GOP AND LBJ

New Clash Over Asia At Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a political battleground ranging from Capitol Hill to the Pentagon the Johnson administration clashed anew with Republicans over its Southeast Asian and defense policies.

The fresh outbreak of sharp skirmishing reinforced belief the presidential campaign, still not officially under way, may turn into a long, hot autumn.

The Defense Department and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield led the administration counterattack Thursday. And GOP congressional leaders accused the government of pursuing a "no win" policy in South Viet Nam in an effort to postpone tough decisions until after the election.

The Pentagon issued a long statement challenging in detail data and statements of GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater on future U.S. nuclear capability.

PRESENT POLICIES

On Wednesday, Goldwater repeated and elaborated on his previous charge that if present defense policies continue American "deliverable nuclear capacity may be cut by 90 per cent" in the 1970s.

"It is false and, if the senator would trouble to inform himself, he would learn that it is false," the Pentagon retorted in its statement, which it said was issued after consultation with the Atomic Energy Commission.

Goldwater has argued that the administration is phasing out manned bombers in favor of missiles, which Goldwater said carry much lighter nuclear loads than bombers.

The Pentagon denied as "wholly unjustified" that manned bombers are to be phased out.

GOP leaders in the Senate and House, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen and Rep. Charles A. Halleck, followed up the Goldwater blasts at the administration with one of their own.

NO WORD

Their statement, read at a news conference, contended "there has been no satisfactory

MEMORIALS AID BIBLE FUND

Memorial gifts helped boost the Bible Fund today, but the sum is growing slowly. Gifts will have to come in promptly if this course is to be continued in the High School during the coming year.

The Pastors Association sponsors this program, helps finance it, but needs help from contributors, since there is no state aid for such a course. It does however, carry scholastic credit, and young people are made familiar with the Bible in the realm of history and literature.

Make your checks to Bible Fund and send them to The Herald for acknowledgment. Thanks to these people:

Child Killed By Lightning

GAIL — A lightning bolt killed a 14-year-old El Paso girl and injured a 17-year-old Borden County boy at 4:45 p.m. Thursday. The accident occurred on the Pearce Ranch, one mile west of Gail.

Dead is Karen Pearce, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmo Pearce of El Paso. She was instantly killed as was the horse on which she was riding.

In a Lamesa hospital, but believed in satisfactory condition, is Kenney Bennett, 17, cousin of the dead girl and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Bennett, who live on the ranch.

Kenney and Karen were riding side by side at the time.

A dust storm had blown up and was followed by a brief thundershower. The lightning bolt struck during the storm. It was said that not enough rain was falling at the time to cause the youngsters to discontinue their ride. They were about three quarters of a mile from the ranch house.

C. C. Nunnally, Borden County judge, was called to the scene and ruled death due to accident. The body was removed to the Brannon-Phillips Funeral Home in Lamesa where services are pending. The child's parents arrived in Lamesa last night from El Paso.

She is survived by her parents and one sister, Nancy.

Gulf To Expand

PORT ARTHUR (AP)—A major expansion program was announced today by Gulf Oil Corp. for its Port Arthur refinery.

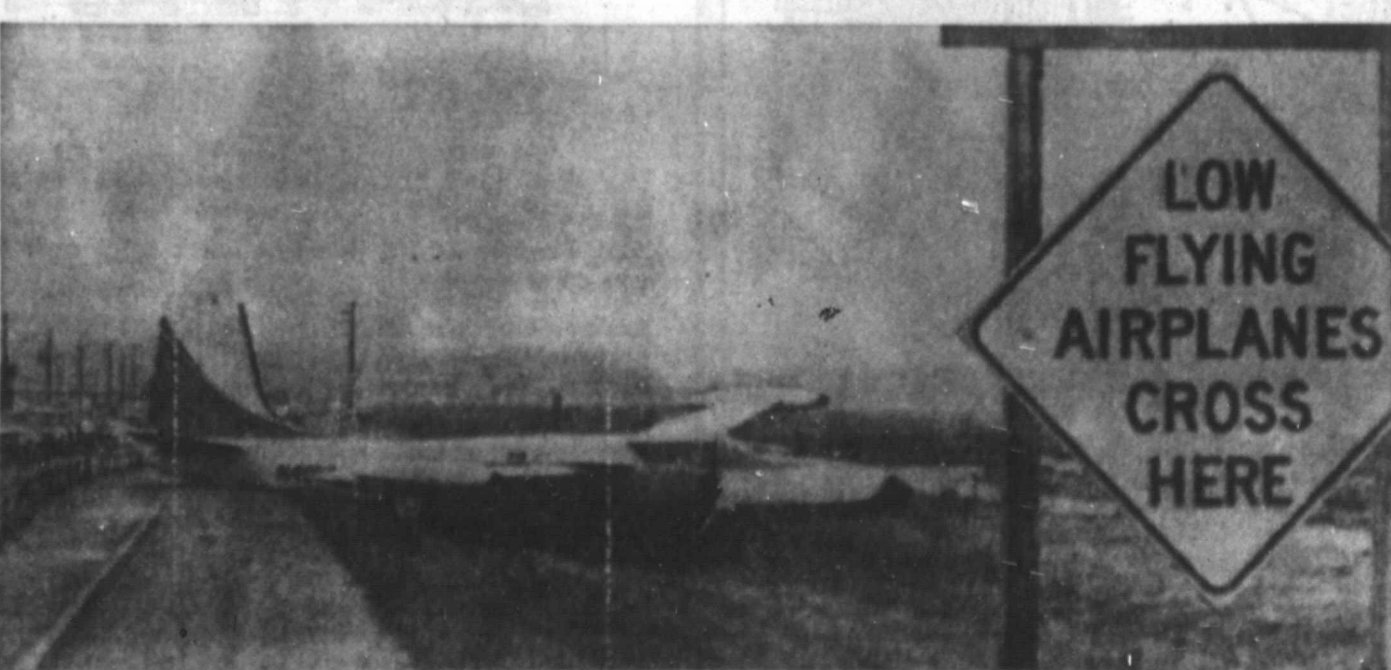

Planned are an aromatic distillate hydrogenation unit, a hydrogen producing unit and four continuous treaters. Work is to start Oct. 1.

Plane Wreckage Finally Located

WINTER PARK, Colo. (AP)—Two deer hunters Thursday came across four bodies and the wreckage of a light plane that disappeared Jan. 24 on a flight from Denver to Las Vegas.

The plane, carrying Denver area men, crashed against the west side of Corona Pass less than 50 miles northwest of Denver.

Aboard were Maynard Kurtz and George Garner, both 35 and residents of Thornton, Colo.; Edward Stachelek, 29, of Denver; and Frank Svatos, 45, of Westminster, Colo.

Five persons escaped injury when this twin-engine plane skidded off airport runway while making an instrument landing in the rain at Madison, Wis. There was no auto traffic on Highway 51 as the plane crossed. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Back Redistricting Rule, Demo Platformers Urged

Plank-Hewers Get All Kinds Of Problems

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — If you want to learn how difficult we taxpayers are to please, drop in on a meeting of a political platform committee.

Problems, problems, everybody has problems.

The Democrats moved in from Washington Thursday — this may be the only itinerant platform committee in history — to continue hewing, planing and sanding the party planks. And by breaking up into three panels, they managed to hear about such questions as:

Why must the tax on women's handbags be continued? Why does the government call handbags a luxury when every woman knows they're a necessity? What about the Supreme Court and prayers in public schools?

Johnson Photos Dominate Convention Scene

DECREASING

And did you know the number of post offices in this country is decreasing alarmingly?

The national convention opens Monday.

Sometime between now and early next week the Democrats must come up with a platform that they hope will take into account everyone's worries, will appeal to all and will offend nobody.

To see how difficult this is, let's drop in on Panel 1. It's galloping through foreign policy, immigration, national defense and the Constitution, which is a fairly large gallop.

Charles W. Winegarner, representing the Citizens Congressional Committee of Los Angeles, has the podium. He says his committee is made up of "numerous groups concerned with the fact that a recent Supreme Court decision has, for all practical purposes, outlawed the right of our children to experience devotions in public schools."

NULLIFY DECISION

Winegarner wants a constitutional amendment that would, in effect, nullify the court's decision.

But Franklin C. Salisbury also is here, representing the Protestants and other Americans United for Separation of Church and State, usually called simply by the initial POAU.

He says of those who would amend the Constitution on this point: "Their sincerity is matched by their lack of memory, their ignorance of history, and their unwillingness to think the problem through."

Now on to Panel 2, which worries over economy, business, labor, agriculture and natural resources. And, of course, women's handbags.

This tax was put on during the war, and several witnesses said it's time it was dropped. Here there was no opposition, at least publicly.

Panel 3 looks after health, education, welfare, urban affairs and government operations.

Unionists Hike Dues, Rip Goldwater, Then Go Home

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — The 1964 Texas State AFL-CIO convention was labeled one of the most productive in many years Thursday after delegates raised their union dues and agreed the election of Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater would be a disaster.

State President Hank Brown put the successful label on the eighth annual convention as it closed its four-day stand.

"We've done what we came to Brownville to do, and that was to provide the officers with an expanded program," Brown said in an interview.

Brown interpreted the 73.1 per cent favorable roll call vote on the dues increase measure as a vote of confidence for him and other state officers.

Through their convention delegates, 93,230 union members were recorded for the dues hike and 34,231 against it.

TWO CENTS

The increase is from 18 to 20 cents per member each month. The measure was a negotiated compromise between a 7-cent increase to 25 cents, and the return to the 18-cent levy of 1962 which was sought mainly by steel and auto workers.

R. C. Nichols, a delegate from the United Steelworkers local in Houston said the dues hike might force his union out of the AFL-CIO.

"We're not going to pull out, but when we can't afford to pay, you people are going to kick us out, and with this vote, that's probably what you're going to, Nichols told the convention.

The dues change also removed a technicality in the State AFL-CIO constitution which specified exactly how the per capita dues would be spent, including how much for the Committee on Political Education (COPE). The revision allows the 24-member executive board or the convention to make the division by written resolution.

Some delegates voiced fears that the constitutional allocation

Japs Frowning On Underwearers

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese authorities are trying to discourage Tokyo males from wandering about publicly in their underwear for fear of the effect it might have on the tourist trade.

The problem has arisen because of a heat wave and the excellent air conditioning at the recently refurbished Tokyo International Airport.

Reports say hundreds of men have been flocking to the airport terminal clad only in underpants, undershirts and sandals. There they relax in the cool lounges, oblivious to the stares of foreigners.

method might violate the Hatch Act which forbids federal employees from contributing to political campaigns.

RESOLUTIONS

Harry Burk, president of the Harris County AFL-CIO, presented the resolution opposing Goldwater's election.

"Let us here say that the Texas labor movement believes that the election of Barry Goldwater would be a disaster for the United States," he said.

The convention body passed a highly publicized resolution seeking immediate union organization efforts in the lower Rio Grande Valley. The resolution called the Valley "the worst pocket of poverty in Texas."

Local civic groups say the poverty claims are exaggerated, and they have asked equal time to reply to a national television network show last Sunday which had a 10-minute segment on low income families in the area.

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — The Texas AFL-CIO convention meeting in Brownsville has labeled the Lower Rio Grande Valley the "worst pocket of poverty in Texas" and passed a resolution seeking immediate efforts to organize valley laborers.

The "Sunday" show on the NBC television network last Sunday carried a 10-minute segment on the living conditions of low income families in the valley. Local civic groups are seeking equal time to present the "true valley."

The civic groups say conditions are not as bad as the television show and union delegates claim.

TRAGIC VALLEY

"It is not true that Latin Americans are happy with the starvation wages they now receive as the chambers of commerce in this 'tragic valley' would have you believe," J. E. Roy Brown, a representative of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union of Corpus Christi, told the convention today.

"It is not true that these Americans cannot be run off with a stick. It is not true that these workers are content to live in shacks on the canal bank," Brown said.

"Only organized labor can sound the clarion call that will help these people to throw off the shackles of the wealthy petron system, to demand their rights to freedom from poverty, their right to political freedom and their right to social justice."

State AFL-CIO President Hank Brown said the convention was held here this year to show members conditions in the valley.

Strong Campaign Plank Stressed

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The Supreme Court decision that states must allot all their legislative seats by population should be strongly backed by the Democratic National Convention, the mayor of St. Louis told platform writers today.

The recommendation by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker brought into the open at convention preliminaries a party and section-splitting issue in which Congress is embroiled. But many party delegates hoped to keep it out of the presidential campaign.

