Added Sea Power For Viet Mullied

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are mulling over whether to turn loose the powerful 7th Fleet to try and cut off the movement of boats, laden with arms and men, from Communist North Viet Nam to guerrilla-controlled points on South Viet Nam's coast.

The Pentagon also is in a mood to give the Far Eastern naval force added punch by increasing its present group of three aircraft carriers on station in the South China Sea area.

Both actions apparently will depend on recommendations from Adm. U.S. Grant Sharpe Jr., the top U.S. commander in the vast Pacific theater.

125 WARSHIPS

The 7th Fleet has 125 warships and 400 planes.

The U.S. Navy has not been intercepting Communist junks and cargo boats which have been hauling war equipment and men down the Vietnamese coast and landing them in guerrilla-held areas. And South Viet Nam's fleet of 156 armed junks has been unable to cope with the vessels that ply the coastal waters. Over 20,000 Communist junks operate in the South China Sea off North and South Viet Nam.

The State Department's white paper of Feb. 27 said a North Vietnamese "maritime infiltration group" is sending men and weapons southward in increasing volume.

A WARNING

The objective in gradually stepping up U.S. military activity has been to "signal" the Chinese that it had better desist before it is punished heavily by U.S. armed might.

However, reports indicate the Communists have not begun to alter their aggression in South Viet Nam.

If anything, they have increased the intensity of attacks in some areas of South Viet Nam, including the region around the U.S.-South Viet naval base at Da Nang.

ARMED SECURITY

It was the increased Red activity that led to the use of U.S. troops against the Communists inside South Viet Nam, and to the deployment of a Marine expeditionary force of 2,300 men to protect Da Nang.

The two Marine battalions just sent into South Viet Nam are intended only to furnish added security for Da Nang, not to undertake offensive operations against the Communists. Whether more U.S. ground combat units will be landed is not known.

President Holds Eye On Alabama

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson deplored today police brutality against Negroes in Selma, Ala., and called on Negro and white leaders there "to approach this tense situation with calmness, reasonableness and respect for law and order."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and the Justice Department gave no indication today on whether there would be federal intervention in Selma, Ala., to protect Negroes demonstrating for the right to vote.

This was the situation, at least, before a federal judge banned a massive march on Montgomery.

President Johnson was reported keeping closely in touch with the situation in which Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach had said the government has "a limited authority and a limited capacity to act."

DEMANDS COME

Calls for federal action came from members of Congress and leaders. Intervention also was demanded by a group of pro-civil-rights demonstrators who camped outside Katzenbach's office at the Justice Department late Monday. Police showed and dragged a score of them from the building when they refused to leave 24 hours after closing time.

Earlier Katzenbach had told the group of about 20 that he would not be influenced by their demonstrations.

"I have responsibilities to fulfill and decisions to make that will not be influenced one way or another by people who are not here to help me," he said.

CALL FOR TROOPS

Two civil rights leaders, Roy C. Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and James Farmer of the Congress of Racial Equality, called for federal troops or federal marshals to protect the demonstrators.

Wilkins warned in a telegram to President Johnson that "the terrible alternative" to federal troops might be some sort of Negro underground organization to fight back.

A prohibition that there would be no federal intervention and a call for increased pressure on the government came from one of about a dozen Negro leaders who conferred at midday Monday with Katzenbach and other Justice Department officials.

The Rev. Jefferson Rogers of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said Katzenbach had made no promise to send federal marshals to Selma.

"APPLY PRESSURE"

He added: "I frankly do not think the marshals will be sent. We've got to apply all the pressure we can on this man to make him understand the situation. I believe the attorney general is generally sympathetic to our problem, but sympathy just won't help."

Hearing Nears On Generous Texas Senate Spending Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee received today a generous 1966-67 spending bill which would use all but $24 million to available general revenue funds.

The committee set a hearing for Thursday morning at the request of Sen. Preston Sparks of Austin.

The bill earmarks $15 million more for general state spending from the general revenue fund than the House version and does not leave enough unspent funds to finance a teacher pay raise.

The bill calls for the spending of $3.65 billion from all funds, including $817 million from the general revenue fund. Present general revenue spending totals $466 million.

Record College Outlay Sought

The 1966-67 appropriations bill, which the subcommittee reported to the full Finance Committee today, also includes $481,400 for the new Coordinating Board, Texas college and university system. The House bill made no such provision.

Chill Lingers In U.S. Area

Another surge of cold air moved into the northern plains today and chilly weather lingered in much of the Southeast.

The nation's weather pattern showed only minor changes. Freezing temperatures extended to Northern Florida in the nearly week long cool spell in the Southeast. Readings were higher in Anchorage, Alaska, and in parts of New England than in Northern Florida. The 44 at Anchorage compared to 31 at Atlanta and 50 at Miami, Fla.

But the Weather Bureau said warm weather was on the way along the South Atlantic and Gulf Coasts. Mild weather continued in the Pacific Northwest and temperatures in the 60s again were forecast for today.

The cold air from Canada dropped the mercury to near zero in the northern plains and snow flurries fell throughout the upper Mississippi Valley. Dry weather was reported in most other sections of the nation, with cloudy skies in the Great Lakes region, parts of Montana and Wyoming and along the Pacific Coast.

In Birmingham, Ala., the Weather Bureau said there had been only 2 1/2 hours of sunshine since March 1.

The bill calls for a $687,000 wage for the new college coordinating board, which was created by the legislature after approval of the House budget.

The bill also calls for an appropriation of $140.2 million for state and special schools, including an $18 million initial and repair program which includes four new institutions and major expansion of two others.

WELFARE PROGRAMS

The bill includes several spending proposals not in the House version, including state funds for welfare programs contingent on congressional enactment of a welfare program and a salary raise for state judges.

Senator Says Wallace Heaps Shame On South

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., asserted Monday that Alabama Gov. George Wallace had brought shame on the South.

Yarborough, in a Senate speech decrying the rioting Sunday at Selma, Ala., asserted: "These Americans so brutally attacked sought only their constitutional right to vote. They did not resist arrest. While I do not condone lawlessness or defiance of law and order, I abhor the violent and brutal attack upon Americans who attempt only to march peacefully.

"George Wallace should pattern his conduct on that of real Southerners, like George Washington, George Mason, George Wythe, and Alabama's own Justice Hugo Black. Let him join great spirits like Thomas Jefferson and Robert E. Lee with a vision for the future. He needs to atone for the shame he has brought to Alabama, my beloved Southland, and the injury he has brought to the nation."

MINISTERS ARRIVE

Hundreds of ministers from throughout the nation were arriving to join the Negro march.

The first group of ministers arrived in Selma Monday night. Included among the 40 were Roman Catholic, Jewish and Protestant clergymen.

Bishop John Wesley Lord, the Methodist bishop from Washington, D.C., told about 900 Negroes that jammed Brown's Chapel A.M.E. Church he was "shocked, dismayed and very much upset that this could happen in America." This was a reference to police action in using tear gas and club blunts to break up the march Sunday.

Other States Watching One-Body Legislature

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The nation's only one-house legislature is receiving more attention than a debutante at a coming-out party these days, and Nebraska couldn't be happier.

The U.S. Supreme Court's historic "one-man, one-vote" ruling has prompted the interest. Not a few students of government in not a few states are asking: If both houses of a two-branch legislature must be apportioned on a population-only basis, why bother with two houses?

Or, as Nebraska Gov. Frank Morrison is given to asking: "Why run the milk through the separator twice?" Nebraska's unicameral legislature has been in operation for 28 years, and by now stands thoroughly accepted. Not one serious move to revert to the bicameral has developed in recent years, and detractors are hard to find in the Cornhusker state.

A survey of 68 present and former legislators in 1961 turned up only four who favored returning to the two-house system. Whether Nebraska's system will serve as prototype for state legislatures generally remains to be seen, but it's receiving much scrutiny.

"We haven't gotten so much attention since 1937 when the unicameral-bicameral debate was the national high school subject," said Hugo Srb, a former two-house senator who has served as clerk of the one-house legislature since its inception.

NATION WATCHES

"The eyes of the nation are turning to Nebraska," says Morrison. "We have the biggest chance for advertisement the state has ever had."

Former Gov. Dennis J. Roberts of Rhode Island, chairman of a constitutional convention in his state, spent three days inspecting the Unicameral — Nebraska uses the word as a proper noun — and interviewing its leaders, and went away determined to urge the system for his state.

What visitors are finding in the marble columned legislative chamber in Nebraska's show-piece statehouse is a 49-member lawmaking body, currently in biennial session and wrestling with many of the same knotty problems, notably spending and taxes, that are occupying bicameral legislatures elsewhere.

NO LABELS

The 49 senators are elected on nonpartisan ballots, without party labels. They receive a salary of $2,400 a year during their terms of office.

Regular sessions are held each two years, special sessions when needed — nine of them in the last 28 years.

The lieutenant governor presides over the legislature. Senators designate one of their group as speaker, but the post is largely honorary. Hired employees include the clerk and attorneys to draft and review bills.

The legislature has 15 standing committees, the principal function of which is to give public hearing to bills and decide whether to kill them or send them to the floor for further action. Assignments to standing committees are made by a 13-member committee on committees, whose chairman is elected by the legislature as a whole, and whose other members are selected in regional caucuses.

On The Way Out

Solons Mutter Amid Move To Rayburn Building Suites

WASHINGTON (AP) — A game of musical chairs is under way on Capitol Hill, and it's not entirely harmonious. Three hundred congressmen and their staffs are involved in a gradual, massive reshuffling of offices due to the opening of that marble extravaganza, the Rayburn House Office Building. But all is not joy as some of the most senior members begin moving from the two older buildings — the Cannon and Longworth — into the 169 new four-room suites in the Rayburn.

NO WATER
There are mutterings about kitchens with neither sinks nor water, about the grand built-in safes for each member, about narrow closets, about the bewildering corridors, about the layout of the suites that makes it impossible for a congressman to walk directly from his private office into his staff's workroom without passing through the reception room. "And the Lord knows who can be waiting to button hole you out there," remarked one veteran.

