Louisiana Is Pouting at Hollywood These Days

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD — Exclusively purs: The state of Louisiana, turning over "All the King's Men" to its Huey Long flavor, nixed a Hollywood studio's request to shoot a movie there because of "controversial" theme. Other films will get the same treatment unless they're simple boy-meets-girl romances.

Harold Lloyd's 25-year-old daughter, Gloria, will be the next movie doll to marry a mint. She's planning marriage with Bill Gault, heir to the wine fortune.

Frank Morgan's widow, Alma, is in a sanitarium suffering from dehydration. The rare illness requires her to keep chipped ice in her mouth eight hours a day.

Shelley Winters was dining with friend Farley Granger, wolfing down big steaks and not looking all worried about his suspension or turning down Sam Goldwyn's Lorna Doone' and her run-ins with a hairdresser and a director.

"I think the hydrogen bomb is more important and more frightening than front page stories about me."

Said Farley: "I didn't like the script of 'Lorna Doone.' Didn't feel it was for me. It may end up as a smash hit, but I insist on doing good movies."

John Fontaine is up for Bill Blevins' film version of Jack London's 'The Little Lady of the Big House.' Betty Garrett isn't ready to admit it, but the director line boys insist she had her nose bobbed. By the same doctor and at the same hospital as Barbara Bel Geddes. Errol Flynn isn't the only one being bowled over by a title. The Althea Downing from Louis Hayward is giving the ush act in really Princess Sita Singh of India. Columbia will re-make "Theodora Goes Wild." Theodora Goes Wilder?

Ugo Ugolini, the maitre d' at the Villa Nova restaurant, is a dead ringer for Charles Boyer. Other night a woman rushed up to him and gushed: "Oh, Mr. Boyer, that 'Arch of Triumph' just about finished you, didn't it?"

Tall order for the gal who gets the title role in Mark Robson's next, "Big Blonde." The script calls for "an actress of great talent, busty, but not too husky, who can portray a manner luster." Jane Russell? Bill Perberg and George Seaton will shoot for the whimsy of their "Miracle on 34th Street" in their next, "For Heaven's Sake." Clifton Webb will play an angel whose mission on earth is to get a little girl born to a vaudeville team.

Gloria de Haven is gnashing her teeth. Fox cut one of her big musical numbers out of "The Girl in the Red Velvet Swing." The celluloid West is getting glamour. A big gambling saloon in U.I.'s "Pre-Code" has 10 Hollywood cuties working as dealers. Franchot Tone, who usually grows at photographers, broke down and let the camera boys snap him with his new date, Peggy Cummins. Maureen O'Hara is being "introduced" to U.S. audiences on TV. "Jamaica Inn," playing the TV circuit, has a title sheet reading: "Introducing Maureen O'Hara." The picture was filmed 12 years ago.

Not a Buggy But I asked Edmund O'Brien is "The Los Angeles Story" is a film biography of a gangster Bugsy Siegel. He answered:

"It's the story of an anti-social fellow who thinks he has climbed too high to respect human dignity and the simple rules of the game of life. It could be the saga of Siegel or Hitler. Only the Hitler yarn would need DeMulle bathtubs to make it spectacular."

"A good performance in a movie doesn't always mean a person can act. In Hollywood we go on photographing people until they do act."—Director Gordon Douglas.

An audience at London's Palladium wouldn't let Dorothy Lamour sing until she changed from an evening gown into a sarong. Dottie was trying to shed the sarong girl tag for several years but apparently there's no escape.

Housing Units At Five Texas Bases Trimmed In Bill

WASHINGTON—Five Texas Army and Air Force bases failed to get House approval of military housing projects valued at millions. The House sent to the Senate Tuesday a $930,000 military construction program which provided $580,000,000 for public works construction at military and naval installations.

Before the bill was passed, Representative Vinson (D-Ga.) proposed an amendment which eliminated $108,000,000 in authorizations for military housing in the United States.

Armed Forces Committee attaches said the amendment eliminating family quarters and utilities would result in these reductions for individual authorizations in the House bill as proposed by the committee:

- Army: Fort Hood, Texas, from $9,100,000 to $718,000; Special Weapons Project (sites unspecified) from $12,139,300 to $2,258,800. Air Force: Barks Air Force Base, El Paso, $4,787,000 to $3,203,000; Hood Air Force Base, Temple, from $2,309,467 to $1,913,467. The amendment would eliminate these authorizations: Fort Bliss, $462,000; Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, $1,551,000.

Two Abilene Youths Held In Knife Threat

RED OAK, IOWA—Two Abilene, Texas, youths are held under $5,000 bonds on charges of threatening a deputy sheriff with a knife.

Sheriff George Christian said charges of robbery with aggravation were filed against lads listed as Frank Hamilton Merrill, 16, and Charles William Bale, 18.

Deputy Bill Gibson said he was called when the youths tried to cash a check for $7 at a cafe Saturday. Gibson said one of the youths stuck a knife in his ribs.

They drove Gibson's car to a railroad grade and fled. They were captured later in a culvert.

Youngsters Should Be Taught Early To Avoid Constipation

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. Written for NEA Service

Constipation is complained about a lot but it is not as common as most people think. The term chronic constipation should be used only when the bowel actually does keep waste matter too long. It should not be confused with a spastic colon or irritable bowel, which so many people mistake for constipation.

No one feels really full of pep and vigor unless the waste material from food passes through the intestines in the proper way. If it goes too fast diarrhea is present; if it stays too long in the lower bowel or large intestine and becomes hard and dry, constipation results. Either of these interferes with a really healthy feeling.

The proper emptying of the bowel is partly a matter of training. Neglected and improper training, especially in childhood, are often at fault. A regular time of day for bowel movement should be chosen early in life. This responsibility should be given to a youngster as soon as he is able to take it.

At this time careful instruction should be given not only as to the regularity of bowel movement but also on the importance of responding to nature's call as the constant suppression of this impulse is likely to produce constipation and perhaps piles or hemorrhoids.

Diet, of course, has a great deal to do with regulating the bowel movement and avoiding constipation.

Food should be carefully chosen and properly chewed. The diet should contain enough fruits and vegetables which supply "roughage" or bulk to provide sufficient volume to produce one good bowel movement a day. If too many laxative foods are contained in the diet, however, it may irritate the intestine and cause too many or too loose stools. This should be avoided as well as the other extreme of insufficient bulk.

The constant use of laxatives or cathartics with the idea of completely emptying the bowel is undesirable. The intestines are not meant to be entirely empty under normal conditions and the too frequent use of laxatives merely irritates and may cause actual harm to the intestines.

Simple constipation usually can be treated satisfactorily with diet alone. This is more difficult if the condition has lasted for many years, but satisfactory diet, exercise and regularly ordinary success in correcting the difficulty.

Chronic constipation, however, is better avoided than treated. Consequently the proper diet, adequate exercise and good bowel habits should be adopted in youth.

Abundant Living

By E. STANLEY JONES

Acts 17:28; Rom. 11:36; Ehp. 4:6; Luke 17:21 THE KINGDOM OUR REAL ENVIRONMENT Yesterday we saw that we must accept the struggle in nature that produces a superior physical self. The end of this struggle is redemption from weakness and from unfitness. While we must accept this fact, nevertheless the danger lies in taking the laws of adaptation to a physical environment and making them the laws of adaptation to a moral and spiritual environment. The laws of struggle and adaptation to a purely physical environment do not fit a moral and spiritual environment, and when applied to this higher environment they break down and cause confusion. For the moral and spiritual world in which man lives has its own laws of adaptation and survival. When a man acts in accordance with these laws, he survives and develops; when he doesn't, he decays and is utterly destroyed.

Christianity, founded on the laws of the Kingdom of God, believes in the survival of the fittest: in a moral and spiritual universe, the morally and spiritually fit survive, and pass on their spiritual and physical qualities to the next generation. This law of the survival of the fittest and the elimination of the unfit operates before our very eyes.

The environment into which man must fit, and to which he must adapt himself, is therefore the Kingdom of God. When we fit into this Kingdom, we live; and when we don't, we are self-frustrated—the structure of our beings breaks down. In the words of Jesus we "perish." Here and now the process of perishing takes place, and the life forces break down through what we call evil. A suicide in England left this note: "Many explanations will be given of this act, but I think it is this: I see that it is the result of a private war going on inside myself, and which cannot be solved." The war that was going on inside him was his war with the Kingdom, the laws of which were written into the constitution of his being; and when he was at war with himself, that war could not be solved—on this basis; hence, suicide.

When food such as cereals and rice sticks to the inside of a pan turn it upside down in hot water for a few minutes. The steam will loosen the food inside.

COWTOWN AIRPORT SPURS IMPROVEMENTS AT BIG 'D' DALLAS—(P)—The Dallas City Council voted Tuesday night to spend $1,302,299 on Love Field improvements to prevent heavy losses of airline business to Fort Worth's Midway Airport. The city will ask federal aid.

My Father and my God. The Kingdom is written into my flesh and blood and bone and nerve cell. How can I escape it? For if I do, I shall die. Help me therefore to come to terms with that Kingdom, and hence with life. For I would live and live fully. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Portrait Necessary For Setting Of 'Miranda' Is Painted By Cast Member

Theater workers have been known to beg, borrow and steal to get the necessary props for a production and theatergoers are seldom any wiser. But for "Miranda," Community Theater play that will open Thursday, a life-size oil portrait of one actor was done by another.

The portrait is of Elizabeth Pennebaker, who plays Clara Marten. It was done by Roger Coverley, who is cast as Nigel Hood. Coverley, a Midland artist, did the picture to hang over the mantel of the Marten's drawing room, the setting for the entire play.

An oil painting rather than the ordinary stage picture, the portrait is three-quarter length, with Mrs. Pennebaker seated on a sofa. She is wearing a gold-satin suit. The portrait took about 20 hours to complete, and was done during the time the play was being rehearsed. It was finished Sunday.

Newcomers In Cast
Coverley is new to Midland and the Community Theater. Although he spends most of his time painting, he professes to an interest in all the arts.

His wife, Sue, plays Miranda in the comedy. She has been in Midland not quite three months. Television shows in New York and a little modeling in 1949 have prepared her for stage activity.

Another newcomer to Midland and the theater is Gwen Workman, who has made her home here since January. Her theater experience dates back to a child's part in "Oh Professor" when she was 10 years old. She had a taste of vaudeville with the Orpheum Circuit and has worked with Little Theater in Dallas and Miami, Fla. Mrs. Workman will play Betty, the maid, in "Miranda."

Betty Simpson, the other new player in the cast, will appear as Isabel Lambert, a friend of Clara Marten's. Miss Simpson played in various productions for the armed forces in Southern California during the war. She also played with the El Paso Little Theater, Long Beach Community Theater and Long Beach Playmakers. At present, she is employed as a secretary.

John Hughes, Marymargaret Corbett and Charles Berg, all familiar to Community Theater fans, complete the "Miranda" cast.

The play, directed by Art Cole, will be given at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. There will be no matinee.

Yes right for Caroline Gowdy as she performs eye muscle strengthening exercise. As the instructor, left, moves the string fastened between two pencil-like tubes, Caroline follows it with her eyes. The exercise is designed to help the eyes coordinate.

