Jack Ruby Indicted

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas grand jury indicted Jack Ruby today on charges of murder with malice in the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, the man accused of assassinating President Kennedy. Tom Howard, Ruby's lawyer, said his defense of the highly emotional, hot-tempered night club owner will be insanity. "I believed him to be out of his mind at the time of the shooting," Howard asserted. Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said "I'll ask the death penalty." Ruby, born Leon Rubenstein, dashed out of a crowd as the handcuffed Oswald was being transferred from city to county jail Sunday, and fired point-blank before anyone could touch him. The night spot operator-owner had grieved almost unbearably over the assassination of Kennedy in Dallas Friday, although he was not a man of any strong political persuasion. He just loved presidents, said some friends. "I'm crying! I can't take it!" Ruby said in talking to a friend about the president's assassination. It would be routine should Howard ask for a postponement beyond the Dec. 9 date. It also is routine that one postponement be granted the defense if requested. The indictment was presented to Judge Brown by grand jury foreman Durwood Sutton. The grand jury filed into Brown's court a few minutes before 9 a.m. Brown asked: "Are you going to consider the Ruby matter?" Wade replied: "They have already done it, your honor. We have spent the last two hours on it." The indictment was in a stack of indictments which had been placed on Brown's desk.

U.S.-French Thaw Hoped After Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—A thaw in the chilly U.S.-French relations appears possible following the announcement that Presidents Johnson and Charles de Gaulle will meet here early next year. The surprise announcement came from President Johnson after he had spent 18 minutes in private conference with the French president at a reception late Monday for foreign dignitaries who attended President John F. Kennedy's funeral. Johnson, obviously plunging into the monumental tasks before him with rapidity, came out from the conference room and said, "We have decided he would come back and talk more early next year." To give it further emphasis he told newsmen: "Sure, you can quote me." IN FEBRUARY De Gaulle originally had planned to meet with Kennedy, probably in February, and arrangements had been completed. It appeared the two men swiftly came to agreement on the need for early talks to clear up standing differences between the two long-time allies. The tall French president was given the center of attention at the reception, as he has been since he arrived Sunday for the funeral. He was in relaxed, chatty form. SPECULATION Announcement of the meeting came amid general speculation on how Johnson and De Gaulle will get along. The answer would appear to be that they will get along well personally, but any changes in policy would have to come from the American side. De Gaulle, who regards world affairs in the broad, historic sense, is a stubborn man with fixed ideas, devoted to France. He is not malleable, as his frequently illustrated in his differences with Kennedy. MANY PROBLEMS Problems confronting Kennedy's successor and the French chief of state are manifold, but some of the larger ones are De Gaulle's go-it-alone atomic defense policy, his uncooperative attitude toward the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, his chilly attitude toward the limited nuclear test ban treaty and his lofty position on the Common Market. But De Gaulle never hesitates to make it clear that in any showdown France would come quickly to America's side.

Howard Wildcat Well Explodes Into Flames

WELL BLAZES OUT OF CONTROL Red Adair, in plane at left, circles McGrath No. 1 Brown

Famed Red Adair Goes Into Action

By JOE BEYER A wildcat oil test this morning spit flames more than 100 feet into the air with an explosion heard 15 miles away and at noon it still raged and roared out of control some 13 miles northwest of Big Spring. The project, McGrath and Smith No. 1 J. E. Brown, located 1,980 feet from the south and 660 feet from the west lines 28-33-2n, T&P survey, was an old failure re-entered in an attempt to reach the Ellenburger. It never got that far. BLEW OUT After drilling to 9,965 feet, some 65 feet deeper than it was drilled previously, the project blew out with more than 6,000 pounds of pressure and speeded mud, gas and distillate over the cotton field in which it is located. It blew out at 4:15 a.m. today and ignited spontaneously at 5:10 a.m. only a few minutes after Big Spring firemen arrived. Twenty-one minutes later, the $80,000 drilling rig, already worthless because the heat, collapsed. An hour later the sub-structure also gave way. Great black clouds of smoke from oil spewing into the pits north of the hole mingled with gray and white smoke issuing from the area where the crumpled derrick lay. A northerly wind blew the flames and smoke away. By mid-morning water had begun to spew from the hole along with gas and distillate, spraying a fine mist on a dirt road three-eighths mile south of the fire. NO INJURIES No one was injured in the explosion. Immediately after the well blew out, the equipment and power were shut off and the crew of seven men left the scene. Red Adair, world-famous oil well fire fighter from Houston, arrived shortly after 9 a.m. today to try his hand at extinguishing the burning well. Flying in his own plane, he circled the fire once before landing at Howard County Airport. Bulldozers and other equipment were already on their way to the scene and by mid-morning highway patrolmen had established a roadblock on an access road adjacent to the cotton field to keep spectators at a safe distance. The Forest Blackstock Drilling Co. rig had been moved to the site Saturday after completing hole at Tucker Drilling Co., Inc. No. 1 B. W. Marchbanks, apparent Wolfcamp strike in southeastern Howard County. "It was the only wildcat rig drilling in the Big Spring area and we let it burn up," Bob Williams, tool pusher when the unit blew out, said this morning. "That wasn't very considerate of us, was it?" Williams and Slick Cochran, mud man, both from Midland, stayed with the inferno, remaining more than 100 yards away. "If one of those tanks goes, even this is not a safe distance," Williams said, pointing to two aluminum-colored butane tanks only a few feet away from the blaze. The well was originally drilled as M. A. Machris No. 1 J. E. Brown to 9,000 feet and was plugged and abandoned April 28, 1954 after recovering 90 feet of drilling mud and 8,400 feet of salt water on drillstem tests of the Pennsylvanian from 8,975-9,000 feet. On elevation 2,590 feet, it topped the Spraberry at 6,413 feet, the Dean sand at 7,620 feet and the Reef at 8,750 feet. The Pennsylvanian was encountered at 8,965 feet. 1951 BLOWOUT It is about five miles northwest of another project which blew out from the Pennsylvanian in 1951. That venture, Deep Rock No. 1 J. O. McCrary, just south of the Fairview Gin, surfaced gas in four minutes and in 15 minutes on test of a section from 9,038-40 feet, spraying 43-gravity oil and gas so heavily that traffic on US 87 north and the adjacent farm road was temporarily closed Sept. 7, 1951. That venture, too, was plugged and abandoned. On the burning well, the operator had drilled about 20 feet into shows of oil and gas and was circulating when it blew out. Despite the water being kicked out of the hole, there appeared to be little hope that the well would seal itself off because of the high pressure.

Johnson Orders Public FBI Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered the FBI to prepare a detailed report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and that the people be told all the facts. The report is to cover, too, the fatal shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused slayer of the late president, the White House announced Monday. Johnson has "directed all federal agencies to cooperate," the White House said. The announcement came after Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the assistant House Democratic leader, suggested a high-level congressional investigation of Kennedy's assassination. Citing the fact that the killing of Oswald, 24, aborted the normal public disclosure and weighing of evidence in a trial, Boggs said he thinks Congress should conduct a careful inquiry to determine the facts, assemble them for public consideration and try to answer any questions that may linger in Americans' minds. Authorities in Dallas, where a sniper's rifle bullets ended Kennedy's life Friday, say the evidence is conclusive and that the case is closed—so far as the question of Oswald's guilt or innocence is concerned. Perhaps feeling that there is still some uneasiness in the public mind, Dallas Police Chief Jesse Curry said his department intends to make all the evidence public unless federal agencies want some withheld. A further problem is the persistent campaign by some Soviet propaganda agencies to depict the killing of Oswald, who had steadily protested his innocence, as part of a right-wing plot that took the President's life. BLUE-RIBBON Boggs said he favors a "blue-ribbon inquiry, far above any suggestion of partisanship." Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, said he will introduce legislation making any assault on the President, vice president or other high executive or judicial officers a federal crime. Such a statute would guarantee quick FBI action in any such case, Ayres said.

Our System On Trial, Says Busy President

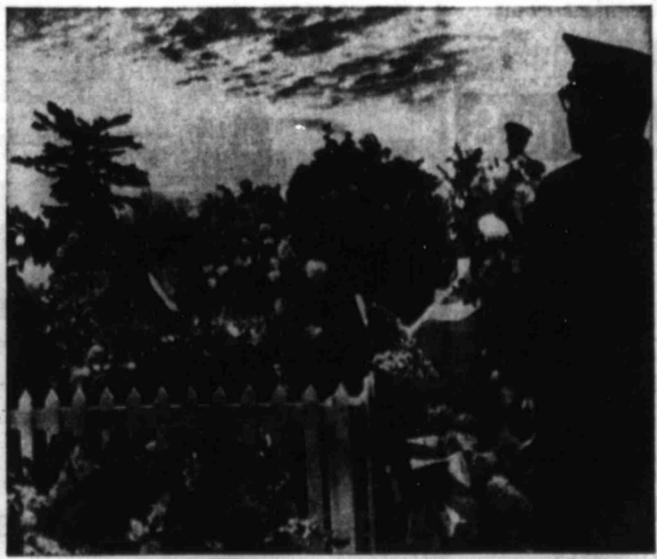

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson moves today from temporary quarters into the oval presidential office in the White House, feeling "our whole system is on trial" because of the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Since the murder of President Kennedy on Friday in Dallas, Johnson had conducted the presidency from his old vice presidential quarters in the Executive Office Building next door to the White House. On tap for the first day in the new office were meetings with foreign dignitaries and preparation of an address Wednesday to a joint session of Congress. Johnson, in his first speech since becoming chief executive, made evident Monday night his belief that the Kennedy assassination puts the American system to a severe test and must prompt renewed efforts to prove that the system, despite one sniper's act, is superior to any other. CONTINUITY Beyond that, Johnson pledged "continuity without confusion"—a continuation of Kennedy administration programs and policy aims without any immediate shakeup of top officials that might puzzle and perturb the nation and the world. Johnson's assessment of the needs of the day was delivered off the cuff to 35 state governors who met with him long after sunset. This was not his final message of the busy day. His schedule was topped off by a late evening session with Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and the Council of Economic Advisers. This meeting took up the tax cut proposal and the broad outlines of the federal budget that will go to Congress in January. FULL HEAD Johnson headed for his home in the Spring Valley section of the city at 10:45 p.m., giving every sign that, even before moving into the White House, he was operating under a full head of steam. For today, Johnson lined up conferences with some of the many foreign dignitaries who flew to Washington for the Kennedy funeral. Johnson arranged to visit with the new British prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home; with the president of the Philippines, Diosdado Macapagal, and with the new West German chancellor, Ludwig Erhard. MANY MORE The President saw all three—and many more—at a reception Monday night at the State Department, before he met with the governors. In addition to greeting all foreign delegates to the Kennedy funeral, Johnson spent 18 minutes privately with President Charles de Gaulle of France, eight minutes with Prime Minister Lester Pearson of Canada and 12 minutes with Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda of Japan.

A Beautiful U.S. Flag History

The history of the U. S. Flag is this week's feature in The Herald's AMERICANA DOCUMENT collection. It is an antiquated parchment, and will make a lovely item for framing. It is a part of our heritage that should be in every home. It sells at The Herald office (or you can order by mail) for only 26¢. Four other documents may still be had, at 26¢ each; or these four are put together in a special packet that sells for only $1.02. These are: The Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, the Star-Spangled Banner and the Prayers of Peter Marshall. Start your collection right now — you'll be proud of every document.

Stocks Show Giant Surge

NEW YORK (AP) — A tremendous wave of buying put the stock market up to a huge gain early this afternoon, recovering a major part of the losses taken Friday on news of President Kennedy's death. Key stocks advanced from 1 to about 5 points on a broad front. Demand for some market wheelhorses was so great that their opening was delayed until after 12 noon (EST). Among these were AT&T, Du Pont, General Dynamics and American Motors. U.S. Steel opened on a great block of 120,000 shares, up 5 1/2 at 51. General Motors rose 3 at 77 1/2 on 76,000 shares. Sperry Rand opened on 60,000 shares, up 2 1/4 at 17 1/2. Pent-up buy orders were so heavy exchange officials had difficulty in making a market. The ticker tape ran late. Wall Street seemed reassured that there would be no great change in economic conditions as a result of the national tragedy.

SERVICEMEN GUARD FLOWER-BANKED KENNEDY GRAVE White picket fence encloses area in Arlington National Cemetery

Widow Ends Trying Day With Second Grave Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The day for Jacqueline Kennedy had been a long and crushing one. But shortly before midnight she slipped out of the White House and rode through the darkness to place a sprig of flowers on her husband's new grave. An eternal flame—placed at the head of the assassinated president's grave at her request—flickered on the silent hillside. Her brother-in-law, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, was at her side. Only hours earlier, world dignitaries had crowded the area during graveside rites for the fallen leader. STOOD ALONE At night, the two stood alone. After 10 minutes they went back to the executive mansion. Some of Mrs. Kennedy's plans for the future may be made known today, according to White House press secretary Pierre Salinger. She must seek a new way of life for herself and her two children. Among the foremost questions are how long will she remain at the White House, where will she make her new home and what will become of the White House school she set up for daughter Caroline and some 20 other children. PUBLIC ROLE Mrs. Kennedy, a widow at 34, never sought nor relished the public role she came to play as the wife of John Fitzgerald Kennedy. She married him in 1953, when he was a young senator from Massachusetts. When Kennedy became president in 1961, Mrs. Kennedy looked with some dismay at the life ahead. Mrs. Kennedy, traveling abroad to 13 countries alone and with her husband, speaking French, Spanish and Italian as she went, soon carved for herself a niche of fame. She drew crowds by the thousands and became a goodwill ambassador for America on her own. She constantly pleaded for privacy for herself and her children, John Jr., who had his third birthday Monday—the day of his father's funeral—and Caroline, who will be 6 Wednesday. To a woman with such a keen desire for privacy, the ordeal of the funeral ceremonial for her husband seemed doubly difficult. Yet, Mrs. Kennedy not only planned many of the details to give her husband "the most distinguished funeral possible," but took a full role herself despite her heart-breaking grief. Following the pattern of the funeral of another slain president, Abraham Lincoln, she asked that a procession march on foot to take the chief executive's body to the church funeral and she led it herself. PT109 Crewman Attends Service SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — One of the 11 survivors of the sinking of PT109 during World War II attended memorial services for President Kennedy aboard the USS Oklahoma City. Ray Starkey, an oil field worker, wept quietly during the tribute Monday to the fallen commander-in-chief and former skipper of the ill-fated PT boat.

PROFILE OF LYNDON B. JOHNSON

Proud, Driving Man Takes Presidency

EDITOR'S NOTE — To Lyndon Baines Johnson, the presidency of the United States came suddenly and shockingly on a sunny afternoon last week. But for most of his life he had been preparing for leadership. In the first of three articles, spotlighting the new President, Bretton Morris, Associated Press Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter, relates how a telephone call on July 24, 1960, summoned the Texas senator to become the Democratic candidate for vice president—a call that led him to the nation's highest office.

By RELMAN MORIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — At 8 o'clock on the morning of July 14, 1960, a ringing telephone summoned Lyndon Baines Johnson to his moment of destiny.

The call came from John F. Kennedy. A day earlier, Kennedy had defeated Johnson for the Democratic nomination for president. Now he said he wanted to talk with Johnson, but he didn't say why.

Two hours later, in Suite 7334, the Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, Kennedy asked Johnson to take second place on the ticket.

