Controversial Play

Mrs. Geri Turner Davis, 31, San Diego schoolteacher who wrote the controversial play "A Cat Called Jesus," holds her own cat, Alou, as she discussed a movement to take away her teaching credential. Her play, named after an earlier pet cat named Jesus, has been called immoral, sacrilegious, blasphemous and profane. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Stanton Farmer Loses An Eye

STANTON (SC) — A Stanton farmer was reported in satisfactory condition today in a Hobbs, N. M., hospital, following eye surgery Tuesday after a freak accident in Seminole.

M. H. Nance, 51, was visiting his son, Charles Nance, of Seminole, and the two were attempting to jack a house up when the handle of the jack flew off and hit the elder Nance in the eye. He was standing about three feet away.

He was rushed to a Denver City hospital and later transferred to a Hobbs, N. M., hospital, where his eye was removed.

Mrs. Ken Wilson, Stanton daughter of Nance, said that her father was expected to be confined in the hospital for several more days.

FPC Rate Ceilings On Gas Held Off

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A federal appeals court has issued a stay order directing the Federal Power Commission to set aside its price ceilings on natural gas produced in the Permian Basin of Texas and New Mexico.

Coke Workers Go To School

The world's largest soft drink business will operate with skeleton crews Friday and Saturday while its people go to school.

Personnel of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company in the Big Spring area will join with those from other areas in a regional sales meeting in Dallas. Ten employees and six members of their families will represent the local staff at the regional meeting in Dallas. Twenty members from the Midland plant will go with them by bus.

At Dallas, they will witness a sales extravaganza, including a 16-member case of dramatic actors using original music, lyrics and dances. All of this will be used to introduce upcoming merchandising plans for products of The Coca-Cola Company and its approximately 1,000 bottlers in the United States. The Dallas meeting is one of three in the nation being served simultaneously by three different road companies.

Those attending from Big Spring will be Lowell and Mauris Jones, Buster Adams, Gerald and Callie Bennett, Marion Carter, Royce and Carol Coyle, Quinn and Floyd Denton, Jewel Fortenberry, Ron and Danny Fryar, Billy Hamil, John and Mary Palmer and Weldon Wood.

the stay is to be in effect until the merits of the case are determined through litigation in the courts.

ISSUES UNTOUCHED

The decision said the stay order in no way touches on the merits of any issues raised in the controversial case.

The three-judge panel said producers would suffer "irreparable injury" if the rate ceilings were put into effect immediately and later modified or rescinded by court action.

"The court said producers would be required to refund amounts collected for sales of gas produced on or after Sept. 1 to the extent that such collections exceeded the rates determined to be just and reasonable (by the courts)."

HIGHEST RATE

The FPC ruled on Aug. 5, 1965, that the highest rate a producer might charge for gas produced in the Permian Basin was 16.5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for gas from new wells, effective as of Sept. 1. The ceiling for all other gas was 14.5 cents per 1,000.

Some 300 producers contend that the reductions would cost them about $20 million a year.

Russia To Beat U.S. To Moon?

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. astronauts making their first landing on the moon may find the Russian flag already planted there, space agency administrator James Webb said Wednesday. He told newsmen that Soviet space explorers are ahead of the United States "and will be for the next year or two."

Webb, nearing the end of his fifth year as head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said he feels this country will beat Russia to announced a big new rocket."

Webb talked to reporters while here to address the Dallas County Medical Society. The NASA chief said he was particularly impressed at the Russians' capability for orbiting their 27,500-pound Proton spacecraft.

CAPABILITY ENHANCED

Someone asked if the Proton series promises ability to maneuver, like this country's Gemini vehicles, and he replied:

"Any time you can put up a spacecraft that weighs 27,000 pounds you've got a capability to do a lot of things you cannot do with a smaller spacecraft."

"You can develop the maneuverability, but it's very hard to develop the large capacity of large spacecraft — and this is where we have been behind and are still behind."

a lunar landing but he is not as confident as 12 months ago.

DOUBT LOOMS

"A year ago I would have said the Saturn V would be far bigger than anything they could do," he said. "I'm not so sure now. They have a very vigorous program."

"The day before yesterday they flew Cosmos 104. This year they have flown Proton 1 and 2, both four times the size of Gemini, and they have an-

Peking's Leaders Appear Gripped By Peace Scare

By The Associated Press

Red China's leadership is reacting with rage to American and Soviet diplomatic maneuvers, as if gripped by a major peace scare.

Evidently Peking dismisses as empty propaganda the suggestions from Soviet bloc Communists that if the United States intensifies the war in Viet Nam, the Soviet Union will introduce significant escalation of its own.

Peking has weighed the evidence and expressed the conviction that Soviet words are not to be trusted. By implication, Red China accused Moscow of colluding with the Americans in a search for a road to negotiations.

continuing a pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam. When there was a bombing pause last May, it recalled, there were "murmurs from among the modern revisionists" — meaning the Soviet leaders — that the suspension was too short and "the trick had not been very well played."

Now, it continued, "the Johnson administration appears to be taking the advice of these people."

Evidently "these people" included not only advisers in Washington, but those same "modern revisionists."

and on the same day its ambassador in Moscow, Foy D. Kohler, called on Soviet Vice Foreign Minister V.V. Kuznetsov.

"Three days later, it published its '14-point' proposition" — the American terms for peace talks with North Viet Nam. "The next day the Soviet Union announced that a delegation headed by Shelepin would visit Viet Nam. Then on Dec. 29, the senior U.S. officials began their travels overseas as salesmen for the 'peace talks' scheme. On the same day, Kohler called on Nikolay V. Podgorny, president of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R."

The Communist press of Europe has been dwelling on this possibility, and there is implicit in it a prospect of a Soviet-American showdown in the style of the Cuba missile crisis of 1962.

Growth Noted In West Texas

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A 132-county West Texas area generates a yearly personal income of $7 billion—greater than any of 28 states and one-third of the Texas total, a utilities executive said today.

Beeman Fisher of Fort Worth, president of Texas Electric Service Co., said the area has grown into a market for 3.2 million people.

NEW SURVEY

Fisher, in a speech prepared for the mid-year meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce of which he is president, factory employment has risen 4 per cent a year in West Texas as compared to 3 per cent for the entire state and 1.5 per cent nationally.

The survey further shows, Fisher said, that there are about 118,000 farmers and ranchers in the area and their 1965 cash income exceeded $1.1 billion.

CATTLE BUSINESS

These farmers and ranchers put about $300 million in the bank from cattle sales, he said. But there are about four million head of cattle and calves remaining on ranches and about 300,000 head are being fed in commercial feed lots in West Texas, he added.

Fisher said that industrial expansion in the area accounted for 9,300 new jobs.

School Class In 'How To Drink' Urged

NEW YORK (AP)—A Harvard University psychiatrist proposes that a new course be taught in the nation's schools and colleges—"practice drinking."

The psychiatrist, Dr. Morris Chafetz, told a conference Wednesday on "Alcohol and Food in Health and Disease" that the purpose of the course would be to instruct young people how to drink socially under supervised conditions.

"Alcohol is here to stay," he said, "and people must learn to develop a healthy attitude toward it."

Chafetz suggested that "practice drinking" be initiated at a very early age, in elementary school, and continue through college. He said that the youngest children should be given very weak drinks at first, perhaps sherry in water, with the alcoholic contents gradually increased for the older students.

Chafetz, an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at Harvard, is also director of the Alcohol Clinic and Acute Alcohol Psychiatric Service of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

"NOT AT HOME"

He told the conference that the home is not the place to teach youngsters how to hold their liquor because many parents have guilt feelings about their own drinking.

Johnson Address Adds Dimension

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson, in his third State of the Union address Wednesday night, came to us in color for the first time. The addition — on the three major networks — gave the chief executive's speech in the dignified and somber House of Representatives extra interest and dimension.

The President looked rested and vigorous. The cameras stayed, most of the time, on his face, as he spoke. The red and white stripes of the flag behind him provided a handsome setting.

GOOD SEATS

It is on such an occasion that one is so grateful to television. The American people were brought into that crowded chamber — and had better seats than the dignitaries in the front row at that.

At a critical moment during Wednesday night's premiere of "Batman," our hero who was clad in a leotard, scalloped cape and wearing a hangman's helmet, strode into the "What a Way to Go-Go" discotheque—a favorite haunt of high society," he explained in an aside.

An unperturbed headwaiter asked if he wanted a table.

"No, I am just looking," replied Batman. "I'll stand at the bar. I shouldn't wish to attract attention."

And that's the way things are — and will continue to be in ABC's new series based on comic book characters.

CLOAKS EVIL

Thus we find that "Batman" is really a young millionaire named Bruce Wayne who undertook his battle against the underworld "after my parents were murdered by dastardly villains." Wednesday night's dastardly villain was "The Ridler," who laughs like Richard Widmark.

Indian Leader Seeks Backing

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister G. L. Nanda was reported seeking help today from India's political kingmakers to guarantee his staying in power.

