President Proposes To Help Needy Youth

Rededicates U.S. To Partnership

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson pledged today "the full power of the United States" to help any American country whose freedom is threatened by forces directed from outside the continent. The President delivered this assurance in his first full-scale address on inter-American affairs and the Alliance for Progress.

NOT NEW

What he said in committing the United States to help any other American nation whose freedom is endangered by outside pressure was not new in itself. The late President John F. Kennedy had spoken in similar terms.

But, once again on a specific issue, Johnson was picking up the banner of the man he succeeded.

Similarly, he rededicated the United States to partnership with Latin America in the Alliance for Progress. In doing so, he put heavy emphasis on increased cooperation, self-help and social justice.

"The barriers are huge," Johnson said. "The enemies of freedom seek to harass us at every turn."

STRUGGLE

"We are engaged in a struggle for the destiny of the American republics."

Johnson spoke at the Pan American Union, where Carlos Sanz de Santamaria of Colombia was installed as the first chairman of a new Inter-American Committee for the Alliance for Progress.

The President noted that 31 years ago this month Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed the good neighbor policy for the Americas, and three years ago this month John F. Kennedy called for the Alliance for Progress — a 10-year, $20 billion hemispheric program.

"Today," the President said, "my country rededicates itself to these principles and renews its commitment to the partnership of the hemisphere to carry them forward."

ATTEND SESSION

All U.S. ambassadors and foreign aid mission chiefs based in Latin America have been summoned to Washington by the President to attend the session. They are also to participate in a full-scale review of U.S. diplomatic, military and economic relations with Latin America and a discussion of all aspects of hemispheric affairs.

Tonight the President will bring the U.S. ambassadors and aid officials together with Latin American ambassadors at a White House reception.

In an interview broadcast Sunday by three radio and television networks Johnson conceded that the alliance has been making slow progress.

More U.S. Airmen Die In Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Six more American airmen were killed in South Viet Nam during the weekend as Red guerrillas shot down a U.S. helicopter and a spotter plane.

Four of the airmen were aboard the helicopter, which was hit by ground fire Sunday 100 miles south of Saigon.

The other two airmen were aboard an L19 spotter plane that was knocked down Saturday northeast of Saigon.

The six deaths brought to 124 the number of Americans killed in action in the Viet Nam war since the U.S. buildup in Viet Nam began in December 1961.

The Defense Department said the dead airmen were:

Aboard the spotter plane: Capt. Thomas J. Bergin, Schenectady, N.Y., and 1st Lt. Richard Jaekel, Milwaukee, Wis. Aboard the helicopter: 1st Lt. Roger E. Gauvin, pilot, Caribou, Maine; 1st Lt. Kenneth A. Shannon, copilot, Lynchburg, Va.; Spec. 5. Carleton W. Upjohn, crew chief, Auburn, Calif.; and Pfc. Frank J. Holguin, gunner, Los Angeles.

'War On Poverty' Plan Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson gave Congress marching orders today for the war on poverty, concentrating his $962.5-million attack on helping needy young Americans.

The program to help youngsters in the 16 to 21 age bracket centers on a Job Corps remission of the Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s.

MOST CRITICAL

"The years of high school and college age are the most critical stage of a young person's life," Johnson said, in a special message on poverty. "If they are not helped then many will be condemned to a life of poverty which they, in turn, will pass on to their children."

The Job Corps would enlist up to 100,000 young men, draft rejects and school dropouts, from "those whose background, health and education makes them least fit for useful work."

These young men would be removed from their slum backgrounds and placed in camps to work on conservation projects and in special job training centers for a blend of training, basic education and work experience.

Other phases of the youth program are work-training and work-study projects, federal grants to provide full or part time jobs to help youngsters stay in high school, take vocational training or work their way through college.

Coordinating the war on poverty will be a new executive agency, the Office of Economic Opportunities, which Johnson said would be headed by Sargent Shriver, "my personal chief of staff for the war against poverty."

In addition to the Job Corps, Shriver also will supervise creation of another new group, the Volunteers for America, a Peace Corps-styled body of 3,000 to 5,000 volunteers who will work in various phases of the war on poverty.

PENDING

Both the Job Corps and the Volunteers for America are taken from legislation now pending in Congress — the Youth Conservation Corps and the National Service Corps respectively.

Other phases of the war on poverty asked by Johnson included:

—A program of grants of up to 90 per cent for urban and rural community action programs, where local plans were drafted to utilize all available community resources, public and private, to wipe out pockets of poverty.

—Special grants and loans to help boost the incomes of subsistence farmers.

—Special low interest loans for investments that will provide jobs for low-income families or persons who have been out of jobs for many months, and also to small business not eligible for regular loans from the small business administration.

EXPANSION

—Expansion of a Welfare Department program to help train and find jobs for heads of families whose children now receive payments under the aid to dependent children program.

So far, a White House source said, selection standards have not been set up for the Job Corps, nor have detailed plans been made for setting up the camps and job training center.

The source said many of the 40,000 recruited for the Job Corps in the first year would come from the backlog of more than one million already rejected by the draft as physically, mentally or psychologically unfit.

A source said an "outstanding educational leader" has been chosen to head the Job Corps, but refused to identify him.

VOLUNTARY

The volunteers for the maximum two-year term of service would be voluntary.

Half of the young men recruited in the first year would be put to work in groups of 50 to 250 on "special conservation projects to give them education, useful work experience and to enrich the natural resources of the country."

The other half will go to the job training centers, where up to 5,000 will be congregated. Plans tentatively call for these centers to be located near cities with major educational facilities, so that the facilities may be used on a part-time basis.

The President revealed some of his poverty war plans Sunday night in a radio-television interview.

SLICE DEFENSE Johnson said the money for the poverty program had come from slicing money from the defense budget, adding, "so it will come from those who have it, to those who don't have it."

In his broadcast interview Sunday, Johnson said: "We realize it is a beginning, it is not an extremely comprehensive program. We are going to have Sargent Shriver in charge of coordinating the program between the agencies who already are working in that field—the Agriculture Department, the Justice Department, in the dealings with juvenile delinquency; the Health, Education and Welfare Department, in health and education; the Labor Department, in manpower training. And we don't want to create more agencies, we want to use the ones we have."

Court To Decide On Hearing Plea

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal court was expected to convene today and consider when to hear a plea by state officials asking the effect of its order on Texas congressional redistricting be delayed until after this year's elections.

A brief filed Saturday by Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr contends that redistricting before the 1964 elections is "hopelessly out of the question."

Also Saturday, 22 Republican congressional candidates asked the court's permission to intervene in the suit. They demanded immediate redistricting.

The three-judge Houston court ruled last Oct. 19 the state's congressional reapportionment law was unconstitutional. It said all of Texas' 23 congressmen must run at-large until the district lines are redrawn to provide more equal representation based on population.

The decision was appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, which ruled March 2 present congressional districts are illegal.

The high court, however, opened the door to a delay by allowing the state to appeal to the Houston court for relief.

The attorney general filed the motion asking the court to take no action on redistricting until after the November general election.

Houston lawyer Elmer Browder filed the Republican candidates' demand for immediate redistricting. His motion said the interests of the candidates virtually coincide with those of Republicans who brought the original suit.

Harris County GOP Chairman George Bush filed the first suit along with other area Republicans. Browder's petition says the state "is not without resources and elected officials of this state can provide a constitutional scheme for electing congressmen by districts for the 1964 election."

Carr said in his petition if the court orders all Texas congressional candidates to run at-large, it will be the first time the federal courts have intervened in state elections already in progress.

He also contended there is not enough time to call a special session of the legislature to redistrict and provide procedures for an election at-large.

Besides, he said, such an election would be "inequitable and depriving Texas citizens of fair and equal representation in Congress."

A delay in enforcement of the order, he said, would give the legislature time to do an orderly redistricting job at its next regular session.

Members of the court are U.S. Circuit Judge John Brown, Judge Joe Ingraham and Judge James Noel.

BELLI WORRIED

Ruby Still Protected By Maximum Security

DALLAS (AP) — Jack Ruby remained alone in a jail cell today while his attorneys prepared to appeal the verdict of a Dallas jury which sentenced him to death for murder.

"Maximum security" surrounds Ruby, Sheriff Bill Decker said.

But Ruby's attorney, Melvin Belli, said he is worried about a possible attempt on Ruby's life and has asked for extra protection for him.

"Later on," Decker said, "when he has adjusted to the jolt of the verdict, he probably will be put in a large cell with other prisoners. He's had maximum security from the beginning and he will continue to have it in jail."

Dallas authorities refused to "dignify by comment" a statement Belli has made several times since Ruby was convicted Saturday morning of killing Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

The attorney said: "Ruby is worried, and so am I, that they may slip someone into his cell—another prisoner—with a shiv (knife) in order to prevent our appeal. Then they would make it appear as a suicide and this vicious city would have him off their hands."

Throughout the 23-day trial, three guards sat near Ruby in court—so near, in fact, that Belli once protested they were listening to his conversations with Ruby. They were seated in such a way as to be able to watch the spectators.

Saturday, before the verdict was handed down, Decker put three more in the front row of seats.

"I haven't gambled since they brought Ruby here," the sheriff said, "and I'm certainly not going to gamble today."

Belli continued to rage against the "Dallas oligarchy" and insist that Ruby was "railroaded."

Ten days ago Belli told this reporter, "the Dallas oligarchy has ordered Ruby's execution. You'll see."

In Texas, the jury fixes the penalty. For murder, punishment ranges from two years imprisonment, suspended, to death in the electric chair.

Ruby's lawyers can take the first step toward an appeal by asking Judge Joe B. Brown for a new trial. They have 10 days to file.

Since a trial judge seldom reverses himself, the next step would be the Texas Criminal Court of Appeals within 90 days.

A "full bill of exceptions" to Brown's rulings during the trial is being prepared, Belli said. The defense filed 139 exceptions to the language in Brown's charge to the jury.

'Ready To Find Canal Solution'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said "the United States is ready today if Panama is ready" to work out a solution of differences over the Panama Canal.

