LBJ Thanksgiving Day Proclamation

As the harvest season draws to a close and our storehouses bulge with the bounty of the land, it is our desire to observe, in the custom and tradition of our forebears, a special day dedicated to giving thanks to God—a day on which to lay aside our daily tasks and cares and pay joyous homage to Him. We are impelled to raise our voices in His praise and to proclaim our heartfelt gratitude for another year in which we have been blessed with a bountiful harvest, with intellectual, humanitarian, economic, scientific and technical advances and achievements, and with other gains too numerous to mention.

Although we have been blessed with unsurpassed prosperity, we recognize that poverty and want exist throughout the world—even among us—and we pledge ourselves to the eradication of those evils.

We know, too, that the foundation for a peaceful world is still to be built and that even now armed strife exists in parts of the world. We are saddened that gallant men of our armed services have fallen in the eternal quest for peace with freedom, dignity, and justice for all. We share with their bereaved families and friends their sense of tragic loss. In the words of Abraham Lincoln, we resolve "that these honored dead shall not have died in vain," and vow that their loss will spur us ever onward until man's great dream of universal peace is realized.

Yet we are filled with an instinctive impulse to give thanks for:

- Our free society of free men, free institutions, and free elections;
Our freedom of speech, our freedom of the press, and our freedom to worship as our consciences dictate;
Our emphasis upon the dignity, equality, and worth of man;

- Our humanitarian instincts;
Our unalienable right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;
Our confidence in our ability to meet the challenges of today and of the future.

For these are the things that set us apart as a nation—that made our nation great—that will keep our nation great.

So as our forefathers in Virginia, in New England, and throughout this land have done for more than three and one-half centuries, let us appoint a special day on which all of us, in keeping with the dictates of our own conscience, will give thanks to the Lord for His manifold blessings. And on that day, let us rededicate ourselves to meeting the challenges of the present with the fortitude and faith with which our forefathers met the challenges of the past.

Now, therefore, I, Lyndon B. Johnson, President of the United States of America, in consonance with the Joint Resolution of the Congress approved Dec. 26, 1941, designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, Nov. 26, 1964, as a day of national thanksgiving.

On that day, let us gather in our homes and in our places of worship and in other suitable places to give thanks to God for His graciousness and His generosity to us—to pledge to Him our ever-lasting devotion—to beseech His divine guidance and the wisdom and strength to recognize and follow that guidance—and to pray to Him that the forces of evil, violence, indifference, intolerance, and inhumanity may soon vanish from the face of the earth and that peace, reason, understanding, and good will may reign supreme throughout the world.

Four Air Force Men Lost On Hop To Viet

Reds Claim Downing Of 3 Craft

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Two T28 planes and four U.S. airmen have been missing for six days on a ferry flight from northeast Thailand to South Viet Nam, American military sources said today.

The sources said the two planes, each carrying two pilots, were on a flight from Udorn, a Thai-Laotian border town to Danang, in South Viet Nam.

Their normal route would have crossed the Laotian panhandle for about 120 miles.

PICK UP T28S

Informants said the pilots were to pick up two additional T28s transferred from the U.S. military assistance program in Viet Nam to the U.S. Air Force T28 training program in Thailand.

They said an intensive search had been made since late last Thursday when the two planes failed to arrive at Danang.

Names of the pilots were not available here. The pro-Communist Pathet Lao has claimed it shot down three U.S. planes last Wednesday and damaged two others. Another Pathet Lao report said an F101 jet fighter was shot down over the panhandle area last Saturday and an F100 was damaged.

DOWNING CONFIRMED

The Pentagon confirmed the F101 downing, saying the pilot, Capt. Burton L. Waltz of Ft. Morgan, Colo., was picked up by search aircraft alive but injured. He was said to be on a reconnaissance mission over south central Laos.

The Defense Department announced that Capt. William R. Martin of Alexandria, La., was fatally injured when his F100 jet fighter was shot down over Laos last Wednesday. The location of the crash was not revealed.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI believes it has identified the killers of three civil rights workers slain in Mississippi and the bombers of a Birmingham church where four children died, an FBI spokesman said today. The FBI still is trying to gather enough evidence to go to court in both cases, the spokesman said.

Murder Charged In Wife's Death

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Samuel Miller, 39, was charged with murder in the fatal beating of his wife, 40, who died Tuesday at Baptist Memorial Hospital. She was admitted to the hospital near midnight Sunday with head and face injuries.

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China ruled out a variety of proposed approaches to the problem of curbing nuclear weapons and insisted its own plan of total abolition is the only valid one.

Last Born Quint Dies

PARIS (AP) — One of the Sabor quintuplets died during the night, the Minister of Public Health announced today.

Officials said the dead baby was the last born, Jean-Luc, who weighed 2 pounds, 7 ounces at birth Monday.

The ministry said there had been "no important change" in the condition of the other two boys and two girls.

The babies were born to Mrs. Raymond Sabor, wife of a mailman in a Paris suburb.

The Health Ministry said Jean-Luc had been suffering from respiratory troubles which suddenly worsened Tuesday night. Three hours later a hemorrhage of the lungs developed and he died. News of the

U.S. Legation Building Stoned

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — About 400 African and Communist Chinese students stoned the U.S. Legation in Sofia, Bulgaria, today and staged a demonstration in front of the Belgian Embassy protesting the U.S.-Belgian action in the Congo.

Stone-hurling demonstrators smashed windows of the U.S. Legation building after they had tried in vain to make their way into the Belgian Embassy to hand over protest notes.

A legation spokesman, reached from Vienna by telephone, said Mrs. Eugenie Andersson, the U.S. minister to Bulgaria, requested an immediate appointment with Bulgarian Foreign Minister Ivan Bashev. The spokesman did not say what action the minister would take.

HCJC Student Suffers Burns

STANTON (SC) — Wayne Doshier, 20, a student at Howard County Junior College and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Doshier, Stanton, is in Physicians Hospital here with painful burns about the head, and face and one arm. He was injured when butane he was using to clean the rear-end of his car ignited from an unknown source and exploded. The accident occurred shortly after 12:30 p.m. today at Wayne's father's place of business — the E. & H. Pump service.

The youth was resting easily at 1 p.m. and is not believed to have serious injuries. Bob Smith, police chief, investigated the accident and the Stanton Fire Department was called to put out the blaze. No damage from the fire was reported.

Neither is eager for that. The real aim is quite different. In London's case it is to halt the outflow of the pound sterling because imports too exports to a dangerous degree. In Washington's case it is to hold the outflow of dollars to a modest stream rather than a possible torrent.

That Britain's financial troubles should affect the cost of Americans doing business at home might seem far fetched. But the dollar and the pound are used as the standards of foreign exchange for most of the world's trade this side of the Iron Curtain. If the pound wobbles, the dollar can't escape entirely unscathed — nor can many of the other currencies of the world.

That probably is why Washington moved with unexpected speed, relying on the ounce of prevention of raising interest charges on short-term lending. That was to ward off any rush to ship American dollars to the high-yield London market. Washington also sought to halt any fears that higher interest charges would choke off the current economic growth rate, as costly borrowing has been accused of doing in the past.

Even Money Keel Goal Of Countries

NEW YORK (AP) — Speedy defense is counted upon to protect the world's two most important currencies — the American dollar and the British pound.

And the speed with which the two nations moved after a speculative run started against the pound also is seen as a measure of the danger which such a run posed for the whole delicate balance of international finance.

London's move was drastic — a quick raising of the Bank of England's lending rate to 7 per cent from 5 per cent. Washington's move was moderate — an equally quick raising of the Federal Reserve's discount rate to 4 per cent from 3 1/2 per cent. This was a gesture of warning that the dollar would be defended from raiders rather than a real deterrent to any possible big loss of dollars overseas.

Higher interest rates at these basic levels is likely to mean higher borrowing costs in time through much of the economies of the two nations. And that in turn can dampen some business expansion, some consumer buying.

Neither is eager for that. The real aim is quite different. In London's case it is to halt the outflow of the pound sterling because imports too exports to a dangerous degree. In Washington's case it is to hold the outflow of dollars to a modest stream rather than a possible torrent.

Turkey Day Lobster

We might have been spared the problem of what to do with the turkeys on the day after Thanksgiving if the settlers of the Popham Colony in 1607 had stayed around longer. The state of Maine claims the colonists and Indians had a feast of lobster, clams and oysters to give thanks 13 years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock. Unfortunately for lobster lovers they returned to England the next spring. This cartoon is by AP. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Texas Eyed For Job Corps Sites

AUSTIN (AP) — Leaders in a "very active" application for a community training program at Corpus Christi.

Shriver said federal funds would be used entirely if his office accepts a contract for San Marcos facilities and program offered by a non-profit government board of state and local sources. No state or local funds would be used in giving 16 to 22-year-olds a basic education plus vocational training.

In a community training program the project would be financed 90 per cent by federal funds and 10 per cent by local money.

Shriver mentioned no other Texas projects specifically. "San Marcos' application is an outstanding prospect," he told newsmen. "It has a fine location, a fine climate and good facilities. There are very few things that would need to be done."

TRAINING CAMP President Johnson said in a San Marcos speech last week that he would like "to establish here a job corps training camp to train between 1,000 and 2,000 young men in the skills that will make it possible for them to find rewarding work."

The Camp Gary base covers 2,230 acres with 711 buildings, including 108 housing units. Originally it was a primary flight training base in World War II, later being used for helicopter, parachutes and liaison pilot training. It has been kept intact on a caretaker basis since 1959 without assignment of any troops.

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP)—Shell Oil Company announced today a new gas discovery in the Port Arthur area which observers say may develop into a major production area.

The discovery is a wildcat well 5/8 miles southeast of Port Arthur in the Keith Lake area. The completion is called No. 1 McFaddin Ranch. It had an initial test flow of 3.5 million cubic feet of gas with a recorded tubing pressure of 3,200 pounds.

The flow was from the Miocene section perforated at 8,422-30 feet with casing cemented at 8,554 feet. The well is in the Nancy E. Rogers survey 4 miles northwest of Sabine Pass in a swampy area which entails expensive road cost.

EARLY PAPER THURSDAY

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, The Herald will be published early Thursday.

This moves up the "deadlines," particularly that on Classified Advertising. All Classified Ad orders for Thursday must be in by 9 a.m.

You will find a tremendous presentation of special Christmas season offerings in Thursday's holiday edition.

City Closes Down For Thanksgiving

Big Spring will join the nation Thursday in observance of Thanksgiving Day. The downtown area will be closed down and a Sabbath calm should prevail in the business district.

Banks will be closed and the post office will deliver no mail. The windows in the lobby will be shut down.

All federal, state, city and county offices will be closed. At the courthouse, only the sheriff's office will be open, and at the city hall, emergency crews in the water, sewer, and fire departments will be on duty. The police station, as usual, will be functioning.

Highway patrol officers, and others charged with keeping the highways safe, will not have a holiday, however. Anticipating a heavy flow of cars on the roads and highways, the patrol will be on extra duty.

Hospitals will have a standby operation program.

Most ordinary citizens will spend the day quietly climaxed with a big dinner in true American Thanksgiving fashion.

Food stores have been thronged for three days as homemakers bought the supplies needed for this super feast.

The prisoners in the city county jail, as well as the personnel at the Webb AFB, will have a big dinner.

A special Thanksgiving Day service is slated for 10 a.m. Prospects loom for a beautiful day and many residents will be on holiday trips out of town.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED

Bayonets, Tear Gas Quell Saigon Rioters

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — About 2,000 students rioted in Saigon today demanding the ouster of Premier Tran Van Huong and were dispersed by paratroopers with bayonets and tear gas.

Martial law was declared after a day of violence that saw scores wounded. In an attempt to end the civic tumult and get on with the war against Communist guerrillas, U.S. officials warned that American aid may be curtailed unless the disorders end, reliable sources said.

FOURTH DAY

It was the fourth straight day of disorders and U.S. authorities are telling the Vietnamese that "the patience of the American public is wearing out," one informant said.

At least 100 persons, 60 of them police and troops, were injured in the melee around the headquarters of the politically powerful national Buddhist organization.

Premier Houng's predecessor, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, was brought down by riots in August. But the rioting today exceeded the August riots in violence.

The Buddhist hierarchy declared open political war on Houng's government and demanded immediate release of demonstrators arrested previously. Huong showed no sign of giving in.

