Midland Indians Slated For Two Workouts Daily

Majority Of Players In Camp; Rookie Crop Good

The Midland Indians went to work in earnest Saturday morning, and two drills per day will be held until the exhibition season opens, Owner-Manager Harold Webb said.

Webb announced workouts will be held from 10 a. m. to noon and from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m., except Sundays. No morning workout will be held on Sunday, offering all players an opportunity to attend church services.

The Sunday workout is scheduled from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m.

The fruits of Webb's search in the Florida training camps have started to show up and most of them are good looking boys.

Donald D. Hines and John Singleton, rookie pitchers, picked up in Florida, have reported. Both are right-handers.

George Firmback, Tommy Schoolcraft and Quinten Basco, all rookies have reported. They will battle for infield positions in Spring training. All of them can play second base or shortstop, according to Webb.

Lawrence Black and Charles Stephenson are new outfielders in camp. They are two of the best looking prospects to report so far.

Veterans Report

Ernie Nelson, Jim Prince, Ralph Blair, Pat Lorenzo and Lou Dawson went in at Saturday's limbering-up drill. All are holdovers from last season.

Nelson, Prince and Blair are class men while Lorenzo and Dawson are limited service players.

Webb still has high hopes for the return of Kenny Jones by Borger of the West Texas-New Mexico League. He has been the Indians' regular catcher the last two seasons and was the most popular ball player of the entire squad.

Stephenson, a catcher-outfielder, is the only backstop now owned by the Indians.

Prospects Good

Webb, always optimistic in the game of baseball, says his club, as it now stands, is the best he ever had this early. He thinks a lot of his pitching staff and is thankful for the return of Jim Prince, the heavy-hitting first baseman.

Harold Werne, limited service pitcher, and LeRoy Jarl, rookie hurler, are expected to strengthen the pitching corps. Both have signed contracts and are in the fold.

Webb said infield, hitting and base-running sessions will be held Sunday afternoon. He ordered only light drills Saturday, giving the boys a chance to limber up.

The first exhibition game is scheduled in Borger April 2 and five other training tilts will follow before the Longhorn League season opens April 11.

The Indians will play Oklahoma City, Odessa, Borger and Albuquerque, N. M., here. They have road games with Borger and Odessa.

$1,000 PER DAY—

Joe Louis Quits Ring For Circus

WACO — (AP)—Joe Louis said here Saturday night he would not return to the ring but instead has signed a contract to tour Canada for a circus.

Winding up an exhibition tour in America, the former world's heavyweight champion who retired March 1, 1948, after beating Joe Walcott, announced he would go with the Dailey Brothers Circus at a minimum of $1,000 per day.

He will be with the circus 94 days starting May 24.

Before going with the circus, however, he will go to South America for an exhibition tour of ten bouts.

Louis, in a statement to reporters, thanked the public and press for their support in his ring career.

Louis said he did not necessarily want to fight Ezzard Charles, the current champion, and that "they couldn't pay me what I would want to do it anyway. I would want 35 per cent and since there is only 60 per cent for the fighters in a bout, the champion would have to take less than the challenger."

Too Much Training
Louis said the main obstacle in the way of a title fight would be "all this training routine to get into shape."

Louis came here from Austin, where he had conferred with Dailey Brothers Circus.

His announcement was made at a Waco negro tourist court and was read by his manager, Marshall Miles.

Miles said Louis had taken the step after due consideration by himself, Miles, and Manny Seamon, Louis' trainer.

Joe's tour of South America will begin in about ten days. He already has booked four exhibitions in Brazil and others are being arranged.

The 35-year-old boxer said he would fight no more exhibition bouts after this year—that he was quitting for good. He said he would referee boxing and wrestling matches.

His tour with the circus will run from May 24 until August 10. Louis will appear in a matinee act, working six days a week. He said he would show the tactics of boxing, etc.

Louis explained he was being guaranteed $1,000 a day and would get all over that amount which his appearance in the circus might draw.

Half-Brother Of Irish Plow Horse Wins Steeplechase

AINTREE, ENGLAND — (AP)—Freebooter, a half brother of an Irish plow horse, won the Grand National Steeplechase Saturday, smashing a 23-year jinx on favorites. Never worse than third, the coffee-colored gelding breezed home in the brilliant sunshine 15 lengths ahead of Wot No Sun. Action Major was third, another five lengths back in the field of 49 starters.

The favorite's triumph thrilled a crowd of 300,000 including the royal family.

It was the first time the king and queen attended since 1937 and the gay thousands gave them a tumultuous welcome, along with the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret, and the Duchess of Kent. She is the king's widowed sister-in-law.

Monaveen, jointly owned by the queen and Princess Elizabeth finished fifth behind Rowland Roy after leading in the early stages. The royal entry, which had been leading in the early stages was the sentimental choice of thousands of British housewives with only a shilling or two to risk.

Verda T. Smith, freshman star of the Los Angeles Rams, won the National Football League punt return championship in 1948.

Three Champions To Defend Titles In Texas Relays

AUSTIN—(P)—Three teams that won six of the seven relays in last year's Texas Relays will be back this year to defend their titles. They are Texas A&M, Kansas and Oklahoma A&M.

Saturday, the relays had 726 entries from 70 institutions in four divisions.

Last year's relays attracted 1,194 athletes from 123 institutions. The twenty-chip annual running of the big track and field carnival set for next Friday and Saturday is expected to attract that many, or more.

Oklahoma A&M will defend titles in the sprint medley, 880-yard and two-mile relays. Kansas won the distance medley and four-mile relays last year while Texas A&M took the mile baton-pasting event. The only other team to win a relay was the University of Oklahoma, in the 400. An entry has not been received from Oklahoma, but the Sooners are expected to enter.

Few Records In Danger
Few relay records appear to be in great danger this year.

Entries in the pole vault field are expected to attract at least four who have bettered 14 feet. Oregon's George Rasmussen, who set a new record last year with a leap of 14 feet, 2 1/4 inches, may not return to defend his title.

Bill Carroll of Oklahoma already is entered and Bob Smith of San Diego State, Leonard Keil of Nebraska and Paul Faulkner of Abilene Christian College are expected.

With Charley Parker of Texas, Paul Biens of Tulane, Arthur Brown of Rice and Eugene Carter of Howard Payne running the 100, competition could lead to a 9.4 record—equaling performance. Parker has run the 100 in 9.4 once this season.

George Kaders, who will be trying to place in the discus throw for a fifth straight year, is reported to have reached 170 feet in practice and twice has bettered 165 in meets this year.

Fortune Gordien of Minnesota set the current discus record with a throw of 172 feet, 5 1/4 inches in 1948.

The American Legion held on to its one-game lead in the Civic Bowling League last week by winning two games from the Wranglers.

Plan To Attend International Meet Of Kiwanis Clubs

Two members of the Midland Kiwanis club are to attend the thirty-fifth annual convention of Kiwanis International May 7 to May 11 at Miami, Fla. Albert Kelley, president of the Midland club, and J. T. Baker have announced their intentions to attend.

Kelley said a majority of Kiwanis clubs in the United States, the U. S. Canada, Alaska, Hawaii and the Yukon Territory will be represented at the convention. Registration for the five-day assembly is expected to be more than 10,000.

Among the nationally known figures on the program are Paul J. Hoffman, administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration, and Rep. Walter H. Judd of Minneapolis, former Chinese medical missionary and one of the outstanding speakers in the Congress.

Other Speakers
Members who will speak at the convention are: Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson; General Carlos F. Romulo, president of the general assembly of the United Nations; James M. (Jimmy) Pflieger, Hollywood radio commentator; the Rev. Marshall R. Reed, bishop of the Methodist church in the Detroit area; John Fisher of Toronto, widely known Canadian newspaperman; and J. Hugh Jackson, dean of the graduate school of business at Stanford University and president of Kiwanis International.

One of the highlights of the convention program will be the traditional "Main Feature Entertainment" to be held May 10 in the Orange Bowl. This outdoor pageant will bring together many of the South's most spectacular bands and orchestras. The production will be climaxed by a stunt-trill exhibition and a gigantic fireworks exhibition. The public is to be invited, and a crowd of 50,000 is expected for the show, Kelley said.

One Week Remains To Buy Licenses Without Penalty
The lines were beginning to form at the county tax assessor-collector's office Saturday.

With only one week remaining to purchase 1950 license plates before the penalty deadline, motor vehicle owners were flocking to the courthouse.

Speed, tax assessor-collector, said next Saturday, April 1, his office will be open all day to take care of the late crowd. "However," he said, "people shouldn't wait until that day because any sort of technicality could prevent their registering their automobiles in one day."

Speed estimates more than 10,000 automobiles will be registered in Midland County this year. A 20 percent penalty will be assessed on all late registrations.

Eagles Boost Lions' Band 'On To Chicago' Fund

Edward Jones, president of the Midland Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, presents a check for $200 to Duke Jimerson, director of the Midland Lions Club International Convention Band, as a contribution to the band's "On-to-Chicago" fund. Pictured, left to right, are John Biggs, Jimerson, C. A. Churchill, all members of the Lions orchestra, Jones, J. W. Leftwich, Eagles' secretary, and Mac Richards, a trustee of the fraternal organization. A campaign now is being conducted to obtain funds to send the Lions Band to Lions International convention in Chicago in July. Jones told the Lions Club representatives the Eagles will do more than any other club or lodge in providing funds to finance the trip.

Absolute Atomic Security Cost Placed At 300 Billions By Civilian Defense Director

WASHINGTON—(P)—Congress was told Saturday if the United States tried to achieve absolute security against atomic attack it would have to spend more than 300 billion dollars and become a garrison state.

This analysis of civilian defense against A-bombs was given the Senate-House Atomic Committee by Paul J. Larsen, director of the Office of Civilian Mobilization in the National Security Resources Board.

Larsen said in testimony given in closed session March 23 and made public by the committee Saturday that perfect security against atomic attack "obviously is not possible."

"Nor is an attempt to achieve absolute security desirable under present conditions unless we are willing to become a garrison state," he said.

From Security Angle
He said that, looking at the problem from a security standpoint alone, the solution might appear to be compulsory dispersion of people and of industry, but he added:

"The dollars and cents cost of decentralizing some 300 cities in the United States having population of 50,000 or more would probably be in the neighborhood of $300,000,000,000."

"The social and political costs of such decentralization might put an end to democracy as we know it. To accomplish such a program of compulsory dispersion we would have to be willing to become a garrison state."

He added that "if too much of our national effort is expended for military and civil defense purposes, the very liberties we are trying to make secure will themselves be endangered."

Conceding that this country isn't ready for an atomic attack, Larsen said civilian defense planning must be done at the community level, with the federal government standing ready to aid in case of an onslaught.

William A. Gill, coordinator of the NSRB's civil defense planning, disclosed arrangements are underfoot to link this country's defenses with those of Canada.

KERMIT—Five candidates to fill two vacancies on the Kermit School Board had filed at the deadline last week. Two board members whose terms expire, Floyd Ledbetter and Atkin Cook, filed for reelection. The three new contenders are McKinley Spruill, J. M. Lipham and W. T. Wilson. The election is to be held April 1. Holdover trustees are Steve Neely, Jim Waddell, Wayne Adams, Elmo Glass and Percy Shands.

Under provisions of the Gilmer-Aiken Law, an election of a county school board is necessary this year in Winkler County. The election is set April 1, with only one candidate registered for each position. Candidates are: Elbert Medlin, trustee at large; John H. Moore, Precinct 1; C. D. Hubbard, Precinct 2; W. D. Cameron, Precinct 3, and W. B. McCargo, Precinct 4.

With the population of Winkler County estimated at more than 10,000 for the first time in history, the county is to have a county tax assessor-collector. Filed for the new office is John H. Walker, a resident of the county for 15 years.

Two city commissioners and a mayor will be elected by Kermit voters April 4 to serve for the next two years. Joe Arledge is unopposed for mayor. Three candidates are seeking the two commissioner openings. They are H. A. Coulter, Cecil Atwood and Jim Gamble. Coulter and Atwood are seeking reelection.

The THIRD Factor

Everyone interested in buying a new home is sure to check two vital factors involved in the construction. Materials are examined for top quality, and the craftsmanship that goes into a structure must be of the best in order to assure the prospective buyer that he is getting his money's worth.

But there is another factor . . . equally as important as labor and materials. The INTEGRITY of the builder of your new home must be of the best, too, if your home is to prove to be all you've dreamed of. Be sure to check the reputation and integrity of your builder . . . the THIRD factor!

Final reports from the recent Spring style show, which the Women's Auxiliary to the Midland Memorial Hospital sponsored as its first benefit project, were made at the auxiliary's March meeting Friday morning in KCB's studio.

She showed the net proceeds totaled approximately $2,000.

Mrs. L. W. Sager, auxiliary president, and Mrs. Milton J. Loring, who was coordinator for the style show, expressed appreciation for the cooperation of all the members and other individuals and business firms in Midland assisting with the show.

Another benefit project is being discussed, Mrs. Loring reported for the Ways and Means Committee.

Announcement was made that P. R. Overton, attorney for the Texas State Medical Association, will speak on the subject, "Organization and Management of Hospital Staffs and Auxiliaries" in a program which will be open to the public as a part of the meeting Tuesday of the Second District Medical Society.

Sacred Cantata Will Start Easter Music

Music of the Easter season will start in Midland churches with a cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ," to be sung by the choir of the First Presbyterian Church Sunday night. The service will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the church sanctuary.

They are: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do," "Verily, thou shalt be in paradise today with me. Amen, so I tell thee," "See, O woman! here behead thy Son beloved," "God, my Father, why hast Thou forsaken me?" "I am athirst," "Father, into Thy hands I commend my soul" and "It is finished."

Midland Service League Starts Second Year With Good Record

With 1,370 hours of recorded community service, and as many hours of which no record has been kept, Midland Service League members completed their first year of work last week.

The 1,370 hours are a total of the work done in the last six months, since the group adopted the hour system of records. No record has been kept of the services done during the League's first six months of activity.

This six months total averages 31.8 hours for each of the 43 contributing members, who participated in services under 10 general project headings.

At the first meeting of the league's second year, Mrs. Tom Sealy was installed as president to succeed Mrs. Paxton Howard, who became projects chairman. Yearly reports were heard, other officers installed and committee chairmen named.

Other Leagues

The Midland Service League was organized in March, 1949. Of the 28 charter members, 15 had been members of Junior Leagues in other cities and 13 were Midland women interested in community welfare and service.

