SENTENCE PRONOUNCED ON DANIEL ODELL McDONALD Young defendant, standing, will appeal murder conviction

Defense Attorneys Planning To Appeal

STANTON—Daniel Odell McDonald, 19, heard himself sentenced to serve 99 years in the state penitentiary in 118th District Court here Thursday afternoon.

John Ferguson, one of his court-appointed attorneys, immediately announced that McDonald is appealing the conviction to the state court of criminal appeals.

McDonald, who was brought into the courtroom wearing the rough clothing he usually wears in jail, showed no emotion when Judge Ralph Caton formally ordered him to serve nearly a century in prison.

Basis for the appeal was not included in the brief notice which Ferguson handed the court. He said that details of the defense plea to the appellate court will be set out in a brief which is to be prepared.

McDonald was taken back to jail. He will remain in Martin County jail until some decision is handed down on his appeal. If the appeal is denied, he will be removed—probably six months or more from now—to the Huntsville State Penitentiary. If he wins his appeal, the case may be shipped to some court in another county for retrial.

No bond can be posted for McDonald. In some cases, a surety bond is possible when appeals are in progress. In cases in which the sentence assessed is 15 years or more, no bond is permissible.

McDonald was convicted by a Martin County jury of the June 12 murder of his 82-year-old grandmother. Wayne Burns, district attorney who prosecuted the case, Ferguson, Deputy Sheriff G. B. Therwanger, County Attorney Roy Pickett, Judge Caton and the defendant were the only persons present for the sentencing.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Scientists guiding the Ranger 8 spacecraft to the moon face a critical decision—whether a final maneuver will be necessary to insure good pictures in the final plunge to the lunar surface Saturday morning.

Radio contact with the 800-pound spacecraft has been far from perfect since its launching from Cape Kennedy Wednesday. There was a time early Thursday when they did not know whether it had obeyed commands pointing it at the moon's Sea of Tranquility prior to the firing of a steering rocket.

Apparently it did obey properly. After long hours of tracking, scientists determined Thursday afternoon that Ranger 8 probably would impact within 15 miles of its target. But there was a chance its six television cameras might not be pointed at the best angle to take some 4,000 pictures as it crashes into the lunar surface at 5,800 miles an hour.

New Slides Feared After Icy Mud Buries Twenty

STEWART, B.C. (AP)—The threat of more slides grew today as 120 men—some hurt seriously—huddled in the ruins of a remote glacial valley mining camp waiting for help. The fate of at least 20 companions remained hidden under the rubble of a giant avalanche that thundered down Thursday on the Granduc Mining Co., almost wiping out the northern British Columbia copper mining camp on the edge of a glacier. Sketchy reports from the scene indicate the miners were continuing to hunt for the missing men, but were hampered by darkness. Vicious weather—high winds, snow and rain—prevented rescuers from getting to the mountain-ringed campsite. Recent warm weather and continued heavy rainfall brought fears of more slides before a way could be found to evacuate the camp. Radio reports from the camp said 17 injured men were lying on a floor of an office building, some needing additional medical aid.

Some of the injured were pulled from a mass of mud, snow and ice that struck in mid-morning. Others were among 40 men rescued late Thursday from a tunnel being dug into copper reserves under Le Duc glacier, officials reported. FORTY RESCUED Canadian Lt. Col. Walter H. V. Mathews confirmed today in nearby Prince Rupert, B.C., that 40 were rescued from the tunnel. He said at least 20 men were missing, maybe still trapped in the tunnel or somewhere under tons of debris. The men were rescued by fellow miners using shovels because their power tools were buried, said Mathews who heads an evacuation center at this Canadian port 150 miles south of the camp.

py Martin, and Vincent (Hank) Hawkins." New York police said Thursday night that Perry Lindsay, 38, of the Bronx, was arrested on Oct. 23, 1964, and charged with homicide in the shooting three days earlier of Arthur Powers, 36, described as a small-time hoodlum. Police said Lindsay was indicted on a charge of first-degree murder and is in jail awaiting trial. There was a difference in spelling by Powell and police. Wanted notices have been issued for the arrest of Martin and Hawkins, police said. Powell's speech hit at "political and underworld-controlled judges," and called the police in Harlem "the dregs of the force." "What I am bucking here is the entire underworld," he said.

Deaths' Cause Probe Persists

ODESSA (AP)—Police said today that tests disclosed that neither Mrs. Kay Raschke, 26, nor her two children were poisoned from candy or a soft drink, remnants of which were found with the bodies in the barmaid's home.

Officers said, however, that the possibility of cyanide poisoning still existed. There also was a chance the three might have died of asphyxiation.

The bodies of the woman and her two children by a former marriage were discovered Wednesday night. The children were Michael Moore, 2, and Christine Moore, 3.

Their brother, Butch Moore Jr., 5, still was in a critical condition at a hospital. Mrs. Raschke's husband, from whom she was estranged, was here for the funerals later in the day. He is Floyd Raschke of Ft. Stockton. After services here, the bodies will be taken to Stamford for burial.

Sued Solon Still Cries, 'Corruption'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., whose last drive against what he calls police corruption in Harlem led to $262,000 in damages against him, is launching another one.

"I'm going to start again," he told the House Thursday, "and name the places of the numbers racket drops and dope drops in Harlem." The payoff to police is $1,000 per month per drop, he said. He tossed into his speech the names of three men he said killed a Harlem gambler, Arthur Power, last Oct. 20 in a case the police still list as unsolved.

"They have been sheltered by the police," the Negro congressman said, "and I have gotten their names from the files of the police department. They are Terry Lindsay, Charles (Skip-

New Military Revolt Flares Up In Saigon

Racial Melee Leaves Nine Persons Hurt

MARION, Ala. (AP)—Scores of Negroes streamed into church today for a clapping, foot-stomping rally they said would be a prelude to a major demonstration against the bloody violence here several hours earlier.

MARION, Ala. (AP)—New demonstrations were planned today in a right-to-vote campaign. One Negro was shot and eight other persons, including three newsmen, were beaten in a bloody flareup of racial violence Thursday night.

The clash between Negroes and state troopers followed efforts of demonstrators to organize a night march protesting the arrest of one of their leaders in the current voter registration drive.

TOWN OF 4,000 Marion, the seat of Perry County, is a town of about 4,000 population in rural west-central Alabama. It is the home town of Coretta King, wife of the integration leader, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The night march started quietly at the Zion Methodist church on one corner of the town square. Nearly 500 demonstrators left the church and headed for the jail.

The melee occurred after the demonstrators moved back toward the church when police told the crowd to disperse. HAPPENED FAST Mayor R. L. Pegues said today: "Actually, very little went on, and what did go on was by the church. It all happened in a very short time—about three minutes."

The mayor said he was sorry that newsmen were injured. He blamed "outside leadership from Selma" for the incident. Selma, about 25 miles to the east in adjoining Dallas County, also has been the scene of racial disturbances between police and voter registration applicants.

"They were determined to take over the town," Pegues continued. "They wanted a night march, and of course we can't have that. Quite frankly, it wasn't much of a battle." ASSAILANT UNKNOWN Pegues said he did not know who shot the Negro, Jimmie Lee Jackson, 26, in critical condition. At Gadsden, Ala., Gov. George C. Wallace's press secretary, William Jones, said that his information was that Jackson had hit a state trooper with a bottle.

One of the group of demonstrators gave his version of the episode.

Negro Youth Violence Stays

NEW YORK (AP)—Negro youngsters marched again today in the Brooklyn section where a brick-throwing, window-smashing mob ran wild on two successive days.

Some 50 to 75 school age children showed up outside the Board of Education building, focal point of demonstrations growing out of a school boycott protesting alleged segregation. A large police detachment was on hand when the group started marching along a sidewalk across the street, chanting "Bluecoats must go! Ole! Ole!"

Two mounted patrolmen rode their horses onto the sidewalk and split the marchers into two groups—acting, police said, on the presumption that the students weren't pickets but a mob. A young man leading one group began arguing and was hauled into a patrol car. A girl with him reacted by screaming and yelling and she, too, was thrust into the car, which left the scene.

Today the area around the building resembled an armed camp, with scores of policemen and police vehicles patrolling the vicinity. Wooden barricades were placed around the building.

First Steps Taken For Child Welfare Department

The first step toward establishing a department of child welfare in Howard County was taken Thursday afternoon when about 60 representatives of organizations, chamber of commerce committee members, Howard County officials, school board members and city officials heard an explanation of how such departments work. The meeting was called by Charles Weeg, chairman of the public health and safety committee of the chamber.

John Robinson, of the Lubbock Division of the State Department of Child Welfare, and Mrs. Thelma Barker, of the Ector County Department, explained details of setting up a department, its operation and function.

Robinson said the primary purpose of a child welfare department was to take the responsibility for care where parents are not able to provide for their children, including placing children away from their own homes.

The speaker said the welfare department cooperates with law enforcement agencies, district court, juvenile officer and schools, to determine the best procedure in handling child problems.

Foster homes are found in some instances, until problems of the parental home are resolved, but permanent adoptions may be requested in serious cases.

In answering questions about age limitations, Robinson said the department did not work with children over 16 years of age, and did not step in where children were in contact, or trouble, with the law if over 10 years of age. Children of unwed mothers of any age are handled where requested.

"There are few people with child problems who do not ask for or want help," the speaker said, "but occasionally parents become belligerent. Interest and sympathy for neglected children are needed, he said. The child is never moved from the home except for home breakdowns. When problems are worked out or solved we often return children to their homes."

Both Robinson and Mrs. Barker said many calls came to the department workers from neighbors or friends who were acquainted with problems, but that some parents asked for help. A child welfare department may be set up on a cooperative basis, with the county and city sharing 50 per cent of the cost with the state; with county or city providing the local costs; or with an all-local organization such as Midland and Ector counties operate. If the department is operated on a cooperative basis, the state-administered funds, made available by the federal government, must be matched by local agencies, and the worker is chosen by the state, Robinson said. If operated on a local basis, the worker is employed by and is responsible to local agencies. The estimated cost, locally, if Howard County chooses to set up a department, would be $5,000 per year, plus the cost of office space, or double that amount if administered wholly by local agencies. Lige Fox, supervisor of the Big Spring-Howard County health unit, said the new rehabilitation center and health office being built on Lancaster Street between West Third and Second Streets, would have office space for a child welfare department.

