Morton, Koger To Guide UF Drive

Trustees of the United Fund of Big Spring and Howard County moved off Tuesday for one of the organization's more challenging years.

At a special meeting, the group approved a 1964-65 campaign budget of $109,366, and unanimously approved appointment of two men to direct the drive.

Campaign chairman will be Lester Morton, president of the First National Bank, and his co-chairman will be M. R. Koger, insurance man.

CONFIDENCE

Both said they are accepting the appointments with confidence that the community will respond this fall as it always has in the past to the United Fund effort.

The two shortly will be organizing a full team of division chairmen. Angy Glenn will again serve as office manager for the campaign, and headquarters will be in the old First National Bank building at Second and Main.

The UF budget is up by $4,492 over that of last year. It was recommended by R. W. Thompson, who headed the budget and screening committee which last month conducted hearings with representatives of 13 participating agencies.

Thompson said that the city's growth, expansion of agency services, and higher costs which affect everyone are all reflected in the budget increase.

Other agencies which share in the United Fund distribution are Central YMCA, Lakeview YMCA, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army, West Side Youth Center, Summer Recreation Program, Howard County Rehabilitation

RISE IN COSTS

"The population of our community is continuing to grow, the requests made on these agencies are continuing to increase, and the inflationary spiral of rising costs is affecting the operation of each of these agencies. The committee is reluctant to insist that these agencies reduce their services to the public without the community first being challenged with contributing to their support."

One new agency was brought into the United Fund program. This is the Halfway House, an institution functioning here to help those individuals who are ready to be released from the state hospital to have some domicile, some help in obtaining employment, and some guidance in readjustment to normal living.

It works closely with the state hospital, has been recognized over the state as a vital agency in assisting in restoration of mental health. The Halfway House has heretofore been trying to operate with its own solicitation of help.

First Woman Will Be Put In Nomination

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—For the first time in the history of any major party, the name of a woman will be placed in nomination today for president of the United States.

It will be Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, who has no chance at all. Her known delegate strength: 17 out of the 1,308 delegates to the Republican National Convention.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Smith, 66, has had a convention hotel headquarters like all the other presidential hopefuls, and committees for Margaret Chase Smith are buttonholing delegates and planning a floor demonstration in her behalf.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont will nominate his neighbor, longtime friend and Senate colleague. Among those who will second the nomination will be Maine's governor, John H. Reed.

Although no major party ever put in the name of a woman for the presidential race, there were two women in minor parties who tried to make it on their own, almost a century ago.

In 1872, Victoria Claflin Woodhull ran for the National Radical Reformers. In 1884 and 1888, Belva Ann Lockwood, a Washington lawyer, was the nominee of the National Equal Rights party.

Mrs. Smith entered three primaries—New Hampshire, Illinois and Oregon—and did her campaigning weekends and at off times so she would not break her record of never missing a Senate roll call since 1955. She said her campaign cost $335.

Mississippi Submits Plans

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Two school boards have submitted plans to a federal judge to desegregate first grade classrooms in the fall, signaling the end of Mississippi's holdout as the last state without school integration below the college level.

A third board was expected to join the school systems of Jackson and Biloxi today in telling U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize how it would obey his desegregation orders.

"We have our plan in hand," said John T. Logan Jr., superintendent of Loggan Leake County. "We are all set."

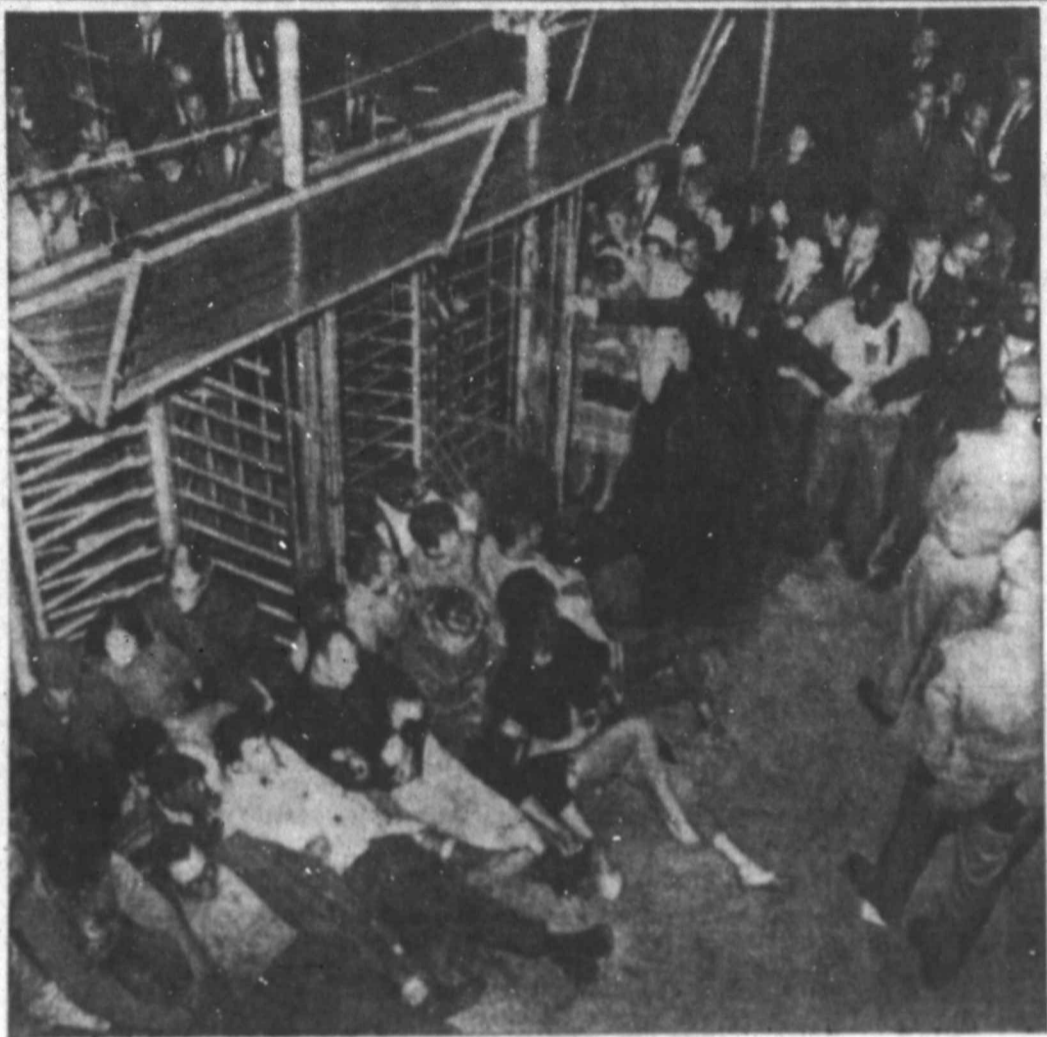

Leake County is the birthplace of former Gov. Ross R. Barnett, who twice physically blocked Negro James H. Meredith from enrolling at the University of Mississippi in 1962.

When Meredith finally arrived on the Ole Miss campus at Oxford to register, a turmoil erupted. Two persons were killed and several hundred were injured.

Judge Mize, 75, a native Mississippian, had given the school boards of Jackson, Biloxi and Leake County until today to submit plans for desegregation.

The Jackson and Biloxi boards filed their plans a day early. They were identical.

Goldwater Galloping Toward Fast Victory

Pickets Block Cow Palace Gate

Turnstiles at one exit from San Francisco's Cow Palace are blocked by civil rights demonstrators at the end of a lengthy session of the Republican convention early today. They were protesting failure of the convention delegates to amend the party platform on civil rights. Delegates and spectators were able to leave the building through other exits. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Vote Tonight On Nominee At Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater galloped a clear road today toward a first ballot Republican nomination. His legions—showing a massive 2 to 1 superiority—crushed last ditch attacks on his position.

They confidently beat down Tuesday night all efforts of Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton's forces to nail changes to the platform the Arizona conservative intends to run on against President Lyndon B. Johnson this fall.

Now, with the convention's big prize to be awarded tonight, and virtually in his pocket, Goldwater appeared to have little more to do than polish his acceptance speech, choose his running mate and consider efforts to unify the party under his pennant.

UNITY THEME

The unity theme was sounded by both former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon, who are moving to act as peacemakers.

Goldwater, commenting through an aide on the developments, said: "The Republican convention is reflecting the conservative majority in the Republican party."

As matters stood, it was the consensus of his associates that Goldwater would tab Rep. William E. Miller of New York, the GOP national chairman, as his vice presidential running mate. Miller had strong support from New England, Illinois, North Carolina, Arkansas and Mississippi delegates.

The Arizona senator was expected to pick Denison Kitchel, his campaign director, as national chairman to succeed Miller.

SIDE EXITS

Twenty civil rights demonstrators sat down in the turnstile of the Cow Palace's main exit, forcing the delegates to turn and push their way to side exits.

Police stood close to the demonstrators, and there were no scuffles between the gate blockers or their nearby picketing friends and the delegates. The delegates were able to get out of the Cow Palace through the side exits in 15 minutes.

Mrs. Barry Goldwater, wife of the expected presidential nominee, occupied a front-row box seat at the then-quiet convention while former President Dwight D. Eisenhower addressed the delegates.

INTRODUCE

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who will introduce the presidential nominee, told a news conference Tuesday that Goldwater had moved "from the status of the senator from Arizona to the position of the nominee of his party—and it could happen tomorrow."

Scranton said that no matter what happens he will support the Republican ticket actively in November.

Platformers Steamroller Over Last Scranton Hope

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Republican convention has soundly trounced three key planks by Gov. William W. Scranton challenging the party platform favored by backers of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The critical roll-call vote of 897 to 409, rejecting a Scranton civil rights provision, pointed toward the expected outcome today when the delegates vote directly on whom they want for their presidential nominee.

There was no doubt during three hours of debate and voting Tuesday night that the contest was a preview of today's nomination clash. Scranton has keyed his campaign right along to contrasting his "moderate Republicanism" with Goldwater conservatism.

LAST RESORT

In carrying to the convention floor motions to broaden the platform's civil rights plank, to denounce alleged extremism and to reaffirm the president's sole control over nuclear weapons, the Pennsylvanian was appealing to the party's court of last resort and hoping some delegates would switch to him.

A Scranton spokesman said this a contest for the soul of the Republican party.

But his 2-1 roll-call defeat came by about the same margin as his earlier setback in the 1960 national committee which drafted the platform last week.

The convention rejected by uncounted standing votes the Scranton planks on extremism and atomic control. It also threw out in similar voting planks offered by Michigan Gov. George Romney on civil rights and extremism.

Scranton trotted out his heaviest artillery for his last-ditch platform fight. Former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter sponsored the nuclear provision. New York State Assembly Speaker Joseph Carlino launched the civil rights provision. Leading off for Scranton was New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who served up the plank on extremism. Scranton contends that the right-wing John Birch Society is trying to take over the Republican party and is supporting Goldwater's candidacy as a means of gaining control.

His words drowned out at times by shouts of "We want Barry." Rockefeller called on the delegates to denounce any "doctrinaire, militant minority" which would subvert the GOP "to purposes alien to those which gave this party birth."

Goldwater-backer Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin countered that the party should dispose of any extremism by meeting it "head on . . . with better ideas" rather than any resolution which denies extremists the right to exist.

The climax came with the civil rights fight. Goldwater voted against the 1964 law on grounds it was unconstitutional.

JOHN L. TAYLOR

Taylor Named Director Of Water District

The city commission Tuesday night appointed John L. Taylor, a former commissioner and mayor pro-tem, to the Colorado River Municipal Water District board of directors, to fill the unexpired term of the late Ward Hall.

The term will expire June 1, 1965. Hall was appointed to the board June 1 last year.

Taylor was named Outstanding Young Man of the Year for Big Spring in 1966 and has served four years on the city commission, including three years as mayor pro-tem.

He is currently president of the Chamber of Commerce and has served as a director numerous times. He was vice president of the United Fund in 1962 and is a past president of the Jaycees.

Taylor is also a director of the Plains Cotton Growers Association and is associated with his father in the farm implement business. A Rotarian, he has also served as vice chairman and chairman of the Lone Star District-Boy Scouts. He is a member and has held all offices in the Aggie Club.

The Taylor family includes four children, John Jr., Cynthia Ann, Mark Ellis and Matthew Allen. The Taylors are members of the First Baptist Church.

Water Reservoir Plan Is Approved

A one million gallon water reservoir on Scenic Mountain, part of the city's Master Plan, received a go-ahead from city commissioners Tuesday night. The commission authorized preparation of engineering plans by the Fort Worth firm of Freese, Nichols and Endress.

Cost of the reservoir would be an estimated $88,000, including pumping facilities. The proposed size was doubled after estimates showed the larger reservoir could be constructed at a comparatively small additional cost, City Manager Larry Crow told commissioners.

Crow said the estimated cost of the one million gallon reservoir would fall within the bond money available. The original Master Plan included $90,000 in bonds for the project.

Roy Hester, city water treatment plant operator, told commissioners the city is now using the Air Force reservoir. Crow said that the city should not continue to use the Air Force facility indefinitely and therefore should go ahead with plans for its reservoir on the mountain.

Crow also told commissioners that no authorization had yet been obtained from the State Park and Wildlife Board for construction of the reservoir in the park. Crow said he had an appointment to discuss the project with the executive director of the board in Austin Thursday. Hester also told commissioners a fence would have to be erected around the reservoir, 150 feet from the storage tank, to meet state health standards.

Cong Smashes Viet Convoy

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A Communist Viet Cong battalion ambushed a Vietnamese government truck convoy rumbling into a mountain valley Tuesday, killing 17 and wounding 21. It was the second major ambush in two days.

On Monday three American officers and 16 Vietnamese were killed north of Saigon in an ambush.

No Americans were with the latest Vietnamese convoy, heading from Tam Ky near South Viet Nam's northeast coast toward the mountain valley of Phuoc Chau when it was hit.

The ambush was further indication that the Communists are increasing their effort in that area. A U.S. military spokesman said Viet Cong activity there "has shifted its center of gravity from the mountains to the coastal area."

Incidents have increased greatly in the past 10 days in the Tam Ky sector. However they are still below incident totals in some other military regions in Viet Nam.

Three Satellite Firings Delayed

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Technical problems forced postponement today of an attempt to launch three satellites into orbit to lay the groundwork for a space network intended to police the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

The Air Force tentatively rescheduled the launching of the Atlas Agena booster rocket for Friday.

CONNALLY'S WORRY

How To Solicit Education Votes

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. John Connally returned today to his interrupted vacation with a new worry: How to persuade the 1965 Legislature to adopt his special committee's costly controversial higher education proposals.