Because the idea of a service group of this type was new in Midland, Service League members began by studying the city and its welfare needs. This study included visits to various social service agencies and talks by agency representatives.

These were Mrs. Mary J. Johnson of the Aid to the Aged, Blind and Dependent Children Bureau; Mrs. Willie Harding of the Child Welfare office; Mrs. Linnie Davidson of the Midland Tuberculosis Association, and Mrs. John M. Hills of the Children's Service League.

Garden Clubs Plan Convention Program

Entertainment for visitors from 58 West Texas counties, who will be here April 14 and 15 for the annual Spring convention of District One, Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., has been planned by women of the six garden clubs in Midland who will be hostesses.

Mrs. W. C. Windsor of Tyler, state president, will be a special guest and will speak at the first general session the morning of April 14. Don D. King of Lubbock, a landscape architect, and Mrs. Claude Keeton of Lubbock, an expert in making corsages and floral pieces are to be other speakers.

Mrs. J. D. Dillard, chairman of the Midland Council of Garden Clubs and general chairman of convention arrangements, has announced that entertainment for the delegates and visiting club members will start with a pre-convention garden pilgrimage and an informal buffet supper the night of April 13.

Registration will start that afternoon for early arrivals. Many of the visitors are expected to be here the day before the convention, since many must come long distances. The district covers the entire Panhandle and South Plains regions and includes some clubs from New Mexico, which has no state federation of garden clubs.

The supper and an open house following the pilgrimage will be in the home of Mrs. J. C. Velvin, honoring Mrs. Windsor and the district councilor, Mrs. Albert Morrow of Morton.

Assembly in the Tower Theater at 10 a.m. April 14 will open the convention officially. It will be presided over by an executive board meeting. (Continued On Page Nine)

Art Program In Studio Is Plan Of AAUW

Deviating from customary Saturday luncheons, the American Association of University Women will hold its April Branch meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Palette Club Studio, 904 North Colorado Street.

The art groups of the organization are in charge of the program and will present Inez Parker, art supervisor of Midland schools, as guest speaker. A short business meeting will be held.

The Palette Club's two current exhibitions, "What Makes Art" and Pulton Gerke's one-man show, will be discussed by Miss Parker in terms of principles of design and elements of line value and color used by artists in painting.

AAUW members desiring to participate in the Student Spring Art Festival are invited to meet in the Palette Club Studio at 4 p.m. Wednesday. At that time Miss Parker, other school and private art teachers, the AAUW art chairman and other interested persons will discuss details of the festival. Rules of entry, judges, awards and other phases of the show, which is scheduled tentatively for the last week in April, will be discussed.

Children's Service League Plans Care Of Three Cripples

Arrangements to send three Midland children, crippled by cerebral palsy, to Lubbock weekly for therapy treatments were made by the Midland Service League at a meeting Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Lee Flood.

These children were examined in the recent clinic sponsored by the league, and treatment was recommended for them. Members heard reports on the clinic, with expressions of appreciation to the Banner Creamery and The Borden Company for milk and ice cream which were served to the children, and Ellis Funeral Home for ambulance service necessary for some of the crippled children.

Mrs. T. S. Jones, a member of the league, discussed "Methods of Case Investigations" as a program feature.

A list of needed clothing for children under the age of 10 was made. Despite a recent drive for clothing, the league still lacks garments needed for that age group, and will purchase some to meet emergency needs.

Present at the meeting were Mrs. C. H. Atchison, Mrs. M. O. Gibson, Mrs. Cooper Hyde, Mrs. Van D. Meisenheimer, Mrs. W. A. Waldschmidt, Mrs. V. W. Rogers, Mrs. C. F. Yaden, Mrs. Norris Creath, Mrs. John B. Coulter, Mrs. Robert Dewey and Mrs. F. D. Douglass.

Gay Styles Set Off Young Figures

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer
NEW YORK—Ready to make the most of slim young figures are the midday tops, sleeveless vesties, plaid veskies and flaring jackets in St. Louis—designed fashions for casual wear. Modest price tags, plus careful assembling of separates adaptable to other wardrobe needs, stretch a junior-sized budget.

Officers Installed For McCamey Class

McCAMEY—Vita Ruth Tompkins was installed as president of the First Baptist Ruth Class Friday in the church. Other newly-elected officers are Ava Smith, vice president; Olive Eason, group secretary; Myrl Reaves, fellowship chairman. Mrs. Ruby Brasly is the teacher.

At the Friday meeting, Miss Tompkins led the devotionary period. Other attendees were Mrs. J. N. English, Mrs. M. J. Knowley and Mrs. Z. W. Box.

A high-necked vestee of white pique and a short flaring mandarin jacket of jade green butcher linen in one outfit for active sports wear. What doubles the practical appeal of this outfit is that the vestee can be matched with suits and that the jacket can fill many assignments as a topper for slimmed navy skirts or Summer's white dresses.

Types of youthful styling of St. Louis—designed fashions is the two-piece midday dress (left) of blue gabardine. Narrow black stripes point up the sleek fit of the midday top and a black silk tie underscores a sailor collar. The sleeveless vestee of white pique and the green mandarin jacket team up with navy pedal pushers (center) for active sportswear are adaptable to other wardrobe changes. A sporty plaid veski and big plaid-trimmed hip pockets give the red denim suit (right) its jaunty look. The box jacket, which can also be worn tightly belted, has a plaid collar to match veski and pockets.

Abundant Living

By E. STANLEY JONES

Acts 5:1-11.
FIRST STEP IN DELIVERANCE: COMPLETE HONESTY
We now turn to the more joyous task of setting up a ladder so that the selected art of honest living may climb to peace and power.
(1) Let us clearly understand that any step we may suggest is to be an honest step and real. There will be no attempt, to deceive the mind or to enter a false paradise of make-believe. No one can play tricks on the universe—least of all on the universe of mind. There can be no writing of a wand over fears, or telling the mind that they are no more. That is the way of optimism. It has an inevitable letdown. The Christian way is the way of complete honesty. The verse that most clearly expresses the spirit of this way is: "See and do not be alarmed." (Matthew 24:6, Moffatt.) Jesus did not try to teach men to win release from alarms by refusing to see them. He told them to "see"—to look fears straight in the face and yet not to be alarmed. His way is the way of open-eyed honesty.
(2) Be sure you want to give up the thing you are afraid of. Very often your fears produce bodily ills which in turn determine your life strategy. Some people use their illness to gain attention; to gain power over others. A Cockeyed girl had a large purple lump on her forehead. This lump had come as the result of a great fear. When counseled by Dr. Fox she surrendered the fear, and the lump disappeared. On seeing her again Dr. Fox remarked about the lump being gone. "But," said the girl, grabbing her middle, "I've got terrible pains in my stomach." She was asked to let go of her fears, for she lived by the attention which these illnesses brought her. So she invented the stomach-ache. She was afraid she would be without attention and without sympathy if she should let go all her maladies. She "enjoyed" bad health!
I know a family that lived by re-counting to one another their various ailments, each bidding for sympathy from the others. They were all died before their time. The one member that survived found interests outside that circle of self-complimentation.
O God, I want to be completely delivered from fear and from the results of fear. I know how fears mark an end and how they do me then too perfectly white. My subconscious mind plays tricks on me. Save me to complete honesty, Amen.

A membership card for Midland's youngest Girl Scout, Donna Minette Velvin, is being prepared by Mrs. R. E. Morgan, president of the Midland Girl Scout Association while the recipient nonchalantly models her Brownie Scout cap for the admiration of her mother, Mrs. J. C. Velvin, Jr. The honorary membership was presented to Donna Minette by the association because she was the first girl born in Midland on the Girl Scout birthday, March 12. Mrs. Velvin, the former Jeanne Russell, was a member of a Girl Scout troop while she was growing up in Midland.

Pre-Easter Look At Styles In Midland Forecasts Gay Spring

By FRANCES HAGAMAN
Women of West Texas will have their "best feet forward" in this year's Easter Parade, for a large part of Spring's fashion spotlight is being centered on shoes. Other accessories also are being highlighted, with handbags in new shapes and sizes and hats trimmed with many flowers and intricately arranged veiling.

Dresses and suits being shown this season in Midland stores are of materials finer than any since prewar days. Irish linens, pure-silk shantung and Chinese silks are back in many colors and prints and among the newly-manufactured materials are the sheer wools that will go into the Summer—even in Texas.

Sheer Dresses
Sheers—voiles, batistes and chiffons, are being featured in full-skirted afternoon and evening dresses and the ever-present cotton is found in broadcloth, dotted Swiss and chambray.

Linen this year is in many weights and weaves, and most of it is straight from Ireland. United States-made rayon and butcher linen are being used in casual dresses and play clothes, but Easter-parade dresses and suits are of the finer fabric.

Linen bolero suits are being worn with sheer, frilly blouses. Many one-piece linens are trimmed with handwork—embroidery, applique or handmade lace. The suits and dresses themselves are simply-styled with straight-cut skirts and bodices. Collars and cuffs, however, add different touches, the collars high or unusually shaped and the cuffs both large and small and on sleeves of every length.

Silk shantung also is being used in suits and one-piece dresses with boleros. The boleros of these shantungs often are of some contrasting material, wool jersey or linen, but usually are dyed to match the color of the dress.

Fine Silk
Silks, both Chinese and American-woven, have been made into dresses which range from the very casual to the very formal. These silks come in prints that are large and small, vivid and soft, as well as in solid colors.

A pre-Easter trip through Midland stores shows emphasis this year is on accessories, especially shoes. Patent leather shoes are of gunmetal and pastel shades as well as black. Almost all of these shoes are a myriad of straps, although some pumps are being shown. Cream and pastel calf shoes, red and blue calfs, white suedes, blue and white and brown and white spectators also form a large part of the fashion picture. All are shown with matching bags which are small and square.

With hemlines creeping up, legs are taking on more importance and hose are becoming novelties. Very sheer stockings in light shades are being shown and decorated hose are in high fashion. Some have dark heels and seams, while the more extreme have seams down the front or side instead of the back. Others have clocks and designs woven near the ankles or down the side or front. These designs are mostly in dark colors but some are in bright hues.

Pique Gloves
"Shortie" gloves are coming in pique and nylon fabrics as well as cotton and kid. Long gloves (most of them above the elbow) are being worn with sleeveless dresses.

Designers have gone all-out in the hat field and practically every one shown has trimmings of flowers and net. Most hats are small, to match the new short haircuts, and small sailors, bonnets and modified cloches seem to be the preferred styles. Fine straw is back this year for the first time in many years to give finely-woven soft looking hats and the newer, plastic straw is being used in casual hats, often called "candy straws."

Artificial flowers are this year's "last little touch" for a perfect ensemble. Single blossoms, small bouquets or large clusters will be used at the necks of bolero suits and dresses or will be worn on the shoulder or at the waist. The small neck scarf, a carryover from other seasons, also will be used for the bright costume touch.

To Go With Easter, Nostalgia's an Accessory

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer
NEW YORK—Underwriting the mobile, airy "1950 Look" of Easter fashions are accessories that are light, graceful and frequently give a nostalgic hint of the 1920's. Patent leather, for example, which enjoyed its heyday 30 years ago, shines as brightly in 1950's shoes, handbags and belts. Long fox stoles swing out as jauntily as their earlier counterparts. Pointing up the light look of accessories are two-toned effects, cut-outs, scallops and embroidered trimmings.

Fur stoles which dangle to the hemline make a luxurious display of soft, pale-toned pelts. Glacier blue fox, for example, is worked into one outstanding scarf that mantles the shoulders and falls to a point below the hemline of a suit.

Today's patent leather is soft and pliable, and is turned out in pastels, navy and gray as well as glossy black.

For supple, airy shoes, patent is confined to strippings or shell soles to leave plenty of open space for comfort afoot. In some new two-toned sandals, the gleam of black patent shell soles is played against the mat finish of suede or fabric straps.

With the new pliability, neat little patent leather handbags can be manipulated with accordion folds at the sides to afford roomy interiors when the bag is opened. Gold trim adds more shine, and interiors are spiced with bright linings of red or yellow.

Two-toned effects are carried into gloves which set off slim cuffs. Some gloves turn back scalloped edged cuffs to show off contrasting linings. Others are accented by contrast stitching, appliques or cut-outs. Embroidered motifs dress up the backs of white or chamois-colored gloves.

Baptist WMS Will Conduct School And Hear Book Review

An all-day meeting of instruction and a book review is scheduled for the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church Monday in the church.

Beginning at 10 a.m. with a school of instruction, the duties of the officers of the organization will be explained. A luncheon will be held in the Recreational Hall at noon. At 1 p.m. Mrs. Clint Dunagan will review Duke McCall's book, "God's Hurry."

Speaking in the school of instruction, Mrs. J. M. White will discuss the watchword, history and objectives of the WMS and the duties of the president. Mrs. George Johnson, president, will discuss the duties of the circle chairman and the program and literature chairman.

Other Officers Work
The duties of the co-chairman of a circle will be discussed by Mrs. J. S. Griffith. Mrs. Stanley Erskine will discuss the duties of the young people's secretary, including work of the counselors of the Young Woman's Auxiliary, Royal Ambassadors and Girls Auxiliary. Mrs. J. S. McCain will give the duties of the community missions chairman, and Mrs. R. O. Walker, the stewardship chairman. Mrs. Charles Mathews will discuss duties of the corresponding secretary, recording secretary and the treasurer.

"God's Hurry" is a stewardship book written by the secretary of the executive commission of the Southern Baptist Convention. McCall gave as his reason for writing the book, "placing Christian stewardship against the background of present world conditions."

Prepare Elbows For Short Sleeves

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Elbows get more glances in warmer weather than they did in winter, when they were often covered by long sleeves.

A beauty routine for your elbows should begin with a peeling of the old, dry skin. A special preparation for this is used dry, dampened in the palms of the hands. Rub it briskly over the elbows and remove it with a washcloth just as it begins to dry on the skin.

Next, your elbows need a thorough cleaning. If you haven't been creaming your elbows regularly, it might be a good idea to use a very rich cream—richer than your usual face cream. The ideal cream for such a purpose is one with a lanolin base.

When this small ritual becomes a regular part of your nightly beauty chores, you'll soon find that your elbows can undergo the public gaze without the stares.

This girl readies her elbows for spring's short sleeves by peeling away dead skin, then creaming.

