

Lyndon Sets First Official Campaign Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson makes the first avowedly political trip of his campaign tonight, flying to Pennsylvania for a one-night stand.

The President, who will leave the White House by helicopter at sundown, will fly direct to Harrisburg, the Pennsylvania capital, to address Democrats at a $100-a-plate dinner.

Then, after a few goodnight handshakes, he will return to Washington.

Party leaders in Harrisburg predicted 6,000 diners would attend the event in the Farm Show Arena building. Tickets have been on sale for days but the White House did not acknowledge until Wednesday that the President would attend.

Johnson made his first trip of the campaign Monday, addressing the annual AFL-CIO Labor Day rally in Detroit.

Although this affair had been, for 16 years, the traditional launching pad for Democratic campaigns, Johnson declined to regard it as the kickoff for his vote drive.

In fact, he wouldn't even agree that it was a political trip, though the Democrats paid his air fare.

Against this backdrop, one reporter asked Wednesday when and if he expected to begin his campaign. The President hesitated for a moment, then smiled and replied, "Well, when I do I'll tell you."

Johnson went on to say that his Harrisburg foray would be political. But he gave it no kickoff label.

Miller Urges 'Honest Vote'

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller, the Republican party's hard-hitting candidate for vice president, twice has raised a question of whether this November's election will be an honest one.

The statements were the toughest that Miller has directed toward the President during the New York congressman's campaign.

In Manchester, N.H., Wednesday night, Miller told a cheering audience of 2,500 that GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater and he believe in the democratic process. "And we don't want it made a sham of by the powers in this administration."

Continuing, Miller said: "By that, I mean that when our votes are cast in Chicago on Election Day, I want them counted on election night."

"And when our votes are cast in Texas on Election Day, I want them counted on election night."

In a speech to a crowd of approximately 500 earlier at Rutland, Vt., Miller said he hoped there would be an "honest election process" this year "even though I sometimes wonder if Lyndon Johnson wants it that way or not."

He also referred at Rutland to counting the Chicago and Texas votes.

He did not elaborate on the references.

Texas is the President's home state. Some Republicans charged in 1960, after the Democrats took Illinois by a narrow margin, that there had been vote tampering in Democratic-controlled Chicago.

In another part of his Rutland speech, Miller said the majority of the American people want clean and honest government "even if Lyndon Johnson doesn't."

No Sign Found Of Meteorite

SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — A scientific team spent another fruitless day in their search for a meteorite which blazed across the sky Sept. 3, before crashing to earth in a remote region of Sequoia National Park.

The team of Griffith Park Observatory staff members, headed by Ronald Ortit, is racing the clock, hoping to find some fragments of the celestial body before minerals and water contaminate them.

Tower Defends Attack On Barry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., a leading GOP backer of Sen. Barry Goldwater, took the Senate floor Wednesday to defend the Arizona senator against an attack on him Tuesday by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Sen. Tower accused Fulbright of "deliberate falsification" of Goldwater's views. Fulbright said he feared that Goldwater, as president, might "provoke or stumble into" a nuclear war.

Defected Soldier Back In Custody

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) — An American soldier who asked for political asylum in Czechoslovakia in 1959 is in U.S. Army custody, Army European headquarters announced today.

He is Spec. 5 John B. Witt, who went to the Communist country in November 1959 and lived there until February 1961.

Then he went to Austria and asked for political asylum there. Army officials learned Tuesday that Witt planned to re-enter Germany to surrender and he was taken into custody in Mittenwald, Germany.

His wife, Mattie Louise, lives at Springfield, Tenn.

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park has indefinitely postponed enforcement of his government's controversial press control law.

The five-week-old measure has been under sharp attack from journalists who charged it was designed to muzzle the press. The government said the

Suffocation Ruled In Death

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — The Navy has announced that William Yarborough, 28, of Bonham, Tex., suffocated Tuesday in the hold of a barge docked here.

He was an engineman third class and the son of Mrs. Lazett Yarborough of Bonham.

The Navy said Yarborough went down into the barge compartment to check a malfunction of equipment.

Before he was overcome for lack of oxygen, it said, Yarborough called for help and two other sailors tried to rescue him. They also were overcome but were pulled from the hold and revived.

BERLIN (AP) — Two East Berlin couples and their 11 children escaped to West Berlin during the night hidden in a refrigerator truck beneath meat.

The children were drugged with sleeping pills to prevent them from making any noise while border guards were inspecting the truck.

West Berlin police said the children ranged in age from 1 to 11 years. They were taken to a refugee camp to join their parents after a checkup.

VIENNA (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Communist government has appealed to pensioners to give up retirement and return to their jobs because of an acute labor shortage.

Radio Prague announced that pensioners could return to manual work for 120 days a year without losing their pensions.

Failure to attract more young people to farming jobs has aggravated the labor problem.

Boom In Crime Worries Britain

LONDON (AP) — Britain is experiencing a crime boom. The cleverest lawbreakers this country has ever known are reversing an old axiom to prove that crime does pay.

Last year's highlight was the $7-million great train robbery in Buckinghamshire, the biggest cash crime in history, carried off with breath-taking precision.

This year may be known as the big escape year. Hardly a day passes but escapes are reported.

No. 1 escapee was Charles Frederick Wilson, one of the train robbers who had hardly settled in the maximum security cell where he was sentenced to spend 30 years in solitary. His bloodless delivery by a slick gang was so notorious that newspapers began referring to Harold Wilson, chief of the Labor party, as "the other" less-known Wilson.

The great train robbery and the Wilson escape opened British eyes to the fact that this country's criminals through the years have been outracing the law.

It is estimated that the chances of a holdup man in London will be caught and convicted today is 3-1 in the criminal's favor. For house burglars the rate is 6-1 and for auto thieves as high as 10-1.

A Cambridge University professor of criminology estimates that not more than 15 per cent of crime committed in Britain is brought into the open for punishment.

Even when a criminal is caught his chances of escaping justice "never fall below 50 per cent," according to a Cambridge Institute study.

Before World War II the conviction rate in Britain was always over 50 per cent, the study noted.

It is estimated more than $76 million worth of property will be stolen or obtained by fraud this year.

British criminologists and the newspapers have been noting with interest that United States police are using computers to fight crime gangs—to trap them with machine data that forecasts thrusts in advance.

This may not work in Britain because there are few permanent criminal gangs here. British crime rings, a study reported, generally are composed of individual criminals brought together for a specific job and disbanded afterward. They recruit the extra men needed.

The gangs organized to do the big jobs — such as London West End jewel shop breaks — get the best tools. They have tackled safe with thermal lances capable of 5,500-degree heat thrust. Police experts say that gangs will lay out $10,000 for equipment to stage some jobs.

Where are the police in this race with crime? Hopelessly behind, many critics claim. Scandals in their ranks have shaken morale and public confidence. The police claim they are not supplied the necessary manpower or equipment.

Lubbock (AP) — D. W. Lewter, a feedlot operator, has filed a $11 million damage suit against John Murchison and Clint Murchison Jr. of Dallas, doing business as Murchison Bros.

The civil suit, believed the largest in Lubbock County history, grew out of a recent court decision placing the multi-million-dollar Lewter feed lots here in receivership for liquidation of all assets.

Dist. Judge Robert Bean named Tom Simmons Jr., Lubbock cattleman, receiver last April 16.

Ralph Denies Son Was Paid While Student

By The Associated Press
Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., said Wednesday that his son, Richard, now a government employee, never drew federal pay while he was a University of Texas law student.

He said this statement was being distributed by his campaign staff in Austin, because "in many speeches over Texas my Republican opponent has charged that I kept my son on the federal payroll at $12,000 a year while he was finishing law school."

George Bush, the GOP candidate seeking to unseat Yarborough, called meanwhille for relaxation of government controls on agriculture as he wound up a day of South Plains campaigning with an evening speech at Plainview.

Bush likewise plugged for support of "Democrats who are sick and tired" of Yarborough's record, declaring he would be "a senator for all Texans, regardless of party label, and not one who only represents the left wing of the Democratic party."

Yarborough said his son was graduated from the Texas law school and with the Army in Germany before the senator was elected in 1957. Richard Yarborough was released from active duty in 1957, he said, and took a Washington job late in the fall of 1958 as an assistant legislative assistant at $5,456 to $6,982 a year.

"After several years service he was promoted to legislative assistant," the senator continued. "The federal pay raise act of 1962 . . . raised his pay to $12,115. . . His present salary is $12,922, a figure comparable with the salary of other Senate legislative assistants in Washington of equivalent education and experience."

Bush said he favors "more freedom for the farmer and less control" in calling for "an agricultural system responsive to the basic law of supply and demand." He added:

"I do not have any simple answers to the complex problems, but I do believe we should strive to get the government farther out of the agriculture business."

Stanton Shows Enrollment Up

STANTON—Schools here are showing an enrollment gain with 832 pupils in elementary and secondary schools.

The elementary schools (grades 1-8) have a total of 567 on the rolls, and the high school 265. Sixteen Negro children are included in the high school figures as the district proceeds with its plan of orderly integration.

Operations are off to a fast start, and this includes football, for Stanton has one game under its belt and another scheduled this Friday evening.

Second Victoria Crash Kills Two More Fliers

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — A mile of South Texas countryside and one engine descended about 50 yards from the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kaligh. One piece of debris slashed a shoulder of the Kaligh family's collie dog.

Kaligh heard a noise and looked up in time to see something explode amid a thin cloud. A parachute appeared and parts of the aircraft showered down. A Navy spokesman said investigators had been unable to determine whether the impact killed the student flier and a mechanical ejector opened his parachute or faulty rigging kept the chute from saving him.

Within a short time the TFB Cougar jet trainer cracked up 75 miles southwest of Victoria near Alice, where another student was making practice landings. Marine Corps Capt. Anthony Wynn, 32, and his student were killed in the trainer crash. Wynn's wife and two children live at Beeville, Tex. He was the son of C. G. Wynn of Arcadia, Calif.

Navy authorities withheld the names of the student fliers pending notification of kin.

Johnson, Barry Both Call In Help On Foreign Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater, seeming to hit on the same idea at the same time, have mustered some all-star reinforcements for the campaign battles ahead over foreign policy.

The President announced at his news conference Wednesday "the formation of a panel of distinguished citizens who will consult with the President during the coming months on major international problems facing the United States."

Goldwater, his Republican foe, was also turning out a speech in Seattle naming a seven-man team headed by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon to confer with free world leaders in "a serious and historically significant attempt to regroup freedom's badly scattered forces while there is still time."

"We do not intend to rubber-stamp four years of mistake, retreat and weakness in world affairs," Goldwater declared.

C-City Schools On Even Keel

COLORADO CITY — Enrollment in Colorado City Schools held at an even keel with last year, Supt. Frank Wilson reported Wednesday.

Total enrollment was 1,778, which included 436 in the primary school (grades 1-3) and 421 in Hutchinson school (grades 4-6). The junior high school (7-8-9) has 421 also, and senior high school (10-11-12) has 322 students.

Wallace, which has served Negro elementary and high school pupils, has 178 in grades two through 12. This year 15 of the Wallace pupils are attending the primary school.

The faculty is complete and operations are going smoothly as the school program moves into its second week, reported Supt. Wilson.

A defensive lapse enabled South, the declarer, successfully to ride home a four spade contract that had entered the contest as a distinct long shot.

West opened the queen of diamonds and East signaled encouragement with the ten. East overtook the continuation with the king of diamonds and then he cashed the ace. On the third round West discarded the deuce of clubs.

After lengthy deliberation, East continued with a fourth round of diamonds. He reasoned that, if his partner held as many as three spades headed by the ten, the diamond play would promote a trump trick for the defense. Southuffed the trick with the ten of spades, however, cashed the ace of clubs and crossed over to the ace of hearts to discard his remaining heart on dummy's king of clubs. The spade finesse was taken next and, when the king dropped under the ace on the next lead, declarer claimed the rest of the tricks.

In the post-mortem discussion, it was observed that a heart shift by East at trick four would have defeated the contract, for West's queen will dislodge the ace of hearts before South is able to unblock the ace of clubs, and the latter is unable to obtain his heart discard.

East contended that West should have discarded the seven of hearts on the third round of diamonds to suggest that he had an honor in that suit, in which case the heart shift would have become more clearly indicated.

West countered by pointing out that his actual discard of the deuce of clubs indicated that he did not have the ace of that suit and, therefore, East should lead a heart regardless, for unless West holds the queen the defense will be unable to win a trick in the suit.

It was observed that West could have assisted his partner by trumping the third round of diamonds in order to lead a heart himself. This might not have worked out well if South had the king of hearts and East the ace of clubs. In any case East's course of action was clearly marked out at trick four, for he could hardly lose by shifting to a heart.

