Rupert P. Ricker Dies Here Today

Rupert P. Ricker, 75, the man who cracked open the secret of the Permian Basin and opened avenues of vast wealth to his beloved University of Texas, died here today.

Ricker blocked nearly half a million acres, which he turned at a personal financial loss, to get a well drilled on university lands in West Texas. Climaxing a saga with overtones of a fairy-story, Texon Oil Co. No. 1 Santa Rita blew in unexpectedly May 28, 1923, and touched off an oil boom that took the university from rags to riches.

Nothing Although he realized nothing but satisfaction from his grandiose venture, Ricker made and lost two fortunes in the oil business later.

For the past two decades, he has practiced law and dealt in oil leases here, in addition to devoting much time as a lay preacher.

A native of Navarro County, where he was born Dec. 19, 1889, Ricker walked beside a covered wagon to Reagan County in 1907, giving up his last year of high school. In 1912, after having worked as a printers devil, country weekly editor, railway newsbutch and brakeman, he entered the university purely on faith. Financing his own way by operating a soda fountain, he made up his lost year in high school and completed the five-year law course in 3 1/2 years. During World War I he became an Army captain, and afterwards began practicing in oil towns, among them Graham and Mexia.

Depressed Him The sight of pine shacks on the university 40 acres depressed him, just as did the scars of the historic 1917-18 drought, and he wondered how he could help his school and his neighbors. The answer was oil.

Ricker hit upon the idea of leasing University of Texas lands, which, so far as he could learn, had never been done. Many problems arose. He discovered that the largest single tract one person could lease was four square miles, but other tracts were possible if they did not touch. Moreover, within 30 days of the issuance of the leases, a payment of 10 cents per acre was necessary in order to hold them for a year. Working at his own expense, he secured a block of 431,360 acres from the general land office and hired a secret agent to file them in Reagan, Upton, Irion and Crockett counties.

Big Hurdle The biggest hurdle was still ahead, for he had to dig up $43,136.

"I didn't even have $43 dollars, let alone that kind of money," he recalled. Nor did he have any maps or geology on the tremendous spread of acreage, and 15 of his precious 30 days sped by while he prepared both. Another 10 days were lost in Fort Worth while he tried desperately without success to interest someone in the block.

Accidentally, he bumped into Frank Pickrell, who had been his sergeant during the war, and who had turned to dabbling in oil. Pickrell took Ricker to Hyman Krupp, a department store operator in El Paso. Krupp was fascinated by the huge spread and paid Ricker and his associates for the deal. While Krupp packed his bags to go to New York to get a loan for the lease, Ricker batted out an assignment of all his interests, then split the $2,500 with his five associates. He had invested about twice as much money as he got, plus all of his time and effort.

Oil Company Krupp got the money just in time and with Pickrell formed the Texon Oil Company. Two years of drilling produced nothing.

North Korea Offers Men

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Korea joined Peking today in offering to send men and arms to South Viet Nam if the Viet Cong ask for help.

The offer was made in a government statement broadcast by Pyongyang Radio. Peking made a similar offer Thursday.

North Korea said: "Under the condition in which the U.S. imperialists are steadily expanding the war, the Democratic People's Republic of Korea government will take measures for sending volunteers to South Viet Nam at any time the South Viet Nam National Liberation Front requests."

President Would Consider Truce

WASHINGTON (AP) — At a moment of mounting crisis in the Vietnamese war, the United States made it known around the world today that President Johnson is, in his own words, "ready to go anywhere at any time and meet with anyone whenever there is promise of progress toward an honorable peace."

This presidential stand for negotiations "based on an end of Communist aggression" against South Viet Nam coincided with publication of an interview with Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China in which Chou accused the United States of expanding aggression in Viet Nam and predicted that China and the Soviet Union would close ranks in the face of any wider conflict.

Hopes For Change Johnson said he has no evidence so far of Communist readiness to negotiate an acceptable settlement and added: "There may come a change — if we all remain united."

Chou asserted "the American government will never force the South Vietnamese people and the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam (North Viet Nam) into negotiations by intensifying the war."

The President's readiness to engage personally in peace talks if his conditions are met was declared in a statement he made to a cabinet meeting Thursday and subsequently made public. It is being circulated to American embassies abroad and broadcast around the world by the Voice of America.

Tension Grows The President spoke out after several days of growing tension here and abroad over the possibility that a much bigger conflict may develop in Southeast Asia.

Within the week, warnings have come from both Peking and Moscow that Soviet and Chinese fighters may enter the war. U.S. officials are inclined to take these warnings seriously for the long run, although they think at the moment Moscow and Peking may be trying primarily to put pressure on the United States and on other countries to restrain the American war effort.

Widespread criticism has erupted against the United States also in the past few days for supplying nonlethal gas for use in some instances against Communist forces in South Viet Nam.

Gov. Wallace 'Feels Badly' MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace said today "I feel badly about any one getting killed in this state," when he was asked about the shooting of a woman civil rights worker Thursday night in Lowndes County, Alabama.

He was referring to the shooting of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, of Detroit, mother of five. She was killed by a bullet that smashed into the window of a car in which she was riding with a Negro youth.

Wallace, interviewed in Montgomery on a national television network program, NBC's "Today" said: "I regret this incident but it's still safer to ride the highways in this state than the subways in New York."

The governor also said "You can't blame any one individual" in Alabama for the incident any more than blame could be placed on one person for an attempted rape in Philadelphia or the slaying of Negro leader Malcolm X in New York.

That Something Went Wrong Now Confirmed

MOSCOW (AP) — Cosmonaut Pavel Belyayev said today he had to land the Voskhod 2 by manual control one orbit late last week when the automatic control system erred. The space ship then overshot its planned landing zone.

He told a news conference the Voskhod was capable of maneuvering in space as did the U.S. Gemini 3 this week. He congratulated the American astronauts.

Belyayev's disclosures confirmed indications that something had gone wrong after he and Alexei Leonov had been in orbit for more than 24 hours.

Their flight included the first "walk in space," when Leonov stepped outside the craft to float for 10 minutes.

OK Expected By House On School Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders hope to hand President Johnson a tremendous plum today — passage of his far-reaching school bill.

Never in history has the House passed a bill granting broad federal aid to the nation's elementary and secondary schools, but a powerful Democratic majority in the House appears certain to reach that goal today.

Beaten Back The Democrats beat back all attempts to weaken the key provision of the bill Thursday, preserving intact its authorization of $1.06 billion in grants designed to improve educational opportunities for children from low-income families. Both public and parochial school students would participate in programs implemented by the funds.

Still to be acted on are provisions that would make $250 million more available for textbooks and library books, educational research, the establishment of supplemental education centers and grants to state education agencies.

Troop Cost Is $300,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The use of federal troops and federalized Alabama National Guardsmen to protect the Selma-to-Montgomery civil rights march probably will cost the federal government at least $300,000.

Official cost estimates are not yet available.

However, the Army has said that pay and allowances alone average about $15 a day per man. With 1,860 Alabama Guardsmen and about 1,000 regular Army troops on duty in the Alabama situation, this totals about $43,000 a day. The federal effort began last Saturday, making this the 7th day of the operation.

Two Navy Craft Downed In Raids, Pilots Escape

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Navy jet bombers attacked four coastal radar stations in North Viet Nam today, one of them only 80 miles from Communist China's Hainan Island.

The raid was by far the deepest penetration into North Viet Nam of any of the 12 raids since Feb. 7.

Two Navy planes were shot down in the Gulf of Tonkin, but both pilots were rescued unhurt by helicopter.

A number of other planes were heavily damaged. A U.S. Navy spokesman in Saigon declined to rule out the possibility they might have been attacked by enemy planes. No Communist planes have been reported sighted on any of the

Bullet From Passing Car Kills Woman

LOWNDESBORO, Ala. (AP) — A highway assassin killed a Detroit white woman taking part in Alabama's violence-wracked civil rights drive in a bloody footnote to the massive march to the state Capitol.

Shot to death on the highway near here Thursday night was Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, mother of five. The red-haired student at Wayne State University was shuttling marchers from Montgomery to Selma.

Passing Car Two slugs from a passing car slammed into Mrs. Liuzzo's auto. One struck her in the neck.

The Detroit mother was driving toward Montgomery to pick up a second group of participants in Thursday's march to the Capitol by an estimated 25,000 persons. Sitting beside her was a Negro youth, Leroy Moton, 19, of Selma.

Maj. William O. Gray of the federalized Alabama National Guard which provided security for the march, said no Guardsmen were patrolling the Selma-Montgomery highway when the killing occurred.

Not Patrolling To the best of his knowledge, Gray said, no regular Army troops were on patrol. President Johnson called up 3,000 troops to protect the Capitol march, climax of a 50-mile trek from Selma.

Col. Rufus Shepherd, state deputy adjutant general, said that Guardsmen and Army troops remained on active status but not released except by presidential order.

The victim's husband, Arthur Liuzzo, a business agent for Teamsters Local 247 in Detroit, put in a call to the President and was told by an aide that Johnson would return the call.

"What Now?" Liuzzo said he wanted to ask the President "How come?" and "Where do we go from here?"

The distraught husband said he told an unidentified presidential aide: "There are five children here and my wife died for a cause that President Johnson believes in."

The shooting occurred on a lonely stretch of U.S. 80 near a big swamp. This was the route the marchers trekked from Selma to Montgomery.

Moton told investigators that they were returning to Montgomery to transport a not a group of marchers to Selma.

Took Part Mrs. Liuzzo had participated in the march.

Her slaying came less than two weeks after the Rev. James J. Reeb of Boston died after a clubbing by white men in Selma. He had taken part in a march also. On Feb. 26, Jimmie Lee Jackson, 26, a Negro, died of a gunshot wound suffered in violence following a night march at Marion, Ala.

Moton said an auto pulled alongside about the time he heard something hit and then surged past. After their car stopped, Moton said, he ducked down in the seat when he saw the other auto turn around.

LBJ Asks Half Billion In Depressed Area Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has asked for half a billion dollars a year in grants and loans to help build up the economies of lagging regions in the United States where about 27 million people live.

Two years ago the House gave President John F. Kennedy one of his worst legislative setbacks by defeating, by five votes, a similar authorization for the present area redevelopment program. It has been largely stalled since then.

New Setup Johnson, in a special message Thursday, tried to mollify congressional critics. The existing agency, which came under heavy fire from some legislators two years ago, would be abolished and the new program directed by an economic development administrator within the Commerce Department.

Around-Clock Probe Called By Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today that four Ku Klux members have been arrested in Alabama for conspiracy in the slaying of a Detroit mother of five after Thursday's mass civil rights march on Montgomery, Ala.

Johnson paid tribute to FBI agents for the arrests for what Johnson called the "horrible crime."

Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39, Detroit mother of five, was shot to death Thursday night while driving in a rural section near Lowndesboro. She was the third person to die by violence in the current civil rights campaign in Alabama.

She was driving from Selma to Montgomery to pick up some of the participants in the civil rights march on the Alabama capital.

Johnson Notified Press secretary George E. Reedy said Johnson was notified about this event shortly after it happened and immediately got in touch with agents on duty at the FBI and asked that all their facilities that could be profitably employed be placed in operation and that they work around the clock to solve the murder.

Reedy said Johnson made a series of telephone calls about the killing before going to bed at 2 a.m. He said the President talked to Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach among others.

Hoover Phones At 8 a.m. today, Reedy reported, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover called Johnson and "told him the FBI had worked through the night" and that all facilities that could be placed in operation were functioning.

Reedy said that at some time during the night Mrs. Liuzzo's widower, Arthur Liuzzo of Detroit, called the White House. The press secretary said a White House telephone operator told Liuzzo that his call would be brought to the attention of the President.

Johnson, after learning of the call, had his special counsel, Leo White, call Liuzzo to relay information that the FBI and the Justice Department.

Prairie Hen Refuge Due

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of the World Wildlife Fund says Texas prairie chickens now number an estimated 750 and the danger of extinction has become a "critical situation."

Dr. Ira Gabrielson of Washington said Thursday a firm agreement has been reached to buy an additional 800 acres in Colorado County and complete the 3,400-acre wildlife refuge near Eagle Lake.

He said an option to buy 2,600 acres was taken by the fund last month to assure establishment of the refuge. It will be the center for a program to restore the grouse-like birds.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Capitol, to receive the applause of Congress members for their three-orbit flight Tuesday in the first maneuverable spacecraft.

At Andrews Air Force Base, Md., where the astronauts touched down today after a flight from Cape Kennedy in two twin engine airplanes, an Air Force honor guard formed restraining lines to keep back the cheering spectators.

At a ceremony in the White House Rose Garden, Grissom and Young received the space agency's Distinguished Service Medal. That will make veteran astronaut Grissom the first two-time winner of the award.

He said an option to buy 2,600 acres was taken by the fund last month to assure establishment of the refuge. It will be the center for a program to restore the grouse-like birds.

Space Twins Given Medals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Capitol, to receive the applause Gemini spacemen, Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young, arrived at the White House today to receive heroes' medals from President Johnson.

