'Not Guilty' Is Plea In Coed Deaths

AUSTIN (AP) - James C. Cross Jr. pleaded innocent today to charges that he strangled Shirley Ann Stark and Susan Rigby, two University of Texas beauties, last summer.

Cross was pale from his five months in the county jail as he appeared for his arraignment before Dist. Judge Mace Thurman.

The pleading was a preliminary step to his trial St. Valentine's Day in the slayings of the two 21-year-old Dallas women.

LOW VOICE

Cross answered in a low but steady tone of voice when asked how he pleaded to the charges. Dist. Atty. Tom Blackwell indicated he would bring Cross to trial first on the charge that he strangled Miss Rigby.

Cross, dressed in a charcoal brown suit, appeared poised. He lit a cigarette and smiled occasionally as he conferred with his lawyers. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Cross Sr. of Fort Worth, sat with a minister four rows back from the front of the courtroom.

MOTIONS OVERRULED

After only a few minutes argument, the judge overruled defense motions to quash the two grand jury indictments on grounds the grand jury report was returned unexpectedly in a deliberate effort to keep the defense from demanding an examining trial.

At the examining trial the state would have been required to produce enough evidence to show it had grounds for holding Cross.

Thurman granted the defense permission to present evidence of the alleged earlier grand jury report after the trial jury is selected, but before the trial starts.

Defense lawyer Perry Jones said the evidence is vitally needed if the case is appealed. Jones then presented a series of "discovery" motions, asking that the state give the defense certain information about the case.

YIELDS STATEMENT

Without any ruling from the bench, Blackwell gave defense lawyers the official written statement by Cross shortly before he was charged. He also handed over copies of an oral statement he said Cross made and some photographs.

Blackwell said he did this because of his interpretation of the new revised state criminal

Ackerly Voters To Decide On Water System

LAMESA (SC) - The Board of City Aldermen of Ackerly have set an election for Saturday, to decide if the city will build a public water municipal system.

Ackerly has no public water system and residents of the city have their own private water wells. All qualified voters of the city are eligible to vote in the election. Stansell Clements, attorney for the group, said, but will not be required to tie into the public water system unless they desire.

Revenue bonds not to exceed $131,000 will be voted on and if the election carries, the bonds will be offered for sale on the open market with interest not to exceed five per cent. Should the bonds fail to be sold, a 40-year loan will be obtained through the Farmers Home Administration. The bonds will be paid out of revenue obtained from the water subscribers and all bonds will contain a provision that no tax money is to be used to retire bonds.

Money derived from the issuance of the bonds will be used to build a storage tank and install public water lines.

The city of Ackerly is governed by a board of city aldermen with Travis Russell serving as mayor.

Snow, Freezing Rain And Sleet Pose Peril

Bitter Cold Goes South Into Florida

By The Associated Press

The coldest weather of the winter overspread much of the nation today and pressed hard-freeze conditions as far south as northern Florida.

The bitter cold spread zero temperatures over the heavy snow cover of part of the Middle Atlantic area where up to 15 inches of snow accumulated Wednesday and early Thursday from a storm which had passed out over the North Atlantic.

It dropped the mercury to 41 below zero at International Falls, Minn., and a record -16 at Milwaukee where the former low mark for the date was set at -13 in 1963. Minneapolis and St. Paul had -26 in the early hours of the day, and Chicago's official low was -10.

MIDWESTERN POINTS

The frigid readings ran south from the northern Great Plains to Kansas and Missouri.

Readings moderated in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas after a light freeze early Thursday, but the northern Florida crop section had a hard freeze, although most citrus fruits have been harvested. The temperature in the area were in the 20s. The Lower Florida east coast vegetable farmers watched temperatures anxiously, ready to fire fallow fields if necessary to protect crops.

In snow-covered Virginia where four deaths were attributed to the snowstorm, one-fourth of the state's rural roads remained impassable and schools were closed. Hundreds of schools were closed also in North Carolina, Maryland and eastern Tennessee by the snow and cold.

SNOW SQUALLS

The arctic air blowing over partly frozen waters of the Great Lakes caused snow squalls on the southeastern shores. Two inches of new snow fell at Sault Ste. Marie and Muskegon, Mich., and more than an inch was reported in the South Bend, Ind., and Cleveland areas.

The receding Atlantic storm shook six inches of snow on Old Town, Maine, today, bringing the ground cover thickness to 20 inches. Portland, Maine, and Concord, N.H., had two inches of new snow.

In the Southwest, Weather Bureau experts watched with concern development of a new, potentially dangerous storm in the southern Rockies which headed into the southern Plains today. Hazardous - driving warnings were issued for Texas and Oklahoma in the expectation that the storm's move into extreme cold air would bring snow and sleet as well as rain over the area by tonight.

Meanwhile, chilly winds whistled through Florida's citrus groves without doing any apparent damage but overnight temperature drops into the 20s winter - killed some tender truck crops.

ICY VEGETABLES

Reports to the Federal-State Frost Warning Service told of "ice on the corn" and frosted blackened beans in South Florida. Everglades truck farm areas away from climate-tempering Lake Okeechobee.

Frost Warning Service spokesmen said lows in the 30-degree neighborhood were not severe enough, or long-lasting enough, to harm any mature citrus.

He said there might be some damage to tender citrus growth but it would grow back.

No repetition of Thursday night's cold snap was expected tonight.

Overnight low readings reported to the Frost Warning Service included 26 to 32 degrees in low ground locations with heavy frost in the north-central Florida citrus belt, with 30 or warmer on high ground; 32 to 36 degrees, and scattered frost, in the Indian River area.

Rusk, Panel Member In Bombing Exchange

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of State Dean Rusk today defended bombing of North Vietnam but Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., told him "I am scared to death" the United States is moving toward nuclear perils of a world war.

The exchange came as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, hearing from Rusk on a request for $415 million additional foreign aid money, used the opportunity to grill the secretary on Viet Nam and on Southeast Asian policies generally.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and some other members of the committee have stated opposition to a resumption of bomber raids on North Viet Nam at the present.

President Johnson is reported to be weighing a decision to resume the raids by big strategic bombers.

Fifteen Democratic senators who oppose renewal of the strikes, appealed to Johnson Thursday night to seek "our collective judgment" in making that decision.

On the other side of the issue the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., said today "we've made every reasonable effort to negotiate a just peace in Viet Nam. Now let's get on with the war."

Clark, in his exchange with Rusk, questioned whether the bombing raids had much military effect. He noted administration testimony that North Vietnamese troops and supplies had continued to flow across the border despite the bombing.

But Rusk said "these strikes have made infiltration more difficult and more costly."

As the fighting picked up, the U.S. Embassy in Saigon today reported signs of slipping morale and serious manpower problems in Viet Cong ranks. An embassy study, based on questioning of more than 500 Communist prisoners and a number of refugees from Viet Cong areas, said the guerrillas are relying almost entirely on conscription to fill their ranks.

The report attributed the Reds' problems to a swing of popular sentiment away from the Viet Cong in the many villages and hamlets in which they hold sway.

Melon Plant Loss Runs Heavy In Valley Frost

SAN MANUEL, Tex. (AP)—A blanket of heavy frost and freezing temperatures severely damaged an estimated 2,000 acres of melon plants in the Lower Rio Grande Valley early Thursday.

Joe Chapa of San Manuel said about 80 per cent of the tiny melon plants were killed or heavily damaged by the cold weather.

WILL REPLANT

"The boys are going to have to replant quite a bit of acreage," Chapa told The Associated Press. "The young plants survived better than the bigger ones."

"I'd say 80 per cent are planning to replant. I haven't heard any of them talking about quitting. They're all heading back for the seed houses and picking up some seeds and rigging up."

Bill Cellum of Lacasita Farms at Rio Grande City said some replanting of melons will be required in that area.

"WE'RE FORTUNATE"

"We think we're real fortunate in coming out as well as we did," Cellum said.

Crockett nurseries of Harlingen put a large crew of men into nursery groves to light orchard heaters in an effort to ward off the cold.

"We're not hurt at all," Brad Crockett said. "We only used the heaters in the nursery groves

Motorists Alerted On Road Hazard

By The Associated Press

Snow, freezing rain and sleet dampened the northern portion of Texas today and cold wave and hazardous driving warnings were issued for most sections of the state.

Up to three inches of new snow fell on the Panhandle-Plains and Red River Valley points during the morning.

Freezing rain coated streets and highways with half an inch of ice as far south as Abilene. A blinding snowstorm reduced visibility to a quarter mile at Wichita Falls.

