TRUCK CATCHES FIRE AFTER CRASH Driver Fred Smith saved by passersby

Airmen Pull Trucker From Wreck To Safety

A Dallas truck driver was probably saved from death by fire when two Webb AFB airmen pulled him from the cab of the overturned truck just before it caught fire in the aftermath of an accident 10 miles west of Big Spring Thursday afternoon, Arvin Henry, highway patrolman, said. Henry said the big tractor-trailer, loaded with lettuce, was traveling east on IS 20 when it left the highway, slipped into a ditch in the median and overturned, seriously injuring driver Fred Smith. Diesel fuel escaping from a ruptured tank scattered over the aluminum cab and the roadway, Henry said, and ignited within a few moments. Airman 3.C. Edward Ethredge and Airman 3.C. Dennis Johnson pulled Smith from the cab only moments before it burst into flame. The cab was destroyed entirely, but the trailer-load of lettuce was relatively undamaged. Smith was taken to Cowper Clinic and Hospital, where attendants said he was being treated for a fractured pelvis, a bad scalp laceration and possible broken ribs. He was said to be in "satisfactory" condition this morning by the doctor in attendance. Henry said the wreck happened shortly before 3:42 p.m., when a service station operator called officers to the scene. After it went off the road, the truck traveled for about 150 feet before it overturned, then skidded another 50 or more feet before coming to a halt on its left side in the highway median. One of the fuel tanks was ruptured in the crash, probably when the truck overturned and began skidding, officers said. The truck was leased to the American Packing Co., Dallas. A Big Spring fire truck was dispatched to the scene, and extinguished the blazing diesel fuel quickly. Two winch trucks pulled the demolished cab from the trailer.

Doug Wiehe, Band Director, Resigns

Doug Wiehe, high school band director for the past nine years, has resigned to accept a position as band director for North Texas State University. His resignation is effective June 1. Wiehe will direct the campus band and teach brass and music education classes in his new position.

DOUG WIEHE

He came to Big Spring in 1957 from Beeville, where he had taught instrumental music for four years. He is a native of Mt. Vernon, Ill., where he attended grade and high schools.

His music career includes study at the Eastmond School of Music in Rochester, N.Y., North Texas State University, where he received his bachelor's and master's degrees, and present work at the University of Colorado on a Ph.D. in music education.

For the past three years, under his direction, the Big Spring High School band has received the University Interscholastic League sweepstakes award in marching, concert band, and sight reading. Other achievements of the band have included concerts in Seattle at the World's Fair and in Los Angeles; attaining second place of all 4-A bands in the state two years ago in the concert competition; and ranking among the top three of four cities in placing students in the All-State Band and Orchestra. In 1963, Big Spring High School had the most entries in the competition of any city in the division. He and his wife, Donna, who teaches elementary music at College Heights and Boydston, have three children, Stephen, Donald, and Angela, and reside at 528 Scott.

Business Loan Interest Hiked By Major Banks

NEW YORK (AP) — Many major banks across the nation are raising the minimum interest rate on short-term business loans from 5 to 5½ per cent, an Associated Press survey shows. It is the second rise in the prime interest rate in three months. Last Dec. 6 the rate increased from 4½ to 5 per cent. Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York was the first to increase its rate Thursday. Word quickly spread through financial circles and within hours banks in widely scattered parts of the country announced similar increases.

CREDIT DEMAND "Because of the continuing heavy demand for credit, we are raising our minimum rate to 5½ per cent, effective immediately," said D.C. Sutherland of the Bank of America in San Francisco. The bank is the world's largest. The stock market, which had been rallying strongly, declined sharply and prices closed slightly lower Thursday.

Although the interest rate boost is for business firms, its effect will be felt widely. It will mean a higher cost of doing business, which will be passed on to the customer.

WAY SPREAD Ultimately it could mean higher rates on consumer loans for such things as automobiles and appliances.

Other cities where banks have announced the rate include: Atlanta, Indianapolis, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Richmond and Norfolk, Va., and Los Angeles. Bankers in many other major cities said they were considering such action.

In Washington, there was no comment on the prime-rate increase from the White House, the Treasury Department or the Federal Reserve Board. The Johnson administration sharply attacked the increase last December.

LBJ SILENT Some observers believe that White House silence this time could mean that Johnson is ready to accept the rate increase as a means of slowing down the booming American economy. Not all banks are planning to act immediately on the rate increase.

Gemini Set For Launch Next Tuesday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "This is an extremely full flight plan, and therefore many things might not be done." Flight Director Christopher Kraft was discussing next week's action-packed Gemini 8 mission during which astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, a civilian, and David R. Scott, an Air Force major, are to latch their space ship to another satellite and Scott is to stroll in space for 2 hours, 40 minutes.

3-DAY TRIP The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported in detail Thursday the plans for the three-day trip in which the astronauts will be busier than any previous U.S. spacemen.

Highlights will be the chase of an Agena satellite over a 105,000-mile course; four separate linkups with the Agena, and the space walk during which Scott will float on a 100-foot tether practicing maneuvers and seeing how well he can perform in weightlessness as a photographer, space mechanic, star gazer and collector of scientific data.

In an interview, Kraft said: "The flight plan is essentially a flight request, and the pilots will do what they can in the time allotted. It's doubtful they can do all the things laid on. It will be a flight of real time decisions."

GAIN EXPERIENCE Kraft said the astronauts were given many tasks because "in Gemini we hope to gain as much space operational experience as possible on all flights."

The doubleheader launching is scheduled to start at 9 a.m. Big Spring time Tuesday when an Atlas-Agena rocket boosts the Agena upper stage into orbit. The Titan 2 is to follow at 10:41 a.m., shooting Gemini 8 into space to start the dramatic chase.

If the Agena achieves the desired orbit, Armstrong and Scott will fly almost precisely the same orbit-shifting course that Gemini 6 did in catching up to Gemini 7 in December.

Gemini 8 command pilot Armstrong will fly formation with the target at a distance of about 50 feet for 45 minutes before inserting the nose of the Gemini into an Agena docking collar and firmly locking the two vehicles together.

CONNECT TETHER The astronauts will remain moored to the Agena through a night's sleep. Scott will open his hatch 20 hours, 25 minutes into the flight and will step outside on a 25-foot tether.

After conducting experiments, he will enter an open equipment bay at the base of Gemini 8 and don a life-support backpack and connect an extra 75 feet of tether. During this time Armstrong will disconnect from the Agena and back about 100 feet away. Scott will leave the equipment section and practice maneuvers with his longer tether and a gas-jet gun.

After Scott returns to the cabin, the astronauts will try three more dockings and undockings with the Agena, using varying methods of approach.

Cameron Loan Okayed By CFA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Community Facilities Administration announced funds Thursday for Cameron County (Tex.) Water Control and Improvement District No. 19, a $12,750 loan for planning irrigation and drainage improvements in Cameron County. Estimated cost of the work is $575,000.

Space Walk Training

Astronaut David Scott, pilot of Gemini 8 which is due to be launched Tuesday, takes part in weightlessness training while using the Hand-Held Maneuvering Unit. Scott is scheduled to make a space walk during the second day of the space flight that will last over two hours. The weightlessness condition is created inside an airborne Air Force C-135 jet aircraft. An Air Force technician stands upright while Scott appears to walk up the side of the plane. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Teenagers On Delegation To Attend Infocade '66

Three local high school girls will attend the series of panels and lectures in the student union building on the Texas Tech campus. Infocade '66, a series of one-day informational conferences designed for West Texas leaders, will be held Thursday, March 17, at Mineral Wells, and Friday, March 18, at San Angelo. This year's Infocade features a business-government relations panel and a woman's viewpoint panel.

Several speakers, including Frank Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute in New York and former congressman from Wichita Falls, and Mrs. L. E. Dudley, Abilene, West Texas cultural leader, will highlight the program.

A high school leaders' viewpoint panel will feature Tim Sledge, president of the student body of Permian High School, Odessa. High school delegates from all over the area will attend the conference.

RAIN FORECAST Occasional showers were predicted for nearly all areas of Texas tonight and early tomorrow. The forecasts also called for somewhat lower temperatures everywhere except Southeast Texas.

Welcome warm south winds pushed far into the nation today, but a deep snowbelt still bordered the northern Great Lakes area and new snow fell in northern Minnesota and Michigan.

MILD SPELL Mild readings in the 50s were common all across the country. In the Pacific Northwest, the arrival of a high pressure system ended a long rainy spell. A short spell of sprinkles blew into the Midwest from the Gulf, accompanied by low cloudiness and fog.

AREAS FOGGY Fog hung low in early morning around Alice, Victoria, Palacios and Houston. The flow of warm air inland from the Gulf of Mexico sent temperatures soaring Thursday and Presidio, in far West Texas, recorded a summery 90 degrees

Fire Destroys Paris Building

PARIS, Tex. (AP)—Fire destroyed a two-story brick building two blocks from the downtown city square early today.

Burned out were a supermarket, eight apartment units and a cotton brokers office. Three persons were sent to a hospital, suffering mainly from smoke poisoning. They are Mrs. Myrtle Floyd, E. A. Dodson and his nurse, Mrs. Mable Beckereley. All lived in the apartments. The nurse managed to get her elderly patient to the bottom of the stairs and the firemen carried him to safety.

The grocery owner estimated the loss to his stock alone at $35,000 to $40,000. The owner of the building was out of town. The fire was believed to have started in the basement. A policeman discovered it at 12:45 a.m. in less than two hours the building was a total loss. Every piece of fire equipment and all off-duty men fought the blaze.

Trappist Order Ousts Monk Involved In Estate Lawsuit

SPENCER, Mass. (AP) — A Trappist monk who filed suit in Texas to contest the use of a wealthy widow's estate has been dismissed from the order.

Dom Thomas Keating, abbot of the order's headquarters at St. Joseph's Abbey, said the monk, Christopher Gregory, "was disassociated from the Trappist order Jan. 10, 1966." Gregory, 48, known as Brother Leo in the order, filed suit Tuesday in Alice, Tex. He seeks recognition as a director of the John G. and Marie Stella Kennedy Memorial Foundation, and a change in court-ordered distribution of grants to it from the estate of Mrs. Sarita Kennedy East.

"NO CHOICE" "Since by his course of action Christopher Gregory effectively withdrew himself from his religious life in our order, and since this was seriously harmful to the common good of our order, there was no choice left but to disassociate him," the abbot said Thursday.

A spokesman said the order prefers the word "disassociated," but that it "means the same as dismissed."

The abbot's statement said, however, that Gregory's "disassociation in no way reflects upon the integrity of his activities prior to Mrs. East's death."

Conferees Ditch Most Of Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson was assured of his $4-billion tax program today as House and Senate leaders moved to complete action quickly on a compromise version meeting administration specifications.

Passage was assured. Senate and House conferees Thursday ditched most of the changes the Senate had made in the measure that would have reduced its net yield to the Treasury by $1 billion or more.

AID TO ELDERLY However, a limited program to blanket some 300,000 old persons into Social Security was included in the final version. Major provisions reinstated recently cut excise taxes on cars and phone calls, and sped up collection of personal and corporate income taxes.

(Related story on Page 7-A.)

A revised withholding plan by which the amounts taken out of paychecks will more closely match tax bills remains in the bill with only minor modifications from the administration recommendation. It will become effective in May, bringing generally lower withholding for low-income taxpayers and somewhat higher withholding for those in middle and upper brackets.

VOTES NEAR Both branches of Congress planned final votes by Tuesday, meeting the March 15 deadline requested by the President. The Senate may act Monday, Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee said.

The $4-billion tax boost — $1.2 billion in this fiscal year and $4.8 billion in the year starting July 1 — is designed to help finance the Viet Nam war and also dampen any inflationary tendencies.

DROPS AMENDMENTS The Senate had voted to reduce sharply the tax rollback by limiting it to long-distance calls. But the conferees agreed to drop this amendment. The telephone excise tax, accordingly, will revert to 10 per cent from 3 per cent.

Rabbi Shot Feb. 12 Dies Of 'Coma Complications'

DETROIT (AP) — Rabbi Morris Adler, 59, spiritual leader for most of the Detroit area's 85,000 Jews, died today, almost one month after he was shot in the head by a member of his congregation.

A spokesman at Sinai Hospital, where the rabbi had lain after he was shot Feb. 12, said Adler died "due to complications of his prolonged coma."

