GEN. MARSHALL'S WIDOW GREETED BY PRESIDENTS Eisenhower, Johnson at library dedicated in Lexington, Va.

LBJ Asks Closer Links In Europe

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — President Johnson, joining former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in honoring the memory of Gen. George C. Marshall, called Saturday for new efforts to forge closer ties with Communist-controlled Eastern Europe.

Johnson and Eisenhower shared a sun-bathed platform at Virginia Military Institute to dedicate the $600,000-Marshall Research Library.

The white stone building houses the papers and mementos of Marshall, the VMI grad who was Army chief of staff in World War II and both secretary of state and secretary of defense in the postwar years.

Activities, reaching a whirlwind tempo, centered around end-of-school functions and parties for departing key personnel at Webb AFB. Actually there is a connection between the two, for the most ranking changes at the base are geared to the end of school when families can most easily be moved.

Presidential Succession Under Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee charged with studying presidential succession laws favors a constitutional amendment to permit the president to fill a vice-presidential vacancy, with approval of the Senate and House.

Four members of the six-man Judiciary subcommittee on Constitutional Amendments announced Saturday their agreement in principle on this means of filling a vice-presidential vacancy such as exists now.

They approved also altering of the Constitution to provide for the President to delegate his powers to the vice president when the chief executive is unable to act, with Congress having the final say on whether the President is incapacitated.

The subcommittee chairman, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., released the report in which he was joined by Sens. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., and Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii. He said the other two members, Sens. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., are studying the proposal accepted by the majority.

The statement said formal action probably will be taken Wednesday "and there are indications it will be approved unanimously."

It was noted that the subcommittee choice is similar to a proposal submitted by the American Bar Association.

A constitutional amendment requires approval by a two-thirds vote in each branch of Congress and ratification by three-fourths of the states.

The question of presidential disability is regarded by many as a much trickier problem than the matter of presidential succession and here is the three-way procedure by which the subcommittee would deal with this:

1. Whenever the President declares in writing he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the vice president would become acting president until the President resumed his duties.

2. If the President did not make known his inability, the vice president, with the concurrence of a majority of the Cabinet, could declare the President disabled and assume the powers and duties — but not the office — of President.

3. If the President disputed the action of the vice president and the Cabinet majority, the Congress would decide the issue. It would take a two-thirds vote of both houses to enable the vice president to continue as acting President. Otherwise, the President would resume the powers and duties of the office.

Only a majority of the Senate and House would be needed to elect a vice president selected by the President.

Ex-Envoy Morrison Killed In Air Crash

CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico (AP) — Former New Orleans mayor and U.S. diplomat deLesseps S. Morrison, his young son and five other persons were killed instantly when their chartered two engine plane crashed in dense fog Friday.

The bodies were picked up in a mountain cornfield Saturday by a rescue squad sent to the scene 27 miles from Ciudad Victoria after a Mexican official flying overhead identified the wrecked plane.

A spokesman said the bodies were taken to the civil hospital in Ciudad Victoria. He said the bodies were mangled and unrecognizable.

Teacher Discontent Grows Louder

WASHINGTON (AP) — The matter of teacher discontent is growing louder in the land. Utah teachers struck for two days, and are threatening to boycott the classrooms again next fall.

Teachers in East St. Louis, Ill., struck for four days until the school board met their salary demands.

Teachers in Jersey City, N.J., walked out for one day earlier this year, just as teachers in Gary, Ind., did last year. New York teachers called a one-day strike in 1961, and again in 1962.

Teachers in South Bend, Ind., voted against a strike, 555-379, but the issues there are far from settled.

Political Motive Hinted For French Kidnaping

PARIS (AP) — A series of telephone calls Saturday night indicated the kidnapers of Mrs. Marcel Dassault had political motives or that foes of President Charles de Gaulle were trying to exploit the kidnaping for political purposes.

Police threw all their resources into a hunt for the three men — two gunmen and a driver — who carried out the pre-dawn abduction of Mrs. Dassault, 63, the wife of a millionaire French nuclear warplane builder.

Anonymous callers contacted two Paris evening papers and the French Press Agency, in each case purporting to speak for the kidnapers.

In the first case the caller told Le Monde the kidnapers wanted a ransom of $2 million. Then France-Soir was notified that Mrs. Dassault would be freed in 70 hours if ex-Gen. Raoul Salan were released. Salan is serving a life term for leading the anti-Gaullist terrorist Secret Army Organization in Algeria.

A similar call to the French Press Agency said the secret army had levied a $2-million penalty against Dassault for "high treason."

Also aboard the plane in addition to Morrison, a 52-year-old widower, and his 7-year-old son Randy, was socialite divorcee Mrs. Carolyn Cataldo Vandergrift, and her 7-year-old son Christopher.

Others were pilot Hugh Ward of Brownsville, Tex., Ovide J. Cemac, a Houma, La., businessman, and Riley Pellegrin of Montegut, La., an employee of a towing firm owned by Cemac.

Mrs. Vandergrift, 35, originally from Martinsville, W. Va., was married to Charleston,

Voters Endorse Bond Proposal

Big Spring Independent School District voters in record numbers Saturday gave a proposed $5,500,000 Master Plan for school improvements and expansion a strong 3-2 margin of approval.

The vote was 1,674 for and 1,021 against.

Two boxes in Big Spring provided the substantial majority while the Gay Hill box, in an area added by annexation, the margin was 6-1 against.

Total vote was in excess of 2,600, easily a record for a school or municipal election. Sixty-one per cent of the voters favored the bonds.

The heavy end of voting was at Big Spring High School where Lawrence Robinson, judge, said there was a steady stream of voters all day.

TALBOT PLEASSED Harold Talbot, president of the Big Spring school board and an alumnus of the system, expressed gratitude for the affirmative vote.

"I feel — and I know the board feels — a deep sense of satisfaction that the people have indicated their desire for better education for our children. It would be impossible to name all those who studied the proposed program and then were willing to help spread the information."

"Your school board is going to do its best to see that the children of this district have the best educational opportunity possible. In making this our consuming aim, we hope to be able to say thanks to the Citizens Committee for Education and all others in the district for their support and interest."

Never before had voters of the district approved as much as $1,000,000 for school improvements at one time, although they came close on March 7, 1959 when they overwhelmingly endorsed a $650,000 issue for construction of the present high school plant. Subsequently the facility was increased. The next largest single unit was the Goidard Junior high erected and equipped for $875,000.

Sam Anderson, superintendent of schools, was pleased at the approval of the bonds.

"This is a big boost for Big Spring in more ways than one," he observed. "I'm grateful for the people who were interested enough to learn all about the proposal, and then who were willing to speak up and work for it. The school board can now proceed in an orderly manner according to the Master Plan to provide facilities which will help in giving educational opportunity for our children in keeping with the demand of the times."

There was some loss of votes, due to improper marking, double scratching, and particularly among the absentees where numerous ballots were voided due to lack of proper application form, or sealing the form with the ballot itself.

U Thant Asks More Troops UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant was reported Saturday to be planning to ask the Security Council to double the life of the U.N. peacekeeping force in Cyprus.

The council set up the force for a three-month period that ends June 27.

Diplomatic sources said Thant intends to recommend by June 8 that the council keep it going for still another three months so as to allow more time for carrying out U.N. objectives for Cyprus.

He said he so informed countries in the operation Friday, and asked if they would continue to participate.

Thant had a private meeting with delegates from the nine countries — Britain, Canada, Denmark, Finland, Ireland, Sweden, Australia, Austria and New Zealand.

He was said to have told them he had an optimistic report on Cyprus from his special representative there, Galo Plaza Laso, who passed through New York this week on a short trip home to Ecuador.

Thant said Plaza told him some fortifications had already been dismantled in Cyprus and all the roads were clear, except one through the Krenia Pass. Dismantling of fortifications and freedom of communication were among specific objectives laid down in Thant's April 29 action program, which he sent Plaza to negotiate on.

150 DAYS Without A Traffic Death Drive Carefully!

When sanctions are invoked, as they have been in the Utah case, no strike is called during the school year but teachers refuse to sign new contracts, and other teachers are urged by the NEA not to take jobs in the school districts involved until the dispute is settled.

When the Utah teachers stayed out of the classroom May 18 and 19 they called it a "recess," and said they would make up the time later.

The official policy of the National School Boards Association is that there shall be "free channels of communication" between teachers and school boards, but with this kicker: "School boards shall refrain from compromise agreement based on negotiation or collective bargaining, and shall not resort to mediation or arbitration."

This does not sit well with either the NEA or the AFT. Both organizations maintain the teachers must have some voice in the determination of their salaries and working conditions. Without this voice, they claim, teachers are reduced to second-class citizenship.

The AFT believes in collective bargaining, as in industrial labor-management disputes, with the teacher strike as the ultimate weapon.

SANCTIONS The NEA believes in "professional negotiations" with sanctions as the ultimate weapon.

SALARIES ONLY ONE OF DEMANDS

Teacher Discontent Grows Louder

Ky., where teachers say the community is not supporting the schools as it should.

Idaho teachers are keeping a close eye on developments in Utah, and they, too, may decide on a boycott.

All across the nation there is a growing demand by teachers for greater recognition and a more effective voice in school affairs.

Salaries are the big issue, but not the only one. Some teachers air their local grievances through the state and local affiliates of their professional organization, the 902,000-member National Education Association.

In 12 contested elections to determine teacher representation, dating back to January, 1963, the NEA affiliates won nine, the union three.

Furthermore, NEA affiliates have reached negotiating agreements in nearly 250 school districts where there was no contest with the AFT.

The teacher union, on the other hand, has picked off the two biggest plums — New York City and Detroit — and it gave the NEA a run for its money in Milwaukee, Wis., where the teachers picked the NEA unit by a vote of 2,249-1,645.

Trying hard to stand fast against the surge of teacher demands are the nation's school boards, the managing directors of American public education.

Educators Explore Lost Time Problem

Loss of school time, by faculty members and students, in Texas has reached a staggering figure, according to a survey made by three state associations. The survey, covering the 1961-62 school year, showed teachers and administrators had lost 17,918 days and students lost 216,494 days.

The report is from a joint committee of three each from Texas Association of School Administrators, Texas Association of School Boards, and Texas State Teachers Association, with two representatives of the Texas Education Agency serving as consultants.

Supt. Sam Anderson, president of the Texas Association of School Administrators, appeared on the list as an ex-officio member.

Charts were prepared showing the loss, in each of the University Interscholastic League classes, from "B" through "4A." No individual school was shown, but each class was given as a whole, by totaling all figures.

BIG SPRING BRACKET
In class 4A (Big Spring is 4A), Texas has 114 schools. Fifty-one of these reported. The average daily student membership of the reporting schools was 657,686. These reported 4,945 days lost by pupils. This averaged 97 days lost by staff members and 1,568 days by students per school.

A second chart showed staff and pupil loss of time because of athletics, academic, music, vocational, and other activities.

Four - A schools reporting showed: Time lost for athletics—staff 1,927, pupils 27,705; academic—staff 692, pupils 5,893; music—staff 862, pupils 11,984; vocational—staff 639, pupils 4,145; other—staff 825, pupils 20,151. This totaled: staff 4,945 and pupils 79,968.

CURBS SUGGESTED

The committee, in proposing regulations of travel and lost time, suggested five ways. These were: 1. Officially adopt a school year calendar of meetings and trips involving students and staff, and require considerable advance notice before approving additions; 2. Base approval of meetings or trips on educational aims of the school system, and give priority to well-run, well-established programs and organizations similar to UIL, and expand intra-school rather than inter-school projects; 3. require staff members to file a plan before each trip or meeting, including itinerary with times of leaving and returning, itemized estimate of actual expenses, cost of substitutes' salaries, other hidden costs, and an outline of how pupils will make up work; 4. ask for formal or informal reports on each trip or meeting; 5. publicize the loss-of-school-time problems, and gain support of the community for finally approved policies.

The committee, seeing that the loss of time problem can soon get out of hand for schools, since the numbers of pupils, teachers, activities, and organizations are increasing at a steady pace, said:

OTHER COSTS
"We should remember also that there's more to the problem than just the lost days from the classroom with a resultant loss of efficiency. There's the cost of travel and the cost of substitute teachers."

"Examples of seeming abuses that need close study and possible correction include an excessive number of athletic contests (particularly basketball), scheduling of teachers' and administrators' meetings and conventions on school time, a lax policy on excused absences, and overnight senior trips."

"All in all the problem is serious enough for school authorities, professional association officers, and pupil activity leaders to establish guidelines leading to more uniformity, consistency, and control of lost time. Such guidelines will protect the real purpose and aim of the public school," the group concluded.

Sixteen ABC Members Are Test Drivers

Sixteen members of the American Business Club turned over their chairs at their Friday luncheon at the Settles Hotel and learned they had won the right to serve as "test drivers" for the Ford division of the Ford Motor Company.

Notification of their appointments had been attached to the bottom of their chairs before they entered the dining hall. The favored 16 were handed the keys to new 1964 Ford cars by George C. Beck, general field manager for Ford division's Dallas district, who said there were no restrictions as to where the cars could be driven so long as they were returned to Shasta Ford Sales, local headquarters for Ford sales here, by Monday, June 1.

Beck asked the 16 men to judge for themselves what performance means in today's automobiles.

"We think," the Ford executive said, "that performance in a car means different things to different people. To some people, performance is acceleration; to others, it is quietness and smoothness of the ride; to still others it is economy of cost of operation; to many, it is styling."

"We decided to put our cars to the test, before the public, in events operated by agencies and organizations accepted by the public, and let them draw their own conclusions."

John Fort and Bob Brock, both members of the Shasta concern here, were other guests of the club, along with a member of the Dallas district Ford office, Pat Reynolds.

ABC members were reminded that installation ceremonies for new club officers will take place at the Big Spring Country Club at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Those attending will be served dinner.

The team captained by Alvis Harry was declared winner of the attendance contest staged within the club and will be rewarded with a party in the near future, it was announced. Arthur T. Clonts was introduced as a new member. Charley Staggs was re-instated as a member.

Police identified the victims as Edna Wilson, 20; John Taylor, 28, and Larry Johnson, 26, all stationed at Alameda Naval Air Station.

Joins Webb's OIS Staff

Clovis von T. Crummett, a recent Army Signal Corps retiree, has joined the staff of Webb AFB Information Office, as assistant information officer, news writer and historian.

Mr. Crummett makes his home in Big Spring at 1723 Purdue. He is joined here by his wife, Marjorie, and son, Mark, 9. Another son, Lance, is in Army ordnance, now on Exercise Desert Strike in California. A daughter, Melodie, 19, is attending San Antonio College.

Crummett's varied background includes photography and magazine and motion picture scenario writing. Much of his military career was devoted to these specialties. During WWII, he commanded a combat motion picture unit that saw service in Europe and the Philippines. A recent assignment in Korea as Commanding Officer of the Army's radio and television network, rounded out his career in information services.

He retired as a major at headquarters of the 4th Army in San Antonio in 1962.

A native of Boston, Mass., Crummett and his family have called many places "home." These temporary quarters were located in Japan, Germany and in nearly half of the United States.

Schools Schedule Closing Events

School is out in Big Spring—almost. Doors will close at 1 p.m. Friday if all teachers have their reports in, Sebron Williams, assistant superintendent, said Friday.

For elementary schools, final classes will be held Wednesday with report cards going to the youngsters at 3 p.m. Buses for elementary children will run for the last time at 3 p.m. Wednesday. All cafeterias will close after serving the noon meal Wednesday.

Secondary school students will be in school from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Friday, and buses from the high school and both junior highs will make their final runs at 10:30 a.m.

Secondary school examinations will be given until 3 p.m. daily. Buses will leave at this earlier time on examination days.

Teachers will complete their home work on May 28-29, with all records completed, books checked in, registers in, and ready to close their doors at 1 p.m. Friday.

Senior high subjects to be offered, for make-up only, will be: English, 9 through 12; American history, world history, government, general math, algebra I and II, typing, and two hours daily of band. If enough students (20 or more) request additional subjects they will be considered. Classes will run from 8 to 12 a.m.

Tuition, payable at time of registration, will be $30 for reading instruction in each grade; $15 for each junior high subject; $15 for each half credit; $8 for band. One credit is the maximum make-up that may be earned during the summer.

Weather Lectures

Capt. Hal W. Brown of Webb Air Force Base will begin a five-week series of lectures on the weather Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce office. Any applications for the CAP may also be turned in at the lecture.

VISIBLE CHURCH

The common conception is that the Lord's undenominational church is invisible; that to be visible church must be a denomination.

In the days of the Apostles, when there were no denominations, the Lord's church existed in congregations with geographic location. They assembled together, sent out evangelists, and in general carried out an efficient program of church work. See Acts 11:26; 13:1-3; 14:23; 14:26, 27.

Thus, we have proof that the church can exist and function effectively, without denominational machinery.

Reading Workshop Offered At H-SU

ABILENE — A dozen specialists in education, medicine and rehabilitation will help conduct a "Workshop in Reading" for elementary teachers during a three-week course in summer school at Hardin - Simmons University. The clinic will be held from June 3 to June 19.

The special reading workshop is being co-sponsored by H-SU and the West Texas Rehabilitation Center. Classes will be held from 9 a.m. to noon daily. All phases of reading will be discussed, although the workshop will focus on the phonetic approach to teaching reading in the primary and other elementary grades. Phonetic analysis plus new ways to teach children phonetic elements and their application will be stressed. Mrs. Marguerite Holley, outstanding elementary teacher and reading consultant from Garland, will conduct the workshop. She will be assisted by Mrs. Earline Schoenfeld, also a successful elementary teacher and reading consultant, from Cleburne, and Dr. Lucius Waites of the Children's Medical Center, Dallas.

Added Protection May Lower Rates

Expansion of the Big Spring Fire Department should result in a lower key rate, according to Fire Marshal A. D. Meador. "The rate will be lowered, but we do not know how much," he said.

The Big Spring fire official said the key rate is determined by a number of factors including the number and size of fire mains, number of apparatuses, length of hose, number of firemen, etc. It is set by the state fire insurance board, which will notify the city if the rate will be changed.

STATE TO CHECK

City Manager Larry Crow said Fire Chief H. V. Crocker has notified the state board of recent improvements in the fire department. During the past three months, fire department personnel strength has increased from 38 to 53 men, or 40 per cent. Apparatuses have increased from eight to 10 trucks, and the number of stations has increased from four to six.

The change should affect holders of fire insurance policies throughout the city, according to Meador. The present rate is 22 cents per $100 of insurance. The rate for each city in the state begins at $1 per $100 insurance, but is scaled down as conditions and equipment warrant.

