Chinese May Have A Dud

Debris To Be Checked

WASHINGTON (AP) - Red China may have come up with a dud in an attempt to detonate a hydrogen bomb, Defense Department sources suggested today.

The announcement by Peking radio of Communist China's third atomic explosion Monday said the test included "thermonuclear materials." But Peking stopped short of calling it a hydrogen bomb.

TWO THINGS - The mention of "thermonuclear materials," Pentagon sources said, could mean one of two things:

-Chinese scientists attached deuterium or tritium, used in a hydrogen weapon to an atomic bomb to analyze the effects of the blast on those elements.

-Or China set out to stage a hydrogen explosion and failed to get the proper energy release required to fuse the thermonuclear reaction.

A hydrogen bomb has an atomic device for a trigger. Millions of degrees of heat - provided by the splitting of the atom - are required to fuse the deuterium or tritium elements - and release their awesome power. The atomic device can, however, go off without unleashing the fusion process.

SAME RANGE - State Department press officer Marshall Wright said the test was "in the same general range" as the two previous Red Chinese detonations in October, 1964 and May, 1965. Both of these were equivalent to about 20,000 tons of TNT, or 20 kilotons. Wright did not say whether the test was of a thermonuclear device.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, asked about the test as he appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he doubts it affects the international situation any more than did the first or second detonations.

One Atomic Energy Commission official described the blast as "one hundred KT (kilotons) or less."

"We don't know yet whether this was a thermonuclear explosion," he said, "and we won't before we get a reading on the atmospheric debris."

Pentagon sources said manned U2 planes would collect radioactive debris. An analysis of the fallout, combined with seismographic readings, would perhaps provide a key to the type of detonation.

A thermonuclear blast would put the Red Chinese an estimated three years ahead of schedule in their work, according to U.S. estimates.

Lightning Hits Trolley Bus

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Lightning struck a trolley bus Monday but the driver and all 21 passengers escaped injury in a crackling shower of sparks.

Power failed in nearby houses and a fire alarm sounded in an adjacent school. The bolt blew out a fuse holder and a 600-volt switch.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

APPARENT PURGE Indicates Wave Of Dissidence

TOKYO (AP) - Communist China's announcement today of its third nuclear explosion strongly indicates that the wave of dissidence on the mainland may be deeper and more widespread than suspected abroad.

The gravity of the "antiparty, antisocialist" movement within China - now apparently the subject of a purge on a scale exceeding that of the "antirightist" campaign of 1957 - was pointed up by the repeated reference in the nuclear test announcement of the "thought" and leadership of China's 72-year-old party Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

The statement said the complete success of the explosion was ensured by the fact that the scientists, technicians, military workers and others involved held high Mao's banner and "gave prominence to politics," creatively studied Mao's works and followed his policies. It called the feat a "great victory for Mao Tse-tung's thought."

In exposing both "antiparty" individuals and those who have merely strayed from the correct path, the Chinese have emphasized that the culprits have either opposed or misinterpreted Mao's writings and thinking.

The use of Mao's name in the statement on the latest bomb test, a practice which was not followed in China's announcements of two previous tests, appeared to be a further effort to rally wavering elements around the Communist party leadership.

The purge campaign now appears to be centered around the top Chinese Communist newspaperman, Teng To, former editor-in-chief and director of the official party organ, the Peking People's Daily.

He has been denounced as an enemy of the state, an accusation in which punishment of a severe nature is implicit.

Involved with Teng is the vice mayor of Peking, Wu Han, a historian. This, and simultaneous attacks on two Peking party newspapers by the Liberation Army Daily, has led to speculation that the whole Communist party structure of the Chinese capital has been indicted.

ROY ABERNETHY, president of American Motors and of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, added today:

"Up to now, there have been conflicting sales reports from field offices. Some areas have reported a depressing effect on sales as a result of the Washington hearings; others report little or no effect.

"The latest survey, completed by our marketing consultants on Monday, shows that the hearings are having a negative effect on sales."

FRACTURES HIP TODAY Dirksen Has Surgery After Hospital Fall

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., fractured his right hip early today at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, aides reported.

Dirksen, Senate Republican leader entered the hospital Monday night for a checkup. About 3:30 a.m., he arose from his bed and fell, fracturing the hip.

Dirksen, 70, underwent a 90-minute operation later to reduce the fracture.

Hospital aides said Dirksen probably will remain at the hospital two or three weeks and be on crutches several weeks thereafter.

Dirksen worked until past 6 o'clock Monday night, later attended a reception, then went to Walter Reed for one of his periodic medical checkups.

INDUSTRY LEADERS SAY Car Sales Hurt By Safety Issue

DETROIT (AP) - Two of the auto industry's top leaders say the auto safety issue has hurt car sales.

Arjay Miller, president of Ford Motor Co., referred to the "harassment" of the auto safety issue Monday in reporting a slowdown in Ford production.

Viet Street Turned Into Battleground

Five Die After Cong Mine Blast

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) - Viet Cong terrorists exploded a mine in the heart of Saigon today, and U.S. sentries turned one of the capital's busy streets into a blood-drenched battleground.

Five persons were killed and 29 to 32 were wounded, most of them by American fire. The dead included a Vietnamese policeman, three Vietnamese women and a child. Eight Americans and at least 21 Vietnamese civilians were reported wounded.

U.S. pilots flew 340 sorties over South Viet Nam Monday, while South Vietnamese fliers flew 193. Their targets were Viet Cong camps, troop concentrations and river traffic.

Aliens, Dead Persons Found On Voter List

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - The names of dead persons and aliens have been found on Bexar County's voter lists, Dist. Judge Archie Brown said Monday.

Judge Brown is in charge of a court of inquiry into Bexar County voter registration. He said Monday night he did not know how long some of the persons whose names were on the lists had been dead.

Out of 1,000 replies to 1,200 circulars sent to voters listed as naturalized citizens, about 25 per cent were found to have improper voter registrations.

He said he "soft-pedaled" the extent of the court's findings until after last Saturday's primaries in order not to make a political football of the situation.

He said further that the results of findings to date in the court of inquiry "indicates we should move into the entire area of registration and our poll tax list."

The court of inquiry was ordered by a grand jury after the county tax assessor-collector said he had discovered the names of aliens on the voter registration list.

There is a growing feeling that continued attacks are likely to arouse sympathetic support for the President from citizens who are not so interested in how the United States got tangled up in Viet Nam as how it can extricate itself honorably.

DISAGREE - The men around Johnson disagree vigorously with Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., that if the issue of the "illegality of U.S. conduct" in South Viet Nam were put to the voters the administration's position would be repudiated.

Morse Monday demanded public hearings on the legality of the U.S. presence in Viet Nam. He said only next fall's elections can prevent escalation of the war.

Johnson, a devotee of polls, is convinced he has majority support for continuing the war on a restricted basis. He has taken pains to make it clear he discounts it as an issue likely to topple Democrats - particularly those who support him - in the November voting on Senate and House races.

Nixon said that if the country should follow "the appeasement line of Sen. William Fulbright in Viet Nam we will be in World War III within four to five years."

Monday, Nixon called Fulbright's description of Saigon as "an American brothel" an irresponsible label against American forces in Saigon and the South Vietnamese. He said he would gladly contribute to a fund to send Fulbright to Saigon so he could tell it to the Marines.

There is an undercurrent of feeling among his colleagues that Fulbright has gone to extended lengths in his criticism. His "American Brothel" comment was privately deplored by some of his friends.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., newest committee member and an administration supporter, put it into words Monday when he said critics of the U.S. position in Viet Nam have been talking in extreme terms.

Critics May Feel Bite Of Viet Nam Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some influential politicians say they are beginning to read grass roots signs that sharpening attacks on President Johnson's Viet Nam policies may rebound on his critics.

There is a growing feeling that continued attacks are likely to arouse sympathetic support for the President from citizens who are not so interested in how the United States got tangled up in Viet Nam as how it can extricate itself honorably.

Russian Agrees To Inspection

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A Russian ship captain, seeking to make engine repairs in San Francisco Bay, agreed Monday night to a Coast Guard inspection to verify his claim that an emergency exists.

Only last Friday, Henry H. Fowler, secretary of the treasury, denied the Chernjakhovsk permission to enter San Francisco Bay to make repairs. Fowler said it was inimical to the best interests of the United States.

The Coast Guard said the ship would be permitted into Drake's Bay north of San Francisco where American inspectors can verify whether piston rings are broken as claimed.

The Chernjakhovsk is a trawler that has been serving as the mother ship for a Soviet fleet that has been fishing in international waters off the coasts of California and Oregon.

Mao Returns To Public View

TOKYO (AP) - Communist China late last month for the May Day celebrations in Peking, went on a tour and returned to the capital Sunday.

Mao, now 72, did not attend the annual May Day review in Peking. The Chinese government denied the rumors abroad that he was seriously ill or even dead, and a non-Communist source in New York reported last week that the Chinese leader had been at the airport in Peking Feb. 28 to say goodbye to ex-President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana. The source said Mao appeared to be in good health.

Another Peking leader long out of the public eye also emerged with Mao for the Albanians' visit. He was Defense Minister Lin Biao, vice chairman of the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist party, for whom a public appearance had not been reported in years.

Andrews Picks Rodeo Envoy

Alice Mae Zant, the 1965-66 Andrews Junior Rodeo Queen and a member of the West Texas Trail Riders Association, will be in Big Spring May 18 to ride in the Big Spring Rodeo parade and to represent her city in the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo.
Miss Zant, who attends Andrews High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Zant, Andrews, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Ed Bailey, Big Spring, and the late Mrs. Mae Zant, Big Spring.
For the past three years, Miss Zant has made the ride to Pecos with the Trail Association. This year's ride kicks off June 26 at the Andrews Rodeo grounds and ends July 1 at Pecos, where the group will participate in the Pecos Rodeo.
At Andrews, Miss Zant will reign over the Andrews Rodeo June 9-11.

