MEMORIALS FROM GOLD STAR MOTHERS AND VETERANS
Four new wreaths solemn reminder of freedom's cost in Viet Nam

Carr Blasts Appeasement In Memorial Day Tribute

A call for the country to continue to produce brave and honorable men "who will speak up for a nation that loves peace so much that it will risk destruction to preserve it" came Sunday at the city's traditional Memorial Day ceremony.

The speaker was Waggoner Carr, Texas attorney general, who struck at appeasement as he paid tribute to those who have given their lives for their country during time of war.

Some 500 to 600 people gathered at the Veterans Administration Hospital entrance under a warming sun to join in the Memorial Day tribute. It was marked by honors to Gold Star Mothers, the laying of symbolic wreaths at the foot of the flagpole, and by patriotic hymns and prayers.

TRAGIC LESSONS
Carr noted that the cause of freedom is never completely won. It must be, he said, defended constantly, courageously and vigorously. He continued: "When the final cross has been laid in the last cemetery, once again there will be those at home to whom conciliation is more important than freedom . . . who will insist with sweet voices of reasonableness and appeasement . . . that it is better to look the other way while the enemies of freedom sweep across the world."

"To those who have died defending this freedom, let us promise: 'We shall not forget the tragic lessons we have learned from past experiences."

BETTER TO DIE
The attorney general noted that twice in our nation's history we learned that by ignoring events in distant lands, that the philosophy of isolation, would not prevent what we sought most to avoid — world war.

Said Carr: "The brave men and women to whom we pay tribute today knew it was better to die than to live enslaved — better to die than to be on your knees in subjection to a foreign power."

"We, the living, have a charge to keep. We need men who, regardless of the consequences, will show us the way which leads to freedom; men who will direct our footsteps through the darkness and into the sun. And yes, we need brave and honorable men to quiet the voices of appeasement."

BUILD UNITY.
Our debt to the war dead, he said, can never be repaid, "but if we would try to repay it, we should dedicate ourselves to the task of building unity in our nation and to the building of our strength so that we, for them, can face the world unafraid."

Carr opened his address with tribute to the men and women whose graves are scattered over the world. The flag which flies over the graves, he said, does not speak of their station in their life; it states clearly that all men who rest in these graves were our defenders.

IMPRESSIVE
The Memorial Day program, for the fifth year, was sponsored by the military service organizations and the VA Hospital. It was a brief but impressive affair, with the presentation of the colors by the Webb AFB color guard, the laying of the wreaths, and the playing of taps.

Big Spring High School Band and a cappella choir with Douglas Wiebe and Mel Ivey directing, gave numbers, and pledge of allegiance was led by Wayne Oglesby, Youth Achievement winner.

PROGRAM
Dr. Halvard T. Hansen was master of ceremonies, introduced Carr, and made closing remarks, in which he called upon the younger generation to note the sacrifices that had been made by generations before them.

Donald D. Van Meter, VA Hospital director, welcomed the crowd. Prayers were offered by the Rev. Leo Gee, and Chaplain C. O. Hitt of the VA staff.

Attorney General Carr was accompanied here by his wife and son, and members of his staff. They flew in from Austin Sunday morning, were entertained at a coffee at the Hansen home, and at lunch by the Van Meters. The party returned to Austin late Sunday afternoon, after Carr had toured the hospital.

Motorists Jam Roads As Toll Starts Climb

The toll of highway deaths continued to rise today as holiday motorists jammed the nation's roads and began returning from outings at parks, lakes, mountains and seashores.

Traffic fatalities numbered 428 throughout the country at mid-day today, a figure, the National Safety Council said, that was considerably above the anticipated rate of deaths for the three-day weekend.

The council previously revised its estimates and predicted 540 persons would lose their lives on the nation's thoroughfares during the 78-hour period which began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ends midnight today.

California's massive freeway system and its preponderance of automobiles had resulted in 37 deaths, more than any other single state.

Drownings took 67 lives, seven of them in South Carolina, and boating caused the death of 29 persons.

Last year a record 474 deaths were counted in traffic accidents for a three-day Memorial Day weekend. The worst Memorial Day traffic fatality record was set during the four-day 1963 holiday when 525 persons died.

The worst toll on record was established during the three-day Christmas period last year when 720 persons died.

The lowest death toll for a three-day Memorial Day weekend came in 1948 when 294 persons died.