Rabbi Adler had been unconscious since shortly after he was shot by Richard Wisnietzky, 23, Detroit, during services at Shaarey Zedek Synagogue in suburban Southfield.

Wisnietzky, who shot himself an instant after shooting Rabbi Adler, died Feb. 16 of a similar head wound.

Wisnietzky, who had undergone psychiatric treatment before his death, criticized the congregation as "a travesty and an abomination," just before shooting the rabbi. Long active in community service, Rabbi Adler had devoted most of his spare time and counsel to education, race relations and labor relations.

Her estate, including half of the 400,000-acre La Parra ranch in Kenedy County, Tex., has been sued for federal tax purposes at nearly $30 million. Estimates that include the potential value of oil and gas deposits range as high as $300 million.

Gregory has been a central figure in two major law suits involving the estate. One claims he influenced Mrs. East in writing her will.

The second concerned differences between the John G. and Marie Stella Kennedy Foundation, named for Mrs. East's parents, and the Sarita Kennedy East Foundation, Inc., of New York, established by Mrs. East.

Low Road Toll 'Still Too High'

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Not good enough, says Connecticut of the fact that for the past six years it has had the lowest or second-lowest highway death rate in the country.

The Connecticut Safety Commission, instead of expressing pride, says of the low death rate: "It merely indicates that Connecticut continues to conduct an effective all-around traffic safety program."

Connecticut and Rhode Island shared national honors in 1964 for the lowest death rate — 2.8 deaths for each million vehicle miles of travel.

For the first 10 months of 1965, the latest death rate figures available, the rate in Connecticut was 3.2 — behind Rhode Island's 2.5.

A total of 296 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in 1960.

'Was Shadowed,' Car Safety Crusader Says; Probe Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators will try to determine just what the strawberry blonde was up to standing there before the cracker counter in a supermarket and rolling her eyes, at the young fellow.

The young fellow is Ralph Nader, 32, tall, dark-haired, intense, crusader for safer automobiles and author of the new book "Unsafe At Any Speed."

According to Nader, a bachelor, he was minding his own business one day last month, trying to pick out some biscuits for his larder when the blonde — name unknown to him — struck up a conversation.

"ON GUARD" Would he mind awfully, she pleaded, coming up to her apartment and helping her move some furniture around?

"Now ordinarily," Nader said Thursday night, "I probably would have obliged, but maybe I was on guard because it was the second incident of that nature."

A short time earlier a strange brunette had encountered him in a drug store and signified that she craved his company so they could discuss foreign affairs.

Nader and his friends say these were only two of a string of peculiar events which began after his book was published and which continued after he appeared before a Senate subcommittee Feb. 10 to develop his thesis that American autos are 30 years behind the times in safety construction, and cost thousands of lives.

"WAS SHADOWED" Nader said gumshoes followed him, private eyes interviewed his acquaintances and his old professors and classmates at Harvard Law School, asking such questions as:

Did he have a normal sex life? Was he anti-Semitic? Did he belong to left-wing groups? Was he professionally competent?

So Thursday Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the subcommittee on traffic safety, announced that he was inviting the president of General Motors, James Roche, and heads of private detective agencies to appear March 22 and explain just what kind of investigation of Nader was conducted.

ADMITTS INVESTIGATION General Motors said it would be glad to cooperate by sending representatives. It acknowledged it had investigated Nader. But it said no intimidation or harassment was involved.

"It is a well-known and accepted practice in the legal profession," the giant corporation said, "to investigate claims and persons making claims in the product liability field, such as the pending Corvair design cases."

The design of Corvairs 1960-63 is under attack from a safety viewpoint in pending lawsuits. Nader said he is not engaged in any such litigation.

Ribicoff said: "The safety of the American driving public is the basic issue before the committee. To this must now be added the additional issue of a witness' right to testify before a committee of the United States Congress without fear of character assassination."

USE RESTRAINT Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said he approved an inquiry but "we should be very careful not to have a prior judgment. We shouldn't use abrasive words like harassment and intimidation."

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., told the Senate that Nader had been harassed by anonymous phone calls, that his landlady, stockbroker, editor and business associates were quizzed and that "an attorney to whom he dedicated his book has been questioned at great length by a private detective, who was making lurid inquiries about his private life."

PRINCETON, HARVARD Nader is the son of Lebanese parents who migrated to Winsted, Conn., and went into the restaurant business. He is a graduate of Princeton, 1955, and Harvard Law School, 1958.

He told a reporter he virtually gave up his law business in Winsted two years ago to carry out a safer-autos campaign that began to take shape in his mind 10 years ago when he witnessed the results of a crash.

"A little girl was virtually decapitated when she struck the open door of a glove compartment," he said.

He began studying auto design by reading engineering reports, scientific treatises, court records.

BODY DESIGN It is possible, he contends, to reduce crash deaths and injuries by 75 per cent by better design, including flat instrument panels that yield on impact, highback seats to prevent whiplash, gas tanks that won't rupture and turn people into "balls of fire" and above all, body design that absorbs force before it hits the passengers.

As for the industry's present safety measures, he says: "If we hadn't done more in our race for the moon, we'd still be below the level of Mt. Everest."

Feels He Was Shadowed

Ralph Nader, 32, feels he has been shadowed since his recent book was published criticizing the lack of safety features in automobile construction. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., before whose Senate subcommittee on traffic safety he testified in February, has asked General Motors executives to appear at a March 22 session of the subcommittee to describe their investigation of Nader. Ancient City Skyscrapers Still Intact

KUWAIT (AP) — Deep in the desert of South Arabia is an ancient city of 500 skyscrapers that looks something like New York — from a distance.

It has some of the highest buildings in the Middle East, but no elevators. Hundreds of women who live there have never stepped outside their houses, and the entire city is made of mud.

The city is called Shibaam. Centuries before Western architects conceived the idea of the high-rise buildings, Arab laborers laid foundations in the sand and put up seven- and eight-story structures with sun-dried bricks and their bare hands.

TO 692 A.D. Shibaam soars up from the Valley of the Hadhramaut, south of Saudi Arabia, hundreds of miles from any modern civilization. Arab historians trace the city back to 692 A.D., when followers of the Prophet Mohammed walked in wonder through its towered alleyways to spread the message of Islam.

The city grew on an island in the valley. The occasional rains surround it with a sea of slime, cutting it off from the outside world. With no room to expand, Shibaam grew upward instead of outward.

TRIBAL WARS Warring tribes fought over its possession for centuries, and Shibaam today is the main market town for the tribes of the Hadhramaut.

Unlike other old Arabian towns, Shibaam needed no walls for protection. The buildings themselves, even now, are joined together and form ramps, with the lowest windows 30 feet from the ground. The entrance doors can be reached only from inside the city.

HIGH-UP DOORS The skyscrapers are connected by doors high above the ground, and many of the city's Arab housewives spend their lives paying visits around the neighborhood without ever descending to the street.

Shibaam's women are forbidden any sort of education except to learn the mysteries of fortune telling, and no women are allowed to pass through the city's main gate. The gate, barely wide enough for a car—and only hardy vehicles come to Shibaam—is reserved for men, donkeys and camels.

WOMEN'S GATE A separate, smaller gate is reserved for women and funeral processions leaving the reeking city.

Shortage Seen In Natural Gas

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of Phillips Petroleum Co. said today that natural gas consumers soon will face a scarcity of supply because in about two years the nation will be using more natural gas than is being discovered.

Stanley Learned told members of the Chicago Executives Club that federal regulation of prices long distance pipeline companies pay natural gas producers has resulted in a sharp decline in exploration for gas reserves.

COURT DECISION He attributed the decline to the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court decision giving the Federal Power Commission certain authority over natural gas producers and added:

"In 1954 our gas reserves—our inventory—were equal to about 22 times our annual production or demand rate. This ratio of inventory to annual production has constantly declined and now stands at approximately 18. Reserves equal to about 18 years current annual production doesn't mean we have an 18-year supply.

PRESSURE DECLINE "Due to the decline in pressure and consequently of production of wells as they grow older, our present reserves could not continue to be produced at the current rate for much more than 10 years at the most."

"We reach the danger point in about two years, where we will be consuming more gas than we're finding."

Learned said tentative figures show that gas reservoirs discovered in 1965 declined 10 per cent from 1964 and were only 60 per cent of the 1955 discoveries.

He said natural gas exploration is a "highly competitive, financially risky business," with only one of nine exploratory wells producing anything "and only one out of about 40 exploratory holes is a commercial producer."

What You Can Expect in Adaptation Time and Wearing Comfort as a Typical TSO Contact Lens Patient

Many people who are considering TSO contact lenses are curious as to just how long it will take to adapt to them, and how comfortable they will be when worn all day, everyday.

As a typical TSO contact lens patient, you can expect the very minimum in adaptation time* and the very maximum in wearing comfort. (To date, we have successfully fitted over 50,000 contact lens patients.) This has been our experience. There's a reason for this success, for it has not been easy to achieve. We have had a continuous program of research. As a result, we have developed an edging and beveling process second to none, and an exclusive multi-curve lens design. This, along with more exacting fitting techniques, contributes much to our patients' success in the wearing of contact lenses. In addition to our vast experience in the research area, we pay almost fanatical attention to accuracy. During processing, every TSO contact lens undergoes EIGHT separate inspections for accuracy of prescription and perfection in polishing. With contact lenses, nothing can be overlooked. A TSO Doctor of Optometry is continually informed of new developments in fitting techniques; he performs an exacting professional examination on your eyes to determine the optical and physical factors which will affect your ability to wear contact lenses successfully. Our reason for telling you about our contact lens quality and fitting experience is quite simple. We want you to know that we have the finest contact lens available, regardless of cost. And, the cost is reasonable. Just $70 complete for single vision contact lenses. Bifocals are available at reasonable cost. Convenient credit at no extra cost.

*Average adaptation time for all-day wearing—10 to 14 days.

FHA Official's Ouster Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., demanded Thursday the ouster of Neal Pickett as director of the Houston office of the Federal Housing Administration.

Williams became sharply critical in a Senate speech of Pickett's part in the FHA's 100 per cent guarantee of a $4.7 million, 40-year mortgage loan for the Clearwood Housing Project for the elderly.

Edible Art The Latest

DETROIT (AP) — The latest trend appears to be toward edible art. First there were the amateur artists in New York last week who painted with peanut butter and ate the results. Now comes a group of suburban Detroit school children who create masterpieces with macaroni, beans, lentils, sugar cubes, vitamin pills and coffee grounds.

Copters Defy Red Guns To Rescue Yanks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Marine helicopters flew under Communist guns today to rescue 59 more survivors of the fallen Ashau Special Forces camp on the Laotian frontier. Five of those rescued in the daring flights were crewmen of two Marine choppers shot down Thursday during a dramatic evacuation of 69 wounded in the final hours of the 39-hour battle before a North Vietnamese regiment overwhelmed the garrison. The rescued Marine airmen included the commander of the helicopter squadron. He was last seen Thursday running for a bunker with a machine gun in his arms. The others were Vietnamese and Montagnard troops, including three women dependents who lived at the isolated outpost.

SHUN COMBAT Despite their victory at Ashau, 360 miles north of Saigon, the Communists avoided any new action, though Allied forces tried to force them into combat. Terrorism, however, continued in the Saigon area. A Viet Cong hurled a grenade at a U.S. military jeep en route from Saigon to Tan Son Nhut airport tonight, injuring one soldier seriously and three others slightly. Four Vietnamese passersby also were hurt by the blast.

At the noon hour Thursday, terrorists exploded two grenades in a bar-restaurant at Binh Duong, 20 miles north of Saigon. Seven persons were killed and 54 wounded, presumably all Vietnamese. The terrorists escaped. PLANES ATTACK Although U.S. forces saw little action on the ground, American planes delivered counterblows at the Reds in North and South Viet Nam despite heavy overcast.

The bad weather that hampered air strikes to save the beleaguered Ashau outpost also hindered the raids on the Communist North Thursday. With the help of radar, however, Navy and Air Force pilots cut through the thick clouds and flew 11 missions. The 7th Fleet planes pounded roads, ferry landings and warehouses in the Vinh, Dong Hoi and Thanh Hoa areas, all south of Hanoi, while Air Force fighter-bombers hammered a road near Dien Bien Phu, west of Hanoi near the Laotian border, spokesmen said.