The vice presidency? Second place?
SECOND PLACE
Johnson is a proud, dynamic, driving man. Moreover, as Senate majority leader—and an incredibly successful one—he commanded enormous power, far greater than that invested in the office of vice president.

"Once there were two brothers," said Thomas R. Marshall, vice president to Woodrow Wilson. "One ran away to sea, the other was elected vice president, and nothing was ever heard of either of them again."

But Johnson arouses strong loyalties in others, and he gives his in full measure.

UNTIL 1960

His own chances for the presidency were gone. If Kennedy won, the opportunity probably would not return again until 1968, when he would be 60. He knew the degree of his importance, for eight years, would be determined by Kennedy. As a politician, he also knew that Kennedy needed help in carrying the South, and as a Southerner, that he could provide the political muscle.

And so he accepted second place. He told Kennedy that, henceforth, "LBJ" would signify "Let's Back Jack."

At 2:39 p.m. last Friday—three years, four months, and eight days later—Lyndon Baines Johnson was sworn in as the 36th President of the United States.

He is the eighth vice president to be elevated to the White House through the death of a chief executive. What manner of man is he? Let him profile himself. He once said:

"I am a free man, an American, a U.S. senator and a Democrat in that order. I am also a liberal, a conservative, a Texan, a taxpayer, a rancher, a businessman, a parent, a voter, and not as young as I used to be, nor as old as I expect to be —and I am all those things in no fixed order."

He could have added that he is the descendant of Baptist preachers and educators, and that he has been a schoolteacher, a law student, a congressional secretary, a farm hand, a road worker, a janitor, a truck driver, a dishwasher, and a Navy lieutenant commander who received the Silver Star from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

QUALITIES

He has two dominant qualities—energy and focus. As a senator, Johnson worked 14 and 16 hours a day. His day started at 6:30 a.m. with coffee, the New York and Washington newspapers, and the Congressional Record.

He would go to his office at 8, sometimes dictating to a secretary in the car.

In a day, it was not uncommon for him to receive 70 calls, 650 letters, 500 telephone calls. How does anyone know? His staff maintained a chart, a kind of box score, that showed the numbing statistics.

LET'S FUNCTION

"Come on, let's function—let's function," he would say, when things seemed to be bogging down.

His wife, born Claudia Alta Taylor, and nicknamed "Lady Bird" by her Negro nurse, once said of him:

"At night he comes home dog-tired. We seldom go out. Lyndon says he can't put on a black or white tie every night and still do his job."

On July 2, 1955, a heart attack felled Johnson. He stands 6-3 and he weighed 200 pounds at the time.

Convallescing, he was ordered by his doctors to cut his weight, his habit of chain-smoking cigarettes, and his working hours. He lost 25 pounds and stopped smoking. But he was soon back at the same working pace.

CONCENTRATED

He is so focused, so highly concentrated, that when he has something on his mind he seems not to be able to leave it, even temporarily.

An incident—This reporter went to his office one day for a prearranged interview. Johnson had just won an important objective on the Senate floor. He could not sit still. He fidgeted and twisted behind his desk.

He seemed to listen to the first question but said, "Excuse me a second." Then he placed a telephone call. When he hung up, he asked that the question be repeated. It didn't register. He already was phoning another man. Several telephone calls later, interspersed with instructions to several staff members, we got through the first question. Then I gave up, hoping for a better day.

ABSORBED

Thus—prior to the heart attack at least—he was completely absorbed in his work. He said he had been too busy to read books, listen to music. If he went to a ball game it was "for the company."

Johnson's close friend, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., once said of him:

"Lyndon Johnson hasn't got the best mind in the Senate. He isn't the best orator. He isn't the best parliamentarian. But he is the best combination of all those qualities."

In his Senate office, Johnson had a large, framed legend which said, "You Ain't Learnin' Nothin' When You're Talkin'." He is a good listener and he comes now to the greatest learning job in the world.

Wednesday: The two-hour head start.

LBJ Asks Support On Rights, Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the first speech of his presidency, Lyndon Johnson called on 35 of the nation's governors to support the civil rights and tax cut programs of President John Kennedy.

Johnson's appeal came at a hastily called closed meeting Monday night as many of the governors prepared to return home from Kennedy's funeral. Excerpts of the speech released later made no mention of civil rights and the $11 billion tax cut. But the governors said the President made a specific appeal for these two programs.

Johnson received a standing ovation following the 20-minute speech.

MOST POLICIES
Asking the governors' help and cooperation in the days ahead, Johnson said he planned to continue most Kennedy policies — especially in the area of foreign policy.

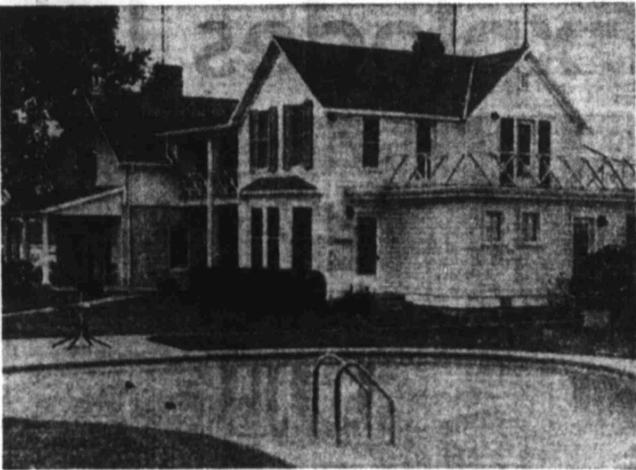

Johnson said that the U.S. government "will work only when people are willing to cooperate and work together for the common good." Noting that "our whole system has gone on trial," Johnson said: "If they (the people) insist on glaring at each other, refusing to work together, and standing firmly on prerogatives and forgetting responsibilities, the nation will quickly be paralyzed." The President also told the governors that "continuity without confusion has got to be our password and has to be the key to our system."

In the audience were two Republican presidential possibilities, Govs. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and William Scranton of Pennsylvania.

Both pledged their support to Johnson in seeking congressional passage of an omnibus civil rights bill and the tax reduction program.

Rockefeller called Johnson's speech a "very moving statement for unity in America" and said it had "the full endorsement of all present." Scranton said Johnson made an impressive speech and received "the support of everyone present."

RANCH HOUSE NEAR JOHNSON CITY NEW SUMMER WHITE HOUSE LBJ spread takes on new meaning; blue swimming pool is in foreground

Rambling Ranch Now Summer White House

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — A rambling 13-room stone frame ranch house on the banks of the Pedernales River near here is the nation's new summer White House.

"LBJ Ranch" says that the wrought iron sign on the stone gate posts leading to the Texas home of President Lyndon Johnson. Through the gate you see rolling green pastures dotted with fat white-faced Hereford cattle. There are groves of live oak trees that were there when Johnson's grandfather built the original house 100 years ago. In the past you could tell when Johnson was home because the flagpole beside the front yard swimming pool would carry the U.S. flag, the Texas flag and Johnson's personal flag. "LBJ" in white script on a blue background. The "LBJ" flag will be replaced now by the presidential flag.

OVER DAM
The entrance to the ranch grounds is over a low water dam and roadway across the Pedernales that in flood times becomes impassable.

"I'll see you Saturday if the Lord is willing and the creeks don't rise," Mrs. Johnson often tells guests.

The ranch house is part native stone and part white frame. One of Johnson's aunts did all of her cooking over a mammoth fire place that now is the living room. Four big bedrooms in the house and more in a nearby guest house take care of frequent guests. About 30 telephone lines to the ranch house attempted to take care of Johnson's official business when he was vice president. A White House communications staff usually set up shop in a tin-roofed tool shed near the house.

BLUE POOL
Just outside Johnson's first floor bedroom is a big blue swimming pool with numerous telephone outlets around the edge.

"Welcome to LBJ Ranch" is scratched in the concrete of a sidewalk outside the front gate. Other concrete stepping stones around the pool carry signatures and greetings from famous figures who have visited the ranch.

Although 65 miles from Austin, the nearest city, Johnson keeps in close touch with the outside world. He always rides in a car equipped with a mobile telephone. Electric golf carts scurry about the ranch carrying messengers. About 100 feet from the ranch back door is an airplane hangar and a landing strip that will accommodate all but large four-engine airliners.

SPANISH ORIGIN
Johnson likes to tell guests that the river's name, of Spanish origin, means "Little white rocks shining in the night."

Like most other Central Texans he puts an extra "R" in his pronunciation making it sound "Per-dah-nalls." Water is piped from the river to irrigate lush pastures of coastal Bermuda grass in the 300-acre spread around the ranch house. Johnson also operates an 1,800 acre holding about 12 miles northwest of the ranch house.

Ranch hands say Johnson is as sharp in the stock farm business as in politics. He often took time out from being vice president to give orders on selling a shipment of lambs or buying new breeding stock.

GETTYSBURG
A reporter once commented that he had heard former President Dwight Eisenhower's farm at Gettysburg operated at a loss.

Johnson thought a moment, then said proudly: "Well, I think at the end of the year our ranch will show a small profit."

Recently he took time off from Washington personally to show some of his prize winning Herefords at a nearby country fair in Fredericksburg.

The Johnson ranch is about 65 miles west of Austin. Johnson votes in Johnson City, about 13 miles east of the ranch and likes to say the community was named for his grandfather. He graduated from high school there.

Johnson City has about 700 residents and is the county seat of Blanco County. On the other hand, the farm community of Stonewall, just a couple of miles west of the ranch gate, has big signs on the highway saying it is the "Peach Capital of Texas and Home of LBJ." It has a population of about 150.

Some Questions

If, as the leaflet under review states, baptism identifies one with the church, then we have some questions. Does the congregation have a right to vote on a man to determine whether or not he shall be received into the church? Is not this voting to see whether or not he has a right to be baptized, since baptism identifies him with the church? But, is not baptism a command of God? See Acts 10:48. Does one have to get the consent of a church in order to obey God? Does a church have that much authority over a man's soul? Can it forbid one to obey his Maker?

DEAR ABBY
State Your Party Line!

DEAR ABBY: I am 42 years old, and a bachelor by choice. I am neither ugly nor handsome. I enjoy the company of women occasionally, but I don't want to get married just now. My problem is an intelligent, but extremely aggressive young woman—a Goldwater Republican, by the way—who moved in next door to me. She started the usual neighborly friendship. If she sees a light on in my place, or my car out in front, she runs over to visit. She has offered to cook for me and do my mending (I refused), and her conversation always gets around to marriage. Last week I moved my refrigerator, cooking equipment and TV down to the basement to make it appear that I'm not at home, but I can't fool her. What should I do?

IN HIDING
DEAR IN: Tell her you voted for Kennedy — and move back up stairs.

DEAR ABBY: I had my first baby 18 months ago and I received some very lovely gifts for her. I also bought many nice things for her on my own. I plan on having more children, and want to save all her clothes for my next baby. I have put them away as good as new. My sister-in-law is now pregnant and is due in May. She has two other children, 11 and 9, and didn't plan on this one, so she has nothing saved for it. She is 35 and says this will be her last, so she doesn't intend to go all out buying stuff. She has thrown him left and right for me to offer her my baby's things. It may sound selfish, but I want to keep these things for my next baby. Once anything is used by her it is a wreck as she doesn't take care of anything. What can I say if she asks? Please advise.

SISTER-IN-LAW
DEAR SIS: Don't give anything unless it is given willingly and cheerfully. She won't ask. People who hint haven't the courage to ask.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl who would like your opinion about something my mother did. Last summer while I was on a trip with my family, I met a very nice boy who was working at the motel where we stayed. My mother looked him over and okayed a movie date. We said we would be back by 11:30. We stopped for a snack after the movie and were only 40 minutes late getting back. Mom didn't want to create a disturbance in the motel so she said she would put off my punishment until we got home. By the time we got home I had forgotten all about it, but Mom hadn't. Out of a clear blue sky she won't let me go to the Thanksgiving dance. Do you think it is fair of her to punish me this way for something I did last summer?

FURIOUS
DEAR FURIOUS: No. She should have punished you when you had it coming.

When Buick builds a LeSabre... Buick builds a high-priced car, and puts a low price on it.

Lots of cars are in LeSabre's price class, but that's where the resemblance ends. For instance: Does anybody else in LeSabre's class treat you to that gentle Buick ride or impressive Buick performance and new gas economy? No. And who else gives you 15-inch wheels, finned aluminum front brakes, extra cushioning for middle-seat travelers, and separate heat ducts and controls for the rear seat? Right again. Nobody in LeSabre's field but LeSabre. If all this makes you think a LeSabre would look awfully nice in your garage, you should see how nicely it fits a budget. You know who to see about it, of course: your Buick dealer. Who else? Above all, it's a Buick.

Dallas Gives Hero's Burial To Slain Cop

DALLAS (AP)—With no stone as yet to mark his passing, a hero cop rests today on a gentle hilltop near the southern limits of Dallas. He was J. D. Tippit, a decent, dutiful police officer, betrayed by a tragic moment of American history.

As he turned away Monday from Tippit's fresh grave, police chief Jesse Curry recalled:

"He was an ideal officer. He was a man of very fine morals. He was a very quiet and friendly man, and all our officers had the highest respect for him."

Tippit, like all cops, never asked to be a hero. He went home for lunch Friday to his modest three-bedroom house and decided he couldn't stay long. Said his widow, Marie:

"He said he might be needed, since most of the officers were downtown for the President's motorcade."

So Tippit returned to duty, and within a short time was felled by three bullets from the gun of Lee Harvey Oswald.

Thus he became a minor figure in an awesome chain of circumstance. For Oswald, to the best knowledge of authorities, was the assassin of President John F. Kennedy. And on Sunday, Oswald himself was gunned down by a Dallas night club operator during a jail transfer.

CHECK FLIGHT

Tippit is credited by supervisors with having checked Oswald in flight long enough to ensure his capture.

Monday all three men went to their respective graves — Kennedy in Washington with the panoply and solemn dignity befitting a world leader, Oswald furtively in Fort Worth, Tippit humbly but beloved.

Tippit's funeral began in mid-afternoon, about the time President Kennedy's was reaching an impressive climax.

Four hundred persons were admitted to the small, red brick Beckley Hills Baptist Church. Outside in warm November sun another 1,000 stood in silent homage.

FLOWERS

Behind Tippit's silver gray casket flowers were banked as high as five feet. From behind them a woman organist played gently.

Every Dallas cop not on duty was there in neatly creased uniforms. So were policemen from as far away as San Antonio and Tulsa, Okla., come to honor a fallen comrade.

Tippit's widow, a slender, blue-eyed brunette in a severe black dress, entered the chapel with eyes swollen nearly shut from tears. Behind her were their three children, Allen, 14, Brenda, 10, and Curtis, 4.

BACKDROP

The service was brief. At its end the Rev. C. D. Tipps Jr. took note of the enormous backdrop against which Tippit's life ended. The minister said simply:

"In this hour we would pray also for Mrs. Kennedy."

From the church, with its spiny steeple, Tippit was borne to his grave in Laurel Land Memorial cemetery, behind an escort of 15 motorcycle officers.

There his widow bade goodbye and came away murmuring, "God, oh God!"

And so a dedicated cop left the force—in a tragedy not of his making.

