Eldon Mahon To Oppose Burleson

Eldon Mahon, Abilene attorney and former 32nd district judge and district attorney, today announced his entry in the race for Congress.

He will be a candidate in the Democratic primary against the incumbent, Omar Burleson of Anson, in the newly re-districted and expanded 17th Congressional District.

Twelve new counties have been moved into the 17th District along with 12 hold-over counties of the old 17th.

"Eldon Mahon, if elected," he declared, "will be an aggressive Congressman fulfilling the needs of this area."

17TH DISTRICT

"The town and communities of the 17th Congressional District comprise great business-industry-agricultural areas on the move in unprecedented growth."

"Our district must have a Congressman in Washington who is in step with this tremendous progress . . . a Congressman who is on the go and who will enhance this area's progress."

Mahon, who has been a leader in Democratic Party politics in West Texas for almost 20 years, pledged a strong campaign in every county of the district.

"I am a Democrat without apologies," he said in the phone announcement.

PLEDGE

"However, I will not be a rubber-stamp Congressman to Democratic administration programs."

ELDON MAHON

"Neither will I be a rubber-stamp opposition to progress—saying 'no' automatically to every new proposal."

"I pledge to be a representative of all the people of the 17th District without ties to pressure groups and political cliques."

Mahon, who began his public service career as county attorney of Mitchell County, is partner in the Abilene law firm of Mahon, Pope and Glandon. His law partnership was formed in August 1964 following Mahon's resignation as a vice president of Texas Electric Service Company in Fort Worth.

It was in September 1963 that Mahon resigned as district judge, 32nd Judicial District (Mitchell, Nolan and Fisher counties) to join the executive department of Texas Electric.

WAS DIST. ATTY.

For 13 years he served as district attorney for the 32nd District following tenure as county attorney here.

Two years ago he served as co-chairman of the Democratic Party campaign organization for the 17th District.

Mahon is a native of Loraine in Mitchell County.

Prominent in church and civic and service programs, he lived in Colorado City during his terms as 32nd district attorney and judge until 1963 when he moved to Fort Worth to join the executive staff of Texas Electric.

He is a lay leader in the Methodist Church and on the board of McMurry College in Abilene, where he was graduated before obtaining a law degree from the University of Texas.

Approximately 376,200 citizens live in the 24-county district which will decide which of the candidates becomes the Democratic Party nominee. Their counties are Mitchell, Haskell, Throckmorton, Fisher, Jones, Shackelford, Stephens, Palo Pinto, Howard, Nolan, Taylor, Callahan, Eastland, Erath, Glasscock, Sterling, Coke, Runnels, Coleman, Brown, Mills, Comanche, Hamilton and Concho.

Hiked Federal Spending Will Prod Economy

NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen had just enough of a peek at the upcoming federal budget to judge that it will play a much larger role in setting the course of the economy in 1966 than will the rise in interest rates. And that course will be upward.

Higher interest rates had been viewed as a possible curb on a rapid advance of business activity. Now, increased government spending seems likely to provide a much more powerful stimulant.

President Johnson gave only a brief view of the budget in his State of the Union message. The full details of how it will affect business are set to be revealed a week from now. But the round figures and tax plans the President divulged did show that the pressure will be for further economic growth in 1966.

Increased government spending is the pep pill. Only a token of a sedative is provided by higher excise taxes and earlier collections of corporate income taxes.

Rising interest rates seem likely to slow down the economic growth very little. The big questions for individual companies, and their employees, are yet to be answered. The budget itself will show how the spending is to be allocated — for what defense items, for what Great Society programs. A week from now businessmen and the many recipients of benefits from government projects, whether individuals or communities, will have a much better idea of what 1966 and 1967 may hold for them.

Even this will be subject to change, as the fortunes of war in Southeast Asia may dictate.

But the proposed spending of some $113 billion by the federal government was immediately interpreted on the stock markets as meaning a busy, and prosperous, year for many industries — and therefore for the economy in general.

The President hopes that the Treasury will take in $111 billion, a much larger sum than in the 1965 fiscal year. The increase would come from larger collections from rising personal and corporate incomes, earlier collections of some taxes, and the forgoing of this year's cut in excise taxes on automobiles and phone calls.

Many stock traders were betting that the increased government spending would be easier to come by than the hoped-for higher revenues. Earlier collections of corporate income taxes also might affect business spending. It could mean turning to lenders to pay for equipment because the cash till was prematurely emptied. This could send interest rates still higher by increasing the demand for loans.

President Pleads For Amendments Debate Continues On House Terms

To Run For Governor

Stanley C. Woods, Houston oil man and lawyer, at a news conference in Austin today, tells reporters he will be a democratic candidate for governor against Gov. John Connally. (AP WIREPHOTO)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson urged Congress today to approve a constitutional amendment to provide a four-year term for members of the House "in the interest of progressive and sound modern government."

He also urged approval of another constitutional amendment to wipe out the present Electoral College system of casting votes for president and vice president. Instead of voting for electors, ballots would be cast directly for an electoral vote based on one vote for each member of the House and Senate from the state.

OLD DEBATE

Johnson said in a special message to Congress that debate over the length of the House term began in the Constitutional Convention when James Madison argued for a three-year term and some advocated a one-year term. A two-year compromise resulted.

Johnson asked last year for an amendment to eliminate the Electoral College — although retaining the present system of allocating electoral votes. But a busy Congress kept putting it off. Now he's asking again.

The President's aim is to insure that all of the electoral votes of a state go to the presidential candidate who gets the most votes in the state's general election. To achieve it he would end the practice — in effect for 179 years — of having presidential electors cast the electoral votes.

POPULAR VOTE

He is proposing instead that the state's electoral votes — equal to the number of representatives and senators they have — go automatically to the winner of the state's popular vote.

The proposal for extending the present two-year House terms to four years, which was wildly applauded by House members when Johnson mentioned it in his State of the Union message last week, has been arousing many second thoughts among members.

LITTLE SUPPORT

Johnson wants the four-year terms to coincide with presidential terms, but apparently few House members go along with him. They fear a House elected only when a president was running would be too easily turned into a "coattail" Congress, losing its independent voice.

There is strong support for an amendment to divide House seats so half of the four-year terms would expire every two years. But such a proposal, which has support from Senate

Some Firing Hints Cong Truce Breach

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Separate cease-fires proclaimed by the Communists and the Allies came to war-weary Viet Nam today amid the jubilation and solemnity of the lunar New Year holiday. But scattered fighting erupted after the hours set by each side for the start of the brief peace.

A flurry of Viet Cong attacks came about midnight, when the four-day truce announced by the Communists was supposed to begin. But a South Vietnamese military spokesman said his government had decided the Viet Cong truce did not begin until 1 a.m.

The first incident after the commencement of the 73-hour Allied truce at noon (11 p.m. EST Wednesday) occurred seven miles west of Tuy Hoa, along the central coast, when a Viet Cong company fired on men of the U.S. 101st Airborne Brigade at 1:50 p.m. The paratroopers returned the shots, killing one Viet Cong but incurring no injuries to themselves, a military spokesman said.

POUND CONG

In the morning hours up to the Allied truce, U.S. jets and Guam-based B52s pounded Viet Cong positions in Tay Ninh Province, 68 miles northeast of Saigon, adjoining the Cambodian frontier.

U.S. Marines encountered the Viet Cong 17 times in the 24 hours leading up to the Allied truce and killed two and wounded four in the skirmishes, according to reports from Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon.

TRUCE BREACHED?

U. S. and South Vietnamese spokesmen agreed that the Viet Cong appeared to be abiding by their pledge to halt hostilities, but different interpretations of Hanoi time caused confusion as to whether they had breached their truce with the midnight attacks.

When the underground Communist radio announced the truce three weeks ago, it said the Viet Cong would not launch any attacks from midnight, Jan. 19, to midnight, Jan. 23, Hanoi time. U. S. and South Vietnamese said this meant the truce would begin at 11 p.m. Jan. 19, Saigon time.

Today a South Vietnamese government spokesman said midnight in Hanoi was 1 a.m. in Saigon. This would mean that at least four of the five early morning Viet Cong attacks were not violations.

McNamara Requests Okay For War Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara urged Congress today to approve $12.76 billion as an additional installment on the cost of the war in Viet Nam.

He cautioned "we must be prepared to deploy even more forces" if the Communists expand their operations in South Viet Nam.

JOINT MEETING

McNamara presented his argument for the additional funds before a joint meeting of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a Defense Appropriations subcommittee.

McNamara gave a point-by-point explanation of how the money would be used and why it is needed. Many of the details had been explained earlier.

McNamara noted the United States has deployed about 190,000 military personnel to South Viet Nam, not including the members of the 7th Fleet operating off the embattled country's coast.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of both the committee and subcommittee, planned only two days of hearings. But there were ample signs that Congress intends to take its time in examining every aspect of the Viet Nam problem and related defense issues before its expected approval of the fund request, probably in March.

DEBATE COMING

Two senators served notice Wednesday night that the President's request will be fully debated when it reaches the Senate floor.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said he felt there should be "no limitation on debate," and Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., assured him there would not be.

Clark said he did not know how he will vote, "but the proposal should be fully debated."

"It will be fully debated," Morse declared. He strongly opposes U.S. policies on Viet Nam.

In other developments: —Secretary of State Dean Rusk and roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman returned to Washington Wednesday night to report to President Johnson on their meetings with various world leaders. Their arrival sets the stage for top-level conferences to map future military and diplomatic strategy on Viet Nam. Rusk and Harriman said other nations understand clearly now that the United States wants peace in Southeast Asia.

Various governments "volunteered to do what they could in their own way with Moscow, Hanoi and Peking to achieve a peaceful solution," Harriman said, adding: "The decision is now up to Hanoi."

FILIPINO AID

—Authoritative sources reported it might be as long as six months before the Philippines sends any troops to Viet Nam. When a Philippine detachment is sent, it is likely to be a non-combat engineering battalion — about 2,000 men. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey discussed the possibility of Philippine help for the U.S. effort in Viet Nam during recent talks with the new Philippine president, Ferdinand E. Marcos.

—Academic experts in a number of fields will participate in a conference here on Viet Nam Friday and Saturday. The conference was initiated by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., to give Congress the benefit of hearing from "independent sources of knowledge and expertise."

—President Johnson presented the presidential unit citation for extraordinary gallantry to the Air Force's 38th Air Rescue Squadron for life-saving helicopter operations in Viet Nam. Four squadron members represented the unit at the White House ceremonies Wednesday.

Apollo Spacecraft Lofted In Safety System Check

WHITE SANDS Missile Range, N.M. (AP)—A Little Joe II rocket hurled an unmanned Apollo spacecraft into space today in an apparent success in the final and most severe test of a launch safety system for astronauts.

The rocket, its engines trailing white smoke against a blue sky, roared off the launch pad at 8:17 a.m. (MST) after two brief delays.

HIGHEST YET

Within seconds the rocket's first stage burned out and the second stage boosted the cone-shaped, five-ton spacecraft toward an altitude of about 150 miles, the highest yet in six tests at White Sands of the Apollo astronauts' safety system.

After escape rockets apparently pulled the spacecraft clear of the Little Joe II in a mock emergency, a ground station at White Sands reported sighting three parachutes lowering the spacecraft to the ground.

LOOKS PERFECT

Spokesmen said all signs indicated a perfect test.

Success would end a two-year test program at White Sands. The escape system then is to be moved to Cape Kennedy.

Allowable Allows Heavy Production

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission ordered February's oil allowable held to 32.7 per cent of capacity today, giving the state big production months back-to-back.

The percentage factor will provide a production ceiling of 3,157,864 barrels daily next month. The January allowable of 32.6 per cent permitted a maximum allowable of 3,116,652 barrels a day, the best start oilmen have had any year since 1959.

Three of the 13 major Texas oil purchasers at the commission's monthly statewide oil hearing asked for an increase from this month's allowable.

COMPARISON GIVEN

The February production pattern compares to a 29.4 per cent order in February 1965, when the allowable was 2,976,754 barrels a day.

Purchasers' nominations, in barrels daily and by percentage:

- 35—Texaco 152,000
34—Sinclair 103,300, and Socony 265,000.
32.5—Cities Service 73,500.
32—Atlantic Refining 82,300.
Pan American 275,000 and Sun 116,149.
31.5—Gulf 219,300, and Standard of Texas, 39,700.
31—Continental 29,000, Humble 419,475, Phillips 126,571 and Shell 177,400.
Alvin Hope, San Antonio independent, urged the agency to move with caution in setting the production pattern.

Rep. Brooks To Run Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., announced today he will seek re-election to represent the newly created Beaumont-Galveston district.

His announcement followed by a day one by Rep. Clark Thompson, D-Tex., that he would not seek another term.

Oil Man Runs For Governor

AUSTIN (AP) — Stanley C. Woods, Houston oil man and lawyer, announced today he would be a Democratic candidate for governor against Gov. John Connally.

Woods told a news conference he has asked state Rep. Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline to join him in a "team effort" as a candidate for lieutenant governor against Lt. Gov. Preston Smith.

Woods said he had talked with H. S. Brown, president of the Texas AFL-CIO, about his gubernatorial candidacy and would ask the Texas Committee on Political Education (COPE) to formally endorse him at its March meeting.

Hollowell, the subject of considerable speculation as a possible

Youth Is Critical, Injured In Fight

A 19-year-old youth, injured during a fight Wednesday afternoon, was reported in "extremely critical condition" by attendants at Cowper Clinic and Hospital this morning.

The youth, Johnny Elliott Tibbets, 19 son of John E. Tibbets, 2401 Scurry, was injured about 2:30 p.m. yesterday when his head struck either the pavement or a curb at Twentieth and Nolan, officers said.

Few details of the incident are available officers said today. Detectives are questioning several witnesses.

Officers said there had been a snow-ball fight among many youths at Twentieth and Nolan Wednesday, but that the incident in which young Tibbets was injured may have no direct connection to it, but rather may have been the result of a challenge to fight between Tibbets and at least one of four other young men.

Witnesses said four youths left the scene in a 1957 model car immediately after Tibbets was injured.

Tibbets was taken to Cowper by Big Spring Ambulance Service. His doctor said today the young man is completely unconscious, and stopped breathing during the night. He was breathing this morning with the aid of an artificial respirator, the doctor said.

The boy's injuries include a skull fracture, brain concussion, and possible internal injuries, according to Capt. L. A. Hiltbrunner, who spoke to doctors Wednesday.

The incident has been turned over to city detectives, who are investigating.

Powers Arrives In Court

Attorneys' Clashes Heated At Mossler, Powers Trial

MIAMI (AP) — Clashes between state and defense lawyers grew more frequent and heated as they moved into the fourth day of an attempt to select a jury for the Mossler murder trial.

State Atty Richard Gerstein brought opposing lawyers to their feet Wednesday when he told prospective jurors it was not necessary for a defendant to be at the scene of a killing to be convicted of murder.

He could be found guilty, Gerstein said, if he "counseled, aided or procured" the killing.

ARE OVERRULED
Clyde Woody, chief counsel for Candace Mossler, and Percy Foreman, head of the defense for Mrs. Mossler's nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, jumped up to object to Gerstein's statement. They were overruled by Judge George Schulz.

Mrs. Mossler, 39, and Powers, 29, were charged in a joint indictment with the murder of her wealthy husband, Jacques Mossler, in Miami in 1964.

Testimony at the preliminary hearings placed Powers near the apartment the night of the slaying. Mrs. Mossler said she was at a hospital being treated for a headache at the time.

Mrs. Mossler said she returned to find the body of the financier, 69, wrapped in a blanket in the living room of the apartment. He had been stabbed 39 times.

Foreman had asked each man in the box if proof of a "sexual affair" between the two defendants would affect his judgment in considering the charge of murder.

He permitted the questioning.

He said he was "not going to let anyone put a strong bias against the defendants."

Fort Worth Wins Award

ABILENE (AP)—Mrs. J. Lee Johnson III of Fort Worth Wednesday received the West Texan of the Month Award for January from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Johnson, wife of the president and general manager of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, was cited for having "proven herself a task force for beauty in her community and the state." Mrs. Johnson, a civic leader particularly active in the arts, is the third recipient of the award since the program began last November.

The chamber said Mrs. Johnson's goal is to make Texas "a vital force in world art circles."

QUERY ON RELIGION
Gerstein was overruled when he objected to Foreman's questions to each prospective juror about his church activities.

A religious person's feelings about "illicit relations," Schulz said, are not relevant.

Texas Klan Notes Growth

By The Associated Press

A circle of men in white robes marching in the glow of a fiery cross has taken on new meaning in Texas — a state that declared war on the Ku Klux Klan 40 years ago.

The Klan of the 1920s operated outside the law with frequent violence. The modern Texas KKK, its leaders declare, is an organization of peace and persuasion.

The "new" Klan came to life in Texas early last year and its leaders say the burning cross is about to sweep across the state.

A Houston railroad yardman, George Otto, 35, generally is credited with awakening the Texas KKK.

Otto said he joined the Klan last year after finding himself in sympathy with the speeches of Robert Shelton, the KKK grand dragon.

HOUSTON ORIGIN

The Texan said he began organizing Klaverns last April. His early work was in the Houston area and the drive then moved north and west.

Otto will make no estimate of Klan strength in Texas, but others do so readily.

Royce McPhail, 35, a Crockett insurance man and now the Klan's state leader, estimates the KKK Texas membership at 5,000 and that it is growing by 100 members a week.

Law enforcement officers hoot at McPhail's estimate of the Klan's size, but they agree the Klan is spreading.

"HERE TO STAY"

Otto says it is here to stay. The Klan, he said, "is going in the direction that I pointed it. It will have many more rallies and will be greatly expanded."

Otto said the Texas KKK is strictly a "Christian, fraternal, political organization."

"We have a strict policy and doctrine that anyone advocating violence is thrown out of the organization," he said.

