Fears Mount For Bolivia Hostages

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — A struggle between Bolivia's government and Communist-led tin miners who hold four Americans and 17 others as hostages entered an ominous phase today.

A 24-hour deadline set by the miners for the government to release two jailed Communist union leaders or "suffer the consequences" came and passed with no immediate word of developments on either side. The government had given no indication it would free the union leaders.

Fears mounted for the safety of the hostages.

The ultimatum did not spell out what the consequences might be, but observers recalled a similar crisis in 1949, when miners seized four American engineers, held them hostage briefly, then killed them.

FRIENDLY

One hopeful aspect was a report that Vice President Juan Lechin, leftist leader of the rebellious miners, had had friendly relations with one of the Americans, Thomas Martin, 27, of New York, a U.S. Information Agency officer.

In a radio-telephone talk with the U.S. Embassy at La Paz, the Bolivian capital, Martin said Sunday he and the other hostages were well.

The captives include three Canadian technicians, a Dutch mine manager, a West German and a dozen Bolivian technicians. They have been held since Friday at Catavi, a mining center 135 miles southeast of La Paz.

PEACE CORPS

In addition to Martin, the Americans are U.S. information officer Michael A. Kristula of Cadillac, Mich.; U.S. labor officer Bernard Rifkin, 52, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y.; and Peace Corps volunteer Robert Fergertstrom, whose parents live in Honolulu.

They had gone to the mining area to deliver a $15,000 U.S. aid check to be used for a school and an orphanage.

In exchange for the hostages, the miners demanded release of union leaders, Irineo Pimental and Frederico Escobar. The government said they were arrested on a court order on charges of committing non-political or common crimes. No details were given.

Bombing Injures British Officials

ADEN (AP)—A bomb flung from an airport balcony at a British high commissioner's party killed an Indian woman today and injured 39 other persons, including the commissioner and three aides.

Sir Kennedy Trevaskis, the high commissioner, suffered a minor hand injury. But George Henderson, deputy assistant commissioner, and Secretary Jim Foster of the Information Ministry were hit in the shoulder.

Also injured were two officials of the Federation of South Arabia. One of them, Information Minister Sultan Ahmed Bin Abdulla Fadhill, was listed as seriously injured.

The official party of British and Arab officials were preparing to leave for London and talks on the constitution of this aggregate of sheikhdoms and emirates, a British protectorate along the southern coast of the Arabian Peninsula. Talks were scheduled with Colonial Secretary Duncan Sandys.

There was no clue to the identity of the bomb thrower. The revolutionary regime of neighboring Yemen claims territory along the ill-defined border and strongly opposed creation of the federation. But whether a Yemeni had a hand in the bombing was not known immediately. A number of spectators who were on the balcony

All-Out Civil Rights Push Inches Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drive to force a House vote on civil rights legislation early next year inched ahead today after a whirlwind start Monday.

It was in the form of a petition to wrest control of the bill from foot-dragging Rules Committee and line it up for four days of debate and a showdown vote on the House floor, probably about Jan. 27.

To be successful, the petition must have the signatures of 218 House members. Not until then will the names be made public. Only while the House is sitting can the signatures be affixed.

The petition was filed Monday by Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., whose Judiciary Committee approved the civil rights bill last Oct. 29 but hasn't been able to budge it out of the Rules Committee. Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., has announced that the rules group would start hearings sometime in January.

Celler said that wasn't definite enough. He suspected that Smith, a veteran foe of civil rights measures, might prolong the hearings indefinitely.

A rash of enthusiasm produced 115 signers in the first hour of the House session Monday as Democratic liberals and a handful of Republicans lined up with pens in hand. Then business fell off and by the end of the day 131 signatures were on the petition.

Aid Program Tries Dieting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has been running the foreign aid program on a $2.6-billion annual level, in case it doesn't get more from Congress, it was learned on good authority today.

The current 1964 fiscal year started July 1, but Congress still has not appropriated funds for the program.

A compromise authorization bill, which sets a $3.6-billion ceiling, was approved by the House Monday and may come up for final action in the Senate today. The appropriations bill, which provides the actual money, is still in Senate and House committees.

In the absence of any appropriation, the foreign aid program has been financed for the past six months by resolutions of Congress continuing the spending at last year's level. That level was $3.9-billion.

However, an authoritative source said, aid administrators have been playing it safe by spending only at a $2.6-billion level.

If it happens that Congress cuts back the program to that extent, this ensures a less painful adjustment. If they get more, they can step up the program during the second half of the fiscal year.

The expectations are that Congress will appropriate just about $3 billion for foreign aid which would be $600 million under the authorization and a whopping $1.5 billion below what the late President Kennedy requested.

The program, never very popular in Congress, has run into its strongest opposition this year since it began after World War II as the Marshall Plan.

NATIVITY SCENE WRECKED BY WIND
Christmas display at Howard County courthouse blown

Low Temperatures Due To Follow High Winds

Bad weather is in the offing and a drab gray day Tuesday offers advance proof of the soundness of the weather bureau's prediction. It also fitted in with the hectic Monday night. Overcast skies and gusty winds made the night reminiscent of spring. Webb AFB weather station said that the winds peaked as high as 35 knots — 41 miles an hour — at times.

The forecast set for tonight and Wednesday will bring top coats and car heaters in high favor if it comes through. Freezing drizzle, light snow and a high tomorrow not to exceed 35 degrees is the unsavory picture. Today's moisture consisted of light mist from time to time.

The forecast indicated that tonight will usher in the year's dampest and coldest spell of weather. In Denver, Colo., the reading this morning was 13 degrees—it is from this front that Big Spring's cold wave is due to develop.

The low for the night is to be 27 degrees with the chill building up and holding steady throughout the day.

Meantime, a check showed that Christmas decorations took a beating at the hands of the gusty winds Monday night. The manger scene at the east door of the county courthouse was particularly hard hit. The roof was mostly blown off and the Holy Family was covered with broken cedar beams which had held the burlap topping in place.

Workers were out to pull the tinsel wreaths at street corners back in place—most were left awry by the winds.

Many of the colored electric bulbs atop the courthouse were shattered when the wind whipped them against the walls. No measurable precipitation had fallen at noon.

The coldest night of the current season was Dec. 4 when the temperature dropped to 23 degrees. There was no moisture at that time.

No Demand For Ransom Yet Reported

STATELINE, Calif. (AP) — Posses pushed a two-day hunt today in the snowy mountains ringing Lake Tahoe for singer Frank Sinatra Jr., reported hostage of kidnapers.

His famed father kept an around-the-clock vigil 65 miles northeast in a Reno hotel. A spokesman said FBI agents had urged him to do it.

Sheriff Ernest Carlson of El Dorado County, Calif., was asked by newsmen Monday if there was fear for young Sinatra's life. Carlson replied, "Certainly. There always is in every kidnaping."

No demand for ransom has been reported since the 19-year-old Sinatra vanished Sunday night from a motel just before he was to go on stage at a Lake Tahoe night club.

WHERE'S MONEY

But John Foss, a band trumpet player, told officers he was with Sinatra Jr. when two gunmen burst into the motel room and that they demanded "Where's the money?" before gagging Foss and making off with the young singer.

Foss played in the band with which young Sinatra was appearing.

There was a brief flurry of excitement Monday night when FBI agents announced they had seized six men and 18 guns 20 miles west of Lake Tahoe.

ROBBERIES

Two of the men were identified as Joseph James Sorce, 23, of El Cerrito, Calif., and Thomas Patrick Keating, 21, of Riverside, Calif., wanted for two bank robberies which netted $13,000.

After Sinatra Jr. vanished, officers had put out an alert, saying these two men were known to be in the area and might possibly be connected with the Sinatra case.

But arresting FBI agents said the two and their four alleged conspirators, seized in two cars on U.S. 50, were held only for the bank robberies.

NOT POSITIVE

Officers took Foss to view the men but he could make no positive identification.

In Reno, the worried Sinatra Sr. said:

"I've always had a fear of kidnaping, especially when the children were much younger than they are now."

"But I thought that was all past, now that they're grown up."

A spokesman in his suite said Sinatra was "sleepless, nervous, tired, worried, concerned — everything a father should be."

RESOURCES

Sinatra's spokesman said Attorney General Robert Kennedy telephoned late Monday from Washington and assured the entertainer that the full resources of the Justice Department were available in the case.

Ashef, friend Sinatra Sr. flew to Reno by chartered plane from Palm Springs, Calif., in Monday's pre-dawn hours after he got word about his son.

MoPac, T&P Link Attacked

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A stockholder filed a federal suit Monday to block the proposed merger of the Missouri Pacific and Texas & Pacific Railroads.

Rose Slavton of New York alleged that the merger, approved by boards of both companies last week, would be "grossly unfair and inequitable to Class B stockholders, and would deprive them of their property without due process of law."

Under the merger, Mo-Pac and the T&P would become the Texas and Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Lodge, 61, and now ambassador to South Viet Nam, said he was not running for anything but "naturally, anything from Gen. Eisenhower would be treated with great respect."

It was Lodge who went to Supreme Allied Headquarters in Europe in 1951 and twisted Eisenhower's arm to run for the Republican presidential nomination.

In 1952, Lodge was defeated for re-election to the Senate from Massachusetts by John F. Kennedy.

Pauling Sees End Of Wars

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Accepting the delayed 1962 Nobel Peace Prize, Dr. Linus Pauling declared today, "The world without war is in sight."

The controversial professor from the California Institute of Technology was greeted with thunderous applause as he stepped forward and accepted the prize of $49,465.

This was the day of the award of prizes set up by the will of Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite. Ceremonies were held in Oslo and Stockholm.

Representatives of the International Red Cross Committee and the League of Red Cross Societies accepted the 1963 Peace Prize of $51,000 in ceremonies at Oslo University. The ceremonies were attended by King Olav V, Norwegian dignitaries, members of Parliament and the diplomatic corps.

FOR KENNEDY

In Stockholm, there were words of praise for the late President Kennedy as King Gustav VI Adolf awarded the prizes for literature, medicine, physics and chemistry. Two Americans, Prof. Eugen Wigner of Princeton and Dr. Maria Goepfert-Mayer of the University of California at La Jolla, received a share of the physics prize.

In an awards speech in Stockholm, Chairman Arne Tiselius of the Nobel Foundation said Kennedy in word and deed worked for the same ideas as Nobel.

