Flood Eases, Long Cleanup Period Starts

By The Associated Press
The worst of the Mississippi River floods — the roughest in history — appeared beyond the danger point today, but the long, costly task of repair and recovery is just beginning. Some homes were ruined. Thousands of acres of flooded land meant a disastrous year for farmers. One example was the town of Gulfport, Ill. Only the tops of roofs and trees protruded from the swirling waters. The 250 residents evacuated before the flood struck the community. In Quincy, Ill., the Red Cross distributed the first of thousands of cleanup kits to residents who weathered a 24.3-foot crest Tuesday.

RIVER RECEDES
In Hannibal, Mo., the Mississippi began receding slowly after cresting at 24.4 feet. Readings of 24.3 in Hannibal and 24.1 in Quincy were reported late Tuesday night. Army Engineers predicted the drop would be slow and would depend in a large degree on any rain. A river in Rock Island, Ill., where the river crested at 22.5 feet April 28, the level had decreased a little more than two feet. More than 2,500 persons have been sheltered by the Red Cross in six states since the floods began. Thousands of others moved in with friends and relatives. Ten Red Cross shelters in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri were housing more than 700 persons. Mrs. B. J. Adams, Red Cross volunteer director in Quincy, said refugees and workers were fed in churches near the shelters. She said the Red Cross fed more than 5,000 persons Tuesday.

FAMILIES FED
Mrs. Adams said the typical refugee family is first fed by the Red Cross. "We then try to help them get situated with friends or relatives and aid them in moving their essentials," she said. "If we can't place them, we keep them in the shelters. One farmer in Quincy told me he lost more than $70,000 in the 1960 floods and he expected his loss would be double that this year. But he was going back to clean up because he said the next flood probably wouldn't come until after he was dead." Total damage will run in the millions of dollars, the Army Engineers said. A preliminary estimate in the Rock Island Engineer Corps district alone placed damage above $10 million. The district runs along from Dubuque, Iowa, to slightly south of Quincy.

Officials said the river widens below St. Louis and the level is not expected to reach flood stage.

Inmates Pull Brief Strike

ANGOLA, La. (AP) — Some 500 inmates of the Louisiana State Prison staged a brief strike Tuesday. The men chanted a little bit, "but weren't really rowdy. They made some threats to tear the cannery up." The prisoners' biggest complaint, said Allgood, was the lack of a prison physician. The prison, the warden says, is trying to get a resident doctor.

Allgood said four of five doctors visit Angola on a consultant basis, some once a week or less frequently. "Our hospital," he said, "is manned with medical technicians around the clock."

Doomed Killer Waits Decision On Writ Plea

LUBBOCK (AP)—A decision was expected today on application for a writ of habeas corpus for James Marion, condemned to die July 5 for killing wealthy Mrs. Fred Turner in Midland. A hearing before U. S. Dist. Judge Joseph Dooley ended Tuesday. Marion's lawyers contended Marion's rights had been violated. The Court of Criminal Appeals has upheld the conviction in Lubbock and twice refused to rehear the case. Mrs. Turner was pistol-whipped to death in her Midland home Oct. 29, 1963.

Dr. Sheppard Ordered Back To Prison Life

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The U. S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals today ordered Dr. Sam Sheppard remanded to the Ohio Penitentiary to resume the life sentence imposed on him for the 1954 slaying of his wife, Marilyn. The appeals court, by a 2-1 decision, reversed a ruling by U. S. Dist. Court Judge Carl Weinman last July 15 which ordered Sheppard's release from prison on grounds he had not received a fair trial in the Common Pleas Court at Cleveland. Judges Clifford O'Sullivan and Harry Phillips signed the majority opinion while Judge George Edwards dissented.

"BEYOND LIMITS"
The majority opinion said it is proper for federal courts to see to it that no state shall imprison anyone without due process of law. It said Judge Weinman gave "commendable concern" for Sheppard's constitutional rights and then added: "We fear however that this admirable zeal led him to go beyond permissible limits to find constitutional fault in what was done by the Ohio courts." The facts in this case do not add up to any of the situations in which the Supreme Court of the United States or any United States court of appeals has found it appropriate to strike down a judgment affirmed by the highest court of a state. Sheppard was accused of having bludgeoned to death his pregnant wife at their Bay Village home near Cleveland, but he contended the crime was committed by a bushy-haired stranger.

1954 TRIAL
His trial on a first-degree murder charge started Oct. 18, 1954. He was convicted by a jury on Dec. 21 of second-degree murder and Judge Edward Blythin, since deceased, sentenced him to life imprisonment. He immediately began a long fight for freedom. His case was in and out of state courts throughout the years and he remained in prison until Judge Weinman ordered his release.

WED DIVORCEE
Immediately after his release Sheppard was married to the former Ariane Tebbenjohanns, a German-born divorcee with whom he carried on a mail correspondence romance while in prison. They have been living near Cleveland since his release. In his action in the district court, which brought about the release, Sheppard's attorneys claimed that the trial should have been moved to another city because stories in Cleveland newspapers inflamed public opinion against him, and made it impossible for him to receive a fair trial.

Congress Speeds Action On Extra Viet War Funds

U.S. Stands Firm On Role In Dominican

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States stood firm in the United Nations today in the face of growing pressure for a speedy withdrawal of U.S. forces from the Dominican Republic. U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was expected to reply in the Security Council this afternoon to a sharp attack by Uruguay and to a French call for a rapid end to U.S. military intervention in the Latin-American country.

GUARANTEE ORDER
But Stevenson made clear Tuesday that the United States intends to maintain its forces in the Dominican Republic until the Organization of American States has worked out plans to guarantee order under a constitutional government.

Cuban delegate Fernando Alvarez Tabo commented that this was a formula for indefinite U.S. intervention. One of the hardest blows for the United States was the toughness of a denunciation by Uruguayan delegate Carlos Maria Velazquez. He declared that what he called the new "Johnson doctrine" was contrary to the traditional inter-American policy of nonintervention.

TRUCE CALL
He suggested the Security Council might issue a formal call for a cease-fire and an immediate end to unilateral military action in the Dominican Republic.

Uruguay is one of the two Latin-American members of the 11-nation council. The other is Bolivia which backed the U.S. view that the Dominican problem should be handled by the OAS and not by the United Nations. Bolivian delegate Fernando Ortiz Sanz suggested, however, that Security Council President Radhakrishna Ramani of Malaysia be authorized to appeal to the Dominican factions to take all possible measures to obtain a cease-fire.

Tax Refunds To Viet Yanks Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has set up a plan to speed income tax refunds to military personnel who served in Viet Nam during 1964. The White House announced today that taxpayers who served in Viet Nam in 1964 and have already filed returns may claim refunds by submitting amended returns for refund claims.

Students Get Honors At HCJC Program

Scores of students received recognition Wednesday morning as Howard County Junior College held its annual Honor Day program in the college auditorium. This is probably the last of the special day under the identical format because it has grown so large.

Dr. W. A. Hunt, college president, paid tribute to the students and observed that he honors those who have honored us. You have been willing to pay the price of excellence.

The citizenship awards, given annually by the American Legion post, were presented to Gary Kendricks, who is president of the student body, and Joanna Epley. Making the awards for the Legion were Roscoe Cone and Dr. Halvard Hansen.

Federal Grand Jury Indicts Police Chief

DALLAS (AP) — The chief of police at Alvarado in Johnson County was indicted Monday by a federal grand jury alleging he violated the civil rights of a youth, 18 Louis Moon was accused of beating Joe Salazar on Aug. 10.

Margaret Cook was honored as student of the year. Donnie Anderson as Student Government Association member of the year and Mrs. Elizabeth K. Martin as teacher of the year. These were presented by Frank Bernini, manager of Zales, who made the awards. To Wesley Fellowship went the annual Spirit Award, and it was accepted by Cynthia Long and by Verdell Turner, sponsor John Harley, SGA sponsor, also was recognized.

JOURNAL AWARD
Miss Cook, who is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cook, Garden City, and a sophomore at HCJC, received the Wall Street Journal Award. This is given based on citizenship, scholarship and all-around ability and cooperation as a student in the business department. She is the first girl to earn the award in the three years it has been posted by the Journal. She plans to continue her major in business administration at Texas Tech said Mrs. Dean Box, chairman. Competition for the award was unusually keen this year, she added.

The Dibrell's Sportsmanship award for a woman student went to Patty Jones. (The men's award was made previously.) Dean Ben Johnson, who presided, then listed the following for certificates denoting out-

House Vote Due After Panels' OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appropriations committees of both House and Senate approved today President Johnson's request for an emergency $700-million fund to finance the war in Viet Nam. The House Appropriations Committee called a special meeting to clear the emergency bill for a House vote this afternoon. House passage was expected by a wide margin.

Solons Back Intervention In Dominican

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson won strong bipartisan support from House leaders today for ordering U.S. military intervention in the Dominican Republic. "I can say with some assurance that the overwhelming majority of Republicans in Congress stand solidly behind the President's declared purpose of preventing the establishment of another Communist regime in the Americas," said House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan.

CALCULATED RISKS
"I would rather take the calculated risk of action than the calculated risk of inaction," said Democratic House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts.

They spoke to heavy applause from some 4,000 delegates to a legislative convention of the Building and Construction Trades Department of the AFL-CIO.

TRAGIC POSSIBILITY
"All evidence indicates that had the President hesitated to act, the results would have been tragic in terms of human life and the long-range security interests of the Western Hemisphere. If the Dominican Republic were to go the way of Castro's Cuba, the Caribbean itself would be converted into a Communist-held lake," Ford said.

George W. Meany, president of AFL-CIO, said the 13 million-member labor federation also fully backs Johnson's actions in the Dominican Republic as well as in South Viet Nam.

Strikers Ordered Not To Interfere

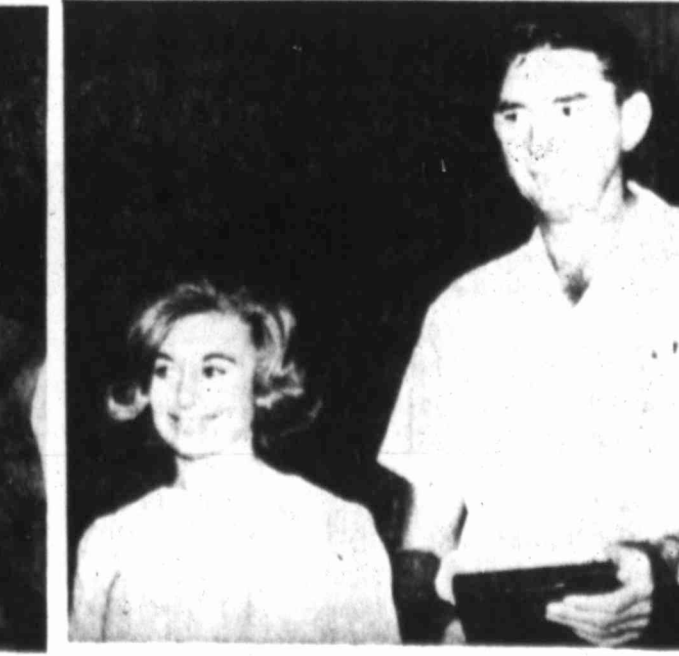

HENDERSON (AP) — More than 250 strikers are under court order not to interfere with operations at Henderson Clay Products Co. This order, issued Tuesday by Judge R. P. Powers of Tyler, does not bar employees from picketing. Pickets remained at the plant entrances. The order named at least nine of the striking employees among those who last week beat up three truck drivers making deliveries from the plant. It said families of non-strikers had received threatening phone calls. Principal issues in the strike, now in its second week, are wages, holidays and sick leave.