Tucker led a delegation of mayors testifying on urban problems. He told the platform committee he is personally "greatly elated" at the high court's ruling that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned by population, so that voters in one area do not enjoy a disproportionate advantage over those in another.

He said he would like to see the platform contain "a strong statement clearly backing the Supreme Court decision."

JURISDICTION

But the House passed Wednesday, 218-175, a bill that would strip federal courts of jurisdiction in reapportionment cases. This measure now is pending in the Senate, which is also snarled over another proposal to delay court-ordered reapportionment. Proposed constitutional amendments to overturn the decision have been introduced in both chambers of Congress.

The Republican National Convention last month adopted a platform plank calling for a constitutional amendment to allow states with two-house legislatures to apportion one house on a basis other than population.

Tucker and his fellow mayors offered a "community development plank" calling for creation of a federal department of community development and strong federal support of housing, transportation, water resource and anti-pollution programs.

DEVELOPMENT

Mayor James H. J. Tate of Philadelphia, in addition to backing the proposed community development plank, urged the platform committee to come out strongly for enforcement of the new civil rights law.

The committee, trying to avoid a party-rending fight over a civil rights plank, wrestled with a problem of wording:

How far could a Democratic national platform go in trusting state and local officials to carry out the federal civil rights law?

The problem of wording was before the platform committee which moved its operations Thursday to Atlantic City, where the Democratic National Convention opens Monday.

Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia roused the committee to applauding enthusiasm Thursday with a plea for a civil rights plank pledging the party to support "the law of the land."

LOCAL PEOPLE

But Sanders, who personally opposed the public accommodations section of the law, also said the spirit of the law should be carried out "through local people in their own local communities, and not through fear of federal force or federal intimidation."

Later, Sanders told newsmen his idea of the proper civil rights plank is "a moderate expression that we are going to implement the law which is on the books with reason and responsibility and that we are not going to use it as a club."

Platform committee members from outside the South praised the tone of Sanders' speech as a contribution to the creation of an atmosphere in which Democrats might be able to fashion a mutually agreeable civil rights plank.

But there were doubts that the formula Sanders suggested could survive debate in the committee.

SHAKE HIS HAND

The only Negro member of the committee, Rep. William L. Dawson of Illinois, sought out Sanders after his speech to shake his hand.

"With this kind of leadership in the South, there can be a new day and a new deal," Dawson told a reporter.

Dawson, a native of Georgia, would not, however, flatly predict agreement on a civil rights plank.

Another committee member, Rep. Henry S. Reuss of Wisconsin, said he is certain members of the party's liberal wing would want more recognition of the federal role in civil rights enforcement than Sanders indicated.

Sanders conferred with Southern members of the committee who have been trying to work out compromise language, and told newsmen he expects to discuss the matter further with President Johnson at a White House meeting of Southern governors this weekend. However, governors of Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama have indicated they will not attend the meeting.

Rallies Demand Khanh Ouster

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Students in Saigon and other Vietnamese cities staged noisy anti-government rallies today and demanded that President Nguyen Khanh step aside in favor of a civilian government.

The rallies came on the heels of the death of four American military advisers and heavy Vietnamese losses in a Communist ambush south of Saigon.

In Saigon today, Buddhist student leader Ton That Tue told 300 yelling students that Khanh's "dictatorship is even worse than the Ngo Dinh Diem dictatorship, and we must fight harder than ever."

TO OFFICE

The group marched to Khanh's office building shouting anti-government slogans and waving banners reading "Dictatorship digs a grave for itself."

Khanh was at the seaside resort of Cape St. Jacques, 40 miles southeast of Saigon, putting together a new Cabinet.

Informed sources said a delegation of students went to see him there also.

Rallies against Khanh's regime were also staged in Hue, Tuy Hoa, Can Tho and other towns. The demonstrations—illegal under Viet Nam's state-of-emergency decree—were not stopped, but police and troops kept watch.

The student demands included freedom of the press, abrogation of the national charter promulgated by Khanh last Sunday, an end of alleged repression of Buddhists, and replacement of the military government by civilians.

Student leaders said they would give Khanh until next Tuesday to give them satisfactory replies, or they would "enlarge the struggle."

Student boycotts of high schools and universities appeared to be widespread today, and examinations were being out.

Hurricane Near Indies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane warning flags flew over Barbados and the Windward Islands today as tropical storm Cleo's approaching winds went up to 70 miles an hour.

The Weather Bureau at San Juan, Puerto Rico, predicted that Cleo would develop into the year's first hurricane tonight, with winds building up to 75 miles an hour.

Winds are expected to reach hurricane force Saturday morning over the Windward Islands, at the eastern edge of the Caribbean Sea.

The storm, discovered Thursday by Navy reconnaissance aircraft, blossomed quickly from a tropical depression into a tropical storm as it built energy from warm tropical waters.

An advisory at 11 a.m. placed the storm center about 460 miles east of Barbados just beyond the Windwards. This is 970 miles southeast of San Juan and 2,000 miles east-southeast of Miami.

Teamster Council To Back Hoffa

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Teamsters Union executive council says it will stick by President James R. Hoffa while he appeals two convictions on federal charges.

A statement issued by the council Thursday after a closed session said Hoffa was innocent until he has exhausted his legal rights and that the union would do nothing to deprive him of these rights.

The statement did not say what would happen if the convictions are upheld.

Hoffa said the statement was "very gratifying to me. It is positive, living proof of no dissection in this union."

TOP AIDE
 Harold Gibbons, who resigned last December as a top personal aide to Hoffa but remained as a union vice president, read the statement to newsmen. He said he saw no significance in the omission of any declaration of confidence.

The meeting was the first for the council since Hoffa was convicted of attempted jury tampering in Chattanooga, Tenn., and of conspiracy to defraud the Teamsters pension fund in Chicago. He has been sentenced to a total of 13 years.

Hoffa said the statement had nothing to do with the controversy about who is going to pay his legal expenses. He said he expected that issue to be settled in court. More than 500 rank-and-file members have filed suit seeking recovery of union money spent for Hoffa's defense.

The executive council statement said, "We recognize that the welfare of this union must of necessity take precedence over the personal interests of any single individual in it."

OBLIGATIONS
 "However, there are larger obligations upon us, and one of these is to extend to each individual his fullest constitutional rights as a citizen and a member."

"We therefore subscribe to the firm belief that general president James R. Hoffa should be afforded his full rights to appeal (his convictions) in the lower courts, and we insist that he not be deemed guilty until he has exhausted these appeal rights, which are granted to all citizens."

"Accordingly, we wish to take this means to assure our membership and the general public that no action will be taken to deprive him of such rights in any way."

Union Serves Notice Of Auto Strike Next Week

DETROIT (AP) — Notice has been served on the nation's auto industry that a strike will be scheduled next week against General Motors, Ford or Chrysler if negotiations for a new labor contract remain stalemated.

United Auto Workers Union officials decided Thursday in Chicago to defer until next Wednesday at a special 8 p.m. meeting in Detroit the question of whether to authorize a strike at one of the automotive industry's Big Three.

"If the companies persist in their present offers, there will be a strike," said UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

Reuther was referring to virtually-identical economic package proposals made last Monday by the auto companies.

The offer provided for higher wages, earlier retirement and larger pensions for more than half a million UAW members at automotive plants around the nation. They were promptly branded "miserably inadequate" by union leaders.

Spokesmen for the three auto companies had no comment on the union's action in postponing its selection of a strike target until next week.

When the economic proposal was made, Malcolm Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations, termed it the "most generous we've ever made to the UAW."

Reuther said next Wednesday's meeting in Detroit would review the status of negotiations at that time and receive reports on strike votes now being taken.

Then, if necessary, the board will select a strike target. In 1961, the target was GM. In 1955 and 1958, it was Ford.

"We do not want a strike, and we shall continue to make every good faith effort at the bargaining table to avoid a strike," said the union's international executive board.

Present UAW contracts with GM, Ford and Chrysler expire Aug. 31.

In their package proposals, the Big Three offered pay increases ranging from 18 to 36 cents an hour over a three-year period and a boost in pension payments from $2.80 a month for each year of service to $3.25.

They also proposed making 60 days the normal retirement age rather than 65.

Other provisions included adding Good Friday to the present six full-day and two half-day holidays, plus four weeks vacation pay instead of three weeks for employees with 25 years of service.

RFK Draws Timetable For Nomination Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has a timetable all set in his fight for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate from New York, informed sources said today.

The sources said it awaits only an expected endorsement of Kennedy by Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, the state's top Democrat.

Kennedy's timetable, the sources said, would delay his resignation as attorney general until Sept. 1, date of the New York Democratic convention which will nominate the candidate to oppose Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating.

The attorney general would first resign as a Massachusetts delegate to the Democratic National Convention, which opens Monday in Atlantic City, N.J. He would be replaced by the wife of his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Jury Rules For Defendant

A county court jury Thursday afternoon refused to rule that Vincent Bonacollo should be found guilty of carrying arms as police and county attorney alleged.

The jurors deliberated only a few minutes and returned a verdict finding the defendant not guilty. He had been accused of having had a night stick in his possession when arrested.

His was the second jury trial to be held in the county court this week. The first resulted in a verdict of guilty for a defendant charged with aggravated assault.

One plea of guilty was heard Thursday afternoon. A. M. Hernandez, charged with driving while intoxicated, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and sentenced to serve three days in the county jail.

Italian Red Leader Dies In Russia

ROME (AP)—Italian Communist boss Palmiro Togliatti, 71, died today in Russia, party headquarters here announced.

Togliatti—veteran revolutionist, underground agent, secret propagandist and hard-fisted politician—suffered a stroke Aug. 13 while on a vacation in Yalta. Pulmonary complications set in five days later.

He was stricken while visiting a camp of Young Pioneers—Soviet Boy Scouts. He was so gravely ill he could not be moved from the camp infirmary until his death. Doctors performed exploratory brain surgery Thursday to no avail.

The passing of Togliatti is expected to open a struggle for leadership of his party, largest Communist party in the Western world.

Togliatti had headed Italy's Communist party for 38 years. His Roman Catholic parents named him Palmiro for Palm Sunday, the day he was born—on Palm Sunday, March 26, 1893.

Togliatti went into communism in 1921, the year the Italian party was formed. Mussolini outlawed the party. Jailed by the Fascists, Togliatti later fled to Moscow.

He spent most of 18 years in exile in that Soviet capital. There he was fully indoctrinated in Stalin's iron-fisted version of communism. But in the decades that followed he rolled with the punches, surviving the ups and downs of Stalinism, de-Stalinization and Khrushchevism.

He broadcast Italian-language propaganda from Moscow in World War II until Mussolini's fall, then headed home in a shabby blue Soviet suit and a striped sweater.

Togliatti swung his party into a loose national front government with Christian Democrats and Socialists and for a time served as a Cabinet minister and a deputy premier. But he pulled the Communists out after becoming convinced that they could never get leadership of the front.

'Sorry, Wrong Number' Is Her Call

Three hundred calls later, Mrs. Josephine Schlosser of Brooklyn, N.Y., holds her head in her hands as she sits beside her phone that has been kept buzzing by satellite buffs. She has the same phone number as the "Dial-a-Satellite" service at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C. If you dial this number in New York without first dialing the Washington area code the unhappy Mrs. Schlosser will answer as she has been since calls started last Tuesday night. (AP WIRE-VIDEO)

Pontoon Boats Taking Over Texas Waterways

DALLAS (AP)—Strange boats are appearing on Texas waters, making everybody happy except the fish.

They are pontoon boats, the station wagons of the waterways.

A customer made the mistake of calling the newer type boats "barges." The marine dealer took offense, like the sailor whose ship is called a boat.

"Barges," corrected the dealer, "are the rafts made of old drums. They are not easily transported. People leave them on the lakes and they disintegrate. They jam the flood gates when the rains come."

Pontoon boats come in both metal and fiberglass. They trail, launch and load with little trouble.

HEAVIEST

The metal boat is the heaviest, generally. Air is made to circulate in the pontoons of one model, the floats sealing automatically if punctured. Prices range from $398 f.o.b. Minnesota, although one do-it-yourself kit sells for $189 f.o.b.

The fiberglass pontoon claims to be more versatile than mere fishing barges. Their prices range from $845 f.o.b. Indiana. The ultimate in both metal and fiberglass is over $5,000, actually a houseboat.

Two Texas factories are believed to have production underway.

Unlike catamarans, that perform best with two motors, pontoons operate nicely with one motor due to the spacing of the floats.