KEPT IN

All American military personnel and civilians were warned to stay off the streets and to avoid crowds if they had to move about the city.

The High National Council, South Viet Nam's interim legislative assembly, scheduled a meeting Tuesday. It was considered possible that the council might remove Houng in hopes another government could muster enough support to end the political chaos. Otherwise it was feared the military would take control of the government again.

Thanksgiving Service Scheduled At 10 A.M.

The annual Thanksgiving union service, sponsored by the Big Spring Pastors' Association, will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at the First Baptist Church, with the Rev. H. Clyde Smith, pastor of the First Methodist Church, bringing the Thanksgiving sermon. Special Thanksgiving services will also be held at the Webb AFB chapel; Christian Science Society home, and St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Music for the union service will be in charge of Ted James, minister of music at the First Methodist Church. An ensemble from the First Methodist and First Baptist churches will sing for the special service.

Other ministers taking part on the program will be the Rev. Al Seddon, pastor of St. Paul Presbyterian Church; the Rev. V. Ward Jackson, pastor of the First Church of God; the Rev. James Puckett, pastor of Baptist Temple; the Rev. Don Hungerford, pastor of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, and Chaplain Bill Warren, Webb Air Force Base.

The offering, taken annually, will go to support Bible teaching in Big Spring High School.

The Christian Science Society will hold its Thanksgiving service at 11 a.m. The sermon on "Thanksgiving" will consist of readings from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," along with a period for individual expressions of thanks, hymns, and prayer.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church will hold its annual Thanksgiving service at 10 a.m. in the church. The sermon will be delivered by the pastor, the Rev. Clair Wiederhoft. Special church services will also be held at Webb AFB chapel Thursday morning. Catholics may attend a 10 a.m. Mass, to be said by Chaplain Thomas D. Holland. Protestant services will be held at 11 a.m. conducted by Chaplains Benjamin F. Meacham and William H. Warren. Chaplain Warren will also give thanks at each of the dining halls on the base during the day.

Sun Bowl For Tech

EL PASO (AP) — Texas Tech's football team accepted a bid today to play in the Sun Bowl Dec. 26.

An opponent for the South-west Conference Red Raiders from Lubbock has not been named. Sun Bowl chairman C. B. Bobo said.

Bobo said Texas Tech (6-3) will be matched against one of 10 teams still on the Sun Bowl list, including Arizona, Arizona State, Auburn, Florida, Georgia, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Penn State, Tennessee and Utah.

Tech, led by halfback Donnie Anderson, amassed its best record since 1955 by beating Mississippi State, Texas A&M, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, West Texas and Washington State. The Raiders lost to Texas, Baylor and Arkansas and were tied by Rice.

Saw Missionary Shot In Congo, Refugee Reports

BRUSSELS (AP) — A Belgian refugee from Stanleyville reported today he had witnessed the killing of American missionary Paul Carlson by Congolese rebels.

The refugee, Fernand Deprey, arrived in Brussels Wednesday with the first plane load of refugees from the former rebel capital in the northeast Congo.

"I was a prisoner in the Hotel Victory," Deprey said. "Carlson was in a group of about 150 who were forced to sit down in the street.

"When the rebels heard the paratroopers were on the way, they opened fire into the group and Carlson was shot down. Afterwards as we went to meet the Belgian troops I saw his body in the street. He had been shot through the head."

Deprey said he had known Carlson well while they were prisoners of the rebels. "He was very cheerful and a great moral example," Deprey said.

North and South reached a small slam contract in no trump on purely quantitative bidding. South's jump bid to two no trump announces 19 or 20 points in high cards. North has 14 points which assures the partnership of the 33 required for a slam undertaking.

Despite South's club bid, West opened the ten of that suit inasmuch as he had a complete sequence. The queen was played from the dummy and declarer paused to total his assets. If the hearts responded favorably, he could count four tricks in that suit which together with three clubs, three diamonds and one spade brought him up to 11. A 12th trick might be forthcoming either in diamonds or spades.

At trick two, a heart was led from the dummy to declarer's king. With the appearance of the ten from East, South continued by laying down the queen next. When East discarded a spade, declarer had no trouble in running the balance of the suit by taking the proven finesse against West's jack. East gave up another spade and a small club.

South tested the diamonds next, and East showed out on the third round—discarding a club. Declarer cashed out his clubs next and, when all hands followed suit, East's original holding was an open book. The play revealed that he had five clubs, two diamonds and one heart. He must, therefore, have started with five spades.

All hands except West were down to three spades. South led the six from his hand and put in the ten from dummy. East was in with the jack, and his forced return away from the king enabled declarer to win the last two tricks with the queen and ace.

Free Turkey Meal At Cafe

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A Greek immigrant and his wife count their blessings in the number of free turkey dinners they serve at their restaurant Thanksgiving Day.

This will be the 18th year that William J. Sargent, 64, and his wife, Arlie, 53, have opened the door of Sargent's Cafe to all comers.

"We sort of look forward to this every year," said Mrs. Sargent, a city employee who takes time off from her job to help roast 15 to 20 turkeys, make the stuffing and prepare the vegetables.

"This is something we do ourselves. My husband enjoys doing it. Eighteen years ago when he started, he wanted to see people happy. He still does."

CORNY, YET

"We're not under any illusion that it is a cure-all for their problems. It sounds corny, I know, but we get an inner glow."

The Sargents distribute tickets to various city agencies, for young and old alike. They served over 900 meals last Thanksgiving and are expecting about 1,000 persons Thursday.

Sargent, crippled by arthritis since 1952, does all the carving despite his handicap.

"If he was going to get $10 a plate, he couldn't carve with more finesse," his wife said. Their daughter, Susie, 17, a high school senior, helps in the kitchen.

The cafe isn't very big. It seats about 35 persons, 12 at the counter.

VOLUNTEER HELP

Volunteers will assist in preparations tonight and with the serving and other chores Thanksgiving Day. "We have about 30 helpers, in all," Mrs. Sargent said.

This year's menu includes mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce — "I make it from fresh cranberries," said Mrs. Sargent — green beans, coffee, milk and ice cream.

No one is turned away, including the wealthy gentleman who came a few years ago, tucked a napkin in place and ate heartily.

Iowa Boy Driving Down For 2 Calves From LBJ

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—An Iowa City youngster will spend a good part of his Thanksgiving vacation from school on the road—to the LBJ Ranch in Texas.

Billy Miltner, 12, has been negotiating since last summer for the purchase of two Hereford calves from the ranch of President Johnson.

He closed the transaction by shaking hands with Johnson Oct. 7 when the President made a campaign visit to Des Moines. Billy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miltner, saved the $300 purchase price for the two calves from his own money and plans to raise the animals himself.

He's pleased to get the Herefords "even though we're Angus people."

Billy will drive to Texas with his father and brother-in-law Mike Donovan. They planned to start today.

WARREN PANEL DATA

Grim Truth Hit Connally Same Instant Bullet Did

WASHINGTON (AP) — The split second that Gov. John B. Connally of Texas heard a shot the thought flashed through his mind: That's a rifle and this is an assassination attempt.

But he couldn't do anything. Gravely wounded and wondering if he were dying, he lay in his wife's arms, while President John F. Kennedy in the seat behind was shot to death. Still conscious, Connally heard the final shot hit Kennedy — "it was a very loud noise" — and heard the cries of Mrs. Kennedy — "They have killed my husband!"

Connally, recovered from his wounds, gave some of the most graphic testimony as the Warren Commission gathered volumes of evidence on which it based its report made public Sept. 27. Some of these volumes have now become available to The Associated Press.

Connally, in testimony given in Washington April 21, related: "We had just made the turn, well, when I heard what I thought was a shot. I heard this noise which I immediately took to be a rifle shot."

"I instinctively turned to my right because the sound appeared to come from over my right shoulder, so I turned to look back over my right shoulder, and I saw nothing unusual except just people in the crowd, but I did not catch the president in the corner of my eye, and I was interested, because once I heard the shot in my own mind, I identified it as a rifle shot, and I immediately — the only thought that crossed my mind was that this is an assassination attempt."

HIT IN BACK

"I was turning to look back over my left shoulder into the back seat, but I never got that far in my turn, and then I felt like someone had hit me in the back."

The governor said "a very, very brief span of time" elapsed between his hearing the first shot and feeling himself hit.

He continued: "I immediately thought that this — that I had been shot. I knew it when I just looked down and I was covered with blood, and the thought immediately passed through my mind that there were either two or three people involved or more in this or someone was shooting with an automatic rifle. I immediately assumed, because of the amount of blood, and, in fact, that it had obviously passed through my chest, that I had probably been fatally hit."

"So I merely doubled up, and Mrs. Connally pulled me over to her lap. I reclined with my head on her lap, conscious all the time, and with my eyes open; and then, of course, the third shot sounded and I heard the shot very clearly, I heard it hit him. It was a very loud noise, just that audible, very clear."

"Immediately I could see on my clothes, my clothing, I could see on the interior of the car which, as I recall, was a pale blue, brain tissue, which I immediately recognized, and I recall very well, on my trousers there was one chunk of brain tissue as big as almost my thumb, thumb nail, and again I did not see the president at any time either after the first, second or third shots, but I assumed always that it was he who was hit and no one else."

"I immediately, when I was hit, I said, 'Oh no, no, no!' And then I said, 'My God, they are going to kill us all.'"

Nellie, Mrs. Connally, "when she pulled me over into her lap said, 'Don't worry. Be quiet. You are going to be all right.'"

Connally said he lost consciousness as the car pulled out of the cavalcade and raced for the hospital, where he recovered

URA Okays Loan For Crystal City

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approval of a $1,188,432 grant and a $1,278,332 loan to help Crystal City, Tex., finance its 102-acre West Crystal No. 2 Renewal Project was announced Tuesday by the Urban Renewal Administration.

Tribute In Dance To Be Paid JFK

DALLAS (AP)—"The spirit of the dance is the spirit of John Kennedy," said one of the 15 soloists of the Western world who will dedicate a "tribute in dance" tonight to the late president.

At least two of the dancers, Maria Tallchief and Jacques d'Amboise of the New York City Ballet, performed for Kennedy while he was president.

The woman who inspired tonight's festival, Marina Svetlova, was a guest of Mrs. Kennedy at the White House about four months before the Nov. 22, 1963, assassination.

But even to the dancers who never saw Kennedy, he was a special friend. They enthusiastically volunteered their talents for the non-profit tribute in his memory.

Carla Fracci, Italian prima ballerina of the Teatro Alla Scala in Milan, is a bride of only a month but was determined to continue with plans to "dance for Kennedy."

English ballerina Nadia Nerina is dancing by her own request "The Dying Swan." She was in a theater watching Anna Pavlova dance the famous ballet solo when word reached Britain of Kennedy's assassination.

"But at most, 1,200 of these young people became teachers in Oklahoma. The others went to other states to teach, or entered some other field."

Salaries are the major factor in the teacher rebellion, but there are many others:

Poverty Battle Cash Will Flow

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—Money to launch a nationwide campaign against poverty will soon be flowing to 32 states under the administration's anti-poverty program.

The first 120 projects to win approval were announced Tuesday by Sargent Shriver, the nation's anti-poverty chief. They'll get a total of $35 million out of the $800 million approved by Congress for the first year of the program.

The biggest chunk — $15 million — will be used to establish 41 Job Corps training centers where idle youths, 16 to 21, will receive basic education and perform conservation-type tasks.

A big recruiting job to get volunteers for the Job Corps will be launched next week. Most of the camps will be for boys, but a few will be set up for girls.

DOZEN CITIES

Another $13 million will go to a dozen cities and six rural areas for community-run programs aimed at a variety of targets, including teaching Indian children to speak English, training unemployed parents in job skills, and providing social services for impoverished areas.

Five cities with well-developed plans for spending the money will get the largest amounts: Detroit, $2.8 million; Los Angeles, $2.7 million; Washington, $1.4 million; Pittsburgh, $1.2 million, and Atlanta, $1 million.

Other projects for which funds have been approved include setting up neighborhood youth corps patterned on the Job Corps camps but for youths who will live at home, and helping colleges provide jobs for needy students who can remain in school.

THIRTEEN STATES

The first neighborhood youth corps will be established in 13 states, serving 10,500 boys and girls, 16 to 21.

Thirty-one colleges in the Chicago, Detroit and Washington areas have agreed to participate in the work-study program. They plan to find jobs for 4,500 students.