Pray Outside Kennedy's Birthplace

Crowds gathered in front of the birthplace of assassinated President John F. Kennedy in Brookline, Mass., as prayers led by clergymen of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths were read. ## OSWALD, TIPPIT Other Figures Taken To Rest

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Like the President with whom their fate became inextricably linked, the hero cop and the drifting Communist went to their rest Monday.

President John F. Kennedy was buried in the solemn majesty of a nation's grief in Arlington National Cemetery.

The cop went to his rest in a gentle hilltop in South Dallas—in a grave still unmarked with a stone.

And the Communist was buried almost furtively in simple ceremonies in a Fort Worth graveyard.

The President, authorities said, was shot to death Friday by the Communist, Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, who drifted into the Marine Corps and out with an undesirable discharge, into Soviet Russia with a desire to change his citizenship and out when he pleaded with the State Department to let him come home.

The policeman, Patrolman J. D. Tippit, met Oswald about three miles from the assassination scene Friday and was shot to death when he stopped him for questioning—probably after hearing a description of the assassin on his prowling car radio.

Soon Oswald was charged with murdering both the President and the patrolman—and 36 hours later he, too, was dead, gunned down by a fourth man who burst into the national Arlington Cemetery.

He was Jack Ruby, 32, Dallas strip joint owner. Some said Ruby killed Oswald out of grief over the President's death. Others said the cause of his grief was fear the city's sadness would cost him holiday business.

Only a handful of relatives watched Oswald's inexpensive coffin lowered into the grave in Fort Worth. They were his mother, Mrs. Marguerite Oswald; his widow, Marina, 22; their two small daughters, and his brother, Robert Oswald of Denton, Tex.

The Rev. Louis Saunders, executive secretary of the Fort Worth Council of Churches, conducted the brief services—agreeing to do so when, apparently, no other minister would for the avowed Marxist, probably atheist.

Rail Ruling Due Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal arbitrators announce today a ruling Congress hopes will break the long railroad work rules dispute and prevent the renewal of a nationwide strike threat.

The ruling of the seven-man arbitration board under an emergency law passed by Congress last August will be binding on both the railroads and the five operating unions involved.

If the two sides cannot settle other issues which Congress left to negotiations, however, a new strike threat could arise again Feb. 25 when the law expires. That could lead to further congressional action.

The arbitrators' ruling involves the jobs of approximately 50,000 union members, mostly members of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. The other unions are the AFL-CIO Switchmen's Union of North America and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the independent Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen.

The arbitrators' ruling was scheduled to be filed in U.S. District Court in late afternoon. Two issues before the arbitrators are the size of engine crews and the size of train crews.

The railroads contend that the firemen and some other train crewmen are no longer needed on modern diesel yard and freight engines.

The unions argue that eliminating the jobs of firemen and cutting down on the number of other train crewmen would jeopardize safe operation of the trains.

Congress ordered the two sides to negotiate other issues, such as wage structure, employment security and changes in working conditions, but there has been no reported progress.

A spokesman for the railroad said the arbitrators' ruling will shift the focus of the dispute to the issues under negotiation.

Union spokesmen have said recently that the wage structure and other negotiated issues are far more important to them than the arbitrated matters of the firemen and train crew jobs.

The arbitrators' ruling becomes effective in 60 days.

Thirty days after that, at 12:01 a.m. Feb. 25, the emergency legislation expires.

All Of America Pays Final Tribute To Dead President

By The Associated Press

Americans everywhere paid final tribute Monday to John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

Airports, railroads and communication services halted operations momentarily as the President's funeral was held in Washington.

Many businesses and schools closed, as did amusement places, most governmental offices and the stock markets.

Thousands showed up at the site of the President's assassination in Dallas, Tex. Floral arrangements carried a myriad of messages. One said, "God Forgive Us All."

At Honesdale, Pa., the bell at Grace Episcopal Church tolled 46 times at noon, once for each year of Kennedy's life.

In Norfolk, Va., a bell atop the city's Public Safety Building rang 50 times, once for each year.

SAME BELL

In an old firehouse at Keokuk, Iowa, and in the First Presbyterian Church in Springfield, Ill., bells that tolled 98 years ago for another assassinated president, Abraham Lincoln, rang out again.

New York's bustling Times Square came to a standstill at noon. Pedestrians stood reverently, heads bowed, as two Boy Scouts blew Taps from atop the Hotel Astor marquee. Traffic had been diverted from the area.

COMMUTERS

In the cathedral-like confines of New York's Grand Central Station, 4,000 commuters watched silently as a huge television screen carried the funeral.

Navy warships in San Francisco Bay and the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt docked in Bayonne, N.J., boomed 21-gun salutes. Twenty-one guns were fired at noon at the Virginia Military Institute, followed by a 50-gun salute at 5:30 p.m.

As Taps sounded at 3:06 p.m.

EST. at Arlington National Cemetery, The Associated Press silenced its news wires.

Telegraph facilities of Radio Corp of America and Western Union halted messages for several minutes at noon and at 1 p.m., respectively.

Railroads stopped all trains, wherever they were, for the one minute past the noon hour at Narberth, Pa., a Pennsylvania Railroad conductor, Harry B. McAllister, played Taps aboard a stopped train while 200 passengers stood with heads bowed.

Johnson Setting Brisk Pace With Diplomacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is setting a brisk pace in personal diplomacy.

The new President set this course Monday night as he greeted presidents, prime ministers and crowned heads here for the funeral of John F. Kennedy.

Johnson dined with President Charles de Gaulle of France for 18 minutes. Johnson later revealed the result: the general's long-talked-of visit to the United States will come off early next year.

"We'll make detailed arrangements through the usual channels," the often aloof French chief said genially as Johnson bade him goodbye.

"We'll be back in touch," said Johnson, Texas-style.

Then Johnson called in Canada's new prime minister, Lester B. Pearson. In eight minutes the result: Pearson praised Johnson and said he, too, was accepting an invitation to return to Washington soon.

60 LEADERS

The White House announced that Johnson had sent messages to leaders or more than 60 nations telling them President Kennedy's death does not mean a change in U.S. foreign policy.

Today, Johnson sandwiches in sessions with the fast-fading remainder of foreign luminaries, including Britain's new prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home; West Germany's new chancellor, Ludwig Erhard, and Philippines President Diosdado Macapagal.

A high U.S. official was asked if these quick meetings amounted to get-acquainted sessions for the new occupant of the White House.

"Oh, no," the official exclaimed. "He knew these people before."

As vice president, Johnson traveled some 118,000 miles through more than 30 countries and took part in many foreign affairs duties here.

SUMMIT SOCIAL

Monday night, he presided over a massive summit social, a post-funeral reception at the State Department for more than 200 foreign dignitaries who had come to pay their last respects to President Kennedy.

Johnson pumped hands in the receiving line for an hour, sometimes with a double hand-clasp. Then he retired to a side reception room where he chatted five minutes or so with each of 14 foreign VIP's who were leaving town shortly.

De Gaulle, the last guest to arrive, came close to stealing the show. The towering general talked among others with the former U.S. ambassador to India, economist John Kenneth Galbraith, and diminutive Anastas I. Mikoyan. "I am an advocate of the affluent society, so I am for peaceful competition."

"You are so tall, all I can do is listen to you," said the Russian, looking up at the 6-foot-8 Galbraith.

"Tall people are easy to see and therefore they must behave themselves," Galbraith said. De Gaulle, nearly as tall as Galbraith, chimed in: "We should be merciless with short men."

In talking to Mikoyan alone, De Gaulle was overheard to say: "You've got to understand that what is good for France is not necessarily bad for Russia."

COOL FRONT BREAKS

Panhandle Freezes As Rain Dots South State

By The Associated Press

Light rain fell in South Central and Southwest Texas while a sharp freeze chilled the state's Panhandle-Plains sector Tuesday morning.

Skies were mostly cloudy over southern areas of Texas and clear to partly cloudy elsewhere.

Laredo, Victoria, San Antonio, Austin, Palestine and Tyler were among places welcoming a little rain during the night or early morning.

Temperatures before dawn ranged down to a crisp 21 degrees at Dalhart. The Brownsville reading was 69 at the same hour.

Top marks Monday varied from 51 at Childress to 78 at Brownsville.

The Weather Bureau predicted a continued scattering of showers over the southern half of the state Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Effects of the latest cool front, which started breaking up Monday, were expected to linger in moist sections through Tuesday night, with temperatures starting to rise a bit in the north Wednesday.

Businessmen Seeking To Shake Shock

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's economy seeks today to shake off the shock and indecision that followed the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Whether the economy can regain its vitality remains to be seen. Many business economists think it will.

Shops, banks and security houses that were closed all or part of Monday, out of respect for the President, resume business today.

INDICATORS

Businessmen will carefully watch sales, the stock markets and other indicators this week.

Economists say businessmen tend to put off decisions after a shock like this, partly to wait until their own minds clear, partly to figure out government plans and partly to see how the consumer is reacting.

Many seem confident there will merely be a temporary lull. "When the uncertainty and unsettlement are over, it will be seen that the basic economic situation is no different than before," said Roy L. Rierson, senior vice president for economics of the Bankers Trust Co., New York.

ADJUSTMENT

"Unless President Johnson brings the country quickly out of its state of shock," says Robert W. Mathieson, an economist for the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., "a serious downward economic adjustment would occur."

A Devotional For The Day

Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. (Matthew 6:26.)

PRAYER: Dear Father, we thank Thee for the care Thou givest to each of Thy children every day. Help us to live confidently and joyfully, because we know that Thou art aware of us. We thank Thee in the name of Jesus. Amen.

(From The "Upper Room")

Life Goes On

It is all over now; the mortal remains of John Fitzgerald Kennedy have been laid to rest on a grassy slope among men who gave their lives in war as in peace. And having paid final respects to the memory of a president, we must turn now to the business of governing a nation and leading a free world.

Life goes on, and with it the necessity for decisions day by day.

Perhaps out of the sobering events of the past few days Congress will be stirred to action, for yea or nay. Perhaps out of the experience there will be a desire to speak more of principles and less of personalities.

Perhaps for this time of tragedy we will be a more disciplined and responsible people.

Ahead lie formidable challenges, and ahead lies a presidential election year.

Perhaps a year from now we may know better the measure of our maturity.

Profiles In Courage

President Kennedy, at a trying time in his life, penned from a bed of pain a series of inspiring sketches which became "Profiles in Courage."

To this might be added at least two other chapters. One could be for himself, for several times in his life he found himself in situations where wealth and privilege counted for naught, and he proved himself to be a man. Because of the morality of it, some distant day when it has been softened and solved, the business of equal rights and opportunity will test to another courage and faith.

The other chapter could be for his family, one of real mettle in an hour of trial, and most of all for his young wife. She cradled his head while he died, gave her ring in heart-rending farewell, stood bravely while his successor was sworn, waited in solemn dignity through the ordeal of rites, and held the hands of two little children she bore him. Never was she less than magnificent in her sorrow, a real "Profile in Courage."

Marquis Childs The Terrible Irony

WASHINGTON — In his office in the White House toward the end of his working day on a beautiful fall evening President Kennedy seemed confident, self-contained, as almost always with the glint of humor flashing quickly and as quickly gone.

It was the last of several private talks I had with him during his Presidency.

I HAD COME to see him on a special mission. I proposed to write a short book on the wave of "hate Kennedy" emotion that had caught up certain parts of the country, particularly the South, along with elements in the North as well. This seemed to me, as I said to him, to resemble the know-nothingism of the "hate Roosevelt" wave of the mid-thirties.

I reminded him that I had written in 1936 a magazine article, called "They Hate Roosevelt," which had caused a considerable stir at the time. On the extreme left the Communists attacked Roosevelt as a mere temporizer and do-gooder while from the extreme right he was denounced as a Socialist or worse who meant to nationalize all property.

WITH THE QUICK perceptivity that characterized him he considered this for a moment. He smiled, a skeptical look on his face.

"Do you think that's really true?" he asked. "I wouldn't think so. I wouldn't think I was a target in anything like the same way that FDR was."

That quiet room seemed so removed from the turmoil and conflict of the world and yet you sensed that it was the quiet of the eye of the storm. The President, still youthful-looking after nearly three years in the office, sat in his rocking chair with the composure that was his hallmark.

"NO," he continued, "it may spill over on me. But I really wouldn't think that I was a primary target as FDR was. These people are very frustrated. They seem to think you can solve everything by going back somewhere. I don't know where. But I don't see why they would direct this at me."

This seemed to me to reflect another Kennedy characteristic. He was reluctant to believe that he was not liked by everyone. He wanted to think that he could be President of all the people. He could not understand why he should be hated.

I SPOKE of having been a short time while in Mississippi. There I was told by individuals who had been threatened with violence by the extremist groups that the safety of neither the President nor his brother, Robert, the Attorney General, could be guaranteed if they came into the state.

"Yes, I saw that," the President said. "But I don't want to believe it. I can't believe that that can be true."

"Of course, we get a lot of letters in here that are pretty strong. They're violent even. And I'd be glad to have you see samples of those. But hasn't there always been that sort of thing?"

WE TALKED briefly of the attack on Adlai Stevenson outside the hall in Dallas where he spoke on United Nations Day.

"He told me," the President said, "that the ovation he got in the hall from several thousand people was one of the warmest he ever received. Yet it was the 50 or so outside who made the headlines. That's often the way it is—the people on the fringe get all the attention."

Still another characteristic was evident as he talked.

MR. KENNEDY thought of himself as more conservative than the liberals who supported him in his own party. He said:

"You know when I first ran for Congress in 1946 I believed pretty much the line that the centralization of our government had gone so far that it was a great danger and that we were likely to spend ourselves into bankruptcy. So I can understand these people. And if they don't read anything else, and you know in a lot of places the newspapers carry nothing but this sort of thing, how can they reach a judgment on what the situation really is."

When we got onto the coming campaign year he was full of zest and seemingly without any serious concern over a struggle that would make such heavy demands on his time and energy.

This was a highly competitive man who wanted to win not only every game but every inning of every game. With that went a spirit of derring-do, bravado almost, that often led him to defy danger.

ALTHOUGH THE two major pieces of his program, the tax and the civil rights bills, were bogged down in Congress, he seemed undaunted. His mood was in marked contrast with that of a visit I had with him in the oval study upstairs somewhat more than a year after he had taken the oath of office. Speaking of his 14 years in the Congress and his 15 or so months in the Presidency, he said in a somber vein that he had begun to wonder if the country was governable at all.

Now on this bright, clear evening he seemed a seasoned man, a man who had met the initial test and who had no doubt of his ability to meet the challenges still ahead. He has mastered the most difficult job in the world and if he had any qualms about the future he gave no sign of it. That is the terrible irony of the moment when the bullet of a madman snuffed out his life.

Billy Graham

We have a new preacher who demanded a high salary when he hired to our church. I voted against him, for I have never felt that a man of God should put a price on his services. What do you think?

I know hundreds of preachers, missionaries, and Christian workers, and I know only a few who have ever made any financial demands.

To begin with, any person interested in money only, would not choose the ministry as a profession. It is the lowest paid of all the professions, although salaries are considerably up from what they used to be. Today usually a minister must have a minimum of college and seminary, which is roughly equivalent to a Ph.D.

But, with all this, I have never known but one or two ministers of the Gospel who based their decisions on where to serve on financial considerations. There may be more, but I do not know them.

But, we should not be begrudging with those who are properly trained to lead us in spiritual matters, bury our dead, and marry our young people. "They that preach the Gospel must live of the Gospel."

The minister is usually the hardest working and most underpaid man in the community.

