A Liking For Water

These two ducks have a natural liking for water and waded into Sixth Street Monday evening to enjoy the sudden showers. Linzy Riggs, 1207 E. 6th, braved the rain to take them back home. He didn't begrudge his pets a nice swim, but he didn't trust the traffic on the street, so suddenly turned into a river.

Record Rain Soaks In Across County

Slow falling rains which continued intermittently throughout Monday night and on into Tuesday morning left the dusty countryside saturated and provided the county with the most moisture since June 20.

The rains were general from one edge of the county to the other. Although some sections fared more generously than others, the average was better than an inch. Big Spring probably received less rain than the rural areas but the average in town was close to an inch.

HEAVIEST
Heaviest rainfall was in the Vincent area in the northeast corner of the county. Gauges in that area showed as much as 2.50 inches. Coahoma had 1.70 and Moss Creek Lake reported the same amount.

Officially, the U. S. Experiment Station gauge here tallied .90 to bring the year's total rain in Big Spring to 13.20 inches.

Herb Helbig, county farm agent, said that in general the rains were helpful. The only problem they pose hinges on what kind of weather follows. If the skies continue cloudy and overcast and the high humidity holds for several days, cotton still in the fields will begin to stain. The spotting will cost the farmers money in that the grade will be hurt. However, if the rain is followed by clear skies and sunshine, the probability of spotting will diminish rapidly.

The rain was so slow that no serious washing developed.

ture, the rain will do much to clear away dust and make the grass more palatable for stock. Not enough rain fell to create any runoff so no stock water developed. However, ranchers point out that the rains will do much to boost early production of weeds. Early weed crops are highly beneficial to stock feeders.

Helbig said that another benefit from the rain is that it will make it possible for farmers who have already harvested their cotton to begin fall plowing. The prolonged drought—the total rain in October was only 10 inches—has kept plowing from getting under way. The general rains of an inch, the county agent said, will make it possible for the fields to be put in shape.

"What we really need now on the heels of this rain," said the county agent, "would be a good-

Let Chips Fall, Case Asks In Baker Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clifford P. Case urged the Senate Rules Committee today to "let the chips fall where they may" in its investigation of Robert G. Baker's wheeling and dealing.

The New Jersey Republican said public confidence in the integrity of Congress may hit a new low as a result of Baker's resignation under fire as secretary to Senate Democratic majority and subsequent developments which Case said reflect on Congress as an institution.

FOLLOW UP

"The good name of the Senate is at stake," Case said in a prepared Senate speech in which he called on the committee to follow up all aspects of the case "no matter where they lead."

Case's urging for a complete investigation came a day after Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana disclosed that Senate employees who received their jobs through the Democratic majority now are required to list their assets and sources of income.

The regulation does not apply to senators. But Mansfield said he personally would favor such a disclosure by senators.

LEGISLATION

Case reported that the Rules Committee had rejected his suggestion to expand the Baker probe to include legislation that would require members of Congress, top federal officials and high-level staff personnel in both the executive and legislative branches to make public their sources of income.

Baker resigned his Senate job last month after it was alleged in a "civil suit" that he used his position to help a vending machine firm get contracts with firms doing defense work for the government.

Since then there has been a raft of disclosures and whispers about Baker's tangled affairs, including dealings in real estate and stocks.

The investigation is potentially explosive due to the possibility his alleged conflict of interest may involve senators or others in government.

Defendants Win Tom Slick Suit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Defendants in a $15.2 million suit against the estate of Tom Slick have won an instructed verdict from Dist. Judge Eugene Williams.

Williams told the jury Monday to deny damages sought by the Atomic Fuel Extraction Corp.

Atomic Fuel sued the oilman's estate and two firms Slick controlled. The corporation said the money would be damages for the breach of an oral contract with Slick.

The rains dropped the temperature to topcast levels. The low last night at the U. S. Experiment Station was a chilly 45 and the forecast for tonight is that it will be as cool or perhaps a little colder. The high Monday was 60 degrees.

The cloudy skies, the forecast says, will continue through today and on into tomorrow but it will be a little warmer, Wednesday. No additional rains are foreseen.

The rainfall last night was a record for the date at the sta-

COURT CAN'T LOCATE DOG SENTENCED TO DIE

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Ricky, the German shepherd whose death sentence for sheep killing has been appealed all the way to the U. S. Supreme Court, no longer belongs to Jim Laing of Pearisburg, Va.

Papers filed Monday by Laing's attorney said "Laing does not own the dog anymore and therefore cannot produce it" for execution.

Laing is appealing a $1,000 fine and four-month jail sentence for failure to produce the dog to be killed. Records of Giles County Circuit Court revealed Monday that Ricky is the property of Harold Williams of Pembroke.

Ricky was convicted of killing a sheep but Laing has maintained that Ricky was only standing guard over the dead animal as he had been trained to do.

President Seeking To Patch Business Chasms

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Tampa was a tipoff that he remains sensitive to the business community's lingering suspicion and hostility which erupted from a relationship that was never too cozy from the start.

Before a business audience Monday Kennedy sounded a peace and prosperity theme that will be heard often before election day, 1964 — peace between the administration and business, prosperity for all.

Kennedy has done much to calm the tempest stirred in April 1962 between the White House and Wall Street, his advisers believe. He has enlisted the support of blue-ribbon industry leadership in his drives for civil rights, tax cuts, tariff reduction and export expansion.

NEVER COZY

Kennedy Speaks On Florida Whirl

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy settled back into his workaday routine today, but only temporarily, after a hectic Florida trip capped by an appeal to the Cuban people to overthrow the Castro regime.

Kennedy, who will be taking off again Thursday on an equal-opportunity Texas trip, promised Monday night that Americans will fight to block any future Communist takeover in the hemisphere.

And the President said the United States is ready to help Cubans establish a progressive government without fear of a return to the economic and political system of the old Batista dictatorship.

Kennedy's significant foreign policy address climaxed a five-day speech tour of Tampa and Miami.

ITINERARY
The President's whirlwind schedule was reminiscent of the itinerary for a political campaign. He will spend three days touring the major cities of Texas.

In White House parlance, Kennedy's trips to Florida and Texas, the South's two most populous states, must be classed as "nonpolitical." However, few observers doubted that the mounting tempo of presidential travel was anything but a warmup for the 1964 election campaign.

During his day in Florida, Kennedy chose his audiences with care: a general public gathering at Tampa; separate appearances before business and labor groups in that city; a frankly partisan airport pep rally in Miami, and the hemi-

Five Cities Ready For Welcoming

By The Associated Press
Five Texas cities are busy putting the finishing touches on their preparations for entertaining President Kennedy during his whirlwind visit through the state Thursday and Friday.

The President accompanied by Mrs. Kennedy, Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and a number of congressmen will arrive in San Antonio early Thursday afternoon.

After dedicating the Aerospace Medical School at Brooks Air Force Base, the President flies to Houston for a Thursday night dinner honoring U. S. Rep. Albert Thomas, D-Tex.

The party will spend the night in Fort Worth, attend a Chamber of Commerce breakfast, and then fly to Dallas for a luncheon.

Friday evening a reception for the Kennedys will be held at the executive mansion in Austin by Gov. and Mrs. John Connally. That night Kennedy will be the main speaker at a $100-a-plate Democratic fund raising dinner.

The Kennedys will be guests of the Johnsons at the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City Friday night and are expected to leave for Washington sometime Saturday.

At Dallas, the city council adopted an anti-harassment or-

JFK DINNER JUST TOO RICH

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Democratic office holders in Bexar County who plan to attend a $100-a-dinner for President Kennedy in Austin Friday are few and far between.

A newspaper survey showed reasons far not attending ranged from pleas of poverty to hunting trips. Only six of the 28 officials questioned said they plan to be at the dinner.

"If my creditors found out I went, they just wouldn't understand," said James Knight, county clerk and long a power in Bexar County Democratic circles.

No one was hurt in today's blast or by two similar explosions Saturday.

Richey, formerly of Birmingham, denied knowledge of the explosions.

State Department Plans Questioning Of Barghoorn

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department experts question Yale Prof. Frederick C. Barghoorn today to try to unravel the mystery of why Russia jailed him on spy charges and sent a new chill through U. S.-Soviet relations.

Barghoorn, who his mother said was handcuffed and "treated like a jailbird" by Soviet police, has declared the reason for his arrest may never be known. But at least three high-ranking officials intend to question him in hopes of hitting on a clue.

THOMPSON
The three are Llewellyn Thompson, former U. S. ambassador to Moscow and now an adviser on East-West affairs; William R. Tyler, assistant secretary of State for European af-airs; and his deputy, Richard H. Davis, Secretary of State.

Dean Rusk also may talk with him.

U. S. foreign policy makers want to determine how to weigh the scholar's case in conducting future relations with Russia — including the proposed renewal of the U. S. — Soviet cultural exchange pact.

COOLING HEELS
A U. S. mission that had been due to start negotiations in Moscow today on renewing the exchange agreement is still cooling its heels in Washington while the policy makers measure the impact of the Barghoorn affair.

The mission's planned departure for Moscow was canceled after Russia announced the professor's arrest. He was released Saturday.

At a news conference after being flown to his home in New Haven, Barghoorn declined to spell out details of his arrest until he had talked with Washington officials.