Connally Going On TV With Controversy

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Connally said today he will take to a statewide television network Thursday night to put the teachers pay raise controversy in the proper perspective. Connally also told a news conference he had been informed the Appropriations Conference Committee has trimmed $26 million from the 1966-67 spending bill, enough to balance with expected general revenue income for the next two years. The governor said he would offer no compromise on the teachers pay hike issue in his "hard hitting" talk over 20 TV stations; neither would he recommend any specific tax legislation to cover the cost of such raises.

Connally said the telecast, to be carried by most of the stations at 8:30 p. m. Thursday would be privately financed through funds raised by the Committee for Better Education in Texas. He said the group is headed by his former aide, Howard Rose of Midland. The speech will be on TV stations in Abilene, Amarillo, Austin, Big Spring, Corpus Christi, Dallas KRLD, Fort Worth WBAP, Houston KHOU, Laredo, Lubbock, Lufkin, Odessa-Midland, Port Arthur - Beaumont, San Antonio WOAI, Sweetwater, Temple, San Angelo, Tyler, Waco - Bryan and Wichita Falls. Connally said he might make other statewide appeals but this is the only one currently scheduled. GOVERNOR PLEASED The governor said he was "pleased but not necessarily satisfied" that the big spending bill had been trimmed to expected income. "I have not seen it and do not know what all is in it," he said. "I'll say this, I'm sure a few eyebrows will be raised when people see what is still in the bill."

A reporter asked if he was talking about "pork barreling." Connally said: "That's exactly what I'm talking about. They trimmed away $26 million just yesterday." Connally said in answering a question that he did not know of any specific "pork barrel" items that he would veto if they finally reach his desk. The governor said he still had hopes there would be no need of a special session. "I have been encouraged considerably by developments in the last 48 hours," he said.

FIRST LOCAL JOB CORPSMEN SWORN IN Oscar Turner Jr., Roy McElmurry Jr. and Asst. Postmaster A. A. Porter

First Local Youths Enter Job Corps

Oscar Turner Jr., 17, and Roy McElmurry Jr., 16, are the first two Big Spring youths to be accepted for the new Job Corps operation. This program, sponsored and directed by the Office of Economic Opportunity, Washington, has been functioning only a relatively short time. The two applicants accepted for the program were formally sworn in Tuesday afternoon by A. A. Porter, assistant postmaster. Leon Kinney, manager of the Texas Employment Commission office, through which office, the youths enrolled in the program, and a number of others were on hand for the swearing-in ceremonies. Turner, who makes his home here with his grandmother, Mrs. Mittie Tucker, 902 NW 2nd, will be sent to Lewiston, Calif. There he will be assigned to the Job Corps Center and qualify himself as an auto mechanic. McElmurry is the son of Roy McElmurry Sr. They live at the Wyoming Hotel. He is to be sent to the Ouachita Job Corps Conservation Center near Royal, Ark. McElmurry will train himself in Conservation practices and ultimately qualify as a forest ranger. Both youths will make their homes in camps while in the Job Corps. They will be provided with transportation to the camp where they are assigned. Once there, they will be given board and lodging, clothing, medical and dental care, and provided with $30 a month spending money. To stay with the Corps, they must show initiative and interest. They can stay a minimum of one year or a maximum of two years, depending on their progress and the need they have for training. At the time they are discharged from the camp, they will be paid $50 a month severance allowance for each month they have been in the Corps. The program is designed to assist young boys and girls who are faced with economic or other difficulties to adjust themselves to life and qualify as competent workmen. An applicant who is interested, either a boy or a girl, must be at least 16 and not over 21. He applies for an acceptance in the Job Corps at a Texas Employment Commission office. Several stipulations are set up. One is that he must have been out of school for at least three months. An investigation into his environmental background and his need for the training is made. His application is sent to Washington, where it is determined where he will be sent and what kind of work he seems best suited to follow. Kinney said his office here is eager to discuss the opportunities of the Job Corps with any youngster who may feel he is qualified for its benefits or who needs the assistance it affords. Literature explaining the program is available at the office and applicants are invited to drop by and ask questions. There is at least one Job Corps Center operating in Texas. It is at San Marcos. The program for girl applicants is similar to the one for boys. The training is in clerical and kindred fields.

Thunderstorm Punch Eased

By The Associated Press Thunderstorms continued in scattered areas from the northern Rockies across the plains to the Ohio Valley today but most of them diminished in intensity. Heavy rain fell in some parts of the storm belt, including areas along the flooded Mississippi River in Iowa. Gusty winds and hail hit sections of the Midwest during the night. Skies were clear in the far Southwest, along the Pacific coast and in the Southeast. Showers were indicated from the Pacific Northwest into the central region and across the Great Lakes to the middle Atlantic Coast. Cool weather prevailed in the northern and central Rockies into the northern Midwest. Early morning temperatures ranged from 27 at Pellston, Mich., to 77 at Laredo, Tex., and Key West, Fla. The mercury soared to record high marks for May 4 in several Eastern cities, including 93 in Baltimore, 91 in Atlantic City, N.J., and 90 in New York City.

LETTER

Critical Of Fire Report

To the Editor: Recently there appeared in the columns of your paper a news item on the fire which burned the Park Methodist Church. Apparently the firemen, or someone else arriving on the scene after the blaze had begun, turned in a report that the blaze had started from someone tossing a lighted cigarette into the building. This report is untrue. The fire was started by an electrical mishap within the building. It seems to me that the community owes an apology to these folk for the false report and the untimely ridicule that has been circulated therefrom.

Water Usage Reported Down

Water demands continued off during April for the Colorado River Municipal Water District, but there were signs that May will see a sharp revival of consumption. During April, the district delivered 965,757,394 gallons to its customers, or 2.87 per cent less than the same month a year ago. Deliveries for the first four months of the year have aggregated 3,115,205,384 gallons, a decline of 3.51 per cent. April demands by the member cities showed 685,432,900 gallons, or down 8.40 per cent. Odessa took 385,690,000 gallons, down 9.20 per cent. Big Spring 234,668,000 and down 5.67 per cent, and Snyder 65,094,900 per cent and down 12.61 per cent. The oil companies required a total of 280,304,494 gallons, an increase of 10.96 per cent, principally due to the addition of the Perkins-Prothro unit to the Sun Oil contract. The first four days of May have seen Odessa averaging better than 17,000,000 gallons a day, said W. P. Odom, engineer, and Big Spring is up to 9,000,000 per day. At this rate, May demands likely will top a billion gallons.

Economic Health Sought By Oilmen

DENVER (AP)—Independent oil operators say the economic health of the petroleum industry has deteriorated sharply the past six months.

The Independent Petroleum Association of America believes corrective action should be taken in three areas—sharp curtailment of oil imports, limitation of natural gas imports from Canada, and freezing Louisiana offshore federal leases at their current level.

An imports policy committee report adopted at Tuesday's final session of the trade group's mid-year meeting said recent crude oil price cuts and pipeline prorations trends have caused economic conditions of the domestic industry to become more desperate.

"IN BAD WAY"
"Don't kid yourself into thinking these price cuts in the Corpus Christi area and in Kansas and Oklahoma just affect those areas," said Jake Hamon of Dallas, imports policy chairman. "Boys, we are in a bad, bad way."

The independents then endorsed a congressional bill that would reduce crude imports quotas and force the Defense Department to shift more of its overseas petroleum purchases to domestic sources. The bill introduced in January by Rep. Omar Burlison, D-Tex., would slash imports more than 300,000 barrels a day.

Officers of the 7,000-member organization were instructed to oppose Canadian natural gas import applications pending before the Federal Power Commission.

Hamon said authorized Canadian gas imports exceed 1.25 billion cubic feet a day and are supplanting domestic gas and petroleum supplies. He said pending applications would boost such imports 230 million cubic feet daily.

LANDS PANEL
A public lands committee report said the increasing volume of Louisiana offshore crude constitutes the largest single source of new supply.

"This crude contributes greatly to the general oversupply problem and the resulting soft prices onshore," it stated. The report asked the Interior Department to hold no more offshore lease sales until justified by increases in demand for crude. No recommendation was made, however, on proposals that the present five-year offshore leases be extended.

The independents also recommended laws and regulations dealing with offshore oil and gas leasing be included on the agenda of the 12-member commission established last fall to make an over-all study of public land laws.

"CRITICIZES PATMAN"
He said Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., is an able man who has studied banking for a lifetime but hardly any banker ever has agreed with Patman on any subject.

Walker, a Connecticut Republican, said a banker's key to what is happening in Washington is in the actions of Patman, Fowler and Sen. Willis Robertson, D-Va.

Patman is sponsoring legislation aimed at combining banking regulations under a single agency.

DEPLORES PLAN
Walker said this would mean the end of the most important contribution the United States has made to political science—the Federal Reserve System which gives a central bank not only a national character but regional responsiveness.

The Texas bankers adopted a resolution opposing Patman's bill.

Leathernecks Assault Cong Village Complex

LE MY, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Marine infantrymen, jet warplanes and artillery worked over this Viet Cong village complex southwest of Da Nang Tuesday in the Marines' biggest offensive operation so far in South Viet Nam.

Pickings were lean. One Viet Cong was killed during the day-long search through the area. Three more Viet Cong snipers may have been wounded, and two sampans loaded with men were sunk in the Ca Be River by Marine Phantom supersonic fighter-bombers.

Three Marines were wounded, two by bullets and one by a mine.

"DAY-LONG CHASE"
"This was the most frustrating day of my life," said a young Marine lieutenant after the day-long chase of guerrillas who shot from trenches and foxholes, then melted into the underbrush as the charging Marines neared.

Nearly 900 Marine infantrymen were in action. "We will have to stay out there much longer to really clean that place out," said Capt. Peter Yadiowski of Jersey City, N.J.

Marines tracked vehicles carrying six 106mm recoilless cannons and four 50-caliber machine guns were out for the first time in combat. Five of them moved in a column with six Marine medium tanks as a blocking force. They saw no action.

