Yes, Blossoms In January

In anything like a normal Cleveland, Ohio, January, pretty Jeannie Simons would be bundled in coat and gloves and the branches in her hands would be bare of blossoms. But temperatures have averaged 7 1/2 degrees above normal through December and 10 above normal this month so far. This ordinarily autumn flowering cherry at the Cleveland Museum of Art usually is through blooming about Thanksgiving Day. The mild Ohio weather was in deep contrast to the northwestern section of the nation today, where storms routed hundreds although it appeared later the worst may be over. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Storm Evacuees Return To Homes

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. (AP) — Residents of the rugged coastal region where Oregon meets California hoped the worst was over today after storms that drove more than 1,000 persons from their homes, blocked highways and stopped trains.

Most people who had evacuated returned to their homes. Railroads cleared their tracks. Roads opened.

A high pressure system from Nevada was expected to keep most of Northern California dry through the weekend. Rain was forecast for Saturday south of Crescent City to Eureka, about 250 miles up the coast from San Francisco.

LOSS AT MILLIONS No deaths were directly attributed to the floods. Damage was estimated at about $1 million.

Rain was predicted for today in the California-Oregon boundary area. This posed a new danger to coastal towns should the showers combine with high tides and peak river runoffs.

The 200 families who had evacuated their homes north of Crescent City had returned, the Del Norte County sheriff's office reported. They had fled before the overflowing Smith River.

HIGH TIDES High tides backed up the Winchuck River Thursday near Brookings, Ore., eight miles north of the California line, and residents said it looked higher than in the disastrous Christmas week of 1964.

But the Winchuck, Rogue and Chetco rivers in Oregon and the Smith, Eel, Mad and Russian rivers in California all backed down quickly from crests that reached or exceeded flood stages.

Japan Joins In Campaign Seeking Peace Negotiations

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government today joined the drive to bring the North Vietnamese to the peace table. Prime Minister Eisaku Sato told roving U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman that Japan will do its best to persuade the Communists to agree to talks to end the war in Viet Nam, officials said.

Sources close to Sato said he was "greatly encouraged" by his discussion with Harriman of the many-pronged American peace offensive and its chances of success.

TIME TO ACT The sources said the prime minister believes that in the light of the suspension of American bombing of North Viet Nam, the time is ripe for concrete Japanese overtures for peace.

Meanwhile, the Soviet delegation to North Viet Nam headed by top party official Alexander N. Shelepin arrived in Hanoi after a one-hour lunch stop in Peking. The Soviet group lunched with Deputy Premier Li Hsien-nien, a member of the Chinese Communist party Politburo, but sources in Moscow said there was no suggestion of policy talks during the brief stop in the Chinese capital.

The Russians may try to convince President Ho Chi Minh's regime to agree to peace negotiations. But the presence of experts on military production and rockets in the delegation indicates that Shelepin will try to outbid the Red Chinese influence in Hanoi with a boost in military and economic aid which the Chinese can't supply.

PATTERN UNCLEAR It was not clear following Harriman's meeting of one hour and 40 minutes with Sato what specific steps Japan might take to get the Communists to negotiate for peace in Viet Nam.

But the visit to Moscow on Jan. 16 of Foreign Minister Eisusaburo Shina is almost certain to be the occasion for a first step. Shina is going to sign an air agreement, but he presumably will have Viet Nam high on the agenda for his talks.

Japanese overtures to Hanoi are also likely to be made through Japan's embassies in Laos, Cambodia and other countries where the North Vietnamese also have diplomatic establishments.

The Japanese government has stepped up its interest in the U.S. diplomatic maneuvers over the Viet Nam war since Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey visited Tokyo nine days ago. Humphrey urged Japan — or any other country — to take a lead in trying to end the war.

After today's talk a U.S. Embassy spokesman reported: "Prime Minister Sato expressed his understanding of the efforts of the U.S. for peace as well as the hope that the U.S. will continue such efforts."

"He also said Japan will do all it can so that the Communist side will agree to peace talks, since the problem depends on whether Hanoi will respond to efforts of the United States or not."

Texas Asking Delay In Gas Price Setting

Carr Says Untold Loss Will Result

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr said today a Federal Power Commission order setting gas prices in the Permian Basin would cost producers $20 million a year, and would mean $1.4 million less for his state in taxes on this revenue. He also told a federal appeals court that Texas would lose "untold thousands of dollars" on reduced royalties.

Carr asked the U.S. 10th Circuit Court of Appeals to delay the effect of the order, which sets prices at 16.5 cents per thousand cubic feet for new well gas and 14.5 cents for old well gas.

Labor Asks Rocky's Aid In N.Y. Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A delegation representing this city's one million labor union members visited Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller today for help in the week-old strike of subways and buses.

High among their goals was the release of hospitalized union chief Michael J. Quill and eight other officers of two unions from jail sentences for contempt of court in calling the strike.

The negotiations have undoubtedly been delayed while they're in prison, and if they are released, it would be a contribution toward shortening the dispute, was the way their chairman stated their release demand.

LEADERS CONFER The chairman, Harry Van Arsdale, conferred late Thursday night with Mayor John V. Lindsay and Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz.

Wirtz, sent here by President Johnson after Lindsay appealed for help, met until the early morning hours with various parties involved in the transportation paralysis.

Then Wirtz reportedly returned to Washington to report to the President.

The importance of eased punishment also was apparent in the day-to-day delay of a further court hearing to determine whether, and how much, the jailed officials and the unions will be fined. These postponements were requested by Lindsay's mediation panel.

UNDER GUARD Quill, a heart patient, collapsed two hours after being jailed Tuesday. At Bellevue Hospital, where his room is under guard because of threatening telephone calls from the public, his condition was reported as serious, but not critical.

Remaining talks, though described as at an intense stage, appeared this morning to be moving as slowly as traffic.

NO AUTHORITY On the other hand, he said there is no authority under existing law to compel interstate pipelines, gas distributors, or the consumers to refund to the producers, who would, in turn, reimburse the state for the difference between the reduced rates as imposed by the commission and the rates as finally determined if the commission's orders are found invalid.

Carr said the order should be stayed "as to all producers affected by the commission order and not just the ones before this court . . . until the validity of such order is finally adjudicated by the courts."

Dominica's Crisis With Military Eases

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican Republic's provisional government appeared today to have weathered the threat of a new explosion but the capital was in a state of confusion.

A new crisis reached its climax Thursday night with a proposal by provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy to send key military figures, including some who had been rebel leaders, out of the country on diplomatic assignments.

The armed forces in this revolution-ridden country moved to block the maneuver, but it remained unclear whether the military had planned to overthrow the provisional government painfully installed through the efforts of the Organization of American States (OAS).

KEEPING POST President Garcia-Godoy stressed his intention to remain in office as long as he had the support of the OAS.

Armed Forces Minister Francisco Rivera Caminero, one of those whom the president wanted to send out of the country, denied that the military leaders had rebelled against the government or that the National Palace had been occupied. He said the guard there merely had been reinforced.

Earlier it appeared the palace and government radio station had been occupied. Troops had sealed off major highways into Santo Domingo.

Rivera Caminero said the government radio, which had been ordered shut down by the president last October, had merely been "taken into custody" for a while. It remained on the air.

SPONTANEOUS ACT The armed forces minister said Thursday night's army actions had been just demonstrations of disagreement, and that the army had acted spontaneously.

The new crisis erupted after the provisional president listed controversial military figures, including some rebel leaders, who were to be assigned out of the country in an effort to bring calm.

Within hours troops moved into the palace and some armed forces informants reported military uprisings in unspecified cities of the interior.

Garcia-Godoy, appearing occupied but calm, did not ask help from the Inter-American Peace Force (IAPF). He stressed that his decision to replace leaders in the armed forces and transfer key figures to diplomatic posts abroad was irrevocable.

LITTLE EVIDENCE The heart of the city, which the rebels seized during the April revolution and occupied for months afterward, was quiet. A few fires burned in some streets, but there was no obstruction to traffic.

The 11,000-man peace force, which includes 9,000 Americans, remained in their quarters or at their normal posts. They have been on an alert for four days.

The armed forces radio at the San Isidro air base outside the capital broadcast a communique saying the military chiefs would not accept changes in the military high command or transfers abroad.

There was no public reaction from the rebel faction which staged the April revolution in an attempt to return ex-President Juan Bosch to office and restore the constitution.

Fully GI Equipped

Actress Carroll Baker took along $25,000 worth of Paris gowns on the Bob Hope Christmas tour of GI bases in Viet Nam and came home wearing more GI equipment (above) than a WAC, as she shows in this photo today. The dresses all were lost or fatally damaged, but Carroll wears a U.S. Marine Corps fatigue suit; the four stars of Gen. William Westmoreland and the insignia of some of America's best fighting units. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Gun Accident Kills Teenager

Clayton M. Croft, 16, son of M. Sgt. and Mrs. Joe R. Croft, 211-B Hunter, was fatally wounded around 4 p.m. Thursday by a shotgun discharge. His lifeless body was found sprawled on the floor of a room in the house when his father arrived at the residence shortly after 4:30 p.m.

Jess Slaughter, justice of the peace, ruled death by accidental gunshot wound. He and Chief Deputy Lindy Oldfield investigated the tragedy. A number of police officers also assisted in the investigation.

Oldfield said it appeared the youth had been cleaning the single barrel shotgun when it discharged, the load striking him in the upper right portion of his chest.

The deputy said the wounded youth managed to move some distance, apparently trying to make his way to a phone.

The officer said that a cleaning rod, which had evidently been used in the shotgun, had been in the barrel when the gun fired.

Young Croft, a junior in the Big Spring High School, had lived in this community only five months. He was apparently a gun fan, the officers said, as there were numerous guns of various kinds in the room. Several rifles were found on the bed in the boy's room. It appeared he had been sitting on the floor cleaning the gun when the accident occurred.

When the father found his son, he immediately began mouth-to-mouth respiration, but there was no response.

Officers were told the youth was at the office at Webb AFB where his father works around 4 p.m. He got a dollar from his father to get a haircut, and Oldfield said he had gotten the haircut before he went home.

From the material in the room, officers think that young Croft had decided to clean some of his guns while awaiting his parents. The shattered cleaning rod proved, it was said, that it had been inserted in the shotgun barrel when the shot was fired.

