Peking Fires Bitter Snipe At Russians

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China accused the Soviet government today of being "under the thumb of U.S. imperialism, the common enemy of the people of the world."

The accusation was made by the official Peking People's Daily in an editorial on the suppression of an attack March 4 by Chinese and North Vietnamese students on the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

SHARPEST BLAST

It was the sharpest Chinese criticism of the Soviet government since Premier Nikita Khrushchev was ousted last October. The Peking mouthpiece said:

"Chinese students in the Soviet Union fell victim to persecution in their just cause of supporting the Vietnamese people by opposing U.S. aggression. The Chinese people cannot but express once again their extreme indignation at and strong protest against the Soviet government's perverted action of fawning upon U.S. imperialism and suppressing and manhandling anti-U.S. students."

ACTION FLAYED

The paper said it was the first time that a Communist government had used force "in broad daylight" to suppress a demonstration against the United States and had conducted, "with ulterior motives, political persecution of seriously wounded students in the hospitals."

It said this would not have been strange if it had happened in czarist Russia, Nationalist China or in the United States.

It charged the Russians "had indeed gone to the extremes," by savagely beating up Chinese students and mistreating them "in a hundred and one ways," then rejecting with "an arrogant air" the Chinese protest.

"On the other hand, when the U.S. Embassy in Moscow lodged a so-called protest, the Soviet government humbly apologized," and workmen were sent to the embassy to clean and repair the ink-splattered embassy walls and broken windows, it said.

Girl Slain, Brother Shot

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — An 18-year-old Yakima girl was shot to death and her brother was wounded critically while they were out for a Sunday drive in the country with two other young people three miles south of here.

Sheriff's officers said Rosemary Armstrong died of a rifle bullet wound in her upper body. Her brother, Larry, 21, was wounded in the head and one hand.

Edward Raymond Day, was booked for investigation after he gave himself up and surrendered a rifle, investigating officers said. Day's home is near the scene of the shooting.

Sheriff's deputies said Armstrong and his sister were riding in a Jeep on the Ahtanum Ridge with Earl Spencer, 20, and Armstrong's wife, Connie, 18, when they stopped at a sign which read:

"No vehicles allowed. Violators will be shot, survivors prosecuted."

California U. Prexy Winner In Showdown

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Clark Kerr was still president of the 65,000-student University of California today after an apparent victory in a showdown with the Board of Regents over student discipline.

The regents appeared still divided on how swiftly and strongly uncooperative students should be disciplined.

Kerr, 53, a former labor negotiator who knows the art of dickering, and acting Chancellor Martin Meyerson withdrew their threat of resignations Saturday after a 5 1/2-hour, closed-door emergency session with regents.

The educators, however, left the door open. Their announcement said they had decided to continue "pending further discussions with the Board of Regents."

CLIMAX MEET Presumably these "further discussions" will climax the regular March 25-26 regents' meeting.

It was a barefoot youth carrying a placard with a shocking four-letter sex word on it who triggered events that nearly toppled the administration of one of the nation's biggest universities.

John J. Thomson, 23, a non-student with a Beatle haircut, claimed his obscenity crusade was an extension of free speech.

This was against a background of six months of trouble during which the campus' Free Speech Movement demanded more political advocacy freedom on-campus and "due process" discipline.

STUDENTS INVOLVED Nine persons—including three students—were arrested March 4 for following Thomson's lead—displaying or speaking four-letter words on the Berkeley campus.

The president and the acting chancellor agreed the students must be disciplined.

There was pressure from some regents for swift action. Students and a faculty investigating committee of the Academic Senate wanted the slower "due process" procedure followed.

773 ARRESTED Such earlier demands had resulted in last fall's demonstrations. There had been stunts, massive rallies, the arrests of 773 demonstrators and the departure of Dr. Edward W. Strong, Meyerson's predecessor, an advocate of strong discipline, on sick leave.

Calling an impromptu news conference, Kerr and Meyerson announced last Tuesday they would resign.

Court Upsets Edict Backing Censorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that a New York tribunal erred in upholding state officials who refused to license the showing of a Danish movie unless two asserted obscene scenes were eliminated.

The Supreme Court wrote no opinion in its action, which applied to a film called, "A Stranger Knocks." The court, however, cited a March 1 decision in a Maryland movie censorship case. In the Maryland case, the court said that state's law did not provide for a quick judicial review of asserted obscenity of films.

The Motion Picture Division of the New York State Education Department had denied a license to Trans-Lux Distributing Corp., owner of U.S. distribution rights for the Danish movie. Trans-Lux appealed to the Supreme Court, contending the state censorship law as applied was an unconstitutional prior restraint on freedom of expression.

The Court of Appeals of New York State in approving denial of a license said the two scenes had nothing to do with expression but instead depicted conduct.

Jets Slam Red Depot

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — More than 100 U.S. Air Force and Navy planes smashed a North Vietnamese ammunition depot only 100 miles south of Hanoi today. Officials said it may have been the most punishing raid on North Viet Nam to date.

Earlier story on Page 1-b.

Col. Hal I. Price, director of operations for the 2nd Air Division, identified the target as Phu Qui. He said 30 buildings for storage of ordnance, including weapons and ammunition, were hit.

CRAFT CRASHES One U.S. Navy propeller-driven aircraft reportedly crashed short of a carrier as it was returning after the strike. Price said it was not learned whether the plane crashed because of battle damage. He added it was the only known loss of the raid and damage suffered from ground fire was light.

Price said preliminary reports from pilots said there were numerous secondary explosions during what he termed an excellent strike. He said when full reports are in, the Phu Qui ammunition depot probably can be referred to in past tense.

SOUTH OF HANOI The depot is located 100 miles south of Hanoi, 180 miles north of the border and 38 miles from the frontier of Laos. Price said the strike was valuable from a military standpoint because the depots were in a strategic position along the Ho Chi Minh supply trail.

Price said the 30 buildings hit ranged up to 135 feet long and 35 feet wide.

The target area was spread over a square mile and the buildings were widely dispersed. The ammunition depot was ringed with considerable flak, Price said, but an element of surprise was apparently on the side of American raiders.

Price said the attacking force—which came from Southeast Asian bases—used rockets, 20mm cannons and bombs. The aerial strike force was made up of about two-thirds Navy and one-third Air Force. No Vietnamese planes participated.

Price said no enemy aircraft rose during the raid, which started about 2 p.m. and ended at 4 p.m.

Demonstrators March In Dallas

Civil rights demonstrators assembled at the Good Street Baptist Church and then marched four-abreast, mile-long column, through downtown Dallas yesterday in support of the Negro voter registration in Selma, Ala. The march ended at

Farris Plaza where the marchers heard eulogies to the memory of the late Rev. James Reeb of Boston. Story on page 4-A. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Alabama Sheriff Blocks Cleric Mourner March

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Sheriff James G. Clark took command of a city street today and barred a march by about 500 Negro and white ministers, priests and nuns seeking to hold a memorial service for a slain clergyman.

The solid ranks of marchers, moving slowly five abreast, had planned a service at the county courthouse for the Rev. James J. Reeb, Boston minister fatally clubbed by a white gang here.

"You will not march past this point," the sheriff told the marchers. His khaki-uniformed deputies and possemen blocked the street.

TROOPERS MASS State troopers massed a block away.

Selma's Public Safety director, Wilson Baker, was not there.

Within 15 minutes, however, Baker and a force of city policemen arrived. The city officers relieved the county possemen and stood facing the demonstrators.

"We don't intend to arrest anyone," Baker said to the crowd. "Don't get your hopes up. Return to the church."

The city policemen turned their backs on the demonstrators and faced the county officers and troopers.

One Negro leader had said that Baker had provided a march route for small groups — not a massed line — to go to the courthouse.

LINE FORMS Clark said demonstrators at the courthouse would disrupt orderly voter registration.

A long line of Negroes formed at the courthouse for the second registration day this month. About 25 lined up at the courthouse in nearby Camden.

The sheriff told the Negro leaders that they had broken faith with the city because they

Followers Of Peron Lag Slightly In Vote

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Followers of Juan D. Peron made a strong showing against President Arturo Illia's government in congressional elections Sunday, but partial returns indicated that the Peronists fell below their 1962 record.

Argentine voters elected 99 congressmen in peaceful balloting which showed that electors split sharply between pro and anti Peronists, apparently as a result of recent provincial elections showing a strong undercurrent for the exiled dictator.

16 PROVINCES Proportional representation voting in 16 provinces and the federal capital gave Illia's People's Radical party a narrow edge in the popular vote but an even split in the lower house seats at stake.

Unofficial returns from six provinces, including the capital, Buenos Aires, gave Illia's party 31 seats to 31 for the Peronist Popular Union. The neo-Peronist Three Banners party took one seat, the (conservative) Progressive Democrats and the left-of-center Integration Development Movement each won 3 and the Socialists won 1.

Navy Takes Measures Against Overfed Sailors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy is fed up with overfed sailors.

It has instructed ship and station commanders to crack down on enlisted men guilty of what the Navy delicately calls "dietary indiscretion."

If necessary, commanders are authorized to recommend that a stubbornly fat sailor be kicked out of the Navy.

POSITIVE MEASURES "Obesity actually constitutes an abnormal state of health and it is essential that all commands take positive measures to reduce obesity among members of the naval service," said a recent order.

Officers, too, must fight against becoming paunchy. They are covered under different regulations which lay down fairly stiff requirements for officers under 40 but are lenient for older men.

The Navy instruction sets forth a classification called "disqualified (obesity)." This is defined as referring to men "whose weight in relation to the body structure and musculature constitutes obesity to such a degree as to render them militarily unsuitable for retention in the naval service."

KEEP CHECK Commanders were told to give particular attention to "the general appearance and physical condition of the assigned personnel as related to obesity."

Also, naval medical officers were ordered to keep a close check during sick call, routine physical examinations and similar contact with enlisted men and to report to commanders any men becoming flabby.

The instruction says that men are to be classified in the "disqualified (obesity)" group if they are over the maximum allowable weight, cannot pass physical fitness tests because of their weight or "present an unsuitable military appearance due to obesity."

STAND DIET Men so classified must show up before a medical officer who will examine them "to determine whether the overweight condition is due to obesity or unusual body structure; whether the overweight condition is caused by dietary indiscretion rather than secondary to an underlying abnormality; and whether the man can stand an enforced weight-reducing diet and appropriate exercise schedule."

If his physical condition permits, a fat sailor will be placed on a mandatory six-month schedule of weight reducing through diet and exercise. If he still is too fat after the six months, he'll be recommended for separation from the service.

Voting Right For All Is Johnson Aim

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson goes before a joint session of Congress tonight to outline his proposals aimed at assuring what he terms "the most basic political right of all — the right to vote" for all Americans.

The White House announcement Sunday night that the President had accepted an invitation from congressional leaders to address the Senate and House at 8 o'clock Big Spring time tonight on "a voting rights bill and any other matters the President may desire to discuss" came as a surprise.

Saturday, Johnson told a news conference he would send his voting rights message to Capitol Hill and that copies of it would be ready about 9 a.m. today. Aides said Sunday night the bill is not expected to go to the Hill until Wednesday.

JOINT SESSION Plans for the joint session were announced after the President huddled at the White House Sunday afternoon with advisers and congressional leaders of both parties.

In front of the executive mansion demonstrators continued their round-the-clock picketing to demand federal intervention in the Selma, Ala., racial situation. Earlier in the afternoon, civil rights groups held a big rally in Lafayette Park across from the White House.

Word that the President was going before Congress capped a weekend during which he conferred for more than three hours with Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace. Johnson said he told Wallace he understood the concern of "Negro citizens of Alabama who have systematically been denied the right to register and to participate in the choice of those who govern them. They feel they're being denied a very precious right."

DENY DEMOCRACY The President then told his Rose Garden news conference that he was determined "to give all our people the right to choose their leaders," adding: "To deny this right, I think, is to deny democracy itself."

Television and radio networks will carry the President's speech tonight. It comes just 10 weeks after he delivered his State of the Union message to Congress in a similar nighttime personal appearance.

Contents Of Bill Unveiled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's new bill for quick, automatic action to assure voting rights for all the people would apply primarily to four Southern states and Alaska.

Federal officials active in getting the bill ready for submission to Congress, perhaps by Wednesday, told reporters this at the White House today.