MYSTERY
Just why the Soviets picked on Barghoorn appears to be still a mystery to Washington officials. There are a number of theories.

One is that the Kremlin wanted to discourage Russians from becoming too friendly with visiting Americans, and also to dissuade Americans from hobnobbing with Soviet citizens.

Another is that Soviet security men took Barghoorn's professorial inquisitiveness to be spying and had little notion of the furor his arrest would set off.

Man Jailed After Blast

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—A white man carrying a shotgun in his truck was picked up by police today in connection with the third dynamite explosion in three days near the University of Alabama.

Police said A. L. Richey, 40, of Tuscaloosa was near the scene of a blast which went off shortly after midnight about four blocks from a dormitory occupied by the university's only Negro student, Vivian Malone.

No one was hurt in today's blast or by two similar explosions Saturday.

Richey, formerly of Birmingham, denied knowledge of the explosions.

'Crazy-Quilt' Demo Farm Program Due To Draw Attack Of Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans will assail in next year's presidential campaign what they call the Kennedy administration's "crazy-quilt" farm program. A tip-off on the attack came from Rep. Charles Hoeven of Iowa, ranking Republican of the House Agriculture Committee. "The farm program," he said, "is heading for a fall unless something is done to bring it into sensible perspective. The pure and simple fact is, that the present crazy-quilt price-support and control program held together by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman was born in depression, matured in war and is now in a faltering position."

IN TROUBLE

Rep. Harold Cooley, D-N.C., the Agriculture Committee chairman, generally agreed recently with the position now expressed by Hoeven that farm programs and agricultural well-being are in trouble. But Cooley blamed Republicans and others in Congress who have opposed Kennedy administration farm proposals. The Republican farm leader indicted the administration farm record with these assertions:

1. The parity ratio has dropped to the lowest level since 1939.
2. Farm debt is at a record high.
3. Farming costs are at a record high.

RECORD HIGH

4. Total Agriculture Department spending will be at a record high of $5.4 billion during current 1964 fiscal year.

5. The department has the greatest number of employees in history, 116,268.

6. The farm population has dropped to lowest level in history.

7. The number of farms—3.6 million—is the lowest in history.
8. Farm surpluses are at high levels.
9. Farm income is declining.
10. Farm legislation is bogged down in Congress with only one major bill being enacted this session.
11. Farmers rejected the administration's rigid two-price wheat control plan by an overwhelming majority.

90 PER CENT

Hoeven said the Kennedy administration has repudiated its long-endorsed 90 per cent parity for agriculture. None of the basic or other farm products is being supported at such a level, he said.

Hoeven said the administration is carrying out a vendetta against the livestock industry because it has opposed a Kennedy farm commodity supply management of control program for agriculture.

Religion Basis For German Grade School Separation

BONN, Germany (AP)—Half of West Germany's children are separated in grade school by religion, although parochial schools like those in the United States hardly exist.

There are publicly supported grade schools for Catholic children and publicly supported grade schools for Protestant children. Catholic classes are taught by lay Catholic teachers, and Protestant classes by lay Protestant teachers.

Different textbooks are used to reflect the different beliefs. The other half of the nation's more than five million children attend grade schools together, without regard to their religion. Each of the 10 states determines its own type of school system. Some provide only separate schools, some only mixed schools, and some a combination of the two systems.

VERY RARE Private grade schools are allowed under special circumstances and are very rare. The situation is different with high schools. Of these 12 per cent are private and mostly denominational, but 70 to 80 per cent of their expenses are met by public funds. The rest state run and completely secular, as are all universities. Grade schools divided by religion date to the Kaisers. Adolf Hitler ended them, but they were reintroduced after World War II by the Christian Democratic party under Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. This party receives heavy support from West Germany's Catholics. The Catholic Church favors the separate schools.

EXPENSES One-third of the expenses of all grade schools are paid by local communities, which own the buildings. The other two-thirds of the money comes from the states, which appoint the principals and teachers and supervise administration.

Children in all the states start the school day with a prayer, hymn, or Bible reading. All grade schools offer two to four hours a week of religious instruction, either Protestant or Catholic or both. Attendance is voluntary, and about 6 per cent of the children stay away.

OUTNUMBER Although West Germany is divided about equally between Catholics and Protestants, Catholic grade schools far outnumber the Protestant grade schools. There are 1,925,145 Catholic children in such schools and 820,074 Protestant children.

The bidding: North East South West INT Pass 4▲ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♥ North's opening one no trump bid is right out of the book inasmuch as he has 16 high card points and completely even distribution. South's four spade response shows a long suit and a desire to be in game. He has eight high card points plus two doubletons which brings the partnership total up to the necessary 26. West led the king of hearts and East started an echo by playing the ten. Despite the appearance of his partner's honor, West was a little dubious of continuing the suit, for fear that he would establish North's queen. In an effort to make a play for East while he still had control of the heart suit, West switched at the second trick to the ten of diamonds. The jack was played from the dummy, covered by East's queen and declarer's king.

South observed that he was confronted with the loss of two tricks in hearts and one in clubs. It was therefore necessary for him to pick up the queen of spades which would offer no problem if the suit were divided two-two. However, he was a bit reluctant to bang down the top trump honors without further ado, and he decided to make an attempt to enlist his opponents' assistance first.

A small heart was led from the closed hand and West rose with the ace. Another diamond was returned and the ace was played from the dummy. Declarer now led the queen of hearts in the manner of some one who was seeking a sluff. East hastened to frustrate this measure by ruffing in with the seemingly worthless deuce of spades.

South overruffed with the three and, since East was so willing to part with a trump, it appeared unlikely that the latter had the guarded queen of spades. South cashed the king of trumps and, when East showed out, a marked finesse in spades fitru, West became clearly indicated.

Whether or not East should have ruffed in when the queen of hearts was led is, perhaps, debatable, but declarer certainly did all he could to mask his intentions. Furthermore, in the absence of this preliminary maneuvering, it is extremely doubtful that South would ever have ventured to finesse West for the queen of trumps.

"ETERNALLY SECURE"