Footnotes On Spring Chic

More flattering and greater comfort are promised when shoes are selected to suit foot type as this girl does. Close-ups show typical examples of new styles recommended for the four basic types of feet.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer
Ever been stuck with a pair of new shoes that looked wonderful but hurt your feet after a few hours wear? If you have, chances are you bought shoes "to fit the eye" instead of your foot. It's common feminine falling, foot specialists say.

With so many styles to choose from, you can find shoes that are both smart and comfortable if you stick to the last that suits your foot. The specialists classify foot types as high instep, low instep, long and narrow and short and plump.

On the other hand, if you have low-arched feet, you'll find high-walled slippers or one-strap sandals more comfortable than the wide-open styles. The shoes should be cut high around the back to avoid any tendency to slip or bulge at the heel. Check to make sure shoes have flexible leather soles for easy walking.

Youngsters Parade Spring Fashions In Jack And Jill Show

Mother Goose characters, the Old Woman in the Shoe and all her children modeled in the Jack and Jill Style Show Friday night in the Junior High School Auditorium. The St. Ann's Mothers Club sponsored the show and clothes were from the Kiddies Toggery.

Lucky is the girl who has long narrow feet. Specialists say she can wear many shoe styles with ease. New nude sandals are particularly flattering to slender feet. Straps across the instep or too-thin soles, however, may cause discomfort because of the lack of a fatty cushion on the arch and bottom of the thin foot. For that reason, shoes with leather-soled platforms, either concealed or visible, are recommended as shock-absorbers.

For 10 years Uncle Sam's Bureau of the Census has been preparing for C-Day—Census Day—April 1. Detailed aerial maps spotting every dwelling in the country have been checked and double-checked. Some 150,000 government workers—most of them partime enumerators—will take part in the counting job.

For the farmer there are more questions—about his crops, his animals, soil erosion, sanitary facilities, age and condition of farm buildings and similar queries. The farmer may find his census blanks in his mailbox, with a note to fill them out himself and give them to the C-man when he calls.

20 basic questions about each person in the household—name, age, race, occupation, where born, etc. Every fifth person on the list will be asked about 20 additional questions—where did he live a year ago? what was his last job? what was his income last year? The C-man is bound by law and oath never to reveal any of your answers, except to the Census Bureau. However, if you still hesitate to give him any information, you may mail your answers directly to the Census Bureau.

Merchants, professional people, educators, social workers, labor leaders, government authorities—all want to know a lot of things about you. Cosmetics manufacturers also wonder what shade of lipstick you prefer, and movie-makers wonder what types of movies you like best. The census director had to rule out many hundreds of such proposed subjects to boil the questionnaire down to size. Questions that are left are there for sound reasons, and you can help by answering them completely, correctly—and cheerfully—when the C-man comes.

League—

its service needs, members decided to work on a variety of projects rather than limit themselves to one large one. The first project, setting up a card catalogue system for Midland social service agencies, was begun in March, 1949, and completed by April of the same year. Seven league members interviewed each agency supervisor and typed a card for each case in every agency. These cards were catalogued and placed in the Child Welfare Office. Each week, one member keeps the file up to date by adding new cases and discarding old ones.

Outside of the projects initiated by the Service League, members have assisted other organizations in their work. These smaller services were placed under the heading of miscellaneous projects and the first of them was in May, 1949, when five members made speeches to men's clubs to assist Midland Jaycees with their Cleanup Campaign.

The second major project was begun in May, when a library-on-wheels for the Western Clinic-Hospital was established. Since that time, this mobile library, which contains magazines and books has been pushed through the hospital each Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon by a league member.

Another miscellaneous project was adopted in June, when the league offered to help Art Cole with the July 4 and 5 Trail Days Pageant. Members assisted in distributing costumes and with backstage work.

In August, the project which has taken the most time and energy was started when Mrs. W. B. Yarborough and Mrs. A. E. Pettit initiated the work in Jures Hall. Many League members have helped them to help provide recreational facilities for the Latin-American young people of Midland. The group now is using a newly-constructed recreational hall.

In September, league members assisted with the emergency polio drive and in October a large part of the paper work for the Community Chest campaign was done by the group.

In September, 14 young women were accepted as provisional members of the league. During this month and October, under the supervision of Mrs. John Fitzgerald, education chairman, this group studied community agencies and league projects, and in November passed the provisional examination. The provisionals did most of the work with the Community Chest.

In October, the hour system of work was adopted and a record of the amount of work done by each member started.

Another big project, the Terminal Branch of the Midland County Library, was begun in December with Mrs. W. H. Pomeroy as chairman. Open on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and Saturday mornings, the branch is operated and staffed by league members. Much of the equipment has been furnished by the group.

In January, 1950, members counted money for the March of Dimes drive, and in February, assisted the Red Cross with its campaign.

Shortly after the league began its work, Mrs. Ben Black was placed in charge of a series of radio programs sponsored by the organization. Two 15-week series of educational recordings for elementary school children were broadcast over KCRS.

Another single-handed job has been done by Mrs. John DeFord, who tells stories each Saturday at the Midland County Library's Children's Story Hour.

In October, the provisional group chose as its project assisting Art Cole with the Children's Theater, a branch of the Midland Community Theater. Members help with the Saturday morning meetings and, in January, sponsored the children's presentation of "Rip Van Winkle."

A Memorial Fund for gifts to the Midland Memorial Hospital was established late in 1949. As a beginning of the fund, an incubator was given to the hospital. This fund will serve as an agency for any donation and the names of those memorialized will be put on a permanent record.

Of the projects the league has begun, only those which were completed have been discontinued. The ones still in operation are the library-on-wheels, the Latin-American work, the Terminal Branch Library, the radio work, the Children's Theater and the Memorial Fund.

small TALK

By SUE COLEMAN
Not that we can always take the calendar literally, but it was right about Spring arriving last week and there has been a great shedding of coats and a turning to cotton dresses hereabout. Mickey Flinn was not only coatless but hatless when she came down to do her morning shopping Saturday, and Madeline Pomeroy's blonde hair was likewise uncovered as she deposited her nickel in a Main Street parking meter Friday.

Members here haven't received programs yet, but the schedule for the Sixteenth Parent-Teacher Association convention of April 21-22 must be about ready. The district president, Mrs. Holland Holt of Abilene, was here recently talking over program plans with Mrs. Waldo Leggett and Mrs. J. J. Black, district board members who joined her as visitors to a tea which the Big Spring associations gave. The convention will be in Abilene this year.

It isn't good news—that major surgery was necessary to set that bone in Roberta Stewart's leg which was broken in an accident while she was at play last week. Roberta, the George Stewart's daughter, was praised for her bravery at the time of the accident and will have her courage tested further now through a sure-to-be-tedious recovery. Her mother has been with her at an Abilene hospital during the last few days and her father went over to join them Saturday.

Another ex-newspaperwoman I've enjoyed meeting recently is Sidney Hoyer. And one who had her experience on a college paper as a journalism major, Mrs. Fredric McLaren. Both have been working as publicity chairmen on projects for organizations of which they are members—the job that always is assigned to former fourth esters as long as they live.

A visitor we always enjoy seeing in the office, Mrs. Paul Crandall of Rankin, was in Thursday, looking uncommonly pretty in a grey dress-maker suit with a soft blue scarf at the neckline to match her eyes, and a grey beaver set back on her beautiful silver hair. She made some passing remarks about the more-than-springtime warmth of the day and, like a lot of other smartly-suited women of the last few days, wondered if a suit is the perfect pre-Summer costume in West Texas, after all.

Pleasant sights of the week—Lucy Mashburn in a gaily-printed dress with a new-lavender jacket; Alva Butler, her brown eyes and hair set off by that natural rough straw hat, wreathed with field flowers; she wore with her brown suit; and her bag was made of the same straw. Miss Ray, dressed in green and soft yellow from head to toe, including green shoes.

Some random thoughts about people—Meeting Susie Noble always gives me a lift for the day, her greeting is that cheerful... Mrs. W. I. Pratt is blessed with more loyal "daughters" than almost anybody, the result of her generous sponsorship of Beta Sigma Phi members since the organization started here. Mrs. W. S. Key would be an attractive woman even if her brown eyes were not combined with blonde hair, but that combination helps. Just like the blue eyes and dark hair which Wanda Thels shares with her daughters.

There's a simple way to do an emergency repair job when your nail polish chips. Remove a brand-new light to polish remover and carefully spread the polish already on the nail until it covers the bare spots. It's more satisfactory than if you try to polish chipped polish with more polish.

Cooperation Asked Of Bosses By ORC

Col. R. R. Loudon, Midland Organized Reserve Corps instructor, requests that employers be lenient and helpful in their leave policy to allow organized reservists to attend Summer camp.

"Reports are being received from all over the state that reservists are attempting to set their annual leave period to be able to participate with our troops in the various Summer camps but many have met with a 'we'll see later' or 'can't tell yet' attitude on the part of some employers," Colonel Loudon said.

WILSON'S

Virginia Dunagan Wins Awards, Plays Many Campus Drama Roles

ABLE-BENE—Ten years ago, there was in Midland a little girl who was in the fifth grade. In that school there was a dramatic club. And one of the most enthusiastic members was this little girl. Virginia Dunagan.

Virginia Dunagan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Dunagan, 1904 West Wall Street. Today, Virginia is a senior at Hardin-Simmons University and still is just as enthusiastic about dramatics. She has been in most of the major plays produced by the University Players since she first came here.

to attend Hardin-Simmons. Two sisters and a brother, all older than she, have attended the university. During high school days, she was active in junior and senior plays and when she came to Simmons, it was natural for her to continue with her dramatics. Her first play on the campus won her the title, "Best Actress of the Year." For the last two years she has won the coveted Alpha Psi Omega award for the best actress.

She chooses her own role in a play for the variety of character and variety in the character itself. Favorite role proved that of Sabina, the "other woman" in man's existence in Thornton Wilder's "Skin of Our Teeth." Portraying Mrs. Fisher in "The Showoff" was the most difficult role she has encountered.

Something that is likely to happen in any "dramatic" life happened to Virginia during her portrayal of Sabina in "The Skin of Our Teeth." As the only performer on the stage, all attention was focused upon her when to her horror she couldn't remember her lines. "I did about the only thing I could," she laughs. "I couldn't hear the prompter so I skipped a few lines and used some material a little farther down the page of script. All I could think of was to bridge that awful silence. You can be sure that I knew my lines the next night."

Last Summer, working with the Southwest Theater in Waco on the Baylor campus, Virginia got a real taste of variety and not only in character. She learned how to handle sound effects, lighting and costume designing. Her first Shakespearean role, that of Katherine in "Taming of the Shrew," was with the Southwest Theater.

Another novel experience last Summer was when she was "the girl" in a religious movie filmed by the Baylor movie department. The picture, "Not in Vain," was emphasizing the stewardship drive of the Baptists.

In addition to her first love, the theater, Virginia is an ardent swimmer, golfer, and bowler. She has recently taken up canasta. One hour of each day is devoted to organ practice. She also plays the piano and prefers the classics. She has visited Mexico, Alaska, and the Western United States. She hopes to go to Europe some day. After graduation, it probably will be dramatic work somewhere or perhaps a master's degree at Columbia.

STUDY GROUP TO HAVE ITS LAST MEETING

The Elementary Study Group of the South Elementary Parent-Teacher Association will complete its study course at a meeting Wednesday. The group will meet for covered-dish luncheon at 1 p.m. with Mrs. Coren Stephenson, 710 South Marietta Street.

Linen With Jewels For Spring

Linen takes on formal airs in these new costumes. Rhinestones embroider the bodice of the short dinner dress (left) which has a deep V-neckline in front and back. Sheath dress (right), belted in black velvet, sparkles with crystal and bead embroidery on the camisole top. Matching jacket is hip-length.

By EPSIE KINARD

NEW YORK—Linen dresses up with jewels for its formal debut as one of Spring fashion's favorite fabrics.

Without diminishing its popularity as a fabric for casual clothes, linen steps into the foreground of the evening picture through dramatic use of rhinestone and crystal bead embroidery. Crease-resistant finishes enhance linen's crisp, fresh-looking texture.

Off-white imported Irish linen is given elegant and simple styling in a theater suit of Ben Reig design which combines a mesh dress with hip-length jacket. Camisole top of the dress and the jacket are richly embroidered in crystal beads. Sharp accent for the ensemble is provided by black velvet used to belted the dress and to line cuffs and lapels on the jacket.

Another example which typifies the use of jeweled linens is a short, formal dinner gown on which rows of sparkling rhinestones are used to accentuate the deep "V" neckline of the bodice. Self-covered buttons fasten the dress from neckline to the hemline of the side-wrapped skirt.

Bridge And Canasta Slated For Party

The Spring bridge and canasta party of the American Association of University Women will begin at 1:30 p.m. April 23 in the Midland High School Gymnasium. Mrs. Ray Seifert, general chairman, has announced.

The Bridge Group of the AAUW is in charge of arrangements for the party and members of the group will contact other AAUW members concerning reservations. Mrs. Earl Johnson is reservation chairman and April 17 is the final date for making reservations.

W. H. Pomeroy, Jr., who will play General Dennis, a forceful air corps commander who is so preoccupied with his work that he often appears absent-minded, is well-known to Midland theatergoers. He has appeared in Community Theater productions of "State of the Union," "Uncle Harry," "Torch Bearers," and "Pygmalion" as well as "Runnin' Higher" and "Up 'n Atom," minstrel reviews.

William Adam will portray Col. Ernest Haley, Regular Army, who is an all-around, literal sort of person. Adam has appeared in "Laura," "My Sister Eileen," "Up 'n Atom," and "Blithe Spirit."

A somewhat skeptical but vigorous test pilot, Col. Edward Martin, will be portrayed by J. W. Hunt, who has been in "Laura," "I Remember Mama" and "Up 'n Atom."

Waring Bradley will have the part of Major Desmond Lansing, intelligence officer. He has appeared in two previous Community Theater productions, "Up 'n Atom" and "My Sister Eileen."

A division weather officer, Maj. Belding Davis, is the part that Hastings Pannill will have in the play. Pannill also has played in two previous theater productions—"Up 'n Atom" and "I Remember Mama."

One of the Theater's most active players, Norris Creath, will have his first part in an adult production this year as Arthur Malcolm, a congressman on tour. Creath, who has been in a number of plays since the theater's organization in 1946, has appeared in "George Washington Slept Here," "Ladies in Retirement," "Kiss and Tell," "State of the Union," "Junior Miss," "Runnin' Higher," "Get With It," "On Borrowed Time," and "The Drunkard." He was the only adult in the Children's Theater play, "Rip Van Winkle," in January, when he played the title role.

