PAY YOUR POLL TAX

There are about 7,000 men and women who face the loss of their privilege of voting in 1965 elections if they fail to take action before 5 p.m. Saturday.

These are the electors, otherwise qualified to vote in Texas elections, who have not as yet obtained their poll tax receipts or exemption certificates.

Deadline for the payment of poll tax expires at midnight Jan. 31. Residents of towns of 10,000 population or greater, who were born before Jan. 1, 1904 and who want to vote must be issued an exemption certificate.

Through Thursday, less than 5,000 of the estimated 12,000 potentially qualified electors in the county had paid their poll taxes or obtained their exemption certificates.

Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, county tax assessor, will keep her office open Saturday as a favor to belated poll tax and exemption patrons. Normally the office is closed on Saturday. Since the deadline falls on Sunday this year, Saturday is the final day that poll taxes can be paid or exemption certificates claimed.

Last year, at this same date, more than 8,000 poll tax receipts and exemption certificates had been issued.

Poll tax receipts are required if a voter is to ballot in any Texas election. Poll tax in Texas in Howard County is $1.75. Exemption certificates are issued free.

There are a few persons who are entitled to exemption certificates who are not 60 years of age or older. These are men and women who have become 21 years old since Jan. 1, 1964 or who will become 21 years old any time in 1965, and new residents in the state who are entitled to free voting privileges for one year — provided they have been in Texas a year and in the county for six months.

Mrs. LeFevre urges all persons who have not as yet obtained their poll tax receipts or their exemption certificates to come to the office today or Saturday. She warns that those who neglect to do so will deprive themselves of the right to vote.

Meantime, it is evident that even if a sizeable rush of applicants besiege the tax collector's office today and Saturday, 1965 will become the lowest qualified voter year of any in the past decade.

Civic leaders are urging all potential voters to qualify themselves to vote. They point out there will be an important election of city commissioners, an equally important election at which members of the Big Spring school board will be named, and the likely prospect that two and possibly three major bond issues will be laid before the people in the present year.

DEADLINE IS SATURDAY

Testimony Begins Today In Stanton Murder Trial

By SAM BLACKBURN

STANTON — State witnesses today told of finding the body of Mrs. W. S. McDonald, with a plastic bag pulled over her head and her chest punctured with stab wounds on the morning of June 12, 1964 in the bedroom adjoining a small grocery store operated.

Her grandson, Daniel Odell McDonald, 19, on trial for her murder, sat with his head slightly down and stared at the counsel table while five witnesses, including his father and an aunt, testified.

NOT GUILTY The defendant entered a plea of not guilty when Judge Ralph Caton convened court at 10:10 a.m. Nine state witnesses were sworn in, and the rules (requiring witnesses to remain outside of the courtroom except when on the stand) was invoked.

John Davis, a farmer who discovered Mrs. McDonald's body, was the first witness, being followed by Sidney Collins, assistant identification officer of the Big Spring Police Department. G. B. Therwanger, deputy sheriff, Mrs. Myrtle Thomas, San Angelo, an aunt of the defendant and daughter of the deceased, and Dan McDonald, son of the victim and father of the defendant.

Over stringent state objections, Davis described the young defendant later in the day. "He sorta acted like a dog having a running fit," he said. Earlier he had told how he had gone to the little store on the east end of US 80 in Stanton around 6 a.m. on June 12. It was his custom, he said, to visit the store early every day and chat with Mrs. McDonald. This time he found the store door open, and got no response when he called. He peeped into her quarters and saw her sprawled on the bed in her pajamas. He called again without getting response and rushed to the home of her son, Dan McDonald, about a block away, and they ran back to the store together.

OBJECTED The state objected when John Ferguson, who with George T.

Thomas, is a defense lawyer, asked about "his impression" of the defendant, but Davis said that it occurred to him that Daniel Odell McDonald did not seem as concerned as other relatives were about the tragedy.

Collins merely identified some aerial photographs of the neighborhood of the grocery store, and Therwanger, who has been a peace officer for about 12 years, testified that when he arrived at about 6:20 a.m., Mrs. McDonald's body was sprawled on a half bed and had four stab wounds in the left chest, bruises on the side of her head and face, and bruises on a wrist. He said he assisted Dan McDonald, her son, in a search for money she was thought to have had. They found some change but no bills. He also identified the plastic bag, which was introduced in evidence, and said he was unsuccessful in effort to find fingerprints. A two-tined meat fork, which the state contends was the murder weapon, was introduced after Mrs. Thomas, daughter of the deceased, told how she had visited her mother's quarters after arriving around 11 a.m. The place was all "topsy turvy," she said, and in looking for a box in which her mother normally kept some papers, she said she found the meat fork in a corner a few feet away. She said the fork appeared to be blood stained.

His mother usually kept $200 to $300 in the store, said Dan McDonald, and she was quite cautious about letting anyone in the store after closing time. He also identified the fork, which he said he gave to Jake Bruton, city policeman, who turned it over to Sheriff Dan Saunders.

When his mother closed the store at night, she always locked it securely. He testified that she wouldn't let anyone in unless she was certain of their identity, and on several occasions he himself had had trouble convincing his mother of his identity when wanting to get in after closing time.

The selection of the jury to try McDonald was completed at 10:15 p.m. Thursday in the first night session Judge Caton has ordered in the trial so far.

The 12th juror selected was Terrell Pinkston, who was the 17th man interrogated at the night session. He was also the last surviving member of a group of 20 talesmen Judge Caton had ordered. Of the original 20, three had to be excused and 17 were left when the court began.

The jury to try the young soldier, for the murder of his own grandmother, is made up of 11 men and one woman. The members are B. H. Hicks, Bob Cox, J. C. Mitchell, Harold Brantley, Mrs. W. K. Vanadore, Don Glaser, Vernon Holcomb, Louis Roten, Wesley Williams Jr., J. B. Shockley, James Biggs and Pinkston.

Selection of the jury began Monday afternoon with a special venire of 92 on hand from which to select the panel. This special venire was exhausted Wednesday, and Judge Caton ordered 30 talesmen brought into court to supplement the list. Of the 30 called, only 22 were available for duty. Biggs, the first of these to be questioned, was accepted as the 11th juror. The remaining 21 were excused for cause or were challenged. Through Thursday afternoon, the defense had used 41 of its 15 preemptory challenges and the state seven.

Court recessed at 1 p.m. and Sheriff Saunders began summoning the second batch of 20 talesmen ordered by the judge. Throughout the long wearisome grind of jury questioning, the 19-year-old defendant has watched proceedings with deep interest. He has occasionally consulted with his defense attorneys George Thomas and John Ferguson.

He is on trial for the June 12 murder of Mrs. Delzee McDonald, 82, who was found suffocated in her living quarters at the rear of a small store she operated. A plastic bag had been pulled over her head and fastened around her throat. In addition, she had been stabbed in the chest and raped.

McDonald, a native of Stanton, was in town on leave from Fort Carson, Colo., where he was in the U. S. Army. He was arrested on June 13. A quantity of cash taken from the slain woman's cash register was found, officers say, in McDonald's possession.

Appalachia Vote Near For Senate

Presidential Succession Plan Aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fast congressional action appears certain on a constitutional amendment urged by President Johnson to deal with the problems of presidential disability and vice-presidential vacancies.

A Senate Judiciary subcommittee had scheduled a hearing on it for today even before Johnson's special message was sent to the Capitol late Thursday. And the House Judiciary Committee has arranged for hearings starting Feb. 9.

DETAILS PLAN The proposed amendment was introduced in the Senate early this month by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., with 75 other senators as cosponsors. And in the House it is being sponsored by the chairman and top GOP member of the Judiciary Committee.

One part provides that if a vacancy occurs in the office of vice president it shall be filled by presidential appointment subject to the approval of a majority in both the Senate and the House.

The other part of the proposed amendment establishes procedures under which the vice president would take over as acting president in case the president is unable to discharge the duties of his office.

NO HOUSE ACTION The Senate approved the amendment by a 65-0 vote last Sept. 29, but no action was taken by the House before Congress adjourned.

Johnson told Congress it was astonishing that since the adoption of the Constitution in 1789 "we have neither perfected the provisions for orderly continuity in the executive direction of our system nor, as yet, paid the price our continuing inaction so clearly invites and so recklessly risks."

The President also called for another constitutional amendment to wipe out what he termed the ever present possibility that presidential electors "may substitute their own will for the will of the people."

HAS HAPPENED In presidential elections Americans cast their votes for electors who are free legally to vote for someone other than the candidate they were chosen to vote for. This has happened in some instances.

Johnson said "it is imperative that the electoral vote of a state be cast for those persons who receive the greatest number of votes for president and vice president — and no one else."

The outlook for action on this proposed constitutional change is clouded by controversy over proposed reforms of the whole electoral college system and by the precedence being given to dealing with vice-presidential vacancies and presidential inability.

McNamara In Hospital WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara entered the Army's Walter Reed Hospital today with an upper respiratory infection.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester announced that McNamara was ordered into the hospital after fighting a cold for two days and running a fever which reached 102 degrees Thursday night.

Sylvester said McNamara's condition is not serious but that Col. Frank G. Goss, Air Force surgeon who had been treating McNamara, decided he should enter the hospital to get rid of the infection.

Sylvester said the defense secretary's lungs and chest were X-rayed after he got to the hospital and the results were negative, meaning there was no infection in those areas.

Schools Get Lower Interest On Bonds

Two million dollars worth in Master Plan school building bonds were sold by the Big Spring Independent School District trustees Thursday night at an effective interest rate of 3.27101 per cent. Ten groups submitted bids on the 18-year bonds and dropped the interest rate 24 per cent below the 3.51 on the first $2 million sold Oct. 28, 1964.

The First National Bank of Dallas, Rauscher, Pierce & Co., and others submitted the low bid. The Republic National Bank of Dallas and others entered the second low of 3.27761 per cent, which was only 0.00659 per cent above the low.

The highest interest rate bid Thursday night was 3.4442 per cent, by Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith and others. This bid was still 0.07 per cent less than the low bid on October.

Under Texas law, the bonds will be eligible for purchase at the same rate by the State Board of Education. That board meets Feb. 6 and will either exercise its option, or sign a waiver of the option to allow last night's bidder to purchase.

