Ellenburger Opener Is Indicated In Upton

Cities Service Oil Company and Continental Oil Company have discovered flowing oil from a second horizon in their No. 1-AH University, wildcat in Southeast Upton County.

The prospector, which has already shown for a flowing discovery from the Spraberry sand, flowed 156.96 barrels of oil in two hours from the Ellenburger on a two-hour and 28-minute drillstem test of that formation.

The test was taken over the section from 10,710 to 10,755 feet.

On the drillstem test, mud was to the surface in 10 minutes and oil and gas followed in 16. The flow was to pits for 12 minutes and then turned to tanks for the remainder of the test.

The flow was gauged through a 3/4-inch choke.

Gas-oil ratio was 2,320-1. Gravity of the petroleum recovered was 56.4 degrees.

The Ellenburger was topped at 10,723 feet. Elevation is 2,762 feet. Location of the wildcat is 1,980 feet from east and 860 feet from south lines of section 29, block 3, University survey and seven and one-half miles south of the Benndum field.

Contracted destination is 13,000 feet. Operator will continue drilling to that depth.

SW Midland Wildcat Testing Ellenburger

C. W. Murchison and associates No. 1 Joe Cannon, Southwest Midland County wildcat, one and three-quarter miles north and one-quarter of a mile east of the Pegasus field, and 24 miles southwest of the City of Midland is taking a drillstem test in the top of the Ellenburger at 13,100-102 feet.

The project had gas at the surface in 74 minutes. The tool was open at last report. No fluid had come out at that time.

Top of the Ellenburger was picked at 13,122 feet. Elevation is 2,889 feet. According to some correlations that makes No. 1 Cannon 588 feet low on the top of the Ellenburger to the same marker in the Magnolia Petroleum No. 1-A, SWXL, the opener of the Pegasus field.

It checks 127 feet low to Phillips Petroleum Company No. 1-BB TXL, on the northwest side of the Pegasus area.

This wildcat has already shown as a discovery of flowing oil from the Pennsylvanian lime at 10,370-578 feet. It flowed oil at an estimated 25-30 barrels per hour during a drillstem test of that section. Location is 680 feet from south and east lines of section 13, block 41, T&P survey, T-4-S.

Free Oil Logged In Lubbock Prospector

Bankline Oil Company, Wilshire Oil Company and Basin Oil Company No. 1 Earl Elliott, West-Central Lubbock County wildcat, six miles northwest of Lubbock logged some free oil from samples in drilling through the zone at 10,894-911 feet in a dolomite which is thought by some geologists to possibly be the Montoya, upper Ordovician.

Operators were preparing to run a drillstem test on that zone last report. This is the first section of possible production which has been encountered in this exploration.

It is scheduled to continue drilling to 12,000 feet, unless it makes an oil well, or encounters granite before reaching that level.

Location is 1,980 feet from east and 660 feet from south lines of section 33, block JS, EL&RR survey.

Discovery Offset Is Staked In C-E Lea

Skelly Oil Company is to start operations at once at its No. 1-P State, which is to be a 12,500-foot exploration in Central-East Lea County, New Mexico, about 14 miles northeast of Lovington.

It will be in the center of the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 2-15a-37e.

That makes the prospector one-quarter of a mile south of Ralph Love No. 1, Dickinson, flowing discovery from the Devonian from the section at 12,380-385 feet.

MacArthur Visits Korean Fronts

Truman Summons Party Leaders For Emergency Talks

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman Monday gave intense study to the question of declaring a national emergency—possibly to be followed by wage-price controls—and asked both Democratic and Republican congressional leaders to meet with him Wednesday.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) was one of those invited to a White House meeting at 9 a.m. (CST) Wednesday. It was the first time Taft, head of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, has been brought into the emergency consultations since the Korean war.

A White House announcement said the congressional group was being called to the White House "to discuss matters concerning the proclaiming of a national emergency and related matters."

It added the President "is particularly anxious now, as always, to continue and strengthen the bipartisan approach to these matters." Indications were piling up that the Administration was swinging to the thought that action in the wage-price field must be taken without much further delay.

There were hints something may be done before the week's end.

Questions Discussed
The White House said the questions of declaring a national emergency were discussed at a forenoon meeting of Truman and his Democratic congressional lieutenants and would be gone over also at an afternoon meeting with top economic advisers.

House Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas), one of those at the morning meeting, told reporters the whole matter "is in the stage of discussion and consideration." He said he assumed Truman wants to get the reaction of the Democratic-Republican congressional group before announcing a decision.

Besides the afternoon meeting with economic advisers, Truman also scheduled a meeting with the National Security Council. This is his top advisory board on steps needed for defense of the nation.

In addition, Stephen Early, acting presidential press secretary, said Truman and his staff have been discussing the idea of a nationwide broadcast by the President some time this week to acquaint the American people with the situation demanding drastic government action. There had been reports a broadcast was under consideration. Early confirmed them in response to questions.

Attorney For Cohen Found Shot to Death

HOLLYWOOD—(P)—Sam Rummel, 52, prominent attorney who represented gambler Mickey Cohen in many of his legal entanglements, was found shot to death on the front steps of his home Monday.

Detectives listed Rummel's death as murder under mysterious circumstances. The coroner's office, after a cursory examination, said the death was a possible homicide.

"Rummel was shot in the neck," said investigating detectives. "The bullet came out the back of his head."

Two Persons Hurt In Auto Accident

Two persons were injured in an automobile mishap Sunday afternoon at Weatherford and East Florida Streets.

Treated at Midland Memorial Hospital were Ray Sparks, Kermitt, and Betty Weeks, 1607 North Main Street.

Both suffered head lacerations and were kept for observation.

 LATE NEWS FLASHES ***

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Republican leaders Monday failed to reach any decision on a proposal by Senator Ives of New York that Senate Republicans declare "no confidence" in Secretary of State Acheson and demand his immediate ouster.

NEW DELHI, INDIA—(AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru told India's parliament Monday the main Chinese Communist armies have not advanced beyond Chamdo, 370 air miles northeast of Lhasa, in the "last several months."

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Supreme Court Monday upheld an order cancelling the American citizenship of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Ackermann, whose wartime writings at Taylor, Texas, indicated sympathy for Adolf Hitler.

HAPPY REUNION—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor exchange warm greetings in a reunion aboard the SS Queen Elizabeth in New York after his return from Europe. The royal couple laughed off rumors that their marriage, for which the Duke gave up the throne of England, had become shaky.

Predictions On Business Becoming More Uncertain

NEW YORK—(P)—The time for the free-wheeling prediction is upon us. These are the days when the industrial leader or business executive ponders publicly what he issues a statement. It is intended to be reassuring to the stockholders. But frequently it also views with alarm what is going on in Washington. It usually promises that the company will do all in its power to hold down costs, to raise prices only as a last resort, and to stand four-square behind the American way. If at all possible, the typical year-end statement predicts business will be bigger and better—with plenty of expert hedging thrown in.

This year, however, there are signs of a poor season for predictions. Some companies reliably are reported planning to leave the crystal ball in the back of the drawer, and admit they just don't know what's in store for them—or for you.

The once-a-year guessers are plagued by several things. For one, rarely before has it been so difficult for them to control what lies ahead, either for their company or for business in general. The shots are being called elsewhere.

Can't Be Reconciled
For another, there are conflicts that can't be reconciled easily. The natural tendency for business in the next few months would be to soar. This tendency is going to be curbed by government controls—and few can pretend to guess accurately now how this is going to work.

If the current crop of year-end statements is blighted by the uncertainty and the rumors which mark this month, the loss to the country may be sustained with some show of courage.

Anyone with a pipeline to Stalin and Mao probably could tell you right away, and with remarkable accuracy, just what kind of a year 1951 will be for American business—and for Americans generally.

Robert L. Wood, chamber president, said that if a majority of those attending the Tuesday meeting favor changing the by-laws, a proposal concerning the election of directors will be submitted by a committee including R. D. (Bob) Sprague, John P. Butler, Tom Sealy and Bill Collins.

Stone Wall Story Comes True For Football Player

A football player literally ran into a stone wall Sunday when he tried to carry the ball.

The player was 16-year-old Jack Pennington, son of Mrs. Maurine Pennington, 112 1/2 East Wall Street.

In a sandlot football game with some playmates, he crashed into the wall.

Court Asks Tideland Accounting

WASHINGTON—(P)—The Supreme Court Monday ordered Texas and Louisiana to give an accounting of royalties they have obtained from submerged oil lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

The accounting is to begin with last June 5—the date on which the court decided the federal government has top rights to lands under the marginal seas along the coast of the two states.

The accounting order was part of a decree issued by the Supreme Court to carry out its June ruling.

The Justice Department had asked the accounting begin with June 23, 1947. That was the date the Supreme Court decided the federal government has paramount rights to submerged lands off the coast of California.

The department said the 1947 decision gave fair warning to coastal states that their right to collect money from products taken from the so-called Tidelands was "highly doubtful."

But the high court rejected the 1947 date and fixed instead the June 5, 1950, date to begin the accounting in the Texas and Louisiana cases.

Council To Take Action On Fire Fight Equipment

The City Council is scheduled to take action Tuesday night on the purchase of $64,000 worth of new fire-fighting equipment.

City Manager W. H. Oswalt said Monday the action will probably be taken, following deferment from last month, on the purchase of an aerial ladder truck and three pumps.

The city already has received bids on the ladder truck, a 750-gallon pumper and two 500-gallon pumps.

The council, meeting at 7:30 p.m. in regular session, also will award contracts for several sewer and water line extensions.

Also scheduled for the council's attention are the purchase of two new automobiles for the police department and two zoning applications.

Guy L. Waggoner Dies At Vernon

VERNON—(P)—Guy L. Waggoner, 67, widely-known Texas and New Mexico ranchman and sportsman, was found dead in his Vernon home Monday morning.

The body was found at 9 a.m. by his wife. He apparently had died in his sleep during the night.

Waggoner was the oldest son of the late W. T. Waggoner, head of one of the largest ranch interests in Texas.

Waggoner was co-owner with his brother, E. P. Waggoner, of the Three D's Stock Farm at Arlington Downs. Guy Waggoner was named chairman of the Texas Racing Commission in 1935 and headed the New Mexico Racing Commission in 1939 after he established a $50,000 residence on his ranch near Mesquero, N. M., in 1937. He had served as president of the First National Bank of Decatur.

General Says UN Command Is Unbeaten

TOKYO—(P)—General MacArthur flew to Korea Monday for a hard look at his heavily-hit United Nations command. He said it remains unbeaten, relatively secure, and able to battle the Chinese hordes.

His secret visit to both the Northwest and Northeast fronts came as the last elements of 25,000 bone-cold, unshaven American Marines and Doughboys streamed down onto the Hamhung coastal plain from a series of Red traps near Changjin Reservoir.

A huge fleet stood off Hamhung's Port of Hungnam. But whether it would evacuate the weary, outnumbered U. S. 10th Corps units in the Northeast remained to be seen. The Northwest front was relatively quiet.