Key Project Missing

A list of nine streets on which 50 blocks of paving would be constructed was presented to City Commissioners Tuesday evening. The project is estimated to run about $160,000, of which $130,000 would be borne by property owners.

It is encouraging to note that six of the streets are in the north part of town, where paving is needed so urgently. Several of these projected jobs would provide through routes over areas which now are habitually in bad condition due to critical erosion problems.

Conversely, it is with considerable concern that we note the South Scurry Street project is not included.

Perhaps one of the fears concerned with the stabilization program is being borne out, namely that once the remnants of Scurry were protected from constant and costly maintenance by preventative stabilization, the pressing demand for paving would be lessened. Although it is not heavy duty paving, it is paving nevertheless.

Yet the fact is that, outside of streets which also are highways, Scurry likely carries more traffic than any other thoroughfare in the city. This condition will increase rather than lessen, especially when the new Highland Shopping Center is completed. Eventually the Scurry job will have to be done. Why wait until the shopping center is undertaken and traffic is much heavier than now? This would simply compound inconvenience.

Red Perversion Threatens Tradition

A tradition of academic freedom, perverted to subversive uses by Communist infiltration, may be lost in Latin America unless it can be modified to be compatible with democratic institutions and national security.

The autonomous national universities of most Latin lands have been bulwarks of intellectual freedom designed to withstand the pressures of feudal regimentation and recurrent military dictatorship. They have been fountainheads of Latin American democratic movements.

Communists, however, have infiltrated their faculties and established subversive cadres of "professional students" for on and off campus agitation that abuse the universities' immunities and police action. This use of the national universities as sanctuaries for subversives is compelling Latin governments to modify the institutions' "autonomy." The grave question is whether the governments will exercise the intelligent restraint necessary to prevent security-compelled intervention from wrecking genuine academic freedom. Two recent examples of the problem occurred in Ecuador and El Salvador.

The military junta ruling Ecuador for more than a year now, reportedly with substantial respect for individual freedoms, closed that country's national university for two months last winter, sent police to quell campus demonstrations, and cleaned out a hard core of agitators. The resulting issue of academic freedom there is as yet unresolved.

In El Salvador, the government blocked a move by Dr. Fabio Castillo, far-left rector of the national university, to bring in visiting Soviet professors, exchange students with Russia, and get equipment aid from Moscow.

Similar conflicts between national security and academic freedom may be expected throughout Latin America. Sympathetic observers in the United States can only hope that the Latin Americans can devise the means to guarantee both.

David Lawrence Parochial School Aid Seen As Issue

WASHINGTON — A religious issue has suddenly been catapulted into the presidential campaign. This is not novel, because the late President Kennedy faced it also in the 1960 campaign.

The "Baptist Standard" — through its editor, Dr. E. S. James of Dallas — asked President Johnson and Sen. Goldwater, respectively, just what position each takes on the subject of federal aid to parochial schools.

"Politics is the art of the possible. Mr. Kennedy fully realizes this. He could not have been elected on a platform which promised freedom of religion in education, so he ran on a platform which promised to discriminate against church-related school children.

REV. BLUM discussed the "practicalities of politics" and pointed out that the movement for "civil rights for colored school children" is stimulated by pressure groups who influence the voting. He called, therefore, for the organization of pressure groups throughout the country to get behind what he termed the "civil rights of independent children" numbering about seven million.

Among the precedents cited for federal aid is the legislation passed by Congress known as the "GI Bill of Rights" under which federal funds were used for education in church-related schools and colleges. More than a million veterans were given tuition grants by the federal government, and they used these to attend Protestant, Catholic and Jewish as well as public institutions of higher education. They enjoyed freedom of choice, and the funds were available even to those who chose to study theology. Dr. Blum wrote:

"MR. JOHNSON responded that he would oppose any federal program, including assistance to schools, which does not strictly conform" to the "American tradition of separation of church and state... as expressed in the First Amendment" to the Constitution.

Sen. Goldwater, on the other hand, said that he is opposed to federal aid to education as a general thing because he feels it is an "improper intervention by the central government" into a public sphere "which both traditionally and constitutionally falls within the exclusive jurisdiction" of the states. But he has insisted, he said, that if such federal aid is deemed essential "it should be made available to all our children by giving it to non-profit schools, whether public or private," since "millions of children in non-public schools need such aid just as much as do those in the public schools."

"IF SUCH DIRECT grants with freedom of choice are legal on the college level, they are all the more legal on the elementary and secondary level. This was made emphatically clear by the United States Supreme Court in the Barnette Case of 1943. Since children attend school under compulsion, said the court, the Constitution guarantees them greater freedom in education than college students whose attendance is optional."

There is no doubt that the issue is a burning one among Catholics in the United States. In recent years, with the growth of population, the Catholic churches have been faced with a problem of expansion requiring a bigger drain on the financial resources of church members than ever before in history. The feeling among many of the church leaders is that certain federal loans and grants for the construction of facilities and classrooms in which non-religious subjects would be taught are in line with grants and loans made to non-denominational schools and colleges.

"THE POSITION of many of the Catholic authorities who feel that federal aid to parochial schools is constitutional was set forth by the Rev. Virgil Blum, S.J., chairman of the department of political science at Marquette University, in an article in "Our Sunday Visitor," published in June 1962. He had made an extensive analysis of then-pending legislation, and he cited authorities to support his contention that federal aid to all schools for the teaching of non-religious subjects is constitutional.

"Why then," asked Rev. Blum, "does the Kennedy administration insist on discriminating against the nation's independent school children?"

"THE ANSWER, it seems to me, is simple. President Kennedy, like the congressmen, is a politician. Politics is his basis of action. He is a political realist. Hence, political considerations, not constitutional, are the decisive factors in his education policy.

Billy Graham

How can I rid myself of hate toward a relative who tried to cheat me out of a share of a family estate?
G.W.
Hate is one of the greatest spillovers of health and happiness. No matter what amount of money is involved, you cannot afford to "hate." Hatred spreads like a cancer through the system, and brings disorder to the body and spirit. Money cannot buy a shattered nervous system or repair a damaged soul.
The antidote for hatred is love, and love is a gift from God. How can you achieve the love of God? First, confess your hate to God. Tell Him you have taken the wrong course, that you have "missed the mark," that you have sinned. Then, God, for Christ's sake, will blot out your hatred and put His love in its place. Next, go to your relative and ask him to forgive you. This is the road to happiness, to health, and to your fair share of the inheritance. Love always accomplishes more, in every area, than hatred.

James Marlow Goldwater Task Force New Political Switch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, in one of the most unusual tactics in the history of American political campaigns, has announced the creation of a seven-man "task force on peace and freedom."

He said this group — headed by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon — in the weeks ahead "will discuss with leaders of the free world ways in which freedom's cause can best be advanced while keeping the peace."

professor of political science at the University of Notre Dame and an expert on Soviet problems. In one of his books Goldwater credited the professor with being one of those "who have contributed to my thinking, writing and speaking."

Dr. Niemeyer said Wednesday night: "I had suggested such a trip abroad as necessary."

But Nixon's office in New York said he has "no plans for leaving the country for this purpose at this time."

abroad or, perhaps, of even consulting with them as a group. He told newsmen he would consult with them as individuals.

When the Republican National Committee Wednesday night followed up Goldwater's announcement by releasing the names of the seven-man task force, there was no indication in the wording any of them would be expected to go abroad.

One member of the group, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, top Republican on the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, said he was unable to throw any light on what the group would do.

Quaint Medicine-Taking Hobby

NEW YORK (AP) — Every body should have a hobby. I have what I consider the ideal hobby.

My hobby is taking medicine. It is the greatest sport of the 20th century.

To ski you have to have snow or water. To golf you need a golf course. To hunt you need a gun and something that will run from you. To fish — well, at least you need a hook and a lot of patience.

BUT TO TAKE medicine all you need is—medicine. There are thousands to choose from, and scores of new ones come on the market each year.

You can make the hobby as expensive or inexpensive as you choose.

The fellow who wouldn't lend you a dime to keep you from starving is glad to let you sample his medicine.

As a beginning hobbyist, you may try to take any and all kinds of medicine. This is the mark of the overzealous amateur. To him there is no difference between a medicine to rid one of tapeworms and a liniment to soothe a sprain.

A true connoisseur learns early to specialize.

YOU CAN choose medicines designed to cure or alleviate specific ailments — such as colic, colitis, chromium deficiency, or the common cold.

You can confine yourself to liquid medicines, capsules, pills, pellets, or medicines which fizz when you put them into water.

You can even specialize in medicines of a certain color, several colors, those which have either a picture on the bottle, or those restricted purely to printed matter.

I decided to specialize in wonder drugs. The wonderful thing about many a wonder drug is its aura of romance and mystery.

Even if it turns out only to be another cure for the hiccups, you've had the excitement of daring the new, of being at least a footnote in the long story of medical progress.

TAKING MEDICINE as a hobby has a distinct social advantage. It makes you the life of any cocktail party.

People are bored with the conversation of skiers, golfers, sailing enthusiasts and African safari survivors. But they throng around me excitedly when they find out that my hobby is taking wonder drugs.

"What's the one that does you the most good?" they invariably ask.

"Aspirin," I have to admit.

To Your Good Health Floating Kidney Not Very Unusual

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: In early pregnancy, I developed a high fever and was in the hospital for 10 days.

Months later, after my healthy baby was born, I had X-rays which showed a floating kidney. My doctor said, "Don't worry unless it gets worse."

Can you explain this to me? Will it occur again? What can be done to prevent such a problem when I am pregnant again? — JANE

A floating kidney is one which moves more than the usual degree as you change position. It does not call for worry or treatment unless it becomes annoying.

From the clues in your letter, I suspect that you had some form of kidney infection which could account for the fever. This infection, in turn, might have started because of some obstruction in the urine flow during your pregnancy.

This does not mean that the same trouble will develop in a future pregnancy.

Since your obstetrician knows your medical history, he can watch closely for signs of urinary tract infection, and start treatment early if any suspicious symptom appears.

Dear Dr. Molner: What do you think of heart catheterization? Is there any danger in taking this delicate test? Will it determine the extent of damage to any of the valves? — MRS. V. D. R.

I think we'd be in a sorry situation if we DIDN'T have catheterization, because it gives necessary information about the heart and the flow of blood through it.

This includes faulty valves as well as defects in the partitions between the chambers of the heart, defects which, for the most part, are amenable to surgery.

I cannot say that there isn't any danger, but it is very small, and the procedure has increased in safety over the years in which it has been in use. Patients, from babies to adults, are having this done daily across the country.

Even if the danger were rather substantial, I believe that it would be more than balanced by the safety inherent in knowing a great deal about a heart before surgery is begun.

Fat! My leaflet, "The Lost Secret of Reducing," tells how to get rid of it the easy way. For your copy write to: Dr. Molner in care of the Herald, enclosing a long self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim Potent Lure Of The Fast Buck

Eugene O'Neill was a perfectionist. Every sentence he published was painstakingly scrubbed and rewritten many times before it was offered to the printer. Few writers can afford the luxury of such care—few would even want to.

Perhaps that spells the difference between the great writers and the also-rans. Certainly, O'Neill was the greatest dramatist our young nation has produced. None has so carefully peopled the stage with characters of depth, with no thought for the tricks so often used in current stage productions to put their works across.

changes in his plays—not even a comma—and he never collaborated in creative effort. Before his death in 1953 after 30 years of creativity, he had 22 full-length or longer plays and 13 one act plays. Three other plays were published in the next six years after his death.

HIS PARTLY finished plays worried him the most. With his wife's help, he destroyed these so that someone else would not "finish" them and cause them to be published (or so he thought). But wives and publishers sometimes take liberties, and against O'Neill's expressed request, they published one of his unfinished works. In fact, the manuscript contained a leaf by O'Neill stating it was unfinished and was to be destroyed in the event of his death.

All serious critics note that the work might have been polished by the dramatist had he lived and become a major work. As it stands, it is no credit to the bulk of his works nor to his name as a distinguished dramatist.

A RECENT WRITER points out that O'Neill created his drama to be read, rather than to be produced on the stage. Perhaps this is so. At any rate, few modern companies will tackle an O'Neill work for the simple reason that his characterizations cannot be brought to life by amateurs or shallow beginners with no "feel" for the material. More than this, the sets called for in his plays are beyond the means of small companies and are more easily created in the mind of a reader, than on a stage.