Off each suite's workroom, which, because of the clinical gray walls with rows of built-in cabinets, has been described as "looking like a morgue," is the kitchen. But the kitchen has neither sink nor running water. "If I wanted to make a constituent or somebody else a drink," remarked one congressman, "I'd have to carry the ice cubes through the waiting room." Yet, off each congressman's private office is a nook that appears to have started out as a serving bar with a shelf and cabinets. There's no refrigerator, but there is a magnificent combination safe that's about four feet wide and almost as high.

Jaycees Make Two Awards

Jaycee of the Month awards for January and February were presented two Jaycees Monday, to Jim Anderson and Hank Hill. Anderson was recognized for directing plans for the annual ward Christmas party given by Jaycees at the Big Spring State Hospital and for arranging programs for the club during January. The award for February was presented Hill in recognition for his winning the "first-timer" award at the Area 2 Jaycee winter convention in Fort Stockton recently.

The annual election night meeting for the Jaycees has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. March 15 at Holiday Inn. New officers will be installed, effective April 1.

Success of the Rattlesnake Roundup and ways to improve the activities next year were discussed by the Jaycees Monday. Guests of the club were Shelly Downs, Florida reptile curator, and the Army Medical Research team from Fort Knox, Ky.

Club Members Go To Angelo

Howard County 4-H Club members will take six steers and seven lambs to the annual San Angelo Fat Stock Show. The county group will leave at 4 a.m. Wednesday.

Herb Helbig, county agent, said that steers are to be shown by Terry Soechting, Robbie Haney, Mark Barr, Marsha Robinson, Daryle Coates and Roger Coates.

Lambs are to be shown by Dixie Coleman, Terry Soechting, Toby Soechting and Sherry Hudson.

This will be the last show of the season out of town for the club members. Closing event will be the annual Howard County FFA and 4-H Club Show which opens March 16 at the County Fair Barns.

Judging of lambs at San Angelo is set for Thursday morning and steers will be judged Friday.

Bank Failure Inquiry Held By Subpanel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Investigations subcommittee tried to learn in public hearings today why at least four federally insured banks failed in their management. One was at Marlin, Tex.

Chairman John McClellan, D-Ark., said the subcommittee would check, among other things, whether "unsavory elements" had profited in some instances by buying into the management of banks with borrowed funds.

ASKED TO TALK
He invited the heads of government agencies to tell what happened, and to say whether tighter laws are needed. Officials of the closed banks are expected to be called later. Under scrutiny at the start are the failures of the San Francisco National Bank, the First National Bank of Marlin, the Crown Savings Bank of Newport News, Va., and the Brighton of Brighton, Colo.

NEEDS TEETH
Congress passed a new law last year aimed at the problem, but McClellan said some senators believe it needs more teeth. The new measure requires banks to report promptly any changes of top management or ownership, but doesn't fix a specific time limit for the reports, or impose penalties for violation.

McClellan said some senators advocate an amendment which would require "full and honest disclosure" which would reveal whether anyone concerned was a "front" for someone else, plus severe penalties for violations.

Rocks Crush Three Boys

HARLAN, Ky. (AP) — A sack containing perhaps 50 pounds of coal lay near a body, mute evidence of tragedy that befell three youngsters searching for fuel in an abandoned mine.

The three sons of miners were crushed beneath a 75-ton rock-fall Monday.

Miners and pickets, who often patrol this southeastern Kentucky coal field in labor disputes, worked together in a rescue party that dug against the danger of another roof cave-in to remove the bodies.

Dead are Rodney Gross, 17; his brother, George, 12, and their cousin, Tommy Gross, 13. Ralph Gross, 15, brother of Rodney and George, lagged behind the coal seekers and escaped.

The 15 to 18 rescuers constantly shored the three-foot high mine roof to reach the bodies.

Bob Shoemaker of the Harlan Daily Enterprise said miners attributed the fall to rotten timbers that braced the roof and to effects of freezing and thawing weather.

Suspect Admits Spying For Reds

NEW YORK (AP) — Two months ago, soon after his arrest on charges he sold military secrets to the Soviet Union, Robert Glenn Thompson, 30, a former Air Force man, told newsmen:

"I never sold information to anyone. I've not been in contact with any Russian or anyone else like that. I am 100 per cent American and I always have been."

Monday, in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, Thompson changed his plea to guilty and admitted he was a paid spy for six years, first in military life and later in civilian life.

FREE ON BAIL
He was continued free on bail of $15,000 for sentencing May 13. He could receive a death sentence, but his new plea probably will win him a degree of leniency.

Outside the courtroom Thompson, who owns a fuel oil business in Bay Shore, N.Y., told newsmen: "I am guilty and I want to take what's coming to me. I feel relieved it's partially all over. I made a bad mistake when I was 23 years old. . . . I was stupid."

The government charged Thompson conspired to transmit U.S. military secrets to Russia from 1957-63 and received payments totaling $1,700, although the U.S. attorney said Moscow spent much more than that.

The Thompson case resulted in the expulsion of two Russians named in the indictment as co-conspirators: Boris V. Karповich, an information counselor at the Soviet Embassy in Washington, and Fedor Kudashkin, who left for Russia in 1963 after service with the Soviet U.N. delegation and the U.N. Secretariat.

SPY NETWORK
The government accused Thompson of involvement in an espionage network, obtaining information for the Russians on U.S. military installations, missile sites, code books and intelligence and counter-intelligence operations. It listed 13 overt acts.

Thompson continued his plea of innocent to two other counts in the indictment: That he failed to register with the State Department as an agent of a foreign country, and that he acted as a co-conspirator with agents of the Soviet Union.

A Devotional For The Day

I acknowledged my sin unto thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid. I said, I will confess my transgressions unto the Lord; and thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin. (Psalms 32:5)

PRAYER: We are grateful, O Lord, for the wonder of forgiven sin. We pray that our sins in thought, word, and deed may lead us to true repentance, which makes us receptive and grateful for Thy grace. In the Savior's name we pray. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Overshadowing The Capitol

Rep. Henry C. Grover has introduced House Concurrent Resolution No. 36 in an effort to forestall the construction of a 24-story high-rise apartment structure bordering on the Capitol grounds.

This would overshadow the statehouse, one of the most famous of all Texas landmarks, and effectively block its view from one direction.

What the resolution would do is authorize the state to acquire the site by condemnation, fairly reimbursing the developers for their land purchase and for work so far done. The work to date, it was pointed out, could be utilized by the state in some less pretentious structure.

This is drastic medicine, but apparently some drastic action is required to protect the Capitol area. Ostensibly this had been arranged in an understanding with the Austin city council, but last year that worthy body capitulated in a drastic zoning revision, clearing the way for the huge apartment skyscraper.

One can appreciate the desire of Austin to grow to have modern buildings, to add taxable value to rolls which are somewhat limited by the presence of large chunks of public lands. However, the Capitol belongs to all of Texas and it is due some protection through a buffer zone or by widening the Capitol area if that is what it takes.

The case at point is but one of many which may follow. In time, the Capitol, show piece of the city because of its dominance above the downtown area, could be boxed in by a grove of stone skyscrapers unless prompt preventative action is taken.

Opening A Pandora's Box

In the celebrated Gideon case, the United States Supreme Court overturned a conviction because the defendant had not been represented by an attorney during his felony conviction.

Now, in the case of Harvey versus Mississippi, the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals has applied the rule to misdemeanor cases. While extension of the doctrine has much in logic to support it, because some misdemeanors or cases provide for as much as two years in jail, it does open up all sorts of overwhelming problems.

In effect, even the most chronic drunks or vagrants would have to be provided counsel before entering a plea to routine charges. Carried to its extreme, this could mean that traffic convictions could not be imposed unless the defendant was represented by counsel.

It is to be hoped that the Supreme Court will take a long, sober, penetrating and prophetic look before handing down a decision in this case. Realistic limitations seem in order rather than alternatives such as a public defender, which hasn't proven altogether satisfactory because of a lack of zeal by complacent counsel or excessive zeal by a politically ambitious one.

Marquis Childs A Warning Against Two Red Foes

WASHINGTON—The witness had just concluded his testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, speaking with the deliberation of one who weighs his words with the greatest care. In the momentary silence that followed Chairman J. William Fulbright said:

"I know of no one better qualified to comment on this than you are."

GEORGE F. KENNAN had come out of his academic solitude at Princeton, where he is a professor at the Institute for Advanced Studies, to give his views on war and peace. Former chairman of the State Department's policy planning staff, Ambassador to the Soviet Union and later to Yugoslavia, author of definitive studies on Russia that have won every literary award, Kennan's qualifications could not be disputed.

In his appearance before the committee and in two preceding speeches Kennan had uttered a grave warning. By escalating the war in Viet Nam, Kennan was saying, the United States risk bringing Russia and China together again and facing the two nuclear giants almost alone. Asked by Sen. Stuart Symington, (D., Mo.), a former Secretary of the Air Force, what would be the reaction to American bombing of China, Kennan replied:

"... IT IS MY feeling that in these circumstances they would feel themselves compelled to give military aid to China, probably short of getting in a nuclear exchange with us themselves. But in the process, I think, Soviet-American relations would be very seriously damaged for a long time to come.

"The problem we have over the next few years with the Chinese Communist regime is a tremendously serious one, very, very bitter and difficult, much greater than the problem with the Russians. If we are going to face successfully the solution of this problem with the Chinese I think we need all the help we can get and I think we need precisely something like a decent relationship with the Soviet Union.

"IN OTHER WORDS, if we are going to cope successfully with the Chinese Communists we must opt if we can—it does not lie with us—to have one Communist adversary rather than two. It does not help us to force the Russians to come down on the Chinese side in conflict against us."

It was no secret that privately several of the Senators around the conference table were sympathetic to this view. But in the curious atmosphere prevailing in Washington, with pressures constantly growing to back President Johnson's moves in Viet Nam, little or no comment came from the Senatorial side of the table. Similarly, knowledgeable specialists in the executive branch also agree that the greatest danger in Viet Nam may be uniting the two Communist powers. They, too, are silent, since high policy is to push the war in Viet Nam to a point at which the North Vietnamese will end their help for the Communists guerrillas and presumably end the conflict.