PUTTING A GREAT RECORD TO A SEVERE TEST

James Marlow Kennedy's Pen Outlined Meaning Of Courage

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy probably never meant to be his own prophet but he was when he explained eight years ago why he chose certain men in American history for his book, "Profiles in Courage."

His prophecy became his epitaph.

"The courage of life," he said, long before he was considered for the presidency, "is often a less dramatic spectacle than the courage of a final moment; but it is no less a magnificent mixture of triumph and tragedy."

"A MAN does what he must—in spite of personal consequences, in spite of obstacles and dangers and pressures—and that is the basis of all human morality."

It took courage to push through crowds to shake hands or ride through a city with the top down. He knew the consequences might be assassination, and they were. But he felt what he did needed doing.

The deeper courage of his life, as with others before him, was in seeking the presidency and then trying to make good at it, with all that implies in effort.

HE GAVE the presidency a youthful sense of life unmatched since the bouncing days of Theodore Roosevelt, if only because all the others in between were older when they took office. Kennedy was only 43.

President Johnson, 55, cannot be expected to spend himself as tirelessly, at least in a physical way, as Kennedy. His heart attack of 1955 makes it important not to get over-fatigued.

Kennedy brought more than courage and energy to the White House. Like Sir Winston Churchill, he had that indefinable thing called grace.

CHURCHILL always had style but he developed grace late. Kennedy always had it, and it showed itself in his quiet humor, even at his own expense, and in his avoidance of political brawling.

At this moment, so close to his death and before the emotion over his assassination melts away, it is impossible to measure his place in history.

He was president less than three years or only five months longer than Harding, who was a misfit no matter how he is looked at. Kennedy, on the contrary, fitted into the presidency almost elegantly.

YET, HIS less than three years of service were hardly more than a beginning, a foundation for what lay ahead since he seemed very likely to win a second term.

In that time, abroad, he had become a highly popular and respected figure. He had established better relations with the Soviet Union than had existed. He won the confidence of most of Latin America.

His place in history may well depend upon the fact, if it proves to be a fact, that he broke the ice of the cold war. But it is too soon to do more than suggest that may be result of the work he did in his short time.

HIS DOMESTIC record is spotty. In his presidency the country became more prosperous and perhaps more self-confident particularly when he assured it the United States was ahead of the Soviet Union in long-range missiles.

But he bogged down badly with Congress. All through 1963 Congress just drifted, frustrating completely his request for a new civil rights law and a tax cut. Maybe it would have done better next year.

Maybe it would have done better this year if he had been harsher and tougher.

It didn't seem to be in his nature to be harsh and he appeared unwilling to be very tough except as a last resort, such as in making Premier Khrushchev take his missiles out of Cuba or using troops to stop Southern governors' defiance of federal court orders.

At 46, John F. Kennedy, the youngest man ever elected president, was also the youngest to die. He was the second Democrat to die in office, the first slain while in power.

The second youngest president to die was James A. Garfield, killed by an assassin at the age of 49.

Sixteen past presidents, including the three now living, survived to be 70 or over. Five made it to 80 or more, among them Herbert Hoover.

CONGRESS has taken several steps throughout the years to tide presidential widows over financial difficulties.

In 1841, it voted Mrs. William Henry Harrison $25,000, the amount of yearly presidential pay at that time.

It voted $23,000 also to Mrs. Abraham Lincoln in 1865. In 1870 it granted her an annual pension of $3,000 and in 1882 raised it to $5,000.

In the same year, it also voted $5,000 annual pensions to the widows of James A. Garfield, James Knox Polk, and John Tyler, and an additional sum of $25,000 to Mrs. Garfield.

Pensions of $5,000 were subsequently voted to the widows of McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson, Calvin Coolidge, William Howard Taft, Benjamin Harrison and Grover Cleveland.

Since 1958, by act of Congress, all presidential widows receive pensions of $10,000 a year.

Hal Boyle Most Presidents Live Long

NEW YORK (AP) — Some notes on "the world's toughest job" — the presidency of the United States:

Despite the awful pressures of the post, 27 of the 34 men who served as president before Lyndon B. Johnson lived to be over 60—and three are still alive.

Of the eight who died in office, four were felled by assassins.

The most durable president to date was John Adams, variously known as "Atlas of Independence," "His Rotundity," and "Old Sink or Swim." He lived 90 years and 295 days and died on the same 4th of July as did Thomas Jefferson, who was 83.

THE OLDEST president to die in office, William Henry Harrison, 68, "Old Tippecanoe," succumbed to pneumonia exactly a month after he took office on March 4, 1841. He caught cold after riding to the Capitol on a white horse in stormy weather and delivering the longest inaugural message on record—8,378 words.

His successor, John Tyler, who served out his term, lived to be 71. Tyler had two wives. He had 15 children, the largest number of any president. Seven of the children were born during the 16 years he survived after leaving the White House.

Of the three presidents besides William Henry Harrison who died of natural causes while in office, only one, Warren G. Harding, 57, was under 60. Zachary Taylor was 65, Franklin D. Roosevelt, 63.

AT 46, John F. Kennedy, the youngest man ever elected president, was also the youngest to die. He was the second Democrat to die in office, the first slain while in power.

CONGRESS has taken several steps throughout the years to tide presidential widows over financial difficulties.

In 1841, it voted Mrs. William Henry Harrison $25,000, the amount of yearly presidential pay at that time.

It voted $23,000 also to Mrs. Abraham Lincoln in 1865. In 1870 it granted her an annual pension of $3,000 and in 1882 raised it to $5,000.

In the same year, it also voted $5,000 annual pensions to the widows of James A. Garfield, James Knox Polk, and John Tyler, and an additional sum of $25,000 to Mrs. Garfield.

Pensions of $5,000 were subsequently voted to the widows of McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson, Calvin Coolidge, William Howard Taft, Benjamin Harrison and Grover Cleveland.

Since 1958, by act of Congress, all presidential widows receive pensions of $10,000 a year.

Around The Rim The Difference In 40 Years

We first heard that the president—Warren G. Harding—was ill on July 28. It was announced that he was being taken from the northwestern town where he had become sick of poisoned food (or so the report had it) to San Francisco.

THE "PONY" wire service we had in the tiny newspaper where I worked was anything but replete in details. Each morning from July 28 on we grabbed the morning issues of metropolitan newspapers for additional details to fatten out the two or three lines the wire service had sent.

Then at 9:30 p.m. Aug. 2, 1923, while I sat at my desk copying the wire stories on long distance phone there was a brief interruption. The reader in the AP bureau a hundred miles away suddenly broke off in the middle of a sentence. I thought the connection had been severed and then I realized I was still hearing the hum of voices—obviously excited. I waited as did the 15 or more other newsmen who were on the same pony circuit. There was a rustling of paper, the sound of heavy breathing and then the voice of the reader again.

"BULLETIN," he intoned, "Bulletin. The president is dead. End bulletin."

And that was all we had for an hour or more. Finally, just before midnight, the wire service recalled us a few terse additional paragraphs. The president, it was said, had died suddenly of apoplexy.

We began wondering when the new president—grim-faced, sharp-nosed taciturn Calvin Coolidge—would be sworn in.

I ORDERED THE presses to wait. We left a hole in the front page. We set up the few details which had been sent from San Francisco relative to President Harding's death.

It was around 2 p.m. that the pony phone rang again.

The reader was back. "Plymouth, Vt.," he read in the monotonous singsong that such readers used to dictate their dispatches, "Calvin Coolidge became the 30th president of the United States at 2:30 a.m. (EST) today. He received the oath of office in the kitchen of his father's farm home at Plymouth. The oath was administered by John C. Coolidge, the president's father. The elder Coolidge is a justice of the peace. The oath was read to the new president by the light of a kerosene lamp."

LAST FRIDAY I remembered this incident as I considered how things have changed. It was seven hours before Coolidge could be located and he made president of the nation. He then had to catch a train and make a slow trip from Vermont to Washington.

Friday, within minutes of the time that President Kennedy had died, his successor had received the oath of office. Early dusk of the same afternoon, found the new president back in Washington, busy in his executive offices with his duties.

THE FUNERAL RITES for President Harding were delayed to permit foreign dignitaries to reach Washington from their own capitals—journeys which were long and tedious.

Friday night, all details for the burial of President Kennedy were complete. Monday, just two days later, the services were held. In the funeral procession were the heads of 23 foreign powers and representatives of many others. All had been able to reach Washington in hours. Today, many of these same high officials are back in their own capitals and back at their own work. Thus does time change all things.

Holmes Alexander Critical Hour In A World Battle

WASHINGTON — It was approaching the bewitching hour of midnight, November 14th, when the much-abused U.S. Senate faced a moment of truth which, it clearly appears, the Administration and the nation itself will have to face very soon — beginning this week, when the matter returns to the Senate floor.

On that Thursday night, after the Senate had put in more than three weeks of bruising debate on the Foreign Assistance Act, Senator Karl Mundt rose to present his case against AID to Russia.

THIS SAPIENT and valuable man is one of the precious few Republicans and Democrats from the Western farm States with nerve enough to question the Wheat Deal. Later, Mundt broadened his amendment to forbid the tax-supported Export-Import Bank to advance credit for the sale of any product to the Communist enemy. The doughty South Dakotan's prohibition against this sort of public subsidy to a public enemy was not, of course, aimed at American farmers, manufacturers, investors and bankers, though it may financially wound them all. Its thrust went straight to a principle which he stated very well, saying:

"UNLESS WE support the pending Amendment, we shall be supplying aid to 109 foreign countries — 107 countries of the Free and Neutral World, and 2 countries of the Communist bloc — Russia and Hungary. This is the record."

Few decisions of surpassing national significance ever come off in Congress as dramatically as they do in fiction. The vote on Mundt's proposal occurred obligately on Floor Leader Mansfield's motion to table—that is, kill—it without further debate. The count went 46 to 40 against Mansfield, the Administration and the Wheat bloc. The next afternoon Mundt withdrew the Amendment so that it could be studied and brought up again as a separate measure rather than obstruct action on foreign aid.

NEVERTHELESS, the Senate, by a narrow margin, had stood up against a base bribe which would have bankrolled the Communists into enriching American merchants. Without that testing, late-hour vote, the Senate would not have taken its own staunch stand, would not have laid the matter where it is today—fully in front of the entire Congress, the Administration and the whole nation.

It remains to be seen whether the Senate and House, under mounting pressure, will stick by its guns. Mundt's bill is against the political interest of every member. There is not a legislator on Capitol Hill who wouldn't find it easier to shrug off responsibility and find excuses to let his constituents pocket the guaranteed profits which the Wheat Deal, and deals in others products, would surely bring.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON is equally challenged to make a stand. But the experience of the late President Kennedy in trying to thaw the Cold War by warm-hearted concessions on the Test Ban Treaty and Trade agreements, have met with the insulting incidents on the Berlin Autobahn and the highland kidnap of Professor Barghoorn.

FINALLY, THE American people may at last contemplate a rare and meaningful opportunity for self-sacrifice. It is well within the power of public opinion to scorn the temptation of easy pickings. Not a town, city, community or State in the American Union will be precluded from selling some wares to the Soviet bloc if the Mundt proposition is defeated, vetoed or bypassed.

But the profits will be tainted, and the gold in the palm will turn to blood, sooner or later. Not very often, in times called peace, have a people had such a chance to heed the call to battle.

Inez Robb We Must All Share...

As if a bullet were ever a solution to anything—

And we must all, God help us, bear our share of the responsibility.

What is there in the air of this free and open society, where other men need not walk with fear, that stalks the men we vote into the nation's highest office?

Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley, and now John F. Kennedy. Four chief executives gunned down in our brief history as a nation.

THREE TIMES within the life of most Americans there have been attempts on the lives of our presidents—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry Truman and President Kennedy.

Yet we Americans look with self-righteous scorn upon political assassination as the way of banana republics and tinpot despots. But in the country's short past, four Presidents out of 36 have died violently; Roosevelt escaped when Anton J. Cermak, mayor of Chicago, took the bullets intended for the President; Truman was unscathed in an assassination attempt on the White House.

WITH COMPLACENCY, we console ourselves that "only a lunatic" would make an attempt on the life of a President.

But in the end, this is no consolation; it is only a feeble excuse. And we must each bear his share of the guilt for a society that, scoring political assassination, still breeds it.

There are factions that have not ceased to dance on the grave of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and there will be those, now mouthing pious platitudes, who will begin their grisly rigadon on that of Kennedy.

BUT THE RADICAL right—which has nothing to do with honest and honorable conservatism — and other extremists are not yet victorious. They are already anachronisms of history. Hate cannot win.

The superpatriots prepared the climate for assassination, and today the United States stands shamed before the world for the kind of political violence that we find repellent in even the newest and most primitive societies.

Television gave the nation a lesson in nauseating hypocrisy with a parade of the dead President's bitterest enemies, crowding the screen to protest their affection and respect.

IT WAS NOT their crocodile tears that linger in the memory, but the bitter tears of an unknown Negro waiter, caught by the camera as he cried into a napkin in the Dallas dining room where a shocked crowd first heard the news of the President's critical condition.

For this terrible deed that has taken the life of a President, we should weep as much for ourselves as for him.

A PRE-HARVARD LAD FORWARD SWEEP CLEAN-CUT KID

Boys Going Long Hair According To Barbers

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON Associated Press Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "We just couldn't buy the bowl-shaped, English haircut," says Joe Carlow, voicing the viewpoint of thousands of barbers here for a national barber show recently. "It looks like neglect."

Apparently young mothers have not been able to adjust to the eye-shading, controversial hair style for boys. "We seldom got a request for it," adds Carlow, who has operated a tonsorial parlor in Miami, Fla., for 20 years.

Nevertheless, little boys are going long hair, although not quite that long, and preferably straight hair. "The trend is toward what is called the surf look," he says. "The part is low and the hair kind of falls a little bit to one side."

There are variations that range from a straightened version of the hair style sweeping forward a little on the forehead to a back sweep a-la Elvis Presley, without side burns.

MODEL SON

Inspiration for this shear genius comes from the senior scissors-wielders photographs of how each hair fashion changes the appearance.

Before the convention, and within a week's time, little Joe got a half dozen haircuts to enable big Joe to show his fellow generation. Sons like to imitate their fathers a lot, explains Carlow, a toupee-wearer and proud of it.

On the other hand, his son, Joe Jr., being only 10, has a healthy thatch. Therefore he is a regular and willing guinea pig in his Dad's barber chair.

Crewcuts for men are just about gone, says Carlow, later conceding that a man's type of work or activity may still keep him true to a bristly head. "The sportsmen, and there are more of these in the summer, crop their hair near the scalp."

WHAT'S ON TOP?

Among the boys are a few hold-outs for the so-called boomer, butch or astronaut, especially in the swimming months. But the overall barber shop trend is to leave more lawn on top.

Although mothers adore curls on little boys, man and boy alike dislike curly hair, reports the Miami barber. More dads are paying to have their locks straightened, but little boys first must grow out of mothers' influence.

Joe Carlow also caused quite a stir at the barber show by urging men to change their appearance temporarily with facial hairpieces like mustaches and beards, just as the women do with wigs.

But Carlow does not recommend these for the small fry, except at Halloween.

Auxiliary Drapes Charter

The charter was draped for the late President John F. Kennedy when the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary met at the post home Monday evening. The charter will remain draped for 30 days. Taking part in the ceremony were Mrs. Jolene Miller, president; Mrs. Tim Jones and Mrs. Foster Kemp.

