Aid Battle Costs LBJ First Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — The foreign aid battle has cost President Johnson his first setback on Capitol Hill since becoming chief executive, and with stinging criticism of Congress he looked hopefully to the Senate to recapture some of the losses.

The House dealt the administration a double jolt Monday, upholding an $800-million cut in foreign aid appropriations and adding a surprise amendment prohibiting the government from guaranteeing private financing of wheat sales to the Communist bloc.

OBSTACLE

It added up to another obstacle in the path of the battered aid measure and there seemed to be a good chance that final passage would have to be put off until next year.

As the House was voting 249-135 to hold spending for economic and military assistance to $2.8 billion—$1.7 billion below what the late President John F. Kennedy requested—Johnson issued a sharply worded statement.

CRITICISM

Johnson used as a vehicle for his criticism the foreign aid authorization bill which puts restrictions on the program and fixes a spending ceiling of $3.6 billion.

In his statement after signing the measure, Johnson made clear that he considers $3.6 billion "a dangerous reduction in funds" and that anything less would represent "a policy of weakness and retreat."

In words similar to those once spoken by his predecessor, Johnson said tartly "we cannot oppose the spread of communism and promote the growth of freedom by giving speeches."

SECURITY

The authorization measure, he said, reflects the nation's determination to maintain security by helping those willing to help themselves. But he added: "It also reflects, unfortunately,

They Flew By Wire, Too

"Boy, they really flew by wire." Astronaut John Glenn quipped as he checks over the control wires of a full scale model of the Wright brothers' first powered aircraft. The model was presented at ceremonies in observance of the 66th anniversary of powered flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C. Fly-by-wire is a modern space term meaning the astronaut has manual control of capsule. (AP WIRE-PHOTO)

U. S. Appeals Court Vetoes Reds' Trial

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal appeals court overturned today the conviction of the Communist party for failure to register as an agent of the Soviet Union.

The basic ruling of the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia was that to support the government would have to prove that a volunteer was available to register for the party under the 1950 Subversive Activities Control Act.

Throughout the trial in December last year the principal defense contention was that no such person could come forward because doing so would incriminate him as an individual under other terms of the act.

MAXIMUM

The party had drawn the maximum penalty of $120,000 fine—$10,000 on each of 11 counts, each count covering one day's failure to register, and another $10,000 on a 12th count alleging failure to provide information about Communist party officers, members and finances.

In rejecting the Communist defense contention that registration was impossible because the registrant would be incriminating himself, Judge Alexander Holtzoff of the U.S. District Court here had ruled that the Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination can be claimed only by an individual and not by an organization such as the Communist party of the United States.

The Appeals Court sent the case back to the District Court for either a new trial if the government requests it, or a directed verdict of acquittal.

The three-judge decision said legal precedent indicates "that an organization can always find someone willing, even if not legally bound, to act for it."

"But," the court added, "we think no such presumption can fairly be applied to the Communist party. Since mere association with the party incriminates, we cannot assume without proof that anyone is willing to submit data to the possession of which a police or intelligence agency would know a large part of the party's workings. Whether or not such a volunteer was available is a question of fact which requires proof."

The court said it was not expressing any opinion concerning the duty of the Communist party to submit the data required by law.

More Cold Forecast

If farmers could have bright sun and no more moisture for the remainder of December, the 1963 cotton crop could be almost finished by New Year's, spokesmen said Tuesday. However, the kind of weather lingering on and which is in store for tomorrow offers little opportunity for the long idled strippers to go back into the fields.

The forecast for tonight and tomorrow calls for continued cloudy skies, and high humidity. Tomorrow night will see even colder weather than today. High through Tuesday morning was around 41 degrees.

The gray skies are having no impact on Christmas shoppers. Streets are thronged. Parking space is at a premium and clerks are going at top speed. The Christmas buying momentum made its debut Saturday on one of the worst days, weather-wise, of the entire fall.

Asks For All JFK Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — After preliminary study of the FBI's report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, the Presidential Investigative Commission is calling for the evidence on which the report was based.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, heading the high-level board of inquiry, announced its decision Monday night and disclosed that the commission is building a legal staff to help it scan the evidence.

Warren told newsmen the move was "a perfectly normal thing." But it was clear that the commission intends to scrutinize and evaluate the FBI's work on the case instead of taking the FBI findings at face value.

President Vows Full U. N. Commitment

U. S. Aims Not Altered, He Declares

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — America's new President came before the community today with a pledge of support and an "unswerving commitment to the keeping and the strengthening of peace."

President Johnson addressed the United Nations in the great hall of its General Assembly. It was his first international forum since he took the helm of government Nov. 22, upon the death of John F. Kennedy.

"I have come here today to make it unmistakably clear," Johnson said, "that the assassin's bullet which took his life did not alter his nation's purpose."

EXPECTED

The President thus brought the reassurances expected of him, but no new major policy pronouncements or proposals.

He did suggest in generalities that a modern new deal could build a better world, that it is time for a peaceful revolution on a universal scale to improve human welfare and dignity.

But, said Johnson in a prepared text: "The greatest of human problems—and the greatest of our common tasks—is to keep the peace and save the future."

COMMITMENT

"If there is one commitment more than any other that I would leave with you today, it is my unswerving commitment to the keeping and the strengthening of peace."

"The United States wants amity, security, and peace for all, and above all.

"President Kennedy, I am sure, would regard as his best memorial the fact that in his three years as president the world became a little safer and the way ahead a little brighter. To the protection and enlargement of this new hope for peace, I pledge my country and its government."

Johnson lauded the United Nations for successes exceeding failures. Yet he recognized that vast problems remain: conflicts between great powers and between small nations, disagreements over disarmament, persistence of ancient wrongs against human rights, tag-end problems of colonialism.

But nations which created these problems by working apart can solve them by working together, the President said.

He did not emphasize specific areas of conflict and disagreement or suggest any specific solutions.

He did say what the United States wants.

COLD WAR

He mentioned an end to the cold war, first of all.

He said his country also wants to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons to nations not now having them, to push on with arms control and reduction, to cooperate with all U.N. members in conquering hunger, disease and ignorance.

Johnson let it be known in polite, subdued language that America doesn't intend to shoulder all the load. He said it favors an international aid program that is international in practice as well as in purpose. He said that "every nation must do its share."

Berlin Wall Will Breach For Christmas Visitings

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin and East German authorities have signed an agreement opening the wall for West Berliners to visit relatives in East Berlin over the Christmas season. Western officials announced today.

Western officials said details of the agreement would be announced later today.

The agreement was reached today after six days of tough, touch-and-go negotiations.

It opens the Red wall to West Berliners who have relatives in the East for the first time since the wall was built more than two years ago to stop the escape of refugees.

Western officials estimated that about 400,000 West Berliners will be eligible to cross into the Soviet sector.

The agreement was signed by Horse Korber, an official of the West Berlin city government, and Erich Wendt, East German deputy cultural affairs minister.

Issuance of permits will begin Wednesday at 12 points in West Berlin with officials of the East German post office handling the applications.

The East Germans had wanted West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt to sign the agreement, but he refused, fearing this might imply Western recognition of the East German regime.

The Communists then said Korber could sign but his signature would have to show specifically that he was signing for the West Berlin city government. Again, the West Berliners refused.

However, Korber eventually signed the agreement and there was no immediate explanation. The signing appeared to mean the Berlin and Communist negotiators had found a formula to break the deadlock which arose Friday over how to sign the document.

Opinion here was divided as to what political implications this agreement might have.

Some officials say it is nothing but a technical agreement without political overtones. Others fear it gives the East ammunition for their campaign to isolate West Berlin from the Western camp and turn it into a so-called neutral, demilitarized city.

West Germans, as distinguished from West Berliners, have always been able to cross into East Berlin.

U.S. Hostages Freed By Bolivian Miners

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Four U.S. citizens held hostage for 10 days in a tin mining center by Communist-led miners returned by plane today to La Paz, Bolivia's capital. They were freed and moved to the Andean city of Oruro Monday night.

The Americans and 15 other hostages got their freedom after a noisy, tense meeting of 4,000 miners approved an agreement between the government and dissident Vice President Juan Lechin, boss of the mine workers' federation.

The Americans, three members of the U.S. Embassy staff in La Paz and a Peace Corps volunteer, were found in good health but in a highly nervous state by mine company doctors.

TO FAMILIES

The other hostages—a West German, a Dutchman and 13 Bolivians—returned to their families and jobs in Catavi, where they had been held.

The Americans were brought by a jeep convoy over 30 miles of treacherous mountain road through pouring rain to Oruro, hub city for this Andean mining area. U.S. Ambassador Douglas Henderson greeted them and arranged for a flight to La Paz today, although the rain threatened to delay takeoff.

The hostages were seized in 6 in retaliation for the government's arrest of two Communist mine union leaders, Irines Pimental and Federico Escobar, on criminal charges. The Americans had gone to Catavi, 150 miles southeast of La Paz.

NOT GIVE IN

"For the last 10 days, the Comms have tried to force us to ask for Pimental's and Escobar's release, but not one of us gave in," said one of the Americans, Thomas M. Martin Jr., 27, of the Bronx, N.Y.

"They tried all sorts of scare tactics," added Martin, a U.S. Information Agency officer.

Another hostage, Bernard Rifkin, 52, Brooklyn-born labor adviser for the U.S. Agency for International Development, said the worst part of the ordeal was the night of their capture.

"They put guns in our backs and set off dynamite," he reported.

SUPPORT

Michael A. Kristula, 41, another U.S. Information Agency officer, commented: "I felt the embassy did everything possible and we never questioned their efforts nor did we ever doubt the support of President Johnson or the American people."

Kristula's wife also is in La Paz, and he has relatives in Niles, Ill., and Cadillac, Mich.

Robert Fergerstrom, 26, of Honolulu, the Peace Corps member, also said, "that first night was frightening as hell." In Washington, President Johnson said he was deeply gratified by the release of the four Americans.

"These men, who were acting in the service of our country, have borne the long distressing ordeal with great courage," he said.

Chamizal Up For Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate scheduled debate and a vote on the Chamizal treaty with Mexico this afternoon. The treaty, before the Senate for ratification or rejection, would return to Mexico more than 400 acres in El Paso, Tex.

2-A Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Tues., Dec. 17, 1963

This would settle a boundary dispute which arose because of a change in the course of the Rio Grande in the last century. If the pact is ratified, as is expected, the Mexican government would be informed and the treaty would then be ready for action by the Mexican Senate.

If both countries ratify, administrative measures would be taken to carry out the return to Mexico or more than 400 acres at El Paso, and transfer of a lesser area formerly claimed by Mexico to the United States.

The Mexican Banking Institution would pay the United States for buildings on the property which would be returned to Mexico.

The legislation also would include funds for the U.S. share of the cost of building two new bridges across the Rio Grande at El Paso, and for compensation of U. S. home owners whose property would go to Mexico.

Matthew Defies Romans To Write Of Jesus

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

His time shortened. Pursuers and informers closed about him. He could abide no longer in these parts. Yet he could not leave these brethren of the tempest without some instruction to steady them.

Matthew tamped more soot in the saucer, dripping water over it, and took up his reed pen again. "Now the birth of Jesus Christ took place in this way." The lantern light flickered on the papyrus sheet and insects whirled about his ears.

Other leading apostles already had fled Jerusalem under the terror of Herod Agrippa, the puppet king for the Roman Emperor Caligula. James had been beheaded. Peter had been cast in a dungeon, but had escaped and departed the city.

KNOWLEDGE

Yet he could not abandon those who would learn of Jesus without right knowledge of him. The apostle traced the words. "When his mother Mary had been betrothed to Joseph, before they came together she was found to be with child of the Holy Spirit."

It was a disturbing affair, even then. "Her husband, Joseph, being a just man and unwilling to put her to shame, resolved to divorce her quietly." In those days, Matthew had been overseer of toll collections on the Damascus Road in Galilee, not far from Nazareth.

CHANGED

How bewilderingly things had changed since then—for him and many more, beginning with the old wood-worker, Joseph.

