Agreed On A Name

There was agreement on the name of Yarborough among these three at the Howard County Democratic Club rally Tuesday. At left is Reagan Legg, Midland attorney, who spoke on behalf of U.S. Senator Ralph W. Yarborough. Center is Don Yarborough (no relation), who is seeking the gubernatorial nomination, and at right is Frank Goodman, Don Yarborough's county campaign manager.

Over 350 Demos Attend Rally Here

Democrats, more than 350 strong, turned out Monday to make a bit of political medicine and heard an array of local, district and state candidates. Don Yarborough, Houston candidate for governor, headed more than two dozen aspirants who put in a plug for their candidacies.

More than 350 turned out for a hamburger feast sponsored by the Howard County Democratic Club. Dan Sullivan, Andrews, brought his candidacy for congressman at large, and Randall Jackson, Abilene attorney, appeared for Gov. Connally. Reagan Legg, Midland lawyer, spoke for Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, declaring that he had the greatest record of any U.S. senator . . . "and as a great humanist."

URGES UNITY

State Rep. Ed J. Carpenter headed a list of more than a score of district and local candidates who addressed the gathering on the HCJC campus. Frank Sabatto, president of the Demo Club, introduced the speakers and pleaded for party unity. "If Democrats stand together, it will be difficult for Republicans to win any office in Texas," he said.

Hank Brown, president Texas AFL-CIO, said labor was bipartisan, but Democratic platforms and social reforms had attracted most of labor vote to that party. "We take the position that what is good for the USA is good for the free trade unions," he said.

Sullivan, claiming that where his opponents were best known, "it's Sullivan 2-1." Democratic groups in Big Spring, Waco, San Antonio and Houston had all endorsed him, he said. Of Rep. Joe Pool, he said "he talks like a Republican, looks like a Republican, dresses like a Republican and votes like a Republican. You're crazy if you give him the place again." Sullivan said he was poor-boying a campaign and getting encouraging results in an effort to win the right to be on President Johnson's team.

SPEAKS LAST

Don Yarborough, speaking last on the program, tore into his opponent, Gov. John Connally, characterizing him as "the worst governor you've ever had in the history of Texas." He attacked points in the governor's program including education, industrial and tourist development, particularly the loan shark bill which he said had multiplied legal interest, and the over-65 state-private plan for medical care. He called the governor a "gas lobbyist" and declared a reduction in Texas taxes had been made at the expense of individuals.

Jackson, appearing when Secretary of State Crawford Martin could not attend the rally as the governor's representative, pointed to the governor's leadership for the national ticket; said the foundation had been laid for stronger higher education to "prevent our best minds from fading into the industrial centers."

The governor has 'taken leadership in recognizing that Texas may depend no longer only on oil and agriculture, but must turn to industry. Last year, Texas ranked second only to New York in the number of new industries started, he said. He cited stepped-up tourist development and said this tied back into industrial development. He mentioned also revision of the election code, new loan shark legislation, and the over-65 state-private health program.

MUSIC

Hoyle Nix and his West Texas Cowboys furnished music while the several hundred Demos gathered to eat their hamburgers in the HCJC dining room and talk a bit of politics. Local candidates were busy as bees, and those who spoke included:

Justice of Peace Pct. 1, Pl. 1, Walter Grice; county commissioner pct. 1, A. E. (Shorty) Long, Granville Miller, Rufus Stallings; county commissioner pct. 3, Cliff Rutherford, Jimmy Jones, John V. Cherry, Ben Burroughs, Joe T. Hayden; tax assessor-collector, Zarah LeFevre and J. C. Robinson; county attorney, Lanny Hamby and Dee Jon Davis; district attorney, Gil Jones and Wayne Burns; sheriff, Raymond B. Talley, A. P. (Pat) Hurley, A. N. Standard, Bill Long, A. G. Mitchell; district clerk, Winnie R. Wood, Marshall J. Sprull, Ray Crooks, Fern Cox; State Representative, J. Ed Carpenter.

Carpenter pointed to congressional redistricting as one of the major problems of the next session and vowed to work to keep Howard and Martin in the district of "the very able George Mahon." Education was another field he cited, observing "Texas is not rich enough to afford a generation of illiterate or uneducated children."

Yarborough Predicts Close Governor's Race

Don Yarborough predicted another close race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination here Monday evening, adding that this time he is going to win it.

He climaxed an afternoon of campaigning here with a television appearance and then addressed the Howard County Democratic Club rally. Speaking last on the program, he sought to rebut an address on behalf of Gov. John Connally.

The governor, he charged, had done less for and perhaps more against education than any governor. He criticized the governor's line veto of $14 million for college facilities, said that the time was at hand to stop talking and start raising professors' salaries.

Nothing had happened industrially and in tourist development, he charged.

As for the loan shark bill, he claimed that rates up to 320 per cent had been legalized. "He has multiplied the interest rate 32 times," he said of the governor. "Did any of you read it in your papers? Did they let you know?"

He promised a television exposure of the health program, declaring it "doesn't provide any benefits or protection. It may be worse than the loan shark bill."

He called the redistricting problem "a stumble-bum mess," said state taxes had been reduced by $20,000,000 but at the expense of individuals rather than sulphur companies and other corporations, and predicted the governor would recommend an increase in the general state sales tax to four per cent.

"This is going to be a rough campaign," he said, "and a close one. We can win. If you will work, I predict we will win by 2-1." If not, he said it would be the darkest day the state has ever seen.

Demos Get Together

Among those addressing the Democratic rally here Monday evening were Randall Jackson, Abilene, (left), who spoke on behalf of Gov. John Connally. With him is Dan Sullivan, Andrews, who is pressing for the nomination as congressman-at-large.

Lodge, Nixon On Sidelines In California

WASHINGTON (AP) — The faint outlines of what might become a shadow contest between Henry Cabot Lodge and Richard M. Nixon are beginning to appear in the California presidential primary campaign.

Neither Lodge, the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, nor Nixon, the 1960 GOP presidential nominee, is on the ballot in the June 2 contest.

But one or the other could become the eventual beneficiary of the outcome of the battle between Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the state's 86 presidential nominating votes. Former Minnesota Gov. Harold E. Stassen also is on the ballot.

IN RUNNING

If Rockefeller wins the primary most of the Republican pros think this will keep the New York governor in the running but will fall short of convincing the convention he ought to be the nominee.

If it becomes apparent that Rockefeller can't make the grade, the belief is mounting that a majority of any delegation committed to him would be likely to gravitate to Lodge, particularly if the 1960 vice presidential nominee wins the May 15 Oregon primary.

FIRST BALLOT

If Goldwater wins California's 86 votes, they would boost him to a commanding lead on the first convention ballot. While Goldwater might be difficult to head off, favorite sons and other candidates appear likely to take out enough votes to deny him a quick nomination.

Goldwater has indicated that if he can't win the nomination—and he doesn't concede anything on this score—he would be more inclined to throw his weight behind Nixon than any other candidate.

He has talked vaguely about Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania but now seems less interested in him. The Rockefeller people probably could accept Scranton, too, but so far the Pennsylvania governor hasn't sparked major national support.

Greeks Blast Turks' Death

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Greek Cypriot police today condemned an attempt to murder four Turkish Cypriots, blamed on another Greek Cypriot. Two Turks were killed, one was wounded and the fourth missing.

A police spokesman denounced as "an abominable crime" the shooting Monday night, which threatened to touch off a new wave of fighting between the Greek and Turkish communities.

Dr. Fazil Kuchuk, Turkish Cypriot vice president of the island, charged that Greek Cypriots marched the four Turks into a field outside a Nicosia city gate, shot them with rifles and left them for dead.

Kuchuk, who based his accusation on the survivor's account, said he believed the shooting was in reprisal for the slaying of a Greek Cypriot auxiliary policeman in Nicosia Sunday.

Headquarters of the U.N. peacekeeping force said four Turkish islanders were shot and the incident was being investigated by the U.N. commander, Indian Gen. Prem Singh Gyani.

British U.N. troops found the two bodies shortly after the survivor, Husnu Hassan, crawled to a British radio station and yelled for help.

Hassan, shot three times, told Turkish officials he and the others were seized by Greeks when they tried to drive a van into Nicosia through Famagusta gate.

He said the Greeks beat them with rifle butts and screamed, "You're going to die, Turkish dogs!" He said his captors laughed as they opened fire.

A few hours earlier, the U.N. force arranged a cease-fire to end three days of shooting at the Turkish village of Kokkina and the Greek hamlet of Paphos Ammos in western Cyprus. The area remained tense, however.

Speak-In Drones

AUSTIN (AP)—A civil rights "speak-in" before the City Council droned on today.

When the demonstration recessed Monday, Wesley Sims, a Negro preacher, was speaking.

The demonstrations started Friday in support of a proposed city ordinance to set up penalties for racial discrimination.

PEOPLE LINE UP FOR FAREWELL TO OLD SOLDIER
Crowd gathers outside New York armory as body lies in state

MacArthur Reposes In Simple Majesty

NEW YORK (AP)—A shriveled yet somehow majestic figure in simple sun tan uniform lay in a history-laden armory today, a magnet for Americans conscious of their heritage.

New Yorkers and visitors to the metropolis had an opportunity to view the body of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur and meditate on his 60 years of service to the republic.

From 10 a.m. until as far into the night as any mourners are in line, the 7th Regiment Armory, home of the Silk Stocking Regiment, will remain open.

TRIBUTE

First there were to be religious services and a presidential tribute to the 84-year-old warrior who died Sunday in Washington after three major operations.

Clergymen expected to pray at the casket in the armory on Park Avenue at 67th Street were: Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York; the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, Episcopal bishop of New York; the Rev. Terence J. Finlay, rector of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church here and minister to the MacArthur family, and Rabbi Max Schenk, president of the New York Board of Rabbis.

In Washington President Johnson appointed Lt. Gen. Garrison H. Davidson, commander of the 1st Army, as his personal representative to lay a wreath on the casket.

TWO PACES

Army, Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard enlisted men were drilled so they would be perfect in today's funeral events. A man from each service was to stand exactly two paces from the casket's corner, frozen at attention.

The regimental armory, where the simple casket of cold rolled steel, standard Army issue, was placed during the night on a black-draped catafalque, dates to 1880. It is a red brick building topped by parapets.

The 7th Regiment, which drills there, is 158 years old, an outgrowth of colonial militia. Its men, who must be "gentlemen" have won honors in World Wars I and II.

APARTMENT

The body lay at the Universal Funeral Chapel, Lexington Avenue and 52nd Street, not far from the hotel apartment where MacArthur had lived the past 13 years. Only members of the family and intimate friends were permitted to view the body.

The widow, Jean MacArthur, and son, Arthur, 28, visited the funeral home for about five minutes.

rean summers. In accordance with his custom, he wore none of his many medals, just the five stars of his rank.

WEST POINT

As the body lay in repose, 19-gun salutes roared at many places—at West Point where he made the most brilliant scholarly record of all time, and later was superintendent in New York, as well as other Army areas on the continent, and at selected points in the Pacific. In Washington, leaders of Congress made arrangements for the body to lie in state in the Capitol rotunda Wednesday and Thursday. The general will be buried in the MacArthur Memorial building at Norfolk, Va., Saturday, after funeral services at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in that city.

Ribicoff Scores South's Civil Rights Tactics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff accused civil rights bill opponents today of using a smokescreen of "glaring distortions" in an effort to defeat it.

The Connecticut Democrat called the "grossest distortion of all" a contention by some that the late President John F. Kennedy opposed Title VI, under which federal aid ultimately could be cut off from programs which discriminate against Negroes.

"What Title VI does provide is precisely what President Kennedy favored: 'I don't think we should extend federal program in a way which encourages or really permits discrimination,'" Ribicoff said.

The leadership, fighting to maintain a quorum on hand, kept the Senate in session until 9:54 p.m. Monday. It took 24 minutes to assemble 51 senators before Sen. George A. Smathers of Fla., began a speech at 8:36 p.m. assailing a provision setting up an Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Commission Vote Starts Off Slow

A cool north breeze may have kept voters from the polls this morning in the Big Spring City Commission race.

Election officials at the four polling places reported a total vote of only 238 by noon, although most predicted the count would be boosted considerably after the close of regular business hours. The polls, at four city fire stations, will remain open until 7 p.m.

Voters today were electing three commissioners to fill expiring terms of incumbents George Zachariah, Arnold Marshall and W. L. Thompson. Each incumbent had tossed his hat into the ring again. Others in the race included Mrs. Harold Talbot, the first woman ever to seek a commission seat; Jerry Mancill, insurance agent; Bruce Wright, pharmacist; Joe B. Matthews, Cosden employee; and H. Boyce Hale, employed by Phillips Petroleum Co.

