Self-Help Stressed In Alliance Program

Mann Will Urge Reform, Stability

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is expected to place a strong new emphasis on Latin-American self-help under the new approach to the Alliance for Progress being developed by the Johnson administration. Assistant Secretary of State Thomas C. Mann, President Johnson's hand-picked Latin-American policy boss, is reported planning to do everything possible to encourage tax and land reforms in the Latin-American countries and the creation of stable political and economic conditions necessary to promote an inflow of private capital. Mann is to be sworn in to his new job Friday. He was most recently ambassador to Mexico and is a career Foreign Service officer.

MORE AUTHORITY
Along with the position of assistant secretary in charge of Latin-American affairs he has also been designated as a special assistant to Johnson, an assignment which gives him increased authority in dealing with problems involving agencies outside the State Department.

TEXAN CONVICTED FOR AUTO FRAUD
DETROIT (AP) — A McAllen, Tex., retired Army colonel, Oscar C. Stewart, was sentenced to two years in a federal penitentiary Tuesday on charges of swindling Detroit auto dealers out of $5,300 on promised delivery of cut-rate Volkswagens.

MAJOR GOALS
Economic, social and political reforms have been major goals of the Alliance for Progress since it was launched by the Kennedy administration almost three years ago. The alliance was set up as a 10-year program with the United States to contribute $10 billion over that period to the development of Latin-American countries. Under Mann's direction, the alliance program is expected to place less emphasis on the time goal and more emphasis on the work that has to be done from day to day in Latin America to achieve results over the long future.

Washington Vexed Over Berlin Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — High administration officials are expressing concern with what they describe as West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt's dealings with Communist East Germany. Officially, Richard I. Phillips, the State Department's press officer, declined to comment on reports indicating that Brandt is ready to negotiate with the East Germans on an extension of arrangements allowing West Berliners to pass through the wall and visit relatives in East Berlin.

Ever since the East German regime agreed on Dec. 17 to let West Berliners visit the city's eastern sector during the holidays, some administration specialists have been predicting that the Communists will claim this as a sign of Western recognition of their status.

NOT OBJECT
The United States did not object to the project, which permitted reunions of many families in the divided city.

Accordingly, the administration would not object to an informal extension of the Christmas pact. But its concern is that, as one official put it, "the thing might get out of hand" and could be interpreted by the Communists as a de facto recognition of the East German government as a sovereign state.

West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard apparently shares U. S. concern. After returning to Bonn from his meetings with President Johnson he told a news conference that the West Berlin city government should not get out on a limb in deals with East Germany. He said it should not have all the responsibility for handling the question of visits across the Berlin wall.

POLITICAL AIMS
Previously he had said that the Communists' political intentions in their opening of the wall became immediately apparent when the East Germans used their talks with West Berlin officials to bring up the so-called three-state concept.

The concept, promoted by the Soviet Union, calls for three Germanys: the federal republic, the East German republic, and the "free" city of West Berlin. The arrangement would destroy Western goals of reunification of the divided country, and was rejected by the West.

Cop Killed In Amarillo

AMARILLO (AP) — A young Amarillo policeman was shot to death early today after a scuffle with a man he chased into a back yard. Jerry Cawthorn, 24, father of three, was shot once in the mouth. Police found his .38 caliber revolver lying five feet away and theorized that the murder weapon may have been the policeman's own gun. Officers were questioning five youths.

An Amarillo nurse, Patricia Hulst, said she found the policeman's body lying on the back porch of a residence near where she work. She said she investigated after seeing the officer chase a car into the yard and hearing loud voices, followed by gunshots. Cawthorn worked with the canine corps, but he left his dog in the patrol car.

TRAFFIC DEATHS BELOW NORMAL

Traffic deaths in the nation during the New Year's holiday today appeared running below normal compared to a non-holiday period. Highway deaths since the start of the count at 12:01 a.m. local time Tuesday were 122, far below the 154 fatalities reported in the comparative period during last year's Christmas holiday. The New Year's holiday period ends at midnight tonight. Heavy snow in wide areas in the South created hazardous driving conditions but traffic deaths in most of the storm belt were not heavy. Traffic fatalities during the 11 months this year averaged about 117 a day, for a total of 39,280, a record for the period. Indications were the 1963 death toll will surpass the record total of 40,900 deaths in 1962. The National Safety Council had estimated that between 140 and 180 persons might lose their lives in traffic mishaps between 6 a.m. New Year's Eve and midnight tonight, a period of 30 hours. An Associated Press survey for a non-holiday period of 48 hours, from 12:02 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 10 to 12:01 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 12 showed 170 traffic fatalities. The last time New Year's fell on a Wednesday, in 1957, there were 160 traffic deaths during the period from 6 a.m. New Year's Eve to midnight of New Year's Day. During last week's 48-hour Christmas holiday period there were 316 deaths on the highway.

De Gaulle Pushing For French Hydrogen Bomb

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle has urged France to make development of a hydrogen bomb a prime goal in 1964. In a New Year's Eve radio and television broadcast to the nation, De Gaulle said France can meet the threat of aggression and achieve the independence worthy of a great nation only with the might of the H-bomb. He said France's other goals in the new year are European unity, helping underdeveloped nations and contributing to the cause of world peace. In this way, De Gaulle said, France is taking back into its hands the destiny it lost when it capitulated to Nazi Germany in 1940. He said France had gained peace and political stability in the past year. He described European unity as a condition for "a truly concentrated political, economic and strategic understanding with America." He also defended his decision to keep Britain out of the Common Market, saying he opposed "the admission of a new member which could not go by the rules." De Gaulle expressed hope that the Soviet Union and other Communist bloc nations in Europe would continue to improve their relations with the West.

