Awaits Sentencing

Mrs. Mary Boehme, 33, comforts her husband, Dr. Robert Boehme, 45, at their Port Orchard, Wash., home after a superior court jury Monday found Boehme guilty of trying to kill his wife by injecting a poisonous substance into her while she was a hospital patient last June 30. Both Dr. Boehme and his wife contend he is innocent of the charges. Dr. Boehme is free on $20,000 bond until his sentencing this week or the following week. (AP Wirephoto)

Arms Smuggle Plot Charges Name Five

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — An international investigation moved ahead today following charges against five El Paso men that they conspired to smuggle planes, tanks, submarines, missiles and other weapons to Latin America. Federal agents said they had been conducting an investigation for eight months, and it is still under way in parts of the United States, Mexico and other Latin American countries. The five men arrested Monday were charged with conspiring to violate the U. S. Neutrality Act and the Export Control Act. EXPORT ATTEMPT The charges alleged they were to export 100,000 rounds of ammunition, AR15 full automatic rifles, 371M2 full automatic carbines, airplanes, tanks, submarines and guided missiles, without applying for or obtaining a license from the Department of State as required. The alleged smuggling ring involved sources of supply from various sections of the country including seaports on both coasts, officers said. The arsenal was to have included weapons, such as the AR15 rifle, which still are in the experimental stage, or developed but not yet delivered to U. S. military forces. There was no indication where or how the weapons were to have been obtained, if they had been obtained, were hidden or already delivered. Joe F. Ray, El Paso customs agent, said he didn't know if contraband was smuggled out of other cities, but said none had been reported leaving El Paso, a West Texas city of 300,000 persons situated on the Mexican border. ACCUSED NAMED Named in the federal warrants were Eugene Michael, 35, a restaurant operator; Peyton Dean, 45, a customs broker; Tom Rogers, 25, associated with a brokerage firm; Johnny Acuna, 22, and Larry Grubb, 22, both students at Texas Western College. U. S. Commissioner Frederick Morton set bond of $2,500 each for Michael and Dean and $1,000 each for the others. They made no statements. Morton indicated a preliminary hearing would be held within 10 days. Although no evidence was presented before Morton, government investigators said a plot to smuggle small arms and ammunition to Central America, primarily Panama, involved flying in an airstrip in Mexico where the cargo would be turned over to foreign buyers. Investigators said the operation was widespread and perhaps included some military personnel.

Mid-Pacific Conference On Viet Nam Winding Up

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson scheduled an extra meeting today with top leaders of South Viet Nam after reviewing with the military aspects of the war — a war the South Vietns want intensified. Press secretary Bill D. Moyers said Johnson would have two meetings during the day with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and other officials of the Saigon government. Only one session was scheduled originally, but Moyers said the talks were going so well Johnson wanted to "keep the momentum." Moyers did not claim, however, that Johnson and his guests had reached unanimity on all questions. When asked if this were the case, he replied, "I would say there was a great deal of empathy among the participants." STRATEGY DISCUSSED Johnson met for more than three hours Monday night with top members of the Saigon delegation. It was at this session that military strategy and tactics were discussed. The participants included Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Viet Nam, who hinted Sunday he wants more troops. The mid-Pacific conference was scheduled to wind up today. However, Moyers said he understood there was a possibility the Vietnamese officials might remain in Honolulu until Wednesday. Moyers was asked if any new directions in the war were discussed at the meeting Monday night in Johnson's hotel suite. He said he could not go into that. NO SPECIFICS Asked if the Vietnamese had sought a blockade of North Viet Nam's major port, Haiphong, and broader bombing operations in the North, Moyers said the conferees did not talk about specifics numbers or types of operations. The thrust of the discussion, he reported, was an effort to mesh military plans with programs aimed at eliminating communism's appeal through political and social reforms. He described the meeting as "one of the most intimate and comprehensive sessions" Johnson has held with any foreign leaders. In addition to Ky and Westmoreland, participants included Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, South Vietnamese Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and South Viet Nam's defense minister, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co. STANDS FIRM At the first formal session of the conference Monday, Ky told Johnson his government would neither surrender to the Communists nor compromise with them. His no-compromise stand could affect any attempt at achieving a negotiated settlement since negotiations normally involve compromises. However, Ky told the President the Saigon government recognizes the wisdom of exhausting every approach to peace. Johnson, saying he spoke for an overwhelming majority of Americans, thanked Ky "for your statement that the search for peace must continue because in our hearts we know that is so."

Convict Testifies Powers Admitted Killing Uncle

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A convict with a long prison record testified today that Melvin Lane Powers confessed to him in a Houston jail that he killed his multimillionaire uncle, Jacques Mossler. "He said he stabbed him," declared the witness, Billy Frank Mulvey. Mulvey said the incident occurred after Powers' arrest in 1962 when the two men were lodged in the Harris County jail in Houston, where Mulvey was serving a five-year sentence for which he still is detained. The state of Florida has promised to prove that Mrs. Candace Mossler and her nephew as ill-cit lovers designed the murder of her husband, multimillionaire Jacques Mossler. Now the prosecution is promising to make good its pledge. "He asked about someone to make a hit . . . bump someone off . . . it was worth $10,000," said one witness about the nephew, Powers. A second added, "Mr. Mossler knew about him and Mrs. Mossler." In hard-bitten tones Monday, the pair etched a chilling picture of Mrs. Mossler and Powers shopping about for two years to hire themselves a killer, raising the fee when it seemed in order. The first-degree murder trial in the sixth-floor Dade County circuit courtroom resumed today with one of the alleged killer-for-hire candidates, Edward Bart Diehl, back briefly on the witness stand.

Brisk Showers Dampen City

Heavily overcast skies which greeted early risers Tuesday produced brisk showers from 11 a.m. to noon. No measurement of the precipitation was available, but gutters ran briskly downtown and streets and houses were soaked. There was some light hail. Earlier in the day, brisk breezes blew.

Hawks, Doves In Dispute On Economy

NEW YORK (AP) — There are hawks and doves in the debate over the economy just as there are in the congressional wrangle over the Viet Nam war. One dispute is about as noisy as the other these days. The economic hawks want the nation's industrial growth pushed ahead as fast as possible. Among other things, a rapid expansion would furnish added tax revenues to pay for the Viet Nam war and for the civilian programs called the Great Society. The hawks warn that any cramping of this growth might lead to a recession.

ASK CAUTION The doves call for caution. They feel the fast pace of the last five years has pushed the nation's production resources close to the limit of most favorable use. They want to reconcile the demands for still greater prosperity with the supply of manpower and with industrial capacity. They contend that otherwise the nation would be courting an inflationary boom, followed by a bust. The conflicting positions of the hawks and the doves have been pointed up in the views of administration and monetary witnesses before the House-Senate Joint Economic Committee. The conflict is behind all their talk about higher prices, higher taxes, higher interest rates. And that you can add the administration's urging of greater compliance with its guidelines on prices and wages.

OUT IN OPEN The conflict is out in the open just now because the economy has reached a stage where both sides admit the uncertainties of world affairs and domestic trends might upset today's prosperity. The hawks and doves differ in this: the hawks say it's what the doves are talking about — restraints — that could topple prosperity; the doves say it's the hawks' overexuberance that is the danger. There is a middle course. And the administration lays claim to fostering that. Congress is being told that the administration wants mild restraints now — but quick action later if more curbs on inflation are needed.

THREE REPUBLICANS FILE Demos Contesting For Five Places

By SAM BLACKBURN Battle lines have been finally drawn for the 1966 elections. Deadline for filing expired at midnight Monday. The lists closed with five contested races on the Democratic ticket. Three Republican candidates were announced for as many county offices — giving the minority party one of the largest representations it has ever had in a local county election. CONTESTS County offices, in which opposition has arisen, are: State legislature: Temple Dickson and Roger Brown. District Court clerk: M. Fern Cox (incumbent) and Winnie R. Wood. County Commissioner, Pct. 2: Ray C. Nichols (incumbent), Matt Harrington, W. T. (Bill) Conger and Ralph White. County Commissioner, Pct. 4: L. J. Davidson (incumbent), Marshall J. Sprull, Barney K. Edens and Billy B. Tune. County judge: Lee Porter (incumbent); A. G. Mitchell. The other democratic office holders, whose offices are up for election this year, have no opposition in their own party. They are Ralph Caton, judge of 118th District Court; Walker G. Bailey, County School Superintendent; County Clerk, Pauline Petty; County Treasurer, Frances Glenn; County Surveyor, Ralph Baker; Justice of the Peace, Pct. 1, Place 2, Jess Slaughter; Justice of the Peace, Pct. 2, (Coahoma) Lulu D. Adams.

REPUBLICANS The three Republicans who are running for county offices are W. J. (Bill) Sheppard, County Commissioner, Pct. 4; Winston Wrinkle, County Commissioner, Pct. 2; Mrs. Judith N. Spencer, County School Superintendent. This will mean that on May 7, both the Democratic and Republican parties will be holding primary elections. In the Democratic contests, runoff races will probably develop in the two county commissioner contests and the high men in each of these races will meet again in a second primary June 4. Other contests on the democratic ticket, in which competition exists, include the race for Congress, with Omar Burleson running against Eldon Mahon. The state representative's race is being battled out by two contenders — both of whom are entitled to the classification of being "incumbent." This is brought about by the redistricting. Candidates are Roger Brown, Big Spring, and Temple Dickson, Sweetwater. One other contested race will appear on the Democratic ballot on May 7 — that to decide the precinct chairman of Precinct 16, (Park Hill). W. D. Berry, veteran chairman, is opposed this year by Floyd E. Young.