Clayton M. Croft was born April 18, 1949, in Shenandoah, Iowa. He was a member of the Protestant Young Men of the Chapel at Webb AFB and had been active in the church. He was formerly a leader in Boy Scout work. In school here, he was a junior and a member of the capella choir. Last year he attended school in Turkey.

The body will lie in state at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home at night and be sent to the Buntz-Tawzer Funeral Home in Shenandoah, Iowa, Saturday morning.

Mishap Seriously Hurts Coahoma Gin Manager

Tom Birkhead, 57, manager of the Guitars Gin at Coahoma, is in the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital with both legs badly mangled from the knees down.

His condition was described as serious at the hospital this morning. No final surgery has been performed, although some emergency work was performed last night.

He was caught in the bur machine at the gin about 11 p.m. Thursday. According to follow workers, Birkhead was walking across the top of the machine when the metal roof caved in, dropping him into the rollers.

The man's legs jammed the machinery and it was sometime before he could be released. Part of the machinery had to be cut out to free his legs. Men at the gin said that he did not drop deeply enough into the area to get his feet or legs in the auger and that the injuries he sustained were inflicted by the roller teeth.

The gin was still shut down today while repairs were being made. There were several hundred bales of cotton on hand waiting to be ginned.

Cause of the collapse of the roof over the machinery was not known. It was said that walking over the area is regular procedure at a gin.

Birkhead, a former constable of Coahoma, had worked for the gin for some time. He was given blood transfusions last night at the hospital after being brought to the institution by the Big Spring Ambulance Service.

Claude Morris, deputy sheriff, was at the scene to assist in the rescue work.

MANY FIRST PLACES Youngsters Show Well At Odessa

Mark Barr and Gary McNew, Howard County 4-H Club members, brought home first place ribbons in the medium heavy-weight and mediumweight steer divisions from the annual Sand Hills Hereford and Quarter Horse Show Thursday, at Odessa.

Dolores Lankford, 13, another Howard County 4-H Club member, who won the State Fair Showmanship award at Dallas recently, repeated at Odessa and brought home the trophy for that skill. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Lankford.

Her steer, which she showed at Odessa placed second to that shown by Marian Odom, Baird, in the lightweight division. Miss Odom's steer went on to win the grand championship honors.

Robert Haney of Howard County was second in showmanship and Mark Barr was third — making this event nearly a clean sweep for local youngsters.

In the competition for the county group of five best steers, Howard County's entry took top honors. The breeders special award also went to three Howard County entries shown by local exhibitors and bred by J. C. Sale of Stanton.

Mark Barr and Mary McNew were in the championship competition. They lost to Miss Odom, Baird, and Walter Gardner, Marfa.

Herb Helbig, county farm agent, said the Howard County youngsters did exceptionally well at the Odessa show. Competition was keen and the quality of the stock high.

The box score shows that Howard County exhibitors placed as follows:

Heavyweight steers, Gary McNew, first; Dolores Lankford, fourth; Robert Haney, 10th; and Maxwell Barr, 13th; medium-heavy steers — Robert Haney, 10th; medium steers — Mark Barr, first; lightweight steers — Dolores Lankford, second.

Scouters Raising Sights For 1966

The Lone Star District has set a pattern for the Buffalo Trail Council in percentage of effectiveness in recruiting boys, and it is raising its sights for the year ahead.

Reports by the organization and extension committee, which highlighted the monthly district committee meeting Thursday at Cosden Country Club, showed the district completed the year with 1,561 boys, which was 108 over the previous year. During this year, said Bill Crocker Jr., chairman, the district is aiming at 1,651, an increase of 90 boys.

In 1966, the district had 47.5 per cent of Cubbing, 44.8 per cent of those in scout age and 19.1 per cent of those in Explorers — an average effectiveness of 41.7 per cent.

Scouting units (packs, troops and posts) have been asked to hold some sort of event jointly with sponsors during Scout Week Feb. 7, 13 and particularly those sponsored by churches to attend as a group or perform some special service on Scout Sunday, Feb. 13.

Sign up for summer camp at Boy Scout ranch will be started this month, said Frosty Robinson, camping and activities chairman. Suggested dates have been set back to July 3-9 and July 10-16 in order that boys in the Little League program can attend. Boys in the Order of Arrow will assist in promoting the camp sign up.

Renewed emphasis is being placed on the importance of the contest announced by Cap Rock Co-Op.

STANTON (SC)—Entries will be open until Jan. 15 to any boy or girl between 16-18 years of age for an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D. C., sponsored by Cap Rock Electric Cooperative, Stanton.

Each entrant will be required to give a 5-8 minute talk on "How Members Benefit from Ownership of Their Electric Cooperatives," and answer one or more questions asked by the judges.

The oratorical contest will be judged on the basis of knowledge of subject, speaking ability, poise, personality and appearance.

Interested persons may obtain an official entry blank from their school or the offices of Cap Rock Electric Cooperative, Stanton.

Typewriter Sales Up

Total United States industry sales of typewriters have increased by one-third since 1960, according to E. H. Tiffany Jr., president of Litton Industries' Royal Typewriter Division.

Tiffany predicted that final official industry figures for 1965 — which become available in February — will show that total sales of office and portable typewriters rose to a new high of approximately 2,300,000 units representing a dollar volume of $400 million. In 1960, industry sales of 1,750,000 units grossed around $300 million, the typewriter industry in 1965 showed over the prior year, Tiffany said. He forecast that 1966 would again see new records set, with unit sales rising to over 2,400,000 typewriters.

A significant development of the year was the continued growth of the $200 million market for electric office typewriters in which unit sales have more than doubled within the past decade, according to Tiffany. Total unit sales of electric machines in 1965 rose to 482,000 units, for an increase of approximately 57,000 or 11 per cent, over 1964. Royal reflected its strength in this market, he said, with a significantly greater increase in sales of its computer-designed electric model introduced in 1963. Established manual models held firm.

Oliver Again Leads List Of Rodeo Riders

DENVER — Idaho's rangy Dean Oliver, rodeo's big money winner for the last three years is pacing the field again for 1966, the professional Rodeo Cowboys Association reported Monday.

Oliver, 35, collected $3,539 for a little more than a half-minute's competition during the just-completed Dallas All-Star rodeo to maintain his now familiar spot at the top of the game's money charts.

The big man from Boise — six, three and 210 pounds — bested 88 other calf roping entries with total time of 24.8 seconds on two calves and wrestled down two steers in 10.8 seconds, finishing fourth in that event, over-all $34,446 prize money at stake in the Texas state fair coliseum.

Oliver logged $33,163 in winnings last year to nail his third consecutive all-around cowboy championship, boosting his career total to over $283,000. He started on the pro rodeo trail in 1952.

The Dallas sales district of Lincoln-Mercury Division, which covers Texas and Oklahoma, reported sales of 20,340, compared with 18,413 during 1964.

Revocation Hearing Held Up Until After Wedding

A hearing to revoke the probation of Ponciano Diaz Lopez, 23, and send him to the state penitentiary for five years was slated for 10 a.m. Friday, but it had to be delayed an hour.

The delay was caused by the marriage ceremony. Before he left for the penitentiary, Lopez said he wanted to wed Magdalena Rodriguez, 34.

Since certain routine requirements have to be ironed out before a marriage ceremony, this took a little time. The blood test feature of the law was waived by official permission. The license was duly issued by Pauline Petty, county clerk.

The bride and the bridegroom-to-be were escorted by a deputy sheriff, signed the proper documents.

A trip to the third floor of the courthouse followed, and Slaughter officiated at the wedding.

The marriage ceremony out of the way, Lopez was marched to the district court room. His bride, accompanied by her two little daughters, sat in the audience area in the court.

After a hearing, the court ordered the revocation of the probation and the way was cleared for Lopez to be taken to the state penitentiary to begin serving a five year sentence.

Had the revocation been delayed until Feb. 27, nothing could have been done about Lopez' alleged misconduct. As things worked out, he will not have to serve the full sentence originally handed him Feb. 27.

Wayne Burns, district attorney, informed Judge Ralph Caton that Lopez had not been a model probationer. He cited eight separate offenses alleged to have been committed by the youthful defendant in the past year and a half years — any one of which would have been cause to revoke his probation.

The first of these alleged violations occurred in April, 1961 — just two months after he had been granted leniency by the court. Most serious of eight offenses alleged against him, Burns said, was a pending DWI second offense complaint.

Sheriff A. N. Standard said that he would take Lopez to prison early next week. He explained that he wants a deputy to interview a convict in the prison about another case and that taking Lopez to prison can be combined with this assignment.

It was explained that the wedding had a utilitarian purpose as well as romantic one. Mrs. Lopez now will be able to apply for state welfare for the support of her children — which would not have been the case if she had not married Ponciano.

Ford Plays A Big Role

Ford Motor Company (including its subsidiaries) and its dealers played a $1-billion role in the economy of Texas during 1965.

In a year-end report detailing Ford activities in Texas, the company reported record employment, payroll, production and sales for its more than two dozen separate offices and 500-plus car and tractor dealers in the state.

The 1965 payroll for the more than 3,400 company employees and 10,300 dealer employees totaled almost $79 million. Sales by dealers of cars, trucks, tractors, parts and service, and sales of Philco and Autolite products to dealers, accounted for some $758 million. The Dallas assembly plant alone spent in excess of $1 million for taxes, utilities and local purchases. When these same expenditures are added for other company and dealer operations, the total contribution to the state's economy is well in excess of $1 billion.

The bulk of the company's operations in Texas is centered in the Dallas area, with 18 separate offices employing 2,150 persons with a payroll in excess of $20 million annually.

The Dallas assembly plant, which is now in its 40th year, marked up its highest one-shift production year in history during 1965. Production totaled 79,307 passenger cars and 31,470 trucks, up 7,846 units over the previous one-shift high of 102,131 set in 1959. The 1965 production total was up 20,851 units over the previous year.

The Dallas and Houston sales district of Ford Division, which covers north Texas, sold 105,783. The two districts had combined sales of 35,900 trucks. All figures are records.