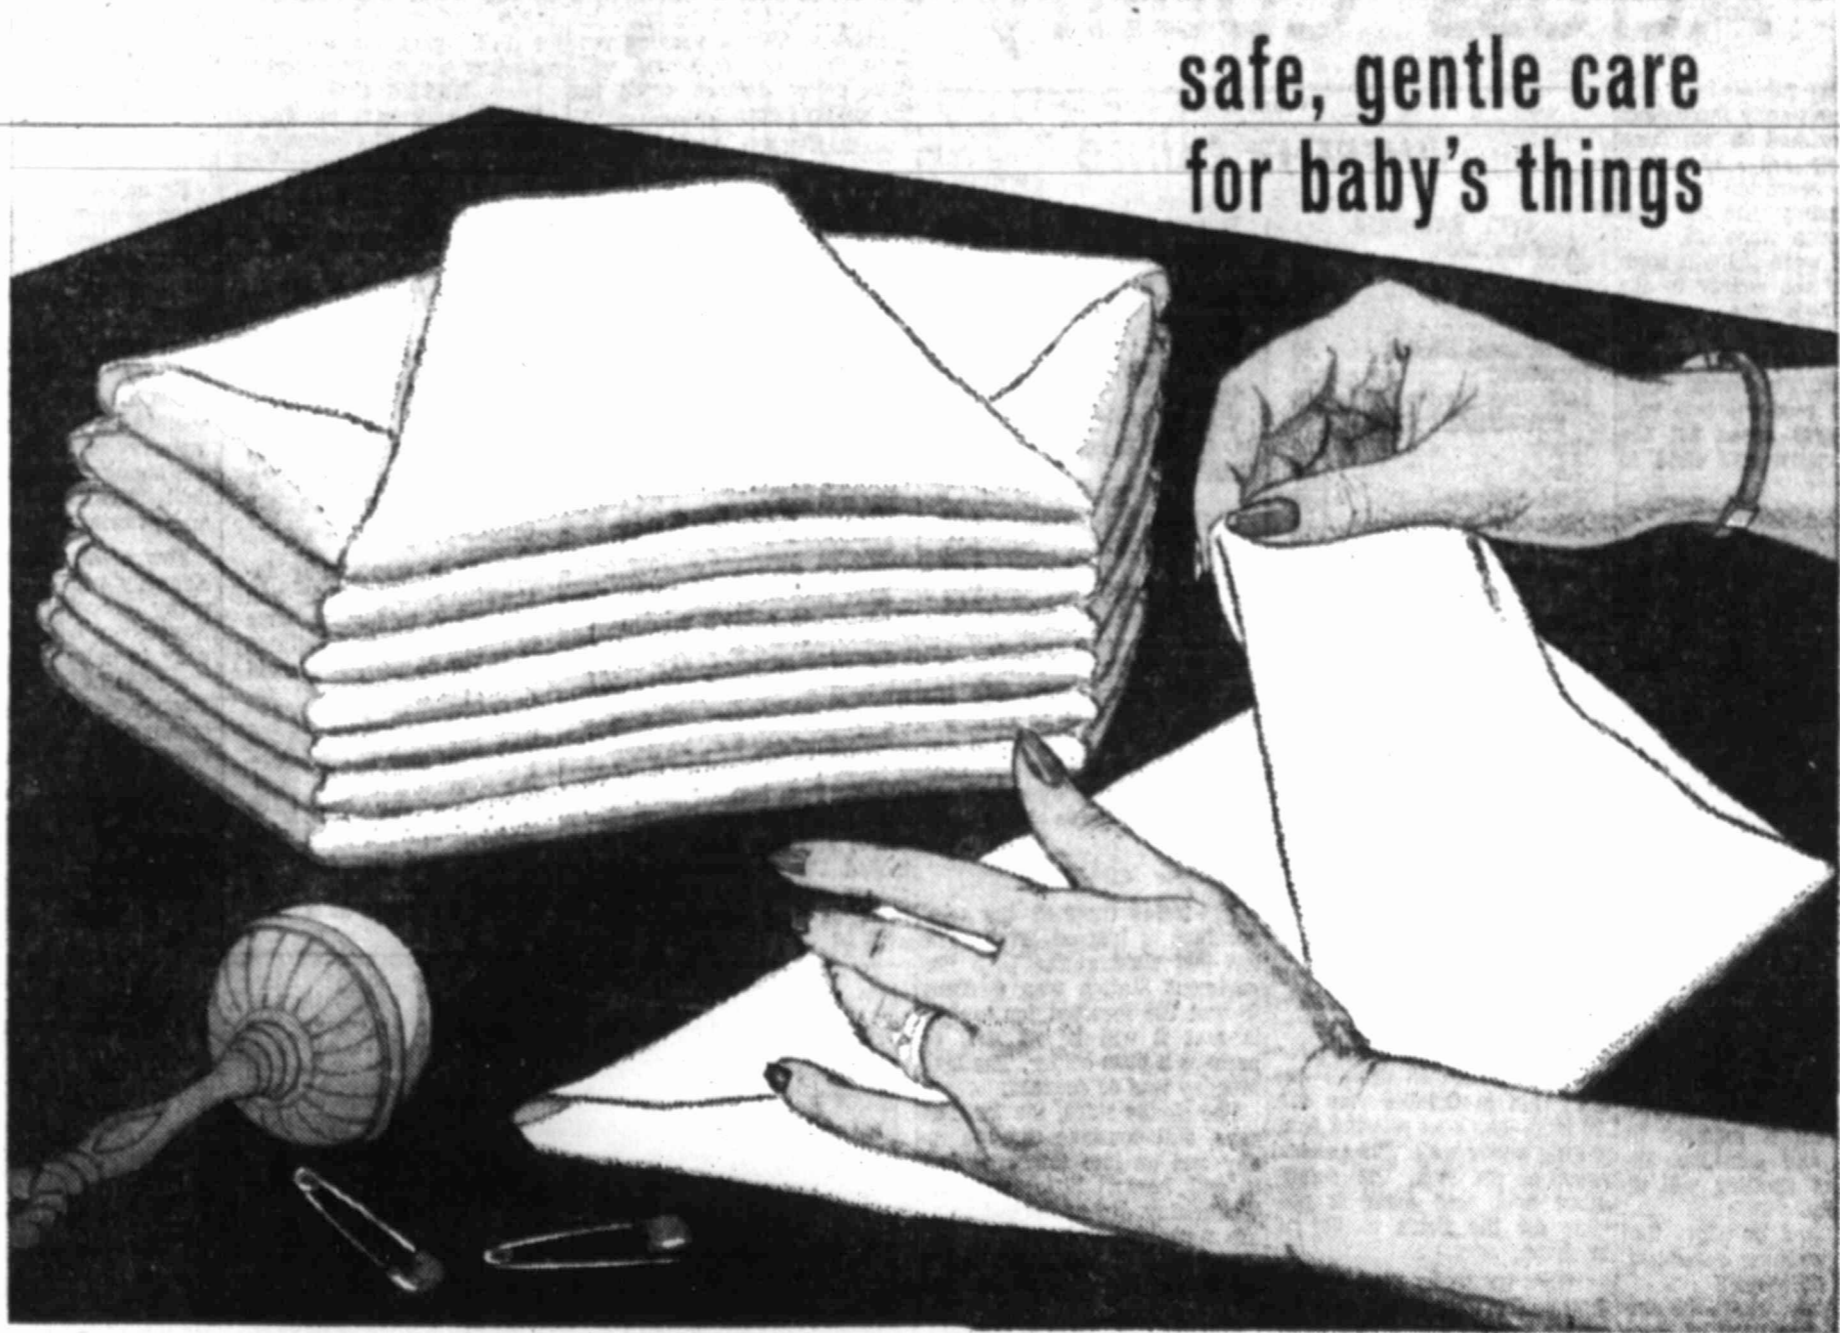

The leaflet continues: "Baptists hold that when God saves a person he is eternally secure, so that 'in that great gettin' up morning' when the 'dead in Christ shall rise,' eternal life shall await the believer and eternal punishment the unrepentant."

May I ask: Is it not possible for a person once saved to sin, and then possible for him to die without repenting of that sin? I agree with the leaflet when it says that eternal punishment awaits the unrepentant. "For the wages of sin is death" (Rom. 6:23), and sin is still sin when committed by the person once redeemed. The apostle John said that both he and the Christians to whom he wrote had sin, and that forgiveness depended upon their confessing their sins (1 Jno. 1:8, 9).

The sinning Christian could refuse (or neglect) to repent. If this were not so, why the warnings to the Christian in Scripture? See Jas. 5:16, 19, 20; 1 Cor. 6:9, 10, etc.

LINCOLN'S GETTYSBURG ADDRESS

Immortal Speech Century Old

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — One hundred years ago today, with vultures wheeling overhead and the skeletons of horses still scattered about the landscape, Abraham Lincoln mounted a wooden platform on the battlefield at Gettysburg to deliver the most famous address in American history.

The odd part about it was that no one really had intended for him to speak.

The orator of the day, as every school boy knows, was Edward Everett, former secretary of state, U.S. senator, governor of Massachusetts and president of Harvard, whose nationwide lecture tour had helped save Mount Vernon as a national shrine. Such was Everett's fame as an orator that the dedication date of the little 17-acre military cemetery at Gettysburg had been changed from Oct. 23 to Nov. 19 to accommodate his schedule.

same bedroom after a brief illness.

The President, however, was in good spirits when Gen. James B. Fry called for him on Wednesday in an open carriage and urged him to hurry if they were to catch the special train leaving at noon for Gettysburg from the Baltimore & Ohio station. He responded with an anecdote about a fellow being jostled by crowds while en route to the gallows. "Boys," the fellow cried out, "you needn't be in such a hurry to get ahead. There won't be any fun until I get there."

FLOWERS

As the train pulled out, a little girl passed up some flowers to the President. He leaned out the window to kiss her, saying, "You are a little rosebud yourself."

Further along the line an elderly man who had lost a son on Little Round Top at Gettysburg came aboard to shake hands. Moved by the incident, Lincoln sighed, "When I think of the sacrifices of life yet to be offered and the hearts and homes yet to be made desolate before this dreadful war is over, my heart is like lead within me and I feel at times like hiding in deep darkness."

The train pulled into the little brick station at Gettysburg shortly before 6, and a big harvest moon was climbing into the frosty Pennsylvania night. A large enthusiastic crowd accompanied the President as he walked two blocks up the hill to the house of attorney David Wills, chairman of the cemetery board. The Wills house, a sturdy yellow brick affair, still stands overlooking the public square. It and the little railroad station are Gettysburg's main surviving reminders of the Lincoln visit.

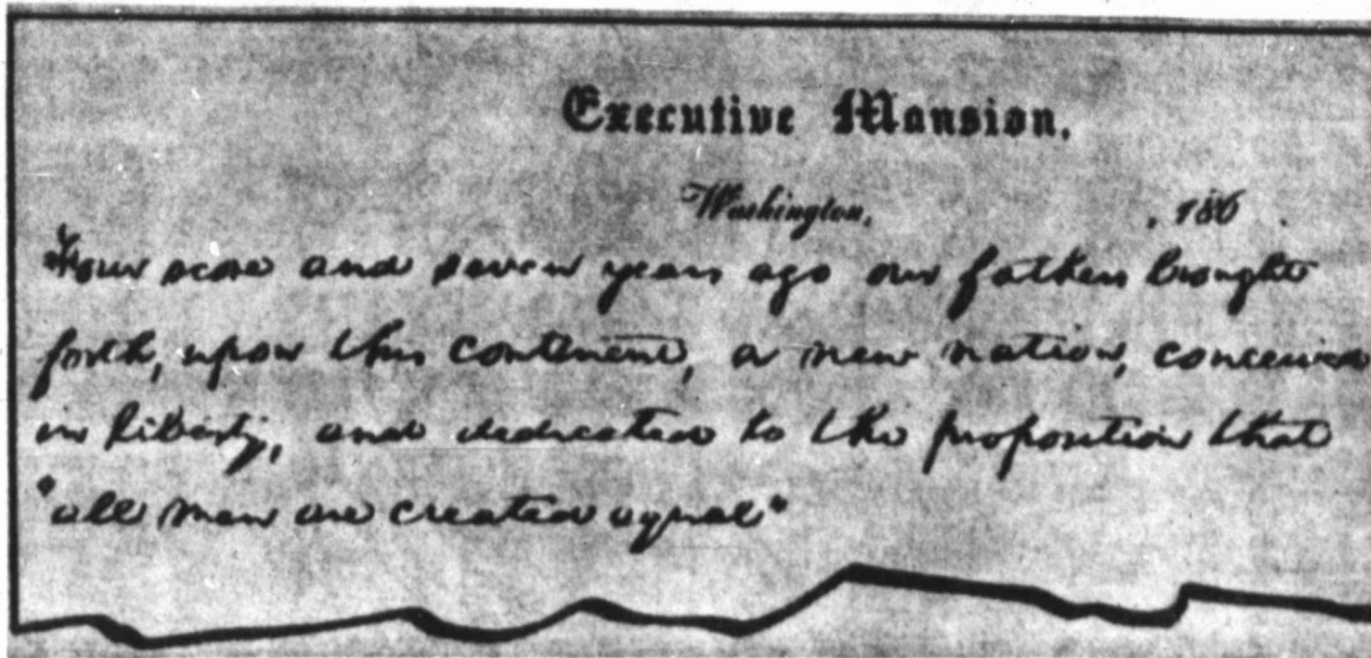

After dining with Everett, Gov. Andrew Curtin of Pennsylvania and other dignitaries in the Wills home, the President was serenaded by the 5th New York Artillery band, but he declined to address the crowd in the square.