President Johnson, who pushed the anti-poverty bill through Congress shortly before adjournment, was reported by Shriver to be pleased with the progress being made to get the program going. Shriver announced the first projects after a two-hour conference with the President.

Johnsons In Hurry-Up Northeast Texas Trip

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson has demonstrated anew his zest for making hurry-up travel plans. By his own testimony, he was airborne on a 600-mile round trip Tuesday night just 20 minutes after he decided to get going.

Johnson's decision to fly to a testimonial dinner at Mount Pleasant in far Northeast Texas required fast action by others, too.

Progressive Jazz Adds Symphonies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Stag Kenton, a leader of big-band progressive jazz, says he has formed the "Los Angeles Neophonic Orchestra," to play jazz symphonies and other jazz works for large orchestras.

He said Tuesday the orchestra will make its debut Jan. 4 in Los Angeles' new $32.5-million Music Center with a performance of Friedrich Gulda's "Concerto for Piano and Jazz Orchestra."

Zealot Guard Vital Need, Says Hoover

CHICAGO (AP)—The government must be constantly guarded against zealots or pressure groups who are "speared at times by Communists and moral degenerates," says FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. They would, Hoover said Tuesday night, "crush the rights of others in order to achieve their ends."

AWARDS DINNER

Hoover, honored at the annual awards dinner of Loyola University's Stritch School of Medicine, said he will not allow the Federal Bureau of Investigation to become the tool of pressure groups seeking "to attain their own selfish aims to the detriment of our people as a whole." Hoover, who did not identify the groups, was presented the first "Sword of Loyola Award" created by the university to honor a national or international figure "who exhibits to a high degree the qualities of courage, dedication and service."

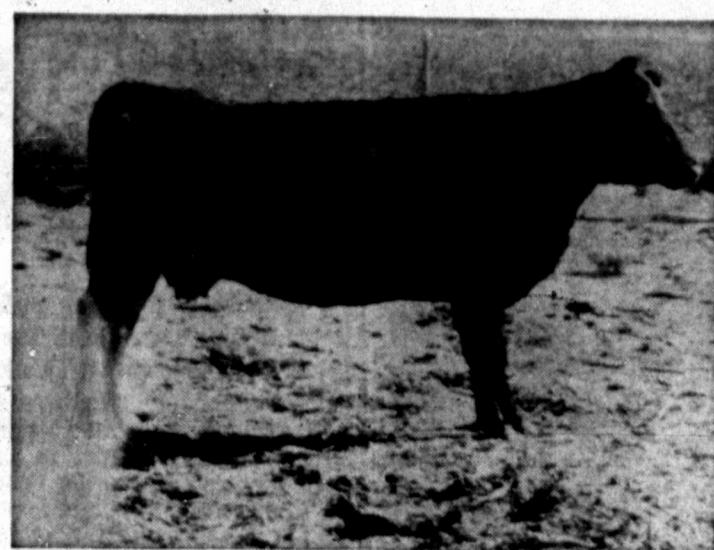

He told the more than 1,100 persons at the $250-a-plate dinner that the government cannot favor one group or special interest over its duty to protect the rights of all citizens.

"We cannot, and will not, permit the FBI to be used to superimpose the aims of those who would sacrifice the very foundations on which our government rests," he said.

"A MISFORTUNE"

"It is a great misfortune that the zealots or pressure groups always think with their emotions and seldom with reason. They have no compunction in carping, lying and exaggerating with the fiercest passion, spear-headed at times by Communists and moral degenerates. They cry liberty when they really mean license."

It was Hoover's first public appearance since last week when he told a news conference in Washington the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Negro civil rights leader, was a "liar" for warning civil rights workers not to expect help from Albany, Ga., FBI agents.

Russia-Bound Oswald Was A Lonely Cynic

WASHINGTON (AP)—From the time he set out for the Soviet Union in September 1959 until he returned home three years later, Lee Harvey Oswald saw few Americans other than embassy officials.

But those he saw remember something of the sullen loneliness that seemed to set him apart from other men.

The freighter S. S. Marion Lykes, bound from New Orleans to Le Havre, carried only four passengers: a retired Army colonel and his wife, a young student off to France to begin his college studies and Oswald.

BITTER TALES

George B. Church Jr., the retired colonel, remembered Oswald as an unsociable, withdrawn passenger who was seasick quite a bit during the 16-day journey and who, in his brief conversations, bitterly described the hard times his mother had during the depression.

The colonel's wife made an attempt to get to know the reclusive passenger, but was repelled and even had difficulty obtaining his address for her Christmas card list. She lent him a book, which he never returned, then left him to the conversational care of the chief engineer, who seemed to feel that Oswald was "a smart boy."

Billy Joe Lord, the student who was Oswald's cabin mate, found him "a normal, healthy individual, mentally alert, but extremely cynical." Neither was an outgoing type, so conversation between them was sparse. Lord recalled Oswald's bitterness "about the fact his mother had to work in a drug store in Fort Worth" and once heard his views on religion.

"I do not know why we discussed religion," Lord told the commission, "except that possibly he noticed that I had a Bible. Oswald could not see how I could believe in God in view of the fact that science had disproved the existence of God and that there was only matter."

All three passengers thought Oswald was heading to a university, possibly in Switzerland. They had no idea he was on his way to defect to the Soviet Union. Lord didn't find out until a month later when his mother sent him a newspaper clipping from home.

Railway Seeks To Close Depot

PORT NECHES, Tex. (AP)—Kansas City Southern Railway has advised business firms here it is asking permission to close the Port Neches depot.

An application filed with the Texas Railroad Commission asked permission for the company to discontinue its office as a non-agency pre-pay station in freight tariffs, and to retire and dismantle the depot building.

A hearing on the matter is set Dec. 8 at the Jefferson County courthouse in Beaumont.

Civic groups are expected to send representatives.

The station handles freight from the large complex of petrochemical installations in Port Neches. It offers no passenger service.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Do you suppose there will be anyone going "Over the river and through the woods" to grandfather's house this Thanksgiving? I can't think of anyone in these United States where that would take place, and if there is a grandfather that lives in such a remote place there would probably be very few families who would travel by sleigh as in the delightful Thanksgiving poem. But it would be a wonderful experience, I'm sure, to get the family together and bundled in blankets and take off behind a spirited horse and go for a visit with the elders on Thanksgiving Day.

Many of our Big Spring people are planning to spend the day in various ways Thursday. Many are going to see their families, some will take advantage of the holiday to get in a hunting trip, while more than a townful will be watching the ball games... all the time being thankful for this day.

MRS. ZULA REEVES, MRS. TED BROWN and JOLENE LAND plan to be in Hereford tomorrow visiting in the home of Mrs. L. B. WORTHAN, a sister of Mrs. Brown. MRS. J. T. UNDERWOOD, their mother, has been visiting in Hereford and will return here with the Big Spring women. They plan to spend a day in Pampa before returning here at the end of the week.

MRS. W. F. SALYER of Exeter, Calif., is here to visit her sister, MRS. TOM HORTON, who is a patient in Howard County Hospital Foundation. Mrs. Horton was injured in an automobile accident more than six weeks ago.

MRS. AL MOORE and her daughter, Mylana, of Fort Worth are here with Mrs. Moore's mother, MRS. J. A. COPPEY, while Mr. Coffey is away on a hunting trip.

MRS. LILLIAN WHEATLEY of El Paso and MISS LEONA BRADBERRY of Austin are guests of MR. and MRS. G. W. WEBB and MR. and MRS. A. E. BRADBERRY.

MR. and MRS. GLENN E. SMITH and their children, Sharon, Shirley, Lynn and Glenn Jr., are to arrive Thursday from Decatur to spend the weekend with his parents, MR. and MRS. E. T. O'DANIEL will have as her guests Thursday MR. and MRS. T. R. FLEEMAN and their children, Carol, Nancy and Danny, of Odessa, and MRS. DOROTHY PUCKETT and Joe from Seminole.

DEAR ABBY

Better Not Look Back

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a wonderful man. He is my second husband. I ran into my first husband, who is also married, and he tells me he still loves me and he KNOWS that one day we will be together again. What does this mean? Now I can't think straight. We were divorced for five years. I thought I loved my second husband until this happened. Do you think we could be married to the wrong people? I need advice.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: It sounds to me as though your first husband has had second thoughts about his second wife. Leave well enough alone. If you thought you loved your present husband, keep right on loving him, and tell Number One to make the best of it with Number Two because that's what you intend to do.

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school teacher, so you know I am at least as intelligent as the average person, but when I received my sample ballot, I had great difficulty understanding it. The language is so confusing that I actually had to read it four times before I knew whether my YES or NO would mean what I wanted it to mean. For instance, in Proposition 15, which (in Calif.) is the issue dealing with whether or not we want paid television, if we vote YES, it means, "no, we don't want it." If we vote NO, it means, "Yes, we want it." Is it necessary to word the propositions so that most people vote exactly the opposite of how they intend to vote?

JUST STUPID, I GUESS

DEAR JUST NO!:

DEAR ABBY: I read about some of the ridiculous wedding customs sent to you from readers. Kidnapping the bride, filling her shoes with money, etc. The one I think takes the cake is when the wedding guests keep hitting their water glasses with silverware until the bride and groom give them a demonstration of a long, passionate kiss. I am going to be married soon and I do not care to put on this kind of performance in front of a bunch of gawking half-tipsy spectators. I have considered kissing the matron of honor as a means of sobering up the sightseers. Have you a better suggestion?

IN LOVE BUT NOT INSANE

DEAR IN LOVE: Yes. If you really want to sober 'em up, kiss the best man!

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your wonderful answer to "UN-ENLIGHTENED" — that teenager who had just learned that her parents had not been married quite long enough when she was born. You have answered a question I have wanted answered for four years. Our first was born early as our marriage was late. I've felt guilty and ashamed ever since, and worried so for fear the child would find out about it later. You have helped me a lot. I feel like a weight has been lifted off my shoulders. Thank you.

'Rather Puny' Oswald Was Storm Of Deep Disturbance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lee Harvey Oswald's life was a solitary passage during which every frustrated step sank him deeper into the engulfing quicksand of his troubled mind.

The failures, the hates, the angry despair of Oswald return again and again in the thousands of pages of the testimony of the Warren Commission. They are told by the voices that knew him and the eyes that saw him as he blundered and stumbled to destruction—taking the president of the United States with him: A neighbor who knew the curly-haired boy screaming for his supper. A psychiatrist who saw a dangerous boy who was more than a truant, a silent rebel who "disliked everybody." A sullen twig that bent as it grew until it snapped, dreadfully.

The testimony bore witness to this gathering storm. Myrtle Evans, a childhood neighbor: "He would lock himself up in his bedroom and play these records and listen to the radio and read. And he would come to the head of the stairs, just stand there and yell 'Maw! How about fixing me something to eat?'"

DEEP DISTURBANCE

Dr. Renatus Hartogs, psychiatrist, who examined Oswald when Oswald was 13: "The lack of a father figure, the lack of a real family life, neglect by self-involved mother. Yes, I think these are the three factors" breeding a deep personality disturbance.

He hit his mother when she failed to bring food home with her from work. He told Hartogs "I dislike everybody."

Nelson Delgado who knew him in the Marines: "He didn't have no girl writing. Never went to a dance down at the service club. Always by himself."

Kerr Thornley, another Marine who used to talk Marxism with Oswald until he made the mistake of ribbing him once: "He looked at me like a betrayed Caesar and screamed 'Not you too, Thornley!' I never said anything to him again and he never said anything to me again."

When Oswald brought back a wife from the Soviet Union, she turned out to be a wife who said she wanted "the Cadillacs and iceboxes" of a society Oswald abominated.

He denied her comforts and beat her for smoking and drinking beer. She fought back, scratching him. And then she left him.

Oswald threw a tantrum. "By God, you are not going to do it. I will tear all her dresses and break all the baby things. I will get even with you!" he screamed at George de Mohrenschildt, an acquaintance, who helped Marina get away.

De Mohrenschildt: "Of course he was a rather puny individual. Carry a little while he helped me carry the things out."

Marina returned later, nagging.

De Mohrenschildt: Marina "was annoying him all the time. Why don't they have a car; why don't they have more dresses? Look at everybody else living so well and they are just miserable funkeys." He sleeps with me once a month and I never get any satisfaction out of it. He was a semi-educated hillbilly and you can't take such a person seriously."

