Wallace Visits; Governor Fumes

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The tempo and the temperature of the Indiana Democratic presidential primary rose sharply today after a one-day visit to Indianapolis by Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

Wallace drew a blistering denunciation from Gov. Matthew E. Welsh of Indiana, whom he will oppose in the May 5 primary.

The Alabama governor said he is not running as a segregationist. He described himself as a state and local rights candidate.

The Indiana primary is the second of three scheduled by Wallace for active campaigning. Last week in Wisconsin he polled 260,000 votes, about 35 per cent of the total cast in the Democratic presidential primary. His third campaign will be in Maryland.

FOURTH
Wallace came to Indiana Wednesday, one day after having placed fourth among nine write-in candidates in Illinois. He polled more than 4,500 votes on both Democratic and Republican ballots there.

Welsh, who entered the presidential primary only to claim Hoosier delegates' votes for President Johnson, quickly said he was "not interested" in an invitation from Wallace to debate.

The usually mild-mannered Welsh said in a statement, "This is the man whose beliefs were responsible for the deaths of innocent children in the bombing of a Sunday School class."

Outside a chemistry lecture hall where Wallace answered Butler University students questions, another group of students picketed with signs like "no racism in Indiana."

NOT RACIST
"I'm not a racist," Wallace told the applauding students inside. "A racist is one who hates another person in his heart because of his color. I would not be a segregationist president. I would be a state and local rights president."

The student audience, asked to choose between the policies of the governors in a mock primary, voted for Wallace over Welsh, 70-55.

Wallace flew back to Alabama Wednesday night after saying he'll consider it a victory "if I get any votes at all." He said he'll be back for more campaign appearances, but he set no dates.

Indiana convention delegates are bound to cast their first ballot vote for the presidential primary winner.

Mrs. Arnold Dies After Long Illness

Mrs. Nora L. Arnold, 87, of 1814 Settles, a resident of Howard County since 1907, died in a local hospital at 4:17 a.m. today after a lengthy illness.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home chapel with Dr. H. Clyde Smith, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be beside the grave of her husband, who died Dec. 7, 1941, in Big Spring City Cemetery.

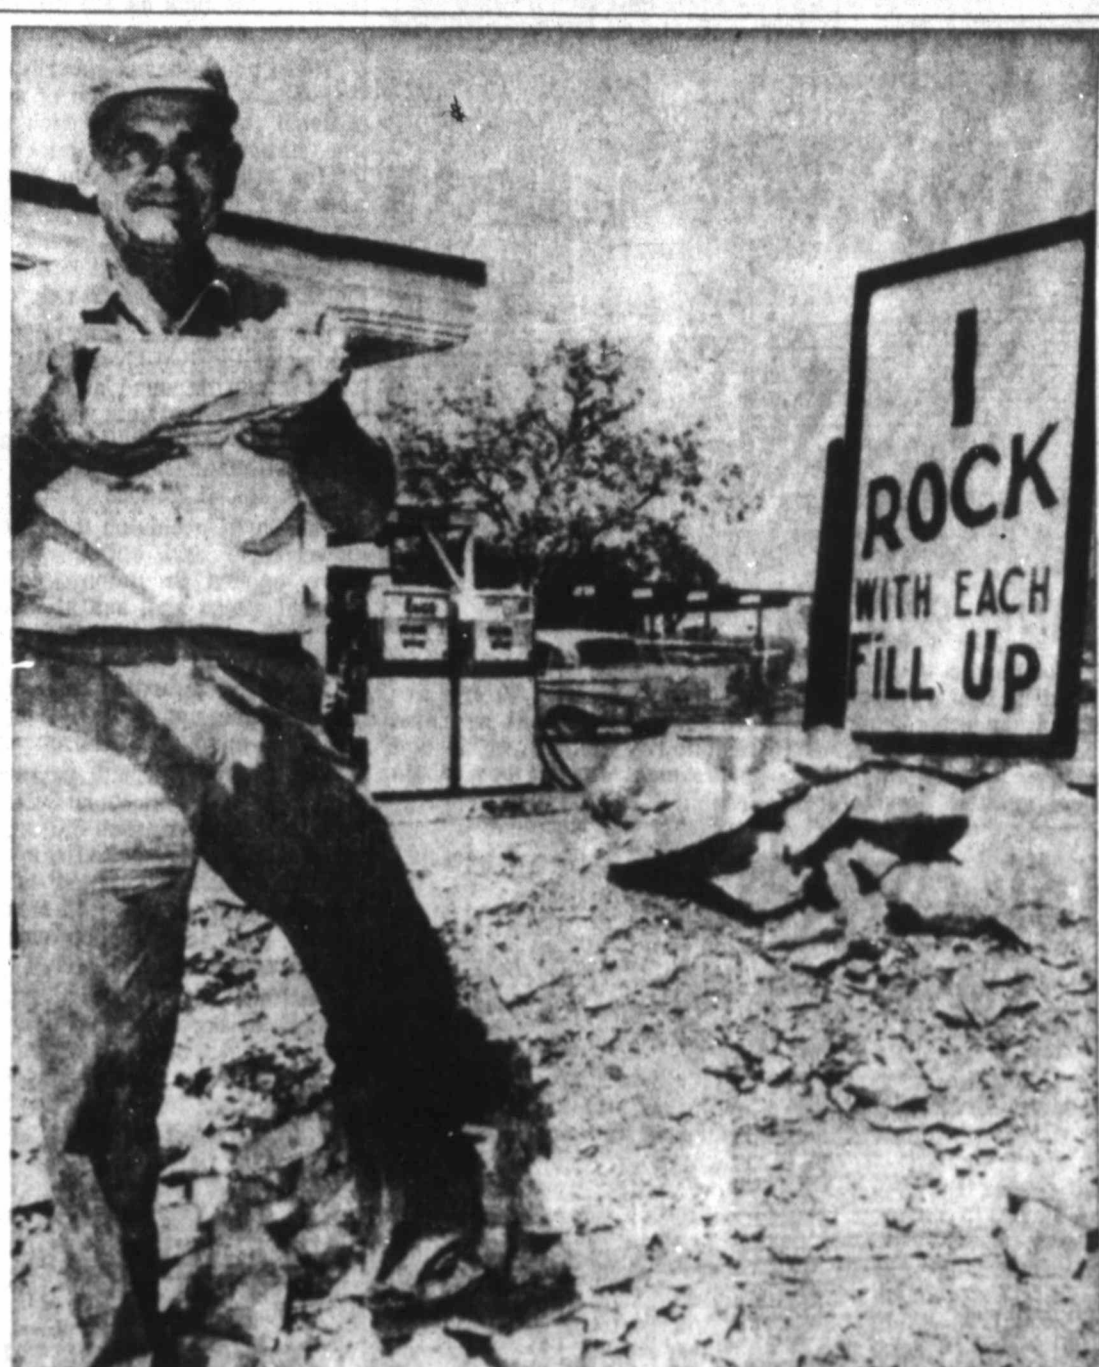

Mrs. Arnold was born Oct. 25, 1876 in Refugio County and moved to Howard County from Kerr County in 1907. Her husband was operator of a sheet metal business in Big Spring 34 years. She was a member of the First Methodist Church.

A typical pioneer, Mrs. Arnold spent much time working in her yard and garden. She had been elected, by Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, Amarillo, as a "partner" for life for helping to provide "a shirt tail to hang on to."

The family request (and one she made previously) is that memorials be made to Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Robert L. Evans, Alpine, and Mrs. C. W. (Nettie) Creighton, Big Spring; a son, Claude Arnold, Alpine; three sisters, Mrs. Minnie Nelson, Corpus Christi, Mrs. Bess Muckleroy, Houston, and Mrs. Allen Mayle, Ingleside; two brothers, Amos Barber, Aransas Pass, and Earl Barber, Harlingen; six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

May's Oil Allowable Cut To 28.5 In State

New Angle In Giveaways

Knowing that the public likes to get something for free, a Dallas service station owner hit upon the novel idea of getting rid of a pile of rock left in front of his station after a road construction project had been completed. One of his employees, Johnny Adams shows the bonus offered with each tank of gas. The owner reports the rocks aren't moving very well. Gas sales remain about the same—so does the size of the rock pile. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Flow Eased After Three Months At 29

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission ordered today Texas oil production decreased slightly to 28.5 per cent of potential during May after three months with a 29 per cent flow.

The order sets the allowable for prorated wells at 2,576,610 barrels daily, down from an allowable of 2,931,746 barrels daily ordered for April. The commission reported the statewide calendar day allowable Saturday as 2,905,335 barrels.

The order compares to a 2,827,205 barrels daily allowable ordered for May, 1963.

PURCHASES
The order was made at the monthly statewide hearing after the commission heard representatives of 13 oil companies outline their projected May purchases of Texas crude.

All purchasers had estimated before the hearing they will buy 869 more barrels daily during May, a total of 2,534,794 barrels daily. The Bureau of Mines estimated May demand for Texas crude at 2.6 million barrels daily, an increase of 65,000 barrels daily over April.

Only one purchaser asked for continuation of the 29 per cent order next month. That was Texas, which nominated to buy 140,000 barrels daily.

Other nominations, in barrels per day, by percentage:
28 PER CENT
28 per cent—Sun, 102,954; Indiana, 248,690; Atlantic, 78,715; Humble, 462,465; Mobil, 233,600; Standard of Texas, 35,400; and Gulf, 205,400.

27.5—Sinclair, 160,700.
27—Continental, 26,500; Shell, 168,900.
26—Cities Service, 81,000; Phillips, 125,913.

A 28 per cent order would have dropped the allowable 57,450 barrels daily from the Saturday allowable. An additional decrease of 57,450 barrels daily from the Saturday calendar day allowable would occur for each 1 per cent drop.

Two spokesmen for independent oilmen made statements directed at commission critics, apparently including a land and royalty-owners group headed by Stanley Woods of Houston. Woods' group has appeared regularly at the monthly hearings with critical statements, but was not present today.

RADICAL
Bruce Street of Graham said there are groups and persons "advocating self-defeating radical approaches to problems of market demand proration. In the main, these people have little or no understanding of appreciation of the conservation system which has so well served our industry, state and nation."

Federals Hoping Quick Trial For Ex-Governor

CHICAGO (AP)—Government prosecutors says they will press for an early trial of William G. Stratton, former Republican governor of Illinois, who was indicted Wednesday on charges of evading payment of $46,676 in income taxes.

Edward Hanrahan, U.S.

district attorney, said no date has been set for the trial of Stratton, 50, who was defeated in 1960 for a third term as governor.

Republican spokesmen called the indictment a personal matter, with no relation to the Republican party.

A federal grand jury charged that Stratton evaded payment of $46,676 in taxes on $93,595 income amassed during 1957-1960, Stratton's second and last term in office.

Stratton, in a statement, denied any wrongdoing. Government sources refused to say what the unreported sources of income were, but they said this might be revealed during the trial. His salary as governor was $25,000 a year.

Hanrahan announced the indictment the morning after Illinois' primary election, saying it had been kept secret to insure an orderly election.

"There may be some technical differences between my counsel and the Internal Revenue agents," Stratton said in a statement, "but with respect to the charge that is made against me in the indictment, I do not believe I have done anything wrong whatsoever."

Stratton was defeated in 1960 by Democratic Gov. Otto Kern, who was unopposed for re-nomination in Tuesday's primary. Stratton has not been active in politics since his defeat.

A-Freeze Unveiled

GENEVA (AP)—The United States today unveiled details of its proposal for a freeze on the major powers' stocks of nuclear missiles and bombers.

In an effort to counter Soviet charges of espionage, U.S. Disarmament Delegate Adrian S. Fisher said no inventory or control of the total number of weapons held by each side would be required.

But Fisher said a rigorous control and inspection system would be set up to prevent a further buildup or improvement of stockpiles.

Fisher told the 17-nation disarmament conference the freeze was the "most significant and potentially far-reaching" of five arms control measures suggested by President Johnson on Jan. 21.

Senator Raps Baker 'Cloud'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, said today a cloud hangs over the Senate and the White House because of a failure to air all the facts in the Bobby Baker case.