Voting this morning at the Central Fire Station was close to average, according to S. P. Jones, election judge, who said a total of 91 ballots had been cast by noon. This included 11 absentee votes. The Central station always has been noted for late voters, Jones said, and he predicted the voting rate would increase later in the day.

Rufus Davidson, election judge at the Northside fire station, said the noon vote tallied only six. Last year, 40 votes were cast at the northside booth, he said. The weather may have been responsible for the light morning vote, Davidson added, but it should pick up this afternoon.

The only station reporting an above average turnout was at Eleventh and Birdwell Lane, where Election Judge Loy Acuff said the 49 votes cast by noon were slightly above expectations.

The highest vote — only one above the Central Station — was recorded at noon at the Eighteenth and Main station. George Melear, election judge, said the 92 votes represented a slow turnout, but he predicted balloting would be brisk this afternoon.

The holdover commissioners are Paul Kasch, serving his third term, and John Stanley, in his second term.

Alabama Takes First North Fling

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin voters choose today between their governor, John W. Reynolds, and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in a presidential primary that has evolved into a referendum on the federal civil rights bill.

Reynolds is running as a favorite son, pledged to cast Wisconsin's 46 votes in the Democratic National Convention for President Johnson.

The primary is the first test of the ability of Wallace, an uncompromising segregationist, to draw voter support in a Northern state.

REPUBLICANS

Complicating the picture is the possibility of Republican participation in the Democratic contest.

State Election Supervisor Leo Fahey has predicted a million votes may be cast. This would be 200,000 short of the record primary ballot, cast in 1960 when the late John F. Kennedy won a majority of Democratic delegates from Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

Cloudy skies with showers or snow flurries and temperatures in the 20s and 30s were forecast.

A telegram from President Johnson describing Reynolds as "a patriot and a leader in whom we can all take pride" was read at a testimonial dinner for the governor Saturday night in Madison by Postmaster General John Gronouski. Gronouski, former state tax commissioner, returned to the state Friday to help Reynolds campaign.

TO DINNER

White House press secretary George Reedy said Monday night in Washington the telegram was "solely and simply a telegram which was sent to a Democratic fund-raising dinner, which as far as we were informed, was being given in honor of the governor of Wisconsin."

The White House policy of not intervening in any primaries still stands, he said.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy also sent a message to the dinner, saying, "A substantial victory for Reynolds' state will pay a deserved compliment to a great governor, but more important, it will bolster and reinforce those who are making the good fight for human dignity in the United States."

Wallace has campaigned on opposition to "the civil wrongs bill," his description of the civil rights proposal pending in the U.S. Senate.

There is no Republican contest. The party's 30 national convention delegates are headed by a favorite son, Rep. John Byrnes.

Ambassadors Win Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today unanimously approved President Johnson's nomination of Jack Hood Vaughn as ambassador to Panama.

The committee acted after Vaughn was questioned briefly. He has been serving as regional director of Latin-American programs for the Peace Corps.

The committee also approved unanimously the nomination of Katharine Elkus White, chairman of the New Jersey Highway Authority, as ambassador to Denmark; and that of Henry L. T. Koren as ambassador to the Republic of Congo. Koren has been serving as director of the State Department's office of Southeast Asian affairs.

Poll Has Lodge Well In Front

NEW YORK (AP)—A public opinion poll by Louis Harris for Newsweek magazine shows Henry Cabot Lodge well in front for the Republican nomination for president.

Harris' survey agreed with results of a similar poll by George Gallup — that Lodge's surprise victory in the New Hampshire primary has boosted him ahead of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Connally Points To Industry Gain

By The Associated Press
Gov. John Connally says Texas, which ranked second only to New York last year in new plant locations, has attracted the new industry "by means of aggressive local leadership and an atmosphere of good business and good government."

Connally, seeking re-election, said Monday night in a Long-view speech that Texas is one of only five states with no financial incentive programs to attract industry. "We are offering the give-away programs of our competitors" by good government and good local conditions.

He told the Northeast Texas Industrial Development Council that the state should do all possible to help solicit new industry, "but we should not give a newcomer the competitive advantage over an established industry by such ideas as tax exemptions."

'ONE OF WORST'

An opponent, Don Yarborough of Houston, called the governor one of "Texas' worst" and said he was fostering high interest rates and would speed inflation from federal deficit spending.

Gordon McLendon, Democratic candidate for the Senate, said the current civil rights is "in many ways an anti-civil rights bill." He said in San Antonio, "We need to get civil liberties, but don't give up any civil rights doing it."

An estimated 500 persons attended the San Antonio dinner for McLendon, including actor John Wayne and his son, Pat.

JURY TRIAL
Jack Cox, Republican, said in San Antonio he was concerned about Monday's Supreme Court ruling that rejected a plea for a jury trial for former Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett and Present Gov. Paul Johnson Jr. on federal contempt of court charges.

He said the decision by the government's highest tribunal that the pair should be tried by judges of the New Orleans circuit court "makes one wonder if they fear they might not be able to convince a jury of the merits of their case."

Another Republican candidate Robert Morris of Dallas, said if he is elected he will propose a bill "to take away from federal courts any jurisdiction in the area of prayer and Bible reading and put it back in the state courts where it belongs." He spoke at Houston.

Defense Polishes Appeal For Jack Ruby's Retrial

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Defense lawyers are putting finishing touches on an amended motion asking a new trial for convicted murderer Jack Ruby. Unless the lawyers ask for more time, they will file their appeal Wednesday or Thursday, the deadline under Texas law. Dist. Judge Joe Brown has 20 days from the filing of the amended motion to schedule a Ruby deserves a new trial.

36 ERRORS
In their original motion March 20, the defense named 36 errors they said Judge Brown made during the month-long trial. High on their list was Brown's refusal to move the trial from Dallas, where according to the defense, citizens were too emotional after the triple deaths of President Kennedy, Policeman J. D. Tippit, and Oswald to serve impartially as jurors.

FAKE GUN
The prisoners, two of whom are still at large, kept policemen and spectators at bay by brandishing a fake gun they carved out of soap and blackened with shoe polish. They passed only a wall away from the courtroom where Ruby was being tried for the Nov. 24 slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Decker said the guards, A. S. Greer and Troy L. Richey "disregarded jail rules" but did not elaborate. They had been suspended since the break.

READING MAIL
The balding Ruby, who operated a stripeless joint before he shot Oswald, spends much of his time reading and answering a flood of mail, the sheriff said. Ruby's three defense attorneys see him from three to five times a week.

The defense indicated their amended motion would add several new reasons why they think

Today's hand produced a swing of astronomical proportions when it was encountered in an important team of four match recently.

At both tables, the bidding started off in identical fashion with South making a jump shift response of two spades. Observe that the hand is worth 20 points counting high cards and distribution and, with two fine suits, it certainly warrants issuing a slam invitation. One South chose to rebid his spade suit, however, on the second round—suppressing the hearts—and, when North offered a delayed raise, he proceeded directly to six spades.

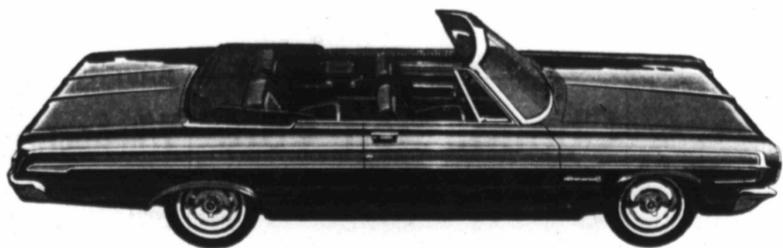

A heart was opened by West and, after South learned of the unfavorable trump break, he was unable to avoid the loss of a trick in spades as well as one diamond. East and West scored a one hundred point profit on the deal.

At the other table, their teammates arrived at an ambitious grand slam contract in hearts, with the North-South cards. When South's rebid of three hearts received a raise for ace, the latter decided to check for aces. North's response accounted for every missing control and South proceeded resolutely to seven hearts, choosing to adopt an optimistic attitude concerning the disposal of his small diamond.

The trump opening was taken in the closed hand. A club was led to the ace and the deuce of clubs trumped with the queen of hearts. Dummy's partner with a trump so that South might ruff out the last club. A diamond to North's ace permitted the latter to draw East's last heart as South discarded the ten of diamonds.

Declarer now proceeded to establish his long spade by cashing the top honors and then ruffing out West's jack. The last two tricks were taken by South's king of diamonds and the ten of spades. The 2,210 point profit registered by declarer added to the 100 points, which his teammates had chalked up at the other table, was more than enough to decide the fate of the match.

THE DEPENDABLES: SUCCESS CARS OF '64

We have designs to get you in our power

Our engineers are a wily group of guys who spend most of their time dreaming up ways to win your approval. Take the Dodge Polara 500. You'd be hard-pressed to find a car that's got more going for you. Deeply-padded, contour-formed bucket seats. All-vinyl upholstery. Sill-to-sill carpeting. Padded dash. Center console. And lots of other trimmings. But that's only the half of it.

Perhaps our approach to power will further illustrate the point.

With the Polara 500 you aren't baked in on a certain engine. You can choose from a standard 318 cu. in. V8 up to a street-version of our wallowing, all-out 426 cu. in. Ramcharger V8. Compromise? Nope. We just feel that a freedom of choice is the surest road to your approval.

That's our way of doing business—giving you lots of car and lots of satisfaction at a price that's hard to quarrel with.

Your Dodge Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the point.

Connally Due To Speak To Petroleum Refiners

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Gov. John Connally was a luncheon speaker today as the National Petroleum Refiners Association went into the second day of its annual meeting.

The president of the Association, L. E. Kincannon, also was to address the 1,000 delegates.

The convention, which ends Wednesday, was told Monday by the director of petroleum logistics for the Department of Defense that petroleum availability is the limiting factor in man's capacity to wage war.

The director, Lt. Gen. W. O. Senter, said the Cuban crisis of 1962 demonstrated that the United States' petroleum supply was in a high state of readiness.

He credited the nation's ability to meet such tremendous demands to the cooperation of all citizens, and not only to the military.

Senter added that the military is cooperating with the oil industry in strengthening its present procedures in order to have a closer and more effective control

Suffering And Pain Are A Result

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C.
When Robt. Ingersoll said, "Suffering is not a punishment — it is a result," he was merely stating a well known fact. And, because many of our readers are Chiropractic Laymen, we would like to state a fact well known to you, should we say that suffering that comes with disease is a result of subluxation (slipped vertebrae and of violation of hygienic rules. You have learned that fact in the school of your own experience. Now many of you, at the first sign of physical suffering, get relief in Chiropractic care. Many of you avoid such suffering by having periodic Chiropractic examinations and whatever care such examination proves to be necessary. How much less suffering and pain there would be if all people knew that while suffering is a result, health is also a result — the result of Chiropractic Care, combined with hygienic living. Receive your examination at the Hansen Chiropractic Clinic, across from Piggly Wiggly. We are open until 6 p.m. each evening for your convenience. Belgium's Hospitals Jammed As Doctors Hold To Strike

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Belgium's hospitals were crowded to the bursting point today as the doctors strike rounded out its first week with no solution in sight. Weary nurses struggled to keep up with the flood of patients. Beds were set up in the corridors. Some civilian patients were sent to military hospitals. Only serious cases were admitted, brought in under emergency arrangements set up by the 10,000 striking doctors, who have been joined by 2,000 dentists.

The physicians, who are protesting new provisions in Belgium's national health scene, have arranged to treat pressing cases. But their opponents claim this is not meeting the needs of the country's 9 million people. NO RETIREMENT Interior Minister Arthur Gilson said the emergency setup was "not sufficient because there is no treatment for sick people at home and because the physicians refuse to function except in the main hospitals." The doctors have refused a request by Gilson to use private clinics for emergency cases, contending they are not adequately equipped. Such clinics could provide 600 more beds in the Brussels area.

Authorities have recalled some Belgian army medical units from West Germany but won't say how many men are involved. Premier Theo Lefevre said the Cabinet does not plan to transfer the entire army medical corps to civilian duty. Doctors throughout Belgium continued their refusal to make house calls or see patients in their offices. LUNG AILMENT Two doctors were arrested Monday in Olen for failing to help an 18-month-old boy who died of what police described as a serious lung ailment. Lefevre announced that as long as the strike continued, his government would refuse to negotiate. The national health program, in operation since World War II, covers five million Belgians. Doctors have fixed their own fees for each case, and the health fund reimbursed the patients. The fund has a deficit of $20 million.