ONE CONSEQUENCE of the widening conflict in Viet Nam is a hardening of attitudes here at home. Or, at any rate, those who do take any and all risks to subdue the Communist guerrillas in Viet Nam. It is difficult, therefore, for a more or less lonely voice like Kennan's to make itself heard.

Billy Graham

I am in love with a married man, but no one suspects anything. I know that I should give him up but I can't. What can I do? —K.M.

The only decent and honorable thing for you to do is to confess and forsake your sin. The Bible teaches unmistakably that no adulterer or adulteress can enter the Kingdom of Heaven. You have been guilty of a terrible sin but God loves the sinner and forgives sin. Fall upon your knees in prayer and tell God that you will never do it again.

Write to the man immediately or contact him and tell him that you are through with your past sinful life and assure him of your prayers that he might likewise get right with God. Nothing is more contemptible than for a man or woman to break up for a happy home. Remind "your David" that even though you have been largely to blame, there is no sin in all the Bible that God condemns so much as the sin of unfaithfulness on the part of a husband or wife. To the woman taken in the very act of sin, Jesus said, "Go and sin no more."

GORILLA WARFARE

J. A. Livingston Gov. Wallace Does It Again... Twice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alabama's segregationist governor, George Wallace, did it again.

Twice, confronted with civil rights problems, he went to extremes, once with President Kennedy and now with the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Both times he brought national embarrassment on his state. He tried defiance with Kennedy. It was an empty gesture. He couldn't win, and he didn't.

He tried defiance again with King who planned a march of 50 Negroes from Selma to Montgomery, 50 miles, as a civil rights demonstration.

The purpose, when they reached Montgomery, was to petition Wallace to remove obstacles to the Negroes' right to vote in Alabama.

THE END-PRODUCT of Wallace's defiance was a disgraceful, brutal police action — the chasing and beating of the Negroes — which shocked the nation.

Yet, if Wallace had used a little shrewdness, the march might have accomplished little. King's non-violent expedition was to be a gesture to enlist national sympathy and attention.

The police action couldn't have won the Negroes more sympathy and attention if King had planned it. He says he never expected what happened.

When he was sworn in as governor in 1963, Wallace pledged "segregation forever." He knew he couldn't make good on it.

That would have meant defying the federal government and courts. If he could get away with it, anyone could, and the result would be chaos.

NEVERTHELESS, WHEN federal courts ordered the University of Alabama desegregated he put on a "standing in the schoolhouse door" act.

This was supposed to be defiance of the court. Kennedy called the Alabama National Guard into federal service and Wallace melted away.

Wallace had two choices when

King announced the Selma-Montgomery journey.

He could have permitted it, and even helped it, or he could smash it with police swinging nightsticks. He chose police and clubs. About 40 Negroes were hurt.

Fifty miles add up to a long march, not to be done in a day. Before it started Wallace could have figured:

Long before the Negro men and woman reached Montgomery their ranks would have been thinned by drop-outs.

AND HE could have deprived the marchers of drama by sending along police, not to smash the march but to guide traffic along the highway and protect Negroes from segregationist attacks.

King was supposed to lead the march but stayed in Atlanta, an act which must puzzle Negroes, particularly those who expected to see him up front.

But he said he would lead a second march today. This, thanks to Wallace and the police, would be against a different background.

From several states, scores of clergymen headed for Alabama to take part in today's journey.

Several members of Congress expressed outrage over Sunday's brutality, with a Southern Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., saying: "Shame on you, George Wallace."

And outrage at this time in Congress is bad news for segregationists.

The Johnson administration, heeding Negroes' demands, is preparing to send Congress a voting bill to give Negroes far more access to the polls.

Hal Boyle Jibes Mature Matrons Suffer

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that middle-aged wives get tired of hearing:

"If you're so bored, why don't you get a job?"

"Once a woman has her children raised, she's really at loose ends, isn't she?"

Voice on television: "Do you sometimes feel leaden, run-down, tired?"

"WHY DON'T you take up some interesting hobby—such as needlepoint or collecting pewter ashtrays?"

"Jim and I would love to have you and Dad to the party, Mother, but it's for a younger crowd. You wouldn't even speak the same language."

"Hi, Mommy! This is an emergency. I can't get a baby sitter and I simply can't miss my appointment at the beauty parlor. It's been ages since I've had my hair done. Would you mind coming over and taking care of your lovely grandchild this afternoon?"

"WELL, HOW did you spend your day, Ella, cackling with a bunch of old hens over the bridge table as usual?"

"The gray hardly shows at all, dear, except at the roots."

"Good lord, Ella, what in heaven's name have you done to your hair? When I told you to go ahead and have it tinted red if it would make you feel better, I didn't think it would turn out this color. You look like a forest fire."

"I'm afraid these dresses are a bit too — uh — too youthful for madam. Perhaps you'd find something more suitable in our department for mature matrons."

"FOR PETE'S sake, Ella, be reasonable. No husband I know plays golf with his wife. You know I've been playing on Saturdays with the same foursome for years. If you want to learn the game, get the pro to teach you."

"Hi Mommy! This is an emergency. We're having Jim's boss and his wife to dinner tonight and I want to serve lobster casserole. Can you rush right over and show me how to make it? By the way, could you stop at the fish store and pick up the lobsters?"

To Your Good Health Fainting Can Be Psychological Problem

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a girl of 14 and my problem is fainting.

Is this common among teenagers? I have had this trouble for about two years and would give anything to know how to stop it.—A.H.

There is no physical explanation for this. It is psychological. It is claustrophobia, or morbid fear of enclosed places.

How phobias develop is not easy to explain. Some people are afraid of open spaces, of water, of germs, of all sorts of things. There are more than 250 identified phobias.

So, my 14-year-old friend, you aren't alone. I don't belittle phobias. We may be astonished, or amused at some of them, but they are real.

Claustrophobia is uncommon with teenagers, but it can occur at any age. Here's my advice:

Analyze your thoughts or fears when in a small or enclosed space. Talk this over with your parents, because just talking it over can give you reassurance. Who's closer to you, who cares more about you and your problems than they do? Vent your thoughts. Your mother and father will listen.

I think you can overcome this difficulty if you can "talk it out" a little, and recognize what it is and why in particular it bothers you just now. As you grow older and more mature, this sort of thing tends to disappear, provided you don't make too much of it now.

Dear Dr. Molner: A year ago I had a blood clot in my leg and still have phlebitis. I am troubled with pain and swelling at certain times of the month. I am in my early 20's and would like another child. What effect does phlebitis have on pregnancy?—MRS. P. J.

It would be the other way around: What effect does pregnancy have on phlebitis? The answer is that the phlebitis probably would flare up, so discuss this thoroughly with your doctor before attempting to become pregnant again.

Dear Dr. Molner: For the last three months my arms have hurt, especially the left one. The doctor said it is arthritis. I was afraid it was my heart and still think it is. I am 33, and he told me women didn't have heart attacks until after the menopause.

What do you think? Should I try another doctor?—MRS. B.G.

It is true that heart attacks are rare in women before menopause, and I can't understand why you are so intent on looking at the gloomy side. No, I don't think you should see another doctor. I think you ought to believe the one you are going to now.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Pfft! For The Groundhog

Well, it's all a matter of interpretation, I suppose.

Next Tuesday—March 16—will mark the end of the six week interval since Feb. 2. In other words, the Groundhog Weather Interval.

IF YOU REMEMBER Feb. 2, it was a bright, sunny day and if there were any groundhogs in this region (which is doubtful) they would certainly have been able to see their shadows. This, as any well informed groundhogologist is aware, means there would be six more weeks of wintry weather. Spring, in other words, was still 42 days away.

ONE WAY YOU might look at it, there has been wintry weather since Feb. 2. The countryside has been whitened with snow. Cold and chilly days have occurred. However, the cold has not been so severe as to remind the oldtimers of the big blizzard before the turn of the century. And the flowering peach, which my wife so treasures, has budded out and still has a few somewhat anemic looking blossoms on its barren limbs.

I may be getting on, as one might say, but I find it hard to regard the past six weeks as being entitled to a real winter definition. Chilly days, — true. But teeth - chattering, bone-busting cold, — definitely not.

I WOULD say, judicially, that any groundhog who was out on Feb. 2 and was scared into hibernating an extra month and a half was just plain lazy. There hasn't been a day since Feb. 2 when any healthy, furry-furred woodchuck would have suffered. The adherents of the groundhog weather theory will nod their hoary heads and safely remark, "See—we told you." (They didn't tell us. It's just their way of trying to make themselves look good.)

THE OTHER school of thought (if any thought is involved in such a wild-haired theory) will insist that groundhogs have been confounded by the weather; that their prophecy has been proved but the wild maunderings of poorly educated idiots.

Meantime, the rest of us who think that a groundhog knows about as much about the weather as a groundhog, and perhaps about as much as we do or the weatherman does, will merely shrug our shoulders.

Winters may be just as rough and tough as they ever were. The seasons seem milder now than when I was young probably because in these modern days I am not forced to walk long distances against northwinds.

ANYWAY, I HAVE no impulse to become a follower of the Groundhogism. In my book, he missed it as bad this year as he did last year and as he did in 1912. Or, for that matter, in 1876.

The old saw has it that it is a wise son who knows his own father. This could be paraphrased to read it is a wise weatherman who knows what West Texas weather will be like from one hour to the next.

And all of the meteorologist's scientific gadgets and theories tend to fall apart at the seams when West Texas starts making its old hodge-podge weather.

How Barry Would Have Done It

WASHINGTON—Every once in a while, when I have nothing better to do, I wonder what the country would be like if Barry Goldwater had been elected President of the United States. Based on his campaign speeches, it is a frightening thing to imagine.

The mind boggles when you think of it. For one thing, we would probably be bombing North Viet Nam now if Goldwater were in office.

As it sees it, this is what would have happened.