They explained what it contains and how it would operate. They said the states which would feel the heaviest impact are those where fewer than 50 per cent of the people registered or voted in the 1964 national election in November.

The states are Alaska, where only 49 per cent of the voting age population voted in the 1964 election; Alabama with 39 per cent; Georgia with 43 per cent; Louisiana, 47 per cent, and Virginia with 48 per cent.

The national average is a little above 60 per cent.

SPECIAL CASE The officials said Alaska is a special case, and apparently it is so cold by early November that not quite half of the people turn out.

But in the other four states, the administration regards abuses and discrimination as the primary reasons for keeping people off the registration rolls and away from the polls.

And in these states, the officials said, the bill would propose abolishing all state standards for voting except those dealing with age, residence, conviction of a felony, confinement in a mental institution, and finding of incompetency.

SIMPLE FORM All anyone would have to do would be to fill out a simple registration form listing such things as name, address and length of residence.

The government proposes to apply the new law not only to federal but also to state and local elections.

If state officials don't get the people registered, federal officials would be empowered to do so under terms of the bill. The present thinking is that the Civil Service Commission will perhaps use its own employees, in the latter event. People then could be registered at federal buildings or perhaps post offices.

LOCAL PEOPLE If federal officials have to be used, they would be picked by the Civil Service Commission and would be local people if possible. But the commission would be authorized to bring in outsiders.

The officials said tough penalties would be imposed on anyone who uses coercion to keep people from registering and voting. The proposed law would impose a maximum penalty of $5,000 fine and 5 years imprisonment.

Will Federal Budget Be Balanced In '68?

By OVID MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal budget may be balanced in 1968 — but any prediction now is necessarily speculative, Budget Director Kermit Gordon has told Congress.

Gordon and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon had a long, closed session Jan. 28 with the House Appropriations Committee for general discussions of the budget. The following questions and answers are selected and condensed from the transcript of that session.

Q — Do you believe we can "afford" to have a balanced budget?

Dillon — Certainly we can afford to have a balanced budget and I think we should have one. The ideal situation is one in which the economy is operating at a reasonable level of full employment, with a fully balanced budget. One thing that is most important for the nation and for all of us right now is to continue the price stability we have had for the last 6 years.

Gordon — As Secretary Dillon said, the federal budget affects the performance of the economy and the performance of the economy is reflected in the results of the federal budget. There is nothing you can do about that relationship except to try to deal with it intelligently.

BE SPECULATIVE
Q — You would predict, very guardedly, a balanced budget in 1968, but this would be highly speculative because much, if not almost everything, would depend upon the state of the economy and the level of activity in the economy?

Gordon — Exactly, sir.

Q — Would it be fair to say that the budget under any administration is more or less a political document and tends to be optimistic and to present an unduly hopeful, more rosy picture than might be generally justified?

Dillon — We try to present the best picture we can in revenues. However, there is a tendency not to forecast a recession when the recession isn't there. There is a fear that by forecasting a recession you could create the psychological conditions that would bring it about. I don't think any administration has ever forecast that six months later or nine months later we were going to start having a recession.

BELOW BARRIER
Q — It is perfectly obvious that Congress can't keep on appropriating in excess of $100 billion a year and expect the administrative expenditures budget to stay below the magic barrier of $100 billion. When are you going to break through that barrier?

Gordon — I am afraid I just don't know the answer to the question. I would certainly agree that if the Congress appropriates something in the neighborhood of $105, $106 or $107 billion, on a continuing basis, it is very, very unlikely that budget expenditures would not rise above $100 billion. But the relationship between appropriations and expenditures is really a much looser one than most people think. There are some requested appropriations in this budget which may never result in expenditures. Others may not result in expenditures for as much as five or more years.

Q — I am somewhat concerned about to what extent we can actually control the budget. That is, in the Congress.

Gordon — Of the $99.7 billion of expenditures estimated for 1966 more than half is for national defense, and of the remainder more than half is virtually uncontrollable through the appropriations process. Examples of the uncontrollable items are: interest, $11.6 billion; grants, benefits and insurance, $4.2 billion; Commodity Credit Corp. expenditures for surplus agricultural commodities, $4.1 billion; grants to states for public assistance $3.5 billion; and payments under urban renewal and low-rent public housing contracts, $600 million.

GOOD START
The 1964 sales accomplishments marked a new high for the industry but seem doomed to a short life. But sales of 694,000 new cars in January and 683,000 last month started the new year off on a fast pace. It marked the first time the 600,000 mark had been exceeded in any January or February.

Detroit auto makers are not overconfident about the future. They are keeping closest tabs to detect any sign of weakness. Despite their caution, they admit that all signs point toward a continued boom.

MORE POWER
One of the most significant trends in the auto business is the customer's desire for more powerful engines.

V-8 engines, which were the choice of just over 50 per cent of car buyers as recently as 1961, have gained favor with about 70 per cent in the 1965 model run to date, with all indications being that the figure will go higher.

A survey of what people ordered in the first 2.7 million cars built in the industry's 1965 model run showed:

On bucket seats, for example, more than 25 per cent of the buyers ordered them. This compared with 18.3 per cent in 1964 and 18.7 per cent in 1963.

AIR COOLING
On air conditioning, about 21 per cent of 1965 models are so equipped compared with 17.9 per cent, 14.1 per cent and 11.3 per cent in the three preceding years.

On automatic transmissions, the installation rate has reached 80 per cent on 1965 models, compared with 77.7 per cent the preceding year. The figures for 1963 and 1962 models were 75.6 per cent and 74.2 per cent.

Oil Producer Crenshaw Dies
WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Albert Crenshaw, 78, former school teacher and long-time oil producer, died Sunday. Crenshaw had been active in the oil business for 50 years. Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the First Presbyterian Church.

A son, Joe Crenshaw, of Wichita Falls survives.

LBJ Rules Out Viet Negotiations
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says there is still no indication that Communist North Viet Nam "is prepared or willing or ready to stop doing what it is doing against its neighbors."

As a result, he indicated at his Saturday news conference, there is no hope for negotiations aimed at ending the war at this time.

Loan Agreement For Irrigation
BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The European Investment Bank announced a $10.3-million loan agreement with Greece to finance the irrigation of the Salónica plain. The 20-year loan carries an annual interest rate of 6.25 per cent.

ANSWERS TO WEEKLY QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠ 6♥ 8743♣ QJ1065♣ K4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1♠ Pass 1♦ 1♠

3♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. The cue bid will serve a double purpose. It will enable partner to stop at three no trump if that is the limit of his ambitions, or it may induce him to try for slam if his hand is so suited. You will be pleased to cooperate inasmuch as you have the equivalent of an opening bid now that the king of clubs has been promoted.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠ J64♥ Q10964♣ AK953

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 1♦ 1♠

2♠ Pass ?

What is your response?

A.—Three clubs. This hand offers distinct slam possibilities dependent on partner's holding in spades. The jump shift, therefore, is clearly indicated. This is the strongest possible passed hand partner could expect and surely you will settle for no less than game in diamonds.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ AJ♥ Q4♣ QJ863♣ Q975

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1♠ Pass 1♦ 2♥

2♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. A mere return to three clubs would be grossly inadequate. Partner has shown a hand of reasonably good proportions and your hand has the strength of an opening bid.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠ J1073♥ 62♣ Q83♣ K1092

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 1♦ 1NT

Pass Pass Double Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. This is a rather light holding with which to leave the double in, but we can't be sure which suit to bid and even if East should make his contract it wouldn't be game.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ 65♥ KQJ63♣ A982♣ A Q

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♥ 1♠ Pass 2NT

Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. Your hand is slightly unbalanced and you should make some effort to play at a suit contract. If partner takes you back to three hearts, bid four, if his call is three no trump, pass.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ 9104♥ KQ10862♣ K643

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1♠ Pass 1NT Pass

2♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. No thought should be given to bidding three diamonds. Partner has indicated a probable six card suit since he didn't like no trump and failed to show another suit on his rebid. Furthermore, he might easily have a singleton diamond.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ Q973♥ K105♣ AKJ1082

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 2♣ Pass

3♠ Pass 4♥ Pass

5♠ Pass 5♦ Double

What do you bid now?

A.—Seven spades. This should be a pretty safe investment. East's double of five diamonds indicates that little of partner's values are in that suit. The spades are solid and either your heart holding solidifies partner's or your clubs can be set up for discards.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ K965♥ QJ1092♣ Q42♣ 3

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1♠ Pass 1♦ 1♠

2♠ Double Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. If partner had wanted to hear from you he would have doubled one club. This is strictly a business double and you have no reason to run.

Israel, Bonn Reach Accord

JERUSALEM, Israel Sector (AP) — Israel's agreement to open diplomatic relations with West Germany was reported today to be without conditions.

Israel's acceptance of the West German offer of full relations, was announced Sunday. The foreign ministers of the 13 Arab nations in Cairo to recall their ambassadors from Bonn and to break relations with West Germany if Bonn recognized Israel.

A spokesman said the Arab representatives also decided to sever economic ties with West Germany "if she insists on adopting a hostile attitude toward any Arab country." This appeared to provide a loophole for governments that hesitate to take action that could hurt their financial interests.

TRADE MISSION

Premier Levi Eshkol's Cabinet accepted West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's offer of diplomatic ties after a four-hour meeting Sunday. Informed sources said no conditions were attached. Israel now has a trade mission in West Germany.

There had been reports earlier that Israel had demanded shipment of the $16 million worth of arms which West Germany refused to supply in a futile effort to appease President

Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

A government spokesman said Eshkol told the Cabinet there is "good reason to assume that outstanding questions between Israel and the West German government which have been under dispute will come to an agreed settlement."

The decision of the Arab foreign ministers to sever ties with Bonn was not carried unanimously, conference sources said. Morocco, Tunisia and Libya "expressed reservation" pending approval of their heads of state, they said.

The ministers could not agree on granting recognition to East Germany. Nasser told an election rally Saturday night the United Arab Republic would recognize East Germany and take retaliatory measures against West Germany regardless of what other Arab States do.

Demonstrations Are Peaceful

By The Associated Press

Groups of Negroes and whites throughout the nation staged peaceful Sabbath demonstrations over the racial events in Selma, Ala.

In pulpits and at rallies Sunday there also was mourning for the Rev. James Reeb, white Boston Unitarian minister fatally beaten in Selma last week.

The four largest demonstrations — each drawing crowds estimated at 15,000 or more — were in New York; Washington, D.C.; San Francisco, and Boston.

The thousands marching through New York's Harlem in the 1½-hour demonstration were whites and Negroes. The whites were mostly well dressed and appeared to be of middle-income status.

"WITH SELMA"
A banner reading "We March With Selma" was black and white. The two men who carried it were black and white.

Bayard Rustin, a leader of the big civil rights march on Washington in 1963, said the representation by the middle class showed "a deepening commitment" of that group.

A rally in front of the White House in Washington ended peacefully. Eight members of the American Nazi party carrying anti-Negro signs were present. Hundreds of sign-waving pickets demanded federal intervention in Alabama.

A crowd massed in the capital's Lafayette Park to hear several speakers.

In downtown San Francisco, more than 16,000 civil rights demonstrators held two massive demonstrations. An afternoon rally had drawn an estimated 6,000 to 7,000 marchers.

BY TORCHLIGHT
Sunday night, some 10,000 persons in a torchlight procession heard Protestant Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike pray for God "to stiffen the spine of the President of the United States."

Bishop Pike, who recently returned from Selma, called on huge masses of people to pour into Selma and protest if a federal court refused to lift its injunction against civil rights marchers.

A simple story about a simple engine.

This is what makes a VW go.

It's a VW engine, plain and simple. It doesn't have Super Skyrocket Thrust Or Dyna-Turbo-Chargers. And it isn't a Power Plant.

When you look at it, you don't feel inferior to it. (Some people even think it's a funny little engine. Until they see how fast it pushes our funny little car.)

But VW owners don't think it's funny. In fact, most of them don't think about it at all. They only know that every time you turn the key, something goes "rr-r-UM." And you're off.

The engine looks small because it is small. As you can see, there's no radiator, water pump or water hoses.

Because (as you can't see) a big fan cools it with air, not water. That's why our engine can't freeze when it's freezing, or boil when it's boiling.

Each part we left out is a part you'll never have to repair. And the parts we left in were so thoughtfully designed that they don't have to move very far or very fast to do their job.