With their wives, children, parents and an escort of National Aeronautic and Space Administration officials, the smiling astronauts were greeted by applauding, sign-waving spectators on their arrival from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Thousands more waited to welcome them along Pennsylvania Avenue after the medal presentation in the White House. Then a motorcade was to carry the space twins to the first maneuverable spacecraft. At Andrews Air Force Base, Md., where the astronauts touched down today after a flight from Cape Kennedy in two twin engine airplanes, an Air Force honor guard formed restraining lines to keep back the cheering spectators.

At a ceremony in the White House Rose Garden, Grissom and Young received the space agency's Distinguished Service Medal. That will make veteran astronaut Grissom the first two-time winner of the award.

DEAR ABBY

She Waited Too Long

DEAR ABBY: What do you think is wrong with a husband who, having slept in the same bed with his wife for 20 years, moves into another bedroom and has only been back to sleep with her twice in two years? And then it was only because they had overnight company and he was forced to sleep with his wife. On those occasions he slept on the edge of the bed with his face to the wall. The wife is not unattractive in fact, she is always getting compliments on the way she dresses and the way she looks. She bathes every day and gets her hair done once a week. She can't understand the reason for his sudden coolness. Is it any wonder she is—MISERABLE?

DEAR MISERABLE: No, it's no wonder. But the wife need not go on being miserable for the rest of her life. She should have made an effort to find out the reason for her husband's "sudden coolness" two years ago. But it's better late than never.

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a girl she is dirty? We are freshmen in high school and one of our classmates comes to school dirty every day. She doesn't comb her hair she just "rats" it and lets it go. We would like to tell her as politely as possible that she is dirty, but we don't know how.

FROM INDIANA

DEAR GIRLS: There is no "polite" way to tell a girl she is dirty. Perhaps there is a reason why she is "dirty." Do any of you know what her home is like? Are there proper facilities for cleanliness? If there are, and the girl simply does not know better, then one of the girls with whom SHE is close should have a frank talk with her—but in the spirit of kindness and helpfulness. And the same girl could help her improve her hair style.

DEAR ABBY: I know that no one is perfect, but I simply cannot tolerate supposedly well-bred intelligent adults who display poor table manners. The number of grown-ups who do not know how to hold a knife and fork properly when cutting

Resting

Priscilla Riordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil V. Riordan, 1183 Barnes Ave., Big Spring, is resting some better in the intensive care unit of Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. She received injuries in a traffic mishap about 8 p.m. Sunday, three miles south of Lubbock. She is a senior at Texas Tech, and a graduate of Howard County Junior College. She resides in the Home Management House at Tech.

More Service By Post Office

More service facilities for the postal customer are receiving new emphasis in the postal system. E. C. Boatler, postmaster, pointed out, after receiving word from John A. Gronouski, postmaster general, of a new improved "self-service" post office.

The new experimental 24-hour self-service unit—the second—opened in mid-March just outside Los Angeles, to meet after-hours postage and mailing needs of suburbanites.

The first unit was installed recently at a shopping center just outside Washington, D. C. It offers around-the-clock facilities for buying stamps, postal cards and envelopes at cost, mailing letters and weighing and mailing parcels.

In the new model, the vending machines dispensing cards, envelopes, have five times as much capacity, and a larger roof over the vending devices and parcel post drops for better protection of the public.

Noting that the self-service units are designed as a supplement to service, and not as a replacement for central postal facilities or personnel, Boatler added:

"While there has been no determination yet of how far this program will be expanded, it has great potential for helping to meet the tremendous increases in suburban service demands more efficiently, while providing even better service."

Church To Pick Elders, Deacons

The Anderson Street Church of Christ will begin the process of selecting elders and deacons over the next four Sundays, as David Tarbet, minister, preaches on the subject of church government.

Subjects of sermons for the next four Sundays will be: "The Spirit's Leaders," March 28; "Who Are the Elders?" April 4; "Qualifications of Elders," April 11; and "Our Responsibility to the Elders," April 18.

"The congregation will be asked to submit the names of those it believes qualified for elders and deacons," Tarbet said. "The names will be considered and evaluated individually before final decisions are made."

Job Corps

Charles Slass, 17, of Magnolia, Arkansas, loaded down with clothing for work and play shortly after arrival with the first contingent of recruits at the Gary Job Corps Training Center near San Marcos. During the day, 229 recruits, ranging in age from 16 to 21, were scheduled to check in at the center, one of three such frontier outposts in the national war on poverty. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Kiwanians Told About Blount's Zoo Plans

Big Spring needs a Children's Zoo, A. D. Blount said, and determined effort can provide it. Such a zoo will ultimately be established. Estimated cost of the project is $75,000; the favored location is a tract of land near the historic "big spring" southwest of town.

Big Spring Kiwanians heard of the zoo from three of its boosters Thursday. Two were from Webb AFB—Captains Dick Wilson and Glenn Young. The third speaker was Blount, who operates a pet shop.

The trio made its presentation employing charts, colored slides and three brief talks. They told the club they already had numerous contacts—men and women interested in the project have offered to make contributions. They stressed what they want is a large number of smaller contributors—$7.50 per year members—to insure continued interest and enthusiasm.

The "membership" is in the Zoological Society of Big Spring. John Currie Jr. is membership manager. Funds are already being received for the program, the speakers told the Kiwanians. The slides for the most part were of children's zoos in other cities. Children's zoos tend to feature younger animals and have them so presented that the kids can actually come in contact with them.

Blount, who has a small collection of animals at his shop, said that he has groups of youngsters at his place nearly every day.

The trio is presenting its program to a number of civic organizations this week.

Knott Church Holding Revival

KNOTT (SC)—A revival meeting is in progress at the Knott First Baptist Church, with the Rev. James Brown, Austin, preaching. DeWayne Clawson, Coahoma, is directing the music, and Martha Robinson is pianist. Services will continue through March 28.

Mrs. Minnie Foster, Lamesa, was guest speaker at both services last Sunday at the Assembly of God Church. She was accompanied by Oleta Johnson.

Propaganda From Reds On Gas Cited

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has suffered a worldwide propaganda defeat on the use of nonlethal gas in the Vietnamese war, and U.S. officials doubt that their counter-offensive now under way can fully overcome the damage.

Communist propagandists are expected to try to keep the issue alive in spite of vehement denials by Secretary of State Dean Rusk that the United States has engaged or ever intended to engage in gas warfare in Viet Nam.

A more serious problem, officials here believe, is that in allied and neutral countries some residue of suspicion is likely to remain in the minds of many people because denials and explanations seldom catch up with an initial blunder.

One result of all this may be a strong reluctance on the part of military commanders in Viet Nam to use nauseous gases hereafter against guerrilla-infested villages in South Viet Nam.

ANOTHER SIDE
The use of tear gas in such cases is officially considered more humane than bombings and gunfire, but the cost in worldwide public opinion now has to be considered.

That there was a bad blunder in the way the news initially was disclosed last Monday is generally agreed among Johnson administration leaders. An Army spokesman in Saigon said that there had been some experimental use of nonlethal gas against Red guerrillas. The gas was described as temporarily disabling. It was not sharply defined as the kind of gas sometimes used by police forces over the world against rioters.

The announcement touched off a worldwide furor which brought criticism and denunciation of the United States. Questions were raised as to whether the United States was violating a 1925 Geneva agreement outlawing gas warfare. Communist radios in Moscow and the Far East accused this country of barbarity and brutality.

STUNS CAPITAL
The storm hit official Washington with stunning surprise. Apparently no one in high position had foreseen such an uproar or given any serious thought to the danger of raising the specter of gas warfare when various types of riot-control gas were sent to the South Vietnamese forces in mid-1962.

An initial explanation from the Pentagon began to develop the idea that riot-control gases were those actually involved, but it took more than 24 hours to mount the U.S. counter-offensive.

On Tuesday Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara held a news conference to say that the gases used were essentially police-type tear gas and that they had been employed to save the lives of civilians among whom guerrilla fighters had taken refuge. He emphasized that the gases had been used only on two or three occasions.

McNamara said the British had used such gases on Cyprus in 1955.

Milder Weekend Seen For Texas

By The Associated Press

Clearing skies erased threats of snow, freezing rain and dangerous icing in the northern half of Texas today and brought a prospect of milder weather for the weekend.

There was still a mixture of drizzle and fog with temperatures a little below freezing in the Tyler to Lufkin area in early morning. It also was drizzly but somewhat warmer in coastal areas and from San Antonio to Cotulla in the south.

CLOUDS BREAK
Until the clouds started breaking up the Weather Bureau had predicted snow or freezing rain would glaze a broad expanse from the Panhandle-Plains section eastward during the night.

Chilling temperatures lingered everywhere except the extreme south part of the state. Readings before dawn included:

ed Amarillo 16 degrees, Dalhart 20 and Lubbock 21.

Forecasts called for showers or misting rain to disappear from all sections during the day and the mercury to dip again overnight, with lows down to 18 degrees in the Panhandle and near freezing in other areas.

WARMING DUE
By Saturday, however, a general warming was in prospect. Weather Bureau observers forecast still another cool spell the first of next week, but it was expected to be less severe than the current siege.

There was sharp contrast again Thursday between top readings in the chilled Panhandle and the West Texas Big Bend and the Lower Rio Grande Valley, both unaffected by the cold.

Dalhart recorded a high of 25 degrees in the Panhandle. At Presidio in the Big Bend the mercury soared to 91 and at Brownsville on the state's southern tip the high for the day was 85.

Water Report Published

Detailed water plans are now being prepared for a Texas generation not yet born, according to the Texas Water Commission's latest biennial report, just released.

Special attention has been focused upon Gov. John Connally's directive "To develop a comprehensive state water plan to aid the economic growth and general welfare of the state... explore all reasonable alternatives for development and distribution of all our water resources to benefit the entire state."

Involved in meeting the governor's request is the assembly and study of such diverse things as historic rainfall and stream flow records, evaporation rates from El Paso to Texarkana, samples of foundation rock drilled from possible dam sites, estimates of population and economic growth during the next half century, and the cost of transporting huge quantities of water to points where it will be needed.

Also being considered is the amount of water being pumped from the ground, and the length of time it is expected to last under present conditions. Although work has been started, completion of the plan is not expected until 1966.

Copies of the report have been given to Gov. Connally and all state legislators. To obtain a copy, write the Texas Water Commission, Box 12311, Capitol Station, Austin, Tex., 78711. Administrative offices are located in the Sam Houston State Office Building.

Maria Reed Is First To Enter Beauty Show

Competition has opened in the 1965 Miss Big Spring Pageant planned for April 16 in Municipal Auditorium, with Maria Reed, 21-year-old former West Texas State University coed, the first entrant in the senior division.

Maria Reed is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Reed, 807 W. 17th, and is a 1967 graduate of Muleshoe, Texas, High School. She was named Miss Sul Ross Beauty Queen in 1961 and has attended West Texas State University two years.

Her talent presentation will consist of twirling. She was a majorette two years and a class beauty three years while in high school. Her sponsor is the First National Bank.

Entry blanks are available for the Miss Big Spring Pageant and the Junior Miss Big Spring Pageant at the chamber of commerce office and from Jack Orr.

Miss Texas of 1964 will crown the winning contestant in the auditorium, with the winner to compete in this year's Miss Texas Pageant at Fort Worth. The winning Miss Texas will com-

Requirements for entry in the Miss Big Spring Pageant are that the entrant must be between the ages of 18 and 25 years, single, never have been married, divorced or have had a marriage annulled. Each entrant must have a sponsoring organization and must be prepared to give a talent presentation.

In the Junior Miss Big Spring Pageant, entrants must be between the ages of 16 and 18 years. Entrants in either must have been residents of Howard County for the preceding six months or a current student of Howard County Junior College.

Last year's Miss Big Spring, Charlotte Anders, placed in the top five in the Miss Texas Pageant.

Jack Orr, president of Big Spring Jaycees, has announced appointment of committee chairman for the pageant.

General chairman will be Joe Matthews, with Orr and Jack Dumphy chairmen for entries.

Go To Lubbock

Dr. Charles H. Miller, C. E. McDonnell and Bill Hammock of the Big Spring Veteran's Administration Hospital are in Lubbock today to participate in a panel discussion during the Lubbock regional area rehabilitation clinic for county service officers. The clinic is sponsored by the Lubbock VA regional office and the VA Commission.

Committees and chairmen include Gene Flowers, staging; Jim Chumley and Bill Lewis, programs; John Anderson, public relations; Chuck Butts, trophies; Norman Gound, activities for contestants; Dick Wilson and Max Werking, judges; and Dr. Sam Piepers, tickets.

Sponsors are needed for the Miss Big Spring Pageant, according to Dumphy. He may be contacted at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Choir Boosters To Sell Pizza

Big Spring Choir Boosters are sponsoring a pizza dinner at Carlos' Restaurant March 28 from 2 to 7 p.m. Plain and pepperoni pizzas will be served by choir students. Advanced orders as well as orders to go will be available by calling AM 3-4607 before 2 p.m. Sunday, or AM 4-9141 after 2 p.m. Any order will be delivered upon request.