MISS 1964 ARRIVES
Clara Lee Hermes with her mother

Clara Lee Hermes Wins '64 Derby

Miss Clara Lee Hermes won the race, hands down, as Miss 1964, this morning by arriving in Big Spring seven seconds after midnight. The little lady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fabian Hermes, who lives on a ranch in west Howard County, won a shower of gifts from local merchants as the storm made record time in bringing her to Howard County Hospital Foundation. Miss 1964 weighed in at seven pounds, three ounces, and was one of three New Year's babies born in local hospitals. One was not eligible for the shower of gifts, because he is not a resident of Howard County. A son, not named, weighing seven pounds and 12 1/2 ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hutcheson, Big Spring, at the Howard County Hospital Foundation at 12:56 a.m. today.

Another boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sandoval, Lenorah, arrived at Cowper Clinic-Hospital at 5:17 a.m. He weighed eight pounds, one ounce, and had not been named this morning.

Gifts will be available from local merchants to give Clara Lee a good send-off for 1964. Gandy's will provide a quart of milk a day for a month; J&K Shoe Store will provide the first pair of shoes; Anthony's and Montgomery Ward will each give a blanket; Wacker's will give a dozen diapers; Gibson's, J. C. Penney, and Blum Jewelers will provide unspecified gifts.

Strike Deadline

NEW YORK (AP) — The Transport Workers Union extended its 5 a.m. deadline for a strike against New York City's subways and buses twice today — to 7 a.m. and then to 9 a.m.

Warheads Go To Canadians

NORTH BAY, Ont. (AP) — The United States made its first delivery of nuclear warheads to Canada Tuesday night under a controversial agreement approved by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's Liberal government last summer.

Atomic warheads for 28 anti-aircraft Bomarc missiles were delivered to the Bomarc base seven miles north of this community, the Royal Canadian Air Force announced.

The Bomarc complex at North Bay, 180 miles north of Toronto, was built at a cost of $375 million. About $255 million was contributed by the United States.

President Vows Viet Nam Stand

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — President Johnson assured South Viet Nam today the United States will stand beside the embattled Asian nation as long as U.S. men and arms are needed in the struggle against Communist guerrillas.

Johnson also said the United States will oppose any effort to neutralize Viet Nam, a solution France's President Charles de Gaulle appears to favor.

In a New Year's message to Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, chief of the military government, Johnson said:

"The U. S. government shares the view of your government that 'neutralization' of South Viet Nam is unacceptable. As long as the Communist regime in North Viet Nam persists on its aggressive policy, neutralization of South Viet Nam would only be another name for a Communist takeover."

APPRISED
Johnson said he had been apprised by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot

Lodge about "the serious situation" in South Viet Nam's war against the Viet Cong guerrillas.

"The United States will continue to furnish you and your people with the fullest measure of support in this bitter fight," Johnson said.

"We shall maintain in Viet Nam American personnel and material as needed to assist you in achieving victory."

MORE CAPABLE
Johnson predicted South Viet Nam would become increasingly capable of driving the foe from the field, allowing U. S. personnel to be "progressively withdrawn."

Johnson said he was pleased to learn from McNamara, who recently visited South Viet Nam, of vigorous operations planned against the Communists. He also praised Minh for trying to improve the standard of living of the people.

"So I pledge the energetic support of my country to your government and people," Johnson concluded.

World Hails Fledgling '64

By The Associated Press
Fireworks burst over the Berlin wall, Premier Khrushchev raised a toast in the Kremlin, Italians tossed crockery out windows and President Johnson danced as the world greeted 1964.

The holiday was observed with a mixture of revelry and tradition, and with renewed hope for peace and unity.

President Johnson in a New Year's statement called on Americans to give thanks "for the providence and for the blessings that are ours."

Japan's Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda sent greetings to Soviet Premier Khrushchev hoping for "further efforts in 1964 toward realization of world peace and security."

JARRING NOTES
There were a few jarring notes.

French President Charles de Gaulle spoke of building thermonuclear armament, and Chinese Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek spoke of "military and political moves" to regain China's mainland from the Communists.

A Boston hotel called off its New Year's Eve party because of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

President Johnson party-hopped among four celebrations at Austin, Tex. Midnight found him at a Headline Club party in a hotel. Just before 12 o'clock he waltzed with a woman who asked him to dance. Less than an hour later he was back at his ranch near Johnson City, Tex.

BETTER RELATIONS
Khrushchev sent Johnson a message expressing hope for further progress in bettering relations between the two countries.

As Khrushchev toasted 1964 at a Kremlin party of some 2,000 of Moscow's elite, he appealed for further easing of world tensions—but said his only difference with China's Communists was on how to bury capitalism.

In Berlin, the Communists in the East lifted a ban on fireworks for the first time since World War II—and in the West a similar ban as usual was ignored.

ACROSS WALL
Colorful flames swept across the wall in both directions as nearly 60,000 West Berliners celebrated with relatives and friends on the east side of the wall through special holiday entry permits.

Throughout Italy, the tradition of throwing out old dishes, jugs, bottles and glasses set up a New Year's Eve clatter and symbolized the world's desire to forget the past and turn to the hope-filled future.

On Paris' Champs Elysees, a horn-honking salute to 1964 carried out another tradition. Spaniards observed still another by eating 12 grapes at midnight in Madrid's Puerta del Sol Square.

In Buenos Aires tons of ticker tape, pages out of 1963 calendars and shredded newspapers were thrown out of windows.

DEAR ABBY: During a disagreement, my husband broke my nose and gave me two black eyes and I couldn't go to a family Christmas get-together because I didn't want my people to see me looking like that. He's really not a bad guy, Abby. He is a steady worker, drinks only on weekends, and he's good to the kids. But when he loses his temper, I'm the one who gets it in the neck. Don't tell me to leave him because I've tried it and I'm the one who crawls back. I love this guy, but I need a few pointers on how to keep him from slapping me around.

DEAR HAPPY: Any woman who gets slapped around more than once either figures she has it coming, or she likes it. Practice your foot work and learn to duck.