OFFICIAL LIST C. V. Riordan, county Democratic chairman, in releasing the official list of candidates for his party, said that the final filing was within 10 minutes of the midnight deadline. He said that on Feb. 14 he and the executive committee will meet to make plans for the election. Included will be the determination of assessment to be made against each candidate for primary expenses. "We have four more voting boxes this year than in the election two years ago," said Riordan, "and this will mean additional help on election night. I also intend to see that there is enough help at the bigger boxes to expedite the canvassing of the returns. I do not want to see the results being delayed until 2 or 3 o'clock on May 8 because not enough help was on hand to handle the job."

HIGHER COSTS Despite the obvious increase in costs — extra help, higher printing expenses and the four new boxes — Riordan said he hoped to keep the election assessment against the candidates as low as possible. "Right now," he said, "I am planning on five per cent of the annual salary as an assessment in races where no opponent is listed, and three per cent of the annual salary in races where there is opposition." Salaries of the several officials to be elected vary. The major county officials are paid $7,200 a year. The county commissioners are paid $4,514.40 per year and the county treasurer, $5,880 to illustrate the variation. Harold Hall, acting chairman of the Republican county committee, said that assessment to be levied against three Republican candidates will be $50 each. The Republicans will probably (See POLITICS, P. 6, Col. 6)

LINEUP VIEWED In State Races AUSTIN (AP)—Texas voters got a look today at the lineup of political candidates who will be on the May 7 primary ballots. Deadline for filing came at midnight after a last-day crisis Monday in the on-again, off-again U. S. Senate contest among Democrats. The starting gate closed with only Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr or a political unknown, Houston advertising man Jack Willoughby, in the Democratic column to oppose U. S. Sen. John Tower, Texas' only Republican in Congress. BOWS OUT Despite hot weekend rumors, Don Yarborough of Houston bowed out of the Senate race before he got in, saying he still owed too much from the aggressive campaigns against Gov. John Connally in 1962 and 1964. Yarborough, no kin but a political ally of U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., had been the center of political speculation since liberal Democrat labor factions lost another candidate when U. S. Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., decided against a Senate challenge to Tower. The final count showed seven Democratic primary contests in the 13 statewide races. EIGHT CANDIDATES Texas Republicans, who have made no secret that 1966 campaign plans call for most effort and money to go to Tower, rallied eight statewide candidates, none of them opposed in the primary. Ronnie Dugger, Austin, editor of a weekly newspaper, The Texas Observer, filed notice with the secretary of state Monday that he intends to run as an independent candidate for U. S. Senate in the general election. Under Texas law Dugger must present later a petition signed by one per cent of the 1964 vote for governor or about 25,400 qualified voters in order for his name to go on the November ballot. Other statewide candidates may be named in state conventions held by the Conservative, Constitution and Liberal parties, which do not nominate by primary election. Award for the Democratic primary's hottest campaign apparently goes to the three candidates seeking to succeed Carr—Secretary of State Crawford Martin and state Sens. Franklin Spears and Galloway Calhoun. The winner faces a lone GOP candidate, Robb Stewart, Richardson attorney. Railroad Commissioner Byron Tunnell also faces two Democratic opponents, state Rep. Paul Haring, Goliad, and Dallas engineer P. S. Ervin. NO REPUBLICAN There is no GOP candidate for railroad commission. Connally is an odds-on favorite for re-election with his principal opposition coming from two Houston attorneys—Democrat Stanley Woods and Republican T. E. Kennerly. Mrs. Johnnie Mae Hackworth, who says she is a 61-year-old "prophetess" of Brenham, also paid the Democratic filing fee.

SHUT-OFF OF TALKATHON IS REFUSED WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate refused today to invoke cloture and shut off the filibuster against the bill to end the right of states to outlaw the union shop. The result was a defeat for President Johnson, who urged Congress both last year and in the new session to pass the bill repealing Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley law. The section allows states to forbid labor contracts requiring all workers to join a union or at least pay dues. It also was a blow to the AFL-CIO, which had placed the repealer at the top of its legislative agenda and had believed it stood an excellent chance to get the bill passed in the 89th Congress. An hour before the vote, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, of Montana, told newsmen the measure will be dead for this session if he fails twice this week in his attempt to choke off the filibuster against it. Mansfield reiterated that in case of failure today, he would file a second cloture petition to force a second attempt Thursday. And he made it clear he did not expect to win today. Mansfield left a sickbed at the naval hospital in Bethesda, Md., to come to the Senate and support his cloture petition. BACK TO HOSPITAL He was running a fever and said he would go back to the hospital as soon as he filed the second cloture petition. Mansfield has been trying since Jan. 24 just to get the Senate to agree to take up the bill, with the issue of passage yet to come up. The vote was 51 for cloture and 48 against, or 15 less than the two-thirds needed to impose the debate-limiting rule. The measure, strongly supported by the AFL-CIO, passed the House last year 221 to 203. President Johnson has endorsed it. The bill's supporters are confident they can pass it if they can ever get it to a vote. They claim about 54 votes for the legislation out of the 100 in the Senate. FORCED BACK However, the filibuster directed by Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has prevented Mansfield even from getting the bill up for discussion on its merits. Since Jan. 24 a well-organized band of Republicans and Southern Democrats has tied up the Senate on the issue, holding the floor throughout Senate sessions which have run as long as eight hours and preventing any vote. Federal courts have held that paying dues or offering to pay dues is sufficient to satisfy the legal requirements of a union shop contract.

U.S. PICKS UP PHOTOGRAPHS Russia's Luna Transmitted WASHINGTON (AP) — American space official disclosed today the United States has picked up photographs transmitted from the moon by the Soviet spacecraft Luna 9. The disclosure by Dr. Edward C. Welsh, executive director of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, was the first official word that American technicians as well as those of Britain and the Soviet Union have been obtaining the first radio data ever transmitted from the moon. BEING ANALYZED Welsh told a reporter no decision had been reached on whether the U.S. pictures will be made public. He said he did not know whether they showed the same landscapes as those published by the British and Russians. The photos picked up by the U.S. receiving equipment are being analyzed and evaluated, he added. "I think it is fairly important for the public to know," Welsh said, "that we don't have to rely completely on Russian statements or British pronouncements in order to find out something about what is going on." U.S. CAPABILITIES Welsh's disclosure indicates that U.S. space monitoring capabilities are more extensive than generally believed. And the fact that American officials kept the information quiet despite the Soviet and British releases also sheds new light on the secrecy guarding those capabilities. The North American Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo., operates a worldwide tracking and data collection system which keeps a close watch on satellite and space probe launchings. It also monitors satellite returns and space objects in orbit. FED TO AGENCIES This information is fed to a number of agencies, including the Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md., operated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Beyond this material, the Defense Department is tight-lipped for the most part about the information it obtains on Soviet and U.S. spacecraft and satellites. The first pictures transmitted by Luna 9 were made public Thursday night by the British, who received them through their Jodrell Bank radio observatory. The Soviet spacecraft landed on the moon earlier Thursday.

Annual Day Care Center Workshop Set Saturday

"It is important that parents give a lot of thought to where they place their children, because the child actually spends more time in the nurseries than he does at home with his parents," said Miss Arah Phillips, principal of the Jack and Jill Kindergarten and First Grade. "We encourage the parent to ask, 'What does this nursery have to offer my child?' and 'Is this day care center equipped to let my child develop to his fullest potential according to his age and maturity?'"

Miss Phillips is also director of the Permian Basin Pre-School Association Workshop, to be held Saturday, at the Jack and Jill Kindergarten, 2009 Main. Theme for this workshop, which is open to the public and all local officials, is "They Learn From Each Other."

The workshop will feature the film, "They Learn From Each Other," presented by Mrs. Eleanor Eisenberg, consultant, child welfare division, Austin. There are five licensed child care facilities in Big Spring.

Davis, Jones To Represent County In Suit

Dee Jon Davis, Howard County attorney, and Gil Jones, former district attorney now engaged in private practice, have been hired by the Howard County Commissioners Court to represent the county in condemnation proceedings stemming out of acquisition of right of way for FM 700.

Specifically, the two attorneys will appear in an appeal brought by Ralph Gossett and others over the value and damages assigned to a tract of land owned by them. The special commission appointed to appraise the tract had set a value of approximately $118,000 (value and damages) for the land which is located adjacent to the intersection of US 87 and FM 700 south of town.

The owners were not satisfied with the findings and gave notice of appeal. The land reverts to the county on condemnation, but the owners are entitled under the law to appeal the findings of the special commission to a jury in the county court.

The jury will then rule whether the award was proper.

The two attorneys named will appear for the county at the hearing. No date for the trial has been set.

The condemnation proceedings cleared the way, if and when the state is ready, to move onto the land in the building of the highway.

Twelve Of Texas Solons Unopposed

By The Associated Press

Twelve Texas Congressmen saw clear sailing today as they remained unopposed either by fellow Democrats or by Republicans for re-election.

The filing deadline for both parties was midnight Monday. Of the remaining 11 Texas seats, GOP opposition developed over only six.

Twenty-three Texas Democrats were elected to the House of Representatives in 1964, shutting out the Republicans. But redistricting threw four Congressmen into two districts as the more populated sections of the state got three new seats.

DEMOS BATTLE

Thus, incumbent Democrats Ray Roberts of McKinney and Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater will battle it out in the May 7 Democratic primary in the new Dist. 4 post in North Texas. A similar situation was averted in Southeast Texas when Rep. Clark Thompson of Galveston said he would not seek re-election, leaving Rep. Jack Brooks of Beaumont unopposed in either party in the new 9th District.