IT'S CURIOUS that a man's wishes and desires are so arbitrarily dismissed once he has passed from the picture. And usually, it is in the name of "adding to his glory." In this case, it will detract more than help the dead man's reputation, as he himself knew. Otherwise, he would have published the play himself.

It is far more likely that the posthumous publication was accomplished in the name of a fast buck, which O'Neill's name was certain to earn, no matter what qualifies the play might have. —V. GLENN COOTES

THERE IS NO DOUBT he hoped that his work would be considered "literature," rather than a play of the moment, designed for a casual audience. In this effort, he more than succeeded. It is indicative of the worth of his book, that he is the only American dramatist ever to be selected for a Nobel prize.

He took great care with his work, more so with the reading versions than the acting scripts. He permitted no howling choice of the convention. Then rather than seem to dictate the Humphrey nomination, he ran various names up the flagpole until he was certain the convention would salute Humphrey.

MILLER IS NOT likely to be a disappointment because nobody expects much of him. He has nowhere to go in the popular estimation except up. But Humphrey is a national figure. He has been a presidential contender in his own right. He has been Majority Leader of the Senate in all but title. And while he's not likely to be a disappointment, a drag on the ticket, a political kiss of death, there are discernible reasons why he might become so.

FOR IT'S conceivable that Mr. Johnson's choice has reduced the Democrats from a national party to a sectional one. Instead of attaining a "consensus," as is claimed, the Democrats have in Hubert Humphrey one of the few men in the country who is totally unacceptable in as many as 10 or 12 American states—the South. He is only dubiously acceptable to great segments of the Union where Walter Reuther and the Laborite wing and the Leftist wing are regarded with suspicion and often with hostility. As a long time member, along with Reuther, of Americans for Democratic Action, Humphrey can fairly be charged with sympathy for the ADA program: recognition of Red China, softness toward Castro, appeasement of Russia. A vigorous examination of Humphrey's record, statements and associations could logically divide Democrats rather than unite them.

Holmes Alexander The Vice-Presidential Nominees

WASHINGTON — As the 1964 campaign gets into full swing, we can see that the first exchange of blows between Candidates Goldwater and Johnson was the picking of their running-mates. Which party, if either one, scored the advantage here?

Senator Goldwater's choice of Congressman Bill Miller was typical of Mr. Conservative in that it was an affair of the heart. Had the senator been more calculative, he would have swallowed his pride and have accepted Pennsylvania Governor Scranton's generous congratulations as a means of luring him to the ticket.

ALMOST ANY of the 16 Republican governors, or almost any well-known Republican senator—Morton of Kentucky, for example—would have given a distinction to the GOP slate which it frankly does not have with Bill Miller. The latter's Catholicism and his Eastern identification are insignificant qualifications.

We know now that Goldwater chose Miller for two reasons. One is, in the senator's words, that Miller has a style of political attack which "bugs" the Democratic presidential candidate. The other—the main—reason for the Miller choice is that he is a blood brother in arch-conservatism with Goldwater.

CONVERSELY, President Johnson's picking of Senator Hubert Humphrey was an exercise in calculation, virtually devoid of emotion. The spinning of the swift gears in LBJ's cerebration was as open to public view as if a glass plate had been inserted in the President's skull, where he keeps his apparatus for political computation. First he unloaded Robert Kennedy, who would have been the DISAPPOINTMENT because nobody expects much of him. He has nowhere to go in the popular estimation except up. But Humphrey is a national figure. He has been a presidential contender in his own right. He has been Majority Leader of the Senate in all but title. And while he's not likely to be a disappointment, a drag on the ticket, a political kiss of death, there are discernible reasons why he might become so.

J. A. Livingston Ivan Looks At Travel Costs

MOSCOW—V. M. Ankudinov, a genial man, as his job requires, surprised me by his comment even more than I am sure, I surprised him by my omission.

"You have not asked the one question I expected of you," he said. We had been talking for more than an hour in the office from which he directs the affairs of Intourist, the Soviet Union's overworked travel-and-tour agency.

"MOST FOREIGN journalists, when they talk about travel," he continued, "usually ask, 'Does the Soviet government allow its citizens to travel abroad — can they get the money?' I expected you to ask it, too."

"Well, now that you have brought it up, what is the answer?" I responded.

He smiled. He was well prepared. "The answer is that we are masters of our own land. Our people can travel abroad. And a Soviet citizen who travels abroad is always given enough foreign currency to pay his expenses plus a little bit more for pocket money."

"That doesn't mean if he goes to Paris he will have enough to go to the Lido and the Folies-Bergere and to do all the things young people might like. But surely he will have enough to eat and sleep and have some extra spending money."

"WOULD THAT apply to Soviet citizens wanting to come to America? Can they get dollars?"

"It all depends on the purpose of the trip. You must remember that it would cost about 180 rubles for a Soviet traveler to spend two weeks in Finland, perhaps 170 rubles for three weeks in Bulgaria and about 900 dollars, nearly 900 rubles, for three weeks in the United States. We have to consider the distance, the cost of the transportation."

"And we have to consider how we can best spend our foreign currency. Is it a good investment to let the citizen go to the United States? If he hasn't a good purpose, we would much rather use the foreign currency for the purchase of plants to produce chemicals and fertilizer."

JUDGING FROM the statistics compiled at the U. S. Embassy in Moscow, Mr. Ankudinov, in passing on applications for American travel, is a careful doer out of dollars. Only 96 Russians went to the United States last year as tourists. About 1,700 were permitted to go in delegations — as athletes, participating in contests with Americans, as scientific researchers, as performing artists, as writers and so on.

In contrast, nearly 20,000 Americans went to the Soviet Union. Of these, about 15,500 were tourists. The rest were in delegations of one sort or another, including performing artists, athletes, research and scientific groups, students, and so on. On an exchange basis, the Soviet Union is the big winner in currency. American tourists spend about $2,000,000 annually in Russia excluding souvenirs and other purchases. The Soviet reciprocal in the U. S. is almost nil.

SOVIET TOURISM abroad is as rigidly controlled as the program for investing in fertilizer plants, building new homes or conducting foreign trade. "Intourist earns about 20,000,000 rubles a year from services from all sources," said Mr. Ankudinov.

THUS DOES Intourist make value judgments on who, where, when, and how much Soviet citizens may spend abroad. It is the system of papa knows best, stated clearly by Premier Khrushchev in his address to the Supreme Soviet in July:

"Under socialism, the entire material basis of culture and public health is the property of the people; society undertakes to be responsible for the upbringing of the growing generation, for education, for the protection of public health, for pension insurance, and for the living conditions of the working people."

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Hornung will lead Green Bay to the Western Conference title and Y.A. Tittle's magic will make it four straight for New York in the East, setting up another Packer-Giant showdown for the National Football League title Dec. 27 at Yankee Stadium.

The Packers are generally being picked to dethrone the Chicago Bears in the West, with Baltimore and possibly Detroit and Minnesota challenging. The East looks like a wide open scramble among New York, St. Louis and Cleveland, with Washington a long-shot possibility. Despite the Giants' sad 1-4 record in the exhibition games and player shake-ups of earthquake proportions, Allie Sherman still has the old Bald-

Eagle and a flock of nifty pass catchers. St. Louis is the soundest club in the East but they still have to prove themselves under championship fire and may be a bit thin in defense. Cleveland has added passing strength with rookie flanker Paul Warfield to complement Jim Brown's running, but something always seems to go wrong. With Sonny Jurgensen, rookie Charley

Taylor and veteran Sam Huff in the lineup, Washington is highly respected.

Here's the way it looks from here before the opening gun:

- WESTERN CONFERENCE
1. Green Bay
 2. Chicago
 3. Baltimore
 4. Detroit
 5. Minnesota
 6. Los Angeles
 7. San Francisco
- EASTERN CONFERENCE
1. New York
 2. St. Louis
 3. Cleveland
 4. Washington
 5. Pittsburgh
 6. Dallas
 7. Philadelphia

All-District Performers

Gathered around head coach Oscar Boeker are four players who could mean the difference in a conference championship at Forsan this fall—all four were on the all-district team a year ago. Jim Alexander (second from left) was an all-district performer while David Roberson (24), Kent Sneed (4) and Ray McKinnon were on the honorable mention squad. Alexander is a senior guard, Sneed a senior end, McKinnon a sophomore quarterback and Roberson a senior fullback.

Jim Anderson Leads Lamesa

How good is Jim Anderson, Lamesa's big halfback? Coach Don Robbins of Big Spring High School says the explosive runner is probably better than Jay White, an all-state candidate for the Golden Tornadoes last year until he was injured.

Robbins points out that Anderson can do more things than White in a football way. In addition to being a thunderous runner, Anderson is the finest pass receiver on the Lamesa team, is a good blocker and perhaps is better on defense than in any other phase of the game. He backs the line for the Lamesans.

White is the speedster who raced 55 yards for Lamesa's only score against Big Spring last year in a game Big Spring won, 14-7. He gained a total of 75 yards in 22 carries for a 3.5-yard average.

Yearling Teams Name Captains

The Runnels Junior High football teams have named their game captains for the three contests to be unreeled in the old stadium tonight.

George Pedro and Roy Lee Warren will serve as leaders of the seventh graders. John Patton and Danny McEvers will captain the eighth grade unit while Junior Mendoza and Charles Tubb will share the duties on the ninth grade club.

Vets To Start For Forsan

FORSAN—The Forsan Buffaloes open their 1964 football season Friday in Welch with an 8 p.m. tilt against the Dawson Dragons. It would be one of the top area games.

The Buffs, fresh from winning their district the past two seasons under the guidance of head coach Oscar Boeker, will be able to start an all-letterman offensive crew that some claim has more potential than last year's district championship crew.

The lineup looks like this: left end, Kent Sneed, 140, senior; left guard, Jim Alexander, 190, senior; center, Dick Ross, 155, senior; right guard, Jackie Shoultz, 145, junior; right end, Douglas Franklin, 150, junior, or Tommy Chrane, 150, sophomore; quarterback, Ray McKinnon, 130, sophomore; fullback, David Roberson, 195, senior; and right halfback, Larry Callahan, 130, sophomore, or Freddie Willis, 155, sophomore.

Chrane is the only non-letterman of the group with Alexander being all-district a year ago while McKinnon, Sneed and Roberson made the honorable mention squad.

Again the Buffs look like a high scoring club, according to Boeker, although they lack the explosive running power of all-district halfback Kenneth Soles who graduated, but defense is posing its problems. Boeker may find that a weakness in his defensive alignment is fatal Friday night as Dawson was picked to finish first in their district in pre-season polls.

Much of the Forsan ground attack will be centered around the talents of Willis, Chrane and Roberson, all of whom have been looking good in practice of late, according to Boeker. The 28-man Buff squad is picked to finish either second or third in their four-team district behind the overpowering Garden City Bearcats.

Lou Brock Spurring Cards In Flag Bid

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Can the St. Louis Cardinals go for broke with Lou Brock? That was the big question in the National League after Brock continued his heavy hitting for the Cardinals, slamming a home run and four singles as St. Louis whipped first-place Philadelphia 10-5 in 11 innings Wednesday night in the opener of a two-game series.

The victory was the 13th in 16 games for the second-place Cardinals — the Phillies have an 8-9 record over the same period — and kept them steamrolling toward the top while whittling Philadelphia's league lead to five games.

And Brock, the key man in a six-player trade completed with the Chicago Cubs just before the June 15 trading deadline, has supplied a big stick in an outfield depleted by Stan Musial's retirement.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

No one in the Big Spring football camp can afford to overlook the Lamesa menace this week but the Steer scouts who sat in on the Snyder-Midland scrimmage last week shuddered at the Tigers' potential.

Horace Bostick's club blanked Midland while crossing the goal line five times itself. Snyder's defensive eleven did a splendid job of containing big Ross Montgomery, according to the story from Midland.

On one occasion, Les Brown roared 56 yards with the ball only to be overtaken on the Bulldog nine by Montgomery. Brown isn't fast but he's hard to contain in an open field as a nervous ghost. Tommy Kincaid gives Brown a lot of help in the Snyder secondary, too, so much so that the opposition can't afford to set their defenses for just one man.

San Angelo went to Snyder Saturday night to scrimmage rugged Amarillo Tascosa, a team that beat the Bobcats on penetrations in the state playoffs last year, and outscored the Rebels, two touchdowns to one.

Tascosa had one touchdown called back due to a technicality. Seems the ball carrier used as a screen several coaches who were on the field observing play.

Tascosa will probably win it all in District 3-AAAA, unless Berger pulls a rabbit out of a hat.

J. W. Thompson, the former all-state tackle for Big Spring, now resides in Oklahoma City where he is in the electrical business.