Miller said questions left unresolved by the investigation into the outside business dealings of the resigned secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority include these:

—"Whether any of Baker's alleged improprieties involved President Johnson while he was the Senate majority leader."

—"Whether any of Baker's alleged improprieties involved any member of the Senate."

Miller said he doubted all the facts would ever be known because of the refusal of the Rules Committee's Democratic majority to call White House aide Walter Jenkins and other witnesses requested by the Republican minority.

At hearings, insurance man Don Reynolds testified that in 1957 after selling a $100,000 policy on Johnson's life he bought $1,208 worth of advertising time he had no use for on a Texas television station controlled by Johnson's family.

Reynolds said he did so at Jenkins' request. Jenkins asserted he had no knowledge of the arrangements by which Reynolds bought the television time.

Sons Die, Mom Held

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Police filed murder charges against a mother today in the death of one of her two small sons, both found strangled in the bathroom of their home.

Charged was Mrs. Mary Lou Wheeler, 27, who is separated from her husband, Leonard Wheeler.

The boys, Steven Wheeler, 10, and Frank Wheeler, 8, were found late Wednesday with belts looped around their necks. They were on the bathroom floor, each fully clothed.

Their mother, Mrs. Mary Lou Wheeler, 27, told police she left the house after telling the boys to take a bath. When she returned 20 minutes later, she said she found their bodies and removed the belts.

Patrolman James Willborn said the boys had bruises on their necks. He said the belts were in the tub when he arrived.

Oklahoma Gas Well Capped

CALUMET, Okla. (AP)—Wild gas well that spewed four million cubic feet of gas in this central Oklahoma area for more than two days was capped Wednesday.

The well blew out Monday, and 26 persons left their homes because of the danger of fire or explosion.

Alaskan Village Warily Watches For High Tides

SELDOVIA, Alaska (AP)—Even in the drifting snow they came—down to the boardwalk to watch the tides.

Jack English, 61, the town judge, was there. So were Chuck Hendrix, the mayor, and the owner of H. S. Young Mercantile, Charles Knight.

Tide watching is deadly serious business in this isolated little fishing community nestled against the green hills of the Kenai Peninsula in south-central Alaska.

The tides jeopardize the town's entire business district—its five seafood plants, the two grocery stores, the four hotels, the restaurants, bars, the movie house and all the other shops—30 in all. Valued at more than $15 million, they set on two miles of vulnerable boardwalk.

For three days this week Seldovians watched anxiously as the tide crept into their city. Ten buildings were flooded, but damage was minor. Wednesday the tides were receding.

But the danger is not over. May's tides will be higher and there is always the fear of a storm.

"If the winds come, God help us," says one resident.

At one time Seldovia stood safely on her stilts. Even at high tide when more than 20 feet of water moved in, there was room to spare under the boardwalk.

Then came the Alaskan earthquake. Geologists say it tilted the land masses of south-central Alaska, leaving sunken coastal areas at the mercy of the tides. The land may slip back at least partly to normal, say the scientists, but it's impossible to tell and may take months or years to find out.

There is talk of raising the whole business district, but a reluctance to go that far until it's known what lies ahead. The cost could be prohibitive—maybe $2.5 million.

TOWARD EL PASO

Housewife Prepares For Last Flight Lap

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Jerie Mock prepared today to fill the cockpit of her single-engine plane with operatic song along the last 2,800 miles of her attempt to be the first woman to fly solo around the world.

"It was about time a woman did it," she said.

Mrs. Mock, 38, mother of three, needs only to fly the 1,200 miles or so from Oakland to El Paso, Tex., and then the final 1,650 miles to her hometown of Columbus, Ohio, the starting point March 19. She has flown more than 20,000 miles east to west over both major oceans and three continents, singing arias to relieve the loneliness.

HUSBAND
After the 2,400-mile flight from Honolulu to Oakland in 17 hours and 39 minutes Wednesday Mrs. Mock stepped out of her red-and-white Cessna 180 into the arms of her husband, Russel, 39, a copy supervisor in an advertising agency.

"She'd rather have a double shot of Scotch right now," confided her husband as he handed her two orchids instead.

About six hours later, Mrs. Mock sat on a bed in an Oakland hotel room, sipped her Scotch and told of her loneliness in flight.

SANG OPERA
"I couldn't even get any good music on the plane's radio," she said. "So I sang opera. I'm not a very good singer."

On her current flight the 5-foot, 107-pound aviatrix became the first woman ever to fly solo across the Atlantic Ocean to Africa and the only woman ever to pilot a single-engine plane across the Pacific.

"This is something men do all the time," said Mrs. Mock, evaluating her flight. "It was about time a woman did it."

Her husband told of the crowd expected to greet Mrs. Mock when she returns to Columbus either Friday or Saturday.

NO RUSH
"The homecoming will be when I decide," interrupted Mrs. Mock, indicating she's in no particular rush.

"I'm just a housewife," she said. "I get tired of washing dishes and ironing clothes."

"Maybe I'll want to get out of the house again and take another flight. But this time with my husband in a bigger plane."

"And, about this trip I'm going to write a book—'How to Fly Around the World and See Nothing,'" said Mrs. Mock.

"She just may do that," said her husband.

Editors Point To Danger In Curbs On Court News

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's editors were told today there is "cause for great concern" in the rising clamor in legal circles for tighter curbs on news reporting of the courts.

The Committee on Freedom of Information of the American Society of Newspaper Editors warned that the proposed restrictions, "although aimed primarily at television," could damage all news coverage.

The committee headed by Creed C. Black, executive editor of the Wilmington (Del.) Morning News and Evening Journal, prepared the report for today's opening session of ASNE's three-day annual convention.

500 EDITORS
The nearly 500 editors registered for the meeting were invited as guests at President Johnson's late afternoon news conference in the large State Department auditorium.

The freedom of information report attributed the restrictive proposals by legal groups partly to the "tragic and turbulent events at Dallas"—the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, the televised murder of Lee Harvey Oswald and the hectic trial that convicted Jack Ruby as Oswald's murderer.

"Of more lasting concern to us is a broader—and relatively new—element in this perennial controversy which deserves no less attention from us than it is getting from the bench and bar," Black's committee said.

TELEVISION
"That is the extent to which television is complicating matters for all media."

The committee noted that the New York County Lawyers' Association has declared that the "special visual impact" of television makes new measures necessary to protect the right of accused persons to a fair trial. The lawyers said they were convinced that "any reliance on voluntary restraints by the television industry are largely doomed to failure."

The emphasis on television "is not to suggest that the newspapers of America are blame-

Fresh Cong Attack Eyed

KIEN LONG, South Viet Nam (AP)—Communist units were reported massing in the Mekong River delta countryside today for another assault on the district capital of Kien Long.

Two airborne government companies took up positions within the perimeter of the town which the Communists mauled last Sunday. Reinforcements poured into the civil guard outpost that successfully withstood the assault.

Townpeople demanded to be taken to safer areas. Scores of peasants were pouring in from the countryside of the Ca Mau peninsula, the southern tip of Viet Nam.

The only American in Kien Long, an adviser with the airborne troops, said intelligence sources reported the Viet Cong wanted to overrun the town again because they failed to demolish the civil guard post Sunday.

After the attack, the government rushed in reinforcements. The Viet Cong battled them for three days instead of melting away into the countryside, their usual practice.

American sources said nearly 300 government soldiers were killed or wounded, the heaviest toll of a single engagement in the war. They said civilian casualties might exceed 200. At least 60 Viet Cong bodies were found, and American advisers believed many casualties were carried off.

In Kien Long the Communists killed and mutilated the district chief, his wife and child, and killed or wounded a number of other government officials and sympathizers.

11 Jurors Picked

FORT WORTH (AP)—Nine men and two women jurors have been picked for the Doris Jean Bowman murder trial, leaving just one more juror to be picked when court resumes today.

The plump, 25-year-old defendant is accused in the March 3 death of her daughter, Paula, 2. The child died of shock after being held in a tub of scalding water, a medical report said.

12 Sentenced In Mail Stickup

AYLESBURY, England (AP)—Judge Edmund Davies sentenced 12 men today to prison terms ranging up to 30 years for their part in Britain's great train robbery.

Seven men were sentenced to prison for 30 years, two for 25, one for 24, one for 20 and one for three years.

The robbery of the Glasgow to London mail train on Aug. 8 netted the gang 2.6 million pounds—$7,650,000—the greatest cash haul in modern times.

The big robbery occurred at a nearby hamlet when about 15 men stopped the mail train with a false red signal and overpowered clerks in the car carrying most of the money.

LBJ Puts Spurs To Rail Debates

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bargaining talks aimed at averting a nationwide railroad strike were spurred on today by President Johnson's implied shorter deadline for a voluntary settlement.

"We should know definitely not later than next Monday, whether the parties to this dispute will settle it by the process of bargaining and by responsible reason," Johnson said Wednesday.

"The country expects that answer to be yes," Johnson said after conferring privately with federal mediators and negotiators for five unions and nearly 200 railroads.

NO POWER
Johnson did not say what he might do if the talks fail, but he would have no power to halt a scheduled strike April 25 unless he asked Congress for special legislation.

The five-year dispute over wages, job classifications and working conditions had exhausted all provisions of federal law when Johnson won a 15-day strike postponement last Friday and set up the emergency bargaining talks.

"There is no settlement yet," Johnson said Wednesday on the sixth day of the talks, "and there can be no settlement until all issues are disposed of."

His reference to a definite decision by Monday was the first official indication that he will not let the entire 15-day postponement elapse without considering other steps.

"So far, there's been no threat of legislation," said George Reedy, White House press secretary.

GET IDEA

"The principal question," Johnson said, "is whether these bargainers can, in 15 days, get over four years of the idea of somebody else settling their disagreements for them. I hope they can. I think they can."

He asked for another "definitive" report on the talks by this weekend.

The five train operating unions represent about 200,000 employees. They are protesting proposed railroad work rules changes which they contend would amount to substantial pay cuts for many workers and eliminate many jobs.

After 99 Years

This is a present day exterior view of Ford's Theatre in Washington where President Lincoln was assassinated almost 99 years ago. The outside is almost the same as it was in 1865 but the interior has no semblance to a theater—it is just a flat storeroom spotted with glass cases and lined with relics and posters for benefit of sightseers. Efforts are being made to get congressional approval for funds to restore the building, inside and out, as it was the night John Wilkes Booth shot Lincoln. (AP WIREPHOTO)

City, School Officials Discuss Joint Problems

The city of Big Spring and the school system have a rare opportunity to accomplish joint use of land and facilities owned by both for school and recreational areas. City Consultant Marvin Springer told trustees and commission members Wednesday. The city commission and school board held a joint dinner meeting at Cosden Country Club to discuss mutual problems in the high school, Boydston school, and Birdwell Park areas.

The discussion was held to set up a program of joint efforts to utilize both school and city property for public use in the area, discuss procedures for handling traffic problems, and work out details of the responsibilities of each in the joint efforts.

School Board President Harold Talbot, Mayor George Zachariah, City Manager Larry Crow, and Superintendent Sam Anderson talked briefly and called on Springer to talk about his experiences with joint efforts in other cities, and to give his views on the local problems.

Springer cited the year-around possibilities of joint usage, suggested possible traffic problems which would be exclusively the city's responsibility for regulation, and suggested flexible agreements between the two bodies on responsibilities.

Anderson pointed out the extremely large number of student automobiles around the high school, and said the board was going to have to face up to the necessity of closed parking. Under this system traffic congestion at all times of the day would be eliminated, and more protection against vandalism and theft around cars provided. The enclosed parking area, with students paying fees for its use would cut down on traffic problems and increase safety on the streets, even though it forces enlargement of the school's cafeteria to handle all students. The city would have to set up regulations covering parking of vehicles in the school area, with no-parking areas, and time-parking streets.

The possibility of a baseball diamond on a small piece of city property at Owens and Eighth, and a part of the Boydston campus, was outlined. Site preparation for parking in the rough area south and west of the proposed diamond could be accomplished, Springer pointed out. The Birdwell park area, he said, could easily be used by the school when needed for physical education work.