In an address at the Pan American Union on the Alliance for Progress, the President departed from his prepared text to make the observation that there has still been no meeting of minds between Panama and the United States.

He repeated the U.S. position that Panama for any pre-commitments before a conference on differences and does not believe any solution can be found until diplomatic relations are restored between the two countries.

Johnson threw no light on reasons for an apparent mixup Sunday night in statements about the status of U.S.-Panamanian relations.

Cyprus Quiet, Tension High

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — An additional 223 Canadian troops were due in Cyprus today for the U.N. peace force. The island itself was unusually quiet.

Although tension remained high, a lull in the fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots continued into the sixth day. Arrival of the Canadian troops was considered to have had a calming effect.

Canadian officials hope to have the entire Canadian contingent of 1,150 men in Cyprus by March 24. An advance party of 106 officers and men came in three planes over the weekend.

Finland, Sweden and Ireland also have promised troops for the international army, but there was no word here when any would arrive.

CREATED BY UNIONS Negotiator Predicts Nationwide Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief railroad negotiator J.E. Wolfe said today the country is on "the verge of a national railroad strike."

Wolfe said five railroad unions created the new strike threat by bypassing national negotiations and seeking separate talks with two individual railroads.

"We have unimpeachable advice that the unions do intend to strike Wednesday" against the two railroads, Wolfe said at a news conference.

Wolfe released a copy of a letter the railroad negotiators delivered to Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz Sunday.

"We respectfully ask that you move promptly to prevent the unions from turning private disputes into public disaster," the letter said.

A Labor Department observer said there would be no immediate comment from Wirtz.

Wolfe said that if the unions carry out plans to strike the Southern Pacific or the Louisville & Nashville, the other railroads will immediately impose wage and other work rules changes across the nation.

Union sources have said this would bring about a nationwide strike.

The railroads will go into court in an attempt to halt any union move to strike the two individual railroads, Wolfe said.

If this fails the work rules changes would be posted within twenty-four hours on all major railroads, he added.

Wolfe said the railroads had what they considered a binding agreement with the unions that the negotiations would be handled on a national, rather than a local, basis.

The new strike threat arises out of issues which Congress left to joint negotiations when it passed emergency legislation last August to halt a nationwide strike threat then.

Congress also ordered compulsory arbitration on some issues which could eventually eliminate thousands of union jobs. The union has appealed against the arbitration ruling to the Supreme Court.

The unions have accused the railroads of deliberately refusing to bargain in the national talks in an effort to force the dispute back to Congress and obtain more legislation for compulsory arbitration.

The unions reportedly approached the two railroads for separate talks in an effort to get around the stalled national negotiations.

Hard On Honeysuckles

Excitement and flames flared briefly at the Howard County Courthouse Friday afternoon. The heavy growth of honeysuckle on the east side of the steps to the south door suddenly burst into flames. The blaze ran wild for a few minutes whipped by a strong west wind. The fire department quickly put the fire out and other than for loss of the vines, there was no damage. Cause of the blaze could not be determined.

Warmer Weather, Rain Is Wanted

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Texas farmers would welcome warmer weather and some would like some soaking rains also, says John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Wet and cold fields hampered farming in more favored areas the past week but moisture conditions improved, he said. Rain is needed in West and Northwest Texas and in parts of South Texas, Hutchison added. Grazing improved but warmer weather is needed. Moisture is generally short in northern and western counties of South Texas. It is adequate in the Valley and Coastal Bend. Flax is blooming and looks good. Cotton and grain sorghum planting continues. Some stands have been damaged by wind. The vegetable harvest is active and citrus blooming heavily. Ranges were average to below. Feeding continued. Cattle were in fair to good condition. Lamb marking and goat shearing are in progress. Things are looking up in South Central Texas. Range plants are making good growth and livestock prospects are good. Fields are too wet to plant. Feeding is declining. The upper Gulf Coast got more rain last weekend. The east half of the district has excess moisture. Dry, warm weather is needed for field work and pasture growth. Fruit trees are blooming. Moisture is adequate in East Texas. Some improvement was noted in pastures, which still are below average. Livestock is in poor to fair condition and still fed. Grains in Central Texas made satisfactory growth and are furnishing more grazing. Farmers are ready to plant corn and sorghum when fields get dry and warm. Pastures are greening but grazing is short. Livestock is in fair condition with feeding continuing. Goat shearing is under way. Moisture is adequate. Scattered light showers in West-Central Texas improved surface moisture conditions, but subsoil moisture is still short. Grains, grass and weeds need warm weather for good growth. Livestock, with feeding, remains in fair to good condition. Far West Texas needs a general rain. Livestock are being fed. Goats are being sheared. Rain in Northwest Texas made surface moisture adequate. Subsoil moisture and water in stock tanks are still short. Grains made some growth but very little grazing of any kind is available. The condition of livestock is fair with feeding heavy and the market weak. Some frost damage was reported to fruit buds. Some vegetable planting was noted. Moisture in North Central Texas improved but cold weather is hampering grains. Insect damage is reported. Feeding is needed since ranges furnished only limited grazing. Moisture is adequate in most of the Rolling Plains. Grains and grazing improved but feeding continues. Moisture is short to very good in most of the South Plains. Ranges are below average. Cattle are moving from wheat pastures. Plowing is in full swing and pre-plant irrigation is under way. An acute shortage of skilled tractor drivers bothers parts of the district. In the Panhandle, moisture ranges from adequate to short. Wheat is growing. Range conditions are fair to good.

2,729 KILLED

Texas Highways Chalk Up Deadliest Year

AUSTIN (AP)—Last year was the deadliest in Texas highway history, the Department of Public Safety says. Someone died of injuries received in automobile accidents every three hours and 12 minutes, the department said. Closing its 1963 traffic books at noon Sunday, the department added up 2,729 Texas highway fatalities. The total is 308 higher than 1962 and smashed the record of 2,611 set in 1956. A death was recorded every day but Sept. 3, the following day. Labor Day, 22 died. The worst accident took place Sept. 2 near Dayton, where 10 persons died. "The records consistently reflect that two things stand out in general as the leading causes for serious traffic accidents: carelessness and disregard of safety laws," said Homer Garrison Jr., Department of Public Safety director. He said last year's fatality trend seems to be continuing in 1964. Garrison estimated 161,000 were injured and an economic loss of $432.7 million resulted from all traffic accidents on Texas highways.

Enthusiastic Welcome Slated For De Gaulle's Mexico Visit

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A million Mexicans were expected to turn out today in an enthusiastic welcome for President Charles de Gaulle as he begins a campaign to increase French influence in Latin America. De Gaulle was to arrive in the Mexican capital in a French Air Force jet early in the afternoon after a quick change of planes at the Yucatan Peninsula city of Merida, 635 miles east of Mexico City. GUADALOUPE The French president and his wife spent the night on the French Caribbean island of Guadeloupe after a nine-hour flight from Paris aboard a U.S.-built Air France Boeing 707 jetliner. A large crowd welcomed the De Gaulles at Point-a-Pitre, Guadeloupe's chief port. They quickly drove to a heavily guarded, private mansion. At Merida, De Gaulle was to be joined by Mexican Education Minister Jaime Torres Bodet and French Ambassador Raymond Offroy for the last leg to the trip to Mexico City. Mexico's President Adolfo Lopez Mateos and other government officials of the diplomatic corps were to welcome De Gaulle to Mexico City. FOUR DAYS De Gaulle will spend four days in Mexico in an effort to boost French prestige and trade as a prelude to visits to Argentina, Brazil, Peru and Uruguay this fall. He is the first French president to visit Latin America. French officials insist De Gaulle will not attempt to undercut traditional U.S. influence in Latin America, but Washington has its misgivings about what the visit will do to the United States' image in the area. Latin American Communists are reported exploiting the visit by stressing De Gaulle's differences with the United States, particularly his pursuit of an independent foreign policy. HOLIDAY Lopez Mateos ordered a holiday for all federal employees to insure a massive turnout, perhaps even exceeding the welcome for President Kennedy in 1962. Stores were closed and pictures of De Gaulle were hung along the route from the airport to the presidential palace, where De Gaulle will extend greetings to the Mexican people from the balcony. This is an unprecedented gesture to a foreign leader. Before his departure Thursday morning, De Gaulle is scheduled for a heavy round of public functions. He will receive the keys to the city tonight. There will also be three private conferences with Lopez Mateos. DIFFERS Although Mexico differs with De Gaulle on recognition of Red China and the spread of nuclear weapons, the outcome of the talks is reported so assured that French and Mexican officials already are drafting the joint communique De Gaulle and Lopez Mateos will issue Wednesday. Police, the army and other security officials imposed the tightest security surveillance ever seen in the Mexican capital. In Paris, two bomb threats briefly delayed De Gaulle's departure Sunday. Officials blamed them on cranks, but nevertheless searched his plane and ran a chemical analysis of its fuel. The plane left nine minutes behind schedule.

One Of Angels Plunges To Death

APALACHICOLA, Fla. (AP)—Lt. George N. Neale, 29, one of the Navy's Blue Angel precision pilots, plunged to his death Sunday when his parachute failed to open fully after he ejected from his crippled jet. A Navy spokesman said the flight demonstration team was returning to its base at Pensacola, Fla., from an air show at West Palm Beach when Neale's plane "experienced some sort of mechanical failure" west of Apalachicola, 167 miles east of Pensacola. W. H. Meadows and his son, Billy, said they heard a popping noise—like a backfire—before the jet fighter hit 300 yards from their home. Meadows said the pilot ejected at about 150 to 200 feet—too low for his chute to open fully.