Mrs. Miller announced that she would place the flag at half mast for the next 21 days. Harold Danford, quartermaster of the VFW, will retire the colors each evening.

Christmas gifts for patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital will be wrapped when the group meets Dec. 9. Mrs. Kemp served refreshments.

Towel Wrap To Flatter

Wrapping up in a bath towel is such a cozy, provocative way of not-quite-dressing that women are loathe to give it up for the conventional apparel required for street appearance.

No wonder then that the better known towel companies got into the fashion business. They have an eager market for these slinky, ankle-length terry cloth shifts which have more shape than the towel but are almost as casual.

The terry wardrobes for at home and the beach are lively with vivid floral prints and stripes.

Big beach favorite for the lady-in-waiting is the drawstring blouson over boy leg shorts. The silhouette is deceptively flattering.

A-line tunics are better for sun bathing than submerging.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

She Has A Word For It And It's Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When I "take a hint" from your column I go around telling everyone that "I did a Heloise on my car," or if a problem comes up, I say, "Did you try a Heloise on that?"

Recently a houseguest sent me your book as a gift. Now I'm all fixed up.

And, of course, I bought some nylon net but here's how I use it to dress up a "kitchen doll" shower gift.

I use a four-sided grater for the base. Tape a wooden spoon with a face drawn on it (using lipstick for mouth and cheeks, eyebrow pencil for eyes, etc.) and a string dish mop (tinted with yellow food coloring) for the hair and then tape them all together inside the grater . . . upright.

I fold a tea towel to make a long dress, drape a loosely woven dish cloth around her shoulders for the lace top of her wedding dress, the two small measuring spoons in her hair to dangle down as earrings; sew two larger measuring spoons to her dress for arms and hands.

I glue tiny dime store flowers on one hand for her bouquet and use tiny seed pearls from a broken string for the "traditional" pearls the bride always wears.

Finally, I fold back a corner of the square of nylon net, (later to be used as a dish cloth) gather it and pin it on her mop head. The long corner of the net becomes the bride's train!

This doll makes a wonderful kitchen shower gift for a bride (contains 10 useful kitchen gifts in one) and creates a big sensation . . . Ella Groves

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away your old flat silverware box—paint the outside the color of your bedroom — it is felt-lined and ideal for your costume jewelry. Teenagers who love that bulky jewelry, take note . . . Betty Haller

Dear Folks:

We are getting many complaints from those of you who have spot difficulties when using spray starch. There is more than one way to use a spray starch:

When spray - starching any material such as navy blue, dark brown or khaki, use your spray starch from the bottle, then roll up the starched article and let it set a few minutes. This allows the fine spray to penetrate into the fibers of the material and helps keep it from making a spot.

Another way to do it, if you are in a hurry is use the spray starch, gently wipe it with a soft cloth before touching it with the iron. This allows the beads of starch to distribute, and smears them among the fibers before ironing them dry.

This is especially true for those who make their own starch and pour it into squirt-type bottles.

The best way I have found is to spray the garment on the wrong side, roll it up a little

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

All over the city parents are getting ready for the Thanksgiving homecoming of their children who have been away for several months in school. Many of the homes are expanding just a little to make room for guests who will join their children for the holiday and the weekend. Mamas are getting their menus planned and cooking done before hand in order to have plenty of time to be with the family . . . and not in the kitchen. But most of the mothers don't mind being in the kitchen if they just get the family together.

MR. and MRS. T. R. MORRIS are expecting their son, CHARLES "LEFTY" MORRIS to arrive Wednesday from Austin where he is a first-year student in the law school. He is a graduate of Texas Christian University. Daughter VIRGINIA will also come in Wednesday from North Texas State University.

RACHEL PHELAN, daughter of MRS. ROBERTA PHELAN, is to come home Wednesday from Denton where she is a NTSU student.

The BOB WREN family had its Thanksgiving gathering last weekend, and all of their children and their families were here for the first time in four years. Here for the weekend were MR. and MRS. DON WREN, MR. and MRS. O. T. STEWARD and a granddaughter, MRS. GENE NOEL, all of Fort Worth, and CAPT. and MRS. STANLEY HESS of Del Rio. The FRED OVERTONS and TOM STEWARDS joined them for the celebration.

A note of sadness came when Capt. Hess received word Friday night of the death of his father, Mr. Ralph Hess of Verdden, Okla., who suffered a heart attack. He left soon after getting the word from his family home.

JOE SMITH, a student at Texas Western in El Paso, is expected Wednesday to spend the holidays with his parents, MR. and MRS. HERBERT SMITH.

MAJ. and MRS. H. H. WYATT and their daughter, BOBBIE DEE ANN, stationed in Wichita Falls, will arrive here Wednesday night to spend the long holiday weekend with her parents, MR. and MRS. G. H. HAYWARD.

We plan to go to Kermit for a while on Thanksgiving Day to be with MR. and MRS. JONATHAN LANCASTER and their family.

The family of MRS. J. P. MEADOR had a Meador Get-Together over the weekend with some wonderful surprises thrown in. Her son-in-law and daughter, MR. and MRS. WARREN FAUST were here from Bad Hamburg, Germany. It was Mrs. Faust's first visit at home in three years. Mrs. Meador's granddaughter and her husband, MR. and MRS. DOUG McDONALD, drove all night from Chicago, Ill., to join the family group. Mrs. McDonald, the former Ann Meador, is the daughter of hosts for the event. MR. and MRS. A. D. MEADOR. Other children present were MRS. JOE R. GRIMLAND, the former Jamie Lee Meador, and her husband from Grand Prairie, and MRS. N. R. SMITH, the former Daphne Meador, and her husband from Bend. Mrs. Grimland and Mrs. Smith are also daughters of Mrs. J. P. Meador.

Eterna Flame Burning Atop Final Resting Place Of JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — An eternal flame burning at the head of the grave, John F. Kennedy slept the eternal sleep today in Arlington National Cemetery while the government he left behind stirred from its sadness to get on with the job ahead.

The muffled drums of the funeral cortege had barely echoed into memory when the new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, plunged into a series of meetings on foreign and domestic problems.

The day of Kennedy's last journey was sharp and clear, its bright crispness in sharp contrast to the gray sorrow that etched the faces of the million people who lined the streets of Washington to say goodbye.

Nine servicemen bore the bier from the Capitol as the band played "Hail to the Chief." To the steady beat and roll of drums and the mournful tolling of church bells, the caisson rolled up Pennsylvania Avenue along the historic route to the young President had traveled after his inauguration less than three years ago.

As the caisson turned the corner by the Treasury building a woman broke into a high pitched wail.

At the White House, Mrs. Kennedy and the two Kennedy brothers, Robert and Edward, left their limousine while the caisson paused for a few minutes at the north portico.

EIGHT BLOCKS

As bagpipes played, the mourners began an eight-block march to St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

A sailor carrying the presidential flag followed the caisson. Next, led by a serviceman, pranced a riderless horse symbolic of the fallen warrior.

Then, with her head held high and her black veil draping her shoulders, the President's widow marched with the Kennedy brothers at her side.

President and Mrs. Johnson, next in line, were surrounded by Secret Service men.

Tall fur hats of the East contrasted with top hats of the West as the representatives of 91 nations stepped along.

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia glittered with ribbons and decorations. Towering beside him was austere Charles de Gaulle. Nearby was the beautiful Queen Frederika of Greece, dressed in a black fur coat. At her side, King Baudouin of Belgium, a black band on the sleeve of his tan, bemedaled uniform.

AT WEDDING

Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston who had officiated at the Kennedy wedding in 1953, came down the steps of the church to greet the Kennedy family. John, 3, Monday and Caroline, 6 Wednesday joined their mother.

Then came the solemn service, a Low Requiem Mass. "We pray," the cardinal intoned, "that John Kennedy may be spared all punishment and taken into paradise." There was no eulogy, but Auxiliary Bishop Philip M. Hannan spoke of the President's ideals and aspirations and read from his inaugural address in ringing tones.

"May the angels lead you into paradise" the choir sang as the cardinal led the procession from the church. He and the priests stepped aside so the honor guard could bring the casket in full view of the thousands lining the streets outside. As it was placed on the caisson for the journey to Arlington, John raised his hand and saluted his dad.

ACROSS RIVER

The sun was mellow as the funeral procession moved across the Potomac River. Slowly the six matched gray horses drawing the caisson made their way to the grave. As Mrs. Kennedy stepped from her limousine, ruffles and flourishes were sounded, then "The Star-Spangled Banner." A wall sounded from pipers of the Air Force Band.

The grave was piled with flowers, although Mrs. Kennedy had asked that none be sent.

Traffic Group Plans Review

The city traffic commission was expected to review its no-parking policy for the south side of Sixth Street opposite the Howard County Library in a meeting held at 3:30 p.m. today.

Other items on the agenda: (1) study of a traffic count at Fifteenth and Main and at State and Ridgeroad, (2) consideration of a police department request for traffic control devices at State and Ridgeroad, (3) consider making Northwest Fourth a through street, (4) consideration of a stop sign at Twelfth Street on Austin.

In addition, members were studying a proposal for flashing lights at: Fifteenth and Main, Fifteenth and Owens, Eighteenth and Main and Pennsylvania and Seventeenth.

School Trustees To Talk Expansion Plans Today

Trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District will continue planning for expansion of the Senior High School during a special meeting to be held at 6 p.m. today at the Big Spring Country Club.

Atmar Atkinson, school architect, will continue discussing requirements for classrooms. At the regular meeting two weeks ago, he presented tentative sketches of room requirements for the various courses being taught at the school. More details will be presented today.

Trustees are planning expansion of the high school to give it a capacity of 2,500 students.

School superintendent S. M. Anderson will report on an investigation of the old First National Bank Building. School administrators have inspected the building to see if it can be used as an administration building.

The bank has proposed selling it for $85,000 to the school.

Only one other action item is slated for the meeting, Anderson said. That is a decision on a trip which band members hope to make next year.

Governor May Hold News Meet

DALLAS (AP) — Depending on how he feels, Gov. John Connally was considering a short visit with newsmen and photographers today, a press aide said.

Connally, wounded at the same time President Kennedy was fatally shot, was much improved, according to Dr. Tom Shires, his physician.

He and Mrs. Connally watched President Kennedy's funeral on television Monday in the seclusion of the governor's hospital room.

Later Mrs. Connally walked briskly around the grounds at Parkland Hospital. It was the first time in nearly 72 hours she had been outside the hospital.

Letters, many from well wishers in other states, continued to pile up at the temporary governor's office in the hospital.

Two prominent Texans visited Connally's office early today but neither saw the governor or Mrs. Connally.

One was Allan Shivers, former governor. Another was Jack Cox, a Republican defeated by Connally in 1962 in the race for the governor's chair.

"I just stopped by to pay my respects and to offer any help I might be able to give," said Cox.

Shivers said, "I'm thankful he's doing as well as he is. Mrs. Connally has been real brave under these conditions. They are both wonderful people."

Move To Depend On Mrs. Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson said today she and her family will not move into the White House until the former first lady, Jacqueline Kennedy, has had time to wind up all of her affairs at her convenience.

"I wish to heaven I could serve Mrs. Kennedy's happiness. I can at least serve her convenience," Mrs. Johnson told reporters in a brief statement.

It is understood that Mrs. Kennedy, in meeting with Mrs. Johnson during the trying past days, brought up the question of their discussing details of the changeover in the White House.

The 34-year-old Mrs. Kennedy indicated that she wanted to get together with Mrs. Johnson sometime this week to go over the details. But there has been no appointment set up as yet.

In response to inquiries from reporters, Mrs. Johnson emphasized that her purpose is to be as helpful as possible to Mrs. Kennedy.

"It is only when the last chore she (Mrs. Kennedy) wishes to do is done that I will contemplate moving," Mrs. Johnson said.

Mrs. Kennedy was remaining in seclusion in the White House. The widow of the late president made a midnight visit to his grave in Arlington National Cemetery. She has had little rest since the horrible events of last Friday.

It is not known where Mrs. Kennedy may go when she leaves the White House.

There were reports, however, that, after a mourning period, Mrs. Kennedy may wish to settle down in Washington.

Under the Johnsons, the White House is expected to be a lively place, as it was under the Kennedys, but there will be differences.

Commission Meets Today

A proposed ordinance declaring certain buildings and structures to be nuisances and providing for abatement will head a busy agenda to be considered by city commissioners at their meeting set for 7 p.m. today at the City Hall.

Other items on the agenda: (1) consideration of request by Big Spring Golf Association to use clubhouse at City golf course, (2) appointment of a certified public accountant to audit the city books, (3) truck replacement for city cemetery, (4) consideration of fire prevention code, and (5) third and final reading of ordinance permitting on premises consumption of alcoholic beverages at Boe's Restaurant, 301 1/2 N. Gregg (requested by W. E. Buckner).

Commissioners also will consider an ordinance authorizing Mayor George J. Zachariah to execute an agreement with the Air Force for the disposal of a warehouse building at Webb AFB. The building is owned by the city.

City manager Larry Crow said representatives of Forrest and Cotton consulting engineers for the new city sewage disposal plant, are not expected to attend the meeting.

Horse Club Elects Officers

New officers for the West Texas Appaloosa Horse Club were elected at a meeting in Big Spring Saturday. Fifty members attended at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Willard Neel, where a buffet dinner was served by Mrs. Wayman Clark, daughter of the Neels.

New officers are Dudley White, Odessa, president; Happy Smith, Odessa, first vice president; T. Willard Neel, Big Spring, second vice president, and Mrs. Doris Griffin, Odessa, secretary-treasurer.

Members present from Odessa, Midland, Garden City, and Big Spring, discussed the selection of a Queen to represent the club in the Sand Hills Rodeo on New Year's Day. Preparations for an approved Appaloosa Horse Show in the area in the Spring of 1964 were also discussed.

An Appaloosa Mounted Patrol will be formed to participate in rodeo parades in the area.

Road Bids Studied

Howard County Commissioners Court was considering bids on a road grader for the county road and bridge department at its session today. No decision had been made on the purchase at noon. The court has five bids before it from as many firms.

The county is trading in two old graders and buying the new machine on a 12-month lease-purchase plan. Payments on this plan would begin January, 1964, and the county asks delivery of the machine within two weeks of the date the bid is accepted.

The bids considered by the court are:

- Western Machinery Co., Abilene, $18,570 (another machine $17,780); Patton Equipment Co., Abilene, $14,995; Treaner Equipment Co., Abilene, $17,773; Service Machine Co., Lubbock, $15,900; Plains Machinery Co., Odessa, $15,592.70.

The commissioners were debating on the specifications of the several machines.

The bids were slated to be opened Monday. The county courthouse was closed Monday for the funeral of President Kennedy and the bid opening reset for today.

Airman Released On $500 Bond

Vincent L. Bonecaltto, 21, Webb AFB, was released on $500 bond at 11 a.m. today on a charge of possession of an unlawful weapon.

Bond has been set at $500 in the case of Kindall C. Webb, 41, charged with DWI. He had no bond set today.

Nestor Martinez, accused of aggravated assault, has been released on $500 bond.

Sheriff Miller Harris and Deputy A. G. Mitchell returned James W. Gore from Santa Fe, N. M., to Big Spring Monday. He is wanted here on a charge of forgery and passing.