C-City Planning Paving Program

COLORADO CITY (SC)—The Colorado City Council kicked off a new 100-block paving program for residential streets Monday night. The city's engineering department soon will begin preliminary surveying on the designated streets.
Following the engineering work, paving bids will be solicited and a public hearing held.
City Manager Ford Merritt said that paving costs to both the city and homeowners will depend on the present price of paving. He estimated that the city's share will be in the neighborhood of $30,000 and said that the city's paving program five years ago cost the homeowner about $5.25 per foot. The city's share will be financed from about $9,000 - $10,000 left over from the paving program of 1961 and from surplus city funds, he said.
In other action, the council purchased two air-conditioned police cars from the Craddock-Whitten Motor Co., local Ford dealer, and the low bidder of the three submitted, at $2,970 plus trade-in. The council also purchased a Ford truck from the company for $2,545, again at the lowest of four bids.
Buck Geer, Henry Billberry and R. B. Baker were appointed to a board of tax equalization.
The council voted to change the zoning of Block 14 of the LaUnion addition from residential to business, on the application of M. G. Flores, who will operate a service station and grocery store there.

Coahoma FFA To Make Its Awards

COAHOMA (SC)—The Future Farmers of America will have their annual awards program at 8 p.m. today in the high school auditorium.
Honorary chapter farmers will be chosen from among adults who have been of great help to the program. Boys will share in the top Greenhand award and the Star Chapter Farmer award. There also will be recognition for best performances in livestock, crop, farm mechanics and conservation. A final award will be the DeKalb recognition to an outstanding junior or senior student. Refreshments will be served later in the activities room.

Slaying Case Set For May 16

STANTON—Augustine Valles, charged with murder with malice, goes on trial here in 118th District Court at 10 a.m. May 16.
Judge Ralph Caton Monday afternoon drew a special venire of 125 jurors to serve in the case.
He also presided at a pre-trial session asked by Roger Brown, defense attorney, at which the defendant's statement, the weapon allegedly used in the homicide and other state evidence was provided for the defense's consideration. This is in accord with provisions of the new state criminal code.
Valles is accused of having knifed Santos Romero to death in front of a residence here on the night of June 12.
He has been at liberty on bond.
The case had been scheduled previously but Brown, then engaged in a political campaign for state legislator, had been granted a continuance.
District Attorney Wayne Burns will prosecute the case for the state.

Arm-Twisters Go To Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — The effectiveness of President Johnson's brigade of congressional arm-twisters gets a new test today on an old subject — rent subsidies.
Ever since the House Appropriations Committee voted 25 to 21 last Thursday to kill the subsidy program by refusing to finance it after June 30, top presidential aides have been working to salvage it.
Money to keep it alive originally had been included in a $14.1 billion omnibus appropriation bill which House leaders hope will be approved today.
An Appropriations subcommittee recommended a total of $22 million for the program designed to supplement rent payments of low-income occupants of privately built housing. This was $16 million less than the President wanted.
After a strategy huddle late Monday in the office of Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., administration spokesmen said they thought they had the votes to reverse the Appropriations Committee action.

Besides House leaders, the meeting was attended by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien and Secretary Robert C. Weaver of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

A Devotional For The Day

From a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. (II Timothy 3:15)

PRAYER: O God, grant us so to love and understand Thy Word that we make it the point of reference of all our thinking and action. Grant that by our wise and devoted use of the Holy Scriptures our homes may be illumined, sanctified, and made a witness to Thy power. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Sweet Theory But Impractical

Stanford Research Institute analyst Richard L. Goetz has concluded that the nation's $8,000-a-year traffic toll could be cut to $,000 by a wide variety of politically impractical and economically impractical measures. Even if his proposals could be put into effect, he doubts that the toll could be cut 80 per cent, though it would be wonderful if it could be.

One point in particular of Goetz's analysis strikes us as unrealistic. He would raise off the road all persons under 21 and over 70, plus some 4 million high-risk drivers. So far as the latter is concerned, that may be done by drivers-license suspension, stricter policing, and insurance details.

However, as to age groups—in Texas, the elderly are already put in a higher-insurance bracket or assigned to a multi-industry risk pool. Young men to 25 have exceptionally high insurance rates, but young women do not. Indicating that the latter are not high-risk drivers. What would Goetz do about the girls?

Finally, thousands of younger and older people are utterly dependent on their cars for job-related transportation, not to mention recreation. How would Goetz compensate these people for probable monetary loss?

The California study is a temper to a target. Any legislature that passed the laws he suggests would be committing political suicide. Engineering, traffic-control devices, strict law enforcement, and safer cars are still the answers to highway and street safety. Raising age-bracket drivers off the roads would be arbitrary, cruel and popularly unacceptable.

A Miserable Showing

The only exciting thing about the vote turned in our first primary Saturday is that virtually every other in the state had a similarly dismal showing.

Add to the 1,538 votes tallied in the Democratic primary upwards of 200 in the Republican primary, and you come up with barely more than half of the potential vote of Howard County.

There is no word short of disgrace to describe the lethargy which half of our citizenship displayed. In a democracy, 50 per cent participation is a miserable showing any way you take it.

Of course the majority will of the primary is conclusive and there is no fault whatever verdict was reached, but the fact remains that the worst decision under these conditions would still be minority ones.

For instance, if a candidate managed to win nomination by polling 40 per cent of the ballots cast, he would still have been chosen by only 20 per cent of the electorate. If he had a tight squeeze and got only 51 per cent of the ballots cast, he would have been picked by only 25 per cent plus of the qualified voters.

This is no reflection on the candidates who waded long and hard—it is a serious reflection on those who stayed away from the polls. To prate about liberties and the home of the free and yet fail to vote when able is the rankiest kind of hypocrisy.

Marquis Childs Crisis Of Decision

WASHINGTON — Within the closely guarded precincts of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the latest working estimate of the total of American ground troops required in Viet Nam is not less than 300,000 and possibly 500,000 men.

BUT THERE are conditional estimates reflecting the cruel dilemma of the Johnson Administration in the undeclared war. The President is being told that if he will approve the Air Force bombing program for Hanoi - Halphong and the infiltration routes involving Laos, Cambodia and the China-North Viet Nam border, the requirements on the ground can be reduced. With a full scale bombing attack, such as the Joint Chiefs have pressed for over many weeks, the ground force estimate is put at 200,000 to 250,000.

Among the few men on Capitol Hill with access to the Joint Chiefs' thinking, these estimates have been deeply disquieting.

THEY HELP to explain the statements of such a normally loyal Administration supporter as Senator Richard Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Russell has been saying that, if the full strength of America's air arm cannot be employed, then the time has come to consider withdrawing from Viet Nam.

In a report to the Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees last week, such a sober and cerebral analyst as Senator Stuart Symington gave it as his conclusion that the United States was overextended everywhere. Symington, the only senator on both committees, based his finding on first hand investigation in Asia and Europe.

WHAT THE PRESIDENT confronts is a crisis of decision. Its scope exceeds anything thus far in the Viet Nam conflict. Muffled in the customary secrecy, it cannot for long be concealed from public view, despite details and discretionary tactics of news being released in other areas.

If 300,000 or more American troops are to be deployed in Viet Nam, this will inevitably look like the open-ended ground war in Asia against which so many dire warnings have been issued. It will renew in more intensive form the disputes over calling up the reserves, a tax increase and the perils of inflation.

AS AN ALTERNATIVE, the Air Force bombing program can have consequences fully as ominous. It could mean extending the war to all of Southeast Asia, not excluding Thailand. No one can predict the reaction of China and the Soviet Union to such a bombing program, with Soviet ships sunk in Halphong harbor and Air Force planes following the "no sanctuary" policy of pursuing attackers across the Chinese border.

THE PRESIDENT has repeatedly said, above all, in signing his office with the doves, that he is following the course of moderation. He appeals to critics to support him against those who would make it an all out war. There is every evidence of sincere belief in this, however dubious it may sound to those who see him escalating the war from day to day. Calling up the reserves, an across-the-board tax increase, are measures bound to step up the demand to "get it over with" by any and all means.

THE KIND OF restraint Mr. Johnson believes he has held to thus far would hardly be possible under those circumstances. That is the dimension of the dilemma.

Is there any check? Any halting place? These are the questions the Commander-in-Chief must ask in the long and lonely vigil of his watch over the war.

Billy Graham

I need deliverance from the smoking habit. It is a real spiritual problem to me. I know it is wrong, and yet I am helpless to give it up. Have you any suggestions?

H. S. R.

My experience in dealing with unwanted habits has shown that first, a person must truly want to give up a habit, if he is to get rid of it. Most smokers want to give it up, but they want cigarettes more, and when this conflict exists the habit will usually win out.

It has been pointed out by physicians that cigarette smoking is really not addictive. It is a habit and nothing more, and a person can quit without any violent or harmful physical reactions. So, it stands to reason, that there is nothing keeping the smoker from quitting but his own will to quit. He can quit if he wants to, but if his desire to quit does not outweigh his desire to continue, then he fights a losing battle. I have had many men tell me that they just picked up their pack of cigarettes, threw them away, and never touched them again. I believe it's as simple as this.

I once asked former President Eisenhower how he quit smoking and he said, "I just quit." If you are a Christian you can count on God's help.

The Old Math

CHICAGO (AP) — Taxpayer's math is giving Internal Revenue men an estimated headache.

More than 1.9 million errors in "tax arithmetic" turned up in the check of 62.9 million individual income tax returns for 1965. Commerce Clearing House says this is 1.3 million more errors than the previous year.

Most of the errors were in favor of the taxpayer.

Verification resulted in the collection of an extra $194 million in taxes, up more than $25.5 million from the previous year.

Increases averaging $96 were asked from more than 1.9 million taxpayers.