"In my position," he begged off, "it is somewhat important that I should not say foolish things."

"Not if you can help it," cried an impatient voice.

To which Lincoln good naturedly retorted, "It very often happens that the only way to help it is to say nothing at all. Believing this is my present condition this evening, I beg you to excuse me from addressing you further."

At 9 o'clock, Lincoln received a telegram from Secretary of War Edwin Stanton reporting that his son had improved slightly. With his Negro servant William Johnston he retired to his bedroom on the second floor to finish the first draft of his speech on a piece of foolscap borrowed from Wills. An hour later, he gathered his papers

FIRST DRAFT OF LINCOLN'S FAMOUS ADDRESS PENNED AT WHITE HOUSE
Opening lines shown, disclaiming legend that it was written on envelope on train and went next door to show the speech to Seward, who was staying at the home of Robert Harper, editor of the local paper.

After breakfast next morning, Lincoln rewrote the speech again while waiting for the procession to start toward the battlefield.

MORE VISITORS

Gettysburg, a town of 2,100 had swelled to more than 15,000, with more visitors arriving hourly by foot and carriage and by special trains from Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. Souvenir hunters wandered over Little Round Top and Culp's Hill, the Devil's Den and Cemetery Ridge, hunting for bullets, buttons, shell fragments, canteens, muddy knapsacks and other mementos of the bloody battle of four months ago.

Only 1,118 of the more than 3,000 Union dead had been reburied beneath the low wooden crosses in the new cemetery, and it would be seven years before the Confederate dead were removed to cemeteries in Richmond, Charleston and Savannah. Amid the skeletons of horses and the scattered equipment, coffins protruded here and there where the rain had washed away the thin cover of earth hastily tossed on the graves by surviving comrades. People in Gettysburg blamed the high incidence of sickness that fell on the condition of the battlefield.

PERFECT WEATHER

More than an hour late in getting started, the procession finally moved up Baltimore Street under a cloudless sky in perfect 32-degree Indian summer weather. Lincoln, in a Prince Albert coat, white gauntlets and a tall stove pipe hat that still bore a black crepe for Willie's death, sat astride a beautiful chestnut horse, "the largest in the Cumberland Valley." Even so, he seemed to dwarf the animal, with his long legs almost touching the ground. The march to the cemetery took only 15 minutes, but there was another hour-long delay because Everett was off touring the battlefield with Prof. Michael Jacobs of Gettysburg College.

During the long wait, Lincoln was handed up another telegram from Stanton containing some good news. Burnside was safe though still threatened at Knoxville. Grant had started a big battle at Chattanooga and, best news of all, "Mrs. Lincoln reports your son's health is a great deal better and he will be out today."

HIGH NOON

The ceremonies finally got underway at high noon with the Birgfield Band of Philadelphia playing a dirge and the Rev. Thomas Stockton, chaplain of the House of Representatives, intoning the opening prayer. As the Marine Band struck up "Old Hundred," the President settled back in a battered settee on the platform, flanked by Seward on his left and Everett on his right. The wooden platform, erected where the Soldiers' National Monument now stands, faced northwest across the site of the first day's battle and afforded a splendid view of Oak Ridge, the tower of the Old Dorm at Gettysburg College and, shimmering in the distant haze, the South Mountain range. Benjamin French, officer in charge of public buildings in Washington, introduced Everett. For the next hour and 50 minutes, in deep organ-like tones, the 70-year-old spell binder reviewed funeral customs in ancient Athens, described the three-day Battle at Gettysburg in detail, paid tribute to those who died there and vigorously assailed the states rights position. Once when he mistakenly said Lee for Meade, Lincoln corrected him audibly. At the conclusion of his address, Everett was wrapped in a blanket, Lincoln and Seward came forward to pump his hand and the crowd applauded enthusiastically.

SPECTACLES

Next, the Baltimore Glee Club sang an ode written by French. During their rendition, Lincoln extracted a pair of steel bowed spectacles from a metallic case produced his manuscript from an inside pocket and proceeded to study it. The crowd fell silent and ceased its stirring as Ward Lamon, marshal of the District of Columbia, introduced the President.

"Four score and seven years ago," Lincoln began in a squeaky, slightly falsetto voice that nevertheless carried well in the clear autumn air to the back of the crowd.

Directly in front of him, Associated-Press reporter Joseph

Gilbert scribbled furiously in shorthand.

Gilbert's account said the crowd applauded at least five times during the speech and there was sustained applause at the end, but Lincoln was plainly dissatisfied with his performance.

FLAT FAILURE

"Lamon, that speech won't scour," he said to Ward Lamon. "It is a flat failure and the people are disappointed." Scour was an old farm expression used to describe wet soil falling freely from the mold board of a plow.

Little did Lincoln realize, as the train rumbled through the dark Pennsylvania night and across Maryland toward Washington that he had delivered one of the masterpieces of American literature, that in 270 simple words he had summed up the national purpose for all times, that school children for generations to come would memorize those immortal words, that they would be beaten in bronze and graven in granite, that people all over the world would find renewed courage and inspiration in them, and that history would prove him wrong.

The world did note and long remember what he said at Gettysburg on that fine fall day.

Coahoma Pupils Take Webb Tour

Seventy fourth grade students and their teachers made a special field trip from Coahoma school to tour Webb Air Force Base last week.

The students began their tour at the Webb Parachute Shop, where they saw a parachute packed and then opened as one of their fellow students was allowed to don the chute and pull the ripcord.

Base Operations and the Weather Detachment were next on the schedule as they saw how Webb pilots always consult the weather man when planning a flight.

The tour concluded with an inspection of a T-37 and a T-38 aircraft and then a trip to the runway to watch the planes land and take off.

Oilman Warns Against Cuts In Price Of Crude

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — The president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association said Monday recent price cuts for crude oil in North and West Central Texas "could trigger a general crude price cut throughout the state."

The organization's president, E. Bruce Street of Graham, was one of a group of industry spokesmen who appeared before a hearing of a Texas House Committee seeking causes for trouble in the ailing independent oil industry.

He said his association feels that "companies responsible for initiating this new round of price erosion should be called upon to explain their actions before the public and this committee."

Others appearing before the committee included J. Pickens Coleman, R. Clay Underwood, R. W. Darden and Don Wills, Wichita Falls independent oil operators; E. Morris Seydell, Wichita Falls, immediate past president of the National Stripper Well Association; D. C. Norwood, chairman of the board of Texas Bank and Trust of Wichita Falls; Jack Stroube, Abilene, independent operator; O. W. Fantleroy, Wichita Falls independent geologist; and L. W. Brooks Jr., Breckenridge operator.

Tom B. Medders Jr. of Wichita Falls, president of the North Texas Oil and Gas Association, another witness, said "there has been a piecemeal price erosion pattern which is having a demoralizing effect on producers who are already selling crude oil at prices below replacement cost."

Cities Service, Inland Oil and Refining Co. and the Permian Corp. recently posted price cuts in North and West Central Texas.

Top officials of two major oil companies told the committee they favor equitable crude oil prices that will enable all producers to make a fair margin of profit.

J. H. Rabin Jr., Houston, executive vice president of Texaco, Inc., told the panel that "it is to our advantage to maintain a good crude price structure."

Gerald McGrew, Bartlesville, Okla., vice president of Cities Service Petroleum Co. said, "current crude prices are too low but supply and demand" have a major bearing upon the situation.

Committee members were also told by H. G. Williams, Wichita, Kan., vice president of Rock Island Oil & Refining Co.

that his firm will post crude prices "consistent with good business."

Others appearing before the committee included J. Pickens Coleman, R. Clay Underwood, R. W. Darden and Don Wills, Wichita Falls independent oil operators; E. Morris Seydell, Wichita Falls, immediate past president of the National Stripper Well Association; D. C. Norwood, chairman of the board of Texas Bank and Trust of Wichita Falls; Jack Stroube, Abilene, independent operator; O. W. Fantleroy, Wichita Falls independent geologist; and L. W. Brooks Jr., Breckenridge operator.