CONTINUE RAIDS Guam-based B52s continued their daily raids by hitting a new target in western Pleiku Province, three miles from the Cambodian border. U.S. officials described the highland area, 200 miles north of Saigon, as an old assembly point for Communist forces filtering down the Ho Chi Minh Trail into central coastal plains. The helicopter flights into the Ashau area were a repeat of the heroism shown by Marine pilots who flew out four Americans and 65 Montagnard tribesmen before the camp's fall Thursday night. Fifteen to 20 Americans and about 300 mountain tribesmen and Vietnamese soldiers were stationed at the camp when it was attacked early Wednesday by a Communist force thought to be eight times as large.

WOMEN, CHILDREN Some women and children of the mountain troops were reported killed in the bitter fighting. The Marine helicopters picked up the second batch of survivors while searching the jungles near the camp. The size of the group surprised the pilots who did not think so many persons could have survived the onslaught or evaded capture.

Better Be Chubby Than Smoking, Experts Aver

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Folks who refuse to give up smoking for fear of getting fat would be healthier if they were chubby and smokeless, according to two experts on obesity. Smoking, they report, is much harder on a person than being slightly overweight. Dr. E.S. Gordon, professor of medicine at the University of Wisconsin, and Dr. Jean Mayer, professor of nutrition at Harvard University, told a symposium on obesity Thursday that the problem of excessive fat is largely hereditary anyway. "Everybody has a weight that's normal for him, but there is no positive way of being sure just what it is," Gordon said. "This so-called normal weight doesn't necessarily correspond with the actuarial tables of the insurance companies," he added. They said that smoking a pack of cigarettes a day is about as bad for a person as being 90 pounds overweight, and that persons who refuse to give up smoking, hoping to remain

'Big Changes' Said Looming In Indonesia

SINGAPORE (AP) — Troops and armored cars cordoned off Indonesian President Sukarno's palace in Jakarta today as Sukarno conferred with top officials of his government on the grave crisis facing him, the Malaysian government radio reported. The report broadcast from Kuala Lumpur did not elaborate. But sources in Singapore in close touch with Jakarta said "big changes" may come in Indonesia in the next two days.

The sources reported that anti-Communist students who have been attacking government and Communist Chinese offices this week are getting ready for a "D-Day." Sukarno held an emergency meeting Thursday with leaders of eight political parties and called the situation "grave," Radio Jakarta reported.

Some sources here said the army, which has tacitly supported the students, told Sukarno to get rid of pro-Peking Foreign Minister Subandrio by Saturday. But another source said no ultimatum had been delivered yet. "When they give him this ultimatum, he is only going to have about three hours to act," the source said. The student attacks and street demonstrations were touched off last month by Sukarno's ouster of Defense Minister Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution. Considered Sukarno's chief rival for power, Nasution led a bloody purge of Communists after the attempted coup Oct. 1. The students are believed to have won support from educators, doctors and other professional and intellectual groups, as well as the army.

Adult Basic Education Class To Graduate 70

By SAM BLACKBURN March 24 will be commencement day for 70 students of the Big Spring Independent School District. On that date, they will receive certificates stating they have completed the school's first Adult Basic Education program. Their ages range from 18 years to 63 years. The class is comprised of Anglos, Latin-Americans, Negroes, one Italian and several Japanese.

UNUSUAL Their school activity is unusual in that they are the survivors of 126 individuals who enrolled in the program last October. Dr. C. L. Ainsworth, director of the program, wryly commented that the "drop out" problem posed a serious difficulty. "We started with 126, and we consider it fortunate we are completing the work with 70," he said. "There were many causes for the dropouts. Some just lost interest and quit. Others found the program conflicted with their jobs. One woman had to quit because, she said, her husband had grown weary of being baby sitter three nights a week. The Adult Basic Education program is financed by the federal government and administered through the Texas Education Agency. The initial year's activity here has cost about $6,000 Ainsworth said. The program, initiated last October, is for men and women, 18 years of age or older, who have not finished the eighth grade in school. Six classes have been conducted Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights at the Big Spring High School. School teachers served in the classes. Outside speakers have been brought in to speak on various subjects.

PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK

INTERESTED "We had the fire marshal one night," said Ainsworth. "The class was deeply interested in his work, and he was asked scores of questions. We have found many of these people have no real knowledge of how their city, county or state functions." He added that new classes will be started in the fall. He said that the initial experiment has been most helpful in establishing a program to follow, and he has high hopes that the second year will be even more effective than the first.

COMMUNICATIONS The subjects offered are communications (reading, writing and simple grammar) math and citizenship. There are two classes for enrollees who never attended school or who did not pass the third grade. There were 60 enrolled in these classes at the outset. Many, he said, could not read or write.

There are two classes for enrollees who passed the third, but did not complete the sixth grade, and one class for men and women who need training at seventh and eighth grade levels. The 63-year-old woman, Ainsworth said, explained she had not had a chance to go to school when she was a child, and she wanted to make up for her lack of education. He said that she has been outstanding in the work and has asked more questions and shown greater interest than nearly any of the enrollees. Eight of the class members did not have citizenship papers. Ainsworth said that the citizenship course was angled to train these people so that they could pass their citizenship examinations. Several of the group have already started steps to obtain their first papers. HANDLING MONEY The math course, he said, was simple arithmetic, and instruction in handling money. He pointed out that the language problem is one of the big difficulties. Some of the enrollees spoke no English. The three or four Japanese, who were in this year's classes, were enrolled for a slightly different reason than their fellows. Ainsworth said they were wives of servicemen and that most had Japanese high school educations. Their problem was coping with the English language. The school gave them opportunity to improve their skill in English. Next fall, Ainsworth said, when the new Adult Basic Education class is set up, more stress will be laid on citizenship angles. By this, he said, it meant the classes will have opportunities to meet and talk with the police chief, the city manager, the county judge, and other political figures of the county and become better acquainted with basic machinery of municipal and county government.

Moves Seen Retarding Readiness Of Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — The readiness of many Army National Guard units probably will be set back because they must give individual training to recruits unable to get into crowded Army basic training centers, sources said today. Such units chiefly are in what is called the immediate reserve, totaling about 184,000 men in 1,680 formations. Though called the immediate reserve, this force actually is a second-line reserve. However, it has a definite role in certain contingency war plans.

Another contributing factor to retarding the readiness of such units is their loss of trucks and other vehicles, communications equipment, artillery, machine guns and other equipment. Gear has been drawn off from the immediate reserve and from a third-line, reinforcing reserve, to build up what the Pentagon calls its selected force. The selected force is getting priority treatment in a build-up of its manpower, equipment and training designed to have it in shape for possible mobilization as early as July 1. This selected force totals about 150,000 men, including 31,000 Army Reservists, built around three infantry divisions and six independent infantry brigades. If a mobilization were needed for the Viet Nam war — and Pentagon officials have said this is unlikely — the selected force would go first. The immediate reserve, under present plans, would be used for crises which might arise elsewhere in the world.

Houstonian Slain In Holdup Attempt

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Gary Cleveland Garrett, 24, of Houston, Tex., was shot to death by a Sacramento grocery store operator during a holdup attempt Wednesday night, California authorities reported.

Power sales had a nominal decline in February, in comparison to the same month a year ago, but the year's sales remain 10 per cent ahead, the monthly operating statistics of Cap Rock Electric Cooperative show. During February the system sold 5,422,307 KWH, down slightly from 5,620,887 for February of 1965. The first two months of the year, Cap Rock has sold 11,790,857 KWH, well above the 10,699,542 for the same period a year ago. At the end of February, Cap Rock had 2,519 miles of line energized, an increase of five miles for the month and 45 miles more than the same time last year. It also had 5,815 members connected, a gain of one for the month but 210 more than at the last of February 1965.

A Devotional For The Day

We have not a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weakness, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sinning. (Hebrews 4:15, RSV)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, dear Father, for the ability Thou hast given us to distinguish between right and wrong. Help us to be ready and willing at all times, to respond quickly to the call of a Christian conscience. In the name of the Savior, who is able to help us in every emergency. Amen. (From the "Upper Room")

Cure It And Then Cooperate

Citizens who are concerned with the costly and dreadful traffic menace, who call for more law enforcement, and who advocate using "T-Men" must be dismayed to learn of the heavy volume of corporate court cases that move to the county court level and then fade away.

The past days have brought what seems to us to be an inordinate number of city court charges quashed (to use the legal phrase) in the county court. It would almost seem that any miscreant hailed before the corporate court on traffic or misconduct charges has only to pay the odds: That is, appeal the decision, let the matter rest until it eventually gets in a pile of cases going to the county court, then sit back and wait for a dismissal. This first reached serious proportions back when drivers were penalized in higher insurance premiums for convictions. The backlog of cases became insufferable, and a situation akin to the present one resulted. But now the insurance penalty is no incentive to appeal, yet the backlog grows.

This is not to say in any degree that every person brought before the bar is guilty, nor that every case must not be handled in justice and equity. This is what legal processes and courts are for. But the apparent wholesale treatment of the appeal cases is not, in our opinion, in keeping with the important step in law enforcement; that is, adequate disposition of complaints.

If the pressure is on the policeman (and there is generally a cry for more policemen) to issue tickets, where is the good officer's incentive when he sees his complaints ending up, eventually, in a wastebasket without having been heard?

The Herald suggests that here is an area for closer cooperation, and probably more alertness, in public duty. If the county's stand is that faulty complaints are coming to it, then the city administration through proper channels, ought to see to it that more of these faults are removed. If the city feels that the county has not been as diligent as it should be, then there ought to be a better understanding reached between the public prosecutors, and perhaps the presiding judges.

In any event, appeals ought to move up with more dispatch, and in a regular flow. They ought to be correctly handled in the first place; they ought to be given diligent attention in the next place.

The Herald is not singling out individuals for criticism, but it does fault the prevailing condition, and thinks that more concern with the present system will bring about an improvement. The citizens who cry for real traffic safety, we think, will agree.

Wierd Doings

Politics in Africa? It's wonderful. Kwame Nkrumah went out the front door on a visit to Peking and Moscow. Thereby the "redeemer" made the mistake of leaving his country to itself. While he was gone, an anti-Communist military junta took over, freed the political prisoners of Nkrumah, and sweetly announced that the redeemer could come back to Ghana if he wished, although a trial on one charge or another—the specifications are comfortingly vague—might be required.

Nkrumah did not seem to be attracted to the seemingly tender trap being prepared for him by his opponents in Ghana. Instead he journeyed to nearby Guinea and there assumed the combined presidency of Ghana and Guinea, based on the delightful fiction that a proposed union of Ghana and Guinea, which never came off, has now been consummated. It would be funny if it weren't so serious.

Marquis Childs Humphrey's Achievements

WASHINGTON — Nothing grieves and angers Vice President Hubert Humphrey more than to have his liberal friends say to him: "We know you don't really believe what you've been saying about Viet Nam."

For Humphrey believes it with a passionate and — needless to say — highly articulate conviction. He reminds them of the crisis in the left-of-center Americans for Democratic Action when he, Walter Reuther and others led a movement to force out the Communists who were fighting the proposed Marshall Plan for massive aid to Western Europe.

THIS IS THE ROOT of the Humphrey ideology and it helps to explain why those who not long ago were scolding him as a knee-jerk liberal now hail him as one of the saviors. But the oversimplification of Humphrey's cheerleader role to one side, in his close relationship with the President he has been playing a vital role in Asian diplomacy.

This goes back to a hitherto unreported exchange the President had with Pakistan's chief, Mohammed Ayub Khan, when Ayub came to Washington in December. Johnson told the Pakistani President that he fully supported the Pakistani-Indian peace initiative of Soviet Premier Andrei Kosygin. The United States, Johnson said in blunt terms, could not finance a war between the two hostile neighbors on the Indian subcontinent.

THE SUCCESS of the peace conference in Tashkent was overshadowed by the death of India's Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri. Humphrey flew to New Delhi to attend Shastri's funeral and had an opportunity to talk with Mrs. Indira Gandhi, succeeding Shastri as Prime Minister, and Cabinet members. Upon his return Johnson told him that in the very near future he would want him to return to Asia and in particular to India and Pakistan.