DEAR ABBY: What time do you think an 11-year-old girl should go to bed? This will settle an argument between my mother and me.

THE GIRL: She should go to bed whenever her mother says she should. And THAT should settle the argument.

DEAR ABBY: When a boy asks me to a night movie, my mother gives me money and tells me to buy my own ticket because then I won't feel like I have to kiss him goodnight. I really try to pay my own way, but the boy never lets me. I have kissed a few boys good-night but it wasn't because they paid my way to the movies. Do you think I should put up a harder fight when a boy wants to buy my ticket? And is it okay to kiss him goodnight if I had an especially good time?

DEAR FIFTEEN: When a boy invites a girl to the movies, he expects to buy her ticket, and he shouldn't have to put up a fight to do so. Don't confuse a "thank you for a lovely evening" with a kiss. A kiss means "I like you." And "thank you" means I enjoyed myself.

DEAR ABBY: Why are so many people shocked when they put "R.S.V.P." on invitations

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the day reserved for looking backward critically and forward hopefully.

It is not difficult to pick television's top performance of the past 12 months: it was the coverage of the four days beginning Nov. 22 when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. Everything else pales beside it.

Most of the 1963 shows I remember best fall into that broad category of actualities—news and special events and documentaries.

CAMERA VISIT

Among those were two "CBS Reports," "The Biography of a Bookie Joint" and "The Great American Funeral." There were ABC's leisurely camera visit to "The Vatican" and its thought-provoking behind-the-scenes report of the confrontation between the U.S. Justice Department and Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace.

A Devotional For The Day

A word with you, you who say, "Today or tomorrow we will go off to such and such a town and spend a year there trading and making money." Yet you have no idea what tomorrow will bring. (James 4:13-14.)

PRAYER: O Lord, who hast come to us that we might come to Thee, keep us in Thy love this day. Be Thou our guide until at last we come to the place in heaven Thou hast prepared for all who love Thee. We pray in Christ's name. Amen.

Putting Joy Of Others First

When it comes to making up a list of the great souls who contribute much to our country and to the world, it is easy to overlook those whom we normally dismiss condescendingly as entertainers.

Yet, in our book Bob Hope is one of the greatest. Ever since the days of World War I, Bob has climbed into a plane just before Christmas and has flown off to the back side of the world to try to brighten the holidays for our men in overseas military bases or aboard ship. It isn't that he doesn't have a large family, for he does. Rather it is a big heart (and an understanding family) that prompts him to leave his own hearthstone and sometimes a sick bed to spread a little cheer to the boys over there.

Yes sir, it takes a great man to consistently put the joy of others ahead of his own.

Look Before In '64

Although the reference was spiritual, Paul's immortal verse in Philippians is a fitting setting for this day, the one which opens on the vista of an entirely new year:

"Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended, but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press to the high mark . . ."

As individuals and as a community, indeed as a state and nation, there are things which hurt and disturb, things which disappointed and worried us, things which didn't turn out at all as we would have wanted them. But we have learned whatever lessons these experiences had to offer us, it is time to put them aside and forget the events themselves. The clock and the calendar cannot be turned back. A future may grow out of a past, but it can never be lived in the past.

We can vitiate our strength by rehashing accomplishments or past discouragements, or we can use the same amount of strength and energy in "reaching forth unto those things which are before us."

None of us knows exactly what all will be before us, but each of us can control the direction in which he looks. We have an abiding faith that if we look before in '64, this can be our happiest and best year yet.

Voice Of The Opposition

WASHINGTON — Sen. Goldwater of Arizona may or may not turn out to be the Republican presidential nominee (he is due to say whether or not today), but any other aspiring candidate could learn a great deal from a study of just what makes Barry run. For the Goldwater phenomenon contains more lessons and more guidelines on how elections are won in America than might occur to those who have a tendency today to discount his strength as they trot out new candidates.

The public-opinion polls do not always ask the $64 question. But if voters in the Republican party from coast to coast were to be asked who of all the candidates has been most intensively opposed to the policies of the Democratic administration, the Arizona senator would doubtless be designated by the vast majority.

FOR THE SECRET of Barry Goldwater's popularity with the rank and file of the Republican organization which pick most of the delegates is to be found in his evident conviction that the country has suffered grievously under the Democrats and doesn't have a chance for an era of continuing prosperity and full employment unless the kind of confidence returns which they say has been characteristic of Republican administrations. To the comment on this, made immediately in rebuttal, that some lean years emerged also during the Eisenhower administration, Republican theoreticians point, of course, to the divided government that prevailed during those years. Indeed, the Republicans themselves have been remiss on the stump in failing to draw attention to the fact that since 1933 the Democrats have been in control of Congress all but four years and that, during the last six years of the Eisenhower administration, the Democrats controlled both houses as budget deficits accumulated.

THE GOLDWATER build-up, of course, was founded on far more powerful currents in public opinion than the failure of Democratic congresses to give the Republican administration its legislative requests in the 1950's. It was based on something more recent—what happened between Jan. 20, 1961, and Nov. 22, 1963. The reaction against Kennedy administration policies in many parts of the country was plainly one of deep-seated hostility. Rarely has there been such antagonism displayed since the days of Theodore Roosevelt, a Republican who managed to stir up for a time almost as many animosities in the business world as did the late President Kennedy. The eulogies and the tributes expressed during the recent period of mourning have not erased from the minds of a large number of opposition voters their objections to administration policies. To the extent that President Johnson may continue those policies, he also will be the target of political attack. Nobody knows this better.

ter perhaps than the new President, who is sensitive to political tides.

MR. GOLDWATER'S present embarrassment, or handicap, stems from the fact that there is a popular tendency to consider the past as past and certainly not as a liability of Mr. Johnson. Hence, it has been thought that Sen. Goldwater would hardly fly away at the new President for alleged mistakes made by his predecessor.