Anderson told the group that drawings had been prepared by the architect for utilization of school acreage for all purposes, but that only the high school building locations were firm.

"The utilization of the other area we have can be changed," he said. "The architect's projection was for cost purposes. It would help a lot to have the baseball field moved to the suggested city-school property, but there is where joint effort of both city and school is necessary."

The trustees and commission authorized meetings between Anderson, and other school officials, and Crow and Director of Public Works Ernest Lillard, to get a working agreement to present at a later joint meeting. Architect's layouts would be reviewed for possible changes, traffic problem possibilities discussed and drainage for full use of city and school property planned.

Date for a second meeting will be set later.

Toledo Bend Project Bid Openings Set

DALLAS (AP)—Bid opening on $15 million in hydroelectric revenue bonds and probable award of a $22 million-plus contract for construction on the Toledo Bend dam are scheduled here today.

The Texas Sabine River Authority board will receive sealed proposals on the bonds during a meeting.

In a simultaneous meeting in Baton Rouge, Louisiana Sabine River Authority directors will open sealed bids on $15 million of its revenue bonds.

These two issues of securities, together with $15 million of additional financing from each of the states, will cover the cost of the $60 million Toledo Bend reservoir in the middle Sabine river watershed.

The dam site is about 15 miles northeast of Newton, Tex.

This project is a joint undertaking of the two river authorities. It will impound about 4.75 million acre-feet of water to create one of the nation's largest man-made lakes. An acre foot is 325,851 gallons.

Construction bids on the dam, powerhouse and outlet works were opened in Baton Rouge several weeks ago, and at their meetings today, directors of both authorities were expected to agree on awarding the contract to the apparent low bidder, Massman and Johnson.

The firm is a joint venture organized by Massman Construction Co. of Kansas City and Al Johnson Construction Co. of Minneapolis. It submitted bids for $22.8 million, using all stone riprap, and $22.1 million using sil cement instead of stone.

Revenue bonds of both the authorities received "A" rating on the bond market following a session between authority representatives and investment bankers in New York City last Monday.

Cox Indicted By Grand Jury

Sam F. (Buster) Cox, formerly sheriff of Glasscock County for nine years and more recently special ranger for the Southwest Cattle Raisers Association, has been indicted by a federal grand jury in El Paso on a charge of assault.

Cox will be brought before the U.S. District Court in Pecos for trial.

He is accused of using an electric cattle prod on Orville Hubert Brasuel in an effort to coerce the latter into confessing that he stole some horses. The alleged assault was committed July 23, 1963.

Cox resigned as sheriff of Glasscock County in 1961 to take the job as special ranger with the cattlemen's association. His headquarters have been at Marfa.

No announcement was made as to the probable date of Cox's trial in Pecos.

Ike May Become Barry Deterrent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncommitted party leaders appear to be banking on Dwight D. Eisenhower to touch off stop-Goldwater efforts at the Republican presidential nominating convention. The former president publicly has remained aloof from the maneuvering in the pre-convention period in which Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has forged well ahead in the contest for convention votes. Eisenhower has endorsed practically everybody who has been mentioned prominently for the nomination, and some who haven't. His blanket blessing has covered Goldwater as well as his opponents.

NEUTRALITY
But party pros who haven't committed themselves to support of any individual candidate have formed the strong impression that Eisenhower will abandon his stated neutrality if he fears Goldwater otherwise might win the nomination and pocket the party organization for the next four years.

NO BASE
Nixon, the 1960 GOP presidential nominee, has no political base, having moved from California to New York. He may turn up with only a handful, if any, convention votes. Scranton will be Pennsylvania's favorite son. But the feeling is that he has put handcuffs on any real pre-convention drive to move him into contention. Given circumstances of this sort, the pros think that delegations and individuals will be coming around to discuss the situation with Eisenhower to learn what he thinks.

COMMENTATOR
If the Republicans who want to stop Goldwater could agree among themselves on a candidate, they would be content for Eisenhower to fill at the convention his contractual role as a television commentator and ask nothing more of him.

Troubles Don't Shake Nikita's Birthday Calm

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev reaches his 70th birthday today still the dominant figure of the Soviet Union. Problems at home and abroad besiege him but he acts as if hardly a cloud troubles him in the approaching winter of his life.

KHRUSHCHEV

Three weeks before his birthday, he gallily boarded a train, his wife Nina beside him, to join in an anniversary celebration of a wartime victory in Budapest and to deal with the conflict with Communist China for world party leadership.

The China problem was blown to fever heat with the publication of a reply drafted by Khrushchev's ideological spokesman, Mikhail Suslov. This had been held up six weeks while party leaders decided whether to publish it.

SHOWDOWN
It was largely a defensive declaration but proposed, clearly over much opposition in the Communist camp, a showdown meeting of Communist parties of the world. This conflict with China carries far more potential dynamite, both for Russia and the world Communist movement, than the West faces in the peculiar conflict between the United States and De Gaulle's France.

Khrushchev has other troubles, such as agriculture, the nagging problem of Soviet treatment of Jews and some unhappy Armenians, his own writers and painters, plus a labor slowdown. These discolor the picture he would like to paint for the world about the good life under communism.

LBJ Vs. Press Pursuit On Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidents often complain that they have no privacy. In fact, they have more than you might imagine.

Washington is a sophisticated, cosmopolitan capital where a presidential caravan can be spotted instantly as it rolls along the boulevards.

Still it's a fact that President Johnson, time after time, is driven around the city after dark without reporters, or the general public, being the wiser.

Johnson told newsmen last week he likes to visit friends in suburban Silver Spring, Md., and even as far away as Hyattsville, Md., 15 miles to the northeast. No such trips have been recorded.

A few months ago Johnson drove 12 miles into suburban Virginia to have dinner with Pierre Salinger, then his press secretary. The directions to Salinger's house were so circuitous that the Secret Service had to summon a White House driver who had been there many times to lead the small motorcade. This trip, too, went unrecorded.

Wednesday night, after attending a hotel reception given in his honor by King Hussein of Jordan, Johnson decided to take off on one of these jaunts. This posed a problem because two reporters had hired a limousine and, with Secret Service knowledge, had joined the presidential motorcade to the hotel. The reporters planned to leave with Johnson and follow him, with as many successive crises would surely be shaken out of his job. In addition to the China crisis, there is the Cuba affair of the rockets, which boiled over in October-November of 1962.

The year 1962-63 saw the artists and writers crisis that had to be quieted by the sternest kind of orders—so stern that many artists and writers are largely out of action, or working under cover.

JOKES AROUND
Not in a number of years have more disagreeable personal jokes circulated about him—by Russians, not by foreigners. Despite the criticism of his agricultural policies, Khrushchev can always say—and he does say it—that production is ahead of 10 years ago. But it is not as far ahead as it ought to be. Khrushchev's bright forecasts have bounced back.

It is almost impossible to buy flour in Moscow, a favored city. White bread is gray with ersatz products. A vast expenditure of about $46 billion has been projected for the coming seven years to put life into agriculture and advance the chemical industry to a point reached by Western countries years ago.

While Khrushchev is older than most of his associates, he is still by far the most dynamic governmental figure in the Soviet Union, and perhaps in the world. He has been in power, or at the side of power, longer than any living leader of a top-level nation. His rival for Communist influence, Mao Tse-tung, has shucked off most of his governmental duties. Since 1957, Khrushchev has been pretty much the undisputed boss in the Soviet Union, both government and party.

Western diplomats often comment that any Western executive with as many successive crises would surely be shaken out of his job. In addition to the China crisis, there is the Cuba affair of the rockets, which boiled over in October-November of 1962.

He looks after himself more than he did. He takes long rests. He likes Moscow when it is biting cold. When it begins to get slushy, he wants none of it. He goes to the Black Sea in the late winter and early spring.

LOST WEIGHT
He has trimmed his diet and has lost weight. Eight years ago he admitted he was having kidney trouble. He was a heavy drinking man in those days. Now he nurses a glass of champagne through a two-hour reception.

He has not held an important, give-and-take press conference in Moscow in three years. He occasionally banter a few words with reporters he runs into, but brushes aside any serious questioning.

For touring editors from America and Britain he answers streams of questions, but the give and take are normally polite and easy.

He has seen a lot in his time, from the coal mines to the highest level of diplomatic exchange at summit conferences. He came up the tough way.

Service Station Operators Urged To Held Nab Thieves

By BUCK SITTON
C. C. Benson, director of the National Auto Theft Bureau, told 15 Big Spring service station operators they "have good reason" to cooperate with police by reporting suspicious cars and motorists.

Officer Reunion

Big Spring Police Chief Jay Banks (left) and C. C. Benson, director of the National Auto Theft Bureau, talked over old times Wednesday night following an auto theft school for service station operators at the police station. Both were stationed in Corpus Christi in 1938 with the Texas State Department of Public Safety as highway patrolmen.

Officers Are Given Tips For Quizzing Suspects

C. C. Benson, director of the National Automobile Theft Bureau and a former employee of the Texas Department of Public Safety, Wednesday gave officers of the Big Spring police department and area officers tips for the identification of stolen automobiles and automobile thieves.

He said the questions a police officer asks a motorist can go a long way in determining valid ownership of a vehicle. The circumstances of each interview determine the questions that should be asked and the degree of suspicion that may be warranted, he added.

Benson commended the local police department for its efforts to curb auto thefts and other criminal offenses.

"Your citizen police (police reserves) are a good example of public cooperation and support of law enforcement," Benson said in urging the cooperation of station operators.

The tone in which the questions are phrased is important, Benson said, pointing out officers may be skeptical, but should be courteous.

Benson gave several examples of questions that properly may be put to traffic law violators or any suspicious motorist who is stopped for questioning. From whom did you purchase this car? Where do you live? Where do you work? Do you have evidence of ownership? Do you have a title,

American Communist Jump Into Wall Street Meant Bitter Loss

EDITOR'S NOTE — There's irony in the Communist party losing its shirt in Wall Street—but that's what happened. The second of four articles on the fortunes and misfortunes of the Communists in the United States recounts what happened.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Certain that Stalin was infallible, the Communist party of the United States — CPUSA — took a giddy leap into Wall Street.

It had the wrong market analyst. The Russian bear market failed to materialize. Ex-Communists tell it this way:

Red doctrine decreed that world war would ring the death knell of world capitalism. A Communist economist named Eugene Varga had doubts, however, and wrote that the U.S. postwar depression might be delayed some years.

DEPRESSION

Furious, Stalin denounced and banished Varga, then reasserted the doctrine: Immediate U.S. depression was inevitable. It was all CPUSA needed.

Happily, the party in 1946 dipped into its considerable working capital and sallied into the market, intent on making money to finance the revolution which would come soon after the inevitable depression. Party financiers sold short.

Result: Disaster. The depression didn't come. The party lost a bundle.

To this day, Communists see nothing funny in the incident, and this reveals one of the party's great drawbacks in America. It could not permit a sense of humor. It could not afford a joke on itself. It could not do other than arrogant in demanding that its members restrict their thinking to the Kremlin's rigid rules.

RECOUPED

After suffering heavy membership losses because of the Nazi-Soviet pact signalling World War II, the Communists recouped when Germany attacked the Soviet Union. The party abruptly dropped its anti-war campaign of strikes and sabotage. Overnight, Communists became superpatriots. Party boss Earl Browder forgot his antiwar pronouncements and became prowar.

But in the long run this contributed to the party's decline.

Browder and others were not agile enough after the war. Browder, who had earned a reputation as an executive in the Communist International conspiracy, seemed to believe that the Roosevelt, Churchill, Stalin agreements presaged a postwar era in which Communists could win their aims by nonviolent means. He even conceived the idea of changing the party to the "Communist Political Association," abandoning the conspiratorial structure and becoming outwardly respectable.

AHEAD

Browder was 15 years ahead of his time. What he was in 1945 Soviet Premier Khrushchev became in the 1960s. What the Russians were in 1945, the Red Chinese became in the 1960s. That is, Browder-like ideas, now espoused by Khrushchev, caused the Soviet-Chinese split.