The new district in Harris County drew three Democratic hopefuls to face Republican George Bush, a Houston oilman. They are former Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe, former Houston city attorney John Wildenthal Jr. and David Van Orsdale, an accountant.

Another lively Democratic primary fight shaped up for Dist. 2, where incumbent Rep. John Dowdy of Athens faces state Sen. Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin.

ATTRACTS 3

The new 23rd District in South Texas attracted three Democratic candidates. They are state Sen. Abraham Kazen of Laredo, Randolph A. Sherwood of San Antonio and Roy Martin of Cotulla.

In West Texas, Rep. Omar Burleson must battle Abilene lawyer Eldon Mahon for the nomination. Mahon is a nephew of Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock.

Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa is unopposed in the primary in the Panhandle's 18th District. But he faces Robert Price, a Pampa Republican, in the general election. Price got 45 per cent of the vote against Rogers in 1964.

Redistricting did away with the Congressman-at-large seat held by Joe Pool of Dallas. Pool is running in the new Dist. 3 created in western Dallas County. He faces James Shepard in the primary, and James Collins, a Republican, will take on the winner in November.

The other Dallas seat, Dist. 5, is held by Rep. Earle Cabell. He is opposed by Republican Duke Burgess.

PICKLE CHALLENGED

Rep. Jake Pickle of the 10th District in Central Texas will be challenged in November by Jane Sumner, an Austin lawyer who filed Monday.

Another Republican, Wichita Falls oilman D. C. Norwood, is opposing Rep. Graham Purcell, also of Wichita Falls, in Dist. 13.

Here are the candidates of both parties, by districts:
1. Democrat: Wright Patman, Texarkana, the incumbent. No opposition in either party.
2. Democrat: John Dowdy, Athens, the incumbent, and Martin Dies Jr., Lufkin. Republican: none.
3. Democrat: Joe Pool, Dallas, the incumbent, and James Shepard, Dallas. Republican: James Collins, Dallas.
4. Democrat: Ray Roberts, McKinney, incumbent of old Dist. 4, and Lindley Beckworth, Gladewater, incumbent of old Dist. 3. Republican: none.
5. Democrat: Earle Cabell, Dallas, the incumbent. Republican: Duke Burgess, Dallas.
6. Democrat: Olin Teague, College Station, the incumbent. No opposition in either party.
7. Democrat: Frank Briscoe, John Wildenthal Jr., and David Van Orsdale, all of Houston. Republican: George Bush, Houston. (No incumbent.)
8. Democrat: Albert Thomas, Houston, the incumbent; State Rep. Bob Eckhardt, 52. Republican: E. A. Rose, 49.
9. Democrat: Jack Brooks, Beaumont, the incumbent. No opposition in either party.
10. Democrat: J. J. (Jake) Pickle, Austin, the incumbent. Republican: Miss Jane Sumner, Austin.
11. Democrat: Bob Poage, Waco, the incumbent. No opposition in either party.

12. Democrat: Jim Wright, Fort Worth, the incumbent. No opposition in either party.
13. Democrat: Graham Purcell, Wichita Falls, the incumbent. Republican: D. C. Norwood, Wichita Falls.
14. Democrat: John Young, Corpus Christi, the incumbent. No opposition in either party.
15. Democrat: Eligio de la Garza, Mission, the incumbent. No opposition in either party.
16. Democrat: Richard White, El Paso, the incumbent. No opposition in either party.
17. Democrat: Omar Burleson, Anson, the incumbent, and Eldon Mahon, Abilene. Republican: none.
18. Democrat: Walter Rogers, Pampa, the incumbent. Republican: Robert Price, Pampa.
19. Democrat: George Mahon, Lubbock, the incumbent. No opposition in either party.
20. Democrat: Henry Gonzalez, San Antonio, the incumbent. No opposition in either party.
21. Democrat: O. C. Fisher,

San Angelo, the incumbent. No opposition in either party.

Booked In Death

Robert Friede, 25, New York City, scion of a Philadelphia publishing family, is booked in New York City in connection with the death of Celeste Crenshaw, 19, whose body was discovered in a car Friede told police he had rented last Saturday. Police said Miss Crenshaw died two weeks ago. (AP Wirephoto)

Publishing Heir Charged In Death

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Friede, an heir to the Annenberg publishing empire, has been charged with homicide in the death of a young woman whose body was found in the trunk of his car. Police discovered the body Monday after Friede was arrested on a narcotics charge. The girl, Celeste Crenshaw, 19, died two weeks ago of "acute and chronic intravenous narcotism," according to a medical examiner. Police said Friede had given her the injection in his East Side apartment. Friede, 25, also was charged with failing to report a death, illegal transportation of a body, and possession of narcotics. A musician, Dudley Watson, 37, was arrested later and charged with illegal transportation of a body and possession of narcotics.

Friede is the grandson of the late Moses Annenberg and nephew of Walter Annenberg, editor and publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

ON PROBATION Miss Crenshaw, a pretty strawberry blonde, was the product of a well-to-do but broken home. She and Friede had been arrested on a narcotics charge in August, 1964, and had been placed on probation, police said.

Two policemen noticed Friede sitting in his car early Monday and stopped to question him. When he took out his driver's license three plastic packages of white powder fell out of his wallet.

FIND BODY He was taken to a police station and when police searched the car the girl's body was found.

Miss Crenshaw was the daughter of William G. Crenshaw, a lighting fixtures manufacturer in Raleigh, N.C., and Mrs. William N. Gooden, who has remarried and lives in Manhattan. She formerly lived with her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wyle Sr., at Hastings-on-Hudson.

Former Resident Dies, Rites Held

Funeral for L. B. (Britt) Wade, 68, former resident of Howard County, uncle of Mrs. Granvil Miller, 1702 E. 15th, and of Tommy Weaver, 1711 Goliad, were held Monday morning in Castro Valley, Calif.

Mr. Wade, who left this county in 1945, died of a sudden heart attack last Thursday at his home. He was a civil service worker.

He had lived in Knott and in Big Spring during the time he was in this county. Survivors include his widow, five daughters, one son, and 13 grandchildren.

Farmers Ready Spring Planting

AUSTIN (AP) — South and Central Texas farmers, whose fields had dried, rushed seed preparation and placing of fertilizer for spring crops last week, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported Monday.

Many fields in the blacklands, coastal bend and Lower Rio Grande Valley were still too wet for work, the department said in its weekly crop and weather report.

CITRUS HELD UP Movement of citrus fruit from the valley was held to a minimum in anticipation of a price rise due to freezing temperatures in Florida and a temporary embargo on fresh shipment from that state. "Freezing temperatures in the Rio Grande Valley in late January did little damage to citrus fruit or trees," the report said. Last week's cold weather caused no frost damage to Valley crops, "but strong winds in some areas caused light damage to crops."

PLANT COTTON Cotton planting in the valley will start soon. In North Texas, last month's snow brought protective covering for wheat, "but lasting moisture for new growth was of little consequence. Wheat is dormant from cold temperatures, the report said. The department said very little of the remaining cotton, located mostly on the southern low plains, could be harvested. Oats were damaged by near-freezing temperatures, but prospects for flax continued good.

Six Inmates Choke Jailer, Make Escape

ANSON, Tex. (AP) — Six inmates choked jailer Arden Beasley until they could grab his keys and broke out of the Jones County jail about 3 a.m. today.

"They lured the jailer upstairs by telling him a mental patient had broken a water pipe and grabbed him," Sheriff Dave Reeves reported.

He said Beasley apparently was unhurt. Reeves identified the escapees as Franklin J. Ransomette, 26, charged with kidnapping; Bobby Glen Woolf, 22, charged with forgery; Clark G. Bryan, 21, charged with burglary; Charles S. Brogdon, 32, charged with theft, and Mickey Jett, 18, and Billy G. Brown, 17, both accused of aiding in a previous jailbreak.

DEAR ABBY Tight Pants, Yes And No

DEAR ABBY: Anyone who thinks skinny, form-fitting trousers for men is "disgusting" should get out his history book. George Washington wore tight pants—and they were satin, yet. And so did Napoleon, Thomas Jefferson, Sir Walter Raleigh, and many other heroes of various periods. Lots of hair was so much in vogue in those days that no man could grow enough. So they wore wigs. I wish the old foggies would go along with the current styles and quit nagging the kids.

PROUD OF TEENAGERS

DEAR ABBY: About tight pants: It all depends on who wears 'em. I have seen men in tight pants who look great. But I think any man under 5 ft. 8 who is more than ten pounds overweight should be fined $100 for wearing tight pants. And any man who is bow-legged who would dare to wear tight pants should be put in jail. MILTY

DEAR ABBY: Tell DISGUST-

ED IN SYCAMORE she is not alone. Tight pants on men and boys are the crime of the century. My son is 20 years old and I buy his pants at the dear old Salvation Army, where we can get them with pleats in front. He is an honor student at college where he is graded on the curve (but not the curve of his lower torso). I gag when I see men dancing on TV in those tight, skinny pants.

MOTHER IN ALBANY

DEAR ABBY: "DISGUSTED" took the words out of my mouth. Tightness is not confined only to men's trousers. Everything is skimpy in men's fashions. Their neckties are little thin strings, and even their hats look like a fly on a doughnut. The Ivy League cut is reminiscent of the short, tight jacket worn by the organ grinder's monkey 50 years ago. And those "mud" colors that are "in" are sickening. I don't advocate sticking to the same styles for years without end, but I am more than ready for a change. These are the worst! FASHION-MINDED

DEAR ABBY: That lady who thought tight pants for men were disgusting is nuts. I suppose she liked the big baggy-legged pants flapping in the breeze better. I think those old-fashioned wide pants made men look like burlesque comics on the vaudeville stage.