Le My is a sprawling village complex in the foothills eight miles from Da Nang. A bullet tore into a Marine's stomach as Echo Company assaulted the village under sniper fire.

"Why did it have to be me?" the wounded Leatherneck shouted in pain. A medical corpsman bandaged his wound. The corpsman, Frank O. Saddler of St. Louis, Mo., grabbed the wounded Marine's rifle and ran off, saying, "I may be needed some place else."

Evacuation helicopters were slow. There was fear that the wounded man would not live but he did after two and a half hours on the operating table at the Marine hospital in Da Nang. Villagers told a familiar story: "The Viet Cong were here and they come back to terrorize us at night."

"Maybe so, but how the hell do we get sniping from here even in daylight?" one Marine officer asked.

Just before noon the second Marine was hit. A bullet grazed his head and another went through both legs. "I don't feel a thing," he said as a medical corpsman raced up to treat him. A few minutes later he muttered, "It's starting to hurt a little."

The Viet Cong was killed at 1 p.m. A Marine fire team surprised him hiding alongside a dike.

Two Meetings For Farmers

GARDEN CITY—Two meetings have been set for Thursday in Glasscock County of vital importance to farmers and ranchers, Oliver Werst, county farm agent, has announced.

Dixon Hubbard, animal husbandman from Lubbock; Al Novosad, pasture specialist; and Ken Lindsey, agronomist, will appear on the program.

Livestock feeding will be the topic of the meetings. The first meeting is at 2 p.m. in the Glasscock County Courthouse, and the second in St. Lawrence Community at 8 p.m.

Hubbard is to discuss livestock feeding, and the other experts will discuss the hay, pasture and silage portions of the program.

Bankers' Meeting Hears Criticism Of Rep. Patman

FORT WORTH (AP)—Bankers heard praise for President Johnson and strong criticism of another Texan as they wound up their state convention Tuesday.

C. E. Walker, executive vice president of the American Bankers Association, told the group that the President did a remarkable job in choosing appointees

Comedy Being Put In Shape

A comedy written by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," is being prepared by Big Spring Civic Theatre. The play will be presented by Municipal Auditorium May 14 and 15.

Rehearsals will continue throughout this week at Prairie Playhouse in City Park and the next week at Municipal Auditorium. Mrs. Norman Spencer Jr. is directing the show.

Lead role in the play is that of Sheridan Whiteside, who as a famous lecturer turns the home of a small-town Ohio family into a madhouse. In the role will be Ron Carr, who last played in the Civic Theatre production, "George Washington Slept Here," another Kaufman and Hart comedy.

The role of Whiteside varies through a range of personality distinctions, as he is in turn suave, charming, then rude and lacking in group consciousness. "The Man Who Came to Dinner" is considered by many critics as the funniest play written by Kaufman and Hart. Other hits by the authors are "You Can't Take It With You" and "Once in a Lifetime."

Tickets for the production will be on sale at the door the nights of the performance.

Escapee Arrested By Abilene Police

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Police arrested Charles Stockton, 32, Tuesday and held him for authorities at Lordsburg, N.M., where he escaped jail. He had been jailed in New Mexico on a Texas warrant charging parole violation.

Cycle Police Charge Crowd

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Police on foot and on motorcycles charged a crowd of civil rights demonstrators and bystanders Tuesday night at all-white Girard College, reportedly injuring two girls.

They arrested six persons, all Negroes, in the action, which took place after the anti-segregation picketing of the school, which had gone on during four consecutive days, was called off for the night.

Hahnemann Hospital reported it treated Henrietta Dixon, 15, for a contusion of the left knee, and Carol Palmer, 15, for abrasions of both legs, and released both girls. A hospital spokesman said the girls were brought in by police, who said they had been struck by motorcycles.

W. C. Blankenship Receives Tribute From P-TA Council

Tribute was paid to W. C. Blankenship during the City Council Parent-Teacher Association luncheon Tuesday at Coker's Restaurant.

Blankenship, who is retiring after 37 years in the local school, was presented a plaque by Mrs. R. E. Ray, president. The inscription read "Supt. W. C. Blankenship, in appreciation for a life dedicated to the education of our children and youth, 1928-1965, from the City Council, P-TA."

Blankenship came here as superintendent of schools in 1928, remained in that post until 1956, then has served as principal of College Heights Elementary School since that time. He is retiring from the school system at the end of this school year.

MRS. R. E. RAY, W. C. BLANKENSHIP

INSTALLATION

Mrs. M. A. Dunagan, district corresponding secretary, used the Jet Age theme in stalling the new council officers. Using various parts of a jet plane as symbols, she installed Mrs. Ray, president; Mrs. Roy Watkins, vice president; Mrs. E. C. Miller, recording secretary; Mrs. Hulan Harris, treasurer; and Mrs. A. W. Gerhart, corresponding secretary.

The council chairmen were introduced by Mrs. Ray. They are Mrs. Harris, budget and finance; Mrs. Royce Griffith, hospital; Mrs. Buford Hull, publicity; Mrs. Jesse Hernandez, scrapbook; Miss Bo Bowen, health and mental work; Mrs. Jesse Majors, publications; Mrs. Floyd Williams, Veterans' Administration Hospital; Mrs. J. H. Homan, Education for Family Living; Mrs. Jack Brown, Harris, membership; and principal representatives are John Hardy and M. R. Turner. Others introduced were Sam Anderson, superintendent; Dr. C. L. Ainsworth, director of educational services; John Smith, senior high principal; S. A. Walker, Goliad principal; and R. T. Newell, Runnels principal.

APPRECIATION

Supt. Anderson expressed appreciation to the council and presented certificates to the outgoing officers.

During the brief business session, Mrs. D. B. McCann, Mrs. Billy Bullard and Mrs. E. M. Wright were appointed to audit the 1965 treasurer's books. Reports were heard from officers and chairmen.

Seventy-one attended the luncheon where decorations were arranged by Mrs. Goswick, Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Renfro. Mrs. Harris was ticket chairman. The main table was centered with an arrangement of blue corn flowers and yellow jonquils and runners of the same flowers were used on the other tables. Place cards were designed with the P-TA emblem.

Following the luncheon, a school of instruction for council officers and local unit officers was conducted by Mrs. Ray. Nineteen attended. Gene Gum, administrative assistant to Anderson, was a guest.

Rebekahs Told Story Of Founder

Mrs. Mildred Hasting, district deputy president, will attend the May 11 meeting of the Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284. The announcement was made at the Tuesday evening meeting with Mrs. A. J. McCall, noble grand, presiding.

Mrs. Carl Mangum gave the history of Thomas Wildey, founder of the Organization of Independent Order of Odd Fellows. A letter was read from the state hospital thanking the lodge for cookies in April. Mrs. Wayne Moore, lodge deputy, had a school of instruction and reported on lodge visiting to Odesa.

Mrs. McCall appointed refreshment committee members for May as Mrs. A. N. Standard, Mrs. Fred Coleman, Mrs. Max Wheeler and Mrs. Walter Cadell.

A salad supper will follow the May 11 meeting.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Hutchel, 601 McEwen, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Barbara, to W. L. Wise, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wise Sr., 707 Aylford. The couple are making plans for a June wedding.

F. P. Woodson Notes Birthday At Party

COAHOMA (SC)—Mr. F. P. Woodson celebrated his 80th birthday Sunday at his home. Children attending were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Woodson, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Woodson and children of McCamey; Paul Woodson and Paula of Goldsmith; Mr. and Mrs. Futhie Woodson and children of Hobbs, N. M.; Mrs. R. C. Hill and son, Mrs. J. E. Swindell and children of Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Roney Wood and children of Coahoma.

All but four of his 10 children were here to help him celebrate his birthday. Those unable to attend were Lt. Col. Fred Woodson, Air Force in California; Lt. Lt. Murphy Woodson, Air Force in Iceland; Mrs. Clayton Roberts of Louisiana and Mrs.

Buster Britton of Irving. Mr. Woodson has been a resident of Coahoma and Big Spring nearing the half-century mark. He has 26 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Natural Beauty Easily Acquired

It takes more than a dab of powder to turn out today's "natural" beauty. Most women's cosmetics include foundation, pressed powder and loose powder, brush-on eye shadow, eye liner, lash lengthening mascara and several shades of lipstick.

At day's end remove cosmetics more easily with two or three applications of cold cream Cover face and eye area lavishly with the cream and tissue off. Follow with a soap facial and an astringent.

County Home Demonstration Club Members Hear Report

Three delegates who attended the Texas Home Demonstration Association district meeting in Tahoka April 27 gave their reports at the Monday meeting of the Howard County HD Council. The women making the trip were Mrs. Nell Norred, Mrs. Vern Vigar and Mrs. Ralph White, delegates, and Mrs. Delaine Crawford, agent.

The delegates were greeted by Mrs. Leland White, THDA chairman for Lynn County, and the theme of the meeting was "Lighting the World for Tomorrow." The keynote speaker was Mrs. Bryan Edwards, Department of Family Life, Texas Tech, who spoke on "The Excitement of Being a Woman."

The general assembly began that afternoon, and Mrs. Sam Spier, Austin, THDA treasurer, spoke on "Bridges to the Future." The other speakers were Mrs. Wilmer Smith and Mrs. Bayne McCurry who attended the national convention in Hawaii. Their phase of the program was called "Aloha Kakou."

answers would be given over the Columbia Broadcasting System TV station network at 9 o'clock, May 24. She asked that members watch the program.

FOR SUMMER

Mrs. Crawford announced that Mrs. Jack Orr of Texas Electric Service Company will give a demonstration for each club in June, and stressed that 4-H Club members be asked to present programs the same month.

Mrs. Crawford asked for volunteers to assist with the summer 4-H program.

A foods leaders meeting was scheduled at 2 p.m., May 10, in the agent's office.

Refreshments were served by Coahoma HD Club members from a table covered with an acau cutwork cloth and centered with a May Day arrangement.

Teachers Honored By Runnels Student Council

Two teachers were honored and new officers installed for the student council at Runnels Junior High School during a dinner meeting Tuesday evening at Coker's Restaurant.

R. T. Newell, principal, gave the invocation, and J. Hollis Lloyd, sponsor, and Bobby Grant, co-sponsor, conducted the installation.

Taking office were Billy Bob Spier, president; Rocky Woolley, vice president; Linda Tawater, secretary; and Susie Armstrong, treasurer.

The teachers, Mrs. Letha Green and Miss Clara Pool, who plan to retire this year, were presented silver marmalade dishes by Lloyd. Jeanie Johnson presented a plaque to Lloyd in appreciation for his work with the council, and a gift to Grant.

Honored guests were faculty members Mr. and Mrs. Sam Anderson, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Ainsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Reed and Gene Gum, administrative intern with Anderson.

Approximately 50 attended.