2 ABOVE ZERO

At Perryton, where 1.50 inches of new snow was added to the 2 inch cover of last week, the mercury dipped to 2 degrees above zero before dawn. Dalhart had 5 degrees and Amarillo 6.

The Weather Bureau said temperatures would drop to 5 degrees below zero in the upper Panhandle before dawn Saturday. Low of 14 to 15 degrees were forecast for North Central Southwest Texas and Extreme Southwest Texas, 22 degrees for Northeast Texas, 22 for South and Extreme Southwest Texas, 22 degrees for Northeast Texas, 22 for South Central, and 25 for Southeast Texas.

The light rain and drizzle that fell across the central portion of the state during the morning was due to turn to sleet and freezing rain by nightfall, creating hazardous driving conditions.

STEADY RAIN

A steady rain at Fort Worth forced the postponement of an afternoon parade opening the 1966 Southwest Exposition and Fair Stock Show.

Seymour reported three inches of new snow by late morning with drifts of 12 to 14 inches. Children had 2.50 inches, Vernon 2.00 inches and Wichita Falls 1.50.

The storm that pushed deep into Texas also brought near-blizzard conditions to sections of Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas and Missouri.

MOVE EASTWARD

The storm was due to move eastward during the night with skies clearing in the western part of Texas. Partly cloudy to cloudy skies were forecast for the eastern portion of the state Saturday.

City Chilled By Snowfall

Winter took another swipe at Big Spring and Howard County today. Early morning rain and snow left the countryside whitened and chill.

Official measurement of the snow and rain was .15 inch, the U. S. Experiment Station reported.

Low for the period was 24 degrees which developed about 8 a.m. The rain and snow began about 5 a.m. and the first flurry lasted only an hour, falling intermittently.

The forecast calls for a continuation of the same for today with a low tonight around 15 degrees.

The light skim of snow and sleet left the streets slippery and slowed traffic.

All Evidence Points Toward Early Air Strike Resumption

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson has held another, unannounced meeting with key national security advisers to consider ending the lull in the bombing of North Viet Nam targets - a pause he concedes has failed to produce brighter hopes for peace.

Although it was said no decision was reached, all evidence pointed toward an early resumption of air strikes against North Viet Nam.

Johnson met Thursday night with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Director William F. Raborn of the Central Intelligence Agency and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

ONE OF SERIES

It was one of a series of such top-level sessions.

The President, it was learned on high authority, has no doubt in his own mind that the 36-day bombing lull has failed to bring any hopeful response from Hanoi.

Moreover, sources said the pause already has lasted much longer than was urged initially by foreign leaders who suggested to Johnson that a temporary halt of air strikes might idea of limiting American troops to a holding action that would give Viet Cong guerrillas a freer hand in much of Viet Nam. He wants to use U. S. forces to keep the Viet Cong off balance.

A holding operation keyed to coastal enclaves has been urged by retired Gen. James M. Gavin.

NOT WEAKNESS

Johnson was said to be much concerned about possible misinterpretation in Hanoi of his recent and intensive "peace offensive." The President was fearful the North Vietnamese might interpret his peace efforts as a sign of weakness.

If only to counter any such notion, it seemed evident he would order a renewal of bombing soon.

The President was known to believe that the United States is in a "frying pan" in Viet Nam. But he thinks the alternative to opposing the Communist plan for national "wars of liberation" would be to leap into a hotter fire - merely postponing an eventual stand in Southeast Asia.

Priority Reassured For Military Needs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economic advisers have assured President Johnson that the peacetime allocation machinery will suffice to give military orders priority over civilian production during the $15-billion Viet Nam buildup.

The President's Council of Economic Advisers submitted a study showing that the planned outlays for Viet Nam will have far less economic impact than outlays during the Korean War, which created some civilian shortages.

TO CONGRESS

Johnson sent the council's report to Congress Thursday along with his annual economic message. The findings indicated that the White House will not seek added control powers when the Defense Production Act comes up for renewal this spring.

Although the business stimulus resulting from Pentagon spending will be felt throughout the economy, the council said, total defense outlays will claim only 7.6 per cent of national output in fiscal 1966 and 1967.

That is only a shade more than the 7.5 per cent in fiscal 1965. By contrast, defense spending tripled in the two years after the Korean War began in 1950, climbing from less than 5 per cent of national output to over 12 per cent in 1952.

Largely because of the vast expansion of the nation's industrial capacity since Korea, the council said, it will not be necessary to fortify the present Defense Materials System.

ALLOCATION PROGRAM

The DMS is the allocation program for basic metals. It has been ticking along since the Korean War, routinely assuring that defense contracts get priority over civilian orders for materials and plant capacity in case of any conflict. DMS is managed by the Commerce Department's Business and Defense Services Administration.

With industry operating at rates well below capacity, the allocation system has proceeded "without bumping private demands to any noticeable extent," the council said.

NOW HIGHER

It went on: "With (industry's) operating rates now higher than before, there may be some cases where the execution of civilian orders will be somewhat delayed.

CHAIRMEN NAMED

New Chamber Committees To Plan Program Of Work

Meetings of newly formed working committees of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce are scheduled in the near future, following appointment of chairmen by President John Currie.

Currie met with these chairmen during the past week, gave general instructions as to areas of activity, and called for prompt completion of the panels, and an organizational meeting, at which each would chart its major goals for the year.

Currie said that in some major projects, two or more committees could be involved, but that there will be an interlocking working arrangement. Each committee is to have a board coordinator, so that contact will be maintained with the directorate.

The new president told the chairmen, "It is through the committees that the chamber of commerce carries on most of its activity, and reaches most of its achievements. I am hoping that your groups will come up with good ideas, and will be willing to work to help with any project that will improve our community."

Major committee chairmen are:

- Agriculture, Walker Bailey;
- aviation, Connie Edwards; Base-Community Council, Dr. Fred Lutting; community planning, John L. Taylor; convention and tourists, Bob Rogers; cultural affairs, Mrs. Harold Davis; education, Omar Jones; governmental affairs, R. H. Weaver; petroleum activities, Ted O. Groebel; public health and safety, Dr. B. Broadrick; retail, Oscar Glickman; roads and highways, Jack Alexander; sports and recreation, Tommy Hart; economic development, Champ Rainwater; advertising and promotion, R. W. Whipkey.

Premature Infants 'Fail To Catch Up'

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A Johns Hopkins Medical School research team has concluded after a 13-year study that a "significant number" of premature infants later grow up to be less effective students than normal infants.

Dr. Gerald Wiener and Dr. Paul Harper said "contrary to the old wives tale that premature babies catch up, there is no evidence that this is so."

In a study of 992 single births in several Baltimore hospitals, the researchers found that IQ scores were about three points less than those of normal children at the age of six. By three or more years later, the IQ gap had widened to 5.5 points, said the researchers.

The study, financed by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said arithmetic skill was more impaired than reading skill — possibly, they said, because reading problems don't show up as readily at an early age.

The researchers said their findings held true for both Negro and White children in the 492 infants of less than 5 1/2 pounds compared to the remaining control group of normal children.

DEAR ABBY

Needs Some New Figures

DEAR ABBY: I am a bachelor, 34, and a construction engineer. After six years in the Middle East I have been assigned back to the U.S. I am not handsome, do not own a flashy car, and can't even dance. With these deficiencies one can hardly classify me as a ladies' man.

Since returning I have dated many young women, all of them over 21, attractive and from good homes. As a normal male, I have occasionally made "passes" at girls, but have always ceased and desisted when the girl has drawn the line. Now I find no line is drawn. I considered marriage with two girls, but abandoned the idea when I found them so easy. Last evening I was a guest in the home of a good friend. His wife made some suggestive remarks to me, which I took as a joke. When her husband left the room to feed the family dog, she let me know she wasn't joking. I left early and disgusted. Am I old-fashioned? Or in my absence from the States has chastity and fidelity been outdated?

DEPRESSED

DEAR DEPRESSED: I am sorry, but I must question the veracity of your reporting. Neither chastity nor fidelity has been declared unconstitutional in this country, and both remain solid virtues observed by normal, well-bred girls. There are exceptions, of course, and always have been. Either by luck (bad) or by design (perhaps unconscious), you've met the wrong kind of women. A good engineer ought to be able to figure out a way to meet the right kind.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 15. There is a 16-year-old boy at school who has been coming to visit her. He drives his car into our driveway and races the motor until she comes out. I think this is very disrespectful. Don't you think he should come to the door and ASK for her? Who should tell him? My daughter doesn't have the nerve.

HER MOM

DEAR MOM: Tell your daughter that if she doesn't tell her boy friend to ask for her at the door, you will tell him not to ask for her at all.