Behold, an Angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying, "Joseph, son of David, do not fear to take Mary your wife, for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Spirit."

Matthew paused, listening.

THESE ARE THE FOUR MEN WHO WROTE THE GOSPEL

Cries of the sentries in the wall towers sounded the last watch of night. He blew on his hands to warm them.

From the start, slings and storm had surrounded those who called upon the name. Stephen had been stoned to death. Others were imprisoned. The Sanhedrin had forbidden them to speak, on pain of death. Yet, a constant embrace held them fast.

WHISPERED

Matthew took up his pen again recording how it all started, beginning with that whispered word from on high to Joseph about his bride.

"She will bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins."

With his penchant for record-keeping, acquired in his days in Galilee, Matthew had gathered extensive notes during his days with Jesus about his life, birth and genealogy. He would tuck the notes in a metal tube hung on his neck, depositing them in a friend's house for safekeeping.

Now, in the post-resurrection period with all Judea teeming with unrest, he sought to put his notes into written order.

MOST POPULAR

The Gospel according to Matthew, as it finally emerged, has been called the most important, influential book in the world, the most nearly complete account of Jesus, and the most popular book in the Bible.

It is one of the four basic stories of Christmas.

Ancient church writings say it was compiled before he left Palestine 15 years after the resurrection—about 44 A.D. Papias, bishop of Hierapolis in 124 A.D., says, "Matthew composed the logia in the Hebrew-Aramaic tongue, and everyone interpreted them as they were able."

However, no Aramaic version

has survived. Scholars say the Greek manuscripts seem to have been composed originally in that language, with the contents drawn from at least three separate bodies of material, copies of which became lost.

SOURCE

One is called Q, for the Germanic word, meaning source, which apparently was used in compiling Matthew and Luke.

Another, M, contains data exclusive to Matthew. Mark's gospel also is generally considered a partial source both of Luke and Matthew.

Considering the various evidence, it can be deduced that Matthew was the author of M and perhaps also Q, which later were collated, together with Marcan material, to form the present Matthew.

It is possible that Matthew, the most educated and literary of the apostles, wrote part of his gospel in Jerusalem, and another portion elsewhere or later. Scholars find evidence that portions were written in Antioch, after 50 or 60 A.D.

RICH WIDOW

For a while, after the resurrection, the apostles had their headquarters in a spacious Jerusalem house provided by Mark's mother, a rich widow. But the intensifying blows of the suppression forced them to scatter.

Matthew, after the others had fled in the wake of the series of arrests and persecutions of 42 A.D., may have retreated to the shadowy, labyrinthine passages of the old King David's Wall, shelter of many poor and hunted men.

There, in some dim and dank niche, he supposedly bent over a stone ledge, transposing his notes and memories to a scroll of papyrus, in four 3-inch columns across the sheet, each about 30 lines long.

BLANK PAPER

Then, with ink dried, he would roll the written portion on one stick, unrolling blank paper from another, and start a new rank of columns.

In the cavernous chambers of the wall, dark forms stirred on the stone floor, shuffled to their feet, mumbling. Gradually, as usual, a group gathered about Matthew, bringing barley bread, cheese and skins of watered wine.

In their stress and longing, deep affection bound them together. "My brother in the Lord," they would greet each other, with kisses of peace. "My sister," "What news has thou?" "Good cheer your heart."

After blessings over the bread and drink, they ate and sang a quiet hymn.

WARNING

At some crucial juncture, a warning reached the apostle. He slipped out of the city in darkness, leaving the unfinished scroll to be copied and circulated.

In Antioch, perhaps, the queen city of the East, with its temples to Apollo and Artemis, he may have set down further information about Jesus' coming.

He tells nothing of the angel's announcement to Mary, nor of the reason why the birthplace was in Bethlehem instead of Nazareth, nor the shepherds, nor stable. But he had information about governmental affairs, in his days as tax agent, when another Herod ruled.

"Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king, behold, wise men from the East came to Jerusalem, saying, "Where is He who is born king of the Jews? For we have seen His star," he wrote.

OFFER GIFTS

The book relates how the magi went on to adore the child and offer their gifts, how Herod ascertained the birthplace and sent troops to slay all babies in the city, but Joseph, forewarned, had fled to Egypt with the infant Jesus.

In Bethlehem, there was slaughter and lamentation. The birth of that child had involved pain, flight and peril then, as it did later for Him and his apostles. It did not bring exemption from suffering, but placed Jesus in the midst of its worst, then and thereafter, investing those who endured it with a love surpassing it.

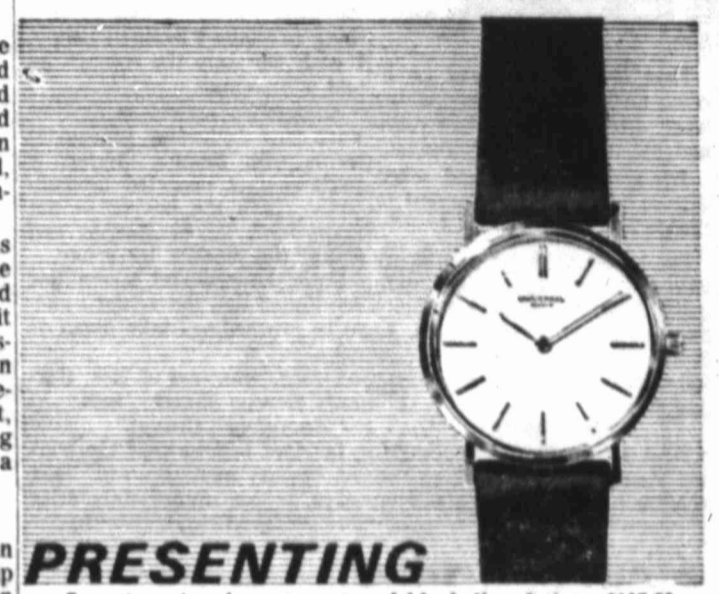

FAITH FORGED

Thus the faith was forged in the fires of danger, hardship and devotion, just as it began on that first Christmas, and just as Matthew experienced it and wrote it.

Tradition has it that he labored in Syria, and in Macedonia, Persia, Parthia, Ethiopia and elsewhere. He may have died a natural death. Legend says he was burned or beheaded in Ethiopia.

But as he learned from that child of Christmas, and wrote: "Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness sake, for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Codification Work Begins

Work on the job of bringing city ordinances up-to-date began Monday at City Hall. Bob Usery, a representative of the Municipal Code Corporation, Tallahassee, Fla., and John Burgess, city attorney, are codifying city ordinances.

The city signed a contract with the firm last March for the revision of obsolete ordinances and the amendment of ordinances that require it.

Under the terms of the contract, the firm will supply the city 100 copies of the codification booklet. Similar ordinances are to be grouped together, and all of the ordinances will be placed together under one cover.

Estimated cost to the city is $4,687 with a maximum cost of $5,250. A supplemental cost of $9.50 will be charged for each page of an ordinance which is revised. The work is to be under the direction of the city attorney.

Usery estimated he would be through with the preliminary work by Wednesday.

Conference Due To Discuss Plans For Check Dept.

Howard County Commissioners want to confer with Sheriff Miller Harris, District Attorney Gil Jones and County Attorney Wayne Burns on the future operation of the county hot check department before settling on the exact way the department is to be handled in the months to come.

Burns told the commissioners that he wanted to be assured of ample help to perform the work and that he wanted some assurance of investigative assistance in the operation of the department.

Tentatively it is planned to transfer the operation of the department from the sheriff's office where it has been for two years, to the office of the county attorney. An opinion by the attorney general recently ruled that the sheriff's office has no legal authority to carry on a department of this nature.

Birdwell Bridge Work Continues

City employees Monday said progress on the $12,340 bridge over Big Spring Creek at Birdwell Lane is good. The roadway slab has been poured, and the forms should be removed today.

All that remains to be done is a pedestrian sidewalk on the east side of the bridge and the wing walls. Contractor for the job is the J. D. Jones Construction Co. The contract called for completion within 60 work days. Work began Nov. 1.

Burton Free; Link With Liz Due Soon

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Richard Burton is free today to marry Elizabeth Taylor, who may be free any day now to marry him.

Thus, the world's most publicized lovers are halfway to the altar, a trek that took two years and $40 million to accomplish.

The love affair started when Burton played Marc Antony to Liz's Cleopatra.

Sybil Burton, long-suffering wife of the swinging Welshman, got a Mexican divorce Monday and a reported settlement of $1.5 million. She also got custody of the couple's two young daughters.

FOR FISHER
Next step calls for singer Eddie Fisher to institute Mexican divorce proceedings against the raven-haired star he married after Mike Todd's death.

Anything Liz wants, she can get from Eddie. "I will do anything to make Elizabeth happy. I wish her only the best," he told a newsman.

Elizabeth's lawyer is in New York now discussing settlement terms with Eddie's lawyer. A settlement is expected momentarily. Then the lawyer — not Eddie — will go to Mexico and obtain the divorce by proxy.

Once the pre-trial formalities are ironed out, the actual court proceedings take about 15 minutes.

Fisher, informed of Mrs. Burton's divorce Monday, said: "Marvelous! Bravo!"

Insiders believe that the Burton-Taylor nuptials will take place almost immediately after the settlement between the actress and Fisher.

REMOTE RESORT
The setting will undoubtedly be Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, the remote resort town where Burton recently finished filming "The Night of the Iguana."

Elizabeth and Burton have bought a four-story house there, the biggest in town — and plan to live there until Burton starts rehearsals next year for his plain clothes Broadway version of "Hamlet."

Mrs. Burton asked the divorce on grounds of "abandonment of the home, cruel and inhuman treatment," telling the court that Burton "has been for some time in the company of a woman who is not his wife."

The divorce petition was filed by Sybil Williams Burton through her lawyers on Dec. 3.

Informed sources here said Burton's two children, Katherine and Jessica, will remain with their mother, and Burton must make annual payments of undisclosed size for their support.

PICKLE, DOBBS 10th District's Runoff Is Today

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Voters of 10 Central Texas counties decide today whether a Democrat or a Republican will represent President Johnson's old congressional district.

Democrats have held the post so far this century.

Voting in the special runoff election begins in most cities and towns at 7 a.m. and must end at 7 p.m.

Estimates of voter turnout range from 35,000 to 48,000, compared to about 41,000 votes cast in Nov. 9 when Democrat J.J. (Jake) Pickle and Republican Jim Dobbs squeezed out another Democrat, Jack Ritter Jr.

IN 1948
The winner will replace U.S. Rep. Homer Thornberry, D-Tex. who went to Congress in 1948 when Johnson advanced to the Senate after serving 11 years as congressman of Texas' 10th District. Thornberry quits Dec. 20 for a federal judgeship appointment in El Paso.

Gov. John Connally in a special proclamation pointed out to Texans that this is the first election for a national office since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

"The people of this congressional district have a unique opportunity to demonstrate to the world our confidence in the continuity of government and America's ability to move forward without breaking stride," he said.

Pickle, 49, a fast-moving, fast-talking former political campaign organizer for Johnson and two Texas governors, predicts he will win by more than two to one "in a smashing vote of confidence in our Democratic party, our Democratic leadership and the Democratic program that has given our people unparalleled prosperity and well-being."

POWER MACHINE
Dobbs calls Pickle a rubber-stamp candidate who he says would be a tool of the "power

AGREEMENT
These sources said the couple reached an agreement Nov. 11 on the disposition of financial interests. Terms of the agreement have not been disclosed.

They were married Feb. 5, 1949, in London and their home was in Celigny, Switzerland.

Puerto Vallarta Mayor Carlos Arriola Luna and others said Burton and actress Elizabeth Taylor plan to remain in the isolated Pacific port through Christmas and probably into January. Miss Taylor's children are with her.

There have been no reports she has sought or obtained a divorce from her husband, singer Eddie Fisher. Under Mexican law, she must stay in Mexico at least six months before starting any proceedings. She has been in this country only three months.