Hosiery Capers

A more decorative show of legs under skirts is forecast by new glamor stockings. Playing card motifs sprinkled over the sheer nylons (above) are picked out in 24-karat gold. Pastel petit-point flowers embroider the ankles of pale-toned stockings (top right). Cheville figure 8's march up the seams of daytime hosiery (left), patterns into ready-to-wear nylons. Golden patterns keep their gleam through laundries, if you're interested in practical aspects of such luxuries.

Pastel flowers, hand-embroidered in petit-point, form-flattering cloaks for pretty ankles. More frou-frou for ankles is provided by "straps" of pearl and rhinestone hand-sewn to the nylon. Tiny crystal beads are woven into other stockings to make heels and seams sparkle.

Ready to dress up rear-view interest in daytime stockings a re unusual "panel" seam treatments. Black or brown chenille forms figure 8's, arrow head motifs, or is worked in four straight lines.

NEW YORK—High-fashion hosiery cuts some fancy capers for the leg show staged by shorter skirts this Spring.

Gold, petit-point embroidery, chenille, pearls, rhinestones and crystal beads are used by Willlys of Hollywood to stir up excitement in ultra-sheer nylons. On some of the new-making stockings all that glitters is gold—24 carat, no less.

Willys, whose hosiery creations for the movies include such fabulous ones as a pair of $5.00 gold mesh tights custom-made for Joan Caulfield, adapts gold-leaf processes used by the 15th century French craftsmen to infuse molten gold

Questions Of Child Should Be Considered

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Education Writer

"Why is dirt, Mommie?"

Parents and teachers faced with the staggering task of answering innocent-sounding queries like this one will appreciate "Answering Children's Questions," the latest in the Parent-Teacher series issued by the Bureau of Publications, Teachers College, Columbia University.

Written by Dr. C. W. Hunnicutt, professor of education at Syracuse University, the volume stresses that answers to children's questions should not only satisfy their curiosity, but put their minds to work. Learning occurs most readily in response to a situation which poses a problem, says Dr. Hunnicutt. When children become interested in a topic, questions not easily answered often frustrate them.

The job of parents and teachers in answering questions, the author says, is to keep children's natural curiosity alive. "It is important that children receive answers to their questions. The practice of asking questions is not an unbreakable habit. If the child is continually rebuffed or receives unsatisfactory answers, he becomes hesitant. The bubbling spring that seemed so endless begins to run dry." And, above all, advises the author, parents answers can be more helpful if they differentiate clearly between "what they know and what they believe."

He states:

"If people are to fit into and advance civilization, they need to learn well the difference between fact and belief. The concept of open-mindedness must become a basic part of the child's whole personality."

At times, Dr. Hunnicutt finds, children ask unnecessary questions in a kind of psychological warfare of their own. They may do this either as a means of "resisting adult pressure or expressing resentment," he says.

Bedtime Questions

Around bedtime, for example, these unnecessary questions become numerous. Why did you do that? accompanied by a stern glare, shows the child's disapproval of some adult "indiscretion." A teasing "Why can't I?" is an attempt to change dad's mind when he has labeled some act as "forbidden."

The rule here, Dr. Hunnicutt cautions, is: "Never bluff."

Answers must always be tailored-made to the particular child, he says. What the child is getting at in his question can be determined from his facial and bodily expressions, his age and his tone of voice; and the answer—especially its length—must fit in with his intent.

Words in the English language have hundreds of meanings, he says, and adults must always be careful to understand the meanings a child has used in framing a question. It is important that replies, too, be made in terms of meanings the child already understands.

Paintings Of Southwest Texas Will Be Exhibited Here Sunday

Scenes of Southwest Texas familiar to most Midland residents are pictured in the oil paintings by Fulton Gerke which will be displayed in the Palette Club Studio at 604 North Colorado Street Sunday and again Monday night. The exhibit is open to the public.

Gerke likes especially to paint the wide spaces and sparse vegetation of the Big Bend and border country of Texas. His paintings are being shown as the first circuit exhibit from the Pan-American Galleries of San Antonio, going to San Angelo, Big Spring and Sweetwater in addition to Midland, on the West Texas circuit.

They were shown recently in a one-man exhibition in the San Antonio galleries, which brought forth such critical appraisal as "... intense and unselfconscious sincerity ... a conviction of personal intimacy with the subject-matter ... Mesquite thickets, arroyos and mottled plains are here depicted as though through the eyes of a jack-rabbit" and "Though he trades snowscapes for ranch land spareness, Gerke remains the Grandpa Moses of the Southwest."

Play Up White

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

The trend to white this Spring is accompanied by another trend—a brighter hue to replace the usual pink tones of Spring make-up.

The reason for this is sound. White is flattering next to the face but it needs the contrast of a deeper shade in powder, rouge, lipstick and nail polish. Frilly lace and organdy, crisp pleats and linen take the contrast of a cherry-blue make-up shade which helps to make the look translucent.

One new Spring make-up shade which follows the blue-red trend is designed to make either a pale skin or a suntanned complexion look clearer. It's ideal, not only with the contrast of white, but of cheeks, small or large. It holds its own with navy blue, beige or gray and is harmonious with Spring hats which are loaded with colorful fruit or flowers.

GOING PLACES

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The lithe wool dress that goes places this spring may travel with a matching coat or it may not need a companion at all. But whichever way it journeys, it will be distinguished by neat-as-a-pin tailoring and crisp-textured fabrics.

A blouse-topped dress joins up with a three-quarter length coat to make the ensemble at left, designed by Eisenberg. Navy wool for coat and skirt is given crispness by bold window-pane plaid silk in lining and blouse. Short sleeves turn up to show deep plaid cuffs.

The tailored shirtwaist dress at right is designed by Margi in men's wear flannel. Smoke pearl buttons stud the plunging neckline of the surplice bodice. The dropped shoulder line releases full dolman sleeves, caught at the wrists by snug-fitting cuffs.—KAY SHERWOOD, NEA Staff Writer.

Honor Forrestal

Famed Sculptress Suzanne Sivervy Stevenson of East Norwalk, Conn., looks at her portrait bust of the late James V. Forrestal, on exhibition for the first time at the Princeton University Club of New York. The nation's first secretary of defense was a 1915 graduate of Princeton.

'Boss' Just Another Four-Letter Word, Hal Boyle Discovers

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—I never knew how detestable the word "boss" was until my wife became one. I don't mean the first time—when we were married. I mean the second time, when she hired me a secretary. This indirectly made me a "boss," which is certainly a four-letter word any way you spell it.

Actually my wife, Frances, is the real boss. But I can't make anybody else believe it. It all began about a year ago when Frances came in and saw my cluttered desk top. It was a waist-deep mare's nest of sleeping press agents, thrice-around-the-Maypole wisecracks, letters from indignant readers (all signed "X"), a flag from Guatemala, a well-fuzzed coconut demanding the admission of Hawaii as the forty-ninth state, eight lumps of sugar and five used paper coffee containers.

Daylight Wives
"This is a disgrace," said Frances. "What do your employers say about it?"

"You know how employers are—just daylight wives," I made the mistake of replying. "They think it's a disgrace, too."

"What you need is a secretary," said Frances.

Personally I would rather have had a dancing girl. But a couple of days later in strolled the wife of a friend of mine, and I asked her, "Why, Laurie Wells, what are you doing here?"

"I'm your part-time secretary," she said. "Frances hired me."

Well, if I have learned one thing from 12 years of marriage it is never to question what my friends say my wife said, so I took her at her word.

In a day or two she had cleared off the debris. By then I was in the same situation as my employer. I had reached the peak of business efficiency. The old mess on top my desk, into which I could not see and find anything I wanted, was filed inside my desk in so many confining folders that Stanley could have spent his lifetime searching here without ever being able to find Dr. Livingstone.

One Out of 10,000
Now when I asked for something, Laurie says, "Just a moment, boss," and disappears into the desk. Three hours later I go to lunch, and when I come back she has forgotten what she was looking for—and I have forgotten what I wanted. But, boy, it's a neat-looking desk.

The phone used to ring, and I'd say, "He's gone." Now when it rings Laurie answers and says, "Yes, here he is." That has formed me of every 10,000 phone calls a man gets only one is worth saying "hello" to.

When I pick up the phone myself, it isn't for me. An indignant female voice says, "Why aren't the children of Public School 41 getting pomegranates for lunch? I hear they are serving them at Public School 1,312."

It turns out that she really wants Laurie. My "seo" is a P-T-A president.

Laurie—"my seo"—is a wonderful, great-hearted, sweet-faced mother who has lived up to the desk I labor from a great deal. Her smile kindles up the joint.

But she shouldn't call me "boss." I know my place—just the friend of the husband of my wife's office wife.

Dress To Play Down Weak Figure Points

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer
When you learn to dress to play up your good points and minimize your bad ones, you've acquired valuable knowledge. Keeping in mind some basic principles makes this task easier.

The first of these principles, applicable to all women, is not to play up a weak point by dramatizing a good one. Thus, if you have pretty feet which you thrust into high-heeled, delicate sandals, fine—unless you've added 20 pounds in the last 10 years. Then you'll look top-heavy. A shoe with a medium heel would make you far more attractive.

It's a good idea to remember that an unbroken line always looks longer. Therefore, two-piece suits or dresses, contrasting colors or wide belts cut that line and add breadth.

If you want to appear slender, dress for height. The taller you appear to be, the more slender you seem.

Heavy, or stiff, fabrics add weight. Women with excess pounds should avoid tweeds, metalines, brocades and satins. A light color makes you look larger, too. This applies to shoes and gloves as well as to dresses, suits and coats.

Only women with perfect figures can afford to wear knitted dresses, jerseys, or clinging chiffons. These are all figure-revealing fabrics.

Last, but important, is the rule which says that the full view is the right one. When you look in the mirror, check yourself from head to toe to make sure everything is in harmony.

Experts Are Hired To Put Business Methods Into Political Institution

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN—(AP)—A new approach to the problem of getting the most out of a tax dollar is being tried in Texas.

The State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools has hired a firm of experts to put big business efficiency methods into a political institution.

The interesting thing will be to see how this experiment works out.

Many times in the past government agencies have employed outside help to make specific studies of some operation. Usually the reports are read and filed to catch dust in the nearest convenient pigeonhole.

But never before in the memory of anyone in Austin has a state agency employed experts to make recommendations, then followed through by hiring those experts to set up the system they recommended. That's what the hospital board did.

The auditing and management consulting firm of Ernst and Ernst is known over the nation. It has offices in 47 North American cities. It conducts audits, surveys management procedures and takes on almost any kind of job related to industrial methods.

Impressed With Size
The hospital board, impressed with the magnitude of the task it faced in analyzing business management of the mental institutions and other hospitals and schools, paid Ernst and Ernst $5,000 for a quick preliminary study of what was wrong. The industrial engineers, after a three-month look, found plenty and reported back to the board.

Among other things it found the hospitals were not doing as good a job as they might in curing people of their mental ills because the medical superintendents had to spend too much time on business management details. These superintendents are doctors, not businessmen. In some cases they might be both, but they are not hired primarily to check reports on egg and hog production on hospital farms.

So the hospital board gave Ernst and Ernst another assignment.

They will recommend a man to direct the business affairs of all the institutions in the 20,000,000-dollar-a-year enterprise. The board's executive committee will do the actual employing of this man, who will be paid around $9,000 a year.

He in turn, with the advice of the efficiency experts, will put business managers in each institution. The Ernst and Ernst firm will also continue to use its own men to supervise installation of their recommendations. The pay will be $7 per hour for each topflight man, and less for others—the exact total amount not yet known.

McMurry College Band To Play At Morning Service Of First Methodist Church Here

The McMurry College Indian Band from Abilene will present a concert of sacred music at the morning worship service of the First Methodist Church in Midland Sunday.

The McMurry group, under the direction of Raymond T. Bynum, will be in Midland as part of a six-day Spring tour of the Northwest Texas area. The 50 members of the band will come to Midland from Big Spring, where they spent Saturday night.

Since its reorganization in 1946, the Indian band has distinguished itself in religious and musical circles with the presentation of a full one-hour program of sacred music. Both vocal and instrumental music is included, and many times the group combines the two to bring the finest in sacred music to the congregation. More than 40 churches in all parts of the state have been visited by the band in the last four years.

Program Numbers Listed
Sunday's "Let Us Worship Through Music" service will include a chorus, "Come Ye Thankful People;" "Crusaders" overture; "The Holy City," baritone solo, played by Jack Hampton of Ballinger; and "Byzantine Medley," a vibraphone solo featuring Pat Carter of Mason.

Miss Norma Sechrist of Spur, popular soprano soloist with the band, will sing "The Lord's Prayer" with band accompaniment. The mixed quartet, Miss Sechrist, Audie Merrell of Midland, James Pollard of Vernon and Pat Carter, will sing "My God and I."

Climax of the service will be the band chorus of 28 voices singing "Lead Me On, O Lord," a vibraphone solo featuring Pat Carter of Mason.

Other concerts have been scheduled in Big Spring, Andrews, Kermit, Seminole, Brownfield, Levelland, Hereford and several other West Texas cities.

Women Wanting Cook Books Are Driving Bob Murphy Crazy

AUSTIN—(AP)—Please, ladies, don't write to Austin for these free cook books from congressmen.

You're driving Bob Murphy crazy. Murphy is the sergeant-at-arms of the state House of Representatives by the Post Office.

He has received letters from women at Muleshoe, Gleburne, Waxahachie, and a bunch of other Texas towns. They address the letters to "Congressman, Austin, Texas." They want copies of a cook book that Congress has assembled for free distribution.

"It's getting to be a damn nuisance. I like to help people so I've been checking the ladies' home counties, finding out what Congressional district they are in and forwarding the letters to their congressmen," explained Bob. "But I've been getting eight or nine letters in every mail the past couple of days, and it's getting to be work."

He hopes the women folk will write direct to their congressmen.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

Saloon smashing crusader was Carry A. Nation, seen with her famous hatchet. The twentieth century came in—in Kansas, at least—accompanied by the sounds of smashed mirrors, broken bottles and glasses, and chopped saloon furniture—all the targets of the righteous wrath of this spunky, Kentucky-born foe of John Barleycorn. It was in Wichita, Kan., in 1900 that Carry Nation began her self-imposed task to abolish the saloon. At first, she used rocks, a cane and her fists—along with ringing verbal denunciations—in her battle. Later, for more effective destruction, she took along the hatchet which became her trademark. Spurred by success in Kansas, Carry moved on to Nebraska and other states, even going as far east as New York.