Popularity of the craft is due to their rideability, and to the increase in family fishing.

"All my family fish," says Otis Lenhart of Dallas, "and a barge gives us room to move around, eat, sleep and fish."

"Newcomers to boating get scared in rough water when a conventional boat rocks," says boat merchant Phil Dill. "Pontoon boats just bob up and down, making people feel safer."

"We compare boats with cars," Dill continued. "The pontoon boat is the equivalent of the station wagon."

One boat factory executive said the growing popularity of pontoon boats had not hurt their sales. "I wish we had one in our line," he said. "If I was able to own two boats, I would have a pontoon to take the family fishing, and a runabout."

A boat buff visiting from Utah belittled the more awkward craft. "I can't imagine one pulling a skier," he said.

"But they do," defended the salesman who doesn't even stock them. "They are not as maneuverable as a runabout, but neither are cruisers."

One marina operator on Lake Tawakoni rents all his barges on weekends, $7.50 for a minimum of five hours.

Recently a turbulent wind hit Lake Tawakoni, taking night fishermen in "the woods" several miles from shore by surprise. The diehards camped after reaching shore, waiting for diminishing winds. Word spread that a pontoon boat was overdue.

"He's holed up somewhere," was the feeling, "anyhow who can go out in that sea?"

Soon running lights showed a boat going out to "sea." It was a pontoon, and in an hour it returned leading the overdue craft.

Juveniles Admit Thefts

Three juveniles, ages 11, 13 and 14, were arrested shortly after noon Thursday when police were called to the Safeway store in College Park Shopping Center to investigate a theft. Items valued at more than $50 were recovered after the boys were questioned.

Included in the recovery were three baseball gloves, two baseballs, four new dog collars, three pairs of socks, one bicycle speedometer, two billfolds, one wrist watch, one "zip" pistol, two baseball caps, two knives, and several packages of gum. Other items may be recovered.

A cash register, valued at $75, and $89.19 in cash, was reported stolen from the "S" Truck Stop on Lamesa Drive around 11 p.m. Thursday. Bill Hayes, manager, told police he was outside the station, talking to a customer for about 10 minutes and, when he went back inside the cash register and money were gone.

Local Delegates Present Case For Staying In 19th

A Howard County delegation was in Lubbock Thursday to appear before a special legislative committee studying plans for re-mapping the state's congressional districts.

Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe heads a group which, with the Legislative Council, is conducting hearings over the state in an effort to arrive at a new district pattern which will answer the Supreme Court's latest edict on equal population, and still be palatable to Texas counties.

The Lubbock hearing was concerned largely with the 18th (Panhandle), 19th (South Plains), 17th (Abilene), 13th (Wichita Falls), 16th (Midland-Odessa-El Paso), and the 21st (San Angelo and south).

While the 19th district, represented by Congressman George Mahon, is very nearly normal in required population, districts around it are not, so there has arisen the shifting of some counties.

But different counties were affected. Midland-Odessa would change Gaines, Andrews, Dawson and Martin, presently in the 19th; while the Abilene proposal would remove Bailey, Lamb, Mitchell and Dickens from the 19th.

Big Spring submitted no definite boundary suggestions, but stressed that the southern tier of counties in the 19th—Martin, Howard and Mitchell—belong in that district because of historic connections, geographical compactness and common interests.

Moffett's committee will come up with recommendations at the next session of the Legislature. The veteran chairman stressed in opening remarks that the redistricting is mandatory under Supreme Court decision, that it will be impossible to please all areas of the state under the population requirement, and that "something will have to give somewhere." He said his committee is making a serious study of the problem and is welcoming and soliciting all possible suggestions.

A Devotional For The Day

I am reminded of your sincere faith, a faith that dwelt first in your grandmother, Lois, and your mother Eunice and now, I am sure, dwells in you. (II Timothy 1:5. RSV.)
PRAYER: We glorify Thee, our heavenly Father, for the Christian family. We glorify Thee for the faithful believers in Christ who witness to the gospel in homes, churches and communities and help to change homes to places of worship and prayer. We pray in the name of Jesus. Amen.

Decision Coming On New Lake

The Colorado River Municipal Water District's program for an important new source of water supply moves along on schedule, with announcement that the Texas Water Commission has set a hearing.

This will be in Austin on October 19, to determine if a permit will be granted by the state for a reservoir on the Colorado River near Robert Lee in Coke County.

The District already has a permit for a retention structure upriver, in Mitchell County, but later engineers recommended the Coke County site, for better and more water.

While some opposition may appear at the hearing, the CRMWD certainly will go before the Commission armed with all available support for its application. This project has been "in the mill" for several years, is not lacking in study, and the District thinks it is the best solution for meeting water needs for a broad expanse of West Texas for the next 20 years and more.

Mitchell County interests, understandably, have wanted the lake—it will be some two and a half times as large as Lake J. B. Thomas—in their county. The Upper Colorado River Authority has some interests in the water involved, and wants to work out an agreement with CRMWD.

It will be the Water Commission's decision to make, but none can say who looks with any degree of interest at the growth and continuing water needs of West Texas, that this will be a most vital decision affecting the welfare of West Texas.

Residence Requirements For Congress

It is remarkable that after 175 years of operation under the federal Constitution there is still a basic wide-open legal question as to the residence qualification of members of Congress.

The question has been raised by Pierre Salinger's temporary appointment and candidacy to be senator from California and the probability of Robert Kennedy's seeking a New York seat in the U.S. Senate. Stripped of technicalities peculiar to each case, the basic issue in both is this: Can a state prescribe residence requirements for congressional candidates more stringent than the qualifications for the representatives and senators specified in the federal Constitution?

The Constitution says that representatives must be seven years a citizen of the United States, senators nine years, and that both must "when elected" be "an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen."

Who Does He Favor?

WASHINGTON—Politics is sometimes defined as the art of carrying water on both shoulders. Sen. Kenneth B. Keating of New York has just given an example of how it is possible for him to announce his candidacy for re-election as a Republican and still remain silent on whom he favors for President of the United States—if anybody.

Mr. Keating was frank and sincere in stating that, on issues previously before the Senate, his views and those of Senator Goldwater have differed considerably and that the people of New York State are well aware of these differences. He added:

"I SERIOUSLY DOUBT that any voter in New York would be impressed by any lip service I might give me in the name of party unity."

Certainly the voters do not expect Sen. Keating to surrender his convictions on any issue, but they do have a right to know whether he intends to cast his ballot for the Republican presidential nominee. If Mr. Keating really intends to vote for Sen. Goldwater, after all, many voters will ask what his objection is to saying so publicly.

In the statement issued by Mr. Keating Tuesday announcing his candidacy, he said that he believes in the two-party system and that he has "never thought of bolting the Republican party." From this it might be inferred that Mr. Keating wants to receive all the benefits to be derived from being named as the Republican party's nominee for the U. S. Senate from New York State without being burdened with any of the alleged disadvantages associated with the candidacy of the man at the top of the ticket.

THE DILEMMA is not new. Many a member of Congress has faced it before. The Southern Democrats have often voted against the wishes of a Democratic president, and so have Republicans taken issue with a president from their own party.

Only a few days ago, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who originally came to the Senate and was re-elected for one term as a Republican but has been elected and served for the last two terms as a Democrat, was one of the two senators, both Democrats, who voted against the resolution which President Johnson sponsored and which authorized armed action in Southeast Asia in retaliation against attacks on our naval vessels. Many Southern Democrats, moreover, didn't vote for the "civil rights" law recently enacted.

BUT THE RESPECTIVE names and insignia of the Republican and the Democratic party appear officially on the ballot in an election. The candidates listed thereunder must have some association with the party, or they are not legally permitted to run in that column. The question is whether the Republican State Convention in New York, in designating Mr. Keating as the Republican nominee for the United States Senate, can consistently do so if he declines to say whether he will vote for the man who was nominated by a majority of the delegates to the Republican National Convention held last month in San Francisco.

The concrete issue has been brought to a head by Rep. Paul A. Fino, a member of the House for the last 12 years and Republican committee chairman of the Bronx. He has just announced that he will seek the nomination for the Senate at the New York State Republican convention later this month, and says that Mr. Keating's statement of Tuesday is "tantamount to bolting the Republican party."

As the matter stands today, however, Mr. Keating has left his own position up in the air. He may cast his ballot for the Republican presidential nominee or refrain from voting for either candidate. If Mr. Keating becomes his party's nominee and his name is to appear in the Republican column on the ballot, lots of voters will insist on knowing beforehand whom he favors for the presidency in the November election. Otherwise, many Republicans may also refrain from voting for either Mr. Keating or Bobby Kennedy, if the latter is the Democratic candidate in New York State.

Uncertainties Whet Political Appetites

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's not so much what's happened as what hasn't happened that's kept political interest bubbling between the Republicans' convention in July and next week's Democratic convention in Atlantic City.

What hasn't happened has been answers to questions like these which have taken up a lot of newspaper space:

WILL ATTY. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy run for the Senate from New York where he is not a resident? Who's President Johnson's choice for his vice presidential running-mate? Will

Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater ever debate? These uncertainties shouldn't last long since Johnson will have to give an answer on debating, Kennedy will have to announce his decision soon and Johnson's running-mate will be named before the convention ends.

But while Johnson and Goldwater have butted heads in these past five weeks neither man has quickened pulses with the brilliance of his political utterances. In this campaign there may be some brilliant political maneuvering but hardly brilliant statements since neither Johnson nor Goldwater is polished in phrase or delivery.

THERE'S A GOOD explanation for the small excitement so far. Both men have had to use these weeks preparing for the campaign which starts rolling in September.

Beside their organizational problems, Goldwater had to spend time trying to restore unity to the Republican party while Johnson had a lot to keep busy with in Congress. His record there will be a big campaign item.

Nevertheless, it's the way the two men have butted heads which foreshadows if not a sparking campaign, at least a rough-house one.

Goldwater and his team have left little doubt they will go after Johnson with bare fists although up to now they have done it in a scattered and limited rather than in a persistent and concentrated way.

THEIR SHARPEST attacks have actually been reactions to something Johnson did, like his handling of the North Vietnamese attacks on U.S. naval vessels and the release of information on his personal fortune.

At this moment the great unknown of the campaign is how far Johnson will go in slugging it out personally with Goldwater. He may try to stay aloof while letting those around him go after Goldwater with their long knives.

It looks like a good bet, judging from what's happened already, that Johnson will do his share of personally trying to scalp the Arizona.

One good example: His reaction when Goldwater seemed to imply Johnson had given his naval commanders a blank check to use nuclear weapons against North Vietnam if they thought that appropriate.

JOHNSON CALLED this "unjustified and irresponsible." Still, this was a reaction to an attack on him by Goldwater who so far has been far from aggressive in commenting on his rival.

The fact that Johnson could be so irritated by Goldwater that he'd reply with a personal attack — the "irresponsible charge" — is a good indication it can happen again and probably will.

Christian Chapter Uncovered

NEW YORK (AP) — Not long ago, in the cold cathedral in Cuernavaca, Mexico, a little-known chapter in Christian history suddenly came to light.

Workmen were scraping paint from the cathedral walls, preparatory to renovation. As the successive layers were removed, a set of murals began to emerge. Further cleaning showed the murals cover huge expanses of wall space on both sides of the cathedral. They lay hidden for perhaps 300 years.

THEY DEPICT a religious tragedy, not in Mexico, but on the other side of the world—in Japan. It is a scene of execution, of Japanese and Europeans dying by crucifixion or beheading. The contours of the ground in one mural strongly suggest that the site was a hill that came to be known as "Martyr's Mount," near Nagasaki.

This is the story: Toward the end of the 16th century, the rulers of Japan, being anxious for trade with the West, granted concessions to the Spaniards and Portuguese. At that time, they permitted the Europeans to build churches and convert the Japanese.

The friars were notably successful. In a very few years, they converted thousands of Japanese. Some estimates put the figure at 300,000.

AT THIS POINT, the shoguns—rulers—began to be uneasy—not on religious but political grounds. They apparently came to suspect that the Japanese Christians were a potential "fifth column" in the event of trouble with Spain.

Thereupon, edicts were issued, ordering the friars to leave Japan on pain of death, and designed to extirpate the foreign faith, root and branch, from Japanese soil.

The edicts met almost total defiance. The friars continued to preach openly, and the people continued to worship in the churches.

Then the terror began. At first, it took the form of executions. A more terrible sequence followed — torture. The effort now was to force the Christians to recant. Very few did so. Even Japanese children, when offered pardon, replied that they preferred to die with their parents.