Prospective members usually get in touch with Klan officials by telephone or mail, often as the result of rallies. Klan members also talk to prospective members and the organization's growth comes about "kinda like a chain letter," one of the officers said.

CHECKS BACKGROUND

Candidates' backgrounds are checked carefully, Otto said, and a Klan team conducts membership interviews.

Otto said persons with criminal or alcoholic records are excluded. Negroes and Jews are also excluded, he said.

According to Otto, the sole purpose of the Texas Klan is to fight communism. This means, he further said, fighting the Negro civil rights movement.

Film To Show Hong Kong In A New Light

HONG KONG (AP)—Nancy Kwan, who captivated audiences in the American films "World of Suzie Wong" and "Flower Drum Song," has come home to a labor of love.

The daughter of a Chinese father and an English mother is starring in the ultra-low budget "Lodestone," being filmed in color on an outlying Hong Kong island by the Government Information Service.

The 40-minute picture, far removed from the usual tourist promotion film, presents a dramatic story instead of a series of scenic views. "Lodestone" has an over-all budget of $35,000.

Out of that must come costs of color film and processing, payments to owners and salaries of crews for a score of Chinese junks featured in the film, and the price of one junk which will be wrecked in a key storm-at-sea sequence.

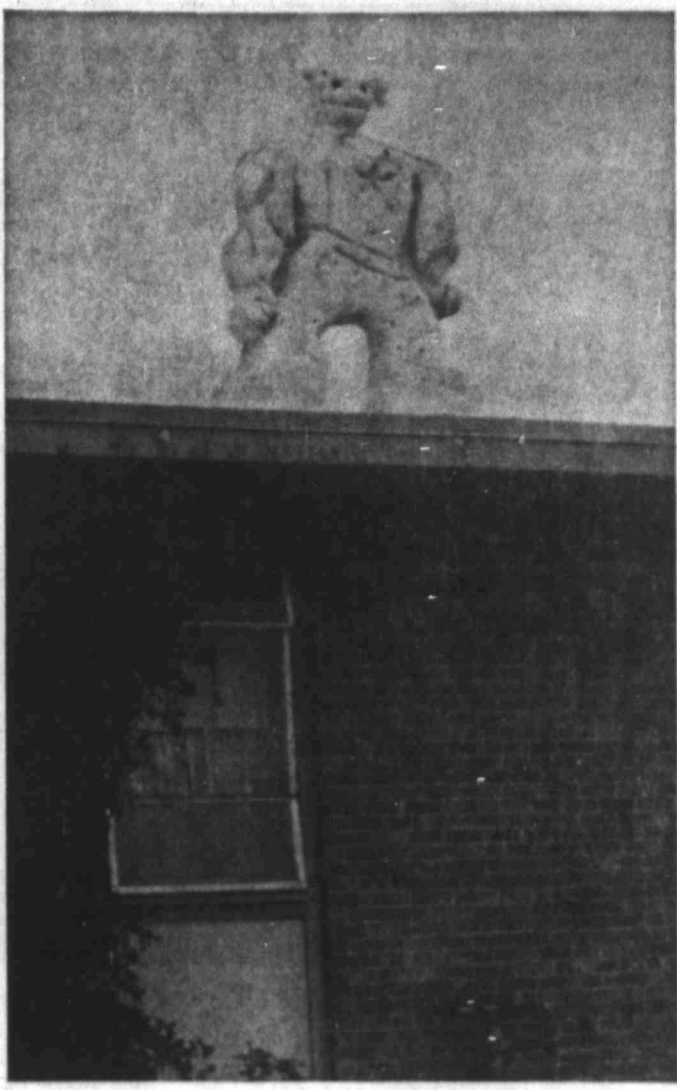

"That," explained a spokesman, "leaves no money for a star-sized salary to an international film star of Miss Kwan's calibre."

"But that made no difference to Miss Kwan, 26. She came home to Hong Kong, from Austria where she now lives with hotelman husband Peter Fock and their son, to lend her talents for a film which will show Hong Kong to the rest of the world in a new light."

Miss Kwan plays the wife of a Chinese fisherman in a story set a thousand years ago on the group of islands which eventually became Hong Kong. The script, written by Brian Salt, head of the information service's film department, weaves together two old Hong Kong area legends.

The film is expected to be completed next month and probably will have its premiere here in midyear. After that prints will be distributed for showing around the world.

Salt, writer, producer and director, hopes for a side value—a vehicle showing commercial film producers of America and Europe what the outlying islands and rural areas of Hong Kong can supply in the way of natural beauty and exotic backgrounds for full-length films.

From Outer Space?

This imposing sculpture, a product of the recent snows, is not from outer space, but the handwork of Max Anderson and Roger Kendrick. It will be peering down from the rooftop of T. Sgt. and Mrs. M. E. Anderson, 178A Fairchild, in Webb Village, until the sun melts it away. (Photo by Frank Brandon)

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES: 10

Don't Forget To Take Medical Deductions

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Special Writer

The wisdom of preserving receipts and canceled checks is quickly realized at income tax filing time. Nowhere is this more prudent than in preserving throughout the year all medical expense records.

The person who has all the supporting proof never hesitates to make a proper medical deduction. Those lacking the proof frequently have to overlook this tax-saving opportunity.

DEDUCTIBLE

Medical expenses are deductible on your tax return to the extent they exceed 3 per cent of income. For the $8,500 total income taxpayer this would mean complete deduction of his medical expenses beyond $255.

Before starting out on your medical deduction, separate first the expenditures for medicines and drugs from your other medical expenses. The drugs are includable in your tabulation beyond one per cent of income. For the $8,500 taxpayer, for example, this would mean the cost of drugs beyond $85.

Your medical expenses include the cost of hospital and health insurance, fees paid to doctors, dentists, optometrists, chiropractors, psychiatrists, Christian Science practitioners, hospital, mental institution, nurses, cost of laboratory tests, X-rays, physical therapy treatments, eyeglasses, dentures, hearing aids and batteries, rental of wheel chair or crutches and ambulance hire. Include also the transportation costs in obtaining medical care.

MILEAGE

That could be taxi or bus fare or an allowance for the use of your own car. IRS regulations permit the use of a five cents per mile allowance for the use of your own car for medical purposes. You can also include parking charges.

You can consider only those medical expenses for yourself, your spouse and your dependents.

From this medical expense tabulation of our $8,500 taxpayer you have a ready guide for your own return:

Prescribed drugs	$115.
Less 1 per cent of total income	85.
Excess	30.
Hospital insurance	213.
Bradley Hull, M.D.	85.
Leslie Slaman, D.D.S.	115.
Transportation (300 mi. at 85)	15.
Eyeglasses (Dr. Arthur Madden)	35.
Total Medical Expense	$498.
Less 3% of Total Income	255.
Deductible	$243.

If you were the chief support of one of your parents who was 65 or over you could claim the full amount of medical payments made in his behalf without reference to the 1 per cent or 3 per cent rules even though he had $600 or more income. Your separate statement attached to your return should show a separation of the medical payments for your family and your parents if you and your spouse are both under 65.

PLAN

TAX TIP: Consider this plan for your medical records. Place an envelope labeled "Medical Expense" in your file cabinet. Each time you pay a bill put your receipt in it or put the canceled check for such payments in at the end of each month. At the end of the year your records will all be assembled for you.

Grand Jury Panel Picked

Toby Cook, J. D. Elliott and Clyde McMahon Jr., members of the special grand jury commission, have submitted a list of 16 names to Judge Ralph Caton of citizens who comprise the January grand jury panel.

Judge Caton has ordered the panel members to report to his court at 9 a.m. Jan. 25. From the 16 he will select 12.

The panel members are being notified by Sheriff Aubrey Standard to report.

They are: E. C. Boatler, Mrs. Wayne Gound, Ross H. Boykin, W. W. Posey, Mrs. Harold Hall, Ralph Gossart, John W. Hodges, Horace Reagan, Jeff L. Brown, Mrs. Curtis Driver, Tommy Jordan, Jimmy Taylor, Garner McAdams, Milton Barnett, John Berry, A. E. Nabors, Mrs. Joe Pickle, Harold Davis, A. K. Guthrie and R. S. Galbraith.

Veterans Urged To Make Reports

A total of 41,900 veterans and widows who receive pension from the Veterans Administration, and 900 dependent parents who receive dependency and indemnity compensation, have returned their annual income questionnaires to the VA regional office according to Jack Coker, manager.

Coker stated that 18,495 beneficiaries had not returned their questionnaires and will receive no check after Jan. 31 unless the questionnaires are returned. The questionnaires are required only in the cases of veterans and widows receiving pension, and parents receiving dependency and indemnity compensation. Questionnaires are not required in the cases of children receiving pension, or veterans or widows receiving payments of compensation.

Three May Go To Prison

Three probationers are likely to find their clemency set aside Feb. 2, when Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, hears motions by Wayne Burns, district attorney, to set aside their probated sentences.

They are Kinney French, who was given a three-year probated sentence Feb. 16, 1965, after being convicted of forgery; Clarence Reed, four years probated sentence for forgery, July 15, 1965; and Melvin Earl Weiland, four year probated sentence for theft, handed down Feb. 16, 1965.

French has been picked up and is being held in the county jail. Weiland is reported to be in Michigan. A warrant has been dispatched for his arrest. Reed is being sought. He may be in El Paso, where he has relatives. Reed, it is said, is in deeper trouble than his fellows—he denied at the time his probation was allowed he had been previously convicted of a felony. Officers say that he had a prior conviction at the time.

Charges against all three are that they failed to make proper and required reports of their activities to John Dibrell, probation officer. One of the trio, it was said, did not even take the time to pick up his probation instructions and papers.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Ada (Jackie) Kelley, Big Spring; one son, Thomas M. Kelley, Big Spring; one daughter, Mrs. Zan Dawson, Big Spring; one brother, one sister and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. in the Fitchburg Cemetery, Travis County, where the Rev. Ed Moore will officiate.

Big $$$ Question Posed By Incident

BRIDGEPORT (AP) — Residents of this tiny North Texas town pondered today the $33,000 question:

Where did the money come from and where did it go?

Here's the story, according to Bobby Hawkins, 26, who said it all began when he and a friend stopped Wednesday for a cup of coffee at a cafe.

"When we came out, a man walked out of a phone booth with a big brown envelope in his hand," Hawkins said.

"He said he found it in the phone booth and asked us if we would read the address for him. My buddy (Roy David of Irving) and I looked at it, but the words were written in Spanish and it had a Cuban postmark.

"I suggested we call the police, but the man said he'd better call his boss in Fort Worth and ask him what to do."

"He went into a phone booth and dialed a number. "Then he said his boss wanted to talk to me. I talked to the man on the phone and he told me to bring the man and the money to Fort Worth or he might spend all of it."

"I agreed, but told the man I had to check out at the funeral home because I'm an ambulance driver and I just couldn't take off without telling somebody."

The man suddenly grabbed the envelope and ran, Hawkins said. Did the man really have $33,000? No one here seems to know, but police said the story sounds similar to a con game, a variation of which has been pulled in Fort Worth.

About 140 Attend REA Gathering Here Wednesday

Representatives from rural electric cooperatives from the Panhandle, South Plains and West Central Texas pondered suggestions Wednesday that local co-ops consider setting up their own financing program.

Approximately 140 representatives participated in the gathering here at Ramada Inn.

Franklin Spears, state senator from San Antonio, could not make the noon luncheon speaking engagement as planned, due to a pleading before the Supreme Court of Texas for a place on the Democratic primary ballot as a candidate for attorney general.

Most of the details of proposals for a new or supplementary financing source were outlined by Ira Shesser of the National Rural Electric Cooperatives Association. Others on the program were Everett R. Brown, new director of the Southwest area for REA; Glen Newton, manager of the South Plains Cooperative at Lubbock and the Texas representative on the NRECA board; James R. Cobb, Austin, director of the Texas Electric Cooperatives Association; James A. Morris, information director, and Ken Lloyd, advertising and sales promotions, both of Texas RECA; and Jim Wiggins, representing a San Antonio firm promoting the advertising campaign which has as its next three-year theme, "Helping Texas to Grow."

Cap Rock Electric Cooperative was represented by its president, Glenn Cantrell, Big Spring, and the entire board of directors, as well as O. B. Bryan, manager, R. P. Simpson and James Eiland of the headquarters office in Stanton.

Shesser said that "the rural electric cooperatives of the nation, including the 78 in Texas, face financial starvation because Congressional appropriations for the REA loan program are falling far short of our needs, due to budgetary pressures."

Shesser proposed that the existing REA loan program be retained and that it be supplemented with funds from a Federal Bank for Rural Electric Systems. He said that the backlog of REA loan applications is expected to total $22 million by the end of the current fiscal year.

Surveys indicate that the rural electric systems throughout the nation will need $413 million for fiscal 1967, he added. Conclusions of the proposal call for retaining the present two per cent REA loan program for those rural electric systems which cannot afford higher cost money and supplementing these funds with higher cost money from a Federal Bank for Rural Electric Systems, financed by the federal government, rural electric systems and consumers and funds from the open money market.

Creation of the bank requires the approval of the NRECA membership and Congress.

Students in the Big Spring Public Schools will have their first holiday of the year Friday, according to Sam Anderson, superintendent.

Friday is "Grades Record Day" for all teachers, when they meet to grade papers and record semester grades. Classes will resume Monday as usual, when the second semester begins.

Tryouts for "The Steadfast Tin Soldier," forthcoming production of the Little Theatre of Big Spring, will be held Saturday and Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Prairie Playhouse, City Park.

There are parts available for elementary school age boys and girls and two adult women. The play will be directed by Mrs. Josh Burnett and Mrs. Norman Spencer Jr. For further information contact Mrs. Burnett at AM 3-3373.

Semester Ends Howard County Junior College students will complete semester examinations Friday afternoon, according to Dean Ben Johnson. A new semester will begin Sunday, Jan. 26, with all day registration, and classes will begin Thursday, Jan. 27.

Stock Trading Suspension For 10 Days

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 10-day suspension of trading in common stock and debenture issues of Associated Oil Gas Co. of Houston was ordered Wednesday by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The SEC also ordered its staff to develop and clarify all pertinent information respecting the firm's involvement in a company that is using a new process to extract gold from ores in western Idaho.

The SEC Tuesday ordered a halt in the opening of trading in Associated Oil stock. The order by the commission also covered trading in over-the-counter markets.

The Houston firm recently acquired a substantial interest in Salmon River Mining Co., which has the rights to more than 40,000 acres of mineral leases in the Riggs area of Western Idaho. Walter L. Maguire, president of the Texas firm, said Tuesday that a pilot plant has been operated by Salmon River for some months, using a new recovery process to extract gold from ores which heretofore had not been considered commercially usable.

The trend will continue in 1966, but crises are a way of life in the Middle East and several life points remain.

Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser set the new mellow Arab mood in mid-1965. With King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, he agreed to call off the costly, three-year-old war in Yemen. He installed a more moderate government in Egypt and ordered a belt-tightening program to try and solve Egypt's critical production and population problems.

Nasser also dropped prestigious but expensive foreign causes that had sapped Egypt's resources and alienated the West. And he abandoned the anti-American campaign that had cost him U.S. food supplies.

FOOD PROGRAM The new U.S. food program for Egypt runs for six months. It will probably be renewed only if Nasser continues to behave — in U.S. eyes. This minimizes chances of fresh anti-American outbursts and brightens hopes for better relations in 1966.

Iraq, scene of two bloody revolutions in 1963 and an abortive but sobering coup in 1965, has announced it is abandoning state economic control in favor of free enterprise.

Syria has called a halt to nationalization. It promises economic reforms and a fresh emphasis on planning.

The overthrow of President Ahmed Ben Bella in Algeria last spring revealed the fragility of one-man rule. It probably provided a sobering lesson to other Arab leaders and contributed to prospects for peace in the Middle East.

RELATIVE TERM But peace is a relative term in this part of the world. Cyprus, for instance, was relatively calm in 1965 but the unresolved tensions between its Greek and Turkish populations remain explosive despite U.N. efforts. Turkey has vowed to defend the minority Turkish community of Cyprus — by military intervention if necessary — and the showdown could come in 1966.

Turkey's American-trained Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel won a sweeping election victory in October but the five-year plan sagged and the Turkish army is watching on the sidelines. Trouble could flare if Demirel stumbles.

Civil strife in southern Sudan, cut off from Western newsmen, is probably far more vicious than has been apparent. It could spill over other areas in 1966.

KURD WARS There is real shooting involved in another obscure war, waged by the Kurds in the northern mountains of Iraq. They claim 4,194 Iraqi soldiers and policemen killed in eight months last year and the fighting will probably resume when snows melt.

In Aden and South Africa, the sniping war against the British by Nasser-backed terrorists and tribal groups is picking up in tempo.

And the war in Yemen could erupt again despite the best efforts of Nasser and King Faisal.

Japan Pleads For Peace Bid

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shima of Japan urged the Soviet Union to use its influence on Communist North Viet Nam to achieve a peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese war.

Japanese sources said Shima made the appeal to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko during a two-hour talk in the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

EXERT INFLUENCE The informants said Shima simply repeated the known Soviet position on Viet Nam, including the view that a withdrawal of U.S. troops from Viet Nam would lead to a peaceful settlement. Shima told Gromyko a peaceful settlement could possibly be based on a unilateral condemnation of the United States, the sources said.

Shima is expected to see Premier Alexi N. Kosygin Friday and may renew his discussions on Viet Nam at that time.

Arab World Trying New Mellow Mood

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Arab world started to run out of revolutionary steam in 1965, and to tackle the overwhelming problems it faces at home.

told Gromyko it was urgently necessary to stop the fighting in Viet Nam and that it was in this context that Shima expressed the hope to Gromyko that Moscow would exert influence on Hanoi.

The sources said Gromyko replied: "We are not in a position to mediate the conflict."