Connally's higher education study committee revealed Monday and Tuesday its recommendations, immediately drawing skeptical remarks from some lawmakers.

Connally suspended a vacation at his Wilson County ranch to attend the two days of briefings, which climaxed a one-year study held mostly in secret sessions.

Aware of the mixed reception the report received, he went on record strongly at a news conference Tuesday that he will fight hard for the proposals.

TO USE IT

"Whatever influence, whatever prestige I have, now or in the future, in or out of office, as long as I'm around—I'm going to use it to see we do something about higher education," Connally told newsmen following a briefing.

Connally also brushed aside speculation the next legislature will get so bogged down in various redistricting, taxing and spending problems it will not have time to act on his higher education program.

"It can all be done in a regular 140-day session," he said. "I am not going to start out on the assumption we can't finish in a regular session. But, as I have said in the past, it is going to be one of the most difficult and far-reaching sessions ever held."

FAR BEHIND

Legislative and education leaders were briefed Monday by the committee, which says Texas lags far behind other states and recommends a new strong higher education control agency and the spending of $312 million in the next five years on an excellence program.

Connally said he previously opposed special taxes for a single state agency but he might recommend one to the next legislature to assure adequate funds for colleges.

"To implement the committee program, we're looking at new taxes, beyond any question," Connally said.

On still another touchy recommendation in the report to double the $50 per semester tuition, Connally said he has no objection to the suggestion but has not decided whether to adopt it in his legislative program.

Tollett Marks 25th Year With Cosden

Thursday will mark the 25th anniversary of the day that a young accountant - attorney became the chief financial officer of Cosden and proceeded to lift the floundering company from rags to riches.

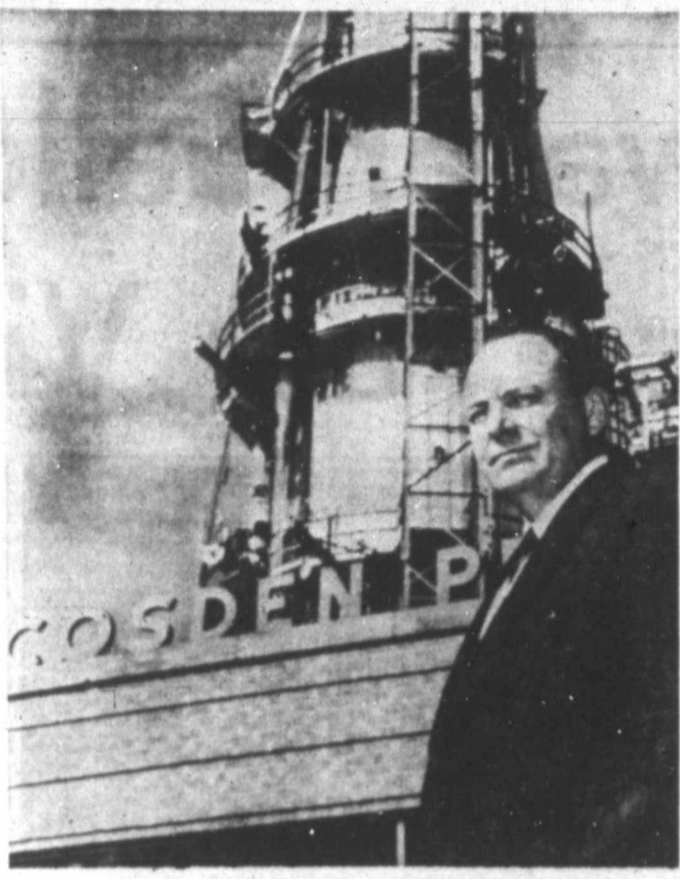

A year ago after Cosden Petroleum Corporation had been acquired by American Petrofina, Inc., and the corporate being extinguished, Raymond L. Tollett had decided to retire at the end of his contract.

In March, however, he had responded to a challenge by Petrofina top management and announced he was continuing to cast his lot under the Cosden banner. To Big Spring, this was better news than a three-inch rain. Small wonder, for almost from the start of his Cosden association he has been a leading citizen and a driving force in many of the good things which have come this way.

STILL WORKING

Today Tollett not only heads Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, a wholly-owned subsidiary of American Petrofina, but he also has been placed in charge of all the company's refining operations. By the same token, new emphasis has been given to petrochemical manufacture in which Cosden pioneered for this area. He is tackling his new assignment with a vigor reminiscent of the days when he presided over expansion which saw assets and sales multiply by 14 and a pile of junk turned into an operation which commanded a $90,000,000 price tag.

Tollett's first brush with the oil business was as a young mule-skinner in the Burkett oil fields, but it was not until years later that his accounting skill led him into the administrative end. The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Tollett, a tenant farm couple who migrated back and forth across the Red River, Raymond

... lifted Cosden from rags to riches

Tollett started working at the age of 12 when he was in the seventh grade. One year he dropped out of school but quickly decided this was a mistake and returned to be the valedictorian of his Wichita Falls graduating class in 1924.

EARLY JOBS

In the meantime he had worked as telegraph messenger, oil field roustabout, team driver, truck driver, clothing salesman, newspaper handyman, and at other jobs. One of these so exhausted him that he decided to accept a business college scholarship he had been awarded. Meantime he turned down an appointment to the United States Naval Academy because he couldn't afford to buy his first issue of clothing as required. His first office job was with Panhandle Oil Company, then with the super-trader, Clint Murchison. In his spare time he studied law, commuting to a Dallas school, and accounting. By 1932 he passed the state bar exam and the following year the Certified Public Accountants board.

were traded on accounts.

THE TOUGH YEARS

More on faith and determination than anything else, Tollett put a stop to that. He sensed the best hope was to concentrate on the Big Spring refinery and consolidated all offices here where he could give the plant his personal attention. Within a year losses had been reduced to $50,000. He pleaded with major creditors for time and got it, and in another year Cosden earned $438,594. In 1944 the company paid its first dividend in six years and tackled paying arrearage on 43,000 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock. He began to whittle on the six million dollar debt.

When the Dubbs thermal cracking unit burned, Tollett decided on replacement with a fluid catalytic cracker and polymerization plant. Cosden could turn out 93 octane gasoline and began custom refining. Convinced loss of a freight case to the Midwest meant loss of those markets, he beamed on an area market with amazing success. Cosden began to dab in petrochemicals, then stepped out boldly with a BTX (benzene, xylene, toluene) unit, added an alkylation unit for avgas production, next a reformer, and ultimately a platformer, then a styrene production unit by a novel Cosden process. From this the company moved into plastic manufacture — polystyrene. It also developed a new process for producing polybutene. All the while reserves were increased, but not fast enough to suit W. R. Grace & Company which in 1960 had acquired a majority of Cosden stock. Having to buy crude oil heavily reduced the margin, and Grace decided to sell to Petrofina.

IN THE TOP 500

Before Cosden Petroleum lost its corporate identity, sales had been pushed into the $90,000,000 bracket and the company was listed by Fortune as one of the nation's 500 largest businesses. Its stock, selling at less than a dollar when Tollett took charge, had been split 3.2 times with the liquidating value set at $23.50.

Tollett always has found time to help build Big Spring as well as his company. He became a member of the school board and led his company's properties into the district. He headed the Howard County United Fund, the Sheriff's Posse, led in numerous fund campaigns such as the YMCA building effort, the recent $5½ million school bond master plan development. For five years he has headed the local Scout district, holds that organization's top award of Silver Beaver, and is on the Region IX executive committee. He belongs to half a dozen petroleum organizations and was accorded a special honor when he retired as Western Petroleum Refiners Association chief. Big Spring friends gave a banquet in 1954 to honor him on the occasion of the 15th year with Cosden and presented him with a gold pocket plaque. The International Union of Operating Engineers twice has conferred special honor on him, and Webb AFB officers and airmen honored him for special assistance.

He and Mrs. Tollett, the former Iris Goodbrake, and their children, Blake, Ray and Iris Anne, reside at 606 Hillside.

Qualifies For Unique Club

Mr. T. is finally getting into an organization he has been eyeing wistfully for some time.

This would be Cosden's 25-year-Club.

Thursday R. L. Tollett qualifies, and when the Club stages its annual dinner meeting in December he will formally receive the pin, the recorded history, and other embellishments of office.

But a quarter-century celebration is not waiting until December. More than 40 men, most of them members of the 25-year-Club and others long-time friends and business associates of Tollett, are accompanying him to El Paso and Juarez this weekend for a gala anniversary observance.

It will be highlighted by a

Electric Day Program Set

Texas Electric Service Co. is to play host July 23 to 60 boys and girls of the Howard County 4-H Clubs. The occasion will be an "Electric Day Program," and Ken Harrod, assistant county farm agent, said that the number of youngsters who have signed to take part in the program sets an all time record.

The boys and girls will meet at the TESCO building at 8:45 a.m. for registration. All activities of the day, with the exception of the luncheon, will be in the Reddy Room. Lunch, with TESCO picking up the tab, will be at the Tea Room.

R. L. Beale, division manager of the Big Spring division, TESCO, will welcome the youngsters at 9 a.m. C. O. Miller with the company will make the essential introductions and outline the program for the day.

Harrod will review the 4-H Club Electric Awards program.

Miller will then conduct a demonstration in wiring and Carol Orr with TESCO here, will conduct a demonstration in the use of small electrical appliances.

O. C. Graves will give a demonstration in lighting and G. I. Boatman will devote the period 11 a.m. to noon to a discussion of electrical safety.

After lunch the youngsters will see a film titled "Farm Better Electrically," and from 1:30 to adjournment will take part in a lamp building workshop project.

PAST CHIEF EXECUTIVES SPEAK

Splendid Misery Of Presidency

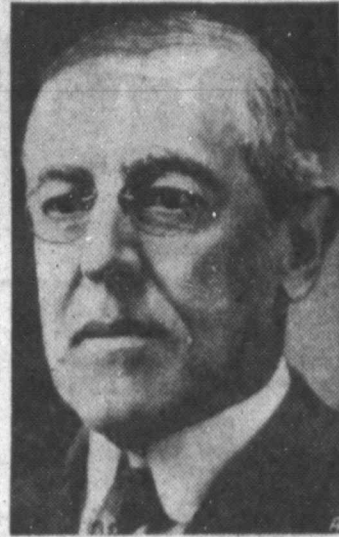

By The Associated Press

Gathering in San Francisco for the Republican National Convention are a number of men who passionately desire to be president, despite the testimony about the exquisite drawbacks of the job.

"The four most miserable years of my life were my four years in the presidency," said John Quincy Adams.

"A man who seeks the presidency for anything that it will bring to him is an audacious fool," said Woodrow Wilson.

Abraham Lincoln's friend, Ward Lamon, said Lincoln once cried out, "From my boyhood my ambition was to be president. I am president of one part of this divided country, at least, but look at me! I wish I had never been born!"

WOODROW WILSON ... perils of presidency

BLAME PRESIDENT
And John F. Kennedy, with his penchant for dry understatement, observed, "When things don't go well, they like to blame the president, and that's one of the things presidents are paid for."

Chief executives have described the office as "prison," "jail," "drudgery," "slavery," "a splendid misery."

With a striking prescience of all this, George Washington said, "My movements to the chair of government will be accompanied by feelings not unlike those of a culprit who is going to the place of his execution."

Then why does any man want to be president?
Martin Van Buren philosophized, "There are men, and not a few, who derive so much pleasure from the mere possession of such great power that any degree of dissatisfaction caused by its exercise is not too dear a price."

Theodore Roosevelt, who probably enjoyed the office more than any other president, said, "A president has a great chance; his position is almost that of a king and prime minister rolled into one."

POSTERITY
William Howard Taft thought of posterity. "When taken into consideration that I go into history as a president," he said, "and my children and children's children are the better placed on account of that fact, I am inclined to think that to be president well compensates for all the trials and criticisms he has to bear."

The same threads of thought about the "trials and criticisms" run through the observations of many presidents. The most common are:

1. The perennial struggle with Congress.

"It better be known at the outset," said James A. Garfield, "whether the president is the head of government or the registering clerk of the Senate."

"I will show them at the other end of the avenue (Capitol Hill) whether I am president or not," said Lincoln.

"Presidents cannot always kick evil-minded persons out of the front door," said Herbert Hoover. "Such persons are often selected by the electors to represent them."
In his book, "The Splendid Misery" (Thomas Jefferson's label for the presidency), Jack Bell traced a period of decline of the presidency vis a vis Congress. Then, Bell wrote, "Andrew Jackson picked up the office by its bootstraps and restored executive authority to the high plane it must occupy if there is to be national progress."

OFFICE-SEEKERS

2. Friends, office-seekers and talkers.
"I'll be damned if I'm not getting tired of this," said Taft. "It seems to be the profession of a president simply to hear other people talk."

"Once or twice, I felt like crying out in the agony of my soul against the greed for office and its consumption of my time," said Garfield. "My services ought to be worth more to the government than to be spent thus."

Warren G. Harding said, "In this job, I'm not worried about my enemies. I can take care of them. It's my friends who are giving me trouble."
"Gentlemen, I will not go into the White House pledged, to you or to anyone else," said Grover Cleveland. "I will make no secret promises. I'll be damned if I will!"

3. Presidential loneliness.

"This is the loneliest place in the world," said Taft.

"The nakedness of the battlefield, when the soldier is all alone in the smoke and clamor and terror of war, is comparable to the loneliness at times of the president," said Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Kennedy called the presidency "a high and lonely office."

4. The weight of decision-making.

"No one can make the decisions for him," said Harry S. Truman. "No one can know all the processes and stages of his thinking in making important decisions. Even those closest to him, even members of his immediate family, never know all the reasons why he comes to certain conclusions."

Calvin Coolidge said, "The president gets the best advice he can, uses the best judgment at his command, and leaves the event in the hands of providence."

Kennedy was deeply interested in the decision-making process. One of his many observations was, "It is much easier to make the speeches than it is finally to make the judgments, because, unfortunately, your advisors are frequently divided. If you take the wrong course—and on occasion, I have—the president bears the responsibility quite rightly. The advisors may move on to new advice."

5. Feelings of inadequacy.
"Five more weeks will relieve me of a drudgery to which I am no longer equal," said Jefferson. Also, "I'm tired of an office where I can do no more good than many others who would be glad to be employed in it."

"I knew this job would be too much for me," said Harding.
In his diary for March 16, 1881, Garfield said he had come to bed early but had been unable to sleep. "Waxed" with the thought that I am wholly unfit for this work."

OPPRESSIVE

"The business of the office is so oppressive that I shall hardly support it two years longer," said John Adams.

In the light of these and other tribulations, it is not surprising that references to God appear in the statements and writings of many presidents. For example—

"If it were not for the full faith I have in the Highest Power that aids honest, faithful endeavor, I should be frightened by all I see before me."—Cleveland.