DEAR ABBY: My in-law came to visit us over the holidays because they were "lonesome" for the grandchildren. They stayed two weeks. My mother-in-law arrived coughing and sneezing and complaining about a chest cold she hadn't been able to shake in weeks. I was furious to think she'd come here and expose our five little ones to her germs. She hugged and kissed them all, held them on her lap, breathing into their little faces. I said in a very nice way, "Mother, you really ought to be in bed." It was like talking to the wall. Instead, she went into my kitchen, contaminating everything, cooking and baking as though she were in her own home. Well, the next day the baby came down with a 104 temperature. A few days later the older one followed suit. The whole time she was here, colds were passed back and forth to all the youngsters. How can I be sure that this doesn't happen again? I've had it!

WORN OUT

DEAR WORN: You can't—unless you promptly rush the contagious one off to isolation and keep her there until the danger has passed.

Campaign Urges Travel By Auto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even as the snow flies, oil men are laying plans to stimulate motor travel come spring and summer.

The American Petroleum Institute, which represents all segments of the oil and gas industry, is so pleased with results of a three-year-old campaign to promote automobile travel that it plans to expand the program.

The API's marketing division handles the program. One feature is newspaper advertising recommending "close-to-home" tours of scenic and historic points in the particular area. The advertisements usually describe the points of interest and include a simplified map with a suggested loop route for the round trip.

This year's advertising, now being worked up, will include 11 market areas not heretofore covered. These will include New York, Chicago and Los Angeles and raise to 63 the number of key areas to be covered in 1966, compared with 16 when the program was initiated in 1963.

In addition to its own campaign, the API is a founding member of "Discover America, Inc.," a new privately financed organization of oil, automobile, rubber, hotel and motel, airline, railroad, bus and other industries.

Backing up President Johnson's plea for Americans to travel at home—and thus reduce the flow of dollars abroad, the organization has adopted a slogan and trademark which will soon become much better known and recognized: A red, white and blue weather vane with an arrow, and the slogan "Discover America."

Mo-Pac Reports Earnings Record

ST. LOUIS — The Missouri Pacific System's consolidated net income of $26,300,579 in 1965 set a new earnings record, rising $951,062 above that of the previous year. Downing B. Jenks, president, reported today.

This produced earnings equal to $14.26 per share of Class A stock, compared with $13.66 per Class A share in 1964, he said.

Operating revenues for the year were $416,631,474, a rise of $12,653,955 over those of 1964. Operating expenses of $320,361,751 were up $9,788,088, partly because of higher transportation traffic, but principally because of an increase of more than $6,700,000 in wages and fringe benefits coming during the year, Jenks said. The consolidated figures include the Texas & Pacific Lines.

BIRTHDAY PARTY SUNDAY

J. B. Pickle Receives Greetings From LBJ

J. B. Pickle, long-time resident of Big Spring, will formally observe his 90th birthday Sunday. Actually, his birthday fell on Wednesday — Jan. 26 — but his children have arranged a family dinner, followed by an open house, Sunday.

Friends are invited to call at the home of a son, Joe Pickle, 2803 Cactus, between the hours of 3:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. No invitations have been sent.

Among those who dispatched greetings to him on his birthday was a friend who gave him his first airplane ride — President Lyndon B. Johnson. Speaker John McCormack, whom he met two years ago in Washington, also sent a telegram, and Gov. John Connally, an associate of Congressman J. J. (Jake) Pickle, another son, also sent his regards.

"You are a marvel," telegraphed the President. "Instead of adding years to your life, you keep adding life to your years."

He went on to recall when he had invited Mr. Pickle and his congressman son for lunch and dinner at the White House and then having Mr. Pickle go with him by helicopter and Air Force I to New York for a luncheon speaking engagement in April, 1964.

Mr. Pickle, a native of Tennessee, founded the Roscoe Times and operated the Scurry County Times prior to coming to Big Spring. He is a retired grocer-realtor and former mayor, who founded the Big Spring City Park. Two daughters, Mrs. Miller Harris of Durango, Colo., and Mrs. Jonathan Lancaster, Kermit, will be here for the occasion, along with several grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Candace And Adopted Family

Mossler Adopted Children Caught In 2nd Murder Case

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — What do four youngsters do when their real mother dies by gunfire and, only nine years later, they must stand with their adopted mother in the glaring spotlight of a murder trial?

If one of them is Martha Mossler, 15, she has bad dreams, and she cries sometimes. But she holds her head high and looks forward to a time when the nightmare will end and she will become a mother, too.

If one is Danny Mossler, 14, he discovers who are his real friends. And he faces the stares of some and says, "I'm a Mossler and proud of it."

ADOPTED CHILDREN

Martha and Danny and their brothers, Chris, 12, and Eddie, 11, are the adopted children of Jacques Mossler, the rich banker who was killed June 30, 1964, in a Miami apartment.

Their blonde second mother, Candace Mossler, is on trial for her life, charged with his murder.

When the four slender, handsome children walked into the apartment that night to find the body of Mossler pierced by 39 stab wounds, they experienced for the second time the shock of a beloved parent's violent death.

In 1957, similar violence had exploded in their home in Chicago, when they were very young. Their father, Leonard Glenn, shot their mother to death to free her, he said, of evil spirits and he killed their baby brother, Alexander.

POLICE ARRIVE

Then Glenn, now an Illinois mental patient, took his four surviving children on a wild ride through a blizzard, until his car stuck in a snowdrift and police were able to close in for the rescue.

When Jacques Mossler

learned that the four were to become wards of the state, he offered to take them. Others also came forward, but only Mossler wanted them all.

Despite the shock and the grief of two family tragedies, Martha, Danny, Chris and Eddie remain remarkably strong and well adjusted.

STILL SMILES

Martha, a tall girl with striking good looks and long dark hair that hangs to her shoulders, smiles as she talks of her plight.

But her eyes mist when she says: "Some people I thought were my friends treat me now like I was something from outer space. But they aren't real friends unless they stick with you. We didn't do anything."

When Mrs. Mossler came from her palatial Houston home to stand trial, she transferred the children to a private school in Miami. But they failed to find the anonymity they had sought.

Before they were recognized, Eddie said, "I made some new friends in Miami and everything seemed fine. But when they found out I was a Mossler, they weren't my friends any more."

Danny, a member of the National Honor Society, had longed especially for privacy "so I could study." He wants to be a doctor. Because of his scholastic standing, he was allowed to skip a grade in the Miami school. "I didn't find the privacy," he said, "but I don't let them bother me. We're still proud that we're Mosslers."

The other children are good students, too. Eddie is studying "to be a business man — like dad. I'm good at mathematics."

Chris intends to be a lawyer. "He's fascinated by the law," his brothers say.

Slaying Trial Widow Under Doctor's Care

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Attorneys were rapidly running out of challenges as the effort to pick a jury for the Mossler murder trial neared the end of its second week.

Candace Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, retained only four challenges between them when the 10th day of the trial started today.

Mrs. Mossler, accused of scheming with Powers to murder her wealthy husband, Jacques, 69, suffered an attack of migraine headaches and nausea during Thursday morning's session.

Looking pale and drawn, she was taken to her downtown apartment and placed under a doctor's care.

Early in the morning of June 30, 1964, when Mossler was slain in a Miami apartment, his wife was in Jackson Memorial Hospital being treated in the emergency ward for a similar attack.

The state charges that while she was there she received a telephone call from Powers. She returned to the apartment later to find her husband's body.

Circuit Judge George Schulz allowed the examination of prospective jurors to go on in Mrs. Mossler's absence and by the day's end, the attorneys had run through 135 candidates.

Percy Foreman, chief counsel for Powers who had challenged four women called up earlier, excused a fifth woman Thursday before she had given her name.

Drives By Allies Meet Cong Fire

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong unleashed heavy small-arms fire today as three Allied drives pushed deeper into the Communist-held coastal plain. It appeared to be the biggest eruption of fighting since the end of the lunar New Year truce on Sunday night.

Helicopters of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division came under intense fire as they landed troops north of Bong Son, a town on Route 1, lying 280 miles northeast of Saigon. Reports from the battle area spoke of repeated skirmishes. No casualties were reported yet.

BAILS OUT

A U. S. Air Force fighter-bomber supporting the cavalrymen crashed because of engine failure. The pilot bailed out and was picked up by helicopter. Since opening Operation Masher three days ago, the cavalrymen have killed 37 Viet Cong and taken six prisoners.

Opening lead: Ten of ♠ South took full advantage of an unalert defense to salvage a four heart contract that was apparently destined to fail.

