Manpower Steps Set By Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told Congress today the government's manpower programs will be expanded and improved in the year ahead with the dual aim of reducing unemployment and heading off shortages of workers in some areas. He called the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962 the nation's most important tool in dealing with both of those problems. OUTLINES STEPS Johnson outlined in his annual manpower report various steps he has taken to deal with various problems. Among other things, he said he has: 1. Directed the commissioner of labor statistics to include in the monthly employment reports the fullest possible information on existing or threatened labor shortage situations. 2. Establish an office of as-

Prof Declares Peking Steps Are Ominous

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's critics are doing the most talking but his supporters are rolling up the most votes against challenges to his conduct of the Viet Nam war.

However, Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., indicated he is not going to be swayed from the critical course he has been pursuing by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's 13-6 rejection Monday of a restrictive amendment he proposed to a $415-million Asia aid bill.

OPENS HEARINGS Fulbright, who heads the committee, opens hearings today in what he calls a searching effort "to increase our understanding" of Red China. The committee was to hear Prof. A. Doak Barnett of Columbia University on his views regarding the possibilities of Chinese intervention in the Viet Nam war.

Barnett told a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee Jan. 26 that while the Chinese leaders have shown "a fairly high degree of realism" thus far about the Viet Nam war they cannot be expected to avoid conflict at all costs.

CALLED OMINOUS He said he doesn't believe the Chinese want to provoke a major conflict but their preparations for war are "ominous and disturbing."

Fulbright absorbed a significant defeat in the Foreign Relations Committee when he was able to rally the support of only five colleagues for an aid bill amendment which would have provided that military and economic assistance to any nation was not to be construed as a commitment to fight for it.

CITES BEGINNING He said the Viet Nam conflict began by furnishing aid.

A proposal by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., to attach a rider saying that passage of the aid bill was not to be construed as an endorsement of Johnson's Viet Nam policies went down under a 14-5 vote. The committee then approved the measure, 18 to 1, with only Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., voting no.

BULLETIN

FORT WORTH (AP) — Gov. John Connally here today accused Sen. Ralph Yarborough of attempting to "sabotage the leadership of this state." Yarborough, a long time political foe, had asserted that Connally and State Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr denounced U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach in a "shocking and discreditable manner" because Katzenbach ordered FBI agents to spot check Texas' free voter registration now under way. (Earlier stories on Page 3-A.)

NATO Step Imperils Ties, France Warned

Remains Of Storm In Upper Midwest

A huge drift reaches to the roof of Gus Boelter's service station in Buchanan, N.D., leaving only the top of a gas pump visible. Attendant works on car in rear of station. The storm, which isolated Buchanan and left most of the residents without power for a day, was one of the worst in North Dakota history. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Upper Midwest Battles Home-Burying Snowdrifts

BUCHANAN, N.D. (AP) — The 100 residents of Buchanan, a tiny village marked by a grain elevator on the central Dakota plateau, fought drifts that buried homes to survive last week's blizzard.

The storm also blacked out power for 24 hours. Ralph Cebula, 49, owner of the town's only bar, and his wife watched from their green frame home as the storm gathered Wednesday. It was 6:40 p.m. Thursday when the lights went off and the furnace stopped.

"How long?" thought Mrs. Cebula, and she looked at her 10-month-old twins and 8-year-old son.

MERCURY PLUNGES Through the night the wind screamed and the living-room thermometer dropped. Cebula and his wife bundled the twins into snow suits, and wrapped them with blankets. Cebula took his family into the basement, where it was warmer.

In the early morning, Cebula took an empty coffee can, stuffed it with rags soaked in rubbing alcohol and lit it. The makeshift stove heated milk for the babies. Friday evening, Cebula went up to check the thermometer. It was just above freezing. The power came back on at 6:40 p.m., just 24 hours after it quit.

"FELT LIKE HEAVEN" Mrs. Cebula said later, "When I heard the furnace turn on, I felt like I had entered heaven."

Alvin Schumaker, a repairman, climbed a 40-foot power pole in 70-mile-an-hour winds to repair a broken switch, restoring electricity. He and Clayton Snitker, a petroleum jobber, struggled through piling drifts to find the trouble spot.

Walter Riker, 68, lived alone in a small trailer house. He watched the storm build, checked his food supply, and went to bed. Thursday his home was covered by a drift, and sifting snow came down his chimney, drowning the flame in his oil burner. Riker turned on an electric heater. Strangely, power on his side of the highway stayed on.

He remained buried in his trailer for three days, in bed under an electric blanket.

"I didn't have much water," he said, "so I sipped it real little. I saved five cans of beer for the last."

HEARS VOICES The solitude droned on through Friday. Saturday afternoon a group of men led by Cebula dug through the drift and freed the trailer door. "When I heard voices outside," Riker said, "it scared the hell out of me."

The Dakotas and Minnesota braced today for strong winds and possibly additional snow as residents continued digging out from the storm that had left 18 dead in the three states. Some snow and snow flurries, as well as freezing rain or sleet, was forecast to accompany strong southerly winds in portions of the states.

At Pierre, S.D., Gov. Nils A. Boe declared northern and central areas of his state major disaster areas, and county agents estimated that 12,000 cattle and sheep had died in the storm in South Dakota.

PARALLEL REPORT On this point De Gaulle's essential demand was understood here to be that the French would take over control. On this point alone, if the French want a nominal command, the issue has been considered negotiable so far as the United States is concerned.

However, parallel with the letter to Johnson, Gaullist officials in Paris have been advising the U.S. and other members of the 15-nation Atlantic alliance that France intends to remove French forces from NATO command completely. That would mean a pull-out of two French divisions and a number of air squadrons in West Germany.

FURTHER PLANS The French, according to diplomatic reports, then would seek to negotiate a new direct arrangement with West Germany to keep the troops there. But the Germans have already replied that they do not intend to have what amounts to occupation forces in residence, according to reports from Bonn and Paris.

Thus De Gaulle's letter to Johnson has been read here as product of French policy aimed at breaking up the Western alliance in its present form or, what seems more likely, removing France entirely from it, though leaving the basic defense commitments of the Atlantic treaty still in force.

PAPER'S REPORT The Washington Post had reported Johnson's response as a direct "no" to the De Gaulle proposals.

Justice Hugo L. Black on one part, the ruling was unanimous. "Hopefully, millions of non-white Americans will now be able to participate for the first time on an equal basis in the government under which they live," Chief Justice Earl Warren said in the majority opinion.

HAS POWER Warren said Congress has the power under the 15th Amendment to suspend literacy tests and to order federal registrars into the South to "banish the blight of racial discrimination."

Justice Black dissented on a provision of the law that bars states covered by it from adding voting amendments to their constitutions or passing new laws without review of federal authorities.

He said that section treats states as if they were "little more than conquered provinces."

NEEDS STUDY Although considering whether a rehearing might be asked, McNair said, "We are in no position at this time — until the full decision is studied — to determine whether there are points on which a request for a rehearing could be based."

Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion called the decision "another step in the total destruction of the rights of states to regulate their internal affairs. It also will undoubtedly lead to universal suffrage."

Mississippi Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson said the decision could lead to federal control of elections because it "upheld the right of Congress to prescribe voting qualifications irrespective of state laws."

Since Congress came up with a formula to cover registration in several Southern states, Paterson said, it "can as easily set up another formula to cover 50 states."

Atty. Gen. Arthur K. Bolton of Georgia said, "The people of Georgia will go on obeying the law just as they have been. The Supreme Court has spoken."

Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers of Alabama said he would withhold comment until he has studied the decision. This position also was taken by Atty. Gen. Daniel R. McLeod of South Carolina, who argued the case before the high court.

WANTED MORE McLeod said, "I had hoped for a better response and a more divided ruling in light of the questions asked lawyers at the hearing."

U.S. Senate Starts Vote On $6-Billion Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate begins voting today on the administration's $6-billion tax bill with supporters moderately confident they will be able to defeat a barrage of major amendments.

The bill's managers said they were hopeful that the measure designed to help pay for the Viet Nam war, could be passed late today. Otherwise, they said, final action would come Wednesday.

SUBSTITUTE PLAN Up for the first vote today after a two-hour debate limitation was to be an amendment offered by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to knock out two excise tax hikes in the bill and substitute an alternative revenue source.

Gore's substitute would be a two-year suspension of the 7 per cent rate on telephone service that prevailed before Jan. 1. On that date the rates dropped to 6 and 3 per cent, respectively.

USEFUL DEVICE But Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., one of the bill's managers, said the credit has been a highly useful device in improving business capacity and efficiency and is needed more than ever now.

The excise provisions which Gore seeks to eliminate would restore the 7 per cent excise tax rate on autos and 10 per cent rate on telephone service that prevailed before Jan. 1. On that date the rates dropped to 6 and 3 per cent, respectively.

Plane Attacks Set High Mark

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The American air war against North Viet Nam climbed to record intensity in the past 24 hours but also cost four U. S. jets and the crews of three of them. Pilots reported they knocked out a fuel dump and a missile site.

Air Force and Navy pilots flew several hundred sorties against targets in the Communist North, a pace-setting performance since the raids began 13 months ago, an American spokesman said. The total number of planes was not disclosed, but there were 53 missions, the spokesman said.

DIRECT HITS Direct hits on the Son La oil storage center 130 miles east of Hanoi rocked the area with explosions and sent up black clouds 4,000 feet, the spokesman said.

The U. S. pilots blasted their second missile site in four days, hitting one 22 miles west of Thanh Hoa and 80 miles south of Hanoi, he said.

With the skies clear, the Americans also attacked roads, railroad tracks, ferries and bridges on a wide front ranging from the 17th Parallel frontier to the coastal city of Vinh.

A highway bridge was claimed destroyed 20 miles north of the border.

BAILS OUT One F105 Thunderchief jet was hit by ground fire 52 miles southeast of Vinh. The pilot bailed out and was rescued unharmed by a helicopter crew.

Another Air Force Thunderchief was shot down while attacking a suspected missile site. The aircraft disappeared during its first pass at the target, boiling down through heavy flak. A spokesman said it may have been hit by a missile. The pilot was presumed lost.

Two Air Force F101 reconnaissance planes also disappeared Monday on a mission northwest of Vinh. The fate of the planes was unknown and the pilots were listed as missing in action.

Air Force B52's struck again today in Binh Duong Province, 35 miles northeast of Saigon. The target was a Viet Cong military headquarters; a spokesman said three enemy regiments had been seen operating in the sector since Jan. 1. There was no estimate of damage inflicted by the big bombers.

GRINDS TO HALT On the ground, most of the big American, Allied and Vietnamese government operations clanked slowly to a halt with the Viet Cong in hiding.

The U. S. Marines scoured through the sector seven miles north of Quang Ngai where they and the Vietnamese smashed the North Vietnamese 21st Regiment in Operation Utah during the past four days.

Pursuit Of Red MIGs Into Hanoi Section Not Tried Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bomber pilots in South Viet Nam are permitted to chase attacking Communist MIG jet fighters into the Hanoi-Haiphong areas of North Viet Nam which still are excluded from U.S. bombing, defense sources said today.

But such hot pursuit into the Hanoi-Haiphong areas has not yet been exercised, the sources said.

In one incident last Saturday, Soviet-built MIG17s escaped into haze and scattered clouds and reached safety before pursuing U.S. pilots could open fire on them. They fled in the direction of Hanoi.

In the second incident that day, U.S. F105 Thunderchiefs turned to confront two MIGs they had spotted above and behind them. But the MIGs made off toward Hanoi, and the U.S. pilots did not follow because, officials said, they were low on fuel.

NOT LAID OUT The rules of hot pursuit never have been spelled out publicly, nor are they likely to be.

The same goes for the question of any "privileged sanctuary" for either the North Vietnamese or the Red Chinese against U.S. attack.

Hanoi and Haiphong are now off limits to U.S. bombing, but this country has given no public commitment that would bind it to spare these areas indefinitely.

PEKING ANGLE There also has been no official U.S. statement which would allow the Red Chinese to feel confident that they could enjoy immunity as they did in the Korean War.

Last June Secretary of State Dean Rusk made a statement which is often cited in this regard, saying at George Washington University commencement exercises: "Nothing in international law or morality confers on an aggressor immunity against reprisal. There can be no privileged sanctuary if we are to organize a decent world order."