Prior to the swimming pool in the White House, some presidents complained of the difficulty of getting enough physical exercise to keep fit.

Bankers Tackling Problem Of Personal Check Flood

NEW YORK (AP)—Many of the nation's leading bankers are in New York this week to tackle the problem of one kind of flood control. That's the handling of personal checks, which have nearly doubled in number in the last 10 years. The outpouring is expected to double again in the next 10.

Standardization has pretty well licked today's problem. You probably know it as that funny looking printing at the bottom of your checks.

But will more automation be needed to keep tomorrow's flood from engulfing the banks? That's what more than 1,000 bank executives—some from 24 other countries—are debating at the American Bankers Association's national automation conference.

IN 1954

Even bankers are impressed by the figures. When standardization efforts started in 1954, this nation's banks had 47 million checking accounts and what they then thought was quite a paper mountain of eight billion checks a year.

Today they have 63 million accounts and an annual check turnover of 15 billion. About 90 per cent of all bills are paid that way. Before this decade is over, Americans may well be writing 28 billion checks a year.

The ABA estimates that 700 commercial banks now have data processing systems, mostly to handle checks. To this some banks have added computers in the last four years to run herd on savings, installment credit and mortgage accounts.

But on the standardization problem almost all of the 14,000 banks, acting through the ABA, turned to industry experts, such as engineers, computer technicians, printers and government officials. They used the facilities of the American Standardization Association to work out automated check handling.

Modern Service

There was a touch of the Old West when 13-year-old Sylvia Spangler rode into a modern Dallas drive-in—for autos—to get a bite to eat. Sylvia got a hamburger but the drive-in could offer neither oats nor hay to her 7-year-old mare, Tonya. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Korean Farmers Caught In Squeeze

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—Pyung Sun Yoon, 52, a sharecropper, grows 36 bags of rice a year on three acres outside Pusan. A third of the small harvest goes to the landowners. With the rest he must support his wife, four sons and two daughters and a farm hand.

"This barely provides enough food for my family," says Yoon, a relaxed, round-faced man with clear brown eyes. Despite his meager means, Yoon is better off than many of his countrymen. The government has given him an ox to help with the farming. Yoon speaks with pride of his eldest son, a teacher.

"I used to own about 2 1/2 acres of rice paddies. I sold them to send my eldest son to college. He was very good at schooling and therefore I couldn't ask him to quit, despite my financial situation."

MORE FERTILIZER

Like most South Koreans, Yoon usually ignores politics, but he would like the government to provide more fertilizer. "The government supply of fertilizer is not enough," he complains. "Also it is too expensive."

Pyung Sun Yoon was one of a number of Koreans interviewed to sample the country's mood following the recent outbreak of antigovernment demonstrations and rioting by students. The students protested economic conditions, official corruption and the government's attempt to restore normal relations with Japan, Korea's ancient enemy.

The demonstrations jolted President Chung Hee Park, who came to power after a similar student outcry forced President Syngman Rhee to resign in 1960. Park weathered the storm by clamping martial law on Seoul and accepting the resignation of his No. 2 man, Kim Chong Pil, as chairman of the ruling Democratic Republican Party.

DAILY LIFE

Unlike the angry students, the interviews indicated, most Koreans are only interested in how the government helps them with the problems of daily life. They do not oppose friendlier relations with Japan, even though the Japanese ruled Korea for many years. But they want the government to do something about the economic slump.

Joe Kang, 32, a barber in Pusan for 12 years, told this story:

"Our skill as barbers has greatly advanced and I think it has reached the international level. Yet our income could not be compared even with Japanese barbers, let alone American barbers. We get 60 won (2 cents) for a haircut."

JUST ENOUGH

"I can make just enough to support my family of six. Our living standard has remained about the same for years. It's not good. The general economic recession has hurt business, too. People get more haircuts than they actually need when business is doing well."

At one of Pusan's 40 filling stations, Soo Yong Yoo, 30, described a different problem. The station had plenty of business but not enough oil and gasoline to meet demand.

Moo Ki Park, 56, a farmer with an elegant goatee, said his two acres produced barely enough food for his family of eight.

"We are getting government loans, but they are not enough to meet anybody's needs and they don't come in time," he observed.

The bidding:

South West North East

1♥ Pass 1NT 2♣

4♥ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Eight of ♠

South's failure to double

East's overall of two clubs in today's hand was not motivated by either a charitable disposition or an indifference to the coin of the realm. He realized that since he and his opponent held so many clubs between them,

it was highly unlikely that the bidding would stop there, and South was not interested in defending against some other contract.

Rather than give West the opportunity to rescue his partner and possibly uncover a good fit

in some other suit, South decided to close any further discussion by bidding a game in hearts. Had he applied

the same foresight to the play of the hand, his judgment would have been completely vindicated.

West opened the eight of clubs and East played the 10 to force out declarer's queen.

South led a small trump to the nine in dummy so that he might discard one of his losing spades on the ace of diamonds.

A club was played next; however, when East put up the jack, declarer was afraid to cover with the ace because it might be ruffed, so he followed with a small club.

East returned a trump and South was unable to avoid the loss of three club tricks as well as one spade. In his haste to obtain an immediate discard on the ace of diamonds, declarer neglected the more important consideration of counting up to 10 tricks.

The opening lead gives South two club tricks which, together with six hearts and one diamond, brings his total up to nine. The 10th trick may be obtained by trumping a club with North's high heart. In order to protect his ace of clubs from an adverse ruff, however, declarer should concede one of his losers early by leading a small club from his hand at trick two.

East will be in and the defense can take two spade tricks but that is all. South ruffs the four of clubs with his nine of clubs on the ace of diamonds, then draws trump and cashes his ace of clubs at the end.

Air Service Fight Brews

WASHINGTON (AP)—Braniff Airways and Trans-Texas Airways have taken opposite positions on a Civil Aeronautics Board examiner's findings in the Lower Rio Grande Valley regional airport case.

Braniff asked the CAB Tuesday to reverse the decision of examiner Thomas L. Wrenn and order that the Valley be served through a single central airport. Braniff said the service should be provided by only one trunk airline and one local service airline, Braniff and Trans-Texas. In its brief Trans-Texas said it agreed with Wrenn that the Lower Rio Grande is too wide-spread geographically to be served by a single airport. Braniff urged that service by Eastern Air Lines at Brownsville should be suspended. It also said that all air services to the area should be described in certificates as to a terminal designated "the Lower Rio Grande Valley, to be served through Harvey-Richards Field." This would avoid implied favoritism, Braniff said. Harvey-Richards Field is also known as the Harlingen Municipal Airport. Trans-Texas contended that services by Braniff or Eastern

Air Lines at Harlingen are not needed. It said it did not wish to see Brownsville deprived of its present air service, but if the CAB removed Braniff and Eastern authority to operate there, Trans-Texas could provide the required service without added subsidy. The CAB's Bureau of Economic Regulation has recommended that the Lower Rio Grande Valley be served through a centralized point, Harlingen, and only by Trans-Texas. Both Eastern and Braniff favor one regional airport.

Daughter Of Ingrid Rises To Stardom

ROME (AP)—A young drama student who laughs like Ingrid Bergman launched her movie career here in April, with hopes of climbing to world stardom as the famous Swedish actress did.

Pia Lindstrom has more in common with Ingrid Bergman than simply wanting to follow in her footsteps. They are mother and daughter.

The blue-eyed blonde was born in Stockholm 25 years ago and raised in California by Dr. Peter Lindstrom, the dentist who was Ingrid's first husband.

Pia's start just happened to be here in the country where her mother's Stromboli Island romance with Italian Director Roberto Rossellini, her second husband made international headlines in 1948.

SCREEN TEST

Vittorio de Sica was making "Marriage Italian Style" with Sophia Loren and Marcello Mastroianni. He learned that Pia had just finished a year of drama study in London and he screen-tested her.

The tall, slender Miss Lindstrom got the role of a waitress who carries on a flirtation with Mastroianni—and decided from the outset of her new career that her name will remain Pia.

"I didn't like to be called Pia when I was little," she said. "so I made up the name Jenny Ann. You know how it is at 16. You want to be the same as everyone else. As you get older you discover it's nice to have a name that's different."

Pia says she will travel wherever future film assignments might send her. But she likes the Eternal City and has settled into a Rome apartment for what she hopes will be a year or two.

In the same apartment are her half-brothers and half-sisters the children of Ingrid Bergman and Rossellini — Roberto and twins Isabel and Ingrid.

TO CRETE

Miss Lindstrom's next part takes her to the island of Crete to work with Anthony Quinn in the John Kakoyanis picture "Zorba the Greek."

Pia has no preference for particular types or roles in her future screen characterizations, she says. "except that I think I'll avoid Joan of Arc." That was one of the roles in which her two-time Academy Award-winning mother is most remembered.

Ingrid's daughter bears only the slightest physical and facial resemblance to her mother. But she has the same free, bubbling laugh—and she uses it often.

She is going into movie work with a solid liberal arts education behind her in addition to her dramatic studies. She got a history and government degree from Mills College, California, then studied dramatics for a while at the Stanford University graduate school.

She married American textile heir Fuller Calloway. They were divorced in 1961. She has not remarried.

High School Writers Meet

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—The sixth annual workshop for student journalists continues through Friday on the campus of Texas A&M University. Some 350 students and advisers from throughout Texas are attending.

Jack Butler, editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, told the visitors Tuesday that reporters of the future will be concerned with writing stories about other planets, microscopic life and "the mystery of men's minds."

Butler advised the students to seriously consider news work as a career.

Houston Post Columnist Leon Hale addresses the group today, followed by a Friday talk by Paul Swenson of the Wall Street Journal.

The high school students are putting out a daily mimeographed newspaper during the five-day meet and are responsible for this week's edition of the Battalion, the campus paper.

Pay Study Meet Planned

Tentative plans were made by city commissioners Tuesday for a meeting Friday concerning the pay scale job classification report presented to the commission July 1. The report was not discussed Tuesday night.

Police Check Various Thefts

Police investigated a number of thefts Wednesday.

Someone removed a pickup from a used car lot at 411 W. 3rd Wednesday morning. B. J. Kirkpatrick is owner of the vehicle and operator of the lot. The truck was recovered at 409 E. 3rd, police said, but a tire and wheel valued at $15 were missing.

A 12-volt battery was taken from the car of Clayton McCarty, 435 Dallas, Tuesday night while it was parked at the west side of his residence.

Jimmie Pence reported the loss of a transistor radio Tuesday afternoon. It was taken from a chair in the front of a pool hall at 311 Runnels.

Bobby Bateman, 1608 Kentucky Way, told police vandals broke the right rear window of his car while it was parked at Gregg's Steak House, 1810 Gregg, about 10 p. m. Tuesday.

Crooker On Parks Board

The city commission named W. B. Crooker Jr. to the parks and recreation board Tuesday night. Crooker will replace Hayes Bacus, with the term to expire Sept. 30, 1965.

Bacus was personnel officer at the Veterans Administration Hospital and was transferred to another state.

Crooker is office manager for Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. and has been with the firm some 10 years. He is a member and helped organize the Big Spring Golf Association.

Crooker is a member of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors and the industrial development committee. He is also active in Lone Star District-Boy Scouts leadership and is a member of the board of directors for Halfway House.

The Crookers are members of St. Mary's Episcopal Church and have three children, Karen, 15; Billy, 10; and Dori, 6. The family lives at 2802 Parkway Road.

To Discuss Plans For State Park

City Manager Larry Crow will discuss future plans for the Big Spring State Park in Austin Thursday with Weldon Watson, executive director of the Texas Board of Parks and Wildlife.

Crow said the meeting is an outgrowth of efforts by the city parks and recreation board to express the city's desire to help develop the park.

"We want to see what plans the state has for development of the park and see what the City of Big Spring might do to encourage development," Crow said.

Crow will also attend a meeting of the general municipal affairs section of the legislative committee, Texas Municipal League, Thursday. The committee prepares recommendations for the legislature's general conference in Dallas during October.

Assault Charged, Bond Is Posted

Gil Jones, district attorney, Wednesday filed a complaint charging Horace Dwayne Carroll, 25, of 408 Donley, with assault with intent to commit rape. The alleged offense was committed last night and the victim signed the complaint.

Walter Grice, justice of the peace, set bond at $2,500, which Carroll posted.

William R. Harden, 23, Odessa, is being held in jail in lieu of $2,500 bond in a felony worthless check case.

man, woman, boy and girl, featuring attire of long ago, went to: John Peters as best dressed man; Mrs. Hattie Estes as best dressed woman; Beth Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Thompson, as best dressed girl, and Bruce Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hill, as best dressed boy.

Eight floats were entered in the parade, and the Lamesa Sheriff's Posse joined the Martin County Sheriff's Posse to ride, as the Midland and Odessa Old Car Club entered several antique models.

Bledsoe Rites Held Today

Funeral for Sol Grady Bledsoe, 70, a former Texas and Pacific Railway machinist, was held at 3 p. m. today in River-Welch Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. H. L. Bingham officiating, assisted by the Rev. Robert Polk. Burial was to follow in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of River-Welch Funeral Home.

Mr. Bledsoe died at 10:30 p. m. Monday at his home, 1005 E. 12th. He had been in ill health 18 years.

Born March 12, 1894 in Bay Village, Ark., Mr. Bledsoe was a member of the First Baptist Church. He married Ida Odum Sept. 5, 1917, in Garden City. Surviving are the widow of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Willard Hendrick, Big Spring, and Mrs. Jesse Jones, Springdale, Ark.; three brothers, George Bledsoe, Chickasha, Okla., J. H. Leatherwood, Las Vegas, N. M., and Bala Leatherwood, Albuquerque, N. M.; two sisters, Mrs. G. A. Brown and Mrs. L. S. Patterson, both of Big Spring; and four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were to be Raymond Dunagan, Paul Sledge, Roy Odum, Lonnie E. Taylor, Terry Carter and Avery Faulkner.

Man In Coma Following Wreck

Although David Bunnet Haley, 22, 1400 Benton, was unconscious when found in the wreckage of his car half a mile south of Trinity Memorial Park on US 87 early today, attendants at Coper Hospital and Clinic said that he apparently suffered no injuries in the crash. He will still be unconscious at noon and hospital attendants said it is believed the coma was due, to some other factor than the mishap.

Jack White, highway patrolman who investigated the wreck, said that Haley was alone in his 1951 Ford going south on US 87. For no known reason, the car left the road, crashed through the fence, and came to a stop in a dense mesquite thicket.

The accident occurred about 7 a. m.