An eyewitness, a Frenchman who was not involved, said "the poor Christians endured the torments with a constancy to a miracle."

A JAPANESE account says 200,000 persons were "punished." Christianity, to all appearances, vanished from Japan. But there is a sequel, a testimonial to the human spirit.

In the 19th century, when Westerners returned to Japan, they found that Christianity had not died out there. A few Japanese had been practicing it in secret for more than two centuries.

To Your Good Health

Some Foods Irritate Spastic Colon

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. No harm and, indeed, helps keep the bowel active and adequately busy eliminating wastes.

When you have colitis, the bowel is too "nervous" and sensitive, and needs to be kept calm instead of stirred up. So you avoid such foods with a residue of roughage.

One is the group which contains a lot of roughage, or fibers or particles which are not reduced to a soft state by the time they reach the colon. The other consists of foods which have laxative properties — that is, they act on the colon so as to stimulate it into action.

The roughage or high residue foods include nuts, corn, bran, cabbage, broccoli, parsnips, turnips, lettuce, celery, radishes, raw pineapple and cucumbers.

You will note that these in general have vegetable fibers, or cellulose, which will not digest easily.

For most of us, a certain amount of this roughage does no harm and, indeed, helps keep the bowel active and adequately busy eliminating wastes.

When you have colitis, the bowel is too "nervous" and sensitive, and needs to be kept calm instead of stirred up. So you avoid such foods with a residue of roughage.

Foods with laxative properties would include prunes, figs, rhubarb, berries, whole sections of citrus fruits (the juice is all right, however), and pineapple.

Cooking in general softens the fibers of most vegetables and fruits, or if not, they can be strained or pureed. (With berries, however, you certainly must remove the seeds; cooking doesn't soften them.)

Any number of cereals (barley those containing bran) are easily tolerated. They may be crispy and crunch in the box, but they soften nicely after they've been eaten: Corn, rice, wheat and oat products are fine. They don't have to be soft as gruel when you eat 'em.

Dear Dr. Molner: My hands used to be bothered by dish washing detergents. I changed creams. My hands cleared up in a few days.—M. N.

What's good for one person can be bad for another. Changing brands, or switching from detergents to soaps, or vice versa, and the use of hand creams to soothe irritated skin, is the answer for many women. But they'll have to find out by trial and error what suits THEM.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading the booklet "The Way To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

The Job Makes A Boy A Man

No man ever forgets his first job. It may be sweeping out a grocery and hugging bundles for customers, but that remembrance, whether pleasant or not, is with you for life.

We're taking author's liberty and skipping over various part time employment we had during our teens, grocery stuff, weekend service station employment during which we became a whiz-bang at changing tires—and we find ourselves one day after graduation from high school and 600 miles from home.

SKIPPING A FEW minor details, we recall arriving in a dusty but lustrous Oklahoma town with a buddy after pushing our faithful '36 Plymouth coupe hard all night after graduation, then all the next day.

We had ideas of joining the wheat harvest migration that scorching summer, but one chat with a station attendant told us that was the wrong calling. We had arrived in town to look up a cousin we'd never seen, and had found an oil boom town.

THIS LITTLE city was different from such more famous strikes as Burkburnett and Spindletop — but boom it was: The state was dry back then, so that left out the saloons and accompanying gamblers, painted ladies and other fixtures. But the streets were jammed with men looking for work, Indians, Yankees, Texans, hundreds of local Oklahomans — and two 17-year-old (almost 18) kids from Memphis, Tenn., both green as grass.

However, having an older cousin who was a respected businessman and a friend of the personnel director for the main drilling company was a definite asset. A phone call, then we walked wide-eyed past long lines of job-seekers, by a coldly efficient secretary and into the corrugated-iron hiring office.

"WHAT'S YOUR trade?" barked the fellow at me first. Oil field? I'd never seen one except for driving past the capitol in Oklahoma City. But I figured oil fields had to have truck drivers and I had jockeyed various trucks around a filling station, parked them and the like. So I answered, "Truck driver." "Tandem job?" queried the man. "Sure," I lied. My friend next was questioned and told the truth—no experience "but I've got a quick-enough brain and a strong back." We were both hired at $1.35 an hour, big money in those days, and told "be prepared to work plenty of overtime these first few weeks. The field is opening faster than we can keep up."

THAT SAME DAY, somebody threw me a pair of Army surplus coveralls, showed me a gigantic GMC tractor, trailer and informed me that it was my baby, hauling casing, drill stem, and the like from the railroad 14 miles away to the drilling locations. The truck had a gear shift chart pasted to the dash and on my first trip to the rail siding, I learned to drive it, starting, stopping, backing, turning on that lonesome prairie—and somehow I became a full-blooded truck driver.

WE WORKED 40 days straight before getting a weekend off; that's how fast the wells were going in. But we were on our own, no Mama and Daddy to look after us, sometimes sleeping on a blanket or two on the bed of that big truck, crawling in the cab if it rained.

But those long weeks that stretched on into the winter were a remarkable transformation. We hardened, gained 15 pounds and made a big step from boyhood to manhood, even though we entered college at mid-term as a freshman, a slime.

Wanna Hear What We Did To The House?

WASHINGTON—Hang around cocktail parties long enough and besides developing a bang in your liver you get some pretty keen insights into the ways of old boobus Americanus, which is to say, your friends, neighbors, wives and self.

EVEN BEFORE your first ulcer is diagnosed you have discovered that all people are bores, and all that is left for the rest of your life is to classify them properly. Bore bores are probably the most common in our child-oriented society; hence they are easiest to identify. As soon as some balding adolescent says, "My little Fester — he's the six-year-old, you know, the middle one with all the personality conflicts that implies — anyway, my little Fester got off a real howler the other day..." You recognize him for a child bore.

BUT THE BORE who is calculated to empty a room faster than the cry of fire is the remodeling bore. He's the guy who is doing over an old house, and can't quit telling some people about it. I am well acquainted with this breed, because sometime early this summer (it was about when we discovered the old place was entirely framed in oak, if memory serves) I became a remodeling bore myself.

Only modesty prevents me from saying at the outset that it is an art form that I have mastered in a fashion fit to dazzle chaps who've been doing over old houses for 50 years. I say things like, "We thought the roof was a goner, but I nosed around until I found out what the pros use—Blister and Peel's tinners' red, made with boiled croton oil," and everyone within earshot starts to mumble that they've got a neighbor kid baby-sitting and they promised to get her home by 8:30.

EVEN BEING deliberately misunderstood won't turn off the genuinely talented remodeling bore. "Thought we'd have a ceramic counter and backsplash," we said to a toothsome young female the other day. She replied that she didn't put any stock in this talk of backslash and she still thought Lyndon would carry 50 states.

The hooked remodeling bore (it's like sickness, see, and we need to be helped, not punished) is his own worst enemy. To the best of my knowledge and belief I lost a perfectly good bridge partner not long ago when my reply to a slam invitation was a 10-minute lecture on the heady rewards of electric baseboard heat.

THE REAL TEST of a remodeling bore is how he reacts when he meets another of the same breed. The secret is like shaking hands in a reception line—squeeze first or you'll be crippled. A character who claims to be in the insurance game (but who I suspect is a retired white slaver) gave me a hard time by interrupting my account of the wide, oaken planks in our floors, unobtainable at any price nowadays, with some maundering tale of a free-floating fireplace he and his waspish spouse were installing in a seedy hovel they're doing over.

I WON ONLY because it's easier to yell. "Planks this wide, see?" than it is to scream, "Free-floating, see, heats the whole shebang evenly." But it was a near thing—darned near as close as the old tolerances those old-time carpenters worked to.

Lodge's Mission Of Clarification

WASHINGTON — It may come as a surprise to Sen. Barry Goldwater, but now in effect read out of the party, Henry Cabot Lodge, is taking his advice.

In his press conference at Hershey and several times before Goldwater called for strengthening the ties between the NATO allies. That is just what Lodge is trying to do in his current mission to Western Europe.

SERIOUS DOUBTS have arisen in NATO over American intentions in Viet Nam where for a year Lodge was Ambassador. Does the United States intend to enlarge the war by carrying the fight to the north? Are Americans trigger happy? Will the Presidential campaign force a change in policy in Southeast Asia?

These are the questions being asked within NATO and in Allied capitals. No one is better equipped to provide the answers than Lodge.

SHORTLY BEFORE he flew to Paris this reported talked with him about his assignment. As he sees it, there are two fundamental misconceptions in Europe he wants to clear up.

The first mistaken view widely held in Europe is that the United States is seeking a purely military solution. This is not true, Lodge says. Fundamentally Viet Nam is a political problem.

THE PEOPLE must adhere to their government. The government must show that it can insure the safety of the peasant farmer so he can sleep at night without fear of his life. This is the reason for the big economic aid program in Viet Nam which Lodge will outline to the NATO council and explain in detail to top officials in three or four Western European capitals.

THE SECOND mistaken view Lodge hopes to counteract is that American troops are in Viet Nam to perpetuate colonialism. How, he asks, could the United States with 16,000 men, or for that matter 21,000, expect to do what the French failed to do with 250,000? The goal is to establish Viet Nam as a going concern. Then the United States can get out.

The ties with our allies are fraying out. The reasons are often beyond American influence. With the upsurge of prosperity Western Europe long ago asserted its independence in a variety of ways.

THE GOLDWATER candidacy, it should be frankly acknowledged, is one reason for Allied unease. Ever since the Kennedy assassination, with no Vice President to succeed Lyndon Johnson, America's friends around the world have been concerned over the continuity of American policy and the orderly transition to a new administration with a Vice President prepared to take over. The wide range of Goldwater's past statements in "Why Not Victory?" and "The Conscience of a Conservative" makes Europeans fear that the whole course of American policy could be abruptly reversed.

TO TELL Allied editorial writers and correspondents that our election is none of their business is futile. The United States is the only Western power with an arsenal of annihilation, and everything we do is of concern to the world. As a good citizen Lodge is trying to make America's intentions clear.

An Unwanted Delegate

Miss Rosemary O'Brien, in her early thirties, and a resident of Chicago, puffs on her cigar as she looks over the welcome sign for the fourth annual national convention of the Cigar Smokers of America being held at Boston. ## Men Most Shocked When Beauty Lights Up Cigar

BOSTON (AP) — Miss Rosemary O'Brien, red-haired and blue-eyed, sat across the dinner table in a Boston restaurant and said, "There's nothing like a fine cigar," as she put a panatela to her soft, full lips.

The reaction was immediate, but Miss O'Brien paid little attention.

"When you've been smoking cigars as I have for four years, you get accustomed to having other women look at you in disbelief," said Miss O'Brien.

"Strangely, women aren't as shocked as the men when I smoke my cigars in public. The men appear to be absolutely dumbfounded. In public I constantly hear one man whisper to another, 'Do you see what I see?'"

Miss O'Brien, in her early 30s and a resident of Kenmore Avenue, Chicago, came to Boston as an unwanted delegate to the fourth annual national convention of the Cigar Smokers of America, meeting today and Saturday.

The national organization—made up of humidors in eight cities—would rather not have women as members.

Miss O'Brien is in the unique position of having helped found the Chicago Humidor and expand its membership to more than 160.

"What's wrong with women?" asked Miss O'Brien, who stands 5-foot-5 and says she smokes 37-38-35.

"I smoke up to 10 cigars a day and like to be with men who smoke cigars. A lot of women

ABILENE STORM

Cool Front Marches Across North Texas

By The Associated Press

A weak cool front moved over North Texas today, preceded in its march across the state by many light to moderate thunderstorms.

Forecasts called for continued scattered rains and cooler weather.

Abilene and its neighbors were shaken Thursday night by an electrical thunderstorm accompanied by winds gusting up to 57 miles per hour. Abilene measured only .15 of an inch of rain, but power was knocked out for a time in the city and in nearby Hawley, and the storm unroofed the telephone exchange at Sylvester.

A bolt of lightning near Gall, west of Snyder, killed 14-year-old Karen Pierce of El Paso as she and a cousin rode horseback on her uncle's ranch. The cousin, Kenney Bennett, was slightly hurt.

By early today, the cool front had passed through Dallas and Lubbock. Thunderstorms were concentrated along and 100 miles north of a line near Mineral Wells, Grapevine, Greenville, and Texarkana, swerving eastward about 15 miles per hour. A heavy thundershower was centered northwest of Fort Worth.