There was a note of guarded optimism in MacArthur's statement to correspondents after he returned to Tokyo from his quick trip to the warfronts. He had conferred on-the-spot with his top generals.

"The United Nations command, in spite of its recent heavy fighting, is in excellent shape with high morale and conspicuous self-confidence," the UN commander said. "Although heavily outnumbered it has come through in a superior manner."

The enemy's claims of United Nations losses in men and material are fantastically exaggerated. We are being forced to give ground but our fighting capacity has suffered little general impairment."

He added the Chinese Reds had "failed in a plan 'to encompass our destruction by one massive stroke.' All units intact."

All our units are intact and the losses inflicted on the enemy have been staggering—estimated by local commanders in the field as high as 50,000 men compared to one only 10,000 men.

It was the general's first statement to correspondents on the Korean campaign since he personally directed the Allied end-the-war offensive at daybreak November 24—a push turned into a full retreat the night of November 25 by bugle-blasting hordes of Chinese infantry.

It was evident MacArthur was concerned seriously about the condition of his forces, particularly the U. S. First Marine Division and units of the Army's Seventh Infantry Division which battled through a frozen, Chinese-lined hell for two weeks on both sides and

British Troops Battle Fanatical Moslems Trying To Seize Child

SINGAPORE—(P)—British troops with bayonets moved into the riotous streets of Singapore Monday night to battle fanatical Moslems, stirred to a frenzy by the court fight between a Dutch mother and a Malayan nurse for custody of a white child.

Hundreds of soldiers in trucks raced through the downtown sectors where the mobs were battling police, attacking Europeans and overturning and burning automobiles.

About 5,000 Malaysians stormed for three hours at the Supreme Court Building, where a hearing was underway on an appeal to return the 13-year-old child, Maria Bertha Hertogh, to her Malay foster mother and her Moslem school teacher husband.

Then thousands of fanatic Moslems raged toward the Catholic convent, where the girl and her Dutch mother were reported in hiding. Kidnaping threat.

They threatened to kidnap the child and burn the convent "if it took all night."

After eight hours, the mobs still were throwing stones and bottles, beating up Europeans, especially Dutchmen, and attacking vehicles.

Several European women were attacked with bottles and sticks, and a police officer said there were reports some white children had been kidnaped as hostages for Bertha.

Shots were fired and tear gas bombs hurled as police battled to break up the mobs. Thousands of Moslems flocked to the big Sultan Mosque where priests told them the court decision giving custody of Bertha to her Dutch mother affronted and violated the Mohammedan religion.

Ambushes snared the religious outbreak, at a time when the city's Far East is in a ferment, would gravely endanger security and offer an opportunity for Communist sabotage.

Marines Emerge From 12 Days Of Freezing Hell Full Of Fight

By JACK MACBETH
WITH U. S. MARINES WITHDRAWING FROM CHANGJIN RESERVOIR, KOREA—(P)—American Marines walked out of 12 days of freezing hell Sunday, full of fight after a gory nightmare of death in Korea's icy mountains.

The U. S. First Marine Division was rolling slowly into the North-eastern Korea plains of Hamhung. The men's eyes and bearded faces, their tattered parkas and the strangely careless way they carried their rifles showed the strain.

These thousands of Leathernecks did it on guts. They turned their withdrawal into one of the tightest retreats in military history. It was the longest pullback in Marine records—32 tortuous miles.

They broke out of a death trap sprung by many thousands of Red

Chinese and Koreans and converted what looked like almost certain disaster into a moral triumph if not a military victory.

I watched the retreat.

The story began in the flea-bitten Korean village of Yudan, on the western edge of the Changjin Reservoir.

Three Red Chinese divisions and one Chinese regiment attacked two Marine regiments in a surprise offensive the night of November 28.

The pressure was overwhelming. The Marines struck right back.

Five days after leaving Yudan, the Marines reached Hagaru, at the south end of the reservoir. There they joined another small group which was encircled by strong enemy forces.

Elements of a Third Marine Regiment were under attack at Koto, 10 road miles to the south.

At daybreak December 7 the Hagaru Marines jumped off southward towards Koto.

For 24 hours they fought one of the bloodiest battles of the Korean war.

I was in Koto when they came in. It was a gruesome sight—wounded men with their blood frozen to their skins; their clothes stiff with ice; grotesque dead men lying across trails and stretchers; live men stumbling along, grimacing from

★ IN HOLLYWOOD ★ A Dish Is A Dish Is A Dish —Anywhere But Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — I don't know about you, but movie stars — and even their dogs — are sopping up their gravy out of dinner plates with mystic colors and designs that express their inner personalities.
A rose is a rose is a rose, but a Hollywood dish is more than a dish. It's as personal as a misty close-up and it's art, too.
Aunt Nettie's prize platter with the circle of entwined hollyhocks may be okay for Aunt Nettie, but a weary movie queen wants to sit down to crockery that breathes an image of herself right back at her when she drags her plate from the studio at nightfall.
Push the mashed potatoes over to the lima beans on a Joan Crawford plate and you may be staring right into the gold splash that represents Joan's yen to go galloping through a field of daisies.
Sascha Brastoff, Hollywood's Mr. Big, in the field of expensive ceramics, is the busting-with-talent lad who's creating for the soft-focus and soothing chartruses with stars' monograms yet — for that top cut of filet mignon.
Or horsemeat tidbits for movie-town mutts.
"Gregory Peck started it," Sascha moaned. "He came in one day with a picture of a poodle, a swatch from some forest green drapes and asked me to make a plate for the hound. I went completely mad on the idea. I painted in ribbons and cups and trophies and fired the whole thing with lots of gold. Then Greer Garson came in with her poodle. Now no self-respecting Hollywood dog is without a Brastoff plate."

It used to be that the Lanas and Hedy's would take one look at the jellied duck starting at them and decide that it was better to starve.

★ THE DOCTOR SAYS ★ Dope Evil Can Be Scotched Only Through Intensive Effort

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service
The dope or drug habit is a serious problem. The newspapers sometimes call attention to it in headlines such as "Bare Huge Dope Ring" or "Dope Sales to Youths Boost Addicts." It was pointed out recently by a large court judge in one of the family cities that there has been a 25 per cent increase in the use of narcotics among adolescents.
The drug habit usually means a craving for one of the substances derived from opium, although cocaine and marihuana are also properly included among the habit-forming drugs. In medicine, opium, or more often one of the substances obtained from it, such as morphine or codeine, are extremely useful because they lessen pain without causing unconsciousness. They have brought untold relief to suffering humanity.
Unfortunately, dope of this kind cannot be taken too long without producing harmful effects, and some people have used such preparations not to kill pain but because of the pleasant and other pleasant sensations which they may produce.
The symptoms of habit formation come on slowly. The health may be little disturbed for a while but gradually the dose has to be increased in order to produce the pleasant symptoms.
Once the habit has been formed the victim becomes mentally depressed and often suffers from bowel symptoms in the stomach or bowels whenever the effect has worn off. This makes him seek the drug more and more often, until the confirmed addict is at the mercy of the wicked peddler and dope rings.
As the habit gets worse and worse the confirmed addict loses weight, develops a poor complexion, and is likely to become prematurely gray. He is irritable and restless when not under the influence of the drug. His sleep is disturbed and appetite and digestion are no longer good.
Addition to these dangerous drugs can develop at any age. The most serious, however, is that which occurs at high school age when some youngster seeking adventure is approached by a dope peddler and gradually led down the path until he even will steal in order to get enough money to buy the drug. No mercy should be shown to those who debase the young in this way nor to the powerful and wealthy dope rings which operate in so many parts of the world.

The dope habit should be avoided but there always will be some who need to be cured. This is not easy but it is often done. The best treatment usually is given in an institution since the temptations outside are often too great to be overcome.
This evil can be mastered only by the effort and cooperation of a great many different agencies and individuals including the medical profession, the courts, the federal government, and numerous and wide awake civic groups.

Dental Group Sets Second Phone Study
The Permian Basin Dental Society will hear a discussion on Monday evening on the subject, "Periodontitis," sometimes mistakenly referred to as pyorrhea. The program will be transmitted by telephone from Chicago to 365 dental societies and dental study clubs throughout the U. S. and Canada. It is the second of the 1950-51 series of five lectures being given by the University of Illinois College of Dentistry. Members of the Permian Basin Society will hear the program in Hotel Scharbauer here.
Dr. Saul Levy of the University of Illinois will serve as moderator of the two-hour program.
A 15-minute period again will be devoted to atomic civil defense. Dr. Earl H. Blair of Chicago will discuss "Coordination of Medical and Dental Services in Civilian Atomic Defense."

NEW ELECTRONIC INVENTION HIDES DEAFNESS
Revolutionary Discovery Transmits Even Whispers With Startling Clarity
CHICAGO (Special)—An amazing new electronic car which hides deafness and transmits even whispers with startling clarity, has been revealed by a noted Chicago electronic scientist.

He disclosed that this miraculous new discovery has returned old-style hearing aids obsolete almost overnight, and brings new hope to the 15 million persons in the United States who are hard of hearing.
He reported that this electronic car enables the deaf to hear without any button showing in the ear and without dangling battery wires.
To acquaint the hard of hearing readers of this paper with this new miracle electronic car which hides deafness, full details are described in a fascinating booklet, "New Discoveries to Help the Deaf Hear." It will be sent free in a plain wrapper to anyone who requests it. Address: Electronic Research Director, 1450 West 19th Street, 8025 Belmont Building, Chicago 8, Ill. A penny postage will do.—Adv.

Campaign Expenditure Law

The Ohio elections this year are a perfect example of the futility of trying to determine accurately how much money is spent in major political campaigns.

The law puts a limit on the amount individual candidates may spend, but it doesn't mean much, since there isn't a limit on the sums campaign committees and other contributors may put out.

In the important Senate contest, for instance, Senator Taft filed an expense record of $1,529 and his Democratic opponent, Joseph T. Ferguson, one amounting to $870.

But if you add up the recorded expenditures of all the special Taft committees, you get a figure close to $430,000. And that's only part of the story.

The regular state Republican committee put out $435,000 during the campaign. Here you run into trouble. It can't all be ascribed to helping elect Taft, since that committee is responsible for promoting the whole state ticket. County candidates were handed money in addition.

Yet the costliest single items in the Taft campaign were paid for by the state committee—all the radio and television programs and the 600 billboards used for the senator. So what proportion of the $435,000 should be applied to Taft's expenditures? It's almost impossible to tell.

There's still another item. The state committee allotted an extra $107,800 to the campaign of the GOP's various congressional candidates. But in most places their promotion was woven in rather closely with Taft's. Their names often appeared on the same billboards, they showed up on the same platforms, were mentioned in the same radio programs, and they plugged Taft in their speeches.

How do you measure what share of the $107,800 properly should be chalked up to Taft? Again, who can tell?

If you added all these figures together, you'd come up with around $975,000. But the total obviously wouldn't be a sound indication of Taft expenses.