Deserting Husbands Find Refuge In Texas Since It Has Not Signed Extradition Act

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

A New York fellow whose business is catching wayward husbands says a lot of them go to Texas. And when they get here he has a heck of a time getting them back to New York. Many never go back. George H. Lamb is chief of the abandonment bureau of the district attorney's office in Queens County. Every winter he goes to some balmy state such as Florida or California, in pursuit of husbands who have deserted their families. When he catches them, either they must sign papers agreeing to support their families or he takes them back to New York.

Last year alone he caught 24 New York husbands in California. In his career, he has brought 3,000 errant husbands back to New York.

"What about Texas?" we asked Lamb in a letter. "Do you catch husbands in Texas?"

"Yes I have been a guest many times of the Lone Star State in pursuit of my vocation, and I have, with varying degrees of success, apprehended many culprits," he replied.

Complaint Made
Then Lamb complained that Texas has not become a signatory as have many other states in accepting the "uniform extradition act." Because Texas has not signed this act, he explained, a New York father can flee to Texas and make only one payment toward his New York family's support, and thereafter he cannot be extradited from Texas to New York. If he makes no payments at all, he can be extradited.

"When the State of New York can not extradite the fugitive father, the State of New York then has to provide for the abandoned child while Texas shields the culprit father from his bounden duty," said Lamb.

He went on:

"The toughest case we ever experienced was when we tried to return a negro physician to New York from a Central Texas town several years ago. The only reason for the town's authorities resisting the execution of the warrant was the fact that being a negro the physician was necessary to the negro population as the other medicals were white. This subject's living with his bigamous wife had no effect on the law machinery, believe it or not. So the State of New York is still providing, through the department of welfare, for the infant."

Lamb had another criticism of (Continued on Page Seven)

Preacher Alexander Provides Oklahoma Republicans Boost

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—Whatever the final result may be, the Rev. William H. (Bill) Alexander has given Oklahoma Republicans a shot in the arm.

When the colorful Oklahoma City minister—a candidate for the United States Senate—switched from the Democratic to Republican Party, he furnished a "name" for this year's election.

Until then the Republicans were without a major candidate for either Senate or governor. They were fast becoming desperate.

According to Alexander, the Republican Party did not know of his plans until shortly before he called a news conference. His announcement—unexpected and unorthodox—changed the entire picture of the July 4 primary election.

Up To Elmer, Mike
The Democratic primary is now left up to Sen. Elmer Thomas and Rep. Mike Monroney, Fifth District congressman. Republican primary will also have the Rev. Ed Balch, Muskogee, and Paul V. Beck, Tulsa.

Republican leaders welcomed the announcement. State Democratic Chairman Jim Arrington said he was "relieved" Alexander had left the Democratic fold.

Alexander's biggest need now is to get a strong Republican ticket for other offices, including governor. The prominence of his name will draw votes and a strong local ticket will naturally assist.

If he should win the Senate election in November, despite Oklahoma's usual Democratic majority, it will probably be directly attributable to two statements by Arrington at the Democratic Central Committee meeting here last month.

At that time Arrington said he favored "annihilation" of the Republican Party. He also called upon all Democratic candidates to pledge they would consult with party leaders before appointing patronage.

Those were the two statements that finally switched the minister, he said. Alexander is certain to make an issue of them during the campaign.

Bruce Alford, New York Bulldogs' end, flew 35 missions as an Eighth Air Force pilot.

Crime DOES Pay!—6. Would Legalized Gambling Nip Big Crime Syndicates?

Should both be legal? Some officials think putting off-track horse rooms, like the one at left, on the same legal footing with pari-mutuel betting at the track, right, would cut out gambling syndicate profits now financing their crime. But syndicates themselves would love to see such a move.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Should Uncle Sam step into the fight against the big gambling syndicates which are behind an unprecedented crime wave in the U. S.? Or should off-track betting and slot machines be legalized as a means of breaking up the syndicates?

Biggest complaint of city, state and county law enforcing authorities is against the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles sums it up this way:

"We don't know whether it's a change of policy or whether that old urge to put criminals behind bars has been lost, but the U. S. tax agents aren't working like they used to when they put such big shots as Al Capone behind bars."

He cites the notorious case of the Guarantee Finance Company, recently exposed as a front for a large bookie operation in Los Angeles. When tax agents first got evidence against the leaders of this gambling ring from the state authorities, they said it was a clear case of criminal evasion of income tax.

When the gamblers appealed their case in Washington, however, the Bureau agreed to make a money settlement. Mayor Bowron and other big city mayors think that this is typical of the "softness" of Uncle Sam towards the big syndicates. They wonder what is behind it.

Up To Congress
The federal agencies all have the same answer to these complaints: "No comment." It's up to Congress, they add, to give them more authority if it wants to.

The biggest single development in Congress is a resolution of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee to launch a major probe into the U. S. crime situation. It is hoped the investigation will result in a permanent check on the growth of the underworld.

There is still a small block of opinion among honest local officials which holds that if gambling is legalized and licensed, the profits will be taken away from the gangsters and crooks. This, they say, will saw off the billions of dollars of gambling profits which finance all the other crime. That is the opinion and recommendation, for example, by Mayor William O'Dwyer for New York City's problems.

Perhaps the most devastating argument against this stand is the fact that the big gambling interests themselves are spending millions of dollars all over the country, lobbying for the legalization of gambling. Added to that is this conclusion of the California State Crime Commission:

"An extensive experience in the U. S. with laws that have legalized various forms of gambling from time to time has definitely established that law enforcement agencies that were unable to enforce the anti-gambling laws were just as helpless in the control and enforcement of licensing laws. In most instances, the evils that arose under such laws increased so tremendously that they were repealed."

"In the last analysis of the whole crime picture in the country today," Major Quinn Newton of Denver, a leader in the fight against crime, says, "it can only be licked by an informed, outraged citizenry demanding that something be done. It is strictly up to every American citizen."

For the third consecutive year, a pair of trumpeter swans, one of the rarest and most elusive birds in America, are nesting in a marsh adjoining a mountain lake in Yellowstone national park. The bird is extremely shy and usually stays away from human haunts, but this one pair apparently prefers civilization.

Device Protects Atomic Workers

MINNEAPOLIS—(AP)—A breath of air so slight you could hardly detect it even by holding up a wet finger waits radioactive dust particles away from workers in atomic-energy laboratories.

The controlled air movement over the special desks of such workers must be "marvelously precise," explained James S. Locke of Minneapolis—Honeywell Regulator Company. "It must be strong enough to draw off fumes and dust, but not strong enough to draw into the exhaust mechanism any of the material being tested." An electronic instrument achieves this balance through super-sensitive thermostats which control dampers in the ventilating system. The thermostats create and control a breeze which is about as strong as the upward curling of smoke from a cigarette in an ash tray.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON— Texas Congressmen's Aides Hold Powwow, Hear Speech By Stuart

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Some 100 Texas congressional aides have decided they ought to know one another better. Taking a leaf out of the book of their bosses, who hold delegation luncheons, they met last week in a large room just off the Senate chamber in the Capitol.

With the amiable and quiet-mannered Arthur Perry of Austin presiding, they heard an interesting talk by Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Harold C. Stuart. Perry is administrative assistant to Senator Connally.

The AP official got off to a good start by saying he felt he was almost a Texan, having been born in Oklahoma, and that his father practiced law in Gainesville, Texas, before becoming a federal judge in what was then Oklahoma Territory. Stuart said the Air Force felt particularly close to Texas because of its numerous bases there, plus the fact virtually all the top-ranking officers have at one time or another been stationed in San Antonio at Kelly or Randolph Fields. Woodward's suggestion.

The idea of the luncheon was suggested by Warren Woodward, of the staff of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson. The former Coleman resident sounded out a few of his co-workers and found they favored such a meeting once a month. "You know we're all acquainted," laughed Mary Cowles of Corpus Christi, "but only by telephone. It's nice to know the face that goes with the voice . . . and to know another Texan."

Each secretary is continually calling other Texas offices to carry out some request. Often constituents don't know just who is their congressman.

"The newer ones among us get a lot of helpful suggestions from the old timers at these meetings," commented Lathan Ables of Brownwood, secretary to Rep. Clark Fisher of San Angelo.

"There's Jules Leverett of Galveston. He's secretary to Rep. Clark Thompson and has been secretary to the congressman from that district for 30 years. What he doesn't know isn't worth knowing."

Odessa grammar school youngsters don't like the idea of another state larger than Texas which Alaska would be if admitted to the Union.

Fifteen of them wrote their views in separate letters to Senator Tom Connally. Apparently most were sixth graders.

Leland Young had this to say: "It wouldn't be fair to Texas because it has been the largest all this time. Many of our songs would have to be changed and so would books and many other things."

Ray Donald Baker observed Texans had had to fight Mexico to win independence and that all Alaska had done was "to sit up there and freeze."

Several suggested that if Alaska is admitted, it be divided into three

Dad Takes Hand In Baby Care

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW HAVEN—It's a wise father who knows how to handle his newborn child.

Should you pick him up when he cries? Should you make him stop sucking his thumb? How warm should the baby's room be? How soon can a baby see you and recognize you?

Fathers-to-be get such questions answered in special classes at Grace-New Haven Community hospital, in courses given by specialists of Yale University Medical School.

Such classes aren't new. The new thing here is that these classes are held in the so-called natural childbirth program developed here.

Father comes into his own. He's not shunted aside after bringing his wife to the hospital, and then he is allowed a peek at his baby through the glass wall of a nursery.

Instead, he's educated about the process of childbirth. He stays with his wife during her labor until she goes to the delivery room. He sees his wife and baby in his wife's room right afterward. He knows in advance what a baby needs, how it should be treated.

Natural childbirth was first advanced by an English physician. It doesn't mean childbirth without pain. It does mean training women, through knowledge and through exercises, for childbirth. In studies here since 1947, about 90 percent of women delivered this way were fully conscious and needed only little anesthetic help.

The classes for fathers were a natural addition, says Dr. Herbert Thoms, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Yale. He is author of a new book "Training for Childbirth" (McGraw-Hill).

Part of the expectant father's worry comes from not understanding the physical process of childbirth. Part of it comes from ignorance of how to care for the mysterious new arrival.

Husbands attend four classes. In the first, an obstetrician explains what happens during pregnancy and childbirth. In later classes, husbands and wives together listen to a pediatrician and psychiatrist.

The hospital has adopted the rooming-in plan. Mothers have their babies with them in their own rooms. Father visits both of them during their stay in the hospital. He may learn diapering, the intricacies of the baby's formula, and other problems of care.

His baby is no stranger to him when they all go home.

John Law Is Name Of Deputy Sheriff

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—Many in these parts think he's kidding when John Law introduces himself.

He's the Oklahoma County deputy sheriff—with a name that fits his job, too, although he admits it can be embarrassing at times.

John Law's embarrassment began a few years back when he entered the University of Oklahoma to study law. Fellow students found diversion in much good natured ribbing of Law, the young lawyer.

His name later became a real problem when he quite private law practice in January, 1948, to take his post as deputy sheriff. Law works an eight-hour trick as a radio dispatcher. He answers the phone constantly with: "Sheriff's office, John Law speaking."

That's when the jokesters get in their licks, and it often takes plenty of explaining on Law's part to convince the incredulous.

"Sometimes I feel like using the name Jones or Smith," Law says.

Growing Synthetic Rubber Industry Snaps Back At Far East Plantations

Nature's rubber: Collected from trees, latex is poured into a collecting cup by workers on a plantation in India. Experts can't agree why natural rubber production can't meet demand.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Far Eastern growers of natural rubber wish the United States would stop making rubber out of petroleum. They rate the synthetic industry a real threat to their future.

Most upset is Great Britain, hard pressed as it is for dollars. It counts rubber the No. 1 dollar earner of the so-called sterling bloc, the group of countries tied to Britain's currency, the pound sterling.

Last year the product of rubber plantations in Malaya and Ceylon and other spots earned as many dollars for the sterling areas as did all of Britain's manufactured goods. Recently the British Rubber Development Board set up a bureau in Washington to promote greater sales in America. Far Eastern growers are cooperating.

The British are said to be somewhat skeptical of the "national security" angle of this country's synthetic program. They are reported to feel the prime purpose of maintaining our synthetic plant is to keep a competitive sword dangling over foreign producers' heads so they can't hike prices.

Other Factors
Yet the present U. S. law authorizes the President merely to keep in stand-by condition the bulk of the 685,000 tons' synthetic capacity considered essential to security. Factor other than mandatory control have held U. S. use of synthetics high.

British leaders did win a concession on this score during the "dollar crisis" conference in Washington last September. To open the way for heavier sales of natural rubber, our government shortly afterward reduced prescribed synthetic production. We also indicated we would buy more natural rubber from sterling areas for military stockpiling.

Many experts are doubtful, however, that any of this will really do Brit much good. Theoretically Far Eastern growers can sell perhaps another 50,000 tons of rubber in our markets. But men in the trade say this could be arranged only if American users were willing to outbid other countries by offering higher prices for a product already in short supply.

World consumption of natural rubber is at an all-time high, around 25 per cent above prewar 1939. Yet foreign producers still present the sizable chunk of total rubber output represented by U. S. synthetic manufacture. They know they have the capacity to turn out even more if they can solve their production problems.

President Truman's recent rubber report to Congress estimated 1949 world output of natural rubber at 1,499,000 tons. Top producers were Malaya with 475,000 tons and Indonesia with 425,000. But total world capacity was set at 2,125,000, with Malaya figured at 750,000 tons and Indonesia 600,000.

What keeps their output down when demand is so high? The experts don't agree.

John L. Collier, president of B. F. Goodrich Co., says foreign growers are inefficient. He urges more modern management and the planting of higher-yielding rubber trees.

The best of these, he says, can average 1500 pounds of rubber an acre, against an overall average of 600 for all growing areas.

Others lay great stress on damage said to have been done to plantations by the Japanese invasion of Southeast Asia.

Still others blame inefficient labor practices stemming from the general political unrest affecting native populations in Asia and the fact that materials needed for treatment of raw rubber have been scarce or substandard.