However, for his pains in 1945 Browder was deposed. Moscow chose French Communist leader

Jacques Duclos as the executioner, with the notorious "Duclos letter" denouncing the new sin of "Browderism."

The lesson from the CPUSA politburo was that diplomatic accords were only scraps of paper to be discarded at will, and that nothing could slow the grim struggle of the Red world for supremacy.

With Browder's downfall and new contentions of Soviet policy, the party again lost members at a rapid clip. By 1948, the membership was down to about 60,000. Then, reading the "Duclos letter" as the word of Stalin, the U.S. party, again under William Z. Foster's dogmatic leadership, headed for a new debacle.

DISASTER

To a man, today's ex-Communists agree that the party decision to support the progressive party presidential campaign of Henry A. Wallace spelled disaster.

Interpreting the Duclos letter, Foster ordered trade unions under party control to give all-out support to Wallace, whose movement provided promise of a political organization susceptible to infiltration.

Labor support went to President Harry S. Truman. Wallace emerged with a miserable showing. Communist hopes lay in ruins.

More jolts were coming. The party was deeply involved in sensational spy disclosures. Congressional investigations poured on more heat. A dozen party leaders were convicted for advocating overthrow of the government by force. A new Internal Security Act required the party to register and thus lay bare its financial and leadership secrets.

OUTLAWED

The party panicked. Its leaders acted as if the CPUSA had been outlawed, and as if the bitter cold war meant war was just around the corner.

Several thousand Communists went underground. Many party offices were closed. Top leaders facing five-year prison sentences argued among themselves — another Moscow-like, backstage power struggle—about which of them should go to prison and which should skip bail.

More shocks were coming. Stalin died and his successors battled for control. Communists were asked to believe that Stalin's chief execution, police boss Lavrenty Beria, had in reality been an American spy all along.

Then came the biggest shock of all. In 1956, Khrushchev denounced the departed Stalin as a Byzantine monster.

Youth Ordered To State School

County Judge Lee Porter ordered Bob Darland, county juvenile officer, to take a 14-year-old Negro boy to the state training school for boys at the close of a hearing in juvenile court Tuesday.

The boy, according to officers, had broken into a store. He also had been involved in other clashes with the law, and was on parole.

His companion, also 14, turned "state's evidence" in the case and told the court of the break-in in which he said he and his partner participated.

The second youth, who the judge said had no previous record, was placed on parole.

Ford's New Mustang

Ford's lively new sports-type car—the Mustang—combines the styling and features of expensive foreign cars with a low cost made possible by American mass production. Mustang hardtops and convertibles feature bucket seats and carpeting as standard equipment with a full length seat in the rear. Options for the performance-minded include a selection of three V-8 engines with up to 271 horsepower along with 4-speed or automatic transmissions. Luxury options include a center console, power steering and brakes, and air conditioning. The new Mustang is being unveiled Friday by Shasta Ford, 500 W. 4th.

FCC's Probe May Affect LBJ Interests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has ordered an extensive investigation of television relay companies, a move that points up again a Texas controversy involving the fortunes of President Johnson's family. Among the things the commission seeks to learn is to what extent television relay companies — known otherwise as community antenna television systems (CATV) — are owned by television stations. Although the FCC made no mention in its order yesterday of the situation in Austin, it's precisely the relationship between the Johnson-controlled station in that city and a relay company that is at the heart of the controversy involving the Johnson family.

To what extent do owners of television stations now own interests in CATV systems?

To what extent and in what manner do CATV systems originate any programming, including commercial announcements which they furnish to their subscribers?

To what extent, if any, does ownership of CATV systems by television stations conflict with FCC rules on concentration of control?

Under what conditions, if any, should television stations be permitted to own CATV systems, or interest therein.

In its order, the FCC said the ownership matter has been brought into focus by a pending proposal to transfer control of H&B Microwave Corp. to Video Independent Theaters, Inc. It said Video is a wholly owned subsidiary of RKO General, which operates 27 CATV systems in five states and owns five TV stations. H&B operates 37 CATV systems in 12 states. Questions on which it asked for comment by June 19 included:

Politicians Spread Far And Wide As Date Nears

Politicians shook hands and spoke in far-flung corners of Texas today, with little more than two weeks remaining before the May 2 primaries. Four of the senatorial candidates were to be in Amarillo—the incumbent, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, and three Republican opponents, George Bush, Jack Cox, and Robert Morris. In Dallas Wednesday night, Morris said he will call for a full scale Senate investigation of the Billie Sol Estes and Bobby Baker scandals if he is elected.

book statement, he noted that he served six years as a member and secretary of the Texas Commission on Higher Education. Gordon McLendon, Yarborough's only Democratic opponent, said in Houston he believed support for him was rising rapidly. "I understand my opponent says he intends to support me in November if I win in May," McLendon said. "I certainly intend to afford him that opportunity."

In the gubernatorial race, Gov. John Connally spent Wednesday in his capital office. Part of the time he entertained Louisiana Gov.-elect John J. McKeithen. He announced three appearances in New York and Washington the week before the Democratic primary, one of them before the Warren Commission investigating the assassination of President Kennedy. Connally was wounded during the shooting. Mrs. Connally, meanwhile, was guest at a San Antonio coffee sponsored by 50 women. "I'm here to do everything I can to help John Connally," she said frankly. She said her husband was "medically fine" despite the serious bullet wounds of last November.

Morris said his experience as former chief counsel to the Senate Internal subcommittee would help him get the probes under way. While Sen. Yarborough said relatively little, his opponents kept his name before voters with their criticism of his service in Washington and promises to do better.

threatened by progress in many areas. A former aide of Sen. Yarborough who is seeking the congressman-at-large post, Dan Sullivan, said he has no plans beyond his campaign. He said if defeated he will not return to Yarborough's staff. He maintained that during the time he worked for the senator, he did not know details of any campaign contributions. Robert Baker, another Democrat candidate for congressman-at-large, said in a Harlingen interview he would work to see that adequate funds are provided for maintenance and continued improvements on the Padre Island National Seashore.

LI Gov. Preston Smith, campaigning for re-election in Amarillo, said Texans would have to pay $42 million a year more in increased taxes if the state ad valorem tax were repealed. Smith said there are "some very good theoretical points" supporting abolishment of the tax, such as its inequitable application to business. But he said repeal would not be practical, since the state would have to find another source to replace the $42 million in revenue, and local and county governments would most likely boost taxes.

OIL BUSINESS
Bush said his 16 years' experience in Texas oil business made him "far more qualified" to debate and vote on oil matters in the Senate than Yarborough or any of Bush's three GOP foes. He said he was for "a meaningful oil import program, one which would restrict imports at a level that will not be harmful to our domestic oil industry." Another GOP candidate for Senate, Houston oilman Jack Cox, said he was the best qualified man running to talk about higher education in Texas. In a Lub-

Fresh As Springtime

Celery cooked lightly in butter and seasoned with chives, is given a thin cream sauce and a topping of almonds will make a pleasing dish for the family.

Try Cooking Celery For Pleasant Change

One phase of cooking in these United States we never understand.

Why must Americans relegate certain vegetables only to the salad bowl?

The Italians braise chicory in olive oil, the Belgians boil and offer it au gratin, the French cook celery in a marinade.

It's celery we're concerned with now. You'll find it's such a pleasant change to encounter it cooked. The following recipe calling for celery in a creamy sauce and a topping of almonds is perfect to serve for a company lunch. Try it with broiled shad roe and bacon—or some other extra-fine fresh fish—and new potatoes. You'll never regret it.

For a company dinner let the cooked celery dish accompany a roast—tender lamb, beef, veal, chicken or turkey. For this menu the potatoes might be pared and oven-roasted until crisp and golden-brown.

For an everyday version of cooked celery, leam the vegetable with a white sauce, using the liquid the celery was cooked in for a portion of the milk. Don't have the white sauce so thick it resembles library paste. And just before serving, add a topping of grated golden-colored cheddar cheese or a sprinkling of paprika.

We use Pascal celery in testing the following recipe and the pale green crescents were a pretty contrast to the creamy colored sauce and golden toasted almonds.

SPRINGTIME CELERY

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 quart sliced celery (1/4-inch crescents)

1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. minced onion
2 tbsps. minced chives
1 tsp. flour
1/2 cup chicken stock
1/2 cup light cream
1/4 tsp. white pepper
1/4 cup blanched slivered toasted almonds

In a medium, wide-bottomed saucepan, melt the butter; add the celery and salt. Cover tightly and cook over low heat for about three minutes or until celery is tender-crisp; shake pan several times to prevent scorching. Add onion and chives and cook a few minutes longer. Add flour and mix well; add chicken stock.

Cook and stir constantly until sauce thickens. Add cream and pepper; stir while cream heats. Serve sprinkled with almonds. Makes six servings.

SPECIAL FARE
Tomatoes stuffed with cheese and shrimp fondue

Stuffed Vegetables Have Favor Of People Around The World

Vegetables make such interesting containers.

The Chinese let a winter melon—similar in texture to our summer squash—hold one of their most exotic soups. For banquet service, the soup is steamed right in the melon along with such tidbits as water chestnuts, bamboo shoots, mushrooms, chicken and Smithfield ham.

The Armenian cuisine uses grape leaves as cases, filling these with a wonderful combination of rice, pine nuts and cinnamon or allspice plus onion and parsley.

Armenian cooks often stuff eggplant. And Greek cooks may fill squash, split and scooped out, with a cooked ground beef mixture and then top it with tomato paste and cheese.

So many countries stuff cabbage leaves with meat fillings. Some of the best of these recipes come from Scandinavian cooks.

In Italy green peppers are stuffed in various ways. After baking they may be offered cold as often as they're served hot.

Right now we've borrowed a French notion—tomatoes stuffed with a shrimp and cheese fondue. Despite its elegant appearance, this dish is not hard to prepare. The shrimp called for are canned, so there's no bother here. Serve these baked tomatoes to luncheon guests or for family fare.

TOMATOES WITH SHRIMP FONDUE

6 medium (2 pounds) tomatoes
1/2 cup milk, scalded
1 tsp. butter or margarine
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs (2 slices with crusts removed)
1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
1 egg, separated
1 can (4 1/2 ounces) cleaned shrimp, drained and rinsed
Cayenne to taste

Cut out center of tomatoes, from stem end, in large plug shape; scoop out pulp and seeds; invert and drain. Add butter and bread crumbs to scalded milk and heat; remove from heat. Add cheese and stir until melted. Beat egg yolk slightly; gradually stir in the cheese mixture; add shrimp and cayenne; cool slightly fold in beaten egg white.

Place tomato cups in a shallow pan; spoon fondue into tomatoes. Pour enough hot water into pan to come up about 1/2-inch around tomatoes. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 20 to 30 minutes, or until fondue mixture puffs and browns lightly. Serve at once before fondue fails. Makes 6 servings.

Change Tastes With Cooking Psychology

"I don't know anything about art, but I know what I like," is an old cliché that will strike a responsive chord in many a busy homemaker and cook. No one in the family prepares the meals but her, yet everyone is an expert on what the menus should be.

The time has come for a bit of subtle psychology and a change of pace in the kitchen. With spring in the air and appetites unsettled, introduce the family to their old favorites disguised in a new dish.

Salads do not have to be stereotyped. A different ingredient or a new sauce can make the difference. Vegetables fit in the same pattern. Spark them with spices or cook them in a new style.

A special dessert treat may be the thing to waken the family's interest at mealtime.

SPRINGTIME FANCY

1 pkg. (3 ozs.) lime-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1/2 cup cold water
3/4 tsp. lemon juice

In a large bowl stir together the mayonnaise, sour cream and lemon juice; mix in chicken and celery; add salt and pepper. Arrange on salad greens; top with pineapple. Makes four hearty servings.

Make Attractive Clip Of Mateless Earring

Dear Heloise: Have you wondered at times what to do with that "one earring" because the mate has been lost? I'm referring to the clip-on type.

Instead of throwing them away, I have found them useful—just that "needed touch" on a blouse, dress, etc.