Other bids, and the effective rates submitted, were by: First Southwest Co. and others 3.36; Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago and others 3.34215; Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York and others 3.38; Valley National Bank of Arizona and others 3.42; John Duveen & Co. and others 3.40; Underwood, Newhouse Co. and others 3.37; Goldman Sach & Co. and others 3.31.

Thursday night's installment brought the total amount of bonds sold on the school's building and remodeling program to $4 million.

Additions to the high school, remodeling, site preparation and equipment will take an estimated $3 1/2 million of this amount. An elementary school, to be built in the College Park area on land already owned by the school, will require some $474,000. The second phase of the five-year plan will relieve pressure on Washington Elementary school by taking the four sixth grades out of old South Ward, and the temporary removal of the special education school from Runnels, where work can begin on that campus.

Contract on the high school will be let in late March or early April, according to the architect's schedule. He is also working on preliminary plans for other phases of the five-year program to present a working schedule before the board.

Billie Sol Loses Plea DALLAS (AP) — Billie Sol Estes, whose financial complex crashed with his arrest three years ago, lost a bid today to have an indictment thrown out.

The effort to erase the indictment came during a pre-trial hearing on charges that Estes, 40, lied to the government about the extent of his debts.

The case was in U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah Hughes' court. Estes, handcuffed and guarded by two officers, was brought to Dallas from El Paso Thursday.

Prison Term To Promoter CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Paul Amos Sandblom, a smooth-talking insurance man, was sentenced to 15 years in federal prison today for fraud.

Sandblom, 40, reportedly took in some $31 million from several hundred investors throughout the Southwest.

U.S. Dist. Judge Reynaldo Garza of Brownsville sentenced Sandblom to three five-year terms, to run consecutively.

Bill Provides Federal Aid For Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate opens debate today on the $1.09-billion Appalachia aid bill and hopes to take a final vote on it Monday.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield had to abandon plans for action on the measure Thursday after the Senate had taken hours longer than expected to complete work on a water pollution control measure.

The two chief sponsors of the Appalachia bill, Sens. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., and John S. Cooper, R-Ky., planned to make their speeches on it today.

VOTE MONDAY They said action might come today on some amendments but that key votes would be Monday.

An alternative bill introduced Thursday by Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., chairman of the Public Works Committee, would authorize the President to set up regional commissions to work up development programs for other areas similar to that contained in the Appalachia bill.

Randolph, No. 2 Democrat on the Public Works Committee, said assurances would be given that the committee would go to work promptly on this bill. He said that he believed, with these pledges, amendments seeking to add aid for the Upper Great Lakes region, for the Ozarks and for some other regions would not be attached to the Appalachia bill.

FEDERAL AID The Appalachia legislation would provide federal funds to build highways and inaugurate a variety of other projects for areas of an 11-state region which has been economically depressed for many years.

All of West Virginia and parts of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, North and South Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Virginia would be covered by the aid program.

The water-pollution bill, first major administration-endorsed measure to clear the Senate this year, was passed Thursday by a 68-8 vote and sent to the House after six hours of debate.

Johnson Concerned, Early End Seen To Docker Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz says he expects the Maine-Texas dock strike to be settled in time for the 60,000 longshoremen to be back on the job by the first of next week.

He declines to reveal — "at this time" — the basis of his optimism about ending the 19-day-old tieup.

Wirtz, who made the statement at a news conference Thursday night, was asked about presidential intervention. He said that he could not speak for President Johnson, but added that he expected no compulsory arbitration move or federal dock seizure.

LBJ CONCERNED Some sources report Johnson is seeking to end the strike.

Wirtz said an appeal to the President by the maritime industry employers in the Port of New York "merits consideration."

Alexander P. Chopkin, chairman of the employer association here, said it has great confidence in the power of the President's prestige. He said Wirtz told him that Johnson is concerned. Chopkin added: "I have every reason to believe that he will take the appropriate steps."

Dance Aimed To Help Fund

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado City VFW Post has announced a benefit barbecue and dance for Feb. 12, with proceeds to be donated to the Barbie Vardy fund. The fund has been set up by the Colorado City Record to aid seven-month-old Barbie Vardy, born with a congenital defect, which will require about $10,000 in surgery expenses.

Plans were made for the benefit dance at the Tuesday night meeting of the VFW, according to Warren Goode, commander. He reported to the club that remodeling was proceeding on the post home and that 40 chairs and 10 tables have been purchased.

The VFW Auxiliary elected four new officers, including Mrs. Charles Griffin, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. M. D. Robertson, conductress; Mrs. Francis Turner, guard, and Mrs. Tom Robertson, trustee.

The auxiliary presented a gift to Mrs. Floyd Sparks, former secretary and treasurer, in appreciation for her services.

Forgery Suspect Held In Miami

John A. Harrington, 44, wanted here for forging a $50 check, is in jail in Miami, Fla., and available for Howard County authorities if they want him, Sheriff Aubrey Standard said today.

However, the matter of whether Harrington will be returned to face trial is not settled. Standard said that he would discuss it with the county commissioners court. Sending an officer to Miami for the prisoner would be an expensive proceeding, he pointed out.

U.S. Delegation To Churchill Rites At Bier

LONDON (AP) — The U. S. delegation to Sir Winston Churchill's funeral paid him homage today at Westminster Hall.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk led the Americans. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was expected to visit the bier late in the afternoon.

The American delegation stood in silence for five minutes before the flag-draped coffin.

In addition to Rusk, the American mourners included: W. Averell Harriman, former ambassador in London and Moscow and a friend of Churchill's; Chief Justice Earl Warren who some reporters mistook for Eisenhower, and U.S. Ambassador David Bruce.

An official at the U.S. Embassy said Eisenhower did not go to Westminster Hall with the American delegation because he is a private guest of the Churchill family.

At the other end of London, the Duke of Norfolk directed a final rehearsal at St. Paul's Cathedral for Sir Winston's funeral Saturday.

The Duke, Britain's Earl Marshal in charge of arrangements for the state funeral, said: "I think it has gone well."

The line of mourners moved silently through Westminster Hall. Many paused for a few moments beside the catafalque.

Anderson's Pact Increased 1 Year

Big Spring Independent School trustees extended Supt. Sam Anderson's contract for one year with an increment of $1,000. His salary this year is $17,000, and his current contract runs two more years.

Under the school board's policy of not extending contracts of other school administrative personnel beyond that of the superintendent, Anderson's contract was extended before the consideration, in February, of several other contracts.

In other action the board named Jimmy Felts to serve on a committee made up of representatives of organizations to consider the establishment of a Child Welfare Department for Howard County, and heard a report from C. L. Ainsworth on the progress of programs added at mid-semester.

The committee of representatives to consider the Child Welfare Department will meet at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building Feb. 18 at 5:15 p.m. Charles Weeg, chairman of the public health and safety committee of the chamber of commerce, will head up the first meeting at which the purposes and functions of the proposed department will be discussed.

Ainsworth told the board that the new vocational classes in appliance repair; that covering the office practice class, and the pre-vocational training in the junior high schools, were already functioning and that bid proposals on equipment had been submitted to the state. He said some "bugs" would have to be worked out in a part of the program, but that generally operations were going as planned at this early stage.

Dorchester Attends Meet

COLLEGE STATION — E. D. (Dave) Dorchester, 1740 Purdue, is attending the 13th annual Executive Development Course at Texas A&M University. The course, continuing through Feb. 12, has attracted 45 top management men from three states.

The executives are scheduled to hear 28 senior executives of national and state firms with discussion periods following the major addresses. A&M faculty present other portions of the program and the participants also work together in small groups.

Sinclair Oil President O. P. Thomas spoke on "The Quiet Revolution in America's Economy" and Donald C. Power of General Telephone & Electronics Corp. discussed "Building A Dynamic Organization" — the opening week. Power is chairman of the board and chief executive officer of GT&E.

"The primary purpose of the EDC is to help the executive become more effective in his present job and to develop his abilities for advancement into positions of greater responsibility," Dr. John E. Pearson of the A&M School of Business Administration, said.

Dorchester is division transmission superintendent for Texas Electric Service Company in Big Spring.

Nursing Workshop Set Next Week

A three-day workshop on psychiatric nursing will be attended by Mrs. Otilie Jolley, director of nursing at Big Spring State Hospital, in New Orleans next week.

The workshop is a project sponsored by the Southern Regional Education Board for state hospital nursing directors in 13 states.

The meeting this year will be the first such project, planned under sponsorship of the SRED to provide evaluation of techniques used in state hospitals. The director of the mental health and psychiatric nursing project of the SRED, Miss Annie Laurie Crawford, will direct the workshop. She will also visit the State Hospital here in March.

Six representatives are being sent to the workshop from Texas state hospitals.

Police assisted Texas Highway Department crews in carrying out the stripping of the street through the city Thursday.

Enforcement of overtime parking in the area in front of the U. S. Post Office is also being stepped up. Police Chief Jay Banks said Thursday. The area is a 15-minute parking zone.

Late Payment Penalties Due

Penalties for late payment of property taxes will be invoked starting after midnight Sunday, Zerah LeFevre, county tax assessor-collector, warned Friday.

Mrs. LeFevre said that collections have been good so far this year, but that she does not believe the total payments will quite equal recent years. For the past several years, the annual tax payments have averaged 98 per cent or better of the amount due. Mrs. LeFevre feels that this may drop to 97 per cent this year.

Assessed valuation on the 19,900 items on the tax roll for 1964 is $60,334,108. County taxes are being collected at $1 per $100 assessed valuation.

Tax payments can be made in January without discount or without penalty. Taxpayers who may have their checks for taxes in the mail with the postmark Jan. 31 or earlier, will not be penalized.

Tax payments on property paid after midnight Sunday will bear penalties which increase each month.

as many as 700. Under the academy's honor code any cadet who knew about the cheating and did not report it is subject to dismissal.

Zuckert announced in Washington Thursday he had appointed Gen. Thomas D. White, former Air Force chief of staff, to head the committee and "review fundamental programs of the Air Force Academy."

Serving with him are Dean Hardy Dillard, law professor at the University of Virginia; Dr. Robert L. Stearns, former president of the University of Colorado; Charles B. Thornton, president of Litton Industries, and Lt. Gen. Joseph J. Nazzaro, vice commander in chief of the Strategic Air Command.

Zuckert said the committee will seek the basic causes for the honor code violations.