As the senior member of the Cabinet, Nanda, who is 67, succeeded the late Lal Bahadur Shastri after Shastri's death Tuesday. He was said to feel strongly that the ruling Congress Party should not ask him to step down in favor of another candidate.

Nanda was acting prime minister after the death of Jawaharlal Nehru May 27, 1964, but gracefully relinquished power when the kingmakers chose Shastri as a compromise acceptable to the party's many factions.

Y. B. CHAVAN

UNTIL ELECTIONS
Nanda met party president Kumaraswami Kamaraj today and reportedly said he should continue in office at least until general elections next year.

Other potential candidates also were moving to gather support.

The plum is the leader's seat on the Congress Party benches in Parliament. The man filling it is automatically asked by President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan to form a new government.

Party leaders discussed the situation informally today. The party's powerful working committee scheduled a formal meeting Friday to plan an election.

Challenges to Nanda may come from Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan and Information Minister Indira Gandhi. Both want the job, but whether they make a bid will depend on results of the maneuvering now under way.

Nanda also met today with U.S. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who represented President Johnson at Shastri's funeral.

Humphrey said he and Rusk expressed their pleasure at the peace agreement Shastri and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan reached in Tashkent just before Shastri's death.

Upper Midwest Gets Big Snow

By The Associated Press
A huge storm dumped deep snows on the Midwest today and took dead aim on the North-eastern United States.

The snow piled up to more than 11 inches in Milwaukee and eight inches in Rockford, Ill., Wednesday night.

The storm, which packed snow, sleet, freezing rain and strong winds, halted air traffic at Gen. Mitchell Field in Milwaukee and incoming planes were rerouted to Chicago.

WIND GUSTS

Wind gusting up to 35 miles per hour piled the snow into 3-foot drifts. Schools were closed in southeastern Wisconsin Wednesday and thousands of workers were sent home early. Snow drifted up to two feet in downtown Madison, Wis.

The storm zeroed in on Chicago with the city's worst storm of the winter. Four inches accumulated at O'Hare International Airport, but air traffic continued.

About 11½ inches fell at Buffalo Grove, about 25 miles northwest of Chicago.

THICK ICE

Ice one inch in diameter formed on power lines in Chicago suburbs and in Streator, Ill. Work crews stood by for emergencies.

The snow struck northern Missouri, southern and eastern Iowa, extreme southeastern Minnesota, Wisconsin, northern Illinois, Michigan and northern Indiana.

Hazardous - driving warnings were posted and extended eastward to all of Ohio and extreme southwestern Pennsylvania.

TWO DEATHS

Two deaths caused by heart attacks while shoveling snow were reported in Milwaukee. Eight inches of snow covered Minneapolis, including Wednesday's five-inch fall.

Light snow, mixed with sleet, pelted Nebraska.

In eastern Iowa, snowfalls of five and six inches followed a night of freezing rain.

TO NORTHEAST

The Weather Bureau said the storm was headed toward the Northeast, in the grip of cold temperatures.

Snow fell in New England Wednesday. Most of northern Maine was zero to 10 above. Some freezing rain fell, giving the snowpack a treacherous covering.

Rain and strong winds raked the north Pacific Coast. Wind gusts up to 51 miles per hour hit Tatoosh Island, Wash.

Federation Will Double Program

NEW YORK (AP) — The International Planned Parenthood Federation says it plans to double its program to meet population crises in developing countries this year.

Gen. William H. Draper Jr., chairman of the Victor Fund for the federation, said the fund's original goal of $3 million has been oversubscribed by 25 foundations, corporations and individuals.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Truck Drivers, Jet Pilots Are Defended

To The Editor:
When I read Mr. Lambert's letter about truck drivers, it made me sick.

My husband is not an ex-truck driver, but an ex-transport operator. He has a nice collection of Safety Buttons that were not given to him, but earned by him from Market Insurance Company and Argonaut Insurance Company. He also has a two year Safety Award from the National Safety Council. I wonder if Mr. Lambert's driving record is as good.

I also wonder if Mr. Lambert has ever stopped to think about just what those "thoughtless" truck drivers do. When he comes to town on that nice paved road, you know that asphalt didn't grow, it had to be carried out on a "noisy old truck." When he drives a new car out of his dealers show room — that car got there on a "noisy truck." When he's carrying groceries out the front door of a store, there are trucks out back unloading them. When he drives into a service station and sits in his warm car and says "Fill it up," chances are there was an "old noisy truck" there before daylight to give that service station the gasoline for his customers.

People in Big Spring and other towns used to fuss and fume because trucks went through their towns. Now that there are by-passes — guess what — there are signs all over the place saying — "Go through town — discount to truckers." Just what do people want?

These big powerful trucks have to have power to haul big loads. With power there must be noise — not a defective exhaust system.

Also, a few weeks ago Mr. Lambert wrote a letter to you complaining of the jet airplanes flying around the country, disturbing the peace. If it wasn't for those pilots in those jet airplanes flying around the country disturbing the peace, where would our country be today? Mr. Lambert certainly wouldn't be able to sit out in his home with the comfort of knowing that when one of those jets fly over, it is just another one of our dedicated countrymen out practicing in order to have the training to protect those of us that are sitting in our comfortable homes, while they are out fighting for our lives.

Mr. Lambert, instead of downing these men, you should say a prayer for them because, if it weren't for them, you wouldn't have it near so good.

Rights Groups Losing Support

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Unprecedented gains in the fight against racial discrimination have turned into a double-edged sword for civil rights organizations, whittling away their support as well as the foundations of segregation.

In the absence of crises, civil rights organizations are losing funds and followers. Unspectacular programs such as voter registration or job improvement do not attract much money or members.

"Our financial situation is pretty desperate," said John R. Lewis, national chairman of the Atlanta-based Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee.

The committee is the smallest and least organized of the civil rights groups and usually has financial problems. But the bigger organizations also are feeling the pinch.

NAACP DEFICIT

Included is the oldest and largest, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, founded in 1909. Its executive director, Roy Wilkins, reported recently in New York that the NAACP lost nearly 25,000 members in the past year and had an unadjusted deficit of more than $200,000.

Coupled with a 45,000-member loss in 1964, this reduced membership from a 1963 peak of 335,000 to 440,150.

Wilkins attributed the decline to a belief of some supporters that the civil rights battle is over. So did Lewis.

"One of the reasons," Lewis said, "is a feeling on the part of a great many people that the basic problems we have been struggling with are solved. Then there is just a tendency on the part of the American public, when they cannot see the dramatic action, to slow down on support."

REVAMP DRIVES

The Congress of Racial Equality, experiencing wholesale changes in leadership, and the Southern Christian Leadership conference, headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., plan to revamp their fund-raising methods.

CORE's community relations director, Alan Gartner, gave this analysis in an interview: "The public feels in a general sense that because of the voting rights and civil rights bills, the diminution of major demonstrations and the antipoverty program — the movement as it has been is no longer a relevant matter. We disagree, of course."

Gartner said CORE had debts last Aug. 31 totaling "very close to $300,000." It has been reduced to about $210,000, he said, "a very significant cut."

"Financially, we are certainly in need," said the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, treasurer of the Atlanta-based conference. "But we are not drowning. We are still able to pay our bills."

CRISES MOTIVATE

"People usually give more when there is a crisis," he said. Enactment of the civil rights law of 1964, accompanied by continuing desegregation in the South, eased tense areas.

Federal agencies are enforcing nondiscrimination policies; federal examiners are registering Negro voters in four states; federal funds are going into new programs for the poor.

"Certainly it might be expected with the federal government moving into the civil rights field that it is going to be a factor," said Clarence Coleman of Atlanta, Southern regional director of the National Urban League.

Coleman said the Urban League depends largely upon civic United Appeal fund drives and therein lies a problem born of new federal programs. Anti-poverty funds for Atlanta were double the $5 million raised by the United Appeal, he said.

FEDERAL AGENCIES

"This makes it a little more difficult for the United Fund," he said. The Urban League itself is turning increasingly to federal agencies, he said, having received $289,000 last year in Atlanta from the Department of Labor for a job training program.

CORE's new national director, Floyd B. McKissick of Durham, N.C., has talked of developing new techniques to fit today's situation, a drive for members and an overhaul of the organization's financial setup.

John Wayne Chats About Long Career

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — All seems well in the movie world when John Wayne is making another Western.

He is doing just that now, co-starring with Robert Mitchum in "Eldorado" for Paramount. The producer-director is Wayne's old buddy Howard Hawks, the lean, sagacious moviemaker who created "Red River" and "Rio Bravo," as well as the veldt-Western, "Hatari."

Wayne clomped into Stage 15 one day after lunch to chat about his long career as he was being made up for the next scene. With or without makeup, he looked the way most men wish they would look at 58.

37-YEAR CAREER

The actor conceded he has put in lengthy service in Westerns.

"It'll be 37 years March 17," he recalled. That's when young Duke (nee Marion) Morrison, late of the University of Southern California football team, made connections with the film industry.