So even when the engine does hard work, it doesn't work hard. It's that simple.

And a relaxed engine uses gas more efficiently. Ours averages 32 miles per gallon of regular.

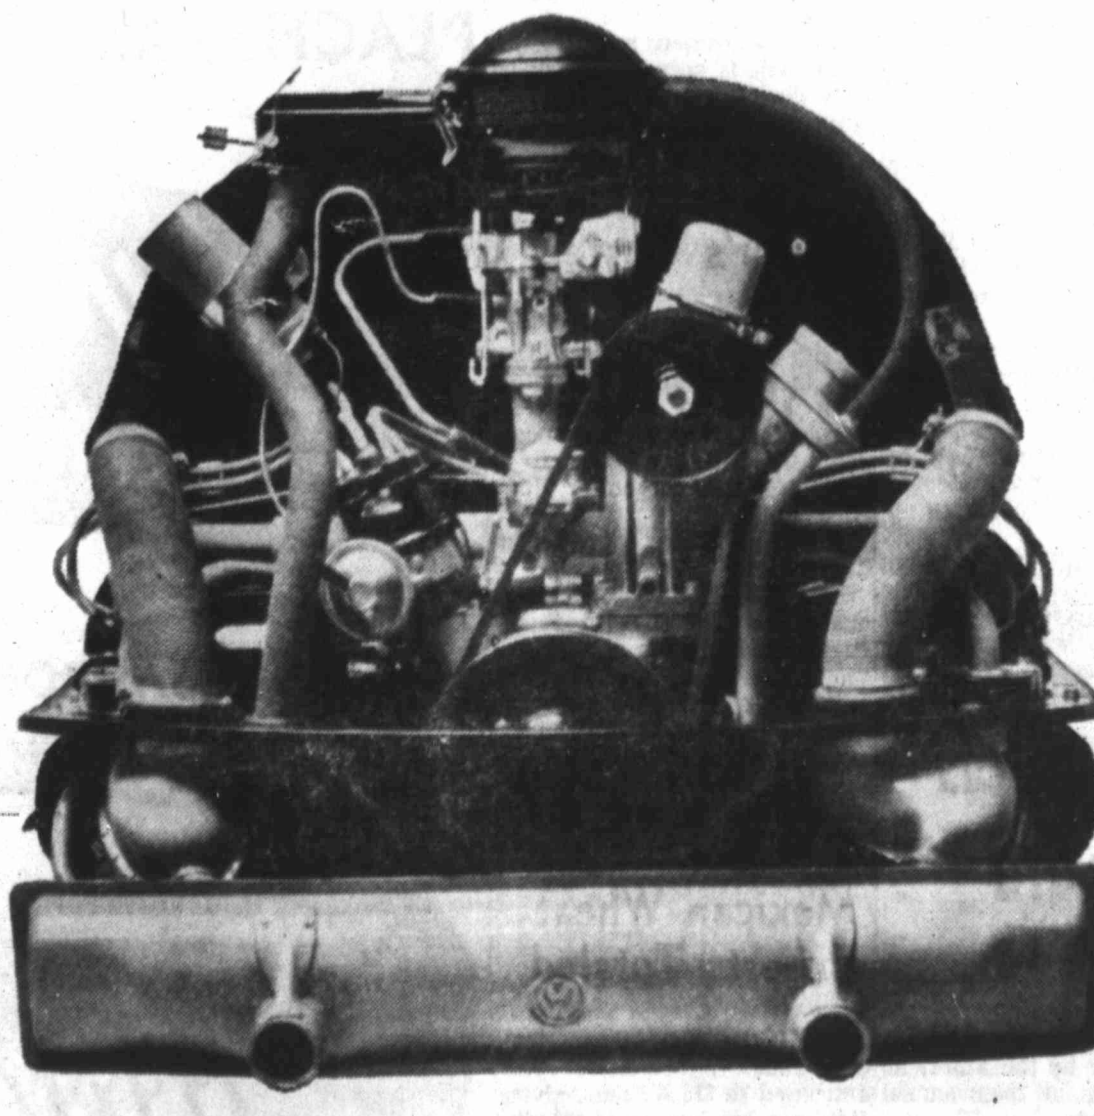

If you run it for a long, long time (like most people do) the day may come when your wife says: "It's making funny noises."

That's the day you'll discover that repairs are every bit as simple as the engine itself.

A VW mechanic can replace the whole works in 90 minutes. (If he ever has to.) And the parts are laid out so he can fix them the minute they need help. (But they almost never do.)

You don't see an engine like that very often. So, if you're planning to buy a Volkswagen, take a good look at the picture.

Because when you drive our car long enough, you'll forget what our engine looks like.

Texans Stage Mass Protests

Thousands of Texans took to the streets in orderly fashion Sunday to protest racial violence in Alabama and to pay tribute to its latest victim, Rev. James Reeb of Boston.

By far the largest turn-out was in Dallas, where 2,500 whites and Negroes formed a mile-long column and marched four-abreast through the heart of the downtown section.

Three young men believed to be members of the American Nazi party were arrested, and devotees to the Black Muslims tried to sell the newspaper "Muhammad Speaks." But there was no violence.

Among the Dallas marchers were five Negro members of the Dallas Cowboys National Football League team.

OTHER CITIES

Demonstrations also were held in Houston, San Antonio, Fort Worth, El Paso, and Austin.

More than 1,000 persons gathered in El Paso's San Jacinto Plaza to hear prayers and talks in both English and Spanish. Protestant, Catholic and Jewish spiritual leaders took part in the service.

A crowd of 1,000 gathered in front of the city hall at Houston and heard three white clergymen relate their experiences in Selma, Ala., last week. About 400 attended a memorial service in front of the Alamo for the Rev. Mr. Reeb, a white Unitarian minister beaten to death at Selma last week by white men.

In Austin about 125 persons attended a church memorial service for Reeb. Officials said a collection of $118 taken at the service would be distributed equally between the Reeb Memorial Fund and the NAACP.

More than 1,000 persons attended a rally in front of the Fort Worth city hall and had five ministers—Catholic, Unitarian, Lutheran and Baptist and Church of Christ eulogize Reeb.

BOMB CALL

Fort Worth police said that telephone calls before the march said a bomb had been planted in the building where the marchers assembled but that the warnings proved to be false.

A corps of 200 Dallas policemen were on duty for the city's largest civil rights demonstration in history. The march took 35 minutes and wound a mile and a half from the Good Street Baptist Church to Ferris Plaza, across the street from the union railroad terminal.

Asst. Police Chief Charles Batchelor gave the official estimate of 2,500 in the march and 3,000 at the hour-long program at the plaza.

Many of the marchers were women and students, and about one in five was white. Placards were carried reading "Viet Nam or Alabama" and "Marching for James Reeb" and "God please help George Wallace" (governor of Alabama).

VARIOUS GROUPS

The Texas marchers were sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and various religious groups. The AFL-CIO and the United Auto Workers (UAW) were represented.

Rev. John Stevens of Houston, rector of Saint Timothy's

Episcopal Church, told the Houston crowd of a man he met in Selma:

"A man there told me that he looks at himself in the mirror when he shaves in the morning and sees a black face, and wonders, 'What indignity will befall me today because I am black?'"

Leaders of the service at San Antonio placed a wreath in memory to Reeb at the base of the Alamo Cenotaph.

About 100 students from Jesuit High School led the Dallas march. They were followed by Cowboy football players Pettis Norman, Jim Steiger, Amos Marsh, Cornell Green and Frank Clark.

Marsh made a speech at the plaza, and said:

"They tell us to wait a little longer. Can we wait another 300 years for our rights?"

"NO, NO" the crowd shouted in response.

Clarence Laws of Dallas, regional director for the NAACP, said one purpose of the demonstration was to put President Johnson and Atty. Gen. Katzenbach on notice that Negroes are "getting weary after more than a century of promises."

Laws said members of his race wanted "the fulfillment of democratic principles, now."

Dallas police quickly hustled off to jail three young men who brandished anti-Negro placards along the parade route. Their signs read "Who needs niggers" and "Africa 8,765 miles." One of the trio had blackened his face with paint.

"ADVERTISING" CHARGE
Batchelor, who said he understood all three were American Nazi Party members, said charges of advertising on the sidewalk without a permit would be filed against the men. The black-faced youth will be charged with wearing a mask in public, which Batchelor said broke an old Texas statute.

The three were generally ignored by the marchers.

Elaborate preparations had been made for the Dallas march. Demonstration leaders had secured parade permits and police wearing jack boots and white helmets precluded any counter demonstration.

Patrick J. Hunter, S.J., speech director at Jesuit High School, mentioned to those assembled that Ferris Plaza was only three blocks from where President Kennedy was slain in Dallas.

He said Kennedy died at the hands of "violence and hatred" and called for an end to brutality in all forums.

The crowd then sang "We Shall Overcome" and picked up their placards and dispersed.

Loss Heavy In Inn Fire

ARLINGTON (AP) — A fire caused an estimated $35,000 to $50,000 damage Sunday to an unoccupied unit of the Inn of the Six Flags.

A spokesman for the Inn, who estimated the damage, said the fire was started at 5:32 p.m. and turned in an alarm at 6:12 p.m.

Seven rooms suffered heavy fire damage and others smoke damage in the blaze of undetermined origin.

The spokesman said the 67-room unit is normally occupied only during the time Six Flags amusement park is open.

Students Protest Editor's Ouster

HOUSTON (AP)— Rice University President K. S. Pitzer was to get a petition this afternoon, signed by approximately 500 students and asking reconsideration of the dismissal of student newspaper editor Hugh Rice Kelley.

The petition was signed Sunday.

Kelley, a Houston senior, was ousted Saturday by Dr. S. W. Higginbotham, dean of students, "for a deliberate flouting of the authority of the university." Kelley refused to answer his summons, Higginbotham said. Kelley said he had asked Higginbotham to contact him in writing.

Mexican Wheat Exports Totaled

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican wheat exports last year amounted to 325,377 tons, giving Mexico a net income of $32,500,000, according to the National Bank for Foreign Trade.

The bank said Red China purchased an undetermined amount of the wheat.

Corn exports last year were valued at $11,680,000.

Ill Cardinal Some Better

CHICAGO (AP) — A hospital spokesman today expressed "moderate optimism" over a slight improvement in the condition of Albert Cardinal Meyer, who spoke Sunday for the first time since his brain operation Feb. 25.

The spokesman said the prelate, 62, "showed definite improvement" and spoke to three persons.

A cancerous tumor was removed from Cardinal Meyer's head in a 4-hour, 20-minute operation.

Physicians said that although the cardinal was conscious, he was still lethargic. He has not been told the walnut-sized tumor was cancerous.

Nikita Votes, And Retreats

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev returned to obscurity today with only a comparative handful of the Soviet Union's 228 million people aware of his former leader's first public appearance since he fell from power five months ago. Slightly more than 100 Russians saw Khrushchev Sunday as he met his wife at their new Moscow apartment, drove to a polling booth near the Kremlin to vote in local elections, then drove off, presumably to his country home outside the capital.

The Communist party organ Pravda, only paper to publish here today, made no mention of Khrushchev's appearance. Neither did the Soviet radio or television.

The 70-year-old former party and government chief appeared ruddy, cheerful and physically fit despite the official reason for his ouster—advancing age and deteriorating health.

"LIKE PENSIONER" Asked how he felt, he replied: "Like a pensioner — not bad, not bad."

Despite rumors of heart trouble, Khrushchev walked briskly up the 30 steps to the polling station.

Two security officials were with Khrushchev. It was not known if they were there to protect him or prevent too close contact with foreign newsmen.

Other security men hovered at the fringe of a crowd of 75 or more Russians waiting outside the apartment house next to the Canadian Embassy where Khrushchev stopped to pick up his wife, Nina.

As Khrushchev stepped from the car wearing the same gray Persian lamb hat he had as premier, applause broke out and tears filled his eyes.

TEARS IN EYES "Thank you, thank you," he said to the crowd which grew rapidly as word of his arrival spread.

There were more security men at the polling booth where another crowd clustered to greet him.

Like any Russian, Khrushchev was asked to produce his internal passport for identification before voting.

"Don't you trust me?" he smiled.

"Yes, of course we trust you," replied the young woman at the desk handing him a ballot.