"Although the vast majority of the cadets were not involved," Zuckert said in a statement, "the fact that breaches did occur makes it important for us to conduct a review of the problem."

Academy sources said resignations may total 300 before the investigation ends, probably around Feb. 10. The student enrollment was 2,567 on Jan. 15, just before the first announcement of the investigation. Zuckert said last week more than 100 cadets, including 30 varsity football players, were implicated.

The investigation has shown that a cadet stole a key to a locker containing examination questions and then enlisted the help of 10 or 12 other cadets to sell them. Academy officers said most of those quitting have resigned for failure to report their knowledge of the affair.

Speedy Lake Trial Sought

HOUSTON (AP)—The city of Houston and the Trinity River Authority have asked a quick trial of a court suit involving the Lake Livingston project.

Officials said Thursday that delay in the project caused by the litigation is costing the city more than $800,000 a month.

The suit challenges the validity of a city-water authority contract to issue bonds to finance the lake. It is set for April in the First Court of Civil Appeals.

Plaintiffs are Wallace Franks and William Hamlin. State Rep. Charles Whitfield, one of their lawyers, has not ruled out the possibility of delay through a legislative continuance.

Franks and Hamlin have until Feb. 3 to file a brief in the case. Houston then has 25 days to answer, but in its motion the city pledged to file its answer in a week so the court may hear the case "as soon as possible."

Opening lead: King of ♣.
In most bidding situations, the direct approach is favored. As soon as the partnership has determined its best contract, a player should bid the limit of his hand.

An exception may sometimes be noted, however, in competitive situations where the opposition has put up a fierce struggle during the auction. In today's hand taken from a recent team-of-four contest, one North feared that, if he bid too strongly, his opponent might be induced to seek a profitable sacrifice. He, therefore, adopted a "soft sell" approach in an effort to buy the hand.

The bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram. West opened with one club and North, who was well heeled in the other suits, made a take-out double. East chose the only opportunity he would ever have to show his six card spade suit. A bid in this situation does not denote any special high card strength.

South held a self-sufficient suit and, facing a partner who had announced a good hand, he was willing to undertake a game contract. He, therefore, bid four hearts. West persisted to five clubs.

North was convinced that his side could make a slam for, if South held the top cards in hearts, he should be able to restrict his losses to one diamond trick. Psychological considerations deterred North from bidding six hearts directly, however. If he sounded too confident, West, who obviously had a long club suit, might be reluctant to defend. Furthermore, there was no guarantee that a bid of seven clubs could be punished severely.

North accordingly bid his time by bidding five hearts. West realized that his defensive prospects were virtually nonexistent, and he carried on to six clubs. North now made a very disciplined forcing pass. Inasmuch as he and his partner had bid very strongly, South is obliged to take some action over six clubs. The pass by North at this point is actually a strength showing call, for it implies a willingness to carry on. If he thought the partnership could not make a slam, he would have doubled six clubs himself.

South read his partner's message perfectly and he bid six hearts. Perhaps West should have taken out some insurance by bidding seven clubs, but he felt his opponents might be guessing and he decided to take his chances against the slam.

There was little to the play and South routinely chalked up 12 tricks for a score of 1430 on the deal [750 bonus for the slam and 500 for the game]. At the other table, the bidding proceeded in the same manner until West reached five clubs. At this point, North went directly to six hearts. West now sacrificed at seven clubs and succeeded in taking nine tricks for a deficit of 700 points—which represented a substantial saving against the vulnerable slam.

DEAR ABBY

Rightfully Indignant

DEAR ABBY: My husband works nights and sleeps days. At least he tries to, but with so many salesmen knocking on our door my husband hasn't been able to get much sleep. Well, about two months ago I put a sign on our front door which said, "DO NOT KNOCK FOR ANY REASON - DAY SLEEPER."

All kinds of salesmen came around and beat on our door anyway. This makes our dog bark, and then my husband wakes up. Last week I put a BIGGER sign on the front door which said, "HE WHO KNOCKS ON THIS DOOR GETS WATER IN HIS FACE." I want to know, Abby, if I have the right to throw water in the face of a person who knocks and wakes up my husband.

HIS WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: Anyone who would knock despite the warning you posted, deserves to get water in his face. But you better check with a lawyer about your "right" to soak a salesman, though duly warned.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been happily married (until now) for eight years. She's a wonderful wife and mother and I love her very much. We've never had a misunderstanding we couldn't iron out in a few minutes.

For the past week my wife has been acting cool and distant. I asked if I had said something to hurt her feelings. She said no. I suggested calling a doctor, thinking maybe she wasn't feeling well. She said she felt fine. Finally I got it out of her. It seems she went shopping last week and ran into an old chum she hadn't seen since high school. They got to talking about old times and whom they'd married, etc. Well, this chum told my wife that I had had an affair with a friend of hers, but she failed to mention that it happened ten years ago. (She also failed to mention that I had had an affair with HER, too.) I wasn't married at the time and wasn't even going with my wife then. Do you think my wife is justified in acting this way just because I didn't tell her about my social life before I was married? I never asked her to tell me about hers.

IN THE DOG HOUSE

DEAR IN: Your wife is being extremely childish. What a pity, they've done away with ducking-sticks, the 17th century method of punishing witches, gossips, and female trouble-makers. It would have been an ideal way to teach your wife's chum a lesson.

DEAR ABBY: My niece is planning a wedding in the near future. She wants to be married in white with all the trimmings. Now it is no secret that she has already had her honeymoon. Last summer she and her fiance spent their vacation together. This is a small town, Abby, and I'm afraid if she insists on going through with a wedding like that, our whole family will get the horse laugh.

AFRAID

Kept Living By 'Miracle'

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Last Dec. 30, Robert B. Fulmer, 38 and ailing, put a .25 automatic to his forehead and pulled the trigger.

Today the gaunt ex-sailor is in General Hospital with a large bandage on his brow. "The bullet stunned me," Fulmer recalls, "but I never really lost consciousness and there has been no pain."

"I did it while I was sitting on the bed in my trailer. Blood streamed down my face and onto my chest, but I knew I had failed."

"I reloaded the gun but then I thought, it is clear that powers outside this world have interfered with this act."

Fulmer stayed in his trailer three days.

"I felt all right, except that the roof of my mouth was numb. It still is," he says.

He did not seek help. "I did not want to see anybody. I wanted to think."

On Jan. 2 a friend stopped by the trailer, took one look at Fulmer's homemade bandage and called an ambulance.

At the hospital, physicians found the bullet had missed the brain, slanted downward and lodged behind the upper right jaw.

"Had he intended it that way" one said, "he could not have done it in a million tries."

Why did he do it? Fulmer, a victim of multiple sclerosis, says: "I was alone and the strength of my arms was failing. I could not care for myself. When things get like that, you have to take some action."

Viets Release Buddhists, Execute Youthful Terrorist

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh's new Vietnamese government released today all Buddhists arrested during the past week of demonstrations and riots except those suspected of being Viet Cong agents.

Then, as a warning against further Communist terrorism in the capital, a firing squad executed a 20-year-old Vietnamese in Saigon's main public market an hour before sunrise. He had been caught Tuesday night carrying a grenade and a 15-pound bomb.

The youth, Le van Khuyen, shivering and silent, was blindfolded, then backed up against a sandbag parapet in front of the National Railroad Building. After the volley of rifle fire and a pistol coup de grace, the body was loaded into a coffin and whisked off in a truck.

GUARD ROUTE
A battalion of paratroopers guarded the route from Chi Hoa Prison to the market place. Newsmen and photographers recorded the execution and a few hundred people gathered but showed little interest.

A military tribunal convicted Khuyen Thursday of terrorism. He was a student of the Catholic Hung Dao school, but police said he told them he had no religion.

Leaflets were scattered through Saigon streets today demanding the return of Tran Van Huong as premier and urging support of U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor.

PROTEST COUP

The leaflets, titled "South Viet Nam to the South Vietnamese," objected to Huong's overthrow Wednesday in a military coup staged by Khanh and his generals. Huong is a South Vietnamese, while most of the pressure against him was from North Vietnamese Buddhist monks and political factions. Taylor came under fire for his support of Huong.

Acting Premier Nguyen Xuan Oanh, put in office Thursday by Khanh, issued the order releasing persons arrested in disorders since Jan. 20.

During the morning in Saigon, authorities freed 85 Buddhist nuns, 79 monks, 132 students and 153 other persons.

U. S. Supports Envoy Taylor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is ready to support the new government of South Viet Nam but not at the price of removing Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor.

Both the White House and the State Department have emphasized President Johnson's continued confidence in his envoy.

Backing of the new civilian-based Saigon government fashioned by South Viet Nam's military leaders is expected to continue as long as it combats Communist subversion and aggression.

NO CLEAN SWEEP

High State Department officials say they do not consider the new government headed by Premier Nguyen Xuan Oanh a clean sweep of the preceding government.

It is noted that the change made the political situation in Saigon more uncertain and has delayed decisions on the battle against the Viet Cong guerrillas.

New Officers Of Holy Name Society

Holy Name Society Reorganized At Webb

A number of Catholic men at Webb AFB met recently to reorganize the base Holy Name Society, elect officers and to begin plans for the year's work. Col. Gregory Perron, 68 Ent. Drive, Webb Village, said the organization is now conducting a membership drive and hopes to enlist the support of all Catholic men on base. He is the society's new president.

Other officers elected at the first meeting are M. Sgt. Chester D. Urban, 179A Fairchild Drive, vice president, and W.O. George R. King, 41 Chanute Drive, secretary-treasurer.

"We will need the cooperation and active participation of all Catholic men at Webb if we are to have a truly successful year," Col. Perron said. "And we especially hope to see the many young Catholic men join us," he added.

Col. Perron explained that the Holy Name Society is a Catholic men's group which promotes the spiritual welfare of its members by encouraging and assisting them in the practices of their faith. The society also conducts a number of social events throughout the year.

Members will receive Holy Communion in a body on the second Sunday of each month at the base chapel. Breakfasts are also being planned to follow the 9 a.m. mass on the third Sunday of each month.

The group's next meeting, followed by a smoker, is planned for Feb. 24 at the base recreation pavilion. Col. Perron urged all those wishing to join the society to attend the meeting.

"Present members will receive Holy Communion in a body at the 9 a.m. mass, Feb. 14, in the base chapel. We welcome all Catholic men stationed at Webb to join us then," Col. Perron said.

