'This Final Exam!'

Jan Scanlan, 18-year-old Amarillo Junior College freshman, suffered mid-semester final exam pains today, as she worked to pass her speech test. Her emotions were the epitome of her classmates as she puzzled over the questions at first glance, strained to remember a forgotten point, found it by elimination, and followed with a cry of joy when the test was over. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Possible End To Dock Strike In Today's Vote

NEW YORK (AP) — A possible early end to the crippling Maine-to-Texas dock strike was in the hands of striking New York longshoremen today, as they voted a second time on a contract they rejected two weeks ago.

Thomas W. Gleason, president of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association, says he has received enough petitions and telephone calls to assure acceptance of the proposed contract with the New York Shipping Association.

But even if his prediction proves correct, contract disputes in other ports could prolong the 11-day walkout that has idled 343 ships on the East Coast.

60,000 IDLED
Some 60,000 men are idle and estimates of the cost to the national economy range from $20 million to $67 million a day.

However, an Associated Press survey indicated that the strike's full impact has not been felt in some areas.

Boston reported losing $500,000 weekly. Officials commented that many industries apparently were unaffected.

Shootings Kill Two Dallasites

DALLAS (AP) — Two men died Wednesday night in separate shootings.

Police said Joseph Wehat, 40, an oil company employee, killed by a shotgun charge after kicking in the door of a woman's house. They held the woman, 42.

W. E. Thomas, 19, died from a bullet, fired while he and several other Negro youths were arguing.

Nuclear Sub Saves Fliers

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — The nuclear submarine Triton rescued two men after the ditching of a civilian charter plane in the Atlantic Wednesday night. The third occupant of the plane is missing.

The Triton, guided by an Air Force pilot, went to the scene and picked up Harry Chance and Donald Horton of Sarasota from a life raft 100 miles south-east of Nassau, Bahamas.

Six planes, a helicopter and surface craft began a search at daylight for the missing man. John Stenko of Sarasota. A twin-engine plane, piloted since they had not used up inventories of raw materials since the walkout began.

New York's loss is figured at $1.2 million a day.

Mom, Five Die In Fire

MINETTO, N.Y. (AP) — A mother and five of her 10 children died Wednesday night in flames that destroyed their two-story frame home.

The father led the other five children to safety.

Firemen said the victims were Valeta Petrie, 35; and the children, Susan, 8; Barbara, 4; Bryan, 1; James, 6, and Gary, 13. The bodies of the children were recovered.

Tunis Petrie, about 40, was hospitalized with smoke inhalation, burns and shock suffered, firemen said, when he tried to rescue his wife and the five children from the home, about seven miles south of Oswego in central New York state.

He had tried to re-enter the house after leading to safety Randy, 12; Nancy, 7; Rodney J. Roger, 9, and David Stevenson, 17, a son of Mrs. Petrie's by a previous marriage.

Stock Market Declines Irregularly, Trade Dips

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined irregularly early this afternoon as trading slackened.

Losses of key stocks went from fractions to a point as profits were taken on the market's sustained rise to new highs which stalled Wednesday.

TREND LOWER
The trend was lower among

The Gulf Coast walkout has more than quadrupled the import of bananas at Tampa, Fla., where dock workers are unaffected since they are under a separate contract. Most of the fruit was diverted from New Orleans.

RESOUNDING LOSS
Philadelphia officials estimate their area is losing $500,000 to $700,000 daily. Baltimore officials estimated a $20-million loss by the end of this week. New Orleans and Mobile, Ala., report $1.5 million and $250,000 losses a day, respectively.

Union leaders have blamed the New York rejection on a misunderstanding and lack of information. They called it the best contract in union history, with a guaranteed annual wage of $5,860, and fringe benefits unmatched in any previous agreement.

The shippers, however, won the right to cut work gangs from the present 20 men to 17 over a four-year period. This would be done by job attrition as men resigned or died. Union leaders promised no man would lose his job as a result of the four-year pact.

Still, the concession to automation, firmly opposed by the union in the past, was blamed generally for rejection of the contract by the rank-and-file, and the union has been conducting an intensive education campaign.

steels, rubbers, aerospace stocks, electronics, nonferrous metals, chemicals, electrical equipments, oils, airlines and drugs.

Utilities were ahead on balance, as were cigarette stocks but these gains were irregular. Building materials and mail order-retails were mixed.

"REST PERIOD"
Many analysts said a "rest period" for the market was in order following a string of 11 sessions prior to Wednesday when more stocks rose than fell.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 5 at 333.5 with industrials off 1.5, rails off .1 and utilities up .6.

Some silver mining stocks were easy following a prediction that the United States will have to adopt non-silver coins ultimately.

LOSSES 3
IBM lost 3, Xerox more than a point. U.S. Steel was off nearly a point. Other major steelmakers lost fractions.

Johnson Starts To Work On 'Great Society'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson turns today toward the hard realities of combating injustice, poverty and ignorance on the way to his "Great Society."

In a solemn, sparsely applauded address beginning his first elective term, Johnson told the nation Wednesday these enemies of progress will be conquered before this generation has finished its life span.

The President spoke in an idealistic vein for 22 minutes after he had repeated the oath read to him by Chief Justice Earl Warren. His right hand raised, Johnson's left hand rested on his late mother's Bible, held for him by his misty-eyed wife.

RAPID CHANGE
The President's description of the kind of America he wants to see emerge from an era of "rapid and fantastic change" was couched in such uncontroversial terms that even Republicans who suspected the "Great Society" will involve massive new federal spending had only praise for his speech.

Politically, the document on which Johnson put the finishing touches only a little more than an hour before he delivered it was interpreted as an appeal for continuance of the consensus which resulted in his November landslide victory.

LITTLE OPPOSITION
His speech fixed humanitarian goals with which few Americans could disagree. Pattered on Franklin D. Roosevelt's first inaugural rallying call for Americans, it was devoid of politically challenging phrases.

The tasks he laid out for himself included not only the necessity of steering his legislative program through a Congress dominated by his party but of grappling with the problems of a seething world.

Without spelling out any of these latter, Johnson said the United States "can never again stand aside in proudful isolation."

Terrific dangers and troubles we once called "foreign" now live among us," he said. "If American lives must end, and American treasure be spilled in countries that we barely know, then that is the price that change has demanded for conviction and of our enduring government."

Republicans who have been critical of the President's policies found little in the speech about which to complain.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen called it "an eloquent resume of our history and an equally eloquent reminder of our responsibilities."

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, House Republican leader, characterized it as "a good call to arms for the American people."

ROCKY'S PRAISE
New York's Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said the President had "touched on the fundamental values very effectively on the basis of which this country was founded and reached its greatness. I like the emphasis that, while he is the leader, the responsibility is on all of us."

House Speaker John W. McCormack described the address as one likely to live in history for its "high moral plane and its appeal to reason."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana felt that Johnson had "spelled out the American dream."

Cambodian To Visit Moscow

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodia's leftist chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, will visit Moscow sometime in May, it was announced today.

In a message to Soviet President Anastas I. Mikoyan, Sihanouk said, "My visit to your great country will contribute to the friendship which unites the Cambodian and Soviet peoples."

Sihanouk, a strident critic of the United States, visited Communist China last year.

Premier Of Iran Shot; Youth Held

ALI MANSOUR

Condition Reported 'Not Good'

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Reports on wounded Premier Hassan Ali Mansour took a cloudy turn later today when surgeons announced his condition was "not good."

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Premier Hassan Ali Mansour was shot twice today as he left his car to enter Parliament. Surgeons gave him a good chance to live.

The government announced a youth identified as Mohammed Bokharai, 20, had been arrested as the attacker. It gave no indication of his motive.

Mansour was in surgery for 3 1/2 hours for the removal of bullets from his throat and spleen. Doctors called the operation successful.

Mansour's brother, Javad, told newsmen: "He is improving and there is a 95 per cent hope for his life."

The premier was shot as he was about to enter Parliament to present five new oil agreements Iran signed this week with major oil companies. Under the agreements, Iran will receive 75 per cent of the income from oil production and $185 million in cash.

Mansour, 41, was named premier by the shah last March.

County Pressed On Road Project

Jake Roberts, district engineer for the State Highway Department, pressed the Howard County Commissioners Court Thursday to speed up acquisition of right-of-way for FM 700 north.

The engineer, who came from Abilene to discuss road problems with the county commission, pointed out that the money for this 2.5 mile project has long been available and that his department is eager to get a contract awarded as soon as possible.

Lee Porter, county judge, told Roberts that the county board was as eager as he was for the job to get under way, but that a problem of financing right-of-way faces the court.

The estimated cost of right-of-way for this road, which would begin at IS 20 and extend northward to connect with the Snyder Highway, he said, will run between $75,000 and $100,000.

The county will have to vote bonds, Porter said, to provide funds to buy this right-of-way and also for the even more expensive and impressive road project to extend FM 700 west from US 87 to connect with IS 20 near Webb AFB.

So far, the commissioners pointed out, the public has not manifested too much interest in the proposal of a bond issue.

However, the commissioners said that they were heartily in favor of finding some way to speed up the program.

Roberts also discussed informally possible future plans for the extension of FM 700 westward. He suggested that the project might have to be staged in two steps. He believes, he said, the first step should be the construction of a grade separation at US 87 and FM 700 south of town.

"This is important," said Roberts, "because it will keep people out of the hospital."

If this plan is followed, the grade separation project might be connected with construction of the FM 700 road west to a point beyond the new First Baptist Church. The whole program would cost more than $1,500,000 he said—hence he expressed doubt if enough money would be allotted in any one year to finish the whole strip.

He added that more than $350,000 is already tagged and waiting for the north leg of the road.

All that is needed, he said, to get this job going is for the right-of-way to be acquired. He suggested that the ideal time for action would be to have the contract awarded next August.

This would mean, he pointed out, that the right-of-way would have to be cleared by late June or early in July.

He also told the commission that building the bridge over the Texas and Pacific Railway Co. track, which will be completed in the next four or five days, is an achievement of which his department is very proud.

He complimented his staff on the building of the crossing in such a way as to cause hardly any traffic difficulty at all on US 87 or in the city.

He said that when the new bridge is completed and accepted, the "no parking agreement" with the city relative to Gregg Street from city limit to city limit, would make US 87 a four lane highway through town.

FBI Hunts Bank Loot

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — FBI agents and other officers looked today in the rugged hill country west of Tulsa for about $5,000 taken in a bank holdup Wednesday.

Robert Majors, 25, of Tulsa was arrested about four hours after the robbery and the FBI said he admitted the holdup. He told patrolmen he left the money in the woods.

Majors was arraigned on a charge of robbing the First State Bank of Coyle, a town of 300 about 200 miles north of here.

SOS Signal From Ship Off Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — The Liberian freighter San Nicola radioed an SOS today that it was breaking up northwest of Hawaii. Planes were dispatched from Honolulu.

The Marine Exchange in San Francisco said the freighter was loaded with scrap destined for Formosa. It started the voyage at San Francisco.

The 7,242-ton ship is owned by the Seres Steamship Co., of New York.

Churchill In Semicoma, His Condition Unchanged

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill — reported Wednesday night to be at a very low ebb — today continued his valiant struggle.

A medical bulletin, issued at 12:16 p.m. said: "There is no change in Sir Winston's condition. There will be a further bulletin this evening."

Seven days after he was felled by a stroke, the 90-year-old statesman is in a semicoma, but with momentary fleeting signs of consciousness.

TWO PRESENT
Only members of the family inside the Churchill home at the time of the medical bulletin were Lady Churchill, 79, and young Winston Churchill, grandson and namesake of Britain's wartime prime minister. He is the son of Randolph Churchill.

It was the 14th medical bulletin since Churchill suffered a stroke last Friday.

A new deterioration in the 90-year-old statesman's circulation was reported Wednesday night by his physician, Lord Moran.

215 DAYS Without A Traffic Fatality Drive Safely!

who said in the 13th bulletin he had issued on Churchill's condition:

"The weakness of Sir Winston's circulation is now marked. There is nothing else to report."

Interpreting the physician's announcement, a medical consultant said: "This indicates that what have been days of waiting may now be shortened to hours. The report of weakened circulation reveals that blood pressure is dropping and general bodily functions must soon fail."

Boy At Meeting On Delinquency Shot By Youth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of a number of youths attending a meeting for the prevention of juvenile delinquency was fatally wounded by gunfire when the meeting recessed, police said.

Jose Ulloa, 18, was shot in the abdomen Wednesday night by a youth police say was among a group of hecklers who did not attend the meeting, which was held in the Church of the Epiphany under auspices of the Los Angeles County Probation Department.

Officers took four youths into custody for questioning today, but said none of them apparently had fired the fatal shot.

Negroes Seek Store Service

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — With the voter registration board in recess, Negroes turned their attention back to restaurants and other public facilities in Selma today in a continuing civil rights campaign.

They talked about renewed efforts to get service at a downtown drug store where one group was turned away Monday and perhaps at three others whose lunch counters they found closed.

The right-to-vote drive which sent 225 Negroes to jail in two days was halted temporarily because the registration board completed a three-day week Wednesday and recessed until Monday.

SEIZES MARCHERS
County officers under Sheriff James G. Clark, who had been content earlier in the week to arrest Negroes only at the courthouse, spread out into the city Wednesday afternoon to take three civil rights marchers into custody and bring the arrest total for the day to 159.