For comparative purposes The Associated Press made a nonholiday traffic fatality survey from 6 p.m. Friday May 13, 1966, to midnight, Monday May 16. The traffic death toll was 376 for the same 78-hour period of the current holiday weekend.

The nation's death toll on streets and highways was 49,000 last year, a record. Traffic accidents in the first three months of 1966 totaled 10,710, a 7 per cent increase over a similar 1965 period, the safety council reported.

Nation Honors Its War Dead

The nation honored its war dead today with ceremonies and parades across the country and brief services in Viet Nam.

President Johnson placed a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery, and in a speech paid special tribute to men killed in the cold war since 1945 from Greece to Viet Nam.

REPRESENTS ALL
"These men represent all those Americans who have risked their lives — and lost them — in the peace-building efforts since 1945," Johnson said, after naming the first men killed in Greece, Berlin, Korea, the Formosa Strait, Cuba and Viet Nam.

In Saigon, the commander of U.S. military forces in Viet Nam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, made an impromptu talk at brief Memorial Day services. The Marine commander in South Viet Nam, Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, told a ceremony in Da Nang that Americans are there "for a very solemn and meaningful purpose — freedom in Viet Nam."

PLEA FOR PEACE
In proclaiming the holiday this year, the President's plea for peace was coupled with a determination to fight on in Viet Nam.

"This nation has never left the field of battle in abject surrender of a cause for which it has fought," he said. "We shall not do so now."

At Valley Forge, Pa., the Freedoms Foundation dedicates 52 acres which it owns as a Medal of Honor grove, where living trees will be marked with the names of soldiers who won the award.

The foundation's Freedom Leadership Medal on this holiday goes to Army Capt. Roger H.C. Donlon, of Saugerties, N.Y., first winner of the Medal of Honor of the Viet Nam war.

FOUR TIMES
Donlon was wounded four times two years ago during a five-hour battle near the Laotian border. Ignoring first aid, Donlon continued to hurl grenades at the enemy and saved his wounded comrades.

At Albuquerque, N.M., a reproduction of the Tomb of the Unknowns was erected at Bataan Park. The service features the four chaplains who gave their life preservers to servicemen and went down together on the troop transport USS Dorchester sunk off Greenland Feb. 3, 1943.

In Andersonville, Ga., National Cemetery, Pfc. Jimmy L. Williams, a Negro soldier killed in Viet Nam, was to be buried with full military honors. His mother had rejected cemetery sites in his hometown of Wetumpka, Ala.

"I do not want my son buried in an out-of-the-way place for unknown people," Mrs. Williams said. "He was not unknown. He died for you and many other people."

LBJ Deplores Suicides By Viet Monks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson deplored the protest suicides of Buddhists in South Viet Nam today and warned that representative government can never come to that strife-torn nation unless the people "keep their internal quarrels and differences within bounds."

(Shortly before the President spoke, sources in Saigon reported that a young Buddhist monk had burned himself to death there. It was the third suicide by Buddhists reported today.)

In a Memorial Day speech at Arlington National Cemetery, Johnson expressed belief that progress is being made in Viet Nam toward "a government that will increasingly reflect the true will of its people."

But he added: "It is tragic, in the present turmoil, that some choose acts of desperation to express their political beliefs."

"This unnecessary loss of life only obscures the progress being made toward a constitutional government. It only clouds the sacrifice of thousands of lives already made for the cause of independence and political hope in South Viet Nam."

The speech in the amphitheater behind the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, was timed to follow a tribute by Johnson to the dead of America's wars—the laying of a wreath on the tomb at 11 a.m. EDT.

Johnson opened his speech by listing American servicemen who died in various cold war actions. He said, "These men represent all those Americans who have risked their lives—and lost them—in the peace-building efforts since 1945."

At Memorial services Sunday, the President listened to Dr. George R. Davis praise the good deeds of U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

Young Buddhist Monk Burns Himself To Death

SAIGON (AP)—A 17-year-old Buddhist monk was reported to have burned himself to death tonight at Saigon's main Buddhist Institute.

The body of the youth was inside a building in the institute compound when newsmen arrived on the scene, but monks said he had died a few minutes earlier near the main gate to the grounds of the institute.

The monks identified him as Thich Quang Thanh, and said he had been studying at a school for monks in Saigon.