Confused Reports Squelches Optimism On Panama Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. spokesman has squelched optimism arising from an Organization of American States announcement that the United States and Panama had agreed to resume diplomatic relations. The situation was further confused when an aide to Panama's President Roberto Chiari confirmed in Panama City the agreement announced by the OAS. Panama broke diplomatic relations with the United States Jan. 10 after rioting in the Panama Canal Zone left 21 persons dead and some 200 wounded. It said it would not resume relations until the United States agreed to renegotiate the 1903 treaty under which it has perpetual rights to operate the canal. For its part, the United States said resumption of diplomatic relations must precede any talks about the canal's future. Sunday night's announcement by Ambassador Juan Piate of Paraguay, chairman of the special OAS committee investigating the crisis and seeking a reconciliation, said: "The governments of the Republic of Panama and of the United States of America have agreed to re-establish diplomatic relations as soon as possible to seek the prompt elimination of the causes of conflict relative to the Panama Canal." The agreement calls for both countries to "designate special ambassadors with sufficient powers to carry out discussions and negotiations with the objective of reaching a fair and just agreement." It added that diplomatic relations will be resumed "as soon as possible."

Confused Reports Squelches Optimism On Panama Problem

A statement from the U.S. source said: "The United States Government, and the Government of Panama, as of 11 p.m. Sunday, have had no meeting of the minds on either the resumption of relations or the procedures to be followed in an attempt to solve the problems surrounding the Panama disturbances. "The United States Government will welcome a resumption of diplomatic relations with Panama. The United States appreciates the contribution of the OAS delegation and hopes that successful conversations will result from its endeavors."

This is why a Volkswagen has so much legroom in front.

A Volkswagen goes where other cars won't go, even without snow tires. So you forge ahead, with your engine behind you and your legs stretched out in front. If you have very long legs and like to drive in the snow wearing a top hat, you might give the VW some thought.

Friendship Tea Held By Scenic Chapter

A gold and black motif was used Sunday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Paul W. Guy, 1305 Tucson Road, when the Scenic Chapter of the American Business Women's Association held a Hand of Friendship tea.

The tea table was covered with a pale gold chiffon flounce over gold satin and was centered with a shallow gold and black container holding carnations interspersed with forsythia and sprayed gold. Candelabra flanking the arrangement were tied with gold tulle backing gold sprays of carnations and forsythia and held gold candles. Appointments were of silver and crystal.

Low containers holding spring violets from Mrs. Guy's garden were placed throughout the entertaining area.

Guests were received by Mrs. Guy and registered by Mrs. Nathan E. Dietz and Mrs. Stanley L. Bogard. Mrs. Pauline Waits and Mrs. Ila Mae Dunning presided at the tea table.

Members of the house party were Mrs. Royce Satterwhite, Mrs. Leonard E. Burks, Mrs. Frank Goodman, Miss Shirley White, Mrs. William E. Seals and Mrs. Zirah LeFevre. Mrs. Maurine Terrell, pianist, provided background music.

Displayed on a side table were the chapter scrapbook, the cover of which is an original painting of Scenic Mountain; the gold and black satin banner award with three medallions; three scrolls of excellence presented the chapter by the national association; and numerous association literature. Twenty guests called between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m.

The banquet tables, where 275 were seated, were decorated by members of the troops.

Plastic Bags Handy To Store Rolling Pins

Dear Heloise:
I have a small hint in the rolling pin department:
After you have used a piece of oil, waxed paper, or whatever you roll your dough out on... wrap the rolling pin in that same paper, and put it all in a long plastic bag. (French bread bags are wonderful for this.)
It fits perfectly! With room to close the end. It helps to keep the pin clean and won't spill leftover flour out into the cabinet drawer. Marion Deason in a closet (which your husband could make) just for the baby's clothing.

A large diaper pail.
A baby bathtub (and it was plastic). A large enamel dishpan or the kitchen sink are equally handy at bath time.
If the baby is to be formula fed, a sterilizer can be gotten with savings stamps or you can fit a large kettle with a rack and sterilize bottles and nipples in this. A long handled pair of tongs is also useful for formula making.
If baby is to be breast-fed, two or three nursing bottles and nipples will be needed for juice and boiled water.
As you can see, this is not a long list, yet all these items are useful and most necessary.
A bathnet is helpful but certainly not necessary as the kitchen table is excellent for bathing and dressing the baby.
A stroller or a carriage, a high chair and a playpen are all items which are helpful but none of these are really needed until the baby is several months old. These are also items that may be purchased second-hand or with saving stamps.
The government Printing Office publishes an excellent pamphlet on pre-natal care and is also a practical guide on the baby layette, furniture and feeding equipment. It is titled "Pre-Natal Care" and is available for 15 cents by writing to: The Superintendent of Documents, United States Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. . . . Mrs. George Moore

Dear Mommy:
I only wish that I had had the sense you have when I had my babies.
And for that shelf in your closet, anyone can go to a lumber yard and buy scraps of lumber for these shelves. Put one shelf down and a couple of bricks on each end. Put another shelf down and another couple of bricks, etc., and you've got the nicest hidden storage place in town. Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Here's an idea for you before I have that cup of warmed-over coffee... save that old toothbrush!
Discarded toothbrushes are especially good for cleaning combs.
Just a few quick strokes with the brush and sudsy water and the combs are clean. Judith Moran

Steers And Lambs Taken On Resale, Reports Due Later

Seventeen of the steers sold at Thursday night's livestock show auction have been resold to Armour and Piggly Wiggly, Herb Helbig, county farm agent said. Armour and Piggly Wiggly posted a price of 22.30 cents on resale animals. Included in the 17 taken by the packers are the grand champion and the reserve grand champion.

Helbig said that Armour has also taken 130 lambs on resale. The company had posted 22.10 cents as resale for the lambs. Both the steer and lamb resale price were above current market, Helbig pointed out.

Johnny Drake was the steer representative for the Armour company at the sale and Johnny Vestal for lambs.

Helbig said that when Armour slaughters the steers it has acquired at the show, it will send back a detailed report on carcass yield. These reports help the 4-H Club boys and girls and FFA chapters to improve their stock from year to year.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠ KQ 10 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♠ A 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♠ A 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♠ A 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ 3 ♠

What do you bid?

A.—While we are normally disinclined to permit the opponents to play a hand at one, in this case we believe that a pass is clearly indicated. The opponents are playing at your best suit, and it may prove that if you give them another chance the opener might be in a position to show a second suit in hearts.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠ QJ 9 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♠ A K Q ♠ K Q J 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♠ A 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠ 3 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—On the basis of values held, a four spade bid is indicated. However, for strategic purposes we recommended a bid for four clubs. This is to elicit the best opening lead from partner if the opponents should subsequently go to five hearts as a sacrifice bid.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ KJ 10 2 ♠ QJ ♠ J 9 ♠ AKQJ 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's rebid of two hearts is known to the trade as a "reverse bid" and designates a powerful holding for, after this bid, responder, if he wished to return to diamonds, would have to climb to the three level. A reverse bid should normally be based upon a holding of about 19 points. When North subsequently jumped to three hearts, he indicated that his values were principally high cards, that he had more than a mere 19. You have 18 high card points, which means the opponents will be lucky to have as much as a queen, and a bid of seven no trump is in order.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ A ♠ 4 2 ♠ QJ 10 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♠ K Q J 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Double 2 ♠ 2 ♠ 3 ♠

What do you bid?

A.—This is rather a good holding opposite an opening bid and contains sufficient high card values to warrant a redouble, but such a call is not the preferred strategy with this type of hand. My policy in all doubtful cases is to act at once. A pass amounts to burying your hand in the sand. The opponents will no doubt bid hearts and, if it is then your purpose to show your suit, it will be too high for comfort. The suggested call is an immediate bid of two diamonds, and it is likely that you will have an opportunity to show the other suit at a reasonable level, giving a reasonably accurate description of your hand.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ KQJ 8 4 ♠ KQ 10 6 3 ♠ A Q ♠ K

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass 2 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Despite the fact that partner may have a relatively weak hand, you should insist upon a game contract. The recommended call is three hearts. This hand has an original valuation of 20 points and partner has promised at least six in high cards, so that enough values are on hand for a game.

Q. 6—Partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠ Q 8 4 3 2 ♠ A 10 4 ♠ K 9 5 ♠ 8 3

What is your response?

A.—In hearts. A response of one spade should be avoided for it might lead to complications. This hand is not strong enough to justify two forward moving bids. In support of hearts, it is worth only nine points and, therefore, comes within the limit of a single raise.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ 10 2 ♠ AK 10 8 4 ♠ K 9 4 ♠ J 8 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♠ 1 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. Partner's free bid of one no trump indicates a good hand which should normally measure 15 points. Your hand contains 11 which is sufficient for a game contract. Even if partner has shaded his free bid to 13 points, your partnership will have the necessary 26 on which to base a game contract.

Q. 8—Partner opens with one diamond and you hold:

♠ K 9 4 ♠ AQ 10 ♠ J 9 4 ♠ AK 4

What is your response?

A.—Our preference is for a complete descriptive bid all at one shot. Such a bid is three no trump. This hand is evenly balanced and contains 17 points in high cards. We would, therefore, choose to suppress the one-over-one response even if it happens to be a major suit. The reason is that, even if partner happens to have four spades, this hand with double stoppers in both the other suits might play just as well as no trump. A three no trump response to an opening one bid describes a hand with all four suits protected, even distribution, and a point count of 16 to 18 points in high cards.

Future Queen?

For little Arah Aranda of El Paso, the recently concluded Cap Rock Invitational Volleyball Tournament at HCJC was a memorable event. Perhaps she will remember Saturday night the longest when she was presented a trophy and crowned as the mascot of the 1964 tourney. She was all smiles later, as shown in the picture as she sits on Pat Washburn's knee after the ceremony while Sue Lewis, a co-director of the tournament, looks on. Washburn presented her with the trophy and crown.

