GRAND CHAMPION STEER AND YOUNG OWNER
Tramp, owned by Dolores Lankford, Gay Hill, Saturday won top honors at the Southwest Livestock Show in Fort Worth.

Champ Title Won By Dolores' Steer

Tramp, the big good-natured Hereford steer that Dolores Lankford took to the Kansas City Royal stock show last summer, came into his own Saturday at the Fort Worth Livestock Show. He was adjudged junior grand champion of that big exhibition and won his post over 400 to 500 entries from all over the Southwest.

Dolores proudly accepted the trophy for the grand championship and also was awarded the trophy as "best steer showman" of the big show.

Tramp, from the Granite Hills Hereford ranch at Llano, will go on the auction block later this week and will undoubtedly bring a fat price for his young owner.

4-H CLUBBER

Dolores is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lankford, who live in the Gay Hill community. She is one of the outstanding 4-H Club members of the Howard County organization.

However, Dolores was not the only Howard County to take high honors at the Fort Worth Show.

Mark and Maxwell Barr, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Barr, Vincent, took first place in summer yearling class, third place in junior calves and 10th place in senior calves. Then the brothers turned around to win first place for the best pen of three steers shown by any one exhibitor.

SECOND PLACE

They won this victory over a fellow Howard County club member — Ronnie Haney. Haney took second place for the best pen of three steers shown by a single exhibitor. He also won an 18th and a 13th place in the individual animals.

Another placing for the Howard County clubbers was a 14th spot taken by Dolores Lankford in the light weight division.

Don Brandenberg, assistant county farm agent, said that the Howard County boys and girls performed sensationally at the big Fort Worth Show.

TO KANSAS CITY

He had made the trip with Dolores to the Kansas City Royal where Tramp made his debut in the show ring. He won first place in his own division at this show but was not able to grab off the coveted purple of the grand championship. However, Dolores won the showmanship award at Kansas City.

His young owner was disappointed but was not daunted. She continued to groom and shape up her big pet. His victory Saturday at the Fort Worth Show, renowned as one of the toughest competitive events of its kind in the Southwest, proved her belief in Tramp's qualities to be sound.

Signup At HCJC Will Continue

Registration is continuing all this week at Howard County Junior College.

To Saturday noon 787 had cleared the business office, and enough others had signed but not yet paid to make the total 800. It is possible another 100 may sign before deadline falls on Feb. 7.

Some students had the mistaken idea that if they did not sign up the first day they could not register, said college officials. Registration can be accomplished all this week from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. or from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. However, officials urged prospective students to sign on a soon as possible so as not to miss any more classwork than is necessary.

Trio Found Innocent In Drug Trial

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal court jury that spent nine months hearing evidence of fraud and conspiracy in the promotion of the drug Krebiozen found Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, an internationally known physiologist, and two others innocent Saturday but continued its deliberations of evidence against Dr. Stevan Durovic, the drug's discoverer.

The jury of seven women and five men returned its verdict for the three after 40 hours of actual deliberations that began at 4:46 p.m. Tuesday.

"GREAT VICTORY"

Ivy, 72, jubilant over the verdict, hailed it as "a great victory for freedom of medical research."

"I will continue my research on cancer," he added. "I shall continue my research on the anti-cancer substance that exists in the human cells and blood system."

Ivy has contended that Krebiozen is that type of substance.

The jurors also returned an innocent verdict for Dr. F. P. Phillips, 53, a Chicago physician, and Marko Durovic, an attorney and brother of Dr. Durovic.

Dr. Phillips laughed when asked his reaction to the verdict but said he was leaving any statements to his attorney, Maurice J. Walsh. Marko Durovic said he would have no comment because "my brother is still on trial."

After delivering its verdict, the jury returned immediately to continue deliberations on the evidence against Dr. Durovic. At 6:30 p.m. the jurors recessed deliberations until Sunday morning.

DECLINES COMMENT

Assistant U.S. Atty. William J. Hurley who directed the prosecution also declined any comment, saying, "The jury is still deliberating."

Ivy said he wanted to express his thanks "to the thousands of people who wished me well."

Then in a new plea for what he described as a thorough test of Krebiozen, he said:

PLEA FOR TEST

"This controversy cannot be settled by the results of this verdict—it must be settled by the scientific method. What we must have is a cooperative clinical test by an arbitration-type committee."

"The basic issue here, the thing for which I've been fighting for 14 years is that when an individual's work opens up a new substance, that substance should be investigated and not condemned without clinical testing. Krebiozen should have been tested back in 1951."

Viet Policy Storm Raging In Senate

Didn't Turn Off The Water

Wintry Storms Numb Many U. S. Sections

By The Associated Press

Record-cracking cold, drifting snow and gale force winds socked and shocked huge sections of the nation Saturday.

A blizzard swept across Tennessee, blanketing the state with mounds of snow.

The massive midwinter storm dumped a foot of snow on Pine Bluff, Ark., seven inches on Little Rock, Ark., and four to 10 inches in Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia.

FOOT DEEP

Cleveland, Miss., reported a foot of snow and Houston, Miss., 11 inches — and the Weather Bureau predicted the mercury would dive to 8 below zero in northern Mississippi during the night.

Exposure and frostbite sent five men to the Cook County Hospital in Chicago where the minimum of -16 tied a mark for Jan. 29 that had endured since 1873.

RECORD LOWS

Record lows for the date included: Norfolk, Neb., -34; Des Moines, Iowa, -23; Milwaukee -23; Rockford, Ill., -19; Grand Rapids, Mich., -16; Kansas City, Mo., -7

Memphis, Tenn., had 6 above zero.

Two Coast Guard tugs left Baltimore to clear ice from the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, which links Chesapeake Bay with the Delaware River.

Gale warnings went up along the East Coast from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to Cape May, N.J., and from Bock Island, R.I., to Eastport, Maine.

The Weather Bureau saw no signs of relief. It predicted the intense cold will hold firm in the subzero North, while much colder weather will spread into the Southeastern states and Florida Saturday night and Sunday.

U.S. Experiment Station To Close

A federal government facility which has served the West Texas area for more than 50 years seems destined to fade out as a victim of the new budget.

Announcement has been made by the Department of Agriculture that for the federal fiscal year beginning next July 1, there are no funds for the continued operation of the U. S. Experiment Station, in north Big Spring.

The Department said that arrangements are being made for reassignment of personnel presently at the station. There are seven individuals employed there.

STAFF

Bill Fryrear, superintendent who also is research agricultural engineer, is in charge of operations. Others are Dean V. Ambrust, expert on wind erosion; Ralph Hadley, technician; Vic Jackson, technician; Grady Randal, technician who is ranking member of the staff in seniority and who has been carried under a special appropriation; plus two clerks. Attached to the station is Darroll Eaton, specialist for the range and forest division in the studies of grass.

The elimination specifically comes through the Agricultural Research Service, has a part of reduction in expenditures ordered by the administration under the new budget.

COMMITTEE HEARING
Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman is scheduled to go before the House Appropriations Committee, of which Rep. George Mahon is chairman, next Thursday, for a review of items in the agriculture budget, which has experienced sharp over-all cuts. There was no indication whether the committee would act on any change from the department's decision.

There were indications as early as last fall that the station here might be scheduled for elimination, and Congressman George Mahon expressed an interest in its continuation. However, the congressman more recently said "this seems to be in line with the pruning of many items that might be done without seriously injuring government programs."

It was pointed out by some sources that, over the years, the state of Texas has developed extensive agricultural research stations; that several such projects are carried on in the state under special foundations; and that schools like Texas A&M and Texas Tech are serving the need with their own special research programs.

Marine Landing Biggest In Viet

QUANG NGAI, South Vietnam (AP)—Thousands of U.S. Marines landed Friday south of this central lowlands town in what was described as the biggest amphibious assault since Inchon in the Korean War.

The announcement of the landing was delayed by military authorities until Sunday for reasons of security.

Their objective was to seek out and destroy North Vietnamese regular troops and hard core Viet Cong units operating in Quang Ngai province. The Viet Cong have been in the area, about 325 miles northeast of Saigon, for many years. It is their central lowlands stronghold.

The Marines met no resistance when they hit the beach shortly after 7 a.m. Friday under a hazy sky and intermittent light rain.

On Saturday, however, the Marines exchanged scattered shots with local Viet Cong guerrillas, killing at least one, wounding and capturing another and taking five suspects.

One Marine battalion, between 450 and 500 troops, had a moderate encounter with an estimated Viet Cong platoon of about 25 men fighting a rear guard action. Marine casualties were light.

RECENTLY ARRIVED

The first battalion ashore Friday was one which had arrived only recently in Viet Nam.

Several thousand Marines came ashore in almost twenty craft from the U.S. 7th Fleet. Marine briefing officers said it was the largest amphibious assault since Inchon. Tanks were landed with the troops.

Morse Asks End To LBJ 'War Power'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate was asked Saturday to withdraw its broad authorization for President Johnson's conduct of the war in Viet Nam and institute a thorough investigation of the U.S. role in that conflict.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a persistent critic of Johnson's Southeast Asia policies, presented two resolutions as Senate debate over Viet Nam mounted. Both were referred to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

One resolution would "hereby terminate the provisions of the resolution commonly referred to as the Southeast Asia Resolution."

REPEL ATTACK

That resolution was approved by Congress in 1964 with only two dissenting votes and gives the President authority "to take all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the armed forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression."

The second Morse resolution would direct the Foreign Relations Committee "to conduct a full and complete investigation of all aspects of U.S. policies in Viet Nam and in connection therewith shall hold such public hearings as it shall deem advisable."

In a vigorous attack on U.S. involvement, Morse called the conflict "an undeclared and illegal war" and urged anew that the problem be turned over to the United Nations. He directed particularly heavy fire at the 1964 resolution.

APPEAL DISMISSED

Johnson cited this resolution Friday in dismissing the appeal of 18 senators who wrote him asking for further consultation before any decision is made to resume the bombing of North Viet Nam. Morse and Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, signers of the letters, were the only members of Congress who opposed passage of the 1964 resolution.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who opposes resumption of the air strikes, has contended this resolution did not authorize action "that might well lead to a world war."

But Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the assistant Democratic leader, told his colleagues that the 1964 resolution was "a declaration of war."

APPROVE WAR

"It gave approval for acts of war and we are at war right now," he said. "That's what our boys are doing over there."

Morse replied that Johnson hasn't asked for a declaration of war because "that would put it squarely up to the people whether they want to go to war and I am satisfied the answer would be 'no.'"

Mrs. Wood Enters District Clerk Race

Mrs. Winnie Ruth Wood announced Saturday that she is a candidate for the office of district clerk of Howard County. She is entering in the Democratic primary May 7.

WINNIE R. WOOD

Mrs. Wood is a member of a pioneer family and is an experienced legal secretary. Her parents are Mrs. W. A. Prescott and the late Mr. Prescott. She is the wife of Milas Wood. They own their home at 3209 Eleventh Place and have one daughter, Kathie, 15. Mrs. Wood is a member of the Wesley Methodist Church and a charter member of the Howard County Legal Secretaries Association.

She began her career as a legal secretary for S. Walton Morrison when he was serving as county judge, and has had 14 years in this specialized field. Mrs. Wood also was employed for two years by the military intelligence.

Upon completion of her high school studies here, she completed a business course and began her secretarial work. Two years ago she made a race for this post but was prevented by her schedule from an extensive campaign as she wanted to make. However, she received such a fine vote that Mrs. Wood said she felt obliged to offer again for the office of district clerk.

"The office of district clerk is an important part of our system of jurisprudence, and it is logical that a competent and conscientious clerk can lend efficiency to our courts," she said. "My training and experience as a legal secretary has made me thoroughly familiar with the duties and obligations of the district clerk. I believe I am qualified by background to serve you effectively as your district clerk, and I will dedicate myself to serving you promptly and well. I have a deep feeling that efficiency can be combined with courtesy and a concern for the public in such a way that the people will be equally and justly served, and that the court will be helped in its administration of justice.

"I am asking voters of Howard County to give me an opportunity to serve in this important position. I will make every effort to see voters personally and make a sincere request for their votes. I know it will not be possible to see everyone, try as I may, so please consider this Diane Tipton, who wakes the me thoroughly familiar with the duties and obligations of the dis-

New Faces Due In House

AUSTIN (AP)—Redistricting, retirement and hopes for political promotion will change Texas House membership by nearly one-third this year.

Add to this the chance that aggressive Democratic or Republican opponents may defeat some 150 incumbents.

House redistricting wiped out 16 rural seats and gave them to populous Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and Fort Worth. Most of the 42 members faced with the prospect of running against another incumbent decided either to retire or to run for higher office.

Four, possibly five, races pit incumbents against each other. UP FOR GRABS About 40 House seats are up for grabs with no incumbent running.

Sources close to Speaker Ben Barne say indications are that most members of Barne's House "team" will either be unopposed or will not face strong opponents.

About 100 House members have either filed or announced for re-election. Several have shown some hesitancy, and their plans may not be known until the Feb. 7 filing deadline.

Races for the new big city seats—plus some places being given up by incumbents—are expected to generate most of the excitement. Only two Bexar County (San Antonio) incumbents are seeking re-election—Reps. Tom Lee and Jake Johnson.

Incumbents are expected to square off in these races: Mack Edwards of Pattonville and Neal Solomon of Mount Vernon; Don Hefton and Vernon Beckham, both of Denison; Glen Johnson and Charles Wheeler Jr., both of Temple; Felix McDonald of Edinburg and Gregory Montoya of Elsa; Temple Dickson of Sweetwater and Roger Brown of Big Spring.

A race between representatives also will develop at Amarillo if Rep. J. M. Simpson seeks one of Potter County's two places. Reps. Walter Knapp and Hudson Moyer already have announced.

SENATE CANDIDATES Veteran House members not seeking re-election include Charles Wilson of Trinity, who is running for the Senate; Jack Woods of Waco; Bill Parsley of Lubbock, now vice president for development at Texas Tech; Charles Whitfield and Wallace Miller of Houston, both running for the Senate; and V. E. (Red) Berry of San Antonio, a senate candidate.

Five of Fort Worth's six incumbents seek re-election, some of them facing stiff opposition. The city gained a seat by redistricting.

Most incumbents from Dallas County which gained five places, seek re-election. These include Rep. Ben Atwell, chairman of the House Tax Committee, and John Field, the 1965 House "Rookie of the Year."

Kids Support Viet Nam Policy

Youngsters Favoring U.S. Viet Nam Policy

By TOM BARRY The effects of the war in Viet Nam can be felt thousands of miles away—by politicians, the electorate, demonstrators pro and con—and in Big Spring, where vibrations have reached into Big Spring High School.

Reaction to the war and its implications recently came from three Big Spring High junior classmen, David Thomas, Larry Arnhart and Dale Pless. They were discussing, these 16-year-olds, Viet Nam over the noon meal at the school cafeteria. More particularly, they were discussing draft-card burners, beatniks and the image given by a loud-mouthed minority to the majority of teenagers. These boys felt something should be done.

Others were listening to the discussion. Ten in all decided that the thing to do was to get 500 students to sign petitions saying they, even though non-voting teenagers, support the present policy of the US in Viet Nam. When signed, the petitions will be sent to members of Congress.

Forms were printed, permission of school authorities was granted to pass them out and post them on the bulletin board, and by Friday more than the original goal of 500 signatures of students had been obtained.

Also, the group gave itself a name—Big Spring Youth for Freedom in Viet Nam.

Five hundred students represent more than one-third of the entire student body of the high school, according to the youthful chairman of the organization, David Thomas.

"We expect more, and will not close our signature drive until Tuesday," he said. "We have had surprisingly little opposition to the drive," he continued. "We've had more trouble with students signing two or more petitions each than with those who refuse to sign."

David said only three students have refused to sign the petition because they favor getting the US out of Viet Nam; and a few more refused to sign because they think the war ought to be accelerated. Four purposes unite the 10 members of the organization to disavow the draft-card burners; to show the adult world how they feel; to encourage representatives in government; and to support the present policy in Viet Nam. Some of the members of the group, like young Thomas, are strongly conservative in their political views; others are on the left side of the fence; and there are some who are middle-of-the-roaders.

After the petitions are signed, they will be divided into three groups of about equal numbers and mailed to State Sen. John Tower; Omar Burleson, representing the 17th District; and George Mahon, formerly representing the 19th District.

"We hope we have a better chance of the petitions having more weight by sending them to the three individuals rather than to President Johnson," Thomas said, "after all, in a few years we'll be the ones fighting in Viet Nam if the war goes on, and it is an election year, even though we can't vote yet."

About 12 teachers are helping the group in one way or another, Thomas said, putting petitions up in classrooms and passing them around in government classes.

Will the petitions do any good? "Well," Thomas said, "let's say our hopes are moderate."

"We thought we should do something," Thomas said. "We are hardly the type to demonstrate in the streets, and we know that petitions don't normally get a lot of results, but we wanted to speak our piece."