SEATTLE, WASH. — (NEA) — "Oh! Yahl! Cross-eyed can't be on side!" or 15 years Tommy suffered his schoolmates poked fun at his crossed eyes and thickened glasses. But now Tommy has on off his glasses. He doesn't blink. His eyes are straight. To the boy and his parents, it's unbelievable. But to the men and women who developed the technique of correcting eye defects with the use of glasses, it's just a matter of what can be achieved by new system for correcting vision. A New York oculist, Dr. W. H. Bates, gave up his practice in the last part of this century to seek new way of treating his patients. Bates, he knew, don't always p. Bates found another way. Bates discovered that vision defects are often caused by the habitual use of the eyes. He also found that this improper use was related to mental and emotion strain. By easing the strain

16 Reorganization Plans Snake Capital Wednesday

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A minor earthquake rattled the government structure Wednesday as 16 presidential reorganization plans took effect with the consent of Congress.

The Senate Tuesday cleared the last three of 21 Truman proposals only a few hours before the midnight deadline at which they became law. It had killed five previously.

The Maritime Commission vanished as a legal body. Truman is expected to replace it promptly with a new, three-member "Federal Maritime Board" of temporary appointees.

As further results of the reorganization drive, four cabinet officers gained even more authority in their departments—Justice, Commerce, Interior and Labor.

Chairmen Step Up

Some of their subordinate offices, such as J. Edgar Hoover's Federal Bureau of Investigation in Justice, the Reclamation Bureau in Interior, and the Wage-Hour Division in Labor, were shorn of semi-independent powers.

Simultaneously, the chairmen of four major commissions became the executive bosses of the agencies: the Federal Trade, Federal Power, and Securities and Exchange Commissions, and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

In the cases where the boards had chosen their own chairmen, Truman is expected to appoint them. And, presumably, he will have power to remove them.

Seven other plans became law on the stroke of midnight. They re-assorted various chores in an attempt to impose order on the confused government structure.

Summing up, the Citizens Committee for the Hoover report called the reorganization record of the 81st Congress to date "the best in the nation's history, but still not good enough."

The committee's chairman, Dr. Robert L. Johnson, president of Temple University, Philadelphia, said the actions bring to completion about 35 per cent of the recommendations in last year's report of the Commission on Reorganization, headed by former President Herbert Hoover.

Reorganization supporters were panicked last week when the Senate, vetoing one plan after another by big votes, had killed five in a row.

Truman himself criticized "obstructionists" in Congress.

There was no clear explanation why the Senate upheld plans to streamline four departments and as many commissions, when it earlier had vetoed plans doing virtually the same things to similar agencies.

The five rejected plans affected the Treasury and Agriculture Departments, the Interstate Commerce and Federal Communications Commissions, and the National Labor Relations Board.

Modern Detection Methods Used To Nab Cattle Rustlers

FORT WORTH — (AP) — Modern crime detection methods are being used to solve an old problem of the Western cattlemen.

No longer does a grim-faced "neck tie" party ride down and string up the cattle rustler.

Instead, Joe G. Montague, counsel for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, goes into court with such evidence as blood tests and almost always walks out with a criminal conviction.

Cattle rustling is not just a robbery of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, but a crime against the memory of the old West.

But it is bad news to the cattle thief when he faces Montague in a courtroom.

Since March 1 he has prosecuted nine cattle theft cases. The box score stands at eight penitentiary sentences and one acquittal.

In 1949 45 cases were called by Montague "as few as any in a similar period in more than 11 years I've represented the association." He prosecuted 81 alleged offenders one year.

Montague's services are available to the more than 9,000 members of the association in Texas and Oklahoma.

The "blood test" conviction obtained in Mason County a year ago was one of his most unusual victories.

A Mason County rancher discovered the head, hide and offal of a cow from his herd which obviously had been butchered on his own land the night before. His ground was blood soaked.

Rock Bears Mark

Close to the scene was a big sandstone rock bearing a mark where a car axle had scraped it. Immediately over the rock was a dead limb hanging from a tree and one end of the limb bore marks of green paint. The limbs was the right height to scrape a car top traveling beneath it.

Officers combed their memories for a likely suspect and examined the man's car. There was a long scratch on the top of the car and they took a sample of green paint from it for analysis. Sandstone scrapings also were analyzed and it was determined that marks on the car of the suspect fit exactly on top of the rock and under the dead limb.

Samples of a brownish stain in water recovered from the recently washed "turtle" of the car were found to be animal blood. There was a conviction.

Most of today's cattle theft cases involve only a few head. But one case last year concerned 70 stolen cows.

Many Are Butchered

Many stolen animals are butchered and the meat disposed of to careless outlets.

"There's one standard defense," Montague said. "It is that the meat was bought from a dark-complected man in blue overalls and a dark hat who spoke both English and Spanish but the defendant just happened to meet along the road."

Floodwaters Recede In Canadian City

WINNIPEG, MANITOBA — (AP) — Islands of dry land Wednesday began dotting the huge flood lakes formed in this area by the Red River's month-long rampage. The muddy waters continued their slow drop, with almost five inches draining off in 24 hours here.

Army officials said the situation—though brighter—still was "fairly critical." Heavy rains could burst the overstrained dikes protecting the prairie capital and send the angry Red River roaring to new heights, they warned.

De Mille And Franklin Heroes To Plumbers

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Movie Producer Cecil B. De Mille and Benjamin Franklin—in that order—are the all-time heroes of the nation's plumbers.

De Mille "has done more than anyone in selling the plumbing idea throughout the world," Norman J. Radder, secretary of the Plumbing and Heating Industries told the National Association of Master Plumbers' convention.

"He does it," Radder said, "by his favorite device of divesting some gorgeous creature—female—and filming her in a gold-plated or sunken or even fur-lined bathtub, taking a bath in champagne, or milk—or even poopy water."

American's Hint To Few European Friends Starts Flood Of World Friendship Letters

Mrs. G. Allison Raymond: International relations on a cozy level with the matrimonially-minded wedded out.

PHILADELPHIA — (NEA) — When a friendly young American woman suggested to a few acquaintances in Europe that they drop her a line, she received about 11,000 replies.

From this beginning, more than 57,000 persons in 14 major countries and many small ones now correspond with each other, exchanging ideas, interests and information in a world-wide movement toward friendship and understanding.

Miss G. Allison Raymond, who had the happy inspiration for international letter writing, is the director of the resulting service, "Letters Abroad." She said she became convinced, about a year and a half ago, that international relations, if they are to be neighborly and peaceful, would have to be brought down to a cozy, personal level.

With this in mind she wrote the mayors of several towns in Europe suggesting they designate a few private citizens to write letters to her. She in turn would pass the letters on to Americans who would cultivate a friendly correspondence.

Ever since then "Letters Abroad," which is now a part of the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia, has been winning friends and influencing people to be good neighbors all around the world.

Correspondence is on a purely personal, friendly basis, aimed at getting to know each other and to learn about each other's countries. Nothing of the character of a propaganda drive is suggested.

"After a few letters, you forget that the correspondent is German, Dutch, Swiss or whatever," one American letter-writer said. "They're just people, my friends."

Occupancy Writers

Discussions of world affairs often occupy the writers, however, Miss Raymond pointed out.

When the matter of Indonesian independence was before the Dutch, letters were full of it. Other subjects which have been in lively discussion included in-

Congress Learns Of Priceless Jap Loot Held By MacArthur

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An oriental treasure chest filled with gold and precious gems, and in custody of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, has aroused the curiosity of Congress. An investigator for the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee has been assigned to the job of getting the details, particularly plans for disposition of the treasure of untold value.

A subcommittee heard about the fabulous chest from former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson during unredacted hearings on legislation dealing with alien property and war claims. Members disclosed the testimony Wednesday.

General MacArthur, Patterson testified, has the key to the chest and is awaiting orders as to disposition of the treasure which Patterson said consists of "jewelry, precious items, gold and foreign currency." It was seized from the Japanese at the end of the war, but the committee does not know where the Japanese got it.

"Potentate's Ransom" Patterson said the treasure is in Tokyo. He did not estimate its value but committee members said it was sufficient to "pay a potentate's ransom several times over."

From Gen. Lucius Clay, former American military governor of Germany, the committee received some interesting information on war loot taken from the Nazis.

Clay testified that the invading Americans seized between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 worth of Nazi gold which was split up among 16 nations claiming reparations from Germany. Russia was not one of them.

Clay estimated that "many millions of dollars" the value of property that had belonged to Hermann Goering, Hitler's reichminister. It was turned over to Goering's widow and later was confiscated by the German government when the widow was held to be a Nazi.

Texas Heads Panel Clay told the committee that several million pieces of art, which ranged from priceless paintings down to cheap chinaware, were returned to their owners from whom the Nazis had stolen them. Jewels, gold teeth and other valuables taken from concentration camp victims, he said, originally were turned over to storm troopers and deposited in German banks.

The Americans turned them over to relief organizations which sold them for an estimated $30,000,000 and used the money to help survivors.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative Beckworth (D-Texas) is studying the claims of war victims for damages. Its members are hopeful some of the treasures impounded by American troops will be made available to help pay some of the claims.

Charge Prepared In Killing 17 Years Ago

WINONA, MINN.—(AP)—A first degree murder charge was being readied Wednesday against a 62-year-old man in the death of a wife he said 17 years ago he had shot accidentally.

Sheriff George Fort said Charles Lorenz admitted in a statement he shot the woman deliberately "because I was seeing another woman." Mrs. Lorenz, 49, and married to Lorenz for 30 years, was killed March 31, 1933, at the tavern and cafe she and her husband operated at Minnetka.

Records from 1933 disclosed the coroner called Mrs. Lorenz's death accidental.

WILL BENEFITS UT ENGINEERS' LOAN FUND HOUSTON—(AP)—The University of Texas Engineers' Loan Fund will be increased by $75,000 or so. A. J. Heinze, executor of the estate of Louis C. Wagner, said about 70 per cent of the $150,000 estate will be allocated to the fund. Wagner died April 19.

South Africa Looks To Uranium Project

PRETORIA, UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA—(AP)—South Africa is building up to a highly secret uranium industry in her rich gold fields.