Jury Studies For Decision

A jury was deliberating a verdict at noon today in a damage suit on trial in 118th District Court. It began its deliberations shortly after 11 a. m. The case, styled W. T. Bradberry vs. Dennis Collins, started Monday afternoon. All of Tuesday and part of today was devoted to testimony.

The case is the first one to be called up for trial on this week's civil docket before Judge Ralph Cain.

Another case is slated to begin Wednesday morning and the other members of the jury panel who reported Monday are to be back in court Wednesday morning.

The No. 2 case slated for trial is Grady Sudberry vs. Royal Indemnity Co., an action for compensation.

The case which is being ended today developed as result of a motor car mishap which occurred at Circle Drive and East Fourth Street, Jan. 14, 1963. Bradberry and his wife, Lun, are suing Collins for injuries allegedly suffered by Mrs. Bradberry.

Continental Oil Co. completed two wells in the Howard-Glasscock (San Andres) field of Howard County. The No. 1-E G. O. Chalk pumped 84 barrels of 28-gravity oil through perforations at 2,077-2,470 feet. Operator set 3/4-inch casing at 2,620 feet and acidized with 750 gallons. Derrick floor elevation is 2,482 feet, and the total depth is 2,921 feet. It spots 200 feet from north and west lines of section 114-29, W&NW survey.

The No. 14 G. O. Chalk pumped 102 barrels of 28-gravity oil with four per cent water through perforations between 1,982-2,186 feet in the San Andres. It also pumped 96 barrels of 31.9-gravity oil with 11 per cent water through perforations at 2,098-2,953 feet in the Gloria. Total depth is 3,000 feet, and the ground elevation is 2,471 feet. Operator set 3/4-inch casing at 2,999 feet and acidized both zones with 500 gallons. The operation is 990 feet from south and east lines of section 113-29, W&NW survey.

A projected 12,300-foot test of the Devonian in Martin County, eight miles southwest of Patricia, has been plugged and abandoned at 12,125 feet. The wildcat test was known as Murren Corp. No. 1-55 Bredford. It spotted 680 feet from south and west lines of tract 85-league 257, Briscoe CSL survey.

Continental Oil Co. has filed six tests of the Gloria and San Andres in the Howard-Glasscock field of Howard County. All six operations are about six miles east of Forsan on 80 acre tracts and will be drilled to 3,150 feet by rotary tool. Name and location of the six: No. 9-A G. O. Chalk, 330 feet from south and 1,010 feet from west lines of section 95-29, W&NW survey; No. 5-B G. O. Chalk, 1,650 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of section 114-29, W&NW survey; No. 9-C G. O. Chalk, 1,532 feet from north and 1,650 feet from east lines of section 140-29, W&NW survey; No. 10-C G. O. Chalk, 2,164 feet from north and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 140-29, W&NW survey.

Knocked Down By Rolling Car

Mrs. M. F. Bryant, Gall Route, received minor injuries about 10:15 a. m. this morning when her car rolled from a driveway at 1506 Vines and knocked her to the ground.

Taken to Howard County Hospital Foundation by River-Welch ambulance, she was admitted for treatment of minor contusions and abrasions. Authorities described her condition as good.

Police said the mishap occurred as Mrs. Bryant stepped from the car after stopping in the driveway. The car began rolling, she tried to put it in gear, and she apparently was struck by an open door of the car. The impact knocked her down, according to Patrolman Walter Johnson, causing a cut over the left eye.

Tuesday, police investigated an accident in the 100 block of West Second. The car of Epifania Chavez, 807 N. Nolan, was in collision with a parking meter post. Damage to the car was estimated at $150, and damage to the post was set at $10.

Another mishap Tuesday occurred in an alley south of the Big Spring Courts, 1207 W. 3rd. Involved were James Wood, 703 E. 15th, and Conway Pears, 1101 W. 5th. Police said Wood was the driver of a city garbage truck. It was not damaged.

Four Wives Share GOP Limelight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mamie Eisenhower enjoyed her return to the political convention scene, Pat Nixon offered campaign-wife advice and Peggy Goldwater and Mary Scranton got unequal convention seating in their first appearances at the Cow Palace.

The wives of the four key Republicans were in the spotlight Tuesday night—each for a different reason.

There was Mamie—who was the first lady for eight years—smiling, waving to the convention crowd, applauding major-speechmaker Dwight D. Eisenhower. Mamie wore matching dress, coat and hat in her favorite color—pink.

OLD TIMES

It seemed like old times as Eisenhower and his wife walked arm-in-arm beaming down the entranceway.

"It's very nice to be here," Mamie said.

She sat on the convention platform as Eisenhower spoke and then received a shiny "honorary guest" convention badge from Mrs. John Love, wife of the governor of her home state of Colorado.

Looking on from a convention area box was Pat Nixon, who served as second lady during the years her husband was Eisenhower's vice president.

The Nixons' helicopter entry into San Francisco drew a meager crowd, but Pat was smiling and relaxed. She said she was looking forward to leaving this Saturday for a European vacation with daughters, Tricia, now 18, and Julie, 16.

SPECTATOR

"I'm looking forward to being a spectator," the wife of the former vice president declared. She was pale-faced, wore bright lipstick and a light blue suit with a gay, fluffy blue petal hat for her arrival day's activities that included luncheon attended by 1,700 Republican women and featuring past Hollywood movie fashions.

The two who face the possibility of accompanying their husbands on a presidential campaign trial in 1964—Peggy Goldwater and Mary Scranton—came to have a first look Tuesday night at the delegates who will make the decision.

Mrs. Goldwater was spotted quickly as she stepped into a front-row seat in a box in full view of the convention crowd and the television cameras. She wore gay pink, too—a pink wool coat over a black silk suit, and no hat. Responding to cheers and applause, Mrs. Goldwater smiled and waved a white-gloved hand.

GOOD VIEW

The Goldwater family had a good view of the speaker's rostrum and the convention scene. Private detectives helped the assigned convention pages to ensure privacy in the box.

Mrs. Scranton's convention hall box was to the rear of the rostrum and out of the view of most of the delegates and spectators. From it, she, son, William Jr., 18, and friends couldn't see the faces of any of the speakers.

Barry Greet's World's Hams

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—While crowds of followers chant his name in hotel lobbies and San Francisco streets, Sen. Barry Goldwater spells it out for his fellow amateur radio operators.

"The handle is Barry, Baker Able Robert Robert Yankee," he tells them over the borrowed ham radio set in the solarium of his Mark Hopkins Hotel suite.

The early morning hours are Goldwater's favorites for ham talk, but he gets in a call or two whenever he has the chance.

Getting on the air was an early order of business when Goldwater arrived here for the Republican National Convention last Thursday. He has ham stations at his Phoenix home and his Washington apartment.

Goldwater's first San Francisco operation was with a miniature set. He got it Friday morning, but it didn't work.

By Saturday, he had a new one—even bigger than the one at home. It's in the glass-enclosed solarium three steps up from his suite on the 15th floor. There is a 30-foot antenna atop the hotel, on top of San Francisco's Nob Hill to beam Goldwater's signal.

An aide said Goldwater had it installed to power the set borrowed from a San Francisco radio company.

Goldwater has picked up fellow hams as far away as Australia.

Most of the people he talks to wish him good luck in his quest for the presidential nomination. He opens his messages this way:

"This is KTUGA, Portable 6, broadcasting from the top of the Mark Hopkins Hotel, San Francisco, California. The handle is Barry, Baker, Able Robert . . ."

Eisenhowers Get A Hand From GOP

Former President Dwight Eisenhower and his Mamie step before the Republican convention Tuesday night to receive a standing ovation in San Francisco's Cow Palace. Leading the applause are Sen. Thurston Mor-

Unite On Basic Principles Ike's Party Prescription

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Eisenhower behind the party's basic principles—that is Dwight D. Eisenhower's prescription for Republican victory.

Eisenhower, who captured the presidency for the Republicans in 1952 and 1956, put it this way in an address Tuesday night to the Republican National Convention: "Let us renew our strength from the fountain of unity, not drown ourselves in a whirlpool of factional strife and divisive ambitions."

Eisenhower, 73, and his wife, Mamie, received a thunderous ovation from the convention delegates in the Cow Palace.

"I must ask you to bank the fires of fiercely competitive intraparty politics and contemplate with me the whole of this great party of ours—the reasons for its birth, its record of valuable service, and the bright promise of its future," he said.

Eisenhower declared that "strength is found in unity, under a consensus broad enough to accommodate the honest thinking of all who subscribe to our basic doctrines." Eisenhower has refused to take sides in the battle over the picking of the party's presidential candidate or the writing of a platform. He frequently has described himself as someone to whom all factions seem willing to turn for counsel.

After his address, he was presented with the Republican Convention Badge of Honor by Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooks, a Negro who holds

"More than one million Americans over the age 40 have glaucoma. Yet, only half of them are even aware that they are victims of this sneak-thief disease which takes sight without warning", according to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

"Guard against eye disease, eyestrain and poor vision with an annual, professional eye examination by a Doctor of Optometry," advises Dr. S. J. Rogers of Texas State Optical. Consult your telephone directory for the TSO office nearest you.

No Caucusing For Texas Unit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The staunchly Goldwater delegation from Texas plans no further caucuses before casting its 56 votes for the Arizona senator for the Republican presidential nomination.

"We don't need to take another vote. We were 100 per cent for Goldwater when we came here and we still are."

Ex-Republican Runners Eye Today's Nomination

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—As a new man joins their ranks today, the Republican standard bearers of the past will spend their day scattered across the land, from Wall Street and a Manhattan tower to this convention city by the Golden Gate.

Let's look at how they will spend their day:
RICHARD M. NIXON—1960
 Nixon leaves the St. Francis Hotel at the foot of Nob Hill here early today and drives up the hill to the Fairmont Hotel. After breakfast there with the California delegation, he returns to the St. Francis to prepare for an open house that he and his wife, Pat, are holding for all the

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER—1952 and 1956
 Eisenhower, who was nominated in this convention city in 1952, plans to keep tabs on the day's developments from his hotel suite. He has held back from mixing in the battle over the presidential nomination and has constantly maintained his neutrality.

THOMAS E. DEWEY—1944 and 1948
 Dewey drives from his apartment at 141 E. 72nd Street, New York, to the 40 Wall Street office of his law firm, Dewey, Ballantine, Bushby, Palmer and Wood.

He'll spend a full day on legal matters, conferring with clients, finding no chance to watch the San Francisco convention on television.

O's Have Troubles In One-Run Games

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The trouble with the Baltimore Orioles is they can't win those one-run ball games. The trouble is only three days old but it's beginning to tell on the pennant-hungry Orioles. They dropped a 4-3 decision to New York Tuesday night in the opener of a vital three-game set and saw their American League lead dwindle to one-half game over the onrushing Yankees. The Orioles suddenly have lost their touch in pressure games after reeling off 21 victories in their first 23 one-run contests. They were beaten twice by Detroit—each time by a 4-3 score in 10 innings—before Mickey Mantle, Tom Tresh and Al Downing collaborated for Tuesday night's Yankee victory before a New York crowd of 38,102.

Stu Miller, the wily junkman of the Baltimore bullpen, was the victim of eighth inning hits by Mantle and Tresh that broke a 3-2 tie and gave the Yankees their fifth straight triumph. Downing weathered a ninth inning storm and won his fourth in a row with a six-hitter. Elsewhere in the AL, Juan Pizarro became the league's first 13-game winner as Chicago topped Boston 4-2; Washington nipped Minnesota 4-3; Detroit beat Los Angeles by the same score and Cleveland outlasted Kansas City 9-7.

Lees Is Named Meet Referee

B. B. Lees, head football coach at Eastern New Mexico University and one-time champion diver in these parts, will serve as referee of the YMCA Swimming Meet, which will be held in the city pool starting at 9 a. m. Saturday.

Joint sponsors of the aquade are the Parks and Recreation Department of the City of Big Spring.

Eleven cities, possibly as many as 13 will send teams to the meet. Definitely committed are squads from San Angelo, Midland, Odessa, Andrews, Snyder, Big Lake, Lubbock, Amarillo, Abilene and Sweetwater, as well as Big Spring. There is a possibility Fort Stockton and Perryton will send representatives, too.

Two sections will be installed for the convenience of the spectators. James Tidwell is the overall director of the meet. Pete Cook and Melvin Lindsey will serve as starters.

Lees served as a clown in several Y meets held here in the past and made a big hit. The committee has engaged in several dress rehearsals, just to make sure that everything runs smoothly Saturday.

The Senators snapped a 3-2 tie in the fifth on Ed Brinkman's single, a two-base throwing error by Minnesota pitcher Jim Kaat and an infield out. Claude Osteen survived Harmon Killebrew's 32nd homer, a two-run shot, and picked up his seventh victory.

Home runs by Leon Wagner, Tito Francona and Woodie Held pushed Cleveland to a 7-3 lead over Kansas City but the lead was fought back to tie in the eighth when Dick Green and Rocky Colavito homered and Ken Harrelson hit his second circuit of the game. Held's run-scoring single and Dick Houser's squeeze bunt won it for the Indians in the ninth.

Detroit won its 12th game in 15 July starts, scoring the deciding run in the eighth on Gates Brown's double and Don Demeter's single. Demeter also homered and Bill Freehan collected three of 10 Tiger hits.

The Haig was flashy and flamboyant. His sweaters were the fleeciest, the crease in his knickers the sharpest and his garb the most radiant on the tour.

A somewhat similar affluence and class are the trademarks of Tony Lema, the poor widow's son who escaped juvenile delinquency on the docks of the West Coast and came out of obscurity to attain a prominent niche in golf.

Venturi, who grew up with Lema in the Golden Gate area around San Francisco, blinked. This is golf's new glamor boy—sensational winner of the British Open last weekend.

When he wins a tournament—and he's won four of his last six—he springs for champagne in the press room.

He uses a fancy cigarette holder, actually given him by the onetime King Edward of England last weekend. He talks fancy and puts on a big show, but it's all an act.

It's Lema's gimmick and a good one. Actually, Lema is a handsome, modest young man, 30 years old, deep-set blue eyes, dark curly hair and a slim figure. He broke a thousand teenage hearts less than a year ago when he married an airline hostess, Betty Cline.

He is popular with his fellow pros. The gallery loves him and he is even making inroads into Arnie's Army.

And if he can add the PGA championship here this weekend, he may grab them all. He's that kind of guy.

DeVicenzo, who won the French Open in 1950 and 1960, shot a six-under 65 to break Rodgers' day-old course record and took a one-stroke lead into today's third round.

The Argentine had a 36-hole total of 134 while Rodgers, the chunky Californian who is not eligible for the PGA championship, had a 69 to go with his opening round 66 for a 135 and a tie for second with 21-year-old Cible Lagrange of South Africa after two rounds.

