Doctors Say Mac 'Waning'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur has suffered a "further waning" of his heart and kidney function, Walter Reed Army Hospital announced today.

A bulletin at 10:16 a.m. said continuing deterioration of the five-star general's kidney function has necessitated institution of a semi-artificial means of stimulating kidney function. The technique involves making two incisions in MacArthur's abdomen and inserting two tubes.

The purpose is to attempt to wash out from the general's blood poisonous materials which cannot be efficiently filtered out by his own faltering kidney system.

IN TUBES

The procedure is technically known as "peritoneal dialysis." It involves continuous running of liquid chemicals, somewhat similar to those used by the kidneys, through one of the tubes into a cavity between two blood-filled membranes within the abdomen which are known as the "peritoneum."

The resulting products are pumped out through the other tube.

The new downturn followed a terse and gloomy report from the doctors Wednesday that the outlook was not good.

That was the last report Wednesday when doctors had noted a slight improvement in the 84-year-old general's lowered blood pressure and control of the troublesome and sporadic internal bleeding.

'HOPE SO'

Asked flatly if the general would recover, Dr. Henry S. Murphy, a brigadier general and hospital commandant answered: "We hope so."

The tube which had been inserted through MacArthur's esophagus and into his stomach remained in place. But the pressure of a small balloon against broken veins — designed to retard bleeding in the esophagus — was all but removed.

"He is markedly composed — has asked for his wife many times and she has visited him frequently," Murphy said.

Most critical still were signs early Wednesday that MacArthur's heart was losing efficiency and his kidney function was worsening. Even the slight improvement in blood pressure during the day was not enough to add optimism to the late report.

STAND-BY

Doctors explained that they had stand-by methods of taking over for the failing kidneys if it became necessary. But a heightened pulse rate and the faltering blood pressure — signs the heart was working harder, but doing its job less well — were still worrisome.

One way of making up for the failing kidneys is a technique called peritoneal dialysis. This is an operation in which two tubes are inserted into the abdominal cavity between blood vessel rich membranes called peritoneum.

Lodge Target Of Rockefeller

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has become the chief target of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in the battle for the Republican nomination for president.

Brushing aside Lodge's repeated statements that he is not a candidate and does not intend to become one, Rockefeller argued that Lodge "is running and running hard from the privileged sanctuary of diplomatic immunity."

The New York governor maintained in an interview Wednesday that Lodge, U. S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, was a part of the Democratic administration and he is a candidate for the GOP nomination who is working from out there very hard.

The statements were Rockefeller's sharpest criticism to date of the ambassador. By his remarks, Rockefeller not only challenged Lodge's denial of candidacy but also was in conflict with President Johnson, who has accepted the ambassador's statement that he is not a candidate.

Rockefeller said Wednesday that Lodge should resign as ambassador and return to the United States to participate in the contest for the GOP nomination. Lodge has become one of the top prospects by virtue of his surprisingly strong write-in victory in the New Hampshire primary March 10.

Straw-Beauty Season

You can get into the swing of the season, like these Miss Big Spring contestants, by joining in the spirit of the occasion Friday on Straw Hat day. These beauties, all candidates in the Miss Big Spring pageant Saturday evening at the city auditorium, are (from left) Nancy Thomas, Joanna Patterson, Kandis Long and Sheri Andre. Big Spring merchants are ready for the new season with a wide assortment of cool, colorful fashions. You'll feel better, though perhaps not as pretty as these.

Most Democrats Happy But GOP Grumbling Over Rule

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal court decision that Texas can wait until 1965 to redistrict the home areas of its congressmen pleased most Democrats but Republicans generally expressed disappointment.

Three judges decided Wednesday, after a four-day hearing, not to force the state to redistrict or elect its 23 congressmen on an at-large basis this year, as ordered last fall.

The same court ruled Oct. 19 that the state's congressional districting statute is unconstitutional. Its new finding postpones the effective date of the order to Jan. 11. By this time congressmen chosen in the November general election will have been seated.

PASS STATUTE

In effect, the jurists told Texas as it must pass a valid districting statute by Aug. 1, 1965, or future congressional elections will be on an at-large basis.

Gov. John Connally, a Democrat, applauded the decision. He repeated a promise that redistricting would have "the highest priority" at the legislative session starting in January.

"We are gratified that the court has recognized that con-

FAIR, SAYS MAHON

Approval Voiced By Congressmen

By The Associated Press

Texas congressmen greeted the state redistricting decision by federal judges in Houston with approval.

Six House members, five of them Democrats, hailed the order permitting them and others in the Texas delegation to seek election this year from existing districts.

Most of the 23 Texas congressmen were still away from Washington because of the Easter recess of the House.

Rep. George Mahon, Democrat from Lubbock, called the ruling "very fair and reasonable."

"I had been concerned, along with my colleagues, but I was hopeful," Mahon said. "Now I can breathe a lot easier."

Other comments: Rep. John Young, Democrat from Corpus Christi: "Of course I was very pleased. I can't say I was surprised. I think the ruling was a correct one."

Rep. Lindley Beckworth, Democrat from Gladewater: "It was a good thing."

Rep. Joe Kilgore, Democrat from McAllen who is not seeking re-election: "I think this is a proper decision. Texas needs redistricting, but the election procedures should not be interrupted."

Rep. Henry Gonzalez, Democrat from San Antonio: "I believe the court has ruled wisely, for it will insure an orderly election process for at least this year."

Rep. Bruce Alger, Republican from Dallas who was vacationing in Miami, Fla.: "The decision has clearly established the inequity which exists between the congressional districts in Texas. While I have always felt it an honor to represent one of the largest, and now the largest congressional district, I cannot accept the injustice imposed on the people of Dallas County with only one representative from over a million people."

gressional redistricting must be handled in an orderly manner at the next regular session of the legislature," Connally said. "The court's decision is an equitable solution to a very serious and complex problem."

Frank Erwin Jr., state Democratic chairman, said: "The people of Texas will strongly applaud the court's decision not to disrupt our primary elections, which are only four weeks away."

DELAY TACTICS

State Republican Chairman Peter O'Donnell Jr. said the ruling was a "direct result of Gov. Connally's delay tactics and the failure of the legislature to redistrict last year."

"While we accept the decision, we are disappointed that six million Texans will not have fair representation two more years," O'Donnell said.

Judge John Brown of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals read the brief new order. The five Republican plaintiffs were given until April 7 to appeal and their chief lawyer, William Cassin, said that was being considered.

"At the same time, however, the legislature has been told to redistrict by Aug. 1," Carr said.

NOT SURE

Brown said he and Ingraham were confident Texas could resolve the problem in time for the primaries but Noel was not sure.

"But I agree with Judge Noel that the state ought not to be made to take action under pressure," Brown said. "The state ought not be compelled under threat of at-large elections to do things that should be done freely."

The governor could still call a special session, Brown said, "but if it comes it will be from

New Tom Green Bank Sought

AUSTIN (AP) — Banking Commissioner J. M. Falkner said today an application has been made for a state bank in Lake Gardens in Tom Green County.

The Lake Gardens State Bank would have capital of $100,000, surplus of $50,000 and reserves of $50,000.

William McDonald, San Angelo lawyer, is projected as chairman and Ennis Favors of Stephenville as president. Other proposed directors are Shirley Ann of San Angelo, Faye Favors of Stephenville and Jean Schuetz of Fort Worth.

No date has been set for a hearing.

Vietnamese Freedom Key Issue—Nixon

PHU MY, South Viet Nam (AP) — Richard M. Nixon toured South Viet Nam's Communist-infested Mekong River delta today and told newsmen: "All this light talk about neutralization and pulling out of Viet Nam ignores the human factor — all the people I met today want to be free."

Nixon met plenty of Vietnamese people as he set off on the unscheduled helicopter trip to key districts south of Saigon. Near Tan An, 30 miles south of Saigon, he spoke to self-defense corpsmen and their families who bear the brunt of war against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

While he was there, South Vietnamese forces clashed with Communist guerrillas not 20 miles away and casualties were believed to have been heavy.

OVERRUN

Then he moved on to the district town of Phu My which was overrun by the Viet Cong last November and occupied for two months before government forces threw them out.

"Young men I have seen in training are obviously willing to fight, their morale factor is decisive," the former U.S. vice president commented.

After shaking hands and handing out bubble gum to children and bearded elders, Nixon said: "People who talk about things other than defending Viet Nam against the Communists should come here and see these people — people who just want to live in peace."

COMPLEXITY

Nixon said his major impression gained since he arrived on Wednesday was the "complexity of this battle. It will not be solved quickly, it will take time, patience and weapons."

Not only military weapons would be needed, Nixon said, "we must have economic and propaganda weapons to a sophisticated degree and these we are starting to develop."

Nixon conferred with Gen. Paul D. Harkins, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, and scheduled another meeting with U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, his vice - presidential running mate in 1960.

Nixon arrived Wednesday on a world tour.

POLITICS

Nixon, who has not shut the door on a draft for the Republican presidential nomination, said it was natural that he and Lodge should talk politics. But neither he nor Lodge would reveal what they said.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Congress today declared President Joao Goulart was ousted from office by a two-day military rebellion, and installed his successor. But from a haven in southern Brazil, Goulart declared he still is president and will "fight to the death."

Installed in an early morning ceremony in the inland capital of Brasilia as the new president was Paschoal Ranieri Mazzilli, president of the Chamber of Deputies.

Goulart fled from Rio de Janeiro as rebel army units and civilian militiamen marched on the city Wednesday, vowing to force him from office and lift "the Red yoke" from Brazil. He flew to Brasilia and then to Porto Alegre, 670 miles southwest of Rio de Janeiro.

3RD ARMY

There, in his home state of Rio Grande do Sul, he claimed support of the strong 3rd Army. A statement read in his name over Porto Alegre radio declared: "The hour of mobilization. The hour of vigilance is here."

The broadcast declared Goulart still is president and would put down the rebellion with powerful military support. It insisted that Goulart still is in Brazil, but did not say he was in Porto Alegre.

His statement called on the people to organize to defend democracy, and urged them to come to Porto Alegre or to go to their city halls and demonstrate.

TO PARAGUAY

Radio Liberty, in the industrial city of Sao Paulo, an anti-Goulart stronghold, said there were unconfirmed reports Goulart had fled to Asuncion, Paraguay, and asked for political asylum.

In Brasilia, Auro Andrade, president of the Brazilian Senate, declared the presidency vacant. Mazzilli, next in line because Brazil has no vice president, took the oath of office at 3:30 a.m.

The revolutionary generals met in Rio and announced that calm reigned throughout the country.

Mazzilli planned to come to Rio this afternoon for a series of political contacts to form a new government.

The people of Rio poured spontaneously into the streets in celebration of the 48-hour revolution, whose leaders accused the president of seeking to turn Latin America's largest country into another Cuba.

NAVY SHIPS

As Goulart made his dash south, the Navy Ministry announced a destroyer and a submarine were sailing toward Porto Alegre to block the harbor entrance, a spokesman said three or four navy ships were "standing by to sail at any moment."

PASCHOAL MAZZILLI

bor entrance, a spokesman said three or four navy ships were "standing by to sail at any moment."

Goulart's brother-in-law, Leonel Brizola, was reported in control of Brazil's 3rd Army, based in Rio Grande do Sul and the most powerful of the country's four armies. But rebel leaders said one of the 3rd Army's strongest units had rebelled against Brizola at a rail center near the Uruguayan border and was headed toward Porto Alegre.

EX-GOVERNOR

Brizola, a Yankee-baiting politician with workers' support, is a former governor of Goulart's home state and a power in Brazil's southland.

Although the revolution began Tuesday, it has apparently been almost bloodless. Only two casualties were reported — pro-Goulart students killed in a clash Wednesday with troops at Recife.

The rebel proclamation of victory Wednesday touched off wild demonstrations in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, Brazil's largest cities.

A carnival mood reigned along Rio's Copacabana as carloads of revelers with streamers and paper and waved sheets, towels and handkerchiefs from apartment window blinds.

In Sao Paulo, ticker tape descended from skyscrapers and streets were filled with cars, their horns blaring. Radio announcers shouted jubilantly, "Long live Brazil!"

An apparent strong man in the revolt was Gen. Amaury Krul, war minister in Goulart's cabinet in 1962. Thousands of troops under his command headed toward Rio from Sao Paulo to take control of the city.

LBJ Rides Tight On Rights Push

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson apparently is giving his legislative lieutenants little room to maneuver toward any compromise that might insure Senate passage of the civil rights bill.

The President was described by close associates today as being hard-rock firm against any changes in the House-passed measure. They said he has maintained this attitude in private strategy conferences as well as in his public statements.

Johnson, an expert on how to get things done in the Senate, is said to have told the bill's managers they should plan for eventual around-the-clock sessions in an attempt to break a Southern filibuster.

LITTLE HOPE

The President reportedly has little hope that Dixie opponents will ever permit passage of the legislation without the invoking of the cloture rule. This means that two-thirds of those voting would have to approve applying a debate limitation.

Therein lies the dilemma of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-

Minn., floor manager for the bill, and the Democrats and Republicans who are backing his efforts to bring it to a vote.

There is no practical way — admit it — of getting the necessary two-thirds vote unless Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois is willing to go along.

VITAL SECTIONS

Dirksen wants some changes in vital sections of the bill. He has said he will propose about a dozen amendments to the provision dealing with fair employment practices but has no wish to "emasculate" it.

He also is expected to offer a substitute to a section banning racial discrimination in hotels, motels, restaurants, theaters, gas stations and sports stadiums. He has not spelled out his proposal yet.

Dirksen said he has substantial Republican support for efforts to change the fair employment section. He has not tested the GOP temper on the public accommodations section.

Sen. Fulbright Pleased With Policy Response

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright voiced pleasure today at the response to his foreign policy speech and predicted the wide election year debate it has touched off will help the Johnson administration.

The Foreign Relations Committee chairman's aim in his March 25 address was to stir up public talk on basic foreign policy issues, and he appeared to have succeeded beyond his expectations.

The Arkansas Democrat's remarks to a sparsely attended Senate last week so far have evoked:

EVALUATION

Cautious comment from President Johnson and a mixed evaluation by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Allegations of softness on communism from some leading Republicans and some Democrats, plus some support from both sides of the political fence.

Foreign praise and protests from Moscow to Formosa.

A far-flung but mixed editorial reaction in the United States.

Bags full of mail still pouring into his office.

At latest count, aides said some 5,000 letters, telegrams and postcards had arrived from around the nation and abroad, and the ratio so far favors Fulbright's stand 4 or 5 to 1.

'OLD MYTHS'

Fulbright lit the fuse by urging abandonment of "old myths" in cold war attitudes in face of the "new realities" of today.

The master myth of the cold war is that the Communist bloc is a monolith," he said.

In calling for flexibility in dealing with the growing "great variation" among the Reds, Fulbright also advocated an end to the Cuba boycott—a "failure," he called it—and proposed open-mindedness about recognizing Red China some day.

He said the public, Congress, and executive branch should dare to explore such "unthinkable" things.

In an interview today, Fulbright said "I'm very pleased and somewhat surprised at the volume" of the response triggered by the speech.

HELPFUL

"I do not think this is damaging to the administration at all," he added. "I think this is helpful to the administration in the sense that it brings these things out into the open" for public discussion.

He said he had made the speech because in the New Hampshire Republican presidential primary, Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller had named foreign policy as a 1964 campaign issue. The GOP candidates had only issued "a collection of generalities," he said.

Lions To Pick Local Queen

Downtown Lions will choose a queen the evening of April 9 to represent them in the district convention contest.

Jeff Brown, chairman of the club's selection party, said that the evening affair at Cosden Country Club will replace next Wednesday's noon luncheon.

At Wednesday's luncheon, Carroll Davidson, chamber of commerce manager, explained to the club the many facets of efforts to secure new industry for the community. He said that the program was two-pronged—one aimed at inviting new industry, the other trying to develop industry from within.

It is, he said, one of the most competitive fields in the country and must extend over years and years. The community can assist by providing all of the services which would provide industrial families with a good place to live. Assisted by Bob Schaff, he projected a film showing the things which industries seek in locating new plants.

Morris Rhodes was named as the club's delegate to the Lions International convention. The incoming president also is a delegate.

Demos Join Forces For Whooping Up Dallas Rally

By The Associated Press

Several candidates for statewide office joined other Democrats in whooping things up at a big Dallas political rally Wednesday night. Other campaigners plugged away at widely scattered spots.

Party leaders estimated 2,500 turned out for the combination of speeches and dancing at a Dallas night club.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough told the gathering he has not been out front plugging for the administration program and not merely a "me too" backer as his Democratic primary opponent has claimed.

He asserted that what he described as the Dallas "power structure or oligarchy" has harmed not only that city but all of Texas. In this connection the senator said Dallas voters have elected officials who kept the state lagging in education and welfare programs.

Others there

Also at the Dallas rally were candidates Don Yarborough for governor, Dan Sullivan for congressman-at-large and Jesse Owens for railroad commissioner.