THAT WAS the origin of Humphrey's incredible 43,000-mile, two-week spin around Asia. In the stress on the Viet Nam War and the problem of support from other Asian countries the importance of the stop in Pakistan and India was more or less lost sight of. What Humphrey did was prepare the way for Mrs. Gandhi's mission to Washington later this month. Beyond the massive supplemental shipments of wheat — up to 7,000,000 tons — to relieve the famine in India the administration is planning other measures to help Mrs. Gandhi through this difficult interim period. While the war against Pakistan over Kashmir stiffened the morale of India's masses, it played havoc with the economy.

ON THAT August day at the Democratic convention in Atlantic City in 1964 when he was finally tapped for the No. 2 office Humphrey was like the bride kept waiting at the church door. It was at best a tepid romance. The President and his vice president were in many ways at opposite poles.

But the union is now complete. Humphrey has cast his lot with no reservations whatsoever with the President and the President's policies. Whatever his political future may be, it turns on the success or failure of the administration and particularly on Viet Nam.

THE CLOSENESS of the link between the two men came out in a recent exchange. The President, an inveterate opinion poll watcher, blames the recent drop of 14 points in his rating on the conduct of the Viet Nam War on the 30-day pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam during the peace offensive. You want, ed that pause, you were pausers, the President insisted to Humphrey and other advisers who have pushed the peace offensive.

Mr. President, Humphrey replied, that was a greater gain for us internationally, as I found on my trip to Asia, than anything that has happened in the past year. The President accepted this verdict from his ally and adjutant.

U.S. Judicial System Reform Need Is Urgent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today's high-powered society threatens to run away from the creaking machinery of the federal judicial system. It faces a "legal explosion."

In an attempt to meet the problem, Congress approved this week a bill to create 43 new federal judgeships in those states and appellate circuits where case backlogs have risen nearly out of sight.

THE CHANGE, if approved as expected by President Johnson, will depart from tradition in at least one way by overstepping the unwritten nine-judge limit on Courts of Appeals. It will add four temporary seats to the South's 5th Circuit, where civil rights litigation has soared in recent years.

But in the eyes of some of the federal judiciary's keenest observers — including some of its judges — further departure and greater reform are urgently needed. The federal courts, in their view, must be made responsive to modern times if they are to cope with the mounting litigation to be expected in a nation whose population is already at 194 million.

AN INCREASE in judges, alone, is widely regarded as a short-sighted approach to a broad problem. Little headway has been made against case backlogs since 73 new judgeships were created in 1961. Some of these judgeships have not been filled.

Less than a year ago, Chief Justice Earl Warren cautioned, "We cannot afford to go on pyramiding judgeships periodically without making our judicial system responsive to and part of the times in which we live."

The burden of the lower federal courts also has snowballed.

WHETHER MANPOWER or faulty organization is at fault, the federal courts have been unable to keep up with the mounting volume of judicial business. And one frequent target for criticism has been the practice of elderly judges to remain on the job. For most of these, old age brings a necessary slowdown.

Federal judges, under the Constitution, serve during their good behavior — which usually means for life.

Since the vast majority of federal judgeships are the capstones to long and distinguished legal careers, few federal judges are young men.

Vacant Lot A Nostalgic Bit

NEW YORK (AP) — "That is the land of lost content," wrote the poet Housman, "I see it shining plain, the happy highways where I went, and cannot come again."

Somewhere in that nostalgic landscape, for many Americans, seems to be a vacant lot.

THAT WAS brought out when I wrote a story a little while ago about "The Vacant Lot That Used to Be" and found that scores of readers wanted to share their memories.

Rose M. Modisette of Pasadena, Calif., wrote: "Even a little girl in Ohio, about 1903, felt the same way. There was a mound that surely the Indians had made, and a baseball diamond made only by running feet. And to play first base for the Lincoln Avenuers — after proving you could keep up with the boys — was grand. 'Up to the corner' still has a good sound."

WARREN E. LaPlante of Chico, Calif., recalled: "I was a boy born in Los Angeles in 1907. Where the Great Coliseum now stands was our vacant lot. We carried water in a Karo syrup bucket and poured it in a little ground squirrel hole — till he came out, and we would grab it, and get bit many times before we got him in a shoe box. And we sold them for 5 cents apiece."

"Then came World War I. The Army had, it seemed to me, a million tents (in the vacant lot) that the men lived in until they went overseas. All of us kids were spoiled by the men — we were their kids — the ones they left at home."

BETTY JOYCE of Miami, Fla., wrote of a vacant lot in a suburb of Boston: "It had trees and trash and those ubiquitous blue flowers that thrive in vacant lots, and weeds and broken glass. But I only saw the flowers and the trees, heard the songs of birds, it was my retreat, my South Pacific isle."

And finally, Mrs. William Linker of Yakima, Wash., wrote of what used to be a vacant lot out back of her home: "It's a garden and strawberry patch now, and the little grandson has grown taller and gone away. We had a ditch dug for a drain out back. The neighbor children and grandchildren all played army out there in the mud, dust, dirt, but they had fun."

Around The Rim

A Clutch Of Collectives

The other day, I needed some figures from 'way back when about the number of building permits sold during a certain month. Joe Pickle, the managing editor of this here newspaper, showed me an old file-book which he once kept up to date. It has things like registration of passenger cars from 1928 to 1947, results of city commission elections, bond sales, and the like.

WHILE I WAS leafing through it, I came upon an odd little list, and since this "rim" column is supposed to be informative, I will pass it on for your edification, almost verbatim, as follows:

Herd of Cattle; Swarm of Bees; Flock of Chickens, Sheep; Watch of Nightingales; Nide of Pheasants; Brood of Grouse; Sounder of Hogs; Flight of Doves; Gang of Elks; Trip of Dottederel (Dottederel?); Shoal of Hering; Muster of Peacocks; Building of Rooks; Skulk of Foxes; Wisp of Snipe; Cast of Hawks; Pride of Lions; Sleuth of Bears (Sleuth?); Seige of Herons; Stand of Plover; Covey of Partridges; Quails; Pod of Whales; Plump of Wildfowl.

THERE! It has helped me, and I hope it helps you. Countless nights, I have tossed and turned for a full minute wondering what to call a group of Dottederel, not to mention wondering what remedy one takes when he thinks he has seen a group (excuse me, trip) of Dottederel. Which definition has tripped me up several times. That list is rather complete, except for a couple (couple of lovers?) of things. Couple of Things. Catching, no?

FOR INSTANCE, it is rather dogmatic. Evidently, a Bunch of Bears, however alliterative, is dead wrong. It has got to be a Sleuth of Bears (or is it Slewt?), and no other. Me, I tend to call groups of animal life Bunches, as in Bunch of Dogs, Bunch of Hummingbirds, ad infinitum.

Of course, the list only applies to groups of at least three. Two Dottederel are Two Dottederel, and the same applies to snipe.

AND THE list leaves out another item — people. What to call a Bunch of People? There are a Number of Things one can call a Bunch of People, depending on what bunch you are speaking about. For instance, I have a rather lengthy list of short, descriptive words which I use in reference to the Bunch of People who make up the American Nazi Party.

But, in general, you can call a group of people a Mob of People, a Gathering of People, a Lot of People, a Glut of People (if you're in a crowd), a Number, Group, Clan, Bunch, and if you really want to get fancy, a Whole Lot of People.

ALL OF which goes to show just how much more complex we people are compared to a mere Arrangement of Animals. —TOM BARRY

Some Things To Read About

WASHINGTON—There isn't much excuse to be ignorant these days. Somebody is always writing a book about things we ought to know.

I have been saving up to show how Barbara Tuchman's beautifully orchestrated history (1890-1914), "The Proud Tower," tells us why we are fighting in Viet Nam, and how William Rivers' "The Opinion Makers" explains why we have "managed news," and how "The Radical Papers," edited by Irving Howe, shows how it will take a counter-revolution if we're ever to get out of the Great Society alive and free.

MISS TUCHMAN doesn't come right out and say so (I am not sure she even believes so), but it emerges from her rich tapestry of European aristocracy that we in the USA could have kept our Garden of Eden if we hadn't gotten to nibbling on the alien fruit of envy.

Europeans had overseas empires, therefore there were politicians in the USA who thought that we should turn imperialistic. Looking back, one can hardly conjure up a more un-American idea than the one preached by Admiral Alfred Thayer Mahan—and accepted by Theodore Roosevelt and the elder Henry Cabot Lodge—that this country should go in for "sea power."

MAHAN WASN'T talking about coastal defense units, but about armadas to challenge those of Europe. Soon we were engaged in the Caribbean and the South Pacific (where we are still stuck with wars), and it was this international social-climbing that got us into both World Wars and, today, into the United Nations. None of this could have happened if we had clung to solid American types for our Presidents, like Lincoln (R) and Cleveland (D), and been satisfied with writers like Mark Twain, who never dreamed the fancy pants of over-intellectualism.

PROFESSOR RIVERS has put the nation in his debt, I think, with the first and last parts of his book, where he debunks the notion that attempted news control by the federal government is a modern phenomenon. The Constitutional Convention of 1787 was, of course, held in secret session. The presiding officer, George Washington, masterminded blackout that totally excluded both press and public. "I must entreat gentlemen to be more careful," he said one day when a delegate mislaid some documents, "lest our transactions get into the newspapers . . ."

PROFESSOR RIVERS has some excellent inside stories on the methods by which Lippmann and Reston, Pearson and the weekly news magazine editors, collect and utilize their knowledge. It makes purgative reading for a large segment of the population which believes that many writers here are "kept men" and that the government largely succeeds in preventing the people from learning the "truth." Neither assumption is valid.

Irving Howe has put together in "The Radical Papers" a batch of 20 ultra-leftist essays, favoring numerous "have-brained" plans to "Make America Over." The single idea that emerges is socialism or something that Michael Harrington, one of the contributors, calls a "third New Deal." The first and second having taken place under Roosevelt-Truman and the present one under Kennedy-Johnson.

HARRINGTON FINDS that political coalition in the saddle, or at least with one foot in the stirrup, comprises "the poor, the unions, the best of the religious movements, the liberals, the radicals." This means to me that we need a counter-revolution in 1968 or 1972 to keep some place in the scheme of things for the productive rich, business management, those religious movements that look to God instead of Caesar, the traditionalists and the middle-roads.

Who's Doing The Pushing?

WASHINGTON — Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is known for his "liberal" and sometimes "extremist" views about foreign policy, but he apparently wants to go back now to the days of isolationism. He says that military victory in World War II was a mistake and that the way to handle international problems is by "accommodation." He doesn't explain how to make the Communist Chinese go to the conference table today, but he accuses his own government of undue intervention in the affairs of other people. Mr. Fulbright said on March 6:

"I WOULD HOPE that this country, now having reached the peak of its power economically, politically, would not follow the old traditional dreary policies that other great empires have and start pushing people around, intervening in other people's business and trying to create in their own image governments and societies around the world.

"I had hoped we were enlightened enough to follow a different policy, and beginning with the Dominican affair last fall and then coming on into this one, I am very bothered about it."

BUT WHAT HAPPENED in the Dominican Republic was directly related to what had taken place in Cuba, where the Communists caught the United States napping. Today the Communists have control of a country that could be quickly converted into a missile base 90 miles from our shores. Instead of the United States "pushing people around" or "intervening in other people's business," it is the Communists who are doing this all over Latin America.

The war in Viet Nam, moreover, is a direct result of Communist aid furnished to North Viet Nam. It might be inferred from Sen. Fulbright's remarks—as presented in "Issues and Answers" over the ABC television network—that the United States actually instigated the war in Viet Nam. He argued, for instance, that it's a mistake to seek military victory in Viet Nam, and said:

"WE DID THIS in World War II, and look at the disastrous results. It created more problems than it solved. And I think this is generally true. It will create all kinds of dislocation."

When the United States pursued the concept of "accommodation" in China after World War II and advocated a coalition government, the Communists took over mainland China and drove out the existing government. In 1950, the Red Chinese attacked South Korea, and, as a result of that aggression, more than 157,000 American casualties were incurred. The United States did not act alone, but joined with the United Nations forces to repel the aggression.

THE UNITED NATIONS itself passed a resolution in 1951 denouncing the aggression in Korea, and not a single act of repentance has been recorded since on the part of the Communist Chinese. Yet appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee have been advocates of a policy of agreeing to admit Red China into the United Nations. This would be equivalent to saying to the world that aggression pays off and is rewarded in the long run.