'DON'T JUST STAND THERE'

James Marlow Viet War, Inflation Are Related

WASHINGTON (AP)—So far in 1966 the two biggest arguments are over the war in Viet Nam and the danger of inflation. They are not unrelated.

The more the government spends on war, the more profits, prices and wages are affected. Without the war, inflation might seem more remote.

President Johnson, trying to play cautious on how far to go with the war and how far to go to prevent inflation, is making people see in both cases.

William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board which is not under Johnson's thumb like the Council of Economic Advisors.

Martin didn't plead for restraint. He said tax increases on corporations and individuals is needed now as an anti-inflationary weapon.

Then right behind came the secretary of the treasury, Henry H. Fowler, a member of Johnson's Cabinet. He raised a blinder light against Martin's call for a tax increase now.

SINCE THIS is a congressional election year Johnson doesn't have to have a political psychologist tell him that a tax increase is not likely to make voters happy.

But Johnson has a self-named 11-man Advisory Committee on Labor-Management Policy. He told it "disquieting signs are beginning to appear."

He called on it for advice, saying: "I want you to ask yourselves: If you were president, what would you do?"

Hal Boyle Worried About Next Job

NEW YORK (AP) — Tippi Redden, who is as cool and level as a vanilla ice cream cone, has served only two masters in a brief, spectacular film career.

Alfred Hitchcock, after seeing her in a television commercial, picked the exciting young blonde to star in two of his thrillers.

Then Charlie Chaplin chose her.

It rarely falls to the lot of a screen newcomer to work consecutively for two such top directors. The experience certainly thrilled Miss Redden, and left her a bit worried about whom she will work for next.

"It is hard to compare Hitch and Charlie," she said over a cup of coffee.

"Both are taskmasters and demand perfection. But they arrive at it from different directions."

"But Charlie? Well, it's like watching all his old movies. He directs by showing you. He takes the part of each character in turn and acts it out himself."

Tippi, who started at a model at the age of 13 in a Minneapolis department store, isn't sure just what she'll do next.

"I don't want to wait myself out of this business," she said frankly, "but working for Hitch and Charlie has been very special to me, and now I'm going to wait for something special to come along."

Behind Tippi's petal-soft face dwells a firm and methodical mind, inherited from Swedish ancestors.

"I don't let myself be afraid of anybody," she remarked. "And I don't let myself have nervous fears. If you let yourself be afraid of the unknown in this business, you'd go under very fast."

Here are her likes: "Sunshine, my daughter, Saturday and Sunday, swimming pools, simple living — as long as I can live simply in Rome, Paris, London, Cairo or New York — all pets, light green and beige colors, gold and pearl jewelry, Sophia Loren, politics, the smell of garlic cooking, vitally alive people and laughing."

And she dislikes: "Making phone calls, petty people, straggly hairdos, women you can't tell from men and men you can't tell from women, rebellious children, traffic jams, rutabagas, 'cells' and 'brussels sprouts,' people who just want to get by, who are incompetent and content to stay that way."

To Your Good Health Notes From Two Dental Surgeons

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. I am frequently indebted to other doctors for suggestions concerning this column. At the moment I have notes from two dental surgeons.

Dr. L.S., referring to a column about protection after a person once has had rheumatic fever, points out that transient bacteria resulting from otherwise ordinary procedures can lodge in damaged heart valves, increasing the damage, or result in bacterial endocarditis.

He observes: "Having a tooth removed or having teeth cleaned (manipulation of gum tissue) to name just two everyday treatments in dental practice, can cause serious complications in a child or an adult if the dentist isn't told that the patient has had rheumatic fever."

Of course, I have in the past warned about extractions, but Dr. L. S. raises a most valuable point: Such a warning should be given prior to ANY procedure. The dentist can (and does) give penicillin or other protective drugs when he has been warned.

Similar precautions can be taken for other oral procedures, as well as non-dental ones:

Minor surgery of any kind, removal of tonsils or adenoids, bronchoscopy, gynecological examination, and so on.

Another D.D.S. writes on a different matter: "Dear Doctor: As a dentist for 15 years my main interest has been to help people maintain clean, healthy mouths."

"Having come to the realization that smoking had a very bad effect on the teeth, gums and mucous membranes, I was happy to hear the medical profession condemn the practice."

"What I cannot understand is why you and other physicians aim your criticism only at cigarettes and give people the impression that cigars and pipes are approved. My experience has been that the most insidious conditions are found in the mouths of cigar and pipe smokers in that order.—D.D.S."

A similar question was asked when the U.S. Surgeon General released his report on smoking and health a couple of years or so ago. The answer is that we have massive statistical support for the relationship between cigarettes and lung trouble. We don't have it as regards other forms of smoking.

Physicians — I among them — quite generally refer to tobacco or smoking in relation to health matters other than lung cancer. Smoking is strictly forbidden for an emphysema patient. The nicotine (not just the smoke) has its harmful effect on peripheral circulation. Smoking by whatever means, certainly bothers peptic ulcers, not to mention bronchitis, asthma and the like.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the difference between TB and emphysema? Is emphysema contagious? Do people with emphysema cough like with TB? — MRS. D.I.

Tuberculosis is an infection from a germ. Emphysema is a loss of elasticity in the lung tissues and is not contagious. People with severe emphysema are likely to do a good deal of coughing.

"Tips on How to Stop Smoking," by Dr. Molner, will help you give up the habit. To receive a copy of the booklet, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Around The Rim They Were A Heck Of A Lot Of Fun

We're either becoming more cynical or more blasé.

I can remember when a political campaign was really something.

EVERYONE, young and old, took a big hand in the show. The candidates, unassisted by such electronic marvels as radio, television and loudspeaker systems, harangued the crowds with sheer lungpower. A man had a much better chance of being elected if he had the vocal capacity to be heard a block away.

A political rally was a big event. Folk turned out by the hundreds. They stood in the hot sun and whooped it up for the candidates. The candidates, in their own turn, whooped it up for their constituents. They called their opponents everything in the book, and fist fights were not uncommon.

THERE WERE no radios or televisions to spread the news of the election results as rapidly as it was announced by the tabulators.

This was the heyday of the election party.

Usually the newspaper in the town sponsored the returns party. The customary plan was to hang a wagon sheet on a wall across the street from the newspaper office and project results, as quickly as they were received on this sheet with a sort of king-of-the-hill game. Glass plates on which the election reports were scrawled with wax pencils and were wiped off to make room for the next bulletin. By the time the party had been going on for a while, the plates became so smeary that the new results were blurred and uncertain.

THE POLICE roped off the block in front of the newspaper, and traffic was diverted. Sometimes the newspaper augmented its slide projections with verbal announcements made by some leather-jungled resident through a megaphone.

When the results of a precinct were shown, the adherents of the man who had carried that box roared their approval. The newsmen operating the projector in order to keep interest going, deliberately ran the next slide on a precinct where another candidate had the lead. This man's friends whooped their approval.

SOMETIMES YOU had to hold up the results and stall with state results in order to find local races where the leadership could be secured.

To fill in the long intervals when no returns were coming in, the newspaper arranged for a string band or some other noisy entertainment which could go on and on and not be bothered by the crowd's divided interest.

I remember one year we moved in a motion projector and projected cartoons and one-reel comedies (silent) to fill in the idle time.

JUST AS Charlie Chaplin buried a pie, very often, the screen went blank and a slide appeared, proclaiming that Joe Deakin for sheriff was trailing in Precinct 12. As soon as the hosts and hollers had died down, we went back to Charlie and the pie.

It was not as gaudy then as it is today but it was a heck of a lot more fun.

Holmes Alexander Decline In Nuclear Testing

WASHINGTON — The Nuclear Test Ban Treaty of 1963 halted one kind of fallout, but produced another. The nuclear particles from American and Russian aerial tests ceased to flutter, but the two kinds of brain-cell emitters continued to sit.

One type of nuclear thinking declared: "Hurrah! Having obtained a Russo-American bargain not to test in the atmosphere, let us push for an agreement not to test anywhere at all." But the other type of nuclear cognition put forth this idea: "If we've got good sense, we will study every aspect of underground testing so as to learn about Russian capabilities and so as to perfect our own."

TWO MEN in Congress, members of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, have been vigilant and skeptical about any unilateral disarmament in the nuclear field. One is a Democrat, Senator Henry (Scoop) Jackson of Washington, and it may be that he is slightly inhibited by party loyalty. The other is a Republican, Representative Craig Hosmer of California, and it may be that he is rendered hypercritical by being an anti-administration partisan.

BUT TO BE on the safe side, we should pay plenty of attention to Rep. Hosmer, the gaffly — which is more than most newspapers do. And considering what is involved, we should be plenty grateful to Hosmer for the amount of brain-fog he gives to this tedious but momentous subject. He made a House floor speech last week that is a flashing signal of stop-work lines.

Hosmer points out that both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson presided themselves to certain "safeguards" which were adopted by Congress along with the Treaty. He charges that the administration has failed to live up to its pledges. With the Treaty less than three years old, the administration has become more concerned with "dramatic hopes than with the realities of financing the safeguards."

IN ORDER to get a true picture, Hosmer adjusts the spending figures by a 5 per cent inflationary discount — government dollars now buy 5 per cent less than when we began serious underground research five years ago. By translating the outlay for this research from dollars into percentages, Hosmer reaches a frightening conclusion. He says:

"This kind of comparison shows that the actual magnitude of United States efforts in 1967, AFTER the Treaty, will be something like 10 per cent less than in 1962-63, BEFORE the Treaty.... No longer is there a healthy growth in this program. It is being constricted — not only by a reduction in funds, but also by a drop in the amount of testing those funds will buy due to inflationary factors."

TAKING fiscal year 1965 as the base, or the 100 per cent year, Hosmer compares what has happened to safeguard spending that was done in '66 and the spending that is planned in '67.