U.S. reconnaissance planes have flown over the Hanoi-Haiphong areas frequently, although U.S. officials have not and will not acknowledge such operations.

Explosion Wrecks Dublin Monument

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A mighty explosion wrecked the 134-foot Nelson Monument in the heart of Dublin early today, sending England's greatest admiral sprawling in the Irish dust amid a thousand tons of stone and rubble.

Police blamed the outlandish Irish Republican Army, which long has regarded the monument as an insult to Ireland. The IRA has shown signs of stepping up its activity in connection with the 50th anniversary next month of the 1916 Easter uprising against the British.

The explosion at 1:30 a.m. knocked off the top two-thirds of the towering column. It blocked O'Connell Street, the city's main thoroughfare, and threw the morning rush hour into chaos. Police worked furiously through the wreckage in case anyone had been trapped, but hours after the blast had found no casualties.

The statue was erected by public subscription in 1809 to commemorate Adm. Lord Nelson's great victory over the French at the 1805 Battle of Trafalgar.

The Irish complained about it from the moment the subscription list opened. Successive city councils voted to pull it down, but until today nothing decisive was done.

Police believed the charge was placed inside the column Monday night. A spiral staircase inside led to a gallery just below Nelson's feet. It gave an unmatched view of the city and was a favorite tourist attraction.

Mass Resignations Hit Church Home Board Panel

WACO, Tex. (AP) — A letter circulated by leaders of the Waco Methodist Home board specified today some issues that have aroused disputes about operation of the home.

The letter disclosed that most of the 28 members of the executive committee of the 144-member Board of Commissioners resigned last November.

Main points of the letter were that ministers and bishops now control the executive committee and that certain lay members protest the transfer of funds from the home's endowment foundation to other work of the church.

The letter was signed by Oscar Carlisle of Farmersville, who was chairman in 1964 and 1965, and J. D. Martin of Dallas, president of the Methodist Home Alumni Association.

The board originally was composed of 12 ministers and 12 laymen. Then four bishops were added. The letter claims that the clergyman now can defeat any motion by the lay members.

"The reason for these changes appears to be to gain financial control of the home, and eventually, the home's foundation," the letter said. The value of the home's foundation endowment has been estimated at $14 million.

Authors of the letter call it a "final report of joint sub-committee of executive committee of commissioners and board of directors of alumni association."

Grand Jury Files Petition To Remove Prison Warden

McALESTER, Okla. (AP)—A petition to remove Deputy Warden Clint Gladden from his job was filed Monday by a grand jury which called for realignment of administrative rules for the Oklahoma penitentiary. The jury, adjourning after a 12-day investigation, said it heard 68 witnesses and did not find enough evidence to support a criminal indictment.

DOPE PROBE

County Atty. Edwin Carman said he will continue the jury's study of activities at the prison, including allegedly widespread traffic in narcotics. Gladden, 56, a former peace officer who became the prison's second ranking official nearly 11 years ago, apparently was cited because of a privately operated business in which he sold shoes to inmates and prison employees.

Dist. Judge Robert J. Bell, at the request of Gladden's lawyers, ordered contents of the jury petition sealed for five days, or until Gladden appears in district court to answer the accusation.

Texans Send Blood Plasma To Chile Boy

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Blood plasma for a gravely ill boy arrived by air Monday and the youngster's father voiced gratitude to the people sending it from Dallas.

An exchange of messages by amateur radio operators arranged for the shipment of blood to Hernan Saavedra, 7, a hemophiliac who soon must undergo surgery. His ailment is complicated by a blood infection. "I had heard many times of the humanitarian spirit of the North American people," said the boy's father, Chilean police Capt. Hernan Saavedra, "but until now I never had proof of it."

"I am grateful to the people of Dallas who took part in this," a special concentrated variety, prepared at the Wadley Blood Bank in Dallas, was necessary because the patient is too frail to take a massive injection of ordinary plasma.

Rowdies Bring Bus Shutdown

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—About 900 pupils at Arlington High School had to do without their school buses this morning to get to school. Bus company officials say it is the pupils' fault, charging that their vehicles "came into the garage looking like they had been hauling cattle."

Edgar A. Claffey, president of the privately owned Indianapolis Transit System, Inc., said service on 12 routes serving a four-square-mile section of the fashionable North Side had been halted.

HITS ROWDYISM

"I know this action is going to hurt many innocent pupils, but we are going to have to have some assurance the continuing vandalism and rowdiness will end once and for all," Claffey said.

Claffey praised school officials, who "have done everything in their power to stop damage to buses."

Thomas M. Haynes, vice principal of the 4-year-old school, said there have been repeated problems on the 12 routes.

"We caught two boys last week who had cut a section of a seat," he said. "We made them pay fully for the damage."

BLAMES 'FEW'

Paul I. Miller, assistant superintendent of Indianapolis public schools, said Arlington staff members had spent "hours and hours finding the trouble-makers and making them pay for any damages." He said only a few pupils are causing the trouble, but all pupils will have to police buses if they want to have them to ride.

Miller said school authorities do not blame the bus company for its action "one bit."

He said the shutdown affects about one-third of the Arlington pupils who ride buses.

Pupils pay 40 cents a day for a round trip on the buses. The school administration does not provide transportation for high school pupils.

Impacticalness Of Referendum

California-style politics demonstrates how easy it is to make a mockery of a once-honored democratic process. Referendum is to initiative and referendum, by which a statute (or law) is put into effect or rejected by popular vote.

The latest example is the California law so passed in 1964, by a nearly 2 to 1 popular vote, to prohibit pay television. The California Supreme Court has just ruled the law an unconstitutional violation of both state and federal guarantees of free speech.

The California ballot is chronically burdened with such referendum propositions. Usually both the petitions of initiative (to put issues on the ballot) and the campaign for a favorable referendum vote are handled by high-powered public relations firms, and so is the opposition campaign. Too often, which side can raise the most campaign money wins. The pay TV law was backed by the motion-picture industry.

The initiative and referendum law-making process is authorized in many American city charters, and may work reasonably well at the local level, though seldom used. It becomes impractical, however, at the state level, especially in a state with California's population.

Laws so initiated by petition and passed by popular vote in multi-million-population electorates are usually the product of powerful special-interest pressures, emotional judgment and lack of public understanding of intricate issues involved. It is, in short, a job better done by a representative legislature, which can hold public hearings and debate those issues.

The Texas Constitution is so outmoded and detailed, requiring so many popular-vote amendments on matters better handled by the legislative process, that we have developed a sort of pseudo-referendum system in wide areas of state policy. This is a major reason why Texas needs a new, simpler constitution, confined to fundamentals, to allow the Legislature broader discretion in law-making.

Investments And Inflation

An authoritative private national survey of industrial investment intentions appears likely to deepen Congress' concern over inflationary pressures and influence the Johnson administration to take that threat more seriously.

The Edie and Co. survey, respected in government circles, predicts a whopping jump in private-enterprise capital expenditures this year. And it indicates that the sharp rise in investment plans has occurred just within the past six months.

The survey estimates total business investments will rise by 19 per cent, or $10 billion, over 1965 to total $61.8 billion this year. Manufacturers are expected to increase capital outlays 32 per cent.

With much new capacity already completed, largely stimulated by the 1962 tax investment credit and liberalized depreciation allowances to encourage economic expansion, the private plans may prove excessive. In any event they will, if fully realized, certainly intensify inflationary pressures. For private capital outlays have a "multiplier effect" on wage, price and credit pressures.

That is why such investment was so strongly encouraged in the Kennedy administration. Its multiplier effect was rightly considered a powerful force for sustaining an economic expansion that appeared then to be running out of steam.

But now, with that effect superimposed on the Viet Nam war's inflationary pressures, the result could be an "overheated economy," forcing the Johnson administration to move into stronger anti-inflationary policies. If so, sharp controversy can be expected over what moves to choose from a wide variety at hand.

Meanwhile, the foreseen plant and equipment investment boom suggests that the Texas Industrial Commission and local agencies should step up their industry-attracting efforts. This state needs as much of the new industrial investment as it can get to provide employment for its rapidly growing population and to support economic development and social progress generally.

Holmes Alexander A Socialist Looks At The Great Society

WASHINGTON—Oil and evangelism—a strange mix—are all that stand between the Great Society and Socialism. I got this assurance from the best possible source, Norman Thomas, the grand old man of Socialism, who was in town the other day to organize a de-escalation of the Viet Nam War.

MR. THOMAS, the tall and benign patriarch of share-the-wealth, belongs to that fading generation of wonderful gentlemen whose opinions and personalities seem to make modern ones seem flabby. He carries still the self-confidence and adamant mentality of men as different as Baruch, Hoover, Adenauer, Churchill and De Gaulle—but men who, except maybe Churchill, could as easily change their skins as their opinions. Mr. Thomas has never altered his fixed belief that socialism must, and will, come to America—but it was a relief to hear that Lyndon Johnson and Hubert Humphrey won't be its "Typhoid Marys."

NOT JOHNSON? "I like his Great Society programs," said Mr. Thomas firmly, "but I've never heard him say a word about nationalizing offshore oil."

Expropriation of petroleum is a touchstone of the share-the-wealth doctrine. After oil, all other resources, as well as the means of transportation and production, would be wrenched from private ownership and given to the Socialist State. Anyhow, it was comforting to learn that socialism will never overwhelm us until a Texan politician like LBJ starts taking oil wells from Texas magnates. Hell would freeze first!