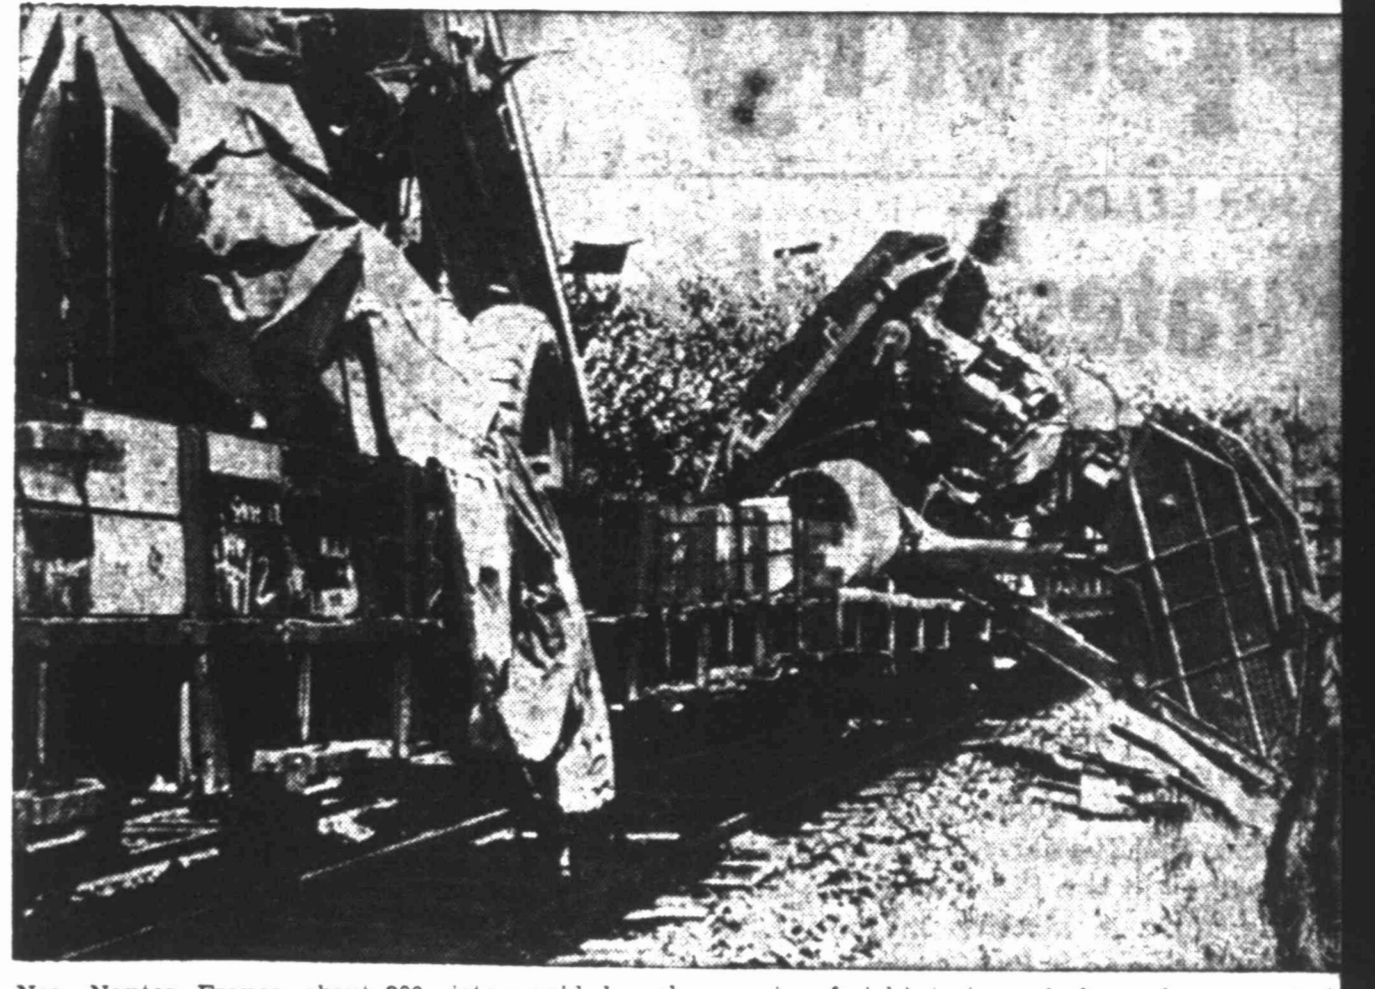

The union government has launched a production project, designed to extract uranium from previously-wasted by-products of the union's gold production. If South African expectations are fulfilled, the output may keep the West supreme in production of atomic energy.

Top secret experiments are underway in a number of pilot plants along the rich Witwaters Rand gold reef, the vast deposit which extends south and west of Pretoria to Johannesburg.

Successful production, persons connected with the project said, could make South Africa the world's largest supplier of uranium, an essential atomic energy raw material of which the earth offers a limited known supply.

Lindeman estimated two-thirds of the 194 independent livestock yards in Texas affiliated with his association would be affected. He said the department wanted to put yards covering 20,000 square feet or more under regulations applying to larger yards which handle cattle for interstate shipment.

The Texas said Cooke told them regulations would provide more protection for both buyers and sellers.

MAJOR LEAGUES—

Pirates' Rookie MacDonald Hurls 4 To 0 Shutout

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Young Bill MacDonald, rookie bonus right-hander, is right into the Pittsburgh pitching tradition.

When the 21-year-old native of Alameda, Calif., first nosed player in the Pirate organization, hurled a shutout Tuesday night in his first major league starting assignment, he followed a Pittsburgh pattern set by Nick Maddox 43 years ago.

It was Sept. 13, 1907, that Maddox became the first Pittsburgh Leaguer since 1900 to pitch a shutout in his big league debut. He blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0, striking out 11.

MacDonald became the nineteenth Leaguer to turn the trick—pitching the sixth to wear a Pittsburgh uniform. He joins such Pirate notables as Babe Adams (April 4, 1909), Wilbur Cooper (Sept. 9, 1912), Ernie Hill (Sept. 17, 1915) and Ed Swigart (Sept. 21, 1939).

The last National League pitcher to turn in a scoreless game in his league bow was Don Newcombe, a Brooklyn right-hander who did it on May 22, 1949. A total of 27 American League pitchers have accomplished the feat.

MacDonald, who won 13 and lost 4 at New Orleans in the Southern Association last year, limited Philadelphia to three singles as the Pirates defeated the Phils 6-0. A run by Wally Westlake with bases loaded in the eighth inning broke up a scoreless pitching effort between MacDonald and the Phils' Russ Meyer. MacDonald struck out one and fanned seven. The defeat prevented the second-year Phils from gaining ground on the Chicago Cubs. Johnny Schmitz' clutch pitching and a pair of home runs by Andy Pafko and Roy Smalley won for the Cubs.

Graziano In New 'Storm'

NEW YORK—(AP)—Rocky Graziano, center of many boxing storms, stands in a new blow.

The former middleweight king signed Tuesday to fight his old boyhood pal—Champion Jake La Motta—for the 160-pound title June 28 at the Polo Grounds. He signed for himself—without benefit of his manager, Irving Cohen.

As the New York Boxing Managers' Guild agreed to hold a solid line against the "international Boxing Club" until a new radio-television contract is signed, this weakens their stand. No contracts were to be signed after May 31, when the current TV pact expires.

La Motta, who does his own business, also signed for himself. His manager of record, Joey La Motta, is under suspension.

"I'm taking it upon myself," said Graziano, "Irving told me, 'Do as you want.' He has to stick to the rules. He and Jack Healy are still my co-managers. I want to make money. I want my annuity to be that big." He demonstrated.

Not long ago the Rock told friends he didn't want to fight Jake.

Starting Lineups For Game Picked

The final sports attraction of the year at Midland High School—the annual Spring Football Game—will be unreeled Thursday night in Memorial Stadium. Game time will be 8 p.m. and a crowd of thousands of Midland fans is expected.

It's the big preview of the 1950 edition of the Midland Bulldogs at which everyone has been hankering for a look. The game will be run under strict regulation conditions with all the trimmings added just like the Odessa Bronchos were coming in to furnish the opposition.

Coach Audrey Gill will handle the Whites and Coach Red Ruggles will handle the Purples. Coach Tuboast Jones will observe from the press box.

Nothing has been spared in trying to make the event one of the biggest of the year. The Midland High Bulldog Band and student cheering sections will be on hand to add color.

Officials named

Game officials will be Lee Holman, John Hart, Sid Binion, Bill Cheatham and Burns McKinley. All are widely known grid officials.

The Purple and White teams have been working out on separate fields this week and will wind up drills Wednesday. Coaches and players on both sides have tried hard to cook up some spectacular football for the opponent and for the fans.

Every man on the first squad will see action in the tilt. Starting lineups have been announced and reserves for each side have been named.

The Whites will hold a little edge in weight but will give away some speed to the Purple.

Ralph Brooks, ace passer, will work in the Purple backfield. He will be a big wheel in the Purple offense along with Roy Kinsey and Larry Friday. Robert Melton will start at quarterback.

The Purple line will be hefty enough with Bill Pedart and Duane Bush at ends, Fred Underwood and David Laverty at tackles, Jerry Culp and Al Scoggin at guards and Bob Burks at center.

But the Whites' forward wall include boys who tip the scales above the 180-pound mark.

Jimmy Lineberger and Graham Mackey will start at ends, Bob Wood and Stan Coker at tackles, Dalton Beyerly and Pete English at guards and Jimmy O'Neal at center.

Reed Gilmore will do the quarterbacking, while Burtis and Charles Crowley will be at halfback positions and L. C. Thomas at fullback.

The Whites' reserves will be Johnny Kennedy, Guy Strickland, Larry Lynn, Freddy Bibbo and Jimmy Adams; back: Bill Spence, end and Charles Jones, guard.

Purple Reserves

Reserves for the Purple include Dan Black, Jimmy Locke, Bill Grissett, Harold Hensley and Robb and Jimmy Adams; back: W. H. Black and Leo Hatfield; ends: Charles Hendrix and Guy Vanderpool; tackles: Glen Baker, guard and Loren Roberts, center.

The teams recently met in a regulation scrimmage and the Purple won by a 21-0 score. They are expected to be just about that evenly matched in Thursday night's tilt.

Tickets for the game are on sale at Plamor Lanes. All players on both teams also are working at selling the duets.

A large attendance is urged so the annual event can get off to a good start.

A new era in football is here and it needs a new era of backing from the fans.

WT-NM League—

Lubbock Edges Away With Win

By The Associated Press

Lubbock's Hubbers edged away from the field Tuesday night in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

A combination of events—a Lubbock victory and losses by the Hubbers' closest pursuers—gave the men of the South Plains a bulge of two and one-half games.

Lubbock beat Borger 8-5 to sweep the three-game series.

Lamesa waded into third place in the standings by licking Albuquerque 11-5. Lamesa got six runs in the ninth for the victory.

Amarillo edged Pampa 12-11, quelling a Pampa rally that got four runs in the ninth.

Clovis whammed Abilene 10-5. Pete Trabucco's homer with the bases filled in the fifth sparked a five-run surge that clinched the game for Clovis.

Advertise or be forgotten.

Longhorn League— Indians, Odessa, Vernon, Broncs Notch Victories

By The Associated Press

As if they needed it, opposing teams in the Longhorn League are helping front-runner Odessa along.

Tuesday night Sweetwater was mighty free-hearted. Odessa used 13 bases and balls issued by Les Zamora and four Swatter errors to win a 9-2 victory.

Second-place Roswell lost to Midland 18-9 to increase Odessa's lead to five full games. Midland scored eight tallies in the sixth to put on the clincher.

Vernon nosed out Ballinger 8-7, taking the lead with a five-run spurge in the third and never relinquishing it.

Big Spring skunked San Angelo 4-0 on the five-hit pitching of Jesus Uley.

