Signed By Accused, Agent Says

MEDIDIAN, Miss. (AP) - FBI Agent Henry Rosp today told a U. S. commissioner he had a confession signed by one of 21 men charged in connection with the killing of three civil rights workers. He told Commissioner Esther Carter at a preliminary hearing for 19 of the accused that he got the confession from Horace Doyle Barnette, 25, last November.

A dozen defense attorneys immediately objected to use of the alleged confession on grounds it was "hearsay" evidence. The commissioner called a recess to study the question of admitting it as evidence.

Just Not Logical!

DEAR ABBY: For two years I was a widow with five children under 12. Then I married a man who claimed he loved me very much, but he acts like he has someone on the side. He was married before, and told me he divorced his wife because she was so cold. Believe me, he can't use that excuse about me. He has the kind of job that he can leave any time. He seems to have so many unscheduled and late business appointments that I am suspicious. I've never found any proof, like lipstick on his clothes or telephone numbers in his pockets, but I've got a feeling there's somebody else. Could it be my SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: It must be! Any man who, after one unsuccessful marriage, tries it again with a widow with five children (under 12 yet!) has got to be mad about the woman.

DEAR ABBY: This has happened to me twice already and want to know the reason. I have been invited to and have attended two bridal showers. Both were very very nice, but I was not invited to the main event - the wedding. Is this proper etiquette? Or is it just plain ignorance? I know some other ladies who have received the same treatment. Both these brides had big church weddings and receptions following, but some of us who were invited to showers were not good enough for the main event. Sign NOT GOOD ENOUGH

DEAR NOT: Some "showers" lately have degenerated into a big "collection" in which nobody seems to care who gets soaked. If you were "good enough" to be invited to the shower, it seems to me that unless the wedding was limited only to family and a few very close friends, you should have been "good enough" for the

A Devotional For The Day

The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined. (Isaiah 9:2)

PRAYER: Father in heaven, we thank Thee for Thy love embodied in Jesus Christ our Savior. Save us from the folly of walking in darkness when the light of life shines all around us, through Christ our Redeemer. In His name we offer to Thee our prayer. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

The Quicksands Of Viet Nam

President Lyndon B. Johnson, with characteristic caution, has decided to postpone for the present any drastic change in policy toward South Viet Nam. He has called instead for a stabilization of the situation, specifically for measures which could be used to strengthen and make more acceptable to dissident factions the regime of Premier Tran Van Huong.

The decision will satisfy neither those who advocate a withdrawal nor those who have urged an expansion of the conflict by air strikes on North Viet Nam targets. But there is little hope that anybody will be satisfied by the time this unhappy situation is finally resolved.

We are at least spared the moral exhortations of a John Foster Dulles who was instrumental in persuading President Dwight D. Eisenhower to fill the vacuum created by the French withdrawal after the defeat at Bienbienphu in May, 1954. We are nothing more nor less than guests of the South Vietnamese. It can be argued that we are not utterly at the mercy of the South Vietnamese, that we can use the excuse of today's hospitality for mounting an all-out attack by land, sea and air on the Viet Cong. But the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur had some good advice for a congressional committee on this subject when he said: "Gentlemen, do not get involved in a land war in Asia.'

The prospect of escalation, or stepped up action against North Viet Nam, however does have some possible advantages. One is the report that Ho Chi Minh's North Viet Nam government is wobbly despite successes of the Viet Cong, and that destructive air raids could upset his shaky economy. This could bring on intervention by the Red Chinese army, and Ho doesn't want it taking over mat-

Any substantial improvement in stability of the South Viet Nam regime, coupled by pressures on Ho's sanctuary, could open the way to the possibility of practical accommodations. The hard face, at the moment is that the South Vietnamese so far have not produced a government with pepular support, and that prospects that they will are not altogether bright. If they are unwilling or unable to do this, we cannot save them from themselves.

Rewarding Wrong-Doing

The Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation is preparing to go to work immediately after Congress reconvenes in January. Staff members have been ordered to assemble information on a U.S. Treasury decision that triple damages paid by business firms in anti-trust cases may be deducted for income tax purposes as necessary business expenses.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, chairman of the committee, and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, vice chairman, betrayed both concern and interest when they learned of the Treasury decision. There was at least a suggestion that hope there will be sometime next year, ment and business should operserious economic depression in the United States within the next 18 months may be unpalatable, but if they serve to emphasize some of the trends that are actually appearing in the economic situation in America today, preventive measures could still be employed in time.

Time Now To Avoid A Depression

SINCE PRIVATE credit is so widely expanded nowadays, it is of transcendent importance that high employment be maintained and that the workers themselves shall be able to make their installment payments.