CRITICISM

Pauling was praised in the Oslo presentation speech for working tirelessly to make clear the danger of nuclear weapons despite strong criticism. The U.S. Senate Internal Security Subcommittee once accused him of having "a consistent pro-Soviet bias."

Then Pauling spoke, expressing great optimism for the future of the world. He said the prize was not to be regarded as "recognition of my work alone, but also of the work of a great many others who strived for peace."

"We are beginning to move toward the world of peace and disarmament which Alfred Nobel was striving for, when the only war that exists is the one against disease and human suffering," he added.

"The world without war is in sight," Pauling said.

AF Reeled By Move To Cancel Dyna-Soar

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's reported decision to cancel the Dyna-Soar manned space glider project deals a double blow to the Air Force's military-in-space ambitions.

It seemingly dooms what the Air Force has tagged as a critical series of experiments leading to eventual manned space warships.

But in broader implications could be more ominous to the Air Force.

Johnson long has been regarded as a believer in a strong military role in space and Air Force advocates thought they had reason to hope for a more sympathetic attitude from him than from President Kennedy.

HOLD DOWN

At the same time, the action underscores Johnson's apparent determination to hold down on defense spending, to keep it next year close to or below this year's level of between $50 billion and $51 billion.

Officially, the Defense Department and the White House refused to comment on a report by the trade publication Missile-Space Daily that the defense budget for the coming fiscal year would omit funds for the Dyna-Soar.

However, informants indicated that Johnson accepted the recommendation of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara who has exhibited grave doubts since last spring that the space glider project was worth what it would cost to complete it.

RECAPTURED

According to current figures, Congress has appropriated $549 million for the Dyna-Soar since 1959. Of this, about $180 million could be recaptured.

Over-all, the Air Force has estimated it would cost more than $800 million to complete the Dyna-Soar work by 1968, with the first of a planned 20 flights into orbit due in 1965.

The main economy move which Pentagon experts clearly credit to Johnson is the planned slash of 25,000 from the defense department's civilian worker force by mid-1965, plus a 15-percent cut in hiring of foreign nationals and a reduction of overseas headquarters staffs and military aid missions abroad.

SAVINGS

The 25,000 reduction in the civilian payroll, to a ceiling of $97,000, could yield savings of about $200 million.

This alone would justify Johnson's forecast of several hundred million less in defense spending. The President spoke of such savings this year, but Pentagon experts say he must have meant in the coming 1965 fiscal year.

$40 Million Loss Since '59 Cited By Studebaker

NEW YORK (AP)—Studebaker Corp. lost $40 million building automobiles in the United States since 1959, Chairman Randolph H. Guthrie said today.

Studebaker announced Monday it will close its assembly plant at South Bend, Ind., but will continue production at its Hamilton, Ont., plant.

"We were being bled to death there," Guthrie said of Studebaker's auto production operations at South Bend.

Details of Studebaker's plans to end auto production in the United States and concentrate on production in Canada were outlined at a news conference by Guthrie, Byers A. Burlingame, president, and Gordon E. Grundy, president of Studebaker of Canada Ltd.

SPORTS CAR

Production of the Avanti, Studebaker's sports car, will cease.

Dealers will be encouraged to stay with Studebaker.

The price of Studebaker cars made in Canada and sold in the United States is expected to remain the same as current prices here.

FOR PRESIDENT

Lodge's Feeler Has Little Effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — What seemed to be a trial balloon labeled "Henry Cabot Lodge for president" floated the political skies today but without discernible effect thus far on political pros on the ground.

As one of them remarked: "Until the dust settles, we can hardly see any trial balloons, let alone gauge their effect."

The dust he referred to, of course, was stirred up by the sudden succession to the presidency of Lyndon B. Johnson. This has created real turmoil in the Republican ranks and has led to a lot of re-thinking.

The big issue is this: Does the effort to beat Johnson require the GOP to put up a candidate quite different from the sort who would have been needed to battle the late John F. Kenedy?

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is evidently one of those who has been re-thinking. He is reported to have urged Lodge to make himself actively available for the Republican presidential nomination.

Lodge, 61, and now ambassador to South Viet Nam, said he was not running for anything but "naturally, anything from Gen. Eisenhower would be treated with great respect."

It was Lodge who went to Supreme Allied Headquarters in Europe in 1951 and twisted Eisenhower's arm to run for the Republican presidential nomination.

In 1952, Lodge was defeated for re-election to the Senate from Massachusetts by John F. Kennedy.

DEAR ABBY Can Help As Middleman

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and love both my parents very much, but I'm afraid they will end up in divorce court if my mother doesn't change her ways. Dad is a lawyer, around 50, and he has a good practice. But, Abby, if most people knew how hard a lawyer works on briefs, court arguments, witnesses, testimony, etc., they would break right down and cry. Tonight Dad came home at 7:15. Right away Mom said, "Have you eaten yet?" No "hello," just, "Have you eaten yet?" He said, "No, I just got out of court." Then Mom said, "What do you think I'm running here, a restaurant?" This sort of thing goes on all the time. I know Mom loves him, but how can I get her to treat him nicer? I was taught that children should be seen and not heard. IN THE MIDDLE DEAR IN: I don't believe that children should be seen and not heard. Wait for the opportune moment, and when your mother is alone, has plenty of time and is in a good mood, tell her she should be more patient and gentle with Dad. Sometimes, from the mouths of babes...

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of five children, but my 14-year-old daughter is my problem. When I tell her to clean up her room or to turn off the TV and do her homework, she tells me to shut up! I told her she was getting out of hand and if she didn't watch her step I'd tell her father. He is very strict with the children and if they ever talked back to him they'd never forget it. I think it is a mother's job, not the father's, to discipline the daughters. How can I make my daughter mind without telling her father?

A MOTHER'S JOB DEAR MOTHER: Disciplining children (boys or girls) should be a team effort. Personally, I think you've lost control. And once it is lost it is rarely regained. Unless you want even more serious problems with your daughter, let her father handle her.

AT SAN MARCOS LBJ's Politicking Began In College

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — "Some of the students used to call him 'Bull' Johnson because of his incessant talk of politics," a former dean of Southwest Texas State College recalls of his most famous student, President Lyndon B. Johnson.

When the dean—Dr. A. H. Nolle—retired in 1959, the then majority leader of the U.S. Senate wrote him a letter of thanks: "You took a raw hill country boy and tried to make an educated man out of me."

Johnson graduated from the small teachers college at San Marcos in 1930 with a BA degree in history.

FORMATIVE Among the most formative years of his life were those spent studying, talking politics and working his way through college. What was he like then?

"He was always in a hurry on the campus," said Willard Deason, Austin radio station executive who once roomed with Johnson. "He walked with long, loping strides, almost like a trot."

Deason said that when the tall lanky editor of the school paper set his mind on something, he could work wonders that other students wouldn't even attempt.

"I remember once there was an intercollegiate press convention in Abilene. Lyndon had other commitments but I wanted to go, being editor of the school annual."

NO MONEY "But I didn't have any money for the trip. Anyway, our school had never sent a representative to the meeting before."

"Lyndon told me to hold on, he would see what he could do. He went to the president of the college and sold him on the idea that the school ought to be represented at the convention."

"He came back with a wide grin on his face and told me it was set up," Deason said. "Lyndon was like that. He could make you see that his view was the right view."

Nolle recalled his first impression of the 19-year-old Johnson: "He was quite a handsome fellow but a regular beanpole."

Nolle said Johnson's best grades came from history and social studies, the subjects he was most interested in.

MIN'S SOCKS J. R. Buckner, a former professor at the college, said Johnson sold men's socks door-to-door as one way to work his way through school.

"I bought socks from him. He was such a determined salesman, you couldn't resist him," Buckner said.

Johnson also built campus sidewalks and picked up rocks to beautify the campus as part of his work.

Friends say Johnson was active in campus politics but only behind the scenes.

Deason said he was elected president of the senior class because Johnson, who backed him, wouldn't give up.

"The night before election day, we had checked all the known votes and I was way behind. I told Lyndon we might as well give up and go to bed."

"But he wouldn't give up. He spent all night moving behind the scenes giving them that Johnson 1-2-3 pep talk. The next morning, I won by 20 votes," Deason said.

EXPRESSIONS He remarked that Johnson's favorite expressions as an undergraduate were: "I want 'em do" people around me. Do the necessary. Let's get it done now."

Nolle said Johnson was the brightest debater the college had seen in years. His most important debate came against a nationally rated Sam Houston State College team at Huntsville.

"Lyndon led our school to a win. He took the negative to the debate topic: 'Resolved: That the U.S. should cease to protect, by armed force, capital invested in foreign countries.'"

Nolle also recalled how Johnson got into the press section at the 1928 National Democratic Convention at Houston.

"As editor of the school paper, he had featured the coming convention for several weeks. He showed copies of the papers at the convention, and they gave him press credentials."

"We had all wondered why he had laid so much stress on the convention," Nolle said.

Criticism From A Pastor

Criticizing some of these articles, the pastor of one of the most respected churches in this city has written me for the second time. And for the second time it seems needful that I reply publicly. A man of his education and position surely should be able to show up flaws in my teaching. He has tried; and if he has succeeded, I would not hide the fact. If anything I teach will not stand being questioned in the light of the Bible, I had better quit teaching it. A curse is pronounced on anyone who preaches a gospel different from that preached by the apostles (Gal. 1:8, 9).

Mr. Pastor, I thank you sincerely for writing. It indicates your consideration for my soul and the souls of my readers. And without using your name, I would like to present to my readers the objections you have raised to things taught in these articles.

Senate Okays Public Works Appropriation

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate passed a $4.5 billion public works appropriation bill Monday.

More than half the money, $2.78 billion, is for operation of the Atomic Energy Commission during the year that began July 1.

DISCRIMINATION Hruska said the program, authorized for $900 million and with $850 million already appropriated, was a poorly conceived and ill advised effort to provide employment in depressed areas and has been administered "with discrimination."

TECHNICAL SOCIETY reminds parents: The booby-trap. The toy may look safe now, but check closely. How about when it's worn by long hard use? Will sharp pointed ends be exposed after wheels fall off, or the rubber tip is lost from the arrow? Will gears or springs fly into the eyes should the toy fall or be thrown down? Will the toy splinter or crumble into sight-threatening shrapnel when dropped or fallen on? Is it worth the risk?