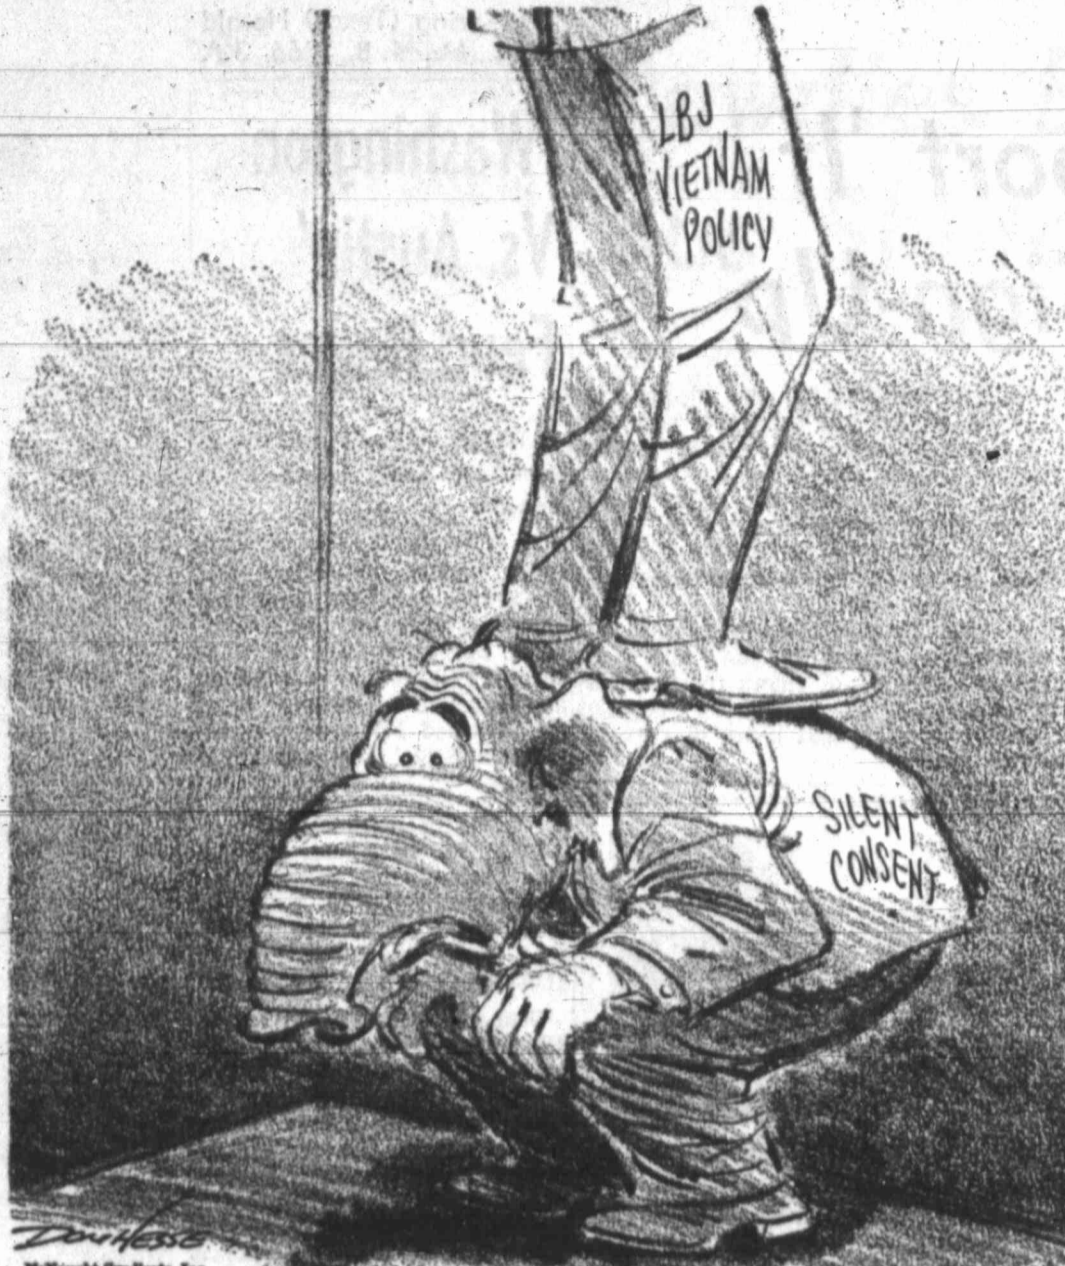

WHAT ABOUT Hubert Humphrey? "I've known him for many years," said Mr. Thomas. "Hubert was a socialist once—at heart. But the trouble is he has become an evangelist. Hubert has got to take a moralizing position on everything. Once he's convinced himself, all facts to the contrary have got to be wrong. In order to be for war in Viet Nam, he had to have a holy crusade, so he said that the Viet Cong are nothing but bandits and murderers. Well, they are a great deal besides just that. I'm sorry for Hubert. He is like Bryan."

MR. THOMAS was talking about the time when William Jennings Bryan, a pacifist and populist, decided he wouldn't get anywhere by opposing the manifest destiny mania of the Spanish-American War. Bryan went so far as to report to an Army training camp, and later he whopped it up for imperialism in order to make sure of getting the Democratic nomination in 1900. It is Norman Thomas' opinion that Humphrey, a putative socialist and a come-lately warhawk, has politically evangelized himself into his present convictions on Viet Nam.

WELL, THE country can be grateful for these oblique favors. The President has set out to abolish poverty, which Mr. Thomas hails as a socialist aim, but LBJ is no man to liquidate the petroleum empires. The vice president was Mr. Disarmament when in the Senate. I wouldn't know how to count the times he called upon America to compete with communism in nothing but the peaceful pursuits of bringing the greatest good to the greatest number of people. But that was a while ago, and Mr. Thomas is sorrowed to find Humphrey, like Bryan before him, deserting the sawdust trail of populism for the paths of martial glory. The rest of us, I suppose, can find some comfort in Humphrey's conversion—at least, a warhawk can never be a true socialist.

"We still don't have a real Socialist-Democratic party," sighed Mr. Thomas, who is past 80 and still hopes to see one.

Justice Black's Fighting Spirit Never Curbed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The complexity of Hugo L. Black alongside a fiery belief that the Constitution means exactly what it says shines through the Supreme Court's affirmation of the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

Black, 80 nine days ago and an associate justice since 1937, won't sit still for any label, be it "liberal," "conservative" or "activist." And he won't sit still when he feels his fellow judges have marched off in the wrong direction, no matter how worthy the goal.

BLACK DEMONSTRATED this again Monday. Chief Justice Earl Warren got the unanimity he wanted for upholding two key sections of the voting law — the suspension of literacy tests where used to keep Negroes from the polls and the dispatch of federal examiners to those areas to register qualified Negroes.

But Black wouldn't go along with his eight colleagues in upholding a third key section of the law that would require new state voting laws to pass federal muster.

From his seat to Warren's right, the position traditionally reserved for the senior justice, Black lashed this ruling because it would treat states "like separate corporate units with no power of their own."

SCANNING THE less than half-filled chamber, Black said, "I would have yielded a lot not to have had to file a written dissent in this case — but I felt compelled to do so."

As he has so many times in the past 28 years, often standing alone, Black made his case by looking smack at the Constitution. There he found nothing to support what Congress had done and the court approved.

"Nothing like that was ever contemplated when the Constitution or the 15th Amendment was adopted," he said.

In his written opinion, Black added: "I see no reason to read into the Constitution meanings it did not have when it was adopted and which have not been put into it twice."

Two weeks ago, a bristling Black went to the Constitution and found nothing to prevent any state, including Louisiana, from making it unlawful to

Simple Terror: Congo Traffic

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Two good ways to risk death in the Congo: 1. Join the mercenaries to fight rebels; 2. Drive a car in Leopoldville.

As the first is safer, let's look at No. 2.

Driving habits here are at first unbelievable, but after a while reduce themselves to simple terror.

THE RIGHT of way is on the right, and most drivers accept this. Vigilance is necessary for about 10 per cent who must think they're in England and bear left. A variation is the one who decides to back up a couple of hundred yards the wrong way down a one-way street. These are usually taxi drivers running back to get a fare.

Taxis are a lesson in themselves. The cars generally have not undergone a serious maintenance since they were obtained. How they were obtained is still a matter of question among car-theft victims.

HEADLIGHTS, GOOD brakes, signals, a complete chassis and worn piston rings are out. Rubber dice dangling from the rear-view mirror and plastic flowers planted along the dashboard are in.

The mirror, by the way, is for the driver to view himself, never to look back at a car.

To become a taxi driver, one must reach a rather loose agreement with the authorities not to gouge the client more than is on the rate card, and to print a "taxi" sign which must be slapped in front of the driver, guaranteeing obscured vision.

THERE ARE few traffic cops. At peak hours, three control the flow along the city's streets. They are assisted by a corner man who is in perpetual argument with one offender while a hundred more drift by.

Usually the police wait until a total traffic jam occurs to get off their stand and join the corner man for a smoke.

There are a few foot patrolmen to check offenders.

There are two forms of speed, too much and too little. Leopoldville has its collection of hot-shots who tool down the boulevard at 80 miles per hour or so. It has some more decrepit cars which can't top 20.

To Your Good Health Takes More Than A Brush To Stop Bad Breath

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am in my late 20's, clean my teeth at least three times a day, use mouthwash, chew mints and gum, and still have bad breath. About 10 years ago a doctor told me some people were born sweet and some sour, and nothing could be done to help me. —MISS P.N.T.

More likely we are all born "sweet" and some may turn "sour" later from causes which may or may not be preventable.

First I urge you to make certain whether your breath is bad, for I've known people who were so sure that it became almost an obsession, yet their breath was not as bad as they thought. However, some with positively bad breath were not aware of it.

While teeth—cavities, or more often particles of food trapped between the teeth—are important, they are far from being the only cause of bad breath. To be certain, you might well have a dentist give your teeth a thorough cleaning, and you might find that use of dental floss, to remove debris from between the teeth, will help you. Gum disease (pyorrhea for one) can be involved.

Nose and throat may cause odor: Nasal obstructions, such as deviated or perforated septum, polyps, boggy turbinates, contributing to chronic infection. Infected tonsils or adenoids are another source.

Attention to your food habits may be helpful. Families from some countries habitually use a lot of garlic, or some other pungent food or spices, and there isn't much to do about the odor except to stop eating them, yet it may be hard to change habits after being brought up to like them.

How about smoking? It can be important.

Among older folks, lung diseases and bronchitis can cause breath odor, too.

Advertising of toothpaste and mouthwashes is all well and good, but these products can't correct all cases, so if you have convincing evidence of bad breath, check up on those other possibilities that I mentioned.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain rectal fistula, its causes and cure. I have heard that even if you have surgery it can come back — H.K.

A fistula is a narrow canal communicating from the rectal membrane to the outer skin. It is not true that a fistula will come back after it has been corrected surgically, and assuming that you have read my booklet by now, you will understand why. It is, of course, possible that a new fistula or fissure can occur in another area.

Hemorrhoids, fistulas and fissures can cause a great deal of misery, but if people understood what these troubles really are, they would get them corrected much sooner and be rid of them.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it safe for a man of 62 with a heart condition to take flu shots? Do the shots elevate blood pressure? Does alcohol in moderation destroy value of the shots? —T.Y.

You are just the type of person who will benefit most from flu shots. With a heart condition you want to avoid serious respiratory disease. The shots won't affect your blood pressure, and alcohol doesn't destroy their value.

NOTE TO MRS. L. K.: Mastitis (cysts in the breast) very rarely is related to cancer. Removal of the cysts is entirely possible, although medical treatment is usually tried first, and if it succeeds surgery is avoided.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for your copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim —But They Were Short On Light

I saw an ad in a metropolitan newspaper in which a big department store was offering a special deal in what it called "hurricane lamps."

The illustration and the description, however, did not fit a hurricane lamp, but rather an old-fashioned, bracketed kerosene (coal oil) lamp.

THESE LAMPS came with a crinkled tin reflector on the back of which was the bracket. The bracket was pierced with a hole which permitted the lamp to be hung on a wall. The lamp itself reposed in a holder in front. This permitted its removal for refilling with oil and for cleaning.

The advertisement went into a mild ecstasy over how nice these lights were and of the warm golden illumination they cast and how pretty they looked.

WELL, MAYBE things have changed and perhaps they are improved now from what they were when I was a kid. Perhaps the modern day kerosene is more efficient and less odoriferous than that which we used.

I remember these lamps well. We had two or three of them and convenient nail on the walls in the several rooms where they could be put into use.

When I had my homework to do, it was best to take the lamp down from its nail and put on the table. Then by sitting real close you could see well enough to work out the arithmetic problems the teacher had assigned.

IF YOU didn't have at least two of the lamps in a small room, the only illumination you got was a puddle of light in the immediate vicinity of the burner.

If a draft swept into the room, the tiny flame would swerve to one side and a streak of black smoke would swoop up the chimney. It would leave a dirty street of soot along the lampshade. If you used the lamp for several hours, your chimney was so blackened that the volume of illumination diminished almost to nothing.

It was therefore, a daily chore to (1) refill the bowl with kerosene and (2) to clean the chimney.

YOU GOT coal oil by the gallon at the grocery. Every family had its one gallon kerosene can with a tapered spout which had no cap. The grocer, lavish with things of that sort, would fill your can with coal oil and dab a raw potato on the top of the spout.

You unscrewed the burner, pulled out the wick and laid it to one side. Then you filled the bowl with kerosene. Replacing the burner, it was wise to "trim" the wick — a neat trick in itself. An expert could do it in such a manner that the blaze would spread evenly across the top of the wick giving you the maximum efficiency the lamp could provide. I was no expert.

YOU USED wadded newspaper to clean and polish the chimney. If you had a big fist, you had trouble since your hand would not go into the chimney. The greasy soot was not easy to remove and when you had that done, the polishing took even more time.

I am sure these lamps were much better than the tallow candles and the whale oil lamps which preceded them.

AND THEY served admirably in a day when no better lighting was possible.

Maybe they seemed warm and hospitable. I was more interested in trying to see the fine print in my school books. Warm and hospitable or not, the lamp didn't give a lot of light.

Art Buchwald New Members Of The Club

WASHINGTON—There has been a lot of anxiety in Spain over the story that the United States lost a hydrogen bomb. The fact that we found three out of the four bombs doesn't seem to mean anything to our critics. All they keep harping on is the one we lost. They seem to forget nobody is perfect.

The big fear, of course, is that the hydrogen bomb will fall into the wrong hands.

A MONTH from now four surfers walk into the Geneva Nuclear Disarmament Conference and one of them says to the Russian delegate:

"Move over, Charlie. We're a major power."

"What is the meaning of this?" the chairman says. "Who are you people?"

"We're members of the Black Feet Surfing and Nuclear Club. You can't ignore us anymore. We've got the bomb."

"This is ridiculous," the American delegate says.

"It may be ridiculous to you, lover, but if you want true disarmament, you got to deal with us."

YA, SEE," one of the other kids says. "Marty and I were out skin-diving off the coast of Spain—two weeks ago and we found the hydrogen bomb that was lost. Marty was for setting it off right away just to see what kind of bang it would make, but I said the bomb really belongs to the club and we should all decide what to do with it."