Dr. Shockley proposes 12 starting points for an impact

Christian Training Overhaul Urged By Theology Professor

A thorough overhauling of Christian training is urged by a prominent professor of theology. Decreases in church school enrollment and attendance are symptomatic of "institutional irrelevancy," declares Dr. Grant S. Shockley of Garrett Theological Seminary.

The cure, Dr. Shockley writes in a recent issue of "Together," is to "deal realistically, knowledgeably and helpfully with the problem of living in an age of electronics, automation, and space."

Not only must the churches re-examine their purpose and mission, he says, but they must bring about a new, vital attitude in families. Dr. Shockley stresses the need for laymen to take greater interest in Christian education as a key to remedying today's weakness of the churches. He deplores the fact that "many parents have given up any significant responsibility to complement the church's ministry, and far too many spend no time themselves deepening biblical and religious knowledge" and that "they too often are pursuing a social life unrelated to Christian parental responsibility."

He would redraw parish boundaries "to encircle areas needing redemption rather than around strictly ethnic, economic or educational segments of the population." Education for family living is a "must," Dr. Shockley declares. Asserting "the home must recognize its co-ministry with and through the church," he calls for education about "the meaning of sex and marriage," with realistic approach at every age level for commitment and parenthood.

Pointing out that "the true church exists wherever the spirit of the Lord is present, where two or three are gathered in Christ's name," he advocated ecumenical effort, with more sympathetic leadership in interdenominational activities.

Church-school training should be correlated with public school education, Dr. Shockley emphasizes. He proposes dialogue between religious educators and "specialists in all fields." And he advocates frank discussions by junior and senior high pupils on the Bible, the creeds, and other religious documents.

He also cites the need for responsible action in keeping with this nation's religious pluralism, and preparations to meet the "challenge of resurgent and mission-minded Hinduism, Buddhism and Islam."

REACHES OUT TO EVERYONE

"Rejection or Acceptance," the subject of Sunday's International Sunday School Lesson, was a common problem faced by Jesus and His disciples while He was preaching and teaching.

He preached we unto the cities which rejected Him, and those cities are no longer more than mere names to Bible scholars today.

The lesson text is found in Matthew 11:20-30, and Jesus' admonition was: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke . . . learn of me; . . . and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light."

In spite of the fact that the kindly invitation extended by Jesus stands today, the perennial problem of the rejection or acceptance of the Lord's claim to messianic status, continues. Even so the Lord never grows weary of reaching out to those who, in man's eyes, are unreachable.

Jesus' "woes" were uttered because of man's refusal to be contrite in heart.

Methodism must return with greater purpose and strength to the inner city," Dr. Shockley states. "It needs to strengthen its ministry to the vast majority populations there. And we need more outpost church schools in suburban, exurban, and rural areas." He favors "creative educational evangelism" to close the "gap between the church-school population and its corresponding unchurched population."

Methodism must return with greater purpose and strength to the inner city," Dr. Shockley states. "It needs to strengthen its ministry to the vast majority populations there. And we need more outpost church schools in suburban, exurban, and rural areas." He favors "creative educational evangelism" to close the "gap between the church-school population and its corresponding unchurched population."

Crestview Church To Hear Speaker

The Rev. Boyd Robertson, who has just returned from Argentina where he and his wife have served for several years, will be the speaker for a revival meeting at Crestview Baptist Church Jan. 31-Feb. 7.

"Rev. Robertson wants to serve in his homeland while waiting for re-assignment to other work," the Rev. R. B. Murray, pastor, said Thursday. Music for the revival will be directed by Del Hartin.

Services Monday through Saturday will be held at 6 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday services will be at 9:45 a.m. and 6 p.m. Rev. Murray said.

"All residents are invited to hear this speaker," the pastor continued.

What Is a Seventh-day Adventist?

● He believes in a free conscience
The Seventh-day Adventist believes that freedom of speech, religion, press, and assembly not only are constitutionally guaranteed rights but more—they are rights given by God Himself, who created us with the power of choice and intended that we should use it in matters of conscience.

● He believes in voluntary worship . . .
To the Adventist, state or church-enforced observance of a day of rest or method of worship is repulsive. He believes the church should be free to persuade men but never to force men by resorting to civil powers to cause them to observe any specified form or day of worship.

● He believes in citizen responsibility . . .
As a prospective citizen of Heaven the Adventist cannot take human life. But as a citizen of his country he can help to save life by service in the medical branch of the armed forces. He even prepares for this service at his own expense before military induction.

If you would like to know more about Seventh-day Adventists and their relation to the state, write for a free copy of LIBERTY magazine. No obligation, of course.

Laymen Clamor For A Voice

Churches on both local and denominational levels are being stirred by laymen clamoring for a voice in the current theological renewal.

"Not since the Reformation has it been more exciting to be a Protestant layman," Dr. Thomas C. Oden writes in a recent issue of "Together." "God is calling to all churchmen to share in the renewal" of the contemporary church, Dr. Oden adds.

So rapidly and radically has Christian thinking been stirred, he explains, that there is a "theological gap" between the avant garde in seminaries and the ministers who completed their theological education a generation ago.

"Laymen everywhere are helping to close that gap," Dr. Oden reports, "demanding that they be allowed to share in the theological renewal."

Dr. Oden, professor of ethics and historic theology in the Graduate Seminary of Phillips University, Enid, Okla., lists seven major currents in theology of special relevance to laymen.

These are: the ministry of the laity; ecumenical theology; recovery of Reformation theology; biblical theology; Paul Tillich's theology of culture; Rudolf Bultmann's existential theology, and Dietrich Bonhoeffer's worldly Christianity.

Policy Change

MONTREAL, Canada (AP)—At New York's World's Fair, the Roman Catholic Church set up an exhibit apart from that of Protestant and Orthodox churches. But at the 1967 World Exhibition in Montreal, things will be different.

All three branches of Christianity there have agreed to build and share a common pavilion.

HERE'S HOW

More Than One Way To Eat Girl Scout Cookies!

There is more than one way to eat a cookie. Ask any of the hundreds of Girl Scouts of the West Texas Girl Scout Council who will launch the 14th annual cookie sale today.

This year, approximately 100 troops will participate in this sale in the council area, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts will be selling, and each troop that sells its goal will be presented with a certificate. In accordance with the national standards, Brownies will not be selling this year.

The funds derived from the cookie sale will be used for maintenance of Camp Boothe Oaks at Sweetwater. Plans have been completed for the construction of two unit shelters, a proposed aquatic unit and a new camp movie. Some of the funds go into the individual troop treasuries.

Area cookie sale chairmen and their districts are Mrs. Jack Lipscomb, No. 1; Mrs. T. P. Macklin, Scenic; Mrs. Bobby Campbell, Living Circle; Mrs. E. J. Jones, Webb; Mrs. George Herzog, Stanton; Mrs. Walter Evans, Lamesa.

The cookies will sell for 50 cents per box with four varieties available. The types include chocolate mint, butter shorties, sandwich cream and peanut-butter oatmeal.

The Girl Scouts prove that there is more than one way to eat a cookie by sending along some suggestions for their use.

The butter flavored shorties and vanilla or chocolate cookies can be crushed and mixed with shortening to make wholesome and delicious pastry for pies such as custard, lemon, butter-cream or chocolate cream.

These Girl Scout cookies may, also, be used to line a mold to be filled with your favorite gelatin desserts. The cookies are very good if topped with a marshmallow and a dot of but-

India's Struggle

India, the world's most populous non-Communist nation, observed the 15th anniversary of its independence this week.

After 15 years of independence — and 15 years of grinding poverty — India's socialist planning is beginning to change direction. The fourth five-year plan which goes into effect in April 1966 calls for a shift from Jawaharlal Nehru's dream of an industrial society toward fuller agricultural development.

Even so, it will be a full seven years before India is able to feed herself. The population is increasing rapidly and food production is not keeping up with it. At the same time, industry is not expanding fast enough to absorb the growing labor force. And since 1962, when the Communist Chinese attacked in the north, the defense budget has climbed to $1.8 billion, not much by big-power standards, but a heavy drain on already thin resources.

The United States had extended more than $3.8 billion in loans and credit to India in the postwar years through June 1964, plus heavy direct aid. We are shipping in 600,000 tons of wheat a month, but even this has not been enough to feed the people or forestall food riots. Meantime, aid from the Soviet Union, not nearly so massive, has been highly publicized. India after 15 years remains the largest uncommitted nation in the struggle between East and West.

India is being watched by Asian neighbors to see if a nation with democratic institutions and civil liberties can make a go of it. They are comparing India's development with that of Communist China and drawing conclusions.

The defense effort only complicates the food shortage. According to K. N. Raj, one of the country's most respected economists, the sharp rise in food prices this year was in part the lagged effect of the sudden jump in defense expenditures over the past two years.

Government support of family planning is only a fraction of the amount called for in the third five-year plan. The population is nearing 480 million, almost 2 1/2 times that of the United States, and this year alone there are 10.8 million new mouths to feed. The average family in India today has six children.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri faces a close election contest with Communists in the state of Kerala on Feb. 15. More than 100 Communist activists were arrested recently in Trivandrum. Unfortunately for India's well wishers, communism seems to thrive on hunger.

Rendering Decision

Another small step toward the Great Society was taken the other day in Washington. An order from President Johnson went out to the senior ranks of the federal bureaucracy: Declare a moratorium on the purchase of new filing cabinets.

"For the duration of this moratorium, agencies will meet their current need for file records by accelerated disposal of old records either by destruction or by transfer to Federal Records Centers," Johnson said.

Many a tear will be shed as a result of this order. Life in federal offices throughout the land was so much simpler when everything could be filed away. Now the painful days have come when the choice must be made to keep or not to keep, to file only if something already in the files can be thrown away.

What Men Can Do When They Have To

LONDON—This capital is preparing for a great pageant in memory of the greatness of an era that already seems part of the remote past.

The death of Sir Winston Churchill had long been expected. Coming at the end of the long, gentle sleep of his last days it was almost an anticlimax. Yet it has called up all the emotion that lies buried beneath the outward stoical calm of the British temperament.

WITH THE FINAL act in the drama still days away the normal life of the city was slowing to a pause. Government offices in Whitehall were frantically working on details of a state funeral that will be a solemn spectacle much as has not been seen since the death of Queen Victoria on January 22, 1901, at the age of 81.