No bond has been set.

Attend Funeral

Mr. and Mrs. S. V. (Slim) Jordan left Monday night for Gulfport, Miss., on learning of the death of his brother, H. Davis Jordan.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Reimann Funeral Home Chapel at Gulfport, Miss., and burial will be in Gulfport.

Cold But No Snow

Big Spring's weather didn't do what forecasters predicted during the past 24 hours. There were few clouds, a little ice on windshields this morning, but there was no snow. The low temperature recorded at the Big Spring Experiment Station was 33 degrees, three above the prediction.

The same temperature is forecast for tonight, with a warming trend due for Wednesday, although cloudiness is predicted.

Shortly before noon, some clouds from the northwest began moving in, and the temperature was not getting higher. Today's high was predicted at around 55 degrees, the same as Monday's.

Still Looking

Deputy Sheriff Aubrey Standard, who is working on a local forgery-burglary investigation involving a former Oklahoman, said Tuesday that the same man is sought by half a dozen other communities. The case here involves the burglary of an oil company office in which bank payroll check forms (no longer used by the company) were taken. Four of these made out to resemble pay roll checks and aggregating $1,000 have been cashed here.

Clothing Taken

Burglars forced entry at Ward's Cleaners, 207 NW 4th, Monday night and took four pairs of pants, one shirt and a jacket. Owner of the firm is C. F. Ward, 3421 Drexel.

Offset Filed In Triple D, South

A confirmation attempt in the Triple D South (Wolfcamp) field in Dawson County is one of five new projects slated for the area.

That venture is Monsanto No. 2 Gordon, spotting 1,840 feet from the north and 1,300 feet from the west lines of section 3-3, D. L. Cunningham survey. It is bounded by a 9,000-foot bottom. This venture is a south-east offset to Monsanto No. 1 Gordon, which opened the field.

Another Dawson County site is Texaco, Inc. No. 2 C. Koehler, spotting 1,900 feet from the north and 1,600 feet from the east lines of section 27-36-4n, T&P survey, about 13 miles south of Lamesa in the multi-play Tex-Hamion field. Operator will be looking for the Fussell. It is to drill to 11,880 feet on ground elevation 2,894 feet on a 160-acre lease.

Bridge Work Makes Progress

Pouring of concrete slabs for the box culvert bridge over Big Spring Creek on Birdwell Lane was expected to begin Tuesday, according to public works director Ernest Lillard.

Lillard said work on the bridge has progressed to such an extent that rainy weather will not hamper further work. He estimated the J. D. Jones Construction Co., Big Spring, would complete the project "early in December."

No Accidents

There were no motor vehicle accidents in the city limits Monday, according to police. This is the first accident free day in several weeks. Police said traffic Monday was light.

Second Cook's Class Pending

A meeting of the local advisory committee for manpower development and training has been set for 3 p.m. Dec. 5 at the old student union building at Howard County Junior College, Bob Schaff, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce, announced.

Leon M. Kinney, office manager for Texas Employment Commission, advised that approval for the second class in cook's training will be discussed. If approved, the matter will be submitted to Austin for approval of the Texas Employment Commission and Texas Education Agency.

"We had about 14 in the first class, after the initial enrollment," Kinney said, "but will try for a larger enrollment whereby neighboring towns and cities may supply trainees."

THE ORDER OF THE GOLDEN RULE

Nebraska Seventh On AP Grid Ballot

Due to cancellations and postponements in respect to the memory of the late President Kennedy, only a handful of college football games were played last weekend. As a result there were few changes in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Texas, due to end its regular season Thursday in its usual test with Texas A&M, remained in the No. 1 position as the only unbeaten and untied team in the nation. The final poll will be held next week.

With the fate of the Army-Navy game still hanging in the balance, awaiting a final decision from Washington, the Navy clung to second place. It was considered likely that Navy would be invited to the Cotton Bowl for a New Year's Day game with Texas if the Midweek beat the Cadets.

Mississippi, which had an open date before Saturday's final game with Mississippi State, remained in the No. 3 spot. Then came Michigan State, whose important Big Ten finale with Illinois was put off until Thursday.

Pittsburgh's game with Penn State was postponed to Dec. 7, but the Panthers held position No. 5. Pitt plays Miami, Fla. Saturday night. Alabama, idle since Nov. 16, moved up a peg to No. 6 with an important game coming up Saturday against Auburn.

The only big shuffle resulted in Nebraska, a 29-20 winner over Oklahoma for the Big Eight title, moving up to No. 7 from 10th a week ago. Oklahoma, which had been No. 6, fell to No. 10.

Illinois, waiting for the big game with Michigan State, remained No. 8, followed by Auburn which defeated Florida State 21-15.

Nebraska is the only team among the Top Ten to have finished its regular schedule.

The Top Ten with first-place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis:

1. Texas (20) 215
2. Navy (2) 170
3. Mississippi 157
4. Michigan State 155
5. Pittsburgh 123
6. Alabama 118
7. Nebraska 87
8. Illinois 76
9. Auburn 74
10. Oklahoma 72

Local Jayhawk Hopes

Two of the boys who will be seeing a lot of action for Buddy Travis and his Howard County Junior College Jayhawks this season, are well known to local hardwoods fans. Both lads started for the Big Spring Steers. Eddy Nelson (left), at 6' 2 1/2", was an all-district performer for the Bovines last season and will join the Jayhawks at forward. Dick Ebling, a 6' 2" guard, is one of the three returning lettermen off a last year's squad. The Jayhawks open their season Thursday against Garden City, Kan. there.

Albert Fierro Is Leader In 2-4A Grid Scoring

Albert Fierro, Big Spring quarterback, won individual scoring honors for the season in District 2-4AAA with a total of 70 points. Fierro is the first Big Spring player to lead the conference in scoring. Big Spring has been a member of the league since 1956.

Fierro scored two touchdowns against San Angelo last Friday to run his total for the year to 11. He also has four extra points.

Fierro beat out Ross Montgomery of Midland by 12 points. Montgomery was used only for kicking duties in the Bulldogs' final game against Midland Lee. Ronnie Henson of San Angelo and Tommy Wilson, Abilene, tied for third place in the scoring derby, each with 56 points. Henson was also tied in his team's final game.

The scorers:

| Player           | School | Td | Pt | Exp | Pt-Tg |
|------------------|--------|----|----|-----|-------|
| Fierro, A.S.     | 11     | 0  | 0  | 2   | 70    |
| Montgomery, S.A. | 9      | 0  | 0  | 2   | 58    |
| Henson, S.A.     | 9      | 0  | 0  | 2   | 56    |
| Wilson, A.B.     | 9      | 0  | 0  | 2   | 56    |
| Lawrence, M.D.   | 6      | 0  | 0  | 2   | 56    |

Aggies Likely To Be Rugged Next Season

The youthful Texas Aggies will be trying hard for an upset against Texas Thursday but if they don't make it there'll be little said. No one expects them to, anyway.

But come 1964 and it will be expected because the Aggies are loaded with promising sophomores and have a good freshman team coming up.

Texas has 14 seniors on its three-deep squad, the Aggies have only six. So, graduation should serve to equal things up next year.

Texas, with all its veteran manpower, has a tough fullback problem. Regular Harold Philipp is nursing an ankle injury and Tommy Stockton who starred in the Texas Christian game, has an inflamed elbow.

The Aggies are in top shape and ready to go.

Four other conference members play games Saturday, with Southern Methodist invading Fort Worth for a clash with Texas Christian and Baylor going to Houston to play Rice.

Arkansas and Texas Tech have finished the season.

Baylor was in much better shape than it was in its last game—the 19-7 loss to Kentucky. Wizard pass-receiver Larry Elkins was able to take part in a workout for the first time in three weeks.

District Team Chosen In 8-B

BRONTE—District 8-B coaches met Monday and selected the all-district team with Lorraine and Robert Lee grabbing the majority of the openings.

After all the votes were tabulated, Lorraine had placed nine men on the squads while Robert Lee, who won the district, had been named to seven vacancies.

Joe Cushing and Stanley Moore of Lorraine, along with Derwood Coalson of Robert Lee, Steve Kiser of Trent and Terry Smith of Hermleigh made both the offensive and defensive teams.

Quarterback Club Meets Tonight

The Big Spring Quarterback Club will meet tonight at 7:30 in the high school cafeteria with a film of the Big Spring-San Angelo game being the highlight of the evening.

Don Robbins, head coach of the Bovines, will narrate the film after which a general question and answer session will follow with all the coaches on hand for queries. They will also sum up the season and give their opinions.

Delnor Poss, coach of the Steer basketball team, will give a short summary of what season prospects look like for 1963-64.

Tickets for the annual football banquet will go on sale at the meeting. The banquet will be held at the Cosden Country Club Dec. 12 at 7 p.m. The speaker will be announced at a later date.

The tickets will be priced at $2 with only 250 of the ducats available to the general public.

Tonight's open meeting will close with coffee and cookies being served.

No Decision Is Made On Army-Navy Clash

By JIM BECKER
By The Associated Press
"We all feel like we have been hit in the pit of the stomach," said Navy Coach Wayne Hardin. "We haven't an inkling about playing the game."

Army Coach Paul Dietzel said his team was "waiting for a decision." The decision on whether to play the Army-Navy football game, scheduled for Saturday in Philadelphia, will have to come from the Pentagon. It may come today.

Officials of both service academies have said they are in favor of playing, since they feel that President Kennedy had a great interest in football and sports generally. The late President attended the last two games.

However, the next 30 days have been designated as a period of mourning for the armed services.

Auburn has the inside track on an Orange Bowl bid, bowl officials said, if the Tigers put up a good show against Alabama in the final game Saturday. Auburn is ranked No. 9, Alabama No. 6.

Bama is a likely participant in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, as is Mississippi. If Auburn should stumble badly against its state rival, the Orange Bowl sponsors may look in Pitt's direction. The Panthers play Miami Saturday night, in their next-to-last game. They also have been mentioned for the Gator Bowl.

Michigan State went back to work late Monday to prepare for the postponed meeting with Illinois, now scheduled for Thanksgiving Day, that will settle the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl assignment—but the show showed none of its usual zest and high spirits.

"This wasn't a normal day," Coach Duffy Daugherty said. "They had just come from watching the funeral of the President on television." Daugherty said further practice sessions would be closed to fans and newsmen, as the coaches try to build up enthusiasm again for the game.

Illinois delayed its workout until after burial ceremonies were ended.

STANTON—The Coahoma boys open their 1963-64 basketball season here tonight in a practice tilt with Stanton.

The Coahoma girls, who have already played two games, host Stanton in a preliminary contest. The Coahoma fens, coached by Grady Tindol, have beaten Garden City twice.

Stanton lost in its inaugural contest last Saturday night to Odessa Ector, 74-63.

Coach Jimmy Spann of Coahoma has six letterman back from last season. They are: Ray Gaines, 6-4; Hayden Norris, 6-4; Dwayne Allen, 5-10; Jimmy Shafer, 6-8; Dwayne Frazer, 5-11; and Travis Reed 5-7.

The Bulldogs have been working out for a week. Stanton, coached by Doyle Edmiston, led Ector at the end of the third quarter but the Buffaloes lost a couple of players on fouls and dropped behind.

The girls' game begins at 7 p.m.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Northeastern Oklahoma A&M and Orange Coast College of California, both undefeated and untied, will meet in the 18th annual Junior Rose Bowl game Dec. 14.

Orange Coast was invited Monday and Northeastern Oklahoma's selection was announced today by the game's Board of Management.

The two thus become eligible for Player of the Year awards to be made by The Daily Herald at a later date.

LINEMAN—Coye Conner, senior tackle, who played several of the season's finest games of the season against the Bobcats. San Angelo made little headway aiming plays his way. Others who made serious bids for the honor and who deserve much credit include Ricca Flores, Kenny Crane, Thurman Randle, Don White, Larry Jones and Gary Phillips. The latter is a sophomore who found himself a regular on defense because Howard Bain was incapacitated due to a broken hand.

BACK—Albert Fierro, senior quarterback. "He was our sparkplug, the fellow that kept us on the move," coach Don Robbins said of the tall Latin-American youth. Baxter Moore and Dick Irons were among others who made major contributions to the success. Irons was magnificent on defense, as was Moore. "It was a tremendous team victory," said Robbins, "and these boys were the real team leaders."

Bobcats Rated Number Five

DALLAS (AP)—South Oak Cliff and Dumas were tabbed today as most likely to succeed in the upper classes of Texas schoolboy football as the race for state championships opens this week.

South Oak Cliff was rated No. 1 in Class AAAA and Dumas No. 1 in Class AAA in the final Dallas News poll.

South Oak Cliff, however, must win over Dallas Woodrow Wilson tonight to get into the playoffs. It is favored to repeat an early season triumph and make it.

The Dallas team pulled into first place with the fall of San Angelo last week.

Dumas rolled on for the tenth straight week as No. 1 in AAA Corsicana remained No. 2. Both are undefeated and untied.

The final rankings: Class AAAA—1, South Oak Cliff, 2, Spring Branch, 3, Garland, 4, Corpus Christi Miller, 5, San Angelo, 6, San Antonio Lee, 7, Amarillo Tascosa, 8, Pasadena, 9, Grand Prairie, 10, San Antonio Brackenridge.

Class AAA—1, Dumas, 2, Corsicana, 3, Pharr-San Juan-Alamo, 4, LaMarque, 5, South San Antonio, 6, Gonzales, 7, Graham, 8, Austin Johnston, 9, Palestine, 10, McKinney.

Academy Cannot Set Game Date

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—Representatives of the Air Force Academy and University of Colorado have canceled Tuesday's meeting at which they were to decide when their football teams would meet.

A spokesman for the Academy said permission had not been received from Washington to hold the game, originally scheduled for last Saturday.

Military services were ordered to cancel social activities and entertainment for 30 days after President Kennedy's assassination.

Two 1918 Big Spring Grid Players Return To Scene

When Bonner brought out the point that there were usually only two boys left on the bench when the team trotted out on the field for a game, there was a big grin from Barton.

The players almost lived as athletes again as the three men hesitantly searched their memories for old teammates—Dewey Harwood, halfback; Hubert Rutherford, quarterback; Bob Parks, fullback; Kirby Beckett, center; Dewey Martin, tackle; James Lamar, tackle; Willard Sullivan, center; Fabian Gomez and Connie Craig, linemen.

Albert Fierro Is Leader In 2-4A Grid Scoring

Albert Fierro, Big Spring quarterback, won individual scoring honors for the season in District 2-4AAA with a total of 70 points.

Fierro is the first Big Spring player to lead the conference in scoring. Big Spring has been a member of the league since 1956.

Fierro scored two touchdowns against San Angelo last Friday to run his total for the year to 11. He also has four extra points.

Fierro beat out Ross Montgomery of Midland by 12 points. Montgomery was used only for kicking duties in the Bulldogs' final game against Midland Lee.

Ronnie Henson of San Angelo and Tommy Wilson, Abilene, tied for third place in the scoring derby, each with 56 points. Henson was also tied in his team's final game.

The scorers:

| Player           | School | Td | Pt | Exp | Pt-Tg |
|------------------|--------|----|----|-----|-------|
| Fierro, A.S.     | 11     | 0  | 0  | 2   | 70    |
| Montgomery, S.A. | 9      | 0  | 0  | 2   | 58    |
| Henson, S.A.     | 9      | 0  | 0  | 2   | 56    |
| Wilson, A.B.     | 9      | 0  | 0  | 2   | 56    |
| Lawrence, M.D.   | 6      | 0  | 0  | 2   | 56    |

Midland (against a junior college. Midland had no high school at the time).