The choir boosters operated the concessions stand for the Big Spring Concert Association for last night's performance at the city auditorium. Proceeds from the projects will be used to reduce the outstanding balance on the junior high school choir robes.

An invitation is extended to everyone, Mrs. William F. Nolen, president of the boosters, said, to make the project successful Sunday.

Baptist Students To Pick Officers

The Baptist Student Union at HCJC will elect officers Tuesday night to serve from May 1, 1965 to May 1, 1966. The nominees selected by the nominating committee are president, Donnie Anderson; vice president, Monty Clendenin; devotional chairman, Delinda Bradford; social chairman, Jo Nell Turner; secretary, Elaine Biffar; publicity chairman, Linda Whisenant; and music chairman, Charles Price.

All new officers will attend a statewide Leadership Training Conference near Waco, April 23-25. This conference is sponsored by the student division of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Reporters Face Added Dangers

NEW YORK (AP) — West Gallager, general manager of The Associated Press, said in his annual report today that the physical danger and strain of reporting the news have increased abroad and at home.

"Reporting the bitter, brutal war in Viet Nam subjected AP reporters and photographers to the danger of injury and death, as did the savage fighting in the Congo," Gallagher said.

"Domestically, racial rioting in several cities required physical courage for the needed closeup coverage.

ELECTION COVERAGE
"The long election contest with its jet campaigning from city to city made political reporting a contest of physical endurance."

The general manager's report covered a wide range, including use of the Network Election Service in covering the 1964 presidential balloting, technical improvements in speeding the news, and steps taken to meet the needs of an increasing number of youthful readers.

The report was mailed to members of the worldwide news cooperative in advance of the AP annual meeting and luncheon to be held April 19 in New York. Gov. George Romney of Michigan will be the luncheon speaker.

FACE CHANGING

Gallagher said the face of journalism is being changed rapidly by a revolution in news, largely because "half the population of the United States has been born since 1938, and the median age of readers and viewers gradually grows younger."

The youthful generation, he said, is better educated and puts a premium on quality. He said that the AP and a new generation of publishers, editors and broadcasters are making every effort to provide it.

"This youthful population knows little of World War II — they were too young for first-hand knowledge and school history books seldom keep up with the rush of human events," he continued. "But they know a lot about astronauts, rockets, hot lines, random access computers and a hundred other subjects that did not exist a generation ago."

A CHALLENGE

"Writing for both the older and younger generations, each with different background knowledge, presents unique challenges which The Associated Press is meeting with a combination of youth and experience. Well aware of the need for fresh ideas and new talent, the AP has encouraged younger staffers as writers, editors and executives."

Gallagher said new publishing technology is breaking the chains of obsolescence in printing plants and that the impact of electronic journalism is resulting in new reporting, writing and editing techniques.

Water Safety Bill Studied

AUSTIN (AP) — Dallas Rep. Ben Atwell's House-passed water safety bill was in the hands of a Senate subcommittee today after a hearing at which Atwell testified the measure seeks to protect the boating public.

It would set boat equipment standards, allow zoning of lakes for such activities as swimming and fishing, double boat registration fees and put enforcement of water safety rules in the hands of game wardens.

"This is an endeavor, as best we can, to try to protect the public boater, whether he be water skier or sailor, without trying to hinder him," Atwell told the Senate Water Committee.

The House passed the bill March 10.

Boat registration fees would be used to build and maintain boat ramps and rest rooms near public waters.

Huge Bomber Sets Records

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The huge XB70A supersonic bomber broke two aviation records — heaviest weight and continuous supersonic flight — in its eighth test flight.

During its 100-minute flight it logged a record 80 minutes at supersonic speeds ranging up to about 1,400 miles per hour.

Menace Cited If Reds Won South Viet Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today that if the Communists establish control over South Viet Nam, all Asia will be threatened.

The choice, he told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is not simply whether to continue support of the Saigon government, "but, rather whether to continue to halt Communist expansion in Asia."

BETTER CHOICE

"If the choice is the latter, as I believe it should be," McNamara said. "We will be far better off facing the issue in South Viet Nam."

McNamara and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified behind closed doors in support of the administration's $1.17 billion request for military assistance as part of the foreign aid program for the fiscal year starting July 1. Copies of their prepared statements were made public.

McNamara told the committee, as he did the House Foreign Affairs Committee March 11, that if South Viet Nam were to fall, the United States would "have to face this same problem all over again in another place or permit them to have all of Southeast Asia by default."

Wheeler testified that, despite political changes in Saigon, the South Vietnamese regular armed forces "have remained intact, vital and disciplined."

A Devotional For The Day

Beloved, build yourselves up on your most holy faith; pray in the Holy Spirit; keep yourselves in the love of God; wait for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life. (Jude 20-21, RSV)

PRAYER: Lord, we thank Thee for the unfolding story of Thy patience with sinful humanity and for Thy tender love and mercy. We come to Thee just as we are. Forgive us our trespasses against Thee and give us the desire and will to accept Jesus Christ as our Saviour. In His name we pray. Amen.
(From the "Upper Room")

To Whom It Really Belongs

Rep. Raleigh Brown of Abilene has introduced a measure designed to provide a way to properly appraise the available water in Texas and to fix ownership.

"The bald fact is that the state does not know for sure who has the right to use the water in its rivers," wrote Stuart Long, veteran Austin correspondent.

In some 15 pages, the bill sets out the mechanics for taking an inventory of the water, weeding out the host of unperfected permits and filings and otherwise reduce to a true current picture the matter of rights. From this point, the Texas Water Commission—assuming it would become the agency to pass upon rights—would hear petitions for further division of the state's water.

This certainly would be a starting point, and it would represent a reform sorely needed. It would not, however, answer the great conflicts of present claims, nor the manifestly inevitable and selfish attitudes of some groups which conceive themselves to be the self-appointed kings of watersheds. Somewhere in all of this there must be a clarification to the old gospel that surface waters belong to the state and are for use when and where they will produce the most benefit to people of the state, and not for how they will advance provincial or private gain.

Mild Medicine

There seems to be a sense of outrage on the part of many in this country and around the world over reports that non-lethal, nauseous gas was used by our troops in the Viet Nam conflict.

The one little word "gas" is probably the thing which has taken this incident out of perspective. Somehow, there is an inclination to associate this with use of mustard gas by the Germans during World War I and alleged use of poisonous gas by axis forces during World War II. From a propaganda point of view, any gas reaps the whirlwind harvest of these earlier barbaric excesses.

Yet, calm assessment of the situation tells us that if we can use tear gas to smoke out criminals or to disperse marauders and mobs in our own country and never raise an eyebrow, why should it cause revulsion when it is used to smoke out guerrillas who are bent on killing our men?

The circumstances under which this may be used are quite limited, but if this is the most effective way of flushing out the enemy, then we say use it. Retching and a transitory flood of tears are mild medicine compared to what the enemy has in store for our side if it could only succeed.

Holmes Alexander

Will The Brakes Be Applied?

WASHINGTON — Given an obedient Congress and a subservient Supreme Court, can a president be restrained from rash and intemperate actions which bode ill for the nation's future?

MANY OF OUR former chief executives were so awed by their temporal power that they hoped never to use it except against foreign enemies. President Johnson seemingly feels no such compunction when it comes to gaining desired objectives. He now has marched federal troops into Alabama. He has submitted a Civil Rights bill that would dismantle states' responsibility in running local elections. He has declared himself dedicated to bumping off another states' right — the section called 14B of the Labor-Management law. Is there no stop-look-listen device?

WELL, THERE are three rather nebulous warning systems which might very well caution Mr. Johnson against reckless and unrestrained power happiness. One is the press, another is the old reliable possibility of extended Senate debate, a third is the undoubted feeling among Democratic senators that their one-time peerless leader is taking them into trouble back home.

The press began by liking LBJ very much. But deservedly or not, Mr. Johnson has lost much of this rapport. His calling of unscheduled press conferences at inconvenient hours and places has irritated many reporters who can't spend all day in the White House lobbies. His refusal to attend certain journalistic festivals, like the Gridiron Club dinner and the White House Correspondents Banquet has irked some ranking members of the press hierarchy. Stormy weather is building up; it could conceivably give the President a bouncy ride on his flight toward social revolution.

SENATE RULE 22 has survived the biennial attempt of the radicals to muzzle the filibuster. Southern senators and other defenders of minority opinion still have the opportunity to speak at length when moved to do so. Some of the upper chamber men are already preparing lengthy passages in which to speak their grievances on the Voting Rights bill. They will be saying, though in more words than it takes to tell, that the President has thrown them an illegal pitch.

The Voting Rights bill proposes, among much else, to punish states for breaking a law that didn't exist when they broke it. Ex post facto legislation is as illicit under the Constitution as the spitball is in baseball. If the President insists in throwing it at the senators, he may find them using their spikes on him. LBJ's overconfidence bears a strong family resemblance to the way FDR threw his court-packing plan at the Senate after the 46-state sweep of the 1936 election.

REPEAL OF Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act is also on the presidential agenda for the 89th Congress. This one could give Mr. Johnson still more trouble. Whereas the Voting Rights bill affects only six states and their delegations in Congress, the repealer would affect the 19 states which now use 14B to protect themselves from compulsory union shops. The Democratic platform of 1964 favors abolition of the Civil Right not to join a union, but many Democratic senators would feel safer in their seats if they weren't forced to follow the party line on this one. Their unannounced strategy is to prevent the repealer from ever coming to the floor.

IF THE President insists upon paying off his debt to labor, he may have to do so at the cost of some old friendships on Capitol Hill.

Mr. Johnson still has the power to do pretty much as he likes. The revolutionary forces are in full swing and he is going their way. But there are these still, small voices of warning.

U.S.-World Affairs: The Needle's Stuck

WASHINGTON (AP) — The needle got stuck.

Things were going badly in Viet Nam and on Feb. 7, when the Red guerrillas attacked an American air base, President Johnson ordered bases in North Viet Nam bombed. The White House explained "we seek no wider war."

The Reds didn't seem to listen. They kept on banging away in the south.

But things were going brilliantly for Johnson at home. Congress was being more than kind in its response to his programs of health care for the aged and federal aid to education, which no one would have bet on before.

THE AMERICAN bombing of North Viet Nam didn't stop with that first "reprisal." It became routine and Johnson explained "we seek no wider war," although there were demands he say more.

The Reds still didn't listen. Congress gave Johnson's war on poverty a big boost by passing his Appalachia bill, speeded up his education bill, and gave signs of handing Johnson an even broader health-care bill than he had asked. And he got a good reaction all around when he appointed Nicholas Katzenbach attorney general.

The administration let it be known that its continuing war on North Viet Nam was simply an attempt to force the Communists to let South Viet Nam alone. And this country said it wanted some "indication" the Reds would come to terms.

THEY DIDN'T, although Secretary of State Dean Rusk, speaking for the administration, said "If Hanoi stops molesting its neighbors, then peace can be restored promptly and U.S. forces can come home."

In Selma the boiling racial crisis made Johnson uncomfortable. But he overcame that in a very spectacular way. He addressed a joint session of Congress, strongly supported the Negroes' civil rights cause, got a big ovation, submitted a voting-rights bill which seems sure to pass, and was credited with being very shrewd in naming Henry Fowler his secretary of the Treasury.

In Asia the strikes against North Viet Nam continued. Johnson told a news conference all this country wants is for the Vietnamese Communists to stop picking on their neighbors. But the Red guerrillas kept on picking.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk aren't worth the money.

There's fun in being stingy. Try it and see.

In his youth, man is a waster and a destroyer. He likes to tear down things, throw things away. He believes he is surrounded by a limitless plenty.

"After all, you can't take it with you," he says.

But after the free-wheeling years pass, a subtle change comes over most people. The squirrel side of their nature comes to the fore, and the ant in their makeup replaces the grasshopper.

ONE BEGINS to measure his success by the number of things he can accumulate — children and chattels, cars and mortgages, a home with crabgrass that he can proudly call his own.

At 50, a man is known by his possessions. But whether he is poor, rich, or merely getting along, he probably is no longer the carefree spendthrift he once was.

Now, feeling the years closing in on him, he feels a blind, increasing urge to hoard something against the long dark.

This is man's "stingy stage." I am in it now — and am having the time of my life.

To be stingy you don't have to be a mean, temper-tormented, skinflint or tightwad. All you have to be is sensibly thrifty.

That's why the stingy man stays out of night clubs. They aren't worth the money.

THAT'S WHY the stingy man avoids bores. They aren't worth his time.

Saving is the chief characteristic of the stingy stage. You have to save something. Saving money, of course, would be nice, at least from the viewpoint of your heirs, but the government has made that unprofitable, if not impossible.

Many people first discover they have entered the stingy stage by noting they have started to save string.

I haven't gotten around to string yet. But you should see my fine collection of brown paper grocery bags — enough to stock a small supermarket.

I ALSO heard Christmas wrapping paper, political campaign buttons, old jury duty notices, warning letters from the public library about overdue books, toothpicks that have been used only on one end, and messages found in Chinese fortune cookies eaten over a 30-year period.