Gordon McLendon, who also seeks the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator, said Sen. Yarborough had been trying to show there was a link between former Gov. Allan Shivers and the candidacy of McLendon.

"I am certainly not ashamed of my friendship with Allan Shivers," McLendon said at a would cost $250 million.

Beaumont rally. "but this is strictly my own campaign. It seems to me that the dragging of Shivers' name into the campaign would be highly embarrassing to Yarborough. The fact that Shivers beat him soundly in two races for governor showed the two men's comparative standing with Texas voters."

voiced a stand for "a more meaningful" program for restricting oil imports in the course of a Midland visit. Bush said quotas limiting oil shipments from other countries also should be applied to Canada.

TAX CREDIT

Robert Morris, also bidding for the GOP nomination for U.S. senator, told Fort Worth supporters he favors up to $325 annual tax credit for parents of college students but would oppose federal aid to public or private schools. He headed for Austin after a day in Fort Worth.

Gov. John Connally was a target for remarks by rivals in both major parties.

Don Yarborough, his opponent for the Democratic nomination, asserted special interests and a special lobby had controlled the Connally administration, adding: President Johnson has declared war against poverty. Gov. Connally has declared war

Industrial Gas Network Slated

Film Outlines Factors For Luring New Industry

Members of the industrial committee of the chamber of commerce saw a film, "Gold on Main Street" at 5 p.m. Wednesday. It was a follow-up on a recent survey to determine what industries might successfully be invited to Big Spring and what methods might be used to seek new industries.

Outlined in the film were some of the 700 factors considered by various industries seeking locations for new plants or for expanding present facilities. Not all the 700 factors are considered by each one seeking a location.

Listed were: "Is the town or city showing a prosperous appearance? What kind of schools does a city have? What kind of homes and business buildings are maintained? Are they well kept or are they dilapidated? What about recreational and cultural facilities? How is the religious atmosphere? What about transportation, including railroads, highways, bus service, air service? Is there plenty of water and does the area have ample utilities available? What about labor skills and vocational and technical schools? These are just a few items, in addition to suitable site locations, topography, land costs, and tax structure.

The film, produced by an industrial survey commission, stated that one plant employing 100 workers, would bring in 296 more people, 112 more households, 51 more school-age children, $590,000 in personal incomes, show $270,000 more in bank deposits per year, and account for 107 more passenger car registrations in the county, plus four more new businesses.

The committee, headed by Jack Haralson, agreed to make further study for organizing plans for future moves to secure industry for Big Spring. Factual information will be brought together, and plans formulated at a called meeting on April 23.

An organized effort, with working committees and factual advertising, is hoped for following the meeting.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — That old maxim about lightning never striking twice in the same place doesn't hold true as far as the twin double at Jefferson Downs race track is concerned. Clarence Falcon, a sugar mill worker from Thibodaux, La., collected a $9,213 twin double at the suburban New Orleans half-mile track Wednesday night.

Last spring Falcon cashed in a twin double ticket worth $8,372.40.

Anchorage Hails Air Of Normalcy

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—An air of normalcy has returned to the streets of Anchorage, but here and elsewhere in Alaska a lot of work remains before the devastation of last Friday's earthquake is repaired.

Today, as they continued the monumental task of clearing debris and trying to get schools, transportation facilities and the economy functioning, Alaskans were cheered by the news President Johnson has ordered quick federal aid for the stricken state.

The President said Wednesday he would ask Congress for $50 million in emergency relief funds.

Gov. William A. Egan, who plans to meet with President Johnson in Washington, probably Monday, says he will ask for $500 million in federal aid. Robert G. Baker, president of Matanuska Valley Bank, says he thinks the request should be for $1 billion.

NO LOANS

Both men said the money should be grants, not loans, so the hard-hit individuals and businesses will not be burdened by additional debt.

Tremblor Noted Near Sumatra

MOSCOW (AP)—An earthquake of medium force, apparently centered near the northern tip of Sumatra, was recorded at the Moscow seismic station early today.

The quake was recorded at 3:22 a.m.

A spokesman at the seismic station said the quake registered a force of 6.5 on the 10-point Richter scale. The Alaskan earthquake last week was measured at 8.2 and 8.7 points.

Special Alaska Aid Unit Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has named a special commission to plan rehabilitation of the earthquake-ravaged Alaskan economy and he will ask Congress for $50 million for emergency relief.

Both decisions were announced Wednesday by the White House after Johnson conferred with Alaska's senators, Democrats E. L. Bartlett and Ernest Gruening, and by telephone with William A. Egan, governor of the stricken state.

The $50-million appropriation is generally viewed as a first-step measure to help rebuild vital roads, bridges, utilities and other publicly owned facilities. To the three Alaskans it is a bare one-tenth of the federal aid that will be needed to restore their state's economy.

WORST DISASTER

At least $500 million is required to cope with "the worst disaster that has ever struck any state," Gruening declared. In Anchorage, Egan said outright grants of at least that much will be needed to reconstruct housing, business and industrial facilities. "We can rebuild in no other way," he said.

Usually federal funds are available only for clearing debris and rehabilitating public buildings and highways, but Bartlett and Gruening hinted that the President may request congressional authority to provide direct financial assistance to private industry.

There was no official confirmation of the Alaskans' suggestion, although the idea is known to have been discussed in high administration quarters.

PROPOSALS

To head the 12-man special commission, Johnson named Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M. One of its tasks presumably will be to weigh proposals for helping to rebuild the fishing and canning industries on which the Alaskan economy was based.

The secretaries of defense, interior, labor, agriculture, commerce and welfare will serve on the panel—the Federal Reconstruction and Development Planning Commission for Alaska—along with Edward A. McDermott of the Office of Emergency Planning, the Federal Housing Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administrator, the Federal Power Commission chairman and the chief of the Small Business Administration.

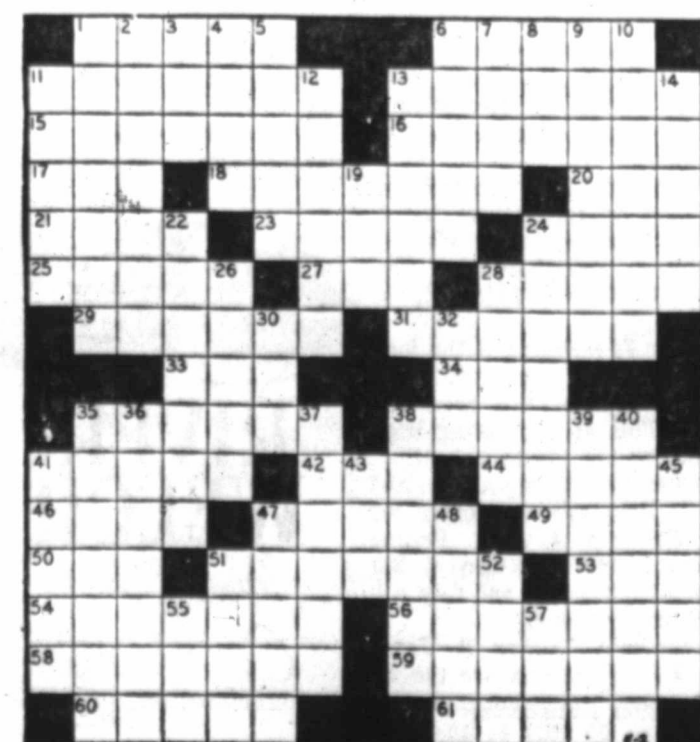

Travel Urged To Aid Alaska

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP)—Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall has recommended travel by outsiders to Alaska to help that state recover from its recent earthquake.

At a news conference here Wednesday, Udall said vacationers can contribute toward economic recovery there by "making this the year to see Alaska." Udall was here for a regional outdoor recreation conference.

Haiti's Boss Tacks On Lifetime President Role

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Dr. Francois Duvalier has tacked the title of lifetime president onto his tight dictatorship over Haiti.

The country doctor-turned-politician took the step as another in a series of measures which, since his election in 1957 for a six-year term, have given him an iron rule over this poverty-stricken Caribbean nation of 4 million people.

Top officers of his army assembled at the National Palace for the ceremony Wednesday.

Information Minister Paul Blanchet said Duvalier was acting in response to public demonstrations urging him to rule for life and to the expressed wish of the officers to take a new oath to him.

"I am happy that you understand it is necessary to join the revolutionary crowd and come here this morning to render homage to the constitutional chief of the armed forces in a new oath of allegiance," Duvalier told the officers, whose army Duvalier has reduced to 5,000 men in favor of the 10,000 secret police of the "ton-ton macoute," or boogymen.

Duvalier, 54, accepted the lifetime title and the officers' oath and told them he considered himself the kind of man the country can produce only once every 50 or 75 years.

Duvalier singled out Gen. Gerard Constant, the chief of staff, and reminded him that he was a lieutenant when he sided with Duvalier in the 1957 campaign "and now you are a general."

Duvalier has bested rebels inside and outside Haiti as well as the opposition of the United States since he took office. Relations between Haiti and the United States were broken off last year after Duvalier extended his presidential term by means of a rigged election. Relations were restored late in 1963, and Duvalier's recent pleasant dealings with the United States indicated he wants a resumption of U.S. aid.

Since 1957 the United States has given more than $60 million in loans and grants to help the country, where per capita income is about $60 a year. Most American aid was cut off last August in retaliation for his extending his rule.

Post Authority To Take Bids

Sealed proposals for construction of brick dwelling units for the Post Housing Authority will be received at Post until April 29.

Wyatt C. Hedrick, Fort Worth architect, announced that the proposals would be opened at 2 p.m. in the Community Room of the First National Bank in Post by the city's housing authority. Included are 28 dwellings, 14 buildings, plus management and maintenance building, sidewalks, site improvements, utilities, etc. Information may be had from the Post Housing Authority or from Hedrick.

Swim Olympics

The Y-Indian Guide tribes will hold a swim Olympic at the YMCA from 7 to 8 p.m. today as a special event for all tribes, parents and friends. John Chapman, YMCA swimming instructor, will direct events, which will be for swimmers and non-swimmers. Only little braves will participate in events, and colored feathers will be awarded for coup sticks.

Gov. Wallace Meets First Racial Fuss

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Gov. George Wallace of Alabama encountered the first racial incident of his Wisconsin presidential primary election bid as he moved his campaign into Milwaukee.

Wallace spoke before a turn-away crowd Wednesday night on the city's south side, where 24 hours earlier dominating Polish-American segments of the population had been urged to reject his campaign.

SEATED

Two Negroes were asked to leave by Bronko Gruber, who introduced the Alabama governor. Gruber said he wanted the men to leave because they had remained seated during the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

The Negroes were loudly booed until they left the hall, and other Negroes booed Gruber, who operates a tavern in a Negro neighborhood. After his address, Wallace said the meeting was "one of the best and one of the most enthusiastic" in his Democratic campaign for next Tuesday's election. He spent more than half an hour signing autographs and shaking hands after his speech.

HEAVY VOTE

State Sen. Casimir Kendzioriski said Wallace would get a "heavy vote" in his South Side district.

Wallace is opposed in the primary by Gov. John Reynolds, a favorite son pledged to President Johnson. Reynolds and Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., had spoken in a South Side area Tuesday night, attacking Wallace's opposition to civil rights legislation.

Book Tardy—By 55 Years

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A book borrowed from the Buffalo and Erie County public library on March 20, 1909 was returned this week.

A library spokesman said the book, "Annie Kilbur," by William Dean Howells, was brought back by a woman who said she found it in an old bookcase in her home.

Tuesday was the final day of a library moratorium on collection of fines for late book returns.

Death Studied

SULPHUR SPRINGS (AP)—Sheriff Paul Jones has ordered an autopsy into the apparent strangling of a Sulphur Springs woman. The body of Mrs. Audra Robinson Sandlin was found at her home. Jones said her neck was badly bruised.

At Snyder Art Show

Noted western artist Peter Hurd (left) and his wife (right) pose with Mr. and Mrs. C. T. McLaughlin at the Wednesday opening of the McLaughlin family's Diamond M Foundation art gallery, becoming a major collection in West Texas. For some 15 years the McLaughlins have been collecting paintings, bronzes and statuary, and many of Hurd's works are included, as are those of N. C. Wyeth, Mrs. Hurd's father, famed as an American period artist in oils.

Hundreds See Gallery Collection In Snyder

SNYDER — Hundreds of people poured through the Diamond M Building in Snyder Wednesday evening to view an outstanding collection of American art being put together as a major gallery by the Diamond M Foundation.

It was a kind of unofficial opening of the exhibit which is due to become a outstanding cultural attraction for West Texas.

The Diamond M Foundation is owned by the family of C. T. McLaughlin, widely known oil operator and public figure, and McLaughlin himself has been working for some 15 years to accumulate the treasures.

There is a predominance of American western art, as well as notable period pieces connected with American literature. There are paintings, bronzes and statuary.

Honor guests at the Wednesday affair were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hurd who is the noted Southwestern artist who lives and works at his San Antonio, N.M. ranch Mrs. Hurd, daughter of the famous artist N. C. Wyeth also is an artist.

The McLaughlins have a number of Peter Hurd works, and a large collection of Wyeth originals. One room of the gallery is set aside for Hurd paintings, another for the Wyeth works, and another for miscellaneous pieces.

The collection overflows the first floor rooms of the Diamond M building, and other pieces are in the McLaughlin offices on the second floor, as well as at his ranch homes in Scurry County and in Colorado.

McLaughlin said he hopes to arrange for showings of the collection to clubs and interested groups.

Following the showing, at which Hurd spoke informally and lauded the talents of Wyeth, under whom he studied, guests were treated to a buffet dinner at the Snyder Country Club.

C. T. McLaughlin is joined in the enterprise by his son, Mark McLaughlin of Snyder, and daughter, Mrs. John DeFord of Abilene.

The collection attracted guests from Abilene, Lubbock, Sweetwater, Fort Worth, Big Spring and Snyder.

Board Approves One Request, Denies Another

The zoning board of adjustment and appeals the request by Rev. Jack Power, who spoke on behalf of Trinity Baptist Church.

Meeting at city hall, the board voted unanimously to allow and work at his San Antonio, N.M. ranch Mrs. Hurd, daughter of the famous artist N. C. Wyeth also is an artist.

Driver Assaulted, Room Wrecked

Police had a busy day Wednesday.

A truck driver was assaulted by an unknown man and robbed of $75 about 2:45 a.m. this morning while he was parked five miles out of Big Spring on the Gail Highway, according to police.

Police said the victim told them he had been slugged on the head and stabbed in the leg. The driver said he would notify police if he located his assailants, officers said.

A. Marvin Legler, manager of the Ponderosa Motel, US 87 south, told police three tenants left the motel Wednesday afternoon after apparently causing considerable damage to their apartment by throwing beer bottles against the walls. Police said the manager indicated charges would not be filed if he receives payment for the damages.

Someone broke a west window at the Swap Shop, 1011 W. 3rd, Wednesday afternoon, spilled several kinds of liquids on the floor and took one-half box of bubble gum valued at $3, according to police, who said the theft was reported by Mrs. Mamie Whirby, Dalton Conway is owner of the firm.

James Nespece, Webb AFB, reported the theft of a green license tab number from his New Mexico car license plates Wednesday night, police said. The vehicle was parked on the north side.

H. D. Stewart, 1802 Donley, reported a 26-inch boys bicycle missing from the residence Wednesday afternoon.

Police said they were notified by Stanton police that a blue 1955 model Ford, stolen from the Cactus Auto Parts, US 80 west, on Feb. 20, has been recovered. Stanton officers reported the vehicle was impounded after it was abandoned there.

Franz Peter Lupo, 11-year-old son of Mrs. L. J. Lupo, 1510 Robin, was discovered asleep in a closet at his home about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday. He had been reported missing about an hour earlier, police said.

Jury Rules For McGann

A jury in 118th District Court awarded George McGann judgment against Texas Fire Insurance Exchange and others in the amount of $5,512.50 in a verdict reached after nearly three hours deliberation Wednesday.

The jury also ruled that McGann did not set the fire which destroyed his residence at 434 Edwards on the night of March 24, 1962, and that he had no knowledge of the cause which ignited the fire. Both of these issues were in the charge that Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, handed the panel when it retired to deliberate the case.

The jurors were instructed to decide if the plaintiff was entitled to collect on the insurance policies he had on the property and to answer the two other questions stated.

The case was started Monday afternoon. It turned out to be the only civil suit ready for trial this week. The jury panel reported to the court at 10 a.m. today only to be told there was no additional case to be tried.

CRMWD Plans To Enlarge Waterflood Pact

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District meeting here today authorized General Manager E. V. Spence to negotiate with Sun Oil Co. for an enlargement of its waterflood contract.

The proposal would enable Sun to dispose of water which it now purchases but does not use, and would commit the district to sell an additional half million gallons a day to Perkins and Prothro in northern Coke County. The district would construct a 5½ mile pipeline to serve the additional unit.

S. W. Freese, Fort Worth, the district's consulting engineer, said he would have a recommendation by July 1 regarding the location of a second dam on the Colorado River.

All members of the board were present for the meeting in the district headquarters at 1318 E. 4th.