Baseball Park On Board's Agenda

A committee from the Big Spring Independent School District, the Chamber of Commerce and city officials will attend the Parks and Recreation Board meeting set for 4 p.m. Wednesday.

A discussion is set for a proposal for a teen-age baseball park. Local baseball officials have asked permission from the board to construct a diamond near Goliad Junior High School.

The board also will hear a progress report on a sprinkler system for the back nine of the golf course, study a request for landscaping Washington Boulevard Park, and hear a bond fund financial report.

Ernest Lillard, director of public works, has been authorized to examine a used ditching machine in Dallas this week and to purchase the machine if it is satisfactory. Ditching and pipe laying operations are to begin in the parks and golf course when the city acquires a ditching machine.

City officials said A. A. Marchant, Loy Acuff, Don Bohannon and John Stanley have indicated they and 35 other residents of Washington Boulevard are willing to bear the cost of shrubs for landscaping it. The estimated cost is $20 per resident.

All of the $75,000 in bond funds has been allocated for expenditure on parks improvements except $244. To date, the city has spent $9,329.45 for improvements.

The biggest expense item was $7,437.05 for 5,129 feet of eight-inch pipe for the golf course. The next biggest item was 2,512 feet of four-inch pipe for sprinkler systems. Other expenses: $94.82 for two picnic tables.

AMA AND HEADACHES

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C. (the Swartz Report (that is another study) the two main types of headaches have the following results under chiropractic care — Migraine Headaches receive 86.8 per cent cure or greatly helped and the Nonmigraine type of headaches receive 83.2 per cent cure or greatly helped.)

We have in our files several hundred headache cases which have come to our office during the past six years and I believe our average is higher than those cases we believe we can help. I started to write a case history of a woman who had headaches for 18 years, day and night, and then thought of others — one in particular who felt like the top of her head was going to blow off — then a woman who got sick headaches just before rain and weather change but who can decide which one to pick. No. 1183 — 1349 — 791.

If you have headaches now or headaches which keep coming back, why not investigate what can be done for you at the Hansen Chiropractic Clinic, across from Piggly Wiggly, AM 3-3324.

Officer Gets 'Thank You'

Officer John Scott, Police Chief Jay Banks, the police department and the city of Big Spring were commended in a letter from Oklahoma State Senator Harold T. Garvin last week.

Chief Banks said he received the letter from Garvin, who is president pro tempore of the Oklahoma State Senate. The legislator commended Officer Scott for the efficiency, competency and courtesy he demonstrated while investigating a traffic accident.

Garvin's letter indicated the accident occurred at 9:15 p.m. Nov. 29 in the 2200 block of South Gregg, involving his niece, Tommie Lou Hutto, 815 W. 15th, and Jesus Alvarez, 704 North Goliad.

Garvin states in his letter, "... You, your force and the city of Big Spring should be proud to have a man of his caliber serving on your force and handling the difficult and many times thankless enforcement responsibilities of a police officer."

MY OFFER

My pastor friend says he has not known of a minister in the church of Christ to be in a Ministerial Association, "even if that association is primarily for study and fellowship." If he thinks I am unwilling to study with the denominational ministers, let me remind him of my visit to his office in connection with his first letter of criticism many months ago, and my offer at that time to study the Bible with him? Let me remind him that he is the one who refused to study.

I have never been invited to a Ministerial Association for the purpose of studying the Word with the pastors of the

Myers Requests Change Of Venue

John Edwin Myers, scheduled to face trial for a double murder committed two years ago in Belleville, Ill., does not think he can get a fair trial so near the scene of the crime.

Myers' attorneys have filed a petition for a change of venue in the district court of Judge Harold Farmers in Belleville. Judge Farmers has indicated that he will rule Wednesday on the venue petition. Trial is set for Jan. 6.

Myers, who was arrested in Midland Sept. 1, 1961, a few hours after he and his 19-year-old girl friend, Donna Marie Stone, had shot Arthur DeKraai, an Iowa hitchhiker, to death near Big Spring, alleges that prejudice against him exists in the minds of judges in Belleville and that the news media there have given his case undue and sensational attention.

Myers and Donna Marie started an alleged foray of crime in Belleville. Their first two victims were Carol Ballard, 11, and George Ballard, 46, her father. The Ballards were shot to death on the shores of a lake near Belleville, late in August, 1961. Between that date and Sept. 1, Myers and the girl allegedly slew two others—Margaret Wericker, who they kidnaped in East St. Louis and shot to death in the wooded country of south-

Judge Rules It's Habitual

Judge Lee Porter ruled today that Fox Henry Miller is a habitual traffic violator. The ruling cleared the way for the State Department of Public Safety to revoke the youth's driver's license if it so desires. Miller was tried last week before a jury on an appeal he brought from traffic convictions in lower courts. The jury returned a verdict in which it was ruled the convictions were in proper accord. It was then the responsibility of the judge to formulate his decision from the answers the jurors returned to the special issues.

Wayne Burns, county attorney said that testimony at the hearing showed Miller had been four times convicted of moving traffic violations.

Someone Monday took a car owned by Mary Ann Reaves, 909 Nolan, while the vehicle was parked across the street on Scurry from the Howard County Public Library. The vehicle was taken between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday while Miss Reaves was at work in the county clerk's office, police said.

About 150 See Pageant

An estimated 150 persons turned out Monday night for the second annual presentation of the Christmas Pageant at the Big Spring State Hospital.

The pageant included seven scenes, each depicting a different part of the Christmas story. A choir of patients provided background music and a narrator quoted from the Bible as the performers went through the scenes.

The pageant opened with an introduction to Bethlehem, where the drama unfolds. It then flashed back to the arrival of Mary and Joseph, to their being forced to seek a stable for shelter and the visitation of angels to shepherds before switching back to the Nativity scene. The final scenes showed the arrival of the shepherds and the wise men at the manger.

Live animals for the program were provided by Pat Patterson, and Roy Rogan furnished lights. Lighting and scenery was furnished by the maintenance crews of the hospital. All parts in the pageant were played by patients of the hospital.

Costumes were taken from hospital stocks. Chaplain Max Maguire, director, said. Assisting him with costumes were Mrs. Merle Davis, Mrs. Otille Jolley and Dr. Frankie Williams.

Christmas Music Festival Receives Warm Applause

The Festival of Christmas Music drew a comparatively small audience Monday evening, but it provoked rousing applause.

The faithful who braved a raw evening to hear the program were rewarded with excellent singing, abetted by instrumental highlights and some colorful staging. They appreciated the heavier first portion with its emphasis on the religious, but they loved the animation of the second portion devoted to contemporary favorites.

An impressive setting for the first half of the program in the HCJC auditorium was heightened by the candlelight procession, "O Come, All Ye Faithful," and by the recessional, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing." The choir offered several selections, displaying a richness of tone, a perfection of pitch and harmony, and a remarkable strength for only 14 voices.

Mrs. Joyce Bradley, soprano, sang "Ave Maria" beautifully, as she did "White Christmas" in the second portion. Mrs. Edna McClintock, Midland, and Mary Frances Malone, did a harp duet of "Silent Night" with notes as though struck from an icicle. Their biggest hand, however, came in the second part in "Zephyrs," which included soft runs like the rise and fall of a breeze.

Jack Hendrix, chairman of the HCJC music department, as always was superb at the accompaniment and in a potpourri entitled "A Christmas Carol Casserole." This he did with Bob Harrison playing the guitar to provide an unusual and pleasant effect.

Ira Schantz, director of vocal music for the college, turned out a lively and colorful production, especially for the second half. Singers were gaily costumed in winter garb and animated their numbers, much to the delight of the audience. There were favorites such as "Winter Wonderland," and the melodic "Silver Bells." "The Holly Carol," in which singers constructed a holly wreath, was vigorously applauded. Easily the most popular, however, was the "Jingle-Bell Travelogue" featuring Carol Chidlaw, Janice Winslow, Bill Anderson and Bob Harrison, who carried off this saucy bit with freshness and fun. Perhaps the most beautiful of all the offerings was Pietro A. Yon's sweet "Gesù Bambino." It has never been sung here more beautifully.

Man Killed In Accident

LAMESA — Delores P. Contreras, 23, a Dawson County farm worker, was killed instantly about 7:30 p.m. Monday when he stepped in front of a moving car 14 miles south of Lamesa. Driver of the car was Cecil Winegart, 41, Farwell.

Highway Patrolman Ralph Ward of Lamesa, who investigated, said Winegart told him he was driving south when he suddenly saw the man standing in the road in front of him waving his arms. HIS FOR A YEAR Fred Hyer custodian of "last man" cup

Fred Hyer Holds Cup For A Year

Not this time, but maybe next, Fred Hyer will get to keep the cup.

The Big Spring independent oil operator, who incidentally is the discoverer of oil in the Howard-Glasscock field, came into possession of the big loving cup Saturday at the annual meeting of the Worthian (Last Man) Club in Fort Worth.

He was in line alphabetically to receive and keep for a year, the cup which will become the permanent possession of the last surviving member of a group which gathered a generation ago each week at the Worth Hotel.

In 1926, they wearied of their weekly sessions, and Roy Westbrook gave a loving cup with the names of the 33 members inscribed. A custom of a pre-Christmas gathering of the gang was established, with a highlight being a sip of champagne from the cup, a toast to health by each member in the order his name appeared on the cup.

Since then, 10 members have died, two within the past year. Last Saturday at the annual meeting 16 of the 23 members still living were on hand for the reunion. Each member received a gaudy necktie, a gift prepared by the late Tom Goughlin, "boss fly" of the group, who died just before the 1962 meeting. They bore the inscription "just another lousy Christmas tie."

This is Hyer's second time to have possession of the cup.

LA Promises Financial Aid For Victims

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Victims of the Baldwin Hills Reservoir disaster got a word of encouragement—and a promise of money — from Mayor Samuel Yorty.

"It's obvious these victims are not responsible for the damage," Yorty said Monday. "They will be compensated and we will help them file claims against the department of water and power and the city," Yorty said.

Damage from Saturday's devastating flood could run to more than $10 million dollars, officials estimate.

Yorty's promise of help came as a residents and businessmen picked through the mud-slick rubble below the now-empty reservoir.

Nearly 300 million gallons of water roared through a break in the earth-filled structure Saturday afternoon, crashing down on the homes below and sweeping at least three persons to their death.

Sixty-four homes were destroyed, and 82 homes and 55 apartment buildings received major damage. At least 27 persons were injured.

Cleanup crews hauling away the mud and debris also watched for a possible fourth victim of the swirling flood waters.

Mrs. Marie MacDonald told rescuers her husband, Archie, 70, was snatched from their home by the torrent as she watched helplessly. She said she has been unable to locate him since.

Hall Named City Marshal

COAHOMA — The City of Coahoma has a new city marshal since Saturday. J. B. Hall, former deputy sheriff for Howard County, was appointed marshal at a council meeting Friday night. He lives in Coahoma.

"The council felt the need of a local enforcement officer since we have a lot of speeding on our streets, and an occasional charge of drunkenness comes up," Mrs. Mattie Miller, city secretary, said Monday. "Cases are rare when we need a jail and any one arrested is taken to Big Spring."

LAWMEN NAB FOUR ACCUSED OF MURDER IN ALABAMA

'Bama Seeks Four Captured Carnies

CAMERON (AP)—Authorities are seeking the return to Alabama of four carnival workers charged in the death of a soft drink salesman whose body was thrown into a well.

Maj. Bill Jones, an Alabama state investigator, and Sheriff W. A. Bratton of Sumter County, Ala., were due here today to file extradition papers.

The four men surrendered without a struggle Monday after a sheriff fired three bullets into their hideaway. Their capture ended a massive manhunt centered in the Buckholts community west of here.

Bloodhounds, airplanes, helicopters and jeeps were used in the search.

The prisoners identified themselves to Texas Ranger Capt. Clint Peoples as John Lokos, 25, who said he has no home town; Clarence Coon, 24, of College City, Calif.; Gerald Eaton, 27, of Buckholts and Harold Edwards, 20, of Randlett, Okla.