As in all Soviet elections, the ballot carried the names only of the Communist party's selection for each local government job. Voters could either drop it in the box unmarked, signifying approval, or mark out the candidate's name to show disapproval.

SAYS HELLO Khrushchev, like most other Soviet voters, dropped the ballot in unmarked. He talked briefly with a few persons, said hello to several journalists and left.

Khrushchev's reappearance obviously had the sanction of the new Soviet leaders, who had been under some pressure to clear up concern abroad over his fate. The Soviet authorities apparently decided to let him appear as an ordinary voter to fit the image of a peacefully retired man.

MRS. JOHN WILLIAM JENSEN

Miss Merrell Weds Lt. John W. Jensen

Miss Elizabeth Nina Merrell became the bride of Lt. John William Jensen in a double ring ceremony performed Sunday afternoon by the Rev. Donald Hungerford in St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Floyd Merrell Jr., 2306 Lynn, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jerome P. Jensen and the late Mr. Jensen, 891 Asbury Road, Cincinnati, Ohio.

White stock and gladioli were used with palm leaves to form massive arrangements for the altar. Miss Merry Lee Dibrell, organist, presented a prelude of nuptial selections and accompanied Mrs. Carl Bradley as she sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. Her formal gown of taupe de soie had a fitted bodice featuring a portrait neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. Molded into the midriff in a V-shaped panel was re-embroidered Alencon lace with seed pearls, and the front waistline was marked with a bow. An inverted V-shaped panel in the skirt featured the lace and pearls, and scattered motifs of the same design enhanced the back skirt which swept into a chapel train. Her fingertip-length veil of English silk illusion fell from a miniature coil topped with taupe de soie rose petals.

She carried a bouquet of feathered chrysanthemums and gladioli backed with white satin leaves and showered with French picot ribbon.

Mrs. Jimmy W. Tucker was the matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Cynthia Beale and Miss Andrea Martin, both of Dallas, and Miss Cindy Spruiell of Van.

The attendants wore Empire styled formal gowns of turquoise silk with a deep pleat at the front and satin binding at the midriff. The gowns featured trumpet sleeves and were worn with picture hats of matching fabric. Each attendant carried a crescent-shaped shower of snowshoe gladioli.

Serving as best man to the bridegroom was his brother, Tom Jensen, Silver Spring, Maryland. Ushers were Lt. Bruce Rankin, Bridgeville, Del.; Jon Liebondorf, Omaha, Neb.;

Sympathetic Attention Given Left-Handers

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP)—A South African teacher wants teachers of the world to give more effective and sympathetic attention to the problems of the left-handed child.

Pretoria teacher G. M. Batty, writing in a local education bulletin, says it is important that teachers themselves be taught to cope with left-handers. Special attention, he says, must be paid to the way left-handers are taught to write.

He says if a left-handed child has no guidance in using his pen, he may grow up with damaging "peculiarities—like the 'hook' position where the whole body is distorted. In the 'hook' one shoulder is held higher than the other and the spine is twisted. One hip is pushed forward to take most of the weight and one leg is probably hanging in midair, with the other hooked round the chair leg. This twisted posture easily does damage to growth, says Batty.

His suggestions for avoiding this and for helping the left-hander over his special difficulties:

The child should be put where the light falls over his right shoulder. If on a double desk he should be put on the left side so as not to disturb his neighbor.

Ball points should not be used. Left-handers should be brought up to use a fountain pen with a fairly blunt or angled point.

The slant of the writing should be either vertical or slightly backward, and the pen should be held at least an inch away from the point so the child can see past his hand.

Psychologists have shown considerable dangers of forcing natural left-handers to write with their right hand, says Batty. But teachers must not leave them to their own awkward devices or make them feel in any way that they're using the "wrong" hand.

Alabama Aims At Showing March Unsafe

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Attorneys for the state of Alabama planned to contend today that a Negro civil rights march from Selma to Montgomery—a distance of about 50 miles—is unsafe for all concerned.

The testimony was expected in a resumption of a hearing before U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. which began last Thursday. Civil rights leaders have completed their case. The state is taking its turn.

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama said Sunday in a news conference that he would provide what protection he can to the marchers, who will number in the hundreds, if the court rules the march can take place.

Negro civil rights leaders last week asked the court for an injunction to prohibit the state and other law enforcement agencies from stopping the march.

Two previous attempts to march have been broken up—once with the use of tear gas and club-wielding state troopers wearing gas masks. The second attempt was stopped peacefully after an apparent agreement between all parties concerned.

Wallace had ordered the state troopers to break up the first march by whatever means necessary. That march was attempted March 7. The second attempt came last Tuesday.

Testimony in the hearing was highlighted Saturday when Col. Albert Lingo, tough commander of the state troopers, told the court that one of his officers shot Jimmie Lee Jackson, a Negro laborer, during an outbreak of racial violence at Marion the night of Feb. 18.

Jackson had said before he died eight days later that a state trooper had shot him.

Appeal Cases Docketed Today

A jury panel was to report to Howard County court at 1:30 p.m. today to serve in the trial of a large number of appeal cases brought to the court from the city and the justices of the peace sessions.

Dee Jon Davis, county attorney, and Judge Lee Porter assumed that some of the numerous cases on the docket would be ready for trial. This entire week is to be devoted to the disposal of the pending appeal cases.

Extradition Request Filed

New Mexico's request to Gov. Connally that it be permitted to return Jack Eubank from Howard County jail to the New Mexico State Penitentiary is now in the hands of the Texas Attorney General.

Aubrey Standard, sheriff, has received a copy of the letter which Felix Rodriguez, acting warden at Santa Fe dispatched to the attorney general with the extradition request.

No indication when the Texas governor would act on the request was available. However, in ordinary cases, the approval of such requests is more or less a formality.

Meantime, no new developments have arisen in the efforts friends have been making to help the erstwhile Big Spring carpenter from being returned to the New Mexico prison to resume serving a life sentence for murder.

An attorney has not been officially retained to represent him. No legal steps have been launched to delay the proceedings.

Eubank, known here for seven years as Bob Johnson, escaped from the New Mexico State Penitentiary in 1957. He was picked up two weeks ago on orders from New Mexico and has been held in the jail here since that time.

Plot To Break Strike Charged

GALVESTON (AP)—Striking steelworkers at the Galveston Continental Can Co. plant charged plant officials today with planning an unprecedented attempt at strike-breaking.

Members of United Steelworkers of America threw up a picket line which a management spokesman called illegal.

J. D. Hall, local 6297 president, said all 39 local members were on the picket line. Jim Smith and Buddy Tinsley, union officials from Houston, said nine foremen from several plants produced 20,000 cans at the Port Arthur Continental factory last week.

They said Port Arthur union men later picketed a motel where the foremen were staying, and the foremen then voted 8-1 to give up the attempt.

They said Supt. R. W. Baer of the Houston Continental factory was the leader in the effort to break the strike, which began across the country March 1.

Baer said management's course in the dispute was undecided. "Right now, I'm trying to get into the plant," he said.

Truck, Train Crash Kills 2

GRAND SALINE, Tex. (AP)—A crash at Fruitvale near here early Sunday, involving a gasoline transport truck and passenger train, killed two trainmen.

The engineer and firemen of the T&P train burned to death. The truck driver escaped unhurt. Investigators said the cab of the tank truck had cleared the track when the crash occurred.

Killed were engineer M. J. Shadow, 58, and fireman R. L. Cannon, 55, both of Mineola. The train was en route from St. Louis to Fort Worth. Passengers were transferred to another train.

The fire was extinguished within an hour. Wreckage was cleared during the morning.

Seven Injured In Weekend Wrecks

Seven persons were taken to hospitals here during the weekend from auto accidents on city streets.

A car driven by Mrs. Jeanie Rose, Phoenix, Ariz., and going east on IS 20 near the Holiday Inn, struck a guard rail, jumped a curb, and then hit a tree some 140 feet away from the street, police reported.

Mrs. Rose and three passengers were taken by Big Spring Ambulance Service to Cowper Clinic-Hospital.

Other minor mishaps, locations and drivers, were 500 NW 3rd, Bernard Hastings, 902 Myrtle and Alec Bard reportedly received facial cuts, with Mr. Bard a possible concussion. Another passenger, Amanda Langley, received bruises, according to attendants.

The car driven by Mrs. Rose was a total loss, police said. Two pedestrians, Joseph J. Gayewski and Richard R. Kotfica, both of Webb AFB, were in the base hospital today after they were struck by a car at 1410 Harding Sunday morning.

The vehicle was driven by Vincent Kaprowicz, 4004 Connally, according to police. Gayewski received a compound fracture and Kotfica possible abdominal injuries and multiple contusions, according to hospital attendants.

Lions Hunted In Glasscock

A dozen hunters in jeeps and trucks, aided by a helicopter, spent a fruitless Sunday looking for two mountain lions which have taken up residence in north Glasscock County.

The hunt centered Sunday on the B. T. Houston ranch about 10 miles south of Stanton.

The lions, both of which have been seen on numerous occasions, killed a colt on a ranch in the area Friday. Heretofore, insofar as can be learned, they had not killed any animals but rabbits. Numerous rabbits have been found which had been slain by the marauders.

A Negro hunter from Snyder brought a team of dogs into the area some days ago. His dogs tracked the pair to a dead-end corner. The upshot of the chase, it was reported, was two dead dogs.

Two or three times other dogs have treed the lions only to have them break out before the hunters reached the scene.

One of the lions is described as large. He has been seen in the area for some time. His companion, smaller, showed up only in recent weeks.

Ranchers say the lions must have drifted up from Mexico.

Wreck Leaves Huge Salad

A tire blowout on a tractor-trailer transformed the service road, two miles east of Coahoma on IS 20, into a bowl for a king-sized tossed vegetable salad Sunday afternoon.

Arvin Henry, highway patrol officer, said that the mishap occurred to a transport truck loaded with 800 cases of lettuce, onions and cauliflower. The truck, owned by Franks Produce Co., Pensacola, Fla., was en route home from California.

The right tire blew out, Henry said, swerving the truck across the road and over the service lane where it crashed into an embankment. The refrigerator unit burst and the crates of lettuce, cauliflower and onions spilled out on the road.

L. R. Dollar, 37, who was driving, and Loyd B. Taylor, the relief driver, are in the Cowper Clinic-Hospital. Dollar escaped with minor bruises and lacerations. Taylor was thrown out of the cab and has a broken nose and deep cuts about the face and head. Neither is seriously hurt. Both live in Pensacola.

Henry said that most of the vegetables had been salvaged after the wreck. Trucks came to the scene from Colorado City and elsewhere to pick up the scattered crates of produce.

The name of Big Spring's Medical Arts Clinic - Hospital was inadvertently omitted from the list of those buying the grand champion steer of the Borden County Livestock Show Saturday.

The grand champion steer was shown by Rex Cox, and sold to Malone & Hogan Foundation Hospital, Cowper Clinic-Hospital, Medical Arts Clinic-Hospital, and Howard County Hospital Foundation, all of Big Spring, for $700. The champion weighed 860 pounds.

Notices are being sent to property owners involved in 41 suits for delinquent taxes advising them their cases have been set for trial April 1. The cases will be heard before Judge Ralph Caton in 118th District Court. These are but a few of the more than 200 tax suits on file in the court.

School Absentee Voting Begins

Absentee voting opened at the office of Howard County Clerk Pauline Petty this morning, for the Big Spring Independent School District. Absentee voting closes March 30.

Four candidates have announced for three places in the Big Spring district.

Flying To Bomb North Viet

A formation of Vietnamese fighter-bombers flies north from Da Nang air base Sunday to bomb military targets on Tiger Island, off the coast of North Viet Nam. U.S. jets supported the propeller-driven Vietnamese planes in the raid. Another raid against North Viet Nam military installations was carried out today by U.S. Air Force and Navy jets. (AP WIREPHOTO)

U. S. Jets Raid Cong Positions

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force and Navy jets attacked military installations in the southern part of North Viet Nam today in the second consecutive day of air raids on the Communist north.

U.S. B57 bombers made 23 strikes on suspected Viet Cong positions in two provinces of South Viet Nam. Heavy fighting was reported in various parts of the country.

A U.S. spokesman would not specify what targets were hit, how many planes took part or whether all the planes returned safely.

RED AGGRESSION
He said the raids were carried out "in view of the continued acts of aggression perpetrated at Hanoi's direction against the South Vietnamese people, the political and economic institutions."