Robinson said lodging, medical and hospital care for children in foster homes would also have to be paid. No action was taken at the meeting Thursday, but chairman Weeg said recommendations would be made at a future meeting of the committee. One of the questions, he said, would be how the financing would be handled if a department is established. Howard County budget for the year has already been approved. The budget for the City of Big Spring is now being drawn. The question of how much each commission would be able to provide would depend upon revenue from taxes and services, and also on whether the child welfare department is administered locally, or if another county joins.

Representatives of clubs and organizations are expected to explain the plan at their meetings.

War Orphan

Gunfire shattered her sleep, mortar blasts took the lives of her parents, then the clatter of tanks drove the Viet Cong away from Phu My. Viet's Envoy Backs Rebels

WASHINGTON (AP)—South Viet Nam's ambassador to the United States, Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Kiem, announced his full support for the military revolt against Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

He said in an interview today that if the present coup succeeds he will return to Saigon at the invitation of the coup leaders to give whatever help he can in returning his country to stability. Kiem, who arrived here Nov. 22 as ambassador, assailed Khanh as a "dictator who created disorder in order to stay in power."

He said he had received a message from Col. Pham Ngoc Thao asking that "I get back to Saigon as soon as possible." A new government named by Khanh had been installed in office on Tuesday. Dr. Phan Huy Quat is premier and Phan Khac Suu was retained as figurehead chief of state. The coup took the U.S. Embassy in Saigon by surprise. U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor said his first hint of the coup was the activity on the waterfront, which he noticed as was on his way back to his office from lunch.

between labor and management creates a climate that is not conducive to resolving anything." Reynolds said he would continue to meet with the deadlocked parties, possibly through the weekend. The shipper proposal included a 38-cent hourly pay raise over the four years and 42 additional cents in fringe benefits over the same period. At the same time, shippers insisted they must control the size of work gangs and hiring practices.

Tanks Move In; Catholic Leads Coup

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Military forces headed by a Roman Catholic officer revolted today against Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh's leadership and, without firing a shot, seized strategic centers of Saigon.

But an attempt seemed under way to nullify the coup, the eighth major upheaval in South Viet Nam's politico-military affairs in the last 16 months. The situation was tense. U.S. diplomats launched consultations, evidently aimed at avoiding bloodshed.

WARPLANES CIRCLE Warplanes circled above the rebel-held Saigon radio station and tanks were drawn up outside it. Loudspeakers warned civilians to clear the area.

The rebel chieftain, Col. Pham Ngoc Thao, 42, said the commander of South Viet Nam's U.S.-backed armed forces was under house arrest, along with Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, head of the air force. Ky put down a similar uprising against Khanh last Sept. 13.

Conflicting reports, however, said Ky was safe and still in control of many of his fighters at the Bien Hoa base outside Saigon and that Khanh was at one of two provincial cities, Bang Tau or Nha Trang.

Thao, 42, and most of the other coup leaders are Catholics, a minority in this largely Buddhist nation.

REACTION A violent Buddhist reaction was predicted to their bid for power, which came 72 hours after the installation of a new government in which that sect was well represented.

Thao is a former aide of Khanh who, in the late 1940s, served as both a line officer and information chief for Ho Chi Minh in the Communist fight that eventually drove the French from Indochina. He explained "I was never a Communist, but I believed deeply in the liberation of the country."

Thao accused Khanh of running a dictatorship. He said the strong man who has dominated South Vietnamese affairs for 13 months was interested only in money and power. "No government can work under Khanh pressure," he said.

SWINDLING ALLEGED Thao in a broadcast accused Khanh of swindling the military and the people. He said his action was directed against one man—Khanh—and no one else.

It was the eighth government upheaval in South Viet Nam since President Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown and slain Nov. 1, 1963. Khanh, commander of the armed forces, has been the country's strongman since Jan. 30, 1964.

There was great possibility of an attack by military units loyal to Khanh. Khanh had been expecting trouble. Nearly the entire armed forces strategic reserve, normally held in Saigon to reinforce any field units in trouble, had been deployed to the provinces where forces loyal to Khanh presumably were still in charge.

U.S. Official Lashes Union, Shippers In Docker Holdout

GALVESTON (AP)—A government official seeking to end a 40-day-old longshoremen's strike on the West Gulf Coast met with union and shipper officials again today after tongue-lashing both sides.

"There is a deep sickness in labor-management relations in the West Gulf district," James Reynolds, assistant secretary of labor, told newsmen after a joint session Thursday. He called the conference after an International Longshoremen's Association bargaining committee rejected a proposal from the West Gulf Maritime Industry aimed at ending the walkout.

The shippers offered an 80-cent pay package over four years, retroactive to Oct. 1, but it included several conditions the union refused to accept.

"Labor-management relations in the West Gulf Coast area are worse than anywhere else on the Atlantic and Gulf Coast," Reynolds said. "I told them so. I told both sides they must cure this sickness. The absence of any trust

Oil Import Cut Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest argument by pleaders for further curtailment of oil imports is that such a step would help alleviate the nation's balance of payments problem.

Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., new chairman of a House appropriations subcommittee, used the argument in a hearing at which Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon was testifying.

Steed contended a substantial contribution could be made toward reducing the balance of payments deficit by cutting oil imports and purchases of foreign oil by the military.

H. A. True Jr. of Casper, Wyo., president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, made a similar plea in a letter to President Johnson.

True said reductions in the outflow of U.S. funds for purchase of foreign oil offer a practical and promising means of easing the imbalance in U.S. international accounts.

The same argument was set forth by Rep. Omar Burleson, D-Tex., in a letter mailed to constituents. Burleson wrote: "We could reduce by almost one-half our deficit payments if we purchased only three-fourths of our oil needs from supplies produced in this country. Purchases in foreign countries mainly for military purposes now are approximately 600,000 barrels daily."

SEES ACCORD
Steed said after his subcommittee's closed hearing that Dillon appeared to agree with him but made no firm commitment. Steed previously had expressed the same views to administration and military officials.

The Oklahoman said a reasonable cutback in oil imports could not have an adverse impact on the countries from which the oil comes.

The discussion with Dillon gave Steed a feeling, he said, that "perhaps for the first time a promise of some action is very strong, both as to military purchases and total importation."

True said in his letter to Johnson that reduction of oil imports and foreign oil purchases would serve the interest of national security by "restoring the health" of the domestic oil industry.

District Has Slow Start

The Colorado River Municipal Water District got off to a slow start in January, but revenues managed to show a slight gain.

While cooler weather had some effect on municipal demands, blustery weather and some severe sandstorms had the greater hand in dulling consumption by 53,000,000 gallons. The three member cities were billed for only 383 million gallons as compared with 435 million in January of last year.

Revenues for the month amounted to $227,650, up slightly from $224,336 for January of 1964. Oil companies paid in $6,000 more than the year before, and the Perkins-Prothro Pipeline lease in Coke County brought in $1,918 which was new revenue.

Total operating expenses were $77,634 for January, compared with $78,261 for the same month a year ago. Of this difference, about $3,500 was in increased payments into the employe retirement fund. The $150,016 balance of revenues over expenditures was held for transfers to funds for debt service and other purposes.

Water billed to customers amounted to 791,394,000 gallons, down from 728,953,000 a year ago. All but 1,166,000 gallons, which was produced by city wells, came from Lake J. B. Thomas.

Winner Gives Post Oration

Larry Fourniquet, Big Spring high school winner of the American Legion Oratorical Contest, told the members that the right of franchise and the using of this right was one of the more sacred prerequisites of the Constitution.

He repeated his winning oration on the Constitution to the legion members at the Thursday night meeting. Other visitors were Jerry Parchman and Jimmy Brown, also participants in the program. Earlier the group, along with Kathy Seddon, last year's winner, had been entertained by T. A. Thigpen, local chairman of the program, and Roscoe Cone, who heads the district activity.

Also present was a committee from the Elk's Lodge, headed by Oliver Cofer and R. H. Snyder. Arrangements for the annual "8" ball tournament to begin Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at the legion home was completed. Both organizations are holding team places open and a 10 or 12 team match is expected. Second day of play will be the following Sunday at the Elk's Lodge.

Clarence Daves and Truett Thomas reported a successful sponsorship of the personal appearance of the Chuck Wagon Gang in a presentation at the city auditorium. For many years, the "For God and Country" committee of the legion has been instrumental in bringing in singing groups. Daves, a past commander and a past chaplain of the post, is being pushed for election as the district chaplain.

George Zachariah will head a committee consisting of many of the past commanders of the post to act for the legion in regard to disposition of the building owned by the legion on the Webb AFB property.

Attendance of the members and the public was urged by Cone at the 1 p.m. Division Oratorical contest to be held at the HCJC auditorium Saturday.

They will be among an expected 10,000 persons attending the lectureship.

'Young Texan' Selection Slated

DALLAS (AP) — There are 12 contenders for the title of "young Texan of the year." Presentation of the sixth annual Troy V. Post awards totaling $4,000 in college scholarships and the naming of the state's most outstanding young citizen will occur Feb. 27 at the annual young Texan of the year dinner in Austin.

It climaxes a statewide youth appreciation program co-sponsored by the Troy Post Foundation, conceived by the Dallas banker-insurance man, and more than 200 Optimist Clubs. Competing for the awards are Johnny Walker, 19, of Lubbock, a freshman at Texas Tech; Calvin Powitzky, 19, of Pasadena, a high school senior, John Keeling, 18, a Kilgore high school student; Kim Harris, 18, of Beaumont, a freshman at LSU; Ray Young Jr., 19, of Texas City, a freshman at Rice University; Barry Rountree, 18, of San Angelo, a University of Texas student; Andrew Sansom, 19, of Lake Jackson, a freshman at Austin College; Michael Whitmill, 20, a freshman at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Donald Gibbs, 19, a Texas Christian University freshman; and Frank Brinkman III, 18, a high school senior, all of Tyler; and Kirk Cameron, 19, a Texas Western student, and Gary Kempf, 19, a Texas A&M freshman, both of San Antonio.