But my special prize is my clothes closet. There rest in honored glory such treasures as a jacket I bought when Adolf Hitler was still in power and a pair of slacks I got in Bombay in 1945. If wide lapels and pleats come back in style by next month, I'll be the hit of the Easter parade.

To the properly stingy man nothing is ever really out of date. He lives by the motto, "To each his own." And he keeps his.

Nerve Pills Provide But Temporary Help

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of six consecutive articles dealing with new hope for increasing mental health and the significant changes that are taking place in the treatment of emotional illness.

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. Here is a letter that impinges on several aspects of emotional or mental health.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 29 and have to take nerve pills. I have the type of nervous attacks that make me smother and my heart beats fast and other symptoms develop.

My mother-in-law thinks taking nerve pills will finally put a person in a mental hospital. What is your opinion?—MRS. J. D.

The mother-in-law is quite mistaken. Nerve pills keep people out of hospitals, not put them in.

But I suspect that Mrs. J. D. herself ought to think a little deeper, too. My mail is abundant evidence that a great many people are limping along on nerve pills, which usually means sedatives or tranquilizers. Both are useful—under proper conditions.

They don't solve the real problem, though. WHY does Mrs. J. D. have these nervous attacks? There has to be a reason. With her doctor's help, she should search for that reason.

The pills are just a means of temporary relief.

Often enough an overactive thyroid plays some part in such cases—perhaps a small part, perhaps big. Or too many stimulants, such as too much caffeine from too many cups of coffee, tea or cola drinks. After these, or other physical possibilities have been eliminated, start asking:

When do these nervous attacks occur? Is there a pattern? A doctor doesn't have to be a psychiatrist to spot some causes. There may be anxieties, frustrations or conflicts which, with a little analysis and thoughtfulness, can be abated. Or sometimes boredom, idleness and lack of interest in anything but oneself can let the mind "start chewing on itself." Keeping busy is an old-fashioned remedy not without merit.

Or to go a step further, there are indeed cases in which some deep-rooted emotional block can exist, suppressed or unrecognized by the patient. In such cases a psychiatrist may be the only answer, but it is only good sense to look for simpler solutions first.

Personally I also set considerable store by the balms that has existed so long for so many: Religious faith. A rapidly-growing interest in "counseling services" by churchmen is proving its worth.

Naturally these projects should operate within wise limits. Amateur psychiatry can do harm. It is gratifying to note that many of these counseling groups operate with the guidance of certified psychiatrists. Faith alone isn't necessarily enough if some deep-seated personality conflict is basically doing the damage.

How can a person tell which is which? Many times you can't, without considerable expert training. That is precisely why some thousands of doctors have been spending long evenings in classes and seminars learning these important, difficult distinctions.

The patient's contribution to his own welfare lies largely in his willingness to adopt a reasonable, co-operative view when the doctor says, "SOME of this is in your head." Not all, because the physical consequences are only too real, but the CAUSE often lies in the emotions. It is encouraging to note that many patients realize this.

Iron Bars Do Not A Prison Make...

We hear a considerable amount of talk about increases in crime, particularly in larger urban centers. Robbery, for instance, in Texas cities of between 25,000 and 50,000 population increased during 1964 about 64 per cent over the previous year!

AT A RECENT meeting of the National District Attorneys Association in Houston, Dr. George Beto, head of the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville, blamed the population shift to major urban centers as a prime cause of recent crime increases. He pointed out that as cities grow, both the crime rate and prison populations will continue to increase.

He went on to present several other reasons for the current problems of crime.

"RECENTLY A staff of psychiatrists made a survey of 200 inmates, half of whom had been convicted of crimes of violence and the rest of crimes of nonviolence," he said. "While the results of the survey have not been compiled, the investigators did say that almost all of those interviewed and tested came from broken homes."

As a nation, Dr. Beto said he believes our lives have been marked with misplaced values, which are being passed on to young people.

ANOTHER CURRENT topic of conversation involving crime, which he discussed, concerns the idea that prisons are today "coddling" the inmates. His observation was that even if men were locked in a fashionable country club, still the confinement would amount to imprisonment.

"The length of a man's sentence has as little to do with his reformation as does the uniform he wears in prison," Dr. Beto said.

THIS IS NOT a new idea in itself. Yet his observation parallels a theory which is becoming increasingly a part of penal systems in this country, there must be that recognition of some of the reasons behind crime before steps can be taken inside prison walls toward encouraging and developing (where possible) the improvements in men to which Dr. Beto refers. And these ideas are a part of the recognition that a prison is as much a corrective as a punitive institution. Its greatest hope lies in the former.

Look Out For The Firearms Bill

WASHINGTON—A great deal of the crime with which the nation is now preoccupied was invented by bureaucrats and lawmakers whose principal aim in this life is to perpetuate themselves and their system.

There is, for example, not one shred of objective proof that any such organism as the Mafia ever existed in anything like the magnitude it was endowed with by one Harry J. Anslinger, former overlord of the Bureau of Narcotics.

TO BE SURE, his work was refined and honed to a high policy by others who came later. Of all the creative nightmares ever coughed out by an agency of government none can rival the splendid achievement of the men who gave birth to the Cosa Nostra. The existence of this organism is now accepted as an article of faith, and no one pauses to reflect that the whole huge, ectoplasmic apparatus rests on the unsupported mauling of a career incompetent. It was a splendid circus, to be sure. There was the diverting spectacle of the nepotist attorney general (and now transitory junior senator from New York) pretending to take the whole dismal charade seriously. Well, sir or madam, by now all know that Kennedy mimics never did anything for fun in his life, although he may have gotten a humorless chuckle out of terrifying the hirms of Joe Valachi. Fact is he wanted wiretapping made legal, contending that, so armed, the Justice Department could purge society of the dreadful mafiosa.

A SOMEWHAT similar thing is on the boards in Washington now. The celebrated crime epidemic that is said to be devouring the Republic may or may not exist. But the blight will not be cured—and indeed can only be exacerbated—when lawmakers use it to persuade the squares to submit to bad legislation.

FOR EXAMPLE, bills now are pending in the Congress that will go a very long—and perhaps irreversible—way toward disarming American hunters, target shooters and gun collectors. The craze, as always, is that only the crazies, hoodlums and kids will be deprived of weapons. The reality is that rigid gun laws invariably keep firearms out of the hands of the honest burghers, not the thug bent on robbery or murder. New York's Sullivan Law is notorious in this regard. In 50 years all it has accomplished is to assure the stickup artist that the lox smith at the corner delicatessen won't be able to defend the day's dill pickle money—or his own life.

THE BILLS submitted to Congress by the administration are apparently directed at ending the traffic in mail-order firearms (all of them not just handguns), but close examination discloses they go a sight further. They would also forbid licensed dealers from selling firearms to anyone not a bona fide resident of the dealer's state. That provision opens the way to piecemeal prohibition of all firearms, which is the real goal of the anti-gun forces.

THE ONLY sensible gun legislation pending in Congress was authored by Rep. Bob Casey (D., Texas). It would lay a mandatory 25-year prison sentence on anyone who used or carried a firearm during the commission of a felony. That would solve whatever problem is posed by armed hoodlums, but it won't ever become law. Charming hoodlums is a major industry, and the settlement-house mind won't abide the thought of putting them out of circulation.

Why Not Include Honesty, Too?

WASHINGTON — Forced voting may be on its way for the individual citizen in America. Thus far the coercion would apply only to certain persons in particular states. But this is a form of discrimination which has been included in the pending voting-rights measure.

JUST WHY President Johnson has approved of the idea of punishing certain citizens because they do not vote at least once in three years is a mystery. There are lots of persons who become ill or suddenly find they have to be away from home on election day or cannot get an absentee ballot in time. No explanation has been advanced as to just why such individuals are to be penalized if they fail to vote.

The voting-rights bill, which is supposed to be passed by Congress soon, would penalize newly listed voters rather than those already registered, since it would apply only to those voters whose names have been put on the list of eligibles by federal examiners or registrars. The proposed statute actually says that a citizen may lose his right to vote and that his or her name can be removed from the list of eligibles by a federal examiner if the latter determines that the individual has not voted "at least once during three consecutive years" while listed as eligible.

COMPULSORY voting is enforced in some countries, but it applies to all citizens. As far as is known, every citizen with such a system penalizes everyone and not just selected citizens.

Oddly enough, with all the talk about anti-discrimination and giving every citizen an opportunity to vote, nothing has been done by the administration to prevent corruption at the polls, either in the casting or the counting of the ballots in all federal, state and local elections. Yet the federal government now is assuming the right to control the voting process in all elections throughout the country. The only reference in the bill to improper counting pertains to those states which, under the rules to be laid down, will have been adjudged to have discriminated in the past. The law would not apply to dishonesty in other states. The Chicago Tribune, in an editorial, said the other day:

"ALABAMA AND the other states of the Deep South are not the only places where citizens are deprived of their right to vote and to have their votes counted honestly. At every election in Chicago thousands of Negroes and other citizens are intimidated and bribed by Democratic precinct captains. Illiterate voters and voters who swear they are illiterate are followed into the polling booths and the voting machines are pulled for them.

"Another method of controlling votes is particularly effective among voters who are receiving public welfare payments or living in public housing. They are visited in their homes, asked to sign ballot applications, and then told they need not appear at the polls. Their votes are cast for them early on the morning of election day.

"ALL THESE practices are just as illegal and immoral as the various devices to keep Negroes from voting in Alabama; yet we have heard of no move by the leader of the Great Society party to assure honest elections in Chicago."

Timothy P. Sheehan, chairman of the Cook County Republican central committee in Chicago, has sent to all Republican members of the Illinois delegation in Congress a telegram which reads in part:

"Stiff penalties should be written into the new law so that the voter can properly exercise his free will and judgment without fear or intimidation, as well as stern penalties for failure of election officials to count and tally the votes properly in order to prevent the many abuses which take place in Chicago and other major cities."

Charges have been made that the 1960 presidential election might have resulted in a victory for the Nixon-Lodge ticket, rather than for Messrs. Kennedy and Johnson, if the votes had been properly counted in certain states, including Illinois — particularly in Chicago and Cook County. The Chicago Tribune also says:

"THE RECENT report by the eagle eye organization on the election last Nov. 3 is a shocking catalog of the ways the Democratic organization systematically steals thousands of votes."

But it so happens that the new "civil rights" bill is concerned with punishing only the South, allegedly for discrimination in the past. No effort is being made to apply all the restrictions with respect to voting rights to the other states of the union.

Billy Graham

I feel that I cannot measure up to the standard of the Bible. I feel that I'm not good enough to be a Christian. Is there any hope for me? . . . R. S.

By all means there is hope for you. There is nothing in the Bible that says that anyone has to be good to become a Christian. In fact Jesus himself said, "I am come not to call the righteous, but sinners, to repentance." And in another place it says, "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." Everything in the Bible is filled with promise for you. "God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved." What is filled with more promise than this?

Did you ever notice that Jesus had His greatest trouble with those who thought they were good enough? He always got along with those who knew they were bad. For them there was hope, and so there is for you. You need only to confess your sin and unworthiness, and hate your sin enough to leave it, and desire God's salvation enough to trust Jesus for it, and you will become one of the family of God through faith in Christ. By all means stop waiting for the time when you are good enough, and cast yourself upon God's mercy at once, and He will accept you for Christ's sake.

Electron Gun Shot Historic For Science

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Testers fired Stanford's big electron gun the other day when only one-fiftieth of its barrel was in place. The shot made scientific history.

The first 666-foot section generated an electron beam of 1.3 billion electron volts — BEV — the highest energy of any linear accelerator in America. It's already the longest.

When completed next summer, the new tool for exploring the nature of matter will be almost two miles long and will fire a 20-BEV beam of electrons to rip holes in the curtain of unimaginably minute subnuclear matter.

"A MICROSCOPE"

Considered as a "microscope," the accelerator will enable the physicist to study particles only one-hundredth of one-billionth of an inch long that exist for less than one-billionth of a second.

Its $114-million price tag makes it the most expensive piece of research apparatus ever financed by the federal government.

The Stanford Linear Accelerator Center—SLAC — will cost about $20 million a year to operate. Its electric bill alone will run about $2 million for it will consume as much power as nearby Palo Alto, population 56,000. The complex will employ 1,000 persons.

The time-sized beam will have no other use than research.

Stanford University's contribution to the project is about $10 million and 650 acres of university land. The university team of high-energy linear accelerator builders — science's most experienced — conceived and designed the machine, and is supervising its construction.

ing but disappointment, and according to legend, the accidental location of Santa Rita No. 1 west of Big Lake was about to be abandoned when it blew in.

Ricker turned down an offer to become chief counsel of Texas Oil Company, because he was representing Humble at the time the offer was made. He teamed with Floyd A. Dodson, San Angelo, and they operated as El Capitan Oil Company. Later Ricker went broke and then formed the Black Arrow Oil Company and again reaped a fortune, which eventually eluded him.

His fondest ambition of a place on the board of regents of the University eluded him, but he lived to see the derrick of Santa Rita No. 1 erected on the university campus.

Ricker had no regrets over not realizing any personal returns from his adventure which led to discovery of oil on the University lands. He said simply:

"God laid His hands on a West Texas boy to unlock His treasures."