Not Keeping Pace
Whatever the reasons, production isn't keeping pace. Measured against use in the late 19th century, or even a decade ago, consumption is colossal.

In 1870 this country consumed 4,000 tons of rubber—about a quarter of a pound per person. Now it's 250 times that figure, and 50 per cent above the highest pre-war level. Per capita use is around 14 pounds today.

It looks like there's going to be room for everybody.

Band Director Says Audie Merrell Is Midland Girl 'Who Made Good'

One of Midland's hometown girls had made good. At least, that's what Raymond T. Bynum, director of the McMurry College Indian Band at Abilene, will tell you.

She is Audie Merrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Merrell, 609 North Main Street.

Audie was a freshman in McMurry back in the Fall of 1946 when Bynum went there to reorganize the Indian band. The group numbered only 37 members that first year, and sometimes the going was a little tough, even for the most hardy.

Today, four years later, she is one of the three senior members of the original group. In May, she will receive her bachelor of science degree from McMurry, with a major in business administration and minors in religious education and English.

Audie, a 1946 graduate of Midland High School, was a four-year member of the band directors, and her senior year she served as band president. Also she was a member of the typing club and of the National Honor Society.

In McMurry she has received the highest honors which can be bestowed upon a college student. This year she was elected by McMurry students to be one of the college's representatives in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. She was also a runner-up candidate for the position of Campus Queen.

Active on Campus
She is a two-year member of Alpha Chi, national honorary scholarship society. This year she is secretary of the McMurry student council. She serves as vice president of Delta Beta Epsilon, women's social club.

Last year she was representative of the junior class to the student council, and she was secretary of the McMurry band. She is also a member of the campus Women's Athletic Association and the Quadrilles, square dance club.

Audie is an active member of the Christian Foundation, and last year she was president of the Volunteers, an organization composed of all young women who plan to enter full time church service.

In Midland she was an active worker in youth groups at the First Methodist Church, and for three years she was a recipient of the Scharbauer scholarship.

The 50-member McMurry band will present a concert of sacred music at the Midland First Methodist Church Sunday morning. This will be part of a six-day tour of West Texas.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

Our Government has nothing to give that it does not, first or last, take from the people who produce or earn. Taking from some to give to others can be the beginning of loss of freedom. It is only by working and saving as individuals that we can produce lasting benefits for all. A growing account in the bank, built up by systematic deposits out of earnings, represents the kind of security for which industrious and thrifty American citizens are constantly striving.

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

By DALMON McNAIR

It's all over now! Cotton ginning closed down here Saturday until next Fall, with an unofficial total of 18,166 bales processed this season by Midland's three gins.

Two of the gins closed down more than a week ago and the remaining gin shut down Saturday.

It was a record cotton season for Midland County despite many handicaps. Replanting was necessitated by heavy rains and high winds last Spring and then the bollworm set in later. A picker shortage was another handicap which was overcome.

The annual Cattlemen's Field Day and Barbecue will be held at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Balmorea April 15.

Anyone from Midland County wishing to attend the show have been requested to contact Charlie Green, county agent's office. Green hopes to round up a large group of interested ranchers to make the trip to Balmorea.

Several prominent livestock men will appear on the program of the one-day show.

The 1950 Agriculture Census enumeration begins next Saturday and everyone has been requested to give the census workers plenty of cooperation.

The farm census will greatly aid everyone," County Agent Charles Green says, "and will be particularly beneficial in outlining a farm program for the coming year."

The agriculture census is taken once each five years. It lists inventories of farms and resources, provides facts on the amount of farm land we have, how much of it is used, how many head of livestock are on the farms, how much of each crop is produced, farm machinery inventory, and an inventory of facilities in farm homes.

A recent sale of 2,700 mixed Hereford yearlings by Jess Burner of Pecos, to Mack Tchirga of Hardin, Montana, was one of the largest single sales in the Pecos area in several months.

Other recent cattle transactions include the sale of 370 cows, mostly Brahmana, to J. S. Jerig of Clovis, N. M., by Jackson and Miller. Jerig will deliver about 500 calves to Jackson and Miller in November as part of the transaction.

Jerig has leased from Jackson and Miller a 37-section ranch 25 miles north of Toyah for a five-year period.

Buck Jackson of Pecos has sold 500 cows to Jerig. Most of this lot were Herefords, the remainder Brahmana. Buck Miller sold 200 Brahman cows to L. A. Weinacht of Saragosa. Jackson and Miller have sold 25 cows with calves to Doug Medley of Toyah. Joe Nunn of Artesia sold 200 two-year-old Hereford heifers from his Pecos ranch to Buck York.

Russell Hays of San Angelo has contracted 2,500 blackface lambs from Walton Poage of Rankin for delivery from September 1 to September 15. Delivery price will be 21 cents a pound.

Meat animals raised on the ranges of the western states are doing a lot less traveling than they did a quarter-century ago.

That's the report made by the United States Department of Agriculture after completing a study of a long-range shift plan in the trade of livestock in 12 western states.

Those states are Texas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

Today, according to the report, western livestock producers still ship many of their animals east and the demand in eastern markets is still important in determining the prices received by western farmers and ranchmen.

Slaughter in western plants during the last 25 years has doubled. Meat animal production in the area increased only one-third. Texas packing plants account for about one-third of the total slaughter in the 12-state western group.

Opening of the 1950 Production-Marketing Contest of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association has been announced by John Hutchinson, Texas A&M College horticulturalist, who is state chairman for the NJVGA.

The contest offers teen-agers more than 200 agricultural scholarships and awards for doing a superior job of growing and marketing vegetables.

All boys and girls from 12 through 21 years of age are eligible to compete for the $5,000 in awards A&P Food stores provide for this project each year. Texas youths won four state awards in the 1949 contest.

The contest is essentially an educational program designed to further the use of more modern, efficient and profitable methods of growing and selling vegetables.

The annual Brownwood Horse Show, one of the earliest in the southwest, will be held at the Livestock Show grounds at Camp Bowie, May 19-21.

Entries from all over the state are expected for the Brownwood show which will be held as an independent show this year for the first time.

Entry blanks may be obtained from the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce, Show Superintendent Henry C. Wilson, or from Joe Roche, Brown County Agent. The show will feature Palomino, Quarter Horses and Shetlands.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has loaned two scientists to the Turkish government for one year, according to Dr. R. D. Lewis, station director.

H. P. Smith, professor of agricultural engineering, and D. T. Kilough, associate professor in cotton investigations, have been invited by the Economic Cooperative Administration to join a mission to assist the Turkish Ministry of Agriculture in developing an immediate and long-time agricultural program in that country.

Wheat growing areas in the state are particularly suffering from lack of moisture. Every hot, dry wind is doing considerable damage to the wheat crops and in some areas up to 10 per cent of the wheat acreage has been abandoned by the farmers.

Dry winds last week were taking surface moisture and the dry area is extending eastward, according to the Texas Weekly Crop and Weather Bulletin. Rain was urgently needed in the High Plains, Trans-Pecos and southern counties to start new feed, with western Plateau, Low Plains counties needing rain to bring new feed along. Dust settling on dry range feed in western and northwestern counties was materially reducing palatability of dry feed.

Lambing and kidding continued with generally very good lamb and kid crops reported. Some new born lambs, kids and freshly shorn goats were lost during the recent cold spell. The demand for stocker calves and cows continued very active.

The time still is ripe to get into the sheep and goat business, according to J. M. Jones, professor of animal husbandry at Texas A&M College.

Price of sheep is higher than ever before, and the cost of stocking will be high, also, Jones said. But, the price of wool is also higher than ever before, and the outlook indicates the growers will continue to receive high prices for wool. New uses for mohair will keep prices up, Jones said, and make the future of the goat industry a bright one.

A popular misconception, Jones said, is that sheep damage grass stands. It is true, he said, that care must be taken to avoid overstocking. The stock farmer better utilizes his pasture by stocking sheep, goats and cattle together.

A new dry-land alfalfa, first imported from Australia 10 years ago, and adapted to semi-arid areas of Texas, is showing promise as an adaptable legume for Midland County.

W. N. Locklar, C. C. Davis and B. E. O'Neal, who reside in the Cotton Flat community south of Midland, last Fall seeded some experimental plots of the Australian Plica Butta, "Dry Land Alfalfa," on the advice of Charles Green, county agent.

Locklar's plot, which was sown in late October, has received no supplemental moisture from irrigation, and is up to a good stand. It has made remarkable growth, considering the limited rainfall it has received. Green says, Locklar's plot compares favorably with an alfalfa joining plot of common alfalfa which has received regular irrigation from a sprinkler system.

The quality of the new alfalfa is good, according to Green, and the ratio of leaves to stems is satisfactory, although the stems are a pretty heavy, a common trait of dry land types.

According to Green, there is still a lot to be learned concerning the new alfalfa type, but it could be the answer to the farmers' and ranchers' need for a forage and hay crop in this area.

When is a child old enough to have a bicycle?

That is a question parents must answer sooner or later. Here are a few guidelines offered by the National Safety Council:

The safe age for bicycle use depends on where you live and the training of your child, says the council.

How thorough has your child's safety training been? Have you taught him good pedestrian habits? Has he proved he is aware of the dangers of street traffic? Does he obey your instructions in other things?

Pasture Irrigation Pays Off For Midland Farmer

B. E. (Slim) O'Neal, Midland County dairy farmer, and Martin Vavra, Soil Conservation Service engineer of the Stanton work unit, top photo, observe uniform watering of an irrigated pasture at the O'Neal farm four miles south of Midland. The irrigation of the level tab, in which they are standing, will provide a four-inch application of water, which the tab at the right already has received. The watering time for each tab is about 20 minutes. Photo left, shows O'Neal inspecting his irrigated pasture amid his herd of dairy cows which grazes contentedly on the high protein mixture of grasses and legumes. A field study of the irrigation project is scheduled at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the O'Neal farm. The public is invited.

Former Klan Chief Will Shun Politics

MICHIGAN CITY, IND.—(AP)—D. C. Stephenson, who expects to leave prison on parole soon, plans to leave Indiana also and to stay out of politics.

His phenomenal career as Indiana grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan ended with a murder conviction when he was 31 years old and he spent the next 25 years fighting to get out of prison. He recently won a parole authorization.

He gave the general outline of his future plans at an unprecedented press conference at the prison. He would answer no questions about the days when he dominated Indiana Republican political affairs, but he handed newsmen a type-written statement. It said in part: "With the utmost good will I am going to a section of the country where members of my political party are as scarce as hen's teeth. This means I have no intention of participating in politics."

He plans to live with a daughter.

Mrs. Katherine Thompson, in Tulsa, Stephens was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1926 for the death of Marge Oberholzer of Indianapolis, a statehouse employe. She took poison during a weekend trip to Hammond, and the state contended Stephens caused her death by withholding medical attention.

ENGLAND'S TITHES In England and Wales, tithes rents bring an annual revenue of about $15,000,000. Two-thirds of this amount goes to ecclesiastical authorities and the balance to laymen.

B.E.O'Neal Likes Irrigated Pasture

An irrigated pasture has increased milk production and cut down on feed bills for B. E. (Slim) O'Neal, dairy farmer four miles south of Midland.

The new pasture is worth more than $30.50 per day over the previous method of feeding used, O'Neal said.

After putting his 55-cow herd on the pasture for only four days O'Neal began to realize the benefits of a high protein green feed for dairy cows. His total milk production increased by more than 30 gallons per day. The average buterfat content of the milk increased from 4.3 per cent to 4.6 per cent. He reduced his high protein feed by 200 pounds per day. Other dry feed was cut by 200 pounds and the silage was cut by 500 pounds a day. O'Neal's total feed savings amounts to $12.50 per day.

The 30-gallon increase in milk production at 60 cents a gallon means an $18.00 increase in daily milk sales.

In addition to his 55 milking cows, O'Neal also is grazing 25 dairy heifers on his 38-acre irrigated pasture. He began grazing the pasture February 23, and has been making use of it since that time. His plan calls for a 12 to 18 day watering schedule in connection with a rotation grazing program.

Level Border System O'Neal, a cooperater with the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District had the assistance of the Soil Conservation Service in planning his irrigation program. He is using a level border system of irrigation and has a well which produces 1,800 gallons of water per minute with a 65-foot lift.

The irrigation system recommended by the district is based upon efficient water application and requires trained technicians for laying the work out, O'Neal said.

The pasture mixture includes cool and warm season grasses and legumes. The grazing value of this mixture is high and the protein content will average close to 20 per cent, according to E. J. Hughes, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service.

The grasses are perennials, according to Hughes, which means the mixture from reseeded under the rotation system of grazing followed by O'Neal.

In addition to the 38-acre planting of permanent pasture, comparable acreage will be devoted to temporary pasture, such as sweet sudan for Summer grazing and small grain and vetch for Winter and Spring grazing. The temporary pasture will be used in rotation with other clean tilled crops for soil builders in the conservation irrigation program, O'Neal said.

BEEF STRIKE EFFECTIVE PERITH—(AP)—Residents of Marvel Loch declared a beef strike because the beer was too hot. For almost a week, they boycotted the pub and flocked to soft drink shops. The pub keeper installed a new cold storage room.

Safety Rules For Cyclists By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE AP Education Writer When is a child old enough to have a bicycle? That is a question parents must answer sooner or later. Here are a few guidelines offered by the National Safety Council: The safe age for bicycle use depends on where you live and the training of your child, says the council. How thorough has your child's safety training been? Have you taught him good pedestrian habits? Has he proved he is aware of the dangers of street traffic? Does he obey your instructions in other things? Do you live on a quiet street, with little traffic, or on a busy thoroughfare? Do you live in a city or a small town? Is police traffic control good and are drivers generally careful and observant? Will you limit the bike to off-the-street use until you are confident of junior's ability and attitude? Once the decision is made to permit a bicycle, parents should make sure that the one purchased is the proper size, the Council says. Observe these pointers for various age groups: For the five-seven-year-old a 20-inch bike for residential off-the-street use is recommended. Teach junior to dismount and walk the bike across streets. Use the period of training and observation of skills. For eight-ten-year-olds—The 24-inch bike is suitable for limited riding on quiet residential streets. Train him carefully in keeping to the right, riding in a single file, signaling turns, using bell, avoiding tracks or ruts, observing traffic rules, riding from driveways, watching for opening doors of parked cars, using carrier for packages. For 11-years-and older—The 26-inch bike should give full freedom except on heavily-traveled arterial streets. Strict penalties should be imposed for stunting in the streets, carrying extra passengers, hitching behind vehicles or riding at night in traffic. W. T.'s favorite teachers are Ruth Donnell and Mrs. Mary B. Philippus. As for later, Texas, he is still a bit undecided, but he says he would like to manage one of the White's stores. He has held his present position since just before school started this year and says he likes the job very much.