Mexican Profit Sharing Disputed

MEXICO CITY (AP) - The newspaper Novedades says Mexico's economy could be damaged by contradictory statements of a government official on a controversial profit sharing law.

Hugo Margain, secretary of the Ministry of Industry and Commerce, is also president of the profit-sharing commission composed of labor, industry and government officials whose job it is to spell out the details.

TWO WAYS The newspaper said today that if the Wall Street Journal is correct and earlier statements made to the Mexican press also are correct, the law will work two ways: One for foreign investors, one for Mexican industry.

It said the New York story caused a drop in stock prices here.

The Wall Street Journal story, by James C. Tanner, said "Mr. Margain declines to disclose in advance any details on the formula."

But it went on to say that he indicated the law would allow a specific deduction for return on investment, "possibly as much as 10 per cent of the company's capital investment." The article continued, and was quoted here: "He says a deduction also will be allowed for reinvestment possibly about 5 per cent of the company's capitalization."

Unless such a formula, a company with a $100,000 capital investment would be able to deduct as much as $15,000 from its after-tax profit before arriving at the profit-sharing base figure.

The workers would get a percentage of this base; businesses earning less than the allowed deduction wouldn't have to pay any bonuses."

Novedades said these benefits had not been mentioned for Mexican businesses. The newspaper said it was understood locally that bonuses would be on net earnings, without tax and reinvestment deductions.

Care Urged In Selecting Safe Toys For Children

NEW YORK, N.Y. - Blindness can come wrapped in gay Christmas ribbon, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Inc., warned parents as part of its 1963 "Safe Gifts From Santa" campaign against Yuletide eye accidents among children.

"Each year unsafe or mis-handled Christmas toys boost the eye injury rate among youngsters during the holidays," pointed out John W. Ferree, M.D., executive director of the Society.

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness estimates that some 12,500 American children will suffer eye damage throughout the holiday season. Toy accidents loom as a major cause but Christmas decorations such as broken lights and shattered tree ornaments will also add to the eye casualty list.

Dr. Ferree advised parents to take a major step toward eliminating needless Christmas eye injuries by "accident-proofing" their gift lists. Wise selection of toys for a child means consideration of his emotional and physical growth rather than just his chronological age.

Choose a plaything that your youngster can handle safely right now, don't buy with the idea he'll grow into use of the toy," explained Dr. Ferree. "While you wait for him to grow into using the toy safely, he may well blind himself or a playmate."

Beware of two kinds of delayed reaction accidents, the National Society reminds parents:

Fallout. Older Brother may know how to handle his new tool kit or Indian outfit deftly and safely. But what happens when he goes to play elsewhere and Little Brother gets his hands on arrows or a screwdriver. "Safe" toys in tiny hands are like a time bomb; it's just a matter of time before the explosion. These types of toys in a family situation demand that parents exercise constant vigilance and safety discipline in their storage and use. Without fail, keep them out of the reach of smaller children.

Recalling the serious eye injury to a Southern lad who held a Christmas tree light over the stove to see if heat made it bubble—only to have the bulb explode in his face, Dr. Ferree counseled parents to make youngsters aware of the vision threat from broken ornaments, pointed evergreen needles from wreaths and trees, razor-edge wrapping paper, and the dangers of fire.

"Vision is never more precious than at Christmas. Don't gamble with your child's precious eyesight over the holidays," Dr. Ferree said.

BEEN SICK OR HURTING?

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C.

Health is the result of Normal Nerve function. Ill health or disease is the opposite of health. It is a departure from a state of health, of body or mind characterized usually by a disturbance of junction. When disease appears, it is evident that the nerve force causing health has diminished its activity. Something is interfering with the normal nerve currents essential to normal structure and action.

Nerve function operates through the nervous system which is widely distributed throughout the body, enabling all organs to receive this nerve force so necessary to normal true and action.

The cause of nerve interference directly concerns the modern chiropractor because his science is founded upon the well proven promise that interference with normal nerve function is the primary cause of many types of illness. Diminished nerve function impairs normal action of organs and thus ill health results. The modern chiropractor locates and removes interference with pinched nerves, thereby restoring the normal nerve function employed by Nature in making all cures and maintaining a state of health.

Has your spine been thoroughly examined? It may well be that your spinal condition is the cause of your ill health. Your chiropractor is a spine specialist. See Hansen Chiropractic Clinic, 1004 Eleventh Place, across from Piggly Wiggly. AM 3-3324. —Adv.

BOWIE (AP) - Earl Awalt Jr., 36, of Bowie, was killed Monday night as a car hit a bridge and fell 20 feet into a dry creek bed. The driver, L. D. Brooks, 35, also of Bowie, suffered critical injuries in the accident near Boyd, 40 miles south of here in Wise County.

Cotton Crop 15 1/2 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department's year-end report placed this year's cotton crop today at 15,548,000 bales.

The Texas crop was estimated at 4,635,000 bales, raised on 6,225,000 acres yielding an average of 379 pounds.

The new estimate compares with 15,322,000 bales indicated a month ago, 14,867,000 last year and 13,125,000 for the 1957-61 average.

It is supplemented by a reserve and surplus supply of 11.2 million bales from past crops.

The bulk of this extra cotton is held by the government under price support operations.

Because of the big supply, planting allotments for the 1964 crop had been set at the minimum level permitted by farm law.

The department estimated the yield averaged 524 pounds per acre compared with a record high of 516 pounds forecast a month ago, 457 pounds last year and 440 for the five-year average. The previous record was 466 pounds in 1958.

The acreage of cotton harvested was put at 14,230,000 acres compared with 15,569,000 last year and 14,293,000 for the five-year average. The planted acres totaled 14,836,000 acres compared with 16,293,000 last year.

The Census Bureau said 12,834,500 bales had been ginned prior to Dec. 1 compared with 12,945,862 last year.

Texas ginnings were 2,929,761, compared to 2,784,748 last year.

Smashed Metal Box May Hold Clues To Disaster

ELKTON, Md., (AP) — The tragedy of Clipper 214 moved today into a mop-up search of a cornfield and the opening of a misshapen metal box.

In the field just north of Elkton still lay scattered pieces of wreckage and some of the remains of the 81 persons who perished Sunday night in the explosion and fiery crash of a Pan American World Airways jet plane.

In the box was the flight recorder carried by the four-engine Boeing 707 on its last ride.

SOME CLUE

Officials faintly hoped it might yield some clue to the cause of the disaster, one of the worst in the history of civil aviation. They said the recorder, about the size of a box camera, was so badly battered that its story might be lost.

Did lightning, as some eye-witnesses said, really strike the plane as it bucked an electrical storm near the end of its flight from Puerto Rico to Philadelphia? Or was it a bomb? Or air turbulence?

Federal investigators said it was too early to rule out any possibilities.

NOT ENOUGH

They ruled out reconstruction of the shattered plane as a step toward solution of the mystery.

"There is not enough left to reconstruct," said Alan S. Boyd, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Boyd said the recorder — an instrument which charts the plane's speed, direction, altitude and encountered gusts of air — was found Monday near the main point of impact of the wreckage.

INFORMATION

"It was so compacted there is no way to tell at this time whether we can derive any useful information from it," he said.

FBI agents joined the team of CAB disaster specialists on the crash scene, about 15 miles southwest of Wilmington, Del. Edwin R. Tully, special agent in charge of the bureau's Baltimore office, said the FBI was helping identify the victims.

"It was also checking for any violation of federal law — like the bombing of an aircraft.

"At the moment," said Tully, "there doesn't appear to be."

IDENTIFICATION

Of the 73 passengers and 8 crew members aboard, a Pan American official said 60 were accounted for by Monday night.

Rings, dental work, tattered clothing draped on corn stalks and trees were used in identification.

Aiding in the search were Maryland state police and sailors from the Bainbridge Naval Training Center.

They gathered up their findings in plastic bags, tagged them, and transferred them to the National Guard armory in Elkton.

Pioneer Naval Airman Passes

LONGMEADOW, Mass. (AP) — Shine S. Halliburton, 77, one of the Navy's early airmen and a survivor of two dirigible crashes, will be buried Wednesday at Arlington National Cemetery.

Halliburton died Monday almost a quarter century after his retirement as a warrant officer in 1939.

He was one of five survivors of the wreck of the dirigible R38 at Hull, England, in 1921. He also survived the crash of the Shenandoah in Ohio in 1925.

Brave, Bold Men Plan Activities Friday, 13th

The staff of the Big Spring Kiwanis Club who are to serve in the ensuing year are brave bold men.

The officials and members of the Howard County South Plains Hereford Association are likewise strong-hearted individuals who pooh-pooh all superstition and old wives tales.

This week, Friday falls on that dreadful date, the 13th day of the month.

It is the last time this direful occurrence can happen this year and the second time it has so fallen in 1963.

But consider the doughty Kiwanians and the equally bold-hearted Hereford breeders. The new officials of the Kiwanis Club are to be duly installed in to office that night (their terms begin as of that time); and the Hereford group stages its annual banquet for its members and friends at the Hotel Settles on the same evening.

Dyed in the wool triskalkaphobatics—which is the word the Greeks had for folk who are fearful of Fridays the 13th—would never, never start off so important an assignment as running a big civic club for a year on so threatening a date. And these same triskalks would be most reluctant, it is believed, to schedule an expensive banquet for any purpose on such a date.

Next year, the calendar shows only one Friday so evil as to fall on a 13th. That's in the merry month of March. In 1962, Friday the 13th were in September and December. The other Friday 13 of the current year was also in September.

Dietzel Says He's At Fault For Showing

By The Associated Press Paul Dietzel was hired away from Louisiana State by Army for one reason — to beat Navy. The person to blame for the fact that he didn't, says Paul Dietzel, is Paul Dietzel.

Dietzel blames himself for Army's failure to get off that last crucial play against Navy in their tense game Saturday, and has exonerated referee Barney Finn.

"The official did exactly the right thing," Dietzel said Monday. "I have no fault to find with him. If anybody is to blame it is me. I was not fully aware of the rules.

"But I still feel we should have had the opportunity to put the ball in play that last time. I don't know whether we would have scored, but . . ."

He let the sentence trail off, just as the clock ticked off the last seconds against Army in the frantic finish at Philadelphia.