AT HOME

They are accused of killing Leonard Culpepper, 55, at his home near the Alabama-Mississippi line Friday. Murder, attempted murder, armed robbery and burglary charges are on file in Alabama.

Bratton said four men robbed Culpepper of $125, shooting him once in the spine and twice in the head, and tossed the body into a 12-foot well.

He said the robbers then threw the dead man's wife into the well with her hands tied behind her back. Mrs. Culpepper, seriously injured, was rescued the next day.

Milam County Atty. John Henderson Jr. filed armed robbery charges against the men here in the Dec. 9 holdup of a farm family near Buckholts.

The same four are also accused of robbing another farm family near Walters, Okla.

STATEMENTS

Henderson said all four had signed statements but he would not disclose any details. They were being held in the county jail here.

Officers converged on this Central Texas area Sunday when a stolen Alabama car was found outside Eaton's family home. More than 100 officers took part.

The men said they spent Sunday night in a barn about a mile from where they were captured.

Asked why they returned to Buckholts, Lokos remarked: "We liked the place. People leave their back doors open."

Ranger Peoples said: "These boys told us that they were going to rob the Buckholts bank this morning. They said that was their primary reason for being here."

Men Spotted On Farm Of Local Woman's Father

The four men captured near Buckholts were spotted as they emerged from a grove in the pasture owned by the father of Mrs. Halvaard Hansen, 621 Tulane.

L. H. A. Feuchs called his daughter, Lela, here Monday evening to say that "It was the most exciting day in the history of Buckholts."

A tenant farmer, Shon Mendoza, on a place adjoining Mr. Feuchs' Post Oaks ranch, saw one man emerge from a grove and go across the pasture and a fence to an abandoned farm house on another place. Then three men followed the first.

His suspicions aroused, Mendoza went into town and notified officers, who made the capture at the old farmhouse.

All day officers had been crowded into the tiny town of Buckholts, Mrs. Feuchs said, adding that there was hardly a time when normally placid Swanky Frankie Cafe didn't have 50 to 75 officers crowded into it. Things quieted down mighty quick after capture of the desperadoes.

DEAR ABBY

One More Is Too Many

DEAR ABBY: When I married "S" it was agreed that we would raise his two sons, four and six. He and his wife had a friendly divorce on grounds of incompatibility. Now he wants to HIRE his ex-wife to come and live with us and take care of the boys. I work out and make as much as he does, and we hired a housekeeper who does a good job. I don't want that woman in my house. My husband says she isn't capable of working out, could use the money, knows the boys and can handle them. He sees nothing wrong with it! (He is 30 and she is 42 and I am 28). He claims he feels nothing for her and she feels nothing for him. Is this possible? We have been married for seven months and I am ready to walk out.

READY TO LEAVE

DEAR READY: Don't let the "nothing" they feel for each other mislead you. If your husband wants the boys' mother to raise them, he should provide a separate home for them. Three is a crowd.

DEAR ABBY: My husband bought me a beautiful muskrat stole on our anniversary. Now every time one of my friends sees it, the first thing she asks is, "What kind of fur is it, and how much did it cost?" I think this is very rude. What can I say to this person?

LONG BEACH

DEAR LONG: Say, "It's muskrat"—and ignore the second question.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is widowed and lives alone. She gets very lonesome and is sometimes forgetful, so she calls me quite a lot. I really don't mind, but my husband gets very irritated. I don't want to hurt my mother's feelings by asking her not to call me so much, but I can see where this annoys my husband because he gets some business calls at home and he is the one who answers the telephone. Have you any suggestions? Please print your answer. My husband opens all the mail and I don't want a personal reply coming to the house.

MRS. IN BETWEEN

DEAR MRS.: If it's to be your mother's "feelings" vs. your husband's peace of mind, you should be more concerned with the latter. Tell her that in the evening hours, "Don't call me, I'll call you."

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Salvation Army Campaign Lagging

The Salvation Army heads into its last full week of solicitations for the Christmas Fund a long way from its goal, according to Capt. William Thomas, commander of the local post.

Through Sunday, donations totaled about $1,200, more than $400 short of the same time during last year's drive and only one-third of the way to the goal.

"We are running behind in donations and it looks as though we won't make the goal," Capt. Thomas said, "but we need to order the food and hope that the money will come in."

More than 300 applications for Christmas food baskets have been filed with the Salvation Army and about 275 of these are expected to be legitimate. That number may have to be pared and only the extremely needy supplied with the baskets if the donations continue in the present trend.

Local clubs will do their best to help the campaign reach its goal this week as five of them are slated to man the kettle in front of the Woolworth store downtown. The Optimists are working today, Noon Lions Wednesday, Rotary Thursday, American Business Club Friday and the Evening Lions on Saturday.

Another fund-raising effort which began Monday is a house-to-house drive to sell copies of "War Cry," the Salvation Army publication. Included with the magazine will be envelopes for donations. Workers will leave the copies of the magazine at the houses today and will visit again from 6-9 p.m. tonight to pick up envelopes from persons wishing to make contributions.

This "War Cry" sales effort will be continued every day until Christmas if personnel can be obtained.

Canned goods obtained from the annual drive conducted in the 17 local schools have not yet been sorted, Capt. Thomas said.

Oil Production Shows Increase

TULSA (AP) — U. S. oil production rose 20,440 barrels a day last week, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Average daily output was 7,535,470 barrels.

Oklahoma's daily average of 533,200 barrels was up 13,750 from the previous week.

Arkansas produced 76,500, Colorado 100,400, Louisiana 1,470,270, New Mexico 296,000 and Texas 2,614,200.

said, but preliminary estimates are that the drive brought in more than did the 1962 effort. Capt. Thomas urged persons who have received letters asking for donations to forward their checks early. "We need to know how much we have to work with," he said.

Khrushchev May Have Won Only A Partial Triumph

By The Associated Press
Premier Khrushchev appears to have won only a partial victory with the new Soviet budget, possibly through compromise after a clash in the Kremlin hierarchy.
The battle may not be over. Some oddities about the Soviet budget session suggest that Khrushchev is encountering opposition.
The big argument seems to revolve about defense spending. The Supreme Soviet—a rubber-stamp parliament—was told Monday that the defense budget is being cut next year by the equivalent of $666 million. Actually, that is not much of a cut. And in the Soviet budget it is impossible to determine what money appropriated under other titles goes toward defense.

Church Council Ends Talk For More Serious Issues

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Churchmen from all corners of the earth and from Protestant, Orthodox and Anglican faiths dropped speech making and turned to religious business matters today.
The Commission on World Missions and Evangelism of the World Council of Churches, representing 300 million members, entered the final three days of a 12-day conference.
More than 200 members are present from 52 nations.
Earlier sessions, beginning Dec. 8, featured talks on a score of church problems. These topics were dropped as church leaders got down to finances, missionary problems and other matters.
Dr. Kathleen Bliss, head of the board of education of the Church of England, and Prof. Mauricio Lopez, an Argentine

RELATIONS
When relations between the United States and the Soviet Union are bad, the Soviet military budget can be expected to go up. The Soviet people know that deep international crises mean little hope for abundant consumer goods. Therefore, reductions of tension are popular.
Khrushchev made points with the Soviet public this year by reaching agreement with the United States and Britain on a limited ban on nuclear tests. If he then attempted to head toward other agreements, he seemed to run into some stony opposition.

ECONOMISTS
There is other evidence of behind-scenes tussles. Khrushchev's program for vastly increased fertilizer production to attack agriculture's ailments was openly criticized by a group of economists, who may have been egged on by powerful forces. They advanced valid-sounding arguments against so heavy a fertilizer investment while the U.S.S.R. still lacks sufficient labor and transport to get it to the farms and apply it to the land.
Khrushchev advocated a program which envisaged spending the equivalent of $46 billion over seven years on the chemical industry. He came out of the inner party debate with appropriations for 1964-65 totaling only about a tenth of that.

EMPHASIS
A curious tug-and-pull in Soviet foreign policy this year was reflected by shifts in emphasis. Sometimes the stress was on agreements, reduction of military budgets and disarmament. At other times these purported aims were pushed into the background in favor of aggressive talk about the Berlin-German questions and the tensions in the Far East.
Such developments as the ar-

Demos Preparing For Any Candidate GOP May Offer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's political strategists are not counting Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona or New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller out of the 1964 Republican presidential nomination race.
But they are quietly preparing for the possibility that the Republicans may select neither as their nominee, choosing instead an Easterner other than Rockefeller.
Johnson and National Chairman John M. Bailey obviously would be happy to have Goldwater head the Republican ticket to be chosen at the San Francisco convention in July. But Bailey, among others, feels this is less likely to happen than before John F. Kennedy's assassination.
The assumption among these Democrats is that the GOP in the end will pick a candidate calculated to challenge Johnson where he is politically weakest, in the big electoral vote industrial states. They mention Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania in this connection.
NO SWEEP
This strategy presumes, however, that no Republican will achieve such a sweep in presidential primaries as to give him the kind of headlock on the nomination that Kennedy had in 1960.
Rockefeller, an announced candidate for the nomination, apparently is going into every available primary. Goldwater, currently meditating on his political future, may be convinced that he would be letting the conservatives down if he doesn't enter the contest.
Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon remains a potent factor in speculation. Michigan Gov. George Romney, thrown for a loss by Republicans in his legislature, is regarded as receding as a possibility. Henry Cabot Lodge, like Nixon and Romney, says he is not a candidate. Lodge, Nixon's 1960 running mate, is now U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Major Bold Presented Outstanding Certificate

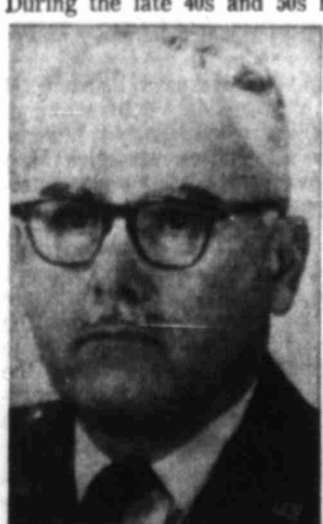

Major John E. Bold, Webb AFB supply officer, was presented USAF Outstanding Supply Officer Certificate for 1963 at a Wing Staff meeting today at Wing Headquarters.
The presentation was made by Brig Gen. Howard J. Withycombe, wing commander. The certificate is awarded to supply officers who have demonstrated outstanding proficiency in fulfilling supply responsibilities.
Accompanying the certificate was a letter signed by Gen. William F. McKee, Air Force vice chief of staff.
Part of Gen. McKee's letter stated "... this special designation is to identify and recognize officers who have demonstrated outstanding proficiency in supply duties. The critical importance of such duties to the combat readiness and economical operation of the Air Force makes it mandatory that the officers best qualified to perform them be appropriately recognized and clearly identified."
Indorsements were added by Lt. Gen. Robert W. Burns, commander of ATC, and Gen. Withycombe. Maj. Bold has been base supply officer since January. He arrived at Webb from ATC where he had been on duty with Management and Procedures Division.
In his more than 21 years of service, he has held enlist, warrant and commissioned grades. During the late 40s and 50s he served as a radio operator with rank of master sergeant. Later he was promoted to warrant officer, and in 1950 received his Air Force commission.
Maj. Bold is one of the few officers who ever went from master sergeant to warrant officer to commissioned officer, all in one year.
He has spent more than half of his 20 years of service in overseas stations. His most recent tour being in Japan and Hawaii. He was born in Middlebury, Vt., and went to school in Kingsbury, N. Y. He calls Hood River, Ore., his hometown. He is married to the former Miss Lillie Campbell of Hood River.

A Devotional For The Day

He came to his own home, and his own people received him not. (John 1:11. RSV.)