Except for the 156 Negroes jailed earlier in the day because of another courthouse march and the 66 arrested Tuesday, it was the first time in months that the sheriff's deputies had gone into the jurisdiction of the city police to make arrests.

And they did it in plain view of municipal officers who were following the Negro marchers back to a church. City police found no cause to arrest the Negroes because, they said, they saw no violation of law.

ON "SUSPICION"
The sheriff's officers picked the Negroes up on "suspicion." Under Alabama law, the sheriff is the chief law enforcement officer in the county and has jurisdiction within the city limits if he chooses to exercise it.

The three Negroes were walking at the head of the group which had gone to the courthouse Wednesday afternoon in still another unsuccessful effort to register.

Estes Waits In El Paso Jail For Word From High Court

EL PASO (AP) — County jail routine engaged Billie Sol Estes today while the former farm tycoon awaited word from Washington which could set him free.

His lawyers, John Cofer of Austin and Jack Niland of El Paso, have asked Justice Hugo Black of the Supreme Court to overturn U. S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomason's decision to revoke Estes' $100,000 bond and jail him.

With inauguration ceremonies interrupting most government functions Wednesday, Black took no action. Nobody knew when he would.

SOLE VISITOR
Niland was the only visitor allowed Estes during the day.

Turned away were an unidentified nun and Mrs. Paul Stone, wife of a man who uses Estes' name in an import-export business here on the Mexican border.

Guards said Estes remained in apparently cheerful spirits. He purchased stamps, toilet articles and writing materials from the jail commissary.

He arose early after his first night in a cell here, got acquainted with fellow prisoners and helped mop out his cell.

ACCEPT HIM
"They sat around and talked," jailer S. Lozano said, "and apparently the others accepted him."

The Supreme Court decided Monday not to hear his appeal of a 15-year prison sentence for mail fraud. Thomason revoked the bond and Estes was arrested at his home in Abilene.

If Justice Black denies the latest plea, Estes probably will be sent to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan. Two of his former associates are in lesser prisons.

LONG SENTENCE
Deputies from the office of U. S. Marshal Jesse Dobbs at San Antonio said Estes must go to a maximum security prison because of his long sentence.

Meanwhile, as Estes tells the jailer "the beans are very tasty," his ears are attuned to Washington.

He appears confident," said a jailer.

Parks Board Approves Several Developments

The parks and recreation board Wednesday afternoon authorized its chairman, Jack Watkins, to present a request to the city commission for budgeting of $15,000 each year for the coming two years for a three-year program of capital improvements for park and recreation facilities.

The board members voted for the move after a discussion of several possible major projects, including a new softball diamond, improvement of the amphitheater, development with the schools of the Airport School property as a joint park facility, a park in the area near Kentwood Addition and development of the "big spring" area as a park.

CATCH UP
"We're 20 years behind and trying to catch up," Watkins said of the parks development in the city. He said the need was for additional money to be set aside for capital improvements over a period of several years to update the city's park facilities.

Of the $75,000 set aside previously for parks development, all of the money except about $2,900 has been allocated for use, according to a statement of the fund status from Parks Superintendent Johnnie Johansen.

A detailed breakdown of costs and plans for the development of the Lakeview School Campus as a joint city-schools park facility was presented the board by Johansen.

At the conclusion of the report, the parks board members indicated approval of a suggestion from City Manager Larry Crow that the city make a proposal to the school board for a plan of development for the campus which would include the city's participation in the purchase of additional property adjacent to the school, city landscaping of the entire campus and city maintenance of the area on a year-round basis. The city would carry the water bills for the area from May 1 to Sept. 1, with the schools paying these bills during the remaining months. In addition, the schools would provide the fencing of the property.

The board authorized Crow to present the proposal to School Superintendent Sam Anderson.

WORKABLE
"I think this is a workable program," Chairman Watkins said of the plan. "It should show that we'll bend over backwards to make this work and get it going as a pilot program."

Johansen gave cost estimates for the development of the area which totaled about $13,000. Included were some $2,600 for a water sprinkler system, using what he termed "good used pipe"; another $514 for 150 trees; $600 for 10 concrete picnic tables and seats; $481 for picnic stoves and a barbecue pit; seeding of some 850 pounds of Bermuda grass seed, $855; a hardtopped 50 by 90-foot area, $1,000; and $786 for playground equipment.

The fencing for the area would include about 2,000 feet of six-foot chain link fence around the property, at a cost of about $4,600. A 360-foot chain link fence was proposed for the asphalt surface area, costing about $1,350, and another 330-foot of four-foot chain link fence around the outfield of the softball diamond, some $390. A 30-foot fence would also bound the south side of the elementary playground area, at a cost of about $50.

Johansen proposed use of eight to 10-foot Arizona Ash, Maple Leaf Mulberry and Chestnut Oak trees for the area. A detailed plot plan of the area was also presented to the board by Johansen.

Crow pointed out that the city-school joint development of the campus as a park and recreational unit would make possible a better facility than was planned under the previously proposed development of the area around the northside (west) swimming pool.

EAST END PARK
Another report was presented the board Wednesday on the plot development of the area west of the city sewage treatment plant, bordering FM 700, temporarily named East End Park. The 20 acres in the area was purchased by the city this past year for a recreational facility, and Crow said the city was now ready to install water lines to the property.

The board approved the plot plan drawn up by Johansen as a tentative outline for development of the area. The plan included a possible baseball park, teenage ball park and Little League park—all planned for future development—and a softball diamond as the first project for construction. After a question was raised by Bill Crooker concerning adequate parking in the area, Watkins estimated development plans could provide for some 200 cars in the area.

After a question from Crow concerning whether a new baseball park, member Don Newsum said while there was probably not a need now for one in that area, the possible future development of leagues for 16 to 18-year-old boys, in participation with Midland and Odessa teams, would probably provide such a need.

In other action, the board heard a tentative proposal from a vending machine operator for operation of coin-operated machines in some city parks, along with an open concession stand in city park. The board voted to

Judge Finds More Facts Concerning Gideon Case

Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, delving into the affairs of one Felix Dominguez, currently in state prison in Huntsville serving life as an habitual burglar, has come up with some interesting information on the former Howard County resident.

Dominguez, who recently filed a hand-written petition for a writ of habeas corpus with the court, asking that he be released from the penitentiary on the basis of the recent Gideon case in the U. S. Supreme Court, is getting impatient. He has now sent a second lengthy letter to the judge urging action in his case and citing additional information he seems to think has bearing on his case.

Judge Caton, who has pointed out that all he can do in a petition of this sort is to assemble what data may exist and forward it to the State Court of Criminal Appeals, pointed out today that his investigation into the Dominguez affairs filed in his court, show eight burglary convictions in 21 years, involving 79 years prison time assessed, plus, he added, the life sentence imposed in October, 1960. At that time, Dominguez was ruled guilty as an habitual criminal—an offense in which life sentence is automatic.

Dominguez, in his petition, pleads that he is illegally detained because, at one of the convictions against him, he was tried without being represented by an attorney. The U. S. Supreme Court, in the now celebrated Gideon decision, held that such conditions nullify a conviction. Now, in his more recent letter, Dominguez cites other convictions where he charges he was not represented by counsel.

Judge Caton points out that the only cases which can be made applicable in the case are those cited in the indictment on which the habitual burglar conviction was based. The judge is preparing a report of the affairs of Dominguez and will dispatch it to the appeals court in the near future.

advertise for bids on a concession contract for the parks.

CAMP SITE
Johansen also detailed to the board progress made in the development of an overnight camping site near US 87 at City Park. He said roads and parking spaces had been constructed with caliche, the City Park entrance moved northward and a separate entrance established for the camp site, a new fence installed and some trees and shrubs transplanted. Additional work includes installation of water lines, restrooms, lighting and placement of tables and cookers.

The board also voted approval for a request from Howard County Junior College for use of the municipal golf course on April 21, 22 and 23rd for an area high school golf play-off.

Light Sentence Is Assessed

A defendant charged with theft told a convincing story concerning his offense and, as a result, the county attorney, the county sheriff and a justice of peace collaborated to make things easier for him.

The defendant is Ernesto M. Siaz, who lives in the 1500 Block of West Second.

Sheriff Aubrey Standard said that Siaz was arrested for stealing a radiator from the Herffington Auto Parts lot. He sold the radiator for $3.

"I stole the radiator to sell to get money to buy milk for my children," Siaz related in a statement he made to the officers. He admitted an earlier theft of another radiator, presumably for the same cause.

The sheriff and Dee Jon Davis, county attorney, found that Siaz did, indeed, have a family problem. He has a large number of young children who do need food.

If Siaz was prosecuted in county court, the officers figured, he would be kept from supporting his youngsters longer than if he could be prosecuted in justice court.

The upshot was they agreed to let him plead guilty in the justice court of Walter Grice to a reduced charge. Grice, in his turn, fined the man $1—the least possible penalty—plus costs. A deal was then made by which he could pay out the total expense.

He was then released, presumably to go about his task of providing food for his hungry young brood.

Attends Class

This one week course presents the overall management concept at base level in accordance with the Air Force system of material management. Members of this class include Col. A. F. Taute, commander of Undergraduate Pilot Training at Webb AFB.

Three Guilty Pleas Heard

Three pleas of guilty were accepted by Judge Lee Porter in Howard County Court Wednesday afternoon. Jail time was assessed against all three defendants.

J. H. Kantos, charged with writing worthless checks, drew a fine of $50 and 30 days in the county jail. He was credited with two days he has already served.

Mrs. Troy H. Melton, charged with writing worthless checks, was fined $10 and given 10 days in county jail with credit for two days already served.

Wilbur Euell Williams, charged with driving while intoxicated, drew a fine of $50 and three days in jail.

Viet Troops Use Clubs On Rioters

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Vietnamese paratroopers waited on the alert today to check more street fighting as five Buddhist leaders continued their "fast to the death" unless Premier Tran Van Huong resigned.

The Buddhists closed their headquarters and one of the fasting monks said it would remain closed for the duration of the hunger strike as a further gesture of protest against Huong and his government.

NOT YIELDING

Huong, however, showed no sign of yielding. Since becoming premier on Oct. 30, he has steadfastly refused to bow to pressure from the Buddhist leaders, and the military has backed him up.

Paratroopers and police used tear gas, clubs and rifle butts Wednesday night to disperse Buddhist followers during a three-hour riot.

No arrests were made, and there were no serious injuries.

Saigon's military governor, Pham Van Dong, warned that the 1-to-4 a.m. curfew now in effect would be extended unless the disturbances end.

The leader of the hunger strikers is Thich Tam Chau, the chief of the local Buddhist institute and a leader of the Buddhist agitation which helped to overthrow President Ngo Dinh Diem.

CHAU SPEAKS

Chau told the crowd of demonstrators Wednesday night: "If the Ngo Dinh Diem regime could be considered 100 per cent repressive, then the Huong regime must be considered 80 per cent repressive."

On the military front, U.S. sources said that the Vietnamese air force was making a determined effort to drive the Communists out of the Boi Loi forest about 30 miles west of Saigon. The sources said Vietnamese Skyraiders flew 137 sorties so far this week and further bombings were expected.

The air force is believed dropping 1,000-pound bombs in an effort to destroy deep tunnels occupied by the Viet Cong.

Two Captured In Holdup Of Iredell Bank

IREDELL, Tex. (AP)—Peace officers captured two men who fled at speeds up to 110 miles per hour shortly after a $16,350 holdup at the Iredell State Bank Wednesday.

The prisoners, ex-convict Johnny Hill, 22, and William Phillips, 35, both of Fort Worth, were charged with armed robbery and jailed at Meridian.

bursts of warning shots in pursuit of a rented car before it hit a fence near Granbury. Both occupants took to their heels but soon were run down in a pasture.

Police Chief T. E. Kirkpatrick of Cleburne said his speedometer hit 110 m.p.h. as he followed a state police car chasing the accused pair.

Officers said most of the money was recovered. Several bundles of bills were tossed from the fleeing car.

T. L. Chapman, president of the Iredell bank, said two "pretty rough and wild-eyed looking" men waved automatic pistols and forced him to hand out money from the vault. Iredell is 60 miles southwest of Fort Worth.

'Copter Falls, Killing Briton

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—A British major, Keith Milner, was killed Wednesday in the crash of a Malaysian air force helicopter.

Reports that two unlighted, unidentified planes dropped parachutes Wednesday in southern Malaysia touched off new invasion jitters.

Security forces rushed to the area but found no sign of parachutes or Indonesian raiders. One source said the planes were probably Royal Air Force planes operating in the area.

Gurkha and Indonesian forces clashed Wednesday. About 40 Indonesian soldiers crossed the central Borneo border and one Indonesian was reported killed.

It was the first reported engagement between Indonesians and forces of Malaysia since Dec. 30.

Radio Jakarta said today that the Indonesian ambassador to the United Nations, I. N. Palar, is en route to New York with formal notification of Indonesia's withdrawal from the world body. Palar left Jakarta Wednesday.

Methodist Home Group Convenes

CHICAGO (AP)—A fourth of all persons in homes for the aged are in non-profit institutions, a North Texas State University faculty member said today.

Hiram Friedsam told the National Association of Methodist Hospitals and Homes that residents of the non-profit homes are also older than persons in other types of church homes.

Fifty-four per cent of persons in non-profit homes are 80 or older, Friedsam said, whereas these persons account for only 50 per cent of the total in all types of homes for the aged.