The vigor with which the 10 members of the organization are presenting their case for the several teachers have announced open support of the campaign, according to Thomas, indicates that something beyond ignoring the normally quiet, "average" teenager, should result.

Crop Still Expected To Hit 45,000

"Final report" of the Texas Employment Commission on the cotton ginnings for the 1965 Howard County crop were posted at 41,565 bales this weekend.

It was pointed out that the figure is not the real total for the crop. This will not be completed until the middle of February when all cotton has been cleaned up. Meantime the weather kept strippers from the fields already almost 100 per cent stripped.

TEC still holds to its prediction there will be 45,000 bales ginned in the county by the time the crop is completed.

Ginnings last week were 150 bales. This is the lowest total since the harvest first began. Bad weather as well as the nearly complete crop kept the ginning totals low.

Cotton still unpicker is in scattered fields over the county. There is enough such cotton, TEC checkers believe, to aggregate 3,000 or more bales to bring the ultimate final figure to 45,000.

Quality of the cotton now being ginned is low, and the price has been dropping sharply.

Cox Announces Re-Election Plans

M. Fern Cox has announced his candidacy for re-election as District Clerk of Howard County for his first full elective term. Cox was appointed District Clerk on Jan. 1, 1963, and in 1964 was elected for the unexpired term of two years.

As a Democratic candidate, Cox states:

"Although it has only been a short time since I contacted most of you while running for the unexpired term, I will do my best to see each of you personally asking for your support for a full term."

Cox was raised on a ranch in this area and comes from a pioneer family of Howard County. After serving in the Army Air Corps for 3½ years during World War II, he returned to ranching. He has attended San Angelo Business College and Howard County Junior College. In 1954, Cox joined the sheriff's department of Howard County and was serving as chief deputy sheriff when appointed to the office of District Clerk. As chief deputy, Cox established the worthless check department which is still in operation.

In addition, this office handles all passport applications originating from this county and surrounding areas.

"I have tried to operate my office in an efficient manner and point out with pride that the annual Howard County audit stated 'Good records and good control were found in this office. Bank accounts and court cost deposits were reconciled monthly, and all funds were found to be in good order.'"

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Police learned why a Houston man may have waited more than 24 hours to report a burglary. His clothes—all except a pair of undershorts — were stolen while he slept. He had no telephone in his motel room.

FRIDAY JUST WASN'T POOR NENESIE REYNOSO'S DAY

How bad can things get? Nenesie Reynoso, 46, reported to police Friday night that he had been given a ride by a Negro man and Mexican man when he wanted to come to Big Spring from Lenorah.

Near here, he said, the pair took him on the Andrews highway, slugged him and took $350 off his person.

Police listened to his story, wrote down a description of the pair who he said had robbed him.

Then they put Reynoso in the city jail.

The interview had revealed that he was in this country illegally and he will be held for the U.S. Border Patrol. Meantime, the two alleged robbers have not been found.

Six Listed Hurt In Plane Crash

DALLAS (AP) — Six persons were injured, two seriously, Saturday when a small, private plane crashed while attempting to make a landing at Dallas' Love Field.

Lynch, 25, and Mrs. Doris C. Owens, 65, both of Wichita Falls, Tex. Both were at Parkland Hospital. Lynch was believed to be the pilot of the plane.

Sands Senior Wins In Event

SWEETWATER — Margie Newman, 17, Sands high school senior and daughter of Mrs. Fay Newman, 3394 Drexel, Big Spring, was one of three first place winners in the scholarship competition at Sweetwater's Democratic Women's 24th Senatorial District Art Exhibit Saturday.

THE WEEK

(Continued from page one) They may have dropped too far behind to win the title, but they will have a big voice in the final outcome. Meanwhile, the HCJC Hawks have fallen on evil days, dropping the last eight games. Friday night was another heart-breaker, a 61-60 loss to Odessa J.C. The Hawks look good but just can't seem to break the game open at the opportune moment.

Johnson Holds Off Bombing Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson withheld a decision on bombing North Vietnam again Saturday amid a papal appeal, Senate criticism and an unexplained reduction in guerrilla assaults in South Vietnam.

At the same time his intelligence reports showed Hanoi is continuing to send men and materials into the South. North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh issued apparently his clearest rejection yet of Johnson's peace feelers and many U.S. military leaders and congressmen backed early resumption of air strikes on the North.

Rail Mishap Is Spectacular

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP)—A freight train slammed into a derailed baggage car at the end of a passenger train headed the opposite direction Friday night, sending three diesel units and 42 loaded freight cars off the track and setting off a spectacular series of events.

The White House promised "prompt and full study" of Pope Paul VI's suggestion for ending the war by a U.N. arbitration through neutral nations.

Traffic Mishaps Laid To Weather

Icy streets and cold weather was blamed for a rash of accidents, most of which were minor, on Big Spring streets from 6 a.m. Friday to 10 p.m. Saturday.

There were 18 accidents reported to city police in the interval — eleven of which occurred from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday.

WEATHER table with columns for City, Max, Min, and a forecast for Sunday.

Three Young Crash Victims Some Better

Condition of three young Big Spring residents, injured gravely in a one-car accident last Monday night, were reported in slightly improved condition Saturday at local hospitals.

Tracy Faulks, 18, who underwent brain surgery Friday and had been reported in critical condition, was said Saturday night to be slightly improved.

Justin Redman, 18, fourth victim of the crash, is in good condition at the Cowper Hospital. He escaped with far less serious injury than his companions.

A fifth youth, Dunman Keith Howze, Jr. was killed in the wreck.

REPORTED BETTER Three other patients at the Cowper Hospital, whose condition has been listed as serious, were somewhat better Saturday.

Billy Mesker, who is hospitalized with a serious knife wound in the abdomen, was reported in fair condition Saturday morning.

Harold Little, taxidriver, badly beaten by two fares in Snyder, was also listed as being in fair condition. Randy Atwood, a Midland fireman, injured seriously in a car-truck crash early last week is recuperating, the hospital reported.

PAT NELSON'S Y BRANDING IRON HOT Sets pace for current membership campaign

Y Membership Effort Surges

The weather got colder but the YMCA membership enrollment got hotter Friday.

Reports Friday evening almost doubled those earlier in the week, and the campaign hit $7,924, or more than half its target. The sustaining division under Mrs. Odell Womack reported $6362 or 64 per cent of its goal.

Because slippery streets prevented many of the workers from making reports, John Berry, chairman of the participating division, announced that a regular report session would be held Monday at 5 p.m. at the Y. Based on the tempo of the campaign, he looked for another good report session then.

Cleanup efforts will then be organized for the balance of the week.

He emphasized that everyone is invited to join the Y. Numerous calls have been received at the Y of people volunteering their membership, and Berry urged others to call so contacts can be made.

The hottest salesman to come down the pike, possibly the hottest ever in the history of the local Y, is Pat Nelson. So far he has personally accounted for $334 in memberships during the current campaign. Pat has signed up more than two score HCJC students for college memberships, and he's still going strong.

A new crop of quota-busters was reported from the Y, and included are Frank Hardesty who had been out of town most of the week, John Berry, Joe Pickle, Mrs. R. C. Armstrong, Lowell Jones, Frosty Robison, Mrs. R. G. Bortner, Dr. J. P. Darby and Dr. Charles Warren.

Mrs. Jack (Little Fawn) Cathey's Seminole tribe was setting the pace for the enrollment with $2,716.50 in memberships. Trailing were the Cheyennes, headed by D. O. (Running Bear) Farley with $2,054; the Navajos, led by J. W. (White Eagle) Dickens, with $1,619; and the Apaches, wafted along by Frank (Big Wind) Hardesty, with $1,523.50.

Johnny Baize Rites Today

Services for Johnny Brandt Baize, 29, 1213 E. 17th St., who was killed Friday in a truck accident near Sweetwater, will be held today at 3 p.m. in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Paul Keele Jr., Denison Church of Christ, will officiate. Grave-side rites and burial will be Monday at 2 p.m. at Crowell.

An employee of Gosden Oil and Chemical Co., he leaves his widow, Mrs. Donna Baize, Big Spring; two daughters, Tanja Gail Baize and Paula DeAnne Baize; two sons, Ronny Dale Baize and Johnny Brandt Baize II; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Baize, Big Spring; and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Baize; three brothers, Reed Baize, Los Angeles, Calif., Don Baize, Arringer, and Lanny Baize, Big Spring.

Pallbearers will be Gary Cagle, Ronnie White, Jimmy Tucker, Don Tidwell, Reppie Guitar Jr. and Nathan Hughes.

Ackerly Mayor Nominated For Postmastership

ACKERLY — Travis Russell, mayor of Ackerly, has been nominated by President Johnson to be postmaster of Ackerly. His name was included in the list of nominations for postmasterships sent to Congress by the President Friday.

Russell, who is a long-time resident of Ackerly, formerly served as clerk in the post office when John Rudeseal was postmaster. Mrs. Russell has been acting postmaster since Rudeseal resigned to accept appointment as rural route carrier.

Ackerly OKs Water Bonds

ACKERLY — Ackerly citizens Saturday approved in top-heavy fashion a plan to provide their town with a water system. An election on a proposal to build a municipal water system was endorsed 68 to 2 J. C. Moore, judge of the special election, held at the Sands High School, estimated that 65 per cent of the town's eligible voters balloted in the election. Ackerly has no public water supply at this time. Residents and business establishments depend on wells. Under the plan approved Saturday, the city aldermen will set up plans to issue not to exceed $131,000 in bonds. These bonds will be offered for sale on the open market with the interest rate not to exceed 5 per cent.

ALTERNATIVE PLAN Should the bonds fail to sell, the community will seek a 40-year loan for the building of the water system from the Farmers Home Administration. The debt will be paid out of revenue derived from the sale of water to the subscribers. All bonds will carry a provision that no tax money is to be used to retire any of the issue.

The city aldermen will use the money to acquire land on which to drill wells, purchase pumping equipment and water lines and build adequate storage in the community for its needs. The aldermen have already taken an option on some land near the town where good water sands are believed to be located.

The aldermen are Bill Hambrick, Tommy Horton, Travis McCarty, Obrien Bowlin, Jack Archer, and Travis Russell, mayor.

FOUR COUNTIES The estimated population of Ackerly, which is located on the edges of four counties, is 700. Under the plan, no citizen would be forced to attach to the water system. He can continue if he wishes to make use of his water well.

"I have a fairly good well on my place," said one Ackerly resident, "but if they put in a water system, I'll be happy to abandon my well and tie on to the system. I think nearly every resident here feels the same way."

Airman Gamez Wins Honor

Airman I. C. Roberto M. Gamez, drivers school instructor, was selected Air Base Group's Airman of the Month at Webb for January. He is presently enrolled in Howard County Junior College.

He is married to the former Blasa Velez. He and Mrs. Gamez have two children: Ricardo 4; and Ramon, nine months.

Speaker Snowed In, But Legion Inducts Members

Bad weather took its toll on the American Legion Friday, depriving it of the state department commander as a speaker for a special initiation.

Clayton Mann, who heads Texas Legionnaires, was weathered in at Wichita Falls and couldn't get here for the annual initiation ceremonies. Mann also planned to use the occasion to honor Carl Knappe, local commander, and Byron Hill, vice commander, as well as members of the membership committee for having exceeded the post's 1966 membership goal.

Standing in for Mann was division commander Jack Flynt, Dimmitt. Flynt had been in Abilene chartering a new business and professional men's Legion post and was able to get here.

Ed Fisher headed a large group of past commanders and officers of the local post who served as a welcoming committee for Flynt. Fisher also stepped in to deliver the principal address at Legion Hall, calling for a reawakening of all Americans to their individual responsibilities as citizens in a free society.

Flynt pointed out that Legionnaires had always taken the lead in safeguarding the principles of justice, freedom and democracy. The Legion is the largest service organization in the world devoted to this purpose, he added.

Following the ceremonies, a fish dinner was served to approximately 100 Legionnaires. Several special presentations were made by Ellis Schmid, Slaton, 19th district commander, and by Commander Knappe. Recipients were Byron Hill, for signing up 100 new members, and CM. Sgt. Herbert Smith for signing 25. Among visitors were John Huckabee, Brownfield, division adjutant.

Woman, Charged In Shooting, Posts Bond

Eagle Award

Jerry Lewis, member of Post 19, sponsored by the Big Spring Herald, has earned his Eagle badge, highest honor in Scouting. He did part of his work in Troop 9 and Sea Scout Ship 111. Jerry, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Lewis, 1295 E. 18th, also holds the 250-mile hike and physical fitness badge given by the late President Kennedy. He was one of the group who hiked from here to Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains.

Ex-Railroader Stamps Dies

R. A. Stamps, 85, retired Texas and Pacific brakeman, was found dead at 10:20 a.m. Saturday in his room at the Neel Courts, 108 Nolan. Officers said the man had been dead since early Friday.

Walter Grace, justice of the peace, ruled death due to natural causes.

FINDS BODY Mr. Stamps was found by the manager of the courts who became alarmed at not seeing the old man and went to the cabin to investigate. He found the body in a chair in the room.

Mr. Stamps was an early day railroader in this part of the country. It is said he began work as a brakeman in 1908 and retired in 1945. For many years he made his home here with a sister. She died some years ago.

The body was taken to the River-Welch Funeral Home where it is being held pending completion of funeral arrangements.

CONTACTS SON The funeral home said that it had been in contact with a son, W. D. Stamps, who lives in Bakersfield, Calif. He has told the funeral home he may not be able to come to Big Spring.

Details as to the funeral service are incomplete but it is known Mr. Stamps will be buried in City Cemetery beside the grave of his sister.

School Aid For Coahoma

COAHOMA — W. A. Wilson, superintendent of Coahoma Independent School district, said that his district has been allocated $12,284 under the recently approved federal aid to education act.

Wilson said that the apportionment of the money is based on the number of pupils in the school district whose families have specified low incomes. He said that the money has to be used for special assistance to the children from the low income families.

One feature now planned is a visiting teacher to go into the homes of needy pupils. Wilson said he hoped to start this program soon but the first task is to find a teacher.

Most Fliers Stay Down

By JERRY MONSON

The big thing at Howard County Airport this week was the March of Dimes Airlift last donated by the area flying clubs and individual pilots, and $415 was collected for the March of Dimes. Although the weather was chilly and there was still some snow on the ground, the airlift was considered a success by Mrs. Betty Ray Clifton, chairman.

Flying activities had slowed to a near halt the previous week, as West Texas got a bit of unexpected weather. About the only thing Big Spring didn't have during the week was a dust storm. Howard Loyd, Big Spring Airlift reported only three up all week, Dub Clifton, lineman for Big Spring Airlift, in the Tri-Pacer; and Wayne Bartlett and Clayton Bettle, Big Spring Flying Club, up in the Colt.

Howard County Airport had the chairman of the Texas Aeronautic Commission, Shelby Kristen, as a brief guest last week. Kristen was on a cross-country from Austin to Amarillo when his plane collected ice particles. He landed at Howard County Airport to melt the ice and gas up.

B. G. Weaver, part time instructor at Big Spring Airlift, returned a Cherokee 140 to its owner in California last Saturday. The plane was forced to land at Hamilton Field and was put in Cecil Hamilton's hangar, northeast of town. Hamilton took the owner to the Midland Terminal, where he caught a jet for California and Weaver promised to return the plane as soon as weather permitted. In the meantime, the plane was reported missing. A three-county search was launched in this part of Texas, while it was safely in Hamilton's hangar.

The 1966 Directory of Texas Airports will be off the press within a few days. Copies may be obtained from the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

Big Spring Flying Club had James Merrick up in the Colt and Norma Porter in the Cessna this week. Wayne Bartlett took a cross-country in the Cessna, while Jack Little had a cross-country scheduled for Saturday.

Howard County Flying Club had only two members up in the Colt this week, Zan Dawson and D. R. Bates. The club's Cherokee is still out of commission.

Howard and Don Loyd of Big Spring Airlift flew to Lubbock Thursday in the Comanche for a Piper dealers meeting. Loyd reported about 10 out-of-towners gassing up at the airport this week.

Taylor Smith was up in his Mooney with Pat Petosky for a lesson.

Family Now 'Gem-Mining'

VALLEY VIEW, Tex (AP) — The Frank Neu family anxiously awaited Saturday a thaw in the ground so it could resume its private diamond mining operation.

Glenn Neu, 13, is careful that each of his departed pets receives a ceremonial burial on the family farm near this North Central Texas town.

When his goldfish perished a few days ago, he found a suitable coffin and buried the pet. Now he can't recall where the burial took place.

The coffin was Mrs. Neu's jewelry case which contained her engagement ring placed in the case because the gem was loose in its setting.

The value of the diamond could not be determined.

DEAR ABBY

All Goes Up In Smoke!

DEAR ABBY: My husband worked in his father's business for 25 years as a salaried employee. He was an only son, and his father always told him that when he (Pop) retired, the business would be my husband's. Five weeks before Pop's 68th birthday, which was to be his retirement date, the business burned down, leaving my husband unemployed at the age of 43. When the fire sale was completed and the property disposed of, my husband held out his hand for his "share." His father asked, "Did you put any money into the business?"