ALSO CREDIT

This means the City of Big Spring has received reductions of 78 cents per dollar by providing fire-fighting protection. The state fire insurance board also determines the credit or debit rate, which is based on the amount of average fire loss over a five-year period.

At present, the city has a credit of five per cent. The maximum credit that can be obtained is 25 per cent, and the most penalty debit handed out by the board is minus 15 per cent. With a five per cent credit, Big Spring policy holders pay only 95 per cent of the total premium. The key rate determines what the premiums will be.

"We are hoping the key rate will be reduced to 18 cents," Meador said.

Forty Years Can Be Hard On N's And Old Timers

Forty years can bring about a lot of changes in the personnel and population of a West Texas town.

A copy of the 1924-1925 Southwestern Bell Telephone Company directory for Big Spring offers convincing proof.

R. L. (Poncho) Nall, who has been here since 1906 and has been a close observer of trends and changes, summed it up concisely:

"I have read through the entire list of names in the directory beginning with the letter 'N' and every person listed is now dead," he said.

The badly faded and stained directory turned up last week in the bottom of an old packing case, long forgotten, in the rear of the C. R. Anthony Store. C. R. Grigsby, manager of the store, turned the old book over to Nall, knowing his interest in such things.

There are slightly over 815 listings in the 19 page book. Town numbers comprised listings of two and three digits. Rural numbers, listed with the others in one group, were prefixed by the numerals 900 and the letter F.

The directory, as used to be the custom, features advertisements on each page. One has a familiar ring. It was inserted by the Stokes Motor Co. "I'll start you in the purchase of a Ford car," the advertisement declares.

Methodists' Merger OK'd

HOUSTON (AP) — Delegates to the Texas Annual Conference of the Central Jurisdiction (Negro) have voted to join the all-white South Central Jurisdiction of the Methodist Church.

This was the first step in a possible merger of the two church groups. The next move is up to the all-white conference to accept or reject the proposal.

The Rev. Robert Hayes, superintendent of the jurisdiction's Houston District, said 110 of 119 voting delegates favored the transfer request.

The Texas Conference, covering half the state, includes 115 Negro churches with more than 20,000 members.

A resolution passed at the recent Methodist General Conference in Pittsburgh urged abolishment of segregated conferences by transfer of the Central into white jurisdictions.

Central includes all of the denomination's 375,000 Negro members in the country, divided into 17 conferences. Two white jurisdictions, North Eastern and North Central, already have initiated transfers by area Negro conferences.

Formulas For Story Telling Are Outlined

BASIC STORY TECHNIQUES, by Helen Reagan Smith, University of Oklahoma Press, $5.95.

Here is a handy book for those who not only want to write but to write for the markets. There is no wine quite so heady to the writer as knowing that his creations have enough merit for publication.

"Basic Story Techniques" is a formulation of some of the skills developed in the remarkable course in professional writing at Oklahoma University. Foster-Harris and Walter S. Campbell (Stanley Vestal) established a writing program at OU, and since then OU products have dominated the professional writing field. Mrs. Smith's book seeks to present some of the tricks of the trade, but she emphasizes that after all it is constant writing and re-writing that makes a writer into a pro.

She explains basic needs of a writer, how to aim for the heart and to develop perception. She shows how to present the story, to keep it moving forward, to make maximum use of scenes, devices, gimmicks, flashbacks, etc. Each section is illustrated by stories created by former OU students, and the collection of short stories makes the book delightful quite apart from its instructive qualities.

If chapters on the beginning, middle and end seem elemental as topics, Mrs. Smith makes out a good case for the exacting skill required to compound them convincingly and smoothly. Her final chapter discusses growth of ability, and this gets back to the thing she stresses over and over—you must write, revise, rewrite and be brutally frank in appraisal of your own stuff. Those willing to pay this exacting price will find her book immensely helpful.

Helen Reagan Smith Authors Book To Develop Writers

Recently, a magazine had six stories in a single issue by writers who had been trained at the University of Oklahoma.

Products of the courses in professional writing at OU seldom hit such a jackpot, but they do dominate the field of professional writing. No university in the country approaches the OU record in starting writers on the road to professional success.

Mrs. Tracy T. Smith, the former Helen Reagan of Big Spring, wanted to show others what was being done, and the result of her effort is her new book, "Basic Story Techniques."

CLASS GROWS

When she joined the School of Journalism staff several years ago as a special instructor, Helen Reagan Smith took over the students aspiring to develop the professional touch by correspondence. There were only 10 of them, but today there are more than 300. In addition, over 1,000 call up occasionally for conferences or special services. She travels from New York to California holding writers' workshops or addressing writers' groups. This semester she has been in four states in addition to conducting extension classes for OU in Oklahoma City, Fort Sill, Norman and Muskogee.

Once a month she gets to Dallas in her native Texas where she conducts a writing course that attracts commuting students from such points as Shreveport, La., Gainesville and Wichita Falls. A writing contest sponsored by the Dallas Times-Herald was won the past two years by her students.

INTERESTING STUDENTS

Her correspondence class is a delight, for it attracts students of all types and classes. Gov. Henry Bellmon, who will address the concluding session of the 26th annual Short Course on Professional Writing next month at OU, is one of her students. Of course, he is inactive due to his duties, but he expects to complete all the correspondence courses later. Another student is Walter Nashert (his company is building a $2,000,000 elliptical-shaped building for Oklahoma State Fair Park), who recently was thrilled at sale of his first story to Boys' Life. She also has as students generals, colonels, Navy commanders, PhDs in English, and even a Negro prisoner in Leavenworth.

HELEN REAGAN SMITH ... tells how it's done

Her work is a rewarding experience, not so much from observing the development of a clumsy grammarian into a writer with a sense of order and purpose as in seeing character growth in the writer himself.

INTROSPECTION

One of her students, after a searing experience of introspection, noted that "to be a writer one needs to look at all this subterranean garbage with unflinching honesty; and it hurts." Another, after doing some emotional writing exercises, confessed, "I didn't know I was such a louse." Paralleling character growth, in Mrs. Smith's estimation, is clarification of faith. One of the philosophies of her new book is that main characters, forced into a corner, must show courage to do right in the face of overwhelming desires.

Despite a busy teaching, consultation, lecturing and travel schedule, Mrs. Smith somehow finds time to write. Her articles have appeared under various names—Helen Reagan, Len Reagan, Helen Reagan Smith, H. Reagan Smith, and H. R. Smith. She has sold to all types of publications from men's and women's to confession, general and religious magazines. What she considered one of her best stories was never published, a piece on making greater use of creative talent among children in the first three grades. Her Western skills have earned her a place as a judge in the Cowboy Hall of Fame at Oklahoma City as well as for numerous writer clubs.

WROTE HERE
Long before she left Big Spring a decade ago, Mrs. Smith was writing, one of her works being "If My People," a religious treatise. Among her earliest research and writing efforts was a history of the First Baptist Church.

With the exception of a couple of years in San Marcos, Helen Smith went through school here. Subsequently she attended Baylor University. She was married to Tracy T. Smith, attorney, and after the children reached school age, she returned to Baylor to complete her degree work and to do graduate study in drama. Always she has had a burning desire to write—and to teach. In her latest effort she has succeeded admirably in both.

Air Rescue First Unit To Exceed Its Bond Goal

Detachment 18 of Western Air Rescue Center, Webb Air Force Base, exceeded the first unit to go over the 100 per cent mark in the month-long U.S. Savings Bond drive currently being held at Webb.

Two other units were over 90 per cent subscribed with new bond buyers. The 3561st Pilot Training Wing had 98 per cent and Supply Squadron had 95.1 per cent.

Other units scoring well at the three-quarter mark of the drive were the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron with 86 per cent; 420A Field Training with 75 per cent; and Support Squadron with 44.1 per cent.

The bond drive, an annual affair, began at Webb AFB on May 1 and will continue until May 31. The drive's main purpose is to encourage individuals to take out savings bonds for the first time or to increase the amount of bonds already purchased.

This year's drive is called "Operation Security" by the U.S. Treasury Department. Capt. Margaret J. Wyatt is the bond project officer.

Sgt. Fudge Is Base Nominee

T. Sgt. Patrick W. Fudge of the Base Hospital has been selected to represent Webb Air Force Base in the Air Force Association Outstanding Airman of the Year program at Air Training Command Headquarters, Randolph Air Force Base.

He will vie with other command nominees to represent ATC and the AFA's annual convention scheduled this year in Washington, D. C., from Sept. 9-12.

Sgt. Fudge is the NCOIC of Flight Medicine Section.

Runner-up nominees for the base title included S.M. Sgt. Herbert L. Smith, Support; S. Sgt. Deigo Garcia, student squadron; and S. Sgt. John E. White, organizational maintenance squadron.

The base airman of the year has nine and a half years of Air Force service. He came on active duty in September 1954. After basic training at Parks AFB, Calif., he was assigned as a hospital management clerk, officers record clerk and aeromedical specialist at the Walker AFB, N. M., hospital.

In October 1958 he was assigned to F. E. Warren AFB, Wyo., as NCOIC of the flight surgeon's office. Fourteen months later Sgt. Fudge was overseas with the base hospital at RAF Bruntingthorpe, England.

He returned to the United States in May 1962 and was assigned to Webb Air Force Base.

Since then he has attended and was graduated from the AFSC NCO Academy at Kirtland AFB, N. M., where he was the top academic graduate. He also attended a two-month aeromedical technician course at the School of Aviation Medicine, Brooks AFB and again he was the honor student in his class when he graduated Thursday.

While at Webb, he also completed the Civil Defense manager instructor course offered by Texas A&M and attained the highest score on the final examination.

Sgt. Fudge, as Buddy Care instructor trainer and program monitor, contributed in bringing the base from practically zero per cent trained to 50 per cent trained in less than two years, his associates noted.

He has been awarded the Air Force Outstanding Unit award ribbon, the Good Conduct Medal with two bronze loops, Air Force Good Conduct Medal, NCO Academy Ribbon and the Air Force Longevity Award with one oak leaf cluster.

Sgt. Fudge is 27 years old and is a native of El Segundo, Calif. He is a 1954 graduate of El Segundo High School. He is married to the former Elda L. Coirs of Deshler, Ohio.

Controversial Principal Re-Hired For Next Year

HOUSTON (AP) — Gerald Jones has been reappointed principal of Anderson elementary school for another year despite protests by a parents group that he is "unsympathetic and antagonistic" to some students and parents.

The School Board, in renewing Jones' contract last week, instructed the administration to consult with Jones to correct any "difficulties" at the school. Mr. and Mrs. David Leach were spokesmen for what they became so emotionally upset that they were unable to learn. On the other side, one father said Jones' program called for "regimentation" but that this was necessary with 1,600 pupils.

Moisture Badly Needed In State's Parched Acreage

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—There is a lot of dry farm and ranch land in Texas. Scattered showers, and some heavy rains, have failed to relieve the drought in West and Northwest Texas and the need is growing for moisture in the rest of the state, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Only North Central Texas generally had adequate moisture. Other areas in the North and East Texas reported moisture adequate to short, the director added. Generally, crops made fair to good progress and most have been cleaned of weeds and grass. General rains are needed to insure their progress and to provide moisture for ranges.

Scattered showers over the Panhandle failed to relieve the very short moisture situation. Cattle are being turned into some wheat fields. Some grain sorghum has been planted.

STILL DRY

Good rains fell over sections of the South Plains but most counties are still dry. Some irrigated cotton is lost and replanting has started. About 30 per cent of the cotton has been planted, practically all of it irrigated. An estimated 40 per cent of the grain sorghum has been planted and most fields are up. Ranges need rain.

Moisture was adequate in only six of the 22 counties in the Rolling Plains District. In a few counties large acreages of wheat were being grazed out or baled due to low yields. The wheat harvest has started. Two counties report some cattle were being sold due to the lack of grazing forage.

Moisture is adequate in most of North Central Texas. Wheat was maturing fast and prospects were good. Oat yields are not expected to be as good as wheat and some fields are being baled. Ranges are in excellent condition.

Moisture in the northern counties of Northeast Texas is adequate but short to very short in the southern counties. Heavy peach shedding was reported. Insects and dry soil will cut the vegetable crop. The livestock insect problem is increasing and a short hay crop is likely.

Far West Texas is dry, hot and windy. Heavy livestock feeding is needed in some areas. Irrigated crops are good but dryland crops have not been planted. Grains are ripening and good alfalfa yields are reported. Moisture is adequate in counties around Fredericksburg but very dry in the San Angelo area of West Central Texas. The grain harvest has started with yields good. Light yield oats are being baled. And cotton and sorghum planting is on. Early fields of both crops are being cultivated. Livestock are in good condition but ranges vary from good in the southeast to poor in the northwest.

Moisture was generally short in Central Texas but that in some spots it was adequate. Corn and sorghum look good but rain would help. Grains are maturing fast. Some oats are being baled.

ABOVE AVERAGE

Moisture in East Texas ranges from short to adequate. Ranges are above average.

The western half of the upper Gulf Coast and Southeast Texas District needs rain. Corn and sorghum are showing effects of the drought most. Cool season grasses and clovers are fading out and native pastures need rain.

The moisture shortage in South Central Texas is critical for ranges, corn and sorghum. Much hay is already in the barn and cotton and peanuts are growing. Thrift indications are heavy on cotton. Cattle prices are of great concern and livestock producers are checking for screwworms.

Moisture in South Texas, except in the western Winter Garden area, is very short and the dry weather is affecting sorghum yields. Cotton is making good progress. Fleahoppers are decreasing.

J&K Shoe Store Notes 23rd Birthday

This week J & K Shoe Store is observing the 23rd anniversary of its establishment, making it among the veteran mercantile establishments of the city.

Actually the business was created 10 years earlier when E. B. Kimberlin came to Big Spring from Oklahoma, following a short stay in San Angelo, to open the store here under his own name.

In 1941 he was joined by C. C. (Choc) Jones, Pecos, and the business became known as J&K Shoe Store. The location in the 200 block of Runnels became the home and has remained so since that time.

Since its inception, the store has continued to be wholly devoted to shoe sales, thus offering the widest possible variety in styles as well as in price range.

After more than three decades in shoe merchandising, Jones retired a year ago, and since then the store has been managed by J. B. Williams, one of the veteran members of the staff.

THIS SORT OF LOCOMOTIVE BROUGHT TOWN TO LIFE
Big Spring birthday stems from arrival of first T&P train

City Reaching 83rd Birthday

By SAM BLACKBURN

Thursday is Big Spring's 83rd birthday. On May 28, 1881, the first regular train service on the brand new Texas and Pacific Railway began and with that activity, the town of Big Springs (it had an s then) was assured.

Big Spring's father was the Texas and Pacific Railway, its mother a part of the limitless expanses of virgin prairie which spread over West Texas.

The factor directly responsible for the establishment of a town here was the "big spring", long known to Indians and early day drifters. In those days, it flowed a river of precious, pure water out of a rocky ledge just a rifle shot from the shiny new rails of the T&P.

EARLIER TRAIN

Even before the momentous day that all important first train rumbled to a stop in front of the makeshift depot, the basic materials for the making of a town were already here.

Several months previously the railroad construction gangs had pulled in. Their tents, grub shacks and the inevitable tent saloons which marked the march of the railroad across the nation sprawled along the right of way. A few of the earlier arrivals, also here in connection with the building of the railroad, but a little more choosy in regard to their neighbors, put up their tents and temporary shelters around the big spring.

BONUS ATTRACTION

By December 1874, the railroad had built to Eagle Ford about seven miles west of Dallas. It took it two more years to reach Fort Worth. Congress, in December, 1878, passed a law which permitted the secretary of the Treasury to endorse bonds to the amount of $30,000 for each mile of rails laid by the line. The State of Texas offered 16 sections of state land as a bonus for each mile of railway completed.

Texas and Pacific Railway was ultimately awarded 5,167, 360 acres of Texas land. This empire had an estimated value of $1 per acre.

Fascination Of Early Trainmen

There must have been kids around that historic day 83 years ago when the first T&P train pulled into what is now the city of Big Spring.

And if there were boys (and there always are) on hand (when the first train arrived, their hero of the whole historic occasion was a man whose name has been long lost in the maze of time—the engineer on the locomotive, although conductors ran the train.

Probably he was a man past middle age. Doubtless he wore faded blue overalls and a cloth cap with a long bill. His hands were covered with cotton gloves with gauntlets. Likely he had a big moustache—the symbol of manhood in those days.

IN SPLENDOR

Sitting in regal splendor in his cab, he probably yanked the whistle cord two or three times to warn the eager observers to clear the way. And when he had brought his engine to a stop, he may have released a cloud of white steam just to add a flourish to the scene.

The railway builders awarded a contract in Jan. 1880 to push the railroad 615 miles west to El Paso.

It was this leg of the operation which brought the construction crews of Irish paddies and Chinese coolies, saloon keepers, the camp followers and the handful of engineers and bookkeepers here on May 28, 1881.

The train which was hailed with loud shouts by the bearded men on the siding on that late spring day nearly a century ago was not the first train, in reality, to be seen here. As early as March 16, 1881, work trains were shuffling along the rails. However, the real celebration came and the actual establishment of the town dated from the time the first regularly scheduled train made its debut.

ADVANCE CREW

One of the earliest of the railroad builders to show up in what is now Big Spring was L. F. McKay. McKay was sent on ahead of the construction gang with orders to assemble a pump at the big spring to supply the railroad workers with water and, later, the locomotives with the same precious commodity. In January 1881, he established a camp at the spring and was impressed by the abundance of buffalo bones which surrounded the water hole. He also saw plenty of signs of early Indian encampments and buffalo hunters.

He and his crew built two towering cypress tanks, hauling in material and machinery by wagons from the rail head, at first from Baird and later from Sweetwater. He also laid a four-inch water line from his tanks to the railroad right of way.

The first train brought regular rail service east to Dallas and opened up a country which had been open range prior to that date.

SHANTIES

In 1883, old timers recall there were shanties along the right of way and that tents still were in high popularity as residences. Building material was scarce.

along at the breathtaking pace of 30 miles an hour.

The roadbed was poor, the "steel" rails were not steel at all—they were iron with a 3/4 inch of steel strip on top. The rails broke frequently and wrecks were common.

HIGHLY PAID

For his day, a locomotive engineer was a highly paid workman.

He was compensated on the basis of miles he travelled. The scale was from $3.90 to $4 for each 100 miles he sat in his cab. There were no restrictions on how many hours he might work. There are instances where an engineer stayed on the job for as much as 80 hours in a single week.

So in a day when $1 a day was high pay for a laboring man, the railroad engineer and his family lived reasonably well. Firemen were paid at the rate of $1.90 to $3.20 for each 100 miles and he, too, was unhampered by (or unprotected from) restricted working time.

