No, Junior, This Is Not A 'Fur' Tree

Mrs. Arthur Pickle's redbud seems to be all mixed up. On its branches, where normal trees have flowers at this season, there are no blossoms. On the trunk and limbs, where only bark should be shown, the tree is covered with purplish red flowers. The tree is about 30 years old. Mrs. Pickle said many passersby stop to look at the tree, which is in the back yard of her home, 1801 Lancaster. (Photo by Sam Blackburn)

President Repeats Offer To Talk Viet Nam Peace

Makes Determination Clear In Easter-Time Statement

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson said in an Easter time statement Saturday that the window still is open to peace in Viet Nam and "we are ready to begin discussions next week, tomorrow or tonight."

But Johnson said also that the United States will settle for no less than a free, independent South Viet Nam and that this country never will abandon the little Asian nation.

"And let this also be clear," the President said, "until that independence is guaranteed, there is no human power capable of forcing us from Viet Nam. We will remain as long as necessary, with the might required, whatever the risk and whatever the cost."

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk ruled out any cessation of air strikes against North Viet Nam at this time — a course suggested by some inside and outside this country. Such action has been carefully considered, Rusk said in a statement, but to take it "would only encourage the aggressor and dishearten our friends who bear the brunt of battle."

Naming no critics, Rusk noted that some argue an end to bombings might halt aggression from the north "but we have tried publicly and privately to find out if this would be the result and there has been no response."

MORE ANTIS
Rusk's views — obviously approved by the President — were released while students demonstrated in Washington both against and for the U.S. policy in Viet Nam. Police estimated the total at 12,000 to 15,000 demonstrators, and the antis far outnumbered the pros.

Standing in sunlight on a small patio of his ranch house, Johnson read his statement in solemn tones, with solemn visage. At its end, he walked over to Mrs. Johnson. She put her arms around him and squeezed. He kissed her cheek.

While the President spoke, state highway patrolmen were stretching a ring of cars around the ranch environs. Two organizations that oppose Johnson's Vietnamese policy were preparing to demonstrate — at some distance.

In remarks directed at such opponents, and in explanation to the world, Johnson said: "I regret the necessities of war have compelled us to bomb North Viet Nam."

"We have carefully limited those raids. They have been directed at radar stations, bridges, and ammunition dumps, not at population centers; at concrete and steel, and not human life."

"I understand the feelings of those who regret that we must undertake air attacks. I share those feelings. But the compassion of this country, and the world, must go out to the men and women and children who are killed and crippled by the Viet Cong every day in South Viet Nam."

"The outrage of this country, and the world, must be visited on those who explode their bombs in cities and villages, ripping the bodies of the helpless. The indignation of this country, and the world, must extend to all who seek domination over others with a violent and ruthless disregard for life, or happiness, or security."

TO CRITICS
To critics in Congress, Johnson said the purpose of his proposed international aid program for Southeast Asia must not be misunderstood.

"We do not seek to buy peace," he said.

"If the price of ending aggression is blood and men we are ready to pay that price."

Johnson said that this Holy Week has been one of tragedy, disappointment and progress.

It was tragic, he said, because hundreds of Vietnamese and many Americans were struck down in the cruel course of battle.

"On this, of all weekends," he said, "we must feel a deep sadness that men must still die, and families still be left homeless, in the brutality of war."

'Volunteers' From Russia Threatened

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union threatened Sunday to permit its "volunteers" to go fight in Viet Nam if the United States stepped up military action there.

It would be the first direct ground confrontation of the world's two great superpowers.

In the midst of the Korean conflict the Soviet Union never sent its own men to fight although Communist China did. There was immediate speculation that the Soviet offer was an effort to ward off direct Chinese participation in the Vietnamese war.

Just how the Soviet Union would get its men to North Viet Nam, except across China, was not clear.

A communique issued here said the Soviet Union would permit Soviet volunteers to fight for North Viet Nam "to repulse aggression by the United States."

In Washington, a State Department spokesman declined comment.

Other U.S. officials noted that Moscow had made threats before about the possibility of Russian "volunteers" going to Viet Nam. They said they have no evidence of Soviet land forces on the way.

A spokesman for the White House said there would be no immediate comment on the Russian communique.

In speaking of progress in the fight against the Communist Viet Cong, Johnson said, "the news from the battlefield is improving."

In Saigon, a U.S. spokesman said U.S. Air Force planes ranged widely over Communist North Viet Nam on Saturday and the Laotian frontier, bombing and machine-gunning highway traffic.

River Peaking Out At Record Heights

By The Associated Press
The Mississippi River reached its peak Saturday at Minneapolis-St. Paul and swirled downstream at record heights.

Weather Bureau officials said only slight fluctuations were expected at St. Paul, Minn., before the river begins edging downward. If there is little rain over the next two weeks, the bureau said, the waters should be back in its banks by May 1 or 2.

NO FALLOFF
A Weather Bureau official also cautioned the weary flood workers not to "think there is

Reviewing The Big Spring Week
With Joe Pickle

This was the week of Spring weather which included warmth and chill, a few teasing raindrops, mostly wind . . . and temperatures on the average began to mount, bestirring many to have a guess as to when the mercury would reach 100 degrees here. That was a part of the "sizzler" Contest, which touches people's innate feeling that they can read the weather. Besides, there's money in it.

And with the rest of Christendom, Big Springers observed the Passion Days, and prepared today to sally forth in what, for many, is the annual attendance at religious services. The traditional Easter sunrise service was due to help the Pastor's Association Bible Class Fund.

There was concern, sadness and shock. Our state legislator, Ed Carpenter, lay in a hospital in Austin following a heart attack, and his services could be lost for the rest of the legislative session. The city mourned the sudden death of Lloyd F. Curley, victim of a car accident. He had played a major role in much of the residential going to be a sudden falloff" in the level of the river.

"They will have to keep their guard up," he added, "because the river won't get down to its 1952 flood level of 22.1 feet at St. Paul until April 23 or 24."

At Wabasha—turned into an island by the rampaging river—and Winona and La Crosse and other cities downstream the flood fighters watched their dikes and waited for crests next week.

Freezing cold during the night checked the runoff from melting snow and ice. But the wintry chill and snow increased the discomfort of volunteer workers who faced the prospects of spending Easter on duty in shoreline mud.

Snowfall measured three inches in Winona, Minn., and an inch in Minneapolis-St. Paul and La Crosse, Wis.

The Mississippi, at record levels in the north, was edging up all the way from Minnesota to Missouri.

Overflows have driven an estimated 35,000 persons from their homes and have caused 12 deaths and millions of dollars in property losses.

Temperatures that dipped below the freezing level during the night in Minnesota held back the rush of flood waters from areas north of the Twin Cities. The slackening allowed some of the excess water to drain away. That resulted in a revision of the crest forecast.

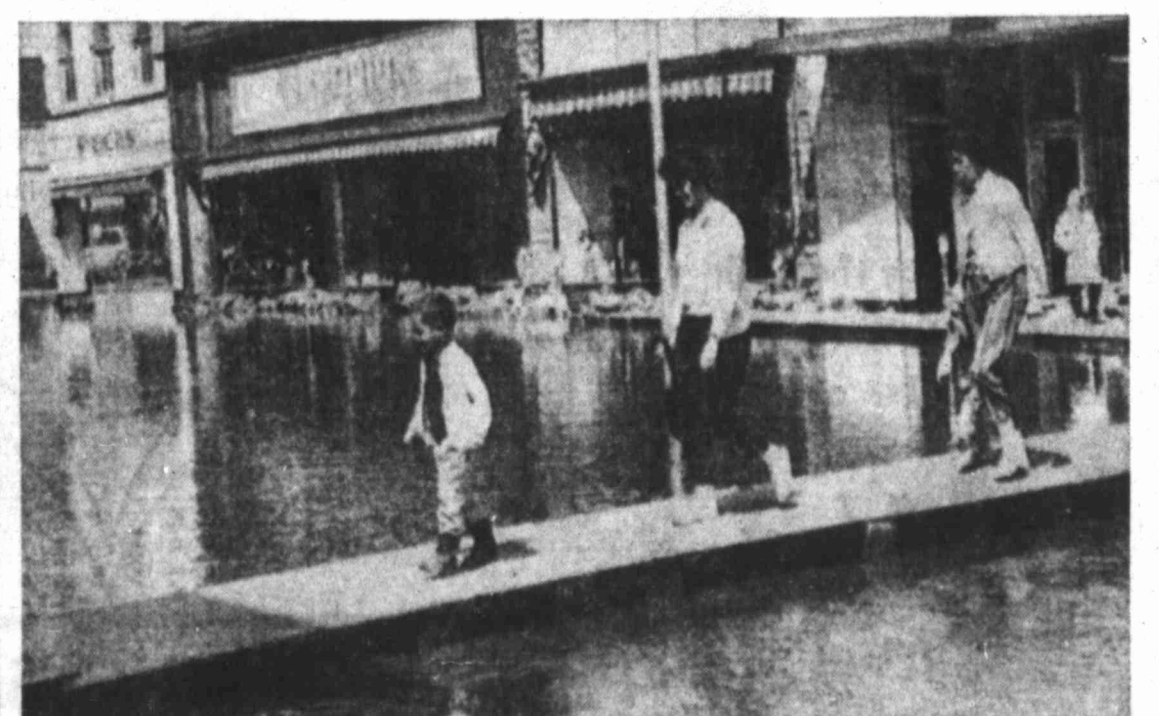

Joseph Strub, Weather Bureau flood expert, said the Mississippi will fluctuate within three to five inches of Saturday's levels in the Twin Cities sector for a day or two, and is likely to start to drop Monday. Earlier, the crest had been forecast for Tuesday. The Mississippi was a foot below predicted high marks Saturday in both cities.

PEAK
The St. Croix River, which empties into the Mississippi below St. Paul, also was expected to pass its peak Sunday at Stillwater, Minn.

Trucks with oversized wheels brought food into Wabasha, Minn.

Worry there focused on the ice in Lake Pepin, a wide passage in the Mississippi just above the community of 2,500.

"The ice is honeycombing to

Easter Shopping

These Easter shoppers crossed a flooded street in downtown Hannibal Saturday on a wooden bridge. Others in this Northeastern Missouri city waded along sidewalk in boots while businessmen sandbagged entrances to their stores to keep out the rising Mississippi River. The water was to crest at 22.5 feet — 7.5 feet above flood stage. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Easter Prayers Repeat Hopes For World Peace

By The Associated Press

Christians everywhere joyfully celebrate this Sunday the festival of Easter, the glad renewal of the Resurrection's promise of a peace in eternity to a world that still knows no peace.

Bombers fly their missions of war in Viet Nam, and there is restlessness across the lands. But the words are heard once more as they are written in the Scriptures by the Apostles: "He is risen."

ECHO
In prayer and song the words are repeated. Quietly they echo in the dawn over the bowed heads on mountaintops, in city parks, in churches at home and abroad, assembled in traditional sunrise services.

To the Midwest, ravaged by tornadoes on Palm Sunday and floods and threats of floods during Holy Week, the words of hope bring a special message of spiritual comfort.

Silently, a band of Quakers stands in Times Square keeping vigil for peace. By the thousands, West Germans march in campaign for nuclear disarmament.

Still other thousands, American college students, parade before the White House, holding aloft their signs demanding an end to war.

From his ranch in Texas — it, too, beset by peace pickets — President Johnson recognizes the longing. But he says if the price of peace is bloodshed, America is willing to pay it.

Christian pilgrims by the tens of thousands pack the hotels and highways of Rome, where at noon Pope Paul VI delivers his Easter message to Catholics and to the world at large.

More pilgrims flock to Jerusalem, to walk and feel the Holy Land where Jesus lived and was killed on the cross and arose from the dead two thousand years ago.

And everywhere in Christendom, the message is the same, the first Easter's promise, "He is risen."

Miss Texas Quits Title To Marry

FORT WORTH (AP) — Fort Worth's Lenda Varley became Miss Texas Saturday after Sharon McCauley chose to relinquish the title for matrimony.

Miss McCauley, 20, of Athens, plans to do on May 12 what Lenda, Miss Fort Worth, had planned to do in July—get married.

However, after hours of talk failed to change Miss McCauley's mind, Miss Varley, 19, revamped her plans and said she would forego her trip to the altar to represent the state until a successor is crowned here in late July.

Miss Varley, a 5-foot-2 blonde with 34-23-34 measurements, was named first runner-up in the Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Miss Texas pageant.

Ironically, Miss McCauley, a student at Texas Christian University, is being wooed to the altar by Bill Swift Jr., 21, a Fort Worth Jaycee and stage director of last year's Miss Texas pageant.

In choosing to give up the title, Miss McCauley also gave up her college scholarships and Oldsmobile convertible which are part of the prizes given to Miss Texas.

Miss Varley and her fiancée, John Richards of Fort Worth, postponed their marriage plans until August.

NO 100-DEGREE READING YET, BUT TIME IS DRAWING NEARER

If you guessed that the temperature would hit 100 degrees in Big Spring this past week, you were wrong. It got to 90 a couple of days, but real summer has to be here for the extra 10 degrees.

When will the 100-degree weather come? You can make your guesstimate — scientifically worked out, or by hunch — in the city-wide "SIZZLER" contest; and you can make as many predictions as you wish, without any obligation. Just pick up an official entry blank at the First National Bank or at any one of 23 cooperating stores and have a try.

The first person getting the day, hour and minute that the bank's Time-and-Temperature clock registers 100 will share in rich prizes. There's cash from the bank and a host of merchandise certificates from the participating merchants.

Well over 1,000 entries had been recorded Friday, and more coupons were being made available. As the magic minute grows nearer — and it surely must be doing so — interest in that SIZZLER money should be picking up.

While you're forecasting 100-degree weather, keep a weather eye out for SIZZLER bargains which are being offered weekly during the contest by local stores.

Full rules of the contest appear on the official entry coupons. Stores cooperating with First National in the big prize SIZZLER event are J&K Shoes, Montgomery Ward, Firestone, Anthony's, Wacker's, Penney's, Big Spring Furniture, Gibson's, Swartz, Hemphill-Wells, Zale's, Prager's, Elmo Wasson, White's, Zack's, Thelma's Dress Shop, Ward Boot and Saddle, Wheat Furniture, Carter Furniture, Blum's Jewelers, Grant's, Stanley Hardware, Thomas Office Supply.

Perfect Easter Weather Due

By The Associated Press

Virtually perfect Easter weather was assured for all of Texas Sunday.

West Texas warmed up swiftly Saturday and warm winds from the south pushed over the state. The warming was pressing eastward.

A new mass of cooler air was due to enter the Panhandle during the night and spread across much of North Texas Sunday. But forecasters expected no rain, and no great drop in temperature.

Nearly all the state was clear Saturday. Some clouds floated above South Texas and the Weather Bureau said cloudiness would increase Sunday over South and West Texas.

Last Rites Today For Lloyd Curley

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. today at First Methodist Church for Lloyd Franklin Curley, 45, real estate developer and lumber yard operator, who died about 5:30 p.m. Friday.

Mr. Curley died in Physicians Hospital and Clinic in Stanton of injuries received in a one-car accident early Friday about 5 1/2 miles west of Stanton.

Dr. H. Clyde Smith, pastor of First Methodist Church, will officiate at services. Following the services today, the remains will be taken to Eubank Funeral Home, Mabank, Texas, where they will lie in state Monday morning. Graveside rites will be held at 11 a.m. Monday at Mabank Cemetery, with burial under direction of Nalley-Pickie Funeral Home.

Mr. Curley moved to Big Spring in 1955 from Midland and built homes in the Stanford Park and College Park Addition, in addition to developing the Wasson and East Park Additions and Alabama Street. He built the Carlton House Apartments, and at the time of his death, was constructing the Western Building, an office structure near downtown.

Since 1957, he owned and operated Curley Lumber Co. and Builders here.

Mr. Curley was born Aug. 29, 1919 in Paducah. He was married to Jane Green April 22, 1944 at Dallas.

A graduate of Odessa High School, he attended McMurry College in Abilene. He was an Air Force veteran of World War II.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church, of the church board of stewards, and of the Men's Bible Class. He was a former member of the Lions Club and American Business Club and a past director of the Chamber of Commerce.

The accident in which Mr. Curley was fatally injured occurred Friday on US 80, when the car he was driving struck a bridge abutment at Mustang Draw, according to Sam Wester. Wester said there were no skid marks and indications were Mr. Curley might have fallen asleep. The accident occurred about 3 a.m. Friday. The car was demolished.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Lloyd Curley; a son, Lloyd F. Curley Jr., Big Spring; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Curley, Tulsa, Okla.; six sisters, Mrs. Truman McCaleb and Mrs. Lois Kerr, both of Amarillo; Mrs. J. A. Meredith, Big Spring; Mrs. H. M. Fenton, Gilmer; and Mrs. E. H. Clements and Mrs. Viola Williams, both of Tulsa; and a brother, E. J. Curley, Tulsa.

Pallbearers will be Jimmy Ray Smith, Jack Shafer, Arthur Franklin, B. M. Keese, John Coffee, J. B. Apple, Billy Johnson and J. D. Jones.

than Sukarno had expected.

According to an unofficial count, 30 Afro-Asian countries sent representatives; invitations had been sent to 60.

Sukarno had said 10 heads of state and 10 prime ministers would come. But only two heads of state, three prime ministers, several foreign ministers and vice presidents, ministers and special envoys and ambassadors came for the celebrations.

The Soviet Union was not invited, since it did not attend the Bandung meetings of 1955.

Among others, the guests included Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung, who is also head of state; Cambodian chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the Crown Prince of Nepal, Laotian pro-Communist Pathet Lao chief Prince Souphanouvong; Princess Ashraf, the sister of the Shah of Iran; and Premier Pham Van Dong of North Vietnam.

The guests were barely half as numerous and less prominent

Indonesians Pack 'Em In

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The Bandung celebrations formally opened here Saturday night with a glittering state banquet attended by an array of invited Afro-Asian guests.

They included three Asian princes, an imperial princess and a hard core of Asian Communist leaders.

President Sukarno, re-splendent in his grey marshal's uniform, was host for the banquet, held in the plushly modernistic Hotel Indonesia. The celebrations mark the 10th anniversary of the first Afro-Asian conference held in the West Java town of Bandung.

Coahoma Lad Burned Friday

A 16-year-old Coahoma youth, Robert Rich, was described in good condition and resting well after surgery Friday afternoon at Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital, where he was taken late Friday after receiving burns in an accident in Coahoma.

Doctors described his burns as extensive, but said he was in good condition and resting well after surgery Friday afternoon. He was taken to the hospital about 2 p.m.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. E. Rich, 407 N. 4th, Coahoma, he was reportedly working on a barbecue pit at the residence when an acetylene torch exploded. Doctors said the youth received a minor cut on his nose, but the primary injuries were the burns.

Winners In Kite Contest

Winners were announced Saturday afternoon in the Indian Guide Kite Carnival, sponsored by the YMCA and conducted at the compress grounds near IS 20.

Highest-flying kite winners were Andy Rozelle, first; Kelly Johnson, second; and Ronnie Mullins, third.

In the smallest flying kite competition, first place winner was Kyle Stripling, with a kite of the Crow tribe; second, Mike Allen, Tejas tribe; and third, tie between Doug Boyd, Tejas, and Warren Jones, Crow.

For the largest flying kite, winners were Andy Rozelle, Tonkawa, with a six-foot, six-inch kite, first place; Kelly Johnson, Tonkawa, second; and Will Guthrie and Hayes Stripling III, both with Crow tribe, third.

For the most unusual kites, first was Donnie Hungerford, Crow; second, Robert Bradbury, Tonkawa; and third, Paul Nabors, Crow.

Chairman of the contest was Ray Thomas, with Sherman Smith, J. C. Pickle and Jack Haralson, judges.

Shoplifting Charged

A 38-year-old man from Midland was in city jail Saturday afternoon after he was arrested shortly after 2 p.m. on shoplifting charges. The man was arrested in the 100 block of East Third in connection with the reported theft of a transistor radio from Zale's Jewelry, officers said.

Face Slap Made Mikoyan A Communist

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Anastas I. Mikoyan, president of the Soviet Union, became a Communist because of a slap in the face 50 years ago, according to Simon Vratsian, last prime minister of independent Armenia.

Vratsian headed the committee which commanded Armenian volunteers, allied with the Czarist Russians in World War I. Mikoyan was for a time, his personal aide. Mikoyan in those days was a member of the Armenian Dashnag revolutionary party, a nonleftist nationalist group.

ODD JOBS "I remember Mikoyan very well because he worked directly under me for several weeks in 1914 or 1915," Vratsian recounted in an interview. Mikoyan would have been 19 or 20 then and "he did all sorts of odd jobs, even carrying messages for me."

"Mikoyan was a good boy — very bright and intelligent, and very calculating.

"Then I sent him off to the front to fight against the Turks with the Armenian volunteer group led by Ozanian Antranik.

"The Armenians were forced to retreat and during the retreat — for reasons I don't know — Mikoyan and Antranik began to argue. Antranik beat him — slapped him in the face.

"Mikoyan quit the Dashnag movement on the spot, left the volunteers and enrolled in a seminary at Etchmiadzin, and then went to Baku where he eventually joined the Bolsheviks.

"The Bolsheviks sent him to Stalin, who saw that he was good material and had him trained as a Communist. I never saw Mikoyan again.

UNDER STALIN "But I know Mikoyan isn't a good boy any more. Nobody who worked under Stalin for years could emerge as a good man."

Antranik, the partisan leader whose slap changed Mikoyan's political convictions, was legendary Armenian leader who led the 1st Armenian Battalion in Russia and died in California in 1927.

Vratsian, who told the story, is now 83, a school teacher and principal in Beirut. His memories and historical works are used internationally as text books on the Armenians.

Top Industrial Art Teacher Title Won

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Luby Lenorman, who has taught at West Columbia, Tex., for 16 years, was named the outstanding industrial arts teacher in Texas last week at the convention of the American Industrial Arts Association. She is a graduate of Sam Houston State College.

Wozencraft Rites Slated

STANTON (SC) — William Marshall Wozencraft, 77, died about 12:05 a.m. Saturday at his home here.

Services are set for 3 p.m. today in the First Baptist Church here with the Rev. W. H. Uhlman officiating. Burial will follow in Evergreen Cemetery under direction of Arrington-Gilbrath Funeral Home.

Mr. Wozencraft was born April 13, 1888, in Tarrant County, Texas. He married Ruth Finch in Lovington, N.M., March 20, 1919. They moved to Stanton in 1919 from Tatum, N.M. He was a retired farmer.

Survivors include the widow, a daughter, Mrs. Juanita Graves, Tarzan; two sisters, Mrs. Mae Greenhaw, Andrews, and Mrs. Alma Campbell, Carlsbad, N.M.; and three grandchildren.

Wants Poll Tax Section Stricken

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Saturday he will move to strip from the voting rights bill a provision to abolish poll taxes in state and local elections.

Dirksen said in a telephone interview that otherwise he regards the measure, on which the Senate is scheduled to begin debate Wednesday, as generally satisfactory. But he said the poll tax provision, written into the bill when liberals took over within the Senate Judiciary Committee, "has got to come out."

CONSTITUTIONAL "It just isn't constitutional," he said.

A recent constitutional amendment banned the poll tax in federal elections but four states — Texas, Mississippi, Alabama and Virginia — still make it a requirement for state and local elections.

Dirksen predicted Southern opponents will not seek to block voting on amendments by lengthy talk.

"I expect the Southerners will have a good many amendments of their own," Dirksen said. "They have indicated they want full discussion of the bill's provisions. But the disposition is not what it was in the past and I doubt that there will be any lengthy filibuster."

Nevertheless, Dirksen said he thinks it will take a month to get final action on the bill because so many amendments will be offered. Previously Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana had said he hoped passage could be obtained by mid-May at the latest.

The length of Senate debate on the voting rights legislation may affect the timing of action on other major items in President Johnson's "Great Society" program.

The Senate Finance Committee has been forced to postpone hearings, scheduled to start next Thursday, on the House-passed measure to provide health care for the elderly because most members don't plan to return from their Easter vacation until the following week.

OTHERS Stacked up behind this bill are several other important measures which thus far either have not had Senate committee action or have had scant attention.

These include bills for an excise tax reduction, congressional redistricting, foreign aid authorization, controls on dangerous drugs, state right-to-work laws, minimum wage increase, immigration law revisions and creation of an urban affairs department.

Horse Killed By Motorist

A horse owned by L. G. Priest, Sterling City route, was killed late Friday when it was struck by a car about 100 yards east of US 87 on Country Club Road, according to police.

The car, driven by Frank Sabbato Jr., received considerable damage, according to police. The accident was outside the city.

Five minor traffic mishaps were reported on city streets Friday. Locations and drivers were Tenth and Johnson, Ronald N. Dodson, 2106 Scurry, and Reginald Cranford, 2006 Merryfield; 217 Scurry, Glinda Gill, Garden City, and Charlie Adams, Irving; Fourth and Birdwell Lane, Roger Terry, 1713 Yale, and Jewell Washburn, 1111 Lloyd; Fourth and Tulane, L. # Red Envoys Are Expelled

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Brazil expelled Saturday nine Red China envoys who came here a year ago on a cultural mission and were later convicted of espionage and subversion.

Armed guards escorted the Chinese to a Swissair jetliner for a flight to Switzerland.

Arrested shortly after the downfall of the Joao Goulart government, which had invited them here, the Red Chinese were tried and sentenced to 10 years in prison.

The question of expelling them was blocked temporarily when a military tribunal insisted on a parole but President Humberto Castello Branco decreed their expulsion. About $52,000 taken from the Chinese upon their arrest was returned to them before their departure.

"In the Design, Processing and Fitting of Contact Lenses, TSO Strives for Perfection"

Perfection in anything is, to our knowledge, impossible to reach. But, we continue to make perfection our goal . . . particularly when it comes to the design, processing and fitting of contact lenses at TSO.

Over 40,000 patients have been fitted in famous TSO Micro-Sight contact lenses, and the number grows daily, for TSO Micro-Sight contact lenses are unsurpassed in technical excellence, unusually reasonable in cost.

