He Sniffs Roses At His Funeral

By BOB HARING
PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Gerald McKinney sniffed the roses at his funeral, just the way he wanted to.

A couple of oldtimers agreed that his service Sunday was a lot fancier than the early funeral of his great-grandfather here 69 years ago which had given him the idea.

McKinney, 42, a Springfield factory worker, staged the funeral because he said he wanted friends to "give me the roses while I live." Roses he had a big spray of them atop the coffin which sat to one side while a preacher sermonized and musicians played.

SNIFFED ROSE
After the rite, McKinney sniffed a rose from the spray—then plucked blossoms to give to female vocalists who took part in the service.

It was a lot bigger affair than the funeral his great-grandfather, Lorenzo Dow McKinney, had preached in 1896, eight years before his death, said two men who saw both services.

In 1896, said Joe McKinney, 88, of Portsmouth, "they didn't have any singing." Smith Carter, 79, of near Lucasville agreed: "The preacher just got up and told how good a man he was."

Sunday's service, McKinney observed, was "more like the Fourth of July."

Both oldtimers agreed that McKinney's crowd of 800 to 1, 000 at the county fairgrounds, near Lucasville 10 miles north of this Ohio River city was bigger than his great-grandfather had.

PLEASED
McKinney was pleased with his service except for the size of the crowd, which filled the small grandstand on the fairgrounds race track and waited 15 minutes past the scheduled starting hour. He had hoped for 5,000. McKinney took an active part in his funeral, urging applause for various performers and introducing some of the musicians—several of them recruited from nearby clubs—who played and sang a mixture of religious, country and popular songs. McKinney said he wanted no second funeral after his death, "just a simple graveside service."

The audience of several thousand cheered as the actor denounced Medicare, the tax cut, the "war on poverty," President Johnson's foreign policy, the budget, the Democrats' farm program, urban renewal and what he termed federal control of education.

Reagan said that the government is now spending $260 million a day.

FORT WORTH (AP)—Actor Ronald Reagan, who may run for governor in California, told a Republican rally Sunday night that "The government is responsible for a planned and deliberate inflation."

Wants Five For Houston
HOUSTON (AP)—State Sen. Criss Cole of Harris County has urged his constituents to vote against a proposed state constitutional amendment that would give them four senators instead of one.