In the 1950 Ohio case, the problem is even greater. Tens of thousands of volunteers lent a hand at various stages of the campaign. Uncounted hours of free manpower, free gasoline, free telephone calls and assorted other things were tossed into the balance on the Taft side. They can't be priced.

On the Democratic side, the difficulties are no less. A day or so after the final date for filing of expenses, the most you could ascribe to the Ferguson campaign was around $120,000. This unfortunately included funds spent by the Democratic state committee for other candidates.

The Ohio CIO-PAC spent $74,470, according to the expense account filed by Jacob Clayman, the secretary-treasurer. Of this, he said, $48,204 came from "innumerable small contributions from thousands of persons."

Some other important labor outlays still were being prepared for filing, but it seemed clear the ultimate total would not be too revealing.

There was little likelihood, for example, that it would cover the cost of bringing in a long list of out-of-state speakers from the administration and the top labor command to speak against Taft. Furthermore, the national labor headquarters in Washington performed the basic research that supplied Ohio campaigners with their anti-Taft propaganda. How much did it cost to assemble and distribute the CIO's 200-odd page speaker's handbook which contained most of this material?

All of this suggests that as the law now is written and as campaigns now are conducted, very little can be done to ascertain fully what any candidate has spent. Perhaps only a congressional investigation could determine, but such inquiries are too costly to be made the rule.

If limits on campaign expenses are desirable, they ought to be extended to cover all contributors. Otherwise it would be better to forget the whole thing. Certainly it's perfectly silly to make wild charges and counter-charges about any man's outlays when there's not a hope in the world of proving or disproving them.

What has happened to Red China's war against mountainous Tibet?

Dispatches from that frontier are lean and infrequent. Have the invading forces been stalled by the steep Tibetan mountain passes? Are they nearing the capital of Lhasa? What's the status of the shaky government there?

You don't get much cue on these questions from the daily press. In fact, the Tibetan war appears to have slid so far down the scale that it's now competing for minor attention with the football scores from Slippery Rock Normal.

Double Fused

DREW PEARSON ON THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Drew Pearson says: Attlee and Truman at loggerheads over China; Acheson favors naval blockade of China coast; Agree to keep beachhead in Korea.

WASHINGTON — Those who sat in on the prolonged talks with Prime Minister Attlee and President Truman agreed that they set a new high-water mark for Anglo-American cooperation — something that had been needed for a long time.

The two men talked as if they were fellow members of the same Cabinet—though the prime minister, in his friendly way, did more talking than the President. Attlee even told Truman quite frankly that both he and French Premier Pleven were worried over his growing opposition in Congress and wondered whether any military agreements, made now, would be honored in the new 82nd Congress. President Truman later expressed some concern about this, and asked his staff to see what they could recommend to get the bipartisan foreign policy back on an even keel.

However, despite the healthy Anglo-American agreements to cooperate on economic matters and move for quick rearming of Europe, the two men remained far apart on policy toward Communist China. In fact, the only thing they agreed to was to disagree.

Firm Last Stand
A joint policy on the intermediate problem in Korea was a lot easier and here is how the Korean discussions progressed.

Prime Minister Attlee arrived with the feeling that the United Nations would be better off if we pulled out of Korea altogether. His views were confirmed when Gen. Omar Bradley, top chief of staff, gave an unvarnished account of the terrible casualties, and expressed doubt regarding the wisdom of trying to hold a beachhead.

The joint chiefs of staff, incidentally have been unanimous behind Bradley; believe it might take as many as 50,000 casualties to maintain a beachhead.

This view was seconded by the British chief of staff, Field Marshal Sir William Slim, who also doubted the wisdom of remaining in Korea. No-Appeaser Acheson

However, Secretary of State Acheson took the opposite view. Though branded an appeaser by Republicans, Acheson was anything but an appeaser in the talks with Attlee.

He argued that there were two ways of getting out of Korea—one to pull out, the other to get kicked out. To run out on a small country like Korea, he argued, would brand us as dishonorable, without courage, and a nation not to be trusted as an ally in the future.

If, on the other hand, we went down fighting to the last ditch and with colors flying, Acheson argued, our position would be far better in the eyes of the world.

Therefore, the secretary of State urged that we keep at least a beachhead in Korea, during which time we would do our best to improve our diplomatic bargaining position.

President Truman vigorously supported his secretary of State, and Prime Minister Attlee, after listening to the arguments, changed his mind and agreed that Acheson was right.

The joint chiefs of staff meanwhile estimate that with enough warships standing off shore and bombing the enemy around a beachhead, plus enough airplanes overhead, they can defend an allied toe hold in Korea indefinitely.

Blockade of China
Having agreed to this, the next big question was joint Anglo-American diplomatic policy toward China.

This was the most difficult nut to crack of all.

In this case Acheson again proved to be anything but an appeaser. He favored a stiff straight-arm policy against the Chinese Communists, including a naval blockade and a boycott.

A negro man obtained a job moving timbers and cross-ties. At the end of the first day he was just about exhausted so he went to the foreman and asked, "Boss, is you sho' you got my name right?"

The foreman looked over the list and replied, "Yes, here it is—Simpson, John Simpson." The worker said: "Yes, suh, dat's right; I thought maybe you had me down as Samson."

He had been drinking and he was hungry. He seated himself in a cafe. The waitress said, "I have calf brains, stewed kidneys, pickled pigs feet and frog legs."

He said, "Never mind telling me your troubles, aster; just bring me something to eat."

So They Say

We must strengthen those values in our education system which make democracy strong, and we must do so in the face of those within the nation who, in the name of fighting communism, would destroy us by taking away those liberties, which are necessary if we are to be the Communists.

The situation in which Germany finds itself has changed the whole situation since Potsdam. Our problem is not the growing rearmament of Germany but how to check the growing rearmament of Germany by Russia.

At this still awkward stage, television dramas lack the subtlety of the movies. TV doesn't have the orientation ease of the films, which can plant instantly at any stage of a picture just who is involved in the scene at hand.

answered the young, blond reporter: "We had enough of war."

"Why thought it over for a moment and said, 'Well, what would it take to have you fight the Russians?'"

"If we had two or three divisions of American troops in Germany we knew would stay and fight," Von Gleichen replied, "that would be enough of an assurance."

"But senator," the young German said patiently, "how can you say that? Every place I see television antennas on the roofs."

It was then that Wherry was stumped.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

"Please comment on the bidding of this hand," requests an Allentown correspondent. "It looks to me as though South ought to play the hand at three no-trump instead of four spades. He's safe enough if clubs aren't opened, or if they split 4-4. But I'll be darned if I can see who ought to bid no-trump, when neither North nor South has any semblance of a club stopper."

"The defenders led three rounds of clubs, and South ruffed the third round with the nine of spades. He then laid down the three top trumps, discovering the bad news. He next tried to run the diamonds, hoping that West would follow to three rounds, in which case dummy would lead a fourth diamond to get rid of the losing heart from the South hand. However, West ruffed the third diamond, and South eventually had to lose a heart trick.

"What do you think of all this?" I think that my Pennsylvania friend is trying to pull my leg. To begin with, three no-trump is a very poor contract—even though the actual 4-4 club break permits it to be made against any defense.

In the second place, five diamonds is a very easy contract, and South should have bid it. In the third place, South could and should have made L.S. contract of four spades.

The play at four spades is very interesting. When South ruffs the third round of clubs, he should see that four trumps to the jack would be very awkward. Hence he should immediately lead the ten of spades!

The chances are that West would play low—not dreaming that South would make such a play with the three top trumps. Then South would make the rest!

Even if West took the jack of spades, he could do no further damage. If he led another club, dummy would ruff. (This is why South must give up a trump trick at once rather than later on.) If West leads anything else, South retains the lead, draws the rest of the trumps, and runs the diamonds.

Margie Lou, the girl Eddie fell in love with after he was dead, she holds his good luck piece, a silver coin which she found on the bus Eddie used to drive.

"If he did his slip showed an inch and he was wearing a darn funny hat with purple feathers on it."

Eddie tumbled to the trouble. "Take my lucky coin out of your pocket and hold it in your hand again, Margie Lou."

But Margie Lou paid no attention to him. She was inclined to be indignant. She muttered, "He was just kidding me."

"My advice is never trust them soldiers, dearie," said the lady. "They're all alike, string you along with hot air and then stand you up."

Eddie was helpless to do anything about it. He couldn't think of any way to make Margie Lou pick up the telephone again.

"End of the line! All out!" shouted Margie Lou. "Watch your step!"

Eddie stood aside, although that was hardly necessary, as the crowded bus emptied itself in front of the brilliantly illuminated entrance to the bootworks.

When the last passenger was gone and Margie Lou was about to close the doors Max Lengel drove up alongside in his battered convertible.

"Hi, Baby," he said gaily. "I thought I could get out here as soon as your bus did. I wanted to make sure about our date for tonight. Is it all hunky-dory?"

Margie Lou did not close the door. "I had sort of an engagement."

"Who with?"

"A soldier—his home on leave." "Soldiers are a dime a dozen. Don't waste your time on a jerk who's apt to get bumped off before you see him again. I'm going to be here right along. Where'll I pick you up?"

"You'd better call it the house."

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Open All-Out Controls Really Can Stop Inflation

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The newly-designated director of Price Control, ex-Mayor Michael V. DiSalle of Toledo, has a double-barreled job on his hands. For there are two kinds of inflation now threatening the United States.

The first comes from a rise in U. S. income. Things like the 12 1/2-cents-an-hour increase U. S. Steel has granted to its employees and the three-cents-an-hour cost of living increases which General Motors and other United Auto Workers Union members receive this month are examples of the way wages are going up. This latest three-cent raise brings the total of such escalator clause contract increases for GM workers to 11 cents an hour since 1948.

True, these increases were granted because the cost of living index had gone up. But in the long run this spiral is a good bit like the argument over which came first, the chicken or the egg? The more spending power there is, the higher prices tend to go. So the end is not yet in sight.

Second major inflationary pressure today is from the scarcity of materials. Large quantities of things like rubber, aluminum and copper are needed for defense production. The supply for automobiles, houses, refrigerators, radios and TV sets is reduced. So the price goes up.

Higher taxes and credit controls can do something towards cutting down this first type of inflation. Allocation and cutback orders can do a little towards reducing the second. But if both of these are to be effective and if the cost of living is really to be held down there must be some price controls.

Indirect Controls
The theory so far has been that inflation could be checked by taxes and credit controls alone. This might be true if there was general agreement to apply taxes and credit controls vigorously enough. But the pressures against them have been so strong that Congress and the executive branch of governments have been unwilling to tighten the screws.

There are three large groups in the population that consistently have opposed bearing their share of the tax cost.

First are the wage earners, particularly those organized in unions. It is admittedly hard to hike taxes on wage earners at a time when prices are rising. But escalator clauses tied to the cost of living tend to keep wage earners from bearing their share of the anti-inflationary burden.

The second group takes in the farmers. In the parity price system, they now are protected by exactly the same thing as union labor's escalator clause. As the prices of the things farmers buy go up, the parity, support price level automatically is advanced on the things which farmers sell. So they can't lose, either.