THE VIET CONG would have blown up an American barracks. Using this as an excuse, Goldwater would immediately call for a strike on military bases in North Viet Nam and announce a "new tit-for-tat policy." Democrats would be horrified and they would make speeches that Goldwater was "trigger happy" and was trying to get us into a war with Red China.

But Goldwater would ignore the criticism, and to show he meant business, he would continue the raids, using not only Air Force bombers, but jets from the U. S. fleet. As time went on, the country would be shaken at the recklessness of Goldwater's plan, but he would explain through his Secretary of State that, instead of a "tit-for-tat" policy, we now intended to bomb North Viet Nam in order to let Hanoi know that they could not support the Viet Cong without expecting retaliation.

SENATORS WOULD get up in Congress and call for some sort of negotiations. But Goldwater with his lack of restraint would retort that there is nothing to negotiate and we would only be selling out Southeast Asia if we sat down at a table with the North Vietnamese and Red China.

"I'm afraid these dresses are a bit too — uh — too youthful for madam. Perhaps you'd find something more suitable in our department for mature matrons."

WASHINGTON—Is Cuba the forgotten front? In an exclusive interview at the State Department, there was just a hint to the contrary.

THE WHITE PAPER on Viet Nam, which documented the shipping of arms and men from Red Viet Nam to the South, was followed by a resumption of smashing air raids in the North. The hint came from a Latin Affairs spokesman, who pointed out that we hadn't verified any Castro arms caches for nearly 18 months. It was back in November, 1963, that three tons of arms were discovered on the beaches of Venezuela, which led to the imposing of "peaceful sanctions" by the U.S.A. and 18 other governments of the Organization of American States. But a lot has happened since.

IT HAS HAPPENED inside the "mystique" of President Johnson, who begins to deserve that designation almost as much as De Gaulle. Many confidants think they know the workings of his mind, for he is a fluent, non-stop monologist in private. But the President "thinks aloud" and not always to impart his innermost thoughts. To the American public, he is all but non-communicative on Viet Nam. We can only judge him on his actions.

HIS ACTIONS toward Communism have been increasingly resolute and warlike.

All this has happened because LBJ is convinced that cross-border weapons are coming from Communist bases into American-protected Free World territory—and so what about Cuba? The State Department notes the step-up of Red violence in Venezuela, but has not officially found, as in the case of Viet Nam, that the weapons of terror are shipped in from abroad. But when we are able or willing to show proof, the President's passive policy toward Cuba will be subject to change.

ONE REASON for the change might be that we no longer hope for the Cuban crisis to solve itself. Much has Russia and France would call for a Geneva conference, but Goldwater would reject it.

INSTEAD, he would recklessly announce that he was sending in a battalion of Marines with Hawk missiles to protect our airfields. His critics would claim he was escalating the war but Goldwater would deny it. Instead he would bomb supply routes in Laos and Cambodia.

To explain these desperate actions, Goldwater would have the Defense and State Departments produce a "White Paper" justifying the attacks and proving that Hanoi was responsible for the revolution in South Viet Nam. He would insist we had to support the Saigon generals, no matter how shaky they were.

THE PAPER would be followed by more air strikes using South Vietnamese planes as well as American B-57's.

The people who voted for Johnson would scream at their Republican friends, "I told you if Goldwater became President he'd get us into a war." But the Republicans would claim that Goldwater had no choice, that he, in fact, inherited the Viet Nam problem from the Democrats and, if he didn't take a strong stand now, America would be considered a paper tiger.

IT ALL SEEMS far-fetched when you read it and I may have let my imagination run away with itself, because even Barry Goldwater, had he become President, wouldn't have gone so far.

But fortunately, with President Johnson at the helm, we don't even have to think about it.

Holmes Alexander Cuba And Viet Nam

WASHINGTON—Is Cuba the forgotten front? In an exclusive interview at the State Department, there was just a hint to the contrary.

THE WHITE PAPER on Viet Nam, which documented the shipping of arms and men from Red Viet Nam to the South, was followed by a resumption of smashing air raids in the North. But when we are able or willing to show proof, the President's passive policy toward Cuba will be subject to change.

ONE REASON for the change might be that we no longer hope for the Cuban crisis to solve itself. Much has gone wrong for Fidel, but he has proved his ability to survive. The missile crisis of '62 lowered his prestige as a romantic figure who, in '61, had repulsed an American-backed invasion. His industrialization plan flopped for lack of raw materials. His agricultural reform has flopped and Cuban peasants are back to raising the hated sugar crop for export, much as they were under Batista, although now they are conscripted for the labor. The gross national product has dropped by 15 per cent under Marxist management, and the Cuban economy is just as dependent on Russia as it ever was on the U.S.A.

BUT DESPITE his failures, Fidel is still the incredible Latino who taunted the Yankee Colossus and got away with it. His removal would still find the Communist power apparatus intact. The Red Army of Cuba, second in size and arms throughout the Hemisphere, would elevate a lesser but no less anti-American leader.

In sum, Soviet Cuba is like North Viet Nam in two important ways. It is accepted by American policy as an established regime—but it stands under our warning to "leave its neighbors alone." Solid proof that it is doing otherwise might well bring the sort of action that the President is taking against the Communists in Asia.

Made It

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — It was Saturday night, and the young man who called the Tampa Tribune society department was desperate.

He said he knew it sounded crazy, but he was due at that moment at a church to be married, only he couldn't remember which church. He said he knew the Tribune had been given the details of the wedding for a story in Sunday's edition.

The society staffer called makeup man John Petersen in the Tribune composing room. Petersen found the story. The staffer passed along to the young man the name of the church.

Dishes Slip

ADDISON, Ill. (AP) — Breaking dishes rates highest among young homemakers who average nine dishes a year, according to a survey of 600 homemakers.

Karl Jensen, a sink manufacturer, says that 70 per cent of the breakage occurred during the drying process rather than washing.

"If a dish slips while drying, the fall is longer, too," he said.

In washing most homemakers usually have some type of cushioning in the sink and the chances of breakage are diminished.

The breakage rate is lowest among grandmothers and husbands. The grandmothers are more careful and the husbands dry fewer dishes than young homemakers.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Every day has been a big one for the family of MR. and MRS. AVERY FALKNER since their eldest son, Avery Jr., has been home from New York where he is making his home at present. This is his first visit back since August of '63. MR. and MRS. WALTER STROUP entertained with a dinner party for him Saturday evening and included a number of friends for the affair. A younger brother, Johnny, was here over the weekend from Abilene Christian College in Abilene to join the family fun. A real family get-together will be held this evening when all the family members will gather at the home of an uncle and aunt, MR. and MRS. CECIL PEURIFOY. Avery will leave Wednesday or Thursday for New York.

I've never been invited to a Hat Party before, but now one comes up on Thursday given by the Progressive Forum where, it says, one may see, try and buy the latest millinery fashion. This should be right down my alley with my great liking for toppers.

There were a lot of firsts connected with the recent trip to Hawaii of MRS. HOUSTON COWDEN and her sister, MRS. ED BRINDLEY, who were the guests of their brother, ED REAGAN of Cut Bank, Mont.

This was their first trip to the islands. They had never been in a storm alert where the siren walls meant business, and the stormy weather brought Honolulu the lowest temperature on record—58 degrees.

The two Big Spring women joined their brother in San Francisco Feb. 1 and flew to Honolulu. Several days after their arrival there a storm hit the area and there was fear of a tidal wave. Mrs. Cowden said that all activity was halted and some tourists were held in a bus most of the night waiting for the alert to end. She thought there was another Pearl Harbor incident until she could get to a radio and learn of the nature of the alert. After the storm had passed there was a distinct calm which natives said was most unusual as there are generally the trade winds that bring the even warmth to the islands. The lack of them caused the drop in temperature.

The locals left Hawaii on Feb. 22 aboard the SS Lurline and arrived in San Francisco on the 27th. They couldn't make air connections at that time so their arrival in Midland wasn't until March 1 from their "trip to remember."

1st LT. JERRY McMAHEN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McMahan, is having a pleasant assignment overseas. His parents have recently received a post card from him while on a six-day leave he was spending in Madrid with a Texas A&M Aggie. He is stationed at Weathersfield, England, where he has been since his arrival in Europe in August of '63. He is the base athletic director. More recently he has had instruction in CBR (chemical-biological-radioactive) and was to go to Germany for more discussion. He has traveled on the continent with the baseball team and the golf team and for other sports events which have taken place in Switzerland, Germany and Scotland.

Former residents MR. and MRS. DOUG ORME visited friends here during the past week.

MRS. KIRBY BROWN is a patient at John Sealy Hospital, Galveston. Her address is Ward 4-B, Bed 419-2.

Weekend guests in the A. L. MITCHELL home, 430 Edwards Blvd., were MR. and MRS. HENRY NEWSOM, Iredell, and MR. and MRS. W. R. NEWSOM, E. L. NEWSOM and MR. and MRS. EARL BRYANT.

Coahomans Entertain Guests On Weekend

COAHOMA (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Anderson, Shana and Kelly of Lubbock spent the weekend here with the Anderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kiser and the Bud Andersons.

Ross Roberts and his son, Gary, spent Friday sight-seeing in Kerrville.

Mrs. V. F. Roberts and her daughter, Mrs. Jack Turner, spent Thursday visiting friends and relatives. Mrs. Roberts lives in Midland, and Mrs. Turner is from Odessa.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rowe of Eunice, N. M., spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Shepherd.

Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Friez of Lubbock spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Friez and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Appleton.

Visiting here with the C. E. Kisers over the weekend was their son, Floyd Kiser, and family of Odessa.

Guests in the G. E. White home of Sand Springs was his brother and family, the Wayne Whites of Midland.

Mrs. Joe Don Zant and children of New Home were guests in the home of her parents, the B. Hales.

Mrs. Jesse Fowler and Mrs. Hershel Fowler spent Sunday in Andrews visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Yardley.

Mr. and Mrs. Jolei Rogers had as their guests this weekend her cousin and family, the Raymond Snows of Wicket.

Mrs. Ruby Mosier is a patient at the Howard County Hospital Foundation.

Mrs. Grace Newman is a patient at the Cowper Clinic and Hospital.