In 1929 he suffered a name change and was signed by tough, one-eyed Raoul Walsh to star in a large-scale Western, "The Big Trail."

"I nearly didn't make the picture," Wayne said. "I was in bed for three weeks with dysentery, and I was sick as a dog. Walsh said he could not wait much longer for me, so I got up and reported for work."

FILM FLOPS

Wayne survived; "The Big Trail" didn't.

"It was the first of the big-screen pictures," he explained. "Theaters had to buy new equipment and screens to show it, and nobody had any money. This was in the depression."

The Wayne career fell into eclipse, and he was banished to grinding out six-day Westerns. Not until the monumental "Stage Coach" in 1939 was his career revived. Since then he has ruled the range. This year he was again among the top 10 box-office stars, marking his 17th citation as a moneymaker.

Peace Corps Now Looks Toward Campus 'Rebels'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Peace Corps has stepped into the world of college protest, seeking students who want to help "make the world a little different."

In private discussions and rough and tumble debates on college campuses, Peace Corps officials are checking up on student leaders representing all shades of political opinion.

SEEK ORGANIZERS

"We're interested in the people who can get thousands of demonstrators to turn out because they have the kind of organizational skills that can make democracy work in underdeveloped nations," explained Bob Satin.

Satin, a public affairs officer who ran the Peace Corps programs in the Dominican Republic during the recent revolt, took part in the most notable confrontation in early November — head-to-head debates with Viet Nam protesters on the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

But Deputy Director Warren Wiggins, who has handled most of the contacts with student leaders, said the sign-waving activists aren't the main target.

"QUIET ACTIVISTS"

"Most of the so-called activists are quiet activists," Wiggins said in an interview. "They don't carry placards. They do things like tutoring Negro school kids. They work without fanfare. We are trying to understand them and explain the Peace Corps to them."

It all began last summer when some 40 college students who worked at the Peace Corps during their government work-training. Soon these interns, most of them now seniors, began criticizing Peace Corps advertisements, recruiting techniques, publications.

Wiggins notes that the U.S. National Student Association has compiled a list of 27,000 jobs in community action projects similar to Peace Corps Work.

"Doing something worthwhile on a full-time basis is appealing to the average college student," he said.

Great Society On A Global Scale Mulled

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson wants to spend $1 billion next year in a fight on hunger, disease, ignorance and overpopulation in foreign lands.

Whether Congress will favor this global extension of the "Great Society" at a time when some programs at home may be pinched to pay for the Viet Nam War remained in question. Johnson's plea for a $1 billion hike in auto and telephone taxes ran into stiff criticism.

Applause greeted the President's State of the Union message, however, when Johnson asked the legislators Wednesday night:

"To give a new and daring direction to our foreign aid program, designed to make a maximum attack on hunger, disease and ignorance in those countries determined to help themselves—and to help those nations trying to control population growth."

IMPROVE LIVES
Johnson said it has always been part of U.S. foreign policy "to help improve the life of man" not only because of compassion, but also because this betters the chances for peace. He proposed:

—Placing U.S. farm resources and skill "at the service of those countries committed to developing a modern agriculture."
—An "international education act of 1966" to help schooling of youngsters in other lands.
—An "international health act of 1966" to promote U.S. medical aid abroad and help wipe out smallpox, malaria and control yellow fever "over most of the world in this decade."
—Assisting foreign population control efforts "by increasing our research and by earmarking funds to help their efforts."
"In the next year we propose to dedicate $1 billion to these efforts—and we call on all who have the means to join this work," Johnson said.

AWAIT MESSAGES
Administration officials declined to go into detail on the new proposals pending special messages the President intends to send to Congress later this session.

The $1 billion, officials said, is substantially more than the amount currently earmarked for activities in these fields now being carried on by a number of federal agencies. But they declined to say that this would mean any increase in over-all foreign aid spending, rather than just a shift in emphasis.

The Agency for International Development has $3.2 billion for various types of foreign aid this year. The Food for Peace program is shipping some $1.7 billion worth of surplus commodities abroad. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has overseas commitments. The government owns billions in unused foreign currencies. Much or all of the $1 billion could be found within these totals.

Respirator Given To Rehab Center

A respirator for the Howard County Rehabilitation Center has been purchased by the Howard County Tuberculosis Association and the local TB board will furnish the oxygen for the machine.

President Champ Rainwater told 16 members of the TB Association Wednesday at noon at the Holiday Inn that the machine will be in operation soon.

He also announced that executive secretary Katherine Hudgins will attend the Respiratory Disease Workshop in Houston Jan. 19.

N. Viet Asked To Trim War Without Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON (AP)—Buried deep in President Johnson's State of the Union message is a 10-word proposal to North Viet Nam to start scaling down the war in Southeast Asia without negotiations or even an agreed cease-fire.

"We will respond," he said, "if others reduce their use of force."

Some of the President's closest advisers think that is, in fact, the way the war may begin to end—not with a great conference or a formal truce but with a slow dwindling of hostilities.

In his address to Congress Wednesday night, the President for the first time put the full weight of his own authority behind this alternative with a flat commitment to begin de-escalating the conflict if and when the Communists are ready.

In recent days dispatches from Viet Nam have indicated some decline in Viet Cong offensive activity. Administration officials said they had no way of judging whether this is significant. It could have been, however, a factor in Johnson's decision to declare at this time his readiness to reduce the fighting through parallel actions by both sides.

Russian In UNICEF Is Under Probe

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—UNICEF, the U.N. Children's fund, is investigating a report that a Soviet member of its staff, Vadim Isakov, tried to buy missile components from a New Jersey firm.

UNICEF Executive Director Henry R. Labouisse indicated in a statement that Isakov would be fired if the investigation confirmed the report published in the New York Journal-American.

Isakov could not be reached for comment. The FBI refused comment.

The Journal-American reported two New Jersey businessmen said Isakov, a UNICEF procurement officer, attempted to buy "restricted" missile components from their Paterson, N.J., firm and once offered a $30,000 down payment.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's decision to start bombing North Viet Nam last February and begin a big buildup of U.S. troops in the South touched off a great world debate.

There were protests from friendly and neutral nations as well as the Communist bloc.

At home, some members of Congress and other public figures questioned the President's right to take such steps without a declaration of war.

Other critics on the home front wanted to know why the United States was fighting in Viet Nam at all.

Administration officials took the position that as commander in chief of the armed forces the President's authority was vested in his office. They also pointed out that both the Senate and House have given the Viet Nam venture massive support.

In August, 1964, the two branches of Congress by combined votes of 512-2 asserted in a resolution this country's readiness to use force if necessary to help South Viet Nam "in defense of its freedom."

MILITARY OUTLAY
Last May both houses approved a $700 million appropriation for military costs in Viet Nam. The President had stated in advance that favorable action would be a vote "to persist in our efforts to halt Communist aggression in South Viet Nam."

The resolution went through the House 408-7 and through the Senate 88-3.

A main argument against U.S. participation in the war in Viet Nam has been that this country is fighting the wrong enemy in a remote place under almost impossible conditions.

Critics say the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong guerrilla forces represent only a peripheral power in the Communist world and that their defeat would not prove anything to the big Communist nations.

"RED PATRIOTISM"
In addition the critics have argued that for the Vietnamese Reds the conflict is essentially a patriotic war for the homelands and that South Viet Nam continues to exist under an anti-Communist regime only because the United States is propping it up.

Administration spokesmen argue to the contrary that very high American interests are at stake in the struggle.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk contends that "What is at stake in Viet Nam is the integrity of the American commitment all over the world."

He asserts that neither European nor other allies would feel sure they could trust U.S. defense pledges if this country, having undertaken to defend South Viet Nam, should then abandon it.

Other supporters of the U.S. role say that the fight against Communist conquest in the Southeast Asian country is a fight in defense of all backward free countries—in Asia, Africa and Latin America—where similar Communist guerrilla tactics might be used.

The State Department cites in this connection a statement made by North Viet Nam's defense minister, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, in July, 1964:

"South Viet Nam is the model of the national liberation movement in our time. If the special warfare that the United States imperialists are testing in South Viet Nam is overcome, this means that it can be defeated anywhere in the world."

How did the Vietnamese involvement begin and how did the United States become so deeply involved in it?

GENEVA TALKS
France lost control of Indochina in 1954. A conference of Western, Communist and Asian powers at Geneva established in a series of agreements the independence of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia, which were supposed to be treated as strictly neutral in the cold war.

The Geneva agreement recognized a temporary division of Viet Nam between the Communist North and the anti-Communist South. The United States did not sign but promised to support the Geneva accords.

Provisions to merge North and South Viet Nam were never fulfilled.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower made the first U.S. commitments which provided a basis for the present conflict. He extended economic help and limited military aid to South Viet Nam.

It was during the Eisenhower administration also that the United States negotiated and signed the Southeast Asian Defense treaty—SEATO—which the Senate approved by a vote of 82-1.

At that time, having just come through the Korean War, the United States made known its determination not to allow Southeast Asia to fall under Communist control.