WMU Sets Convention

Announcements of coming events were made at the Tuesday morning meeting of the Women's Missionary Union of First Baptist Church. The WMU state convention will be in Dallas May 31-June 1, and the Association Workers Conference will be May 10 at the Prairie View church.

Mrs. J. C. Pickle presided, and the opening hymn was, "Oh Worship the King." The calendar of prayer was presented by Mrs. Don Lovelady.

The program was given by the Maye Bell Taylor Circle and was entitled, "The Book That Lives." Emphasis was placed on the Bible and its place in world missions. It was noted that the Bible remains the most translated book in the world.

Other members on the program were Mrs. Perry Kimberling, Mrs. Jimmy Holmes, Mrs. Wayne Henry, Mrs. Louis McKnight and Mrs. Ben Johnson.

The WMU pin for the May attendance was presented to Mrs. Henry, circle chairman. The closing song was led by Mrs. W. F. Taylor.

Panhellenic Plans Party

Plans for a party for high school senior girls and their mothers were discussed at the Tuesday meeting of the City Panhellenic, Mrs. Curtis Driver, president, presided over the luncheon meeting at the Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Bob McAdams reported that the party will be at 2 p.m., May 15, in the community room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building.

Mrs. McAdams said that the party is for all senior girls, in Big Spring and surrounding towns, who are planning to attend a college that has national sororities. The purpose will be to introduce the girls to the rules of rush week and to aid them in providing the sororities with the necessary information.

New Slate Installed By Coahoma Study Club

New officers were installed at the Monday meeting of the 1941 Study Club of Coahoma. Mrs. Phil Wynn was hostess for the meeting, and Mrs. Ralph Williams was in charge of the installation ceremonies.

Incoming officers will be Mrs. Gerald Oakes, president; Mrs. Bill Read, vice president; and Mrs. Wynn, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Rob Ethridge, outgoing president, presented Mrs. Oakes with a gavel, symbol of the club presidency.

Mrs. Oakes appointed new committee chairmen to be Mrs. Bill Read, Mrs. Treavor Crawford, and Mrs. James Renfro, program; Mrs. Andrew Wilson and Mrs. J. A. Westmoreland, membership; Mrs. Ethridge, Mrs. Ray Swann, Mrs. Henry Beard and Mrs. Renfro, social; Mrs. C. H. DeVaney, parliamentarian; Mrs. Bill Easterling, reporter; Mrs. Rod Tiller, personal service; Mrs. Bill Fishback, historian; Mrs. Dwayne Clawson, foreign relations; Mrs. Wendell Shive, art; and Mrs. R. S. Higgins, safety.

Refreshments were served to 18 members. The table was decorated in yellow and white.

Exercises Relaxing

A simple foot exercise involves nothing more than griggling your toes before getting up in the morning and before going to sleep at night. Picking up marbles, a towel or lead pencil with toes develops traction.

To relax your nervous system and improve circulation, try to lie down for a few minutes every day with both feet raised to an angle of 45 degrees on the back of a chair.

Fast Repair Job Saves Nerves

The time to make minor repairs in clothes is the moment you discover that damage has been done. If you put off the repair job, you'll find yourself ready to dress for a date with a dress that you can't wear without fixing.

Bible Quiz Held By Baptists

A Bible quiz was the program for the Tuesday meeting of the Women's Missionary Association of the Silver Hills Baptist Church Mrs. Charles Atwell Sr. presented the program, and the meeting was in the home of Mrs. Darrell Woods.

The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Chuck Atwell and the devotion by Mrs. Theda Nell. Refreshments were served to 10 members and Mrs. Daniel Johnson, a guest.

The next meeting will be at the church May 11.

'Real Me' Look Becomes Fashion

The prettiest faces this year are wearing "real me" makeup. The 1965 emphasis is on a natural radiance — with cosmetics used only as a complement to shining clean hair and a scrubbed complexion.

In fact, soapsuds and shampooing are as much a part of the "real me" look as lipstick and eye make-up.

Loss Reported At Rebel Roll Call

Members answered roll call with a plus or minus weight gain in the weekly meeting of the Tops Pound Rebels. The meeting was held in the chamber of commerce building Tuesday evening with Mrs. Bill Harp presiding.

Mrs. Ray Woolverton lead the Rebels in their Tops pledge, and Mrs. Walter Goodwin crowned Mrs. E. G. Runstrom as queen of the month.

Mrs. Bobby Andrews read Joseph Alson's new carbohydrate diet from a national magazine.

Mrs. J. O. Chapman, new member, joined the club. The next meeting will be in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Company May 11.

Food Handlers Convene In School Cafeteria

FORSAN (SC)—Mrs. Othella Nichols won the door prize at the weekly meeting of the Food Handlers Association in the Forsan school cafeteria.

Mr. and Mrs. James Blake were weekend hosts for Mrs. Lila Gunn.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Long left Friday for a vacation to be spent touring Florida.

Mrs. Henry Park is a patient in the Howard County Hospital.

D. L. Knight has been hospitalized for several days in the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital.

Bonnie Gandy has returned home from the Medical Arts Clinic and Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kubecka were visitors in Midland and Odessa over the weekend.

DEAR ABBY

A Word For Quality

DEAR ABBY: You recently ran three letters in your column. Two were from women boasting that they had each given birth to 16 children. And one was from the woman whom you congratulated on being the youngest great-grandmother—a woman whose mother had her at 15, who had her first child at age 15, and whose granddaughter bore her first child at the ripe old age of 16. The average female can bear a child at age 13, and can produce approximately 30 children in the span of her fertile years. Breeding for most people is the easiest thing in the world. The congratulations should go to those who don't.

The next time you run an informal contest, why don't you try to find the mother who has produced the most college graduates in her family? Or the mother who has had the most children in the Peace Corps, or accomplished something equally worthwhile?

MARRIED AT 27
MOTHER OF ONE

DEAR ABBY: Our son won a speech contest at school. He was to go on to the state speech contest, but this is what happened. My husband and I were asked to sign sworn statements saying that we did not help our son with the writing of his speech as it was supposed to have been an original composition. I signed it willingly as we had given our son no help. In fact, we did not even hear the speech until he gave it in competition.

My husband refused to sign the statement, saying that the boy's word alone should be sufficient, and he resented the school authorities taking such measures to insure the truth from a student. I said if we did not sign the statement they would think that we helped our boy with his speech. Well, my husband refused to sign it, and our son was disqualified from the contest. I would like your opinion because my husband and I are still at odds because of this.

A MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: I agree with you. Since you gave your son no help, you should have signed the statement. I think your husband did his son an injustice.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for a little over a year. It has been a wonderfully happy marriage. Neither of us ever dreamed such happiness was possible. Before we met, while my husband was working in Europe, he had an affair with a European woman 20 years his senior. This lasted five years. He was transferred out of the country and their relationship ended. Then he met me. It's been three years since he has seen her. They have exchanged Christmas cards. That is all.

Yesterday he received a letter from her telling him that she intends to visit the States (and our city) this summer. My husband wants me to meet her for dinner. This has caused our first major disagreement. He says they are only friends now and she is no threat to our marriage. I say I don't want to meet her, and I would rather that he didn't, either. Am I being unreasonable?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: No! While the lady may be no threat to your marriage, knowing of her past relationship with your husband would make you uneasy in her company. If your husband insists on seeing her, go with him. But try to persuade him to skip it.

Medal Given To U2 Pilot

NEW YORK (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency in a secret ceremony has awarded a medal to Francis Gary Powers, the U2 pilot whose crash deep inside the Soviet Union "shook the world — and caused a good deal of anguish to the CIA," the New York Herald Tribune said today.

A Washington dispatch noted that the crash five years ago last Saturday "chilled East-West relations and ended any meaningful contact between President Eisenhower and then Soviet Premier Khrushchev."

The copyright story also said in part:

Powers, who ostensibly was a test pilot for the Lockheed Aircraft Corp., manufacturer of the U2, received the medal in a ceremony about two weeks ago at the CIA's headquarters in Langley, Va. He actually had been a $30,000-a-year pilot for the CIA.

Powers, now 36, is not supposed to wear the medal and is not supposed to tell anybody about it.

When the Herald Tribune asked a spokesman for the CIA to confirm the award, he replied: "No comment at all. He's a former employe. We don't comment on former employes."

It was reliably learned, however, that the medal was awarded at a ceremony attended by several top officials. Powers, captured by the Soviets, was traded to this country in 1962 for the Soviet master spy, Col. Rudolf Abel, who had been sentenced in federal court in New York City to 30 years in prison.

Tuesday night, for the first time, Soviet officialdom admitted that Abel was engaged in espionage for the Soviet Union when he was arrested in New York in 1957.

eral, during a television talk in Moscow about Soviet espionage work during World War II, singled out Abel as an outstanding Soviet intelligence agent.

America's toughest gasoline mileage test ends in Times Square

3,266-mile Mobil Economy Run winds up in Times Square, N. Y. with an all-car average of 20.34 miles per gallon.

Below, the map of the entire route and all the results certified by the United States Auto Club.

In America's mileage classic—the Mobil Economy Run—48 different makes and models of American cars crossed the continent from Los Angeles to New York. The cars traveled at an average speed of 51.6 mph and were under the strict supervision of the United States Auto Club (USAC). All-car average: 20.34 miles per gallon.

What does this mean to you? Simply this: while other gasolines talk about good mileage, Mobil's High Energy Gasoline proves its mileage potential in public! Over all kinds of roads from city streets to superhighways; through all kinds of conditions from deserts to 11,000-foot mountain passes.

The cars that compete in the Mobil Economy Run are not "specials" or "doctored" in any way. They're selected at random from dealer showrooms all across the country. The gasoline is the same gasoline you can buy at any Mobil station.

It's the world's toughest test of gasoline. Check the results at the right. Then, try Mobil's High Energy Gasoline in your car—Premium or Regular.

Selma Negroes In N.Y. To Protest 'Hypocrisy'

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Civil rights demonstrators, joined by Negroes who traveled here from Selma, Ala., headed for Clinton Square in downtown Syracuse today to protest what they called "Northern hypocrisy."

James Farmer, executive secretary of the Congress of Racial Equality, said he would take part in the demonstration. Syracuse Mayor William F. Walsh said he would be out of town.

Walsh said Tuesday he welcomed the 38 Negroes who had traveled by bus to join in demonstrations across New York today. Most are from Selma, a scene of racial violence this spring.

Walsh said he was certain there would be no incidents but added: "I regret this action which I feel is designed to embarrass our city."

CORE, the force behind the demonstration, has criticized the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. for allegedly discriminating against Negroes in its hiring practices.

The company has denied the charges and termed the demonstration as wholly unjustified. The company said CORE demands would have Niagara Mohawk eliminate requirements that job applicants have a high school diploma or the equivalent.

More than 20 CORE members have been arrested in demonstrations against the power company.

Redistricting Issue Up For House Action

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislators tangled today with major subjects of controversy—a teachers' pay, districting, spending and taxing.