The fireman earned his pay for locomotives were greedy eaters of wood (later coal), and it was the fireman's job to get the maximum steam pressure out of each cord of wood. Even at that the tenders were never big enough to stock fuel for the full run. Ricks of wood were stacked at convenient places all along the road and stops at the handy piles were frequent.

J. F. Wolcott, one of the early arrivals, once recalled that the first permanent house (built of timber, that is to say) was a small building at what is now 109 Scurry. In 1933, this early day structure had been incorporated into the residence which then occupied the site. The site is now occupied by the Coden Building.

Things were rugged in every way in the early days. Life was difficult. Drouths and dust storms which still harass residents were here then, and the flimsy shelters were much more vulnerable than today's modern houses. When it rained, the twisting streets were loblollies and even wagons bogged down. They did this in sandbeds for that matter.

RUGGED LIFE

In 1883, a chief pastime must have been drinking because the village, although short on many other business establishments, counted 13 busy saloons. Mr. Wolcott said that there were nine murders in 1883.

A check of the old court records, which are anything but complete, reflects the truth of his report. Homicides cited in the records almost inevitably assert that the violence occurred in a saloon.

The railroad was the dynamo which kept life in the struggling settlement. It brought in new settlers. It stocked the stores and it offered a way to the distant markets for the cattle the area was producing. It hastened an end to the long, wearisome cattle drives which had been the cattlemen's only method of selling the cattle crop.

It led to the steady growth of the town, the disappearance of the tents and the replacement of the shanties tarpaper shacks with more stately and permanent structures. The streets assumed more regular design.

BUSINESSES

The first bank—the First National—opened in 1890. The Masonic fraternity set up its Staked Plains Lodge No. 598 Dec. 12, 1884. The first newspaper, the Pantagraph, appeared Feb. 10, 1883. The First Christian Church came into being in 1882, and the First Methodist Church was organized a year later.

In 1882, about a year after the first train rolled into town, the county government was organized.

Old timers recalled these events but most vivid was the roaring, wild, unbridled violence which was introduced as the construction crews hit what is now Big Spring.

One pioneer recalled: "The first six graves in the cemetery (which was located where the Southern Ice Company's plant now stands), were men who had died by violence."

MURDER CASE

And the fading records in the district court clerk's office recite that Case No. 2 on the district court's criminal docket, was the State of Texas vs. E. A. Knause. The charge was murder. The date was June 28, 1882, and the victim a man named Payne Holt. He was, according to the indictment, "beaten over the head with a heavy pistol... whereof he died."

What became of Knause? The records do not show. At any rate, although it was small, lawdry and untidy, the infant Big Springs of May 28, 1881 was sturdy, vigorous and, for its time and place, colorful.

Civil Rights Backers Appear Lacking Enough Cutoff Votes

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Associated Press poll indicated Saturday Senate leaders still have an uphill fight to muster a two-thirds majority to force an early halt to a Southern filibuster against the civil rights bill.

The balance of power lies with 17 senators, mostly from the Midwest and Rocky Mountain area, who gave qualified or non-committal answers.

NOT DISCLOSED Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., did not disclose his position.

OPPORTUNIS While the leaders may have some commitments not publicly disclosed, there are indications they may have to persuade some opponents of cutting off debate to stay away when the roll is called if the move is to succeed. Under the cloture rule, each senator's speaking time on the bill and all amendments would be limited to one hour once it were put into effect.

As time has gone on since the battle began March 9, leaders of both parties have become convinced that cloture is essential if the bill is to get through the Senate.

FOR CLOTURE In the poll conducted by The Associated Press, senators were asked this question: "Will you vote for cloture on the civil rights bill by early June, assuming that a leadership package of amendments is generally agreed upon by then?"

UNDECIDED Others who said they haven't yet decided or who declined to commit themselves included Sens. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, Karl

Two Midwest Republican senators declined to be quoted by name. One said he couldn't now say whether he would vote for cloture. The other said he probably would vote for cloture but would not want to fix a time in June as a deadline.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said he would vote for cloture early next month if it would not preclude consideration of amendments other than those in the leadership package. Another qualified "yes" was given by Sen. W. McGee, D-Wyo., who questioned whether an early June vote would allow enough time.

Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., indicated he probably would support cloture but he said he would have to think about it a long time unless the Senate were given a chance first to vote on amendments to the employment title of the bill.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., not reached in the poll, has said he would vote for cloture when he feels the debate is complete.

A similar position was taken by Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, who said through an aide that he will go along with cloture if necessary after the bill and amendments have been sufficiently debated.

Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., said "I won't be voting for cloture at least for some time."

No attempt was made to poll the 19 Southern senators banded together under the leadership of Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., in an all-out fight against passage of the bill. All of them are Democrats except Tower.

Barry Pledges Clean Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater pledged Saturday to wage a clean campaign in California—win, lose or draw. He also offered a revised appraisal of his chances of clinching the Republican presidential nomination.

Goldwater told a news conference there have been efforts to turn California into "a political butcher shop" and that friends and advisers have urged him to make a direct attack against smears, "hate" literature and misrepresentations.

"Even more odorous attacks we are told, will come," Goldwater said.

But he said he will continue to seek support at the grass roots, adding that "I trust completely the standards of fair play and the common sense and common decency of the people in California."

When questioned later, the Arizona senator exempted New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller from portions of his statement. He and Rockefeller are the only candidates on this state's June 2 GOP presidential primary ballot.

Goldwater said the "hate" literature had been mailed into California from the East and that it was of an anti-Semitic nature. He traced it to George Lincoln Rockwell's American Nazi party, and said it had no connection with the Rockefeller people.

Goldwater said there was no question that Rockefeller has improved his position as shown by the findings of some pollsters. And he said that a victory in California by Rockefeller "would certainly be a big boost."

Of his own position, Goldwater said he expects "a real tough go" in California. Even if he wins here, he said, he still may be about 50 delegates short of a first-ballot nomination at San Francisco.

Street Work Set Monday

The city will begin a street emulsion treatment program Monday, according to Ernest Lillard, director of public works. Plans call for 19 streets to be treated.

The emulsion is designed to seal surface cracks in streets during hot weather through a chemical action in the asphalt. If the program works, other maintenance will not be necessary at this time.

Streets to be treated are: Alamesa from Parkway to Wasson Road, Twenty-Fourth from Gregg to Runnels, Johnson from Eighteenth to Twentieth, Seventh from Main to Johnson, Eighth from Goliad to Scurry, Tenth from Johnson to Main, Tenth from Johnson to Goliad, Morrison from Birdwell Lane to Grafa, Alabama from Birdwell Lane to Grafa, Blackmon from Eleventh Place to South Monticello, Barnes from Alabama to one-half block south of South Monticello, Stanford from Morrison to one-half block south of South Monticello.

Rites Set For UT Director

AUSTIN (AP)—Services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in Austin for Paul J. Thompson, retired long-time director of the University of Texas School of Journalism whose former students include Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Thompson, 73, died Friday at his home of an apparent heart attack.

"Paul J. Thompson made a lasting mark on the university and his school of journalism, which he built with foresight and devotion," Mrs. Johnson said. "Those like me, who were privileged to attend his classes, knew him not only as a good teacher but also as a good friend."

Mrs. Johnson's press secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter, issued a joint statement with her husband, Washington newsman Leslie Carpenter, saying, "The inspiration and ideals he placed in so many young minds for so many years will live long as a monument to a good and kindly man. We and countless thousands of others will always treasure his memory."

Known as the father of the University of Texas School of Journalism, Thompson joined the faculty in 1919 and became head of the department in 1927. He retired in 1959 as director of the school, but remained active in its affairs as director emeritus.

Police Overcome Texas Ex-Con

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Police Saturday night flushed a 30-year-old Texas ex-convict from a suburban house in which he had held a taxi driver and his wife hostage for 14 hours. No one was injured.

Sheriff's lieutenant George Neilson wrestled a gun away from James Lindley, who had held Mr. and Mrs. Chester Roberts of Kearns prisoner in their home.

Neilson and a Mormon clergyman had entered the house to try to talk Lindley out.

About an hour later Neilson came out holding Lindley's pistol and a squad of sheriff's officers immediately rushed the house.

A dozen police dragged Lindley out and hustled him into a waiting patrol wagon.

Longview Man Dies In Wreck

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—A 52-year-old Longview man was killed Saturday when his car slammed into a bridge abutment as he was passing another vehicle on busy U. S. 86.

Killed was Jesse Lewis. The Department of Public Safety said he was alone in his automobile at the time of the wreck.

Three Die In Waco Collision WACO (AP)—Three persons were killed Saturday night in a head-on collision of two cars in the northbound lane of Interstate Highway 35 about three miles south of Waco.

Two of the victims were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Tom Oliver of New Braunfels. Oliver, 37, was a prominent New Braunfels business man.

The third victim, an elderly woman believed to be of Waco, was not immediately identified.

Both of the late model cars were demolished in the crash.

Moon Model To Be Built

HOUSTON (AP) - A tiny pie of the moon will soon be created at the Manned Spacecraft Center. Geologists, using slag and big chunks of lava, are planning to turn an area not much bigger than a football field into what they believe the moon looks like.

Army engineers have asked for contractor bids on the $42,000 moon-building job. Dr. Ted Foss, a geologist teaching the astronauts geology, said the area would be 328 feet in diameter.

VA VOLUNTEER AT WORK
Pam Darott will serve again

VA Volunteers Have Openings

There are still approximately 40 more openings for volunteers in the Veterans Administration Hospital's summer Junior Volunteer program.

The program, which was originated on a national basis April 15, 1946, and which has been a regular activity at the local VA hospital since its founding in 1950, is open to all area youths who enjoy helping people.

Thirty-eight boys and girls, mostly of high school level, have signed up for the summer so far, according to Mrs. Ara Cunningham, director of voluntary services at the VA hospital, and up to 100 applications will be accepted. She is scheduling interviews through Wednesday from 3:30 p.m. - 5 p.m. The interview, besides being used as an evaluation of the prospective volunteer, is also used to help place the person where he or she can do the most good.

IS 20 Paving Due To Start Soon

Austin-Worth Construction Co., Fort Worth, subcontractor who is to lay the hot mix topping on the east leg of the IS 20 bypass, will move in equipment and men within the next few days. The firm will top the road on the east leg of the bypass - the portion which has been built by M. C. Winters Construction Co.

Winters is now spreading oil on the road bed in the main road. According to Joe Smoot, resident engineer for the Texas State Highway Department, paving can be started almost immediately.

The Fort Worth firm will set up its mixer and equipment at the Janes Gravel Pits near Moss Spring.

Smoot said that Winters is around 85 per cent complete on the east leg of the bypass.

Parker Construction Co., which has the contract for the west leg is about 80 per cent complete. Smoot said that Parker has not started the oil prime coat. Parker will make his own hot mix contract.

No completion date for the two projects has been pegged, Smoot said.

Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Cunningham at AM 4-4361, extension 38.

Formal orientation and training for the junior volunteers will begin at 9 a.m. Thursday in the patients recreation hall of the hospital. The program will last throughout the day with the morning session dealing with the policies, procedures, and hospital ethics as they pertain to volunteers. The afternoon will be used for a guided tour of the hospital and specific training in the separate departments where the volunteers will be employed.

The purpose of the course, according to Donald D. Van Meter, hospital director, is to give youth a look at hospital work, so that they may decide whether they would like it for a career.

Mrs. Wright Dies Friday

Mrs. Frances Lovina Wright, Sand Springs resident since 1947, died at 7 p.m. Friday in a local hospital. The 64-year-old woman had been seriously ill for some time.

Mrs. Wright was born in Brady, March 22, 1900. On June 5, 1926 she married Thomas M. Wright. Mr. Wright died in 1961.

The funeral is scheduled at 2:30 p.m. today at the River-Welch Chapel. Claude Nichols, Knott Church of Christ, will officiate.

Palbearers will be R. F. Dodd, H. F. Hurd, Charles Wilson, E. P. Watkins, Pink Nichols and Grady Nichols.

Mrs. Wright is survived by three sons, Luther and Thomas Wright Jr., of Sand Springs and Charles Wright of Big Spring; one daughter, Mrs. Billie Jean Robinson, Big Spring; and five grandchildren. She is also survived by one brother, R. T. Slay, Menard; and three sisters, Mrs. A. C. Elliott, Miss Iree Slay and Miss Bertha Slay, all of Menard.

Firing Line Ready For Gun Buffs At Briton Pub

LONDON (AP)—Step up for a drink at The Cricketers and you're right in the firing line. Antique guns drip from the ceiling. They pack the walls. Turn around and pistols, long guns, blunderbusses, lances, spears, daggers and bayonets face you.

Albert Warren, 63, landlord of the 250-year-old pub in the London suburb of Croydon, reckons his little hostelry is unique. "I doubt if there's one to match our display anywhere in the world," he said.

And so do the people who flock to the little inn—it holds 100 at the most—from miles around. Try to get in the door on a Saturday night or Sunday—and you'll be lucky.

Warren and his son, Albert Jr., 39, have got together about 600 pieces from countries all over the world.

The guns and other items come from Britain, France, Belgium, Germany, the United States, India, Turkey, Spain, Yugoslavia, the Soviet Union and Italy.

Long guns used in the battles of the American West are there for the customers to see. They're six feet long and, commented Warren: "You needed to be men in those days to handle a rifle like that."

Matchlock... flintlock... Warren talks about his guns as a mother talks about her children.

His oldest gun dates back to the 16th century. Albert, a skilled craftsman, is capable of overhauling every gun father and son buy at sales.

He's a member of the Muzzle Loading Society of Great Britain. "And he's fired nearly every gun we've got here," said his father.

But the pub's not just got guns. It has bayonets tracing the weapon's evolution over the last 300 years.

Albert turned out his latest acquisition—a pair of decorative Turkish pistols that once belonged to a nobleman. They are 200 years old.

Albert could have continued pulling antiques from all over the place—even down to one of the original boomerangs and an Irish shillelagh.

Oh, by the way, you can still get a drink at The Cricketers. It's a friendly pub—despite the artillery.

Brother Dies

Mrs. George Hall, 1600-Runnels, Big Spring, was notified that her brother, Tracy Garbie, died Saturday at 8 a.m. in Humboldt, Kan. Mrs. Hall left Saturday afternoon to go to Fort Worth where she will meet her sister who will travel with her to Kansas. Services are pending.

U.S. Reshuffling List Of Strategic Targets

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States presumably is beginning revision of its strategic target list for Red Asia as the time approaches for new, long-range missiles to come into the active arsenal.

It is coincidental, but nevertheless important, that this occurs as the United States is confronted with deepening danger in Laos and growing difficulties in Viet Nam—with the basic source of trouble in Red China.

Revision of target lists to reassign targets as new or additional long-range missiles and aircraft become available is customary. This is done by the Joint Strategic Target Planning Group, an Air Force-Navy organization, at the Omaha headquarters of the Strategic Air Command.

Texas Sets Study Of SW Affiliation

EL PASO (AP) — The Board of Regents of the University of Texas System, concluding a three-day meeting on the Texas Western College campus, voted Saturday to study intercollegiate athletic policies at the University of Texas and its membership in the Southwest Conference.

The regents and officials of the system, won committal on all business items throughout a three-day meeting, declined to elaborate on the two-paragraph statement released to the press. It follows:

"The Board of Regents of the University of Texas Saturday authorized chairman of the board W. W. Heath to appoint a special committee of three to examine and restate the policies of the University of Texas with respect to intercollegiate athletics.

"The committee is directed to study all aspects of the University of Texas Southwest Conference membership, and our future policies in the area of intercollegiate athletics, and report its recommendations to the full board."

Speculation throughout the state indicated that while the action may be connected with the May 9 SWC action of placing the University of Texas on indefinite probation for violation of recruiting rules, it may also be related to discussion of forming a new conference of high-ranking state-supported institutions such as the universities of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Houston, along with Louisiana State University, Texas A&M University, Texas Tech and possibly the University of Alabama.

The board of regents met at Texas Western as part of the Mike Harshfield was the winning pitcher although he had help from Gary King, while Johnny Mata, one of three Dodgers hurlers, was charged with the loss.

Pat Weaver, David Peters, and Mata each had a double for the losers while Danny Hollis' double was the only extra-base knock by the Angels.

Safe—But Out!

Umpire Joeko Conlon calls Johnny Lewis (28) of the St. Louis Cardinals safe at third on the front half of an attempted double steal in the fourth inning at Milwaukee County Stadium Saturday. When Milwaukee third baseman Lee Maye pointed out that Lewis' foot was on top of his glove the umpire reversed his call and called Lewis out to end the inning. Maye had taken the throw from catcher Joe Torre. Lewis had reached base on a single. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Rico Cartwright Powers Milwaukee To Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rookie Rico Cartwright powered two homers, driving in five runs, and led the Milwaukee Braves over the St. Louis Cardinals 8-4 Saturday.

Felipe Alou hit an inside-the-park homer, and Hank Aaron also connected for the Braves.

Cartwright, a 24-year-old muscular man given a starting shot in left field two weeks ago, unloaded both his homers off Roger Craig after the Cardinal right-hander struck him out the first time at bat.

Singles by Aaron and Jose Torre preceded Cartwright's homer in the fifth. After failing in an attempt to sacrifice, the young slugger belted a pitch high into the left field seats.

Alou got his homer with a line drive which left fielder Charlie James was unable to grab as he crashed into the wall on a leaping effort in the sixth.

Wagner Powers Tribe To Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Leon Wagner knocked in five runs with a homer and a single Saturday powering the Cleveland Indians to an 11-9 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Wagner's big day zoomed his RBI total to 32. He brought the Indians from behind with his three-run homer in the first after the Tigers had jumped on rookie southpaw Tommy John for two runs.

His seventh-inning single capped a four-run uprising against Dick Egan, the third Detroit pitcher. Dick Houser's single knocked in the other two runs.

Rain delayed the game for one hour and two minutes during a Tiger rally in the eighth. The Tigers had scored three runs and had runners at first and third with two out when rain fell. When the game resumed, reliever Sonny Siebert got Bill Freehan on a foul pop.

Stubing Clouting A Lusty .398

Larry Stubing, the El Paso bomber, sets a rapid pace among Texas League batters and his fireworks at the plate also get the important results of runs batted in and home runs.

Stubing is hitting a lousy .398 tops the league in homers with 11, runs batted in with 45, total bases with 86 and is tied for the lead in his with 43.

The leading pitcher is a relief artist—Don Bradery of San Antonio. He has allowed only one earned run in 20 2-3 innings and has a stunning 0.44 earned run average. He has a 4-0 record.