Black, who will represent Big Spring and Webb AFB at the U.S. Olympic wrestling trials, left this morning via bus for San Francisco, site of the matches.

Black, former member of the wrestling team at Indiana University, will grapple in the 154-pound class. The meet is due to get under way Friday.

Jim did not know the identity of his first opponent when he left here. He is being sponsored by the Downtown Lions Club of Big Spring.

In all-events, Mrs. Overton had the best handicap tally of 1921.

Big Spring had its lone winner in singles competition with a 6-2.

Marty Dooley of Abilene posted the best scratch series in singles play with a 6-6. Jo Hurd,

The Roundtable

Big Spring's first YMCA sponsored swimming meet will be run off on the 18th on the City Park pool lanes, and like the go-kart races that were held in March, the meet will be a novelty and something worth coming out to see. There will be no admission charge—and to see 200 good competitive swimmers for free is quite a bargain.

Big Spring's Aquatic Club is beginning to come into its own as a West Texas power and spectators at the meet can expect to see local swimmers pick up several medals in the 11-12 age group. Most of the credit for any medals that are won will have to go to coach ERNIE HOBBS, who had to resign for several reasons only a short time ago.

BRUCE FERGUSON, a new coach who was imported from Tulsa, has only been at it a week and will not have had time to really improve the local swimmers by the time the meet rolls around. And then too, he has quite a bit to learn about swimming before he begins to turn out some top-notch competitors—being a good swimmer is no accident, it takes a good coach. Ernie Hobbs definitely deserves some thanks for the three years he spent with the Y swim program.

Out of the pages of Look Magazine: FRED HUTCHINSON, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has the face and temper of a gathering thunderstorm. It's true that Hutch these days seldom dismembers clubhouse furniture, smashes light bulbs or tears the shirt off his back, as he used to after untoward defeats when he pitched for the Detroit Tigers. But when his Reds play badly and lose, he doesn't skip gaily to the showers, singing: 'Here we go gathering nuts in May!'

WHEN PAUL DIETZEL became head football coach at the U.S. Military Academy in 1962, it marked the first time the job had gone to a non-West Point graduate in more than 50 years. STAN MUSIAL, who played in 3,026 games over a stretch of 22 years, was never thrown out of a game for arguing with the umpire. Bamboo poles for vaulting were first used in the Olympic games in 1900. When FRANKLIN P. ADAMS wrote his famous poem about Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance in 1908, they made only eight double plays all year. And in 15 World Series games in 1906-1908, the combination made no double plays at all. GEORGE BILLICK, Old Forge, Pa., has bowled 17 perfect 300 games in sanctioned events to hold the all-time record for the most such games. Three bowlers, including St. Louis' DICK WEBER, are tied for second with 12 perfect contests.

SAM SNEAD has won 113 golf championships—89 on the regular professional tour. He originally wanted to be a clothes tailor but quit the profession after only a short tenure. He has also worked in a restaurant and as a trumpet player in a dance band.

Today seven corporations carry his name, making around $200,000 a year for him. He has a travel bill of $25,000 a year.

The tallest boxer to campaign professionally was JIM CULLY of Ireland. He was 7' 4" and weighed 273. He fought four times and lost each time in 1947-48.

The heaviest boxer ever was the 7' 1" EWART POTGIETER of South Africa who weighed in at 326 pounds.

The four Big Spring Little League teams slated for action in the District 8 playoffs at Andrews July 27-31 are conducting nightly drills in preparation for the tournament.

All-star squads have been assembled from each of the four local leagues, and the boys are working together trying to find winning combinations for the tourney.

Details of the tourney were worked out during a meeting of district officials here Sunday, July 5. The winner of the meet will represent the district in the area meet at a site to be announced.

Three of the four local clubs will go into action on the first night of the tourney. The Big Spring Nationals will take on the Andrews American League nine in the opener at 5:30 p. m., followed by a clash between the International and American League All-Stars of Big Spring at 7:30 p. m.

Tuesday night, July 28, the Big Spring Texans will challenge the winner of the Big Spring Nationals-Andrews American contest in a single game at 7:30 p. m.

The following night (Wednesday) is open, but the tourney will resume Thursday, July 30, with the Andrews Nationals meeting the winner of the Big Spring Americans-Big Spring Internationals till at 7:30 p. m.

The surviving nines will collide at 7:30 p. m. Friday, July 31, in the District 8 championship game.

PGA Champ Is Likely To Come From 6 Men

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Arnold Palmer wants to win. Jack Nicklaus must win. Tony Lema doesn't much care. That's the story of the three favorites in the 46th PGA tour-nament which opens here Thursday over the Columbus Country Club course.

Add U.S. Open champ Ken Venturi, who says he is ready to climb off cloud nine and get back to work. Throw in Gary Player, who is putting again. Remember Billy Casper, who has a cold—a dangerous sign.

He plays best when he's hurting. And that's the chalk talk for the tournament, last of the Big Four in golf. A winner from outside those six would come as a big surprise, although there are plenty in the field who could do it.

All the top pros are here for the annual family party, including such greats as Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Vic Ghezzi and old Denny Shute, last man to win the PGA two years in a row. That was 1936-37.

Palmer wants this one badly. It is the only big one he has never won. He predicted it will take a score of 272, eight under par for the 34-36-70 course, which measures only 6,851 yards, short for these days.

Nicklaus, a Columbus boy who has not won a big one this year even though he is the leading money winner with some $81,000.

This is his last chance to get into the World Series of Golf, which he won the last two years. Palmer, the Masters winner; Lema and Venturi are already in.

Lema, who staved off a great challenge by Nicklaus in the British Open, said "I don't think I can get up for another big one so soon, but who knows? I'm in a trance. I don't practice. I just hit the ball. Everything I'm doing is right."

And Venturi, who took the Open to end three years of heartache and despair, said "I can't see anything but the flag. Somebody asked me why I keep shooting at the flag. I told him, 'That's where the holes are.'"

Coast Golfer Claims Medal In Publinsk

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Musky Steve Oppermann of San Francisco, the 1964 runner-up, zeroed in on a qualifying medalist honors in the National Public Links golf tournament Tuesday with a blazing second round five-under-par 65 for a 36-hole total of 135.

It was the second lowest qualifying aggregate in the tourney's 39-year history. The 36-hole record of 134 was set in 1946 by Jim Clark of Long Beach, Calif., on the Wellshire Course in Denver.

Oppermann, who opened Monday with a 70, missed the competitive Francis Gross Course record by one stroke with his 32-33 against par 35-35-70.

Oppermann, a 22-year-old pro shop clerk at the McLeran Course in San Francisco, is on a hot winning streak. He has won his last two tournament starts, taking the Western Amateur at Tucson in June and the California State Amateur at Pebble Beach two weeks ago.

The 64 low scorers Tuesday will qualify for spots in championship match play starting Wednesday and continuing through Saturday.

Bobby Baker was the man of the hour for ABC. He clouted a bases-loaded double in the first after Larry McMurry, second baseman, doubled and advanced to third when Johnnie Thomas, shortstop, was hit by a pitched ball. Larry Broughton, pitcher, who walked behind Thomas, scored the third run of the inning on Baker's blast.

Baker, the catcher, also lifted one over the wall in the second to score Broughton, who had doubled ahead of him. Broughton's extra-base-hit brought in Bill Bureth, centerfielder, and McMurry.

The laboratory is named after Mantle because he lent his name to a fund raising campaign for the establishment of the research center. Mantle's father died of the disease.

Those on hand for the ceremony included four other Yankees and doctors, nurses, and dozens of patients.

Pitcher-Coach Whitey Ford explained that the other Yankees couldn't come because they were resting for the big series with the Baltimore Orioles that started Tuesday night.

Mantle who usually prefers to listen rather than to talk, was not scheduled to speak.

But he asked for the microphone to thank the people gathered and said "I think this is the proudest moment of my life."

Hogan will replace Joe Holcomb on his new job. Premont is located near Kingsville. Hogan has been at Kermit the past three seasons.

Director Names Six Outstanding Participants

There are six outstanding boys and girls participating in the Summer Fun program at the Lakeview Branch of the YMCA, according to E. S. (Sam) Dawson, temporary director.

Dawson singled out six of the 180 children participating in the program for praise, saying they are athletes of good promise, who follow directions well and cooperate with others. The six are Delores Wrightsill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Wrightsill, 506 N. Lancaster; Jennifer Zapp, 805 Ohio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Zapp; Jimmie Leas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ramonda Leas, 620 NW 4th; Danny McDaniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McDaniel, 902 NW 3rd; Jesse Parris, son of Mrs. Victoriana Parris, 809 NW 6th; and, Izell Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Johnson, 707 Wyoming.

The six youngsters do well in every phase of the Summer Fun program, said Dawson, and they excel at swimming and in the arts and crafts.

There are 67 boys and girls participating in the swimming program at the Northside Park pool. Classes are held for Minnows, Beginners and Advanced each week morning. The arts and crafts classes are held at the Lakeview Branch, YMCA, 800 Orkney, in the afternoons. Some of the courses include instruction in tumbling, softball, archery, horseshoes, and indoor activities, such as folk dancing and weightlifting exercises.

Dawson credited much of the success for the Summer Fun program to his assistants, Thurman Randle and Oscar Tucker, grid players for Big Spring High School, who work at the Y during the summer.

A resident of Big Spring six years, Dawson temporarily succeeded Jim Smith as director of the Lakeview Branch of the YMCA last Friday. Smith who had been here three years, took a similar position in Saginaw Bay, Mich.

Dawson is a graduate of Lubbock Dunbar High School and Prairie View A&M, where he played football. A physical education and sixth grade teacher at Lakeview School, Dawson will hold the YMCA post during the summer until a full-time replacement can be found.

Masons To Hear Visitor From Hawaiian Lodge

Members of the Big Spring Lodge No. 1340 AF&M will hear a lecture on Hawaii and the work of the Masonic bodies in the islands Thursday night. The lecture will be illustrated with films of scenes in Hawaii. The hour is 7:30 p.m.

K. Uahimui, a resident of Honolulu and a member of the Le Progreso Oceania Lodge AF&M.

Mr. Uahimui is in Big Spring as the guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. Edwin Salki, 91B East.

H. D. Brewer, grand master of Lodge No. 1340, urged all members to hear this unusual address. The lodge of which the guest is a member is the only Masonic body in the world to ever have a king as its grand master.

Howard-Glasscock Annual Reunion Slated July 23

Old timers from Howard and Glasscock counties will meet together for the 40th year July 23 at the Big Spring City Park.

They will consume a ton of choice beef, the meat from 10 goats, 500 pounds of that mysterious dish called sn-of-a-gun stew, gallons of pickles, mountains of bread and a small lake of iced tea at noon on that date. The occasion will be the barbecue lunch which is a feature of each year's reunion by the Howard-Glasscock County Old Settlers Association.

Jess Slaughter, president of the association, said that the order has already been placed for the food to be served, and that arrangements are nearly complete for the celebration.

Ralph White and Shirley Fry are to provide the cords of selected mesquite wood needed to cook the meat.

Cecil Long and Charles Merritt will team up on preparing the food. Other committees are being assigned specific duties for the big day.

Right now the important task is taking collection to insure the funds to pay for the celebration. Joe Hayden is acting as head of this group and already has received a number of donations from well wishers and old timers.

Third Fatality

HARLINGEN (AP)—The toll in a weekend traffic accident has climbed to three with the death of Murray A. Godfrey, 55, of Primera. Godfrey died at a hospital here Monday night.

Also injured fatally in the crash were Aaron Godfrey, 22, and Domingo Zavala, 40, of Mercedes.

needed, however, according to Slaughter, and anyone wishing to contribute to the cause is invited to contact Hayden or Slaughter or to mail their checks to either man.

The parties, as has been their history for two score years, are always paid for by gifts from people who participate in the celebration, Slaughter said.

Arrangements have been made for an old fiddler's contest as a feature of the afternoon program. The special feature this year will be the appearance here of Texas Shorty, billed as Texas Champion fiddler, and his band. Texas Shorty will provide the music for a dance at 3 p.m. in the Old Settlers Pavilion at the park and also play for an evening dance at 8 p.m. at the same site.

The annual reunions attract huge crowds, and several thousand usually show up for the

Auto Theft Detection School Held At Seminole

At the instigation of Big Spring Police Chief Jay Banks, an auto theft school for service station operators is being conducted in Seminole today.

Banks, who recently was appointed chairman of the subcommittee on auto thefts by the Texas Police Association, spoke at an area meeting of chiefs of police July 8, at Andrews. At that time, he urged the chiefs to arrange seminars on auto theft for station operators.

The first such seminar in West Texas was held in Big Spring last March for the purpose of enlisting the help of service station operators in the detection of stolen vehicles.

Several arrests for various offenses followed the seminar as local operators called in "tips" to the police. Operators who cooperate with the police remain anonymous.

C. C. Benson, director of the Texas Division of the National Auto Theft Bureau, conducted the first seminar, and he is directing the one under way in Seminole. As at Big Spring, he is being assisted by Martin Koonsman, Abilene, agent for the bureau.

Chief M. W. Gaddis of Seminole made arrangements for the seminar, Chief Walter Eubanks of Sweetwater has announced plans for a seminar at Sweetwater following the one at Seminole.

The meeting today is being attended by Chief Banks, and law enforcement officers and businessmen from southeastern New Mexico, and Andrews, Dawson, Terry, Yoakum and Gaines counties in Texas.

Tennessee Gas To Expand Lines

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. of Houston won permission Tuesday from the Federal Power Commission for a $50 million project to expand its natural gas pipeline system from Texas to New England.

SHE WAS-PINNED FOR 14 YEARS
Mrs. Virginia Leavy points to safety pin in lung X-ray

Mom Finally Loses Open Safety Pin

PITTSBURGH (AP) Virginia Leavy, 37, attractive mother of two, had an open safety pin in her lung for 14 years but didn't know it.

Doctors at Pittsburgh's Mercy Hospital removed it and Tuesday Mrs. Leavy sat on the edge of her hospital bed and said she felt fine.

Mrs. Leavy, of nearby Greensburg, said she swallowed the pin in 1949 or 1950—"I'm not sure which"—while preparing her infant son for a trip.

"I held the open pin in my mouth for a minute while dressing him—you know, one of those small, gold-colored pins for ribbons and things," she said.

Then she swallowed it—still open. She tried to cough it up. She called a doctor, who told her not to worry as long as there was no pain.

Mrs. Leavy pursued an active life over the next years, swimming, playing badminton, hiking, doing housework and smoking.

Last month after a busy day she "suddenly felt something in my chest."

When she started coughing up blood she called her doctor. A chest X-ray followed and located the pin in her lung, still open.