Of course, the answer was no. But, Abby, my husband put 25 years into it! And this is the same business that was going to be his in five weeks. What do you think of a deal like this?

FORT DODGE, IOWA

DEAR FORT DODGE: I think your husband "got the business."

DEAR ABBY: My wife reads your column religiously, and I read it when she makes me.

She has a 51-year-old brother we think should be married. He is good-looking, dresses well, drives an expensive car, has a secure job, money in the bank and a pleasing personality. There is nothing wrong with him, Abby. We have fixed him up with lots of dates. He always enjoys himself, but unless someone arranges a date for him he is just as happy being without one. I thought maybe you had a list of Lonely Hearts' Clubs we could draw from. We don't know any more eligible ladies he hasn't taken out. Thank you.

WANTING TO HELP

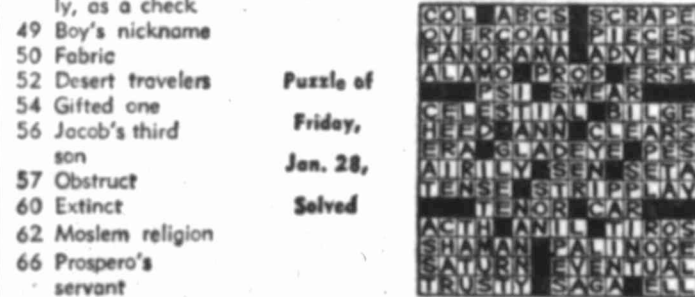

DEAR WANTING: Show me a good-looking, 51-year-old bachelor with a secure job, pleasing personality, money in the bank, who dresses well and drives an expensive car, and I'll show you a man who can find his own wife. If he wants one, that is.

DEAR ABBY: Here is the background. Eleven years ago I married a widower with three sons and one daughter all under 10 years old. Their father had seven housekeepers and none of them would stay, so the children were put in a home. Then he married me, and out of the home they came for me to raise. The daughter, who will soon be 21, is engaged to be married. She was impudent to me so I hit her. She hit me back and broke my eyeglasses. (She is five inches taller than me and at least 30 pounds heavier.) Her father witnessed the whole scene and didn't say a word, nor did he raise a hand to defend me. I told the girl she would have to pay for replacing my eyeglasses. She refused, so I took her charm bracelet to hold for security. She had her wedding invitations printed with only her father's name on them. I told him that for this humiliating deed he should not give her away at her wedding, but he says he is going to anyway, and if I don't like it I can stay home. Should I go to the wedding? HURT

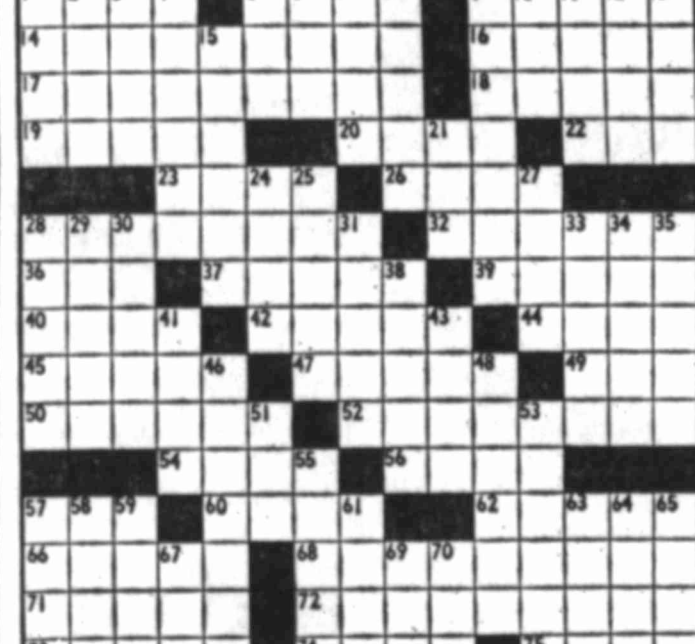

DEAR HURT: No. And if I were you I'd see a lawyer about provisions for my old age. From what you tell me about your husband and his children, when you have outgrown your usefulness, there's no telling what may happen to you.

Investors Betting On Two Beatles

LONDON (AP) — How long can the golden Beatles, now in their middle 20s, keep coming money?

Certain investors are betting that at least two of the four — John Lennon and Paul McCartney — can do it indefinitely, until they're old and gray.

BUYING SHARES These investors are buying shares of stock in the pair's talents as composers. They have been making a big new spurge on London's financial pages.

The excitement concerns the fact that the price of stock in the Lennon-McCartney company, Northern Songs, has been scoring new highs. It recently hit 17 shillings and sixpence — $2.45. This represented a gain over the last year of 11 shillings and sixpence — $1.61.

For the composer pair this meant a huge paper profit. When their company was launched publicly on the London Stock Exchange two years ago each had shares worth about $1 million. At the high each had gained between $750,000 and $1 million, various financial columnists estimate. In the same bracket are Dick James, a former crooner who is managing director of Northern Songs, and Brian Epstein, who is manager of all four Beatles and holds a block of Northern Songs shares.

Conger Throws Hat Into Pct. 2 Race

Bill Conger, Forsan, has announced that he will be a candidate for Commissioner of Precinct 2 of Howard County, subject to the Democratic Primary. Conger has been a resident of Howard County since 1923, coming from Sterling City during the oil boom days. He has been a resident of the Forsan community since then, living in the Cosden Camp. He was employed by a drilling company until 1936, at which time he became employed by the Cosden Petroleum Corporation as a pipe line gauger, a position which he still holds. Conger is married to the former Clarie Brauer of Sterling City. They have a son, William Conger, a student at North Texas University, and a daughter, Bettye Conger, a sophomore at Angelo State College. Mrs. Conger teaches in the Forsan school, a position she has held for the past 25 years. Conger is a member of the Coahoma Masonic Lodge, Big Spring Elks Lodge, Cosden 25-Year Club, past president of the Forsan Service Club; served as deputy sheriff from 1930 to 1964, and no pay; was elected constable of Forsan for two terms; and has been active in Howard County 4-H Club work for many years.

BILL CONGER

"I believe that I know the precinct well enough to understand its needs and problems, and that I could be of help and service to its residents. I am willing to cooperate with the other commissioners in any project which would mean an improvement and advantage to our precinct and the county as a whole."

Light Plane Contract Bids Are Requested

Invitation for bids for the T-41A light plane contract has been released by the Webb Air Force Base Procurement Office. Bids will be opened on the base at Withycombe Hall, Feb. 28, 1966, at 1 p.m.

The training in the T-41 aircraft was held at Howard County Airport last year. It is the initial phase of flying training received by the student officers of Webb's Undergraduate Pilot Training Program. The pilots receive 30 hours of flight instructions before completing their training in Webb AFB's T-37 and T-38 jet aircraft.

The new contract, will cover a 13-month period from June 1, 1966, to June 27, 1967. Most notable of the several new requirements in this year's contract is the responsibility of the civilian contractor to perform engine overhaul.

Other changes include the stipulation that the runway, landing strip, taxi areas, and parking areas must be paved surfaces and that the office facilities must have minimum interior cooling and heating. Requirements for a security guard and for on-field crash fire protection complete the new features of the contract.

The flying program is the same as last year with the base of operations required to be in the vicinity of Webb Air Force Base within one-hour traveling time by Air Force bus.

HURD'S WORK IN LOCAL POST OFFICE
 One of his early works, original in White House

Original For Hurd's Work Here Hangs In LBJ Foyer

The painting which Peter Hurd used to get the contract for the Big Spring post office mural hangs in the foyer leading to the office of President Lyndon Johnson from that of his appointment secretary. Howard Taubman, writing for the New York Times Syndicate, noted this in his story about a portrait of the President which Hurd had been commissioned to do. The story, in addition to telling about Hurd's portrait of the President and the possibility that another smaller one will be done, brought out that two other Hurd paintings are on loan to the White House. One is "O Pioneers," a tranquil scene of a pioneer family before a dugout hut. Hurd used this color sketch for the mural commission he received after contests by the procurement division of the treasury department. The other painting, "West Bound Mail Stage," was also for a similar purpose. Hurd, a now-noted New Mexico artist, then converted his painting for the Big Spring post office into a fresco mural, the first he had ever done. He added local landmarks, including Signal Mountain, and drew on some local models. A meticulous worker, Hurd even used samples of cloth to paint the clothing for his pioneer family. Each day George Winslow, who helped him with the work, mixed up a small amount of plaster to Hurd's exacting specifications, and the artist then painted on the wet plaster. A quiet, modest man, the willowy and sand-haired Hurd had the appearance of a cowhand fresh off the range. This was an accurate impression, for Hurd and his wife, the former Henrietta Wyeth, live on a ranch in the Hondo Valley near San Patricio, N. M. The young artist had styled his original sketch "O Pioneers," but he enlarged this inscription by telescoping two unrelated lines from Walt Whitman. The mural's fame is widespread, and Life magazine once sent a crew here for several days to make a color photo of the fresco and included it in one of its series on contemporary art. Since then, numerous other publications have used pictures of the mural. Two years ago Hurd was commissioned to clean and touch up the mural, but he could never work it into his schedule. When plans for a new post office were announced local interests went into action to assure the mural will be preserved. Since July, Hurd has been working on the presidential portrait commissioned by the White House Historical Association to hang in the White House. Hurd, however, said he thinks he may have to do a smaller portrait than the one he is working on. "They haven't said so in so many words," Hurd told Taubman in a telephone interview, "but I think the Johnsons don't

Prestige Plates Come As Surprise

One of the "prestige auto plates" which will be seen on the roads in these parts is just a little embarrassing to the man who owns and drives the car it designates.

The plate, one of nine of the special tags received here, bears the legend "Mr. O." It will be on the car of Thirston G. Orenbaum, 504 Dallas. However, the fact that it is there is not a thing Mr. Orenbaum planned.

Orenbaum is a 30 year veteran with the Texas State Highway Department and is senior resident supervisory engineer in the Midland office. He is known to all his associates affectionately as "Mr. O."

A number of his fellow workers in the office decided to give Mr. O a surprise. Without his knowledge, they arranged for the issuance to him of the prestige plate bearing his nickname.

The first Orenbaum knew of the gesture was when it was too late technically to do anything about it but thank his fellow workers for their good intentions. "Mr. O," explained a friend, "just isn't the kind of fellow who goes in for things like this. Chances are he may be just a little embarrassed by the attention the special tag will attract to him."

Base Closure Due In '68

WASHINGTON (AP) — A B52 bomber wing will remain at Amarillo Air Force Base until March 1968, the Pentagon announced last week. The base had been scheduled to be shut down this summer.

In releasing the announcement, Texas members of Congress said they were told the base will be shut down in June 1968 as scheduled under a revised general Defense Department order curtailing military establishments across the country.

An estimated 1,500 military personnel and 50 civilians at Amarillo are affected by the order. The effect of the new order would be to give civic and business leaders of Amarillo a chance to work on a transition of the base into other than Air Force uses.

This would mean less hardship to the area than if the bomber wing had been moved out next summer, Rep. Walter Rogers, D-Tex., and Sens. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., and John Tower, R-Tex., said.

Dog Slaying Damages Paid

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Georgia farmer has been awarded $300 by a legislative committee because his coon dog was killed by an employee of the State Game and Fish Department. The dog owner, Willard York of Sauttee, Ga., had asked $1,200. He said his 4-year-old hunting dog was killed by a state biologist two years ago on a state game reserve. York said his dog was trained to run only raccoons and the biologist had shot the dog because he thought the dog was chasing deer—which is illegal. The biologist was fined $200.

Teammates Tie Indoor Marks

BOSTON (AP) — Willie Davis and Theron Lewis, teammates at Southern University, matched indoor records in the 45-yard hurdles and the 400-yard run Saturday night in the Boston A.A. indoor games.

seconds for the hurdles while Lewis went the 400 in 48 seconds flat, matching the indoor record set by Wendell Motley of Yale in this meet two years ago. Lewis' record run was even more outstanding since he wasn't pressed at any time and may have been a bit eased up at the end.

He took the lead at the outset and held it all the way. He finished some eight yards in front of Tim Johnson of Morgan State, second in 48.7. Davenport's time for his flight over the three high hurdles matched the record set by Charles Hlad of Chicago in 1942. The event, it must be noted, is at an unusual distance and is not often scheduled. Most indoor hurdles are at 50 or 60 yards, but is restricted in this meet by the size of Boston Garden.

Sam Perry of Fordham won the 50-yard dash in 5.3 seconds, matching the meet record. Darrel Newman of Fresno State, with Perry as co-holder of the indoor record at 60 yards, scratched from the final after a slight muscle pull in the semis. Tommy Farrell of St. John's, this country's best in the 800 Meters at Tokyo, ran just well enough to win the 600 in 1:09.5. The stylish little middle distance man ran fourth most of the way, swept into the lead on the final turn and won it eased up.

Dave Hemery of England, now a student at Duke University, came up to take second in 1:09.8.

Elements Force Tourney Delay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Heavy rains, whipped by 35-mile-an-hour winds, caused postponement of Saturday's third round play in the $57,600 Lucky International Open Golf Tournament.

The third round will be played on Sunday, with the 18-hole finals Monday over the Harding Park Municipal Course. The forecast Sunday was for showers and variable cloudiness with decreasing winds.

Twenty players had finished their third round in quest of the $5,500 first prize. Two were under-par. But all scores were wiped out by the postponement.

Frank Beard, the second round leader at 133, nine under par, had played four holes and was one over par when acting PGA Tournament Supervisor Steve Shabala first called a 45-minute delay. When the storm failed to slacken play was cancelled.

Arnold Palmer, who finished his second round with a 139, was one over par for the six holes he had played Saturday.

Yearlings Claim Midland Crown

MIDLAND — Big Spring Runners, using a stall to good advantage, won the Midland Junior High School Basketball tournament crown here Saturday night by defeating Odessa Permian in the finals, 58-50.

Runnels had sidelined Odessa Blackshear in the semifinals, 65-59, while Permian was rallying to upset the tournament favorites, Bowie, by three points.

Five free pitches by Luvon Flores late in the title game swung the issue Big Spring's way. Claud Tucker of Big Spring scored 34 points against Blackshear and 30 against Permian. Runnels trailed by a point at half time in the title bout but turned all burners to win. The Yearlings now have a 15-3 record.

The Runnels team, coached by Dan Bustamente, has played here five times and been in the finals twice previously but never had won the title.

Lemm Named Houston Oiler Coach Again

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Wally Lemm became coach of the Houston Oilers again Saturday — the sixth head coach in seven years for the American Football League team.

Lemm, 46, who quit as head coach of the National League St. Louis Cardinals 20 days ago, returns to the oil job he gave up with a perfect record in 1962. He went to St. Louis at that time, and Frank (Pop) Ivy came to Houston from the Cardinals in an unofficial inter-league coaching swap.

Lemm replaces Hugh (Bones) Taylor at Houston. Taylor was fired Jan. 18.

Lemm's appointment was announced at a news conference by Oiler general manager Don Klosterman, who fired Taylor just six days after Klosterman was named general manager by Oiler owner K. S. (Bud) Adams. Klosterman said Lemm had 13 rebounds for Tech.

Dub Malaise Leads Tech To 108-90 Win At Rice

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Tech, paced by the shooting of Dub Malaise and the rebounding of Bob Glover, raced past Rice 108-90 in a Southwest Conference basketball game Saturday.

The loss was Rice's 13th straight this season. The Raiders, now 6-8 for the season and 3-1 in the conference race, gradually pulled away in the last 10 minutes.

Malaise, with 27 points, was one of six Red Raiders who scored in double figures. Malaise hit 9 of 16 from the field and 9 of 9 from the foul line. Glover scored 19 points and

League Resumes Activity Monday

The YMCA Adult Men's Basketball League will resume its regular schedule Monday. Games that were to be played Jan. 25 will be played at the end of the season, March 7.

League Order Is Challenged

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Circuit Judge Elmer T. Roller ordered the National League Saturday to show cause why the trial date for Wisconsin's antitrust suit should not be advanced.

Roller had set the date last week for March 7. But Saturday he signed an order to the National League to show cause at 10 a.m. Monday why the trial should not be advanced no later than Feb. 21.

The jurist acted at the request of Willard S. Stafford, special counsel for the Wisconsin attorney general.

Earlier Saturday, Atty. Gen. Bronson La Follette said he would seek the earlier trial date because of the league's "open defiance" of the Wisconsin court.

Warren Giles, president of the league, said Friday the league had authorized the Braves to fulfill their obligation in Atlanta and disregarded an order issued by Judge Roller Thursday instructing the Braves to prepare to play in Milwaukee this season.

The Braves had asked that the trial date be postponed to June 1 and the state had pressed for a start of the proceedings this week.