Hershey Speaks Out In Conflict On Draft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey says the draft can't be used to deprive an individual of his liberty.

LEWIS B. HERSHEY

Hershey spoke out Tuesday in another phase of his war of words with Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

The argument began when several University of Michigan youths were stripped of their student deferments and reclassified IA after a sit-in at the Ann Arbor, Mich., draft board.

The demonstrators also were convicted of trespassing under an Ann Arbor ordinance. Hart started Tuesday's dialogue by declaring "no court ever ruled that the Selective Service Act was violated, only Gen. Hershey. And he cites as his authority an executive order that the Justice Department says is nonexistent."

"NO ORDER" Hart had asked the Justice Department to comment on a statement from Hershey that he was authorized by presidential order to reclassify men "found to be delinquent under the Selective Service Act."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Fred M. Vinson, replying to the senator, said the department knows of no executive order of any justice pronouncement "indicating either concurrence or disagreement with the views expressed in Gen. Hershey's letter or in the action taken by the (Selective Service) system."

"I am satisfied, as a matter of both law and policy," Vinson added, "that sanctions of the Universal Military Training and Service Act cannot be used to stifle constitutionally protected expressions of views."

"In short, where opinion is expressed, if there is no transgression of law, then no sanctions can be imposed."

Hart had complained, "No court ever ruled that the Selective Service Act was violated... only Gen. Hershey."

HERSHEY STATEMENT Hershey, contacted at a Ft. Stewart, Ga., meeting of Southeast states draft officials, said: "Nobody's told me yet whether anyone's been intimidated or his beliefs of whether there's any argument as to whether these boys have interfered with the operation of the draft boards."

Hershey added: "Our law provides that anyone who does something contrary to our deferment — and the state director notified the local boards of each of the students that they had interfered with the draft board — then the local board has the right to decide on their reclassification."

"These boys had been deferred to go to school... therefore, they had to live within certain conditions of their deferment. Now they're kicking about it when they lose their deferment."

Hershey concluded: "We couldn't use our acts to take away any liberties. The local boards don't pretend to be courts, they're not trying to convict, only to classify."

There are problems, but business confidence in continuing economic growth in spite of the Viet Nam war uncertainties and inflation threats still is apparently untouched.

The spurt in steel production this month apparently caught many in and out of the industry by surprise. Last fall the mills were looking for a fairly slow period through the early weeks of 1966 while customers lived off inventories built up early last year as a hedge against a strike which didn't happen.

COMING BACK Steelmen say their customers are coming back into the market faster than was expected. Booming business in a number of industries using steel is given as one reason. Expectation of still better business ahead is another. And some customers may fear that the pattern of selective price rises involved in the government-business compromise will spread to other lines than structural steel. Price increases in a number of steel products have, in fact, occurred over recent weeks.

Firms Expand While Steel Orders Climb

NEW YORK (AP)—One light on the state of the Union is being cast by the nation's steel furnaces. And a slight rise is offered by the rush of corporate announcements of plans to expand business activities and plants.

Steel output is picking up sharply as new orders roll in after the rising price trend in a number of steel products. The nation's attention was focused on this trend by the confrontation of some steel companies with the administration over the price of structural steel, and the eventual compromise that let prices rise on some items while being held on others.

SEEK GROWTH And the strong urge to grow still bigger is revealed in the expansion plans being announced almost daily by one or more manufacturers. Often there are complaints by others that their worst worries just now are about delays in deliveries and equipment cutbacks in expansion plans have been few indeed.

Soviet Emissary Goes From Hanoi To China

TOKYO (AP)—Soviet envoy Alexander N. Shelepin arrived in Peking today for talks with Chinese leaders after his week-long visit to Hanoi. Shelepin's 24-hour stopover came on the heels of President Johnson's State of the Union message in which he pledged anew to defend South Viet Nam from aggression but made new overtures for peace.

A correspondent of the Japanese Kyodo news service reported from Peking that Chinese Communist observers there brushed aside Johnson's peace offers and attached significance only to his determination to fight on in Viet Nam. Official Soviet reaction to the President's speech was slow in coming. Tass, the Soviet news agency, told of the speech in a dispatch from march, and the schools of which they are P-TA presidents, are Mrs. Bull Bullard, Cedar Crest; Mrs. Ed Jacobs, Lakeview; Mrs. E. M. Wright, Boydston; Mrs. Curtis Mullins, Washington Place; Mrs. D. B. Contractors Interested In HCJC Building Plans

The Howard County Junior College new science building and new library building project is attracting interest of a number of contractors, Dr. Dawson DeVinney, administrative dean, told the HCJC trustees Wednesday noon.

Dr. DeVinney was reporting for Dr. W. A. Hunt, college president, who is in the hospital. The meeting was held at the Dora Roberts Student Union Building.

So far, eight sets of plans have been requested by contractors. Bids will be opened on Feb. 3. Cost of the project will be in the neighborhood of $800,000, including furniture and equipment.

Double sound-proofing of the studios in the music building has apparently shielded adjoining classrooms from sounds, Dr. DeVinney told the board. The work was done during the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Star Warford has accepted appointment to the faculty in the English department, he said.

Jail Inmate Slashes Wrist

DALLAS (AP)—Delbert Harmon Garmon Jr., 26, accused of abducting 19 persons, and the object of a two-state manhunt last fall, slashed his wrist in the Dallas County jail Tuesday night.

Sheriff Bill Decker said Garmon used a piece of razor blade to inflict the superficial wound. A doctor treated him.

Decker said he was investigating how Garmon secured the blade. Garmon, a federal prisoner, has been indicted for kidnapping Jesse Eibert Dugan at Frederick, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Prince at Wichita Falls.

Garmon, of Wichita Falls, was returned to Dallas Saturday from the federal mental hospital at Springfield, Mo., where he had undergone psychiatric tests.

The government requested the tests in a motion for a sanity investigation.

Injury Total Still Growing

Two traffic accidents Wednesday injured one man, officers said today. The year's total of accidents was thus raised to 41, the injury total to 14. Fatalities remained at three.

W. David Peters, 616 Ridgelen, was taken to Cowper Clinic and Hospital for observation overnight after his car collided with a parked truck operated by Carl James Vaughn, Esponda, N. M., in the 200 block of Benton.

The other collision involved the cars of Billy Dene Barnett, 410 Nolan, and Walter Dugan, 500 Nolan, in the 300 block of East Fifteenth Street.

Blaze Snuffed

City firemen extinguish a blaze in a storage house behind a residence at 309 NE 3rd at 9:40 this morning. Cause of the fire was unknown. H. V. Crocker, fire chief, said no one was injured and damage was not extensive.

Dynamiting Hurts Fishing Off Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A young fisherman who fled Cuba in a small boat says undersea dynamite blasting by Soviet technicians looking for petroleum has frightened away fish on Cuba's north coast.

"They haven't found any oil and fishing is off 60 per cent," said the refugee, who declined use of his name for fear of reprisals against relatives in Cuba.

No penalties will be imposed on HCJC for having played an ineligible man (Eddie Nelson) last basketball season, Hobart Bolerjack, executive secretary of the national junior college athletic organization, informed officials. Nelson had inadvertently taken the same course twice.

Dr. Charles O. Warren and John A. Coffee were named to the HCJC athletic council. Election of three board members will be held April 2. Those whose terms expire are W. T. Barber, Dr. Warren and Paul Adams. They are considering announcing for another term.

Three new members were elected to receive their degrees during the Tuesday evening meeting of the Order of the Rainbow for Girls. The members met at the Masonic Temple with Deanna Kay Morris, worthy advisor, presiding.

The new members are Catherine Dawson, Toni Lynn Campbell and Colleen Permenter.

New officers, to be installed Jan. 29, were also named at the meeting. The new slate will be Mary Newton, worthy advisor; Kay Bettle, worthy associate advisor; Carol Burlison, recorder; Judy Spocks, treasurer; Sherri Alexander, faith; Kay Coppedge, charity; and Jane Anderson, hope.

Donations from the birthday bank were sent to the Eye Foundation, Hutchinson, Kan.

The club elected a new slate of officers to be installed in June. They are Mrs. Carroll Cannon, president; Mrs. J. E. Swindell, vice president; Mrs. Jesse Crane Jr., secretary; Mrs. Bill Swindell, treasurer; and Mrs. B. E. Reagan, delegate to the city council.

The members chose as their therapy project a monthly program at the special education school, and made plans to observe Arbor Day by planting trees in Hillcrest Park.

Refreshments were served and the next meeting will be Feb. 9 at the home of Mrs. Joe Horton.

Evening Wear Forecast

Seal Drive Scheduled By Society Board

Preliminary plans for the Easter Seal Drive were announced when the board members of the Howard County Society for Crippled Children and Adults met Monday for a luncheon at the rehabilitation center Wayne Gound presided.

Mrs. Rube McNew, Easter Seal chairman, disclosed activities planned by the committee chairmen. They are Mrs. Dwight McCann, patrol; Mrs. Ethel Sherrill, coin containers; George Melear, lily; Al Bagwell, coffee; Larry Bristo, publicity; and J. M. Morgan, North Side chairman.