A REPEAT The informants said Gromyko simply repeated the known Soviet position on Viet Nam, including the view that a withdrawal of U.S. troops from Viet Nam would lead to a peaceful settlement. Shima told Gromyko a peaceful settlement could possibly be based on a unilateral condemnation of the United States, the sources said.

Shima is expected to see Premier Alexi N. Kosygin Friday and may renew his discussions on Viet Nam at that time.

Former Resident Dies In Dallas

Word has been received here of the death in Dallas Wednesday of R. M. Buchanan, 77, who resided in Big Spring as a boy.

Buchanan was a member of the board of directors of the Dallas Morning News until he retired in 1964. He previously had served as vice president of that organization and was active in the corporation for 38 years.

Buchanan attended public schools in both Iredell and Big Spring. His family moved here when he was 11 years of age. He began his newspaper career in 1908.

Funeral will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in the Sparkman's Funeral chapel in Dallas and burial will be in Hillcrest Garden Mausoleum there.

Survivors include his widow and a daughter, Mrs. H. Smith Reed, also of Dallas.

Foss' Stand May Improve Image

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Commissioner Joe Foss, in voiding the disputed trade involving San Diego's Ernie Ladd and Earl Faison, took the fourth and final figures to give the American Football League a more sophisticated image.

Using his sweeping power, Foss completed a series of moves Wednesday that firmly established his iron rule and likely put an end to the controversial statements that have been made to the press by various AFL personnel in recent weeks.

As a matter of fact, when the phone rang in press headquarters following Foss' latest announcement, an official taking the call jokingly answered: "AFL press headquarters. No comment."

While it may have been a joke in press headquarters, it certainly was no joke to K. S. (Bud) Adams Jr., the Houston owner who always seems to have a Texas-sized announcement for the press.

Foss took the first step toward establishing the new image concept when he firmly denied his rumored removal. Then he withheld approval of the controversial trade. He then called Boston linebaker Nick Buoniconti on the carpet for statements he said were detrimental to the league, and finally, Foss turned thumbs down on the Ladd-Faison deal.

Foss, in announcing the decision to void the trade, after personally investigating the various allegations, said he "concluded that statements of owner K. S. Adams published prior to the trade constitute tampering with players Ladd and Faison under the provisions of our constitution."

"The evidence is conclusive the players knew of the published statements of Mr. Adams and one of them, Ernie Ladd, was quoted as saying: 'If a man (Adams) is willing to give up four players, he must be willing to give up a lot of money.'"

"The obvious effect of Mr. Adams' statement was, therefore, interference with the ability of San Diego to sign these players."

Foss statement said there was no evidence the players were contacted by Houston and emphasized that the statements by Adams were enough to constitute tampering.

NO FAVORITES

Foss also took San Diego Coach and General Manager Sid Gillman to task for his comments, saying it was Gillman's "duty to file a protest of tampering. But he compounded the wrong by trading the players to the offending club and then announcing he had no bargaining position."

"I am instructing him (Gillman) to confine all future complaints involving league matters to official communications to the commissioner."

How successfully Foss had made his position understood in the matter of statements to the press was made clear only minutes after he had handed down his decision when the parties involved were asked for comments on the disposition of the case.

Both Adams and the new Houston general manager, Don Klosterman, said:

"We have no further comment to make on the situation."

RUNS OUT MAY 1

Ladd and Faison now will return to San Diego while Houston retains linebaker Johnny Baker, defensive end Gary Cutsinger and defensive back Pete Jaquess.

Ladd and Faison, who had previously announced they were playing out their options, remain under contracts to the Chargers at least until May 1.

TED WILLIAMS
Williams Is Now in Hall

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams, latest of baseball's 400 hitters and one of the most feared sluggers in the history of the game, was named today to baseball's Hall of Fame.

The former Boston Red Sox outfielder, 47, was elected to the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., in his first year of eligibility. He was the only choice.

His election by 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, including many with whom he had feuded during a tempestuous, colorful career, was announced by Hy Hurwitz, association secretary-treasurer, at a news conference.

Williams dominated the balloting in which 71 players were eligible, including 41 former major league players listed for the first time after spending the required minimum of five years in retirement.

Despite two hitches of duty as a Marine Corps flyer in World War I and the Korean War, Williams played 19 seasons for the Red Sox. He belted 521 homers, ranking behind only Babe Ruth (714) and Jimmy Foxx (534), and compiled a lifetime batting mark of .344, placing him tied for ninth among baseball's all-time great hitters.

Williams was elected by a record vote. He received 282 votes out of a possible 302 for a 93.4 per cent. Seventy-five per cent, or 226 votes were required for election.

Charles (Red) Ruffing, former New York Yankee pitching great, was second with 208 votes, just 18 short of election.

Nicklaus Starts '66 Campaign In Crosby

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A bulky field of 137 pros, each with an amateur partner, opened fire today in the silver anniversary edition of Bing Crosby's golf tournament, an event started for fun which now will reward the low scorers with $104,500.

Jack Nicklaus, the leading money winner of 1965 with $140,752.14 in official money, makes his 1966 debut here. His final practice rounds were disappointing as he shot only a 74 over the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course on Wednesday.

He toured the layout with Arnold Palmer and lost to him by four in the warm-up over the course with a par 71.

Open two weeks ago and could also snap the slump which has left the Crosby one of the major titles to elude him.

Still, if there can be a favorite here, it should be Billy Casper, holder of the tournament record for 72 holes with a 277 in 1958 and also winner in 1963 with a 285.

Casper is fresh off a victory last Sunday in the San Diego Open when he shot a closing seven-under-par 64 in cold, windy weather, reminiscent of many days in past Crosby tournaments.

Nicklaus won the 1961 United States amateur title at Pebble Beach, placed second to Casper in Crosby's 1963 event and tied for third last year when Bruce Crampton of Australia became the only foreigner ever to win the Crosby when he posted a 284.

Most of the big names, including Palmer, Nicklaus and Casper, toured the Cypress Point course today. On Friday, they'll play Monterey Peninsula Country Club and then come to Pebble Beach for the national telecast on Saturday.

The leading 50 pro-am teams and the pros still in the money play the final 18 at Pebble Beach on Sunday.

Promising Aggie

Terry Trippett, former Odessa High cage star who rewrote all of Dubby Malaise's District 2-AAAA scoring records, is now a sophomore at Texas A&M. A sensational second half show he staged recently toppled SMU.

"The evidence is conclusive the players knew of the published statements of Mr. Adams and one of them, Ernie Ladd, was quoted as saying: 'If a man (Adams) is willing to give up four players, he must be willing to give up a lot of money.'"

Classic Struggle Scheduled Friday

GARDEN CITY—One of the classic basketball struggles of the season will take place here Friday night when girls' teams of Forsan and Garden City square off about 7 p.m.

There's a natural rivalry between the two schools—though relations remain on a high and admirable level. The two sextets are undefeated in conference competition. And Forsan, a paper-thin favorite to win the title before the season began, will be seeking revenge for a one-point defeat administered its club by Garden City in the recent San Angelo Lake View tournament. Final score of that game was 53-52.

The defeat ended a 29-game winning streak by the Buffalo Queens. Jody Dodd, the Queens' scoring leader, was favoring a mild ankle turn at the time but coach James Blake refuses to fault that for his team's defeat. He is quick to point out that Garden City has a fine team and richly deserved the win over her team that night.

Garden City depends heavily of such forwards as Judy Hirt, Brenda Jacob, Kay Sawyer, Ann Carter and Donna West and such backcourt specialists as the Jacob sisters, Sharon and Beverly. Garden City is coached by Theora Calverly, a former Garden City star.

Dodd has scoring help in the Forsan camp from such girls as Mary Simpson, Mollie Condon and Sherry Walraven and gets fine play in the backcourts

Sioux Climb Close To Top

The North Dakota Sioux, with an Indian sign on teams visiting their Grand Forks gymnasium, have climbed to within four points of leading Southern Illinois in The Associated Press small-college basketball poll.

The Sioux play Parsons of Iowa tonight, seeking their 22nd consecutive home-court triumph. They scored victories at home over South Dakota and Morningside last week, lifting their record to 14-2.

Southern Illinois drew three first-place votes and 92 points while North Dakota, which was fourth a week ago, advanced to second with four first-place votes and 88 points in the latest vote by 15 regional experts.

The poll was based on games through last Saturday.

Evansville moved up to third. The Aces, fifth last week, whipped St. Joseph's of Indiana 102-90 for a 9-4 mark.

The Top Ten, with won-lost records through games of Jan. 15, and total points:

1. Southern Ill. 8-3 82
2. North Dakota 14-2 82
3. Evansville 9-4 74
4. Grambling 14-2 74
5. Youngstown 10-1 55
6. Akron 9-1 49
7. Cent. State, Ohio 19-2 47
8. (tie) Northern Mich. 5-2 30
9. Cheyney State 15-0 30
10. Arkansas State 10-3 29

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

One of Texas Western College's seven leading basketball scorers is a Texan. That would be David (Daddy D) Lattin, who played against HCJC here last year as a freshman. Lattin is Willie Cager, a native of New York.

The Miners have the most aptly-named round-ball specialist in Willie Cager, a native of New York.

Big Spring's Don Robbins is no longer the highest paid coach in District 2-AAAA. Both of Odessa's seniors, Permian's Gene Mayfield and Joe Means of Odessa High, are being paid more than the Steer mentor.

The head coach at Borger is probably the lowest paid grid chieftan among West Texas Class AAAA schools. His salary is $9,250, unchanged from last year. Don Williams of Plainview receives a salary of $10,500 under terms of a new contract. Emory Bellard's pay at San Angelo amounts to $10,835.

The salaries of Amarillo's four head coaches range from $9,500 to $10,900, with H. M. Patterson of Tascosa probably making the most there. (Killen made overtures to him before he hired Gene Rogers).

The top basketball salary in the area is probably paid to Abilene's Nat Gleaton, who draws down $8,851. Big Spring's Allen Simpson earns $7,871 per year. Odessa High Coachron receipts for $8,466. One of the Amarillo mentors earns $8,750.

Ross Collins, new king of the nation's left-handed golfers, now resides in Dallas but he originally hailed from Ellsboro, a small oil community located in Young County not far from Graham.

He learned the game on greens of sand and cottonseed hulls on courses around Breckenridge. He didn't own a set of matched clubs until he was 27 years of age. He's now 43 and on the school board at Garland.

Catching Oklahoma State University in a losing basketball year is sort of like Alabama experiencing an 0-10 season in football, but such a thing is taking place this year.

The Cowboys are now on an eight-game losing binge and won't get to do anything about it until Jan. 22, at the earliest, at which time they travel to Iowa State.

CBS will charge $70,000 a minute for advertising in its NFL telecasts next season, or needs in order to break even.

If you don't think pro football is big business, consider the fact that sponsorship in a top prime-time network show goes for $45,000 a minute. The Johnny Carson show charges $14,000 a minute and the best of the daytime serials get only $3,000 a minute.

Football is attractive to the sponsors because it lures a strong male audience and the males are supposed to hold the purse strings.

Next Thanksgiving Day, you'll get not one but two NFL games, one of them at night. And one of those contests might well feature the Dallas Cowboys, if ever they recover from that awful performance they staged in the Runnerup Bowl game at Miami.

Paul Thomas, the local high school cager, scored a total of 275 points in 28 games last season. He equaled that figure in his 19th game this season (he missed two of the locals' games due to leg trouble).

That was guard Patsy Gooch and not Claudia Davis of the Forsan basketball girls who was named to the all-tournament team in San Angelo Lake View recently. A case of a mix-up in numbers.

Bulldogs Seek Revenge Friday

COAHOMA — When the Coahoma Bulldogs play host to Jim Ned Friday night, they will be meeting the only club that topped them in District 6-A first round competition.

Coahoma is 5-1 in conference competition and beat the pre-season favorite, Aspermont in Aspermont, along the way.

Taylor Could Challenge Legality Of Dismissal

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Houston Oilers may wind up with both the incoming and outgoing head coaches involved in legal action against their former team owners.

Hugh (Bones) Taylor, who was fired by the Oilers Tuesday night, said he may seek legal counsel when his one-year contract expires at the end of this month.

Speculation on the new Oiler coach continues to center on Wally Lumm, a former Oiler and St. Louis Cardinal head coach. However, he has said he wants a full settlement of the remaining 17 months on his Cardinal contract.

Taylor indicated he may ask American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss to investigate the circumstances of his dismissal. Foss left Houston Wednesday following the annual AFL meeting.

"I tried to speak to him but he was in a hurry to catch a plane," Taylor said. "He said if I had a complaint to put it in writing. That I intend to do."

Taylor said if he fails to get a satisfactory answer from Foss he plans to seek legal counsel.

Oiler General Manager Don Klosterman announced Tuesday night that Taylor's contract was not being renewed. He said this was primarily because of recent newspaper and radio-television statements involving the status of veteran quarterback George Blanda.

The new general manager described the statements as "indicating an apparent inharmonious relationship existing between Taylor and Blanda" and that statements by both Taylor and Blanda have contributed to an atmosphere "not conducive to winning football games."

Last November, K. S. (Bud) Adams, Oiler owner, had announced that Taylor would be given a three-year contract. However, Taylor agreed Wednesday it had not been signed and Klosterman said the agreement included an understanding that both the Oiler management and Taylor could terminate the contract at any time.

Sheard Leader In Juco Scoring

DODGE CITY, Kan. (AP)—Burlington, Iowa, took over the top spot this week in the National Junior College Athletic Association basketball coaches' poll.

Burlington, in the No. 2 position a week ago, was given a one-point edge over Cameron of Lawton, Okla., for this week's honors. Last week's leader, Moberly, Mo., was third.

Burlington has an 8-2 record, Cameron is 13-1 and Moberly 10-2.

Preston Sheard of Cisco, Tex., leads the individual scoring race with a 34.6 average. Wesley at Dover, Del., still leads team offense with a 117-point average for six games.

Following Moberly, others in the top 10 teams are Dallas Baptist (13-1); Mineral Area, Flat River, Mo. (14-1); Erie Tech, Buffalo, N.Y. (11-3); Murray State, Tishomingo, Okla. (7-2); Wharton, Tex. (14-2); Bethany Lutheran, Mankato, Minn. (11-1); and Lamar, Colo. (14-1).

RUBEN AMARO STEWS

O's Star Terminates Brief Retirement

after the education of his four children.

His 1966 contract calls for an estimated $32,000, a cut of about $2,000.

The shortstop's short-lived retirement came after he batted only .225 and failed to win the American League base-stealing crown for the first time in 10 years.

But while Aparicio has been improving his batting eye in the Venezuelan winter league, Amaro has been unable to help his in the Mexican league.

Amaro wanted to play with the Obregon team of Sonora because he felt he hadn't played enough with the Phillies last year. The 30-year-old shortstop even was willing to accept a low salary.

But salary is what placed him on vacation.

"That did it," Amaro explained. "My team couldn't possibly pay me by league rules. The team's entire budget for the season was 72,000 pesos, or approximately $6,000. So I didn't play winter ball in my own country."

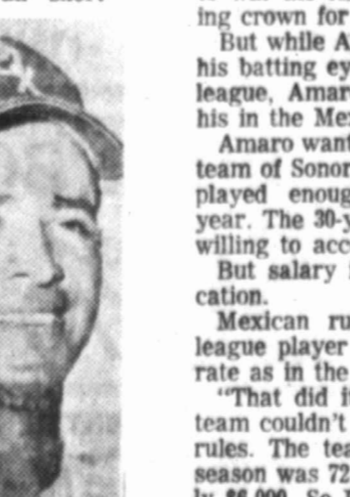

Among other players signing contracts Wednesday were catcher Elston Howard of the New York Yankees, third baseman Pete Ward of the Chicago White Sox and pitcher Roy Face of Pittsburgh.

Luis Aparicio has ended his voluntary retirement, but Ruben Amaro still awaits the end of his forced vacation.

Aparicio, Baltimore's veteran shortstop, returned his signed 1966 contract Wednesday about three months after he announced his retirement.

At the same time, Amaro, traded to the New York Yankees from Philadelphia in November, explained why he is spending a winter without baseball.

After returning to his home in Venezuela last October, the 31-year-old Aparicio said he was quitting, adding: "I'm going to devote my time to teaching young players." He also said he wanted to set up a sporting goods business and look

Third-Rated St. Jo Five Upset Victim

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. John's University Redmen of New York appear certain to be invited to defend their NIT championship in college basketball when tournament action arrives in March.

The Redmen, improving with each start, whipped the third-ranked St. Joseph's Hawks of Philadelphia 82-72 Wednesday night. They now have won four in a row for an over-all 10-3 mark.

Bradley, seventh-ranked in The Associated Press poll, also was a casualty in Wednesday night's action. Playing on the road, the Braves absorbed an 85-69 thumping from the Cincinnati Bearcats.

In other games, Louisville whacked Dayton 94-77, Detroit defeated Villanova 101-94 and Los Angeles Loyola handed Notre Dame its 10th straight defeat 96-86.

A sellout 6,128 at Alumni Hall on the St. John's campus saw the Redmen, behind 34-32 at halftime, pull away in the second half to win decisively.

"They just beat us in all departments," said Jack Ramsay, coach of St. Joseph's.

It was St. John's 13th straight victory on their home court and St. Joseph's third defeat of the season, all suffered on the road. The Hawks have won 12.

A 13-point burst after Mike Roll's tip had put them ahead at 19-15 sewed up Cincinnati's romp over Bradley. Don Rolfe's 21 points and John Howard's 20 paced the Bearcats as they kept on the heels of first-place Tulsa in the Missouri Valley Conference.

A hometown turnout of 11,264 cheered as Louisville whacked Dayton behind 24 points by Fred Holden and 23 by Joe Leitke. Don May, Dayton soph, pitched in 33 points for a losing cause.

The Redskins of Miami of Ohio tightened their hold on first place in the Mid-American Conference by whipping Western Michigan 88-70 at Oxford, Ohio. In other home-court triumphs Harvard defeated Dartmouth 74-70 in an Ivy League tussle and Georgia Tech whipped Georgia 89-56.