LIKES TIGHT PANTS

DEAR ABBY: In regard to the letter about the tight-legged pants: I would like to add a comment from my husband. He swears that he has to grease his foot to get it through his pants leg. FROM MISSOURI

A. G. Mitchell Seeks County Judge Position

A. G. Mitchell, 2710 Carol, has authorized The Herald to formally announce his candidacy for the office of county judge of Howard County, subject to action of the Democratic primaries.

A. G. MITCHELL

Mitchell, a resident of Howard County for the past 22 years, has recently been serving as deputy under A. N. Standard, sheriff. He resigned from that post Monday to devote full time to campaigning for the county judgeship.

Born in Denton, Tex., Mitchell has had 34 years experience as a law enforcement officer. Four years of that time, he served as police chief of Big Spring. For 13 years, he was assistant superintendent of special agents for the Texas & Pacific Railway Co. He has served seven years as a deputy sheriff.

For a time he was a sergeant in the security organization of North American Aviation. He also had experience in Denton as a patrolman.

Mitchell is president of the M.P. Waterwell Drilling and Service Co. He also engages in stock raising and farming.

His wife, Agnes, is a teacher in the Big Spring city schools. They have three children, all of whom are married. Gene Mitchell, one of their sons, is an industrial engineer with the El Paso Electric Service Co. A daughter, Mrs. Richard Moore, is a real estate broker in Houston. A second daughter, Mrs. Judy Love Edwards, lives in Fort Worth, where her husband is attending college.

Mitchell said: "If the people of Howard County elect me as their county judge, there is one thing I will assure them — there will be two full time county courts. One will be the regular county court at which county business and decisions is handled by the judge and county commissioners. The second will be a county court at law where all county criminal cases will be tried and tried promptly.

"I will guarantee that I will devote my full time to keeping the county court docket to a normal size."

Mitchell said he plans an intensive campaign. He intends, if he can do so he said, to personally talk with every voter before the May 7 primary.

He asks the vote and support of all citizens interested in a business-like administration of the office of county judge, he said.

George D. Pike won high score in the eight week series ending at the Sunday afternoon duplicate bridge game at Cosden Country Club.

Tying for second and third place were Mrs. Rogers Hefley and Mrs. Riley Foster. Other winners were Mrs. E. L. Powell, fourth; Mrs. Tom South, fifth; and Mrs. Carl Blomsheld, sixth.

Winners of the afternoon game were Mrs. J. H. Holloway and Pike, first; Mrs. Hudson Landers and Mrs. R. R. McEwen, second; Mrs. Powell and Mrs. South, third; Mrs. J. F. Kasch and Mrs. Truman Jones, fourth; and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Riley, fifth.

The game also marked the beginning of the best five out of seven game series.

Add a curl of lemon peel and a suspicion of tarragon when you heat consommé. Strain, serve and enjoy the interesting flavor.

ON DIVISION ORDERS

Wayne Bartlett Speaks For Desk-Derrick Club

Wayne Bartlett, division order supervisor for Cosden Oil and Chemical Company was speaker for the Desk and Derrick Club Monday in the Cosden downtown reception room. He was introduced by Miss Dana Tesson, vice president.

In briefing the group on division orders, Bartlett explained that these papers reflect the ownership of oil which companies purchase from various leases. The owner and operator of the lease must furnish a title opinion which will show the ownership. Bartlett defined working, royalty and other types of interest which may be held in a lease. He said that any interest is considered real estate and changes in ownership must be supported by legal instrument and recorded in the county where the property is located.

Bartlett explained that processing of division orders at Cosden require the attention of, not only his office, but the legal department, allowable clerk, field office and crude oil accounting which assigns every one a lease number. Each month, when crude runs are figured, the interests due each interest owner are automatically computed by the IBM department and checks are automatically written.

The business was conducted by Mrs. Kaye Thornton.

president, who announced that the regional meeting will be April 21-23 in Tulsa, Okla. The club will pay for the registration of all members who attend and the expenses of Mrs. Thornton as official delegate. Refreshments were served to 12 by Mrs. Jean Stone. The new meeting time will be 7 p.m.

U.S. Paratroopers Kill 63 Viet Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. paratroopers killed at least 63 Viet Cong in bitter hand-to-hand combat near Tuy Hoa, 240 miles northeast of Saigon, while Australians uncovered a large Communist supply depot in the scrublands 30 miles east of Saigon, U.S. officials reported today.

Another 52 or more Communists were killed when South Vietnamese forces struck back with planes, tanks and artillery to beat off an ambush of a government troop convoy in the Mekong Delta southwest of Saigon. But a government spokesman said South Vietnamese casualties were heavy.

POUND TARGETS

U.S. jets again crossed the 17th Parallel frontier to pound targets in North Viet Nam and rain millions of propaganda leaflets explaining the resumption of air attacks. A Navy A-1 Skyhawk fighter-bomber from the carrier Ticonderoga was shot down by anti-aircraft fire 30 miles north of Vinh. The pilot ejected safely but was surrounded and evidently taken prisoner, other airmen reported. Radio Hanoi confirmed his capture.

The plane was the seventh reported lost since the 37-day bombing pause ended Jan. 31.

In the South, a small U.S. Air Force spotter plane crashed taking off from Cao Lanh air strip 75 miles southwest of Saigon. The American pilot walked away uninjured, but his Viet-

In the course of my travels I have visited virtually every important bridge club in the world. In my opinion, the most impressive is our own Regency Club of New York City. Numbered among its 900 members are tournament bridge players of prominence and many colorful personalities from the metropolitan professional and social circles.

The current president is my good friend, Wingate Bixby, who played on two of the teams that I accompanied to South America for Inter-American matches in past seasons. An example of his skill at the card table is presented today, in a hand taken from a recent session at the Regency club. Mr. Bixby was seated South and became the declarer at a contract of four hearts.

South opened the bidding with one heart — the highest ranking of three touching four card suits. North made a temporizing response of two clubs which South raised to three. North showed his heart support next, but Bixby returned to four clubs since his heart holding was not rebiddable. North might have passed at this point but he decided that, as long as the partnership was at the four level, he would gamble out a game contract and be carried on to four hearts.

West opened the king of spades and continued the suit, as declarer ruffed. With his meager trump holding further reduced in size, South was hardly in a position to take charge. As a preliminary measure, he led a heart and permitted West to hold the trick when the latter played the ten.

West exited with the queen of hearts and the king was played from dummy. A small diamond was led and South covered East's seven with the nine. West was in again with the jack of diamonds and he returned the jack of hearts. When East followed suit, Bixby breathed a sigh of relief, for his ace of hearts was the last trump. The ace and king of diamonds cleared up that suit and declarer took the remaining tricks with clubs and diamonds.

If West had presented South with a series of ruffs and discards by leading spades at every opportunity, it would have led to declarer's defeat. With the sustained assault on his trump holding, he must eventually lose control of the hand.

New GI Bill Pushed By Texas Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough says he will ask the Senate to approve the house-passed GI benefits bill that would provide housing and education for veterans.

The House passed the bill Monday by a 351-0 vote and returned it to the Senate where a more costly version was approved last year.

MINOR CHANGE

Yarborough, Texas Democrat who steered the measure through the Senate, said the House version will be presented with only one minor change. The change, acceptable to House sponsors, would make certain that the education benefits would be applicable to servicemen who have not completed their high school education.

All persons who have served more than six months on active military duty since the Korean GI bill expired Jan. 31, 1955, would be eligible for benefits under the House version.

HIGHER GRANTS

The major difference between the Senate and House measures is that the Senate would pay higher education grants. The House provided for payments ranging from $100 to $150, depending on the number of dependents. The Senate range was $110 to $165.

While both bills would provide for 36 months of education — a complete college course — two years of active duty would assure full eligibility under the Senate bill and three years would be required under the House measure.

DIRECT PAYMENTS

Education payments would be made directly to veterans and would start next June. The schooling could be spread over a period of eight years and the veteran could choose his own school.

New Yorkers Expected To Ballot On Lottery

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New Yorkers may get a state lottery. The issue is expected to come before the voters in November.

The lottery measure was passed by the State Senate after a stormy debate Monday and was sent to the Assembly, where final legislative approval today was a foregone conclusion.

The Assembly's Democratic majority was overwhelmingly in favor of holding a lottery and there was substantial support for the idea in Republican ranks.

Following Assembly action the plan will be ticketed for the election ballot. It will appear as a proposed amendment to the state constitution.

Exactly what form the lottery would take will be left to the 1967 legislature to decide assuming the voters endorse the principle. Sponsors of the lottery bill have talked of a sweepstakes, similar to the New Hampshire plan, which is based on horse races.

All proceeds would have to be consigned to state aid for education. The lottery revenue has been estimated as high as $400 million a year.

In the Senate debate, Democratic Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki said that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's budget director had estimated the proceeds as only $65 million, if New York followed the New Hampshire system.

But, Zaretzki said, "even if it's only $65 million, it's worth it."

The Senate's Republican Majority Leader, Earl W. Brydges, arrayed himself against passage of the lottery measure. He called the plan "immoral" and "demeaning to our great state."

Court Orders Woman Jurors

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A federal court, in a ruling unprecedented in the nation's history, has ordered Alabama to start putting women on juries in its state courts.

In the same decision Monday, the three-judge panel also found that rural Lowndes County through the years systematically has kept Negroes off its jury rolls. It ordered the practice halted at once.