Deadline Friday For Absentees

Only six ballots had been cast for the April 6 city election as only one day remained for voting absentee ballots in the election.

City Secretary C. R. McClellan said persons who will be out of town on election day have until 5 p.m. Friday to cast ballots. The mail vote will be counted until 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

Voters will elect three commissioners. The terms of Mayor George J. Zachariah and Commissioners W. L. Thompson and Arnold Marshall expire in April. All incumbents have filed for re-election. Other candidates include Mrs. Harold Talbot, Bruce Wright, Jerry Mancill, H. Boyce Hale and Joe B. Matthews.

Wheatley Withdraws From Race

Announcement that he is withdrawing from the Democratic primary contest for state senator from the 24th Senatorial District was made public today by Keith C. Wheatley of Haskell.

Wheatley notified County Democratic Chairman Frank Hardesty that a business opportunity has arisen which necessitates his moving from the district, and that he must take advantage of this. He asked that his name be taken off the May 2 ballot and that his filing fee be returned.

Hardesty said, however, that ballots already have been prepared for printing, and that Wheatley's name will have to appear. Neither, said the chairman, can the fee be returned at this date.

Wheatley's withdrawal technically leaves David Ratliff unopposed. Ratliff, Stamford resident, has served this district in the state Senate for a number of years.

Coahoma Band Concert Friday

The second Coahoma Spring Band Concert will be held beginning at 7:30 p.m. April 10 in the auditorium of the high school. The event will be made an annual affair.

Six students, who won first place ratings at the Regional Band Contest held March 14 at Odessa, will present solo specialties, playing the numbers which won them high ratings.

Other numbers presented by the band will ensure an hour and one-half program.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students. The price at the door will be 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for students.

Home-made candy, popcorn balls and soft drinks will be available at a concession stand.

Farrow Named To Committee

Warren A. Farrow, civilian personnel officer at Webb AFB and chairman of the state advisory board of the Texas Personnel and Management Association, has been appointed to a special advisory committee by Harry Ransom, chancellor of the University of Texas.

This committee will determine the future operation of the Texas Personnel and Management Association.

Farrow has long been active in professional personnel and management activities. He is a past president and charter member of the Big Spring Personnel and Management Association, a member of the Texas Personnel and Management Association, and a member of the American Management Association.

Randle Moved To County Jail

William E. Randle, 29, charged with murder in the shooting of Ignacio Martinez, has been transferred from the city to the county jail. He is being held in lieu of $10,000 bond. Gil Jones, district attorney, has announced that his case will be one of the matters he will lay before the grand jury, which is to reconvene next Tuesday.

Randle, according to police, has submitted to two polygraph tests. He is alleged to have shot the Mexican farm worker to death in an alley on the north side early on the morning of March 21.

No Last Minute Rush For Car Tags Here

Deadline for the payment of 1964 automobile plates passed without any grand rush, and the tax office, open until 9 p.m. Wednesday, had only stragglers throughout most of the evening.

The substations, where tags were being dispensed and which had been enjoying a heavy business earlier in the week, reported activity reached a low ebb Wednesday and by closing time, there were no applicants.

Mrs. Zarah LeFevre, county tax assessor-collector, said that she believed most of the motor vehicles in the county had been provided with the required new plates ahead of the deadline.

She said this morning only a few delayed motorists had shown up at her office to get tags. Such motorists, if they have not driven their car since midnight Wednesday and signed an affidavit to that effect, are provided with plates without penalty.

Those who have driven their cars since midnight are charged an extra 20 per cent for the plates.

One motorist had to pay the penalty today. He wryly informed the deputy that he had not obtained his tags prior to the deadline and that this morning he got in his car and, forgetting the deadline, drove to town. He was provided with plates but the fee was one-fifth greater than the rate prior to deadline.

Mrs. LeFevre said that final figures on the dollar-volume of plate business handled by her office in February would not be available today. Several of the substations are yet to be checked out and the accumulated receipts at the office tabulated.

She said a quick study indicated there probably have been more plates sold this February than for the same month last year.

It is estimated there are about 22,000 passenger cars in Howard County. In addition to these, tags are provided for trucks, trailers, tractors, motorcycles and other vehicles.

Rabid Skunks Are Reported

Police today said they have heard reports of rabid skunks in the area.

A test of a skunk's head about three weeks ago indicated the animal was rabid, according to City Manager Larry Crow.

Police said more recently they heard reports of a man in Sand Springs shooting a skunk that had attacked his dogs.

Early this week a skunk attacked a dog in the southeast part of town, according to Lige Fox, city sanitarian, who said he had heard the head of the animal had been sent out of town for a rabies test. Another skunk reportedly had been seen crossing yards in daytime. Fox said this is contrary to normal habits of the animal. Skunks usually forage at night, he said.

Police also said two dogs were locked up for observation Wednesday after two children reportedly were bitten. One of the victims is Michael Lowing, 17, 1613 Lark, according to police. The other child, who was unidentified, was bitten by a dog owned by Mrs. Roy Modglin, 4206 Dixon, according to police.

Den 5 Wins Pack 1 Award

Den 5 of Cub Scout Pack No. 1 won the attendance award with 65 present Wednesday night at a meeting held in the Airport School.

Bear Badges were presented to David Hagen, Michael Shults and Randy McKinney. Silver Arrow awards were given to Thomas Owen, Virgil Owen, Gary Coleman, and Randy McKinney.

Opening ceremonies were presented by the Webelos Den under the direction of Airman Pigott. Dens four and five presented skits, and the Cubs were inspected by the parents.

More Local Relatives Safe After Earthquake

More Big Spring families have received word that relatives in Alaska came through the earthquake experience unscathed.

Mrs. Bob Hanson, 1810 Alabama, has a letter from her brother, Airman 2C. Delvin Brown, Elmendorf Airbase, telling her of his experiences in the recent quake. He was not injured. He has been in Alaska since July. Young Brown was in Big Spring for a visit with his sister just prior to his departure to Alaska.

T. Sgt. Edmond H. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith, 806 E. 14th, has written his parents that he and his family came through the earthquake uninjured. Smith, a 20-year veteran of the Air Force, his wife and their four children, are well and safe, but their home at Elmendorf Air Base was badly damaged. Smith has been in Alaska three years.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hodges, 214 N. Johnson, have received word from their son stationed near Anchorage, Alaska, that the family is safe. He is Sgt. William B. Hodges, in the U.S. Air Force. His wife and children are with him.

Jimmy Lee Holder, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Holder, 604 W. 5th, has written from Anchorage that he is safe. He is a member of Paul Harper's band. He said the club, where the band is appearing, was wrecked and most of the band members were shook up, but none was seriously hurt.

Two rehearsals face the contestants in the annual Miss Big Spring Beauty pageant before they go on the stage for the real contest at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the municipal auditorium. The first will be tonight at 7 p.m. in the auditorium and the final one Friday at 7 p.m.

Contestants were entertained at a swim party last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Worthy, north of the city, where they became better acquainted and received more instructions.

The girls have another treat in store for them when they appear in the contest Saturday. Miss Texas of 1963, Jeanne Richey Amacker, Beaumont, will arrive in Big Spring shortly after 11 a.m. Saturday on Trans-Texas Airlines flight 197.

SIX MORE
Six more Junior Miss Big Spring contestants in the pageant are introduced today.

Pam Daratt, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Daratt, 500 E. 23rd, is a junior in Big Spring High School, and is entered in the Junior Miss Big Spring division.

She has had band and twirling instruction in high school and lists her talent as twirling. She plans to continue her education at Texas University when she completes her high school work. "I am interested in home economics at school," she said, "and have won honors in the band."

She is five feet, five inches tall, weighs 125 pounds, has blue eyes, brown hair, and measures 34-24-35.

Mariann Williams, 17, a Big Spring High School junior who lives with her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Martin at 1603 Lexington, says she wants to attend

Howard County Junior College when she finishes high school. She measures 35-23-35, weighs 115 pounds, has blue eyes and blonde hair. She lists her talent as dancing, but likes swimming. Miss Williams is a member of the Spanish Club and of the Tri-Hi-Y Club. She has had one year of dance instruction and was a member of the Runnels Junior High choir.

NURSING
Another young lady, who plans to become a registered nurse, is Sheri Jon Andre, 17, daughter of Lt. Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. A. C. Andre, 1015 E. 20th. She is a senior in Big Spring High School, and wants to attend Odessa Junior College for her nurse's training.

Miss Andre once won the ninth grade good citizenship award from Upper Heyford, England. She has had several years of ballet and tap, as well as other forms of dancing. She

Opening lead: Queen of ♠ Today's hand produced a sizable swing when it was dealt in a recent team-of-four match. Both declarers played a four heart contract and were the victims of an unfavorable trump split. One player was more adept than the other in anticipating adversity, however, and therein lies our tale.

The bidding was identical at both tables, and in each instance the opening lead was the queen of clubs. One declarer won the trick with North's king of clubs and observed that, with the probable three-two division of hearts, he should have no trouble in confining his losses to—at most—two hearts and one spade.

He promptly returned a club to his ace and ruffed the next round in dummy. The ace and another heart revealed the bad news in trumps, and East rattled off three straight heart tricks. The queen of spades was returned and South put up the ace. His only remaining hope was that diamonds would break evenly so that he could obtain a spade discard on North's long diamond. When this failed to come off, he conceded defeat.

At the other table, the player in the South seat also took the first trick with dummy's king of clubs. It was likewise his intention to ruff a club and then attempt to split out the trumps. However, as a matter of technique—and at no additional cost to himself—he decided first to lead the nine of hearts from dummy, in the manner of one who was making a play in trumps. East hastened to split his heart honors by putting in the jack of hearts, and declarer covered with the ace as West's ten fell.

South now played the ace and another club ruffing in dummy. Trump was led and East was unable to take more than two heart tricks. His four of hearts eventually succumbed to declarer's holding in the suit. South cheerfully conceded a spade to fulfill his contract.

Whether or not East is to be severely condemned for his heart play is, perhaps, a moot question, but South certainly showed greater resourcefulness than his counterpart at the other table in launching the campaign which induced his opponent to commit the fatal slip.

Cosden Lists Three Promotions

Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. has announced the promotion of three key men in the chemical and technical departments.

Jerry G. Jenkins, formerly chief process engineer, has been named manager of licensing and chemical development. He will work in the chemical department under vice president Paul D. Meek. In addition to coordinating licensing activities, Jenkins will be in charge of commercial development of new chemical products and processes, and will personally direct special projects.

Senior chemical engineers Jerry R. Allen and Warden W. Mayes have been designated group leaders and will supervise the engineering personnel of the technical department. They will report to Vice President C. W. Shouse. Allen's responsibilities include planning and coordinating refinery schedules, processing economic studies of current and potential operations, and upgrading unit operations. Mayes' duties embrace process design of new units and revamps, long-term economic studies of new ventures, and start-up assistance under the licensing program.

A native of Dallas, Jenkins has a BS degree in chemical engineering from Texas A&M College. He joined Cosden's technical department in March, 1958, becoming senior chemical engineer the following year, and subsequently assistant manager of the department. For the past 2½ years, he has been chief process engineer. A registered professional engineer, he is a member of the National and Texas Societies of Professional Engineers and is on the directorate of the Permian Basin Chapter, TSPE. He is affiliated with the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. At St. Paul's Presbyterian Church he is treasurer and a member of the board of deacons.

Allen, who is from Lake City, Mich., earned the BS degree in chemical engineering from Michigan College of Mining and Technology. Joining Cosden in May, 1956 as a process engineer, he became senior chemical engineer in 1959. He is a member of the American Business Club, and is on the board of stewards at Wesley Methodist Church.

Mayes received the BS degree in chemical engineering from Texas A&M College in 1956. He began his association with Cosden in February, 1954 as a technician, interrupting his career as he resumed his college studies. In 1956, he became a chemical engineer for the company and, three years ago, senior chemical engineer. He is a registered professional engineer and a member of TSPE, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and the American Business Club. In the First Methodist Church, he is secretary of the Men's Bible Class. He is cubmaster for Cub Pack 100. Mayes was reared in Fort Stockton.

Arizona Legislator, Pennsy Educator Fight Off Handicaps Of Blindness

SECRETARY READS BILLS FOR BLIND ARIZONA LEGISLATOR
Mrs. Betty Ross assists State Rep. John Vanlandingham with work

EDITOR'S NOTE — For those with courage and tenacity, blindness is not an overwhelming handicap. The following special report tells of two cases—in Phoenix, Ariz., and Gettysburg, Pa.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — John Vanlandingham is one of the 80 members of the Arizona House of Representatives.

Like most, he's a Democrat; like some, he's an attorney; like none other, he's blind.

"Being blind may limit your sight," Vanlandingham says, "but it certainly shouldn't bother your vision."

Vanlandingham's vision is to become the attorney general of Arizona in the forthcoming elections.

Thirty-seven years ago on a ranch in Kingman County, Kan., when he was 5—John Vanlandingham was stricken with scarlet fever. The disease brought glaucoma, an ailment that slowly blinded him.

IN CLASS
Through the lower grades and into high school, Vanlandingham attended a class for the blind in Kansas City.

"Then I decided it was time to try a public high school. I had to live the rest of my life with the sighted," he explained.

"My younger brother had the job of reading to me from the textbooks," Vanlandingham recalls. "He hated the task and would read as fast as he could, rushing over page after page."

"It was the finest training possible for both of us. He became an excellent reader and I an excellent listener."

Two years later Vanlandingham entered Washburn University at Topeka, Kan., where he received a law degree.

After graduation in 1944, Vanlandingham served a term as Kingman County attorney and then was forced by illness to seek the warmth of Arizona.

PRIVATE LAW
With the help of a reader, he passed the Arizona bar examination and entered private law practice.

Elected to the Arizona House in 1962, Vanlandingham became an expert in picking legal flaws in legislation. He would have each bill read once, then once again. By the session's end, he had stored in his mind the basic wording of some 600 bills.

"I hope no one will be too shy in the coming campaign concerning my blindness," Vanlandingham said. "I will not mention this fact, nor will I try to hide it."

"I hope they ask me. How the hell can a blind man do the job of attorney general?" By golly, I'll tell them how."

He is married and the father of four children.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Educators here are observing a blind student teacher in an experiment that could open new horizons for sightless men and women.

While local administrators view the project with some apprehension, 69 students of Spanish at Gettysburg High School are enthusiastic about William J. Shoemaker Jr., whose other senses are so acute that no student dares to be obstreperous or inattentive.

Blind from birth, the 21-year-old language major at Gettysburg College will complete a 14-week student teaching program at the local high school in mid-May. He will receive his B.A. degree in June and will begin graduate studies at the University of Pennsylvania in September.

Shoemaker is one of two blind children of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Shoemaker Sr., Valley Stream, N.Y., elementary teachers in the New York City school system. Bill and his sister, Ruth, a sophomore at Gettysburg College, both were born blind, victims of optic nerve atrophy. Each is determined to teach in public schools.

ADVISABILITY
When Shoemaker came to Gettysburg College four years ago, Dr. Russell Rosenberger, head of the department of education, questioned the advisability of his going into education.

Shoemaker acquired his college education by carrying a portable tape recorder to class and, through a special mouthpiece, dictating notes to the machine without disturbing other students. When he returned to his dormitory room he transcribed the recording to Braille notes.

"But I soon realized that his determination to become a teacher was much stronger than any of the obstacles I thought he faced," Rosenberger said.

Shoemaker recognizes the obstacles, but he believes he can meet them successfully.

His teacher-adviser, Jose M. Perez, says he is amazed at the response Shoemaker receives from the students.

FORCEFUL
"Perhaps they feel a sense of humility, for they must admire his courage; however, he has a forceful manner. His pronunciation is excellent, and I'm sure the students realize that he's determined that they will learn Spanish."

Shoemaker acquired his college education by carrying a portable tape recorder to class and, through a special mouthpiece, dictating notes to the machine without disturbing other students. When he returned to his dormitory room he transcribed the recording to Braille notes.

French Terrorists Freely Predict Violence In Quebec's Struggle

MONTREAL (AP)—You hear all sorts of threats when you talk with some of the terrorists who would like to see Quebec become a separate nation.

"If Canada does not want people to die by the thousands, it will get rid of Quebec," says one.

Another predicts "there will be violence, you can count on that," if Queen Elizabeth II visits Quebec this fall as planned.

Call them Georges and Robert.

They represent only a handful of French-Canadians in Quebec who view Canada's English-speaking majority as a colonial power and believe their French-speaking province must fight for independence.

Most French-Canadians, working for stronger provincial self-rule within Canada, denounce violent tactics.

Only 13 per cent of Quebec's population favor independence, a recent survey showed. Few of those want violence. But in the vast sea of misunderstanding between French and English Canadians the small group of terrorists poses a constant threat of pushing Quebec farther than it wants to go.

Neither Georges nor Robert will start violence by himself. They were suspected last year after a 12-week wave of bombings in an English-speaking suburb of Montreal killed one man and maimed another.

Both were members of the FLQ or Quebec Liberation

Front, the band behind the bombings.