Martí Fires 66 in Warmup Round

Eloy Martí, Houston professional, fired a 66 over the Midland Country Club golf course Tuesday in a practice round for the Texas PGA which opens here next week.

It was Martí's first time to play the course. He had a 35-31.

Reservations for the tournament still are coming in at a fast clip. The PGA program runs from next Monday through Sunday.

SPORTS SLANTS

by SHORTY SHELBURNE

All around the city, folks are asking if Ben Hogan will be here next week for the Texas PGA tournament.

Apparently, he will not. Hogan isn't a member of the Texas Professional Golfers Association although he currently is making his home in Fort Worth. He is a member of the Pennsylvania section of the PGA.

Bantam Ben still registers from Hershey, Pa.

It isn't impossible that Hogan will drop in on the tourney at Midland Country Club but it is highly improbable. His only interest would be to come and look.

Ben isn't required to qualify for the National PGA for which a qualifying round will be held here, so that wouldn't draw him.

Considering that he will be completing the 28th National Invitation on May 28—unless he loses earlier—he may need to rest. That would tend to make a possible appearance here of the Mighty Mite even more improbable.

Regardless of whether or not Hogan makes the tournament, the field of stars will be sprinkled with all-time greats.

Just to show you what we mean, take Byron Nelson for example.

Nelson is co-holder of the world's records in 72 holes (259 strokes), 54 holes (193) and 18 holes (62).

Don't go away. There's a lot more to this guy called Lord Byron.

Nelson won the U. S. Open in 1930 and annexed the National PGA title in 1940 and 1945.

He won the Masters' championship in 1937 and 1942 and the Western Open in 1939.

Add to that list the fact that he was the top money winner for the world in 1944 and 1945 and that he won the Vardon Trophy in 1939 and you can see what we mean.

There were a number of lesser honors Nelson annexed down through the years before his semi-retirement, too.

The Texas PGA title, for which he will be battling again here next week, was his in 1948 and he narrowly missed winning it again in 1949.

Raymond Gafford, the clouting Dallas pro, whipped Nelson for the crown last year.

Nelson and Gafford are just a couple of PGA golfers we mention in passing to show you the true picture of what is coming up for Midland and area golfers.

There will be dozens of pros and amateur golfers here who will furnish something new every minute.

If your pleasures run toward sports, don't fail to be on hand at Midland Country Club for the Texas PGA and preceding golf events.

City Major Bowling Loop Barbecue Set

Bowlers who participated in the City Major League during the season just ended will attend a barbecue at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at Cole Park. The event is sponsored by Houston Hill, whose team won the league championship.

All Major League bowlers and their wives or dates have been invited.

6—THE REPORTER-TELEGRAM, MIDLAND, TEXAS, MAY 24, 1950

Tribe Routs Rockets In 18-9 Melee

The Midland Indians and the Roswell Rockets will complete their two-game series Wednesday night in Indian Park. Game time will be 8:15 p.m.

Manager Harold Webb has named Rookie John Singleton as the starting pitcher for Midland.

Vic Michalic or Brian McGoldrick is the probable choice of Manager Tom Jordan.

The Indians move to Odessa for two games, opening Thursday night.

Harold Webb's Midland Indians broke their losing streak in great fashion Tuesday night at Indian Park bunching runs in the second, fifth and sixth innings to pave the way for an 18 to 9 victory.

The Indians garnered 15 hits off Frank Hill and Cliff Jackson, Roswell hurlers, while Ernie Nelson was allowing the Rockets the same number. But Nelson scattered his better.

The tilt was chock full of extra-base knocks and the Rockets had the upper hand in this department.

Julian Pressley, who hit 358 while playing in the spangles of the Indians last season, came back to haunt 'em. He clouted a two-run homer, a triple and a double in five trips to the plate.

Windy Eldridge was the big gun for the Indians. He smashed out a single, double and triple to drive in six runs. Each of his base knocks was of the super-charged variety. He almost dumped the Roswell second baseman with one.

Roswell got to Nelson for two runs in the first on Clyde Bell's double, and error which put Tom Jordan on and Pressley's triple.

Frank Hill started as if he wasn't aiming to give the Indians so much as a loud foul. He shifted the first three men up.

But the Indians climbed aboard the scoring wagon in the second and shelled Hill through the sixth, when he retired in favor of Johnny Jones.

Walks to Jim Prince, Kenny Jones and Tex Stephenson, followed by Eldridge's single and Scooter Hughes' triple, produced four Indian runners in the second.

A walk to George Firnbach, a single by Prince, a double by Glen Austin were followed by Eldridge's triple and five runs in the fifth.

A double by Bell, triple by Jordan and Pressley's homer gave Roswell three more in the sixth.

But the Indians also had a sixth inning—an eight-run sixth. Eleven men went to the plate in the inning.

Firnbach and Prince walked and Jones got on by an error. Stephenson lined a single between first and second to drive in two runs. Austin was hit by a pitched ball.

Eldridge clouted a hard liner down the third base line which cleaned the bases. He was thrown out at third trying to stretch it into a triple but his purpose had been accomplished.

Nelson followed with a single.

Texas League— Fort Worth Kicks Ooee To Move On

By The Associated Press

The Fort Worth Cats, called "good run, no hit" by Texas League rivals who have forecast they won't stay on top with that unbalanced combination, showed Tuesday night they could clout the ball when necessary.

The Cats pounded 13 safeties, including some long-distance smacks as they clubbed Oklahoma City 4-1 in their sixth straight game.

Shreveport won its sixth straight game by beating Beaumont 6-2 while Houston sank deeper into the cellar by losing another one-run affair. San Antonio licked the Buffs 6-5 in 10 innings.

Bob Buhl did a fine job of relief pitching in Dallas' triumph over Tulsa. He came in to put out a spirited Tulsa fire in the ninth. Dallas bunched two hits and two walks for all its runs in the third inning.

George Brown's homer with two on figured most prominently in Shreveport's victory over Beaumont as Howie Auman hung up his fifth pitching triumph although needing help in the ninth.

Houstonouth's San Antonio 12-8 but couldn't get them at the right time. Proopio Herrera took over in the eighth and received credit for the victory.

Qualifying Rounds Monday For Open

FORT WORTH—(AP)—Top golfers such as Jimmy Demaret, Skip Alexander, Dutch Harrison, Henry Tomson and Chandler Harper will be in the field Monday in sectional qualifying rounds for the National Open Tournament.

He bested Britain's W. S. Whitelaw 6 and 5, taking only 13 putts on the first nine holes. That was enough to insure victory.

The American went 5-up at the twelfth with a birdie 3 and won the thirteenth green with a par 4.

James McHale, Jr., of Philadelphia, a member of the last U. S. Walker Cup Team, progressed through the third round with a 4 and 2 victory over F. H. Crisp of Scotland, despite two three-putt greens. He did not lose a hole.

Ed Gravelly of Rocky Mount, N. C., playing his first match after drawing a bye and a scratch in two earlier rounds, easily disposed of Earl Muirhead, Ireland 6 and 5.

Ted Bassett of Rye, N. Y., became the day's first American casualty when he bowed to B. J. Armstrong of Britain 7 and 6.

Frank Stranahan, the Toledo "strong boy," shot another sub-par round to whip D. B. Anderson of Britain 5 and 4.

Bill (Dynamite) Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga., scored another victory for the U. S. by downing W. S. McLeod of Britain 4 and 3.

Fort Worth Group Gets Plush-Lined Ride In Midland

Thirty-three Fort Worth business executives, on a two-day booster tour of West Texas, were "taken for a ride" over the city in a fleet of Cadillac automobiles "herded" by Midland businessmen, following their arrival here Tuesday afternoon.

The downtown boosters heard the Midland story and were shown evidence of the rapid growth and development of this city before they were allowed to extol the virtues of Fort Worth. But the visitors made up for lost time once they were turned loose. They spent an hour and a half in Midland, visiting friends and business associates, making new acquaintances and in telling the remarkable story of Fort Worth.

Midland business leaders met the Fort Worth boosters at the western outskirts of the city at 3 p.m. There they left their charter bus for the plush Cadillacs and a tour of residential and business districts. Police Chief Jack Ellington led the tour.

The goodwill tour was arranged by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, and the Midland Chamber of Commerce was in charge of arrangements here. Joe A. Clarke, Fort Worth banker, and Charles G. Cotten, manager of the Territory Relations Committee of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, were the tour chairmen.

Midland greeters included M. C. Ulmer, Roy Parks, Fred C. George, W. Glass, Clarence Schaubert, Jack Wicker, Jack Wilkinson, Tom Sealy, L. W. Freels, Delbert Downing and Bill Collyns.

When the Fort Worthians "landed" in front of Hotel Scharbauer, they were told all about the 16th Annual World Championship Midland Rodeo, May 31-June 4, by members of the Optimist Club before being "fined" individually and collectively for not being attired in cowboy clothes. They departed for Stanton at 4:30 p.m.

Truman Allows There Will Be No Surrender

WASHINGTON — (AP)— President Truman has rejected publicly a suggestion that the United States surrender to Russia.

Aided by Attorney General McGrath, he lugged an iron bench across the White House lawn Tuesday to provide a rostrum from which he told a group of delegates to the Fifth Annual Conference of Citizenship:

"I had a card from Los Angeles this morning, in which the writer suggested to me in all seriousness that the proper thing to do was to surrender to Russia. He said we may lose our freedom but it is better to lose our freedom than to lose our lives. Now, what do you think of that? That is Patrick Henry in reverse, if I know anything."

Texan Asks Special Emergency Quotas

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House has a bill by Representative Poage (D-Texas) to give 1950 emergency cotton acreage quotas to farmers whose crops have been destroyed by natural causes.

The bill was reported favorably Tuesday by the House Agriculture Committee.

Wheat farmers of Texas and Oklahoma, hit by the green bug, and grain growers who lost planting in hail storms would get an acre of cotton for each two acres of destroyed crops.

Ben Ramsey Brings Candidacy To City

Ben Ramsey of San Augustine, candidate for lieutenant governor, came to Midland Tuesday and planned to be in the city until noon Wednesday in the interest of his campaign.

He was to proceed to Odessa in the afternoon. From there he will go to El Paso. Ramsey came to Midland from San Angelo.

Ramsey was state senator from the Third District for eight years. He was appointed Secretary of State for Texas in 1948 and only recently resigned that post to make the race for lieutenant governor. He is a lawyer. He attended the University of Texas.

Water and oil were Ramsey's talking points here. He made two statements.

"Water is important in West Texas and the state as well. I believe the state should solve its own water problems without intervention," he said.

"Due to the threat of the cold war turning hot, I believe West Texas should be the tank car of democracy. Nothing should be done to discourage oil production. State and federal governments should not make our oil compete with foreign oil, which might be cut off at any time," Ramsey said.

Memorial Poppies 'Bloom; Annual Sale Is Saturday

Bright red poppies were blooming in profusion Wednesday at the home of the Midland post of the American Legion as preparations went forward for the observance of Poppy Day here on Saturday. The flowers arrived from Waco, where they were made by disabled war veterans, and were being counted and sorted in readiness for the volunteer workers who will distribute them throughout the city on Poppy Day.