There was no immediate word whether the youth had left letters, but it was assumed the fiery death was another in the Buddhist campaign to bring down the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

WEST TEXAS LEFT OUT OF SPECIFIC PROPOSALS

Statewide Water Plan Is Released

AUSTIN (AP)—A tentative statewide water plan, calling for multi-billion dollar construction of 53 new reservoirs and a 990-mile north-south diversion system by the year 2020, was proposed today by the Texas Water Development Board.

The board released a 32-page summary of its long-awaited plan, which will total more than 400 pages. Revisions may be made after hearings in all the state's river basins this summer.

REQUESTED
Gov. John Connally requested the plan, aimed at meeting the state's water needs over the next half century.

The governor and board director Joe G. Moore planned to brief legislators on the document Monday afternoon (3 p.m.). Specific proposals are concentrated almost entirely in East and South Texas, but several broad recommendations are made for West Texas, including long-distance water movement from the northwestern United States or the Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

Estimated cost of new reservoirs, water transfer facilities, aqueducts and irrigation distribution systems proposed by the plan is $2.73 billion.

DIVERSION SYSTEM
The most striking feature of the plan is the 990-mile diversion system, which would use a system of reservoirs, existing river basins, canals and pumping stations to transfer water from East Texas, through the Dallas-Fort Worth area and south to the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

This system is designated the "State Water Project," which accounts for $1.56 billion of the total estimated construction cost.

Also proposed is modification of Texarkana, Lake O' the Pines, Bridgeport, Lavon, Kemp and Blackburn Crossing reservoirs—several of which are already undergoing enlargement—and erection of two salt water barriers.

IRRIGATE VALLEY
Projects recommended in the plan would supply water to irrigate an additional 830,000 acres in the Coastal Bend and Lower Rio Grande Valley.

The plan recommends construction or modification of 21 reservoirs between 1967 and 1979, 10 between 1980 and 1990 and 15 between 1990 and 2020. Nine projects are now scheduled for construction.

The first stage (1967-1979) projects are the proposed Cooper, Cuero I and II, Goliad, Palmetto Bend, Cibolo, Confluence, Aubrey, Lakeview, Columbus Bend, Garcitas, Stephenville, Cloptin Crossing, Aquilla Creek, Millican, Brownwood replacement, Lockhart, Breckenridge, Bois D'Arc, Lake O' the Pines modification, Kilgore No. 2 and Timber Creek.

PURPOSES
—The plan sets forth these purposes:

(1) "To place Texas in a position to judge the merits of proposed federal projects so profound in potential impact that they could, in fact, commit the direction of Texas water resource and economic development for the next century."

(2) "To place the state of Texas in a position to moderate local and regional competition for water resources."

(3) "To move the state toward its objectives of continued growth and the satisfaction of every citizen's just desire for an equitable share of the state's natural resources."

"For the first time the entire state was examined in the light of water availability and requirements projected into the next century . . . for the first time ground water is given extensive attention. . . Water requirements for quality control and recreation are considered," the report says.

"Possibilities of importing water into Texas from other states and even other countries were explored, and those explorations continue with respect to a water supply for West Texas." Requirements for municipal and industrial water were estimated at 2,580,376 acre-feet in 1960, 6,514,300 acre-feet in 1990 and 12,067,500 acre-feet in 2020. An acre-foot is 325,851 gallons. Irrigation requirements are shown as steadily diminishing.

NO TRANSPORT
No East Texas water is recommended for transport to West Texas. The report states there is not sufficient surplus water in East Texas "in excess of (See WATER PLAN, P. 7-B, C. 1)

Rev. Hungerford Going To Odessa

The Rev. Donald Hungerford, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church for the past 6½ years, told his congregation Sunday that he will become rector of St. John's Episcopal Church at Odessa on Sept. 1.

He said that the decision to accept the new assignment has developed in the past two weeks. He was offered the post on May 15, and after investigating the potentials, he decided to accept it.

St. John's has a membership of 1,200. It is the only Episcopal Church in Odessa. Rev. Hungerford will replace the Rev. Lawrence Berry, who is leaving to take a church in Toronto, Canada.

Rev. Hungerford will have two assistants at his new church. He said that the opportunity and the challenge offered by the larger church in a bigger city influenced him to change.

Wesley Deats, head of the vestry here, said a successor will be chosen subject to the approval of the bishop.

The church here has a membership of 600. It is now engaged in a major building program to provide a new sanctuary to seat 325 persons. It is slated for completion in July. Mr. Hungerford has been a leader in the work to build the new annex to the church. The church is housed in a new home it occupied in 1958.