'Loop' Tried By Stutterer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "If a person knows he is stuttering, well, I guess most people would say, 'Why doesn't he just slow down and stop doing it?'" Dr. Joseph G. Agnello, 32, director of Temple University's speech and hearing sciences laboratory, who posed the question, knows it isn't that simple, although he wishes it were.

think it's more than that. I think you've broken the loop." By "the loop" he means the theory that the stutterer's hearing of his own verbal stumble somehow sparks another stumble in a self-repeating cycle. Agnello plans to return the stutterer's own voice, instead of white noise, through earphones, but with a difference. Using a little electronic "gimmicking," he can change voice characteristics before they reach the ear, and observe their effect on speech.

Agnello is one of the estimated two million Americans afflicted with the not-so-funny handicap. Combining both personal experience and his rigorous professional training, Agnello has designed a novel experiment which he hopes will shed light on the causes of stuttering and perhaps contribute to its treatment.

Some preliminary testing has already been done with a delayed voice return, or "delayed sidetone." One question to be answered is the length of the unit involved in a "loop" response: It could be anything from the highest audible sound wave to a whole word or phrase.

In a way, the experiment dates back to a conversation in a neighbor's kitchen. Agnello was disturbed to find that his stuttering got worse when he sat near the kitchen table. His neighbor, a music teacher, touched the tabletop and noticed the sound-board of a musical instrument, to Agnello's voice.

"Most of the literature says it's the syllable," Agnello explains. "We feel the trouble may be in the transition from syllable to syllable. A delay of about two-tenths of a second causes the most trouble. That's about the duration of syllable, so they start overlapping," he adds. "They claim you just can't beat the system. It's bound to affect your speech in some way. It can even induce artificial stuttering in a normal person."

This odd observation, plus more technical considerations, started Agnello wondering: Could stuttering be linked with the way a person hears his own voice?

During the next year, aided by the university and a $3,600 grant from the National Institute of Mental Health, Agnello and his associates, assistant director Dr. Henry Goehel and research assistant Miss Hazel Coblenz, will run delayed "sidetone" and other tests on half a dozen stuttering subjects. He says:

"They've said it's a distraction," says Agnello. "But I

"We're not so naive as to think we just stick a person in a machine and cure him. I'm saying it is highly possible to build a system to break that loop to serve as a reconditioner and aid in therapy."

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN (to 1440; by The Chicago Tribune) East-West vulnerable, East deals.

NORTH 87643 10 44 Q10972 WEST EAST AKQ AKJ9 J1098 AKJ8 654 SOUTH AJ952 AKJ9 J1098 None

The powerhouse dealt to West provided little cheer to those players who held this hand when it came up in a recent tournament. Altho he had half of the deck — 20 high card points — not a single person in the West seat emerged with a plus score on the deal.

The best East-West result occurred at the table where the bidding proceeded as indicated in the diagram. East passed as dealer and South opened with one spade. West doubled and North jumped to three spades. This call was a preemptive measure designed to make it difficult for the vulnerable opponents to get together. Holding five trumps and such attractive distribution, we would not consider it unduly bold for North to go the limit and bid four spades.

South had enough in reserve to bid game himself, and West decided that the time had come for a realistic appraisal of the situation. It was obvious from the aggressive bidding of his opponents that they had the outstanding high card strength and a very fine fit, so that a penalty double of four spades was not an attractive prospect. To persist, however, might lead to disaster. East was marked with little or nothing and, if West undertook to fulfill an 11 trick contract, the loss might far exceed the value of the opponents' game.

West passed and his discretion paid a handsome reward, for South took 12 tricks with relative ease. North's four of diamonds was discarded on the king of hearts, and declarer subsequently ruffed out his losers in the red suits. West was held to a single trump trick for what proved to be a mild deficit on the deal of 480 points (180 for the trick score and 300 for a nonvulnerable game).

At several tables, West felt that he had been insulted when the opponents proceeded to four spades, and he registered his protest by making a penalty double. The bonus for the two extra tricks swelled North-South's profit to 790 points.

One West was subjected to the humiliation of having his opponents bid a small slam in spades, and his double proved equally futile, for there was no defense to upset the contract.

The most extreme disaster was suffered by those players who were unwilling to defend against four spades. Where West persisted to five clubs, North doubled, and West was held to five tricks for a stinging 1,700 point setback.

Dismal Period Ends For Actor

By BOB THOMAS AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sometimes a movie star's life is not quite as rosy as it seems from an exterior view. Case in point: George Peppard.

A year ago the capable young actor seemed to have the world in his grasp. He had been starred in "The Carpetbaggers," a film with obvious commercial potential, and his life and career was considered in a salutary shape.

The real situation? "I hadn't worked in six months, I was falling deeper into debt, my mother died, and I was undergoing a divorce."

Peppard can now view that dismal period with some perspective. He hadn't worked because MGM wouldn't allow him to, because he balked at reporting for a movie. "Operation Crossbow." He was also rankled by his contract, which was signed before he became a box-office star.

He held firm against the studio despite mounting debt. The outcome? "I ended up having to do three pictures, instead of six under the old deal," he said. "I made 'Operation Crossbow,' but MGM added performers like Trevor Howard, Johnny Mills, Richard Johnson, Lilli Palmer, as well as Sophia Loren to the cast."

Now he is able to cash in on his popularity. The cash is good: $350,000 per picture, plus a percentage. He is enjoying the first of such fees at Warner Brothers in "The Third Day," with the romance of his life, Elizabeth Ashley. After a 10-day vacation in Hawaii, he reports to southwest Africa for Joseph E. Levine's "The Sands of Kalahari," then returns to MGM for "Merrily We Roll Along."

And so, despite a heavy cold and a reaction to his tetanus shot for the African trip, the world looks better to George these days. The impetus to his career came from the resounding success of "How the West Was Won," in which he and Debbie Reynolds played the only continuing characters, and especially from "The Carpetbaggers." He shrugs off the critical knocks the film received.

Wirtz Under Fire For Curbs On Farm Labor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz came under fire in the Senate today for new rules tightening conditions under which labor can be imported to harvest U.S. farm crops.

Senators from Florida and California said more offshore or Mexican workers are needed to work crops. They protested Wirtz' refusal to admit these workers on the grounds that sufficient domestic labor is available.

A Devotional For The Day

I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly. (John 10:10)

PRAYER: Almighty Father, give us the courage and sincerity to follow with complete devotion the truth as Thou hast revealed it to us. May we be united in our ideals and our actions with Christ, the good Shepherd, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Proposal For A Curb

It is doubtful that Rep. Roy Arledge, Stamford, and 14 other co-sponsors will succeed this session of the legislature in getting a change in the House rules concerning the conference committee reports. If they succeed, however, in focusing attention on this procedure, perhaps a succeeding legislature will do something about the autocratic power a handful of men can do with.

When differing versions of a bill are passed by the Senate and the House, the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the House each appoint five of their members to a conference committee, which meets behind closed doors ostensibly to reconcile differences.

What emerges from these sessions frequently has little resemblance to what either house voted, and it is not uncommon for a complete rewrite — reflecting the views of a few — to be substituted. Whatever is produced goes back to the two houses on a take-it-or-leave-it basis. Most of these committees are created in the fading days of the session, so that legislators find they simply cannot read all the explanations or all the details of the conference report before voting. For example, once legislators learned after the end of the session that they had legalized horse racing by approving the general appropriations bill.

What Rep. Arledge proposes is that House rules be amended so that a section by section analysis of changes by the conference committee be furnished members, who also will be given ample time to study it unless they, by four-fifths majority vote decree to waive the time and explanation requirement.

Committed To Ideal Of Justice

There has been much discussion of late between lawyers and editors and among lawyers of free press vs. fair trial. Many lawyers appear to believe that if newspapers will just curb pre-trial news that the right of an accused to a fair trial will not be jeopardized.

Therefore there have been recommendations from bar associations for "codes" of conduct or for "guidelines" in reporting pre-trial incidents. The unhappy sum of these recommendations is "an open attempt to slip a bridle on the communications media," as Felix McKnight of the Dallas Times-Herald described it.

Few lawyers would presume to argue that they are more interested in the fair administration of justice than responsible editors are. Both share a responsibility to preserve constitutional guarantees. Claims of superior virtue have no place in the discussion.

Bar associations and the courts have the power, if they will exercise it, to prevent much prejudicial pre-trial publicity. Newspapers cannot be depended on to ignore a pre-trial statement made by a lawyer—either for the defense or the prosecution—on the issue of the guilt or innocence of an accused. This is news. It will be reported. The only practical way to avoid this type of publicity is for lawyers to remain silent.

On the question of statements made by police officers, the issue is by no means so clear. Perhaps it might be possible to pass a law forbidding police officers to discuss a case before trial. But there is a serious question whether such a law might be more dangerous in its ultimate consequences than current practice. In some cases suspicions of police excesses of authority can only be quieted by some of the facts in a case which led to the probable cause which resulted in an arrest. No editor or lawyer should want to draw an iron curtain here.

Legislation curbing freedom of the press is unlikely. The Supreme Court of the United States would almost certainly strike down such legislation in consonance with earlier opinions which broadly construe that constitutional right.

The alternative must be a form of compromise between responsible lawyers and responsible editors. Both are deeply committed to the ideal of justice for all and fair trial for every defendant. In a spirit of cooperation and self-discipline on the part of both, a free press and a fair trial are possible.

Holmes Alexander The Unloved Country

WASHINGTON—"You Americans," said a lofty Britisher to Sen. Peter Dominick (R., Colo.), who was in Britain during the Churchill funeral, "were most insistent that we liquidate our colonies precipitously. Now you are being forced to do the same with your colonies. Don't you find it amusing?"

The mordant amusement in this quip well defines the feeling of our ex-imperial allies in Britain, France and the Netherlands. It should also warn us that the conflict we are approaching in Asia will not, properly speaking, be World War III—for the simple reason that our European friends will "sit this one out."

FOR ONCE, it appears that the "entangling alliances," against which Washington and Jefferson both warned us, will not drag us into other people's wars. Rather, these entanglements will rope us off in a prize ring where we must slug it out alone with communism.

This isolation, imposed upon us and not of our choosing, makes our ordeal the more poignant, but not a whit less necessary and momentous. When Britain "stood alone" in the relatively brief period before Russia and then the U.S.A. entered the fight against the Axis, she was in solemn truth fighting the battles of Western Civilization. That now we are called upon to do the same on a protracted scale and for a protracted period is perhaps the debt we owe to destiny for having been so long the exemplar of capitalistic success and democratic idealism.