The reason for TSO's success in the contact lens field is a continuous research and development program of more exacting techniques in design, processing and fitting. Already, the TSO laboratory has developed an edge-beveling process second to none, and an exclusive multi-curve lens design. With these outstanding developments a typical TSO contact lens patient achieves minimum adaptation time and maximum wearing comfort.

Only the finest quality optical-grade plastic is used, and the TSO standard of quality is maintained by eight separate, precision inspections during processing. It's not necessary that you take our word about TSO Micro-Sight contact lenses. Ask someone you know who wears them. Then, visit TSO and learn firsthand, all of the facts about how you may be able to wear TSO Micro-Sight contact lenses. The TSO Doctor of Optometry will carefully examine your eyes to determine the variable optical and physical factors which affect your wearing contact lenses successfully. And the cost—as we said—unusually reasonable. Just $65 for single vision Micro-Sight contact lenses, complete with examination and fittings. Bifocal contact lenses are available at reasonable cost. Convenient credit at no extra cost. *1960-1964

Don't Look Now, But . . .

. . . I See An Indian

Look Out, Redskin!

I . . . darn these glasses . . . Gotcha.

Shootin' Indians is a deadly, serious business — one that taxes a man's patience, skill and reflexes. You can't just go stalking around and scare them off, no sir! Scott Davis, an old Indian hunter and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Jon Davis, demonstrates how you have to be nonchalant — even appear bored by it all. But once you sense you have baited a pesky Redskin into range, you peer cautiously over the tent, still careful not to frighten your quarry. Then, with the swiftness of a rattlesnake striking, you whip the old trusty rifle to your shoulder and draw a bead. Thus, another Redskin bites the dust. It's all in a day's work. ## Tornado Victims Worship In Strange Churches Today

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Hundreds of Indiana Christians will worship in strange churches Easter Sunday, affirming faith in the Resurrection and giving thanks for being alive at the end of the state's most tragic Passion Week.

On Palm Sunday, at least 10 giant tornadoes raked three belts in northern and central sections, leaving 130 dead and hundreds injured. It was Indiana's worst disaster.

The massive destruction included at least 10 churches, many of which were holding evening services when the storms lashed the state. Remarkably few persons were hurt in churches.

PEWS SAVED
Rugged old oaken pews saved a Baptist congregation which covered beneath them while brick walls collapsed at Russiaville. It and members of the demolished Friends church were invited to hold their Easter services in the damaged but still usable Russiaville Methodist church.

Other churches were smashed by the 300-mile-an-hour twisters.

at Kokomo, Alto, Forest, Wyatt, and Dunlap.
The Sunnyside Mennonite church planned afternoon Easter and communion services at the slightly damaged Evangelical United Brethren church, whose congregation will worship in the morning.

Surviving churches in the storm area were scenes of a steady sequence of funerals during the week, although some multiple services were held in school gymnasiums and mortuaries.

LOSSES
More than 20 families suffered multiple losses, including six deaths each in the Good-Starratt family near Sheridan and the Jackson family in a trailer court near Dunlap in Elkhart County. There were 15 funerals Friday in Elkhart County, which had 50 deaths.

There was some minor looting in shattered stores and dwellings, but for every scavenger there were hundreds of citizens who did rescue and salvage work until they just about dropped in their tracks.

Ninety prisoners from the Indiana Reformatory and State

Farm joined in the cleanup work.

The Indiana National Guard sent 1,300 men and vehicles of the 88th Infantry Division into the disaster area. They, 300 state police and officers loaned by undamaged communities freed local authorities from security work.

The Salvation Army, Red Cross, church service committees, Civil Defense units, citizens band radio operators, airmen from Bunker Hill Air Force Base, and people who just wanted to help, poured into the devastated areas.

OPEN ROADS

Contractors and industries pulled heavy equipment off other jobs and put their men and machines to opening blocked roads and sifting rubble for bodies. Ft. Benjamin Harrison loaned furniture and mobile homes firms loaned a thousand trailers for temporary housing.

President Johnson visited the Midwest tornado areas and ordered quick federal aid. Even the Internal Revenue Service showed compassion, giving tornado victims a two-month extension for filing income tax returns, they also will be able to deduct their tornado losses in the 1964 returns.

Doolittle Type Bomber Still In Flying Condition

Col. Connie Edwards of Big Spring stands in front of the Confederate Air Force's B-25 bomber just before it took off from Howard County Airport with him at the controls, for Brownwood where it will be refinished and released. It will then go to Oklahoma City for rearmament, just as it was used when Jimmy Doolittle's fleet bombed Tokyo after taking off from an aircraft carrier.

Local Oilman Is Colonel In Confederate Air Force

By M. A. WEBB
A B-25 bomber, of World War II vintage, landed at Howard County Airport several days ago. The pilot was "Col." Connie Edwards of the Confederate Air Force. He is also a member of a pioneer ranching family and oil executive of Big Spring and Howard County.

The type aircraft used in World War II. Many others are yet to be secured to complete the family of bombers. Fighter planes are already in use at air shows all over the nation — and all flown by "Colonels" in the CAF. Col. Edwards was not in World War II. He was a very young boy then.

Since the B-25s became almost extinct the one which landed here has been used as a fire bombing plane in Arizona. It was purchased by C. F. Rouse of Kerrville. "Col." Lefty Gardner of CAF was co-pilot with Col. Edwards to Big Spring. "Col." Edwards' nephew, Bill, was Connie's co-pilot when the big bomber took off from Howard County Airport for Brownwood. It will then go to Oklahoma where gun turrets, and armaments will be replaced just as it was used in World War II.

engines, coming from the Air Force as surplus, and many other parts. These engines have maximum brake horsepower up to 3,200."

The bombers became TB-25s after the war and, for four years were used in training at Goodfellow Field.

Edwards, responsible for the move to place the bombers back into the CAF, has called a lot of attention to the move to establish a museum at Rebel Field for all types of World War II fighters and bombers.

"Some of the famous bombers are practically extinct," he said, "but we are still looking for at least one of every kind. We have been negotiating for a B-29, are looking for a B-17, and have a line on a Navy B-24. We have a Douglas F4D Dauntless in original condition, a Douglas B-26, and a North American B-25. We hope to eventually complete the full line for the "Flapping First" bomber group of the CAF."

RESERVE
Young Edwards was a lieutenant in the Army Reserve. "The fighter-bomber museum, to be built in Mercedes, will not be something where airplanes are set up and allowed to deteriorate on the floor. They will be kept in top condition, ready to fly at all times, and will show to visitors and air show patrons all over the nation the kind of worthy craft used in fighting World War II all over the war areas," Edwards said.

Those who thought all the B-25s were dead, should see this one after it has been re-licensed and the original type armaments put back in it. It will soon be a part of the Confederate Air Force and stationed at Mercedes at Rebel Field.

SHOW OTHERS

But the purpose of the Jimmy Doolittle type bomber which was first used in a take-off from an aircraft carrier in the bombing of Tokyo, will be to commemorate for future generations

Airport Flying Picks Up With Good Weather

Flying at Howard County Airport has picked up during the week, even though one club's airplane is down for overhaul. Cross country flights are included in the increase.

Kathy; Cessna 172—Middleton, Warren, Grisham (2), McCombs, Martini.

The old jet trainer, mounted at the airport for show since it was retired from use at Webb Air Force Base several years ago, is being moved from its present location to make room for progress. A new hangar is to be built on the site for use in the T-41 flight training of new pilots for Webb AFB.

Howard Loyd, airport manager, said Friday that some 25 students were working toward their private licenses in clubs and with him. Most of his trainees are going for instructors' licenses.

Speaking of vacationing by airplane, Paul M. Fulks Sr., of Wolfe City, chairman of the Texas Aeronautics Commission, says that a presentation for the development of an airport and recreational lodge in the Big Bend National Park has come a long way since it was first proposed last year in support of Governor Connally's tourist program by Frank Raymond, director of TAC.

And that country is beautiful from the air right now. It's beautiful from the ground, too.

A checkup of aircraft reservations during the week, for all three flying clubs, showed the following doing some flying:

Howard County Flying Club, Cherokee—Detson (cross country and 5), Green, Waller (2), E. Long (3-day cross country), Reed (2), Arrick, Brumley; the Colt is being overhauled.

Big Spring Flying Club: Colt — Simmons (2), Norton (5), Weaver (5), Hopkins; Skyhawk — Polone (cross country), Lawson Allen (2), Bartlett (4-day cross country).

Webb Aero Club, Cessna 150—Hill, Sammye (4), Whitlock (2), Middleton, Morrissey (2), Morrell (2), Davidson (2), Estes, Whitlow (1 and cross country).

LARRY OSBORN

Goodyear Has New Manager

Larry Osborn has taken over his new duties as manager of the Goodyear Tire Store, 408 Rannels, effective last Thursday.

Osborn is a 24-year old native of Kansas and comes to Big Spring from the Goodyear store in Wichita Falls. He has been with the Goodyear organization for the past 1 1/2 years.

He graduated from high school in Plainville, Kansas and attended Kansas Wesleyan University and Fort Hayes State College, majoring in business. Osborn said he will continue to offer the same good business and service that the store has offered in the past.

A member of the Baptist church, Osborn is married and his wife, Carolyn, will move to Big Spring the last of this month.

Young Wanderers Take A Fling At World Travel

EILAT, Israel (AP) — "Well, I just wanted to see what the border looked like, so this girl and I started walking toward it. We kept walking and walking. I thought to myself, 'Any minute now, an Israeli border guard will appear and tell us to stop.' But instead, I got shot."

This is the way Englishman Michael Buckland, 23, recently described how he crossed the frontier from Eilat, Israel, to Aqaba, Jordan, one January evening and was felled by three Jordanian rifle bullets.

Recovering so fast that it astounded doctors on both sides of the border, Buckland was sent back to Eilat by the Jordanians only a week later. He is now, by sufferance of the Israeli police, working until he earns enough money for his fare home. It's a concession which Buckland calls "mighty decent of the police."

WANTED TO SEE WORLD

Buckland was a printer in London. About two years ago in a desire to "see the world," he began wandering, first over Europe, then beyond. Since he had only a minimum of funds, he travelled mostly by getting lifts, slept wherever he could find shelter and took odd jobs to support himself on the way.

He arrived in Eilat a few months ago, stayed on, stumbled across the border and now — he laments — "I'm afraid I'll have to leave Israel without being able to work on a kibbutz (collective agricultural settlement), something I wanted very much to do."

Personally, Buckland is a handsome young man with neatly trimmed blond hair and a professional beard. He speaks articulately and says he plans to write a book on his experiences.

Buckland is one of about a hundred foreign young men and women currently encamped in Eilat, making their homes in shacks on the beach, in abandoned houses, tents or simply out in the open.

NEW BREED, WANDERERS

These young people are an interesting new breed. They are youthful wanderers, a knapsack-and-dungarees international set whose members traverse the world, like hoboes in search of a depression.

Every year, tens of thousands of them pass from Western Europe through Yugoslavia and Greece to the Middle East, some going on as far as Japan. A great many of them come to Israel, and sooner or later most of these drift down to Eilat, which is Israel's southernmost city, a popular winter resort and the country's only Red Sea port.

Immediately to the east of Eilat, separated by no natural boundary but by armed men on both sides, is the port of Aqaba, in the territory of Jordan, an Arab nation which has been at war with Israel since 1948.

The lights of Aqaba are clearly visible from Eilat, and sometimes the temptation proves too much for the young foreigners and they attempt a crossing, causing headaches to authorities on both sides.

But most of the wanderers have no intention of breaking any laws. They come to Eilat because it is an ideal place for them. The weather is relatively warm even in winter; it almost never rains; nobody bothers them, and although foreigners are technically not supposed to work, there is a local labor shortage and plenty of odd jobs to be done in the resort's hotels and restaurants, in the port area and in the copper mines of nearby Timna.

Yet their contacts with the people in whose midst they live are scant at best. Here, as in their encampments everywhere else, the young wanderers live together, eat together and play together. And for all their talk about wanting to "see the world," what they see most of all are others like themselves.

DIFFER FROM BEATNIKS

To the Eilatites, the foreigners are "beatniks." It is a convenient term, but inaccurate. They are not crushed idealists — as the "beatniks" claimed to be — nor, in point of fact, have they any special philosophy at all.

What moves them is a vague longing to "see and experience" "something" — they don't seem to know quite what — which they could neither see nor experience at home.

They are a phenomenon as peculiar to the mid-60s as the "beatniks" were to the early '50s.

"I just wanted to see the world before I got too old," said Baudoin, a French boy of 19. "I guess I will keep going for a year more, and then I'll return to my father's farm."

In Eilat, Baudoin makes his home in an empty lot. He just put his sleeping bag and knapsack there one day, and it became his home.

One of his "neighbors" in the lot is Bob, an American from New York City who finished two years of college and then took a break to "see as much of the world as I could, on as little as I could."

Bob has seen quite a lot. He was in several of the Arab countries before coming to Israel, and before that he taught English in Japan and crossed the desert of Pakistan on a camel. Bob plans to return to college this fall to study sociology. He is 21.

"We don't want to bother anybody," said Karen, a 22-year-old Swedish girl who shares a shack on the beach with another girl and four boys. "We just want to see the world and have a good time."

Karen was engaged to a boy in her native Stockholm but decided she wanted some time "to think it over." That was six months ago. Since then Karen has hitchhiked through Europe to Greece, hopped a boat to Haifa, tried working on a kibbutz but found it not to her liking and eventually drifted down to Eilat. She plans to return to Stockholm this spring and marry the boy.

Jack, the son of an Amsterdam merchant, is 17 and enjoys cultivating the unusual about himself. He has let his hair grow to shoulder length, but he is clean-shaven because — alas — he has as yet no beard to grow.

"We're not beatniks," suggested Frank with a smile. "We're bums."

But Frank, at 19, doesn't look like a bum. He looks like a nice kid from a good home, which is what he is. A Scot, he plans to return in the fall, finish his education and take up a career.

Baudoin, Bob, Karen, Jack and Frank have a great deal in common with each other and with the bulk of the youthful wanderers.

COME FROM PROSPERITY

Almost invariably, the wanderers are from the most prosperous countries in the world, and specifically from comfortable homes. Curiously absent from their encampments are youths from the emerging countries or young people from working-class families.

Yet these children of prosperity travel like paupers. They do so by choice, as if they were anxious to undergo, at least in some measure, the very rigors from which their elders have sheltered them.

Curious by-products of affluent societies, these young people purposely throw off all the advantages they were born with — knowing that they can and will return to them.

Nikita Marks 71st Birthday

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev was reported quietly celebrating his 71st birthday Saturday with his children and grandchildren in his country home outside Moscow.

The former Soviet premier's Moscow apartment apparently was unoccupied. Neighbors said he was at his dacha about 30 miles from the Soviet capital on the banks of the Moscow River.

No official notice was taken of the anniversary date, which Soviet authorities deleted from government-published calendars immediately after his ouster six months ago.

A year ago the Soviet Communist party organ Pravda published a huge photograph of Khrushchev on its first page.

Khrushchev is officially described as being on a pension. He spends most of his time at his country home and has occasionally turned up in Moscow and spoken to Western newsmen. He has been provided with a chauffeur-driven limousine and apparently a comfortable income.

'Secret Agent's' Career Ended

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a tale of murder and intrigue that secret agent extraordinary Tom Romano told. He even outdid the fictional James Bond.

Tall and rugged, he induced one of his female admirers to give him $4,000 and her new automobile.

He told her of hair-raising exploits with gun and attaché case in Algeria and Cyprus, of piloting a spy plane, and of an underwater mission to Cuba.

The story ended Friday in U.S. District Court with Judge Thomas F. Murphy writing the final chapter.

As it turned out, secret agent extraordinary Tom Romano was fictional just like James Bond. He was just plain Thomas Catzone, 35, Brooklyn truck mechanic.

Following a non-jury trial, Murphy sentenced Catzone to two years in federal prison for masquerading as a Central Intelligence Agency agent.

Catzone even furnished props and sound effects for his imaginary exploits. Example: whenever one of his admirers phoned him at his Brooklyn garage, he would have a coworker race a truck engine. Then he would explain that he had no time to talk — the engine of his plane was being revved up for a quick takeoff on a cloak-and-dagger mission.

Quake Hits Alaska Friday

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Another Good Friday earthquake struck Alaska Friday, but this time the state was spared the death and destruction wrought by the historic one of March 27, 1964.

On that date, Good Friday of last year, a quake in south central Alaska and the tidal wave it set off killed 113 persons and destroyed millions of dollars worth of property.

Friday's tremor rattled dishes and windows in Nome and was felt in a dozen Eskimo villages in the Norton South area of western Alaska.

The Alaska disaster office in Anchorage was advised by the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey Observatory in Honolulu that there would be no tidal wave.

No damage was reported except for shattered windows in one village.

Thefts Reported

Two thefts were reported to police here Friday, of clothing valued at $36, owned by George Good, from a car parked at the Ponderosa Apartments and a television set, radio and some cigarettes from the residence of Mrs. Lana Wendeborn, 1304 Settles. Officers said apparently someone entered the house through an unlocked window.

Robbers Loot Hotel Boxes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Three men walked into the Sterling Hotel in the dead of night, bound the clerk and bell captain and methodically looted safety deposit boxes of an estimated $150,000 in cash and jewels Friday.

The hotel was filled to capacity with guests in Miami Beach to celebrate the Passover season.

The robbery took only 30 minutes. The thieves, wearing gloves, used hammers and metal punches to break into the boxes. One held a pistol on night clerk Timothy Hayes and bell captain Charles Jernigan.

Hayes told police, "A white man grabbed me, stuck a snubnosed .38 in my chest and spun me around so fast I didn't have a good look at him."

Hayes and Jernigan were bound with adhesive tape.

Police Chief Rocky Pomerance said interviews with the 75 guests with valuables in boxes indicated $30,000 in cash and $100,000 in jewels were missing.

Mrs. Dodds Hurt In Car Accident

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. True left before noon Saturday for Bay City to be with their daughter, Mrs. Mamie Lee Dodds, who was injured in a one-car accident near Smithville Friday.

Mrs. Dodds, who was traveling alone, was en route to Bay City to spend the Easter holiday with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Art Dodds.

Her automobile turned over four times. The extent of her injuries was not given when the Trues were notified. Mrs. Dodds was brought to Bay City by her son. She will be brought back here by her parents, if she is able to travel.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Departing Family Has Praise For Big Spring

To The Editor:

To most human products of the big city environment, life in a small prairie town in Texas appears dull and uneventful. Add the ingredients of heat, wind, and dust and the attractiveness of such a town plunges to a zero-minus quantity.

We find it most unfortunate that so many big city folks find the above observation valid. Perhaps we are the exceptions that one finds to every rule; however, as products of the big city environment, we find that life in the prairie town of Big Spring has been pleasant, eventful, and most rewarding. Happily, we can state that our own observations are not belated and that on leaving, for the second time, we need not say something to the effect, "If we had only taken advantage of the situation earlier, our stay would have been so much more pleasant."

We found living to be rather difficult in our earlier tour in Big Spring. The year was 1956 and the many housing developments that dot the Big Spring city limits were non-existent. The drought was still evident and the dust storms were frequent and more severe than any we have seen in the past three years of our current tour. However, we soon found the one ingredient that renders the opening observation invalid. Simply stated, that ingredient is people — warm hearted, pleasant, happy people.

We added a member to our family during that first tour in Big Spring. As we pressed on with subsequent assignments in Georgia, New York, Alabama, Iceland, and Chicago, we often reminisced about the fine folks that characterized Christy's birthplace. When news of reassignment to Webb Air Force Base reached us in 1961, we were pleased to the extreme.

We had been to many places since our previous Big Spring assignment, and we had enjoyed them all. However, in our hearts there was no place that came close to providing the happy hospitality so evident in the town of Big Spring.

We arrived again in December of 1961. We didn't expect very low temperatures we found; but then, we soon discovered that the citizens didn't expect them either. As I recall, there were many busted water pipes and the plumber was in great demand. More unexpectedly, however, was the tremendous growth that was immediately apparent. Webb Village, Wasson Place, Kentwood and many other developments gave an immediate impression that here was a town on the go.

At first we feared that the Big Spring warmth that we experienced previously was gone and had been replaced by the crass commercialism that characterizes a boom town. Our fears were soon allayed.

The three years of our current tour have been so full of pleasant and rewarding experiences that we couldn't possibly relate them all. Oh, there have been a few sharpies that have gotten to our pocketbook, but that's to be expected. You'll find them everywhere, and despite our big city background, we're natural suckers.

Another member was added to the family during this tour. No complaints but if we're fortunate to return again, we'll have to be a mite more cautious. It's hard to find quarters to house five kids in a prairie town.

We leave this locale with heavy heart; however, we leave feeling fortunate that we have had two assignments in this pleasant place.

To all of our many friends of Webb and Big Spring: May God bless you all. We've loved every minute of it and we hope to return.

A.J. AND CLAIRE GRILL

IF CROUP ATTACKS YOUR CHILD'S BREATHING

Croup is one of the symptoms of a throat problem. Breathing is difficult and there may be a spasm of the larynx with a wheezing sound. It may occur in acute laryngitis, a strep-tococcus sore throat or even diphtheria.

It is important to call a physician. While waiting, start a steam vaporizer near your child. Until the vaporizer begins to steam, turn on the hot water in the bathroom and expose your child to the steam there. For steam usually brings some quick relief.

CALIFORNIA NEGROES GOT CONTROL — FACE CHARGES OF DEFRAUDING

'Trashy' Mortgages Brought Failure Of Marlin Bank

By KEMPER DIEHL
(San Antonio Express and News Staff Writer)

MARLIN — This is the story of a small Texas town, built above medicinal waters and surrounded by blackland farms . . . of a broad-shouldered California bartender with a red Jaguar sports car . . . of millionaire Negro financiers . . . of "trashy" Houston mortgages — and how, when they were all mixed, one of the oldest banks in Texas closed its doors.

For most of the unsuspecting depositors of the First National Bank of Marlin, the story began at 3 p.m. March 10, 1964 when the bank completed the business day.

President Joe J. Gallaher Jr. proceeded to tape this notice to the glass facade of the stark, contemporary building:

THE NOTICE

"By order of the Comptroller of Currency of the United States, the First National Bank of Marlin, Texas, has today been declared insolvent and placed in the hands of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation for liquidation."

Ironically, March 10, 1964 was a day of triumph for Joseph B. Morris, a California Negro capitalist. Aired in his home city of San Francisco on the "Open End" TV program was a panel discussion taped by distinguished American Negro leaders — and Morris was one of those discussing racial problems in the U. S.

"FINANCIER"

Only two months earlier Morris, identified as a "financier," was one of 30 American professional and business leaders included in a gallery of color portraits of distinguished U. S. Negroes in Time Magazine.

It's hard to conceive of a link between a small "farmers and ranchers" bank in Central Texas and the plush San Francisco offices of Morris, glittering with chandeliers and mirrors behind a pert blonde receptionist.

But within days the two were revealed to be inextricably related — and a U. S. grand jury this month formally charged that Morris and Bernard S. Garrett, a 44-year-old Los Angeles Negro who has told Senate investigators he once was worth $1.5 million, had conspired to defraud the bank of $189,186.04 during a brief period immediately prior to its demise.

"The so-and-so's came in and wrecked that thing with a fountain pen," declared one bitter minority stockholder last week.

CONFUSING TESTIMONY

But how could this happen if the two Negro owners never appeared in Marlin or visited the bank?

Bizarre and confusing testimony disclosed the answer early this month before Sen. John L. McClelland, D-Ark., and his Senate investigations subcommittee.

The controlling shares of the Marlin bank, it developed, were bought through a $225,000 loan from the Continental Bank and Trust Company in Houston. Added to this was $50,000 from a Texas City bank which the Negro financiers had obtained using a $600,000 loan from Don Silverthorne's San Francisco National Bank — which, in turn, failed early this year.

(Silverthorne, whose frolics with high rollers at Las Vegas crap tables have impressed investigating senators, had once described Morris as "a delightful, cultured, fine man, a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles — a man you'd like to know." A portrait of the California bank president dominated the entrance to the Negro financier's office on Montgomery Street, San Francisco's "Wall Street.")

FRONT MAN

Morris and Garrett used Matthew D. Steiner, a white man, as their $25,000-a-year front in operating the First National Bank of Marlin.

With Steiner serving as chairman of a board packed with representatives of the majority stockholders, the bank accepted deposits of approximately $1 million from 23 savings and loan associations in the Southwestern area.

But within a few weeks First National wrote a check for $970,000 for the purchase of 101 sub-standard Houston mortgages with a face value of about $1,000,000.

Working through companies they controlled in Houston, Morris and Garrett had bought these mortgages at a discount from the First American Life Insurance Company of Houston.

OVERDUE LOANS

More than half of the 101 loans were either already overdue when the bank acquired them — or they exceeded the bank's legal limit of 30 years or $20,000.

The grand jury indictment against Morris and Garrett alleges that the bank, in buying the mortgages, was entitled to a discount of $223,636.04.

Not only did it not receive the discount, the government holds, but Morris and Garrett diverted $189,186.04 to their own use through the Valley National Mortgage Company of Houston which they had incorporated with Steiner.

Garrett received $94,570.02 from Valley National and Morris drew a check for $82,616.02, the indictment relates.

At any rate, the sub-standard mortgages proved to be too heavy a burden for the small bank. Here is the startling time-table that capsules the story:

SINCE 1892

March 12, 1892 — First National Bank of Marlin was chartered.

July 18, 1963 — Control of 5,470 of the 10,000 bank shares was obtained by Morris and Garrett, and Steiner was installed as chairman.

September 4, 1963 — Garrett, Morris and Steiner incorporated the Valley National Mortgage Company.

September 11, 1963 — Steiner induced the board of directors to instruct the bank to accept deposits of $1,000,000 to be invested in Houston real estate notes and mortgages.

October 7, 1963 — A check for $970,000 was issued for purchase of sub-standard real estate notes and mortgages.

October 9, 1963 — Checks totaling $177,186.04 were issued to Garrett and Morris by Valley National Mortgage Co.

March 10, 1964 — The bank was declared insolvent.

BRIEF APPEARANCES

The only visible signs of the vital changes going on within the bank during the fall and winter of 1963-64 were brief appearances in Marlin of Steiner.