The Dallas sales district of Lincoln-Mercury Division, which covers Texas and Oklahoma, reported sales of 20,340, compared with 18,413 during 1964.

Wreck Pace Running High

At 6 a.m. today there had been 24 accidents this month, according to police records. Seven persons have been injured the first six days of the month, and one killed, in traffic accidents.

Only one mishap was recorded Thursday, officers said. No one was injured. Involved were the cars of Sara Ellen Whittington, 809 W. 17th, and Athalene M. McIntosh, 1904 Nolan, at the intersection of Seventeenth and Johnson at 8:28 a.m.

Kiwanis Club Okays Budget

Announcement was made Thursday noon that the Kiwanis Club directors have approved a special fund budget of $2,720 for the ensuing year, and that $1,425 of this will be earmarked for the committee on boys and girls work.

The club is obligated to spend all of its income from any projects on community service activities. None of this money can be used to pay administrative expenses.

This, Clyde Hollingsworth, president, said, was the reason the directors have also approved increasing the monthly dues by 87 cents per month. This will give the club a little more money to be used for administrative expenses.

Program for Thursday was a color film on how cities have gone about eliminating unsightly areas and improved their areas for the comfort and happiness of residents.

John Gary, Big Spring architect, presented the program. Announcement was also made that 26 of the Kiwanians have scored perfect attendance records for 1965.

Open House Set By Phone Co.

STANTON (SC)—"Open House and Community Night" will be held in Stanton Monday, Jan. 17, for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, according to Harry Sawyer, telephone company manager. The local telephone building will be open from 4:30 until 7:30 p.m.

Glenn Scott, science demonstrator of Dallas, will be the speaker at 7:45 presented by the telephone company. The program entitled "Information on the Move" will be given. The Science Club and the Future Physicians Club of High School will serve refreshments following the program. The public is invited.

Tickets Available For Scout Banquet

Tickets for the 43rd annual banquet of the Buffalo Trail Scout Council here Jan. 14 are still available. Jack Guiley, district vice chairman, said today. The annual meeting will be held this year at Howard County Junior College, and will attract visitors from more than a dozen counties reaching to New Mexico on the west and into the Big Bend on the south.

Tickets may be had from William T. McRee, scout executive, or from Guiley at Cosden Oil & Chemical Company. They are $1.75 each for the banquet, which starts at 7 p.m. in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building. This will be preceded by a short business session of the council in the college auditorium. During the period there will be an informal get-together for the ladies in the parlor of the SUB with Mrs. William Myers and Mrs. McRee as the hostesses.

Youngsters Clear Cases

A lead developed by Wayne Tollett, deputy sheriff, and Travis Long, investigator for the district attorney, has cleared up half a dozen burglaries and breakins, as well as several cases of vandalism, A. N. Standard, sheriff, said today.

He added that the officers are working on other matters and that the same leads are expected to solve a number of other crimes which have occurred in this county in the past few months.

Three juveniles have been apprehended and several others are said to have been implicated in the cases. The trio arrested by Tollett and Long have made detailed statements and led the officers to recovery of much of the loot taken from the places burglarized.

Investigation into the burglary of the Standard Chevrolet Station, 910 Lamesa drive, was the starting point in the case. This breakin occurred Aug. 28.

The investigation has also cleared up a breakin at the Rannels Junior High School in November, a burglary at Kate Morrison School, the breaking of windows at the Kate Morrison School on numerous occasions, and also the breaking of glass at the Motor Co.

The theft of watches by shoplifters in a store here several weeks ago has been solved and some of the loot recovered. Several other burglaries and house prowlings have been admitted.

The two officers are continuing their work with the three youths today.

Over 3,500 Head Due In El Paso

EL PASO — The El Paso County Coliseum grounds will resemble an overnight stop on the old Chisum Trail when the 37th annual Southwestern International Livestock Show and Rodeo opens here Feb. 5 for a nine-day run.

Sam Gillett, vice president of the non-profit corporation which sponsors El Paso's stock show and rodeo, reported that at the rate entries for the show are arriving, there could well be over 3,500 head of stock on the grounds at the peak of the operation.

It is this phase of the show which is showing the most dramatic increase with entries running far ahead of last year's record total. At present, 42 clubs have entered 207 steers, 439 lambs, 347 hogs, 103 breeding sheep, and 43 heifers for a total of 1,139 animals, probably less than half of the final entry total.

Bids Opened For Reservoir

A local construction firm submitted the apparent low bid Thursday for the proposed 1,000,000 gallon reservoir tank, to be placed atop scenic Mountain this spring.

The opening of bids of six firms, two of them local, took place in the commission room of City Hall at 2:30 p.m. with about 40 construction firm representatives present.

Jones Construction Co. of Big Spring bid $85,235, the apparent low bid. Nor-Tex Contractors Inc., Fort Worth, bid $94,435; W. B. Abbott & Co., Lubbock, bid $101,110; Brown-McKee, Inc., Fort Worth, bid $112,100; Kasch Bros. of Big Spring bid $127,700; and L. D. Conatser, Fort Worth, bid $104,079.

Bids were opened by Larry Crow, city manager.

The bids will be submitted to city commissioners at their next meeting, Jan. 11 at 7 p.m., for consideration, and one of the bids will probably be accepted, Crow said.

Plans call for completion of the reservoir late in the spring.

Donelson Gets FHA Post

Delbert A. Donelson, who was reared in this area, has succeeded Lee Tunnell as county supervisor for the Farm Home Administration.

Tunnell, who has headed the office here for many years, has transferred to Corsicana. Mrs. Margaret Carter continues as clerk of the office.

In another administrative change, Glasscock was detached from Howard and given to Martin County for administrative purposes.

Donelson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Donelson, Stanton, and is a graduate of Stanton Texas A.M. (June 1964). He spent two years in the U.S. Army and joined the Farmers Home Administration in Seymour a year and a half ago as supervisor for Baylor County.

He is married to the former Barbara Smith, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith, Stanton, and they have two children, Gary, 3, and Debra June, age 6 months. The Donelsons are Methodists. When he was growing up in Martin County, Donelson was extremely active in 4-H Club work and won several awards for his entries in livestock shows.

Change Stolen

A service station at 901 Gregg reported the front door glass had been broken late Thursday or early this morning. Officers said entry was made through the door, and that an unknown amount of change was missing from the premises.

Ayub, Shastri Impasse Stays

TASHKENT, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan met today for the first time in two days at the deadlocked Tashkent summit conference.

Shastri and Ayub talked for 50 minutes and made tentative plans to meet again tonight.

A well-informed source said that despite active mediation by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, "Prospects are not too bright."

Kosygin spent much of Thursday shuttling between Shastri and Ayub. The two Asian leaders communicated with each other exclusively through him.

Kosygin apparently was in for more of the same. He was scheduled to meet Shastri early in the afternoon and probably would confer with Ayub later.

Kosygin's difficult task is to find some approach acceptable to both sides for handling their dispute over the Himalayan state of Kashmir, the stumbling block of the conference.

Despite the trouble he obviously was having, Kosygin appeared to be scoring a considerable personal success with both delegations.

Nichols Will Run Again In Pct. 2 Race

Ray C. Nichols, present county commissioner Precinct 2, has authorized The Herald to announce his candidacy for re-election for a second term to the same office he now holds, subject to the Democratic Primary May 7.

If elected to a second term, Nichols stated that he will continue, as in the past, to meet all persons and business matters that appear before the Commissioner's Court in as fair and impartial manner as it is his ability to do.

The business affiliations of Nichols are vice president and director of sales at Trinity Memorial Park Cemetery, also owner and vice president of River - Welch Funeral Home.

Big Spring is the home of Nichols and his wife, Marie, and they live at 11 Coachman's Circle. They have two daughters, Mrs. J. L. Sundry and Mrs. Delano Shaw, both of whom reside in Big Spring.

Nichols takes this means to express his appreciation to all of the people of Howard County for the splendid cooperation he has received during his term in office and especially does he thank the voters of Precinct 2 for making him your county commissioner during this term of office.

Cool Spell On The Way

By The Associated Press

Relatively mild weather for January lingered in Texas today, but another cool spell was on the way.

Skies were clear except for occasional clouds in the extreme south, along the coast and in the Panhandle.

The mercury edged below freezing at a few points in far West Texas overnight. Early morning readings generally were a few degrees higher than the day before.

Weather Bureau observers expected a new batch of cooler air to spread over the northern half of the state by Saturday and push the freeze line into all but the south central and southeast sections.

Draft Alternative Asked By Negro

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Negro leader, encouraging civil rights workers to seek legal means of avoiding military service, says the fight against racial injustice in the United States is more important than the war in Viet Nam.

"I think we are involved in a war here and it will have more importance and perhaps much more significance in the generations to come than the Viet Nam war," said John R. Lewis, national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Lewis, 25, elaborated on his views in an interview Thursday after issuing a SNCC statement opposing U.S. involvement in Viet Nam and encouraging civil rights workers to seek an alternative to the draft.

There are legal means of avoiding military service, Lewis said. He is a conscientious objector. "The work that the people in the civil rights movement are doing is in the national interest," he said.

"My feeling is that what they are doing is so vital, so basic to the development — economic-ly, socially and politically — of this country, that they should be exempt."

Lewis, a short, stocky Negro, is titular head of the loosely organized SNCC, composed of about 230 staff members with considerable following on college campuses.

He said the SNCC staff discussed Viet Nam and the draft in an Atlanta meeting last Thanksgiving and drafted a policy statement which was circulated, revised and then completed by a 23-member executive committee.

The SNCC statement charged deception by the U.S. government "in its claim for concern for the freedom of the Vietnamese people." It said the government never has guaranteed "the freedom of oppressed citizens" in this country.

"Vietnamese are murdered because the United States is pursuing an aggressive policy in violation of international law," SNCC's statement said. It also said that most elections in this country are not free and recent civil rights legislation has not been fully implemented.

Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, announced Thursday that contempt citations would be sought against Robert M. Shelton, Imperial Wizard of the United Klans of America, and six other Southeastern seaboard Klan leaders.

Shelton, in Washington, declined comment and said he might hold a news conference for contempt of Congress.

The committee said the action against the Klan leaders would be on the grounds that they failed to produce records and documents subpoenaed by the committee.