For conducting our underground tests, we spent 1.5 per cent more in '66 but 5 per cent less in '67. For laboratory facilities, we spent 4 per cent less in '66 and 12 per cent less in '67. For monitoring Sino-Soviet actions, we spent 1.3 per cent less in '66 and 4.8 of a per cent less in '67.

Hosmer sums up by saying that the safeguard trend is "downward" and the signs are for a "laxing future."

Art Buchwald It's All A Big Cover-Up

WASHINGTON — The CIA has been getting so much publicity lately that one starts to wonder how secret our secret service really is. Esquire magazine devoted an entire issue to the CIA, the New York Times had a five-part series on it. You can't pick up the newspaper or a magazine these days without reading about the organization.

Many people are bewildered over the amount of publicity the CIA is getting, but I can put their minds at ease. The reason the CIA is getting all the publicity is that it is not our major secret service organization. It is, in fact, a cover to deflect from our real central intelligence agency which is the Department of Agriculture.

IT CAN NOW be revealed that the CIA was set up for no other reason than to keep people from prying into the affairs of the Agriculture Department.

The $46 million CIA headquarters at Langley, with its 16,000 employees, the far-flung spy network, the gathering of information from around the world, is all a ruse which, up until now, has worked beyond the Department of Agriculture's wildest dreams.

THE CIA has been blamed for the U-2 incident, the foul-up in the Dominican Republic, and the setting up of the Diem government in South Viet Nam. What few people realize is that exactly the way Orville Freeman, the Secretary of Agriculture, wants it, because the more things the CIA gets blamed for, the less chance there is of discovering who was really behind these operations.

Whenever someone starts getting inquisitive about what the Department of Agriculture is up to, the CIA immediately leaks a story to the press of some momentous blunder the CIA committed, and everyone, including the Russians, think we goofed again.

THE REASON the Department of Agriculture was chosen to be our intelligence arm is that no one really cares what the Agriculture people do. They have an inexhaustible supply of funds which they are supposed to pay out to the farmers for not growing crops.

Using this as a pretext, the Department can siphon off large amounts of money to its agents in the form of farm subsidies, and no one is the wiser.

BESIDES THIS, the Department has crop dusting aircraft, which are really used for spying operations, and all the storage facilities, which are supposed to be holding surplus commodities, are, in fact, filled with the latest and most sophisticated spy equipment.

The only time the Department of Agriculture was even remotely in the limelight was during the Billie Sol Estes swindle. But just when the heat was on, the CIA pulled off the Bay of Pigs caper, and everyone forgot about Estes.

NO ORGANIZATION that gets in the papers as much as the CIA could possibly be part of our secret service, and no organization that gets in the papers as little as the Department of Agriculture could be anything but a world-wide intelligence network.

Let this be a lesson to those who believe the United States government doesn't know what it's doing. 1966 Publishers Newspaper Syndicate.

Astronauts Rehearsing Today For Next Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's next pair of astronauts climb into their Gemini 9 spaceship today and rehearse the complex dual countdown that will send them rocketing aloft next Tuesday to test skills needed to land on the moon.

Before next week's three-day space adventure concludes, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan is to take a record-duration space walk and use a rocket-powered back pack.

Command pilot Thomas P. Stafford is to steer Gemini 9 on several rendezvous attempts with an Agena target satellite and jolt Gemini 9 into a new orbit by firing the 16,000-pound-thrust Agena engine while their spacecraft is hooked up with it.

FLIGHT PLAN

The flight plan for Gemini 9 "is to date one of the most complex and sophisticated," Air Force Lt. Col. Stafford said.

Today's countdown — called a simultaneous launch demonstration — is the start of two days of intensive rehearsals designed to test equipment and brief technicians in the blockhouse on procedures necessary to launch Gemini and its Agena target satellite one hour, 29 minutes apart.

Wednesday Gemini 9 will go through a simulated flight — where it is counted down for three practice liftoffs. Equipment in the spaceship and on the ground which will be used during early phases of the actual flight will be checked out.

Preparations continued for a noon (EST) liftoff Wednesday for a scientific satellite called Atmospheric Explorer. The spacecraft, a shiny ball weighing 495 pounds, is scheduled to ride a Delta rocket into an egg-shaped orbit ranging from 170 to 750 miles above the earth to study the chemistry of the upper atmosphere.

CHASE

Next Tuesday, the Agena — hoisted by an Atlas booster — is to blast off at 10 a.m. (EST). If the cylindrical space engine achieves a proper orbit, Stafford and Cernan will rocket aloft at 11:30 a.m. and begin a tricky four-hour chase to catch the Agena.

The morning of the second day in orbit, Cernan will open the hatch and step into space on the end of a 25-foot lifeline.

He will mount a movie camera on the outside of Gemini 9, retrieve a package of microscopically living organisms attached to the spaceship and stick another experiment on the Agena.

After the first 54-minute daylight period ends, he will move to an equipment section behind Gemini 9, slip into a rocket-powered back pack called an astronaut maneuvering unit — AMU — and grab a bag with another 125 feet of tether inside.

After Stafford disconnects Gemini 9 from the Agena, Cernan will float into space and practice maneuvering with the AMU. He will move to about 40 feet in front of Gemini 9 and remain stationary while Stafford drives the spaceship to him to simulate a rescue of a stranded astronaut.

VISIT AGENA

The space-walking astronaut then will hook onto his 125 feet of extra tether, shift over to the Agena about 80 feet away and touch it before returning to the spaceship. He is scheduled to be outside Gemini 9 a total of two hours, 25 minutes.

After the space walk, the astronauts will practice various methods of rendezvous approaches with the Agena and change orbit three times by firing the Agena's engine while Gemini 9 is hooked up with it.

Cool Front Covers State

By The Associated Press

Clouds thickened over Texas today as a hardly noticeable cool front all but enveloped the state.

In its wake the Weather Bureau predicted widely scattered showers in the northwest and north central sections by evening, and all across the northern half Wednesday. Some of the shower activity was expected to dip into Southwest Texas by Wednesday.

The front proved so mild that thermometers sank no lower than 48 degrees by daylight at Amarillo in the Panhandle. On the coast Galveston recorded 67 at the same hour.

These marks compared with highs Monday ranging from a sizzling 103 at Presidio in the extreme west down to 56 at Dalhart in the Panhandle.

Slightly cooler air pushed steadily southward after invading the state Monday. By early today its forward edge curved from around Port Arthur and Galveston westward past San Antonio and Del Rio, across the Big Bend of West Texas and north into New Mexico.

Skies were clear only in the sector south of the front, and at least partly cloudy conditions were in prospect for all parts of Texas by Wednesday. No big temperature changes were expected.

Don't laugh.

A Volkswagen police car may seem like a funny idea to you, but it makes a lot of sense to the city of Scottsboro, Alabama. They wanted a car that could take Police Officer H. L. Wilkerson on parking meter patrol; all day, 6 days a week, in stop-and-go traffic. Without breaking down. And without breaking the taxpayers. So, in 1964, they bought Car S-5: a VW with a dome light, siren, and 2-way radio. That was the year of Scottsboro's only 12" snowfall. The other police cars were in trouble up to their hubcaps. But Car S-5 was a credit to the Force. It went uphill. And downhill. And Officer Wilkerson never even put the chains on. Officer Wilkerson isn't supposed to go after speeders, for obvious reasons. But once (in 1965) he chased one. And caught him. It's hard to say which man was more surprised. Car S-5 still averages 29 miles per gallon. It still doesn't need oil between changes. And it's never had a breakdown. After a year and a half of continuous use, it had its clutch replaced, and its valves adjusted. That is all.

Businessman To Head Up Bureau

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's nominee to head the Small Business Administration was born in a small town, went to a small college and spent much of his life as a small businessman.

But Bernard L. Boutin's family is anything but small. He and his wife Alice have 10 children.

"They're a lot of fun," Boutin said with a laugh as he proudly displayed a large family portrait in his office.

Beside the Boutin family picture is a photograph of the Johnson family, inscribed with personal greetings from the President and Mrs. Johnson.

"I have a very good relationship with the President," Boutin said in an interview. "I intend to operate the SBA with a free hand — but my boss is the President."

Johnson announced the nomination Sunday. Senate confirmation is required. The stocky, square-jawed Boutin was brought into the government by President John F. Kennedy in 1961 and earned a reputation as a hard-nosed administrator while serving as head of the General Services Administration and, for the past seven months, as deputy director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, the anti-poverty organization.

Many sources agree, however, that Boutin will have his work cut out for him in the SBA, which has been without a director since last fall and has cut back some loan programs.

"We've just been floating along," said one SBA official who did not want to be named. "Everybody's been a little reluctant to do anything."

Boutin said he's "small business oriented. I owned them most of my adult life in New Hampshire and even started my own business from scratch."

"I know what it is to meet a payroll, to try to borrow money and how hard it is to establish lines of credit," he said.

A native of Belmont, N.H., Boutin attended St. Michael's college in Winoski, Vt. Most of his business experience was gained in Laconia, N.H., where he served two terms as mayor and was a partner in an insurance agency, a real estate firm and a variety store.

Reports to the board revealed an increase of 153 from the recent membership campaign, plus 25 others who raised their dues. The two should provide the Chamber with $5,700 additional working capital for the year.

John Currie, president, suggested a new appraisal of the city's facilities at the basis of stepping up an appeal for conventions. He also said that a survey of hospital facilities and needs was being made.

Texas Parade magazine, which will do a feature article on Big Spring in an autumn issue, is due to be here in about two weeks for initial studies.

A private line to the Midland weather bureau has been installed for convenience of those who wish to fly. The number, it was announced, is AM 3-3601.

Promotion of National Cotton Week is under way, and there has been a good response, said Currie.

Schools Closed At Littlefield

LITTLEFIELD, Tex. (AP) — Schools in Littlefield will be closed Tuesday for the funeral of W. W. Hall.

Hall was an agriculture teacher whose body, a gun nearby, was found Sunday. A bullet wound was in the head. There was no immediate verdict in the death.