BUT THE LAWS of life are not only those of rough justice. They almost never fail to encompass the rough humor of irony. It seems to be the test of great nations, as well as great men, to live through periods of depressive loneliness as well as of mocking and ungrateful denigration.

THESE CRUELITIES we must bear, and we may even find it sardonically "amusing" to hear ourselves called "imperialists" both by the Communist enemy and our quondam allies. It's a funny sort of imperialism which finds our country in a financial crisis because we give and spend more abroad than we rake in from our nefarious exploitation. We have some strange "colonies" into which we pour billions of dollars in foreign aid and receive nothing in return. There couldn't have been any imperial power in history which did not have the ruthlessness to rub out a Castro, or one that asked no more for $2 million a day in a Viet Nam than that the inhabitants become independent and prosperous.

THE AMERICAN purpose is so vague, so altruistic and so permissive that a cynical old world finds it unbelievable and looks for hidden motives. Isn't America—policing the earth so that its idle rich can cavort in the foreign spas and night clubs and can buy up the curios and art treasures of older civilizations? Isn't American foreign policy a cover for crude merchants and industrialists who exploit their economic colonies? The questions might extract the intended answers if it could be over-looked that the President is entreating American tourists to stay home, imploring American businessmen to make their investments here, and asking Congress to penalize both foreign travel and foreign investment.

THERE SEEMS little we can do to win the good will which we deserve. It would help a little if we had leaders who could articulate the American policy in believable terms. And it would help still more if that policy itself had more inherent credibility.

But the lack of inspired leadership and of clarity of utterance does not excuse us from the task that destiny has made ours. If the American people and the nation should live for a thousand years, men may say that in this challenge the country rose even above its leadership and its inability to make its purposes understood.

James Marlow Reds May Know Wisdom Of Caution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's willingness to bomb bases in Communist North Viet Nam, risking war with Russia and Red China, seems based on the assumption neither of the two Red giants wants to go to war.

The reason is human enough. The Russians, better than the Chinese, know the danger once a nuclear war starts: The Communist empire built up over the past 48 years might be lost.

And the Chinese, still many years behind the United States and Russia in industrial and nuclear development, know the fatal disadvantage in an all-out war with a country like this, which has nuclear bombs.

Besides, like the Russians, the Chinese have a lifetime effort at stake. They've come a long way since their bedraggled days in the 1920s. One wild mistake now could wipe out all their gains.

Johnson, who this month ordered three bomber strikes on North Viet Nam while Russia and Red China howled, said: "We must all understand that we will persist in the defense of freedom and our continuing actions will be those which are justified and those that are made necessary by the continuing aggression of others."

And he described the American determination to stay in South Viet Nam as the key to stopping Red expansion not only in Asia but in other developing nations.

He balanced his optimism about the present mood of the Red Chinese against the thought that in time they may have a nuclear missile system. "This is a most disturbing long-range prospect," he said.

That's why any extension of the war to North Viet Nam is still hair-raising.

Hal Boyle Lowdown On Rock Hudson

NEW YORK (AP) — Rock Hudson sees a similarity between making movies and laboring in a mine.

"I like not working," said the big film star.

Next week he starts his 59th picture since 1948.

"I dread it — having to go down into the mines for 10 weeks," he remarked.

"A sound stage is really quite a bit like a mine. It's dark and it has no windows. I never see daylight — and turn the nicest greenish-white."

But Hudson doesn't dig coal in his mine. He brings up pure gold.

A BIG, shy, near-sighted kid from Winnetka, Ill., he sang in a high school glee club and church choir before going to Hollywood. He served in the Navy. He worked as a truck driver, piano mover, and mail carrier.

His first screen test in 1947 was so poor that one studio for a time showed it to other beginners as an example of poor acting.

BUT HIS rhinestone youth has long since turned into a diamond brilliance.

He touches the industry where its heart is — the boxoffice cashbox. Now, feeling a bit camera weary, he'd like to try Broadway.

"I'm looking for a good musical role," he said. "I've been taking singing lessons for a year."

At 29, this 200-pound, 6-foot-4 inch actor probably is the man most U.S. women would rather be cast up on a desert isle with.

What kind of a person is he?

"WELL," he said, enjoying the question, "I like coffee, nice people, old clothes, old cars, new cars, leftover foods, skin diving, sailing, skiing, water skiing, hockey, wood paneling, hand-rubbed wooden antiques, old silver, paintings, sculpture, the feel of marble, candlelight, Technicolor films, harmony in song, heat waves, electric fans, desserts, mashed potatoes and gravy, Scotch."

"And I like clean sheets, good service, moonlight, fireplaces, traveling, yodeling, reading fantasy tales, biographies, reference books — do-it-yourself books, making tape recordings of good music, playing the piano — but just for myself — remodeling houses, opera, limericks, the month of July, excitement in my life, kitchens, and Julie Andrews."

To Your Good Health Beware Of The Itinerant Medicine Man

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain hemorrhoids and piles. The door-to-door salesman who sold me a patent medicine said that since I had no pain I must have piles. I have no indication of prostate trouble. I am quite an old man, but very stout.—H.C.

My friend, somebody has been deceiving you—and you aren't alone. There are but few among us, if any, who haven't been deceived a good many times in our lives. I've been fooled, and sometimes it cost me money, and sometimes it hurt my feelings, and sometimes it bruised my pride. It happens to all of us.

Your mention of prostate trouble makes me think that the person who sold you the medicine for piles gave you some fancy talk that doesn't mean anything.

Prostate trouble involves a muscular gland which has (among other duties) something to do with passing urine. Piles (hemorrhoids) is another name for the same thing) involve the rectum. They are more or less in the same territory in the body. But otherwise they have nothing in common.

I'm sure that the medicine vendor would have told you that if you DID have pain it must be piles. All he wanted was to sell you his product.

Hemorrhoids, or piles, is a more or less common trouble. There are some rather sizable veins close in the rectum. For various reasons, these veins can become chronically swollen. Sometimes they cause itching. Sometimes they are painful. Sometimes they break open and bleed, especially after a difficult movement.

Whether you do hurt or don't hurt is not the main question. Some do and some don't.

But the really important question is this: What is troubling you? Is it piles? Or is it something else? Rather than spend any more money on patent medicine, have a doctor see what is wrong, if anything, and tell you what to do about it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard there is a medication which will dissolve gall stones, but my doctor says there is no such thing. He recommends surgery. I have had X-rays which show stones about the size of a nickel, and also have had two recent attacks which required pain-killing drugs.—MRS. R. D.

Your physician is entirely right. There is no way to dissolve gall stones. After two attacks, you should seriously consider surgery.

Shingles can be a painful disease. To receive a copy of my booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim In Defense Of The Weather

This week marked about the first time this winter that Big Springers have been subjected to wintry weather, certainly with the first snowfall. Doubtless we all complain a lot about the weather being too dry, too dusty, too hot or too cold, or simply disagreeable to what we want at the moment we complain. And of course, sparse moisture can leave West Texas awfully bone-dry at times.

BUT THEN THERE'S much we should realize in favor of West Texas' particular brand of weather. After all, we don't have to look at gray skies and snow on the ground for weeks at a time, or face a monotonous month-on-month repetition of cold winter weather with icy winds and temperatures continually in the 20's and below. After having been stationed in northeastern Kansas for two years during military service, I for one am thankful that during January, February and March the weather here doesn't offer only day after day of cold, snow, chilling winds and more snow.

NOR DO WE West Texans have to face the hurricanes which occasionally cause whole areas of coastal states such as Louisiana to move inland. Tornadoes off and on skip across

West Texas, sometimes leaving some severe damage, but these hardly compare to a hurricane. Then dust storms sometimes plague us, but even so these are not the problem they were back in the dust bowl days. We could use a great deal more rain and without question this country would look much better for it. But still we can consider ourselves fortunate weather-wise in many ways, particularly for our milder winters.

NOW A NATIVE New Englander who reads this would come back with remarks that there's nothing like a good, cold winter with hillsides covered with snow. But this is great, I say, for roasting marshmallows in front of a fireplace, but not for months on end. The Californian would say he misses the fog of San Francisco or the year-round sunshine of San Bernardino; the Colorado native misses the clear mountain air; and the Mississippi his coastal breezes. Which all goes to say what weather satisfies one of us, dissatisfies another — and back to the remark that the weather to most of us is usually good or bad as to whether it interferes with what we want to do at the moment. Anyway, I'll defend this West Texas weather, rain or no rain.

Richard Starnes Free Enterprise In The Welfare State

SVANGSTA, Sweden — The welfare state, of which Sweden is the world's foremost example, may be very well for poor and n'er-do-wells, but what does it do to the go-getter, the man who in America would build a factory with his bare hands and make a fortune?

Well, in Sweden what happens is that the go-getter builds a factory with his bare hands and makes a fortune, and here in Svangsta (a delightful country town near the Baltic coast) is a splendid example.

HE IS GOTE Borgstrom, 61, big and handsome (like most Swedes), his tan from a recent vacation in the Canary Islands set off by a halo of snow-white hair. If Horatio Alger sought out a typical success story in this country he would very likely end up with Gote, who is president of A. B. Urfabriken (called ABU), which is Europe's biggest manufacturer of fishing tackle.

ABU employs 600 full-time workers, does a $6 million business a year, has a $2 million payroll. Like many a free enterprise success, ABU's prosperity came only after much hard work, plus an inspiration that turned an economic disaster into a gold mine.

duties will make it impossible to keep ABU as a family-owned enterprise as it is now.

"WE WILL JUST have to go public (i.e., sell ABU shares on the open market)," Lennart Borgstrom said. "We will be able to keep control of the firm for another generation, but after that . . ." he shrugs expressively.

Here, of course, are the classical ingredients for an interview with a Swedish rugged individualist lamenting that welfare state taxes are confiscating an enterprise that he created out of his own nerve and talent, and at the risk of everything he owned in the world.

WHAT YOU GET is something far different, and something characteristically Swedish.

Both Borgstroms believe that social welfare is a legitimate function of government. Like most Swedish conservatives they object to their country's widespread social benefits only in detail and method. The inflationary pressure of unfettered consumer spending worries them.

FOR A MAN who is being plucked like a chicken by the tax collector, Gote Borgstrom regards Sweden's expensive experiments in paternalism with incredible equanimity. Ask him if it would be possible in Sweden today to create the thriving business he founded two decades ago, and his answer will surprise you.