A statement charged the Communists destroyed 32 bridges and committed 214 other acts of sabotage on road and railway officials, and murdered or kidnaped 41 rural officials during the past month.

Sunday 24 Vietnamese air force fighter-bombers supported by U.S. jets smashed a small

North Vietnamese island Navy base through which seaborne munitions for the Viet Cong were believed funneling.

LED BY KY
The raid Sunday was led by Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, commander of the Vietnamese air force.

South Vietnamese forces announced capture of another boat running arms for the Communist Viet Cong today and said it was being held in Quang Tri Province, north of the Da Nang air base.

The boat, a 50-foot fishing junk, carried 15 tons of Chinese and Czech arms. Five crew members were captured.

SALVAGE ARMS
The commander of South Viet Nam's northernmost military district, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, flew to the tiny naval station of Cua Viet to interrogate the prisoners and make arrangements to salvage the arms.

The crew scuttled the junk in 60 feet of water when a naval unit chased them into coastal water. The crew tried to swim to shore but were captured by Vietnamese sailors.

Thi said the prisoners admitted their boat carried 50 cases of Chinese and Czech rifles and a quantity of mines and explosives. Thi said the boat left the southernmost province of North Viet Nam three days ago.

Shooting Apparently Gangland Murder Try

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Police said a man was shot and wounded critically early today in an apparent gangland assassination attempt.

Officers said the shooting apparently was another in a string of gangland violence that has left 19 persons dead in the past year.

Investigators said Francis J. Smith, 44, of Tewksbury was shot in the eye, neck, chest and arm by two men who stepped up to his car as he stopped in front of a friend's home.

The friend, identified as Miss Marilyn Marks, 32, was seated next to Smith, but was not hit. She ran screaming from the car and called police.

Smith was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital for emergency surgery.

Police said Smith had been released from Walpole State Prison last November.

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — Employment of foreign workers in West Germany is expected to reach 1.2 million persons this year, the German Industrial Institute predicted, but added that in the next five years the figure would likely rise only another 100,000 to 1.3 million.

Eastern U.S. Has Snowfall

By The Associated Press

An inch or two of snow fell on New York and Pennsylvania Sunday night while a new mass of cold air moved down the Plains states, pushing a band of snow flurries along in front.

Bradford, Pa., reported two inches of snow and an inch or more covered Buffalo and Rochester, N.Y., and Dubois, Pa.

Snow flurries sifted on a stretch from Colorado to Minnesota. The only appreciable amount was about an inch in Denver, Colo.

In the far West, dry weather continued, threatening the alfalfa crop, a major local industry, in Washington's Puyallup Valley. Los Angeles had thunderstorms which were almost all noise and no moisture. Only a few hundredths of an inch of rain were recorded.

Recruits Can Choose Field

Under the Army's new "Choice Not Chance" program, voluntary enlistees can choose their fields from over 55 career groups and 198 occupations. High schools graduates are preferred, but there are no special educational requirements for this option.

Eligibility for the chosen vocational training is determined by special aptitude and physical examinations. If the enlistee qualifies, a guarantee is written into his future Army record stating he will receive schooling or on the job training in his chosen specialty.

out of the program. Under the Officer Candidate School option, potential candidates are tested and if qualified, receive their choice of option guaranteed in writing before enlistment. Also selected candidates are enlisted for only a two year period, under this program.

Foremost among Army volunteer enlistment options is the Graduate Specialist Program, which is limited to high school graduates only. If a high school graduate passes the qualifying examinations for enrollment as a graduate specialist he chooses the school he wants before he enlists. In the program there are over 107 different classroom courses.

These are a few of the enlistment options available to young men. Young men interested should contact the local Army Recruiter, Sgt. R. J. Woolverton, 297 1/2 W. 4th, or call collect AM 4-8940.

May Set A Trend

The Christian Democratic party in Chile, only a small minority in that country's multi-party system a few years ago, has now gained remarkable majority domination. That is welcome news in the United States, which this time last year was gravely worried that the Marxist socialist parties were about to pave the way for a Communist take-over in that South American country.

Last November, Sen. Eduardo Frei, Christian Democratic leader, surprisingly won the largest plurality in Chilean presidential election history, over Communist-supported Sen. Salvador Allende, leader of the United Socialist Party and the left-wing Popular Action Front (FRAP). Frei, however, was unable to get his non-Communist social reform program going without stronger congressional support.

The Christian Democrats were hoping to gain enough strength in the recent congressional election to put Frei's program over with center-right parties' coalition help. Surprisingly again, the Christian Democrats won a rare working majority in the lower house—the Chamber of Deputies that has most legislative power — and gained strongly in the Senate.

That should give the moderately leftist Christian Democrats a good chance to achieve democratic if somewhat socialist reforms considered essential to Chile's economic development, social progress and political stability. To aid Frei achieve a non-Communist social revolution, Washington and U. S. business interests are prepared to go along with his plan for compensated governmental partnership in U. S.-owned copper companies and nationalization of several U. S.-owned public utilities.

Frei's election victories should bolster the Christian Democratic movement in Latin America generally, adding strongly to its promise of being the best available alternative to Communist take-overs or rightist-military dictatorships.

Build In More Safety

With 100 million automobiles expected on this nation's streets and highways within a decade, intensified attention must be given every potential for improved traffic safety.

Driver training, law enforcement, better road design, and more efficient traffic control devices are the main hopes for keeping down deaths, injuries and property damage. But prevention of vehicle mechanical defects and construction of safer automobiles are important.

The Texas Legislature is now considering tightening this state's vehicle inspection law, which, as in other states, has been of significant benefit in accident prevention. But the automobile industry, for its own as well as the public's benefit, should strive to build more safety into automobiles, not only to help prevent accidents but to reduce the death toll and gravity of injuries in accidents that do happen.

American Motors President Roy Abernethy recently urged the automobile industry to "force feed" new safety features and design to the public. Safety devices have so far failed to become a hot selling point with car buyers, as have economy, horsepower, styling, and convenience gadgets. But we believe that the industry could and should strive to make car buyers more safety conscious.

Role Of An Opposition Party

WASHINGTON — The Republican party in Congress is undergoing a significant change. It is in the midst of a process of self-examination. Sincere and earnest efforts are being made to reconstruct the party.

The main point under discussion just now is whether it should be a party of "opposition," a "me-too" party, or whether it can reap the political advantages of criticism while proposing some workable alternatives.

OBVIOUSLY, the Democratic party will try to paint the Republican party as just being "against things." But a minority party has to do two things — to point out the errors and mistakes in the policies of the majority and, at the same time, to create in the public mind a confidence that the party out of power can deal more efficiently and effectively with problems of government if given the opportunity to do so.

There are today many vital questions which are being ignored. The government is running deficits continuously, and the dollar is thereby being weakened. Yet the proposals for spending more and more money multiply. Plainly, an opposition party has the duty to inform the public of the significance of this, because what happens to the money of the land can affect every single individual in it.

AT THE SAME TIME, there are many projects which can benefit the people but which the administration is not undertaking, and these the party out of power need have no hesitation in advocating.

Broadly speaking, the welfare of the people of the United States depends upon a free economic system, hence, those who are interfering with the operations of the national economy are producing unemployment and are weakening the whole profit structure.

ions, and their leaders have become politicians interested in giving the impression that they are gaining more and more for their members. Actually, conditions are being created which, for instance, have caused more and more automation to be introduced and many employees to lose their jobs.

WHILE THE American working man is better off than the workers in any other country in the world, it can be shown that he is not getting his just deserts. He is not sharing in the profits of industry as he should. This is largely because of the unbalanced nature of wage demands, which have plagued weaker companies with high costs that they cannot absorb. This inevitably results in extending the monopoly of the larger units in an industry, as many small companies are driven out of business, and the large ones get larger.

Labor-union behavior is not the only thing that requires governmental attention. There are incentives to the operations of industry itself which have too long been neglected. A party of opposition can delineate the unfavorable currents in our national economy and propose remedies for them. It also can recognize the merit of the American system and improve it.

THE REPUBLICAN party has plenty to do as a party of opposition. But its role should be to point out proposals that hurt the people, and approval of those projects which will help the private-enterprise system to increase the earnings of management and the share of the workers.

Billy Graham

My husband died over a year ago and left me with two small children. I can barely take care of our financial needs and I worry about raising the children alone. I think the children need the love of a father very much. . . A.F.B. The Bible teaches that it is not good that mankind should be alone, but God said, "I will make a helpmeet for him." Until such time may come as God sees fit to replace the deceased father and husband, you have one of the most tremendous responsibilities in all the world, that of being both mother and father to your children. They will be looking to you for guidance, and their little lives will be constantly influenced by your life. You cannot afford to make a mistake. Every step you take as well as every move you make will be shaping the destiny of the lives of those two children. It is possible that you could rear your children by yourself, but it would be so much better if they had the love and companionship of a consecrated, Christian father. They need the care of a father, and you need the help and understanding of a devoted husband. The Apostle Paul said, "But my God shall supply all your need, according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus."

Pressure Whiplashes Federal Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) — From President Johnson down, psychological pressure has whiplashed the key figures in Alabama's civil rights turmoil, but none more than the federal district judge in the case, Frank M. Johnson.

Seldom could pressure pile up so fast and intensely, nationwide, on a judge as on this one, right now trying to decide whether to forbid a ban by Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace on civil rights marches.

And Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., main spokesman so far for the marchers, has felt the heat from inside his own ranks.

HE WASN'T there to lead the march which state police broke up on Sunday, March 7, with billy clubs and tear gas. He led another — but only a brief one — last Tuesday, turning back when police stood in the way.

This peaceful confrontation and falling back had been arranged by the federal government through compromise on both sides: there could be a mile-march, no defiance of the police, then a turn-back, and no police action.

More militant civil rights leaders in Selma, Ala., opposed King's willingness to withdraw. Any expedition had been temporarily banned by Judge Johnson until he could make a final decision.

King later admitted one reason he had led even this brief march was fear of violence by Selma Negroes until he could supply some outlet for "pent-up emotions."

Discontent within Negro ranks about King's leadership — for not being more militant — could and may have far-reaching results.

WALLACE, WHO rode into office as a segregationist and vowed "segregation forever" when he took the oath of office, may have felt he was reflecting the feeling of most whites in Alabama when he told his police to use "all necessary force" to break up that Sunday civil rights march.

But the reaction against the violent beating of the Negroes was not limited to people outside Alabama. Two newspapers in particular — the Montgomery Alabama Journal and the Selma Times-Journal — were highly critical of what happened.

Only 100 Days Old

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Chinese "1,000-year-old eggs" are actually only about 100 days old. They are buried in the earth for that period after being preserved in lime. When served they are like a ripe cheese.

Contact lenses aren't new. Glass contact lenses were made in France back in 1888, but didn't catch on. Some six million Americans now wear plastic contact lenses, including two million teenagers.

A POPULAR new household pet with the avant-garde set is the Venus flytrap, a plant which catches and then eats insects by using its hinged leaf as a temporary stomach. If you have one of these plants and find it sulking because there are few insects to catch this time of year, you can always cheer it up by tossing it a small hunk of raw hamburger.

How many cups does your wife make from a pound can of coffee? Experts say the figure should be about 45. If she gets 60, she may be watering your brew in order to save up for a milk cot.

Quotable notables: "I sincerely regret all my divorces, because I don't like anything to be unsuccessful" — John Paul Getty, oil multimillionaire.

AGE IS SO venerated in Japan that nationwide celebrations are held each Sept. 14 — "Old People's Day." Some 31 men and 160 women were honored last year for having passed the century mark.

A fat woman feels proud if she loses two pounds a week, but the sun shrinks in weight five million times every second — and has been doing this for years and years.

History lesson: Calvin Coolidge is reputed to have been our thirteenth president, but Zachary Taylor went him one better. In 1848 he failed to acknowledge a letter from the Whig party informing him he had been nominated because the letter arrived "postage due." Taylor had a firm policy of refusing to accept unpaid mail.

Safety fact: In an auto accident you are five times as likely to be killed if you are thrown out of the vehicle. So keep that belt buckled.

Moderate X-Ray Use Not Harmful In Pregnancy

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
 Dear Dr. Molner: Will a tooth X-ray (two pictures) when I was about six days pregnant affect my baby? —MRS. J. F.