"Even though he had a job, he told a hospital he was unemployed so he could get charity treatment. What a liar," his wife muttered. He refused to let Marina speak English beyond teaching her such phrases as "I love you" and "Kiss me quick."

And always the voices talked of Oswald the loner, spurning friendship where he was. Perhaps toward the end there was only one friend left. Marina saw him with it, in New Orleans.

"I know that we had a kind of porch, with a—screened in porch, and I know that sometimes evenings after dark he would sit there, with his rifle."

Texan Suspect In 2 Slayings

HAWTHORNE, Nev. (AP) — Edward T. O'Neil, 34, a Texan who shot it out with a Nevada sheriff and lost, was in federal custody today.

Accused of murder in Texas and Colorado, the San Antonio man was taken to Reno and arraigned before U.S. Commissioner John McLaughlin on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

McLaughlin set bond at $50,000. O'Neil waived preliminary hearing and was taken to jail in Reno in lieu of bond.

Sheriff Henry Eddy of Mineral County quoted O'Neil, 34, as saying he shot a Texas rancher in Colorado about a week ago and killed a bartender in San Antonio this month.

O'Neil was shot by Eddy as he came out of his car firing a .45 caliber automatic pistol Monday when stopped by officers.

He was transferred from a hospital to the jail here Tuesday.

Concert-Goers In For Treat

Curtain time for "Never Too Late," the second of the current series of the Big Spring Concert Association, is a little more than a week away, but reviews from other points indicate members here are in for a treat.

Lyle Talbot and Penny Singleton are cast in the lead roles of the delightful comedy of the middle-aged couple about to be blessed by a visit from the stork.

The idea for this situation comedy came to Sumner Arthur Long as he walked down a Hollywood street and spied a fiftieth looking woman, obviously pregnant. When it finally saw light on Broadway several years later, it was an historic success.

Until the blessed event is announced, Harry Lambert (Lyle Talbot) has become a sort of adult baby, ruling his little family circle like a spoiled tyrant. But Edith Lambert (Penny Singleton) changes all that with her announcement.

But if Papa is shaken, it is nothing to compare with daughter Kate (Judith Barcroft) and her husband, Charlie (Tom Connally). They are aghast and ir-reconcilable.

"Never Too Late" will be presented the evening of Dec. 3 in the City Auditorium. It is directed by George Abbott.

Graham Factory To Triple Size

GRAHAM, Tex. (AP) — Mexcel Products, Inc., will triple the size of its factory here, officials said Tuesday.

The plant produces aluminum honeycomb materials for aerospace and commercial applications.

Improvements in the Graham plant, officials from the home office in Berkeley, Calif., said, will be completed by next spring.

Red Supply Line Target In Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force apparently is concentrating its aerial reconnaissance on the Laotian region through which men and supplies flow from Communist North Viet Nam into South Viet Nam.

The loss of two U.S. jets in the Laotian panhandle is an indication of this.

The loss of the American planes last week also may indicate the Communists have beefed up their force of radar-directed antiaircraft guns in this critical area.

POSSIBLE TARGET

The area could be a target for U.S. and South Vietnamese air strikes aimed at choking off that flow. Intensive aerial reconnaissance would be a necessary prelude to any such strikes.

Suggestions that the United States may be approaching a decision on whether to expand the war beyond South Viet Nam's borders have grown as the U.S.-supported drive against the Viet Cong has seemed to flag.

Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, said in an interview published by Life magazine that air strikes could contribute to victory "either by making more difficult the infiltration along the routes from North Viet Nam . . . or by striking the infiltration sources, the training and staging area as in North Viet Nam itself."

He told ABC in an interview released Monday that the possibility of attacking "the trails of Laos" has been discussed.

SUPPLY LINES

If Viet Cong supply lines in North Viet Nam were attacked, the former army chief of staff said, "I would certainly expect considerable encouragement in South Viet Nam to see that at long last the enemy that had been harassing the countryside for so many years was beginning to pay."

Taylor is due back in Washington later this week for possibly critical talks with President Johnson and top advisers.

Two U.S. Air Force jets, one an F100 escorting a photo plane and the other an RF101 reconnaissance ship, were shot down by antiaircraft ground fire last week in an area generally described as in southern to south-central Laos.

A Devotional For The Day

When he had thus spoken, he took bread, and gave thanks to God in presence of them all: and when he had broken it, he began to eat. (Acts 27:35)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, may our hearts turn to Thee and our words express our gratitude for both sad and happy occasions which come to us. Forgive us, if, in the past, in our sorrow or in our joy, we have forgotten Thee. Make us ever mindful of Thy love and presence. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

With Deliberateness

An interesting question is being asked: How will President Johnson react to his lop-sided victory on Nov. 3?

It is easier to prophesy the course of events than it is to predict individual behavior. President Johnson's moves are not always predictable. Yet 30 years of public service have established a pattern that may with some confidence be used as a guide to the future.

First of all, Johnson is a cautious man. He is unlikely to chart an unpopular course. It is his habit to examine a problem in detail, derive from that study the maximum number of points on which reasonable agreement can be reached, and to tailor a compromise. This is the politics of consensus in which he is a master.

The war on poverty, the fight for medicare, aid to education, and Appalachia are among legislative proposals he will push vigorously. Even these may be subject to alteration.

So much for the domestic scene. What about foreign affairs? Here again we are likely to witness in action one of the great conciliators of our time. There will be no appeasement, but there will be an unrelenting search for areas of agreement, for means of dulling the sharp edges of disagreement. For Johnson, as with most thinking Americans, is well aware that we are not omnipotent and that means must somehow be found for peaceful diversity.

This may not be an exciting prospect for those who expect quick victory over communism, or those who yearn for great new experiments and innovations. But it is a comforting prospect.

Stay Alive

We are heading into one of these long holiday weekends, and thus into a time of traffic peril. What should be a happy season all too frequently turns into a time of tragedy, and usually because of undue haste or carelessness.

So to those who are on highways over the holiday, please don't foolishly swap a few minutes for a lifetime. That frustration of being cooped behind a slow truck on a hill may turn into death if you are halted into passing on a hill or while vision is obscure.

And above all, if you are one of those who feels obliged to celebrate the season with spirits, don't get behind a wheel. Or don't let your well-oiled friends get behind the wheel if they have been drinking. Just don't.

Defense Money And Politics

WASHINGTON—Decisions on all expenditures for the defense of the United States are, theoretically at least, not to be influenced by politicians seeking to curry favor in their communities. Taxpayers' money is supposed to be spent for strictly military purposes and not to gain votes in electing congressmen or senators to office.

Yet the howl that has gone up from various parts of the land because of the closing of certain military bases—causing, of course, some unemployment—is a dramatic example of the misconceptions that prevail today concerning the use of public funds. Senators and representatives of both parties whose constituencies will be affected are protesting loudly and demanding re-examination, if not reversal, of the orders issued.

FOR SEVERAL years now members of Congress and candidates have boasted publicly in talks to their constituents that they could "do more for you" in obtaining federal projects in a district or state than could any political opponent. If a senator or representative happens to be of the political party in power in the executive branch of the government, the inference is plainly given that government contracts are allocated on the basis of who "stands in" with the incumbent administration. It has been openly claimed by congressional candidates during their campaigns that they could "get more" out of the federal Treasury than any rival candidate could.

UNFORTUNATELY, the same sort of impression has at times been conveyed for several years now by the government itself in the handling of various federal contracts.

When Secretary of Defense McNamara, through a policy board of officers, ordered a study of the efficiency of various Navy yards, bomber bases and other defense installations, it was obvious that if shutdowns were announced during a political campaign, this might cost votes. So the disclosure was delayed by the administration until after the election, when the bad news could, of course, be revealed without losing votes.

AS A MATTER of fact, the actual number of persons involved in the unemployment resulting from the closing of the bases announced last week is not large. The hardships, to be sure, will be severe for the few who are affected. Out of a total of 6,700 installations of the Defense Department in January 1961, Secretary McNamara has closed or curtailed only 669, which is 10 per cent of the total. Similarly, out of the total of approximately 3,721,000 persons employed in the armed services, both military and civilian, a very small number—less than 4 per cent—has been affected by all the cancellations.

NOTHING HAS been said as yet as to what will be done with the billion dollars that is to be saved by Secretary McNamara when the shutdown of bases is completed. But it is already apparent that the money will be used elsewhere in the defense establishment. Thus, in October 1963 the personnel in the military services got a $1 billion pay raise, and in October 1964 they received another $208 million in pay increases. The Secretary plans to ask for a quarter-billion dollars more in pay for the military this year. So all of this so-called savings will be offset by new expenditures.

IT IS A salutary development, of course, to have the people told that their Defense Department really thinks in terms of efficiency and not of waste or political preference. But there is a lot more proof needed before a convincing case will be made that public funds are not being used for political purposes. Too much of the people's money already has been spent to gain the support needed in particular states to win elections.

Billy Graham

Please give me your definition of humility.

J. P. Humility is the absence of pride and self-assertion. True humility is not a spasmodic virtue which can be received once and for all. It is something we must work at. Paul said: "I die daily." I believe that he meant that every day he tried to keep "self" crucified, and that humility is a day by day, hour by hour, disciplinary task.

The truth is: The closer we get to God, the more unworthy we feel. So humility becomes a Christian virtue. The higher a man is in Grace the lower he will be in his own esteem.

Someone has said: "True humility makes way for Christ, and throws the soul at His feet." But having humility doesn't mean that you think yourself worse than you are. It clarifies the spiritual vision to help one see himself exactly as he is: A person in constant need of the forgiveness and Grace of God.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