Cooper Winner Over Lee Five

MIDLAND — Abilene Cooper upset Midland Lee, 72-65, in a District 2-AAAA basketball game here Saturday night.

The defeat knocked the Rebels into a tie for third place with Odessa and Big Spring, each with a 5-4 record. Cooper is 4-5.

Mark Withrow had 35 points for Cooper and Ken Cauble 26 for Lee.

Veteran Pros May Rebel Over Rookies' Largesse

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Pro football, which found a pot of gold at the end of a television rainbow and now is painting its players green, may be heading for a major revolt among veterans over the astoundingly lucrative contracts that have been given to rookies.

In the past months stories reporting dissatisfaction among veteran players have been rising to the surface and, if the scattered statements reflect a general harboring of resentment, the big blow-up could come at contract-signing time.

LOTS OF SIGNS

—San Diego coach and general manager, Sid Gillman, revealed that Ernie Ladd and Earl Faison, two all-American Football League defensive standouts, have "insisted on bonuses before signing a contract."

—AFL Commissioner Joe Foss, in voiding a trade involving Ladd and Faison on charges of tampering with Houston owner Bud Adams, quoted Ladd as saying, "If the man Adams is willing to give up four players for me, he must be willing to give up a lot of money."

—The St. Louis Globe-Democrat quoted a source close to the Cardinals as saying that some veterans "were in a state of near mutiny" last season when they began "probing rookies about their salaries and found most of them were making unrealistic sums."

—Nick Buoniconti, all-AFL linebacker for the Boston Patriots, said if "the clubs can hand blank checks to rookies, they can give veterans what they are worth." He also said if he wasn't happy "I might subconsciously affect my play... so I'd rather play out my option."

—Ladd and Faison had announced that they were playing out their options along with four other AFL players—Buffalo kicker Pete Gogolak, Kansas City tackle Ed Budde, Denver defensive back Goose Gosline and flanker Bo Roberson, who played with both Oakland and Buffalo. Budde and Roberson now are signed but the others remain unsigned.

—Ray Nitschke, Green Bay linebacker, was the only NFL player to state publicly he was playing out his option, but he eventually signed. However, it is known that some NFL players went through the 1965 season without renewing their contracts.

—Linebacker Larry Morris of the NFL's Chicago Bears said he had an agreement with owner coach George Halas "that I would be traded if I would agree to play with Chicago in 1965." He said pointedly he wanted to play for Atlanta.

What apparently is happening—and there's little doubt that the six-figure, no-cut contracts for rookies have triggered the storm—is that the veteran players are using the option clause in their contract as a lever in an attempt to get heavier salaries.

IS OBLIGATED

In pro football, if a player signs for one year he is under option to play for the same team again or become a free agent, making his own deal with another club in any league.

Only four players ever have played out their options and moved on. The latest case was Ron Kramer, who went from Green Bay to Detroit last year. In two other intra-league hops, Art Powell went from New York to Oakland in the AFL and R. C. Owens went from San Francisco to Baltimore in the NFL.

Willard Deweall, a receiver for the Bears, hopped from the NFL to the AFL when he joined the Houston Oilers a few years ago.

The commissioners, Foss and Pete Rozelle of the NFL, have taken a different view of the situation.

Rozelle said the huge bonuses paid out "will continue as long as NFL teams have sufficient income to pay for quality players. The bonuses paid a year ago certainly didn't seem to hurt our game."

While that didn't actually touch on the resentment veteran players might be feeling, Foss said "the owners soon will get tired of paying out money for college stars."

Foss also said it had to be "demoralizing for other members of a professional team to know that a youngster just out of college is getting three times as much as a veteran in the pro ranks."

NAMATH STARTED IT

The entire problem started last year when the prices being paid rookies began to rise, reaching a high with the $400,000 paid quarterback Joe Namath by the New York Jets. Then, this year, some of the reported figures began to make Namath look like a pauper.

Four players who signed this year—Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski, Green Bay; Johnny Roland, St. Louis, and Tommy Nobis, Atlanta—received contracts reportedly worth $500,000—or more.

It has been estimated that this year's 20 highest paid rookies signed for a total of about $7 million, with $25 million a close guess as to what the 24 pro teams laid out altogether for the college crop.

There are two sides to the figures also—with some insisting the prices are inflated while others say they are underestimated.

The prices not only were high but there were reports that certain players had "must-get" tags placed on them and were being fought over not only because of their football talent but because signing them would be a victory in the publicity battle between the two leagues.

There followed the first signs of discontent, with the option clause the main lever. Sifting through all the discontent always seems to throw the spotlight on the bonuses being paid untried rookies and the fact many were kept on the team because they had no-cut contracts.

According to the St. Louis paper, one member of the Cardinals said "if the money being paid those taxi squad players could have been divided among the players who really deserved it, you would have seen some guys play football last fall." Cardinal President Charles

Bradley Wins Sullivan Cup

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Bradley, the spectacular basketball star who epitomized the All-American ideal, was named the winner Saturday of the Sullivan Award as 1965's top U.S. amateur athlete.

The former Princeton player, now a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, was chosen in a poll of 486 sportsmen, sports writers and broadcasters conducted by the Amateur Athletic Union.

Bradley is the first basketball player ever selected for the award, which was established in 1930, and the first team sport athlete to be named since Army football star Arnold Tucker was chosen in 1946.

Swimmer Don Schollander was last year's winner. Bradley was placed first on 124 ballots, second on 67 and third on 31, and received 882 points on a 5-1 basis.

Behind him in the voting came five track and field men—Ralph Boston, Randy Matson, Marine Lt. Billy Mills, the late Capt. Ron Zinn and Gerry Lindgren. Cathy Ferguson, the swimmer from Los Angeles, was seventh. Bradley climaxed his sensational collegiate career by leading Princeton to a surprise third place in the NCAA tournament. He was the complete player—exciting, unselfish, inspiring and amazingly talented.

The handsome student-athlete from Crystal City, Mo., was the first draft choice of the New York Knickerbockers, who reportedly offered him upward of $100,000 to become a pro. But he chose instead to take advantage of the Rhodes Scholarship he won and now is in his first of two years of study in England at Worcester College, Oxford.

PETE ROZELLE

Bidwell denied there was any mutiny on the club but admitted about the bonus situation.

"Were any of our players unhappy about the big contracts given rookies?" Bidwell asked rhetorically. "Of course they were. So were we. We didn't like the idea of paying out big bonuses to untried players any more than anybody else does."

Buoniconti also is supposed to have suggested that some of the bonus money could have been spread among veterans and, in commenting on the Ladd-Faison deal before it was nullified, said, "I know both Ladd and Faison were very happy about going to the Oilers."

"This means they played out their options because they were unhappy with one club and got what they wanted from another team. A precedent has been set."

Gillman, meanwhile, in revealing that Ladd and Faison had asked for bonuses, said sharply:

"Bonuses are one-shot deals for rookies. If we began giving bonuses to veterans, it would be the end of pro football."

But, said San Diego halfback Keith Lincoln after the trade was voided and Ladd and Faison returned to the Chargers: "The commissioner can't void their memories of the money offers they have already received."

And, as everyone knows, money talks. Only it appears now that not only the rookies but the veterans have big ears and similar-sized hopes.

U.S. Netters Win Crown

By GORDON TAIT
Associated Press Sports Writer

SYDNEY, Australia, (AP)—The United States enjoyed a big day at the Australian National Tennis Championships Saturday with Nancy Richey and Carole Graebner winning the women's doubles title and Arthur Ashe gaining the final of the men's singles. Miss Richey, from Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. Graebner, of Beachwood, Ohio, defeated defending champions Margaret Smith and Lesley Turner of Austria 6-4, 7-5 in the final at White City to give the United States its first Australian women's doubles title since Shirley Fry and Althea Gibson won it in 1957.

Ashe, of Richmond, Va., and UCLA defeated Australia's No. 2 ranked Fred Stolle 6-4, 1-6, 6-3, 10-8 and said later it was the biggest tennis finale he ever had reached.

Ashe, in the final Monday, will meet Roy Emerson, the Wimbledon titleholder whom he has defeated in their last three tournament meetings. Emerson turned back countryman John Newcombe 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2 in the other semifinal.

Ashe's win came after a series of racket changes and he later said this helped him. He took three to the court and made his first change in the fourth game and immediately broke through Stolle's service.

He changed again in the third set when Stolle, serving, had the advantage. He dropped the game and then cracked Stolle's service.

After that he changed rackets every game, using one for serving and one for receiving. In the second set he had an extraordinary lapse, losing 21 of 22 successive points played. At that stage he looked beaten but he came back strongly.

Miss Richey and Mrs. Graebner obviously had a plan and that was to give as much of the ball to Miss Turner as they possibly could and keep it away from Miss Smith, Wimbledon champion and seven times holder of the Australian crown.

Many long rallies were played entirely by Miss Turner but perhaps the American girls need not have gone to all that trouble. Miss Smith was very low form and more often than not when she got the ball, she muffed the shot.

Cage Owner Optimistic

CHICAGO (AP)—What respective divisions, probably will flip a coin at the NBA's new member of the National Basketball Association, to make a $1.6 million rush into an arena well established as the arena of professional basketball?

"The game never was properly exploited in Chicago," said Dick Klein, leader of a five-man Bull ownership.

This should bring a knowing grin from George Halas, who failed in two pro cage tries with his Chicago Bruins; Abe Saperstein, whose Chicago Majors and American Basketball League both collapsed, and Dave Trager, who had to move his Chicago Zephyrs to Baltimore as the Bulls.

Trager's Zephyrs and the Chicago Stags, operated by the late Judge John Sbararo in the 1940s, were two NBA predecessors of the Bulls in this city.

Klein, 44, head of a sales promotion company and once a baseball chattering of the Cleveland Indians, is optimistic about the Bulls, who start operating next season with a flock of expendables from the other nine league members and small chance at big name collegians in the NBA's May draft. They will pick 10th and last in the first round.

"It'll take a couple of years to break even financially, but with proper promotion, I'm sure we will make money eventually," said Klein, former Northwestern University pitcher who had an 11-4 record in the Indian farm system in 1941.

Klein admits the Bulls would have a great gate draw in All-America (Cazzie) Russell of Michigan, a former Chicago prep star, but said they had to forego a shot at Cazzie to get the NBA franchise.

The key to league approval (requiring a 7-2 majority) for a franchise was wowing the vote of Fred Zollner of the Detroit Pistons, who covets Russell as a neighborhood superstar.

The Pistons and the New York Knicks, currently last in their Rusty McDearman bucketed 14 points for Abilene while Jody Mayes led Midland with 14.

Gift By Busch To Help Game

By WICK TEMPLE
Associated Press Writer
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The temperature was 17 degrees and a cold wind was blowing when Gussie Busch walked onto the infield grass at venerable Busch Stadium this week. It was hard to think about baseball until you saw that three-and-two twinkle in Gussie's eye.

"This is a good thing," he said. "But it's going to be an awfully sad day when we play our last game in this park."

Busch, the man who saved the Cardinals for his city by buying them in 1953, was giving the oldest ball park site in baseball to the Metropolitan St. Louis Boys' Club for use as a mecca for kids.

Such disposal of the park is bound to bring cheer to the baseball fraternity, the boys who wake up at night thinking about the historic old park being turned into an apartment complex or a shopping center.

After all, they turned Ebbets Field in Brooklyn into apartment houses.

Busch's Cardinals will open the 1966 season in the old park then play their final game there May 8 before moving into St. Louis' gleaming new $8 million downtown sports stadium May 12.

A ceremony is planned for that final game in the old ball park. But since it is going for this use, the occasion is bound to be less than funeral.

The playing field will still be in use. "After all," said Richard H. Amberg, publisher of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and president of the Boys' Club which will assume the park, "thousands of youngsters are going to be able to stand the hallowed ground where Stan Musial and the other greats helped write the history of baseball."

Busch's gift, plus $500,000 which the boys' club hopes to raise in a fund drive, will convert the stadium into a complex with playing fields, a gym, swimming pool, and various educational shops and clinics.

Busch, president of Anheuser-Busch Brewery, bought the Cardinals for $3,750,000 and the ball park for $1.1 million in 1953 when Card owner Fred Saigh got into income tax problems.

That was the year Bill Veeck moved the old St. Louis Browns, the first operatives in the ball park, to Baltimore. Gussie, like most St. Louisans, couldn't bear to see the game leave the city altogether. A Milwaukee group was dickering for the team.

The site of the old ball park, at Grand Dodier Avenues in congested North St. Louis, is the oldest plot of ground upon which baseball has been played continuously.

Garden City Teams Win In 67-B Competition

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City High School basketball teams will stay busy the coming week.

Both the boys' and girls' contingent see action Monday and Tuesday at home, meeting first Bronte and then Water Valley. Coach Theora Calverly will take her girls to Abilene Thursday to take part in the annual Hardin - Simmons tournament. The Kittens oppose Eula in first round competition.

Garden City scored a sweep in its District 67-B games Friday night in Sterling City. The girls ran up a record 101 points in defeating the Sterling City, 101-39. Garden City is now 5-1 within the league. Rosanne Foster led Sterling with 27 points while Brenda Ja-

Wranglers by eight buckets from the field but missed two 1-and-1 free shots late in the game that could have been the difference. In all, the Hawks made only ten of 19 gratis pitches, compared to 27 of 35 for Odessa.

The HCJC gang was also inept on the boards, grabbing off only 25 caroms all night. For the game, the Hawks made 53 per cent of their field goal tries.

Kurt Papp of HC had three fouls charged against him early in the game and sat out much of the first half without making a point. He sizzled for 14 after the intermission, however.

Jack Hosley tallied 13 and Charles Vass ten for the Big Spring club.

Rusty Heskett led the Odessans with 18 points, 12 of which he converted at the free throw line.

Chuck Ramsey contributed toward the Wrangler effort with 14 points while LeRoy Walker settled for 15.

Buddy Travis, team built up a 31-28 advantage at half time but went four minutes without a bucket after play was resumed and that proved costly.

Three members of the HC team—Henry Willis, Leon Smith and Barry Hughey—fouled out of the contest. It was a new experience for Hughey, sitting out part of the game in the penalty box.

Clay Concedes His Bragging Merely An Act

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cassius Clay says his weigh-in tantrums, "I am the greatest" front, and other eccentricities attributed to the heavyweight champion are just an act.

In a five part interview with Philadelphia sportscaster Jim Leaming (KYW-TV) Clay also said boxing's survival depends more on "more white hopes," that he does not have nor need a killer instinct, plans to get married again, and may become a world traveler when his ring career is over.

Clay says his pronouncements of invincibility, his poetry gimmick and other unusual actions were all part of a carefully planned program to lead him to the heavyweight title. He claims it all started while watching a wrestling program on television.

"There was this wrestler, I think his name was Gorgeous George," says Clay. "He was shouting, 'I'm going to annihilate the bum, kill him, pull his hair, he better not show up.'"

Clay said he decided to become the bad guy as a gimmick to help make himself a game attraction.

This he claims, started him waxing poetic predictions on the outcome of his fights, screaming his invincibility, describing himself as beautiful. "I talk too much because it makes people come and see me, hoping I'll get beat," he says.

"I tricked them in. Of course I had to back up what I said. I did and I ran after the fight to the bank."

Clay says his biggest gimmick was the scene at the weigh-in before the first title fight with Sonny Liston. He apparently went berserk, wanted to fight Liston on the spot, screamed and carried on so that doctors said he wasn't fit to fight, was scared to death.

"I had the whole world press there and took advantage of this great publicity," Clay says. "There was Liston full of confidence, so I told my handlers I was going to jump him, but to grab me and hold me, to be sure and not to let me go. This was my biggest day in boxing as far as promoting a fight. I was nervous, but didn't believe I would lose."

Clay says he is nervous before a fight, but not from fear of an opponent.

"I'm nervous that some little accident like twisting an ankle, getting a thumb in the eye that blinds you and then you get hit and go out. You've thrown millions down the drain. I think you have 45 minutes to live like a king, to stay the heavyweight champion. I'm touchy of everything around because there is so much at stake."

Longhorns Turn Back Odessa High, 56-45

ODESSA — Big Spring continued its sensational basketball play in District 2-AAAA here Friday night, routing Odessa High by a score of 56-45.

The Longhorns, who have now won five of their last six starts, built up a 16-point lead at one time and had no worries near the end of play.

Coach Allen Simpson got fine performances out of his entire starting group, particularly Sherman Terrazas, Paul Thomas and Robert Jackson. Terrazas didn't score a field goal all night but his passing was tremendous and his defense played was outstanding.

Thomas rebounded like a demon, playing far and away his finest game of the season. He emerged with 23 points, tops for the game, and grabbed off a dozen caroms.

Jackson kept the Steers at bay, rolling and settled for 20 points.

Odessa's Terry Pieper, who carried a 21.1-point average into the game, scored three baskets early in the game but Robert Jones set down on him after that and Pieper had to settle for 14 points.