Succession Line Needs Attention

One might casually suppose that President Johnson's agreement with Speaker McCormack regarding succession in case of presidential disability had pretty much settled the matter for the time being. The fact is that this agreement, though laudable as far as it goes, does not get at the root of the succession problem.
Several factors make the agreement, which follows the line established by the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement and continued between President Kennedy and the then vice president, less than adequate. One of these factors is the stature of McCormack himself. The speaker, soon to be 72 years old, would not rank high on any list of say the dozen ablest men in Washington.
The other important factors have to do with the conditions of the agreement, rather than with personalities. Since the Constitution bars a member of Congress from holding any other office, if the President were disabled the speaker could take over as acting president only after resigning irrevocably from Congress. This would add to the burden of deciding when to step in, and if the disability turned out to be brief the speaker would be paying a big price for doing his duty.

Also significant is the fact that, though next in line, the speaker cannot work as closely with the President as the potential successor should. The separation of the legislative and executive branches of government makes this impossible. The practical result is that the speaker cannot be as well informed about administration policy as a vice president working closely with the president could be.
These conditions, and others, point to the need for reform in our system of presidential succession. The matter should not be dropped again, but should be pursued while it is fresh in the public mind.

Unemployment Figures

Comparing Texas unemployment with the nation's could result in unwarranted complacency if the figures were taken at face value.
Unemployment in this state during the past year has been only slightly more than 4 per cent, against a national unemployment rate around 5½ per cent. In fact, the immediate goal of federal economic policy is to reduce nationwide unemployment to 4 per cent of the labor force, or the level now prevailing in this state according to the Texas Employment Commission.
Texas' relative position is not that good, however, though in some respects its unemployment problem is less acute and intractable than that in older industrialized states hard hit by automation, industrial migration and industrial obsolescence. New-type growth industries do brighten the Texas picture.

However, a closer look behind the job figures no doubt would show that Texas has a serious degree of underemployment, workers in jobs below their potential. That is indicated by Texas' continuing lag well behind the national average in per capita income. The Texas picture is also marred by a high degree of seasonal employment, notably migratory farm workers.
The lower percentage of reported unemployment in Texas may be largely offset by the lower per capita income of underemployment. In any case, it is no cause for complacency regarding the need for accelerated industrialization in this state to provide employment for its rapidly expanding population and to provide income sufficient for generally improved living standards.

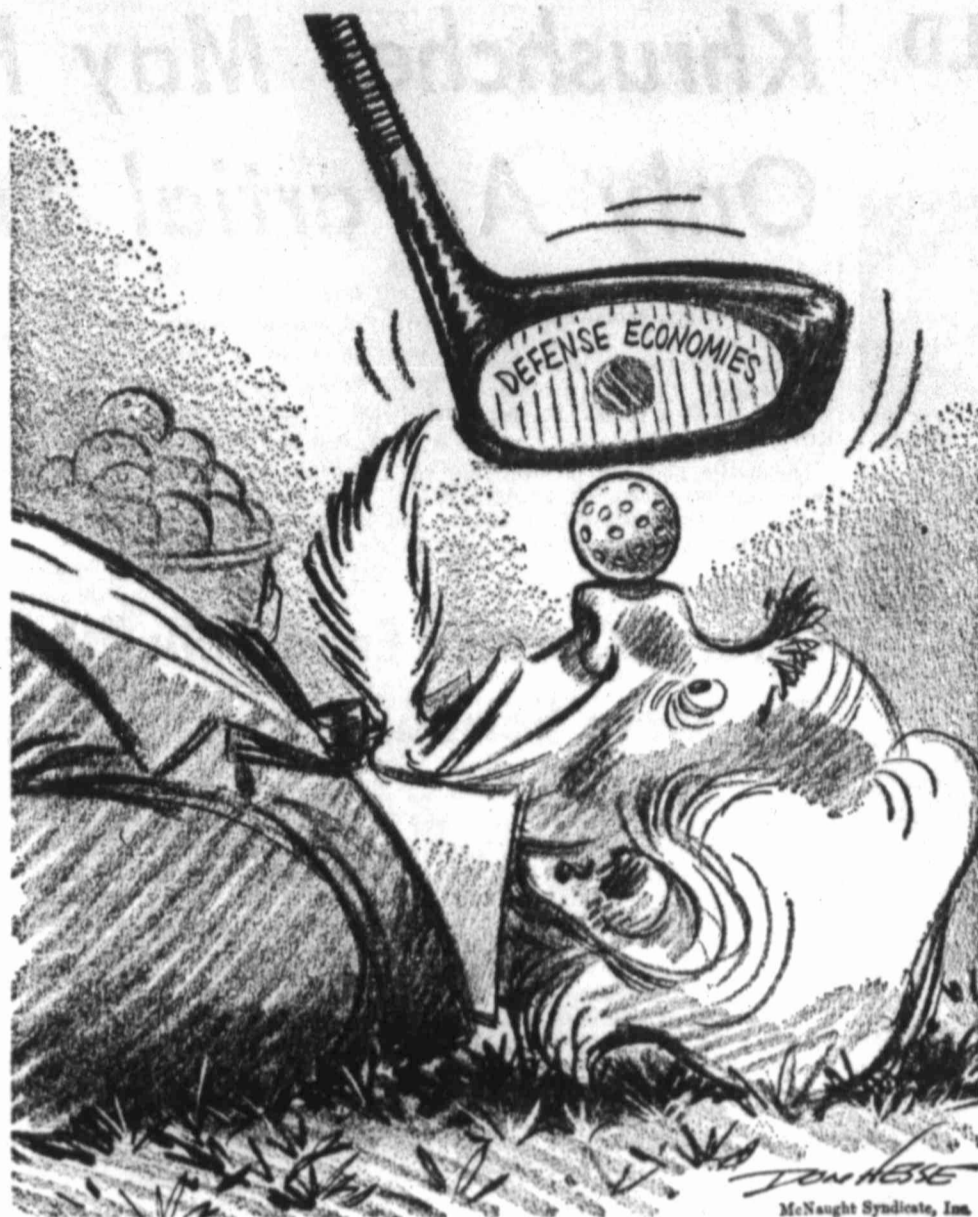

William S. White The President Backs Up McNamara

(Mr. White is writing for Marquis Childs, who is on vacation)
WASHINGTON — To back up a Secretary of Defense he gladly inherited from the Kennedy Administration, President Johnson has taken his first politically dangerous decision.
This is his approval of Secretary Robert McNamara's order for a wholesale closing of nonessential military bases to save $106 million a year. No such deep and wide fall of the economy axe in this sensitive area has occurred since the second World War.
THE CRIES of members of Congress and Senators from districts and states most painfully affected now understandably rend the Washington air. The sweat of worry, moreover, gleams from the brows of some of the Presidents' purely political advisers. These had frankly hoped he would not carry his budget-cutting drive to quite this point, and had urged as much. Their reasons were cogently put; military bases, with the Federal spending they bring to communities and states, are sacred cows in Congress. Worse yet, in this unexampled case of cutting down in 14 states, five of these states—New York, California, Illinois, Texas and Ohio—are also five of the biggest and most critical in electoral votes.
WHY, THEN, did President Johnson allow it, and how does he feel now about things in general—and Secretary McNamara in particular? Far from inept as a practical politician, from being a poignant thing to him to open this first hour of discord in his heretofore warm relationship with Congress. Far from insensitive, he privately does not hide his discomfort that in this episode he has had to anger not merely influential members of Congress but in some cases influential members who are also old personal friends.
AND HE IS not exactly made happy by his awareness that three of the five really big states hit—New York, Illinois and Texas—went Democratic in the last Presidential election and that the fourth and fifth, California and Ohio, are on his "must" list for his own campaign for 1964.

Still, there were, as he sees it, more controlling factors. First when he set out to slim the budget he meant it. Second, he knew that the most rational area for savings is within the military establishment and that this country is dotted with expendable military bases which could be closed without the slightest harm to national security.
THIRD, HE HAD long heard the clamor from Congress that Congress wanted "economy" as the price of approving the Kennedy-Johnson tax-cutting bill. Fourth, and by no means least important, he had, all through the Kennedy Administration, closely observed Secretary McNamara and had formed a deep admiration for his determination to do what was right as he saw it, irrespective of political considerations.
SO, THE NEW President has, indeed, put in his stack with McNamara. He knew it was a calculated risk politically. But he also knew that mere talk about reducing Federal spending would avail him little, with country or Congress. He understands that place, Congress, as few Presidents have ever understood it. Especially he understands all the wistful notions to the contrary, that powerful conservatives ultimately control its tax policies and that when they demand demonstrated economies before they pass a tax bill they mean what they say and are fully capable of proving they mean it.

Billy Graham

I hear you preachers talk as if democracy and Christianity were one and the same. Isn't this mixing politics and religion? U. W. Arnold Toynebe, the British historian, has said: "Democracy is a leaf taken from the book of Christianity." While we recognize that no form of government is perfect because it is contrived and executed by mere men, democracy has elements of Christianity in it.
Take, for example, freedom. God created man free to choose good or evil. Sometimes we get the idea that freedom means we are free to do what we like without suffering the consequences. It is far from that. It means we are free to choose life or death; good or evil; our own way or God's way. There is much that is wrong in a democracy because human nature often makes wrong decisions. But God allowed man the power of choice, and so does democracy.
Next, Christianity believes in the dignity of the individual. Men are to be loved, cared for, helped, given opportunity. Any concept or ethic which degrades the dignity of any man, is wrong. Theoretically, democracy believes in the dignity of the individual. May God grant that we shall always practice it.
And last, democracy believes in the power of the governed to choose those who govern them. So does Christianity. Jesus said: "No man can serve two masters." And, "ye can't serve God and mammon." The power of choice entails great responsibility to choose rightly.

TICKLISH — BUT POSSIBLE

James Marlow House Rudely Ends Johnson's Honeymoon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's honeymoon with Congress, where he served 23 years, has come to a sickening stop. He is faced, after less than a month in office, with the same challenge President John F. Kennedy never mastered.
It's how to get this dawdling Congress, the laziest in at least a generation, to do what he asks. The House didn't give him much time to ponder his dilemma. It has just hit his foreign aid program with a meat ax.
This action, even the timing, was a brutal end to the quiet spell Congress let Johnson have after Kennedy's assassination while he tried to get used to his new job.
JOHNSON may soon reveal whether he's going to follow the Kennedy method of soft talk with Congress, or whether he's capable of a much tougher policy that might get results where Kennedy couldn't.
Just last week the two houses had authorized a ceiling of $3.6 billion for foreign aid, a figure Johnson was willing to accept. Congress finally reached this action after months of wrangling within itself and with Kennedy.
That figure was $1.3 billion less than Kennedy had originally asked and $900 million less than he had finally set as a bottom figure. But the ceiling always winds up less than a president's minimum figure anyway.
SO WATCHING Congress set a spending limit of $3.6 billion was endurable. But the ceiling is only just that. After the ceiling Congress still has to vote the actual money to be spent. And that, in turn, usually winds up less than the ceiling.
This week the House, acting before the Senate, was to vote on the spending money. To try to forestall too big a cut, Johnson called in the greatest antagonist of foreign aid in the House, Rep. Otto E. Passman, Louisiana Democrat.
Passman is chairman of a

To Your Good Health X-Ray Discloses Hiatal Hernia

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: For many years I suffered with my stomach but no one could find out what was wrong. My doctor thought it might be an irritated gall bladder.
Recently he took X-rays and diagnosed it as a hernia. He advised me to stay on a diet. An operation is too dangerous. What should I do?—M. V.
Evidently you have a hiatal hernia, which is easily mistaken for gall bladder distress, an ulcer or the like. X-rays taken so as to make the upper gastrointestinal tract visible will distinguish hiatal hernia.
What happens is this: The gullet or esophagus has to pass through the diaphragm to reach the stomach. If the opening (hiatus) is, or becomes, a little larger than necessary, it is a hiatal hernia.
The upper portion of the stomach can be forced up through the opening, and some digestive juices can reach areas not designed to get along with them peacefully. The result: Pain, gas, crampy feelings, and similar stomach distress.
We have learned from experience that if there is doubt about the cause of stomach trouble, to suspect such a hernia and to take the type of X-rays which show it.
The treatment is conservative, like that for ulcers: Bland diet, efforts to avoid excess tension, little or no alcohol or tobacco, no spices or other irritants. In addition, if the patient is overweight, reducing is very important. This lessens the pressure which forces the stomach upward.
Surgery is required in stubborn cases.
I disagree with the statement that it is "too dangerous," since it is not a particularly perilous operation. It may, for one reason or another, be too dangerous for you, however. Or it may reasonably be that you doctor wants you to give the other type of treatment a fair trial first.
Dear Dr. Molner: What can you tell us about dry skin or "winter itch" that annoys some of us older people?—B. D. M.
Well, sir, I have no magic treatment, but here are some helpful tips.
As we grow older the skin secretions—oils and sweat—diminish. A dry skin tends to itch. Secretions are even less in winter. Besides, heat makes the house drier, so keep the humidifier tanks, if you have any, full of water.