They now are marked men. They claim police follow them and tap their telephones. They charge the police beat FLQ members arrested last year.

The FLQ is now dead. Its apparent successor, the Quebec Liberation Army or ALQ, is very much alive. The army raided Quebec armories in February and escaped with enough weapons to outfit a small army.

Georges and Robert deny they are army members. They say they do not know its size but believe it is organized on a cell basis.

Liberation army members are believed to be mostly middle-class youths. Police are mainly concerned with getting to the leaders.

Georges and Robert say they have appealed for financial help in the United States and from student movements in Mexico and elsewhere—but not in Communist countries. "We are not Communists and we do not want the Communists to come in and take over our revolution," Georges said.

The majority of separatists seeking an independent Quebec are nonviolent students unflinched by Socialist thinking in France.

More than half Quebec's population is between the ages of 17 and 35. A new law granting the vote to 18-year-olds will allow 500,000 new voters, or 10 per cent of the population, to cast ballots in provincial elections in 1966. This factor could swing an election. It may force provincial political leaders to move closer to separatism.

But Georges and Robert are not willing to wait.

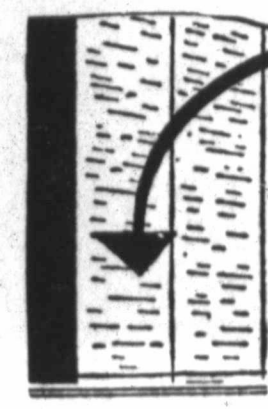

"In two years I may be married and have a good job," said Robert. "I won't want to fight then. If I am ever going to fight, I have to do it now."

Braves Flex Muscles In Spring Training

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
Are the Milwaukee Braves the best team in the American League?

From the way the National League Braves have manhandled American League opposition you get that feeling — but it's just one facet of the supremacy the NL is establishing in inter-league battles with the AL during the exhibition baseball season.

Triggered by Hank Aaron's fifth homer, the Braves won their 10th consecutive game from American League opposition Wednesday, adding the Chicago White Sox to their list of victims, 5-3.

The Braves' list now includes every one of the seven AL teams training in Florida. In 11 games against AL opposition, only the Washington Senators have managed a victory against the Braves—they did it in the first game.

The Braves' victory was one of three by NL teams Wednesday on a five-game inter-league program, and lifted the National League's lead to 2-1 in games between the two circuits. National League teams have won 66 games, AL clubs 33.

Behind Milwaukee in the inter-league standings are the San Francisco Giants, 15-2 against AL opposition. National League domination is so complete that even the New York Mets, who are 6-2, have a better percentage in inter-league play than any American League team.

Besides Milwaukee, the Dodgers and Chicago Cubs beat American League opposition Wednesday while the Los Angeles Angels and Baltimore recorded victories against NL teams. The Dodgers shelled Min-sota pitching for 15 hits—three by batting champion Tommy Davis—en route to a 7-3 victory protected by Larry Sherry's four scoreless innings of pitching. Merritt Ranew hit a decisive homer and Ron Santo stroked two doubles and a single in the Cubs' 8-7 decision over the Red Sox.

The Angels provided the day's batting star as outfielder Lee Thomas hit two homers—one a grand slam—and collected six runs batted in during a 10-7 thumping of the Giants. The Orioles did it with pitching as Robin Roberts and Harvey Haddix combined for a two-hitter in a 4-0 shutout of Pittsburgh.

Elsewhere, the other half of the White Sox split squad walloped Washington 12-7. Johnny Blanchard and Tony Kubek provided all the runs with homers in the Yankees' 4-2 triumph over Detroit. Tracy Stallard of the Mets shut out Cincinnati 3-0 on six hits and Johnny Lewis hit a game-winning three-run homer in St. Louis' 6-5 victory over Philadelphia.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Isn't Lubbock's first choice to succeed Eck Curtis as director of athletics of the public schools Emory Bellard, the highly successful head coach at San Angelo?

The job is very attractive and would offer probably what amounts to lifetime tenure. The only fly in the ointment, as far as Lubbock is concerned: Bellard, a comparatively young fellow, may not want to quit coaching.

John Lyda, who brought the ACC freshman track and field team here for a meet the other day, says the racing oval at Memorial Stadium is one of the finest he's ever seen.

The track here is rolled regularly, the one at ACC is not. When the local cinders are packed too hard, they're simply loosened and rolled again.

Riley Dunn, the ACC student who ran unattached in the local meet, beat HCJC's A. J. Williams by a whisker in both the 100 and 220.

He was timed in 9.4 in the 100 and 21.7 in the 220. He's a little fellow and some observers are inclined to doubt that he'll improve much but then 9.4 and 21.7 will win most races.

Red Lewis, the HCJC mentor, will split his squad next weekend for meets at North Texas and Abilene. His two best relay teams will go to Denton, but he'll have some fine entries in a triangular at Abilene, which will have ACC's freshmen and the Texas A&M frosh as the other teams.

Johnny Hughes, the Big Spring High School junior, is going great guns in the low hurdles. Lewis reasons he'd also make a terrific 440-yard runner. There's one thing for sure: The young man can run.

The Steer track team has been in limbo for a couple of years now but it is showing definite signs of breaking out of its cocoon. All the boys seem long on desire.

Big Spring track and field teams will always be up against it until tracks are provided for the three junior high teams here.

In Odessa, for example, boys are introduced to the sport as early as the fourth grade.

Films of parts of last week's triangular meet here were taken for use in promotion of the May 15-16 National Junior College meet, which will be held here.

They'll be shown on TV in a special program being planned by Lewis, scheduled for screening the week of the big cinder show.

Promoters of the annual Colonial National Golf Tournament in Fort Worth are shooting for an advance ticket sale of $110,000. They were more than half way toward their objective at this writing.

Big Spring High School may field a B baseball team next spring, for the first time in many years.

Three years ago golf ranked tenth nationally as a high school sport. Today it is rated sixth, having moved by such sports as swimming, volleyball, cross country and tennis. Only football, basketball, baseball, track and wrestling surpass it in popularity and it's sure to move into fifth place any time now.

Bobby Moegle, who brought the Lubbock Monterey baseball team here the other day, has guided the Plainsmen to four successive District 3-AAAA championships. Bobby is the brother of the former Rice great, Dickie (who now spells his last name the way it is pronounced — Maegle).

When George Marshall of the Washington Redskins dies, and that time may not be far removed, his 52 per cent of the NFL club goes to the Boys Club of Washington.

Derby Choice Likely Entry At Keeneland

By KELSO STURGEON

Associated Press Sports Writer
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Hill Rise and Northern Dancer, the early favorites for the Kentucky Derby, probably will get a chance to find out which is the best horse 10 days before the classic Run for the Roses.

Bill Finnegan, who trains Hill Rise, indicated Thursday he is pointing the El Peco Ranch colt for the $25,000-added Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland and an early showdown with Northern Dancer, the even-money favorite to win Saturday's Florida Derby.

Horatio Luro, who trains Dancer, has said he would send his colt in the 1 1/4-mile event at Keeneland.

"We'll just separate the men from the boys then," Finnegan said, adding that if Hill Rise went in the Blue Grass he would not have a race over the Churchill Downs surface before the Derby.

The Blue Grass, at 1 1/4 miles is the last distance prep for the Derby and will be run April 23. The Derby is May 2.

Hill Rise, who Finnegan had considered starting on Saturday's opening-day program at Keeneland, worked out six furlongs in about 1:15 Wednesday. The colt was never pressed and was caught by some clockers in 1:14 3/5.

Finnegan said he presently plans to start Hill Rise April 11 in a 6 1/2-furlong sprint—the $7,500 Spendthrift Purse for 3-year-olds. If the colt, son of Hillary Rd Charm, starts April 11, then he will definitely go in the Blue Grass.

The presence of both Hill Rise and Northern Dancer in the Blue Grass would sharply cut the starting field in that race. As few as five could start. Barring mishap, those considered probable starters are T. A. Grissom's Susan's Gent, Calumet Farm's Ky. Pioneer, Darby Dan Farm's Saltville and Hill Rise and Northern Dancer.

Mystery Meet Is Upcoming

A "mystery tournament" will be staged for Big Spring Golf Association members Saturday and Sunday over the Munny course.

The manner of determining the winners will not be announced until after play has been completed — hence the name.

Play will be on 18 holes. Entry fee will be $2.

An "odds and evens" tournament is scheduled by the BSGA April 18-19. Players will pair up, one will play the even holes and one the odd ones.

Forsan Banquet Slated Here

FORSAN—Athletes of Forsan High School will be honor guests at a banquet to be held Monday evening in the Downtown Tea Room in Big Spring, starting at 7:30 p.m.

All boys and girls who have represented Forsan in athletics and current school year will be eligible to attend the party.

Head Of Baseball School Pays Area Annual Visit

Johnnie Carrigan stopped in Big Spring Wednesday on behalf of his Big State Baseball Summer Camp, which will again be held on the University of Dallas campus in Dallas this summer.

Simon Terrazas of Big Spring was a student in the school last year and Carrigan said he hoped to enroll several other area youths for this year's clinic.

The first of three sessions in the school starts June 14. The second gets under way July 6 and the third July 27. Each extends for three weeks.

The camp is for boys between the ages of eight through 20 years of age, Carrigan reminded.

Instructors on the Big State school staff include Al Ogletree, former Detroit player; Dolph Regelsky, one-time New York Yankee farm hand, now coach at Crozier Tech High School in Dallas; Hack Miller, former Big Spring manager and a one-time catcher for the Detroit Tigers; Sheldon Jones, ex-New York Giant hurler; Fred Campbell, University of Indiana graduate; and Jerry Gifford, Arlington State ex.

The Big State camp was organized in 1951 and for many years operated at Meridian, Texas. Carrigan, who is assisted by his wife in the management of the school, has spent a lifetime in teaching and coaching boys in baseball.

The school had a record 334 registrants last year, many of

Palmer Heads Field In Carolina Meet

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, still looking for his first golf tournament victory of the year, headed a field of 150 that began play today in the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open.

The competition was formidable. Included were nine of the 12 men who have won on the tour this year, 22 of last year's 25 leading money winners and 26 of the current top 40.

The field included such worthies as Billy Casper, George Bayer, Tony Lema, Tommy Jacobs, Jack Burke, Al Besselink, Lionel Hebert, Ken Venturi, Art Wall, Dow Finsterwald, Doug Ford, Bruce Devlin, Mason Rudolph, Doug Sanders and a fellow named Sam Snead who'll be 52 next month.

Snead has won seven times, starting with the 1938 inaugural and running through 1960, and eight times has finished second or third.

The 72-hole tournament runs through Sunday over the par 72 Sedgefield Country Club course measuring about 7,000 yards.

Palmer, who a year ago at this time had won three tournaments, hasn't won this year. He lost a Pensacola, Fla., playoff to Gary Player last month, finishing second in a three-way 18-hole playoff that also involved Miller Barber.

Ties for third at Los Angeles and San Francisco in January were his only other high-money finishes.

A regional television network will carry the concluding holes Sunday as the professionals battle for top money of $5,500.

THREE HC TRACK RECORDS ARE ALREADY IN BOOKS THIS YEAR

Three school records have been set and two others tied by HCJC track and field athletes this spring, with the season not yet past the halfway mark.

Steve Langham shattered an HCJC record in the 440 with a 47.6 clocking last week. This year's sprint relay team has been timed in 41.6.

In addition, A. J. Williams has broad jumped 23-4 1/2 for still another mark.

The records:
100-yard dash—9.5, set by Bill Argo and Herman Robinson, 1961; tied by Dean Cheatham, 1962, and A. J. Williams, 1964.
220-yard dash—20.5, Bill Argo, 1961.
440-yard relay—41.6, Team composed of A. J. Williams, Terry Williams, Bruce Teagarden and Steve Langham, set in 1964.
880-yard run—1:57.0, Lewis White, 1963.
1 mile run—4:28.0, Bobby Fuller, 1957.
120-yard high hurdles—14.5, Kenneth Windham, 1963.
220-yard low hurdles—23.4, Kenneth Windham and Tommy Wise, both in 1963.
330-yard intermediate hurdles—39.1, Kenneth Windham, 1963.
440-yard relay—1:26.2, Team composed of Tommy Yarbro, Don Carter, Herman Robinson and Dean Cheatham, set in 1962.
460-yard relay—41.6, Team composed of A. J. Williams, Terry Williams, Bruce Teagarden and Steve Langham, set in 1964.
1 mile relay—3:17.5, Team composed of Tommy Yarbro, Bruce Teagarden, Milton Marrow and Don Carter, set in 1963. Tied by team composed of A. J. Williams, John Perry, Bruce Teagarden and Steve Langham this year.
Pole vault—13.7, Larry Mauldin, 1961.
Shot jump—23.4, A. J. Williams, 1964.
High jump—4.8, Willie Carter, 1961.
Broad jump—51.10, Mike Hill, 1961.
Discus—177.0, Mike Hill, 1962.
Javelin—190.25, Mike Hill, 1962.
Sprint medley relay—2:38.6, Team composed of Herman Robinson, Dean Cheatham, Tommy Yarbro, Milton Marrow, set in 1962.

Watering System Is Nearly Ready

By PAT WASHBURN
G. F. (Shorty) Gideon is just about to see a dream come true. And he's not the only one—for Big Spring golfers, reality is only two weeks away.

That's right. In only another 14 days, linksters will be able to tour the 18-hole layout at the Big Spring Municipal Golf Course and for once they'll be hitting into bright green spots where once nothing more sprouted than a dusty, brown sun-burnt weed.

Gideon, the course manager, has only to lay the pipe around the nine greens on the back side and the entire 18 holes will be irrigated for the first time in history.

It has been quite a project. The fairways began sporting the irrigation marks of ditches way back in mid-February and approximately 45 days later the job is finally finished. Now only the greens remain, a job which Gideon will do alone, due to the fact that he wants to make sure that the soft touch of delicacy is used. After all, greens don't come cheaply, and when one is torn up it isn't easy to replace.

The entire project costs in excess of $20,000, a total which includes the cost of patching up the reservoir from which will come the 4,000,000 gallons needed each month to do an adequate watering job.

But the money will be well spent if all goes well. Gideon estimates that the number of golfers on a weekend will rise from today's 70 to well over 100.

"There may come the day when you have to call in your reservation," he said over the phone Wednesday. He had a happy tone and it was easy to tell that a long-time dream of his was coming true.

You can't blame him for being happy. He's one of the hardest working men in Big Spring, at least from the standpoint of hours. No matter how early or how late you get to the course, he's going to be there. The first to arrive, the last to leave.

But now he's looking forward to an easier and much faster existence than he's known for many a year. Two men will be hired to run the system after dark during the hot months and Gideon will go his merry way, free after the last golfer decides it's too dark to chase another ball.

G. F. (SHORTY) GIDEON

During the summer the fairways will get a dousing treatment every seven to 10 days while the greens will get a long cool sip each third to fourth day. The course should improve 25 per cent according to Gideon's estimate. Golf scores should get lower, along with handicaps. And to any golfer, that's good news.

But Gideon is basically a fighter. Give him one thing and he's already asking for something else. Guess what he wants now.

"I want a bigger pro shop," he says candidly. You sympathize with him. After all, most golf shops hold more than five people comfortably.

But that might be a long way off. Right now one of his big dreams has come true and he hasn't quite recovered from that shock yet.

Anybody for golf?

Nat'l League Signup Nears

Saturday is signup day for the National Little League.

All boys residing in the district, other than those who played in the majors last year, must sign up in order to take part in the league tryouts. Boys between the ages of 8 and 12 (inclusive) as of July 31 are eligible to sign.

The time and place is College Heights School from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

The district includes the territory between Settles Street on the east and Sunset and Parkway streets on the west, and south of Fourth Street to the county line. No boy residing outside of the boundaries of the district can be signed by the district.

Boys should bring with them proof of age as this will be required for them to be assigned to a team.

Tryouts will be held at 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday (April 9), and managers and coaches will exercise their draft choices the evening of April 9 to complete their squads. Team assignments will be announced the following afternoon at the tryout grounds at 18th and Lancaster.

Star Sprinters Austin Bound

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas Relays officials are bragging about the 100-yard dash entries at the huge track meet this weekend. Judging from past performances, they have good reason.

The fast field includes Billy Foster and John Roderick of Southern Methodist, Mike Spratt and Boyd Timmons of the University of Houston, and Terry Williams, Omaha sophomore who has beaten Roger Sayers several times since Sayers won here last year.

Olympic Cage Trials Begin In New York

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Olympic Basketball Trials get under way at St. John's University today and never was it more true that "it matters not who won nor lost, but how they played the game."

Of course, that's not exactly what the late Grantland Rice had in mind. In fact, basketball wasn't even a part of the Olympic program when he penned the words in the '20s, but it certainly fits the situation.

The trials consist of a three-day, eight-team tourney that ends Saturday. The teams are made up of all-stars from the NCAA, the NAIA, AAU and armed services. Each team plays three games, but the results don't really matter.