LAY PREACHER

For the past decade he had been a lay preacher, going all over the state at his own expense to speak and hold revival meetings. Several years ago, in company with a friend, the Rev. Mack Alexander, he retraced the route which his family's covered wagon had followed from Navarro County to the ranch on Centralia Draw in Glasscock County, and he held worship services at the points where he remembered they had camped.

Although there were many occasions when it appeared the family ranch would be lost, holding on to it became a fetish with him. Not until a few years ago, when he permitted some of it to be subdivided into farm land, did he part with any of the spread. He always took pride in returning to the site of the old ranch house, and probably too, in seeing oil production on the ranch itself.

Mr. Ricker had been troubled by a heart involvement for quite some time, and it was compounded by a recent virus infection. This morning, he took a turn for the worse and died at 9:30 a.m.

Funeral is pending at the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Survivors include his widow, two sons, R. Paul Ricker, Midland, and Prince Ricker, Garden City; two daughters, Mrs. David Rogers, Redlands, Calif., and Mrs. John Benson, Big Spring; one sister, Mrs. J. B. Whisenant, Long Beach, Calif.; and 13 grandchildren.

Mrs. Coffey Is Gravely Ill

Mrs. John A. Coffey was flown to Fort Worth Friday in the Cosden Oil & Chemical Company plane. She is gravely ill at the St. Joseph's Hospital and there was no further word on her condition at noon. Mrs. Coffey, for many years a teacher here, has been seriously ill with a pulmonary involvement.

Easter Seal Dance Scheduled Saturday

The 1965 Easter Seal campaign has been moving along steadily in Howard County during the month.

Final plans for the Easter Seal dance, to be held Saturday night at the Cosden Country Club, have been prepared, and ticket sales have been exceptional, according to Mrs. Chester Matheny, co-chairman of the dance. Tickets are $1 a person and available from any member of the Howard County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Big Spring Police Department and the Jaycees. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Music for the dance will be provided by the Bob Featherstone combo of Midland and will start at 8 p.m.

Jim Thompson, co-chairman of the Easter Lily Parade March 12-15, reports more than $1,200 was collected. Approximately 400 volunteer workers took part in the parade.

Boy Scout Troop 5, sponsored by the First Baptist Church, will be on city streets Saturday selling Easter Lily pins. George Melear, chairman of the Easter Lily pins, said about $300 has been collected by the pin campaign.

Mrs. Chester Matheny and Joe Moenner, co-chairmen is used by the Howard County Rehabilitation Center. The center uses the money to buy crutches, canes, help devices and other aids for patients. A person need not be a patient at the center to receive Easter Seal help however.

A typical child helped by Easter Seal contributions is six-year-old Jackie Carey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Carey, 406 NW 9th in Big Spring. Little Jackie has been a victim of cerebral palsy since birth. This resulted in her being crippled in her right arm and leg.

For the past four years she has been taking physical therapy treatments at the Rehabilitation Center. At first she had much difficulty walking. Due to spastic muscles in her right leg, she was forced to walk on her toes.

Therapy consisted of exercises to stretch out the spastic muscles and to strengthen weak muscles. Various patterning exercises were given to teach her the normal patterns of movement and walking. A brace was used to help establish a normal walking pattern and to stretch the spastic muscles. She was placed in a group therapy class to help her learn to socialize with other children of her age.

Today she has discarded her brace and has a good walking pattern. She has good hand skills and is independent even to dressing herself and tying her shoes. Jackie is not self-conscious about her handicap and plays with other children.

She is one of many crippled children that has been helped by the rehabilitation center which is helped by the Easter Seal campaign.

Connally Vows Better Schools

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Gov. John Connally said Thursday night there will be no letup in his drive for better Texas schools.

He told the cheering audience at a Greenville Chamber of Commerce dinner that as soon as possible he would sign the bill changing East Texas State College at Commerce to East Texas State University.

Many of his listeners were graduates or one-time students at the school, 15 miles northeast of here.

Traffic Checked

Big Spring traffic officers conducted a series of traffic checks for drivers without licenses in the city Thursday. A total of 103 vehicles were stopped, according to police. Six drivers were given citations and six others given warnings, officers said.

Doomed Man Due In Court

LUBBOCK (AP) — James Lee Marion, 22, a Negro faces formal sentencing today before Judge Victor Lindsey for slaying wealthy Mrs. Fred Turner in her Midland home Oct. 21, 1963.

The fry cook was tried in Lubbock on a charge of venue and was given the death penalty last year.

Midland officers said Marion told them he pistol-whipped Mrs. Turner in her bedroom after she caught him prowling in her home.

The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the conviction in December 1964 and denied a rehearing later.

Marion's lawyer filed a writ of habeas corpus in U. S. District Court here Thursday. A hearing was scheduled for May 3. His lawyer argued that Marion was held for a month before he had counsel and a statement was obtained from him during that time.

Mrs. Turner's husband, an oil operator and sportsman, died of a heart attack a short time after her death.

Spending Bill Kinks Tackled

AUSTIN (AP)—State senators and representatives trying to write a compromise 1966-67 spending bill huddled today in an almost empty Capitol.

Work on ironing out differences between the House and Senate versions of a general appropriations bill continued although both houses were adjourned until Monday.

The 16-man conference committee held its first session Thursday.

Senators worked past noon debating pay raise proposals for the House speaker, lieutenant governor—and themselves.

As finally approved 29-0 and sent back to the House, the measure proposes to raise salaries of the speaker and lieutenant governor from $4,800 to half the governor's salary, which now is $25,000 a year.

A raise in their own salaries from $4,800 to $12,000 was adopted by senators, but another vote wiped it out and the senators' pay hike was withdrawn.

"This is bad judgment," Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo said about the senators' pay hike amendment. "You are not only putting yourself in a box as far as school teachers are concerned but also on redistricting."

The measure must go back to the House for approval of Senate changes.

Senators adopted earlier this week and sent to the House a proposed constitutional amendment that would increase the size of the Senate from 30 to 33 members and give them six instead of four-year terms. They also approved a measure that would give the governor and other statewide officials four instead of two-year terms.

Most Of U.S. Cold And Wet

Cold, wet and cloudy weather — not a bit spring-like — covered the major part of the nation today.

The broadest belt of the wintry weather extended from the Appalachians to the Rockies. Snow and sleet hit many areas from western Pennsylvania and northeastern Ohio to southern Missouri. Snow also fell in scattered sections of the eastern Great Lakes, the Middle Mississippi Valley and from the Dakotas and northern Texas to the Rockies.

Temperatures were 15 to 30 degrees below normal. More below-zero cold stung areas in the northern Midwest. Snow and cold also hit other sections, including New Mexico, Oregon, Washington and New York State, but amounts were generally light.

Thunderstorms rumbled across areas from Virginia to Louisiana, with heavy rain reported in scattered sections from Kentucky to northern parts of Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. Strong winds lashed areas northwest of Meridian in east central Mississippi and at Athens, Ala., about 90 miles north of Birmingham during severe rain and hail storms.

City Officials Visit Lubbock

Public Works Director Ernest Lillard was to visit the Texas Surplus Property Agency in Lubbock today. The city periodically checks the agency for possible equipment purchases.

Lillard, street and sanitation superintendent R. V. Forestry and sanitation supervisor James E. Graham are to attend a demonstration Saturday in Lubbock of municipal refuse, collection and disposal equipment.

The program is one of seven being presented in the state by the Texas Department of Health, division of sanitation engineering in Austin. Emphasis is on the one-day program will be on operation of a sanitary land fill, with a demonstration also on collection equipment at a sanitary landfill area, Lillard said.

The city has set aside funds in the 1965-66 budget for the operation of a sanitary land fill.

Lamesa Meet

City Manager Larry Crow and Assistant City Manager Roy Anderson were to leave the city today to attend a one-day program in Lamesa, presented by the West Texas City Managers Association. The program was to include a noon luncheon and an afternoon session.

Awards, Scholarships Made During DE Banquet

Two awards were made to employers and two scholarships to students were announced at the 29th annual employer-employee banquet at Cosden Country Club last night. The annual meeting was sponsored by the Distributive Education and the Vocational Office Education departments of Big Spring High School, and over 200 persons attended.

Special awards went to the two employers in appreciation of their work in the DE program. Joe Clark, co-owner of Prager's, and Paul Hathaway, manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store in Big Spring, were the employers recognized.

Scholarships to DE students went to John Bennett Jr. and Jerry Power for outstanding work this year. The two seniors may use the scholarships to the colleges of their choice.

Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett Sr., received the Insurance Underwriters scholarship. Power, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Jack Power, was granted the DE scholarship. This is the first year the insurance underwriters have granted scholarships.

Entertainment for the evening was planned and presented by the students.

Dennitt Thomson opened the program with the theme song: "Look Out, World, Here We Come!" Stanley Owens, guitarist, played "House of the Rising Sun," accompanied by Jean Cox.

Elenore Aleman sang, in German, "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands," accompanied by Kathy Eggleston. Phillip Hall entertained the group as he played a piano solo: "Green-sleeves" and "Moon River."

Climax to the evening's program was James Green singing "Summertime" and "Ramblin' Rose." He was accompanied by Stanley Owens and Jean Cox.

George Rice is the high school faculty coordinator of the Distributive Education Club, and Mrs. Doris Hubregts is coordinator for the Vocational Office Education Club.

Self-Employed Must Report

Self-employed people have annual responsibility when it comes to filing their 1964 federal income tax returns, according to Erven Fisher, Social Security district manager in Big Spring. They must not only complete Form 1040, but must also complete either Schedule "C" or Schedule "F" to figure the amount of net earnings from their trades or businesses to be reported for Social Security purposes. The deadline for filing the tax returns is April 15.

Fisher stated that self-employed businessmen and farmers are required by law to report net earnings from the operation of businesses and pay the Social Security tax if net earnings amount to $400 or more for the year.

Fisher also pointed out that if for some reason a self-employed person failed to report self-employment income for 1961, he has until April 15, 1965, to make the report. After that date, no credit can be given for that year.

As a final reminder, Fisher stated that the self-employed person should be sure to show his correct Social Security account number on the tax return to assure himself that he will receive full credit for his earnings.

Tough Climb, Bobby Says

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and two mountaineers, who kept him from plunging into a crevasse near the summit of Mt. Kennedy, say the climb was tougher than they expected.

James W. Whittaker, Seattle, and Barry Prather, Ellensburg, Wash., veterans of the 1963 American Mt. Everest expedition, said the previously unclimbed mountain was not an easy peak, and expressed admiration for the stamina of the New York senator.

"He climbed as if he were born to it," said Whittaker.

Kennedy said he slipped up to his armpits into a crevasse about 800 feet below the summit of the nearly 14,000-foot mountain named by the Canadian government for his brother, the late President John F. Kennedy.

The senator, making his first climb, was roped between Whittaker and Prather when the snow crust gave way under his feet and he tumbled into the crevasse. Whittaker said he anchored himself with an ice axe and Kennedy pulled himself out of the huge crack by digging his crampons into its sides.

Indicted Man In Attack Case

HOUSTON (AP) — Charles Archer, 21, still under indictment in a 1959 sex slaying, has been charged with raping a girl, 16.

Archer was charged Thursday along with Melvin Estes and Albert Alexander, both 17.

Juvenile authorities are holding a 15-year-old accused also in the rape case.

Archer and the other three were arrested Wednesday after a Booker T. Washington pupil told police four youths abducted her Tuesday night.

It's Douglas, Not David Hall

The alternate spelling champion at Marcy School is Douglas Hall and not David Hall, as was mistakenly reported Thursday. Douglas, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Hall, 3705 LaJunta, has a brother named David, who is in the same school, but it was Douglas who wound up as the alternate champion speller. The champion is Gary Steven Poole.

Taking Course

Dr. Peter L. Hernal, assistant chief of surgical services at the Big Spring Veteran's Administration Hospital, is in Kansas City, Mo., this week attending a recurring post-graduate course in surgery. The course is sponsored by the Kansas City VA Hospital and the University of Kansas Medical Center.

Eight Wrecks Are Checked

Eight minor traffic mishaps were reported on streets in the city Thursday, including two collisions on the Gregg Street viaduct.

Accident locations and drivers involved were Gregg viaduct, Jose Saldivar, 607 NE 9th, Ruben Torres, 606 NW 11th, and Willie Lee Johnson, 906 NW 1st; Gregg viaduct, Paul Aleman, 408 W. 5th, and Johnnie Dean, 705 Ohio; Northwest Third and North Main, Arvie Peterson, 1725 Purdie, and Victor Yanez, 309 NE 10th; west of the intersection of McEwen and Stadium Streets, Mrs. Marguerite Condon, 1317 Stadium, and William Erwin, 1606 Vines; Gregg and West First, Henry Rober, 1300 Blackman Ave., and William Anderson, Lovington, N.M.; FM 700 and Goliad, Mrs. Elizabeth Sanders, 2602 Alameda, and Mrs. Nettie Diaz, 4014 Dixon; west of the intersection of Sixth and Young, Monty Clendenin, Coahoma, and Mrs. Gertrude McPherson, 510 Young; and US 87-IS 20, Sherri Franklin, Route 1, and Ronnie Ward, Route 1.