Around The Rim Discovery On The Night Before Christmas

Everytime you make like a smart-alec you lose something.
Like that time, long ago, when I was so determined to find out just why my parents had insisted I spend an hour at a neighbor's house.
I wish I could remember what part of town we lived in at that time. All I recall is that the house was small, three rooms, I think, built in what I have heard called "shot gun" style.
THE KITCHEN, was on the end next to the neighbor's house, to which I was taken on that cold evening. The kitchen in the neighbor's house faced ours. There was a window in the wall of each house. Standing in either of these rooms you could see clearly into the other.
It was Christmas Eve. I wasn't very old nor very smart, but I did not know that. I did know that my dad was working late downtown on these nights and that we ate supper much later than usual.
SOMEHOW in my childish mind, the sudden decision of my mother to take me visiting next door was connected with the date. My young mind conceived I was to be kept out of our house for a specific time.
My mother and the neighbor sat by their stove talking, while I spent my time at the window which faced the window in our kitchen. We had left the kerosene lamp burning on the kitchen table. By pressing my face against the glass and blocking out the room light with my hands I could see the interior of our kitchen fairly well.
I HEARD a buggy stop in front of our house. I thought this would mean we would go right home. I turned to my mother, but she was talking with the neighbor and paid no attention. I returned to the window and glued my face to the pane.

I could see our door which opened out on the street. It swung open, and my father came in. He was carrying a big bag of packages. He dumped the lot on the table where they were illuminated by the rays of the lamp.
I saw some of the items, which were unwrapped. There was an air rifle, for one thing, a toy locomotive for another, and some things I could not identify.
WHAT I SAW was enough to send me out into the yard and across the narrow space to our wall. I stared into the kitchen through the window. The bulk of those alluring packages, I saw, were toys for me. There were also sacks of fruit and candy.
How, I asked myself, could this be? What gifts one received at Christmas, Santa Claus brought. The packages under the bed and in the bottom of the kitchen cabinet, was not Santa Claus. It was my father.
Suddenly illumination came.
SANTA CLAUS did not exist. He was a myth. The real giver of the presents that kids got at Christmas was one's parents.
I was delighted with my discovery. I did not realize that, by my nosiness, I had deprived myself of the thrill of the Christmas legend at an all too tender age.
Like the average person, I lost no time spreading my evil discovery among my playmates. Not all were convinced, but I did sow the seeds of doubt. In time it sprouted and grew until it shattered their dreams, too.

Conventions Without Fireworks?

Until the fatal shot was fired in Dallas on November 22, reporters with any knowledge of politics had anticipated two rip-snorting bare-knuckle national conventions in 1964.
To be honest, all national political conventions are more or less a holy show, only some are more so than others. Sixty-four was expected to be a more-so year. There was always the possibility that an infuriated South would storm out of the Democratic conclave in Atlantic City with a rage that no amount of salt-water taffy could heal.
THERE COULD BE no doubt about the nominee: He would be John F. Kennedy. The cliff-hanger would be provided by the South and whatever form its protest took.
As for the Republicans in San Francisco next summer: It was anticipated that the dead and dying would fill the Cow Palace before the Goldwater-Rockefeller or the conservative vs. liberal fight was finally resolved.
NOW, HOWEVER, it seems highly likely that the conventions will be subdued, if not exactly a feast of reason and a flow of soul. Of course, no one but Nostradamus would care to make winter book on two conventions so many months and political perils distant.
Nonetheless, it is quite possible that by D-Day in Atlantic City, the handwriting on the wall will read "Magnolia Loves Lyndon." If LBJ turns out to be the real Dixie cupcake, a peace that passeth understanding could make the Democratic convention as sweet as sugar. And pretty dull, too.
I HATE to see the fight go out of both conventions. But if the struggle in San Francisco is only to find "the man who" instead of a battle royal between the conservative and liberal wings of the party, then the GOP convention could generate all the excitement of a Cub Scout campfire session, with Sen. Margaret Chase Smith as den mother.

Having steeled myself to the prospect of marching off to war next summer, I am now faced with a probable picnic.
IT SHOULD HAVE surprised no one when former President Eisenhower summoned Henry Cabot Lodge to greatness the other day and told him to line up with any other Republican candidates for the Presidency in '64. Surprised no one, that is, with a political memory.
At the Republican National Convention in 1952, with the late Sen. Robert A. Taft desperately fighting once more for his party's nomination, Thomas E. Dewey brilliantly masterminded the Eisenhower forces. One of Dewey's ablest lieutenants in the Eisenhower campaign strategy was Lodge.

Holmes Alexander Holding Off The Bad Laws

WASHINGTON — As the Congress goes home for Christmas, we should give it a thankful hurrah—not despite its negative record, but because of that record.
THIS SENTIMENT, I confess, flies in the face of much current comment by columnists accounted wise and historical-minded. Walter Lippmann says the 88th Congress is afflicted with the "critical disease of democratic government; namely, the paralysis of the Executive by the elected assembly."
He has a remedy: "Let each house of the Congress pass a rule that any measure proposed by the President and certified as important, must be put to a vote by some specified date or within some specified time."
A NEWSPAPER columnist much senior to Mr. Lippmann saw the matter of legislative delay clearly, and saw it whole. Writing in Federalist paper, Number 73, Alexander Hamilton was brooding on "the mischiefs of the inconstancy and mutability in the laws." He thought that laws, pressured into passage by temporal and incited passions, "form the greatest blemish in the character and genius of our governments." Although he didn't mention the Senate filibuster and the House Rules, Hamilton did come out for "every institution calculated to restrain the excess of law-making." And he did so by stating the following principle:
"THE INJURY that may possibly be done by defeating a few good laws, will be amply compensated by the advantage of preventing a number of bad ones."
Preventing bad laws has become more difficult throughout the years with the increase in political strength of the ravening minorities and the high-priced lobbyists. Even to propose, as Mr. Lippmann does, that Congress should vote, one way or another, on every measure which a President certifies as "important," is to invite bad legislation. For the President, as leader of his party and often as a candidate for re-election, is not a godhead of objectivity. He, and Congress alike, will often prefer that a legislative bill never come to the show-down. Mr. Lippmann tells in anecdote about the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, who was rendered "speechless, by our uncouth American ways of self-government. I'm afraid this example asks for the re-rot that a great many Americans have died for the privilege of not bowing down to foreigners.

NO, THE PROPOSAL of voting at presidential decrees is oversimple, if nothing else. It is like saying that procreation among human beings should be conducted without delicacy, and with the barnyard dispatch of animal reproduction. Without flirtation, without wiles, without intrigue and Love's perjuries, at which Jove smiles, what kind of human enterprise would lawmaking become?
YES, WE'LL have a better Civil Rights bill after Chairman Howard Smith of the House Rules Committee has led his merry chase around the mulberry bush. And despite some scuffling in its tunnel of love, the Tax bill will emerge a riper measure for having dallied with the Senate Finance Committee.
A Congress which has prevented—or even postponed—bad laws has been the people's good and faithful servant.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Clips Clamp Carrot Curls

Dear Heloise:

Over the years when making carrot curls I have used toothpicks to hold the curls in shape while they stand in ice water until ready to use. Perhaps you will agree with me that my new method is far faster, easier, and eliminates the use of toothpicks, which sometimes prove difficult to remove after crisping. I simply shape thinly sliced carrots (which I have cut with my potato peeler) into curls and fasten them with ordinary scalded paper clips! These paper clips come off as easily as they were put on. They form no rust while immersed in the water and can be used over and over again. —Mrs. Adam Bathgate.

HELOISE no rust while immersed in the water and can be used over and over again. —Mrs. Adam Bathgate.

Dear Heloise:

After I had a professional window cleaning company come in and clean my windows, I found that I can save money every six months by making a mixture of two cups of warm water and one ounce of glycerine, dipping a rag in this, wringing it out thoroughly and rubbing it over the panes.

I use this method both on the outside and inside of the windows.

The windows may be polished with either a cloth or cleaning tissue or a crumpled up newspaper, as you say.

The glycerine not only prevents the steam from forming inside the windows but when the rain hits the outside of the window I find that it does not leave marks and streaks.

If you will remember that dust adheres to the outside window pane and when the rain hits it, this is what causes our streaks and dirty marks. The glycerine helps the raindrops slide off easily and they take along with them the soil and dust! — Apartment Owner

Traditional Theme Used For Party

St. Paul Lutheran Parish Workers sponsored the annual adult Christmas party Sunday night in the Education Hall. The hall was decorated with the traditional Christmas tree and other ornaments in keeping with the season.

Committees for the party arrangements were Mrs. Elwyn Runstrom, games; Mrs. Mitchell Vacura, name tags; Mrs. Gilbert Pachall and Mrs. Roger Wright, music; Mrs. Jack Watkins, table decorations. Games were followed by carol singing.

Refreshments were served to 45 from a table covered with green net over white. A Christmas motif was carried out in the giant white candle surrounded by large red Christmas tree balls centering the table. Smaller pieces of similar design were used on either side. During the refreshment hour guests were seated at smaller tables featuring individual centerpieces.

Each guest brought a gift of canned food for the welfare basket, and the program concluded with a solo, "O Holy Night," sung by Mrs. Roger Wright.

Bride-Elect Has Honors At Shower

An informal party honored Miss Dreda Wilson, bride-elect of Delbert Roy Vaughn, Saturday afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock. Guests were received at the home of Miss Darla Moore, 2502 Larry, each bringing gifts of lingerie for the bride.

A small silver Christmas tree, adorned with blue baubles and on a background of white linen, formed the table centerpiece. Refreshments, too, repeated the blue and white theme chosen by Miss Wilson for her wedding. She received a corsage of blue feathered carnations. Some 60 guests were served.

Assisting Miss Moore were the cohostesses, Miss Carolyn Hoover, Mrs. Billy Raspberry, Miss Judy Jones and Miss Martha Thompson.

The couple's wedding is planned for Dec. 27. The bride is a patient at the Memorial Hospital in Midland after undergoing back surgery there.

Position Change Did Much For Appleton

By JACK KEEVER
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A coach's decision and a teammate, says All-America Scott Appleton, are responsible for his being named Monday in an Associated Press poll as the outstanding college football lineman of 1963.

Gordon Roberts is the teammate, and like Appleton, is a senior tackle for Texas, the nation's top-ranked team. The decision Appleton referred to was made in mid-season and it placed the rugged 239-pound Appleton at middle guard as primarily a defensive specialist.