Kings and queens, heads of state, heads of government, princes and potentates, all are arriving. As Victoria's death marked the end of an age—Britain's long ascendancy, the time of the empire on which the sun never sets—so does Churchill's passing signal the close of a chapter that the British people treasure in another way. This was the hero of their finest hour, the symbol and the sign that valor and steadfastness and sacrifice and nobility could be called forth as of old.

HISTORY MAY not hold that Churchill singlehandedly saved Britain. But this is the belief of millions who will pay tribute to him. And certainly if his voice had not been raised in that critical hour it is hardly possible to doubt that the outcome would have been different. It was his fighting spirit that rallied a desperate people.

Hard as it is to realize, nearly a quarter of a century has passed since the days of the blitz. Night after night a thousand fires burned in the heart of London. In the grim light of morning Churchill moved from one smoking ruin to another assessing the damage. The pessimists said Britain was finished. The voice of Goebbels was loud with exultant doom.

BUT CHURCHILL never showed the slightest sign of yielding in any degree. He worked ceaselessly with the attention for detail that often drove his associates to the edge of exhaustion. The memoranda that he sent in an unending stream from No. 10 Downing Street demanded the impossible and not later than tomorrow morning.

This interlude of mourning may almost be welcome in that it calls up the great past at a moment when Britain's fortunes are at a low ebb. The Labor government of Harold Wilson holds precarious authority, a three-vote margin in the House of Commons. While an election may come soon, the Conservatives have no desire to return to office in light of the difficulties plaguing the British economy.

THE BRITISH pound, once the token of stability and financial authority, suffered a bad sinking spell last year and was rescued by the International Monetary Fund with a draft on the hard-currency countries. Prices are rising as British goods have been forced out of competitive markets. Labor spokesmen are compelled to appeal to the rank and file for restraint on wages and a postponement of new welfare measures. No one quite knows what the direction is.

In this sad dilemma the image of the stouthearted man with the cigar clamped in one corner of his bulldog mouth is a welcome reminder of what men can do when they have to. (Copyright, 1965, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Billy Graham

Even though I am a Christian I often become depressed. Where in the Bible can I find help? L. C.

"As the days, so shall the strength be." This promise is found in Deuteronomy 33:25.

"Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee: He shall never suffer the righteous to be moved." (Psalm 55:22) Many of the Psalms give us words of comfort. Read the 42nd. Read and learn the 121st. Say this over and over when you need encouragement. I'm sure you know the 23rd Psalm. This has brought consolation to more people than any other words which have ever been written. Make it your own, saying: "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul."

Then turn to the Gospels and read the good news. It is for you. Learn Matthew 11:28-30. You are fortunate to know that in your hours of need you should turn to your Bible for help. These are only a few of the passages that tell of God's love and care. Pray as you read, and you'll be able to say with Paul: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." (Philippians 4:19)

By Numbers

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP)—Triplets born recently near Wabag, in the Western Highlands of New Guinea, have been named by numbers. The parents named the three boys Namba Wan, Namba Tu and Namba Tri—pidgin English for No. 1, 2 and 3.

James Marlow Old Electoral College To Go?

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson proposes knocking the electoral college, as used in American history, out the window. The reason: to prevent thwarting voters in their choice of president and vice president.

Under the present system the electors who make up the electoral college are free to name anyone they please for president, no matter whom the voters cast the most ballots for.

There's nothing in the Constitution which says they can't. In fact, Alexander Hamilton thought this was the big virtue of the electoral system, since he thought the electors would be wiser than most citizens.

SINCE 1796 the electors have been hardly more than puppets, simply voting as the people in their states indicated on election day. There have been a few exceptions. In any election there could be a lot. Johnson wants to prevent any. So he suggested to Congress Thursday a constitutional amendment eliminating individual electors but retaining the electoral college.

Each state now is entitled to as many electors as it has representatives and senators in Congress. And, traditionally, the presidential candidate getting the most popular votes in a state gets all its electoral votes.

Johnson would retain the arrangement giving a state as many electoral votes as it has representatives and senators. But he'd add this to the Constitution:

A STATE would have to cast all its electoral votes—it would have no choice—for the candidate getting the most popular votes. In this way there would be no need for electors. And therefore no chance for them to cross up the voters.

While this may be an improvement on the present undisciplined system of individual electors, it won't please everyone, particularly those who believe candidates should be elected on the basis of total popular votes alone.

But Johnson proposed other measures in the same amendment. Under the Constitution now, no matter what the popular vote showed, if no presidential candidate gets a majority of the electoral vote, the House must elect a president from the three top runners.

And, if there is no majority of the electoral vote for a vice-presidential candidate, the Senate does the electing from the top three.

Johnson suggests that if a case like either of these arises, then the House and Senate together do the electing.

THEN SUPPOSE this formally elects a president and vice president but the president-to-be dies before taking office. What happens? Does the vice president automatically become president? No.

The electoral college is free to choose a president without regard for what the popular election showed. Johnson wants the vice president-elect in such circumstances to become president when the new term begins.

If, turning that same situation around, the vice president-elect died before taking office, Johnson wants the new president to pick a vice president to serve with him, provided, however, that Congress approves.

This arrangement is already provided for in another constitutional amendment which has been hanging around in Congress for many months and seems likely to be approved this year and then sent to the states for ratification.

THIS SAME proposed amendment—introduced by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and 75 other senators as cosponsors—would also take care of presidential disability and has Johnson's full approval.

LONDON—And so, for what is left of this week England is reliving the greatness that has shrunken and faded and slipped away during the last quarter-century.

This playback of an illustrious past is Sir Winston Churchill's final service to the nation he served so nobly. It is the last time such pageantry and pomp will ever be realistically possible, for the England that bred Winston Churchill predeceased him by decades.

THE NATION understands this now, intuitively and reluctantly, as it unashamedly plans a state funeral as splendid and pompous as any the world has seen. And well it might, for it is the final rite of an empire, a society and an epoch that is to be held.

All of the ostentatious grandeur, the trappings and panoply, the posturing of the wan, meaningless institution of royalty, all would be pathetic, even tasteless. But with the greatest commoner of them all as the central figure it is something much grander. It is the last hurrah of a once-great land that now is effete and enfeebled.

ENGLAND THIS day mourns more than the passing of a doughty, wise old man.

There is every evidence that Mr. Churchill understood the special meaning his death would have for the country he loved and of which in the last few years he must have despaired. He himself plotted the huge drama now being played out in this ancient city as carefully as ever he outlined one of his books. The lying-in-state at Westminster, the mighty funeral procession in which heads of state and ruling sovereigns would be commonplace, the final rites in the great,

Around The Rim Old Rustlers Never Die

Cattle outnumber people in Texas these days. Not that such is any change from the past, for that matter. The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association has released some comparative figures for the state's four-legged population, as compared to the rest of us:

CATTLE — 10,350,000; persons — 10,342,700.

What's more, the association commented from its Fort Worth office recently that more rustling is going on today than ever before.

In fact, the association predicted that if the activity keeps increasing, Texas may reverse the normal situation and end up with more people than cattle.

THE STATE'S cattlemen report some 2,500 animals stolen each year, but the association says the actual number is more likely twice that amount.

The "rustlers" these days are disdaining older methods, using pickup trucks or trailers and hustling small numbers of cattle, striking much more often than in past years. The old days of herding 100 or 200 head away from a ranch by moonlight have been replaced, it seems, by motorized methods.

SMALL RANCHES seem the prey of thieves these days, so the association says, as larger ones are more difficult to steal from because rangeland is usually more closely patrolled.

In the late 1800's Texas cattlemen were moving thousands of cattle from the northeastern part of the state northward to Missouri railroad stations and in southern Missouri and northern Arkansas the cattlemen ran into a version of rustling.

HISTORIANS have estimated 270,000 head were taken northward in 1866, through the route from Rock Bluffs ford at the Red River to Fort Smith, Ark., and on to Missouri.

Where the terrain was roughest on the trip, through portions of Missouri and Arkansas, bands of outlaws waited to demand "tribute" from the cattlemen. If their "tax" wasn't paid, their technique was simple — one of the group would ride into the herd waving a brightly-colored blanket, scattering the cattle over miles of rugged land. Cherokee Indians in the eastern part of what is now Oklahoma made a more westerly route not so feasible, while the trip through Arkansas' Ozarks put the cattle in poor condition on reaching the markets.

THE OUTLAW bands proved a considerable problem for cattlemen, so historians tell, until the construction began in 1867 on the Kansas Pacific Railroad, later to become the Union Pacific's Kansas Division.

Holmes Alexander Budget Unrealistic

WASHINGTON—How to keep the budget under $100 billion "without really trying"—this is the talk of the town here.

Out of the 512 printed pages containing President Johnson's budget and supplementary tables and figures, there is one chart which tells the whole story in graphic form. It reveals how any President can keep the budget under $100 billion.

THERE ARE two white bands across the chart. One says that the new authorizations the President has asked Congress to give him amount to $106.4 billion. The other shows unspent authorizations enacted in prior years as totaling $96.7 billion.

By simply dipping into these two big funds and using some funds from each in a given year, a President can come up with $100 billion of expenditures or some other arbitrary figure in his estimated budget for the following year and still remain at a level of imaginary frugality.

THE SAME CHART reveals that out of the $106.4 billion of new authority asked by the President, only $72 billion will be spent in fiscal year 1966, which begins on July 1.

Out of the unspent authorization of $96.7 billion in prior years, the chart discloses that the President announced he will use only $27.6 billion in 1966.

By adding this $27.6 billion and the $72 billion, a budget of a little less than $100 billion is thus presented for the fiscal year 1966.

WHERE DOES this leave the two unexpended yet still authorized totals? Out of the new authority recommended for fiscal year 1966, the Treasury would have left $34.4 billion, and out of the unspent authorization of previous years, it would have $67.2 billion. This means that next January the President can again dip into unexpended but authorized funds totalling $101.6 billion as a reservoir available to make another budget below $100 billion.