Bootlegger Day Gone In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—The bootlegger has become part of Oklahoma's nostalgic past. Whisky, never really hard to find in this state, observed its fifth legal birthday today. In a special election on April 7, 1959, Oklahoma voters repealed prohibition and put 2,500 bootleggers out of work. Since then, legalized liquor has grown into a $50-million business in Oklahoma and has produced $33 million in tax revenue. Prohibition was written into the state constitution when Oklahoma became a state in 1907. There were a half dozen repeal elections. But the dries always won. Their only concession came in 1933, when 3.2 or low-point beer was legalized. Then in 1958, J. Howard Edmondson, Democratic candidate for governor, promised to crack down on the bootlegger and push for repeal. When Edmondson took office in 1957, he ordered law officers to dry up the state. Police didn't eliminate illegal whisky, but they made it harder to get—and more expensive. The 1959 legislature followed up with a call for a repeal election, and the wets won by 85,000 votes. Prohibitionists claim that Oklahomans now buy and drink more whisky than ever before. Roy Parham, director of the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, concedes that liquor sales have risen since repeal, but claims there is less public drunkenness and crowds are less boisterous. Some remnants of prohibition still remain in Oklahoma. It's still illegal to drink in public. Numerous private clubs have sprung up. For a nominal fee—and your own bottle—you can become a member. Many Oklahomans still tote a flask or bottle to the restaurant for a before-dinner drink.

MISS CONGENIALITY Sandy McCombs

Jaycees Give New Trophy

A new trophy was given this year at the annual Jaycee Miss Big Spring beauty pageant Saturday night. Sandy McCombs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale E. McCombs, 1509 Lancaster, received the title of Miss Congeniality and was awarded a trophy. The 16-year-old candidate for Junior Miss Big Spring was selected by vote of the other candidates. She was rated as the most congenial contestant, and the "easiest to get along with." Jim Wright, Jaycee president, said Monday that no announcement had been made prior to the pageant of the award, and that it came as a surprise to the young ladies, especially to Miss McCombs. The trophy, like those going to the winning candidates, was donated by Zale's. In the account of the pageant, an answer to one of the questions was erroneously attributed to Charlotte Mac Anders, Miss Big Spring. To the question "If you were performing your talent and the lights went out, what would you do?" It was Joanna Patterson, first runner-up, who replied: "I think I would keep right on singing because it would relieve my stomach."

A Devotional For The Day

We all . . . beholding the glory of the Lord, are being changed into his likeness from one degree of glory to another. (II Corinthians 3:18. RSV.)

PRAYER: O Lord, transform the selfishness, envy, and hatred of my life. Grant that I may be changed into the likeness of Christ from one degree of glory to another. O may Thy beauty be reflected in me. For the sake of Jesus. Amen.

Prudent Decision

President Johnson's "firm decision" not to leave the United States while the vice presidency is vacant seems only prudent. It is also wise politics and diplomacy.

The State Department revealed that decision in answering a group of Republican congressmen who were urging a Johnson-De Gaulle meeting this year. As the French President has already turned down an invitation to come to Washington for talks, it would be dubious diplomacy anyway for Johnson to contemplate going to De Gaulle over U.S.-French differences. Those differences are serious, but hardly that urgent, and it is most doubtful that any Western summitry could achieve much with U. S., British and French national elections in the offing.

Actually the President left an outcome he would go abroad if an unforeseen crisis required that—which certainly it is hoped he won't have to use. Meanwhile, his reported decision adds another underlining as to the need for improving the law of succession so as to preclude extended vacancies in the vice presidency, which has become much more than a "spare tire."

Well Done

Taps have sounded for a great soldier and a great American.

Douglas MacArthur was more than a gifted general of the armies. He was imbued with a sense of destiny and a sense of duty, and he never doubted either.

Despite some aimlessness as a young boy, he was born to be a soldier. As son of an outstanding military figure, the life of a soldier was bred into him and this was his life, his goal, his restless drive.

He never asked any quarter, and in the tough competition at the Point he came out with a sparkling record which glitters to this day. From the beginning he earned the loyalty and confidence of his men, and in World War I he became a phenomenon in rising to general while still a young man.

Over the years he performed many extra services for his country, first in the Philippines and later in routing democratic procedures in fallen Japan. He led many commands and served as chief of staff during a distasteful period of domestic strain.

Perhaps he was never more magnificent than in the Bataan retreat, and had he not been ordered off the Rock to shape up the larger Pacific campaign, he would have stayed with his men to the end. As it was, he did indeed return, and he went on to ultimately receive the surrender of the Japanese empire with grandeur and dignity.

From a bad beginning he recovered balance and force in Korea, and eventually was removed in a disagreement over policy. Back home he defended his position, but he had the grace to refrain from recrimination.

Gen. MacArthur was one of the last of a colorful era in America. Had he been an Englishman, he might have been described as the last of the Victorians. He had an innate flamboyance. He had a rhetorical flair, and he could turn a phrase with romanticism, motion, and fire. Though he lacked the literary power of Winston Churchill, he had his color and his sense of place in history.

He was human, too, for it was easy for him to dwell upon the glories and to gloss the mistakes in judgment. Douglas MacArthur had a superb sense of showmanship, a real individuality which came from a supreme confidence. He never wavered in his own convictions, and he never wavered in his love for his country. Indeed, it could be said of him: "Well done thou good and faithful servant."

An Example Of Poverty

ROCKCASTLE COUNTY, Ky.—You may have your choice: Floyd Pike the Statistic, or Floyd Pike the Disinherited American.

The first choice is by far the more comfortable for the visitor from the rich, indifferent outside. Floyd Pike then is an abstraction. He is one of Rockcastle County's 1,488 illiterate adults. He is part of the 66 per cent of the county's human scrap heap whose annual income falls below the $3,000 figure that most economists think is the threshold of want.

FLOYD PIKE the Statistic is an archetype of the hopelessly poor rural American. He is a typical, objective in the war on poverty that President Johnson has asked Congress to declare.

Like most of his neighbors, Floyd Pike is only dimly aware that he has become a bean bag in a spirited election year game now being played in Washington.

IT IS BETTER to leave Floyd Pike as a stunted line on some sociologist's bar graph, for then he is easy to forget. But spend an afternoon with him in his pinched, dismal mountain shack and he is not so easy to forget. Floyd Pike is a real person, changed here in no particular other than that of a worn-out, underfed farm that clings stubbornly to the side of an inhospitable gorge here in Eastern Kentucky.

There is another and perhaps larger factor in the short, unhappy life of Floyd Pike, our specimen American subsistence farmer. He is trapped. His hillside farm is a prison from which there will be no parole. Here he was born and here he will die, and he knows it. Before you can ask him why he remains patiently in his trap he tells you.

"I HAVE NO education, none at all. My wife there, she has a widdle education, but I have none at all." Just how low a man is he on the economic totem pole of the nation's affluent society? With his strange, shy forthrightness he will tell you.

"We've only got one cash crop—tobacco," he blurts. "Our allotment is six-tenths of an acre. You want to know what it's worth? Well, mister, in a good growing year and a good market I can make $1,000 off it." He pauses and then decides on a full disclosure. "But, a course, it'll take me nearly half that to bring in the crop. Yes, you could say we'd profit $600 in a good year—a really good year."

FLOYD PIKE'S farm, which he vaguely describes as "a big one," actually seems to consist of one narrow strip of creek bottom. A couple of small hillside meadows and a stand of scraggly second-growth timber is where the tiny tobacco allotment is cultivated. The Pikes own six head of cattle, including two milk cows. They also have a kitchen garden and a few chickens. They won't starve, but a look at their faces is enough to tell you that they long ago lost their own personal war with poverty.

They are fighting a courageous and stubborn rear-guard action in the hope their five children can escape the mean, cynical life they have known. It is a tiny skirmish in mankind's ancient struggle for a place in the sun.

W. K.

Yes, I have said that Christianity is not keeping pace with the population explosion and the growth of Communism and is therefore, (statistically at least) losing out.

But I didn't say that it would not ultimately triumph. The whole trend of the Scriptures is that Christ one day will be King of kings and Lord of lords, and that He shall rule the kingdoms of the world.

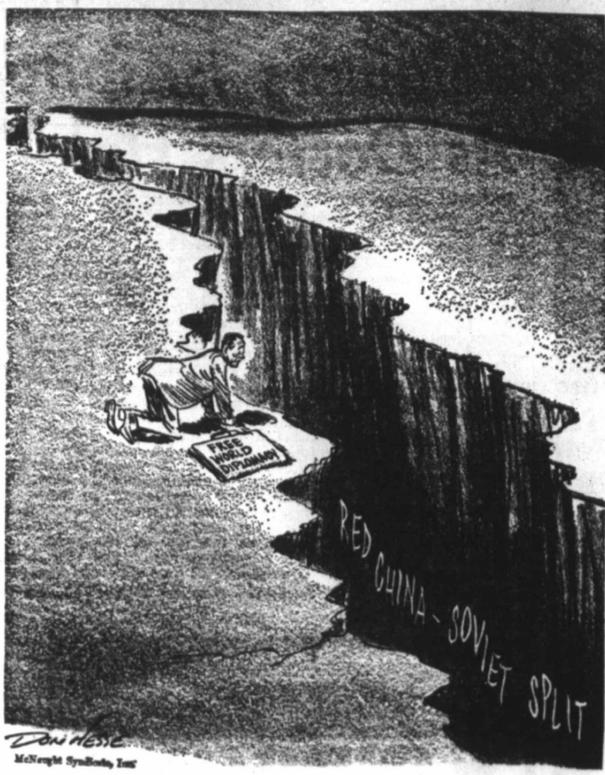

Many people visualize this being accomplished by the slow, steady rise of Christianity, until the whole world becomes Christian. But the Bible does not teach that it shall happen this way. Jesus said: (in regards to His coming) "Iniquity shall abound, and the love of many shall wax cold." He talked about false Christs, and we have them. He talked about conflict between nations: "Nation shall rise against nation"; and never has there been more international unrest than now. Then He said: "In a day and an hour when you think not, the Son of man cometh."

Although, statistically, Christianity may be losing, every day brings us one day nearer the time when God shall ring down the curtain on all the strife, war, and bloodshed of the world, and say: "Enough! Then the kingdoms of this world will become the kingdoms of our Lord and His Christ.

MacArthur Was True Believer In Himself

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur was not a simple man. He was romantic, but tough; eloquent, but sentimental; charming, but austere; daring, but suspicious.

He felt some people, besides Communists, were his enemies conspiring against him. Because he so often wished his views to prevail, he was some times hard to get along with.

One writer, Richard Rovere, said MacArthur was a "true believer in himself" and found it "necessary to ascribe his disappointments . . . to base intrigues."

ALTHOUGH GEN. John J. Pershing, MacArthur's top commander in World War I, decorated him, the New York Times says Pershing told him: "Young man, I do not like your attitude."

Arthur Schlesinger Jr., in his history of the New Deal, says President Franklin D. Roosevelt thought MacArthur dangerous. If so, he nevertheless made him his chief of staff, commander in the Pacific, and gave him the Medal of Honor.

The Washington Post's military editor, John G. Norris, reports that when Maj. Dwight D. Eisenhower served under MacArthur in the Philippines in 1935 they had differences of opinion and Eisenhower returned home.

President Harry S. Truman dismissed MacArthur from his Korean command in 1951 for what he considered insubordination by publicly airing his views on how to win the war, contrary to Truman's orders and policies. The final straw was when MacArthur wrote to a congressman.

BUT NORRIS points out MacArthur fought general headquarters when he was a hero of World War I in Europe. When Pershing crossed him, Norris says, word "was gotten back to interested congressmen and Gen. Pershing's plans were killed."

When the second volume of Truman's memoirs appeared in 1956, explaining why he fired MacArthur, the general said the former president "did violence to the truth" and was "vengeful."

But MacArthur saw intrigue in his dismissal. He said it happened after he had demanded prosecution of a spy ring which was getting top secret military plans sent to Washington from his Korean command.

HE SAID he thought Gen. George C. Marshall, then secretary of defense, and Gen. Omar Bradley, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were "personally hostile to me" and that the enmity went back some time.

Yet, Truman's record of his conversations with MacArthur at Wake Island six months before his dismissal shows the general as saying: "No commander in the history of war ever had more complete and adequate support from all agencies in Washington than I have."

But it was Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's aide and confidant for more than 20 years, who did the biggest job of rounding up the various intrigues supposedly working against the general.

Whitney, who was with MacArthur when he died last Sunday, put together a 547-page justification of what MacArthur did or didn't do in a book called: "MacArthur: His Rendezvous With History."

HE SAID "Communists and their dupes" found "an ally in the 'Europe-first' clique" in the War and State Departments at the outbreak of World War II in an attempt to discredit the general "in every way and thwart his efforts against the enemy."

In 1932 MacArthur was widely criticized for leading — in full uniform and on a white horse — regular troops and tanks ordered by President Herbert Hoover to oust the "bonus army" veterans of World War I who had holed up in shacks on the outskirts of Washington.

Whitney's explanation: The veterans were infiltrated with Communists who wanted to create mob violence against the government. He writes of a "captured secret document in which the Communists planned to hang high government officials," with MacArthur heading the list.