"It might even be easier," he says. "The government does a great deal to encourage new industry — in many provinces they will even build a factory for you."

THE COMPANY was founded in 1921, by Gote Borgstrom and his father. With three employees they assembled watches in a wooden shed that is now hidden in the shadow of the modern ABU plant. In 20 years there were 31 on the payroll, and ABU was manufacturing taxi meters instead of watches. Then the disaster. War came, and the market for taxi meters vanished overnight.

WHAT THE elder Borgstrom did try was fishing tackle. He is an ardent lifelong fisherman (for lunch he had salmon he caught from the Morrum River that swirls swiftly behind his house), and ABU quickly turned out a few handmade reels. Since that time the firm's principal problem has been to keep pace with demand; ABU reels are expensive, but beautifully made. Fishermen, being a species of lunatic, will pay any sum for good tackle.

BUT IT WOULD be misleading to suggest that the founder of ABU has no quarrel with his government. "There is nothing left in it for me but the sport," he says without bitterness. "The government takes it all, anyway. But we are the older generation, we've had our time. I'm afraid the younger generation won't have any feeling for our traditions; if taxes go any higher they'll just say to hell with it."

"THE GOVERNMENT in the future will have to be more favorable to free enterprise. Free enterprise is always willing to take risks, and risks are what create progress. Risks will be greater still. We will need to be careful that free enterprise doesn't move out of the country. If I were Minister of Finance, I'd insist that firms that stay wholly within the country be given tax concessions."

Gote Borgstrom, rugged individualist with a social conscience, has accepted the price of the welfare state with good grace, if not with resounding cheers. But he — and perhaps many other thoughtful Swedes — believe it cannot go a great deal further without threatening the very system upon which Sweden's booming prosperity and welfare statism are founded.

(Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Thus if the elder Borgstrom socks $1,000 in a savings account at five per cent interest, this is what will happen at the end of the year: He will earn $50 interest, which is taxed at 80 per cent as income, leaving him $10 interest, or a total of $1,010 in the bank. But then comes the two per cent capital tax, which takes $20 of his $1,010, which means he has $990 left, and it has cost him $10 to keep his $1,000 banked at five per cent. Worse, however, is the gloomy certainty that when he dies death

Billy Graham

What do you think was the "thorn" in Paul's flesh, as mentioned in II Corinthians 12:7? I have pondered on this for a long time, but I still don't know what it was. S. E.

If you read the context, you will notice that Paul said it was a messenger of Satan, permitted by God to keep him humble. He prayed that God would remove it, but God said no. "My grace is sufficient for thee, for my strength is made perfect in weakness." Therefore, Paul said, "Most gladly, therefore, will I rather glory in my affliction, that the power of Christ may rest upon me." There are thousands of Christians that have thorns in the flesh that God allows, that God has permitted in order to keep us humble before Him. It is out of this very weakness that many times spiritual strength comes. As to exactly what Paul's thorn was, the Bible does not state.

The Greek word for thorn would appear to indicate that it is far too indefinite to enable us to decide with accuracy either the nature or location of the Apostle's infirmity.

WOODSTOCK, Ill. (AP) — Several motorists in the area just below the Wisconsin line say deer are plaguing their safety on the highways.

Sticks Out In Any Crowd

For promenade down the avenue, beating angrily on closed doors, subduing muggers, winning space on a jammed dance floor — the season's hit accessory, the fashion stick.

Time To Walk Softly And Carry Big Stick

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — They're absurd, expensive and — unless you're trying to maul a mugger — useless.

Even the man who dreamed them up breaks out in helpless laughter when he talks about them.

Naturally, then, the inexplicable world of fashion has taken them to its capacious bosom: Fashion sticks are well on their way to being the most chic accessories to make the summer scene.

"They'll be the Hula hoop of fashion," a Fifth Avenue store buyer says enthusiastically, as shop windows up and down the avenue sprout sticks.

LUNACY

The sticks are nothing but the old-fashioned cane—in bamboo or covered in fantastic fabrics, suedes, animal or reptile skins. They start at a rock bottom $35 and the alligator number with sterling silver handles, not out yet, will bring at least $200-$300.

"Sheer lunacy," chortles Thor Arngren, their originator.

Arngren, an actor and producer with a puckish imagination, says he got the idea at the beach one summer. He and his wife, actress Norma MacMillan, and their two children were intrigued by a gypsy-type girl who used to stalk the sands with a big walking stick. "It was far out, but at the same time very chic," recalls Arngren.

He got together with painter-muralist Bill Goldsmith who designed the sticks. An umbrella company saw the possibilities, and they were in business.

The buyers who crowd their showrooms these days convulse Arngren. "They say 'What do they do?' and I say, 'Nothing and they exclaim, 'Oh, marvelous.' I suppose if the sticks opened up and did things the buyers would go away."

BLASS LIKES
Bill Blass, award-winning designer, who showed the sticks with his summer collection, says: "They go well with my summer suits. They're very attractive. The young like them; they're no longer associated with the elderly and feeble."

He adds, with elegant restraint: "They have a certain cachet." They have a distinctive personality, all right. A polka dot walking stick, held with insouciance while dancing at a discotheque, will not be overlooked.

With the feminine look in vogue this year, it's possible the well-dressed woman will act ladylike, walk softly and carry a stick.

Attendance prizes were awarded to Mrs. Dolly Parker and Mrs. J. F. Boland.

The Gay Hill School will be the meeting place March 11 when the cafeteria staff there will be hostesses.

Note Tells Of Congo

A letter from the Congo was read by Mrs. Fred McGowan when the Philathea Sunday school class of First Methodist Church met Thursday evening in the Fellowship Hall. The message was from the mother of Carroll French, a Methodist missionary stationed in that area now.

The program continued with readings by Mrs. J. B. Apple. The articles were entitled "Rule of Three" and in a lighter vein, "The Day I Had My Medical Checkup."

Mrs. Apple presided for the business session which followed the 7 p.m. dinner.

Two teams, the Hatfields and McCoy's, have been formed for an attendance campaign. Group leaders, Mrs. C. R. Moad and Mrs. Hugh Duncan announced that they would be recruiting new members and encouraging old members to attend.

The invocation was by Mrs. Lina Fiewellen, and the devotion was given by Mrs. Jackie Bishop. The hymn, "Beautiful Garden of Prayer," was led by Mrs. E. C. Howard as Mrs. Bishop provided the piano accompaniment.

Hostesses were members of Mrs. Randall Polk's group. The dinner was attended by 36 members and two guests, Mrs. Verla Eck of Clarendon and Mrs. Laura Anderson of Gilmer.

The circle met in the home of Mrs. Floyd Pringle, 2713 Larry, where Mrs. Henry Salley gave the devotion and prayer on Christian service.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Saley, 1706 E. 15th, who furnished the worship center.

NEW ANDERSON STREET CHURCH OF CHRIST
Former Northside Church of Christ congregation now in William Green Addition

Church Of Christ Has A New Plant, New Name

The Northside Church of Christ will officially become the "Anderson Street Church of Christ" Sunday. The congregation will enter its new building on the corner of Green and Anderson streets north of the city in the William Green Addition.

The new building, constructed by Southwest Church Builders at a cost of more than $41,000, is located just off North Birdwell Lane. It is built on an "A" frame with an asbestos shingled roof, and has a brick-veneered educational building. The building is equipped with refrigerated air conditioning and is centrally heated. The nine classrooms, crib room, and auditorium provide facilities for 300 worshippers.

Bascom Church Furniture, of Keene, provided the auditorium furnishings. The 15-foot pews are covered on the seat and back with red nylon upholstery. The ends of the pews are made of limed oak. This is possibly the only church in this area with pews of this style.

The congregation will go into its new building with about 112 active members. A weekly budget of approximately $300 has been set.

"The church has long desired to move to a more accessible location," David Tarbet, minister, said. "Its dream is at last coming true. Although the congregation does not, at present, have elders to oversee its work, the men have worked together throughout the building program—in unity and with vision. The result is an attractive and adequate new church building constructed in an expanding and restricted residential area, with a united membership, and without the loss of a single one in the move.

"The Anderson Street Church of Christ takes a leaping step into the future as it supports not only its local preacher, but A. J. Eddy in Melbourne, Australia," the minister said. It is now considering the addition of a weekly television program to its agenda. Plans are being made for several families to go

Students Prepare For Evangelistic Campaign

Three young men from Howard County Junior College, and one from Coahoma High School, have begun preparation to do evangelistic work this summer in several western states. Charles Price, Monty Clendenin, Lathan Wood, and Donnie Anderson will devote their time to an all-summer Evangelistic Crusade into Western United States.

The Big Spring Baptist Association executive board endorsed these young men at a meeting held Monday night. The three HCJC men are active in Baptist Student Union work, and plan to begin evangelistic work as soon as summer vacation begins.

Several Christian businessmen from the area have already begun efforts to help the four get started. They want to hold revivals, Vacation Bible Schools, and other activities.

First Citations Given To YWA

The first citation certificates for members of the Young Women's Association have been presented at the First Baptist Church.

Receiving these Wednesday evening were Mary Frances Newton, Diana Brannon, Kay Eddy in Melbourne, Australia," the minister said. It is now considering the addition of a weekly television program to its agenda. Plans are being made for several families to go

Student Union Workers To Provide Services

The Rev. Don A. Reavis, Baptist Student Union director, will supply for the Rev. Clyde Campbell at the Hillcrest Baptist Church Sunday morning. Rev. Reavis is in charge of the Baptist Student Union work at Howard County Junior College, Odessa College, and San Angelo College. His home is in Odessa.

Rev. Reavis received the B.A. degree from East Texas Baptist College, Marshall, and the B.D. degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth. He served as pastor of two churches before entering student work.

The Baptist Student Union of HCJC will conduct the worship service Sunday night. Danny Greenwood will preside during the service, with Don Anderson, Monty Clendenin and Charles Price bringing their testimonies. Special music will be brought by the BSU students.

The BSU is an organization designed to strengthen the Baptist students on campus, and to reach the unenlisted students. The program is centered around missions, evangelism, study, worship and fellowship. The BSU meets weekly on the campus of HCJC, and its program is sponsored jointly by the Baptist General Convention of Texas and the Big Spring Baptist Association.