Next, it is essential that prices shall not rise so as to discourage the demand for goods. For when demand drops off, production has to be curtailed, and many workers usually are laid off. This means fewer jobs would then be available for newcomers, too, in the labor market.

Prices cannot be kept stable if wage increases are extorted far beyond the capacity of business to absorb without increased income from

TODAY, THE whole wage - price structure is running into trouble. Management seemingly is helpless. It cannot afford costly strikes. It cannot depend on government action or law to restrain labor's demands. The administration which has just been elected is in an embarrassing position because the labor unions supplied, directly and indirectly, one of the principal methods whereby the campaign was financed and the labor vote was

These were called "guideposts" or "guidelines." They provided a means of measuring 'productivity.'' and if it increased for example, by a 3.2 percentage, the wage rises were to be correspondingly held to that figure.

> And the head of the steelworkers union has told a press conference that he didn't intend to be restricted by any "guideposts." He said the settlement would be "noninflationary,", which means, of course, that no matter how high the wage costs go, the companies are supposed to hold or even reduce their prices. This is the sure road to a diminished volume of sales and an economic depression.

> THERE ARE, moreover, plenty of storm signals in the international credit situation which are causing anxiety, and the betting seems to be that within a few months the British pound sterling will be devalued. I feel that if one is sincere, one religion is as good as another. What is your opinion on this?-

This is a popular generalization, but it is also ridiculous and absurd. In parts of the world there are still primitive tribes who throw infants to their gods, practice female circumcision, practice rituals which drive their people mad with fear, and engage in sadistic practices which are inhuman.

Bad religion is a peculiarly evil thing. Misguided religion is worse than no religion at all. Jesus' aversion to the religion of the Pharisees was because they had taken something that was good and perverted it, and twisted it, until it had become a mockery and a sham Religions can be compared in a serious and scholarly manner. God has invited us with these words: 'Come, let us reason together." If religion matters at all (and it indeed does) it merits serious study, prayerful consideration, and heart-searching. As long as people say, "It doesn't matter what religion we have, really," you can be assured that we are a long way from the Way that God has outined for us to follow.

City fathers dread the announcement that some major industry is pulling out or that the government is closing an adjacent military base. Either can be a major blow to a city's economic health.

Such an announcement is certain to call out the prophets of doom, but from Amarillo, where it was recently announced that the mammoth base could be closed, come optimistic re-

MAYOR F. V. Wallace is predicting a rosy future for the city and area, despite the major setback. In the next four years, the mayor predicts capital investments will exceed $91 million. He told a conference of the city commission, chamber of commerce representatives and the Amarillo Area Foundation, that the growth of the city will not be seriously affected by closing the air base.

In addition, he said the city plans no changes in its programmed major capital improvements, now set at $27,-493,532. In addition to that tremendous expenditure, Mayor Wallace said $10,872,000 will be spent on various hospitals and related projects, $15,-703,000 for highway construction; $3 million on school facilities, and $34,-110.100 for commercial construction.

EXPANDING ON the expected population growth, the mayor said closing the air base will have little influence on overall growth in the next two decades, that other activities will replace the void created by losing the base. In the next three years, during the period when the base will be phased out, the mayor predicted a net population increase of about one-sixth the normal rate. Some other factors that drew the attention of the mayor include:

MOST OF THE 1.568 civilian workers at the base will be easily absorbed into the local labor market;

The temporary slowdown in residential construction will create some unemployment in that area, but commercial construction will take up the slack and is expected to increase; The city will continue to gain 6.500

new residents annually; There will be 1,145 new jobs in the city in 1965.

There will continue to be a need for the major hospital expansion which was launched before the announcement and these projects will not be curtailed.

OF COURSE, the city is not taking the decision to close the base without some questions. Cliff Mlinar, president of the chamber of commerce, said a special study group is investigating to determine whether reasons given for the shutdown are valid.

Of course, the mayor could be merely whistling in the dark for the benefit of all Amarilloans. The city has vast residential developments occupied almost entirely by servicemen stationed at Amarillo AFB. With such a large number of houses about to be dumped on the market, it would appear some kind of problem will develop. Particularly, when it is noted that the air base population comprises almost 10 per cent of the city's total.

THE PAYROLL for such a base must contribute mangificently to the area economy. It will not be easy to replace this money from outside, except by obtaining a new source. And business people in that area discuss rumors of that kind constantly, even hopefully. But you have to give the mayor credit for whistling a happy tune. It's refreshing.