Ever since we have been in "the atomic age," an enormous number of people have become very much alarmed about radiation—whether from an atom bomb, radium, or X-rays, does not make much difference. The rays, or the radiation, are of the same nature.

I've answered this sort of question quite a few times—but perhaps not well enough to get the answer across.

So let me try again this way, taking up a point at a time.

One: Radiation (or X-rays or atomic rays, which are the same in nature) can be harmful. This we must accept.

Two: The amount of radiation is vastly important. A little is of no consequence. Too much can be harmful or even deadly.

So what about dental X-rays? The exposure is brief; the rays are aimed at the teeth. They are not directed at the foetus—the baby which is being formed.

Total irradiation of the body is one thing. Irradiation of a limited area is quite another. Use of X-rays so that they penetrate the womb in pregnancy is to be done only with great caution and under conditions of urgent need. (It also makes a difference whether the X-ray is used when the baby's body is in the formative stage, or has come close to being ready for birth.)

Thus while X-rays of the abdomen would carry a risk early in pregnancy, X-rays of a broken leg—or X-rays of teeth—do not involve any such risk to the baby.

Dear Dr. Molner: You reported that "D.S.C." meant "doctor of science, chiropody." It means "doctor, surgical chiropody." As a D.S.C. of more than 30 years practice, I enjoy reading your column, but this was an error. —DR. D. Y.

Yes, my foot slipped — or should I just say I made an error?

In some areas (the East) the same degree has been called Pod. D., or "Doctor of Podiatry." Either way, it requires six years of training, at college level and beyond, to become a D.S.C., and the terms chiropody or chiropodist are being generally replaced by "podiatrist."

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter feeds her boys, aged 5 and 7, only the yolks of hard-boiled eggs for breakfast, maintaining that the white doesn't have nourishment. Is she right? —G.C.W.

Egg white is albumin; hence a form of protein. It is nourishing and good food.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner is happy to receive readers' questions, and whenever possible uses them in his column. However, due to the great volume of mail received daily, Dr. Molner regrets he cannot answer letters individually.

Reality For The Little Ones

One thing and another: One wit who obviously is a parent suggests that toy manufacturers start preparing children for adulthood next Christmas by using a new approach with their gifts. For instance:

- (1) Genuine looking bills, some of them marked "FINAL NOTICE."
- (2) A checkbook showing a balance of $3.18.
- (3) A JUNIOR plumber's outfit, which includes two leaky faucets and an assortment of odd-sized washers, none of which fit, just like Dad's.
- (4) For little girls, a scale model of a two-layer cake which sinks in the middle, just like Mommy's.
- (5) An assortment of undercooked vegetables.
- (6) A doll that not only cries and kisses but wakes up crying at 3 o'clock in the morning.

I SEE IN the papers that a woman state representative in Washington by the name of Ellen McCaffree voted against a measure to bring to a vote a legislative reapportionment measure she had helped to draw up.

Seems she had broken her glasses and couldn't see to push the right button on the electric voting machine. This electronics age is wonderful.

IF YOU WANT a comforting statistic or two, Kiplinger's Changing Times says 194,100,127 Americans will not be killed in automobile accidents this year, 44,503,000 couples will stay married and 11,000,000 teenagers will remain in high school.

IF THIS CITY keeps gravitating southward, we might jolly well wind up in Glasscock County and a trip around the Interstate 20 bypass might call for a weekend pass. —TOMMY HART

Our Thin Platform Of Rectitude

WASHINGTON—As it has done in every war it has ever fought, the United States is busily constructing a superstructure of legality and rectitude around its true aims and motives in South Viet Nam.

The State Department's White Paper on Viet Nam is a key element in this attempt. Its distortions and omissions suggest that the verdict of history will be to reject it as crude propaganda.

THE WHITE PAPER, entitled "Aggression from the North," purports to prove that the war in South Viet Nam is not a civil war but instead is a product of "flagrant aggression" by North Viet Nam and by implication, Communist China. It is a curiously plain document, worthless as history, unconvincing as evidence, questionable in its basic morality.

As shaky as was the previous American stance ("We are in South Viet Nam at the invitation of a legally ordained government"), it was far more tenable than the White Paper's attempt to justify the approaching full-scale war in Southeast Asia. The State Department fails to prove what it sets out to prove, and in failing it reveals a great deal.

other infiltration groups have entered the south for which there is no evidence yet available.

THERE ARE a number of remarkable things about this specimen extract from the White Paper. It suggests there is proof that 20,000 VC have trickled in from the north, "additional information" that 17,000 more did likewise, and the apparently baseless assumption that there must be more for which no evidence or information can be found.

The blunt reality is that the South Vietnamese Liberation Front (the Viet Cong) has at least as much popular support and legitimacy as the revolving-door Saigon governments. The VC runs schools in the portions of South Viet Nam under its control, it lays taxes, runs social services of sorts, and obviously enjoys a measure of broadly based support that is not available to Saigon.

APART FROM these considerations, the White Paper falls short of proving massive North Vietnamese intervention. It cites 25 case histories of what it supposes to be typical VC infiltrators, but of these 16 are South Vietnamese in origin, and, in any event, 25 cases is thin evidence on which to base 20,000 "confirmed" infiltrators and some 17,000-plus "estimated" in addition.

As to weapons supplied by Communist sources outside Viet Nam, the White Paper again is long on conclusions but woefully short on evidence.

FINALLY, the White Paper cites a report of the International Control Commission which condemned Hanoi for meddling in South Viet Nam. Unfortunately for the credibility of the White Paper, however, it did not cite a section of the same report which criticized the U.S. and South Viet Nam for violating the 1954 Geneva accord. (Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

RELIABLE ESTIMATES of the total number of Viet Cong guerrillas operating in South Viet Nam do not exist. The anonymous authors of the State Department's White Paper content themselves with the so-called hard-core VC cadres "trained in the north." After a virtuoso display of numbermanship, it concludes that since 1959, nearly 20,000 VC officers, soldiers and technicians are known to have entered South Viet Nam under orders from Hanoi. Additional information indicates that an estimated 17,000 more infiltrators were dispatched to the south by the regime in Hanoi during the past six years. It can reasonably be assumed that still

Crime And Puritanism

WASHINGTON — The President's message to Congress on crime was one of those predictable documents. "As a first step," Mr. Johnson says, he is appointing a commission. It will report back to him in the summer of 1966. Meanwhile, the Soviet Union has, since 1962, a study called "The Causes and Prevention of Crime," but there's no evidence that the President's message writers are aware of it.

THEY SHOULD BE. Crime keeps rising in the United States and in most capitalist lands, while it recedes in Soviet Russia, the Soviet satellite states and Red China. In the showcase of postwar Germany, crime has shriveled under socialism and thrived under capitalism. East Germany had 440,000 fewer recorded crimes in 1957 than in 1949, while West Germany had 180,000 more of the same between 1954 and 1959. Poland and Bulgaria, behind the Iron Curtain, have showed marked reduction in juvenile delinquency. Red China had a 23 per cent drop in general crime in the twelvemonth of 1956-57.

WE SOMETIMES wonder why our country, with its high living standards, also has the world's steepest climb in lawbreaking. Aristotle answered that query several centuries ago when he wrote that "the greatest crimes are committed by people as a consequence of their desire for luxury, not for necessities." Not hunger and privation but greed for high living and something-for-nothing are among the causes for American crime, which the President's message failed to mention. In Communist nations only the leaders have much temptation to scramble for luxuries. Crime is one of the dangers that spring from freedom and opportunity.

BUT THE Communists fight crime on two levels where our own efforts are weak and growing weaker. One is in the home and school, the other is in the courts. Puritanism, a word adopted from England to describe rigorous morality in Early America, is the rule in Russia. Our welfare laws tolerate and even encourage illegitimate families, notably among Negroes. In Russia, illegitimacy is officially declared to be "absolutely foreign to the Soviet system."

We look for "social causes" of violent crime. In Russia it is publicly preached that alcohol causes 90 per cent of the violence in the streets. Russian educators frown on raising boys and girls at close quarters as if there were no difference between them. "Kindergarten teachers," reads a recent essay on Russian education, "are doing the right thing when they teach the boys to help the girls out of their coats . . . Politeness that is instilled in children . . . can have a favorable effect."

RUSSIAN JUSTICE is almost as Puritanical as home-training. We used to regard hard work as ennobling, and loafing as antisocial. The Russians have little patience with habitual criminals who, obviously, would have no time for getting into trouble if they'd been hard at work. The Russian law of shortening a sentence on mere "good behavior" has been repealed. The prisoner is not released until he has "undergone correction," presumably in his work habits.

We would not be copying the Russians if we used some of these practices in combating crime. We would be going back to our older customs which, perhaps, the Communists have learned from American history — to their own advantage. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Fewer Now

ATLANTA (AP)—Times are changing in Georgia and cuspids in the legislative halls are becoming as scarce as the buffalo on the western plains.

A few years ago 150 were placed in the House and Senate. Today only one is in use.

"They don't chew tobacco like they used to," said Secretary of State Ben Fortson, the building custodian.

A Solution

LOUISVILLE (AP) — None of the neighbors tattered to police about the suburbanite whose broken leg failed to keep him from his favorite tavern.

The cast was so bulky the man couldn't get into an auto very easily. He solved that by straddling his power mower and driving it along the grass on Bardston Road from his home to the inn.

Dear Abby

The Young Grandmas

DEAR ABBY: I may be able to help you in your search for the youngest great-grandmother, but I think I hold the record for being the youngest GRANDMOTHER. And possibly the grandmother with the largest number of children. Here are the facts:

My mother, Henrietta Davis, was born November 9, 1915. I was born November 25, 1930. My first child was born May 2, 1944.

My first grandchild was born January 20, 1964.

My oldest child will be 21 in May, and my youngest is eight months old. I am expecting my 18th child in May. I am 34 years old and have never been sick a day in my life. All my friends know this is true and, of course, I can prove it, but just sign me . . . "MARIE"

DEAR ABBY: I am sure I am not the youngest great-grandmother, but I think I must hold some kind of record. I am one of 24 children. (I myself am the mother of 16 children. Ten girls and six boys.) My baby is now 15 years old, and was born when I was 51. And my eldest child is now 48 years old. So, you see, there is a difference of 33 years between my first-born and my last-born. By May I will have 53 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren if all goes well. On the 24th of June, this year, my husband and I will celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary. You don't have to put my name in the paper because we would rather not have all that publicity, but everything in this letter is true. Sign me, "SIXTY-SIX AND PROUD"

DEAR ABBY: In regard to your column about the lady who thinks she is the youngest great-grandmother at the age of 51: She is not. My grandmother, Mrs. Trini Morales, who is now 57 years old, became a great-grandmother at the age of 46. Her great-granddaughter is now 10 years old. I am 24, and my mother is 40, so I guess my grandmother, Mrs. Trini Morales of Pawtucket, Rhode Island, broke the record when she became a great-grandmother when she was 46 years, 10 months and 4 days old.

Sincerely yours,
RAMONA M. DELGADO
ANAHEIM, CALIFORNIA
DEAR RAMONA: The "mission bells above" were ringing out the news that your grandmother, Mrs. Trini Morales was, indeed the winner—until I heard from an Indianapolis woman, whose letter follows:

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from Dorothy S. in Idaho who believes that she is the youngest great-grandmother at 51, but I have her beat.

I became a great-grandmother when I was 46 years old! (To be exact, 46 years, 5 months, and 25 days old.)

I was born September 1, 1913. My daughter was born February 1, 1929. My granddaughter was born January 30, 1944, and my great-granddaughter was born February 26, 1960.

My mother, by the way, is still living. She was born September 4, 1898. And SHE became a great-grandmother at the age of 61! My mother had 12 children, of which 11 are still living. But I had only the one. All five generations live in Indianapolis. Can anyone top this?

Yours truly,
MRS. LOUISE JOHNSON
INDIANAPOLIS 5, INDIANA
DEAR MRS. JOHNSON: Probably not, so please accept my congratulations on being the youngest great-grandmother found via this column.

Torture Tale Said False

WACO (AP)—Ranger Clint Peoples said here that Jimmy Webb of Dallas has signed a statement saying his story of being kidnaped by two Negroes and tortured near Fairfield was false.

Peoples said a charge of giving false statements to a state agency was filed against Webb, 25.