I also use them as hair ornaments. There are times when a stray hair just won't stay combed down, or one wants a touch of glamor, and a bobby pin would not look nice enough. That is when I survey my assortment of single clip earrings and choose just the right one to use for the moment.

The many compliments I get when putting that one earring to use, seems to make this suggestion worthwhile passing on...

anything burnt-on and I just rinse and dry.

Never remove the stove parts until all your wash is done. After a few loads of good hot soapy water have emptied over the parts, they look like new with no effort on your part.

I find this much easier than making "stove-cleaning-day" a project that gets put off for weeks and becomes a chore. Just try it, it's "wunderbar." Auf Wiedersehen, M.J.W.

Dear Heloise: This may not be a very original idea because it seems so simple; yet I never thought of it before.

In an emergency, I find it very simple to use my electric shaver to trim the neck area and side burns of my hair.

It keeps my hair looking very neat and the job is even simpler if you have a wife to do it for you... Ted Hawranick

REFRESHING PAUSE
Mrs. H. L. Gray Jr. shares an after-school treat with daughter, Brenda, and son, Vince

H. L. Gray Family Rates High With Teen-Age Houseguests

By MARY COCHRAN
There is only one teen-ager whose legal residence is at 1612 Indian Hills but to many young people in Big Spring it seems like home, and the H. L. Grays would be hard pressed to sort out their own from the crowd. The welcome mat is always out for boys and girls, and there are plenty of good things to eat in the larder.

Mrs. Gray is a talented cook and a warm and friendly hostess. When meal time rolls around, she may be feeding only Vince, 6, Brenda, 16, and her husband, but it is more likely there will be several friends about to enjoy the fun and good food.

Cooking is no effort for this homemaker. Her first experiences in the kitchen began when she was a young child perched on the cabinet counter in her mother's home in Louisiana. By the time she had reached high school age she was putting this early training to good use. Through her work in the 4-H clubs, she won two national trips and a number of state and local honors in cooking. She was in state baking contests, and every summer was sponsored by the clubs to attend short courses at the University of Louisiana.

It only took her three years to complete her college work at Louisiana Technological College at Ruston, where she received a degree as a dietitian. Though she has never pursued that career, Mrs. Gray did teach the second grade for seven years following her marriage.

She has applied her dietetic training at home. Every meal is always balanced and she sees that the family gets all their needed food requirements daily.

Favorite menus for company are varied. Barbecuing is popular in the Gray household and Hervey, the man of the house, takes over at the pit while Mrs. Gray prepares the accompanying dishes. With a natural liking for fish, it is small wonder that the Grays like to have a fish fry when guests arrive. The fish is cooked out-of-doors and served with slaw, hush puppies, French fries, pickles and onions. A specialty of the house is fried catfish livers that are slowly cooked to a crisp stage.

"Cornish hens are wonderful for company dinners," said this homemaker. "I serve mine with a wine sauce." One of the reasons Mrs. Gray can entertain with ease is due to the fact that she prepares everything possible before the guests arrive. In that way she can enjoy the festivities and not have to spend all her time at the stove.

For the past several summers the Grays have taken a group of teen-agers to Granite Shoals for a vacation. All the meals for the week have been planned and supplies purchased before the crew leaves home. To feed this hungry mob of skiers and swimmers, Mrs. Gray starts them out with a hearty breakfast each morning. Lunch is a light affair but the evening meal will be chicken, steak or fresh fish with all the trimmings.

In winter the Grays follow the football and basketball teams.

Corn Syrup Used To Flavor Punch

A not-too-sweet punch to refresh holiday guests. No need to cook sugar syrup for this drink because corn syrup is used.

TEA PUNCH
1 qt. strongly brewed tea
1 cup light corn syrup
3 qts. cold water
1 cup lemon juice
1 cup orange juice
Cubed or cracked ice
Lemon or orange slices
Make and cool tea. Stir in corn syrup. Mix in well the water, lemon juice and orange juice. Chill — overnight if you like. Fill glasses about half full of ice. Pour chilled punch into glasses. Garnish with lemon or orange slices. Makes 24 servings, ¼ cup each.

DARING FEAT
Add bright peaches for salad zip

Peachy Idea Alters Cabbage Slaw Dish

Slaw takes on new flavor accents in "Tropical Peach Slaw." Shredded cabbage is teamed with juicy canned cling peach slices, diced grapefruit and avocado slices in a zippy salad dressing sauce. It's a gay-looking salad—colorful and certain to stimulate appetites.

Canned cling peaches lend eye and flavor appeal to numerous easy-to-make salads. And they are so simple to use straight from the can in cobblers, pies, cakes and puddings and as bright garnishes for main dishes.

TROPICAL PEACH SLAW
1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) cling peach slices
1 avocado

Lemon juice
Salt
1 grapefruit
1 cup coarsely shredded cabbage
1-3 cup salad dressing
1 tsp. instant minced onion
¼ tsp. prepared mustard
Drain peaches thoroughly. Cut avocado lengthwise into halves; remove seed and skin. Slice avocado; sprinkle with lemon juice and salt. Section grapefruit and dice. Combine with peaches and cabbage. VEAL BIRDS Sparked By Sauce
Plump veal birds, filled with a savory stuffing which is spiced with herbs and seasoned to perfection, will entice your family's appetite. For an added fillip, top with Ceddar cheese sauce.

VEAL BIRDS
1 pkg. herb-seasoned stuffing
1 cup hot water
½ cup butter, melted
½ cup finely chopped carrots
¼ cup snipped parsley
2 lbs. veal cutlets, thinly sliced
¼ cup flour
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup chicken broth
Combine herb-seasoned stuffing with hot water, butter, carrots, and parsley. Spread about three tablespoons of stuffing mixture on each piece of veal, roll up jelly-roll fashion and secure with toothpicks. Roll veal birds in flour and brown in butter or margarine.
Arrange birds in a two-quart casserole, add chicken broth. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 50 minutes or until meat is tender. Extra stuffing may be placed in same casserole and baked along with veal birds. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

VEGETABLE Mix Has New Twist
Mixed vegetables take on a special flavor when combined with mushrooms and onion.

SPECIAL MIXED VEGETABLES
1 can (6-ozs.) broiled sliced mushrooms
Water
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 small onion (finely diced)
1 pkg. (10-ozs.) frozen mixed vegetables
Drain mushrooms over a measure; add enough water to make 1 cup. Melt butter in an 8-inch skillet over low heat; add onion and cook until yellowed, stirring often.
Meanwhile cook frozen mixed vegetables according to package directions using mushroom liquid and water mixture, but adding no salt. Drain vegetables. Add drained mushrooms to onion and heat.
Mix vegetables with onions and mushrooms and reheat if necessary. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Try Orange Juice In Acorn Squash
For Spiced Squash Scallops, cut two acorn squash into horizontal ¼-inch slices. Remove seeds. In a large skillet, melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine with ¼ teaspoon ground allspice and ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon.
Add squash rings, ½ cup fresh orange juice and sprinkle with 1 to 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Cook, slowly, covered, until rings are tender and lightly glazed. Makes enough for 4.

Plentiful Market For Corn

You can expect especially good canned corn supplies all during April. U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service lists canned corn as one of this month's plentiful foods.

Corn has been an important American staple for hundreds of years. But the sweet corn that we enjoy today has been known to white men only since about 1780.

Corn still is an important food staple on today's food tables and serves us well, as it did our forefathers. Thanks to the canning industry, however, we have sweet corn available at all times. Too, it's just as good and fresh when we open the can as it was the day of harvest.

Try these flavorful recipes using canned corn while good supplies are available:
For Chicken and Corn Croquettes, combine finely-chopped cooked chicken with cream-style corn and seasoned bread crumbs. Mix to right consistency for shaping into pyramids (about one-third cup each). Roll in dry bread crumbs and re-shape, if necessary. Roll in beaten egg mixture and again in bread crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat (390 degrees F.) until golden brown. Drain and serve piping hot with creamed peas. Add grated cheese to cream sauce for extra special flavor.

For the corn-apple mixture: Dice apple removed from centers. Place in frying pan with diced bacon (one slice for each apple). Fry until bacon is crisp and apple slightly softened. Add drained whole kernel corn to frying pan. Heat thoroughly. Return filled apples to hot oven until apple shells are soft. Dot with butter, sprinkle with sugar and criss-cross bacon strips over top. Slip under broiler until bacon is browned and sugar caramelized. Serve piping hot.

Corn and Cheese Fondue gives a special touch to April menus. For four servings, blend one-third cup bread cubes; ¼ cups cream-style canned corn, two teaspoons minced onion, two teaspoons chopped green peppers, three-fourths cup finely grated cheese, one-half teaspoon salt, two well-beaten eggs and one-half cup hot milk. Pour the mixture into a greased loaf pan, set in a pan of hot water and bake at 350 degrees F. until set—about one hour.

Dear Abby

Sign Up And Grow Up

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old boy who is about to be drafted. I am not a coward, but I would just rather not go for two reasons. One is that I am used to my privacy and don't like to have a lot of people around me. The other is I know that I won't be able to adjust to Army life. The only way out, as I see it, is to get married, but I can't seem to find a girl. Can you help me?

LOOKING

DEAR LOOKING: Look, buddy, if every American male ducked military service for the reasons you give, our country would be a sitting duck for its enemies. Your survival would be a bigger problem than your "privacy." And your bondage rather than to a brief hitch for Uncle Sam. Sign up and grow up. It'll do you good!

DEAR ABBY: Would you please put a word in your column explaining to people that widowed and divorced women are still addressed as "Mrs."? So many of my Christmas cards were addressed "Miss," or worse yet, no title whatsoever. This makes a husbandless woman feel like "nothing."

DEAR MRS.: I have written this many times in my column, and I will write it again. Once a woman has been married, unless she arranges to resume her maiden name she is never again a "Miss." P. S. Many women choose to omit either the Miss or Mrs. from THEIR correspondence—thus adding to the general confusion.

DEAR ABBY: How do you feel about a "Come and see us sometime" type of invitation? My husband seems to think it is perfectly all right. He is forever dragging me places where we are not expected just because the people have said, "Come and see us sometime." Nine out of ten times it is apparent we have inconvenienced them even though they act polite, and glad to see us. My husband thinks that everyone likes unexpected company because it wouldn't bother him one bit if folks dropped by our house when the place was a mess and I had nothing to serve. But it would bother me plenty. I can't drive this point home to him. Can you?

UNNERVED

DEAR UNNERVED: A "come and see us sometime" type of invitation should not be taken seriously. When folks really want your company, they call and invite you for a specific time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ELLIOTT: I don't agree that "a little gossip is nothing." A hole is also "nothing"—but you can break your neck in it.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Right Of Way Struck Down

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court struck down Wednesday a state law that grants landowners whose property is surrounded by the land of another person a right of way across the neighbor's property.

The court reversed a lower court judgment granting a Baylor County rancher a right of way across the W. T. Waggoner Ranch.

Wilmer Gleghorn, whose land is encircled by the Waggoner Ranch, won district court approval in Baylor County for a road through the Waggoner land to part of his ranch north of the Wichita River. Court records showed there already was a road to the south part of his ranch.

The trial court based its decision on a law which the Supreme Court said purports "to grant to anyone who claims the right to use land which is wholly or partially surrounded by land of another person the right to an easement over the surrounding land for ingress and egress to and from the surrounding property."

The Supreme Court said the statute conflicts with a state constitution provision that property will not be taken without adequate compensation, except by consent.

Youth's Death Term Upset

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reversed Wednesday the murder conviction and 99-year sentence given James Holt, 18, for the September, 1962, sledgehammer killing of an East Texas store operator.

Jasper received insufficient instructions from the judge. These instructions failed to require the jury to decide, before considering a confession, whether Holt had been warned by officers that contents of the statement could be used against him.

The court ordered retrial of the case.

Holt was convicted of killing H. D. Cliffe, who was found dead Sept. 4, 1962, in his store at Call Junction, where Holt had hitchhiked from Ft. Polk, La.