"So," says a third kid, "we had a meeting. Everybody had a different idea."

"TOMMY BLUE wanted to use it to blow up the police station in Santa Monica, as he hates the fuzz out there. After all, we should put it on a surfboard and send it into the Suez Canal, and Crewcut Harry said he thought we should sink Cuba. But Liz the Fizz said that since we possessed a hydrogen bomb we were a nuclear power and we should first go to Geneva and talk to you people and maybe make a deal."

The American delegate says, "The hydrogen bomb is our property and must be returned to us."

The Spanish ambassador at the conference says, "It was found off the coast of Spain, so it belongs to us."

The Russian delegate says, "If you give it to the Germans, it means war."

"LIKE WE'RE NOT about to give it to anybody," one of the surfers says. "After all, we have a certain responsibility to mankind."

"That's right," another surfer says. "We wouldn't use it unless one of you countries used it against us."

The American delegate says, "What do you want then?"

"That's the trouble," a surfer replies. "We don't know what we want. If we did, we wouldn't be surfers."

The chairman of the conference says, "We will not be blackmailed."

"YOU EITHER take us in the club or we join France and Red China and go it alone."

"We don't know how long we can keep our club members in line," a second adds. "Half of 'em are for setting it off now. Like they're bored. And don't take too long," one of the kids says. "This Geneva hangup is a drag."

Marquis Childs Money And Prices

WASHINGTON—The housewife discovering that her food bill is inching up week after week can scarcely know how far in advance this continuing rise was heralded. An incident of last August throws light on how inflationary pressures were building up to send bacon over $1 a pound and eggs at about that level a dozen.

IN THE COURSE of visiting the 12 Federal Reserve banks under his jurisdiction William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, stopped in Atlanta. There he was told by Jack Tarver, chairman of the Atlanta bank, of a recent session with Georgia's Sen. Richard Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a potent force in Washington.

Hardly a glowing optimist by temperament, Russell warned that the war in Viet Nam would certainly expand in 1966 with the commitment of up to 400,000 American troops. This would require supplemental appropriations in billions of dollars and a defense budget for the next fiscal year perhaps as high as $60 billion.

TO A BANKER it meant a growing squeeze on credit along with strong upward pressure on prices. Martin had already heard from more than half of the 12 Federal Reserve banks urging that the brake of a rise in the discount rate—a higher interest rate—be applied. He became convinced that in view of threatening inflation this was essential. For the next four months a fascinating debate went on with the White House over the wisdom of a move that might slow down not merely the price rise but prosperity as well.

ON DEC. 5 the Fed announced a rise of half of one per cent in the discount rate. Loud denunciation on Capitol Hill followed, with Sen. Russell B. Long, majority whip, and Chairman Wright Patman of the House Banking and Currency Committee leading the pack. To say the move made the administration unhappy would rate high as the understatement of the year.

But from that low point out of hours of discussion between the President and the chairman of the Fed what might be described as a friendly standoff has come about. Although on the basis of rising rates for money in the market and a credit squeeze on small business another jump in the discount rate might be justified, Martin does not intend to initiate it. His close associates say he feels it is up to the administration to apply the brakes they have at hand—such as a tax increase.

DISCUSSING A NEW board member to replace his ally, C. Canby Balderson, whose term expired, Martin argued for a businessman to give the Fed a better balance as between various elements of the economy. His only objection to the President's choice, Andrew F. Brimmer, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, was that he would be the fourth economist on the board.

The housewife at the checkout counter has, along with most of us, little knowledge of discount rates and certificates of deposit and 90-day bills. But she knows when the food bill goes steadily up as it has done for five successive months. Thanks to other factors, the consumer price index stayed steady for January. But the warning is for at least another two per cent rise in the cost of living this year.

ALREADY THE Republicans are hitting the high-price theme, which is a good sign. Whether the administration will bite the bullet of higher taxes in an election year is a question. The debate between the White House and the Fed may be suspended but it is by no means concluded.

Paper Covers Add Decorator Touch

Dear Folks:

If you are one who uses lots of facial tissue, and like to keep a box of it in every room, try buying some adhesive-backed paper, and covering your metal or plastic containers to match your furniture. Hardly shows at all this way.

This fabulous product also comes in different grains of wood (walnut, in a hogan, blond) and also marble effects, and would enhance the appearance of any room. Pretty!

Our living room has all black furniture, so I covered that black plastic with solid black plastic. I used matching pink covering for the bedroom and bath.

Since the kitchen is white, and the counters are white with gold sparkles, I almost perfectly matched this! Too, when a cover becomes soiled, all it takes is a swipe with a sponge to wipe it clean. Sure looks nice.

If you don't keep a box of facial tissues in your kitchen, you don't know what you're missing! That's the one place I couldn't be without 'em. Heloise

Arm And Shoulder Pain . . .

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C.

Hardly a week goes by without someone coming to the Hansen Chiropractic Clinic complaining of a pain in the shoulder and upper arm that may or may not extend into the hand and fingers.

We find that many have been diagnosed as Bursitis and have tried most everything from heat on the shoulder to tranquilizing drugs for relief. When all efforts fail and their unbearable pains persist, they find their way to the chiropractor who can usually relieve their misery.

There are various types of shoulder and arm conditions but we find the pain can often be eliminated by tracing the affected nerves to their points of irritation in the spine and removing the cause. If you find water on the floor, don't you look to see where it is coming from, or do you close the door and try to forget about it?

The bursa is a sack-like fibrous membrane that encloses a joint and keeps the socket lubricated much like your mouth is kept moist. Bursitis is the neck and up-back-of-the-head. The arm gives a feeling of being heavy as if it will drop off. The arm and hand often feels cold with numbness and tingling and weakness of grip.

You may be suffering needlessly with an arm or shoulder pain that you believe hopeless. Why not investigate — Hansen Chiropractic Clinic across from Piggly Wiggly on Eleventh Place. AM 3-3524. —Adv.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

The past weekend was a big one for MR. and MRS. DENVER DUNN who celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary in a larger way than they had expected. Their daughter, MRS. J. PAT PORTER surprised them with a visit from her home in McKinney. She also hosted a dinner in their honor at The Spanish Inn.

Two of Mrs. Dunn's sisters, MRS. ALMA McLAURIN and MRS. AMOS R. WOOD, were in the party as were MR. and MRS. CHARLES McLAURIN and their children, Scott and Leigh, who arrived Saturday from a two-year stay in Amsterdam, Holland. The McLaurens will spend three months here before going to Venezuela for several years. They have also lived in Libya and the Canary Islands.

Another family gathering over the weekend was that of the W. F. TAYLOR family. Here for a visit were the WAYLAND TAYLORS from O'Donnell, the O. B. CAVES from Roby, and the Elmer Atwoods of Belen, N. M. They were joined by the JOHN TAYLOR family who live here.

MRS. GARY COLLEY underwent surgery this morning at the M. D. Anderson Hospital in Houston. Mr. Colley, minister of the Highway 80 Church of Christ, is in Houston with his wife.

MR. and MRS. JONATHAN LANCASTER of Kermit visited Friday and Saturday with her father, J. B. PICKLE.

MR. and MRS. JOHN BALCH are to be in San Angelo Wednesday for the stock show where their grandson, Larry Eubanks of Sweetwater, is to show a calf.

BILL HITT, third son of CHAPLAIN and MRS. C. O. HITT, was featured in a "Schools in Action" film feature on KERA-TV in Dallas Monday. Hitt made the documentary-type film called "The Coach" as an example of the high school coach in the Dallas Secondary School Athletic Program. He coaches track in the Boude Storey Junior High School in Dallas. He also is backfield football coach and the B-team basketball mentor. He is a graduate of Lancaster High School, Howard Payne College, and has a master's degree from North Texas State University.

Our Colorado relatives are getting a big bite of really cold weather. They have recently had nine below readings, eight or more inches of snow with wind that has caused much drifting. They're hoping the weather lets up soon but they haven't been snowed in. They're believers in snow tires.

Webb Officer Finds Job As Y Coach Rewarding

First Lt. Hugh Carter Whately, Class 66-F, has found an after-hours hobby that is rewarding in service to community and to youth. For some time now, Lt. Whately has served as swimming coach to the Big Spring YMCA swimming team. In addition to his busy schedule as a student in Webb's undergraduate pilot training program.

Working with 17 youngsters, ages 10 to 17, Lt. Whately has devoted approximately 10 off-duty hours each week to helping his students in physical conditioning and swimming. He has also helped them to attend regional swimming meets.

The team has seen competition in regional meets in El Paso and Midland, and is scheduled to appear in another regional meet in Midland, Saturday. Winners in the Midland swim-fest will qualify for the area YMCA Sports Festival set for March 26 in Dallas. Coach Whately hopes to have several eligible swimmers to compete in the Dallas Festival.

Miners Shade Chief Quint In Playoffs

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A bit of psychology by Texas Western Coach Don Haskins, who benched top scorer Bobby Joe Hill the first 11 1/2 minutes, was just what the Miners needed for an impressive 89-74 victory over Oklahoma City in a first round NCAA game Monday night.

Hill had been playing poorly last four or five games, Haskins explained. "He came in and played a great game for us." The 5-foot-11 Hill watched OCU jump to a 20-9 lead. It was 21-13 when Hill finally got in the game. He promptly drove the middle for 13 points in six minutes, leading a 20-6 surge for a 33-27 lead.

Pensacola Winner Is Sure Of Game

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — little and probably tense up when any of the awesome three-ten per cent of the golfers on the pro tour don't run scared of the Big Three—Arnold Palmer, Brewer Jr., who pocketed the $10,000 first-prize Monday in the $65,000 Pensacola Open.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart
Sports dialogue:
DAVE DEBUSSCHERE, coach of the Detroit Pistons:
"All there is to basketball is get the ball off the boards and run. Boston showed that."

DOC HAYES, basketball coach at SMU, discussing his philosophy toward the game:

"We'll live if we lose. We'll live happier if we win, but we'll survive if we don't. It's taken me a long time to come to that conclusion."

GEN DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, when asked if he noticed anything different about his golf game since he left the White House:

"Yes, a lot more golfers beat me."

SHIRLEY POVICH, Washington scribe:

"Four weeks after he took the job as head coach and general manager of the Washington Redskins, it has occurred to Otto Graham that he also took out membership in the NFL. In fact, he has been reminded that he is expected to behave like a lodge brother. There was shock in the midst of the league meetings, Graham tossed a bouquet at the rival AFL. His weakness for saying what he firmly believes took the form of an assertion that the Buffalo and San Diego teams of the AFL could, on their own good days, hold their own with any NFL club."

SID ZIFF, columnist for the Los Angeles Times:

"The new Atlanta Falcons will start the next NFL season with about one chance in a million of winning a game. They got nothing by fringe players from the LA Rams and other clubs in their absurd expansion draft. It was almost inevitable that the other teams did to the Falcons. The Rams even included Frank Varichione's name on their list and he's retired. The Falcons were given a choice of rejects and discards. For instance, the Rams gave up last season on Jerry Richardson, who was one of their three who went to the Falcons. Unquestionably, there is only one thing for the Falcons to do next season, clown it up like the Mets. If they drop enough passes, run the wrong way, kick on first down, and lose by an average of 79 points a game, the curious may come out to see them."

JIMMY CANNON, New York columnist:

"Mickey Mantle is to be the greatest athlete of these times. He performs on a plateau above ability, on the peaks of mountains no other athlete can scale. In him are the virtues on which competition in sports is founded. The code goes back to antiquity, and the good men have cherished it eternally. With training time at hand, Mantle is once again being treated by doctors. This time the scar was cut into his shoulder. The legs are still had under him. I must believe this is his final season. Who else ever gave a sport so much? Originally it was the osteomyelitis and then the smashed knees and now the shoulder. In between—the main ones, there were the bruises and sprains and infected abscess and the viruses. It was there, and he couldn't shake it. I know he was paid $100,000 a season to suffer, and unknown men die slowly at inconspicuous jobs which murder them. But Mantle still did what he had to do, and he argued that he was ready to play when he wasn't and sulking when the management laid him off because of ploy. What some else, did can't diminish Mantle's defeat of his rebellious body. He is a man who wants to earn the wages he is paid. It is the theory of the working man who cherishes his honesty. Mantle did it, and came back and did it again the next season, the pain increasing and the body more difficult to conquer. That's how Mickey played it. In his desperate way, he has survived."