The House was scheduled to take up a committee plan for congressional redistricting that will match four of Texas' 23 congressmen against each other if they want re-election.

Late reports indicated House leaders want to send their redistricting plan to the Senate by as lopsided a vote as possible to emphasize House wishes.

The 10-man conference committee that has juggled a general appropriations bill for five weeks worked again Tuesday night trying to trim the 1966-67 spending bill to a size that would please the governor and legislative leaders.

Connally told newsmen earlier this week that spending plans far outstripping the expected 1966-67 income could bring on a major tax bill of up to $100 million, if teachers get their raise.

Rep. R. H. Cory of Victoria, head of a subcommittee handling all major tax bills, said his five-man group will begin drafting a new tax bill Thursday, just in case it is needed.

"We'll probably prepare a number of bills," Cory said. "It all depends on how much money we need. There may be one bill to raise $40 million and another to raise $100 million."

"We want to have them all ready to go when there is final action on the teachers' pay raise."

Cory said the tax bill presented the House, when and if needed, will carry the title of a $15.3 million revenue raiser introduced by Rep. Ben Atwell of Dallas, chairman of the House Tax Committee.

This bill embodies recommendations of the committee on state and local tax policy, a legislator-layman group that held public hearings on tax needs last summer.

The $15.3 million would be a net total after getting increased revenue from taxes on farm machinery, telephone and telegraph service and inheritances, minus repealed chain store and admission taxes.

The House refused Tuesday, for a third time, to advance a proposed constitutional amendment giving women equal legal rights. A similar resolution languishes in the Senate.

Representatives rejected 33-111 a constitutional change to require public hearings before introduction of so-called local bills.

Sent to the Senate on a schedule of textbook selection hearing July 26, with final adoption of books by the board would give state old age assistance to non-citizens who have lived in Texas 25 years.

Teacher Pay Hike Rivals Swap Fire

AUSTIN (AP)—Both sides in the teacher pay raise controversy have charged the other with using scare tactics in discussing Gov. Connally's plan to expand local participation in school financing.

The Texas Classroom Teachers Association president asserted that Connally's program would bankrupt one-fourth of the state's school districts.

The Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA), Connally declared, distributed much misinformation about the program's provision to shift from the state to local districts 20 per cent both of textbook costs and of the state's share of teacher retirement.

"SCARE" TRIED
The TSTA asserted that Sen. Jack Strong of Longview, author of the Connally plan, has tried to scare citizens by saying the TSTA program would cost as much state money above the cost of the Connally program as could be raised by a 1 per cent sales tax on groceries.

Strong said, the TSTA has been frightening landowners by predicting oversized property tax increases.

The financial setup is this: —If neither bill passes, local districts will spend a minimum of about $227 million during the 1966-67 biennium.

—If Strong's bill passes, local districts will spend a minimum of about $253.7 million during the 1966-67 biennium. Of the increase, $8 million would be for teaching salary increases and $18 million for addition of the textbooks and retirement costs.

$244 MILLION
—If the TSTA bill passes, local districts will spend a minimum of about $244 million during the 1966-67 fiscal biennium. All of the increase would be used for teaching and administrative salaries.

Supporting his contention local districts should bear their full load, Strong notes that of the 31 states which pay higher teaching salaries than Texas, only 13 spend more state funds per pupil and 27 spend more local funds.

Texas spends $252 in state funds per pupil, compared to $196 per pupil for the national average. Local spending per pupil averages $191 in Texas and $284 in the nation.

To the TSTA's reminder that school districts have only one source of revenue compared to the many sources open to the state, Strong says:

"While it is true local districts have only one source of revenue—property taxes. This also is true of other local districts throughout the nation."

RANKS 39TH
"Texas ranks low—39th in the nation as far as percentage of actual value of real property collected in school taxes during 1961-62. Texas' average tax was 61 cents on each $1,000 property valuation and the national average was 99 cents per $1,000 valuation."

The TSTA publicity man, L. P. Sturgeon, agrees school districts in other states also have only a property tax revenue source, but he asserts that cities and other taxing authorities in some other states can levy sales taxes—thus freeing property taxation for exclusive use by schools.

In Texas, Sturgeon notes, schools have to compete with cities, counties, water districts, junior college districts and other taxing authorities for a share of the property tax income.

Strong says Texas still has a long way to go before property taxation reaches its peak.

The average property tax in Texas levied by all local taxing authorities in 1961-62, Strong says, was $1.21 per $1,000 valuation—36th in the nation and 58 cents per $1,000 below the national average.

Strong also chides the TSTA for its silence on an unsuccessful bill to allow cities to assess a sales tax and on a Senate-approved proposal to double the state 5-cent ad valorem tax for college construction, to bring in $5.5 million in new revenue.

LOCAL COST

Strong compares the $5.5 million figure to the additional local cost of his program over TSTA's bill, which would be less than the $5.5 million figure for the first year, and concludes TSTA's concern over the impact of his bill on local taxes "is more political than it is real."

Strong terms as ridiculous some "untruthful or distorted statements aimed at striking fear in the hearts of local taxpayers" made by TSTA proponents, noting that corporations and oil and insurance companies pay more than half of the total average property taxes collected in Texas.

When corporations are excluded, private citizens would have to pay less than $4 million a year, or 40 cents per person, to finance the added cost of textbooks and teacher retirement, Strong says.

SMALLER BURDEN
When compared with a one-cent tax on grocery sales required to pay for the $50 million additional two-year state cost of the TSTA bill over the Strong bill, "the thinking person can easily see 40 cents per person per year is a great deal smaller burden on the citizens," Strong says.

Sturgeon asserts that a sales tax expansion would not be needed to finance the TSTA plan.

"Our plan could be financed by a two-cent increase in the cigarette tax and minor adjustments in other taxes," Sturgeon says.

Wage Survey Is Scheduled

The civilian personnel office at Webb Air Force Base has been directed by the Joint Army-Air Force Wage Board to conduct a wage change survey for the purpose of possible adjustment, up or down, of wage board employees pay rates on the base.

The survey, an annual enterprise, compares jobs and pay scales at Webb to private industries in the Big Spring, Midland, Odessa and Colorado City area. The data collected will be sent directly to the Army-Air Force Wage Board, where adjustment, if any, will be determined.

Warren A. Farrow, Webb's civilian personnel officer, has called a meeting of the wage survey board for Friday, May 7, at 8:30 a.m. in the civilian personnel conference room and the committee selected to conduct the survey will be instructed.

Fewer Cases Now On File

There were nine fewer cases on file in the 118th District Court April 30, than on March 31. Fern Cox, district court clerk, reported today.

Total cases of all kinds on file as April ended were 1,079. On March 31, the total had been 1,088.

Divorce suits wound up even—there were 196 on file March 31, and the same number when April ended. There were 27 new divorce suits filed. One jury divorce decree and 20 court handled decrees were issued and six cases were dismissed.

Annulments continued unchanged, 10 at the first of April and 10 when the month ended. Tax suits dropped two, from 372 to 370. Two suits were dismissed.

There were 10 more civil suits on file at the end of April, than on March 31. The total was 461 when the month began, and 471 when it ended. Thirty-three new suits were filed, three were heard by juries, and 12 by the court. Eight suits were dismissed.

Criminal cases dropped from 49 on March 31 to 32 on April 30. Sixteen new cases were filed during the month; no jury trials were held, but 11 defendants were tried by the court. Thirty-three cases were dismissed.

Unpublished Songs By Porter Found

NEW YORK (AP)—Between 75 and 100 unpublished songs written by Cole Porter have been found in the late composer's files. The list includes such titles as "Bertie and Gertie," "Dizzy Baby," and "He Certainly Kills the Women."

Porter, who died last October at the age of 72, was such a prolific songwriter that he often wrote two or three songs for the same stage situation.

FOR MUSICALS
Most of the unpublished songs were written for Porter's Broadway musicals but were never used. Some were for a motion picture that was not made.

Dr. Albert Sirmay, chief editor of Chappell & Co. music publishers, disclosed Tuesday night that he made the discoveries while looking into Porter's inventory of music material at the late composer's Waldorf Towers apartment last December, January and February.

Sirmay said that John Wharton, Porter's attorney for 20 years, had asked him to examine the material.

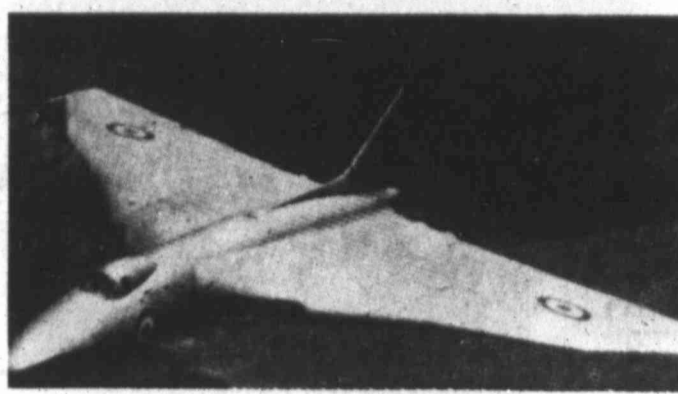

PORTER STYLE
"They are in the style of Cole Porter, all fit for the stage," Sirmay said.

Wharton said that at the present he had no plans for the unpublished works except to find out more about them by sitting down and listening to them played and sung.

Big British Bomber Coming

One of the eye-catching features of aircraft display to be seen at Webb Air Force Base Saturday, when the base holds Armed Forces Day open house, will be this new massive bomber from England, the RAF's "Vulcan." The plane will be flown this week directly from Britain, with a fueling stop at Goose Bay. There will be scores of aircraft among the exhibits at Webb Saturday, including every operational fighter now in the USAF inventory, from the F84 to the F106. Webb is expecting a tremendous crowd for the Saturday program, rated among the best in years. The base will be open to the public from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. with regularly scheduled flying events and demonstrations, in addition to the static displays.

Repair Bids Are Requested

An invitation to bid on the repair of five buildings at Webb Air Force Base was issued today by the base procurement office.

Requests for bid sets will be received until May 20. Bids will be received until 2 p.m., May 28, at the procurement office.

The work description includes the furnishing of all plant, labor, materials and equipment and the performance in accordance with the specifications. Principal features include exterior building finish, exterior trim painting, the installation of asphalt and quarry floor tile and roof repairing.

The contractor will be required to begin work within 20 days after receipt of the notice to proceed and all work is to be completed within 80 days after that.

Pioneer Board Declares Dividend

AMARILLO—Directors of Pioneer Natural Gas Company have declared a quarterly dividend of 16 cents per share on the outstanding common stock, payable June 3, 1965 to stockholders of record on May 21.

C. I. Wall, president, said net income for the first three months of 1965 amounted to $2,300,814, or 32 cents per share on 7,173,028 shares outstanding March 31, 1965. These earnings compare with $2,824,250 for the first three months of 1964, or 39 cents per share on the same number of shares outstanding, restated to reflect the two for one stock split in October, 1964.