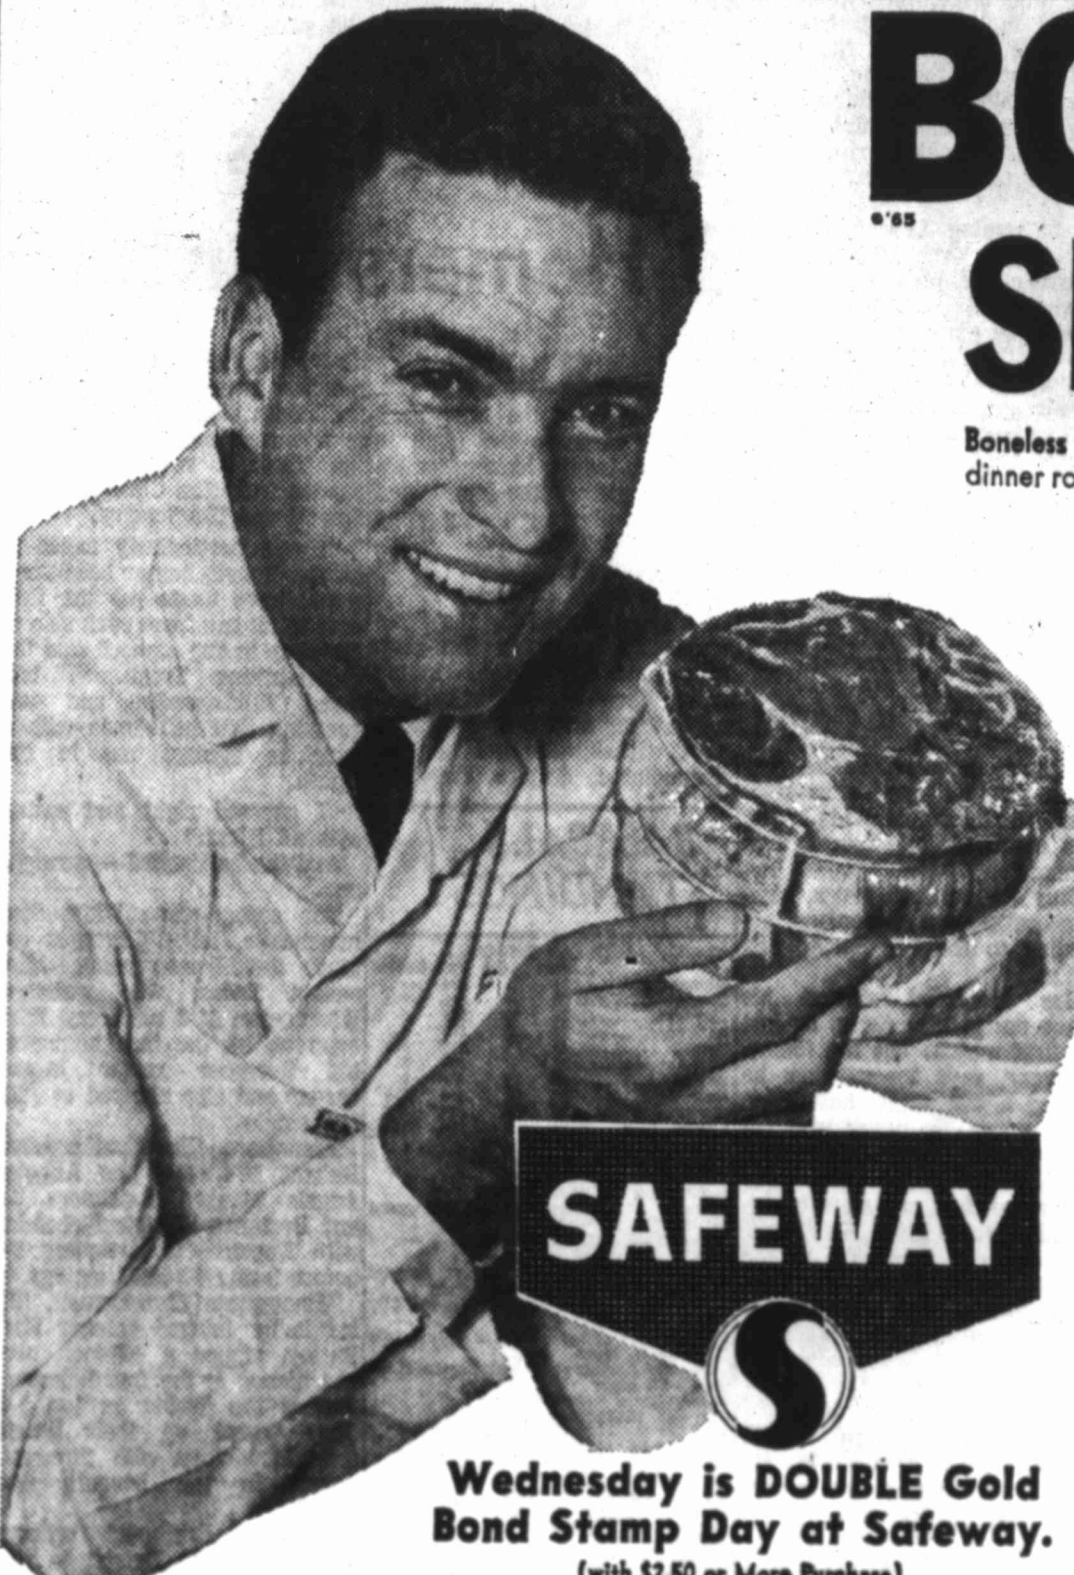

The county deserves five, Cole said.

The amendment calls for the expansion of the Texas Senate from 31 to 39 members, Cole said Sunday in a speech to a group called the Harris County Democrats.

Some other redistricting plans based on a 31-member chamber also stipulated four senators for Harris, he said. If the Senate is to be expanded by eight members, he said, Harris County should get five senators.