All the evidence which shows that the Chinese Communists have been fomenting trouble in Asia and "intervening in other people's business" seems to have been ignored by the proponents of "accommodation." (Copyright, 1964, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

Billy Graham

I can't understand why so many people leave their church and join some sect or other religion. Can you explain this? C.B.

One reason is: some people are just not satisfied to be what they were brought up to be. Second-hand religion isn't satisfying to them.

The second reason is: people who stand for nothing fall for anything. Many people, for some reason or other, rebel against the religion they were brought up in. They usually don't take the trouble to have a faith of their own but when they do become interested in religion, some accept the first clap-trap religion that appeals to their fancy.

In just about every Christian denomination, Christ is central. Regardless of the church we attend, each of us should have a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. Christianity is not temples, creeds and rituals—it is a Person, the Person of Jesus Christ. We may join every church in town, but if Christ is not real to us, we have missed the whole point of being a Christian.

People who are not sure where they stand usually fall. This is why it is so important to study the Scriptures for yourself.

To Your Good Health

Hair Thickens In Pregnancy, Then Thins

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had excessively falling hair for years, and at 50 it is getting worse. During my five pregnancies it came in thick and healthy, only to return to its former pattern two or three months after childbirth. Would this suggest a lack of hormones? Are hair dyes applied at home detrimental to scalp or general health?—MRS. F. T.

I would have to agree that hormonal activity might be part, but not all, of the explanation. However, I doubt that hormone treatment of any sort would help.

There is endless variation in the quality of hair — brittle, strong, heavy, thin, abundant, sparse, readily graying, or of durable color. No way has been discovered to change the type of hair we have inherited. Instead we have to do whatever is best to maintain the kind of hair we have.

This pattern of abundant hair in pregnancy and a return to the thinner hair afterward is not at all uncommon and is due to an increase in the body's general well being at that time. Trying to stimulate this vigor artificially (as with hormone applications or dosage) is not practical.

Thus my suggestion is to be as reasonably careful of your hair as possible and make the best of it.

so many things to their hair that you must differentiate between shafts breaking off, and actual loss of growth. Under normal conditions, hair follicles vary in productivity. They can become dormant, and hair falls. Reactivated, they produce hair again. Yet other thinning can mean that the follicles are producing hair but it breaks off short.

Vigorous brushing can break off the hair. So can improper use of home permanents and setting solutions. (Follow directions exactly!) Tight coiffures can break shafts and also contribute to true hair loss. Perhaps hormonal changes as the years pass will have an effect, but thinning may also be due to the deficient blood supply to the hair follicles.

As to hair dye, a patch test should always be done first, to determine whether the skin happens to be sensitive to it. Recent advances in hair dye chemistry make most of them safe to use, provided you exercise care — that is, use a patch test — against the chance of hypersensitivity.

Other than that, preserving your hair rather than hoping to stimulate vigorous growth which is not natural for you is the best course.

Dear Dr. Molner: What are the systems and treatment of Fordyce trouble or Fordyce disease?—J. S. F.

There are two with the name

Fordyce. One is enlargement of mucus glands of the mouth, manifested by tiny bumps on the mouth membrane. It is not serious and requires no treatment.

The other is Fox-Fordyce disease, which is a rare but chronic disorder of the sweat glands involving the nipples, armpits, chest and lower abdomen. The gland openings become obstructed by crusted material, and there may be intense itching. More women than men are affected. Unfortunately there is no good treatment, but a skin specialist may be able to suggest ways to relieve the itching.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any danger of circumcision at the age of 50?—C. G. I.

No, although you should realize that the result will be painful for several days.

Headaches? You can beat them. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How to Tame Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner is interested in all his readers' questions, and whenever possible uses their questions in his column, but because of the great number received daily, he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters.

St. Mary's Gets New Addition

This new addition to St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 1005 Gollad, is expected to be completed sometime in July. Cost of the addition, which will seat as many as 425 people, is $140,000. (Photo by Sam Blackburn)

Combines Traditions Of Church Building

"Perhaps the most unusual aspect of the structure is that it is contemporary in design, but yet has allusions of the old monastic cloisters in Europe," said the Rev. Donald Hungerford, pastor of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Rev. Hungerford was referring to the new addition to the church at 1005 Gollad known as a nave-in-sanctuary. The structure will accommodate about 325 people normally, he said, but can be enlarged to seat at least another 100 for special occasions. Present space seats 175.

October and will cost an estimated $140,000. Construction is being done by Kasch Brothers of Big Spring, and the architect is H. H. Harris.

Rev. Hungerford said that the addition was the completion of a master plan of renovation for the church. In the nave-in-sanctuary, there will be several small rooms in addition to the seating space, including a choir room, bride's room, curate's office, a clergy sacristy and an altar guild sacristy.

The structure will be centered around a free-standing altar, Rev. Hungerford said, and there will be a divided choir and chancel area.

"A unique aspect of the structure will be a cross-and-candlesticks, designed and now being completed by a St. Louis artist, William Severson. The cross is a polychrome contemporary cross."

Special dedication services are being planned for the addition's completion, which is scheduled for sometime in July, Rev. Hungerford said.

RELATIONSHIP OF CONCERN

The fact that man's relationship with others can be one of love and concern is the message in the International Sunday School lesson for Sunday. The text is taken from Romans 12:3-21; 1 Peter 4:7-11; 1 John 4:7-21; James 2:1-17.

This is a lesson in human relationships, with a strong emphasis on temperance. The central theme is love and concern, and the main point of the lesson is that the Christian lives with a different attitude toward others, that he reacts to others, not in suspicion or hatred or greed, but in an attitude of concern for their welfare.

Chaplain Smith Assigned Here

Chaplain (1st Lt.) Farrell M. Smith was recently assigned to the Webb Air Force Base Chapel as Protestant chaplain. He is one of six Mormon chaplains in the Air Force.

Chaplain Smith was previously assigned to Webb in July, 1965, as a student pilot, but was recommissioned as a chaplain in December, 1965. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Brigham Young University in 1965. While in college he served as a Mormon missionary in Dusseldorf, Germany 2 1/2 years. He is expected to be assigned to Germany in about two months.

He is a native of La Mirada, Calif., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Smith, reside there. He is married to the former Sandra R. Bang, Cincinnati, Ohio, and they have two children, Lee Anne, 13 months, and Matt, one month.

Gift Of Roses Mark Ninth Year

A bouquet of nine roses awaited Rev. V. Ward Jackson in the pulpit last Sunday morning, a gift of the congregation in noting he is beginning his ninth year with the First Church of God.

The members Sunday voted overwhelmingly to continue the call to Rev. Jackson, pastor of the church for the past eight years. The congregation votes each year on its pastor's tenure.

"We have been quite happy with our work here," Rev. Jackson said, "and enjoy working with the many fine people of our church. We have found this to be a very friendly community and a fine place to raise our family."

In looking back, Rev. Jackson said the church has made substantial growth in membership; has made plant improvements totaling over $15,000, has maintained a mission challenge of $16 per capita, and under the leadership of Miss Arab Phillips, launched the Jack and Jill Kindergarten and First Grade.

Rev. Jackson has also found time to take part in many civic activities. He is past president of the Kiwanis Club, and currently chairman of its Key Club; as president of the Howard County Rehabilitation Center, he successfully guided a campaign to equip the new center and plan its opening, and is still on the directorate. He is a past president of the Big Spring Pastor's Association; and a member of the board of Highway House and the board of United Fund. He has served as acting chaplain, under Chaplain C. O. Hitt at the VA Hospital.

He is treasurer of the West Texas district of Churches of God, and past chairman of the

Krueger Murder Trial Transferred

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—The Paul Eric Krueger murder trial was transferred today to Dallas.

Krueger, 15, son of a California industrialist, is charged with murdering three fishermen near Corpus Christi on the Gulf coast.

It will be the second effort to try the teenager. The case was transferred from Kingsville, where the original jurisdiction lay, to Brenham. The Brenham court there was unable to obtain a jury.

TO DALLAS
Judge J. D. Todd transferred the trial today to the court of Judge A. D. Jim Bowie in Dallas.

Bowie was one of the prosecutors of Jack Ruby, who killed Lee Harvey Oswald, President Kennedy's assassin. Bowie subsequently was appointed to the bench.

Krueger is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Krueger. The father is the head of Airjet Engineering and Manufacturing Co. in San Clemente, Calif., and is a well-known scientist.

Krueger is charged with slaying John David Fox, 35; Noel D. Little, 31; and Van Dave Carson, 40. They were on a fishing trip when Krueger and a companion came upon them. An argument followed and the three men were shot.

The state sought to try Krueger at Brenham only for the slaying of Fox.

Teacher Plan Lacks Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's new National Teacher Corps is rapidly approaching a crisis stage — it needs thousands of applications right now, but it can't sign teachers up until it gets operating money from Congress.

Officials of the U. S. Office of Education are working virtually around the clock to line up potential corpsmen and women, set up summer training courses at universities, and find school districts where the corps is needed.

"We're going to get this show on the road next fall unless Congress says no," vowed a Teacher Corps spokesman in an interview.

OTHERS DUBIOUS

But others have privately expressed foreboding that the new program will not get off the ground by next fall as the President had intended.

There is no sign of serious opposition in Congress, but it still holds the vital purse string. About $13.2 million is needed for the rest of fiscal year 1966, and $31 million for fiscal 1967, which starts July 1. Congress may act this month.

The Teacher Corps, in President Johnson's words, is to "improve the quality of teaching where quality is most needed and in short supply — in the cities and areas of rural poverty."

For next fall a goal of 3,750 corpsmen has been set, a fourth to be experienced teachers and the rest to be interns or teacher trainees just out of college.

TAKE JOBS

The problem is that experienced teachers are now and in the next six weeks considering signing contracts in their local districts for the school year that begins in September. School boards are completing their budget plans.

Until Congress acts, the Teacher Corps can't make valid contracts with teachers or interns. In lieu of that, they have widely distributed "preliminary applications," in which potential corpsmen can at least let their interest be known.

The educated guess is that only one out of five applications will be accepted.

Head Start Enrolls 180

Registration for the Head Start program officially closed today at Kate Morrison School, with approximately 180 preschoolers enrolled. Keith Swim, who is in charge of the program designed to give youngsters from low-income families a head start on their school work next fall, said that the project was operating "very successfully."

A community meeting to explain the Head Start program will be held sometime next week, and details will be announced later.

The program includes activities in group participation, plus some basic English aids and careful screening for physical defects which may be corrected or adjusted.

A staff of 10 teachers under the direction of Mrs. Don Farley, plus 10 teacher aides, is being planned. The children are furnished lunch, mid-morning and mid-afternoon snacks and have a rest period immediately after lunch. Swim said classes have been in session this week and he is pleased with the number of pre-schoolers enrolled.

Consultant Here To Discuss Mental Health Clinic Plans

By JERRY MONSON

A consultant to the State Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation was in Big Spring Thursday afternoon to discuss the proposed mental health-retardation center with interested community leaders.

Roscoe Miller, assistant professor in the School of Social Work at the University of Texas, said that the mental health-retardation center should provide better service to the community by treating those persons who are "troubled" but who do not have a serious mental problem.

"This is a change in the concept of care for these persons," Miller said. "With a center such as this, the problem of community, family-patient communications is easily overcome. Since the individual is not shut off from his surroundings, there is no big readjustment problem to the community."

Many hospitals have clinics, Miller said, to provide services for those patients who need care, but who are not sick enough to warrant a hospital stay. The mental health-retardation center would provide such a "preventive" service, he said.

Miller also discussed with the group the educational program of such a center, for both patients and family, to help them understand each other better.

Those attending the session were Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent of the Big Spring State Hospital; Carroll Davidson, manager of the chamber of commerce; Jack Y. Smith, representing the mayor's commission on mental health and mental retardation; and Walter Widger, chief social worker at the Big Spring Hospital.

Miller previously worked as the chief psychiatric social worker at the Child Psychiatric Institute at Galveston, and prior to that was the chief psychiatric worker at the Child Guidance Clinic in Long Beach, Calif. He also worked at Children's Psychiatric Hospital at the University of Michigan.

Presentation of the "Most Attractive Wastewater Plant Award" was by Dr. J. E. Peavy, commissioner of health of the state department.