A Devotional For The Day

Seek and read from the book of the Lord. (Isaiah 34:16, RSV)
PRAYER: O God, our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy most precious gift, Thine only begotten Son, our reconciler and redeemer. We thank Thee for the Bible to guide our way to eternal life. Grant us grateful hearts as we worship Thee in our homes by reading Thy Word and through prayer. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Extension Of Policy

President Johnson's action in dispatching more troops into the Dominican Republic, which has been tortured by internal paroxysms, is not after all as surprising a turn of events as some might suppose.

Logically, it is an extension of the policy now being pursued in Viet Nam. It is a forceful resistance of the spread of communism by force.

The Dominican development is not, as might be thought at first glance, a re-affirmation of the Monroe Doctrine. The difference, as observers have been quick to point out, is that whereas the Monroe Doctrine put foreign powers on notice not to expand their territorial holdings in this hemisphere, the policy enunciated by President Johnson says the United States will employ its arms to prevent subversion by Communists and the establishment of Communist governments in this hemisphere.

As with all bold policies, this is fraught with dangers and difficulties, but it has the virtue of underlining our purpose in unmistakable terms for the benefit of Communists. There should be no doubt that we will do whatever is necessary to protect the freedom of nations unable to protect themselves during a period when they are confused and struggling in their aspirations to be free. It is a warning that we will not sit passively by while these elements bore from within and prostitute democratic ideals simply to gain a death grip on these countries.

Redistricting Bill

The House bill on congressional redistricting has been reported to the floor. In the 19th district, represented by George Mahon, changes are few in the number of counties involved but of major import in the matter of population shifts. For instance, some small to modestly populated counties on the north and east are cut loose and heavily populated Midland is picked up on the south. The result is a district which is near to and slightly above the suggested population level.

Of course, the Senate will have its version, and it may be well to have a look at this before making commitment to either plan. However, it is safe to say that the House bill has been given considerable backing, else it would have never come out of committee.

The Problem Of The Fat

WASHINGTON — I was combing my favorite women's magazine not long ago, looking for this month's steamy installment of "Can This Marriage Be Saved?" (It turned out finally that I had the wrong magazine) when I got tangled up in one of those diet pieces.

You will note that although I was looking for the cleaned-up carnality which women's magazines have made an art form of, I wound up covering over a piece warning me that carbohydrates would kill me dead long before cigarettes and booze could do the job.

"WHATEVER YOU weighed at 25," the piece said (I am paraphrasing because I burned the magazine to keep it from falling into my old lady's hands), "is your proper weight, assuming you were healthy at 25."

Well, ma'am, I was so healthy at 25 I like to get myself killed on a skate board. But I am even healthier now, simply because there is more of insurance in the world against gypky tummy."

"YOU MEAN it keeps you from getting gypky tummy?" I asked. I was innocent about gypky tummy at that point, but two weeks later I was almost dead of it.

"No, no, not at all. It's the reserve that enables you to stay alive when you do get gypky tummy and can't eat for a month or so. Skinny people pop off like that," he tried to snap his fingers but did a poor job of it because his fingers were fat, too, "when they get gypky tummy. No reserve. You better hope you don't get it."

IN ANY EVENT, even if you can't remember how much you weighed at age 25 (most people lie about it, I have found), this same magazine piece offered another means of finding out if you are courting any of the long list of ailments that ambush fat people. You pinch yourself on the back of the upper arm, and if you pinch up more than an inch of suet, you are what the girl books call obese.

ALL THAT really proves, of course, is that you have fat arms. It doesn't follow that you necessarily have legs resembling the under-pinnings of cathedral organs, or that your coronary arteries are lined with lard. Conversely, lack of fat in the upper arm doesn't mean you are wafer-thin, either. You can have skinny upper arms and still support a breadbasket appropriate to an elephant. Or you can boast upper arms like pipe stems and still have enough fat in your head to qualify you to design covered baseball parks.

THE TRUTH about what kills husbands early is never going to be found between the covers of a women's magazine. Men die principally of boredom. It isn't the cholesterol that snuffs them out, it is the garnish of ennui it is served up with. Fat arms, hell; it's fat wives.

Billy Graham

What should we do about our daughter, who is 12 years old, and has recently been avoiding us. She certainly still needs our guidance.

P. W.

She does need your guidance, but she also needs a certain measure of independence. Are you, without meaning to, treating her without respect? Do you constantly nag at her — complaining about the way she stands, the clothes she wears, and how she combs her hair? When your daughter sees you coming is her first thought, "I wonder what I've done wrong now?"

I've found that it is in the homes of conscientious parents that this situation sometimes arises.

The Master said: "Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones." Jesus always showed respect for personality, even the personality of a child.

Try for one week to treat your daughter as if she were a friend's child who had come for a visit. Overlook any flaws in her dress, or her manners. Give her your attention when she comes into the room, and say something pleasant to her. Your good manners can help to lessen the friction.

Then remember, your daughter is avoiding you to gain a sense of independence; but she also has a longing for security. You can help to give her this. And deep in her heart is the longing to be needed. Find something essential for her to do.

Be sure to take time each day to read the Bible and pray together. Let your daughter have a part in the family devotion. As you all draw near to Christ the family tie will be strengthened.

NOT EXACTLY THE WAY HE PLANNED THE JOB!

U.S. Takes On Monumental Responsibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — No one can escape asking himself the question — where and what next? — after President Johnson's explanations for using troops in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

The United States is not only committed to stopping any Communist takeover in Latin America but worldwide. And Johnson has even said this country will oppose any attempt by one country to conquer another.

That's a monumental responsibility. Since Johnson himself has said "this will be a disorderly planet for a long time," the United States seems destined for trouble around the world for years.

The policy is not basically new. It was laid down by President Harry S. Truman 18 years ago in the so-called "Truman Doctrine." Johnson is simply fitting it to present events, with words of his own.

THERE ARE two good reasons for the United States to be mixed up in more Viet Nams and Dominican Republics if this country follows Johnson's policy indefinitely.

1. It is unrealistic to think some non-Communist nation won't attack sooner or later a non-Communist neighbor.

2. Communism is not static but active. It is a crusading ideology. Thus, even though avoiding all-out war, it will try to progress by guerrilla wars, subversions, revolutions or other devices.

Communism's present less-than-all-out methods are probably temporary. Over all the Johnson intentions and explanations lies the ominous shadow of Red China, not yet ready for a showdown since it is not yet a nuclear power.

A FEW Johnson statements illuminate his policy:

"We will always oppose the effort of one nation to conquer another. We will do this because our own security is at stake . . . We don't propose to sit here in our rocking chair . . . and let Communists set up any government in the Western Hemisphere." He has said the same about stopping communism anywhere.

Not all nations, particularly in Latin America, like Johnson's tactics.

Newcomer To Strange War

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Coming here to the United States is like entering a vast whispering gallery full of echoes.

Some, of course, may be meaningful — and many, perhaps, cannot be.

This is an arena where you have an uneasy feeling that gossip is a major industry.

It may well turn out that this is one of those places where a fellow is just as much an authority after 24 hours here as after 24 months here — I'd hate to say 24 years.

SOME HAVE commented that the major problem here points the conflict between the Oriental adjustment to a long attrition and the Western world's desire for a quick solution.

Out here gray hairs have some dignity, even though they be sparse. I am 54, an age which most Orientals and many lieutenants and captains in an army don't achieve.

As this is my third war many polite people, who don't mind being bored by the reminiscences of the elderly, have asked me:

"How do you think the war here is different from World War II and the Korean action?"

Inevitably, I have asked myself the same question. Frankly, I am still new and perplexed here. But it seems to me that all wars are both alike and different. And here are a few comparisons:

THE DUST tastes the same as it did in Sicily.

The mud is deeper than it was in France or Germany or Italy, but no deeper than it was in Korea.

The back seat of the Jeep is still the poorest place to be if you are going over bumpy roads.

On the other hand, our men seem to have been to a greater degree indoctrinated to the realization that our military goals are packaged with political goals.

Our soldiers appear to have been taught more respect for the natives' individuality and his dreams for a better life, which all men on earth perspire for.

As to the conduct of the war itself, my initial impressions, based on previous experiences, are not immediately hopeful.

The successful termination of a war requires the subduing or extermination of the enemy. This means a taking of hills and a holding of valleys and a restoration of peaceful commerce.

AS OF now, however, it seems to me that all our expensive gadgetry of warfare so far has only been able to freckle with devastation a landscape still largely held by a skinny, purposeful little man with a rifle and a mortar and a bandolier of rice.

Those who have been here for some time tell me that the Viet Cong hold from 65 to 75 per cent of the area of South Viet Nam.

Who best serves the aspirations of the Vietnamese people — the native them, or the foreigner?

The purpose of the Vietnamese people would appear to be the only fulcrum on which final victory hinges.

These are the first thoughts of a newcomer to a strange war.

Around The Rim

Nostalgia Of Latches

Do little things—the most insignificant little things—sometimes give you a feeling of nostalgia and carry you back to some event or some period of the past?

WELL, THEY DO me, and one of them is gate latches. Perhaps this is due to a combination of things—the current scarcity of gates, and the frequency of gates and the importance of keeping them locked when I was growing up. Today, I can walk up to a place which has a fenced-in yard and gate, and as I fumble with the strange type of fastener, I get a tinge of being swept back to my boyhood days.

THE MOST common means of securing a closed gate was the loop method. The great stretches of barbed wire were broken at convenient points by "gaps," which usually amounted to a short span of wire being nailed to a stave, which in turn was made taut to the next post by means of wire loop. A sagging gap indicated a sort of careless operation, and one that required muscle to close reflected a frugal or closely controlled one. The middle ground of a firm but not difficult gap to close indicated a friendly, comfortable sort of operator.

OCCASIONALLY the loops were made of whatever was handy—wire or rope, or even hoops and steel rims of small wheels.

Now and then you came across a slat gate which swung in a great sweep from a massive post out to buck against another sturdy pole.

Here the latch might be a piece of trace chain which wrapped around the gate and hooked over a 19-penny nail on the post. Sometimes the chain might be fastened to a horse shoe, which hooked over a slat. The less rustic approaches were the slides with one end fitting into a notch morticed out of the post or sliding between a fitted wooden groove. When comparatively new, these were neat, but when the gate began to sag, a handful of splinters wasn't uncommon.

FOR SMALLER gates, particularly around farm and ranch headquarters, and for residences in town, the staple and hook was the favorite fastener. The only real requirement was that they hold fast, for nothing was as aggravating as a slamming gate or one that would let the cows in to chew up the garden, flowers or trees.