Friedsam said the percentage of non-whites in non-profit homes is lower than the percentage of all homes.

Methodist hospital administrators at the meeting agreed earlier that their hospitals should take the lead in integrating facilities but multiple-bed rooms should remain segregated.

One explained that he did not "advocate causing any ill person emotional stress in order to make a point of integrating."

First Federal Re-Elects Officers, Assets Are Up

Officers were re-elected by directors of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association Wednesday at a meeting following the annual assembly of stockholders.

Elmo Wasson continues as president, Robert Stripling as executive vice president, and Jack K. Dumphy as secretary and treasurer.

At the stockholders meeting, R. V. Middleton and M. L. Patterson were re-elected to the board. They serve with Wasson, Stripling and K. H. McGibbon.

A report to stockholders from Stripling showed First Federal with assets, as of Dec. 31, 1964, of $17,705,085. This is up nearly $4 million from the $13,967,678 total of the prior year, and a figure virtually double that of five years ago.

Member share accounts (savings) were at $15,173,625 at the end of the year, a gain from $12,922,532. First mortgage loans amounted to $15,118,241, up heavily from the $11,868,187 of a year ago.

The Association closed 436 loans of all categories during 1964, and now has 1,662 borrowers. Its investors total 4,376. Paid out in dividends last year was the total of $62,944.60.

C-C To Help Homecoming

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa Chamber of Commerce discussed plans for the 1965 Lamesa Homecoming to be held July 2-4. J. D. Dyer, publicity chairman for the homecoming committee, announced that letters were being mailed to all former residents inviting them to attend. This will be the first time such a large group has been contacted. Bob Crawley is chairman with R. B. Snell acting as vice chairman. Margaret Hardwick is secretary-treasurer.

The chamber voted to assist the group with the program, and also agreed to underwrite part of the expenses.

It was announced that reservations had been made for a group to represent Lamesa at the Texas Industrial Seminar being held in Austin Feb. 5. The Permian Basin group, of which Lamesa is a member, will host a luncheon honoring the Texas Legislators on that day. It was also announced that a 10-hour retail credit course would be held jointly by the chamber and the Retail Credit Association March 1.

Bliss Concerned At Undue Haste

CHICAGO (AP) — Ray C. Bliss, who is due to take over as Republican national chairman April 1, says he is concerned over apparent expectations for a quick reorganization of GOP forces battered by last November's Democratic landslide.

Before coming to Chicago Wednesday night for a two-day meeting of Republican leaders, Bliss told newsmen in Columbus, "This thing may have been oversold. They may expect miracles after April first."

Bliss, 57, Ohio Republican chairman, is virtually certain to receive official appointment as national chairman during the Chicago meeting.

The election of a new chairman to succeed Dean Burch is expected at the first session of the National Committee Friday, at which Burch is expected to submit his resignation.

Burch and Barry Goldwater, the unsuccessful GOP presidential nominee, announced last week that Burch would resign and that Bliss would be named to the post. Goldwater had said that Burch could not command "a clear working mandate" from the committee.

On his arrival in Chicago Burch told newsmen the meeting of the party leaders was a call for unification. He said Republican leaders can unify the party if they "quit jousting with windmills."

A Devotional For The Day

"Go, therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit." (Matthew 28:19, RSV)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, help me to take seriously today the marching orders of our Lord. "Where hate rules, let me bring love; where malice, forgiveness; where dispute, reconciliation; where error, truth; where doubt, belief; where despair, hope; where darkness, Thy light; where sorrow, joy." In the Master's name. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Faithful To Calling

For those who had known Dr. G. T. Hall, it is difficult to realize that he is gone. He had ministered to the physical needs of multiplied scores of families for so long and with such seemingly inexhaustible energy and alertness that few dreamed he was anything like the 82 years he had experienced at the time of his sudden death.

He had a rich life, spanning the times when practice was accomplished in the face of great difficulty and often under almost primitive conditions. He visited the sick and bound up wounds from the time calls were made by horse and buggy to drafty, dimly lighted homes until the day when laboratories and other diagnostic tools, as well as hospitals, were at hand. He practiced from the day when doctors were just leaving off their own compounding of simple medicines until the time of the wonder drugs.

Dr. Hall could have left off his medical practice at anytime within the past three decades, for he had enough interests to sustain him and occupy his time. Yet he could not, for he had a burning ambition from youth to be a doctor, and he regarded it as his calling. Life to him without his practice was probably unthinkable, and likely one of the reasons he never seriously considered retirement as that to many, many families there simply wasn't any other physician than Dr. Hall. This is quite a testimonial to a man in his calling, and it is a benediction to his service that he was faithful to it to the very last seconds of his life.

County Representation

The shape of things to come in Texas is suggested by a recent decision by the Wisconsin Supreme Court. There the court ordered 70 counties to reorganize their county board systems to reflect a one man, one vote representation.

The 7th Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo has before it a case which may eventually do for Texas what the Wisconsin Supreme Court did for that state. On appeal is a decision by the district court of Moore County that state statutes do not forbid a county commissioner from representing 75 per cent of the population in that county. The Supreme Court of Texas will likely be called upon to settle the question. If the state's highest civil court applies the one man, one vote rule to county commissioners' precincts, as the U. S. Supreme Court applied it to legislative and congressional districts, equal representation on commissioners courts in Texas will surely follow.

Our own situation in Howard County is relatively good as compared with most counties. Midland County, for instance, has one man representing over 90 per cent of the vote, a condition which Mayor Hank Avery of Midland has sought to correct by court action.

David Lawrence Loopholes In Foreign Aid Program

WASHINGTON — "Brainwashing" — the political technique of playing on the ignorance or indifference of the public — seems to have been effectively utilized in the message on "foreign aid" which President Johnson has just sent to Congress.

MANY A HEADLINE in the press emphasized the President's comment that his "request" for $3,380,000,000 "is the smallest in the history of the foreign-aid program" since it was started in 1948. But a "request" for an appropriation is far different from an actual authorization by Congress, and what was glossed over is the fact that the President's "request" this year is higher than what was actually appropriated for "foreign aid" for fiscal year 1955 as well as for 1954, 1950, 1956 and 1955.

SO A "REQUEST" for a sum which is slightly lower than what was requested last year is not in itself of any real significance, particularly when it is $130 million more than last year's appropriation and $380 million more than was appropriated the year before that.

What is more important is that, while the President used the figure of $3,380,000,000 as his "request," he inserted at the same time in his message a separate "request" for another $750 million for aid to Latin America. In the first part of his message, he says:

"SPECIFICALLY, for fiscal year 1956 I recommend no additional authorizations for development lending or the Alliance for Progress; existing authorizations for those purposes are adequate."

But further on in the same message, Mr. Johnson says:

"To strengthen multi-national aid, and further to strengthen the Alliance for Progress, I urge the Congress promptly to approve the three-year authorization of $750 million which constitutes the United States contribution to the fund for special operations of the Inter-American Development Bank."

YET THE PUBLIC is being told, in effect, that the total amount the administration is asking from Congress for "foreign aid" is only $3,380,000,000. Actually, by adding one third of the $750 million of "multi-national aid" for Latin America, the total "request" becomes $3,830,000,000. This is higher than the total of last year's "request" as well as the "request" in several of the preceding years.

A third "request" by the President in his message is not spelled out. He says the amount asked for the Viet Nam operation may not be enough and that he is requesting "an additional standby authorization for military or supporting assistance which would be used only in Viet Nam." He also warns that he will ask Congress for more funds if "situations should arise which require additional amounts of U. S. assistance to advance U. S. vital interests."

THERE IS ALSO an accumulation of unexpended funds from previous years which can at any time be used for the original purpose as long as it comes within the scope of the language of the laws authorizing such expenditures. It is estimated that $6.5 billion appropriated by Congress in past years has not yet been spent. But each year Congress is nevertheless asked to keep on appropriating more money without regard to these previously authorized but unspent sums.

The President's message, therefore, does not tell just how much will be taken out of the U. S. Treasury for "foreign aid" this fiscal year or next year. The impression is being given that spending for "foreign aid" is to be a record low, when this is not the case at all.

Billy Graham

There are so many denominations among Christian churches, with many differences that I am confused. Will you please explain what makes a church Christian?

Really, you can never discover Christianity by studying the various forms observed in churches. Even the doctrinal differences are concerned with such matters as do not pertain directly to a saving faith. The Bible says that "The Kingdom of God is not eating and drinking, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit." Externals are the various ways that people express their faith. We do not become Christians by adopting any of the traditional forms, but rather by receiving into our lives, Christ as a Savior. Then these spiritual fruits come to be present in us. A Christian is one who is related to God by a living faith in Jesus Christ. He believes that the work of Christ, His death and resurrection, make full provision for his spiritual need. He takes forgiveness and eternal life in the act of believing that Jesus Christ is his own Savior, and what Jesus did, He did for him personally. True churches believe this, though they may have differing opinions on other matters.

Itchy Elephants

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Stewart Lancaster and his fiancée, Diana Vanthoogerhuis, ran into an unexpected obstacle when they tried to telephone from Louisville to her parents near Cape Town, South Africa.

Elephants, an operator told them, were causing a thunderous static that drowned their voices.

It seems the elephants like to scratch themselves on the telephone poles in Africa, causing the static.

The callers gave up, then placed the call later without difficulty.

THE OLD BOY STOOD ON THE BURNING DECK

James Marlow President Puts Stress On Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson makes unity a central theme of his new administration. At first glance his inaugural address Wednesday looked like just a pep talk. But there was more to it than that.

It had ancestors in President Jefferson's inaugural 124 years ago and President Monroe's "era of good feeling."

Jefferson and his Republicans (today's Democrats) had just come through a corrosive presidential contest with the Federalists, a conservative-aristocratic party which didn't last long when he took the oath in 1801.

THE COUNTRY, just a few years old, was split by intensely bitter factionalism. Jefferson, trying to heal the wounds, said "we are all Republicans, we are all Federalists." He talked of unity, justice, freedom.

And, dwelling on the immense possibilities in American life, he said there was enough room here "for our descendants to the thousandth and thousandth generation."

By the time Monroe won the presidency in 1816 — against the Federalists — the party was disintegrating so badly that when he got his second term in 1820 he had all the electoral votes except one.

Monroe, taking advantage of the growing political vacuum, said he wanted to be President of all the people and he succeeded so well that his time in the White House was known as the "era of good feeling."

Johnson last fall fought one of the bitterest presidential campaigns in history to beat Sen. Barry Goldwater and the conservatives he represented.

BUT JOHNSON, even before his victory, echoed Monroe: He said he wanted to be President of all the people. And, like Jefferson, he is trying to heal the campaign wounds and, in so doing, try to disarm his opposition.

Wednesday he used the words

"unity" or "union" eight times in his address, "justice" five, and "liberty" five.

Johnson set the tone and the theme in his opening paragraph, a vivid reminder of Jefferson: "We are one nation and one people." He went on to paint the immense possibilities in American life, as Jefferson did.

He described the American future as the "uncrossed desert and the unclimbed ridge. It is the star not reached and the harvest sleeping unplowed in the ground."

All this by itself would have been a significant indication of his thought.

Hal Boyle The Sidewalk Philosopher

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbside comments of a Pavement Philosopher:

Man has always yearned for a Utopia on earth — whether he deserves one or not.

The inauguration of Lyndon Baines Johnson as 36th President of the United States puts into motion one of the greatest drives in history in this direction — the achievement of what he has called the "Great Society."

Some of his countrymen cavil at the term. They think it grandiose — in effect, no more than another political slogan.

BUT IT IS hard to see why becoming a "Great Society" should be less than the American goal. Surely in the long dark narrative of the human race, no other major power has been in a better position to make a better human society, a more livable environment.

We have the resources and the skills to house our people satisfactorily, to feed them well, to improve their health and to educate them to a higher level. We have the ability to do all this — if we but have the will.

Some 2,500 years ago a Chinese philosopher named Lao-tse remarked, "The journey of a thousand miles begins with the first step."

The United States already has taken many steps toward the achievement of a "Great Society." It also has taken a few side steps — probably some backward steps, too — along the way. But from the time of the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers, the splendid promise of the American dream has led us through wilderness toward the creation of a more durable fate and a more humane existence.

AS A practical man who knows practical politics, Johnson is certain to try to make our next steps forward giant ones. Although there may be — surely will be — partisan arguments about methods, the end in view ultimately is nonpartisan.

There are hopeful portents that the goal of a "Great Society" is attainable. While we live in the most murderous century of all, we also live in the most humanitarian century of all. Probably never have more men slain each other than in the 20th century; yet never have more men been helped by each other.

We've made more widows than any past generation. But we have also done more to conquer disease, tear down barriers of space and time, increase knowledge, and distribute the fruits of our labor more equitably.

We haven't stood still. We have come a long way.

Perhaps we have even come far enough to realize that no one land, no matter how strong, can safely remain forever as an island of prosperity in a vast puddle of restless poverty.

Around The Rim It's A Heady Plateau

Although general talk and most economic figures indicate the city has reached a leveling off point following the rapid growth of the 1950s a tour of the city makes this hard to believe. On almost every hand, construction is under way on some project.

THE FIRST BAPTIST Church is one of many projects along FM 700, which also includes a restaurant under construction at Goliad; signs say an apartment house and another restaurant are being planned; and of course, the mammoth new shopping center will be opened sometime this year at the US 87 intersection.