Now a bartender in Salinas, Calif., the youthful Steiner told investigating senators of a succession of jobs that preceded his elevation to a bank chairmanship at $1. He had been a psychiatric aide, ice cream stand owner, cabinet maker, milkman, chemical salesman and grape grower.

"I'm wondering," mused Sen. McClelland, "why you would be employed by anyone and put in charge of a bank."

But Steiner presented a woefully different appearance before the Senate inquisitors than he did during his financial heyday in Texas.

Then he headquartered in a $47,500, 2-story colonial home off Memorial Drive in Houston with his wife and four children, and he was accustomed to driving to Marlin for board meetings in a glittering Lincoln.

GOOD FRONT

"Yes, he had a good front," said a onetime teller at First National a bit bitterly.

A handsome woman who now works at another Marlin bank, she continued:

"He was real impressive — a big man and well-dressed. And he had a real attractive wife, too. He looked like a college football player, with those broad shoulders."

On one trip, reported a former official of the bank, Steiner drove up in a flashy red Jaguar sports car "and scared the natives half to death."

"It only took him an hour and three quarters to drive up from Houston," he related.

Marlin depositors got a glimpse of the changes taking form amid the decorative palms of their new (1959) bank building late in January, 1964. On Jan. 29, the Marlin Daily Democrat published a special "Marlin On the Move" section.

"GROWING"

"The First National Bank of Marlin is growing with the community," a generous advertisement trumpeted over the signatures of directors who now included Steiner, his wife Mary Jo, and Vincent Sanfilippo, another associate of Morris and Garrett.

The advertisement went on to disclose that the bank's deposits had grown from $2,196,132.84 to $3,391,716.08 in a year's time, while its loans had risen from $1,037,344.10 to $2,238,039.59.

It didn't explain that nearly $1,000,000 of the loans were now sub-standard and that, even then, frantic attempts were being made to "storehouse" them in a savings and loan association.

It is now known that Gallaher, who had been president or board chairman of the bank for 12 years, was becoming more and more alarmed.

JUST SCREAMED

Gallaher is expected to be a key witness in the Waco trial of Morris and Garrett and, as a result, declines to answer questions regarding events leading up to the disaster.

But he testified freely before the senators, reporting the bank was in "good shape" until "they bought those notes."

The more he examined the notes, he testified, the worse they looked. But he argued: "All I could do was scream!"

Gallaher said he did not report the situation to federal

It's Now Closed

Desolate facade is presented by the First National Bank of Marlin which closed its doors March 10, 1964. Notices on windows inform depositors the bank has been closed by order of the Comptroller of the Currency and the Federal Deposit Insurance Company, as receiver, is in charge. Marlin Chamber of Commerce leaders hope to see the building, constructed in 1959, converted into a new post office.

banking authorities because he feared they would immediately close the bank. He indicated there were hopes the notes would be placed elsewhere.

NEVER KNEW OWNERS

Ironically, it was at the Senate hearings that Gallaher first saw the men who had owned controlling interest in his bank. He said that during the months preceding the crash, he had never known who the real owners were.

Gallaher, who came to Marlin in 1920 in the cottonseed oil business, is now "retired." "Until this is over," he said last week, "there's no bank that would hire me."

Hints of what lay ahead for the bank and town were picked up by some residents. A traveling man said that long before the failure a Houston acquaintance had remarked of Marlin, "That's where the Negroes own the bank." But he paid no attention to the scrap of gossip.

RUMORS

Early in 1964 rumors began to spread among some businessmen that "things were shaky" at the First National.

But no one in Marlin was aware of it when, on Feb. 27, Steiner put his Houston home on the market — or when, on March 3, he loaded his furniture in a moving van and departed for California.

His sporty red Jaguar was found parked on a Houston street and was repossessed.

Unaware of all this, bank depositors were stunned at the sudden closing. The news spread swiftly.

"My husband and I could have sat down and cried," recalled Mrs. H. C. Chamberlain, executive chef at the Falls Hotel, a huge, airy establishment which caters to visitors to the hot mineral baths.

"It had been our bank so long . . . we'd never done business with another bank," she explained.

Part of the astonishment of residents was caused by the conservative reputation and venerable age of the bank.

WEATHERED DEPRESSION "It was solid as a rock during the depression," reported one depositor who pulled out her savings when management changes began to recur too frequently for her taste.

And a town business leader quipped: "If you wanted to borrow $1,000 from them, you had to put up $2,000 in collateral."

Inside the bank in the late afternoon of March 10 "it was like a madhouse," according to one of the women employees.

"We didn't know if we had jobs any more, but we worked without stopping until 10 p.m.," she related. "We worked as long as we could and the FDIC people asked us to work a little longer."

The employees had been completely unaware the bank was about to fail, she recalled, adding: "We knew it the afternoon the news was announced."

DEPOSITORS PAID

"I'll say this for the FDIC," related a minor bank stockholder last week, "they closed the bank on Tuesday afternoon and the next Monday they started paying off depositors. It was amazing how calm people were. They knew they would be paid."

Recalling the payment of depositors, Mrs. Chamberlain related, "There was a line for three days, but my husband said we would wait."

The first depositor to be paid-off by check was W. H. Hillin, a Rockdale night watchman who had arrived at the door at 7:30 a.m. About 40 depositors were in line when the bank opened at 9 a.m.

Within three days a total of 1,193 depositors had been paid $1,266,300.

2,200 GOT MONEY

Washington officials of the FDIC report that through mid-April, 1965, they had paid 2,200 "insured" depositors a total of $1,900,000. This represents the great bulk of individual deposits.

That portion of deposits over $10,000 as well as "certificates of deposits" are covered by claims filed with the FDIC. In addition, the FDIC filed its own claims for money it paid to insured depositors. Approximately 60 per cent of these claims have been paid. (Most of the $1 million placed in the bank by the savings institutions was in the form of certificates of deposit.)

Stockholders cannot share in any of the remaining assets of the bank until all creditors are paid.

"I don't expect anything," reported the minor stockholder who had praised the FDIC's prompt pay-off to depositors.

"THOSE RASCALS"

"If anything is left, I'd like them to use it to put those rascals where they belong."

Noting he has "charged it off to internal revenue," the stockholder said he has taken to using a handy parking lot at the rear of First National. "I feel like I've earned parking privileges," he mused.

Most depositors moved their accounts easily to two other banks in Marlin which had actually been larger than the First National.

Business was slowed only briefly, but the change was difficult for some farmers whose families had been used to dealing with the old bank for generations and who had built up a solid credit rating with it.

NEGRO OWNERS

Residents of Marlin, self-consciously aware of their town's large Negro minority, were shocked by the revelation that the First National Bank had been controlled by the California Negro financiers for eight months.

"That was hard to swallow," recalled a bank employee. "They never came here, but if they had, I wouldn't have known what was going on, anyway."

But Marlin citizens are angered by testimony of Morris and Garrett that their troubles were caused because, as Negroes, they had to act through an agent and could not supervise the affairs of the bank personally.

Testimony that the two men had been willing to dress as janitors or chauffeurs to visit their holdings in Texas, added to this irritation.

NEGROES WELCOME

"They wouldn't have had to do that," snapped a bookkeeper with experience in another Marlin bank, explaining:

"Negroes stand in line with whites at the deposit windows of the banks here all the time. They could have come in and bought a money order!"

She argued:

"This failure would have happened if they were as white as I am. They just wanted to get civil rights sympathy by saying that."

But she, like others acquainted with the town, declined to speculate as to what would have happened had knowledge of the bank's control by Garrett and Morris been spread before the failure.

Marlin residents have reason to be sensitive. Their bank's troubles have been spread across most of the metropolitan newspapers of the U.S. And, after it developed that one of the "trashy" mortgages in Houston was for $104,000 on a Houston hostelry that "was really more than a hotel," there was even a jazzy mention on TV's "This Was the Week That Was."

FDIC INSURANCE

Marlin businessmen, who report they were not hurt by the bank episode, still view the affair seriously.

"We regretted very much that we were the victims of this," reported Ray Cole, manager of the Marlin Chamber of Commerce. "We were proud of our banks."

He added soberly: "It could have ruined this town, if it hadn't been for the FDIC insurance."

Cole feels federal authorities should have moved into the situation sooner, but he, like other Marlin business leaders, is gratified that the Marlin experience has been studied carefully by the McClelland subcommittee and will probably lead to new banking regulations. He declared:

NEED NEW LAWS

"There is a definite need for new banking laws regulating the transfer of the controlling interest of a bank. Such a transfer should have the approval of the FDIC. This would be a step to insure the stockholders to some extent along with depositors."

Cole noted that most of the bank's stockholders "didn't smell a rat until right at the last."

Like any good chamber of commerce man, Cole prefers to talk about the town's continued development as a health spa. A new $1.5 million hospital has recently joined an existing hospital and three clinics. And a VA Hospital has an annual $1.5 million payroll.

Along the business streets a dozen stores have renovated along ultra-modern lines and a Bluebonnet Photo Fiesta will command the town's undivided attention next weekend.

But, across the street from Cole's office the all-but-deserted home of the First National Bank presents a gloomy glass facade. Inside, a single FDIC staffer works at a corner desk, keeping up with outstanding notes.

SOLD TO BIDDER

(The celebrated $970,000 in Houston notes and mortgages was sold by the FDIC to a high bidder for $503,000.)

Behind a gold-mesh screen stands the conference table where the decisions that wrecked the bank were made. This alcove is now dominated by a rough table which sports a large urn — and the necessary fixings for the "great American coffee break."

Still dominating the one-floor working area is a large vault. It stands foursquare in the center of the bank, presenting an awesome 40,000-pound, round steel door to the entrance. The vault walls are painted gold.

The door, along with surrounding tropical greenery, has been sold to a South Texas bank which will soon remove it.

"There have been only five of those vault doors made," reported Gallaher ruefully. "It was a beautiful set-up."

NEW POST OFFICE

The gap to be left by the removal of the vault won't remain long, if plans of the chamber of commerce jell.

"We hope to turn the building into a new post office for Marlin," Cole reported. And, still looking ahead, he urged a departing reporter:

"If you ever feel like you need new vigor and youth, just come back and spend some time at our mineral baths."

At that, their 147-degree water probably produces less heat than that stirred by the failure of the First National Bank of Marlin.

WOULD EXPAND SENATE Bill Offers Some Hope For Senators

By ERNEST STROMBERGER

AUSTIN (AP)—Six senators, their tenures on borrowed time since new districts were ordered drawn, look this week for a move toward relief.

The House is expected to approve the Senate's plan to add eight senators to the 31-member upper house, its first expansion in 89 years.

AUG. 7

The proposed constitutional amendment would go to the voters at an Aug. 7 election.

If the voters approve the amendment, the Senate can redistrict itself with a minimum of alterations. If the amendment fails, as many as six senators will be without districts.

The eight largest counties in population now have seven senators. If the Senate redistricts without expansion, those eight counties will have 14 senators and the rural areas will lose six districts.

The addition of eight senators might solve the problem. Two new members would go to the eight counties originally entitled to 14 senators, and the other six will be used to save the thinly populated rural districts.

Under the 31-member scheme, the eight largest counties would have 45 per cent of the Senate representation, almost twice their present 26 per cent. With 39 members, the eight big counties would have 41 per cent.

The difficulty of redrawing 31 districts in a manner which will win approval of the required 21 senators is so great the Senate may not be able to agree, leaving voters with a choice of accepting the 39-member plan or letting the federal courts do the job.

Harris County will be eligible for five senators in a 39-member Senate; Dallas, three; Tarrant and Bexar counties, two each; and one each for Jefferson, Travis, El Paso and Nueces counties. The last four now have surrounding counties in their districts.

SINCE 1870

El Paso has not had its own district since 1870, when it ended 17 years in a district with Presidio County and was added to a host of Southwest Texas counties.

No county except Bexar has ever had more than two senators. Two San Antonio senators were present in some of the sessions of the 1850s.

Not Enough Safeguard

Impressive 40,000-pound steel door fronting a gold-painted vault inspired confidence in the First National Bank of Marlin until it closed its doors March 10, 1964. The door, one of only five manufactured of the type, has been sold — along with palms — to a South Texas bank and will be moved soon. The door proved unable to safeguard the bank from the dumping of $970,000 in "trashy" mortgages, resold by the Federal Deposit Insurance Company following the bank's failure, for $503,000.

Stanley Remodels Downtown Store

A modernized exterior appearance and a remodeled interior, containing a white color decor, are featured in the now-completed building improvements at the Stanley Hardware Co.

In operation for more than 21 years at its location at 203 Runnels, the firm has carried out a remodeling which includes a bricked-in north wall, a new ceiling and floor and an interior color scheme of bone-white.

The interior lighting for the some 5,000 square feet of sales space is by fluorescent light fixtures, set in the new vinyl ceiling which has a white color effect, matching the walls. The new flooring is of asbestos tile.

In the exterior changes, the firm removed an awning and added gray-tinted glass on the west wall, with the formerly glass north wall closed in, adding to the interior display space.

No one from Big Spring will attend the annual instructor and leadership training school this year in Red Cross water safety, first aid, and small craft. Mrs. Moree T. Sawtelle, Red Cross director, said this week.

"We have no one qualified for the courses," she said. "It will be the first time in years that we will not have any one eligible to attend."

Water Institute Reminder Given

West Texas Chamber of Commerce members are being urged to attend a special meeting of the West Texas Water Institute to be held in the Student Union Building at Texas Tech April 28, beginning at 10 a.m.

Congressman Walter Rogers, Senator Frank Moss of Utah, and other officials from Washington and Austin will be on hand for the discussion of West Texas' future.

The NAWAPA Project (Alaska to Mexico, with possibilities for delivering water to West Texas) will be discussed, in addition to other potential programs for water development.

Former Congressman Joe Kilgore will speak at the luncheon on the status of the State Water Plan in relation to Federal programs.

Davis, county attorney, has set down a number of misdemeanor jury cases for disposition.

He and Judge Porter said the criminal docket will be sounded at 1:30 p.m. Monday. The order of the cases to be tried will be determined at that time.

However, Davis said, three cases, in which Wayne Burns, presently district attorney will appear as prosecutor, are to be scheduled for Thursday. These are liquor law violation cases filed before Davis became county attorney, and in which Davis had a part while engaged in private practice.

These cases are against Jesse Banks, selling liquor without a license; Leroy Johnson, selling beer during prohibited hours; and David Gomez, selling beer during prohibited hours.

On Friday, Davis will try whichever of the other misdemeanor cases announced ready.

These include three charges against George Thomas, and two against Wayne Basden. These two men, both attorneys, have been involved in recent clashes with the law as a result of family troubles. Thomas is accused of two counts of aggravated assault involving his wife and with unlawful possession of a pistol. Basden is accused in two counts of aggravated assault involving Mrs. Basden. Both attorneys posted bonds at the time of the incidents and are at liberty.

Other cases on the docket include a charge of DWI against E. P. Smith. Smith was tried at a recent county criminal court docket, and the jury was unable to reach a verdict.

Four other DWI cases complete the docket. Defendants are Clifton B. Hollis, Nelda Decker, Augustina Munoz, and Charlie O'Daniel.

These include three charges against George Thomas, and two against Wayne Basden. These two men, both attorneys, have been involved in recent clashes with the law as a result of family troubles. Thomas is accused of two counts of aggravated assault involving his wife and with unlawful possession of a pistol. Basden is accused in two counts of aggravated assault involving Mrs. Basden. Both attorneys posted bonds at the time of the incidents and are at liberty.

Other cases on the docket include a charge of DWI against E. P. Smith. Smith was tried at a recent county criminal court docket, and the jury was unable to reach a verdict.

Four other DWI cases complete the docket. Defendants are Clifton B. Hollis, Nelda Decker, Augustina Munoz, and Charlie O'Daniel.

Pickets Urge End To War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of students demanding an end to the war in Viet Nam massed in Washington Saturday, picketing, marching, singing and shouting for their cause.

The demonstration, one of the largest ever to take place around the White House, was billed by its sponsors, an organization calling itself Students for a Democratic Society, as the start of a national protest movement against U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Demonstration leaders said 20,000 students responded to the call they sent to colleges across the nation for support. Police estimated the number at 12,000 to 15,000.

The students packed the sidewalk in front of the White House and nearly encircled the two block-long buildings flanking it — the Treasury and Executive Office buildings. Thousands more milled around in parks near the White House.

As more and more crowded into the picket line, it became so thick it hardly moved. Many of the students had guitars and sang as they shuffled along.

The beautiful spring day at the height of the Easter season also attracted thousands of tourists, some of whom mixed in with the students.

While the demonstrators choked the sidewalk in front of the White House, the tourists stood in long lines stretching around the opposite side waiting to take the regular White House tour.

The huge demonstration attracted two groups of counter-demonstrators — a dozen members of the American Nazi Party, and about 100 persons representing Young Americans for Freedom, a conservative organization. They paraded on the sidewalk across the street from the students.

Police lined both sides of the street and kept each group isolated, but printed and shouted insults were freely exchanged.

"Pink colleges turn out yellow reds," said a placard carried by a Young America for Freedom member. "Don't let red-led defecants set U.S. policy," said another. "Peace creeps go home," blazoned a Nazi sign.

The Nazis, with their military uniforms and swastika armbands, touched off an incident near the White House. One of them broke through the police line to stand on a record player a student had set up to play folk songs.

At intervals, the Nazis faced across the street and shouted, "Death to the peace creeps," "Gas the peace creeps," and "To hell with the peace creeps."

Students for a Democratic Society, which has headquarters in New York City, was founded three years ago as an outgrowth of the League for Industrial Democracy. It describes itself as a left-wing radical but non-Communist organization.

While this group's demonstration was taking place, a delegation from the University of Wisconsin signified support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam in a paper presented at the White House to President Johnson's foreign affairs adviser, McGeorge Bundy. They said the paper contained the names of 6,000 students and faculty members of the university.

The Wisconsin declaration opposed U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam at this time, saying it "would lead to a Communist takeover of that country."

Banners In Texas Too

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — A group of demonstrators, many of them of college age, began a 24-hour vigil near President Johnson's ranch Saturday in protest of United States actions in Viet Nam.

Eight of the 41 persons who marched three and one half miles under a hot Texas sun on Ranch Road One brought blankets and said they intend to remain until tomorrow afternoon.

About 10 state highway patrolmen, their arms draped over a wooden barricade, halted the marchers within half a mile of the LBJ Ranch.

The eight who bedded down for the night vowed they would not speak or eat until 4 p.m. Sunday. Two state highway patrolmen stood watch nearby to make sure they did not attempt to go to the ranch.

The other 33 marchers left at sundown but said they would be back early Sunday morning.

Robert Pardun, 23, of Austin, a Students for a Democratic Society, gave newsmen copies of the petition his group hoped to present to Johnson. He wore a badge reading "End War in Viet Nam."

The petition calls for an end to bombing by United States planes, replacement of American troops with soldiers from neutral nations and negotiations with all parties, including the Viet Cong.

At intervals, the Nazis faced across the street and shouted, "Death to the peace creeps," "Gas the peace creeps," and "To hell with the peace creeps."

Leaflets Tell Of LBJ Peace Plans

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force planes ranged widely over Communist North Viet Nam Saturday bombing and machine gunning highway traffic. An F105 Thunderchief's pilot was killed while strafing, a U.S. spokesman said.

While the force of 42 Air Force planes were seeking out targets of opportunity, two Vietnamese Skyraiders showered 100,000 leaflets on Dong Hoi, 50 miles north of South Viet Nam's border. The leaflets carried President Johnson's plans for developing Southeast Asia.

HIT HILL

The spokesman said the Thunderchief crashed into a hill while strafing a road, but he would not say whether the plane was shot down. Ground fire was described as light and no enemy planes were sighted.

Air Force pilots reported they destroyed one truck and a number of military buildings at Muga Pass near the frontier with Laos. They were working over Route 8, which runs southwest from Vinh, about 150 miles north of the border, to the Laotian frontier.

Other pilots attacked traffic on Route 12, which runs south from Vinh to the border.

In the sorties were 12 Air Force strike planes and 30 planes flying antiaircraft suppression missions.

The leaflets dropped during the day differed from those scattered on Dong Hoi Wednesday which asked the people to overthrow the Communist government.

THE WEEK

development through Big Spring's highest growth years.

And local people joined others in dismay over the costly floods and tornadoes in the Midwest. The Red Cross, as always, has moved to the scene, and is ready to guide rehabilitation. It can use monetary help. Send a gift to the local chapter if you would help the storm victims.

Activity is due to pick up at Howard County Airport, as work is rushed to prepare for the Air Force's new light-plane training program, handled under private contract. Central American Airways Flying Service of Louisville was formally awarded the contract, and is due to develop a bigger-than-$150,000 business in the community. County commissioners acted promptly in providing facilities for the school (to lease to the operator), by awarding a construction contract to Ray Dunlap, who is to do the building job in 88 working days.

And Webb AFB got another special honor — for having the highest standard of maintenance in the Air Training Command. The ATC commander, Lt. Gen. William W. Momyer, flew here to make the Outstanding Maintenance and Efficiency Award for the base division that functions under Col. George E. Franks, DCM at Webb.

High schoolers showed their skills again, in two affairs. A presentation of "Hamlet" gained plaudits, and the three bands won more acclaim in their annual spring concert. These are busy, talented young people who show you that the new generation is a fine one.

The distinctive Halfway House was in financial troubles, and it looked as though it would have to close. New efforts are being made, however, to get financial support, and this program to help those emerging from the state hospital might not yet die. It still will have to have broader community support. Meanwhile, the wonderful volunteer work goes on at Big Spring State Hospital, which this week recognized 29 volunteers for long and dedicated service.

City commissioners reorganized their council in the wake of the election. John Stanley was named mayor pro tem, succeeding Paul Kasch, who stepped down from municipal service after six years.

The city's firemen and policemen voted to go under the Social Security program. On the school front, trustees adopted a bit more generous policy of recognition to those retiring after long tenure.

Howard County Junior College received a proposition from the Andrews Corporation of Miami, owners of the Settles and Crawford Hotels, to take over these structures and convert them into facilities for a vocational branch of the college, or an economic opportunity training establishment with federal grant. The complicated proposal is still under study.

Upcoming: Clean-up Week for May 10-15, and it needs everybody's participation. Also an appreciation dinner for service station employees on April 26. And, on May 11-12, a special course in tourist development, for those people who have most direct contact with travelers — service station people, hotel and motel clerks, waitresses, other service people. They are the ones who play a major role in giving a city the air of friendliness and hospitality.

Just over: April 15, and if you didn't pay your income tax, you're late.

Joseph Franks Dies Saturday

Pilgrims Gather For Rites At Holy Sepulcher

JERUSALEM, Jordan Section (AP) — More than 10,000 pilgrims from all over the world sang hymns Saturday and many attended Mass at the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, where Christ supposedly was buried.

This holy city was jammed for the Easter observance. Pilgrims from Arab and other countries crowded inside the crumbling walls of Jerusalem. Hotels, boarding houses and convent cells were crowded.

Pilgrims thronged to a Pontifical High Mass in the richly decorated but decaying Church of the Holy Sepulcher. Mass was celebrated by Msgr. Alberto Gori, the Latin patriarch of Jerusalem.

Bishop Fulgencio Pasini began the Mass by striking sparks from a flint and lighting wood shavings in a silver bowl. Priests lighted a tall, white candle — the Paschal candle — from the bowl.

Then Bishop Pasini plunged five nails of crimson wax into the shaft of the candle. The 500-year-old ceremony, accompanied by sighs from the congregation, signified the wounds of Christ on the Cross.

After celebrating Mass, Msgr. Gori led a procession from the chapel to Calvary, to the Stone of Unction where Jesus was anointed before burial, and back to the church.

Low Mass in front of Christ's Tomb was celebrated by Msgr. Linus Capello, custodian of the Holy Land.

Followers of the Orthodox faith celebrated Lazarus in Bethany. They walked from a Greek Orthodox monastery to the tomb of Lazarus.

At the top of the Mount of Jerazim, the 430 members of the Samaritan community slaughtered sheep in celebration of the Passover. Some 150 members of the community crossed over into Jordan from Israel for the occasion.

LLOYD F. CURLEY, age 65, passed away Friday at Stanton. Services 2 p.m. Sunday in the First Methodist Church. Interment Monday 11 a.m. at Hobson, Texas.

Holy Saturday Services Held

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI took part Saturday night in a three-hour Holy Saturday service in St. Peter's Basilica, where the striking of a new fire gave a symbolic foretaste of the glory of Christ risen.

Ten cardinals, many bishops and hundreds of other Roman Catholic clergy attended.

The pontiff, in a rich full-length cloak and white mitre sat on a throne in the columned atrium or porch of the huge basilica as fire was struck in a squat bronze brazier placed on the marble pavement.

Paolo Cardinal Marella, archbishop of St. Peter's, performed the "blessing of the new fire" — as the first part of the service is called — and blessed a thick paschal candle that will burn during principal Masses from Easter to the Ascension.

"May the light of Christ, risen in glory, dispel the darkness of our hearts and minds," the cardinal chanted as the paschal candle was lit.

A procession then moved up the aisle to the papal altar while the Sistine choir sang a hymn praising Christ as the light of the world.

Pope Paul later took off his red vestments of papal mourning and put on white in sign of rejoicing to start an Easter vigil Mass. Similar Masses were to be offered elsewhere in Catholicism at midnight.

Huddle Called For Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top echelon U.S. military officials arrive in Hawaii on Sunday for a huddle on strategy in the far-western Pacific, with Viet Nam getting primary attention.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, plans to fly from Washington to meet Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, and Adm. Ullyses S. G. Sharp, commander in chief of the Pacific.

A Pentagon spokesman said the session does not reflect any new emergency; that Wheeler had been trying for more than a month to fit the conference into his schedule.

More Arrests Follow Mob Rioting In South Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Mobs fought police in street battles Saturday after 10,000 persons poured from a rally where speakers denounced government negotiations with Japan, Korea's old overlord. More than 200 police and demonstrators were injured.

Police announced the arrest of 227 demonstrators, including an opposition party lawmaker. More than 700 persons have been detained since disorders began Tuesday.