Telephone Firm Plans Big Construction Year

A record expenditure of nearly $182 million will be made by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Texas during 1966 on the biggest construction program in its history, according to Harry Sawyer, manager here.

The program will cost $11 million more than the 1965 construction, which was the biggest expansion up to that time, said Sawyer.

The money will go for new telephone buildings and additions, and equipment to improve and extend telephone service, he stated.

As in past years, the huge expansion budget will have an economic impact on nearly every community served by the company, Sawyer pointed out, affecting hundreds of Texas firms that sell supplies, services and materials to the company.

Southwestern Bell plans to complete 11 new telephone buildings and make additions to 33 more during the coming year. A number of other projects will be started. In 1965, there were 17 new buildings and 42 additions completed.

One of the major service improvements during the coming year will be making direct distance dialing available to more telephone users. This service will be brought to an additional 273,000 main telephones in the state in 1966, making a total of more than 1,600,000 from which long distance calls may be dialed direct. This is more than 60 per cent of the main telephones operated by the company in Texas.

The company will continue its schedule of placing more long distance cable underground and increasing its mileage of microwave radio relay circuits, both of which help to storm-proof telephone service, making it more dependable. Last year 273 route miles of long distance cable was buried, and 172 miles of microwave routes were added.

The biggest single project of the company, which will stretch over a 30-month period, will be to bring county-wide, toll-free calling to Dallas and Fort Worth. This will cost an estimated $25 million.

Texas telephone users will save $35 million on their telephone bills in 1966, due to the reduction of the federal excise tax on phone service. The tax is reduced from 10 to three per cent, effective Jan. 1, will be eliminated entirely by Jan. 1, 1969. When finally abolished, the savings will amount to $50 million annually in Texas.

There were several noteworthy achievements of the company during 1965. Telephones increased by about 204,000 during the year, compared to a gain of about 184,000 in 1964. The company ended the year with about 3,622,000 phones in service in Texas.

The number of local calls handled daily rose to 21.5 million, about 1 1/2 million a day more than in 1964. Long distance calls totaled 473,000 daily, an increase of about 15,000 a day over the previous year. Nearly 85 per cent of these calls were placed by using the area code.

Southwestern Bell is the largest employer in the state, outside the government, with more than 26,000 employees. Payroll totals $153,700,000 annually.

A Devotional For The Day

(Jesus) knelt down, and prayed . . . And there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him. (Luke 22:41-43)

PRAYER: Dear heavenly Father, help us to remember Thee at all times. Teach us to turn to Thee in thanksgiving and praise for Thy constant love for us. Teach us to turn to Thee for help in trouble and sorrow. Grant us Thy guidance; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Peace Gambit

It is difficult to assess the peace gambit now being waged on a global basis by the administration.

Some regard it as a response to pacifist groups at home. Some regard it as a move toward withdrawal as a means of extrication from a sticky involvement. Some regard it as an effort to promote a settlement of an explosive situation by talking instead of shooting.

The latter seems nearest on target, but even here there is more than meets the eye. The period of official silence, followed by massive contacts on every front of the world, all have the earmarks of impressing upon the mind of the nations of the world who is willing and who is unwilling to talk about peace.

Despite our protestations to the contrary, until now the Communists have had the better of it on the propaganda front. One evidence of this is the subtle manner in which they have ridden and sometimes provoked the floodtide of demonstrations in this country. Elsewhere, Uncle Sam has been made out to be a hardened imperialist and militarist.

By pressing through diplomatic channels on multiple fronts the willingness of this country to sit down and explore the grounds for amicable and equitable settlement of problems, the administration hopes to convince the world that we are extremely serious, and thus the Communists back off at their own peril in world opinion.

Districting Die Is Cast

Apparently the die is cast on congressional redistricting in Texas. A federal court has upheld the legislature's plan, and that will mean (barring the unlikely prospect that an appellate court will overturn the decision) that Howard County will pass from the 19th to the 17th district.

In terms of personality, it means that we will move from the district represented currently (and since it was created in 1934) by Rep. George Mahon into one represented at this time by Rep. Omar Burleson. While the matter of representation at the effective date next Jan. 1 rests with the election of congressmen in November, the two veteran incumbents will certainly be in favored position to repeat.

We have been ably represented during the past three decades, and it is not without some sadness of farewell that we come to parting next year with Rep. Mahon. However, there is no reason to believe that we will not continue to find splendid representation.

Metal Price Row Is Global

NEW YORK (AP)—The hassle over metal prices is worldwide, not just a private quarrel between the U.S. government and the producers of steel, copper and aluminum.

PRICES OF copper are soaring on world markets, ignoring the rollback which Washington got from domestic firms that tried to raise theirs.

The price of American - produced copper stays at 36 cents a pound. But foreign producers have boosted the price on the world market to 42 cents. And in London metal dealers were asking 71½ cents a pound for spot delivery at present and 68½ cents for delivery three months from now—both record high quotations. The dealers could ask that because a world-wide shortage makes quickly needed copper hard for manufacturers to find.

IN BOTH London and Singapore the price of spot tin advanced again. Shortages here, too, have sent prices soaring in recent weeks.

The move of three American makers of structural steel to raise its price brought quick retaliation from Washington before U.S. Steel's boost was declared acceptable. But it caused just about as much interest abroad, where steel mills have been finding the American market ever more accessible. U.S. imports of steel rose sharply in 1965. Still higher prices here might give European and Japanese mills even more of a foothold in the booming American market.

AND BOTH AT home and abroad the makers of materials that can compete with structural steel in the big construction boom foreseen for 1966 are assessing what opportunities a price rise in steel would afford them to expand the markets for steel substitutes.

TO FIGHT THE initial higher price hike announcement, the U.S. government ordered its purchasing agents for defense and civilian projects to buy their steel from companies holding to the old and lower price. The government buys about one-fourth of the structural steel produced. Last year about 12 per cent of such steel used in the United States was imported.

JUST AS watchful as Washington were the makers of cement, prestressed and reinforced concrete, since their products have been giving steel competition in the building field. Copper, aluminum, glass and plastics also have invaded many steel markets, although few that structural steel calls its own.

ALUMINUM PRODUCERS also had a run-in with Washington when they tried to raise the basic price of their metal, citing rising production costs and a growing world demand. But the government had a huge stockpile of aluminum built up as a defense measure. And talk of releasing tons of aluminum from the stockpile sent American producers scurrying to rescind the price rise.

EVEN SO, producers of aluminum products have since said that the steadily rising world demand for the metal is likely to see future price increases in aluminum end products here, even if the basic metal is unchanged.

THE PROBLEM of holding down price increases at home is complicated by the stresses of the domestic economy — it is made doubly difficult by the worldwide shortages of some metals and rising demand for them.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

You can find this under Chapter 567, Subsection 6-A, Paragraph 5 of what should be a well-worn volume called "The History of Competitive Bidding, Its Practice and Its Virtues."

But, apparently, the volume has not been thumbed through well enough, and so two new chapters have been added.

They concern the cafeterias at the Harris County Courthouse and the City Hall.

In the first case, the Courthouse cafeteria, the Harris County Commissioners' Court signed a new two-year lease after a majority voted not to advertise for bids. The court has taken bids only twice since 1953 on the lease. One of the commissioners who voted to renew without advertising commented that the county probably could not get more than it is presently receiving from the current lease holder.

The contract on the City Hall Cafeteria is the same as it was 18 years ago—$200 a month—and has been extended nine times without public bidding since 1947.

The principle of competitive bids on public facilities should be protected and adhered to.

The example of the two cafeterias may seem a relatively small matter, but the members of the two governmental bodies involved must recognize their responsibility to protect the public's interest through the taking of bids.

If they do not, there is little reason to believe they will do so in larger matters. —HOUSTON POST

YES, WE CONSTANTLY WAGE THE INFLATION WAR

James Marlow

LBJ Welcomes Home Front Battle Lull

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, pressing peace efforts to end the war in Viet Nam, faces a welcome lull in the home front battle against economic strife and the threat of inflation.

With the Big Steel price flap settled, the prospects during the rest of 1966 are for a minimum of major labor-industry squabbles threatening big strikes or widespread wage-price escalation.

Johnson, who didn't hesitate to remind both unions and management that U.S. fighting men were dying in Viet Nam, had to step into a number of big disputes last year, including steel negotiations and shipping strikes.

BUT THIS year will see the fewest major labor contract negotiations in recent years, reducing the chances of White House intervention in the name of the national interest.

However, there are some exceptions that could force Johnson back into the labor-management arena at the national level.

An estimated record $8 billion a year in deferred wage increases go to some 4 million workers in 1966 and may bear watching for potential upward pressure on prices.

But government economists generally believe these wage increases — negotiated previously in long-term contracts — will cause little inflationary squeeze because businessmen have had plenty of time to figure them into pricing policies.

PERHAPS THE biggest potential threat to labor peace is a renewal of economic warfare in the railroad industry, which enjoyed its first relatively peaceful year in 1965 since 1960.

Five train operating unions plan to demand wage increases, and a flareup is expected in the locomotive firemen's case.

The firemen, who have lost some 17,000 jobs under a federal arbitration ruling, already have demanded a 25 per cent wage hike and insist the railroads fill all the abolished jobs when the two-year arbitration law expires March 31.

"Frivolous," snapped chief railroad negotiator J. E. Wolfe in indicating stiff industry resistance.

RAILROAD TALKS, always a headache under the complicated Railway Labor Act, could turn into "a can of worms," one federal official said.

In the past, railroad negotiations have frequently wound up in the White House.

Machinists' wage demands in joint talks with seven major airlines could also cause trouble requiring some government action.

Only Few Snobs Realize It

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you a snob?

The world is full of snobs, but few of them realize it or admit it. Most snobs are hypocrites. They don't want to be recognized as snobs. It is the rare snob indeed who faces up to the fact of his snobbery — and enjoys it.

Snobbery is a very human attribute, but just how much of snob are you?

WELL, YOU are probably just about 100 per cent snobbish if most of the following things are true about you:

You'd try to romance a waitress or hatcheck girl but never think of marrying one.

You'd date the boss's daughter but never marry her either, for fear someone would think you were a social climber.

When talking about your ancestors, you always mention the one who came over on the Mayflower — and never mention the one who was hanged as a horse thief.