Hornung, Karras Are Given Green Light

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League today reinstated Paul Hornung and Alex Karras, professional football stars suspended indefinitely last April 17 for gambling activities. The reinstatement goes into effect immediately. Hornung, a member of the Green Bay Packers and three-time scoring champion of the National Football League, and Karras, an outstanding defensive tackle with the Detroit Lions, were set down for betting on football games. At the same time, five other Detroit players were fined the maximum of $2,000 each for betting on one game and the Detroit club was fined $4,000 for laxness in reporting information to the commissioner and in supervising its bench at games. Betting on games is flatly prohibited by a provision in NFL player contracts. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said there was no evidence that the players had bet against their own teams or that they ever had attempted to influence the results of games. Both Hornung and Karras admitted they had made substantial bets of $50 or more over a period of several seasons. The other five—Joe Schmidt, Wayne Walker, John Gordy, Gary Lowe and Sam Williams — bet $50 each and Karras $100 on the Green Bay Packers to beat the New York Giants in the 1962 NFL championship game. The players were in Miami for the Playoff Bowl game and were watching the championship game on television. The bets were placed through a Florida friend of Karras — not a bookmaker. The others said it was done on impulse and that they never had bet on games at any other time. Hornung began betting in 1959 through a West Coast businessman but quit after the 1961 season. His bets on the Packers to win sometimes were as high as $500, though more often they were $50 or $100. The Lions were fined because Coach George Wilson failed to pass on information given by Detroit police about the associates of some Lion players and because sideline passes were is-

Hayes Could Garner Three Gold Medals

By DICK BARNES
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bob Hayes, the world's fastest human, is the American most likely to win an Olympic Games gold medal this year—and he could win three of them. Hayes, a broad-shouldered football player from Florida

A&M, should dominate the 100-yard and 100-meter dashes this season just as he did in 1963, when he was unbeaten and ran history's first 9.1 for 100 yards. He will probably anchor the 400-meter relay team which should win if it passes the baton smoothly. Hayes' 220-yard, 200-meter background also is impressive. With some concentration on the longer race, he could win that gold medal, too. He beat world record holder Henry Carr last year in their only major 220 clash. Carr, who sped around a curve in 20.3 seconds for Arizona State in 1963, must decide which of the three dashes to concentrate on for the Olympics. A history of bad knees could send him up to the 400 meters. He stepped off a series of sub-46 second legs last year for the world record Arizona State mile relay team. Behind Hayes and Carr—if he runs—the 100 and 200 should be wide-open events. Young John Gilbert of the Southern California Striders, NCAA champion Larry Questad, suspended this season from Stanford, and Nate Adams of Purdue seem the best of the remaining century men. Darel Newman of Fresno State, Nebraska freshman Charles Greene and Sam Perry of Fordham are the longshots. Veteran Paul Drayton, the ex-Villanova who makes a habit of running second in the major meets, is a good bet in the 200 with Questad and Adams other U.S. team possibilities. World 400 record holder Adolph Plummer and the man who usually beats him, Arizona State's Uli Williams, should reign supreme in U.S. one-lap racing once again. If Carr skips the Olympic 400, any of a dozen others could be the third American, including Bob Tobler of Brigham Young, Ray Saddler from Texas Southwestern and 1960 Olympian Earl Young. Plummer, Williams, Carr and 400-meter hurdler Rex Cawley should give the United States the first 1600-meter relay team ever to break three minutes. The current world record is 3:02.2.

Golfers Will Vie For $252,000 Loot

DALLAS (AP) — Texas will put up $252,000 for the professional golfers to shoot at this year. It is the largest amount ever posted for the state and is the largest for any state in the nation. The Colonial National Invitation tournament at Fort Worth May 7-10 has the biggest purse—$75,000. The Houston Classic, first tournament of the year, has $50,000. The Houston Classic is scheduled April 16-19. The Texas Open at San Antonio, scheduled April 23-26, will offer $40,000. The Odessa Pro-Amateur July 30-Aug 2 will pay $15,000. The Dallas Open Sept. 4-7 is a $40,000 tournament. In addition to the men's tournaments there will be three for the women pros, the first coming May 21-24 when the Dallas Civitan Open is held. This tournament offers $13,500 in prize money.

TV contract paying $1,500 and the PGA wasn't interested in contending for it. Colonial is putting its TV money into the purse for the players. The Dallas Open's contract does not specify that anything is to be paid to the PGA this year but the PGA is expected to ask that it be included in the 1965 contract.

Judged The Best

When the first annual Cap Rock Invitational Volleyball Tournament at HCJC was concluded Saturday night, the two girls above were presented with the outstanding spike and set trophies. Bettey Conger, Forsan, spike (left), was judged the best of her class while Mary Lattimore of Plains was the top set. Both girls were very surprised to be chosen and most happy as the smiles indicate.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus gave Bruce Devlin the word, and the word won him the $3,300 first prize in the $25,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament. The young Australian, who credited the even younger American with helping him with his iron shots, used them to perfection Sunday as he coasted through the final round with a 72-hole total of 272, four strokes better than Dan Sikens. Sikes made a good run for the top money, with a four-round, par 68 over a wind-blown Lakewood Country Club course. But there was just no catching Devlin. Jacky Cupit also shot a 68, and finished five strokes behind Devlin. He didn't complain about the weather, but he said the wind — which gusts up to 35 miles per hour—made the course three strokes tougher. Tied at 278 were Dave Ragan, Joe Campbell, and Devlin's friend and avid supporter, Nicklaus. Dow Finsterwald, who scored a rare double eagle on the 501-yard No. 2 hole with a booming four-wood shot, came in fifth with 279. His double eagle contributed to a final round 68. Unbeaten UCLA came from behind for its 28th straight victory, a 76-72 edge over San Francisco for the Western regional title at Corvallis, Ore. Michigan clipped Ohio Univ. 69-57 for the Midwest title at Minneapolis and third-ranked Duke blasted Connecticut 101-54 for the Eastern crown at Raleigh, N.C. In games for third place, Villanova beat Princeton 74-62 in the East, Texas Western took Creighton 63-52 in the Midwest, Chicago Loyola outscored Kentucky 100-91 in the Midwest and Seattle defeated Utah State 88-78 in the West.

Cassius 'X' Could Take On Patterson

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius X says he's willing to defend the honor of the Black Muslims in a winner-take-all fight with former title holder Floyd Patterson. "We're interested in such a fight, but I'm afraid we'll find that Clay isn't serious," Bolan said. "It wouldn't be the first time that a fighter said something he didn't mean seriously." Clay, a follower of Black Muslim leader Elijah Muhammad, was in Chicago for a conference with Muhammad. Patterson, a Roman Catholic, had made the original offer to fight Clay "for no purse, just for the opportunity to take the title away from Clay and the Muslims."

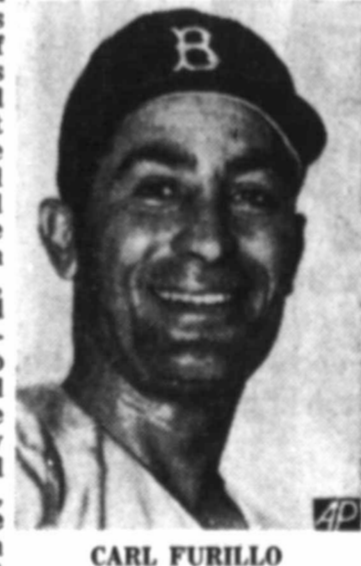

Speedy Quartet

The four boys above, who make up Howard County Junior College's 440-yard and mile relay teams, are showing signs of being the school's fastest four-man crew in history. The action was in practice late last week before the Coleman meet. Bruce Teagarden is shown taking the baton from John Perry on a practice pass while A. J. Williams (left) and Steve Langham look on. Teagarden is the only sophomore of the group.

PAT WASHBURN'S The Roundtable

Although the Forsan Buffalo Queens were eliminated in the second round of the recently completed Cap Rock Invitational Volleyball Tournament in the HCJC gym, they were still one of the top teams in action. It is unfortunate that the Queens had to meet Plains (who beat them in two out of three games) this early in the tourney, instead of in the finals. And if the Queens had been in the top bracket and not in the bottom, it's a good bet that the two clubs would have ended up in a spectacular duel for all the honors. Head coach JAMES BLAKE has done a fabulous job at Forsan when it comes to girls' sports. In fact, it's probably the best all-around job in the area. First, he coached the girls basketball squad to a District 83-B championship and took them to the finals of the Class B regionals before they were knocked off by eventual state champ, Trent. And then, with only two days practice, he gives Plains its best competition of the tournament. That's not too surprising, though. Blake has a lot of girls back off his team that won the Class B state championship in volleyball in 1963. Plains was glad to come out with a win. Like one of the girls said after the match: "They've had only two days of practice and we've been at it all year. I'd hate to see what they'll do when they work out a few days." Incidentally, Blake is the same man that was an assistant on the Forsan football team that battled Jayton in bi-district after winning the district crown last fall.

CARL FURILLO

FOR YANKEE LOVERS: YOGI BERRA had this to say recently: "Sometimes you try harder just because you're a Yankee." RON FAIRLY of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers: "The Yankees have a great team. If we play them again (in the World Series) they're liable to beat us four straight. Man for man they probably have a better club. But they don't have the pitching staff that we do." More on baseball: CARL FURILLO, former Dodger outfielder, talking about being at bat with men on base: "When you look at those base runners don't let them represent men. Each one is a dollar sign. The more dollars you knock in, the more money it's going to put in your pocket." Out of the American Association of Retired Persons magazine: "Any baseball team could use a man who plays every position superbly, never strikes out and never makes an error... but there's no way to make him lay down his hot dog and come out of the grandstands."

Among those interested in the basketball coaching job recently vacated at Big Spring High School by DELNOR POSS is H. W. Harmon, the mentor at Dell City... The golf pro at Ridgelea Country Club in Fort Worth, when asked what he did when he saw two foxes on the course recently, replied: "I reported them to the rules committee. Neither one was a member." TERRY WILLIAMS, Howard County's talented freshman basketball guard who was second high scorer on the team with 465 points in 32 games, will not be wearing the colors of the Jayhawks in next winter's campaign. He's planning to join brother Zeke at Texas Western in the fall. Terry will go out for the Miners' basketball and track squads. Zeke, one of the top cinder men for Texas Western, is reported to have run a :09.3 hundred... JOE SCHMIDT, middle linebacker of the Detroit Lions, talking about red-dogging: "I have to wait till the last second, and as soon as the ball is snapped, I have a picture in my mind where the ball is going from the moves of my keys. Then, when I see the ball, I get going. But even if the whole team knows a strong back like JIM TAYLOR (of the Green Bay Packers) will be carrying, it's like facing a pitcher who throws nothing but high, hard ones. You know it's coming—but you have to hit it."