House To Push Bill For Viet Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — After three victories in the Viet Nam debate, Congress speeds up its machinery again today to slash some red tape to start $12.8 billion flowing toward East Asian operations.

To pave the way, the House Appropriations and Rules Committees called meetings today to approve the big Viet Nam appropriations measure and clear a parliamentary obstacle in the way of the House acting on it Tuesday.

The problem is that the money bill includes the foreign aid and military funds that have not yet been authorized — although Congress began moving in that direction Thursday.

PANEL TO ACT

The Rules Committee was expected to hand down a ruling permitting a vote on the appropriation regardless of whether the authorization is signed by President Johnson by next Tuesday.

After weeks of sometimes druggy debate, Congress escalated its Viet Nam operations with these results Thursday:

— Senate and House conferees bandaged up the administration's battered tax bill and restored it to the full $6 billion in additional revenue Johnson had requested to finance the fighting. Final votes are expected by the President's deadline of next Tuesday.

WAR FUNDS

— The House and then the Senate completed action and whipped to the White House the bill authorizing $4.8 billion in new battlefield funds.

— On an 82-2 vote the Senate approved and sent back to the House the measure authorizing $415 million in extra foreign aid funds to be pumped into the economies of Viet Nam, Laos, Thailand and the Dominican Republic.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee heard an Asian affairs expert predict that Red China would fight to preserve North Viet Nam's Communist regime and would oppose any plan to set up a unified Viet Nam as a Southeast Asia buffer state.

CHINESE THREAT

"The Chinese Communists cannot afford to let us into North Viet Nam without a fight," said Prof. John K. Fairbank of Harvard University, "and we cannot afford to let the Communist Chinese into the South where they would threaten the power balance in all of Southeast Asia."

Coal Industry Asks Inclusion In Fuel Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The coal industry urged Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall this week to include coal in his department's study of the adequacy of domestic oil and natural gas supplies by 1980.

The study will not be meaningful if it does not take into account "the largest of our fossil fuel resources," Joseph E. Moody, president of the National Coal Policy Conference, said in a letter to Udall.

Moody called also for freezing of residual oil imports at no higher than present levels pending completion of the study. He said this should be done since the study is to consider the relationship of petroleum imports to the decline in exploratory drilling for new domestic supplies.

He cited statistics showing that residual imports were up by 36.4 million barrels in 1965 "and now are the equivalent of some 65 million tons of coal annually."

"Increases . . . of this magnitude cannot help but have a depressing effect on the domestic oil industry, as well as coal," Moody wrote.

Lt. Gen. William O. Senter of the defense fuel supply center, the fuel purchasing agency for the armed forces, reports nearly all of the increase in defense needs in recent years has been in jet fuel.

DEAR ABBY Talk Her Out Of This Deal

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a pretty little 19-year-old farm-reared girl considering marriage to a 44-year-old city man who was recently divorced and given the custody of his three problem sons?

The boys are 17, 15, and 13. The two older boys have in trouble with the law and are on probation. This man is trying to rush the girl into a decision because he can't get a housekeeper for those delinquent kids of his. She is a sweet, church-going girl, Abby, but very easily talked into things.

HER FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: A pretty little 19-year-old farm-reared girl needs a 44-year-old man with three delinquent sons like Custer needed another Indian.

Citrus Crop To Top '65

WASHINGTON (AP) — This season's citrus fruit crop will be about 10 per cent more than last season and 14 per cent above average, the Agriculture Department estimated Thursday.

This season's crop is estimated at 195,000,000 boxes, compared with 176,746,000 boxes grown last year, and the 196,000,000 boxes predicted for this season at the beginning of February.

Included in the estimated production is 133,020,000 boxes of oranges, 45,200,000 boxes of grapefruit, and 17,440,000 boxes of lemons.

The department said that 48 per cent of the orange crop and 60 per cent of the grapefruit crop had been picked by March 1.

Indicated production of oranges by state was California 35,600,000 boxes, Florida 94,000,000, Texas 1,250,000 and Arizona 2,770,000 boxes. Grapefruit totals by state was Florida 34,000,000, Texas 3,800,000, Arizona 3,200,000 and California 4,200,000.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for the kind words about mobile homes. Some people still call them "trailers." Many of our friends admitted that before they came to visit us, they thought we were living in some old abandoned boxcar on the outskirts of town. Once they see our beautifully furnished two-bedroom mobile home, complete with kitchen and baths, they change their minds.

Sweetwater Ready For Snake Hunt

SWEETWATER, Tex. (AP) — Some 10,000 spectators and hunters are expected to converge on Sweetwater this weekend as the 8th annual rattlesnake roundup, sponsored by Sweetwater Jaycees, gets under way.

During previous hunts, more than 50,000 rattlesnakes have been caught and milked of their venom. Four of the more than 1,200 hunters over the years have been bitten. All recovered.

SLEEPING DEEP Veteran hunters speculate that this year's crop of rattlesnakes may be sleeping deep in the crevices of West Texas because of recent cold weather. To force the snakes from their dens, gasoline will be poured into the crevices.

The hunt, billed as the largest in the world, begins Friday with registration and ends Sunday. Hunters are paid 5 to 10 cents per pound for rattlesnakes brought in alive. Bonus prizes are given to the best hunters.

VENOM VALUABLE A snake expert with the Parks and Wildlife Commission, Cecil Fox, will demonstrate how the rattlers are milked of their valuable venom for use in medical research programs.

The roundup was organized in 1958 when Sweetwater residents became alarmed when rattlers became brave, entered the city and occasionally were found in homes.

Vying for the Rattlesnake Queen title are 22 contestants. Judges for the contest will be Donny Anderson, All-America halfback at Texas Tech; Roy Bacuss, general manager of WBAP-TV, Fort Worth; Rep. Temple Dickson of Sweetwater; Janet Kinnard, Miss Abilene of 1964; and Mrs. Mary Douglas, beauty contest judge from Abilene.

No Action In Gun Death

HOUSTON (AP) — A Harris County grand jury has declined to take action in a case involving the fatal shooting of a Negro laborer by a white policeman.

The Feb. 24 incident was turned over to the grand jury when it started a series of protests from the Negro community concerning relations with the police.

The jury heard Thursday Patrolman J. L. Reece explain how Eugene Edward Hill was shot in a struggle outside a supermarket. The jury also heard eight other witnesses.

Reece said at the time he was called to the store to investigate suspected shoplifting. He said Hill resisted arrest and was shot in a scuffle that followed.

Police said records show Hill served a prison term after being convicted of robbery by assault in Smith County in 1957.

'War Cry' Foils Yeggs

LONDON (AP) — The payroll driver jumped from his cab and robbed the swag, and Maj. Marion Dunn, of the Salvation Army bled into battle.

"God is watching," her war cry shrilled through Bow Street, in London's tough dock area. "You will go to hell."

The three robbers headed north. The 51-year-old major jumped from her bike and charged into action, armed only with her banner proclaiming "blood and fire."

ACTS FAST As the three crooks attacked two men who had just left a bank Thursday with a $4,200 payroll, the major mobilized a group of housewives to link arms across the road.

One of the gang tried to break through the cordon. A truck driver jumped from his cab and felled him.

The police arrived and grabbed another. The third man escaped in a car.

The two payroll couriers, Samuel Peters, 57, and his son Andrew, 21, were hospitalized with head injuries. They had the money inside their shirts, and the robbers didn't get it.

"CARRIED AWAY" Said Maj. Marion: "I suppose I got a bit carried away."

"The gang tried to get away along the pavement toward us but we quickly sealed it off. "I tried to kick one of them when he was on the ground but too many people got in my way and I couldn't get near him."

Then she pedaled off to play the organ at a prayer meeting.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband goes to kiss me, I push him away, too. But not for the same reason "Lovestarted's" wife pushed HIM away. My husband has the roughest beard this side of the Yukon.

If I let him smooch me in the evening, my poor face is like raw hamburger the next morning. How do you make love to a porcupine? SHIRLEY

DEAR SHIRLEY: Very carefully.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of eight lovely children. The baby is one month old today. For the past 10 years I have worked the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift. (I'm a nurse.) My mother, God bless her, cares for my children. My husband is very unreliable. He is a club joiner and is always on the go.

During my last pregnancy, I had to drive myself to the hospital because my mother couldn't leave the children and my husband was playing bridge at the Legion with his pals. He thinks it's easy for me to work all night and lose sleep trying to be both mother and dad in the day time.

I'd quit my job but he never gives me any money and I'm afraid he wouldn't make the house payments. My father warned me about his laziness, but I thought I was lucky to get such a handsome man and good dancer. Now what? TRED

DEAR TRED: If it took you eight children to realize you picked a lemon, you are slower than most women. Some men will never walk as long as they have a crutch. STAY HOME, and let your husband support you. (He might like it.) If he really is lazy and an inadequate provider, be grateful for your nursing education, because you might have to go on supporting yourself for a long, long time.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for the kind words about mobile homes. Some people still call them "trailers." Many of our friends admitted that before they came to visit us, they thought we were living in some old abandoned boxcar on the outskirts of town. Once they see our beautifully furnished two-bedroom mobile home, complete with kitchen and baths, they change their minds.

Ruby Appeal Delay Rapped

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Attorney Joe Tonahill of Jasper has charged that the delay in the Jack Ruby appeal "is a disgrace to those handling his affairs in New York, Detroit and Dallas."

Tonahill, one of Ruby's murder trial lawyers, was ordered from Ruby's sanity matters last year. He said he is still representing Ruby in his appeals and will argue for him when the case is heard by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

"This delay is in contempt of the Court of Criminal Appeals," he said Thursday in a telephone interview. He blamed it on commercialism and "amateurs with no conception of responsibility."

The Ruby appeal has been shelved pending other actions. The record of a habeas corpus hearing Sept. 10 is reportedly near completion and will be sent to the appeals court in the near future.

The appeal from the trial was postponed pending a determination of Ruby's sanity. The sanity trial was postponed pending the outcome of the habeas corpus hearing based on allegations that Judge Joe B. Brown was disqualified because of a book on the trial.

Judge Louis T. Holland failed to rule on the disqualification issue and ordered it sent to Austin for review.

HCJC Seeking Return To Glory At Laredo

LAREDO — HCJC and Blinn College of Brenham are likely to stage a head-and-head struggle in the Border Olympics, which get under way here today and continues through Saturday.

University and high school contingents are competing here, along with the junior college teams.

Blinn, which unseated the Big Spring team as team champion last year, probably has more depth than the Jayhawks but the HCJC team figures to mount more strength in the sprints, hurdles, mile and pole vault, where a team can roll up a lot of points.

HCJC showed it meant business last week by racing to a first place finish in the Southwestern Recreational meet at Fort Worth, all but doubling the point total of the second place team.

In Laredo, unlike the meet at Fort Worth, junior colleges compete only against one another. All the junior college field events were to be completed by noon today. HCJC didn't figure to prosper very much in those sprints Jack White of Blinn and Jim Jasper of Howard County set up the big duel as these two teams projected a fight for the championship. Blinn, the defending champion, was favored but only slightly.

Jasper has a 9.6 100 and 21.5

220 as his credentials. White has a 9.7 100.

Finals were scheduled in a half-dozen events, including the mile, where Walter Reyna of Howard County is defending champion and record-holder at 4:26.4. He is expected to crack that.

The high schools, with San Antonio Highlands favored to repeat, hold preliminaries in the afternoon. There are no finals, but this will come Saturday afternoon when all finals are run off and a fellow like Robert Gonzales can assault the mile mark of 4:19.6. He should better it—he has gone as low as 4:13.4 for the state record.

There was one withdrawal in the college division as the teams started moving in for their preliminaries Saturday morning and finals Saturday night. Texas Western told Director Calvin Voelkel it wouldn't make the trip because of injuries.

This left 10 schools in the college division, where most of the record-smashing is due, what with Texas Southern's John Hartfield, a 7-foot high jumper, and sprint star Clyde Glossom of Trinity, a 9.2 runner, in the field.

Zeak Williams of Texas Western had been figured to help in the spring record-breaking until his withdrawal along with his team. Williams has made 9.4.

The university class, 10 teams strong, also has preliminaries and a smattering of finals Saturday morning, then the big show Saturday night. Abilene Christian is favored to win it, unseating defending champion Rice, but only after a close fight with Texas A&M and possibly Southern Methodist.