Odessa tried to press the Steers all the way but that defensive stratagem is beginning to backfire against the opposition. Odessa's Gene Johnson, who had been averaging 14.5 points per start, was limited to a mere four points.

Odessa led by scores of 42-54, 7-6 and 9-8 early in the game but Big Spring was in command, 17-11, at the end of the first period and at half time, 31-17.

Pieper and Charles Medlin of the Bronchos fouled out during the contest while Jackson of Big Spring departed for that reason late in the battle.

Big Spring now has a 15-10 won-lost record and is 5-4 within the circuit, which ties it for fourth place with Odessa High. Over-all, Odessa is 13-9.

The Longhorns will be at home twice this week, meeting Cooper Tuesday night and Permian Friday.

Odessa roughed up the Big Spring Shortorns in the B contest, winning by a score of 73-39. Danny Clendenin scored 14 points for the Dogies in the encounter while Wayne Johnson added ten.

Champ Foursome Is Back

By TOMMY HART Coahoma High School had every member back from that 1965 crack mile relay team that broke the old Class A state record (although running third at Austin) but Johnny Gibson probably won't come out for track this spring.

Bobby Weaver will replace Gibson in the foursome, which has as other members Marshall Williams, Wayne Oglesby and Mike Mosley. The Bulldogs ran a 3:25.3 at Austin. Mosley, of course, will be seeking to break his own record in the 880. He negotiated the distance in 1:55.6 in Austin last May, a full second under the previous standard.

San Francisco was asked to bid for the 1972 Olympic Games but officials there turned thumbs down to the idea. The '72 Games likely will not be held in the Western Hemisphere, anyway.

Remember Ray Norton, a great runner in college (at San Jose) but a flop in the 1960 Olympics? He's running as a Republican for the State Assembly in California.

He's now a partner in a service agency for attorneys around Oakland. In its first four Western Conference basketball starts, Odessa College lost the two games it played at home and won the two it had on the road.

Odessa has never gone after Negro talent and won't until cafeteria privileges are provided on campus. Coach Larry McCulloch doesn't like the idea of taking the boys downtown for their meals.

The 1967 Texas Coaches Association school will be held in San Antonio July 30-Aug. 3 while the 1968 meeting goes to Fort Worth. Only one of the American baseball league's top earned-run-average leaders last year was as much as 30 years of age.

The American Football league's highest paid assistant is Houston's Walt Schlinkman, the former Texas Tech great, who earns $15,000 per annum. J. B. Wetsel, the Myn's new golf pro here, will discuss "golf club repair and service" at the PGA business school starting at the El Tropicano Motel in San Antonio Feb. 7.

Wetsel will be one of more than 100 students enrolled in the five-day clinic. Everything from first aid on a golf course to income tax and investment courses will be included on the school's program.

Webb Man Given Pistol Award

Col. Chester J. Butcher, commander 356th Pilot Training Wing, awarded S. Sgt. Don R. Robb, small arms instructor, the Command Silver Excellence-In-Competition Pistol Certificate at a recent wing staff meeting.

Sgt. Robb earned the certificate in recognition of his marksmanship achievements during the 1965 All Air Force Individual Service Pistol match held at Lackland AFB last June 3.

Sgt. Robb qualified for the award by virtue of sustained, superior shooting.

Maxie Baer Heart Fund Drive Under Way Here

The Big Spring Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles has launched a fund-raising drive for the Max Baer Heart Fund.

The nationwide campaign has raised more than $600,000 since it was established in the name of the late heavyweight champion was established in 1960.

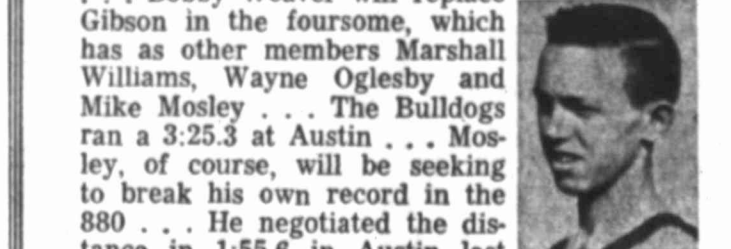

Money raised in the drive, though local Aeries, is given to medical schools, clinics, hospitals and research laboratories to discover newer and more effective methods of combating heart disease or preventing its causes.

Last year, the fraternal organization made research grants totaling $150,000 to Ohio State University, the City of Hope, the University of Toronto, St. Francis Hospital in New York, the University of Minnesota and the University of Illinois, all from the Max Baer Heart Fund.

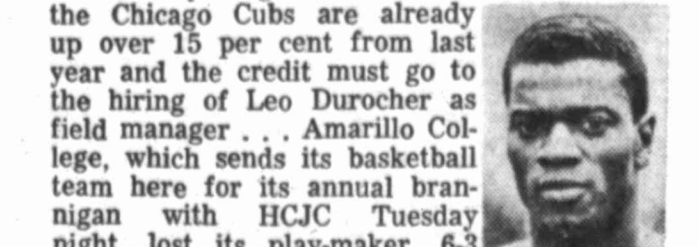

Maxie was a victim of a heart attack. After refereeing a boxing match in Las Vegas, Baer flew to Los Angeles and was in his hotel room when the coronary struck. He staggered to the phone and asked the operator to send a doctor.

"The house doctor?" she asked. "No, I'm not a house," he quipped. "Send a people doctor." These words are among the last he ever spoke and typified his gay approach to just about everything.

Active chairman of the fund is Jack Dempsey. Members of the advisory panel include Bud-Boyer (Max's brother), Jimmie Braddock, Tony Galento, Gene Fullmer, Carmen Basilio, Ancl Hoffman (Maxie's manager) and others.

One Week Left For Candidates

One week remains after Monday for candidates to enter their names in election races scheduled for 1966. C. V. Riordan, County Democratic Committee chairman, pointed out Saturday. Deadline for a candidate to file for an office is Feb. 7. Candidates must have handed their proper declaration of intention, accompanied by a fee of $50, to the county chairman or before that date to be asunderwriter, who has filed for this post.

Rep. Temple Dickson, Sweetwater, has also filed officially with Riordan for the 72nd district post. Rep. Roger Brown, Big Spring legislator, has already filed.

There were reports of other possible candidates in the field, but Riordan said he had no other official entries.

When the lists have been closed after Feb. 7, Riordan and his executive committee will determine the primary assessment fee to be levied against each candidate. The $50 filing fee is a part of this assessment.

Later the committee will meet to determine by lot the position of candidates names, in races where more than one is running on the primary ballot.

Father And Son Sweep At Odessa

ODESSA — James R. Perry, 30, made it a father-and-son sweep Friday evening when Odessa Jaycees conferred on him the Distinguished Service Award. The week previous at the Odessa Chamber of Commerce banquet, his father, Charles R. Perry, had been named as Odessa's outstanding citizen.

The elder Perry is chairman of the board of Odessa's First State Bank, and the younger Perry is vice president. Charles Perry, who also is president of the Colorado River Municipal Water District board of directors, is the father and James Perry is a brother of Kenneth Perry, formerly of Big Spring, vice president-marketing of Cosden Oil & Chemical Company.

Star To 'Invade' Russia By Phone

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Ruta Lee plans another invasion of the Soviet Union.

The vivacious star is working now to bring her aunt, Mrs. Antose Straznickienė, out of Lithuania.

Don't bet against Ruta. Soviet authorities won't.

In 1964, after eight years of trying to get her 85-year-old grandmother out of Lithuania, Ruta picked up the phone and called Nikita Khrushchev. She didn't get the Soviet premier but she got somebody in the Kremlin who said he was Khrushchev's English interpreter.

"It cost me $200 to talk but I got action," recalls Ruta. She took the desperate measure when she got word that her grandmother was dying.

"I had been around Hollywood long enough to know that if you want something done right now, you go right to the front office. Don't deal with the hired help."

After the phone call her visa was okayed by the Soviet Embassy in a matter of hours. The next day she and her Lithuanian-born parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kilmonis, were en route to the village of Daugu, the home of her grandmother. A few weeks later, the grandmother was living in Hollywood.

"Her health is fine," says Ruta. "And she loves it here, but she is lonely for her other daughter. So I'm going on the phone again. There's a new headman in Moscow now but I think I'll get the same results. They couldn't have been more cooperative before."

Ruta, busy as ever in movies and television, is also returning to her first love — singing and dancing.

Christian Worker School To Begin

Registration fee is $2.50. A nursery will be provided. Methodist churches participating in the school are Kentwood Methodist, Coahoma Methodist and Wesley Methodist Church.

Harold Perdue, Wheeler.

She has been making practically a career of the Mary Martin role in theater-in-the-round versions of "South Pacific."

"WING INTO SPRING"

Spring hair styles are for the birds—literally! Destined to be the most popular styles are the Dickey-Bird hair fashions—lighthearted and gay styles that will help you wing into spring with a fresh and romantic outlook. The new styles, harmonizing with new wardrobes, will be shown throughout the nation in observance of National Beauty Salon Week, Feb. 13-19.

The new Dickey-Bird styles feature a small head look, almost a petite look, accented with softly waved hair that flips up into a crest on one side. Chic hair is short hair for spring, and the one color look is definitely out. Instead, there will be "echo coloring," a combination of natural shadings and harmonizing colors to enhance the design of the coiffure.

Forum Unit Hears Talk On Heart

The Big Spring Progressive Forum met Thursday with Mrs. Ed Corson, 3002 Parkway, to hear a guest speaker Dr. C. L. Ainsworth, chairman of the Howard County Heart Council.

Introduced by Mrs. Hugo Campbell, Dr. Ainsworth showed a film as he pointed out that February is Heart Month and that members of the council are all volunteer workers.

He said that over 10 million people in the United States have heart disease of some form and that one million persons die each year from the disease. The money that is collected during February goes for research and new developments in treatment and diagnostics. Also, it is used on advanced training for heart specialists and to train nurses to better qualify them to work with heart patients. He noted that a local nurse has taken advantage of this training.

A part of the money is used for public and professional education including free literature made available to the public. He showed the film, "Common Heart Diseases and Their Causes," which told how to live with this problem.

Mrs. Buddy Redden presided, and appointed Mrs. Joe L. Ward to the project committee. On the nominating committee are Mrs. D. G. Whitten, Mrs. Granville Hahn and Mrs. Morris Robertson. Mrs. Robertson reported that the annual party for husbands and guests will be Feb. 19 in Big Spring Country Club.

Miss Jones Recites Vows With Airman 1. C. Joe Lee Howell

Miss Judith Ann Jones exchanged wedding vows with Airman 1. C. Joe Lee Howell in a Saturday evening ceremony at the Downtown Church of Christ in Lamesa. Wesley Mickey, pastor, officiated for the double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Jones, Star Rt. 2, Lamesa, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Howell, Rt. 3, Linton, Ind.

The altar was graced with an archway entwined with greenery and yellow gladioli. Basket arrangements of long-stemmed yellow gladioli completed the background.

The church choir sang the "Wedding March," and a duet, composed of Miss Deborah Johnson and Ed Johnson, her father.

sang "I Love You Truly" and "My Wonderful One."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie. The fitted bodice was designed with a scooped neckline with embroidered white lace appliques on the yoke. The long tapered sleeves ended in petal points above the wrists. Lace appliques accented the waistline and the train.

Her veil of illusion fell from a headpiece of white tulle and peau de soie roses highlighted with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white Sweetheart roses and rosebuds atop a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS
Attending her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. J. G. Fletcher. Mrs. Phillip Jones, Clinton, Okla., was the bridesmaid.

The attendants wore identical dresses of street-length yellow chiffon. The dresses were designed with rounded necklines and long tapered sleeves. They carried bouquets of long-stemmed yellow gladioli.

Airman 2 C. William Lewis was best man, and Airman 3 C. Larry Roddam was groomsmen. Both are stationed at Webb AFB.

Ushers were Airman 1. C. Phillip Jones, Clinton, Okla., and Joel Fletcher, the bride's brother-in-law.

Miss Kellie Sue Fletcher, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

For a wedding trip to El Paso and Mexico, the bride wore a pale pink double knit suit with three-quarter-length sleeves and a V neckline. She wore black accessories and a corsage made from her wedding bouquet. The couple will reside at 310 W. 17th, Big Spring.

The bride graduated from Lamesa High School and from the Isabelle-Powell School of Hairdressing and Cosmetology, Lubbock. She is employed at Atha's Hair Styles and is the second vice president of the Big Spring chapter of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

The bridegroom graduated from Linton Stockton High School, Linton, Ind. He is a member of the Air Force and is stationed at Webb AFB.

ment of yellow gladioli. The three-tiered white cake was decorated with confection yellow roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. M. G. Dropic, Big Spring, was in charge of the register, and members of the house party were Mrs. Don Roberts and Miss Charlene Capps, Big Spring.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hardin, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Baily, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Napps, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shryack, and Mrs. Bill Clark, all of Big Spring.

The rehearsal dinner was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Buster Fletcher, Lamesa.

Western Look Turns To Calico

The western look with its levis, cowpoke shirts and yoked jackets is galloping into a first place fashion spot, the National Cotton Council reports.

Sample: calico printed canvas pants, shaped like jeans, and teamed with a matching voile cowboy shirt in wippette. The tailored shirt with its yoked front tucks neatly into the hip-hiding slim-fitting cowgirl pants.

One maker feminizes the trend with a long, red calico prairie shirt featuring a drawstring waist. The blouse: white cotton eyelet.

STAR ☆ BRIGHT

When Millie goes to bed she stops by the stairway window to say good night to her favorite star. It twinkles in the frosty evening sky, and to me it seems remote and cold. But to Millie, the star is a warm and glowing friend. It's just a matter of viewpoint. A grown-up sees through the eyes of experience. The child gazes through the eyes of innocence. And as we all know, it isn't easy to exchange our experience for innocence again.

Yet, this is exactly what many of us need to do. Many of us need a new approach, a new look at the old things, the old truths. We need to open our eyes, and let ourselves see; to open our ears, and let ourselves hear.

There is no better place to discover this new approach than in your church. In church next Sunday you will find a new point of view. Let yourself see, let yourself hear. You will be surprised at the results.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

PBX Club Has Dinner At Cosden

Members of the PBX Club honored their employers Friday evening at their first bosses' banquet held at Cosden Country Club.

R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, addressed the club on the "Importance of Communication by Voice."

Mrs. John Simunovic, speaking in the absence of Mrs. Verdie Mize, Midland, president of the PBX Operators of Texas, talked to the group on the "Public Relations Team." Mrs. Mize was prevented by weather from attending.

Mrs. Fern Smith, president, reported on projects of the club during the first year of operation. Mrs. Zennia Hare gave the invocation. Hostesses were Mrs. Jane Ray, Mrs. Thelma Rains and Mrs. Betty Daratt. Decorations were pink and white carnations with miniature pink and white telephones in a special head table arrangement, and princess telephones surrounded by greenery were on other tables.

Besides the bosses, other guests included A. D. Tucker, Harry Sawyer, and Clyde Bryan of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

The February meeting of the club will be in the doctors' lounge at Malone and Hogan Clinic, and members will stuff envelopes for the Howard County Heart Association.

Dance Party For Students Held In Hotel Settles

The final party for the current ballroom class of the Big Spring School of Dance was held Friday evening from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. in the studios at the Settles Hotel.

The "Pot of Gold" and "Rainbow" theme was carried out with rainbow-colored streamers draped from the ceiling and dropping into a "Pot of Gold" used as the centerpiece on the punch table. The container was filled with gold-wrapped prizes and yellow flowers.

Standard ballroom dancing was interspersed with novelty and fad dances and dancing games.

Punch and cookies were served.

Parent host couples were Mr. and Mrs. Grant Boardman, Maj. and Mrs. Kenneth Caughron, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Deats, Mr. and Mrs. A. Swartz and Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith.

Mary Frances Newton became worthy advisor of the Order of the Rainbow for Girls during installation ceremonies Saturday evening at Masonic Temple. Mrs. O. L. Nabors is the new mother advisor, and Judy Daniel has achieved the state post of grand drill leader.

The new worthy advisor chose "In His Steps" as her theme and The Cross as her emblem. Her scripture selection was Peter 2:21, and her colors of pink and aqua were reflected in her flower choice of the pink carnation and fern.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

If this isn't winter weather we're having as far as I'm concerned it will do until someone comes along. The only people who can drive with carefree abandon are those who have chains and they don't dare to be carefree too long as the ice has a way of coating over the chains. Probably the best rule of thumb is to stay put until the icy spots can be covered with gravel, etc.

However there are places to go and people to see, as the case may be so most of us will drive slowly and try to keep from being a menace. . . . Easy does it.

If their plans for the weekend worked out COL. and MRS. CHARLES W. HEAD and COL. and MRS. CHARLES H. PIERCE of San Antonio were here with longtime friends. Both couples were stationed at Webb AFB at different times and are now neighbors at Randolph AFB.