Next to the staple and hook was the staple and snap, which couldn't be lifted by the nose. Then there was the hasp, with all sorts of things to hold the hasp snug—things like wooden pegs, a bolt, a nail attached to a string, a padlock that wouldn't work, or even a foot of bailing wire.

EVERY LATCH was a fresh challenge, and no one put on a certain kind of latch because his neighbor had that type. On the contrary, there was a little of individuality connected with latches. They had a couple of things in common—good enough to get the job done, and loose enough for your neighbors to lift casually.

Officials Color Blindness

WASHINGTON — Out in Saigon last December a war correspondent with whom I consorted in the cool of the evenings was having trouble getting stories. He was a Negro reporter for a Negro newspaper, and his assignment was to cover Negro service men.

BUT THE Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps don't classify their men by race, and my friend couldn't get much help from the commanders. They would tell him who was a "good soldier," but not who was a "good Negro soldier." Not only is color blindness an official military attitude, but in a war zone it's a reality. A man's a man for all a' that.

Here in the Washington war zone of politics, it's often the same thing, despite the ranging of a racial revolution. Two Negro politicians have recently stood before jurors, so to speak, and they got their dues with no regard to color.

THERE'S CARL Rowan, director of the U.S. Information Service. He came before the Senate Foreign Relations committee the other day with the proposition of transferring 760 administration press agents out of Civil Service into the Foreign Service, which is a much more tony society. On the first page of his prepared testimony, Rowan used the personal pronouns "I" and "my" five times, and on the last page he used them five times more. In the question period, I started checking up how often he spoke of "my officers" or "my agency," and how many times he managed to inform us he'd been an ambassador, but I lost count.

BY THAT TIME Rowan had also lost out with the committee. His plan would be a move toward a giant personnel merger to put everybody who deals with foreign matters into a Foreign Affairs pool. It may or may not have merit, but Carl Rowan was making a bad advocate and he left some grumbling senators behind him.

Conversely, the next day at a National Press Club luncheon we found out how Edward W. Brooke had beaten a white Democrat who opposed him for attorney general and had run miles ahead of all his white Republican colleagues. All you have to do to win such victories, it appears, is to be a charming, witty, brilliant, modest and sincere individual, as well as an able lawyer.

BROOKE HAD these skeptical jurors of the press with him from first to last. He hasn't come to talk racial politics. His theme was the plight of the Republican Party, which last autumn lost a good many House and Senate contests, plus 500 legislative seats across the country, as well as the presidential race.

BUT AS Brooke diagnosed the catastrophe, the nation was a bigger loser than the GOP. The real confrontation of conservatism vs. liberalism, he said, could have come off in 1952 if the Republicans had picked Senator Taft to run against Adlai Stevenson. The contest of 1964 left unresolved the question of whether this country is conservative or liberal, said Brooke, because the incumbent administration was never put to the test.

Two sets of jurors, a Senate committee and a journalistic audience, made differing judgments on these two men, and it neither helped Rowan nor hurt Brooke to be Negro.

A Lesson From Santo Domingo

WASHINGTON — The state of anarchy in Santo Domingo, which caused the United States to send its troops to the island to protect the lives of Americans and other foreigners, points up one of the most serious challenges that faces the world — how to deal with countries that are not yet capable of governing themselves. Whether it's Viet Nam or the Congo or the Dominican Republic, the basic problem is the same.

Up to now homage has been paid to the concept of self-determination and the independence of peoples, but while this is a commendable theory, inability to apply it effectively has turned out in practice to be detrimental to human welfare and progress in many areas of the globe.

THE IDEA OF self-determination received its biggest impetus in the peace pronouncements that came out of World War I, but the formula of trusteeships for backward areas which was sponsored by the League of Nations didn't last very long. Political pressures from within the country as well as from outside eventually brought about the withdrawal of all foreign troops and civilian officials. The principle nevertheless still affords the only constructive solution to the dilemma.

THE UNITED Nations, in a sense, has adopted the same approach through its system of peace-keeping operations in Africa and in the Middle East. But what is really lacking is a harmonizing of objectives and a sincerity of purpose on the part of the larger nations which are called upon to supervise the evolution of the smaller states. Certainly if the United Nations itself were not torn asunder by the political conflicts between East and West and were not imperilled by the machinations of some of the Communist stooges among the smaller countries, there would be a different story to tell today.

THE ONLY HOPE, so far as troubles in this hemisphere are concerned, lies in strengthening the Organization of American States. The Communists pay no attention either to the Monroe Doctrine or to the Organization of American States, and carry on their infiltrating tactics and divisive operations everywhere. But once the Latin-American countries are united and recognize realistically that their own survival is at stake, the chances of diminishing the capacity of the Communists to make mischief will be materially improved.

MANY WORTHY resolutions have been adopted in the past by the Organization of American States which have denounced communism and outside interference, but the Communists in turn have worked up considerable antagonism to the United States in all of Latin America by accusing this country of imperialistic designs. Indeed, the landing of U. S. Marines and troops in the Dominican Republic now will be so characterized again and again in schools and colleges and in other centers where the Communists have an influence.

COLLECTIVE ACTION by the nations of the Western Hemisphere is logical, and no country wishes this any more fervently than does the United States. But it would have been impossible to convene a meeting of the OAS and set up operations in time to prevent the invasion of Santo Domingo. Action had to be taken quickly, and the formulation of an appropriate plan left to calmer moments.

There is need for the adoption now of a comprehensive project that would call for instantaneous intervention by the armed forces of a group of countries of the Organization of American States whenever a crisis develops anywhere in which the lives of foreigners are endangered.

There Are Many Reasons For Loss Of Hearing

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
 Dear Dr. Molner: When I woke up one morning my ears felt plugged up and I couldn't hear as well as usual. One ear stayed this way a whole week. Is this something that might just happen to anyone, or is it definitely a danger signal? Should I see an ear doctor?—Mrs. A. T.

Dear Doctor: Is there any relief for hearing loss during a season of allergy? The hearing returns later.—Mrs. H. J.

There are many reasons for loss of hearing: Damage to the auditory nerve (about which nothing can be done); hardened wax in the ear canal (it can be washed out); calcification which prevents the tiny bones which transmit sound from moving freely (surgery many times can correct this); and others.

With some people, heredity can be the main cause of deafness. There's not much to do about that. Hearing loss also comes from the aftermath of infections. That is why an earache (and most certainly a "running ear") in a child should not be taken lightly.

That's why (among other reasons) badly infected tonsils should not be tolerated. And other nose, throat and ear infections need attention. As attacks of infection are repeated, damage to the ears continues to accumulate. Hearing may not be noticeably affected at first, but the beginnings of some cases of deafness go back many years to infections which didn't seem to do any harm at the time.

Now as to Mrs. A. T. and her ear that felt plugged up, one likely explanation is that the Eustachian tube became obstructed. This is a very small tube from the middle ear to the pharynx, and its purpose is to equalize pressure on both sides of the eardrum, so it can vibrate freely.

That's why hearing is dulled by a rapid descent in an elevator or unpressurized airplane. Pressure builds up on the outside of the eardrum; it takes time for pressure to build up on the inside, through that tube. A cold can plug the tube temporarily. If infection creeps into the tube, scar tissue can form, and the tube becomes that much smaller.

I wouldn't worry much about this occurring once, but if it recurs, then it is only sensible to consult a doctor. I prefer an ear-nose-throat specialist.

Awakening with a plugged ear can also be due to wax which has filled the ear canal.

congestion from the allergy —swelling, and accumulation of fluids—interferes with hearing. But it is still the result of the Eustachian tubes being partially clogged.

I can suggest nothing for this except to attempt to overcome the allergy itself, whether by avoiding whatever the allergy-causing material is, or having a series of desensitizing shots in advance, or by antihistamine drugs, or perhaps by a combination.

The risk of scar tissue in the Eustachian tubes is doubtless less than from infection, but there is some chance of permanent obstruction, so I would give very serious thought to trying to overcome or at least minimize the allergy.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for the booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Cast Spell?

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Members of South Africa's Witchdoctors' Association are angry. They claim scenes in a locally made movie, starring British actor Sidney James, discredit their profession.

In the movie, "Tokoloshe," a death spell is cast on a youth by a witchdoctor after throwing his magic bones.

"These people are killing our business," said Lucan Teane, national president of the Witchdoctors' Association, after seeing the movie. "We are here to cure and not to kill. That witchdoctor in the film was definitely not genuine."

Another witchdoctor, Esrom Molea, bedecked in monkey skins and wearing magic beads, said: "I do not know of any man in our business who kills in order to cure."

Both were among 30 witchdoctors invited to the South African premiere of the film.

Black magic and sorcery are practiced by many Africans in this country. For the price of a live chicken an African can get a witchdoctor to cast an evil spell on a fellow tribesman.

The witchdoctors also sell medicines guaranteed to cure all sorts of ills. They include lion and crocodile fat, tree bark and herbs.

An old foreign correspondent I used to know in Cairo, Egypt, used to thump himself on the chest, saying, "This (meaning his pot) is the best

VOCATIONAL NURSES RECEIVE CAPS Fifteen in group midway in training

Fifteen Vocational Nurses Now Wearing White Caps

Fifteen members of the Howard County Junior College vocational nurses class are now wearing their caps. They were presented these in a candlelight ceremony during the weekend as a highlight of the capping program in the college auditorium.

Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent of the Big Spring State Hospital, addressed the nurse-trainees who have now reached midway in their year-long course which will lead to certification by the State Board of Vocational Nurses.

City Anticipating High Water Usage In May

Although the City of Big Spring's water treatment totals for the first four months of this year have recorded less water used than for the same period last year, the first four days of May indicate summer months may top last year's usage.

For the first four days of this month, ending at 8 a.m. this morning, the city plant processed an average of 6,700,000 gallons daily, pointing to a possible monthly total well above last year's May figure, more than 200,000,000 gallons.

The average daily treatment so far this month also represents an increase of more than one million gallons daily over the April figures. However, if the May treatment tops last year's total, this will be the first month of the year to pass the 1964 monthly figures. Total treatment for the first four months this year was 448,483,000 gallons, compared to 481,132,000 gallons for the 1964 period.

Big Springers used 5,379,000 gallons during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today, bringing the treatment total for the four days of May to 27,157,000 gallons. The April total this year was 169,233,000 gallons, compared to 174,679,000 gallons last year.

Members of the class also were presented with white Bibles by the state auxiliary of Gideon's International. Mrs. Pete Hull made the presentation.

Mrs. Johnnie Amos, instructor for the class, presented the caps during the candlelight ceremony which followed a Florence Nightingale theme. Prayers were offered by the Rev. E. A. J. Sedon, St. Paul Presbyterian pastor, and Janet Curry played the professional.

Those who received their caps and pictured here are Janell Awtry, Esther Barnes, Helen Cross, Viola Gamboa, Nora Griffiths, Jennie Mangum, Allie Moser, Viola Nelson, Elizabeth Nix, Ruby King, Phyllis Sparks, Martha Stuteville, Mildred Taylor, Gladys Wilkinson and Grace Wyatt.