County Calls For Plans To Build Airport Hangar

Howard County Commissioners Thursday authorized Gary and Hohertz, Big Spring architects, to prepare plans and specifications for a proposed new hangar at the Howard County Airport and to consider bids on the structure April 15.

The hangar will be needed if the county airport is selected as the center for the new Air Force student pilot training program.

Contract for the training program has not been awarded, but bids have been opened by the Air Force and the contract will be awarded sometime soon.

The two apparent low bidders off the Howard County Airport if their bids were accepted.

The Commissioners Court told Carroll Davidson, manager of the chamber of commerce, and Clyde McMahon, of the aviation committee, they would speed up activities. The two spokesmen told the court that it was important the hangar be available when the contract for the training program is awarded.

The commissioners have agreed to spend up to $25,000 on the project.

Hitting Net, In More Ways Than One

Alex Delvecchio of the Detroit Red Wings winds up on top of the net with the help of the New York Yanks' Wayne Hillman after scoring a goal in the first period of Thursday night's National Hockey League game at

Lopez Sticks By Forecast: NY Can Be Had

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — A visitor from Arizona braced Al Lopez in the Chicago White Sox dugout and asked:

"I've been talking with Birdie Tebbetts in the Cleveland camp and he thinks the Yankees really can be beaten this year. What do you think?"

Lopez grinned and answered: "That is what I have been saying for years. I took a lot of kidding about it but I really meant it. This year I think the White Sox and Baltimore are the teams to beat. Of course, we're not overlooking the Yankees."

Al's optimistic forecasts have been taken with a grain of salt in the past. But he came so close last year when his Sox finished second, one game behind the Yanks that it may be wise to listen.

"I think we should have a little more punch with John Romano and Bill Skowron all the way," he said. "I know last year they were killing us with left-handers. The Yankees brought Steve Hamilton out of the bullpen and he beat us twice. They even beat us with Bud Daley, just coming back from arm trouble."

"Our team showed me last year it could bounce back better than any team I ever saw. I said last year that 95 games would be enough for the pennant. We got 98 but finished second. I'd settle for 98 again."

Lopez is particularly high on rookie center fielder Ken Berry and Romano, a catcher he traded away after winning the 1959 pennant when the club was looking for instant power.

"We have had two big surprises in training camp," said Lopez. "Tommy John and Tom Agee. John, a left-hander, pitched five shutout innings against the Yankees and might make it as a starter. Agee has been doing a fine job in the outfield."

Other Stars Falter But Spahn Keeps On

-By BOB GREEN Associated Press Sports Writer

Roberto Clemente has malaria, Hank Aaron is recuperating from an ankle operation, and Bill Mazeroski has a broken bone in his right foot.

But there's nothing wrong with Warren Spahn.

Mickey Mantle has some leg trouble. Tim McCarver has a broken finger and Wayne Causey has a shoulder separation.

But there's nothing wrong with Warren Spahn.

Spahn, the ageless wonder of the Amazin' Mets, demonstrated his fitness Thursday with a light workout against the Mets' favorite foes, an outfit called the Yankees from the other side of New York.

The 43-year-old lefty spaced out three walks and four hits and allowed one run in six innings at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He also stroked a single, drove in a run with a sacrifice fly and hit a homer.

His performance helped the Amazin's run their winning string to four while the troubled Yankees, busily denying published reports of a club rift, now have lost eight of their last nine

While the old southpaw made a major stride in his projected comeback from a dismal 6-13 season with Milwaukee last season, the dispatches from baseball's spring training camps were liberally sprinkled with reports of injury and almost from front line players and overshadowed by the Yankee "feud" story.

The reports had a major rift developing between manager Johnny Keane and Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford. All concerned said there was nothing to it. Mantle played left field — and Keane's shifting of the outfielder from center to left was supposed to be what the feud was all about — without comment against the Mets.

Mickey did admit, however, he was having a little trouble with his oft-injured right leg just one of many injury reports that are cropping up.

On a more positive note, Yankee castoff Ralph Terry became the first pitcher of the spring to go the route, scattering eight hits and one walk in pitching Cleveland to a 6-1 triumph over the Los Angeles Angels' "B" team in Tucson, Ariz. He struck out seven.

The Steers left early this morning and will start competition at 1 p.m. Several records could be broken at the meet including the high jump, pole vault and low hurdles.

Pinto Beene of Abilene Cooper holds the pole vault record of 13-10 1/2, but has hit 15-1 in competition this year. T. M. Haines of Odessa Permian has a good chance of breaking the 6-2 1/2 record in the high jump. Haines has hit 6-5 earlier this year.

Steer hurdler Johnny Hughes has the top mark in the state of 18.6 in the low hurdles and is given a better than even chance of breaking the 18.9 meet record.

The Jayhawks will start competition at 3 p.m. today. They nosed out the ACC freshmen by 1 1/2 points in the Mid-Texas Relays in Coleman last week. Steve Langham and Jim Napier are expected to provide some

Junior Highs Are Improved

The two Big Spring junior high track teams have been giving area schools a run for their money in track meets the past few weeks.

Gollad holds the upper hand in ninth grade competition, but Runnels has a strong eighth grade team. Coach Jim Marcus at Gollad said his ninth grade team looks good in spots but "We don't have a great deal of speed."

Marcus pegs Bobby Plowman, 660-yard run competitor, as his strongest boy. "He placed third at San Angelo last week and was in a slow heat. If he had been a faster heat he might have won," said Marcus.

Jerry Ryan has been putting the shot around 50 feet all year and is Gollad's best hope in the weight division. Lonnie Clanton, Donny Williams, Donny Crockett and Dean Gilstrap make up the relay teams. Gilstrap is also a hurdler. High jumper Don Malone has been jumping around the 5-5 mark and Williams has been hitting around 18 feet in the broad jump.

Coach Tom Henry at Runnels does not have a great number of ninth grade boys out for track. Johnny Ramirez took top honors in the discus at San Angelo with a toss of 143 feet. Tommy Mauldin is Henry's sprinter in the ninth grade posting times of 11.6 in the 100-yard dash, 25 flat in the 220-yard dash and 6.3 in the 50-yard dash.

Marcus's eighth grade team has suffered a number of injuries this year and has not been up to full strength for any meet this year. Top boy is Gary Kelly running in the 330-yard dash.

The Runnels eighth grade team has a number of talented youngsters and placed fourth at the San Angelo meet last week. John Patton took first place in the 330-yard dash at San Angelo with a time of 39 flat. He is hard pressed by another Runnels lad, Jessie Brown, who has run a 39.1.

Terry Marshall took a third place at the Angelo meet with an 11 flat clocking in the 70-yard hurdles. In the weight division Henry can call on Emmitt Miller and Luven Flores. William Edens has hit nine feet this year in the pole vault and also is a high jumper.

Thinlies Enter Two Carnivals

The Big Spring Steers and HCJC Jayhawks are off on the track trails again this weekend with the Steers in the San Angelo Relays and the Jayhawks at Abilene for a meet with the ACC freshmen.

The Steers left early this morning and will start competition at 1 p.m. Several records could be broken at the meet including the high jump, pole vault and low hurdles.

Pinto Beene of Abilene Cooper holds the pole vault record of 13-10 1/2, but has hit 15-1 in competition this year. T. M. Haines of Odessa Permian has a good chance of breaking the 6-2 1/2 record in the high jump. Haines has hit 6-5 earlier this year.

Steer hurdler Johnny Hughes has the top mark in the state of 18.6 in the low hurdles and is given a better than even chance of breaking the 18.9 meet record.

The Jayhawks will start competition at 3 p.m. today. They nosed out the ACC freshmen by 1 1/2 points in the Mid-Texas Relays in Coleman last week. Steve Langham and Jim Napier are expected to provide some first place honors for the Hawks. Walter Reyna has been running exceptionally well in the mile run and just might take first place today.

District 2-4A Links Teams Play Here

Big Spring plays host to the District 2-AAAA golf teams Saturday.

Competition will start in the fourth phase of conference competition at 9 a.m. at the Muni course. Play will be over 18 holes.

Ordinarily, the district matches are scheduled for Friday but the local course could not be obtained today. Odessa Permian boasts a comfortable lead of 12 strokes in the three matches held to date. Runnerup club is Odessa High. Permian is in at 947 while Odessa has settled for a score of 959.

In the battle for individual honors, Dennis Henckel of Permian is comfortably ahead with a score of 231 over 54 holes. Ronnie Leverich, a teammate, is six strokes off that figure. Big Spring will be represented by two teams in the tournament.

ment. The Steers' No. 1 unit—consisting of Roger Stalcup, Danny Maberry, Phillip Parks and Randy Nicholson — is standing in eighth place in the standings, 30 strokes behind seventh place Abilene and 106 shots back of the pace-setting Permian team.

Final district competition will be held April 9 in Midland. Winning team and the medalist qualify for bi-district competition.

Lamesa Wins Over Locals

Big Spring's Steerettes took time off from District 2-AAAA girls' volleyball play Thursday night and dropped a 15-7, 15-17, 10-15 practice match to Lamesa.

The local B team won, however, 6-15, 15-2, 15-10.

The Steerettes' record now shows 14 victories in 21 starts. Five of the local team's reversals have come in tournament competition.

The Steerettes, who next see action in a March 30 conference game here with San Angelo, will take part in Regional competition at Odessa April 24.

Sheila Powell led the local club's scoring last night with a total of 11 points. Rita Bragg counted four in the opening test.

Outstanding at the net were Linda Lightfoot, Lucy Thornton, Barbara Burklow, Bragg and Jan Worthan.

In the B team game, Beverly Peters counted three points in the opening game, Sonia Hudgins nine in the second and Sara Lawlar six in the third.

Lawlar, Sally Wade, Carol Strum, Peters and Donna Cobb were outstanding up front for the locals during the match.

Local Athletes Go To El Paso

Twenty-three boys and girls representing the local YMCA left for El Paso this morning where they take part in the Southwestern Sports Championships today and Saturday.

The local delegation, in charge of Jim Gilbert, will take part in such competition as swimming, basketball, tumbling and gymnastics.

Athletes from Oklahoma and parts of Arkansas and Louisiana, as well as most of Texas, will be competing in the two-day show.

Gilbert said Big Spring's best hopes for medals apparently rest with the basketball team and a couple of the gymnasts.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With Tommy Hart

Hutchinson, Kansas, a city comparable in size to Big Spring, likes its basketball.

The National Junior College Basketball tournament committee put an ad in the paper shortly before the 1965 meet that 4,000 season ducats for the meet were available. Sixteen hours later, the supply of tickets was exhausted and the committee had to return $10,000 for ticket applications that couldn't be filled.

Club Plans For Show

Flower show plans were continued by the Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs at the Wednesday morning meeting in the home of Mrs. Zack Grey, 1305 Pennsylvania.

What brought it to new attention were variation on the neck-line plus a new presentation as short-sleeved two-pieces. It was something fresh and different to break up the sleeveless shift look for summer.

The Italians created pants that allowed for feminine figures. They hid pants under pleats, put pants fronts on skirt backs and made them loose and wide.

The short sleeves were wide, chopped-off kimono styles that looked like crisp, tidy versions of those men's sports shirts before they had the flap taken out. Most tops were pullover types that either snuggled close to the waistline, or were lightly belted, over gentle skirts. The skirts were flared, dart-gored or soft and straight.

Most tops were pullover types that either snuggled close to the waistline, or were lightly belted, over gentle skirts. The skirts were flared, dart-gored or soft and straight.

They built little splits into step-in shifts and made pants legs out of deep flounces. They put tube pants under long tunics.

Mrs. Don Grantham, hospital chairwoman, told of the progress her committee had made, and Mrs. D. S. Riley, project chairman, discussed duties of each member in pilgrimage.

They came in firm fabrics: bedspread matelasse cottons in low relief, silk basket weaves or basket-textured cloques.

Pucci put knee-length pantaloons under shorter dresses, smooth and shifty, soft skirted and even strapless. Eyelet-rufted long pants peeked out under a long gown.

A letter was read from the newly formed "Friends of the Library" asking their support.

Forquet showed basket-textured bamboo beige silk in a polo pullover dress with top fitted to the body in front, blown out and away in an arc in back.

Barocco's pantaloons were more ruffle than pants. Pants legs were deep flounces to the knee or ankle, set on a low hip seam.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Tom Ivey, Silver Heels Addition, April 28.

Mila Schon, a new Milan house, did a fitted polo pullover in white bedspread cotton to wear over a dart-gored skirt. Neckline, short sleeves and Lancetti's long strapless cutottes were ample and skirty. They came in casual cotton cord with the bodice a fluff of fabric feathers, or in bright orange raw silk, covered with a jacket of jewels. The Lancetti pants-skirts made the split look higher than physically feasible, via a box-pleat.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Mother Suggests Bathtub Painting

Dear Heloise: Have you ever thought about letting little tots (that's the younger pre-school child, Heloise) use finger paints in the bathtub?