LOOKING 'EM OVER
With Tommy Hart

"It's on defense that lineman gets publicity and wins honors," said Appleton. "I also feel that I help the team more on defense. I never was real outstanding on offense."
His replacement at offensive tackle is Roberts, called "Yankee" by his teammates because he played high school football at West Lafayette, Ind.
"Gordon's a real fine blocker—better than I am—and his play helped me to concentrate primarily on defense," Appleton said.
"I'm thrilled and very proud to win this honor," he added when told of his selection by eight votes over Illinois center Dick Butkus, Nebraska guard Bob Brown was third.
"That's great, just great," said Appleton's Coach Darrell Royal. "I don't think anybody could deserve it more. He really earned it."
It was Appleton's ability to make the big play, especially on defense, that pushed Texas to a 10-0 season and limited opponents to 6.5 points and 80.2 yards rushing per game.
Appleton received 32 votes from a panel of 105 sports writers and sportscasters.
Butkus, a 235-pound junior and key man in Illinois' drive to a Big Ten title and Rose Bowl invitation, got 24.
Brown, agile and quick despite his 269 pounds, was the spark of a Nebraska team that won its first Big Eight championship in 23 years.
The rest of the votes were collected by 25 athletes, with Damon Bane, Southern California guard, being named on three ballots as were Cal Eller, Minnesota tackle; Vern Burke, Oregon State end, and Rick Redman, Washington linebacker.
Those with two votes included Georgia Tech end Billy Martin, Tennessee guard Steve Delong, Pittsburgh tackle Ernie Borggetti and Boston University linebacker Bill Budness.

Rams Turn Back Wharton, 95-79

SAN ANGELO—The San Angelo Junior College Rams, paced by a couple of high scoring guards, ran roughshod over the Wharton Pioneers here Monday night, 95-79, in a game that saw defense almost abandoned in favor of high scoring.
With Alex Decuir pacing all scorers for the contest with 30 while Charles Spieker popped in 19 from the outside, the Rams went ahead to stay with 10 minutes left in the game after blowing an 11 point lead. Thom McNeill was high for the Pioneers with a 25 point effort from his guard slot on the left side.
Wharton tied up the ball game, 62-62, with 11:30 left but then slowly fell behind as three top men fouled out in the crucial stages.
SAN ANGELO—Spieker 8-19; Decuir 11-20; Johnson 4-17; Morton 3-5; Pruitt 2-4; Gues 1-0; Grady 0-4; McNeill 1-0; Hazel 1-0; Johnson 0-0. Totals 95-79.
WHARTON—McKenna 0-2; Mike Kyle 0-0; Thompson 4-1; Mitch Kyle 1-2; Coplin 4-1; Leagy 0-2; Galloway 0-0; McNeill 11-20; Caputo 5-12; Booker 4-10; Smith 3-4. Totals 79-95.
Score by quarters: 27 46 46 95.
Wharton 27 46 46 95.
Rams 46 46 46 95.

League Won't Take Action On Protest

AUSTIN (AP)—There will be no action by the Texas Interscholastic League on charges filed by LaMarque that Pharr-San Juan-Alamo had a Port Arthur coach scout a football workout before the LaMarque-Pharr game last week.
Pharr - San Juan - Alamo won 9-7.
Rhea Williams, athletic director of the Interscholastic League, said:
"There is no basis for any action to be taken since there is no rule against scouting or exchanging of game films. There's no rule against a coach visiting the workout of a team."
"If a team doesn't want an outside coach watching, it is up to the team to prohibit it. It's their responsibility to keep outside coaches away."
Supt. John Townley of Pharr said there was no first scouting the workout in the first place. He declared that no one was sent to scout the workout but that the man—Mack Estes, a junior high school coach from Port Arthur—was sent to LaMarque to get information on LaMarque players.
Townley said he had determined that Estes was at Port Arthur until after 3 p. m. and could not have reached LaMarque in time to scout the workout. He also said Estes went to the dressing room and talked to the LaMarque coach.
Townley declared that this was strictly unauthorized and that if Estes scouted the workout, it was on his own—he had not been told.
"We feel that nothing was done to change the outcome of the ball game," Townley said.
Supt. Dave Williamson of LaMarque filed the protest with the Interscholastic League, charging the Pharr - San Juan - Alamo coach sent a man to scout the workout. He said the man had signed a statement that he had been sent by Coach Charlie Williams of Pharr.
Coach Williams said he had sent Estes to LaMarque to get information on injuries so he would know better how to set his defense.
"I had heard that LaMarque had two boys injured," he explained. "I did not send Estes to LaMarque to scout a workout and he seems to have used poor judgment."

Sun Carnival To Offer Lots Of Entertainment

EL PASO—Geographical location is all important to this far West Texas city for it allows it to use two nations and three states for the entertainment of visitors to the annual Southwestern Sun Carnival. This year Sun Carnival fans get to see Southern Methodist University play the University of Oregon in the Sun Bowl game Dec. 31; and the Sun Bowl basketball tournament pits defending champion Texas Western College against the challenge of Clemson College, Denver and Baylor Universities, on Dec. 28 and Dec. 30.
But fans also get to see old Mexico, a land of Manana and monumental bargains, plus New Mexico, a state where horse racing and pari-mutuel betting are legal.
The third state in this unusual sports bargain is Chihuahua, Mexico, whose principal border city is Juarez, home of the Sun Carnival bullfight on Sunday, Dec. 29. Juarez is only 10 minutes from downtown El Paso and the only requirement for crossing the bridge into old Mexico is to be a U.S. citizen.
The horse racing is also 10 minutes from downtown El Paso.

Lubbock Westerners Topple Longhorns

LUBBOCK—Lubbock High's huge coliseum and held the advantage all the way.
Mike Peters again led the Longhorns in scoring with 12 points. Only other Steer to hit in double figures was Charley West, who had ten.
The Longhorns hit 17 of 44 field goal tries and 19 of 30 from the free throw lines. Lubbock was in command at half time, 39-28.
The Westerners had two boys to hit 20 or more points.
The Big Spring reserves were playing without the services of Paul Thomas, their tall pivot man, who was injured in the Snyder tournament.
Rickey Earle led the Big Spring surge in that outfit, scoring a total of 16 points. Joe Jaure had ten for the losers.
The Steers will be idle until after Christmas, when they regroup to go to Brownwood for the annual Howard Payne tournament. No pairings have yet been released for that meet.

Midland Splits With Rockets

MIDLAND—The Lakeview Rockets journeyed to Midland Carver Monday and came back with only fair results—one win, one loss.
In the eighth grade clash, the Rockets came out on top by 33-20 score, but they weren't as fortunate when it came to the ninth grade—the Midland team triumphed, 52-40.
Tucker led all scorers in the eighth grade contest as he popped in three field goals and four free throws for the locals. He was followed closely by another Rocket—Johnson—who accounted for nine points. Carter led Midland with five points.
In the ninth grade game, each team had one boy in the double figures, with Robinson of Carver leading the parade with 13 tallies. Robert Jackson hit 11 points for the Rockets, but it did no good as the locals trailed from the first quarter on.

Bobcats Tounce Chiefs, 64-36

SAN ANGELO—The San Angelo Bobcats flogged cross-town rival, Lake View, in a basketball exhibition here Monday night, 64-36.
Ronnie Henson led the Cats in scoring with 21 points. A. Z. Drones had 13 for the winners.

Bovines Lose Unbeaten Status In Wichita Game

Texas A&M returned to the win column with a 96-63 triumph over Sam Houston State, tying the school scoring record. It equaled the Aggie output last year in beating Texas Tech 96-83. Bennie Lenox led the barrage with 24 points.
Southern Methodist plays Georgia Tech at Dallas Tuesday night while Texas Tech is host to Oklahoma.
Texas hit at a 36.5 clip from the field, which isn't a large enough average to warrant victory. Wichita was shooting 48 per cent.
The only consolation Texas, which at times was behind by 20 points, had was that it held high-scoring Dave Stallworth of Wichita to 16 points. He had a 30-point average until this game.
Kentucky Wesleyan hit 50 per cent of its shots in whipping Baylor with freshman Mike Redd and Charley Taylor looping in 44 points between them. Winston Moore of Baylor was high man, however, with 25.
Rice knocked Georgia Tech from the unbeaten ranks as Herb Steinkamp hit a 15-foot jump shot to tie the score at 60-60 as time ran out. Then in overtime Rice got 15 points and Tech only 10.

But if it is closed, who did it—Notre Dame or Parseghian?
The strangest episode in coaching has taken place.
The Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, Notre Dame executive vice president, announced Saturday that Northwestern's Parseghian has become the new coach of the Fighting Irish, succeeding Hugh Devore, who was elevated to assistant athletic director.
A news conference Monday for official signings of a four-year contract never materialized.
After a delay of more than two hours, Parseghian appeared from a meeting with Father Joyce. The usual voluble, dynamic 40-year-old coach appeared distraught and shaken.
In a written statement, he said that a story Saturday in the South Bend Tribune naming him as the new Notre Dame coach touched off his decision to agree to the job.
But, he said, the story was premature and came when details of the contract were not fully worked out. Therefore, he wanted a few more days to have it resolved.
With that, and no more elaboration, he left by car for his home near Northwestern University, where he has served as coach for eight years.
All this amounted to a walk-out on final negotiations with Father Joyce, who remained firmly noncommittal on their meeting.

Rookie, Veteran Share Laurels

BOSTON (AP)—Rookie Gary Peters of the Chicago White Sox and veteran Whitely Ford of the New York Yankees, both left-handers, shared American League pitching honors in 1963, the final official averages showed today.
Peters captured the earned run title with a 2.33 average, edging teammate Juan Pizarro, another southpaw, who finished with 2.39. Peters, who had a 19-8 record, is the first rookie to win an AL ERA championship since Gene Bearden of Cleveland in 1948.

League Won't Take Action On Protest

AUSTIN (AP)—There will be no action by the Texas Interscholastic League on charges filed by LaMarque that Pharr-San Juan-Alamo had a Port Arthur coach scout a football workout before the LaMarque-Pharr game last week.
Pharr - San Juan - Alamo won 9-7.
Rhea Williams, athletic director of the Interscholastic League, said:
"There is no basis for any action to be taken since there is no rule against scouting or exchanging of game films. There's no rule against a coach visiting the workout of a team."
"If a team doesn't want an outside coach watching, it is up to the team to prohibit it. It's their responsibility to keep outside coaches away."
Supt. John Townley of Pharr said there was no first scouting the workout in the first place. He declared that no one was sent to scout the workout but that the man—Mack Estes, a junior high school coach from Port Arthur—was sent to LaMarque to get information on LaMarque players.
Townley said he had determined that Estes was at Port Arthur until after 3 p. m. and could not have reached LaMarque in time to scout the workout. He also said Estes went to the dressing room and talked to the LaMarque coach.
Townley declared that this was strictly unauthorized and that if Estes scouted the workout, it was on his own—he had not been told.
"We feel that nothing was done to change the outcome of the ball game," Townley said.
Supt. Dave Williamson of LaMarque filed the protest with the Interscholastic League, charging the Pharr - San Juan - Alamo coach sent a man to scout the workout. He said the man had signed a statement that he had been sent by Coach Charlie Williams of Pharr.
Coach Williams said he had sent Estes to LaMarque to get information on injuries so he would know better how to set his defense.
"I had heard that LaMarque had two boys injured," he explained. "I did not send Estes to LaMarque to scout a workout and he seems to have used poor judgment."

Sun Carnival To Offer Lots Of Entertainment

EL PASO—Geographical location is all important to this far West Texas city for it allows it to use two nations and three states for the entertainment of visitors to the annual Southwestern Sun Carnival. This year Sun Carnival fans get to see Southern Methodist University play the University of Oregon in the Sun Bowl game Dec. 31; and the Sun Bowl basketball tournament pits defending champion Texas Western College against the challenge of Clemson College, Denver and Baylor Universities, on Dec. 28 and Dec. 30.
But fans also get to see old Mexico, a land of Manana and monumental bargains, plus New Mexico, a state where horse racing and pari-mutuel betting are legal.
The third state in this unusual sports bargain is Chihuahua, Mexico, whose principal border city is Juarez, home of the Sun Carnival bullfight on Sunday, Dec. 29. Juarez is only 10 minutes from downtown El Paso and the only requirement for crossing the bridge into old Mexico is to be a U.S. citizen.
The horse racing is also 10 minutes from downtown El Paso.