INJURED

Police reported 158 policemen injured, 11 seriously. Among the injured were about 20 opposition lawmakers who bore the brunt of the initial charge of club-swinging police.

Alarmed by the fifth straight day of street rioting, President Chung Hee Park called in his top security officers, presumably to discuss possible martial law.

Later, Home Minister Yang Chan-wood accused opposition politicians, who called the rally, of starting the riot. He said the politicians had "base political designs to seize power."

In another statement, Information Minister Hong Chong-chul declared the government is "fully prepared to crush any riotous acts."

The demonstrators were egged on by Red China. Peking Radio said 150,000 persons rallied in Pyongyang, capital of Communist North Korea, in support of the South Korean demonstrators.

REBUFFS

Peking's People's Daily said the situation "is most favorable for the struggle of the South Korean people. U.S. imperialism is meeting with rebuffs in Asia and other parts of the world."

While Communist agitators may have been in the mobs, the protest rally was called by the opposition Civil Rule party. It is not Communist-influenced.

A government spokesman accused the Civil Rule party and the opposition Democratic party of plotting an uprising by agitation among students. The parties denied the charge.

Most of those who attended the rally in Hyochang football stadium took no part in the disorders. The attack on police was led by about 500 students and other demonstrators.

Before the rally, about 3,500 high school students had fought with police near the stadium, north of the rally. One group of 700 black-uniformed students tried to march on the Capitol and raided a police booth. The mobs finally were broken up.

"RISE UP"

Crowds gathered in the stadium heard President Yun Po-sun of the Civil Rule party urge them to "rise up to defend the peace (Rhee) line and break up the Korean-Japan talks."

The line refers to one laid down by former President Syngman Rhee that prevented Japanese fishermen from fishing in waters well out from South Korea's shores. An agreement to abrogate this line was signed recently by South Korea and Japan.

After the rally, Yun, who is led the marchers out of the stadium escorted by young party members. As the long procession neared the main street, 1,000 yards from the stadium, a human wedge of about 100 helmeted policemen cut off the leading demonstrators.

In the melee, scores of teenage youths, mostly nonstudents, climbed onto a railroad overpass and attacked police with rocks. Street battles erupted along a mile-long section of the street paralleling the railroad tracks.

ATTACK POLICE

Near the rally site, mobs attacked another police booth, held it for 15 minutes, and threw files, desks and chairs into the street, where they were burned. The crowds were scattered by tear gas.

In all, police fired about 100 tear gas shells before the demonstrators dispersed shortly before nightfall.

West Texas Farmlands Still Waiting On Rains

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Drying fields in the eastern half of Texas permitted farmers to plant during the week, John Hutchison, director of the Agricultural Extension Service, said.

Albany Slates Fandangle

Albany, Texas is little more than a village nestled among the hills that border some of the finest ranchland in Texas, yet from this town of 2,174 people comes one of Texas' best known tourist attractions — the Fort Griffin Fandangle.

Fandangle dates for 1965 are June 18-19, 24-25-26. The parade, which is not a parade in the usual sense, but a show in itself, will be staged June 24. Customarily thousands of people flock to Albany on parade day for it, too, is an epic presentation of frontier life. The vehicles are all horse drawn, and the floats are all designed, executed, and peopled by the same Albanyites who are solely responsible for the night time show.

The Fort Griffin Fandangle was first written, directed and produced in 1938. It was conceived by Robert Nail, a playwright whose family roots are deep in Shackelford County history. The first show was such a success that it was repeated again and again until it became a tradition. Every year's performance had a different theme — the River, the Pioneer Woman, the Old Time Cowboy, the Texas Rancher.

The Fandangle combines wild western and ballet, fantasy and realism, laughter and solemnity, fiction and fact, with only one aim — entertainment for spectators and performers alike. Music and script are original and based upon the lives of the pioneer people of old Fort Griffin and the wild buffalo-hide town of Griffin which lay along the banks of the Clear Fork of the Brazos River. It tells of the wanderer and the families who came to stay. It is a story told in song and dance, narration and drama.

Reporting at midweek, the director said farmers and ranchers are waiting for overdue rains in the west and northwest.

Spotted, generally light rains fell in the South Plains and Panhandle later in the week, but there was no relief to speak of.

Ranges improved in favored areas. Livestock also looks better, the director said.

Moisture was short over the Panhandle. Wheat is approaching a critical stage and must have general rain soon. Some acreages of sugar beets, potatoes and onions were being planted.

MOISTURE SHORT
Moisture in all the South Plains is short. Irrigation was heavy. Irrigated wheat is in good condition.

Rain ranging from showers up to 1.50 inches fell over the Rolling Plains but didn't relieve the shortage. Grain mites and greenbugs are causing damage. Grain sorghum planting has started.

Conditions in North Central Texas are excellent. A high percentage of the sorghum and corn is now planted and some is up to a good stand. Livestock feeding has about stopped.

PLANT MELONS
Spring changed the appearance of Northeast Texas. Corn, vegetables and watermelons are being planted. Wet fields are causing some delays. Bloat and horn flies caused concern among stockmen.

Far West Texas needs general rains. Ranges were greening up where moisture was available. Grain is heading and some cotton has been planted. Very good lamb and calf crops have been reported. The shearing of sheep and goats is in full swing.

Moisture is getting short in West Central Texas and pastures and grains especially need rain. Sorghum and some hay crops have been seeded. Fruit prospects are excellent. Sheep and goats are grazing well on pastures. A heavy movement of milk lambs moved to a strong market.

Fields in much of Central Texas are too wet to work but some planting is being done. Grains need rain. Pastures are above average.

RAIN ADEQUATE
East Texas rain is fully adequate to surplus. Pastures improved. Oats and clovers grew well. Corn and cotton are being planted as weather permits.

Work increased in Southeast Texas. Some cotton is up to a stand. Most corn and sorghum has been planted. Moisture generally is adequate.

In South Central Texas, corn, cotton and sorghum planting was near completion. Ranges were improving. Flax is rapidly maturing.

Moisture is short in the Lower Rio Grande Valley but generally adequate in other parts of the South Texas District. Heavy rains and some hail in the Coastal Bend caused some damage to cotton and made replanting necessary. The vegetable harvest is on, melon growth is good and pastures improving. Labor is short.

CAPT. A. J. GRILL

Capt. Grill Leaves Webb For San Antonio Post

Captain Alan J. Grill, chief of officer training of the 3561st Student Squadron at Webb AFB, is being assigned to duties at Headquarters, Air Training Command, at Randolph Field.

He is leaving Monday for his new post. Mrs. Grill and the children will remain in quarters at 46-B Chanute until the end of the current school term.

Capt. Grill is winding up a second tour at Webb. He was a student pilot here and won his wings in 1956, then was returned here in 1962.

He has been prominently identified in many base and community activities. He served on the Public Relations Committee of the Base-Community Council; as vice president, Webb Federal Credit Union board of directors; president, Flying Tumbleweed Toastmasters; and was a primary figure in the recent reorganization of the Talon Toastmaster Club. He has actively participated on the weekly television show, "Your Air Force and You" and has spoken to a number of local service clubs. Capt. Grill won both the area and district level competitions in the Toastmasters Honorary Speech contest in 1964 with his speech "Anguish Language."

He is married to the former Claire Jean Kale, Minneapolis, Minn. The Grills have two boys and two girls: David Alan, 9, Derek John, 2, Christy Kale, 5, and Kelly Claire, 6.

Foreman To Speak To GOP Barbecue

Ed Foreman of Odessa, former congressional representative from the 16th District of Texas, will be featured speaker at a Republican-sponsored affair here Friday evening.

ED FOREMAN

There will be a barbecue dinner served at the City Park beginning at 7 p.m., and Foreman is scheduled to talk at 8 o'clock, following his remarks with a question-and-answer period.

Howard County Republicans are inviting all interested persons to attend the meeting. Tickets for the dinner are being offered at $1 each, and may be had at Wright's Prescription Center, or by calling AM 3-2376, AM 4-2991 or AM 4-8276.

In case of inclement weather, the dinner will be moved to the Howard County Fair building.

Foreman was born and raised on a farm near Portales, N. M. Upon graduation from high school, he worked his way through college at New Mexico State University and graduated with honors as a civil engineer.

After college, he worked in the West Texas oil fields as a roughneck and roustabout, and later worked as a sales engineer for a small manufacturing company he helped start. He was inducted into the military service and after active duty in the U. S. Navy, returned to Odessa and entered the drilling fluids business. As the business expanded, he branched out into other businesses. At the age of 26, Foreman was serving as an officer in three successful, and growing, corporations that he had started and helped build. He was named the Outstanding Young Man of Odessa in 1966. He was named one of the Five Outstanding Young Men in Texas, and in 1964, was honored by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of the Ten Outstanding Young Men in America.

Honors presented to Foreman during his service in Congress were "Watchdog of the Treasury Award" by the National Associated Businessmen, Inc., for his 100 per cent economy record for the 88th Congress and recognition by the Americans for Constitutional Action for his consistent voting to uphold the Constitution of the United States.

He and Mrs. Foreman have two children, Kirk, 8, and Rebecca, 5. Mrs. Foreman will accompany him here Friday.

Kiwanis Club Began With 51 Members

Big Spring Kiwanis Club passed its 36th birthday last Friday. The club's anniversary matches the 50th year that Kiwanis International has been in existence.

The Kiwanis Club in Big Spring started operations with 51 members on its rolls April 16, 1929 — the date the club's application for a charter was endorsed by the international organization.

Today, one of the original 51 charter members is still in the club, five others still live in Big Spring, and five more are residents of other communities in the state and nation.

CHARTER MEMBER

The one charter member of Kiwanis still at his place at each Thursday noon meeting is Nat Shick. Shick, formerly postmaster of Big Spring, is still a most active member. He has an unmatched record of 23 years perfect attendance at the club luncheons. This record is far ahead of any other local Kiwanian's score.

Other charter members who still live here are R. V. Middleton, bank official; W. E.

Ezell, druggist; James Little, attorney-at-law; L. W. Croft, lumber yard manager; V. T. Anderson, operator of a music store.

Other charter members still around are James Lewis Webb, who in 1929 was an automobile dealer, lives in Silverton; Wendell Bedcheck, former editor of the Daily Herald, now in Austin; L. Roy Carter, formerly in the gent's furnishing business, now living in Garden City; George Gentry, in 1929 principal of a Big Spring school, now resident of Baytown; and J. B. Whisenant, a valuation engineer in 1929, now resident of Long Beach, Calif.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT USES BIG GUN IN ITS MODERN WAR ON EROSION

Highway Crews Sodding Embankments On IS 20

You take 1,000 gallons of water. Add 400 pounds of liquid fertilizer and 40 pounds of assorted grass seeds (six varieties). Put the mixture into a special king-sized motorized spray gun and spread it evenly over an acre of federal highway embankment.

Next, get 1½ tons of prairie hay and a mess of emulsified asphalt. Load the hay on another special machine which is pulled by a big truck.

As you slowly drive past the embankments on which you have sprayed the grass seed, fertilizer and water, you shove bales of hay into the maw of this special machine. It chops the hay up into a fine dust and blends it with the asphalt.

A "gun" which swings from side to side, projects the mixture of hay and asphalt on top of the areas planted with the grass seed.

The hay-asphalt coat is a mulch, designed to hold the seed, fertilizer and incidental moisture until the seeds can sprout and come up.

This is the process now being pursued by the Texas Highway Department maintenance division on all of the embankments along IS 2 bypass north of town.

Officials said there are 75 acres of embankment to be treated and, Thursday, about half of the job had been done.

The plan has been tried in other areas and worked well, it was reported. When the banks have been sodded, erosion can be controlled. With no grass, rains and wind play havoc with the work.

While not too many rains have fallen on the bypass since it was opened, erosion has been a major problem and involves constant repair work.

The maintenance department hopes the present treatment will be the permanent answer. Once grass is established, the Highway Department officials said, the wasting away of banks can be controlled.

The powdered hay and asphalt coats the normally reddish slopes of the bypass with a greenish-gray coating which contrasts sharply with the surrounding soil.

40 PRESIDENTS

There have been 40 presidents of the club in its 36 years. Only one has served two terms. He is Harvey Clay, still an active member of the club, who was president in 1933 and again 23 years later, in 1956. Some of the presidents resigned before their terms expired which accounts for the excess number of presiding officers above the year the club has existed.

Kiwanis Club organization came about through the activity of Nat Shick, Garland Woodward, an attorney, and J. L. Webb, an automobile dealer. Meetings were held for several years in the basement of the First Methodist Church. The meetings then shifted to the Crawford Hotel, and in more recent years, to the Settles.

The installing club was Lubbock.

Shick recalls the first major project that Kiwanis undertook in Big Spring was a plan for a city park. Shick proposed the present City Park site. A committee, composed of Shick, Dr. Dillard and Vernon Smith, then city manager, was named to investigate. They recommended the site be selected. Mayor J. B. Pickle endorsed the plan and in a short time the work of developing the park was underway.

"As soon as the underbrush was removed," Shick recalls, "we built a wading pool for the

Airman Arrested For Burglary

A Webb AFB airman, Charles Edward Harris, 30, was released on $1,500 bond after burglary charges were filed against him Friday with Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter.

Harris was arrested by police here in connection with a break-in reported earlier this week of the Bigg's Liquor Store on Northwest Third, in which some wine and liquor were reported taken. Two other men were arrested and charged with burglary earlier in connection with the break-in.

Howard County Deputy Sheriff A. G. Mitchell and Big Spring detectives joined in the investigation. Harris was arrested Friday by Detective Jack Jones.

Deadline Nears To File Homestead Exemptions

Deadline for claiming homestead exemptions expires May 1. Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, county tax assessor, pointed out Saturday.

The taxpayer who claims his homestead exemption saves 42 cents for each $100 of his county assessed property value. A homeowner, for example, with a home which has an actual value of $15,000, which would mean the county valuation is $3,000 for tax purposes, would save $12.60. Homes and homesteads of less assessed value would rate less savings.

Mrs. LeFevre said that most homeowners remember to claim their homestead exemption. Many do so when they render their taxes.

The maximum value for exemption from state tax on either rural or urban property is $3,000. A rural homestead cannot exceed 200 acres in area. An urban homestead is property within a city, village or town occupied by the taxpayer as his residence.

In order to claim an exemption under the law, the taxpayer must have lived on the property rendered for the current year or prior to this year.

Mrs. LeFevre suggested all property owners who have failed to claim their homestead exemptions contact her office before the deadline, May 1. It takes only a few seconds to file the claim.

No exemptions can be claimed after May 1.

Yanks Use Big Bats To Fell Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Roger Maris and Mickey Mangle hit two-run homers Saturday night and the New York Yankees executed five double plays in a 5-2 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

pitchers' battle between the Athletics' Orlando Pena and the Yankees' Al Downing when he hit a 440-foot smash with Bobby Richardson aboard in the sixth.

Maris' homer cleared both the inner fence in right field, plus an outer wall that sits atop a 40-foot embankment. Only seven balls have been hit over the outer wall.

Mantle added to the Yankee lead when he homered against John Wyatt with Maris aboard in the eighth. John Blanchard wrapped up the Yankee scoring with a solo homer in the ninth.

BIG BEAR'S ERA IS AT HAND

Nicklaus Still Finds It Difficult To Smile

By WILL GRIMSLEY Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — "It's easy for some people to smile — it just comes natural to them," Jack Nicklaus said. "For me, it's a project. Must be my face or something, but I have to bring new muscles into motion when I smile."

trating or don't want to win as much as the next man." People are going to have to get used to Jack Nicklaus. Barring accident or injury, he threatens to dominate golf for the next 10 or 15 years. We are embarking on the Nicklaus era. In amassing the greatest collection of national and international championships ever won by a golfer of his age, the 25-year-old Golden Bear has had a hard time selling himself to the fans — but he's winning the fight.

Two Tournaments Ahead

Two tournaments have been planned for the immediate future by the Big Spring Country Club, four members of which are pictured as they gathered for a chinless in the clubhouse Saturday. A partnership tournament takes place at the course next Sunday while the

Nichols, Yancey Tied For Lead At Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Bobby Nichols, the 1964 PGA champion, birdied three back nine holes Saturday for a third round four-under-par 67 and a tie with young Bert Yancey after 54 holes in the $55,000 Houston Golf Classic.

Two strokes off the pace at 71-66-88-205 was Don January, Dallas, Tex., pro. Tied at 206 were Billy Martindale, who shared the 36-hole lead with Yancey, and Bruce Devlin, the Australian who set a record 63 for Sharpstown in a Wednesday pro-am preliminary.

Yancey, who held or shared the lead through two rounds, dropped even with Nichols by going one over on the 17th green. Nichols missed taking the lead when birdie putts of 3 and 20 feet stopped short on the last two holes.

The third round lead changed five times before Yancey went on a back nine rampage that put him in front on No. 11 and kept him there until the bogey on No. 17 dropped him into the tie.

Celtics, Lakers Come To Grips

BOSTON (AP) — The old pro Boston Celtics turn their unsurpassed defensive talents on the Elgin Baylor-less Los Angeles Lakers Sunday in quest of a seventh straight National Basketball Association title.

They were to meet them. The Eastern Division series was really the one for the championship. "We'll show up," offered the Lakers' Fred Schaus. "We're ready for the Celtics. We already proved by beating Baltimore in six games how wrong people were who said we'd fall on our faces after losing Baylor."

The second game is at Boston Garden Monday night before the rivals move to Laker territory for Wednesday and Friday dates.

Baylors was hurt in the Western Division playoff opener and underwent knee surgery.

Phillies Edge Dodgers, 3-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Johnny Callison's two-run inside-the-park homer in the sixth inning carried Philadelphia to a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles Saturday night and continued the Phillies jinx over Dodger right-hander Don Drysdale.

Left-hander Chris Short got the victory for a 2-0 record but needed relief help from Jack Baldschun in the ninth after the Dodgers put men on second and third with one out.

Baldschun walked Wally Moon, then got Dick Tracewski to tap back to the mound for a force at the plate. The ace reliever wrapped it up by getting Maury Wills to hit into a force out.

Drysdale, 1-1, departed for a pinch hitter in the seventh. He has lost his last eight games against Philadelphia.

Cubs Tounce Braves, 9-4

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rookie Glenn Beckert, George Altman and Doug Clemens each collected three hits in a 16-hit Chicago attack that carried the Cubs to a 9-4 victory over Milwaukee Saturday.

A crowd of only 3,382 was on hand in 38-degree weather. The game got under way after a bright sun melted an overnight snowfall which blanketed the field.

The numbing cold made fielding difficult and seven errors were committed, four by the Braves. In addition, there were two hit batsmen, a wild pitch and a passed ball.

Besides the heavy hitting by the Cubs' trio, Ron Santo contributed his third homer for Chicago in support of right-hander Cal Koonce.

Cards Blank Cincy, 8-0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Big Bob Gibson, the St. Louis Cardinals' World Series pitching hero, hurled an eight-hit shutout Saturday night against Cincinnati as the Cards' posted their first 1965 baseball victory, 8-0.

Gibson, who beat the New York Yankees in the final game of the 1964 World Series, struck out 11 while his mates collected nine hits.

The Cardinals, who lost three games and played a tie with Chicago took out their frustration on four Red pitchers. Gibson retired 10 straight Cincinnati batters from the third through the sixth innings.

Duncan To Slaton

SLATON, Tex. (AP) — Doug Duncan has resigned as head football coach at Wilson to become track coach and assistant grid coach at Slaton High School. He is a graduate of Texas Tech. Duncan was an assistant coach at Ralls before going to Wilson.

Bronte Is Golf Champ In 67-B

BRONTE — Bronte won the strict 67-B golf title here Saturday and the right to compete in the Region VI Class B tournament in Big Spring April 23. Making up the regional team will be Bob Bell, Gerald Parkers, Ronnie Sims, Brian Richards and Douglas McCutchen.

Shot Put Record Shaded By Randy

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Texas A&M's Randy Matson threw 65-10 1/4 for a meet record but missed his own world's shot put record, New Mexico's Clarence Robinson smashed two meet marks and Kent Floerke of Kansas State set a meet javelin mark of 266-5 1/4 in the 40th Kansas Relays Saturday.

These were the top efforts in a two-day harvest of eight records in the university-college class. Southern Illinois, led by Gary Carr's 46.3 anchor quarter mile, won the mile relay in a near record 3:09.2. Carr held off Nebraska's Dave Crook, who ran 45.5 from far back.

Ray Snyder Wins Pool Tournament

Ray (Shorty) Snyder defeated Roscoe Cone in two straight games Saturday to win the Elks Pool Tournament. Snyder beat Del Kirby, Jim Morris and Dick Egan to reach the finals. Cone downed R. E. Conn, Ken Sanit and J. H. Littlejohn to oppose Snyder. A total of 32 players, all members of the Elks, participated in the tournament played over four weeks. Consolation play has not been completed.

Shot Put Fatal

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Daniel Veliz, 15, of Laredo was killed instantly Saturday when he was struck on the head by a 12-pound shot at a track meet.

Nichols, one stroke behind anted 36-hole, birdied the first green with a 15-foot putt and got another at No. 5 with a three-footer. His lone bogey came on the ninth green when he hit a bunker and two-putted from 15 feet. His back nine birdies included putts of 10, 15 and 1 foot.

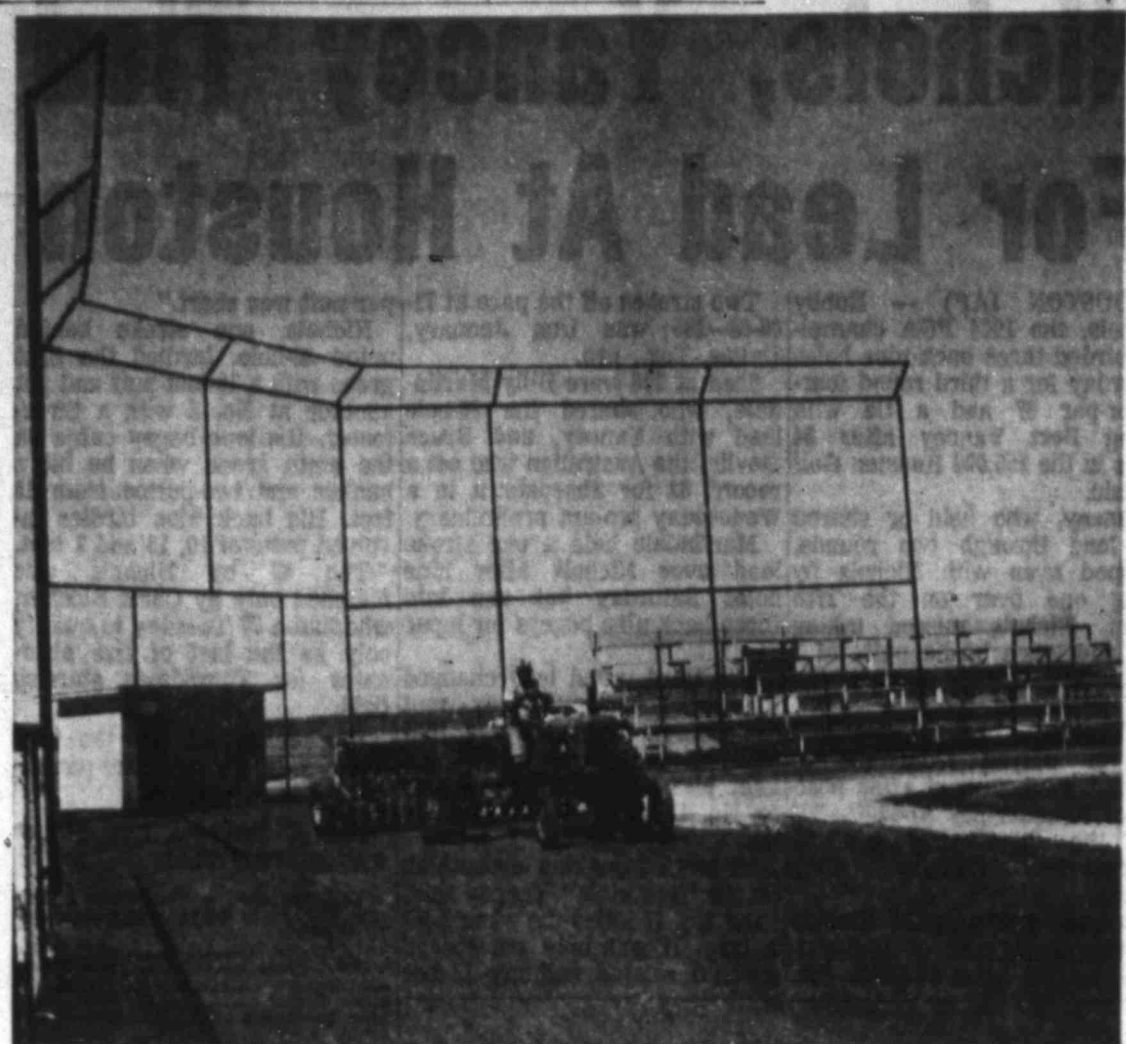

The 67 by Nichols was matched only by Chris Blocker, who had a 77 Tuesday to qualify only as the last of five alternates for Thursday's starting field.

Soph Park Nearly Ready

The new Teen-Age Soph League baseball park, being built immediately south of the City Cemetery, will be ready for use by the 7-8ths as large as the Hi-Junior park next door to it and will be the best lighted diamond in the city. The stadium has been built largely with volunteer labor and through donations. John Stone is the man aboard the tractor.

Corsairs Turn Back Astros In 10 Heats

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roberto Clemente singled home the winning run in the 10th inning, giving the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 victory over the Houston Astros Saturday.

Headliners Due

HOUSTON (AP) — Dennis Raistor, the nation's top ranked player, and Roy Emerson of Australia, the world's No. 1 netter, head the list of entries in the River Oaks Invitational Tennis Tournament opening Monday.

Foyt's Car Is Entered In Indianapolis Event

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The list of entries for the 1965 Indianapolis 500-mile race grew to 68 Saturday.

The car in which A.J. Foyt won both the 500 and the U.S. Auto Club championship last year was among five entered at the last minute for this year's May 31 speed classic.

marked before Thursday midnight. Two more last-minute entry forms arrived Saturday morning at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway office.