Motels Preceding Autos These Days For Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—In the United States, the motel followed the development of travel by private automobile. In the Soviet Union, the motel came first.

Two have been opened on the highway that encircles Moscow, just beyond the point at which prefabricated apartment houses are turning rolling farmland into suburb. More motels are planned.

They aren't exactly motels as you Americans know them. Vehicles go into a parking lot and the customers walk through the lobby and upstairs to their rooms.

The Russians have taken the American word "motel" and put it on combinations of hotel, service station and garage.

There are few private cars in the Soviet Union, and not many roads to travel. Trucks are the main highway users. Their drivers get special consideration in reservations at the motel.

Perhaps some day the present trickle of foreign visitors by automobile will swell enough to provide tourist business. At the moment the two motels are primarily used as annexes of Moscow's crowded downtown hotels.

The motels don't even have names except as affiliates of their downtown connections. But Gregori Suvorov says the motel he manages will some day be independent—"Then we'll have a name of our own." It is now known as the Motel on the Minsk Highway.

By the standard of many places where foreign travelers find themselves sleeping in the Soviet Union, such as airport hotels, this is a good place to stop. Each of 95 rooms has a bathroom, which is an uncommon situation outside a few large Soviet cities. Large windows, bright pictures on the walls and rugs on the floors made the rooms attractive.

Training Session

A scoutleaders' training session is set Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the old Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College. With Harry Blomsheld serving as an instructor, the topic "How to Train Junior Leaders" will be discussed. There will also be a film, "Troop Meeting Tonight."

Bankrupt Corpus Man Asks Caddy, 2 Horses

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Paul Amos Sandblom, bankrupt Corpus Christi investor, claims he should be allowed to keep a 1964 Cadillac and two registered quarter horses under an old bankruptcy law that permits a man to retain a carriage, a wagon and two horses.

The referee in bankruptcy gave attorneys for Sandblom and his creditors ten days in which to file briefs before he makes a ruling.

Sandblom, an insurance agent, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy Jan. 7. Estimates have placed his debts to creditors as high as $37 million.

Creditors said that he promised, and for a time paid, as much as seven per cent interest per month on money invested with him.

Sandblom, charged in both federal and state courts with selling unregistered securities, is free on $125,000 bond.

The bankruptcy law provides that the bankrupt party may claim tools of his trade as property exempt from seizure to satisfy claims against him. They also provide that, if he has a family, the bankrupt party is allowed to keep one carriage, a wagon and two horses. In recent years, courts have construed an automobile to be a carriage and a truck or trailer to be a wagon.

As exempt property Sandblom listed the 1964 Cadillac, the carriage as specified by law, two registered quarter horses he said were valued at $4,000 and a horse trailer which originally cost $2,000.

He also claimed one desk, a bookcase, a swivel chair, electric typewriter, a calculator and a filing cabinet as tools of his trade in operating the insurance agency which has been sold for $16,000.

Sandblom testified at a hearing Wednesday that he bought the horses four years ago with the intention of breeding them to make money.

Richard Hall, attorney for the court-appointed trustees of Sandblom's estate, argued that the horses were used as a means

Austin City Council Tries Again With Negro Threat

AUSTIN (AP) — The Austin City Council meets today, resolved to conduct official business despite the strong possibility local civil rights advocates may try to resume their "speak-in."

"We will conduct city business. It must be done," said Mayor pro tem Travis Larue Wednesday.

Civil rights advocates held the floor for a week until the council adjourned last Thursday over their protests. Spokesmen for the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have indicated they would be at today's council session, but have not divulged their exact plans.

Only three of the five council members were to be present. Mayor Lester Palmer is hospitalized, suffering from exhaustion, and another councilman is on a business trip.

GAINED FLOOR

The "speak-in" started April 2 when Volma Overton, president of the NAACP chapter, gained the floor during a hearing on refunds to a paving contractor. He and following speakers used the occasion to argue for a city ordinance providing penalties for racial discrimination.

Several times speakers refused to yield so the council could conduct other business. Their avowed purpose was to force a decision on an anti-discrimination ordinance. The filibuster ran all day April 2 the following Friday and Tuesday and last Thursday.

INTEGRATED

Austin public schools and public facilities such as golf courses, swimming pools, libraries and parks have been desegregated for several years. A majority of the motion picture theaters, restaurants and hotels also serve Negroes equally with whites.

Finally, last Thursday, the council voted to adjourn and left the chamber, over the loud protests of the demonstrators. Business establishments of Larue and councilman Louis Shanks have since been picketed.

Overton contended the adjournment was illegal and that the demonstrators retained their right to the floor.

"The lines of communication remain open to all citizens," Larue said Wednesday, "but until all five council members are back, we should have a cooling off period."

Disturbances Hurting Bill, Say Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican and Democratic senators charged with shepherding the civil rights bill through the Senate have warned that illegal demonstrations and disturbances that lead to violence "are hurting our efforts."

The statement was issued Wednesday night by Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., after proposals by splinter civil rights groups for disrupting traffic to the New York World's Fair and other disorders.

"The two senators declared: 'Illegal disturbances, demonstrations which lead to violence or injury, strike grievous blows at the cause of decent civil rights legislation.'

"Unruly demonstrations and protests that bring hardship, and unnecessary inconvenience to others—even by those who have long suffered indignities—are not helping the cause of civil rights," the statement said.

As the Senate debate stretched into its 32nd session today, Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., joined senators who are urging amendment of the House-passed bill.

Cotton said in a statement he would vote for cloture—to cut off debate on the measure so that it can be voted on—but not until real consideration is given to corrective amendments."

Cotton, regarded as a civil rights supporter, said the bill, "is shot through with flaws and inconsistencies. For instance, it circumvents the right of trial by jury and defies the Constitution by authorizing discrimination against athletes."

Police Changes Are Reported

Several changes in the Big Spring police department have been announced by Chief Jay Banks.

Stanley Ballou, appointed a radio dispatcher Nov. 9 last year, has resigned his position effective today. Banks said Ballou, a former Air Force officer, will be connected with the Big Spring Reserve Police.

Bill Schlecht, owner of the Pancake Patio, has been appointed a new reserve police officer, Banks said. The appointment was effective April 6.

He was named as a replacement for Ed Kenemer, former patrolman and a reserve officer, who resigned recently to move to Tyler.

Banks said another reserve officer has stated that he may move to Albuquerque soon but his resignation is not official.

A Devotional For The Day

Stand firm! Let nothing move you as you busy yourselves in the Lord's work. Be sure that nothing you do for him is ever lost or ever wasted. (1 Corinthians 15:58. PHILLIPS.)
PRAYER: Almighty God, glory be to Thee that, regardless of setbacks and discouragements, whatever we do for Thee is not in vain. Renew our zeal, we pray, that we may do our utmost in spreading Thy kingdom. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Secret Sessions A Mistake

The 25 members of the governor's Committee on Education Beyond the High School apparently have convinced themselves that most of their deliberations should be held in secret. The passage of time may convince them of the error of their ways.
The committee is, after all, functioning under a $125,000 appropriation given it by the legislature. It is dealing with a subject that is close to the heart of at least a majority of Texans. Its decisions are supposed to give the legislature guidelines which will shape the future of higher education in Texas for perhaps a generation or more.
Since the committee is an official arm of the legislature, even though its members were appointed by the governor, the arguments which lead to a consensus on any point must be considered as highly relevant to the legislative history of any law which is based on its recommendations. In the absence of public knowledge of arguments in committee, neither the House nor Senate journals will give more than the vaguest hint as to the legislative history of a bill.

The arguments for and against adoption of a recommendation are essential to an understanding of the decision itself. Unless the discussions are public, then the public can never know why a decision was reached.
No one seems to question the dedication of the 25 members of the committee. But a serious question of judgment arises when they decide to discuss the public's business in secret. The value of the committee's recommendations will be questioned by the public generally as long as its deliberations are conducted in secrecy.

Events In Brazil

The United States, most of Latin America and the non-Communist world generally officially view the Brazilian coup d'etat as a salvation, rather than a scrapping of constitutional processes. Legalistic quibbling aside, such in essence it surely was.
Deposed President Joao Goulart was guilty of two crimes against Brazilian democracy: Manoeuvring to perpetuate himself in office in a Vargas-type dictatorship and allying himself with Communists, who he was putting in key posts, in a power grab which he almost certainly would not have been able to control. A "Brazilian Cuba" proved as unthinkable to Brazilians as to us.
The participation of state governments and the National Congress in the revolt relieves it of the stigma of an ordinary Latin American military coup. The resulting caretaker government, headed by legal presidential successor Raniero Mazzilli until Congress names an interim president, is sufficiently constitutional to merit the United States' immediate diplomatic recognition and offer of resumption of aid suspended because Goulart refused to put it to effective use.
It is obvious that the change in Brazil is in line with U. S. interests, but it is an insult to Brazilians to suggest, as the Communists of course have, that Washington engineered it. It is equally obvious that Brazil's troubles are far from over, though it now has a fair chance to work itself away from the brink of chaos to which Goulart had either pushed it or let it drift.

Brazil is still burdened with debt, weakened by inflation, afflicted by massive, worsening poverty that renders sweeping social reforms indispensable to democratic political stability. There is much that will not wait until a full-term president can be elected next year, and the United States has rightfully offered emergency help.
The Brazilian experience again suggests that the United States cannot deal with Latin America as an entity, which it is not, nor set region-wide standards for relations with nations that have as much diversity as they have in common. There is much about Brazil that is unique, and U. S.-Brazilian relations must allow for that. The main hope this coup has renewed is that Brazil now can return to the leading role in the Alliance for Progress that its own interests and resources and problems indicate that it should play.

Richard Starnes The IBM Gets The Little Fellows

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service is about to feed me (and thee, too, chum) into a mechanical stool pigeon that is licking its electronic chops and blinking its red eyes in anticipation even as these words are written.
Oh, I'm reconciled to it, before you can say adjusted gross metabolism I'll be coughed out all filigreed with those square holes that are the bane of our century. It will doubtless be a drafty experience, becoming a human colander so to speak, but I see it as my duty. My only regret is that I have only one pelt to offer for patriotic perforation.
WHY, PSHAW, IRS, how you and your IBM do run on! If I wanted to avoid taxes, I'd get me a 11' oil well and become a depletion-allowance millionaire. Or I'd inherit a wad of cash and sock it into tax-exempt securities—in which case I wouldn't even have to file a return. Or I might enlist the aid of a for-sale lawyer and get him to pass a law exempting the first $1 million of earned income of all citizens who are reheaded, left-handed, were born on July 4, 1922, are mildly myopic, and suffer from cavus arches that need orthopedic help but do not disqualify for military service. That wouldn't cost old Uncle Squeeze very much, as tailored tax laws go, but it sure would help me a heap.
(BEFORE YOU proceed back to the loan-shark ads, fellow sucker, pause to reflect that each of the shabby deceptions listed above is in use this very day. Unfortunately, however, their benefit is restricted to coal oil tycoons, Hollywood epic mongers and rich old ladies with motorcar fortunes. Squares have been exempted from such boons ever since the first scribe discovered he could frighten the first unwashed prole with a fright wig and a gourd rattle.)

NOW IT SO happens that when IRS candles me in its IBM machine it will discover that practically all of my income is earned, and is paid by dutiful corporations which comply with the law by mousing on me to the tax collector. I'm caught with my tax liability down. I am an open-and-shut case for the inland revenue chaps. I got no more chance of escaping than the most bog-ridden Mississippi redneck at a Black Muslim picnic—so I don't try.
ANYONE WHO expects to find the bromide about it not being the ruse but the principle is due for a rude shock. I believe Abe Martin's dictum, "When a man says it isn't the money, it's the principle—it's the money." Of course, our taxes are too high. Americans pay more and get less in return than any other taxpayers in the Western world. The recent tax cut, as all will discover when the various statehouse gangs finish tapping the pot, is largely an illusion. One that is a principle involved, and but there is going to cost a lot of flannel-mouthed political hacks their jobs when enough overburdened rate payers discover it. Tax laws that sneer at justice and equity are a canker in the gullets of government. Soon or late the tax laws change, or the government does.