After graduation in 1919, Bonner went to Texas University but never got to put on the uniform of the Orange and White. They considered him too little, at 5'8 1/2" and 140 pounds, to ever do them any good on the gridiron—and that was a mistake.

After sitting out a year, Barton got Bonner an athletic scholarship at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. He starred three years on the gridiron (1921-23) making All-Maryland his first year and serving as captain his senior year.

Bonner went on to become an employe of the First National City Bank of New York from which he is now retired. He presently lives in Ross, Calif.

All three men said as they mused, "It's been an awful long time."

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: Coach DARRELL ROYAL, Texas University, after TCU had beaten his Longhorns in 1961: "TCU is like a cockroach. It isn't what he eats or carries off, but what he falls into and messes up."

ROOSEVELT TAYLOR, defensive back for the Chicago Bears: "I don't love tackling, but I know it's a job that has to be done. When you're small and you're up against those big backs who have all that momentum and speed, you have to hit 'em below the knees, take their legs away from them. They can't run without their legs."

Big Spring's CHARLEY JOHNSON, quarterback for the St. Louis Cardinals, commenting on the pass protection his teammates gave him in the Cleveland game: "I didn't even get to run the ball today. The protection was great. The one time the Browns got to me, it was my fault. I held the ball too long."

NORM VAN BROCKLIN, Minnesota football coach, paying tribute to Baltimore's Johnny Unitas: "The great ones never forget what it means to come up the hard way. Unitas knows what it is to eat potato soup without the potatoes in it. He knows what it is to have an empty belly."

MALCOLM WALKER, Rice's 240-pound defensive star: "Yes, I've always been a lineman. When you're a certain size, you're always a lineman. My senior year in high school, though, the coach said he'd use me as a fullback if he could find another center. He never did. It would have been nice, just once, to carry the ball... Tommy Ford (of Texas) gives me the most trouble among the ball carriers. He gets so low and always runs tough. Donny Anderson (of Texas Tech), on the films we saw, was sensational, but he didn't have a good game against us."

ROCKY MARCIANO, former heavyweight boxing king: "Right now Sonny Liston is in the middle of a transition, and any transition is a slow process. For every two steps forward he's going to take one step backward. He wants to be respected but he doesn't exactly know how to go about it."

SID LUCKMAN, former pro great, discussing Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns and Bronko Nagurski: "Brown is an immortal of this era. Nagurski was one when he played, and he could have played any time. It's different now. You can't match them up. Our line in 1940 averaged 230 pounds. This one averages 265. The guys who play at 265 are faster than the guys who played at 230. Brown tries to go for the payday—all the way. Bronko ran right at a guy, to punish him, to put fear in him. Jim Taylor (of Green Bay) reminds me of Nagurski."

TOM HEINSOHN, member of the Boston Celtic basketball team: "We want to prove we can do it without Bob Cousy. And we will. I think we're a better team now than we were last year. Cousy deserved all the credit he got but our team wasn't founded on one player. He contributed, but so did the rest of us."

JOHN KUENSTER, Chicago scribe: "Casey Stengel, 73, is a millionaire today, a status he achieved through his long affiliation with baseball... He became associated with the Valley National Bank in Glendale, Calif., in 1957. He lives in Glendale and his brother-in-law, who is chairman of the bank, helped introduce him to the world of finance."

Fierro, Conner Claim Awards

Big Spring's 20-6 victory over the state's No. One ranked club, San Angelo, last week was definitely a result of a coordinated team effort.

For that reason, it was difficult to assess the efforts of the players as it came time to picking Players of the Week.

After much deliberation, the sports staff of The Daily Herald selected the following boys:

LINEMAN—Coye Conner, senior tackle, who played several of the season's finest games of the season against the Bobcats. San Angelo made little headway aiming plays his way. Others who made serious bids for the honor and who deserve much credit include Ricca Flores, Kenny Crane, Thurman Randle, Don White, Larry Jones and Gary Phillips. The latter is a sophomore who found himself a regular on defense because Howard Bain was incapacitated due to a broken hand.

BACK—Albert Fierro, senior quarterback. "He was our sparkplug, the fellow that kept us on the move," coach Don Robbins said of the tall Latin-American youth. Baxter Moore and Dick Irons were among others who made major contributions to the success. Irons was magnificent on defense, as was Moore. "It was a tremendous team victory," said Robbins, "and these boys were the real team leaders."

The two thus become eligible for Player of the Year awards to be made by The Daily Herald at a later date.

BIG SPRING BUSINESS and INDUSTRY

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1963

Enlarging For Better Service

Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home is adding a new chapel to the north side of the present home for more efficient and greater service to its patrons. Nalley-Pickle has for more than 25 years given dignified and understanding service to the Big Spring area.

Nalley-Pickle Available During Times Of Sorrow

Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home, 906 Gregg, has been serving Big Spring and area for more than a quarter of a century. Coy Nalley and J. C. Pickle, owners, have been sympathetic with the needs of all in times of sorrow.

They have maintained inviting facilities for handling services and memorials required by families in a quiet, dignified and comforting manner. The funeral home is a member, by invitation, of the National Selected Morticians, a world-wide organization which keeps members informed of the latest developments in the profession.

STAFF

Nalley - Pickle has maintained a staff of professionals known for their courtesy. They go to great lengths to be sure the service rendered is the best obtainable in the most understanding way. Their doors are always open for counsel, and to help those requiring it. They are open to every one, regardless of his race or creed. The dedicated staff is trained in courtesy, and every member is ready to sit down with a family to lend aid and provide comfort

In a time when thinking is often difficult.

Staff members, in addition to the owners, are: Bob Read, bookkeeper and office manager; J. O. Skiles, insurance agent; Ralph Emerson, Roger Reynolds, and Jerry Delator, all licensed morticians; Marvin Cooper, a veteran of 15 years with Nalley - Pickle Funeral Home; Wiley Woodard, Henry Blasingame, and Ron Wuest. A lady attendant is also always on hand to insure understanding and provide helpful comfort.

PRIVACY

Family and friends may gather in privacy in comfortable rooms at the parlors. A new chapel is being built now to provide more space for services and more modern facilities.

Efficient ambulances are always ready in case of emergency. They are manned by men trained in first aid, often vital in accidents and other emergencies. Each ambulance is equipped with oxygen in case it is needed for a patient. Ambulances are also ready to transport a member of the family, in ease and comfort, to a hospital when needed.

MODERN

None of the vehicles is allowed to become obsolete, dilapidated or unsafe. New ones are purchased regularly to insure efficiency, and are radio equipped to cooperate with law enforcement officers who may be needed, or who may need to know the locations and routes of the vehicles and their destinations.

A modern chapel is now available for families who wish to hold services there instead of going to a church or home. Attendants are ready to take charge and make all arrangements for the services, to relieve the family of the anxiety of wondering what to do during their sorrow. The staff members are ready to take on these responsibilities while, at the same time, respecting the wishes of the family.

Services are carried out to make the perfect tribute, and memorials are handled with the utmost understanding for a lasting memory.

For understanding and helpfulness in times of sorrow call Nalley-Pickle at AM 4-6331.

Inspection Time Nears

Christmas is less than a month off, and the deadline for motor vehicle inspections is not far behind. All vehicles using the streets or highways must display the inspection sticker on the windshield.

The rush at the last minute often results in a long line of vehicles waiting for the inspection which requires some time.

Jones Motor Co., 101 Gregg, is one of the official inspection stations in Big Spring and area. They do the job as the law requires. Lights, brakes, windshield wipers, and other parts of the automobile are inspected, and faulty equipment can be remedied so the sticker can be applied to the windshield.

If your car needs attention, like a tune-up job, or any other work, let Jones Motor Co. make the inspection while they have it on their floor. You will be days and hours ahead by getting in early.

Ward's Features Western Wear

When you feel the need for a new pair of boots, a Western hat, or a new Western outfit, Ward's Boot, Saddle and Western Wear Store, 212 Runnels, can outfit the whole family, from infant to grandpa, with all kinds of clothing, leather goods, and saddles.

The well-known Acme, Tony Lama and Justin boots are carried in all sizes. Shop-made boots are also available at Ward's.

Belts in all widths and sizes, with the finest buckles available, chaps, vests, bridles (plain or fancy), gloves, lariats, bull whips, scabbards, and "you name it and Ward's has it."

Assorted prices, to fit the pocketbook of the customer, are found on Ward's items.

Chain Link Fence Offered At Wards

A chain link fence, one of the modern wonders of fencing lots or yards, always adds to the appearance of any property.

The largest department store in the city, Montgomery Ward, has become headquarters for the chain link fence for every purpose. The firm can install the fence complete to insure the best work and satisfaction.

Payments may be spread over 36 months for the fence and installation.

In addition, Montgomery Ward can outfit a family from shoes to household appliances, furniture and fixtures, to farm equipment. Try the big store at West Third and Gregg for whatever you need.

Creighton Has Puncture Proof Seiberling Tires

The famous "Sealed Aire" tires, made by Seiberling, are puncture proof, add to the safety of passengers and provide comfortable rides. They have been sold by Creighton Tire Co. for more than 30 years, and have stood the test of hard service on passenger cars, trucks and heavy tractors.

Today's high speeds on highways demand toughness, strength and durability in the tires used on automobiles. They must withstand the heat of fast driving and the extreme cold of winter. They must also insure road grip and give the driver a feeling of safety whether he is on dry, wet or icy pavement.

NO BLOWOUTS

There are no sudden blowouts with the "Sealed Aire" tires to let the car careen out of control when the tire goes down, as happens when a regular tire loses its inflation and there is only the carcass flopping around. There is no fear that the car may careen across the road and into the path of other vehicles. "Sealed Aire" tires just don't give.

Truck owners have looked to Seiberling tires to carry extra heavy loads which have to be moved over good highways, over dirt roads and often over the ranch trails of the mountain and hill country. Seiberling's truck tires can take it and give the truck driver confidence to pull his load wherever it needs to go.

HEAVY EQUIPMENT

Modern tractors and heavy road machinery move mostly on rubber today. Rubber gives better traction and adds to the power of engines built for heavy work. The operator is no longer shaken by jugs on iron wheels which could not be moved over modern highways.

Charlie Creighton has been in business in Big Spring long enough to know what is needed to keep vehicles moving safely over highways, even those under construction, over ranch roads or in fields. He has made it a policy to stick with Seiberling, "A Name You Can Trust in Tires."

MOBIL SIGN

"The Sign of the Flying Red Horse," is also a symbol of other services rendered by Creighton Tire Company. The sign stands out along busy streets and highways of the nation to let motorists know that Mobil products are available. It means good gasolines and fuels best suited to the engine pulling your car, heavy truck or other equipment.

Mobil oils and gasoline, along with friendly Mobil service, insures attention to details when a piece of equipment, whether it is a passenger car or heavy vehicle, is driven into Creighton Tire Co., 601 Gregg, for service. You drive out with confidence when you drive in to Creighton's.

Cancer Unit May Organize

Howard County residents, interested in the program of education and service of the American Cancer Society, are requested to attend a pre-organizational meeting of a local unit at Cosden Country Club at 7:30 p.m. today.

Dr. Floyd R. Mays Jr., president of Howard County Medical Society, and R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden Oil and Chemical Co., in calling the meeting, said that it was necessary for an active group of citizens to associate themselves with the movement as members of the board of a local American Cancer Society unit.

"The functions of the board of the Howard County unit will be to supervise and conduct a year-round program of education and service for the people of the county," they said. "The funds for the work of the American Cancer Society are furnished by voluntary contributions solicited during April."

Opening lead: Queen of ♠
An extremely clever bit of deception by West in today's hand persuaded the declarer to change his course of action in a manner that dealt a fatal blow to the contract.

Three no trump was reached with dispatch and West opened the queen of hearts taken by declarer's king. South had four top tricks available in spades, hearts, and diamonds, so that he needed only five club tricks to bring his total to nine. If the adverse clubs were divided two-two, it would be possible to run the entire suit and register an overtrick. However, if declarer attempted to split the clubs and one of the opponents held the guarded queen, he would wind up with only two tricks in the suit since North had no entry other than the king of clubs.

As a safety precaution, South resolved to concede one round of clubs to the opposition. He first cashed the ace in his hand and, when both defenders followed with small cards, declarer continued with the jack intending to give up this trick. North's king would clear up the remaining clubs on the next round and permit the dummy to run the balance of the suit.

When South led the jack of clubs, West calmly, and without undue hesitation, followed with the ten. Declarer was all set to reach for North's four of clubs, and then he stopped. If West held both missing clubs, surely he would cover the jack with the queen in order to make certain of establishing his ten. His play of the ten, then, apparently marked his partner with the missing queen in which case a safety play would not be required for the king would pick up both honors.

South could see no reason to concede a trick that he did not have to lose, so he changed his mind and went up with the king of clubs from dummy. When East showed out, darkness quickly descended for, with the North hand retired from the play, South was able to win only seven tricks and the result was a 100 point setback. Sometimes it pays not to believe your own eyes.

A Portrait Of Lee Oswald--Assassin

By The Associated Press

There was little about Lee Harvey Oswald to warn the world of what was coming.

To those few who knew him he was recalled, if at all, as sometimes eccentric but just another face in the crowd.

Some were aware he'd once left his homeland for Russia. Some saw occasional flashes of his seething contempt for the society that had nurtured him. A Marine or two recalled Oswald's expertise with a rifle.

His wife knew that he'd bought a rifle. Other people knew Oswald worked in a building by which President Kennedy would pass. At least one knew Lee Harvey Oswald had shown up on the job Friday carrying a long package wrapped in brown paper.

But no one knew all of these things.

ALL PIECES
There was no one in Dallas or anywhere else—to put all the pieces of Lee Harvey Oswald suddenly into place and cry out in warning: "Assassin!"

And so, police say, Oswald pulled the trigger, striking back at an unsuspecting society that within minutes would know this obscure misfit all too well.

But before it could learn what impelled Oswald to shoot President John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Oswald himself was dead. And Monday, the same day the President was laid to rest before the mourning eyes of the world, Oswald was buried in a wooden box at Fort Worth.

Yet if his secret lies silenced in the grave, much remains to cast light on the rebel with a cause.

POOR BOY
Oswald was a poor boy. His father died before Oswald was born on Oct. 18, 1939, in New Orleans. His mother, Marguerite, who had two other sons, tried to make ends meet working in shops. The family moved frequently, living in Fort Worth, New Orleans, North Dakota and New York.

Mrs. Oswald said Lee began working at odd jobs after school at an early age.

In fourth grade at a suburban Fort Worth school, Oswald was remembered by his principal, Mrs. N.M. Merritt, as "kind of smily, a boy with curly hair... very lively."

LESS PROMISING
While he was 13 and 14 his family lived in New York City. His report card had become less promising. General grades: barely passing. Dependability: cooperation and self-control: unsatisfactory.

Back to New Orleans where classmates at Beauregard Junior High remembered Oswald as a loner, always getting into fights. But when he advanced to high school, he scored way above average in vocabulary and reading. And what was this solitary, belligerent boy of 15 reading? Karl Marx.