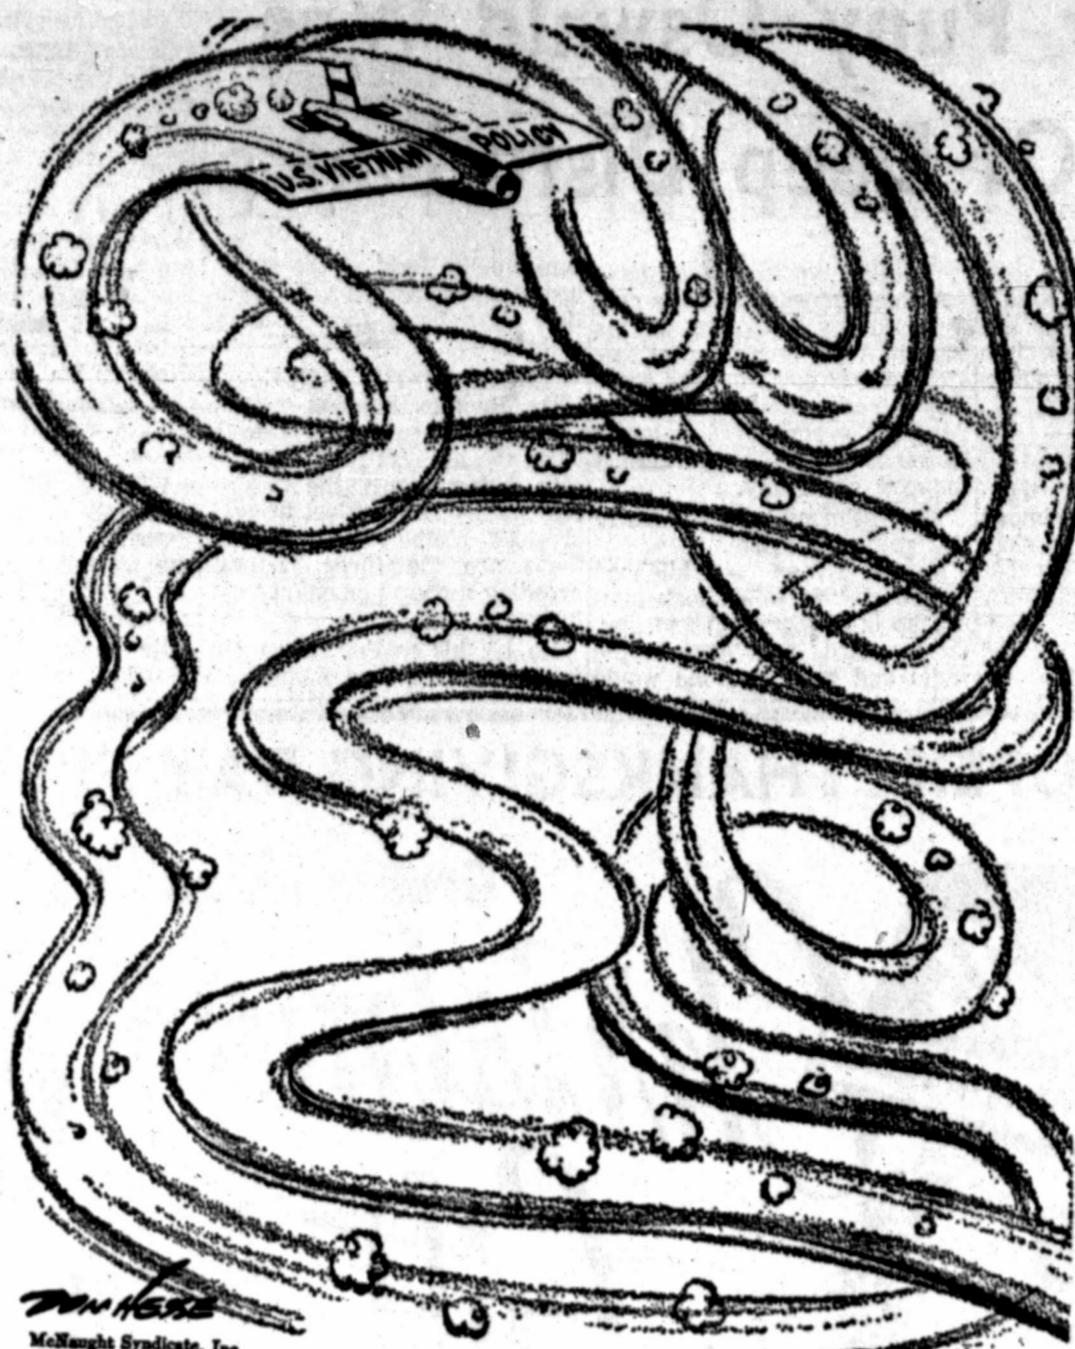

We aren't yet sure of the total impact of Khrushchev's ouster, but we have it on authority of the newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda that it will have at least one definite effect: Russian farmers will get some new potato varieties.

This amusing trifle is not without a lesson. It seems that new disease-resistant potatoes were developed by an enterprising woman scientist who had the misfortune to use "bourgeois," i.e. Western, genetic theories. Her boss suppressed the findings, and now this is used as evidence that Khrushchev's regime ignored scientific advance.

Russia's peculiar notions about genetics facilitate this kind of thing, but it could easily happen in any bureaucracy. If one man, such as the scientist's supervisor, has control over what's done in a particular field, his mistakes become official policy.

In a relatively free economy such as the U. S., on the other hand, the scientist could certainly find some entrepreneur to back her findings. If they proved right, his competitors would have to go along, and farmers and the public would soon benefit from the discoveries.

More Duties For Vice President of the capital's favorite guessing games is whether Hubert H. Humphrey's incandescent spirit will be obscured by Lyndon B. Johnson's long shadow.

WASHINGTON (AP) — One

Johnson himself knows the hazards. Like Humphrey he was one of the most celebrated personages on Capitol Hill, yet all but vanished as John F. Kennedy's vice president. "Whatever happened to Lyndon Johnson?"

was the joke going the rounds then.

From the beginning, vice presidents had a lost feeling. The first, John Adams, felt he held "the most insignificant office that ever the invention of man contrived or his imagination conceived."

John Nance Garner, summing up his job in 1934, likened the vice presidency to a spare tire: as long as everything rolls smoothly, little attention is paid to it.

BUT EVEN then a trend had begun to give the vice president more responsibilities and duties. Herbert Hoover once said he was the first chief executive to enlarge the field of the vice president by having Charles Curtis attend Cabinet sessions "so he would know what was going on in the executive arm of the government, and would be better prepared to take over the presidency if needed."

Franklin D. Roosevelt delegated important administrative duties to Henry Wallace in World War II. Harry S. Truman made Alben W. Barkley a member of the National Security Council, where he participated in policy making.

Dwight D. Eisenhower had Richard M. Nixon represent him on various public occasions both at home and abroad, as well as having him join discussions of the Cabinet and National Security Council.

Kennedy enlarged the job a bit more, assigning Johnson to the chairmanship of the National Aeronautics and Space Council.

NOW IT is Hubert Horatio Humphrey's turn, and Johnson apparently has no intention of shunting him off into a corner. He has already proposed that the government establish an official residence for the vice president.

But from present indications and reports the President has enough work lined up for Humphrey that he will have little leisure time at home.

In addition to the other vice-presidential assignments, Johnson is said to want Humphrey to keep an eye on such departments as labor, agriculture and health, education and welfare, and to act as a lightning rod for ideas in government. He may also make use of the Minnesota man's bright image abroad by giving him overseas missions.

If all this holds true, it doesn't seem likely anyone will be asking, "Whatever happened to Hubert Humphrey?"

Why, man, think it over. When you get right down to it, you're riddled with blessings.

To Your Good Health

Some Women Are More Prone To Hot Flashes

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I wrote to you before and you never answered, but I will try again: Why should a woman of 61 still have hot flashes? Medicine and shots don't seem to stop them. Could this be something serious? I have consulted several doctors.—MRS. M. C.

I regret that you feel slighted, but please keep this in mind: I can't answer every letter. I do try to answer every QUESTION that I feel qualified to answer, because similar questions often come from many people.

I've written about the very question you ask. So don't watch for your own initials; watch for the topic you asked about.

Persistent hot flashes are not too unusual. Women certainly shouldn't expect them to continue indefinitely past the menopause, or "change of life" interval. Yet sometimes they do.

Some women with oversensitive nervous systems are more prone to prolonged flashes than others. It is the way they are made, and overcoming the problem entirely can be difficult.

Some women focus their at-tion on the flashes while others have the knack of disregarding them.

In still other cases, the flashes well past menopause have nothing to do with the "change of life," but can be traced to a disorder of the thyroid gland.

That is, a subtle overactivity of the thyroid is not uncommon in people past 60, yet can account for problems which too often are passed off as being caused by age or menopause. It is, therefore, sometimes well worth while to take a close look at the level of thyroid activity.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is the cardiogram the only test in finding damage to the heart?—S.M.F.

No. The electrocardiogram gives an accurate account of irregular rhythm if present. It also can tell which coronary artery (anterior or posterior) is not providing enough circulation to the heart muscle. If a coronary attack has occurred, it will tell which part of the muscle has been affected.

But the stethoscope remains a very important instrument, to detect murmurs (which may indicate valve damage) and certain types of congenital heart disease. X-rays detect heart enlargement and sometimes other conditions. Special tests, involving catheterization, are used in ascertaining the precise nature and extent of some kinds of heart damage.

NOTE TO S.H.: No, regardless of what you heard, milk does NOT cause constipation.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for your copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Bolt From The Blue

There's something fascinating about lightning — and something disconcerting, too.

I won't say that electrical displays frighten me, but they do make me wish sometimes that the storm would just move on in a hurry. I believe that almost everyone feels that way, and although I wouldn't accuse anyone of untruth when they say that bolts striking all around do not bother them, I would say that that individual will bear watching.

PERSONALLY, I prefer my lightning a little further away. This is a feeling shared by No. 3 boy, who has more pronounced qualms about nearby bolts. Frequently on spring and summer evenings we pull up our chairs on the lawn and face the horizon in the direction of thunderheads. Sometimes there is an almost constant flashing so that we can clearly define the outlines of the clouds and tell by their boiling and movement which way the storm is likely to go. Quite often we are able to discern heavy streaks from the bottom of clouds, silhouetted against the flashes and moving slowly like a drape being drawn against the night. This tells us that someone is catching a terrific downpour and perhaps hail along with the noise.

SOMETIME the display is less given to flashes but more to jagged streaks and bolts. The old term "forked lightning" is not misapplied, for some kinds of storms send out great jagged arms clawing into the sky. These may reach down occasionally, but the fiery tentacles seem mostly writhing across the canopy of space. On the other hand, the herculean bolts of a storm seem to be hurled down as though Jupiter or Thor or some other angry God was trying to lash the earth beneath.

In the distance these bolts are awesome as they strike and contort and are gone in a twinkling, leaving you unconsciously braced for the thundering report. By timing the interval between flash and thunder, you can estimate how far away the storm may be, and when the interval begins to shrink, it is time for us to seek the cover of the house.

THIS IS tolerable, but when lightning comes close enough that you can hear the crackle! before there is the clap of thunder, then it's time to get uneasy. Always it sounds as though it is ripping off the cornice, but the nearest it has come is to attack the power pole and transformer in the alley. One of the worst frights we ever had was early one Sunday morning when we knew we had felt the clap of doom. Actually the bolt struck a mile away, but it was enough to set the Country Club on fire and destroy it. Once while we were driving down a highway in Arkansas we saw a bolt hit a pole just ahead, and a great blue ball disintegrated into smoke as the reverberation almost jolted us from the road.

AS I EXPLAINED in the beginning, Wiggly has a special aversion to lightning cloudb. He just doesn't want to be alone in his bed when bolts are crashing around. We tried to reason and even to shame him and thought we had succeeded until one night when a storm moved in. For several minutes lightning flashed and thunder rattled, and he kept to his bed. Then came a deafening crash, and a phantom flew through the air, landing squarely between us.

"I don't care what anybody says," he said, burrowing further into the covers between us. And we sort of felt the same way.

The Public Enterprise System

WASHINGTON—We had better all hope the Great Society knows what it's doing. The Labor Department has published a prospectus which, while intended to be helpful, is enough to chill the corpuses of red-blooded, opportunity-seeking youth.

The study of 36 major American industries shows that 22 of them are due for a decline in jobs or are uncertain about job-expansion. Of the 14 which make the list of "may-expand," none is bursting with optimism.

ONLY SOMEBODY who has swallowed his Goldwater button and is choking with illogical rage can blame this situation on anybody now in power. It is a situation which commenced to develop after World War II. It went unchecked in the Eisenhower Administration. It is continuing because the nation did not choose, or did not dare, to make the radical turn-about.

But the facts are that economic growth has run to a dangerous slowdown in private enterprise, and that the only substantial growth we have is in public enterprise. When 40-odd million Americans voted "Let Us Continue," they were endorsing a trend with which we must now live.

WHAT TREND? Well, between 1957-63, leaving out the farm sector, this nation produced 4.3 million new jobs. But of that total, only 600,000 in six years were full-time jobs in private enterprise.

Fully 2 million of those 4.3 million new job-holders went on the payroll of Federal, State and local government—in brief, went to the public trough. Another 800,000 of these new jobs were created by public procurement programs—in brief, were stimulated by tax-spending. Still another 700,000 of these jobs were in non-profit enterprises—yielding only intangible gains to the nation. And 600,000 jobs were only part-time tasks.

ALL-TOLD, one-third of the non-farm job-increase since 1947 has been at various levels of government. The State and local employment has picked up wherever Federal employment ceased to grow.

Had Goldwater been elected, he would have been pledged to halt the growth of public enterprise and to reinstate private enterprise as the American way of life. Whether he could have succeeded is moot. We can now only ask what the Great Society intends to do, and so far the emphasis has been on serving the poor, the ill and the ignorant. But it goes without saying that we cannot simply stockpile human beings into the betterment programs. A substantial number of these programs must some day emerge from their training and orientation courses to make some contribution to the economy.

IN ANY EVENT, we have now entrusted ourselves to the party of public enterprise, and for two reasons we are pretty much at its mercy to govern wisely and well.

One reason is that this party, in Washington and in the States, has laid hold of the educational structure—and can inform or misinform our youth. The other reason is that there is only a negligible political opposition, and not enough criticism still residing in the press.

Mr. Hoover And Dr. King

WASHINGTON — When two sacred cows lock horns no person of normal instincts will cry over the milk that is spilled.

Any competent observer of the species knows that certain of our folk heroes are automatically entitled to rank among the first 10 in any listing of hallowed kine—and two who are sure to be in contention for top honors are J. Edgar Hoover, the cop, and the Rev. Martin Luther King, the Negro uplifter.