The third group takes in manufacturers, home-builders, practically all other business. The makers of automobiles, refrigerators and other so-called "hard" goods resist the imposition of curbs on the amount of scarce materials they may use. They resist the imposition of credit curbs which make their sales more difficult. And they resist the imposition of steep excise taxes on their products.

Many Fine Speeches
The excise taxes may be passed along to the consumer. But the end result is that they reduce sales, and fluffy dresses myself. It's a date." He drove off before she could say yes or no.

Margie Lou closed the bus door as Eddie bailed out, or maybe a second or two sooner. Eddie was mad. He didn't quite know who he was mad at but he certainly was fit to be tied.

EVERYBODY had to show his or her card as well as the photo-identification button in order to get past the two watchmen at the gate. All but Eddie.

It was a place of considerable activity. Old-fashioned arc lights sputtered in front of reflectors high up on poles. A good many women worked in the jobs where it was only necessary to know which end of a nail to hit with a hammer and how to do it without splattering too much blood from the mashed thumb.

Eddie remembered it, there had never been more than a score of employees at the bootworks. Now there were hundreds.

Max Lengel, Eddie discovered, was a "set-up man" which gave him sort of a roving commission to inspect and fix machinery all over the yard. He usually made a lot of fussy adjustments which took up a lot of time. He also did considerable boisterous kidding with the younger women. His invariable joke was to warn them not to work so hard or they would get too tired to go riding with him when it was their turn.

"Why, Mr. Lengel," said one of the more shapely laborers, "I don't see how you get the gasoline to run around like you do."

"Easy, if you know the right people like I do. Besides, it don't take much." Max Lengel said. "When there's a pretty girl along I always run out of gas a couple of miles out of town. You can depend on that. But I can usually find some to get home on later. You can depend on that, Sister. I've got cans of gasoline laid all over the county," he boasted.

"Some of it right here in the yards, where the OPA inspector would never think of looking for it. When you need some for your cigaret lighter, just ask me."

Earl And Bride On Honeymoon After Rocky Beginning

TACOMA, WASH.—(P)—The tweedy, pipe-smoking eighth earl of Essex, 66, and his slacks-clad American bride, 29 years his junior, were on the honeymoon trail Monday.

Behind them was an opera bouffe mixup that took a midnight quickie marriage before a sleepy justice of the peace to straighten out.

The dizzy chain reaction of events was in the finest scenario tradition. A movie comedy writer would have had trouble devising a better sequence.

This is what happened before the wealthy English nobleman, Algernon George De Vere Capell, and his third wife, the former Z. Mildred Carlson of New York, set out Sunday on a leisurely motor trip across the continent:

The earl and his fiancée, wearing smart blue slacks and a harmonious lighter blue sweater, appeared before a Seattle judge Saturday to obtain a waiver on the state's required three-day waiting period for marriage.

Granted. Get Marriage License. Then they got a marriage license. They thought that spliced the marital knot. They told reporters they were wed.

Off to a Tacoma tourist cottage they went to begin their honeymoon. Then it came out that no ceremony had been performed.

The news went out on the radio. The auto court landlady had an ear cocked to the broadcast, scurried to the cabin and told the blissful couple all was not well.

The earl called the judge, called the British consul in Seattle, called for assistance from sympathetic people at the court and nearby.

It was midnight when an entourage went racing in search of a justice of the peace. They found their man in Delbert Bresemann at Spansway, 10 miles south of here. Nervous, they were, said Bresemann, and added modestly: "That's the first nobility I've ever married."

LABELS CAN BECOME LIBELS

This matter of bringing words into closer relationships with the facts they symbolize can have serious consequences. A girl had a fear of the word "mother"—when ever she saw it or heard it a fear went over her and she revolted from the word. It was found that her mother had been very cruel to her, and the content of the word came from the fact. She was released when she was made to understand that the word "mother" could and did stand for tenderness and understanding love in the experience of thousands. The word-fact relationship was righted, and she was freed.

We mentioned a young man who was jilted as church bells were ringing, and whenever he saw or heard the word "church" or "bishop" he found himself seized by fear and revolt. Association brought this reaction. There was nothing wrong with the word "church" or "bishop", but he had carried over into the word a false meaning. His

Bennett Services Held In Midland

Funeral services for George R. Bennett, 43, were held at 10 a.m. Monday in the First Christian Church, with the Rev. Clyde Lindsey, pastor, officiating. Interment was in the Resthaven Memorial Park.

A long-time resident of Midland, Bennett was found dead of a gunshot wound in the garage of his home here late Friday. A .410 gauge shotgun was found lying at his feet. Bennett was born June 13, 1907, at Agricola, Kan., and had resided in Midland a number of years. He was an oil field supply salesman. He was active in civic affairs and was a deacon of the First Christian Church.

Survivors include the widow and a daughter, George Ann, of Midland, and the mother, Mrs. Etta L. Bennett, of Agricola, Kan.

"Huffen Puffen, old friend, old wolf," said Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, "how would you like to go down the river to Treasure Island? How would you like to dig for pirate treasure in the sand?"

Said the Huffen: "You mean a pirate treasure like maybe a chest of gold and silver and diamonds and money?"

He smiled every time he mentioned pirate treasure, but he kept on being busy with his work of straightening the boxes and things on the riverboat.

"Please, Daddy Ringtail," said the Huffen, "the Huffen wants to dig for pirate treasure, and can't we go in your boat?"

"Oh, now Huffen," said Daddy Ringtail, "we have dug for pirate treasure many times before, and never did we find any."

"Worry, worry and worry," answered the Huffen, because he knew that Daddy Ringtail was right for pirate treasure, but no, never had they found any.

"I betcha we could find it this time," said Mugwump.

"But Mugwump," answered Daddy Ringtail, "never, never, never, and not once have we found any."

"Worry, worry and worry," said Mugwump, and the Huffen said it with him.

But Daddy Ringtail now began to laugh. He was through with his work of straightening the boxes around in the boat, and he said the boxes were full of camping things for them to camp out on Treasure Island.

Oh, it was true enough they had never found pirate treasure before, but why hadn't they found it ever? Why only because they hadn't dug in the right place. Yes, and maybe they would dig in the right place this time. It was fun to hope that they would. Hope is always a happy thing. Happy day!

Midlander Enrolled In University ROTC

AUSTIN—Ralph William Vertrees of Midland is enrolled in the Army ROTC course at the University of Texas.

Those enrolled will receive Reserve commissions in one year. They will be required to attend camp next Summer after graduation and, if qualified will be commissioned in the Reserves at the completion of the camp.

Vertrees, a senior petroleum engineering student, belongs to the university chapter of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and the university's West Texas Club. Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Vertrees of Midland are his parents.

Rotary Outscores Angelo Five 68-63

SAN ANGELO—The Rotary Engineers of Midland were forced to go into a five-minute overtime here Saturday night, but outscored Bryan Electric of San Angelo, 68 to 63, in a "dilly" of a ball game.

Slim Bennie Rutherford slammed 12 field goal and six free tosses through the hoop to lead the Engineers with 30 points, while Leland Huffman laced the net for 22 points.

But the San Angelo five had some high-scoring boys too. Six-foot, 10-inch Bill Berge sank 28 points to lead the Bryan Electric quintet, and J. Smith tallied 21 points.

San Angelo broke in front early in the ball game and held a 47-41 lead at halftime. Rotary cut the lead down in the early moments of the last half, but with three minutes remaining San Angelo still was in front by eight points.

A "blitzkrieg" on the basket by Rutherford tied the score, then a double foul was called on Teel of San Angelo and Salmon of Rotary. Teel sunk his to put the Bryan hoopers ahead 63-62 with but 10 seconds left. And Salmon sunk the important gratis toss that sent it into overtime.

Huffman poked in five points, Rutherford two and Salmon two in the overtime, and it was good enough for a 68-63 Rotary victory.

The box score:

Five-Man Trade Puts Red Sox In Strong Position For Pennant

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. —(AP)—Once again, as in the past three seasons, the fence-busting Boston Red Sox rule a strong favorite to win the American League pennant—and with good reason.

Already strengthened by the acquisition of Lou Boudreau, the once peerless shortstop, the Red Sox Sunday struck fear into the hearts of their rivals by the completion of a $500,000 five-man trade with Chicago that helped where it was needed most—pitching.

The important deal, first to be consummated at the Winter baseball meetings here, brings to Boston a pair of front line hurlers—left-hander Bill Wight and right-hander Ray Scarborough—in exchange for right-fielder Allen Zarella and pitchers Joe Dobson and Dick Littlefield.

All except the rookie Littlefield are veterans of many campaigns. Littlefield, a 24-year-old southpaw, came to the Red Sox from Birmingham last August and finished with a 2-2 record. Both sides insist no money figured in the deal.

Wight, 28, won 10 and lost 16 for the second division White Sox last season. Scarborough, who came to the Sox in a six-man trade with Washington last May, wound up with a 13-18 record. The latter, known as a Red Sox killer over the years, is 32. He has been credited with knocking the Red Sox out of two pennants. He beat them in decisive last ditch games in 1948 and '49. Boston was beaten for the flag by one game each season.

Zarella, 30, had a fine year with Boston hitting .325 in 130 games and knocking in 74 runs. Robson, 34, had a 15-10 record last year. His lifetime mark against Chicago is 17-6.

The deal, on the eve of the start of the major league meetings Monday, left the leaders of Detroit, Cleveland and the New York Yankees utterly dismayed.

Kermitt, Arlington To Collide Friday Afternoon In Abilene

By The Associated Press

Class A high school football's championship playoff reaches the semi-final stage this week and four unbeaten teams tangle for a shot at the title.

Arlington meets Kermitt in a battle of undefeated, untied teams at 2 p.m. Friday in Abilene.

Wharton and New Braunfels clash Friday night at El Campo in a rematch. Earlier in the season they fought to a scoreless draw and that's the only blemish on their records.

Each of the four remaining teams boast terrific offenses. And they have equally stout defenses.

Finalist in 1948

New Braunfels, a finalist in 1948, has rolled up 508 points to 64 points for 13 opponents.

Kermitt has scored 343 points to 58; Arlington 396 to 124 and Wharton 397 to 117.

Last week New Braunfels beat LaVega 18-6, Arlington downed Mount Vernon 21-20, Wharton beat Pearsall 48-0 and Kermitt licked Jewelland 33-0.

Kermitt's offense is sparked by the fabulous Rick Spinks, touted as a combination Doak Walker, Kyle Rote and Byron Townsend.

Arlington has two touchdown threats in Jack Marshall and Rusty Gunn, while both Wharton and New Braunfels are loaded with high class backs.

This is the first time Arlington, Kermitt or Wharton has been this far in the playoff.

Max Zaslowsky of the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association has been named to the league all-star team each of the four seasons he has played.

Irish Voted Game's Big Flop Of 1950

NEW YORK —(AP)—Notre Dame's broken-elevator dive from the national championship to bottom drawer mediocrity provided college football's big "flop" of 1950.