J. W. was in last weekend for the Big Spring Invitational Golf tournament. He says he's about given up the sport.

J. W.'s brother, Luke, is now head pro at the Coronado Hills course in El Paso. He was Fred Hawkins' assistant out there for a while.

There's talk the Big Spring Country Club will stage an invitational partnership tournament in October.

They think well of Big Spring's Jack Irons in El Paso and at Texas Western College.

One of the papers there had Jack's picture on its sports page the first day of TWC football workouts this fall. The junior linebacker's weight is currently listed at 193 pounds and he's due to play a lot of football for the Miners this fall.

Texas Western's squad will be bigger than usual. The Miners have 24 boys who will go 200 pounds or better. Coach Warren Harper has recruited his talent from 11 states.

Merritt (Buster) Barnes, also of Big Spring, joins the TWC varsity squad this fall for the first time. He was impressive as a freshman last year. A guard for the local high school, Buster is now listed as a halfback on the Miner roster. He'll probably play mostly on defense.

Jack Irons' younger brother, Dick, reports soon to freshman workouts at SMU.

Dick played about three quarters of the Oil Bowl game on defense but very little offense. Chances are he'll be used mostly on defense at SMU.

SMU has booked five games for its frosh, all Southwest Conference rules allow.

The schedule: Oct. 8 — Arkansas at Texarkana; Oct. 16 — Rice at Houston; Oct. 30 — Texas at Dallas; Nov. 6 — Baylor at Dallas; Nov. 20 — TCU at Fort Worth.

Cowboys Best In Dallas History, Says Landis

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys open their 1964 National Football League race in the Cotton Bowl Saturday night against the St. Louis Cardinals with a team that Coach Tom Landry says is the best in Cowboy history.

Texans Eyeing Spots On Team

DALLAS (AP)—Fred Hansen and Randy Matson are almost sure bets for spots on the American Olympics team when seven Texans compete in the final trials at Los Angeles Saturday.

Hansen is the former Rice pole vaulting ace. Matson is the sensational Texas A&M freshman shot putter.

One Texan is already on the Olympics team. He is Ollan Casell, former University of Houston star, who qualified in the 400-meter dash by winning first place in the first trials held in New York.

Hansen was fifth in the New York trials with a 16 foot, 2 inch jump but since then he has broken his own world record of 17-2 by doing 17-4.

Matson was second in the first trials where Dallas Long took the top honors in the shot put.

Other Texans seeking Olympic spots are Bill Miller, former McMurry broad jumper; Gerald Pratt, Texas Southern pole vaulter; Billy Penelton, Abilene Christian pole vaulter; Ed Red, Rice javelin thrower; and Bobby May, Rice hurdler.

Father-Son Meet Set

The Big Spring Golf Association will conduct a father-son tournament Sunday at the Municipal course, at 3:00 p.m. for members only. Age limit for sons is 14 and under.

The father will use his regular handicap and the son's handicap will be determined by the Callaway System. Net score for nine holes will determine the winner.

Trophies will be awarded the first five places. In case of ties a sudden death playoff will determine the winner.

Joe Torre supplied the power for the Braves, driving in four runs with two doubles and a single while Tony Cloninger, now 16-12, pitched a four-hitter. Joe Christopher homered for the Mets.

Billy Williams hit his 32nd homer — his third in as many games — for the Cubs, who snapped a 3-3 tie against the Colts with a three-run seventh. Jim Stewart's two-run single

Club Will Serve Meal In Lamesa

The Lamesa Evening Lions Club will serve a "West Texas supper" to visitors prior to the Big Spring - Lamesa football game in the High School cafeteria Friday evening.

The facility is located immediately south of the Lamesa football field. Steak with all the trimmings will be served. The cost will be $1 per plate.

Proceeds will go toward charities supported by the service organization.

J. S. Stephens Funeral Set

James Samuel Stephens, 81, of Sand Springs, died in a local hospital at 10:55 p.m. Wednesday, following an illness of three years.

He had lived in Howard County since 1920 when he moved to Big Spring from Bonham. He first worked for Shine Phillips, and later farmed in the Cauble and Coahoma communities.

Mr. Stephens was born Oct. 3, 1882 in Booneville, Miss. He was married to Gladys Prevo March 14, 1924 in Big Spring. He was a member of the First Christian Church.

Services are set for 4 p.m. Friday in the Rosewood chapel, with Bob Kiser, minister of the Sand Springs Church of Christ, officiating, assisted by the Rev. H. J. Barr, Faith Assembly of God Church, Big Spring. Burial will be in Big Spring City Cemetery under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Gladys Stephens, Sand Springs; three nieces, Mrs. Rudy McDonald, Bonham, Mrs. Ethel Fisher, Dallas, Mrs. Geneva Patterson, Tucson, Ariz.; two nephews, Herschel Ford, Bonham, and Buddy Boening, Yoakum.

Palbearers will be Bernard Coates, M. A. Lilly, Leon West, D. T. Stackup, Joe Hamlin and W. T. Stocstill.

Services Set For Mrs. Harris

Services for Mrs. Elsie Harris, 76, former Big Spring resident, will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in the Forest Lawn Cypress Funeral Home in Cypress, Calif. Mrs. Harris died Tuesday evening in Long Beach, Calif.

She came to Howard County with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Benton Smith, in 1899 at the age of 11, and they resided in the Lutheran community. Since 1937, Mrs. Harris had been living in California. She was preceded in death by a son, Robert Harris, in 1917.

Mrs. Harris is survived by two sons, R. T. Harris and Raymond Harris, both of whom reside in California; three brothers, John C. Smith, Norvin Smith and Alton Smith, of Big Spring; and one sister, Mrs. Akin Simpson Sr., Big Spring. She also leaves four grandchildren.

Tells Of Outing By Boy Scouts

An unforgettable experience among 52,000 Scouts camped in the historical site where Washington's ragged Continental army spent a torturous winter in 1777-78 was detailed to Downtown Lions Wednesday at the Settles.

Gene Campbell, one of the leaders with 160 boys from the Buffalo Trail Council, said it was an experience "everyone ought to have once."

Campbell told of camping experience in a territory rich in American history, which tied to the theme of "Strengthen America's Heritage." The trip to and from was arranged also to expose the boys to historical sites and points of contemporary interest.

Seeing a city of 30,000 tents rise as if by magic among green hills in less than two days was something of a miracle, but no less than the way food, sanitation and other services were provided for the boys.

Many of the boys gained weight during the National Boy Scout National Jamboree, but more important they gained friendships from over the nation and the world, he said. They learned that boys everywhere are pretty much alike.

He was introduced by W. T. McRee, Scout executive, who gave some historical background on Valley Forge.

Frosty Robison announced teams which would handle construction of 20 booths for the annual Lions Fun-O-Rama which will be operated Oct. 5-11. Construction will begin Sept. 28.

Dirksen's rider would delay for a year or more court-ordered reapportionment of state legislatures "in the absence of highly unusual circumstances."

While opponents of the rider appeared to have enough votes to defeat cloture, Dirksen said he is confident he can muster a majority to defeat any subsequent motion to table and thus kill his rider and clear the way for passage of the foreign-aid bill.

Dirksen's aim is to buy time until legislatures can act on a constitutional amendment preserving their present reapportionment procedures.

City Sprays Mosquitoes

The city's mosquito spraying project is continuing this week, with the spray unit being used presently for isolated areas near breeding places of mosquitoes, according to Public Works Director Ernest Lillard.

The spraying began about a week ago and will continue through one more covering of all known breeding places in the city, Lillard said. All such places have been covered with oil or sprayed with insecticide since the project began, according to Lillard.

"We have not received more than one or two calls from any one place in the city," Lillard said. "We have not received reports of mosquitoes in any magnitude."

Areas in the vicinity of breeding spots have been sprayed several times, he said. The city itself has been generally covered once, according to Lillard.

Carriers Take Survey Cards

Rural mail carriers out of the Big Spring post office will begin distributing 1964 acreage survey cards on their routes Sept. 12.

E. C. Boatler, Big Spring postmaster, said the mail route carriers who are cooperating are Ervin Daniel, R.F.D. No. 1; Clyde L. Payne, Knott Route; J. E. Kennedy, Garden City; R. E. Donald, R. Evans, Sterling City Route; and Mrs. D. R. Evans, Gail Route.

Boatler urged all farmers who receive the cards to supply the needed information and replace them in their mail boxes for dispatch to the Department of Agriculture.

Historical Meet Set Tonight

All persons, young and old, who are interested in preserving the history of Howard County and area, are invited to attend a meeting at First Federal Savings and Loan community room at 7:30 p.m. today.

Ed Fisher, chairman, and Mrs. H. C. Supp and Mrs. Modesta Simpson, members of the Howard County Historical Survey Committee, have set up the meeting to explore interest in local history. Fisher is hopeful that out of the meeting some suggestions for courses of action may come.

He emphasized that everyone is invited to take part in the meeting and to express their feelings and ideas on the worthwhileness and means of preserving things which reflect the early history and development of this area.

Tourist School Is Discussed

A tourist school, for the benefit of Big Spring businessmen selling and serving tourists, will be held some time in the future if enough interest is indicated, Cheney Plummer, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Convention and Tourist Committee, has called a meeting of the committee, and owners or operators of businesses serving tourists.

George Jordan, manager of the tourist department of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will discuss the school and its advantages in bringing tourist business to Big Spring. Plummer said the school would benefit management and key personnel of hotels, motels, restaurants, and service stations, since it was designed for these businesses. He said it would not be restricted to them, however, if others are interested.

"The course offered by the school would be divided into two three-hour sessions and arranged to accommodate those who work on different shifts," Plummer said. "A fee of $2 will be charged to cover the cost."

Letters have been sent to all business firms in the city engaged in serving tourists inviting them to have a representative at the Monday meeting.

District Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Lone Star district committee of the Boy Scouts has been called for 7:30 p.m. today at Cosden Country Club, according to R. L. Tollett, district chairman. The meeting was postponed from a week ago to avoid conflict with the Quarterback Club annual barbecue.

Club To Meet

Big Spring Coin Club's regular meeting is at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Elks Lodge rooms in the old Crawford Hotel Building. All members are asked to make a special effort to attend.

Barry's 'Misunderstanding' Strongly Ripped By Rusk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today that foreign policy statements made by Sen. Barry Goldwater reflect a "basic lack of understanding" of the responsibilities of the U.S. president in dealing with questions of war and peace.

Rusk made that assertion at a news conference when asked about the Republican presidential nominee's assertions that the American people should look for some great international crisis before the November election.

In a speech at Seattle Wednesday, Goldwater said Democrats have used foreign crises for political gain, and declared:

"Americans must be prepared, under such administration, to be faced by crisis of some sort just before an election."

Questioned by newsmen today in Seattle as to where he thought a crisis might develop, Goldwater said: "It could develop any place. I wouldn't be surprised if it developed in Cuba."

Sarcastically, Rusk said the Democratic National Committee had not arranged for Indonesia to drop parachutists into Malaysia, nor did it cause rebel forces in the Congo to take over Stanleyville.

He went on to say that a statement such as that which the questioner had attributed to Goldwater seemed to him to reflect a basic lack of understanding of the responsibilities of the President for dealing with questions of war and peace.

On another political-foreign policy question, Rusk said the main issue now before the country is whether the people are being presented with a new choice in basic foreign policy by Sen. Goldwater.

In the past, Rusk said, the debates have been on the question of who would run the foreign policy, but not on the question of whether the major lines in the "great bipartisan foreign policy followed by both parties" were the correct lines.

Rusk said, for example, that Sen. Goldwater had referred Wednesday to the foreign policy of the (Johnson) administration and similar foreign policies preceding it. He said he did not know what Goldwater meant by that, and added, "We need more information."

On other matters, Rusk: 1. Argued against a proposed ban, pending in Congress, on U.S. aid to Poland and Yugoslavia, saying that it would weaken the President's hand in "the pursuit of peace."

2. Said the recent government crisis in South Viet Nam had dislocated the upper levels of leadership, but had not interfered with the war effort against the Communists, and he thought that out of the turmoil might come some more durable kind of government for South Viet Nam.

3. Said Laos unity talks now under way in Paris between the neutralist government and Communist opponents should give important indications of whether the Communists in North Viet Nam and Red China have any interest in making peace in South Viet Nam. Rusk said he did not see any indications of that.

Barry's 'Misunderstanding' Strongly Ripped By Rusk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today that foreign policy statements made by Sen. Barry Goldwater reflect a "basic lack of understanding" of the responsibilities of the U.S. president in dealing with questions of war and peace.