Yet the problem on the stump for any would-be Republican nominee remains the same. It is to dissect and analyze current policies — including those inherited which will remain in effect — and get across to the people the idea that under a Republican administration the millennium would arrive and the mistakes of the Democrats would be promptly corrected.

THERE ISN'T much time for an opposition campaign, but there is sufficient time if it is effectively used. Whether any Republican other than Mr. Goldwater will attempt such tactics seems doubtful. Virtually all the other would-be candidates prefer to be more or less polite to the Democrats. It's a kind of "me-tooism." Former Vice President Nixon probably would be vigorous enough on the attack if he didn't feel that he has to hold back now and wait for a sort of draft movement in his own party. But even in the past Mr. Nixon has not been as vehement in his political warfare as Mr. Goldwater has been in recent months.

Actually, the Arizona senator's popularity is related to the spontaneous response of many Republican voters who feel he reflects their militancy. No candidate on the horizon other than Sen. Goldwater seems to typify the opposition to the Democratic party nor to express so wholeheartedly the inner feelings of those voters who want to see the Democratic party removed from power.

SINCE THESE WERE the basic reasons for the Goldwater boom in the first place, he is—despite what the polls now say about his decline—a figure to be reckoned with in the next six months and especially in the first quarter of 1964, when he can be expected to become even more vocal than he has been lately. Only this time he doubtless will concentrate on fundamental issues that have undergone no change, rather than dwell on the personalities involved.

Billy Graham

I am a victim of constant doubt. I guess I could be called a chronic doubter, but I don't want to be. I know that I should believe, but I can't seem to muster any faith.

Doubt and cynicism are the result of certain thought patterns. They are negative attitudes toward life, and they tend to grow and become more vicious as time moves on.

Prayer can unlock the Castle of Doubt. In Pilgrim's Progress when Christian and Hopeful were imprisoned, they began to pray. Presently Christian jumped to his feet and said: "What a fool I am to lie around in foul-smelling dungeons, when I have a key that will unlock any door in Doubting Castle." In your praying I would suggest that first you ask God to forgive you for wasting your time doubting Him, when you could have been faithful and believing. We never can see God as we ought until we get a clear picture of ourselves. So begin there.

Faith is the opposite of doubt, and just as a positive cancels a negative in algebra, faith cancels doubt. It takes as much time and effort to be a doubter, as a believer—in fact more. But there are no dividends to doubting, and faith accomplishes much in our lives, and doubting can only make us miserable. "Seek and ye shall find, knock and the door shall be opened."

Bare Blackboard Reflects Child's Sorrow

NEW YORK (AP) — As the new year dawns, the blackboard in my daughter's room looks strangely bare.

It hangs on a wall opposite her bed, and Tracy Ann uses the blackboard as a kind of school away from school. As do many 10-year-olds, she loves to play teacher herself—and the blackboard lends the game the semblance of reality.

One day last November, just before school let out, she and her classmates learned that the President of the United States had been shot.

TRACY ANN hurried home to tell her mother, and they switched on the television set. My daughter wept uncontrollably for nearly an hour.

In the crowded days that followed so swiftly she could not get the event out of her mind, any more than grownups could. Sometime during those four tragic days she went alone to her blackboard, picked up a piece of chalk and neatly printed this bulletin:

"In history: John F. Kennedy died Friday, Nov. 22, 1963. Flags to fly at half staff for 30 days in mourning."

A RELATIONSHIP is sometimes best defined by its loss. So only through the death of President Kennedy did the nation come to realize how manifold a meaning he had.

He had become during his short term in authority a symbol of many things. He was a symbol of a dutiful son, a symbol of conscientious leadership, light - heartedly exemplifying that true mark of the champion — "grace under pressure"—and he was a symbol of proud and happy parenthood.

Probably because of the prevalence of television, the tragedy affected children almost as much as it did adults. It took away their innocence of death.

BURIAL OF John F. Kennedy raised disturbing issues in the heart of my daughter, who has never seen a dead person and to whom until then death was largely a matter of hearsay. She asked me long and searching questions about mortality and immortality, some of which I found difficult to answer.

"After they covered President Kennedy with earth and flowers she asked, 'Did everybody just go away and leave him there all by himself?'"

To her it seemed almost like an act of treason.

IN THE DAYS that followed she was extraordinarily kind and thoughtful to both her mother and me. Other parents I have talked to also have reported improved conduct in their children.

From this I gather that to children the message of President Kennedy's death spelled less the loss of a national leader than a breach in the security of the family, the only certainty children really know. It made millions of people fully aware of how bewilderingly dependent they are on family ties they usually take for granted, and this realization is the only good I can see that came from the whole sorry happening.

Sometime after Christmas, Tracy Ann went to the blackboard and erased the lettering, and since then has written nothing on it.

All Schott

LOUISVILLE (AP)—If it had not been for that diesel locomotive, Frederick Schott, 16, might have gotten his driver's license. He had almost completed the test recently when his car stalled at a railroad crossing. The locomotive was approaching.

Schott and State Trooper E. D. Brown, the examiner, leaped out. The engine hit the car and spun it around into the fleeing freight. Schott suffered a dislocated shoulder.

"I plan to try again," he said, "but I doubt if he will want to go out again with me."

ONE SET of politicians considers him likely to be less strong nationally than would have been Mr. Kennedy. Another set argues that he will in fact be the stronger. The theory is that while he may not run relatively so well in the East and urban North, he will run much better in the South and West, and possibly the Midwest, and so wind up actually carrying more states than would the dead President.

This estimate assumes that while Johnson's Eastern and urban pluralities may be below what Kennedy could have expected, they will nevertheless be enough to win, whereas Southern and Western states more or less inevitably lost to Kennedy will be probable gains for Johnson.