At first, doctors passed a bronchoscope—a narrow, tube-like instrument—through her mouth and windpipe. The bronchoscope was monitored by television.

Aided by the bronchoscope, doctors reached into her lung with a special forceps. But the pin, which over the years had become embedded in tissue, wouldn't move. The head broke and was withdrawn.

That was a week ago. Monday they tried again and in a slow, painstaking maneuver brought the pin up. It was badly rusted.

Khrushchev Ups Mikoyan To Presidency Of Soviet

MOSCOW (AP)—On the recommendation of Premier Khrushchev, Leonid I. Brezhnev was relieved today of his post as Soviet president and Anastas I. Mikoyan was elected to succeed him.

Khrushchev told a meeting of the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet parliament, that Brezhnev is needed for full-time work in the Communist party.

The party is the seat of real power in the Soviet Union and Brezhnev is regarded as Khrushchev's heir-apparent.

Khrushchev said he wanted "to express my cordial gratitude to Leonid Ilyich Brezhnev for his fruitful work" as president. Brezhnev held the figure-head position for four years.

Mikoyan, who was relieved of his post as a first deputy premier, was wished success by Khrushchev.

Mikoyan said in the crowded hall where Russian tsars once were crowned that "I will do my best to justify your confidence, to fight, to work for the victory of communism together with you."

There were then smiling handshakes all around but none of the hugging and kissing that marked Brezhnev's appointment to the presidency May 7, 1960.

Later, Mikoyan, Brezhnev and Khrushchev sat together on the platform, apparently joking as the parliament continued its business.

Mikoyan, 68, a Bolshevik who has been at the top of the Soviet leadership since early in the Stalin era, looked solemn before his transfer to the presidency.

He has been a confidant and international trouble-shooter for Khrushchev.

He wore a single medal on his dark blue suit. This is unusual for Mikoyan, who normally does not display his many Soviet honors.

Khrushchev had his usual five medals on his light blue suit. Brezhnev, a squarish looking former steelworker, left his medals at home.

A Devotional For The Day

God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. (Psalms 46:1.)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy steadfast love and compassion. Help us to adjust ourselves to these changing conditions of today. Help us to know Thy presence in a real way. Grant us the indwelling of the Holy Spirit in these critical days in which we live. We ask in the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

(From the "Upper Room")

Same Standard For Counties

A test case which may do for counties what the Supreme Court of the United States did for congressional and legislative redistricting is on its appellate way.

Judge Harry H. Schultz of 69th District Court of Moore County in the Texas Panhandle has ruled in effect that there is nothing illegal about one county commissioner representing 75 per cent of the population of Moore County. The case has been appealed to the 7th Court of Appeals. From there, it may go to the Supreme Court of Texas and perhaps finally to the Supreme Court of the United States. Midland County also has had litigation on the matter.

Under state law and the precedent of court decisions, a county commissioners court cannot be forced to re-district commissioners precincts to reflect population shifts. Nor is it possible to challenge successfully any redistricting move by a commissioner court without proving "gross abuse of discretion," a most difficult charge to prove legally.

Yet there must be some ultimate relief from a county governing body which traditionally is controlled by commissioners who represent population minorities. If the question ever reaches the Supreme Court of the United States, there is every reason to believe that "population only" must be the criterion for representation on commissioners courts. The highest court upheld this principle in congressional and legislative representation. Applying the same formula to commissioners courts is a logical extension of the same reasoning.

For Mexico's Goodwill

Gov. John Connally's decision to make extensive good-will tours in Latin America is welcome. He will make a five-day visit to the bordering states of northern Mexico and a two-week tour of South America.

Texas' economic future is, as Gov. Connally notes, closely tied to Latin America. Inter-American tourism is increasingly important to Texas, and to the western area particularly. Transborder commercial trade with Mexico is a big item.

Latin America, as a region, is the United States' best foreign-trade customer. Texas is a leading state in U. S. exports—first in chemicals and petroleum, second in agricultural products, fourth in foods, and eighth in manufactured goods—with its total at last accounting running about $1.3 billion a year.

The "Texas image" in Latin America scarred by old troubles with Mexico long since amicably resolved, can stand a lot of improvement. Gov. Connally's tours should help improve it, by symbolizing Texas' interest in Latin American affairs, concern for the region's problems and respect for its values and achievements. In fact, such tours could become a constructive custom for governors of a state whose cultural ties with Latin America are unequalled.

Richard Starnes And The GOP Must Face LBJ

SAN FRANCISCO—What if Oswald had missed?

That is a might-have-been that isn't quite as idle as it seems, for it helps to explain the strange, unreal Republican convention.

Nothing short of the assassination of President Kennedy, and the dramatic success story of Lyndon Johnson as his successor, could have created the strange miasma of despair that is the central fact of life at this GOP funeral march.

THE DELEGATES know there are no miracles lurking in the wings at the Cow Palace. If experience, judgment and the ability to draw sound conclusions from readily apparent facts mean anything—then this dispirited conclave can be expected to nominate a losing ticket.

Sure knowledge of defeat (or as sure as anything can be in politics) is the cheerless theme of this conclave. It is a powerful influence on what this Congress of sweaty political warriors will do. Nominating a loser is one thing, and nominating a possible winner is another. It seems safe to say that the real author of the Republican party's present disarray is not Sir Barry of Goldwater at all. It is Lyndon Johnson—Lyndon Johnson and the myth of crushing superiority he has so artfully built up around himself.

BUT SUPPOSE Oswald had missed, and the GOP were here to nominate a tiger to take on John F. Kennedy in November. That would present the Republicans with a different war, and one that many of them might see themselves winning.

For all his mastery of image-making, President Johnson's great appeal to the broad mass of Americans is founded on genuine accomplishments.

THE TAX CUT, the final settlement of the lingering rail labor dispute, the forceful and effective manner in which he blunted the gathering Communist offensive in Laos, his deft (if temporary) resolution of the Panama crisis, and, above all, the passage of the civil rights bill he coerced from Congress—all these are the sturdy framework on which he has so skillfully draped the tinsel of political sex appeal.

IT TAKES NO great trick of imagination, however, to convert many of these Johnson plus values into Kennedy minuses. Would JFK have gotten civil rights from a Congress that was showing a growing tendency to frustrate his program? Perhaps, but few who have watched President Johnson's masterful manipulation of a jealous and cantankerous Congress think it would have happened as quickly or as smoothly.

Johnson's nicer touch with Congress was not surprising, for he had been a power at the Capitol and Kennedy had not been. But his sure hand in foreign affairs is one area where he might reasonably have been expected to falter.

BUT, OF COURSE, he did not. Contrast the brutal efficiency of Johnson's response to the Communist job in Laos with Kennedy's uncertain reaction to a similar enemy probe three years earlier. How LBJ would have handled the loaded dice at the Bay of Pigs no man alive can guess, but history shows how Kennedy, inexperienced and the victim of woefully incompetent advisers, was hurt by it.

To be sure, the biggest asset Johnson has is simply time.

HIS GOOD LUCK won't last forever, or even four years. He will have his bitter defeats, and four years hence he will appear to be a much more vulnerable candidate. But for now, most soothsayers agree that he is very nearly unbeatable. And in that one fact is the clue to the strange paralysis of will that today afflicts the GOP.

NEW YORK (AP)—Sidewalk comments of a pavement Plato: The price of dreaming is going up, up, up! It costs much more to dream now than it used to.

Inflation, that bane of our workaday life, has now also invaded the world of the imagination, in which, through fantasy, we achieve all our goals.

To get what he wants from his dreams, a daydreamer finds he must spend much more mythical money than did the daydreamer of a generation ago.

This is true of both kids and adults.

AS A CHILD, I dreamed of finding a nickel, a dime, or—in a really expansive mood—a quarter. To dream of finding a quarter was to spend a wild afternoon in Valhalla.

That gigantic sum would buy five big sticks of penny licorice, a nickel ice cream cone, a nickel sack of popcorn, and a dime ticket to the Saturday afternoon movie.

To a modern child, being actually given a quarter is hardly a dream situation. It wouldn't get him very far. To spend a delirious afternoon such as I dreamed of in childhood he'd have to have well over a dollar.

Grownup dreams are getting even more high-priced. This doesn't bother some people. They are printing-press-money dreamers. Whatever they dream they like to have or do, they dream up the money to buy it—and never mind the cost.

Billy Graham

As the church in our town does not have a good reputation wouldn't it be better if we went to a church in a nearby town?—K. H.

You should first know why it does not have a good reputation. The world is likely to have strong prejudice against any church that condemns wickedness and vice. People will often criticize the church to justify their own attitude toward God. It is generally a decided advantage to have your fellowship with the people of God in your own community. That way you may help them and they may help you. Even more important is the effect of your open witness to the people of the community. Every Christian should stand openly for his beliefs and his standard without being ashamed of the people of God.

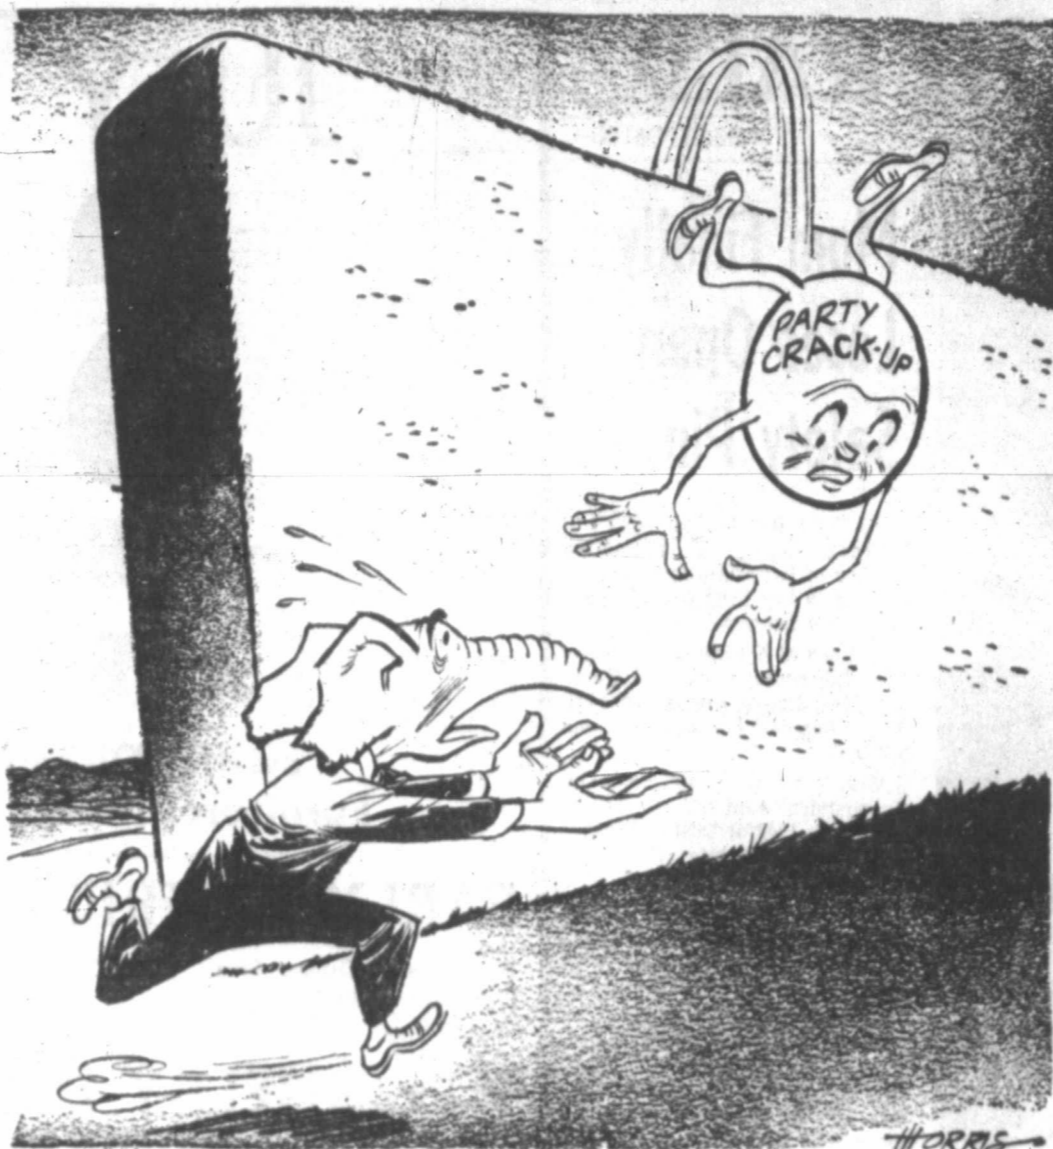

It is often easier to go to church away from home than to go with your neighbors where you must "live it" before them.

What Others Say

Sen. Norris Cotton, R-NH, says that spring always reminds him of the senator who, about this time of year, was visited by an enthusiastic lady constituent.

As she droned on and on about the glories of Washington in the springtime, he grew restless. Finally, he held up his hand to check the flow, cocked his ear and said: "I thought I heard a quorum call." "I'm sure you did," the lady gushed. "You have such lovely birds here, and this is their mating season."

Keeping Party Together Main GOP Worry

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Republicans' chief concern was not in picking their presidential candidates today—that looked cut-and-dried—but in how to keep the party together after they do.

Two famous party leaders have expressed the depth of this concern. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon both pleaded for unity. And even they didn't agree on how to achieve it.

FOR WEEKS Sen. Barry Goldwater looked a cinch for the nomination. But his chief rival, Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton, who started off with a wishy-washy campaign, wound up in bitterness against him.

Eisenhower thought it would be a "good ticket" if Scranton ran for the vice presidency on the ticket behind Goldwater. This showed Eisenhower, who played neutral, didn't have much optimism about Scranton's No. 1 chances.

Nixon doubted a Goldwater-Scranton ticket would be good. For one thing, he said, because of the bitterness between Goldwater and Scranton he didn't think they'd be compatible as teammates.

THERE NEVER seemed any doubt at this dull convention that Goldwater controlled enough delegates to nominate him and that the score was in his favor before they got here. This is what made the convention dull.

His followers over the past 3½ years have put together an extremely loyal, hardworking and efficient machine, one of the best this country has seen in years.

But the big unknown in all these efforts has been how much support Goldwater could expect on Election Day from the rank-and-file Republicans around the country.

Although he won the California presidential primary from New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, he lost to Rockefeller in Oregon and in New Hampshire to Henry Cabot Lodge who was off in South Vietnam as U.S. ambassador.

Price Of Dreaming Soars

NEW YORK (AP)—Sidewalk comments of a pavement Plato: The price of dreaming is going up, up, up! It costs much more to dream now than it used to.