Renovation Completed

"Operation Renovation," a slogan recommended by John Burgess and adopted by the congregation of the First Christian Church six weeks ago, has been completed, the Rev. John Black, pastor, said Friday.

"The sanctuary, education plant, and fellowship hall have been completely redecorated," he said. "New tile has been placed on the foyer floor; new front doors were installed at the entrance to the sanctuary; fellowship hall, all classrooms, the prayer chapel, all halls, and the church parlor were painted. New and modern light fixtures were installed throughout the church, except in the sanctuary; new carpets were placed on all stairways; all furniture in the classrooms was painted, and new drapes are being made for the church parlor and fellowship hall. The exterior trim has also been repainted."

Rev. Black said the parking lot will be black-topped, and the air conditioning system will be completely overhauled.

TERMS NOT UNDERSTOOD

"Whom do men say that I, the son of man, am?" This was the question Jesus asked of His disciples, to teach them, shortly before the crucifixion.

Peter, the impetuous disciple, emphatically stated: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

The International Sunday school lesson for Feb. 21, with the text found in Matthew 16:13-26, points out that Jesus knew what was going to happen to Him.

The people were looking for an earthly ruler who could take them out of what they considered bondage, and place them in a happier state. Their interpretation of a messiah was from the human standpoint, and their ideas were far from a heavenly king.

What is a Seventh-day Adventist?

● He observes the Golden Rule . . .
"Whoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." (Matthew 7:12) is more than a motto to the Adventist. It is a way of life. He believes the doing of good applies to friends and enemies alike, for He is "kind unto the unthankful and to the evil." (Luke 6:35.)

● He believes in the brotherhood of man . . .
To the Seventh-day Adventist every man is a brother; a being created by the power of God. To help his fellowman toward a happier life, here and in the hereafter, is the Adventist's goal. Concern for the eternal welfare of his fellowman is a motivating force of the Adventist Church and its membership.

● He knows no barriers of race or creed . . .
Through health, educational, and ministerial programs he has helped his church reach out to millions of all races around the world. He supports a program that now involves 928 of the world's language groups. His church relationship with men of all nations is as close as brothers and sisters within a family. All men are welcome to worship and fellowship within his church.

New World For Son Of Brando

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — From the strife of one of Hollywood's stormier marriages to the tranquility of farm life in Illinois — This is the change of worlds awaiting the six-year-old son of Marlon Brando and Anna Kashfi, following a court ruling Thursday at the end of one of filmdom's longest custody battles. Miss Kashfi exploded at the decision which gave Brando temporary custody of Christian Devi on condition that he be raised by Brando's elder sister, Frances Loving, in Mundelein, Ill. Miss Kashfi stormed out of the courtroom, banging doors, and outside the courthouse told a newsman: "This baby is my whole life, I bore him. Where in the hell was Marlon Brando when the child was being brought up? And now a judge gives him to a woman I don't even know. Is this justice?" The actress, her eyes dark, said: "I am not through fighting. I will subpoena the judge and whole — damn court." Mrs. Loving testified at the five day trial. She's active in the P-TA and her husband has been president of the local Board of Education. He's an instructor at the Chicago Art Institute. SUGGESTED IT Brando not only agreed to the move but actually suggested it to Superior Court Judge Lawrence J. Rittenbrand. "I don't want my son to grow up in the unreal world that is Hollywood. I don't want him to have to live up to the sensationalized image of his father." The trial was punctuated by spicy testimony. Charges of unnamed nude bed partners were hurled by both sides.

Medicare Bill Discussed For Kiwanians Thursday

There are 2,900 individuals now living in Howard County who would, if they saw fit to claim it, be eligible for hospitalization if the proposed "Medicare bill" now before Congress, becomes law. Of the 500 or so, who are certain to be potential beneficiaries of the law if it is approved, were to claim hospitalization, where would they find hospital accommodations? Dr. George E. Peacock, speaking on his own and as spokesman for the medical association, told the Kiwanis Club that should the Medicare plan be approved, the county would be forced with providing scores of additional hospital rooms. He also criticized the proposed bill as making no provision for surgery or medical attention by doctors for patients to be cared for under its provisions. He said that persons who will be taxed ultimately as much as $600 a year for the supposed protection when they have reached the age of 65 years or older, will have no real assurance at all they will be afforded such protection. The plan is not an insurance program, he charged. Also speaking strongly against the proposed measure was Jack Orr, president of the Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce. He said that the Jaycees statewide and nationally are opposing enactment of Medicare and campaigning to defeat it. Dr. Peacock said that a recent Gallup poll showed 70 per cent of the public has no knowledge about the bill or what it proposed. He said he conducted his own poll in a local food store for a full day and found that 75 per cent of the men and women he asked for information about the Medicare plan knew nothing about it. He charged that much of the grave economic difficulty in which France finds itself stems from the expensive and constantly expanding medical services provided by governmental agencies for the public. Both speakers recommended that Kiwanians inform themselves on the bill and also acquaint themselves with the competitive measure "Eldercare" also before Congress. This bill, the speakers insisted, would serve much more efficiently and economically than Medicare. "Read all you can about Medicare," the speakers urged. "Write your congressman and your senators. Tell them how you feel about it. If you are for the plan — say so; if you are against it, let them know." Clyde Hollingsworth was program chairman for the day. Announcement was made that all details are completed for the 13th Annual Kiwanis Club pancake supper to be served from 5 to 8 p.m. Friday. All Kiwanians were asked to be on hand to help with the crowd. A petition, which asks that election be called to vote bonds for Howard County Junior College buildings, was circulated and signed by most of the members present. John Coffey, member of the HCJC board of trustees, presented the petition for the members' consideration.

Milch Given Variance Okay

The zoning board of adjustment approved variances to the city setback ordinance involving six property lines of two lots in Muir Heights Addition in a session Thursday. The lots are at 4100 and 4118 Bilger Street, at the intersection of Hearn Street. Requested by Al Milch, the variance would allow brick residences to be constructed at the lots within approximately five feet of the inside property lines, rather than the seven feet required by the ordinance. The request was made to allow larger square footage houses to be constructed on the two lots than would be possible without the variance, according to Tom Newton, building inspector. Newton said the houses would have the same front and side street setback as other houses in the area.

Webb Students To Help Hunt

Members of Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 66-C at Webb AFB will join Junior Chamber of Commerce members in preparation for the annual Rattlesnake Roundup March 5, 6 and 7. Capt. Dick Wilson, chairman for the JayCee activity, announced that the class had volunteered to assist with the project this year. Some 42 students will assist as guides, snake handlers, skippers, pit-men, gatekeepers and in registration. Several West Texans are included in the class. Wives of the Class 66-C members will also assist with the JayCee-ette concession stand operations. About 26 wives will participate.

Oscar Winner In Poor Shape

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Arriving from England last week, Oscar winner Patricia Neal looked radiantly well and spoke enthusiastically of the movie she was here to start. Today she lies in the intensive care unit at the UCLA Medical Center, in critical condition after two strokes and emergency brain surgery. Nearby were her husband, British mystery short-story writer Roald Dahl, and their three children, Tessa, 8; Theo, 5, and Ophelia, 8 months. The first stroke — another in a series of misfortunes that have dogged the 33-year-old star's career — occurred Wednesday night. A few hours earlier the tall, willowy blonde with the large, sultry eyes and velvet voice had done her first big scene in "Seven Women." She plays a woman doctor in the film, which John Ford is directing at MGM. Rushed to the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center, she suffered a second stroke and was taken to surgery. Late Thursday her surgeon, Dr. Charles Carton, issued a terse statement: "Mrs. Patricia Dahl was brought in last night with severe intracranial bleeding. Brain surgery was performed. Her condition remains critical." Miss Neal won her academy award as best actress last April for her performance as Paul Newman's stately housekeeper in "Hud." Friends said her ability to portray pathos and drama had been aided by real-life misfortunes — and the strength to withstand them. One was an ill-fated romance with the late Gary Cooper, with whom she fell in love after they co-starred in "The Fountainhead." The romance ended unhappily. Cooper remained married to his wife. ANOTHER TRAGEDY Another tragedy was the death of Olivia, eldest of her four children, from measles at the age of 7 in 1962. And 5-year-old Theo has been under doctors' care since he was 4 months old, when a taxi struck his baby buggy in New York. Much of the time since then he has been without sight. After the accident Miss Neal, her husband and children moved to a large farmhouse at Great Missenden, 40 miles northwest of London. A native of Packard, Ky., Miss Neal studied for two years at Northwestern University's School of Drama. In 1945 she went to New York with $60 and much determination and ambition. Critics hailed her first leading role — in "Another Part of the Forest," in 1946. It brought her the Antoinette Perry Award and the New York drama critics' best-actress award. A Warner Bros. film contract followed.

Federal Judge Orders Youth To Retain Lawyer

ABILENE — A Big Spring man, who has been indicted for failure to report for induction into the Army, was instructed Thursday by Federal Judge Leo Brewster to retain a lawyer by the May term of court in Abilene. Winston David Harper, 22, refuses to allow his father to hire an attorney for him and said he has no money to retain a lawyer on his own. The tall, bespectacled Harper said he has two years' college credit but has not worked for the past year, during which time he has lived at home in Big Spring. Although indicted for refusing to report to his draft board, Harper has not been arraigned, apparently because he has no attorney. Judge Brewster asked Harper if he thought it was fair to appoint him an attorney when he refuses to accept help from his father, yet admits he hasn't "hit a lick" of work in the past 12 months. Harper shrugged rather noncommittally and replied, "That's his profession (a lawyer's)." "To get right down to it, you just want your own way, don't you?" the judge asked. "Yes, I guess so," Harper said. Then Harper said he was moving out of his parents' home and intended to find a job. Judge Brewster advised him to use some of his future wages to employ an attorney. Harper and his father, a pilot for an oil company, appeared two weeks ago before the judge, who urged Harper to try to work out his differences of opinion with his father. In another Big Spring case, Webb AFB Airman Paul George Zaharis, 18, pleaded guilty to forging two federal checks worth $35.01 and $32.28. Zaharis was given an indeterminate sentence as a youth offender. The length of his sentence depends primarily on his future behavior. Federal authorities said Zaharis has been indicted on state forgery charges in Big Spring and Midland.