MacArthur, when the storm broke over him, said the "mob was a bad-looking mob. It was animated by the essence of revolution."

The Rooster-Pecked Ones

NEW YORK (AP) — Just as many men today are henpecked so some wives are dominated by their husbands.

They are, so to speak, "rooster-pecked."

While this flies into the face of the comfortable feminine theory that this has become a world of women, run by women, for women, it is nevertheless inescapably true.

Here and there landmark men still survive who are able to assert their authority over women — and I am not speaking merely of male hairdressers. I mean husbands who are able to dominate their wives, usually without the ladies in question realizing it.

IT TAKES A great deal of Machiavellian cunning for a man to remain master in his own spittle-cup castle in these times, but it can be done—and it is being done.

How can a wife tell if she is "rooster-pecked"? Well, her clever mate probably has outwitted her in the battle of matrimonial bossdom if—

He insists that she handle all the money in the family, then, when the household budget gets out of balance, instead of upbraiding her he turns upon her a face of insufferable forgiveness.

There, my friends, you have a husband-dominated wife.

Every good woman loves being ruled by a man—just so he's smart enough not to let her realize it.

HE'S THE ONE who takes the kids to the circus, but she's the one who spansks them when they need it.

She fixes the leaky faucets and repairs the vacuum cleaner because he has convinced her that he is, after all, just a bewildered small boy who never learned how to be handy around the house.

Every time he confesses helplessly, "Honey, I don't know what I'd do without you," she feels a fierce maternal urge to protect him even more.

He served her breakfast in bed the day after they came back from their honeymoon, but managed to botch the eggs and toast so badly that she has been getting up early to fix breakfast for them every day since.

SHE GOES to the P-TA meeting alone, because he brought home some work from the office that simply has to be done. After she leaves, he turns on the television set and watches the night baseball game.

He assures her so constantly what a wonderful wife and mother she is that she goes through life feeling guilt-ridden because she can't think up more ways to please him.

There, my friends, you have a husband-dominated wife.

Every good woman loves being ruled by a man—just so he's smart enough not to let her realize it.

Around The Rim Mystery Of The Missing Money

The high school I attended was a very small one located in an oil field boom town. The enrollment was not large. I think there were 27 in my graduating class and that was the biggest class the school had ever graduated.

A unique thing about the school was the abundance of cash the students, particularly the boys, carried on their persons. It was not at all unusual for a boy to have $60-$80 and nearly every one of the fellows I ran around with always had from $20 to $30.

I REMEMBER an epidemic of stealing which hit the school. The members of the football team used the room off the auditorium stage to leave their regular clothes. Suddenly the fellows began to report they were losing anywhere from $20 to as much as $80 a day—bills taken from their pockets.

I was not one of the big moneyed characters. In fact, I was working as a janitor in the school to pay my way. So when this thievery began, I worried. I felt that it was up to me to catch the thief. Two other boys worked with me at the janitorial duties. We knew we were not pilfering the pockets of the football team, and the football team loudly declared that no one thought we were the thieves. Nevertheless, we felt we had to corner the real thief to save our own faces.

WE SET OUT to keep watch on the dressing room. One of us would conceal himself in the auditorium where he could have a good look at the door. The other two would do the work. The next day another of us would do the watching.

One afternoon, it was my turn to keep an eye on the door. I was behind the curtains on the stage. I heard steps coming up the stairs. A boy came into the room—I knew him well. He was not a football player, and he was not one of my crew.

He tiptoed quietly into the dressing room.

I SPED DOWNSTAIRS and notified the principal who was in his office. The principal waited at the foot of the stairs and when the boy came down, called him to come into the office.

Meantime, he had sent me to bring in the football players. They checked out their clothing. Three reported money missing—about $60 as I remember. The team and my fellows crowded into the principal's office. The suspect agreed to be searched. The principal searched him from head to toe. No money was found. We had him take off his shoes and socks.

FINALLY SOMEONE pointed out the boy was still wearing his cap. He declined to remove it. Two of the football players stepped forward. One grabbed the suspect with a bear hug. The other jerked the cap from his head.

He handed the cap to the principal. The principal examined it and turned it wrong side out. When he flipped down the leather interlining, the missing bills floated out on the desk.

"Well, fellows," said the principal. "This is it. What do you want done with him? I'll leave it up to you. We can have him arrested, if you like."

THE PLAYERS discussed it briefly. They told the boy that they would forget the whole thing if he would get out of school, leave town and never come back.

He didn't answer. He defiantly pulled his cap on his head and stalked out of the room. We never saw him again.

The football team trotted back to the practice field. We three fellows grabbed our brooms and mops. We all felt a lot better.

Can We Live Without Myths?

WASHINGTON — Chinese torment could not invent a more hideous ordeal than to submit a brilliant man with a hyperactive brain and a central interest in world affairs to the excruciating boredom of the filibuster.

When that man is a Southerner, required by custom to join a fight where his conscience is not fully committed, the punishment is magnified beyond description.

TO SENATOR Bill Fulbright the annual talkathon is the worst of the legislative drudgery, but not the only part that irks him. He has been in Congress since 1943, and it's no secret that he's bored stiff with just about everything except high policy matters and Arkansas chickens.

Fulbright's foreign policy speech prior to the Easter recess has been trumpeted as a reveille call for his party or a trial step toward some new approach which the Johnson administration might later take. More exactly, however, it seemed to be a "man who" nominating address by a Foreign Relations Chairman who'd very much like to be Secretary of State.

FULBRIGHT ISN'T after Secretary Rusk's job, but if the job falls open, there's a "man who" on the doorstep. The only question is whether Fulbright successfully described himself as the kind of Secretary of State whose appointment in the near future would be an act of wisdom by the President and would be welcomed by the nation. Let us see.

AT THE HEART of the senator's critique is an attitude of debunkery toward this country that is acceptable and healthy in men of letters, from Mark Twain through Mencken and Sinclair Lewis, and tolerable and stimulating in a senator, but completely unbecoming in a President or

Secretary of State whose job is to make us look as good as possible to the world. I grant that Fulbright is a superior man to whom the Homo Americanus may resemble Mencken's Homo Boobians, but I shudder to think of a national policy which stated, as Fulbright did:

"There is much cant in American moralism and not a little inconsistency. We are predisposed to regard any conflict as a clash between good and evil, rather than simply a clash between conflicting interests."

ONE OF THE myths he dismisses is the concept of "total victory," which is in indirect way of asking the conqueror to work toward partial surrender, hardly the right preachment for national leadership. Again, the senator scoffs at the "master myth of the cold war," which he holds to be the absurd concept "that the Communist bloc is a monolith composed of . . . conspiracies . . . to destroy the free world." A superior and privileged thinker, as Fulbright is, has no trouble splitting hairs to show that there are fissures in the Communist bloc, and that small members like Poland, Yugoslavia and Cuba cannot conquer the United States. But when a maker and enunciator of national policy does this, he is committing the historic mistake called "underestimating the enemy," a sin for which many dead statesmen and military leaders must be roasting in the Pit.

THE FULBRIGHT philosophy does every credit to a senator who offers his personal views, or to the kind of historian who dares to turn prophet and to read fluently from unwritten pages, or to a myth-buster who glories in iconoclasm. But if he was taking spring training to become Secretary of State, Fulbright was exercising the wrong muscles.

Another Look At Dallas

DALLAS—Whatever the weather or the time of day almost always little groups of people come to the slope just below the Texas School Book Depository to bring flowers or to stand soberly and solemnly near the spot where John F. Kennedy was killed.

The assassination was the greatest of a series of shocks wracking this prosperous, swiftly growing city. On the surface Dallas seems to have recovered from the assault on Adlai Stevenson on United Nations Day, the Kennedy murder, the televised killing of Harvey Lee Oswald, the absurd jail break during the trial of Jack Ruby and finally the witches' night in the courtroom before the television cameras when Ruby was sentenced to death.

STERN CRITICS here in Dallas say that the recovery means merely that the surface has been smoothed over and the grim past put out of sight. Other responsible Dallas citizens speak bitterly of how their city was traduced by the hundreds of reporters who came here from all over the world at the time of the assassination and during the Ruby trial.

Certainly there was sensational reporting and Dallas and Dallas' justice were the target. It was taken by some as an opportunity to shoulder all the shame and humiliation on a single city for the accident of an Oswald.

BUT THE VIOLENCE and hatred that boiled up here appear to be symptoms of a trouble that is surely not confined to Dallas.

It is the disease of an urban growth in which responsibility is so fragmented that it is lost sight of altogether. In the asphalt jungle leadership is nonexistent.

Tuberculosis Still A Dangerous Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is tuberculosis as easy to catch and as dangerous as when it was first discovered?

I know that certain precautions have to be taken with patients, but must they be isolated?

Is it true that the germs live three years after leaving the body? No, I am not a TB patient.—F. J. C.

spray dangerous and often deadly germs with every cough and sneeze.

It's best to keep them away from other people for the time being. They can have visitors, but are taught the necessity for covering the mouth and nose with tissue at each cough or sneeze, and how to keep at a safe distance from others.

Yes, tuberculosis is as easy to catch as it ever was, and as dangerous—unless it is treated. With drug treatment, and sometimes surgery, most patients (if they found out about their disease in time) become "negative." They no longer are walking germ - sprays, and then can continue treatment at home.

No, it's not true that TB germs survive for three years. The germs die quite soon after leaving the body.

TB is spread, not by germs that somebody produced last week or last month, but by the fresh, deadly ones being coughed or sneezed or otherwise distributed by (a) patients who don't care about other people; or (b) people who don't yet know that they have, and are spreading TB.

Don Still Speaks To Oil Group

Members of the Desk and Derrick Club met in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. Monday evening to hear a lecture by Don Still, manager of Elliott and Waldron Abstract and Title Co. of Midland, Inc. He discussed abstracts and titles in relation to the oil industry.

The program was illustrated with a film produced by the National Association of Real Estate Boards titled, "Under All Is the Land." In defining an abstract as the history of a tract of land, Still stressed the importance of complete knowledge of ownership of real property. He detailed the oil industry's need for clear titles and legal counseling.

Mrs. Shiloh Gorman, president announced that the regional seminar in Roswell April 24-26 would be attended by eight local delegates. Miss Marguerite Cooper worded the opening prayer.

Mrs. Paul Sheedy and Mrs. Adrian Randle served a salad supper to 17 members and guests, Miss Carolyn Holbrook and Still. The hostess table held a triangle arrangement of tulips, jonquils and sweet William. Another spring arrangement was displayed on the side board.

Workshop Conducted

Mrs. J. Johnson and Mrs. C. Redden conducted a flower arrangement workshop at the monthly meeting of the International Wives' Club held Monday evening in the Community Room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association Building.

Sgt. Domingo Fernandes showed films on Spain in conjunction with the club's monthly project of foreign study.

Mrs. Roy Drinnen announced several members of the group are scheduled to lecture at clubs and schools during the month. Plans for a semi-formal dance to be held at 7 p.m. April 19 at Cosden Country Club were made.

Mrs. J. Williams of Madrid, Spain, was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. Harold E. Hopkins and Mrs. Drinnen, hostesses served representative dishes from their respective countries for refreshments.

The next meeting will be May 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the Blue Room at Cosden Country Club. Individuals interested in joining the organization may contact Mrs. Drinnen, AM 4-7947.

Johnsons Honor Son On Birthday

Mrs. R. H. Johnson honored her son, Robert Jr., with a party on his sixth birthday Friday. Eleven boys met at the home at 510 Highland Drive, and adjourned to the park for games.

A circus theme was used with balloons festooning the house, and a red and white birthday cake was decorated with animals and a carousel. Party hats and guns were given as favors.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

During this season of the year when the wind blows some part of every day and some days all day, there should be some hat designer who could come up with a hat for windy weather. Of course, there has been offered the hats for spectator sports and gardening that have ties, both narrow and broad, that can secure the top and hold it steady while midday golfers or watches drag races, golf games, baseball and other outdoor activities. But watch women who dress always with a hat. Those who are not accustomed to the sudden gusts most often find themselves hatless with their hair blowing the way the wind does. Seasoned West Texas women have learned to keep one hand at the ready and have developed a fairly quick draw when it comes to popping their hand on the top of their chapeaus. Some of them have even accomplished a rather natural-appearing bearing . . . as if the hat were designed to be worn with the wearer's hand on it.

MRS. OLLIE ATTAWAY was a happy hostess the past weekend when members of her family gathered at her home for a visit. Four generations were present, the member of the fourth being little JACKIE DIXON JR., son of MR. and MRS. JACKIE DIXON of Gatesville who accompanied MR. and MRS. Mrs. Murdock Ends Professional Career

AFTER 17 YEARS

Mrs. C. A. Murdock ended 17 years of service with Zale's Jewelers when she retired April 1 and terminated 24 years of work in the jewelry business. She was formerly associated with Iva's Jewelers before it was purchased by the Zale company.