THERE IS, fortunately, a tacit freemasonry between sacred cows. Dr. Schweitzer would as soon swat a fly as to say anything spiteful about the memory of Dag Hammarskjold. Proper New Yorkers don't knock the Yankees, nor do proper Houstonians deride the depletion allowance. And you'll no more hear U Thant meannouncing Adlai Stevenson than you're likely to witness David Dubinsky reading Mrs. Roosevelt out of the confraternity of exalted bovines.

BUT NOW, alas, the rule book will have to be rewritten. J. Edgar Hoover has violated the basic tenets of sacred cowmanship from shucks to breakfast. He has publicly denounced a fellow household god, denounced him in detail and at great length—and if one credits trade gossip—even added an earthy-comment or two off the record.

ON THE RECORD he crowned Dr. King as "the most notorious liar in the country." Dr. King, currently ministering to his flock from the deprivation of Bimini, a high-society wallow in the Bahamas, replied that the headmaster of the FBI had maligned his integrity for reasons that remain "a mystery to me." He added that Mr. Hoover "has apparently faltered under the awesome burdens, complexities and responsibilities of his office." Having thus accused Mr. Hoover of going dotty, the good preacher excused himself from further debate with the FBI's chief.

IT IS POSSIBLE that J. Edgar has gone around the bend, of course, but the evidence seems to refute his interpretation. His blast (which also included the Warren Commission, crooked cops, white-livered judges and the National Rifle Association) sounded more like a man who has done his best in a cruelly demanding job and is just sick and tired of having the ground hacked out from under him.

Dr. King blames the FBI because various redneck assassins in Mississippi have gone unpunished. But he knows as well as anyone on earth that the FBI is powerless to punish crime. It found the three victims of the Philadelphia, Miss., lynching, and all indications are that it knows the identity of the murderers. But the FBI has no competence to indict or to convict, both these saintly chores being duties the freeholders of Mississippi have repeatedly defaulted.

MR. HOOVER'S stewardship of the FBI is not without error. But such omissions as may have taken place are of small consequence weighed against what might have happened had leadership of the FBI been in other hands.

The trouble with achieving sacred cowhood is that it hurts so when it is revoked. Both men deserve the honors they have won, and both deserve better treatment at the hands of each other.

City And School OK Campus Plan

The eventual extension of Benton Street, and its rerouting over State and Donley Streets as it affected school property, was approved by the Big Spring School board of trustees at Tuesday night's meeting. The routing plan was submitted through a joint committee of the board and the city commission in order to give the school architect definite boundaries to complete plans for the senior high school building, grading, and development under the Master Plan bond program.

Atmar Atkinson, representing the school's architectural firm of Atcheson, Atkinson and Cartwright, presented the completed plans for a portion of the high school building, and the board approved these. He was instructed to proceed with full campus grading and details, following acceptance of the street rerouting which will come at a future date. He now has definite boundary lines for completing plans. Bid-calling dates will be some time early in 1965.

Other business included authorization for preliminary plans on Moss Elementary School and remodeling and enlargement of Bauer, Cedar Crest and Boydston elementary buildings, approval of the local textbook committee, and reports.

Big Spring's Master Plan for street improvement and development calls for a north-south thoroughfare, leading from the Benton Street-Snyder Highway viaduct to Marcy Drive. No definite route had been worked out formerly, but is required before full development of school properties could be outlined by architects. The joint agreement of the city commission and school board permits final drafting of plans and specifications for the thoroughfare, and the joint use of school campuses and city property.

Plans have now been approved for eventually extending Benton Street, with 30-mile-per-hour curves, across the southwest corner of the block between Benton and Owens, abutting Sixth Street, across the northeast corner of the Boydston campus to Owens, across the southwest corner of the Owens-Eighth Street block, then across the northeast corner of the old stadium, to State Street, to Eleventh Place and diagonally across to Donley street.

The schools will lose a portion of the Boydston campus and of the old stadium, but will gain the area formerly used for the rehabilitation center, a portion in front of the YMCA and the fire tower, and the portion of Eighth Street which will be closed, from the Bennett House access, to State.

The arrangements will permit five practice football fields on the old stadium grounds, four and possibly five tennis courts south of the fire tower and west of Owens, a 75-foot parking area for the fire department at the tower, ample parking for the YMCA, a new stadium-track on the east portion of the high school campus on State, a physical education field between Tenth Street and the high school, and a standard baseball field on the now rough area east of Goliad and southwest of Boydston School.

In the plans the city proposes to place drainage culverts and raise Tenth Street at the flood area south of Birdwell Park. A one-way street will be opened, when needed, west of Boydston school, and the city-owned quarter west of the school may be developed for parking. The present parking area - turn-around south of Boydston on Seventh Street will be retained, but the extension of Seventh into

Board members agreed that an elevated walkway eventually would be installed across Tenth to the practice fields to keep physical education students from having to cross the street in heavy traffic.

A request from the Cedar Crest P-TA for a concrete slab, with the organization paying a part and the school board paying the balance, was approved with the stipulation that work be postponed until remodeling and enlarging of the Cedar Crest school is done in order for the proper grade to be established.

In the city-school action on the overall campus, members of both bodies pointed out that joint maintenance and use for year-around activities, in the park and the baseball field and playgrounds, would be the most practical approach to park facilities.

Highlights Of Plan

- Close most of W. 8th between Goliad and State
- Raise grade of Tenth Street
- Plan thoroughfare with 30 m.p.h. curves on east side
- Provide new practice fields, parking areas
- Underground drainage on southeast part of campus
- Elevated walkway over Tenth Street
- Enlarged over-all campus area

Some Questions On Thoroughfare

The city commission Tuesday night approved, as a tentative Master Plan for the area surrounding Big Spring High School, a long-range proposal for development of the area, mapped out over the past several weeks by city and school officials.

The commission discussed the proposal at length with City Manager Larry Crow, who had submitted a detailed memorandum to the commission and the school board for consideration in separate meetings Tuesday night.

Commissioner Paul Kash emphasized the possible need for pedestrian overpasses or underpasses from the central high school property to the area now included in the football practice field, which would under the master plan proposal become five play fields used for high school physical education classes.

Concerning raising the grade on Tenth Street, Crow told commissioners it was an ultimate need of the city, regardless of high school development. It would make possible an improved traffic situation around the high school by allowing a portion of traffic to be taken off Eleventh Place. Kash voiced objections to a proposal for a possible future major thoroughfare adjacent to school grounds. Crow said the thoroughfare had been included in the city's Master Plan as a route from the Benton Street viaduct to FM 700. Mayor George Zachariah also emphasized the area plan was a long-range project and might involve 10 years or so before such a thoroughfare would be attempted, although the agreement was approved Tuesday night would make the right-of-way available from the school if the city went forward with plans to widen Owens and State Streets into a curved thoroughfare through the area.

The commission approved the Master Plan proposal, with commissioners Arnold Marshall, W. L. Thompson and John Stanley voting in favor and Kash abstaining.

Robbery, Shooting Tale Proved Hoax

He is color blind, yet he identified the car of two alleged robbers as being blue. This and other holes in his story led officers to doubt a 19-year-old airman's account that he had been shot and robbed Monday evening by two unidentified men. Tuesday evening he admitted the whole thing was a hoax. He had shot himself in a moment of despondency, he told officers.

"It didn't ring true," Assistant Police Chief Leo Hull said late Tuesday. Hull said officers were suspicious of several missing links in the airman's account, and Detective A. P. Hurley began checking local pawn shops to determine if a .22 caliber pistol had been sold to an airman recently.

The airman, Demis Charles Robey, 19, had told officers he was shot and robbed by two men, in a 1952 or 1953 model car, about 8:30 p.m. Monday. The airman said he was walking toward the air base on Flock Drive when the robbery occurred.

Hurley located a pawn ticket for a .22 caliber revolver sold to Robey on Nov. 20 and a search was made of the airman's barracks. Officers failed to find the pistol, and then went to Robey at the Webb AFB Hospital and asked him about the gun.

The airman then admitted he had shot himself and fabricated the story. Hull said. After shooting himself, the airman told officers he put the billfold and gun in a plastic bag, hit them beside the road and walked to a house at 510 Flock Drive and told the owner, Phillip Truitt, he had been robbed and shot.

Robey had told officers some $45 was in the billfold. However, Hull said the billfold contained no money when it was found. Robey had told officers he was positive the car was blue, although he couldn't identify other colors due to his being color-blind, Hull said.

Robey remained in the Webb AFB Hospital this morning and was listed in good condition by base authorities. Air police officers were continuing their investigation into the case today, according to Webb authorities.

Club Plans Tree Sale
Optimists were unloading Christmas trees by the hundreds today as they prepared for their annual tree sale to help finance their youth projects.

Wednesday 281 barrels of Douglas firs were unloaded and hauled to the parking lot on Gregg, immediately opposite Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. A shipment of Scotch pine is due later this week.

The tree stock will consist of fir from three-foot to 10-foot, and pine from 5 1/2 to 7 1/2. Prices range from $1.50 up to a maximum of $20 for the biggest tree. Trees may be purchased starting Saturday while there is the greatest selection, and tagged with instructions for subsequent delivery.

Someone will be on the lot from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. to assist in the selection of trees. Among the many projects which the Optimist Club sponsors or lends assistance are: A teenage League baseball team, a minor league baseball team, a boys' oratorical contest, Bicycle Safety Week, Youth Appreciation Week, a Boy Scout troop and a Sea Scout ship, youth memberships in the YMCA for several young people; junior high track meet, teenage boys' basketball team, sponsorship of several boys in the Salvation Army summer camp, and a stay-in-school program.

Dance Postponed
The dance scheduled by the Howard County Democratic Club for tonight has been postponed to a later date, according to Frank Hardesty, county Democratic party chairman. There was a conflict in obtaining the band to play for the festivities, he said.

Dancers Meet
The Huff and Puffers Square Dance Club will hold its monthly dance Saturday, beginning at 8 p.m. at the John H. Lees Service Club, at Webb Air Force Base. All couples are invited. There is no admission charge.

Special Menus Set Thursday

Big Spring residents will be tasting special menus this year. A feast has been planned for Webb Air Force Base personnel, including their families and close friends, for Thursday.

Big Spring school menus featured the traditional turkey and dressing and cranberry sauce, along with other trimmings. Tuesday when 2,813 were served in eight cafeterias, as compared to the normal 1,600 eating at school.

Howard County jail inmates, numbering between 25 and 30, will be treated to turkey dinners, while the city jail boarders will have chicken with the trimmings.

The Turkey Day meal will be served in both the base dining halls beginning at 11:30 a.m. and continuing until 3:30 p.m. Food services officer, 2nd Lt. Alan W. Davidson, said about 1,400 pounds of turkey would be served to highlight the meal. Other figures on menu items include 600 pounds of ham, 200 pounds of roast beef, 300 pounds of shrimp, 800 pounds of sweet potatoes, 600 dozen rolls, 1,400 pounds of assorted fruits, and 275 mince meat and pumpkin pies.

Sheriff Miller Harris said special preparations were being made to feed county jail prisoners. Turkey and dressing, cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie, candied yams, and other side dishes will be included in the menu.

Chief Jay Banks said city jail inmates would be served chicken and dressing, and all the Thanksgiving trimmings. Between 10 and 15 are expected for the city dinner.

Assured Water Rights Would Be Respected
BALLINGER — Water rights along the Colorado River in Coke and Rannels counties will be respected and protected, E. V. Spence, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, declared here Tuesday evening.

Spence, with Owen H. Ivie, assistant general manager, came from Big Spring to explain the plans of the district to the Colorado River Water Users Association, a group of land owners with permits, filings and riparian rights.

Spence stressed that perfected rights under certified filings, permits and riparian rights would be respected by CRMW, and that records are being accumulated on the normal flow of the river. So far as practical, he said, the district would cooperate in the release from its proposed Robert Lee lake of the normal flow to coincide with times of maximum needs by those below. Users would have the added advantage, of a higher quality of water, he said, because the district has gone to great expense and effort to clean up the watershed.

William Cervella, president of the CRWUA, said after the meeting that the association would attend a hearing on the CRMW amended application in Austin Dec. 14. This will not be a protest, but as an assurance of their water rights, he added.

In addition to respecting existing rights along the river, Spence told the group that the district proposed to make water available to communities in Coke and Rannels counties, among them Ballinger, Winters, Rowena, Miles, Bronte, Robert Lee.