Midland Splits With Rockets

MIDLAND—The Lakeview Rockets journeyed to Midland Carver Monday and came back with only fair results—one win, one loss.
In the eighth grade clash, the Rockets came out on top by 33-20 score, but they weren't as fortunate when it came to the ninth grade—the Midland team triumphed, 52-40.
Tucker led all scorers in the eighth grade contest as he popped in three field goals and four free throws for the locals. He was followed closely by another Rocket—Johnson—who accounted for nine points. Carter led Midland with five points.
In the ninth grade game, each team had one boy in the double figures, with Robinson of Carver leading the parade with 13 tallies. Robert Jackson hit 11 points for the Rockets, but it did no good as the locals trailed from the first quarter on.

Bobcats Tounce Chiefs, 64-36

SAN ANGELO—The San Angelo Bobcats flogged cross-town rival, Lake View, in a basketball exhibition here Monday night, 64-36.
Ronnie Henson led the Cats in scoring with 21 points. A. Z. Drones had 13 for the winners.

Bovines Lose Unbeaten Status In Wichita Game

Texas A&M returned to the win column with a 96-63 triumph over Sam Houston State, tying the school scoring record. It equaled the Aggie output last year in beating Texas Tech 96-83. Bennie Lenox led the barrage with 24 points.
Southern Methodist plays Georgia Tech at Dallas Tuesday night while Texas Tech is host to Oklahoma.
Texas hit at a 36.5 clip from the field, which isn't a large enough average to warrant victory. Wichita was shooting 48 per cent.
The only consolation Texas, which at times was behind by 20 points, had was that it held high-scoring Dave Stallworth of Wichita to 16 points. He had a 30-point average until this game.
Kentucky Wesleyan hit 50 per cent of its shots in whipping Baylor with freshman Mike Redd and Charley Taylor looping in 44 points between them. Winston Moore of Baylor was high man, however, with 25.
Rice knocked Georgia Tech from the unbeaten ranks as Herb Steinkamp hit a 15-foot jump shot to tie the score at 60-60 as time ran out. Then in overtime Rice got 15 points and Tech only 10.

Hawks Challenge Lubbock Christian

By PAT WASHBURN
The rapidly improving Howard County Junior College Jayhawks, popping the net at a respectable 80.5 points a game, journey to Lubbock today to open their quest for a Western Conference title against Lubbock Christian College.

Hawks should win according to Turner "if they just play their own game."
For the Pioneers, they will be facing an uphill battle if past games are any reference. So far the opponents of the Jayhawks have been managing only 72.3 points a game, and that's eight points less than Buddy Travis' charges, which now incidentally sport a handsome 5-2 won-lost record. And what looks even more impressive—the Hawks have now won their last four contests after dropping two of their first three games in a tough pre-season tourney in Kansas.

Tom Carter, a 6'3" forward from Hobbs, N. M., is currently leading the Jayhawks in the locals last outing for 24 points slammed in the bucket—that gives him a total of 92 for the season.
But four other lads are popping the hoop with some amount of regularity—and this makes Travis happy. Terry Williams has 83, Charles Cumber numbers 80, Eddy Nelson shows 77, and Dick Ebling lists 72.

HC's Top Scorer

Leading scorer on the HCJC Jayhawk basketball team is Thomas Carter, a freshman from Hobbs, N.M., pictured here in the act of shooting the ball in a recent game. Carter has a total of 92 points in seven games and has come on fast in recent games. (Photo by Jimmy Townes)

Coahoma Hogs Star Laurels

GARDEN CITY — With Coahoma taking both the boys and girls ends of the Garden City Invitational Basketball Tournament here Saturday night, as it defeated two crews from Garden City, the all-tournament teams were named with the Bulldogs dominating the picks.

In the boys' division, Hayden Norris of Coahoma was named to the Most Valuable Boy position. Other players on the all-tournament squad were: Ray Gaines, Coahoma; Porter, Garden City; Vernon Newsum, Garden City; Rodriguez, Barnhart; and Williams, Lake View.
In the girls' bracket, Judy Hirt, Garden City, was named the Most Valuable Forward while Gina Williams, Coahoma, was selected the Most Valuable Guard.

Forwards on the squad were: Zula Tomlinson, Lake View; Brenda Jacob, Garden City; and Sandy Clanton, Coahoma.
In the guards class: Sharon Jacob, Garden City; Shirlene Richters, Coahoma; and Barbara Durham, Sterling City.

Lamar Defeats Runnels' Fives

SNYDER—Snyder Lamar defeated Big Spring Runnels in both ends of a basketball doubleheader here Monday night.
The eighth graders scored a relatively easy 43-20 victory but the ninth graders had to come from behind to win, 51-49.

The difference in the ninth grade contest came at the free throw line. Runnels outshot the Lamar team from the field, 20 field goals to 17.
Avel Ramirez and Gary Rogers each tossed in 10 points for the Yearlings. Top scorer, however, was James Carver, with 16 points and the Yearlings led until he fouled out.
The ninth grade Yearlings now have a 1-4 won-lost record and return to play against the Big Spring Sophomores at Runnels Wednesday.

Charley Tubb counted nine points and Danny Clendenin seven for Runnels in the eighth grade engagement. The loss was the first for Runnels in five assignments.
Ninth graders: Runnels 5-10; Rogers 5-10; Lamar 1-1; Taylor 4-10; Zepeda 2-3; Hernandez 0-0; Tolson 20-22; Lamar 1-1; Tolson 18-10; Golden 3-4-4; Jones 2-15; Stokes 4-10; Golden 5-3-6; Parsons 6-12; Tolson 17-11.

When asked about a starting lineup, Travis was hesitant. He ripped off the names of eight boys—the starters will come from them.
Seeing a lot of action will be Carter, Nelson, Cumber, and Jim Oldham. The four have been hauling in approximately 40 rebounds a game between them. Terry Williams, a first guard, will be joining them and seeing a lot of action. Also listed as possibilities to take the hardwoods when the opening tip-off goes into the air are Bob Smith, Keith Bond, and Keith McKeever.

Houston Votes To Alter Site

HOUSTON (AP)—Next year's 150,000 Houston Golf Classic will be played at Sharpstown country club instead of the city's Memorial Park, where the tournament has been held for 13 years.
Directors of the Houston Golf Association voted Monday night to change the site. Ford Lackey, president, said the over-all facilities and the fact that the association would share concessions revenue at Sharpstown prompted the decision.

Curtis Can Set Unusual Record

If Garland should win the Class AAAA championship Saturday it would give Coach Chuck Curtis one of the finest records in Texas schoolboy football history.

It also would be the first time for a coach to win the state championship two years in a row—in two different classes.

And Garland is rated an even chance of beating Corpus Christi Miller at Austin Saturday to bring Curtis his unique record.

Curtis, the old Texas Christian quarterback, was at Jacksboro three years before coming to Garland. Last year he won the Class AA championship with a 12-0 record.

Now he's shooting for the AAAA title with a team that has a 12-0-1 record.

In the past four years Curtis has compiled a record of 49-2-1. In the last two years it is 27-0-1.

Curtis isn't the only coach to have won a championship before. Pete Ragus, coach of Miller, won the championship in 1960.

Class AAA matches undefeated, unlied Corsicana with Pharr-San Juan-Alamo for the championship at Victoria Saturday. Corsicana is a former champion but it happened 31 years ago. Pharr-San Juan-Alamo was runner-up to Dumas last year.

In Class AA Rockwall meets John Foster Dulles at Waco Saturday for the title.

In Class A it's Petersburg vs. George West at Lubbock Saturday night.

The victory was Golliad's third in five assignments this season. The Mavs go to Big Spring Lakeview Thursday for a game.

In the eighth grade game, the locals didn't fare so well as Snyder Travis, led by the 15 point scoring effort of Tovar, coasted to an easy 47-20 victory. Bartlett led the Mavericks with seven points.

Squads Will Play Basketball Game

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP)—Pan American and Emporia (Kan.) State, winners in the first round, clash tonight in the Pan American College basketball doubleheader.

Trull Likely To Shatter Bowl's Passing Records

HOUSTON (AP)—Baylor's Don Trull probably could smash Bluebonnet Bowl passing records with just an average day Saturday.

The collegiate passing champion, who will guide the Bears against Louisiana State in the annual football classic, has averaged 30.8 passes per game in 10 contests this year. He has completed 17.4 for a per game average of 215.7 yards.

The most passes thrown by a team in the four previous Bluebonnet bowls were the 20 Rice recorded against Kansas two years ago. Rice quarterback Randy Kerbow, now with the American Football League Houston Oilers, threw 18, completed 10 and gained 156 yards—all Bluebonnet records.

Trull's favorite receiver, Lawrence Elkins, could set some records of his own. Elkins has averaged catching seven per game for an average 87.3 yards.

Jack Collins of Texas and Johnny Burrell of Rice, each with four receptions, are co-holders of this Bluebonnet record. Clemson's Gary Barnes, who gained 68 yards in pass receiving in the first Bluebonnet game, holds the yardage record.

Trull set three national records during the season. He had the most passes completed with 174, the most yardage by passing of 2,157, and handled the ball more than any other player as he was involved in 406 plays.

Trull will be facing Billy Ezell, LSU's little quarterback who can come up with a superhuman effort when it counts.

His statistics are rather unimpressive. He carried the ball 68 times for a net gain of 184 yards—a 2.7 clip. He completed 14 of 43 passes for 151 yards and one touchdown. His longest season toss was a 26-yarder.

He admits he can't pass, but in losing 7-6 to Mississippi State Ezell tossed a series of short ones to drive the Tigers more than 50 yards for a touchdown in the last minute.

Trull's credentials have helped mark the Bears as slight favorites. But that means little in the Bluebonnet Bowl. In the four previous games, the favorite has lost.

Gray Skies, Chill Holds Weather Picture In State

By The Associated Press
Gray skies and chilly weather lingered everywhere in Texas except a spot or two near the fringes Tuesday.

It was cloudless only at Dalhart and El Paso, and both were frostbitten. Thermometers slumped to 16 degrees at Dalhart before dawn, then started back up.

Readings ranged up to the middle 40s at the same hour in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, which was the warmest area in the state.

For a second straight morning a drizzle froze as it fell at Lubbock on the South Plains and westward toward Hobbs, N. M.

Farther south in West Texas there was a mixture of fog and drizzle at Big Spring, Midland and Wink, where the mercury held slightly above freezing before daybreak.

Light rain also dampened Laredo on the Mexican border.

The Weather Bureau has predicted little change in the state-wide weather picture most of week.

Opening lead: Five of ♠ Today's hand came to light at a recent tournament where it underwent a variety of treatment from the various contestants who encountered it.

The final contract usually reached by North and South was six hearts. Where West led an offsuit, declarer succeeded in winning all the tricks. The two small spades were ruffed with the deuce and ten of hearts, the ten of clubs was discarded on dummy's high diamond and, when East's lone jack of hearts fell under the king, South returned to his hand with a club and drew the rest of the trumps with relative ease.

At one table, the bidding proceeded as indicated in the diagram. When South found that his side possessed every ace and king, he decided to go all the way to seven hearts. With no attractive lead in sight, West elected to open a trump which had a most unusual effect. Not knowing where the jack was located, South played small from the dummy and East's jack forced out the queen. Declarer ruffed out his losing spade with the ten and king of hearts but, when he attempted to draw trumps subsequently, he found that West had a heart trick.

Had South guessed to go up with the king of hearts from dummy at trick one, he would have made the contract, for he would have been able to retain the ace, queen and nine of hearts in his hand to draw West's remaining trumps.

Our quarrel is not with him on this account, however. It is with South's conduct during the auction that we would take issue. His assumption that the trump holding was solid was unwarranted, and instead of plunging headlong into a Blackwood inquiry he should have engaged in further exchange of information with North via a series of cue bids.

When North first shows trump support by his call of three hearts South may try for outer space by bidding four clubs to designate the ace of that suit. North will presumably rebid his diamonds which may serve as a mild warning that there may be doubt as to the quality of the heart support.

If South is inclined to make another try he may now show either the ace of spades or the king of clubs. If North merely returns to five hearts, South has the option of pulling in his horns and resting confident with a small slam effort.