MRS. TOMMY STEPHENS is expected back tonight from Florence, Ala., where she went to be with her father who is seriously ill.

ing friends of J. 3. (POP) PICKLE this afternoon at open house at 2803 Cactus between the hours of 3:30 and 5:30.

MRS. JACK F. JOHNSON had a real puzzler the past week when she was keeping her four-year-old grandson, JOHN ROSS PIKE. While his mother joined friends for a bowling party, John stayed with his grandparents and, as is the usual procedure, after lunch came nap time. Although Mrs. Johnson had taught the tike to dial her telephone number and that of his parents, CAPT. and MRS. ROSS PIKE, she never lets him play with the telephone.

He had got off of the bed and while she was resting, listening with 'one ear' she realized that what she was hearing was not all prattle. . . . so she listened with both ears and concluded he was carrying on a conversation with someone. She hurried to the telephone and to her surprise the child's mother was on the 'phone at the bowling alley. Both the mother and daughter were frightened, thinking something had happened to the other. Mrs. Pike was paged at the bowling alley to answer the telephone. So far, no one knows how little John dialed the number for what he calls the 'bowling course,' a combination that covers the sports interests of his mother and father.

In Corpus Christi last week JP saw some former residents: JACK DOUGLAS, who is with the Fort Worth Star Telegram but is still carrying a soft spot in his heart for Big Spring and The Herald. Also MR. and MRS. GARTH JONES (Nancy Phillips) of Austin. She could laugh about the bicycle hike she had planned for her daughter's birthday only to have bad weather fall upon Austin and she ended up with all the girls and their bicycles at her home. . . . Incidents do get funnier after the crisis has passed.

HE MADE A DEAL WITH PANCHO VILLA

McDaniel Had A Hand In History

By TOMMY HART

Sometime around 1920, Clovis E. McDaniel was in Juarez, Mexico, when he was halted on the street by members of a re-treating, panic-stricken crowd and advised:

"Get off the street! Pancho Villa is headed this way and will shoot anyone on sight!"

McDaniel felt no compulsion to duck into a doorway or head for the bridge that led to neighboring El Paso. The noted revolutionary soon came down the thoroughfare riding a horse. In time, he spotted young McDaniel and rode toward him to exchange pleasantries.

RECOGNIZED

McDaniel, now 70 years of age and in semi-retirement at his home at 3322 West Highway 80 here, had had a speaking acquaintance with the hot-blooded Villa before and the famed rebel had recognized him immediately.

Their first meeting had occurred when McDaniel, together with his wife and infant son, had taken up residence on a cousin's spread near Dryden, not far from the Rio Grande River and the Texas-Mexican border.

Villa, an outlaw with a price on his head before he joined the Madero revolt in his native land in exchange for a promised pardon, approached McDaniel one day outside the Texan's homestead and asked for permission to route cattle and horses across the McDaniel ranch into Mexico.

It was fairly general knowledge in that area that Pancho was darting in and out of the United States and helping himself to some of the herds owned by more prosperous Americans.

NODDED ASSENT

Knowing well that Villa and his men could resort to force to get their way if necessary, McDaniel nodded assent to Villa's requests. Never once did McDaniel ask where the stock commandeered by Villa came from, although he could add two and two and get four as well as the next man.

Villa and his compadres, all of whom were heavily armed, never once bothered any of McDaniel's cattle or horses nor made threatening gestures at any of McDaniel's family.

As a matter of fact, Pancho invariably left a five-gallon drum of tequila with his host, as if to show his appreciation for being permitted to cross McDaniel's land. The Mexican firebrand brought the liquor in from Mexico strapped to a burro's back.

GAVE IT AWAY

McDaniel never developed an appetite for the white lightning, instead gave it away to neighbors who had taken a liking to the mixture.

McDaniel and his family didn't stay in the Dryden area very long. A Big Spring resident off and on since 1903, Clovis brought his wife and son back to Big Spring after a little more than a year on the border.

The septuagenarian, who has the complexion of a man who has spent much of his life in the great outdoors, still has a 1904 model Mexican saddle very much like the one Villa used in his heyday. The saddle boasts

VA Warns Of Policy Drive

The Veterans Administration has received complaints that a private insurance company is distributing printed information in a campaign to sell its policies under the guise that they are GI insurance policies.

The material is mailed in a brown envelope similar to the type used by the Federal Government, Jack Coker, manager of the VA Regional Office in Waco said.

He pointed out that the material, if read carefully, is not misleading. If, however, it is read quickly, the reader is led to believe that premium rates for the private policy are about the same as GI insurance.

McDaniels With First Ford Sold Here

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McDaniel are shown with a prize automobile — the first Ford ever sold in Howard County. He made it a special point to purchase the vehicle from the John Walcott Motor Company not long after World War I.

A horn almost as big as a dinner plate.

McDaniel has been many things in his time — a storekeeper, rancher, building contractor, oil well and water well driller, railroader, sign painter and salesman among other things.

When he arrived here as an eight-year old with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert McDaniel, from Dickens in 1903, his paternal parent operated a grocery store on a spot where Walker's Drug, located at Second and Main Streets, is now located.

HOGS WALLOWED

He recalls that hogs wallowed in a nearby street and that the entire block between Second and Third on Main street, immediately north of the courthouse, had only a small house on it. His grandfather ran a blacksmith shop near the north end of what is now the Benton Street overpass. When the grandfather left town to help build the first structures in the

He built the first building in the Ross City community in southeastern Howard County and his father ran a small hotel there at the height of the oil boom for a time. C. school, where the U.S. Post Office is now located, which at that time was the only school in town.

The first boy with which he became acquainted after moving here was Dee Purser. Young McDaniel remembers he was chewing tobacco at the time and Dee asked to sample it. From that first meeting grew a warm friendship.

His son, who shared his experiences on the border, named Glaselle, is employed as an automobile salesman in San Antonio and himself is now a grandfater.

RAIL STRIKE

McDaniel might have spent his entire adult life as a railroader had it not been for a paralyzing strike called here in 1922. Until that time, McDaniel was serving as an engineer on a wrecker—sole duty of which was to go up and down the tracks to salvage wrecked trains. After the labor dispute, McDaniel never returned to work with the railway.

Today, McDaniel is not con-

A Devotional For The Day

It is good for me that I have been afflicted; that I might learn thy statutes. (Psalm 119:71)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, our heavenly Father, for the great lessons from the Bible. With Thy help, may we turn our afflictions into blessings and learn to live more like the Master. Increase our concern for the needs of others. We ask it all through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Better Break

When junior college supervision was transferred from the Texas Education Agency (now confined to public school administration) to the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, a Coordinating Board committee, headed by M. Harvey Weil of Corpus Christi, was charged with remodeling the role of public junior colleges.

The first logical step was to study criteria for approving establishment of new junior colleges. Further study will be given such institutions' function as community colleges, particularly for terminal vocation and technical training beyond the high school.

One of the most important aspects of the junior college movement, however, is to provide fully transferable instruction toward degrees that can be completed in junior and senior years at senior colleges. The Weil committee has recognized this as "a very serious problem" and has called for planning toward closer and continuing curriculum coordination between the state's junior and senior colleges.

The problem is one that extends beyond curriculum, however. If junior colleges are effectively to serve as "feeders" to the senior colleges, thus relieving the mounting enrollment pressures on the senior colleges and universities, the problems encountered by individual transfers must be minimized.

That will require not only curriculum adjustments but greatly improved counseling services in many of the junior colleges. It will also require changed policies in senior colleges and universities to give transfers an even break in such matters as housing and extra-curricular activities, so that they will not in any way feel inferior to students who spent their freshman and sophomore years in the senior institutions. A vigorous effort must be made to erase all the disadvantages, major or minor, which some junior college transfers to senior colleges and universities now encounter.

Brag About It

Peter Hurd is painting the portrait of President Johnson and this brought to light that one of his sketches, from which he developed murals, is hanging in the White House.

All of which simply underlines that Mr. Hurd is news because Mr. Hurd is recognized as one of the Southwest's and the nation's top artists.

And right here in our post office we have one of the murals referred to above. Peter Hurd made it his first fresco back in the days when he was an obscure young artist. The mural has had a good degree of fame right along, but now with focal attention upon the artist, we are impressed anew that we have a real asset and an attraction in our post office painting.

Why not advertise this to the world. Maybe someday a highway sign with a rough outline of the mural might replace one of the run-of-the-mill signs we now have?

Budget Estimates Inaccurate

WASHINGTON — How many presidents of large businesses could inform their stockholders 18 months in advance of a specific date exactly how much money is going to be taken in during the interval, and how much is to be spent? Yet the President of the United States has just given the country an estimate that on June 30, 1967, receipts in the preceding 12 months will have increased by the enormous total of $11 billion over the previous year and that the budget will show a deficit of less than $2 billion.

NATURALLY, Mr. Johnson doesn't do all this forecasting by himself, but is dependent on a lot of financial experts. The sad truth, however, is that, no matter how conscientious they are, they cannot read the future. They cannot know what will be the ups and downs of business and how much taxes are going to be collected as a result of the business activity in the country.

During a period of 20 years—from 1947 to 1966 inclusive—budget receipts of the United States Treasury have been overestimated in exactly half of those years, while budget expenditures have been underestimated in 12 years.

IT IS LESS than six months now to the end of the current fiscal year on June 30, 1966, but the official estimate now by President Johnson is that the deficit, which he forecast in January 1965 at $5.3 billion, is likely, 18 months later, actually to come to $6.4 billion—an underestimate of more than a billion dollars.

The January 1966 estimate for the fiscal year which ends June 30, 1967, may turn out the same way. It may

Billy Graham

How come that people like me who love to believe and have faith are so doubtful about doing the right thing? G.C.M.

One thing that Christ does for us is to sensitize our conscience. Perhaps you should have used the word "careful" instead of doubtful. Just as a good child is careful not to grieve its parents, a child of God is careful not to grieve the Spirit of God.

We value our relationship to Him so highly that we treat softly lest we do something that offends Him, or brings a reproach to His Cause.

David's constant prayer to God was, "Take not thy Holy Spirit away from me." David was saying, "Take my fame, take my fortune, my silver—take life itself, but take not away from me thy Spirit."

The most valuable thing in life is the assurance that God is with us. Sin in the life of the Christian tends to dim this assurance. Therefore, the sensitive Christian constantly prays the prayer of David: "Create in me a clean heart O God; and renew a right spirit within me." This prayer indicates no doubt—a conscience that is sensitive toward God. This attitude, far from being a handicap, is one of the secrets of living a victorious Christian life.

Economy Can Provide Guns And Butter, Says LBJ

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite uncertainties of the Viet Nam war, President Johnson during the week sketched a glowing picture of the nation's economy.

"The American economic miracle" will continue through 1966, he said.

He made the rosy prediction in his economic message to Congress on Thursday. However, the statement was laced with words of caution about inflation.

Earlier in the week, Johnson sent to Congress a record $112.8-billion budget for the 1967 fiscal year, beginning next July 1. It would provide not only for financing the war in Southeast Asia and usual domestic programs but would also accelerate development of the "Great Society."

The tone was that the economy is strong enough so that Americans can have both ample guns and butter.

RISING DEMAND
In the economic message, the President said: "Demand will continue to grow rapidly in 1966 and production will respond. The vigor of investment spending demonstrates strong business confidence. The rising defense needs of the federal government are an important force in the economy. State and local purchases will keep moving ahead. Rising consumer incomes will again largely be devoted to expenditures for better living."

He gave this outline of government economic policy: "To attain full employment without inflation—to use fiscal monetary policies to help match total demand to our growing production potential—to maintain and enhance healthy competition—to achieve national purposes as far as possible by enlisting the voluntary cooperation of business, labor and other groups."

MORE EMPLOYMENT
Johnson told Congress that demand and production booms should add $46.5 billion to the gross national product, GNP—total of all goods and services—increasing it to a record $722

THE ECONOMY

- Predict $46.5 billion GNP gain
- Outlook for 2.5 million more jobs
- Inflation spiral bug under the chip
- Steel earnings show hefty increases
- Auto output hits 200,000 for the week
- Prices expected to advance in '66

the Bureau of Labor Statistics said the prospect for 1966 is for price increases at least as high as last year, which averaged 1.7 per cent on an annual basis.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz was even more optimistic than Johnson on the outlook for a decline in unemployment. He predicted that the jobless rate might fall to 3.5 per cent by the end of June. He said this should not create serious manpower shortages.

The week was marked by a steady flow of corporate reports of record profits in 1965. Steel and oil companies were in the vanguard.

STEEL UP
U. S. Steel Corp., for example, reported 1965 earnings of $273,578,312, or $4.62 a share, compared with $236,785,114, or $3.91 a share, in 1964. This was a gain of 18.2 per cent. Lukens Steel reported a gain of 24.9 per cent, Interlake 7.8 per cent, Republic 7 per cent, National 2.6 per cent, and Bethlehem 4.8 per cent.

Automobile production during the week topped the 200,000 mark for the first time this year. Output was estimated at 201,500 cars, compared with 199,081 the previous week and 197,387 a year ago.

Car sales in the middle 10 days of January dipped from the 1965 pace. Deliveries totaled 243,286 against 253,953 a year ago.

Steel production for the week advanced to 2,434,000 tons from 2,400,000 the previous week but was behind the comparable period of 1965.

Not Always Home, Sweet Home

Those of you who stayed home and accounted for all last year are not necessarily in the mainstream. There were some four million people who were listed, in one category or another, as "missing."

Can now bring you this piece of vital intelligence since receipt of the annual report from the Tracers Company of America, which does a good job of tracking down persons and likes to brag about it.

FEW OF THE four million were in the criminal class, which group we ordinarily think of as the ones to take it on the lam. "Many took off," says the report, "to avoid pressures or obligations while others were unaware that they were sought."

Well, if I thought a tent-folding act would have relieved the pressures and the obligations, I may have wandered off myself, but some of us cowards are afraid even to run away.

IF THERE'S any sociological significance to this, the Tracers Company says that more than 35,000 husbands did the skip last year, while only 56 wives left home. More than 80 per cent of the wandering males were in the 40-50 age bracket, but less than one per cent of them ran off with another woman.

You know the big problems? Easy credit buying and mother-in-law problems, that's what.

THOUSANDS of teenagers ran away from home—practically all of them around exam time; 95 per cent of them returned within a few days; three per cent within a few weeks. Which shows you kids can take their adventure just so long. Reminds me of the time when I was a little tyke and got my feelings hurt; went to my room, made a bedroll and bade Mama a final goodbye. She asked my intentions, I said I was leaving for good. She said she was willing to make me a couple of sandwiches to take along, which didn't strengthen my resolve one bit. I believe I got two blocks away, where lived an aunt who supplemented my lunch with an apple. By the time I had eaten, I was ready to return home.

BUT BACK to the other vanishing Americans: Close to 2,000 divorced parents kidnapped their children in violation of custody rulings and disappeared. There were nine bigamists accounted for in the skips, and one fellow married six times within twelve months, and THAT kept him on the move.

Lease-breakers, commercial swindlers and debtors (more than 150,000 of them) decided to move on rather than meet their obligations.

NOW, I COULD have been in this list—except another area of work in which the Tracers Company engages. This outfit looks for missing heirs. It says that over $250,000,000 remains unclaimed because probate courts, public administrators, etc., are unable to find rightful heirs to estates. Just last year, the company located 109 people who shared more than $100,000 each in estates, and a good many more bequeathed smaller sums.

IF THIS SORT of thing is prevailing, I not only won't skip, but I will send 'em my home and business address, phone numbers, area code and zip code. I would also run up a flag in front of the house.

A Non-Political Dinner

BOSTON—The one thing I have discovered about Boston is that people here have no interest in politics whatsoever. They are much more interested in social events, and almost every week they will throw a testimonial dinner for a Massachusetts personality to honor him for all the non-political things he has done.

Last Saturday, for example, the friends of Kenneth O'Donnell gave a dinner in his honor and 1,400 of his dearest intimates, from every precinct in the state, came to Boston to do him homage and to say what a wonderful guy he is.

SEATED ON THE dais with Mr. O'Donnell, who was the late President Kennedy's closest aide, were such non-political personalities as Sen. Mike Mansfield, former Gov. Mike DeSalle of Ohio, Speaker of the California Assembly Jesse Unruh, Sen. Robert Kennedy, Sen. Teddy Kennedy, and Joseph D. Keenan, international secretary of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

While citizens all over the state were discussing who would be the Democratic nominee for governor, not one person at the dinner mentioned a word about it.

"WE HONOR a guy here in Boston for himself," a friend of Kenny O'Donnell's said to me, "and I don't think one person would have shown up tonight if he thought this dinner was politically motivated."

"You don't see dinners like this anymore," I said, "where people just come out for fun?"

"Kenny wanted it that way. He doesn't get to see his friends much anymore and he felt this would be a good way to get together."