Cornell, Tennessee Tech, MIT and Southern Illinois won on the road. Cornell whipped Colgate 98-83, Tech clouted Chattanooga 90-68, MIT downed New Hampshire 83-66 and Southern Illinois, No. 1 in the AP small-college poll, whipped Evansville, the defending national NCAA small-college champs, 79-65.

Mrs. Gandhi Gets LBJ's Invitation

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — President Johnson today invited India's new prime minister, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, to visit him in Washington, an informed source reported.

Bowles delivered Johnson's invitation during a 25-minute meeting with Mrs. Gandhi in her office, the source said.

Bowles declined to discuss the President's letter, which was handed to Mrs. Gandhi less than 24 hours after her election to succeed the late Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri.

VISIT WAS SET

Shastri, who died Jan. 11, had been scheduled to visit the United States Feb. 1 to discuss American economic aid to India and the whole of U.S.-Indian relations. Mrs. Gandhi indicated Wednesday she is willing to visit the United States, saying the matter was up to President Johnson.

There was no indication that Johnson had suggested a time for the visit. Mrs. Gandhi had said only that it must come after she is sworn in as prime minister, now scheduled for Monday.

However, she is likely to be immediately preoccupied with problems at home. India's opposition parties indicated today that she will come under heavy attack soon.

COMPLICATE TASK

Despite her Congress Party's overwhelming majority in Parliament, a serious political attack would greatly complicate her task of seeking solutions for India's immense economic and foreign policy problems.

Of all the opposition groups, only the pro-Moscow Communists published the customary congratulations on Mrs. Gandhi's election Wednesday to succeed Shastri.

Other political factions were openly bitter that the governing Congress party had given the nod to Jawaharlal Nehru's 48-year-old daughter.

Socialist leader Ram Manohar Lohia declared: "We will have a pretty face for a time and she will be burdened with the weight of her father's and Mr. Shastri's misdeeds. To that we can safely add the burden of her own misdeeds."

WON 350-109

Backed by party king makers, Mrs. Gandhi defeated rightist Morarji Desai 350-109 when Congress party members of Parliament elected a new majority leader. She was automatically asked to form a new government.

Much of the opposition's fire was directed at Shastri's last foreign policy move — and Mrs. Gandhi's promise to defend that move.

This is the Tashkent declaration Shastri signed Jan. 10, the day before he died, with President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan. They pledged to seek a peaceful solution to the differences which have taken their two countries to war twice since 1947.

U.S. Industry Rolling Along In High Gear

NEW YORK (AP) — The industrial machine has gone into high gear as Congress gets set to decide which would be better for the economy: stepping on the brake or the throttle.

Sharp gains in the production of industrial materials and a sizable jump in output of durable goods at yearend are reported by the Federal Reserve Board.

An increase in industrial production had been expected. The size of the gain in December came as a surprise to some observers.

SPEED AHEAD

Polls of top business executives show the big majority confident that more speed ahead is likely this year.

The optimistic industrialists are aware of all the uncertainties the Viet Nam war creates and they have heard all the warnings of the dire results should the economy overheat. They know that the government could clamp on fiscal brakes or shift more production from civilian goods to military goods, whether hardware or textiles.

FAR AHEAD

But most businessmen still are counting on the next six months at least, and probably all of 1966, being far ahead of the smartly quicker pace set in the final months of 1965. They expect only mild, if any, application of the brakes.

The Federal Reserve reports its industrial production index jumped two points in December — to a record 148.3 per cent of the 1957-59 average from the previous high point of 146.3 per cent set in November. This put the output at yearend 10.2 points above the level of a year ago.

CERTAIN SIGN

Industrial production is often seen as a sure sign of which way the economy is going, and how fast. For 1965 as a whole, the industrial production index was 8 per cent higher than for 1964 as a whole. And with the trend apparently still upward, 1966 looks bright.

But industrial production is only a little more than a third of all the goods and services turned out in the United States.

Mothers Direct Wrath At Local Draft Boards

By The Associated Press

All over America little groups of citizens, many of them elderly, decide today which young men will be drafted into uniform—perhaps to serve in Viet Nam.

Some young men go willingly, others only after exhausting every appeal.

In February alone, the elder citizens will sift 29,400 young men out of the nation's population for induction.

RECEIVE ABUSE

Members of the 4,000 local draft boards receive no pay — and much abuse. Often they spend wearying hours at their task. Many of their decisions are agonizing. Some have qualms about the whole system. D. A. Ghrist, 64, a banker, has been on Board 84 in Kansas City, Kan., since the original draft on Oct. 16, 1940.

"When they asked me to serve, I thought it would be my patriotic duty," said Ghrist. "I still feel the same way. Some people conscientiously oppose the very idea of what we are doing, but it's a duty that must be fulfilled."

Another member of Board 84, who has served since early in World War II, is Otto Ziegler, 76, a retired lawyer. Drafting men who wind up in Viet Nam makes him uneasy.

WAS DIFFERENT

"World War II concerned us all because we were in it," he said. "But you don't call this a war. Some board members, including myself, know that this has to be done, but don't heartily approve of it."

Gray-haired, motherly Wilma Crane has been clerk of Board 84 since its inception more than 25 years ago.

"We have very little trouble with our boys," she said. "It's the mothers who give us the most trouble. These women write in saying they condemn us for sending their boys to be shot at."

OWN SON

"I inducted my own son in 1958. And then I got a Mother's Day card that really broke me up. The sender said she hoped if I ever had a son he would be killed in the Army."

Local boards vary in size from three to five members, depending on the area's population density. Members are appointed by the President on the recommendation of state governors.

There are 95 appeal boards, one for each federal judicial district.

Appeal board decisions are usually final. But decisions decided by a split vote may be taken to the national Selective Service Appeal Board in Washington.

"TOUGH SPOT"

Maj. Malcolm F. Miller is head of Selective Service for Southern California. "Board members are in a tough spot," he said. "They have quotas to fill, but they also have to protect the registrant and keep the community operating as close to normal as possible."

"They donate their time, supposedly about three hours a day, two days a month. In recent months, however, I've seen many boards sit down at 3 p.m. and not get up until midnight or later."

"Despite this, they stay on and on for years. Of 280 board members in Southern California, 36 have served for more than 20 years. I think it boils down to this: If you like people, you like Selective Service work."

RELUCTANT ONES

A wide variety of reasons why they should not be drafted are offered by reluctant dragons in all parts of the country. Some reasons are strange and wonderful.

"Dear Sir," read a letter to one board. "I am not going to the military service for nobody, so just let me alone. So, don't send me no more forms. The service is for somebody who has nothing else to do. I've got things to do." He's in the Army now.

Severe Cold Grips Sectors

By The Associated Press
Snow, sleet and freezing rain hit broad areas from eastern Colorado to the nation's midsection and into parts of the South today.

Severe cold continued to grip areas in the North Central region and northern Montana, with temperatures dropping to more than 20 below zero in some cities.

Fairly heavy snow piled up along much of the eastern slopes of the Rockies. Six inches covered the ground at Lamar, Colo.

The snow belt also extended across southern Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, northern Texas, Arkansas, central Mississippi and northern Louisiana.

Up to five inches of snow fell in southern and southwestern parts of Oklahoma in the first general snowstorm of the season. Two deaths were attributed to traffic accidents on icy roads.

Hazardous - driving warnings were issued by the Weather Bureau in sections from New Mexico eastward across parts of the southern Plains and the lower Mississippi Valley.

SLEET, DRIZZLE
Snow and snow mixed with sleet and freezing drizzle was reported from the Texas Panhandle to Arkansas.

One inch of snow fell in Shreveport, La., and sleet pelted Meridian and Jackson, Miss., and spread into northern Georgia.

Snow up to eight inches fell Wednesday in western Texas forcing some schools to close and slowing highway and air travel.

Stolen Car Is Recovered

Local patrolmen noticed a car parked at IS 20 and US 87 Wednesday evening — because one of the license plates had been bent over to conceal the numbers.

Upon approaching the car, officers found a man asleep in the driver's seat. A license check revealed the car as one reported stolen from Levelland Jan. 15. Levelland police will retrieve the car today, officers said.

Midwinter Count Shows Bird Decline

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts State Division of Fisheries and Game says its annual midwinter inventory of waterfowl shows 96,200 birds — down 27 per cent from last year's record.

Lemons Gets Agent's Post In Mitchell

COLORADO CITY—Bobby L. Lemons, assistant county agent in Hale County since 1962, has been named the new Mitchell County agricultural agent effective Feb. 16.

Lemons will fill a position held by Buddy Logsdon for the past four years. Logsdon will move to Littlefield to become Lamb County agent replacing W. R. Kimbrough, who recently retired after more than 30 years work with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Lemon's appointment was announced jointly by Mitchell County Judge Elmer Martin and Extension District Agent Billy C. Gunter, of Lubbock.

Lemons, who is 27, holds a B.S. degree in agricultural education from Texas Tech College, where he was vice president of the Collegiate Future Farmers of America Chapter and active in the Aggie Club.

The new Mitchell County agent is married to the former Miss Janice Helmers, from San Angelo. They are the parents of one daughter, Dawn, two.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Lemons of Fluvanna.

Hale County Judge C. H. Abernathy and Hale County Agent Ollie Limer both expressed regret in losing the service of Lemons.

Last year Lemons was selected as one of two county extension agents to accompany the Texas 4-H delegation to National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. However, he declined the honor to accompany the Hale County 4-H livestock judging team to the national contest.

New Arctic Blast Heads For Texas

By The Associated Press
Snow and freezing drizzle held the northern third of Texas in an icy grip again today and a new mass of Arctic air threatened to drop temperatures by as much as 10 degrees during the night.

The Highway Department reported extremely hazardous driving conditions over the Panhandle and South Plains. Ice of bridges posed a hazard to motorists in the northern portions of North Central and Northeast Texas.

Snow cut visibility to 200 feet on some eastern Panhandle roads during the morning and Amarillo police reported 20 minor traffic accidents in a two-hour morning period because of ice-glazed streets.

ROADS HAZARDOUS
Bus drivers reported highways in all directions from Amarillo were difficult and hazardous.

The Weather Bureau said the snow would spread in the north-west portion of the state and into North Central Texas and would continue through Friday.

Lows around 18 degrees were predicted for the upper Panhandle before dawn.

Today's snow and freezing drizzle extended the worst storm of the winter. Earlier this week, as much as six inches of snow fell in the McLean area in the eastern Panhandle.

SNOW BLANKET
Most of the Panhandle and South Plains still lay under a blanket of snow, at many points two to three inches deep. The snows earlier in the week forced schools to close in the Snyder area.

Forecasts called for 18 degree cold in the upper Panhandle and 25 in extreme Southwest Texas with freezing weather to extend deep into North Central and Northeast Texas before dawn Friday.

During the night Texarkana in the northeast corner of the state received 1.50 inches of snow but only about a third of that stayed on the ground.

Fog before dawn cut the visibility at Dalhart to half a mile and the ceiling to zero.

To the south of the snow and freezing drizzle there was scattered light misting rain.

Early morning minimums ranged from 26 degrees at Amarillo and Alpine to 46 degrees at Brownsville. Dalhart had 27 degrees, Texarkana 28, El Paso, Presidio, and Wichita Falls 29, and Lubbock, Dallas, Fort Worth and Waco 32.

Farm Research Plans Okayed For Dawson Co.

LAMESA — Plans have been approved for an agricultural research program slated to start this year here in Dawson County.

The program will be sponsored by Lamesa Cotton Growers Association and conducted by personnel from the South Plains Research and Extension Center near Lubbock.

Under the initial three-year agreement, Lamesa Cotton Growers will donate $4,950 annually to the research center to finance the scientific tests. Local farmers will loan their land for the trials.

Dawson County Agent Lee Roy Colgan reports that 13 experiments are scheduled for the 1966 growing season. The experiments were selected after local agricultural leaders discussed the program with the researchers, he said.

The idea for the research program developed last September in a meeting of Dawson County financial and farm leaders.

The group felt that research might help to lower cotton production costs and to find other profitable crop alternatives, Colgan said.

Charles Fisher, superintendent of the South Plains Research and Extension Center, said personnel there consider the venture will permit testing under sandyland conditions.

The center, one of Texas A&M University's major experiment stations, conducts a number of trials at off-station locations, but these tests reflect additional emphasis on research in the sandier and warmer part of the South Plains.

Soils at the Lubbock Center are primarily mixed sandy loams and temperatures average three to four degrees cooler than in Dawson County. Fisher said these geographical differences can have significant effects on research results.

"We will conduct tests with such things as the long staple, storm proof cottons and the experimental grain sorghum varieties under development here," said Fisher.

Other work planned for Dawson County includes such tests as herbicide effectiveness with on-the-bed planting, seeding rates, nematode and Fusarium wilt control with chemicals and resistant varieties, and fertilizer-water relationships.

Colgan said county agents in the area will continue to conduct demonstration programs to show the benefits of research-proven practices under typical farming conditions. Fifteen crop demonstrations are planned in Dawson County for this coming year, he said.

M. S. McSeller, chairman of the demonstration committee, W. N. Anderson, president of Lamesa Cotton Growers, and George Eiland, chairman of the research group, will serve as an executive committee.

Y Drive Kicks Off Monday

The typographical error gremlin has crept into plans for the YMCA participating membership kickoff.

Bulletin No. 1 mailed to all participants in the campaign effort carefully noted the kickoff and report session dates for the drive.

This is where the typo came in—the kickoff is at 7 p.m. Monday, but the bulletin said the following day.

Ooops, said Curt Mullins, general secretary of the YMCA. The date for the kickoff dinner is Jan. 24, 7 p.m. at the Y. Wives (or husbands) of workers are invited.

Under the initial three-year agreement, Lamesa Cotton Growers will donate $4,950 annually to the research center to finance the scientific tests. Local farmers will loan their land for the trials.

Dawson County Agent Lee Roy Colgan reports that 13 experiments are scheduled for the 1966 growing season. The experiments were selected after local agricultural leaders discussed the program with the researchers, he said.

The idea for the research program developed last September in a meeting of Dawson County financial and farm leaders.

The group felt that research might help to lower cotton production costs and to find other profitable crop alternatives, Colgan said.

Charles Fisher, superintendent of the South Plains Research and Extension Center, said personnel there consider the venture will permit testing under sandyland conditions.

The center, one of Texas A&M University's major experiment stations, conducts a number of trials at off-station locations, but these tests reflect additional emphasis on research in the sandier and warmer part of the South Plains.

Soils at the Lubbock Center are primarily mixed sandy loams and temperatures average three to four degrees cooler than in Dawson County. Fisher said these geographical differences can have significant effects on research results.

"We will conduct tests with such things as the long staple, storm proof cottons and the experimental grain sorghum varieties under development here," said Fisher.

Other work planned for Dawson County includes such tests as herbicide effectiveness with on-the-bed planting, seeding rates, nematode and Fusarium wilt control with chemicals and resistant varieties, and fertilizer-water relationships.

Colgan said county agents in the area will continue to conduct demonstration programs to show the benefits of research-proven practices under typical farming conditions. Fifteen crop demonstrations are planned in Dawson County for this coming year, he said.

M. S. McSeller, chairman of the demonstration committee, W. N. Anderson, president of Lamesa Cotton Growers, and George Eiland, chairman of the research group, will serve as an executive committee.

Y Drive Kicks Off Monday

The typographical error gremlin has crept into plans for the YMCA participating membership kickoff.

Bulletin No. 1 mailed to all participants in the campaign effort carefully noted the kickoff and report session dates for the drive.

This is where the typo came in—the kickoff is at 7 p.m. Monday, but the bulletin said the following day.

Ooops, said Curt Mullins, general secretary of the YMCA. The date for the kickoff dinner is Jan. 24, 7 p.m. at the Y. Wives (or husbands) of workers are invited.

Court Okays Film-Cutting

NEW YORK (AP)—Producer Otto Preminger can't keep his film "Anatomy of a Murder" from going under the knife of television's surgeons.

A Supreme Court justice ruled Wednesday that the right of a producer to final cutting and editing is limited to the original or theatrical production and not to television showings.

Preminger had sought a permanent injunction to keep the film intact during television showings.

But Justice Arthur G. Klein said the right to interrupt motion picture showings on television for commercials and to make "minor deletions" to fit the time requirements has been considered a "normal and essential part of the exhibition of motion pictures on television."

Mishap Kills Midland Man

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP) — A Midland, Tex., man and a Lovington, N.M., resident were killed Wednesday in a two-car collision 29.5 miles east of Roswell on US 380.

Clyde Browning, 51, Lovington, died before reaching Eastern New Mexico Medical Center here. The car in which he was riding collided with one driven by William H. Jetton, 37, of Midland, who wasn't injured, state police said.

The other victim was Robert L. McPherson, 34, of 3202 Cord Drive in Midland. He was thrown from the Jetton vehicle, police reported.

Officers said a car driven by Joe A. Browning, 50, of Lovington was passing a semitruck-trailer in a no-passing zone, and it swerved, hit the right side of Jetton's vehicle and overturned 1½ times. Jetton's car spun around in the road.

G. L. Shoemaker of Midland was treated for minor injuries and a broken leg at the Roswell hospital.

Joe Browning suffered a broken leg, broken ribs, abrasions and lacerations.

Sheriff Warns Of Con Game

Sheriff Aubrey Standard said today that householders in Big Spring are being bilked by pseudo salesmen who are working an old bunco game.

From reports, Standard said, certain individuals who were formerly connected with firms and organizations and who are now discharged, are taking advantage of their former clients. They pose as still being with the companies and collect premiums or other fees.

The difference is that the bogus "agents" ask that checks be made out to themselves and not to the companies they pretend to represent. They then cash the checks and disappear.

Standard urged all persons who are asked to make payments to firms or organizations by house-to-house agents decline to make the checks out to the alleged representative.