Hall had been an employee of the Littlefield school system for 15 years.

Worn-out bills are removed from circulation by the Federal Reserve banks around the country. The Treasury estimates the average life of $1 bills at 18 months, with the life span advancing for bills of larger denominations to almost nine years for $50 bills.

The reserve banks cut the tattered bills in half horizontally and perforate them with a special stamp before they are sent to Washington. A careful audit is made before they are sent to Leforte and his men.

Then — poof! And up go the millions in smoke.

MRS. BYRUM C. LEE JR.

Byrum C. Lees To Reside In Virginia

Mr. and Mrs. Byrum C. Lee Jr. are at home in Roanoke, Va., following their 4:30 p.m. wedding Saturday in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hassell H. Brock of Pearisburg, Va. Mrs. Lee is the former Mary Lindell Brock.

Order Gets Member

Mrs. Steve Baker was initiated as a new member during the Monday evening meeting of the Social Order of the Beauceant at the Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Eugene Gross presided, and cohostesses were Mrs. Willard Sullivan and Mrs. J. A. McGee.

Mrs. Gross reported on the recent visit to the Midland assembly for "friendship night," and Mrs. James Owen reported on the organization's charity projects.

Wesleyan Guild Installs Officers

Mrs. W. E. Moren was installed as president during the Monday evening meeting of the Martha Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church.

To assist her will be Miss Edith Gay, vice president; Mrs. Twilla Lomax, recording secretary; and Mrs. Cass Hill, treasurer.

Knitting Needle Has Second Use

Steel knitting needles (or aluminum) are very handy in the kitchen. They can be used to vent frozen pies before baking, to start a skewer of barbecued ribs, for fishing small potatoes out of boiling water when larger ones need to cook longer, and a variety of other things.

If you have no knitting needles, an ice pick will do the same chores.

Pink, Blue Shower Held In Coahoma

COAHOMA (SC) — Mrs. Croy Wright was honored with a pink and blue shower Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. C. A. Cranfill. The 25 guests were served from a table covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a pink baby shoe vase filled with white flowers.

Hostesses with Mrs. Cranfill were Mrs. J. C. Bristow, Mrs. A. D. Greenfield, Mrs. Sam Buchanan, Mrs. Phil Wynn, Mrs. Pete Banks, Mrs. Don Allen, Mrs. Velma Reid and Mrs. T. A. Harris. Mrs. Wright was presented a corsage of baby socks.

Parents of the bridegroom are the Rev. and Mrs. Byrum C. Lee, also of Pearisburg. Rev. Lee officiated for the nuptial rites, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Patricia Lee of Pearisburg, and the best man was James Hassell H. Brock, also of Pearisburg.

The bride's parents were hosts for a reception honoring the couple at the Village Inn.

The bride is a graduate of the National Business College in Roanoke and was a member of Alpha Delta Zeta sorority. Lee attended Howard County Junior College and was affiliated with Phi Theta Kappa.

BSP Unit Announces New Slate

New officers were elected during the Monday evening meeting of the Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi. Mrs. Charles Dodson, 2405 Alabama, was hostess. Mrs. Tommy McAdams was cohostess, and Mrs. Billy G. McDonald presided.

To be installed at the May 23 meeting are Mrs. Harry McMillan, president; Mrs. John Turner, vice president; Mrs. Tom Eustace, recording secretary; Mrs. Ronald McQuisten, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Morris Griffice, treasurer; Mrs. Jim Murphy, extension officer and city council representative; and Mrs. Jack Blizard, alternate city council representative.

Mrs. McDonald reported on the annual spring dance held Saturday evening at the Cosden Country Club, and resolutions for state projects were adopted.

Eagles Auxiliary Re-Elects Three

Three officers were re-elected during the Monday evening meeting of the Eagles Auxiliary at Hotel Settles.

To be installed in June for their second term are Mrs. Carlos Warren, president; Mrs. Arthur Andrews, vice president and reporter; and Mrs. Bill Cochran, treasurer. Mrs. Laura M. Batton will be the new secretary.

A $25 donation to the Max Baer Heart Fund was approved, and Mrs. Warren won the capsule prize.

It was announced that the summer meeting time of 8 p.m. will be observed at the May 23 meeting. Mrs. Clarence Whittington will be hostess.

A LOVELIER YOU Learn Bare Facts Of A Bikini Figure

By MARY SUE MILLER

Are you happy about your image in a bathing suit? If so, you're a one-in-a-trillion James Bond beauty.

No fashion is more demanding than a bathing suit, for the coming summer suits are merciless. The bikini, the itty-bits-rides, the crest. But all new suits are bared, bared to the maximum — fore, aft, port and starboard. There's no such thing as a conservative suit in the old sense. Let it be a warning!

Better start at once on needed figure improvements. Four to eight weeks are required to trim weight and heavy spots. What's more, trimming is not the end-all. Mermaid grace and sleek grooming are also indispensable attributes. Problems in either department cannot be solved without forethought.

Timed to get results before the summer season, a 10-part series on figure renovation begins today. The aim is total attractiveness. But you just know the first target is weight reduction. The method is painless. So relax!

Here's a sample menu: Chilled carrot curls; 2 slices sirloin roast; baked potato, dressed with skimmed meat essence; steamed string beans; small scoop coffee ice cream; black coffee.

(Note for dieting teen girls: to the above add 1 slice buttered bread and 8-ounce glass milk.)

How's that for proof that you can eat and slim, diet and like it!

What's your figure problem? To achieve total attractiveness send for my booklet, "Secrets of a Lovely Figure." It contains easy ways to reduce weight and proportions; to overcome grooming problems, such as fuzz, freckles and blemishes; to move with grace and poise. For your copy write to Mary Sue Miller, in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents in coin.

Patsy Robinson Joins Auxiliary

Patsy Robertson was installed as a new member during the Monday evening meeting of the Junior Auxiliary to the VFW Auxiliary, Christensen Tucker Post No. 2013. The members met at the post home with Debbie Miller presiding. Patsy Eason gave the opening and closing prayers.

A letter of appreciation was read from Mrs. Nell Frazier for the unit's work at the Bennett House, and it was announced that the banner fund had reached $17.

Refreshments were served by Debbie Miller and Brenda Jones, and plans were made to sell poppies May 21.

Prevent Damage In Re-Planting

Be careful not to injure roots when moving small plants from one location to another in the garden. Leave plenty of soil and avoid cutting even a single root with the spade.

Weeks Of Back Pain Now Relieved

"After weeks of pain in my back and hips, I tried DeWitt's Pills — got wonderful relief," says Mrs. K. Gardner, Waterloo, Iowa.

DeWitt's Pills act fast with a proven analgesic to relieve pain of backache. Their mild diuretic action helps eliminate retained fluids and flush out irritating bladder wastes. If pain persists, see your doctor.

DeWitt's Pills often succeed where others fail, relieve minor muscle aches, too. Insist on the genuine DeWitt's Pills. At all drug counters.

COUNTRY CLUB BARBECUE MAY MAKE FRIDAY 13TH LUCKY DAY

There may be safety in numbers for those who gather at Big Spring Country Club this week to celebrate "Friday, the 13th," with a barbecue and patio dance. Making arrangements for the entertainment committee are Mrs. Joe Moss and Mrs. Clyde McMahon Jr. The barbecue dinner will be served Friday from 7 to 8:30 p.m., and a band will furnish music from 8 p.m. until 12 o'clock midnight. The charge is $2.50 per person and reservations must be made at the club by noon Thursday.

Sorority Rituals Held During Dinner Meeting

Sorority rituals were conducted during the Monday evening dinner meeting of Phi Kappa Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. The group met at the Spanish Main where the president, Mrs. Richard Egan, officiated for the pledge ritual, assisted by Mrs. B. R. Newton.

Pledges were Mrs. James Hargrove, Mrs. Richard Tucker, Mrs. Tommy Mills and Mrs. Cal Lowery.

Mrs. Glyn Mitchell, district president, was assisted by Mrs. J. W. Dickens in conducting the jewel pin ceremony. Those receiving the pins were Mrs. Lonnie Zant, Mrs. Marcellus Weaver, Mrs. Dewey Millard and Mrs. Warren Black.

The ritual table was covered with a yellow cloth and accented with an arrangement of yellow jonquils. A brass candleabra held yellow tapers. The T-shaped banquet table featured yellow runners and a spring bouquet.

During a brief business session, Mrs. Newton, district coordinator, was chosen as delegate to the state convention in Midland Thursday through Sunday. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Dickens.

The new officer slate will be installed May 23 during a salad supper in the home of Mrs. Dickens in Silver Heels.

D&D Club Hears Talk On Drilling

C. W. Guthrie, independent oil producer, was guest speaker at the Monday luncheon meeting of the Desk and Derrick Club. The members met at the Downtown Tea Room with Mrs. Kaye Thornton presiding.

Guthrie's topic concerned the steps involved in oil well drilling. He stressed the technical phases of selecting a site, the problems of clearing abstract titles and establishing bookkeeping procedures. He also talked of the well-testing process and pipeline connections.

Mrs. Thornton announced that a meeting will be held Friday noon at the Downtown Tea Room for a business session.

OWC Officers Feted At Tea

A tea honoring the new president and retiring board members of the Officers Wives Club at Webb Air Force Base was held Monday afternoon in the home of the retiring president, Mrs. Timothy L. Thomas, 43 Chanute.

The new president is Mrs. B. W. Flowers, and the other retiring officers are Mrs. J. F. Bosick, Mrs. Gerry Green, Mrs. W. E. Lowman and Mrs. George McKenna.

Highlighting the tea was the presentation of a farewell gift to Mrs. J. H. Sherwood, wife of the Air Base Group Commander, who will soon be leaving Webb. Mrs. Flowers presented the gift on behalf of the OWC.

Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Edwin J. White, Mrs. C. J. Butcher, Mrs. Bosick and Mrs. Ted Hascall.