AFTER DESSERT each speaker got up to give a non-political tribute to

Mr. O'Donnell. Sens. Robert Kennedy, Teddy Kennedy and Mike Mansfield told how close Kenny had been to President Kennedy. Jesse Unruh told how close Mr. O'Donnell had been to California. Jack Conway of the AFL-CIO told how close Mr. O'Donnell had been to labor, former Gov. Mike DeSalle told how close Kenny had been to Ohio, and Gov. John King of New Hampshire told how close Massachusetts was to New Hampshire.

EACH SPEAKER pointed out that Kenneth O'Donnell was a great administrator, a man who could get things done, a man in the tradition of other great Massachusetts leaders, and a man who would fight for the things he believed in.

Then, since it was a non-political dinner, the speakers all ended by saying they didn't know what Mr. O'Donnell had planned for the future, but they would be willing to support him in anything he wanted to do.

MR. O'DONNELL got up and made his non-political reply to the speeches. As a private citizen he said he was worried about the state of Massachusetts which had been drifting for so many years. He felt that more things had to be done on a state rather than a federal level. He spelled out his non-political philosophy about education, urban renewal, the war on poverty, air and water pollution, and honesty in government. He called for new aggressive leadership wherever Massachusetts could find it.

"You know," I said to the friend of Kenny O'Donnell's who was studying a map of the districts in the state, "Kenny ought to run for governor."

The friend looked at me horrified. "Perish the thought."

Determination On Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — Undaunted confidence in the righteousness of his course in Viet Nam is the face President Johnson shows in the aftermath of what has been one of his most critical decisions.

It is as though the decision to use the full resources of American power to convince the Communist enemy the United States cannot be driven out of South Viet Nam had brought a sense of relief. But those working closely with him during the uncertain latter days of the bombing pause saw no signs of anguishing doubt.

THE LYNDON Johnson of the Viet Nam crisis is the Lyndon Johnson of the political triumphs of his Senate leadership and his first year in his own right in the Presidency.

The unflinching characteristics of the past are as evident as ever before. One is a belief in the complete rightness of his close advisers, and particularly the military men directing strategy in Viet Nam. The other side of this coin of loyalty is his scorn, if not contempt, for those who would substitute another strategy—a holding operation in coastal enclaves—for that of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

PUBLIC RESPONSE is as important as always in buttressing his confidence. More people than ever before heard any public utterance—91,000,000—listened to the President's State of the Union message. That, according to audience measurements in the electronic industry, meant just about every adult citizen. In a poll on response 71 per cent supported the President and six per cent opposed, with the rest undecided. And in the White House, however others may have interpreted the significance of the President's speech, the proper stress was on America's determination to stay in Viet Nam because to yield to force would "undermine the independence of many lands and whet the appetite of the aggressor." Then came the clincher that is the base of continuing policy and the buildup in Viet Nam to go rapidly forward:

"WE WOULD have to fight in one land and we would have to fight in another—or abandon much of Asia to the domination of the Communists."

Any doubts his advisers may have as to the reaction of other nations on the resumption of bombing the President brushes aside. He is convinced that the strenuous peace offensive—a great man to count, as he did in his State of the Union message, the exact number of diplomatic overtures and talks—left all nations capable of reason believing the United States profoundly desires peace.

THE PRESIDENT receives from 60 to 70 letters a week from Americans serving in Viet Nam. Not one asks for American withdrawal. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara gets about 30 or 40 letters from servicemen and they show the same resolution. For a man who never ceases to weigh and measure these are important indicators.

If one factor could be assessed above all others in the crisis over resuming bombing in North Viet Nam it would probably be the urgent message from Admiral Ulysses S. Grant Sharp Jr., commander-in-chief of the Pacific with authority over all forces in Southeast Asia. Sharp told the President that the rapid military buildup from the North during the bombing pause jeopardized the security of American and South Vietnamese forces in the south. Having put his faith in Sharp and his other commanders, the President saw the choice over bombing narrowing almost to zero.

Iron Has Uses But Not To Treat Arthritis

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Could two iron tablets a day have harmful effects if taken for too long? I have arthritis in my feet and wonder if the iron could have left deposits in the blood vessels and caused poor circulation. — MRS. B. S. H.

Iron doesn't affect the vessels or circulation, nor does it cause arthritis.

Excessive intake of iron can cause trouble, but in quite a different way. Usually this involves the intestinal tract, as diarrhea or constipation.

When a person needs supplemental iron, the cause is an anemia in which the bloodstream is not provided with enough of it. In such a case a reasonable amount of iron taken in pill, capsule or other form merely makes up for such amounts as the body should have but has not been getting.

Thus iron medication, when required, can be given indefinitely without ill effects.

True, in active cases of rheumatoid arthritis, there frequently is an anemia, and in that instance the anemia does not respond to iron therapy. I mention that just for those who may be interested. It obviously does not apply to you, Mrs. H.

Dear Doctor: My sister has hypochromic anemia. What are the cause and treatment of this type? — R. S.

While there are quite a few types of anemia, they can be divided into two main classifications: Those in which the blood cells do not have enough iron; and those in which there are not enough of the cells which carry iron.

The former is more common—and is the hypochromic type. The usual cause is some chronic loss of blood (and with the lost blood, iron is lost). Hemorrhoids or an ulcer are frequent causes. So is excessive or prolonged menstrual flow. Occasionally faulty eating habits (too little protein) is at fault.

Iron supplements are the first form of therapy, but obviously the permanent correction depends on finding the basic cause and correcting it. Just prescribing iron is no more sensible than continuing to pour water into a leaky bucket instead of fixing it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was under the impression that there was no cure for pernicious anemia, but the enclosed clipping says it can be cured by taking Vitamin B 12. — M. E.

"Cured" is the wrong word. No cure is known. But taking B 12 compensates for the disease, as long as you keep on taking it. It's like insulin for diabetes. Insulin doesn't cure it but it makes up for the body's lack of sufficient natural insulin.

Headaches! You can beat them. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How to Tame Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

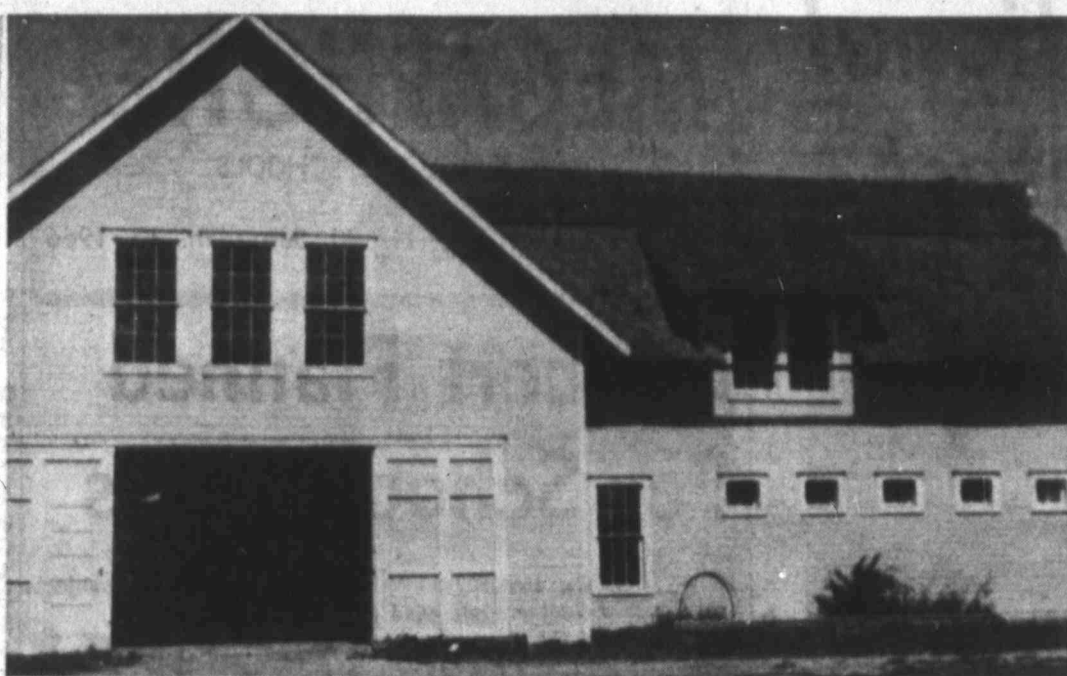

Dr. Molner is interested in all his readers' questions, and whenever possible uses their questions in his column, but because of the great number received daily, he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters.

U. S. Experiment Farm

The modern offices and research rooms of the United States Experiment Station (above) at the north edge of Big Spring were erected a decade ago to replace the big barn, long a landmark in this area. The barn, above right, erected in 1915, housed equipment, stock and feed until it was destroyed by fire. Below, the late Fred Keating, who directed farm operations for over three decades, checks yields on the only fruit crop the farm rated as sure—grapes. Work of the farm is due to be halted June 1 after more than half a century of research.

For 50 Years, Farm Studies Have Probed Area Problems

For more than 50 years, the agricultural experiment station at Big Spring has probed meticulously and doggedly into crops, soils, grasses, cattle feeding and a variety of other things fitting into farm and ranch productivity. Sometimes findings seemingly confirmed only what farmers figured they already knew, but the experiment station had the scientific answers supported by facts instead of hunch. Sometimes studies were inconclusive; sometimes they were fragments which fit into larger studies elsewhere. But they went on rain or shine, calm or windy, in good years and bad.

Big Spring came by the station in 1913 by ingenuity if not by accident. Civic leaders learned a station was to be established on the South Plains and contacted the site agents when they got off the train here for an inspection tour to the north.

MONEY DRIVE

The Harding farm north of town was an appealing site, the agents (a Prof. Chilcote and J. E. Mundell) agreed, but a minimum of 160 acres was needed. Town boosters launched a campaign which stalled out at the $5,000 mark and the agents moved on to Lamesa. The late Fox Stripling figured some angles and telephoned Prof. Chilcote to see if he could make out on 130 acres. He could, and the deal was closed. Thirty acres were sold off the southeast corner for enough to finance what was lacking.

IN 1914

Possession on the tract was not granted until the following year, but Mundell, who became the first superintendent, began his cultures there in December, 1914. The station also took over the weather observations which B. Reagan, one of those in on landing the station, and set about erecting its barns, buildings, offices, etc.

The immediate targets were crop rotation and tillage. The area was really just beginning to open up to broad farming, and researchers wanted to know what crops would be best, the effects of different cropping systems on soil and its productivity. Variety tests were set up in grain and forage sorghums, and cotton, and over the years the farms has tested cowpeas, peanuts, soybeans, fruit, grasses, and trees for shelterbelts. It even looked into fruit production possibilities.

SOIL STUDY

Following the war, the studies took a slightly different tack, looking more into soil compaction — its causes and possible means of avoiding or mitigating it. Some of this tied into soil erosion, and a few of the plots used chemically treated soil in an effort to find practical means of reducing wind erosion.

Another project was the study of crops in relation to water utilization. This has been one of the most interesting and challenging of experiments in an effort to find plants that have greater efficiency in utilizing limited water supplies, or find ways to make the plants more efficient by reducing transpiration. This is a tedious and exacting process with months and sometimes years of studies necessary just to "get in the ballpark," as researchers say about defining an area of measurable study.

WIND EROSION

Plans were in the making this year for more extensive studies on wind erosion and on means of retaining more rainfall by reducing runoff.

One interesting aspect of the station is its position as the southernmost anchor on the Great Plains chain of stations. It has the longest average growing season — 220 days — of any in the Plains group.

Another facet is the variety of soils in the tillage tests. This was broadened when in November, 1964 K. H. McGibbon and H. G. Keaton acquired 80 acres of Amarillo sandy loam and provided right of way from the station to it, also to the Lamesa highway. They exchanged this to the station for five acres at US 87 and IS 20 highways. Slight acreage was lost in 1962 as right of way for IS 20, and this entailed moving the farm residence in February, 1963.

In 1947, the late Fred Keating, who headed the station from 1922 until his retirement in 1955 and under whom bulk of the work was done, issued a statistical summary covering 33 years of studies.

LOSS OF NITROGEN

Among the many significant findings were those that there had been a depletion of 50 per cent of nitrogen.

"The loss of a third to a half of soil nitrogen under conventional methods of cropping during a period of 33 years is a matter of deep concern," he observed. "Probably the most important soil problem is to learn how to check such loss."

In tillage tests, the station found that there was little variation in yields between 12 and 24-inch spacing in 44-inch rows. Closer spacing and wider rows tended to reduce yields.

FINDINGS

The farm also found which varieties of milo were most dependable and prolific. It found that sorghum was the best forage crop. It also established that sorghums do best when planted in the lister furrow, and cotton does best when ridge planted in the split. While summer fallowing will increase yields, studies showed, it is not profitable. There are better ways to obtain fertilizer than plowing under green manure crops, experience showed. Subsoiling proved its profitability.

As for fruit, grapes turned out to be the only dependable crop. Arizona cypress in over 20 years outstripped all evergreens planted for shelterbelt tests, although Colorado juniper, Chinese arbor vitae, Austrian and yellow pine did well.

CATTLE FEEDING

In 1923 the farm took up cattle feeding demonstrations. Good barns and sheds broadened the tests in 1931, and the farm pioneered in use of trench silos for its roughage. In the next 20 years more than 1,000 head were fed and carefully checked for carcass quality and yield. At the same time, many ration combinations were fed to find the most efficient and economical ones. Part of the studies helped to pin down some possible causes of urinary calculi, a bane of feeders.

Long before the day of commercial feeders in the region, station reports said that "cattle feeding which uses home grown feeds might well become a part of a well balanced farm program in this area."

FORMER DIRECTORS

When Keating retired, he was succeeded by Dr. Earl Burnett, and the station was oriented more to scientific soil research. Burnett was sent to the state office at Temple and was succeeded by Dr. James Box, who left more than a year ago to take charge of soil research in Georgia. Billy Fryrear, research agricultural engineer, became the superintendent last year.

Until 1950 the station functioned as the United States Experimental Field Station. It remained the property of the U.S. Department of Agriculture but was turned over the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station system, and work continued on a cooperative basis.

Practical Shortcut For Daily Exercise Outlined

A practical shortcut for improving the muscular fiber within the human body, requiring no more than six minutes of work per day, was explained in detail by the Friday luncheon speaker for the American Business Club at the Settles Hotel, Curtis McMillan of Lubbock.

McMillan cautioned that automation is a monster that is destroying modern man because "he goes for weeks at a time without minimal use of his muscles."

In physical fitness drills given American children a few years ago, McMillan revealed 56.6 per cent failed whereas only 7.3 per cent of the young people in Europe did not pass the tests.

Twenty per cent more of the young men and women now being tested for entry into the Armed Forces are failing examinations than during World War II, McMillan said, when the percentage of failures was considered high.

In this modern age, man is considered "over the hill" physically by the time he reaches his 26th birthday. Simple exercises would delay that decline by at least 10 years, the speaker suggested.

McMillan brought with him devices which serve to combine popular isometric and isotonic exercises, so compactly built that they can be carried in the glove compartment of an automobile.

Astronauts now religiously make use of the equipment, he said, even while in orbit around the earth. The equipment is calibrated for selective resistance, so that a child may work against the world's strongest human.

The equipment is especially popular with athletes and coaches but can also be used by senior citizens and new mothers, as well as by children and adults.

National statistics show that one of every 188 Americans now dies of some kind of hyperkinetic disease, McMillan stated, but the incidence of such trouble in persons who vigorously exercise is far less. Without the proper equipment, McMillan added that the average person needs to take at least 40 minutes of calisthenics daily, but few feel they can spare that much time.

The revolutionary equipment was thoroughly tested and perfected, McMillan said, in order to reduce the minimal time to six minutes daily.

Among guests present for the meeting included Travis Waller, Dr. Jack Ewing, John Proctor, Dwight Richman and George Thorburn. New members introduced included Gerald Wooten, Dick Pfeiffer and Bill Cadzo.

Lamesan In National Boy's Club Contest

LAMESA (SC) — James Slough, 15-year-old son of Mrs. Annie Slough, has been selected by the Lamesa Boy's Club director and staff to represent the local club in national competition to be held later this month. James is president of the local Keystone Club. He is a freshman at Lamesa High School and was chosen for his leadership ability and assistance he has contributed to club leaders and members. Gordon Brown, the club director said.

JAMES SLOUGH

Winner in the nation - wide contest will receive a $500 scholarship and will be a guest of President Johnson at the White House.

The Lamesa Boy's Club, in conjunction with the local Optimist Club will be selecting a "Boy of the Month" each month throughout the coming year with one of the 12 boys picked competing in the national contest each year.

The charter for the Lamesa Club was received in July, 1961, with Ronald Bennett serving as its first president. At the present time facilities of the club are valued at more than $100,000. About $4,500 remains of the original debt. Land for the club was donated by the W. J. Beckham family and various clubs and organizations contributed labor toward construction of the building.