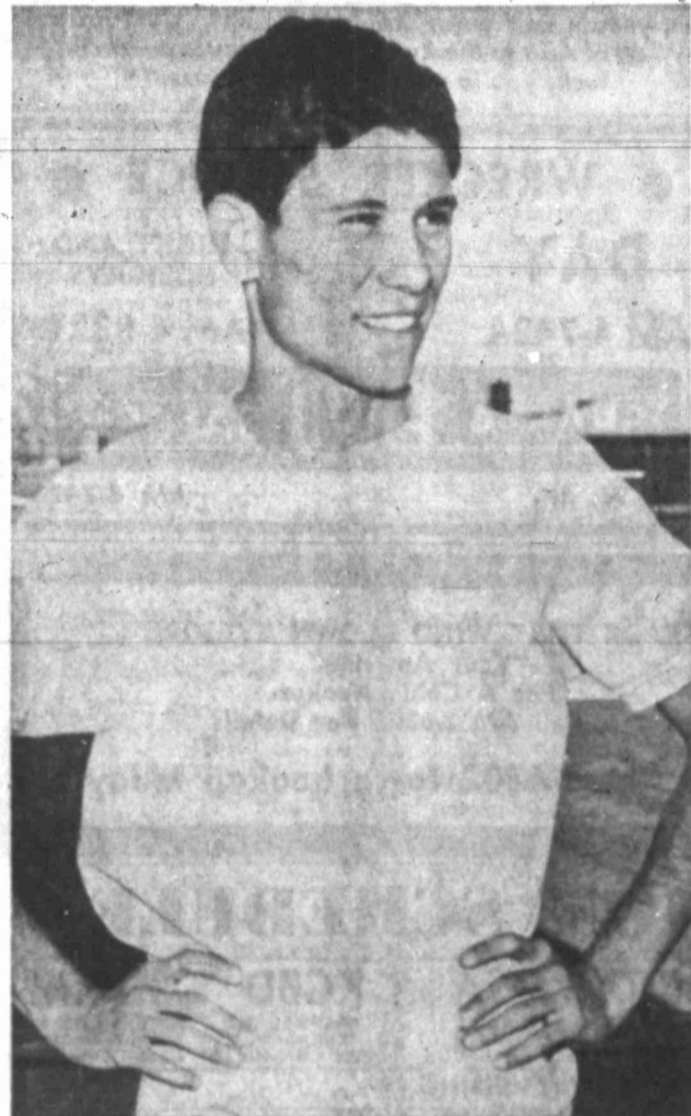

Record-breaking also is expected in the university division, probably in the very first event on the schedule—the discus throw, in which Ed Mooney of Texas Tech already has come within a foot and six inches of the mark.

There was light rain Wednesday and Thursday but weather for today and Saturday when all the track is jammed in, is supposed to be ideal.

The college-university class of the annual Border Olympics Golf Tournament got the big meet on its way Thursday by playing the first 36 holes. Houston, the defending champion, took the lead with 570. Its Marty Fleckman, the NCAA champion, fired a five-under-par 139 to top the field.

Lamar Tech has second with 574, Baylor third with 584 and Texas fourth with 592.

An 18-hole round was scheduled today at the same time that the high school division started play. The schoolboys play only 36 holes.

Forsan Defeated, 60-45, In Tourney At Austin

AUSTIN — Forsan got off to a slow start and was never able to catch up in first round play of the Class B division of the Texas State Girls' Basketball tournament here Thursday night, losing to Deport by a score of 60-45.

The Buffalo Queens from Howard County pulled to within ten points of the Tigrettes late in the contest but Deport was up to the challenge and took advantage of Forsan desperation fouling.

All three of Forsan's starting guards fouled out of the contest. It was only Forsan's second defeat in 37 games.

Jody Dodd led the Forsan offensive with 22 points.

Marilyn Aschenbeck got half of her 44 points on free throws as Round Top-Carmine, undefeated in 38 games, eliminated High Island, 54-51, in the other Class B first round game.

Connie Kelsey led the Deport team with a 44-point effort.

High Island, behind 32-26 at half time, tied Round Top-Carmine at 47-47 with less than four minutes to play. Sidney Black scored 34 points for High Island, which bowed out with a 31-2 record.

Deport held a 22 point lead over Forsan at the end of the third period but the Queens kept fighting back.

The defeat ended the season for Forsan.

Armstrong Tires will play the San Angelo Cleveland team in the Regional YMCA Championships tonight at 7:30 in San Angelo. The local team is the winner in the Adult Men's Basketball League Tournament at the YMCA.

If Armstrong wins, the team will return to San Angelo Saturday at 10 a.m. to meet Dumas, and, if it wins that game, Armstrong will be eligible to play in the Southwest Area YMCA Championships in Dallas.

Members of the team are Delnor Poss, coach; Danny Thompson, Tom Malaise, Jim Park, Jimmy Childress, Bob Davis and Ben Neel.

Tony Butler Is Named To Team

Tony Butler, Coahoma senior, added a basketball honor to the football laurels he gathered last fall when he was selected as a player on the first All-District 6-A team chosen by the coaches.

Butler is a 6-3, 207-pounder who was named to several Class A all-state football teams last fall. He played fullback for the Bulldogs.

Two players on the first unit, Larry Kelly of Rotan and Earl Copelan, Aspermont, were unanimous selections.

Seven players, including

Wayne Oglesby and Mike Mosley of Coahoma, were named to the second unit because of several ties in the balloting.

The teams:

FIRST TEAM
Larry Kelly, Rotan; Tom Meredith, Rotan; James Ray, Aspermont; Earl Copelan, Aspermont; and Tony Butler, Coahoma.

SECOND TEAM
Wayne Oglesby, Coahoma; Mike Mosley, Coahoma; Mike Raughter, Wylie; Walker, Marked; Knatt, Jim; Ned; Kelly, Jim; Ned; and Abel Beauchamp, Roby.

Wharton Ousted In Cage Play

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Tyler upset Wharton 86-75 Thursday night to win a place in the national junior college basketball tournament at Hutchinson, Kan., next week.

Tyler took the deciding game of the best-of-3 Region 14 play-off on a neutral floor here after each team had won at home.

Terry Stillabower's 29 points and Jim Nelson's 23 led Tyler in the finale.

All-State

Pictured above is Jo Bugg, a senior at Phillips High School, an all-state set for the Black Hawks last season and an all-tournament selection at Denver City. She'll play with the favored Phillips entry in the third annual Cap Rock Volleyball tournament starting today at HCJC.

Seven Games Are On Tap In Tourney

Seven games were scheduled today and tonight in the third annual Cap Rock Girls' Volleyball tournament at HCJC, an event won by Phillips High a year ago.

First and second round competition will be completed today and tonight. Play will be resumed at 9 a.m. Saturday and continue throughout the day.

Phillips is back in the fold and has drawn a first round bye. The North Texas team, coached by an ex-Big Spring, Wanda Armstrong, tangles with Buena Vista at 4 p.m. today.

Only first round games send Snyder against Big Spring B at 1 p.m., Garden City against Big Spring A at 2 p.m., and Midland against Abilene Cooper at 3 p.m. today.

Phillips has a fine nucleus returning and is favored to repeat as titlist. Pampa or Lamesa could make it to the finals against Phillips.

The title game goes on Saturday at 8 p.m. The battle for third place starts at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening while the consolation finals are booked for 6 o'clock.

Outstanding spiker and set-up will be selected and rewarded with trophies. A tournament queen will be named, judged on looks, demeanor and ability.

Six all-tournament spikers will be chosen, along with half a dozen all-star sets. A team sportsmanship award will be made and awards will go to first, second, third and consolation round winners.

Coaches fielding teams here include:

Theora Calverley, Garden City; Pat Drake, Big Spring A; Wanda Armstrong, Phillips; Karon Ridgeway, Abilene Cooper; Rosa Lee Holder, Imperial; Alma Wiggins, Lamesa; Lynn Prysock, Pampa; Billie Bailey, Abilene High; Janet Wesson, Snyder; Patricia Brabham, Midland High; and Sue Lynch, Big Spring B.

Tournament sponsor is Anna Smith of the college. The meet itself is being promoted by the Women's Recreation Association of the school. Admission prices per session are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Plans for winner of the meet two years ago. Phillips defeated Big Spring A in last year's finals.

Pairings:

Nicklaus Is Rusty But He's Working

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Big Jack Nicklaus has been so used to shooting birds in South Africa that he's almost forgotten how to bag birdies, but he's not losing any sleep over it.

"I'll be ready for the Masters," the 210-pound Columbus, Ohio, slugger said today as he started the second round of the $100,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament 12 strokes back of Kermit Zarley, the young dark-horse leader from Yakima, Wash.

Zarley, 24-year-old college champion while attending the University of Houston, took the lead Thursday with a seven-under-par 65, equaling the tournament record set by Doug Sanders last year. Nicklaus had an un-Nicklaus-like 77.

"So what?" Nicklaus said with a shrug of his shoulders. "Golf isn't my whole life. I enjoyed the trip to South Africa. I'll get my game back."

Nicklaus, the leading money winner the last two years, also is unconcerned that he has spotted his chief rival, Arnold Palmer, $14,412.50 starting the 1966 season. That's what Palmer has won with his comeback. Jack has won nothing.

"I'm not competing with anybody for money winning honors," Nicklaus said.

Jack's rustiness was evident in the opening round of the Doral — his first tournament since the Crosby in late January. He returned Wednesday from South Africa where he spent six weeks playing golf, hunting and fishing with Gary Player.

Nicklaus is defending champion and a two-time winner in the Masters, but he will face a determined Palmer who has won four times — every even year since 1958.

Palmer, with a victory, two seconds and a third on the winter tour, rallied Thursday after two bogeys and shot a 69 — with an eagle at the eighth — to remain in the running.

Zarley, who canned eight birdies and bogeyed only one hole, had a one-stroke lead over Tommy Jacobs and putting whiz Jay Dolan, tied at 66; three strokes on Johnny Pott, Jack McGowan and Gordon Jones, bracketed at 68, and four on Palmer, Phil Rodgers and Ken Stull.

Defending champion Doug Sanders and Tony Lema were tied at 74. Former U.S. Open king Ven Venturi and Gay Brewer Jr., were another shot back at 75.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

I think the Texas Sports Writers Association should take up Judge Roy Hofheinz on his offer to house the Texas Sports Hall of Fame in the Dorned Stadium at Houston.

Dallas has had all kinds of chances to serve as a permanent home of the shrine and has done nothing about it.

Decision of the Region V Junior college coaches to move their tournament from Amarillo to Big Spring starting with the 1968 season means that this city will play host to the meet at least two years.

Coach Buddy Travis of HCJC, the Region V director, was on hand Saturday night in Amarillo to nail down the bid. Amarillo hasn't supported the tournament well the past few years, mainly because its team is usually back in the pack when the awards are passed around.

The host school always qualifies for the tournament, no matter what kind of record it has. That means HCJC will be assured of a place in the tournament in 1968 and again in '69.

Odessa was expected to make a serious offer for the tournament, and didn't. Amarillo appeared likely to try and keep the meet, and did. There was some lively behind-the-scenes debating going on before the decision was made to move the tournament to Big Spring.

The most surprising thing to come out of the Amarillo coaches' conclave, perhaps, was the endorsement of Kurt Papp of HCJC as the region's leading All-American candidate. There's no doubt that Kurt was the dominant player in the region but HCJC wasn't in the Region V tournament this year and that invariably hurts a player's chances to rally support. He was sort of a compromise candidate, as it turned out, after the mentors present began to wrangle among themselves. The league couldn't have decided on a more deserving player.

Sonny Gibbs, the former TCU football great who failed to make it as a pro player, probably will stick with a golf club repair business he has developed in Dallas rather than try it in the Continental League.

Sonny played basketball here with Graham High School in a post-season exhibition one time after both Graham and Big Spring had won their district titles.

The chances of multi-talented Joe Jaure of Big Spring in the District 2-AAAA track and field meet will be enhanced because a district rule gives a boy more time to rest between events than is afforded him in an exhibition meet.

Coach Cliff Patton could probably take two boys like Jaure and win the state meet.