Today's baseball exhibition game between the Big Spring Steers and Andrews scheduled for 4 p.m. will be played in the Hi-Junior Teenage park north of town rather than in Steer Park.

MICKEY MANTLE

"I was not fond of Woolpert as a coach, but I liked him as a man... sometimes, I believed then and I believe now that he played favorites... I do not believe he did this because of prejudice. It was just the way he was. Perhaps it was my own prejudice. But though I gained my first game with him, I could never be close to him as a man. Woolpert never praised me for a good game..."

Then the event lost another big name when Doug Sanders, leading by four strokes after 36 holes, was disqualified for not signing his scorecard. This opened the door for Brewer, who jumped in to win by three strokes with a score of 65-69-67-71-272, 16 under par.

BRUCE DEVLIN of Australia made a late charge with a final round 67 but had to content with the $6,000 second money at 275. Jockey Cupit of Dallas, with a final 68, was third at 276 and Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., fourth at 277.

Now the barnstormers move to Miami where they will face up to Palmer and Nicklaus and perhaps Player.

THE BOSTON CELTICS' BILL RUSSELL, discussing his college coach, Phil Woolpert of the University of San Francisco:

Brown Posts Best Score

Ralph Brown highlighted play in the Big Spring City Bowling Association Men's tournament, which wound up last week, by posting 10 strikes in a row in his second game of singles competition Sunday night at Bobby Layne's Bowl-A-Rama.

Brown seemed on his way to a perfect game but his 11th ball strayed for a seven-pin fill. He completed his spare in the 12th frame for a 287 scratch score, best in that category.

He had a scratch series score of 640 and a handicap aggregate of 706, which gave him the singles title.

Bill Talianich had the high scratch series of 663. In team competition, the King Pins made their 3067 score post the first weekend stand up for a victory. The Eight Balls were runnerup, with a 3075; followed by Cosden, 3069; and Ward's Highland Center, 3068.

Morris, 1287. ALL - EVENTS — Ralph Brown, 1944; Jim Quidley, 1903. Tournament trophies and prize money will be presented at the annual meeting of the association at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Holiday Inn. Election of new officials will take place at that time.

The new officers formally take office Aug. 1.

Cincy Tests Miner Club

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Two Texas schools — once-beaten Texas Western and surging Southern Methodist — resume their quest for national basketball honors here Friday night in the NCAA Midwest Regional Tournament.

Texas Western and Cincinnati, the Missouri Valley Conference champion, open the two-day meet at 7 p.m. They will be followed at 9 p.m. by Southern Methodist and Kansas, winner of the Big Eight Conference title.

Oklahoma City went into the game as the nation's No. 3 scoring team with a 90-point average. Texas Western claimed the nation's third best defense, yielding just over 60 points a game. Kansas earned its tournament place by beating Colorado 85-65 at Lawrence, Kan., Monday night and winning its 19th conference title in 38 years.

Kansas brings a 22-won, 3-loss record into the Lubbock tournament. Southern Methodist carries the worst won-loss record of the four teams into the meet. Although the Mustangs are 16-8, they finished the regular season schedule with 19 consecutive triumphs to win the Southwest Conference championship.

Viscount Astor Dies In Bahamas

LONDON (AP) — Viscount Astor, son of the first woman member of Britain's Parliament and a central figure in the Profumo scandal, died of a heart attack Monday while vacationing in the Bahamas.

friends and died at Princess Margaret Hospital. Astor had suffered a heart attack in 1964 and had to take a long rest. It was at Cliveden, the famous English estate of the Astors, that Stephen Ward, a society osteopath, artist and procurer, introduced call girl Christine Keeler to War Minister John Profumo in 1961. Profumo later admitted he lied in Parliament about his relationship with Christine. He resigned his post, touching off a scandal that rocked British society and led to Ward's sensation-packed trial.

Election's Computers Bring Fast Vote Tally

BRAINTREE, Mass. (AP) — Town Clerk Carl R. Johnson went home more than nine hours earlier than usual after the town election this year. He has punched computer card ballots to thank for it. In what was described as the first test in the Northeast of a computer voting system, the results of Monday's balloting in Braintree were determined in 3 hours, 31 minutes. Of the town's 17,000 registered voters, 6,427 cast ballots. Johnson said he had expected to go home sooner. The town clerk said delays in the counting were caused by 44 spoiled ballots that had to be repunched. He attributed the errors to voter inexperience with the new system. The experiment was authorized under a special state law. Braintree has used bulky paper ballots in the past. The tallying was done by human counters. Massachusetts, Rhode Island and other New England states are contemplating use of the equipment. It has already been tried in California, Oregon, Georgia, Minnesota, Michigan and Maryland. About 300 persons, many of them election officials from other states, assembled at the Town Hall to watch the counting over closed-circuit television from a nearby data processing plant. Under the system, the voter inserts his card in the back of a kind of looseleaf binder mounted in a case the size of a desk blotter. Each page of the binder lists a candidate for a particular office or referendum questions. Numbers and perforated holes showed through for each. The voter uses a stylus to punch his choices. There were 235 numbers on the card. The town elected 17 town officials, chose town meeting members to represent the nine precincts and voted on one referendum.

Foreign Aid Chief Defends Food Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign aid director David Bell was called before the Senate Agriculture Committee today to defend the administration's food for freedom bill.

Chairman Allen Ellender, D-La., calls the measure an attempt "to feed the world." "If he has anything to say about the program, Ellender said during hearings Monday, he would try 'to lag back a little and see what happens.'"

URGENT NEED Secretary of State Dean Rusk presented the chief administration argument for the bill Monday, saying the food crisis needed urgent attention so hungry nations will not be driven to "reach across their borders and seize food."

U.S. Survey On Unreported Crimes Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaving the theater, the couple walks to its car and finds a camera has been taken from the back seat.

"Aren't you going to call the police?" the woman asks as her husband drives away. "Why bother?" he snorts. "They'll never do anything about a little camera being stolen in a city this big."

NEVER REPORTED The crime goes unreported. This pessimistic crime victim and thousands like him are about to become targets of an unprecedented national survey aimed at coming up with the best estimate yet of the nation's crime burden.

The President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice — the National Crime Commission — will launch a scientific survey this spring into what it calls the "dark figure" problem.

The term doesn't mean the shadowy form of the mugger lurking in an alley, but the untold number of crimes against person or property which never find their way into police logs — and consequently never turn up in the FBI's annual and quarterly reports on the national crime rate.

ONLY A PORTION "We know that criminal events recorded in official records represent only a portion of the crimes actually committed," Lloyd Ohlin, professor of sociology at Columbia University and staff director of the crime commission's task force on "Assessment of the Crime Problem," said in an interview.

"But right now we have no reliable way of estimating the number of unreported crimes against reported crimes, nor the relative seriousness of the unreported crime. We're going to try to remedy that with this survey." Ohlin said the purpose of the survey is to determine a "rate of crime victimization" to give a better picture of the scope of the crime problem than the present index, based on crimes reported to the police.

SCREEN HOUSEHOLDS The National Opinion Research Corp., under contract to the commission, will screen some 10,000 households across the nation sometime in April or May.

Victims will be asked confidentially whether they reported the crime against them. If they didn't, they'll be asked why, and given a multiple choice of answers to choose from. "It would have been embarrassing," for instance, or "I didn't want to get involved with the police."

They also will be queried about their attitudes toward crime, the police and the courts, as well as what steps they took to protect themselves after the crime occurred. The questioners will want to know how the crimes affected the victims' lives.

Council Smells A Rat, But Yields To Penury

BOLTON, England (AP) — A 61-year-old man asked the Bolton Health Service Council today to replace his false teeth. He said mice ran off with his bottom dentures.

The man—his name was not announced—will get another set of bottoms free, the council decided, because he is poor. "It must have fallen on the floor," the man told the council, "and as I have a lot of mice, they must be responsible for the disappearance." "We took the story about the mice with a pinch of salt," Dr. Bernard Thornley, chairman of the Health Service Council said. "But he deserves a bouquet for such a novel reason."

Murray Maskell, deputy clerk of the council, said the allowance was because of the man's financial position — not because of his explanation. COAHOMA (SC)—Earl Brownrigg, county trapper, spoke to the 4-H Club here Monday evening when 13 members and five adults met in the elementary school cafeteria. Brownrigg related some unusual experiences in his long career and touched on the habits of wildlife. Mike Brady, president, was in charge of the meeting and Elaine Webb introduced the speaker.

Buick's $1,000,000 Sweepstakes. You may have won $2332.00 cash!

Table with columns of numbers for Buick's $1,000,000 Sweepstakes. Includes a list of 72 numbers and a note: 'A new list every week from now until March 31st. 429 first prizes.'

If the first part of your vehicle identification number is here, you might be a winner.

Here's how it works. Look at the first symbols (the prefix) on your vehicle identification slip. Then look at the symbols listed above. If you find yours on the list, you've taken the first step toward being a winner. Now go see your Buick dealer. He has a list of 72 winners posted in his showroom. If you see your entire vehicle identification number on the poster—the symbols plus the rest of the numbers—$2332 cash is yours. (If your prefix isn't listed in this ad, don't give up. Your numbers may have been posted during the past few weeks. And every week there are 72 new winners posted on the showroom wall. So watch for next week's list of new symbols in this newspaper.) No slogan to invent, no puzzles to solve. In fact, you don't even have to own a Buick to have a winning number. While you're in the showroom, get a good look at the Buick Special. The $2332.00 happens to be its price. (Manufacturer's suggested retail price for Buick Special includes Federal Excise Tax and suggested dealer delivery and handling charge.)

Buick's $1,000,000 Sweepstakes. There's an authorized Buick dealer near you. See his Double-Checked used cars, too.

Senate Ethics Drive Pushed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., urged a Senate committee today to recommend that Senators and Senate employees be required to disclose their financial interests.

Case asked the Committee on Standards and Conduct, set up to police senatorial ethics, "why the 'conflict of interest' approach has been so ineffective when applied to legislators." "It has been largely left to legislatures to police themselves," Case said, "but history shows that legislatures do not police themselves." The measure urged by Case would require regular public reports of income, assets and liabilities, stock or commodity transactions and other outside financial activities by members of Congress and top legislative employees. "The public disclosure principle would put the facts on the table for the people to judge," he said. The committee was created after the investigation of the outside business activities of Bobby Baker, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

Tyke Finds Bag Of Savings Bonds

NEW YORK (AP) — Donald McComiskey Jr. was playing in front of his Brooklyn apartment house and found a paper bag filled with pretty paper. He took some inside to show his mother, who said something like "that's nice" and went on with her housework. "But Donald's daddy wasn't so casual when he came home Monday night and found his 5-year-old mopping the kitchen floor with a $500 savings bond."

NOT NEGOTIABLE Happily for Lieberwitz the bonds were not negotiable and it has been arranged that young Donald will give up his new playthings this evening. His mother, however, is still shaking her head. "I just didn't think they were real," says Joan McComiskey. "Kids just don't find $100,000 in bonds."

EQUIPPED TO SIGN YOUR SIGN
Faulkner Neon & Sign Co. equipment parked outside the shop

Faulkner Builds Small, Big Signs

Regardless of the kind of sign you need in your business, Faulkner Neon & Sign Company, owned by A. C. Faulkner, can serve your need.

The business provides neon, plastic, decal, truck lettering, painting on buildings, or anything else you may ask for in the way of signs. Faulkner does the work by contract or by the job, and will sell or lease the sign you need.

In addition to the regular work, Faulkner offers a service contract which enables the owner to keep the sign Faulkner has put up in good condition at all times. When a sign is leased, the same service goes with it.

Faulkner's equipment, for sign work outside, consists of two panel trucks and a 65-foot "Sky Hook" for the taller jobs. He has the necessary facilities for erecting signs of any size and height up to the 65-foot level. He will also lease the "Sky Hook" along with the operator, for hanging steel sheets, setting air conditioners in place, and for putting up pre-fabricated building parts.

Faulkner says he covers an area including Big Spring, Stanton, Andrews, Snyder, Colorado City, and other places in between. Many signs bearing his name are to be seen all over this area of West Texas.

Some of the major neon signs of distinction seen in the City of Big Spring, and in the surrounding area, have been designed and erected by Faulkner Neon & Sign Co.

The larger signs may be designed and built in from 15 to 30 days, including supports and emplacement of the sign.