Sports writers and broadcasters, participating in the post-season Associated Press poll, voted overwhelmingly for the Fighting Irish as the team that was supposed to succeed—but didn't.

Notre Dame began the campaign with modern football's longest unbeaten streak—38 games—and heavily favored to repeat as No. 1 team in the nation.

The Irish squeaked past North Carolina for their thirty-ninth straight without a setback 14-7 and then—boom! Purdue shattered the Notre Dame dynasty 28-14.

Never Recovered

Frank Leahy's stalwarts never recovered and went on to record one of their most dismal seasons, winning only four games, losing four and tying one.

By strange coincidence, Purdue joined Notre Dame as one of the disappointments of the campaign.

The Bolleymakers finished third in the "flop" balloting, just behind Bernie Bierman's once-mighty Minnesota Gophers, who were able to win only one game and tie another.

Purdue lost their next six games after beating Notre Dame before finishing with a 13-0 conquest of Indiana.

Another ranking disappointment was Southern Methodist, which lost four of its last five games after being rated top team in the nation.

Bob Feerick, now basketball coach at Santa Clara, holds the pro record for accuracy from the foul line—he dropped in 256 of 298 for an 85.9 per cent average during the 1948-49 season.

Records Show A&M Gained Most Ground In SW Conference

DALLAS —(AP)—Texas A&M, which showed its thunderous offense in smashing Georgia, 40-20 Saturday in the Presidential Cup game at Washington, gained the most ground in the Southwest Conference football campaign which closed last week.

The Aggies whipped up 3,687 yards rushing and passing to shade Southern Methodist by 48 yards.

Showing how useless the statistics often are in indicating team strength, however, was the fact that champion Texas wound up sixth in a seven-team field in offense, gaining 2,871 yards.

Defensively, however, Texas was tops. The Longhorns gave up only 2,406 yards in 10 games—118.1 average per game rushing and 122.4 passing. Baylor was second, holding its foes to 254.8 per contest.

Bob Smith of Texas A&M was the leading ball carrier with 1,302 yards in 188 runs, Fred Benners of Southern Methodist led the passers with 106 completions in 182 throws for 1,361 yards, Larry Isbell of Baylor topped the punters with an average of 41.1 yards on 56 kicks, Johnny Curtis of Baylor led the punt returners with an average of 24.3 yards on 12 runs and Harold Riley of Baylor led the pass receivers with 35 catches for 539 yards.

Byron Townsend, Texas fullback, was the only Longhorn to rank high offensively. He was second in ball-carrying with 841 yards on 228 tries.

Bobby Dillion of Texas was third in punt returns with an average of 22.2 on 15 runs, Ben Procter of Texas was fourth in pass-receiving, catching 24 for 453 yards and Ben Tompkins of Texas was fourth in passing with 65 completions in 118 throws for 956 yards.

Mentors Select All 5-A Teams

The men who should know—the coaches of the district—picked three Kermitt boys, two from Wink, and one each from Pecos, Andrews, Crane, Denver City, McCamey and Seminole on The Reporter-Telegram's 5-A All-District eleven.

Only Monahans and Fort Stockton failed to land a berth on the first eleven. The Lobos placed two on the second team. Fort Stockton failed to even have an honorable mention candidate listed, and is the only 5-A school not listed on the squad.

Two boys—Back Rick Spinks of Kermitt and Guard Bob Cook of Crane—placed on every ballot cast as a first team led. Backfield positions were very close with votes being fairly well distributed.

First Team

ENDS: Bryan, Pecos; Jette, Wink. TACKLES: Phillips, Andrews; Wallace, Wink. GUARDS: Cook, Crane; Reed, Denver City. BACKS: Brown, Kermitt. BONES: Spinks, Kermitt; Stokes, McCamey; Hood, Seminole, and Oulvahuase, Kermitt.

Move Begins To Bar Louis From Fighting

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)—John (Doc) DeGroat, Pennsylvania athletic commissioner, is seeking to bar Joe Louis from any more fights, "in the best interests of boxing" and of the ex-champion himself.

DeGroat disclosed Sunday night that he has started a move to keep Louis out of the ring in Pennsylvania and will ask the National Boxing Association to do likewise.

The "New Taste" in beer!

PALE DRY IS THE REASON WHY!

We think you'll discover something new in beers when you try the fine, bright flavor of Pale Dry GRAND PRIZE. It's the "new taste" in beer and Texans everywhere have been enjoying Pale Dry since we first introduced it one year ago.

What does 'Pale Dry' mean?

Pale Dry is the name for a new and specific kind of beer—pale gold in color, and sharply dry in flavor, as opposed to old-style, sweeter, darker beers heavy with malt and fattening solids.

How is it brewed?

The GRAND PRIZE master brewer uses only the very best hops, the finest malt, top-grade Texas rice, the purest strains of yeast culture and pure deep-rock artesian water in brewing GRAND PRIZE. It takes such quality ingredients to produce a pale dry beer. Every barrel of Pale Dry GRAND PRIZE is given abundant time to age—thus insuring its fine, bright taste.

We believe...

that if you once try Pale Dry GRAND PRIZE you will join the ranks of the hundreds of thousands of Texans who prefer it to any other beer!

Basketball Race In Southwest Conference May Be As Wacky As '50 Football Campaign

By WILBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Staff

The Southwest Conference basketball race may turn out to be as wacky as the football campaign. Texas Christian University and Baylor, a couple of teams nobody thought would do much, currently sport undefeated, untied records and now look like they'd do a lot. Conference teams continue their interseasonal play this week, with Texas, Arkansas, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian on the road. So far the circuit's teams haven't a very good record against out-of-state teams, winning only three against 13 defeats.

Texas takes its yearly trip to the East this week and tries Canisius and Manhattan; Arkansas meets Oklahoma A&M again, Texas Christian plays Missouri, Southern Methodist plays Oklahoma A&M and Texas Christian meets St. Louis.

Last week Baylor polished off three foes, Texas Wesleyan 66-64.

King's Row

By LARRY KING

The bi-district clashes were unrivaled in Class AA and the quarter-final tilt has gone by in Class A, so Texas schoolboy football is rapidly forming into some sort of picture.

Granted, the picture is as garbled as modern art, after the results of last week's play—especially in the Double A group—but perhaps definite favorites will start to appear again by mid-week.

Kermit will get its toughest test of the year against Arlington this week, in our humble opinion. The winner should go all the way.

New Braunfels and Wharton tangle in the other Class A semifinal joust—with the winner taking a shelling in the finals, we say.

—KR—

So for the record, we pick Wichita Falls and Baytown in the Class AA finals and Kermit-New Braunfels to fight for the whole cake in the lower classification.

But you might take all this with a grain of salt. One week ago today we thought Pampa and Fort Arthur would be in the finals in Double A.

Today the two schools are talking basketball.

—KR—

Sportsman Stanley Erskine passes this one along to us:

It seems that Stan was looking on at the Texas-TOU football clash, with Tubgot Jones, Harold Webb and Bob Huntley, former owner of the Vernon Dusters.

Byron Townsend, University of Texas star, came out of the game and was booed lustily by the TCU cheering section. Wharton Townsend doffed his helmet and favored the Frog rosters with a mock bow.

"I don't see any use in that," Webb, an ardent TCU fan, is reported to have said. "He didn't have to do that."

"Don't guess he did," Huntley replied. "And neither did you most of the 200 times I saw you do the same thing."

—KR—

DOTS AND DASHES: Two former Midland students at the University of Tulsa dropped us a line to say the 1949-50 Bulldog basketball team won more than two games, as we stated in an earlier edition. . . . But Jack Mashburn beat 'em to the punch by a week. . . . Gosh, don't people ever forget? . . . David Weaver and Ronny Estel didn't, even way up there in Tulsa. . . . E-C Terry Sector Gets Two Prospects

Two wildcats in the east-central sector of Terry County are still looking for the Pennsylvania line reef which produces in the Brownfield, South-Canyon field.

Both the prospectors are already below the sub-sea level at which the opener of the Brownfield, South-Canyon field found the reef.

Wilshire Oil Company No. 1 A. M. Brownfield, four miles east of the town of Brownfield, and 600 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter of section 61, block T, D&W survey, had reached 10,070 feet in shale and lime and was making more hole.

This project logged some oil stains and porosity in the zone at 10,006-020 feet in a mixture of lime and shale. However it has not yet found the solid lime reef.

Elevation of this project is 3,270 feet. It is four miles northeast of the Brownfield, South-Canyon field.

Nelson Bunker Hunt No. 1 Brownfield, two miles southeast of section 61, block T, D&W survey, had reached 10,070 feet in shale and lime and was making more hole.

Elevation of this project is 3,270 feet. It is four miles northeast of the Brownfield, South-Canyon field.

It is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of the north half of section 74, block T, D&W survey.

Dear Santa: "I am a little boy 7 years old and I am expecting you Christmas. I would like a pair of guns and a pair of skates. I would like a bulldozer, some games and books. Remember my other little friends." —John Daugherty

Dear Santa Claus: "I want you to bring me two six-shooters and a belt and scabbard. I have been fairly good, but my papa thinks I talk too loud, but my mama doesn't agree with him. I would also like some spurs and a cowboy suit. I'll try to tone my voice down if you will bring me what I ask for." —David Cooley

Dear Santa: "I am a little girl five years old. I help my mother and am a good girl sometimes. Please bring me a tricycle and a doll buggy. Don't forget my little brother Robert. This is his first Christmas." Love to you, Doylene Sanders

Dear Santa: "Our feet have grown since last year so if you plan to bring us cowboy boots (and we hope you will) among other things, our sizes are 1 1/2 and 10. Thank you." —Rusty and Ken

Dear Santa Claus: "I'm a little boy six years old and I have a little sister and baby brother. I would like for myself a Roy Rogers Cowboy Suit with two guns, and a car. For my sister, Carolyn, please bring her a doll and doll buggy. And bring Baby Steven some rattlers. Thank you so much. We have tried to be good. Don't forget the other boys and girls." —James Pollard

F.S.—Please bring by friend Andy Blount a cowboy suit too. Thank you, James

Dear Santa Claus: "I am a little girl four years old. I want a doll house, a Toni doll and some play dishes for Christmas. I saw you in the parade and you waved goodbye to me. Thank you for my candy." —Carol Byrd

Dear Santa: "I want two guns and holsters. And a box of candy. And Sharon a box of candy too. And a cannon for John. And to all the little elfs." —John and Sharon

Dear Santa: "Please bring me a doll and buggy. Some candy and nuts and fruit. Bring Buddy something nice too. I have been a pretty good girl." —Sharon Burgess

Coyotes Are Rated Good As '49 Crew

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The Wichita Falls Coyotes, who got up off the floor to roar into the state playoff of Class AA football, are pronounced fully as strong as last year when they won the championship.

A month ago Wichita Falls was being marked off the list. The Coyotes had lost to Breckenridge, Abilene, Pampa and Highland Park, but just as the chips went on the line—and the district race started, five regulars who had missed those games because of injuries returned.