The winningest pitcher was Chris Zachary of San Antonio, who has a 5-0 record and a 1.41 earned run average.

Horse Is Sold For $500,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A San Francisco foreign car dealer, Kjell Qvale, says he has completed a $500,000 deal to buy The Scoundrel, which ran second in the Preakness and third in the Kentucky Derby.

Qvale, who was in Indianapolis Saturday for qualification tests for the Memorial Day car race, told the San Francisco Examiner by telephone the deal for The Scoundrel was made after he visited Hollywood Park.

He bought the colt from Rex Ellsworth, its owner-breeder.

Big Spring Tigers Play Two Games In Odessa

The Big Spring Tigers, 7-0 last week, visit Odessa today to play the Oilers in a baseball doubleheader.

Johnny Subia will probably hurl the first game for the Bengals while Tony Fierro is ticked off to take the mound in the second contest.

Sonny Dutchover, ex-Tiger, will probably be in the lineup for Odessa today. He caught both games for Odessa here last week.

Others who are apt to start for Big Spring today include Albert Mendoza, center field; Roy Renteria, shortstop; Herbert Perez, third base; Robert Hammock, left field; Billy Weatherall, first base; Andy Gamboa, third base; Tom Arista, right field; and Jimmy Fierro, catcher.

Weatherall leads the Tiger regulars in hitting.

Chicago Cubs Shade Cincy; Santo Stars

CINCINNATI (AP)—Ron Santo belted three singles and drove in three runs Saturday, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 5-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Santo knocked in two runs in the first inning when the Cubs scored three times before Jim Maloney could get anybody out.

Billy Williams singled across the first run after Jim Stewart walked and Lou Brock got the first of his three singles. Santo's hit scored Brock and Williams.

Santo sent home the Cubs' fourth run in the second. Brock scored after singling and taking second when Stewart was out at third on the play.

The Reds scored twice in the fourth on back-to-back homers by Deron Johnson and Frank Robinson. John Edwards singled home a run in the sixth.

Interest In BS Open Slated To Pick Up

By PAT WASHBURN

A casual glance at this year's entry list in the Big Spring Open might draw a startled, "Oh!"

A quick hand count of the number of participants would easily show that on occasions more golfers have shown up at a city tourney. But the 40 teams showing a desire to compete for the luscious prizes (20 pipe in the pro-am and Open divisions) don't worry club pro Jerry Green a bit.

"It ought to be just like last year at the first Open," he said Saturday. "Last year, the tourney was barely over a week off and we still didn't have many entries. It really worried us. And then during the last week, all of a sudden there was a heavy bunch of entries and everything turned out all right.

"We don't expect to have 295 golfers again since our entries have gone up from $15 to $20 in the open division and from $5 to $7.50 in the pro-am. But we should have around 250 players and that's enough for a good tournament."

Local golfers could figure prominently in the outcome of this year's tournament. In the open division, Wendy Green and Bobby Wright, two of Big Spring's finest products, will probably rate the pre-tourney nod from most observers since both men are seasoned veterans over the 6,500 yards of the Country Club. Both men shoot consistently sub-par rounds.

Don't count out Big Spring's Frank Powell and Fort Worth's Jack Montgomery. The tandem teamed up last year for a most successful debut that saw them surprise many of the assembled as they took first place in the open. Montgomery burned up the local course with a 63, the lowest tournament round ever fired locally, and he should be tried again this year since he's been working as an assistant pro at Ridgelea Country Club.

One other out-of-town tandem could figure in the top money, that being Plainview's Horace Moore and Jack Williams. Green expects them to be tough before the tourney closes.

In the pro-am division, Jack Cook of Big Spring and Colorado City's Bill Craig will present formidable competition for all twosomes. Craig, who makes a point to miss very few tournaments in West Texas, has gradually been getting sharper and sharper in his last couple of appearances, with his high point coming only a week ago when he copped the Sweetwater 29er's golf classic. Observers say he's reaching peak shape, which according to some, makes him one of West Texas' finest golfers.

Cook and Craig won't have it in the bag, though. J. B. Wetzel, pro at the Sweetwater Lakes

Golf Course, will team up with Post's Charles Hopkins, to vie for the top merchandise awards. It should be a good battle in the pro-am, even if no other top-flight teams decide to enter.

The course is gradually shaping into top form, but it isn't expected that it will reach that point by the time that the linksters hit the fairways two weeks hence for the Open. There's a simple West Texas answer to the question of why—it hasn't rained enough. The tees and greens are in fine shape but in between, it's still dusty and dry with the grass dying for space with the soft dirt. Dust storms, on extremely windy days, are not an oddity.

The hot weather will definitely be worse on the players than the spectators. As in last year's classic, concession stands will be placed advantageously to take care of any thirst-quenching needs. Besides the club house and a stand by the scoring tent, Cokes, candy bars and other forms of light entertainment will be available between the seventh and 16th tees. Last year's weather was boiling and this year's has all promises of being the same.

Bill Ferem, Dunlop Co. representative from Midland, will be this year's official starter. He will post all scores and pairings. This will be his second appearance at the Open.

Friend Pitches Win For Bucs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bob Friend pitched a five-hitter as the Pittsburgh Pirates trounced the San Francisco Giants 9-2 behind the hitting of Jerry Lynch and Roberto Clemente.

Lynch homered off starter Gayford Perry in the first inning following Bill Virdon's single. He sent another run home in the Pirates' two-run third. Clemente slammed a two-run homer off Perry in the seventh. He also scored in the third after he singled.

Friend, now 4-3, limited Willie Mays to a double in four at bats. That sliced Mays' National League-leading average five points to .400.

The Pirates added two runs in the eighth as Jim Pagliaroni singled across one run and Friend sent another home on a squeeze bunt.

Tesco Nips Hesters, 5-3

Texas Electric scored three runs in the final inning of the first game of American Softball League doubleheader Saturday night at the City Park and slipped past a Hesters' crew, 5-3. In the other game, Coahoma slugged by Forsan, 6-3.

The Texas Electric squad, finding themselves with a 2-1 lead going into the final inning, put together a single by Blasengame and back-to-back doubles by Watson, Devault, and Brunson to account for their three runs. Hesters came back to score two runs before finally being downed.

Blasengame collected the victory, giving up only one extra-base hit, a double to Tito Arcechiba. Bob Riceman was the loser. Martin Gehling had two hits for Hesters while Brunson had two safe taps for Texas Electric.

In the second game, Coahoma amassed a 6-1 lead before going into the final frame and then saw Forsan threaten with an uprising as they scored two runs before being subdued. Page was the winner and Wall the loser.

Coahoma had two extra-base knocks, doubles by Ron Dodson and Myrick, while Forsan also had two doubles, by Soles and Blake.

Graham and Self had two hits apiece for Coahoma while Soles had two safeties for Forsan.

Twins Rap Birds, 5-1

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Minnesota Twins, without their usual display of power, combined one-base hit and the good pitching of Lee Stange for a 5-1 victory over Baltimore Saturday.

Stange, with his first complete game in six starts, held the Orioles to seven hits—four of them of the cheap variety.

The loss ended a four-game winning streak for the Orioles, who have won 12 of their last 16 games.

The Twins took advantage of Dave McNally's wildness for three runs in the second inning on just two singles.

A walk by Harmon Killebrew, a single by Jimmie Hall and a sacrifice fly by Earl Battey scored one run. Then, after two walks loaded the bases, Zorro Versalles singled home two more.

Boog Powell's home run with two out in the ninth deprived Stange of a shutout.

Dickey Was Help To Yanks' Howard

By ELSTON HOWARD Of New York Yankees

Bill Dickey, one of the game's great catchers, helped me a lot by talking to me about all the different points in catching. We even talked at night and I give him all the credit.

Catching didn't come easy to me and one of the most important things was learning how to block pitches that were thrown into the dirt in front of home plate. Learning how to block baseballs was on my mind day and night, because to me this was the toughest phase in catching and I wanted to learn it.

I couldn't make the Yankees right off in '54—not with catchers like Yogi Berra, Charley Silvera and Gus Triandos around. So they sent me to Toronto. It wasn't even a Yankee farm team but my manager there

Other than Bill Dickey's coaching, two other things helped. One was the light glove I used; the other was moving around behind the plate. The light glove helped me move my hands that much quicker when a pitch wasn't on target.

I think a catcher should be the life of his ball club. Any way if you remain too stationary you become tired. If I stayed in a crouch all during a game I'd be dead. So I moved around by backing up plays and hustling under foul pops, which all catchers must do.

I couldn't make the Yankees right off in '54—not with catchers like Yogi Berra, Charley Silvera and Gus Triandos around. So they sent me to Toronto. It wasn't even a Yankee farm team but my manager there was a former catcher, Luke Sewell, and it was the fast International League.

Without trying to hurt Luke in any way he tried to change my style of catching. I had been taught by Bill Dickey and I didn't want to go against his way. Even though he was a tall man, about my height, he always crouched down low and I liked his style. Luke was a shorter man so he wanted me to catch with my body up.

I couldn't very well do what he wanted. But he was a real fine manager and he saw my point in a big way.

In the low position I could catch better and the secret of good pitching is keeping the ball low. Furthermore it was easier for me to get up from a crouching position. I could do that quicker than by standing up and then getting down low.

The White Sox sent 13 men to the plate in the second. Errors by shortstop John Kennedy and catcher Mike Brumley helped the White Sox score seven earned runs in the inning.

AFL Won't Accept New Members Prior To '66

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Relaxed and optimistic American Football League owners have decided to wait at least until 1966 to admit new cities into the league.

Joe Foss, AFL commissioner, said questionnaires will be sent in the next few weeks to the 20 groups involving 34 individuals from more than a dozen cities expressing interest in joining the league, which starts its fifth season in the fall.

The committee headed by Lamar Hunt, Kansas City owner, will screen the backgrounds of all individuals and study drawing potential and facilities in each area.

"A team or two might be voted into the league in 1965," Foss said, "but no new teams will be fielded until 1966."

Prime reason for the great interest in AFL franchises is the five-year, $36-million television contract signed with National Broadcasting Co.

Foss was given a new three-year contract at a raise in pay, bringing his salary close to $50,000. Milt Woodard, assistant commissioner, also received a pay hike.

"A boy could run these meetings now that we have quite a few more biscuits in the basket," Foss said. "Let's credit television and the appeal of football."

Smooth Backswing

GET yourself a smooth start of your backswing and you've got a good swing about nine-tenths made. It is a tough job for the ordinary golfer to break away from the tension and inertia he has at address and get swinging and turning. It may help a lot of average golfers to begin the swing in an almost velvet way if they'll address the ball with the built-in forward press I first saw used by my old playmate Walter Hagen. He stood with the clubhead behind the ball and his left arm straight as tho he were measuring the swing. His right knee was bent toward the left so the first move he made got his knees turning smoothly.

Open Qualifying To Begin Monday

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — About 2,250 golfers will play 36 holes each Monday or Tuesday in the first stage of the 1964 National Open Championship and most of them will be out there just for the fun and exercise.

Of this number, perhaps 50 might entertain serious thoughts of making a real showing in the tournament proper at Washington's Congressional Country Club June 18-20. Scattered through the fields at the 54 local qualifying locations are a few of the world's best pro golfers, a flock of promising youngsters and some still-strong old timers who couldn't make the exempt list.

For the rest, it's a matter of paying the $20 entry fee for the privilege of playing two rounds on a fine golf course, plus an outside chance of qualifying for the sectional tests June 8-9. It beats paying greens fees.

The Open drew 2,381 entries this year. Of these, 21 are exempt from all qualifying and 45 from local qualifying. So 428 of the early starters can earn places in the sectional qualifiers.

All local rounds will be played Monday except in the New Jersey and the two Metropolitan New York sections.

The most serious qualifying contests are expected at Memphis, Tenn., where the touring pros wind up their tournament Sunday. There, 90 golfers — 85 pros — will be shooting for 39 qualifiers places.

Among them are Mike Souchak, Ken Venturi, Gay Brewer, Al Besselink, Freddie Haas, Rex Baxter, Joe Campbell, Bill Collins, Phil Rodgers and Ernie Boros, brother of defending National Open champion Julius Boros.

A strong foreign contingent includes Bruce Devlin and Bill Dunk of Australia, Dave Thomas of England and Bob Verwey and Stewart Davies of South Africa.

And to give them some competition are such as Bob Duden, Bob McCallister, J. C. Goslee, Raymond Floyd, Jerry Pittman, George Archer, Moon Mullins, Larry Beck, Rod Funsteth, Don Massengale, Frank Wharton and Kermit Zarley.

A few of the tour regulars and young hopefuls have chosen to try in their home districts where they'll only have to beat the older guys who'd rather hold a club job than play every week. Labron Harris Jr., the 1962 amateur champion, entered at Oklahoma City and R. H. Sikes, 1963 amateur runner-up, at Hot Springs, Ark. Both have recently turned pro.

A scattering of top amateur players includes former Walker Cuppers Bill Campbell, Bill Byrdman and Dale Morve young Steve Opperman of San Francisco, recent winner of the Western Amateur, and even younger Johnny La Ponzina of Miami.

Top pro names in various sections include George Bayer, Don Fairfield, Bob Harrison and newcomer Dudley Wyszog at Indianapolis; Howie Johnson, Paul Bondeson and Charlie Sifford at Chicago; Ted Kroll and Bob Gajda at Detroit; John Barnum at Grand Rapids; Dick Whetzel at Baltimore; Bill Eicknick and Houston LaClair at Winchester, Mass.; Bobby Brue at Milwaukee; Jack Rule Jr. at Des Moines; Don Cherry, Joe Conrad, Doug Higgins and Shelley Mayfield at Fort Worth; Johnny Bulla and Frank Strashan at Phoenix and Bud Hoischer, Ed Merrins and Paul McGuire at Los Angeles.

On Tuesday, John Gustin, Harry Dee, Stan Mosel and Babe Lichardus at Plainfield, N. J.; Tom Nieporie, Mike Krak and Tom Strafaci on Long Island and Claude Harmon, Dick Crawford, Paul Kelly and Buck Worsham in the Westchester-Connecticut section.

Indianapolis Speed Race Still Perilous

By DALE BURGESS Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The old Indianapolis 500-mile auto race has put on a tie, combed its hair and gone on television, but the 48th running Saturday remains another perilous contest of oil-smeared drivers and tortured machinery.

Veterans at the 54-year-old track think the record of 29 changes in the lead, set in 1960, may be challenged by the fastest field in history.

Parnell Jones of Torrance, Calif., last year's winner at a record average speed of 143.17 miles an hour, had a car several miles an hour faster than anything else in the field. He started in first place, yielded the lead briefly to Jim Hurtubise, and led the rest of the way excepting a period of pit stops.

This year's race shapes up as a super sprint. Jim Clark of Scotland, the 1963 world road racing champion dominated this year's trials in winning the No. 1 starting position but his new Lotus-Ford is expected to be a little slower with a change in fuel to give better mileage. He led part of the last race while Jones was picking up tires and fuel, and finished a strong second.

Bobby Marshman of Pottstown, Pa., in a year-old Lotus-Ford with a new engine, had been faster than Clark in practice although he had to settle for second place in the qualifications.

Rodger Ward, a two-time 500 winner, grabbed the third place in the first row in a new Watson-Ford. He will be starting for the 14th straight year and will be a factor in anybody's calculations on the winner.

The second row will be Jones, in an improved version of the front-engine Watson-Offenhauser he drove to victory last year; former winner A. J. Foyt of Houston, in another conventional Watson-Offenhauser, and Clark's Lotus-Ford teammate, Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif.

Exercise Caution Around Water

By The Associated Press
Snakes and boats have this in common—both can be dangerous.

The Parks and Wildlife Department offers a few safety suggestions.

Berry-pickers, says the department, should take along a long stick and a can of insect repellent. The repellent should discourage some of the less dangerous nuisances such as chiggers. The stick might probe out a copperhead or coral snake, frequent visitors of blackberry and dewberry patches.

Rocky hillsides are a favorite spot for rattlers and copperheads, says the department, "especially during the warm days of early spring. Care also should be taken near logs, the department says. Heavy footwear should be worn when outdoors. Flashlights should be carried at night. If a snake is discovered, a person should remain still until the snake has moved away.

Proper footwear also is important while in a boat, the department says, so "for safety's sake, select shoes similar to tennis sneakers for your fishing or boating."

Giardello Has Busy Evening

CLEVELAND (AP) — "You can have my share of that little guy from here on," said middleweight champion Joey Giardello after the rocky finish of a 10-round scrap with Argentina's Rocky Rivero.

Although he was hit hard at the finish, Giardello won a unanimous decision in the non-title rematch Friday night. That was better than his split decision over the 27-year-old Rivero April 17, when only one point separated the two.

"He did his job—put me in shape for a 15-rounder," Giardello said.

"If I was 22 or 24, I'd take care of him like that," said the 33-year-old champion, snapping his fingers. "He's small-tough to get at. I couldn't get the range."

Rivero thought he should have won the decision. "I win it very big, but I don't get it. He was like this," and Rivero staggered back in a little circle, waving his arms helplessly to demonstrate.

In his second fight since winning the title from Dick Tiger last December, Giardello jabbed, counterpunched and back-peddled most of the way, but piled up points steadily.

There were no knockdowns in the nationally televised fight, but Rivero landed a right to Giardello's head in the ninth that staggered the champion.

Giardello, 164½, was most accurate with his punches in the fifth through the eighth rounds. Rivero, at 165, tried to get inside but Giardello danced away much of the time.

Rivero came on strong in the last two rounds, but Giardello was able to weather the storm and even get in a few licks himself.

Referee Mike Minnich had it 46-43, judge Herb Williams 45-44, judge Bill Thomson 46-45. The Associated Press had Giardello the winner 46-44.

Braves Edge Past Devils

The Braves scored four big runs in the last inning Friday night and overcame a 4-2 lead by the Devils as the Braves went on to take a close 6-4 win in the National Little League.

Duncan was the winner while A. Merrick was the loser. Vasquez of the Braves and A. Merrick and Faulkner of the Devils each had two hits.

Referee Mike Minnich had it 46-43, judge Herb Williams 45-44, judge Bill Thomson 46-45. The Associated Press had Giardello the winner 46-44.

Martin County Is In Newest Survey

DALLAS—Progress by the oil industry in handling salt water disposal systems, the new survey disclosed. The survey included operators of 89 per cent of the oil and gas wells in the two counties.

Texas Mid-Continent's study shows that of 150,000 barrels of salt water being produced daily in the two counties, 107,000 barrels, or 71 per cent, is being disposed of through injection-disposal systems.