WHATEVER THE truth may be in all this, there is no dispute in private among realistic politicians in both parties that President Johnson will make the task of the Congressional Republicans far harder than it would have been. President Kennedy himself recognized his comparative weakness in the South and West—and it is precisely these two areas on which the principal Republican Congressional hopes had been centered.

The Republicans had believed that with Mr. Kennedy heading the ticket, half a dozen Senate seats in the West, Midwest and South were clearly endangered for the Democrats. They do not now believe this; seats heretofore all but counted for the G.O.P. are now seen as real battlegrounds.

INDEED, it was always the presumed strength of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona in these sections—

This Is Heady Stuff

Among the presents of the season coming to this desk is an appointment book, a handy thing for listing future dates where I never think to turn to them. Among my New Year's resolutions, however, is to open up this book first thing every morning and see what the day is due to hold.

THE MOST fascinating part of this book, however, is the little section entitled "Useful Info." It is chock full of little things I plan to pack into my head so I won't be the complete dud at parties that habitually I seem to be.

For instance, if someone asks me how to find the surface of a ball, I shall reply, blowing at and inspecting my nails: "Why just multiply the square of the diameter by 3.1416." Amazing? Not at all, for if I am asked how much more water a six-inch pipe will carry than a three-inch pipe, I'll volunteer: "Four times as much."

IT MAY BE that my friends will become deadlocked in an argument about horsepower, and of course this will bring up the question of just what is one horsepower? A horsepower, I will say with an air of boredom, is equivalent to raising 33,000 pounds one foot per minute, or 550 pounds one foot per second.

It could be that someone is interested in the diameter of the earth, which is a really elemental fact. This is 7,926.68 miles at the equator, but from pole to pole it is 26.69 miles less. It is not at all surprising, therefore, that the 24,902.27 miles around at the equator is 41.83 miles more than around the poles. Moreover, it is useful to know that there are 196,950,284 square miles of surface, of which 139,950,284 of them are in water, very little of it in West Texas.

QUITE OFTEN you run into people who don't know what they are talking about when it comes to apothecaries' weight. They seem ignorant of the fact that it takes 20 grains to make one scruple, or hence a man without scruples, 20 grains is a man without scruples, heh! heh!

I really plan to surprise someone with this one, namely that whereas 60 seconds equals one minute, 60 minutes does not necessarily constitute an hour; no sir, they equal one degree. Moreover 90 degrees equal one sign; and 12 signs equal one circle. So if you get real weary of being confused and going in circles, just go in spirals of 12 signs each. The change of pace will do you worlds of good.

I AM JUST dying to spring this on someone: "A pint's a pound—or very nearly—of water, wheat, butter, sugar, blackberries."

Not everyone knows that a barrel varies, therefore I will be the life of the party by noting casually that a barrel of flour weighs 196 pounds (I hope there are some big-time cooks present); a barrel of salt weighs 280 pounds; a barrel of beef, fish or pork 200 pounds; of cement (four bags) 376 pounds; of oil, 42 gallons; of most dry commodities 105 dry quarts.

THE SLYEST BIT of information now at my finger tips concerns a flip-pant saying, hence the next time someone says, "Come on, let's go open a keg o' nails," I'll know perfectly well what he means — he's talking about 100 pounds. —JOE PICKLE

Time Can Be A Benevolence

WASHINGTON—There were enough nuggets of wisdom in Columnist David Lawrence's birthday speech at the National Press Club for 75 New Year's resolutions—the age that he attained on Christmas Day. His idea will serve journalists and readers alike.

Time, although Lawrence did not make a formalized address, seemed to be his theme. It was certainly the element of life in which he kept expressing a belief. From the passage of time, all things become possible—success and knowledge, the sure solution of seemingly insoluble problems, the eventual triumph of the right.

HE WAS 60, said Lawrence—the brilliant, accomplished journalist—before he could tell himself that his financial troubles were over. As a young correspondent, he had plunged into the founding of a national newspaper before he knew the business. Twice, when failure was only a few days off, unexpected financial help came out of the blue. Time is a benevolence, though we often think of it as our mortal enemy. It will come to our rescue at the hour of our own charity.

LAWRENCE DID not point out these morals. They emerge from his material, when he speaks as when he writes. Time sits in judgment on us, too. Lawrence remembered Professor Woodrow Wilson's remark at Princeton shortly after William Howard Taft had been chosen President in 1908 by the greatest majority yet. Wilson said that Taft's hold on public opinion would be a fine thing—if the new President knew how to hold on to it. The same period of "unanimity" existed then, as it has existed since President Johnson's take-over. But in two years

Lawrence was born the son of an English immigrant tailor who kept shop over their home in Philadelphia. The first sale by Lawrence to a newspaper, in Buffalo, was a picture story, "with about two inches of reading matter."

But when the story was published, the boy had eyes only for the wonderful sight of the words he'd written. The word-struck boy became father to as fine a newspaperman as we have ever known. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Shakeup Seen In GOP Strategy

WASHINGTON — The men responsible for directing the Republican Congressional campaign in the new year are undertaking, perforce, a total re-consideration of their strategy now that Lyndon B. Johnson and not John F. Kennedy is to head the Democratic ticket.

How Mr. Johnson's succession to the presidency may affect the presidential race itself is the subject of great disagreement.

ONE SET of politicians considers him likely to be less strong nationally than would have been Mr. Kennedy. Another set argues that he will in fact be the stronger. The theory is that while he may not run relatively so well in the East and urban North, he will run much better in the South and West, and possibly the Midwest, and so wind up actually carrying more states than would the dead President.

This estimate assumes that while Johnson's Eastern and urban pluralities may be below what Kennedy could have expected, they will nevertheless be enough to win, whereas Southern and Western states more or less inevitably lost to Kennedy will be probable gains for Johnson.

WHATEVER THE truth may be in all this, there is no dispute in private among realistic politicians in both parties that President Johnson will make the task of the Congressional Republicans far harder than it would have been. President Kennedy himself recognized his comparative weakness in the South and West—and it is precisely these two areas on which the principal Republican Congressional hopes had been centered.