From another three-judge court came a ruling which may send some out-of-state motorists to jail in Alabama for traffic offenses.

The judges on that panel agreed with a Lowndes County Negro's contention that he cannot be tried on a reckless driving charge by a justice of the peace whose fees come from fines levied in his court.

The Negro who challenged the right of the justice of the peace to try him was one of those whose complaint brought the federal court order to put more Negroes on the jury list. No racial element was injected into the reckless driving case, however; it would apply to white and Negro defendants alike.

Although the panel composed of Judge Richard T. Rives of the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals and District Judges Clarence Allgood and Frank M. Johnson Jr., threw out Alabama's law against women jurors, they said it can remain in effect until June, then becomes mandatory. The court said that is one of the practical problems the state needs time to work out.

Alabama, where women already serve on federal court juries, is one of three states whose laws keep them off juries in state courts. The others are Mississippi and South Carolina.

In reaching its conclusion, the court said the U. S. Constitution was never intended as a rigid barrier against changing times, but rather as a living document which must be applied to "legal cases and controversies of contemporary society."

Arm And Shoulder Pain . . .

By Halvard T. Hansen, D. C.

Hardly a week goes by without someone coming to the Hansen Chiropractic Clinic complaining of a pain in the shoulder and upper arm that may or may not extend in to the hand and fingers.

We find that many have been diagnosed as Bursitis and have tried most everything from heat on the shoulder to tranquilizing drugs for relief. When all efforts fail and their unbearable pains persist, they find their way to the chiropractor who can usually relieve their misery.

There are various types of shoulder and arm conditions, but we find the pain can often be eliminated by tracing the affected nerves to their points of irritation in the spine and removing the cause. If you find water on the floor, don't you look to see where it is coming from, or do you close the door and try to forget about it?

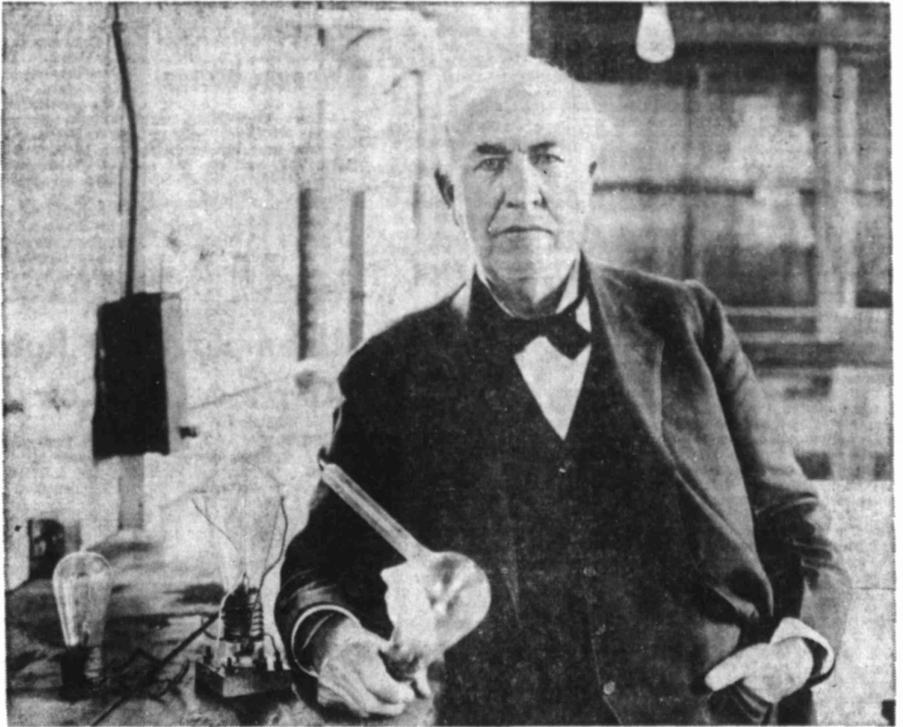

The bursa is a sack-like fibrous membrane that encloses a joint and keeps the socket lubricated much like your mouth is kept moist. Bursitis simply means this bursa has become inflamed which causes severe pain with some loss of movement.

Frozen shoulder is an affliction that starts with painful arm movements which is usually worse at night when inactive muscles become contracted. If neglected, this condition gradually limits normal range of movement.

One of the most common painful shoulder and arm conditions is the Scalenus Anticus Syndrome which is simply an inflammation of the brachial nerves associated with a reflex spasm of the scalenus muscle of the shoulder. This painful condition is caused by displacement of a neck vertebrae or the 1st or 2nd rib. Reflex pains often extend to the upper chest, arm pit, between the shoulders, in the neck and up back of the head. The arm gives a feeling of being heavy as if it will drop off. The arm and hand often feels cold with numbness and tingling and weakness of grip.

You may be suffering needlessly with an arm or shoulder pain that you believe hopeless. Why not investigate — Hansen Chiropractic Clinic across from Piggly Wiggly on Eleventh Place. AM 3-3324.

He invented a better way of living..electrical living!

Thomas A. Edison, whose birthdate each year signals the observance of National Electrical Week, brought electricity out of the laboratory and into practical use for the benefit of mankind. His invention of the first practical incandescent lamp, and his many other inventions in the field of electric power generation and distribution, created a new way of life and a new industry. Edison foresaw great things for electricity and for the electric industry he founded. And today business-managed electric companies, like Texas Electric Service Company, are making his vision come true . . . constantly planning, building and working to provide more and better electric service . . . for continued progress and for better living.

A Devotional For The Day

Forgive us . . . as we forgive. (Matthew 6:12)
PRAYER: Forgive us, O Savior Christ, if we have despised any for whom Thou didst die, or have injured any in whom Thy spirit lives. Cleanse us of all sin and teach us to pray in Thy spirit. Amen.
(From the "Upper Room")

Weaker But Still Strong

Two tests come up for the repealer of section 14-b of the Taft-Hartley Act. This particular section permits states to have "right to work" laws if they desire, and it is a bone in the throat of organized labor leaders.

None concedes that labor will be able to muster enough strength to shut off debate on the repealer. Whether Sen. Mansfield, Democratic majority leader, will seek a second test on Thursday in event he loses, the first round today as is expected. In any event, the second go around in efforts to choke off debate does not seem any more promising.

Thus, it might be concluded that the fight to repeal 14-b is about won. This is simply not so. The administration can back off, but if it is really serious about pushing the issue, there may come a time later in the session where the administration may want to turn on the heat for ending debate and bringing 14-b to a vote on the Senate floor.

It might as well be acknowledged, regardless of what the polls show, that if the matter ever gets to the floor of the Senate, the repealer will muster a majority. Hence, hopes of keeping this section of the bill, while substantially better than in the last session (thanks to the arrogant display by the late Mike Quill in the New York transit strike), the realistic view is that the repealer must be bottled by filibuster or threat of filibuster.

Attracting Tourists

The federal government, trying to curtail the gold drain of American tourists' spending abroad, is encouraging see-America-first vacations. In this effort it has a strong ally, for other motives, in the American Petroleum Institute.

API is expanding in 1966 its three-year-old advertising campaign to encourage vacation and weekend motor trips to scenic, recreational and historic spots over the country. API is also a founding member of "Discover America, Inc.," a private travel promotion organization including oil, automobile, hotel and motel, airline, bus, railroad and other industries benefiting directly or indirectly from home-front tourism.

The American Petroleum Institute's program, as well as that of Discover America, Inc., is doubly beneficial to Texas. Its purpose of increasing the consumption of petroleum products by motorists helps domestic demand for this state's nation-leading oil industry. And the promotion of vacationing within the United States also will help Texas' increasingly important tourist industry.

To reap the maximum benefit of this and related tourist-promotion programs, Texas must continue to improve its tourist attractions — the state parks, inland and coastal water recreation spots, and other public and private facilities for the fun-seeking traveler. The oil for motoring can provide in any quantity that tourist promotion conceivably could stimulate.

An Owl Is Heard From

WASHINGTON — The new bird in the political aviary is the owl. When in an offhand remark he typed himself thus, as a contrast to the furiously fluttering doves and hawks, Sen. George Aiken of Vermont created another point of reference in the Viet Nam controversy.

The owl is a symbol of wisdom, reflection, contemplation. Aiken has been saying all along that some good, hard thought about where we were going in Viet Nam was in order. Let's look before we leap, was his warning put with the common sense of the Vermontor rooted in his native hills.

UNHAPPILY his warning, voiced in his slow speech with the New England twang, was lost in the twittering of the aviary. The distinction between hawks and doves has always been doubtful. The trouble with official policy-makers has been that they have had one note repeated over and over again with such insistence that it has been impossible to detect any variant on the Viet Nam theme.

Among the half-dozen Republican Senators who have urged restraint and a continuation of the bombing pause Aiken has been the most forthright. Similarly when President Johnson announced his decision to resume bombing of North Viet Nam, the statement Aiken made on the floor had a ring of candor so scarce on all sides of the Viet Nam issue.

THE LINE of the Republican leadership is to support the President and to refrain from giving any incautious advice. Then the opposition cannot be blamed if the party in power walks deeper into the Viet Nam trap and the American public decides — perhaps as early as the election in November — that the cost is far too high. But Aiken, in what was one of the most notable speeches in the Senate for a long time, stood foursquare for what he believes must now be done with the inevitable escalation of the war.

HE CALLED the President's proposal for a speedup in income tax collections and restoration of some excise taxes "ridiculous," since these measures will not even begin to pay for an escalated war. The President, said Aiken, will have to ask for the suspension of the tax reduction of two years ago, and equally important, he should move to plug the notorious loopholes that mean special favors for a few privileged taxpayers.