Failure to do this leaves the check writer with no recourse.

Garrett Shows Reserve Champ

Garrett-Wynn Ranch of Longmont, Colo., an operation of Horace Garret of Big Spring and Bedford Wynn of Dallas, showed the reserve grand champion bull in the Angus division of the National Western Stock Show in Denver this week.

The young sire finished behind Ankonin Johan, the entry of Anky Farm of Rhinebeck, N.Y. Garrett-Wynn recently sold an interest in one of their herd sires to Anky.

Marcus Speaks At C-C Banquet

Edward S. Marcus, executive vice president of Neiman-Marcus, will be guest speaker at the annual meeting and banquet of the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p.m. today.

The meeting will be in Civic House, with reservations at the registration desk. Marcus is a widely-known civic leader of Dallas, and is currently chairman of the Texas Partners of Alliance.

No Quorum For Parks Meeting

A Parks and Recreation Board meeting set for 4 p.m. Wednesday failed to convene when a quorum could not be established, according to Roy Anderson, assistant city manager.

The meeting was to have had three items on the agenda—a request by the YMCA to use the City Park swimming pool for the annual YMCA Swim Meet; a financial report; and an inspection trip of the park and recreation facilities including all parks and the cemetery.

Collision Of Two Autos Kills Texan

ARANSAS PASS, Tex. (AP)—A collision of two cars Wednesday night killed Attilano Marques, 76, of Aransas Pass. The accident occurred on a city street at the line dividing Aransas and San Patricio counties.

Berliners Turn In Wallets They Find

BERLIN (AP) — Money is lying around on West Berlin streets — and people keep turning it in. That is the report of the police who say their lost and found department has on hand a number of wallets containing between 200 and 300 marks — $50 to $75 — valuable rings and a gold bracelet.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES

6 big reasons why you'll want CUT YOUR OWN TAXES

By Ray De Crane

- "Cut Your Own Taxes" has all the new tax tables and charts, sales tax schedules that are applicable to individual states.
- This is the year when the total tax paid in by the taxpayer should be close to the amount of withholding tax deducted.
- This is the year when we collect on the second stage of the tax cut passed by Congress in 1964.
- There are new rules for investors who are reporting dividends this year.
- There are new rules for Senior citizens in claiming their retirement income credit.
- Some changes in the tax law passed by Congress in '64 were applicable only after January 1, 1965!

Heir-Apparent Harold Holt Now Aussie Prime Minister

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Menzies, 71, resigned because of his age, and members of his Liberal party in Parliament elected Holt party leader and head of the government, posts which Menzies had held for the past 16 years.

"The affairs of the world at large and of Australia in a period of rapid developments are increasing in weight and complexity," Menzies said. "They demand the services of men and women full of vigor and flexibility of mind, feeling at their best and able to do their best."

Government sources said Menzies also intends to resign his parliamentary seat for the Kooyong District of Victoria State.

The succession of Holt, 57, was a foregone conclusion. He had been deputy Liberal leader since 1955, federal treasurer since 1958, and Menzies' close confidant and adviser since Holt was first elected to Parliament in 1935.

Like Menzies, Holt graduated in law from Melbourne University. He retains an interest in a Sydney law firm but does not practice.

SINCE 1939

He was first elected to Parliament at the age of 27 and served in Menzies' first Cabinet, 1939-41. The prime minister recalled him from the army after three Cabinet ministers were killed in a plane crash.

Holt became a minister again when Menzies was re-elected in 1949 and has headed the labor and national service, immigration and treasury portfolios.

As the Menzies era moved well into its second decade, it began to look as if he would never retire. But while Holt waited, such potential rivals as Sir Percy Spender and Sir Garfield Barwick moved from the political arena to the judiciary.

Holt never appeared to become impatient and probably never was, so intense was his admiration and loyalty for Menzies. He also had the comfortable knowledge that the prime minister regarded him as his heir apparent.

HEADS COALITION

As prime minister, Holt will head a coalition of the Liberal and Country parties. He told a news conference following a meeting with Country party leader John McEwen that the two could see no problems in continuing the good relations between the two parties.

No threat is expected from the opposition Labor party, at least until the general election late this year. The Labor party is sorely troubled by internal strife.

Holt is expected to continue Menzies' policies of close ties with Britain and the United States, including Australia's commitment in Viet Nam where its troops are fighting alongside U.S. forces.

Many Post Offices Across Country To Be Mechanized

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Postal workers say they have gotten the bugs out of the $20-million mechanized post office in Providence, and now Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien says similar equipment will be installed in post offices across the nation.

"I think mechanization has proven to be good," says Postmaster Harry Kizirian of Providence. "We've learned a lot from it. Mechanization is the answer to speedier mail service."

100 POST OFFICES
O'Brien announced this week in Washington that mechanization equipment will be installed in 109 city post offices that handle 60 per cent of the nation's annual 74-billion-piece flow of mail.

He said the program would cost $65 million by June 30 and is aimed at next-day delivery of mail across the nation.

The new equipment includes closed-circuit television and optical machines that electronically read zip codes.

At first some of the automated equipment installed in Providence back in 1960 began chewing up assorted letters and packages and spewing them out at odd places. Mail was frequently delivered in damaged form.

IRONED OUT
Kizirian says the mechanical flaws in the modern building built in the shape of a vast Quonset hut have been ironed out.

The Providence post office has been expanded to include general mail distribution to 65 satellite offices in Rhode Island and 42 offices in southeastern Massachusetts. Kizirian said the post office could handle even more mail.

With the new equipment, he said, his office processes an average of 1,800,000 pieces of mail a day, compared to one million before automation.

Recorded background music and an end to much of the drudgery of hand mail sorting has brought about a marked change in employe working conditions.

Kizirian said there has been no cutback in personnel at the satellite offices and there has been an increase of about 250 permanent employes at the central office.

The Providence post office

has come in for criticism, principally because of the cost of its construction and operation.

BLASTED PLAN
Last March, former Postmaster General John A. Gronouski called the office "a disastrous experiment" that had "little relation to reality" and proved that mechanization would not solve the nation's postal problems.

Testimony before a House subcommittee on post office appropriation in 1964 indicated that the facility was costing $1,776,000 more a year to operate after mechanization than before.

Kizirian said he did not know if this was still true.

Coahoma Gets Federal Aid

Funds for library resources of $1,862.17 for Coahoma Independent School District have been approved under Title II of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, according to W. A. Wilson, school superintendent.

Wilson also announced that work has begun on the new elementary gymnasium, band hall and physical education field-house by Snody Construction Co., Midland, and curbing of the new track field was completed recently.

At a recent meeting of the Coahoma School Board, LaRoy Schafer, Vincent Community, was appointed to serve the unexpired term of James (Buddy) Barr, who resigned to accept a position with the Coahoma State Bank.

In other board business, an announcement was made that 60 new band uniforms were purchased for the 1966 school year, with low bid going to Stanberg Company.

Wilson announced that approximately 55 students are enrolled in the driver education course offered for the first time the second semester. Bernie Hagins is the instructor and the car is being furnished by Shasta Ford, Big Spring.

Two More Charged In Bribe Cases

BOSTON (AP)—Two more former state officials have been charged with seeking and accepting bribes, on the basis of evidence gathered by the Massachusetts Crime Commission in its investigation of state government.

Lawyers began today preparing defense pleas for former state Banking Commissioner Edward Counihan III and former Asst. Atty. Gen. James Gahan Jr.

Counihan and Gahan were indicted along with two small loan company representatives, Francis Glynn and Robert Miller.

The indictments stemmed from the commission's investigation of dealings between loan companies and the state.

More than 60 persons and 30 corporations have been charged with 700 criminal violations contained in 473 indictments resulting from the over-all investigation.

Several state officials have been convicted.

Former C-City Judge Dies

COLORADO CITY (SC)—J. Lee Jones, 88, retired Colorado City judge, died in a San Angelo hospital Wednesday morning after a lengthy illness. He had been hospitalized in Colorado City before his transfer to San Angelo Monday.

Services will be held Friday at 10 a.m. in the Kiker and Son Chapel, with Dr. Ralph Graham, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiating. Burial will be in the Colorado City Cemetery with Masonic rites.

He was born Feb. 27, 1877, and married Miss Mary Cox Feb. 9, 1902, in Carbon. She preceded him in death in 1945.

Mr. Jones had served as Mitchell County clerk and city secretary before becoming city judge. He retired from the bench in 1964.

Survivors include two sons, J. Lee Jones Jr., San Antonio, and Raymond Jones, Milwaukee, Wis.; also four grandchildren.

Holiday Plans Made At YMCA

The YMCA will operate on a special holiday schedule Friday, in accordance with the student holiday from school, according to Curtis Mullins, general secretary.

Gra-Y members are encouraged to practice basketball from 9:30 to 11 a.m. in the gym. An elementary age recreation swim will be held from 11 a.m. to noon.

Junior high age and above will find the gym open from noon until 4 p.m. for recreation and the pool from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Mullins said that no regular gym and swim classes will be held but that basketball league play will follow the regular schedule.

Texas Criminal Code In Crucial 'Test Year'

AUSTIN (AP)—The new year swept away Texas' century-old rules for arrest and trial of criminal defendants.

A new and controversial code of criminal procedure went into effect at the year's start, heralding a year of cautious testing for lawyers, judges and police who will use it.

Described by some as revolutionary, the code is a major departure from Texas' old rules for taking confessions, setting bail, determining punishment and conducting trials.

DRAWS CRITICISM
Some provisions drew the ire of police chiefs and some prosecutors, who said the code would make it harder to get convictions.

Defense lawyers, other prosecutors and the State Bar of Texas, which engineered the revision, said the code would bring a new day of justice to Texas.

There is little doubt that the legislature will be asked next year to change the code.

A central role will be played by the three judges of the Court of Criminal Appeals, which is expected to interpret a number of the code's provisions as convictions are brought before it on appeal.

APPEALS COMING
"It won't be long before we have a stream of appeals that will call for interpretation of parts of the new code," said Howard Fender, chief of Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr's enforcement division.

"I am equally sure that the new code will cause an increased number of appeals. That is no fault of the code. That would happen no matter how they had written the code."

As the year opened, Carr already had received nearly 30 requests for opinions on parts of the code.

In numerous special seminars, those who must follow the code have received detailed explanations of how it will work.

BIG CHANGES
Here are some of the major differences between the old and the new codes of criminal procedure.

Bail bond—Courts may now release defendants on their own personal oath that they will appear in court. This allows defendants without sufficient funds to make bail to return to their jobs and families pending trial.

Confessions—A suspect's written statement must show the name of the magistrate who warned him of his rights, as well as the time, date and place. The warning is required before a confession is signed. Some police chiefs have attacked this provision.

Discovery and deposition—After a hearing, a judge may require the prosecution in a criminal case to make its evidence available to the defense. This is one of the more controversial sections of the code.

Right of counsel—The new code requires that court-appointed lawyers be provided for defendants "too poor to employ counsel" in misdemeanor cases punishable by imprisonment. The old code provided counsel for the indigent only in felony cases.

Pre-trial news coverage—

In a provision whose meaning has been subject to dispute, the code requires lawyers and officers in criminal cases to "so conduct themselves as to insure to the defendant a fair trial upon the presumption of innocence and at the same time afford the public the benefit of a free press."

Severance of defendants—The new code lets judges decide whether two or more defendants in the same case should be tried jointly or separately. The old code required separate trials.

Jury rules—Eleven of the 12 jurors in a felony case may return a verdict if one juror dies or is disabled before the judge reads his charge to the jury. Such an occurrence would cause a mistrial under the old code. Jurors now may separate at the end of the day if the judge, prosecutor and defense attorney agree.

Testimony—Husbands and wives may testify against one another in cases involving assault or violence against any child under 16 of either spouse, incest cases and child desertion cases. The old code prohibited such testimony.

Early Decision Indicated On Candidacy Eligibility

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court indicates it will act quickly on a case that will determine whether two state senators may oppose Secretary of State Crawford Martin for attorney general.

Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert, midway through Wednesday's hearing on the eligibility of Sens. Franklin Spears, San Antonio, and Galloway Calhoun, Tyler, said the court wants to decide the matter "as quickly as possible."

State Democratic Chairman Will Davis refused to accept either senators' application as attorney general candidates in the May 7 Democratic primary. He said their candidacies are clouded by a constitutional question.

FEB. 7 DEADLINE
The filing deadline for candidates is Feb. 7.

Both senators were in the 1965 Legislature which raised the attorney general's salary from $20,000 to $22,500. The state Constitution says a senator who was in the legislature when it was enlarged a public office cannot serve in that post if the terms overlap.

Spears was elected in 1962 to serve four years. Calhoun was elect to a four-year term in 1964, but his district was merged by senatorial redistricting with that of Sen. Jack Strong, Longview.

CRITICAL POINT
The critical issue is: When do their terms end? The two senators say their terms expire in November, well before the next attorney general's term begins Jan. 1.

Davis' attorney, former Congressman Joe Kilgore, contends Spears' term expires Jan. 9 and Calhoun's in 1969. Terms begin with the convening of the legislature following their election, he said.

Spears' attorney, John Cofer of Austin, said it was the intention of the framers of the state Constitution that Senate terms, as well as House terms, begin with the legislators' election.

Man, 80, In 'New Career'

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Eighty-year-old Austin D. Rhodes, who served for eight years as mayor of Waltham after a long career as an industrialist, has entered a new field.

"I think the field of human relations has plenty of potential," Rhodes says. Rhodes, who began his political career at 72, opened up an office across from City Hall and now has the title of consultant in human relations.

He calls his latest position just temporary—until this fall when he intends to seek election to the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

'Radio Pirate' Ship Aground

LONDON (AP)—A North Sea skipper and his crew stayed abroad. At dawn they could have walked ashore. The receding tide left Caroline listing on the beach at Frinton, an East Coast resort.

BOAT BAN
Caroline, based on a converted sailing ship, was the first of the radio pirates to take to the seas to beat the British ban on commercial radio. Anchored outside territorial waters and broadcasting pop records between the commercials, her operators claim that in two years she has attracted daily audiences of up to 30 million in Britain and Western Europe.

The Pirate started dragging her anchors Wednesday night soon after she went off the air for the night. The Coast Guard noticed she was in danger and for three hours tried in vain to call her on the emergency radio net. People ashore tried to signal by flashing auto headlights.

GOES AGROUND
Caroline went aground within 50 yards of Frinton's cliffs. The Coast Guard rescue squad was waiting to fire a rocket carrying the breeches buoy line.

Once she was inside the three-mile limit, Caroline was within the reach of British law.

Agenda Set For Press Group Meet

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—W. W. Collins, regional administrator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, will head a panel discussion on federal aid to communities at the 19th annual midwinter meeting of the Texas Press Association Jan. 28-29.

A panel discussion on offset printing will open the convention Friday afternoon, Jan. 28.

The federal aid to communities panel will be held Saturday morning. On the panel in addition to Collins will be Leonard E. Church, regional director of urban renewal, Department of Housing and Urban Development; Travis W. Miller, regional director of community facilities of the department; Tom Calham, regional director, public housing administration of the department; A. B. Hatcher Jr., multi-family housing representative, Federal Housing Administration; and W. N. Sewell, special assistant to regional administrator.

Speakers during the afternoon session Saturday will be William J. Rogers, regional director of the U.S. Department of Labor, who will discuss the wage-hour law in small towns, and William H. Creek, director of the Southwest Region, Office of Economic Opportunity, who will talk on the war on poverty.

Western movie star Dale Evans will be presented the TPA Award of Texan of the Year at the annual dinner Saturday night.

Second Sulphur Firm To 'Study' Price Hike Plan

HOUSTON (AP) — Gulf Sulphur Corp. has announced an immediate $5 a ton increase in its domestic prices and said the hike was needed to bring U.S. prices partially up to the level of prices in foreign markets.

However, another Houston-based firm, Pan American Sulphur Co., said Wednesday it will continue to review and study its announced plan for a similar hike Feb. 1.

Both firms produce sulphur in Mexico.

Robert H. Allen, president of Gulf Sulphur, said domestic prices are $10 to $15 a ton below those in other consuming areas and the differential "must be narrowed to make the United States market more attractive to foreign producers."

Harry C. Webb, president of Pan American Sulphur Co., said directors of the company discussed their announced plan to make a $5 boost Feb. 1, but no definite action was taken.

U.S. firms have been receiving from $41 to $41.50 a ton for sulphur overseas compared to only $28.50 in the United States, Allen said.

He said the $5 hike would bring prices up to a level "only marginally above price levels of 10 years ago when the mines in Mexico were placed in operation."

He said since that time costs have climbed an average of four per cent a year "without considering the special services expected by most United States customers." He said such services included receiving sulphur in liquid form.

There have been no announcements on price plans from the nation's largest sulphur producers, the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. and Freeport Sulphur Co.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: Here's a tip for tight budgets, that suddenly have maternity clothes added:

All one has to do is rip open the front seam of slacks or Bermuda shorts, and insert a V-shaped panel (with drawstrings threaded across the top of the inserted panel).

Presto — maternity slacks at no extra cost; and the best part of it is that after the baby arrives, the panel may be removed and the garment sewn up on its original seam again.

The most unusual part of this is that the idea was my husband's! . . . Mrs. R. A. Guth Dear Mrs. Guth:

Before I had my last baby, I split the seams on all my skirts that had a seam in the middle of the front, and used pieces of colored T-shirts for the insert. (The hem serves as a casing for the drawstring). The jersey-type material stretched beautifully, and is so soft. This is especially good for black or navy skirts.

Along about the last few months, I discovered that if I made my blouses long enough, they would cover the insert nicely.

Another little hint for those in their first months of pregnancy:

Buy a package of big safety pins.

You can unbutton the band on any skirt, open the zipper a bit, and use these wonderful gadgets to put through the buttonhole on the skirt band, and pin it to the side with the button. As each week or so passes, just add another safety pin!