Major Leaguers Show Good Hitting

This is the time of year when the pitchers are supposed to be ahead of the hitters. Maybe so, but those weren't grapefruits rattling off the walls Sunday, as the major leaguers wound up the first big weekend of exhibition action. They were baseballs, and by the time they stopped bouncing the big leaguers had scored a total of 129 runs in 11 games. However, one fellow was ahead of the batters. That was Warren Spahn. Spahnie allowed one hit in three innings, and Milwaukee went on to defeat the Washington Senators 2-0, in the only shutout of the day. Elsewhere, the Pittsburgh Pirates had the biggest day at bat as they feasted on the pitching of the Kansas City Athletics for the second straight day. This time the score was 15-7, and the Pirates had seven home runs, including three by rookie infielder Gene Alley. The Pirates whipped the Athletics 14-1 Saturday. The Baltimore Orioles also made it two in a row over the New York Yankees as they raked Stan Williams and his successors for nine runs in the second inning and won 10-1. Minnesota had a six-run seventh inning in a 9-6 victory over Detroit. Jimmie Hall hit a

Charges Reds Keeping It Alive

CLEBURNE (AP) — Robert Morris, Republican candidate for U.S. senator, said Sunday that "the Soviet advance guard is keeping alive the 'hate Dallas' concept."

He told a reception group here that "the hate Dallas theme is still being systematically instilled into Communist transmission belts."

Morris said it was being done "obviously as an anchor for a systematic smearing by association for the November elections."

Liz, Burton Tie The Knot

MONTREAL (AP) — "Elizabeth and I are very happy," said Richard Burton after he and Elizabeth Taylor were married Sunday in a quiet ceremony that contrasted sharply with their widely publicized romance.

The simple, single-ring ceremony was performed in the royal suite of Montreal's Ritz-Carlton Hotel by the Rev. Leonard Mason, pastor of the Unitarian Church of the Messiah. Eleven guests attended.

It was the fifth marriage for Miss Taylor, 32, one of the film world's highest paid and most beautiful stars. Burton, 38, son of a Welsh miner, had been married once.

The couple was to return today to Toronto where Burton is playing the lead in a production of "Hamlet" due in New York next month.

The bride wore a yellow chiffon gown designed by Hollywood's Irene Sharaff. She carried a bouquet of yellow freesia. Burton wore a sprig of it in his lapel.

Robert Wilson, a friend of Burton's from New York City, was best man. There was no announcement of who attended Miss Taylor. A champagne party followed the ceremony.

The romance began two years ago when Burton played Anthony to Miss Taylor's Cleopatra in the Rome production of that movie.

The wedding was shrouded in secrecy. Eluding reporters in Toronto, the couple flew to Montreal in a chartered airliner and were whisked off to the hotel.

This was in sharp contrast to the fanfare surrounding Miss Taylor's marriages to hotel heir Conrad Hilton Jr., actor Michael Wilding, Mike Todd, the late producer, and singer Eddie Fisher.

The couple remained in the hotel after the ceremony, secluded from the press, who got the news of the marriage from John Springer, the couple's press agent.

Miss Taylor was converted to Judaism at the time of her marriage to Todd. Burton told an interviewer last year he had no conventional religion.

The marriage capped a courtship that spanned two continents and continued in the glare of publicity until two Mexican divorces left the couple free to wed.

Burton's wife Sybil obtained a divorce last fall. Miss Taylor's decree from Fisher was held up by complications until March 5.

Depositors Get Money

MARLIN, Tex. (AP) — The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. was scheduled to start paying depositors of the defunct First National Bank of Marlin today.

Up to $10,000 will be paid immediately on proof of claim. FDIC Chairman Joseph Barr Haas announced.

The payments are expected to continue for several weeks. Depositors will have 18 months to present claims.

The bank was declared insolvent and closed March 10 by James Saxon, comptroller of currency.

The FDIC was named receiver. Barr and an 18-member crew of liquidation and claim agents flew to this Central Texas city last week to prepare for the payments.

Efforts continue, meanwhile, to unravel the tangled affairs of the bank.

Armed with a court order, Houston officers last week impounded 45 manila envelopes containing assets reportedly worth about $900,000.

Covered A Lot Of Ground, But Did Not Say Very Much

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson sat down this weekend with the top reporters of the three major networks for an hour of conversation.

He discussed subjects that ranged from Bobby Baker and Robert F. Kennedy to Henry Cabot Lodge and Charles de Gaulle. He covered much ground, but the principal result of the program was to give the public its first real chance to see the President on an informal basis.

His interviewers — William Lawrence of ABC, Eric Sevareid of CBS and David Brinkley of NBC — acted like well-mannered guests in the President's home.

President Johnson seemed slightly nervous at the beginning of the program, but became more relaxed and easier as the time passed.

There were none of the Kennedy leavenings of wit in the exchanges—Johnson did not even smile often.

Actually, he did not say very much on any one subject, but he never really ducked one during the hour.

A few of those bright, light moments of Kennedy repartee were shown Friday night after Robert F. Kennedy's memoir of his brother on NBC's Jack Paar program. They were films from various press conferences.

In spite of the time, money and effort that the networks poured into covering the New Hampshire primary, preliminary audience surveys indicate that most members' television viewers preferred the usual entertainment shows.

A ratings study made in the New York metropolitan area showed that while NBC was broadcasting its mid-evening politics special, most viewers were tuned to Red Skelton on CBS. When CBS was showing its special report, most viewers moved on to ABC's "Greatest Show on Earth."

DEAR ABBY The Care Of A Son

DEAR ABBY: My son is now 14 years old. My husband and I were divorced three years ago. The law officer told me at that time that when the boy reached the age of 13 he could choose which parent he wanted to live with. Well, he chose his father, and the officials told me that I couldn't even see the boy unless he wanted to come and see me. This week he came to my house. His shoes were worn out, his clothes were a mess, and he looked as though he hadn't had a haircut in six months. He had money in his pocket, though. I always kept him looking nice. Abby, what kind of laws do we have that let a 14-year-old boy go around looking like a bum? Or is there any such law? I think I have been tricked.

A WOMAN FROM N. H. DEAR WOMAN: Ignorance is the least offensive of your egg man's shortcomings. Assure your husband that you can buy "fresh and reasonable" eggs from someone who is not so bigoted, vicious and destructive. Then prove it.

A BUM'S MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: Your husband apparently is not looking after the boy properly. Talk this over with a lawyer, or go to the local Legal Aid Society and find out what can be done in a case like this.

DEAR ABBY: Since we moved to this state, seven years ago, we've bought our eggs from the same egg man. Soon after the tragic death of our beloved President I went to buy our eggs as usual, so it was natural for me to say, "Wasn't it heartbreaking about Mr. Kennedy?" Abby, his reply was so cruel I can't even repeat it. In the past he has made remarks about "dirty Jews" and "niggers." But knowing that my religion was the same as President Kennedy's, I never expected him to say what he said. I told my husband that I will never again buy eggs from that man. My husband said I am foolish. His eggs are fresh and reasonable, and I shouldn't quit buying from him just because he is ignorant. I would like your opinion.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a person who quarrels in front of company?

WONDERING DEAR WONDERING: Not much. And it's good to remember that TWO is company.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hearings Open On Proposal To Tag Smokes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Paul Dixon of the Federal Trade Commission today extended to April 15 the time for filing opinions on its proposal to tag cigarette packages with a health warning.

In a statement at the opening of hearings on the proposal, Dixon said the commission originally stated such views should be filed not later than March 2.

He gave no specific reason for the extension, but indicated that it was because the original call brought numerous responses.

Dixon also said: "Our concern here is whether, in light of the report of the advisory committee to the surgeon general of the Public Health Service on smoking and health, the public interest requires remedial action by the commission with respect to the labeling and advertising of cigarettes."

"If such remedial action is called for, it would appear to have a direct bearing on the entire cigarette industry; therefore, the commission has determined to approach the problem on an industrywide basis through its trade regulation rule proceedings."

The advisory committee to the surgeon general said cigarette smoking is a health hazard and contributes "substantially to mortality from certain specific diseases and the overall death rate."

The Tobacco Institute, a major spokesman for the tobacco industry, has already indicated it is contemplating a court challenge of the commission's authority to issue rules regulating cigarette labeling.

In the wake of the surgeon general's report Jan. 11 that cigarette smoking is a hazard to health, the commission proposed that every cigarette advertisement and every cigarette package carry this warning: "Caution: Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health. It may cause death from cancer and other diseases."

The commission also proposes a ban on advertising which suggests that smoking cigarettes promotes health or general well-being.

A final commission decision is not expected for months.

Webb Instructor Named Alternate

Capt. Walter E. Schmidt, Webb Air Force Base officer training instructor, has been named one of the two alternates to attend the Aerospace Research Pilot School at Edwards AFB, Calif., in May.

The announcement also identified the 10 principals who are expected to attend the year-long class beginning in May.

Two of the 10 principals came from Air Force Systems Command; six came from the Strategic Air Command; and two came from Tactical Air Command. The other alternate is a TAC member.

The next class of ARPS at Edwards will be next December.

About 60 Air Force officers have been graduated or are in training at the school. Capt. James Hurt, a former instructor pilot at Webb, left here in November for the year-long course.

Those selected to attend are picked from volunteers by a Headquarters USAF board. Officers may volunteer under the provisions of AFR 53-19.

Capt. Schmidt is from Milwaukee and is a graduate of the

CAPT. WALTER SCHMIDT

Air Force Academy, class of '59. He was a member of the first class to graduate from the AFA.

After graduation, where he was in the top quarter of his class, Capt. Schmidt went through primary pilot training at Moore AFB, Texas. In February 1960 he came to Webb where he completed his basic flying training and became a jet pilot instructor at Webb.