Horace Wallin is chairman for the Coahoma-Sand Springs area, and Mrs. A. D. Barton will be chairman for Forsan and Gay Hill.

The seal drive will begin March 1 when coin containers will be distributed and 1,000 letters mailed. Mrs. McCann explained the operations of this year's door-to-door campaign. Mrs. McNew and Jim Thompson told of the district meeting they attended in Odessa Dec. 14 when they were given assistance and advice on conducting the fund-raising campaign. Also, Thompson spoke briefly concerning bylaws, and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. R. T. Newell.

Seventeen attended, and the board agreed to meet the second Monday quarterly for a luncheon in the conference room of the Howard County Rehabilitation Center.

Baby Shower Held Wednesday

Mrs. Travis Rushing was honored with a baby shower at the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Ladies Home League of the Salvation Army. The members met at the Citadel with Mrs. William Thomas presiding. Mrs. Thomas gave the devotion entitled "God's Masterpiece."

The centerpiece for the gift table was a replica of a baby in a cradle, and the individual favors were corsages made of miniature baby items. The refreshment table was centered with a punch bowl and a frosted white cake decorated with confection baby symbols.

Valentine Party Planned By Spoudazio Fora

Plans for a Valentine party were discussed at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Spoudazio Fora Study Club. The members met at the home of Mrs. Bill C. Coleman, 1100 Lloyd Mrs. Johnny Hill was co-hostess, and Mrs. J. W. Dickens presided.

The members voted to have the Feb. 8 party at the home of Mrs. Jo Bright, 1504 Johnson, and a round table discussion was held concerning current events.

Use Suds For Chamois Care

Refreshments were served to 14 members from a table covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of multi-colored flowers.

If you use a chamois for polishing furniture or metals, wash it often in warm sudsy water and rinse it in clean water. Then put a little more soap or detergent in the final rinse water and squeeze the chamois out of these clean suds. This will help to keep it soft.

New Slate Installed By Rebekah Lodge

Mrs. Odell Buchanan received the gavel of noble grand of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge No. 153 at the Tuesday evening installation in the lodge hall.

Mrs. Mildred Hastings of Stanton, district deputy president, was the installing officer, and was assisted by her installing staff.

The service inducted Mrs. Joe Evans, vice noble grand; Mrs. Jones Lamar, recording secretary; Mrs. Homer Petty, financial secretary; and Mrs. U. S. Beechly, treasurer. Their escorts were Jones Lamar, Horace Smith, Alvin Clepper, H. F. Jarratt and J. C. Pye.

chaplain; Mrs. W. W. Grant, left support of the chaplain; Mrs. Everett Hood, right support of the past noble grand; and Mrs. H. F. Brewer, left support of the past noble grand.

Mrs. Fanny Franklin is the lodge mother, and Mrs. Lamar will be the team captain. Douglas Matheny is mascot.

Mrs. Buchanan's noble grand project for the year is the enclosing of the lodge windows; her theme is "Peace and Happiness," and her chosen symbol is the praying hands.

Mrs. Lamar presented Mrs. LaVerne Rogers, past noble grand with her pin, and the song "Memories" was sung by Mrs. Petty, Mrs. Cauble, and Mrs. Winnie Ralph. Mrs. Martin accompanied the trio on the piano.

SPECIAL DAY
Family meal to be remembered

Quick Method For Luncheon

A buffet brunch is an easy yet effective way to entertain for the menu can be simple, and service informal, using decorative paper plates and cups that eliminate dishwashing after the meal. In fact, the use of paper service brings its built-in "maid service" to everyday breakfasts as well.

For an easy-to-prepare menu feature Eggs Fiesta, prepared in advance and cooked in a jiffy. With the egg dish, serve sweet buns made with refrigerated biscuits. Juice to start coffee for adults and milk or hot chocolate for the children, round out this easy but nutritious menu.

- EGGS FIESTA
6 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1/4 cup milk
1 tsp. salt
Dash pepper
3 tbsps. butter
1 cup finely chopped ham
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup diced pimiento
- Mix eggs, milk, salt and pepper. Store in refrigerator in lidded paper container. Chop ham and green pepper and store, covered, in refrigerator.
- When ready to serve, heat butter in skillet. Add ham and green pepper and saute for several minutes. Add egg mixture. Cook and stir until eggs are set. Spoon onto platter and decorate with green pepper and pimiento. Makes 6 servings.

Ideal Family Meals Using Skillet, Meats

About those meals that pop until mixture bubbles and cheese melts up before the guests arrive, and after the party is over. Any cook needs a selection of recipes to be able to coast through such mundane demands from hungry families.

- HUNGARIAN GOULASH
1 1/2 lbs. ground meat
1 medium onion
1 1/2 cups can corn (12 oz. can)
1 1/2 cups tomato sauce (15 oz. can)
1 cup cheddar cheese grated
2 1/2 to 3 cups cooked noodles (wide egg noodles)
2 to 3 tbsps. chili powder
1 1/2 tps. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
- Brown onion and ground meat and place in 2 1/2 quart casserole dish. Add cooked noodles, canned corn, chili powder, salt, pepper, and tomato sauce. Combine thoroughly. Sprinkle grated cheese on top. Bake in 350 degree oven for 20-25 minutes or

ORANGE RING
Becomes show stopper

Leftover Ham Can Be Used For Unusual Dish

- Fresh-frozen orange juice concentrate, brown sugar, mustard and cloves flavor this attractive Caramel Orange Ham Ring. It looks so tempting, tastes so delicious, and is so economical to make, too!
- The orange concentrate — as convenient a cooking ingredient as it is a breakfast juice — gives the baked ring luscious flavor and moistness. This is an easy recipe for a main dish using leftover ham, or your butcher will grind the required amount for you.
- CARAMEL ORANGE HAM RING
3 eggs
1/4 tsp. Tabasco
1 tsp. dry mustard
- 3 cups fresh bread crumbs
2 lbs. (5 cups) ground cooked ham
1 can (6 ozs.) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1/2 cup water
1-3 cup brown sugar
1 tsp. whole cloves
Beat eggs in large bowl. Stir in Tabasco and dry mustard. Add bread crumbs, ground ham, orange juice concentrate and water; mix well. Sprinkle brown sugar and whole cloves into bottom of 6-cup ring mold. Add ham mixture, packing firmly into pan. Bake in 350 degree oven 1 hour. Turn onto serving platter. Garnish with parsley and orange slices.
Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Delicious Coffee Brew Done By Easy Rules

If your coffee-making skill is not quite what it might be, how about brushing up on the art of producing a good brew now?

One of the prime things to remember about coffee is that its flavor elements are highly volatile. Once the roasted shell of the bean is broken by grinding and exposed to air, its aroma, body, flavor and strength quickly evaporate.

The secret, therefore, is to buy only the amount you can use up in a short period of time.

Another means of improving your brew is to keep the coffee maker clean. Every time you make a pot full of coffee a fine, invisible, almost indissoluble film of oil clings to the sides of the utensil. This will impair the flavor of all subsequent brews, contrary to the opinion of our great-great-grandmothers who believed cleaning the pot destroyed the accumulated aromas of a thousand makings.

You can either scour the pot with dry baking soda or you can run your coffee maker through its regular brewing cycle using two tablespoons of baking soda in place of coffee. Since the boiling soda water darkens aluminum, remove aluminum wrappings from the pot before you start the treatment and use the dry method on pots made

Try Salmon Casseroles

If you haven't tried Salmon Casserole, by all means do. It's ever so good! For six hearty servings, prepare 4-ounce egg noodles following package directions; drain.

Combine with the noodles, a medium chopped onion, 1/2 cup sliced pitted ripe olives, a can condensed cheese soup, the oil and liquid drained from a pound can of salmon and 1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce.

Lightly mix in the salmon, broken into bite-size pieces, and a pound can of drained peas. Put in a casserole and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 30 minutes, until heated through.

U.S. Post Offices Struggle Along In Historic Revolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Few other issues in this time of "flaming controversies" — Viet Nam, the war on poverty, civil rights — can whip up as many conflicting opinions as these simple questions: "Do you think the mail service is getting better? Worse? Or do you believe it is plain lousy? Why?"

There are a few people still around who don't fancy themselves military experts or welfare economists or human relations counselors. But since all receive or send mail, here they are experts, with a research laboratory no farther away than the mail box.

This is an apt time to examine the Post Office Department. It's struggling, or wobbling, through the biggest revolution in its history. It has turned to new sectional centers for separating mail, to new-fangled ideas like ZIP codes, to dizzying advances in mechanization, including machines to scan and sort those ZIP codes, to new philosophies on how the mail should be handled.

GOODIES COMING
Every announcement and interview, from the new postmaster general, Lawrence F.

O'Brien, on down, burbles with excitement over goodies to come. Most people aren't so much concerned with what service will be like two, three, 10 years from now as they are with what happened to last month's check.