He was equally stern with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara for requesting an increase of 113,000 men in the armed forces. Who does he think he is kidding, Aiken demanded. And then he spoke the kind of harsh truth rarely heard in a body that must by its very nature be acutely sensitive to the next election and the election after that.

"THERE IS NO sense in waiting until after election to recommend the inevitable," he said. "Lives are more precious than votes. . . . To wait until after election to announce this (universal conscription) is just another attempt to lull the people."

While recognizing what he believes inevitably must now be done Aiken did not recant on his earlier views. He put into words the feeling of many Senators when he said:

"Although I have at all times recognized the responsibilities of the United States of the people of South Viet Nam I have never for an instant regarded my vote for the concurrent resolution of August, 1964, as a vote to give the President authority to wage war at will in Southeast Asia."

THIS IS THE resolution, adopted with only two dissenting votes in the house, on which the President relies to take all steps he deems necessary to prosecute the Vietnamese war. For the future the Vermont owl spoke a somber warning. He said he hoped that "those who make the decisions for our country would bear in mind that while the war of democracy versus communism cannot be won in Southeast Asia it can be lost there."

Two Jobs

DELAVAN, Wis. (AP) — David Tomko, the 30-year-old 6 foot, 203 pound night patrolman on the Delavan police force, plays another major role in this southern Wisconsin community.

He is pastor of Emmanuel Christian Assembly Church.

"My work is interwoven," Tomko explained. "They run together in many cases. As a result of my police work, I meet new people, which I can understand better and help more because of my outlook from a pastoral viewpoint."

Tomko, married and the father of three children, works four nights on the 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. shift, two nights from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. and then has two days off. Some weeks he has only a short nap between police duties and the pulpit.

Republicans Count On Demo Division

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are charting an election year course that aligns them generally with President Johnson's policy in the Vietnamese war — and spotlights Democratic criticism of the administration stand.

GOP orators seldom mount a platform these days without pointing to the Capitol Hill Democrats who challenge Johnson's stand.

"FOOL TALK," Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky called it. "The flag is committed," he said. "I support the flag."

Republican strategists on Capitol Hill have said they are counting on Democratic divisions about Viet Nam to help the GOP cause in the congressional campaign ahead.

If Washington-based strategists have their way, Republican contenders next fall will challenge their Democratic opponents to declare themselves supporters — or critics — of Johnson's stand in Southeast Asia.

THIS POLITICAL strategy has been accompanied by an easing of Republican calls for U.S. measures that would heighten the war.

Republican leaders seldom talk now about the two-month-old call of party chieftains for a blockade of North Viet Nam and for maximum use of air and sea power against military targets there.

In general, this GOP course seems to take maximum advantage of the public sentiment reported to the party's national committee by a professional poll-taker.

THOMAS W. BENHAM of Opinion Research Corp. found Viet Nam the issue uppermost in the American mind—but also found that 56 per cent of the people approve what Johnson has ordered there and only 26 per cent disapprove.

While he reported Johnson's popularity rating is high, Benham recalled the plunge in Harry S. Truman's standing that accompanied the worsening Korean war.

A turn for the worse in Viet Nam could do the same thing to Johnson's popularity, Benham said.

SEN. JACOB K. JAVITS of New York has said it would be suicidal for Republicans to try to make the war into a partisan issue.

"If the Republican party is smart," he said, "and it gives every indication of being so on this subject, it will stick strictly to the bipartisan position of support of the President when he deserves it and proper criticism when he doesn't deserve it."

Morton has said flatly that the Republican campaign will be waged on domestic issues, not on the question of Viet Nam.

John D. Sr. Wore A Wig

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Motorcycling is enjoying a boom today among grownups as well as the leather jacket crowd. Some 700,000 Americans own motor bikes. But motor cycling is still a dangerous sport. The death rate is 13 per year for each 10,000 cycles, compared to six deaths for each 10,000 motor cars.

AMONG THE things that money couldn't do was grow hair on a bald head. That's why John D. Rockefeller Sr., one of the richest men who ever lived, wore a wig for nearly half a century.

The world population is increasing by 65 million yearly — about one-third the number of people in the United States.

Only the surface of a desert is burning hot. Dig down a foot or so, and the temperature drops to a comfortable 73 degrees.

ONE REASON you shouldn't use tranquilizers except on medical advice is that, taken in too large a dosage or over too long a time, they may cause heart disease.

Research has found this to be true in both animals and people.

Quotable notables: "I must lose myself in action, lest I wither in despair" — Alfred Tennyson.

Pope Pius V banned bullfighting in Spain in 1567 because of so many fatalities among Spanish lords who lanced the bulls from horseback. What really led the aristocrats to give up the sports, however, was the fact that commoners began to fight the bulls on foot, using only a cape and a sword.

Household tip: A St. Louis, Mo., doctor says that if wives cook food in an iron pot it may help prevent anemia in the family. Gets more iron in everybody's system.

HISTORY LESSON: At least five U.S. presidents wore beards while in office. They were Abraham Lincoln, U. S. Grant, James Garfield, Rutherford B. Hayes and Benjamin Harrison.

River of life: The chances are one in 80 that you will receive a blood transfusion this year. Between five and six million pints are needed annually by U.S. hospitals.

Worth remembering: "There is nothing wrong with the younger generation that the older generation didn't outgrow."

Angina Pectoris Sufferers Can Improve

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I am 62 and have had chest pains since last summer. In the hospital they were diagnosed as angina pectoris.

Is there a chance they won't clear up? My doctor keeps saying to take it easy, but after this long, I wonder. When I sit in a rocking chair, everything is fine, but with the least exertion I have the pains.—I.J.H.

Generally speaking—although there are exceptions—angina pectoris is something a person has to "learn to live with."

While there are different degrees, ordinarily angina — the pain, that is—indicates that the heart is being called upon to work harder than it is able to do without strain. The cramping pain is Nature's way of saying, "Ease up!"

In short, you have to realize that your heart will accept only so much demand upon it before it rebels. That's why you don't have the pain while sitting quietly. Your heart doesn't have to do much work.

Gradually increasing the amount of exercise—as walking—improves the problem so that the need for medication decreases and the tolerance of the heart muscle increases. This can be accomplished by taking a nitro-glycerin tablet before you embark on the walk. When and if pain occurs—stop and rest.

Hence the solution boils down to learning exactly how much you can do without causing the pain, and being careful to stop before that happens. In addition, certain drugs, of which nitroglycerin is the best known, relieve attacks of pain temporarily, and I have no doubt that your doctor has explained this to you. (These drugs are not habit-forming, and can be taken whenever needed.)

People with ailing hearts and angina pectoris often get along quite well for years, provided they understand the problem and take the trouble to avoid overtaxing their hearts.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read that a woman can undergo an operation after her tubes have been tied, so she can have a baby. Plastic tubing is inserted where the tubes were tied. If this is true, where can I get all the necessary information about it? —MRS. M.R.

It's true that such an operation can be performed. Sometimes it succeeds; sometimes it doesn't.

The uncertainty of success explains why I so repeatedly advise women not to have the tubes tied (or in the case of men, not to have the sperm duct tied) unless they are sure beyond any doubt that they should not have any more children. Many people are "sure," but later change their minds.

As for "information about it," if you want to have the restorative operation, and hope that it will succeed, go to your regular physician and have him refer you to a gynecologist.

In some communities there may not be surgeons with the skill and training to perform this operation, but you can always go to a medical center or to one of the cities to have it done. Just don't expect a guarantee that it will succeed. Often it does, but sometimes it doesn't.

Attention all women! For the pamphlet, "The Pre-Menstrual Blues," write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover printing and handling. This pamphlet may help you!

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Bigger Than The Forest

They say you often can't see the forest for the trees. I know that this is very true. Most things which are of great interest to strangers mean nothing to folk who are in close contact with them.

THERE IS the story of the tourist who stood on a hill enchanted by the echoing tones of the bells in a famous cathedral. Nearby was a native of the community.

"Beautiful, aren't they?" the tourist asked the native.

The native cupped a hand around his ear.

"What say?" he asked.

The tourist repeated his question. The native was still unable to understand. Finally the native, shaking his head indignantly, said:

"I'M SORRY, mister — can't hear a thing for them danged bells."

My wife tells of an incident when she was in the Smoky Mountains. She was deeply impressed by the magnificent scenery and the impressive beauty of the scene. Turning to a native she commented on how lovely the vista was.

The native was not impressed. She looked around stolidly and replied:

"I reckon — but ye can't eat scenery."

I ONCE KNEW a typical frontier lawman. He fitted the popular image exactly. Big, straightbacked, blue-eyed, he looked like a typical Hollywood selection for the role of a marshal or a sheriff.

For twenty or thirty years he had served as sheriff in a rough and rugged county. He had succeeded in becoming so powerful that he "ran" the county from the courts down to the smallest governmental function. It was a common expression "if you know the sheriff, you can get away with murder." And, for the record, I think that it was true.

WHEN I MET him, his lawing days had ended. A reform group had succeeded in ousting him from the office he had held for three decades. He lived on after that for 12 or 15 years.

I heard he was gravely ill. I went to his wife and son and the three of us prepared a biographical sketch of his exciting and colorful career. I made just three copies of this sketch. One copy I turned over to my own newspaper. Perhaps, I thought, some other paper might want something when the man dies.

HE DIED after a lingering illness. No sooner had the news of his death been released than my phone began to ring—New York, Chicago, Dallas, San Francisco. Even a cable from London. All wanted the same thing—a detailed story of this man and his career as a peace officer.