White linen covered the tea table which was appointed with a silver coffee and tea service. The centerpiece was a crystal vase holding white daisies and yellow carnations and flanked by silver candle holders with white tapers. The hors d'oeuvre table was covered with a white cut-work cloth and appointed with silver. Brown and white petit fours were topped with yellow confection flowers.

Approximately 40 guests called between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m.

Attend Fashion Luncheon

Mrs. Don Hungerford, center, wife of the local Rotary Club president, introduced honored guests at a Friday luncheon for Rotary Ann at Big Spring Country Club. At left is Mrs. Stuart Coulter of Balboa, Calif., wife of the representative of the president of Rotary International, and at right is Mrs. Jimmy Wilson of Floydada, wife of the district governor.

Dear Abby

This Guy Is Not Too Peachy

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and Howie is 22. We aren't "engaged" or anything like that, but we sort of have an understanding. Howie never lets me know when he's going to take me out. He just drops in and expects me to be sitting home waiting for him. And I always am. I've even turned down other dates to wait for Howie. How can I break him of this habit? When I ask him to please telephone in advance he says he doesn't like to use the phone.

ALWAYS AVAILABLE
DEAR AVAILABLE: If Howie knows you're always available, why should he bother to call? When he tells you he does not like to use the phone, tell him YOU don't like to use the crystal ball, either. And the next time he drops in, manage to be "out." If you lose him, you lose him. Life with the likes of Howie doesn't sound too peachy to me.

DEAR ABBY: My wife's parents live in a town 30 miles away. We see them often and talk to them on the phone a couple of times a week. All is congenial. The problem: Perhaps twice a year her folks will call just as we are sitting down to dinner. Tonight I had served up a two-inch filet mignon with all the trimmings, something we can't afford any more often than most people. Just as we picked up our forks, the phone rang. Her folks. No emergency. Just a routine yak session.

I say my wife should tell mamma we just sat down to dinner and she would call her back. The "long distance" for 30 miles away is about 25 cents. (The price per ounce for our dinner.) The wife says she wouldn't "insult" her mother that way. This has caused some real battles. What is your opinion?

HUNGRY
DEAR HUNGRY: Why get so steamed up over something that happens only twice a year? If the la-laws call during your dinner hour, go ahead and eat, and if your wife wants to let her dinner get cold, that's her privilege.

DEAR ABBY: I recently got involved in a juvenile court and I have a question. Of all the social workers I have met, not one of them is married. I don't see how they can tell parents how to raise children when they have never had the experience of raising any themselves. I suppose they think they can raise a child by the book? Sure, there may be parts that help, but they say that experience is the best teacher. My father is 47 and he has raised five children. I am the only one who has ever been in trouble and my father hasn't read a book since seventh grade, and that was over 30 years ago. He raised us according to what he thought best. So I think he's done a pretty good job, don't you? If you can tell me how those social workers can tell kids how to stay out of trouble without having any of their own I will be satisfied. Thank you.

IN TROUBLE
DEAR IN: "Experience" may be the best teacher, but fortunately it's not the ONLY teacher. We can learn a great deal from reading about the experiences of others. Only a fool would insist on experiencing every evil in the world in order to be convinced of the consequences. Social workers don't attempt to "raise" children, they only try to encourage them to develop into their best selves.

Has A Tiger Under Hood

CLAWSON, Mich. (AP) — "Officer," said the caller, "I got a tiger under the hood of my car."

It was a live ocelot under the hood of Bruce Crandall's car, nuzzling the manifold.

Sgt. Donald Smith and Officer Fred McIntyre extracted the animal with a dog warden's pole and loop.

William Vigus of Rochester claimed the 2-year-old beast, a pet named Occie. He said the animal, a gift from his son in Nicaragua, had run off March 30.

A tropical animal, Occie often crawled under car hoods for warmth, Vigus told police in this Detroit suburb.

Winter Clothes Back In Style Up North

By The Associated Press
Winter clothes were back in style today in wide areas in the eastern half of the nation as no immediate break appeared in a spell of unseasonably cold weather.

The cold air from central Canada which covered much of the Midwest spread into New England and appeared heading into the Southland. The Weather Bureau said the chilly weather might continue for several days.

Freezing weather covered broad areas in the Midwest, including Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan, Illinois and parts of the Dakotas and Nebraska. The frost line extended across areas in Pennsylvania and New England.

One of two inches of snow fell during a six-hour period in parts of Vermont and New Hampshire as part of a belt of precipitation from the middle Atlantic coast into New England. Earlier three inches of snow fell in Pittsburgh, a record for May. The previous high for the month was 1.8 inches on May 1, 1963.

The snow covering at Lake Placid, N.Y., in the Adirondacks, was four inches and one inch fell at Albany, N.Y., Monday as snow fell in areas from northeastern Ohio across the central Appalachians and part of upstate New York and New England.

Does she know something you don't...about Frost's bread?

Might be so. She likes Frost's, but felt she should know more about its nutrition and calories. How does Frost's rate with nutritious milk, for example?

She found out, ounce for ounce, Frost's Bread has twice the protein of milk. 60% of the calcium. 13% less fat. More iron. And more B vitamins than milk.

And you know how good milk is. So Frost's nutrition impressed her. As did the fact that 2 slices average even less calories than a glass of milk.

So she now makes sure her family gets Frost's and milk every day to help them stay trim and lively. Good reason for you to serve Frost's and milk, isn't it?

Roger Maris, left, and Mickey Mantle light up the New York dressing room with big smiles Monday night after each contributed a home run to the Yankee's 3-2 defeat of the defending American League champion Minnesota Twins. Maris' 41st ft. blast in the seventh was his second homer of the year and his 250th lifetime. For Mantle, it was a 37th ft. slam into the left field stands in the fourth inning, his first of the season. And for the Yankees, it was their third win in a row. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Mantle, Maris Hit Homers In NY Win

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The M&M boys strike again. It had been a while — nearly a year — but Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris finally left their mark on the New York Yankees edging Minnesota 3-2 for their third straight victory since Ralph Houk began his second reign as manager.

Mantle hit his first home run of the season and Maris recorded his second, marking the first time since June 18, 1965, that they had connected in the same game.

The Yankee outfielders gained the label of M&M because of their torrid homer hitting that made them baseball's most awesome twosome in the first half of this decade and powered the Yankees to five consecutive American League pennants.

Last year, however, injuries reduced their effectiveness to where they combined for only 27 homers and connected in the same game only twice.

It was his poor performance in 1965 and his weak start this season that Mantle referred to Saturday night when he talked privately to Johnny Keane after the Yankees fired him and named Houk as manager.

"I just told him that I was ashamed to look him in the face," Mantle said, "because since he came here he was the only man I played for that I felt I let down in baseball."

"I really feel like I let him down. I didn't do anything while he was here, and most of the ball club didn't. I still think we have a good ball club and hope we do well. I'm just sorry that if we start going good, he's not here with us."

The Yankees are going well compared with the first 20 games of the season when they won only four times. Mantle, in particular, is going well.

While he drove in only one run in the first 18 games he played, he now has knocked in five of the 11 the Yankees have scored in their three-game winning streak.

Elsewhere in the American League, California outslugged Washington 10-7 and Kansas City whipped Boston 6-1. Cincinnati defeated Atlanta 7-4 in the only National League game. Cold weather stopped St. Louis at Chicago, rain washed out Los Angeles at Philadelphia and snow stopped San Francisco at Pittsburgh.

Mantle's homer was a 379-foot drive in the fourth inning while Maris' 419-foot blow in the seventh was the 250th of his career and tied the game 2-2. Joe Pepitone then won it for Mel Stottlemyre when he led off the ninth with a homer against Al Worthington.

Bob Rodgers and Ed Kirkpatrick each drove in three runs with a triple and a homer as the Angels made full use of their eight hits. The Senators, who had 14 hits, contributed eight walks to California's attack.

The Athletics rode a four-run fourth inning to their victory. Manny Jimenez tripled in one run and scored on a wild pitch by Boston's Pete Magrini. Jim Lonborg later came on and wild pitched another run across.

ACC, Trinity Are Favored At Arlington

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Abilene Christian and Trinity will be favored to rack up championships in the Southland Conference spring meet here Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Abilene Christian, with one of the country's top teams, is due to gallop to the track title. Strongest competition comes from Lamar Tech and Arkansas State, with Arlington State and Trinity breaking into the point column frequently.

Trinity is picked in two sports — tennis and baseball.

Trinity has swept every conference tennis title in the past two years and is 14-2 in dual matches this year. Lamar Tech is 10-3-1 and Abilene Christian 14-3. Bill Harris, Frank Conner, Lamar Roemer and Al Hill head the Trinity contingent.

Trinity, with an 18-4 record and headed by All-America pitcher Henry Blanks, will be after the baseball crown. This will be a double — elimination tournament at Turpin Stadium Thursday, Friday and Saturday with three teams — Trinity, Arkansas State and Abilene Christian — competing. Arlington State and Lamar Tech have no baseball teams.

Wholesale record — smashing appears due in the track and field meet with Clyde Gosson of Trinity expected to take down the 100 mark of 10.0 and 220 record of 21.2 and Charles Christmas to better the half-mile record of 1:52.9 and the mile mark of 4:11.4.

Lamar Tech is due to crack the mile relay record of 3:10.0, Bob Giersberg of Arlington State to ship the two-mile standard of 9:17.5, Jeff Lansdale of Arlington State to shatter the javelin record of 243-3, Gerald Williams of Lamar Tech to better the broad jump record of 23-10 and also to crack the triple jump record of 45-7 3/4.

Christmas will be aiming at the four-minute mile with a good chance of making it. He has done 4:03.2 this year.

Foster May Get Bout With Clay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A boxing match between heavyweight champion Cassius Clay and Bobby Foster of Washington is being considered by a Washington promoter, the Washington Post said today.