Ed McCanne died Sunday night in Houston. He was the uncle of Mrs. H. J. Robertson.

Mrs. Eunice Wilson and Betty Wilson, of Denver City, spent the weekend visiting friends, Mrs. Martha Nixon, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hudson and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Bowen.

Britishers Will Work At Hospital

Five members of the British Wives Club volunteered to work at the state hospital when the organization gathered Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Joe W. Cathey, 213 Wright. Offering their help one day each week to the hospital were Mrs. Cathey, Mrs. Horace Doyal, Mrs. Fern Cox, Mrs. Ronald Kahofer and Mrs. John Strong.

The wives visited the state hospital Thursday afternoon and toured the fashion shop and two wards.

A letter was read from the Servicemen's Wives Club which invited the Britishers to their meeting March 17 in the John H. Lees Service Club. The invitation was accepted.

Mrs. Ben White and Mrs. Stanley Wheelock were named to the welcoming committee, and it was announced that the club will make Easter baskets for members of a special education class.

The attendance prize went to Mrs. Kahofer, and the game prize to Mrs. Cathey.

The next meeting will be March 22, and the Airport Home Demonstration Club members will be guests at the Flame Room in the Pioneer Natural Gas Company building. An English buffet will be served.

FAVORS 'BACK TO WORK' LAWS Chamber Board Supports Junior College Bond Vote

Chamber of commerce directors Monday gave their endorsement to the March 20 Howard County Junior College $500,000 bond proposal.

They also gave support to the idea of a zoological society which might establish and operate a small zoo.

The board went on record as supporting the pending bills in the Texas Legislature which would give to military personnel, who are bona fide residents, the right to vote. Repeal of the right-to-work laws were opposed, and the board directed that representatives and senators be apprised of this stand.

Extensive programs were outlined by three committee chairmen. One of them, Carlton Chapman of the agriculture committee, said his panel advocated continuation of the screw worm eradication program; the extension of the bollworm and tobacco worm virus control project (for which $80,000 has been appropriated for further experimentation here and in the irrigated cotton belt); the division of $300 and $200 prize money to producers of the first and second bales of cotton; an agricultural tour, possibly to the St. Lawrence Community in southern Glasscock County; an increased observance of National Cotton Week and of Soil Stewardship Week; work on chemical control of weeds.

Lou Wolfson, speaking for the retail committee, outlined holidays and key promotional dates.

C-City Takes Over Museum

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Purchase of the historical artifacts belonging to the Colorado City Historical Museum Association for $3,222 was approved by the City Council here Monday evening.

In another step to perpetuate the museum, the council executed a lease for the top floor of the American Legion building for $50 a month.

Previously, the legion post had agreed to accept $1,000 in partial payment of back rent owed by the museum association. The legion also forgave $2,400 in rent arrears as a civic gesture and to clear the way for city operation of the museum.

Historical Museum Association officials have agreed to terms of the sale and will turn over the properties to the city around March 15. Operations will be directed by Ford Merritt, city manager. A caretaker will be provided when funds are available.

A museum board, named by the mayor and city council, will serve in an advisory capacity.

In other actions, the council moved to change the ordinance controlling fishing at Lake Colorado City and Champion Creek Lake so that persons 65 and older may secure exemptions for all charges.

The council also voted to select an engineer to prepare preliminary plans and estimates for an air strip at the city-county airport.

A hearing on the proposed budget for the next fiscal year was set for the April 12 meeting.

Demo Club To Back Bond Vote

Around 30 members of the Howard County Democratic Club voted unanimously to endorse and back the Howard County Junior College bond issue at Monday night's meeting. President Frank Goodman presided and introduced Larry Don Shaw, Knott 4-H Club member, who spoke on "A Measure of Greatness."

In passing the resolution supporting the expansion program, speakers pointed out that the move was a progressive step toward better educational facilities.

Water Case To Be Argued

Oral arguments on the city's appeal of the 53rd District Court decision concerning water rates to the Big Spring State Hospital will be presented in the Third Court of Civil Appeals in Austin Wednesday.

John Burgess, city attorney, left Monday for Austin to present arguments for the city. The office of the attorney general will present oral briefs for the Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools.

The oral arguments were previously scheduled for May 26 but were moved to Wednesday at the request of the city.

The city and the attorney general's office have filed formal briefs with the court, but these will not be considered until after presentation of the oral arguments.

The city filed suit previously to re-negotiate the water contract signed with the hospital board in 1937, which provides water rates at 10 cents per 1,000 gallons. The 53rd District Court in Austin affirmed the state's position in the suit, that the board could not constitutionally re-negotiate the contract. The city then appealed the decision.

in April, June, July, October and December. This committee, he said, would set up a community calendar at the chamber, and it also will map a vigorous program for National Cotton Week.

The advertising and promotion committee is looking at a lot of long range plans, said Bob Bradbury. One of these includes directional markers to lead newcomers and visitors in finding hospitals, schools, etc., and points of interest. Another is to develop things which will attract and hold tourists, particularly during 1968 when the Olympics will be held in Mexico City and the HemisFair at San Antonio. The possibility of welcome stations, operated by volunteer high school or college students, on highway approaches during the summer was also explored. The committee is working on a small brochure about the city to be distributed at service stations. Bradbury also called attention to the 12 trailer spaces for overnight campers at the city park.

O. T. Brewster presented the recommendations from the tourist development committee regarding the zoological society. He said that A. D. Blount, who has a collection of animals, had pledged support if a society can be formed and a zoo site secured.

Transfer of $18,000 into savings, leaving a working balance of $3,969 in the industrial fund was reported. Carroll Davidson reported on the recent delegation to Austin to meet with legislators. Big Spring had the largest group.

Cotton Must Battle For Share Of Market

Cotton must come out slugging, and soon, for its share of the fiber market, Carlton Chapman, representing the agriculture committee, told chamber of commerce directors Monday.

In 1960 when the domestic fiber market was equivalent to 14,750,000 bales, cotton had 55 per cent of the market. In 1963, the market had climbed to 18,675,000 bales, but cotton's share was down to 45.6 per cent.

While cotton's part of the fiber market was going down by 1,800,000 bales, U.S. exports of cotton also were dropping off by 4,558,000 bales, he said.

Despite a reduction of acreage from 18,522,000 bales in 1961 to 16,200,000 this year, the U.S. carryover of cotton has increased from 7,223,000 bales in 1964 to an estimated 13,300,000 bales this year.

The loan price of cotton has come from 35.06 cents in 1958 to 29.00 cents now and with prospect for another cent decline next year.

One reason for this distressing picture for cotton, West Texas' biggest cash crop by far, is a disparity of investment in research and promotion, Chapman declared.

Makers of synthetic fibers invested $80,000,000 in research last year, cotton only $24,000,000. Synthetic fiber makers put $45,000,000 into promotion, cotton a mere $4,000,000. All of this means that cotton producers had better get together promptly on a concerted program to lower production costs and increase market shares, he said.

Borden Show Opens Friday

GAIL—Joe Cannon, president of the Borden County Livestock Association, said today that all judges for the annual Borden County Junior Fat Stock Show will be appointed. The show will be held in the livestock barn on the Borden County School grounds Friday and Saturday.

Jimmy Taylor, Big Spring, will be steer judge; Richard Miller, Levelland, will judge the lambs; and Paul Gross, Seminole, the hogs.

There will be 109 lambs, 79 hogs and 18 steers in the show. Both 4-H and FFA members are competing.

Lamb judging is set for Friday, and hog and steer judging will be Saturday morning. A barbecue dinner will be served at noon in the cafeteria at the school for the exhibitors, their parents, and buyers, who are to take part in the auction sale.

The auction starts at 1 p.m. Saturday. Seventy-five animals will be sold and bidding will be by the dollar, rather than the pound.

Trophies, ribbons and cash go to the winners. The trophies are provided annually by the Borden County Sheriff's Posse, of which Mert Jones is president. Showmanship trophies have been presented in the past by Lamesa merchants.

A demonstration on ECT, electrical shock treatment, was given by Dr. Frankie E. Williams, clinical director, as part of the morning program. Mrs. Ottilie Jolley, director of nursing service, talked on the nursing program.

The afternoon sessions were to include talks on medical service, by Dr. Frank Appel, and on the alcoholic program, by Shelby Parnell, alcoholic counselor.

Thfts Checked

Two thefts were being investigated by police here, both reported Monday. Bill Moser, 1806 Johnson, reported five batteries and three radiators taken, and Mrs. H. D. Lees, 2309 Skurry, reported her purse containing $40 was taken from underneath her car seat, while the car was parked in a local hospital parking lot.

The Bailey matter was the first and probably the only civil case which will be tried on this week's docket in the district court, Caton said.

Set for trial later this week, provided it is ready and the Bailey matter can be cleared away in time.

Proposal In Water Safety Bill Killed

AUSTIN — Over the vigorous protest of Rep. Ben Atwell, Dallas, its author, the water safety bill (HB 69) was riddled Monday of its prohibition against charges for recreational uses of public waters.

Rep. Renal Rosson, Snyder, teamed with Rep. Rayford Price, Palestine, to knock out the proposal which Rep. Atwell twice before attempted to get through the legislature.

There are cities, water districts and authorities which have not relied on state or federal financing and which have no way to provide for recreational development other than through fees, Rep. Rosson and Rep. Price contended.

Rosson cited the Colorado River Municipal Water District's Lake J. B. Thomas as a case in point. All revenues are from sale of revenue bonds, he said. Unless these charges are levied, the district could not improve the lake for recreational purposes or patrol it for safety and sanitation.

This applies in principle to the Upper Neches Water Authority and its Lake Palestine, said Rep. Price.

Feels Remorseful Over Friends Here

Jack Eubank, 42, who has lived a quiet and orderly life for seven years in Big Spring as Bob Johnson, sits today in a cell at the Howard County jail feeling remorse for what he says he has done to his friends here.

"I've let them down," he told Sheriff Aubrey Standard.

Several of his friends, who have known him here as Bob Johnson and knew nothing of his earlier life as Jack Eubank nor of his life sentence for murder committed in New Mexico, came to see him Monday.