A Devotional For The Day

Jesus . . . said unto him, One thing thou lackest yet: sell all that thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me. (Luke 18:22. ASV.)
PRAYER: Dear Lord, we would follow Thee. Cleanse us of our sins and take over the control of our lives. Help us to sacrifice all that hinders us from having treasures in heaven. We ask in the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who are in heaven . . . Amen."
 (From The 'Upper Room')

One Hundred Years Ago Today

After the battle of Chancellorsville, Lee began in May of 1863 a series of movements to rid Virginia of Union forces and to point the dagger of Confederate force at Washington. Meade succeeded Hooker as Union commander, and thus he and Lee came head-on at a little town of Gettysburg in the rolling hills of southern Pennsylvania.

On the morning of July 1, a shot was fired to open the skirmish, and when three days later the hell of assault waves and counterattacks was ended, over 5,000 men in gray and blue lay dead or dying. Nearly 50,000 others were wounded or missing. Lee fell back and although Meade missed his chance to pursue and end the war, the tide of war between the states had turned irrevocably. Out of the great blood bath of Gettysburg the Union had in reality been given a new birth.

In November of that year, crowds gathered once more at Gettysburg to dedicate a military cemetery. The distinguished Edward Everett had been invited to make the dedicatory address, and one of the routine invitations to attend reached the desk of an humble Illinois lawyer who was the President of the United States. He resolved to go and pay his homage to the men who fought there, and out of respect to his office, he was invited to speak on the condition he make his remarks brief.

At intervals, he turned in his mind thoughts of what he wished to say, mentioned some of them to friends and associates. He started drafts of his address several days before, but it was not until an hour before he was to leave his room at Gettysburg that he finally had it all down on paper in the form he proposed to give. Even then, he interpolated a phrase or two as he read in his high, penetrating voice for two minutes after Everett had spoken with silver-tongued eloquence for two hours.

This is what he said:
 "Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here; but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Most of the dignitaries and crowd appeared to be disappointed in what the President had to say, and some correspondents ridiculed it unmercifully. Yet there were some perceptive souls who saw it for what it was—one of the most sublime declarations of humility, hope and faith ever uttered by man. And today, on the 100th anniversary of its delivery, the words of Abraham Lincoln still warm the hearts of all mankind in its yearning for freedom and for government of the people, by the people and for the people.

Marquis Childs From Wartime To Peacetime—

WASHINGTON — With a Presidential year just ahead it is a safe bet that the rallying cry, "Elect me because I can do more for the great state of—" is certain to resound across the land. The eager office-seeker will give the impression that defense contracts, research contracts, projects large and small, are on the political auction block and he and he alone can snare them.

DEFENSE SPENDING takes today 10 per cent of the nation's gross national product. This means that whole communities and large payrolls depend on a continuous flow of dollars from Washington. Any substantial reduction in this spending, whether by the economies that Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara is trying so earnestly to bring about in the next budget or by a modest beginning at disarmament, means a ride adjustment.

A program put forward recently to help ease the adjustment from a cold war economy to a future peacetime economy went almost unnoticed. Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.), joined by 10 others including Majority Whip Hubert Humphrey, proposed a National Economic Conversion Commission. The commission would be responsible for drafting a blueprint for converting to peacetime work and for drawing up schedules of possible private and public investment that would help to bridge the transition period.

IN PRESENTING his proposal to the Senate, McGovern quoted in support of it from an eminently respectable source, a survey of the Morgan Guaranty Bank:

"With about one-tenth of gross national product devoted to military purposes year after year, there has developed a reluctance, both public and private, toward cutting back so sizable a sector of economic activity. Thus, the very fact that makes it important to prepare for the possibility of a reduction in defense outlays—that is, the economy's heavy involvement in defense—could also make it more difficult to achieve reduction."

McGOVERN UTTERED a warning similar to that which has long been coming from business. The fact that roughly three-fourths of the nation's scientific and engineering talent is in military research and development or space has caused a drastic decline in the modernization of civilian industries. The United States, which once led the world in machine-tool production, today has slipped to fourth or fifth place, according to McGovern.

The concentration of research in the government sector means that this country has lagged behind in new and improved products. In West Germany only five to 10 per cent of a research is in defense and the balance in private industry.

WHAT THIS MEANS in world competition in the sale of goods and services hardly needs to be pointed out. The relation to America's unfavorable balance of payments is a direct one. As West Germany, Japan and Italy have built up new plants, the United States is left today with the unenviable distinction of operating the most outdated metal-working machinery of any major industrial power.

McGovern pointed out that in the aircraft industry over 93 per cent of all employees are working on warplanes. In shipbuilding the figure is 60 per cent, in radio and communications equipment 38 per cent. Unless these industries are to go on into an indefinite future, turning out more and more war machines to be stockpiled, a basic adjustment will have to be faced up to.

Billy Graham

I worry so much about world affairs and I can't seem to do anything to quiet my fears. I know there must be a God, but sometimes I doubt it.
 C.M.

Your doubt is the reason for your fear. They always go together. Jesus said, "Let not your heart be troubled. . . ye believe in God." The greatest panacea for fear is faith, but doubt is the creator of despair.

There is no doubt about it, these are times that try men's souls. If fear has ever been justified, it is now. The world seems to be at an impasse, and everywhere we look we see cause for concern and anxiety. But someone has said: "When the outlook is dark, the uplook is always bright." This is the hour to say with David, "I will look away unto the hills from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord."

So my suggestion to you is this: Look up! Put your faith and trust in God! I see what is happening in the world, but I have staked my life on Him who holds the whole wide world in his hands. Stay on the side of Him who will ultimately triumph, and your worry will dissolve like the mist of the morning. "Fear hath torment," but have faith in God!

James Marlow White House Doubts Reds' Good Judgment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration has expressed serious doubt about the Russian Red's good judgment in testing the nerve of the West, particularly that of the United States.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara put it this way in a talk Monday night: "I do not regard the present Communist leaders as wholly reckless in action."

"But recent experience in Cuba and, on a lesser scale, in Berlin, has not persuaded me that I can predict with confidence the sorts of challenge that Communist leaders will come to think prudent and profitable."

IN ADDITION, this McNamara talk before the Economic Club of New York had an unusually tough tone for the Kennedy administration which has tried to avoid sabre-rattling.

The secretary compared American and Russian military power and flatly claimed nuclear superiority for the United States. He said the Communists have sought to avoid a big war with the West.

This doesn't mean they won't try smaller challenges if they think they can get away with them. What if they try them, as they did in Cuba and at Berlin?

McNAMARA gave them a warning. The best way to stop them from the smaller adventures is to assure them such short-of-all-out-war tries would meet "prompt, effective military" response.

In short: Stop them cold and then decide to back off or keep pushing into the big war they want to avoid.

Much of McNamara's talk was devoted to American nuclear superiority, for example:

"THE SOVIETS are estimated to have today only a fraction as many intercontinental missiles as we do." But he acknowledged the Russians are a big threat to Europe, with their hundreds of intermediate-and-medium-range ballistic missiles.

The Russians recently acted up, creating tensions in Europe and here, when they blockaded American troop trucks on the autobahn in East Germany before letting them through to Berlin.

THIS WAS a sudden and ugly show of Soviet force after what had seemed slightly improved American - Russian relations.

The Kennedy administration may have intended the McNamara talk to be a reminder to the Russians not to get too nutty — as they were in Cuba and seem to have been on the autobahn — or push too hard.

At no place in his talk, however, did McNamara suggest that war with Russia would be a one-way street, with the Soviets on the receiving end alone.

He stressed the need to recognize that "strategic nuclear war would under all foreseeable circumstances be bilateral — and highly destructive to both sides."

Hal Boyle Don't Know Their Wives' Sizes

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.

Only one in 10 U.S. husbands knows his wife's clothing sizes. America scraps about as many cars each year as the rest of the world produces. Americans also undergo nearly 16 million major surgical operations each year.

The Soviet Union claims it has almost 17,000 women 100 years of age or older. It still remains an open question whether people live longer under communism — or it just seems longer.

To Your Good Health 'Situs Inversus' A Rare Condition

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have "situs inversus," my internal organs being transposed or on the wrong side.

About 25 doctors have examined me in the last few years, mostly out of curiosity. They were all amazed and some didn't believe my heart beats on the right side.

How often does this occur? What causes it? I am a fraternal twin. Does this have anything to do with it?—N. V.

Yours is a very rare condition—heart on the right side, liver on the left, and so on.

Being a twin seems to have some bearing, but nobody knows exactly why. Left-handedness is one possibility that has been observed. A clockwise (reverse) hair whorl is another.

As to the internal organs, all may be reversed—or only some.

It is a developmental quirk, and that's about as good an explanation as we have.

It doesn't seem to have any harmful effects. It's just that the organs are arranged in a different, or reversed, pattern.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a 12-year-old boy who wets the bed every night unless I get him

Around The Rim Those Fat And Fearless Felines

The Blackburns currently are feeding two cats. I suppose you can call them ours—insofar as it is ever possible to classify a cat as being anyone's property.

These are overgrown, exceedingly fat tom cats whose sole accomplishment is appearing sleek and well-fed. Their one big trick is squalling for service morning and night.

THEY TOLERATE being rubbed and tickled under their chins. They also wipe their noses on my pants and shoes and make like they love me—until I fill the chow pan with food. After they've been fed, most of the time I do not see them until it's meal time again.