The Republicans had believed that with Mr. Kennedy heading the ticket, half a dozen Senate seats in the West, Midwest and South were clearly endangered for the Democrats. They do not now believe this; seats heretofore all but counted for the G.O.P. are now seen as real battlegrounds.

INDEED, it was always the presumed strength of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona in these sections—

Taft had lost popular confidence, and in 1912 would finish third in the presidential running behind Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt. Only somebody who can see the future, Lawrence warned, should try to predict how long Johnson will be on top.

TIME, AS THE seedbed of experience, is another phase of its benevolence. Lawrence feels that this will work in favor of Richard Nixon's getting the Republican nomination over his inexperienced rival, presumably Barry Goldwater. The man of experience would stand better comparison in the race against the Democratic incumbent.

You sense from Lawrence's context—again, he doesn't moralize—that time will work toward the righting of old wrongs and the restoration of lost opportunities. He believes that the 14th Amendment, ratified in 1868 with much of the Confederacy under military occupation, should be resubmitted to the people. Only then can its validity be asserted. His hope for the United Nations seems to flow from a faith that Woodrow Wilson's high principles of international morality may someday be revived.

LAWRENCE WAS BORN the son of an English immigrant tailor who kept shop over their home in Philadelphia. The first sale by Lawrence to a newspaper, in Buffalo, was a picture story, "with about two inches of reading matter."

But when the story was published, the boy had eyes only for the wonderful sight of the words he'd written. The word-struck boy became father to as fine a newspaperman as we have ever known. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

It was widely assumed that whatever his own fortunes might be nationally, Goldwater would pull heavily for the Republicans in Senate and House seats in these areas. The assumption is no longer automatic; nor is it now nearly so widespread.

AT ALL EVENTS, the present national political situation illustrates with a rare and striking clarity the profound actual difference between a Presidential and a Congressional campaign. While both are of course conducted simultaneously, they present vastly different problems. They are alike only in the sense that technically they are fun together.

While a Presidential campaign is truly national, a Congressional campaign is really a series of largely independent localized actions, interconnected only in the loosest way.

THE PRESENT FEAR of the Congressional Republicans is not—that Johnson alone can and will beat them in Senate and House. It is simply that because of him the very sections for which their hopes were the highest are now far less promising for them.

Mr. Kennedy, though personally popular all over the country, was in sober fact an Eastern-oriented urban President in his true base of power. Mr. Johnson's base is much less sectionalized. Though he may not be so popular in the East, he is almost unquestionably more popular in other areas. This defines the Republican Congressional problem; how the problem is to be met remains to be seen.

AROUND-THE-WORLD SURVEY

British Empire

BY TOM OCHILTREE
LONDON (AP)—Britain's new government believes 1964 offers unique opportunities to add to the security and happiness of the human race.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home hopes U.S. leadership will try to reach a friendly relationship with Russia without snapping the Atlantic Alliance.

Such a task calls for great diplomatic skill, Mr. Douglas-Home said, but he believes that President Johnson's cooperation will help to loosen East-West tensions.

MORE HOPEFUL
 Britain's political leaders seem convinced there are prospects of a new, more hopeful international climate. As President Kennedy's term ends, they expect that British citizens will elect in 1964 for a new House of Commons.

Such a change would not revise Britain's basic international policy. There would be no change in the direction of the defense program, more but the cold war.

Britain's experience during the breaking season but faced an unwelcome winter must be some steps to halt the climb in prices and wages. The process of changing national priorities goes on in centers on the future of Malta and British Guiana.

 Any Western leader who is troubled by the Communist camp, and had to tipper harvest, probably would have been voted out of office. He seems as strong as ever, but his multiple problems continue unresolved.

The trouble with China comes from the Soviet foreign policy, and the Soviet backs at bringing the East European socialist states to the Soviet camp.

When the twin Baathist regimes in Iraq fell in November, the Syrian government's days seemed numbered. They still seem that way.

Last spring, Iraq, Syria and Egypt announced they were to unite. These quickly became enmeshed in the rivalry between the United Arab Republic's President Nasser and the Baathists.

March, Syria's Baathist Party (then Baath Socialist Party) ousted Nasser and the Baathists.

Among the Cosden Club guests last evening were, from left, Mrs. Jerry Spence, Mrs. Joe Moss, her husband and Mrs. John Burgess.

New Year '64 Has Welcome

By KATHLEEN DOZIER

In tried and true fashion, the New Year was welcomed by reveling crowds which filled the ballrooms of the Cosden Country Club, Webb Officers Club and the Elks Club last evening. Beginning on New Year's Eve, couples gathered to fill the clubs to capacity. At midnight the full blast of horns, noise makers and traditional greeting was almost deafening as the familiar "Auld Lang Syne" rang out.

OFFICERS CLUB

Sammy Incardano and his orchestra of San Angelo provided music for dancing at the Officers Club. Colorful serpentine, profusely draped, lent atmosphere to the scene. Party hats, horns and confetti marked the tables which were lighted only by hurricane lamps.

Mrs. Gary Hartsill was there in an especially chic gown styled with gold lame overblouse and red velvet skirt. Mrs. Ron Kibler's holiday dress was blue satin with a low cut, draped neckline and belted skirt. Shimmering black sequins fashioned the sheath worn by Mrs. William Daoust, while Mrs. Dick Wilson was superbly attired in white satin featuring a high front neckline and extremely low-cut back. The gown was fitted to the knees and flared to the floor.

Mrs. Rex Fryar's blue brocade satin gown was fashionably cut with a petal skirt and a large flat bow at the waistline. A pink-toned heavy brocade princess gown was worn by Mrs. Val Nelson. Particularly noticed and admired, the gown's back interest was floating panels which extended to the hemline. Mrs. Lee Duncan's blue, pencil-slim skirt had an elegant overblouse of blue sequins and she wore a white fur shrug. Silver blue satin was Mrs. George E. Frank's sheath, a stunningly simple in design, and Mrs. Tom Seebo, as always, was eloquent in silvery, white brocade and satin.