And why did Aunt Mildred's package arrive looking as if it had been mauled by a wrecking crew? The former postmaster general, John A. Gronouski, now ambassador to Poland, once admitted to Congress that he was puzzled by this sort of thing, too.

SUMMED UP
Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, R-Ill., summed up this feeling when he told the House: "If we can wend our way to the moon, and meet that schedule precisely, we should be able to move our mail 50 miles overnight." Listen to the bitter critics: Jerome Keating, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers when asked about mail service said: "It's the worst I've ever seen, and I've been associated with the Letter Carriers for 42 years."

James A. Farley insists service has skidded downhill since he was postmaster general under Franklin D. Roosevelt, and also insists he knows why: "Times have changed, and the employees today are not as dedicated as they were then." Patrick J. Nilan, legislative director of the United Federation of Postal Clerks, hotly denies Farley's contentions. Employees are as dedicated as ever, he claims; it's just that the Post Office, whether run by Democrats or Republicans, has forgotten about giving service. "We feel the deterioration has been going on more than 10 years," Nilan said. Any list of mail delayed, abused or lost can be endless. An Illinois bank mailed out its monthly statements, most of them within the city, on Aug. 3, and 40 to 50 failed to arrive. Suddenly all the missing statements were delivered — on Aug. 26.

WORKS BACKWARD
An official of an Atlanta publishing firm has said: "One thing we've found out is that sending any mail special delivery slows it up — regular mail is simply quicker." An Omaha man complained it took several days for a letter to come from Lincoln, Neb., a 40-minute drive. "Where was it kept?" he asked. "And why?" Yet postmasters in large cities maintain things are going smoothly. And a top postal official here contends that any account of mail irregularities is inevitably a distortion. "The guy who gets what he wants," he says, "isn't going to thank you for it, particularly if it's the government." Recent tests in states where criticism has been strongest show that in South Dakota 99.19 per cent of the mail got there the next day. With North Dakota at 99.12 per cent, Iowa 98.42 and Minnesota 98.35. Impressive? certainly.

Dear Abby

Matter Of Prejudice

DEAR ABBY: We just moved from the South to the West Coast. We have Southern accents, and every time one of us opens our mouth, we get looks that would freeze the ears off a brass monkey. Our son had three fights in school last week. He is only eight years old, and every fight has been because some kid said something hateful about the South. They undoubtedly heard it at home and were only repeating, but it hurts just the same. These Northerners claim that they are not prejudiced, that we are. But they are sure not practicing what they preach. How are we supposed to cope with this kind of treatment?

SOUTHERNERS MOVED WEST
DEAR SOUTHERNERS: Only education will overcome prejudice. But those who refuse to learn cannot be taught. Try to teach your children to respect the other person's point of view, even though he may not share it. And to "speak softly but carry a big stick." (Teddy Roosevelt.)

DEAR ABBY: Four of us girls who work together have lunch at a small luncheonette every noon. We leave work a few minutes early to be sure we get a booth. We eat our lunches at a normal rate. The place fills up quickly, and when we have a cigarette leisurely with a second cup of coffee, the glares we get from the customers who are standing over us, breathing down our necks, are enough to kill. We ignore them as though they weren't even there. We do not intentionally sit there just to be mean. We've paid for our lunches and think a second cup of coffee (and a third if we feel like it) with a cigarette is not taking advantage. We'd like your opinion.

THE FOUR DOLLS
DEAR DOLLS: If you can, in good conscience, sit and have a second and third cup of coffee "leisurely," while others are standing and waiting to be fed, then you must expect glares. (I would glare, too.)

DEAR ABBY: I am planning my wedding and would like your opinion on something. We are making up the guest list, and my parents want to invite so many people who are strangers to me and my fiancé that we are not able to invite many of our friends.

The church is small and our finances are limited. My father's business acquaintances and my mother's club ladies have used up most of the guest list. I realize my parents are paying for this wedding, but I don't think my wedding should be used as an occasion to pay off social and business obligations. How do you feel about this, Abby? BLUE BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: The close friends of the bride and groom should be first on the list, followed by relatives, and then close friends of the couple's parents. Since the number of guests must be limited, a compromise should be made. Casual acquaintances of the couple, and business and social friends of the bride's parents should be invited only if there is room.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CAPITOL HILL

New Rights Fight Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's bid for laws to guarantee equality for Negroes in the courts and in housing is expected to touch off a hot fight on Capitol Hill.

"This will be the toughest one yet," predicted a high administration veteran of congressional struggles over the 1964 Civil Rights Act and 1965 Voting Rights Act.

Johnson, in his State of the Union message Wednesday night, proposed laws to:

—Guarantee nondiscriminatory selection of jurors in state as well as federal courts.

—Strengthen federal court authority over violence against civil rights workers and stiffen the federal penalties for such violence.

—Ban racial discrimination in the sale or rental of housing.

DEFINES "JUSTICE"

Justice, the President said, is one of the roads converging on the Great Society. And "simply defined," he declared, "justice means a man's hope should not be limited by the color of his skin."

Of pressing tactical concern to the administration were the reservations expressed by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. He lent vital support to the 1964-65 civil rights legislation, and is regarded as the key to breaking any Southern filibuster over racial laws.

"This is really using the ax on the judicial sovereignty of the states," Dirksen said.

Justice Department lawyers have a head start in meeting Johnson's demands for laws to deal with discrimination in the selection of juries. He ordered preparation of such a law several months ago.

And they have been struggling over a draft bill to increase federal jurisdiction over racial violence since last March 26, when Johnson ordered a law to curb the activities of the Ku Klux Klan.

MORE ACTION

President John F. Kennedy once issued an executive order aimed at ending racial discrimination in federally aided housing. Still, civil rights groups have clamored for more action.

Justice Department experts have yet to get their teeth into this area, but they say they'll be on sound constitutional ground in extending antidiscrimination laws to privately financed housing.

The administration is expected to ask Congress to make the federal jury selection system a model for the states to follow.

While no firm decisions have been reached on the language of the legislation, one of its victims is expected to be the "key man" system of federal jury selection as practiced in the South and some other judicial circuits.

Under this system, prominent community leaders are asked to submit lists of recommended, trustworthy jurors. This method often excludes from jury service a large percentage of the population—people who, by virtue of race, poverty or lack of social standing, are unknown to the "key man."

LBJ Emits A Strange Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dramatically the rear doors of the House swung open, and in bounced portly William M. Miller, the man known as "Fish Bait" in a voice redolent of his native Pascagoula, Miss., the House doorkeeper bawled: "Mr. Speaker, the President of the United States!"

Thus, with a blend of formality and composure, the familiar pageant began again. As required by the Constitution, Lyndon B. Johnson had come to report on the State of the Union.

Each year it seems something new is added. Wednesday night for the first time a State of the Union message was televised in color, and more than 40 floodlights lit up the old chamber. Mrs. Johnson wore red, the wife of the vice president, Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, wore blue.

If you had to name a color for the speech you'd have to say it was a somber brown.

STRANGE SPEECH

This was a strange speech Johnson made, for it was really two talks tacked on to each other.

He opened with a roadmap to the "Great Society," but this halted after six and a half pages with this notation:

"(This is the end of the first section.)"

Then came the second half, on Viet Nam. As the President himself said in summing up the nation's prospects:

"Over it all — wealth, promise, and expectation — lies our troubling awareness of American men at war."

Johnson was applauded 57 times in the 52 minutes he talked, but, as usual on these occasions, the cheering was often more mechanical than enthusiastic. As always, most members of the party out of power listened silently and glumly.

BIGGEST HAND

The President was a perfect guest. His suggestion that members of the House should run for office every four years, instead of the present two-year term, got the biggest hand of the night.

Johnson apparently tinkered with his speech till late and copies of it were so scarce only one person on the floor appeared to have one—a surprising exception.

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin had a copy and followed the President carefully all the way. But anyone watching the ambassador for clues to his reaction was bound to be disappointed.

Whether the President said he yearned for peace, or vowed to fight if he must, Dobrynin diplomatically never changed his expression once.

First Lady Likes Part About Peace The Best

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson gave applauding approval to her husband's "earnest day and night" peace efforts, and heartily endorsed a four-year term for members of the House.

The subjects were included in her husband's State of the Union message.

"Being the wife of somebody in Congress for 12 years," she commented after the speech Wednesday night, "I was glad to hear that about a four-year term."

"You don't have to dissipate your energies so much."

LUCI, FIANCE

The Johnsons' daughter Luci and her fiance, Airman 3.C. Patrick Nugent, now assigned to nearby Andrews Air Force Base, also were spectators as the President spoke to the joint session of Congress.

"It's always one of the most dramatic events of the year," said Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson had invited the wives of five of the President's peace envoys to be among her guests in the executive gallery: Mrs. Arthur Goldberg, Mrs. W. Averell Harriman, Mrs. McGeorge Bundy, Mrs. Thomas Mann and Mrs. G. Mennen Williams.