During his tenure here the church has virtually doubled its membership, has established a parochial elementary school, and has cleared the indebtedness on the original plant at Tenth and Goliad.

Rev. Hungerford is a native of Connecticut. He received a bachelor of arts degree from Trinity College in Hartford and a S.T.B. from Berkley Divinity School. He was curate at Manchester, Conn., in 1954 and 1955 and vicar of St. John's Episcopal Church in Snyder from 1955 to 1959 when he came to Big Spring.

He has been active in civic affairs here. He is currently president of the Big Spring Rotary Club — his term expiring next month. He is a member of the board of directors of the YMCA.

He has held offices in the Pastors Association and has served as interim chaplain for the Big Spring State Hospital for two intervals.

He and his wife, with their four children, live at 901 Dal-las.

He said he will begin preparations to move to Odessa soon. "I advised my vestry of my plans as far ahead of the date when I will leave," he said, "in order that they might have as much time to agree on a successor as possible."

He said he has enjoyed his 6½ years in Big Spring and that he would regret leaving.

$1 Million Paintings

Unions Step Up Demands

LONDON (AP) — British trade unions are increasing their opposition to the Labor government's campaign to limit wage increases.

As the merchant seamen's strike entered its third week, union leaders and left-wing Laborite legislators assailed the government for assuming emergency powers to meet a threat to the nation's food supply.

The union heads and legislators warned Prime Minister Harold Wilson the working man and his unions brought him to power and they could also turn him out.

They charged the government was infringing on labor's rights to bargain collectively.

Some Laborites said Wilson seemed determined to make the seamen's strike a test case of his battle to control wages and prices.

What is it all about?

Britain's economy has been unhealthy for years. Rising prices -wiping traditional export markets for British industry. With imports booming, the British were buying abroad more than they were earning.

An inflationary situation has existed for years, brought on by a shortage of workers. The shortage resulted in a steady stream of wage increases followed by price increases to pay them.

The Labor government said the vicious circle had to be broken if Britain was to survive economically and get the balance of payments out of the red. A national five-year plan was drafted. A cardinal point is that wage raises should be held to between 3 and 3½ per cent in any year, except in cases of manifest inequality or hardship.

A Prices and Incomes Board was set up. Both labor and management agreed, grudgingly, to submit to the board's judgment on wages and prices.

But every union felt its case for a raise was one of hardship or manifest inequality and chafed under the long investigation by the Prices and Incomes Board.

The government held the line until April, when it gave a 33 per cent pay increase to the doctors working under the state medical program. That was the break in the dike, and the seamen's demand for a 17 per cent raise came flooding through. More demands are expected to follow.

Billy Graham's Crusade To Begin Wednesday

LONDON (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham comes to London soon for a month-long crusade. His headquarters overlooking busy Piccadilly Circus is at high pitch in the climax to two years of preparations.

Fosters are going up heralding the event, pamphlets are going out, and London's double-decker buses carry signs from front to back telling about the Crusade, which starts June 1.

A closed circuit television network is set to carry Graham's sermons to audiences in at least eight other cities.

Graham says London offers the greatest challenge for evangelism of any city in the world.

"If a crusade is blessed in London, it can touch the world," he has said. "It can influence the continent of Europe, the whole British Commonwealth, India, South Africa, and can have an effect back home."

With closed circuit television, it is hoped his total audience will reach one million.

Forced Revision Of NATO Is Getting More Attention

WASHINGTON (AP) — The forced revision of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Western Europe's military shield, is beginning to share more and more congressional attention with the war in Vietnam.

But the mood of Congress on the NATO issue is as varied as the opinions of foreign affairs experts who have come before its committees to attempt to tell what France's decision to withdraw its troops really means.

"It won't mean anything militarily," some have testified.

"The most serious event in European history since the end of the war," said U.S. Ambassador to France Charles S. Bohlen.

"Make no mistake," says Rep. Edna F. Kelly, D-N.Y. "There'll always be a stronger NATO."

But in her view, and in the view of most witnesses appearing before her House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, a change is needed — and coming — for NATO.

"It's unfortunate," Mrs. Kelly says of the withdrawal decision by French President Charles de Gaulle. "Unfortunately, but necessary. We've known it was coming for eight years."

The "restructuring" of NATO, as she put it in an interview, should be looked upon "as an opportunity."

"After all," she asserted, "we built up Europe to defend itself. Now we can sit down and say, 'OK, let's see how you want it and we'll see how we stand.'"