Norm Hall of Los Angeles entered an Offenhauser roadster owned by Pope-Hal Enterprises, Inc., and named himself driver.

The other entry was from Ernest Ruiz of Modesto, Calif., a Traveler Trailer School, another rear-engine offy. No driver was named.

Juan Marichal Blanks Mets By 4-0 Tab

NEW YORK (AP) — Right-hander Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants pitched a four-hitter for his 10th straight victory over the New York Mets Saturday 4-0.

A crowd of 34,945 at Shea Stadium saw the Giants pound out 12 hits against a parade of Mets pitchers— rookie Tom Parsons, who went six innings in losing; Larry Bearnarth, Dennis Riblant and Jim Bethke.

Marichal struck out six men in subduing the National League tail-enders after the Mets got two hits in the first inning and one in the second. The fireballing Marichal did not allow another hit until Johnny Lewis singled with two out in the ninth.

The Giants ace has never lost to the Mets.

Malone Star In Sox Win

BOSTON (AP) — Frank Malone drove in four runs, including a deciding bases-loaded single off Steve Barber in the eighth inning, as Boston outlasted Baltimore 12-9 Saturday in the Red Sox home opener.

The touted Orioles' bullpen fell apart — Hank Bauer used eight pitchers and Boston capitalized on wildness to nail down the verdict in the nationally televised marathon. Tony Conigliaro's sacrifice fly and Felix Mantilla's single wrapped it up after Malone put Boston ahead and triggered a four-run eighth inning.

Pinch hitter Charlie Lau ripped relief ace Dick Radatz's pitch for a 450-foot, eighth-inning home run which pulled the Orioles into an 8-8 tie.

Region VI-B Meet Starts Thursday

Top athletes from 10 West Texas Class B districts will conclude at 5 p.m. Saturday. All games will be played in Jayhawk Gym.

Verdell Turner is the director of the track and field meet, which starts with preliminaries at 10 a.m. Saturday. Finals in the field events begin at 2 p.m. while the running events begin at 3 p.m.

The first two places in each event will qualify for the state meet. Contestants tied in the pole vault and high jump must draw for the two positions immediately upon the conclusion of these events. In the shot, discus and broad jump, all contestants will get four tries and the best six will get two additional tries.

Track, field qualifiers: 400-yard relay — Eden, 48.2; Rachelle, Buena Vista, 6.7; Grandtella; Baltimore, 46.0; Marathons: Trent, 47.1; Divide; Merzton, 48.2; Miles; Bronte, 44.5; Garden City; Klondike, 46.5; Sonda; Tolpa, 46.5; Novice.

SANDLOT BASEBALL TEAM MAY BE FORMED HERE AT 4 TODAY

A meeting will be held on the HCJC campus at 4 o'clock this afternoon, at which time interest in a sandlot baseball team will be gauged.

If enough enthusiasm is shown for the team, a Big Spring club will be organized. Jim Baum, former professional player and now news announcer for a local radio station, is heading up the campaign to form the team.

Baum said Friday that the nucleus is here to organize a strong team. He also said a local business man had volunteered to purchase bats and balls for the team.

No trouble is anticipated booking games for the proposed club, Baum stated, since most nearby communities already have teams.

A workout might even be held today, if enough players show up in playing togs.

Big Spring has not had a team of this type for several years.

Jim Kaat Hurls Twins To Win

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jim Kaat pitched a seven-hitter for the first Minnesota shutout of the season Saturday as the Twins blanked the Cleveland Indians 3-0.

Outfielder Bob Allison swatted his first home run of the season for the Twins, a 385-foot blast in the fourth inning.

Minnesota jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Sollo Versalles doubled off Indian starter Dick Donovan and after Rich Rollins and Tony Oliva grounded out, Harmon Killebrew singled to left, scoring Versalles.

Cater singled to center with one out in the 10th and raced to third when Ron Hansen doubled down the right field line. Berry's line single brought him home.

The victory went to reliever Ed Fisher with Mike McCormick taking the loss.

Rookie Bruce Howard started for the White Sox and Phil Ortega for the Senators. The teams were tied 1-1 when both left in the ninth inning.

Pickings Slim For Big Run

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Six of the last eight Kentucky Derby winners prepared for the big one at Keeneland, but there is some feeling here this year that the pickings are slim.

There are fewer than normal Derby eligibles on the Keeneland grounds and some horsemen think only one, or perhaps two, will make it even to the Derby starting gate.

Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Lucky Debonair is the leading Derby candidate at the Lexington track, but the Vertex colt lost at seven furlongs Thursday to Derby Dan Farm's Bugler.

Neither Bugler nor his stablemate, Country Friend, is likely to start in the Derby, however — Bugler because he couldn't go the distance and Country Friend because he hasn't yet shown the needed class.

Also on the Keeneland grounds are Earl Allen's Swift Ruler, winner of the Arkansas Derby; E. P. Taylor's Victory Myth and Mrs. Moody Jolley's Adsum.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Better Unsaid

By TOMMY HART

In a recent track and field meet, the starter — who might have been making a stab at humor or who could have been trying to ease the tension — approached Big Spring's Joe Jaure and said: "If you make any more false starts, I'll tell Gov. Wallace (of Alabama) on you" . . .

BOBBY BAKER

In these days of racial unrest, the remark was not in good taste . . . Jaure is a credit to Big Spring and District 2-AAAA athletics, a reputable citizen on and off the playing field . . . Bernie Moore, commissioner of the Southeastern Conference, indicates he expects that league to dwindle to nine teams but did not indicate which schools he thought would pull out besides Tulane . . . Such an alignment would permit the league to adopt a round-robin schedule . . . The manner in which some writers from the New York and Chicago areas reacted to the flaws found in Houston's Domes Stadium, one would think they wanted the $31 million arena to turn out to be a lemon, but then some of those head-hunters do a notorious disservice to athletics in general . . . Coach Adolph Rupp of Kentucky a few years ago told a colony of New York scribes they had done everything possible to get rid of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants, ruin collegiate football and even then were trying to make the metropolitan athletic setup completely sterile . . . Only two pitchers in all of big league history have given up as many as 400 home runs and they are still active today — Warren Spahn and Robin Roberts . . . Abilene High now holds seven of the District 2-AAAA track and field records, compared to three for San Angelo, two for Abilene Cooper and one each for Big Spring and Odessa Permian . . . If the North coaches will supply Coahoma's Eddie McHugh with some outside blocking in this summer's All-Star football game at Dallas, the Bulldog ace will show the fans the type of ball-carrying they rarely are privileged to see.

Three of the 994 horses who have started in the Kentucky Derbies run to date didn't even have names when they went to the post . . . The feat of Big Spring's Bobby Baker in winning the high hurdles event in the recent District 2-AAAA track and field meet was unusual, when one considers the fact that Bobby missed about a month of the season due to illness and injuries . . . Baker will return for another season of competition in 1966 . . . James Cash, the 6-7 Terrell Negro, has received basketball offers from 72 colleges, but Leon Black, the University of Texas aide, is among those who reason Leon Smith of Austin Anderson is a better college prospect . . . Smith, who stands 6-4½, visited the HCJC campus recently . . . Terrell and Austin Anderson split two games the past season, after which Terrell went ahead and won the Negro State Championship . . . Terry Dill, the pro golfer who calls Muleshoe home, resided in Sweetwater at one time . . . The new pro football league, named The Continental, provides that the home team will keep all the receipts of the games . . . That American Football League deal, wherein San Diego will yield its franchise to Chicago, is closer to consummation than is generally thought . . . Barron Hilton is supposed to get $6,500,000 for the team from Arthur Allyn, who also owns the Chicago White Sox . . . Barron will turn his attentions toward the Hilton hotel chain . . . The Houston Astros, who drew 188,000 paying customers for their five exhibition games at home, consistently drew crowds of less than 500 in spring training in Florida this spring . . . Andy Reed, who helped Odessa High beat Big Spring in football while running from the fullback position two years ago, has been transferred to tight end at Texas Tech . . . It took Arlington State's Rebels 36 days to get in 20 workouts in spring football drills because of cold and rainy weather.

Watching Baseball Buff Is Great Fun In Mexico

REYNOSA, Mexico (AP)—Attending a baseball game in Mexico is an experience a U.S. resident probably won't forget. It's as much fun to watch the fans as the players.

Mexicans take the contests personally. It's a dull game that doesn't spark at least one fight. High-spirited fans in the right field stands got this season off to a good start at Monterrey by throwing flaming newspapers at each other, heedless of danger to the wooden bleachers, just to have a good time.

The blazing paper barrage started in the fifth inning, and by the sixth the fans were getting more attention than the Cleveland Indians and the Monterrey Sultans.

The game was the first a major league American team had played in Monterrey since 1941, and this undoubtedly caused the fans' great excitement. In Reynosa, on the border just south of McAllen, Tex., a spectator at the season's first exhibition climbed a fence eight feet high and eluded half a dozen policemen to express his displeasure to the public address announcer over a remark the announcer made.

Police saved the announcer from harm. He now keeps his door locked. Nobody was ever sure what angered the fan.

The Reynosa incident occurred during a three-game series between the Los Angeles Angels and their farm club, the Reynosa Broncos.

Despite the hot reception in Monterrey, Ralph Terry, the former Yankee pitcher now with the Indians, said most of his teammates liked playing in Mexico. Terry is from Edinburg, Tex., near the border. "The language is no problem," Terry said. "If you speak English, but talk slowly, you can usually get along."

Gas Sales In Interstate Commerce In Big Muddle

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP) — The Supreme Court will hear arguments late this month in a case that could determine whether many trillions of cubic feet of natural gas ever will be sold in interstate commerce.

In effect it will decide whether producers can avoid the regulatory authority of the Federal Power Commission by selling their leases outright to interstate gas pipeline companies.

Under terms of the lease or "in-place" sales, the pipeline takes over a lease, produces the gas and pipes it to other states for resale.

Producers who sell the leases receive a down payment and the rest of their money spread over 15 to 30 years.

Such transactions were becoming quite popular early in 1963 when the FPC reversed a 1959 ruling and asserted jurisdiction over lease sales.

This move clouded the status of lease purchases involving nearly $1 billion and trillions of cubic feet of gas.

PLANS CANCELLED

It prompted the Humble Oil & Refining Co. to cancel plans for making its vast gas reserves in the King Ranch area of South Texas available for interstate resale.

Less than two months after the 1963 FPC ruling, Humble cancelled plans to sell to a new firm, Monterey Gas Transmission Co. about 6.2 trillion cubic feet of gas from the King Ranch.

Monterey was to have made the purchase on a lease basis and transport more than 700 million cubic feet a day over 30 years for resale to the Columbia Gas system. Columbia and non-affiliated companies were to have delivered the gas to customers in Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, New York, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

The case now before the Supreme Court involves a $134.5 million deal in which Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. obtained gas leases in Louisiana's Rayne Field.

DECISION REVERSED

Rayne gas was involved in the 1959 FPC ruling and the 1963 reversal. The FPC appealed to the Supreme Court after the 5th Circuit Court ruled last August in favor of the producers—Continental Oil Co., Sun Oil Co., M. H. Marr and General Crude Oil Co.

The circuit court held no FPC jurisdiction was involved in the 1959 contract because it called for only production and gathering of gas.

The five producers filed their briefs in Washington last week. Arguments will be heard the week of April 26.

Two weeks after the circuit court's ruling last year in the Rayne case, an FPC examiner dismissed a show cause hearing involving a $97 million lease purchase. Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. obtained it from four Louisiana offshore producers—Continental, Atlantic Refining, Tidewater and Cities Service.

Prior to the FPC reversal, Tennessee made Louisiana lease purchases in excess of $325 million and 2 trillion cubic feet of gas.

Harold Burrow, Tennessee resident, said early in 1961 leasehold transactions offer several advantages to producers.

"First, the producer may get a substantial cash down payment," he said. "Second, operation of the field is no longer the obligation and responsibility of the seller. Third, it is true, the producer escapes regulation, but in order to escape it he has had to sell out . . .

"The buyer gets the gas. It may be the only way he can get it."

540 BARRELS Cabot Finals Sterling Well

Cabot Corp. of Midland has filed a completion gauge on No. 2 Nellie Sellers from the Wolfcamp pay in the Triple M field of Sterling County, 18 miles northwest of Sterling City.

It potential to flow 540 barrels of oil, no gravity reported, from perforations at 6,641.78 feet through a 1/2-inch choke. Gas-oil ratio was 1,190-1 and flowing tubing pressure was 180 pounds.

No stimulation was reported. Location is on the south edge of the field, 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 65, block 17, SPRR survey.

In the second 30 minutes it made 11.60 barrels of oil, 11.02 barrels in the third 30-minute period and 11.60 barrels in the fourth flow period. Reverse recovery was a full string of oil and four barrels of salt water was recovered.

Initial bottomhole flowing pressure was 1,593, increasing to 2,649 pounds, 45-minute initial shutin bottomhole pressure was 3,870 pounds and two-hour and 45-minute final shutin pressure was 3,864 pounds.

Heavily oil and gas-cut mud and oil was recovered and gas surfaced on three drillstem tests between 10,398 and 10,509 feet. Another check was conducted for 45 minutes at 10,688-710 feet with gas to surface in two minutes at a volume too small to measure.

Recovery was 10,260 feet to 39-gravity oil and 90 feet of very heavily oil and gas-cut drilling mud. Total recovery was listed as approximately 80 barrels of oil. Bottomhole flowing pressure ranged from 3,035 to 2,815 pounds, 45-minute initial and final shutin bottomhole pressures were 4,077 pounds.

The prospect drilled ahead to 10,987 feet and set 5/8-inch casing at 10,866 feet, plugged back to 10,954 feet and perforated 10,938-48 feet to begin testing for a discovery completion.

A new wildcat test has been scheduled for Coke County and a Crockett County pool outpost has been staked.

Vandever Petroleum Co. of Tulsa, Okla., will drill No. 1 F. H. Demere as a 5,300-foot probe to an unidentified formation 19 miles southwest of Robert Lee in Coke.

It is three miles northeast of the depleted String (San Angelo) pool and spots 910 feet from south and east lines of section 1, block 2, D&SE survey.

E. W. Wiseman Jr. of Midland and others will drill No. 1-22 Cox as a 1/2-mile southwest outpost to Canyon production in the Ozona, Southwest multipay field of Crockett County.

It is projected to a total depth of 7,200 feet. Location is 20 miles southwest of Ozona, 1,160 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 22, block 2, I&GN survey.

Pauley Petroleum, Inc. of Midland has scheduled drilling to No. 1 Jennings - Federal as a 4,700-foot wildcat in Southeast Eddy County, N. M., 29 miles southeast of Carlsbad.

It is 3 1/2 miles northwest of the 1959 discovery of the one-well Cotton Draw (Brushy Canyon) pool and spots 660 feet from north and east lines of section 20-24-31e.

Rotary Count Down By 12

Twelve units were dropped on the Friday survey of rotary drilling units working in the Permian Basin, compared to the figure last week of 189, according to the count Friday by Reed Roller Bit Co.

This figure—177—also is 14 fewer than the 191 reported for the comparable week in 1964. Pecos County still is first on the list over Lea County, N.M., the traditional leader.

The county-by-county survey, with previous totals in parenthesis, includes:

- Andrews 8, (10); Borden 2, (1); Chaves 9, (8); Coke 1, (2); Crane 6, (4); Crockett 3, (5); DAWSON 6, (6); Ector 7, (9); Eddy 9, (8); Fisher 2, (3); Gaines 7, (9); GLASSCOCK 0, (1); Hockley 7, (6); HOWARD 2, (4); Lamb 1, (1); Lea 21, (23); MARTIN 1, (1); Midland 2, (2); MITCHELL 1, (1); Nolan 1, (1); Pecos 28, (27); Reagan 1, (2); Reeves 5, (1); Roosevelt 5, (5); Runnels 0, (1); Schleicher 4, (4); Scurry 1, (1); STERLING 2, (3); Stonewall 1, (3); Terrell 2, (2); Terry 1, (1); Tom Green 1, (1); Upton 4, (3); Ward 10, (13); Winkler 11, (8); Yoakum 7, (8); Total 177, (189).

Tollett To Attend Directors Meeting

R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, plans to attend a meeting of the American Petroleum Institute board of directors in Tulsa, Okla. Friday. He will be in Tulsa Thursday evening for a dinner which precedes the mid-year meeting of the API directorate.

Andrews Will Celebrate Billionth Barrel Of Oil

Andrews largest civic celebration since 1960 is slated next month when Andrews County produces its billionth barrel of oil.

Andrews, the state's leading oil producing county since 1936, will celebrate the fete May 24-25 with thousands of out-of-town visitors expected.

Andrews is the third county in the state to produce its billionth barrel of crude. The production of the golden barrel has taken 36 years.

FIRST WELL

The first oil well in the county was drilled in 1929 and it was a gusher. The well, the C. E. Odgen No. 1, is still plumping in the Fuhrman-Mascho field, six miles west of the Andrews city limits.

The actual production of the billionth barrel is set for the afternoon of May 25. An oil company computer in Houston established the production date after it digested data on the county's production and allowable.

Top state and national governmental dignitaries have been invited to attend. Also top oil company executives have been mailed invitations.

An array of activities and meetings are scheduled during the two days and more are expected.

The project is under a citizen's committee headed by Johnny E. Smith, local car dealer and civic leader. Ten working committees are in operation, planning and coordinating events of the celebration.

MAJOR ROLE

Playing a major role in the event is the Andrews Chamber of Commerce. Special assistance is coming from the Andrews Jaycees.

The Jaycees are sponsoring a Fly-in Breakfast on Sunday before the celebration begins. Jaycees will also man a sand-dig where residents and visitors can dig in the sand for valuable cash and merchandise prizes.

Numerous tours of local facilities, including the $3 million high school, are scheduled for visitors. A parade on the second day will include area high school bands who will compete for marching trophies.

A barbecue on the second day is a highlight of the event. Persons instrumental in producing the billionth barrel of crude will be recognized.

Oil equipment and other exhibits will be on display around the courthouse. Several state historical markers will be placed in the county during the event.

Two of the most important markers will be placed on the first oil well and billionth barrel which is tentatively set to be placed on the courthouse lawn.

OIL QUEEN

Andrews will crown the oil queen during the event. Several social events are scheduled for visitors including receptions for men, teas and style shows for women, and dances.

One committee is available to assist persons or groups who wish a meeting or conference room. The midyear meeting of the Permian Basin Petroleum Institute will be held during the event.

ROBERT J. DERBY
Derby Named To OIC Policy Group

DALLAS—Robert J. Derby, vice president - administration, Texaco Inc., Houston, has been named to the nine-member policy group of the Oil Information Committee of Texas Midcontinent Oil & Gas Association.

State OIC chairman J. A. Horner, Houston, president of Shell Pipe Line Corp., said Derby would serve on OIC's policy-level Operating Committee, and assume the chairmanship of the Community Program, which is a major phase of the Texas oil and gas industry's public information and service program.

Holes Drilled In '64 Total 35,965 Miles

The total depth drilled in the United States during 1964 in the search for oil and gas was almost 190 million feet, or 35,965 miles, Oil Facts reports.

Deep Well Drilling Increased In 1964

DALLAS—An upsurge in Texas activity and the continuing boom offshore from Louisiana pushed the U. S. deep well total to another all time high mark during 1964.

Operators spent a record $201,200,000 drilling 308 deep holes last year, according to Petroleum Engineer's 20th Annual Deep Well Survey. This compares with 271 costing $188,600,000 cut in 1963 and 254 costing $168,800,000 in 1962.

Deep hole footage last year soared to 5,116,000 feet, also a record, up from 4,400,000 in 1963 and 1962. The 308 wells last year were drilled by 55 operators, five more than were in the expensive deep drilling play the year before.

Petroleum Engineer defines a deep well as one which is drilled to 15,000 feet or deeper.

1964 DEEP WELLS

Average depth (308 wells), 16,610 feet. Average cost per well ($39.33 per foot) $653,256. Average mud cost per well, $95,507. Bits per well (326 ft. per bit) 51. Success ratio (308 wells) 49 per cent. Wildcat success ratio (141 wells) 28 per cent. Development success ratio (167 wells) 66 per cent.

Last year deep well operators paid less per foot of hole drilled, drilled deeper and enjoyed a success ratio unmatched in any other phase of drilling. The glittering 28 per cent success ratio in 1964 deep well wildcatting (compared with 18.7 per cent in 1963) paves the way for another big wave of development drilling in 1965. The success ratio on development work in 1964 soared to 66 per cent but even this was only a shade better than the 62.8 per cent marked up in 1963.

Last year's 308 total swelled to 2,336 the all time total number of holes drilled to 15,000 feet or deeper. Of these, 1,205 were finished as producers, not necessarily in the 15,000-plus class but certainly far below the industry pay depth average.

Compared with 1963 figures, there was improvement shown all along the line. The wildcatting successes last year have prompted conservative observers to predict a really big year in 1965 deep hole work. The 18.7 per cent ratio in 1963 set up the big and highly successful rush in development work last year.

SOME LANDMARKS

Deep drillers established some landmarks last year. Utah and Pennsylvania joined the deep hole column for the first time, pushing to 14 the number of states which have wells on record drilled to 15,000 feet or more. Both the Utah and Pennsylvania holes were dry, but indications are these two states will see more such activity in the future.

Forest Oil Corp. broke the world's record depth production mark at a deep Delaware Basin wildcat in Pecos County, far West Texas, about 18 miles west of the Gomez field. The Forest discovery, No. 1 Charles J. Walker, flowed gas condensate from open hole section below the liner at 21,763-793 feet.

Texaco Inc. is credited with establishing a new oil depth production mark at its No. 5-43 Lake Barre unit in the Lake Barre field of Terrebonne Parish, South Louisiana. The well was finished in August last year for 365 barrels daily from 20,547-598 feet. Hole had been taken to 20,630 feet.

Texas' 100 per cent gain figured substantially in the overall national increase last year. South Louisiana continued as the undisputed deep drilling empire. Contributing heavily here was the offshore boom which is expected to ride through another 10 years or longer.

Louisiana drew 236 of the 308 U.S. deep holes last year, only four more than 1963, but the closest rival state, Texas, had only 50, against 25 in 1963.

PRETTIED UP FOR THE PARADE is Melody Lee Dabney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dabney, 2202 Alabama. The pink ruffled skirt and white eyelet bodice of her charming Easter costume have caught the eye of Peter Cottontail and his friend, Chicken Little. The simple symbols of childhood are old as storybooks — yet ever new to the oldest of innocent children.

A JOYFUL SOUND is that of children's voices singing hymns of praise. Today the children of Mardes Clayton, Gail, and the late Mrs. Clayton, were in their accustomed places at church as the Easter service began. Singing in devotion for the day are Marty, 12, Nora Anne, 9, Carol, 10 and Theresa, 8.

The New Life...

It's the season of newness; the world is a-bloom again, bright green has replaced drab brown; as another year expresses its youth, so do youth express the new life; and so does the day—Easter—express the completely new life created through Christ's Resurrection. It's a day of worship, and also a day to take note of the newness of the year, and the freshness of things around us.

A BIRD IN HAND is almost more happiness than a girl can bear, and Stacey Hudson, 21 months, holds her breath with excitement. Her brother, Ricky, shows more restraint in examining the prize he's caught and wonders if Mother will let him keep the yellow duckling. The youngsters are children of Lt. and Mrs. James L. Hudson Jr., 13-B Albrook.

BEING BUDDIES WITH A BUNNY is a small benefit of the Easter season enjoyed by Brian Dorchester, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Dorchester, 1740 Purdue. Brian boasts a new Madras jacket which he wore when he and his sister, Diana, 6, viewed the baby rabbits raised by the Harvey Coffmans.

MRS. H. W. PEVETO, WARREN RAY BURKE AND MRS. JIM BURKE

H. W. Peveto Family Active In Business

By ELAINE CLARK
Silver spurs and one of the first Winchester rifles made accent the massive fireplace in the home of a busy interesting family, the H. W. Pevetos, who live at 1212 W. 18th. Their home, purchased while still under construction, features exposed beams, rich polished woods and warm, vibrant tones of golds and browns.

The Pevetos, having moved here from Kermit, will own and operate the Spanish Main Restaurant, which will be open for business the last part of May. He is still commuting to Kermit where they are proprietors of Jack's Little Mexico. Before going into the restaurant business, Peveto was with Shell Oil Company and she was associated with the Hobbs, N.M., public schools.

The Peveto children, John, 20, and their daughter, Donna, and her husband, Jim Burke, all plan to participate in the restaurant. Peveto will be supervisor and Mrs. Peveto will take care of the office.

The favorite interest, hobby and pastime of the family is the new grandson, Warren Ray Burke, three months old. His grandfather calls him the "prate of the Spanish Main." Peveto, known as "Uncle Pete," caters to children. "He loves all children, and is never irritated or impatient with them, so you can imagine how much he enjoys this grandson," Mrs. Peveto said.

John is partner in the P and P Raceway. This is a new slot car race track on East Third Street. An accomplished craftsman and enthusiastic hobbyist, he designs, builds and flies model airplanes, and is vice president of the "Dope Dodgers."

"The garage is always overflowing with his latest project," his mother said.

Mrs. Pevetos' interest and talent in interior decorating and design is obvious in the gracious furnishings throughout the home. She designed and made the bedspread and draperies of the master bedroom in rich embossed black silk accented with white tassels secured by gold buttons.

She proudly displayed several oil paintings done by her brother, Jack Smith, of Monahans. "I feel a special interest in his talent, because I sent his first oils to him when he was in the Philippines during World War II," she explained.

Mrs. Peveto is enjoying living here near her mother, Mrs. Glotha Smith. "We're just one big happy family," she laughed.

Both are so busy working and getting their new business started that they have very little time for outside activities or clubs, but are active members of the Church of Christ.

Bride-Elect

Miss Sherrie Lynn Ward of Amarillo is the bride-elect of Melvin Ray Murphree, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Murphree, 807 Willa. Miss Ward is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ward, Amarillo. A June wedding is planned.

Honoree For Gift Affair

Mrs. David Maberry was honored with a stork shower Friday evening in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Company. Hostesses for the complimentary affair were Mrs. Tommy Jordan, Mrs. Jimmy Dalton, Mrs. Joe Bond, Mrs. John Paul Amos, Mrs. Bobby Mears, Mrs. Jimmy Madry, Mrs. Don McCown and Deane Mansfield.