We've always had cats underfoot. Some we have acquired deliberately. The bulk of our cats, though, have found us. They can tell, cats can—they know a softie as far as they can spot a cat food can.

"LET'S take over," they tell one another. "These are soft touches. They'll feed us."

So they move in.

I'm too tenderhearted to do anything drastic like applying a shotgun to the invaders. Instead I go the other way. I stuff them with expensive food. When one gets injured or sick I lug him to the veterinary and spend hard-earned money getting him well so he can eat some more costly cat food.

WHEN MICE and rats take over, I go to the 5-and-10 and get mouse-traps. I stop on the way home to buy more cat food.

"Why not let the cats catch the mice?" you may ask.

Look, pard, I've been fiddling around with cats for years and years. I have yet to have a cat which would step one foot out of the way to catch a mouse. I did have one cat who caught a mouse, but I think the cat was asleep with his mouth open, and the mouse ran into it.

WHY I remember one time when the mice sort of took over the place. We spotted one under the cabinet. He couldn't get out, once we had shut the cabinet door. We had a big fat lubberheaded cat, Pincus, sleeping peacefully on the kitchen floor. My wife picked up Pincus and thrust him in the cabinet area with that mouse.

KNOW WHAT HAPPENED? That big fat cat began to yell like something was tearing him apart. He clawed at the closed door. He waited for succor. Finally we opened the cabinet and he dashed out. So did the mouse. I do not say the mouse was chasing the cat, but the cat came out first.

I am not impressed when people tell me cats are mousers. Not my cats.

They just show up regular-like for chow. And I feed 'em just like they knew I would.

—SAM BLACKBURN

Inez Robb Imperialism A Two-Way Street

There is a lot to be said for imperialism.

The uses of 20th Century imperialism should be a two-way street. Instead of a one-way thoroughfare pre-empted by the Soviet Union and the new nations of the Far East, Middle East and Africa, no less than certain Latin-American countries.

ALL THE ABOVE practice their own sanctimonious brands of imperialism while pointing the finger of scorn and horror at Uncle Sam, as if he had a vast empire—or ever had—and as if he were an international combination of Simon Legree and a sadistic pawnbroker. Or as if Uncle were an enlarged copy of that tin-pot tyrant and practicing imperialist, Sulkarno.

If I cast a wistful glance backward into the 19th Century, it is actuated by the unconscionable arrest in Russia of a distinguished American scholar, Prof. Frederick C. Barghoorn of Yale, as a spy, which has been released.

IN THE 19TH Century great powers didn't put up with the mistreatment of their nationals any place in the world. Even as late as 1904, it was still possible for an American President, Teddy Roosevelt, to cable "either Perdicaris alive or Rassouli dead" when an American citizen, Ion Perdicaris, was kidnapped near Tangier by an Arab chieftain, Rassouli.

The kidnapping of Perdicaris was as politically motivated as was the arrest of Prof. Barghoorn. Rassouli was fighting with the Sultan of Morocco and thought the snatch of an American citizen would embarrass the Sultan.

PERDICARIS was released, unhurt. (Truth to tell, he had a fine time in captivity, as he found Rassouli a pleasant and interesting, if orthodox, host.) But the point is not whether Perdicaris was entertained, but that nations in those days were able to apply the heat where it hurt if one of their nationals was endangered.

Admittedly, the world today is not so simple and there are no easy solutions to our complex, fissionable problems. The new, hooded and monolithic imperialism of our time almost makes the old, 19th Century brand look good.

THE CURRENT imperialism is not just the instrument of the two big Communist powers, but is often a form of blackmail practiced by the weak. It now seems inevitable that American investors are about to be hijacked out of $300,000,000 in oil investments by the government of Argentina.

The hasty dispatch of Averell Harriman, Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs, to Buenos Aires has not shaken the resolve of Argentina's new president to nullify Argentine oil contracts with United States oil companies.

THE AGREEMENTS, which developed Argentina's oil fields and, for the first time, made her independent of oil imports (which were draining her contracting treasury), will be abrogated momentarily.

It's one woman's opinion that we must learn to play this new imperialist-blackmail game. When the Russians pick up a distinguished American such as Prof. Barghoorn for blackmail purposes, we ought to arrest two comparable visiting Russians in this country.

When Argentina or Brazil decides to "nullify" a new word for confiscate, American investments made in good faith and on fair terms, we ought to pinpoint Argentine and Brazilian investments in this country and pick them up in like amount.

Holmes Alexander Senator Byrd Finds An Honest Spender

WASHINGTON — Senator Harry Byrd a luckier philosopher than Diogenes, has finally found an honest man.

The distinguished Virginian, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, figuratively blew out his lantern the other day and remarked to Walter Heller, who heads the Council of Economic Advisers:

"I want to thank you for your frankness. You are the first Government witness to come right out and say that you don't want to reduce Federal expenditures but want to increase them."

DR. HELLER, a slim and silvering university economist, did not express his thanks for the compliment, if that's what it was, or have much time to savour it. Indeed, Chairman Byrd had been forced to resort to a hard grilling of the witness in order to score the point. Dr. Heller was before the Finance Committee to make the Administration's pitch for its proposed $11.1 billion tax cut. In his prepared statement, he didn't come out for higher spending, but Mr. Byrd finally got him to admit that the Administration was planning more than ever for next year and that Heller approved it.

AS THE PRESIDENT'S chief wizar of finance, Dr. Heller was soon being hatted about like a pigeon caught in a badminton game. Senator Smathers wanted to know if Heller had taught Constitutional Law or Economics at the University of Minnesota before coming to his present job. When Heller said he'd studied the Constitution but had not taught it, Smathers reminded him that the Constitution, and never the Executive, holds the power of the purse.

This brief contretemps (for Smathers was generally friendly to the visitor) related to the President's snatch last year for the dictatorial authority to cut taxes in good times, and to splurge on public works in bad times without specific action by Congress. Senators Dirksen and Williams of Delaware thought this an unconscionable attempt to usurp a jealously-guarded Congressional responsibility.

THE SKIRMISH in the Finance Committee is only a corner of the extensive battlefield where Congress and the Executive Department are fighting it out. But the President's tax-cut plan, like his programs on foreign aid, racial equality and welfare, reveal the New Frontier's grand strategy for next year's re-election campaign. At least three times in his testimony, Dr. Heller seemed guilelessly to be setting up the Congress-trapping pincer-movement which President Truman brought off so effectively in 1948. Dr. Heller said:

"NO ONE CAN with certainty forecast that a 1964 recession will occur if taxes are not cut now. But . . ."

"Prompt action may enable us to forestall a recession."

"Clearly, if the tax cut serves to avert a costly recession . . ."

These oblique references to a blame-giving day of reckoning did not get past Senator Byrd. The rest of the Finance Committee seemed oblivious to the traps being laid by the President's smooth-talking economic emissary. But it's not difficult to envision Candidate Kennedy on the stump in 1964, giving his own suave version of Mr. Truman's unforgettable indictment:

"That no-good, do-nothing Congress . . ."

Officers Installed For Class

Mrs. R. J. Barton, teacher of the Golden Circle Class, Phillips Memorial Baptist Church, conducted the installation of new class officers Monday evening at the church hall. Mrs. Irvin Fenley, president, conducted the business meeting.

Members made plans for its Christmas party which will be held in the home of Mrs. D. W. Powell, 510 Donley Dec. 26. Donations to the Lottie Moon Christmas offering will be taken in lieu of a gift exchange.

J. M. Baulch, choir director, led the group in singing the class song, "Living for Jesus," and the Rev. H. G. Barnard offered the opening prayer. A vocal selection was given by Mrs. Charles Mangum who was accompanied by Mrs. Donald E. Spence at the piano. A prayer of dedication was offered by the Rev. Warren H. Capps.

Mrs. Virgil Smedley, hostess, carried out the class colors, white and gold for the table decor, using a circular arrangement of mums on the white linen cloth. Eleven members and five guests were served.

Hootenanny Held In Winn Home

A hootenanny was held Saturday evening for members of the Intermediate Department, Hillcrest Baptist Church, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Winn, 1804 Wason Road. Co-hostess was Mrs. Thomas Brown, leader of the group.

Singers were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Esther Marriam. Cornet selections were presented by Kenneth Lavender. Games were played and prizes awarded.

Orange and brown were used in decorations carrying out a Thanksgiving theme. Placed on a piano in the living room was a Pilgrim scene. Covering the refreshment table was a cloth featuring a Thanksgiving motif, and miniature turkeys surrounded the crystal punch bowl. Twenty attended.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

She's Tried It And It Surpasses All

Dear Folks:

I'd like to pass along a recipe for Old Fashioned Southern Corn Bread Turkey Dressing cooked by a new method—a on a cookie sheet! I have used it for years and I have never found any better.

It's not really as complicated as it looks. And I found a shorter method than grandmother used for one of the ingredients. I bake canned biscuits! Can't tell the difference. I still make my own southern corn bread, but you can use any package mix.

Cook both biscuits and cornbread at the same time and toast that loaf of white bread while the oven is on. These can all be made a day ahead of time, or weeks ahead, and frozen. In fact, it's easier on you, if the dressing is made ahead of time.