On some skirts you can use as many as four pins, one interlocked through the other. . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise: Proper refrigerator temperatures is for preserving leafy vegetables is 60 to 65 degrees F.

Each shelf in a refrigerator has a different degree of coldness: The first (or top) shelf is the coldest, the second, less cold, etc. . . . M. Lewis

Dear Heloise: I hit on the idea of using the pretty new paper towels on the cupboard shelves that I use most frequently, and on which the shelf paper became soiled easily.

They are quite inexpensive, and look lovely. . . . Gaye Pokora

Dear Heloise: I am the mother of small children.

I wished to decorate their bedrooms, but did not want to go to the expense of buying wallpaper.

I bought a coloring book containing cute nursery pictures. I cut out the pictures I liked, put a sheet of heavy carbon paper behind each picture, and traced the complete image on the wall.

I purchased several colored, washable-type marking pens. And painted the pictures to blend with my color scheme.

This works best if the walls are painted with washable paint, because when it comes time to redecorate, the pictures will wash almost completely off, so that they will not show through the new paint.

The wall in my one-year-old daughter's room is filled with nursery rhymes and circus animals, which she enjoys and is rapidly learning to identify.

I have received many compliments on my decorating idea. . . . Mrs. Jon Nelson Great idea, Mom! . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise: Putting up curtains on a lot of windows was a chore, until we marked the rods with identifying marks just where they go into the brackets. Then it was just up the ladder with the curtain and rod already threaded, and right into the brackets. . . . Edna Green

LBJ Joins Harry Truman In Launching Peace Center

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman gets plenty of help today in launching an ambitious venture for peace.

Establishment of the Harry S. Truman Center for the Advancement of Peace was announced Wednesday by President Johnson, who will be on hand for the ceremony.

Sponsors of the Truman center call it "a response in hope to the disquieting challenge of our times."

The center will be a multimillion-dollar structure, financed privately, on the campus of the Hebrew University Jerusalem—a city holy to three of the world's major faiths. The university donated the grounds.

ANNUAL AWARD
Purpose of the center will be to use all scientific and humane means leading to the isolation and destruction of the causes of war. It will also make an annual $50,000 Harry S. Truman Award for Peace.

David Noyes, a long-time friend of the former president, quietly headed the funds campaign. He said 37 founders already have contributed $100,000 each.

President Johnson, Chief Justice Earl Warren and Samuel R. Roberts, board chairman of American Friends of the Hebrew University, speak at the inaugural ceremonies. Truman was to make a response.

Ranking officials and representatives of foreign governments also were expected.

The trip is the fourth Johnson has made to Truman's home grounds since he became President. Johnson signed the medicare bill in the library auditorium last July 30; he stopped overnight June 24 last year to have breakfast with Truman en route to the 20th anniversary celebration of the United Nations in San Francisco; and he interrupted his election campaign Oct. 21, 1964, to visit for 25 minutes with the ex-president who was in a hospital recovering from a fall.

PAST VISITS
Johnson also made four trips as vice president to visit Truman, one of them to help celebrate the former president's 78th birthday. Truman will be 82 on May 8.

The White House announcement said the center will be an interfaith, interracial institution, not identified with any country. It will include the establishment of 12 permanent chairs for the pursuit of peace.

N-Missile's Fall Declared Not Hazardous

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The Navy says there was never any danger when a surface-to-air nuclear missile fell "several feet" while being handled above the deck of the USS Luce.

"I feel as safe around one of these, if dropped, as around a five-inch bullet," said the commanding officer of the Luce, Capt. Dixon Lademan.

Nevertheless, plenty of people were jittery.

The news of "a nuclear incident" was broadcast just as demolition crews, under police escort, rushed to remove the missile Wednesday. Switchboards were flooded. Sections of the Mayport Naval Air Station were sealed off.

"We took routine safety precautions because when you don't know what the danger is, you always go to extremes," said the base commander, Capt. J. S. Swope.

PRACTICE DECLINING, REPORT SAYS Some Medics 'Still Split Fees On Sly'

CHICAGO (AP)—The anxious patient goes to his doctor with stomach pains, and X-rays show that his gall bladder should come out. The doctor recommends that a certain surgeon perform the operation. Can the patient be certain the choice was a good one?

Not if the doctor is involved in fee splitting, says the American College of Surgeons. The doctor could have a secret arrangement with a second-rate surgeon to refer surgery patients to him in return for a percentage of the surgeon's bill.

STILL PRACTICED
Dr. John Paul North, director of the college, which has 26,000 members, says fee splitting is less prevalent today than formerly but still is practiced on the sly in certain communities.

"How widespread is the practice no one knows," he said in an interview. "It started many years ago in some areas and still is practiced covertly in some places."

The college has repeatedly denounced fee splitting as "an evil practice" that deludes the patient and provides him with inferior care. Any members of the college found guilty of the practice face reprimand, suspension or termination of fellowship in the college.

As a result of general opposition from organized medicine, open fee splitting has virtually disappeared. But the covert forms are not easy to detect.

The patient doesn't become suspicious because his over-all medical bill in some cases might be no higher than expected. In some fee-splitting arrangements, the surgeon reduces his normal bill to enable the referring doctor to increase his. Some fee splitters use an alternating fee arrangement under which the referring doctor submits the only bill in one case and the surgeon submits the only bill in the next case.

INFERIOR CARE
The college contends that in addition to providing inferior care for patients, fee splitting works special hardship on qualified young surgeons seeking to build up a practice on the basis of skills alone.

Dr. North said patients can protect themselves from fee splitting by insisting on separate billings from the surgeon and referring doctor.

"Some insurance companies will only honor a combined bill," he said. "In that case, the surgeon should itemize what he pays his assistant and the referring doctor who took the case. We don't like that, but some insurance companies insist on it."

The college holds that the referring doctor is entitled to special remuneration if he participates as a member of the operating team, but in such cases should bill the patient directly.

If a patient uncovers evidence of fee splitting, Dr. North said, he can report it to the grievance committee of his county medical society.

"If the surgeon is a fellow of the college we will investigate any such charge," he said. "But we have no control over surgeons who are not members."

Dear Abby

Much Too Chivalrous

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a very handsome (and weak) man who does not hold up very well when faced with temptation. He maintains that when a lady makes a pass at a gentleman, he should not insult her by turning her down, and has no choice other than to oblige her. I say he is out of his head, that a true gentleman would find a courteous way to decline. I would like your opinion.
S. CAROLINA

DEAR S. CAROLINA: Your husband should first get his terms straight. If a woman makes a pass at a man, she's no "lady." And if the man obliges her, he's no "gentleman." However, irrespective of the misnomers, if your husband is practicing what he preaches, you'd better lock him up before his chivalry kills him.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is 13 years old and a freshman in high school. A 12-year-old junior high school girl will have a baby next June, and our son will be that baby's father. Thank God he had the courage to bring the little girl to us and tell us. The girl's parents both work, drink and run around while the child stays home days (and many nights) alone, with no supervision whatsoever. We went to the girl's parents and they told us they would have our boy jailed for statutory rape if we didn't give them $500 cash. My husband said he wouldn't get involved with blackmail. Then they suggested the kids get married in a state which allows kids their age to marry with parental consent. We refused. We think it would be better for all concerned if the girl had her baby and gave it up for adoption. Are we doing right in refusing to consent to this marriage?
HEARTSICK PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: In my opinion, yes. The baby will be much better off in an adoptive home with parents who really want a child. You need to lawyer to acquaint you with your son's rights and obligations. It may be a bit late to tell you that your son's education on "the birds and bees" must have been sadly neglected. But perhaps this will serve to warn other parents that this can and does occur.

DEAR ABBY: I am a foreign student and a guest in your country attending one of your universities. A charming female student invited me to escort her to a formal dancing party sponsored by the university. I do not have an automobile but she has one and willingly provided the transportation. When we reached the ballroom she complained that the music was "crummy" and she suggested we go sit in her automobile and listen to other music on the radio. The entire evening was spent in this manner. We did not dance one dance, nor did we exchange one word with any person. Can you please tell me why it was necessary for me to rent a tuxedo to sit in the automobile all evening? PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: It wasn't. The charming female probably found you so fascinating that she didn't want to share you with anyone.

TB Outbreak Under Probe

DETROIT (AP) — Thirteen children, infected with tuberculosis by a teacher at their nursery school, were adjusting to life in a sanatorium today as health authorities worked to keep the outbreak from spreading.

Tests on other pupils continued, and Dr. Paul O'Rourke, director of Herman Kiefer Hospital's TB clinic, said he would not be surprised if other youngsters had contracted the disease.

"REMORESFUL"

The teacher, identified as a mother of two, was hospitalized Wednesday. O'Rourke said she was "very remorseful, weeping, all broken up about this."

A state legislator called for an investigation and new safety standards, and the Communicable Disease Center at Atlanta, Ga., said a nationwide program to be started next year hopefully would prevent such incidents. The 13 youngsters, aged 3 to 6, were placed in Maybury Sanatorium near suburban Northville. All were pupils at a day nursery at nearby Garden City.

Cubans Really Play Up To Boat's Crew

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A captain who spent two days in Cuba after his shrimp vessel ran aground and sank says he and his crew "never had it so good."

"They put us up in hotels and we didn't have to buy anything," Harold Bothwell, the skipper of the 73-foot Charles Singleton, said after arriving here Wednesday with eight other shrimp fishermen who were detained.

A Cuban Coast Guard helicopter picked him and two crewmen up after the boat slammed into a reef in Cuban waters Sunday, and they stayed at "a fancy hotel" in Pinar del Rio, Bothwell said.

The Charles Singleton and two sister vessels were en route to Nicaragua from Tampa. The crewmen of the sister boats were carried to Cuba, but none was detained forcibly, Bothwell said.

Road To Big Spring

S. Sgt. John Weeks, brother of George Weeks and Mrs. Gilbert Gibbs, posts a road sign in Viet Nam, alerting troops to the fact that Big Spring, Tex., is only 7,694 miles away. Fort Worth is only 5,064 miles, notes one part of the sign. Sgt. Weeks is a veteran of some 25 years in the Army, assigned to supply.

Nuclear Fear Over Downed B52 Quelled

MADRID (AP) — An official announcement today said the U.S. B52 strategic bomber which crashed after colliding with an aerial tanker Monday over Spain's southeast coast was carrying "unarmed nuclear armament."

A Defense Department announcement, as released here in response to inquiries, said:

"A SAC (Strategic Air Command) bomber engaged in refueling operations off the coast of Spain and which suffered an accident with a KC135 tanker was carrying unarmed nuclear armament."

"A radiological survey has established that there is no danger to public health or safety as a result of this accident."

Some Collegians May Face Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey has indicated some college students may face induction if draft calls continue to run above 30,000 monthly.

"I think 30,000 as a diet is too great for us; that's 300,000 a year," Hershey said, apparently meaning that if calls exceed that figure college students who fail to meet specified requirements may be drafted. Monthly draft calls lately have been running around 40,000.

As for the requirements, Hershey said "the odds are strong" there will be a return to a system of testing and consideration of class standing, as was used during the Korean War, in granting deferments to college students. The draft director met during the day with Eastern and Midwestern state draft directors.

He said a decision will have to be made within the next 10 days—by Feb. 1—in order for any testing to begin before the end of the current academic year. The results would apply then for the 1966-67 college year. Local draft boards could use the results as guides in deciding on student deferments. But Hershey emphasized that the local boards are not required to follow the test results.

Collision Kills One, Injures 4

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP)—A Michigan man was killed and four persons from Michigan, Illinois and Texas were injured Wednesday in a three-car collision in a snow storm near Greenville.

George W. Nantau, 64, of Highland Park, Mich., driver of one of the automobiles, was killed. His sister, 60, and her husband, 62 Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hadley of Adrian, Mich., were critically injured.

Edward W. Grienecks II, 22, of Midland, Tex., was hospitalized in serious condition with multiple fractures. Slightly injured were Mr. and Mrs. Leroy McFarland of St. Charles, Ill.

Grienecks told officers his car spun out of control on an icy-overpass, jumped the median strip and collided with Nantau's automobile coming from the opposite direction.

An automobile occupied by the McFarlands then crashed into the wreckage. The accident occurred on Interstate 30 in the southeast end of Greenville, 50 miles northeast of Dallas.

Union's Political Fund Drive Set
AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas AFL-CIO News, official publication of the union, said today labor union members in Texas will be asked to ante up an additional five cents a month to finance 1966 political efforts. The paper also said an immediate drive will be started to get contributions of $5 to $100 from individuals in the Texas labor movement, including an appeal for $100 each from 300 full time union officials in the state.

MRS. JOHN POLONE AND CHILDREN, SONCEIA AND DAVID

Adaptable Housewife Believes In Flying

By JO ANN PHINIZY
Mrs. John Polone flies between cooking chores—usually in a Piper Cherokee; and with the aplomb of "Gee-doesn't everyone?"

It all started when John Polone bought the franchise for the Western Auto Store in Littlefield, while Mrs. Polone runs Jo's Personalized Hair Fashions in Big Spring.

Flying is their way of spanning the distance between the two cities.

"It's about 55 minutes to Littlefield," Mrs. Polone explained. "We leave here on a weekend afternoon and get there in time to walk in, sit down and eat supper."

During the week, Mrs. Polone manages a well-organized household.

"I completely enjoy my working career, and I have the help of my daughter, Sonceia, when it comes to cooking and house cleaning," she said.

Sonceia is a Goliad Junior High School student and learned her cooking "by telephone."

TELEPHONE COOKING
"Whenever something didn't turn out right, she would call me at the shop," Mrs. Polone said. "She probably learned more, and better, than if I had been here."

The fourth member of the Polone family is 11-year-old David. His sister describes him as being about everything except a dishwasher.

When Mrs. Polone has the time, she likes to spend it in the kitchen. She especially enjoys cooking when relatives from Oklahoma, Odessa and "everywhere" are around.

"Then we can go all out and cook anything," she said. "We've always had a family rule that there's no such thing as 'won't eat.' We always try a bite of everything, especially if it is a new dish."

Special occasion or not, Mrs. Polone seldom turns down a new recipe. One that recently won her approval is for sweet potato patties. She says it is remarkably easy (the boiled potato is mashed with butter and marshmallow, rolled in corn flakes and baked) and adds a certain touch to a routine meal.

CERTAIN TOUCH
Another certain touch that Mrs. Polone adds to her meals is fresh bread. She often makes the dough, bakes and wraps in foil and freezes until ready to use. Then the individual loaves and its foil casing, is heated in the oven.

"It is fresh all over again; and it, too, makes a meal seem special and well-prepared."

The No. 1 hobby in the Polone family is, of course, flying. In addition, they enjoy summertime water skiing jaunts to Lake Thomas. Mrs. Polone describes those episodes as "sandwich time and, supposedly, my day off."

From her repertory of recipes, Mrs. Polone selected those that are easy to cook and good to eat.

APPLE CRISP
6 medium sized crisp apples
1/4 cup granulated sugar
1/2 tsp. or less cinnamon

1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup brown sugar
2 cups apricot preserves
2 tbsps. lemon juice

Have the spareribs sawed across the rib bones so individual servings may be carved easily after cooking. Place ribs, rib ends down, on a rack in a roasting pan. Cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour. Season with salt and pepper. Continue baking uncovered 45 minutes. Combine apricot preserves and lemon juice. Spread over spareribs and bake 30 minutes longer, or until spareribs are done and glaze is set. 4 to 6 servings.

APRICOT GLAZED SPARERIBS
2 to 3 lbs. spareribs
1 1/2 tbsps. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
2-3 cup apricot preserves
2 tbsps. lemon juice

Have the spareribs sawed across the rib bones so individual servings may be carved easily after cooking. Place ribs, rib ends down, on a rack in a roasting pan. Cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour. Season with salt and pepper. Continue baking uncovered 45 minutes. Combine apricot preserves and lemon juice. Spread over spareribs and bake 30 minutes longer, or until spareribs are done and glaze is set. 4 to 6 servings.

FRUIT SAUCE EXOTICA
1 can (11 oz.) mandarin oranges
1 can (13 1/2 oz.) pineapple chunks
1 tsp. cornstarch
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/4 tsp. ground cardamom, if desired

Drain oranges and pineapple, reserving liquid. Combine cornstarch, cinnamon, nutmeg and pineapple liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Fold in oranges and pineapple and heat through. Serve hot with smoked shoulder butt. Yield: 2-1 1/2 cups sauce.

GRAHAM CRACKER CRUST
1-3 cup sugar
1-3 cup melted butter
1 1/4 cups crushed graham crackers

Make crust by adding sugar and butter to 1 cup of crushed graham crackers and mixing well. Press into layer in 8-inch pie pan.

For filling, cream cheese and butter and add sugar and whole egg. Mix well. Add flour, then milk, and stir in lemon juice and rind. Pour into cracker crumb crust and cover with remaining 1/4 cup graham crackers. Bake 35 minutes in moderate oven. Remove and chill before serving.

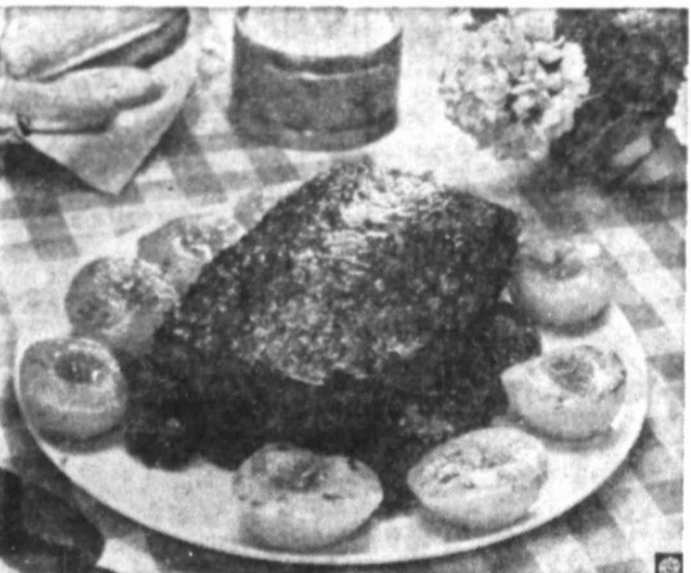

BONELESS CHICKEN AND DRESSING
1 (3 to 4 lb.) chicken, cut in pieces
1 stalk celery
1 onion, sliced
1 tsp. salt
3 to 4 peppercorns
1 1/2 qts. dry bread cubes
1/2 tsp. sage
1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 cup minced onion
1-3 cup butter

Simmer chicken, celery, onion, salt and peppercorns in water to almost cover. When chicken is tender (about 2 hours) remove from bones in good sized pieces. Arrange in two quart casserole.