Faulkner has been in the neon business for about 11 years. He worked at it part time while employed by a local industry, and began working at it in real earnest in May of 1964, when he found he had to devote full time to a growing industry.

Working with him is Charles

Smith, who has spent 25 years in the sign-painting business. Faulkner has three full time men, with two to three others putting in part time work as needed.

Honda Cycles Mean Fun And Gas-Savings

"You Meet the Nicest People on a Honda," is the motto of the American Honda Motor Co. And it's true. Honda riders have more fun, so naturally they're nicer.

Honda's are a great Japanese-made motorcycle, and if you want to find out what all the noise is about, drop by the A-1 Cycle Shop at 3103 US 80 west—they handle Honda motorcycles, and will be glad to tell you all about these fine two-wheelers.

Honda cycles have been sold all over West Texas, including Midland, Snyder, Kermit, Big Spring, of course, and many other places. A lot of the business is right here at home, with Webb Air Force Base personnel being particular fans of the Honda brand.

Engines on all Honda motorcycles are four-cycle, some having dual carburetors and electric push-button starters, and the smallest models will get up to an unbelievable 200 miles on one gallon of gasoline. All the cycles have reserve fuel tanks designed to give some 30 additional miles after the main tank has been finally emptied. All the driver has to do is to flip a valve to get use of that reserve to prevent walking several miles, or pushing the cycle to get the tank filled again.

TIRES AND MORE TIRES
Stacks of various sizes of Seiberling Tires at Creighton Tire Co.

Carver Pharmacy Built For Patron Convenience

Carver Drive-In Prescription Pharmacy, located at East Tenth and Nolan, was built for the convenience of its customers and was the first in Big Spring to feature a drive-in window for prescriptions.

This enabled patrons, wanting to pick up prescriptions in a hurry and without having to worry about dress, to drive around the building from Nolan, pick up their items and drive off on Tenth Street without having to worry about a parking place.

As a licensed pharmacist, Milton Carver believes every person should have a regular physical checkup and should use pharmaceuticals prescribed by qualified physicians and properly compounded. A physician's advice is paramount where questions of health are concerned.

Carver keeps abreast of the latest developments in prescription drugs and the trusted patent medicines.

Carver also calls attention to the fact that the pharmacy stocks thousands of items besides medicinal supplies.

For instance, when thinking of gifts for special days, there is none more appreciated than a box of the famous Pangburn's chocolates. The quality candy is boxed in various sizes appropriate for gifts. The pharmacy is air-conditioned, so the appearance and taste of the chocolates are not altered by the effects of heat or cold.

Carver also stocks cosmetics of all well-known brands, shaving lotion and needs for men, Hallmark greeting cards, magazines, books, and many other items.

Call AM 4-4417 for your prescription—Carver will have it ready for you when you drive up.

Wallace Hits U.S. Guidelines

ATLANTA (AP)—Gov. George Wallace of Alabama says he wants to resist new federal guidelines for speedier integration of public classrooms.

"We must obey the laws, just and unjust," he said Monday, "but we should not have to obey edicts of bureaucratic officials who go beyond the law."

His comments to Alabama school leaders came after the Office of Education laid down new guidelines which could result in halting of federal funds if not obeyed.

Seiberling Tire At Creighton Tire Co.

Creighton Tire Co., 601 Gregg, owned and operated by Charlie Creighton and Dalton Carr, is featuring the improved Seiberling tire, with the wrap-around tread.

The performance-rated tire is known as the Seiberling Supreme Sealed-Aire tire. It is performance-rated at 200 and is the complete tire for the motorist whose requirements are high—absolute, in fact.

Men with years of experience in the handling of tires and service are employed at Creighton's. These men know there is no better tire on the market than the Sealed-Aire puncture-sealing Seiberling tire.

Creighton has been dealing in Seiberling tires for some 36 years, and he has received plaques of commendation from the company every five years since he received the 15-year commendation plaque.

There are eight persons to serve customers of Creighton Tire Co., and all of them feature courtesy with their exemplary services.

The firm has made a strong point of selling only quality products and giving only high-quality service during all the years it has been in business in Big Spring. The Seiberling tires are available for cars, trucks, tractors, even boat-trailers, and customers continue to return for more of these well-made products as they need them—even Seiberling tires eventually need to be replaced.

The Seiberling tubeless Sealed-Aire tires have a very wide and deep hi-traction tread, which gives exceptional traction, positive braking power, outstanding stability, easy handling and quiet performance for the life of the original tread, which is your assurance of full value for your investment. It also offers exclusive Seiberling Puncture Sealing bulkhead construction, for most positive puncture sealing, with perfect tire balance assured.

When West Texas drivers have to travel over all kinds of roads and ranch trails today, they want tires they can depend on. That is why they return time and again to Creighton Tire Co. when they need service and top tires.

Almost every bush in the rugged country has "stickers" on it that may not cause a "blow-out," but will, after becoming imbedded in the tire carcass, gradually wear a tiny hole in the tube and let the pressure fall. Sharp gravel and rusty nails have to be contended with, and that's where the Sealed-Aire tire comes in. It won't let you down when reliability counts.

Seiberling tires mean ease of mind and riding comfort for all drivers using them.

Try a set of Seiberling tires on your car, truck, tractor or boat-trailer if you want to know full satisfaction. Call AM 4-7921 for further information.

Continued Emphasis Given '3 Rs', New Courses Set

By JERRY MONSON

"We cannot forget that continued emphasis must be given to the old 'three r's', even though new programs sound, and are, exciting," said Dr. C. L. Ainsworth, director of instructional service for the Big Spring Public Schools.

"Too often when new programs are begun, old ones are overlooked," he said. "In Big Spring, this is not the case."

New teaching programs and new concepts of education are in progress in Big Spring, as well as Coahoma and Forsan schools, with plans for program expansion to meet the changes of today's education.

REMEDIAL READING

At Big Spring, increased library services, especially remedial reading classes, are being planned. As part of a federal grant which was approved in January, Project ABC, better known as Advancing Better Communications, got under way.

Under Title I of Public Law 89-10, the project is a $129,278 effort to advance education to disadvantaged students through basic skills such as reading and writing. Included in the program are health and social work services.

A grant of $16,520.31 was approved under Title II of Public Law 89-10 and the amount is being used solely for library books primarily in those schools which have a larger than average number of disadvantaged students.

In addition to these programs, a committee is working on a study of art curricula and a new vocational program in the general metals trade is opening with the additions to the high school. At Coahoma, a driver education course was added this year for high school students, a remedial reading program was added for grades one through six, and more programs are planned in the high school if its enrollment shows an increase next year.

NEW EMPLOYEES

Three new employees were hired this semester under Title I, a remedial reading teacher, a school nurse and a clerk.

And to be continued and expanded is the pre-school program for Spanish-speaking children in the summer. Most of the new programs will be expanded and coordinated on the basis

Pansy Odeneal Is Promoted

Mrs. Louise Hamilton, 708 W. 15th, assistant chief operator for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company here, has been named acting chief operator succeeding Pansy Odeneal, 813 W. 18th St. Miss Odeneal has been named acting chief operator in Midland.

Mrs. Hamilton began her telephone career in Big Spring in 1936. She moved to Vernon in 1940 and returned here a short time later. She has served in Big Spring since that time.

Miss Odeneal has been with the telephone company since 1950, when she started as a student operator in Snyder. She served as chief operator for the company in Kermit before her assignment here in March of last year.

of the school's enrollment, according to W. A. Wilson, superintendent.

An experiment in program learning—the self-teaching concept of education—highlights the new programs at Forsan, according to Darrell Flynt, principal of the high school.

"The arrangement of the program learning course is either in book form or by means of visual aids," he said. "A student can therefore move at his own rate."

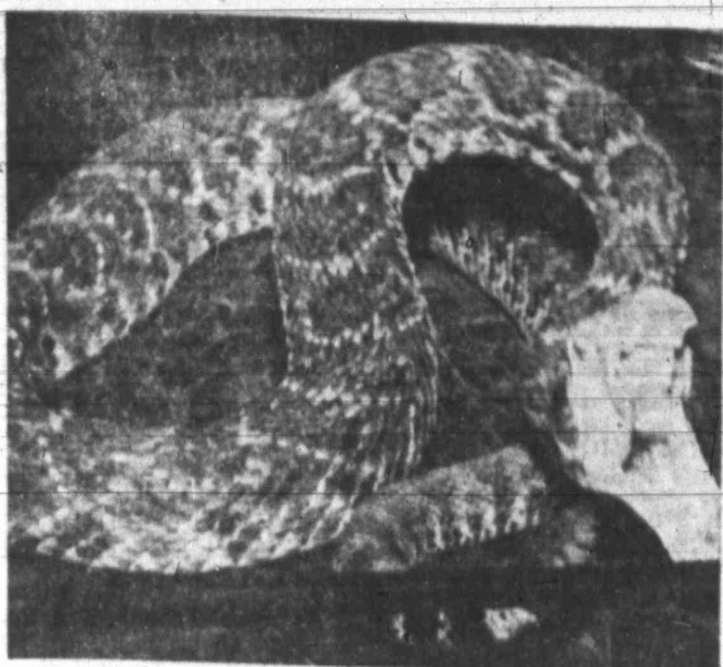

"This is an extremely successful experiment so far," Flynt said, "because a student can call for a test when he feels he knows the material—not just at a given interval. He studies rapidly or slowly, just as he prefers. Teachers are always available, of course, to guide him in his studies."

Flynt said that the departmental course was being operated in the social studies department, a class he was teaching himself. A similar program has been operating in the math department for the past two years.

SELF-TEACHING

"The self-teaching concept is an important one," he said. "Depending on the student's efforts and the amount of 'heart' he puts into his studies, the program can enrich the better student's work and still make provisions for the slower students, who now can feel that they, too, can achieve."

A programmed approach is also in process in two English sections at the high school, one in the freshman and one in the senior classes. The main purpose of the English special instruction is to provide individualized instruction in the grammar departments.

He Means Business

Those wide open jaws indicate this rattler was ready for business—in this instance, though, it was just a stick. He'll not get another chance, as he has long since joined the other snakes as "the snack" during the Jaycee round-up last weekend. (Photo by Danny Valdes)

Soil Dries Sufficiently For Planting Of Crops

AUSTIN (AP)—Soils dried sufficiently last week in clear weather—the first in some parts of Texas in 14 weeks—for the planting of crops, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported Monday.

In the Rio Grande Valley, the planting of cotton, sorghum and corn resumed and was extended on a limited basis into upper South Texas, the department said.

The department, discussing Texas' crops and weather in its weekly report, said the first major dust storm of the season damaged dryland wheat on the plains.

"Wheat is still generally dormant," the report said, "but it is beginning to grow."

The clear, open weather gave oats a chance to green, and flax made satisfactory growth, the report said.

The vegetable harvests picked up in the Valley and the San Antonio-Winter Garden areas. A colder than normal February, however, caused the condition of range feed, cattle sheep and goats to decline.

Include All IRS Forms

DALLAS — Thousands of Texas taxpayers had their federal tax refunds held up last year because they forgot to send in certain statements required to complete their 1040's.

District director Ellis Campbell Jr. said the statement forgotten most often was the one needed to claim the sick pay exclusion. Form 2440 is available for this statement. Others frequently omitted were statements on Form 3408 for investment credit and on Form 1116 for the Foreign Tax Credit.

Special forms are available for certain deductions, credits and exclusions claimed on Form 1040, Campbell said. These forms are noted on Form 1040 and explained in the instruction booklet.

Other forms available for required statements with the 1040 are Form 3903 for moving expenses, Form 2106 for employee business expenses and Form 2950SE for payments by self-employed persons to retirement plans.

To avoid delay in the processing of returns—and refunds—Campbell asked taxpayers to check their returns to see whether they are complete before they mail them in. Besides seeing whether the return has all the required statements attached, Campbell said the following items should be reviewed:

- 1) Is the tax account number correctly listed (this is the Social Security number)?
- 2) Are all W-2 forms enclosed?
- 3) Is the return signed (both husband and wife on joint returns)?
- 4) Are all exemptions included?

Voter Total Up By 149

At 5 p.m. Monday, 149 Howard Countians, who had not previously qualified themselves to vote in the elections of this year, had registered under the Special Voter Registration program.