These figures compare with 1961 salt water production of 85,500 barrels daily, of which 27,500 barrels, or 32 per cent, was being injected.

New projects currently under way or in the planning stage will increase by another 13 per cent the portion of salt water

Oilmen Are Optimistic

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP)—Oilmen are becoming more optimistic over prospects of Congress removing federal controls from the well-head prices of natural gas.

Among those more optimistic these days is the industry's chief spokesman, Frank Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute.

Ikard is a former Texas congressman who supported gas decontrol bills that were vetoed by Presidents Truman and Eisenhower.

MARVIN MILLER

M. M. Miller Coming Back

Marvin M. Miller, vice president exploration of American Petrofina Company of Texas, is returning this week with Mrs. Miller to re-establish their home in Big Spring.

Miller, associated with Cosden since 1928, moved to Dallas last year after American Petrofina acquired the assets of Cosden Petroleum. He is a member of the board of directors of Cosden Oil & Chemical Company.

Effective in July he will retire from his Petrofina post. He and Mrs. Miller will be at their home at 511 Hillside Drive, but their immediate plans call for an extended vacation.

Miller was senior vice president for Cosden before its dissolution and he headed up a brisk exploration program which resulted in a substantial buildup of production reserves. He also was active in civic affairs, having headed the Chamber of Commerce, the school board, the United Fund and many other agencies.

Three Deported

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An American, an Italian and a Honduran have been deported for violating Mexican laws. They are Robert Ellis of the United States, Simone Caccamo of Italy and Pablo Puerto Castro of Honduras.

Project Will Open Bids

Bids will be received by the Colorado River Municipal Water District in Big Spring at 10 a.m. Tuesday on a 5 1/2-mile pipeline job for transporting water to an oil company water-flood project in northern Coke County.

Proposals on the 18-inch diameter line will be received at the district offices at 1318 East 4th Street and opened at the Settles Hotel shortly thereafter. All but one portion of right of way required for the pipeline has been secured, said E. V. Spence, general manager for CRMWD, and this is expected to be secured prior to time of the contract letting.

Six contractors have indicated they will bid on the 28,865-foot of pipeline, valves and other appurtenances, and at least three are due to submit proposals on a crossing of the Colorado River with the line.

A contract with Sun Oil Company has been amended so that the district will supply an additional 600,000 gallons of water a day, with which Sun will put 900,000 of its present contract quantity so that Perkins & Prothro can be supplied with 1,500,000 gallons a day for its waterflood program. Sun will treat the water at its plant at Silver.

Officers Will Be In Odessa

Bill Clayton, Well Servicing Company of Crane, chairman of the central Permian Basin chapter of the Association of Oilwell Servicing Contractors (AOSC), has announced that AOSC national president D. L. McDonald of Abilene and executive vice president Lamar Deupree of Dallas will attend the chapter's bi-monthly meeting at the Sands Restaurant in Odessa, Wednesday.

McDonald, owner of McDonald Well Service Company at Abilene, was elected national president at the association's annual convention at Denver, Colo., in February.

Radioactive Waste Disposal

Halliburton Company-Union Carbide Corporation's unique new method for disposing of dangerous radioactive waste such as strontium 90 is shown in the above diagram. Waste originates at the nuclear site (in the upper left of the drawing), is mixed with a cement slurry (center) and is then pumped down a drilled hole (bottom) to fracture and enter an impermeable formation. Halliburton engineer Mack Stonger (left) reviews the project with Harry P. Conroy, senior vice president and general manager of the oil field service firm, and W. D. Owsley, senior vice president (from left to right).

Oldham Will Market Shell Oil Products

Shell Oil Company has announced that it will enter the local market field with the George Oldham Oil Company of Big Spring, an outfit that has been serving local customers since February, 1961 with El Paso gasoline. Ten Oldham stations will market Shell products.

GEORGE OLDHAM

Oldham, a graduate of Texas Tech College, is vice chairman of the oil information committee and chairman of the petroleum committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. He has one 2,020 gallon tank truck.

The announcement by Shell Oil Company brings new faces, but an old and respected trademark, into the Big Spring area.

Shell came to Texas in 1917 when the Roxana Petroleum Company began geological work in North and North Central Texas, although leases in Rusk County near Kilgore had been its discovery well in the South Bend field of Young County in 1919, and has maintained its progress through the years.

Today Shell operates 6,255 oil and 323 gas wells, employs some 4,300 people in pipe line operations, in gas plants, a refinery, a chemical plant, a research laboratory, and in offices in 13 Texas cities. The annual payroll for these operations amounts to some $48,000,000 yearly.

In 1922 Roxana, predecessor to the present Shell Oil Company, opened a four man office in Houston and soon after began to map potential oil bearing areas, using the Eotvos torsion balance, the first geophysical instrument used in the United States in the search for oil. A larger office was opened in Dallas in 1924 and was the exploration and production office for Texas.

In the next few years, Shell bought leases in the then undeveloped McCamey, Yates and Hendricks fields of West Texas and found producing wells in each. The first Shell well in the Yates field, Pecos County, came in at 780 barrels per day and production was so promising that Shell led other operators in the formation of a plan of voluntary proration. This plan was later used as a model by the Texas Railroad Commission for the first compulsory proration plan in the Hendricks Field in 1928.

Shell came to the budding Howard - Glasscock area in 1927.

Rotary Activity Shows Gain Over Past Week

The survey of rotary drilling activity in the Permian Basin Empire conducted every Friday by the Reed Roller Bit Company showed a total of 234 units in operation.

This is a gain over last week's 233 of one and an increase of 39 over the 195 recorded on the survey of the comparable week in 1963.

Lea County, N. M., is first with 49, up four over the prior week's 45. Pecos County is in second place with 20, an increase of one over 19 a week ago and Ector County, with 18, a drop of one from 19 last week, is third.

Oil Boom Proves Exciting For Two Local Observers

By JOE PICKLE
Two Big Springers flew near the cradle of the American oil industry last week and reported that an exploding oil boom in north-central Ohio was the wildest thing they had ever seen.

"They're getting big wells and punching holes almost as close as they can get them to each other," said Jack Cook and Maurice (Frog) Koger from Columbus, Ohio. They were due to fly back here late Saturday, after having successfully blocked up 4,000 acres for development.

The play is in an area which first got production more than half a century ago and not too far from Pennsylvania where Col. Edwin Drake brought in the nation's first oil well in 1857.

The thing that touched off the boom, said the Big Springers, was the spread of discoveries which established dependable reserves. Prior to this, strikes had been isolated and apparently unrelated. Major have come scrambling into the area, and a lot of Texas oilmen have joined the parade. Cook and Koger flew to Columbus, Ohio last weekend, spent four days of hard seeking before they finally located the open acreage in Logan County, which is west of Morrow County where the big play is currently going on. Activity has spread to Delaware and Wyandotte counties in central Ohio, they said. Their acreage is about 40 miles north of Columbus. Once they located it, the trade was closed in a single day. "This is the darndest thing you ever saw," Cook said. "There is no proration, and all you have to do is find a buyer for your oil. Right now buyers are coming to the well head and taking it for $2.82 a barrel. Everyone is pushing for pipelines and connections.

The hottest zones are the Trenton, a lime section which corresponds roughly to the Permian Basin's Devonian, and which is found at 1,400 feet in Ohio. The other section is the Trempleau dolomite sand, approximating this area's Ellenburger, and found at 3,000 feet. Cook and Koger said that they were aiming for the Trenton when they attempt development within six or eight months. Already they have joined the Ohio Oil and Gas Association.

When oil was discovered in the Ohio area around 1910, some of the wells were rated between 5,000 and 9,000 barrels a day. Some operators claim they have comparable wells today, said Cook.

Hurt Worker Much Better

Condition of Douglas Smith, 29, water well service company employe, was much improved Saturday and his doctor said his injuries were not too serious.

Smith was working under a truck Friday when it slipped off its props and fell on him. He suffered a badly bruised chest, an injury to one hand and deep cuts on his face and chin.

He is in the Medical Arts Clinic and Hospital. It is possible, doctors said, that he has broken ribs but in general his injuries were relatively light.

Smith, who lives at the King Apartments, is an employe of the Watson Water Well Service, located on the Snyder highway. The mishap which injured him occurred at noon Friday. Taken to the hospital in a Nalley-Pickle ambulance, it had been feared he might have suffered serious injuries.

Smith was working alone on the truck when the accident occurred. Mrs. Weldon Watson, wife of his employer, heard dogs barking and investigated the noise. She found the workman pinned beneath the truck.

Baccalaureate Starts Seniors On Last Week

Some 240 seniors will march solemnly in their caps and gowns today into the City Auditorium while families and friends crane to catch a glimpse.

Thursday the ritual will be repeated in a slightly different setting, and their days as seniors and as students in Big Spring High will be over.

Today's 8:15 p.m. service will be for the senior sermon; Thursday's will be for commencement.

The Rev. Robert F. Polk, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon, speaking on "If I Should Die Before I Live." There will be no adult speaker for the commencement, but members of the graduating class will make talks.

The baccalaureate program follows: Processional, Jane McElrath; invocation, Robert Goodlett; Scripture, Monty Clendenin; David Stanley Yares' "Once To Every Man and Nation," by the senior high capella choir directed by Milver Ivey; sermon, Rev. Robert F. Polk; benediction, Charlotte Shive; "In Peace and Joy I Now Depart," (Fetler), choir; recessional, Suzanne Cook.

Supt. Sam Anderson will preside at the commencement exercises. The theme of the program will be Goethe's line: "The great thing in this world is not so much where we stand, as in what direction we are moving."

Order of the program will be processional, Ann Gibbs; invocation, Molly Goodman; class certification of graduates, John F. Smith, principal; introduction of graduates, Harold D. Bentley, assistant principal; presentation of diplomas, Harold Talbot, president, and Mrs. R. B. G.

Commencement Thursday, Graduate Total May Hit 237

Two hundred and 37 candidates for graduation diplomas have been named at Big Spring Senior High School. Final grades before May 28 will determine the status of some candidates, John Smith, high school principal said. Mid-term graduates and those who will complete their work during the summer, pushes the total graduate candidates for the year to 270. Baccalaureate services will be held tonight at the municipal auditorium, beginning at 8:15. Commencement exercises will be Thursday at 8:15.

Candidates listed for the May 28 graduation are: David William Agee, Mary Aquino, Michael Patrick Alexander, John Sue

Anderson, Sheri Jan Andre, Sherry Lynn Alton, Thomas Heys Bacus, James M. Bappett, Wayne Julian Baird, Shirley Corlene Baker, Ronald Douglas Banks, Graham Leslie Barnett, Sherry L. Traffic Stops Under Study

The city traffic commission will meet at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall to consider five requests for traffic control devices. The intersections under study are: Seventeenth at Benton, Seventh at Runnels, Eighth at Nolan, Fifth at Scurry, and Rutgers at Tulane.

Police Chief Jay Banks has recommended that stop signs be placed on Benton at Seventeenth to give the right-of-way to east and west bound traffic. He also asked that four-way stop signs be placed at Fifth and Scurry.

A traffic check by Police Sgt. Robert Dugan indicated about 140 vehicles per hour pass through the Seventh and Runnels intersection during daylight hours. Dugan reported traffic drops sharply after nightfall.

Commission members also will hear a state report concerning the advisability of putting a traffic signal light at Northwest Fifth and US 87 north.

To Get Degree

FORT WORTH—Almon Maurice Martin, 1604 Wood, Big Spring, is due to receive the bachelor of divinity degree at spring commencement exercises at Texas Christian University Wednesday evening, May 27.

DEAR ABBY The Age To Be Firm!

DEAR ABBY: So a 76-year-old "playboy" runs after girls at a convention, eh? Well, a 70-year-old widow is running after my husband right here at home. She lives next door and is over here almost every day asking my husband's advice on something. He is a retired banker and is flattered by her attentions. He tries to answer her questions seriously while she gazes at him admiringly, and just oozes charm. I am told that the minute I leave the house she is over here either "borrowing" something or bringing back something she has borrowed. How can I let my husband know that she is after him? I don't want him to think I am jealous at 68! I am all upset over this.

TROUBLE IN ST. PETERSBURG DEAR TROUBLE: What's wrong with telling your husband that you suspect that the "girl" next door has a teen-age crush on him? If she can "ooze" charm at 70, you can ooze just as much as 68. Tell the old boy you are jealous, and if he casts any call-eyes at her, you'll have his hide. And hers, too.

DEAR ABBY: Last Christmas I became engaged to a Navy man. Something must have happened while he was on a cruise because I just received a letter from him saying he had a change of heart and it was all over between us. (It must have been a foreign girl.) I have a large oil painting of him and also an engagement ring which he told me to have insured for $800. He has asked for the picture and the ring back. I wrote him immediately and told him I wasn't returning anything. Don't get me wrong, Abby. I don't want to keep these things for their monetary value. I want them for sentimental reasons only. Would it be wrong to stick to my original decision? My uncle is a lawyer and he said I didn't have to return anything because the man broke the engagement. SENTIMENTAL

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: The quickest way to get a man off your mind is to clean house of all tangible souvenirs. Since you MUST forget it, return everything! One - sided "sentimental"

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL CROSSWORD PUZZLE FANS: A reader wants to know if it is considered cheating to use a crossword puzzle dictionary while working a crossword puzzle. If there's an expert out there, I'd appreciate hearing from you.

TAKING A giant step are Baxter Moore, Linda Mason and Bill Worley who will receive diplomas Thursday evening at exercises in Municipal Auditorium. The three are ending high school careers during which they gained recognition as being outstanding and popular students. Each will speak during the commencement program. Bill is president of the senior class, Linda is secretary of the National Honor Society and Baxter is president of the student body.

THE GLAMOUR of graduation gowns a girl in lace and gains admiring glances from her favorite young man. Moonlight and music make a night to remember for a beautiful belle of the ball. Bow-tied and boutonniereed Larry Smedley made a handsome escort for pert Jane Drinkard when they attended the Senior Ball.

PRETTY GIRLS and picnic baskets are essential to the success of a senior outing. An all-day picnic will be held at Moss Creek Lake Tuesday so there will be plenty of time for swimming, fishing and feasting. Packing enough for a crowd are Linda Hall, Tommy Bacus, Jean Ann Board, A. J. Pirkle and Ann Gibbs.

ON AN ENCHANTED evening, who can say what wishes may come true for the tiny price of a penny? It's a beautiful bargain—and worth the price—if one wishes wisely. If the wishing well runs dry, and perhaps it may, youth and ambition will provide a path to the heart's desire. Seeing if coins can be counted on are Nancy Haralson and Mike Alexander who have a few plans for the future that won't depend on luck.

A TIME TO REMEMBER

GRIN AND bear it, when it comes to final exams, is the attitude expressed by Joe Brown who finds that the fun is temporarily forgotten during days devoted to final testing. Joe is a senior English student of Miss Ione McAlister and has carried a regular college preparatory course. Also, he is a member of the a cappella choir.

NAVIGATING THE PANAMA CANAL ... takes the greater part of a day to go through the locks

THE HOPE AT ANCHOR ... is turned often by current in the Guayas

Champe Philips Describes HOPE Journey To Ecuador

CHAMPE PHILIPS

By JO BRIGHT
Miss Champe Philips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shine Philips, 1304 Scurry St., is serving as Big Spring's unofficial ambassador to Ecuador.

Miss Philips, whose father is known as "Mr. Big Spring," is taking part in "Operation HOPE" as a member of the ship's permanent staff during its medical and teaching mission to that country. Quarters aboard the ship during a planned year's stay in Ecuador are doctors, nurses, dentists, medical technicians and three therapists, one of which is Miss Philips, who is a physical therapist.

The ship's cargo contains hospital equipment, medicinal supplies and teaching aids. The ship travels only to places where assistance is requested and what is meant to be a goodwill mission. The HOPE sailed from New York harbor Nov. 29.

Miss Philips has described the first part of that journey in a letter received recently. The following excerpts are taken from her account of the first days of the mission.

"The news of President John F. Kennedy's assassination came by short wave radio, the flag was lowered to half mast, we joined in prayer and continued on to Panama ...

THROUGH CANAL.
"On November 27 HOPE arrived in Panama, there to await her turn through the canal and afford the mop-fatigued staff (time en route was spent cleaning, scrubbing and stocking departments) two days to explore Cristobal, Colon—the old and the new Panama cities.

"Going through the canal to the open house held before sailing. It was utter confusion and hilarity—to be followed two days later at sea—on Nov. 22—by shock, sadness and a deep loneliness. Sorrow is essentially I suppose, a dark, lonely feeling, eased a little by the presence of family and friends, and though the HOPE staff of 83 medical personnel were united in cause, we were strangers, and for the first time in my life I was not proud of being a Texan.

"The people of Ecuador were waiting for us and launch service had been established before our arrival, during meetings between the HOPE committee and local doctors and medical societies. The HOPE goes only to those countries who invite it—and demonstrate a real desire and need for medical teaching.

"The HOPE is financed (3 to 4 million dollars this trip) strictly and solely by public and private donations. Practically all supplies, drugs, and equipment are donated by U. S. medical supply and equipment firms.

WORK BEGINS
"So we are here as invited guests of Ecuador, donating a staffed, free, no-strings-attached hospital to Ecuadorian doctors and nurses—and to the "pobre" or the poor. Of course, this big, white ship in the Guayas was viewed—and still is—with a certain amount of suspicion—resentment and ridicule. The Ecuadorian doctors and nurses are not dumb—we do not think they are—but I think, perhaps at first, they thought we thought they were.

"Nor does the ship have a lot of fancy equipment—nothing spectacular, just basic needs of a hospital and no more. Much emphasis seems to be in Ecuador, put on big, new, shiny equipment rather than knowledge and skill.

"This then, is our sand bar. I hope we can cross it without dragging bottom."

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Much has been said about the old Quinn house and the early history of it. I don't remember it as the Caylor place but my parents always referred to it that way. Although I had heard many stories of Sheriff Baggett I never knew until recently that he had first lived there; I just always remembered Mrs. Quinn standing on the front porch visiting with passersby. I can't remember ever having been inside the house nor was I ever in Mr. Caylor's house. I did however, visit with him over his fence as he sat sunning in his back yard at his home at 711 Main as I passed by on my way to my grandmother's house just across the street from his.

When the families whose names I associated with the houses were no longer there, I often heard them spoken of as the Quinn house or the Caylor house (the little one up the block and across the street) but they never really seemed to be the same after those families were no longer living in them.