Their visit left the man shaken, Standard said.

"He feels that somehow he has betrayed these people," the sheriff said.

Meantime, Standard has received a warrant for Eubank's detention, a photograph made of him a decade ago, and a copy of his fingerprints. The warrant is from the New Mexico State Penitentiary at Santa Fe, where Eubank was serving his life term when he escaped in 1957.

The "mug" photo, doubtless, was made at the time he was admitted to the prison (in 1954 or 1955). Time has changed Eubank's appearance but there is no doubt, the sheriff said, that the man in Howard County jail is the same man who walked away from the prison farm at Los Lunas nearly eight years ago.

A letter from the assistant warden at the state prison informed the sheriff that the authorities in New Mexico had judged ulated the first steps to extradite Eubank. Eubank said Saturday night, after his arrest here, that he would not waive extradition. Standard said that his experience has been extradition proceedings sometimes take several weeks.

Meantime, Eubank is being held in the jail here on a fugitive warrant prepared Monday by Standard. Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter denied the man bond.

Accompanying the other material from the New Mexico was Eubank's "trap" sheet—a record of his brushes in the past with the law. Two check charges and then the charge of murder were all the sheet showed.

DEAR ABBY

Don't Try It Again

DEAR ABBY: I am a college junior. Last night I was out with a girl I thought a lot of. Naturally, I tried to see how far I could get, when she suddenly hauled off and slapped my face. Then she said, "BEHAVE YOURSELF!"

Abby, I never knew a slap in the face could feel so good. I almost thanked her for slapping me. Tell more girls to use that technique. Just because a guy puts up a little fight doesn't mean he wants to win.

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding the dilemma of the minister who was invited to a social function and was not asked to bring his wife.

Assuming the wife hadn't performed a strip tease at some previous party, or something equally inappropriate, I suggest that her husband do the same thing the late Will Rogers once did.

DEAR ABBY: Re the minister's wife who was left sitting at home while her spouse attended social functions without her because she was not invited, I wish to say that the same problem exists in other types of work.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column about the lady who had her name on two tombstones with two different husbands probably made your readers wonder how nutty people can be. But I know of a woman who has her beat.

Wake Held For Railroad Line

TORRINGTON, England (AP) — Two hundred mourners held a funeral service Monday for the 40-year-old North Devon and Cornwall Junction Light Railway Line.

They hung an evergreen wreath on the front of the diesel engine and a caricature of Dr. Richard Beeching, the boss of British Railways, on the back.

Then they let out a rather sad cheer as the last passenger train moved off on a remote 27-mile stretch of Britain's dwindling rail system.

RUMBLES WARILY Crowded with sentimental passengers, the train rumbled cautiously under a stone bridge at Torrington Station and swung right toward a wood of firs.

It never got up much speed, however. The line twists precariously around the Devonshire Hills, and its speed limit always has been 25 miles per hour.

The line has been closed to passenger trains under Beeching's controversial program to rid the government's railway system of lines that don't pay their way. In 1963, the most recent year for which figures are available, passenger service on the North Devon and Cornwall cost $145,600, but the passengers paid in only $2,800.

Vote On Boat Safety Bill Possible Now

AUSTIN (AP)—A final House vote on Dallas Rep. Ben Atwell's comprehensive boat safety bill was a faint possibility today.

It was low on the calendar but Atwell said he would ask for a vote on the measure, which was tentatively approved Monday, if House members worked their way down to it.

DOUBLE FEES The bill would double boat registration fees, impose strict lighting requirements for motor boats and call for zoning of lakes by local government units into areas for boating, swimming and fishing.

NOT RESPONSIBLE "These dynasties can charge $10, $15 or $20 and are not responsible to anyone," Atwell said. "If you pass this amendment, you will hear from the boatmen of the state. That is not a threat—that is the truth."

THROWN OUT An amendment by Atwell threw out a potentially touchy section requiring boats towing water skiers to carry two persons—one to drive, the other to watch the skier. Atwell changed the bill to require only a rear view mirror.

The bill would authorize political subdivisions, including river authorities, to designate parts of lakes for such activities as swimming and fishing.

The train moved on, past old clay mine, East Yard Halt, Merton Village, and finally came to Halwill Junction, down in Cornwall.

Police cars were stoned, city buses were boarded, soda bottles were thrown at passing cars and a cigar store lost candy and sandwiches to adolescents who swooped in and out.

Police made two arrests and cited eleven youths on charges of disturbing the peace. No one was hurt.

Police Ired Over Ruling

CHICAGO (AP)—Does an off-duty policeman have the right, upon seeing a citizen waving a broken beer bottle, to pull a revolver and attempt to arrest him?

A Negro judge has ruled that the policeman does not have that right unless there is firm evidence a crime is being committed. The ruling has enraged the Chicago Department and other Chicagoans.

Judge George Leighton, a Negro elected to Criminal Court last November, freed Jessie Rodriguez and Simon Suarez, both 23, of aggravated assault charges.

Suarez was accused of slashing an off-duty officer in the face with a broken bottle. Rodriguez was accused of kicking the policeman, Thomas Desutter, after Suarez' attack.

Unchallenged testimony gave this account: Desutter and officer Raymond Howard were in plain clothes after work on Oct. 26 when they heard people yelling about a "crazy guy" with a beer bottle trying to cut people.

The officers spotted Suarez with the jagged bottle, identified themselves as policemen and drew their revolvers. Suarez, the policeman said, told them: "Come and get it, copper."

He then hit Desutter in the face. In the melee Howard's gun went off, striking Desutter in the foot.

Leighton, a civil rights lawyer before being elected judge, freed the men because, he said, at the time the policemen drew their weapons they had no knowledge a crime had been committed.

Police Supt. Orlando Wilson described Leighton's decision as a "miscarriage of justice."

The Federation of Chicago Police Organizations, representing about 1,200 officers, said it would demand the reassignment of the judge.

The police group said it would ask for the transfer because of Leighton's "obvious prejudice against police."

Delinquency Cases Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Childrens Bureau has reported that juvenile delinquency cases in 1963 increased 8 per cent over the preceding year.

The bureau fixed the figure at 601,600. In addition, it said there were 366,000 traffic cases involving juveniles during 1963, up 17 per cent over 1962.

Vote-Positively Bill Advances

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill to let people vote positively instead of negatively has won approval of a House committee. The bill by Reps. Travis Pooler of Corpus Christi and Dick Cherry of Waco would replace the scratch voting system with a method allowing voters to check boxes for their candidates.

The bidding:
 West North East South
 1♣ Pass East South
 Pass 1♠ 2♠ 3♥
 Pass 4♥ Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠
 Some shrewd detective work based on inferences drawn from the bidding helped South the declarer at four hearts to find the winning line of play.
 West's opening bid of one club was passed around to South who reopened with a take-out double. North duly responded with one spade and East, who had already denied the strength to keep the bidding open, offered a competitive raise to two clubs.
 A free bid of two hearts by South would designate a reasonably good hand. When he chose instead to jump to three hearts, North can hardly be blamed for carrying on to game.
 West opened the king of clubs and continued with the ace. When declarer's queen appeared, West shifted to the jack of hearts. South drew three rounds of trumps. East's club discard on the last heart revealed that his partner had a trump trick.

In order to avert a setback, it was necessary for South to pick up the diamond suit without loss. He led a spade to North's king and returned the ten of diamonds. East false-carded mildly by following with the six; however, South—after a moment's reflection—put up the ace of diamonds and dropped West's king. It became routine to cross over to the ace of spades in order to finesse against East's nine of diamonds. West ruffed with the jack of hearts for the third and last defensive trick.

South's decision not to take the diamond finesse—which would be the normal course of action missing five cards in the suit—was influenced by the auction. East's failure to keep his partner's one club bid open presumably marked him with high cards and distribution. His subsequent competitive club raise indicated that he held a reasonably good distributional fit with his partner. South decided that, if East had the king of diamonds in addition, he would have chanced a raise on the first round.

There was the added factor that—with only 15 high card points outstanding—West, as the opening bidder, was more apt to hold a missing king.

Cong Recruits Take Beating At Outpost

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Some 800 Viet Cong recruits, direct from North Viet Nam and all armed with fine weapons, smashed confidently at the mountain outpost of Kannak early Monday and got one of the worst beatings Communist forces in the area have had in months.

Government officers claimed at least 100 of the enemy were killed. This newsman counted 76 Viet Cong bodies today around the hilly perimeter of the camp, and there probably were many more.

The Communist troops fought hard, overrunning two smaller outposts a few hundred yards away. They had some of the best infantry weapons made by Communist China, including recoilless cannon and the new Chinese armor-piercing rocket launcher.

TOUGH VETERANS
 But the Viet Cong troops were green, and they were facing some of the toughest veterans in Viet Nam.

Most of the enemy dead appeared to have been in their late teens or early twenties.

Twenty-two bodies were strewn close together in a patch of open ground in front of a government machine-gun bunker that cut them all down.

Inside were about 400 irregular mountain troops, their families and nine American Special Forces men.

As the men fought, their women reloaded ammunition magazines, unpacked and passed mortar shells and dressed wounds.

KEY POST
 Kannak is a key post astride strategic Mang Yang Pass 260 miles northeast of Saigon.

Thirty-three of the defenders were killed along with at least 10 members of their families. Thirty other defenders and three of the Americans were wounded.

Hospital Board Says Old Irregularity Cases Handled

AUSTIN (AP)—The chairman of the Texas Hospital Board, commenting on a recent report of irregularities in the hospital system, said Monday the latest incident was six months old and corrective measures were taken long ago in all cases.

A source close to board members said they generally agreed there was nothing new in the report by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Chairman Howard Telespaso of Houston interrupted a monthly board meeting to tell reporters the agency had "been aware of the Ashby situation at San Antonio." He referred to the Oct. 6 escape of alleged slayer Leslie Ashby, who is at large from the San Antonio State Hospital.

KEY SYSTEM
 Telespaso noted an item on the board's agenda provided for a $13,000 key and lock system at the San Antonio hospital. "And this action was considered long before this report came out," he said.