The Cadets were camped on the Navy two in a bedlam of noise, but quarterback Carl Stichweh was unable to get off the possibly decisive play before time expired.

Alabama will be lacking the services of Joe Namath — one of the finest quarterbacks in the Southeastern Conference — when the Crimson Tide takes on Mississippi in the New Year's Day Sugar Bowl game.

Namath became the third major college football player of the season to leave his team under less than favorable circumstances when he was suspended Monday.

"Namath has been suspended from the team for the rest of the season, including the Sugar Bowl game, for an infraction of training rules this past weekend." Coach Bear Bryant said.

Bryant did not elaborate on the infraction, but said the junior quarterback "has indicated to me that he will remain in school and concentrate on his studies. He will be allowed to remain on scholarship."

Earlier in the season, hard-running halfback Joe Don Looney was dismissed from the Oklahoma team for disciplinary reasons and Georgia Tech end Ted Davis removed himself from the team following a kicking incident during a game to save the team embarrassment.

Another casualty Monday was Karl Sweetan, Wake Forest's starting quarterback last season. A college spokesman said the junior was leaving school, apparently because of low grades.

DON ROBBINS HEADS PANEL

Coach Don Robbins will give a rundown on his 1964 Big Spring High School football prospects at a 7:30 o'clock Quarterback Club meeting in the High School Cafeteria tonight.

The meeting was called to firm up plans for the QB's Thursday night banquet honoring the 1963 Steers and for the purpose of electing officers for the new school year.

Co-captain Omar Jones said two names had been projected for the co-captain jobs but the membership needed to give formal approval of the nominations.

Game Raised About $1,200

The football game staged Saturday night at Memorial Stadium netted local charities about $1,200, according to Police Chief Jay Banks.

Banks said the final count of the proceeds would not be in for two or three days. The Police Department team won the game—defeating the 331st FIS team from Webb AFB by a score of 46-6.

Mrs. Barbara Daily estimated $80 was taken in from operation of the concession booths.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: JOHN MCKAY, USC coach, explaining why his team experienced a slump this year.

"This year's team didn't have the same pride my club did last year. Last year that pride was so strong you could feel it. But we also got breaks in 1962 that we didn't get this season. For instance, we never could have won the National Championship last year if the Navy player who crossed the goal line with what would have been the winning TD, had not dropped the ball. This year we dropped the ball at equally critical times."

BLANTON COLLIER, Cleveland coach, explaining how his team beat the St. Louis Cardinals the second time around.

"Our pass rush forced Charley Johnson (of Big Spring) to get the ball away sooner than he wanted to. It enabled our linebackers and backs to work together. And Frank Ryan made our passing go. When the passers are passing and the catchers are catching, it all looks easy."

BIRDIE TEBBETTS, manager of the Cleveland Indians:

"We've visited 87 countries since we organized. I'd like to make it an even 100 before I quit — and don't get the idea I'm thinking of quitting. Besides, I've got a reservation for the first trip to the moon. That moon looks like a basketball sometimes."

ABE SAPERSTEIN, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters:

"We've visited 87 countries since we organized. I'd like to make it an even 100 before I quit — and don't get the idea I'm thinking of quitting. Besides, I've got a reservation for the first trip to the moon. That moon looks like a basketball sometimes."

FRANK BROYLES, Arkansas football mentor, after his team finished with a 5-5 record:

"I tried to warn people this would happen but they said, 'Frank always talks like that.' The lack of experienced backs and the new sub rules hurt us. We didn't have any speed for an outside threat, either, so we couldn't loosen the defenses. You don't normally get the big play running up the middle. Another thing was the league: It was a lot stronger, with good balance, and we just didn't win the close ones like we had been."

Center DAVID MCWILLIAMS of Texas University, after that last-gasp winning effort against Texas A&M:

"The Longhorns clasped hands in the huddle. It wasn't just one of those handclaps to try and talk things up. It was one of unity. I guess you'd say. There's a lot of unity on this ball club, and I think we were simply saying, 'We win together, or we lose together.'"

TED HANSON, press agent for former boxing champion Floyd Patterson:

"Sure, Floyd wants another chance at Sonny Liston. He might be alone in this feeling. However, even after his one-round knockout, he feels he can still defeat Sonny."

GEORGE MENEFFEE, trainer for the Los Angeles Rams, discussing the attitude of his team's Jim Phillips:

"If we had all our players start in Los Angeles and run all the way to Palm Springs (100 miles away and across desert country), Phillips would crawl to Palm Springs on bloody hands and knees and be the first to get there if he had to do it with two broken legs."

Partnership Tournament Set Sunday At C. Club

Golfers throughout the area are eligible to take part in a Partnership tournament, which will be held at the Big Spring Country Club, starting at 9 a.m.

Players can choose their own partners, so long as they respect handicap rules. Play will be over 18 holes and merchandise awards will go to winning tandems.

Entry fee is $2.50 per person or $5 per team. Pro Jerry Green of the Country Club said a special invitational had gone out to players at the Mundy and Webb AFB.

If bad weather forces a delay in tournament plans, the meet will be delayed until Sunday, Dec. 22. If the tournament has to be cancelled two weeks in a row, it would have to be cancelled, Green stated.

national championship since Texas A&M, in 1939. Texas, swept through 10 opponents, wound up with the only unblemished record among major college teams and is scheduled to meet Navy in the Cotton Bowl, New Year's Day.

The Middies, losers only to SMI, finished second in the voting in a bid for their first national championship. Navy completed the regular season last Saturday with a 21-15 victory over Army. Texas had finished its season a week before.

In the voting by a special AP panel of 40 sports writers and broadcasters, Texas, drew 34 first-place votes and 460 points to 10 first and 418 points for Navy. Pittsburgh drew the other five first-place votes.

Rose-Bowl bound Illinois, however, squeezed into the No. 3 spot with 361 points to 340 for the Panthers. Auburn was No. 5, followed in order by Nebraska, Mississippi, Alabama, Michigan State and Oklahoma.

Last year's champion, Southern California, was not among the Top Ten.

New Nation In Zanzibar

ZANZIBAR (AP) — A gold, green and red banner replaced the Union Jack today as the sleepy spice island of Zanzibar became Africa's 34th independent nation.

Amid volleys of rifle fire and the cheers of thousands, Britain's Prince Philip, representing his wife, Queen Elizabeth II, handed over an act of the British Parliament making Zanzibar a free and independent state again after 73 years under British protection.

Prime Minister Sheik Shante Hamadi warned his people independence "does not mean distribution of loot...nor does it mean less work and more pay. It means unleashing the pent-up energies of our people."

Such an effort will be needed if Zanzibar is to raise its annual per capita income of $56.

Britain will grant independence Thursday to another East African territory, Kenya. Both will become members of the United Nations Monday.

Controversy Seen For Oil Compact's Report

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — There were hints of controversy today as the 25-state Interstate Oil Compact Commission awaited a progress report on a comprehensive oil and gas conservation study.

Gov. Matthew Welsh, D-Ind., commission chairman, was expected to call for another 12 months to complete the study suggested by Interior Secretary Stewart Udall.

Welsh submits the progress report at the interstate body, which serves as a forum on oil and gas conservation matters.

He has described the study as a significant step toward improving, streamlining and modernizing state conservation laws.

Numerous dissents were heard, at preliminary committee sessions Monday as oilmen and state regulatory officials discussed material compiled so far by aides to the study group. It includes Welsh and seven other governors.

CONTROVERSY
Some said the study could reopen wounds caused two years ago by a controversy over equitable sharing of domestic crude production by the various oil states.

Aides to the study group, emphasized that material still is being compiled and that the governors will not start drafting their conclusions and recommendations until all such basic information has been received. It was indicated the governors will not submit a draft of their report until the commission's mid-year meeting next June at Billings, Mont. This would give each state time to comment before final action at the 1964 annual meeting next December.

NEW STUDY
Udall said in April that technological and economic changes call for a new study of the oil regulatory systems of the individual states.

He said state statutes control most U. S. crude production and several factors have worked together to limit the effectiveness of this control system. He indicated some states were participating in the control system only on a limited basis.

Some fear was voiced here that this observation by Udall could prompt the governors to consider recommending some system under which all states would limit oil production to market demand.

The 1961 dispute over equitable sharing included charges by some market demand states, including Texas, that they were losing oil markets to states which do not limit crude output to market requirements.

CHALLENGING
At today's general session, a member of the Federal Power Commission said the conservation study is the most challenging problem encountered by the compact since it was first authorized by Congress in 1935.

Lawrence O'Connor Jr., of Washington said many persons inside and outside of the government have expressed doubt about the efficiency of current productive practices and policies of the producing states. "This study has been undertaken on the basis of determined self-analysis and not as an effort to condone past practices or policies which may not be consistent with present day standards of knowledge and production techniques," O'Connor said.

Senate Okays Military Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed a military construction bill by voice vote after 14 minutes of debate Monday.

The $1,617,489,000 bill was the 10th of 12 money measures which must clear the Senate.

The bill provides for enlarging military installations and building military housing.

The Senate measure goes back to the House. It is $349 million dollars short of the budget request. However, the Senate voted $54 million more than the House.

Texas military appropriations approved Nov. 14 by the House Appropriations Committee and later by the House amounted to nearly $24 million. They include:

Army: Aeronautical MTCC Center, $1,734,000; Ft. Hood, $5,568,000.

Air Force: Amarillo AFB, $585,000; Bergstrom at Austin, $463,000; Dyess at Abilene, $653,000; Laredo, $374,000; Laughlin at Del Rio, $909,000; Reese at Lubbock, $504,000; Sheppard at Wichita Falls, $1,723,000; office of secretary of defense, Killeen Base, $138,000.

These changes were made by the Senate Appropriations Committee (House allowances in parentheses):

Texas total $28,562,000 ($23,938,000)

Army: Ft. Hood, $5,255,000 ($5,568,000)

Air Force: Amarillo, $3,955 ($3,855,000).

Cut In Gas Price Affects Coastal Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nine-county Central Gulf Coast area in Texas is affected by a Federal Commission order reducing from 18 to 16 cents the guideline ceiling price for future national gas producer sales.

The nine counties compose Texas Railroad Commission Dist. 2.

The reduction was ordered in an amendment, approved by a 3-2 vote, to the FCC's 1960 area pricing policy statement.

One commissioner, who concurred in Monday's majority decision, said the price should have been sliced to 15 cents.