This is the way I felt about my birthplace on Nolan, the one that burned after we moved from it. Once someone else lived in it, it was no longer dear to me. Our big house that was moved from Gregg street out to the southern part of the county never looked like my former home once I entered it after someone else put in their furniture, rugs and draperies. The things that were dear to all of us in the family had been moved out and with them went the sentiment that might have been attached to the house. It just wasn't home where our parents had been with us as we grew up. The stains and scratches that somehow never really got taken out didn't appear to be the same with someone else's stains and scratches mixed in.

The pretty beamed ceilings seemed out of place with no rugs on the hardwood floors that had always been polished on Saturday, not all over just around the edges. We didn't have wall-to-wall carpeting in that time. The stair carpets had worn out by the time I revisited the old home and none had replaced them; the new tenants didn't use the china cabinet in the eating area of the big kitchen for the 'good' dishes like we did.

Even when I saw the big old house being moved to its present location, which isn't too far from us, I never felt nostalgic. I could only remember that, as Edgar A. Guest said in his poem, "It takes a heap of living to make a house a home." That is what made our house wonderful to us all as we grew up there, married from it and went back home with the babies to visit our parents. There's much to be said for establishing a home place for rearing a family. When the time comes to leave the nest, so to speak, one really remembers that it is the home, not the house, that is fondly remembered.

MRS. DARRELL JONES, sister of MRS. OMAR JONES, spent Friday here with the Joneses enroute from her home in Corpus Christi to Lubbock. She continued to Lubbock Saturday to get her daughter, JUDY, who has finished her freshman year at Tech.

MRS. G. H. WOOD is planning a trip to New Orleans to visit her son and daughter-in-law, DR. and MRS. G. H. WOOD III. Her daughter Lynn, a Texas University sophomore, will be in Thursday for a short visit before returning to Austin to attend summer school.

The LARSEN LLOYDS and their children, Larsen and Lisa, are expected home today from Enid, Okla., where Mrs. Lloyd competed in the South Central Regional contests of Toastmistress International. At this writing the contests had not been held (they were scheduled for Saturday night at the Holiday Inn) so I don't know the outcome but Mrs. Lloyd thought the subject assigned was apropos, what with her taking two-year-old Larsen and infant Lisa. Her subject was "Emergency."

MRS. ROY REEDER and MRS. MERRILL CREIGHTON have returned from Dallas where they spent several days last week.

MRS. C. F. BAKER of Caldwell, Kans., is a guest in the home of MR. and MRS. L. T. KING. This is the first visit for the women in ten years. They were roommates during their college days and have kept up their good friendship through the years.

MRS. EARL PARRISH has returned home from a trip to Stephenville where she visited her son, REV. JAMES MAHONEY and family. While away she also visited her other son, ROBERT M. MAHONEY and his family in Houston.

MR. and MRS. JOE PENDLETON and daughters of San Angelo are spending the weekend here with MR. and MRS. JOHNNY HILL. For many years Pendleton was an accountant for an oil firm here.

Success Is Simple

Tom Brigance insists that if a woman is going to wear pants, she should be certain that they do not divulge thigh-bulge or fanny bumps. He states, very emphatically, that pants should and can give a woman a lithe, lissome look and puts his theory to work with this one-piece lounge suit. The trouser half, slim and tapered, has a very knowledgeable placement of pleats over the tummy and darts over the hips, a technique that allows the trousers to hang straight.

The blouse, with a side zipper that extends into the pants leg, has a button closing on the left shoulder for easy getting-into, and repeats the pleating and darting at the waistline. If you are headed for a winter holiday in the sun, try sharkskin with a piping of bright blue or red; one of the uncrushable spuns in either a solid color or a print.

For snow places, whether at a ski lodge or just in your own front parlor, brocade, dull satin, damask or one of the new matelasse finishes will more than keep the home fires burning.

Sue Cook Honored At Party

A Coke party was given Saturday morning honoring Sue Cook at the Travis Carlton home at 1701 Harvard. Mrs. R. W. Andrews and Mrs. Carlton were hostesses.

About 30 graduating senior girls were served refreshments at a table decorated with an ice bucket filled with red carnations and a pair of Coke bottles. At the base of the arrangement a red rooster made from a beverage bottle with straw feathers served as an accent, and the rooster theme was used on the invitations sent to the guests. A high school annual and pennant completed the decorative theme. Drinks were served from a large black tub on the tea cart.

The honoree was presented a red carnation corsage decorated with miniature bottles. Guests revealed their plans for the coming year during a conversation session.

Energetic Family

The Rev. and Mrs. L. D. Green pause for a moment's rest with their children after unpacking crates and getting settled in their new home at 710 Tulane. Beverly and Marie assisted their mother in getting the house in order, and Freddie and L. D. Jr. helped their father with the more many chores involved.

L. D. Green Family Reflects Enthusiasm For Challenges

By MARY COCHRAN
Success is doing the best you can with what you have, it has been said. Under those terms, the new minister at the East Fourth Baptist Church, Rev. L. D. Green, is a very successful man.

Nine years ago he took the pastorate of a home mission church in El Paso that boasted a membership of 14. The house served as the place of worship, Sunday school classes were conducted under the car port and Mrs. Green started a primary class in a tent in the backyard. With drive and determination Rev. and Mrs. Green sparked that congregation with ambition to grow.

Members and the minister began the building of a bigger church by actually doing the construction themselves. As it grew, contracted labor was used and today that Loma Terrace Church is a $250,000 plant with a total membership of 950 members. Now they are sponsoring four other mission churches. Rev. Green's conversation becomes animated as he tells of the experiences the family has had in this work. Over 500 members were baptized in that church and 12 members of the congregation were ordained as ministers. At his last service there, this minister licensed four young men to preach.

MIDLAND HOME

Midland is Rev. Green's home and he recalls with sadness when the Big Spring football team knocked his high school team out of the district running. During the war years he served in the Army as a tank driver and it was during this time that he met a bright-eyed girl named Dorothy in Baltimore, Md. The romance blossomed and they were married in 1943 in the First Baptist Church in Midland.

Following his discharge from military service in 1946 he entered East Texas Baptist College at Marshall and was ordained as a minister in 1947. Their first born, Beverly, made her entrance into the world there, and now 17 years later is making plans to go back as a college student after graduation next year.

ACTIVE FAMILY

Mrs. Green regards her family and church as her hobby. The new family home at 710 Tulane is always buzzing with activity. Beverly has already established a place for herself in high school where she has been named news editor of the school paper for next year and will be a percussionist in the band. Marie, 13, is finishing the eighth grade at Runnels Junior High School, and Freddie, 9, and L. D. Jr., 8, go to Washington Place School.

The whole family is sports minded and make enthusiastic football fans. The boys have begun the Little League season for the summer and Freddie is an outfielder on the Eagles. L. D. has not yet made his team affiliation.

The boys want to follow in their father's footsteps in ministerial work and Beverly has her goal set for social work. "We are very happy to be in Big Spring," said Rev. Green with characteristic enthusiasm.

Here is a family of newcomers who welcome the challenge of a new church and community.

Vision Is Topic At Luncheon

"New Looks in Vision" was the program presented Thursday by Mrs. J. T. Gilmore for members of the Big Spring Credit Women's Club. The group met at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant for a noon luncheon and the program.

Mrs. Gilmore said that people depend on eyesight more than any of the other senses. Eyes play a big part in personality and she suggested that eyeglass frames should be chosen carefully that go best with the shape and profile of the face as well as for good vision. She displayed different styles of frames now considered stylish and practical.

The second part of the program was given by Mrs. J. B. Apple who reported on the Consumer Credit Conference held in San Antonio May 16-19. She attended all meetings of the Lone Star Council of Credit Women of which the local club is a member. She brought back a club educational participation award. Mrs. Apple served as state historian for the council this past year.

A total of 550 attended the meeting with 138 being Credit Women of Texas.

Twenty-three were present, including Mrs. Auda Stanford, former resident now living in Denver, Colo. The next meeting will be June 4.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Suggest A Soaking For Saving Silver

Dear Folks: For those of you who have disposals which have chewed up some silverware . . . after five years of this and replacing our plated wear from time to time (which puts a strain on the budget), my husband (bless that old Rock of Gibraltar) finally decided that we should never put silverware in the sink itself. Dishes, maybe, but silver? Absolutely not!

It goes down that little ol' disposal with all the garbage after preparing dinner doesn't it?

We found a wonderful solution . . . we took a tall plastic detergent bottle, cut the top off and now keep it on the drain-board filled with water.

Now, as soon as we use a knife, fork, etc., we place it in this plastic jar. The opaque jar keeps all of it in one place, looks neat and . . . also hides the evidence that I am saving my unwashed silver for the next dishwashing period.

Soaking flat ware also softens the residue which sometimes does not come off easily. I have found that it even prevents tarnish (eggs, etc.) on knives and forks.

Dear Heloise: My encyclopedia says that stains made on linen by coffee or tea can be removed by moistening the material with glycerine, allowing it to stand for a time and then steaming or washing it with hot soapy water . . . Mrs. B. C.

I would like to share it. As I like an absorbent dishcloth, I sewed a piece of net on one side of my regular dishcloth (I used a heavy cloth, not mesh type) and stitched from corner to corner and around the edge. It is absolutely wonderful!

I do not have to use anything else to scour with, because my scouring pad is built in, and best of all it never loses its abrasive quality. I used bright red net to match my kitchen decor. . . . Frances Erwin

Dear Heloise: At my wedding shower, I received a prank gift of a dozen diapers! I believe I used them more than any other gift I received.

They make wonderful dish towels. When you have a job that calls for a large rag, the diapers cannot possibly be beat. Ever since that day when I need new dish towels I buy diapers. The bird's-eye type.

I prefer using gauze diapers on my baby so there is no mix-up on that score! . . . A. Cather

Dear Heloise: In experimenting with your nylon net for dishcloths, I have come up with the following idea which I am so pleased with that

I recently had the misfortune of putting a nice white shirt that was chlorine retentive into the washer with bleach . . . When the iron touched it, it turned yellow. I soaked it for several hours in some cold water and vinegar solution. I used one cupful of vinegar to a basin of water. It solved my problem.

I do not claim this as my own discovery . . . an electrician once said "vinegar would counteract" certain acids. If this will help others I will be well paid for the few minutes spent passing it on. . . . Mrs. T. J. Pinion

Designers Work Magic On Slips

A slip need no longer be a social error.

The lingerie designers have considered just about every aspect of the undercover story and have come up with most of the answers.

Among the half slips that give a little is a side-wrapped version, like the side-wrapped skirt — wonderful for the miss with a thick hip or thigh problem. It is also ideally worn under pleated, or deeply-gored skirts. After all, why wear a skirt with plenty of action room if the underskirt restricts movement?

Now the lingerie makers are inundating the market with action slips, ankle-length with knee-high slits up the back of the skirt or with deep pleats in the sides for evening dresses.

Place cards at the refreshment table were decorated with ribbon-tied matches denoting a desire for individuals to light a fire for the clubs. Special guests were the incoming lieutenant governor, Lynn Riggs and his wife. Gifts were presented to the outgoing presidents of the local groups, Mr. and Mrs. Broughton.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ellis of Andrews visited in the home of their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Hinsley.

Nancy Hedleston Prepares For Summer Trip Abroad

A young girl is full of dreams and plans. When the fortune teller prophesies she will have wealth, travel to distant lands and meet a tall, dark and handsome man the feminine heart pounds with excitement.

Nancy Hedleston is one of those lucky girls who is having a part of that dream come true. Mrs. Flo Pinson of Dallas is taking her niece, Nancy, to Europe for a grand tour of 11 countries as a graduation present.

There is plenty of time for the other prophesies to come true, but the time is now, and plans for such a trip crowds out any other thoughts in this blonde teenager's head.

To begin the trip, the pair will leave June 29 for New York City to see the sights. A visit to the United Nations building is tops on Nancy's sightseeing list. She has been studying the U.N. all year at Big Spring High School and is anxious to see it in operation. Other special plans include the World's Fair, that famous walk up Fifth Avenue, the bright lights of Broadway and a ferry ride to Staten Island to see the Statue of Liberty.

DELUXE CRUISE

They will board the Queen Elizabeth July 1 for a five-day boat trip. There will be much excitement in cabin 143 as the two travelers make hurried costume changes for the activities on board ship. There will be tennis, shuffleboard, swimming, and of course, dancing every evening.

Mrs. Pinson and her niece are taking a planned tour and will meet their travel group at a theatre party at the Palladium theatre in London when they arrive. Nancy has plans of majoring in government when she attends Texas Technological College at Lubbock next fall, so she is most anxious to see the places in England where so much of our own governmental law was born.

As overnight journey will take the party to Holland where they will visit the Hague and Amsterdam. Nancy will welcome the opportunity to see art museums throughout Europe.

Counting The Days

Nancy Hedleston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Hedleston, 1609 Indian Hills, is buzzing with excitement as she prepares to graduate and get ready for a grand tour of Europe. The trip is a graduation gift and will fulfill a long time dream of this active teenager.

Pass to Italy. Nancy has always dreamed of a gondola ride and will get her wish when the party reaches Venice. Several days in Italy will give the pair an opportunity to explore "The Eternal City." They will follow the sun to the coastline for a stop over on the French Riviera.

FRENCH FINALE
On the final leg of the tour, Paris and all its glamour will be on display for the group. They will leisurely tour the city and its sights and enplane for New York after 24 magic days of sightseeing in Europe. A magic carpet ride home on an Air France flight will bring the couple back to the United States in jet time. Nancy is truly one of the "Golden Girls." Honors have been heaped on her head throughout her school years. She has taken a talent for writing and used it in her work as reporter for the school page and as associate editor of the school annual. She received the Jane Thomas award as the outstanding senior girl in Y work this year and was named school beauty.

Ambition and dreams make a fine combination and Nancy will use both to be her own fortune teller as the future unfolds.

Creation Is Theme At Circle

Mrs. W. E. Gibson Jr., 1906 Eleventh Place, served as hostess and chairman at the meeting of the Evans-Moffett Circle of St. Paul Presbyterian Church Thursday evening.

The wonders of creation as told in the book of Psalms was the study given by Mrs. Joe Knight. Individual members listed the wonders of nature recorded in the book and recited Psalms 104 in unison. Hymns based on the book were sung. Mrs. L. B. Edwards worded a prayer.

Plans were made to serve at a June party for the Westside Recreation Center. Reports from the general meeting were given by Mrs. Gibson, and monthly duties were assigned.

Refreshments were served to eight members. Mrs. Rube McNew, 1908 Settles, will serve as hostess at the June 18 meeting.

BPO Does Hold Annual Banquet

The mother-daughter banquet held annually by the BPO Does was a Thursday evening event at the Holiday Inn. Mrs. Bill Rogers served as chairman of the affair and welcomed the 24 attending. Mrs. L. D. Jenkins worded the opening prayer.

Special prizes were awarded Mrs. Morris Prager, Shirley Ann Maenner and Evette Fisher.

Couple Recites Vows In Lamesa Ceremony

LAMESA (SC)—Miss Donna Kay Warren of Sand and Gayland Kent Airhart were united in marriage Saturday at 7 p.m. in the chapel of Second Baptist Church with Rev. Millard Williams, pastor of the New Home Baptist Church, officiating the double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Warren and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Airhart.

The church was decorated at the altar with a kneeling bench, flanked by an archway entwined with greenery. Baskets of white stock and two spiral candelabras with white tapers completed the scene.

Wedding music was presented by Miss Judy Turner at the piano and Mrs. Charles Warren, aunt of the bride, soloist.

FORMAL GOWN

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length white sheath dress with a full chapel train caught by a bow at the waist. Her gown featured long sleeves coming to points over the hands and lace appliques on the bodice. The shoulder-length imported silk illusion veil was attached to a cardinal crown. Her bouquet was made of a white orchid surrounded by feathered carnations and white streamers.

Mrs. John Woodward, cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor. Miss Marian Kiefer, Miss Linda Swafford, Miss Sherry Samson and Miss Pamela Bolton were bridesmaids. Teri Airhart, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl and Randy Airhart, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. Mitzi Warren, sister of the bride, and Shara Gay Airhart, niece of the bridegroom, lighted the candles. Jimmy Davis served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsman included Larry Turner, Donald Airhart, Jimmy Airhart and Quinton Airhart, brothers of the bridegroom. Jackie Warren, brother of the bride, and Ken Scott were ushers.

County Forecloses And Finds Itself In Realtor Business

By SAM BLACKBURN
Howard County is now in the real estate business and business, thank you, is booming. This week, Mrs. Zirah LeFevre will sign deeds certifying the sale of 436 town lots. The county will still have about that many lots yet to sell.

Buyers certainly can have no complaint at the price—for the 25-foot-front lots. The price is about $10 per lot plus a small fee for drawing up the deed.

The entry of the county into the realtor field results from the recent sale at auction of 868 lots in the old Forsan Townsite. The property was sold for delinquent taxes. The county took the entire tract for $7,500—the amount of the unpaid taxes, interest and penalty pending against the property.

Mrs. LeFevre was instructed to sell the property. A large number of Forsan residents were on hand at the sale and immediately filed their applications for certain lots included in the land bought by the county.

The accumulated back taxes are payable to the state, the county, the school district and to the town of Forsan.

BIG BUYERS

One of the biggest buyers so far is the Forsan Countyline Independent School District. The district had bought a total of 144 lots—the bulk of six blocks all adjacent to the school district and insuring the institution ample room for any expansion.

The statement sent by Mrs. LeFevre to the school lists the cost of the 144 lots, at $1,031.60. Deed fees will be added.

The Forsan Oil Well Service was another heavy buyer—25 lots.

The City of Forsan bought in 23 lots. Mayor C. J. Lamb said that the city has been eager to acquire the land for a long time. The municipality will drill a well on the tract to augment the town's water supply.

E. G. Patton bought 44 lots. His tract comprises two complete blocks—Nos. 24 and 62.

Other buyers to whom statements for lots they asked to buy have been dispatched are

E. M. Bailey, 5 lots; Ronnie Wilkins, 2 lots; J. D. Gilmore, 4 lots; L. S. Camp, 4 lots; L. B. McEneaney, 3 lots; J. C. Woodard, 1 lot; Elbert L. Strickland, 4 lots; Stanley Willis, 4 lots; Mayor Lamb, 6 lots; E. S. Lewis, 2 lots; and O. W. Scud-day, 4 lots.

AMBITIOUS LAYOUT

The property was a part of the original ambitious plat laid out years ago when Forsan first appeared on the county scene. It held promise at that time of becoming a sizable town. The late Clayton Stewart was a prime mover in the effort to promote the town.

The dream of a small city failed to come true, but the townsite, laid out in lots, remained on the books. After a time, unpaid taxes began to pile up. Efforts to work out an agreement with the Forsan Townsite Company on the tax obligation did not pan out although some of the lots reverted to range land.