Referring to mention of a reported shortage of funds from the San Antonio institution's snack bar, Telespaso said: "We are advised there was no basis for prosecution, so we did the next best thing. We let the people go that were involved."

GOVERNOR TOLD
 "The governor was informed of all this," the Department of Public Safety knows about it and, in fact, was asked to investigate the hospital system's administration, and we hope nothing like this will occur again."

The board made its request for an investigation in December after Rep. Paul Haring of Goliad brought up the possibility of a legislative inquiry into the hospital system.

ASKED PROBE
 The DPS confirmed Monday that the board had asked for an investigation and that the results of its report had been sent to Gov. John Connally and the board.

Connally said he had been advised of the report and had discussed it with the board officials and the Department of Public Safety. "I have no further comment on it," he said.

The board itself has worked during the past few months to tighten its personnel requirements including annual evaluations of employees and charging a committee to study ways of upgrading the system's professional and administrative personnel.

All Of State Bit Warmer

By The Associated Press
 All of Texas was a bit warmer today despite a puny cold front lying across northern areas of the state.

The front came close to stalling before dawn along a line linking Texarkana, Fort Worth and Childress and angling northward across the Panhandle.

Weather Bureau observers expected the cool air mass to cause no appreciable changes. Forecasts called for mild temperatures and clear to partly cloudy skies in all sections of Texas through Wednesday.

Early morning marks ranged no lower than 33 degrees at Amarillo.

Except for clouds around El Paso in the far west and El Cidros on the coast, it was clear everywhere in the state.

Top readings Monday varied from 79 degrees at Presidio to 56 at Amarillo.

There was nothing new in the report by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

LBJ Not Going To Latin America

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has sidetracked any consideration of a visit this spring to Latin America "because of international conditions."

White House press secretary George E. Reedy made this known Monday and said Johnson had been spending about three-fourths of his time on foreign affairs lately.

The principal problem now is Viet Nam.

Diplomats consider that all of Johnson's travel plans for this year are in doubt, if not actually suspended.

In his State of the Union message Jan. 4, Johnson said he hoped to go to Latin America and visit Europe during the year. Subsequently the President said he also hoped to visit the Soviet Union.

VISIT EUROPE
 Reedy answered in the affirmative when asked whether it was fair to say that Johnson still hopes to visit Europe and the Soviet Union.

As for the journey to Latin America, Reedy said Johnson, "of course, hopes to make the trip" at some time.

Latin-American diplomats in Washington said they found it reasonable that the President might wish to stay home at this time.

But they also pointed out that diplomatic problems in Latin America might have been an additional factor in delaying plans for a trip there.

President Guillermo Leon Valencia of Colombia said last month that plans were being made for a Johnson meeting with 10 South American presidents in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, April 23. American officials later confirmed that there had been some U.S. contacts with some of the governments involved.

But diplomats here were quick to point out there were many obstacles to such a meeting.

MILITARY JUNTA
 For example, Ecuador would have been represented at Rio by a military junta. This obviously would have been awkward for Venezuelan President Raul Leon since his country is working in the Organization of American States to impose some form of penalties on regimes that take power by force.

Furthermore, Venezuela has no diplomatic relations with Brazil — under the Venezuelan doctrine of nonrecognition of power-imposed governments.

Another uncertainty was whether Gen. Rene Barrientos of Bolivia could leave his country now. He has not yet fully consolidated his position after seizing power last November.

Steel Labor Talks Resume

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Labor negotiations in the basic steel industry resume today in an atmosphere of drama heightened by a May 1 strike date.

The United Steelworkers Union, still torn by an internal leadership struggle that forced a two-month recess in the talks, has three times refused to extend the deadline.

That leaves only 53 days for the union to reach agreement with 11 major steel producers on contract demands, including such issues as "dignity on the job" and total job security.

The union says the 53 days provide plenty of time.

FAST SETTLEMENT
 Some 150 union negotiators met Monday for last-minute instructions from President David J. McDonald.

Later, McDonald declined to make a statement.

PASSING REFERENCE
 A steelworkers spokesman said McDonald made a "passing and matter-of-fact" reference to extending the contract deadline.

The spokesman quoted McDonald as saying that such a decision could be made only by the union's 170-member wage policy committee. That would require a called meeting and none is planned.

The union last December presented the industry with some of the broadest demands in the history of their collective bargaining.

Neither side put a price tag on them, but the industry said they were too high. The industry set a 2 per cent ceiling which is about midway between the settlements of 1962 and 1963 and below the 40-cent hourly package the union won after the 116-day strike in 1959.

FAST SETTLEMENT
 President Johnson has let it be known he wants a quick and responsible settlement. Presumably the administration would look with disfavor on a settlement exceeding what it considers the inflationary bounds of 3.2 per cent.

The union's demand for a five-point program of total job security includes improved unemployment and disability benefits and pensions and safeguards against automation.

Michigan Wolverines Loose Without Cazzie

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Michigan, with Cazzie Russell on the bench, lost one that really didn't matter and Princeton, with Bill Bradley in the drivers' seat, won one that mattered very much, indeed.

The mighty Wolverines, the nation's top-ranked college basketball team, found themselves assured of the Big Ten title and the accompanying NCAA tournament berth and had All-American Russell ailing going into Monday night's regular-season windup with Ohio State.

So Coach Dave Strack sat Russell on the bench. Result — a 93-85 Ohio State upset, the top game in a scattering of regular-season activity.

Princeton, meanwhile, got a typical clutch performance from Bradley, Player of the Year and a two-time All-American, in edging Penn State 60-58 and leading the advance of five teams through first-round activity in the far-flung NCAA tournament.

Bradley, who had 22 points, six assists and nine rebounds, scored six clutch points in the last 2½ minutes as the Tigers held off Penn State in the first game of a tripleheader at Philadelphia, with all winners advancing to the semis of the East regional tourney.

Nationally third-ranked St. Joseph's, Pa., had its hands full and had to come from behind for a 67-61 triumph over Connecticut while Providence romped over West Virginia 91-67 in the other two.

At Lubbock, Tex., Houston edged Notre Dame 99-98 in overtime as Ed Winch dropped in two free throws with six seconds left and Oklahoma City nipped Colorado State 70-68 on Charlie Hunter's jump shot in the final second. That put Houston in the Midwest regional semis and Oklahoma City in the West semis.

Meanwhile, the tourney field was completed in playoffs at Waco, Tex., and Dayton, Ohio, to determine the Southwest and Mid-America Conference representatives. Southern Methodist took Texas 80-78 at Waco and Ohio held off Miami of Ohio, 76-71 at Dayton.

That made the line-up for the NCAA regionals, all Friday and Saturday, with the latest rankings and season records, now read:

East, at College Park, Md. — North Carolina State 20-4 vs. Princeton 20-5, and No. 4 Providence 23-1 vs. No. 3 St. Joseph's, Pa. 26-1.

Midwest, at Lexington, Ky. — No. 1 Michigan 21-3 vs. winner of tonight's Ohio U.-Dayton game, and No. 5 Vanderbilt 23-3 vs. winner of tonight's Eastern Kentucky-DePaul game.

Tribe Hopes For Upswing

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — There is confidence in the ranks of the Cleveland Indians that they might make a run for the American League pennant this season.

At least they think they've improved a great deal and acting manager George Strickland said, following an exhibition game Monday night with the Monterrey Sultans of the Mexican League, that "we've got speed, we have power and good pitchers — that's a good combination, don't you think?"

Cleveland is on a Mexican tour accompanied by Ford Frick, commissioner of baseball. The Indians will be in Mexico City tonight for the first of three games with the Mexico City Red Devils of the Mexican League.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts isn't with the club and Strickland, one of the coaches, is in charge. He liked what he saw Monday night as Cleveland beat Monterrey 5-1 in the first exhibition game of the year.

"It was a good game, especially since we've only been in training eight or nine days," said Strickland. "The boys did real well but I think it's a little too early to tell about our chances for the rest of the season."

Ralph Terry, the former Yankee pitcher now with the Indians, spoke up though. "It looks to me like we might come out in at least fourth and if things go right we could make a run for the pennant," said Terry.

Hutch Ghost Still Rides With Cincy

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Dick Sisler anxiously pulled the strings last summer for a man no longer physically able to handle the job. He thought the Yankees' funds would be second, raising the possibility by one game.

As a reward for his conscientious work, Sisler was named manager of the Reds in October, a few months before the tragic death of Fred Hutchinson due to cancer.

Sisler faces the future with mixed emotions, deeply respectful to the memory of Hutchinson, but intent on putting his own stamp on the ball club.

"All of us who were on the staff still can see Hutch standing in the dugout or sitting in the office. We'll never forget. But little by little those thoughts gradually will slip away. All of us have a job to do.

"I managed on my own last year after Hutch finally had to step down. But I didn't set down the rules. I could change the rotation and I did because Hutch was in no position to do it. I don't know how in the world a man could break in under more distressing conditions."

Sisler has given a great deal of thought to his plans for managing the Reds, with the help of a solid, loyal staff.

"I've seen some rules work one place and not work in others," he said. "The important thing is to back up your rules. I don't mind if a fellow wants to take a drink or a couple of beers. But if they go beyond to the extreme, they hurt the majority of the others."

For years Dick was judged by the impossible standards set by his father, George Sisler, en route to the Hall of Fame. It was difficult to persuade people to rate him on his own merits.

"The first couple of years I worried a lot about it," he said. "It was worse on me than on my brothers because I was a hitter. I found out in a hurry I would never match my dad in running, fielding or hitting. I had to make up my mind to go out and do the best I could on my own and forget about any comparisons."

Mick Says Center Easier To Play

By MICHAEL COULSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees are looking for a center fielder and their new leadoff hitter hopes to win the job during his 10-game trial. Win or lose, he won't have any trouble making the club.

Mickey Vernon's second Manager Johnny Keane's proposal Monday for a center-fielder to replace Roger Maris in the Yankees' first 20 exhibition games.

When Mickey explained why he'd like to return to the position he played for 13 years before quitting it late last season because of his battered knees.

