runs and made four tackles. "Both were great," Woodley said of Seidenberger and Chandler.

FORSAN No Forsan player was selected this week, on the suggestion of coach Oscar Boeker, although the Buffaloes were impressive in a signal victory over Grand-falls-Imperial. "I don't believe we would be doing justice if we named any one boy," Boeker said. "They all played real well." It was Boeker's way of paying tribute to a great team effort.

BIG SPRING LINEMAN — Tim Smith, who scored the first touchdown of his varsity career after intercepting a pass in midfield, was named for his outstanding all-around performance against Midland. His run for the end-zones was classical — he fought and scrambled all the way to get there. Had he been stopped, Big Spring wouldn't have gotten its second TD, since time had already elapsed in the period when he crossed the double stripes. Smith was also outstanding on defense for the Steers and consistently led the local team's fine blocking.

BACK — For his tremendous job as middle linebacker, his 55-yard quick kick and his ability to pick up the first down on a fourth-down situation, Dick Irons gets the nod for the second time this season. He played far and away his best game of the season, his coaches conceded. "He kept us from being run out of the stadium," was the way one coach put it.

Texas Retains Lead In Polls

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer Unbeaten, untied Texas is maintaining its tight grip as the nation's No. 1 college football team despite fears by Coach Darrell Royal that the Longhorns may be battling "a complex about those zeroes in the second half."

Texas again drew an overwhelming vote Monday for the top spot in The Associated Press weekly poll, but Royal appeared apprehensive as he spoke in Austin, Tex., about Saturday's game against Baylor, tied with the Longhorns for the Southwest Conference lead.

As for the complex Royal mentioned, it's the fact that Texas has failed to score in the second half in their last three games — won by a total of only 13 points.

Despite the squeakers, Texas gained 45 of the 53 first-place votes of a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters for 502 points. Illinois was second with 425 points. The Longhorns defeated SMU 17-12 last Saturday while the Illini crushed Purdue 41-21.

The only major change in the Top Ten was Michigan State's arrival on the scene in the No. 9 spot after a 30-13 walloping of Wisconsin. The Badgers, who had been ranked eighth, dropped from the list.

Mississippi held third, with Navy fourth and Auburn, the only other unbeaten, untied team on the list, in fifth place. Oklahoma was sixth followed by Alabama, Pittsburgh, Michigan State and Ohio State.

The top ten teams with first-place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

Ford Launches Intensive Trailer Tie-In Program

DETROIT, Mich (AP)—Ford Motor Co., taking note of the rapidly increasing popularity of outdoor living, has launched an intensive campaign to tie its car sales in with the auto trailer industry.

The 400 U.S. firms which make auto trailers, ranging from small, inexpensive rigs to those costing thousands of dollars, were guests of Ford last week. The auto trailer makers showed newsmen more than 40 models, ranging from 15 to 28 feet in length. The trailers shown were of the vacation or weekend type, rather than the longer, permanent-type trailer homes which dot many areas across the country.

Herbert L. Misch, a Ford vice president, described the travel trailer and camper show, held at the Ford test track in suburban Dearborn, as the first major attention given to the trailer industry by an auto manufacturer.

Ford said some 195 million people were registered at national and state park camping facilities in 1962. Many of them were repeat visitors who were registered at several different camps during the year. This was more than double the number in 1956. Ford said its survey showed the biggest percentage of 1962 campers used auto trailers for their vacations.

compared with only 3,000 in 1955 and the number is growing daily," Misch said.

Misch emphasized Ford has no plans to enter the trailer market.

"We want to work with the men who sell the trailer equipment. We want to do all that we can to make certain that a man who buys a car, intending that it should be used to haul a trailer, will get the best possible vehicle for the job," Misch said.

He explained that many people who go to their dealers to buy a car for trailer pulling, give the salesman no inkling of what they intend to do with the car. As a result, he said, in some cases they are sold a car which is not quite suited to the pulling job.

GROWING
"We have over 10,000 camp grounds in this country today."

Survey Reveals Modern Organizing For Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The commercial farmer in a generation has adopted some folkways of the organization man and the bureaucrat.

"Bookkeeping has been transferred from his pants pocket to a desk. He keeps informed by infinite commodity publications and reports. His calendar is filled with notices of meetings, field days, committees, and appointments with income tax advisers and credit managers."

"He has trouble keeping up with market reports, weather predictions, spray schedules, and breeding charts, but he knows he must. All of this has to be blended with increased organization in the community. Religious, educational and civic groups beckon him toward both membership and leadership responsibility."

These words are among the 300,000 used by the Agriculture Department's 1963 Yearbook of Agriculture—entitled "A Place to Live"—to tell of a multitude of changes which technology has brought to rural America.

Prof. Roy Buck of Pennsylvania, a contributor, wrote: "Modern science, technology, and educational practices are replacing fate, faith, magic and nerve as approaches to human risk."

"Insecticides, herbicides, contour farming, old-age pensions, credit agencies, hay dryers, tranquilizers, and zoning commissions are everyday necessities."

Among the changes, Buck said, has been rural abandonment of folk arts and crafts for products of the machine. But, he said, there has developed, in recent years, a re-birth of interest in these lost arts on the part of urban and suburban white-collar workers eager "to recapture the way of life they so willingly gave up."

DAILY GUIDE — Although things seem to go along smoother today, especially for the Cancerians, Scorpions and Pisceans take it as a short-term deal.

getting things through that can be done promptly. Remember that there is a strong accent all week on communications and travel, and most of the influence spells confusion, upsets and disappointment. Include the weather in general, as some unusual storms seem indicated in sensitive areas. Travel is not favored.

Today Cancerians have the best chance to go ahead. Scorpions may be making announcements or be ready to reveal plans and ideas. Taurians need to be very wary in personal relationships. Leos in domestic matters, and Aquarians in career and personal ambitions and health; this applies all during this week.

Tomorrow keep alert, as mistakes can be made, things can go wrong, and a generally frustrating influence can fog up the picture and bring confusion. Keep travel to a minimum, and better not talk out of turn.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, SCORPIO! Are you right in your element now? Which way things go will depend on what you did in the past, whether you were discreet or used your talents wisely. This is the time when your ideas will be tested. In the coming months expect some further difficulties at home base or in domestic ties. Later, friends, loved ones and social ties will support you, but might cause you to have to revalue new friends or groups which have come into your life lately. In the late spring you can count on excellent cooperation and a cordial public. It will be a good time for marriage, marital matters, partnerships and all alliances, especially in June and December.

Attend Regional Abilene Rally

Nine Coahoma youths and their sponsors, from the Coahoma Baptist Church, attended the Regional Texas Baptist Royalty Ambassador Rally at Hardin-Simmons University Saturday in Abilene.

After touring the University campus, the visitors heard a message by James Short, missionary to Mexico. Another program feature was a swap shop, where the boys swapped such items as stamps, rocks, butterfly collections, etc.

The evening activity was attendance at the football game between Hardin-Simmons and McMurry College.