Pooch Welcomed Back To Society
SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—The shadow of the Bastille has been removed from a French poodle named Mr. Benchley, who has been on probation for three months for chasing deer in a state preserve.

Upon accepting testimony that Mr. Benchley is now a law-abiding French poodle as the next Municipal Court Judge David Baty expunged the record and welcomed the pooch back into unblemished society.

Dear Abby

Something To Talk Out

DEAR ABBY: I have always been able to handle my own problems fairly well, but now I don't know which way to turn. I guess I could be described as a moderately attractive middle-aged wife and mother who is married to an attractive, hard-working man who has worked his way up in the business world. He has an executive sales position with a large, well-known firm which has hundreds of men on the road. My husband also is on the road much of the time, but lately it seems that he is always gone. He sets up his own travel schedule, so he can't blame anyone. He calls me often, but I am hardly ever able to reach him. He used to bring his soiled laundry home, but now he has it done up by the hotel laundry. He hates starch in his collars, but when they starch his collars as stiff as boards he doesn't complain. (Isn't this rather odd?)

Would it be a mistake for me to talk this over with the wife of the company president, and ask her to use her influence with her husband to take my husband off the road and put him in the office? Both she and her husband think a lot of me. Thank you. TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: The problem is strictly between you and your husband, and if I were you I'd keep it that way. DON'T ask the president's wife to take your husband off the road. That would be like scalping a man to get rid of his dandruff. It's time you sold your husband on a game of "truth and consequences."

DEAR ABBY: I can't go along with your telling that poor woman who picked her husband's pockets while he was sleeping that she was wrong. I say, more power to her! I know how she feels because I've got a husband exactly like hers. He never gives me enough money to cover groceries and all the extras the kids need for school nowadays. I say what's his mine, so I just peel a couple of dollars or maybe a five off his bank roll whenever I can. I figure it's better to help myself than to ask him for it because we'd just have a fight. You said a wife has no more right to pick her husband's pockets than he has to pick her purse. Well, my husband wouldn't bother to pick mine. He knows there's never anything in it. Sign me—HELPING MYSELF

Size Is The Only Test

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The only prime-time special television program over the weekend was a beauty contest. Organized, sponsored TV girl-watching is exclusively a warm-weather preoccupation.

After all those years of photographing girls in swim suits and ball gowns, television has been unable to break out of a rigid production formula for this type of diversion.

As in Friday night's "Miss U.S.A." program, there is a liberal quantity of celebrities, a dash of innocuous entertainment and many closeups of the girls.

The contestants always seem jittery, the professional performers appear ill at ease and the whole show takes on an amateurish air. But the audience is there to look at the girls, so apparently the form the show takes doesn't matter. In television the only test of a show is the size of its audience.

After its long concentration on the Gemini space flight, involving lavish use of money and personnel, the television networks must be having serious thoughts about handling even longer future flights.

Inter-network rivalry was the single most important reason for the marathon television coverage given the flight on launch day and continued long after it had ceased to be a television story.

Ike's West Point Class Holds Reunion

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Affectionate calls for Ike and Mamie were heard Sunday night as West Point's illustrious class of 1915 let down its hair at a banquet, a high spot of its golden anniversary reunion.

Today was given over to the formalities — the traditional march of the alumni, that long gray line, and the review of the Corps of Cadets.

RELAXING

Sunday night was a time for reminiscing and relaxing in the company of old friends, with former President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower prominent in the group.

Eisenhower, Gen. Omar N. Bradley and other members of the "class the stars fell on" were the guests of their honorary classmate, Manhattan restaurateur Eugene Leone, at his Central Valley farm 10 miles from the U.S. Military Academy. The class got its nickname because 59 of its 164 members became generals.

Under a giant canopy, the old generals and colonels talked of their graduation 50 years ago. They chatted also about another anniversary — D-Day 21 years ago Sunday — which played so prominent a role in so many of their careers.

Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander for the World War II invasion of Normandy, said his first conscious thought upon arising Sunday was of D-Day.