We wish W. T. luck in his plans and thank him for his compliment when he said of Midland, "I've met a lot of friendly people here."

The sextet choir sang "I stood by the River of Jordan," Smith; "Cheerful Song No. 6," Tchaikovsky; and "Madame Jeannette," by Mury.

The Triple Trio was the only ensemble entered from Midland. The

The Merry Mortician

The Odessa Choral Club gave a program in assembly March 17. You don't remember? It could be because the program was on March 17, 1949. We quote from the story, "The students seemed to enjoy the program very much and Jack Mashburn said in behalf of the student body that the chorus would be welcome in Midland any time."

The student body was subjected to a lot of college choirs and bands last year. SMU's choir performed in one assembly and the Texas Tech band in another. Jerry Hoffman, MHS band instructor, directed one number "Das Pensionat."

Rehearsals on the one-act contest play "The Florist Shop" by Winifred Hawkrigde had begun to be presented on April 8. The characters were Clint Dunagan, Charles Paris, Shirley Harrison, Pat Pryor, and Ed Shaw. In the alternate cast were Jay Clayton, Jim McGraw, Dephanne Taylor, Dolis Thompson, and Richard Hull.

Spring Springs!

Spring has sprung! At 10:59 p.m. (CST) March 20, Spring arrived officially.

Sighs of Spring were seen on the MHS campus as girls blossomed out in cotton dresses and boys had turned a golden hue which is slightly unattractive and reminds one of peroxide. This annual peroxide of hair is always a sure sign that Spring is here.

Spring fever ran rampant as students waited for a holiday. They almost had one since school was dismissed at 2:30 Tuesday for the teachers to attend in-service training.

Yearlings Select Class Favorites; Name Stalcup, Myers

Named by their classmates in recent elections, Kay Stalcup and Norman Myers have been awarded the title of Freshman Favorites for the yearling class.

The Freshman Favorite girl has dark blonde hair and blue eyes, stands five feet five inches in height, and can be identified by her wide smile and pleasant manner. Her friendliness is a main reason for her popularity, among her classmates. As one freshman said, "We like her because she seems to like us and goes out of her way to say so."

The above description fits no one but Sandra Kay Stalcup. In addition she sang "The Old Woman and the Peddler," an old English ballad.

Ten piano solos represented Midland High while Midland Junior High presented thirteen. Senior piano soloists were: Mary Miller, Obie Stalcup, Kay Stalcup, Evelyn Heil, Tommy Miller, Lynn Griffith, Rosalyn Leggett, Nancy Kilner, Wanda Burnside, and Ruth Ann Rhodes.

Ten vocal soloists also were contestants from Midland. Vocalists were: Thelma Dele, Barbara Deloy, Virginia Moore, Jackie Stalcup, Wilma Lee, Virginia Webb, Ann Hughes, Mona Sue Biggs, Betty Wilson, and Jimmy Locke.

Judges for the festival were: Dr. Gene Hemme, Texas Tech; Mrs. Stella Shaffer, Texas Tech; Euell Porter, Hardin-Simmons; Leonard Burford and Bill Davis, Abilene Christian College; Floyd Hanson, East Texas State Teachers College; and Robert Bedford, Austin College.

Bohn, physics and chemistry instructor, plans to show one film during the last portion of this year. The physics class has viewed four films to date concerning levers, water power, wildcatting, and the discovery of oil.

The biology and science classes have viewed one film to date. The above description fits no one but Sandra Kay Stalcup. In addition she sang "The Old Woman and the Peddler," an old English ballad.

MHS Curriculum Offers Wide Range Of Courses And Skills

The curriculum of Midland High School—larger this year than ever before—offers a wide variety of courses to prepare high school students for either a college career or for life in the economic life of this country.

For the guidance of students and parents, a list of courses offered and objectives of each is presented below.

English is a solid requirement in all four years of high school. English 11 and 12 is a freshman course and is taught by Mrs. W. J. Parr, Mrs. M. J. Moore, Mrs. E. J. Tucker and Lucy Massey. Mrs. E. J. Tucker and Lucy Massey are instructed in English 21 and 22, which Louise Boyd and Owen Gordon have junior English classes 31 and 41. English 41 and 42 also are taught by Owen Gordon. The objectives of this extensive study of English are:

Grammar—to aid the student in developing language skills for use now and in the future and to help him speak the English language correctly and without conscious effort; Literature—to show the student the value and enjoyment to be derived from the printed page, and to acquaint with the literature that should be known to everyone.

Journalism, a subject closely related to the study of English, is taught by Mrs. W. J. Parr. Objectives of the course are: to develop an awareness of the part which publications and radio play in modern life; to develop desirable standards in the choice of newspapers; to teach students the fundamentals of press work.

Speech courses offered are: speech 11 and 12, public speaking 31 and 32, and a one semester course in dramatics and radio speech. Verns Harris is speech director. The objectives of the course are: to aid the student in developing speech skills in the use of the microphone; to stress clear, distinct speaking that is pleasing and convincing. The public speaking or debate course is intended to teach both mental reasoning and good speech. Lucy Moore is the instructor in Latin 11-12 and 31-32. The objectives in studying this subject are: to help a student in his own language; to gain largely derived from it, and to lay the foundation for other languages.

Two years of Spanish (11-12, 31-32) are taught by Minnie Jackson. Use of the Spanish language as a means of communication and a better understanding of the Latin American people are two goals of these courses.

Helen Wiley and Frank Blackwell are the instructors in Spanish 11-12, or World History. The objectives of this course, primarily a freshman course, are to acquaint students with the history of the world and to realize the contributions of various peoples from the various countries. American History (31 and 32), taught by Josephine Weaver and Fernon Rutledge, has as its goal the teaching of the American way of life, and the acquisition of the student's own mental facts of American history.

Class 31 is a one semester course designed to give the pupil a knowledge of what his government stands for in the world. Texas History 30, has as its objectives to help students to see our state with the United States and to acquire a knowledge of its history. It too, is a one semester course and is taught by Josephine Weaver.

General science aims are: to help the student understand in a general way the principles of science, and to lay the foundation for other sciences courses. Audrey Gill, L. A. Bohn, and John Bizio teach these classes.

Biology 21 and 22 taught by John Bizio is designed to give an understanding of how organisms live and function.

Chemistry and physics are courses which help students form the habit of thinking scientifically and give them a better understanding of the science world. L. A. Bohn teaches both of these subjects.

General math 11 and 12 is intended to lay the foundation for more advanced mathematics. Instructors are Jack Bass, Sam Marks, and Frank Blackwell.

A two year study of algebra is maintained by the high school. Audrey Gill and Sam Marks teach this course. Mrs. Josephine Weaver also teaches advanced algebra. The purpose and aim of algebra are to instruct the student in fundamental mathematical principles and their use in many occupations.

Plane geometry 31 and 32 is a course designed to develop methods of logical thinking and to give the student an understanding of the use of the student in body control and to give him the spirit of fair play in competition.

Driver education is a fairly new course and is taught by Audrey Gill. The objectives of this one semester course are: to develop the right attitude in driving; to learn the safety devices and parts of the car; and to gain some actual driving experience.

The vocational agriculture program under the direction of J. R. Cuffman offers three terms of instruction. The objectives are to train boys in leadership, respect for country and home to acquaint students with farm and ranch problems.

Art 11 and 12, under the direction of Inez Parks, aims to direct and preserve an interest in art through significant information and activity experiences.

Distributive education is intended to help the student learn to adjust to the adult world and to offer the student an opportunity to become a trained and experienced employee by the time he graduates. Robert Donnell is in charge of this department.

Mechanical drawing is taught by Zishe Magee. The aim of the course is to lay a foundation for work in the future and related fields.

Bookkeeping is taught to help the student develop a knowledge and skill in the fundamentals of record keeping. Typing is intended to develop skill and speed in operating the typewriter. Shorthand helps acquire a knowledge of shorthand theory and develop a shorthand vocabulary. These commercial courses are useful in later life.

Homemaking classes, under the direction of Mrs. Fay Massey and Clyde Parmelee, include three terms of work in clothing and foods for girls and a class of general homemaking for boys. The objective of home economics is to teach and give actual experience in managing the home.

The vocal music department offers a choir in Cappella and a choral club. Mr. G. Michener is the director of this department. The objectives are to instruct students in the right way to acquire skill in vocal music and to aid them in acquiring a better appreciation of music.

Jerry Hoffman is the director of the band department. The goals of band instruction is to help the student gain skill in the playing of musical instruments and to teach them group cooperation.

Two other courses offered are Laboratory Industries and Woodwork. The objectives of these are to give fundamental training in these skills of working with machinery. Jack Masburn is the instructor.

Majorette Tryouts To Be Held In April

Primary tryouts for the drill squad majorettes will be held April 17, according to Margi Carter, head majorette this year. They will be held in the gym.

Any girl, except those graduating this Spring, may go out. They need not have been a member of the drill squad in a previous year, but must be passing in all solid subjects and making good citizenship grades. Girls who were majorettes last year must tryout again this year.

After the tryouts in April, the eight or 12 girls chosen will meet each morning in May and the 1950-51 majorettes will be picked from this group.

Meet Tugboat

Tugboat is a friendly character. He has an engaging look about him although it's rather forlorn. He's about 8 1/2 inches tall and is black and white, with little white feet. The student body took quite a liking to him when he showed up in the pep rally Wednesday, March 22. Oh yes—Tugboat is a mascot who has a personality of his own. It is purely coincidental.

Paintings Brought To MHS By AAUW

During the past week an exhibit of 36 paintings was sent to the MHS art department by the American Association of University Women of Alabama. The paintings were meant to show the different factors which must be considered in producing a work of art.

The display was made up of eight groups of paintings which showed rhythm, composition, line movement, all-over design, dark and light, fruits and flowers in composition, pictorial composition, movement, and the human head in painting.

The paintings were selected by a committee in the University of Alabama. On the committee were: Davis S. Kennedy, chairman; Virginia Barnes and Katherine Cox Smith.

Subs, Anti-Subs Become Navy's Glamor Duty; Have Money, Manpower Priority

KEY WEST NAVAL BASE, Fla.—(NRA)—Submarine service and anti-submarine warfare have suddenly become the glamor outfits of the Navy.

With the shortest submarine now recognized by many military experts as Russia's greatest single threat to American security in case of war, the U. S. Navy's No. 1 effort has become a race to build better subs than the Reds have, and to keep ahead of them in sub defense methods.

These activities have been given top priority on the Navy's money and manpower. The cream of the Navy's young officers and enlisted men is being sent to the headquarters of sub and anti-sub training here for close screening in order to put only the top men in this service. The research and development projects on the base are the most ingenious and closely guarded secrets of the whole U. S. national military establishment.

Little of the rancor against unification which is felt by many in Number-killing: Blimps to submarine. ASB sub vs sub.

As soon as it can be made and purchased, the latest type of sonar gear will be put on all Navy ships afloat and on most of those in the midget fleet. The school which trains sonar operators here is getting the highest type enlisted man the Navy can produce.

Improvements have been made on the effectiveness of depth charges and on other underwater ordnance. Underwater telephones providing communications between submerged subs and with surface ships have been improved and their ranges extended.

Blimps are being tested in airplanes which might prove able to detect the presence of submarines under water through magnetic impulses. Numerous other research programs along these lines are in various stages.

One of the major, newest anti-sub measures being evaluated is the use of the sub versus the sub. This holds great promise, the experts say.

Many improvements have also been made on the established methods of hunting and destroying enemy subs. Blimps operating from aircraft carriers are believed to be more efficient for patrol work than when they are land-based. This is being tested here, as well as the operation of the extremely long-range P2-V patrol planes off of carriers for anti-sub patrol.

In addition, new techniques of aircraft patrol of the sea are being perfected which do the same job but with fewer planes and with less miles flown.

Sneak: This is a closeup of the Navy "breathing device" for subs that revolutionized underwater warfare.

Anti-sub warfare developments since the war are no less spectacular than the development of new subs, and they are just as secret. Sonar equipment, instruments used to locate subs under water, has been perfected to the point that once a sub has been located there is no chance of its getting away from sonar contact.

Mother Was A Rooster

A bantam rooster with a yen to be a hen, makes himself at home with some of the eight cocker spaniel pups he has partially adopted. The banty, owned by L. E. Henderson of Denton, Texas, simply moved into the house of Inky, mother of the pups, and took over. Henderson couldn't dislodge the rooster, and Inky doesn't want to, so the cocker and the banty are sharing the joys of raising eight young pups.

Mule, Camel Steaks Are On Black Market

TEL AVIV, ISRAEL.—(AP)—The Israeli diet is skimping and monotonously features frozen fish as the main entrée—but even that's better than horse, mule or camel steaks. Zvi Lehman, an official of the inspection department of the ministry of supply, says that Israel often gets when they buy "meat" in the black market.

Israeli law permits meat to be sold in rationed and strictly limited quantities three days a week. But for many Israelis, even though a black marketeer is hard to find in this country, they still prefer trying to get some of the "meat" he offers for sale.

Rabbits Harassing Australian Ranchers

SYDNEY.—(AP)—Rabbits today are a bigger worry to the sheep and cattle growers of Australia than ever before. The rabbits are eating the grass meant for sheep and cattle, and are increasing in numbers. There are four main reasons:

1. Americans are wearing fewer felt hats made from rabbit fur. This makes the business of killing rabbits for skins less profitable.
2. There has been a slump in the export of rabbit carcasses to Britain.
3. The past season has been a good one for rabbits, which there is plenty of grass.
4. There is a shortage of wire netting to make rabbit proof fences.

MCKENNEY Answers Your Questions CANASTA

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Writer for NEA Service

It is unlikely that coincidence accounts for the fact that a large part of the Canasta mail this week asks for the proper procedure (1) when the last card of the stock pile is drawn; and (2) when a player is down to only one card in his hand. There evidently is considerable confusion on these points, and the following rules should help to clear up.

When a player draws the last card of the stock and then discards without going out, the next player must take the discard pile if the up-card matches one of his side's melds, and if the pile is not frozen. He may, if he wishes, take the discard pile if he legally can do so with cards in his hand.