COSDEN CLUB

Beneath the twinkling, star studded rafters of the Cosden Club, dancing took place to the music of Mack Alexander and his orchestra.

Striking in white, with only a whisper of yellow, was Mrs. Joe Moss in her beaded cocktail sheath. Mrs. John Burgess appeared lovely in black silk sheath detailed with a sequined midriff. Lending color to the scene, Mrs. Dan Greenwood was there in red chiffon and silk cocktail suit, while Mrs. Elmo Phillips attended wearing a beautiful gold paisley print on white sheath. Seated by her

Rebekahs Honor Mrs. Bridges

STANTON (SC) — Mrs. G. A. Bridges was honored on her birthday, Dec. 23, at her home by the Stanton Rebekah Lodge 287. Mrs. John Wilkes Jr. led the group in singing, "Happy Birthday." Mrs. Clayton Burnam read a poem, "Never Grow Old." Fifteen attended.

Travel To Houston

WESTBROOK (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. Anson Henderson and daughter, Rita Sue, journeyed to Houston, Freeport and Angleton where they visited his brother-in-law, and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Crabtree, for Christmas.

Visitors in the Henderson home this weekend were his brother-in-law, and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brookmole, and nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Brookmole, all from Dumas.

Donny Hardin of Levelland has spent the holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hutchins.

was Mrs. Bob Rogers in a white metallic, knit sheath.

Frothy chiffon in turquoise tone was lovely, worn by Mrs. Jerry Spence. The draped bodice was detailed with a rhinestone clip, and the skirt was short and full. All white and beautiful was the simple, after-five fashion chosen for the evening by Mrs. James Tidwell who accented her attire with a touch of gold.

ELKS CLUB

Midst the revelry at the Elks Club, where music was provided by Dale White and his orchestra, Mrs. Joe Bunch was outstanding, wearing a gold sequined overblouse and white silk, organza skirt. Also adding to the scene was Mrs. Joe McCullough in a street-length dress of white with waist accent in a rhinestone buckle. Mrs. Oliver Cofer wore a handsome, short-skirted black chiffon, while Mrs. Hanson Lawhon chose chiffon in beige tone.

A dinner dress, worn by Mrs. Glen Gale, was fashionably cut in the short length and was all white, and Mrs. Dorey Jenkins arrived wearing a printed chiffon, also in the short length.

TRADITIONAL FARE

Blackeyed peas and the complements were served in the New Year's traditional style following the welcoming parties at the Cosden and the Elk's clubs. Dinner preceded the merry-making at the Officers Club.

Moody Family Has Guests

WESTBROOK (SC) — Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Moody were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hawk and Mrs. Jansen Jones and sons, Jay and Greg, all of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moody, son, Mike, and Roger Moltz, Seguin; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Whitehead, Wanda and Danny, Westbrook.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Screens Are In The Bag

Dear Folks: Let's discuss condensation in our homes and trying to keep moisture from condensing on our window panes.

HELOISE

So many ideas have come in. Such as installing expensive systems, opening windows, putting up storm windows, etc.

Dear Heloise: For those women who have corns on the back of their heels, which sometimes get sore.

Dear Heloise: I have the ends of worn, fitted sheets, cut them off and sew them onto flannel sheets for a fitted extension.

Dear Heloise: When cutting hard-boiled eggs in two, I always dip my knife in boiling hot water first.

I have found that in filling any canister, if you put it on a piece of waxed paper before filling.

Dear Heloise: When cooking fresh green beans I can remove the strings easily by pouring boiling water over them and letting them sit for five minutes. Then I drain the water off and peel the strings.

(Mail letters to Heloise in care of The Big Spring Herald.)

LBJ Parties At Austin

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson saw the old year out at four parties 65 miles from his ranch home but flew back to the family fireside before the new year was an hour old.

Johnson embarked on his New Year's party hopping in Austin dressed in a gray suit, blue shirt and black bow tie with yellow stripes.

He said wife Lady Bird preferred to stay at the LBJ Ranch and watch movies with nine of her relatives who gathered there for the holiday, while he made his four-hour sojourn in Austin.

TO CAPITAL

The President stayed at home long enough for a steak dinner before journeying to the Texas capital. In Austin, the President spent about an hour at a private club called "The 40 Acres" adjacent to the University of Texas campus, where his older daughter, Lynda Bird, is a sophomore.

Then his police-escorted motorcade drove to the home of a friend, Austin attorney Frank Irwin, secretary of the Texas Democratic party.

The next stop was the Driskill Hotel downtown, where Johnson first went to a party thrown for the White House staff by the White House press corps. He spent more than an hour there before proceeding to the Headliners Club in the same hotel.

HEADLINERS

The clock struck midnight while Johnson was greeting the headliners — newsmen, businessmen and community leaders.

The President plans to spend today with his wife and in-laws and following through on the old Southern custom that one who eats blackeyed peas on New Year's Day will have luck for the rest of the year.

While the President and the First Lady stayed at the LBJ Ranch with relatives, their two teen-age daughters were off to the Cotton Bowl classic in Dallas between the University of Texas and Navy.

Weather Delays Stormy Philly Mummers Parade

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The annual New Year's Day Mummers parade, threatened with demonstrations to protest planned blackface comic participants, was postponed today until Saturday because of threatening weather.

Some 1,800 policemen had been braced for possible violence if the parade went on but snow began falling about 5 a.m. and the forecast called for possibly up to three inches mixed with sleet and freezing rain.

The postponement thus gave officials additional time to work out some solution to the threatened demonstrations.

Louis Smith, northeast regional chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality had said Tuesday night that CORE planned to have pickets at the parade.