Finally, the political subdivisions involved brought suit for the accumulated unpaid taxes. A judgment was handed down and the sheriff ordered to sell the land to the highest bidder.

Mrs. LeFevre bid $7,500 on behalf of the county, the school, the state and the City of Forsan.

LIMITED DEED

Wayne Burns, county attorney, who worked out the legal details, said that the deeds to be issued to the purchasers of the lots will be different from ordinary warranty deeds.

For two years after the tax deed issues, the original property owner has a right to redeem his property—provided he pays the new owner what he has expended, plus interest and a premium and recompenses him for any improvements (a point for contention) he may have made on the land.

After two years, the new owners title becomes permanent. The former owners are no longer entitled to redeem their lands.

Four names, one as alternate, have been recommended to trustees by the Big Spring city commission to serve on the board of equalization for real estate and personal property (no oil or utilities). Regular meeting dates of the board of equalization are Wednesday and Thursday, July 1-2.

A preliminary report, of a study on the organization and staffing of the Big Spring public schools, by Dr. Bascom B. Hayes, professor of educational administration, University of Texas, will be made. The board's policy is to maintain continuing evaluation of practices and procedures of operation and instruction in the school system. The first phase is on organization and staffing of the central administration.

If the board approves, the first report will be made Tuesday.

Subsequent reports, on individual school organization and staffing, will be made, with the next due possibly in August.

Conflicts with the regular June 9 meeting, may cause the board to set another date, possibly June 16, after discussion of the organization and staffing of the Big Spring public schools, by Dr. Bascom B. Hayes, professor of educational administration, University of Texas, will be made. The board's policy is to maintain continuing evaluation of practices and procedures of operation and instruction in the school system. WINGS OVER BIG SPRING New Flier Gets His License

Webb Aero Club, made up of Webb Air Force Base personnel, has a new private pilot this week. Airman Charley Simmons completed and checked his ride. To celebrate his new license he and his wife made a trip in the Tri-Pacer to St. Louis over the weekend to visit their parents. They had a total flying time of 17.5 hours for the trip. He plans to begin work on his commercial pilot's license and to make a career of flying. Mrs. Simmons is a native of Yucatan, took nurse's training in New Orleans, then moved to St. Louis where she and Charley, a Parks College student, met. They came to Webb in January of this year.

Several cross country flights were made during the week by members of both the Webb Aero Club and Big Spring Flying Club. Webb members flying were: Cessna—Strickler (2), Simmons (3), Young; Tri-Pacer—Estas, Simmons (cross country); Mooney—Vettergren (cross country three days). Big Spring Flying Club flights were made by: Colt—Clayton Bettie, Dr. John B. Norton, Wayne Bartlett, Jay Lebcowitz; Sky-tow to town will be furnished for; Buster Weaver (3 a n d cross country), Thomas B. Dow-learn (cross country three days).

Other activity at Howard County Airport has been fairly light over the week. Private aircraft owners have made some short trips. Some longer trips, for vacations, are anticipated during the holidays.

The Tahoka Jaycees are inviting pilots from all over West Texas to the dedication of the T-Bar airport there June 14. If it rains (happy thought) the dedication will be held the following Sunday. The new airport has an east-west paved runway 3,000 feet long, and a north-south gravel runway 2,600 feet long; complete fuel service, and unicom for 122.8.

A free breakfast for fly-ins will be served from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. and free transportation to town will be furnished for those wishing to attend church or visit. Supplementing the dedication service will be sky diving exhibitions, aerobatics, helicopter rides, crop dusting demonstrations, and aircraft exhibits. Prizes will be given to the oldest pilot, youngest pilot, pilot traveling the greatest distance, and to the pilot of every tenth airplane to land.

Holding, Not Taking

When the U. S. Engineers last week outlined a tentative plan to meet the requirements of the Colorado River basin for the next 100 years, the only substantial dissent came from a spokesman of the Lower Colorado River Authority.

The engineers' proposal was somewhat similar to those of the U. S. Study Commission and the Texas Water Commission in suggesting at least three major dams on the upper Colorado. If a total of eight potential reservoirs are created, the 929 million gallons per day yield for the six LCRA reservoirs might be reduced to 530 million gpd, the engineers estimated.

"What you propose to do is to take water away from the lower watershed and give it to the upper watershed," said Sam Gideon, Austin, general manager for LCRA.

Mr. Gideon cannot be faulted for wanting to preserve the LCRA bird nest on the ground, but his logic and terminology are subject to serious question.

The upper watershed does not "take" water under the U. S. Engineers' or any plan. It plans to "hold" more of the water that falls in its own area so that this water may be applied to this area that will so desperately need it. The lower basin, with a substantially heavier rainfall to support it, should have no reasonable objection to the equity of this approach.

The 530 million gpd which would still be available to the lower basin should be ample for municipal and industrial demands. Perhaps it is not adequate to support the power requirements of the LCRA, but if power can be produced just as economically by other means (and it actually can be produced cheaper by steam when all factors are figured in), then why should the upper basin be deprived of water it must have in order to support the luxury of power production?

Until the lower basin begins pumping its water a hundred or more miles upstream to meet municipal needs, it should not raise its voice to protest against the upper basin holding what falls in its more arid area.

Invest In Young Talent

June is a happy time, for it brings graduations and it brings vacations.

It also can be a perplexing time, for young people enter the labor market perhaps for the first time. Those who have prepared for a productive, honorable place in society are due a chance to achieve this aim. To do it, they have to have jobs. Wherever possible, we hope that employers will stretch a point to take them into their organizations, not alone for what they can do now, but more particularly for what they may return with the acquisition of experience.

We hope, too, that those who cannot add full-time employees will consider part-time places for high school and college students seeking summer work. This will be a big help to them in furthering their education, and it will be a potent answer to all the mischief that can come from unwanted idleness.

Wallace Vote Affects Congress

WASHINGTON — Control of the House of Representatives by the Democratic party after the November election has suddenly been placed in doubt as a result of the surprisingly large percentage of the vote obtained by Governor George Wallace of Alabama in the Maryland presidential primary contest.

Apparently there is a sizable voter discontent on the "civil rights" issue not only in Maryland but in other states in the North. This could mean a big "cross-over" vote away from the party in power.

IT IS UNFORTUNATE, of course, when a color line is drawn in politics. But the realistic truth is that, in the state of Maryland, President Johnson's "stand-in" candidate was saved from defeat only by the Negro vote. While this is of help in a primary contest, it may work to the disadvantage of the Democratic party in the final elections. For many of the seats in the House of Representatives were won in 1962 with narrow margins by Democrats. It would take a net shift of not more than 5 per cent of the votes to bring about the defeat of a number of incumbent Democrats who support the "civil rights" legislation.

BUT MARYLAND is not the only state where the whites apparently have used a primary election contest, such as was held last week, to register their objection to the "civil rights" legislation. It now has been disclosed by the Indiana Civil Rights Commission in a formal report that the biggest protest vote on the "civil rights" issue in the recent state presidential-primary balloting came from "white suburbia." The statistics just made public show that in 25 of Indiana's 92 counties Governor Wallace got a vote above his average for the state. In Marion County, where about one-third of Indiana's 300,000 Negroes live, the Wallace vote was 20.7 per cent of the Democratic vote. But in the surrounding counties in Indiana, Governor Wallace got from 32 per cent to 45 per cent of the vote.

SO THE INDIANA election should not have been appraised merely by pointing to the state average for Wallace as only 29.8 per cent of the total Democratic vote, any more than the true meaning of the Maryland election is revealed by noting that Governor Wallace got nearly 43 per cent of the vote. Actually, the Alabamian got more than 50 per cent of the vote in many counties in Maryland and ran strong in most areas except the city of Baltimore and Montgomery and Allegany counties.

A protest vote of large proportions, moreover, in particular districts can affect many a congressional contest without reference to how a state's electoral vote may be cast.

IT WOULD BE a mistake to assume that this voter discontent has reached the peak of its strength. Intrusion by the government into private business and into family life, together with the possibility that the federal government now may become more active than before in breaking down school districts or in forcing the sale of homes to Negroes in neighborhoods previously all-white, has aroused fears. These are not necessarily erased just because the pending federal legislation itself does not contain all of the controversial restrictions which are causing so much talk throughout the country. Again and again, defenders of the "civil rights" bill have declared that there is much misinformation being circulated as to what the pending bill in the Senate actually contains. Undoubtedly the comments being made in many cases have gone beyond what is actually written in the bill. But this does not mean that apprehension as to what can be added later, particularly in the state and local laws, has been removed.

THE MARYLAND contest is an eye-opener to Congress. Very few members will say for publication that the results will influence their attitude in the future, but the more they learn about the latest developments in their own constituencies, the more they will discover that a substantial discontent has been aroused which has not been offset by any new political support.

Billy Graham

Does Isaiah 2:3 and 4 refer to the first or second coming of Christ? D. C.

It was characteristic of Old Testament prophets to merge into a single prophecy aspects of the first and second coming of our Lord Jesus. This particular passage seems to be one of them. The glorious things that are described in these two verses could never possibly take place had it not been for Calvary. But the complete fulfillment of them, it seems, must wait until the Lord Himself shall return.

Probably what you are thinking about is the closing phrase where it says: "... nation shall lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." In an age of warfare we love to contemplate such Scriptures as this one, and we sometimes indulge in wishful thinking. Certainly this does not describe a state of affairs that exists at the present time, nor even in any foreseeable future. The only exception would be that our Savior Himself should return and bring about a complete and total fulfillment of all that He has promised in His Word.

There will be a day of peace—but not till the Prince of Peace is on the Throne in the hearts of men.

The New Speculation: Coins For Profit

Perhaps it's because the U. S. gold stock has been declining. Once, it amounted to nearly 70 per cent of the total reserves in the western (non-Communist) world. Today, the American share is less than a third (see chart) and citizens can't hold gold.

Or, perhaps, it's because the price of silver has risen in the world market to $1.29 and a fraction per ounce. That means that you can get your silver's worth out of a cartwheel — a silver dollar.

AND YOU CAN almost—but not quite — get your silver's worth out of dimes, quarters and half dollars. When silver gets to $1.37 an ounce, the content of those coins will be dollar for dollar in the metal.

But that, of course, will not help anyone who pays $1 or $1.50 or more for one of the John F. Kennedy half dollars. Already 60,000,000 have been minted, yet try to find one in circulation.

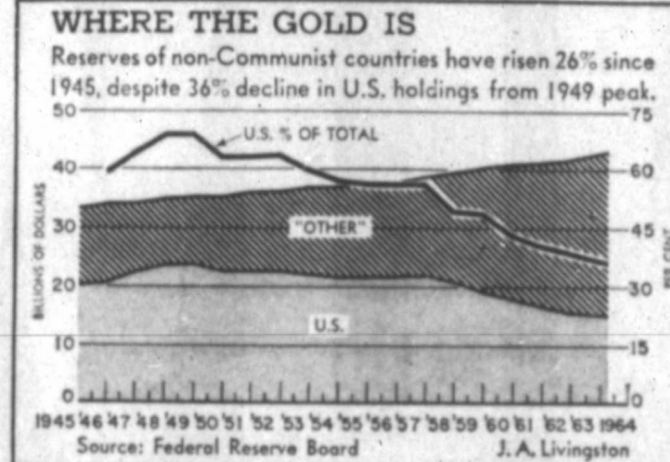

People are hoarding the Kennedy halves as if they were a rarity and will continue to be a rarity. Coin dealers are getting as much as $9 and $10 for proof sets of coins containing this half dollar. These sets consist of a 1964 penny, nickel, dime, quarter and half — with a monetary value of 91 cents. The offering price for sets at the Mint is $2.10.

COINS HAVE suddenly become a store of value with a profit fillip. Persons who have been able to amass Kennedy half dollars or Kennedy proof sets for sale have made a killing. Some Congressmen, with spare time on his hands, might start an investigation.

The scarcity of the Kennedy half has undoubtedly exacerbated the coin shortage, which perhaps you, yourself, have noticed when you've asked for change.

SO LONG AS coins were ample, any bank, savings and loan association, supermarket, or storekeeper deposited with banks his excess coins. Banks, in turn, sent their excess for deposit in the Reserve Banks.

Now, however, each commercial bank, savings bank, and savings and loan association, and merchant sets up re-

Reserves of non-Communist countries have risen 26% since 1945, despite 36% decline in U.S. holdings from 1949 peak.

Reasons for the shortage are many. The first is prosperity. As the exchange of goods and services increases the need for currency likewise increases. And population growth — more people — adds to the number of pockets and purses carrying coin.

HOWEVER, in the four years from 1959 through 1963 the total value of coins outstanding has increased 32 per cent as against a rise of only 21 per cent in the total output of goods and services—Gross National Product.

Further, the value of coins outstanding has increased faster than total paper money in circulation as well as one-dollar bills.

Many explanations — besides prosperity and population growth — are offered to explain the coin shortage:

1. The widening use of vending machines and parking meters.

2. THE SPREAD of sales taxes, which balloon requirements for pennies.

3. The increase in bank branches, savings and loan associations, finance offices and check-cashing establishments. These multiply the separate money pools and, therefore, the total requirement.

4. An increase in the number of coin collectors — genuine numismatists plus speculators.

The shortage persists notwithstanding overtime output at the mints in Philadelphia and Denver. In the first four months of this year, production of coins in dollar value was 66 per cent above a year ago. The number of pieces was up 30 per cent.

PEOPLE ARE hoarding coins because they figure they can't lose and are sure to gain. First, if the price of silver advances further, maybe they'll make a profit on content. Yet, this is unlikely because the government has a plentiful stock on hand to sell and enough for about eight years' coinage at present volume.

Second, since coin collecting is booming, coins are bound to appreciate in value. Again, this is a questionable assumption. After all, more and more coins are being minted. This is numismatics rather than numismatology.

But if SOME motion remains possible, that is good news. Even if the patient cannot walk, but still has some ability to move the leg, that is the thing to do: exercise it every day. The kind of exercise is not particularly important. It depends on what the patient CAN do. Just moving it helps, and develops ability to move it develops as you go along.

Some ability of movement indicates that, although there has been damage to the brain, the

Around The Rim

One Way To Double The Work Force

Other people have been kicking this one around, so I might as well get in the act.

We have got to solve the unemployment situation. The best way to eliminate the poverty pockets is to get those good people jobs. To get them jobs, we have to make the work. If we cannot make the work, we have to find a way to share it.

THERE IS A philosophy that says the 35 hour week, a $2 minimum wage and double time for overtime will cure the situation. Well, make that a 30 hour week and triple time for overtime.

This might work, but once it's rolling, we might find that we would have to go a step further.

We could gradually slip the work week on down, probably in five hour segments, to 25, 20, 15 and so on.

THE WHOLE business would reach the proper state if we could manage the no-hour work week. Then everybody on jobs, you see, would be replaced by somebody else, and almost automatically, or perhaps arithmetically, the work force would be doubled. I don't know whether the country could stand the prosperity of twice as many people drawing pay checks for not showing up, but it's something to contemplate.

Oh, I suppose, half the people would show up, but immediately if they were on the job under the limitations of the no-hour work week, they would be entitled to triple overtime. There would have to be some way of determining which of the two people on the job was employed under standard conditions, or which one got there through the no-hour work week, if you follow.

FIRST FELLOW might get a call from the office with somebody asking him why he isn't on the job. "You crazy, or sumpin'?" he would answer. "This is my no-hour week, I'm already checked in, and my triple has already started." Well, the fellow who gained a job when the first fellow's work week got cut to nothing may be on overtime himself. This gets us into what an accountant would call sextuple overtime. I take that back. An accountant would just go quietly crazy.

IF YOU PURSUED this far enough you might create a situation whereby the employed would be unemployed, then a way would have to be found to employ those unemployed without affecting the employment of those who became employed by virtue of the others becoming unemployed.

THEN, CONSIDER the results if both segments began "moonlighting" that is, taking other jobs on their time off. All the no-work week fellows would have time for a moonlighting job, which is pretty push on top of the triple overtime, but there might not be enough moonlight left for that other segment which moved into full employment when the first segment went on the no-hour work week. This means that to solve the whole problem, there is going to have to be more moonlight, and that, I think is the reason we are sending a couple of men to the moon. You see, there's more to this space program than some people realize.

Deeds, Not Words, On Savings

WASHINGTON — Among his other duties and contributions to the American seal, Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia is chairman of a committee which has a cumbersome name, gets little publicity, but which strikes periodic hammer blows for common sense.

The joint committee on reduction of nonessential expenditures has always been a thorn in the flesh of the spenders, for it lists the payroll of the federal government and usually has reason to point out its ever-rising costs.

SPENDTHRIFT presidents and politicians since 1941 have grumbled about the committee, and no President to my knowledge has praised its good work. Therefore, it was a newsy item on May 6th when President Johnson at his lawn-party press conference remarked that he had written to Senator Byrd in the latter's capacity as chairman of this committee.

The gist of the letter is not to compliment the committee, as might have been assumed, but to nudge the committee to compliment the President for recent and pending cutbacks in federal employment.

IT REMAINS to be seen whether Senator Byrd will take the hint, and whether he will find that the President has really made substantial gains in "reduction of nonessential Federal expenditures."

For example, LBJ's figures show that the government hired 15,893 fewer persons in March 1964 than it did in March 1963. But the great bulk of this personnel cutback—14,848 persons—can be laid to the petting out of the $550 million Accelerated Public Works program which was a temporary make-job project under the Kennedy Administration. If we subtract these temporary workers from President Johnson's figures, we find that he has reduced Federal employment only by 845 persons, which isn't very much.

MOREOVER, a heavy majority in the federal payroll reduction falls in the Department of Defense which has been laudably slicing away at its civilian bureaucracy. In March 1963 the Defense Department had 1,656,684 non-uniformed workers. In March 1964 this figure was down to 1,037,290. The reduction within that twelve-month period was 19,394 persons.

Yes, but was there a similar cutback in non-military departments and agencies of the federal government? Alas, there was not. In March 1963 Mr. Kennedy had 1,429,854 workers in Federal, not counting those at the Defense Department. In March 1964, Mr. Johnson had 1,432,755. LBJ, therefore, topped JFK by 3,701 workers in this category.

NOTHING HERE suggests that we ought to be ungrateful to the President for making a start at cutting the bureaucracy. He has certainly done that. He has promised to do more. He has publicly harangued his heads of departments and agencies to chop out the deadwood. But the task is mammoth, and words aren't deeds.

Better Training For Young People

WASHINGTON — With the high-school band playing "Pomp and Circumstance" countless graduation classes will shortly file out into the world. Whether they go on for more education or whether a sizable number join the vain search for non-existent jobs is what a great many people are just now asking.