The U.S. Olympic Selection Committee will make its choices by individuals, not teams. They'll select 12 players, plus six alternates, to represent the United States in the Tokyo Olympics this fall.

Selection to the team is virtually the same thing as winning a gold medal. The United States never has lost a basketball game in Olympic competition and will be a prohibitive favorite to take it all again. Since World War II, no team has come closer than 24 points to the U.S. aggregation.

And with the field of 96 candidates for the 12 berths, it appears certain that coach Henry Iba of Oklahoma State should have another winner.

Most of the All-America and Little All-America selections are included.

While none of them are assured of spots on the team, top candidates have to include Walt Hazzard of UCLA, Lucius Jackson of Pan American College, Dave Stallworth of Wichita, Cotton Nash of Kentucky, Cazzie Russell of Michigan, Ron Bonham of Cincinnati, Bill Bradley of Princeton, Willie Shaw of Lane College, Larry Pursiful of the Phillips 66ers and Willie Murrell of Kansas State.

The NCAA has three teams of all-stars in the field; the NAIA, representing the nation's small colleges, has one, and the AAU and armed services two each.

On Odessa Card Tonight

Pictured above are two boxers who will appear on a professional fight card in the Ector County Coliseum in Odessa tonight. At the left is Manny Gonzalez of Odessa, who faces the former World's Lightweight champion, Joe Brown of Houston, in the ten-round main event. At the right is Henry Dominguez of Odessa, newly crowned Texas Lightweight king, who opposes Horace Davis of Dallas in the ten-round co-feature. The show gets under way at 8:30 p.m. Five bouts are scheduled.

Hawks Shade Coast Quint

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis Hawks kept the pressure on the muscular young San Francisco Warriors in the National Basketball Association's Western playoff finals and the pressure proved too much, at least in the opening game.

Leading by 20 points four minutes into the second quarter, the Warriors faltered and the Hawks held the hot shooting hand with 13 second-quarter points as the Hawks narrowed the count to 58-54 at the half. Pettit took over the guarding of Chamberlain for the period and held him to five.

In the second half it was Guerrier's turn and he scored 23 points, bringing his total to 32, second only to Chamberlain's 37. Fourteen of Richie's points came on free throws.

Hagan suffered a bruised knee in the second half and Len Wilkens turned an ankle, but both are expected back in action for the Hawks on Friday night.

Hagan, used sparingly in the second half, scored 23 for St. Louis. Center Zelmo Beaty hit for 24 including 18 in the second half.

Wilt Chamberlain hit 16 points as the Warriors built a 33-20 first-quarter lead and they built it to a 47-27 advantage before the Hawks began surging back.

Ancient Vintage Autos In Demand

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—If there was anything they didn't need, said Richard Dewey's wife, it was another old Packard.

They already had six. And only a four-car garage. But there was this 1932 Packard Twin-Six sports Phaeton sitting up on blocks in the garage down the street, and really they don't make them like that any more.

The fellow who owned it had gone out to California and wouldn't answer his mail, but eventually Dewey won both the owner and his own wife around, and added the car to his collection.

Dewey, who is head of the sociology department at the University of New Hampshire, drove the car through Times Square Wednesday on the way to the International Automobile Show where it will be displayed along with 15 other classic automobiles, beginning Saturday.

The Packard is one of 16 cars voted as the most significant milestones in the history of the U.S. automobile. The magazine Sports Illustrated collected the 16 from around the country, and will sponsor the exhibit.

They range in age from a 1902 Rambler down to the 1932 Packard down to New York from Durham, N.H., about 280 miles, in six hours.

Dewey has no trouble with people zipping past him on the highway. His 12-cylinder beauty, with the original motor almost intact, can keep up. In fact, he has had a flat tire while doing 85.

And to answer the other question he is asked most often, he paid $2,500 for the car two years ago—a steal—and has been offered $10,000.

"It's worth more than that," he said. "But I don't want to sell it. My whole family enjoys it. My wife used to be known for her cooking. Now she is known as the woman who can park a 1932 Packard. It is a fun car. I don't want it in some museum."

Besides, Dewey says, you

Hawks Leave For Austin

Coach L. L. (Red) Lewis and members of the HCCJ track and field team departed for Austin this morning, where they may take part in the annual Texas Relays tomorrow and Saturday.

The Jayhawks will be competing against the best boys in university and college freshman circles, as well as against juco performers.

They'll be quartered at Camp Mabry, which is about a ten minutes' drive from Memorial Stadium, site of the meet.

Performers making the trip with Lewis include Bob Parker and Jim Taylor, hurdlers; Terry Williams and A. J. Williams, sprinters; Bruce Teagarden and Steve Langham, members of the relay teams; Jim Napier, shot putter; John Thompson, pole vaulter; and possibly Steve Brooks, relays man.

No team champion will be declared in the Austin sprint show. Next week, Lewis splits his squad. Part of the group will go to an invitational meet in Denton. The rest will compete in a triangular at Abilene, which will have the freshmen teams of ACC and Texas A&M as other teams.

Special Treat

Mrs. Morris Robertson dishes up an afternoon snack for her five sons who always seem to be hungry. Ricky, 17, Randy, 11, Roddie, 9, Reggy, 14, and Robby, 15, are busy youngsters who need plenty of fuel for their varied activities.

Robertsons Reflect Art Of Management

By MARY COCHRAN

There are five hungry, growing boys to feed at the Morris Robertson home at 2805 Clinton and the planning and executing meals is an unending challenge to the lady of the house.

"It takes management," understated petite Mrs. Robertson as she explained how to feed a family of seven, run a well-organized household and find leisure time for the many activities this modern homemaker takes part in.

Creativeness is apparent in the Robertson home from the hand-made tile pictures and flower arrangements that brighten the home, to the personally designed clothes of Mrs. Robertson. She not only finds time for homemaker chores but plays bridge in two clubs and takes part in a number of clubs. They include the XYZ Club, Woman's Progressive Forum, Pythian Sisters, the Ladies Golf Association and the Texas Creative Arts Club, a volunteer group that previously taught arts and crafts in the public schools.

"The boys do the biggest part of the housekeeping and I direct," said Mrs. Robertson. The family arises at six in the morning and each boy has his job to perform while breakfast is being prepared. By schooltime the house is clean, Randy and Roddie are off to Marcy school, Reggy and Robby head for Goliad Junior High School, Ricky leaves for high school, and Mr. Robertson goes to the Jay Deconting Body and Paint shop that he owns.

The main meal is at night and is built around meat and salad. Beans are a favorite and always on hand, particularly since one of the boys is on a strict diet of beans, bananas, gelatin and cokes. After school, snacks are limited to fruits and fruit juice.

Mrs. Robertson uses her deep freeze to store many of her foodstuffs and shops once a week. Frozen desserts are family preferences and cut cooking time for this active homemaker.

For company dinners, the Robertsons barbecue, or serve spaghetti and meat balls, the kind that is simmered for seven hours, or tacos.

Mrs. Robertson can manage campfire cooking, for her husband and the boys like to rough it. Trips to the lake for skiing, boating and swimming mean loading up the camp equipment and tent. The next scheduled outing will be to Big Bend where the family will gather native plants to landscape their home.

Management extends to budgeting for the boys. They earn their spending money, buy their cars and gas, and Ricky has his own boat. The YMCA is a favorite activity and in the past, Little League and Cub Scouts have been family affairs. The following recipes are favorites in the Robertson household.

HOT TUNA CASSEROLE

2 12 1/2 oz. cans of tuna
3 cups cooked elbow macaroni
1 1/2 cups sour cream
1/4 tsp. ground oregano
2 3/4 cup sliced ripe olives
3/4 cup sliced mushrooms
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped cashew nuts
3 tbsps. chopped pimiento
Combine and spoon into a two quart casserole. Sprinkle 1 cup grated American cheese over top. Bake in moderate oven 25 to 30 minutes. Serves eight.

TOMATO WONDER

8 medium tomatoes
3 cups sliced lettuce
2 large diced dill pickles
1/2 onion, diced
Cut tops from tomatoes, scallop edges, (save small pieces) scoop out the inside of tomatoes. Combine small pieces of tomatoes with the other three ingredients and toss with French dressing. Stuff each tomato with mixture. Add one teaspoon of mayonnaise to top. Serves eight.

MUSHROOM AND BEAN SALAD

2 cups each: cooked lima beans, kidney beans and diced green beans
1 cup chopped tomato
1 cup diced celery
1/2 cup chopped dill pickles
1/2 cup diced mushrooms
1/2 cup diced onions
5 small radishes, sliced
Combine and toss with salad dressing or salad oil.

SIMPLE FRUIT DELIGHT

2 7-oz. bottles ginger ale
1 6-oz. can frozen tangerine juice concentrate
1 No. 2 1/2 can (3 1/2 cups) fruit cocktail, drained and chilled
Combine ginger ale tangerine concentrate. Stir until concentrate melts. Pour into ice trays; freeze till firm. At serving time, break into chunks; beat with electric beater just until broken up. Stir in fruit cocktail and serve in chilled sherbert glasses. Serves eight.

CRANBERRY SALAD

1 1/3 tbsps. unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
4 tbsps. sugar
1 1/4 cups orange juice
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 tsp. grated orange rind
1 cup chopped raw cranberries
1/2 cup broken orange sections
1/4 cup chopped nuts
Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat orange juice to boiling point; dissolve gelatin in hot orange juice. Add sugar, salt, lemon juice, grated orange rind and stir well until sugar is dissolved. Chill until partially set. Fold in cranberries, orange sections and nuts. Turn into molds; chill until firm. Unmold; serve on bed of salad greens. Serves eight.

CITRUS COMPOTE

Grapefruit
Oranges
Strawberries, sliced
Shredded coconut

Chill fruit before preparing. Cut off grapefruit and orange peel in circular motion, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Go over fruit again, removing any remaining white membrane. To section grapefruit, cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Cut oranges into slices. Make border of coconut and arrange in groups on plate.

Pineapple, Apricot Combined In Pie

On Sunday after the traditional main course has been joyfully consumed, it's time for you to unveil a special dessert to fittingly climax the feast.

This make-ahead Cool 'n' Creamy Pie offers a perfect possibility. Light and so smooth the heavenly filling is flavored with apricot nectar and pineapple juice. Underneath sets a very flaky, tender crust.

COOL 'N' CREAMY PIE

Pastry
1 cup sifted enriched flour
1/2 tsp. salt
4 to 6 tbsps. lard

Scrambled Egg Plate

Big festivities this week, so make this noontime meal one that is quick to prepare but good to eat. These scrambled eggs look particularly attractive.

SPECIAL SCRAMBLED EGGS

6 eggs
1/4 tsp. salt
White pepper to taste
2 tbsps. butter
3/4 cup cubed cheddar cheese (about 1/2 in. pieces)
2 drained canned pimientos (diced)
Beat eggs, with salt and pepper, enough to combine yolks and whites. Melt butter in a 9- or 10-inch skillet over low heat; add eggs; as they set, use a large spoon to scrape away from edges and center.

When eggs are almost as firm as desired, stir in cheese and pimiento. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Lamb Brightened By Seasonings

A few seasonings add immeasurably to roast lamb.

ROAST LAMB WITH POTATOES

Leg of spring lamb (about 6 pounds)
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. rosemary (crushed)
1/2 tsp. dried mixed herbs (for lamb)
1/2 tsp. garlic powder
6 medium potatoes (about 1 1/2 lbs.)

Have the fell (thin tough outer covering) removed from lamb. Mix together the salt, pepper, rosemary, mixed herbs and garlic powder; spread over lamb with a small spatula. Roast on a rack in a shallow pan in a moderate (350 degrees) oven to desired degree of doneness as registered on meat thermometer. Pare potatoes and cut in half lengthwise; about an hour before the lamb is done place potatoes in fat, under rack; turn once during the baking.

Cherries Spark Summer Punch

Here's a refreshing beverage that's bound to appeal to guests of all ages.

SUMMER PUNCH

1 1/2 cups light corn syrup
1/2 cup strongly brewed tea
1/2 cup lemon juice
3/4 cup orange juice
1 cup pineapple juice
1 qt. cold water
1 bottle (4 ozs.) maraschino cherries, if desired
1 pt. gingerale, chilled
Mix together corn syrup, tea, lemon juice, orange juice, pineapple juice, water and, if used, the cherries. Chill. Add gingerale just before serving. Serve as is or over ice cubes. Makes 2 1/2 quarts, enough for about 12 servings.

NOTE: If cherries are not used, punch may be tinted a delicate pink by adding a few drops of red food coloring.

Lamb Proves Excellent Buy At Meat Counter

Scouting your meat counter for different cuts of meat offers you a good method of putting variety into meals. Perhaps you can even find cuts you've never served.

Lamb, for example, can provide many choices other than the popular chops and leg. Take lamb shanks. Not only are they thrifty priced but they're filled with flavor.

Cooking the shanks can be quite simple with the recipe suggestion for Onion Lamb Shanks. Merely braise the meat with water and dehydrated onion soup. When the cooking is finished, thicken the liquid with flour for a savory gravy.

Lamb shanks, neck slices and stew meat are the few lamb cuts that require braising or cooking in liquid. All others may be broiled or roasted.

ONION LAMB SHANKS

4 lamb shanks
3 tbsps. lard or drippings
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 1/2 cups water
1 pkg. (1 1/2 ozs.) dehydrated onion soup
1/4 cup flour

Brown shanks in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season shanks with pepper. Combine water and onion soup mix. Pour mixture over shanks. Cover tightly and cook slowly 2 1/2 hours or until done.

Remove shanks from pan. Mix flour with a small amount of water and add to cooking liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Serve gravy with shanks. 4 servings.

Old Time Favorite Has New Partners

Curry and olive oil are the surprise elements in this apple salad.

Combine in a large salad bowl 1 cup shredded green cabbage, 2 sliced, cored Macintosh apples, 1/2 green pepper, cut in slivers and a small onion, thinly sliced or a teaspoon of grated onion. To this add a dressing of 1/4 cup Spanish olive oil, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, a pinch of curry powder and 2 tablespoons vinegar. Toss to blend well; marinate salad half an hour before serving. Makes six servings.

Leg Of Lamb Makes Elegant Holiday Dish

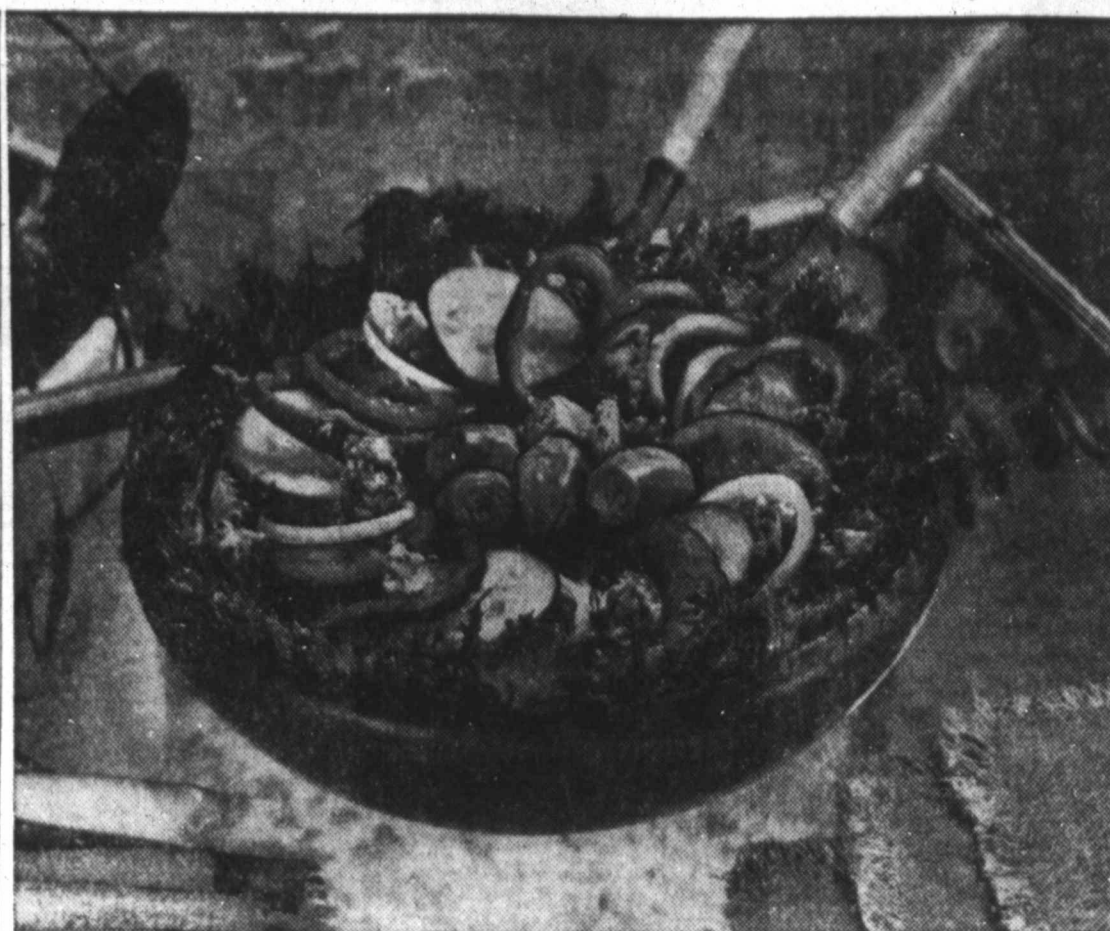

In keeping with tradition, no finer choice could be made for your fancy dinner than an elegant leg of lamb. This festive roast is a time-honored menu feature you'll repeat with pride year after year.