OPINION

The FCC also issued an opinion in a case that involves 16 certificate applications in Texas Railroad Commission Dist. 2, 3 and 4. It held that 15 cents was the proper in-line price for producer sales in Dist. 2 under contracts executed prior to Sept. 28, 1960, when the area pricing policy was issued.

Chairman Joseph Swidler, who wrote the majority opinion, reaffirmed earlier rulings that the in-line price prior to Sept. 28, 1960, for Texas Dist. 3 was 16 cents and 15 cents for Dist. 4.

Commissioners Lawrence O'Connor Jr. and Harold Woodward dissented on the 15-cent in-line price for Dist. 2, claiming it should be 16 cents, and also on the 16-cent future guideline price, arguing it should be 17 cents, the same as in Dist. 3.

DISSIDENT

Commissioner Charles Ross dissented on the 16-cent Dist. 3 price, urged 15 instead. He also would have dissented on the 16-cent Dist. 2 future guideline price on the ground it should be 15 cents. Ross said, but he concurred because otherwise there would have been no majority for a lower price and the 18-cent ceiling would remain effective.

The case in which the opinion was issued dealt with 16 applications by independent natural gas producers for permanent certificates for sales now being made to Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America, Chicago, under temporary permits. The producers proposed initial prices of 20 cents.

This opinion disposed of eight applications covering sales under contracts executed prior to September, 1960, directing refunds of excess amounts collected since Nov. 2, 1961.

The other eight applications, involving sales under contracts executed after Sept. 28, 1960, were consolidated for further hearing.

a car-train crash while en route to church Sunday. His mother, Mrs. Elaine Parker, 33, and brothers Roland, 8, and Ronnie, 12, were killed in the collision.

✓ 1964 Result: TOTAL PERFORMANCE INSPIRES THE TOUGHEST, SMARTEST CARS FORD EVER BUILT!

Fords have changed—and that's the real reason behind Ford's racing successes. We're now making the longest lasting, best handling cars in our history. The things we've learned from the specially equipped cars we enter in open competition have helped make them that way.

The inherent qualities that make the victorious racing car—road-holding, braking, durability, precision control, resistance to vibration—also make a car safer, stronger, and smoother for highway use.

But prove it to yourself. Take the wheel of any new Ford. Five minutes on the road will show you the kind of total performance no one else can match.

PROUD OF NEW POSTOFFICE

Coahoma's New Post Office Opens Officially Monday

COAHOMA — Coahoma's new post office was opened in a short formal ceremony Monday morning. Rep. Ed Carpenter made a short dedication talk, the high school band played for the flag raising and favored with three other numbers.

Postmaster Smith Cochran and his assistants, Mrs. W. G. Tinner and Mrs. W. L. Menser, said they had trouble this morning getting oriented to the location of things in the new building, but they appreciated the warmth.

The mail boxes and other equipment arrived over a month later than scheduled and prevented the opening on Nov. 1. The new building was constructed by the Coahoma State Bank and adjoins it on the south.

The new post office has 390 boxes, including 32 drawers, compared with 305 boxes in the old post office building, Cochran said.

"Over 350 of the new boxes are rented now," he continued, "and about 150 patrons have the same numbers as in the old building. The new boxes are opened with combinations, except the drawers, where keys are needed."

Cochran has been postmaster in Coahoma for over 34 years. "We couldn't heat that old building," he said, "because in the winter time the front door was being opened and closed so much any warmth went right out the door. Here we have a lobby, where those coming after their mail or wanting to mail letters, may enter. The package mailing room, or service area where stamps are also purchased, is separated so that closed doors keep the inside of the building warm."

Council Hears Request For City Sewer Service

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Seven Negro property owners in the Colorado City area bounded by Front and Austin Streets appeared before the city council Monday night to request a sewer extension into the area.

Mrs. Beulah Marshall acted as spokesman for the group, which included Mrs. Frank McCarver, William Marshall, Charles Edwards, Clarence Taylor, A. B. Bender, and Willie Dawson.

Mayor H. I. Berman told the group that the council would study the proposal and give an answer in a future meeting.

The proposal was one which has regularly appeared before the council, but which councils in the past have backed away from because of high cost. The area is a rocky knob and all sewer lines would have to be laid in solid rock. A February, 1963 estimate put the cost of sewer service to a part of the area at $55,222, and the cost of full coverage at $74,146.

The council heard a proposal from J. S. Craddock Sr., chairman of the directors of the Colorado City Housing Authority, to build 12 new housing units on its two sites in Colorado City. Craddock said the Housing Authority has a waiting list of those who would like to rent in the low-rent housing sites. The new housing would be built for the aged, he said.

The council requested time to study the proposal, including the question of need for more government housing.

The council also passed a resolution modeled after a similar resolution proposed by the city of Abilene requesting its state senator and representative to pass legislation requiring payment of ad valorem taxes on automobiles before registration each year, or to prepare an amendment to the State Constitution doing away with such taxes.

The bid of V. E. Stone, Colorado City, was accepted for alterations to the city's filter plant. Stone's bid of $1,158,44 was the low bid of three.

The City Manager was directed to contribute $50 to the Governor's Statewide Recreation Study Committee.

Corps Slates Yule Festivities

Two youth groups of the Salvation Army Corps today have slated festivities traditional of the Yule season.

At 4 p. m., Sunbeams will meet in the basement of the Citadel to exchange gifts and hold a party. This group consists of girls ranging in ages from 6-10 years.

Girl Guards, the 11-18-year-old group, meets at 7 p. m. at the same location for their party.

Something new has been added this year. The Ladies Group will hold a dinner meeting Wednesday at 7 p. m. at Coker's Restaurant. Each member of the group will pay her own way. Christmas gifts will be exchanged also.

Thursday at 7:30 p. m. the Young People's Legion will hold its party in the basement of the Citadel.

Nikita's New Plan Could Be Monument To Himself

By The Associated Press

Premier Khrushchev has placed before the Soviet Communist party a program suggesting he wants to erect a monument to himself by plunging the Soviet Union into an economic revolution. If he gets his program on the road, it can signal sharp changes in the global cold war.

Khrushchev's program raises a possibility that the premier—who will be 70 in April—hopes to bequeath to the people something which will start them toward a more abundant consumer economy. At last the Soviet people were being told they were entitled to more consumer goods.

7-YEAR PLAN

The program involves massive investment — the equivalent of $46 billion — in the chemical industry in a 7-year plan. This cure-all proposal to attack agriculture's ailments and begin providing the people with adequate supplies of both food and consumer goods in all likelihood will require cuts in heavy industry investment.

There will be grumbling and sullen opposition in high places, notably among unreconstructed Stalinists and among the high military brass to whom heavy industry investment means promise of superiority in super-weapons, space and world power.

DOMESTIC

The current Central Committee meeting could mark a historic turning by the government toward its domestic problems. That in turn might mean Moscow would want to avoid dangerous cold war confrontations with the United States.

Khrushchev said his program meant that perhaps "we shall have to slow down for a time the rate of growth of some industries."

He told the people, long plagued by shortages and irritated by lack of quality and quantity in consumer goods:

DEVELOPMENT

"Now the state is in a position to channel enormous means into the development of chemistry, agriculture and light industry, so as to produce more good and goods to satisfy directly the people's requirements."

Revolutionary-sounding slogans have been dear to the Communist party ever since it took power in Russia, but now these are not enough, Khrushchev said.

"What we need in this case is not slogans. It is material content, practical work in the construction of a new society."

POLITICAL

Stalin concentrated on heavy industry and used the output of Soviet agriculture politically for Soviet foreign policy. As recently as 1947, Khrushchev said, people were starving in some Soviet areas. He said Stalin could export grain because he cared nothing for the people's welfare.

The Soviet Union must buy grain abroad today to counter disastrous shortages caused by farm failures. This is a different era for the U.S.S.R. Popular opinion must be taken into consideration by the party and government. The public obviously is tired of slogans and promises and Khrushchev has given voice to this weariness.

This will be the last opportunity to join the dance class, which meets every Thursday night at the YMCA, until a new class is formed in March.

The class tonight is for the convenience of persons who work late. Anyone desiring additional information may contact Mrs. Harold Graves at AM 3-3771 after 2 p. m.

$3,944 In Fines

LAMESA (SC) — Corporation court fines totaled $3,944 during November. Fines included those assessed for overtime parking, traffic violations and offenses. Police reported 1,587 overtime parking tickets issued, 145 traffic violations cited and 90 offenses disposed of in the city court. Dawson County deputies jailed 86 persons in the same period, running the 1963 total to 987.

Changing A Name

Last week the form of merger for the Texas and Pacific Railway Company and Missouri-Pacific Lines was agreed upon. All that remains now for the Texas and Missouri-Pacific Railroad to come into official being is ratification by stockholders. Since Mo-Pac owns 82 1/2 per cent of the T&P stock, there is little doubt this will come to pass.

Thus will pass a title which has been linked closely with the destiny and development of Big Spring. When Jay Gould, builder of the Union Pacific, acquired controlling interest in the Texas-Pacific back in 1880, he sat about pushing it to the Pacific Coast and changed the name to Texas and Pacific Railway Company. In May of 1881, the T&P inaugurated service to Big Spring, where it had established a division point and shops because of an abundance of precious water from the "big spring." This was the thing which gave its birth and its continuing characteristic of stability.

It was Helen Gould, daughter of the famed rail tycoon, who financed the historic old railroad YMCA, once a focal center of community activities. She equipped it with a library, too, which was then about the only library of consequence.

Over the years the T&P and Big Spring grew together, and the troubles of the road became the troubles of the town. Big Spring watched anxiously through receiverships and went through the proxims of a bitter strike. It flourished, also to the accompaniment of a chorus of steam whistles as the T&P shuttled in supplies to feed the boom of the late 20's. Big Spring felt a closeness not alone because of the hundreds of fine families which were associated with the maintenance and operations of the T&P, but because there was a point of contact with division headquarters or in the ability to pick up the telephone and talk with headquarters in Dallas.

If the city took pride in the T&P, it was no more than the railroad did for the town, for in the days after World War II, a new spirit of pride came to the T&P family, and the road reciprocated by a lively support of community affairs. The T&P was not a remote, cold stretch of steel, but something warm and personal. Seeing its corporate structure merged in sort of like seeing a daughter of the family marry and set up house somewhere else. The ties are still there, but there also is a gnawing feeling it will never be quite the same.