There has been no stopping the Coyotes since. Saturday they showed what they're really had in smashing undefeated, untied Pampa 44-7 in the first round of the state playoff.

So, Wichita Falls enters the quarter-finals rated the team to be in the upper bracket of the race. The Coyotes play Lubbock this week.

In other games of the quarter-finals Breckenridge meets Highland Park, Conroe tackles Baytown and Austin engages Harlingen. The quarter-finals schedule, all games Saturday:

Wichita Falls at Lubbock, 2 p.m.
Highland Park at Breckenridge, 2 p.m.
Conroe vs Baytown at Houston, 2 p.m.
Harlingen at Austin, 2:30 p.m.
Upsets were a dime a dozen last week.

Wichita Falls' decisive victory was one but the major reversal was that of undefeated, untied Texas-Arkansas. The Tigers lost to twice-beaten Conroe on penetrations in a 7-7 tie.

Baytown also pulled an upset but scouts who saw the Ganders in action said it really wasn't an upset—Baytown just hadn't been rated highly enough. The Ganders beat Port Arthur on penetrations in a 13-12 deadlock.

Games that went according to predictions were Highland Park's 20-6 victory over Sherman, Lubbock's 33-0 decision over Austin (El Paso), Breckenridge's 7-0 win over San Angelo and Austin's 13-12 victory over Temple.

Coach Cherry Sees Even Tilt Featuring Defense January 1

AUSTIN —(AP)— Coach Blair Cherry of Texas sees an even game featuring the defense—something strange to the Southwest—when his team meets Tennessee in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas January 1.

Relaxing as his Longhorns took a week off at the end of a long season, Cherry talked at length the day they played K-tuck.

"Kicking and defense are the major attributes of Tennessee," he said. "It is a team strong on fundamentals. Its offense is not flashy and is on the methodical side. This means there may not be a wide open game in the Cotton Bowl such as we had with Southern Methodist. But it will be a good game with enough action."

Backs Larger

Cherry said defensively he thought Texas would stack up with Tennessee. The Vol linemen do not appear as big as Texas but the backs are bigger, he added.

Texas closed out the season Saturday with a 21-6 victory over Louisiana State. It added to the stature of the Longhorns as the leading defensive team of the Southwest. Texas has held 10 foes to an average of 24.5 yards per game, being very tough indeed against a running game. Texas opponents have averaged only 118.1 yards rushing.

Showing how close to the chest Texas played its games was the fact the Longhorns averaged 287.1 yards offensively—just 46.6 yards more per game than the opposition. But the Longhorns won nine of 10 games and lost that one by a single point—14-13 to No. 1 Oklahoma.

George Sauer Says High-Powered Dressing Room Talks To Players Are Thing Of Past

WACO —(AP)— Coach George Sauer of Baylor, whose team was the biggest surprise of the Southwest Conference football season, says those dramatic dressing room and half-time talks no more serve to fire up college gridirers and make them play over their heads.

"There was a time when they were great and many a game was won by what the coach said," Sauer decides. "But the boys today pay little attention to it. They know about everything that is to be known and a coach can no more tell you before a game what his team is going to do than he can fly. And flowery words won't inspire them."

Sauer, however, does know most of the psychological angles that do work and he demonstrated it during the past campaign as Baylor drove to second place in the conference race when given no chance in pre-season calculations.

James Jeffrey, a Baylor half-back, was the comedian of the squad. He kept the coaches and players in stitches by his impersonations, pranks and wisecracks. Sauer said he encouraged it, saying it had an excellent morale value.

Like Cockiness

Sauer also liked Quarterback Larry Ibell's humor and cockiness. He figured it was good for the team in those tense moments when victory or defeat hung on a single play.

And he practiced a great deal of psychology of his own.

There was the time when Sauer told the players all who had grandmothers living in Fort Worth would have permission to remain there after the Texas Christian game. It was remarkable how many players' grandmothers had moved to Fort Worth, but the Bears won the football game, escorted some very attractive "grandmothers" to the movies that night and came back to play another fine game against Texas the following week.

There was the night before the Southern Methodist game in Dallas when Sauer, assistant coach Jack Wilson and sports publicist Dub King drove up in front of the suburban hotel where the Bears were staying. The players were due in at 10:15 p.m. and it was getting close to that time.

Near the hotel entrance was a car full of Baylor players and their

San Andres Project Fined In Scurry

Hiawatha Oil & Gas Company has completed its No. 9 L. M. Wilson as a producer from the San Andres on the south side of the Diamond M field in Southwest Scurry County.

The well pumped 24 hours and made an initial production of 15.70 barrels of 33-gravity oil. Thirty-nine per cent of the total fluid recovered was water. Gas-oil ratio was 100-1.

Top of pay is 2,380 feet and total depth is 3,132 feet. Five and one-half inch casing is cemented at 3-129 feet. Oil string was perforated from 2,380 feet to 2,420 feet and from 2,438 feet to 2,458 feet. Pay section was treated with 10,000 gallons of acid.

No. 9 Wilson is 2,312 feet from west and 1,650 feet from south lines of section 183, block 97, H&TC survey and is a considerable distance from any other San Andres production in the Sharon Ridge shallow field.

NW Glasscock Test Is To Run Surveys

Southern Minerals Corporation No. 1 S. C. Houston, Northwest Glasscock County wildcat, six miles east and slightly north of the Germania-Spraberry field in Northwest Midland County, is now bottomed at 7,004 feet in the Spraberry formation and is preparing to run an electric log and then decide what to do next.

Up to now the prospector has not logged any shows of possible production in the Spraberry. A drillstem test was taken at 6,876-6,945 feet.

The tool was open 45 minutes. Recovery was 40 feet of drilling mud with no shows of oil or gas or water.

The project then cored at 6,945-7,004 feet. The material which was recovered was sand, lime and shale with no noticeable shows of oil or gas or water.

It then drilled from 6,974 feet to 7,004 feet without logging any indications of production, and operator decided to take an electrical survey.

This exploration topped the Spraberry at 6,784 feet to give it a datum of minus 4.186 feet on that marker and make it about 300 feet higher to the nearest producers in the Germania field.

Location is 600 feet from north and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 13, block 36, T&P survey, T-2-S. That makes it six miles south-southeast of Stanton.

Wildcats Are Slated For NE King Region

Ard Drilling Company and others have spotted location for two wildcats in Northwest King County.

The No. 11 R. B. Masterson is to be drilled to around 6,000 feet, 600 feet from north and east lines of section 68, block A, John B. Rector survey. That puts drillsite 17 miles northeast of Guthrie.

About 10 miles northwest of the No. 11, the same operators will drill the No. 12 Masterson to a total depth of about 5,800 feet.

Exact location is 600 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 14, D. N. Robinson survey.

Presidential Cup Game Success But Lacked Customers

COLLEGE PARK, MD. —(AP)— The first annual Presidential Cup football game was a huge success in every way but one. Financially, it fizzled.

Only 12,345 customers showed up Saturday to watch the Texas Aggies roll over Georgia 40-20 in a game that was a thriller literally from the opening second.

Yet despite the fact that the crowd rattled around in the University of Maryland's 45,000-seat stadium, the District of Columbia American Legion Post which sponsored the game announced that it isn't downhearted.

For one thing, radio and television rights had been peddled for a sum said to be large enough to pay the guarantees given the teams. For another, it always takes time to get a game like this established.

The official Legion verdict: "Well pleased."

And except for the Georgia fans in the crowd, that was the verdict too, of those who sat in on the dizzy proceedings.

Bulldogs-Pecos To Clash Here Tuesday

Fresh from a 21-19 victory over the Crane High School cagers, Midland's basketballers worked Monday toward the Pecos Eagle five-Bull dog opposition for Tuesday night. The Eagles will bring both B and varsity fives to tangle with the Midland Bulldogs in the Midland High School gym. The B tilt is at 6:30 p.m. with the varsity game to follow.

Cosach John Higdon's B quintet dropped a 41-37 clash to the Crane Bees Friday night.

F. D. (Red) Rutledge and Audrey Gill will have the Bulldog five shooting for more points Tuesday night. The defensive side of the game received all the attention last week, after an early loss to Crane by 46-40. Coaches have hopes of getting the defense and offense going at the same time.

Both the Pecos A and B fives have won one and lost one for the season. And the Midland teams have the same record.

Boosters To Meet With Garvin Beachamp Guest

Garvin Beachamp, coach of Abilene Christian College, will be guest of the Bulldog Booster Club Monday night. The meeting will be held in the Midland High School band hall and is called at 8 p.m.

Beauchamp will show films of the ACC-East Texas State or ACC-Howard Payne football games.

Booster presby Russell Cotton stated Monday all members should be present, as an important business session is slated.

Al Hollingsworth To Manage Houston

HOUSTON —(AP)— Al Hollingsworth, former major league south-paw hurler, Monday was signed as manager of the Houston Buffs of the Texas League by President Alben Russell.

Hollingsworth has managed three years in the St. Louis Cardinal system, two years at Allentown, Pa., and last season at Omaha in the Class A Western League.

He succeeds Bennie Borgman, who piloted the Buffs the latter part of last season and returned to scouting for the Cardinals.

DREMEL Electric COPING SAW

JUST GUIDE IT
Only $5.85

Safe as a Hand Saw
Here's a big value tool for boys from $5 to $80. Just imagine an electric coping saw that travels 7,200 strokes per minute...no easy to handle that even the most inexperienced user can turn out professional-like projects. It works like magic...saws through 1/2" medium hardwood at foot-a-minute speed...so smoothly that work needs no sanding. Forward blade holder permits sawing in any direction...requires no oiling. Has only two moving parts...requires no oiling.

FREE PROJECT PLANS: Plans for making six useful projects packed with each Dremel Coping Saw.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Continuing my discussion of the hand that included a Joker, a Ace, two Kings and three Sevens with both sides needing fifty. I pointed out in the last article that the normal correct play was to meld the Joker with either the Sevens, at your first turn to play. If you are playing against opponents who are not inclined to freeze the discard pile at an early stage of the hand, the chances are that you will get the discard pile and build up your hand to its original eleven cards or even more. Against such opponents I am inclined to meld the Joker with the Kings and to discard my Sevens one after another. I will expect them to return to me in due course.

If my opponents are likely to freeze the pile as soon as I meld this play is very apt to prove unfortunate. My successive discards of Sevens will merely let the discard pile grow and they will probably get it eventually. Then, when they do get it I will not be in out position or anything like it and will wind up losing a lot of points in spite of having started with a good hand.

Nevertheless this danger is not going to stop me melding right away with this hand. This is a hand with which I know that I can meld out fairly quickly if we concentrate on doing so. Therefore, while I prefer to play this hand against nice opponents who won't freeze the pack, I am also ready for opponents who do freeze.

The difference is that playing against such opponents I will not split any combination and will expect my partner to play in the same manner. I will make no fight for the discard pile at all, but we might still be lucky enough to get it.

In fact should happen, we will be in position to score several thousands points. If the opponents get the pile they will probably beat us on the hand but we will be able to go out before any real damage is done.