The work was being done by the American Legion Auxiliary's Poppy Committee, headed by Mrs. Vivian Steele, chairman. Working with her were members of the Auxiliary.

The poppies and coin boxes for receiving contributions will be distributed to the Poppy Day volunteers at a Poppy Rally to be held at the Legion Home Friday night.

"Each poppy has been assembled by hand by some disabled war veteran," Mrs. Steele explained as she examined the little crepe paper flowers. "Veterans of both wars make poppies at the Waco hospital, deriving physical and mental benefit from the occupation, as well as earning money much needed by themselves and families. They often plead for the opportunity to make more poppies but, of course, how many they can make depends upon how many people wear on Poppy Day."

"We hope that every one of these poppies will be worn gladly and proudly by someone in Midland on Poppy Day this year. Wearing one means that the wearer remembers and honors the great sacrifice made for America by those who died in the wars, and also has contributed to the welfare of the wars' living victims, the disabled veterans and needy children of veterans."

Youth Sobs At Girl's Grave, Then Kills Self

NASHVILLE, TENN.—(AP)— A 23-year-old youth sobbed for 10 or 15 minutes by a flower-covered grave in a cemetery Tuesday, then critically wounded himself with a pistol shot in the abdomen.

"I want to be with her—bury me next to her," the youth cried. John Fields, the district attorney general's office said the woman, Miss Ruth Mason Keith, a 27-year-old office worker here, was interred Monday and that Burt attended her funeral.

Borden Prospector Gets Water In Reef

Fair and Woodward No. 1 T. L. Griffin, Southeast Borden County wildcat, one and one-quarter miles south of the nearest completed Pennsylvania lime producer on the west side of the North Vincent field, developed salt water, with only slight shows of oil and gas in the top of the lime.

The top of the reef as called by some geologists was at 7,154 feet. That is on a datum of minus 4,782 feet.

A drillstem test was run for one hour at 7,155-65 feet. There was a light blow of gas for a part of the period.

Drilling Ahead

Recovery was 100 feet of oil mud and 20 feet of salt water. 7,177 feet and took a one hour drillstem test at 7,165-77 feet. Recovery was 120 feet of salt water, with no shows of oil or gas.

It is now making hole below 7,250 feet in lime.

Location is 560 feet from south and east lines of section 46, block 25, H&TC survey. That makes it about 17 miles southeast of Gall.

Tom Green Slated For Shallow Test

A San Andres wildcat to 1,000 feet has been staked in West-Central Tom Green County by Duncan Sartain of San Angelo.

Sartain No. 1 George S. Broome is to be 2,310 feet from northeast and 330 feet from southeast lines of section 302 1/2, scrap file 13,386, abstract 8,698.

Drillsite is eight and one-half miles northwest of San Angelo and five and three-fourths miles north and slightly east of Sun Oil Company and others No. 2 Mart B. Pulliam, Strawn lime discovery.

Oil Areas In Crane, Ector Change Hands

R. F. Windfohr and the Fleming Foundation, both Fort Worth operators, have purchased oil producing properties in Crane and Ector Counties, owned by L. H. Wentz Estate of Ponca City, Oklahoma.

Windfohr took the Crane properties and the Fleming Foundation took those in Ector.

For the Crane spread of 10 producing wells and 1,150 acres in the Sandhills McKnight pool, Windfohr paid $495,000.

The acreage included in the Crane deal are: section 7, block B-26, psi survey and section 10, block B-21, psi survey, except for 120 acres in the southwest corner.

Fleming got 36 producer in the Harper pool in Ector for approximately $350,000. Productive areas included in the deal are: section 28, Northwest quarter and south half of the southwest quarter of section 27; northeast quarter and west half of the southeast quarter of section 22, block 44, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Fry Sand Discovery Indicated In Nolan

Drilling & Exploration Company, Inc., No. 1 S. B. Moore, Southeast Nolan County wildcat, two miles east of Hylton, flowed oil for 30 minutes at the rate of six barrels per hour from perforated section at 5,025-41 feet in the Fry sand of the Pennsylvanian.

The show came after the perforated zone had been treated with Hydradrac. Following the treatment the load oil was swabbed out and the well was then shuttin over night.

It was opened up after the shutin and made the 30-minute flow. The tester was then closed and operator was to pull the testing tool and run tubing to try to complete.

Former Dry Hole

Location is 690 feet from south and east lines of section 181, block 64, H&TC survey.

This prospective new field opener originally was drilled by Ryan, Hays and Burke as their No. 1 Moore, No. 1 went to 5,831 feet in the Ellenburger. That zone made salt water with a small show of oil. It was plugged back and tested through the 5,025-41 foot perforated section and the six barrels per hour flow resulted. The 5 1/2-inch casing is cemented at 5,803 feet.

Two Death Sentences Reversed By Court

AUSTIN—(P)—Two death sentences pronounced were reversed by the Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday because the grand jury was invalid under a new law passed by the 51st Legislature.

The reversals were in the Hardin County cases of Alex Levinson and Darius Golemon, convicted of murder in the slaying of Eloise Twichell, who gave them a ride when they were hitch-hiking from Beaumont Sept. 28, 1948.

The court's ruling permits new indictments in both cases and subsequent new trials.

Judge McGranery granted the request.

In announcing the arrest, McGranery said the charges were based on information supplied by Dr. Fuchs, who was arrested in February and pleaded guilty March 1.

In London, it was disclosed two FBI agents questioned Dr. Fuchs last Saturday and again Tuesday.

The joint statement, issued by the Justice Department and Hoover, said Gold admitted contacts with Fuchs and had given detailed accounts of his activities since first meeting the scientist in New York's East Side early in 1944. They had subsequent contacts in Brooklyn, the Bronx, Manhattan and Queens, N. Y., the FBI said.

The Justice Department said Gold was born in Switzerland and that both his parents were natives of Russia. He came to the United States in 1914 when he was four years old and claims derivative citizenship as a result of the naturalization of his parents. Their family name of Goldinditsky was changed to Gold when they were naturalized, the department said.

The FBI, which indicated it has been watching Gold for a long time, quoted him as telling bureau agents when he was taken into custody: "I thought that I would be helping a nation whose final aims I approved along the road to industrial strength. Particularly was I taken with the idea that whatever I did would go to help make living conditions far more advanced along the road as we know them here in the United States."

Gold also was quoted by the FBI as saying he felt that as an ally I was only helping the Soviet Union obtain certain information that I thought it was entitled to.

West Allies Gird Forces On Eve Of 'March On Berlin'

BERLIN —(P)—A fleet of 36 American, British and French Military Police Jeeps Wednesday began an intensified patrol of Berlin's main road link with the West, the 100-mile superhighway through the Russian zone.

The patrol was part of a "preliminary alert" to which 8,000 Allied troops and 13,000 West Berlin police were ordered as more and more young Communists headed for East Berlin's rally of Red youth this weekend.

Allied-controlled forces will go on a "full alert" Saturday, when the final contingent of 500,000 young Communist demonstrators from the Soviet zone is expected in the Eastern sector of the city.

Communist spokesmen declared the entire demonstration would be confined to East Berlin and Allied sectors would not be trespassed.

Western officials, although relaxing none of their protective measures, appeared to believe the Communists meant what they said and the weekend would be relatively quiet.

Officials of the organization for European economic recovery, which administers the Marshall Plan, said details of the program still are being worked out. But main decisions have been made, they declared, permitting the union to start working at the end of June.

The highway engineer answered questions fired by various council members concerning the proposal. Mayor William B. Neely explained that a bond issue would be necessary in any instance in so far as the city is concerned.

Action on the matter was delayed pending further study.

Councilmen Frank Shriver and H. E. Chiles, Jr., were not present at the session.

New Beer Ordinance

The council adopted on its second and final reading an amended beer ordinance, which defines on-premise and off-premise beer sale zones, clarifies provisions and regulations concerning the sale of beer in the city limits, and provides penalties for violations. The revised ordinance is based on recommendations made recently by a special committee named last January to study the former beer sale ordinance, which was termed outmoded.

A discussion of city limit extensions was held, but no action was taken.

The council authorized City Manager W. H. Oswalt to represent the city in the proposed sale of the old Heidelberg property on East Highway 80. The property is owned jointly by the city and county. The Commissioners Court Monday approved the sale of the property and named Oswalt commissioner to handle the sale, which will be by public auction in accordance with state statutes.

Volume Purchase Plan

The purchase of certain water works supplies on a competitive bid basis and at a cost of $23,000 was approved. Oswalt said the purchases, made under the city's new volume purchase plan, saved the city approximately $4,600, based on past cost estimates.

The council approved a new plan of licensing taxi and limousine service at Midland Air Terminal on a five per cent gross receipts basis. Licenses formerly were issued on a flat fee basis.

The purchase of tracings of official maps of the City of Midland at a cost of $1,750 was approved. Prints now will be available to the public at a reduced cost, officials said.

Plats of the south half of Block 8, Gardens Addition, and of the Brunson Addition were approved upon recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission. John Hills and John Redfern, Jr., represented the commission at the council session.

Authorization to advertise for bids for the paving of units in the C and D groups was granted. The C and D groups will conclude the current street paving program. Units included in the two groups were not announced.

The council also authorized the advertising for bids for a new garbage collection unit.

An offer made by Frank Elkin to take the city a tract of land southeast of the city as a possible water supply source was rejected.

GOP Fight On Point Four Program May Slow Down Aid Bill

Wherry said a major effort would be made to send the aid bill back to a Senate-House conference for a revision of the $35,000,000 Point Four program to aid backward areas of the world. The measure was approved Tuesday by the House 247 to 88.

The House approved Senate-House conference agreement on the aid program provides: $2,849,100,000 for the European Recovery program; $100,000,000 for the Republic of Korea; $94,000,000 for possible use in China and the China area; $27,450,000 for aid to Palestine refugees; $15,000,000 for the International Children's Emergency Fund, and $35,000,000 for the Point Four program.

Sarah Churchill Reports For First Hollywood Role

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Sarah Churchill, an actress with red hair and a famous father, reported for her first Hollywood movie this week.

The actress' father is Winston Churchill, an Englishman noted for laying bricks, painting pictures, writing books and other accomplishments. She is here for a part in "Royal Wedding" with Fred Astaire, Peter Lawford and probably Judy Garland. The latter appears set to replace June Allyson, who dropped from the cast to have a baby.

"My father was very interested in this assignment," said Miss Churchill, who has just returned from introducing her new husband, photographer Anthony Beauchamp, to her family. "He has always been interested in my career."

She admitted her father was surprised when she forsook the traditional family field of politics.

But despite the family's surprise at her chosen profession, she declared there has never been any opposition from them.

"My father might do very well as an actor if he ever gave up politics, brick laying and painting," she said.

Miss Churchill recently toured the United States in "The Philadelphia Story." It was during the Los Angeles run that she was picked for the "Royal Wedding" role by Producer Arthur Freed. She will play an English dancer with whom Fred Astaire falls in love. She doesn't yet know whether she'll dance in the film, but she's ready for it.

No newcomer to films, she has made five pictures abroad. Only one, a comedy called "All Around the Town," was released in this country.