Facilities at the club consist of a gymnasium, game room, boxing area, kitchen, arts and crafts room, radio and television room and the Ladies Auxiliary is presently adding a library under the direction of Mrs. Walter Bray, president.

The club athletic program consists of volleyball, shuffleboard, badminton, tumbling, boxing, swimming, weight - lifting, basketball, baseball, football and track. Other activities include radio repair training, television repair training, and arts and crafts projects.

Over 1,000 boys are registered members of the club with over 75 per cent taking part in some phase of the club activities. At the present time the club is sponsoring a basketball program with 22 teams taking part. Forty - five boys competed in the boxing events and 230 enrolled in swimming.

The football program, which begins in early September and ends the latter part of December, is sponsored by various organizations which contribute $150 toward uniforms and donate an additional $50 each year for upkeep of the suits. An All-Star team is picked from all players to represent the Lamesa club in the West Texas Championship play-offs.

Basketball is divided into four leagues, elementary, junior high, minor and major. A team from each league will also represent their club at the West Texas Area Council with teams from Snyder, Brownfield, Andrews, Midland, Odessa, Roscoe, Lubbock and Lamesa entering. Local basketball teams will be competing Saturday in a tournament in Odessa. The event will originate at the Odessa Boy's Club but games will be played in various Odessa school gymnasiums. The winner in each division will be competing in regional play-offs later this year. Last year all four of Lamesa's All-Star teams competed in regional play-off in Wichita Falls.

Mr. Brown, the director, comes to Lamesa from Russellville, Ark. He is assisted by the club by two part time helpers. Other workers are on a volunteer basis with coaches for the various teams donating their time.

Jim Norris heads the board of directors of the club as president. Bo Adcock is first vice president; Lee McAllister, second vice president; Bob Wade, treasurer; and Roy Dycus, secretary.

The club is open each day except Sunday with an average daily attendance of over 200 boys.

Concert Planned For School Bands

By GWYNN BONNER

The Goliad Junior High band will be one of the three bands participating in a concert to be given Feb. 4. Together with BSHS and Runnels Junior High a program of carefully selected pieces will be presented to the public at the city auditorium. The four Goliad selections are "Golden Eagle March," "Waltzing Winds," "Relax Rumba," and "Lustspiel." Gary Garner, band director at West Texas State University and flutist, is the guest soloist. With the BSHS band as accompaniment he will play the "Carnival of Venice."

Mr. Don Duncan, art teacher, was in charge of the front showcase during the week and has put up pictures painted by his eighth grade students. Done in pastels and temper paints, these paintings portray Big Spring in earlier days. The Big Spring, railroad station, Signal Mountain, and the general store are but a few of the subjects chosen by students.

Those having paintings displayed are Melaine Pearson, Douglas Beams, Charles Johnson, Jill Guinn, Sherry Arrick, Robert Adkins, Kathy Dean and Alan Murphy. Also Richard Ethun, Ricky Tubb, Sheila Folkerts, Randy Hoover, Connie Felts, Melinda Brooke, Susan Butler and Jim Gibbs have paintings in the front showcase.

The pictures to be made Feb. 4 for the Goliad annual, the Maverick, are Student Council, annual staff, speech club, office staff, and the National Junior Honor Society. The pictures of the cafeteria staff and bus drivers will also be made that day.

Thursday night at volleyball practice team members elected managers. Eighth grade team managers are Rebecca Jenkins and Deanna Smith. The freshmen selected Liz Healy and Rita Kay Langley as their managers.

Forsan Speech Class Selects Contest Play

By JODY DODD

FORSAN — This week the speech class selected "Good-bye to the Clown" by Ernest Kinoy as the play to be presented at the UIL meet March 31 at Bronte. As of yet the selection of the cast has not been completed. Mrs. Ronnie Gandy, speech director, is helping individuals with different parts.

Thursday the entire high school student body saw a film entitled "When I'm Old Enough . . . Goodbye!" It was shown by the FHA and pertained to high school dropouts. The president, Sherye Kirkpatrick, talked to the group on dropouts before the film was shown.

'THUNDERBALL'
Sean Connery and Claudine Auger

Connery Is Back As Agent 007

In the short span of three years, Sean Connery has become one of the greatest box-office stars, his name now synonymous with James Bond, the indestructible secret agent whose latest adventure, "Thunderball," opens Thursday at the Ritz Theatre. In Panavision and Technicolor, it is the latest in the exciting series, which began with "Dr. No," then was followed with "From Russia With Love" and "Goldfinger." In this most ambitious Bond-bardment of action and romance, the famous Ian Fleming hero is up against a SPECTRE plot to hold the entire western world for ransom!

Connery admits that when he made "Dr. No" he had absolutely no idea of the trend it would set or of the prototype he would become. Originally chosen to play the role by readers of a London newspaper poll, the handsome Scottish actor today enjoys a world-wide fame that borders on adulation. He receives more than 1,500 fan letters each week and it would be difficult to find a single moviegoer who has not seen at least one of his James Bond films.

Connery has all the physical attributes of Fleming's world-famous hero: he is 6'2", tall, weighs 190 pounds and is a natural athlete capable of mastering every sport he undertakes. His muscular build and lean, hard good looks have had much to do with the public's universal endorsement of his rugged portrayal of Agent 007.

Born in Edinburgh, Connery began his show business career in the London company of "South Pacific." He went to join a repertory company where he had a chance to perform in a new dramatic role every week. Recommended to the producer of a film called "No Road Back," he got the part, following his screen debut with many other pictures. He also attracted a great deal of attention and critical acclaim with his co-starring performance opposite Claire Bloom in the BBC's television adaptation of "Anna Karenina."

Soon after this he was selected for his first James Bond role, "Thunderball," which stars Sean Connery as the secret agent 007.

Competition for the female roles in "Thunderball" was keen, for actresses know that one of the James Bond movies means international recognition and frequently stardom. Ursula Andress, for example, who played the bikini-clad sea goddess of "Dr. No," has since appeared in five Hollywood films. Daniela Bianchi, Bond's girl in "From Russia With Love," has recently starred in two European films and a five-part Hollywood TV series. Both Honor Blackman and Shirley Eaton, of "Goldfinger" fame, have recently been signed to starring roles in important Hollywood films and the girls of "Thunderball" likewise face an exciting future.

In "Thunderball," Claudine Auger, a 23 year old former Miss France, and already a veteran of nine French films and many TV shows, plays Bond's newest amour, "Domino," who makes love to him underwater!

Any girl who would kill Bond must be a villain, and Luciana Paluzzi, a shapely 25 year old actress, plays Fiona, the kiss-and-kill SPECTRE agent who tries to do our hero in...

Permian Players Stage 'Mousetrap' In February

Agatha Christie, undisputed first lady of suspense, and one of the great mystery writers, provides the next vehicle for the Permian Playhouse of Odessa with her "The Mousetrap."

This play has had the incredible run of over 14 years in London, with no end still in sight.

Despite this unparalleled record, "The Mousetrap" has had little exposure in this country and will be fresh to West Texans when it is presented at Bonham Junior High Feb. 4, 5, 11 and 12 at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $2 and $1.

Bounces Back

NEW YORK (AP) — Novelist Saul Bellow isn't giving up as a dramatist.

His first play, "The Last Analysis," split the critics last season and racked up only a brief run. Since then he has been polishing his skill on one-acters, and a threesome are to be produced off-Broadway this season by Lyn Austin. Their titles: "The Wrecker," "The Wen" and "The Orange Souffle."

Dr. Hoggard's Ensemble Pleasing, Develops Maturity

The Midland - Odessa Symphony orchestra continues to succeed in two areas: finding audience favor with a pleasing repertoire, and developing maturity as it goes along.

The instrumental ensemble night in Odessa, one night in Midland.

The one heard in Midland made for a completely satisfying evening; and if the large audience, including a great proportion of young people, was not professional in its acceptance, it at least knew what it liked.

And Dr. Lara Haggard, a standout personality as well as a real leader of his people, continues to give it to them.

The program was a sort of pot-pourri, with the post-intermission numbers being all from modern American composers. It is one opinion that this group, Leonard Bernstein's Overture to "Candide" and Richard Rodgers' waltz from "Carousel" graded a bit higher. The Aaron Copland modernism, as demonstrated in selections from his ballet suite "Rodeo," had catchy syncopation and contrapuntal effects, but seemed a little brash.

A highlight of the evening was the novel, "Peter and the Wolf," with narration by Robert Cullins. This selection is a lot of fun, no matter your age, and carries a lot of lift.

Personal preferences would go to Jean Sibelius' "Finlandia" and Tchaikovsky's Overture to "Romeo and Juliet," done during the first part of the program. It is in selections like these that Dr. Hoggard seems to get the best response from his group.

There were two solos, by very capable musicians, Benjamin Smith on the cello, and Furriss Williams on the trumpet.

The impressive thing about the Midland - Odessa symphony and chorale continues to be that its makeup is from a dozen or so towns in the area, by people who have a love to play and sing, and are willing to sacrifice time and effort to build themselves into an ensemble of high proficiency; this being done with limited rehearsal time.

The credit, as mentioned before, must go to Dr. Hoggard, who has a vision of a mighty musical group in this great, open land of ours, and who is determined to get it. He has enthusiasm for it, and has imbued others with the same enthusiasm. This sort of approach ought to have every encouragement.

STAMP NEWS

Second In Series Released Saturday

The Franklin D. Roosevelt 6-cent postage stamp was issued Saturday at Hyde Park, N.Y., where the 32nd President is buried. The Roosevelt stamp is the second in the "Prominent Americans" series of new regular stamps.

The design showing Roosevelt facing to the viewer's left is based on a photo made Aug. 15, 1941, aboard the British battleship Prince of Wales a day after FDR and Winston Churchill had signed the Atlantic Charter.

U. S. Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien announced the dates and places of first-day issuance for nine commemorative postage stamps to be issued this year.

They are: 5-cent Migratory Bird Treaty, March 16, Pittsburgh, during the North American Wildlife Conference to be held in that city; 5-cent Humane Treatment of Animals, April 9, New York; 5-cent Indiana Statehood, April 16, Corydon, Ind., its first capital, date marks the 150th anniversary of Indiana statehood; 5-cent American Circus, May 2, Delavan, Wis., "cradle of the American circus"; 5-cent SIPEX, May 21, Washington, opening day of the Sixth International Philatelic Exhibition; 5-cent Bill of Rights, July 1, Miami Beach, in conjunction with the National Education Association convention; 5-cent National Park Service, Aug. 25, Yellowstone National Park, on the 50th anniversary of the National Park Service; 5-cent John F. Kennedy, Sept. 24, Leominster, Mass.; 5-cent Mary Cassatt, Nov. 17, Washington, in the popular American Painting Series.

Burundi has issued four stamps and a souvenir sheet to honor the memory of President John F. Kennedy and Prince Louis Rwagasore. The Prince was assassinated Oct. 13, 1961, after a brief term as prime minister. His portrait appears on one stamp. President Kennedy's photo and an illustration of a library to be erected in his honor appears on another stamp.

A stamp with an unusual design has been issued by Den-

JAMES STEWART

Stewart In 67th Film

James Stewart, his sunglasses a striking contrast to the 1960s-style homespun pants and shirt he was wearing, pulled up his long-legged folding camp chair and sat down.

Behind him, camera and light crews were setting up another scene on the backlot for Stewart's 67th motion picture, "Shenandoah," an epic coming today to the Jet Theatre. Soon he would be portraying the character of a Virginia farmer and widower, father of six sons and a daughter, who's determined not to become involved in the Civil War; he would be acting.

That is a line of work Stewart's been in since 1934, and he still gets a big kick out of acting. After more than 30 years he still looks forward to each picture as a new experience.

The unusual thing about Stewart is that unlike many vain Hollywood stars, he is happy to act his age in his current roles. He doesn't care about getting the girl anymore. It's simply the role that matters.

Now 56 years old, with that more than 30 years in the business behind him, Stewart acknowledged that time is having its effects on him as an actor. For a top romantic star, who has wooed, and usually won, the most lovely female actresses in Hollywood history, he's very casual about aging.

"You sort of have to adapt yourself to the fact that you're getting older," he grinned. "You have to choose a different kind of part. You can't go on saying, 'Dad, can I have the big car tonight,' forever."

"A part like this one in 'Shenandoah,' for instance, is a change, but I think it's a natural change. And there just isn't anything you can do about Father Time."

Four Girls Vie For James Bond

Ursula Andress, for example, who played the bikini-clad sea goddess of "Dr. No," has since appeared in five Hollywood films. Daniela Bianchi, Bond's girl in "From Russia With Love," has recently starred in two European films and a five-part Hollywood TV series. Both Honor Blackman and Shirley Eaton, of "Goldfinger" fame, have recently been signed to starring roles in important Hollywood films and the girls of "Thunderball" likewise face an exciting future.

In "Thunderball," Claudine Auger, a 23 year old former Miss France, and already a veteran of nine French films and many TV shows, plays Bond's newest amour, "Domino," who makes love to him underwater!

Any girl who would kill Bond must be a villain, and Luciana Paluzzi, a shapely 25 year old actress, plays Fiona, the kiss-and-kill SPECTRE agent who tries to do our hero in...

black-widow style! Miss Paluzzi, who has appeared in more than a dozen English language films, is most familiar to American audiences for her role in the Hollywood TV series, "Five Fingers."

Molly Peters was given the role of Patricia, the voluptuous physical therapist.

RUNNELS STUDENTS HOPE TO REPEAT

Spelling Books Get Popular

Runnels Junior High School, which has provided one regional and two county spelling champions in the annual Big Spring Herald Spelling Bees, is out to repeat in 1966.

Roscoe Newell, principal of the school, has ordered 115 copies of the official spelling book, "Words of Champions" and said it is possible more books will be needed.

Meantime, Runnels has two veterans of other bees ready to go again. One is John Rodriguez, an eighth grader who last year was Runnels Junior High runnerup to Don Hickson who went on not only to win his second county title but likewise to take the regional title at Lubbock as well. John, now 15, will be able to try for the school title again.

He is likely to run into tough competition in his own school from a brown-eyed girl who was third place winner at the Third Annual Howard County Spelling Bee last year.

She is Debbie Rives, 12, a seventh grader who was South Ward Champion in 1965 and is now a student at Runnels. Debbie, as a matter of record, has just a little edge on the other youngsters. As soon as the announcement was made of the fourth annual bee, she applied for and received a copy of the spelling book. Debbie thinks that her experience last year will stand her in good stead in the matches this year.

Meantime, Goliad Junior High School, is counting heavily on slender Scott McLaughlin, to take the championship away from Runnels. McLaughlin was runner-up to Hickson last year in the county bee.

Goliad school officials are making a survey of their classrooms and will announce this week how many books they will need.

Meantime, the same sort of survey is being made in the elementary schools of the city. Youngsters in the elementary schools have shown up exceedingly well in the spelling bees.

Last year, good examples were Debbie from South Ward, McLaughlin from Park Hill, Lynn Ashley from Midway, Mary Lou Brown of Gay Hill, and others.

Forsan Junior High School (Elbow) will have a champion in the county bee here on April 16, school officials said. Forsan was not in last year's competition.

Irrepressible Debbie Ready

Debbie Rives, 12, now a Goliad Junior High student, was the first Big Spring youngster to grab an official spelling book and begin studying for The Herald County Spelling Bee to be held April 16. Debbie, who won the South Ward championship in 1965, wound up third in the County Bee. Don Hickson, who won the county title, went on to win the regional contest in Lubbock. Debbie plans to do her best to be back in the list of top spellers this year.

auditorium April 16. The schools will select their school champions by elimination contests before then. The schools are asked to name a champion and an alternate. The alternate will spell in the event the champion cannot compete.

The winner of the county bee gets a free trip to Lubbock for himself and his family on April 30 and a chance to compete in the regional spelling bee against the county champions of 23 West Texas counties. Should he win the regional title, as Don Hickson did last year, he gets an all-expense trip to Washington, D.C., and a possibility of winning a valuable scholarship. There are many trophies and special prizes along the way for runnersup in the several bees.

Official Spelling Books Printed With Extra 'S'

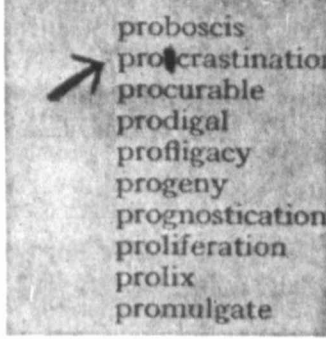

Even the experts bungle sometimes. Probably several million copies of the official spelling list for all County, Regional and National Spelling Bees for 1966 have been printed.

And thousands have been looked over by experts and people not so expert.

Imagine the embarrassment of high officials in National Spelling Bee headquarters when it was called to their attention that on page 27 the word "Procrastination" appears "Procrastination."

This meant that regional headquarters all over the nation had to be advised and told to go through the thousands upon thousands of booklets and strike out the unwanted "s." At Lubbock, regional headquarters for this area, 9,000 copies had to be checked and corrections made.