The honoree was presented a corsage of white carnations accented with ribbons and net in pink and blue. The same colors were used in decorations on the refreshment table, featuring baskets of spring flowers.

Fifty guests called between the hours of 7 and 9 p.m.

1905 Hyperions Hear Sea Resources Study

Mrs. Chris Watson presented the program, "Resources of the Sea," to the 1905 Hyperion Club when it met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. C. Pickle, 415 Hillside.

She pointed out that the ocean is an inexhaustible self-replenishing storehouse of most of the basic materials that a modern economy needs. The production of plant matter equals the growth of all the crop lands, meadows and forests, and the community of animals easily outweighs all the creatures that live on the land. She told that men have already lived for a month on the ocean bottom and performed hard physical labor for six hours each day outside of their living quarters.

A display of seaweed, shells, coral and other things taken from the sea was shown by Mrs. Watson.

Mrs. W. T. Barber presided at the short business session attended by 17 members.

A memorial tribute was worded for Mrs. J. A. Coffey and the group agreed to place a book in the Howard County Library in her honor.

A linen cutwork cloth, set with a massive arrangement of antique flowers, accented the refreshment table. A miniature Easter tree was hung with Easter baskets, flowers and birds attached to the limbs with satin ribbons.

The next meeting will be May 20 at the Big Spring Country Club. This luncheon meeting will be the last event of the current year and will be for the installation of officers.

Wedding Vows Unite Couple In Andrews

Miss Neva Jean Jackson became the bride of Ronald Dale Green in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Al C. Locke in the First Baptist Church in Andrews Friday afternoon. Rev. Locke is minister of the Lake Worth Baptist Church, Fort Worth.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jackson, 1318 NW 13th, Andrews, formerly Knott residents. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Green 1003 NE 5th, Andrews.

Candelabra trimmed with emerald fern encircled the altar, forming a background for baskets of yellow roses and white stock. The aisle, laid with a white cloth, was lighted with tall white tapers.

Traditional wedding music was played on the organ by Miss Frances Cooper. Miss Kay Grissom, pianist, accompanied Mrs. Darrell Jackson, sister-in-law of the bride, as she sang, "Whither Thou Goest," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

FORMAL GOWN

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown that she designed and made of white silk peau de soie. It featured a softly rounded neck and long tapered sleeves that came to a point at the wrists. Alencon lace motifs encrusted with crystal beads and seed pearls were applied on the empire bodice and front panels of the skirt. Two large back pleats in the skirt flowed into a court-length train. The shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and crystals.

The bridal bouquet of white roses and gardenias was carried atop a white Bible.

The traditional something borrowed was the veil, from Mrs. Roy Spikes; the something blue, a blue garter, a gift from Nell Lewis, sister of the bridegroom and the something new was the wedding dress. She wore a penny in her shoe for good luck. Attendants of the bride were:

MRS. RONALD DALE GREEN

Miss Judy Roman, maid of honor; Miss Karen Jackson, sister of the bride and Mrs. Gene Purcell, bridesmaids. They wore lemon yellow peau de soie street-length dresses styled along the lines of the bridal gown, with bell-shaped skirts. Their ensembles were accented with white gloves, head pieces of yellow flowers and short veils and patent shoes. They carried bouquets of yellow roses and gardenias.

Serving as best man was Harold Burns. Groomsmen were Brownie Lee Underwood and Jimmy Lewis. Glen Rhodes and James Potter served as ushers.

Miss Carolyn Owens, Big Spring, registered guests at the reception held in the fellowship hall of the church. Members of the houseparty, who assisted as hostesses, were Mrs. Pat Grigg, Big Spring; Mrs. Howard Liner, Slaton; Mrs. Eugene Coleman, Midland; Mrs. Bruce Parker, Knott and Miss Jean Smith, Snyder.

BRIDE'S TABLE

The bride's table, covered with yellow linen, was centered with a bouquet of yellow roses and a tiered wedding cake accented with yellow roses and sugar-crowned bells, and a miniature bride and groom. Appointments were in crystal and silver.

Guests and relatives attended from Odessa, Midland, Big Spring, Knott, Colorado City, and Seminole.

For the wedding trip, to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore an olive green silk suit with a printed silk blouse and bone accessories. Her corsage was taken from the bridal bouquet.

After the wedding trip the couple will reside in Sour Lake.

The bride holds a degree in home economics from Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, and is now employed as a teacher in the Hardin-Jefferson Independent School District.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Andrews High School and

Gethsemane Story Told For Guild

The Biblical account of Gethsemane was told by Miss Edith Gay for the Wesleyan Service Guild at the Monday meeting in First Methodist Church. Her talk was entitled, "It Is My Son."

Mrs. Floyd Martin, president, conducted the meeting and led the opening prayer.

It was reported that the theme for the annual meeting in Stamford March 20-21 was "What is the Gospel?" Accounts of the conference were given by those who attended.

Mrs. M. R. Turner, nominating committee chairman, read the proposed slate of officers and it was accepted. The new slate will be installed May 10.

Mrs. Carl Bradley was accompanied by Miss Roberta Gay at the piano as she sang Mozart's "Alleluja."

The worship center was formed of a white cross decorated with Easter lilies which was a gift from Miss Marie McDonald.

Hostesses were Miss Twila Lomax, Mrs. J. E. Kuykendal and Mrs. Morris Gay.

Two Re-Instated At BPO Does Meeting

Mrs. Taylor Anderson and Mrs. L. D. Cobb were reinstated as members of the BPO Does at the Wednesday evening meeting in the Elks Lodge.

Mrs. L. B. Conway was installed as outer guard, and Mrs. Curtis Arnold was named senior counselor. Mrs. Anderson was selected as a two-year trustee. Reports were heard from four members who attended the Texas West meeting in Hereford March 27-28. Those from the local drove who attended were Mrs. A. D. Jenkins, Mrs.

Arnold, Mrs. Bill Rogers and Mrs. L. D. Jenkins.

A report from the card committee was given by Mrs. Kathleen Williams, and Mrs. Glen Gale's name was called for the attendance prize.

Mrs. A. D. Jenkins, presiding officer, requested that Mrs. Gale serve as secretary at the meeting and announced that the Elks will sponsor an Easter egg hunt Sunday. The event will begin at 2 p.m. at the new building site on US 87 south. Families attending are to bring a salad or some other dish for the meal after the egg hunt.

Refreshments were served by the president.

MRS. GRANT EUGENE GILES

Miss Bonnie Belda Weds Grant E. Giles

Miss Bonnie Belda became the bride of Grant Eugene Giles in a candlelight ceremony held at 7 o'clock Friday evening in St. Andrews Methodist Church, San Antonio.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. E. Mack before an altar graced with urns of white Majestic daisies, stock, snapdragons and white irises. Candelabra banked with greenery flanked the massive arrangements, and bouquets of white stock and irises marked the pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Volmer J. Belda, 13000 Sayre, San Fernando, Calif., and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Giles, 505 Waxwing Circle, San Antonio.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Jean White, organist, who accompanied Mrs. E. Moore as she sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

SILK ORGANZA
The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. Her formal white wedding gown of silk organza was fashioned with a sheath skirt and overskirt of Chantilly lace matching that applied in bands encircling the skirt. The lace bodice featured a scalloped neckline and fitted sleeves ending in petal points over the hands. The sleeves and back of the gown fastened with rows of tiny self buttons. Her nylon puff veil fell from a pearl-encrusted crown.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white orchids accented with stephanotis and ivy and showered with satin streamers.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Diane Belda, a student at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles. Her pale yellow dress was fashioned with a lace bodice and sheath skirt of chiffon over silk. The neckline was similar to the bride's, and the dress had brief cap sleeves and a satin band encircling the waist and caught in the back with a bow. Her matching satin headpiece was a large bow accented with yellow netting, and she carried a cascade of yellow

MISS WINIFRED GREENLEES

Engagement Told At Morning Coffee

The engagement and approaching marriage of Winifred Bolling Greenlees and Lt. Robert Kneller Wagner was announced Saturday morning during a coffee honoring the bride-elect.

Hostesses for the complimentary affair were Mrs. Bernard Rains, 2503 Cindy, and the honoree's mother, Mrs. W. E. Greenlees. Miss Greenlees is the daughter of the late William E. Greenlees, and parents of her fiancé are Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wagner of Rome, N.Y. and the late Mrs. Alice Wagner of San Francisco, Calif.

The couple plans to be married Aug. 7 in the chapel at Webb Air Force Base. As she greeted guests, Miss Greenlees wore a black skirt with white shell top and low hip belt of polka dot fabric. Her accessories were of black patent and her corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Greenlees chose a yellow knit two-piece suit and beige carnations. A white hemp sheath was the attire of Mrs. Rains, whose corsage was of pink carnations.

In the dining area, the polished register table was graced with an arrangement of pink snapdragons and blue Dutch irises. Mrs. Jerry Hewett presided at the guest book.

The buffet table was covered with white linen and centered with a gold and white compote arranged with white Dutch irises and leather leaf fern. China appointments were used with the silver coffee service and white napkins were inscribed with the couple's names and the wedding date.

Mrs. Rains presented the bride-elect with a green linen tablecloth and a set of green

Let Color Schemes Be Highly Personal

Color schemes are highly personal and only your own taste can guide you. Don't forget the hot sun and harsh light.

A cool color scheme with subtle shadings will diminish glare. Brilliant colors can be used as accents. Dead white is usually too stark for the Southwest. Off-whites are preferable. Muted shades wear well.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dunn, Odessa, formerly of Forsan, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Wilma Nancy, to Donald Grant, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Grant of Odessa. The couple were married April 3 in Mexico, and will reside at 992 Wink in Odessa. The bride is a niece of Mrs. J. P. Kubecka of Forsan.

Event Honors Bride-Elect

Miss Linda Bristow, bride-elect of Herman Lee Wright, was honored with a gift tea Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Jim Hodnett, Vincent. Hostesses for the complimentary affair were Mrs. Claude Hodnett, Mrs. Vernon Wolf, Mrs. Ben Kelley, Mrs. Jack Wolf, Mrs. Fat Harding, Mrs. Hap Wilson, Mrs. Terrell Shafer, Mrs. Elmo Dunn, Mrs. La Roy Shafer and Mrs. Jack Dunn.

The honoree and her mother, Mrs. J. V. Bristow, greeted guests, assisted by her sisters, Mrs. Roosevelt Shaw and Mrs. Woody Caffey, Big Spring.

Miss Bristow's red silk dress was accented by a white carnation corsage, a gift from the hostesses. Mothers of the prospective bride and bridegroom were presented corsages also.

Mrs. Shafer registered guests in a bride's book, a gift from Jeninne Hodnett. The registry table was highlighted with an Easter egg tree arrangement that carried out the bride-elect's colors of red and white.

The refreshment table was laid with a white cut-work cloth centered with a large red picture hat, filled with flowers and eggs. White milk glass and crystal punch service was enhanced by red candles. Jeninne Hodnett and Judy Kelley assisted at the refreshment table.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. J. Roy Hanes, Ira; Mrs. J. H. Burrow, Ackerly; Linda Stephan, Hereford; Mrs. Bethel Starn and Mrs. Carolyn Cunningham.

Methodist Women Host United Church Council

May 7 was set as fellowship day when the United Council of Church Women met in the Wesley Methodist Church Friday morning.

Mrs. W. N. Norred, chairman of the May Fellowship day announced that the First Presbyterian Church will be hosts for a coffee at 9:30 a.m. An executive meeting will be held following the coffee. Members were asked to hold prayer services and coffees in their neighborhood during the week.

Mrs. G. C. Graves opened the meeting and Mrs. Joe B. Johnson gave the devotion. Mrs. W. D. Lovelace made a motion to give $5 to the Mrs. Dorothy McCleod love fund for her 17 years of service in the council.

The nominating committee named were Mrs. Don Wiley, Mrs. Shine Phillips and Mrs. J. B. Hollis.

Members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Wesley Methodist Church were in charge of the Easter egg hunt held at West Side recreation center. Eight churches furnished eggs for the event.

Mrs. W. B. Martin of the First Christian Church reported on the game parties held at the Big Spring State Hospital. Prizes for these occasions are furnished by friends and families of the patients.

Mrs. Mira Beavans from Warren, Ind., was welcomed as a guest.

Music Group Hears Students

Sixth grade students of Mrs. Benjamin F. Meacham at Marcy Elementary School presented one part of the program heard Wednesday by the Big Spring Music Study Club. The women met in the home of Mrs. C. M. Marcum, 1506 Dayton, with Mrs. John Arnold as cohostess.

The students were dressed in costumes of foreign countries as they sang a group of folk songs including "Cherry Blossom Song," "The Birch Tree" and "Vreneli."

Mrs. Arnold led the opening hymn, "All Glory, Laud and Honor," and Mrs. Fred Beckham was the program leader.

An Italian folk song, "Santa Lucia," was a duet by Mrs. Harroll Jones and Mrs. David Shaw.

Mrs. Robert Heinze presided as new officers were elected. The slate includes Mrs. L. L. Beauvais, president; Mrs. Charles Bell, first vice president; Mrs. Arnold, second vice president; Mrs. Delnor Poss, recording secretary; Mrs. J. L. Christianson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Shaw, treasurer; Mrs. Heinze, parliamentarian, and Mrs. Gerald Terreau, reporter-historian.

The group will be installed during ceremonies at a luncheon May 8 at Holiday Inn. At that time, the guest speaker will be Mrs. J. S. Knauer, Midland, president of the 12th district of the Texas Federation of Music Clubs.

Mrs. Heinze and Mrs. H. M. Jarratt reported on this month's state convention in Odessa, and tentative plans were made for the observance of National Music Week May 2-9. Mrs. Jarratt was named chairman for the special activities, and serving with her are Mrs. Rene Brown, Mrs. Beauvais and Mrs. Christianson.

Guests included the 18 children who appeared on the program and their parents. They, and 15 members, were served refreshments from a table covered with white linen and centered with an arrangement of spring flowers. Silver tea and punch services were used, and a side table carried out the theme of the season with an Easter arrangement.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

MRS. ROYCE SATTERWHITE is in Los Angeles this Easter morning with her nephew and niece, MR. and MRS. B. N. ELLIS, and their children. She left Midland Tuesday morning for a jet flight to California where she plans to spend two weeks.

Here for the holidays with her mother, MRS. W. A. ALLEN, 1810 Settles, and other relatives, are MRS. ROBERT LEE OWENS, the former Mary Allen, and her three children, Wesley, Gary and Stanley Walker. They plan to return to their home in Victoria Monday.

MAJ. and MRS. H. H. WYATT and Dee Ann of Wichita Falls are here for the weekend with Mrs. Wyatt's parents, MR. and MRS. G. H. HAYWARD.

MRS. LAVERNE TAYLOR is in Fort Worth where she will spend a week with her aunt, MRS. STEVE LOWRY.

From Frankfort, Germany, comes a picture post card with a beautiful likeness of what I think is Hotel Frankfort International. If I could read German I think that is what it would turn out in English. It is from the C. H. DEVANEYS who are there in the interest of agriculture and markets. According to Mrs. DeVaney they have found the people happy, kind and friendly in the countries they have visited and they feel they are doing a lot of good in helping promote trade and create markets for agriculture.

A short note from RAD WARE in Dallas says he has just had another good report from his doctors concerning his eye operation. It hardly seems possible that it has been 19 months since the Wares went back to Dallas for further surgery to correct detached retina on Rad's eyes. He has had four operations on his right eye . . . which is two more than he was given any hope of having. It has been 13 months since his last surgery and they are still in the 'holding our breath' state.

Our travelers are due to return this evening. JP and David accompanied MR. and MRS. MILLER HARRIS to their ranch at Durango, Colo. They left on Thursday. The Harrises plan to move to Colorado this summer.

The Easter outing for the OMAR JONESSES and Jon Taylor was to Garner State Park. They planned to return today.

This has been an especially happy Easter season for MRS. W. W. CRAWFORD, US 80 east, who has her four sisters and a brother here for the weekend. The sisters are MRS. O. C. TRANTHAM of Yucca Valley, Calif.; MRS. V. R. STOVER, Allen; MRS. FRED W. HANER, Dallas; MRS. VIOLA BOWLES, Lubbock. The brother is J. C. DAVIS of Goldsmith. Also here are Mr. Trantham, Mr. Stover, Mr. Haner and Mrs. Davis.

CAPT. and MRS. FRANK CHAFEY and their children, Ricky and Jeanine of El Paso are the houseguests of MR. and MRS. EUGENE TURNER.

MR. and MRS. LOUIS ALEXANDER of Kingsville are visiting in the home of MR. and MRS. CHARLES MILLER. Mrs. Alexander is the former Sherri Webber, a former Herald employe.

MR. and MRS. W. H. BAIN are visiting his parents in Waxahachie.

MR. and MRS. JOHN ULREY and their three daughters of Pasadena, Tex., are here for the holidays with his mother, MRS. R. D. ULREY.

Oklahomans Visit Forsan Families

FORSAN (SC)—Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Jones are their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Grant and family, from McCamey, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Jones and daughter from Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Gandy, Keith and Kevin, are in Ardmore, Okla., visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Gandy.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Boeker, Beth and Louis, are in San Antonio visiting her parents, Chaplain and Mrs. W. L. Cooper.

Mrs. George Abree of Andrews has been a recent visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Howard.

Don Murphy has been released from Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital.

Hats Move To Head

Little hats move closer to the head this season, look soft and smooth in sheers, silks, finely woven straws. Big, sweeping brims cast a romantic shadow across spring.

The theme, "April in Paris," will be highlighted by a booth display of items made in the sewing, knitting, hatmaking and painting groups. Anyone wishing to display handwork should call Mrs. Gary Heartstill before April 21 at AM 3-6334.

This will be my last column for the Officers Wives Club. I have enjoyed getting to know so many of you and I appreciate your cooperation. Starting next week, please call Mrs. Robert Hartzog, AM 3-4631. Happy Easter!

Put Wedding Cake Near Plate

Traditionally, the boxes for the wedding cake are made of white moire or grosgrain paper, embossed in silver with the initial of the bride and groom and tied with white satin ribbon. These boxes are placed near the entrance or at each place on the table for the guests to take with them.

Meet Madame President

Miss Augustina Molina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Molina, 100 NW 4th, is now president of the Altar Society of St. Thomas Catholic Church and is serving for the third time as president of the Junior Presidium Legion of Mary.

Born and reared in Knott, she is one of 12 children. All live in this area except two of her brothers, who make their home in Chicago, and another who is serving in the Navy. The family moved to Big Spring in 1948 and Miss Molina became active in the church societies at Sacred Heart Church. She was president, vice president and treasurer of the Young Ladies Society at that church, but began to attend services at St. Thomas Church when it was reopened. Miss Molina, a soprano, sang in the Sacred Heart choir for 17 years, and has been teaching religion to third grade students for the past eight years. The instruction is given once a week in the church basement.

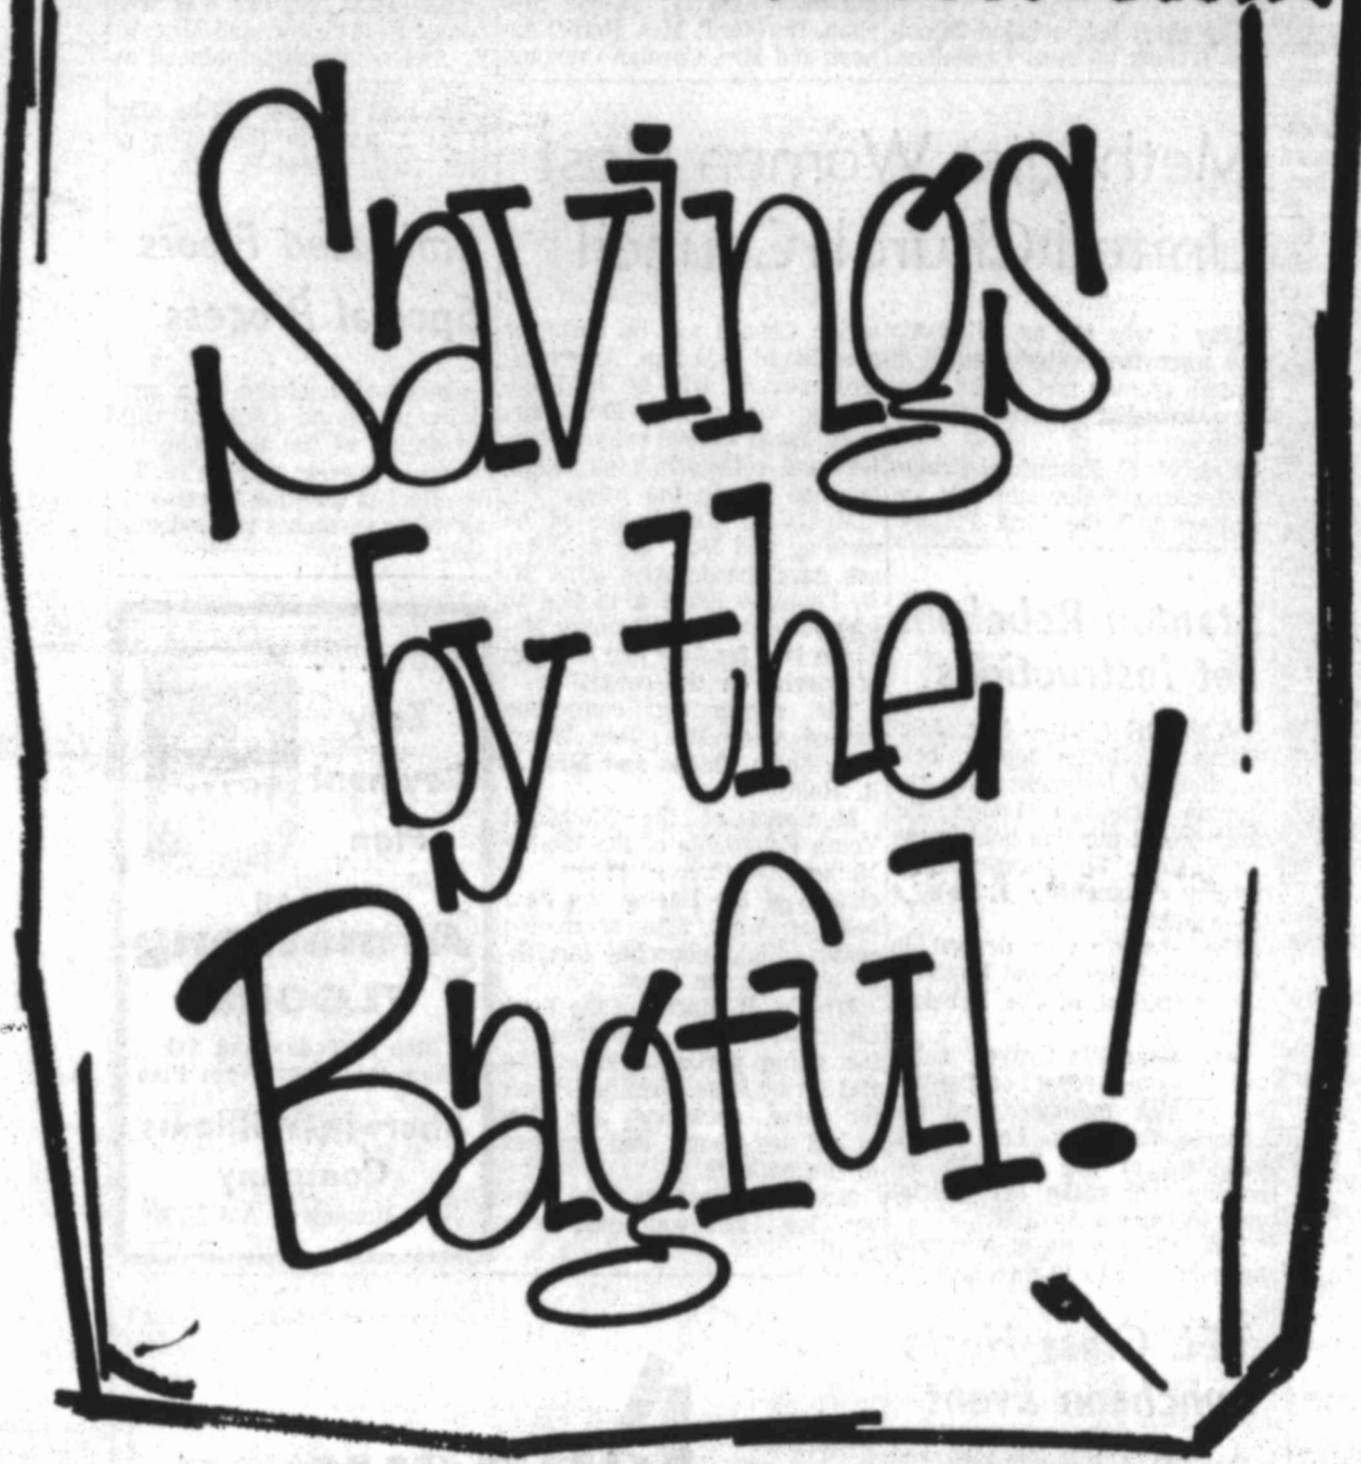

She was general chairman for the Fall Festival at St. Thomas for the past two seasons, and as a member of the Senior Presidium, supervises children in the

Announcement Affair Honors Miss Homan

The Blue Room of Cosden Country Club was the scene Saturday for the announcement of the engagement of Miss Sara Beth Homan and Lt. Jerry Keener Reid. Miss Homan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Homan, 801 Gregg, and Lt. Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Reid, Waynesboro, Va., will be married July 8 in the First Baptist Church.

The bride-elect's mother and her sister, Miss Anne Homan, were hostesses for the complimentary coffee when the plans were revealed. Members of the house party were Miss Katherine Homan, Miss Katherine Hepper, Mrs. H. J. Hepper, Miss Phoebe Rice and Mrs. Benny Wadsworth, Midland.

The honoree was attired in an orange, green and gold print silk sheath with which she used bone accessories. Mrs. Homan's two-piece dress of aqua linen was worn with black patent, and Miss Anne Homan wore a green print pleated skirt and overblouse with white accessories. Corsages worn by the women were formed of miniature Easter eggs backed with ruffled net.