"I think center field is easier to play," Mantle said. "There is more running but it is on a straight line. You just go as far as you can wherever the ball is hit. In right field, there is more quick stopping and that's what I don't like to have to do."

Keane, who has problems with other major league pilots would like to have, said he intends to play Mantle in center field for 10 games, then move him to right — with Maris switching to center.

"I want to see which way is best for the team," Keane said. "After 20 games, I believe I'll know, and the one who is in center after that time will be the center fielder."

Mantle will suit first and Maris is slated in exhibition games. Keane's idea being to give both sluggers more game appearances and still rest them in the late innings.

While the Yankees were busy plotting spring stratagems, the New York Mets were trying — unsuccessfully — to bring outfielder Joe Christopher into the fold. Christopher, a .300 hitter in 1964 and the first Met holdout since Marv Throneberry balked two years ago, met with club vice president Johnny Murphy for four hours but stuck to his bid for a 100 per cent pay hike to $20,000.

Jayhawk Queens Achieve Sweep In Net Matches

PLAINVIEW — The HCJC girls swept the boards here Monday in a tennis match with the girls of Wayland Baptist College.

In the No. 1 singles match, Sandra Sanchez defeated Vee Vincent, of Wayland, 6-0 and 6-1. Sandra Modgling, HCJC No. 2 singles, defeated Vincent, 6-0 and 6-0. In the No. 3 singles, HCJC's Louise Malaise downed Wayland's Lynn Wilson, 6-1 and 6-2. Waynette Dolan made it a clean sweep in the singles for HCJC by winning over Linda Jackson, 6-3 and 6-1.

Only one doubles match was played and it was won by the team of Malaise and Dolan over Jackson and Wilson, 6-1 and 6-3.

The next match for the Jayhawk team will be Monday in Clarendon for a conference tilt. Both the men's and women's division will compete.

Trinity swept all matches for a 7-0 triumph with Andy Lloyd beating Le LaBorde 6-2, 6-0 in the No. 1 match.

Coaches R. C. Moore and Cliff Patton will take 12 or 14 boys to the meet. Moore said the Steers will run against Coahoma Wednesday afternoon and this will decide who goes to the meet.

The team will leave Thursday morning and begin competition Friday morning. Finals are slated for Saturday. Last week the Steer tracksters took part in the Canyon Reef Relays in Snyder. Commenting on the meet Moore said the high wind Saturday didn't help the relay events.

Moore also said that the trip south gives the boys a chance to run in warm weather for a change. The unusually long winter this area has been experiencing has not helped the West Texas track season.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: DAN LaGRASTA, at the conclusion of spring football drills at San Angelo High School:

"There just never seems to be enough time (to accomplish all we set out to do). But we still accomplished the majority of our aims. We installed a few different things in our offense, the defense, which looked poor at the beginning, came around last week and, most important, we succeeded in getting our personnel placed, each boy at his proper position. We still have some problems along the interior line. Some of the big boys are going to have to come through next fall. Don Aylor's absence for most of the drills hurt. But he's the type of boy who should come fast and he should catch up in a hurry next fall."

RALPH HOUK, general manager of the New York Yankees:

"Why did I want Johnny Keane to manage our ball club? I'll tell you about him. Let me tell you first, though, about what I know about his background. Every ballplayer I ever met who played for Johnny Keane in all those years in the minors respected him. Ballplayers don't always like their managers, you know. And when he quit the Cardinals it was in a class way, after he won a World Series for them. They say he didn't like the Cardinal organization. Maybe he resigned to protest what the Cards did to Bing Devine, the general manager they fired earlier in the season. Devine was the man who brought Keane up to the majors. But I liked Keane for other reasons. I managed against him in 1955-56 when I had Denver in the American Association and he had Omaha and was finishing in front of my club. I saw him manage and make all the right moves at the right time, against me. He annoyed me that way. He pulled pitchers at the right time, left hitters in or took them out at the right time, and showed his players who was boss all the time. He did this in his soft positive way. We think he'll look very good in those Yankee pin-stripes."

Houston Shocks Irish, 99-98

LUBBOCK (AP) — Oklahoma City University's Chiefs, who beat Colorado State although losing two players via ineligibility, and Houston, which nipped Notre Dame to avenge a 30-point home-court loss two months ago, headed for regional NCAA basketball tournaments today.

Both games, played before a crowd of 4,500 Monday night, were thrillers and won in the final seconds as the four teams went through the first round of the NCAA regionals.

'Great Society' Legislation Emerging Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outlines of President Johnson's "Great Society" are emerging on Capitol Hill, with a vast program of federal aid to education next on the horizon.

Its first congressional test over, the $1.3-billion school aid bill — emphasizing assistance to poverty-stricken areas — enters a new House arena today.

In the Senate, Johnson's plan to extend and expand the three-year-old manpower training program has been readied for action.

And the administration's top-priority program of medical care for the aged, its terms broadened from those Johnson originally recommended, may go to the House soon after the education measure is cleared.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., of the House Education and Labor Committee will ask today for a Rules Committee hearing on the education bill. That is the next step on the way to a House vote, which probably will come late this month.

SOLID SUPPORT

The bill got solid Democratic support in Powell's committee, and the same kind of backing in the House itself is likely to speed the measure to the Senate. There have been hearings there on a parallel bill, but no legislation has yet emerged from committee.

The manpower training bill recommended by the Senate Labor Committee would extend the program for five years. That falls short of the permanent program Johnson sought. In the House, Powell's committee — with Republican support — has approved a two-year extension.

The Senate committee set a $465-million first-year spending ceiling on the extended program to train men for jobs.

The House Ways and Means Committee is nearing its crucial decision on medical care for the aged. A broadened version of the Johnson bill may be cleared in about a week by that committee, the graveyard of past medical care proposals.

RECESSION

Daily committee sessions on medical care, which began Jan. 27, have been recessed until Wednesday, while the legislation is drafted.

Along with it, the committee will send to the House an increase in Social Security benefits, probably 5 or 6 per cent. Johnson had talked of 7 per cent.

High Court Kills Louisiana Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down today a Louisiana requirement that applicants for registration as voters give a reasonable interpretation of the constitution of the state or of the United States.

Justice Hugo L. Black delivered the unanimous decision.

Louisiana appealed to the Supreme Court after a three-judge U.S. District Court in Baton Rouge ruled the requirement violated the federal Constitution. The District Court voted 2-1.

Louisiana's appeal emphasized that "it is fundamental that the right remains with the states to decide and declare the requirements for voter registration."

RACIAL BIAS

In reply, the Justice Department

contended racial discrimination "resulted from the inherent versatility of the test, which conformed gross disparities, along color lines, in the mode of administration, the selection of examination tests, and the grading of responses."

Black said there could be no doubt, from the evidence in the case, that the Baton Rouge court was "amply justified in finding that Louisiana's interpretation test, as written and as applied, was part of a successful plan to deprive Louisiana Negroes of their right to vote."

Movie Wins Guild Award

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "My Fair Lady" won the Screen Producers Guild Award as the year's best movie, thus making it the odds-on Oscar favorite.

"Slattery's People" was named the year's best television show. Ironically, it has been dropped for next year.

Highlights Of LBJ Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — Highlights of President Johnson's special message to Congress on law enforcement:

"We must arrest and reverse the trend toward lawlessness."

"I am calling on the attorney general, the secretary of the Treasury, and the other heads of the federal law enforcement arms to enlarge their energetic effort against organized crime. The Department of Justice will submit legislative proposals to the Congress to strengthen and expand these efforts generally."

"The return of narcotic and marijuana users to useful, productive lives is of obvious benefit to them and to society at large."

"The Justice Department will shortly submit proposals for a federal civil commitment statute to the Congress and for limiting the coverage of the mandatory minimum penalty sentences. The proposals will seek to the fullest extent consistent with the public safety to give offenders a maximum opportunity for return to a normal life."

DRUG SALES

"Increasing illegal sales of psychotropic drugs, such as barbiturates and amphetamines, must be controlled. I therefore urge the Congress to enact legislation to control the abuse of these dangerous drugs without constricting their legitimate medical uses."

"We must make effective local regulation of firearms possible by increasing federal control over interstate shipment of firearms. I am proposing draft legislation. It would amend the federal firearms act to prohibit firearms shipments in interstate commerce except among importers, manufacturers and dealers licensed by the Treasury Department."

"MUST STOP"

"Mail order sales to individuals would thus stop."

"Federal assistance has long been provided in various forms to local law enforcement. The department of Health, Education and Welfare will shortly submit requests for urgently needed additional appropriations in this field."

"I am proposing the Law Enforcement Assistance Act of 1965. This legislation would authorize the attorney general to assist state, local and private groups to improve and strengthen crime control programs and make generally available information as to their effectiveness."

Assassination Bill Presented

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration submitted to Congress Monday a bill that would make it a federal crime to assassinate, kidnap or assault a president of the United States.

The bill, submitted by Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, applies also to the vice president or any other officer next in line of succession, the president-elect and the vice president-elect.

A number of similar bills have been submitted by Congressmen and senators since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Katzenbach said the administration bill is designed to implement the recommendation of the commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren which investigated the assassination. He said Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon joined him in submitting the bill. Dillon was chairman of a committee appointed by President Johnson to study the report's recommendations.

The proposed law would apply a penalty of death or life imprisonment for killing or kidnapping the president or vice president.

Special Story On Pope, Vatican On TV Tonight

The recent announcement from Vatican City that Pope Paul VI had personally appealed to world leaders to come to a peaceful settlement in the war in South Viet Nam underscores the increasing role in world affairs that is being played by the Roman Catholic Church.

It is for this reason, particularly, that George Vicas, head of the NBC News European Production Unit which produced "The Pope and the Vatican," feels that an examination of the Church and Pope Paul is timely and important. The color special is scheduled on NBC-TV tonight from 9 to 10.

In his two months on location in Vatican City and in northern Italy, where Pope Paul was raised, Vicas talked with churchmen and laymen and filmed their views on the personality of Pope Paul and the current changes taking place and being discussed in the Church.