Retirement will give Mrs. Murdock the opportunity to follow several pursuits she has been too busy for before. She will have more time for her sons and their families. C. A. Jr. is secretary to the vice president of the Texas and Pacific Railroad and lives in Fort Worth with his wife and two sons, Michael and Derek. Jack is associated with the Jack Johnson accounting agency and resides with his family in Big Spring. The Jack Murdock has a son, Jeff, and daughter, Mary Margaret.

Mrs. Murdock, known to her friends and customers as Edith, said she would miss the business contacts with customers she has served for many years, but hopes to see them in social meetings. She is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club, a past matron in the Order of Eastern Star, and a participant in the Lydia

Girls Struck By Cars In Separate Accidents

Two little girls, Daisy Marie Tisdale, 5, and Dominga Grana- do, 8, were injured in two sepa- rate pedestrian-motor vehicle accidents Monday. One of the accidents involved a hit-and-run motorist, and police are search- ing for this driver.

Mrs. Mariano Granado, 1106 W. 4th, suffered possible broken ribs, a skinned left elbow and possible back injuries when she was struck by an unknown woman motorist about 5:30 p.m. Monday at Third and Runnels.

FCC Boss Scores Air's Complacency

CHICAGO (AP) — Chairman E. William Henry of the Federal Communications Commission accused the radio-television industry today of "crass complacency" in the face of threats to broadcasting freedom.

The injured girl was scheduled to return to Howard County Hos- pital Foundation this morning for X-rays, according to a sister, who said she was taken there Monday following the ac- cident.

The accident occurred as Do- minga was walking east across Runnels, the sister said, and the car was traveling south on Runnels. Its driver left the scene of the accident. Dominga was accompanied by two sisters, Mary Lou and Carmen, when she crossed the street, but they were not hit by the car.

Daisy Marie Tisdale, daugh- ter of B. T. Tisdale, 711 Main, was struck by a Texas Electric Service Co. truck driven by L. Weldon Bryson, Box 283. Police said the child dashed into the street from her home. The truck skidded 28 feet and came to a stop, but the girl was knocked down, police said. Her injuries are not believed serious.

Trustees To Meet Tonight

By such an attitude, he said in an address prepared for the National Association of Broad- casters, "you tarnish the ideals enshrined in the Constitution and invite an attitude of suspicion."

The Big Spring school trustees will hold a called meeting at 7:30 p.m. today to go into several matters, including consid- eration of a proposed baseball park on a portion of the Boyd- ston school campus, conference with school architect on plans and cost estimates on school expansion, conference with school's bond fiscal agent on fi- nancing a bond program, discus- sion of a contract for a new driver education car to replace the old one from Shasta Ford Sales, canvassing of election re- sults and seating two elected members, and appointment of a board of equalization.

The board's consideration of the baseball park will climax several discussions, and groups are expected to appear for and against the proposal.

More detailed plans will be submitted by architect Atmar Atkinson on new buildings, addi- tions, and remodeling of old buildings in the proposed build- ing program. Carter Johnston, representing Rauscher - Pierce and Co., will project the prin- cipal and interest requirements for a bond financing program, along with the school district's ability to meet obligations based on the assessed valuations.

Jimmy Felts, who was re- elected to the board, and Jack Haralson, a new member, will take the oath of office and be seated following the vote can- vass. The board will also be re- organized.

Pleds Guilty To County Charge

Roger Lee Patterson, 20, of 1315 Princeton, has been sen- tenced to serve 60 days in the county jail and pay costs in the case in connection with a charge of contributing to the delin- quency of a minor.

Patterson pleaded guilty to the charge in the court today. Wayne Burns, county attorney, said that Patterson had been ac- cused of enticing a 15-year-old girl to run away from home.

The girl, according to Burns, has been before the juvenile court on several occasions. She is to be taken to the state training school as a parole viola- tor.

Wilson Takes Full Control Of Turbulent Labor Party

LONDON (AP) — Harold Wilson exercises complete control over the once-turbulent Labor party, sustained by the belief that he is only months away from becoming prime minister.

He uses brains rather than theatrical tricks to maintain his position as party leader. Yet something about his performance recalls childhood memories of the circus. Remember that breathless moment when the lion tamer walked into the cage? He seemed so lonely and frail. Magically he soon was in complete control. The lions stopped snarling and began rolling over like house cats in catnip.

Wilson has done the same sort of thing to the Labor party, long regarded as a poorly disciplined political organization. Left-wingers, right-wingers and moderates all bow to his wishes. They even profess to have forgotten old feuds. In a little over a year Wilson has constructed a well-drilled parliamentary team headed by a shadow cabinet, or alternative government, waiting to achieve its moment of power.

OLD RIVALRY
All the individuals in the party are on Wilson's side. His old rivals—George Brown and James Callaghan — lean over backward to cooperate with him. Wilson will be 48 Wednesday. He decided when he was a child that he wanted to become prime minister and has kept after that goal with a single-mindedness rare in British politics.

The pipe-smoking man in the plastic raincoat has two things going for him—the smell of victory and his own striking mental powers. After 12 years in opposition the Laborites are hungry for office. They keep taunting Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home with demands that he call a national election at once. Polling must take place by Nov. 5 but the prime minister gets to pick the date. There is widespread belief that the voting for a new House of Commons will come in June.

Britain's Laborites describe themselves as Socialists, but many brands of socialism exist within the party. Right-wingers and left-wingers used to fight endlessly over how deeply the party should commit itself to the nationalization of industry.

WORKS HARD
Wilson has buried that talk. He works hard in the House of Commons and tours the countryside many weekends. Wilson generally is recognized as possessing one of the brightest minds in British public life. Even the Conservatives give him this. He has a photographic memory and he absorbs details like a sponge. His scholastic record was outstanding — he once taught at Oxford.

Brown, 49, and Callaghan, approaching his 52nd birthday, both opposed Wilson for the leadership after Hugh Gaitskell died Jan. 18, 1963. Brown, the deputy leader, could expect to become home secretary in a Laborite government. Callaghan, as the shadow cabinet's expert on treasury matters, looks forward to becoming chancellor of the exche- quer.

The 15 members of the shadow cabinet are elected on an annual basis by the Labor party's parliamentary delegation. They meet weekly under Wilson's chairmanship to discuss policy and plan tactics.

MINISTERS
Each man is matched against a government minister. Thus Patrick Gordon Walker, 56, the Laborite spokesman on foreign affairs, keeps a close watch on Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler's activities.

Gordon Walker takes a leading role in Commons debates on diplomatic topics and expects to become foreign secretary in Wilson's government. He has no certainty of getting the job, however. If the Labor party wins at the polls, Wilson is free to distribute Cabinet posts as he likes. Performance of various individuals in the shadow cabinet would influence him.

Wilson's brand of socialism is difficult to define now. He seems more interested in speeding a marriage of science and industry in Britain than in the theoretical arguments about nationalization.

Two Hungarian-born experts Nicholas Kaldor, 55, and Thomas Balogh, 57 — advise him on economic affairs. Neither belongs to Parliament or the shadow cabinet. They have convinced Wilson that he must tax corporate profits in a way that encourages British firms to export more and automate their plants.

Grand Jury Begins Talks
A conference between the Howard County grand jury and the county's law enforcement officials on how to cope with the sale of beer and liquor to minors was under way at noon.

The grand jury, convened at 10 a.m. by Judge Ralph Caton, immediately went into session with Gil Jones, district attorney; Jay Banks, police chief; Wayne Burns, county attorney; Deputy Sheriff Aubrey Standard; County Juvenile Officer Bob Darland; and C. B. Arnold, head of the state liquor board here.

The conference was still in progress at noon and none of the 25 scheduled cases which the grand jury is to investigate had been started. Witnesses were on hand waiting call to the jury room.

Jones announced Monday he had asked the officers to join with him and the grand jury in an effort to curb the widespread sale of liquor to minors. Three such cases have been filed in the past week by the Texas LCB.

Mrs. Jordan's Father Dies, Funeral Today

Funeral services for Henry S. Patterson, 73, father of Mrs. Tommy Jordan of Big Spring, were held at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the First Baptist Church at Knox City.

Mr. Patterson died at 1:30 a.m. Monday in the Knox County Hospital where he had been a patient for 11 weeks. Until his retirement in 1962, he had operated a grocery north of Knox City. Prior to that he had lived in Vernon. A native of Honey Grove where he was born Dec. 1, 1890, he married Eunice Bryant, Nov. 15, 1911 in Paducah. Mr. Patterson was a World War I veteran.

The Rev. Jerry Clark, pastor of Gillispie Baptist Church, officiated at the rites, and burial was in the Knox City cemetery. Surviving are his widow; two sons, R. D. Patterson, Lubbock, and Vanis Patterson, Cypress, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Laverne Roberson, Great Bend, Kan., and Mrs. Bernice Jordan, Big Spring; three brothers and two sisters; eight grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Lions Schedule Queen Contest

The Downtown Lions, in co- operation with the Lions Auxil- iary, will have its queen's con- test Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Couden Country Club. The ladies' night dinner affair will feature six daughters of members, one of whom will be chosen to represent the club in the district convention at Brownwood in May. The club's weekly Wednesday luncheon will not be held this week.

Forsan Townsite Sale Postponed

Due to a clerical error in the sale announcement, the sched- uled tax sale of part of the old Forsan townsite for delinquent taxes has been postponed. The sale was slated for today but will now be held the first Tues- day in May.

The form used for announcing the sale was an old one, it was said, and incorrectly stated the time as being from "2 to 4 p.m." It should have read "10 a.m. to 4 p.m."

The town of Forsan, the For- san County Line Independent School District, and the county have brought about the sale of the land to recover slightly more than $8,000 due in back taxes.

The sale is in accordance with a judgment of the 118th District Court.

Jaycees Get Into Cave Search In State Park

The much-specified cavern atop Scenic Mountain is about to undergo a full-scale attack, with lights, power tools and a host of Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce mem- bers leading the way.

The cavern, cave, or hole-in-the-ground—take your choice—is atop the mountain in Big Spring State Park. For months now, mostly on weekends, a handful of volunteers including Explorer and Sea Scouts have been digging out a mass of rock and dirt which plugged the entrance to the smaller section of the cave.

This rubble was piled into the opening back in the Thirties, when the Civilian Conservation Corps was building the park. According to several reports, a few CCC members had visions of blasting with dynamite to try to locate a legendary Indian cavern on the mountain. The CCC commander had other ideas about the danger of dynamite so he ordered the hole filled with rock to seal it off.

Texas Electric Service Co. has agreed to install electric lines to the cave entrance and down into it. This will provide lights and power for winches and other tools.

The Jaycees will foot the bill for the electricity consumed. The project is a three-fold one. First, the entrance to the caves must be cleared. This has been done by the earlier volun- teers and Scouts, opening up a two-room cave connected by a narrow, belly-crawling passage.

The second phase of the proj- ect is to locate and enter the giant cavern which reportedly lies under the top of Scenic Mountain. Tales abound among oldtimers of the area about this cavern, tales of its huge size, legends of robbers' gold, Indian burials and the like. So far, the present-day diggers have not located the cavern.

The third phase, if the cavern is found, is to build it into a tourist attraction.

Wind Blamed For Accident

Wind was blamed as a factor in a truck-car mishap on the Beal Creek bridge on FM 821 at 8:30 a.m. today.

State Highway Patrol officers said the mishap was 9.6 miles southeast of Coahoma and 6.3 miles south of the intersection of FM 821 and 15 20.

Driver of the car was Warren C. Ham, 43, Odessa, who was in a 1963 model sedan. Virgil Floyd, 41, hauling a big tank on a truck, was the other driver. The truck belongs to the Bill Hanson Truck Co. Floyd lives at 1003 Sycamore.

The wind caused the tank to swing and the sedan was extensively damaged in the im- pact. No one was hurt.

Actor Sellers Suffers Attack

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—British actor Peter Sellers, 38, took a turn for the worse today after suffering a heart attack Monday. A spokesman at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said his condition is considered critical.

The spokesman said compli- cations developed early today as a result of shock and distur- bance of the rhythm of Sellers' heartbeat.

At 4:30 a.m., he was trans- ferred from his private room to an intensive care unit and another consultant was called.

The actor was stricken at his home with what the hospital first called a moderate heart attack. He has been working in his first Hollywood film, "Kiss Me, Stupid."

Sellers' bride of two months, Swedish actress Britt Ekland, 21, a beautiful blonde, said her husband had no previous history of ill health.

Women To Play Here

The annual Women's Day In- ventional Golf tournament will be held at the Big Spring Country Club Wednesday with 50-60 entries expected in the field from six area cities if the weather conditions remain fa- vorable.