Later, asked about her husband's speech, Mrs. Johnson said:

FAVORITE PART

"I loved most of all hearing the over and over reiteration of the earnest day and night work our country has put in for peace — traveling into 30 nations, talking to top envoys and talking to more than 109 nations."

Beside that, she said, it would be "a reassertion of the strength of this country" to go forward with our education, health, conservation and beautification programs.

Natural Gas Power 'Beacon In Dark'

HOUSTON (AP)—A pipeline firm executive says natural gas prices can only further weaken. McGraw suggested a "positive approach by all segments of the industry—including producers—to strengthen public confidence and encourage use of natural gas."

He said natural gas now is being used by customers in 49 states with Hawaii as the lone exception.

IN TRANSITION
 He said this means the industry now is in a transition from an era of phenomenal growth to an era of merely rapid growth. "Natural gas industry growth therefore depends on new customers and uses," he said. "It is true the major markets have been pierced by the gas industry and the hectic post-war pace of new construction has leveled off . . . keynote of the future in the energy business is competition."

LIKE BEACONS
 "These areas were like beacons in the darkness," McGraw said Wednesday in a speech before the natural gas men of Houston. McGraw said "scary statements hinting at an impending shortage of gas supply" can hurt the natural gas industry in its battle for additional markets. He said such statements are not going to encourage demand and "the lessening of demand

Adenauer Still Views Moscow As No. 1 Foe

BONN, Germany (AP)—Just past his 90th birthday, his political power almost gone, Konrad Adenauer is still in fighting form. He hopes to get the United States to keep a more suspicious eye on Moscow than on Peking.

Adenauer ruled West Germany as chancellor for 14 years, stepping down in 1963. For much of that time his "hard line" on Moscow was also U.S. policy. Then ideas of getting along with the Soviets began to win attention in Washington.

Adenauer, who turned 90 Jan. 5, still sees himself as a protector of Western civilization and has not changed his ideas that the Soviet Union is the chief enemy.

RESIDE RHINE
 He has spent virtually his whole life within a few yards of the Rhine—in Cologne where he was born and ruled as mayor for 16 years, in Bonn, where he built the West German Federal Republic, at his hillside home in Rhendorf, where he now writes his memoirs.

He sees the river as the highway that brought Roman civilization and Roman Catholicism to Germany. This religion and civilization give Europe its paramount importance, in his eyes.

He observes: "My great worry about the war in Viet Nam, aside from all the people it kills, is that it will bring isolationism into flower again in America, and that this isolationism will spread to Europe. People in America have got to understand that."

Adenauer does not make any prediction about the war in Viet Nam, but he seems to fear it will discourage Americans so much that they will interest themselves entirely in domestic affairs.

CITES DANGER
 "Look here," he says. "What does Russia want in Europe? It wants Western Europe. And if it gets Western Europe intact it will be much stronger than the United States, economically as well as militarily, and its power of resistance will be incomparably stronger than Red China's."

Adenauer is still fighting battles on the domestic front—especially against the man who was his minister of economics for 14 years and his successor as chancellor: Ludwig Erhard.

In March Adenauer is giving up his last major political post, the chairmanship of the Christian Democratic party. He made it plain he does not want Erhard to take over the job.

Kitchen Habits Pace Housewife's History

By JO ANN PHINIZY

Think back. It will seem that the course of any housewife's cooking habits parallels the story of her family's history.

First, there's the problem of learning how to cook. No sooner is that done, than one begins to wonder why—as she opens a can after a can of pabulum.

After that, all sorts of things happen. Take the case of Mrs. E. Lee Thackrey, 1500 Eleventh Place. She remembers her cooking history as beginning "away back" when she more or less bluffed her way into becoming the chief chef at the Old Confederate Home in Austin.

"I was just away from my home in Florence when I applied for the job. I told them that if I couldn't cook the best meal around, I would work the first week without wages."

Mrs. Thackrey recalls those years as downright interesting. She would often be called upon to cook and serve "almost spontaneous" meals for visiting dignitaries, usually in groups of 20 or so.

"Still, I had everything right at my fingertips. There was a well-stocked commissary on the grounds, and crystal and silver service sets reminiscent of the Old South."

Salads became her strong point and she took over the salad department at the Scottish Rite dormitory on the University of Texas campus. It was there that Mrs. Thackrey encountered caviar.

"It looked a terror, tasted worse, and was a demon to arrange for anything. As far as I am concerned, it hasn't gained any merit since then."

TWO SONS
En route to today, Mr. and Mrs. Thackrey were married; he is now the geology teacher at Howard County Junior College. There were two boys in the family, Dean and Donald.

"Those were the tumbling years. There was nothing the boys wouldn't eat. It could be cooked any way at all; it could be fried, baked, broiled or burnt, and still they ate."

Dean now is a doctor of veterinary medicine in San Diego, Calif., and Donald is an English professor working at the governmental Willa Run atomic plant at the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Thackrey's real cooking trials began when Thackrey joined the list of ulcerated stomach patients. All of a sudden, it took a Latin prescription for such seasonings as a whiff of onion or a drop of vanilla.

The household menus included such bland as custard, congealed salads and no salt without reach.

"For awhile there, I don't believe I ever left the kitchen. My husband had to eat six meals a day; and, as soon as he was out of sight, I would cook me something that had a little taste to it."

An operation ended the ulcer episode. Now the Thackreys eat whatever and whenever they want to.

MEXICAN FOODS
"It is nice to know we can even eat the wildest Mexican food in town, if we should happen to be in the mood," she said.

Through it all, Mrs. Thackrey has only two regrets: The boys are at opposite poles and it's seldom the family can get together. Even then, it is for short vacations at their fishing cabin in Colorado.

The second thing is that no member of her family cares for chocolate. It's Mrs. Thackrey's favorite flavor. She says that, countless times, she would "fly into the kitchen" and make herself a private chocolate cake or dessert.

Mrs. Thackrey selected recipes that would suit just about any family occasion. She says that, if there is an ulcer patient on the premises, the Honey Cake would offer a variation to his diet.

Figs Help Any Menu

Figs at one time were so important in diets of Mediterranean cultures they were known as "the poor man's food." Their abundance helped them maintain this popular role.

That was long ago. And figs have a noble history that goes back centuries before Christ. The fig tree—of the mulberry family—is well established in ancient mythologies. Held sacred to Bacchus, figs were used in religious ceremonies.

Improved varieties of figs still are important in countries where they thrive extensively. That includes the United States which produces figs in sub-tropical parts of states in the Southeast, around the Gulf Coast and in California.

This winter, canned figs are among the plentiful foods at local markets, as designated by the Agricultural Marketing Service. The season's supply is more than 80 per cent larger than the amount marketed last year.

That's our palatable invitation to serve figs often, as done by our armed forces, hospitals, penal and other institutions that plan their meals for variety, nutrition and appeal. U.S. sailors during World War II, for example, soon learned to anticipate canned figs at least once a week.

The chief nutritive value of figs is sugar, as content in dried figs sometimes runs as high as 64 per cent. Vitamin content depends somewhat on variety.

Figs can be eaten fresh, canned, preserved and dried. Being easily digested, they are healthful sweeteners, popular in salads, cakes and candies. Like the prune, figs have a reputation of providing a mild laxative effect. Canned figs are a popular breakfast fruit, easy to serve and always delicious.

Hot Pudding Becomes Ideal Meal

For cool weather fare a warm Corn Pudding hits the spot. Cook finely chopped onion and celery in butter.

When tender, combine with a can of condensed cream of mushroom soup, 4 beaten eggs and a 1 pound, 1 ounce can of cream-style corn. Season with pepper and pour into a buttered shallow casserole.

Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 45 minutes until set. Carry it to the table warm-from-the-oven. Six servings.

Use Cherries In Cake Mix Batter

Ever fold well-drained minced maraschino cherries into cake mix batter?

White, yellow or chocolate cake mix may be used for this combination. Chocolate flavor is extremely compatible with cherries.

PIQUANT SAUCE
Flavor with garlic, curry and onion

Use Skillet Chicken For Kitchen Magic

It's reassuring to walk into a warm kitchen on a blustery winter evening and be greeted by the aroma of meat and vegetables gently simmering in a piquant sauce.

Treat your family to that kind of welcome with Chicken Skillet—a tasty combination of chicken and asparagus in a luscious onion-mushroom sauce.

base for the hearty main dish. This convenience product ends onion chopping and spice blending. With the work done, you have only to add special touches—generous dashes of garlic and curry powder—to complement the rich onion flavor.

To serve, spoon chicken and sauce over a bed of parsley noodles. Fast steaming cornbread and crisp, shredded cabbage salad.