Other light rain showers were southward from Ardmore, Okla., to Bowie and Bridgeport; and east of Wichita Falls southward to Decatur, Weatherford and Stephenville.

Temperatures were still high in parts of the state. It was 105 degrees Thursday at Midland, 102 at Presidio, San Angelo and Wichita Falls, and 101 at Childress, Junction and Mineral Wells. Early today, 84 degrees was high at Del Rio and San Angelo, down to a chilly 88 at Dalhart.

In its five-day forecasts, the Weather Bureau predicted temperatures of four to eight degrees below normal in much of Northeast, North Central, and Northwest Texas. South Texas was to be a little cooler, from one to three degrees below normal.

Precipitation was forecast as averaging between one-fourth to three-fourths of an inch, with locally heavy showers in South Texas along the Rio Grande.

SHACKLED BY RELIGIOUS CREEDS?

Freedom in Christ is a priceless gift of God. Jesus said, "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed" (John 8:36).

Yet, many believers in Christ yield this freedom to the restrictions of denominational alliances and human traditions. They cannot understand that the church established by Jesus Christ, and described in the New Testament, was neither Protestant, Roman Catholic, nor Jewish—in the sense that men today tend to classify one another into religious categories.

The first century church of Christ, however, could be considered Jewish in the sense that its first members were Jews; it could be considered protestant in the sense that its leaders and members would boldly protest any new doctrines or innovations; and it was catholic (universal) inasmuch as it was established for all peoples of the earth.

Members of the church in that age were called Christians. There were thousands of them, and they belonged to no denomination. They were all members only of that broad universal church for which Jesus died (Acts 20:28). They were not sectarian in any sense. They had become members of Christ's spiritual body through obedience to the gospel (Hebrews 5:8, 9).

In the unity of a faith universal, they were recognized universally as simply Christians.

If this view of Christianity, so plainly set forth in the New Testament, had been maintained through the centuries, we would not have the divided warring factions that spend their energies fighting each other rather than fighting Satan. Sadly, thousands of believers in Christ are shackled by religious creeds.

The New Testament view of Christianity is not a narrow-minded one. Under this view alone can men hold that every person who has been born again is a brother or sister in Christ. Any denominational view, regardless of how tolerant, is bound to be more restricting and narrow than the undenominational Christianity of the first century.

According to this view, men are free under God to believe and obey the commands of God without human restrictions. Every man is responsible to God alone for searching the Scriptures for himself and rendering loving obedience to the Father's will. When people follow this pattern, obey Christ's will, and associate themselves together for the purpose of worship and service—maintaining allegiance to Christ rather than men or creeds of men—this is truly the Lord's church.

To be a simple New Testament Christian, without denominational restrictions, is a glorious privilege. One enjoys the liberty that Christ allows, and is free from the dictates of men and the ecclesiastic authority of religious overlords. This, indeed, is the freedom that is in Christ.

"If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed" (John 8:36).

West North East South
1♥ Double Pass 1♠
2♣ 2♠ Pass Pass
3♣ Pass Pass 3♠
Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠.

Altho West put up a spirited campaign against his opponents during the auction, he was unable to outbid them single-handed and they finally bought the contract for three spades. South's hand is superficially worth a mere six points, however, facing a partner who has made a take-out double and then raised the forced response; South's holding possesses definite merit and he is fully warranted in refusing to sell out to West for three clubs.

West opened the king of clubs and continued with the ace. The appearance of declarer's ten on the second round suggested that it was not safe to play another club. West was reluctant to lead from his broken holding in hearts and, fearing a possible end play later on if he retained the lone ace of diamonds, he cashed that card and then exited with a trump.

Declarer drew the spades with two pulls and paused to assess his prospects. He had already lost three tricks and was confronted with prospective losers in hearts and diamonds—even assuming that the heart finesse succeeded. West's play of the ace of diamonds followed by his abrupt shift to a trump suggested that the diamonds would not divide favorably and, therefore, North's long diamond could not be established for a discard.

West's sequence of bids had pretty well marked him with two five card suits which was confirmed in the play when he showed up with two spades and apparently just one diamond. This distributional pattern gave South a ray of hope.

With the trumps accounted for, he led a heart from his hand and finessed North's queen. The ace was cashed next felling East's jack and then the queen of diamonds was led. East realized that, if he won the trick, he would be end-played, for, down to nothing but clubs or diamonds, the lead of a club would present declarer with a ruff and discard while a diamond return into the dummy's jack-nine would also surrender a trick.

When North's queen of diamonds was permitted to hold, South abandoned his attack against East, and switched his attentions to West. The latter was thrown in with a third round of hearts and, whether he exited with a heart or a club, South could ruff in the North hand while he disposed of his remaining diamond.

Barry's View On Security Is Cited

To the Editor:

It has been narrated around that in the event Senator Barry Goldwater is promoted to the presidency, he will do away with Social Security and other benefits. This is sad and utterly false.

Now in case you don't wish to be deluded in what he really does stand for, here in part is what he is for.

"I favor a sound Social Security system, and I want to see it strengthened. I want to see every participant receive all the benefits this system provides, and I want to see these benefits paid in dollars with purchasing power. Social Security is a system of basic protection for the aged."

I truly hope this will be clarified to where every person will understand.

Airmen Cited For Good Work

Three control tower operators of the Webb Air Force Base Communications Squadron were cited recently by Headquarters, Air Force Communications Service, Scott AFB, Ill. T. Sgt. Ward A. Seiler, Airman I.C. Thomas Q. Sykes Jr., and Airman 2.C. Frederick Moen were presented with certificates of exemplary service.

The communications trio was instrumental in saving a T-28 aircraft and its crew last May when the plane became lost because of a failure in its navigational equipment. Close coordination between the control tower operators and the radar approach control center resulted in radar contact with the aircraft while it was 25 miles southeast of Webb AFB, and headed away from the base.

As the aircraft was directed back on course, visibility at the base was two miles, with gusting winds at 38 knots. The plane landed safely without incident. This aircraft "save" was the fourteenth made by Flight Facilities personnel at Webb AFB since January, 1960.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Admiration Expressed For People At Webb

To the Editor: This letter is addressed to all Webb Air Base personnel and particularly to Mrs. Laura McGhee:

We read, with a sad heart, your letter to the Herald deploring the attitude of some of the citizens of Big Spring toward the folks at the Air Base who live in trailer houses in our town.

First of all, let me assure you, and please believe me, that such is not the case of the vast majority of our citizens. You may find folks in any town who are cruel and ignorant enough to believe they are superior to their neighbor because of housing, monetary position, stability of location, etc. However, let me further assure you that most of us folks here in Big Spring are not in that category.

We have learned that the majority of the folks at Webb are the elite of the nation in character, sincerity, and morality; otherwise they would not be engaged in activities requiring the utmost in courage, intellect and hard, hard work in helping keep our Nation strong and secure. We respect you and yours. Never forget that, wherever you are from and whatever you live in, whether it be a house, house-trailer or tent.

My own daughter lived in a house-trailer with her husband at one time, and I certainly did not consider them inferior or downgraded at any time. With them it was an economic problem. With you, Mrs. McGhee, it may or may not be an economic problem, but whatever the situation, rich or poor, permanent or temporary, by choice or not, we want you to know this writer and many others are most happy to have you, your husband and your children in our town.

Wants Johnson To Debate Barry

To the Editor: No American who is a candidate for public office owes his opponent acceptance of a challenge to debate, though it is the perfect right of any candidate to challenge his opponent and let the people draw their own conclusions about the reaction.

Sen. Barry Goldwater has said he would like to meet President Lyndon Johnson in debate before a national audience, perhaps in the form of the Kennedy-Nixon debates of four years ago.

Up to this date why has Mr. Johnson declined to accept this challenge from Senator Goldwater? It is very easy to understand why President Johnson would prefer not to be on the debating platform with Senator Goldwater aside from the difference in their philosophies. A debate before a national audience would very likely accentuate the big difference between Goldwater's clear cut sincerity, frankness and integrity, and Mr. Johnson's wallowing double-talk, hypocrisy and somewhat sanctimonious generalities.

Even those who disagree with Senator Goldwater on some of his points believe he will tell you what he thinks and won't try to fool you about it.

Debates between major candidates don't necessarily show which candidate is better qualified for the job, but a Goldwater-Johnson debate might well clear up some of the issues and show basic differences between the two men.

Escapee Returned

Bobby Wayne Beardsley, 22, who walked out of the Big Spring city jail Wednesday morning, was arrested by San Angelo police Thursday at the home of relatives there. He was returned to Big Spring at 7 p.m. Thursday by Detective Wayne Tollett.

Beardsley and Glenn Wayne Burnett, 19, have been transferred to the Howard County jail. Beardsley's bond was set by Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter at $3,000 and Burnett's at $2,500. Neither had posted bond at noon today. They were both charged with theft over $50. The charge was in connection with the theft of an automobile here Aug. 9.

Beardsley told officers, after he was returned to Big Spring, that he "hid out" in the Texas & Pacific Railway Co. yards until late Wednesday and then hitchhiked a ride to San Angelo where he was later arrested.

Beardsley and Burnett had been returned early Wednesday morning from El Paso and Alamogordo, N. M., where they had been arrested and held on a warrant issued in Big Spring. Burnett was reported to have been apprehended in Alamogordo as the men attempted to steal gasoline. Beardsley escaped and was arrested in El Paso.

Two Injured In Car Wreck

Two drivers were taken to Big Spring hospitals following a two-car collision at East Fifteenth and Goliad about 10 a.m. today. Webb, 1711 Purdue, was taken to Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital for similar treatment and examination. Neither was reported in serious condition but extent of injuries were not known at noon. Damage to both vehicles was heavy.

Other accidents, and drivers of vehicles involved, were: Fourth and Runnels, Willie W. Clements, Stanton, and Helen R. Crittenden; Fourth and Gregg, Cleo C. Reid, 1229 E. 18th; and Emmet B. ## Villain Chases Dear Nellie In Melodrama Showing Here

One of our nation's oldest melodramas, tried and true on hundreds of stages across the land, will be offered tonight and tomorrow by Big Spring Civic Theatre Inc.

The performances will be in City Park's amphitheatre beginning at 8:30 both nights, and admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. The play is "Tempted, Tried and True or Dirty Work at the Crossroads," the story of maid Nellie, vicious villain Murgatroyd and the accompanying colorful and familiar characters.

Director Bill Povall, with Ron Carr assisting, has rounded a cast of varying backgrounds into a unit that does credit to the comedy, and comedy is what it is meant to be—fully. To add to the fun, there's a handful of variety acts, singing, dancing and the like, performed by Big Spring residents between curtain falls of the play.

Joy Shaver does a creditable job in the role of Nellie, from Wednesday night's final dress rehearsal. Along with Joy, some four other members of the cast are called upon for solo singing numbers, and all are handled exceptionally well for a Little Theatre group and with outdoor

Police Continue Search For Missing 4-Year-Old

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — "We're running down the leads — any leads we get — but right now none of them has worked out," the weary deskman at suburban Fairfax Police Station said early today as the search continued for little Debbie Dappen.

Debbie, a four-year-old with her brown hair in a pixie-like cut, has been missing ever since she went out to play after lunch Wednesday.

Hundreds of volunteers scoured both Fairfax and neighboring Madisonville Wednesday night and until Thursday afternoon.

"What we're afraid of is that it was some sex pervert — or maybe some lady who's not right in her mind, some lady with no children of her own. No, that's what we're hoping for," said the deskman, Patrolman Joe Berling, who had had four hours' sleep since Rosemary Dappen, 28, first turned in an alarm late Wednesday afternoon.

Berling said there was a possibility Debbie had been kidnapped, but added that this was regarded as slight by police because "there are no rich families in Fairfax. If someone wanted to kidnap a child for ransom, he'd go to some other suburb, where the rich people live."

Debbie's father, Karl L. Dappen, 32, held a news conference after almost 30 hours of anxious waiting, pleading for his youngest child's return.

"I plead to you as a father — to anyone who has Debbie, please return her, return her safely so the family might be whole again," Dappen spoke into the television cameras. "She is just a little four-year-old girl."

The Dappens also have a son, Kenneth Lee, 8.

Mrs. Shriver Stricken Ill

She is the sister of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Shriver is shown swimming Thursday with youngsters in a pool at the day camp for retarded children in Fairmount Park at Philadelphia. She is executive vice president of the Kennedy Foundation which provided a grant for the camp. The nature of her illness was not disclosed. (AP WIREPHOTO)

'No Conspiracy, Warren Is Quoted

NEW YORK (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren is quoted as having told Jack Ruby on June 21: "There has been no witness before this (Warren) commission who has claimed to have any personal knowledge that you were a party to any conspiracy to kill our President."