Under her contract with MGM she may make films in England.

British Homes Cold, Heating Expert Says

EASTBOURNE, ENGLAND — (AP) — A British expert admits that Britain has "the coldest, draftiest and dampest homes of any civilized nation." Donald V. H. Smith, a heating expert, owned up to what many foreign visitors have been saying for ages when he spoke to the housing section of the Royal Sanitary Institute.

Americans think 69 degrees is the best room temperature. Smith said most authorities agree that for Britain 63 to 64 is desirable in living rooms and 50 to 55 in bedrooms.

"These temperatures cannot be obtained by normal and traditional means," he said, "without a larger consumption of solid fuel than the present restricted amounts."

Mexico's Part Of Pan-American Highway Completed; Three Small Gaps Remaining

The approach to the town of Encarnacion is marked by American style billboard.

MEXICO CITY — (NEA) — Mexico's part of the Pan-American highway now is completed.

The official dedication early in May of several hundred miles of recently completed highway in Southern Mexico now leaves only three small gaps in the roadway which will eventually link Alaska with South America. And for the first time in history it gives Mexico a modern, 2,178-mile highway connecting its north and southern-most boundaries.

The gaps which remain in the Pan-American road are a 25-mile stretch in northern Guatemala—under construction — a section in northwestern Costa Rica and western Panama.

Last year Mexico enjoyed the greatest automobile tourist trade in its history. With the completion of its north-south highway system government officials expect to see new records set. The newly-completed sections open up to auto travelers some of the most picturesque parts of the country.

Discussing the new road, President Miguel Aleman gives the following credit:

"To the International Road Federation, of which the Mexican Highway Association is a sister organization, we wish to express our gratitude for the cooperation and good will shown in the great projects undertaken by the Mexican Highway Association."

The inauguration of the road featured an automobile race from the U. S. border at El Paso, Texas, to the tiny city of El Ocotal on the Guatemalan frontier.

On the new road from El Paso, Texas, to Guatemala's borders, a tourist camp looms up at Chihuahua.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"I was criticized the other night," laments a New Orleans reader, "for failing to make a base. I didn't talk back because I wouldn't have known a base if I fell over one. What was it, really, that I failed to make? Also, was this clever of me or was it a prize boner?"

A base is four or more natural cards in a single meld. You must have a base to make a canasta, because there must be at least four natural cards in any canasta.

Sometimes you have a wild card or two lying around loose in your hand, and your partner may also have an odd wild card that he doesn't need very much. If those wild cards are added to a base, a canasta can be made fairly quickly. If there is no base on the table, however, neither you nor your partner can be sure where to put the wild cards. You might, after all, make the mistake of putting the wild cards on a meld which could never become a canasta for lack of four natural cards.

It usually is a good idea to make one base at a fairly early stage of the play. It is sometimes good policy to make two different bases. However, it is not wise to try for several bases unless you have picked up a large discard pile.

The reasoning is very simple and direct. At the beginning of a hand you usually can't tell which side is going to win control of the discard pile. If the opponents do so, your side should make a canasta and meld out in a hurry. It is easier to do that if you have a base. Hence, you try to get a base fairly early as a sort of insurance policy against a bad beating.

Two bases are quite enough for this purpose. If you try to make too many bases, you won't have enough cards left in your hand to put up a good fight. It's like spending your entire income on insurance—too much of a good thing.

It is sometimes a good idea to postpone making your base for play or two. For example, suppose your partner makes the first meld. You can add a card or two to one of his melds. Once in while you should deliberately add those cards.

This keeps the opponents guessing. They never know when you have cards that match your partner's melds. This uncertainty makes it very dangerous for them to freeze the pack.

Picking the right time to have such cards in your hand instead melding them is a matter of good play and good psychology.

Q—When you pick up the discard pile to make a meld, must you make your discard from the card that you held before you got the pile, or are you allowed to put the pile in your hand and then choose your discard as you like?

A—You may put the pile in your hand and make any discard at all. In other words, your discard may come from the pile or from cards you had before you got the pile.

Tiny Camera Used To Get Rid Of Wolf

Betty Jane Koonitz: The wolf-cure's a wrist camera.

MIAMI, FLA.—(NEA)—The best way to get rid of a wolf is to shoot him.

That's the opinion of airline stewardess Betty Jane Koonitz, of St. Louisville, Ohio. But Betty Jane doesn't use a gun. She shoots with a camera and finds it just as effective, if somewhat less deadly.

Wolves, as any pretty stewardess can tell you, do find their way onto planes and are easy to spot. When an obviously healthy male asks for aspirin tablets, chewing gum, cups of water, cigarettes, coffee, and matches, all in quick success, it won't be long before he is asking for a date or at least a phone number. That's when Betty Jane unlimbers the camera.

"Suggest taking his picture," she advises. "That does the trick. He'll either worry about the picture falling into the hands of a jealous wife or girl friend, or figure that the girl isn't his type—probably too realistic.

"He's wrong about the pictures. They won't fall into anyone's hands because there is no film in the camera."

Betty Jane doesn't use her camera simply as a weapon. She's made a serious hobby of photographing scenery she sees along Pan American's Latin American routes on her trips south out of Miami, and for this, of course, she uses film.

But wolves demand too much attention to allow her much time for her hobby. They work a stewardess almost to death and then ask her to sit down beside them and rest. They want to be tucked in at night and, of course, that's when Betty Jane shoots.

Low, Costly Process

The American decision to send military as well as economic aid to French Indo-China indicates our government convinced that that country holds the key to the fate of the East.

Asiatic leaders and many western officials, including those of the top U. S. men in the Far East, have been saying for some time that if Indo-China fell to the Communists' southward drive, the rest of Asia would be engulfed, too.

The arguments on this score apparently have been compelling, for Secretary of State Acheson minced no words when he announced in Paris that help would be forthcoming.

Acheson did not specify how much aid would be given, but a diplomat attending the Paris conference of eastern foreign ministers said the first installment would be from a $75,000,000 fund President Truman is authorized to spend in the China area.

This means there'll be no attempt to get Congress to appropriate any new money immediately. But eventually the lawmakers must pass on this question of helping Indo-China.

When they do, they'll bump into some uncomfortable facts. France is spending $500,000,000 a year on the hot front in that sector. After four years of trying to wipe out Communist guerrilla forces of Ho Chi Minh, the French still do not hold more than a third of the country by day, night they largely are confined to major cities.

France is employing some 150,000 of its best soldiers, and another 50,000 native troops put into action under the French-sponsored regime of Bao Dai, leader of the new state in Nam Republic. Against this stout nucleus, the best defensive force in the entire region, Ho Chi Minh is using more than 30,000 to 70,000 men.

Clearing out these guerrillas is so slow and painful a process that it's a question how long France can continue to carry heavy expenditures involved—it has enough problems at home without worrying about outside difficulties.

One thing would seem to be clear: if we are going to lend military help to Indo-China, it must be on a scale sufficient to end the Red threat in that area. Aid which merely keeps the French army in the field in an indecisive combat will be of no lasting assistance to Southeast Asia, France, or to the United States.

DREW PEARSON ON THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc. Drew Pearson says: Texas Congressman Combs fights capital gains tax reduction; Eisenhower political enigma continues; Senator Johnson is frank about economy.

WASHINGTON — Tall, scholarly Congressman J. M. "Judge" Combs of Texas seldom opens his mouth unless he has something to say. He had plenty to say behind closed doors the other day when the Ways and Means Committee voted a big reduction in the capital-gains tax on upper-bracket taxpayers—and it wasn't music to his colleagues' ears.

Combs bluntly charged the committee with handing out millions in tax relief to Wall Street stock traders and others who make "quick profits on turnover transactions." "You are unfairly discriminating against more than 60,000,000 low and moderate taxpayers who derive their income from salaries, wages, and ordinary business income," the Texas chided his colleagues. "It has always been my understanding that taxes should be easiest on those least able to bear them, but you are handing out a lot of relief here to people who can best afford taxes."

Combs angrily pointed out that the people the committee had "put on relief" by reducing the capital-gains tax from 25 to 16 per cent were individuals with annual incomes of $15,000 or more and married couples with joint incomes of $30,000 or more.

Rep. Walter Lynch, Democrat of New York, and Robert W. Keane, Republican of New Jersey, were moved down by the Texas when they argued that the capital-gains cut would stimulate investments and thus business.

"Don't kid yourself that this will stimulate business and encourage sound investment," lashed back Combs. "All it will do is foster a quicker turnover of securities by those who speculate on the stock market."

Note—Congressman Combs is the man who had the courage and perseverance to run against ex-Congressman Martin Dies of the un-American Activities Committee and defeat him.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

East trusted and looked very suspiciously at South. Since declarer was none other than Larceny Lou, East had good reason to be suspicious. However, East couldn't really be sure what the situation was.

Let's go back to the beginning, and we can see just what sort of problem East had. West opened the deuce of hearts, East put up the king, and South won with the ace. There was no expression of cunning on Larceny Lou's face when he led the queen of diamonds to dummy's ace and returned the six of diamonds from dummy.

This is where we came in. East had to decide whether South was about to ruff the diamond or whether South was up to one of his regular swindles.

He won the second round of diamonds with the ten and drew two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy's hand. He next led the jack of diamonds through East. East played the king this time and South ruffed. He returned to dummy with a trump, cashed the nine of diamonds and thus wound up with eleven tricks.

If Lou had taken the normal finesse in diamonds, East would have won with the king and returned the jack of clubs. The defenders would have taken three clubs, a diamond, and a heart. Hence Lou would have been set two tricks.

It is interesting to note that Lou was not worried about giving up the normal diamond finesse. If West had been able to win the second round of diamonds with the king, South would have been in no danger.

There would be no way to give the lead to East. The play of the king of hearts at the first trick marked the queen of hearts as being in the West hand.

If West led clubs, South could win the second round of the suit with his king. Dummy would eventually provide two diamond discards. If West stayed away from clubs, declarer could draw trumps and get his discards on dummy's diamonds anyway.

What Blough seems to have done in this speech was to prepare the way for his own exit even before he knew he was to enter the Council of Economic Advisers, and to predict its ultimate end.

Stories prevalent in Washington for the last few months—that President Truman was looking for a new chairman to replace Dr. Nourse—were untrue. The President indicated he wanted Leon H. Keyserling for chairman and John D. Clark for vice chairman, right from the start.

Senator Taft's remark that these two, with Blough, "gives the President three left fielders," is a good crack. But it is pertinent to note that the right field hasn't contributed much of anything to winning the ball game either.

The Council, the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report and the whole machinery set up by the so-called "Full" Employment Act of 1946 still have their reputations to make.

Main achievements probably have been educational or inspirational. Many copies of the President's annual economic messages to Congress probably are tossed aside unread, or scanned, filed and forgotten. By some 10,000 copies of every report have been ordered by college, economics departments and university business schools. The influence here, and on the real thinking business leaders probably has been greater than that of any Congress.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Truman's Newest Economist Calls Himself 'Expendable'

By PETER EDSON, NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Roy Blough, new third man on President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers, will come to the job with a commitment to quit it if he finds he isn't doing any good.