You never read a book that makes the best-seller list.

WHEN YOU are alone in an elevator and hear footsteps approaching, you quickly push the up button so you won't have to ride with a stranger.

You fawn on those you think are your superiors and frown on those you think are your inferiors.

You never order corned beef and cabbage for lunch because it is supposed to be a vulgar dish.

When a friend confides to you that his son has just been thrown out of a public school, you brag that your son has just been thrown out of a private one.

YOU ARE proud of having won a Phi Beta Kappa key in college but you never wear it in public because you are afraid it will make you look ostentatious.

At a cocktail party you talk knowingly about international affairs when what you'd rather talk about is blondes, brunettes and baseball.

Should a friend buy a more expensive house than you believe he can afford, you mutter sourly, "Some people don't know their place in life. Thank heavens, I do."

YOU BELIEVE anybody younger than yourself is still wet behind the ears and couldn't possibly know as much about life as you do.

You sometimes say to yourself: "Well, at least I know one thing: Whatever else I may be, at least I'm not a snob."

But are you sure? As the old saying goes, it takes one to tell one.

Around The Rim

Now You See It, Or Do You?

I'm reporting this not as a fact, but as what I think is a fact. Tuesday of this week I am sitting in front of the Death Ray, watching an afternoon program, at a local watering hole (I had an afternoon off, Boss, 'cause I'm working Saturday, OK?).

THIS IS a particularly insipid afternoon whatsit, aimed, I gather, at allowing the public to see entertainment persons display their lack of intelligence.

Anyway, the sound is off, and several of us are talking, and I've had a couple of beers, so perhaps I really didn't see this, but here goes.

On-screen appears a Rolls-Royce Silver Cloud IV, which is a $17,900 automobile. It is chauffeur-driven, and in the back seat sits this goddess, or model, blonde, svelte and (Lord help us and pardon me) squeaky-clean.

SHE PUSHES a button, and curtains close her off from the driver's view, shamefully, and from everybody else's view (except lucky us and the camera-man). Ostensibly, she proceeds to disrobe. Well, anyway, we get to see her take off one shoe.

But she evidently succeeds completely, for what to my (admittedly startled) eyes appears in the floorboard of the Rolls but a bathtub. In the floorboard. Tub. A. Bath. She is in it. In the bath tub. Yes.

IT IS like unto Ursula Andress and her pistol-bra in her latest movie. Wild! She begins to lave herself with some compound or other (evidently the sponsor's product), becoming progressively more squeaky clean, I suppose. She luxuriates. She smiles. She, uh, wriggles.

CUT TO extremely large and gaudy Southern-type plantation manse. Into curved driveway glides the Rolls, stops near front steps and out steps goddess, fully dressed in something that shimmers and swirls. She glides up the steps to be greeted by 20 members of the Jet Set, and, I think (for by this time I am keening softly), Ma and Pa Kettle. End of whatsit, cut to entertainment persons misanswering question about Gandhi.

"DID YOU see what I just saw?" I query waitress. "You too," she asks.

"How much do I owe you?" I say, glancing at one-half beer growing warm in the glass in front of me. "You're paid up," she says.

"Excuse me, I'm going home," I say. "Now!"

I DO GO straight home, stick out tongue in mirror, examine, find nothing amiss, check eyes (slightly bloodshot, but that's normal), drink warm milk and go to bed.

I promise me I'll go to optometrist manana. But I'm beginning to believe I really, for certain, saw what I saw. I hope not. One must have hope.

Don't Open Till Doomsday

WASHINGTON — Sometime this spring President Johnson is expected, in effect, to commission a subterranean "battleship" at Denton, Texas.

It's a shipshape, self-sufficient, underground structure that "floats" on suspended springs. Eventually there will be eight such edifices throughout the country. They will house regional, emergency federal staffs to run the country in event of nuclear attack.

OUT OF THE planning for such a disaster has come a high priority word: "postattack." The hyphen has been dropped in federal usage. The word is considered so important that authorities are thinking of having it stamped in large letters on the outside and inside pages of every pertinent document.

There is a reason for this emphasis: To impress every government functionary, high and low, that the emergency procedures do not apply to scare situations, or to non-military emergencies like the Nov. 9 power failure in the Northeast, or typhoons, fires, earthquakes and hurricanes, or even to a conventional raid or invasion by the enemy.

REGIONALIZED and possibly nationalized dictatorship would exist all right, but only for the duration of the immediate catastrophe. The buried structures, engineered so as to rock with the nuclear blasts and then to assume upright postures like vessels in water, would be manned by non-elective officials in full control of production and distribution of goods and services.

To take the curse off over-federalism, mostly from industry, named for assignment at the eight emergency centers. In addition to Denton, the centers will be located at Harvard (Mass.), Olney (Md.), Battle Creek (Mich.), Thomasville (Ga.), Denver (Colo.), Santa Rosa (Calif.) and Everett (Wash.).

POSTATTACK planning got an energizing jolt on the night of the November power failure. At about 5:30 that evening, when the juice was cut off, nobody was manning the White House press office. At the Office of Emergency Planning — in the Windsor Building at Washington — Director Buford Ellington got through by phone to a Consolidated Edison vice president and became the first official to learn what had happened and to pinpoint the cause of power failure at 10.5 miles below Niagara Falls.

ELLINGTON'S priority with the information was appropriate. In a post-attack crisis the OEP Director would have full charge of implementing the survival and recovery plans. His broad orders are "to promulgate national policies and program directives. . . ." The federal government would take over just about everything under the heading of "resources" — including private manufacturing firms, all stores of medicine and food, all media of spreading information. It would supersede all state authority and commandeer all manpower.

THESE WOULD be, in fact, the most instantaneous and far-reaching dictatorship ever conceived, no doubt the most necessary one, and hopefully one of the shortest. But it's no wonder that federal officials want to see "postattack" stamped big and clear on their planning. This is a package not to be opened — until Doomsday.

Paralyzing Strikes

WASHINGTON — The whole country has been given a dramatic example of how an autocracy in control of 33,000 workers can paralyze the transportation system of the second-largest city in the world. The issue is not personal—it isn't just an eccentric or demagogic personality like that of Michael Quill who deserves criticism but the subservient attitude of the members of his labor union who are ordered to go on strike and fail to take into account the possible consequences of their action. This is the problem that the United States is plagued with today as strikes after strike is called which arbitrarily causes the loss of many millions of dollars a day to innocent bystanders.

CONGRESS HAS been negligent in dealing with union autocracies as well as union monopolies. Many an industry has its costs fixed by extremists like Mr. Quill. There is no mechanism which insures fairness or a conciliatory process which takes into account all the equities in a dispute.

What is called "collective bargaining" is a farce. It is "collective" only in the sense that the united power of the workers is utilized to blackmail employers into submission. The "bargaining" often fails to recognize that there are limits to the payments which can be made by management. Again and again an ultimatum is issued by a labor-union leader, and the employer finds himself comparing the huge cost of a strike with the expense of granting the wage demands. Many a manager has taken the risk of agreeing to high wage scales that he really can't afford, only to find himself later forced out of business.

THE ANNUAL COST of strikes reaches fantastic figures, especially when public facilities are involved that cause damage to citizens in every walk of life.

Congress in recent years has ignored the destructive influence of the extremists in labor-union leadership. The labor unions themselves have gone deeply into politics and have collected millions of dollars to help elect members of Congress — primarily the candidates of the Democratic party. This is a form of bribery that has gone unrebuked in America, though sooner or later the corrupt influence of campaign contributions must inevitably be recognized as against the public interest.

CONGRESS HAS the power to regulate labor-management relations. During the last 18 years virtually no important amendments to existing laws have been enacted to cut down the abuses in the conduct of labor relations. Indeed, the National Labor Relations Board, which is supposed to be a quasi-judicial body, has become an instrument of politics. Its one-sided rulings have begun to astonish lawyers who have watched the week-by-week decisions that have tolerated the unions' misuse of the collective-bargaining power.

WHAT MAY Congress do? It can limit the right of labor-union leaders to call a strike unless the issues have been made clear to all concerned, and until, in cases of deadlock, an opportunity has been given for disinterested tribunals or boards to evaluate the arguments and tell the union members the true situation so they will not be misled by irresponsible leaders.

Congress claims the right to regulate interstate commerce, and certainly labor unions today are engaged in an interstate process. Almost all products or services are an integral part of a national system of interstate commerce and communication. Congress thus has full responsibility for preventing costly strikes.

Labor Organizing Blitz Shapes Up

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Plans for a labor organizing blitz in South Texas began taking shape Thursday at a conference of about 60 union leaders.

They met briefly in open session to give a bare outline of the massive program and then ducked behind closed doors to iron out the details.

H. S. Brown, president of the Texas AFL-CIO, said preliminary plans call for an organizing attack on two fronts—a long South Texas belt from El Paso to Corpus Christi, and in San Antonio. He asked leaders of South Texas locals for cooperation.

OUTSIDE HELP
N. A. Zonarich, director of the industrial union department of the AFL-CIO, said many in South Texas "work and live on a barefooted economy."

He said although cooperation of the locals in South Texas is needed, "they must have outside money and help. We are prepared to put a substantial staff in Brownsville. We're ready to go in a few weeks."

A Catholic priest, the Rev. Sherrill Smith, said South Texas workers are "being sweated and they are slaved." He said other plans to organize the area went no further than talk and challenged the union leaders to "put up or shut up."

COST $100,000
"If fat labor can't help those that are poor, it has failed," he said. "It shouldn't come back here any more."

Brown estimated the drive would cost $100,000 in San Antonio alone. Financing plans have not been worked out, he said. If the drive succeeds, he said, it may be extended to the Midland-Odessa area, which he described as "a jungle" for the labor movement.

The Texas projects include: Alpine, planning, Alpine public schools for a West Texas innovative education center; Burleson, planning, Burleson Independent School District for cooperative improvement of educational opportunity and quality; Canyon, planning, Canyon Independent School District for Texas cooperative dissemination project; El Paso, operation, El Paso Independent School District for a language training and instruction center; El Paso, planning, El Paso Independent School District for quest for quality; Houston planning, Harris County Department of Education for an instructional improvement center; Houston, planning, Houston Independent School District for a Texas Gulf Coast science educational resource center; Houston, operation, Spring Branch Independent School District for a training center in exemplary instructional systems; San Antonio, planning, San Antonio Independent School District for inter-American educational center; San Marcos, planning, Hays County school superintendent for Central Texas educational media center.