An eight card suit provided South with a reasonable expectation of winning seven tricks, and he opened with a preemptive bid of three hearts. North had three tricks and his decision to raise his partner was a valid choice despite his void in hearts.

West opened the ten of spades and the ace was played from dummy. The ace of clubs was cashed, East following suit with the five and West with the six. A club was continued on which East played the nine. South discarded the jack of spades and West was in with the jack of clubs.

He exited with the nine of spades and declarer ruffed with the three of hearts. He played back the king of hearts and West was in again, with the ace. This time he had no safe return, inasmuch as he was out of spades.

If West returned a heart, he would lose his second trump trick. If he played the king of clubs, it would establish the club suit for the declarer. South ruffs in his hand, cashes the queen of hearts and then drives out the jack of trumps. North's ace of diamonds provides an entry to the clubs on which declarer discards the queen of diamonds.

West actually chose to return a diamond in the hope that East had the queen. When the declarer turned up with that card, the contest was over. South's losses consisted of two heart tricks and one club.

Both defenders had an opportunity to foil the declarer's efforts. When the second club is led from dummy, if East puts up the queen—instead of following with the nine—he can prevent South from ducking the trick into the West hand. Similarly, if West drops the jack of clubs under the ace—retaining the six, he will be in position to underplay on the next round.

Observe that, if East obtains the lead, a diamond shift by him establishes the setting trick for the defenders before the declarer can get started.

A Devotional For The Day

Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit. (John 15:16)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for the example of Jesus Christ. Help us to follow Him and spread His gospel and the spirit of His life to all whom we meet. Teach us that all men everywhere are our brothers, and teach us to support the work of Christian missions. Guide our lives always in the pathway of Christ, in whose name we pray. Amen.

Dumping Ground

Rep. Paul Jones, Missouri Democrat, has been "warm-trailing" the Congressional Record for some time. His sagacious nose detects too much "trash and deception" that makes of the Record "a dumping ground for trash, tripe and trivia."

It is a worthy hunt that Jones has undertaken. Certainly there is no dearth of quarry.

In the House of Representatives the mealy-mouthed approach is often signaled in this manner: "Rep. Blah (at the request of Rep. Blabbermouth) is given permission to address the House for 1 minute, and to revise and extend his remarks and include extraneous matter." The uncritical reader is left with the impression that the representative gets to his feet and delivers the material quoted in the Record.

In actual fact he may not even be present, having persuaded a colleague to act for him. The material is not given orally. The copy is merely furnished to the Public Printer.

Jones wants to eliminate this defilement of the Record. He wants the printed text of the Record to include only those words that were spoken on the floor. Tripe and trivia, he argues, should be confined to the Appendix.

There will, naturally, be a slight delay. Even Jones is pessimistic, recalling earlier unsuccessful attempts to clean up the Record, and concluding that he had "little reason to believe that I will be any more successful today."

The moral here is an old one: Grow not weary of well-doing. Jones.

Daddario Report

Congress is becoming restive, belatedly and understandably so, under the executive branch's domination of national science policy-making. And it may move this year to obtain a stronger voice for the legislative branch in scientific policies affecting the course of economic and social progress, the geographic impact of educational and industrial expansion, and the very nature of political power itself.

This conclusion is implicit in the recent report, after a year's study, by the science research and development subcommittee of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics. The report was prepared under the direction of subcommittee chairman Rep. Emilio Q. Daddario, D-Conn.

The Daddario report, as it may be called, may mark a turning point in government-science relationships. And it deserves thoughtful consideration both in Congress and in administration.

The federal science budget now tops $15 billion a year. It is having tremendous impact on the regional distribution of economic development, on the structure and aims of the nation's educational system, and on that vague but hardly meaningless concept known as the American way of life.

Federal science spending is scattered over scores of government agencies, with the largest outflow from the Department of Defense. But the only federal agency exclusively charged with national science policy is the National Science Foundation. The Daddario report would start by drastically remodeling the foundation, to give it a stronger voice in the administration and a closer relationship to Congress.

The Daddario report is potentially important in preserving a proper balance of powers in government and in furthering America's scientific world leadership.

Bungling Soviet Bureaucracy

WASHINGTON—The Soviet bureaucratic mind, which could conceivably trigger a possible nuclear war some day, has revealed an example of its eccentricity in the handling of the case of Newcomb Mott, an American tourist who is alleged to have committed suicide on a train in Russia.

YOUNG MOTT wandered across the Norwegian border last September into Russia without a visa, which he thought he didn't need inasmuch as persons of other nationalities were not required to have visas to enter Russia in this area. It is alleged in Russia that Mott was a spy and connected with the Central Intelligence Agency. This is absurd on its face. Nobody with any intelligence would ever send into another country on a dangerous mission—or any other kind of errand with risks involved—an American who didn't have a proper visa, especially when it is so easy to employ persons of other nationalities living nearby to undertake such tasks.

BUT WHAT is even more incomprehensible is the way the arrest and trial were carried on by the Soviet authorities. To sentence to 15 months of hard labor in a prison camp a tourist who mistakenly assumed he could cross an international boundary, as persons from other countries were privileged to do, is to point the finger of blame squarely on the Soviet bureaucracy.

The receptive mind of the Communist is brainwashed into believing that any form of cruelty may be employed against a so-called enemy. Unfortunately, this inhuman attitude is even applied by Russian military commanders with respect to their own troops.

BUT THE SOVIET bureaucratic mind, whether in the civilian or military category, is basically regimented and unimaginative, and therein lies the danger of a wrong decision. Certainly anybody with a knowledge of diplomacy would have hesitated to impair Soviet-American relations at this time by affirming such an incredible sentence to Mott. Doubtless there are persons in the Soviet Foreign Office who at once saw the error but were afraid to take measures to correct it. Just why the Soviet Premier himself, however, didn't recognize the potential risks is a mystery. For there was ample time to weigh carefully the effects of such an unjust sentence.

NOW THE blunder has been compounded by the clumsy handling of the inquiry into the circumstances under which Mott died. Why wasn't a Soviet guard able to prevent the tragedy? Plainly any prisoner undergoing hardship can go berserk and do violence to himself. But the Soviet bureaucrats wouldn't think such things out that way.

The incident undoubtedly will be discussed throughout the world as an example of bureaucratic bungling.

MILLIONS OF RUSSIANS were lost in World War II due to bureaucratic mistakes in handling military operations. Their families haven't forgotten the blunders of Communist bureaucracy, and some day will express themselves unequivocally about it as they exercise their concerted will.

The Mott incident is a symbol of how Soviet bureaucracy operates, and what Communist tyranny can mean. (Copyright, 1966, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

Bribe Try

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Czechoslovak authorities are investigating the case of a soccer referee who is suspected of having tried to bribe another referee.

It seems that the referee, Stefan Krizalkovic, offered the other man 5,000 crowns ($695) to make a lot of mistakes during a second-league soccer match so that he, Krizalkovic, would look better in comparison.

"Krizalkovic resorted to bribery in order to become a higher class football referee," the Czechoslovak news agency C.T.K. said.

Fate Of 4-Year Term Bid In Doubt

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson may not have helped the cause of longer terms for House members by urging it so strongly.

A determined backstage effort to extend the present two-year terms to four years was nearing success in the House without much interest being shown in it until Johnson spoke out.

BUT EVER since he plugged the four-year term in his State of the Union address on Jan. 12, the issue has been caught in the glare of controversy and its fate is now in doubt.

To win congressional approval, the proposed amendment must win passage in both the House and Senate by at least a two-thirds favorable vote—not just a simple majority. Then three-fourths of the state legislatures—38—would have to ratify it for the proposal to become law.

For the first time, mail is coming to Congress on the subject, much of it opposing the longer terms. Newspapers and magazines are taking editorial stands. Voters are discussing it.

ALL THIS was much different last year when Rep. Frank Chelf, D-Ky., was quietly, but effectively lining up support for a four-year-term constitutional amendment.

By his own count Chelf wrote more than 8,000 letters to his 534 colleagues in the House and Senate with arguments in support of longer terms. He talked about it at every opportunity, got dozens to introduce amendments.

Working through his fellow members of the House Judiciary Committee he finally persuaded Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., an unyielding opponent of the amendment, to hold hearings. Nearly 50 members appeared to sing the praises of longer terms, none in opposition.

CELLER COULDN'T find anyone who would testify against it and he was finally forced to move the amendment to the top of the committee calendar, ready for almost certain approval at the start of this session. Then the President spoke out.

Celler has no lack of members and outside witnesses who now want to testify against the amendment and he is preparing to renew the hearings.

The awakened interest in the four-year term also has caused members who thought they favored it to look more closely at what is at stake. Some are having second thoughts.