Of course there are other possibilities. You might start to throw your odd cards and suddenly work into a position from which you might expect to be able to play right through the hand with safety and still have some chance to get the discard pile. In that case it would pay you to start fighting for the pack.

As an example of how this may happen let's assume that your opponents throw away all five of the remaining Sevens so that you have no chance to make a canasta of that rank. Four Kings are also discarded. In the meanwhile you have accumulated a couple more wild cards and another King. This gives you six absolutely safe discards and should be enough to let you go to the end in safety.

NEW SWITCH IN RAILROADING—Long-familiar switch engines may be replaced in railroad yards by the new "trackmobile," a 6,000-pound tractor small enough to park in your living room. Above, it pulls a train of loaded freight cars at Harvey, Ill. Called the world's mightiest electric-propelled industrial tractor, the 10-foot-long machine has towed a load of locomotives weighing more than half a million pounds. The tractor has retractable rubber-tired wheels so that the operator can change from rail to ground operation in 30 seconds.

Farmers Fear Invasion From Capital After Ike Moves In

Eisenhower's new farm—Nine rooms and bath; also 24 cows and a five-gaited riding horse.

GETTYSBURG, PA. —(NEA)—Citizens of this historic Civil War battleground city fear that Gen. Eisenhower's purchase of a farm three miles out of town heralds an invasion of "gentlemen farmers."

And there are a lot of theories going around about why the famous general picked this spot for a permanent residence. The most popular one is that citizenship in Pennsylvania makes him a much more eligible presidential possibility, with the state's large number of electoral votes.

"Governor Dewey has promised to give New York's support to the general, and being a Pennsylvanian will also give him an inside track on this big state's support," one wily town politician sizes it up.

"It puts the general in the right state to keep his eye on Stassen (President of the University of Pennsylvania), a strong contender for the Republican presidential nomination," he adds.

Two Theories

Two other theories on Ike's decision to move here involve George Allen, former head of the R.F.C. White House intimate and better known as President Truman's court jester. Allen, it is revealed, arranged the whole deal, and in fact persuaded the general to select this site. Allen bought a small farm, a few miles from the Eisenhower place a year ago.

This might mean, they say, that the very cagey Allen is trying to woo the general into the Democratic Party ranks, or convinced that Ike will make it as the Republican candidate, is sticking very close to him. Ike and Allen struck up their very warm friendship when the late President Roosevelt sent Allen to Europe to ease the possible political ambitions of the general, who was becoming more world-famous every day.

The more practical farmers around the town are convinced that Allen is organizing a big land boom for the area. Most of the farmers say that they have been made several offers for their places in the last few months. They think this is behind the mysterious survey of the area which was done early last summer.

Reading Sets Out

Allen S. Redding, the man who sold out to the General, says he believes it is the start of a "big diplomatic colony." And three high State Department officials are said to be dickering for places "through Allen's agent" for nearby farms.

It just so happens that Gettysburg is only 20 miles out from the new 50-mile defense perimeter established for greater Washington, and about the closest safe place in case of atomic bomb attack.

Earl Brandon, the farmer who will be Ike's closest neighbor, is strictly unimpressed by the development. He says Redding is the finest neighbor a man could have and it was up to the General to prove himself as good a one. Ike's other new neighbors expressed similar sentiments.

The whole area is among the best farm land of the nation. Sale price to the General was about $40,000, which included 24 excellent Holstein cows, 600 chickens, a couple of pigs and a five-gaited riding horse. The house is a modernized 100-year-old brick structure with nine rooms and one bath. A huge barn and four smaller sheds are in the cluster of buildings, which stand on a hill about in the center of the 180-acre farm.

The Ike farm lies just west of the historic battleground where the southern wing of the Confederate Army was located during the fight. It is on a hill and overlooks some of the most beautiful countryside in the nation.

It isn't known who'll run the farm for Ike. The milk alone brings in $1000 a month, and eggs and other crops make the place a highly profitable business. The Reddings are retiring to one of their big houses in the city.

Farmer Redding: After Ike, a diplomatic colony?

legue two years ago. He got acquainted with many leaders of the 7000 townfolk at that time.

"We not only oversaw," Sampson said, "but we do not eat a balanced diet."

He cited numerous instances in which the most valuable portions of food are lost in their preparation.

In apples, for instance, the peel is six times richer than all the rest of the apple yet it usually is discarded.

"One-third of what we eat," he added, discussing habits of over-eating, "feeds us; the other two-thirds feeds the doctors and druggists."

Herschel Ewell, vice president of the club, presided at the luncheon.

nickels in the meters every two hours.

Thus, the shopper coming to town can't find a place to park.

"We may have to extend the use of the meters in the business district and cut down on the time limit," said Plavic.

He said the city also is attempting to do something about the public transportation problem, which has been growing since the bus company ceased operations here more than a month ago.

Colonel Plavic said great alarm was expressed in Austin over the state's traffic and highway situation.

State Needs Patrolmen

"Texas, for instance," he reported, "doesn't have enough highway patrolmen. The state has one patrolman for every 99 miles of its highways. In other states, the ratio is about one patrolman for every four miles."

Out of the conference, too, grew a proposal that the state legislature broaden the power to incorporate courts to include drunken driving cases.

"Under the proposal," said Colonel Plavic, "the drunken driving cases would be under the jurisdiction of the corporation court, which would be given power to impose jail sentences."

"At the present time these cases are handled in county court and in some sections of the state there are cases still pending that are five years old."

New Church—

Church, and Lee Milling of Big Spring presented the charge to the congregation.

The new church has 93 charter members.

The congregation plans to erect a new church plant on a tract of land immediately across the street north from the David Crockett Elementary School in Northeast Midland. Meanwhile services will be held in a location to be announced later.

St. Andrews is the second Presbyterian Church to be organized in Midland. The First Church was founded here before the turn of the century and is one of Midland's oldest churches.

Expansion Program

Plans for the organization of the new church were started about two years ago as an expansion program of the First Church to better serve residents of the Presbyterian faith in ever-growing Midland. The First Church has increased in membership from 425 to more than 800 in the last three years.

Mr. Waterstreet, pastor of the new congregation, came to Midland in September of this year to become assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church and to assume leadership in establishing a new church. He had been serving as student pastor at the University of Arkansas.

Marines—

froebite, using their rifles as crutches.

Four thousand wounded were evacuated by air from Hagaru and Koto to two days ago. More have been flown out since. Most of these were Marines, the others were remnants of two battalions of the Army's Seventh Infantry Division, which was cut off and sliced up on the east side of the reservoir at the same time the Leathernecks were catching hell on the west.

The dead count is high. Two days ago I watched almost 200 bodies tossed into a single grave by a bulldozer. There was no time for more elaborate arrangements.

For the record, the United States First Marine Division, one of the country's finest, has suffered heavily. The Communist enemy knows this.

The Leathernecks inflicted casualties on the enemy many times those suffered. The weather also took a heavy toll of Chinese.

Tension greeted the order for all the Marines to break from Koto. One senior officer wept.

Buffalo Trail Council Cites New Records

Two new records have been achieved by the Buffalo Trail Council, Boy Scouts of America, thus far this year, it was disclosed at a weekend council staff meeting held here.

The council now has 181 units—the largest in its history—and its membership has passed the 4,000 mark for the first time. The council has gained 23 units since January 1, of which Midland has contributed four.

Staff members also announced the council nominating committee will meet Monday night in Big Spring to determine nominees for council officers. Election of officers will be held at the January meeting.

Nat Shick of Big Spring, O. D. Albrecht of Odessa, and Lyle DeFebach of Snyder compose the nominating committee. Dr. W. B. Hardy of Big Spring is the incumbent president.

Dinner Party Held

Following Saturday's business meeting, a dinner party for the council staff was given by T. V. Thomson, council executive, at his home. The entire staff of 21, which includes office personnel, attended.

Thorton, H. D. Norris of Sweetwater, S. G. Painter of Odessa, Jim Hale of Big Spring, Joe Niedermayer of Pecos, and Bob Eastus of Snyder attended the business session at the council's headquarters office.

MacArthur—

south of the Changlin Reservoir in Northeast Korea.

The bitter 50-mile retreat—the longest and one of few in the history of the spirited Marine Corps—began November 28. The spokesman estimated the Leathernecks alone killed 15,000 Chinese in breaking through the series of traps.

With the Marines were the 31st and 32nd Regiments of the Seventh Division and about 100 British Royal Marines. They joined forces Sunday with a northbound task force of the U. S. Third Division after a vital bridge, blown by the Chinese, was replaced.

Compared To Tarawa

A Marine medical officer compared the Leatherneck casualties to those of the corps suffered in taking the tiny atoll of Tarawa in World War II—3,168 men. But total Marine and Doughboy casualties were higher.

Most of the wounded were Marines. There was no estimate of American dead, but MacBeth said the number would be high.

They linked up with a northbound rescue column early Sunday.

Somewhere north of Hamhung was another American force, 6,000 to 8,000 men of the Seventh Division's 17th Regimental Combat Team.

The regiment's withdrawal from the Manchurian border at Hyesanjin still was cloaked by a security silence. Its retreat route stretched over more than 100 miles of mountainous, Red-dominated territory.

On the far northeast coast, elements of two Republic of Korea divisions, the Third and the Capital, were retreating southward toward Hamhung and its port of Hungnam. Some of the ROK's were removed by sea.

But the two cities still are threatened. A force of two Chinese Red divisions—up to 20,000 men—was reported moving toward Hamhung from the northwest.

A 10th Corps spokesman said American troops were in wait for them.

U. S. warplanes continued hammering Chinese troops and supply arteries throughout North Korea.

BOWLING

Last week found first place Houston Hill staying ahead of the pack in the City Major Bowling League by winning three games from Blatz-Pearl. Willig Engineering Company took Banner Creamery three straight K&K Tire Company won two games from Dunagan Sales and Scharbauer Hotel took two from Permian Mud Service.

Houston Hill's keepers had the high team series with a total of 2742 pins. They also had the high team game with a total of 959 pins. Kenneth Baker of Houston Hill took individual series with 583 pins. O. P. Albright of Willig Engineers had the high individual game with a 250.

The league standings:

Team	W.	L.
Houston Hill	24	18
Scharbauer Hotel	24	18
Willig Engineering Co.	23	19
Blatz-Pearl Dist. Co.	23	19
K & K Tire Company	20	22
Banner Creamery	18	24
Dunagan Sales Co.	17	25
Permian Mud Service	14	28

I. W. Hynd took two of three games from Rodeo-Tel keepers to retain first place in the Women's Bowling League. Kruger swept three games from Schiltz. Piggy-Wigly stores ousted Hoover Body Shop 2-1 and Checker Cab took a pair from Neely Agency in other games.

Billie Roy of Neely Agency posted high individual game, rolling a sparkling 181. Ruth Wood tallied 489 for high individual series honors. Checker Cab captured both high team game and high team series, with 576 and 1720 pins.