In January 1963 he became a tactical instructor and is now an officer training instructor.

He is married to the former Beverly Douglas of Milwaukee. The Schmidts have two children: Heidi, 3, and Kathy, 1. They live at 71-A Ent in Webb Village.

Last Rites For Judge Rice

MARLIN, Tex. (AP)—Last rites for U.S. Dist. Judge Ben H. Rice were held at the First Presbyterian Church here today.

The 74-year-old jurist, a native of Marlin, died Saturday. He had been ill for some time.

Before he was appointed a federal judge by President Harry Truman in 1945, Rice was chief justice of the 10th District Court of Civil Appeals in Waco.

He was chief federal judge for the Western District of Texas until 1962 and continued to serve on the bench at Waco, Austin and San Antonio.

Rice was the son of the late Judge and Mrs. Ben H. Rice. His father served as associate judge of the 3rd District Court of Civil Appeals from 1907 to 1918.

Former Pastors Speak Here

At 7:30 p.m. services this week at First Methodist Church, several former pastors will be speaking. This evening the Rev. Alsie Carleton, Dallas, left, will be in the church's sanctuary which was started during his tenure. His successor in the ministry here, the Rev. Jordan Grooms, Amarillo, right, will be here Tuesday evening, Wednesday the Rev. DeWitt Seagon, Brownfield, will deliver the sermon, and Thursday, Dr. J. O. Haymes, Lubbock. A fellowship hour will follow the services so old friends may visit.

A Devotional For The Day

Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. (Matthew 11:28.)
PRAYER: Almighty God, our heavenly Father, we praise Thee because Thou hast lifted the burden of sin from those who trust in Thee. Teach us to love Thee well — with all our hearts and in all our ways, and seek to do deeds worthy of Thy goodness and mercy to us. In the name of Christ. Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

Full Cycle Around

During World War II the technique of low-level bombing (as in the first raid on Tokyo) was developed to a fine art, only to be succeeded in the end by high-level bombers. In the years since the high-flying bomber—50,000 feet or more—has been the reigning favorite.
Now, coming full circle, Navy and Air Force flyers are turning once again to low-level bombing experiments. This, it is thought, may be the answer to increasingly sophisticated radar and highly effective anti-aircraft rockets.
But a new and vexing problem has arisen. During World War II relatively slow propeller planes posed no great problems for pilots. But the latest jet planes (the newest can exceed 2,000 miles an hour) present pilots with an almost impossible problem in navigation. Flying at heights of 100 to 1,000 feet, engrossed in the problem of avoiding natural or man-made obstacles, pilots tend to get "lost"— technically known as "geographically disoriented." Pilots may suddenly discover that they no longer know the relationship of their plane to its assigned target.

Equally as important from the engineering point of view is the tremendous strain placed on the airframe of high-speed planes flying at low altitude. A plane designed to fly, say, at 1,500 miles an hour at 60,000 feet, performs poorly at 1,000 feet, exposed to the buffeting of turbulent air near ground levels, taxing skin and frame structures to the limits of their capacity—if not beyond.
The experimentation is proceeding, but no final conclusions have been reached. Much more rugged airframe design may be needed, plus new refinements in the field of aerial navigation at low levels and high speeds. But the potential rewards are great—extending for many years into the future the role of the manned bomber in offensive strategy.

Ponderous Pet Load

It is a truism that there are several ways of looking at any given batch of statistics. This applies to the figures, about which there has been some oh-ing and ah-ing lately, on the amount Americans spend to keep their pets fed and contented.
The figures are startling enough. It seems that there are now more than 55 million dogs and cats in the United States, and that we spend more on their food—exclusive, no doubt, of table scraps—than we do on baby food. Two and a half times as much, indeed—in excess of $550 million last year. Altogether, Americans spent some $821 million on pet supplies in 1963.
That total can be played with in various ways. For example, it is almost half as much as the entire outlay for direct state expenditures on hospitals and health. It just about matches the sum spent by the six heaviest spending states in this category.

Or compare it, say, with a recent estimate that a waterway to supplement the Panama Canal could be dug in five or six years for about a billion dollars. This means that while the canal was abiding we would have spent four or five times its total cost on pet supplies. It does not take much imagination, either, to see how what we spend on pets must compare with spending for the bare necessities of life in various small, underdeveloped countries.
It is a matter of priorities. The one ameliorating thing to be said is that pets are not an unconscionable luxury, but a source of joy and satisfaction that would be hard to match. Though $821 million is an enormous sum for pet supplies in a world of many needs, Americans spend even bigger sums on far more foolish things.

Richard Starnes A Man Welcomes A Lady

WASHINGTON—Yes, your worship, what the distinguished prosecutor alleges is true: I was, indeed, staring at the young lady in a manner that might well have been prejudicial to good order and discipline.
In point of fact, your revered judgment, it would not be a complete distortion of the truth to say I was leering at her shamelessly—ogling, you might say.
GUILTY? Well, yes and no, your exalted importance. The facts are as alleged in the indictment. Stare I did. Leer I must have. Ogle I very likely did. Moreover, had it not been for the zeal and bravery of the catchpoll sitting there waiting to bear witness against me, I might even have essayed a ree-fined whistle. But I pray your compassionate magistracy will permit me to adduce evidence in mitigation of sentence.
Thank you, your honor. Now, first let me say that either the winters are getting a lot longer or I'm getting a lot shorter. Only dimly can I remember the last delicious, tawny days of Indian summer. In my mind there has been an endless, dreary succession of days and weeks where the sun put in only the most perfunctory of appearances—just barely enough to qualify for flight pay, if I am any judge.
FOR THE REST of it we've had a dismal repertory of sleet, snow, slush and bleak, poisonous rains.
And catarrhs, your merciful highness. Colds, hyper-secretion in the sinus cavities of the headbone. Coughs, sneezes, aches, pains, rheumatisms and other disabilities—all caused by winter.
Point? Of course, there's a point. I am, with all due respect, merely trying to show that the defendant is a normally upstanding citizen who has been traumatized beyond human endurance by the vile distemper of climate we call winter.
NOW PICTURE it, if you will. Here is this whey-faced, stooped, winter-worn wraith slumping along the sidewalk, wondering if the rope is to be preferred to the gaspise, when suddenly there she is—dappled in warm sunlight, a gentle zephyr tugging playfully at her curls, a coquettish smile on her lips. Spring, your honor. Eternally spring, singing her siren song to replenish the human spirit.

Spring. Wearing a flowered chiffon that suggests the brave forsythia, and a fetching little hat that is just the color of the azalea by the garden gate.
STARING AMOROUSLY? Guilty as charged. But, your kindness, the man who doesn't react that way to the first blush of spring ought to be hauled away by the Board of Health.
Here was this everlasting charmer smiling at me and all the rest of the world, with a smile that carried the promise of flowers and trees returning magically to life, of kids flying kites in skies as blue as a Bromo Seltzer bottle, of birds moving into their old digs in the backyard, of chucking a baseball back and forth with the tads, of hunchbacked bumblebees shopping among the clover, of nature's unquenchable newness, of another beginning of the great and mysterious cycle of life, of hope for better days, of gratitude that we've all somehow made it again and survived another cheerless bout with...
CASE DISMISSED? And court adjourned? Yes, your understanding decency, she's waiting for me right outside, and I'd be delighted to introduce you to her.

Billy Graham

I am in a hospital and taking extended therapy. I believe that God wanted me here. I have been praying for an opening, and I believe this is it. I want very much to be a dynamic Christian, but I don't know how. Could you please help me?
S. U.
You are finding, as many have, that we can often see God more clearly when we are on our back. Affliction makes you akin to the millions of the world who are suffering. Perhaps God is preparing you, even in the furnace of affliction, for a more far-reaching ministry.
Father Damien, after working 11 years among the lepers of Molokai, was writing a pleading letter to friends back home, and he used the phrase, "the lepers." Suddenly, he stopped as if paralyzed. He had seen the fatal white spot on his own hand which signified that he had contracted leprosy. He then crossed out "the lepers," and wrote "we lepers." Not until that moment had he suffered with the lepers. Being one of them, he could minister much better to them.
The Bible says: "Our light affliction is but for a moment, and worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." This illness can be a stepping stone to great usefulness. May you use it wisely!

LONG WAY FROM SAN FRANCISCO

James Marlow Not Wasting His Shots

WASHINGTON (AP) — No body can get mad at President Johnson for what he said in a television-radio interview Sunday night. He saw to that. He said he wanted to be a "people's president."
He spent an hour assuring as many as possible about his stewardship, even mentioning how he has the lights turned off in the White House closets to save money.
WOULD-BE Republican presidential candidates have been critical of him, not criticizing one another, though some times they seem to be stretching hard to find something to hit him with.
So far he hasn't given them much excuse for criticism. Since he succeeded President Kennedy he has carefully said and done all the popular things, even to the point of some times sounding corny.

Again Sunday night he was restrained and pleasant about the Republicans, which is exactly what could be expected from a politician as good as Johnson.
At this particular time they're not hurting Johnson, although they may be hurting one another, and the polls show he is doing fine with the public.
SO THERE wouldn't be much political sense in wasting shots on the small mob of would-be candidates now milling around. He can go on the offensive next summer after the Republicans finally pick their candidate.
But there is something else to be remembered in Johnson's avoidance of direct personal assaults. This is exactly in the tradition of President Kennedy and Eisenhower who found it a highly successful technique.

To Your Good Health How To Select A Physician In A New Area

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: My wife (she is 66 years old) and I (77) expect to move to another city. Can you advise us on the proper procedure in selecting a family physician there?—A. F. G.
You are one in a thousand, my friend, because so many people don't think about selecting a doctor until there's an emergency.
Ask your present physician to recommend someone in the new city, or else to refer you directly.
If you have any chronic problem that needs watching, your doctor may know, or be able to discover for you, a specialist there.
He may know a surgeon or ear-nose-throat specialist or even a pathologist (the pathologists know who is who in their community!) who can advise them or recommend someone who will suit your needs.
If none of these ideas fits and you have to move "cold," you can always learn from friends and neighbors which hospitals are the major ones. I assume that you will have friends in the new city—you aren't going to a completely strange place. Then write or phone the hospital. Having one lung, he has to be extra careful of his breathing capacity, but that's the whole story right there.