The refreshment table, laid with white linen and appointed with china and silver, was centered with an arrangement of yellow tulips and snapdragons. Napkins used on the table were inscribed with names of the couple and the chosen wedding date. Calling hours were from 10 a.m. until 12 o'clock noon, and the guest list included 60.

Miss Homan is a sophomore student at Texas Tech and her fiancé is a graduate of Georgia Southern University.

Guests from out of town were Mrs. H. C. Doss, Colorado City; Mrs. C. A. Land, Lorraine, the prospective bride's grandmother; Mrs. J. J. Hall and Judy Snyder; and Miss Judy Foster, San Antonio.

The hostesses presented Miss Homan with an engraved bride's book.

Readings from the upcoming Little Theatre of Big Spring production, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," were heard at the Thursday meeting of the 1948 Hyperion Club at Big Spring Country Club.

Mrs. Robert W. Whipkey introduced Mrs. Norman Spencer Jr. who presented seven of the 29 cast members in excerpts from the play. Participating in the readings were Ron Carr, Mrs. John Arnold, Mrs. Robert Tatum, Paul Rogers, Clark Frayser, Hillary Shered and Gloria Gale.

Mrs. Spencer, guest speaker, gave a resume of amateur theater production, tracing it from infancy to the present day. She said it began in Paris as "art theater" and the first amateur production in this country was in 1912 at Chicago, Ill. It was directed by Morris Brown and proved to be encouragement to new playwrights as well as actors.

Mrs. Spencer said that today there are more than 150,000 community theaters in the United States. The Big Spring Civic Theatre had its beginning in 1951 and was responsible for the Easter Pageant for several years.

The organization is now known as the Little Theatre of Big Spring. It has produced five shows this season with "The Man Who Came to Dinner" now in rehearsal. Using a large diagram, Mrs. Spencer explained stage design and briefly presented problems faced in producing a play.

Following the program, Mrs. L. T. King presided for the election of officers. The new president will be Mrs. Whipkey. Serving with her are Mrs. R. F. Polk, vice president; Mrs. Zollie Boykin, recording secretary; Mrs. M. M. Edwards, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Tompkins, treasurer; Mrs. Harold Talbot, parliamentarian; and Mrs. George White, reporter.

Mrs. Jack Irons will be the installing officer at a luncheon May 20 at Big Spring Country Club. Hostesses then will be Mrs. Polk and Mrs. Boykin.

Hostesses for Thursday's meeting, when a dessert course was served, were Mrs. Allen R. Hamilton and Mrs. Talbot.

The thought stressed for the program was "The stage is the dramatist's canvas, the play his palette, and the players his colors."

Gold Star Mothers Host Event

Mrs. Jennie Appleton was a visitor to the salad luncheon meeting held by the Gold Star Mothers Thursday. Mrs. Joe Jacobs, 1605 Lancaster, was hostess for the event.

Mrs. Jacobs was in charge of the meeting, and plans were discussed for the state convention to be held in Dallas April 29-May 1. Mrs. Jerome Lusk and Mrs. Jacobs plan to attend the meetings in the Baker Hotel.

The refreshment table was centered with Easter bunnies, flowers, baskets and chickens.

The next meeting will be a memorial program May 20 at 9:30 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Lusk, 806 W. 18th.

Plans Told

Mr. and Mrs. Berton Mason, Coahoma, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Leitha Carlene, to Darrell Douglas Ernest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Ernest, Rt. 1, T h e Coahoma Methodist Church will be the scene of the wedding June 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Secretaries Week Activity Begins For 14th Observance

"The day is coming when more secretaries will be proud of their work and they will know good reasons why," predicted Mrs. Hazel A. Kellar, CPS, president of the National Secretaries Association (International), in announcing that April 18-24 has been designated as Secretaries Week. This will mark the 14th consecutive year that Secretaries Week has been observed during the last full week in April with Secretaries Day once again to fall on Wednesday.

In honor of all secretaries everywhere, Secretaries Week is co-sponsored by the National Secretaries Association (NSA) and Business Equipment Manufacturers Association (BEMA). The National Secretaries Association is the world's largest organization of business women in one profession with 24,000 members in 552 chapters in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico, and affiliate chapters in Mexico, Panama and Finland.

From Portland, Ore., where she is secretary to a bottling company executive, Mrs. Kellar added to her forecast about the increasing ranks of proud secretaries: "Over the years, we have maintained as our Secretaries Week theme, 'Better Secretaries Mean Better Business,' which we believe underscores the free enterprise system's never-ending search for a better way to produce goods and services.

BETTER JOBS. "In order to become better secretaries we must recognize that actions do, indeed, speak louder than words and quality of performance on the job is what counts. While helpful as reminders of the recognition that secretaryship continues to gain, no amount of Secretaries Week speeches, publicity, posters, nor billboards can, of themselves, accomplish this.

"Unfortunately, for many years, secretaryship has been poorly defined by some business administrators and would-be secretaries themselves. This makes it difficult for those unfamiliar with the true duties of a secretary to assess whether an employee, is, or is not, a real secretary. Consequently, many who are called secretaries are not, and an evaluation of their work within the framework of a secretarial job description results in a low-rated image of an entire profession. To help overcome this difficulty, The National Secretaries Association recently adopted its own definition of a secretary, as follows:

"A secretary shall be defined as an assistant to an executive, possessing mastery of office skills, and ability to assume responsibility without direct supervision, who displays initiative, exercises judgment, and makes decisions within the scope of her authority."

CPS PROGRAM The Certified Professional Secretary program will be spotlighted during Secretaries Week. It provides professional certification to secretaries, whether or not members of NSA, who qualify by passing a six-part, two-day examination.

To show how 3,016 secretaries, including seven men, have already achieved the CPS rating, a 14-minute sound-color film strip, "CPS—Emblem of Excellence," produced and released through NSA, will be available for showing to business groups, secretarial seminars and workshops and schools. The film and other Secretaries Week materials such as posters, table place mats and restaurant table tents are available from local NSA Chapters or from The National Secretaries Association, 1103 Grand, Kansas City, Mo.

Another department of NSA, Future Secretaries Association, which has 146 chapters and approximately 4,000 members, will participate in Secretaries Week activities. The FSA Chapters are sponsored by NSA Chapters to help prospective secretaries in school prepare for business and a secretarial career.

LOCAL EVENTS Local activities for the week will include an informal party Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Camille Patterson, 710 Runnels, and a luncheon Wednesday at the NCO Open Mess at Webb Air Force Base. The latter will be a guest affair. Some of the members will be guests this week for the Rotary Club luncheon, and the observance will end with a "Bosses Night" banquet Saturday evening at Big Spring Country Club.

Theme for the banquet, which will honor the bosses and their wives, will be "Hong Kong Holiday," and the affair will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Smudge Banished With Plastic Tops

Dear Heloise:

My wife was always complaining about how the areas around the knobs on our closet doors were getting soiled from our fingers.

I tried using the plastic tops that now come on most coffee cans. I found that the tops from the one-pound cans are just the right size.

With a nail-set I punched a small hole through the center (incidentally, it is clearly seen due to the molding process) removed the knob and placed the lid, open side toward the door, behind the knob.

These tops are translucent, but when pressed against anything they become quite transparent; thus, whatever color the door may be, it will show through and be a perfect match.

Mr. Gans, this is a terrific idea! And wouldn't they be wonderful to put under the knobs or handles on kitchen cupboards to protect the finish? ... Heloise

Dear Heloise: Every mother with children has heard this ... "Mother, please help me put my skates on." "My skate just came off"

My idea came to me when I had to purchase a pair of skate straps because the original ones were lost.

I bought two pairs of straps, removed the toe clamps on the skates and used one pair on the straps in place of the clamps.

My youngest daughter can now put her skates on by herself. Also, I think the strap will save on her shoes ... for skate

Dear Heloise: My baby outgrew the large size rubber pants when he was five months old.

Instead of having his thighs and tummy red and irritated from too-tight elastic, I bought cloth-covered rubber sheeting and cut it into hour-glass forms.

I cut them large enough to fold over on the sides and bound them with different colored bias tapes.

This is really not necessary as the rubber sheeting does not ravel.

PARKING LOT, LOWER CURBS, BEAUTY CORNERS IN LONG-RANGE PLAN

Downtown Development Agency Near

Big Spring may soon be moving into the action phase on what could be the most extensive downtown development in the city's history.

The time-table is not yet set; some planning still needs to be firmed up; more financing is to be sought; working details have to be determined; some engineering problems are yet to be worked out, but—

What now seems to be on track is a downtown revitalization program that includes, in its major phases:

(1) A free parking lot, paved and lighted, in the heart of the business district.

(2) A changing of grades on Main Street, principally between 2nd and 3rd, to cut down the high curbs.

(3) A beautification of intersections, including new curb work, plantings, and changing of pedestrian crosswalks.

(4) An encouragement of broad-scale remodeling and renovating of private properties.

The whole will be charted into a sort of "master plan" with phases to be developed as money, time and engineering permit. It has been determined that the parking lot—to occupy 125 x 140 foot space at Second and Main, with the old First National Bank building and two smaller buildings immediately to the south of it to be razed—will come first. The re-surfacing of Main Street to elevate the grade and cut down high steps will go along with this. Development of some intersections (along the lines illustrated on this page) will follow.

OTHER SPACES

In the long range are plans to develop other free off-street parking spaces, and to continue with the beautification of walks and intersections.

The whole program represents close cooperation between business interests in the heart of the city, who have created the non-profit Downtown Big Spring Inc., and the city administration, which has worked for months on planning and probing to see what part the city itself can do—with the view of protecting downtown property values which loom large on the tax rolls.

The downtown development actually goes back as far as five years, when the traffic and parking problems—as well as modernization and beautification—were included in the municipal "Master Plan" of City Planning Consultant Marvin Springer.

OFF-STREET PARKING

Springer made strong recommendations that off-street free parking be created in areas around downtown commercial establishments, and designated certain areas for such.

It took an organized entity to attempt to acquire properties for parking, so Downtown Big Spring Inc., was formed, with a score or more business men joining in the original organization. Adolph Swartz was named president, Elmo Wasson vice president and A. J. Prager secretary and treasurer.

The group held many planning sessions, had various consultations with Springer, visited other cities that have embarked on downtown rehabilitation projects. These included Grand Junction, Colo., which has won national honors with its street and sidewalk beautification work; Temple, where off-street parking has been created by private investment plus municipal help; Lubbock, working on a similar project; and Abilene, where development of a downtown block was brought about. There were others, and the local group soon will be looking at Bryan, which has accomplished a great deal in the lowering of high curbs.

BANK PROPERTY

Negotiations to acquire lots designated by Springer for parking were never completed. About that time, the First National Bank moved to its new quarters and the vacated property at Second and Main went on the market.

Planners felt that here could be the nucleus of the off-street parking facilities.

Swartz, who has spear-headed the whole downtown development move almost without an hour's let up, started calling on merchants and owners of property to help build up a fund to purchase needed property.

$132,000 PLEDGED

Today, Swartz and his organization have pledged (to be paid over a five-year period) amounting to $132,000. These are from 44 participants, whose commitments range from $500 to $12,500. Swartz is confident that a great many more people who have property and business establishments in the central area will participate.

The first response was so gratifying that directors of the Downtown Corporation moved to buy the property at the central intersection. Two parcels have already been bought outright—a 25-foot lot from the late Dr. T. M. Collins, and another 25-foot lot from the Harry Hurt Estate.

Further, a firm option has been obtained from First National for its 75-foot property, and title can be transferred whenever Downtown Big Spring Inc. is prepared to act.

TO THE CITY

It is proposed that the entire tract will be transferred to the city, which would create, maintain and oversee the parking lot. The city administration has indicated a willingness to raze the structures and pave the area, add entrance ramps and arrange for lighting.

The city enters into the picture also in the area of street, curb and sidewalk improvements. Considerable engineering has been done on a method to raise the level of Main Street, change parking to head-in, and alter curb levels so that there would be only two six-inch steps to sidewalk level instead of the present steep arrangement. Tentative engineering calls for raising Main Street (between Second and Third in particular) by some two or two and a half feet, and change drainage from curbs to the centerline.

NEW CROSSWALKS

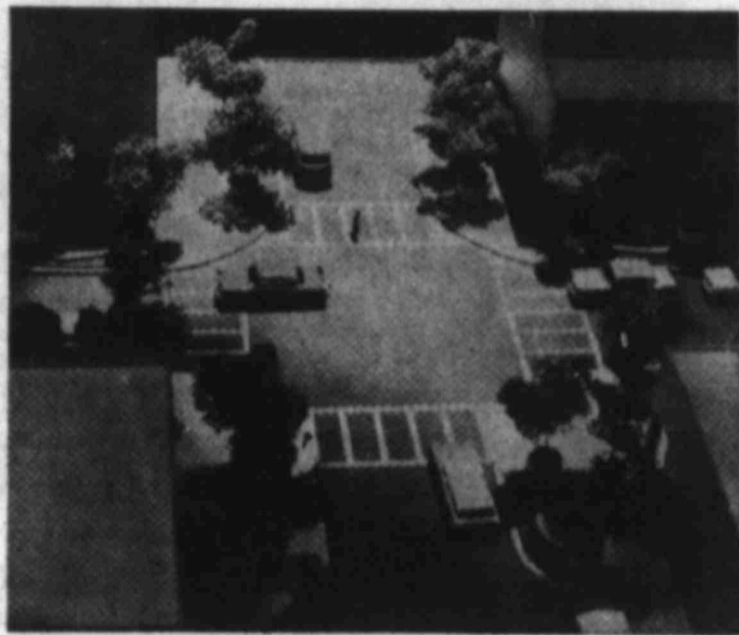

The city is working on creation of new intersection arrangements. This would be brought about principally by extending sidewalk areas out in a circular form, to provide rooms for plantings and benches, and shorten the actual cross-street path of pedestrians. This is a pattern that has been followed

To Become Parking Lot

Downtown Big Spring, Inc. development plans call for razing buildings as outlined above, to provide 125x140 free, paved and lighted parking area to serve central area customers. Space for about 60 cars in envisioned, and use of head-parking on revamped Main Street will make more spaces available. The corporation has purchased tracts from Collins and Hurt interests, has option on First National Bank property. Parking lot would be deeded to city.

Beautified Intersections

This is a designer's conception due to be followed in general at downtown intersections. Corner curbs would be flared out in circular design, space provided for planters and benches, pedestrian paths across actual traffic lane reduced. Property assessment is under consideration for this phase of overall "uplift" of city's central area.

successfully in many cities. This is the area that makes up the "core" of the city, and where, as is obvious, many property vacancies are now existing. Property is deteriorating, too, to the extent that taxing agencies may be faced with equitable adjustments unless new commercial life is breathed into the area.

Street, sidewalk and other improvements will not be limited to the one block, of course. The long-range view is for rehabilitation work from First to Fifth and between Gregg or Scurry to

LONG WAY TO GO

"And that is just what we are trying to do—for the benefit of the entire city," said Swartz. "We have a long way to go, because we, like to many other towns, have waited too long to update an area that was built and first occupied 20, 30 and even 40 years ago."

"But the response and interest have been really amazing. We think interested parties are going to come into this program whole-heartedly. We think we have a real master plan for downtown on the move."

CITY SUPPORT

Working in close support with the downtown organization have been City Manager Larry Crow and Ernest Lillard, director of public works. In their hands now is much of the engineering and financial planning, as far as the municipality can commit itself.

Meanwhile, downtown Big Spring already has made more than casual progress in meeting, principally, some parking problems. Cecil McDonald has opened a new area at Second and Johnson; the city itself is preparing a free parking area (to serve the public as well as auditorium patrons) on Johnson between 3rd and 4th. On this 150-foot tract, there will be room for 66 cars.

Several downtown stores are undergoing remodeling and "face-lifting."

"We're starting," said Swartz. "We have a spirit of willingness now, an atmosphere of cooperation better than it has ever been before. Much work is ahead and it will take a lot of time. But we've started."

Camp Talks Set Tuesday

Big Spring youngsters interested in attending Camp Flaming Arrow, near Hunt, Texas, and their parents have been invited to an information program at the YMCA Tuesday.

The camp director, Gerald Morse, will be at the Y during the day to talk to boys and their parents concerning the camp, which is sponsored by the San Antonio YMCA. Morse will show slides of the camp and its activities at 7 p.m.

The camp is open to boys from the ages of eight to 16 years. Four two-week sessions are planned, from June 20 to Aug. 14.

The activities include swimming, water skiing, boating, canoeing, horsemanship, hiking, crafts, archery, campfire programs and games. In addition to the director, the camp has a number of counselors and is accredited by the American Camping Association. It is a resident camp.

Several Big Spring youngsters have attended the camp in previous summers, Secretary Curtis Mullins said.

Fees are $70.50 per session for Y members and $75.50 for none-members.

These Curbs To Go

The waist-high, steep-step curbs along Main Street are due to go, in an engineering improvement planned in downtown development. Street would be raised, grades changed, so that there would be only a couple of easy steps up to sidewalk level.

DR. P. D. O'BRIEN

Dr. O'Brien To Conduct Revival

SILVER—Dr. P. D. O'Brien, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Big Spring, will be the evangelist for a revival beginning today at the First Baptist Church. The revival will run through April 25.

Choir Members Raising Funds

Fifteen groups, made up of members of the Goliad, Runnels and Senior High School choirs, will cover the city Monday from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. painting house numbers on street curbing.

Grand Jury Has Busy Meet Ahead

Twenty-five defendants and possibly others, will be brought before a special called session of the Howard County Grand Jury Tuesday, Wayne Burns, district attorney, said Saturday.

The grand jurors are: Mrs. F. R. Mays, Raymond Smith, W. J. Sheppard, Lawrence Adkins, H. W. Wright, Charlie Merritt, Mrs. Neil Norred, Mrs. Harold Talbot, J. H. Kountz Jr., Jack K. Dumphy, R. J. Ream and R. W. Currie. This will be their second session of duty.

This is the customary rule for the current term of 118th District Court — the so-called "long" term of the court.

Four of the defendants to face the grand jury are individuals previously indicted for charges of the robbery by assault, but in which the original indictments have been held to be faulty.

The other cases, Burns said, are the accumulated felony complaints which have arisen since the original session of the Howard County Grand Jury some weeks ago.

LEE JUSTICE

Airman Joins Police Force

Appointment of a new patrolman, Lehman Grant Justice, to the Big Spring Police Department has been announced by Police Chief Jay Banks.

The appointment of the new officer was to fill the vacancy created last Monday when Delbert Donovan, a patrolman, left the department.

Justice, 22, is a native of Portsmouth, Ohio, and was stationed at Webb AFB prior to his separation from active duty with the Air Force in March. He is now a member of the Air Force Reserve. During his four years service in the Air Force, he was assigned as an aircraft mechanic.

Justice was an airman first class at the completion of his military duty. He is married and the family lives at 800 Lorilla. The family includes three children, Charles, William and Judith.

jury concern burglaries. Defendants in the burglary complaints are:

Jose Saracho, accused of breaking into the Lalo Zubiate Cafe on April 1; Robert L. Baker, accused of breaking into the Alvin Blakeney Service Station, March 18; Frank Dutchover, accused of breaking into Bauer School March 11; Tony Bustamante, Benjamin DeLeon and Robert DeLeon, accused of breaking into a lounge owned by Zora Harrison April 11; James Leonard McNeil, accused of breaking into the James Manuel Barber Shop on Feb. 9; Norman Doyle McKee, accused of the January, 1965, break-in of the hangar and offices at the Howard County Airport; Cecil Ray Baker, charged with burglarizing the store of Les White on March 24; and Willie R. English and Ernest Henry, burglary of the Bud and Joe Liquor Store.

There are a number of DWI, second offense, complaints to be sent before the grand jury. Defendants in these cases are Odell Campbell, David Keith Collett, John Lettiege, William E. Fawks, and George Spencer Jackson.

OTHERS
Other cases on the docket include: Jerry Barkley, theft by baillee; J. R. McCarter Jr. worthless check; Noel D. Marsalis, perjury.

Anten Rinald, charged with repeater worthless check, is also slated to be taken before the grand jury. He was returned here from Corpus Christi on Friday.

Tour Planned By HS Choir

Forty-five members of the Big Spring High School capella choir, accompanied by three or four sponsors and Mel Ivey, the director, will leave Wednesday at 4 p.m. to make a tour of three Texas cities.

Their first stop will be in Fort Worth where they will spend the night and appear in concert Thursday at 10:50 a.m. The choir will sing on the campus of Texas Wesleyan College. Their next stop will be Denton, where the choir will sing at 11 a.m. Friday at the North Texas State University. The concert will be for the school of music.

Saturday morning, the students leave for Six Flags Over Texas. They are to leave the area at 4 p.m. and will be back home around 10 p.m. Saturday.

Loans Made Under New Poverty Act

L. J. Cappelman, state director of the Farmers Home Administration, announced that 247 loans to individual families have been made in Texas under the provision of the Economic Opportunities Act of 1964, part of the war-on-poverty program.

These loans were made to individual farmers and rural residents in most sections of Texas. A farm family is described as a family who is operating a farm it owns or leases, and is producing at least a portion of its subsistence from crops or livestock. A rural resident is classified as one living in a town of not more than 2,500 population.

Economic Opportunity Loans to farmers may be made to improve their farming operations; to buy more land, livestock, machinery and equipment; to construct needed farm buildings; to pay annual operating expenses for feed, seed, and fertilizer. These loans may be obtained by farm and rural families to finance rural-based, but non-agricultural enterprises. Funds may be used to purchase land, construct buildings, buy and install equipment and pay normal operating expenses of a variety of non-agricultural enterprises such as a farm machinery repair shop; TV and radio repair shop; spraying equipment and tools to be used by painters and carpenters, blacksmith shop, etc. Rural families who need a small amount of capital to improve their incomes may borrow up to $2,500 for 15 years at 4% per cent interest. These loans are secured by a promissory note by the borrower and a loan agreement scheduled in accordance with his ability to repay. There are other phases of the program under which aid is possible, and information may be had from Lee R. Tunnell, county supervisor at 608-C Johnson.

Chevrolet. It's a bigger, more beautiful car this year. Which is why that handsome silhouette could be mistaken for cars costing a thousand—even two thousand—dollars more.
Chevy II. No car so trim looking has a right to be so thrifty. But thrifty it is, with brakes that adjust themselves, a long-lived exhaust system, and lots of other money savers.
Chevelle. This one's got lively looks, spirited power, a softer ride—and a remarkable amount of room atop a highly maneuverable wheelbase. No wonder it's today's favorite mid-size car.
Corvair. Ask any '65 Corvair owner how it feels to drive a car with such easy steering, tenacious traction and responsive rear-engine power. And be prepared to do a lot of listening.

DEAR ABBY

What's Love, What's Not

DEAR ABBY: I have been married twice. My first husband showered me with love, but he seldom worked, and we lived on what I earned, plus borrowed money, for six years. All I got from him were three kids, a stack of bills and more loving than I wanted. My second husband is up there in years. He works hard and doesn't bother me with any loving at all. I am only 28, but I think I am in a position to tell other women that all that love stuff is way overrated, and if I never get any more than a goodnight kiss on the cheek I will be satisfied. You hear and read so much about "love" that I wish you would print this for girls who think they have to have a man.

SATISFIED
DEAR ABBY: You are confusing "love" with sexual fulfillment. Many people live contentedly without the latter—but life is empty and meaningless without "love."

DEAR ABBY: Why are parents considered selfish and inconsiderate when they refuse to burden themselves with debts in order to give an elaborate wedding reception for their daughter?
We have always lived within our means and are willing to give her a reception that will not necessitate floating a loan, but she is not satisfied with the kind of reception we can afford. Her father makes less than $7,000 a year and there are younger children to educate. I would appreciate your views on this.

CONFUSED
DEAR ABBY: Sensible people do not spend more than they can afford on anything. And that includes wedding receptions. You need not apologize to anyone for refusing to go into debt.

DEAR ABBY: Sometime ago you answered a question as to the time and place for women to wear hats. This interested me as I have never felt completely dressed without a hat. I can't understand the women in my church (Baptist) who have nice clothes, but they don't wear hats to church. (Especially our pastor's wife.) I think she should wear a hat. It sort of shows respect. Are you with me?
ONE HAT HATTIE

DEAR HATTIE: Personally, I like to see women under hats in church, but I am quite sure that God couldn't care less—as long as they're there.

Debate Team Is Rated Fifth In State Of Texas

By BONNIE SIMPSON

Howard County Junior Colleges' debate team has done well this year. Gary Kendrick, Don Boyd, and Mr. Martin Landers, sponsor, attended the state meet April 8-9, and were ranked fifth in the state. Odessa won the state title, but in three encounters this year, HCJC has beaten Odessa twice. Out of 40 encounters in 10 tournaments, HCJC has won 30 debates and lost 10 times. During the spring semester, HCJC has been debating against senior members in senior colleges instead of in the junior division. Noteworthy victories include those against Baylor, SMU, Texas Tech, West Texas State, Abilene Christian College, Southeastern Missouri, Southeastern Oklahoma, and Southwest Texas State.

Next year's Student Government Association officers have been elected. Serving as president will be Charles Price; David Berry, vice president; DeLinda Bradford, secretary; and Bill Clements, treasurer. Howard County Junior College was elected state president at the State SGA Convention in San Angelo last weekend.

Iota Beta, HCJC's chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, will be represented at the national convention by Gary Kendrick, president of PTK. The convention is being held at Chicago, Ill., April 27-30. This year at the convention, a constitution revision is slated.

A Phi Theta Kappa meeting was held Wednesday during activity period. Members voted on two honorary members, and to give PTK charters to seven junior colleges in the United States. The bill concerning free tuition for PTK members for their last two years in a senior college was also discussed. Each member is to write a letter to their senator, representative, and governor concerning this bill.

An executive PTK council made up of a list of tentative officers for next year. However, nominations can be made from the floor by members. May 7 is the date set for the election of next year's officers. At the next meeting, April 28, initiation of new members who missed the regular initiation ceremonies will be held.