Allocations for each project will be announced after further consultation with local authorities.

The projects are designed to serve children and teachers in public and private elementary and secondary schools, pre-school age youngsters, adults, handicapped children and youths not in school.

Washington (AP)—Various Texas schools are listed in an Office of Education announcement that some $15 million will be allocated under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

Court Upholds Life Sentence

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A life sentence assessed a Texan for killing a sheriff more than eight years ago was upheld Thursday by the Alabama Supreme Court.

Cecil Tiner, who listed Dallas as his home, first drew the death sentence for the fatal shooting of Geneva County Sheriff James Woodham in 1957.

That conviction was reversed by the supreme court and Tiner was sentenced to life on his second trial.

William Hable, a companion who also identified himself as from Dallas, is serving a life term for the slaying.

The sheriff was shot after he stopped Tiner and Hable for questioning about the theft of narcotics from a hospital.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

A calcium growth in his back, which limits his swing, is keeping Lord Byron Nelson from the golf course these days. Nelson was one of the links nobility who attended a luncheon party staged at Fort Worth's Colonial Club Thursday to focus attention on the new Shell's Wonderful World of Golf TV series starting Sunday — an event to which numerous writers and broadcasters from around the state were invited.

Nelson, who now runs approximately 100 head of cattle on a 770-acre spread near Roanoke, Texas, doesn't expect his sabbatical from the game to be permanent but has no idea when he will be able to get back on the course.

Byron's appearances in big-time tournament golf are rare but he had planned to compete in the Bing Crosby tournament in California until his back trouble flared.

Nelson's principal association with the athletic endeavor now is serving as a TV analyst in such tournaments as the Masters, the National Open and other major shows. His agreement with ABC, for which he works, is oral but he expects to serve as a color man in seven or eight of the major shows this year.

The great Nelson began to limit his tournament appearances as early as 1946 but before his star went into partial eclipse he stitched together a winning skein of 11 straight tournaments. That record probably will stand through eternity.

Last year the personable Texan served as captain of the U.S. Ryder Cup team that led from wire to wire and beat the British handily.

Other golf luminaries present for the social were Gene Sarazen, host of the Shell show; laconic Ben Hogan, far less at home in front of a microphone than on a tee; and Shelly Mayfield.

Sarazen was in an expansive mood and talked knowingly as long as he discussed golf but he needs to be briefed a little more in international politics, which he touched on occasionally.

Hogan, always the perfectionist, has been invited back to appear on the Shell series numerous times since his one match against Sam Snead in Houston but he made it emphatic that he wanted no part of such a test. His game simply isn't conditioned to such long waits between shots, he said. (The average 18-hole match usually takes two days to film.)

The state of Texas didn't rank anywhere in the top ten among commonwealths which built new golf courses during 1965. California, as expected, led the way with 49, followed by New York, 36; Ohio, 31; Pennsylvania, 30; Michigan, 29; Minnesota, 22; Illinois, 21; Kentucky, 20; and Florida and North Carolina, 19 each.

The addition of the new facilities brought the total courses now in play in the United States to an astonishing 8,323, which represents a capital investment that exceeds $2 billion.

The golfing population in this country now exceeds 7,750,000. Those are the figures and the stars who each play 15 rounds or more over a year's time.

Eight years ago, according to the National Golf Foundation, 3,970,000 golfers went 15-or-more rounds over 5.745 courses.

Chances are bleak that Howard County Junior College will field a baseball team this spring.

Big drawback is lack of a playing field. Don Shoemaker headed up a baseball program at the local college in 1965 but the Jayhawks weren't able to play many games.

Quite probably, the few fans who watched Cameron Junior College against HCJC here the other night were seeing the best juco team in the nation perform.

The Aggies left here with a 3-1 record. Their only loss has been to Dallas Baptist (in the Garden City, Kan., tournament) and the Oklahomans avenged that reversal in a later game.

Dallas Baptist, by the way, moves in here Wednesday to throw down the gauntlet to HCJC. The Baptists are tall and talented and could be the best this state has to offer in the way of junior college teams.

One of the Dallas players is Gale Rhine, younger brother of the former Rice great, Kendall Rhine. Kendall had to bend his knees in order to get through doorways — he stood 6-feet-9. Gale is a half foot shorter.

In the Garden City tournament, Rhine failed to score a basket against HCJC but Dallas Baptist won the game, 75-62.

That television package sold to CBS by the National Football League recently will include several Friday night exhibition games, starting as early as Aug. 12.

The Texas Interscholastic League members aren't going to like that phase of the programming a little bit and may set up quite a howl of protest, once they find out the way the airlines are going to be filled with football from August on through the early days of January.

The Sunday doubleheader program will not be revealed until the NFL schedule is completed. CBS has agreed to carry doubleheaders the last eight Sundays of the season.

Quite obviously, CBS is determined to find out just where the saturation point lies in football coverage. It appears, too, that the pro leagues are determined to kill off football on the high school level all over the country.

In so doing, too, they are planting the seeds of their own destruction.

Three Area Clubs Win In Tourney

SAN ANGELO—Forsan, Coahoma and Stanton all posted wins in the first round of the 16th annual Lake View Maidens' Basketball tournament here Thursday.

Cincy Bearcats Are On Comeback Trail

By TED MEIER, Associated Press Sports Writer

The University of Cincinnati Bearcats, who dominated college basketball in 1961 and 1962, are on the way back.

The national champions of those years who missed an unprecedented third straight national title by a mere three points in 1963, made it five in a row and 9-1 for the current season by defeating North Texas 62-75 at Denton, Tex., Thursday night.

A year ago the Bearcats posted a dismal season record for them of 14-12 which included a defeat at Denton by North Texas.

Don Rolfe, with 30 points, led the Bearcats, who staved off an Eagle rally that cut Cincinnati's lead to four points in the closing minutes.

Like Cincinnati, Tulsa opened its Missouri Valley Conference schedule with a victory Thursday. Playing at home, the Hurricane came from behind in the last three minutes to defeat Louisville 84-79. Eldridge Webb, a 6-foot sophomore, led the Hurricane rally with 25 points after Louisville had taken a 77-74 lead.

Texas Western, ninth-ranked in The Associated Press poll and one of the two major unbeaten teams in the country, made it 12 straight by defeating Seattle 76-64 at Seattle. Willie Cager, a 6-5 soph, came off the bench in the second half and led the Miners with 16 points.

Bradley, No. 5 in The AP poll, overpowered Wichita State at Peoria 91-86 and the sixth-ranked Providence Friars whipped Massachusetts 87-73 at Amherst, Mass. Alex McNutt, with 25 points, and Eddie Jackson, with 22, led the Braves over Wichita. Mike Riordan, with 26 points, and Jim Walker, with 23, paced the Friars. Bradley's record now is 12-1, Providence's 10-1.

Soph Phil Wagner tossed in 33 points to lead Georgia Tech to a 87-73 victory over Clemson at Atlanta. St. Louis staved off a late Drake rally to score a 60-54 home-court triumph over the Bulldogs.

Jerry Wells and Gary Gray combined for 63 points to lead Oklahoma City over Loyola of the South 105-88 at New Orleans. Wells hit for 33 points, Gray for 30.

NYU whipped West Virginia 104-81 and Duquesne drubbed Iowa 74-57 in a doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden. Army easily beat Lehigh 64-52 at West Point. Wyoming scored a 90-88 road victory over Denver and Virginia Tech. playing at home, took Richmond 58-73.

STANTON (SC)—Stanton High School will have a new head football coach and athletic director next year and indications are the appointment will come from within the Stanton system.

Bill Milam, who has served in that capacity the past three years, has been elevated to the position of high school principal and although he temporarily will be retained on both jobs a change will be made in the near future.

Milam called it a day after serving 17 years as a coach. He came here from Early High School near Brownwood.

As high school principal, he succeeds Bill Johnson, who is leaving for Blanket High School, where he will become superintendent of schools.

The change officially takes place Jan. 14.

In addition to filling the job as football coach and athletic director, Milam has served as girls' basketball mentor and an instructor in world history in the local school system.

Stanton will be seeking a history teacher after Milam is officially elevated to the principal's post.

It has been emphasized by superintendent of schools Burl Clinton that no applications are being accepted for the head coaching job at the present time.

In his coaching career, Milam's teams have won 104 while losing 68 and tying five. Six of his teams won district titles, along with two bi-district crowns. In 1958, his Early team defeated Meridian in the regional finals, 27-6.

In basketball, coaching both boys and girls, Milam has guided his teams to nine district titles. Overall, his cage units have won 369 while losing 136. On nine occasions, he has taken track boys to the state meet in Austin.

The Rannels Whites turned back the Goliad Whites, 30-26, and the Goliad Blacks shut out the Rannels Reds in the last half of their way to a 22-19 victory in two seventh grade basketball games played here Thursday.

Ben Johnson scored ten points for Goliad and Robert Evans 12 for Rannels in the first game. Randy Womack had 15 for Goliad in the other contest.

Vernon Newsom scored 16 points while Michael Hoch 12 for Garden City.

The Bearcats now play Big Lake in second round competition at 9 o'clock tonight.

Flower Grove To Clash With Dawson Tonight

FLOWER GROVE—District 71-B basketball competition kicks off for Flower Grove tonight at 8 o'clock at the Dawson school in Dawson County.

Dawson was classed as the district favorite in a pre-season poll, mainly due to height and returning lettermen. Dawson has one lad who towers 6-6.

Flower Grove can't be counted out. Coach Sam Adams' team was co-champion last year in both football and basketball. Graduation, however, cut heavily into the team. The remnant has great potential if it can come up with team effort.

Flower Grove's entry is built around 6-3 Don McMorries, junior, a 1963 all-district performer; Johnny Howard, a senior, and Kenneth Prybila, senior. In addition, coach Adams can use Jimmy Grove, Jack Webb, Wade Guerin, and two sophomores from the 1963-64 Grady district championship junior high team. These lads are Neil McMorries and Jimmy Walker.