Combine bread cubes, sage, pepper and salt. Brown onion in butter. Add to bread mixture. Spread over chicken.

GRAVY
1/2 cup fat (from broth)
3/4 cup flour
4 cups chicken broth
1 1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
4 egg yolks, well beaten

Melt fat in heavy skillet. Add flour with seasonings and stir until smooth, stirring constantly. Mix a little hot gravy with yolks and pour into remaining gravy. Cook over medium heat about three minutes, stirring constantly. Pour over chicken and dressing. Bake in moderate oven (275 degrees) 35 minutes or until custard gravy is set and golden brown on top. Makes eight servings.

SMOKED HAM Sauce adds unique flavor

Try Ham Meat Loaf With Glazed Peaches

Meat loaf with a new look and taste—that's "Meat Loaf with Peaches."

Ground smoked ham and ground chuck, baked and basted with a chutney-peach syrup sauce, give this party-pretty main dish a unique flavor not usually associated with everyday meat loaves. The same tangy sauce glazes the golden candied cling peach halves that are heated briefly as garnish for the meat. Heating canned clings makes their flavor and fragrance even more luscious, and the fruit loses none of its attractive shape and sunny color during a quick visit to the broiler.

MEAT LOAF WITH PEACHES
1 1/4 lbs. uncooked ground smoked ham
1 1/4 lbs. ground chuck
1 cup uncooked quick-cooking oats

2 eggs
1 cup milk
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) cling peach halves
3 tbsps. chopped chutney

Combine meats, oats, eggs, milk, salt and mustard; mix well. Turn into loaf pan (about 9 x 5 x 3 inches). Drain 3/4 cup syrup from peaches, combine with chutney and simmer a few minutes. Pour 1/4 cup chutney sauce over meat loaf. Bake in 350 degree oven 1 hour, basting occasionally with 1/4 cup sauce. Just before serving, drain peaches well, place in shallow pan and drizzle with 1/4 cup sauce. Broil about 10 minutes, until glazed and lightly browned. Turn meat loaf out onto serving platter and surround with peaches.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Fruit Glaze Improves Spareribs

Your favorite cuts of pork, as well as less demanded cuts, are available in especially ample supply this month. For smart shoppers this means savings.

You just might find that summer barbecue favorite, spareribs, among the specials. They are popular in the winter, too.

When the spareribs have finished baking, cut between every second or third rib for easy-to-eat servings. Reba Staggs, meat expert, advises you to ask your meat man to saw across the rib bones so that these individual servings may be carved more easily. At self-serving meat counters, this may have already been done.

APRICOT GLAZED SPARERIBS
2 to 3 lbs. spareribs
1 1/2 tbsps. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
2-3 cup apricot preserves
2 tbsps. lemon juice

Have the spareribs sawed across the rib bones so individual servings may be carved easily after cooking. Place ribs, rib ends down, on a rack in a roasting pan. Cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour. Season with salt and pepper. Continue baking uncovered 45 minutes. Combine apricot preserves and lemon juice. Spread over spareribs and bake 30 minutes longer, or until spareribs are done and glaze is set. 4 to 6 servings.

Serve Smoked Shoulder Butt In New Sauce

Cured and smoked pork suits most everyone's taste in meat. Hams, Canadian-style bacon, picnic shoulder and shoulder butt are four cuts commonly flavored this way.

A particularly economical one of this group is the smoked shoulder butt. It's boneless and can be prepared in many different ways, states meat expert Reba Staggs.

As a whole piece you could cook it in liquid or roast it. Roasting requires about 35 minutes per pound. Sliced smoked shoulder butt may be broiled, panbroiled or panfried.

For a touch of elegance, you'll enjoy serving this spicy Fruit Sauce Exotica with a whole shoulder butt cooked in liquid.

SMOKED SHOULDER BUTT
2 to 4 pound smoked shoulder butt
Water to cover
6 whole cloves
1 stick cinnamon
1/2 tsp. ginger
1/4 tsp. garlic salt

Cover meat with water. Add cloves, cinnamon, ginger and garlic salt. Cover tightly and simmer 2 hours or until meat is done. Remove from liquid. Slice and serve with Fruit Sauce Exotica.

Pork Gravy Made Easy

To prepare gravy to serve with the party pork roast, pour off the fat remaining in roasting pan at end of cooking period. For each cup of gravy you want, return 2 tablespoons of the reserved fat to roasting pan and blend in 2 tablespoons flour, mixing until smooth.

Then gradually add 1 cup of milk or water and cook, stirring, over low heat until gravy is smooth and thickened, mixing in all brown drippings in roasting pan. Season to taste and serve with pork roast.

Zest Added To Bridge Luncheon

If you want a "different" chicken salad this is it!

CHICKEN AND ARTICHOKE SALAD
2 cups diced (about 3/4-inch) cooked chicken
1 jar (6 ounces) marinated artichoke hearts
Salt and pepper
Sliced tomato and cucumber

Into a medium mixing bowl, turn the chicken. With a fork, remove the artichoke hearts one by one from the jar, and as you do so, slice them lengthwise and add to chicken; add all the marinade remaining in the jar. Mix well, adding salt and pepper to taste.

Arrange on salad greens. Garnish with tomato and cucumber. Makes 4 servings. If you like, you may pass mayonnaise (preferably homemade) with this salad.

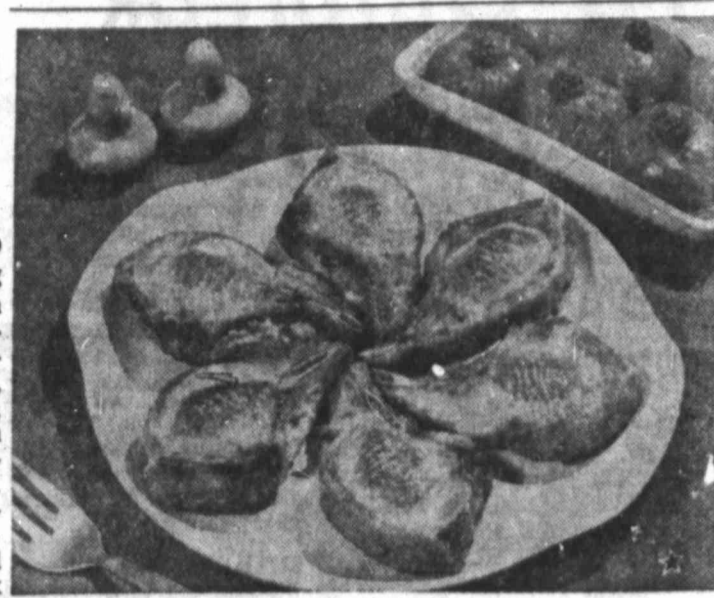

Herb Stuffing Shows True Gourmet Style

Company is coming and what should you serve? You'll easily resolve the problem by choosing thick pork chops and bestowing them with a gourmet touch.

PORK CHOPS-CAPER STUFFING
6 pork rib chops, cut 1 inch thick
2 cups toasted bread crumbs (3 slices bread)
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 tsp. prepared mustard
2 tbsps. capers
1/4 tsp. salt
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup milk
2 tbsps. lard or drippings

1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper

Make a pocket in each chop by cutting into the chop along the rib bone. (Chops cut from this side hold the stuffing better). Make stuffing by combining bread crumbs, onion, mustard, capers, 1/4 tsp. salt, egg and milk. Fill pockets with stuffing, putting 3 to 4 tablespoons stuffing in each chop. Brown chops in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season with 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 to 60 minutes or until done. 6 servings.

Savings Bond Interest Rate Hike Assessed

NEW YORK (AP) — Boosting the interest rate on U.S. savings bonds is in part a necessity and in part a drive to raise the federal debt in the form least likely to feed inflation.

The U.S. Treasury's necessity arises from the drop in sales of E & H bonds in recent weeks and the rise in redemptions of bonds already held by the public. In 1965 sales slipped by 2.7 per cent from 1964. But in December sales were 11 per cent below those of a year ago.

COULDN'T COMPETE

At an interest rate of 3 1/2 per cent, paid since 1959, the bonds couldn't compete with returns that the small investor could get from several other forms of savings. And in recent weeks institutions offering these other forms — commercial banks, mutual savings banks, savings and loan associations — have been spiritedly competing to lure savers their way by raising still higher the interest or dividend they will pay.

The need to raise the federal debt — and to make such an increase as un-inflationary as possible — is clear.

ANOTHER DEFICIT

Even the most optimistic view of the forthcoming administrative budget is that there will be yet another Treasury deficit. And the more comprehensive cash budget, including income and outgo for such agencies as Social Security and highways, is too iffy this far in advance of the 1967 fiscal year to insure the Treasury against the need to sell more securities to keep its cash till from being empty.

The security that has the least inflationary tinge probably is the savings bond. That is because the buyer uses money he might otherwise be spending for still more goods and services. And he usually puts the bond away, thus keeping the money out of circulation. He can't sell the bond to his banker or loan company, but redeem it only through the Treasury.

SEEN INFLATIONARY

Some other Treasury securities, especially if sold to banks, are considered inflationary. They are marketable, and often dubbed the next thing to money itself. And the bank pays for them by setting up Treasury deposit accounts. While these are being drawn down, the bank has a lot of money on hand it can lend — thus swelling the supply of credit. Or it can sell the Treasury security and use the proceeds to make loans.

So the Treasury would like to see as many of its securities as possible in the hands of the individual savers — and preferably tucked away for a long stay in strong boxes.

Right now the administration seems particularly anxious to have such money out of circulation. If savings bond redemptions rose too much, the one-time savers might be using the proceeds to bid up prices of the goods and services already in strong demand. And rising prices spells inflation.

Evening Lions Hear Of Safety

The Evening Lions Club received a program on fire safety at its regular meeting on Monday. Big Spring Fire Marshal, A. D. Meador presented a film on the disastrous Chicago school fire and delivered a few tips on fire safety and the importance of fire prevention.

Other guests at the meeting included Charlie Johnson and R. L. Kraus.

A membership campaign was launched. Two teams were selected and at the conclusion of the contest in May, the losing team will treat the winners to a barbecue. One team will be led by Jarrell Sharp and Bert Shive, and the other team will be under the leadership of J. O. Hagood and Cotton Mize.

Chef Easy To Borrow

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the people in the White House want to borrow a chef, they know where to go — across the street.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson wanted someone special to cook a state dinner Jan. 28 in honor of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Chief Justice Earl Warren of the Supreme Court. So she summoned chef William Dallas, who for five years has cooked culinary delights for presidential guests at Blair House, the chief executive's residence for special visitors.

The White House lost its regular chef last year following a cookery dispute and hasn't named a successor yet.

A Devotional For The Day

Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee. (Isaiah 60:1)

PRAYER: O Lord, let Thy light shine and Thy glory come into Thy church. May it awaken from its lethargy, and from the enveloping darkness come into Thy light. Grant us Thy grace and power that we may be able to make Thy church the source of peace in the world of war and strife. In the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

A Suggestion Of Merit

A suggestion voiced to the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday has much merit. Capt. Jake Sorenson told club members that the civilian population could perform a singular service in making contact with men brought to Webb AFB from Allied nations for training.

This is not the sort of thing which lends itself to a single-shot reception or party, but rather in normal, person-to-person friendly contact. It is something that families in Big Spring could do in the spirit of friendliness which certainly should, if indeed it does not already, characterize our area.

The need is not to latch on to an Allied student with the objective of converting him into an evangelical American, but rather to expose him to the everyday life in America and let him draw his own conclusions. We could learn from them as well as they from us.

Here is something that perhaps the base-community division of the Chamber of Commerce could give some penetrating thought. Left to the device of passive assent, nothing will happen when something most certainly should happen.

Who Has The Coin?

At the moment there are enough bills and coins outside the banks—in the pockets of the citizenry, as it were—to work out at approximately $180 apiece for every last one of us. The corresponding figure as recently as 1961 was $157.

Federal Reserve officials, despite considerable effort to determine what has brought this surge in the amount of coin and currency circulating, do not know the answer. "The question of currency holdings," as the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston said in its publication, "is a financial mystery." The experts are not wholly in the dark, however. In the article cited, Paul S. Anderson of the Boston Reserve Bank's research staff notes that "the excess amounts are held as savings or hoards by a relatively small proportion of the people."

The question is: Who are they? There is also another question: Even if this were known, what could be done about it? Until some answers are found, the mints are just going to have to keep on working over time to keep abreast of demand.

A New Place To Look

WASHINGTON—Eugenia Sheppard, the New York Herald Tribune's fashion editor, who happens to be my source of information on what is happening to women these days, says that "the whole naughty business of a peek down a deep dark crevice between a girl's bosoms is about as dated as a peak at a girl's garters which, if any, have been out in the open for a long time. Who's to worry about cleavage when so many other areas are bare? The sexy new look, though, is definitely the halter type dress, bathing suit, or whatever, cut in towards the neckline. It leaves the sides wide open and almost all of the bosoms in full view under the arms."

MISS SHEPPARD reveals that the latest arrangement for bosoms calls for a new bra which, instead of pushing forward and projecting, must now flatten and widen.

I had been so busy worrying about Viet Nam that I didn't realize what the designers were up to until I read Miss Sheppard's article. Otherwise I would have done something about it before now.

The question once again arises: Who decides in what direction the bosom must go? I have always been a "push forward and project" man myself and I see no good reason why they should be flattened and widened, other than to please a few designers and the foundation industry.

BUT I HATE to fight a trend, so I went to a party the other night and most of the women were wearing the new fashion. It was very disconcerting, to say the least. At the beginning my eyes wandered towards the cleavage of the young lady I was talking to, but pretty soon I became bored and tried to get around to the side of her. She kept turning with me, which was very annoying, and

Billy Graham

I can forgive, but I can't forget. Though I hold no malice toward others, I still remember what occurred. Is it wrong to remember?

H. K.

The Bible plainly teaches forgiveness, but I find no command that we are to forget. The mind retains all sorts of things — and it is impossible to erase certain things from the memory. God forgives and forgets. The Bible says "I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more." This is one of God's capabilities — to erase sin from His memory — but man does not possess this ability. We are simply told to forgive. "Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake has forgiven you" (Eph. 4:32).

When the memory brings the deed to your mind, just make sure that unkind feelings are not dredged up. If this occurs, you have not really forgiven.

Forgiveness has strange powers. When Maskepetoon, a chief of the Cree Indians was converted to Christianity, soon after his father was killed by a member of the Blackfeet tribe, Maskepetoon demanded that the murderer be brought before him. "You have killed my father," he said. "Now you must be my father. You shall ride my best horse, and wear my best clothes."

The murderer exclaimed, "My son, you have killed me." What the man meant was: You have killed the enemy, the murderer within me — and made me forever your friend.

Escobedo Ruling To Be Retroactive?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like a frog in a high school biology lab, a decision announced Wednesday by the Supreme Court will be thoroughly dissected.

The probing will be done by judges, law officers and thousands of men behind bars yearning for freedom. What they will be searching for is a clue — a clue to how the court eventually will spell out its 1964 Escobedo ruling.

THOSE WHO would not have that momentous decision declared retroactive will find signs pointing their way. But so, too, could those who would have the high court make the ruling apply to convictions obtained before 1964.

All will find in Justice Potter Stewart's opinion further evidence that the court is faced with a difficult problem.

Crystal clear is this: An historic verdict handed down by the court last April cannot be used to open jail doors for thousands convicted earlier.

What the court did Wednesday — over the objection of Justices Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas — was to bar retroactive application of last April's decision prohibiting state courts from allowing the judge or prosecutor to remind the jury that the defendant did not take the stand.

WHAT THE court will do about the possible retroactive application of the Escobedo ruling will remain a question until the justices rule on several cases that touch on this point later this term.

The Escobedo decision, issued in 1964, for the first time extended the right to counsel to suspects in a police station. Danny Escobedo's conviction in Illinois of murdering his brother-in-law was thrown out because police did not let him see his lawyer before confessing.

If the ruling is made retroactive, Chief Justice Joseph W. Brennan of the New Jersey Supreme Court has warned, it could "open the gates of prisons to thousands of convicts."

"WE CAN'T even try today's criminals, we're so busy trying old ones," Weintraub was complained.

California sounded a similar theme in the case of Cincinnati lawyer Edgar I. Shott Jr., decided Wednesday.

If Shott's conviction in Ohio in 1961 on charges of selling a security without a license and of selling an unregistered security is upset by retroactive application of last April's ruling, California said, "hardened and dangerous criminals under long-term sentences" could win new trials.

Polly's Many-Sided Career

NEW YORK (AP) — Polly Bergen leads many lives.

A self-admitted "has been" at the age of 8, at 35 she is one of the top all-around performers in show business, and is active in as many other fields she keeps as busy as a one-armed juggler.

"To me life means exhaling," the husky-voiced, blue-eyed singer said between shows here.

"IT SEEMS to me I've spent most of my life taking a deep breath before trying to do something I've never done before. When I exhale afterward, I can take off my shoes and relax. Everything then is all right. Nobody threw a tomato at me."