Mrs. Kelly's subcommittee plans to conclude its hearings on "the crisis in NATO" June 13 with a summation appearance by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

In the Senate, the Foreign Relations Committee plans its own inquiry.

Witnesses before the House committee have included former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Bohlen, Undersecretary of State George Ball, former Assistant Secretary of State Robert Murphy, and a dozen other ranking experts in the field of foreign affairs.

All agreed that NATO will continue and that it is needed as a shield against potential Soviet Union aggression.

To Mrs. Kelly, the future NATO will have to give consideration to the political as well as strategic military problems.

Ready For Viet Nam

Airmen Gary Lucas, left, and James Roddam load cartons of reading matter for GI's in Viet Nam Friday. Helping stamp the cartons are Mrs. Robert F. Knight and Mrs. Bobby Suggs, members of the Zeta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, a women's organization which has been gathering magazines to be sent to Viet Nam for several months. The big panel truck was filled two and a half times. The material was taken from Mrs. Knight's residence at Webb Air Force Base, where it will be stored until a plane is available to fly it to the Southeast Asian country.

Negroes Hope For Heavy, Bloc Vote

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Negroes seeking office in Tuesday's runoff primary in Alabama put their hopes today on a bloc vote and a heavy turnout of newly registered Negro voters.

Otherwise, the 26 Negro candidates running for seats in the legislature, or for state or local office, face the prospect of defeat even in counties where Negroes have a voting majority.

The runoff will determine the Democratic nominees for state, congressional and county office where no candidate received a majority of the votes in the primary May 3.

In 16 of the state's 67 counties — most of them in the soil-rich black belt where the civil rights struggle was centered last year — Negroes are running against white opponents.

In Bullock, Greene, Hale, Macon and Perry counties, Negro chances are mathematically excellent, if Negro voters turn out in full force and if they all vote for the candidates of their race. Negroes have a voting majority in those counties.

Elsewhere, the prospects are slimmer because white voters still have control.

But in Macon, the only county thus far with elected Negro officials, there is evidence of a split in the ranks which could defeat some Negro candidates.

One Negro leader, the Rev. K. L. Buford, has openly endorsed the white sheriff, Harvey Sadler, who is seeking renomination against Negro challenger Lucius Amerson.

Buford, one of two Negroes elected to the Tuskegee City Council two years ago, said quite a number of other Negroes are supporting Sadler.

The Negro minister is vice president of the politically influential Tuskegee Civic Association although, he says, the organization itself has made no endorsement.

There were indications that a split in the Negro forces brought the defeat of Negro candidates for sheriff in two other counties, Greene and Wilcox, on May 3. The white sheriffs in both counties were renominated even though Negroes outnumber white residents on the voting lists.

A Negro attorney, Fred Gray of Tuskegee, appears to have the best chance to win a seat in the all-white legislature.

Calls Movement 'Just A Fad'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The president of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary says the "God is Dead" movement is a fad that evolved from "a little game for an 'in' group of theologians."

In a tongue-in-cheek article in the seminary's news magazine The Tie, Dr. Duke K. McCall suggested a "Devil is Alive" movement to counter the death of God theory.

"Perhaps the attempted humor of this article is in bad taste," Dr. McCall wrote, "but then, this whole 'death of God' movement is a dirty joke."

Time Short For Money Bill Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Time is getting short for congressional action on the annual money bill needed to run the government in fiscal 1967, which begins July 1, a month away.

Thus far, only five of the dozen or more annual appropriations have cleared the House, only two of these have been passed by the Senate, and only one has reached President Johnson's desk for signing into law.

The President's $112.8-billion budget for the next fiscal year is split into small packages for annual congressional consideration.

So far only the Interior Department funding has cleared Congress. A Treasury-Post Office measure awaits adjustment of Senate-House differences.

Most senators and representatives left Capitol Hill for the Memorial Day weekend with only a few sessions planned Tuesday.

The Senate faces two controversies starting Wednesday. A modified "truth in packaging" bill that would set federal standards for labeling weight and size of food containers, drugs, cosmetics and household supplies has been pending for days.

It won approval of the Senate Commerce Committee last week after numerous compromises but Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen wants additional examination by the Senate Judiciary Committee. That has been a graveyard for similar bills in the past.

Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., a member of the Commerce Committee, supports the bill's labeling and weight provisions but is fighting proposed federal directives on sizes and shapes of packages.