Blough formerly was head of treasury tax research. He left that at the end of the war and went back teaching economics at University of Chicago.

Last December Blough made a speech before an American Economics Association meeting in New York. His subject was, "Political and Administrative Requirements for Achieving Economic Stability."

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse had just resigned as chairman of the CEA. Blough at that time was not even being considered for membership on the council. But the speech he made may have had something to do with his selection for the job four months later.

Blough's speech really was an analysis of what makes the work of a presidential economic adviser almost impossible to do. Blough concluded that the Council of Economic Advisers should be absolutely independent of presidential or other political pressure in whatever it recommended. Then came this kicker:

"Perhaps we should look on Council members as expendable, each carrying forward the work as far as he individually can, then retiring in favor of others who can carry it farther before they, too, drop by the wayside. I suggest that even the institution of the Council itself is expendable and that sooner or later it will be cut down politically to be replaced by some other organization carrying forward the same functions in somewhat different ways."

Talking Himself Out Of A Job What Blough seems to have done in this speech was to prepare the way for his own exit even before he knew he was to enter the Council of Economic Advisers, and to predict its ultimate end.

Stories prevalent in Washington for the last few months—that President Truman was looking for a new chairman to replace Dr. Nourse—were untrue. The President indicated he wanted Leon H. Keyserling for chairman and John D. Clark for vice chairman, right from the start.

Senator Taft's remark that these two, with Blough, "gives the President three left fielders," is a good crack. But it is pertinent to note that the right field hasn't contributed much of anything to winning the ball game either.

The Council, the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report and the whole machinery set up by the so-called "Full" Employment Act of 1946 still have their reputations to make.

Main achievements probably have been educational or inspirational. Many copies of the President's annual economic messages to Congress probably are tossed aside unread, or scanned, filed and forgotten. By some 10,000 copies of every report have been ordered by college, economics departments and university business schools. The influence here, and on the real thinking business leaders probably has been greater than that of any Congress.

The Council has taken the lead in promoting extension of social security and enlargement of the housing program. Research for the President's report on business recommendations to Congress was done largely through CEA.

Where the Council has fallen down primarily is in its failure to develop good working relations with the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report. This committee labored two years under a Republican chairman, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, and produced nothing. It now has labored a year and a third under a Democrat, Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, and produced nothing. There has been no specific economic legislation for which either the Council or the committee can take credit.

The Council admits it has not done a constructive job in the field of general tax reform. Bringing Roy Blough into the Council may correct that since he is a tax expert.

There is no thought of being able to set up a group of economic advisers so wise that everyone in Congress and out would be willing to follow its recommendations. But the Council so far has not reduced its discussion of political economics to grass roots levels.

One study of the South's economy barely scratched the surface of that big problem. Only now, when unemployment seems to be receding, is the Council moving towards a special consideration of New England's problems. The re-emerging problem of migratory farm labor unemployment has not even been touched.

"Can I help with the lunch?" he got a knife to cut the cake. "Not that one, darling!" she protested as she saw it was the "Mrs. B." knife he was putting into the lunch basket, but Mildred did not grieve; he said stubbornly it was like falling off a horse; one had to get on again at once if he ever expected to ride again.

"I'll eat no angel cake cut with that knife," Gloria told him firmly, but when he still put it into the basket, she said no more. But as it happened, she was right about not eating the angel cake.

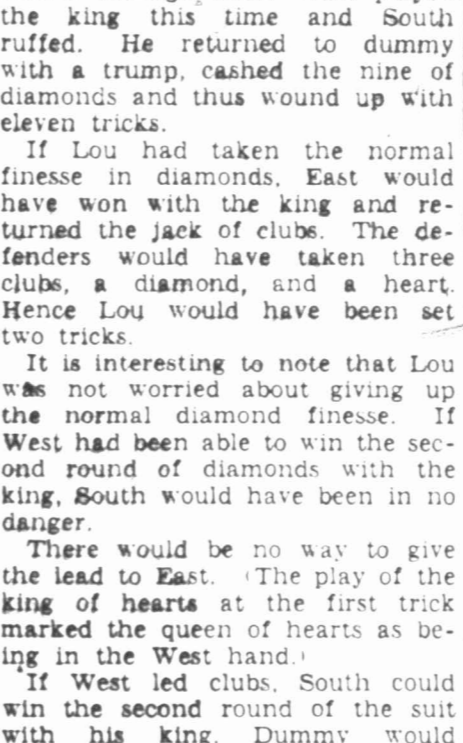

SINCE it was the latter part of a hot July day, the train going to Jones Beach, all the bathhouses, and the beach itself were already unbelievably crowded when the Browns arrived. All the people who hadn't gone to Coney Island were here, Gloria said ruefully as Mildred hunted for a spot of unoccupied sand large enough to spread out the steamer rug they brought to sit upon. But as they turned to settle their lunch basket, a large woman, whose alarming rolls of fat bulged out of her bra and shorts of large red roses on a blue background, threw herself happily down upon their rug.

"Come, Molly! Here, Sam, is a nice place to sit!" she called. "You do not mind? Is so crowded here today?" she beamed at the startled Browns.

At the sight of an entire family materialized from nowhere, smiling at her from her own rug, Gloria giggled hysterically. She suggested, "You keep it for us till we get back from swimming—if we can find an empty bathhouse. And don't let the kids get into the lunch basket, will you?"

"Here," the plump, befloored rug sitter took a key from around her neck and offered the length of solid gray elastic to Gloria, explaining, "Is fifty-fifty. I use your rug, you use my bathhouse. Sam, get your hand out that basket! Here, take a nickel, buy yourself an ice cream cone." (To Be Continued)

Look 'Gift' Steaks In Mouth, Advises Gambling Detective

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD, Associated Press Staff

"Texas gambling places have been cleaned up since the last couple of years," said Michael MacDougall, a man nationally known as "the card detective."

"By this," he went on during a recent visit to Texas, "I mean that some of the gambling places in this state are operating a little more honestly than they used to—relying more on the odds—which are always in their favor—and resorting less to loaded dice, marked cards, crooked dealing and controlled roulette wheels."

Bright-eyed, grey-haired and very energetic man, is one of the most expert card-manipulators living. He knows every trick. While looking you in the eye, he can "stack" a new deck of cards, shuffling so that he will get all the aces—or any other cards he wants. It won't do you any good to cut the cards when he is through, either.

He makes his living lecturing and by detecting card cheats. In many cases, swanky clubs have hired him to "sit in" on card games where one of the club members was suspected of cheating. For MacDougall, such detecting is a cinch.

Something To Remember He stopped a $3,000,000 gin rummy swindle in Hollywood and in Florida on the square for two or three months at a time and then it may start using crooked dice and cards and start controlling the roulette wheel. Most of the cheating is done when business is bad. When customers flock in, the house can get by just by taking advantage of the odds in its favor.

"But here's something to remember. When you go to a gambling house where you can buy 86 steaks for two bucks, you can figure the place lacks on the square with its cards, dice and roulette. It's been making up the cost of those steaks in its gambling room."

MacDougall thinks relatively few gambling places operate "on the square" at all times, except in Nevada.

In the early days of wireless—now radio—the short waves were regarded as almost useless. Now they carry numerous services, including television.

When It's Not The Greatest Show On Earth--In Rehearsal

Here come the clowns, but it makes a difference whether they're wearing their make-up and costumes or not. Here's Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's Lou Jacobs, with and without his get-up. Without, he looks like anybody else.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The circus' big spectacle trucks around the savdust track as the big show rehearses, with the band banging out a brass beat. Here and there walk middle-aged men in business suits, waving up at the empty stands.

You ask who those men are, what they are doing.

They're the clowns!

They're not funny. They look like people you'd meet on the street. It's kind of disillusioning. You think that, even without their beaming noses and gaudy cheeks, a clown would still look different, somehow.

Looks Like Carpenter

There's nothing as shocking as an acrobat in mufti. A balding man in a yellow-and-brown T-shirt sits down nearby. He looks like a carpenter or maybe a shoe salesman.

Then he walks out into one of the rings and begins a series of tremendous flip-flops. You wouldn't think, from looking at him, that he could do anything more strenuous than deep breathing exercises. You expect your acrobats to have muscles like grapefruit in their arms. They haven't.

During the spectacle, you spotted a bronzed giant riding around on a horse. He was portraying Abraham Lincoln in the pageant, "Dream of Democracy."

Later, he comes and begins talking to some others in the row in front of you. Abraham Lincoln is a German. The bronzed giant can't speak a word of English. Another shock.

A man and a woman juggler are practicing on the edge of the track. The girl is a beautiful brunette, wonderfully coordinated, with the tall, lean, lithe figure you expect a juggler to have. In a flash, she wipes her face with a towel and walks past you. She isn't tall. She's short and solid. Her hands, that were so sure as they twirled silvery batons and painted balls, fumble nervously as she lights a cigarette.

You spot two kids walking along the edge of the rail. They're about four or five. Brought up in the circus, you figure, imagining that they're the offspring of some daredevil tight-rope walker, already learning the trade that has been in the family for centuries.

You ask who those kids are.

"Never saw 'em before in my life," says an old circus hand.

Giant Walks Past

The giant walks past, with immense strides. Here is the circus at its peak. You study him, thinking of that colossal giant in the sideshow when you were young. But this one just looks tired. He wears a new pin-stripe suit. Giants shouldn't wear pin-stripe suits, they shouldn't look tired.

You focus your eyes aloft, on the rigging in the topmost part of Madison Square Garden. Two men are at work, lashing ropes and fixing equipment. They flit around easily, with no net underneath, sometimes hanging from their legs as they go about their work.

Those must be the men on the flying trapeze, making sure the ropes they use in their death-defying feats are safely rigged.

"Nah," says the old circus hand, "just a couple of riggers."

The circus in rehearsal is a sobering thing.

But then it is night. The lights come. The clowns romp out in their costumes. The crowd eats cotton candy and peanuts—you forget the cold facts of the afternoon. Dressed up, the circus is still dreamland.

Bride Takes Charge Early, Says Expert

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK —(AP)—After helping 60,000 newlywed couples arrange their honeymoons, Betty White thought she had met every problem.

And then a young couple strolled in and said:

"We want to take a dog on our honeymoon—can you fix that?"

"Why not leave him behind!" urged Miss White.

"No, I've never been anywhere without my dog—and I'm not going to start now," said the bridegroom. "Besides, he'd be lonely."

His bride said, yes, we want the dog to go along, too. So Miss White found them a resort where they could smooch with a pooch in tow.

This is one of the less zany experiences she has had in a 15-year career as a honeymoon consultant. One of her recurring tasks is to persuade mothers-in-law not to try to accompany the bridal company. Somehow fathers-in-law don't seem to want to.

"I don't approve of three on a honeymoon," said Miss White, "but sometimes it is necessary. Usually, in such cases, it's the bride's mother—if she's old or infirm."

She says brides, not bridegrooms, generally select the honeymoon site now. They prefer a resort where they can meet other people their age—a resort with recreational facilities, such as dancing, swimming, golf and tennis.

"Above all, they don't want to be tagged as honeymooners," she said.