They don't like Johnson's proposal that the four-year terms coincide with the President's, fearing loss of independence to the executive branch. With a Democrat in power Republicans are particularly opposed to this feature.

Those who favor dividing the House and staggering the terms so half the members run every two years don't have the answer to the technical problem of how to deal with automatic reapportionment of the House after the national census every 10 years.

Silver Pastures Of Middle Age

NEW YORK (AP)—Middle age is getting popular.

It must be—because more and more people are becoming middle-aged.

As a matter of fact, some young folks show signs of being prematurely weary of the problems of youth today, and plaintively wonder when they, too, can enjoy the advantages of middle age.

BUT THEY are interlopers. Only those who have put in the necessary apprenticeship of actual living should be allowed to dwell in the silver pastures of middle age.

Here are some guideposts. You undoubtedly are middle-aged if—

You are too old to dance the frug and too young to get medicine.

Your appetite is great. You are now able to eat with relish any kind of food put upon your plate which the doctor says is bad for you.

DURING THE day you catnap, but at night it is impossible to sleep eight full hours at a stretch. You invariably wake up in the morning before the alarm clock goes off.

It bothers your conscience to look out the window and see your wife shoveling snow. You even consider going out and helping her—but think better of it.

You talk to yourself as you shave, because you realize you probably won't have such a sympathetic audience the rest of the day.

IT IS necessary to send flowers so often to hospitalized friends that you open a charge account with the florist.

When you read a gossip column, you don't recognize the names of eight of 10 of the people being gabbled about—and don't really care what happens to the other two.

At a party you find it much easier to make conversation with women wearing bifocal glasses. They seem to have so much more common sense.

THE WORLD is in a mess, but you aren't sure it is worth the bother it would take to unscramble it.

Half your working day is spent doodling on ways you can possibly retire ahead of time without starving.

You get more cautious. You gulp a couple of antacid pills before—not after—eating cabbage or Brussels sprouts.

If someone gave you a free roundtrip ticket to Tahiti, you'd sell it. What's in Tahiti for you?

You begin to believe that real estate is the only safe investment—so you make the down payment on a cemetery plot.

That's middle age. With benefits like these accruing, you can see why everybody's trying to get into the act early—instead of waiting his turn.

Beg Pardon, Would You Mind Repeating?

Some television journalism makes one fit to turn Gaelic Purple. The word journalism is used here for want of a printable one.

Other day on a program called "Face the Press," or "Meet the Nation," or "Face the Nation and Meet the Press," we were witness to a question-and-answer period between some journalists and the head of one of the newer Johnson-built bureaucratic whatares (plural of whatis).

IT WENT as follows, as best we can remember:

Journalist: Mr. Whosis, what are your plans in your new job?

Mr. W.: Well, I'd rather not answer that just now, but I have a number of projects in mind.

Journalist: Is there any truth to the rumor you have called the department a "jerry-built hodge-podge"?

Mr. W.: Well, let me say that I don't remember saying anything like that, but that is not to contradict anything or anyone or any newspaper or any newspaper reporter who may have misinterpreted what I did say.

Journalist: What did you say?

Mr. W.: I said, "but that is not to contra..."

Journalist: No, no, I mean about the department.

Mr. W.: I don't remember, but certainly not that, although...

JOURNALIST: Excuse me, sir. Do you have an opinion on why, since Social Security is supposedly an investment by those who receive it, they can't go on working and still receive the benefits?

Mr. W.: (after 10 seconds silence and impressive brow-furrowing) Let me say this, that I'm not qualified to say, or have an opinion on this.

Journalist: Sir, is it true that the program which is a part of your department has a record of misused funds?

Mr. W.: I'd rather not answer that, but since you ask, I'd like to say this, that this is one of the finest ideas, or programs ever designed for Our People. Implementation and finalization and rededication and re-interpretation are at this moment considerably improving, however, that is not to say, however, that there has been any real need for, uh, indeed, ahem, that is to say, perhaps.

Journalist: Huh?

Mr. W.: I said, Imple...
Journalist: Excuse me, but we have a commercial now. Ladies and gentlemen, we'll be right back after this important message. (break for ad about something new, new, new)

JOURNALIST: Mr. Whosis, are you enjoying your new position?

Mr. W.: Let me say this, that while I'm enjoying tremendously this fine opportunity...

JOURNALIST: Pardon me. We've run out of time... I'd like to thank you for BEING here. In just a moment, ladies and gentlemen, we'll tell you about next week's guest, Mr. X, head of the new, new, new department of Language Clarification and Implementation. But now, a message of importance... —TOM BARRY

Where To Put The Budget Dollars

WASHINGTON — Stretching President Lyndon B. Johnson's rubber budget to cover urgent demands at home as defense spending goes above $90 million was an exercise calling for all the skill of the Great Society's engineers.

Take as one example a seemingly minor "item" in the vast sprawl of the federal budget. That is the need to get a supply of fresh water to America's rapidly growing cities in the face of the despoiling of the river systems with wholesale pollution.

THE CREATION last year of a Water Resources Council headed by the Secretary of the Interior was recognition that piecemeal efforts by separate cities is no longer enough. If a rapidly dwindling natural resource essential to life is to be conserved, then not only federal-state planning but a massive joint effort must come. Yet the new budget provides only a dribble of money for more river basin planning commissions and for planning grants to the states.

This is in the face of a record drought in the Northeast where in the urban complex on the Eastern seaboard at least 15,000,000 people have been threatened or actually affected by shortages of public water supply.

NEW YORK CITY is the focus of the gravest concern if there is to be another long hot dry summer. And here there is a tendency, as in the recent subway strike and the wage settlement, to put the blame on the city for failing to take the giant steps necessary to overcome a shortage projected far into an uncertain future.

In contrast, the Water Council in a recent background analysis gives New Jersey high marks for water management that "properly prevented a major disaster in Northern New Jersey in 1965." But here, too, pollution is a problem. The Passaic Water Commission supplies 14 cities in the industrial area across from New York and pollution of the Passaic and Whippany Rivers along with the drought and a very low flow indicate more trouble.

THE WATER COUNCIL gives the highest score to California. In that Western empire a monumental project is being built to carry water from the surplus in the North to the South, which would be a desert if it were not for vast projects to carry water hundreds of miles. Success will mean that for the first time in man's history the imperatives of water have been defied.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall asks some long-range questions about the responsibility of the federal government in the acute water squeeze. Should Uncle Sam be in the business of selling water to the people of Passaic, N. J.? Udall, who has excelled in the domain of conservation, must trim his sails to the wind that blows from the White House.

BUT THE QUESTION begs the real issue as does the approach to a supply of pure water for America's cities. River systems cover a half-dozen states. Perhaps a coordinated effort can begin to clean up the river. But the federal government must act to stop pollution by industrial waste flooding into streams once pure and swift-moving.

As state and municipal debt spirals at a pace far faster than the federal debt, Washington's responsibility is correspondingly greater. But the two-way stretch in the budget scarcely reflects it. (Copyright, 1966, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Dirksen's Name In History

WASHINGTON — Everett McKinley Dirksen, Republican senator and Floor Leader par excellence, will live a long time beyond his mortal span—a subject that has been in his mind and conversation for a number of years prior to his recent 70th birthday.

He is already assured of the immortality which exists in anecdote and imitation. Men and women who have heard his matchless colloquy and witty repartee, and who have seen his highly stylized mode of public address, will never forget or cease to reenact.

THE MAN from Pekin (Ill.) is an individualist, like Mark Twain, to be remembered for how he looked as well as for what he said. He is a figure just different enough to stand out against his time, like Bob Taft and Jack Garner, and to be remembered by people who never knew him but wish that they did. As long as he has living friends, and as long as legends of colorful celebrities endure by word of mouth, Dirksen will survive.

BUT NONE of this quite satisfies him. He thinks of a place in the history books, and has said so.

In any event, Dirksen, at the opening of the present congressional session, has determined to lay his calling card on the table in the hall of fame, even if he has to batter down the door. He has three instruments for so doing.

TWO ARE earlier models, and one is new. Dirksen is back in action with his proposed Constitutional Amendment on Reapportionment, which would overturn a notorious Supreme Court decision. The court ruled in June, 1964, that both houses of all state legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis—the strained doctrine of one-man-one-vote. Dirksen asks only that the states be allowed to choose on one house of their legislatures, if they so desire, along historic or geographic lines. If he succeeds in this mission, he will be known as long as the nation lasts.