Rusk made that assertion at a news conference when asked about the Republican presidential nominee's assertions that the American people should look for some great international crisis before the November election.

In a speech at Seattle Wednesday, Goldwater said Democrats have used foreign crises for political gain, and declared:

"Americans must be prepared, under such administration, to be faced by crisis of some sort just before an election."

Questioned by newsmen today in Seattle as to where he thought a crisis might develop, Goldwater said: "It could develop any place. I wouldn't be surprised if it developed in Cuba."

Sarcastically, Rusk said the Democratic National Committee had not arranged for Indonesia to drop parachutists into Malaysia, nor did it cause rebel forces in the Congo to take over Stanleyville.

He went on to say that a statement such as that which the questioner had attributed to Goldwater seemed to him to reflect a basic lack of understanding of the responsibilities of the President for dealing with questions of war and peace.

On another political-foreign policy question, Rusk said the main issue now before the country is whether the people are being presented with a new choice in basic foreign policy by Sen. Goldwater.

In the past, Rusk said, the debates have been on the question of who would run the foreign policy, but not on the question of whether the major lines in the "great bipartisan foreign policy followed by both parties" were the correct lines.

Rusk said, for example, that Sen. Goldwater had referred Wednesday to the foreign policy of the (Johnson) administration and similar foreign policies preceding it. He said he did not know what Goldwater meant by that, and added, "We need more information."

On other matters, Rusk: 1. Argued against a proposed ban, pending in Congress, on U.S. aid to Poland and Yugoslavia, saying that it would weaken the President's hand in "the pursuit of peace."

2. Said the recent government crisis in South Viet Nam had dislocated the upper levels of leadership, but had not interfered with the war effort against the Communists, and he thought that out of the turmoil might come some more durable kind of government for South Viet Nam.

Catholic Women Close Annual Convention Here

The third annual convention of the Catholic Women's Club of the San Angelo Diocese of the Diocese closed Wednesday with the election and installation of officers, and selection of Brownwood as the convention site for next year's convention.

The Rev. James O'Donoghue was re-elected moderator of the Diocese; Mrs. Tom McCurdy, Midland, was elected president. Other officers elected were: Mrs. Leo Gonzalez, Big Spring, vice president; Mrs. Ray Weber, Abilene, secretary; Mrs. Fred Ekins, San Angelo, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas Egan, Ballinger, parliamentarian; Mrs. J. E. Healy, Odessa, historian, and Mrs. Francis Culhane, San Angelo, auditor.

Following a morning of workshops, in both Spanish and English, on personal, community, and world apostolates, showing what individuals, families, and communities could do to bring a higher moral and religious standard to the world, a luncheon and style show was held. This was followed, at 2:15 p.m., by the closing business meeting.

The style show, sponsored by the Immaculate Heart of Mary Mother's Club of Big Spring, was narrated by Mrs. Jo Ann Forrest through the courtesy of Hemphill-Wells. This show was arranged to show how the entire family, from pre-school age youngsters, through the matronly age, could be well dressed, included ways styles based on economic situations, climate, and size of the person wearing the garments.

The business session included reports from the deanery president, and the credentials committee. Mrs. Wayne Basden and Mrs. James Lewis, convention co-chairmen, said Wednesday that the overall convention ended as the most successful held by the diocesan women. They said the workshops represented the first time this had been attempted, and that they may be continued at future meetings on request.

The Immaculate Heart of Mary School provided a nursery for children of the delegates to the convention.

Co-Op Establishes Another Record

Cap Rock Electric Cooperative established another record in power sales during August, metering 13,341,031 KWH which was not only a record for August but for any single month in the 25-year history of the system.

There was two and a half million more than for July of this year and a million and a quarter more than the 12,153,713 KWH in August of last year.

Sales through the first eight months of 1964 have aggregated 58,783,890 KWH, which compares with 54,854,524 for the same period a year ago.

At the end of August there were 2,448 miles of lines energized, a gain of four miles for the month and 95 more than a year ago. There were 5,658 members connected, an increase of 12 for the month and 295 more than at the end of August last year.

One Accident

City traffic officers received only one accident report Wednesday, with a collision reported at Twenty Second and Curry Streets about 11 a.m. Cars involved were driven by William Horace Whaley, Bangs, and Clovis Newton Snell, Route 1, according to officers. About $100 damages were received by the Snell car and a lesser amount by the other vehicle, police reported.

Film Stolen

Some 250 feet of exposed movie film was the only item reported taken in a burglary of a mobile trailer home at 4107 W. US 90 Wednesday, according to police. The trailer is owned by C. M. Bentley.

Mrs. Billy Billingsley, 901 W. 3rd, reported theft of a bicycle wheel and tire from her residence, Wednesday.

Tshombe Won't Make 'New Congo' Deadline

LONDON (AP) — Moise Tshombe is not going to make his deadline for showing the world a new Congo in three months.

The flamboyant, fast-talking secessionist leader from Katanga took office as premier in Leopoldville July 16 with the brash promise to reform Africa's problem child.

With one month to go, Tshombe and the world are still faced with the same old Congo — sullen, rebellious and dangerous.

Tshombe has added one new and refreshing ingredient to the Congolese stew, a political leader who is constantly on the move and who acts. His stated objectives for the Congo — national reconciliation, prosperity and peace — are beyond reproach.

The Congolese central government has not seen a leader with his energy and dash since the unhappy days of the late Premier Patrice Lumumba.

But Tshombe is being defeated by the same enemies that have frustrated the Congo's leaders from the beginning of independence four years ago — tribal hatreds, political immaturity, corruption and apathy. With or without the assistance of the Organization of African Unity, these are formidable foes. Most of Africa's leaders are fighting the same enemies at home with varying success.

Tshombe, now dedicated to a unified Congo, is at present facing rebellions in Kwilu, North Katanga, Kivu and Oriental provinces. Stanleyville, one of the country's most important cities, is in rebel hands.

Red Chinese diplomats and agents openly are supporting the rebels with money and advice on guerrilla tactics. They have been operating through rebel headquarters established in Brazzaville and Bujumbura with the complacent assent of the Congo's neighbors, the Congo Republic and Burundi.

African nationalist leaders have criticized the United States for supporting Tshombe's central government after opposing him when he was trying to take Katanga out of the Congo. A small number of U.S. transport planes and trucks have been placed at the disposal of the Congolese national army.

Washington says there has been no reversal of U.S. policy in the Congo. From the first day of independence, Washington has worked and spent its money for a united Congo, strong and prosperous enough to fill a strategic area in the heart of Africa.

What is going on in the Congolese provinces is not war in the accepted sense. It is a kind of intertribal mayhem which has been practiced in the Congo for centuries.

It has a particularly menacing significance now because it is being deliberately provoked by political dissidents supported by Chinese Communists.

The real losers are the patient and backward people of the Congo. They have been waiting four years for the bloodshed to cease and the independent Congo to produce the prosperity and peace promised by their leaders.

Congress Miffed On Paint Buying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress' watchdog agency is miffed at the Defense Department. It says the Pentagon failed to order paint in large economy sizes.

And this, the General Accounting Office reported to the House and Senate, resulted in "unnecessary costs of about $30,000 annually."

The Defense Department grudgingly went along with the GAO, but grumbled that other factors had to be considered, saying: "It does not always follow the use of paint in large-size containers will necessarily result in economies."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sargent Shriver received approval Wednesday from the Senate Labor Committee as head of the antipiracy program after he indicated to members that he felt he could handle the job along with his other duties as director of the Peace Corps.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said "I am afraid it is almost impossible to do justice to both of these monumental efforts."

But Shriver said it would be up to President Johnson to decide if he should continue to hold both jobs.

Javits abstained on the committee's vote, which otherwise was unanimous for Shriver.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A veteran Defense Department official has been fired after an investigation of possible irregularities in handling of certain administrative funds, the Pentagon announced Wednesday night.

It said two other officials have retired, and that the FBI is still investigating the case.

The announcement said William H. Godel was "removed from his position" as deputy director for management in the Advanced Research/Projects Agency on Aug. 24. He has appealed his dismissal from the $20,000 a year job.

J. Robert Loftis, who had been administrative assistant to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara with an annual salary of $20,000; and John Wylie, head of the budget and finance branch in the Defense Department's administrative office at $17,500, retired. Wylie was subordinate to Loftis.

Court Studies Inquiry Methods

HOUSTON (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham hears arguments today on the constitutionality of a federal grand jury's right to question a person without his attorney being present.

Newton Schwartz, lawyer for three persons subpoenaed to tell of gambling operations, filed a suit against the jury.

The three, Rene Passariu, Raymond Mielsch and Elmer House, were to testify before the jury Wednesday but after the suit was filed they were told to come back Sept. 17.

The plaintiffs asked for restraining orders which would prevent their being questioned by the jury without the presence of their lawyer.

Marxist Jagan Swaps Roles For Fall Voting

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Dr. Cheddi Jagan has turned in his prophet's robes for the trappings of a practical politician to avert election defeat this fall.

The consensus is that the darkly handsome Marxist prime minister will fail.

But to British Guianese who consider Jagan's ouster a certainty, the forthcoming elections will amount to no more than changing the driver of the same old bus route. This is because of a spreading belief that the wave of racial violence between Guianese of East Indian and of African descent has gone beyond political control.

Without internal peace and a common objective, little hope is held for the development of this troubled colony, whether the leader be Jagan or his arch-rival, Negro leader L. Forbes Burnham.

WITHOUT CONSENT

Reflecting the opinion of some prominent Guianese, Police Commissioner Peter Owen said recently: "Neither Jagan nor Burnham can govern without the consent of the other. I'm afraid violence has now gone beyond the realm of politics."

Owen, a ruddy-faced Briton, commands a force of 1,600 men and 600 volunteers, often badly overmatched in 24 months of almost continuous civil strife. Terrorist violence since February has claimed 161 lives, 24 persons are missing, more than 800 wounded and damage to property and crops is estimated at over $2.5 million.

The violence has evolved around the controversial personalities of Jagan and big, erudite Burnham, 41, a lawyer-Shakespearean scholar with a large following among the Negro middle and poor classes, but viewed warily by some intellectuals who say they see in him a thirst for power.

A Socialist and political ecologist of Jagan, Burnham bosses the Peoples' National Congress from a small office marked simply "leader." Party members refer to each other as "comrade."

There is little doubt that Burnham enjoys the full support of the U.S. and British governments. Jagan, the first Marxist with a clear-cut mandate in Western Hemisphere history and winner of three elections in the last decade, has been unable to govern successfully because of strong resistance at home, in London and in Washington to his policies. They are regarded as too far left.

LEFTIST POSE

Jagan apparently has decided the image cast by his left-wing extremist posture has cut too deeply into the ranks of his Peoples' Progressive party following to survive the new election test.

Persons close to the party hierarchy report Jagan and his strategists are considering a public denunciation of communism.

The strategy is to overcome the election maneuver through which the British hope to oust Jagan and eventually grant independence to this long-unwanted colony. Under pressure from Washington, Britain has refused to let British Guiana go while Jagan remains leader.

The British Colonial Office has devised a proportional representation formula — bitterly opposed by Jagan and his party — for elections expected sometime in November.

COALITION

Theoretically, in the absence of a clear majority for any of the three major parties, the prime ministry would go to a coalition — in this case the Burnham party and the arch-conservative United Force party. They got 41.3 and 16 per cent, respectively, of the 1960 vote.

Although their programs have key basic issues— independence and social reform—in common, Jagan and Burnham differ vigorously on points that have proven irreconcilable and would rule out a coalition at this time.

Confronted with formidable obstacles, Jagan seems bent on recovering lost ground in the urban areas he had neglected in favor of the rice paddies and sugar plantations, where his following borders on the mystical.

Measured against the tempo of racial violence, most of the campaign talk sounds hollow. There are only thin hopes that election results will restore peace.

Prospect Of Tax Cutting Pleasant

NEW YORK (AP)—Further cutting of federal tax rates — without much if any drop in the Treasury's total take — is one of the pleasanter prospects of the coinciding of a presidential campaign with general prosperity.

Some administration officials have been talking tentatively of slicing the excise taxes that annoy countless Americans, especially the ladies.

The Republican standard bearer is talking of another cut in income tax rates.

Other Washington sources chip in with talk of collecting a lot of federal taxes, but giving more of the total to the states and local government. The latter's bills are rising, but proposals to raise local tax rates are meeting more resistance from the voters.

Prospects for clipping the federal income tax rates or dropping some of the excise levies are brightened by two current conditions:

—So many more Americans are paying taxes on larger income totals that the U.S. Treasury collections are rising in spite of the lower rates in effect this year.