Dear Heloise: When rinsing clothes by your vinegar method, which is the better type of vinegar to use... the distilled or the cider? ... Seattle

After having finger paints spread all over my porch, the breakfast room table and the kids' bedrooms...

After checking with the Institute of Vinegar and our National Institute chemist, they decided that when using one-half cup of vinegar in your machine for rinsing clothes it makes absolutely no difference whether the vinegar is yellow or white... Heloise

It hit me like a ton of bricks! Now, I take off all the child's clothes (I happen to have two) except their pants and put them in the bathtub. They can spread their paper on the smooth surface on the inside of the tub. They can put their paints on the edge of the bathtub...

I always disliked buttering toasted bread because the crumbs would stick to my knife and get into the butter after buttering the first slice.

They can make all the mess they please. At least, this is the most terrific answer to save my nerves that I have ever found.

Now I have learned to keep my knife clean by simply plunging it horizontally into the slice of toast after each application. This leaves the butter in the butter dish... clean... Glyde

Why? Because, all I have to do is wad up all the paper, pick up the paints and put them in a cardboard box, remove their under garments, fill the bathtub with suds and away they go!

WESTBROOK (SC) — Mrs. Willie Bird returned home Friday after a visit in the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylon Bailey, in Grand Prairie.

They love it; so do I, and it gives me a few hours of breathing time.

Guests in the S. L. Yelding home this week were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Yelding and children, Phil, Mark and Lana Joy, of Abilene.

The most important point of this is that while soaking in their nice soapy bath all the paint comes off of them too! ... Mother

Members signed letters to the city and county commissioners, pledging support of the child welfare program.

You must be a wonderful mother. I only wish I had thought of this when our siblings were small... Heloise

Articles of handicraft with short explanations of how they were made, were displayed by members of the club.

Dear Heloise: I have found that stringing my beads on a fishing line makes them much stronger and yet the line is fine enough to go through the smallest of beads. Try it, galls. You don't even need a needle... Mrs. T. S. Unger

Chapel Women Hear Rev. James Puckett

The Rev. James A. Puckett used the subject, "Giving of Ourselves," when he spoke Wednesday to the Women of the Chapel at Webb Air Force Base. Mrs. Johnnie Clements, 130-A Dow, was hostess.

She asked for volunteers to assist with the games and refreshments.

Rev. Puckett, pastor of Baptist Temple, told personal experiences in stressing that those who are discouraged or distressed can gain mental and physical strength by forgetting themselves and helping others who may have problems.

Chaplain Meacham spoke briefly, saying that the Webb people would assist with publicity during Protestant Mission Week, April 29-May 2, when Dr. J. B. Holt of Perkins Seminary, SMU, will be guest speaker at the chapel. Mrs. Clements was named to serve as altar chairman.

The invocation was by Chaplain B. F. Meacham, and the speaker was introduced by Chaplain William H. Warren.

Those planning to attend are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Arnold, Mrs. W. R. Rogers, Mrs. Hugh Nixon, Mrs. Frank George and Mrs. L. D. Jenkins.

Mrs. N. T. Reavely reported on the project to buy or donate toys to the pediatric ward at the base hospital.

Committee reports were heard and a report on apron sales was given. These aprons are made by the members and are sold for a penny per inch according to the prospective buyer's waistline.

A new member, Mrs. W. L. Russell, youth director at the base, announced the base-wide Easter egg hunt and picnic which will be held at the pavilion at 3 p.m. Easter Sunday.

The next meeting will be April 14 in the lodge hall.

The refreshment table featured a circle of artificial grass where a large rabbit was surrounded by smaller ones. Scattered among the animal figures were brightly colored eggs. Mrs. Verdel Turner presided, and 15 were served. China and silver appointments were used.

Members of the Homemaker's Sunday school class of First Christian Church met in the church parlor for a business meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinney Reece visited in Midland recently and brought their granddaughter, Lynn Dale, home with them for a visit.

Mrs. Justin Holmes, president, was in charge of the meeting, and Mrs. Harry Lees worded the devotion.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Shortes have returned from a weekend visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Carlton, in Tulsa.

Mrs. J. T. Allen and Mrs. George Hall were selected as the nominating committee for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitney is a patient in the Medical Arts Clinic and Hospital.

Cards were sent to the sick, and refreshments were served to 14 members by Mrs. C. A. Murdock, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Holmes.

Visitors in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Brasher were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Caves, Mrs. Effie Caves, M. T. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Owell Shortes.

STANTON (SC)—A joint meeting of Beta Sigma Phi chapters was held this week in the Cap Rock Auditorium when Dr. A.M. Fisher spoke to the group on "Know Your Chamber of Commerce."

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Davidson visited Mr. and Mrs. J. O. McNew in Snyder Monday afternoon.

Following Dr. Fisher's brief talk, a review of Jean Kerr's "The Snake Has All the Lines" was given by Mrs. Joyce Woody.

Members of the Homemaker's Sunday school class of First Christian Church met in the church parlor for a business meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Justin Holmes, president, was in charge of the meeting, and Mrs. Harry Lees worded the devotion.

Mrs. J. T. Allen and Mrs. George Hall were selected as the nominating committee for the coming year.

Cards were sent to the sick, and refreshments were served to 14 members by Mrs. C. A. Murdock, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Holmes.

Following Dr. Fisher's brief talk, a review of Jean Kerr's "The Snake Has All the Lines" was given by Mrs. Joyce Woody.

The announcement was made that the forum, originally scheduled April 3, has been postponed until Sept. 11.

Articles of handicraft with short explanations of how they were made, were displayed by members of the club.

Klaus Limbacher, German exchange student, will be guest speaker for the April 8 meeting in the home of Mrs. Clyde McMahon Jr., 1302 Virginia.

Members signed letters to the city and county commissioners, pledging support of the child welfare program.

Surveys Indicate Many Disagree

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clark Fisher, D-Tex., says a majority of those who replied to a questionnaire he distributed in his district disagree with many programs proposed by a fellow Texan — President Johnson.

Here are some of Fisher's findings on such issues as:

- Medicare programs financed through Social Security: Opposed 83 per cent, for 13 per cent, undecided four per cent.
- Repeal of the national origins system to determine immigration quotas: Opposed 78 per cent, for 13 per cent, undecided nine per cent.
- Repeal of that section of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits states to enact right-to-work laws: Against 86 per cent, for 11 per cent, undecided two per cent.
- Federal aid to church-supported and other private schools: Against 84 per cent, for 11 per cent, undecided five per cent.
- Increased federal aid to localities for transportation and housing: Opposed 66 per cent, for 14 per cent, continue present programs 20 per cent.
- Fisher also posed this question: "Do you think the federal government should carry on more

Capital Outflow Curb Questioned

NEW YORK (AP) — American businessmen often are finding it hard to fit their foreign investment programs into President Johnson's voluntary program for holding down the outflow of U.S. dollars.

And some of them are critical of its long-term aims and think it may backfire.

But most big corporations are going along with the voluntary curbs, at least for the time being, and adjusting as best they can.

QUESTION IT

Many, however, question the assumption that foreign investments are a bad thing, whether for the short term or the long. And some are disputing the emphasis being placed upon such investments as contributing to the U.S. deficit in international payments. They contend that such investments pay their own way and actually bring back more dollars than go overseas.

"It is extremely difficult to measure the precise effect of foreign investments on the U.S. balance of payments position," the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va., says in its March Review.

ONE PHASE

Looking at just one phase of the problem, private capital

outflow compared with income from foreign investments, the bank says that income consistently exceeded capital outflow in the early 1950s. But since 1956 capital outflows have topped income in all but two years. It is this turn-around in the years that the U.S. payments deficit was growing that sparked the President's voluntary plan for keeping dollars home.

The bank points out that some overseas investment immediately increases U.S. exports, a key goal of the President's program. And the bank adds that sometimes the dollars foreigners get by sale of securities to Americans or by bank loans are used to buy U.S. goods, so that the balance of payments is helped both by increased exports and by the payment of interest or dividends. The bank says the same holds for a large part of short-term capital flows which are for the purpose of financing exports.

CENTER OF DEBATE

Oil is one industry that has been in the center of the debate over what to do about the payments deficit.

FDR Godson Discontinues Libel Action

Coed Wins Entry In Beauty Pageant

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP)—A San Antonio coed has won the Southwest Texas State College beauty contest. Blonde Virginia Gaertner bested 14 rivals for the right to compete in the Miss Texas pageant in July.

NEW YORK (AP) — A libel action brought by Langdon P. Marvin Jr., growing out of an allegation that he whisked away a young woman on the eve of her wedding, was discontinued this week in Supreme Court. Marvin, godson of Franklin D.

Roosevelt, discontinued the action in return for a payment of $5,000 and a signed statement by Jean Broward Shevlin Gerard, granddaughter of a one-time governor of Florida.

"NOT KIDNAPED"

Mrs. Gerard, in an affidavit filed with the court, said in part: "I was not kidnaped, seized, abducted or terrorized by Mr. Marvin. I made no complaint against Mr. Marvin, and I never had any intention of doing so."

"I regret very much any adverse effect . . . upon Mr. Marvin's reputation, and I hope that this statement will correct any unwarranted impressions which that publicity may have created."

IN 1959

The statement said that the publicity alluded to occurred on or about June 21, 1959, the weekend that Mrs. Gerard, then Miss Shevlin, was scheduled to marry Lt. Col. James Watson Gerard.

Mason City, Iowa, police said Miss Shevlin, socially prominent in Minneapolis, Minn., told them in a signed statement that she went to Marvin's hotel room in Minneapolis to tell him that she intended to go through with her marriage with Gerard.

Police said she also told them she was taken by Marvin to Mason City and fled from him there.

A CONSULTANT

Marvin was a legislative consultant in Washington for the late President John F. Kennedy. Mrs. Gerard is the daughter of the late Edwin Leonard Shevlin, a lumber man, and granddaughter of Napoleon Bonaparte Broward, a governor of Florida. Since the incident she has married Lt. Col. Gerard of Paris, France.

Marvin's attorney said his client now is a research consultant to "several U.S. Senate and House members whose names he will not disclose."

The attorney said Marvin originally had filed a $10,000 suit in the libel action. He described it as "a token suit."

When A FELLOW Needs A FRIEND

A perfect picture of dejection! Perhaps it's another rainy day. Even little children have their serious moments. "What is there to do next?" "Mommy, where did I come from?" Or, "Daddy, is God up in the sky?" Little questions of little children grow into big questions by big people. Sometimes the bigger the man, the more humble the question, and of course . . . directed to God.

The place for such questions is the Church. In church, ponder the imponderables, ask the old, old questions: receive the gentle answers. Church, too, is God's Home. He's waiting for you there.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are:

- (1) For his own sake.
- (2) For his children's sake.
- (3) For the sake of his community and nation.
- (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Congregation Set For The Disaster

HUNTINGBURG, Ind. (AP)— "It was a low, mellow voice, neither a man's nor a woman's, and it told me: 'Believe what Sister Coomer has written'."

That inner voice, says the Rev. Theodore Roosevelt Kendall, is what led him to join his congregation in months of back-breaking work to clear an abandoned coal mine as a refuge against nebulous disasters they believe will sweep the earth.

Forty persons, spanning four generations, make up the Oneness Pentecostal Church in this small southwestern Indiana town of miners and furniture factory workers, 50 miles from Evansville. It has no affiliation with other churches.

These are the bare bones of the revelation, as told by the Rev. Mr. Kendall: Last June, Juanita (Mrs. Lonnie) Coomer, 29, heard an inner voice. It told her "a time of great destructions" was coming and believers should prepare a

Church, State To Be Discussed

AUSTIN — Legal experts who are members of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths will discuss the relationship of church and state as a feature of The University of Texas' 1965 Law Day observance April 1-2.

Speakers will be Rev. Robert F. Drinan, Boston College law dean, and Dr. Leo Pfeffer, special counsel of the American Jewish Congress and political science department chairman at Long Island University. A panel discussing both the talks will be composed of representatives of Protestant denominations.

Presbyterian Women Hear From Missionary

The Women of the Church, District II, Presbyterian of the Southwest, held their annual meeting Wednesday at the First Presbyterian Church here. Edwin Jackson, Eldorado, district chairman, presided. Dr. B. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the host church, brought the message. Music was furnished by Mrs. John Arnold and Louis Lovelless, vocalists, and Mrs. John Birdwell, organist.

Sixty-three women from Colorado City, Coahoma, Ballinger, Eldorado, San Angelo, Sterling City, and Big Spring heard Mrs. G. A. Farlow, Mrs. Lyle Bartlett, Evelyn Head, Midland, and Mrs. Frank Hood, Odessa, on "God's Word Speaks to Our Day."

Miss Heard showed a film of the Presbyterian College in Taejon, Korea, and the Presbyterian Medical Center in Chonju, Korea, both of which will receive funds from the 1965 Birthday Parties observed each May.