Billy Graham

I am, or was, a Catholic. My husband is a Protestant. As a family we are nothing. Our children need religious training. Which way should we turn?
M.C.R.
I would say, first of all, that you both turn to God. Neither Protestantism or Catholicism can save you if you turn your back on the One who died for you. First, yield your lives to Him, and pray about the matter of which church you should attend.
Too many people are depending on their church to take them to heaven. Christ said: "I am the way, the truth, and the life. No man cometh unto the Father, except by me." It is a personal relationship to Jesus Christ that counts, and though we should join every denomination there is, if our trust is not in Him, we are Christians in name only, and only imitations of the real thing.
Yes, your children need religious training. But they also need to see Christ in the lives of their parents. They need not only religious words, but Christian deeds. I would rather see Christianity in action than to just hear about it—and your children need the Christian example and influence you can give.
I learned more about the Christian faith from my mother than I ever did at church.

NOT ARGUING ABOUT WHO - ONLY HOW

James Marlow So Far, It's A Weird Election Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's a weird year, one of the weirdest in a long time.
In polls or presidential primaries:
1. A woman without a chance — Maine's Senator, Margaret Chase Smith—picks up speed but she's not going any place.
2. A prince of Southern segregationists — Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace—does surprisingly well in the North.
3. THE MEN who talked and tried the hardest—New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater—finished behind the silent Sam type — Henry Cabot Lodge — who wasn't even there.
And Pennsylvania's Gov. William Scranton—who could rock himself to sleep with the monotonous insistence that he has no presidential ambitions while admitting he'd accept a "draft"—is still considered a likely Republican presidential prospect.
Yet, there are probably not 10 Republicans in 100 outside Pennsylvania who have any idea what Scranton thinks on any issue or even what kind of governor he has been.
Wallace went into the Wisconsin primary and captured 25 per cent of the total vote, proving if it needed proving, that a lot of Northern whites are just as much segregationist as Southern whites.
THEN IN the Illinois primary —where his name wasn't even on the ballot—more than 4,500 people wrote it in, giving him more votes than Rockefeller, Scranton, Michigan's Gov.

George Romney, and Harold Stassen.
Mrs. Smith campaigned hard in the New Hampshire primary last month and wound up down near the bottom of the list with only 2,120 votes. In this week's Illinois primary she said she spent only $85 on two campaign appearances.
But when the returns came in she had almost 200,000 votes. Goldwater got 480,000. Their two names were the only ones on the ballot.
The Illinois write-in voters weren't satisfied with Goldwater or Mrs. Smith. They wrote in Lodge, giving him over 52,000 votes, and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, giving him over 24,000.
BUT THE REAL weirdy in all of it is the popularity of Lodge who—because he is U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam under the Johnson administration—hasn't said a word about what he thinks on domestic issues.
And, because he hasn't held political office in 14 years—since John F. Kennedy took his Senate seat away from him in 1952—probably few Republicans can remember where he stands or what he thinks on anything.
Yet in the New Hampshire primary, where his name wasn't even on the ballot and voters decided to write it in, he finished first over all other Republicans who are, or want to be, considered for their party's nomination.
He came out ahead of Goldwater, Rockefeller and Mrs. Smith. Their names were on the ballot and they had campaigned hard around the state. Nixon's name was also written in. He finished fourth, behind Lodge, Goldwater and Rockefeller but ahead of Mrs. Smith.
AND JUST recently in Oregon a poll among Republicans on their presidential preferences put Lodge far ahead of Nixon, Rockefeller, Goldwater and Mrs. Smith.
(Nixon says he isn't seeking the presidential nomination but, for a man who says he isn't, he is doing a lot of talking, and has kept on talking about American problems even when he went on an overseas trip.)
The continuing popularity of Lodge, who has never said he is a candidate, might be interpreted as a changing attitude in American politics—that people like politicians who keep their mouths shut.

Hal Boyle Camouflages Of Youth

NEW YORK (AP) — How young are you?
Thanks to wigs, antiwrinkle creams, hormone pills and other devices, the broads of time are so camouflaged that it is getting harder to tell anyone's real age.
It isn't altogether a matter of physical appearance either. The differing generations seem to have confused their normal aspirations and patterns of conduct.
Older people are trying to be young again, while lads just out of college are worrying about Social Security.
HERE IS a box score to test yourself. You're probably still on the sunny side of middle age if—
The mortgage on your home has 19½ years to run.
You still call your wife by the pet nickname of your courtship days instead of aping the mother by addressing her as "Mother."
Being broke all the time now doesn't bother you so much, because you feel supremely confident that in another five years at most you'll double or triple your income.
You like to open letters because you retain the hope that good news as well as bad news comes by mail.
IT IS MORE fun to play baseball at a picnic than to go golfing with your employer.

You can overhear a conversation between two teen-agers and understand at least half of what they are saying.
Confronted by a long flight of stairs, you automatically go up them two at a time and reach the top without feeling you need to lie down until you can breathe easier.
When a stranger dances with your wife at a party, you feel jealous of him instead of grateful.
If a shoelace breaks, you balance on one foot while you tie it instead of looking around for a fire hydrant to use as a support.
THE ONLY glasses you wear are sun glasses, and the fine print in the telephone directory is no problem.
You'd rather get out on the lawn and cut the grass yourself than sit on the front porch and tell your wife how to do it.
It is unclear in your mind whether Calvin Coolidge was a minor jazz band leader in the 1920s or subbed in the outfield for the New York Yankees when Babe Ruth was off his feed.
You still have the same number of chins you had 10 years ago.

To Your Good Health Find Out What Causes Your Pain

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Last October I had two weeks of severe chest pain. It would come and go very fast and leave me breathless. This has passed but my chest hurts at times now, mostly when I raise both arms, and various household chores bring a dull pain.
I smoke about a pack of cigarettes a day and drink lots of coffee. I am 23 and have two children. I have never consulted a doctor about this. Can you give me some hints? —MRS. R. P.
After all these years, I'm not about to start trying to diagnose aches and pains by mail. Nevertheless, your letter gives me an idea that may do you—and others—some good.
Quite a few people, I know, will go around for months, just as you have, with their chests or other parts of their bodies in pain. They won't go to a doctor until they get so sick they can't help it.

There are other people who run to the doctor every time they have a hangnail.
Neither is the smart way. Ideally, we'd be better off if people had a checkup once or twice a year, but many won't do it.
So let's get back to you, Mrs. R. P. Instead of hurting—and worrying—consult your doctor and give him a chance to correct the trouble. It might be something like intercostal neuritis, which isn't serious.
The important thing is to find out.
Dear Dr. Molner: We were reading about trichinosis and wonder if leaving pork in the refrigerator for any length of time wouldn't make the germ grow.—Mr. and Mrs. A. C.
No, because trichinosis isn't caused by a germ. It is a very tiny worm which, if present in pork, is in encysted form. That is, it is dormant, curled up in a sort of cocoon.

When eaten, the shells are dissolved by the digestive juices. The worms then quickly grow to full size, and produce thousands of new larvae which work their way through the blood vessels and tissues of the body, to find resting places (often in the muscles) where they turn become encysted. On their way, they leave a trail of toxic materials which is the dangerous phase of the disease, although sometimes the cysts create virtually permanent irritation.
Only a few of the worms are necessary to cause serious trouble; they do not breed while refrigerated.
Thorough cooking destroys them.

Around The Rim Timid Spelunker

For a guy who even gets queasy in Carlsbad Caverns, the newly organized Spelunkers Club here is not for me. Though exploring caves holds a sort of fascination, the dangers are too graphic in my imagination.
I RECENTLY read a story about such exploration on Easter Island. The scientist and his assistant crawled a long distance in a tunnel just barely large enough for their bodies to pass through. At times, they had to stretch their arms out ahead of them to squeeze through the narrow passages. The air was bad and they had difficulty breathing in these narrow confines.
On the way out, they mistakenly made a wrong turn and the tunnel came to a dead end. The scientist had difficulty convincing his helper to begin backing up, and in such narrow confines, there was little room for argument or reason. The assistant became panicky and tried to push his senior on. A near tragedy resulted. Eventually, of course, they found their way back.

Indians on this continent. It was high on a cliff and just big enough for a man to slide in.
This scientist scooted in on his stomach and only his feet were protruding when he rolled over on his stomach to look for signs of smoke and fires on the tunnel roof. Terror gripped him. The entire cave roof was a solid mass of spiders, thousands of them peculiar to that section of the desert country, only inches away from his face.
HE SCOOTED right back out, before the spiders decided to drop on him, and said he still breaks into a cold sweat when he thinks of that experience. If there are discoveries to be made there, he suggests they will be made by someone not afraid of spiders at close quarters.
As I shared the experiences of these men by reading their books, so I shared their fears in imagination. Close quarters in the dark and nests of spiders in the face hold no allure for me. And once taken by such an adventure, I'm sure I would have no more.

Marquis Childs Lodge's Appeal On West Coast

A young lawyer, David B. Goldberg, and two dedicated young women, Sally Saltonstall, niece of Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, and Caroline Williams, came here from Boston to work in a big, half-empty headquarters with the same zeal they gave to the New Hampshire primary campaign. And by all indications the result will be the same—a Lodge sweep, with Oregon's 18 delegates pledged to the ambassador to Viet Nam who is 8,000 miles away keeping a discreet political silence.

THESE YOUNG people talk the jargon of politics. They worry about "peaking too early." Then in the next breath they ask what peaking too early means. Or does it mean anything at all?
The answer to this last is almost certainly no. For the professionals have worked up a special vocabulary to describe the mysteries of their craft. To the average citizen it has about as much relevance as Urdu or Swahili.

WITH NEW HAMPSHIRE'S 14 and Oregon's 18, if the portents prove correct in the primary on May 15, Lodge will have 32 delegates votes plus the 34 of Massachusetts. A delegate slate pledged to Sen. Saltonstall will be for Lodge and it is expected to triumph over a slate pledged to Sen. Barry Goldwater.
He will thereby become one of the two or three men to be chosen by the convention in San Francisco. The polls show that if his name were on the ballot in California he would carry that state with its 86 delegates. Most significant when pitted against President Johnson in California's Field poll he rates 38 per cent to LBJ's 56. Against the other candidates the President does 70 per cent or better, with Goldwater scoring lowest.

ALL THIS creates fury in the breasts of those who have been beating out their brains and their muscle to carry the day on this Western slope. The bitter complaint of the pros, and the reason they rule him out as a candidate, is that in the No. 2 spot in 1960 he was a highly independent campaigner. As one of the Goldwater Republicans who worked with him in the West put it:
"WE DIDN'T MIND his taking a nap after lunch every day. But why did he have to put on his pajamas? That immobilized him for two hours at least."
In losing the election four years ago by a hairline margin Richard Nixon made several major errors. Perhaps the principal one was in trying to be everywhere all the time. He rushed from Alaska to South Carolina to Louisiana to California in the twinkling of an eye, and one result was that for the big, important moments he was tired and strained. That was true in the televised debates which may have cost him the election.

LODGE, WITH the supreme self-assurance that is part of his temperament, may carry independence and restraint too far. But in the campaign in the fall a little calm consideration and a little less frenzy would make remarkably good sense. If the Republicans want a candidate with this quality Lodge is their man.

David Lawrence 'Crossover' Vote To Be Considered

WASHINGTON—It looks as if the "crossover" vote will decide the next presidential election. There are many Republicans who would like Lyndon Johnson to remain as President rather than vote for any other candidate mentioned thus far. Also, there are Democrats who would vote for anyone nominated for President at the Republican convention if Robert Kennedy is the vice presidential nominee on the Democratic ticket. Conversely, many Republicans who wouldn't vote for a Democrat for President under most circumstances would cross over and do so if Attorney General Kennedy is the vice presidential nominee.

THE POLLSTERS can readily find out the trend by phrasing a particular set of questions to bring out the true proportions of the "crossover" vote. Separate queries might be directed only to those citizens who consider themselves Republicans. Here are some of the pertinent questions:
1. As between Scranton and Johnson, how would you vote?
2. As between Lodge and Johnson, how would you vote?
3. As between Rockefeller and Johnson, how would you vote?
4. As between Nixon and Johnson, how would you vote?
5. As between Goldwater and Johnson, how would you vote?
The same Republicans might be asked:
"If Robert Kennedy is the vice presidential nominee, would you vote for the Johnson ticket?"