If he fails to take the pile, play ends, if he takes it and discards without going out, the above procedure applies to the next player, and so on, until some player goes out, or until some player at his turn fails to take the pile.

In this situation a player who holds only one card in his hand must, when possible, take a one-card discard pile and meld out.

If no player melds out, the cards are counted but there is no bonus for going out.

A player who holds only one card in his hand may not take a one-card discard pile unless the stock pile is exhausted.

Q—We do not have a completed canasta, and I am down to one card. I draw from the stock pile and can play it on one of my melds. Is it permissible for me to play it and keep the card I had in my hand?

A—No. The rules state that you must draw and discard unless you can go out; also, you cannot go out unless you have a completed canasta. In your situation, if you draw a card and meld it, you must discard. That would leave you with no cards, which is not permissible. You always must have at least one card in your hand until you can go out.

Q—When does a black tray freeze the discard pile?

A—A black tray never freezes the discard pile. It simply acts as a stop card for the next player. You cannot pick up a black tray, so there is no way to take the discard pile when the up-card is a black tray. The player at that point is forced to draw from the stock pile. When he discards a card other than a black tray or a wild card, the black tray no longer acts as a stop card for the next player because it has been covered up.

Q—I am the first player after the dealer and have completed my draw. Our side needs an initial meld of 50 points. I have five tens and two deuces in my hand. Would you advise melding the whole canasta, thus completing our initial meld, and our canasta is the basis of the game?

A—This would depend somewhat upon the score. If you put down the completed canasta, it will leave you with only four cards in your hand, which means that you are going to try to go out as quickly as possible. If your side is ahead, this is a good line of play to adopt. If the other side is far in the lead, it might be better to wait a round or two. Your partner might be able to make an initial meld, then you could meld your tens and your partner might be able to add to them. Within a round or two, instead of one canasta, you might have two or even three, and still be in a position to go out quickly.

Handy Radiation Detectors

Here are two new pocket-size "Geiger counters" developed by scientists at the University of California at Los Angeles. The detectors change color in the presence of radioactive materials, such as X-rays or atomic dust, warning the wearer that he is exposed to radiation. Small one at left, resembles a pocket of paper matches and can be worn around the neck like a GI "dogtag." The other is pen-like, with clip.

WINDOWS MENACE BIRDS ORGANIZED IN KERMIT

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Picture windows can be added to lighthouses and radio towers as habitats for migrating birds. The Audubon Magazine reports birds frequently fly into such windows, particularly ones which extend across two sides of a room. Apparently this deceives the birds into trying to fly through the room. The magazine is asking readers for any practical ideas on keeping the birds safe while not obstructing the views from such windows.

Modernizing Of Old Home Increases Comfort, Value

An old house often has more space than a new one and is well-built. By adapting new ideas to his old house the owner can increase its comfort, convenience, beauty and value, suggests the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

Eliminating outmoded false eaves, ornate fretwork and gingerbread will bring out pleasing modern lines. A tall, awkward house gains the illusion of today's low, rambling architectural lines by the addition of a porch or wing at one or both sides. Roofs appear lower if painted in dark shades above light exterior walls. A simple color plan to emphasize long horizontal lines is effective.

Replacing small windows with large picture windows has a rejuvenating effect.

Interior modernization includes: more convenient kitchen; modern heating system accompanied by complete thermal insulation; more electric outlets and simple modern lighting fixtures; built-in cupboards and extra closets. Removing a wall between living and dining room will create a large open room. Eliminating excessive wood trim and moldings and using well-planned solid-color wall treatment will give a modern look.

More Comfort

Important to heating plant efficiency is adequate thermal insulation. About 85 per cent of older dwellings are not insulated, although insulation is described by government agencies as "an essential element in dwelling construction." Because of the increased summer comfort and fuel savings amounting to as much as 35 per cent with full-thickness mineral wool insulation in exposed walls and roof areas, the University of Illinois Small Homes Council declares: "Insulation is needed in all homes that use heating systems in winter or are exposed to high temperatures in summer."

When a try square is not available, a narrow board can be squared by using a folding rule, as shown in American Builder magazine.

Hold the second section of the rule against the edge of the board. Then place the outside corner of the end of the first section at the 20 5/8 inch mark on the third section. Draw a line along the outside edge of the first section to obtain a perfect right angle.

Hold the electric lights behind frosted glass set flush into the ceiling, or run fluorescent tubes around the ceiling line behind a soffit.

If the garage is attached to the house, the wall between should be made as fire-resistant as possible. In fact, the entire structure should be given fire-resistant treatment because with human occupancy the fire hazard may be increased.

Attached Garage Can Double For Recreation Room

If you have no basement your garage can double as a recreation room. Finish the walls with building board or plaster. Use the same material attached to the collar beams extending across the garage to provide a flat ceiling and to hide the rough construction of the underside of the roof. Build shallow low wall cabinets along one wall for storage of car equipment, outdoor tools and games. Extend these cabinets from floor to ceiling.

High on the opposite wall, provide additional cabinets or shelves so that furniture can be placed under them to save floor space. Sliding doors save space, make the cupboard interiors easy to reach even when the car is in the garage.

Conceal the electric lights behind frosted glass set flush into the ceiling, or run fluorescent tubes around the ceiling line behind a soffit.

If the garage is attached to the house, the wall between should be made as fire-resistant as possible. In fact, the entire structure should be given fire-resistant treatment because with human occupancy the fire hazard may be increased.

Circular Window Beautifies Home

A large-paned circular floor-to-ceiling picture window forms the front wall of the living room of this pleasant ranch-style home. Red Cedar exterior siding and shingle further add to its charm. Modern design corner window and long horizontal roof lines are attractive. In its 24'4" x 25' dimensions, the house contains 4 1/2 rooms. A cabinet wall divides the 12'7" x 21' living room from the 10' x 10 1/2' kitchen. Stove and sink are compactly aligned against wall adjoining bath to effect saving on plumbing installation. Over-size closets have space-saving steel sliding doors. Rear-entry 10'7" x 10' utility room contains the heating unit. The hot-water radiant heating system is doubly efficient and economical to operate because all exterior walls and attic are protected with mineral wool insulation. The front bedroom is 12' x 12'7", the rear one 12'7" x 8'6". The rooms open conveniently into a small center hallway.

Color Gives Home Personality And Individuality

Color gives a home individuality and personality and sets it apart from its neighbors. Color can affect a family's moods; make small spaces appear larger, larger ones smaller; and even banish the barren look for a sparsely-furnished room.

Most satisfying colors are pastels or subtle off-shades, rather than pure primary red, blue, yellow. Dark wall tones contrast effectively with light-colored furniture. Dark gray with white trim, or Kelly green with canary yellow ceiling are good combinations. Maple furniture is brought into focus against shades of blue or yellow. Dark mahogany or oak is enhanced by medium greens or deeper shades of blue.

Before deciding on a room color scheme, two-foot squares or swatches of paint or paper in preferred colors and patterns from the dealer will make selections easier, as colors may be tried on walls, behind furniture and under artificial light.

Blame For Squeaky Floors Usually Found In Faulty Subfloors

High on the list of "things we can do without" a squeaky floor. Unquestionably they are among the most annoying of life's many little annoyances. Prospective home builders would be wise, therefore, to insist that approved methods be used in construction of their floors.

A floor of fine oak or other hardwood is almost certain to be free of squeaks if correct installation procedures are observed in laying both the finish floor and the subfloor.

As a rule when squeaks develop they originate not in the hardwood finish floor but in the subflooring. Generally the cause is loosening of subfloor boards from the joists to which they are nailed. The nails may not have been driven tightly, or an insufficient number of nails may have been used. Improperly dried subfloor boards may have been employed. Such boards have a tendency to shrink excessively in drying out, thus allowing nails to loosen.

The absence of subflooring also can be a factor in development of squeaks. Subfloors provide a firm base for the finish floors. They are so essential to sound construction that most modern building codes specify them. Their omission is poor economy.

Californian's Fiddle Valued At $100,000

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — It would take a fortune to buy the ancient violin owned by Vladimir Lenak. He values it at $100,000.

The music teacher and former concert violinist says his fiddle was carved in 1510 by Gaspar Duffourprugger, instrument maker to King Francis I of France. It reputedly is one of the earliest modern-type violins.

Lenak acquired the prize, he says, more than 50 years ago from a member of the Russian royal family who admired his playing.

GET TB TREATMENT

CAIRO — The World Health Organization has "virtually completed" vaccination of 215,572 youthful Palestinian Arab refugees against tuberculosis. The refugees were among 800,000 who during the Palestine War, fled from Palestine. Since then they have been living in refugee camps in Arab areas.

Burbank Man Builds Dog House Of Future

BURBANK, CALIF. — (AP) — Reginald Odegaard decided it was time to give dogs a break in this hot-in-the-summer-cold-in-the-winter area. So he began building what he calls "the dog house of the future."

The 30-year-old power company employe, whose hobby is designing small homes, makes his pooch shelters out of stucco. A flat roof, detachable for easy cleaning, serves as sun deck.

The houses are separated into bedroom and living room. The latter has a plate glass picture window with a window box. The latest models have miniature carpets and beds and one-inch square flagstones set in front.

Surplus Flying Pants Becomes Teddy Bears

SALT LAKE CITY — (AP) — The Navy may never have thought it would happen but some of its surplus flying pants are becoming teddy bears. The fleece-lined pants make very cuddly bears.

Mrs. De Wayne C. Anderson got the teddy bear idea when her husband brought home 150 pairs which he bought as surplus and planned to sell. She cuts up the pants and sews the pieces together in the shape of three-foot tall teddies. For noses, feet-bottoms and paws she uses the dark brown leather from the pockets. She stuffs the bears with upholstery batting. Fox eyes from a furrier serve as eyes. And Mrs. Anderson says the pants bring more money as toy bears.

"Alice, except for the thirty minutes I spent fixing that flat, this has been the most wonderful evening of my life!"

Dads Are World To Their Children

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Education Writer

Fathers are necessary, say Walter and Edith Neisser, not just to be "good providers" or to yield the big stick of discipline, but for more far-reaching and less apparent reasons.

The Neissers have just published a little pamphlet, "Making The Grade As Dads," (Public Affairs Committee, 22 East 38 St., New York City, 20 cents) in which they point out fathers make three unique contributions to their children's development:

1. Just being a man, they say, is the most important thing a father does. To take their places as men and women in this world, children have to know how men are supposed to act. No matter how successful a father may be in his own life, the children learn much about masculinity from watching and listening to him. Little boys often imitate his walk and every gesture. Everywhere in the world, boys learn that when they grow up they will have to look after women and children if they are to be considered responsible members of the community. Fathers are expected to be strong and protective, they learn. Boys must have a pattern of fatherhood to imitate as a civilization is handed on from one generation to the next. And because their fathers should be careful not to hand down too rigid a concept of what a man does and does not do. It is a good thing for a boy to see his father helping to dry the dishes and otherwise helping his mother around the house.

2. A girl, too, learns from Dad what men are like—that men must work for their families. She sits down these impressions about these early play a part when she is ready to choose a mate 15 or 20 years later.

3. Father stands for the outside world as far as children are concerned. As a father, whether you know it or not, say the authors, you are "interpreting the codes of society" when you answer the endless questions about why we care about the next generation, why people fight wars, why the math teacher is such a sourpuss, or why you think tomorrow is a poor day to go fishing. Children learn a great deal from your spontaneous and often colorful comments about the news of the day, as you talk with the man in the clear about the last election or with Mother about the boss. Out of such observations the next generation weaves its values and opinions.

4. Father stands for competence. He represents everything strong and capable to his children. He may feel like a "weakling." His wife and wife may think him no great hero. But not so his youngsters. To them he is the great guy who can fix almost anything; who knows all the answers; who can lick the next fellow's pop one hand tied behind his back; whose opinions become gospel for his children; opinions to be relayed to other children with the statement that it is so because "My Pop says so!"

Out of the power and wisdom father possesses in their eyes, say the authors, children bolster up their own feelings of being small and weak and helpless.

So, all through childhood, father represents masculinity and represents the ways of the outside world and what it takes to live in that world.

Dream Of Assisting Others Near Reality For Afflicted Man

UNION CITY, N. J.—(NEA)—For 26 years, Robert Van der Voort has battled hemophilia, the bleeding disease for which there is no known cure. For the last four years he has dreamed of a way to help others who suffer from the dreaded illness.

Today, because the story of his dream was told in the New York World-Telegram and the Sun last month, Van der Voort's hopes are on the way to becoming reality. The story told of Van der Voort's hopeful plan that some day all the victims of the crippling disease could be banded together and, through medical and social research, improve methods and social research, improve methods of treatment and eventually find a cure.

With Same Hopes
Van der Voort's dream caught the eye of Robert L. Henery, president of Hemophilia Foundation, Inc., in New York, who started the organization with the same hopes that inspired Van der Voort's plan. Before Henery could get in touch with Van der Voort, the Union City man had formed his own group—the New Jersey Hemophilia Society, backed by the Union City chapter of Kiwanis. When Henery explained, however, how merger of the local group with an international organization would speed the chances of making Van der Voort's dream a reality, the two organizations were merged.

Van der Voort now is a vice president and on the board of trustees and executive committee of the national foundation, and he works at these "dream jobs" at his home 516 Eleventh St. That is not all he does; despite his handicap, he works when he can at embroidery and needlework factories, traveling about in a tricycle cart he designed for himself.

Like Van der Voort, the Hemophilia Foundation believes that concentrated research can find a cure for the disease, on which scientific progress stands just about where it was 2000 years ago. Then it was mainly associated with royalty, since its most famous victims were the Czarovich of Russia and Don Juan Spanish royalty. Sub-surface bleeding leaves many hemophiliacs crippled at the knees, ankles, elbows and fingers, and the result often resembles polio sufferers. It strikes only males, but it can strike without any known family history or background of the illness, and has been known to skip as many as seven generations before reappearing without warning.

Today intense research is going on at the Children's Hospital, Boston, under the direction of Dr. Louis K. Diamond, director of the American Red Cross Blood Bank. Already blood fractions have been isolated that have been helpful for many hemophiliacs.

No Public Appeal
This project has been underwritten for one year by the Hemophilia Foundation which makes no public appeals for funds but works through civic organizations and fund-granting foundations interested in medical research.

The merger that took place in Union City puts both the national foundation and Van der Voort closer to making their dream a reality. The Union City Kiwanis Club is urging the Kiwanis International to join the battle.