The team standings:

Shootings, Traffic Accidents Lead Toll Of Texas Violence

By The Associated Press
Twenty-two persons died violently in Texas over the weekend and traffic accidents and shootings took the greatest toll.

Nine persons were killed in traffic accidents and seven in shootings. Three persons died of burns, one was stabbed, another crushed to death and one man hanged himself.

The Associated Press began its weekend count at 6 p.m. Friday and continued it to midnight Sunday.

Two of the shooting victims—one at Wichita Falls and one at Houston—were shot by pursuing officers when they refused to stop. At Wichita Falls, Policemen Joe Rains and Frank Barnett killed Pfc. Paul David Edwards, 17, of Pen-Argyle, Pa., when he ran from them while they investigated reports of a prowler early Sunday. Edwards was stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base. Justice of the Peace H. M. Newman returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the line of duty.

City Detective W. W. Stephenson shot Jean Nason, 24, of Houston Saturday night. Stephenson, who was investigating an attempted extortion, said Nason threatened to kill him, then ignored an order to halt. Again the verdict, by Justice of the Peace Tom Maes, was justifiable homicide.

Shoots Man To Death
A Galveston man shot a tug boat captain to death Saturday and said he did it because he caught his wife and the skipper taking a shower together.

The dead man was Newton T. Hale, 31, Stanley White, 35, was charged with murder and released on $500 bond. His wife, Jewel, 31, was charged with vagrancy and released on $500 bond to hold her as a material witness. White told his story of the shooting to Justice of the Peace James L. McKenna and Detective Chief John S. Fox. He said he shot Hale seven times after he burst into a tourist court cabin and found Hale and Mrs. White nude together in the shower.

Alice Moody, 34, was found shot to death in her one-room apartment in Houston. A neighbor said she heard three shots. Police were hunting a man for questioning.

Keith Johnson, Jr., 17, of Fort Worth tripped while hunting and accidentally shot himself to death.

Richard Montgomery, 40, of Houston died after he was found pinned under his automobile, which had hit a culvert. However, police said Montgomery's only apparent injury was a broken collar bone, and Justice of the Peace Maes said he had not decided whether death was natural or caused by the wreck.

A highway accident near Livingston killed W. S. Baker, 55, of Jasper.

Mrs. Mable Koonce of Carthage was killed in an automobile collision three miles east of Carthage.

Charles Tobin, 77, of Fort Worth died of burns suffered Sunday when gas exploded while he was hooking up a kitchen stove.

Burns from a gas explosion in a Corpus Christi tourist cabin killed L. B. Randolph, 50, of Lyons, Kan.

J. A. Dean, 50, was found shot to death Sunday in the back room of a Lubbock pet shop which he operated. A discharged 410 gauge shotgun lay across his legs. Officers theorized the shooting might have been accidental.

An alien identified only as a man named Villareal was shot to death and robbed of about $50 on a farm between San Benito and Hartlingen. Texas Rangers and Cameron County authorities were investigating the Saturday night shooting.

G. W. Hancock, 37, of O'Donnell died in a Lamesa hospital Sunday of injuries she suffered when the car in which she and her husband were riding collided with a state highway department maintenance truck near O'Donnell.

Dewey S. Mills, 51, of San Angelo was killed instantly Sunday when his car overturned 20 miles north of Del Rio.

A Corpus Christi man stabbed his 23-year-old estranged wife to death in San Benito about midnight Saturday.

John Arch Taylor, 54, employee of a Houston trucking company, was crushed to death Sunday under a load of pipe at the pipeyards of the Glen H. McCarthy cracking plant at Winnie. The exact cause of the accident was not determined.

McCamey Child Struck By Auto

MCCAMEY—Two-year-old Mary Catherine Barnett's condition was described as fairly good Sunday night by San Angelo hospital authorities. The child was hit by a car Saturday afternoon.

Mary Catherine, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Barnett, received a fractured pelvis. Her father is a salesman for the West Texas Utilities here.

Four Americans Get Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN—(AP)—Nine men were presented Nobel prizes Sunday at resplendent twin ceremonies here and in Oslo, Norway. It was the fifty-fourth anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite and creator of the awards.

Winners of the prizes, totaling nearly $200,000 in cash and representing the world's foremost honors for contributions to humanity, included four Americans:

Mississippi novelist William Faulkner, awarded the 1949 literature prize, $30,007.

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, the first negro ever to be so honored, who received the $31,674 peace prize for his work as United Nations mediator during the Palestine war.

Dr. Philip S. Hench and Dr. Edward C. Kendall of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., $10,371 each for their research in hormones, including the discovery of cortisone, a powerful agent in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis.

Farm Labor Meet May Be Held Here

A hearing on migratory farm labor may be held in Midland within the next week or 10 days, according to a news release from Washington, D. C.

The announcement followed a conference between Rep. W. R. Poage, Waco, member of the House Agricultural Committee; Rep. Ken Regan of Midland; Rep. George Mahon of Colorado City, and Rep. O. C. Fisher of San Angelo.

Regan said he had expected the hearing to be held in a part of entry, probably El Paso, but if not there, he would accede to holding the meeting in Midland. Mahon and Fisher favored Big Spring as a meeting place.

Poage will conduct the hearing if held.

Scabrin, a new insecticide now under study by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has been found more potent than pyrethrum against flies.

BY CHARLES DICKENS

Santa and the COWBOY

By LUCRECE HUDGINS

SYNOPSIS: Georgie Sanders, 7, also known as "Kid Buckaroo, Terror of the West," sets out to help Santa Claus subdue Indians in Santa Land. Growing small, Bucky climbs on Snow Bird's back and flies off like a cowboy. As they ride through the air, a hawk attacks and wounds Snow Bird.

CHAPTER FIVE SANTA LAND AT LAST

AS the hawk came down again Bucky remembered the lasso at his waist. It was his last chance. He had practiced for hours roping the door knob at home. He could make it circle in a beautiful singing arc above his head, and throw it straight and true.

Now, since he'd gotten on Snow Bird's back, it was tiny like himself—hardly more than a piece of twine. Still it was a lasso and it was his only chance.

He swung the lariat above his head. The hawk came on, his eyes glittering. With one hand and both legs Bucky clung to Snow Bird. With his free hand he threw his loop.

In an instant Bucky was nearly yanked from Snow Bird's back as both he and the bird were dragged suddenly towards the ground.

Bucky had caught the hawk around the throat and the half-choked hawk was pulling them all earthward. Just in time Bucky recovered from his amazement and let go the rope. The hawk plunged down and disappeared in the great forests below.

But all was not well. Snow Bird had been sorely hurt and soon they began dropping slowly to earth. They landed in a snow covered field. Bucky was afraid he would sink over his head in the snow but he need not have worried. The moment he stepped off Snow Bird's back he took his real shape again and was as tall as any other seven-year-old boy.

Now he held Snow Bird in his hands and cleaned his wounds. One of his wings was torn.

"I'm afraid I won't be able to fly again for a long time," said the bird. "You must go on by yourself."

Bucky said nothing. So the bird said, "Speak. There is no need to be so sad."

Bucky said, "I'm not much of a cowboy anymore. I've lost my guns and horse and lariat. Guess

When he came to the top of the hill he saw the most beautiful thing he had seen in all his life.

I wouldn't be much help to Santa now."

Snow Bird considered for a while. "You can still say that 'Yip-pi-ai-ki-ay,' can't you? And you're still the Terror of the West. What a terror you were fighting off that hawk!"

Bucky felt better. "I'll carry you," he offered.

But Snow Bird said no. "I will stay here. I am a snow bird and this is my country."

BUCKY fixed a warm nest of evergreens for Snow Bird, bade him farewell and began to push northward.

But soon he discovered there were animals in the forests through which he was travelling! Not buffaloes, certainly. A cowboy could have managed those. But strange creatures darting among the trees! Bucky's heart pounded. A branch suddenly broke above him.

The boy started running. He tripped in the snow, rolled over and over, leaped to his feet, crashed into a tree. Scratched and bruised, he ran on wildly.

As it grew dark he had no idea what direction he was going. By now he hardly cared. He wanted only to escape the animal he knew was waiting for him in the dark.

He could feel the ground sloping upwards. He knew he was climbing a hill. When he came to the top he saw the most beautiful thing he had seen in all his life: lights at the bottom of the hill.

"It's Santa Land!" he sobbed. He wiped his eyes, shouted "yip-pi-ai-ki-ay" and raced down the hill. (Next: Bad Times in Santa Land)

Charles Laughton Brings His One Man Show Here Thursday

Charles Laughton, who will appear in the Midland High School Auditorium Thursday night under the auspices of the Midland Business and Professional Women's Club, says that "Shakespeare is music." And the fabulous one is well on his way to prove it to hundreds of thousands of persons through personal appearances.

At the age of 50, Laughton, a veteran of movies, theater and radio is discovering a new career. It's reading aloud to people from the Bard of Avon, Dickens, Thomas Wolfe, Aesop's Fables, the Bible and any other "piece of a good book" that Laughton thinks audiences will like.

In the Fall of last year, Laughton brought his one-man show to audiences in 80 cities. This year his tour takes him on an even larger itinerary.

Plays All Parts
"Why do I undertake such a rugged chore?" Laughton answers the question with complete frankness.

"Hollywood to be sure, is a lot more comfortable than one-night stands. But, after all, where else but in a show like mine does an actor get the chance that every actor longs for—to play all the parts?"

One of the highlights of the Laughton program is in his reading of a love poem by the seventeenth century poet, Andrew Marvell, which demonstrates one eloquent technique of wooing a woman. Says Laughton about this poem: "I read this to prove that anyone who doesn't think poetry is a useful art is crazy."

Ticket sales for "An Evening with Charles Laughton" opened Monday at Tallorline here, and a brisk sale is reported.

Donohoo's Open For Business; Open House Held

Donohoo's Restaurant was open for business Monday on West Highway 80 after a big open-house Sunday to introduce the new place to scores of visitors.

From 2 p.m. until 7 p.m. Sunday, crowds trailed through the restaurant to inspect the spacious dining room and the spotless kitchen.

They were served coffee and doughnuts and there were gifts for members of the various families.

The restaurant will be open each day from 7 a.m. until midnight.

NAMED GUARD HEAD

HOUSTON—(AP)—Col. Harold B. Younger of Dallas was elected president of the Texas State Guard Association Sunday and Dallas named the 1951 convention city.

HERBERT MARCUS, 72, DIES MONDAY IN DALLAS

DALLAS—(AP)—Herbert Marcus, 72, president and co-founder of the Neiman-Marcus Company, died early today. He suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Sunday night.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

When he heard the Spirit of Christmas Present prophesy Tiny Tim's death, Scrooge was seized with panic. "No, no," he cried. "Oh, no, kind Spirit! Say he will be spared!"

But Bob Cratchit's family was unmindful of the Spirit's prophecy. Generously, Bob proposed a toast to his misery employer, Ebenezer Scrooge. Mrs. Cratchit refused to drink.

At last she gave in. "I'll drink to his health for your sake, Bob, and the Day's, not for his," she said.