NOTE TO MRS. M. E. S.: The day of the month (as the 18th, or 21st or fifth, or whatever) usually has nothing to do with the menstrual cycle. A 28-day cycle is average; some departure from this, a few days more or less, is perfectly normal for some.
"Vitamin starvation" is possible even if you eat a lot. In order to check your diet to make sure you are getting necessary nourishment, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for a copy of the pamphlet, "Vitamins—The Alphabet of Health." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.
Dr. Molner is always glad to hear from his readers, and whenever possible he uses their questions in his column, but because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, he cannot answer individual letters.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A woman who'd parked her car near grazing sheep herd on the outskirts of Phoenix decided to take a lamb as a pet.

"He wouldn't miss one," argued the woman.
"He would," replied Epil. "I am the owner."

Around The Rim Watch That Lightning

Upwards to 300 Americans are killed by lightning each year and another 1,750 are injured, usually not too severely. More than 60 per cent of the deaths occur between noon and 6 p.m. and only one fourth of the fatalities are women.
No, the female doesn't have any built-in immunity against lightning—it's just that the men are out-of-doors more.
YOU MIGHT run a greater risk than you think in a thunder storm. Across the world in a year's time, the number of lightning flashes amounts to 2,000,000 or 100 every second. Central Florida has the highest concentration of lightning in the country but the state can't hold a candle to remote places like India, parts of South America, the Caribbean islands, the northern tip of Australia and the southern section of interior Africa.
The odds against lightning booming into your home are figured at about a million to one—and even higher if you live in a steel frame apartment house.
CITY DWELLERS are safer from the menace than their country cousins. It doesn't help to close the window and using the telephone during a thunderstorm is not considered dangerous. Shutting off the lights, radio and-or television set doesn't enhance your chances either. The center of a room, away from such appliances, is considered more safe, however. Too, the lower floor is a better risk than upstairs.
Don't, I repeat, don't ever stand under a tree during a lightning storm, especially an isolated tree. About one fourth of the deaths which result from lightning each year are persons who took refuge under a tree.

OAK TREES appear to be the greatest magnets for lightning. Beeches are the least likely to be struck.
Air currents have been known to attract lightning so walk, do not run, to the nearest building if caught out in a storm.
Swimming isn't recommended during a thunderstorm. Small boats are also dangerous under such conditions and metal fishing rods should be left alone.
ONE OF THE safest places to be in an automobile, unless you're driving and can't see the road for the rain. When lightning hits the earth, the flash you see is traveling up, not down. The downward stroke is invisible until the earth's electrical charge leaps up to meet it.
The energy produced in an average lightning bolt is enough to light a million electric bulbs—if you could bottle it.
AND COUNT your blessings when the lightning plays about. It must be counted as one of mankind's greatest benefactors. Each year it sprinkles 100 million tons of free fertilizer on the earth, in the form of fixed nitrogen falling with the rain. And the show you usually get can't be duplicated anywhere, if you stop to watch it rather than scoot under the covers until it is over. —TOMMY HART

David Lawrence Republicans Missed The Issues

WASHINGTON — Maybe it was Lyndon Johnson who won the primary for both parties—in New Hampshire. For whether Republicans like it or not, their various candidates who did go out on the stump and express themselves failed to make a case against the Johnson administration. As for the man who got the biggest number of votes—Henry Cabot Lodge he didn't say a word against the incumbent regime in Washington or participate in the campaign at all.
JUST WHAT do the voters in New Hampshire, therefore, think about national problems? There isn't any way to determine it by examining the results of the ballot. They may like one candidate's looks better than another's. Or, as the saying goes, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder," and Ambassador Lodge could derive considerable support on that score as he sojourns in Viet Nam.
The weakness in the Republican strategy was all too clearly apparent in the New Hampshire primary. The mission of a party out of power is to tell the people what's wrong with the party in power. The average voter doesn't get much satisfaction out of a campaign in which the ambition of one man to win the nomination is merely publicized over that of another.
ACTUALLY, Barry Goldwater, Nelson Rockefeller, Margaret Chase Smith, and Harold Stassen—who's names were printed on the ballot—aren't well known to the New Hampshire voters, whereas Henry Cabot Lodge, coming as he does from New England, has made an impression in that part of the country for a long time. As a matter of fact, Mr. Lodge was probably the best known of all the candidates to the New Hampshire voters, with the possible exception of Vice President Nixon, whose name also wasn't on the ballot.
BUT SINCE there is something more deep-rooted in the New Hampshire verdict. It is the fundamental fact that in a national campaign people are often not as much interested in personalities as they are in issues. Is the economic condition of the country well balanced? Is prosperity ahead? Is there going to be a war, and is the young man in the family going to be drafted? There may be only a superficial interest in such places as Viet Nam and Cyprus, but there's a deep interest in whether the United States is going to become involved in a war or whether it is going to maintain the peace.

For this reason, many speeches made by the candidates who did campaign in New Hampshire were wide of the mark. They didn't concentrate on the basic faults of the Democratic administration, nor did they analyze its policies in relation to the future impact of those policies on the citizens.
ECONOMIC CONDITIONS are fundamental with the voters. In times of discontent, the people blame the administration in power and vote against it at the next election. None of the Republican campaigners, including those who made speeches for Ambassador Lodge, hammered home effectively the defects in the Democratic administration in relation to the welfare of the citizen, particularly his economic future.
The New Hampshire primary is a conspicuous example of how difficult it is in America for a disunited political party to give to the voters an image of responsibility. The party leaders are in Washington, and most of them in Congress are fighting day by day on important pieces of legislation, but there is no attempt to organize a party position or anything that even resembles a platform until convention time actually comes.
There were 85,000 votes cast in last week's Republican primary, as compared with 157,000 Republican votes in the 1960 presidential election. Since the Republican vote was split into several different groups, and no candidate got anywhere near a majority, it reflects the lack of agreement and the discord within the Republican party itself.

Holmes Alexander Canada And The War On Poverty

WASHINGTON — Sometime this summer the Canadian Parliament will go through the formality of endorsing the Columbia River Treaty which the U. S. Senate ratified back in March, 1961—and a new trade relationship in the exciting commodity of electrical power between the two North American nations will become official.
THE STORY is long and intricate, going back to the teens of the 20th century, but one of its several ramifications relates to President Johnson's War on Poverty. He has hoped to wage this conflict principally in the coal area called Appalachia, stretching from Pennsylvania to Alabama. This region sells a lot of its coal to the electric-generating plants on the East Coast.
Recently the Consolidated Edison Company, which heats, lights and air-conditions much of New York City, regretfully abandoned the idea of a coal-consuming nuclear power plant on Long Island. As a substitute, the company is now negotiating with the enthusiastic support of Washington, an agreement to buy power from a yet-to-be-developed hydroplant at Hamilton Falls in the wilds of Labrador.
AS MIGHT BE expected, the coal companies of Appalachia and the United Mine Workers have emitted cries of outrage. By planning to import Canadian electricity, they say in brief, we are sabotaging the future of American prosperity and jobs. The Bureau of Mines estimates that it takes 400 miners and 200 transport workers each year to deliver a million tons of coal to the Atlantic seacoast. The Consolidated Edison Company alone buys five million tons a year—accounting for 3,000 jobs, mostly in West Virginia and Kentucky, where jobless families are living on government food packages.

THE MATTER, of course, is highly complex. The Con Ed Company is working for its stockholders and consumers. The coal producers are trying to develop future markets. The Union's chief interest is jobs. Everybody in the picture is well aware that the advance of automation has to be recognized, and that new methods in coal mining must meet competition from development in the production and delivery of other forms of energy—oil, gas and falling water. But with the federal government in the picture, the situation seems, to turn on several factors that are outside of the domestic economy.
AT THIS WRITING, the Johnson administration is bent on exploiting the friendliness of the new Liberal government under Canada's Prime Minister Lester Pearson. Trade in electricity between the Canadian provinces and the American states can be made to span the entire unguarded border that runs from New England, across the Great Lakes area to the Pacific Coast.
ANOTHER AND somewhat romantic factor in the considerations is that Hamilton Falls, 70 miles in the fastness of the northeast of Montreal, is a stupendous waterfall, one of the greatest power sources on the continent, capable of producing 20 million kilowatts, which is ten times greater than the output of Grand Coulee Dam.
All these considerations, exciting though they may be, do not alter the home truths about Appalachia. The Johnson administration is hung up on an old dilemma: Should it sacrifice American domestic interests to those more glamorous ones of an international spectacular?

Johnson Says 'Feud' Is Just 'Talk'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he has no indication that Henry Cabot Lodge plans to leave his post as ambassador to South Viet Nam. "If he did, I am sure he would let me know," Johnson told a nationwide radio and television audience Sunday night. He added that the ambassador, whose political stock boomed with victory in New Hampshire's Republican presidential primary, has tended to business and behaved properly.

On his own side of the political fence, Johnson dismissed as "newspaper talk" reports of a rift with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and said he has taken Kennedy's word that he has done nothing to encourage efforts to boom the attorney general for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

Johnson said he hopes the Democrats will not campaign actively until after this summer's convention, although he said he intends to "carry out some commitments that President Kennedy made for fundraising dinners from time to time."

Politics and foreign policy dominated the hour-long "Conversation with the President" broadcast by the ABC, CBS and NBC radio and television networks. These were among the chief executive's other major pronouncements:

—He has had no contact with his old friend, Bobby Baker, since Baker resigned in October as secretary to the Senate Democrats. The President said Baker could not properly be called his protegee because "he was there before I came to the Senate for 10 years."

—He intends to be "a people's president." And he will continue to mix with crowds even though his bodyguards "would feel better if the president kept 100 yards distance from every human being."