"The water will be sold at cost to all these users," he said. The CRMW general manager told the group that the district would impound only the flood waters, which belong to the state. In order to make the 485,000-acre foot lake feasible, he said, the district had spent great sums in making studies and seeking anti-pollution action, as well as entering into a contract with Sun Oil Company to supply 3,000,000 gallons of water daily. Of this, however, 1,000,000 will be in highly saline water from the normal flow of the river in upper Mitchell County.

Traffic Signals Recommended

The traffic commission recommended a traffic signal light be placed at the FM 700-Goliad Street intersection Tuesday afternoon, after hearing a request from Police Chief Jay Banks for a light to decrease dangers to school children at the intersection.

Banks said the number of accidents at the intersection had been sufficient to justify the placement of a light to regulate traffic. Commission member

Jack Smith supported the police chief's request, moving to recommend to the city commission that a traffic-actuated signal light be placed at the location.

The traffic panel also voted to recommend installation of a traffic signal light at the intersection of Fifteenth and Gregg Streets and stop signs at the intersections of Nineteenth and Twentieth Streets on Gregg.

The Gregg Street traffic light recommendation had been turned down by the Texas Highway Department after a study of traffic conditions some six months ago. However, board members expressed opinions traffic had increased at the intersection since that time sufficient to justify the light.

Both light recommendations will go to the city commission for consideration at a later session. According to Public Works Director Ernest Lillard, remaining city funds allocated in the current budget for traffic light installation are not sufficient to cover any additional lights. However, Lillard said possibly some provision could be made to provide for the installations, if approved, of the lights before the next budget year, beginning in April.

The recommendation on the stop signs was approved with the observation that Main Street was considered primarily a through street.

Tulsa, Orange Setting Pace In Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — The college football season isn't over yet but there's no question about the 1964 team offense champions. They're Tulsa in total offense, passing and scoring and Syracuse in rushing. On defense its another matter. Two new leaders turned up in the team statistics released today the NCAA Service Bureau and there's a possibility of another change or two after the season-ending games this week. Auburn took over the total offense lead this week with an average allowance of 155.8 yards per game. But the Tigers still have to hold Alabama, which has averaged 320.6 yards on offense this season, to a little more than half that allowance to be sure of the title. Runner-up Louisiana State, with a 166.7 average, could improve that figure in its hurricane-delayed game against Florida Dec. 5. The other new leader is Arkansas in defense against scoring. The unbeaten Razorbacks made Texas Tech their fifth straight shutout victim and ended the season with an allowance of 5.7 points per game. Alabama is the only contender still active, but the Tide could keep the title in the Southeastern Conference by limiting Auburn to three points or less on Thursday. Tulsa, gearing its offense to Jerry Rhome's passing and Howard Twilley's catching, has a total offense average of 477.3 yards, including 327.2 yards a game on passes. The Hurricanes have scored 40.3 points a game and need only 37 in their final game against Wichita Thursday to become the first major team to average 40 points since Oklahoma in 1956.

Trail's End Sighted By Football Elevens

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Sports Writer
Texas already has clinched runner-up in the conference just behind Arkansas and the only thing an Aggie victory could do would be to insure finishing out of the cellar. But to A&M it means much more than that—this 71-year-old series that started back in 1894. It could mean a definite trend upward after being on the border of despair for six seasons. Texas already is in the Orange Bowl and a defeat would do no more than lower the Longhorns in the nation's estimation. But that knowledge will bring no relaxation on the part of the Longhorns, who are just as intent on winning this game as the Aggies.

Permanent Tri-Captains Are Elected By Steers

Following a custom of several years' standing, three boys were named permanent tri-captains of the 1964 Big Spring High School football team, which finished with a 7-3 won-lost record and wound-up second in the District 2-AAAAA race with a 5-2 mark. The three are halfback Johnny Hughes, guard Dub McMeans and quarterback Benny Kirkland, all seniors. Game captains are selected by the Steers during the season.

J. T. King Will Speak At Party

J. T. King, head football coach at Texas Tech, will deliver the principal address at the Quarterback Club's banquet honoring the 1964 Big Spring High School football team and its coaches. The meal will be served in the HCJC Student Union building at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 19. King will probably bring a game film with him. Details for the banquet were worked out at Tuesday night's session of the QBC. The boys' dates and the coaches' wives will also be honored guests at the banquet. Jack Griffin and Stanley Balou were elected co-captains of the booster club and will serve for the ensuing year. They succeeded Frank Sabbato and J. D. Stiehl. The 18 seniors on the 1964 Steer club were present for the meeting and were introduced by coach Don Robbins. Dub McMeans served as a spokesman for the players and expressed thanks for the interest and enthusiasm the club had shown in the team. Herby Smith of the QBC also spoke briefly, directing his benighted remarks mainly to the players. He said the club in particular and the city as a whole was indebted to the team for the manner in which it represented the community in the sport. Action films of the Big Spring-San Angelo game were shown to the gathering. Robbins offered the commentary. It was emphasized that the banquet will not have a co-sponsor this year. Originally, the Downtown Lions' Club was to have co-sponsored the meeting but those plans fell through.

Tigers, A&M Seek Upsets In Big Ones

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer
Have you made your date for New Year's night yet? Texas and Alabama apparently have theirs all planned. The Longhorns have accepted an invitation to play in Miami's Orange Bowl with a national television audience and upwards of 72,000 on hand to watch the first major bowl game ever played at night. The Crimson Tide is expected to be there too. Auburn and Texas A&M have nothing nearly as exciting in the works. A quiet evening at home would be more likely for the Tigers, who are 6-3 and the Aggies, struggling through a 1-8 season. But with that ol' debble upset lurking around every corner, you never know in college football. So don't count out the chance of major upsets Thursday when the Crimson Tide tackles Auburn and the Longhorns meet A&O in games headlining the Thanksgiving Day menu.

Ralph Jordan, Auburn's coach, knows his club has nothing to lose and figures with a break here and there, his team can make it two straight over their cross-state rivals. "We are confident we can beat Alabama," Jordan said. Fullback Tucker Fredrickson is the Tigers' big threat but Alabama's passing threat of Joe Namath and Steve Sloan make the Tide a topeheavy favorite to win. Texas, national champion a year ago, has lost just one game in nine starts and Texas A&M has won just once but they are clubs always put up a fierce struggle against each other. Elsewhere, Tulsa's high-flying aerial duo of Jerry Rhome and Howard Twilley teams up for the last time before the home fans as the Hurricanes entertain Wichita.

In Saturday's top games, Army and Navy clash for the 6th time, with 100,000 expected at Philadelphia's John F. Kennedy Stadium and Southern California, with a shot at a Rose Bowl berth, runs into Notre Dame and Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte at Los Angeles.

Bulldogs Win Over Bisons

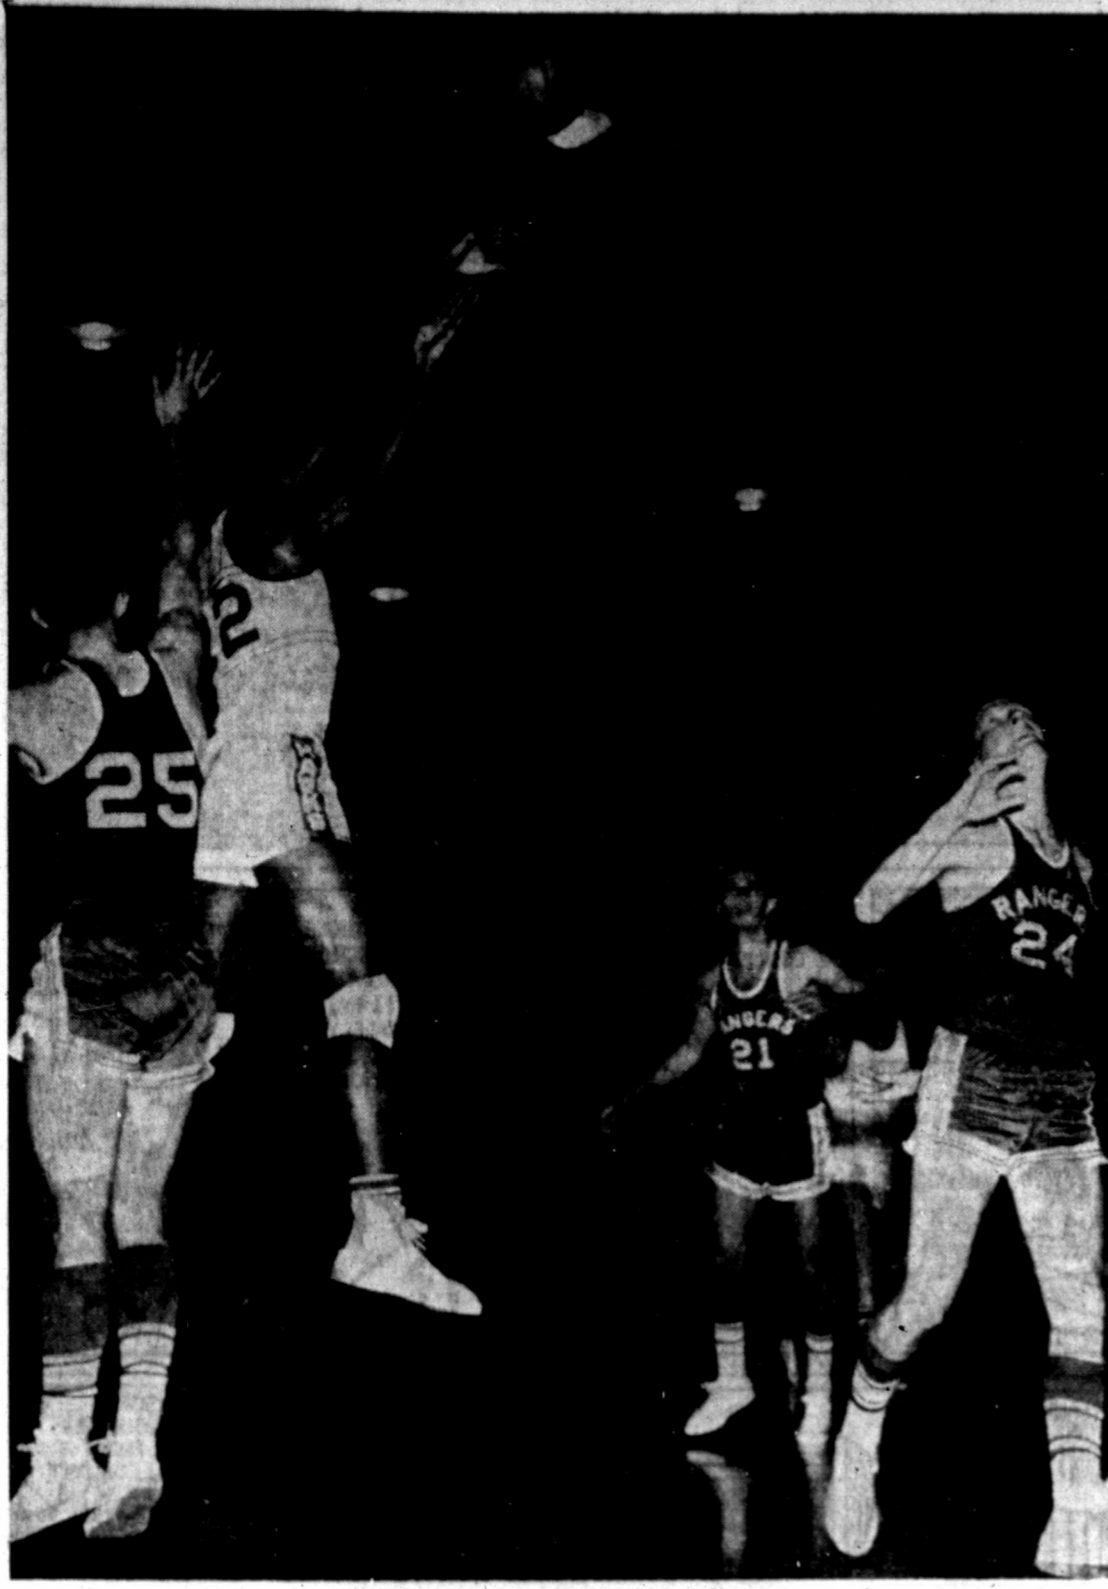

COAHOMA — Coahoma's boys rallied in the last half to nip Forsan, 51-49, in a basketball game here Tuesday night. Travis Reid led the Bulldogs in their season's debut, scoring 13 points. Dean Bohannon followed with 12 while Jim Alexander and David Roberson each counted 13 for Forsan, which led at half time, 23-20. Coahoma's biggest lead was seven points, built up at the end of three periods of play. Forsan's girls, led by Jody Dadd, bombed the Coahoma females, 62-54. Dadd accounted for 42 of her team's points. Donna Duke had 22 for Coahoma. Boys' game: COAHOMA (51)—Allen 3-6; Butler 3-6; Reid 5-13; Merrick 1-0-2; Wright 2-4; Johnson 6-9-12; Williams 4-8. Totals 24-31. FORTSON (49)—Alexander 5-13; Roberson 4-19; Ellis 3-24. Totals 19-49. Half time score—Forsan 23 Coahoma 20.