The new IS 20 bypass route is a beehive of activity, the new Americana Motel complex, a Ramada Inn is being built, service stations are popping up at several places, and several other projects are in the mill. Holiday Inn is due for expansion.

THE NEW FEDERAL building is in the planning stage, a restaurant will soon open on South US 87, Cosden is expanding its refinery operation for increased sales, and the Webb AFB program will include a new small plane phase this summer.

And although the residential construction has slowed considerably in recent years, this phase of construction is continuing at a steady pace. There must be several dozen houses in various stages of completion at the moment.

OUR DOWNTOWN area, during the year, may take on a completely new face, as businessmen are even now working on plans to provide more parking—and perhaps modernization of streets and store buildings will give our city a fresh, new look.

The big school building project will get started this year. The city still has some work to do under its Master Plan program, the junior college may begin on another phase of its expansion plans, and the county may launch a road building program. With Webb's new program, new construction can be expected at the County Airport to handle the enlarged activity.

IF OUR GROWTH has reached a plateau, then it is certainly a healthy, vigorous one with so much activity planned or already in the hopper. It may turn out that what has been described as a plateau is merely a breathing spell, as the community prepares for another period of spirited growth, such as we experienced in the 50s.

Holmes Alexander Forming An Opposition

WASHINGTON — There was something bravely defiant in the way Gerald Ford said it. The newly-chosen leader of the minority House members was making his first appearance with his Senate colleague, Everett Dirksen, and he had a crowded press conference where a good beginning was important.

THE REPUBLICANS had picked him for his good looks, his good brain, his fine projection of sincerity and vigor, and his promised ability to give the GOP a pick-up after its debacle in the November elections. The key passage of Jerry Ford's first formal utterance was this:

"We are convinced that the Republican party is not only a great force in the American way of life, but is the only living political instrument which can make the American Dream a reality, not a mere collection of words and promises."

FROM A MAN given to mere rhetoric and bombast, the words would have seemed weightless and banal. From Ford they expressed the political equivalent of what Washington must have felt at Valley Forge and Lincoln must have felt when the Union army was routed at the first battle of Manassas. What hope is there, in Ford's case, of stopping the Democratic juggernaut, which is now so numerically and psychologically superior? How can Ford, who is today the Republicans' de facto standard-bearer, plan to halt the stampede of defeatism into which the party has been plunged?

HE DOES NOT have the troops. His 140 House members look very sparse in a membership of 435, and he cannot count on their solid support. The liberals will leave him on many a Great Society roll call. He does not have the esprit de corps. The defeats last November which cost the Republicans 40 of their House seats were demoralizing. Ford does not have a program. The downfall of Barry Goldwater, and the savage fighting to destroy National Chairman Dean Burch and all other vestiges of the Goldwater crusade have left the Republicans in Washington with a roster but not with a charter.

All that Ford has left to fight with is a set of convictions which have to be summoned out of the void of party disaster.

FORD IS UP against the task of producing something in the future out of nothing in the present. That "something" may be no more in the next two years than the semblance of an opposition to the dominant Democrats. But he, more than the triumphant Democrats, has the preservation of the two-party system in his keeping.

The hammer of the majority must have the anvil of the minority on which to beat out its plowshares and swords. At the moment there is no anvil, no Republican opposition that is fit to be called by that name. Ford stood there, a man who is beginning his fight with empty hands but strong convictions.

Richard Starnes A Classic Villany Revived

WASHINGTON — Discovery last week of a crypt containing the body of the child bride of the Infant Duke of York has parted the mists of history on one of the classic villainies of all time.

For the duke, married to little Anne Mowbray when he was four years old, was murdered in the Tower of London five years later, along with his brother, Edward V, who was then only 12 years old. Although the verdict has never been unanimous, history has traditionally laid the bloody deed to Richard III.

GUILTY OR NOT, history has dealt harshly with him. He has come down to us as a usurper, a murderer and a deformed madman. Historians can't agree that he was all, or even any, of these things. He probably had a withered arm, but contemporary portraits do not support the image of a hunchbacked monster that Shakespeare, writing 100 years later, created.

In any event, there was not much doubt in Richard's time that he had ordered the death of the two little princes. He had convened a rubber-stamp Parliament to declare the marriage of his late brother, Edward IV, invalid, and hence to cast doubt on the legitimacy of the two princes and their claim to the throne. Richard, with feigned reluctance, on July 6, 1483.

BUT 12-YEAR-OLD Edward V, now a prisoner with his younger brother, had powerful supporters, and Richard quickly learned the truth of the aphorism about crowned heads resting uneasily. As long as the two little princes lived, Richard III could not feel secure on the throne. Within a month the crime that shocked even that bloody era took place at the Tower, although it was 20 years later (and Richard himself was long dead) before any useful account of the cruel deed was published.

AT THAT TIME, however, Sir Thomas More (himself martyred by Henry VIII) related how Sir James Tyrell, at the behest of Richard, hired the two men who entered the Tower at night and smothered the two children while they slept.

Nearly 200 years later, excavation at the Tower turned up a wooden casket containing the bones of two boys about the age of the two nephews whom Richard III had ordered slain. It was assumed the bones were the mortal remains of the two, and Charles II ordered them re-interred in Westminster Abbey.

(ANNE MOWBRAY's body is in a much better state of preservation and presumably the anatomists at the British Museum will be able to fix the cause of her death. So far as anyone knows now, little Anne's death was from natural causes.)

Merited or not (and in spite of some important dissent most historians still accept Sir Thomas More's account of the double murder), retribution was swift in catching up with Richard III. Two years to the month after he presumably procured the murder of the two princes whose rivalry he feared, Richard himself was slain in a battle against the avenging forces of Henry Tudor, at Bosworth.

HE FOUGHT courageously to the end, and even Shakespeare's unsympathetic treatment has him scoring to flee for his life. But by the time Shakespeare wrote about Richard III, history had made up its mind about him. If Shakespeare portrayed him as a hard case, it is just because that is what Shakespeare's England was convinced he had been.

8-YEAR NFL VETERAN VISITS HERE

Aggies Eye West Texas Talent, Says Pardee

By TOMMY HART

Texas A&M University can be expected to scout more in this immediate area of West Texas as now that Gene Stallings has taken over as head football coach there.

So reasons Jack Pardee, who recently joined the Aggie staff after eight years of professional ball with the Los Angeles Rams.

"We'll go after talent, no matter where it is," Pardee said during a stop here Wednesday. Pardee, one-time Aggie football great, renewed acquaintances while here with another alumnus of the College Station school, head coach Don Robbins of Big Spring High School.

Last year, only two District 2-AAAA exes, halfback Sammy Ray of San Angelo and tackle Melvin Simmons of Odessa High, were members of the A&M team. Guard Ronney Moore of Brownwood and quarterback Jim Willenborg of Clifton were about the only other members of the Aggie squad with a West Texas background.

Pardee should know West Texas as well. He played his high school football in six-man circles at Christoval. Not many six-man players ever make the ripple in college ball but Pardee did in a big way.

Jack played well enough in 1956 to rate the All-Southwest Conference club as a fullback, the year the Aggies won nine games and tied one under Paul (Bear) Bryant, winding up a fine season with a 34-21 success at the expense of the University of Texas.

Some of his teammates that year included Loyd Hale, center; Roddy Osborne, quarterback; Dennis Goehring, guard; Charley Krueger, tackle; John David Crow, halfback; and John Tracey, end.

Pardee is so new to the A&M staff his family, consisting of a wife and four children, still reside in a Los Angeles suburb. He plans to move them to College Station in the next several weeks. Included among his children are three girls and a 6 1/2-year-old boy.

Asked if his son had shown any athletic tendencies, Pardee grinned and replied: "Yes, he's a fighter. He fights with his sisters."

Pardee spent eight years as an employee of the Los Angeles Rams as a linebacker, during which time he played under three coaches—Bob Waterfield, Sid Gillman and Harland Svare.

He spent one off season in the service in Virginia, two in Houston and the last five in California, during which time he was employed in the customers' relations department of the American Title Co.

Pardee won't be allowed to sign any talent for his school until Feb. 9 but that doesn't keep him from looking at game films and consulting high school coaches. He reasons A&M will get its share of the schoolboy talent this spring.

Jack says he's in great shape after having undergone surgery for a malignancy months ago. Apparently his doctors caught the disease in an early stage.

He became worried over what he had long thought was a big freckle after another sports figure, pitcher Jim Umbricht of the Houston Colts, had a similar ailment and died from its effects, but Pardee's doctors assured him he had reported in time for successful treatment.

Spring workouts will probably be held rather late at Aggie land this year, Pardee reasons, because the new coaching regime wants first to get firmly oriented with its duties.

Stallings succeeded Hank Foidberg as head coach of the Aggies after last season, returning to his alma mater from a tenure under Bear Bryant at Alabama.

Chicago Adds John Romano In Dealings

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox strengthened their weak spot in acquiring catcher John Romano and became a stronger American League pennant threat than ever.

Cleveland moved into the pennant contention by getting back right-handed slugger Rocky Colavito, who also figured to make the turnstiles click merrily.

Kansas City got some new faces. That appears to sum up the three-club, eight-player deal the White Sox, Indians and Athletics announced Wednesday.

The multiple transaction, originated at the baseball convention in Houston last month, went like this:

The Indians gave up Romano, pitcher Tommy John and outfielder Tommie Agee to the White Sox. Chicago sent outfielders Jim Landis and Mike Herschberger and a still unnamed pitcher to Kansas City and catcher Camilo Carron to Cleveland. Kansas City sent Colavito to the Indians.

The unnamed pitcher is believed to be either veteran Johnny Buzhardt, Dave DeBusschere or rookie Fred Talbot.

The Indians, who have suffered both on the field and at the gate ever since they traded Colavito to Detroit back in 1960, not only have added right-handed hitting power which they sorely lacked, but regained one of the most popular players ever to wear an Indian uniform.

Gabe Paul estimates the Rock's presence will add at least another 150,000 to Cleveland's attendance next season. The Indians' club president also believes the 31-year-old outfielder's acquisition will make a pennant contender out of last year's sixth-place club. Despite a .274 batting average, Colavito blasted 34 home runs and drove in 102 runs.

Charles Finley, owner of the Athletics, rejected a flat $300,000 offer from Paul for the slugger at the Houston meetings. The offer came the day after the Indians had acquired Chuck Hinton, a right-handed hitting outfielder, in a trade with Washington.

Cleveland now has four top outfielders in Colavito, Hinton, Leon Wagner and fleet center fielder Vic Davellino. Manager Birdie Tebbetts may use Rocky at first, or switch Hinton to second, so he can employ all of his power in a balanced line-up.

Getting Romano back fills the White Sox biggest need. Catching was Chicago's biggest weakness in 1968 when the team finished only one game behind the champion New York Yankees.

A left-handed long-ball hitter, the 30-year-old backstop figures to add sock to the White Sox batting order. He hit 19 home runs despite a long layoff due to an injury. He batted .241.

Traded away by the White Sox to the Indians after the 1959 season, Romano developed into one of the league's better catchers. He was named twice to the All-Star team.

"We've been trying to get John back for two years," said White Sox Manager Al Lopez.

Haynes Goes To Broncos

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Swift, tricky Abner Haynes — who thought he had proved to the Kansas City Chiefs that the day of the 190-pound running back isn't over — was traded to Denver Wednesday for linebacker Jim Fraser.

Haynes, the first big name in the American Football League, was named the AFL's Comeback of the Year last fall by the Associated Press. After a bad season in 1963 — the club's first in Kansas City — Haynes came back with 713 yards and a 5.2 average, plus several long runs.

It's no secret, however, the Chiefs still regarded his 190-pound size a drawback in an era of 225-pound backs and 245-pound linebackers. More important, they needed linebacking after E. J. Holub's knee operation. Kansas City received an undisclosed amount of cash in the trade.

Fraser, 6-3 and 236, is an excellent linebacker and outstanding punter. He has led the AFL in punting two straight years, and set an AFL record of 46.1. He's a four-year veteran from Wisconsin and 28 years old.

Odessa Wins Over Hawks

ODESSA — Howard County Junior College lost its first Western Conference basketball game in five starts here Wednesday night, yielding to Odessa College by a score of 82-80. San Angelo is now the only undefeated team in the league.

A 25-foot jump shot by Chuck Ramsey with 12 seconds remaining in the game gave the up-and-down Wranglers a four-point lead. Charley Vass pumped in a shot for HCJC just before the final buzzer sounded to close the gap.

The win was Odessa's third in five league decisions. Overall, Odessa is 7-5 while HCJC is 12-7.

The Jayhawks, who are in the midst of midterm exams at home, return to competition in Big Spring Friday night against Frank Phillips College of Borger.

HCJC built a seven-point lead late in the opening period but the Wranglers held the gap to three points at half time.

With a little more than four minutes remaining, Odessa had moved in front, 67-64. HCJC led a couple of times in the final minutes but on three occasions missed free shots on 1-and-1 situations that would have put the pressure on Odessa.

Eddy Nelson again led the Hawks with 30 points while Tom Carter settled for 27, all but six of which he accumulated the first half.

Ramsey counted 22 for Odessa while Pete Zuniga had 18 and Bob Snoddy 16.