There are only a few preparation steps to follow for perfect results. Place the meat, skin side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. The rack holds the meat up out of the drippings. The fell, the paper-like covering, should be left on the lamb during cooking. Insert a meat thermometer so the bulb reaches the center of the thickest part of the leg, being sure the bulb does not rest in fat or on bone.

Do not add water and do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (300 degrees to 325 degrees F.) until the meat thermometer registers 150 degrees F. for well-done lamb, 175 degrees F. for medium-done. Allow about 30 to 35 minutes per pound.

If you remove the roast from the oven about 20 minutes before serving time, the meat will be easier to carve, and it will remain hot.

Two styles of lamb legs are available at most markets: French style and American style. The French style has an exposed bone often covered with a paper frill for decoration.

Men's Favorite

Try a salad of greens, artichokes, tomatoes, cucumbers, green pepper and onion rings. Top it with a blue cheese dressing.

Green Salad Pleases Menfolk If Tangy

Who says American men don't go for tossed salad, and that they pale at even a mention of "crisp greens?"

It's not true. Men do like tossed green salads if it's made with blue cheese dressing.

We don't know how or why blue cheese with salad caught on, but it certainly has. Listen to a man when the waitress in a restaurant asks him the kind of dressing — French, mayonnaise, or blue cheese—he'd like. Ten to one, at least in our survey, he'll say, "Blue Cheese."

So many versions of the Blue Cheese Dressing with which salad greens are tossed. Sometimes the cheese is added to French dressing, sometimes to mayonnaise. One of my sisters, with her weight-watching husband in mind, makes the dressing of a little mayonnaise, a lot of buttermilk and plenty of the cheese.

A version we like is a creamy-smooth affair rich with blue cheese flavor. Instead of mayonnaise, we add sour cream. Here's the recipe.

CREAMY SMOOTH BLUE CHEESE DRESSING

1 pkg. (8 ozs.) blue cheese
1/2 cup buttermilk
1/2 cup cultured sour cream
2 tbsps. cider vinegar
1/2 cup salad (not olive) oil
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. white pepper

In a mixing bowl, with a fork, mash blue cheese until fine. With the fork beat in the buttermilk and sour cream gradually and alternately with the vinegar; beat in the oil, salt and pepper. Mixture should be creamy smooth; if it isn't, beat it gently with a rotary beater (hand or electric) until it is. Makes 2 1/2 to 3 cups.

Note: Men like this dressing served with tossed salad greens and red onion rings.

MARINATED ARTICHOKE HEARTS

1 pkg. (9-ozs.) artichoke hearts
2 tbsps. olive oil
1 tsp. white wine vinegar
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/4 tsp. sugar

1/4 tsp. Dijon mustard
Cook artichoke hearts according to package directions; drain. In a shallow container mix together the remaining ingredients; mix in artichoke hearts. Add a little more oil if marinade seems too sharp.

Cover tightly and refrigerate for an hour or so before serving, turning artichoke hearts in the small amount of marinade once or twice. Makes 6 servings.

FRESH BROCCOLI SALAD

1 bunch broccoli
Boiling water
1/2 cup salad oil
1/4 cup red wine vinegar
1 tsp. salt
Pepper to taste
1 tsp. sugar

1 small or 1/2 medium red onion (cut in paper-thin slices and separated into rings)
Pare fibrous outer covering from broccoli stalks, using a swivel-blade vegetable parer, up to buds. Cut through stalks and buds lengthwise, if necessary, to make uniform size. Wash in cold water. Cook in a small amount of boiling water, in a kettle or 12-inch skillet, just until tender; drain well.

In a large shallow container beat together with a fork the oil, vinegar, salt, pepper and sugar; arrange broccoli and onion rings in the marinade. Refrigerate for several hours turning once. Makes 6 servings.

EGG SALAD SPECIAL

6 eggs
2 tbsps. mayonnaise
2 tbsps. prepared yellow mustard
White pepper to taste
1 jar (4 ozs.) red caviar
Romaine or other lettuce
Green pepper strips

Crisp Cucumbers Give Salad Verve

A crisply pleasant salad to please the most particular tastes.

ENGLISH APPLE AND CUCUMBER SALAD

1 large cucumber, unpeeled
2 medium - sized apples, unpeeled
1 tbsp. fresh lemon juice
1-16 tsp. salt
1-16 tsp. ground black pepper
3 tbsps. sour cream
3 tbsps. mayonnaise
Paprika

Wash cucumber and slice one-eighth-inch thick. Wash apples and cut into one-fourth inch slices. Add to cucumber along with lemon juice, salt and black pepper. Add sour cream and mayonnaise and mix lightly. Serve piled in a salad bowl, lined with lettuce. Garnish with paprika.

Fruit Cup Makes First Course Dish

Nice first course for this time of year.

FRUIT CUP FRANCES

2 grapefruit
1 large orange
1 large ripe pear
1 can (8 1/2 ozs.) sliced pineapple
Pare grapefruit and orange so no white membrane remains; cut away sections and leave them whole. Pare pear, core and slice lengthwise. Mix grapefruit and orange sections (without juice) with pear and pineapple syrup. Makes 6 servings.

Good Buys Reported For Texas Markets

By The Associated Press

Beef, especially top - quality fed beef, is featured in many Texas food markets. The meat industry and retailers want to get an abundance of beef to consumers at attractive cost.

Other high-protein foods in ample supply include turkey, broilers, pork, eggs, cottage cheese and dried beans. Spring lamb is increasing in volume, the Agricultural Marketing Service reports.

Several fresh vegetables cost less than a week ago, as production increases. Lower wholesale prices prevail at most points on cabbage, carrots, celery, green beans, onions and tomatoes. Potatoes are slightly higher.

Good-buy vegetables include cabbage, carrots, greens, onions, potatoes, spinach and turnips.

Apples are an economical fruit even though they may cost a bit more as the season advances. Lemons, cantaloupes and bananas also are generally economical this week. Most markets are receiving increased shipments of strawberries, watermelons and cantaloupes. Small avocados are higher at most markets.

Refrigerate Hams For Safe Storage

All canned hams should be stored in the refrigerator unless label instructions are to the contrary. The labels on some canned hams weighing less than three pounds may indicate that you can store the ham on your shelf. All hams, except possibly country-style (with a very heavy cure), should be refrigerated.

Salad Season Beats Grandma's Remedies

'Tis the season for salad. Grandma would be serving up a spring tonic, but the modern homemaker knows a better cure for the doldrums.

The smart cook doctors her meals with tantalizing and healthful salads. They are good for the family and add zest to puny appetites.

The basic principals of salad making are the same but new flavor treats appear on the culinary scene every day. Vegetable salads are a pleasant way to spark the menu, and the fruits in the markets offer large choices for the homemaker.

A Western salad that's working its way East is a citrus and onion salad served with a choice of two dressings. One dressing is real mayonnaise thinned with orange juice and the other is a mixture of sour cream and real mayonnaise. For the salad, use orange and grapefruit sections and rings of mild onions and serve on crisp lettuce cups.

ORANGE MAYONNAISE DRESSING

1-3 cup corn syrup
3/4 cup real mayonnaise
1/4 cup orange juice
1/4 tsp. grated onion

Gradually stir corn syrup into mayonnaise. Mix in orange juice and onion. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

MAYONNAISE SOUR CREAM DRESSING

1/2 cup dairy mayonnaise
1/2 cup real mayonnaise
1/2 tsp. vinegar
1/2 tsp. sugar

Blend all ingredients together. Chill. Serve over chilled raw or cooked vegetables. Makes about 1 cup dressing.

To prepare lettuce cups cut out core from lettuce head. Hold cored side up under running water to loosen leaves. Slip leaves

MOLDED GREEN CABBAGE RELISH

1 pkg. (3 ozs.) lemon-lime flavored gelatin
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup boiling water
3/4 cup cold water

1 tsp. lemon juice
2 tbsps. minced onion
2 tbsps. minced parsley
1 1/2 cups finely chopped green cabbage

Stir together the gelatin, salt and boiling water until gelatin dissolves. Stir in cold water and lemon juice. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Chill until slightly thickened. Spoon into 6 individual 1/2-cup molds. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with salad greens. Makes 6 servings.

BOZIDAR KUNC
... stricken in concert

Heart Attack Proves Fatal To Pianist

DETROIT (AP)—Concert pianist Bozidar Kunc of New York City collapsed in the wings and died of a heart attack after performing one of his own compositions with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Wednesday night.

The Yugoslavian composer, teacher and pianist was stricken while his sister, Metropolitan Opera Co. star Zinka Milanov, finished a song.

Few of the 1,900 persons attending the benefit performance at glittering Ford Auditorium on the downtown river front were aware of the tragedy.

WIPED BROW

In a 20-minute performance of his piano concerto in B minor, a work which demands virtuosity of pianist and orchestra, Kunc, 60, wiped his brow three times and once momentarily rested his head in his arms, witnesses said.

He took two bows alone and bowed to the applause a third time with conductor Sixten Ehring.

As Miss Milanov finished an encore just 25 minutes later, C. P. Kennedy, stage manager, "turned and looked back into the wings, there he was," Kennedy said, "lying on his back and breathing heavily."

SISTER SANG

Stagehands said Kunc had been pacing back and forth while his sister sang a Croatian folk song and an operatic aria minutes before.

Kennedy summoned a doctor from the audience. The physician worked over Kunc among the tangle of ropes and pulleys. Miss Milanov came to her brother's side.

Kunc was dead on arrival at receiving hospital. A medical examiner's report said he died from a heart attack brought on by an arterial sclerotic heart disease (hardening of the arteries).

Kunc's wife, DeElda, and sister accompanied the ambulance to the hospital.

Election Tiff Decisions Due

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Supreme Court hopes to decide before the weekend two election cases argued Wednesday.

Chief Justice Robert Calvert assured lawyers in the Travis and Angelina County cases that rulings would be handed down before Saturday, the deadline for changes in printing May 2 ballots.

Austin Justice of the Peace Curtis Lacy asked the court not to change an order of the Court of Civil Appeals here that Lacy's name must appear on Travis County Democratic ballots.

The county Democratic chairman, however, contended his name should be removed because Lacy moved his residence outside the precinct he seeks to serve.

In the Angelina case, Dist. Atty. Hulon Brown asked that Democratic party officials be ordered to place his name on primary ballots. The county chairman said Brown failed to pay his filing fee by the deadline.

Brown contended he mailed the payment on the final day, with an understanding such procedure would be approved by the county chairman. The Beaumont Court of Civil Appeals refused last week to uphold Brown's request.

New Ambassador

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The new U. S. ambassador to Mexico, Fulton Freeman, was expected to arrive today. He replaces Thomas Mann, called to Washington as assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs.

Record Photos Reported In High Balloon Flight

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—A scientist of the high altitude observatory here says an unmanned balloon launched in Texas provided pictures of the sun made over a longer period than ever before.

Dr. Gordon Newkirk Jr. described some of the results of the March 5 balloon flight Wednesday.

He said a 16-millimeter camera took pictures of the sun's corona for more than six hours. The camera was fastened to a coronagraph in the balloon's gondola.

The balloon climbed to 98,000 feet over Palestine, Tex. The scientist said the corona is the extended upper atmosphere of the sun and generally is visible only during a total solar eclipse.

"Although it is now known that this atmosphere reaches out all the way from the sun to the earth, the corona still presents many puzzles to the astronomer," Newkirk said.

He said pictures made on the Palestine flight may help show how the corona material streams into outer space, and how the corona influences the magnetic field and upper atmosphere of the earth.

Dies Of Injuries

FORT WORTH (AP)—Theresa Baker, 5, a Negro, died today of injuries suffered March 25 when a car struck her on a Fort Worth street.

Oswald's Mom Dismisses Lawyer After 'Fine Job'

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Tuesday dispensing with his services.

Marguerite Oswald has announced her dismissal of New York lawyer Mark Lane, who investigated job but "his services are no longer required because I am able to conduct my own investigation."

Mrs. Oswald's letter asked Lane to send her a copy of his report to the commission and to stop any "organized campaign" that she wrote to Lane on behalf of her son through his "Citizens Committee of Inquiry."

She had received no contributions since her March 21 appeal in Chicago for money to pay for an office, investigator and stenographer—and she felt this was because people mistakenly believed she was affiliated with that committee, Mrs. Oswald said.

Lane, replying the same day he received Mrs. Oswald's letter, agreed to termination of the attorney-client relationship and promised a copy of his report. He expressed confidence that "in due course, all of the facts will be presented to the American people despite the fact that your son was denied the right to a trial."

Lane agreed last Jan. 11 to represent Mrs. Oswald free of charge in collection of information on the shootings in Dallas of the late President, on Nov. 22, and her son, on Nov. 24, and present it to the commission.

Javits Denies Weakening Slant For Rights Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharp denial that Republican senators will back "weakening amendments" to the controversial civil rights bill came today from Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

The New York Republican, a leader in the bipartisan group now trying to push the House-passed measure through the Senate, flatly denied reports

"that Republicans in the Senate will take this administration off the hook by insisting on certain amendments as the price for enactment of the bill."

With debate now in its 20th day and showdown decisions apparently far in the future, Javits and Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., teamed up to explain and support the "public facilities" compliance now must be started and usually financed by individuals or groups.

Senators got advance notice Wednesday that the daily session will lengthen next week.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., indicated that supporters of the bill have mapped a program of bipartisan speeches in support of it running through April 15 and probably beyond.

And he and other senators backing the bill told a leadership conference of civil rights supporters Wednesday that they now lack the 67 votes required to clamp a limit on Senate debate and force voting.

Future Isn't Definite, Says Recovering Glenn

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — John H. Glenn Jr., the freckled, thin-haired American space hero, says he has nothing definite in mind for the future, but one thing is certain: "I'm not a candidate for the U. S. Senate."

Glenn, disabled by an ear injury Feb. 26, said Wednesday he had not closed the door on anything in the future, not even a return to the space program.

"Right now my No. 1 concern is getting well," he said during an interview in his room at Wilford Hall Air Force Hospital.

Doctors say Glenn faces several months of inactivity before he will be completely recovered from the injury, suffered as he fell in the bathroom of his Columbus, Ohio, apartment.

IT'S FINAL

The former astronaut emphasized that his withdrawal as a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Ohio was final.

If Ohio voters should go ahead and elect him, he said, "they'd better have a replacement for me in mind."

A craft move is afoot in Ohio among his supporters. His name remains on the May 5 primary ballot because he pulled out too late.

"This is not the usual type political double talk," Glenn said. "I considered all angles, even a draft, before I made my decision to withdraw."

"No one hated to give up worse than me. But I did so on the advice of my doctors."

Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth, said he has lost 17 pounds since the injury. He looked pale, but smiled and laughed frequently.

Sitting at about a 40-degree angle in his bed, he said his condition has improved to the point he feels he can do as well at his home near Houston as in the hospital. He expects to go there this weekend or early next week.

Glenn said he definitely will stay in the Marines until he is completely recovered. "After that I don't know."

The Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston said shortly after he quit the race that Glenn could still be valuable in the space program and his return as an astronaut would be strictly a consideration of health.

Doctors diagnosed his injury as labyrinthitis, an inflammation of the inner ear. Dizziness, nausea and loss of balance are the main symptoms.

Turning his head very slowly to one side, Glenn said: "That's about as fast as I can turn my head without getting dizzy."

There has been slow improvement, he said, and he now can walk with a cane.

"Right after the accident, I could only turn my head slightly without going into a spin-out ... I just shuffle around, very slowly. At least I'm not completely bedridden."

Demands Aid Against Fidel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., today demanded "open and increasing assistance" to Cuban freedom fighters.

Dodd, in a speech prepared for Senate delivery, predicted that in the not too distant future Cuba "will be the scene of another popular revolt against Communist bestiality" and declared:

"And on the day when the pent-up wrath of the Cuban people explodes, our action or inaction may make the difference between victory or defeat."

Without mentioning Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Dodd took sharp issue with Fulbright's Senate speech last week urging a change in Cuban policy.

Fulbright suggested that Fidel Castro's Cuba should be looked upon as "a distasteful nuisance but not an intolerable danger."

While Fulbright said "grave threat" to other Latin-American nations, he contended this could be dealt with by prompt and vigorous use of antiaggression machinery of the Organization of American States.

Dodd described as a "fallacy of the do-nothing policy" any argument that "the Castro regime, while admittedly a nuisance, does not pose any mortal threat to our security."

Mexicans Oust Nationalist Unit

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government has cancelled the registration of the Nationalist Party of Mexico, knocking it out of participation in the July 5 general election.