This puzzled me. To me the man had never been that big. And yet, when I stood back and looked at him in the eyes of those who had only heard of him and had not known him personally, he was tremendously large. In this case this tree was a lot bigger, I guess, than the whole forest.

The Ultimate Weapon?

WASHINGTON — It has just been reported to a group of American physicists that a new "gravity bomb" equal to one million H-bombs could someday be built. At the moment it is impractical because of size and cost as well as a lack of a triggering device, but they said the H-bomb was impractical a few years, ago, too.

The important thing is that in the next 10 years many countries will be developing atomic bombs and H-bombs and the countries that now possess these bombs will no longer have the prestige and position they hold in world affairs today.

THEREFORE, the gravity bomb could be the answer to those who want to stay ahead in the nuclear arms race.

The big fear in the world today is that China, France, Israel, Egypt, India, and Monaco may all become nuclear powers. And the question is how do you settle disputes when everyone has an H-bomb.

The answer is the gravity bomb. No country is going to start any trouble with us when they know that if they use the H-bomb we would use a bomb one million times more powerful.

THE ONLY two nations who have the capacity to build the gravity bomb are the United States and the Soviet Union. But the fear is that if one country gets its gravity bomb built first the other country might feel endangered. The best way to resolve this is for the United States, who will probably get its bomb built first, to allow the Soviet Union to steal its secrets.

This could easily be done by inviting Dr. Klaus Fuchs back to the U.S. to work on our bomb. Dr. Fuchs would pass on the secret to the Russians who would then develop their own gravity bomb and the balance of power in the world would be saved.

IT IS possible that some way would have to be worked out to dramatize the effectiveness of the "G" bomb. Since you couldn't very well test it on the earth, the best way to show people the power of the bomb might be to blow up the moon. Everyone could see it and we don't really need the moon much anyway.

Because of its size and power, the United States and the Soviet Union would have to reassure the non-gravity-bomb nations that they would only use the "G" bomb as a last resort, if the other side used it first. We could still fight small wars with H-bombs, but only a madman would think of getting into a war with the "G" bomb.

THERE WILL be a great deal of pressure from our allies for their own stockpile of "G" bombs, but it would be a mistake for us to give in to them, just as it would be a mistake for the Russians to turn over their "G" bomb to the Chinese.

France and China might threaten to build their own "G" bombs, but scientists believe it would take them at least 10 years to develop them. By this time we will have discovered the "F" bomb which will be one million times more powerful than the "G" bomb.

SO, EVEN IF the other countries do eventually find out the secret of the "G" bomb, they still will not possess the ultimate weapon. That is the beauty of science.

Japs Hoodwinking Us In Trade

WASHINGTON—Pearl Harbor, the name which lives in infamy, wasn't the last sneak attack which the crafty Japanese have loosed against the United States.

These wily Orientals, equally as tricky under a pacifist regime as they were under militarism, have been quick to adopt the ruses of modern trade war. The latest evidence of Japanese perfidy has come to me through private sources, but it will soon be placed in the hands of several watchful Senators. The following paragraph comes from an intelligence digest dated January 19, 1966. It is based on testimony of a Communist defector who is hiding out in the U.S. Embassy in Mexico City. The passage reads:

"THE JAPANESE government has created an organization to act as a front for trade with Red China and other Communist countries. The organization is known as Japan International Trade Promotion Association, and acts as intermediary between Red Chinese trade missions and a number of (Japanese) firms using fictitious names as a cover for real companies that export the bulk of the products to the United States. The main reason for such action is to prevent loss of U.S. business because of the trade with the Red Chinese."

SENATOR VANCE Hartke (D., Ind.) is the author of an anti-dumping bill (S-2045) aimed chiefly at Japan. The Senator found, on a recent trip to Emperor Hirohito's empire, that the government there is brazen and avaricious. He was told that Japan will take all the trade it can get from the Communist bloc and that its pacifism is sufficient guarantee against any threat from Continental China. Hartke didn't know till I told him of how the Tokyo government conspires with its merchandisers to hoodwink American public opinion. "It's about time we began to act like a mature nation and cracked down on the filiform," he said. "The United States ought to look after American interests first."

THE COMMUNIST defector now in political asylum is Gilberto Alemany. Until last August he was head of Castro's trade mission in Japan, where he negotiated for consumer goods, rather than industrial machinery, indicating Castro's immediate need for basic supplies. Alemany and others worked through Japanese Communists who pose as bona fide members of the Liberal Party, which holds a majority of seats in the Japanese Diet. Last summer Alemany was ordered back to Cuba for reassignment, but he believed he was under surveillance—and defected.

ALEMANY'S TESTIMONY to American officials tells the familiar tangled tale of Red agents moving back and forth between Egypt, Cuba, North Korea and Japan. While the extent and intensity of the Red effort is old hat, the American people haven't been sufficiently alerted to the marriage of convenience between the greedy pacifism of Japan and the sleepless enmity of Communism.

Phase Out

STEAD AIR FORCE BASE, Nev. (AP) — Staff Sgt. Daniel Flynn thinks he's getting to be a jinx.

Flynn, 28, from Pawtucket, R. I., says 10 Air Force units or installations have been phased out or deactivated after he was assigned to them, or connected with them in some way. It started back in 1955.

Flynn was assigned to the Reno Air Defense Sector at Stead in 1963. Both the air defense unit and the training base will be phased out by mid-1966.

The sergeant doesn't know where he'll go next, but the Air Force undoubtedly has its fingers crossed.

Pizza House Has Fine Food

Ranch Inn Pizza House, 4000 US 80 west, is the place to go in Big Spring — if you like pizza and fine Italian dishes, and who doesn't? Or if you like plain old American foods. You can be choosy, if you like either one.

LaWanda Yager, owner, has made a specialty of preparing and serving Italian dishes of ancient heritage, such as pizza, and baked lasagna, veal parmigiana, veal lasagna, calabrese, chicken caclatore, chicken tetrazini, Italian style pork chops, deluxe spaghetti, or anything else you desire.

The Pizza House is now operating under changed hours — 11 a.m. to midnight six days a week, and will be open on Sunday (only for orders "to go") from noon until 8 p.m. But the food has not changed — still the best Italian cuisine in the area.

Blue Lustre Saves Time, Cleans Easy

An American tradition as old as apple pie, though not as palatable, is house cleaning. And what with the miserable weather we've been having of late, many a housewife is putting on her apron to dress up the house, but the major problem is the task of cleaning carpets and upholstery.

Phew! What a chore to make rooms look bright and new again. But it is no longer a chore of total drudgery. It is no longer necessary to take lovely carpets off the floor for cleaning and renewing the beauty of colors. This old problem is easily solved if you know about Blue Lustre Carpet and Upholstery Cleaner and the advantage of renting an electric shampoo machine for $1 per day with purchase of the cleaner.

Blue Lustre is a premium quality rug shampoo that is safe for the finest orientals and all types of carpeting. It provides thorough cleaning at very little cost, bringing back the forgotten beauty of dull colors, and leaves the nap open and fluffy.

Cactus Paint Made For Westex Homes

Here comes the dust! Already the fierce West Texas winds have sent sand and dust zipping along over the area and directly into the sides, and paint, of your homes.

And it won't be long now until spring blooms out, winds step up their frequency and intensity, and even more dust begins to pound at that paint. Will your present paint job stand it?

The home with paint beginning to crack or peel or looking dingy should be made to look like some of the blooms soon to come out around it, and about the only way to get that new look is with a new coat of Cactus paint.

Why Cactus paint? Cactus, a local industry, manufactures paints for homes, both interior and exterior, business buildings, and all other uses, to stand up under the harsh West Texas weather conditions, including those dust storms.

A lot of testing, and analyzing, goes into the works out at Cactus paints before a paint is put on the market, and the paint must meet the extremely high standards set by Cactus Paint Co. before it is approved for use.

If you want a room painted to match the rest of the house where the finish is still good, a Cactus paint job will give you what you want. If you need a color not shown on the color charts or cards, or if it is one of your own choosing, to meet your tastes, Cactus men can help you.

This fine local industry, which carries the motto, "Best in The West," is located on US 80 east, across from Cosden's refinery. Go by and visit, or call them at AM 4-8922. You'll be glad you did, and so will your home.

Dodge Carries Guarantees

If you are interested in an automobile which will always be a source of pride and satisfaction, and which carries a guarantee for 50,000 miles, or five years, whichever comes first, on its power train, take a good long look at the new Dodges on the Jones Motor Co. lot.

Also, Jones Motor Co. insists that you ask any Dodge owner about performance, appearance, and service on the cars.

The guarantee goes with the car, even if sold by the original owner, and many good used cars falling into the hands of second or third owners are still under the five-year or 50,000 mile guarantee.

Boyd Named Pony Coach

SWEETWATER — Joe Boyd, 27, head coach and athletic director at Alpine the past three years, has been named to similar positions at Sweetwater High School.

Boyd succeeds the late Murray Holditch. Boyd, picked from among 60 applicants, is scheduled to take over here about March 1.

Boyd is a 1961 graduate of McMurry College. He also attended Baylor for one year. He started his coaching career as a line coach at Harlingen.

His teams have won 27 games while losing only five. Twice he coached Alpine to district championships and his 1965 club was rated first in the state for several weeks.

Forsan, Garden City Square Off Tonight

FORSAN — They'll be here tonight to watch Forsan and Garden City in District 67-B basketball competition.