—Many in Washington are convinced that the way to make the nation more prosperous, and thus raise individual and corporate incomes still higher, is to cut tax rates again, even if the Treasury still is running a big deficit, in spite of the record tax collections.

In the fiscal year that ended June 30, the Treasury collected a record $112 billion, compared with $106 billion the previous fiscal year.

Some of this is for Social Security and thus outside the formal federal budget.

Although the income tax cuts were in effect the last four months of the last fiscal year, the number of individual tax returns had risen to 65 million from the previous year's 63 million. Those extra two million, and the larger incomes of many of the oldtimers, gave the Treasury its bigger collection.

Corporate returns also rose, because corporate profits did. And all signs point to a further rise in business earnings. Even with the lower rate of taxation on corporate profits this year, and still lower next, the record profits may give the Treasury more than it got before the tax cut bill was passed. The Treasury will still be getting almost half of the gross earnings.

Dear Abby

Feels Safer In The Cellar

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a good man in every way, so please don't take this as a complaint against him. Every time it starts to storm and thunder, Bob runs down to the cellar to hide, and he stays down there until the storm subsides, even if it takes all night. It doesn't make a difference if we have guests or not, if a storm comes up and it starts to thunder, Bob runs off like a madman to hide in the cellar. I have asked him to see a head doctor, but he says there's nothing wrong with him. What must I do? He is 53 and has been this way ever since we've been married.

FRAIDY CAT'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Your husband's reaction to thunder storms is not as unusual as you think. His behavior is undoubtedly a holdover from a childhood terror of storms which he never overcame. If this is his only eccentricity, tolerate it good-naturedly. And don't worry about what your guests think.

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell your boy friend's ex-girl friend to lay off?

TIRED OF HER
DEAR TIRED: You don't. The boy friend does. If he's "tired of her, too," that is.

DEAR ABBY: We've been having a rip-roaring argument in our bridge club over something that happens every bridge night. About half the girls feel that if your opponent is careless enough to hold her cards so that they can be easily seen, you should take full advantage of the situation without so much as a twinge of conscience. The other half, including me, says that this is just as dishonest as taking money out of a purse that was carelessly left on a bus. We've agreed to let you settle the argument, but I'll bet my next week's booby prize that you'll be on our side.

HONEST ABE
DEAR ABE: Pick up the booby prize. I know it's tiresome to continually tell one to hold her cards up, but it beats pecking, even though you do get an eyeful due to someone else's carelessness.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a counsellor for the state and occasionally he sees clients for private counselling. He is a qualified marriage counsellor and anything he earns after hours is his. Lately he has been giving free counselling to a pretty young woman who is trying to save her marriage. He has never given his services free before, and I resent his giving up one night a week for this woman. She can well afford to pay him. So why is he giving her counselling for free? What is your advice?

DEAR RESENTFUL: Nothing is being compensated for his time, if only in satisfaction. You should consult a counsellor to find out how to cope with a husband who is tending elsewhere when his own fences need mending. (P. S. And pay the counsellor in cash.)

Oil Production Shows Increase

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — U.S. crude oil production rose 37,300 barrels a day last week, to an average of 7,564,000 barrels daily, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Texas and Louisiana accounted for most of the rise, on the basis of higher monthly allowances.

Texas production will average 2,606,950 barrels a day, up 32,000 daily over the August rate. Louisiana output of 1,512,200 barrels a day will be up 14,980.

Oklahoma production last week averaged 551,700 barrels, up 3,600 a day. Kansas output fell 1,600 barrels a day to 290,700, while Wyoming was off 2,700 barrels to an average of 424,300 daily.

Honor Airman

Airman James L. McCoy, 3560th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, Webb Air Force Base, was selected as Airman of the Month for August for his unit. He is a jet aircraft mechanic and has been stationed at Webb since Nov. 1, 1963. His home is in Darwin, Minn.

Civilians Air Military Beefs

DALLAS (AP) — "Many military personnel treat civilians as dirt under their feet," a group of Texas air base employees complained Wednesday to the American Federation of Government Employees.

Lodge 1731 of the federation, representing civilian workers at Sheppard Air Force Base, proposed a resolution stating that "many military browbeat civilians" and asking "steps so that Congress or other higher authority puts a stop to such practices. Sheppard Base is at Wichita Falls.

The proposal is among about 400 resolutions being considered by 600 delegates at the annual convention of the government workers' union. These indicate a variety of problems. One resolution asks free parking space or compensation for using parking lots and another requests free physical examinations for meat inspectors. Three resolutions urge a 35-hour week and one a 32-hour week.

An Oklahoma group notes the President's Committee on Equal Employment has been established to investigate reports of discrimination in employment on the basis of race creed or color "but not sex." It asks that sex be added.

Sale Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission approved Wednesday the assignment of the license of radio KSTA at Coleman, Texas, by Coleman County Broadcasting Co. to Bert and Theo Griffiths for $125,000.

Griffith Arrives

LONDON (AP) — Welterweight champion Emile Griffith of New York arrived in London by plane Wednesday night to prepare for his Sept. 22 title defense against British champion Brian Curvis.

Record Beaten

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Farrington of Richwood, Ohio, has registered 208 victories driving harness horses this year, breaking his own record of 203 triumphs during the entire year of 1962.

Guests Tell Traditions Of Culture

Customs and traditions followed in Panama and Cuba were described Tuesday for members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service who met for a luncheon at the First Methodist Church.

The program was entitled "Mothers of Other Cultures," and the guest speakers were Mrs. Roy Drinnen, formerly of Panama, and Mrs. Al Valdez, who described Cuba as it was when she lived there two years ago. The program was arranged by Mrs. H. M. Fitzhugh.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Bert Shive, Mrs. Merle Stewart, Mrs. R. W. Thompson and Mrs. Bob Hoover, and the invocation was worded by Mrs. Robert C. Hill, vice president. All theme was used in decorations. The buffet featured an arrangement of fall flowers, and the U-shaped table held a white compote with pyracantha and branches of the plant were placed at intervals along the table.

Mrs. Neil Norred, president, announced that the Big Spring District Workshop at the First Methodist Church will begin at 9 a.m. Sept. 24. The theme is "Flight Into Tomorrow."

Mrs. Charles Bell, spiritual life secretary, said the call to prayer and self-denial program will be held at the church Oct. 13 at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. Paul Klionka, missionary education secretary, announced that the home mission study on Spanish Americans is scheduled Oct. 20 and 27 and Nov. 3 and 17.

The guests were introduced by Mrs. Norred who welcomed Mrs. William House as a new member. Twenty-eight members attended.

Film Notes Loss In Highway Litter

The film, "Money to Burn" on the litter-bug campaign was seen by members of the Four O'Clock Garden Club when they met Wednesday in the activity room at the YMCA. The nation's clean-up cost of 1 1/2 million dollars annually was stressed, and a recommendation made to train children in this drive for cleaner highways.

Mrs. Guy Cook had charge of the program and Mrs. Charles Franklin was hostess.

The next meeting will be a business session Sept. 15 at the home of Mrs. Guy Cook, 1006 E. 21st, at 9:30 a.m.

Faith Post Filled By Rainbow Girls

Mary Newton was elected to fill the post of Faith when the Order of the Rainbow for Girls met Tuesday evening at Masonic Hall. Merry Lee Dibrell, worthy advisor, presided for the election and business discussion which followed.

The group will again sell football programs at the Steer home games; the first being Sept. 25. Proceeds are used to finance trips to the Grand Assembly.

The next meeting will be the initiation when a grand visitor from Odessa will be a guest. Practice for the event will be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in the hall.

Lubbock Couple End Coahoma Trip

COAHOMA (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. Sammie Buchanan and their son, Sammie Don, Lubbock, were weekend guests in the home of his parents, the S. F. Buchanans, and with her parents, the B. B. Fords, in Sand Springs. Also, the Ford's son, Billy, Denver, Colo., is visiting.

Returns To Hobbs

COAHOMA (SC)—Miss Peggy Greenfield of Hobbs, N. M., spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Greenfield.

Bridge Group Makes Change

When the Variety Pairs duplicate games were held Wednesday at Big Spring Country Club, players were reminded that Mrs. A. Swartz, 909 Mountain Park, will be hostess to the group Sept. 23 when the club will not be available. On that day, players will bring a sack lunch.

Five tables were in play Wednesday with Mrs. J. J. Havens and Mrs. Ayra McGinn taking first place. Other winners were Mrs. Roy Lassiter and Mrs. M. M. Hines, second; Mrs. Swartz and Mrs. Elmo Wasson, third; and Mrs. Joe Hayden and Mrs. D. A. Brazel, third.

Mrs. Ike Robb was welcomed as she played with the group

Children's Needs Told

The relationship of parents and children was the program study presented by the Rev. Max Maguire at the Wednesday meeting of the Child Study Club. Mrs. David Elrod, Birdwell Lane, was assisted in her hostess duties by Mrs. O. H. Ivie.

The speaker noted that religion was an important factor in helping to supply the basic needs for emotional security in children. He stated the solution to problems between parents and children must be sought and would affect offspring in later years.

Mrs. J. H. Burnett noted the Northside Day Nursery Fence donated by the organization had been completed.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 14 at which time a new member will be elected. Mrs. Glenn Faison, 513 Highland, will be hostess assisted by Mrs. R. F. Polk. Jay Banks will speak on child welfare.

WIC Note Observance

Founder's Week was observed by the Women in Construction with an ice cream supper Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Elzie Worthan, 1212 Mulberry. The 11 attending revealed secret plans and exchanged gifts.

During a brief business session, the group discussed national by-laws and the convention scheduled next week in Memphis, Tenn. Planning to attend the national meeting are Mrs. Johnnie Winham, Mrs. Sam Armstrong, Mrs. Tom Enloe, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fivesash and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Choate. They will leave here Wednesday morning.

Ice Cream Supper Plans Completed

Plans for a cake and ice cream supper Sept. 18 were made by the Ladies Home League of the Salvation Army when eight members met Wednesday at the Citadel. The affair will be open to the public and free ice cream will be served to those who purchase cake or pie.

Proceeds will be given to children's homes in Mexico. These donations will be presented at the Home League rally in San Angelo in October.

A hat parade will be held by members at the Sept. 16 meeting of the league, and prizes awarded for the hats that are judged prettiest, most unusual and funniest.

Truce Urged After Farmers' Violence

BOUNDUEL, Wis. (AP)—The deaths of two National Farmers Organization members under the wheels of a heavy truck and the cries of other demonstrators that the driver be lynched brought a call for a truce in the Wisconsin part of a campaign to withhold livestock from the market.

But two shooting incidents involving livestock truckers were reported during the night. There were no injuries.

Gov. John Reynolds said Wednesday night that Oren Lee Staley, national NFO president, had ordered cancellation of all previously planned Wisconsin demonstrations pending a meeting in the governor's office Friday.

Reynolds said Staley has agreed to attend the meeting which was called "to discuss the manner and method by which the NFO can properly conduct its holding action and demonstrations."

A Lafayette County livestock trucker told authorities in Janesville that he was followed by two cars across one county on the way to market in Milwaukee late Wednesday night and then was fired on five times from the shoulder of a road two miles west of Orfordville, in south-central Wisconsin.

The Rock County sheriff's office said two rifle bullets penetrated the truck and a pig was hit. The driver, who was not identified, was escorted by police to Milwaukee.

Early today several shots were fired from a passing car in the vicinity of a home of another livestock trucker in Rubicon Township, in east-central Wisconsin. The Dodge County sheriff's office said the bullets apparently did not strike anything.

Phone Co-Op Sets Meeting

The annual membership meeting of Wes-Tex Telephone Co-operative will be held in Stanton Saturday evening. Registration will begin at 7 o'clock, with the business session slated at 7:30 in the Willie Wired-hand Room of the Cap Rock Electric building.

Directors and manager O. B. Bryan will report on the financial and other affairs of the organization.

Three directors will be elected to three-year terms. Those whose terms of office expire this year are Lawrence Adkins, Mrs. L. C. Hazlewood, and Cecil Wilkerson. The nominating committee met Aug. 14 and nominated these same three directors to succeed themselves.

Other business will include voting on a proposed amendment to the articles of incorporation that would limit the tenure of directors to two consecutive terms on the board.

Fifteen door prizes will be given and there will be a free movie for the children.

In a statement announcing the conference, Reynolds referred to the deaths Wednesday as "the senseless shedding of blood." He said "acts of violence will not be permitted within the state of Wisconsin."

Staley said at NFO headquarters in Corning, Iowa, that the deaths were tragic. He added "they should serve as a symbol for greater effort on the part of farmers in an orderly and determined manner to price their products at the market place."