The Johnson poverty program will be like balling out the ocean with a pail if the millions of young people coming into the labor market have neither training for jobs calling for increasing skills nor any desire to acquire it. When only a small percentage of a commencement class says it wants to go on to college or advanced training, even though scholarship funds are available, something is woefully wrong.

THE FAILURES — and the successes — of public education have come under searching scrutiny here in the second conference of the National Committee for Support of the Public Schools. Poor schools tend to increase built-in poverty, many of the specialists pointed out.

As a remedy Prof. J. Kenneth Galbraith of Harvard proposed the creation of a National Teaching Corps recruited from the very best teachers to serve in problem districts, both city and country. He suggested an initial corps of 10,000 to 12,000 to be expanded with further need. Supported by Federal funds the minimum salary, Galbraith said, should be around $12,000.

SHOWING WHAT can be done under the most difficult circumstances, Neil V. Sullivan, superintendent of the Prince Edward Free School Association in Virginia, told the conference how this voluntary effort had succeeded. With the schools in Prince Edward County closed as part of Virginia's massive resistance to the Supreme Court's integration decision, Sullivan and a staff of dedicated teachers came to teach in volunteer schools supported by public contributions. Children deprived of schooling for four years presented a challenge calling for special teaching methods.

This takes time and patient effort every day. When the stroke has been severe it is not wise to expect complete recovery, but steady effort will bring some.

The fact that the motor centers of the brain (the parts which control muscular activity) have been damaged does not imply that other parts have been damaged, so the patient may be able to hear, see or think as well as ever.

A DEPARTMENT of Labor report just released underscored the warning note sounded by the conference. The current rate of unemployment in the age group 16 to 17 is 29 per cent. These are the young people who drift into gangs, crime and violence.

A special study covering high-school graduates and dropouts in October, 1963, shows that the jobless rate for dropouts was 32 per cent, for those with four years of high school 18 per cent. The staggering statistic is that between 1960 and 1970 these young workers will be nearly half of the 12,500,000 net increase in the labor force.

Collection Safe

BUFFALO, Wyo. (AP)—Marvin Jones, co-owner of a Buffalo bar, has a valuable collection of silver dollars—a complete set of every cartwheel minted, except for an 1895 dollar.

He values it at more than $5,000. Jones kept the collection in the safe at his bar, but the recent publicity over the silver dollar shortage prompted him to take his collection home for examination one weekend.

A couple nights later, burglars broke into the tavern, wheeled away the safe and fled with $400 in cash and $400 to $500 in checks. Jones' silver dollar collection was safe at home.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Each Polarix submarine has two 140-man crews, designated the Blues and the Golds.

Each stays on duty three months, then returns to the United States for three months of leave and additional training while the alternate crew takes command. Crew switches are made at an overseas base to reduce the time the submarine will be off patrol.

A crew remains submerged the entire time it is on station.

GRADUATE COOKS SERVE SUMPTUOUS MEAL
HCJC chef class has its commencement dinner

New Class For Cooks Finals, Another May Be Signed Soon

Howard County Junior College's second class in cafe cooking gave a convincing demonstration of its qualifications for a diploma Friday.

The 12 young cooks-to-be, under the direction of Roy E. Corey, instructor, served a sumptuous lunch to members of the college faculty and special guests. Seventy were present.

The class, which began its work 18 weeks ago with 29 students, will officially end June 12. The program is a part of the effort to train unemployed and underemployed persons for better jobs.

The first cook class conducted at the college under the federal manpower retraining act had 13 graduates. Corey said that the majority of these are now employed as chefs, assistant chefs or cooks in restaurants and cafes. Most of the 12 who are completing their work early next month have already been promised jobs in cafes.

Leon Kinney, Texas Employment Commission manager, said that the class has proved effective and that the percentage of students who finished the course is well ahead of the reports from other states where similar training programs are going.

The graduates who will complete their chef study are the members of the third class in this manpower training program conducted at HCJC. Graduates of an earlier class in automobile mechanics now, for the most part, are employed in garages over the area.

Kinney said that plans are to organize a new class in auto mechanics, a class in farm machinery operation and maintenance and another cook class. The appropriation of federal funds has been held up in Washington by the debate over the civil rights bill, but Kinney expects funds soon after July 1.

Reportedly funds are on hand for another cook class, and as soon as this can be confirmed, recruiting students will begin.

Graduates of the present class are: Melvin Allen, San Angelo; Felipe Anguiano, Big Spring; Salvador Flores, Big Spring; W. L. Johnson, San Angelo; Noble Kendrick, Midland; Ernest Macias, Lamesa; Thomas Mitchell, Big Spring; John Moore, Lamesa; Ross Parsons, Big Spring; Abel Sanchez, San Angelo; Billy Weatherall, Big Spring and Tommy Welch, San Angelo.

Candidates For UT Degrees

Three Big Spring students and one from Lamesa are among the 928 seniors in the University of Texas College of Arts and Sciences who are candidates for bachelors' degrees May 30.

Jane Carolyn Cowper, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. B. G. Cowper, 922 Mountain Park, and Shirley Ann Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Terry, 1713 Yale, Big Spring, are candidates for the bachelor of arts degree. Carl Dwayne Wright, Route A, Lamesa, is also a candidate.

Mary Claire Kinney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kinney, 801 W. 16th, is a candidate for the bachelor of science degree, majoring in therapeutic dietetics. She will attend the University of Indiana Medical School at Indianapolis after graduation from the University of Texas.

Webb Draws Top Inspection Rating

Webb AFB has come through its semi-annual inspection with lavish praise.

"This is the finest (Standardboard) report I have ever had the pleasure of reading," declared Brig. Gen. Van Sickle, deputy commander, flying training, Air Training Command. His comments climaxed a five-day inspection visit to Webb by a Standardboard team from ATC. The check is designed to make certain that ATC bases and their units comply with flying, training and support standards.

Webb's over-all evaluation was "excellent," or the maximum rating. For this Col. A. F. Taute was commended, especially for an active interest in the standardization program.

Maj. George Aubry Jr., chief of Webb's standardization division, and his eight evaluators accompanied the visiting team on its rounds here.

Individual evaluations included primary and basic flying with 29 personal checks on instructors and students. Visiting team members cited the number of "excellent emergency procedure briefings."

Other evaluations were conducted in flying training, academic training, officer training, ground training, proficiency flying program and support facilities. Typical were the ratings made in academic training where all periods were listed as excellent.

Maintenance also drew a hand, for the team noted that "general conditions and appearance of aircraft was outstanding."

Webb honed for the inspection by having its own standardization-evaluation division conduct mass briefings for flights and supervisors. Students and instructors were subjected to critiques after flights. Discrepancies and missed quizzes on previous checks were noted and explained.

THE CABLE TV VIEW

BIG SPRING

CABLE TV

I have found myself swinging between predictions of "Will she marry Adam or Cousin Will?" Both, stout-hearted and true men in love with the pretty widow, but it has been a suspenseful two weeks on Bonanza because I couldn't be entirely sure of the one she would marry.

There is something permanent about the pattern of four gallant men headed by Papa Cartwright doing good in their part of the world in those early Western years.

The pretty and good-hearted widow, Laura, was committed to marrying Adam. She was plainly in love with him. He had a heart of gold, and his so-called lapses of attention were caused by plain tiredness. He was tired because he was secretly building a house for his future wife as a surprise wedding present. It seemed all we needed to do was wait until she found out that it was because of this honorable intention that he would fall asleep while visiting. Housebuilding even made him miss his own engagement party.

Cousin Will came along and they couldn't help it. He fell in love with Laura, and she with him. I thought, wait until she finds out that Adam was working beyond an ordinary man's endurance, all for the love of her. Surely these sacrifices would inspire a greater attachment to Adam.

But, no. True love was for Cousin Will who was just about to depart for San Francisco to go out of her life forever. The big-hearted and true family gave its approval. Adam never really did love the widow; he was only in love with the idea of love.

Happily for the Cartwrights and the viewers, Bonanza will continue in the same way with the same basic cast every Sunday night on the NBC network, dedicated to good works by these good people of the Old West.

A MATTER OF DEGREE

Doctor? Lawyer? Merchant? Already Bobbie's parents are planning for his future. They're saving to give him the best education obtainable, because they want him to be happy and successful . . . a son to be proud of.

It would be splendid if a good education automatically led to happiness and success, but unfortunately it doesn't. Many well-educated men and women have failed utterly when it came to living a stable and worthwhile life, because they lacked the strength of character that would have sustained them.

There is no better training ground for the building of character than the Christian Church. There children are encouraged to follow a way of life that will not fail them, and to respect themselves and their fellows.

Give your child every chance to succeed. Make sure that his education includes a thorough knowledge of the time-tested Christian truths.

Novel Views War Refugee

THE NIGHT IN LISBON by Erich Maria Remarque; Harcourt, Brace & World, $4.95.

Countless books have poured out from this side of the Atlantic about World War II, and they have been augmented by others from across the seas. Now a new one, "The Night in Lisbon," comes to us by the author of "All Quiet on the Western Front," which was right among the top of novels from the First World War.

Between his "All Quiet" of 1929 and "The Night in Lisbon" release of 1964, Remarque has turned out more than a half-dozen other acclaimed books.

A German, Remarque in "The Night in Lisbon" writes about the people he knows best, Germans caught in the seemingly hopeless quagmire of war. "All Quiet on the Western Front" centered around the soldier's life and hardships at home; this time, Remarque sketches the plight of a refugee, one of thousands from Hitler's iron fist in the late Thirties and after the quick fall of France.

His narrative technique is something out of the ordinary, but it makes for a lucid bit of storytelling. One refugee in Lisbon meets another—both Germans—and the second offers to exchange two passports, slightly altered, and two American visas, more precious than diamonds to the homeless legions fleeing the Wehrmacht and Nazi concentration camps.

There is one condition to this offer of the precious pieces of paper—the recipient must spend his last night in Lisbon, before sailing of a liner for America, with the donor—and listen to the man's story.

It unwinds into a tale of the inner feelings of a war refugee, the moments when he is sure death is a much easier way out than struggling to live in Switzerland, France, Spain or Portugal. Most of all, it develops into a tender and touching love story.

With his past identity gone and wearing the new name of Josef Schwarz, the refugee tells of the overwhelming desire to return to visit his wife, Helen, whom he abandoned five years before in his escape from the Nazis. His plan's simple daring carries him back to Germany from France, through Switzerland and capitulated Austria.

Her death in Portugal, the European haven for refugees and the port of embarkation for the shining land of America, comes on the day of "The Night in Lisbon."

Remarque's latest novel should enjoy a successful sales life, both in the United States and in Europe, where his words will strike so much closer to the heart. It is a warm, touching story with top characterization of the main players, plus being a piece of historical fiction of the first quality.

Sunny Italy Setting For 'Dark Purpose' Feature

Using sunny Italy as a romantic setting—"Summertime," "Three Coins in the Fountain," "The Barefoot Contessa," "The Light in the Piazza," "Rome Adventure"—all had one ingredient in common: their leading man was a bronzed Italian actor named Rossano Brazzi.

He has recently added another to the list: "Dark Purpose," a suspense romance which co-stars the Latin lover with the girl with the typically American name, Shirley Jones; an Italian beauty, Georgia Moll, and the chic French actress, Micheline Presle. Filmed for Universal in color, with George Sanders additionally starred, the picture will open here Tuesday at the Ritz Theatre.

This story puts Brazzi in a unique romantic quadrangle: three beautiful women are in love with him, and each is prepared to fight for him. But he has his own preference—and a plan to get the woman he wants.

"Summertime" derived its glamour from the golden hues and color tones of Venice; "Three Coins in the Fountain" made Rome's magnificent Trevi Fountain a world-famous landmark; "The Barefoot Contessa" used the magical Ligurian Riviera as counterpoint for its cynical story; Florence's radiant beauty illuminated "The Light in the Piazza"; "Rome Adventure" explored the scenery around Lago Maggiore. "Dark Purpose" moves Brazzi into a new setting: a luxurious and mysterious villa on Italy's spectacular Amalfi coast. It was here, in Ravello, Jackie and Caroline Kennedy relaxed during their Italian vacation two summers ago. Here, in musical-sounding places like Positano and Sorrento, pastel-colored houses nestle snugly into steep cliffs that plunge dizzily down into the azure-blue Bay of Salerno.

Holden, Hepburn Return To Paris

With the faded city of Paris acting as the third star, "Paris When It Sizzles" brings William Holden and Audrey Hepburn together for the first time since their encounter in "Sabrina."

"Paris When It Sizzles" in color and opening today at the Ritz Theatre, is a gay comedy set against a pot-pourri of exciting and bizarre Parisian settings. Most of the comedy was filmed outdoors in the streets, sidewalk cafes and parks of Paris, with the indoor scenes being filmed at the Studios de Boulogne.

William Holden plays a beleaguered Hollywood scenarist in Paris, desperately trying to concoct a story he has sold—but never written. He is the "world's greatest scriptwriter" but he is broke and it is imperative that he write the story in order to maintain his reputation and his grandiose style of living.

He has three days to write the screenplay so he hires an intelligent and spritely secretary, played by Audrey Hepburn, to assist him. And with the big Hollywood movie moguls constantly harassing them, the couple set to work on the script whose plot and story line they improvise as they go along.

As Holden and Hepburn toil with the script they see themselves as their own leading characters, and hilarious situations develop as Holden continually changes to the plot from a spy thriller, to a Western, a who-dunnit, a comedy, a musical, and in short, to every type of basic plot that has ever been used as material for a movie.

To add to the hilarity, several well-known stars appear in the movie—within—the—movie in "walk-on" roles.

"Paris When It Sizzles" was scripted by George Axelrod, one of Hollywood's most imaginative writers whose list of distinguished credits include "The Seven Year Itch," "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?," "Breakfast At Tiffany's" and most recently, "The Manchurian Candidate."

Art Exhibit Slated Friday

Mrs. Myrtle Lee, local art teacher and painter, is giving an art show from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, May 29, in the Fellowship Home of the First Methodist Church.

The show will include displays of oils, pastels, water colors and sketches created by Mrs. Lee and 40 to 50 of her students. Some 300 paintings will be on display.

The U. S. Wildlife Service recently recognized Mrs. Lee for a painting which she entered in a national duck stamp contest. This painting will be displayed at the show. There is no entry fee, nor will there be a sale after the show. The public is invited to attend.

Togo Hails Independence Anniversary With Set

By The Associated Press

The Republic of Togo has honored its fourth anniversary of independence by releasing a set of four stamps which were issued on its Independence Day, April 27.

One stamp shows phosphate mines. Togo's main mining industry. Another stamp depicts the phosphate plant at Kpeme. A third illustrates a railroad. The fourth bears a ship at a phosphate wharf. Also issued by Togo was a set of new stamps commemorating the first anniversary of the signing of the African Charter. These stamps have a common design showing an African breaking the chains of slavery with a map of the African continent in the background. These stamps were printed for the Togolese government in Israel.

Last week this column reported the first-day information on the John Fitzgerald Kennedy memorial postage stamp. Further information on this new postage stamp has been provided by the U.S. Post Office Department.

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski said the stamp has been "the most carefully planned stamp in postal history." He stated that a seven-man team from a New York design firm has worked exclusively on the project from Jan. 16 to March 17, when the design was approved.

Women In His Life Chronicled

NEW YORK (AP)—Abe Burrows is polishing up the story for a musical he started working on while directing "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

A week before the out-of-town testing of that hit was finished, Burrows decided it was in perfect shape. To fill the unexpected interlude, he began reflecting on a story about the women in every man's life.

"There are," he notes, "wife, daughter, sisters, mother-in-law and so forth." Tentative title of the project is "The Harem." Still waiting to be chosen, a composer.

Queen Candidates, Riding Groups Line Up For Rodeo

Five candidates for the 1964 Big Spring Rodeo Queen have been entered by sheriff's posse, mounted patrols and riding clubs. They will be featured in the June 3 parade, and all grand entries at the four-night rodeo performances.

Sharon Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Harrison, Gail Rt., sweetheart of the Big Spring Mounted Patrol, will be hostess to the contestants during their stay in Big Spring. Rodeo dates are June 3-6.

The Reeves County Sheriffs Posse, Pecos, has entered Mary

Jo Lowery, Pecos; Sandra Kay Tennis, Odessa, by the Odessa Sheriffs Posse; Teresa Jean Sellers, Crane rodeo sweetheart, by the Crane Chamber of Commerce; Gail Leonard, Stanton, by Martin County Sheriffs Posse. One other will be in from Colorado City.

The contestant chosen as queen of the 1964 rodeo will receive a trophy following the last grand entry at the rodeo arena. The first and second runners up will each receive a silver belt buckle.

Judging for rodeo queen will be based on poise, appearance, personality and horsemanship, and each quality will receive equal consideration.

Banners for each contestant will be furnished; stall provided, with name, for contestant's horse, and an activities schedule, in which all must participate, will be planned. Each must wear western style dress, but is not required to change for each performance or appearance. Each young lady must be unmarried.

Three floats had been entered for the parade Friday. More are invited to call the Chamber of Commerce office to enter, or for information on entering. The Howard County 4-H club, the Knott 4-H club, and the Howard County Home Demonstration clubs, have floats entered.

Nine riding outfits have accepted invitations to participate in the parade June 3. They are Scurry County Sheriffs Posse, Martin County Sheriffs Posse, Dawson County Sheriffs Posse, Reeves County Sheriffs Posse, and Junior Posse, Winters Riding Club, Cochran County Sheriffs Posse, Ballinger Riding Club, and Lubbock Rangers Riding Club (Junior).

First, second and third place trophies will be awarded to winning riding outfits according to rules and regulations set up by the American Association of Sheriffs Poses and Riding Clubs.

Landmark House Makes Its Long Journey Safely

The old Quinn residence, moved from the site it has occupied for half a century, is now calmly reposing on its new foundation on the old Joe Carter ranch, 18 miles south and west of Big Spring.

The 48-foot-wide, two-story structure began its tedious journey on last Wednesday morning. It reached its destination at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. R. E. Fowler, who with her husband is the new owners of the old landmark, said the ancient structure stood the ravages of travel perfectly.

"There were some old fruit jars in a closet in one of the rooms," she said. "Not one was so much as overturned."

Mrs. Fowler is a granddaughter of the late Joe Carter, an early day rancher.

"Half of the people in Glasscock County as well as a small army from Big Spring were on hand to see the house reach the end of its travels," said Mrs. Fowler.

Fowler is an airplane mechanic at Webb AFB. He bought the Quinn house from Gil Jones and associates.