In addition to these registrants, Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, county tax assessor-collector, said that she had 30 or more applications sent in on forms published in the Daily Herald. These, she said, will be processed later and the official registration receipts sent to the applicants by mail.

If the 50 per day average is maintained through March 17, the list of qualified voters in the county will be increased by 750. Most observers doubt if there is a good chance, it is felt, that after the first few days, there will be a sharp drop off in interest.

The last two days or so, Mrs. LeFevre said, she expects a brisk business.

Dallas Okays JFK Plaque

DALLAS (AP)—An $8,000 plaque will mark the site of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas.

The park board approved specifications for the marker Monday. It will be mounted on a marble pillar and will depict the President's parade route through Dallas, the assassination site.

The plaque will be set up at the site on the western edge of downtown Dallas.

Big Turnouts Visit Schools

Visitation morning at College Heights Elementary today was highlighted with approximately 250 parents attending. Coffee and doughnuts were served, and a nursery was provided for pre-school children.

Gay Hill and Kentwood P-TAs expected a good turnout at their meetings today, and a big crowd turned out to see the crafts displayed by junior high students at the special education open house today.

At Forsan, about 30 parents attended the first grade choral reading of "Snip, Snap, and Snurr" and "The Little Red Shoes" this morning. An open house tonight from 7:30 during the regular P-TA meeting. Students from the old South Ward building will participate, and refreshments will be served.

Wednesday's activities include a high school chorus concert at 9:30 a.m. at Forsan High School, where the student council will register visitors. Throughout the week, parents are invited to visit elementary classes at Bauer, College Heights, Gay Hill, Kentwood, Lakeview, Park Hill, Goliad and Rannels Junior highs and the senior high school.

A special open house is planned tonight from 7:30-8:30 at the Lakeview Elementary School. Students will serve as guides and explain projects and displays. Open houses are also scheduled at Marcy Elementary at 7:30 p.m. during the P-TA meeting, with students art work on display, and Park Hill Elementary, where refreshments will be served during the open house from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

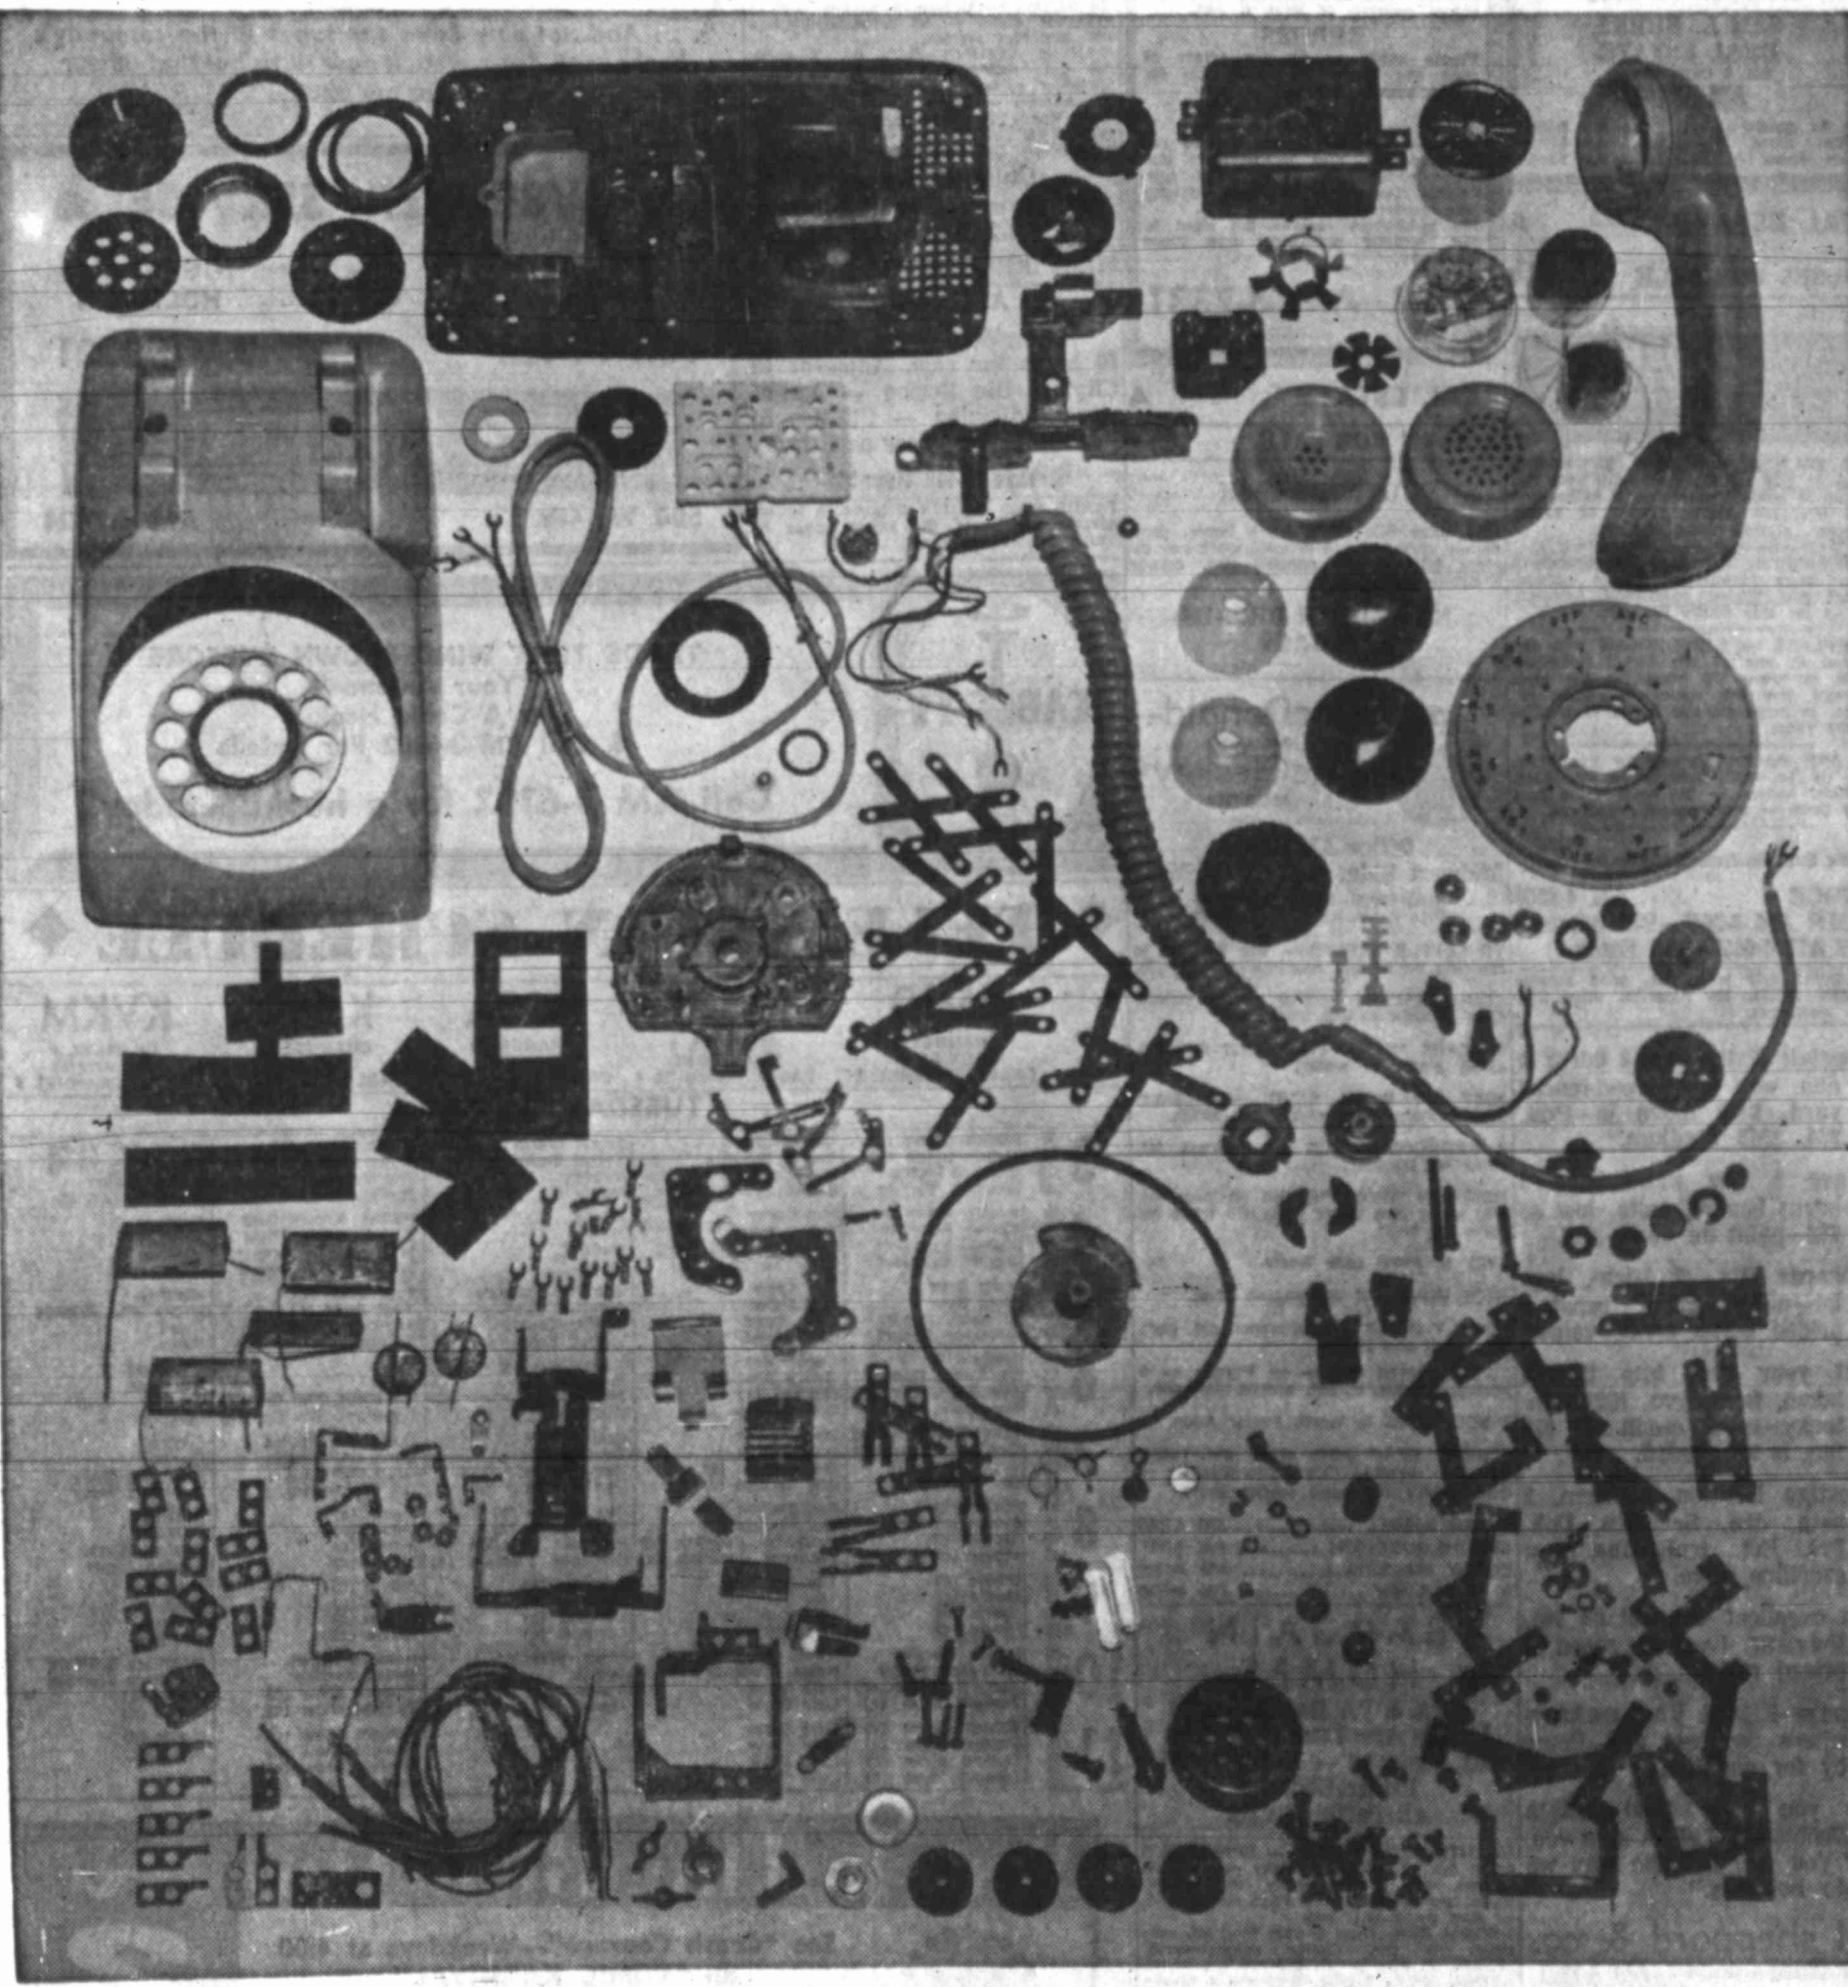

Washington Elementary will plan in the classrooms. Area schools are reporting a good turnout in observance of Public School Week, with several hundred parents already attending special activities.