Appreciated Words

Rebuking the fomenters of anti-Texas and anti-Dallas fulminations following the tragic death of President Kennedy, the Washington Post injected this sober and appreciated note: "The good people of Texas are our countrymen, our fellow citizens, our brothers, our friends and our professional associates in thousands of national endeavors. They are going through a time of anguish and dismay. Let no one add to the present difficulties of their lives by cruel reproaches for offenses of which they are no more guilty than the rest of us. "It is not necessary to catalogue their claims upon the nation's gratitude and affection for numberless deeds of patriotism and virtue. It is not the occasion to recount the long roster of Texas citizens who have distinguished themselves in the nation's councils and in its armed forces. Let us say to Texas and to Texans that we have not forgotten. And let us convey to them comfort, kindness, affection and understanding so that the great state of which they are rightly so proud may be sure that our union with it is indeed inseparable, in times of trouble as well as in times of triumph."

Holmes Alexander The Midwest Viewpoint

DES MOINES, Iowa — Agricultural corn grows tall in Iowa, but the intellectual weed which goes by the name of "corn" seems, happily, almost extinct.

I was here to moderate a panel called "A Window on Washington" at the 52nd Anniversary of a construction association, called the Master Builders of Iowa, where I sat between Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (R) and Representative Jim Bromwell (R) both of Cedar Rapids. For two hours, in a crowded ballroom, we fielded questions by this businessmen's group. It was to a Washington-based correspondent, an exercise that could be entitled, "Cleanse your mind of buncombe."

NOT A WORD of disrespect did I hear of the two Presidents who had in November, John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson, but many a word of choked-up pathos, either. Flaps everywhere were at half-mast, and nobody was unaware of the tragedy at Dallas or of the "burden" assumed by the new White House occupant. But there was a well-washed realism here which I take to be superior and more sanitary than the lingering sentimentality of Victorian grief and bathed-breath expectancy which reigns in Washington and the misty-eyed East.

Twice in the two-hour question period there was spontaneous applause, once a marked stirring of subdued approval and once a "demonstration."

THE FIRST was occasioned by Hickenlooper's stern review of the recorded security case against Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, who has recently received the $50,000 tax-free Fermi Award for excellence in the physical sciences. You couldn't have polled a phone booth minority in support of restoring the Communist-connected Oppenheimer to any position of trust in Atomic Energy activities—although his rehabilitation is known to have been the devout wish of the martyred President Kennedy and a torch picked up by his successor.

THE DEMONSTRATION came when this panelist opined that the War of Terror in Venezuela, and President Betancourt's call for Western Hemisphere action against Cuba, reiterated the overdue proposition that "Castro must go." It was not a war-whopping audience—these construction firm representatives and their wives—but they were "voting with their hands" for the Communist satellite of the Caribbean, to be destroyed by whatever force, and at whatever risk, is required.

MUCH ELSE could be divined from the tenor of questioning. Somebody wanted to know whether President Johnson's appeal to Defense contractors to hold down the costs could not have been directed with equal pertinence to the Labor Unions—since work costs are the highest charge in Defense production.

"PEOPLE OUT there have been wearing shoes for quite a long time," Hickenlooper remarked to me when I asked him in Washington about how to prepare for the meeting.

He was right. On my first visit to Iowa, I looked all around and didn't see a single American of these parts either unshod, uncivilized, unsophisticated, isolated or emotionally unbuttoned. An Eastern provincial heads home—refreshed.

Billy Graham

Several Christians in our community seem beset with sickness and trouble. Is this a coincidence, or do Christians suffer more than others? This is a mystery to me, for I have always believed that God grants special favors to those who own His name—C. T.

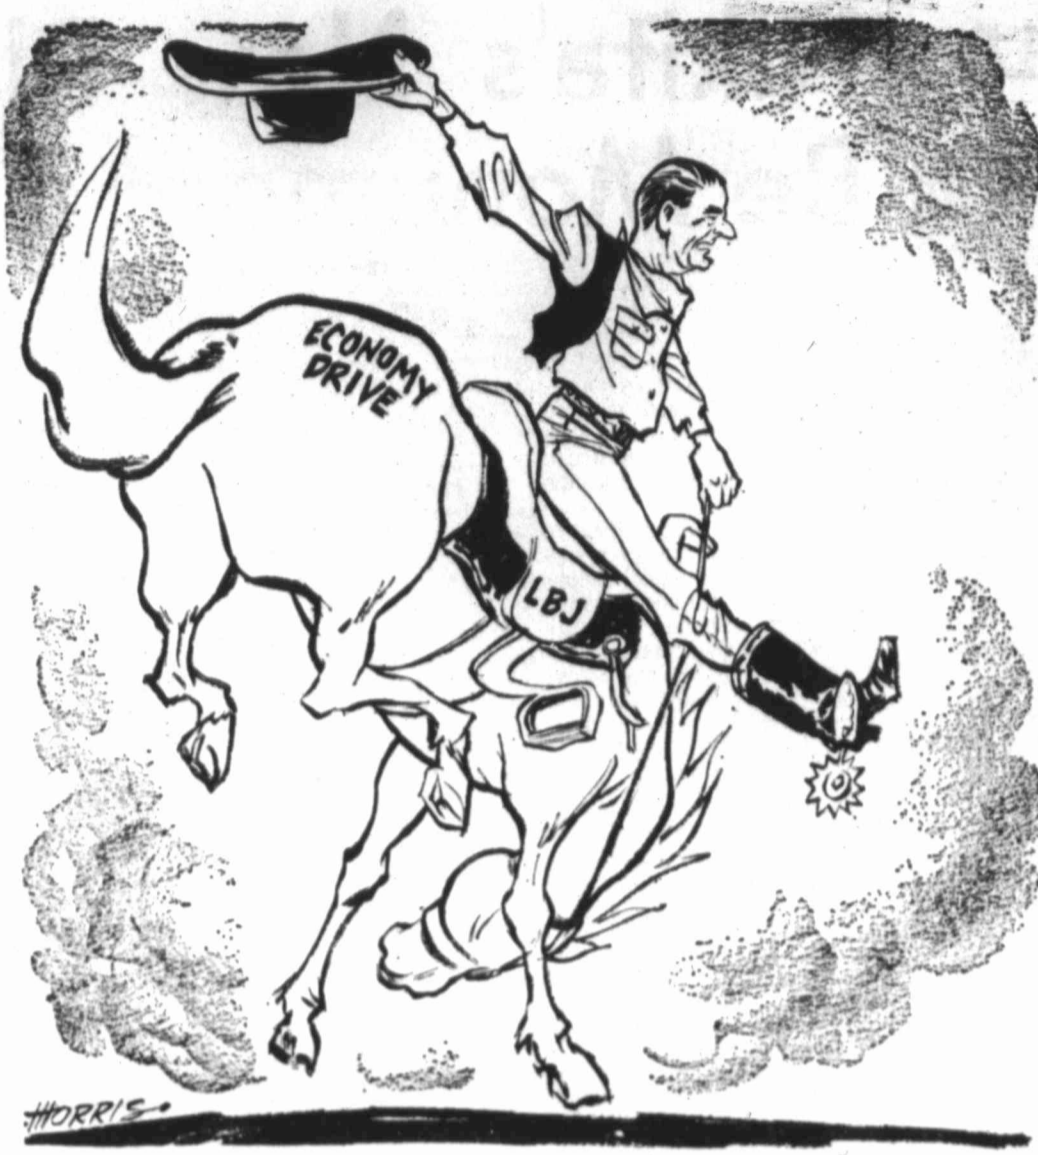

Let's face it: Faith in Christ is not a guarantee against adversity. David said: "Many are the afflictions of the righteous, but the Lord delivereth them from them all."

Christians ache when they are weary, bleed when they are cut, and probably have anxiety-headaches, when they fail to draw on their God-given resources.

But the difference is this: "The Lord delivereth them from them all." This doesn't mean, especially, that they are healed from all their ills, or that they are given immunity against trouble. But it does mean that faith in Christ gives us a strength to face sickness and adversity with courage.

It means that when trouble comes, instead of being bitter and cynical, we can say, "All things work together for good, to them that love God," and that attitude has healing in it.

It means that if we have Christ's love that we do not harbor ill feelings toward others; that our hearts are not cankered by prejudice; and that worry is replaced with trust. In this sense, "The Lord delivers them from them all." While they may not be spared adversity, they are spared the bitterness of spirit that usually accompanies it.

RIDE 'EM COWBOY!

James Marlow Vice President Always Survives In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has been lucky, in a grisly way, because death was choosy.

Eight presidents have died in office, four of them assassinated. Seven vice presidents have died in office.

Death never tapped a president and vice president in any single four-year term.

BUT NOW once again, with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson moved up to the presidency, there is no vice president.

The law which provides for a successor to Johnson, if the president died, is a lot more pretentious looking than it really is.

Next in line for the presidency, when there is no president or vice president, are these people in this order:

John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, 71, speaker of the House; Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, 86, president pro tempore of the Senate; and the Cabinet, starting with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

THIS ORDER of succession, laid down by Congress in 1947, seems to be generously spread out over the government. That's misleading.

If Speaker McCormack became the president, he would automatically have to resign from Congress and give up the speakership.

It's a safe bet this would follow quickly:

The House would elect another speaker. Then, if McCormack died, the new speaker of the House would be next in succession, not the Senate's president pro tempore or any member of the Cabinet.

SINCE McCormack says he favors the law which puts him next in line to Johnson, there is almost no chance the House will change the order of succession.

Thus, the House, under ordinary circumstances, has a stranglehold on the line of presidential succession.

Three events could change that, but all would have to be extraordinary and seem remote now.

1. THE speaker who became president might die—he'd have to die pretty quickly—before the House had a chance to pick a new speaker.

If so, the Senate's president pro tempore would become the president. Then the new speaker when elected, could not be president although he would be No. 1 in line of succession if in case of attack—so many top officials might be wiped out that only some surviving Cabinet member, if any, would be left under the 1947 law to assume the presidency.

2. OR, there might be an assassination plot to kill the president, vice president, speaker and Senate president pro tempore. If it succeeded, the secretary of state would become president.

While John Wilkes Booth killed President Lincoln, his plot called for assassinating Vice President Andrew Johnson, too, and Cabinet members.