In addition to her night club chores, Polly at present also—

1. Operates three dress shops in Tennessee.

2. Runs her own music publishing firm.

3. Handles her own oil field and real estate investments.

4. DESIGNS carpets for her brother-in-law, a rug manufacturer.

5. Works for several civic and humanitarian projects.

6. Has started a mail order firm to market a cosmetic skin product for men called "Polly Bergen's Whipped Pink Oil of the Turtle."

What makes Polly run so hard? Perhaps because she was constantly on the move as a child—always starting over in a new place. As the daughter of a construction engineer, she lived in 27 states and attended 45 grammar and high schools.

"At the age of 3 and 4 I was always a dead-catch $2 prize winner in amateur contests," she said. "But at 8, I had become a has-been."

"THEN AT 14, I got my own radio show at $6 a week. I got $15 for my first television appearance—and a case of tomato soup."

"I also worked for $19 a week as a drugstore clerk, $20 a week as a carhop, $22 a week as a short order cook. I used to spend hours arguing people out of ordering pancakes. I could not turn them."

Polly held other jobs briefly as a cocktail waitress, a fur coat model, an usher, and a door-to-door salve peddler.

"I did all this while going to school. I was very independent. I really enjoyed it."

POLLY THEN became a band singer, quickly rose to stardom on the supper club circuit—Las Vegas was glad to pay her $7,500 a week — and in films, the theater, television and the recording field.

What kind of a gal is Miss Bergen? She says:

"I have no goals except to be myself and do what I can do. I've finally decided that's the only real success. The most destructive force in my life was the advice I got in childhood: 'If you can't do it well, don't do it at all.'"

"It makes you try to be a perfectionist when there is no such thing as perfection."

"You spend all your life getting 4 A's and one B—and hating yourself for getting that B."

Group Helps Relatives Of Alcoholics

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: We of the Al-Anon Family Group wish to thank you for recommending it to families of alcoholics. Many people do not know what it is. We welcome all families who have an alcohol problem.—MRS. M. C.

By now, just about everybody has heard of Alcoholics Anonymous — although just hearing about it doesn't necessarily give any idea of how much good it can do, nor how this is accomplished.

One observation which has impressed me greatly over the years is that an alcoholic, in the beginning, often (usually, in fact), is opposed to the whole idea of AA. He doesn't want to stop drinking, and he thinks AA will "force" him to stop.

Well, AA can't make him do anything. All it can do is help him once he decides he wants to stop. That's all it tries to do.

That's why AA operates on the basic fact that the first requirement for membership is to want to break the liquor habit — as simple as that.

Also from observation I have been vastly impressed by the satisfaction members derive from staying sober, once they decide that they want to do so — but can't do so all by themselves. Successful members of AA never feel that they are forced to follow any rules. Such rules as exist are followed because the members want to follow them. Some of the happiest people I know are AA's who, being very human and subject to human failings, ultimately realized that they weren't really getting any fun out of being hard drinkers, and now find life is much better without the bottle.

Sounds as though I'm rambling, doesn't it? And maybe I am. But I can't really explain the Al-Anon Family Group without the preceding sketchy outline of Alcoholics Anonymous.

AA, as close as I can express it, is a group made up of people who finally decided that they couldn't really be very happy until they broke a habit that was creating misery.

Al-Anon Family Group is a companion organization formed somewhat later, for the relatives of AA members, or relatives of people who ought to be members — if they ever get around to knowing what they want.

Anyone interested in the Al-

Anon Family Group movement can get in touch by looking it up in the phone book, or if you live in a small town, you may have to consult the directory of a nearby city. If the Al-Anon Family Group isn't listed, but Alcoholics Anonymous is, then call AA. A lot of Al-Anon members are going through the trying period of waiting for a loved one to see the light. It can be a long wait, but as I have mentioned, the first requisite is for the alcoholic to realize that he wants to "kick the habit."

"Tips on How to Stop Smoking," by Dr. Molner, will help you give up the habit. To receive a copy of the booklet, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Well, One Of Them Passed The Test

We were quite apprehensive. With Mommie in the hospital, our heir would be left in the care of her father for a number of nights — how many we did not know, but even one was enough to make all concerned shudder, particularly her father.

FORTUNATELY, she would be in the good care of Mrs. Perkins during the daylight hours. But Papa was on his own come 5 p.m., and it was sink or swim with a 2½-year-old girl, who has a mind of her own about everything.

The first day, things went relatively smoothly. A trip to the hospital was first on the agenda, with the threat of a screaming, crying farewell. It did not develop, as she took it in stride that we were going to the store.

AT THE STORE, she again turned in a superlative performance, but the old man flubbed the dub. Ordering those fancy take-home dinners, he ordered "1½," meaning one chicken dinner and a half. The fellow on the other side of the counter had a different interpretation of the order, however, and packaged up 1½ chickens. This was coupled with similar portions of vegetables and bread, easily enough to feed all our in-laws as well, had they dropped in.

At home, we tackled the feast; that is, she tackled it! The phone rang change of pace, and then again. By the time I had handled those calls, she had finished her repast, and was ready for other things.

NOTING IT was past time for her to be on the way to bed, I gave the mound of surplus chicken a longing look, and launched the second phase of the evening — taking a bath. I've never seen so many toys in my life, and with all of them in the bathtub, there was barely room for her. Despite that wealth of ducks, balls, cups, etc., there was something missing. She finally gave it up anyway, and threshed happily about, as I tried to apply soap in the right places.

ABOUT THE time I decided it was a hopeless cause, she handed all the washing herself, complete from face to feet. The dressing part was a ball, as she selected what she would wear to bed with all the charm of a Hollywood starlet. After a thorough hair brushing, we progressed to the bed.

She was wide awake; it was I who needed the covers and the rest. But she quickly shut her eyes and was asleep, some kind of record at our house.

Oh yes, somewhere in all this rushing about, I was admitted to the mystic rites of "potty training" . . . but that's another story.

THE CHICKEN by this time was stone cold, as was everything else. Besides, I was too tired to eat. There was still the dishes to wash, the dogs to feed, and I was afraid to guess what else.

With that auspicious start, I looked with dread to the ensuing evenings. Although she had adapted to the change of pace, I had not done so well. We made it in relatively good shape until Mommie returned home, and I'm not sure who was happiest to see her.

For more reasons than one, I hope we don't have that experience again. —V. GLENN COOTES

Changes In LBJ's Message

WASHINGTON—The answers to two very important questions about President Johnson's message on the "state of the union" have not been given the public. Did Mr. Johnson permit George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO, to know in advance about the President's proposal to Congress for a law to ban strikes by employees in government service? If so, did Mr. Meany's criticism result in "toning down" the President's message as finally delivered to the public?

The New York "Times" raised the point in an editorial as follows:

"REPORTS FROM Washington indicate that his (the President's) state of the union pledge of tighter strike curbs was toned down before delivery in response to objections voiced by George Meany. If even the promise made is diluted before it gets to Capitol Hill, what real hope is there in this administration for effective protection for the public against public-service strikes?"

THE AMERICAN people are entitled to know what went on behind the scenes. Millions of dollars were collected from members of labor unions as campaign contributions to help elect the Democratic party in 1964. But even if the administration did not have this support, it presumably might not wish to alienate a sizable bloc of votes among labor unions throughout the country and would like to know ahead of time if the language would be considered too harsh. There are, on the other hand, many millions of persons outside the labor unions who want to be protected against such damage as was done to the people of the city of New York in the transit strike. Were their interests taken into account?

ALTHOUGH THE reports about a change in the President's message to please labor have been current in Washington for several days now, no official answers have been given out as to what happened. Secretary of Labor Wirtz was the go-between and asked the opinion of Mr. Meany concerning two alternative paragraphs in a draft of the President's message recommending legislation against strikes in the public service. Mr. Meany is reported to have objected to both, but indicated the paragraph he deemed less objectionable.

IS THERE ANYTHING wrong with showing a passage in a draft of the President's message to any knowledgeable person and getting his opinion? Not at all — provided the counter-suggestions are in the public interest and do not represent the bias of an organization which not only can collect large campaign funds but can deliver a mass of votes at the next election. It has been reported from time to time that the President has asked business organizations some questions that have a bearing on proposals for legislation. Here, too, there can be no objection provided the President, in evaluating the responses, doesn't back away from his duties and responsibilities and continues to be the President not of one segment but of all the electorate.

THE AMERICAN people, therefore, have a right to know just what the President originally proposed and Mr. Meany vetoed. It would be only fair now for the administration to make a complete disclosure of what occurred in the clandestine councils of state so that public opinion then may decide whether the substitute chosen by Mr. Meany and accepted by the President was justified or whether the first draft should have been retained.

The Settlement Is Not In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — "Whatever happened to the war in Viet Nam?" asked the Returning Traveler. "Last time I looked we were approaching the climax of a big buildup there. We had 300,000 South Vietnamese under arms, and 200,000 Americans, and 20,000 South Koreans, and some Australian units, plus supremacy in the air and at sea. Did something go wrong on the march to Hanoi?"

THERE WAS a period of hesitation, the Traveler was told. Some say that the President's bombing-pause and his search for a conference table lasted so long that the Communists became strong and the Free World became weak in resolution. Others say, too, that certain ideas seeped into the administration think-shops and, before long, became so familiar that they were regarded as part of the wallpaper.

One of the ideas that seeped in from Presidential advisers, the Traveler was told, was that the Viet Nam situation really couldn't be settled in Viet Nam. There was just enough vulnerability there to cause Mr. Johnson to widen his search for the elusive bargaining table—and for something to lay on the table if ever it were found.

"LIKE SOMETHING for Red China?" the Traveler asked.

Another idea that seeped into the think-shops, he was told, was the familiar argument of the Americans for Democratic Action that, try as we might, the U.S. could not much longer keep Red China cut of the UN. Since American objection was becoming increasingly futile, it was thought that we might as well consent to China's entrance to the UN in exchange for some Chinese concession on Viet Nam.

"In the good old days," said the Traveler wistfully, "the conservatives would have demanded to take the U.S. out of the UN rather than let Red China come in."

THE TRAVELER mustn't forget, he was told, that ideas of appeasement cease to be startling when they've become as familiar as wallpaper. But the UN admission of Red China alone would not suffice for wheeling peace from the Communists.

"Something for Russia, too?" the Traveler asked dismally.

AGAIN, IT was something that the U.S.A. didn't want very much, he was told. It wouldn't be a big concession in '66 for Johnson to remove some of our troops from West Europe in return for Russian peace brokerage in Viet Nam. There were other easements we could make around the globe, such as lifting the so-called blockade of Communist Cuba, negotiating for another Nuclear Treaty with the inclusion of Red China as proposed by Robert Kennedy and much else. You can readily see how the Vietnamese War, although on everybody's mind in January '66, stood a very good chance of fading out.

"BUT IF SUCH concessions materialize," asked the Traveler, "has anybody figured how to keep the U.S.A. from fading out, too?"

At this writing, he is still waiting for an answer.

President Johnson's public peace offensive draws to a close without any favorable response from North Viet Nam.

Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman — the first of Johnson's peace emissaries to fly abroad and the last to come home — returned Wednesday night with Secretary of State Dean Rusk from the Far East. Their arrival set the stage for top-level conferences on U.S. military and diplomatic strategy in the next phase of this struggle. These may be held next week. The central questions before President Johnson are whether to start bombing North Viet Nam targets again and whether to escalate the war in other respects.

"NATIONS UNDERSTAND" Rusk and Harriman told newsmen upon their arrival at Andrews Air Force Base that nations around the world now understand the U.S. aim is to bring the war to a peaceful conclusion.

"I have the impression that the situation is much clearer to nations right around the world and the issues are there for all to see," Rusk said.

"Everyone now generally understands that the obstacle to peace in Southeast Asia is not the United States."

Harriman said governments in each capital "volunteered to do what they could in their own way with Moscow, Hanoi and Peking to achieve a peaceful solution."

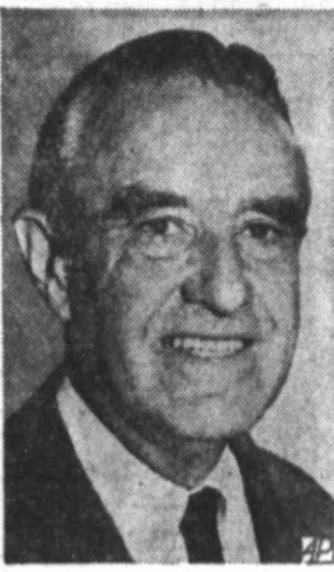

"The decision is now up to Hanoi," he said, "and I think it is fair to say that people of the world understand that the American people have the hope of bringing this to a peaceful conclusion."

If Johnson has any new public peace moves in mind, he has given no sign of them so far. Officials say, however, that secret diplomatic efforts are continuing and will go on in the future.

LIJ MESSAGE

That intention was indicated by Johnson in a message to Congress Wednesday asking for a supplemental appropriation of $12.761 billion to help finance the war in Viet Nam.

"We are currently engaged in a major effort to open a road to a peaceful settlement," he said.

AYERELL HARRIMAN

"But until there is a response — and until the aggression ends — we must do all that is necessary to support our allies and our own fighting forces in Viet Nam."

State Department officials said many channels to North Viet Nam are still open and will remain so regardless of developments in the war. But a spokesman told a news conference the North Vietnamese "have shown no interest" in Johnson's peace campaign.

Such hope as remains that the North Vietnamese may still agree to negotiate is based on speculation among officials here that they would need time to change their position if, in fact, they had any intention of doing so.

From Saigon came press reports that top officials in the U.S. Embassy and military command there favored an increased war effort against the Viet Cong guerrillas and North Vietnamese forces fighting in the South as well as against North Viet Nam. Their view was described as being that such a strategy offers the only logical hope of getting the Communists to a conference table.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was described in these dispatches as favoring resumption of air strikes against North Viet Nam targets next week following the end of the current Vietnamese New Year holiday and whatever lull it produces in the fighting.

One reason next week is considered a crucial week for U.S. policy making: If the Communist leadership is interested in trying to reduce the level of the war, as President Johnson suggested a week ago, their intentions would show up most clearly in what they do after the holiday ends. The general expectation is that as in the past they will return to the fight with renewed violence. Should they demonstrate instead a desire to ease off the fighting, it would be considered here as an encouraging response to Johnson's proposal for scaling down the conflict even without negotiations.

Harriman was sent abroad by the President on Dec. 28. He left Washington secretly and his mission was only discovered when he arrived at his first stop, Warsaw, Poland. With that disclosure Johnson's highly publicized peace offensive began to unfold. Harriman visited other capitals in Eastern Europe and in the Middle East and Asia. Other envoys dispatched by the President called on leaders in other parts of the world. The President reported that they had visited 40 countries in all.

Harriman, 74, linked up with Rusk in Southeast Asia as Rusk was returning by way of Thailand and South Viet Nam from the funeral of Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, which he attended with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Two Strike Threats Loom For Railways

WASHINGTON (AP) — A second union raised the spectre today of a major railroad strike crisis — this one developing next week with the possibility of eventually halting most of the nation's trains.

"They've mistreated our people to such an extent... that anything could happen," said Charles Luna, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Chief railroad negotiator J. E. Wolfe said his attorneys would be ready to draw up court injunction papers if the trainmen threaten a strike.

EARLIER THREAT

Court action could delay any strike for months. Luna's comment came the day after H. E. Gilbert, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen warned that a new national railroad strike crisis loomed unless the railroads bargain on the union's terms.

Both disputes involve the federal arbitration ruling under which the jobs of 17,500 firemen and nearly an equal number of trainmen were eliminated. Both unions demand that most of the jobs be restored.

In the case of the trainmen, the special two-year federal arbitration law expires Jan. 25 and in the case of the firemen, March 31.

Gilbert specifically said, and Luna implied, that they believe the unions will be legally free to strike on those dates.

Wolfe disagreed.

ARBITRATION AWARD
"In my opinion, supported by all the lawyers with whom I have talked, the (arbitration) award continues until something takes its place," he said.

Government officials, in whose lap the dispute will eventually land, said federal lawyers weren't sure whether the railroads or the unions were right.

South, the declarer at four spades, did not obtain maximum mileage from the dummy's assets in today's hand.

West opened the six of hearts and South won the trick with the king. A club was led to dummy's jack and East was in with the ace. He shifted to the four of diamonds. Declarer played the ace, king of diamonds and continued with the ten. West covered with the jack and North ruffed with the king of spades. East overruffed with the ace and exited with a spade.

Declarer cashed his high trumps; however, when East showed out on the second lead, West was revealed to have a trick in the ten of spades. Inasmuch as there was no way to reach the dummy, South could not avoid losing to the queen of diamonds as well, and he was obliged to concede defeat.

As it turned out, declarer could have made his contract if he had ruffed the third diamond with the four of spades. East overruffs with the seven and then cashes the ace; however, his forced return of either a heart or a club puts North in to give South enough diamond discards to eliminate his loser in that suit.

We are not recommending this as the proper line of play however. A better procedure by South after he wins the opening lead is perhaps to cash the ace and king of diamonds and then lead a club. If East has the ace of clubs, he cannot prevent the dummy from obtaining the lead, no matter which suit he returns. The defense will be restricted to the two black aces inasmuch as the declarer can discard his remaining diamonds on the ace of hearts and the king-queen of clubs.

Counties Ask Road Projects

AUSTIN (AP)—Delegations from five counties asked the Texas Highway Commission today for construction projects which would cost $22,800 in state funds. The projects, by county, included: Morris — Farm-to-market road from Farm 1400 near Delingerfield northwesterly to the Cross County line, estimated to cost $14,300. Scurry — Improvement of Texas 208 in Snyder, $204,000. Medina — Farm-to-market road from Farm 402 to west to US 90 in Hondo, $24,500. Liberty — A storm sewer along Lawrence Street in Dayton, $82,000. Bunk — Four-lane undivided extension of US 259 south of Kilgore, $116,000.