Other chapters of CORE, including one from Brooklyn, planned to join the demonstration. Also planning to take part was the Committee for Freedom Now of nearby Chester.

Smith's statement came after a meeting with the Philadelphia Human Relations Commission and religious leaders who pleaded non-violence.

Barry, Family Welcome In '64

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has his family at home, his right leg in a cast and the nation on edge for this, his 55th birthday.

The two-term Arizona senator is surrounded by all his immediate family in this dual Goldwater-New Year's Day celebration.

He is spending the day in his hilltop Phoenix home with one foot propped on a cushion chair, a necessity since an operation to remove a calcium deposit from his right heel.

The nation awaits his announcement two days hence on whether he'll seek the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Brother Bob Goldwater, a Phoenix department store executive, and his family will make a brief call later today to drop off a present.

With Bob will be the senator's 88-year-old mother, Josephine, who makes a point of never missing a birthday party or

New Year's celebration. Goldwater planned to watch the football bowl games on television. An aide said the senator is especially interested in the Cotton Bowl battle between Texas and Navy.

Barry Morris Goldwater was born on a clear, cold New Year's Day of 1909 in Phoenix, the territory of Arizona. This was the second anniversary of the wedding of his parents, Baron Goldwater, a struggling Phoenix merchant, and Josephine Williams, a nurse who had come to Arizona eight years earlier because of tuberculosis.

Oswald's Widow Confirms Note, Walker Shooting

DALLAS (AP)—Lee Harvey Oswald's widow has confirmed that her husband told her he was implicated in the shooting at former Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker, her business adviser said today.

Mrs. Marina Oswald also confirmed a report that Oswald left her a note of instructions the day a sniper shot at Walker. Oswald's note said he might be arrested.

Jim Martin, the business adviser, said she gave this account of what happened April 10, the day a high-powered rifle bullet barely missed Walker in his home.

Oswald left their home early in the evening, not saying where he was going. He had not returned at 11 p.m., and Mrs. Oswald began to worry.

Then she discovered a note from her husband, written in Russian, in her bedroom. Oswald's note said he might be gone for some time, or he might be arrested. It told her the location of the county jail in Dallas, and gave the number of Oswald's post office box, along with the key.

It said he was expecting a check from a former employer (apparently a coffee company in New Orleans where Oswald worked before coming to Dallas), and advised her how to get in touch with the Soviet consul. Oswald finally returned, very late. He was white and shaken. Under questioning from his wife, he said he was involved in an attempt to shoot Walker.

After an all-night argument, he promised he never would do such a thing again. Mrs. Oswald told him she had hidden the note and would turn it over to the police if he ever failed to keep his promise.

She had secreted the note in a cookbook. The FBI took possession of it shortly after Oswald was arrested Nov. 22.

Martin said today that Mrs. Oswald believes her husband "was just sick, something was wrong with him."

The shot was fired through a window of Walker's home.

The bullet narrowly missed Walker and imbedded itself in a wall. Police said a slight movement of Walker's head possibly saved his life. He suffered minor cuts from fragments of the window.

Paper Forecasts Shriver For Veep

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. (AP)—Newsday, Long Island newspaper, says President Johnson's choice as of now for his vice presidential running mate is Sargent Shriver, a brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Shriver is director of the Peace Corps.

Officials at the holiday White House in Johnson City, Tex., declined comment on the report, contained in a copyright story Tuesday from Johnson City.

Shivers Flatly Denies Ambitions For Office

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas Times Herald said Tuesday that former Gov. Allan Shivers will not be a candidate for any office under any circumstances in 1964.

Instead, the ex-governor is represented as planning to back former Rep. Lloyd Bentsen Jr. of Houston against Sen. Ralph Yarborough in the May primary.

Shivers has cited business reasons for not making the race, friends say. He now controls an insurance company and spends much time in Dallas on business while still living in Austin.

Conservatives gathering behind Bentsen, who has not yet said he will run, are hoping Rep. Jim Wright will get into the race to split off some of Yarborough's support and give their man a better chance at the nomination.

Bentsen, 42, a Houston insurance executive, had a moderate record in Congress. He is a native of Mission, former Hidalgo County judge and a Houston civic leader.

The holding of honors is like a siren's call at the bridge table, clouding the judgment of even seasoned campaigners and luring them to their own downfall. The player who holds ace, king, queen, jack, ten of a suit is apt to go on bidding it indefinitely, overruling his partner's efforts to find the safest contract.

In today's hand, South would have paid a heavy toll for his greed had the defense been more astute. The bidding began reasonably enough with East's third seat opening of one spade. South doubled and West jumped to three spades in an effort to crowd the auction.

North's free bid of four clubs meets with our approval and is by no means a drastic choice. He has eight points and a good suit—excellent values for a partner who can double vulnerable and, if North does not show some signs of life, South may be unable to take further action on his own at this advanced level.

South's decision to bid four hearts is acceptable since it gives him the opportunity to try for a 10 trick game but, when East decided to sacrifice by bidding four spades, South's common sense deserted him. Instead of raising North's clubs, he persisted to five hearts.

West led the six of spades and East's queen took the first trick. Had he returned anything but another spade, South would have been set. Due to the peculiar distribution of the club spots the suit is blocked and there is no way for declarer to unravel the tangle. He must win the fourth club trick in his hand and, since North has no side entry, only four club tricks can be taken, and South must surrender two diamonds in the end.

Inasmuch as West's jump to three spades clearly marks him with four cards in that suit, East cannot hope to cash another spade trick, and he should shift to a diamond in an attempt to make a play for his partner. When he tried instead to win a second spade, he presented South with an opportunity to unseat the club block and the declarer was quick to capitalize on it. Instead of ruffing, he discarded the five of clubs. Now came the diamond shift, but too late. Declarer played the ace, drew trump and proceeded to run five club tricks discarding his losing diamonds.