CHICKEN IN A SKILLET
2 lbs. chicken parts
3/4 lb. mushrooms, quartered
1 medium clove garlic, minced
1 tsp. curry powder
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 can (1 1/2 ozs.) onion dry soup mix
3 tbsps. flour
2 cups water
1 cup celery diagonally cut in 1-in. pieces
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) frozen asparagus cuts
2 cups cooked noodles
1 tsp. chopped parsley
In skillet, brown chicken and mushrooms with garlic and curry in butter. Stir in soup mix and flour; gradually blend in water. Add celery. Cover; cook over low heat 25 minutes. Stir now and then. Add asparagus; cook 20 minutes longer or until chicken and vegetables are tender. Combine noodles and parsley. Serve with chicken. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Popcorn Takes Center Stage

There is a new rage for the young sweets-on-a-stick crowd. It's a candied popcorn "apple." Colorful, crunchy and candied, this popcorn sweet is delicious and easy to make, too. As the apple juice syrup gently cooks, the popcorn pops in its own foil frypan. Then, cooked syrup and popped corn are mixed together and shaped into "apples." Wooden sticks, inserted into one side of the "apples" makes them easy to hold and carry for a snack to be enjoyed any place.

POPCORN APPLES
1 pkg. popcorn
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1 cup apple juice
8 marshmallows
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 tsp. red food coloring
6 wooden sticks
Pour syrup over popped corn and mix until all corn is coated with syrup. Drop into six mounds onto aluminum foil. With well greased hands, shape into six balls. Place a wooden stick into one side of each ball. Turn upside down to flatten tip and allow to cool thoroughly and harden. Makes six candied popcorn "apples."

PANTRY PICK-UPS

If you want that whipped cream topping to have a fine texture, beat it rapidly to bring it to the whipped stage.

When you are using paraffin for sealing jelly, heat the paraffin over hot water so that it never reaches smoking temperature.

Weight-watchers in the house? Substitute yogurt or buttermilk for sour cream in salad dressings.

Good news for weight-watchers: a half cup of blueberries have only 42 calories. Eat the berries with cottage cheese and crisp greens plus a diet dressing rather than the cream and sugar!

Some cooks find that adding a teaspoon of vinegar to the water in which eggs are being poached helps to keep the egg whites from spreading unduly. Another protection against spreading is to use extremely fresh eggs!

Add a little basil (fresh or dried) to canned tomato soup to give it extra flavor; or stir in chopped chives just before serving.

Small fry delight: tiny marshmallows added to fruit cup.

Simmering chicken to use in sandwiches and salads? As soon as it is cooked, remove it from the broth and chill it.

Some of the small canned hams (three pounds and under) do not need to be refrigerated until they are opened, but after that refrigeration is imperative.

Ever stuff thin slices of boneless tender veal with ham and cheese? Secure the edges with toothpicks and fry in butter.

When yeast dough is rising, never keep it warm over a pilot flame because the chances are it will get too warm. The dough should rise at an 80 to 85 degree temperature.

Using potatoes for frying from a package? Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and parika just before serving for good taste and a rosy glow.

Cook several slices of bacon until crisp and then crumble the strips; add both the bacon fat and the bacon crumbles to freshly cooked spinach, fresh or frozen.

Brunch delicacy: Cut bacon slices into crosswise pieces; alternate on small skewers with mushrooms (fresh or canned) and broil. Serve with scrambled eggs.

Interesting summer salad: cut a wedge lengthwise from a cantaloupe; remove seeds and pare. Now slice into very thin crosswise pieces and toss with mixed greens and French dressing. Have the cantaloupe ice-cold before you start!

Grapefruit Becomes Plentiful

Grapefruit, the spark that gives you the start for a good day, is a puzzle, in a way.

No one seems to know how it got started but scientists think it was a "sport" or a mutation from the shaddock tree brought to the West Indies from the Polynesian islands.

The grapefruit was first described in journals out of Jamaica and Barbados about 1750. It was carried to Florida by the Spanish and first grown commercially around 1850. It got its name because it was described in the late 1700's as having a grape-like taste.

Also known as the pomelo, or pummelo, the grapefruit tree is similar to the orange and lemon trees, with fragrant, white flowers.

Bud mutation created the pink, seedless types, like the Ruby Red and the Webb, which have grown in favor in recent years. They add a pleasant touch of color, as well as the customary grapefruit zipp, to breakfast and banquet tables. Other varieties include Marsh, which is seedless and Duncan, a seedy type.

Grapefruit is now grown in all major citrus producing areas of the United States—Florida, Texas, Arizona and California. And this year's harvest, now in full progress, is huge—large enough to place grapefruit on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's January list of plentiful foods.

We can look for around 44.2 million boxes of grapefruit, this season. That's 8 per cent more than a year ago and 12 per cent more than average. Production in South Texas is expected to be around 50 per cent larger than last year. And frequent fall rains helped develop excellent quality and size.

Milk, Cookies Aid Waiting Time

Serve a simple but delicious cookie on Christmas eve and save fancy offerings for the holiday itself.

ALLSPICE COOKIES

1 1/2 cups unsifted regular flour
1/4 tsp. each baking soda, salt and ground allspice
3/4 cup (1 1/2 sticks) margarine
1/2 cup sugar
2 large eggs
1/2 cup dark molasses
1 cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts
On wax paper, thoroughly stir together flour, soda, salt and allspice. Cream margarine and sugar; thoroughly beat in eggs, one at a time.
Beat in molasses. Add dry ingredients; stir to blend. Stir in the walnuts. Drop level tablespoons of the dough a few inches apart, onto well greased cookie sheets. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until edges are brown—about 18 minutes. Makes 4 dozen.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES: 4

Claim Legitimate Expenses

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Special Writer

In many occupations employees use their personal funds in the regular conduct of their business. This is particularly true of salesmen.

Their annual income tax return gives them the opportunity to recover these funds if they have not been reimbursed through a company expense account.

TWO SECTIONS

The tax form provides two sections where such expenses may be claimed. The first opportunity is on Page 2 of Form 1040 in the section headed "Adjustments."

For most employees the amounts to be claimed here are limited to transportation expense (use of personal automobile, taxi hire, fares on public transportation), travel expense (bus, plane, railroad, steamship fare) and meals and lodging while away from home at least overnight.

All other work-connected expense, such as dues paid to a professional society or labor organization, nonreimbursed entertainment expense, gifts to customers, cost of subscriptions to professional or technical publications required in the performance of your work, are claimed in the itemized deductions section of your return.

EXCEPTIONS
So-called "outside salesmen" are the exception to this general rule. They may deduct ALL their ordinary and necessary business expense in the "Adjustments" section. This gives them a distinct advantage.

Who are outside salesmen? Internal Revenue regulations define them as spending full time in the solicitation of business away from their employer's place of business. An outside salesman may make periodic visits to his employer's office for consultation, turn in orders or make reports. But if he is required to sell at his employer's place of business as a regular part of his employment he does not qualify.

To understand the distinction, consider the expenses of two men each earning $10,000 annually. Only one of them qualifies as an outside salesman.

Their identical expenses consist of:
Work-connected automobile mileage—18,000 miles.
Meals and lodging while away from home overnight—$825.

Entertainment expense—$150.
Professional dues—$65.
Secretarial help—$50.
Technical and professional publications—$25.

DEDUCTIONS

The outside salesman will deduct $2,825 as his employe business expense and charge off the amount directly against his gross income on Page 1 of his Form 1040.

In arriving at the car expense we used the Treasury-approved allowance of 10 cents for the first 15,000 miles and seven cents per mile thereafter.

How does the other salesman fare?

His employe business expense deduction will be limited to:
Car expense $1,710
Meals and lodging 825
$2,535

He will recover the missing $290 in business expense only if he itemizes his regular deductions on his return.

When such employe business expenses are claimed, use either Form 2106 (provided by Internal Revenue) or your own statement to explain the deductions. Strict record-keeping and receipts bills are required by IRS in the event of an audit of your return.

Burmese Ban Four Movies

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Burma's film censor board has banned four American films from showing within the country, the Working People's Daily says.

The board said the four American films — "Blanket Bingo," "Ski Party," "Pajama Party," and "Muscle Beach Party," portray American teenagers dancing and frolicking making an exhibition unfit for the Burmese people.

House Elated At LBJ Idea Of 4-Year Term

WASHINGTON (AP)—A surprised and delighted House was ready, even eager, today to carry out one of President Johnson's legislative proposals — a four-year term for members of the House.

Johnson asked a constitutional amendment, effective in 1972, to make House terms run concurrently with that of the President.

His proposal to expand the present two-year House term was the highlight of Wednesday night's State of the Union address for many House members. Senate leaders said they too favored the four-year House term but half the seats should be filed every two years, instead of all 435 every four years.

Amendments to expand the House term have been kicking around the House Judiciary Committee for years, regarded fondly by the members, but like a kid looking at a pony, with little real hope of getting one.

When Johnson made his proposal, the applause that had been rising in routine fashion after each of his legislative recommendations soared in an excited outburst.

Angelo, Coast Get Showers

By The Associated Press

Light rain fell at San Angelo and there were showers in Southeast Texas and along the coast this morning as a north breeze fanned remnants of the latest cool front into the Gulf of Mexico.

Skies were clear over the Panhandle and along the Red River. It was at least partly cloudy everywhere else in the state.

The mercury slid below freezing again in the Panhandle-Plains sector. Early morning temperatures ranged from the 40s to 60s in other parts of the state.