This coming weekend the Region VI-B Tennis Tournament will be held at HCJC. Members of the junior college tennis team will help with the tournament.

Both the men's and women's tennis teams will play Odessa College at Odessa April 29.

The Women's Recreational Association members will help during the Regional Volleyball Tournament which will be held April 22-24 at HCJC.

Students will return to classes Tuesday after enjoying a short Easter vacation.

Garden City Commencement Ushers Chosen

By LINDA CLEMENTS

Tuesday during homeroom at Garden City, the senior class chose ushers for the commencement exercises. Those chosen were Melva Braden, Lana Short, Walter Taylor, and Alton Hillger.

GARDEN CITY

The Homemaking II class took a field trip Tuesday to Big Spring to visit various stores. Those who made the trip were Paula Hardy, Danna West, Violanda Torres, and sponsor, Mrs. Joyce Bergstrom.

The junior high boys' track team traveled to Silver Wednesday for a district track meet.

The annual staff received the proof for the yearbook Monday. After being checked over for mistakes, it was returned. The final edition should be here on May 5.

Boys Win Third Place

By SUSAN ELROD

Forsan is proud of its track boys because they showed up well in the district track meet, April 10. They placed third in the meet and several of the boys qualified for the regional track meet to be held April 24. Those who qualified are: Douglas Franklin in the broad jump and high jump; David Robertson in the shot put; Ray McKinnon in the mile run; and Bill Seal in the 800-yard dash. The mile relay team consisting of Douglas Franklin, Steve Park, Larry Callihan, and Bill Seal will also go to regional.

FORSAN

The girls' volleyball team will be playing in the Regional Volleyball Tournament at HCJC, next weekend. Their first game will be Friday, at noon.

The choir has been working hard on its spring concert which will be presented Sunday, April 25, in the gym.

The seniors have received their graduation invitations and name plates. This, along with plans for the senior trip, make the approaching graduation seem closer.

Girls Have Style Show

FLOWER GROVE

By BECKY HAGGARD
The homemaking girls at Flower Grove held a style show Tuesday night in the auditorium. The junior and sophomore girls modeled the dresses which they have made for Easter. Brenda Davis, senior and president of the FHA, introduced each girl and gave a description of their dresses. Mrs. Marijo Rawlings is the sponsor.

Students from Flower Grove went to the Interscholastic League contest at Gail Thursday.

The Junior-Senior Banquet has been set for April 24, and will be held at Lamesa. Guests of the juniors will be seniors and their dates, board members and their wives, and teachers and their husbands or wives.

The senior class is planning a volleyball tournament for May 6-8. Everyone is invited to attend. Anyone who would like to enter should get in touch with Mr. Buddy Ables before April 29.

At the district track meet held at HCJC April 6, two Flower Grove boys qualified to compete in the regional track meet to be held at HCJC April 24. Jimmy Hollandsworth won second in the shot put, and Jack Webb placed second in the high jump.

Selected Delegates

LAMESA (SC) — Brenda Meeks and Marilyn Crawley have been selected as delegates to attend Girls State to be held in Austin June 16-25. Carolyn Sanders was selected as alternate. The event will be held at the Texas School for the Blind in Austin. Marilyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Crawley; Brenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Meeks and Mr. and Mrs. John Sanders are the parents of Carolyn.

Plans Made For Powder Puff Game

By JEAN FANNIN
BSHS junior and senior girls are busy training for the Second Annual Powder Puff Football Game to be held this Friday night at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Stadium. At half-time, plans are being made to have the three Big Spring school bands play, and to crown a Football King. Tickets are 75 cents for students and adults, and 50 cents for children under 12.

Tuesday and Wednesday the sophomores and juniors elected Student Council officers and cheerleaders for 1965-1966. Student Council president is Randy French; first vice president, David Holmes; second vice president, Patty Haralson; recording secretary, Janet Jones; and corresponding secretary, Marilee Carr. Cheerleaders are Jackie Crawford, Susie Engle, Sarah Smith, Jackie Cook, and Beverly Peters.

Monday, seniors held a class meeting while sophomores and juniors were at cheerleader tryouts. Class president, Dub McMeans, announced that seniors will take their finals May 20-21. Baccalaureate will be May 23, and graduation ceremonies will be held May 27. Plans are also being made for the Senior Ring Dance and the Senior Assembly. Tuesday the "El Rodeo" staff held a picture sale in the foyer. Prints were sold of all the pictures staff photographers have made for the newspaper and the annual during this past year. Mel Ivey.

Monday night the Drama Department, under the direction of Mr. Dan Shockey, speech teacher, presented "Hamlet" in the auditorium. After the play, a Shakespearean exhibit, under the supervision of Mrs. Catherine Hedges, English teacher, was presented in the library. The choir presented several songs in the manner of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries under the direction of Mr. Mel Ivey.

The money will go for workshop expenses for next year's staff during this coming summer. The high school choir will be in Fort Worth and Dallas this April 23-24. This Saturday the American College Test will be given at HCJC. Several BSHS students will be taking this test. Thursday was Dress-Up Day at BSHS. Thursday afternoon, the Easter Assembly was held in the auditorium. Nancy Thomas gave the invocation, and Larry Fourniquet led the pledge of allegiance. The a cappella choir presented a selection under the direction of choir director, Mel Ivey. Mrs. Lila Brewster, Spanish teacher, spoke to the assembly.

Runnels Holds Easter Assembly

By LYNN PUCKETT
Runnels' Easter assembly was held Thursday during the activity period. The choir and band performed. Mr. Hollis Lloyd presented the devotional, and the prayer was given by Linda Tawater.

The Runnels Junior High School Band performed in concert with Goliad Junior High School Band and the BSHS Band. Runnels' band played "Norwegian Folk Song Suite," "Folk Songs from Somerset," "Slovak Folk Suite," and "The Music Man."

Elections for next year's cheerleaders will soon be held. Those who try out must have a B average and no conduct grade lower than a B. Those who are running for eighth grade cheerleader are Karen Bell, Paula Bauer, Linda Cathey, Roberta Duncan, Jan Hammack, Mary Hedges, Toni Jones, Patti Spier, Jimmie Stiehl, and Sherry Wooley. Those running for ninth grade cheerleader are Pat Billings, Rodynn Bunch, Jan Earhart, Katie Gomez, Sharon Hughey, Vickie Morrow, Judy Pruitt, Janet Richardson, and Kathie Wood.

Plans for the Spring Formal are being discussed by the Student Council. The Spring Formal is planned to be held May 7. The Runnels "Round-Up" members are preparing their last edition of the paper for the school year. This last edition will be a special edition.

Art classes are working on fire prevention posters. A prize will be given for the best poster. Ninth grade students and their parents are asked to begin considering next year's courses. Registration will be held soon. Pink slips will be issued to those faltering in their work next week. The slips are a reminder that the student has 4 1/2 weeks to make up unfinished work and failing grades.

Qualifies For Honor Roll

Nan Elizabeth Cotham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry B. Cotham, 2903 Goliad Street, has qualified for the honor roll at David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn., for the winter quarter.

The honor roll consist of the top 10 per cent of the students based on grades. She is a home economics major.

DISC WINNER ANNOUNCED

Winner of this week's 45 rmp record is Gerald Pearce. Gerald is a senior at Garden City High School, and his address is Box 64, Garden City.

Record winners should come by The Herald office and pick up their certificates as soon as possible.

Lamesa Students Elect Cheerleaders

LAMESA (SC)—Cheerleaders for 1965-66 were chosen recently by the Lamesa High School student body. They are: Linda Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Stephens; Brenda Meeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Meeks; Marilyn Crawley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Crawley; Kathy Crawley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crawley; Susan Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Davie Jones and Jacque Alexander, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Alexander. Miss Marilyn Crawley will be head cheerleader.

Choose New FHA Officers

By LEITHA MASON
The Coahoma FHA met Monday night in the activities room to elect the rest of the FHA officers for next year. Donna Coates was elected last month to serve as president. Others who were elected are Sarah Oakes, first vice president; Donna Duke, second vice president; Terry Edens, third vice president; Charlotte Kinstly, fourth vice president; Karen Gross, secretary; Nadine Honeycutt, treasurer; Rosi Ann King, historian; and Judy Grant, parliamentarian.

Delegates to the state FHA convention were also announced. They are Donna Coates, Sarah Oakes, and Alice Denning. Other business included a vote to give each of these girls $20 from the club treasury. Karen Gross was in charge of the program. Barbara Weaver, Charlotte Kinstly, Olive Caudle and Jeannie Whitley presented a skit on parliamentary procedure. Donna Coates was the narrator.

The senior class will leave Wednesday morning on the senior trip. The class will spend two days on the Mayan Dude Ranch, one day at San Antonio, and one night at Austin. Members will return April 25.

The National Honor Society met Monday during homeroom to read the resignation of the president. Judy Frenza became the president for the remaining part of the year.

The track team was in Abilene last Saturday to attend the District 6-A track meet. The Track team members who placed first or second in any event will go to Lubbock, April 24 to compete in the regional meet.

Eddie McHugh, all-state halfback for the Bulldogs, has been chosen to play in the All-Star game for the North side Aug. 5 in Dallas.

Bill Would Give Free Tuition To JC Grads

A bill of interest to parents and junior college students who plan to go to a senior college is presently before the Texas legislature.

House Bill No. 683 is concerned with the exemption of certain persons from paying tuition at state colleges. The bill states that a student shall be exempt from the payment of tuition if he has completed 60 semester hours at a junior college in this state; ranks scholastically in the upper 10 per cent of the student body; and meets the entrance requirements of the senior college.

He loses his right to exemption by completing two years or six consecutive semesters, not counting summer semesters at the senior college; or by failing to maintain an overall grade average of C-plus or better.

If the bill passes in both houses and goes into effect, the student must supply a record of the number of hours completed and his scholastic rank, certified by the president of the junior college. The registrar must certify the continuing eligibility of each student who has previously received the benefits of this Act.

The bill as it stands has been declared an immediate emergency so that the three readings will be suspended. Persons interested in this bill may write Ed. J. Carpenter, Representative District 78, House Office Building, Austin; David W. Ratliff, Senatorial District 24, Senate Office Building, Austin; and Governor John Connally.

Is Promoted

Keith H. Bristow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Obie Bristow, 554 Hillside Drive, has been promoted to Cadet Corporal at New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell.

High Point FHA Girls Announced

By MARTHA JORDAN

Goliad students this week elected cheerleaders for the school year, 1965-66. Elected as ninth grade cheerleaders were: Elizabeth Moore, Treonne Reagan, Joyce Walker, Jane Thompson, and alternate Suzanne Fisher. Eighth grade cheerleaders chosen were: Anne Talbot, Linda Broadrick, Joyce Lacy, Sherri Arrick, and alternate Denise Estes. Tryouts were held Wednesday first period in the Goliad gym.

The Goliad Band, at the Andrews Festival in Class CCC, received not only "Outstanding Band" awards in concert playing and sight reading, but was also the only band rated First Division in either. Mrs. Russ McKiski has attempted to place the trophy in the trophy case, but true to its large size, alterations must be made in the case.

High point FHA girls for this school year are Martha Jordan and Kay Coppedge. These girls will represent the Goliad FHA at the state FHA meeting to be held in Dallas April 22-24. Frances Wilson was named homemaker of the year and will receive a piece of her silver. Mrs. Fern Alexander and Mrs. Virginia Martin made the award announcement early in the week.

were issued last week and returned on Wednesday. The upcoming election will include Student Council representatives and officer posts. Petitions were also turned in for sophomore representatives. Students will vote for these candidates next week.

An essay contest for ninth grade students, sponsored by the Howard County Heart Association, has been announced. All ninth grade students of Big Spring, Coahoma, and Forsan public schools are eligible to enter. Purpose of the essay contest is to improve community awareness and understanding of the need for preventing and combating heart disease. Students interested in entering may obtain further information from English and health teachers. Entries are limited to 500 words.

This week marks the end of the 4 1/2 week reporting period. Pink slips, an indication of subject failure, will be issued April 26.

"Federally-connected" forms were issued last Wednesday to all students with government-employed parents. All forms should be returned by Tuesday with parents' signatures and correct information.

GOLIAD

Goliad freshmen turned in pre-registration blanks for entrance into Big Spring High School during the week. Mr. Ray Pope, Mr. Harold Bentley and Mr. Wayne Bonner gave information and advice on schedules to the prospective sophomores during English classes on Monday and Wednesday.

Classes were dismissed Thursday at 2:45 p.m. for the Easter holidays. Tomorrow will be another holiday, and school schedules will resume Tuesday morning at the regular time.

Mr. Don Duncan's seventh grade art classes entered 90 posters in this year's fire prevention poster contest, representing 100 per cent participation. Five division winners from Goliad will be announced next week. The winners will enter their posters in the state contest to be held in Austin on April 23. Fifty dollars will be awarded the first prize winner in that contest. Petitions for eighth and ninth grade Student Council positions

EASTER MESSAGE

She's as young as spring-time, as sweet-scented as a lily, beautifully serious with the total dedication of youth. People in church smile as they watch her, and they walk out into the April sunlight feeling better, happier, for having seen her.

They cannot, ever again, be as young as she is, but this doesn't seem to matter. For she is a symbol to them. She represents the wonder of spring when the world becomes new and fresh again, when flowers bloom as if for the first time, and when the Church retells the story of its greatest miracle—Christ's promise of everlasting life.

This, unquestionably, was the greatest promise ever made, and the reminder of it comes at Nature's most perfect season. Be sure that you go to the church of your choice this Easter, so that you may again hear and remember the Easter message in all its glory.

SHE WAS HERE?

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

MARY WORTH

UH—I'D LIKE TO SPEAK WITH YOU, MR. CRAWFORD—IT'S A VERY IMPORTANT MATTER, SIR!

IN THAT CASE, PETER, YOU'D BETTER COME IN AND HAVE A CHAIR!

I—I PREFER TO STAND, SIR!

MR. CRAWFORD, YOUR DAUGHTER AND I ARE IN LOVE!— WE WOULD LIKE YOUR PERMISSION TO—

THE ANSWER IS AN ABSOLUTE, EMPHATIC, UNEQUALVOCAL NO!

REX MORGAN

ARE YOU GOING TO SEE LIZ? SHE'LL DROP THE CHARGES IF YOU DO... SHE SAID SO!

I'VE THOUGHT ABOUT IT... AND I SUPPOSE IT WOULD BE THE THING TO DO!

BUT I'M NOT SURE I CAN APOLOGIZE FOR SOMETHING I HAVEN'T DONE! IT GOES AGAINST MY GRAIN, AND I'M JUST LIABLE TO LOSE MY TEMPER WHICH WOULDN'T HELP!

GOOD OLD LIZ HAS REALLY THROWN THIS HOSPITAL INTO A TIZZY! HERE COMES DR. HARDY... AND HE LOOKS AS THOUGH HE HASN'T A FRIEND LEFT IN THE WORLD!

'GIRL HAPPY'
Elvis Presley and Shelley Fabares

Elvis Socks Away Money In Entertainment Career

When Elvis Presley exploded onto the national scene some 10 years ago, the "wise guys" predicted he'd stick around for six months, give or take a few weeks.

The detractors have long since been forgotten but Elvis' fans have grown in number and loyalty, maintaining him year in and year out as a top seller of motion picture tickets and records.

These two fields, films and recordings, have accounted for a gross of some $300,000,000, about evenly divided between his motion pictures and his RCA Victor sales. This does not include tremendous grosses from packed-house personal appearances or from merchandise sidelines.

"Girl Happy" is Elvis' 18th motion picture, which is quite a mark for a young man originally tabbed as a six-months "flash-in-the-pan." It opens today at the Ritz. He is under contract for four additional pictures at various studios, which will carry him into 1966, and there is a waiting list of offers for him to consider.

Presley's price-tag, plus his loyalty to moviegoers, has kept him from the television screens, except for some of his first movies which are now distributed to TV stations. One of these "Loving You," was aired and outrated the competing Republican National Convention in audience popularity!

No one knows Presley's net worth as a result of his tremendous success in the entertainment world, except the star, his father, Vernon Presley, who handles his son's business from their Memphis headquarters, and the Internal Revenue department. But it can safely be stated that Elvis is one of the richest young men in the world today. Add to this fact his exceptional good looks, winning personality and star status and he has to be listed at or near the top of the world's most eligible bachelor list.

His home, Graceland, on the outskirts of Memphis, is that Tennessee city's No. 1 tourist attraction, and the city council is so cognizant of what Elvis has meant to their community that plans are afoot to name a proposed municipal auditorium after him. Presley also is a heavy contributor to Memphis charities.

But success, financially and as an entertainer, has failed to change Elvis, who still exhibits the shy politeness which flabbergasted Hollywood's extroverted population when he first arrived. He has surrounded himself with personal friends, doesn't mix with the "Hollywood crowd" and spends his time between pictures at home.

English Girls Are Best Dancers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Donn Arden, the international showman who stages the Lido shows in Paris, "Hello America" in Las Vegas Desert Inn and also the Lido show at Las Vegas, says English girls make the best dancers and European girls the best showgirls.

"I hate to downplay my own country but most of my headaches are caused by American girls," says Arden. "They're the ones who miss rehearsals — never the European girls."

Big Business In Used Books

DALLAS (AP) — "When I started in the secondhand book business, I wanted to have the biggest business of this sort anywhere," says Loyd Harper, 64, of Dallas. And that is just about what he has.

Harper's Book Store in the Deep Elm section of downtown Dallas is sandwiched between other second-hand businesses, pawn shops and junk stores. But his customers come from every walk of life and practically all corners of the United States.

"I've had people from several foreign countries stop in when traveling through after hearing about the store," says Harper. "And I get letters from people around the world looking for certain books."

Books of every description, age and condition are stacked on plain wood shelves from floor to ceiling, they are piled in the aisles, on every table, the stairway and attic of the shop.

The dim, dusty disorder could possibly repel a casual customer, but to a true book lover, the kaleidoscopic confusion is little short of Eden.

Here a book-worm can browse for hours, and find any volume from the latest best-seller novel to a tattered, leather-bound, gilt-edged edition of the "Courtship of Miles Standish."

Only a few of the estimated 3 to 400,000 volumes are shelved according to author.

"The shop has been a real education for me," explains Harper. "Many customers not only ask for a book, but tell me the contents and then give me their interpretation of the volume."

Harper, a pleasant fellow with a quick smile and sense of humor, can quickly locate almost any request. If he is very busy, he'll point in a general direction and tell a customer, "You will just have to look."

THE ARTS

Soloist At Church Today

Gary L. Ebersberger, Howard County Junior College, will be the baritone soloist in the presentation of "The Seven Last Words of Christ" by Dubois at the First Methodist Church 11 a.m. service today. Ebersberger was the baritone soloist in the contemporary cantata "The Passion of Christ" at St. Mary's Episcopal Church last Sunday and soloist in J. B. Bach's Cantata No. 4 at the First Methodist Church of Lamesa Friday. He will be the soloist in selections from Handel's "The Messiah" at the First Christian Church at 4:30 p.m. today.

The 15th annual Laguna Gloria Art Museum fiesta at Austin is planned for May 15 and 16, open to interested artists and art patrons. Works may be submitted under classifications of consignment or donation, from out-of-town artists during the days of the fiesta, which will be at 3809 W. 35th St., Austin. The Austin Chapter of the Texas Fine Arts Association is sponsor.

From May 15 to June 27 the 54th annual Texas Fine Arts Association spring jury and membership exhibitions are scheduled at the art museum and at the Hancock Center Town Hall in Austin. Prizes ranging from $25 to $500 will be given for oil paintings, sculpture and watercolors. Entry deadline is May 5.

The annual concert of the Big Spring High School choir is April 26, following the tour to Texas Wesleyan College, Fort Worth, and North Texas State University, Denton, April 21-24.

STAMP NEWS

Germany Announces New Series Of Definitives

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newswriter

The Federal Republic of Germany has added eight new stamps to its current series of definitives, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The series depicts gates, palaces and castles built during the last 700 years. Half of the set is inscribed for use in West Berlin and the other half for the rest of the Republic. The denominations are 10, 15, 20 and 40 pfennigs. Depicted are: the Zwingers "Wallpavilion" in Dresden, Tegel Castle in Berlin, Foyer in Lorsch, Trifels Castle in Pfalz.

The Second 1965 US-BNA Catalog by H. E. Harris is now on the market. Over 2,800 price changes are noted in its 160 pages. There are nearly 2,000 illustrations in the enlarged "Americana" section. Also included are United Nations complete plus a U.S. stamp identifier. Virtually all U.S. issues are included — postage, airmails, postage dues, special delivery, revenues, envelopes, postal cards, Confederate States, etc. British North America and U.S. possessions also appear. It is available for 50 cents from H.E. Harris & Co., Box A, Boston, Mass., 02117 and is postage free.

The Robert Fulton 5-cent commemorative will be issued Aug. 19 with first-day ceremonies in Albany, N. Y. On that day in 1807 Fulton's steamship, Clermont, arrived in Albany after an eventful voyage up the Hudson River. The new stamp will mark the 200th anniversary of the birth of Robert Fulton. He also built the first steam warship in 1815—the year of his death.

Although it is rather in advance, collectors are reminded that first-day cancellations for the Fulton commemorative may be obtained by sending addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Albany, N. Y., 12201. The envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 5 cents Robert Fulton." Requests must be postmarked not later than Aug. 19, 1965.

From Great Britain comes word of various forthcoming issues. There will be a stamp honoring Sir Winston Churchill, although design and dates have not yet been announced. A stamp will honor the International Telecommunications Union. Another will be for the 700th anniversary of the first Parliament. One stamp will commemorate the 100th anniversary of the Salvation Army and one for the centenary of Joseph Lister's discovery of antiseptic surgery. A special stamp will mark the 25th anniversary of the Battle of Britain. Others on the agenda include the 20th anniversary of the United Nations and a stamp for the Commonwealth Arts Festival.

Comic Thriller Opens Today

Two unique but Gallic talents are represented in the comedy-adventure thriller, "That Man From Rio," which opens Sunday at the State Theatre. They are director Philippe de Broca, noted for his spontaneity, uninhibited style and fresh, comic outlook on life, and actor Jean-Paul Belmondo, who has been called the French Marlon Brando by some observers.

"That Man From Rio" was filmed in Eastmancolor on its actual scenic locations: France, Rio de Janeiro, Brasilia and the jungles of the Amazon. Its story is that of a French soldier, played by Belmondo, who comes to Paris on an eight-day leave. He is prepared to spend the entire time with his fiancée, played by Francoise Dorleac. Instead he finds himself off on the wildest, most improbable — but realistically comic adventures, which place his life in danger and keep him occupied until his leave is up. There are mysterious stauettes, ancient treasure temples, murder, derringdo and villainy. Belmondo takes it all in stride.

Boy Gets Part This Time Out

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Should "Wee Willie Winkle" be played by a boy or a girl?

Producer Andrew Fenady, who owns the screen rights to the Kipling classic, is in a dilemma.

Kipling's story had him a young boy in the India of Queen Victoria's time — a mascot to the soldiers.

Mr. Magoo takes a walk through legend and history each Saturday night on NBC network. You and your family can get closer to these episodes by animated drawing than if you were to watch them done with live actors.

Cartoon characters can do impossible things. Events that were miraculous in their time call for impossible leaps and changes. By drawing in the people and their settings everything appears likely and natural.

The lessons in history are good. The words, as handed down to us are spoken by Jim and Henry Backus. Their timing and sound are synchronized so well that we forget the figures are drawings.

Magoo makes for easy and pleasant lessons of times past. Even the grown-ups in the audience warm-up to the familiar phrases. A refresher course is in order; who can remember all the significant things we have learned at school or in our reading.

Magoo, for the old timers, makes the lesson come real again. For the newcomer to the episodes, Magoo presents them so that the essence will remain.

I, for one, applaud the new Magoo who graduated from the stumbling, near sighted and suffering character to the present individual who is the principal mover in historical moments. More power to the little man.

Cable TV brings Magoo. It brings many other programs. If you and the family are in a mood for learning while being entertained, then you have that much more chance of getting the program of your choice on cable — there are more to choose from.

Call Long Distance for Less ALL DAY SUNDAY and after 8 Each Evening

Now you can make long distance calls all day Sunday at the low night rate.

The night rate is now in effect on station-to-station calls all day Sunday and every evening after 8 p.m.

Saturday calls are cheaper, too.

Now the "evening" rate applies all day Saturday and from 6 to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Why not call out-of-town family or friends any time Sunday, or any night after 8 p.m., when rates are lowest? It's the next best thing to being there.

LOOK HOW LOW RATES ARE NIGHTS AND SUNDAYS

Armed Forces Day Planned

Plans are being made at Air Force installations around the world for the 16th Annual Armed Forces Day. Webb Air Force Base will celebrate the day, May 8, with an open house for the civilians.

Festivities will be kicked-off with a parade in honor of graduating Class 65G. The parade will begin at 10 a.m., featuring the Lowry AFB Band.

"Power For Peace," the Armed Forces Day slogan for the past 11 years, is the theme again this year.

Maj. Barry R. Butler, base project officer for Armed Forces Day, has stated that this year's show will be the greatest display of military might ever seen in this area. Arrangements are being made with all services to have as many static aircraft displays and aerial demonstrations as possible.

Citizens of surrounding communities are invited to bring their families to observe the men and machines that contribute to the defense of the United States, Maj. Butler said.

The gates of Webb will be open to the public at 9:15 a.m. and will close at 4 p.m.

In other years, as many as 15,000 people have attended open house at Webb on Armed Forces Day. At last count, more than 20 million people have attended or participated in Armed Forces Day festivities and community related programs in the United States and abroad.

Bills Signed By Connally

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Connally signed bills Friday changing the name of Sam Houston State Teachers College and providing for legislators to take their oaths of office when the legislature convenes.

Sen. Neville Colson of Navasota sponsored the bill removing "teachers" from the name of the Huntsville college.

Reps. John Praeger of Seguin and Gene Fondren of Taylor sponsored the bill providing for the certification of elected legislators just before the legislature opens.

Other bills signed by Connally: SB193, allowing A&M to grant easements over state-owned land for flood water control structures.

SB257, relating to methods for annexing land to junior college districts.

SB399, authorizing certain school districts to issue title warrants.