Baptist Choirs Slate Festivals

Two music festivals — one here and one in Colorado City — will afford young Baptist choirs an opportunity to perform this week. Primary and junior choirs in churches from Stanton to Sweetwater will be at the First Baptist Church Saturday at 9:30 a.m. Three judges from San Angelo will evaluate choir performances and offer constructive criticism to directors. Choirs do not compete for plaicings. Ten choirs are expected. Sunday, at 2:30 p.m. in the Oak Street Baptist Church at Colorado City, the youth choirs and soloists of churches from Stanton to Snyder and Sweetwater will also be judged.

Bar Opposes Amendment On Women Rights

AUSTIN (AP)—The president of the State Bar of Texas urged its 15,800 members Thursday to oppose an equal rights for women amendment to the State Constitution. "We love women, but unless we act positively and immediately, some of them will cause much confusion and endless litigation," said Joyce Cox of Houston. The controversial amendment currently is stalled in the Senate. Cox said proponents are acting in good faith but the amendment "will accomplish opposite, not the desired, results." He said it would confuse the validity and application of parts of the criminal code.

San Angelo Rams Topple Jayhawks

By HARDY PRICE

SAN ANGELO—The Western Junior College Conference basketball race is all tied up once again.

The Jayhawks of HCJC dropped a close one, 83-82, to San Angelo Thursday night to throw the conference race into a four-way tie. Taking a piece of first place along with the South Plains and Amarillo College.

With two games left for each club, the conference will have a co-champion this year. The Rams took the lead in the conference records, while South Plains and Amarillo have 9-4.

Monday the Hawks will meet Clarendon and then Thursday will meet Amarillo. San Angelo changed hands no less than 20 times, as each club battled to build up a lead. With 6:55 left in the first half the Hawks led by six big points, 39-23, only to lose it two minutes later.

The Hawks out shot the Rams from the field, hitting 34 field goals to 30 for the Rams. The free throw line made the difference. The Rams hit 23 out of 36 free throws to 14 out of 27 for the Hawks.

Fouls hurt the Hawks during the entire game. Kirt Papp, the first half hitting nine points, collected four fouls in the first 15 minutes of the game. Four Hawks fouled out during the game. Along with Papp went Keith Bond, Tom Carter and Keith McKeever.

A technical foul called during the latter part of the first half and charged to Bond hurt the Hawks in a big way. Bond reported to the time keeper to replace Charles Vass. He heard a horn and stepped into the game. A technical foul was called when the timekeeper reported the horn came from the stands and not him.

During the last half the Hawks continued to press the Rams. With 6:40 remaining the Rams held a 71-67 lead. The Hawks tied it up with 1:30 left, 79-79, on a lay-up by Nelson.

The Rams brought the ball down court and Gary Jellison hit a 15-foot jump shot with 1:35 remaining to make it 81-79. Nelson had a chance to tie it up on a 4-foot free throw, but missed his second shot.

Nelson was the leading scorer for the night with 30 points on 13 field goals and four free throws. He missed five free throws. Carter had 18 points and led the two clubs in rebounds with 13. Nelson brought down 12 rebounds.

High man for the Rams was Charles Morton with 20. Morton was the only Ram to foul out. Danny Sponholtz hit 17 for the Rams.

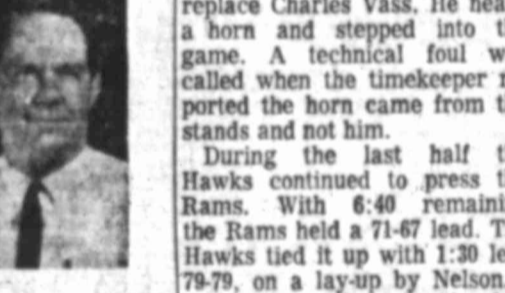

The Hawks beat the Rams on the backboards, taking 41 rebounds to 37 for the Rams. The Rams hit 30 out of 77 field goals for a 42 per cent total.

The foul line made the difference.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Truman Nix is planning to handle the Colorado City High School baseball team this spring, which opens a 14-game season March 12 in Big Spring.

He replaces Jet Walker, who moved on to Clarendon as head football coach after last season.

The Nelson ratings of the top 15 sports events on nationwide television must have caused a few double-takes among TV officials and sports people alike.

Baseball and football dominated the listings while such things as the Kentucky Derby and the Masters Golf Tournament failed to place.

No. One show was one of the World Series games. Perhaps Big Spring's busiest basketball official has been Pete Cook, who manages to keep busy about the year around as a sports arbiter.

Cook is very much in demand as a cage arbiter in District 3-AAAA, works his share of 2-AAAA games, has been a whistle-blower in one of Texas Tech's freshman games, will have toiled in three games involving Sul Ross by the season's end and is going to San Angelo Tuesday to work in a junior college contest.

Paul Richards, general manager of the Houston Astros, got a laugh at the baseball party in Houston recently when he recalled that he once was offered a $1,000 bonus or 300 shares of Coca-Cola stock after enjoying a successful season as manager of the Atlanta entry in the Southern Association a few years ago.

The Atlanta club then was owned by the Coca-Cola people. Richards took the $1,000 bonus. The last time I looked, Coca-Cola stock was selling at close to $150 a share and, of course, has been split several times since the offer was made to Paul.

Shed no tears for Paul's financial plight, however. He's being paid about $60,000 per annum to catch lightning in a bottle for the Astros.

Jim Swink, the former TCU All-American, is now a general surgeon in Tyler.

Joe Newbill faces a big rebuilding job in football at Midland Lee High School. No starters return from last year's 5-5 team and only two letter winners, center Rusty Stallings and quarterback Bob Nolen, were included among the 98 who turned out for spring workouts.

Will ABC-TV, which has been left out in the cold in its bidding for Sunday pro football games, dangle an offer in front of the new Continental league?

Without too much fanfare, the head coaching job at Breckenridge was filled recently by 28-year-old Wayne Bingham. Time was when the Breckenridge job ranked with the best in the state, although it never did pay as much money as some of the jobs at schools of comparable size.

Off-track betting in Great Britain is flourishing, with 637 more legalized bookmaking parlors than a year ago.

The legal betting shops now total 15,025, Wales and Scotland included.

Boxer Terry Downes was one of those who quit his profession in order to devote full time to several bookmaking shops in Iowa.

Two Titlists Still Active In Cage Play

By The Associated Press

Only two defending state champions remain in the field, one of those uncertainly, as the massive Texas schoolboy basketball campaign determines its 173 district champions in five divisions.

The schools have until April 20 to decide district titles but the bulk of them already are known. A number of bi-district games are scheduled next week.

Houston Austin, which won Class AAAA last year, was eliminated in the district race and was succeeded by Houston Jones.

Class AAA champion Graham leads its district race but must beat Brownwood Friday to clinch the title. If Brownwood wins they'll tie, necessitating a flip of a coin to see which enters the state playoffs.

Canyon, champion of Class AA last year and now in Class AAA, was knocked out in the district race.

Talco, defending king of Class A, failed inside the district. James Bowie replaced Talco in the playoffs.

McAdoo, Class B champion, won its district title and will enter the playoffs next week.

All except four districts have determined champions in Class AAAA — the El Paso district, Dist. 13 between Austin McCallum and Corsicana, Dist. 14 between Kingsville and Edinburg and Dist. 15 between San Antonio Highlands and San Antonio Lee.

Already decided are Midland Lee, Pampa, Fort Worth Halton, Fort Worth Arlington Heights, Dallas Jefferson, Highland Park, Marshall, Houston Jones, Houston Memorial, Beaumont French, Texas City and San Antonio Brackenridge.

Class AAA district champions decided are Seminole, Levelland, Mineral Wells, Sulphur Springs, Kilgore, Waxahachie, West Orange, Houston Furr, Clear Creek, San Marcos and San Antonio Marshall.

Class AA has Phillips, Childress, Friona, Denver City, Crane, Comanche, Lake Worth, Hooks, Gladewater, Mt. Vernon, Van, Rockdale, Luling, Katie, Rusk, Sour Lake Hardin-Jefferson, Yoakum, San Antonio Randolph, Devine, Premint and Ed-couch-Elsa.

In Class A they are Clarendon, Farwell, Petersburg, Seagraves, Aspermont, Eastland, Millsap, Middleton, Wylie, Whitesboro, James Bowie, Willis Point, West Sabine, Huntington, Fairfield, Lorena, Lexington, Schulenburg, East Chambers, Barbers Hill, Bloomington and Woodshoro.

Class B district champions reported are Darrontz, Chaning, Nazareth, Anton, Bledsoe, Shallowater, Meadow, Quittaque, Goree, McAdoo, Rochester, Eula, Carbon, Grafrod, Priddy, May, Blum, Jonesboro, Forrester, Covington, Megargel, Goldburg, Valley View, Krum, Rio Vista, Sadler, Community, Roton, Annona, Gober, Avinger, Waskom, Tenaha, Cartisle, Spring Hill, Centerville, Apple Springs, Deweyville, Spurger, Wells, Milano, Hutto, Bertram, Kyle, Snook, Friendswood, Rockspings, Miles, Brackettville, Gal, Austwell-Tivoli, United (Laredo), Talpa-Centennial, Robert Lee, McCauley, Pyote.

Valdez In Headline Golden Gloves Bout

By MIKE COCHRAN

FORT WORTH (AP) — Jesse Valdez of Houston opens defense of his state welterweight crown tonight in the feature fight of the Texas Golden Gloves Tournament.

The 17-year-old high school student, who captured the national AAU championship last year, goes against J. D. Sims, a 144-pounder from Brownwood.

A top middleweight contest matches Burton Gilliam of Dallas, the welter champ here in 1961, against Rusty Musser of Tyler.

The 29th amateur show got underway in Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum Thursday night before a crowd of 5,371.

Ronnie Wright of Brownwood contributed the lone upset of the first round, punching his way to a decision over defending middleweight champion Gene Meeks of Corpus Christi.

Fred Garcia of Plainview, a second national champ, fought an uphill but victorious flyweight battle with Skip Odem of Dallas.

Garcia, representing New Mexico when he won the national Golden Gloves crown in 1963, took a split decision that touched off a round of boos from the disapproving fans.

But the most cheer-provoking bout of the night came near the conclusion of the card in a sizzling power struggle between David Zygiewicz of Houston and Emitt Banks of Austin. The 182-pound Houston brawler battered Banks sufficiently to take the decision but absorbed a tremendous thrashing himself in the process.