The recipe: 1 can biscuits 1 pkg yellow corn bread 1 large loaf of bread, toasted 2 eggs, uncooked 1 1/2 cups chopped onions

2 cups chopped celery 1 cup chopped celery tops 1 tsp sage (or more — to taste) 1 tsp poultry seasonings (or more—to taste) 2 cups water 1 cup turkey drippings Salt and pepper (to taste)

Bake the biscuits and cornbread, and toast the loaf of bread. Then break all toasted and cooked breads into small pieces and put into a big pot set aside.

Put all ingredients in a big saucepan except the eggs. Let boil 10 minutes or until celery and onions are tender. Pour this mixture over the broken bread and toss. If it's not as moist as you like, add more turkey broth or a little water.

Add uncooked eggs and mix lightly again. (It is not necessary to beat the eggs.) Place warm dressing on greased or foil lined cookie sheet and cook at 300 degrees for at least 30 minutes. If you like it extremely moist, pile the dressing high. If you want drier dressing, spread it about two inches thick on your cookie sheet.

The new method for cooking dressing on a cookie sheet and not in the cavity of the bird is good for many reasons. The turkey can be easily sliced for freezing or sandwiches and it will have no sage flavor. Government bulletins also say there is a danger of bacteria in the body cavity of a stuffed turkey after it has been kept a few days.

This method also keeps your dressing from being "soggy" which it usually is when cooked five hours in a bird. When cooked on a cookie sheet it will be tender and crisp.

Valdeses Have Party For Son

Mr. and Mrs. Danny Valdes, 1603 Robin St., honored their son, Danny Jr., with a party observing his first birthday. The family gathering was held Monday at the Valdes home. The 10 children present included Danny's sister, Ileana. After games were played, the birthday cake was served. Favours were balloons and candy.

AAUW Speaker Sees Changes In America

The difference in the rich, deep soil of America during early times and the shallow, eroded soil found many places today was a comparison made by Mrs. Cass Hill at the Monday evening meeting of the American Association of University Women.

Mrs. Hill, study course chairman, used as her topic, "The American Family in a Changing World." She described the differences in home, church and occupations that have occurred during the past hundred years. She noted that in this country's formative years, every man was a farmer, regardless of his profession. In those days, a home was used by the same family for generations, whereas now many people move as often as they buy a new car.

Hostesses were Miss Gladys Burnham, Miss Elizabeth Daniel, Mrs. Irene Draper and Mrs. Morris Farrow. A Thanksgiving cloth and matching napkins were used on the refreshment table where pumpkin pie and coffee were served. The centerpiece was made of fruit, flowers and foliage.

The December meeting will be a dinner with the time and place to be announced.

Coffee Held For Fund Workers

WESTBROOK (SC) — A coffee was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rex McKenney Friday morning for the United Fund workers. Those helping with the United Fund Drive were Mrs. Hoyt Roberts, Mrs. Sidney Jones, Mrs. Troy Lankford, Mrs. Alis Clemmer and Mrs. Royce Moore.

Other volunteer workers are Mrs. Charles Ranne and Mrs. Don Henderson. McKenney is chairman of the Westbrook division. Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Moore attended the workers luncheon in the Civic House Wednesday.

Pain Between Your Shoulders?

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C.

Neuritis is one of the most painful, nerve-wracking experiences known to man. The pain is boring and stabbing. The victim is unable to get any rest or sleep. Every movement means suffering. There is loss of power and feeling.

A local inflammation of a nerve is called simple neuritis. It is localized in one spot and is usually caused by pressure on a nerve at a point of exit from the spine. Pressure on a nerve near the surface of the body, such as the shoulder or elbow, will result in numbness and tingling.

Repeated constriction and pressure may result in inflammation of the affected nerve. The nerve sheath or neurolemma may squeeze the sensitive nerve fibers and form adhesive

This woman complained of pains in the left leg (Sciatic nerve), left arm, shoulder and neck. Extremely nervous with headaches in the right temple, gas bloat and constipation complicated by insomnia from her aches and pains. Now, after correction of her spinal nerves, she enjoys freedom from her pains and aches. No. 2173. You can have the same health when your spinal nerves are freed from nerve root irritation.

Mahon Asked To Support Pay Bill

Letters to Rep. George Mahon were written at the Monday evening meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks No. 1694.

The women met in the home of Mrs. Joe Fortson, 2701 Cindy Lane, where they drafted the requests that Mahon support a pending bill involving pay raises for postal employees.

Mrs. James Abbe, president, conducted the business meeting as plans were made to assist a needy family at Christmas.

Refreshments were served by the hostess from a table decorated with a Thanksgiving motif. Mrs. Abbe will be hostess for the December dinner meeting.

Birthday Anniversary Noted At Westbrook

WESTBROOK (SC) — Mrs. M. J. Whirley was honored with a surprise dinner Sunday observing her 80th birthday which was Nov. 16. The dinner was held in the home of her granddaughter and family, the B. G. Hamricks, Westbrook.

A three tiered white cake with pink roses and 80 candles was served.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Whirley and children, Jan and Marlene, Coahoma; Mr. and Mrs. Jabe J. Whirley, O'Donnell; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Whirley, Big Spring;

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walker, Colorado City; Mr. and Mrs. Ervin L. Jones, O'Donnell; Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Stokes, Stephenville; Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Texans Give Errant Louisianan New Start

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A 17-year-old Louisiana youth has a new start in life today thanks to a Texas judge, a bailiff and a court clerk.

Richard G. Ledoux reached the age of 17 in the county jail Aug. 2 after being charged with participating in a $2 robbery July 21.

Monday afternoon, the youth's mother, Mrs. Audrey Ledoux of Big Lake, La., hobbled into Criminal Dist. Judge E. B. Duggan's office leading her invalid daughter, Betty, 6.

Mrs. Ledoux wears a brace as the result of poliomyelitis. Betty has a serious heart defect.

Judge Duggan was touched by Mrs. Ledoux's story. She and the little girl had ridden a bus from Lake Charles to Houston to see about her son. They did not have enough money to remain overnight.

Ledoux, who had been working at a nursery before he was

Wouldn't Trade Positions With Russians—McNamara

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says "I would not trade our strategic posture for that of the Soviets at any point during the coming decade."

McNamara said the United States has a strategic nuclear deterrent far superior to that of the Soviet Union. Also, he said, this country has combat-ready mobile conventional forces armed with tactical nuclear weapons at least the equal of any the Soviet Union and its allies could mobilize in Europe.

McNamara's report, made in a speech at a dinner of the Economic Club of New York Monday night, had been billed as a major policy speech and was believed to be the Kennedy administration's answer to recent Soviet actions in Berlin and tough talk by Premier Khrushchev.

McNamara discounted arguments of those who say the United States has hundreds of times more strength than it needs and those who say the country is risking its future by unilateral disarmament.

McNamara said recent experience with the Russians in Cuba and Berlin "has not persuaded me that I can predict with confidence the sorts of challenges that Communist leaders will come to think prudent and profitable."

He continued: "If they again were to miscalculate as dangerously as they did a year ago (in Cuba) it would be essential to confront them, wherever they might be, with the full consequences of this action: The certainty of meeting immediate, appropriate and fully effective military action."

McNamara said the Russians are vastly inferior in intercon-

Defense Wins Texas Games

DALLAS (AP) — A remarkable defense, especially against rushing, has been largely responsible for Texas maintaining its No. 1 rank in the nation for five straight weeks.

The Longhorns, No. 1 defensive team in the Southwest Conference by allowing only 195.1 yards per game, shines mostly with its stinginess in holding ball-carriers to just 78.6 yards.

MATTY BELL, athletic director at SMU: "The time to chew out players is not after a defeat, but after a win."

JOHN BRIDGERS, Baylor coach, following loss to Texas: "There were a few things we had to do if we were going to beat Texas."

LEFTY O'DOUL, former National League champion batter: "Gabby Street (then managing the St. Louis Cardinals) had given his pitchers orders to knock me down every time I came to the plate."

Entire Team Given Player Certificate

A Big Spring lineman singled out for his blocking and an entire team (Garden City) were singled out for distinguished play by the Daily Herald in last week's football games around the area.

Coach Jack Woodson of Garden City suggested that his entire team be honored for its sterling performance against Forsan, so a certificate will go to the entire group.

Player of the Year certificates will be awarded to players of each school at a later date. The honorees this week: BIG SPRING

LINEMAN—Senior John Lowe, 135-pound defensive and offensive end, was selected this week for his fine play against Wylie.

BACK—For the fourth time this season, junior halfback Eddie McHugh earned the title. He scored three times against Wylie and had another TD called back.

LINEMAN—Donny Thompson, 160-pound senior linebacker, was selected for the fourth time this season for his performance in the Buffaloes' final game with Sonora.

Albert Fierro of Big Spring has tied Midland's Ross Montgomery for the overall scoring championship in District 2-A-A football.

Each has 58 points for the season. Fierro counted a touchdown against Abilene last week while Montgomery, bothered by a pulled muscle in his leg, did not get into the scoring column.

selected for their performance against Sonora. One is Dink Polson, a 145-pound sophomore quarterback, who looked good in all phases of the game, and junior Mike Hall, 195-pound fullback. Hall hit hard all night and turned in one of his finest performances in a losing effort against the Sonora club.

LINEMAN—Senior John Lowe, 135-pound defensive and offensive end, was selected this week for his fine play against Wylie.