Finds Good Meal Here

To the Editor:
My husband and I were traveling by auto through Texas. We drive late at night and usually try to eat a late dinner. Most eating places close earlier than 10 p.m. and we ran into some real "dogs" that were open.
After three days of absolutely awful food, we arrived in Big Spring. I had lived in Texas during 1945 I knew that Texans are famous for good cooking, and I just knew that somewhere in this town there was a good dinner waiting for me. We found the police station (my husband is a Los Angeles cop) and went in. The policeman at the desk was most courteous and when we told her that we just wanted a good Texas dinner she was all smiles. I guess she knew the problem. She made a phone call and came back with the news that Leonard Coker would be waiting for us with blackeyed peas and the works.
We drove the few blocks and what a meal!!! Cat fish rolled in corn meal and deep fried.

State Sections Warm A Bit

By The Associated Press
Gentle spring showers spread across the eastern half of Texas and all sections of the state warmed a bit more today.
Skies cleared in the extreme west and clouds were expected to disappear in most other areas by Wednesday.
The mercury eased down to 31 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle. Early morning marks elsewhere generally held above freezing, ranging up to the 50s along the coast.
Light rain started during the night around Mineral Wells in the north, Walnut Springs in Central Texas and at scattered points farther south.
One area of weak showers gradually widened along and 100 miles or more east of a line linking Lake Texoma, the Fort Worth-Dallas vicinity, Tyler and Waco, moving slowly toward the northeast.

East was in with the king. He returned a diamond, and declarer put up the ace. Inasmuch as he had no more hearts to lead, profitable development of that suit was no longer practical, and he switched his attention for the moment to clubs.

The ace and king of clubs were cashed; however, on the second round West discarded a spade. Altho the unfavorable division in clubs prevented the swift development of a ninth trick, South did not abandon hope. He crossed over to the queen of diamonds and led a heart, discarding a club from his hand. East had to make two discards and he gave up the five and six of spades.

West was in and he proceeded to cash two diamond tricks. This was the position as the last diamond was led:

North discarded a heart. East could not give up a club without establishing two tricks for South in that suit, so he parted with the ten of spades. West led back a small spade. Declarer correctly guessed to play the seven from dummy and East's lone king fell to the ace. North's queen of spades took the fulfilling trick.

West could have broken the squeeze if he had refrained from cashing the last diamond. A spade shift at this point establishes the setting trick for East.

Federal Pay Increase Bid Stirs Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)— Postal officials appear before a House subcommittee today to endorse the administration's proposed 3.2 per cent pay boost for classified federal employees, with critics questioning whether the requests bring most government workers up to comparable private industry pay levels.

That line of questioning developed Monday as the House Post Office and Civil Service subcommittee opened hearings on the pay bill. Chairman John Macy Jr. of the Civil Service Commission was the first witness.

FAVORS FIGURE
Asked whether the 3.2 per cent boost would really make government pay competitive, Macy said yes. He added: "This is as far as we can go."

Macy emphasized that the administration had a responsibility to stay within guidelines on wage increases it is asking private industry to follow voluntarily to avoid inflationary pressure on the economy.

1.8 MILLION
The increases would be effective Jan. 1 and would benefit 1.8 million classified, postal and related employees. Pay boosts would range from 1 per cent for the first three classified grades to 4.5 per cent in grade 15. Postal salaries for clerks and carriers would be increased 2.4 per cent.

President Johnson outlined the pay plan a few hours before the subcommittee hearings began.

Johnson said direct salary increases will average 2.8 per cent with the rest in fringe benefits. He put the price tag for the increase at $485 million a year.

Wheat Surpluses May Drop Beneath Essential Reserve

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. wheat surpluses by midyear may drop slightly below what officials regard as an essential reserve. An Agriculture Department report today said foreign demands would be responsible for the drop.

The department said it is possible that surplus wheat on hand July 1, the beginning of the 1966 crop statistical year, may be around 593 million bushels—slightly below the 600 million bushels regarded by department experts as a safe reserve for such emergencies as crop failure, unforeseen new demands and, possibly, war.

RECORD HIGH
The carryover reached a record high of 1.4 billion by July 1, 1961, but has been going down since.

Volunteers For Center To Meet

Residents interested in joining the Volunteer Auxiliary of the Howard County Rehabilitation Center are invited to attend a 7:30 p.m. meeting today in the center's conference room. Jim Thompson, director, said almost 20 have offered their services, but more are needed if the center is to meet its increasing patient load. Tonight, duties of volunteers will be discussed, and suggestions will be asked from all those attending.

ord high of 1.4 billion by July 1, 1961, but has been going down since.

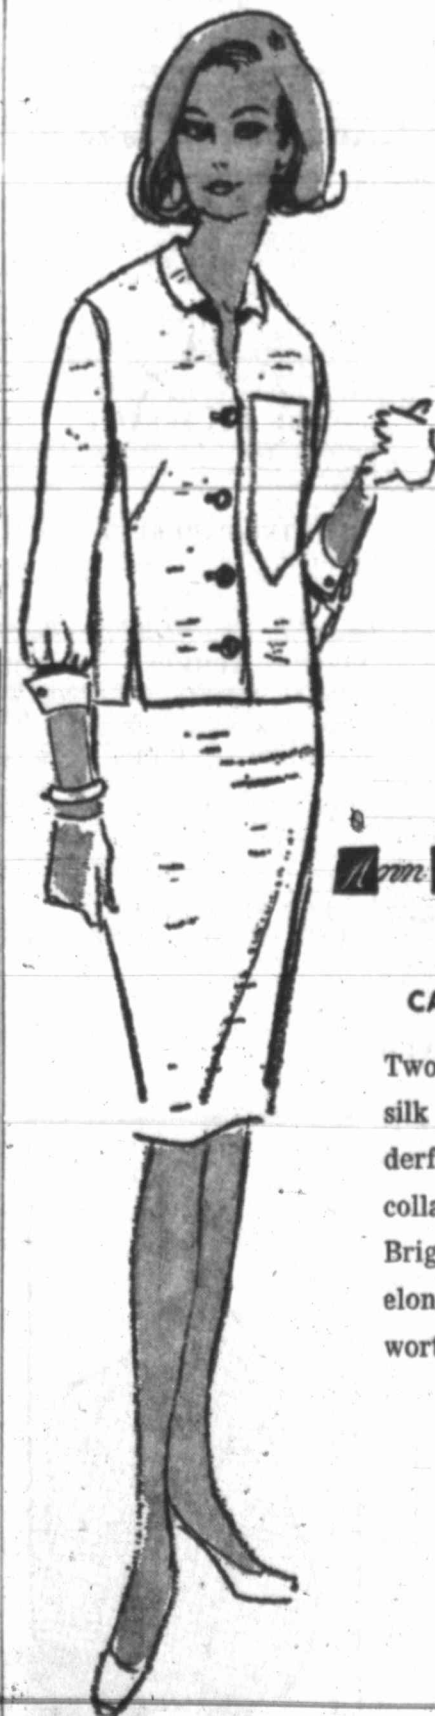

Last October the department predicted the wheat carryover next July 1 would be 750 million bushels. But foreign demands—particularly those of India—have increased exports beyond earlier expectations.

It now appears that domestic and foreign outlets will take a record 1,537 million bushels from the 1965 crop supply, a supply that included a crop of 1,327 million bushels and a carryover last July 1 of 818 million bushels.

LARGER ALLOTMENTS
The decline in wheat surplus clearly indicates that the Agriculture Department will authorize larger acreage allotments for the 1967 crop. Thus the 1967 national wheat allotment may be set at 55 million acres, compared to 49.9 million allotted for this year's crop.

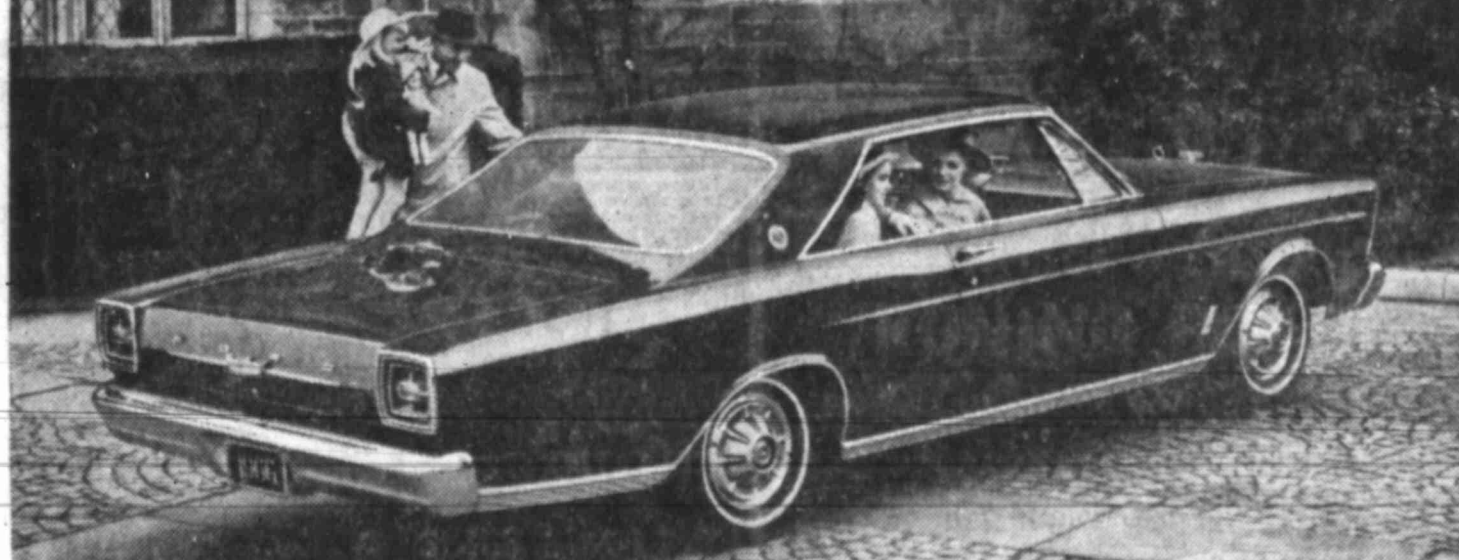

The allotment will be announced by summer because winter wheat for next year's harvest must be seeded in the fall.

Residents interested in joining the Volunteer Auxiliary of the Howard County Rehabilitation Center are invited to attend a 7:30 p.m. meeting today in the center's conference room. Jim Thompson, director, said almost 20 have offered their services, but more are needed if the center is to meet its increasing patient load. Tonight, duties of volunteers will be discussed, and suggestions will be asked from all those attending.

And booming sales prove it! More and more people are switching to Ford every day...and no wonder. Fords do things other cars can't. You can have a radio in any car, but Ford offers a Stereo-Sonic Tape Player option that turns your car into a concert hall with music of your choice. Most station wagons have a one-way tailgate, but Ford's Magic Doorgate swings out like a door for people and down like a tailgate for cargo. Most cars offer a choice between manual and automatic shift, but Fairlane's GT/A Sport Shift works both ways. Visit your Ford Dealer and test-drive a '66 from Ford.