There will be four flights, three of the 18-hole variety and one nine-hole division for beginners. The championship flight will be for women with handicaps of 0-16, the first flight will be made up of players with handicaps of 17-26, and the second flight will be 27 and up players. The nine-hole bracket will only have competitors with handicaps of 19 or more.

A trophy will go to the low net and low gross scores in each flight. After paying a $2 entry fee, the tournament com- mittee will see that a player is paired up. Starting times will be between 8:30-10:30 a.m.

Police Studying Contents Of Car

Police Tuesday were studying the contents taken from a car stolen from Chuck Atwell's Used Car Lot, 1409 W. 4th, March 24. The contents included cloth- ing, bedding, camping equip- ment and a variety of household merchandise. They were taken from the vehicle after it was recovered during the weekend.

Police said three suspects have been arrested in Abilene with the vehicle in their pos- session. They are being held there for questioning.

Cubs Briefed

Boys in Den 1, Pack 48 were briefed on the Cub Scout Nat- uralists theme at their meeting Monday in the home of Mrs. R. R. McEwen Jr., new assist- ant den mother. After the pledge of allegiance, they answered roll call with bird names. Mrs. Ben Johnson, den mother, ex- plained the month's theme, and the boys then made bird feed- ers. Following a game to keep a feather afloat, the boys had a living circle and recited the Cub promise.

REP. JOSEPH MARTIN, PORTRAIT
Former speaker tells of historic letter from Mac

Letter Didn't Shake Mac-Martin Closeness

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. once made public a letter that ended the military career of a friend. The friend never mentioned the letter again, and neither did Martin, and the two remained close to the end.

The friend was General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, who died Sunday. In a reminiscent interview, Martin reviewed the events that swirled about the historic letter.

"I had wanted some ammunition to answer some of the Democratic arguments about the war in Korea," said Martin, "and so I wrote a letter to MacArthur asking for his views."

VICTORY

Martin, a Republican congressman from Massachusetts who was House minority leader then, received a reply from MacArthur. In the reply, MacArthur wrote Martin, "There is no substitute for victory," and he disagreed with President Harry S. Truman's decision to limit the war to Korea itself and to leave enemy bases in Communist China alone.

"I had asked him for his views, and his reply did not say that his views were confidential, but I was not sure what to do," Martin said. "I walked around the block several times before I finally made up my mind. I decided that if he did not want his views known he would have said so."

Martin, in the midst of a House debate on the Korean War in April 1951, released the letter.

MADE PUBLIC

Two days after the letter was made public, Truman dismissed MacArthur as the American commander in the Far East, and the long military career of the general came to an end.

"I never had any regrets about making that letter public," Martin said. "I always figured that Truman wanted to fire MacArthur anyway. He did it all too quickly. He fired him two days after I released the letter. If it had not been the letter, Truman would have found some other excuse."

"It is funny," the 79-year-old congressman continued. "MacArthur never mentioned that letter to me at all. And I never said a word about it, either. I always felt, let sleeping dogs lie."

LA GUARDIA

Martin said he first met MacArthur when the general was Army chief of staff during the early 1930s. The late Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, then a Republican congressman brought them together.

"Mayor La Guardia had this apartment, and he liked to make chowder, and one day, he said to me, 'Come on over and have some chowder with General MacArthur,'" Martin recalled. "We saw each other from time to time. I would not say we were intimates. But we were friends. In 1952, I went to see him and suggested that he become a candidate for the Republican nomination for president."

GIVE ADVICE

The speech said, in part: "If therefore, anyone thinks himself qualified to give advice respecting the war which I am conducting, which may prove advantageous to the public, let him not refuse his assistance to the state, but let him come with me to Macedonia."

"He shall be furnished with a ship, a horse, a tent; even his traveling charges shall be defrayed."

"But if he thinks this too much trouble and prefers the repose of a city life to the tools of war, let him not, on land, assume the office of a pilot."

Underneath was the inked inscription "Amen!" and the signature, "Douglas MacArthur."

"He sent this to me two years ago," Martin said. "It sort of touches the whole point of everything, doesn't it?"

Speech Class Sets Supper And Play

A combination supper-play is being sponsored by the speech and drama department of Big Spring High School, according to director Dan Shockey.

The supper will begin at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the high school cafeteria. The menu calls for spaghetti and sauce, tossed salad, pie and tea or coffee. The play, described as a one-act "serious comedy" will begin at 8 p.m. It is entitled, "The Long Christmas Dinner," and was written by Thornton Wilder, author of the award-winning novel, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey."

Tickets are 75 cents for both adults and students alike and may be purchased from any high school drama student or in the foyer of the high school at noon during the week. This price covers both the supper and the play. Tickets for the play are only 25 cents.

Shockey, speech instructor at the high school, said the day following its presentation here, the play will be entered in the regional University Interscholastic League one-act play contest at Odessa Permian.

The play is a comment on human nature, according to Shockey, who said it concerns the life of a family during a 90-year period. Members of the cast are Sheryl Diltich, Marshall Cockrell, Sandra Conner, Bob Sneed, Pat Hamilton, Jo Ellen Fivash, Velma Martin, Pax Bunch, Phillip Hall and Robert Daniels.

Tulsa Bar Doesn't Want Belli; Feeling's Mutual

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Melvin Belli, the controversial lawyer from San Francisco, won't speak in Tulsa. The Tulsa Bar Association says it doesn't want him and Belli says he doesn't want to come.

A Tulsa defense attorney, Roehm West, announced Saturday that Belli had agreed to speak here Nov. 20, and had so informed Deryl Gotcher, president of the Tulsa Bar Association.

Gotcher, who said he thought West "was just joking," said that the bar would not sponsor an appearance by Belli, who served as defense counsel for Jack Ruby at Dallas.

Belli, who has announced he will resign from the American Bar Association, said in San Francisco Monday, "Now I am not interested in speaking in Tulsa."

The San Francisco attorney was fired by Ruby after the Dallas night club operator was assessed the death sentence for the slaying of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

DEAR ABBY

Time To Get Him Home

DEAR ABBY: My husband announced last November that he needed a rest, so he went to New York to visit his sister. After being gone two months, he sent me a post card from Paris saying he got the "urge" to go abroad. I have been getting his post cards from all over Europe with no word of how to contact him. What if I, or one of the children, should become seriously ill, or die? Our children are away at boarding school, thank heavens, so they are spared the humiliation. I feel like a fool when people ask me where my husband is. He obviously cares nothing for me or he never could have done such a thing. I am well provided for, but money isn't everything. We've been married 19 years and I am seriously considering asking my lawyer to file for a divorce. What would you do in my place?

HEARTBROKEN

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: I'd get in touch with my lawyer immediately and attempt to locate my globe-trotting husband. He could be sick—or just sick of you. In any case, it's time he got home. Do nothing about a divorce at this distance.

DEAR ABBY: I believe that my mother-in-law is one in a million. Judging from most of your letters about mothers-in-law, I am lucky. We get along wonderful and even think and do things alike. When I wanted to dry out a cowhide, she helped me take it up and nail it to my garage roof, salt it down and trim it off. Now I ask you, how many mothers-in-law would go through that for a daughter-in-law? Sincerely, MRS. C. G.

NORTH FORT MYERS

DEAR MRS. C. G.: Not very danged many!

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and my problem is my parents. I met a very nice boy who is 17. He is a sharp kid and a real neat dresser. My parents met him and decided they didn't like him because his pants were too tight. Now they won't let me go out with him for that reason. He keeps calling and asking to see me, and I keep making up excuses. I can't tell him my parents are square, can I?

HIGHLAND PARK

DEAR HIGHLAND: Tell the boy that your parents want you to see more of more boys and less of just one. Tight pants won't be in the vogue forever.

Williams, West Are Named Top Athletes

Seven boys, four of them Big Spring High School athletes, were given awards at the Evening Lions' Club basketball banquet in the Wesley Methodist church basement Monday night. The service club stages the party annually for members of the Howard County Junior College and Steer basketball teams and their coaches. High school boys sharing in the awards included: Outstanding player—Charley West, presented by coach Delnor Poss on behalf of radio station KRST. Outstanding rebounder—Monty Clendenin, presented by E. C. Smith Construction. Best defensive performer—Ronnie Banks, presented by Dibreil's Sporting Goods. Sportsmanship award—Larry Seals, presented by Phillips Tire Company. HCJC athletes earning trophies were: Outstanding player—Terry Williams, presented by coach Buddy Travis on behalf of radio station KBST. Most improved player—Jim Oldham, awarded by Dibreil's Sporting Goods. Sportsmanship award—Dick Ebling, presented by Dr. Charles Warren on behalf of Phillips Tire Company. Brief talks on the teams were heard by Travis, Poss and Truett Newell. The latter is the high school B team coach. Newell was given a plaque, as was Richard Eubanks, C team mentor, in absentia. Lt. Dave Morgan of Webb AFB and Winter Park, Fla. and Rev. Jim Sharp shared the speaker's dais. Morgan reminded his listeners of their responsibilities to society. "Great athletes do not always make great men," he remarked. "But competition builds leaders. You must learn to compete." Morgan said he had the opportunity to meet coach Otto Graham at last year's Tangerine Bowl game in Florida and was impressed with Graham as a man. Graham, he said, had enjoyed greatness as an athlete and could have had a coaching job at a "name" school for the joy and happiness they can and should expect from life. Dr. Warren, acting on behalf of the Jayhawk Exes Club, presented coach Travis a gift certificate, redeemable at a local department store. Cotton Mize served as master of ceremonies. A crowd of about 50 attended the banquet.

Wet Masters Course May Trouble Short Hitters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — With every drop of rain, the Augusta National Golf Course grew longer, and the field for the Masters got smaller. "This course always favors the long hitter," said veteran Byron Nelson. "And with a soaking rain, it favors the man who hits the ball a long way in the air. That's Jack Nicklaus." "The rain cuts the field of players with a good chance down to only four or five," said the even more veteran Gene Sarazen. "Nicklaus, and just a handful of others; Arnold Palmer, old Sam Snead, maybe. And among the youngsters, Rex Baxter and Jack Rye." Nicklaus, the 24-year-old Golden Bear who last year was the youngest player ever to win the Masters, looked at the steady downpour Monday and admitted it didn't hurt his chances to be the first player ever to repeat. "This is just wonderful for me," he said.

Five-Team Race Seen By Cronin

By BOB HOOBING Associated Press Sports Writer BOSTON (AP)—Chicago, Baltimore, Minnesota and Detroit will press the defending champion New York Yankees in a five-way American League pennant fight, President Joe Cronin believes. His reasoning: All four show marked improvement while the Yankees, seeking their 14th flag in 16 years, have stood still. The 64th campaign opens next Monday with Los Angeles in Washington. Cronin made his remarks Monday on the basis of his observations at Florida spring training camps. "I can't predict a 10-team race as much as we would hope for one," Cronin said. "I pick the White Sox, Orioles, Twins and Tigers as the leading challengers to the Yankees because each has decidedly improved. "The Yankees are still the Yankees. "Their defense is as good as ever under new Manager Yogi Berra. But I didn't see Mickey Mantle step out. He's still favoring the knee on which he had the operation. Roger Maris wasn't doing much. "The biggest New York concern is pitching—namely solid help for Whitey Ford, Jim Bouton and Al Downing. The problem is not the eight men on the field. It's on the mound and in the bullpen." The Cronin analysis of the four challengers: Chicago — "Al Lopez is the most optimistic manager down there. In switchhitting Don Buford up from Indianapolis, the White Sox have a mature, 27-year old rookie second baseman who can fly and made the trade of Nellie Fox possible. The Sox have good speed and more pitching help in the big rookie, Fritz Ackley." Baltimore — "Hank Bauer has installed a lot of aggressiveness in the lineup. He's got the club hustling. I think shortstop Luis Aparicio is in for a really great year. Bauer is making him the take-charge guy and Aparicio is taking hold very well. He's the one who runs in to the pitcher now." Minnesota — "The team has a lot of tools. It is more mature now and looks the part. I was impressed by that young pitcher, Jerry Arrigo. Sam Mele is looking better at second. Zoilo Versalles is just terrific at short, continually making the big plays." Detroit — "The line-up is much better looking with Jerry Lumpe at second base. He has helped Dick McAuliffe immeasurably. Don Demeter and Billy Bruton help in the outfield. Al Kaline wasn't hitting well this spring but that's no cause for concern because everyone knows what he can do. A great deal depends on the bat of Norm Cash and pitching." The race—"I think it will be better as a result of the Dodgers beating New York in the World Series. Some of the teams who thought the Yankees were invincible may change their thinking."