He said later he became interested in Marxism after reading a pamphlet a lady handed him about Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, executed Communist spies. Later Oswald moved to North Dakota.

WORKER'S LIFE
"I could see the impoverishment of the masses before my own eyes in my mother," he said years later to a reporter. "I thought the worker's life could be better."

At 17 he enlisted in the Marines.

COURT-MARTIAL
After Oswald was sent to Japan in July 1957, he was court-martialed twice, once for having an unregistered pistol (He lost his PFC. stripes for that) and another time for using profanity to a non-com.

After he got back to the States in 1958, Oswald asked to be discharged so he could support his mother. A year later he was put on active reserve status.

A month later—in October 1959—he was in Moscow. "I've made up my mind, I'm through," he said and applied for Russian citizenship.

"Capitalism has passed its peak," he told a reporter. "I've seen poor Niggers...and that was a lesson. People hate because they've been told to hate. It's the fashion to hate people in the United States."

The Soviet government wouldn't grant him citizenship, but he was allowed to remain as an alien resident. He drifted into factory work in Minsk where he eventually married a Russian pharmacist, Marina Nicholaeva.

Communism was fine but he missed his homeland. Meanwhile, however, the Marine Corps had learned of his trip to Russia and had discharged him undressably. Angriely he wrote a letter to the secretary of the Navy.

"I shall employ all means to right this gross mistake or injustice to a boni-fied (sic) U.S. citizen and ex-serviceman."

The secretary of the Navy who received that letter was John B. Connally Jr., who, as governor of Texas, was wounded by the assassin's bullets last Friday.

Finally, in May 1962, the State Department, explaining that Oswald had not expatriated himself, issued him a passport to come home. That June, Oswald, his wife and their baby daughter arrived in New York.

Oswald moved about—New Orleans, Dallas, Fort Worth—working at odd jobs, reading, keeping to himself.

PRO-CASTRO
Last July, Oswald got into a fracas because a man he had approached earlier about helping train Cuban guerrillas saw Oswald handing out pro-Castro literature. He claimed to be secretary of the New Orleans chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. But that group said it didn't even have a chapter in Louisiana.

Last June, Oswald was granted a passport after he said he wanted to roam Russia, Poland and Western Europe as a photographer. But he never went.

Instead he sent his wife, pregnant again, to Irving, Tex., to live with a Quaker friend, Mrs. Michael R. Paine. Oswald sneaked out later, owing 15 days rent.

Paine said Oswald talked Marxism, Marxism, Marxism. "Oswald refused to eschew violence as a method for achieving desired ends." Violence? But how? Against whom? For what ends?

The world knows now the answer to the first three questions. Not the fourth.

CHOSE TARGETS
The how was a 6.5mm Italian carbine with scope which Oswald bought for $19.95 from a Chicago sporting goods firm. Just when he chose the targets of his wrath is not known, but it was announced last September that Kennedy would be coming to Dallas. Soon afterward, Oswald heard a friend of Mrs. Paine's talking about a job opening at the Texas School Book Depository Building in Dallas.

It only paid $50 a week but Oswald said he'd room in Dallas and visit his family weekly. (His wife had just had another daughter.)

Then, last Thursday, Oswald changed his pattern. He went out to the Paine's to spend the night with his family.

The next morning he was off to work and Mrs. Paine paid scant attention to a blanket in the garage. Mrs. Paine didn't talk English. Maybe that's why she never told anyone she thought she'd seen a gun wrapped in the blanket.

BLANKET
But even if she had, were there sufficient danger signs in the life of Lee Harvey Oswald to have warned anyone astute enough to see enough of them? Maybe now, in hindsight, there were. But, last Friday morning, no one saw enough of them.

West Berlin Gives Tearful Final Farewell

BERLIN (AP) — A tearful crowd of 250,000 West Berliners gathered in "John F. Kennedy Square" Monday night for a final farewell to the man who won their affection only five months ago with the words "I am a Berliner."

They cried unashamedly as the sound of tape rolled across the square from two bugles—one answering the other—in memory of the American President they regarded as friend and brother.

Above the platform from which he had spoken amid wild jubilation in June there was now only his portrait, flanked by two palms that waved gently in the cold night wind.

Never before has divided Berlin seen such an outpouring of grief as in the five days since the death of Kennedy. The vast crowd assembled Monday night at the call of Mayor Willy Brandt, who was in Washington for the President's funeral.

Deputy Mayor Heinrich Albert eulogized Kennedy as a "brother of the Berliners." He concluded the tribute by renaming the square in front of City Hall for the President. Police slowly undraped new street signs bearing his name.

As taps resounded from the bugles of two U.S. soldiers, lights in the square went out. The flicker of thousands of candles in windows of surrounding houses remained.

Brandt's wife covered her face and sobbed, while Maj. Gen. James H. Polk, the U.S. commandant in Berlin, looked drawn and tense. The British and French commandants also were deeply moved.

For one minute, West Berlin's Freedom Bell—a gift of the American people—tollled. Its clear ring carried across the wall into Communist East Berlin.

Union Service Set Thursday

LAMESA (SC) — The annual Union Service of Thanksgiving will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the First Methodist Church here with the sermon to be presented by Rev. Douglas Roach, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene.

Dr. E. D. Landreth is host pastor, Ed Wittner of the First Baptist Church is music director and Rev. Henry Ehlen, St. Paul Lutheran Church, organist.

Rev. Walter G. Horn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will give the prayer of Thanksgiving, call to worship and welcome, and Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle, pastor of the First Baptist Church, the pastoral and offertory prayers. Rev. W. E. Comstock, Assembly of God, will deliver the scripture reading and benediction.

Mike Connally, director of the choral department of Lamesa High School, will offer a vocal solo. Special music will also be provided by the bell choir of the First Baptist Church.

Firemen Schedule Annual Campaign

LAMESA (SC)—Lamesa firemen will stage their annual drive for funds to help combat Muscular Dystrophy Nov. 26.

Three teams of firemen will start from designated locations with wheelbarrows at 8 a.m. Every time a 25 cent contribution is received the firemen will move the wheelbarrows one yard.

The teams won't quit until they reach fire department headquarters.

Senators To Press Baker Queries Without Letup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate investigation of the Robert G. Baker case is going forward without interruption despite President John F. Kennedy's assassination, Chairman B. Everett Jordan of the Rules Committee said today.

"I see no reason to make any changes in our plans," said the North Carolina Democrat, who has pledged a full-scale inquiry, regardless of who may be involved.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., a member of the committee, said in a separate interview that he would expect the investigation now in progress to be carried through unless the Senate ordered otherwise.

Baker resigned Oct. 7 as secretary of the Senate Democratic majority after questions had been raised about his multiple outside business activities.

The Senate then adopted a resolution directing its Rules Committee to investigate whether Baker had used his influential $19,600-a-year Senate post to advance his personal interests and whether any other Senate employees had engaged in activities conflicting with their official duties.

The investigation so far has centered on Baker, a one-time Senate page boy who came here at the age of 14 from Pckens, S.C. He became secretary to the Democratic majority when Lyndon B. Johnson, now President, was the majority leader.

A close associate of Johnson's, Baker continued in the post when Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., became majority leader in 1961 and Johnson moved on to the vice presidency.

Jordan said he is going to North Carolina tonight and will not be back until early next week but the special investigation staff employed by the Rules Committee is moving ahead with interviews of prospective witnesses.

Tranquility Descends On JFK's Grave

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—The red glow of the saddest sunset faded over the hill's crest—and left President Kennedy and 126,000 other sleeping heroes to the privacy of night.

Gone were the crowds that had trailed the funeral procession across the nation's capital. Gone were the impressive and important of 54 governments. Gone were the close and dear.

Now, through the still woods and the open lawns sounded the melancholy boom of cannon—50 times for the 50 states. Even in darkness and mist, the tombstones—like small white scars on the earth—marked the resting place of his new company.

Down the slope and across the black Potomac, you could see the glittering lights of the capital and the towering Washington Monument, the graceful Capitol dome and the pillars of the Lincoln Memorial.

On this hill—gray green in the face of coming winter—the 35th president of the United States had joined a parliament of silent men.

By 5:05 p.m. the cannon had ended their soliloquy to dusk, and night came quickly. At graveside, there was work to be finished, and when it was done the headlights of cars pointed the way through the winding cemetery roads.

There were still guards, of course. And down below along the rim of the cemetery, the curious and sympathetic passersby searched the darkness for the small glint of the eternal flame that burns at Kennedy's graveside.

Seven minutes before midnight, the President's widow returned to the cemetery. By the light of the flickering flame, she placed a sprig of flowers on his newly covered grave.

Brig. Gen. Howard J. Withycombe, commanding the 356th Pilot Training Wing at Webb AFB, gets his first ride in an F-104 "Starfighter." Capt. Irvin J. Smith, instructor pilot of the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron who accompanied the general on the Mach 2 flight, looks on.

Changes Likely In Cabinet, Aide Staff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although President Johnson has asked all of John F. Kennedy's advisers, Cabinet members and diplomatic representatives to remain at their posts, eventual changes are almost certain.

The White House staff, because of its special personal link to any president, may see the first switches as some top aides to the late President Kennedy decide to leave government service.

On the Cabinet level, changes may be further off. When the shifts occur, it seems likely President Johnson will fill some positions—especially the staff ones—from among aides and associates who have served him as vice president, and before that as a senator and a representative.

JENKINS, REEDY
 Two of Johnson's closest aides have been Walter Jenkins, his administrative assistant, and George Reedy, a former newsman who has handled speech writing, research and public relations jobs for the new President.

Jenkins has worked for Johnson more than 20 years. Reedy, with the new President for a dozen years, has traveled on most of Johnson's trips.

Reedy has been mentioned as a possibility to succeed Pierre Salinger if the White House press secretary steps out of presidential service.

However, because Reedy's duties have included so much more than press relations, many persons consider Bill Moyers, 29, deputy director of the Peace Corps, a more likely choice if there's a new press chief.

IN CAMPAIGN
 Moyers is a former Texas newspaperman who worked long and hard for Johnson during the 1960 campaign.

Horace Busby has been one of Johnson's favorite speech writers. He is another former Texas newspaperman and has worked on and off for Johnson over the years.

Another veteran aide is Arthur Perry, who served as secretary to two U.S. senators from Texas—Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally—before joining Johnson's staff when he became a senator in 1949.

Besides these advisers, Johnson has another group of men who have helped him at times, while retaining other jobs.

CHIEF COUNSEL
 Prominent among these are: Gerald Siegel, vice president and counsel of the Washington Post and chief counsel of the Senate Democratic Policy Committee in 1953-58.

James Rowe Jr., a Washington lawyer and political adviser. Edwin Weisl, a New York lawyer who took a leave in 1957 to guide Johnson's inquiry into satellites and space.

Two secretaries who have worked for Johnson are Mary Juanita Roberts and Marie Fehmer. Mrs. Willy Day Taylor, a close family friend, has been Johnson's "girl Friday."

Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, who took leave of a flourishing Washington news bureau in 1960 and has been with Johnson since, has been working mainly for Mrs. Johnson. She was the First Lady's press secretary during the 1960 campaign.

Many of Johnson's closest advisers have taken government positions since Johnson's election as vice president.

John Connally, Johnson's political chief of staff in 1960, first became secretary of the Navy, then was elected governor of Texas last year. Wounded in the assassination of Kennedy, Connally is on the road to recovery and is expected to run for re-election next year.

Cyrus Roberts Vance, who served as special counsel to Johnson's Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, is secretary of the Army and a likely choice as deputy secretary of defense when Roswell Gilpatric leaves government service in the near future.

Other former Johnson men holding government positions include assistant secretary of the Navy Kenneth Belieu; Edward Welsh, executive secretary of the National Aeronautics and Space Council; and O. B. Lloyd, public affairs director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

UNDER FIRE
 Another former Johnson aide is Robert G. Baker, who quit under fire Oct. 7 as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority. His outside business affairs are under investigation.

Baker rose to his powerful senatorial post under Johnson's tutelage.

Many observers feel the new President may wish to keep the Kennedy Cabinet intact through the 1964 presidential election.

If any members leave the Cabinet before then, many think the first may be Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the late President's brother and closest adviser.

Of the others, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara in particular enjoy Johnson's highest confidence.

FROM RUSK
 Even while he was vice president, Johnson received frequent reports from Rusk on major policy developments. Despite some conflicts with McNamara over the space program, Johnson is reported to consider the defense secretary the strongest member of the Kennedy Cabinet.

Of the others, only Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, who fought Johnson politically in 1960, and Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges, whose possible retirement has been discussed, seem possible candidates for early departure from the Cabinet.

When Harry S. Truman succeeded the late Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1945, he moved quickly to revamp the Cabinet, replacing six of 10 within three months.

But Johnson's situation is completely different. His term has less than 14 months to run.

GOP Candidates Curtail Speeches

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona say they plan no political speeches for a month in deference to the late President John F. Kennedy.

Rockefeller, who has declared himself a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, said Monday he will not push his candidacy during the 30-day period of mourning which he has decreed for New York State.

Goldwater, who leads polls as a potential GOP presidential nominee but has yet to declare himself in the running, told a reporter he has canceled three television appearances and will make no more political speeches this year.

ABSENCE
 Since the assassination of Kennedy "there is an absence of anything political to talk about," Goldwater said.

Rockefeller said in a statement that during the 30-day mourning period "I shall not participate personally in any public activity in connection with the Republican presidential nomination, nor in any other public activities with the exception of those falling within my official duties as governor of New York State."

Goldwater said that so far as he is concerned, the tragic sequence of events has removed the Kennedy administration as an issue.

WANT TO SEE
 "We want to see what President Johnson will do," he said. "We do not know what course he will take, whether he will change some of them."

"We want to give him all of the room he needs to operate and all of the help he needs. It would not be fair for the opposing party to heckle him while he is getting organized in his new job. Let's give him a couple of months to see what he can do."

Chairman William E. Miller postponed a Dec. 11-14 meeting of the National Republican Committee and said "total suspension of partisan political activity is called for" during the period of mourning.

PLEDGE SILENCE
 Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., wrote Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass. Monday suggesting that the conference of all GOP senators pledge political silence for the remainder of the year.

Saltonstall, who heads the conference, is expected to react favorably. Scott is a former Republican national chairman.

Scott said he thought the Republicans could be of service to Johnson "by sparing the President the need to divert his attention from matters of national security as might be occasioned by political addresses around the country during the remainder of this calendar year."

Goldwater thought it too early to tell how Kennedy's death will affect the 1964 political picture. As one credited with strong support in the South, he said that much may depend on what Johnson does about civil rights and other issues.

Puzzle of Monday, November 25 Solved

Three Of Big Four Bow Out

By The Associated Press
 The leadership of three of the Big Four Western nations has changed hands this fall. The chronology:

Oct. 15 — Konrad Adenauer stepped down as chancellor of West Germany; succeeded by Ludwig Erhard, economics minister.

Oct. 18 — Harold Macmillan resigned as prime minister of Great Britain; succeeded by Foreign Secretary Lord Home, now known as Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

Nov. 22 — John F. Kennedy killed by an assassin; succeeded as President of the United States by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The fourth leader, President Charles de Gaulle of France, was in Washington Monday for the funeral of President Kennedy.

Crime Declines

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Crime and violence here dropped drastically from usual levels during the weekend because of the death of President Kennedy, police said today. They said people remained close to television sets and radios, leaving bars and other public places little frequented.