The newspaper quotes promoter Goldie Ahearn saying the June 14 bout at the D.C. National Guard Armory depends on the success of Clay's fight May 21 with Henry Cooper in London.

Mantle's homer was a 379-foot drive in the fourth inning while Maris' 419-foot blow in the seventh was the 250th of his career and tied the game 2-2. Joe Pepitone then won it for Mel Stottlemyre when he led off the ninth with a homer against Al Worthington.

Subdued Ali Gives London Once-Over

LONDON (AP) — It's Cass, without the gas, or Gentleman Clay — and Londoners are raising their hats to the new-look champ.

Cassius Clay hasn't been invited to Buckingham Palace yet.

But he will be meeting Prime Minister Harold Wilson for a chat at the House of Commons before his May 21 heavyweight title fight with Britain's Henry Cooper.

Clay flew into London Monday and was so polite, modest and gentlemanly he had photographers biting their lips with frustration.

"Hey, Cassius, can you just put your hand up like this?" shouted a cameraman, displaying four fingers.

"Nope, you'll say I'm making a prediction," countered Clay. Then he popped into a black Rolls-Royce with British promoter Harry Levene and drove to his London hotel where a body had to help him through the waiting crowd.

Clay was tired after his flight from Miami, Fla., via New York, which was delayed for four hours by fog. He starts training today.

Terry Pate and Alan Davis combined to pitch the Lions to an 8-4 National Little League victory over the Devils here Monday night.

The two of them surrendered five hits to the Devils. Pate got credit for the win. Davis, in addition to helping out with the pitching chores, drove out two doubles.

Stanley Shanks also collected two hits for the winners while Bob Carlisle had two for the losers.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:

FRED LORENZEN, noted race car driver, when asked what are the advantages of starting on the pole position in a race:
"For one thing, it gives the mechanics of the car a great deal of prestige. It shows they are as good as anyone, or better, at setting up a car for that particular race and track. Sitting on the pole gives a driver a good feeling. It is very satisfactory for a driver to know that he has the fastest car for pure speed, even if it isn't the overall fastest."

BOBBY JONES, the noted golfer, after returning to competition a number of years ago:

"The thrill of hitting one from the soles of my feet and the sensation of seeing the ball slap on the green was just like the old days. But the minute I walked onto the green, I got the jitters. The sight of the cup unnerved me, just as it has so many other players and will continue to do so. I think making one putt just drains the strength from the body."

JIM FREGOSI, shortstop for the California Angels, on how it is playing in the new Anaheim stadium:

"What a change from last year, playing in the new park! The only time we ever heard any cheers in Dodger Stadium was when the people with transistors yelled after the Dodgers, on the road, scored a run."

WILT THE STILL CHAMBERLAIN, shortly before Dolph Schayes was fired as coach of the Philadelphia 76ers:

"I don't see how you can possibly fire him. If I were owner I wouldn't. What reasons can you give? We won the division championship. Dolph was voted the most valuable coach in the NBA and regardless of how things came out in the playoffs against Boston, it was we, the players, who lost it, ourselves, not the coach. He didn't lose it. . . . Last year, I said I thought Schayes was not a basketball coach for the pros and I shouldn't have said it, but this year he was a good one, although I don't want to get in the middle of this."

DICK KLEIN, owner of the Chicago Bulls of the pro cage league:

"We don't want any Ferdinands on this club. What we want is the steer, or buffalo type with a tiger strain running through."

JIM MURRAY, Los Angeles columnist:

"Cassius Clay is taking his act to England next. He's going to fight 'Ammering' Enery Cooper, the guy who has so many stitches in his face that if you look close, you can see Warren Gilex' signature on it. 'Ammering' Enery owes his success to the fact that his blood clots. Ringsiders bring their umbrellas when he fights. He's working on a winning streak of 11 straight sparring partners. He put Cassius on the deck the last time they met but Cassius was arguing with a ringsider at the time. 'Enery normally sees so little of his opponent in the ring that he not only can't hit him, he can't even identify a picture of him the next day."

A tennis enthusiast, on why he prefers that game over golf as a hobby:

"I never saw an unhappy tennis player or a happy golfer."

GEORGE ALLEN, new coach of the Los Angeles Rams:
"The world thrives on offense. Everybody devotes most of his lifetime planning to get ahead. Offense spells progress. It takes pride as well as character to plan defense. Defense takes 116 per cent. It requires a little extra to begrudge your opponent every yard he gets."

BOBBY DODD, Georgia Tech football mentor, in an obvious reference to arch rival Alabama:

"A few college coaches who are unusual individuals have found that a lesser team can beat a superior team simply by being real tough. Because of the success of these coaches, other coaches are being faced with either fielding teams that will be intimidated by the super-tough opponents, or else making practice so rugged that college boys do not want to play the game. The real problem is on the practice field, not the day of the game. We have officials to control the degree of roughness and toughness during a game. But we have no officials at practice. You can get just as tough as you want to there. We feel like we at Tech are coaching tough enough to compete without joining the super-tough trend."

Steers Oppose Abilene Today

Johnny McCullough may get the mound call for Big Spring when the Steers go against the Abilene High Eagles in a District 2-AAAA baseball game at 4 p.m. here today.

KRAFT DOG FOOD $4.99 50-LB. BAG EDWARDS PHILLIPS 66 3111 02000

The Longhorns will be trying to snap a six-game losing skid and have a chance to deadlock the visitors for seventh place in the standings.

McCullough hasn't seen much mound service this season but is being pressed into service because of the injury suffered by Lefty Bobby Griffin last week.

In their first collision this season, Abilene succeeded in turning back Big Spring by a score of 5-2. In their most recent start, the Steers dropped a 2-0 verdict to the Midland Bulldogs while Abilene was yielding to Odessa High, 3-2.

David Richardson, who beat San Angelo last time out, will likely take the pitching rubber for Abilene.

Probable starters for Abilene include Terry Knight behind the plate, Billy Marshall at first base, Phillip Robinson at shortstop, Tommy Woodard at third base, Forrest Lane in left field, Brian Harper in center field and Jimmy Shirley in right.

Shirley is leading the Eagles in batting against district foes with a .400, second only to Permian's Charles Lacy. Harper is averaging .314 for the War Birds.

Anderson's 288 mark tops the Big Spring hitters while Roberts is 174 far behind with a .371 mark.

The Steers wind up their home season here Thursday against Abilene Cooper. They go to San Angelo Saturday.

BS Tire Is 4-0 Winner Over Morton

Big Spring Tire inflicted the first defeat of the season on Morton's Foods in American Softball league play at the City Park Monday night, winning by a score of 4-0.

In other action, Montgomery Ward applied the whammy to Webb AFB, finishing on the long end of a 6-4 tally.

Jerry Don Paige outduelled Cotton Mine to notch the win for Big Spring Tire, limiting the Morton's team to two hits. Both of those were driven out by Jack Blizzard.

Tommy Young chabbed a home run with Paige on board in the second inning to get Big Spring Tire all the working margin it needed.

Roy New scored an unearned run for the winners in the fourth while Joe Mathis crossed the plate in the seventh.

Paige fanned eight and walked only one.

Montgomery Ward rose up to crowd four runs across the plate in the second with the help of only two hits. Tex Malmond and Bobby Suggs lashed triples in the rout.

Troy Wetzel fashioned a stylish one-hitter for Ward's, yielding that lone blow to Don Morgan in the fourth.

Wetzel fanned 14 and surrendered three bases on balls. Suggs was the only player on either team to get two hits.

Every time the Astros take the field this year, they figure they are going to win. This was not always the case during the past four seasons. The players have confidence in themselves and in each other.

The performances of shortstop Sonny Jackson, first baseman Jim Gentile, catcher John Bateman, and pitchers Mike Cuellar and Barry Latman are certainly important reasons for the fine early showing of the Astros.

All five had been very much in the question mark stage before the season started, and all have performed admirably.

"If we are to improve this year, we have got to get better defensive play at short, more run production from our first baseman and catcher and more consistent pitching," were the words of manager Grady Hatton before the season. And what Hatton wanted; Hatton got, so far.

Jackson's range at short, his ability to get on base and his

Herman Franks Draws Blast From Cepeda

CHICAGO (AP) — Orlando Cepeda, one of the season's biggest trade baits, finally has been nipped off.

At first, the 25-year-old slugger, who swatted 228 homers for the San Francisco Giants, was bitter about being sent to the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday for left-handed pitcher Ray Sadecki. But he was expected to be an first base for the Cardinals today in their game with the Chicago Cubs.

His start was delayed when cold weather postponed Monday's contest.

Cepeda said Herman Franks, Giants' manager, "wanted to trade me badly," especially after he had knee surgery in 1964. "Franks told me to show what

I could do when I came to spring training this year in good shape and anxious to work," said Cepeda. "I played in 1962 for Franks as a rookie, and now he wanted me to prove myself."

"I realized that Willie McCovey or I had to go eventually. Franks said McCovey was a better first baseman than me and that's that."

The Giants said they traded Cepeda because they needed a left-handed pitcher and they had a duplication at first base with McCovey there.

Cepeda, a month ago, nearly came to the Cubs in a deal that would have sent southpaw hurler Dick Ellisworth to the Giants.

"Cepeda then wasn't available to us on the terms the Cardinals obtained him," said Cub Vice President John Holland.

"Horace Stoneham (Giants' owner) just would not part with him at that time. But now somebody convinced Stoneham that all the Giants need to win the pennant is a top rated starting left-handed pitcher. And I guess they got him in Sadecki."

Franks said in Pittsburgh that he rates Cepeda "a fine ball player and a good first baseman ... and I think he will help the Cardinals tremendously."

Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst was elated with the trade.

Astros Best They've Seen, Insist Atlanta Baseballers

HOUSTON — Are the Houston Astros for real? Are they really the most improved team in the National League?

If you ask the Atlanta Braves these questions, the answers would be in the affirmative.