—Congress should make certain the nation always has a vice president, but he doesn't have any "deep-set views on just how that should be done."

—His most vivid memory of the days following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy is of Mrs. Kennedy. "I saw her greatness, her gallantry, her graciousness, her courage and it will always be a vivid memory."

Johnson said the presidency "is a much tougher job from the inside than I thought it was from the outside." But he said "I am enjoying what I am doing" and "I never felt better in my life."

"I may not be a great president," he said, "but as long as I am here, I'm going to try to be a good president."

Ship To Open To The Public

GALVESTON (AP)—The Savannah, world's first atomic-powered merchant ship, will be open to the public here next weekend.

The ship will go to Houston May 5 for a week of public visiting and then tour major East Coast ports.

In June she will make her maiden trans-Atlantic voyage, the first of four trips to Europe this year.

The Savannah recently completed three weeks of sea trials in the Gulf of Mexico. The ship's master, Capt. David McMichael, described its performance as most satisfactory.

A strike of engineers prevented the vessel's visiting Houston in May of last year and making the East Coast and European tour.

The Savannah is a joint venture of the Atomic Energy Commission and the maritime administration of the Department of Commerce. It now has a new agent and new crew.

Key Was Right About Stripes

BALTIMORE (AP)—Francis Scott Key wasn't kidding about those "broad stripes" when he wrote the Star-Spangled Banner in 1814.

The flag which withstood the British bombardment of Fort M'Henry in Baltimore and inspired Key to write the song that became the National Anthem had stripes two feet wide.

Seventy-five Maryland women have used more than three miles of thread and about 500,000 stitches in reproducing the flag, reputed to be the largest American flag ever flown in battle. The banner measures 42 feet by 30 feet and weighs 75 pounds.

When the flag is completed it will be displayed in the Maryland Pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

Convict Points Out Woman's Grave

DOE RUN, Mo. (AP) — An Oklahoma convict was expected to be returned to Cook County, Ill., today after finding the grave of a woman believed to have been killed near Chicago in 1961.

The convict, Charles Lubbes, 42, found the woman's skeleton Sunday. It was buried in a four-foot grave near this Southeast Missouri community, 60 miles south of St. Louis. The grave was hidden in woods, a quarter mile from a lonely country road. Cook County authorities believe the woman was Mrs. Jean Moritz, mother of two small girls who was fatally shot Feb. 24, 1961, in a tavern near Chicago. They will try to identify her positively from false teeth. Oklahoma Gov. Henry Bellmon allowed Lubbes a 60-day leave last week after the convict offered to help find the grave. He then was released to the custody of Daniel Ward, Cook County state's attorney.

Residents Of Five States Cleaning Up

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — After a week-long battle against the bloated Ohio River, residents of five states worked today to clean up a flood that has caused an estimated $100 million damage and has claimed a dozen lives.

Federal planners joined with governments of Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania to help the estimated 110,000 persons affected by the worst Ohio River valley flood in 19 years.

The crest on the Ohio surged downriver and passed Owensboro where some residents have returned home. Others must wait for the flood to dip further before they can return to mud-coated property which they fled last week. The U.S. Weather Bureau says it will be a week before the river drops to flood stage at most points between Louisville and Cairo, Ill.

The Ohio leaked under a floodwall in Cannelton, Ind., Sunday, but officials said there appeared no danger to waterfront residents. Sandbags blocked the water's path and Civil Defense workers were standing by in case evacuation was needed.

The river crested 8.5 feet above flood stage at Owensboro. No significant new flooding was reported.

President Johnson, who made an aerial tour of the flood area Friday with the governors of five states, has assured the states aid would be forthcoming.

The Red Cross has established rehabilitation centers and urged residents to apply for long-term aid. Some shelters were being closed as many refugees returned to their homes.

The Salvation Army, Red Cross and other agencies started distributing clean-up and comfort kits and civil groups began handing out clothes to the flood victims.

President Johnson has been asked to declare 47 counties in Kentucky and 12 in West Virginia as disaster areas.

Barry Wins Endorsement

FRESNO Calif. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater carried the strife-torn endorsement of the 14,000-member California Republican Assembly into the state's primary campaign today.

Conservatives topped off their Goldwater victory by capturing control of the volunteer party organization in a free swinging contest with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's forces.

Climaxing a stormy 12-hour Sunday session, the outnumbered Rockefeller delegates staged a walkout before the vote committing the CRA to support the Arizona senator in his California race against the New York governor.

The Rockefeller faction battled to prevent any endorsement but there was never any doubt about the outcome. All the Rockefeller backers could do was fight a long delaying action that turned the convention into a parliamentary nightmare.

Goldwater swept the endorsement by a lopsided margin on a standing vote with only two dozen or so Rockefeller members still around to register their protest.

All the pent-up rancor in Republican ranks burst out in the well-planned maneuver by the conservatives to take over the party's statewide club movement. The Young Republicans Federation fell to them last year.

Goldwater spokesmen accused the Rockefeller camp of trying to tarnish the senator's endorsement by deliberately creating turmoil and by attempting to "thwart the will of the majority."

In turn, the Rockefeller managers blamed their opponents for causing more blood letting in their insistence on gaining assembly approval for Goldwater's quest for California's 86 delegates to the Republican National Convention.

Cox Predicts He'll Win

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Jack Cox predicted he'll win the Republican nomination for U.S. senator over three opponents without a runoff.

Referring to a poll which showed him far ahead, Cox urged Bexar County Republicans to go with their strongest candidate in the November battle to unseat Sen. Ralph Yarborough, a Democrat.

"This is no time to experiment—it's a deadly serious business, and we must take the best known and most valuable man the party can put forth," Cox said, adding that he could help elect other Republicans "from the bottom to the top of the ticket."

A Goldwater supporter, Cox predicted the Arizona senator would win the GOP presidential nomination.

Cox said that he is unalterably opposed to the pending civil rights bill "simply because it's nothing but a giant step to a police state."

"Where does Sen. Yarborough stand on this vital measure? He certainly isn't a member of the team fighting this bill, but instead can be found in conference with the extreme racial groups," Cox said.

Gonzalez Says Remarks About Him Untrue

DALLAS (AP) — Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex., labeled "utterly fantastic" a report that he said the shots which killed President John Kennedy did not come from the Texas School Book Depository building.

New York lawyer Mark Lane, who is representing the interests of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, said Sunday he had statements from nine witnesses that the bullets came from a grassy knoll near the underpass in downtown Dallas.

Lane told newsmen that Gonzalez was one of the witnesses who stated the shot came from the right front of the presidential car and not from the right rear.

"There is not a single witness to link Oswald to the crime," Lane asserted in San Francisco. He is on a speaking tour to raise funds for further investigation of the case.

Oswald was shot and killed by night club operator Jack Ruby two days after Kennedy was slain.

Gonzalez was riding several cars behind Kennedy as the assassination took place. Declaring Lane's statement was "utterly fantastic," Gonzalez said Sunday night he had made no such remark.

"There is absolutely no substance to such a story whatever," the congressman said.

Lane, asked if he cared to comment, said he was unable to believe Gonzalez would repudiate what he quoted the congressman as saying. Lane added:

"My statement must have been misrepresented to him. I can't comment further till I know what he thinks I said."

Gen. Cousins Dies Of Heart Ailment

INDIO, Calif. (AP) — Retired Maj. Gen. Ralph P. Cousins, whose career paralleled the growth of American air power, is dead at 72.

Cousins died Sunday at Castas Hospital in Indio. Death was attributed to a heart ailment. Funeral services will be held Tuesday in Beverly Hills, Calif.

He was a native of Mexico, Tex., and was graduated from West Point in 1915. He served 31 years in the military, most of it helping build the struggling U.S. air arm into the colossus of World War II.

Cousins began his career as a lieutenant in the cavalry under Gen. John J. Pershing, switching to the flying corps in 1916. He served in the British Bristol Fighting Squadron over the trenches in World War I and returned to the United States as commander of the Day Bombardment Group in 1918. The Armistice ending the war was signed before he could be sent overseas again.

He next attended Yale University, where in 1921 he received a master of science and communications degree.

Cousins attended Gen. Billy Mitchell's battleship bombing demonstration off the Virginia Capes in the Philippines.

In January, 1942, he was ordered to California to assume command of the Air Corps Western Flying Training Command, which controlled 11 Western states and ran 14 flying schools.

A FEW BARRIERS

Some Lessening Of Restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today there is some lessening throughout the world of restrictions on agricultural imports. It said this reflects rising economic progress.

But, it added, such barriers are still used extensively by many countries to protect their own producers. It mentioned the European Common Market specifically. Members of this market are France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The comments were made in a 286-page report analyzing the agricultural trade policies of more than 100 nations. The report is expected to be useful to American representatives in the negotiations on tariff and trade reductions to open in Geneva early in May.

"More and more foreign nations are changing agricultural policies and are carrying out other programs to stimulate their economies. Now that the balance of payment pressure is lifting," the report said.

"Although trade restrictions of the 1950s over agricultural imports are lessening, there are still extensive discretionary import controls used by many countries to protect their own producers."

Hoffa Headed For Appellate Court

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — James R. Hoffa now takes his case to the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals, having gone through the technicality of asking for, and being denied a new trial on a jury-fixing conviction.

U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson denied Hoffa's new-trial motion Saturday. But the president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters already had announced he would appeal all the way, if necessary, to the Supreme Court.

Hoffa has been sentenced to 8 years in prison and fined $10,000 for trying to fix the jury that heard his 1962 Nashville conspiracy trial.

The department said the European Common Market's restrictive policies "could place a damper on trade among nations whose improved economic positions can permit wider commerce."

"On the other hand, much of the rest of the world outside of the Western Hemisphere — except for Japan, Oceania, Taiwan and Thailand — is not yet producing beyond its own subsistence level."

The department said countries in the temperate zones of the Western Hemisphere use some government programs to support home production. It said United States supports—which are criticized in some other countries—have aided greatly in keeping export prices stable, especially for grains, cotton and tobacco.