DIRKSEN has also returned to his purpose of blocking repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act's Section 14-B, permitting state right-to-work laws. Though most members of Congress are Democrats, most of them would like to thwart the President's promise to the labor bosses. If Dirksen can block a repealer, as he did last session by filibuster, Section 14-B should stay on the books indefinitely, and Dirksen will be remembered with gratitude for generations to come.

THIS SESSION Dirksen has brought up his third siege-breaking instrument—an avowal to reverse the Supreme Court's decisions of June, 1962, and June, 1963, which forbade the use of prayers in the public schools. If he can find a way to restore freedom of worship without violating the Constitution's ban on "established religion," Dirksen will rank as a latter-day Founding Father.

Thus we have what must be unique in the national annals—a man frankly bidding for immortality, to the cheers of millions who have no such hope for themselves. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — When concern spread through the Hallstrom School that a poplar tree would get an ax, a reprieve was granted to permit a robin and four blue eggs to remain unmolested.

Children and teachers breathed a sigh of relief as the stay of execution was granted by the Board of Education officer.

Gerald Raasch, director of buildings and grounds, said the tree is scheduled to be cut down because its roots are breaking into the foundation of the school building.

Capt. Sorensen Talks On Foreign Students

The foreign student training program at Webb AFB was detailed by Capt. John J. Sorensen, liaison officer with the 3561st PTS during the Thursday luncheon of the Altrusa Club.

Introduced by Mrs. Willard Sullivan, community service chairman, the speaker said that 12 students from other countries are now being trained at the local base. He said a two-fold purpose is involved with their stay here; first, they receive technical training; and second, they learn something of the American way of life.

Capt. Sorensen said the trainees come from many different countries and many have pre-conceived ideas about the United States. He stressed the importance of aid and understanding from the communities, where these students are stationed, in order for them to properly understand life in America.

By so doing, citizens can help create a tool to further good foreign relations when these young men return to their homelands. A question and answer period followed Capt. Sorensen's talk.

Twenty-eight attended with Mrs. M. S. Knowles presiding.

Mrs. J. D. Cole became president of the United Council of Church Women during ceremonies conducted by the Rev. Al Seddon Thursday morning at Wesley Methodist Church.

Other officers are Mrs. Gary Sims, vice president; Mrs. R. E. Hoover, treasurer; and Mrs. W. B. Morris, secretary. Chairmen installed were Mrs. Shine Phillips, "Church Woman"; Mrs. Don Wiley, May Fellowship; Mrs. Don Lester, World Community Day; Mrs. Tom Barber, World Day of Prayer; and Mrs. Joe Barbee, publications, with Mrs. W. G. Wilson Jr. as co-chairman.

Mrs. Joe B. Johnson, retiring president, presided and gave the devotion. She announced that the volunteer council for the state hospital was to meet Thursday evening.

The World Day of Prayer will be held Feb. 25 at the First Presbyterian Church, and the state meeting of the United Council of Church Women of Texas will be Feb. 1 in Austin.

The group's next local meeting will be Feb. 18 at 9:30 a.m. in Kentwood Methodist Church.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Finicky Children Will Like This Eating Game

Dear Heloise: We've found a way to get our small son to drink his daily quota of milk, without his raising a fuss!

Instead of pouring a large glass of milk (which looks discouraging to him), I give him a very small glass and a small pitcher of milk.

He pours each glassful for himself, and empties the pitcher in no time—without my having to keep telling him to finish it. . . Jim's Mom

Isn't psychology wonderful? Heloise.

Dear Heloise: I've discovered a great use for leftover permanent wave end papers: They are handy for blotting lipstick, and leave no lint as tissues do. . . Young Girl

Dear Heloise: We had a new countertop installed in our kitchen. We took a leftover piece to a cabinet maker who gave it some support, put an edging around it, and attached four legs which we painted red.

We purchased two small chairs to go with the table, and have a marvelous play table for our grandsons. . . M. Smith

Dear Folks: Here's a little hint I would like to pass along to those who cook: As soon as you empty the pots the vegetables were cooked in, and the skillet the steak and gravy were made in. . .

While these cooking utensils are still warm, add a few globes of detergent. Then get out that vegetable brush (which does the work for you — and you won't have to put your pretty hands in hot dishwater — all you touch is the handle), scrub and rinse those pots under the hot water faucet.

Dry the pots and skillet with paper napkins. (I buy the cheapest ones for this job. I prefer napkins because it's easier to grab one off the top of the stack, instead of tearing off a paper towel from the roll.) If the skillet is cast iron, after drying turn it UPSIDE DOWN, and lay it over a warm, unlit burner on the stove. This will remove all remaining moisture and prevent rust. Only takes about 10 seconds. Now, put the washed pots and pans away before you sit down to your meal, or let them drain while you eat. You will enjoy breaking bread with your family more because the messiest part of your usual after-dinner clean-up job is done. . . Heloise

Dear Heloise: I have discovered a wonderful sweater dryer. I lay an old window screen across the backs of two chairs, put a clean sheet on it, then shape the sweaters on it. Since air can go up through the screen, the sweaters dry much faster than when laid on a solid surface. . . Mrs. L. C. Jamison

Dear Heloise: Using white thread, I have embroidered numerals showing the size of the cloth on the underside of a corner of each of my long, seldom-used tablecloths. An embroidered "T" means the cloth fits when one leaf is in the table. "II" fits when two leaves are added, and "III" fits the table when all three leaves must be used. Surely prevents all that unfolding and re-folding to find the right length tablecloth. . . Mrs. James Moore

Dear Heloise: Instead of letting rubber bands accumulate in corners of drawers, etc., I slip them around the middle of an empty aluminum foil roll, and hang it on a handy nail. . . Mrs. H. O. Weigel

(Write Heloise in care of the Big Spring Herald.)

Rev. Blomquist was born in Vasteras, Sweden, and received his schooling in Sweden and the United States. He was trained at the Swedish Industrial College and Scandinavian Union Theological Seminary. He also received special agricultural training at Texas Technological College, Lubbock. He and his family are on furlough for a year and are residing in Big Spring.

He was also charged with the responsibility of overseeing the work of a hospital (250 beds) and 10 clinics. He has also been responsible for a Community Development program that has become of great importance for the future of the people of Rhodesia.

In addition to the supervisory work of churches and schools, Rev. Blomquist has been in a position to observe the current events of Rhodesia. In addition to being a missionary, he is a political analyst. He has been in touch with government officials as well as the rural and city dwellers. Evangelism Line

CHICAGO (AP) — Telephones are key instruments for the church to use in counseling persons in crisis situations, a conference of pastors and laymen was told here. They heard reports of such telephone projects in Sydney, Australia; Berlin, Germany, and Miami, Fla. The conference was sponsored by the Methodist Church's Department of Unconventional Evangelism.

Policy Change Urged In Vietnam Fighting

The United States should not bomb North Viet Nam and it should avoid further escalation of the Viet Nam war, so this country can convince the world that it really desires an end to the hostilities and a political settlement of the issues. So says a national Methodist magazine, "World Outlook," in an editorial in its January issue. It (circulation 130,000) is the missionary magazine of The Methodist Church, published by the Methodist Board of Missions, which has headquarters at the Interchurch Center in New York City. The editor is Arthur J. Moore Jr., lay journalist and theologian, who wrote the editorial.

In an editorial entitled "The War Nobody Wants," he deals in some detail with the complexities of the Viet Nam war. It warns that though America's announced aim in aiding the South Vietnamese was to make possible a free political settlement, the deepening American military involvement is transforming the conflict from a civil war between North and South Viet Nam to a "full-scale war between the United States and North Viet Nam."

Such a transformation, the magazine asserts, is just what the Chinese Communists want, and the U.S. is playing right into the hands of their propaganda. Hitting hard on this point, the editorial says: "It is difficult to say at what point the buildup of American troops in Viet Nam crossed a mythical line and turned this from a Vietnamese into an American war. Whatever the point was, it should be celebrated by the Chinese Communists as a day of feasting. For years, it has been the aim of Communist propaganda to picture the United States as an aggressive power bent on subjugating and destroying the small, underdeveloped nations of this world. Now, we can be made to fit this caricature, and the fact that the reality is a good deal more complicated is not much help to us. Every photograph of American planes napalming a Vietnamese village is money in the Communist political bank."

Moore, however, is not blind to the difficulty of America changing its policy at this point in the war, nor does it suggest that North Viet Nam wants peace. Moreover, the magazine recognizes the growing emotional involvement of America in the war and the reasons for this. The editorial says: "It would be foolish to say there is an easy way out of this bloody situation. The North Vietnamese do not seem to want negotiations at this time."