Inflation, that bane of our workaday life, has now also invaded the world of the imagination, in which, through fantasy, we achieve all our goals.

Grownup dreams are getting even more high-priced. This doesn't bother some people. They are printing-press-money dreamers. Whatever they dream they like to have or do, they dream up the money to buy it—and never mind the cost.

FOR YEARS my dream goal was to live like a millionaire. To do this I figured I'd have a small steam yacht for world travel, a penthouse on Park Avenue, a well-staffed mansion in the country, a racing stable, a hideaway villa on the French Riviera, a couple of limousines, a few racing cars.

Naturally, there'd be a dozen or so servants around. A man can get awfully tired of opening his own champagne bottles day after day.

Well, it was a lovely dream and it kept me happy for years. But now it is smashed to smithereens. I made the mistake of confiding my dream to a friend who is expert in tax and financial matters.

"How much money do you think it would take you to live the way you think a millionaire lives?" he asked.

"Why, a million dollars," I replied.

HE LAUGHED. "You must be kidding. Anybody with only a million dollars who tried to live like that would wind up panhandling on the Bowery in less than six months."

"You'll have to upgrade your dreams. What you need is $25 million to $50 million—and even then you might have to cut down on your racing stable, and keep your yacht in drydock part of the year."

He left me crushed. Who at my age wants to have to suddenly boost his dream fortune from a million dollars to $25 million or so? It is hard to do. It isn't worth it.

Somebody is always taking the fun out of life. And inflation is taking a lot of the fun out of dreaming. A fellow can hardly afford it anymore.

Motion Sickness Can Be Controlled By Pills

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Could you give me some advice for children who get carsick? It seems to me there should be something they could take just before a ride that would not be harmful.—MRS. R. M.

Let's call it motion sickness, because there isn't any great difference between carsickness, seasickness and airsickness. Or even, for a few people, trainsickness, although this is rare.

It's the same basic disorder—a disturbance in the mechanism of the inner ear which controls the sense of balance. The motion can be one of swaying, bouncing or pitching. For different people, a different motion causes it, just as some good salt-water sailors get sick on the different motions of a Great Lakes ship. And vice versa.

In World War II, the control of motion sickness—became a matter of military importance. Dramamine and similar drugs were developed. Small doses of them, just before a trip, proved very effective.

These should be used cautiously with children. Talk to your doctor about the proper dose, taking into consideration the age and size of the child. Large or frequent doses may cause disturbing drowsiness. But they are very effective.

Dear Dr. Molner: What can be done about a lifetime (40 years) of chronic constipation?—MRS. M.

Constipation can be conquered in most cases. This usually takes time, and almost always it is imperative that the patient abandon certain notions about what constipation really is. That's the hardest part of all. And that's why I always warn vigorously against bringing up a child to believe that he needs laxatives regularly, or that his bowels have to move according to some arbitrary schedule. The ideas we absorb as children are the hardest to change later.

How to break the constipation habit? The best ways I know are contained in my booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation." Get it. Read it. Understand it. And then follow the instructions.

For a copy of the booklet, send 20 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a new grandmother—the baby is three months old. My daughter and her husband play with her and tickle her to make her laugh. I have heard from older friends that this causes stuttering, by acting on the nervous system. Is there some truth in this or is it an old wives' tale?—MRS. C.A.

Gentle, brief tickling doesn't cause stuttering, and I see no reason to object to it.

When it gets to the point of teasing a child—and once in a while you hear of this, and the real purpose is to be mean—that's another matter.

Around The Rim For Better Education

One of the most important studies made in recent years by a government-appointed body in Texas — yet one which the rank and file of us are probably little aware of—is the study of higher education in Texas under way by the Committee of 25.

Gov. John Connally appointed the group to prepare a study of Texas higher education development, projecting the state's needs into the future. Its report is due on his desk Aug. 31 and Connally has within the past two weeks reviewed a preliminary draft of the recommendations.

THE COMMITTEE'S report could have far-reaching implications for higher education, not only for the four-year colleges but for the junior colleges as well.

Connally said in a recent news conference he hoped other issues in the next Legislature would not cause a delay in action on some of the recommendations concerning higher education. He told newsmen that "I hope that with a lot of hard work and advance planning we can knock out a good many of these programs." He also commented that the cost of the recommendations cannot yet be determined.

CONNALLY HAS emphasized the necessity of Texas improving its higher educational facilities if the state is to keep pace in its total development with other areas of the nation. An instance of the bond between higher education and an area's growth is Palo Alto, Calif., which is both the home of Stanford University and the leading center for electronics development in the United States.

GROWTH IN higher education is quite evident. The largest major college near Big Spring, Texas Tech at Lubbock, set a record enrollment of more than 13,000 students last fall. Yet by 1970 that enrollment is expected to surpass 20,000.

Higher education in Texas—as in most states—is facing increasing problems in not only enrollments rise, but demands for higher quality of educational efforts increase as well. It was interesting to see what Gov. Connally's committee recommended as some of the solutions to those problems. —PRESTON MAYNARD

Holmes Alexander Outlook For The Republicans

SAN FRANCISCO — From a tour of convention city substations, it is evident that the Republican party must pitch its case on a straight, fast appeal to American citizenship and not on a confidence game addressed to the mendicant minorities. A run-down on the various pocket boroughs, where both parties seek their votes, shows the Republicans in this fix:

OPERATION DIXIE: Lee Potter, who heads the drive for Southern Republican gains, is up against the plain fact that any Republican in the White House would accept and enforce the Civil Rights Act and that Alabama Governor George Wallace is a presidential candidate who would not, Southern whites, a minority in the nation, will not flock to the Republican camp in any clear-minded hope of restoring segregation. If that's what they want, they'll vote for Wallace.

MINORITIES DIVISION: Clay Clairborne, a Negro officer in the Republican National Committee, has every right to be discouraged about the chance of carrying any appreciable number of his race into his party. It is getting too late to wave the memory of Abe Lincoln before Negroes.

The Labor Front: The law of the land under the Taft-Hartley Act still allows states to have right-to-work laws that are protected from Federal invasion. About 40 per cent of union members are said to favor this and other protections from their labor bosses, but the Republican opposition to boondoggles like area redevlopment and the war on poverty is not endearing to the working man. Only if the working man looks upon himself as a citizen and a taxpayer can the Republicans hope to have his vote in November.

SENIORITY GROUPS: Persons who have retired from wage-earning jobs are another minority from whom the GOP must be braced to receive little bloc support. If the elders think selfishly, as too many Americans have been thought to do, they are apt to vote for tax-supported medical care and not worry about the nation becoming socialized and bankrupt.

Two bloc-voter groups, however, seem to have a self-interest in Republican success. The dwindling farm population has registered several referendums against the wasteful and over-controlled Democratic farm programs. The so-called "nationalities" groups of foreign-extracted persons are going pro-Republican on two counts.

ONE IS THAT the Republicans have consistently held out hope of liberating Communist-held and Communist-threatened nations all over the world. The second reason is that all immigrants to the U.S.A., except the Negroes, are volunteer Americans. The Republicans are apt to get the Wallace vote in Northern states for reasons that go deeper than we know, and one reason surely is that European immigrants came to America in freedom and the African immigrants did not. It would be strange if the love for settled American ways were not stronger in one group than in the other, and this would favor the Republicans.

BUT BY AND LARGE, the Republican party cannot put together a cell-by-cell electorate in 1964. The GOP must win, if at all, by finding the highest national denominator. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

David Lawrence GOP Damaged By Infighting

SAN FRANCISCO—This is the convention in which the pot calls the kettle black. Originally the spokesmen of Governor Scranton accused Senator Goldwater of accepting the support of "extremists." But now it's the other way around.

For Governor Scranton has just furnished an example of "extremism" almost unprecedented in the history of party conventions. He wrote a letter that was so bitter and so full of innuendoes that Senator Goldwater decided not to answer it, and actually returned it. But the letter produced a bitterness and resentment in the atmosphere of the convention which doesn't bode well for the party.

SUCH ATTACKS might have been understandable, politically speaking, if Governor Scranton were an agent of Democrats, but to distort and misrepresent the other fellow's position in one's own party just isn't political cricket.

One by one Governor Scranton's pieces of strategy are falling down. His demand for certain platform planks has failed. In fact, the Republican platform is far more dynamic and contains a better balanced set of planks than was thought possible a month ago. The platform, which is supported strongly by the Goldwater people, removes many misunderstandings and disposes of misrepresentations about the Arizona senator's beliefs. Indeed, many Democrats could say the principles are logical and well balanced, but they would differ, as to just how such principles would be implemented and as to the man best qualified to carry them out. Here, for example, are some of the Republican planks on foreign policy:

"A DYNAMIC strategy aimed at victory—pressing always for initiatives for freedom, rejecting always appeasement and withdrawal—reduces the risk of nuclear war. It is a nation's vacillation, not firmness, that tempts an aggressor into war. It is accommodation, not opposition, that encourages a hostile nation to remain hostile and to remain aggressive."

"We are opposed to recognition of Red China. We oppose its admission into the United Nations. We steadfastly support free China."

"IN NEGOTIATIONS with Communists, Republicans will probe tirelessly for reasonable, practicable and trustworthy agreements. However, we will never abandon insistence on advantages for the free world."

"Republicans support the United Nations. However, we will never rest in our efforts to revitalize its original purpose. We will press for a change in the method of voting in the General Assembly and in the specialized agencies that will reflect population disparities among the member states and recognize differing abilities and willingness to meet the obligations of the charter."

THERE ISN'T anything in the platform to bear out the "extremist" charges that recently have alleged that Senator Goldwater is anxious to break up the United Nations or that he wants to start a nuclear war.

Senator Goldwater is making substantial progress toward winning the nomination because he is acting in a dignified way and like a political veteran. In desperation, spokesmen for the opposition are behaving impulsively, like juveniles, and are losing ground. It looks now as if the Goldwater nomination will come on the first ballot and that even some of the dissenting delegations will move to make it unanimous.

BUT, WHEN ALL is said and done, the Republicans will find that some of the misrepresentations made in their own party fight will have been given credence by many voters and that the task of setting them right will be correspondingly more difficult. It hasn't been a happy convention for the Republican party. (Copyright, 1964, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

Hit And Walk

SPARKS, Nev. (AP)—Dist. Atty. William J. Raggio's car was damaged in what officers described as a hit and run accident during a statehood centennial celebration in Sparks.

Witnesses reported the culprit vehicle was an old-fashioned wagon pulled by a team of horses.

Convict Guards

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—There was a guillotine set up in the Nevada Prison yard and some of the convicts were guards.

It wasn't a revolution in penal philosophy. The prison was being used for location filming of Jean Genet's play, "Deathwatch."

About 100 inmates participated as extras. Most portrayed inmates of a French prison in the 1930s, but a few played the parts of guards.

Missionary's Life Reviewed

The life of the late Miss Lucille Reagan was reviewed by her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. E. Reagan, during a dinner held Monday at Coker's Restaurant. The occasion was the monthly meeting of the Mary Martha Sunday school class of First Baptist Church. Mrs. Brandon Curry, worded the opening prayer.

Miss Reagan, who died of yellow fever in Nigeria in 1937, was one of the pioneer Baptist missionaries in that region. Mrs. Reagan read letters from the missionary as well as newspaper accounts of her work as she showed pictures taken in Nigeria.

At the conclusion of the program, the class made a donation to two Nigerians, Mr. and Mrs. Frances Okelji, who are obtaining doctorate degrees at the University of Indiana. He is the son of a man whom Miss Reagan had influenced in accepting the Baptist faith, and the couple will be returning soon to Nigeria where they will teach.

Hostesses for the dinner were Mrs. O. L. Nabors and Mrs. Thelma Lewis. Twelve members attended and a visitor, Mrs. Mrs. Leemon Bostick.

Chaplain Is Speaker

Chaplain Max R. Maguire of the Big Spring State Hospital was guest speaker at the Jaycees meeting held Tuesday evening at Cosden Country Club. He spoke on mental illness and the effects of religion on patients.

Mrs. Charles Butts reported on the Area 2 summer convention held in Sweetwater last week. Plans were made for a picnic to be held later in the summer, and a Coke party was scheduled for the next regular session to be held in the home of Mrs. Charles Butts, 3303 11th Place.

The group will assist the Jaycees with the Labor Day Rest Stop program scheduled to aid travelers on the holiday. Refreshments were served to nine members and a guest, Mrs. Pat Armstrong of Van Horn.

Bridal Shower Honors Mrs. Mickey Coates

Mrs. Mickey Coates, a recent bride, was complimented Tuesday evening at a shower held in the home of Mrs. James Lancaster, 3706 Boulder. The honoree is the former Donna Kay Layman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Layman.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Clyde

Denton, Mrs. Hilliard Dittmore, Mrs. Harold Gilmore and Mrs. Alvin Huskey III. The honoree, attired in a blue and white two-piece dress, was presented a corsage of pink carnations. She greeted guests with her mother and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Carroll Coates.

Guests were served from a table covered with pink taffeta with an overlay of pink net. A mixed bouquet of pink flowers centered the table which held a white cake decorated with tiny wedding rings and miniature umbrellas. Appointments were of crystal and silver.

CHANGE SET

The Philathea Sunday School class salad supper scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday will be held at the First Methodist Church instead of the John Dibrell home as previously planned.

Sixteen guests were registered between the hours of 7 and 9 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Roman are visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Owen, in Austin. Their daughter, Judy, who has been a student at Texas University will return home with them.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Make Note Of Chores At Breakfast Table

Dear Heloise:

If Mrs. Housewife will place a pencil and piece of paper by her plate at the breakfast table and write down the chores of the day that come to her mind, she can save herself hours each day.

I used to think of the dozens of things I had to do, and started off harem-scarem as soon as my husband was off to work and the children off to school.

Now, I take just a few minutes to put everything I have written down in a convenient order, according to its importance.

This plan saves me hundreds of steps and immeasurable time.

Book Study Held By Baptist Group

Mrs. Welby Jackson and Mrs. Monroe Gafford presented three chapters from the book, "Spiritual Life Development," at the Tuesday morning meeting of the Anne Dwyer Circle of the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Robert Polk, 2810 Colorado, was hostess and read the prayer calendar. Mrs. Billie T. Smith gave the prayer for the missionaries.

Cookies and supplies will be furnished by the circle for the Mexican Mission Bible School the first week in August. A thank you note was read from the Girl's Auxiliary members who attended the June meeting. Mrs. Della K. Agnell gave the closing prayer.

Baptist Association Hears Of Missions

Mrs. J. R. Williams presented a program on community missions to the Woman's Missionary Union worker's conference held Monday in Coahoma at the First Baptist Church. The group is under the auspices of the Big Spring Association of Baptist Women.