Howard Gets Dodger Show On The Road

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Howard, baseball's reluctant dragon, is breathing fire again and that means that Walt Alton, manager of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers, can breathe just a little bit easier. Howard, whose hulking 6-foot-7 form was conspicuously absent from the Dodger training camp for most of the spring, turned up last week and the flimsy Los Angeles attack hasn't been the same since.

The giant-sized outfielder stroked two more hits Monday night as Los Angeles whipped the New York Yankees 5-1 in an exhibition game. It brought his spring production to six hits in 15 appearances for a .400 average.

Personal problems kept Howard out of the Dodger camp until last week and without his bat the Dodger attack was somewhat on the skimpy side. Howard's lifetime slugging average of .512, tops among the Dodgers and ninth best among active players, adds a needed punch to Alton's cast.

Howard's hitting shared the spotlight with Sandy Koufax' pitching. The Dodger ace hurled six strong innings, allowing five hits and striking out six.

Bo Belinsky, the Los Angeles Angel southpaw, continues to impress in the Angels' Palm Springs, Calif. camp. He won his second game of the spring Monday, allowing only three hits in six innings as Los Angeles defeated the Cleveland Indians 7-1.

Roger Craig, who had trouble getting runs with the New York Mets, is running into the same difficulty with the St. Louis Cardinals. Craig, the victim of 12 shutouts last season, shared pitching chores with Ray Saadeck and Bob Humphries and the Cards won on the short end of a 1-0 verdict against Baltimore.

Eisewhere, Ken Johnson of Houston pitched six perfect innings but lost when Milwaukee bunched four hits for two runs in the second inning and a 2-1 victory.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: RICHIE ALLEN, 22-year-old sensation of spring training for the Philadelphia Phillies, after having spent a season with Little Rock of the International League:

"If I had the power there's one thing I'd do. I'd move all the people out of here and then I'd take a great big bomb and I'd blow up the whole South. If that's the way people have to live, what's the point of it all?"

JIMMY CANNON, New York scribe: "The insurance monger does it with his mouth. It is a business for monopolists. But people must believe the spiel. No one ever invested in a policy unless they thought they would cash a bet. Death is a sure thing, but they even lay you a price on that. The odds make all propositions lucrative. Charles O. Finley, who owns the Kansas City franchise, must be a persuasive salesman because he took millions out of the insurance trade. But he can't take himself out of Kansas City, or the second division. The people of Kansas City fought to keep the A's. It's like Los Angeles insisting smog is a civic asset. They were a boring club before they left Philadelphia, which is a suburb of a cemetery. . . . Before Finley bought the A's stock they were trimmed in a series of player exchanges by the Yankees. Seldom has a ball club been so wrecked by such suave vandalism. . . ."

JOE ADCOCK, Los Angeles' Angels' infielder: "My best season was 1954. It's the year I hit four home runs in one game at Ebbets Field and the only year I hit over 300. . . . I'm not trying to tell anyone I'm going up the hill, because I'm not. I just hope I'm capable of staying free of injury, not getting hurt, and maybe I can play 100 games. I'm built for comfort, not speed. I'm not going to outrun anybody. I hope to make up for being older and slower, in other ways. Experience is a big thing. I don't think you can beat it. I've always been a hot weather player, so I liked the trade that brought me here. You play in Cleveland, Cincinnati and Milwaukee and you get a lot of 32 and 34 degree nights. I can't knock Milwaukee, though. I was there all during the Braves' good years. They say we were spalled but I disagree. We never finished below third. . . . No ball player in the National league is better than Detroit's Al Kaline. He can do everything. I think Henry Aaron is the best hitter I've seen in ten years. Sandy Koufax is the best pitcher but there'll come a day when he'll lose his speed and he'll have to go for the corners like Warren Spahn."

JIM MURRAY, Los Angeles scribe: "Basketball is a game which, for years, needed five men on a side, two referees, and a judge. It gave the world the refinements of the two-shot foul and the shaved points. It was coached by former players and present gamblers. It went from the YMCA to the pool hall in one generation. It was easy to play. All you had to be was 7 ft. tall and able to count to two. But the only way they could get anybody to come to see it was to throw a dance afterwards. Baseball laughed at it. Football ignored it. It was the side show of sports, but too active for chess. But it is a game which is looking over the shoulders of both football and loud anymore these days, and neither one is laughing out loud anymore. The big reason is the professional sport. As a career, basketball used to be driving a truck, but not by much. Now, it beats owning a truck — and by plenty."

HORACE (BONES) MCKINNEY, Wake Forest basketball coach: "UCLA's perfect season has not altered my opinion that the balance of U.S. basketball power is in the East. From the Big Ten eastward, there are still more good teams. I have only admiration for UCLA's 30-0 won-lost record but I couldn't honestly say that this was the greatest team I ever saw. North Carolina going unbeaten in 1956-57 and then whipping Kansas with Wilt Chamberlain in the finals certainly seems a greater accomplishment."

Bovines Host Lee In League Opener

A busy and sometimes frustrating practice season behind them, the Big Spring Steers open District 2-AAAA baseball season here at 4 o'clock today with Midland Lee.

Lee, coached by Ernie Johnson, brings a 7-1-1 won-lost-tied record here and is one of the favorites in the pennant chase. Big Spring won seven of its 16 league contests.

Big Spring will go with a patched-up lineup. Freddie Mears, who was to have hurled in the team's league debut, is out indefinitely with a sore shoulder.

Charles Burdett, who has been impressive in his recent outings, will start on the mound.

Charley West, the club's regular catcher turned his ankle in last Saturday's doubleheader with Eunice, N.M. He will go to right field instead and will be spelled behind the plate by Allen Clanton, who did a creditable job against Eunice.

Other starting outfielders for coach Roy Baird will be David Agee in left and Van Tom Whalley in center.

Starting infielders for the Bovines will be Eddie Thomas at first base, Jim Hamilton at second, Baxter Moore at shortstop and Howard Bain at third.

Lee will probably use Bobby Weber (2-0) on the mound. Weber was very effective last year and is said to be much better this spring.

Lee is due to contest Odessa Permian for the top spot in the standings.

Lee defeated Lubbock Monterey twice Saturday, 7-4 and 10-8, to climax a sensational practice season.

Dwayne Casbeer is the leading Lee hitter. He's rolling along with about a .475 average. Back with the Rebels this year is center fielder Bucky Kimble, who was a sophomore in 1963 led District 2-AAAA in hitting.

Casbeer will be behind the plate for Lee. Others who will perform for the visitors include Bill Daniel, Jackie Hanks, Terry Schreiner, Kim Hammond, Terry Jastrow and Scott Rogers.

The Steers will also be at home Saturday, at which time they oppose Odessa High in a 2 o'clock contest.

Other conference games today sends San Angelo to Midland to oppose the Bulldogs, Odessa Permian to Abilene to tangle with the Eagles and Cooper to Odessa to take on the Bronchos.

Permian has won ten of 11 starts, Midland High nine of ten, San Angelo eight of ten and Odessa nine of 12. Abilene Cooper is 8-3 and Abilene High 7-7.

"The athlete who does a good job has the spirit of God flowing through his body," said the former All-Southwest Conference end from Texas. "He is prepared in every way—physically, mentally and spiritually—and he can go out onto the field of competition and perform without the tensions of anxiety."

During the course of his talk, Bumgardner reminded the athletes that it was becoming increasingly harder to live up to the standards expected from today's coaches.

"The day of the big, dumb athlete is gone," he said. "The day of the tramp athlete is gone. Now they must give 10 per cent all the time—there's no going out at night, no smoking, no drinking."

"That's why I like athletes—if they're real stars, they don't take the easy way out."

Following the talk three of Forsan High School's finest senior athletes were awarded with certificates. Kenneth Soles, football, basketball, and track letterman, was named the Most Valuable Player in a poll of sportswriters from the Big Spring Daily Herald. Bettye Conger and Donnie Gooch were the recipients of an award making them members of the 100 per cent club of the high school. The first year to be given, the award will go annually to the boy and girl whom the coaches feel constantly gives all he or she has every-time while competing for Forsan.

FORSAN—Donnie Gooch and Kenneth Soles, senior football lettermen for the Forsan Bulldogs, have been chosen to play in the Class B football game in Ranger in August which climaxes a coaches' clinic. Gooch was an end and Soles a half-back. Soles was the number one choice of District 6-B to play in the contest.

FORSAN — Forsan and Garden City will play a girls' volleyball game tonight in the Forsan gym at 7:30. On Friday, four District 83-B schools will be in Forsan for a loop tournament, with both the boys and girls teams seeing action. Games will begin at 4 p.m.

MIDLAND — The Rannels Yearlings found the competition tough Saturday in the West Texas Junior Relays in Midland as the locals could only garner 10 points and a three way tie with Midland and Carver junior highs for 14th place in a 21 team field.

Raul Paredes finished the highest in the finals of any Yearling as his jump of 18-6 1/2 was good enough to tie him with Bill Noel of Snyder for third place in the broad jump.

Gary Rogers ran fourth in the 330-yard dash while James Carver tossed the shot 53-1/2 to take sixth in the shot put.

MIDLAND — With one more week remaining in the Texas Women's Bowling Association state tournament in Midland, Lynn Johnson of Big Spring is in first place in Class D of the All-Events category with a 1,582 total.

Komives Leads Cage Scorers

NEW YORK (AP)—Howard (Butch) Komives, Bowling Green's hot-handed backcourt ace, is the major college basketball scoring champion.

The 6-foot-1 senior fired at a 36.7 points-per-game clip—third highest average in history—and headed a record list of seven collegians with averages of better than 30 points per game, according to final statistics released today by the NCAA.

Nick Werkman of Seton Hall, last year's No. 1 scorer, finished second this season with a 33.2 mark.

Manny Newsome, Western Michigan, 32.7; Bill Bradley, Princeton, 32.3; Rick Barry, Miami, Fla., 32.2; Gary Bradds, Ohio State, 30.6, and Steve Thomas, Xavier, Ohio, 30.0, completed the 30-point club.

Komives vaulted from 45th position a year ago to the top spot. He capped his college career with a record 50 straight free throws in his last five games.

Only Frank Selvy, former Furman star, and ex-Utah gunner Bill McGill finished with higher season averages. Selvy averaged 41.7 points per game in 1954 and McGill posted a 38.8 mark in 1962.

A pair of team records fell. Detroit's 96.1 scoring average erased the mark of 95.8 set by Morehead State in 1956. Davidson shot 544 from the floor, eclipsing the field goal accuracy record of 521 held by Auburn's 1960 team.

Terry Holland of Davidson led the individual marksmen with a 63.1 percentage. Tulsa's Rick Park missed only 13 of 134 foul shots for a winning 90.3 percentage in free throw accuracy.

The tandem of Dan Bustamante and Eddi Aciri won $9.90 of merchandise prizes Sunday for taking first place in the Big Spring Golf Association's mystery tournament.

Each man carried a 64 handicap total over 16 holes, with the players being allowed to drop their scores on the two holes on which they did the worse.

Swimmers Compete Approximately 10 swimmers of the Big Spring YMCA Aquatic Club will travel to San Angelo Saturday for a YMCA meet. Swimmers from all over this area will compete.

Dinner Meeting The newly organized Big Spring Kennel Club will hold a dinner meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Cokers Restaurant. No reservation is necessary. All interested persons are urged to attend.

Leading Bowler MIDLAND — With one more week remaining in the Texas Women's Bowling Association state tournament in Midland, Lynn Johnson of Big Spring is in first place in Class D of the All-Events category with a 1,582 total.

Court Frees 65 Convicted Negro Youths

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court reversed Tuesday breach of the peace convictions of 65 Negro students arrested in 1960 in a racial demonstration in front of the City Hall of Rock Hill, S.C.

The Supreme Court on Oct. 14, 1963, vacated a South Carolina Supreme Court decision that upheld the convictions. The state court was directed to reconsider the case in the light of a U.S. Supreme Court decision on Feb. 25, 1963 in what is known as the Edwards case.

In the Edwards case, the high court overturned conviction of 87 Negro students who demonstrated at the statehouse grounds in Columbia, S.C. The students were held to have been exercising their rights of free speech and assembly.

In the Rock Hill case, the South Carolina Supreme Court after reconsideration said there was nothing in the Edwards case that required reversal of the convictions of the 65 Negroes.

"We are unwilling to believe that the United States Supreme Court meant to hold that one has an absolute right to commit a breach of peace, provided one is engaged at the time in the exercise of a right protected by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution."

Nixon, Bobby To Lead Editors Meet Speakers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon head a list of speakers next week at the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

The four-day meeting, starting April 15, will include a review of the role of the press in covering the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Kennedy and Burke Marshall, assistant attorney general, will take part in a civil rights panel the first day, followed by a discussion group of top Negro leaders, including Dr. Martin Luther King and Roy Wilkins.