The Doctor And The Patient

WASHINGTON - One day not so long ago as days telescope, our hero found himself supine on an examination table while a gentleman licensed to practice the healing arts in the District of Columbia sought to track down the cause of a minor embarrassment in the giblets.

DOCTORS, whether they admit it or not, are spiritual kin to weightlifters. The sweaty behemoths who find self-expression in hoisting bits or iron believe they cannot lift without first dominating the weight. That's why they will often stand and glower over a lift before attempting it. Same with doctors — they can't cooper a knocking liver without first establishing mastery over the patient. That, of course, is the reason for such indignities as hospital night shirts, examination rooms suitable for quick-freezing sides of mutton, and to be sure, the positions they keep inventing.

THE PROTAGONIST of this essay (it will sound contrived, but it is the gospel truth) had just been reduced to the sort of tractable jolly that doctors esteem, even to the thermometer held between putty-colored lips, when doctor said: "Heh, heh. Saw your piece about Medicare the other day." Well, sir or madam, there was a period of time when it appeared that clinical thermometer was about to be digested whole. We wanted to murmur something like, "Well, of course, there are at least two sides on every question, and a jolly good thing for my trade that there are." But all that came out was a strangled cry for mercy (Doctor happened to be pummeling a suspected area at that moment).

ALL TURNED out well, however bleak it appeared. Doctor suggested eschewing tobacco, strong waters, chili and Chinese mustand (the delicacies that made this nation great), and he in turn resisted any temptation to lecture me on the deadly sideeffects that lurk in Medicare and all its vile sequela.

I suspect that all patients are not lucky enough to have such an enlightened fellow, however. The suspicion grows that many doctors miss few opportunities to ascribe all manner of deadly consequences to Medi-

He emphasized also that under the proposed Social Security medical care plan "the costs of hospital and related services can be met without any interference whatever with the method of treatment.'

THE PLAN plainly is what Johnson said it is, but present indications are that an unmatched campaign of calumny and misrepresentation is about to be launched against it. (Copyright, 1964, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Fallout Seen Possible Peril For Canadians

OTTAWA (AP) - Now that the Emergency Measures Organization has had seven years to prime Canada's civil defenses, and the federal government has contributed $160 million to the cause, how would Canada fare if nuclear war were unleashed?

Well, those within the immediate area of an exploding hydrogen bomb would be wiped out. No amount of organization or money is likely to change that. However, defense experts feel any massive nuclear attack on Canada is highly unlikely.

Bigger dangers for Canada as a whole are radioactive fallout and the problem of maintaining communications and control in the event of normal administra-tions being shattered or scat grethe Larsen, 17, "I'm allergic Redditt earlier as saying he re-

And, he added, "Unless the government sets the example it unlikely that the public will take the lead."

PUBLIC SHELTERS

So EMO has set its sights on public shelters. A survey a few years ago established that more than 500 of the federal government's 4,800 buildings provided adequate protection against falland another 325 could be quickly altered to meet specifications. All government buildings constructed since 1961 have protective areas.

Mines and subways have been surveyed as possible shelters, A province-wide study of Alberta was completed this summer by the Federal Works Department which looked at governmental buildings along with churches, schools and some private structures. This survey is expected to establish techniques for a similar national study.

The ultimate aim is to have designated shelter areas for all Canadians.

ALERT SYSTEM

Meanwhile, EMO has comoleted a nationwide warning system that will tell all Canadians of an impending attack. But, unlike a few years ago, there is no thought now of largescale evacuations from cities.

When a newspaper is missing, more often than not, a man will say, "Where's my newspaper?" "My," not "the!" You've heard him say many times: "Now, my newspaper said . . ."
"I read in my paper . . ."

A man's possessive about his newspaper. He takes pride in it. He gloats when his newspaper praises his favorite political candidate or sports team. Or, he groans when his newspaper differs with his choice of personalities or issues. He'll even write the editor when he feels strongly about a difference of opinion.

And, his wife feels just about the same. She looks forward to reading her pet features. Missing out on some ad or choice item of local news could "ruin" her shopping trip or leave her feeling left out during the chitchat over the bridge table.

Both men and women want their newspaper. In fact, they insist on it. They are sorely disappointed and disturbed when their newspaper isn't on the front step when they want it. Ask any carrier boy. He can tell you, because he hears about it if a delivery is late or missed.

This loyalty to a favorite newspaper didn't just happen. It came about because the newspaper is localized to meet a particular want and fill a definite need.

And, because the newspaper is viewed as a necessary companion and source of information, it makes a big difference in the lives of people of all ages, of all faiths and political preferences, of all levels of income and education.