This is the main reason why it is misleading for so much emphasis to be placed on the fact that the administrative budget" for fiscal year 1966 will be less than $100 billion. It is to this that most prominence has been given, though there is beginning to be an awakening of public opinion on the subject, as shown in editorials from three leading newspapers which supported Mr. Johnson in the last election. The New York Herald Tribune, for example, says:

"MR. JOHNSON'S publicized preoccupation with keeping the administrative budget under $100 billion should not be permitted to obscure the fact that his budget, for fiscal 1966, at $99.7 billion, is the highest in the nation's history. Nor should the emphasis on the administrative budget obscure the payments that will be made into and from the assorted trust funds—and which will bring total federal spending for fiscal '66 to $127.4 billion."

The New York Times says: "THE CASH BUDGET, which consolidates the activities of the government's trust funds, estimates total payments for fiscal 1966 at $127 billion and receipts at $123 billion. By focusing attention on the $99.7 billion spending figure in the administrative budget, the President is not merely giving less than a full picture of the government's role. He also is limiting the effort to forge the budget into a truly flexible instrument for influencing the economy."

The Washington Post says:

"UNFORTUNATELY most of the attention will be captured by the administrative budget, a bookkeeping concept that dates back to 1921 . . . Its principal shortcoming is that it excludes entirely the operations of the growing trust funds, the most important of which are those established for the operation of the Social Security system . . ."

"Much confusion can be eliminated by scrapping the administrative budget. The consolidated cash budget is a far more useful tool for purposes of both administrative control and economic analysis." (Copyright, 1965, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

Richard Starnes Something Gone Out Of England

LONDON—And so, for what is left of this week England is reliving the greatness that has shrunken and faded and slipped away during the last quarter-century.

This playback of an illustrious past is Sir Winston Churchill's final service to the nation he served so nobly. It is the last time such pageantry and pomp will ever be realistically possible, for the England that bred Winston Churchill predeceased him by decades.

THE NATION understands this now, intuitively and reluctantly, as it unashamedly plans a state funeral as splendid and pompous as any the world has seen. And well it might, for it is the final rite of an empire, a society and an epoch that is to be held.

But with the greatest commoner of them all as the central figure it is something much grander. It is the last hurrah of a once-great land that now is effete and enfeebled.

ENGLAND THIS day mourns more than the passing of a doughty, wise old man.

There is every evidence that Mr. Churchill understood the special meaning his death would have for the country he loved and of which in the last few years he must have despaired. He himself plotted the huge drama now being played out in this ancient city as carefully as ever he outlined one of his books. The lying-in-state at Westminster, the mighty funeral procession in which heads of state and ruling sovereigns would be commonplace, the final rites in the great, smoke-stained, brooding St. Paul's—all these he regarded as the final debt he owed a people who had honored him so repeatedly in life.

HE COULD—and he knew it—have shared eternity in Westminster Abbey with the other immortals of England, but characteristically at the graveside he drew the line. In the last decision it is given to a man to make, he willed that his remains be interred instead in a quiet country churchyard beneath a cypress tree near his beloved American mother and his revered father.

WHAT HAS GONE out of the life of this fair land was painfully explicit during the BBC's long and quietly professional tribute to Sir Winston. There were films of his finest hours almost as stirring in retrospect as they were in the making two-score years ago. And there were tributes from the present generation of British leaders, and here, perhaps inadvertently, BBC spelled it all out.

Harold Macmillan, whose term as the Queen's first minister was stained with scandal and squalor not of his own making, did the best of all in the wording of tributes.

MR. MACMILLAN, whose delivery must be the worst the English language has been affronted with since Chaucer, wisely used Churchill's own words—

"In war, resolution; in defeat, defiance; in victory, magnanimity; in peace, good will."

It will be a sad few days before England is permitted to slip back into the contentment of mediocrity. There is nothing left in this island kingdom that suggests it will ever again produce a Nelson, a Wellington or a Churchill. (Copyright, 1965, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Measures Oppose 'Restaurant Bill'

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Jake Johnson, a frequent sponsor of liquor-by-the-drink legislation, has introduced three bills in an effort to block a Texas Restaurant Association mixed drink proposal.

Texas Friend, Watson, Is Johnson Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marvin Watson, a Texas friend of President Johnson, will join the White House staff as a special assistant.

Press secretary George E. Reedy announced today that Watson has agreed to join the White House staff on Feb. 1. There had been speculation—and denials—for several months about the appointment.

Johnson has been anxious to have Watson as an assistant on a full-time basis.

Watson has been in and out of the White House and the LBJ Ranch in Texas doing staff work on a voluntary part-time basis. He is Texas State Democratic chairman and has been executive assistant to the president of the Lone Star Steel Co.

Reedy said Watson will receive $28,500 annually. This is the salary of other presidential assistants except for Lawrence O'Brien, who receives $30,000 as assistant for congressional relations.

Reedy said Watson will be assigned various administrative duties and special projects and also will be concerned with federal-state relations.

Top Cowboys Hitting Saddle

FORT WORTH (AP)—Many of the nation's most prosperous cowboys hit the saddle tonight as the Southwest Exposition Rode opens.

Nine-time world champion cowboy Dean Oliver of Boise, Idaho, heads a field of more than 400 contestants who will vie for $72,000 in prize money.

There will be two performances daily through Feb. 7 in Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum. Oliver, 35, won $31,150 in 1964 to claim his second all-around championship and seventh calf roping title.

Another entrant is C. R. Boncher, 33, of Burk Burnett, Tex., who won $19,716 in steer wrestling to edge John Jones of San Luis Obispo, Calif., in the year's final standings. His total topped the old record of $19,253. Jones also is here.

Wayland College Given Bequest

Mrs. J. L. Harrah, Abernathy, has announced a gift of $500,000 to Wayland Baptist College in Plainview for the construction of what will be known as Harrah Memorial Auditorium. The gift memorializes her husband, John L. Harrah, and their son, Jack, both of whom attended Wayland. She and her husband met while students at the college. The gift is the largest single bequest to the college.

New Attorney General Has Feeling For Poor In Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, who has vowed a "war on poverty," has chosen for his attorney general a man who avows deep concern with the law's impact on the poor.

Nicholas deBelleville Katzenbach, 43, nominated for the post Thursday, may be expected to react vigorously and firmly to violations of civil rights, criminal and antitrust laws.

But associates who know him best say Katzenbach hopes to do more — to initiate as well as enforce. And the brunt of his initiative, they predict, will be thrown into a campaign to balance the scales of justice on behalf of the nation's poor.

With his predecessor, Robert F. Kennedy, Katzenbach was a guiding force in establishing the office of criminal justice within the department. Its aim is to ensure, as Kennedy put it, that the department is "more than a department of prosecution and is, in fact, a Department of Justice."

SIGN OF RELIEF

Thus, lawyers of the fledgling office of criminal justice heaved a sigh of relief Thursday when Katzenbach's selection was announced 147 days after he became acting attorney general. Katzenbach has taken a keen interest in its operation and demands frequent reports on its progress in such fields as bail, pretrial publicity, legal counsel for the poor and wire tapping.

But his concern goes beyond the plight of the poor who have been accused of crimes. His remarks to a recent conference considering the subject bear new relevance as he assumes the nation's top legal post: "There are large numbers of poor people, for example, who discovered they have a binding obligation to pay a finance company for a TV set that never worked. There are large numbers whose public assistance is reduced or revoked — who have

Testimony Ends In Gentry Case

Three weeks of testimony have ended in the hearing on the suspension of George Gentry, superintendent of the Baytown Schools, by the Baytown School Board. The veteran superintendent, for a number of years high school principal here, is contesting the suspension and contract revocation.

A. R. Stark, president of the Baytown board, said that he hoped the board would have a special meeting prior to the next regularly scheduled meeting on Feb. 8 in order to act on the hearing. At the Tuesday board meeting, Mrs. John McClintock, representing a group of Baytown citizens, presented petitions containing 1,642 signatures urging the board to dismiss its suspension action. She said that those wanting the ouster dropped had circulated petitions only a few days.

The board, by a 4-3 majority, had leveled a dozen charges against Gentry, contending that he had not kept the board informed and had failed to carry out board directives, also questioning business office operations. Gentry stoutly denied the accusations.

Meantime, the beleaguered district has set April 3 as the date of trustee election. Terms of Stark and Dr. L. D. Victory, who have supported the suspension, and Dr. Joe T. Horecky, a Gentry defender, expire.

Workers reporting are maintaining a good average in the Y.M.C.A. membership enrollment. Pete Cook, membership campaign chairman, reported to day.

However, slightly less than a third of the volunteers canvassing prospects have made their first report. Twenty-four of 90 workers have accounted for $2,897 so far. Their final reports should pull them up near the $180 quota for each worker. Cook predicted.

Meantime, the division leader, functioning as tool pushers in keeping with the oil exploration-production format of the campaign, were working with their drillers (team captains) and in turn the drillers with their roughnecks (crew members) in an effort to get a clearer picture.

"We are encouraged by the initial results," said Cook, "but we need every worker to report as promptly as possible on the status of his contacts up to this moment. This is vital for us in order to know just where we are."

Goal of the participating member division is $15,000. The sustaining member division is well along in its campaign toward a $10,500 goal. At last reports, this group was pushing $7,000 under the leadership of Clyde McMahon Sr., chairman.

Mrs. Vaughn's Funeral Set

Services will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday for Mrs. Ada Ethel Vaughn, 72, of 500 E. 17th, who died at 12:05 a.m. today in a local hospital after a brief illness.

Mrs. Vaughn had moved to Big Spring in 1910 and made her home here since that time. She had operated the Vaughn's Nursing Home, 1201 Sycamore, until 1960, when falling health prevented her from continuing.

This year she had received her 50-year pin as a member of the Ladies Auxiliary, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. She was a member of the Baptist Church and of the Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284.

Mrs. Vaughn was born July 7, 1892 in Waco and married Al Vaughn in 1910. He preceded her in death in 1957.

Services will be in Nalley-Pickie Chapel with the Rev. V. Ward Jackson, pastor, First Church of God, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Billy Sanders, Lubbock Church of God. Burial will be in the City Cemetery, under direction of Nalley-Pickie Funeral Home.

Survivors include two sons, Charles Vaughn, Yardville, N. J., and Billy Ray Vaughn, in service at Jacksonville, Fla.; four brothers, E. H. Sanders, Big Spring, Henry Sanders, Sweetwater, Kyle Sanders, El Paso, and Lee Sanders, Sycamore, Tex.; four grandchildren, three nephews and two nieces.