Y ACCEPTS ENTRIES
Entries are now being accepted at the YMCA for Fast and Slow basketball leagues. The organizational meeting is scheduled to take place at the Y Dec. 8. Indications are the entry fee will be $5 per team. Those interested can contact the Y via telephone or in person.

Badgers Defeat Buffalo Quint
McCAMEY—Stanton lost its first basketball game in two starts here Tuesday night, yielding to McCamey, 40-36. Allen Springer and David Hicks each tossed in 14 points for Stanton while Bubba Grigsby paced McCamey with 21. He was the only Badger to hit in double figures. Jackie Bushwar followed with eight. Janel Pate and Linda Franklin led the Stanton girls to a 54-17 victory in the girls' game and the Stanton boys copped the B engagement, 41-21. In that one, Jerry Cox had 12 points for the Stanton boys.

FLOWER GROVE — Three members of the Flower Grove football team were named to the All-District 5 (eight-man) football team. They were Jimmy and Eddie Hollandsworth and Rodney Oaks. The three boys are among seniors on the team, along with Corky Perry, Jack Ragsdale and Bobby Deatherage. Flower Grove recently ended its season-by-losing-to-Guthrie, 38-29, in a district play. The Dragons shared the District 5 title with Sands.

Hawks Suffer Loss In Opener, 79-72

Ranger College saw to it that HCJC's young Jayhawks set a couple of school records here Tuesday night, some that the Big Spring collegians would just as soon have left in the box. Ranger, led by two jumping-jack Negroes named Otis McClendon and David Nowlin, beat the Hawks for the first time in history, 79-72, and in the bargain handed the locals their initial setback in a home debut. The outcome spoiled the party for a surprisingly large turnout of the curious, who saw the Hawks roundly outplayed except for a brief spurt in the early stages of the second half. There seemed to be no cohesive effort on the part of the Hawks. The locals were badly outplayed on the boards. Their passing left something to be desired and they never seemed to know quite what to do with the full-court press the Rangers threw at them. Ranger led by as much as 11 points late in the contest and it might have been worse, had not both McClendon and Nowlin fouled out. On occasions, the Hawks shot as if they were handling a sackful of cats. It simply wasn't their night. HCJC's best lead of the night was a 26-21 advantage it built up halfway through the first period but Ranger was in command at half time, 39-36. The Hawks took a brief lead in the first minute of the second round but the Rangers were up to the challenge and quickly pulled away. McClendon finished the evening with 21 points while Jerry Chamberlain and Nowlin each had 15 for the winners. Four Hawks hit in double figures. Tom Carter led the way with 14 points while Eddy Nelson had 13 and Kurt Papp and Charles Price 11 each. The Hawks departed this morning for Garden City, Kan. where they compete in an eight-team tournament that gets underway Thursday and continues through Saturday night.

Timberlake, Shineholser Named Players Of Week

By The Associated Press
Bob Timberlake, University of Michigan quarterback, sparked the Wolverines to a 10-0 victory over Ohio State last Saturday, a victory that brought Michigan the Big Ten championship and an automatic spot in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1. The performance of the 21-year-old senior against the Buckeyes won him the Back of The Week award today from The Associated Press. Timberlake passed 17 yards for one touchdown, booted the extra point and later kicked a 27-yard field goal to figure in all 10 of Michigan's points. The 6-foot-4, 215-pounder from Franklin, Ohio, has led the Wolverines to eight victories in nine games. Their only loss was by one point to Purdue 21-20. He was recently named a scholar athlete at large by the National Football Foundation and on Tuesday finished fourth in the voting for the Heisman Trophy for the outstanding college player of 1964 with 361 points. Allen McCune, West Virginia quarterback, was high up in the weekly voting by sports writers and broadcasters. He completed 13 of 17 passes for two touchdowns, including a 50-yarder in the last quarter for the winning TD in the Mountaineers' 28-27 upset of Sugar Bowl bound Syracuse. TALLAHASSEE, Fla. Skins Collect Foes' Aerials

NEW YORK (AP) — A year ago everybody was raving about the Chicago Bears' pass defense and the 36 interceptions turned in by George Halas' National Football League champions. Washington's porous deep defense had intercepted only 21 all season. Bill McPeak's Redskins have turned these figures about in an amazing switch this season. The Skins have intercepted 29 passes, 11 more than Detroit and St. Louis, which are tied for second. And Chicago has intercepted only eight. Paul Krause, the Iowa rookie who was Washington's No. 2 draft choice, leads the club and the NFL with 10 interceptions. Washington intercepted four Dallas passes Sunday for a total of 29, eight more than they had all last season. Green Bay still leads the league in total defense with only 2,622 yards against them. The Packers are tops in pass defense and Dallas leads in rushing defense. The Baltimore Colts, who already have clinched the Western Conference title, lead in total offense with 3,820 yards on a fine balance of 1,740 running and 2,080 passing. The Packers show the way in running offense with 1,777 yards and the Bears are first in passing with 2,430 yards.

LEVELLAND — Cisco Junior College defeated South Plains of Levelland for the second straight time here Tuesday night, 83-75. Johnny Sellers dropped in 20 points and Bill Turnbow 16 for Cisco. David Marvin had 18 for South Plains.

Bearkittens Are Beaten, 45-36
WYLLIE—Garden City's girls lost a 45-36 basketball decision to Wylie here Tuesday night. The Wylie B team also won, 41-21. Kathleen Long led Wylie in the A game with 28 points. Judy Hirt scored 25 for Garden City.

Repentant Thief Is Spared Term

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man who returned to Southern California to plead guilty to grand theft after religious work in New Mexico drew a 90-day jail sentence Tuesday.

Superior Judge J. Ziemann spared John Zamora, 25, from a prison sentence. He also placed Zamora on probation for three years.

Zamora entered his plea Oct. 5, stating he and another young man stole $50 and a .32 caliber pistol from Earl Friedberg, an apartment house owner.

After the theft, Zamora said, he went to Alamogordo, N.M., where he became active in the work of the Spanish Assembly of God. While there he told his pastor of the crime and agreed to return here.

The pastor, the Rev. W. E. Alman, accompanied Zamora to Southern California. He told the court his parishoner had experienced a complete change of attitude.

Innocent But Fined Anyway

PORTALES, N.M. (AP) — After hearing four hours of testimony Tuesday in a case in which three men were charged with battery against Alfred Kingston, the justice of the peace court jury gave its verdict:

"We find the defendants innocent, but recommend that they all be fined anyway — Kingston along with the rest."

Justice of the Peace Eldon Whitten said the verdict would be recorded simply as "innocent."

Fatal Shot By Great-Grandson

MONESSEN, Pa. (AP) — Celina Renshaw, 80, was shot to death Tuesday by a gun held by her 4-year-old great-grandson.

Coroner Stephen D. Yoney said the boy, Layne Sander, picked up a .38-caliber pistol that had been lying on a nightstand in Mrs. Renshaw's bedroom for eight years.

Yoney said the boy told him he pointed the gun at Mrs. Renshaw, seated in a chair in her bedroom, and pulled the trigger twice. Nothing happened.

The child pulled the trigger again and the gun discharged, striking Mrs. Renshaw in the chest, the coroner said.

Secret Service Nightmare Told In Poignant Detail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy called them "those poor men in the front."

They were the Secret Service men in the front seat of the presidential limousine the day her husband, John F. Kennedy, was killed. They had lost, in a fleeting moment, the man they were charged with defending to the death.

A NIGHTMARE
The nightmare of special agent Roy H. Kellerman, in charge of the Texas trip, and William Greer, his driver, emerges in vivid detail in their testimony to the Warren Commission, made public Monday.

So does that of agent Clinton P. Hill, who sprinted from the car behind to push Mrs. Kennedy back into the presidential limousine for the breakfast trip to Parkland Memorial Hospital.

So, too, does that of Secret Service Chief James J. Rowley, who insisted to the commission that presidential protection by anything other than a small, elite group might result in a police state.

Kellerman, riding in the front passenger's seat when Lee Harvey Oswald fired at Kennedy, had to make a decision: To stay put and get the motorcade away, or to vault into Kennedy's seat and shield the president's body.

"If I thought in my own mind that I was needed back there, there wouldn't have been an obstacle strong enough to hold me," Kellerman said. "Why? Because my job is to protect the president, sir, regardless of the obstacles."

But Kellerman, a 23-year veteran of the Secret Service, had not broken the rules, they might have been alert enough to spot a man with a rifle on the route of the motorcade — as seven eyewitnesses did.

"But I don't believe they could have prevented the assassination," Rowley added.

POTENTIAL MENACE
Rowley told the commission that under procedures in effect since the assassination, Lee Harvey Oswald would have been called to the Secret Service's attention as a potential menace to the president's safety.

The Secret Service chief said the agency's protective research section — responsible for investigating potential threats — has been thoroughly overhauled since the assassination.

But while reporting on the service's expanded role, Rowley cautioned:

"I think you want to keep the concept of presidential protection by a small, closely knit group, because of the intimate relationship. But if you want to expand it and give it to another group, to take the long-range view, you do not know what may develop from something like that — whether a police organization could lead to a police state or a military state."

Rowley conceded that if they eran of the Secret Service, didn't move. He ordered the lead car and Greer to get going, and the big limousine "just literally jumped out of the God-damn road."

"WE ARE HIT"
"We are hit," he radioed the lead car. "Get us to the hospital immediately."

Two cars back, agent Rufus Youngblood had hurdled the seat and was pinning Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson down.

Kellerman was asked why he didn't attempt to reach Kennedy.

"After I had heard President Kennedy's voice say, 'My God, I am hit,' I viewed him, which was enough for me that he was my decision was to get this man to a hospital, because he needed medical treatment."

The Warren Commission, in its report Sept. 7, praised the response of the Secret Service agents on the scene. But it criticized the service for deficient advance preparations for the presidential visit to Texas.

There was testimony that 10 agents violated regulations by drinking at a Fort Worth press club and then attending a night club in the early hours of the fatal day.

Rowley conceded that if they

Real-Life Thanksgiving Drama Stars Ex-Convict

NEW YORK (AP) — Ex-convict Joseph Horne, 34, got a free ride up the river to Green Haven Prison but he wasn't handcuffed — on orders of the judge.

The onetime Queens car washer also went back to Green Haven with the assurance that he won't have to spend Thanksgiving at the prison — and will leave in a new suit.

Horne's Thanksgiving story, unfolded in Queens Supreme Court, dates back to May 1960, when he was sent to prison for 5 to 10 years as a second offender on an attempted burglary charge.

FLORIDA CASE
His second-offender status was based on an old Florida burglary conviction.

While he was spending the past 4½ years at Green Haven, Horne mentioned to a fellow inmate that he had no lawyer when he was convicted in Florida. He was advised by the cell-block buddy that legally, he probably wasn't a second offender at all.

In the Queens court Monday, Justice J. Irwin Shapiro agreed with Horne's prison buddy and reduced Horne's sentence to 2½ to 5 years.

"With time off for good behavior that should make you a free man," said the judge. "I so rule."

Tuesday the judge found Horne standing before the bench again. Horne explained that he wanted to go back to Green Haven because he had left behind his overcoat and $30 he had earned while in prison. The prison, he added, is supposed to give every departing guest a new suit.

The judge said Horne had his permission to go back. Horne still hesitated. "What now?"

"Your honor, I have no money or other means of getting there," said the ex-prisoner.

The judge then ordered that Horne be taken in a prison van on the 70-mile ride to Stormville, N.Y., where the prison is located.

"But remember," said Shapiro, "no handcuffs. This guy is no longer a prisoner. He's just going back to straighten out a few accounts."