Cisco Top Team In Region Five

Picking up three victories last week, Cisco stretched its season record to 16-1 and will probably be ranked among the nation's top 10 junior college basketball teams.

Cisco maintained its 100-point plus scoring average per game and has given up only 71.9 points per game.

Preston Sherrod of Cisco leads all scorers in the Region V division of the National Junior College Athletic Association with a 22.2 scoring average. Bill Trospier of Clarendon is next with 21.7 and Howard County's Eddy Nelson is hitting a 21.6 clip.

Ranger follows Cisco with a 9-3 record and Howard County is next with a 12-6 mark for the season.

Sherrod leads in field goals made with 157 and Nelson has scored on 84 free throws. Clarendon's Don Campbell is pulling down 12.7 rebounds per game to lead in that department.

Issuing Bonds For Lake May Be Held Up

AUSTIN (AP)—The Trinity River Authority has a right to issue interim bonds to start the Livingston Reservoir project but Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr may withhold approval of the issue because of a pending lawsuit, the Texas Supreme Court held Wednesday.

The court said it could find nothing in the statute books to prevent issuance of $48.5 million in temporary bonds to finance the project until final bonds are prepared.

Carr's approval is necessary, however, before the bonds can go on the market.

The TRA asked the court for a writ of mandamus ordering the attorney general to okay the bonds. The court's decision directed Carr to do so—unless his refusal was based on the lawsuit challenging the Livingston project.

Carr said he questioned the legality of the interim bonds and follows a long standing policy of withholding approval of bonds ensnared in litigation until such suits are finally resolved.

ON APPEAL
 A suit challenging the city of Houston's contract with the TRA to build the big water supply project is now before the Houston Court of Civil Appeals.

"We know of no good reason why the legislature could not empower the authority to issue interim bonds in amounts and for terms within the limitations provided for definitive bonds; and that apparently is what the legislature did," the court's opinion stated.

The high court then noted the attorney general's point that while a suit by two Houston men raising nine objections to the Houston-TRA contract is unsettled, he can't approve the bonds.

DECIDE QUESTIONS
 "If that had been stated as his only reason," the court said, "a writ of mandamus would under no circumstances have been issued to require his approval of the bonds. As the matter stands, we simply decline to consider and decide the questions raised by the nine objections."

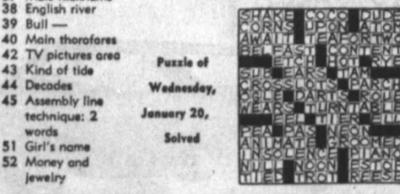

The opinion said it would not be appropriate for this court to decide the issues in the suit now before the court of civil appeals.

Otherwise, the tribunal said, "the long established practice of the attorney general to refuse to approve bonds as long as litigation questioning their validity is pending would have come to an end."

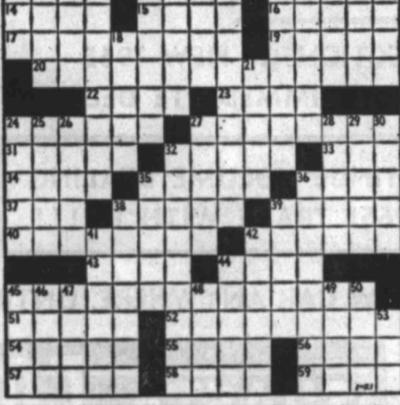

NOTES DISPLEASURE
 The court said it realizes that Houston and the authority are unhappy over delay in starting the reservoir. But it added: "The original jurisdiction of this court to issue writs of mandamus to the attorney general is not to be invoked or exercised to oust the jurisdiction of the trial courts and the courts of civil appeals to decide the issues in pending litigation."

Puzzle of Wednesday, January 20, Solved

Harris Pushes Vice Inquiry

HOUSTON (AP)—Nine women and three men have been questioned by the Harris County grand jury, which is investigating what police described as a "widespread call girl service."

Lt. J. D. Belcher said the 12 persons who testified Wednesday were among 24 persons picked up in pre-dawn raids over the city.

He said vice squad officers confiscated a quantity of narcotics and barbiturates, lewd photographs and 16 telephones. Belcher said the raids were made at the request of the grand jury.

One witness, Mrs. Edith Williams, 30, went before Dist. Judge Sam Davis and was cited for contempt because she did not answer jury questions. She spent four hours in jail and then returned to testify.

Belcher said the alleged ring appeared to be "entirely a local matter" and some of the women are "of the $100-a-night type."

Some of those taken into custody were released after questioning. Charges may be lodged against others, Belcher said.

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP)—Midwest Abrasive Co. of Owosso, Mich., announced Wednesday it will build a subsidiary plant here to serve 11 states in the Southwest.

The 60,000-square foot plant, to be known as Southwest Abrasive, will begin operation next fall with about 30 employees and is expected to expand to a work force of 200. It will manufacture grinding wheels, sandpaper, super finish and hones.

Measure Seeks To Keep Nazi Hunts

BONN, Germany (AP)—A bill to give the West German government another 10 years to track down Nazi murderers has been introduced in Parliament. The present statute of limitations bars new prosecutions in most of West Germany after May 8.

Johnson Footnote Added To Parade

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson was half an hour late for his own parade. But he stayed late, too, and offered an informal footnote to his solemn inaugural address.

Despite the delayed start, the sun hadn't set when the open convertible carrying M. W. Goding, governor of the Trust Territories of the Pacific, rolled past the bullet-proof presidential box, bringing up the rear of the inaugural parade.

And, as he had all afternoon, Johnson stood, gave a fluttering wave and applauded as the final installment of the inaugural parade rolled by, 2 1/2 hours after Johnson took the place of honor beneath a giant presidential seal.

CHEER, WAVE
 Then it was the crowd's turn. Police barriers were lowered, and well-wishers swarmed onto Pennsylvania Avenue in front of the White House, to cheer and wave.

Mrs. Johnson waved back and blew them a kiss.

Then the President turned from his handshaking farewells to political figures and government leaders who had packed the reviewing stand, and waved to the crowd in the street below.

He went back to his own box, shielded by bullet proof glass, and picked up a microphone.

"You are wonderful people," Johnson said, "and you have made this such a lovely day, and we will try so hard to be worthy of your trust and your friendship."

Police estimated that one million were on hand to watch the parade between the Capitol and the White House.

With Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, they saw units from all the 50 states, in step and out, bands and floats, and even a St. Bernard from Chicago with a hat on.

DOG BARKS
 The dog was led in front of the Chicago Fire Department Band. And President Johnson's Beagle, "Him," barked at the bigger dog as though he were ready to do battle.

Him had the seat of honor, the leather-upholstered presidential chair, for a little while. President Johnson lifted Him into the spot, and the President and Humphrey took turns patting the dog. Then Him was led away to a less exalted spot.

It all began 30 minutes behind schedule when Johnson boarded a black, bullet-proof limousine to ride in triumph to his reviewing stand at the White House.

Before he got there, Johnson had punctured the elaborate security arrangements, emerging from his car to greet four banner-bearers from his alma mater, Southwest Texas State College.

The President was coatless all through the chilly afternoon as he strolled around the presidential stands, shaking hands and greeting people. But he was back at his post when the University of Texas Longhorn Band arrived.

The President pointed at his home-state outfit as it approached, and applauded when the Texas contingent arrived.

Gov. John B. Connally, long-time Johnson associate, led the way, standing in his open convertible.

Johnson grabbed the microphone in his box. "Governor," he drawled, "you look mighty pretty."

Trial Nears End In Suit On Estes

PECOS (AP)—Lawyers of Billie Sol Estes and co-defendants, brought by four men who signed mortgages for him on non-existent fertilizer tanks.

Estes, the former promoter convicted of fraud and swindling, was in the county jail at El Paso while his lawyers sought a writ from Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black to free him.

The case being tried here before Dist. Judge J. H. Starley was brought by J. C. Barnes Sr., J. C. Barnes Jr., Russell Ramsland and W. F. Wynn, all of Midland.

The plaintiffs testified they signed mortgages on fertilizer tanks for Estes, who sold them at a discount to the Walter E. Heller Co. of Chicago. They sought to show that Estes and the Heller Co. knew the tanks did not exist.

In addition to $4 million in damages the plaintiffs asked relief from liability for $1.3 million in mortgages held by Heller.

The finance firm denies the accusations and has sought to collect on the mortgages.

A rebuttal witness for the Midland men, lawyer Richard Peulle of El Paso, testified Wednesday that he telephoned Hill Kreeger, a Heller official, on June 17, 1961, and asked that mortgage papers of George Leutich of Clint, Tex., be returned because he had not received any tanks.

Kreeger, recalled to the stand by the defense, denied he received the call. He said that Heller refused to accept the Leutich mortgage in May, 1961, and in June of that year did not hold a mortgage by Leutich.

Sydney Bloom, a Heller vice president, gave the same testimony.

Inauguration Blended Folksiness, Solemnity

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's inauguration day turned out to be a remarkable melange of solemnity, folksiness and fractured security.

The security was broken by the President himself. The inaugural parade had hardly begun when the ebullient President jumped out of his bullet-proof limousine. In long strides he proceeded to the band of his alma mater, Southwest Texas State College, and shook the hands of four girl banner-bearers.

The important part was, of course, the swearing in and the inaugural address. And the reaction to this speech, in which Johnson branded poverty and ignorance as national enemies, and said such evils as racial injustice and international hatreds must go, was generally favorable.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Colored Trick Saves Time, Work, Tempers

Dear Heloise:

I was once a Wave in Uncle Sam's Navy and, as an aircraft instrument technician, everything we worked on was color-coded with colored tape. I guess that's where I got my idea.

I am now the mother of two sets of twins. The first set has everything yellow and green, each his own color.

The second set has everything blue and pink. I either buy 'their' color or manage some way to mark it, usually with colored felt tip markers or a few quick stitches on the sewing machine.

With a black felt tip, I put each child's initials inside the waistband of their jeans. They have their own towels, wash cloths, tumblers, plates, cups, sheets, cases, blankets, bedspreads, tooth brushes—everything that comes in these colors.

This probably sounds a little funny to some, but to me it has been the best timesaver and fight-preventer imaginable.

I could never see sharing drinking glasses, socks or anything. When they have drinks between dishwashings, it's four glasses to wash instead of 20 or more.

If there's a towel or wash cloth on the floor, we KNOW who dropped it—no arguing... Grace S.

Dear Grace: This would work in homes where there is more than one child.

I'm a twin and we know what it means to get the blunt end of anything. Mother always put my zippers on the left side in my dresses, and the right side in my sister's. My sister never did like my torn dresses!... Heloise

Dear Heloise: I like chenille bedspreads (especially with dryers to fluff them up) because they take a lot of abuse.

After using my spreads for years, they seemed to have lost their body and gope limp.

One day after washing them, I had the idea of using spray starch on the back of the spread and then placing it in the dryer with the chenille side turned out, and the starched side turned in.

I was really pleased with the result when I took the spread out of the dryer... M.L.H.

East-west winners were Mrs. Malcolm Patterson and Mrs. Truman Jones, first; Mrs. Jack Irons and Mrs. Ward Hall, second; and Mrs. J. Gordon Bristow and Mrs. A. Swartz, third.

Magically, it will cling there, much to the surprise and wonder of the party guests... Dee

Speaker Ponders Panel Positions

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas lawmakers began a long weekend away from their desks today, but that didn't mean all legislative activity was at a standstill.

House Speaker Ben Barnes was considering committee assignments, the task he must finish before representatives can get down to work in earnest.

Some senators and House members worked on bills they intend to introduce and talked to the folks back home in their districts.

The Senate and House each quit for the week Wednesday after brief sessions devoted to routine resolutions. The House will reconvene at 11 a.m. Monday, the Senate at 10:30 a. m.

TEACHER PAY
Rep. George Hinson of Mineola plans to introduce at noon Monday one of the big items of legislation — a $45-a-month teacher pay raise bill.

The Texas State Teachers Association calls this measure the priority item of its 1965 legislative program.

The bill would raise the minimum salary for public school teachers from $4,902 to $4,407, at an estimated cost of $68 million in the coming two-year state fiscal period.

Hinson already has lots of support for the bill, which is on file in the Senate. Eighty representatives, a majority of the House have signed as co-sponsors.

Introduction of bills slowed to a trickle Wednesday in the House.

STATE BUILDINGS
Rep. Don Cavness of Austin offered a measure aimed at meeting an "urgent need for the orderly and adequate advance planning of (state) building projects."

It would require detailed analysis of proposed new state buildings by private architects and engineers before funds are requested for construction. The state building commission would have final say in selection of architects.

Proposed constitutional amendments to repeal the poll tax were introduced in both houses.

Senate finance subcommittee hearings will begin Monday on a $3.5 billion appropriations bill. Things should speed up in the legislature next week after Gov. John Connally outlines his program on Wednesday and Barnes announces committee assignments, probably Thursday.

Republicans Gather To Heal Wounds

CHICAGO (AP) — Republican leaders meet today for workshops and caucuses prior to a two-day conclave called to heal the wounds of November's Democratic landslide.

National Chairman Dean Burch was the first arrival Wednesday, and he promptly told newsmen that the Friday and Saturday meeting was a call for unification. Burch, who is stepping down as GOP national chairman, said Republican leaders can unify the party if they "quit jousting at windmills."

"STRONG PARTY"
He called for a "strong, unified and dynamic party."