Palbearers will be Jerry Sanders, Larry Sanders, Billy Sanders, Waymon Clark, Joe Heard and Jerry Kilgore.

AUSTIN (AP) — A fall over a cliff killed Douglas Meurer, 18, a University of Texas student, while he was rock hunting Thursday.

Two Treated For Injuries

Two persons were taken by Big Spring Ambulance Service to Howard County Hospital Foundation early this morning after a two-car collision at Sixteenth and Benton streets.

Mrs. D. J. Kinard, 905 E. 14th, and Barbara Burklow, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Burklow, 2009 Rannels, were reported doing fine at the hospital this morning with minor injuries.

Mrs. Kinard was driving west on Sixteenth when her car collided with a vehicle driven by Larry Burklow, going north on Benton, according to police. Miss Burklow was a passenger in the car driven by her brother.

Minor accidents reported Thursday locations and drivers, included 1500 E. 2nd Mrs. Fannie C. McCasland, 1707 Alabama, and Rosendo Santellan, 711 N. Gregg; 309 W. 3rd, Billy C. Dulaney, San Angelo, and two parked cars, owned by Jimmy Maddin, 613 Elgin, and Bill Cooke, Box 463.

Police also arrested two men and one woman Thursday on charges of driving while intoxicated.

City Budget Work Continues

Work on the 1965-66 city budget is continuing this week, City Manager Larry Crow reported today with department heads to continue submitting their budget need requests to his office through next week.

At the end of next week, the budget schedule calls for the beginning tabulation of budget requests, with tentative estimates of budget allocations for various departments and activities of the city to be made about mid-February.

Workers reporting are maintaining a good average in the Y.M.C.A. membership enrollment. Pete Cook, membership campaign chairman, reported to day.

However, slightly less than a third of the volunteers canvassing prospects have made their first report. Twenty-four of 90 workers have accounted for $2,897 so far. Their final reports should pull them up near the $180 quota for each worker. Cook predicted.

Meantime, the division leader, functioning as tool pushers in keeping with the oil exploration-production format of the campaign, were working with their drillers (team captains) and in turn the drillers with their roughnecks (crew members) in an effort to get a clearer picture.

"We are encouraged by the initial results," said Cook, "but we need every worker to report as promptly as possible on the status of his contacts up to this moment. This is vital for us in order to know just where we are."

Goal of the participating member division is $15,000. The sustaining member division is well along in its campaign toward a $10,500 goal. At last reports, this group was pushing $7,000 under the leadership of Clyde McMahon Sr., chairman.

Little Fellows Get Lots Of Attention

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three little guys shared the lead with two big fellows today in the Lucky International Open Golf Tournament. Precedent rules against the bruisers.

...tured the top prize in the previous four years of this $57,500 tournament. The three little guys who carried three-under-par 68 into the second round are Jack McGowen of Largo, Fla.; Butch Baird of Carlton Oaks, Calif., and veteran Gardner Dickinson of Lost Tree Village, Fla. Baird at 150 pounds is the heavyweight of this group.

The comparative Golliaths are George Archer of Gilroy, Calif., and Jack Montgomery of Fort Worth, Tex. Archer is 6-foot-6 — big even for a professional golfer — and Montgomery is 6-2. Each weighs 185 pounds.

Gene Littler and Jack Burke at 165 pounds are the heaviest former winners of the Lucky. Gary Player weighed 150 and Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez is only 120, including golf shoes.

Littler started today at Harding Municipal course at 72, Rodriguez at 73. The two other previous winners are absent.

Billy Casper had a 72 and Tony Lema 73 in the opening round on a day meant for professionals other than favorites.

Billy Martinale of Jacksonville, Tex., was all alone at 69 after 18 holes of the 72-hole event.

There were 19 golfers grouped at 70. After today, 96 of 144 pros will be left to play with the 10 amateurs, who were led by Guy Bill's first-round 72, one-over-par.

Ellis reasons that Odessa, Permian, San Angelo and Big Spring may be tagged "The Big Four" among conference teams this fall. If it's all the same with Robbins, he'd just as well be left out of the group.

The Steers play their final three games this fall against Permian (on the road), Odessa High (at home) and San Angelo (on the road).

Any team that can win in the face of those odds deserves the crown.

It should come as good news to the friends of B. B. Lees here that Eastern New Mexico University is going to get a new $500,000 football stadium.

B. B. is the Big Spring native who was elevated to the head coaching job at ENMU the past fall.

Money for the stadium will be raised through the sale of $250,000 in revenue bonds and by a public fund raising campaign.

Directing the public campaign will be Edward L. Hall, a representative of the Cumerford Corp.

The stadium will be a bowl-type structure with an initial seating capacity of 15,000. This will be expandable to 30,000. The site will be on 300 acres owned by the university.

Weldon Bigony, a fine athlete here in the 30's who later played football for Baylor University, is back here from his home in Taipei, Taiwan, where he is a pilot for the Chinese National Airlines.

He was called home prior to the fatal illness of his father, the late D. F. Bigony.

Weldon, who with his family saw part of the Olympic Games in Tokyo, says he wanted to help send two of Formosa's better pro golfers on the American pro golf tour but the island's champions do so well financially in their own country they declined the offer.

Formosa has only one 18-hole course, where new courses in Japan are springing up by the dozens. However, according to Bigony, Formosa's best players can consistently beat Japan's finest linksters in jaw-to-jaw competition.

Mr. and Mrs. Bigony now have two sons, along with a daughter, and hope to return to this country in a year or so in order to give their offspring the benefit of American educational and athletic programs. The older Bigony boy is 13. The other two children are 11-year-old twins.

The Bigony family plans to fly to the West Coast sometime this weekend for a vacation and will probably return to Taipei sometime in early March.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

San Angelo College, which sends its basketball team here to night for a barnburner with Howard County Junior College, has not lost a Western Conference game now in 22 outings.

The Rams are well on their way to their third consecutive league championship. They're making their farewell appearance in the conference, since they embrace a senior college schedule next year.

Marvin Ellis, the Odessa scribe, says the revised District 2-4A football schedule favors San Angelo and Big Spring but coach Don Robbins of Big Spring is not so sure.

The new alignment calls for the Longhorns to play in San Angelo for the second straight year and that's not to Big Spring's advantage. Robbins would much rather catch the Bobcats here.

Ellis reasons that Odessa, Permian, San Angelo and Big Spring may be tagged "The Big Four" among conference teams this fall. If it's all the same with Robbins, he'd just as well be left out of the group.

MIDLAND — Goliad Junior High of Big Spring will go against tough Odessa Bonham Junior High at 12:20 p.m. in the feature game in today's session of the Midland Junior Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Goliad defeated Midland Carver Thursday in the first round of the tourney, 70-62, to advance to the quarterfinals. Runnels of Big Spring will play Midland Austin at 7 p.m. in the consolation bracket, having lost, 62-48, to Odessa Ector the first game.

High point man for Goliad in the Carver game was Don Malone with 31 points. Jerry Ryan dropped in 17 for Goliad. Carver was high man for the losers with 24 points.

Goliad lost the lead early in the first quarter but at the end of the period led, 23-17. The Mavs never lost the lead after that, holding a six point lead at half time.

Runnels ran into a stiff zone defense that it could not crack. Wayne Johnson was high man for Runnels with 17 points. Junker dropped in 16 for the winning Odessa team.

Goliad now has a 11-4 record for the season while Runnels' season record stands at 10-7.

RAIDERS SEEK Purple Scalp

The Texas Tech Red Raiders, riding high and red in the 1965 Southwest Conference basketball race, journey to Fort Worth Saturday in an attempt to add the scalp of Texas Christian to their collection.

The tilt is one of two conference games Saturday. In the other, Texas will be at Dallas for a go at Southern Methodist.

The Red Raiders moved out ahead of the pack Tuesday night when they battered the SMU Mustangs 107-89 and broke a tie for first place.

Tech is now 3-0 in conference play, followed by SMU at 2-1. Baylor, Arkansas, and defending champion Texas A&M are all 2-2. Texas and Texas Christian are 1-2 while Rice is by its lonesome at 1-3.

In non-conference games Thursday night Arkansas moved past Mississippi State 84-69 while Baylor bowed 89-78 to Houston, a team that has started making beating Southwest Conference teams a habit. Earlier this week, Texas edged Trinity 82-68 in another non-conference affair.

Arkansas continues its Southeastern tour with a game at Georgia Tech Friday night. Saturday night Texas A&M will be at Houston and Rice will be host to Trinity in non-conference games.

Orioles Seek To Come Back

If the Baltimore Orioles, who came within a flutter of the American League pennant last season, are to wind up perched on the nest with all the eggs in it this year, comebacks could be the key.

Six players returned signed contracts to the Orioles Thursday and three of them — pitchers Mike McCormick and Chuck Estrada and first baseman Norm Siebern — will be out to reverse poor records in 1965.

McCormick, who broke into the majors as a teenager with the New York Giants in 1956 and won the National League earned-run average title in 1960, has been a major disappointment to the Orioles since coming in a trade in 1962.

He has won just six games in the last two seasons and spent most of 1964 toiling for the Orioles' International League farm club at Rochester. But, the southpaw is only 26 and might still become a winner at Baltimore.

Estrada was a key member of the Orioles' youthful pitching staff and won 33 games in his first two seasons. But, like McCormick, Chuck has suffered from arm trouble and produced just six victories in the last two years for Baltimore. He underwent surgery last season and, at 27, could still come back to make the difference for the Birds.

Steers Host Odessa In 8 O'Clock Bout

A fiercely determined Big Spring High School basketball team, smarting from a two-point loss administered by Midland Lee earlier this week, plays hosts to Odessa High at 8 o'clock in Steer Gymnasium here tonight.

Odessa won its third conference game in eight starts by beating out Abilene Cooper, 78-73, Tuesday. Overall, the Bronchos are 10-12.

Neither team is a championship contender. As a matter of fact, the clubs are going to have to go at a sizzling clip to finish with .500 league records — Big Spring especially so.

Despite their lowly positions, however, the teams are capable of playing fine basketball and Odessa boasts the top scorer in the league in the person of Max Brownlee.

Odessa is coached by Hugh Cochran, who played his high school athletics here.

The Steers can't afford to concentrate too much on Brownlee because Odessa has two other scoring threats in Lawrence Thompson and Terry Pieper.