One Cabinet member, Secretary of State William H. Seward, was seriously stabbed. The would-be killer of Johnson got cold feet and Johnson was able to succeed Lincoln.

NEW YORK (AP)—In a day when weeping over one's sad childhood and knocking one's parents is something of a national pastime, Diahann Carroll is a refreshing surprise.

This talented Negro singing star credits her success largely to the inspiration and faith shown by her father, a subway motorman, and her mother, a nurse who works with disturbed children.

"I HAD an exceptionally happy childhood and very loving parents," she said.

"What my parents had to give me—love and security and the feeling they were 100 per cent behind me in anything I wanted to try.

"That security they gave me in my early years built in me the confidence later to go in and knock down doors. I never let setbacks throw me into a depression.

"WHEN I think now of all the things my father and mother did for me when I was too young to appreciate them, I get excited about them all over again."

Miss Carroll paused then at a memory, and shook her head in regret. "My mother used to say, 'All we ask is that you get a college education.' And the one thing they wanted of me I never did do. I never finished college."

DIHANN started singing at 6, at 10 won a Metropolitan Opera scholarship. She was studying sociology at New York University when she quit to appear in an all-Negro revue.

The revue never got off the ground, but it brought Diahann to the attention of showman Lou Walters who arranged for her to appear on a television show.

Since then she has become a video favorite, appeared in a couple of movies, starred in a couple of Broadway musicals and become one of the top-paid warblers on the nation's supper club circuit. Her recordings also sell well.

HER FATHER and mother, although quietly proud of her success, seek no part of the golden shower that fame has brought her. They prefer to go on independently doing their own jobs, as before.

Diahann who is divorced from Monte Kay, a theatrical performer, lives in a modest townhouse in New York City with her daughter, Suzanne Otille Kay, who is 3.

To Your Good Health Doctors' Prognoses Rate High In Accuracy

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are doctors (I know they don't have a crystal ball) nine times out of 10 correct in stating that a person has a certain length of time to live?—R.C.M.

In specific cases, perhaps better than that! And in other cases one person's guess is as good as another's.

When a doctor willingly makes such an estimate, I would accept it as being highly reliable. Why? Because physicians long since have learned not to make such forecasts unless they feel rather sure that they can be right. Wouldn't you feel the same way?

However, when a doctor is unwilling to make a forecast, but is pressured into one anyway, then the accuracy decreases considerably.

We all—or most of us—are careful to include a "safety valve" in such prognoses. Let's say that a patient is losing blood but we can't discover where or how. We can sometimes say, with considerable assurance, "This patient can't live another week unless we can find the source of the bleeding and stop it."

Suppose we DO find and stop

it. And 20 years later the patient is still regaling his friends with the dramatic story of how "the doctors gave me a week to live, but I fooled 'em!"

Or take the child with a defective heart. We may not be able to predict any more closely than to say that unless the heart is repaired, the child probably cannot live past adolescence. But we CANNOT predict that the child won't fall victim to some infection tomorrow, and die.

Just this fall two doctors reported on an experiment in Washington, testing the ability of other doctors to give accurate prognoses.

They took the actual records of a number of patients, some with heart conditions, some with cirrhosis of the liver.

Specialists then were given the medical facts that existed at some point in the patient's history, and asked to prognosticate.

With 1.0 as a perfect score, the specialists were 97 correct. This is better than I would have expected, perhaps. But it shows how precise an answer can be in certain types of diseases, when the facts are known.

With hardening of the arteries, it is not so easy. You may be sure that a patient sooner or later will have a stroke or some other emergency, but you can't tell whether it will come in 10 days or 10 years.

Cancer develops at unpredictable rates. In the final stages it may be obvious that the end is near. Yet most of us have known people, especially older ones, who have had cancer for a dozen years and it grew so slowly that they ultimately died of something else.

In cases of types that are reasonably predictable, yes, a doctor can be correct nine times in 10. In other cases he needs a crystal ball.

Count your calories the easy way: To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim Ingenuity Behind The Footlights

Things seem a lot simpler now for Little Theater groups than they were when I used to take a small hand in such enterprises. All sorts of gadgets are available now to help put the plays across that we did not have. I recall one good example. The play we were doing was called "Children of the Moon." An important off-stage sound we had to have in the second act and again in the third act finale was that of an airplane engine revving up, followed by the sound of the plane taking off and fading out in the distance.

WE HAD whipped the problem of an effective rainstorm by the use of a long strip of sheet iron hung lengthwise from the ceiling back stage. By taking the lower end firmly in one hand and giving the entire panel a quick shake we could make a most realistic sound of thunder. Judicious use of bird shot dropped in the right proportion into a metal basin was reasonably effective as the sound of rain on the walls and roof.

For lightning to go with our thunder we rigged an arc light which we could flash on and off. It cast a weird blue glow which reflected through the east windows with excellent results.

IT WAS that airplane engine, however, that had us baffled. We tried sticking a piece of heavy cardboard into the whirling blades of the biggest electric fan we could find. We tried a folded leather glove. The director had a brilliant idea—he borrowed his wife's vacuum cleaner and placed it inside a trunk. He then raised the lid gradually to multiply the sound; lowered the lid to indicate the airplane was off and fading in the distance.

I CAME into the playhouse just as he was solemnly running these tests. He called from the wings: "What does this sound like out there?"

Then he began slowly opening the lid of the trunk as the vacuum cleaner motor spun.

I listened closely. "Why, from out here," I told the director, "it sounds very much like a vacuum cleaner inside a trunk."

There was brief interval while the motor continued to hum. Then the switch was pushed, and the hum died out.

The director walked out on the stage. "Well," he said, "that was what I was afraid it would sound like."

I HAVE FORGOTTEN now just how we did solve this problem, but I recall the play was presented for four or five performances and that we had a full house for each show. So I suppose we found some reasonably effective sound for the airplane.

Today, all you have to do is get a sound record of an airplane actually in flight. Your only problem is to get a recording to the specific type of airplane you want to simulate. We were dealing with a World War I type plane in "Children of the Moon." Those airplanes sounded very much different from more modern aircraft. If we were doing the play today and attempted to use a highspeed modern airplane sound recording it would be as absurd as our experiment with the vacuum cleaner in the trunk.

I STILL THINK our thunder and lightning and even the wind-machine we made with a piece of ducking stretched over a revolving nail keg were pretty realistic, though.

Inez Robb Keeping The Boss Occupied

La, anyone who has always been a wage slave on the wrong side of the solid-mahogany, solid-closed doors of the executive suite has always suspected that a good bit of hanky-panky transpires therein.

To the working staff that big couch and those overstuffed chairs don't look too conducive to pick-and-shovel toil. Add to these the built-in bar that looks like a file cabinet and the refrigerator and ice-maker disguised as cupboards and you have something that does not tote up to high living and high thinking.

NOW ADD the television set and the AM-FM radio—both merely designed and installed to keep the busy executive abreast of the latest news developments—and what have you got?

Now, however, with toys for grown-ups as numerous as those for children, we can all be privy to the goings-on in the executive suite. The boss, it turns out, needs constant relaxation and not just a romp at the annual Christmas party, if he is to function in the high gear that earns the rest of us our bonuses.

AS A CHRISTMAS gift within easy reach of any employee who wants to keep the boss happy I recommend a $3.98 gadget that has been advertised recently in all the New York papers.

Called "Executive Waste-Basket-Ball," it transforms the boss's wastepaper basket into an unreasonable facsimile of a miniature basket. Into this he can dribble all the splendid ideas for office improvement that you and I drop into the suggestion box.

THE $3.98 GADGET consists of a backboard to which is attached a miniature basket, which can be clipped to any executive wastepaper basket. With his wastepaper basket thus equipped, the boss can sit happily at his desk making pot or hot shots into the basket all day long.

Nonetheless I do not think that the executive mind should be confined, office-wise, to one game, even basketball, there are many others available for healthful, wholesome fun in the executive suite. I am momentarily working on several patents. My hope is to have them in production for the Christmas market of 1964.

THE EXECUTIVE desk, with its large and impressive acreage, can surely be turned to more productive use than merely a repository for "in" and "out" baskets or as an outside easel for a silver-framed picture of the Little Woman.

With no further ado than the clearance of such artifacts, the executive desk is ideally suited for table tennis. And lay off, the rest of your rummaging inventors: I thought of this first and am well advanced in the project. That is, I have hired a lawyer.

AND HOW MANY millions of wives will welcome my next invention! I will transfer to the office from the living room, where it has already worn the nap off the Axminster, that home-practice tee-shot gadget with which golfers can practice indoors. The executive office is ideal for this toy, and, besides, the office will have to replace the carpet.

This tee-shot thing is pretty well perfected. What I am working on is the gadget that will get it out of the house and into the office. Any ideas?

William S. White The President's 'Chief Cook'

WASHINGTON — Franklin Roosevelt had his Harry Hopkins, Dwight Eisenhower had his Sherman Adams and John F. Kennedy his Theodore Sorenson—was the man-closest-to-the-President of his time.

Lyndon Johnson will not precisely have a Hopkins, an Adams, a Sorenson, because while he will take more advice from more people and more kinds of people than any President of recent times, both ultimate decision and ultimate action will be his personal products to a degree also not seen in recent times.

BUT PRESIDENT Johnson will have the presently untitled—and possibly never to be fully titled—Walter Jenkins.

When Mr. Johnson was Senate majority leader and later Vice President, Walter Jenkins—the President often called him thus—as though his Christian and family names were compressed and subjoined—was principal administrative assistant. The job covered everything: keeping an eye on Johnson political interests everywhere; assisting the majority leader in every form of problem in the Senate and later every problem in the Vice Presidency; keeping in some touch with the private property affairs which the Johnsons have now put in trust so that there can be no suggestion of conflict of interest.

JENKINS was "chief of staff," to use a not very descriptive term to denote an indispensable man.

Now, this is what he is to Mr. Johnson as President—or, in the old colloquial expression, he is chief cook and bottle washer.

Well, what manner of man is Jenkins? The answer coming first to mind is that he is simply the kind of man who is—in memory seems always to have been—there. He is as quiet as Sorenson. He is as executive-minded as was Sherman Adams but never gives the impression he is either running things or trying to.

HE WORKS at a furious pace which, because of his down-played personality, paradoxically seems almost hesitant. He is casually gentle; but very far from lamblike.