Jack Hendrix Quits HCJC Music Post

Jack Hendrix has submitted his resignation as chairman of the Howard County Junior College music department to accept a similar position with Odessa Junior College.

He announced his decision today after what he said was a long and difficult consideration of an almost-standing offer with a large faculty and substantially greater pay.

JACK HENDRIX

Mr. and Mrs. Hendrix plan to leave at the end of the semester for Bloomington, Ind., where he will resume work on his doctorate in music. He takes up his Odessa work in September.

ating the Big Spring Music Teachers Association, which is affiliated with the state and national associations, and last year he headed it. He also helped organize the Piano Teachers Guild and served as faculty member and judge, and is on its national membership committee.

Hendrix is the first vice president of the Texas Music Teachers Association, a member of the executive board of the Southwestern division of the national association and immediate past chairman of the piano section.

Since the beginning of the Midland-Odessa symphony orchestra and chorale, he has served as accompanist for both. He also has been organist at the First Baptist Church for a decade. The piano contests at which he has served as judge are too numerous to list.

He has been tendered this post annually for almost a decade.

Hendrix is a native of Linville, Ala., where he completed high school before going into the Navy for four years. He then entered North Texas State University where he took both his bachelor and master degrees in music, the latter in 1950.

He had served as staff organist and accompanist for KRLD in Dallas, spent four years (1950-54) teaching and as professional coach and accompanist at Fort Worth before accepting the HCJC position in 1954. Under his leadership the department has developed into one of the most outstanding two-year music programs in this region.

Hendrix helped plan the music building, considered a model in functional design for the purpose.

He helped organize the Piano Teachers Forum in 1955 and headed it several times. He also was a prime force in creating the department.

He helped organize the Piano Teachers Forum in 1955 and headed it several times. He also was a prime force in creating the department.

Survivors include the husband; one son, Carroll Dyess, Big Spring; one brother, C. H. Carroll, Gatesville; one sister, Mrs. Minnie Blankenship, Waco; and one grandchild.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Thursday in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with the Rev. James Puckett, pastor of Baptist Temple, officiating. Burial will follow in Trinity Memorial Park.

Mrs. Dyess was born Sept. 18, 1899, in Boaz and married Ezra Dyess April 27, 1940 in Gatesville. The family moved to Big Spring in 1952. Mrs. Dyess was a member of the Baptist Temple church.

The quarterly meeting of the Big Spring Veterans Administration Voluntary Service Administration Committee will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday in the hospital conference room. Among the items to be discussed include recruitment and orientation of youth volunteers and plans for National Hospital Week.

Big Turnout Urged At C-C

All members of the chamber of commerce agriculture committee, as well as businessmen and farmers interested in the future of cotton for this area, are urged to attend a meeting at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

E. P. Driver, chairman, says the discussion will be of the utmost importance.

A recent ruling, proposed by the Department of Agriculture, said that skip-row planting of cotton should be a basis for cutting acreage because of the increased production of rows planted.

The skip-row planting, which has been proven of great value to this area of West Texas by the extension service through experiment stations, is used primarily to make the greatest use of the light rainfall moisture through its conservation.

"If we intend to save the cotton industry in our area from further curtailments, through acreage cutting as proposed, we are going to have to talk loud enough to be heard all the way to Washington," Driver said, "and we need everybody at the meeting Thursday."

LBJ Keeps On Explaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — An outpouring of presidential statements on foreign policy on a scale that may be unprecedented has come out of the White House in the last eight days — three of them on live, national television and radio.

The procession of statements began at a news conference in the White House East Room a week ago Tuesday. Since then, President Johnson hasn't missed a day except for a single gap last Thursday.

Apparently he is determined to try to drill home to the people and the world his reason for his actions in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic because he feels they aren't sufficiently understood.

PUT INTO WORDS
The President put this into words Tuesday when he talked to more than 150 members of the Senate and House in the White House East Room. His major pronouncement was that he wanted $700 million for expanding expenses of U.S. operations in Viet Nam.

Then, in a lengthy discussion of the Dominican situation, he remarked:

"We have sent able emissaries to explain all that I have said to you to other countries because a man's judgment is no better than his information and there hasn't been full information on this subject."

At the April 27 news conference, one of the few he has set up well in advance, Johnson said that "to stand firm is the only guarantee of lasting peace" and he reaffirmed his offer of unconditional discussion in an attempt to bring about peace in Viet Nam.

BACK ON AIR
The next night the President suddenly was back on the air and television screens. He announced that he had ordered American troops ashore in the Dominican Republic to protect American lives.

Two nights later, last Friday, there was another hurriedly arranged television appearance that produced word that a cease-fire was not being fully respected and that there were signs that "people trained outside the Dominican Republic are seeking to gain control."

The following day, there were two presidential statements. One announced that more troops were being sent into the Dominican Republic the other coupled an appeal for an end to violence with an expression of hope for success of an Organization of American States peace mission.

Again Sunday night, late, the President resorted to radio and television and declared that a "band of Communist conspirators" had seized control of what started out to be a popular democratic revolution in the Dominican Republic.

UNION CONFAB
Monday, Johnson talked to a building trades conference of the AFL-CIO and was applauded for a pronouncement that "we don't propose to sit here in our rocking chair with our hands folded and let the Communists set up any government in the Western Hemisphere."

Tuesday night during a walking news conference — his fifth in six days, the President was asked about U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic. He said: "We really oughtn't to be prosecuted for this, fellas. At all. We acted in the interest of this country and all humanity."

Later, in a speech to Texas rural electric cooperative officials, he said "we are not about to flag or to fail" in the promise to help South Viet Nam preserve its freedom. He said "we gave them our word and our commitment and we keep it."

The bidding:

Opening lead: Three of ♠
Altho South's finessing strategy may not have been culled from any text on play, his tactics provided him with an excellent chance to score 10 tricks on the deal.

North's raise to four no trump was a slam try, not fully warranted on a strict point count basis, inasmuch as North has five high card points and South's call of three no trump announces a range of 25 to 27 which leaves the partnership somewhat short of 33. It should be pointed out on North's behalf, however, that his six-card suit might have provided the extra mileage if South had a club fit.

South had the minimum 25 points, and therefore passed North's invitation. As it developed, South needed all of his skill to justify his partner's vote of confidence.

West opened the three of spades and East played the eight. South falsecarded by winning with the queen. He led the ten of clubs at trick two and, when West played low, North overtook with the jack. Declarer did not mind losing a trick to the queen of clubs for, if that card appeared on the first lead, he would be in position to run the entire suit by overtaking the king the next time with dummy's ace. What he wished to avoid was placing his entire reliance on the clubs to the exclusion of other prospects.

East suspected that the declarer had concealed the king of clubs, for the latter was not apt to bid three no trump with an unstopped suit. In order to prevent the easy run of that suit, East permitted the jack of clubs to hold. A diamond was now led from dummy and declarer finessed the jack in his hand.

The king of clubs was overtaken by North's ace and, when the queen did not appear, a diamond was led so that declarer could repeat the finesse. The queen held and South continued with the ace and another diamond to clear the suit.

East was in with the king of diamonds and he cashed the queen of clubs on which declarer sluffed the jack of spades. The spade return was taken by North who now played off his long diamond and the ace, king of hearts for his 10th trick. West took the last trick with the queen of hearts.

If declarer makes the normal play of the king of clubs followed by the ten, he cannot succeed on the deal even if he refuses the finesse for, with only one entry to dummy, the diamond finesse cannot be repeated and East winds up with two stoppers in that suit. South is therefore limited to nine tricks.

Step To Curb Voting Rights Debate Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders will try to end debate on the voting rights bill next week.

The speedup maneuver was announced Tuesday by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen. They have been as close as Siamese twins in handling the legislation.

TIME LIMITS
If Mansfield and Dirksen get two-thirds of the Senate to go along, each senator will be limited to an hour's speaking time on the bill and its amendments.

A complaint was registered immediately by Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., who is standing in for the ailing Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., as tactician for Southern senators. Ellender charged the leaders with "bad grace" and said the current version of the measure has been under debate only two days. Ellender said he and other senators haven't spoken about it yet.

Mansfield and Dirksen will file their cloture — debate-limiting — petition Monday. Under Senate rules it will come to a vote next Wednesday, an hour after the Senate meets.

Before making their cloture announcement, Mansfield and Dirksen tried to obtain a unanimous-consent agreement to limit debate on two major amendments to four hours each, on other amendments to two hours each, and on the bill itself to six hours.

Ellender blocked it, despite Dirksen's plea that "the Senate cannot be stalemated."

Mansfield asked if Ellender would agree to a debate limitation if additional time were allotted for consideration of amendments.

"NOT NOW"

"No, not at this time," Ellender replied. If the bill becomes law, literacy tests would be suspended and federal registrars could be appointed in wide areas of the South to make sure Negroes are not barred from voting.

Southerners have denounced the bill as sectional, punitive and unconstitutional.

Actress Defends Photos As Art With A Purpose

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stella Stevens was broke a few years ago and posed in the nude for a girls' magazine.

She's no longer broke. In fact, she has arrived as a movie actress.

But there in the same magazine, again, is a bare Stella.

How come?

"I got $3,000 for posing the first time. This last time, I did it for nothing."

ART CONTROL

"I'll tell you why. They kept using the old pictures over and over again. So I figured that I'd control the art myself. I hired a photographer and posed in the nude for a hundred or so shots. I selected the ones I liked best and sent them to the magazine. They are pictures I like and ones that I feel are in good taste."

"At least if I'm going to show up nude in the magazine every few months, it will be with pictures that I like."

HAS FEAR

She fears she has scandalized her home town of Memphis.

"A reporter for one of the newspapers there called me and said the whole town is talking about me."

"I guess the preachers are preaching about me again."

She still thinks she did the right thing. "I didn't do it for publicity. Who knows whether something like this can't do more harm than good? All I know is that the photographs of me in the nude would have kept recurring. This way, at least, they'll be better."

"RIDING HIGH"

Package Store Move Killed

AUSTIN (AP) — A move to force the closing of liquor stores at 8 p.m. instead of the current 10 p.m. was killed Tuesday by the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

The committee voted 7-5 to recommend that the Senate not pass the House-approved bill.

Opponents, including spokesmen for hotels and package stores, contended it would help bootleggers and hurt convention trade.

Rep. Dewitt Hale of Corpus Christi, the House sponsor, said the bill is needed because of a high incidence of crime against package store owners between 8 and 10 p.m.

Speed Marks Set By YF-12A Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new American fighter—the YF-12A—streaked through the sky Saturday, and President Johnson said it set two world speed records.

The President said the YF-12A exceeded 2,000 miles per hour on a straight course, and hit 1,688 miles an hour on a closed course (round trip).