"Already, there are disquieting signs of a war psychology in the United States. According to the Louis Harris poll, one-third of the American people now believe that demonstrations against our policy in Viet Nam should not be allowed. The administration is talking of cutting funds for the much-heralded 'great society' to further what appears to be yet another military escalation. Emotionally, this public mood is understandable. When relatives and friends are dying in a war, it is hard to think of much else. It is particularly hard to think about whether they should be fighting there in the first place."

While calling for a change in American policy in Viet Nam, the magazine also has critical words for opponents of U.S. policy, saying: "Criticism has become identified with two groups. First, there is a small group of leftists who reject American society completely and are therefore outside the mainstream of political debate. Secondly, there are the pacifists who (with all due respect) often slide over the very real questions of the use of power. Both of these tend to an attitude of moral superiority which only serves to antagonize the bulk of public opinion."

Concluding with an appeal for cessation of the bombing of North Viet Nam and for no further American escalation, he says: "We must convince the world that our main goal is an end to this war and shift the burden of continuing it onto the North Vietnamese. We do not say this lightly."

GOD IS REDEEMER

That God is the redeemer is the subject of the International Sunday School lesson for Sunday.

Scripture readings include Deut. 7:6-11; Isaiah 43:1-3; Romans 3:21-26; Ephesians 1:3-18; Hebrews 10:12-22; and Rev. 5:9-14.

As it deals with Christian redemption, the readings are taken from the New Testament. Paul's thinking is reflected throughout this lesson, as he was interested in the redemption of men through the sacrifice on the cross.

And all men have reacted through the ages to the same response Paul received. The offer is explained in the Scripture for the lesson, as well as the means to obtain it.

Sheriff's Office Gets Radio Permit

Howard County Sheriff's office has received license for its new radio station, Sheriff A. N. Standard said today.

He said that he will confer with W. D. Berry, civil defense director, relative to the Civil Defense participation in payment of the equipment. As soon as this is done, he said he would go before the county commissioners court and ask that it advertise for bids on equipment.

He said that the license assigned the sheriff's office two frequencies — 37.10 and 37.18. Plans are to erect an 80-foot antenna on top of the courthouse and to set up the transmitter in the sheriff's office. Three control points will be operated — one of which will be in the living quarters of the jailer on the fourth floor. This will give the office round-the-clock radio communication with patrol cars and other law enforcement agencies.

He said that the county has already taken initial steps to provide each of its patrol cars with triple radio receiver units and 100 watt transmitters. The cars will monitor not only the two assigned frequencies of the sheriff's transmitter but likewise the 42.9 wave length of the Department of Public Safety.

The sheriff said that funds for the new radio transmitter have been provided in his budget.

et. He pointed out that $1,200 is set up annually to pay the county's rent to the city police for joint use of their equipment. This $1,200 will be used to pay for the new transmitter, he said.

He said the total cost of the installation will run about $4,000. Half of this will be absorbed by the Civil Defense. The $2,000 additional can be paid off by the office in a year and a half with funds saved from the rental fees now paid to the city.

He pointed out that the new equipment would greatly improve communication facilities for his office.

He said he intended to push to have the new transmitter in service as soon as possible.

Bank Shortage Is $150,000

BLANKET, Tex. (AP)—State banking commissioner J. M. Falkner said Thursday a shortage at the defunct Blanket State Bank amounts to about $150,000.

Blanket citizens have taken steps toward organizing a new bank by gathering pledges from prospective stockholders and depositors.

The bank here closed Monday and its directors said it was in failing condition.

The First National Bank of Brownwood was chosen Thursday as receiver of deposit liabilities of the Blanket State Bank.

Faulkner said he will ask a district court at Brownwood to approve an agreement under which depositors of the Blanket bank will get back all their money. This agreement is between the Brownwood bank and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Designer Of Gotham Buildings Succumbs

MANHASSET, N.Y. (AP)—James Ruderman, designer of many of New York's major office buildings including the Pan-American Building, collapsed and died on a train en route to his office Thursday. He was 67.

Legion State Commander Here For Initiation Rites

Big Spring today is host to Clayton Mann, Texas commander of the American Legion and officers and members from division, district and nearby posts. Mayor pro-tem John Stanley will head a group of past commanders of the Big Spring Post in welcoming the legion officials to Big Spring to commemorate membership and attainment goals accomplished. Mann lives in Wichita Falls.

Some 50 members of the post will participate in initiation ceremonies. Carl Knapp, post commander, stated, following a 7 o'clock fish supper, Roscoe Cone is arranging the meeting in which the state commander will outline American Legion policies. District Commander El Schmid, Slaton, and Billy Bond, Brownfield, will conduct the initiation ceremonies, along with Clarence Daves, Big Spring, district chaplain.

Ed Fisher, a two term past commander, is chairman of the Big Spring welcoming committee of past commanders and the group will greet the state commander. Fisher and the past commanders will confer with Mann or legion policies.

Big Spring, under Byron Hill, membership chairman, has exceeded the membership quota and tonight's meeting will recognize this attainment along with the many program accomplishments Big Spring Legionnaires have attained. The local post has pioneered Boy Scout activity for handicapped youths.

Allen took the stand late in the four-day trial and testified that the shooting was an accident.

State's witnesses testified that the defendant had chased peccan pickers from his ranch with a rifle on the day of the shooting.

Mrs. Evans Protects Mail

Any person who carries the United States mail has a solemn responsibility to protect the mail in his charge at all times and to the best of his or her ability.

According to Frank Hardesty, postmaster, Mrs. Roland Evans, who carries the mail from Big Spring to Gail on the Star Route, followed that admonition to the letter and perhaps even beyond.

Mrs. Evans is recuperating from bruises, abrasions and a severe cut on the head she suffered Wednesday noon. She was in her mail car driving toward Gail and was about 15 miles south of the Borden County seat at the time of the accident.

As she approached a bridge, she applied her brakes, she told Hardesty, because the bridge was slightly narrower than the highway. There was a slippery spot on the paving, the car ran out of control and plunged into the ravine. It turned over two or three times.

Mrs. Evans extricated herself from the wrecked car and turned off the engine which was still running. Then, Hardesty said, the young woman tugged away at the mail bag in the wrecked car and when she had it released, dragged it up the bank of the ravine to the roadside.

When help arrived, she was still holding to the mail bag.

Rancher Held Not Guilty

EASTLAND, Tex. (AP)—Ivan J. Allen, 73, prominent Eastland County rancher, was judged innocent of murder charges Thursday by jurors in 91st District Court.

The state had asked the death penalty in the Nov. 7 shooting death of Allen's nephew, Dr. Albert Reidel, a Dallas psychiatrist.

Allen took the stand late in the four-day trial and testified that the shooting was an accident.

State's witnesses testified that the defendant had chased peccan pickers from his ranch with a rifle on the day of the shooting.

Hedy Lamarr Arrested On Petty Theft Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A one-time Hollywood glamour queen, Hedy Lamarr, was arrested on a charge of petty theft Thursday night in the parking lot of a department store, police said.

A store security guard, Helen McGarry, said she watched Miss Lamarr drop clothing and other goods worth $86 into a shopping bag before walking out of the store.

The actress, 51, was later released on bond. Police said she had in her purse movie checks and personal valuables totaling at least $14,000.

An attorney who helped arrange her bail, Arthur Lawrence, said: "Miss Lamarr had been shopping in the store with a friend and I'm thoroughly convinced this is all a matter of a misunderstanding."

A Tower To Protest War

Bearded New York sculptor Mark Di Suvero, 32, right, gets set to start welding base of a tower on the Sunset Strip in Los Angeles — a protest by a group of artists opposed to the war in Viet Nam. Sculptors Judy Ger-witz, left, and Lloyd Hamrol study the plans in the background. Says Di Suvero: "I don't know how high the tower will go. We'll just keep building it." (AP WHEPHOTO)

Senators' Pleas Decry Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fifteen Democratic senators who oppose resumption of U.S. air strikes against North Viet Nam targets have appealed to President Johnson to seek "our collective judgment" in making his decision.

The senators made known their views in a letter sent to the President Thursday night. They expressed general agreement with statements urging continuation of the five-week bombing suspension which have been made by Sens. Mike Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader, J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and George D. Aiken, dean of Republican senators.

"We believe we understand in some small degree the agony you must suffer when called upon by our constitutional system to make judgments which may involve war or peace," the 15 Democrats said. "We believe you should have our collective judgment before you, when you make your decision."

The 15 senators drafted their letter after a White House conference Tuesday night at which 18 of 29 congressional leaders consulted by Johnson were reported to have urged an early end to the moratorium on bombing. Mansfield and Fulbright were reported to be the only two who disagreed.