He is a compact, slightly florid-faced man of 47, with heavy, dark and slightly graying hair. He is a deeply conscientious man whose worries settle in his stomach rather than show on his face.

He is a Catholic from northwest Texas—a rarity in that region of the state, whereas it is a commonplace in the President's southwestern part of the state—and but for that fact would have been elected to Congress in a race made many years ago. He reads but is not bookish. He thinks and is in fact brilliant, but he would never call himself "intellectual."

THERE IS NO pretense of any kind in him. He claims no "passion for anonymity," an attitude once attributed to some of the Roosevelt assistants. But in plain and simple truth he is a shy man who really doesn't like the kleig lights. He is not coy; he simply thinks he can work more effectively for President Johnson—as he did for Senator Johnson and Vice President Johnson—without standing out in front.

HE IS, drawing no long bow about it, one of the ablest, most devoted, most truly moral but totally unselfish, most principled public men this country has known for a long time. And in a profession where most men wear sharp elbows on the way up, Walter Jenkins has never learned that those joints have any other use than to swing as he walks along.

Local National Guard Unit Has 15 Vacancies

The Army National Guard Unit in Big Spring has openings for 15 men, according to Sgt. Douglas Hedges. Applications for enlistment are being taken at the National Guard Armory on FM 700.

Veterans of the Armed Forces and young men between the ages of 17 and 36 are eligible for enlistment. Sgt. Hedges said enlistees will serve with Battery A, 3rd Battalion, 132nd Artillery. "This is a good way for young men to fulfill their service obligations without interfering with civilian careers," the sergeant said. Men who have no prior service will be sent to Fort Polk, La. for 4 1/2 to 6 months basic training. The remainder of their enlistment, the men will attend two 2 1/2 hour training sessions on Monday nights and one all-day Sunday session each month. Local training is held at the National Guard Armory.

Each year the local unit undergoes two weeks of field training at North Fort Hood in Texas. Guardsmen are paid for the monthly drills and the field training at a daily rate commensurate with their rate and length of service.

Applicants must not have received notice of induction from the Selective Service. However, once accepted, Guardsmen receive a draft deferment as long as they satisfactorily attend meetings. "Once obligated service is completed, the men are classified as veterans," Sgt. Hedges said.

Each applicant must take the Armed Forces Qualification Test before enlistment and achieve a score of at least 31 and be able to pass to the standard Armed Forces physical examination.

Veterans of any service may enlist in the same pay grade they last held on active duty. Men without prior military service must enlist for six years. Men with prior service in the National Guard may enlist for one, three or six years. Men with prior service other than in the National Guard may enlist

Officers Probe Jets Sabotage

WILLIAMS AIR FORCE BASE, Ariz. (AP) — Federal agents are investigating the deliberate damage to 61 jet trainers here. Landing gear wires on the T-38 trainers were found cut Monday during a pre-flight check. Wing commander Col. William C. Lindley Jr. ordered all 75 trainers grounded. Lt. James Ridley, base information officer, said the severed wires could have caused the landing gear not to retract and short circuited the electrical system.

Oyster Reef Suit Moved

HOUSTON (AP) — A court fight by sportsmen's and fishermen's groups to stop shell dredging within 1,500 feet of oyster reefs in Galveston and Trinity Bays is shifting to Austin.

Dist. Judge Sears McGee granted a plea of privilege by the state asking that the lawsuit be transferred to Travis County.

His decision Monday that Harris County courts lack jurisdiction in the case caused cancellation of a temporary injunction hearing which was set for today in Dist. Judge John Snell's court.

As plaintiffs' counsel, Robert Eckhardt, said he hoped the petition for a temporary injunction against four dredging companies can be heard in Austin before Christmas.

The suit attacks the validity of an October order by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission which permits dredging as close as 300 feet to live oyster beds in the two bays. It asks that the dredging limit be returned to 1,000 feet, as had been ordered by the now defunct Fish, Game and Oyster Commission.

Caution Urged In Tree Decorations

Area residents were reminded by Fire Marshal A. D. Meador to use caution in decorating Christmas trees.

1. Do not use wax candles on or near any tree.
2. Check tree lighting sets, electric candles and similar holiday lighting equipment for frayed wires, loose connections and broken sockets.
3. Use only lighting equipment carrying the Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) label. Unlabeled materials, domestic and foreign, seldom meet safety standards. Be sure the fuse on the circuit serving the tree and other lighting is not over 15 amperes. Cord sets with a fuse in the plug, bearing a UL label, are available and recommended.
4. For outdoor lighting, use only sets listed for outdoor use by Underwriters' Laboratories. If an extensive holiday lighting is planned, ask an electrician to make sure safety rules and regulations are followed. Turn off all tree and other indoor holiday lighting before retiring or leaving the house.
5. Don't allow smoking near the tree amidst decorations and wrappings. Have plenty of large, safe ashtrays around and use them.
6. Supervise small children playing near the tree. Keep matches, lighters and candles out of their reach.
7. Above all, have a fire emergency plan. Figure alternative escape routes out of every room. If fire strikes, clear everybody out of the house, then call the fire department. Fight the fire only if you can do so safely, keeping an exit route open.

Opening lead: King of ♠. Declarer successfully rode home one of the longest shots of the season in landing his slam contract.

South's hand took on added luster when his partner responded with two clubs. His 20 points, together with the minimum of 10 shown by North's two over one response, placed the partnership in the slam zone. South's jump shift to three diamonds is absolutely forcing to game and permits a relaxed investigation. When North gave a heart preference, South showed his club fit. North felt warranted in making one move on his own, so he cue bid the ace of spades. This was all South was waiting for and he jumped to six hearts.

West opened the king of spades and the ace was played from dummy. If the trumps were divided three-two, declarer had 12 top tricks—five hearts, five clubs, and the two other aces. As a matter of technique, he ruffed a spade in his hand first, before testing the trump suit.

Declarer cashed the ace, king of hearts next, but East's discard of a spade on the second round came as a distinct jolt, since the bad trump break deprived South of his 12th trick. A diamond loser appeared inevitable, and the outlook was definitely discouraging.

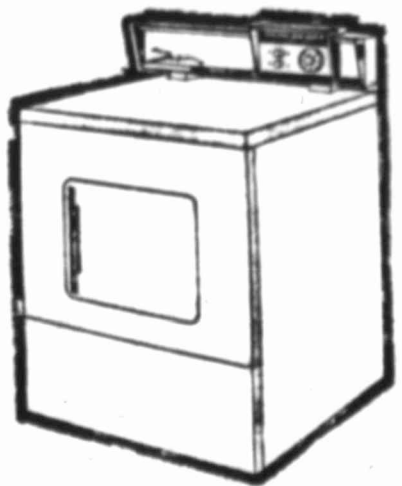

There was only one vague chance which hinged on West's having exactly three spades and the king of diamonds. Altho the odds were heavily against him, declarer was willing to go down a few extra tricks as the price of attempting to salvage the slam.

The eight of clubs was overtaken so that South could ruff out North's last spade, and the queen appeared from West's hand. The queen of hearts was cashed leaving the jack outstanding and South began to run the clubs. West could ruff in whenever he chose but, since he was down to nothing but diamonds, he was obliged to lead away from his king. This permitted South to play the queen of diamonds from dummy and, when this held, North's remaining clubs and declarer's ace of diamonds accounted for the balance of the tricks.

Enters Guilty Plea Before 2nd Trial

Trinidad Torres, who was found guilty of shoplifting by a Howard County jury verdict some months ago and who appealed the case and won, today pleaded guilty to the charge against her. She was slated for trial before a jury a second time. Instead of going to trial, she pleaded guilty.

Judge Lee Porter sentenced the woman to serve 21 days in jail and pay a fine of $250. She then filed a motion for new trial which was a method to keep from having to begin her term for a number of days.

At the first trial, the verdict of the jury set punishment at three months in jail and a fine of $250. She won her appeal on the contention that it was not established by the state that the woman was in the J. C. Penney store on invitation as a prospective customer at the time the alleged theft occurred. The high court held that this was essential to establish a shoplifting case against the defendant. It set aside the verdict and ordered a retrial. A jury panel was on hand and was excused by the judge today when the plea of guilty plan was announced.

The jurors are to return to court Wednesday to try another case sent back on order of the appellate court. The defendant in this case is Albert Rodriguez. He is accused of unlawful possession of barbiturates.

Trinidad Torres, the complainant, took a half slip from the J. C. Penney Co. store last March 11. The slip was valued at $3.98. Rodriguez was arrested by police who found capsules in his possession which were alleged to have been barbiturates. His defense was that he found the capsules being used as playthings by minor children in the home of a relative where he was visiting. He claimed he took the pills and put them in his pocket to protect the children and insisted he did not know they were barbiturates. Failure to permit him to develop this defense led to the reversal of the case by the appeals court and the re-trial Wednesday.

He was originally ordered to serve six months in prison for the offense.

Snow In Prospect For Part Of State

By The Associated Press
Stout north winds drove arctic air off the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains into Texas Tuesday, bringing the prospect of snow for parts of the state. It was cloudy nearly everywhere in the state and there was light rain, drizzle or fog at a number of places in South Texas.

By 5 a.m. the mercury was down to 24 degrees at Dalhart, where the wind hit 25 miles per hour, and 30 degrees at Amarillo. Readings were as much as 40 degrees higher near the state's southern tip at the same hour.

Occasional snow was expected to start during the forenoon in the north edge of the Panhandle. Forecasts called for the snow or a mixture of rain and snow to spread over much of Northwest Texas.

Scattered light rain was promised most other sections of the state, with a little snow also extending into the northwest part of North Central Texas. There were predictions for temperatures by early Wednesday down to 15 degrees in the Panhandle, 25 in extreme Southwest Texas and 28 in North Central Texas.

Posts 2 Bonds

M. R. Vierra, arrested on charges of DWI and for possession of a prohibited weapon, has posted two bonds, each in the sum of $500 and been released from custody. Paul Aleman, charged with aggravated assault, has also posted $500 bond.

Generals Saluted

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Yugoslav Ambassador Gustav Vlahov presented decorations Monday to four Mexican Gen. Jose Pacheco Irujarria, Alberto Zuno Hernandez, Adolfo Terrones Benitez and Jeronimo Gomar Suastegui.