The Presbyterian College at Taejon is the only Christian four-year college in five provinces, and the most urgent need there is scholarships to help more Korean youths pre-

Revival Slated At Westbrook

WESTBROOK (SC)—The Rev. J. Everett Yeilding, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Laredo, will be the evangelist for revival services at the Westbrook Baptist Church April 4-11. Bill Carter, Colorado City, will direct the music.

Week day services will be at 8 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., with the latter preceded by prayer service at 7 p.m. Sunday school will be at 9:45 a.m. and morning worship at 11 a.m.

The evangelist, a brother of the local pastor, is a former pastor of Buford Baptist Church. Members of the church extend an invitation to everyone to attend these services, the Rev. S. L. Yeilding, pastor, said.

Members of the Brotherhood heard the Rev. M. A. Smith, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Colorado City, March 18. Supper was served to 19 members and guests, including Rev. Smith, Coit Butler and Joe Blackard, all of Colorado City. Charles Ranne is president.

Bishop To Bring Message Sunday

The Rt. Rev. Eugene Slater, bishop of the Northwest and Southwest Texas conferences, will preach at the 11 a.m. worship service of Kentwood Methodist Church Sunday.

Bishop Slater was assigned to his new charges last June and serves the two territories from his offices in San Antonio. He is a graduate of Southern Methodist University and Perkins School of Theology, and he holds honorary degrees from McMurry College, Southwestern College in Winfield, Kans., Baker University in Baldwin, Kans. and SMU.

From 1932-1960, he served several Texas churches as pastor. At the South Central Jurisdictional Conference in San Antonio he was elevated to the episcopacy and was assigned to Topeka, Kans.

Rev. Rankin Due

In the absence of the pastor, the Rev. James Puckett, who is holding a revival at the Lenora Baptist Church, the pulpit at Baptist Temple Church will be filled by the Rev. John Rankin of Stanton Sunday morning. Chaplain W. H. Warren of Webb Air Force Base will fill the pulpit for the Sunday evening service.

PREPARE FOR COMING

"Prepared For His Coming," is the title of the International Sunday School Lesson for March 28. Text is found in Matthew 25:1-13, and is the parable of the 10 virgins.

The purpose of the parable, told by Jesus, is to show that in the visible church there are two kinds of members. Some are wise and some are foolish, some are true believers and some are false. All make a profession of faith when they join the church, but not all have the inward grace to produce, in the long run, a life that will manifest the light of the world.

Evangelistic Team To Serve

An evangelistic team of Don Anderson, Charlie Price, Monty Clendenin, and Lathan Wood will conduct both services at Midway Baptist Church Sunday. The morning service will be at 11 a.m. and evening services at 7 p.m. They will also direct the youth fellowship following the evening service.

The song leader for the group is Price, wood pianist, while Clendenin and Anderson share in preaching. The group has been active in local revival services and plan a summer mission program in the Western States. The Midway Baptist Church is four miles east of Big Spring on IS 20. Pastor is Dan Oglesby.

CHURCH CALENDAR

Wayland College Prexy To Conduct Revival Here

Dr. Roy C. McClung, president of Wayland College in Plainview, will be the preacher for a week of revival services starting Sunday at the First Baptist Church.

Dr. McClung will preach at both the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday worship services. Daily services will be at 7 a.m. to 7:30 a.m. (preceded or followed by a light breakfast for convenience of business people or students) and at 7:30 p.m.

Glenn E. Faison, minister of music and religious education for the church, will lead the music.

Dr. McClung was pastor of the First Baptist Church in Plainview for five years before trustees of Wayland College elected him to be the eighth president of that Baptist school in 1963. He had held pastorates in Oklahoma, Kentucky and Indiana.

Dr. McClung is a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist University, and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky., which he later served as a trustee. He was picked last June as one of 43 college presidents to attend the President's Institute at Harvard University. He also has served on the executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas and is chairman of his district in Boy Scout work.

BETHANY COLLEGE CHOIR COMING
A Cappella Choir to sing tonight at Nazarene Church

Nazarene Choir To Give Program

The A Cappella choir of Bethany Nazarene College, Bethany, Okla., will appear tonight in a concert of sacred music at the Big Spring Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster, at 7:30.

The choir, directed by Lester L. Dunn, professor of voice, makes more than 50 appearances each year. The choir has given more than 400 concerts and traveled over 40,000 miles during the 18 years under Dunn's leadership.

Thirty-five voices are chosen for the choir each fall through tryouts from the student body, and they sing a variety of hymn-anthems, sacred classics, spirituals and gospel songs.

Dunn, a graduate of Bethany Nazarene College, received his Master's degree in music at the University of Oklahoma. He has studied at the Cincinnati Conservatory, the University of Oklahoma, and in Europe, as well as Fred Waring choir workshops. Dunn received in 1960 the "Fellow Award" of the National Association of Teachers of Singing, Inc. Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts, he has been a member of the faculty 22 years.

Dr. Curtis Smith, assistant to the president, is traveling with the choir. He will speak on the college and interview prospective students following the program.

The local pastor, Rev. W. M. Dorrough, a graduate of Bethany Nazarene College, said the public is invited. There is no charge.

PAY NOW GO LATER

Dr. Royal Underfaker

A religion journalist saw this sign in a London undertaker's window and was inspired to write on the importance of paying now through good works and suffering, and thereby securing the right to eternal happiness later.

But the writer's idea was out of date. It has been out of date for nearly 2,000 years—ever since our Saviour purchased man's salvation on the cross. "For the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Man can do nothing of himself to merit eternal life, "For all our righteousness is as filthy rags." Christ did not die for men clothed in the filthy rags of self-righteousness. While we were yet sinners Christ died for us.

Think it over. All you need do is accept the gift of eternal life Christ proffers you. Then, from your gratitude and love of the Giver stem the "good works."

WORD OF LIFE
If you would accept this Gift, you may find the way made plain in a wonderful little book entitled "Steps to Christ." The coupon below entitles you to a free copy. Why not send it in today!

S. Viet Reds Sound Threat

TOKYO (AP) — The Communists of South Viet Nam threatened today to call for international military help if the United States continues to expand the Vietnamese war. They also warned that, if necessary, southern Vietnamese now living in the Communist North will be injected into the Viet Nam war.

Anti-Obsecenity Bills Shuttled To Subpanels

AUSTIN (AP) — The question of "when a lewd nude is a good nude" and suitable to be shown the public is before the Legislature again. The House Judiciary Committee held a hearing this week on four bills designed to protect the public from obscene films, sexual psychopaths and vulgar telephone calls.

Rep. Don Garrison of Houston spoke for a bill to penalize persons who act in, sell, televise, exhibit or give away films which "appeal to prurient interests."

Rep. Lee Duggan of Houston said it appeared that films got sanctions to show "raw sex as long as you end up with The Beauties."

Garrison's bill would penalize violators with a one year jail term or a $1,000 fine, two years in jail and a $2,500 fine if the film was shown to minors, and five years in jail or a $10,000 fine on second offense.

Film distributors opposed the bill. They said the motion picture seal of approval was withheld from films judged to have "no redeeming social features," the latest Supreme Court definition of obscenity.

Edwin Tobolowsky, Dallas lawyer representing the Drive-In Theater Association, said "For every expert who tells you that movies cause kids to commit crime, we could produce experts who would say that the character of a child is made at home."

The committee chairman, Rep. Dudley Mann of El Paso, took the podium for an hour and a half to plug for detection and treatment of sexual psychopaths, "the ones who hang around schools and feed candy to little girls and walk home with them — and molest them."

When released, he would serve the sentence under the original conviction. "You're creating a life sentence for a person convicted only of a misdemeanor," said Rep. Bob Eckhardt of Houston, noting that the person might never be cured of his behavior.

Hope Offering Viewers Look At Viet Nam

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One good show deserves another, and so Bob Hope will be presenting another look at Viet Nam on television tonight.
There will be laughter; where there's Hope, there's humor, of course. But viewers will also see the seldom-revealed serious side of the comedian, especially in a plain-spoken dialogue with cartoonist Bill Mauldin, a recent visitor to the Southeast Asia battlefields.

HOPE REFLECTS
Over breakfast at his North Hollywood manse this week Hope spoke reflectively about his experiences in Viet Nam and why he had scheduled the show on the war, following his well-received special on his Christmas tour.
"We had shot 30,000 feet of film on Viet Nam during our Christmas visit," he explained, "and we could only use a small portion of it. You see, the troupe entertained troops in 18 different spots and we had to include each of them. The folks back home who had boys in those places would have been upset if we didn't show them."

ADDED FILM
"The Viet Nam footage was something timely, provocative and interesting and all that footage would have been wasted if we didn't use it right away. And we added new film. It's interesting to see the same troops we entertained in the Philippines now landing at Penang; and the same helicopter we rode in reduced to ashes during the raid on Pleiku."

Tonight's show will also include North Viet Nam propaganda films which NBC acquired in Japan. Obviously this is no fun-and-games show. That's because Bob feels strongly about what is happening in Viet Nam.

"IS IMPORTANT"
"This is important to the history of the world," he remarked. "If they (the Communists) ever thought that we weren't going to protect the Vietnamese, there would be Viet Nams all over the world. That would be a whole lot worse than what we are facing now. Like it or not, we have fallen heir to the job of big daddy in the Free World."

Customs Unit Revamping Plan Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson formally submitted to Congress today a plan to reorganize the Customs Bureau and eliminate all its patronage jobs.
The reorganization will take effect unless the House or the Senate votes to disapprove it within 60 days.

In announcing the plan over the weekend, Johnson said it would permit the 175-year-old Customs Bureau "to modernize its activities and establish strong regional and district supervisory positions."
In a special message today, Johnson told Congress elimination of jobs now held by presidential appointees in the customs service would save a million dollars a year in salaries. He estimated that tightened management controls envisioned for the bureau "will make possible a net annual saving of $9 million within a few years."

Gemini Spacemen Talk With Sparkle Of Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The two astronauts of the Molly Brown — so sparring of words in space — told the nation their story with wit and charm.
Perhaps the junior pilot, John W. Young, said it best when he was asked if the three orbits around the earth had made him more talkative.
He answered: "I think zero G

(weightlessness) would make an extrovert of anybody."
PRAISE CRAFT
His dead-pan wry humor and command pilot Virgil I. Grissom's beaming face and crisp narration Thursday spiced their first news conference since they returned from a space flight of nearly five hours last Tuesday.
Both men had high praise for the spacecraft they named the Molly Brown. And they emphasized, too, that they felt maneuvering the Molly Brown in space was as great an achievement as the Soviet feat of floating a man outside a spacecraft.

There still was no definite reason established for landing about 60 miles short of the prime target — but Grissom said he thought it might have been a variety of things including too much braking power from the retro rockets.
"WAS IMPRESSED"
At launch, Young said, "You can't take your eyes from the window. There aren't words in the English language to describe the sight. I was impressed."
Grissom told of the feeling that "we'd reversed direction" when the powerful retro rockets fired to slow down the spacecraft and bring it to earth.
Young added: "The toughest task in the astronaut business is holding the (spacecraft's) attitude at retro fire. Gus did a phenomenal job. He held it to within one degree. He doesn't usually do that well in the trainer."

Petition Filed For Ex-Sheriff

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A lawyer has moved into federal court here in an effort to win a new trial for former Wichita County Sheriff Ham Vance.
Convicted of forgery, Vance is an inmate at a state prison farm in Brazoria County.
Lawyer Russell Ballard of Wichita Falls filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus Thursday on behalf of the ex-sheriff.
Vance was indicted last June, three days before the runoff primary in which he won the Democratic nomination for re-election as sheriff.
He subsequently pleaded guilty to one of 12 counts charging forgery, false swearing and false testimony.
The other 11 counts are pending.

Red Congratulates LBJ On Gemini

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet President Anastas I. Mikoyan has sent President Johnson congratulations on the Gemini space flight.
In the turbulent sea, Grissom

Neither Hurt

The only surprise of the flight, said Grissom, was when he tilted the spacecraft over, dangling from the giant parachute, into position for a three-point landing. The spacecraft went over hard, and both astronauts hit the windshield with their space helmets. A small knob poked a hole in Grissom's face plate, but Young's was only scratched. Neither man was hurt.

said, he had indeed become ill, vomiting in a plastic bag. He apologized for not being as seaworthy as Young, a Navy lieutenant commander.
Young said, "The world will never know how close I came."
As soon as the spacecraft hit the water, it submerged, and the astronauts were momentarily concerned when it didn't buoy back up again immediately. Grissom released the main parachute and the spacecraft popped back to the surface.
Young was impressed by the power of the mighty Titan 2 rocket that propelled them into space.
"HAULING MAIL"
"When the vehicle pitches over and reaches the horizon, you really know you're hauling the mail," he said.

Young commented good-naturedly on the fact that Grissom, an Air Force major and flight command pilot, was the first out of the spacecraft when it hit the water.
"Contrary to shipboard procedures," said the Navy man, "on the Molly Brown at sea the first one out is the captain."
This brought laughter, and Grissom, laughing too, said, "I just made you captain when I got out."
Young was asked what happened to the Bologna sandwich that he had brought aboard. Young asked Grissom how the newsman had heard about that. Then he jerked his head toward Grissom and said, "He ate the sandwich."