After the Astros took two out of three from the Braves in Atlanta, one Braves' official stated, "The Astros are the best club we've seen this year." And that's a pretty fair statement when you consider that the Braves had already played the Giants, Dodgers, Pirates, Phillies and Mets.

"Your club has really improved," said Atlanta Manager Bobby Fagan. They're doing a lot more things than they did last year. You've got considerably more speed and some pretty fair power. If the pitching of Cuellar, Latman and Gussit continues, you'll could prove to be real tough."

What is responsible for this newly gained respect?

There are many reasons, but team attitude, pitching, and more production from the shortstop, first base and catching positions would have to be at the top of the list.

Every time the Astros take the field this year, they figure they are going to win. This was not always the case during the past four seasons. The players have confidence in themselves and in each other.

The performances of shortstop Sonny Jackson, first baseman Jim Gentile, catcher John Bateman, and pitchers Mike Cuellar and Barry Latman are certainly important reasons for the fine early showing of the Astros.

All five had been very much in the question mark stage before the season started, and all have performed admirably.

"If we are to improve this year, we have got to get better defensive play at short, more run production from our first baseman and catcher and more consistent pitching," were the words of manager Grady Hatton before the season. And what Hatton wanted; Hatton got, so far.

Jackson's range at short, his ability to get on base and his base running have been a key to the Astros' over-all performance. Jackson, leads the league with seven stolen bases and at this current rate, he would steal over 60 bases. If he should continue at near his .285 batting average, he could prove to be one of the most valuable players in the league.

The combination of Jackson and second baseman Joe Morgan is clicking off double plays at a league-leading rate. They have notched 20 double plays in 19 games.

It should also be added here that Morgan, who leads the club in hitting with a .377 average and may be on his way to the All-Star's second base position, has improved his pivot and throwing on the double play due to a tip from Manager Grady Hatton. Hatton has convinced Morgan that he can get more on his throws to first if he will plant his right foot solidly before throwing rather than trying to throw while still in the air.

Diamond Jim Gentile, the Astros' costliest ball player, who was a big disappointment in 1965, seems to have found his old groove and leads the club in home runs with five and has driven in ten runs. Astros' first baseman hit home runs in four consecutive games, Thursday through Sunday, with Gentile collecting three and rookie Chuck Harrison one.

Bateman, the big backstop who has always had potential leads the club in RBI's, and has had only one base stolen on him in the last 16 games.

Cuellar, the Cuban lefty has been the most pleasant surprise, turning in three straight sterling mound appearances and leads the league with an 0.32 ERA. In his last 47 innings as an Astro pitcher, he has permitted just two earned runs.

Henkle Blow Fells Jets

Billy Henkle's one-out, one-on home run in the sixth inning enabled the Cabots to charge from behind and topple the Jets, 3-2, in an American Little League encounter here Monday night.

Henkle's dramatic blow arrived with Gregg Knight on board. Knight had doubled.

The blow came at the expense of Steve Baker, who had limited the Cabots to two hits until the final inning.

Cabot scored its other run in the first round when Scott Cartile walked and eventually made it home on a one-baser by David Carter.

Carter, tagged for five hits by the opposition, received credit for the victory.

First place in the league will be at stake tonight, when the Pirates go against the Stars. Both teams are undefeated.

And one big reason is that he will be rejoining Detroit Tiger Manager Charley Dressen, whom Podres broke in under as a rookie with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers announced Monday they had traded Podres to the Tigers for an unnamed player and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Podres has never played for any team but the Dodgers; first in Brooklyn and later in Los Angeles.

Vet Elated Over Trade

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Veteran left-hander Johnny Podres of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who has been a National League pitcher for his entire 13-year major league career, is excited over the prospects of moving into the American League.

Podres has never played for any team but the Dodgers; first in Brooklyn and later in Los Angeles.

Mentally Ill Successfully Treated While At Home

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Substantial success was reported today for a pioneering effort in home treatment of severely ill, elderly psychiatric patients by mobile teams of mental health personnel. Described by a Boston psychiatrist, the venture obviously offers one approach to help less a possible strain on public and private mental hospitals when the Medicare program for the nation's oldest becomes effective this summer.

Dr. Dana M. Sheldon, associate director of the Psychiatric Home Treatment Service, Boston State Hospital, told about it in a report to the 122nd annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association.

Declaring the service is "a pioneering venture in community psychiatry in this country" — and that it is modeled on the "highly successful mobile psychiatric units" originated in Europe — D.R. Sheldon gave this account of the Boston program and its results:

Police Rule Out Skyhouse

NEW YORK (AP) — The tower of the Williamsburg Bridge — 325 feet above the East River — is no place to build a clubhouse. Three young boys learned that the hard way.

The youngsters, Tony Rivers, 12, Edward Galan, 12, and Ismet Muhaneta, 11, began lugging lumber to the bridge tower Monday afternoon. A pedestrian saw them and notified police.

All they wanted, they told the authorities, was their own private little skyclub that couldn't be touched by other youngsters.

The police escorted the boys down from the tower to a police station, where their parents picked them up.

The service serves the entire Dorchester section of Boston — a community of 180,000 persons — utilizing a staff of two psychiatrists, two social workers, four registered nurses, one occupational therapist, plus residents in psychiatry and students of nursing and social work.

A special study was made of 50 patients over 60 years of age during a 17-month period — and it was found that approximately 75 per cent "were successfully managed in the community" without need for referral to a hospital.

"The results of this study are extremely significant," Sheldon reported, "because they show that, despite severe psychiatric illness, most elderly patients can be managed without hospitalization."

But he said the study also pointed up two prime requirements for continued success:

1. An "ally" in the patient's family who will cooperate with the visiting, mobile team is virtually indispensable.
2. The combination of medical and psychiatric illness — so common in the over-60 group — presents "serious problems during home treatment." Thus, there is a "need for a more medical team approach to the comprehensive psychiatric care of geriatric patients in the community."

Fascinating TV Document By Johnson

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Lyndon Baines Johnson's central Texas hills and the rich valley of the little Pedernales River—"a place where I could come and refill my cup, so to speak, and recharge myself for the more difficult days ahead" were shown to the nation Monday night. The President himself explained what it means to him.

"The Hill Country; Lyndon Johnson's Texas" was NBC's special program and the President, in a reminiscent mood, acted as tour guide in a camera trip that took viewers from the house in which he was born to the Johnsons' plot in a nearby cemetery.

"My first memory is on the banks of this river," said the President waving toward the Pedernales. "I remember running down and putting my feet in the water and watching the fish when I was 4 years old."

The President drove his car along the white dirt roads of the south central Texas strip called the hill country, pointing out the old field stone fort where his grandfather and other settlers swayed Indian raids. He took us to the house where he was born, even showed the bed in which he arrived before a doctor could get there.

The tour included visits with his first school teacher and the one-room schoolhouse he attended, and a favorite hangout, the Johnson City chili parlor. But the most interesting portions of the program came when the President was speaking with a warmth and informal manner about this homeland he loves.

"I feel comfortable here," he said. "I'm at home here. It gives me a serenity."

The hour program is a fascinating television document. Never before have we had this kind of a leisurely, spontaneous record.

Recommended tonight: "CBS Reports," 10-11 EST, "UFO: Friend, Foe or Fantasy," a report on the latest epidemic of sightings of unidentified flying objects.

Researchers Surprised At Response Of Book

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Two researchers who wrote a text on sex physiology have been flooded with hundreds of letters since the book was released three weeks ago.

Dr. William H. Masters and a psychologist, Virginia E. Johnson, wrote "Human Sexual Response." The book is based on an 11-year laboratory study at Washington University of sexual stimulation in 694 men and women.

Masters said about 30 per cent of the mail is divided evenly among unsigned crank criticism, honest disagreement, and encouragement. He said the other 70 per cent comes from people with problems of sexual inadequacy.

"In our age it takes courage to admit sexual problems," Masters said. "It has been our experience that after people gather their courage to write us once, they probably won't again unless they are directed toward help in the immediate future."

Mail to the Reproductive Biology Research Foundation, which the team helped to create, has increased measurably since their book's publication in April.

"We are amazed at the response to the book," Masters said. "It was totally unexpected, not only for us but the publishers. They were not prepared for it either. The text was written primarily for the medical and behavioral professions."

Balloon Soars To High Mark

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A huge, high-altitude research balloon launched at Palestine, Tex., rose to 109,000 feet and remained aloft for almost 10 hours.

University of Michigan scientists said the flight allowed a test of a series of instruments to be used on satellites.

The instruments are designed to measure temperatures of the earth and other planets.

Prof. Frederick L. Artman, project engineer in charge of the experiment, said the 20-story high balloon was sent up at sunrise Sunday.

illustrated and written in the matter-of-fact technical language of the scientist, describes bodily processes during sexual relations. A glossary of terms is at the rear of the 365-page volume. The textbook was published by Little Brown and Co. of Boston, Mass.

"I hope people who buy the book will read it," said Masters. "But there is an awful lot of dry reading that will be skipped by those not interested in basic physiology."

Royalties from the book sales will be divided equally among the research foundation, Masters and Mrs. Johnson.

For 18 months, the two scientists have been studying data for a second volume, "Human Sexual Inadequacy." This book will involve clinical applications of their earlier findings.

J. S. Bridwell Dies Monday

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—J. S. Bridwell, philanthropist, cattleman, oilman and agriculture leader, died here Monday following a long illness. He was 81.

Bridwell, a resident of Wichita Falls since 1908, was instrumental in the location of Shepard Air Force Base, the largest Air Force technical training base in the world, here.

His gifts to charitable organizations were many. He spent many hours and contributed money to local improvement groups and helped establish the Bridwell Coal Builders Award Program for agricultural work. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the First Methodist Church.

Bridwell Oil Co., which he formed here in 1927, reached into six states and was one of the largest independent producing oil companies in the Southwest.