BUT THE pollsters wouldn't be through at that point, because there would surely be a "crossover" vote from the Democratic ticket. Another question, addressed only to Democrats, would be the following:
"If Robert Kennedy were the vice presidential nominee, would you vote for any Republican nominee or stay at home or vote for the Democratic ticket just the same?"
ON THE REPUBLICAN side, there is obviously at the present time no majority favoring any prospective Republican nominee. The polls as well as the state primary voting thus far indicate that the party is split several ways. The votes for Lodge, for example, have been construed by many observers as not necessarily manifesting any outburst of enthusiasm for the present American ambassador to Viet Nam but rather of dissatisfaction with all the others prominently mentioned for the nomination.

There is, moreover, plenty of evidence that there is an anti-Goldwater sentiment and an anti-Rockefeller attitude. Groups holding these viewpoints seem to prefer Scranton or Nixon or Lodge. Some of the feelings are so deep-rooted that, if the particular individual to whom they object were nominated, it is a safe assumption that a Johnson-Humphrey ticket, for example, would get a very substantial number of such Republicans.

AS A MATTER of fact, many Republicans say frankly that, if the nomination doesn't go to Goldwater—who, they think, articulates a real opposition to the policies of the Kennedy-Johnson administration—they would rather vote for a Johnson-Humphrey ticket or stay at home on election day.
Between now and the Republican national convention in San Francisco in July, the aspirants for the Republican nomination may become more challenging in their speeches of criticism and win votes by the specific points they make. But to date there has been little dent made by the speeches of the Republican candidates, with the exception of Goldwater. He, however, has managed to alienate that segment of the Republican party which has often been termed as "me-too Republicanism."

WHETHER IT IS in the domain of foreign or domestic policies, the Republicans in general have waged a weak campaign. Certainly the potential candidates have not as yet produced that mood among the voters which would indicate a readiness to change administrations no matter which Republican is nominated.

LT Sets Friday Opening For Play

Japanese beetles, crumbling walls and floors, a wealthy relative who repeats his exasperating stories, and a malevolent over-sophisticated nephew—these are a few of the horrendous headaches confronting the Fuller family in the comedy hit "George Washington Slept Here" which is now being rehearsed by the Little Theatre of Big Spring.

Dan Whitman will be seen as the bewildered Newton Fuller who buys an abandoned farmhouse without knowing that even the road leading to their property belongs to a cantankerous neighbor.

Joann Arnold will be playing the shrewd spouse of the naive Mr. Fuller and Jan Bevins will be seen as their daughter who's dazzled by a summer theatre actor's glamour. Chuck Little portrays the bucolic caretaker, Clark Frayser will play the demonic young nephew, and Ron Carr plays Uncle Stanley, who lives on his reputation as the proverbial rich uncle. Others in the cast at present are: Jay Lauer, Sally Carr, John Arnold, Pat Bierly, Ruth Ann Sandidge, Jackie Oswald, Harlan Sandidge, Helen O'Day, Carl Davis, Linda Shaw and Charles Sweeney.

Opening lead: King of ♠
The major disadvantage to learning percentages and the proper handling of card combinations from the books is that the subject cannot properly be separated from the conditions which confront the player in practice. South's experience in today's hand is an excellent case in point.

South decided not to stand for the three no trump contract. He reasoned that, since his values were primarily distributional and inasmuch as North was a passed hand, it was unlikely that the partnership possessed sufficient high card strength to land a no trump game. The final contract of five diamonds, in fact, was a distinct stretch.

West opened the king of spades and the ace was played from dummy as South dropped the jack. Trumps were drawn in two rounds winding up in the North hand and then a small heart was led. East followed with the five—he saw no reason to alert declarer to his holding in the suit by splitting his honors—and South played the nine. West was in with the ten of hearts and he promptly shifted to a club thru the dummy's king. After mopping up two tricks in that suit, East waited to score yet another heart trick putting the declarer down by two.

Altho South's play of the nine of hearts from his hand was technically correct—it was whenever East has the king-ten or queen-ten and loses only when East has specifically the king-queen—he could not reasonably expect his strategy to be successful in the present instance. Even if the nine of hearts forced out a high honor from West, the latter was almost certain to make the club shift thru North's king that would net the defense two more tricks.

In other words, since East's opening bid marks him with the ace of clubs, South must exert every effort to keep his partner out of the lead to protect dummy's club holding from a fatal attack. The only hope for declarer, then, is to find East with both the king and queen of hearts, and the proper play by South is the jack.

Once the jack of hearts wins the trick, declarer continues with the ace and another heart clearing the suit. When he regains the lead, a club can be discarded from dummy on the 13th heart. One club is conceded to the opposition and South's remaining clubs are ruffed away.

Retrial Ordered

Revenue Boys Back Off, Oil Cartoon Withdrawn

WASHINGTON (AP)—No one has ever been known to break out laughing while preparing his income tax, but the Internal Revenue Service likes to pretend things aren't all that dreary.

So this year, that handy but terribly dull pamphlet, "Your and mineral depletion" struck a sour note.

Depicted is a ranch-style house, oil derricks off in the distance, curved swimming pools and girls in bathing suits front and center.

Minor S. Jameson Jr., executive vice president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, wrote Caplin the implication is clear "that the affluent life with private swimming pools is made possible,

But an illustration accompany- ing an explanation of "oil, gas apparently exclusively, by the depletion provisions in the tax laws."

"Propaganda," said Jameson. "We see no justification for you to relate swimming pools and bikinis to oil and gas wells."

Oil country newspapers joined the protest. So did Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

"to add interest and readability to the text," he wrote Jameson, not as "propaganda against the oil and gas depletion provisions."

But the nation's No. 1 tax collector isn't in the kind of job that collects friends. So Caplin also thought it best to advise Jameson that "the illustration which you find objectionable will not be used in the future."

Wednesday that Congress act "to bring order out of the growing chaos" enveloping the Federal Power Commission's efforts to regulate natural gas producers.

Rep. Clark Thompson, D-Tex., said Congress "should lay down the law" and see that the commission abides by it.

The Supreme Court in 1954 ruled that independent producers selling natural gas in interstate commerce were subject to the FPC rate and certificate jurisdiction.

The commission has said its attempts to regulate producers as utilities were unworkable and not practical. It decided to set prices for natural gas on an area pricing method.

A case involving the area known as the Permian Basin in Texas and New Mexico was the first set for hearing three years ago. The case is still in the hands of a commission hearing examiner with a final ruling at least a year away.

Rep. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said he doesn't want to see a basic industry "hamstrung to the point of possible strangulation." He predicted gas shortages and higher prices if the "present regulatory mess is not corrected."

Thompson accused the FPC and other regulatory agencies of "flagrant denial" of tax benefits for industries under their jurisdiction. He said the agencies have created such uncertainty in the business world that their self-created powers are working at cross purposes with natural policies set by Congress.

Other Texans expressing similar views included Reps. Lindley Beckworth, Ed Foreman, George Mahon, O. C. Fisher, Walter Rogers, Bruce Alger and J. J. Pickle.

COAHOMA — The annual parent-son awards program-banquet, held by the Coahoma FFA, has been set for 7:30 p.m. Friday in the elementary school cafeteria. Girls from the homemaking department will serve.

"Parents of FFA members are invited. Chapter reports will be heard, and awards for the year's activities made," he said.

Surplus Food Grows In Foreign Aid Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—Surplus American food is complementing and in some cases replacing the dollar in doing a multitude of jobs for the nation and its friends abroad.

Those jobs include bridge-building, construction of American military and other housing, erection of schools, financing of research, translation of books, payment of American obligations in some countries, building of common defense facilities and many more.

The extent to which this food is being used in place of dollars is outlined in the government's recent report on what is popularly called the Food for Peace program.

Under this program, farm surpluses—many accumulated under government price support operations—are made available to economically weak countries under concessionary terms. In some cases, they are donated to help relieve famine and distress growing out of disasters.

$11 BILLION

Since the program was started in 1954, more than $11.4 billion in farm products have been moved abroad under the program.

In most cases, countries receiving the food pay for it in their own currencies because they do not have the dollars or other currencies readily accepted in foreign exchange.

The nation uses these currencies to finance scores of activities designed to help both this country and the recipients of the food. It can do this without using its own dollars, and thus hold down its balance-of-payments deficits.

Without the food, this country could not have carried on all the activities abroad that it has without running into a very serious foreign exchange problem that might have forced a cheapening of the dollar.

ECONOMIC

Doubtless the most important task financed by U.S. food has been the lending of the foreign currencies it received for the food back to the recipient countries to help them finance economic development. A total of $4.3 billion has been loaned.

The United States expects in time to get this money back—with better customers for its food and industrial products.

This country also has made grants totaling $1.8 billion for economic development. Some projects financed by these loans and grants include rehabilitation of run-down transportation systems, construction of vocational schools, construction of sanitary and water systems, building of bridges and roads.

This country has used $1.7 billion of the foreign currencies to pay its obligations, such as expenses of embassies. This has saved dollars.

INDUSTRIES

It has loaned $179 million to private U.S. concerns to develop new industries in the developing countries. Included have been factories to make soap, pharmaceuticals, flashlights, chemicals, tires and tubes, electronic equipment, fertilizers, steel tubes and pipes and refrigerators.

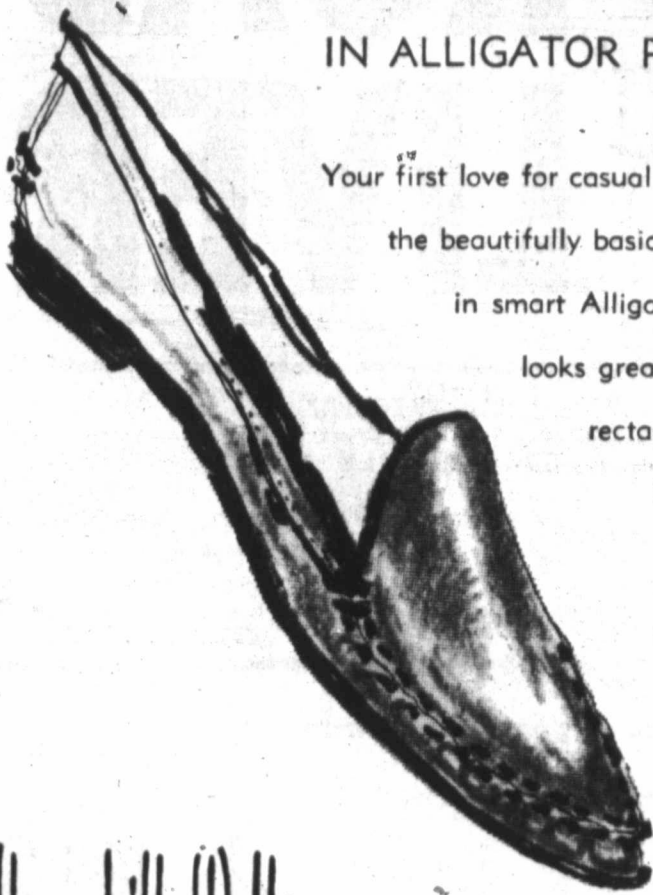

Money from the program has been used to the extent of $79 million to help develop new markets for U.S. farm products by financing trade fairs, research on consumer demands, food-processing schools, cooking demonstrations, merchandising clinics and advertising.

A total of $545 million worth of food has been used to finance common defense facilities in 15 friendly countries. Nearly $94 million has been used to build military housing abroad. A total of $14 million has been used on U.S. information programs, including distribution of periodicals, translation of books, distribution of motion pictures and radio and television programs to tell the American story.

EDUCATION

Nearly $45 million worth of food has been used to finance educational exchange programs which bring foreign students to this country and send American students to other countries. Slightly more than $16 million has been spent on scientific research performed for this coun-