In an earlier meeting this season, Flower Grove defeated Dawson, but things are likely to be a lot tighter when they tangle on the Dawson home court. Dawson got off to a slow start because its boys were tied up in bi-district football competition.

Hawks Beaten By Lubbock

LUBBOCK — Licking their wounds from an 81-71 defeat absorbed at the hands of upstart Lubbock Christian College here Thursday night, the HCJC Jayhawks moved on to Lawton, Okla., for the start of the four-team All-State Basketball tournament here tonight.

The Big Spring club, now 9-0 on the season, tangles with Northeastern, Colo., in first round competition at 7:15 p.m. today. A victory there would put the Texans in the Saturday night finals, possibly against powerful Cameron. The Hawks are assured of playing two games in Lawton.

HCJC and Lubbock Christian played nip and tuck until the final five minutes of play, when the Chapparals pulled away. The Hawks three times brought the ball down court after trail.

In a special halftime show, HCJC's Jimmy Jasper, a freshman from Dallas, sped to a 6.2 clocking in a winning effort in a 60-yard dash but HCJC's mile relay team was defeated. In that event, LCC was timed in 3:29.9 while HCJC was caught in 3:30.4.

The Hawks who ran in the event were Herb Zerbel (caught in 53.8 in his lap), Jasper (52.3), Oliver Hunter (54.3) and Roger Hill (a speedy 50.2).

Jasper and Hunter are, of course, primarily sprinters. In the special 60, Hunter and Lubbock's Roger Strickland were caught in a dead heat for second place.

Vets Report No Rabies Cases Here

By JERRY MONSON

Local veterinarians report no cases of rabies in Howard County for nearly a year, in contrast to the state health department's report of 39 cases statewide through November and December, 1965.

Both H. F. Schwarzenbach and Akin Simpson, local veterinarians, said that they had not been notified of any new cases for almost a year in the Howard County area. However, both emphasized the importance that a complete, continuing rabies control program be followed.

State health authorities renewed their program of animal vaccination against rabies following a definite upswing in the virus disease since early fall.

Dr. J. E. Peavy, state health commissioner, said at least 12 cases have been confirmed by the state health laboratory in the first week of the new year.

Confirmation came from animal head autopsies performed on dogs, livestock and some wildlife.

The number of cases back in the fall reached four or five but the figure jumped to 12 in November and 27 through December 25. No single area of the state has been cited as leading the statistics, since the increase appears to be statewide, Dr. Peavy said.

Both Schwarzenbach and Simpson emphasized that the rabies control program, as set by state health officials, should include public education regarding the seriousness of rabies exposure and the relative ease with which rabies can be controlled in animals through concerted effort. Also urged was the vaccination of all owned dogs and cats, elimination of all stray dogs and cats, and wildlife control procedures in the county and city areas.

Women Apply For Astronaut Duty—Rejected

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP)—Half a dozen women were among 351 would-be astronauts applying to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. But its new group of 15 to be named this spring will be all men.

A spokesman said Thursday none of the women met minimum requirements, which trimmed the number of candidates to 159. Officials expect to disclose the successful 15 in May.

Presently there are 28 pilot-astronauts and five scientist-astronauts in the NASA program.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Friendships Depend On Blessings From On High

To The Editor:

This is the beginning of a new year. No one knows what we may endeavor or accomplish during this new "faultless period," with the exception of God. I do not claim to be an extremely holy man, but I do believe in a "Supreme Being."

Whether the relationship between Big Spring and the military grows into an everlasting friendship or becomes part of the harsh volleys of hatred which seem to be spreading over the globe today depends solely upon the blessings, as well as the mercy we receive from the "Supreme Being."

I do so hope that the relationship between those of us in the military and the civilian population of Big Spring and surrounding areas becomes a maze of everlasting friendship. I also hope that this same feeling can soon be in the hearts of every civilian as well as military person, as strongly as it is in mine. When one individual helps another's life to be happier, one brightens his own, because he knows that it was his efforts that brought this individual out of the darkness of misfortune to the lights of happiness and contentedness.

In closing I say to you, Mr.

Editor, may you be as helpful this new year as you have been during the past one, which has just passed through the barrier of reality and entered into the long pages of history.

Sincerely,
AIRMAN 3.C. EARL DUSHANE

While back there was a piece in the paper about how much money truck drivers make which was a surprise to me for I never dreamed that these men who went roaring off down the road in 10-ton trucks with gutted mufflers and/or defective exhaust systems, disturbing the populace for miles around, were worth much over $50 a week.

Utilities Buy Gas Reserve

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Sales of Oklahoma's largest uncommitted natural gas reserve, the Red Oak Norris Field in the southeastern part of the state, to three Oklahoma utility companies for $284 million was announced Thursday.

Spokesmen for the sellers, Midwest Oil Corp. of Denver and Pan American Petroleum Corp. of Tulsa, said more than a trillion cubic feet of gas is involved.

The buyers are Oklahoma Gas & Electric Co. of Oklahoma City and two Tulsa based firms, Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. and Public Service Co. of Oklahoma.

THIRD TO EACH
Each of the utilities will buy one-third of the uncommitted gas production from the field, which could result in as much as 28.3 billion cubic feet annually for each at the full output rate. Total gas purchases on that basis could represent some $14 million annually.

The large gas reserve, in the Arkoma Basin, was discovered in 1960 when Midwest completed the Orr well No. 1.

The gas will be consumed within the state for fuel requirements of industrial, commercial and residential natural gas use and for electric power generation.

TWENTY YEARS
Midwest President D. R. Murphy said the contracts with the utilities will be for a term of 20 years. First sales are expected to begin in the next six months.

F. R. Yost, Pan American president, said his company will build and operate a $2 million gathering system to collect the gas in the field. The system will be jointly owned by the producers.

Teachings Are Useful Daily

With increasing stress being put upon the relevancy of religion to life today while lots of persons seem concerned only with material success and comforts, many persons are asking if it's really possible to be guided by Christian teachings in one's daily work.

In a freewheeling discussion with other men prominent in business and the professions, a big city official asks if decisions ever become clear and easy. Candid reactions are reported in a recent issue of "Together" magazine.

"The highest ethical standards attainable usually also are sound business judgment," declares Leon E. Hickman, executive vice president and chairman of the finance committee of the Aluminum Company of America.

"I think there is a growing awareness," he continues, "that, in the long run, high ethical standards are the ones that work best—in treatment of people, treatment of communities, sale of products, or whatever it is."

Layman's Critique

NEW YORK (AP) — Hesitancy of Roman Catholic laymen to voice their religious views freely is what Edward M. Keating terms "The Scandal of Silence."

The title of his new book, published by Random House, a Catholic layman himself, Keating says:

"The greatest obstacle to free speech is psychological, but breaking the silence is like breaking down an enormous wall, unaided by anything except the belief that the wall must come down."

GLORYLAND QUARTET

Roswell Quartet Due Here Saturday

The Gloryland Quartet of Roswell, N.M., will present a concert of gospel music, Saturday, Jan. 8, at the Highland Church of God, 1108 E. 8th. The program will begin at 8 o'clock.

The quartet has been singing as an organized unit for almost three years and it travels throughout New Mexico and Texas.

It travels in its own bus, which is equipped with sleeping accommodations and other comforts of home, necessary in the long hours of travel. The quartet records on Sword and Shield records and now has two LP albums—"We Shall Sing a New Song" and the latest, "The Gloryland Quartet Sings." These and other gospel albums and a large selection of sheet music will be available at the concert.

The quartet is heard each Sunday over a radio station in Roswell, and have made numerous TV and radio appearances in other cities. Members of the quartet include the manager and bass, O. A. Kinnison, Nita Kinnison, Joe Norris and Pete Berry.

The public is invited. There will be no admission charge.

Davis Gets Assignment For Circuit Assembly

Mike Davis has received a special assignment for the forthcoming Circuit Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses to be held in the High School Auditorium in Colorado City, Jan. 21-23.

Davis, local groceryman, said "In an undertaking such as this assembly, quite a lot of money is involved. Since refreshment stands and a cafeteria will be operated for the convenience of the delegates and all this merchandise must be bought, some sort of accounting system must be adopted. I will assist W. R. Edwards, Midland, in the accounts department. There will be several of us to receive and count money, disburse it, and credit it to the proper accounts."

"I've been associated with Jehovah's Witnesses for many years and it has always amazed me how each one is willing to do his part. For example, in Colorado City, about one out of every four delegates, or about 150, will volunteer to staff the 24 different departments that will be set up to ensure the success of the assembly. All these workers serve without pay or compensation; it is on a voluntary basis. Such efforts are seldom seen in a world that is so often cold."

Approximately 30 delegates from the Big Spring area are expected to attend this meeting. Highlight of the gathering will be Jan. 23, at 3 p.m., when the public lecture entitled "What Does the Resurrection of the Dead Mean for You and Yours?" will be delivered. The public is invited.

Participants Are Named For H-SU Educational Study

Nine additional participants in the Baptist Educational Study Task seminar at Hardin-Simons University Jan. 15 have been announced by the conference chairman, Dr. Robert G. Collier, Wayland Baptist College dean.

Two Abileneans are among the newly announced participants, including Mrs. L. H. Beckham and Mrs. David Proctor, both longtime supporters of H-SU.

Other new participants include Richard Crawley, president of First National Bank of Lamesa; Lattimore Ewing, educational director of First Baptist Church of Lubbock; Henry Heck, Plainview; Mrs. J. Howard Hodge, Midland; Dr. A. B. Lightfoot, pastor of First Baptist Church of Snyder; Gene Porter of Brownwood and Dr. A. J. Turner, dean of students at Howard Payne College, Brownwood.

Others already named to take part in the seminar with a theme of "Academic Scope of Christian Higher Education" include Dr. James H. Landes, president of H-SU; Dean William S. Mathis of H-SU; Leroy Jennings Sr., Abilene; Dr. George L. Graham, executive vice president at H-SU who will serve as recorder; the Rev. Floyd Bradley, First Baptist Church of Floydada; Norris E. Clark, Texas Floral Co., Lubbock.