Defending co-champion Houston and Austin jumped into an early lead in the team standings, picking up three triumphs each.

The individual champions of this four-night skirmish will move to Kansas City next month to defend Texas' national Golden Gloves title.

ASPERMONT—Seminole and Aspermont, both of which are marking time for the basketball playoffs, clashed in a practice game here Thursday night.

Seminole finished on the long end of a 56-46 decision, thanks to a 21-point effort by Teddy Welch.

James Ray had 18 and David Frazier 13 for Aspermont. The loss left Aspermont with a 26-4 record. Seminole is 23-4.

AT FLYING G RESORT Field Trial Is Set Saturday

By MIKE COCHRAN

Drawing for braces in Saturday's Permian Bird Dog and Sportsman's Club Winter "Shoot to Kill" Field trial will be held at the Settles Hotel at 8 o'clock this evening.

The field trial takes place on the Graves "Flying G" Hunting resort located near Vincent, 27 miles northeast of Big Spring.

Club members want to get as many dog owners involved in this trial as possible. Special invitations have gone out to those who have animals they consider not good enough to compete in sanctioned field trials.

Rules for this type of trial include: (1) Game bag is three birds to be killed over each dog, provided the dog finds and points the birds.

(2) All birds over three that are caught and killed, shot and killed or flushed and fly out of bird field by any dog that has already filled the bag limit will cost the owner or handler $1.25 each. This cost is in addition to the $3 membership fee and the $5 entry fee.

(3) The dog with the most points will win first place, of course. Two other prizes will be given.

Thirty points will be awarded for each productive point man by the dog. An additional 25 points goes to the animal backing or honoring another dog's point while 25 points go to the entry on each retrieve.

Registrations can be made through Lee Freeze by dialing AM 4-7077 after 5 p.m. Food will not be served on the grounds in this meet so spectators can stand advised to bring their own food.

Cisco Wranglers picked up a trio of victories last week and stand 24-1 for the season, with a mighty scoring average of 101.4 points per game.

The Wranglers moved up last week to the number-two rankings among national junior college teams. Defending national champion Dodge City was the only team to rate in front of Cisco.

Cisco all but clinched its conference title with a solid 107-67 victory over tough Ranger, which has a 16-8 season record. The Wranglers had a close shave in the Panola game. Playing away from home, the Wranglers took an 89-79 victory.

Preston Sherrad leads all scorers among Region V teams with a 22.6 average per game. Howard County's Eddy Nelson is second with a 21.5 average, but Harry Gunner, the 6-7 Cisco ace, has pushed his average to 20.6 points per game.

Clarendon's Don Campbell leads in rebounding with 14.7 per game, but Gunner has upped his average to 14.3 per game.

U.N. Assembly
In Recess
Until Sept. 1

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly ended one of the stormiest sessions in U.N. history Thursday night and recessed until Sept. 1 after the United States checkmated an Albanian move to force an East-West showdown.

Applause rang out as Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson announced that the United States would agree to a procedural ballot demanded by Albania and would not challenge the Soviet Union's right to vote.

Red China's U.N. spokesman, Halim Budo of Albania, boasted that he had strong support. But a 97-2 vote swamped his demand that the assembly organize for normal business. There were 13 abstentions, of which France was the only major power. Mauritania voted with Albania.

The assembly approved by acclamation an interim budget and the appointment of a multinational committee to study the problem of U.N. peace-keeping.

The assembly adjourned at 7:51 p.m. following a sharp exchange in the closing moments between Stevenson and Soviet Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko.

Criticizing Stevenson for announcing that he was withholding the U.S. challenge on voting rights, Fedorenko declared, "The United States cannot set itself up as an arbiter on whether this forum can vote or not."

Stevenson retorted that he had thought the Soviet Union wanted to avoid a showdown at this stage and demanded to know why Fedorenko did not voice his objections before the ballot.

Since Dec. 1 the assembly had been restricted to general policy debate by the refusal of the Soviet Union, France and other nations to pay peacekeeping assessments and the determination of the United States to demand that their votes in the assembly be taken away under Article 19 of the U.N. Charter.

DEAR ABBY
Faithfulness Is Still Here

DEAR ABBY: You surely have heard the expression, "Great minds run in the same channel." Well, after a recent incident I think it can be said that "faithful minds" also run in the same channel.

I read your column in the LAKE WALES (Fla.) HIGHLANDER and when I came across the letter from the serviceman signed "JERSEY," who wanted to know what a normal, healthy married man is supposed to do about his "physical needs" during long separations from his wife, I clipped it and sent it to my husband, who is serving with the U.S. Army in Saigon.

A few days later (too soon for him to have received the clipping), HE sent me the very same column which HE had torn out of the SAIGON DAILY NEWS, which also carries DEAR ABBY. I am sure that article will help us both to remain faithful though separated for a long time. Thank you for your wise reply.

LONELY BUT LOYAL
DEAR LONELY: And thank you for your kind letter. I would like to say here that I receive thousands of letters from servicemen and their wives. And today, while cycles eagerly point out that infidelity in modern marriage is on the rise, I am heartened by the obvious mutual trust and faithfulness between the serviceman and the wife he left behind.

DEAR ABBY: My 17-year-old daughter steps out of the bathtub leaving a dirty ring for the next person to clean out. There isn't a day that I don't find her clothes kicked under the bed. I almost have to force her to brush her teeth and wear shoes around the house. Her room is always a mess. If I punish her for these things she says she's embarrassed to tell her friends why she's being punished because it's ridiculous to be punished for such silly reasons. She claims her girl friends do the same things and get by with them. I have two other daughters and they are as neat as I am. All three girls were

Killed Three,
Ex-Con Says

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Gilbert Lutzenberger Jr., 31, an ex-convict once adjudged insane, told police Thursday he shot and killed a San Antonio couple and their son because of an argument with the woman.

He was arrested an hour after the triple shooting Wednesday night.

Bullets from a .30 caliber Army rifle killed Cornelio de la Cruz, 54, a civil service painter at Randolph Air Force Base; his wife, Frances, 48, and their son, Cornelio Jr., 21.

Mrs. de la Cruz operated a beer lounge. She, her husband and son had just alighted from a taxicab at their home when shots were fired from a parked car.

Lutzenberger told officers and newsmen he had known Mrs. de la Cruz a little more than four years and they argued last week.

He was sentenced to three years in prison in 1952 for theft. He was charged with burglary in 1954 but was adjudged insane and committed to Kusk State Hospital. He was released in 1956 after being pronounced sane.

trained in the same way in the same house. Why do I have so much trouble with this one? She is kind and good-natured, but, oh, so sloppy! Am I expecting too much of her? Where have I failed? WORN OUT

DEAR WORN OUT: If you honestly tried to teach your daughter cleanliness and tidiness and she refused to learn, it is SHE who failed, not you. There is no accounting for the difference in children and their reactions to "training." Keep after her. It just might sink in one of these days.

Viet's Khanh Cites
Red China Menace

QUI NHON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The West must solve the problem of Communist China or risk disaster, South Viet Nam's military strong man said here today.

"The big problem for all the great powers," Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh said, "remains Communist China. If you want to resolve these problems you must deal with China, and maybe that is as much true for the Russians as for you" — Americans.

SHATTERED AREA
Khanh toured shattered Binh Dinh Province, taking stock throughout the mountainous province. He was at the wheel of his own car much of the time, threading along dangerous back roads in areas where huge Viet Cong units are operating.

At various points along the way, Khanh repeated a pledge he made earlier in the week — that the war would be ended this year. He clearly meant that either the United States would

"In a sense, this is a boxing match in which Viet Nam is in the last round," he said. "You Americans have lost a lot as the result of the Chinese atomic bomb."

"PROFOUND EFFECT"
"That bomb represents progress to many people. It proves to Asians that science no longer is dominated by the West. This has a profound psychological effect on people."

"In the past, there has been a balance of power between Asia and the West. You have had the bombs and firepower but we have had vast numbers of people."

"But this Chinese bomb tips the balance in their favor, and sooner or later they will have many more bombs."

"You should never have let China fire that bomb."

Window Fund
Goal Exceeded

Contributions to the memorial window fund for Webb Air Force Base chapel have exceeded the goal, according to Lt. Col. Benjamin F. Meacham, base chaplain. A total of $3,030 was collected for the purpose of erecting a lasting tribute to those who have lost their lives while serving at Webb.

"On behalf of all those concerned, I would like to express appreciation to all of you who have made this possible," Col. Meacham said. "It is gratifying that the personnel of Webb have taken such a deep interest in the memorial window."

The stained window will be in the southeast corner in the chance of the chapel. Completion of the window is expected in the early spring, pending the final approval from headquarters.

The basic design, in color, was submitted by 2nd Lt. Lance C. Faust, student pilot in Class 66-D.

Texas Fugitives
Snared In Holdup

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—A whispered telephone warning to a sick bank teller snared two Texas fugitives taking $27,312 from a Bank of America branch.

Detective Sal Rosano identified the prisoners as Jerry Gillingham, 25, and James Daugherty, 21, who recently broke jail at Canton, Tex., by overpowering a sheriff and deputies. They were turned over to the FBI.

Two gunmen had just looted the bank vault when teller Joy Swanson called to report she was sick.

"Robbery, call police," whispered Mrs. Marianne Evans, who answered the telephone. Mrs. Swanson did.

POLICE WAITING
When the robbers left the bank at 8:45 a.m. with $27,312, they walked into the arms of waiting police.

FBI agents related these details:
Gillingham met teller Adele Coch with a pistol as she parked her car in the bank's lot at 8:20 a.m. They entered the bank, already unlocked by manager Fred Cravens.

Daugherty followed, carrying a sawed-off shotgun. They waited for the time locked vault to open and emptied it. As four tellers arrived the bandits forced each to open and empty their "cash cans."

WALK OUT
Miss Swanson didn't show up to open her cash container. The gunmen were trying to pry it open when she phoned. They gave up and walked out into the arms of police.

FBI agent Thomas Padden said he had no idea why the two let a teller answer the phone.

Padden said Gillingham identified himself as an ex-convict who had served a Texas prison term for a narcotics violation. Daugherty said he had no criminal record until his arrest for burglary investigation in Texas. The two escaped from the Van Zandt County jail Feb. 4.

Bail was fixed at $50,000 each and a preliminary hearing set for Feb. 25.