The Ranger said Webb's story of being burned by cigarettes held by the Negroes was a "hoax" and that the statement said Webb burned himself.

Peoples said Webb was brought here for a lie detector test and was being returned to Freestone County Sheriff Jim Sessions in Fairfield.

Webb originally reported two Negroes kidnaped him and forced him to drive 75 miles south to Fairfield where he said he was tortured. He said at first the Negroes asserted they were en route to Alabama to kill Gov. George Wallace.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Most people do. For nothing can tell you as much about a product as a message in print. Print shows colors best. Styles, too. And comparative prices, special uses, designs, shapes. Shows them as no other medium can. That's why your customers—and your competitor's customers—look to print when they're really ready to buy. If people can paint with your product, sit on it, eat it, serve it to company, walk on it, wear it, freeze foods in it, or drive it... better put it in print. Print makes sense, because print makes sales.

Doug Sanders Gets Second Straight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jovial Doug Sanders is known as the clown prince of golf. He also is the flashiest dresser since Jimmy Demaret dazzled the galleries with sartorial splendor.

And, at the moment, Sanders is the hottest money-winner and the coolest operator under pressure in the golf world.

The curly haired Georgian with the peculiar short swing beat off the fierce challenge of Australia's Bruce Devlin Sunday to win the $1,000 first prize in the $70,000 Dorland Invitational Tournament by one stroke with a total of 274, a record 14 under par.

It was a particularly notable victory that thrust Sanders into the limelight for several reasons.

He had scored the first back-to-back victories since Tony Lema accomplished this rare feat last June. Since 1962, the only other man who had done it was Jack Nicklaus last year's top money winner.

Sanders captured the Pensacola Open Tournament last Sunday.

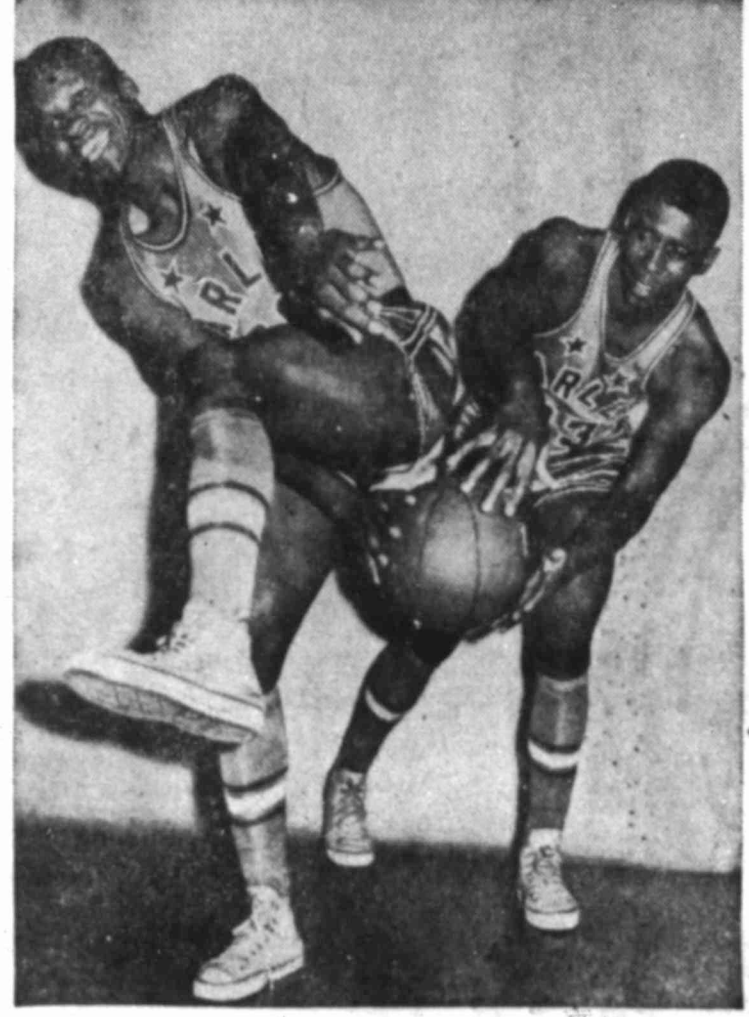

It put him hot on the trail of Billy Casper, who had been gobbling up the big money in the 1965 tournaments while Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer were passing up several events.

Coming into the Dorland, Sanders was No. 1 on the PGA's "official" money-winning list with $16,333 and he increased his total to $27,333 while Casper was winning only $587 for a 29th-place finish and a total $16,164.

Two strokes behind Devlin at the start of Sunday's final round, Sanders caught him with birdies on the first two holes. A three-way tie developed when young Randy Glover made a strong run at the leaders, but Sanders pulled away to win as Devlin watched a 25-foot clutch putt on the 18th that would have thrown the tournament into a sudden-death playoff on the rim of the cup.

This is the order and winnings of the top part of the field:

Henry (Briekhead) Johnson and Curtis (Spider) Williams do a bit of clowning for the Harlem Stars, who play an All-Star aggregation here this evening. Williams, with his uncanny tricks with the ball, has been called by some "the Crown Prince of Basketball."

Harlem Stars Play Here Today

The Big Spring All-Stars will go into action today at 8 p.m. against the Harlem Stars in Big Spring High School fieldhouse.

Leading the locals will be coaches Allen Simpson, Don Stephens, Oakley Hagood, Tom King, Jan Smith, former coach Delnor Foss along with Bob Davis and Joe Sharpnack.

Tickets for the game are $1 for adults and students and 50 cents for children. They are available from any member of the Big Spring High School junior class and will be available at the door.

A warm up game will be played at 7 p.m. pitting the high school faculty against the junior high faculty.

The Stars will bring razzle-dazzle ball handling, intricate pass patterns, marathon dribbling, trick shooting and impromptu comedy to the floor of the fieldhouse.

They began their season in Alaska and before the year is out they will have visited five foreign countries and 40 states. They drew 4,000 fans in Austin in a game with the University of Texas Exes.

The Stars are lead by the one-armed wonder of the courts, Bold Buie. Buie lost his left arm in an auto accident more than 15 years ago. Today he plays basketball as if he had two. He can do anything the average basketball player can do with the exception of hanging on to a loose ball.

For nine seasons with the famous Harlem Globetrotters Buie averaged more than 20 points a game.

Other members of the Stars include 6-4 James "Big Daddy" Batiste of Houston. Batiste is the rebounding expert for the Stars. Bobby "Joe" Hill of Bryan is the jumping expert for the Stars and is known as the man that jumped over the moon.

BIG CLOWN

Pivot man for the Stars is 6-3 Henry "Handa" Johnson. Johnson's expression is constantly changing from hambone pomposity to outraged innocence when committing a foul. Trick shot artist for the Stars is Curtis "Youngblood" Williams. Williams is the tallest man on the Star squad, standing 6-5.

HAWKS READY FOR FIRST ROUND OF NATIONAL PLAY

Buddy Travis and his Howard County Junior College Hawks are in Hutchinson, Kans. today getting ready for the do-or-die national junior college finals.

Their work is cut out in the first round when the Hawks (23-10) meet the Joliet, Ill., Wolves (23-4) at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. Joliet will call the game for KBST.

Joliet, Region IV champ, has averaged nearly 100 points per game during the season, using offense as its defense. The Hawks, Region V titlists, are aggressive on defense and more deliberate with their attack. Should HCJC win, it will meet — at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday — the winner of the William, Minn. — Ferrum, Va. game.

Odessa Relays Have Big Field

ODESSA (AP)—The 21st West Texas Relays—third major stop along the track and field trail in Texas—goes on this week with indications of a continuation of the record-breaking avalanche.

Saturday the boys wrote 19 new records and two ties in the books at the Border Olympics despite rain and hail and a soft track.

The West Texas Relays here Friday and Saturday will have eight universities and eight colleges entered and among them are a dozen recordbreaking potentials. There also will be two high school divisions in which there could be even more.

Celtics Chalk New Record

By The Associated Press

Boston is winning more, and San Francisco is enjoying it less.

The Celtics, perennial NBA powerhouse, defeated the Warriors 106-98 Sunday and in the process established a league record for most victories in a season and helped San Francisco tie the record for most losses in a season.

St. Louis topped Los Angeles 115-108, Cincinnati defeated New York 113-103 and Baltimore whipped Philadelphia 143-126 in other games.

The Celtics' victory was their 61st, one more than they won in 1961-62. They have two more games in which to extend the record.

San Francisco suffered its 62nd defeat, the same number Chicago had in the same year. Boston set its winning mark. The Warriors can take sole possession of the losing record by dropping one of their last three contests.

Sam Jones provided the punch Boston needed in the fourth quarter for the come-from-behind triumph. He scored 13 of his 22 points in that time, becoming the first Celtic to pass the 2,000-point mark in one season. John Havlicek's lay-up snapped a 98-98 deadlock and put Boston ahead to stay.

Foes Might Make Bouts Interesting

By The Associated Press

"We sure seem to bring out the best in a team," said Michigan Coach Dave Strack. "Maybe we irritate them."

If so, the mighty Wolverines, the nation's top-ranked college basketball team, could be in for an interesting weekend in the NCAA championships at Portland, Ore., Friday and Saturday.

For example, the Wolverines first play Princeton and Player of the Year Bill Bradley. They've played before. Michigan escaped with an 89-78 comeback victory on Cazzie Russell's 20-foot jumper in the last few seconds.

If they get by Princeton, they'll play either Wichita or UCLA. They've played Wichita before, too, winning that one 87-85.

Rainwater And Miller Win

Champ Rainwater and Marvin Miller, with a low ball score of 58, edged out Tom King and Doug Hill by one stroke for the first place in the Big Spring Golf Association Partnership tournament.

Fifty-one teams entered the tournament held Sunday at the Big Spring Country Club. Tied for third place with low ball scores of 61 were the teams of Jim Day and Don Hathaway along with John Taylor and Ralph McLaughlin.

Low medalist for the tourney was Rob Smith with a 69. Tied for second place with scores of 72 were Champ Rainwater and Jimmy Newsom.

A good crowd was on hand for the tourney and BSGA officials plan another tournament sometime next month.

Shortstop's Fumble Robs Koufax Of Four Perfect

By The Associated Press

There apparently is nothing wrong with Sandy Koufax' left arm except Bart Shirley's glove.

Koufax, forced out of the last month and a half of the 1964 season with a strained elbow muscle, made his first competitive appearance Sunday since last Aug. 16.

The brilliant southpaw was the loser in Milwaukee's 4-2 exhibition victory over Los Angeles, but he should have left the game with four innings of perfect pitching.

The 29-year-old Dodger ace retired the first 11 Braves to face him, striking out five of them. But with two out in the fourth inning, shortstop Shirley fumbled Hank Aaron's grounder, and the Braves' had their first base runner.

Rico Carty followed with a double and Joe Torre with a home run for a 3-0 Milwaukee lead.

Before his injury last year, Koufax won 19 games and lost five, compiling a 1.74 earned run average, best in the National League. One of his victories was the third no-hitter of his career.

Several other notable pitchers made their spring debuts Sunday.

Juan Marichal pitched three innings in Cleveland's 10-8 triumph over San Francisco. The Giant right-hander, 21-8 last season, walked two men in the first inning, then gave up a Cleveland run in the third on Dick Howser's infield single and a triple by Chuck Hinton.

Warren Spahn made his first appearance with the New York Mets, starting against Bob Gibson and the world champion St. Louis Cardinals. Gibson, however, came out on top in the three-inning duel, limiting the Mets to two hits in a 4-3 Card victory.

Dick Radatz finished up in Boston's 5-4 decision over the Chicago Cubs, receiving credit for the victory after blanking the Cubs on only one walk.

In other games:

Roger Maris slammed a home run, two doubles and a single as the New York Yankees out-slugged Baltimore 8-7 for their third straight exhibition victory.

DIDN'T MAKE TOURNNEY

Jimmy Hubenak Leads Class 3A All-State Team

By The Associated Press

Jimmy Hubenak of Wharton, whose team didn't even make the state tournament, leads the Class AAA All-State schoolboy basketball team selected by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

The 6-7 Hubenak polled 79 points of a possible 95 in making the team that is selected on the basis of regular-season play. He averaged 27 points.

Hubenak was crowned in the popularity poll by Phil Dugger of South San Antonio, another whose team didn't get to the state tournament. Dugger got 75 points from the statewide committee of sports writers.