The New York Journal-American reported Thursday that Warren made that statement to Ruby in an interview at the Dallas County Jail after Ruby insisted in a rambling appeal that "there was no conspiracy."

The exchange came in the third and final copyrighted installment of a 102-page interrogation of Ruby, which Journal-American columnist Dorothy Kilgallen said she obtained "through sources close to the commission in Washington."

Ruby has been convicted of first degree murder for shooting Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin of President Kennedy, last Nov. 24 in the basement of the Dallas jail. Oswald was a self-described Marxist.

part of the plot — naturally, in all the time from over six months ago, my family has been so interested in helping me."

"By that you mean a party to the plot of Oswald?" he was asked.

PARTY TO PLOT

"That I was party to a plot to silence Oswald," said Ruby. "My brother, who has a successful business, I know he is going to be killed. When I told him I did it because of Mrs. Kennedy, that is all he had to hear, because I would never involve him in a conspiracy."

"The people that have power here, they have a different verdict. They already have me as the accused assassin of our beloved President."

It was here that Warren said the commission had no evidence of such a plot. He added that he did not anticipate any evidence of one, but if it came to light, Ruby would be given an opportunity to answer.

In the first installments in the newspaper, Ruby was quoted as saying he killed Oswald on the spur of the moment, to spare Mrs. John F. Kennedy the ordeal of returning to Dallas for Oswald's trial.

The testimony Warren took from Ruby at the jail is expected to be part of the commission's report, to be issued sometime next month.

ORGANIZATION

At the start of the final installment, Ruby is quoted as saying to Warren: "There is a certain organization in this area that has been indoctrinated, that I am the one that was in the plot to assassinate our President."

"Would you tell us what this is?" he was asked.

"The John Birch Society," Ruby said, referring to the organization dedicated to opposing what it calls Communist subversion in this country.

Ruby said several times he was convinced that he was being made a scapegoat because he is Jewish and that his own life and those of his brothers and sisters were in danger.

The newspaper quoted him as saying: "Well, assuming that, as I stated before, some persons are accusing me falsely of being

Syncom Nearly Stationary In Orbit Ready For Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency reported today that Syncom 3 had achieved a near-stationary orbit and said it was confident the communications package could be maneuvered into position as the world's first stationary satellite — one that hovers over a single spot on earth.

"Syncom 3 looks very good and is in near-synchronous (stationary) orbit," a statement said. "After evaluation of the data, project officials will determine what future maneuvers will be made."

Evaluation of tracking data had been delayed several hours by a balky computer at the Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md.

The near-stationary orbit was achieved high above Sumatra Thursday when a satellite motor fired to shift Syncom 3 out of a wide-looping path into a circular orbit where both the high and low points are about 23,000 miles.

The motor firing, triggered by a ground radio signal, also increased the spacecraft speed so that it matched that of the rotation of the earth. Thus, the satellite appears to hang almost motionless over the Sumatra area in the Indian Ocean.

It was hoped the maneuver would arrest Syncom 3 directly above the equator. However, this was not fully realized and the satellite apparently is weaving north and south across the equatorial line at a slight angle.

The angular movement can be eliminated by radio commands to small gas jets aboard the satellite. These jets also will be used to move Syncom 3 from the position above Sumatra to a stationary outpost above the Pacific Ocean intersection of the equator and International Date Line. The maneuvering is expected to take about 10 days.

In that permanent position, the satellite, which was launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, would be available for extensive communications experiments between stations in the United States and Asia.

Only three such satellites, equally spaced about the equator, would provide worldwide coverage.

The mid-Pacific location also was selected because Syncom 3 would be in position to relay television pictures of the Oct. 10-24 Olympic Games in Japan for distribution in North America and Europe.

DEAR ABBY

Had Captive Audience

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday I attended my cousin's wedding. It was a beautiful wedding, held in our church. During the ceremony the minister told the bride and groom he hoped that they would keep up their spiritual connections with the church. Then he started bawling out all the guests because they came to church only when they wanted some service performed, such as a marriage or a christening, but that they never bothered about Sunday morning services. It made the guests very uncomfortable. Do you think this was the proper time for the minister to have brought up that subject?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: He was probably captivated by his captive audience. Forgive him, for it shall be said that even a minister becomes sorely wearied of a depleted flock.

Pulpit Often Aboard Boat

By BILL HUDSON
MONTICELLO, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. Delmar Rodgers sometimes finds his congregation in play clothes. But, it's only natural because many of the worshippers come by boat.

Once a month, the young minister of the Monticello Christian church conducts a 30-minute Sunday evening service at nearby Lake Cumberland.

The Rev. Mr. Rodgers describes his waterside service as an effort to unite pleasure and Christianity. His pulpit generally is the deck of a boat.

"A lot of people in our congregation have boats. Rather than let the boats become a wedge between them and their faithfulness to the church, we have the service at the lake," the minister said.

"Let's say its accommodating. Those with boats feel they're putting them to good use."

The service is sponsored by the young people of the church. It began last summer and attendance has averaged about 100 persons.

Dress is informal though the minister explains "We ask for some measure of dignity. The people definitely are on vacation. Some stay on their boats during the services."

There are boats of all descriptions, usually including five or six households.

Rodgers has been in this south-central Kentucky town of 3,000 population for about one and one-half years. He came from Rockford, Ill. Previous pastorates were in large cities, including Chicago.

His lakeside services are limited to 30 minutes of music and a brief sermon.

For music, "We use local talent and quartets such as we can find."

The site of the service also is accessible by road and is near a popular spot called Conley Bottom.

"It's a good place for swimming and boating," Rodgers explained. "Folks have been congregating in that area for a long time. It's a natural place to go."

The playground-church site has acquired a nickname: Christian Point.

Special Gifts Are Requested

The Kentwood Methodist congregation is asking for a sacrificial offering Sunday at the 11 a.m. service. The day has been named "Our Day of Faithfulness," in accordance with the story of the widow who gave two of the smallest coins minted in that time to the treasury.

A chest for the treasury will be placed at the altar, and every member present for the morning worship, will be asked to make a sacrificial gift in addition to the regular gifts.

The congregation hopes to have at least $600 in the offering. Children are urged to give 10 cents for every year of age; youth are urged to give at least as much as a month's allowance, and adults to give as much as they spend in one year on tobacco, make-up, or entertainment.

Dedication Set For Sanctuary

Berea Baptist Church will close its revival Sunday with a dedication service for its new sanctuary, recently completed at a cost of $31,000. The building of 4,640 square feet will seat 700. The area previously used for an auditorium has been converted to educational space.

Rev. E. O. Hartwell, with the building committee of the Southern Baptist Convention, will be the speaker. Others on the program include Rev. J. F. Fields, who was pastor of the Berea congregation when it was launched, and Chaplain W. H. Warren, of Webb AFB.

The dedicatory program is slated for 2:30 p.m., according to Rev. Darrell Robinson, pastor. All area residents are invited to attend.

TEMPERANCE IS THEME

"A New Call for Faithfulness—Temperance," is the theme of the International Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, found in Deuteronomy 6:4-17.

The lesson considers the lack of faith of the Israelites after they were freed from bondage in Egypt, and their frequent worship of other gods and idols after the Lord had directed Moses in leading them out. The Lord took years to test these people before he permitted them to enter the Promised Land. They must turn dutifully to God and observe His commandments before they could cease wandering.

The Hebrews were slaves in the most civilized and sophisticated nation of the ancient world. The lesson compares them with many people today: slaves of the cocktail party, today's greatest institution in many homes, and leading children into bondage.

Returns To Seminary

Antony (Tony) Flores Marin, 19, a graduate of Corpus Christi Minor Seminary's High School, plans to continue two years of college work at Corpus Christi. He will then enter his philosophical and theological study at Assumption Seminary in San Antonio.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Marin, 105 NW 8th, Big Spring, but has "one 12 years of study in the Seminary school at Corpus Christi."

He returned to Big Spring after graduation and has been employed at the Bennett House. He leaves today for his college work.

English Preacher Due For Special Services

COAHOMA—Frank Worgan of Wigan, England, will conduct gospel meetings at the Coahoma Church of Christ, beginning Aug. 23 and running through Aug. 30. Services will be held daily at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Worgan began preaching the gospel at the age of 16. He was baptized by a well-known British evangelist, John Stratton, who preached in England and in Texas. At 19, he was preaching full time for the oldest known congregation of the church at Kirkcaldy, Scotland—started in 1798. After World War II he preached for the church in Amsterdam, Holland.

He returned to his native England in 1961 and has been preaching for the Ince congregation since. He has held meetings in the countries of Belgium, Holland, and in Germany and the United States.

He was in America in 1960 and has been fully supported by the Northside Church of Christ in Odessa.

Catholic Meet Scheduled Here

Big Spring is to be host to the third annual convention of the San Angelo Diocesan Council of Catholic Women. Three hundred or more will be here for the meeting Sept. 8-9. Headquarters will be the Settles Hotel.

Pre-registration for the convention expires Aug. 28 and all women in the diocese who plan to attend are urged to pre-register with their deaconry president. Registration in this manner will insure proper accreditation of the delegate at the convention.

Featured speaker for the convention will be Monsignor Roy Rhin, pastor of St. Pius X Church, San Antonio. Msgr. Rhin, a native of Castroville, where he was born Nov. 27, 1918, is widely recognized as one of the outstanding Catholic leaders of the state. His parish in San Antonio is called the "model parish" because of his efforts with the lay apostoli. He is recognized as the greatest authority in the field of personal, family, community and world lay apostoli. His talk at the banquet on Sept. 9 will probably be on some phase of this work. He was a student of theology in Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome and the Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C.

He was ordained June 4, 1942 and is charter chaplain of the Serra Club of San Antonio as well as pastor of the St. Pius X Church.

In connection with the pre-registration on or before Aug. 28, the deaconry presidents who are prepared to accept such registration are:

Abilene, Mrs. J. R. Sheeler, 2150 Brentwood; Big Spring, Mrs. Glen Tom, Stanton; Brownwood, Mrs. John Harrod, Eden; Midland, Mrs. Jack Prichard, 5004 Divonia, Odessa; San Angelo, Mrs. Robert Buescher, 2201 Douglas Drive, San Angelo.

Registration fee is $3.

Luncheon for the first day will be $1.75, the banquet for the first night $2. Luncheon on the second day will be $1.50 and total fees $8.50.

Two Churches Plan Revivals

Two local churches have announced fall revivals beginning Sunday.

Revival services will be conducted at the Vealmoor Baptist Church Sunday, Aug. 23 through Sunday, Aug. 30, according to Rev. Leslie Kelley, pastor. He said the services will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. each night except Sundays, when the services will be conducted according to the regular schedule.

Rev. W. H. Uhlman, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Stanton for the past four years, will conduct the revival. The visiting evangelist is a graduate of Howard Payne College in Brownwood and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. An evangelist of wide experience, he stated his messages will be directed toward enriching the spiritual life of Christians and the salvation of the lost.

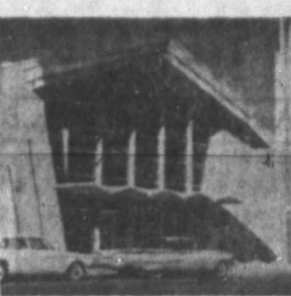

Dwain Williams will lead singing and Mrs. Porter Hanks will be pianist.

The East Fourth Street Baptist Church will begin its fall revival Sunday. Services will continue daily at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. with the Rev. L. D. Green, the new pastor, as evangelist. The Rev. Bill Ruddy will be in charge of the music.

"Revivals are always highlight hours in the East Fourth Street Church," the pastor said. "We will lead a series of Bible studies from the 'Sermon on the Mount' during the morning services."

"The church welcomes everyone to all the services. The East Fourth Street Church offers its spiritual guidance to all of the city."

Sometimes the future looks black; we can't see a glimmer of light anywhere . . . and we ask for help without really expecting an answer. But we're wrong. Even that small word, "help" means that we have realized our own inadequacy and turned to Something outside ourselves for guidance.

Called, or not called, "God is an ever-present help in trouble." And whenever we ask Him to intervene, our lives are filled with new hope and inspiration.

He does not ask us to worry about the future. In fact, He doesn't intend us to worry at all. Worry indicates uncertainty and fear, and these have no place in Christian living.