The party, split into three rival groups, had been unable to prove it met requirements for maintaining registration, first granted in 1951.

A major requirement is a membership of at least 75,000.

The Nationalist Party had never wielded much influence on the Mexican political scene, firmly dominated by the government's Institutional Revolutionary Party. It has no representation in the present congress.

Other legally registered parties are the National Action Party, the Popular Socialist Party and the Authentic Party of the Mexican Revolution.

A Devotional For The Day

Because I live, ye shall live also. (John 14:19.)
PRAYER: Our Father, while we have the privilege of living here, may we fill each day with things most worthwhile. Help us to make this world a better world because of our living in it. In the name of Christ, our living Redeemer and Master, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Clear Warning

The decision of the special panel of federal judges hearing the Texas congressional redistricting case has removed the pressure of immediacy but not of reform.
By setting the effective date back to Jan. 11, 1965, and maintaining the matter on the docket under compulsion of corrective action by Aug. 1, 1965, the court has served notice to Texas that it expects something to be done.
In a large measure, Texas got herself in this mess. Few can argue conscientiously that the legislature dealt with the problem of redistricting as forthrightly as it should have done. Now with the possibility that the courts can take it out of the hands of the legislature if the legislature continues to dilly-dally, we may expect the legislature to cease a manana attitude to this thorny problem.

Because of the confusion and even chaos it might have caused by ordering all congressmen to run on an at-large basis, the decision of the court is a wise as well as tolerant one. Representative government calls for a closeness between the representative and his constituency, and this intimate rapport cannot exist on a generalized basis such as an at-large election would create.

Nevertheless, the districts need to be realigned to approach as far as practical a nearer to equal representation. The issue is squarely before the legislature and there simply must be sensible action on this at the next session.

The Better Basis

John H. Glenn Jr. has bowed out of Ohio politics, at least for this season. Failure of an inner-ear injury to respond to treatment led him to the decision that since he could not campaign in person he should withdraw from the Ohio Democratic primary.
"No man has a right to ask for a seat in either branch of the Congress merely because of a specific event such as orbiting the earth in a spacecraft," said the first American to orbit the earth.
This is well said, for the choice of voters at all times should be based upon a discussion and consideration of the issues, not on extraneous and unrelated popularity. Indeed, it may be that popularity in one field may or may not be transferrable to that of politics, but John Glenn has astutely pointed out that it should not be.

It may be that Glenn will be privileged later to enter the field of politics or public service, but he can do it on the basis of face-to-face discussion with potential constituents. In the long run, his career may have been served better by the withdrawal from the current campaign.

Which Man Is The Myth?

WASHINGTON — Some of us the other night at a stag party briefing listened to an analysis of the Johnson Budget by an Eisenhower Republican.
The briefing officer, an established and experienced expert, had spent 19 workdays doing a line-by-line dissection of LBJ's 1,165-page, 4-pound, 7 ounce fiscal testament, the Federal Budget for the year that begins in July, and of related documents. All the presidential claims of prudence and frugality, economy and cutback, made since last November, were examined, analyzed and evaluated. And as the meaning of it all began to break through upon us, a financial reporter at my table leaned toward me and said:
"Poor Jack!"

POOR JOHN F. KENNEDY! For, if our briefing officer's revelations of LBJ's fiscal trickery and bookkeeping contrivances were at all valid, and if the country, the Congress and the press are being gulled into believing the presidential claims, then Johnson had written another searing chapter on the "myth" of JFK.

Somebody asked the inevitable question: If cutting the Budget and halving the deficit were so easy, why hadn't Kennedy, with exactly the same team of financial advisers that Johnson was using, done the same thing?

SO, WHICH MAN is the "myth": JFK or LBJ? I would want to wait a while to find the answer. Johnson, with his keener sensitivity to public and Congressional sentiment, moved with speed and flourish to achieve economies. He cancelled the Dynascope project. He ordered the closing of obsolete military bases. He cut the projected Federal roster. He brought in a Budget that was well under the frightening $100 billion figure. He slashed the "planned" deficit in twain.

But meanwhile, here are some hand - is - quicker - than - the - eye manipulations which seem to make Johnson look like a better President than Kennedy:

SOON AFTER Kennedy's death, Johnson increased his predecessor's spending program by $600 million, which might just as well have come next year. The move made JFK look like the spender and LBJ like next year's saver. Kennedy had estimated the tax cut would stimulate prosperity and gain $14 billion in Federal revenues. Somehow, Johnson leaned on Walter Heller and Kermit Gordon — the financial wizards who served both Presidents — to make this figure read $4.6 billion — a gain

Billy Graham

I have tried to reason my way to Christianity, but it is not easy. I do so want to be a Christian, but it is most difficult to give intellectual assent to something one can't even remotely understand.—J. S.
You are making the mistake of Nicodemus trying to get into the kingdom of God head first. The Bible says: "With the heart man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

The will is as important to your entering the kingdom of God as your intellect. As we have heard said: "No man is born into the kingdom of God head first." Men are not drawn from in front by the mind, they are pushed from behind by the will." to borrow a phrase from Schopenhauer.

You say: "I do so want to be a Christian." This signifies that God has created within you the desire, and that means that the work of Salvation has already begun. The Bible says: "If any man will do his will he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God or not." God wants your will. Surrender it to Him! He has said: "Son, give me thine heart." Not, "Son, give me thine intellect." You are just a step from the kingdom; a step exactly the length of your will.

The Scripture says: "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." Romans 10:9.

Balloons

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Sylvania Electric Products is investigating the possibility of using balloon satellites for a communications network to link U. S. Air Force installations throughout the world.

The network would provide virtually instantaneous voice and data signal contact and is designed to overcome deliberate interference and natural radio disturbances.

The study, being conducted under a $100,000 Air Force contract, will determine the feasibility of relaying signals over microwave radio beams by bouncing them off balloons orbiting the earth at heights of 2,000 miles.

Mansfield Rights Outlook Lights Bomb For LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was like putting a firecracker under President Johnson's chair.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Johnson's successor as Democratic majority leader of the Senate, calmly told reporters:

"The Senate, because of the Southern Democrats' filibustering opposition, may not be able to finish the civil rights fight until next fall."

The fight on the civil rights bill began a couple of weeks ago, droned along, and then got seriously started this week.

NO FINISH till fall would carry the struggle through the summer with just time out for the Democratic and Republican presidential conventions.

Mansfield, unlike Johnson, is a relaxed and easy-going man whose attitude on filibusters, including this one, seems to be:

"Oh, let the boys talk."

But Johnson has a lot of programs hanging in Congress, from foreign aid to war on poverty.

Some of them could get jammed, hashed and massacred if a long civil rights fight delayed action on them till the last minute.

Yet, Johnson almost certainly will want the Democratic presidential nomination so he can try to get elected to the White House on his own.

BUT HE WILL need some positive accomplishments to campaign on, like a lot of good legislation passed.

Without that, he will be just a man who made big promises but couldn't produce.

He won't be the only sufferer if Congress is still in session next fall. All 435 House seats are at stake.

So the members of Congress will need time next fall to campaign for re-election.

One way to speed up action on civil rights, if that's possible, is to keep the Senate in round-the-clock session for weeks until the filibusters wear themselves out.

BUT IN THE process the pro-civil rights senators, and even the indifferent ones, will wind up worn out, too, and that could be dangerous for some in the upper-age bracket.

Mansfield wants no part of such a survival contest. He wants everything, as usual, done in a kind of gentlemanly way.

Johnson hasn't expressed himself on Mansfield's latest statement but it can be guessed how he feels for a couple of reasons:

1. He was a hard-driver himself. He didn't let the fight go on for endless months when he was steering two civil rights bills through the Senate in 1957 and 1960, the only two to get through in this century.

2. Now he has an even bigger stake in the outcome than when he was majority leader. The civil rights program is his administration's program. He endorsed it, said he wants it, and needs it to point to.

RIGHT HERE is where the Southern strategy may be most effective in putting pressure on Johnson to make compromises on the civil rights bill, since he has more than civil rights to worry about.

This, of course, was the Southern strategy from the beginning but Mansfield's statement should give him chances a boost.

There's another side to this: The longer they tie up Johnson's other programs, the more excuse they give him to compromise on civil rights.

But if he does compromise, on any kind of excuse, he will be on the spot anyway since Negroes and white supporters of civil rights will be watching to see who yields an inch.

The Mark Of Henpeckedness

NEW YORK (AP) — "Am I henpecked? How can a man tell if he is henpecked?"

A young fellow new to the double harness routine asked me these questions recently.

They rather took me aback—they seemed so old-fashioned. It was almost as if someone had suddenly inquired seriously: "Do you favor a protective tariff on high-button shoes?"

American wives, by and large tend to feel rather complacent that they allow their husbands a pretty long leash. European men and women, on the other hand, are convinced that all American husbands are abject slaves of their wives.

THE TRUTH probably lies pretty well in between, although no one can question the rise of feminine authority in this country. This is shown by the widespread decline in wife-beating, now a vanished art.

In most households today a man would even rather try to whip his teen-age kids than risk a right to his queen bee's chin.

But there are positive ways to tell how henpecked a husband is. Here's a guide. He is more of a mouse than a man if—

He never cashes his own pay-check.

FOUR OR more days out of the week he has to ask her for lunch money before leaving for work.

When he is explaining at a cocktail party the difference between nuclear fission and fusion she interrupts and says, "That's not it at all—you've got it backward."

She keeps the car keys in her purse, but allows him to have a photo of her in his wallet.

The clerk at the supermarket hands him the sack of groceries to carry—but looks to her to pay the bill.

WHEN MAMA tells the kids they can't do something, they never think to ask Papa to overrule her verdict.

It is supposed to be his bathroom, but there are always her nylon stockings hung up to dry.

The friends he used to have never call anymore; her old friends are now the family chums.

His mother-in-law visits at the house regularly; her mother-in-law is lucky to get a nickel card from them at Christmas.

IF HIS watch says it is 8 o'clock, and it is 8:05 by her watch, he sets his watch up five minutes.

When they are going out, she no longer has to ask him to zip up the back of her dress. He's there, ready and waiting.

Everybody says what a happy well-adjusted couple they are because they never seem to raise a voice to each other, let alone quarrel.

Actually what we have here, however, is a henpecked husband turned into one of life's losers by being married to a woman with winning ways.

Aluminum Chloride Solution Checks Perspiration

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am an emotional, nervous person and have perspired profusely under the arms all my adult life. This has caused embarrassment and annoyance.

Lately I have used a prescription of 25 per cent aluminum chloride before retiring at night. This seems to check the flow considerably and I am pleased with the result, but could it interfere with the function of the glands, since I've read that glandular disturbance plays a part in formation of cancer?—P. L.

First of all, profuse perspiration is a rather frequent problem.

The aluminum chloride solution is very effective and I have recommended it frequently for cases in which the commercial antiperspirants do not help enough. (My suggestion is a solution of from 10 to 25 per cent. It takes some experimenting to find the proportion which is best for each individual.)

In some, the 25 per cent solution may cause local skin irritation. These people should stop for a few days, then use a weaker solution.

Irritation (if there is any) is the only thing to fear—not cancer. The sweat glands are the only ones involved.

You take a bit of cotton and swab the solution on the areas in which the sweat glands are too active. Then just leave it there.

To indicate how serious the problem is to some, here's another letter:

Dear Doctor: One physician

says that injections will dry up the sweat glands but side effects are likely; another suggests X-rays but thinks they are too dangerous; a third has tried tranquilizers but they don't help me; the last said a sympathectomy can be performed. I have been debating this.—L. S.

The sympathectomy (cutting of a nerve) is a rather drastic measure. You should still try the aluminum chloride first. According to the code of medicine, the simplest treatments should almost always be tried before resorting to more serious and difficult ones.

Because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, Dr. Molner regrets that he cannot answer individual letters, but whenever possible he uses readers' questions in his column.

Around The Rim

Drive-In Eases The Pressure

One of the best pressure-relief valves we have is the drive-in window. Practically any service you can name is being provided through drive-in windows, from banking to pharmacies, cafes to grocery stores. And by virtue of these modern merchandising innovations, the parking problem is less severe.

In many areas, drive-in windows have saved what could be an impossible parking situation by eliminating the need for parking by the resident only interested in one errand downtown. This leaves the parking spaces available to those who intend to do a bit of shopping.

SEVERAL YEARS ago, there was considerable talk about making a drive-in window at city hall for residents wanting to pay water bills. Even the place was earmarked—in the central fire station on the alley. At the time, it was argued this was the only feasible place for such a window, and it could be accomplished with little expenditure. But somewhere along the way, the idea was abandoned.

Few downtown areas have so few parking places as the city hall area. Much of the curbline in this area is lost to parking, although one section is reserved for persons visiting the city offices. Even then, it often is not enough. If it could be worked out, a drive-in window would seem to be just the ticket for water patrons.

THOSE LITTLE red boxes on parking meters have solved the problem of paying parking tickets. At one time, the city could have used a drive-in window for these patrons as well. But now, the little boxes provide a "window" convenient to all, provided the ticket bearer has the proper change. Who knows, those same boxes might be utilized to collect water bills as well.

Parking tickets brings to mind a convenience provided in other cities. A motorist receiving a parking ticket at the police station for only a nickel. This gives the driver who just barely missed the time clock a second chance to pay up without a penalty. This provision for parking tickets is a remarkable effort toward good will, and certainly made one city—Tempe—friends among shoppers. Of course, after the hour has expired the cost is the usual 50 cents or a dollar, as the case may be.

UNFORTUNATELY, parking problems appear to grow worse, and such things as drive-in windows, off-street parking, and wider streets are the only relief valves we have.

Many cities are tackling these problems in many diverse ways. Probably, few solutions are better than the accidental discovery of drive-in windows.

Businessmen Look At Labor

WASHINGTON—When a committee of prominent businessmen comes to the conclusion that labor unions are a good thing and that they have played a large part in "making and applying equitable rules governing on-the-job relationships," it is a significant sign of the times. For there has long been a widespread impression that businessmen themselves want to abolish labor unions.

IT IS AN enlightening document, therefore, that has just been issued by the Committee for Economic Development, comprised of 200 leading businessmen and educators. It gives the results of a study conducted for its 50-member research and policy committee, of which Theodore O. Yntema of the Ford Motor Company is chairman. The research was carried on during the last two years by a subcommittee on labor policy headed by William C. Stolk, chairman of American Can Company.

The CED statement is of direct interest to both businessmen and labor leaders. For it is a sincere attempt to weigh objectively the problems confronting the American people as a result of the far-reaching power exerted by labor unions and business enterprises. The committee report says in part:

"THE FREEDOM of individuals to associate with each other, for almost any purpose, is one of the basic American freedoms. We value this freedom for its own sake and as a bulwark of other freedoms. The freedom of workers to associate in labor unions is, in general, guaranteed by present law and the union movement is an effective vehicle for the exercise of this freedom."

"Nevertheless there are troublesome exceptions to this general principle. For the individual worker the significant freedom may not be the right to join or form 'a' union but to join the particular union that is legally designated to represent him or that controls access to the employment which he seeks."

"MANY UNIONS are able to deny this right to workers seeking membership or employment, and some have done so, in order to limit the supply of their particular variety of labor skill, in order to discriminate against certain groups, or for other reasons."

"Private association is a freedom, and private associations are legally protected because they are an expression of the voluntary choice of individuals. The freedom not to join a private association is equally precious and deserving of protection . . .

"IT SEEMS probable that union power contributes to a tendency for money wage rates and fringe benefit costs in general to rise more rapidly than productivity with the result that production costs on the average rise. In this situation the country would have a difficult choice between inflation and excessive unemployment. The most probable outcome being some of each."

The whole subject is recognized as a difficult one, but the committee nevertheless endeavored to set forth several concrete recommendations, among them the following declarations:

"Every worker should have the right to decide freely to belong or not to belong to a union."

"RACIAL OR OTHER discriminatory barriers to union membership, or employment should be eliminated. The equal right of all qualified workers to join the union in their trade or industry should be recognized by law. The right of any worker to belong to the union that represents him should not be denied except for non-payment of dues or similar good cause . . .

"There is need for legislation in most states aimed at limiting the use of union resources for political purposes."

"THE INTENT of Congress to outlaw pressure by a union against a party with whom it has no dispute—secondary boycott—should be carried out, and the law should be clarified if reasonable interpretation of the present language proves incapable of preventing evasions."

"Laws against violence and the threat of violence, which tend to coerce through fear, should be respected and enforced in labor disputes by federal, state and local authorities."

The report concerns itself to no small extent with the economic impact of union power in America, such as limitation of production, direct control of prices and featherbedding practices. The committee comes to the conclusion that more study is needed on these points before recommendations can be made.

McNamara And Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — A graph tracing the dizzying ascent of the McNamara myth would show a firm plateau of prestige and power during the second Kennedy year, and an upswing to a sharp peak in the third month of the Johnson epoch.

The top of the peak would doubtless be shown on the evening of Thursday last, when the Defense Secretary presented his report on his latest explorations in South Viet Nam.