Both Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said the Tuesday night meeting was the kind of consultation senators have been demanding. "This was consultation in the best sense," Mansfield said.

All signs continued to point to an early renewal of the bombing. But the White House said Johnson has made no decision.

A confrontation between some opponents of renewed bombing and Secretary of State Dean Rusk takes place today at a public meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee. It is considering the administration request for $415 million in additional foreign aid funds — $275 million for South Viet Nam.

Four signers of the letter are on the Foreign Relations Committee — Sens. Frank Church of Idaho, Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania and Wayne Morse of Oregon — as are Fulbright and Mansfield.

McCarthy and Sen. George S. McGovern, (D-S.D.), argued against a resumption in bombing in speeches to the Senate Thursday.

Other Democrats who signed the letter, which apparently stemmed from a conference Wednesday afternoon between Fulbright, McCarthy and other senators, were Sens. E. L. Bartlett and Ernest Gruening of Alaska, Quentin N. Burdick of North Dakota, Vance Hartke of Indiana, Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire of Wisconsin, Mauri B. Neuberger of Oregon, L. J. Metcalf of Montana, Harrison A. Williams Jr. of New Jersey and Stephen M. Young of Ohio.

Rotarians Have Insurance Talk

STANTON (SC)—Members of the Stanton Rotary Club heard Woodford Sale on the topic, "The Life Insurance Industry," at their meeting Wednesday. President Beryl Clinton was in charge.

The Rev. John Rankin gave the invocation. A choir from the high school sang five numbers, accompanied by Mel Rae Angel on the piano. In the group were Robert Roten, Buddy Shanks, Cindy Britton, Beverly Tucker, Sandra Wilkes and Betty Hardin.

Clinton announced that the district meeting of the Rotary Club is planned May 5-7 in Big Spring, with wives of the members as guests.

No Injuries In Four Accidents

Two accidents Thursday and two this morning injured no one, officers said. Involved Thursday were the cars of Leondra Sue Beafon, 1727 Purdue, and Henry Walter Bell, 1405 E. 6th, at 1405 E. 6th; and the cars of Arthur J. Gustafson, 1607 E. 6th, and Marcelinus Nute Brown, 504 NW 7th, at Fourth and Benton. Friday morning mishaps involved the cars of Maurine Talley Driver, Box 1107, and Louise Bennett Worthy, Gail Route, at Ninth and Gollad; and the car of Patsy S. Wilkerson, 801 Anna, and the stopped car of Hershel D. Hammond, Odessa, at Old US 80 and Marcy Drive.

Insurance Views Listed On Agenda

Three viewpoints on life insurance will be discussed at the meeting Tuesday of the Big Spring Life Underwriters Association.

The meeting will be at 12 noon at Cosden Country Club. Speakers will be Lester Morton, banker; Sidney Clark, accountant; and Bill Eysen Jr., attorney.

Rehabilitation Board Adopts Budget, Patient Load Up

The Howard County Rehabilitation Center adopted its 1966 budget Thursday, but directors warned it would exhaust accumulated savings.

Scope of the program has been broadened since the unit has moved into the new Dora Roberts Health Center, and operating expenses also will be higher. The $23,822 outlay will draw on estimated treatment fees of $9,000 and contributions from the United Fund and others in the amount of $4,700.

Jim Thompson, therapist, reported an average of 20 patients per day, over half of whom are unable to contribute treatment fees. The load has become so heavy that a part-time therapist has been employed. Larry Brisingstergers are brought to the center for use of the swimming pool and for instructions.

Word of the services of the to, speech therapist, who works during afternoons, now is nearing capacity on his schedule. A recreational program for mentally retarded children has been added to the program. Four classes of those who are ambulatory and a class of orthopedic new center, rated as one of the best in West Texas, will be spread in this vicinity under authorization of the board.

A committee is to be named

British Actress Dies In Surrey

LONDON (AP)—British actress Betty Stockfield, 61, died Wednesday at the home of a sister in Surrey.

to recommend a change in names. The Howard County portion of the title gives many the idea that it is supported by the county, whereas actually the center is a non-profit, private affair.

Thompson was authorized to proceed with organization of an auxiliary composed of volunteers serving the center. Plans also were made for a program at the center to recognize volunteers.

During the Easter Seal campaign, the center will observe open house. The Easter Seal proceeds are used in part to assist the center.

New members of the board are Don Womack, Miss Anna Smith, John Richard Smith, Horace Garrett, plus two returnees, Chester Cathey and Neil Hilliard.

Amistad Dam Work Pushed

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP)—The first phase of work on the $78 million Amistad Dam, a joint United States-Mexico project on the Rio Grande near here, will be completed by March 5, chief engineer L. H. Henderson of the International Boundary and Water Commission said Thursday.

This consists principally of the foundation for the giant dam. Construction is running on schedule, Henderson said.

Completion of the structure is scheduled for late 1967. It will back water far up the Rio Grande and the Pecos River with a reservoir covering 88,300 acres.

Three Are Still Called 'Critical'

Tracy Faulks, 18, remained in critical condition at Howard County Hospital Foundation this morning, according to attendants, following brain surgery performed last night.

Young Faulks was injured with three others in the accident Jan. 24 which took the life of Dunham Keith Howze Jr., 18.

The three other injured youths are in Cowper Clinic and Hospital. Attendants there said today that Van Appleton, 18, and Lloyd Nichols, 19, remain in critical condition, although both showed slight improvement. Justin Redman, 18, was in good condition this morning, attendants said.

Borden Society Seeks Oldtimers Of Durham Area

Anyone around here ever lived in Durham?

If so, the Borden County Historical Society is anxious to hear from you. One of the projects on which the society is working is a history of the establishment of Borden County schools and communities.

Durham once was the most flourishing town in Borden County, but it eventually faded.

"There are a few former students of the Durham School that I have not been able to contact," wrote Mrs. Lillie V. Harris, Gail. "I should like for anyone who might be a former student of the Durham school to contact me (Box 64, Gail, Texas) for information so necessary to complete this history."

Mrs. Harris mentioned a former Helen Kiser as being a possible resident of Big Spring. The society was unable to learn her name after marriage and has asked The Herald to assist in locating her as well as a sister, Mammie, and a brother, Braden.

Jaycees Announce Rattler Roundup

The Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce has announced plans for the annual Rattler-snake Roundup. This year's event will be held March 4-6 at the fairgrounds.

Last year, more than 400 rattlers were brought in by amateur and professional hunters. The batch yielded more than 300 pounds of snakes which were killed, fried and eaten on the grounds, and another 300 pounds was sold to a zoo.

Each captured snake was milked and the serum was used for research by the Army Research Team from Ft. Knox, Ky.

Again, a Miss Diamondback beauty contest will be conducted during the roundup, and the winner will be presented at a dance in her honor Saturday, March 5, following the roundup.

Interested applicants should contact any of the following chairmen for the roundup:

Chuck Butts and Henry Hill, project chairman and co-chairman; guides — Max Moore; guide training—Melvin Fryar; admissions — Charles Dodson; snake handling—Sam Pieper; snake killing — Paul Sullivan; pits — Ben Faulkner; ranchers — Alton Marwitz; concessions — Louis McKnight; parade—Lanny Hamby; dance — Charles Bell; Miss Diamondback contest—Joe Matthews; correspondence—Jack Orr; tear down and removal—R. Lee Brown; sanitation—Ted Ferrell; and publicity—Jim Laney and John Anderson.

LETTERS Cites Teen Club Need

To the Editor:

Do you want Big Spring to be a town of teenagers roaming the streets, having wrecks, hanging around the drive-ins? We could be having a good time! What Big Spring needs is a really nice teen club. Some parents won't let daughters go to present facilities. Lots of teenagers can't go to the club on the base, because they're not connected with the Air Force or don't have friends at the base. How about a real nice teen club for Big Spring? I know a lot of parents would be for it, including mine. Parents take action for the benefit of your teenagers.

Rearing Of Children In Cooperatives Watched

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Michigan State University psychologist says some children may be better off if they are raised in an institution, rather than in their own homes.

The observation was made by Dr. Albert Rabin, MSU professor of psychology, who compared at first hand the personality of children brought up in Israeli Kibbutz cooperatives with children reared at home.

In Kibbutz communities, Rabin told a seminar of science writers this week, children generally are turned over to a cooperative nursery shortly after birth, with a nurse in charge of each group of four or five children.

Parents visit the child frequently, and as he grows up the child visits them — but does not live at home.

Rabin said his studies of the Kibbutz-reared child alongside the Israeli child reared in the conventional family setting showed that from the age of 10 through adolescence and then army life, those raised in the cooperative displayed higher intellectual development.