Perhaps you are thinking "That takes greater faith than I'll ever have!" But you forget God's help. Perfect trust . . . serene peace of mind . . . these are your birthright. And your Church will teach you to attain them.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Ewbank Has Big Plans For Wood

By JACK HAND
PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — Weeb Ewbank is a chunky little man who thinks he can make Dick Wood into another Johnny Unitas. The odds against Ewbank's project are as long as those against his New York Jets in the American Football League.

Ewbank is taking a good look at rookies Pete Liske of Penn State and Mike Talaferro of Illinois as backup men for Wood but his hopes of success rest on the 6-foot-3 veteran.

This is Ewbank's second year as coach of the Jets after a nine-year term with Baltimore in the National Football League. "We're not kidding ourselves," said Ewbank. "The outfit that was called the Titans (the Jets' predecessors) didn't sign any draft choices for two years. We're not up there with the champions at San Diego, or Kansas City or Houston.

"But we are so far ahead of last year at this stage there is no comparison. I'd say we're better right now than we were in the middle of last season." Sensitive to complaints that the Jets have no widely-known players, Ewbank lists as potential stars split end Bake Turner, Wood, flanker Don Maynard and tight end Gene Heeter.

A series of trades brought several new men to the Jets. Only center Mike Hudock, linebacker Larry Grantham, halfback Bill Mathis and Maynard remain from the original Titans.

Ewbank counts on Wood's passing to Maynard and Turner and the running of Mark Smolinski, rookie Rudy Johnson of Nebraska and Mathis to carry the Jets' offense. Either Liske or Talaferro will make the club.

Matt Snell, the No. 1 draft choice from Ohio State, has not been able to run yet due to injuries received in the College All-Star game. Bill Perkins, a second year man from Iowa, is getting a good look at running back.

The offensive line probably will be composed of Sherman Plunkett and Jack Klotz at the tackles, Dan Ficca and Sam DeLuca at guards and Hudock at center. Winston Hill and rookie Dave Herman of Michigan State have a chance.

Ewbank has hopes for rookie Gerry Philbin of Buffalo and Bert Wilder of North Carolina State as defensive ends. Bob Watters, a 1963 regular, has been having knee trouble. LaVerne Torczon is the other hold-over. Paul Rochester and Bob McAdams have a chance to oust oldtimers Sid Youngelman and Gordy Holt at tackle.

Dave Yohn has been moved to outside linebacker with Wahoo McDaniel, acquired from Denver in a trade, taking over as middle linebacker. Grantham is a fixture on the right side. Marshall Starks and Clyde Washington will man the corners and Dainard Paulson and Billy Baird will be the safety men.

Early Competitors

The four men above were some of the first golfers to arrive at the Big Spring Country Club Thursday morning to play in the West Texas Pro-Am. They found themselves waiting a while to play, though, as more men had to show up before teams could be made up. Back row, left to right, Pascal Williams, Odessa, and Allen Sundry, Big Spring. Front row, left to right, Troy Jordan, Odessa, and B. F. McCrory, Big Spring.

Powell, Thomas On Low Foursome

The team of Frank Powell, Jack Thomas, Bud Snell and Bob Hawkins pieced together an 11-under-par 60 to win first place in the Pro-Am held Thursday at the Big Spring Country Club.

The one-day meet attracted 76 and the victory won $25.65 each in merchandise to the members of the blue-ribbon team.

Powell was a dual winner. He also posted the low amateur score of 69 and collected an extra $13.70 in loot.

Second place team was composed of E. L. (Son) Powell, J. R. Farmer, Bill Crook and Col. Wolfe. Each member of that troupe qualified for $15.35 in merchandise. They posted a best-ball score of 61.

Members of the third-place team were L. C. Abbott, Farris Hammond, Roger Stallcup and Mike Walling, who wound up with a 62. Awards amounting to $10.25 went to each member of that team.

Snell and Hawkins reside in Lamesa. Abbott plays the Sunset course in Odessa. The remainder of the aforementioned are Big Spring residents.

Low pro of the day was Charles Ward of Fort Stockton, who toured the course in 73 and qualified for a cash prize of $6. Many of the entries will return next month to take part in the 33rd annual Big Spring Invitational tournament, which gets under way Sept. 4 and continues through Labor Day.

Lineman Injured
COAHOMA — Lineman Wesley Wright, a starter for the Coahoma Bulldogs, dislocated his shoulder during a workout Wednesday afternoon and will be out of practice for a minimum of three weeks.

Boxing Heads For Fadeout

Boxing, once shown five nights a week on network television, heads toward a final fade-out on a regular basis for living room fans tonight.

Light heavyweight Johnny Persol of New York and Henry Hank of Detroit meet in a 10-rounder tonight that marks the last of the television fights from Madison Square Garden.

After that there will be three more Friday night TV fights in other sites, winding up with the middleweight clash between ex-champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria and Rocky Rivero of Argentina in Cleveland.

On Sept. 11 the curtain will ring down on television's longest continuous network show — a 20-year run. In the first one Willie Pep outpointed Chalky Wright in a featherweight title bout at the Garden Sept. 29, 1944.

Some title bouts may be shown on home television on a special basis but the heavy-weight title fights and other top matches probably will go to closed circuit theater television.

Persol, the fifth-ranking contender, is a 2-1 favorite over the former high-ranking middleweight who has stepped up to the 175-pound class.

The 24-year-old New Yorker has a 12-1 record. Hank's record is 56-19-8, including 37 knockouts. Persol has only three knockouts in his credit but he is considered a good puncher.

The bout will be telecast nationally by ABC-TV. Starting time is 9 p.m., EST. Scoring will be by the rounds system.

Mexico Enters 15

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico will participate in 15 events in the Olympic Games in Tokyo in October, says the president of the Mexican Sports Federation.

Texas Choice In Oil Bowl Grid Battle

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Texas was a touchdown favorite over Oklahoma in the 19th Oil Bowl football game to be played on the basis of a more powerful offense and a rugged defense that, however, lacks depth.

The two squads of 24 players clash tonight with a sellout crowd of 15,000 anticipated at Midwestern University Stadium.

It was the question of depth that gave Oklahoma hope of upsetting the Texas.

So pressed for linemen have the Texas coaches been that they have shifted backs to positions in the forward wall.

But the Texas backfield is considered one of the best in the history of this game—the oldest game in the country that matches high school graduates from two states.

Quarterbacked by Pat Harkins of Amarillo Tascosa and Greg Lott of Lubbock, it is explosive with passing and running. Ralph Weaver of Garland at fullback and backbacks Jackie Anderson of Rockwall, Rusty Harris of Abilene and Ridley Gibson of Quanah furnish power to the rushing attack. Harkins and Lott are top passers.

Greg Pipes of Fort Worth Paschal leads a thorny defense that might suffer, however, in manpower.

Oklahoma has indicated it will make its greatest effort through the air and it has the guns for it with Jim Burgar of Lindsay as the quarterback, backed by the talents of Gene Cagle of Lawton and Buddy Burris of Putnam City.

The Sooners aren't exactly impotent at running, what with fellows like Scott Hall of Tulsa Edison and Ron Shotts of Weatherford, but Coach Ralph Parker of Tulsa Edison, who is one of three Oklahoma coaches, has indicated he thinks the Sooners chances are against the Texas secondary through the air.

Parker was optimistic that Oklahoma would make a good game out of it.

In the series that started in 1945, Texas has won 14 games, Oklahoma 3 and there has been 1 tie. In the last six games Oklahoma has won three.

The kickoff is at 8 p.m.

Thomas And Callison Gang Up On Corsairs

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The hand-me-down and the All-Star hero sat quietly in the Philadelphia dressing room.

"It's always a thrill to hit a home run," said Frank Thomas. "It's about time I did something good for a change," said Johnny Callison.

What Thomas and Callison did was supply all the runs as the Phillies swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 2-0 and 3-1 Thursday night and shot into a commanding 7 1/2-game lead in the National League pennant.

Thomas, acquired from the New York Mets recently, took care of the opener with a two-run homer in the ninth inning that won it for Art Mahaffey, who posted his first complete game since May 27 by checking the Pirates on two hits.

Callison, who won the All-Star game for the National League, look over in the second game, tying it 1-1 with his 21st homer in the sixth inning, then lashing a long sacrifice fly in the eighth inning that drove in two runs.

Trailing 3-1, the Pirates got a run back in the ninth on a single by Smoky Burgess and Bill Mazeroski's double, but Callison came through again. He grabbed Jerry Lynch's fly ball and cut down Mazeroski, trying to advance to third. That ended the threat.

The twin triumphs, coupled with Cincinnati's 10-7 victory over slipping San Francisco, added 1 1/2 games to the Phillies' lead. The Reds, meanwhile, pulled into a tie for second with the Giants by winning their fourth straight while San Francisco lost its fifth in a row.

In the only other NL game scheduled, Denis Menke drove in three runs and Hank Aaron stroked four hits as Milwaukee belted the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-2.

Mahaffey, bringing his record to 11-4, won his duel with Bob

Friend, 10-13, in the opener when Thomas homered after a single by Clay Dalrymple. Mahaffey did not allow a hit until Mazerowski singled with one out in the seventh. Roberto Clemente's ninth inning single was the only other hit.

In the nightcap, Bob Bailey put the Pirates ahead 1-0 with a third inning homer off Rick Wise. Callison then tagged Don Schwall with the loss.

Wise, a rookie, needed Ed Roebuck's help in the ninth inning but won his fifth game in six decisions.

The Giants led the Reds 4-3 until Deron Johnson slammed a bases-empty homer in the seventh inning. The Reds then broke it open in the eighth inning with a six-run spurt, scoring the go-ahead run when Lon Herbel issued a bases-loaded walk to Tommy Harper.

Vada Pinson followed with a two-run single, Frank Robinson singled across another run. Pinson scored on Johnson's ground-er and Robinson came around on Don Pavletich's sacrifice fly.

Besides Johnson, Robinson and Leo Cardenas homered for the Reds while Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda and Del Crandall connected for the Giants. Mays' homer was his 35th.

The Braves collected 16 hits while Bob Sadowski held the Dodgers to seven hits. Milwaukee managed only three singles in the first four innings, then tagged Joe Moeller and Bob Miller for five extra base hits and five runs in the fifth and sixth.

Ron Fairly's homer accounted for both Dodger runs.

Doubles Test In Overtime

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (AP) — "These continuation are always ticklish," said Frank Froehling.

"Well it's your serve to start," said Arthur Ashe. "Pleasant dreams — if you can get to sleep."

With that Froehling and his partner in the National Doubles Tennis Championships, Charley Pasarell, left Ashe and teammate Billy Bond, presumably to sleep before the resumption of their key quarter-final match today.

The fourth-seeded team of Froehling, from Miami, and Pasarell of Santruce, P.R., and the sixth-seeded tandem of Ashe of Richmond, Va., and Bond, La Jolla, Calif., left off Thursday at 9-9 in the fifth set.

Froehling and Pasarell won the first two sets 6-2, 6-4, then Ashe and Bond fought back to take two, 6-4, 12-10. Darkness ended play.

The winners will move into Saturday's semifinals against the top seeds, Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., who passed their first genuine test at the Longwood Cricket Club Thursday.

McKinley and Ralston eliminated the seventh-seeded pair of Cliff Buchholz of St. Louis and Butch Newman of San Antonio, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3. Buchholz and Newman had beaten the U.S. Davis Cuppers earlier this year.

Weaver Winner In Open Meet
BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Alabama pro DeWitt Weaver, former Southern Methodist star, has captured the Louisiana Open Golf Tournament with a blistering 6-under-par 66. Rain helped him.

The 24-year-old rookie pro, planned to join the tour at Dallas, started out with a poor 78, but it was erased by downpours which canceled opening day scores.

"The rain was the greatest thing that could have happened to me," said Weaver, taking home the $750 first place money. He shot a 36 - hole 137 in a meet originally set for 54 holes. The rain cut out 15 holes.

Amateur Randy Petri of Houston and Shreveport amateur William Crenshaw tied for eighth with 143.

Defending champion Homero Blancas of Houston and now stationed at Ft. Polk, La., had four balls out of bounds and finished 13th with a 144.

Trailing Blancas by one stroke was David Boles of Brownwood, Tex., who pocketed $12.50.

PAT WASHBURN'S The Roundtable

PAUL GALLICO writing about PRIMO CARNERA, world heavyweight champion during 1933-34:

"No one who was present in Madison Square Garden the night that Primo Carnera was first introduced to American audiences will ever forget him as he came bounding down the aisle from the dressing room and climbed into the ring. It was a masterpiece of stage management.