Mrs. Williams illustrated her talk with need packets, using the plant names as puns for her presentation of the needs for community action. She spoke to 42 Baptist women who represented 15 churches in the association.

A partial officer slate was named. They are Mrs. C. L. Kirkland, vice president; Mrs. Dan Oglesby, recording secretary; Mrs. A. W. Page, corresponding secretary - treasurer; Mrs. W. E. Anderson, Young Women's Auxiliary; Mrs. Williams, community missions; Mrs. C. O. Hill, prayer; and Mrs. Rex Greenwood, stewardship.

Mrs. B. D. Rice presided at the session and announced meetings scheduled for the summer. The District 8 Mission Study Institute will be held in the first church in Lamesa July 21 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. with Mrs. T. B. McCannless in charge. The WMU house party for leaders is scheduled Aug. 25-28 in Waco. A prayer retreat is set for Sept. 4 and a workshop planned in San Angelo Sept. 23. The next WMU conference will be Aug. 10 in Tarzan.

Mrs. B. T. Faulkner was song leader accompanied by Mrs. H. M. Jarratt at the piano. The Latin American crusade was the theme of the devotion given by Mrs. R. L. Wood, Coahoma. She was assisted by Sandra and Dolores Tollett, Coahoma. Prayers were worded by Mrs. C. L. McKenney and Mrs. Marie Derera.

Dear Heloise:

I was given a lovely calendar towel for 1960 and I didn't want to use it for dishes so I am saving it as a keepsake for my granddaughter who was born that year.

I just gave a lovely linen one (1964) to a young friend whose baby was born this year, and I suggested that she save it for her daughter.

Some people search for calendar plates of their birth year, so why not have a calendar towel?... Mrs. Vernon Wilson, Sr.

TO BE MARRIED

Miss LaPrecia Brown was honored with a pre-nuptial shower Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Terry Carter, No. 5 Highland Cove. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Milton Brown, 401 Westover, and the bride-elect of Lamson Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Partlow, 2403 Main.

The honoree, who was presented a corsage of orchid and white carnations, wore a full-skirted dress of orchid eyellet. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Partlow received similar corsages.

Cohostesses with Mrs. Carter were Mrs. H. C. Spivey, Mrs. G. F. Gideon, Mrs. Avery Faulks, Mrs. Floyd Henderson, Mrs. Willard Hendrick, Mrs. Amos Johnson and Mrs. Rex Greenwood. Calling hours were from 7 to 9 p.m.

Twenty-five guests were served from a table covered with white linen and centered with a floral arrangement in orchid hues.

The hostesses presented the honoree with an electric mixer. Miss Brown and Adams will be married July 24 in the home of her parents.

New telephone committee members were named. They are Mrs. Bernard Fisher and Mrs. Albert Davis. Mrs. Rogers Heley, Mrs. Fred Eaker and Mrs. Joe Hayden were selected for the visiting committee. A star sisters gift exchange was held.

The next meeting will be Aug. 11 and hostesses will be Mrs. Carnrike, Mrs. Allen Hull and Mrs. Charles Eberley.

End Summer Trip

The Rev. and Mrs. Donald Kenning, 2405 Alledale, and six of their children have returned from a trip to Florida and Iowa, where they visited their parents. They arrived home Saturday.

Lodge Reads Resolutions

Rebekah lodges held separate sessions Tuesday evening when resolutions were read and offerings made.

JOHN A. KEE LODGE
The John A. Kee Rebekah lodge will furnish cookies for the Big Spring State Hospital during the month of August. The plans were made when the regular session was conducted Tuesday evening at the lodge hall. Mrs. Carl Wilhite, noble grand, presided.

The charter has been undraped for the late Mrs. Effie Davis. A resolution of sympathy was read and sent to Mrs. Cass Hill on the death of her mother, the late Mrs. Sam McDaniel. Another resolution of sympathy was read in remembrance of the late Arthur Schubert, brother of Mrs. Pauline Petty.

A letter was read from Mrs. Georgia Woods, state president, thanking the lodge for smocks and shirts sent to residents of the Old Folks' Home at Ennis.

Twenty-five visits to members who are sick were reported.

BIG SPRING LODGE
Mrs. A. J. McCall, noble

grand, presided at the Tuesday meeting of the Big Spring Rebekah Lodge, No. 284 when a regular business session was conducted at the IOOF Hall. A report of 20 visits to the sick was made.

A love offering was made to a member who is ill by 16 past noble grands and 26 members. Visitors were Mrs. O. A. Warren, Levelland; Mrs. C. B. Hill, Ely, Nev.; and Mrs. Amanda Hughes, Paducah.

Dear Abby

He's Had His Treatment

DEAR ABBY: My husband got a post card from the post office asking him if he wanted to KEEP his post office box. I never knew he HAD a post office box, so I asked him a few questions, such as, why he needed a post office box.

His answers didn't make much sense so I knew he was hiding something. I finally got it out of him that he had met a young woman while he was away on a business trip last year. He said there was nothing serious between them, they just wanted to correspond with each other. He said she was a "nice" girl who was married, but not happily. He promised he would never write to her again. He has really tried awfully hard to make it up to me ever since. Abby Divorce is not in my vocabulary, and I really love the guy. How much longer should I make him sleep on the couch?

DEAR DISILLUSIONED: Invite him in tonight. You have both suffered long enough.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law has the habit of saying, "Our son's this and our son's that." The house is Robert's, the children are Robert's, and everything is Robert's. I heard her telling a neighbor about "Robert's wedding," so I stepped in and said, "Excuse me, Mother dear, but MY father paid for it." Then she laughed and said, "Yes, but Robert has been paying ever since." I am so sick of hearing references to Robert alone, as though he had no wife, that I was just about ready to give him back to her. What can I do about a situation like this?

DEAR READY: Make up your mind that you will not permit anything she says to get you down, or the nicer you develop will be your own.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old man with a better-than-average education. All my friends are married and I have been looking for a wife. I have gone with any number of fine young women who have had all the qualities I desire in a wife, but the moment they show any interest in me I lose all interest in them. Is there something wrong with me? There is an old saying, "The fruit at the top of the tree—beyond one's reach—is always the sweetest." Why is this so, and what does one do about it?

DEAR JOHN: You'd be wise to cultivate a taste for the fruit within your reach. It's as sweet as the fruit at the top of the tree, but apparently you don't really want it—you just enjoy reaching.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALAN: It isn't necessary to blow out the other fellow's candle in order to make your own shine brightly.

Decision On School Site Due In September

AUSTIN—It will be Sept. 14 before the 17 West Texas cities—including Big Spring—hoping to be the home of a new West Texas school for the mentally retarded will learn the decision. C. E. Bentley of Abilene, chairman of the site-selection subcommittee of the Board for State Hospitals and Special Schools, told the board here Monday that his committee will have a report at the next board meeting Sept. 14. He did not say, however, that the committee would have a recommendation as to a single site at that time.

Survey Conducted At VA Hospital

A financial management survey is being conducted at the Veterans Administration Hospital this week by Clovis D. McDonald, area budget and fiscal supervisor from the VA area office in St. Louis. McDonald began the survey Monday and will complete his examinations Wednesday. The study involves examination of fiscal practices and recommendations for possible improvements. The last such survey at the hospital was in September, 1962.

Sheriff Admits Other Names On Vouchers

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—Suspended Wichita County Sheriff Hammett Vance acknowledged in court Tuesday that employees in his office signed the names of others to expense vouchers. Vance spent more than five hours on the witness stand before being excused in trial of a civil suit seeking his removal from office. He said he did not remember who signed the vouchers. In addition to the removal suit, he faces criminal charges of forgery and perjury. Trial of this case is set for next week. Vance already has been re-nominated as Democratic candidate for sheriff and has no opponent in the November general election.

NIGHT SESSION
Court observers expected testimony in the removal suit to be completed in a session tentatively set for tonight and final arguments to be heard by Thursday. The suspended sheriff declined to answer numerous questions, contending they were immaterial and irrelevant.

Vance said he took Marie Cavet, who drew a suspended five-year sentence in the fatal shooting of her husband, on two trips to Florida. He said her mother accompanied them and the county did not pay their expenses in either instance.

Mrs. Cavet, one of nine witnesses testifying Tuesday, confirmed that she and Vance went to Florida. In addition, she told of signing fictitious names to expense vouchers prepared by the sheriff.

AT RANDOM
Also taking the stand was Mrs. Polly Lucas, an office deputy of Vance. She told of picking names at random, including her daughter's, and signing them to at least eight vouchers at the direction of Vance.

Vance explained he had been too busy to get the receipts signed by various other persons. Mrs. Lucas testified. She said she signed two blank forms.

The state claims Vance also made a number of long distance telephone calls at county expense to Mrs. Cavet at her Arlington home.

Joe Chochran, Wichita Falls manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., produced records showing 125 calls charged to the county were made to the Arlington residence of Mrs. Cavet between Nov. 14, 1963, and last April 14.

U.S. Protests Hit Officer

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army says it has lodged a "strong protest" with Soviet authorities over the slapping of an American officer by an East German border guard.

The officer, who was not identified, followed standing instructions and did not retaliate, an Army spokesman said.

The apparently unprovoked incident Sunday outraged American officers in West Berlin.

The Army spokesman said the officer was riding in an Army sedan in East Berlin when an East German border patrol halted him near Checkpoint Charlie.

The patrol told the American and his companions to leave the area. The officer protested that they were not in a restricted area and had not violated any traffic rules. One of the East Germans reached his hand through the car window and struck the officer.

TOKYO (AP)—Firemen battled through the night to control a huge chemical fire in which 19 firemen were killed and 46 other persons were injured.

The fire and explosions destroyed a storage dump crammed with drums of oil, paint thinner, cellulose nitrate and other combustible chemicals. Damage was estimated at about $250,000.

CAIRO (AP)—Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo, due here by Thursday for an African summit conference, has been told he isn't wanted.

Foreign ministers of the African nations at a meeting Tuesday decided to inform Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu that Tshombe's presence would be "undesirable."

The decision at a two-hour secret meeting was not unanimous. Nigeria and several other nations opposed it. Ghana, Algeria and Uganda led the fight against the former secessionist leader of Katanga province who returned from self-exile to head a new Congolese government.

Killed By Train

CANADIAN, Tex. (AP)—A car-train crash killed Pampa Rancher W. R. Campbell, 64, Tuesday. It occurred at a crossing 16 miles southwest of Canadian in the Texas Panhandle.

TELEVISION ON RADIO

Sounds impossible, but it's not. The fact is, some radio stations "borrow" the audio portion of TV news and call it their own. That's hand-me-down broadcasting. The easy way of doing things. Good enough for some other stations, but not for us. We do things the radio-only way. You can hear our radio-only coverage in action at the Republican Convention, July 15-16. You'll hear from an ABC news team dedicated to broadcasting radio-only news. You'll hear all the convention developments as they happen, because speed and flexibility are what radio-only coverage is all about. We believe this is the one right way of covering the news. Try us. We think you will too.

City Tables Request For Water Well Use

The city commission Tuesday night tabled, after a lengthy discussion, a request from the Big Spring Country Club for use of a 12-inch water line which crosses club property from water wells in Section 33 south of the city.

The city previously held a water lease on Section 33, owned by the Texas and Pacific Land Trust, but the lease expired earlier this year. The country club has obtained a letter of transmittal from the trust for the lease.

Exchanges grew heated occasionally during the meeting over discussions of the lease and water use.

A representative of the club, R. H. Weaver, said the club is willing to enter into an agreement with the city which would allow the city to use the water if needed, with the club otherwise using the water on its property.

DIVERT FOR USE

Weaver said the club is asking for an agreement allowing it to install plugs in the water line and divert water for use at the club. He said the club is willing to pay a reasonable amount for use of the water.

"We're not asking something for nothing," Weaver told the commissioners. "If you ever get into a situation where you need the water, an agreement would make it possible for you to obtain it."

Commissioners pointed out to Weaver that if the Colorado River Municipal Water District needed to put into use any water available in its system, it might be on short notice and for extended periods. Weaver said the club is aware that its use of the water might be precluded on short notice by CRMWD needs, leaving the club again without water.

Considerable discussion centered about the positions of the city and the CRMWD concerning the water system. Commissioner John Stanley pointed out that once the water lines and equipment were put into use, the CRMWD has control of them, with the city holding responsibility for maintenance of the lines and pumps until they are put into use.

CAPACITY

Mayor George Zachariah pointed out that the Section 33 wells have a capacity of 1½ million gallons of water daily, and the CRMWD will need the water in the future.

In response to a question by Commissioner Arnold Marshall concerning maintenance of the pumps, Weaver said the country club would do so if an agreement is reached. Zachariah said that under its contract obligations, with CRMWD the city is responsible for maintenance and he questioned if the city could properly turn over that responsibility to the club.

Stanley commented that without the lease, he thought the city should consider pulling out the wells and selling the equipment.

Weaver also told the commission the wells in Section 33 had not been used for some 10 years. Zachariah said the district's reason for not using the wells was to allow the water table to rise to previous levels.

Stanley expressed desire for commissioners, the district officials and representatives of the country club to meet for a discussion of the problem.

IRON IT OUT

"I would like to sit down with all concerned and get it ironed out," Stanley said.

Concerning the lease agreement, City Manager Larry Crow said prior to the expiration of the lease, the city sent a letter to the land trust asking for renewal. However, he said that as CRMWD had assumed responsibility for payments for water leases, the district was to negotiate with the company for the renewal. At the time, Crow said, the company indicated a desire to lease to the club.

Appearing with Weaver representing the country club was Harold Hall, president of the club.

In answer to questions by commissioners, Weaver said the lease contract had not yet been executed with the country club but that he had a letter of transmittal from the company for the lease. Weaver also said the club is asking for a change in the lease agreement for a 15-year-term rather than the previous 10-year-term the city lease held.

Commissioner Paul Kasch moved that the city deny the request, but commissioners accepted a proposal from Zachariah that the request be tabled pending further study, with additional discussion at the next regular meeting of the commission.

Dallas Officials Give Testimony

DALLAS (AP) — Capt. Will Fritz, head of the Dallas police homicide and robbery bureau, and City Manager Elgin Cruikshank made sworn statements before a Warren Commission investigator Tuesday.

Leon Hubert, a lawyer for the Washington investigating body, also interviewed Aubrey Lee Lewis, an official of the Western Union Telegraph Co., city policeman Clyde Goodson, city detective Roy C. Standifer and Robert Fenley, a Dallas Times Herald newsmen.

Both Jack Ruby, convicted of shooting Lee Harvey Oswald, and Oswald, accused killer of President Kennedy, were interviewed in Fritz' office.

Hubert also questioned former Mayor Earle Cabell and Dallas Police Chief Jesse Curry before returning to Washington.