Tips For Newly-Weds

Miss White, a slender, honey-haired woman, understands this feeling. She went on a honeymoon herself last year.

"I changed my mind three times about where to go, where anyone would know who I was."

She has figured out a few pointers to help newly-weds have a honeymoon that is sensible as well as romantic:

"Brush the rice out of your hair before you start."

"Don't take too much luggage."

"Don't over-tip. Inexperienced young couples often do this."

"Start to cooperate on the honeymoon."

"Take a couple of days at the end of the honeymoon to plan your future."

"Save enough to buy a small present for the bride. She'll treasure it all her life as a honeymoon memento."

"Why don't you go right down and tell the umpire about all those mistakes? He can't hear you up here!"

DADDY RINGTAIL

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail And The Strange Stranger

Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, was traveling once with his old friend, the Huffen Puffen, the friendly wolf. At last they crossed a bridge to enter the strange, strange land of Do-things-backwards.

No sooner had they crossed the bridge than a stranger stopped them. The stranger didn't say "hello." The stranger said "good-bye." He explained that, in his country of Do-things-backwards, everybody who was anybody always said "goodbye" upon meeting a someone. "Everybody-who-is-anybody does it," said the stranger.

Daddy Ringtail thought the country of Do-things-backwards was a strange, strange country indeed, but he and the Huffen were much too polite to say how silly they thought it was.

The stranger took them into his office and turned on the light, and your shirt with the buttons down the back?"

The stranger said he knew it. He knew the buttons of his shirt were down his back. He knew that his tie, too, was on backwards. "Everybody does it," said the stranger, and then added, "everybody-who-is-anybody, I mean."

The stranger explained that Daddy Ringtail and the Huffen with him should put their clothes on backwards, if they wanted to be somebody who was anybody, and so Daddy Ringtail and the Huffen did it.

"Now put your shoes on backwards," said the stranger.

But the Huffen wouldn't do it. No sir, he wouldn't. His feet felt better, they did, with his shoes the way they were supposed to go.

The stranger was surprised to hear this. He tried wearing his shoes in the way that isn't backwards, which made his feet so happy, he said that never again would he wear them backwards. Yes, and other people there in the strange country heard about his shoes the way they are supposed to go—everybody-who-is-anybody, I mean. Happy day!

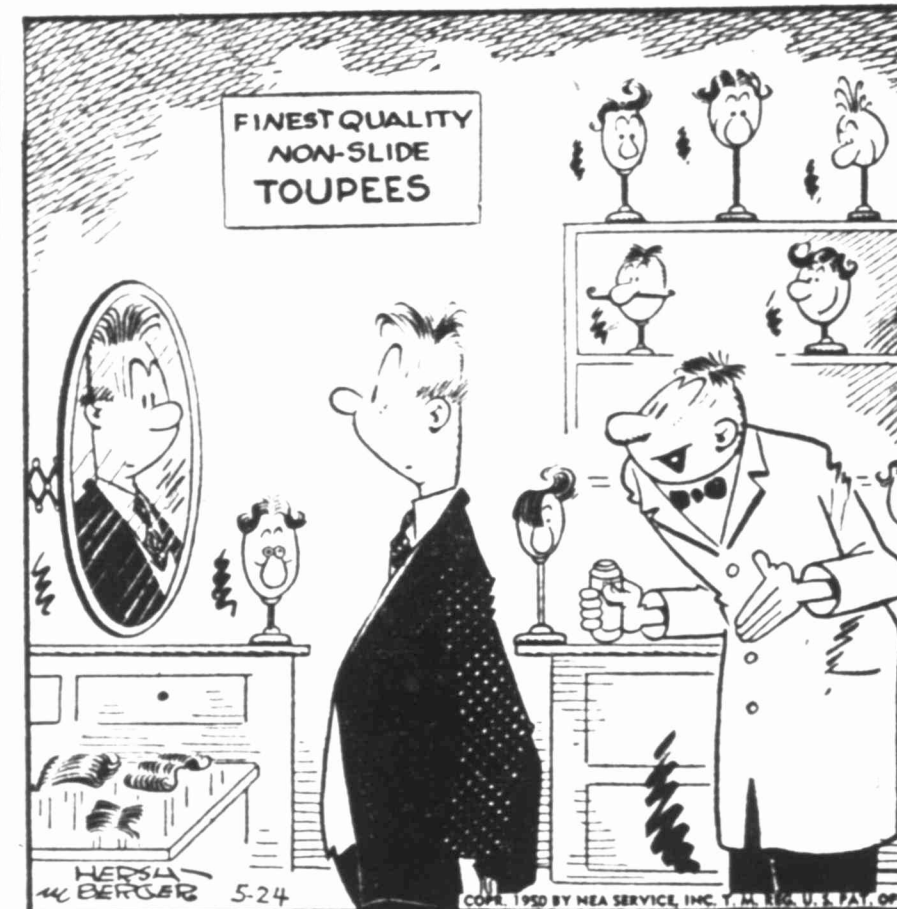

then our friends saw that the stranger was talking to them with his back toward them. Said the stranger: "Everyone-who-is-anybody does it."

And the Huffen asked: "Uhuh, but do you know you are wearing

Ships In Bottles Are Californian's Dish

LONG BEACH, CALIF. — (AP) — Gauss Loper has a full rigged ship mounted inside a five-gallon water bottle. He has another in a one-eighth-ounce bottle so tiny his wife wears it as a pin. He has more than a score of miniature brigs, barques, schooners, brigantines and schooners mounted in bottles of intermediate sizes.

Loper both makes and collects models of famed sailing ships, all in bottles. He plans to create a fleet of the various types of sailing craft. "They'll last a thousand years," he says. "That's one of the gratifying things about this work."

Data On Historic Bells Is Desired

AUSTIN —(AP)—Any historic old bells in the family? If so, Gov. Allan Shivers suggests you mail a photograph and history of it for permanent exhibition with the replica of the Liberty Bell.

The Liberty Bell reproduction currently is touring Texas in connection with the Independence Bond Drive. At the end of the drive July 4 it will be placed on permanent exhibit somewhere in Texas yet to be determined.

Many important bells were in use in Texas during the periods of French and Spanish exploration and colonization, and others were closely linked with the founding and history of the Republic of Texas and with the histories of early missions, cathedrals, cities, plantations, and ranches.

"I believe the histories and photographs of such bells are worthy of display with the liberty replica," the governor said.

He said the photographs and histories should be mailed to the U. S. Savings Bond Division, Treasury Department, Dallas.

With U. S. defense responsibilities under the North Atlantic Pact demanding a bigger U. S. Air Force and Navy, a glimpse at the price tags on today's fighting, bombing and transport planes shows why the armed forces may break through their $13,000,000,000 budget for fiscal 1950. World War II's famous fighting planes cost "peanuts" compared to today's superbombers, powerful jets and huge cargo planes. Officials of Atlantic Pact nations, meeting in London, have placed on the United States full responsibility for atomic and other long-range bombing in event of war—a responsibility that may cost added billions of dollars.

Shark Liver Trouble Hits West Coast As Wartime Fish Bonanza Collapses

SEATTLE, WASH. — (NEA) — No longer does the cry, "That's gold under them thar gills," come from West Coast fishermen.

From Seattle to San Pedro, Calif., fishermen say the once-rich bonanza of shark livers is about over. The prices paid for shark livers, still rich with vitamin A, are now so low that few fishermen head out to sea to catch soupfin and dogfish sharks.

Fishing boats once returned with cargoes worth more than $7,000 in a single trip. But those were the war days, when importation of vitamin-bearing oils was stopped.

Now, importations from Japan, South America and South Africa are gobbling up much of the business with American pharmaceutical firms and food processors. And synthetic vitamin A is being produced in ever-increasing quantities.

Watch Price Rise

Shark livers used to be sold by the pound. Fishermen watched the price rise from six cents a pound in 1938 to almost $20.

Even as late as last year the pound price was from $10 to $13 for soupfin livers. Today it is from $2.50 to $4.80, and is computed on the basis of vitamin content, not weight.

The drastic drop in prices has caught hundreds of fishermen with high-priced boats and nets. Once the industry was worth more than $15,000,000 yearly. This year it won't reach $2,000,000.

Kirk Jones, vice president of the big Washington Laboratories, Inc., of Seattle, says, "Very few fishermen can fish at these prices. Business in many of the fishing towns is dead. We've got to have these foreign imports put on a quota basis and to increase the duty (now only five per cent)."

Branch Flower, general manager of Halbut Liver Co-Op, also of Seattle, says higher prices are absolutely necessary. "The American shark fisherman," he explains, "is just like the gold miner. He has to go out prospecting and with the risk capital involved is entitled to make a fair return on his money. The fisherman may bring in tons of livers, only to find them low in vitamin A content.

Fishermen-surgeons of the Seattle trawler, Trask, strip livers from dogfish sharks. Once a load like this brought in more than $7,000, but not today. Now most boats don't even go out.

American drug and food processors will use better than 110 trillion (a trillion is on million million) units of vitamin A this year. Naturally, what worries the West Coast shark oil producers is who is going to supply all those trillions.

Japan is reported ready to supply 35 trillion and the U. S. synthetic manufacturers another 50 trillion. That doesn't leave much for West Coast fishermen.

Meanwhile, fishermen, with nets stretched on drying racks and boats tied up, are hoping Congress will take some action to bring back part of the good old days, when 525 boats and 1,600 fishermen were bringing in shark livers.

Salmon fishermen used to curse when a six-foot soupfin shark hit their nets, because of the damage. But they soon learned that the profit was worth the damage. But they aren't so sure any more.

Rankin Seniors Are Breakfast Guests

RANKIN — The Rankin senior class, sponsors and room mothers were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Workman for breakfast in the Workman home Sunday.

Hamilton Still gave the invocation and Jimmy Workman gave a toast to the seniors. The breakfast was served by Mrs. David K. Workman and Mrs. Joe T. McCommie, Jr.

Spring flowers decorated the rooms and arrangements of roses centered the tables. The seniors were seated at one long table in the dining room and the adults at foursome tables.

Favors for the seniors were boxed note paper and autograph books.

Guests were Joveta Yocham, Winnie Pearl Ellis, Imogene Sanders, Marjorie White, Ruth Elliott, Don Still, Jimmy Workman, Billy Brown, Ted Yocham, Chock Romine, Mr. and Mrs. Still, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell White, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Romine.

Sophomore, 49, To See His Son Get Diploma

NEWARK, DEL. — (AP) — A 49-year-old sophomore will see his son get a diploma at the University of Delaware's annual commencement exercises June 6.

Receiving his sheepskin in business administration will be Frank H. Horner, Jr., 24, of Wilmington, Del., a Navy veteran of World War II.

Witnessing the ceremony will be his father, Frank H. Horner, Sr., a sophomore in the School of Education. The elder Horner also is a veteran of the last World War.

Returning from service with General Patton's Third Army, the elder Horner said he decided to enter college because he was "fed up with being nice to people" in his old job as a grocery clerk. "He thinks teaching will be better because 'you don't have to worry about pupils taking their business to the school on the next corner.'"