"I expect and hope this meeting will mark the end of the many discussions of personalities that recently preoccupied us," he said, "and that we can now begin to get on with the primary business of the Republican party: Namely winning victories and defeating Democrats."

Burch and Barry Goldwater, the unsuccessful 1964 GOP presidential candidate, announced last week that Burch would step down and Ray Bliss of Ohio would become chairman. At the time Goldwater said Burch could not command "a clear working mandate" from the GOP national committeemen.

Bliss arrived at the hotel later in the day and went into seclusion.

BARRY IN TOWN
Goldwater was also in town, but unavailable for comment. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is scheduled to arrive tonight. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said he will skip the meeting.

Burch told newsmen that the party must achieve unity in order to continue the two-party system.

European Trade Talks Pressed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christian A. Herter, President Johnson's special aide for foreign trade matters, plans to confer with European leaders next week in an effort to speed international trade talks, particularly those affecting tariffs and some agricultural products.

Texas Library Wins Award

AUSTIN (AP)—Dr. Dorman Winfrey, state librarian, said today the Denison Public Library will get a $1,000 check April 25 as one of 10 winners in a national library awards contest.

This is the fourth consecutive year a Texas library has gained national honors in the book-of-the-month Dorothy Canfield Fisher library awards contest. Previous winners were the Val Verde County Library at Del Rio in 1962, Kilgore Memorial Library at Dumas in 1963 and Dunlap Memorial Library at Laferla in 1964.

The Denison library was founded in 1935 and occupied a new building in 1956. Librarian Jerry Hunt reported it circulated 129,695 books during the past fiscal year from holdings of 33,000 volumes.

Introduction of bills slowed to a trickle Wednesday in the House.

Proposed constitutional amendments to repeal the poll tax were introduced in both houses.

Senate finance subcommittee hearings will begin Monday on a $3.5 billion appropriations bill. Things should speed up in the legislature next week after Gov. John Connally outlines his program on Wednesday and Barnes announces committee assignments, probably Thursday.

Boiling Out Suggested Of College Study 'Fat'

AUSTIN (AP) — The Legislative Budget Board staff suggests some higher education funds could be released for faculty salaries, research and libraries by boiling out part of the "fat" in college and university course offerings.

Its report, released Wednesday, stressed that the recommendations were not those of the entire budget board. It is composed of nine legislators appointed to study state financial and budgetary matters.

"Duplicated courses offerings and proliferated programs tie up funds badly needed for improved salaries, research, library acquisitions, etc.," the report stated.

The staff also suggested creation of a science advisory council of industrialists and scientists. It would have the job of enhancing the quality of higher education, promoting development of economic resources and allocating additional state appropriations for research and development.

"The council would also seek additional funds from foundations and private sources, and perhaps operate a service office in Washington to facilitate application by individual Texas colleges and universities for federal grants," the report said.

Peace Plea Stands Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The little that President Johnson had to say about foreign affairs in his inaugural address emerged in philosophical and inspirational terms as a plea for peace and a protest against hatred and destruction in the world.

He devoted Wednesday's address almost entirely to domestic affairs.

Thus, those who looked to the address for guidelines to Johnson administration foreign policy must now turn back to the Jan. 4 State of the Union message and to various other Johnson speeches and news conference statements — or await future pronouncements.

But the significance of emphasis on domestic issues in the inaugural speech and to a lesser degree in the State of the Union message strengthens the impression which has been growing here for several weeks that Johnson's first concern is with home-front problems.

It is also true that Johnson is starting his new administration in a relatively peaceful though generally chaotic and still dangerous world.

The most serious dangers he confronts abroad are in most cases long-range. The one clear exception to this is the struggle in Viet Nam.

The other most pressing foreign-policy problem, as administration officials see it, is how to handle the spread of nuclear weapons. The Kremlin has been asked to explain how an underground test in central Russia last Friday could have blown radioactive fallout into the air so that small amounts were detectable as far away as the area of Japan.

Dallas Solon Hits At Tarrant

FORT WORTH (AP) — State Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas has launched a "small scale war on Tarrant County," the Fort Worth Star-Telegram said.

Parkhouse, according to the newspaper, struck at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport tussle, which Dallas Mayor Eric Jonsson said previously would be settled soon.

Jonsson was out of the state and unavailable for comment on the Parkhouse airport blast and two others:

—The veteran Dallas senator said he had "lost all interest" in current problems of Arlington State College.

—He introduced a bill to remove Dallas County from the joint board of park commissioners now erecting a sports stadium at Arlington, about midway between Dallas and Fort Worth but in Tarrant County.

NOT CLEAR

Just what inspired the Parkhouse statements and action was not immediately clear. The Star-Telegram said it all apparently was touched off by a remark made last week that Tarrant County might have to "go it alone" on solving the regional airport problem.

The current park bill offered the legislature by Parkhouse would amend a 1959 law which created the bi-county board. It would not allow adjacent counties to be a part of the board if park facilities lie wholly in one of the counties. This would knock Dallas out of the baseball park at Arlington.

Parkhouse said park commissioners are "building a little 11,000-seat ball park" in Arlington and have issued bonds only in Fort Worth.

"GO IT ALONE"

"If they want to go it alone, they can," he said, repeating a statement attributed last week to Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth.

He said the stadium is not big enough to accommodate football games, and Dallas has the Cotton Bowl anyhow.

Proclaiming a loss of interest in Arlington State College, Parkhouse declared:

"Mr. Carter's son-in-law and Mayor Friedman seem to be running everything."

CHAMBER HEAD

He referred to the late Amon G. Carter's son-in-law, J. Lee Johnson III, president of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, and Fort Worth Mayor Bayard Friedman.

The Arlington school currently is involved in a dispute with the parental Texas A&M system. A bill that would divorce the two schools is before the legislature.

Money Bill Hearing Near

AUSTIN (AP) — Month-long hearings on the state's $3.5 billion 1966-67 appropriations bill will begin Monday.

Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris, chairman of the Senate Finance subcommittee, set the first session for 2 p. m. Monday with the adjutant general's department. Other agencies' budgets will be considered later Monday, as well as next Wednesday and Thursday.

Youth Corps Minimum Pay Set Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has decided to pay $1.25-an-hour minimum wage to youngsters working in Neighborhood Youth Corps projects under President Johnson's antipoverty program.

Organized labor had pushed for the $1.25 rate.

Thirty-seven projects have been approved in 23 states. The total cost will be $24,395,000. More than 41,000 youths between 16 and 21 are involved.

College Gets Property, Cash

FORT WORTH (AP) — More than $1.5 million in cash and real estate was turned over to Jarvis Christian College Tuesday night in a move to boost the Negro school out of a financial crisis.

The major portion of the cash-real estate package was given by the United Christian Missionary Society of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ).

Paulist Choir End Probable

CHICAGO (AP) — The switch in lyrics of Roman Catholic hymns from Latin to English apparently is sounding the end of the famed Paulist Choir.

Worshippers now sing at intervals during the Mass — a function that had been performed by priests and trained vocalists.

Since its founding in 1904 at St. Mary's Church — the city's oldest Roman Catholic congregation — the 85-voice choir has sung in most major cities of the United States, Canada and Europe.

Audiences have included Pope Pius X, Pope Pius XII, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and the late President John F. Kennedy.

The main purpose of the choir, however, has been to sing the Latin hymns and responses during Mass at St. Mary's.

Flag Missing Off Battleship

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A thief, or maybe an overzealous souvenir seeker, has made off with the state flag from the topmast of the battleship Alabama, now enshrined here as a memorial to war dead.

Because of liturgical changes adopted by the Second Vatican Council, the last Mass to be sung in Latin at St. Mary's will be Feb. 28.

The choir, whose members range in age from 8 to 63, was founded by the Rev. William J. Finn shortly after the Paulist fathers took over St. Mary's.

Transplanted-Lung Dog Still Doing Fine

TOKYO (AP) — Doctors at Iwate Medical University in northern Japan reported today that a dog who received a transplanted set of lungs from another dog 18 months ago is still alive and well.

Economic Boost Prediction True

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department reported here that the nation's economy expanded by 6.5 per cent in 1964, almost making President Johnson's economic advisers perfect prophets.

Court Will Hear Water System Suit

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court agreed today to hear a suit by the City of Port Arthur against former directors of a Jefferson County water district involving purchase of a water system.

Both Jefferson County District Court and the Texas Court of Civil Appeals held that the suit was invalid because a two-year statute of limitations for such actions had run out.

Port Arthur brought the suit as successor to the rights of Jefferson County Water Control and Improvement District No. 11. Defendants were Mack Hannah Jr., Hamilton Paul, Emily Bridges, Isaac Prejean and Frank Boutte, identified as directors of the district; and Mr. and Mrs. Harrell G. Tillman and D. D. Tillman, who, the suit alleges, sold the district the water system for $44,580 in 1959.

The Port Arthur suit alleges the system and the easements in which the water lines were laid adjacent to Sunset Gardens and Hammah Estates in Jefferson County were fraudulently purchased from the Tillmans.

The city sought recovery of money allegedly paid the Tillmans and from American Casualty Co. of Reading, Pa., for the amount of the district officials' bonds.

Also alleged is that the water system purchased the system for an exorbitant price, failed to get a legal opinion from their attorney before the purchase and did not keep complete records.

Port Arthur said it did not discover the alleged discrepancies until March 20, 1962.

The district court said that by that time the statute of limitations had run out. It offered to let Port Arthur amend its case, but the city declined and the court dismissed the suit, case records show.

Launch Drive For Opera House

Three Dallas women, Mrs. James J. Ling, Miss Nita Carol Cervin and Mrs. M. H. Gertz, left to right, discuss plans to launch a drive to raise $5-10 million for construction of a modern opera house in Dallas with James Bond, president of the Dallas Civic Opera. The women, tired of hearing years of talk about a modern opera house, decided to get the project rolling. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Figures Support Rosy Economy

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson's view that business is good and should get better is bolstered by the latest government statistics and reports from private industry.

They show the economy is indeed growing at a brisk rate — and for the right reasons rather than for the wrong ones. The growth that could be called wrong is the feverish type — making up lost time in the auto industry after last fall's strike, and overordering steel just in case there might be a strike in the spring. The fever type leads to chills later on.

BUSINESS VIGOR

The growth that the latest figures show is called right because it is credited more to general vigor of business than to the special situations in the auto and steel industries. Growth to meet consumer demands builds up its own momentum.

Steel users, for example, admit they're ordering more than they think they'll need right away. But steel economists say that the purchasing agents aren't making much headway. Customers are using more steel right now than they thought (they would. Their stocks aren't building up much of a hedge against a possible strike. Thus the big push in steel production may not be the unhealthy glow that some feared.

Another example: Latest figures on durable goods orders show a rising trend. But most of the gain, government economists say, is due to other things than catching up after the auto strike or hedging against a possible steel strike. The orders seem to be for business as usual and in anticipation of better business ahead.

Personal income also is rising. Factory payrolls gave a big boost to the increase. But again, government economists say, the revival of auto production isn't the main factor. And wages and salaries outside factories gained even more than did the manufacturing payrolls.

Far North Heat Wave

While much of the United States shivers, Fairbanks, Alaska is "sweltering" at 38 degrees above zero. Carla Seaman, 18, of Kenai, Alaska, a coed at the University of Alaska decided to tan a little and enjoy the warmup from 50 degrees below zero 10 days ago. While the official Fairbanks temperature was reported at 32 degrees, some areas were reading the thermometer as high as 40 above. (AP WIREPHOTO)

A Colorful Issue Posed

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — When Georgia's new blue and white 1965 auto tags were issued at the first of the year, there were compliments on their color.

But now, says Murray Chappell, director of the state motor vehicle license unit, he's receiving about as many complaints as he did last year over the peach-colored 1964 tags.

"People want the tags to match the color of their cars," he said. "Have you noticed how many different colors the cars come in these days?"

Teeners Held In Flag Theft

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A state flag stolen Sunday from the battleship Atleahship Atlabing was flying again over the enshrined battleship today.

Detectives retrieved the flag Tuesday and arrested three teenagers. The boys, two 15 and the other 14, were turned over to juvenile authorities.

"We just wanted a souvenir," the youths were quoted as saying.

Jimmie Davis Busy At Discs

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Jimmie H. Davis sat in his home across the lake from Louisiana's towering state Capitol and said, "I can see the fire from here."

Davis, balladier, song writer, music publisher, and twice governor of Louisiana, was referring to the seasonal political blaze. He's watching like any knowledgeable fire buff, though he's been out of office since May.

He's busy now making records — "twice as fast as I ever have in my life. They want five albums now."

Davis has a lifetime contract with Decca Records. The song he wrote and made famous singing, "You Are My Sunshine," was published 25 years ago. "It's selling bigger every year," Davis says.

His latest project is favorite hymns, which he is publishing himself. He's also working on an arrangement of "Ten Good Songs" as a folio for choirs.

Indian Aid Said Essential

LANGSTON, Okla. (AP) — The Negro director of Oklahoma's Human Rights Commission said today that failure to provide immediate assistance for state Indians "could create a social disaster from which neither the Indian nor Oklahoma could recover."

In a report prepared for delivery to a commission meeting, William Rose said, "Oklahoma's most critical human rights problem" is not that of the Negro but of the Indian.

"The problems of Indians in Oklahoma are far graver than that of Negroes," he asserted. "Their problems are complicated in some instances by alcoholism, physical illness and general inability to adjust to the conditions in which they find themselves."