Lawrence Peveeto of West Orange, James Harris of Brownwood and Rox Goodwine of San Marcos were the others on the team.

Waxahachie, the state championship runnerup to San Marcos, failed to land a player but it was explained that the Indians specialized in team balance with no one particularly outstanding figure.

The first team is composed entirely of seniors.

First team:
 Jimmy Hubenak, Wharton, Height 6-7
 Phil Dugger, San Antonio 6-2
 Lawrence Peveeto, West Orange 6-2
 Rox Goodwine, San Marcos 6-1
 James Harris, Brownwood 5-11

The second team:
 Cliff Harper, Seguin; Barry Stone, Kilgus; Henry Willis, Levelland; Johnny Hawkins, West Orange; Wayne Doyal, San Antonio; Marshall.

The third team:
 Teddy Welch, Seminole; Bob Swinnear, Westaco; Thomas Wright, Sulphur Springs; Bill Bradley, Palestine; Derrick Wheeler, Austin; Lanier.

Wolves Enter Baseball Campaign

The Colorado City Wolves, always a scrappy bunch are fielding a baseball team this year, the only school in District 5-AA to do so. Coach for the Wolves is Truman Nix. Two dependables on the Wolves team are pitcher Skipper Warren (right) and catcher Perry Millsap (left). The Wolves have lost their two opening games to the Big Spring Steers, 7-3 and 4-2, but come near taking the second. They will play Sweetwater Friday in Colorado City.

LOOKING EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

One of Cisco College's cagers sneered at HCJC's Eddy Nelson after Eddy had been racked up under the Cisco basket in the waning stages of that Region V championship basketball game in Amarillo last week. Jim Flowers bent over the prostrate Nelson, who looked like he might be there a week, and asked the Jayhawk ace if he were seriously hurt. To which Nelson replied: "No, man. I'm tough." Eddy then got up and sank the free shot that put the game out of reach. Incidentally, Flowers was one of the outstanding players in the tournament, a boy who took up the slack for HCJC when some of the wheel-horses were out of action.

Gun Bow Back On Target, Two More In Derby Picture

Gun Bow is back on the championship trail and a pair of lightly regarded sons of Portershouse have thrust themselves into the Kentucky Derby picture with the big event for 3-year-olds still nearly seven weeks away. While the 5-year-old Gun Bow was winning the $56,560 Donn Handicap at Gulfstream Park last Saturday for his second victory in three starts, Isle of Greece and Dapper Delegate were setting their sights on the Run for the Roses at Churchill Downs, May 1. Isle of Greece, owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs and trained by her husband, Hirsch, barged into Derby consideration with a come-from-behind four-length triumph in the seven-furlong $82,200 Governor's Gold Cup at Bowie. Dapper Delegate, carrying the silks of Mrs. Joe W. Brown emerged as the most promising Kentucky Derby candidate to come out of New Orleans in 40 years when he ran to a three-length triumph in the 1 1/4-mile $47,900 Louisiana Derby at the Fair Grounds.

HCJC Ex-Student Speaks For Bonds

The bond election of March 20 will be a real opportunity for the voters of Howard County to register their confidence in a fine institution of higher education—Howard County Junior College. We, as a community, have been particularly blessed to have such a highly accredited Junior College for our young people. I can speak out for our Junior College since I have been involved in it in two different ways.

GRADUATE

First, I graduated from HCJC. I left Big Spring prepared for the rigors of a senior college, mainly because of the courses taken at our junior college. I had learned to schedule study periods for each individual subject. I had every opportunity for personal counseling since each instructor seemed to take time for each of his students. (This is one big problem in senior colleges.) The first two years are the most important in student guidance since the student is trying to find his place in our society. HCJC left an indelible stamp on my life as a student.

HELPING YOUNG PEOPLE

Every year hundreds of young people are able to go to college because of the proximity of HCJC, and at least half of these may go on to get degrees because of the savings of two years of college at or near home. We can imagine the direct economic benefit to the community (it is over a million dollars a year). These, however, are the least of the benefits to come from a college. The real value is in better educated people.

ACCREDITED

I believe that everyone knows we have a fully accredited college. I know that everyone is proud of HCJC and realizes its value to our county. Our chief concern now must be for our future. We must keep our college the best. We must keep the accreditation we have worked so hard for. We must have a place where we can send our children with the confidence that they are receiving the finest training from the finest educators. We must continue to go forward as we always have. In time of decisions such as these, the people of Howard County have always risen to the occasion.

ACCREDITED

To continue to have such a fine Junior College and to meet the great influx of students every year, we must have adequate library space and expand our science program. The bond issue before us will provide just this very thing. (1) A new library with all the facilities necessary to keep our accreditation. (2) A new science building to meet the needs for years to come. These new buildings will free existing library and science space for easy conversion into nine more classrooms, which with those in the new science building will provide a total of 20 classrooms.

Church Softball Loop To Meet

A meeting of the Big Spring Church Softball League will be held tonight at 7:30 in the Texas Electric Reddy Room, 324 Runnels. New officers for the coming year will be elected. All churches entering a team in softball competition are urged to have a representative attend the meeting.

GOODNESS GRACIOUS

Lassies Draw Into AAU Sanction Squabble

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—An AAU official says girl runners should not have entered the Border Olympics at Laredo Saturday and that he'll report that fact to the national office. Mrs. Margaret Ellison of Abilene, coach of the Texas Track Club, said there was nothing wrong with it, that the girls were from high school or college and that the U.S. Track Federation, which sanctioned the Border Olympics, is the governing body for the colleges and high schools. She added that AAU approval was not necessary but anyway she got permission from the West Texas AAU, which has jurisdiction. But Ray Weekly, president of the South Texas AAU, did not agree and said he would report the fact that the girls ran the 100 and 200-yard dashes after he had told Mrs. Ellison there would be danger of suspension since the races would be open events not sanctioned by the AAU. But the AAU couldn't sponsor the races anyway, Weekly said, since the AAU and Federation can not agree on dual sanctions. Weekly said entering the girls as students merely was a plan to circumvent the rules but that he would name only Mrs. Ellison for action by the AAU. "I do not want the girls to be penalized," he explained. Mrs. Ellison, who is a member of the Women's AAU National Track and Field Committee, said she didn't know how she could be penalized unless she was deprived of membership on the committee. Saturday the girls ran the two events as exhibitions in the Border Olympics, with only one member of the squad that ran there in 1964. She was Sue Schexnayder, a student of Lamar Tech College. Calvin Voelkel, director of the Border Olympics, said he tried to discourage Mrs. Ellison from entering but that directors of the Border Olympics agreed that she could run the girls in the meet.

Junior Miss Pageant Rehearsal Under Way

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The nation's top high school seniors began rehearsal today for the America's Junior Miss Pageant.

The pretty junior miss contestants got down to work after whizzing through their third day of pageant activity Sunday armed with bright smiles and clicking cameras.

The talented teenagers took advantage of a sunny spring-like Sunday before beginning their rigid schedule for preparations leading up to the big night Friday when the 1965 ideal high school senior is chosen 1965 America's Junior Miss.

The high school lovelies will spend today rehearsing for pageant competition which gets underway Tuesday night.

The girls will be judged in categories of poise and appearance, youth fitness, mental alertness and creative and performing arts. They will be divided into three groups and each will perform a different category each evening.

Preliminary judging will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday with finals on Friday. The finals will be carried over national television by NBC.

Racial Peace Outlook Dim For Alabamans

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Civil rights forces have smashed into growing resistance in this Black Belt capital and the racial struggle stands at a virtual impasse.

The outlook for peaceful settlement of the seething struggle appears dimmer today than when Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. started his drive for Negro voting power and desegregation two months ago.

FEAR ANGER
 The wedge between the races has been driven deeper.

Tension, fear and anger stalk the broad streets of this aristocratic old city. It is a region of rich pasturelands, farms and ranches in which Negroes outnumber white residents by ratios of 3 to 2 and 4 to 1.

After the first 70 days of the drive started by King, these are the statistics:

- Two dead.
- A hundred wounded.
- More than 3,500 arrested.

—Token integration in Selma and a few Negroes added to the voter lists in three or four counties.

LAID IN OPEN

King himself saw nothing more promising than what he called "creative tension." He said the constant demonstrations here and in other Alabama cities put the issues in the open. His hope is that the tension will bring biracial settlement of the problems.

"The white people are bitter, really bitter now for the first time," said the president of the Chamber of Commerce, J.M. Gaston.

Gaston's supermarket adjoins a Negro housing area where almost daily demonstrations occur. Gaston has lost all his Negro customers.

The Negro boycott of white merchants, the unrest from marches and the ever-present force of police power on the streets — all have cut into the economy of this city.

Texas Crime Up 13 Pct.

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas' major crimes rose 13.8 per cent in 1964, state police said. One major offense was committed every two minutes.

The largest increase was in robberies, up 25.8 per cent. The department estimated the total of major offenses at 260,860, compared with 229,254 in 1963.

ENORMOUS COST
 Homer Garrison, state police director, said, "It is apparent that crime in general is riding rough-shod across our state and nation. It has been estimated that criminal activity has cost our country more than $27 billion during the past year alone."

The major crime categories, all of which increased:

- Murder and homicide, a total of 1,153 and an increase of 6.7 per cent.
- OTHER OFFENSES
- Rape, 1,569, up 18.4 per cent.
- Robbery, 4,052, up 25.8 per cent.
- Burglary, 64,446, up 10.2 per cent.
- Aggravated assault, 16,551, up 22.4 per cent.
- Theft, 152,863, up 13.6 per cent.
- Auto thefts, 20,226, up 18.5 per cent.

Liner Fares Up Slightly

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The annual spring meeting of Atlantic steamship companies ended here with the approval of slight increases in Atlantic passenger liner fares.

The two-day conference in Athens of 50 representatives from 20 steamship companies decided on a $5 increase in all classes with a $10 increase to be applied in first-class fares during the tourist season.

The conference also agreed to promote off-season travel by approving 15 per cent reduction in special excursion rates between Sept. 15 and April 15, starting in 1966.

TV Viewers Brought To Chair's Edge

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
 AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Preview," one of the occasional special programs in which Douglas Fairbanks Jr. purports to give television viewers an intimate peek at backstage goings-on, was meandering along Sunday night when suddenly there was an explosion of real drama.

Fredric March and Florence Eldridge appeared in two short scenes from Lillian Hellman's play, "The Autumn Garden." On a bare stage and with two chairs for props, these fine performers armed with a playwright's meaningful lines literally pulled a drowsy viewer to the edge of the chair.

SHOWS ASSORTMENT
 A major disappointment of the weekend was ABC's "The Bold Men," on Saturday night. It was produced by David Wolper, whose documentaries and actuality programs usually have style and a point of view.

This one showed an assortment of men whose occupation is defying sudden, violent death — high diver, lion tamer, racing car driver and a movie stuntman leaping from a plane without a parachute.

It might have been more interesting had any of the men been the subject of a study so that we might have understood why he chose to live so perilously.

HIT OF EVENING
 Danny Thomas on his NBC special Sunday night had a whole constellation of stars turning up, unannounced and unidentified, in walk-on parts — Jack Benny, Dean Martin, Frank Sinatra, Edie Adams, Andy Griffith among others. The hit of the evening, however, was new star Jim Nabors who for a few glorious moments dropped his comedy character of Gomer Pyle and uncorked a magnificent baritone voice in an operatic solo.

Thomas' show was a nostalgic look back on the happy days of burlesque. The premise gave a chance to go through some slapstick routines and Mickey Rooney plunged into them joyously.

Nursing Home Fire Fatal To Man, 69

FORT WORTH (AP)—Edward Bettis, 69, died today of burns suffered in a fire at a nursing home here March 6. A cigarette had ignited his bedding.

Cool Front Entry Weak

A weak cold front moved across Texas Monday but it was expected to make only a slight dent in the spring-like weather that has engulfed the state.

Skies were mostly cloudy over South Texas and generally fair elsewhere. Some early morning fog was reported along the coast.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 34 degrees at Amarillo to 66 at McAllen and Brownsville.

Maximum temperatures Sunday afternoon ranged from 58 degrees at Dalhart to 82 at Waco and 83 at Presidio. No rainfall was reported.

The forecasts call for clear to partly cloudy skies over the state through Tuesday with a few light showers in Northeast.