Other speakers include Justice Arthur J. Goldberg; former Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers; Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps director; Michigan Gov. George Romney; and Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.; Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine; John J. Williams, R-Del.; and John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

U. S. Monetary Position With World Looks Better

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States came close to balancing its books with the rest of the world in the first three months of 1964 for the first time in seven years.

But the outlook for the rest of the year is that U.S. payments will soon slip back into the red. They should do better than last year's $3.3-billion deficit, but still be large enough to be troublesome.

There are several reasons why the first quarter's performance may be more of a fluke than the guarantee of an end to the nagging problem.

Still, the early reports that the first quarter saw the outflow of dollars offset by the return from abroad eases some of the pressure for higher interest rates. It encourages those seeking to increase U.S. exports further and it casts a different light on the efforts of U.S. representatives trying for tariff concessions from other nations.

STRENGTH
 The apparent balance also lifts quite a weight from the shoulder of U.S. monetary authorities who have been battling to reassure the rest of the world about the strength of the Yankee dollar, and to discourage others from turning in surplus dollars for our gold.

A balance of payments deficit occurs when U.S. spending, lending and aid gives foreigners more dollars than they return here for our exports, or as yields on our investments.

In the first three months of 1963 this deficit was $810 million before seasonal adjustment. But the season plays a role in today's brighter picture. The deficit in the first quarter is usually smaller than in any other period of the year. U.S. exports often rise in the early months and so does the flow of income from U.S. investments abroad.

GREATER GAINS
 From the early reports—the final figures are due about the middle of May—this year has seen greater than usual gains in exports. And the returning flow of income on investments abroad has been augmented by a flow of foreign-held dollars in this market for investment here. Bankers say much of this influx arises from fear of rising inflation in Europe — investors are seeking safer havens for their money.

The United States also has gained by the one-shot influx of dollars that the Soviet Union bought in Europe with its gold to pay for American grain shipments.

Also imports by U.S. firms eased in the first three months of this year.

Bankers doubt if any of these special conditions will last much longer. They feel that imports are bound to rise, particularly if the federal tax cut stimulates U.S. industrial activity and consumer spending as expected. The rate of gain in exports may not last. And there is the still to be answered question of whether a tax-cut stimulated economy here may lead to inflation later on. This would tend to encourage an outflow of investment money rather than the present inflow.

with flameless electric cooking

Flameless electric cooking units fit snugly against pan bottoms. They put their heat into the pans where it is needed, not into the kitchen air. The electric oven, being flameless, requires no flow of air into and out of it to support combustion. The oven is insulated all around, including the bottom, to keep heat inside where it belongs. Result: your kitchen stays degrees cooler when you are cooking hot meals. See your electric range dealer soon. Cook the cool, clean, flameless way... and live better electrically!

Large Number Of Soviet Troops Departing Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Informed sources said today the Soviet Union has been pulling its troops out of Cuba in considerable numbers.

U.S. officials confirmed this, but as usual declined to estimate how many Soviet military men still are in Cuba.

At the time of the Cuban missile crisis in October 1962 it was estimated that 22,000 Soviet troops, many of them in organized combat units, were in Cuba. A number of them were technical experts in the long-range weapons and other war gear Moscow has poured into Cuba to make it the most powerful military nation in Latin America.

OAS Action On Cuba Is Doubtful

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington: CUBA: Diplomatic sources say they doubt the Organization of American States will act soon on Venezuela's request for authorization for any hemisphere nation to use military force against Cuba if it commits new acts of aggression. Sources said Venezuela made the request in a draft resolution circulated confidentially in Caracas among representatives of member nations of the OAS. Diplomatic informants here said Monday there are so many political and other internal problems plaguing Latin America that it seems unlikely a foreign ministers meeting will be held now to deal with Cuba.

Jimmy Burleson Is Soloist For Midland Concert

Jimmy Burleson, Big Spring High School senior, will be one of 13 soloists tonight in the Midland-Odessa Symphony concert at Lee High School auditorium, in Midland. His number will be the "Third Movement of Gordon Jacob Concerto No. 1" for oboe with string orchestra. Jimmy entered the interstate competition for young artists several weeks ago and won the right to solo with the symphony. He will be the only West Texas entry among the 13.

The soloist is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Burleson, Corpus Christi. He remained in Big Spring, after his parents moved to the south Texas city, to complete high school work. He has been a member of the high school band, president of the Key Club, an Eagle Scout, president of the Big Spring Chapter of Young Americans For Freedom, has received the God and Country award, and won a first division solo rating in Interscholastic League contests in Odessa. He will go to state competition in Austin in June. He has also been offered a full music scholarship to Texas Tech, and other schools.

Health Care: The fate of this year's President Johnson's health care plan may be decided in discussions, possibly being held this week, by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Monday the issue of health care for the aged is next on the committee's agenda. Mills and other opponents of the administration plan — hospital and similar benefits for those over 65 to be paid by an extension of Social Security taxes — insist there are not enough votes in the committee to send the measure to the House for action.

Sewing Meeting

GAY HILL — The Gay Hill 4-H Club Sewing Group No. 1 met Monday in the home of Jane Murphy, junior leader. The discussion concerned "Grooming Hair and Hands." The next meeting will be April 20 in the Murphy home when the group of nine-year-olds will discuss "Purchasing Sox."

Beale Elected President Of Industrial Foundation

R. L. (Jimmy) Beale, district manager for Texas Electric Service Company, was elected president of Big Spring's Industrial Foundation, at the annual meetings of membership a nd directorate Monday afternoon.

R. L. BEALE

Beale succeeds Robert W. Currie. Named as vice president was Larson Lloyd, president of Security State Bank; and as secretary and treasurer, Harold Talbot. New directors added to the 15-man board, for three-year terms, were Jack Wallace, Cecil McDonald, H. W. Smith, Truman Jones and Cain Grigg. They serve along with Clyde Hollingsworth, Lloyd, Jack Davis, Beale, Talbot, Champ Rainwater, R. W. Whipkey, Lester Morton, Fred Kasch and Randall Polk.

The foundation showed 1963 income of $267.28, from sign rentals and car rentals, and disbursements of $390.11. One item, $124 for an industrial directory, is being discontinued this year. The organization owns some 200 acres of land on IS 20 east of Cosden refinery, which it has available as industrial sites. The land is valued at $38,000, and had cash on hand as of Dec. 31 in the amount of $2,653.52, for total assets of $41,376.35.

Funeral Is Set For Mrs. Linek

Emma Lee Linek, 63, of El Paso, an employee of Merc-Schaefer Bohme Drug Co., of Dallas, died Saturday in a local hospital. She was born in Paris, Texas, Dec. 4, 1900, and was married to Victor Linek in El Paso Aug. 31, 1960. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Funeral will be held at Chapel-Smith Funeral Home chapel, in Dallas, at 10 a.m. Friday. Burial will be in Laurel Land Memorial Cemetery. River-Welch Funeral Home was in charge of local arrangements. Pallbearers will be members of the Dallas drug firm.

Charged With Sale To Minors

Guadalupe Cisneros has been charged with sale of beer to minors in a complaint filed today in Howard County Court. The case was filed by the Texas Liquor Control Board.

This is the third complaint alleging sale or giving of intoxicants to minors which has been filed in the past 10 days.

Police Check Theft Reports

Police were busy with investigations Tuesday. Someone took wheel covers valued at $40 from the car of Gareth Gilman, Webb AFB, while it was parked at the Ritz Theatre parking lot Monday.

A purse owned by Judy Forsee, 3205 Eleventh Place, was taken from a car that was parked at the Bowl-A-Rama between 8:30 and 9:30 p.m. Monday, according to police.

A 15-year-old runaway from Boys Ranch, Odessa, was apprehended in the 500 block of Main about 6:25 p.m. Monday and turned over to the juvenile officer.

Police arrested a 28-year-old man at Third and Young about 11:45 p.m. Monday in connection with the beating of a woman in the 1000 block of East Third.

There were reports of breaking and entering at the First Presbyterian Church, 701 Runnels. Nothing was taken, but someone ransacked the offices in the new building after breaking in window.

Animal Warden Bob Baker picked up a stray dog for observation after it bit Mrs. Annie W. Bell, 103 N. Gollad, Monday.

The pet cat of J. L. Wood, 510 Washington Boulevard, was turned over to a veterinarian for observation after the animal bit its owner. The animal warden picked up 12 dogs and one cat Monday.

Service Stations Are Going Up

Two new service stations are being erected on Marcy Drive. Humble Oil and Refining Co. is building a $25,000 station at 410 E. Marcy Drive (near Gollad), and Tom and Garner McAdams will build a $6,000 station at 1604 E. Marcy Drive (Near Birdwell Lane).

Land is being cleared at both sites and construction should begin soon. Tommy Gage, owner of Tommy Gage Oil Co., will operate the station being built by the McAdams.

Last month, Humble Oil and Refining Co. took out a building permit for construction of a $30,000 service station at 800 IS 20 west.

Quick Vote Called For Brazilians

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP)—The Brazilian Senate approved a bill early today calling for immediate congressional election of an interim president to serve the 20 months left of Joao Goulart's term.

With speedy approval of the bill expected in the Chamber of Deputies, the election appeared likely to take place Thursday. This was the target date reportedly set by the military leaders who overthrew Goulart and are anxious to restore the government before any new crises arise. The constitution provides for the election to be held 30 days after the presidency is vacated.

Conservatives behind the coup are pressing for the election of Gen. Humberto Castelo Branco, army chief of staff and a leader of the revolt.

The constitution says a military man cannot be president, unless he quits active duty 90 days before a vacancy occurs. But it was felt that the presence of 9,000 troops who moved into Brasilia with armored units on Saturday would persuade congressmen to heed the military's wishes.

The dispatch with which the Senate drafted the new law and passed it, all within one day, indicated the military pressure on the lawmakers.

Angola Uprising Held In Check By 50,000 Troops

LUANDA, Angola (AP)—The bloody tribal uprising that erupted against white settlers in Northern Angola three years ago has subsided to a smoldering bush war kept in check by 50,000 Portuguese troops.

Farm boys recruited from Portugal and tough-looking African soldiers wearing spotted camouflage uniforms patrol the red dirt roads, making them safe at least for daytime travel.

Together they have flushed out warriors of the rebellious Bakongo tribe who once controlled areas within 40 miles of the capital of Luanda.

FORESTS

But trouble spots remain, and off the roads lie thick rain forests where jungle-wise guerrillas can travel at will.

When the rebellion exploded on March 15, 1961, the Bakongos, armed with crude weapons, rampaged through Angola's rich coffee plantations and white settlements cutting down men, women and children.

The Europeans soon struck back in no less bloody fashion. Many of the troops Portugal funneled into Angola were untrained in jungle warfare, but by government account, troop losses average only 6 to 10 men a week. Nearly as many soldiers perish in accidents trying to drive over Angola's rutted back roads.

they could seal off the northern border with the Congo, but they admit this is virtually impossible.

Oilmen Map Drive For Import Study

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Spokesmen for Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas independent oilmen have agreed to push for a federal study of oil imports.

Representatives of independent oil organizations in the three states decided Monday to seek the federal study to determine oil imports influence on domestic crude prices.

Texas and Oklahoma representatives, however, declined to go along with a Kansas suggestion for an oil well shutdown in the three states in an effort to halt a decline in crude prices.

KANSAS UNIT

The Oklahoma City meeting was requested by the Kansas Independent Oil and Gas Association.

The president of the Kansas group, J. A. Mull, explained his organization wanted a shutdown to prevent sale of oil below replacement costs.

A recent 5-cent a barrel cut in the price of crude oil affected about 120,000 barrels daily of Kansas' 305,000 barrels daily production.

L. S. Youngblood, president of the Oklahoma Independent Petroleum Association, said: "We don't believe we could shut wells down in Oklahoma."

MAJOR CAUSE

He said imports were the major cause of eroding prices.

Bruce Street of Graham, Tex., president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners, said he doubted wells could be shut down in Texas under present statutes. "I doubt it would be in the best interest of the producers to do this," he added.

Street suggested the group join in the petition by the Mid-Continent Independent Refiners Association asking the Federal Trade Commission to set up regulations spelling out certain gasoline marketing practices as illegal.

Lawfords Banned

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Lawford and his wife, Pat, sister of the late President John F. Kennedy, have been barred from buying an apartment in a fashionable 15-story cooperative here reportedly because he is an actor and she is a Democrat.

The apartment's owner, socialite Charles Amory, said Monday night he was ready to sell to the Lawfords when a hitch developed.

"I can't understand it," Amory was quoted in the New York Daily News. "The Lawfords are wonderful people. All arrangements have been completed and the papers signed."

"However, certain individuals in the building have refused to endorse the sale because Peter Lawford is an actor and Mrs. Lawford is a Democrat."

A tenant, who asked not to be named, said one of the five members of the building's board