Three games will be included on the program, with the girls' contest (down for 6:30 p.m.) the center of attraction. The men sextets have met twice this season and broken even in the finals of the recent San Angelo Lake View tournament, 32-51, but Forsan came back to tip the Wildkittens, 52-50, in conference play at Garden City.

The Forsan club, coached by James Blake, are 26-1 for the year and 7-0 in league competition. Garden City is 18-4 for the year and 6-1 against conference foes.

The Forsan boys are 9-10 for the year and 1-6 against league competition. Garden City is a strong 5-3 in league play and a slight favorite in the boys' game tonight. That one goes on about 8 o'clock.

Boys' B teams of the two schools open the entertainment at 5:15 p.m. or thereabouts.

When the boys' teams of the two schools met previously this season in Garden City, the Bears won by the score of 66-60.

The Garden City girls will depend heavily upon such shooters as Beverly Jacob and Judy Hirt. Forsan's scoring threats include Judy Dodd and Mary Simpson.

The feature attractions will be aired over radio station KBST, Big Spring.

Devils Yield Poll's Lead To Tabbies

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Duke found out today that it does not pay not to play. The Blue Devils, who have held the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press major-college basketball rankings for eight consecutive weeks, dropped into second place today as unbeaten Kentucky moved to the top for the first time this season.

And chances are Kentucky's three impressive victories — coupled with Duke's seven days of idleness — brought about the flip-flop.

Duke now has played only one game in the last three weeks. The first two weeks were taken up by mid-year exams but the third week was simply a case of not being able to schedule a game.

"We tried very hard to shift dates and arrange a game for this week," said Duke Coach Vic Bubas, "but we just couldn't do it. We've practiced daily, but there's nothing like playing."

The voters apparently saw it that way too with the Wildcats drawing 20 first-place votes and 341 points from a select panel of sportswriters and sportscasters voting in The AP poll. Kentucky brought its record to 17-0 by beating Alabama 52-62, Vanderbilt 105-90 and Georgia 74-50 last week.

Duke, which finally got into action Monday night, showed the voters a 15-1 record through Saturday's games and received 12 first-place votes and 304 points.

And in Monday night's game, the Blue Devils' 13-game winning streak was halted by West Virginia, 94-90.

The voting, with records through Saturday, and points:

1. Kentucky 17-0	341
2. Duke 15-1	304
3. Chicago Loyola	210
4. Texas Western 16-0	205
5. Vanderbilt 16-3	177
6. Providence 15-1	176
7. Kansas 15-3	117
8. St. Joseph's, Pa. 15-4	106
9. Nebraska 14-2	60
10. Michigan 12-5	33

Jayhawks Register 10th Cage Success

HCJC's basketball buffs had cause to rejoice Monday night. The Jayhawks bombed Frank Phillips College of Borger, 107-77, in the local gym to ring up their tenth victory of the season and set a season's scoring record in the bargain.

It marked the second time this season the local collegians have gone over the 100-point mark — the first since their opening game against Cisco.

The win was the third in Western Conference play for HC against five defeats. Overall, the Big Springers are 10-14. Frank Phillips is 1-4 within the circuit and 6-14 over-all. The Plainsmen visit Odessa for a game with that school's Wranglers tonight.

The Hawks, playing at a more relaxed pace than they have all season, built up an early lead and then were content to trade buckets with the willing but inept Borger team.

The El Paso boys, Kurt Papp and Charles Vass, beat a steady tattoo on the Frank Phillips basket, Papp scoring 29 points and Vass 28. Henry Willis lit up the lamps for 21 of HC's points.

Frank Phillips was led by angular Ray Burn, who flipped in 19 points, and Joe Shelton, who had one less. Danny Hill helped the Plainsmen cause, too, with a 15-point output.

Fouls came few and far between in the game, mainly because most of the shooting came out on the court. Only 14 infractions were called against Frank Phillips while the Hawks were whistled down but 15 times. HC's Jack Thompson had foul trouble, however. He was banished relatively early in the second half after having been charged with three personals with a matter of 20 seconds. It just wasn't his night.

The Jayhawks play host to powerful Lubbock Christian College Thursday in what should be a dingdong battle. The locals are also booked for a Saturday night skirmish in Clarendon.

Yearlings Trim Lamesa For 19th Cage Victory

LAMESA — Big Spring Runners won its 19th game of the season, most ever achieved by a Yearling team, by defeating Lamesa Junior High, 58-36, here Monday night. The Yearlings have lost only four times.

The Big Springers hopped off to a 13-9 advantage in the first round and were never headed. By half time, they had doubled Lamesa's output of points, 34-17.

Runnels' eighth graders came a cropper, however, losing to their Lamesa counterparts by a score of 46-34. The eighth grade Yearlings now have a 2-14 record.

In the ninth grade engagement, Claud Tucker tossed in 22 points and Larry Newton 17 for Big Spring.

The two Yearling clubs wind up their season in the high school gymnasium Thursday night, at which time they oppose Goliad. The eighth grade engagement begins at 6 p.m. in the ninth grade imbroglio about 8 p.m.

Nicklaus Is Now Student

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, golf's leading money winner two years in a row, is going to school to learn more about the game — also to become a full-fledged PGA member.

It's mainly the business end that concerns big Jack right now and he's cramming on it while laying off of the big tour where Arnold Palmer, his arch rival, is making a sensational start.

The man who amassed $152,246.88 last year just playing golf is attending the PGA's business school that runs five days in San Antonio.

It's an intensive instruction course on being an independent business man in operating a golf shop.

The former king of the amateurs was winning gobbs of money on the tour for four years but he's still not a class A member of the PGA, something that would entitle him to play on the Ryder Cup team. A pro has to go through a five-year probationary period before getting the top classification.

The school here will count a full year and that will finish up his period of waiting.

Nicklaus checked in Monday and when the students adjourned he sped out to San Antonio Country Club to spend his lunch hour on the practice tee.

Facing Busy Week

This will be a pivotal week for the Stanton Buffalo basketball team, which should know by Friday night whether or not they rate the state playoffs. The Bisons go to O'Donnell tonight, then play host to Plains Friday. Stanton and Plains are now deadlocked for first place in the race with 6-1 records. Coach Doyle Edmiston is pictured above with two members of his club, Carl Holloway and Larry White. Overall, Stanton is 21-3. (Photo by Danny Valdes)

Stadium Lags With Taxes

HOUSTON (AP) — More than $21,000 in city, state and county taxes owed by the Houston Sports Association on the leasehold for the Harris County domed stadium and on the old Colt Stadium are past due, tax records show.

The deadline for $8,205.12 in city taxes was Dec. 31 and for $13,724.99 in state and county taxes it was Jan. 31.

These taxes will not actually become delinquent until July 1. Until then, however, 1.5 per cent penalty and interest will be added each month they remain unpaid. After July 1, the late charge increases to 11 per cent.

Carl Smith, county tax assessor-collector, said there is a question about the ownership of the old Colt Stadium.

"I'm not sure if Harris County or the Houston Sports Association owns the old Colt Stadium he said. "It was owned by the association at the time this assessment was made, but Harris County may have assumed ownership in the contract leasing the new domed stadium to the HSA."

Smith said he will ask the county attorney for an opinion.

Hearing Pushed On Baby-Selling

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — A registration in Laredo court of inquiry Monday heard a Hebronville, Tex., beauty shop operator say she paid $221 for a baby in 1963.

Six other witnesses appeared during the day, with city detective Manuel Vasquez testifying that there were many cases of illegal birth registrations.

Ignacio Alaniz, who keeps the city's vital statistics, said two babies, who were expected to be sold, were registered by a Laredo midwife. The child welfare unit took custody of these babies in November.

Border Patrolman Angus Orr said he talked to the alleged mothers of the babies and one of them told him she had not given birth to a child recently.

Judge Salinas called the inquiry after Leslie Bell, U.S. immigration inspector, reported that two babies were sold.

Warmer Air Melts Snow

By The Associated Press
Heavy fog shrouded portions of the Midwest early today as warm Gulf air currents flowed across a rapidly melting snow-pack.

The fog thickened during the night hours Monday, hampering transportation and contributing to a heavy toll in highway accidents. Ten persons were killed in Illinois fog accidents. Near Libertyville, Ill., 12 cars were involved in a chain of crashes. Many smashups were caused by school buses stopped on roads.

In outlying sections around Chicago, police reported visibility sharply reduced by fog. Busy Calumet Expressway, police said, had a zero visibility and traffic moved at a crawl.

Reduced visibility grounded aircraft at Lambert-St. Louis Airport during the night. The Weather Bureau said fog affected large parts of Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio.

'KEEP SMILE IN FUTURE'

Children Dental Health Week Being Observed

With the theme "Keep a Smile for Your Future," the American Dental Association is observing the 18th National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 8-12.

Communities and schools across the country are carrying out special dental health programs during the week, in cooperation with local dental societies.

As part of the program, parents are urged to start their children's periodic visits to the dentist soon after the primary teeth have appeared — usually by the time a child reaches the age of three. These so-called "baby teeth," thought by many parents to be of little or no long-range importance, actually perform an invaluable function in maintaining the proper space for the permanent teeth that are to follow, in addition to helping the child to chew, eat and speak properly.

According to the ADA, a child who loses a primary tooth too early should, in most cases, be fitted with a space maintainer. It's even possible, in some instances, for the dentist to re-implant a tooth that has been accidentally knocked out, if it is not too badly damaged.

During the child's first dental examination, the dentist checks for proper jaw and facial development, shifting teeth, poor bite and other dental problems that can be detected at an early age. If these problems are not corrected when the child is young, they may necessitate extensive work of a restorative nature later on.