HUGH COCHRAN

Brownlee has counted 173 points in the eight conference games while Thompson has 106 and Pieper 93.

Big Spring beat the Bronchos from the field, 21 baskets to

Terrazas Pacing Steers; Thomas No. 1 Rebounder

Paul Thomas and Joe Jaure have the best field goal shooting averages among Big Spring High School players. Each had hit 44 per cent of the team from the field.

Simon Terrazas is the leading scorer on the club with a total of 241 points, six more than Thomas. He has one more field goal and four more free shots than Thomas. In the latter category, Terrazas' 57 tops the club.

Terrazas' game average figures out to 11 points, compared to 10.9 for Thomas.

Thomas is the leading rebounder on the team with 191, compared to 179 for Terrazas.

Butch Foster, who has played in only 17 of the club's 22 games, has the best average on free shots on the squad, having made 26 of 38 per cent.

The Steers have averaged 84.5 points a game, compared to 89.5 for the opposition.

Here's the breakdown on the team's efforts:

Jayhawk Runners Lubbock Entries

LUBBOCK (AP) — Top Collegian track stars of the Southwest, including New Mexico's Clarence Robinson and Southern Methodist's Billy Foster will compete in the fourth annual Lubbock Indoor Meet Saturday night.

Robinson, a broad jumper, leaped 25 feet 6 1/4 inches last week, only three-quarters of an inch off the record set here last year by Olympian Ralph Boston.

Foster, a sprinter, ran the 60-yard dash in 6.0 here last year to tie the world's record, which has since been broken by Bob Hayes with a 5.9.

Athletes have been entered by Texas A&M, Texas, Southern Methodist, Texas Christian, Baylor, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Abilene Christian, New Mexico, North Texas, Houston and Texas Tech in the university division.

Arlington State, Sul Ross, Wayland, McMurry and Howard Payne will compete in the college bracket while Howard County, Lubbock Christian, and South Plains of Levelland will run in the junior college mile relay.

Exhibitions will be staged by two Olympians — shot putter Randy Matson of Texas A&M and pole vaulter Billy Felmelton of Abilene Christian.

B teams of the two schools square away at 6 p.m.

Chualo Ending Heavy Training

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — George Chualo finished his heavy training today in preparation for Monday's heavyweight fight with ex-champion Floyd Patterson at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Chualo was scheduled to complete his heavy work Thursday but changed his plans and decided not to box. He underwent an physical and was declared "well-conditioned and ready to go" by Dr. Harry Kihlman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Patterson boxed four rounds at his Marlboro, N.Y., camp Thursday and said he might do some more work today. He will break camp Sunday.

in the Texas Panhandle failed to develop.
Skies remained clear throughout the state.
Thermometers plunged to 15 degrees above zero before dawn at Dalhart in the upper Panhandle and to 20 at Amarillo and Lubbock.

It was freezing or below behind a curving cold front, which appeared close to stalling along a line from south of Texarkana to near San Angelo and northward to Brownfield and into New Mexico.

Along the Texas coast and in the Lower Rio Grande Valley at the same time the early morning temperatures ranged into the 50s.

Forecasts called for still lower temperatures in most sections tonight and further chilling Saturday as more frigid air spills southward.

Mercury Hits Zero, Below In 27 States

By The Associated Press
A massive cold wave enveloped much of the nation today, sending the temperature to zero or below in at least 27 states. Snow, rain and flooding plagued some sections.

Bitter cold arctic air swept out of the North into the nation's midsection. Cold wave warnings stretched from the mid-Mississippi Valley to the northern Appalachians.

The temperature at International Falls dropped to 30 below zero a little warmer than the 38 below Thursday at Ely, also in northern Minnesota.

3 BELOW
The mercury hit 3 below in Chicago early today with lower readings in the suburbs.

A 2-inch snow fell in the St. Louis area, causing at least two deaths. The temperature in Missouri ranged from -5 to 20.

In Iowa the mercury failed to get above zero Thursday in some sections. Central Kentucky registered an 8-degree temperature after a 2-inch snowfall. An inch of snow fell in Cleveland.

The temperature fell far below zero in parts of New England, swept by gusty northwesterly winds.

SNOW SQUALLS
Snow squalls struck western New York State.

A fast-moving storm dumped up to 4 inches of snow in West Virginia.

The cold moved into the Southland, where temperatures fell into the teens in Arkansas.

The Northwest was hit by more rain, aggravating the flooding situation in Washington and Oregon. Snow fell again in the Rocky Mountains.

Rivers surged over their banks in northwestern Oregon, waterlogged from December floods which killed 18 persons. An earth slide thundered onto Mapleton, a community of 800 west of Eugene. No injuries were reported.

A flooding creek north of Albany washed out the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Nine inches of rain fell in Toledo, Ore., in a 42-hour period and 6 inches hit Blodgett on the coast.

The Weather Bureau said the Snoqualmie River was expected to rise to about 55 feet at Carnation, Wash., today - two feet above flood stage.

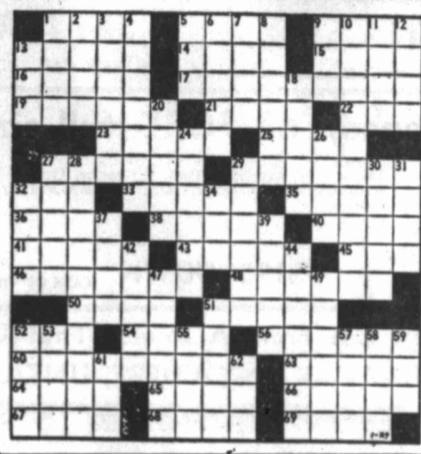

POWER FAILURE
A power failure struck a five-state Midwestern area Thursday, putting thousands of homes out of heat, water and lights for a short period.

Equipment trouble at a substation in Fort Randall, S.D., affected most of South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska for about an hour. A related power failure struck western Wisconsin and northwestern Illinois.

Man Accused Of Drowning Children Tried

WACO (AP) — Prosecutors called additional witnesses today in the trial of former Airman Rudy Davis, accused of driving a station wagon into the Bosque River and drowning his four small children.

Also in the car was Davis' pregnant wife, from whom he had been separated two months.

Billy Ramsey, a Texas Highway Department employe, testified he saw the car plunge into the river near Waco and saw Davis push his wife under water twice.

Ramsey said she finally grabbed Davis around the neck and they swam ashore. The children, 14 months to 4 years old, were trapped in the station wagon.

State patrolman Lawton Crain said he examined the station wagon after it was pulled from the water and found the brake lining on the left front wheel had been cut.

Henry Kluck, the first patrolman on the scene, testified that Davis told him the brakes failed just before the car went into the river.

He asked why Davis didn't turn the car left or right away from the river, Kluck said, and Davis replied he didn't think of it.

Davis formerly was stationed at Connally Air Force Base here. He is from Montezuma, Wash.

Ruby Held In Chronic Shape

DALLAS (AP) — A psychiatry professor who testified last April that Jack Ruby should be hospitalized immediately says now that Ruby's mental condition is more chronic.

Dr. Louis West, professor of psychiatry at the University of Oklahoma medical school, visited in Ruby's jail cell for about an hour Thursday. Then he handed a photographer a note stating only:

"I have no comment, other than to say Mr. Ruby's condition is basically unchanged since I first examined him nine months ago, except that it has become more chronic."

West said in an April hearing before Criminal Dist. Judge Joe Brown that Ruby should be sent to a hospital or institution. He testified Ruby held delusions that he is personally responsible for the "slaughter of millions of Jews."

One of Ruby's lawyers, Phil Burleson, and the doctor conferred before and after the jail visit, presumably about Ruby's appeal to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals of his death sentence for killing presidential assassin Lee Oswald.

Burleson and Joe Tonahill of Jasper will argue March 10 before the appeals court that the verdict should be set aside.

President Mixes Work With Rest In Recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson still is battling remnants of a cold while getting ready to swing back into full stride of official duties.

The President has been taking it fairly easy — easy for him, that is — mixing rest with work. Thursday he spent most of the morning in bed. But at mid-afternoon he went to his office in the west wing of the White House for five hours' work.

It was the first stint in the office in six days. He hadn't been there since last Friday, when he started coming down with a heavy cold, cough, sore throat and chest pains that got him into the hospital in the small hours of Saturday morning.

BIT OF COUGH
Johnson returned to the White House Tuesday but only to the living quarters. While he has been seeing some people now and then and turning out a bit of paper work, he has by no means been as bouncy as he was before the cold.

He still has a bit of cough but no temperature, aides said, and until Thursday afternoon was reported "taking life very easy."

Mental Health Measure Among 400 Bills Filed

AUSTIN (AP) — More than 400 bills were filed with House clerk Dorothy Hallman before lawmakers adjourned Thursday, including Gov. John Connally's mental health program and a proposal to allow four-year terms for officials elected statewide.

Rep. W. H. Miller of Houston said his bill to create a Texas Department of Mental Health raised "a lot of furor from quarters I hadn't expected." He said he would wait until most criticisms were voiced before asking for a committee hearing.

NEW DEPARTMENT
The new department would take over research, treatment and prevention of mental illness, now under the State Health Department and the Board for State Hospitals and Special Schools. The 17 state hospitals and special schools would come under the new department.

Rep. Travis Peeler of Corpus Christi introduced a constitutional amendment to provide the four-year terms for state officials.

Rep. Gregory Montoya of El Paso proposed that party primaries be held the first Saturday in April instead of May, and that runoff be held in May instead of June. Delegates to national party conventions would be elected two years in advance.

Other bills would: Establish a state minimum wage of $1.25 an hour. Require that driver's licenses bear thumb prints and photographs, as well as a record of the holder's traffic convictions.

MEDICAL SCHOOL
Create a medical school at Texas Technological College. Require schools to offer pre-school English programs for non-English speaking children the year before they start the first grade.

Air Crash Injures 5

DALLAS (AP) — A light plane clipped power lines on the fringe of the Dallas - Garland airport and crashed into a grassy field Thursday, injuring the three adults and two children aboard.

The accident knocked out electric service in sections of Garland and Northeast Dallas for 56 minutes.

Garland police said the plane was lined up with the runway for a landing when it struck the wires. It crashed 500 yards short of the runway.

Witnesses found the occupants still strapped to their seats. Barnard told newsmen he saw the power lines but could not clear them.