NEVER FORGET

"I never can forget that day," he said. Strolling musicians serenaded the Eisenhowers who joined the singing.

Leone reminded his guests that they had planned this 50th anniversary celebration 15 years ago and said: "I won't say we are going to look forward to the 100th, but we are going for the 75th."

He spoke to men and women in their 70's.

A few of the 81 surviving class members were missing, among them Gen. James A. Van Fleet. He was to arrive today to attend the graduation Wednesday of his grandson, Cadet Joseph A. McChristian Jr.

The reunion began Saturday.

Space Agency Cancels Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Space Agency announced Sunday it is canceling a $23-million program to develop solid-fuel rocket motors at Brunswick, Ga., plant of the Thiokol Chemical Corp.

Difficulties that have developed in the welding and sealing of the case of the 260-inch motor were cited as the reason.

A statement by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration indicated too much time would be required to develop a new method of sealing of the case. It said in part:

FAILURE

"On April 11, 1965, during a hydrostatic motor pressure test of the first case produced under the Thiokol contract... failure occurred at a pressure considerably below... normal operating firing pressures, resulting in destruction of the case."

A second case, now approximately 60 per cent completed, was constructed by the same methods and is subject to the same kind of faults which resulted in the destruction of the first case."

The announcement said that a second contractor undertaking the development of the 260-inch rocket motor has successfully completed its first test and is preparing its motor for firing this summer.

NOT NAMED

The other firm was not named, but Aerojet-General Corp. of Homestead, Fla. has been working on the same solid-fuel rocket motor program.

"This company uses a different process and this contract is not affected by the termination of the development program with the Thiokol Chemical Corp.," the announcement said. NASA said Thiokol had successfully fired a 156-inch-diameter motor last Feb. 27 and this successful test had contributed to development of solid-fuel rocket motors.

The Thiokol employees about 260 persons at Brunswick.

The company said Saturday it expected the contract signed in the spring of 1963, to be canceled.

Plenty Of Room To Stretch Out

After four days in the cramped quarters of the Gemini 4 Astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White will have space to spare in the quarters they'll share on the carrier Wasp. This is the bedroom of the in-Port cabin of Capt. James W. Conger where the astronauts will rest following their medical check-outs. (AP WIREPHOTO).

Flight Provided Encouraging Info

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The marathon flight of the Gemini 4 has provided a wealth of encouraging information that one space official said "certainly should shorten the road to the moon."

It already is being used to plan future Gemini launchings and Apollo missions to the moon and beyond.

Among the outstanding things learned are that man can operate effectively outside an orbiting spacecraft; that radar and other aids are needed for rendezvous activity; that man can remain alert after long periods in weightlessness, and that over extended periods humidity does not build up inside a capsule as was feared.

MEDICAL DATA

The primary medical data still must be obtained. It will be gathered in extensive examination of astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II over the next several weeks.

"It is this medical data which will tell us whether we can move on to 7-day and then 14-day missions," said Dr. Charles A. Berry, the medical operations director for Gemini 4. "This post-flight medical information is going to be extremely important," Berry said. "We're really going to give them a thorough going over."

Berry said that throughout the flight the astronauts had shown no physical or mental deterioration and they had remained remarkably alert. "This is about what we expected as long as they were in space," Berry said. "What we're concerned about is when they return to earth and their body systems have to readjust to a gravity environment. Body systems adjust very well to the leisure of weightlessness, but our earlier flights have shown some disquieting symptoms after reentry."

TEMPORARY TROUBLE

Both American and Soviet spacemen have experienced temporary troubles, primarily in their heart and blood vessel systems, after long exposure to the space environment.

The flight of McDivitt and White has nearly tripled the total weightless time logged by eight previous U.S. astronauts and should provide valuable guidelines for the future.

Mission director Chris Kraft said he was pleased that over the long trip the astronauts "have shown no irritability in their cramped quarters. They're still in good humor and after an initial adjustment period had no trouble eating, sleeping and working."

Kraft termed the 20-minute space walk by White during the third orbit the major achievement. Using a jet-gun propulsion unit, White maneuvered in the emptiness of space, atached to the Gemini 4 by a 25-foot lifeline.