A 28-minute color film of the last Cotton Bowl football game, which pitted Arkansas against LSU, is being made available for service club meetings around the state without charge.

It can be ordered through the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, PO Box 7185, Inwood Station, Dallas.

The crowds for the Region VI-B girls' basketball tournament here last weekend were good but they didn't quite come up to expectations.

On the other hand, the turnout for the VI-B boys' meet the preceding week were better than expected. HCJC hosted both shows.

The galleries for the girls' meet were probably limited because Talpa-Centennial made it to the finals, rather than Gall or Westbrook. Talpa-Centennial is not far from Coleman, a long way removed from Big Spring, and not many fans from there felt inclined to follow their team here.

Too, Forsan was an overwhelming choice to win the crown from the start and did just that.

Chualo Likely To Get Fight With Cass Clay

TORONTO (AP) — Ernie Terrell is out as the opponent of champion Cassius Clay in the scheduled world heavyweight title bout here March 29.

George Chualo, the Canadian champion, was expected to be named today as his replacement.

Terrell was dropped as Clay's opponent Thursday night by Mike Malitz, executive vice president of Main Bout, Inc., which holds the ancillary rights.

"His demands were too exorbitant," Malitz said at Atlantic City, N.J., after a three-hour conference with Terrell in an effort to iron out their differences.

Terrell rejected Wednesday the new contract offered him by the Maple Leaf Gardens, but left the door open for negotiation. He and Malitz met at his training camp in Pleasantville, N.J.

"His demands were unreasonable and exorbitant in view of the conditions prevailing," Malitz said. "He thinks he is the heavyweight champion of the world which we do not think he is. And while we do not condone any statement made by Clay in regard to his being reclassified 1-A in the draft, titles are still won in the ring and not by words."

Terrell, recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association, did not take into consideration the changed conditions, a spokesman for Main Bout said later.

The Big Spring Cardinals, a sandlot baseball team, opened workouts for the 1966 season, this week.

Pano Rodriguez has been named president of the club while Raul Rubio will serve as vice president, Joe Lopez Jr., as secretary and Guy Lara as treasurer.

Benny Marquez will serve as field captain and Francisco Rubio general manager.

Last year, while operating as the Sacred Heart Cardinals, the team won 13 games while losing only eight.

Among candidates for the club this year include Abel Ramirez, Joe Cadenhead, Billy Pineda, Tony Pterro, Pete Porras, Junior Claveran, Manuel Lopez, Mingo Rubio, Joe Lopez, Guy Lara, Benny Marquez and Pano Rodriguez.

The Cardinals are planning now to open their season here April 17 against an opponent that has not been identified.

Kansas Choice At Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Two teams that have held NCAA basketball championships and two that sure would like to get together here today in the Midwest Regional tournament.

Favored Kansas (22-3), riding a 9-game winning streak, and Southern Methodist (16-8), swinging along with a 10-game victory skein itself, clash in one of the games.

Texas Western (24-1), ranked No. 3 nationally, and Cincinnati (21-9), a two-time NCAA champion, tangle in the opener of the evening.

The winners meet Saturday at 9 p.m. (CST) for the championship and a spot in the national finals at College Park, Md.

Kansas, which was NCAA champion back in 1952, meets a Southern Methodist team that has been in the regionals four times and only once won it. That was 1956 when the Methodists lost to the eventual national champion, San Francisco. Kansas last won the regional in 1957.

Cincinnati has the gaudiest record. The Bearcats have won two NCAA championships—in 1961 and 1962—and took third place in 1963.

A crowd of 8,000 is expected each night. The tournament is being held at the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Kansas is the favorite largely because of its record, its closing drive and its two stars—Walt Wesley and Jo Jo White. Southern Methodist had a longer winning streak but wasn't playing as strong opposition as Kansas.

Russell Given Final Chance

By The Associated Press
Cazzie Russell, Michigan's college basketball player of the year, starts tonight on the road he hopes will reach his one remaining goal in the college sport. He never has played on a national championship team and this is his last chance.

The two-time All-America has sparked Michigan to three straight Big Ten titles. He leads the Wolverines against dangerous Western Kentucky, the Ohio Valley Conference champs, in the Midwest regionals at Iowa City, Iowa.

The NCAA championship tournament enters its second round with eight games at four regional sites.

Meantime, the NIT opened in New York Thursday night with Temple beating Virginia Tech.

Runnels Gains Pair Of Wins

Runnels Junior High of Big Spring won both ends of a girls volleyball double header against Lamar in Snyder Thursday.

The ninth graders' margin of victory was 15-2, 17-5. Roeyling Bunch was Runnels' top scorer in that one with 15 points. Catherine Dirks was outstanding at the net for the Yearlings while Georganne Patton and Mimi Luveno were impressive as sets.

The ninth graders are now 4-0. Runnels won the eighth grade match, 15-1, 15-14, to even its record at 2-2. Janice Cooper and Carol Grimsley each had 12 points for the Yearlings while Linda Cathey and Alma Varga were the sets who performed impressively.

Church League Sets Meeting

Persons interested in the formation of a Church-Softball league will gather in the Red-Room of the Texas Electric Service company building at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday to firm up plans.

All churches are eligible to enter teams, according to Bill Bradford, one of the organizers.

Five-Club Meet Slated Tuesday

Members of the Ladies Golf Association will stage 18 holes of play at the Country Club Tuesday.

Only five clubs can be used by the players—the three-wed, five, seven and nine irons and the putter.

In last Tuesday's Flag tournament for the women, Peggy Marshall emerged as the winner.

Business Meeting

Members of the Big Spring Racing Pigeon club will gather at Lamar's Restaurant at 7:30 p.m. Monday for a business session, during which time plans for the summer racing season will be firming up.

188-73 and NYU edging De Paul 68-65. Southern Illinois and Kentucky Wesleyan reached the final of the NCAA small-college tournament while Central State of Ohio, the defending champion, was eliminated in the quarter-finals of the NAIA.

In his sophomore year, Russell led Michigan to a third-place finish in the NCAA and to second place behind UCLA last season. Another notch upwards this year and Russell will reach his goal.

The nationally top-ranked Kentucky Wildcats battle the Dayton Flyers in the first game of the Midwest regionals at Iowa City.

The second-ranked Duke Blue Devils oppose the fifth-ranked St. Joseph's Hawks of Philadelphia in another attractive doubleheader in the East regionals at Raleigh, N.C. Davidson and Syracuse also meet at Raleigh.

Third-ranked Texas Western meets Cincinnati, the Missouri Valley Conference titlist, and Kansas, the Big Eight champs, tonight with Southern Methodist, the Southwest Conference champs, in the Midwest regionals at Lubbock, Tex.

Rounding out the NCAA program is the Far West regional at Los Angeles.

Girl volleyball teams representing Goliad Junior High split two matches with Snyder Thursday.

The eighth graders won, 15-10, 15-4, while the ninth graders lost, 15-13, 6-15, 10-15. Goliad's eighth now has a 3-0 record.

LaShera Shanks and Kathy Urban stood out for Goliad in the eighth grade game while Pam Merrell and Gwynn Bonner were outstanding for the local ninth graders.

Goliad's teams play Lamesa here Monday.

CHURCH STAFFS URGED TO ATTEND HERALD NEWS CLINIC

A clinic to help churches in the gathering and presentation of religious news will be sponsored by The Herald Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the First Federal Savings and Loan community room.

Ministers and staff members of all churches in the Big Spring area are invited to attend the brief session, according to R. W. Whipkey, publisher of The Herald. Those who have not sent in replies or who might have been inadvertently missed in the initial notice to ministers are asked to contact The Herald so some estimate of the attendance may be had. There will be tips on how to recognize spot and feature news, on pictures, on other details of gathering and getting news published. This is a free public service of The Herald to encourage an even more complete coverage of church news in this vicinity.

More Than Just Farming Taught

By JERRY MONSON

"We try to teach them something else besides straight farming," said Edward Seay, assistant coordinator of the Future Farmers of America program at Big Spring High School. "We try to teach them agri-business, so that they not only are able to raise good crops and good livestock, but can also make good use of what they raise."

The Future Farmers of America program, and its feminine counterpart, Future Homemakers of America, is spreading rapidly not only in Howard County but across the nation. As part of the relatively new concept of vocational agriculture and home economics, the programs have a wide range of activities, and together, involve over 300 students in the Big Spring, Forsan and Coahoma schools.

At Big Spring, the FFA coordinators are Truett Vines and Edward Seay, who plan the program for about 75 boys, most of them in the vocational agriculture program. The boys enter about three major livestock shows a year, all major dairy competitions, and many other events.

An agriculture feeding barn on the Andrews Highway has capacity for steers, lambs and pigs. The boys attend district and area meetings and present a comprehensive program at all of them.

The FHA, under the coordination of Mrs. Donita Cunningham, Annie Lou Williams and Helen Willard, has an estimated 85 or 90 girls enrolled. About 158 girls are enrolled in the home economics program at the high school.

The girls learn sewing, cooking, child and home management, in addition to personal grooming tips and personality courses. They outline several projects each year related to homemaking and assist in classroom programs.

At Coahoma, about 43 boys are enrolled in the FFA Club, which is under the leadership of Gerald Oakes. Boys in the farm program meet once a month, attend district meetings, and in general, concentrate on the same type of activities that those in the FFA program in the other schools do.

The FFA makes use of the vocational agriculture department facilities, which include a shop and a livestock barn. The club has a vo-ag van to carry animals back and forth to the many shows they enter during the year.

About 60 girls are involved in the home economics program of the FHA at Coahoma. Mrs. Barbara Justice is the club sponsor. Latest projects include learning about make-up techniques and personal grooming.

Each year the FFA and FHA organizations combine to have the Coahoma FFA - FHA Achievement Day to show accomplishments of the students enrolled in the programs. Forsan has no FFA program, but about 38 girls are active in the FHA program, sponsored by Mrs. Karen Tindall. The girls are involved in much the same activities as the girls in the FHA programs in other schools, with occasional special projects highlighting the year's list of activities.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Questions Long Delay In Handling Court Cases

To the Editor:

After reading your Sunday paper, which said in headlines that appeal cases were being set for trial now, I got to wondering why the county judge hasn't tried something like a thousand cases already on the county docket instead of just the appeal cases.

It seems ridiculous that only 12 out of 77 corporation court and justice of the peace appeal cases are to be tried, and only allowing two or three days to try 77 cases. And how come some of the people are being tried on several cases? It appears to me that these young men being tried on more than one case could have been tried by the county judge, and may be counseled with, instead of waiting until they had to be tried on several charges. It seems that most of the defendants are Latin American and Negro people.

It's true that some cases for trial involve people from the South Side.

I'm in favor of having court the year round. Certainly a quick trial is deserved under our national and state constitutions and the result just might be a reduction in these wrecks on our highways, and there's no doubt that we could expect a lower liability insurance rate in Howard County if we cut down on accidents.

Respectfully yours,
JACK CRAIG

Opening lead: Queen of ♠

Altho West failed to find the killing lead against South's six heart contract, his subsequent patience led to a late recovery and he finally pinned the defeat on his opponent.

South's hand was worth 18 points counting high cards and distribution, and when his partner opened the bidding with one spade, he became slim-conscious. He proceeded cautiously, however, until North gave a preference for his first suit by returning to three hearts. He turned on the steam at that point by asking for aces and, when North revealed that every control was accounted for, South proceeded to six hearts.

A spade opening would have assured an early downfall for the declarer for, when West gets in with the king of hearts, he is in position to give his partner a spade ruff. West made the more natural opening of the queen of clubs, however, and South won the trick with the king.

The ace and king of diamonds were cashed and a third diamond was led. West was reluctant to part with his king of hearts which was always a sure trick, so he discarded a spade and dummy ruffed with the deuce of hearts. The ace of clubs was cashed and a club was trumped by declarer.

The last diamond was led and West discarded another spade as North ruffed. The ten of hearts was put thru and permitted to ride when East did not cover with the jack. West was in with the king.

There was a temptation to lead a fourth round of clubs, forcing declarer to ruff. If West adopts a passive course, however, South will draw trumps when he is in and take the last two tricks with the ace, king of spades.

West realized that the only chance for his side was to lock the declarer in the dummy which had only spades left, so he led back to the queen of spades. North played the king and then attempted to cash the ace. East ruffed, however, to score the getting trick.
