New WTCC Manager

West Texans join in congratulating Fred H. Husbands of Waco upon his appointment as vice president and general manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and in extending to him a typical West Texas welcome to this great section of the Lone Star State.

The new WTCC manager is credited with having done a commendable job as manager of the Waco Chamber of Commerce the last eight years, and it is hoped he will meet with even greater success as the executive head of the great regional chamber of commerce which serves West Texas.

Certainly the field is wide open, and in this area Fred Husbands will find unlimited possibilities for continued development and expansion along all lines. And here Fred Husbands will find alert and progressive citizens who are ready and willing to work and work hard in pushing to successful completion any and all worthwhile projects sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Com-

With the new manager leading the way, West Texans will support actively and generously their regional chamber of commerce, which long has played a prominent role in the rapid growth and economic expansion of this vast empire. It is hoped that West Texas and its Chamber of Commerce will soar even to greater heights of accomplishment in the years ahead.

All best wishes, Fred Husbands, for your continued success and happiness in your new position.

This is a very delicate question. It is quite true that you can't always afford to make a safety play. If there is danger that one of the defender will make a ruffing trick, you must draw trumps as quickly as possible. South was right to consider both dangers, but he was not right in estimating their likelihood. South was afraid that East had Thoughts for a Modest Man!

The man you see in the illustration above should own a Cadillac car.

His accomplishments entitle him to it. His income is ample to justify the expenditure. And he has wanted a Cadillac for a long, long time.

But he is an extremely modest man, and he feels that if he purchased a Cadillac, some of his friends might think him ostentatious.

For him, and for all people like him, we should like to record a few simple facts.

First, let us say that we recognize modesty as a basic virtue. Indeed, the man who doesn't possess it to the proper degree is both a bore to his friends and a joy to his enemies.

But there is nothing immodest about owning a Cadillac. In fact, there are few more sensible purchases a man can makeif a Cadillac falls within his economic means.

Relatively, a Cadillac isn't even expensive. There are numerous models of several other makes of cars which cost more than the lower-priced Cadillacs.

Furthermore, the great Cadillac engine is so miserly of gasoline that a single tankful will usually suffice for a whole day's drive.

And when it comes to long life and endurance—well, few people drive far enough in a whole lifetime to invalidate this wonderful car.

Surely, no man need hesitate to own the best-when the best is so practical, and within his means.

So if you are entitled to a Cadillac, don't let modesty stand in your way. Modesty ceases to be a virtue when it deprives a man of his just reward.