NO PROPULSIONS

Russian cosmonaut Alexei Leonov, the world's only previous space stroller, had no propulsion unit. Leonov reported some problem with disorientation, but White did not.

Dr. Joseph Shea, director of the Apollo man-to-the-moon program, said the success of White's step into space was especially important to the lunar program.

"With this knowledge," he said, "we can now plan emergency procedures which involve men leaving the moonship to make repairs or to transfer from one segment of the ship to another if connecting tunnels are blocked."

Shea said the Gemini 4 flight "certainly should shorten the road to the moon," and cited these contributions to Apollo:

—Refined operational procedures which enabled the Gemini 4 to keep a launching date set weeks in advance. These procedures, mostly concerned with pre-launch testing and checkout, will be applied to Apollo.

EXPERIMENTS

—The success of several experiments conducted with Apollo in mind. These included use of a sextant for space navigation and the sighting and photographing of prominent landmarks visible from a great height, which might be used as reference points for astronauts returning from lunar voyages.

—Evidence that buildup of humidity in a space cabin is no problem. "We suspected," said Shea, "that moisture generated by the astronauts and cabin systems might coat the walls and equipment. But the relative humidity has remained around 50 per cent. This certainly is encouraging." Moisture could foul up electrical systems or turn to damaging ice crystals during astronaut excursions into space. Shea is directing his program

School Budget Work To Begin

The proposed budget for the 1965-66 Big Spring school year, will be presented for review and consideration at Tuesday night's meeting of the school board. One of the main items for first consideration will be re-setting teachers' salaries under the legislative act setting new minimum and annual increment scales.

This will be the main item for consideration other than routine action.

Supt. Sam Anderson said C. L. Ainsworth, director of educational services, would bring a discussion of the "head start" program which begins in Big Spring schools July 5, if time permits.

Job-Hunting Farm Boy Sought In Bank Robbery

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — A young Kansas farm boy, fresh out of college and reportedly looking for a job, is sought in a wide manhunt today on a federal charge of robbing a Nebraska bank in which three persons were shot and killed and a fourth was wounded.

Duane Pope, 22, whose parents live on a farm 30 miles southeast of here near Roxbury, Kan., is named in an FBI warrant charging robbery of the Farmers State Bank of Big Springs, Neb., and wounding Franklin Kjeldgaard, 25, an assistant cashier. Kjeldgaard is in serious condition at a hospital in Denver.

KILLED

Killed in the holdup which netted the gunman about $1,500 last Friday were Andreas Kjeldgaard, 77, president of the bank and uncle of the wounded man; cashier Glenn Hendrickson, 59, and Lois Ann Hothan, 35, the bookkeeper. There is no federal statute covering a fatal shooting.

R. E. Richards, Duell County, Neb., attorney, said he would file charges of first-degree murder and bank robbery against Pope today.

Authorities at Big Springs said Franklin Kjeldgaard, described the bandit as well dressed, about 35 years old, and with crew-cut hair. He said the man entered the bank about 12:30 p.m. Friday when no customers were present.

Richards said the bandit ordered the elder Kjeldgaard and the three bank employees to lie face down on the floor. They offered no resistance, Richards said, and the bandit took money from the cash drawers then went to the vault but a safe inside it was locked.

SHOT FIRST

Kjeldgaard said his uncle was shot first. He could not say who was killed next. Each of the four was shot twice.

Sheriff Floyd Stahr said eight 22-caliber bullet casings were found on the floor of the bank.

A green 1965 automobile rented from a Salina agency last Thursday apparently was the tipoff to federal agents for an intense manhunt for Pope across middle Kansas.

Pope, the fourth - oldest of eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pope, reportedly borrowed $50 from his father Wednesday, saying he wanted to go to Oklahoma and look for a job.

That day he asked a Salina car rental agency about getting a car the following morning. Phillip Martin, who operates the agency, said Pope told him he had to meet a tractor salesman in Kansas City.

NEW LICENSE

Pope came for the car at 8 a.m. Thursday but had a lapsed driver's license. Martin said a call to the highway patrol confirmed that a new license had been issued for the youth.