"He wore black fighting trunks on the side of which was embroidered the head of a wild boar in red silk. He disdained the usual fighter's bathrobe and instead wore a sleeveless vest of a particularly hideous shade of green, and on his head a cap of the same shade, several sizes too large for him and with an enormous visor that made him look even larger than he was.

LEON SEE, the Frenchman, then his manager, was a small man. The bucket carriers and sponge wielders were chosen for size, too—diminutive men; everything was done to increase the impression of Primo's size.

"Carnera was the only giant I have ever seen who was well proportioned throughout his body for his height. His legs were massive and he was truly thewied like an oak. His waist was comparatively small and clean, but from it rose a torso like a Spanish hoghead from which sprouted two tremendous arms, the biceps of which stood out like grapefruit. His hands were like Virginia hams, and his fingers were ten red sausages.

"His head was large, even for the size of his body, and looking at him you were immediately struck with his dreadful gummy mouth and sharp, irregular, snaggle teeth. His lips were inclined to be loose and flabby. He had a good nose and fine, kind brown eyes. But his legs looked even more enormous and tree-like than they were, owing to the great blue bulging varicose veins that wandered down them on both sides and stuck out far enough so that you could have knocked them off with a baseball bat. His skin was brown and glistening and he invariably smelled of garlic."

Sportswriter ARNOLD HANO writing about pro footballer BOB ST. CLAIR:

"Robert Bruce St. Clair—'The Geek' to his San Francisco 49er teammates—stands six feet, nine inches tall, eats raw meat, wrestles a tornado, has toes bigger than his wife's fingers, and is so strong that he has graduated out of normal conversation and into a special frame of reverence.

"There is something about St. Clair that epitomizes professional football. This is the game Los Angeles Rams' line coach Don Paul says 'is played for pay by huge, finely trained animals' . . . And the game St. Clair says 'is built around roughness. There is a personal thrill out of knocking a man down, really hitting him. It is the only satisfaction a lineman has. It gets you up, hitting a man, it gives you a jolt of that old adrenaline.'"

San Francisco 49er running back J. D. SMITH:

"I love to hit them. I like to see their faces when they get up."

PAUL O'NEIL talking about running a sub-four minute mile:

"The art of running the mile consists, in essence, of reaching the threshold of unconsciousness at the instant of breathing the tape."

Rules Conclave Set Saturday

DALLAS (AP) — Southwest Conference coaches will conduct a session on rules interpretation today in conjunction with Saturday's meeting of the Southwest Football Officials Association.

Abe Martin, Texas Christian coach and member of the national rules committee, will conduct the officials' rules meeting.

President of the association is Bailey McCreath of Beaumont.

Allen Is Signed

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University has signed Tyler's Algin Allen to a baseball scholarship. Coach Alex Hooks announced.

Duck Hunters Get a Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas hunters will have about 10 percent more hunting days this season than last, and can fire on canvasback and redhead ducks.

New hunting provisions were disclosed in 1964-65 basic regulations for migratory waterfowl and coots announced today by Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall.

Texas may set its duck hunting season within the outside dates prescribed in the federal regulations, and also may exercise the choice of season of consecutive hunting days or split seasons with a loss of 10 percent of shooting days.

The state also has an option of seasons with differing bag and possession limits and of differing lengths.

Texas is included in the Central Flyway states. Others are Colorado, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Wyoming.

For Texas and other Central Flyway states the outside dates are Saturday, Oct. 3 and Sunday, Jan. 3.

Texas can select concurrent open seasons on ducks and coots of 40 consecutive days or a split season totaling 36 days with basic limits on ducks other than mergansers of four daily and eight in possession. Last year the limits on birds were the same but the season was limited to 35 consecutive days or 32 if split.

The limits on coots in Texas and other Central Flyway states will be 10 daily and 20 in possession, up from eight and 16 last year.

The outside dates for the goose season are Oct. 10 and Jan. 10 for the Central Flyways. The number of shooting days will be the same as last year and so will the bag and possession limits.

A 75-day goose season, whether of consecutive days or split, again may be chosen in the Central Flyway states, with the daily bag and possession limit continuing as five.

The Web Air Force Base golf team was in seventh place after the first round of the Air Training Command Golf tournament currently being held at Mather AFB, Calif.

In the senior division, Col. A. F. Taute, wing commander, was tied for 10th place. He had an opening round of 82. The local senior division team stood seventh after the first day.

Women's Division play had Capt. June Daniels of Webb AFB hospital in third place with a 97.

Arrange your hands close together as you address the ball or they certainly are going to separate at the top and ruin your swing. Whether your grip is interlocking, overlapping, or 10-fingered, your left thumb should be along the shaft a trifle to the right of center with the right thumb firmly over the left thumb and the fingers snugly together so they work as a flexible unit. The club lies in the hooked left forefinger and angles so the tips of the last two fingers press and secure it against the butt of the left hand. It lies at the roots of the right hand fingers with the tips of the middle two fingers applying the holding pressure.

Drouth May Mean Higher Food Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spreading and deepening drouth conditions are raising serious threats to crop production and farm income in many parts of the country. Higher prices of some foods could result.

Without doubt, volume will fall considerably below the Agriculture Department's Aug. 1 forecast that crop production will be less than 1 per cent below last year's record high.

Vital pasture for livestock is being damaged. So are such crops as corn, sorghum grain, soybeans, cotton and sugar beets.

There is no likelihood, however, that production will be reduced enough to create any national shortage.

The department is speeding emergency aid to many farmers. It already has granted permission to graze and cut what little hay there is on land that had been retired from production under government payment programs.

Department officials are concerned that if the dry weather continues much longer in areas where cattle are dependent on grass there could be a heavy liquidation of herds, with a consequent tumble in cattle and other livestock prices and possible overcrowding of marketing and processing facilities.

The drouth it having a serious impact on milk production in some areas. The department is expected to take emergency action soon to increase producer prices of milk in 13 metropolitan marketing areas in Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas, Kentucky, Texas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

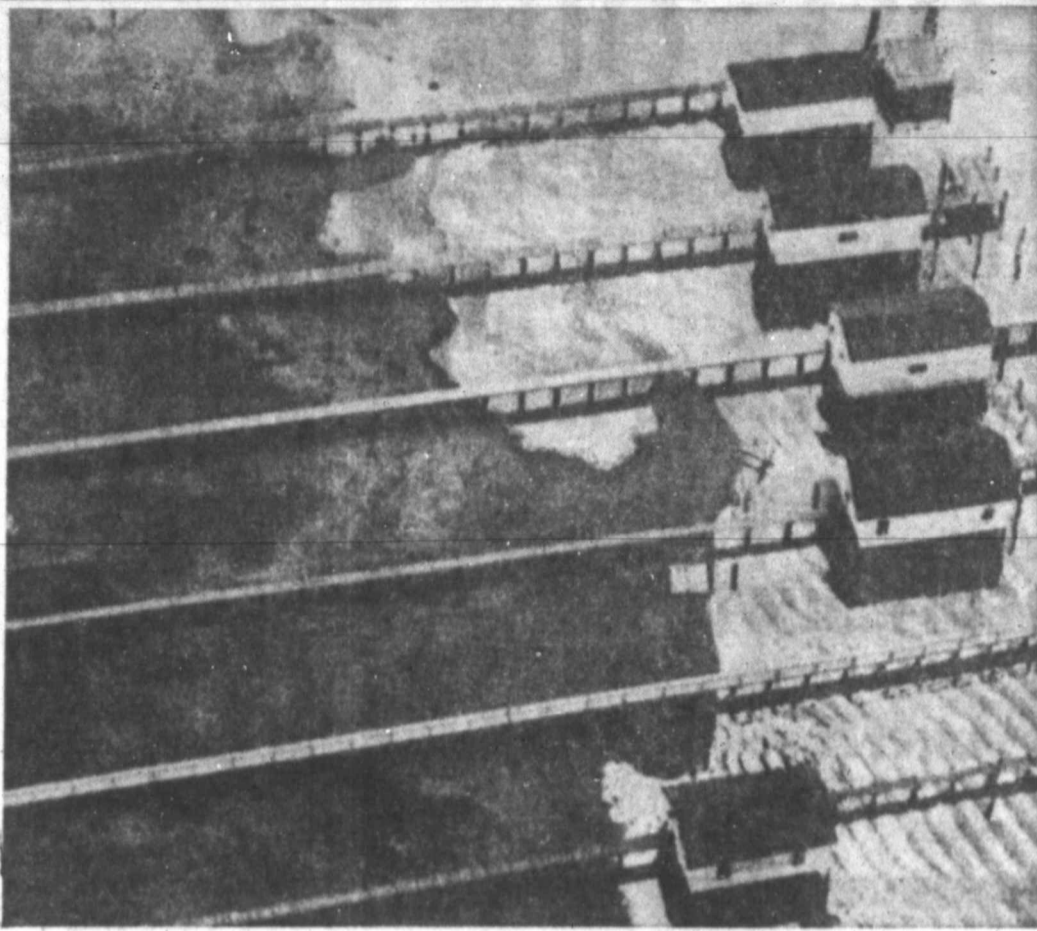

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today that unfavorable livestock prices are cutting down on usage of corn and other livestock feed grains and feed supplements.

It predicted that usage of feed grains during the livestock production year beginning Oct. 1 will be slightly smaller than the 149 million tons expected to be consumed during the current year. Usage of these grains has dipped from the record high of 153 million tons fed during the 1961-62 year.

The department said there has been a gradual reduction in livestock and in the quantity of feed given individual animals. Prices of feed grains have held strong while those of livestock have weakened.

Reports of drouth damage to this year's corn crop in wide areas of the Midwest and Southwest could bring a sharper reduction in animal feeding than now indicated.

Shrinking Great Lakes

Water normally extends far to the left under the docks, but Great Lakes water levels have fallen drastically in recent months. ## Great Lakes Suffering From Severe Water Lack CHICAGO (AP) — The prosperous Great Lakes region, playland and workland of the Midwest, is suffering a multi-million-dollar thirst. Water levels are at record lows.

The lack of water, attributed to subnormal precipitation since 1960, has boosted the cost of shipping, reduced property values, and killed off wildlife and fishing.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers recently added to the gloom when it predicted that water levels would continue to drop at least until 1965. The engineers said only Lake Superior will not be drastically affected.

Water levels dipped sharply this summer. Lakes Michigan and Huron now have their lowest levels since records were started in 1860, and Lakes Ontario and Erie levels are close to 30-year-old records.

Hearing Waived

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Robert Barrow, 42, of Corpus Christi, Tex., waived a preliminary hearing Thursday on armed robbery and assault to kill charges.

The charges against Barrow and a companion, Miss Lidia Veliz, 21, grew out of a loan company holdup and subsequent shooting. Miss Veliz was charged Wednesday with being an accomplice to the robbery.

Houston Begins Sprays To Combat Sickness

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Emergency forces sprayed ditches today after officials alerted the city of an outbreak of encephalitis, believed to have caused 12 deaths in the past month.

Mayor Louie Welch declared war Thursday on the female culex mosquito whose bite causes the disease, which is also known as "sleeping sickness."

Dr. C. A. Pigford, city health officer, said about 100 cases of the disease have been reported in a 30-day period. He said a majority of the cases were in the near downtown area but other scattered cases were north and east of the infected area.

He said the carrier is one of the common mosquitoes and urged Houston residents to take all possible precautions against mosquito bites.

Pest control firms were called into an emergency meeting by Welch to organize a city-wide battle against the mosquito.

Experts from the communicable disease control center of the U.S. Public Health Service in Atlanta, Ga., were to arrive today to advise Dr. Pigford and other health authorities on emergency measures.

The spraying of ditches will continue until the whole city has been covered. The city appropriated $5,000 to start the spraying operations.

Dr. Pigford said the disease is carried to humans only by the blood-sucking female mosquito, which is abroad from dusk to dark.

He said the mosquito spreads to humans a virus that it might have picked up from infected birds or snakes. He said there is no immunization and patients are advised to see their doctor.

"Most cases of encephalitis, by far, recover," Dr. Pigford said. He said many patients recover even after they reach the critical stage.

He said the outbreak in the Houston area is a virus type called St. Louis encephalitis. He said many people may have it without knowing it and most cases are not severe. He said it is sometimes mistaken for another virus.

He said danger signs are extremely high fever, followed by drowsiness, severe headache, stiff neck, disturbance of the eye muscle and occasional mental disorder.