Also, Dr. Jerry F. Dawson and Dr. Collmer, Wayland Baptist College; Dr. Franklin E. Swanner, Caprock Plains Area Missionary, Plainview; Preston Johnston, Lubbock; the Rev. Russell Pogue, First Baptist Church of Petersburg.

H-SU will host one of 24 seminars in 16 states dealing with what top Southern Baptist educators call "crises" being faced by Baptist schools. Similar sessions will be held in Dallas and Houston.

Mushrooming enrollments, higher costs, increased standards without corresponding increase in financial support are reasons given for the seminars throughout the nation.

In announcing the Abilene conference, Dr. Collier said that the January meeting will be followed by a February and then a March meeting.

"Every participant in the seminar will have received prior to the meeting three background papers written by recognized authorities in the field," Dr. Collier said. "These background papers will give substance to the discussions."

At the conclusion of the three sessions, a report will be drawn up on the members' opinions about the proper academic scope to which Southern Baptist Colleges and universities should be aiming, Dr. Collier said.

The report from the seminar at H-SU will fit into reports from seminars in Kentucky and Tennessee. Combined reports will be examined by a group of 325 Baptist leaders acting as the national study conference in Nashville, Tenn., June 13-16, 1966, according to Dr. Collier.

Plans call for further diffusion of the report on further evaluation and modification among Southern Baptist pastors' conferences and selected churches.

CHURCH CALENDAR Special Study At Baptist Temple

A series of studies on the Book of Revelation will be presented each Sunday at 7:15 p.m. through January and February at the Baptist Temple, Eleventh Place at Goliad, according to the Rev. James A. Puckett, pastor.

The purpose of the sermons is to stimulate spiritual growth and to lay a groundwork for the L. L. Morris Crusade, which will be held Feb. 28-March 6 at the Baptist Temple, Rev. Puckett said. The lectures will not be held the Sunday of Jan. 23, he added.

Those interested may enroll in the study by either signing an enrollment card at the church or signing an attendance card at the evening worship hour. A diploma will be given to all who enroll in the study, with a seal on the diploma for each night of attendance, Rev. Puckett said.

What's A GARNISH

SUSAN'S mother is a wonderful cook. She'll teach her little girl all about garnishes and dumplings and conserves... and about dozens of other skills that will help Susan to be a talented homemaker herself, one day.

We pass our own store of knowledge on to our children because we want to make things easier for them in the future. They will need all the preparation we can give them in order to cope with a life that grows ever more complex.

ABOVE all, we owe our children the opportunity to learn about their best Friend, God. Awareness of His loving presence will give them confidence and courage whatever they do, wherever they go. Through regular church attendance, they can absorb the inspiring principles of Christianity... the most valuable recipes for modern living that exist.

Extension Urged Of Bombing Lull

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken said today the United States should not resume its bombing raids on North Vietnam targets unless Hanoi acts to widen the war.

The Vermont Republican made the suggestion amid indications that some administration officials are growing restive about the aerial lull that began on Christmas Eve.

The bombing pause, it was learned, will go on for at least 10 days.

"I would continue it unless there is greatly increased activity on the part of North Vietnam," Aiken said in a telephone interview from his home in Putney, Vt.

There have been significant differences of opinion within the Democratic administration about the extended pause in bombing North Vietnam.

SOME OPPOSE
Some military men believe the lull is giving the Communists the military advantages of easier transport and time to make repairs — or even step up the infiltration of troops into South Vietnam.

But the administration believes its aerial surveillance would spot any North Vietnamese moves calling for U.S. retaliation from the air.

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers was asked Thursday about a New York Times report that Secretary of State Dean Rusk was not wholly in sympathy with President Johnson's peace offensive.

"I suggest you go to Secretary Rusk," he replied, then added, "There certainly has been no evidence of that over here."

DECLARED INACCURATE
At the State Department, a spokesman for Rusk said the story "is inaccurate and does not represent the situation."

Johnson is pleased with the results of his carefully directed peace offensive, believing that the message U.S. diplomats have spread to capitals throughout the world is getting to Hanoi.

But the Communist Viet Nam News Agency reported Thursday the Viet Cong had rejected the U.S. peace moves as "cunning and extremely repugnant."

A "peace" smokescreen, he said, it is not yet clear whether the Communist regime there will heed the peace overtures and join in seeking a negotiated end to the fighting on terms the United States could accept.

"I think we can tell better a month from now," Aiken said.

The Vermont senator, who serves on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he thinks a peace settlement would have to include provision for the continued presence of some U.S. forces in South Viet Nam.

Negro Bishop Consecrated In Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Negro Roman Catholic Bishop Harold Perry, 49, auxiliary to Archbishop Phillip Hannan of New Orleans, holds his first pontifical mass in historic St. Louis Basilica today.

Bishop Perry, the first full-blooded Negro bishop in the Roman Catholic Church's U.S. history, was consecrated Thursday in the basilica, oldest cathedral in the nation. Five archbishops and 50 bishops attended.

Bishop Perry plans a trip to his native Lake Charles, La., Saturday.

In Lake Charles, as the 12-year-old son of a rice mill laborer, Perry decided to try for the priesthood.

"There is a priest there, Father Hackett—A. J. Hackett," he said. "I wanted to be a priest like him. I think he is now chaplain at Our Lady of Lourdes Hospital there."

As the procession at the consecration moved into the basilica, it filed past a picket, Mrs. B. J. Gallot, who carried a placard which said:

"Jesus did not choose non-white apostles," and, on the other side, "Remember them, O Lord, my God, that defile the priesthood."

Upswing Expected In Oil Wildcatting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wildcatting for oil—that is, drilling test wells in unproved areas—may be in for an upswing this year. Such operations, along with drilling in general, have been on the decline in recent years.

A combination of factors in industry representatives in Washington.

These figures were cited: —The number of wildcat wells completed in 1965 was 8,250. This compared with 9,258 in 1964 and 13,034 a decade ago (1956).

PRICE OF CRUDE
—The price of crude oil averaged $2.84 in 1956, went up to $3.16 in 1957 with the Suez Canal crisis when Middle East supplies were cut off from Europe.

—Since then prices have dropped gradually, stopping at $2.96 early in 1965. They have held at that level since except in the tri-state area of Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky, where a 10 cent a barrel increase has been posted.

The possibility of more drilling activity this year is linked to maintenance of the present price level, coupled with a trend toward increased domestic production. A strengthening of the price level would be an added spur.

DOMESTIC OUTPUT
Domestic production averaged 7,664,000 barrels daily in 1964 (the last year for which full figures are available), compared with 7,170,000 barrels in 1957. Yet, the value of all the crude produced in 1964 was $62 million less than in 1957.

Meanwhile the industry's over-all operating costs have increased. In the first nine months of 1965 the average hourly wage was 18 per cent above that in the 1957-1959 period; the cost of machinery was up 4.7 per cent, and the cost of casing 7.8 per cent.

While no recent or precise figures are available on wildcat drilling costs, the average cost of all oil and gas wells drilled last year is estimated at $60,000. They averaged about 4,300 feet in depth.

ONE IN NINE
Wildcat tests on the average over the last several years have hit oil or gas in only one of nine holes and are the more costly. Even in known producing areas only one of four wells strikes oil or gas.

How drilling operations have declined:
In 1965 the number of oil and gas wells drilled in the United States was 41,300. This compared with 45,236 in 1964 and 58,160 in 1956.

Of all wells drilled last year 16,059 were dry, compared with 17,488 dry holes in 1964 and 21,838 in 1956.

CURIOS IN MEMPHIS
DEAR CURIOUS: Inquire only about that which may concern your lives together should you marry. Has he children? Is his former wife still his financial responsibility? What were the grounds for divorce? Are they on friendly terms? This information is indeed your business and you have a right to know.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., for Abby's booklet, "How To Write Letters for All Occasions."

Family Day Being Urged
LAMARQUE (SPL) — Families as a group—parents and children—today were urged to attend church together on Sunday by Dr. Joseph G. Murphy, head of the Knights of Columbus in Texas.

"Christians of all denominations," said Dr. Murphy, state deputy of the Catholic men's order, "might well observe Sunday as 'family day' at their church services because of the world-wide Christian calendar's commemoration of Jan. 9 as 'Holy Family Day.'"

"Many of the 194 K. of C. Councils in Texas annually plan 'Corporate Communion' for their families that day and observe January as 'family month' with special programs in which parents and children participate."

Dr. Murphy, who is the chief officer of the fraternal group numbering more than 33,000 in Texas, explained he did not mean to be presumptuous in suggesting families of all denominations observe "Holy Family Day."

"However families have always been the bedrock of civilization throughout the ages. Thus we urge that all families worship together at the church of their choice on Holy Family Sunday, Jan. 9."

DEAR ABBY
Some Tact Required

DEAR ABBY: I am moving to another city soon. Several friends here have said, "You MUST look up So and So. Here is his name and number. Just call and say you are a friend of mine."

Abby, is it proper for a newcomer in town to call a resident there and put him on the spot that way? I can't just call a stranger and say, "Hello, I'm Millie McGillicuddy. I am 34 years old, divorced, have two children and am self-supporting. My measurements are 36-25-37, and Sam Strangelove told me to call you."

I'm afraid if I don't call I might miss meeting some interesting people, and if I do call, I'll appear presumptuous. How should this be handled?
PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Ask all your bighearted friends to write So and So a note and suggest that he call YOU. That way, the go-between can clue his friend in on all the vital statistics, and leave it to him to call you if he so chooses.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to be married in February. My first choice for matron of honor is my sister, but she's in a family way and says if she's able to stand up she'll do it. My next choice is my husband's sister. But she's in a family way, too, and although she says she isn't due until March, she looks like she's going to deliver before my sister. In case neither one can do it, would it be proper to ask my grandmother to be my matron of honor?

JEN IN SEASIDE
DEAR JEN: Your grandmother sounds like the safest bet to me. Ask her.

DEAR ABBY: I am considering marrying a man who has been married before. (I have not.) We are both in our middle thirties and have gone together for four years. We love each other very much. My question: How much should I know about his former marriage? When we first met he told me that he was a divorced man and he has never made reference to that subject again. I've held off asking him any questions, hoping he would bring it up again. I don't want to know anything that is none of my business, but I want to know as much as I should. Can you give me an honest answer?