Ambassadors To Help Open Motel

Mel Stinson, president of the Big Spring Ambassadors Club, is calling on members to take part in two functions in the next few days. One is the formal opening of the Americana Motel, and the other is attendance at the Andrews Chamber of Commerce annual banquet Jan. 25.

The Americana Motel on 1520 and US 87, will hold its formal opening at 4 p.m. Saturday, and the "Red Coats" will take part in the ceremony.

"At some of the area meetings we have been convened with the Andrews membership club, known as the Andrews Ambassadors Club," Stinson said. "They try to out-do us — the original Ambassadors Club — and we now have an excellent opportunity to get even with them. If we could show up with at least 15 members in their red coats, instead of 'gold' coats like they wear, we will be off and running. So, plan now to make the Andrews banquet Jan. 25th."

Mrs. Donald Robbins Sets Special Pace For Cooking

By MARY COCHRAN

Behind the scenes in the outstanding and busy career of Donald Robbins is a charming and friendly young wife who can adjust to the almost unbelievable schedule of the head coach and athletic director of Big Spring High School.

When the Jaycees named Robbins outstanding man of 1964 on the weekend, they thoughtfully presented his wife, Jean Anne, with a bouquet of red carnations. A tribute to this busy homemaker was in order, for she operates a smooth-running home for her husband and two daughters, Rhonda, 6, and Laura, 4, where less-adaptable homemakers would be swamped in confusion.

Coaching is a 12-month operation and Mrs. Robbins finds it a rare evening when she can depend on her husband not to be involved in some special activity. He may dash in and need a quick meal in 10 minutes time or show up with an unannounced visitor for dinner. The best solution for this catch-as-catch-can schedule is the casserole meal or the reliable steak dinner. Mrs. Robbins said they are heavy protein eaters and find steak a fine answer to dieting bouts and the split-second schedule of their meal times.

LEARNED EARLY
She started cooking when she was a junior in high school in her native home of Bryan and has always enjoyed the home-making arts. At the time of her marriage in 1956 she was well-versed in the culinary skills and was not one of those proverbial brides that is a stranger to the kitchen. When her husband started his coaching career, she quickly learned to alter her life to the unique world of those men who staff the school athletic systems.

Previously she did her shopping every two weeks, storing many foods in her home freezer, and scheduling that shopping to coincide with the bargain specials. However, now that she has taken on the job of getting her college degree and takes courses at Howard County Junior College two days a week, she may find herself shopping at one of the neighborhood grocery stores at 10 o'clock at night and buying several weeks supplies at a time.

HEAVY MEAL
Breakfast is the one big meal that the family can share. It consists of biscuits, sausage, eggs, gravy and all the trimmings. As a diet routine is required the calorie count is slashed but the energy-giving foods are not neglected.

For company dinners, one of her pet recipes is lasagne which she shares in the listing below. Also, the lemon pie is a fine recipe for it is a quick and easy one that is time-saving. During football season the coaches' wives take turns cooking an enormous and filling meal to serve to the coaching staff after their Sunday afternoon workouts. Again casseroles prove a happy choice.

Mrs. Robbins finds time to

MRS. DONALD ROBBINS, RHONDA AND LAURA

play bridge, belong to the Junior Woman's Forum and serve as secretary of the Christopher Sunday School Class at the First Christian Church, the family's place of worship.

SHRIMP GUMBO

Salt and pepper to taste
Heat margarine. Add flour, stirring constantly, until golden brown. Add onion, green pepper, and celery. Cook until soft and lightly brown. Add water, okra, tomatoes, parsley, and bay leaf. Simmer gently until tomatoes cook apart. Add shrimp and continue to simmer for 15 to 20 minutes. Add seasoning to taste. Serve with boiled rice. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

LASAGNE CASSEROLE
MEAT SAUCE:
1 lb. ground beef
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tsp. whole basil
1/2 tps. salt
1 lb. can tomatoes (2 cups)
2 6 oz. cans tomato paste
Brown meat slowly; spoon off fat. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer uncovered 1/2 hour, stirring occasionally.

1/2 cup parmesan cheese
2 tbsps. parsley flakes
2 eggs, beaten
2 tps. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 lb. Mozzarella cheese, sliced thin
Mix first six ingredients. Place 1/2 of cooked noodles in a 13x9x2 inch baking dish; spread with 1/2 the Mozzarella cheese and half the meat sauce. Repeat layers. Bake in 375 degrees oven 30 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

FRENCH LEMON PIE
4 eggs, beaten

1/2 cup melted margarine
Pour into uncooked pie crust and bake at 325 degrees for one hour. Makes a large 9-inch pie.

COCOA CAKE
1 stick margarine
1/2 cup cocoa

2 cups sugar
2 cups flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup water
1/2 cup buttermilk
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. vanilla extract
2 eggs, beaten
Place margarine, cocoa, and shortening in heavy saucepan and bring to boil. Pour this mixture over sugar, flour, salt and mix well. Add water and mix well. Stir in buttermilk to which the soda has been added and add vanilla. Add eggs and blend well. Bake in greased and floured cake pan (13x9x2) 25 minutes at 400 degrees.

FROSTING
1/2 cup cocoa
1 stick margarine
7 tps. milk

1 bay leaf
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 cup water
In a very heavy kettle in the hot oil, cook and crumble the beef. Add celery, onions, carrot, green pepper, tomato paste and sauce, liquid drained from mushrooms, and seasonings.

Simmer for 1 1/2 hours, stirring occasionally; add 1/2 cup water after 30 minutes of cooking and remaining 1/2 cup water after 1 hour of cooking. Remove bay leaf and add drained mushrooms. Makes about 1 1/2 quarts; a thick sauce to serve over spaghetti.

Spaghetti Needs Perfect Texture
Two things are important in preparing a good spaghetti, according to French chef Pierre Franey, director of the Howard Johnson's kitchens. The sauce must be excellent, and the spaghetti should be so cooked that it is tender without being soft, and every strand separate, "au juste", as the French would say.

First have plenty of water and salt, six cups of water and a tablespoon of salt for an 8-ounce package of spaghetti; bring the water to a full boil before adding the spaghetti, time the cooking so it cooks only 10 to 12 minutes. Then drain immediately and add cold water to separate the strands. As soon as it is well-drained, promptly add the steaming-hot sauce.

Spanish Cooking
Spanish cooks, when frying with olive oil (the basis of virtually all Spanish cooking), place a piece of bread in the oil. This serves several functions: when the bread is golden, they know the oil is the right temperature for frying, and at the same time, the piece of bread in the oil helps prevent spattering and absorbs strong odors, such as that of garlic.

TEA PUNCH
Cranberry juice makes pretty party beverage

tea infused with boiling water, served flaming over brandy, rum, lump sugar, and the juice of a lemon.
But since the 1900s when iced tea probably first arrived, tea punches have been popular in chilled form. Here's a modern non-alcoholic combination that features tea plus cranberry juices. It's easily made and pleasant to serve at a party.

PINK TEA PUNCH
3 cups boiling water
12 tea bags or 4 tps. loose tea
2 to 2 1/2 cups sugar
2 cups fresh lemon juice

2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
2 qts. chilled club soda
Ice cubes
Whole cloves
Lemon slices
Pour boiling water over tea; steep for 5 minutes. Stir, strain and cool. Add sugar, lemon juice, cranberry juice cocktail; stir to dissolve sugar. Just before serving stir in club soda. Pour over ice cubes in punch bowl or pitcher. Insert cloves in lemon slices and float on punch. Makes 1 gallon or 32 one-half cup servings.

Cranberry Beverage Hits Spot

Sparkling cranberry drinks or treats can bring added color and enhancement to any festivity. They're easy to prepare and fit right into the spirit of a party.

Cranberry supplies are plentiful. You can buy fresh berries, all you can use, or you can buy them jelled or as tangy nectar. Agricultural Marketing Service says this year's crop is seven per cent larger than last year, and record-large.

Spiced cranberry punch, served either hot or cold, is an inviting treat. You may use either canned cranberry juice or cranberry sauce forced through a strainer.

CRANBERRY DRINKS

For a hot cranberry punch, 25 servings, use 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon allspice, 1/2 cup orange pekoe tea, 3 quarts boiling water, 2 cups sugar, 1 1/2 cups orange juice, 3/4 cup lemon juice, and 3 pints cranberry juice cocktail.

The spices and tea together loosely in a cheesecloth bag. Place bag in freshly boiled water, cover, and steep for five minutes. Remove bag, add sugar and fruit juices. Stir well, serve hot.

Or try Iced Ruby Punch: For 25 servings, use the following ingredients: 1 tablespoon tea or 2 teabags, 2 cups boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 1 1/2 cups lemon juice, 1 1/2 cups orange juice, 1 1/2 cups pineapple juice, 2 pints cranberry juice cocktail, and two 12-ounce bottles of ginger ale.

Steep tea in boiling water for five minutes. Strain, add sugar, cool, and add fruit juices. Chill thoroughly. When ready to serve, pour the mixture over block of ice in a punch bowl and add ginger ale.

CORN EN CASSEROLE

1 egg, beaten
1 cup cracker crumbs
1 cup grated American cheese
1/2 cup melted margarine

Salt, black and red pepper to taste

Chop onion, pepper, and pimiento. Combine with corn and other ingredients. Mix well and pour in greased casserole dish. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Serves eight.

Spaghetti Sauce Made To Freeze
Here's a spaghetti sauce for use right away and to freezer store.

CHOCK-FULL OF TOMATO SAUCE
3 tps. oil
1/2 lb. chopped chuck beef
2 ribs celery and 2 onions, chopped fine
1 carrot and 1 small green pepper, chopped fine
1 can (7 ozs.) tomato paste
2 cans (8 ozs. each) tomato sauce
1 can (6 ozs.) sliced mushrooms
1 bay leaf
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 cup water

In a very heavy kettle in the hot oil, cook and crumble the beef. Add celery, onions, carrot, green pepper, tomato paste and sauce, liquid drained from mushrooms, and seasonings.

Simmer for 1 1/2 hours, stirring occasionally; add 1/2 cup water after 30 minutes of cooking and remaining 1/2 cup water after 1 hour of cooking. Remove bay leaf and add drained mushrooms. Makes about 1 1/2 quarts; a thick sauce to serve over spaghetti.

Spaghetti Needs Perfect Texture
Two things are important in preparing a good spaghetti, according to French chef Pierre Franey, director of the Howard Johnson's kitchens. The sauce must be excellent, and the spaghetti should be so cooked that it is tender without being soft, and every strand separate, "au juste", as the French would say.

First have plenty of water and salt, six cups of water and a tablespoon of salt for an 8-ounce package of spaghetti; bring the water to a full boil before adding the spaghetti, time the cooking so it cooks only 10 to 12 minutes. Then drain immediately and add cold water to separate the strands. As soon as it is well-drained, promptly add the steaming-hot sauce.

Spanish Cooking
Spanish cooks, when frying with olive oil (the basis of virtually all Spanish cooking), place a piece of bread in the oil. This serves several functions: when the bread is golden, they know the oil is the right temperature for frying, and at the same time, the piece of bread in the oil helps prevent spattering and absorbs strong odors, such as that of garlic.

Serve King Sized Biscuits To Boys
School-age boys gobble up these biscuits whenever their mother bakes them!

MARY'S BIG BISCUITS
2 cups flour
4 tps. baking powder
3/4 tsp. salt
1/2 cup dry milk solids
1/2 cup vegetable shortening
3/4 cup (about) cold water

In a mixing bowl, stir together thoroughly the flour, baking powder, salt and milk solids. Cut in shortening until particles are fine. Gradually stir in enough water to make a soft dough. Roll out on prepared pastry cloth about 1/2-inch thick. Cut out with a doughnut cutter (with "hole" part removed) or another 2 1/2-inch cutter. Bake in a hot (450 degrees) oven for 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 10 to 12 biscuits.

Gentle Approach
When a recipe calls for "poaching" a food, cook it gently in hot liquid so it will hold its shape.

TRY DEMITASSE
Abet tiny servings with festive sweets

Giving MOD Coffee? Serve Tiny Demitasse

Who says demitasse is only an after-dinner coffee? There's no reason why dainty little cups of coffee, brewed richer than usual, should not be served any time you want a small coffee. One of the most enjoyable occasions for demitasse is a March of Dimes Coffee now being given.

Demitasse coffee is attractive refreshment in its own right and demands very little party fare. A tray of finger foods is sufficient, so long as they have flair. These Cinnamon Pinwheels, for instance, are ideal—neither too sweet nor too piquant, but festively pretty. And you'll find the spicy flavor a perfect complement to the rich, fragrant coffee.

CINNAMON PINWHEELS
Remove crusts from loaf of unsliced white bread. Cut lengthwise in thin slices. Spread each slice with cinnamon-cheese spread and roll up like jelly roll. Wrap in waxed paper or foil; chill. Cut roll crosswise in thin slices to serve.

CINNAMON-CHEESE SPREAD
Mash cream cheese; add a little heavy cream and whip until fluffy. Add 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon for each 3-ounce package of cheese; blend thoroughly.

Try Cold Water
Always use cold water to soak pans used for milk, egg, or cheese mixtures or flour batters.

