GOP Chairman Has 'Turned Corner'

FORT WORTH—(AP)—Guy George Gabrielson, Republican national committee chairman, says the GOP has "turned the corner." Gabrielson, principal speaker at a

Lincoln Day dinner here Wednesday night, said the Republicans are beginning to fight on a "precinct More than 400 Texas Republicans attended the dinner. "I think we've turned the corner -we sort of had a case of 'pollitis' in 1948." Gabrielson said.

"We've reversed that now. We are at the point where we are starting to win some congressional elections. he said, referring to a GOP candidate's victory in Massachusetts Tuesday.

Gabrielson criticized the Truman Administration, saying there is "dishonest thinking in high places." He questioned keeping Secretary of State Acheson in the cabinet after Acheson's declaration that he would not turn his back on Alger Hiss. "It is just against belief to me that any President of the United States would allow a man to serve in his cabinet who stood behind a man duly convicted as Alger Hiss was convicted in court," he said.

The government gets rid of surplus potatoes in several ways: It gives them to school lufich programs, foreign and Momestie relief agencies and government units which may rade them for strategic materials needed in this country. t also sells potatoes at bargain prices to exporters, to alconoi manufacturers and livestock producers (for food).

Iritis, Serious Eye Disease, Should Be Diagnosed At Once

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

Iritis is a disease of the eves Its principal symptoms consist of pain, watering of the eyes, excessive sensitivity to bright light and if long continued, interference with vision. The pain is likely to be severe and worse at night. Touching or pressing the eyeball is ex-truciatingly painful. In acute iritis the symptoms tend to be worse than in the chronic variety, but recovery usually comes more rapidly—perhaps in a few When proper treatment is begun early the iritis can clear up completely, but complications and the possibility of chronic inflammation are unfortunate possibilities.

Several different conditions can cause either the acute or chronic type of iritis. Īritis is sometimes associated with rheumatism, diaetes, tuberculsosis, syphilis, or injury. It is most important that the cause of the iritis be discovered whenever possible. However, unfortunately in some cases no cause whatever can be found.

The disease or condition producing the inflammation of the iris must be treated as well as the eye itself. The search for infection of other disease elsewhere in the body must be carried out painstakingly and thoroughly. Protein Therapy

The eye itself requires highly skilled trestment, including the use of drugs, heat applied locally, rest and protection from light. Sometimes a method called foreign protein therapy has been found helpful in iritis. This consists in inject-

We wonder how the Fire Department could have managed without the able assistance of Moe Price and Dick Monroe who held the "life net." The "net", we might add, was Moe's handkerchief. The comical sight of the boys holding the handkerchief under the ladder was enough to cause a traffic jam! Several people just stopped in the middle of the street and stared! Modern Man Lommunes With Nature

NEW YORK-(A)-Pity the modern city man roughing it, say, in the wilds of the north woods. He knows nothing about the whims or demands of nature. All his fife has been spent in a comfortable apartment with everything provided. Now, he's alone in the woods, this pale, unresourceful man with no talent for living out-

Will he make it? Well, just grant him one concession. Give him the latest gadgets which are provided by thoughtful outfitters for campers, hunters, ex-

So, our modern city man, name of Herbert, is trudging along the trail, alone, nervous and laden with equipment. The wind comes up. He removes a compact pocket heater from his knapsack. It works with chemicals, gives off no flame. Our hero warms the inside of his gloves and then his ankles inside his

Herbert Gets Thirsty But alas, our boy gets thirsty. Foolish Herbert, he didn't bring any water. He stumbles onto a stream. Is it safe to drink? Can he tell? He can't. So ne digs into a pocket for his small water filter attached to a long tube. He drops the filter into the water and drinks without worrying about impurities. Dusk falls. Our hero decides its time to pitch camp. He unfolds and sets up his compact, six-pound, bug-proof, wind-proof, sun glareproof tent.

It's going to be real cold tonight, Herbert decides. So he sets up a smaller, more compact tent inside the larger tent. He cuts some wood with his lit tle axe and carries it back in a compact, canvass wood carrier. Notice. he doesn't get kindling wood. He doesn't need it. Instead, he pulls out some small cubes of synthetic kindling, lights them with his windproof lighter and the flame leaps up. No odor, no smoke. Refreshed, But Hungry

What he needs now is a bath. First, a compact, four - pound cooker-heater quickly warms up the tent. Then a collapsible canvas water bucket used to carry water from the stream to the tent where Herbert has set up his collapsible canvas bath tub.

Refreshed but hungry, Herbert then unloads his compact, easy-tocarry, easy - to - cook dehydrated foods and with a few simple directions has himself a meal of broth powdered scrambled eggs, diced potatoes, spinach and coffee.

He lights his pipe, reaches into his oil refrigerator for some ice cubes and mixes a highball. He settles back in his light, compact folding chair. His eyelids grow heavy. He unzips his 100 per cent pure down sleeping robe. He sets his small, pocket alarm

Slowly, in complete peace, our hero closes his eyes. But he can't sleep. There's no noise. So he turns on his small, compact portable radio. Now he sleeps. Herbert's at home in the woods

"rerils of Pauline" included indians— a number one movie peril. Pauline also encountered quicksand, high cliffs, trap doors, vicious animals, fire, flood, earthquakes and assorted super-natural horrors. The movie serial, with adventures parceled out one blood-curdling episode a week, began in 1913 when movies were very young. Pearl White, the Pauline of the "Perils," was the undisputed queen of these "cliff-hanger" movies. The end of each week's episode found her on the brink of catastrophe—so far gone, in fact, that the whole thing looked hopeless. Nothing could stop your coming back next week to find out how in the world the heroine escaped fates worse than death. Today's counterparts of cliff-hanging Pauline are as near as your neighborhood movie.