The two NFO members were killed when a cattle truck lurched forward as hundreds of angry demonstrators attempted to block the entry to yards of the Equity Cooperative Livestock Sales Association in this northeastern Wisconsin community.

Killed were Howard Falk, 64, of rural Bonduel, and Melvin L. Cummings, 43, of rural Antico.

The truck was driven by Ivan Mueller, 40, of Cecil, an independent trucker who hauls livestock for farmers under contract. Authorities said they took a pistol away from him before pulling him through the angry crowd.

Mueller was charged with homicide by reckless conduct, a charge carrying a maximum penalty of a fine up to $2,500 and up to five years in jail. He was held in the Shawano County jail under extra police precautions.

Roger Robson, Equity manager, said that after the accident the crowd surged after the truck shouting, "Lynch him! Kill him! Let's string him up."

Beats The Sea And Age

William Willis, 71-year-old American adventurer, stands at the wheel of his raft, "Age Unlimited," on which he completed Wednesday a 10,000-mile, two-stage, solo trip across the Pacific from Peru to Australia. Willis, shown on raft in Newark, N.J., last year, started his trip from Callao, Peru on July 4, 1963 and landed at Samoa last November. He resumed his trip from Samoa in June and landed at Tully, 1,150 miles north of Brisbane Wednesday. Willis, who said the exploit nearly killed him, made the trip. "To show that a man past 65 is still in the running if he wants to be." (AP WIREPHOTO)

Prices Higher, So Are Wages In Italy

ROME (AP)—Two or three years ago Italians never tired of boasting of an "economic miracle." Now they talk of slump, dream of the past, and worry about the future.

But there never was an unadulterated boom, nor has it become a complete bust. Things could have been better. They could get worse.

The housewife is buying stewing veal at 1,500 lire a kilo ($1.20 a pound), as much as she paid a year ago for the finest cutlets. But less than a decade ago she might not have been able to afford even the cheapest stewing cuts.

In North Italy, factory workers in some industries are finding pay envelopes thinner because of reduced working schedules. A few years ago many lacked jobs.

Segni's illness and summer vacations delayed for more than two months what had been described as urgent economic measures. And things got no worse. Some economic indices even improved.

Nor are workers being told they must stop seeking wage boosts. Moro is simply asking them not to ask for too much. Government officials worry about the country's trade deficit and implore Italians to cut down on the veal they love to eat. Much of it must be imported.

CHICKEN, LAMB
Eat chicken and lamb, the government says. That is not a very austere prospect for many Italians who could only afford spaghetti a few years ago.

Despite the talk of slump, and it's a more popular topic than the weather, city streets remain crowded with cars. Cafes are busy as ever. Stores are bustling. Most Italians are coming back to work from their usual summer vacations at seaside and mountain resorts.

Last Monday Moro's government also came back from vacation, and got around to the long delayed economic measures. These included a boost in the sales tax and in upper bracket income taxes.

In an effort to spur investment, employer and employee contributions to Italy's vast social security programs are cut.

Moro said other economic measures taken last February had stemmed inflation and that now the key problem was to maintain employment.

Goldwater Hammers Away At President's Policies

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, stepping up his criticism of President Johnson's actions at home and abroad, today swings into Idaho, Montana and Minnesota.

"The Republican party this year is not going to be a me-too party," Goldwater said Wednesday. To emphasize his point, he whacked away at Johnson in every direction, especially at his foreign policy.

"We are not going to be diverted," he told a standing-room-only crowd of more than 14,000 at Seattle's Coliseum.

"Foreign policy is an issue. It is going to remain an issue—right up until the moment this administration finally gets around to doing something that really serves the cause of freedom in this world."

Goldwater said Democrats had used foreign crises for political gain, and declared: "Americans must be prepared, under such an administration, to be faced by crisis of some sort just before an election." Goldwater was expected to keep hammering at Johnson today. His schedule called for stops in Boise, Idaho; Great Falls, Mont.; and then a major speech in Minneapolis tonight.

On this Western trip the Republican presidential candidate has been passing through territory captured by Richard M. Nixon in 1960, but in Minnesota he will be in the heart of Democratic territory. The state went for John F. Kennedy in the last election, has a Democratic governor, and two Democratic senators, one of whom is Hubert H. Humphrey, Lyndon B. Johnson's vice presidential running mate.

For the second night in a row Goldwater had a tremendous crowd. As in Los Angeles Tuesday night, each person was charged $1 for a ticket.

Goldwater lit into foreign affairs immediately. He claimed the Cuban crisis—which caused the late President

John F. Kennedy to cut short a campaign tour of the West—proved two things.

"First, of course, it proved that an administration which long had planned on the basis that the Soviets never would move missiles into this hemisphere, was dead and dangerously wrong," Goldwater said.

"And it proved that despite weeks, and months, of warning about the missiles, an administration totally political in its goals and instincts could and would wait until the perilous last moment to take action—take action at a time that would have maximum political impact."

Goldwater said he had appointed a commission, headed by Richard M. Nixon, to study peace and freedom and make suggestions to him. His job: "A serious and historically significant attempt to regroup freedom's badly scattered forces while there is still time."

Wright Sees Quick Okay For Trinity River Funds

EULESS, Tex. (AP)—A $750 million authorization by Congress for a Trinity River canal from the Gulf to Fort Worth may come sooner than you think, says Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex.

The congressman from Fort Worth predicted Wednesday that the House Public Works Committee will make a favorable recommendation on the long proposed program by the first of the year.

He said such a recommendation would be effective in "paving the way for final authorization of funds during 1965."

Wright, Rep. Ray Roberts of McKinney and Rep. Ed Edmondson of Muskogee, Okla., completed a two-day tour by helicopter of the Trinity River basin.

All three spoke in favor of the Trinity project at a luncheon here Wednesday night they attended a dinner in Fort Worth. Both events drew representatives of about 20 municipalities in the Dallas-Fort Worth complex.

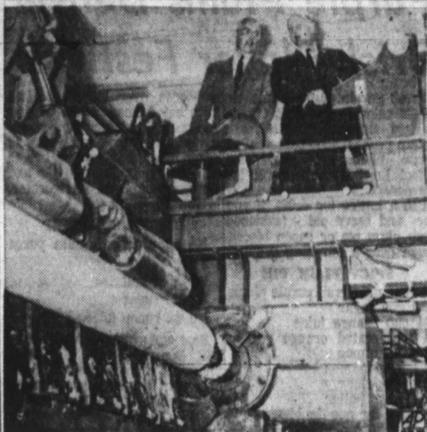

"Much of the future of the entire North Texas area is based on development of the Trinity," Wright told the group. "This project is not a federal expense, but an investment. The U.S. Corps of Engineers has estimated that the canal will return $1.00 for every dollar invested."

Wright said industry has poured $122 million into the Trinity valley, compared to $65 million allocated through the years by the government.

Rep. Roberts told the gathering that the Dallas-Fort Worth and North Texas areas would "become the fastest growing in the United States if we get the Trinity canal—but if we don't, we'll be left behind."

Later this week Wright, Roberts and Edmondson will survey the Arkansas River basin, starting in Oklahoma. A similar river project is proposed on the Arkansas.

Ferry Arrives

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A Japanese-built ferry which will be put into service between Mazatlan and La Paz has arrived at the port of Ensenada. The 4,500-ton ferry cost $6.8 million. It has a capacity of 370 passengers and 115 automobiles.

Star Research Center Built On Chile Peak

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Atop a lonely, windswept peak in northern Chile a group of American universities is building the nucleus of star-research center that could become the greatest in the world.

The story comes from Dr. N. U. Mayall, director of Kitt Peak National Observatory near Tucson, where the administration wants to build a $10-million, 150-inch telescope, second only to the 200-inch telescope on Palomar Mountain in California.

Kitt Peak is operated by the Association of Universities for Research in Astronomy — AURA — under contract to the National Science Foundation.

AURA three years ago began a survey of possible observatory sites in South America and recently selected the 7,200-foot Chilean mountain called Cerro Tololo, 300 miles north of Santiago.

AIR FORCE

Here will be built, with $500,000 in Air Force funds, a 60-inch telescope to be trained on such little-studied targets as the Clouds of Magellan — the two galaxies nearest us — and the Milky Way, which lies just below the horizon of Northern Hemisphere telescopes.

Germany, France, Belgium, Holland, and Sweden have decided to locate a major observatory in northern Chile with six instruments with a mirror up to 140 inches in diameter.

This group, called ESO — for European Southern Observatory — may select one or more of the six peaks in AURA's 180-square-mile reservation or it may choose other land near them. There are reports, so far unconfirmed, of a hush-hush project to build with private funds a giant telescope rivaling or exceeding in size the 200-inch one operated by California Institute of Technology and the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

Using 100-foot-tall towers with sensitive devices to detect small heat pockets in air currents flowing up and over 6,875-foot Kitt Peak, scientists have found that even these small thermals can distort the faint light coming from distant stars.

ON STILTS
As a result, the dome housing the new 150-inch scope planned here may be mounted on stilts 100 to 300 feet high. This would place the scope's highly polished mirror in quiet air above the flow of thermals.

Another "first" in astronomy being pioneered in Tucson, which probably will have application at the new Chilean center, is automatic operation of a telescope by remote control.

Scheduled to go into operation late this year, this telescope at first will be controlled via telephone lines from headquarters in Tucson 30 miles away. Later it will be run by microwave radio.

The dome will open and close, the telescope will train on distant stars, and what it sees will be taped and sent back to headquarters for study — all by remote control.

Perfection of this technique would mean that Orbiting Astronomical Observatories — OAO — to be launched in the next few years will not have to give up space for human occupants.

Astronomers who now often shiver through winter nights in open domes on mile-high mountains tending their huge mechanical "eyes" would be able to work in shirt-sleeve comfort in laboratories near their homes.

FLOYD A. PUCKETT

Puckett Takes A New Post

Floyd A. Puckett, 42-year-old chief of engineering services at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, is leaving to assume similar duties in the VA Hospital in Martinez, Calif. His last work day locally is Friday.

Puckett will be replaced by John J. Finegan of Kansas City who has been working in another VA Hospital. Finegan's first day locally will be Monday.

A native of Big Lake, where he graduated from high school in 1940, Puckett attended Texas A&M in College Station for three years before joining the Army's Corps of Engineers. He was in Korea, Hawaii and Okinawa during World War II and then continued in the service seven years longer, coming out a major in 1952.

He worked for the government Corps of Engineers in Galveston three years, was an engineer until 1957 with Gulf Oil Corporation in Houston, and then he entered the University of Houston and received his BS degree in industrial engineering in 1959.

He served as assistant engineering officer for one year in Houston's VA Hospital before coming here in September 1960. He has held his present position since that time.

Puckett is a member of the local Texas A&M Club, the American Legion, the Suez Shrine Temple, and the First Methodist Church.

He married Doris Witt, Houston, in 1956 and they have one daughter, Lisa Kay, 5½ years old.

A TASTE OF AUTUMN
Make an apple-filled pastry for dessert

Apple Season Brings Autumn To Kitchen

Suddenly it's autumn! The nights are cooler and there are piles of fall fruits on the grocer's shelves. The apple supply increases and the homemaker begins to seek new ways to serve this versatile fruit.

She will have Golden Delicious, Red Delicious and Jonathan apples to choose from. Don't forget that a favorite combination is apples with cheese. Their mellow flavors blend naturally.

Highlight your fall table with an apple centerpiece. Make a round hole, about one inch deep and the diameter of a thin taper, in the top of a well-shaped and shiny apple. Put a candle in the hole and surround with fall leaves.

Try an apple surprise or an upside down cake. The variety of cooking with this fruit is almost limitless.

APPLE SURPRISE
4 apples, cored
1/2 cup pecans
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup butter
1 tsp. cinnamon

Pastry:
1 1/2 cups self-rising flour
1-3 cup shortening
1-3 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar

Sauce:
1 cup water
1 tsp. cornstarch
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup cinnamon candies
Sift flour and sugar, cut in shortening, add milk and mix lightly. Divide dough into four equal portions. Roll out and cut into squares large enough to wrap around apples.

Place cored apples on pastry squares. Fill center with nuts and raisins. Dot with butter. Sprinkle on cinnamon and fold pastry around the apple, corner to corner. Bake in moderate oven at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes, until brown.

Heat water for sauce to boiling. Add cornstarch. Stir until dissolved. Add cinnamon candies and sugar. Stir mixture until thick.

Pour warm sauce over each apple surprise. Serve with whipped cream or tablespoon of vanilla ice cream and top with a maraschino cherry.