HIS SPEECH was celebrated almost without exception. Most of those in the dismal business of political prognosis were ready to share Mr. Johnson's judgment that Robert S. McNamara was the brightest ornament he had inherited from the late Mr. Kennedy. Fundists wrote that the genius of Mr. McNamara transcended party disciplines and that he might well turn up as Mr. Johnson's Vice Presidential candidate, Republican or Democrat.

Myth-making is the principal industry in the city of Washington, to be sure, but the eager subscribers to the McNamara legend seem to have missed two important points—points that seem to forecast an inevitable downturn in his prestige graph.

POINT ONE: Whether he intends it or not, McNamara has gambled all the considerable esteem in which he is held on a successful outcome in Viet Nam. Failure (which must include chronic nonsuccess) will be laid at his door. He is now identified as the architect of our Vietnamese war policy; he will reap whatever rewards or penalties the policy produces.

Point two: McNamara's white paper on Viet Nam bespoke no more policies; it promised more of the same programs that to date must be counted thundering failures.

"NOTE WELL," a genuine expert on Viet Nam warned, "that McNamara's program contained no demands for elections or other Democratic reforms. We are still trying to fight an ideology with an IBM machine approach, and it can't be done."

McNamara rejects neutralization and counsels patience in the "long twilight" of travail that still faces us in Southeast Asia. He promises increments in the armed forces of South Viet Nam, although the Saigon regime already has an overwhelming numerical superiority over the hard-core Viet Cong partisans. In the present context it is more of the same much hope that is more of the same will do the job in the worn, bleeding little Asian country where we are so heavily involved.

McNAMARA'S PRESTIGE in the power structure of Washington is a many - splendored thing—now. But it is worthwhile to point out that in its original meaning, "prestige" is defined as a sorcerer's trick, an illusion, a bit of slight of hand. Too often it still means that in this city, as numerous fallen idols can testify.

Dear Abby

Qualifying
As Teacher

DEAR ABBY: Our children go to elementary school in a state where salaries are low and there is a shortage of teachers. A woman I shall call Mrs. X is a supply teacher. She is also a crossing guard, and must excuse herself in order to direct traffic. Mrs. X married at 14 and had her first child at 15. She did not even finish JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL! Yet we hear that the principal is making her a full-time teacher next year. When we complained, the principal said he "thought" she took a correspondence course and finished high school. Is this fair? Many high school grads would like to forego the expense and work of college, and go right into teaching. Mrs. X must have cast a spell over this principal. What can be done?

ANGRY PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Qualifications for teaching vary vastly in the individual states. But apparently Mrs. X qualifies to teach in yours. If she hasn't also "cast a spell" over the superintendent and the school board, they can explain it to you.

DEAR ABBY: What makes a 57-year-old man suddenly decide to go on a diet, and to take an interest in clothes and grooming?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: A woman.

DEAR ABBY: My front porch is being used for a public bus stop. When it rains, my porch is crowded with strangers who are waiting for the bus. Some of them leave newspapers on the floor, and I even find cigarette butts that have been crushed by their heels. My porch is my private property. I hate to be mean, but I am getting tired of cleaning up after the public. I can't help it if my house is right on the corner a few steps from the bus stop. What should I do?

BAD BACK

DEAR BAD: (1) You could ask either the "city" or the transportation company to provide a shelter for that bus stop. (2) You could enclose your porch and put a lock on the gate. (3) You could stick your head out the door and remind folks that they are trespassing on private property. Number Two would be my choice.

DEAR ABBY: A very cute boy shouted across the campus to me, "C.Y.K." I didn't know what he meant, so the next time I saw him I asked him and he told me to ask you. So I am asking.

DEBBIE

DEAR DEBBIE: It means, "Consider yourself kissed."

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Rocket Fuel Will Count

AUSTIN (AP)—Income from manufacture of rocket fuel on a federal reservation by an independent contractor should be included in estimates of a county's ability to support its schools the attorney general held today. The opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Bill Morse Jr., was issued to State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar. Edgar said a school district in Harrison County complained that value of products of Thiokol Chemical Corp., a major rocket fuel manufacturer, should not have been counted in the county's economic index, which is used to determine how much state school aid it will receive. The district contended that since the corporation was on a federal installation it should not count because no local taxes are levied against the installation. "We cannot conceive of any reason why, from an economic standpoint, the income from a manufacturing independent contractor, who sells all of his manufactured products to the federal government, is not the same as other manufacturing concerns in arriving at the economic index of a county," said the opinion.

LINDA McRAE
... terror from quake

High Schooler Tells Of Tidal Wave's Ride

SEWARD, Alaska (AP)—An attractive brunette high school honor student told today how she and seven others floated for 15 terrifying minutes on a rooftop amid seething sea waves after last Friday's earthquake. One was a babe in arms.

When Linda McRAE and her family and some friends saw water surging inland, this is what happened:

"We ran to the back of a friend's house and jumped from oil barrels onto the roof of the garage."

"We knew the garage roof wouldn't be strong enough so we jumped up to the house roof. I carried the baby, my brother's 3-week-old son."

FIRST WAVE
"About two seconds later the first wave hit. It took the garage and tore it all to pieces and tore the porch and all the bedrooms off the house."

"We floated away on the part of the roof over the living room for about a block. It was pretty rough. We were swirling between trees for about 15 minutes before we finally lodged against four trees. We hit them so hard we were scared the house would split."

"My brother Doug tied us to the trees with television leader wire. By that time it was dark."

TO ATTIC
"About six waves came up almost to the roof, but the rest were lower, only to the attic. When the water left, we could get down into part of the house."

"We found two andles and a can of peach juice for the baby. My mother held him most of time—he was in a baby quilt and we never uncovered him. But he's got a cold now."

"We poked a hole in the roof and got some boards floating around us to go under the roof so we'd be protected. We tore the insulation off the roof and wrapped ourselves in it."

"I was the only one who wouldn't go inside—I wanted to see everything."

CAR FLOATS
"The moon was out and it was clear. We saw dogs float by and we saw our car float by and turn over. We thought the whole town was on fire."

"We were there about 12 hours. By then the ground was mucky and if you didn't walk on boards it was up to your waist."

"My brother walked about three miles for help, and we finally were rescued."

"I was real scared, just hoping they'd find us. And I was scared I'd never see my boy friend again."

Farming, Cattle Insurance Rises

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government's agricultural and cattle insurance agency will insure almost twice as much farm land this year as in 1963.

Guillermo Gonzalez Diaz Lombardo, the agency's general director, said the total would be about 5,189,192 acres worked by 700,000 families.

Johnson Austin Station's 'Same As Any Other Case'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though President Johnson's family fortunes are involved, the Federal Communications Commission is handling a touchy Texas television controversy just as any other case, an FCC spokesman said.

"You can't close your eyes to the fact that the President is in some way involved," the spokesman said. "But regardless of the personalities involved we're handling this just as we would any other case."

Two community antennae television stations are competing for the right to compete with the Johnson family television station in Austin, KTBC-TV. That station—the only one in Austin—is operated by Texas Broadcasting Corp. Until shortly after Johnson became President last November, the company was known as the LBJ Co., and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson held controlling interest.

IN TRUST
Shortly after entering the White House, the First Lady placed her controlling stock in trust with old family friends—presumably to avoid any complaints of conflict of interest, since FCC commissioners, who regulate the broadcast industry, are appointed by the President. But while the name has changed, the family still has a vital interest in the fortunes of the profitable company, since the Johnsons will regain stock control as soon as Johnson leaves the White House.

Texas Broadcasting owns an option to buy half the stock of Capital Cable of Austin, Inc., one of the two community antennae television outfits attempting to compete with the Johnson station by providing subscribers in Austin with network television programs to be beamed from San Antonio and transmitted by cable into subscribers' homes.

OPTION COPY
The FCC earlier this week directed Capital Cable to provide the commission with a copy of the option agreement. It also demanded the latest tally of subscribers receiving Capital Cable's programs. It directed a similar request for a subscriber count to Capital Cable's competitor, TV Cable of Austin, Inc. Both were given until next Monday to reply.

If Capital Cable turns out to win the race with TV Cable for profits, and Texas Broadcasting exercises its right to purchase half of the Capital Cable stock, the transaction could be a profitable one for the Johnson interests.

Both Capital and TV Cable were given community antenna franchises last year by the Austin City Council. They then applied to the FCC for authorization to beam the San Antonio programs into the Austin area using microwave relay signals.

FCC policy is to protect existing television stations from intrusion by community antenna operations. The FCC thus asked the two competitors to agree to blackout for at least 15 days any programs duplicating those planned for airing by KTBC-TV.

OPERATING
TV Cable agreed and was granted its community antenna authorization. It began operating last October. Capital Cable refused to comply with the blackout provision, was turned down by the FCC, and then constructed an all-cable relay system not subject to FCC regulation.

Thus Capital Cable is free of the restriction against using the shows KTBC-TV plans to air. TV Cable of Austin, hurtling from the blackout, complained to the commission last fall that the blackout restriction in its case was unfair, since KTBC-TV is a profitable operation not needing FCC protection. The firm also charged there was "a community of interest" between Capital Cable and the Johnson television station.

DENY WAIVER
The FCC ruled in December that the Austin case had to be treated like any other and denied TV Cable's petition for a waiver of the rule. TV Cable—still blacking out the duplicating programs—petitioned for reconsideration. That petition is still pending, and it is in consideration of it that the commission asked to study the option agreement.

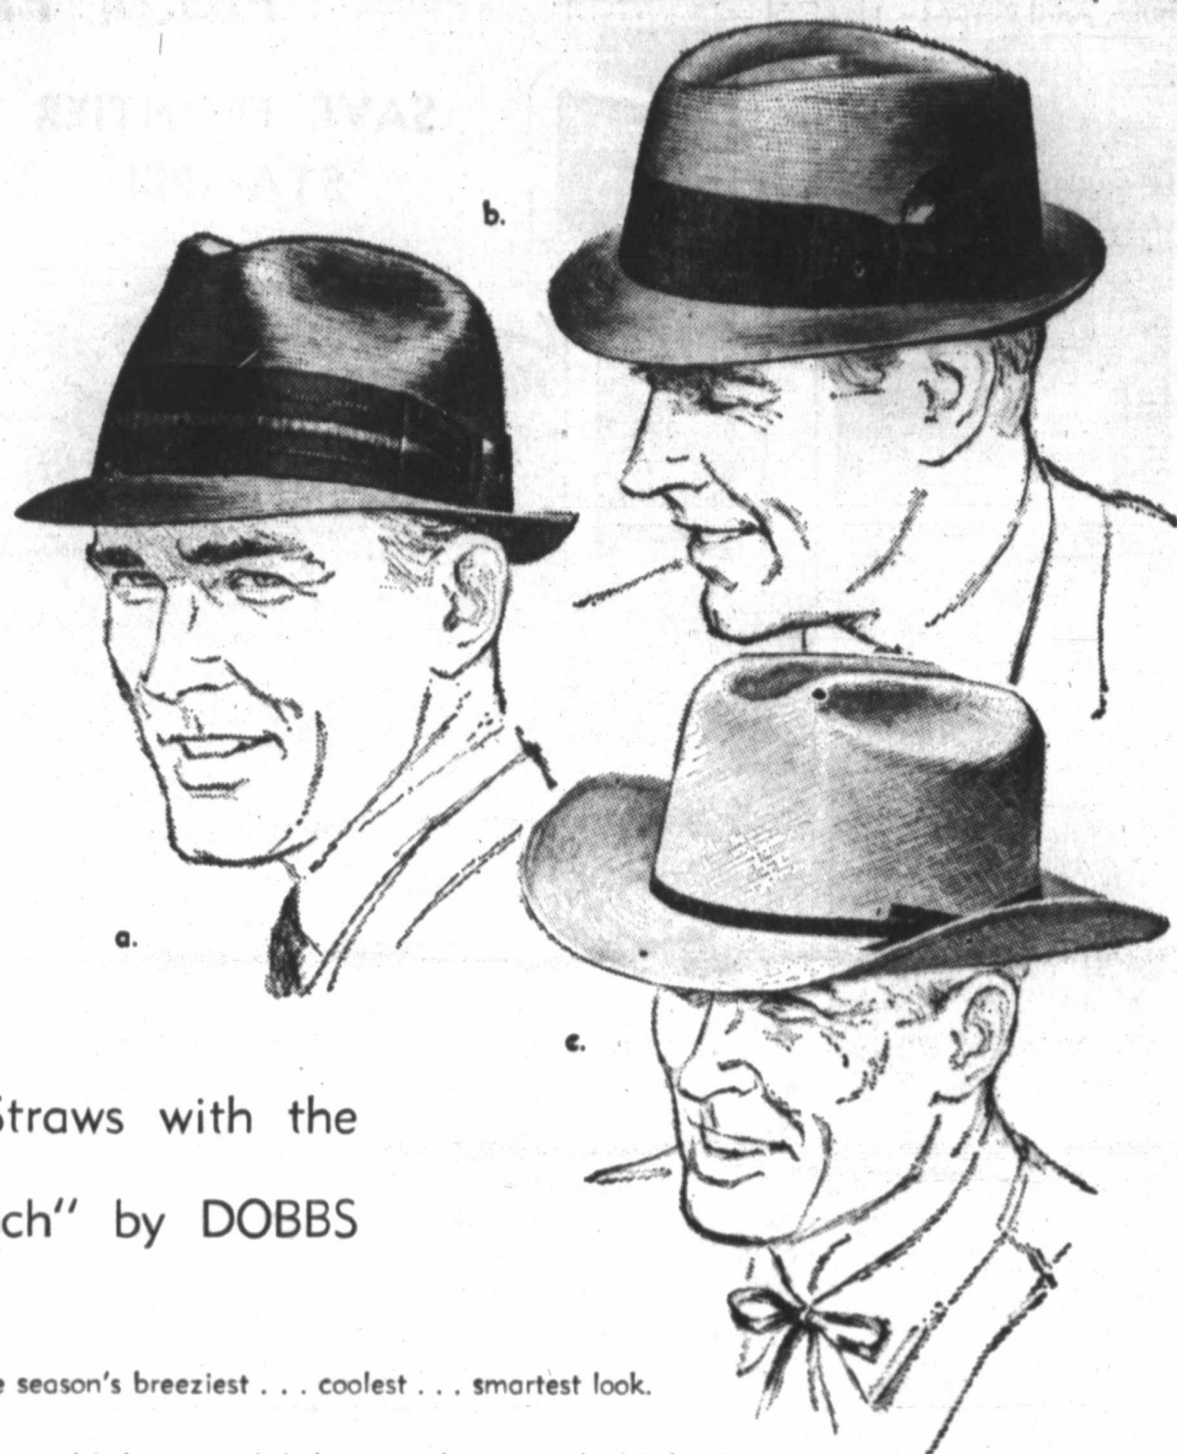

The result of the reconsideration is expected to have a marked effect on the race for subscribers between Capital Cable and TV Cable. And it is the outcome of that contest which could, in view of the stock option agreement, affect the Johnson fortunes.

"Nobody's hiding under the carpet over here," the FCC spokesman said. "We're examining this case strictly on its merit."

The drive was set to begin last Friday but Easter holidays held up the drive until today. Mrs. Bobbie Williams, chairman of the membership committee, and Oliver Reed, assistant chairman, started the drive with four other captains. They are Thurman Randle, "teen-age captain"; Mary Muse, Ida Mae White, and Aquilla Johnson, adult captains.

Smith said the goal set for this year is $1,300, with three types of memberships — adult, youth, and family.

The first report meeting will be at 8 p.m. April 8; second, 8 p.m. April 23, and third at 8 p.m. April 29. An awards meeting will be held at 8 p.m. May 6 when winners will be announced. Refreshments will be served.

State Cigarette Tax Shows Strong Increase

AUSTIN (AP) — State cigarette tax revenues, which dipped sharply in February after the government report linking smoking and cancer, made a strong comeback in March. State Treasurer Jesse James reports gross cigarette stamp sales for March totaled $7,038,801. February revenues were $5,651,381 — well below January's $7,301,882.

Cigarette tax payments in March, 1963, were $6,941,689. "I think people will probably start back smoking," James said Tuesday. He recalled that similar smoking scares in the past caused cigarette stamp sales to dip only temporarily.

In January, shortly after the special committee studying the relationship between smoking and cancer made its report to the U. S. Surgeon general, the state comptroller's office predicted the report would have no permanent effect on revenues.

British Island Issues Come-On To 'Wild Ones'

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man (AP) — This resort island in the Irish Sea challenged Britain's teenage "wild ones" today to come over, cause trouble and get a thrashing.

"We still have the birch here for people up to 21," warned William Quayle, chairman of the island's juvenile court.

"It is the greatest deterrent against hooligans. If they try to invade and terrorize our island a car Monday.

this summer their activities will be nipped in the bud." Gangs of teen-agers terrorized the English east coast resorts of Clacton and Margate over Easter weekend.

The Isle of Man, midway between England and Ireland, is part of the United Kingdom but has its own laws. Birching has been abolished in the rest of Britain.