He drove away about 9 a.m., Martin said, saying he would return Friday morning.

When Martin returned from a business trip about 12:30 a.m. Saturday, he found a note from an employee saying the rented car had not been returned.

"I'd been listening to the radio about the robbery and killings," Martin said. "I got to thinking about that car I'd rented and it suddenly dawned on me that the one they were after was similar to the one I had rented."

Martin telephoned Salina police. About two hours later a patrolman found the missing car parked in front of the rental agency.

An attendant at a Salina motel said young Pope drove his old car to the motel Wednesday night, rented a room and spent the night.

He checked out Thursday, but returned Friday night and rented a room. The attendant said he saw no car the second time but that Pope called for a taxi soon after checking in.

FBI agents were said to have found a high-powered rifle, a pistol and a quantity of ammunition in the Popes' farm home. Members of the family refused to talk to newsmen.

Pope graduated May 30 from McPherson (Kan.) College with a bachelor's degree in industrial arts. He was described as a quiet but popular student. He was co-captain of the football team last fall.

Couple Recites Vows In Catholic Church

Miss Irene Victoria Butrimaitis and Billy Ray Ellison exchanged wedding vows Sunday at 6 p.m. in the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Philip Kennedy, O.M.I.

Twin fern trees graced the altar to complement the massive arrangements of red gladioli and white calladiums trimmed with silver. During parts of the ceremony, the couple knelt before the altar on a white prie dieu.

Traditional wedding selections were presented at the organ by Mrs. Leslie Green who accompanied the vocalist, Doug McConnell.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Hedwig Butrimaitis, 3135 Weikel, Philadelphia, Pa., who gave her in marriage. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Ellison, 1705 Purdue.

The bride's wedding costume of white was a silk shantung street-length sheath with beaded bodice topped with a three-quarter-length sleeve jacket. The sheath was sleeveless, and the jacket fastened at the front with self bows. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion fell from a silk organza petal hat, and she carried a hand-styled bouquet of white carnations interspersed with English ivy and showered with satin pillow.

The couple will travel to the Grand Canyon and Las Vegas, N.M., before making their home in Midland where the bridegroom is employed by Zale's Jewelers. He graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Howard County Junior College.

The bride, a graduate of the Academy of Notre Dame in Philadelphia, was employed by the Insurance Company of North America in that city.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the home of the bridegroom's parents where they and the bride's mother joined the couple in receiving guests.

Ecru lace covered the refreshment table which was appointed with crystal and silver. The white tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. George Anderson presided at the guest register, and Mrs. A. M. Hefflin and Mrs. Carl Johnson assisted in the house party.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. F. C. McDougal, Lamesa; Mrs. Robert McCommon, Snyder; Miss Mary Kay Glenn, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hefflin, Lubbock; Mrs. Garfield Brummett, Pecos; and Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Ripley, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Parks and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Ripley, all of Midland.

The bridegroom is Billy David Rudd, and the ring bearer was the bridegroom's sister, Debbie Kay Ellison, who wore a green linen dress and carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

The bride's maid of honor was Miss Betty Ellison, sister of the bridegroom, who wore a tangerine suit with A-line skirt and carried a colonial bouquet of English ivy and white carnations trimmed in silver.

The best man was Billy David Rudd, and the ring bearer was the bridegroom's sister, Debbie Kay Ellison, who wore a green linen dress and carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

HINTS FROM HELOISE
Bread Loaf Stays Fresh In Freezer

Dear Heloise:
I found that an empty roll-on deodorant bottle works great. Just remove the ball and the small piece of plastic that's around it, then pour the paint in and replace the ball.
Make sure you don't try this with oil paint! ... Sharon Page

Dear Heloise:
What to do with those odds and ends of leftover self-adhesive plastic covering?
Wrap the strips around your lint - remover and use in place of refills. ... N.N.G.