UPSIDE DOWN CAKE
2 tbsps. butter
1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1/4 cup chopped nuts
3 cups pared and sliced apples
1 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
2-3 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1-3 cup granulated sugar
1 egg
2 cups sifted regular all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup buttermilk

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in baking pan; sprinkle 1/2 cup brown sugar evenly over bottom, then nuts. Arrange apple slices in pan; sprinkle with lemon juice; set aside.

In mixing bowl cream together 1/2 cup butter, 2-3 cup brown sugar and granulated sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat thoroughly. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt; add to creamed mixture alternately with buttermilk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients.

Spread batter over apple slices. Bake 40-45 minutes or until done at 375 degrees. Allow to stand 10 minutes; invert onto serving plate. Cut into squares and serve while warm topped with Whipped Cheese Topping.

WHIPPED CHEESE TOPPING
2 cups (1/2 lb.) shredded Cheddar cheese
1/2 cup half and half OR light cream
Allow cheese to come to room temperature. In a mixing bowl beat cheese until fairly smooth; gradually add half and half or light cream and continue to beat until mixture is smooth and fluffy.

Hot Potato Salad Is Dutch Treat
This salad should delight fans of old-time cooking.

DUTCH SALAD
5 or 6 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled
1 small head lettuce, coarsely chopped
1 medium onion, finely chopped
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1/2 cup cider vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste
Hot seasoned mashed potatoes (use 6 medium)

Toss together the bacon, lettuce, onion, eggs, vinegar and salt and pepper. Mix with the potatoes. Serve at once. Makes 8 servings.

Purple Plums Deliver Brisk Flavor Festival

Fresh purple plums give their bright color to the fruit stands in late summer. These fresh Italian plums, sometimes called prune plums are great for school lunches or to cook for fall desserts.

Use a lattice top crust, if you like, and serve old-fashioned fresh plum pie or spoon biscuit dough over a tempting cobbler.

SPICY PLUM PIE
3 cups quartered purple plums
2-3 cup sugar
1/2 cup orange juice
1 tsp. grated orange peel
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. cinnamon
3 tbsps. flour
2 tbsps. butter
Pastry for one double-crust 9-inch pie
Wash, pit and quarter plums. Mix sugar, orange juice, peel, spices and flour together and add to fruit. Put filling in unbaked pie shell. Dot with butter. Cover with top crust; use large perforations for steam vents. Bake in hot oven, 400 degrees, for 50 to 55 minutes.

PLUM COBBLER
2 cups halved purple plums
1/4 cup sugar
1 tsp. cornstarch
1 tsp. butter
Drop biscuit dough
Wash, halve and pit plums. Arrange on bottom of buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with mixed sugar and cornstarch. Dot with butter. Make drop biscuit dough, using 1 cup flour or biscuit mix. Spoon dough in mounds over plums. Bake at 425 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

PLUM CUSTARD PIE
1 1/2 cups halved purple plums
1/4 tsp. salt
3 eggs, slightly beaten
Cinnamon and nutmeg
1 cup sugar
1 1/2 cups milk
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell
3 eggs, slightly beaten
Arrange cut plums in bottom of pie shell. Combine eggs, salt, sugar and milk. Beat until blended. Add a sprinkling of cinnamon and nutmeg. Pour over plums in pie shell. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 45 minutes longer or until custard is set.

SPICED PLUM SAUCE
2 lbs. plums
2 tbsps. lemon juice
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. whole cloves
1 cup sugar
Wash and slice plums. Measure 4 cups. Place in saucepan with lemon juice, salt and cloves (tied in cheesecloth bag). Cover and cook over low heat until juice has formed. Increase heat and cook 10 minutes longer. Remove spice bag and stir in sugar. Cook a minute or two to dissolve sugar. Pour in jar and store, covered, in refrigerator. Makes 2 1/2 cups.

FRESH PLUM WHIP
1 1/2 cups cooked plum puree
2 egg whites
Pinch of salt
1/4 cup sugar
1 tsp. lemon juice
Beat egg whites with salt until stiff. Beat in sugar. Stir lemon juice into plum puree and combine with egg mixture, beating until fluffy. Spoon into dessert dishes and chill. Serve with a custard sauce or whipped cream.

PEAR SURPRISE
1 can (8 1/2 oz.) crushed pineapple
6 Bosc or Anjou pears
Lemon juice
1/4 cup water
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 cup honey
Drain pineapple reserving syrup. Wash pears; starting with the stem top, pare 1-3 of the way down. Brush cut surface with lemon juice to prevent darkening. Core bottom of pear (up to peeled part) and stuff with the drained crushed pineapple.

Stand pears, stem tops up, in a baking dish that just fits them. Mix reserved pineapple syrup, water and nutmeg; pour into dish; spoon honey over pears. Cover (with foil if baking dish has no cover) and bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven, basting occasionally, until tender—30 to 40 minutes.

Serve warm or cold, plain or with "pour" cream—light or heavy. Makes 6 servings.

and cook over low heat until juice has formed. Increase heat and cook 10 minutes longer. Remove spice bag and stir in sugar. Cook a minute or two to dissolve sugar. Pour in jar and store, covered, in refrigerator. Makes 2 1/2 cups.

PEAR SURPRISE
1 can (8 1/2 oz.) crushed pineapple
6 Bosc or Anjou pears
Lemon juice
1/4 cup water
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 cup honey
Drain pineapple reserving syrup. Wash pears; starting with the stem top, pare 1-3 of the way down. Brush cut surface with lemon juice to prevent darkening. Core bottom of pear (up to peeled part) and stuff with the drained crushed pineapple.

With the aid of the deep freeze and semi-prepared foods, the modern homemaker is free to follow many pursuits open to her today.

Mrs. W. D. Caldwell is one of those people that believes in finding a simple way to prepare a meal so she can be free for other activities that interest her.

One of those main interests is her teenage son whom everyone knows as Butch. He is a football player and there must be good solid food on hand when he gets home from practice.

"There's always a pot of Pinto beans on hand to supplement his meal," said Mrs. Caldwell. "With it I serve him plenty of steak, potatoes, and easy-to-cook frozen vegetables." He's ready to eat when he gets home so the evening meal must be served in relays.

Caldwell is a contractor whose company builds roads and does general construction work, so he never can be home at a regular scheduled time for meals. This homemaker has found that she can rely on simple, easy to prepare foods for her split-schedule routine and still find time to do many things she enjoys.

"I like to work outside a great deal," she said. At their home in Silver Heels there is a fruit orchard to tend and a large expanse of lawn brightly bordered with beds filled with varieties of flowers. She is a member of the Spaders Garden Club and is always on the winners list with horticulture specimens at the flower shows.

Also, she has found the time to earn a National Flower Show Judge rating and serve as secretary of District 1 National Judges Council.

The family spends lots of time on their ranch at Evant in Hamilton County. The feeding of a family and virtually living in two households poses no problem for Mrs. Caldwell. Simple, solid foods are the solution to her cooking chores.

The family likes pies and she often serves them for dessert. If time is pressing, she doesn't shun the many varieties of frozen types available. Ice cream is another favorite of the family, and with the help of an electric freezer, she can make short work of this delicacy.

Fruits that she prepares for storage are made into preserves or simply sugared and frozen in plastic bags to be used later in pies.

Mrs. Caldwell likes to barbecue when company arrives. With the steaks on the outdoor grill, potatoes in the oven and a bowl of red beans and salad prepared, she is free to enjoy the guests and still serve them a solid, well planned meal.

Here are some recipes she finds welcomed at the family table.

GREEN SOUP (CALDO VERDE)
1/2 cup cut yellow onions
2 cups diced potatoes
1/2 lb. pepperoni sausage cut in 1/4-inch slices
2 tbsps. olive oil
4 cups finely shredded cabbage
3 tbsps. salt
Add the first four ingredients to 2 quarts boiling water and cook over medium heat until potatoes are tender, stirring often. Remove sausage and set aside. Remove potatoes and onions and force through coarse sieve. Return to liquid in saucepan. Add the shredded cabbage, sausage, salt and dash of pepper. Cook about 2 minutes

CANNED APPLES
Fresh apples
3 parts water
1 part sugar
Wash, pare and core apples, cutting into desired size. If peeled fruit is to stand several minutes before packing, drop into slightly salted water to prevent discoloration. Drain. Drop into boiling syrup made of sugar and water and cook until tender or transparent. Pack boiling hot into sterilized jars and seal.

PEAR PRESERVES
1 qt. pears, sliced or chopped
1 cup water
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 or 3 lemon slices
Pare fruit and if hard, cook until tender. Make a syrup of the liquid and sugar, add fruit to the partly cooled syrup and gently boil. Add lemon, if desired. Boil rapidly until tender and clear, then cool rapidly. Let the fruit stand in the syrup to become plump. Pack fruit in sterilized jars and add reheated syrup to within 1/4 inch of the top, sealing immediately.

APPLE BETTY
1 can (1 lb. 4 oz.) pie-sliced apples
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tbsps. butter
1/4 tsp. salt
2-3 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
1/4 cup orange juice
2 tbsps. lemon juice
Grated rind of one orange
Add melted butter to bread crumbs and place half the crumbs in bottom of baking dish. Mix the apples with all of the seasonings and place half of them over the crumbs. Repeat the layers, bake at 375 degrees 30-40 minutes. Serve warm with cream. 6 to 8 servings.

MANDARIN SALAD
1 small can mandarin oranges (drained)
1 cup tidbit pineapple (drained)
1 cup midget marshmallows
1 cup coconut
1/2 pint sour cream
Mix the first four ingredients and stir in the sour cream. Chill well. Prepare early enough so the salad can ferment a little before serving. To serve, place in individual dishes and garnish with a maraschino cherry. Serves 5.

Nut Bread Gifts
Nut breads make nice gifts. Make days ahead, then wrap in foil and freeze.

Gathering Crop

Mrs. W. D. Caldwell enjoys working outdoors and finds the time she spends cultivating and watering the many fruit trees at her home can yield big dividends. When she can beat the birds to the fruit there are pears, apples, apricots and cherries to serve the family.

Try Tempting Treats With Fall Pear Crop

One of the nice things about fall is pears. They're back in all their flavorful goodness and in abundance.

Pears have been known to man for a long, long time. Plant historians place the origin of pears in middle Asia. Pear seeds have been found in the debris of ancient Swiss lake dwellings.

Later, the Greeks took pears in hand and improved them. By 300 B.C., pear culture was common in Greece. When the Romans conquered Greece, they took over the pear trees, too, and eventually shared the fruit with other parts of the Old World.

While it is not known exactly when the first pear tree was set out in America, it is possible that the Endicott, planted in 1630 near Salem, Mass., could claim this honor. It was still standing in 1875 and was 80 feet tall.

Try these recipes to make the most of the new fall crop of fresh pears.

CREME DE MENTHE PEARS
2 cups sugar
2 cups water
Green vegetable coloring
Few drops peppermint extract
6 to 8 fresh winter pears
Combine sugar and water in a 3-quart saucepan. Add vegetable coloring and peppermint extract. Bring to boiling point. Peel pears, leave whole with stems attached. Drop into boiling syrup. Cover and simmer until pears are tender, 20 minutes. Serve cold for dessert. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

GLAZED FRESH PEARS
8 whole winter pears
48 whole cloves
1/2 cup sugar
3/4 cup currant or apple jelly
3 cups water
One 4-inch stick whole cinnamon
Peel tall thin pears; leave whole with stems attached. Stick each with 6 whole cloves. Mix sugar, jelly and water in a 3-quart saucepan into which place 4 pears. (The water should cover 3/4 of the pears. Therefore, add additional water if necessary.) Add cinnamon. Cover and simmer until pears are tender, 20 minutes. Repeat with remaining 4 pears. Cool in syrup. Carefully lift from syrup onto serving dish. Serve cold as a meat accompaniment, or for dessert. Yield: 8 servings.

FRESH PEAR AND ORANGE SAUCE
4 large fresh ripe pears
3 tbsps. water
2 tbsps. sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
2 large fresh oranges
Wash, pare and quarter pears. Place in a saucepan with water. Cover and cook slowly until soft, 15 to 20 minutes. Mash. Add sugar and salt. Peel and section oranges. Dice and add to pear sauce. Chill and serve for dessert or breakfast or as a sauce over gingerbread, cakes or puddings. Yield: Approximately 2 1/2 cups.

WHIPPED CHEESE TOPPING
2 cups (1/2 lb.) shredded Cheddar cheese
1/2 cup half and half OR light cream
Allow cheese to come to room temperature. In a mixing bowl beat cheese until fairly smooth; gradually add half and half or light cream and continue to beat until mixture is smooth and fluffy.