Bufs Must Go To Jayton For 8-Man Playoff Game

SNYDER — In a meeting held Monday in Snyder to decide the site of the football playoff game between Districts 4 and 6-B (eight-man) it was determined that this year's contest would take place in Jayton at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The game will be between the Forsan Buffaloes (6-B) and the Jayton Jaybirds. Forsan closed the season with a 7-3 record, with one of the losses coming earlier in the fall to Jayton, 50-20. Jayton enjoyed a 10-0 romp through the playoffs.

The two teams met only a year ago in another bi-district playoff game in Snyder, with the Jaybirds coming out victorious, 56-22.

Oscar Boeker is completing his second season as head coach of the Forsan club and had his squad in the playoffs both years.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles ended seven weeks of suspense today by officially naming Hank Bauer their new field manager, an announcement that no longer surprised anyone.

PARIS—Hemel Laguna, 12 1/2, Panama, outpointed Joe Rafiq King, 12 1/2, Nigeria, 10.

Governor Endorses Water Division Plan

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally indicated support Monday of a $511 million project that would divert excess water from East Texas river basins to more arid portions in the state. Addressing the 19th annual convention of the Texas Water Conservation Association, Connally pointed out that state law prohibits the exportation of water if such action would be detrimental to the exporting basin. "Diversion would never be considered unless the basins of origin are adequately protected and assured of a water supply to meet long-range requirements," the governor said.

He referred to a plan by the U.S. Department of Interior, Bureau of Reclamation, calling for a 410-mile inter-basin canal running from near Orange on the Sabine River to Brownsville in the Rio Grande Valley. Connally said the association could take pride with the conservation progress it has made in recent years. He noted that failure to develop water resources could stunt Texas' growth.

Fence Lumber Has Arrived

A boxcar from California containing 35,000 board feet of Western cedar for the Ellis Homes arrived in Big Spring Monday, according to W. O. McMeans, manager.

"The area exposed to motorists will be fenced off," McMeans said. He said six-foot high fence blinds will be constructed between the houses to screen off clotheslines and the backyard areas.

"We also plan to erect 3-foot fences around the yards of houses where it will do the most good," McMeans said. He added that shrubbery will be planted at the ends of the buildings between the fence blinds.

Ninety per cent of the families that live in the 140 houses of the Ellis Homes are of Webb AFB personnel. The manager said he has been trying to improve the appearance of the homes for several years. Some fence blinds already have been erected, and a new fence has been constructed at the north end of the playground south of the area.

stream from Austin to San Antonio. The association took no official stand on the proposed system but its resolution committee recommended that the project be given "serious consideration and study."

Joe D. Carter, chairman of the Texas Water Commission and the Texas Water Pollution Control Board, said the federal government may take over water pollution control unless the state does the job.

"Too often we hear brave talk about states' rights, but only silence about states' responsibilities and the assumption of those responsibilities," Carter said.

Five new directors were elected by the association. They are Ralph Hardy of Fort Worth, William F. Guyton of Austin, M. T. Martin of Harlingen, Kenneth Roberts of Houston and Mayor R. C. Gusman of Bay City. John W. Simmons of the Sabine River Authority was re-elected president of the association.

DEAR ABBY Shades Of Criticism!

DEAR ABBY: Just before report-card time, our sixth grade teacher told us to write a paragraph grading HER on her personality and teaching ability. She said we could tell about her good points and bad points and nothing would be held against us. Well, I thought she really meant it, so I went ahead and told her what I thought of her. I guess maybe I didn't say enough about her good points and kind of went overboard on her bad points because my mother just got a letter from the teacher telling everything I wrote, and saying how horrible it was of me. Now my mother is making me write an "I'm sorry" letter to the teacher. Do you think it was fair of this teacher? Also should I have to write that "I am sorry" letter? I thank you.

A SIXTH GRADER:
DEAR SIXTH GRADER: I think your teacher was extremely unfair! But your Mom is trying to teach you that although some people insist they want to hear the truth about themselves, if it's unflattering, they resent it. Mom is the boss. Honey, so write that letter, and remember the lesson.

DEAR ABBY: We are expecting our second child in December and we want to know if we should send out birth announcements I have heard that it is proper to send such announcements for only the FIRST child. But we have many friends and relatives out of the state, and we'd like them to know about this new baby when it comes. What is proper? K. F.

DEAR K. F.: It is entirely proper to send out a birth announcement for EACH new arrival.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "LISTENING" she'll never learn anything by listening to her husband talk in his sleep because dream specialists tell us that more lies than truths are told during sleep. I dream the most fantastic dreams and I talk right out loud in my sleep, too, but my husband knows better than to take anything I say seriously. Once I went around the world with Harry Truman (I am a Republican!) and it caused a big national scandal, but Bess didn't mind a bit. Another time Cary Grant and Liberace were fighting over me. To my knowledge I've never dreamt anything sensible in my life.

LOVES TO DREAM
CONFIDENTIAL TO M. B.: Tell him your right age—and fast. Old schoolmates pop up in the strangest places.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Eagle Chapter To Get Charter

Charter for aerie No. 3188 of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will be presented in special ceremonies set for 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Settles Hotel, where the aerie hall is maintained on the mezzanine floor.

Earl Robertson, Midland, Southwest area president for FOE, will make the charter presentation. The Odessa ritual team, winner of the state championship for eight consecutive years, will be on hand to conduct the initiation ceremonies.

There are 62 members in the new aerie, and about 20 of these are yet to be initiated. W. L. Thompson, president, said that officials are anxious to have all members present, especially candidates for initiation.

Other officers are C. L. Richardson, vice president; J. B. McKinney, treasurer; V. A. Whittington, secretary; T. J. Adams, John Littlejohn and J. B. Dalton, trustees.

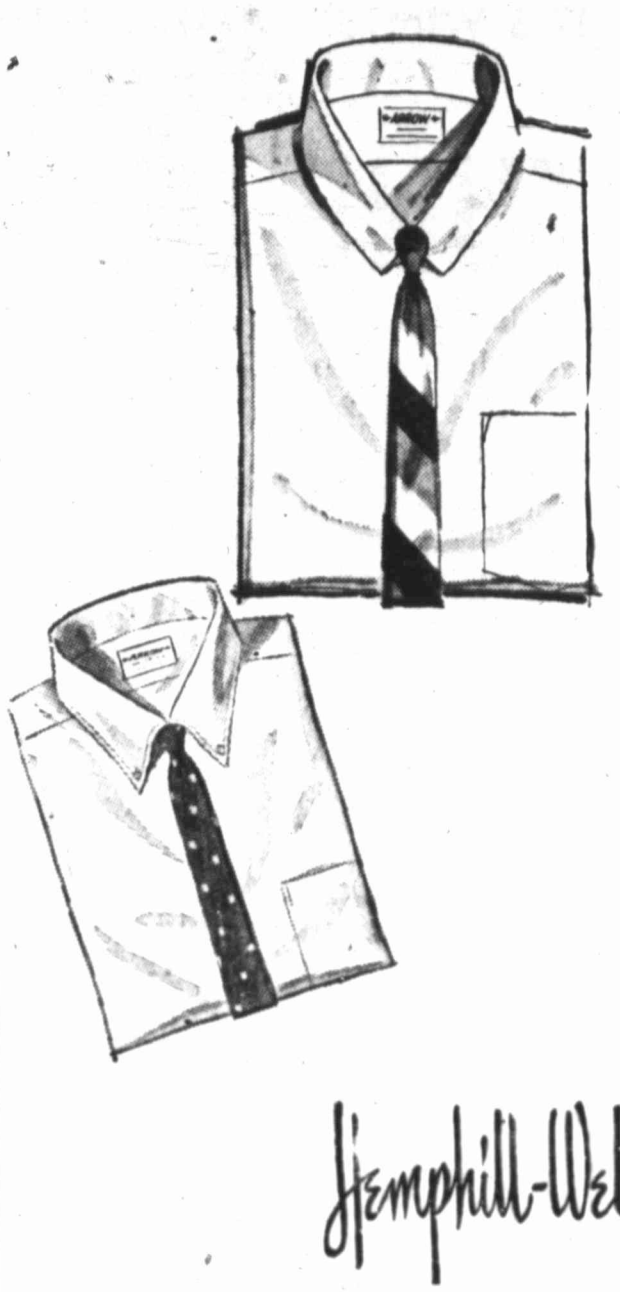

Glasscock County Police Duty Light

GARDEN CITY—R. V. Pruitt, who handles the law enforcement for Glasscock County, said he and his assistants have been kept fairly busy, but that few of the calls are on criminal or felony cases.

"Most of our jail or court customers are transients, or from other counties," he said. "We have a few calls to investigate misdemeanors, but even these are few."

Glasscock County has 864 square miles of territory, a large percentage of it ranch country. Helping Pruitt with his chores are Helen Wilkerson, office deputy, and Jack Martin, field deputy.

Hire-For-Kill Dealings Described By Witness

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — An alleged killer, prosecutor William Randall claims the motives were $1 million insurance on Mrs. Thompson's life and Thompson's love for another woman.

Thompson, 35, a St. Paul attorney, is accused of instigating the budgeon - stabbing death last March 6 of his wife, Carol, 34. He is charged with first degree murder.

Monday, Richard G. Sharp testified he introduced Anderson to Mastrian and said he arranged with Norman Mastrian to find a son.