TEA PUNCH
Cranberry juice makes pretty party beverage

Switch To Pink Punch For Serving Crowd

Victorian chefs used tea in two surprising and interesting ways—to flavor ice cream and to give piquancy to the sugar syrup of poached fruit.

A friend of ours, spurred on by this example, recently made an interesting experiment: she added instant tea to a pound-cake mix. We followed suit. The tea, plus grated lemon rind, makes a real cake-mix change that you might like to try.

Tea punches have long been in vogue. The earliest recipes for these punches included spirits and the beverage was served hot. An 1862 rule calls for green tea infused with boiling water, served flaming over brandy, rum, lump sugar, and the juice of a lemon.

But since the 1900s when iced tea probably first arrived, tea punches have been popular in chilled form. Here's a modern non-alcoholic combination that features tea plus cranberry juices. It's easily made and pleasant to serve at a party.

PINK TEA PUNCH
3 cups boiling water
12 tea bags or 4 tps. loose tea
2 to 2 1/2 cups sugar
2 cups fresh lemon juice

2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
2 qts. chilled club soda
Ice cubes
Whole cloves
Lemon slices
Pour boiling water over tea; steep for 5 minutes. Stir, strain and cool. Add sugar, lemon juice, cranberry juice cocktail; stir to dissolve sugar. Just before serving stir in club soda. Pour over ice cubes in punch bowl or pitcher. Insert cloves in lemon slices and float on punch. Makes 1 gallon or 32 one-half cup servings.

Spanish Cooking
Spanish cooks, when frying with olive oil (the basis of virtually all Spanish cooking), place a piece of bread in the oil. This serves several functions: when the bread is golden, they know the oil is the right temperature for frying, and at the same time, the piece of bread in the oil helps prevent spattering and absorbs strong odors, such as that of garlic.

Dear Abby

Woman Who Needs Help

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about my sister, who is an attractive, intelligent, middle-aged widow. About five years ago her husband committed suicide. It was a dreadful experience for her, but after five years we feel she should try to make a new life for herself. Several desirable men have shown an interest in her, but she has run away from them all. When I pinned her down she became very upset and told me that she had no right to "lead a man on," because she would have to tell him (if he didn't already know) the circumstances of her husband's death. She feels it is a reflection on HER that her husband took his own life. We've tried to tell her she is wrong, but we can't get through to her. Maybe you can.

DEAR N.Y.: Your sister is apparently suffering from guilt feelings (justified or otherwise) about what she failed to do that might have saved her husband. Psychiatrists say it's a typical reaction of one who has experienced a tragedy of this kind. Try to persuade your sister to seek professional help. Her future depends on it.

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me why there are more double beds sold in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, than in any other city its size? BRUCE G.

DEAR BRUCE: No, but it might account for the size of Milwaukee.

DEAR ABBY: About three months ago my sister (age 77) and her two daughters (53 and 50) came to visit me. We spent a lovely afternoon and they stayed for supper. After supper, my daughter (age 30) brought out a box of old family pictures. We passed them around and all had a good chuckle over the old-fashioned clothing and hair styles. Suddenly one of my nieces became enraged and shouted, "These are OUR pictures. You STOLE them from our house!" With that, my sister and her daughters stormed out of the house and I haven't seen or heard from them since.

Abby, I am 73 years old, have been married 49 years and have never had any trouble with my own family, or my husband's. Those pictures were mine and I can't imagine what came over that niece of mine, and why my sister didn't put her in her place. However, this is my only living sister, and a day doesn't pass that I don't feel sick over this terrible incident. I haven't called her and she hasn't called me. What do you suggest?

HEAVY-HEARTED: DEAR HEAVY-HEARTED: Call your sister. Granted, she could have saved the situation by putting her accusing daughter in her place, but don't hold this against your sister forever. The daughter sounds sick, and maybe your sister isn't too well either.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif.

Traffic Ticket Writing Down

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas police issued 837 fewer traffic citations in the first week after City Councilman Joe Moody accused them of writing tickets instead of combatting serious crimes. Official records showed Tuesday that the department ticketed 6,587 motorists in the week before Moody made his first public complaint Jan. 11. The total for the next seven days was 5,760. Deputy Police Chief Ray Lunday, in disclosing these figures, said a drop from one week to another was not necessarily significant because of weather and other factors. "We will look to the month to month figures to get a better picture," he said.

Freight Train Kills Leaping Dallasite

'Peyton' Show Mild But Rumbly On

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Ever since ABC's evening dramatic serial, "Peyton Place," turned into one of the season's hit shows there have been rumbly about its spicy, daring themes.

The trade paper Variety coined a new word "Sexial," for the serial and reported that in at least one community a movement is under way to persuade the local television station to discontinue it.

"Peyton Place" does have some situations rarely encountered in "The Donna Reed Show" or "The Munsters."

But the ripples caused by the show's plots and subplots could only have been made by persons unaware of what has been going on for years in the daytime serials.

A friend who keeps an eye on a half dozen of them finds "Peyton Place" pretty mild stuff. In one of the daily diversions, a girl graduate of reform school and prison has married a nice young man for money but continues to have an affair with the thief with whom she once lived and by whom she is having a child.

Eulogy Cites 'Magic Voice'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Laborers and kings came under the spell of her magic voice," went the eulogy for actress Jeanette MacDonald.

Her soaring soprano filled Forest Lawn's Church of the Resurrection this week at funeral services which drew a capacity crowd of 300 Hollywood celebrities inside and 2,500 fans to the lawn surrounding the edifice.

The recorded voice of the singing star, in the strains of "Ave Maria" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," was piped to the crowd outside. Her husband, actor Gene Raymond, selected the songs.

DIED IN HOUSTON
Miss MacDonald, a top star in movie musicals in the 1930s and 1940s, died in a Houston, Tex., hospital last Thursday of a cardio-vascular ailment. She was 57. In recent years she had appeared on the concert stage and on television.

Among the Hollywood notables who filed past her open bronze casket was singer Nelson Eddy, her most famous costar. His eyes filled with tears. Pallbearers included former Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gen. Lauris Norstad, former NATO commander.

FROM IKE
Floral pieces, including one from former President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, filled the church, overflowing to the entrance. Eisenhower and his wife, longtime friends, were unable to attend the service. He and former President Harry S. Truman were among honorary pallbearers.

The service was conducted by Dr. Gene Emmett Clark of the Institute of Religious Science in Beverly Hills. Actor Lloyd Nolan, who delivered the eulogy, said: "Why is hers the voice and face we'll always remember? It was her infinite capacity to love. Love for her devoted husband. Love for her family and friends.

"But even more it was her love for the entire world that brought rapture to Jeanette's voice — and rapture to those who sat entranced and silent as her message of love poured forth."

Kuwait Well Blaze Flares

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Valiant efforts by the ace Texan oil well firefighter, Paul (Red) Adair, have so far been unsuccessful against a giant well fire which broke out in Kuwait Jan. 3.

A traveler from Kuwait said the blaze is 280 feet high and "at night it illuminates a five-mile radius so intensely that cars can travel without lights."

The area around the well, jointly owned by British Petroleum and the Gulf Oil Co., has been flooded with 10 million gallons of water to protect nearby installations.

Opening lead: Ten of ♦ South, the declarer at four spades, was under the impression that he had received a favorable lead in today's hand. Due to a blind spot, however, he turned the opening to his own disadvantage.

West opened the ten of diamonds which was taken in the closed hand by the jack. South was thankful that the opponents had not led a club, and he resolved to dispose of as many losers as possible without delay.

The ace of spades was cashed first, felling West's queen, and then declarer proceeded to run the diamonds. On the ace and king of diamonds he discarded North's deuce and six of clubs. East ruffed in on the third round with the nine of spades and then cashed the king.

East underled his ace of clubs next and West put up the king to drop dummy's queen. East's apparently daring play actually entailed little risk, for declarer's anxiety to obtain discards had clearly indicated that clubs was his weak suit. West shifted to the queen of hearts, covered by the king and ace, and ruffed in the closed hand.

South was left with three losers — the deuce of diamonds and the jack and nine of clubs. There were only two trumps in dummy, however, and after declarer ruffed out his clubs he was obliged to concede a diamond at the end to West — for the setting trick.

South was perhaps unduly concerned about the club situation. Observe, for example, that, even if West should get off to a club lead originally, the defense is limited to two tricks in the suit, the ace and king. Declarer's only other loser is the king of spades and, after the trumps are drawn, there is still a spade left in dummy to ruff the deuce of diamonds.

Altho West's diamond opening did not give anything away, South could have taken 10 tricks with careful play. He may play a second high diamond if he chooses and discard the deuce of clubs. Then the ace of spades is cashed, and it is suggested that declarer continue to draw trump. East's best defense is to play king and another spade. South now plays a club to the queen. East is back in with the ace and returns the suit, since he cannot safely lead a heart. Declarer puts in the nine of clubs which forces out the king and establishes the jack as a winner.

Observe that, even if the nine of clubs should lose to the ten, there is still a trump left in dummy to cover declarer's third club and, if the diamonds are divided four-three, the rest of his hand becomes high.

Gimmicks Pay, Studio Discovers

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When the 1964 Academy Award nominations are announced Feb. 23, it is extremely unlikely that they will include any movies produced by American-International.

The brains behind American-International — known in the trade as A-I—are a former theater owner named James H. Nicholson and attorney Samuel Z. Arkoff. They are the men who brought you "Beach Party," "Muscle Beach Party" and "Bikini Beach," not to mention countless exhumations of Edgar Allan Poe starring Vincent Price, Boris Karloff and other chill-masters.

Their releases for 1965 are likewise not destined for the Oscar derby: "House at the End of the World," "Ski Party," "How to Stuff a Wild Bikini," "Sergeant Deadhead."

Nicholson, a well-groomed man with a quiet, assured manner, explained his philosophy: "A lot of the Academy-Award type of pictures are aimed at the older audience. We're not interested in the old folks; most of them stay home and watch television, anyway.

"We're aiming for the young crowd. I believe I read somewhere that half the world's population is under 25. That's a big audience. And they are the kind that like to get out and go to the movies."

The A-I formula is a model of simplicity: find a gimmick and fly with it. The Poe thrillers turned into a bonanza. But horror comedy was a dud and was quickly abandoned.

BIGGEST HIT
"Beach Party" proved to be A-I's biggest hit. Produced for $750,000, it has grossed $3.3 million and proliferated the swinging seaside epics.

"We started with Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello," Nicholson said, "and add some solid performers like Robert Cummings, Buster Keaton, Buddy Hackett, Dorothy Lamour or Paul Lynde. Then we find as many ways as we can to get girls into bikinis."

ANNETTE FUNICELLO

Nicholson said the films have been criticized by moralists — but only on grounds of the acres of skin exposed on the Santa Monica sands.

"Frankie and Annette never talk about sex in the pictures," he said. "In fact, they're always talking about getting married. What could be more moral than that?"

"We've got a great family audience for our pictures, and we don't want to jeopardize that. People in England have asked me why we didn't make European versions without the bikini tops. I wouldn't think of it."

"Our pictures do fine business in places like Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore and especially Australia," Nicholson remarked. "Business is getting better all the time in England, where the teenagers are getting more freedom. We're big in Italy but not in Germany and Scandinavia. I guess it's the older people who go to the movies in those countries."

Postal Theft Trio Charged

DALLAS (AP)—Authorities charged three men Wednesday with burglary of the Rowlett post office and accused another of looting a Dallas postal station.

Charged by federal authorities with taking 296 money orders plus $782 in stamps and cash Friday at Rowlett were Earl Kelley, 26, and Clifford Aday, 37, both of Dallas, and James Sandefur, 29, of San Angelo. Frank Skorepa, 33, was charged with the Dec. 20 postal burglary in Dallas, during which he and two other men allegedly carried off a safe, $80 in cash and $8 money orders.

Appalachia County May Be Poorest

INEZ, Ky. (AP)—"There just isn't much pride left. You'll find about 80 per cent of our people just looking for another hand-out."

"They don't know anything else. In some cases, there has been unemployment for three or four generations."

County Judge Willie Kirk, chief administrative officer of Martin County, reflected despair as he spoke. His county may be the poorest in Appalachia.

Martin County was visited by President and Mrs. Johnson last April during a tour of depressed areas of Appalachia. The Johnsons met men such as Tom Fletcher, whose income was under $400 a year.

But Martin wasn't among nine eastern Kentucky counties named recently as sites where $10.5 million will be spent in the federal government's war on poverty program.

"NOT INCLUDED"
"I don't know why, but we don't get a cent of that money," Kirk said. "I thought sure we'd be included in that program at Frankfort that if the antipovetry bill is expanded, we might get on the list," he added.

Most of money now available will be used to find employment for jobless persons. In Martin County, at least for the time being, such a program might be pointless.

There is no industry in the county. There is little hope for the present of getting any. And there is little profitable agriculture.

There is coal under the ground, but lack of transportation makes mining unprofitable. The only mine now operating in the county employs 30 men.

THIRD JOBLESS
About one-third of the county's population is unemployed. Nearly half of the residents live on government surplus commodities. The per capita annual income is about $400, perhaps less.

There is one doctor in the county, but he is about to retire. There is one lawyer, also near retirement age. There are no dentists, no hospitals, not even an out-patient clinic.

There are no plans for the interstate highway system to touch Martin County. There are no U.S. highways within its borders. The 47 miles of paved state roads in the 231 square miles of the county are classed as poor.

There isn't even an incorporated city or town in the county.