Dear Heloise:
It seems these days that the Post Office Department has issued so many new stamps, and I find special ways to use different ones.
For instance, on a sympathy card, I put the eternal flame stamp; on a baby card or card to a newly-wed, I use the new homemaker's stamp.
On a letter to someone who loves music, or is a musician, one could use the American music stamp, or in a certain state ... a state stamp. These are all quite recent stamps.
For some time my husband (yes, he's a postmaster) brings home some of every new issue, and if I can see that they'd be nice to use a special way, we buy several to have on hand.
... Mrs. Elmer T. Treinen

Dear Heloise:
When our children were small, I strung a couple of spools on a piece of heavy yarn and tied it to the screen door handle, leaving the spools hanging way below the handle.
The children could reach the spools, pull on them and open the door themselves ... and it saved Mom many, many steps. ... Margie Wright

(Write Heloise in care of the Big Spring Herald.)

Dear Heloise:
If you buy two-pound loaves of bread, and are always complaining that the bread is not as fresh as the day you opened it, try this:
Keep your bread in your deep freezer or the freezing compartment of refrigerator.
If you ordinarily use only a third of a loaf of bread per week, take the frozen loaf out of your freezer compartment, and break off as much of the bread as you think you will use in the next day or two.
Wrap this and put it in your bread box.
The wrapper on the remaining bread can be fastened with a rubber band and the bread put back in the freezer until more is needed.
Bread will not get stale this way.
Another thing, if you happen to have three or four slices of not-so-fresh bread and would like to try to rejuvenate it, remove it from your bread box and alternate three or four slices of frozen bread in with it. This softens the two-day-old bread.
For those of you who do not have good bread boxes, the plastic refrigerator dishes with the air-tight tops are wonderful!
... Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Plastic hangers that come with many two-piece baby outfits are perfect for hanging plastic pants to dry.
I just slip the pants over the bottom of these hangers and hang them over the shower rod. They dry faster, don't stick together, crack, or get hard.
... Dorothy Gehrke

Dear Heloise:
If you have a young child who wants to paint with water colors, and you don't have a paint brush ...

I found that an empty roll-on deodorant bottle works great. Just remove the ball and the small piece of plastic that's around it, then pour the paint in and replace the ball.

MRS. KENNETH MARVIN SOLES

Miss Pamilla Rene McKinnon Marries Kenneth M. Soles

Miss Pamilla Rene McKinnon and Kenneth Marvin Soles were married Sunday afternoon in the Big Spring First Church of God The Rev. Mac Alexander, pastor of the Elbow Central Baptist Church, performed the wedding rites. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McKinnon of Elbow, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Soles of Forsan.

The altar was decorated with an arch-styled candelabra holding tall white tapers centered by a sunburst arrangement of white gladioli and flanked by small candelabra.

Miss Dianne Banks, organist, presented a program of traditional wedding music. She also accompanied Clevel Chapman, vocalist, in "O Promise Me," "Lords Prayer," and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a formal gown of peau de soie and re-embroidered Alencon lace. A lace panel extended down the front of the full skirt. The fitted bodice featured a portrait neckline, and appliques of lace enhanced the yoke and edged the wide chapel train. Her veil of illusion fell from a cluster effect of orange blossom sprays combined with seed pearls. Atop a white prayer book, the bride carried a bouquet of feathered carnations showered with white satin streamers.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Belinda McKinnon. She was attired in a blue dress designed like the bride's gown. She carried a nosegay fashioned from a single rose with tulle backing. Bridesmaids were Miss Jody Dodd, Miss Orveta Fryer, Miss Jeannie Cauble, El Paso; and Miss Sharon Wallace, Hearne. Their dresses were pastel shades of lime, pink and lilac. Their nosegays were identical to that carried by the maid of honor.

Dale Soles, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers and altar taper lighters were Clayton and Ray McKinnon, brothers of the bride. Janet Hull was flower girl, and Hardy Wilkerson was the ring bearer.

Price our tigers at your own risk.

Coming into a Pontiac dealer's and not expecting to drive out with one of our cars is a little like tweaking a tiger's tail and not expecting to be devoured. Take our Tempests, for instance. We not only load them with scads of standard equipment, but price them so low you'll probably want to buy two and go into show business.