The other expected floor battle may come over efforts of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to add three of its members to the existing select seven-member panel that oversees the Central Intelligence Agency.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., veteran chairman of this watchdog group, is opposing the expansion which he says is unwieldy and unnecessary.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Foreign Relations Committee and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., are pressing for a showdown on the issue.

The House considers Tuesday a Senate-passed bill proposing treatment and cure for certain narcotic addicts instead of jail and prison terms.

Wednesday the House will call up a $17.5-billion military procurement authorization. It includes $531 million for items not sought by the administration and some $600 million more than voted by the Senate when it passed the annual measure. House committees voted the additional funds.

Russian Fleet Not Netting Coastal Salmon

WESTPORT, Wash. (AP) — The commander of a Russian fishing fleet operating off the Washington coast says his flotilla is not netting salmon.

The commander, Alexander Chepur, made the statement in an interview aboard the Soviet flagship Churkin.

Two Seattle newsmen and a representative of a fisheries industry group got permission to board the Churkin after U.S. commercial fishermen reported seeing salmon air drying on a Russian dragger near Westport.

The three who boarded the vessel Saturday were Stanton H. Paffy of the Seattle Times, Bob Ginther of the King Broadcasting Co. and Dick O'Keefe, press relations director of the Congress of American Fishermen.

Chepur, speaking in English, said the fleet totals 23 vessels and is catching mostly hake. Asked if his fishermen were taking salmon, Chepur replied: "No, only incidental salmon caught in the trawl gear."

He said the fleet probably will remain at least until mid-September "subject to the confirmation of our government."

The fleet is operating about 30 miles southwest of Westport, a sports-fishing center on the southern Washington coast.

O'Keefe told Chepur that American fishermen fear the Russians are going to decimate the fishery stocks. The Russian commander replied that he was answering the Americans' questions "in hope that the answers will relieve the anxiety of your fishermen."

Twins Die After Being Separated

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Surgeons separated four-day old Siamese twin boys Saturday but both died, one on the operating table, the other 24 hours later.

The brothers had been joined from the navel to the upper chest. Doctors decided upon surgery after discovering the weaker twin had a nervous system abnormality and respiratory complications.

The twins shared a common liver, a common sac in which the heart lies, and union of the rib cage, doctors said.

Identity of the parents was withheld at their request.

A LOVELIER YOU

Don't Let Sun Win Battle Of Beach

By MARY SUE MILLER

When you set out to sun, don't make an endurance contest of it. You can't win!

Your skin is no match for the sun's rays, with their power to burn, blister, freckle, dry and wrinkle; perhaps to cause permanent damage. To come through the summer with your skin in one piece, both tanned and healthy, you must play a defensive game.

Before exposures, always apply a reliable suntan preparation. Products now offer formulas that pamper your type of skin while encouraging the type of tan you like best. Applications in no way limit the depth of tan acquired. Tan fans need have no fears!

For example, there are dark-tanning oils filtered to impart a wildy deep color and yet ward off drying. Use is recommended, in particular to skins that are not easily scorched by the sun.

For go-go girls with young skins and the desire for a fast tan, the trick is a fast dark-tanning lotion or foam. The color quickly turns to deep, and with a glamour-sheen.

Then there's oil-less suntan oil, designed for dry skin. It's light and non-greasy, yet it helps to replenish natural oils. Result: a golden tan on an unpuckered skin.

A "dy-no" idea takes the form of indoor-outdoor lotion. Apply it to good skin and it produces a natural-looking tan in the shade or the sun.

But whenever you use, time your exposures until you have built a tan. No lotion yet devised is completely impervious to the burning sun.

A "dy-no" idea takes the form of indoor-outdoor lotion. Apply it to good skin and it produces a natural-looking tan in the shade or the sun.

But whenever you use, time your exposures until you have built a tan. No lotion yet devised is completely impervious to the burning sun.

Then there's oil-less suntan oil, designed for dry skin. It's light and non-greasy, yet it helps to replenish natural oils. Result: a golden tan on an unpuckered skin.

Among the cars involved in the spectacular crash were those driven by A.J. Foyt, Dan Gurney, Billy Foster, Arnie Knepper, Al Miller, Kale Yarborough, Bobby Grim, Larry Dickson, Ronnie Duman, Mel Kenyon and Gary Congden.

The corner was covered with smoke and flames, which were quickly brought under control.

It was the second time in two years a mishap marred the race and it had to be halted. Two years ago, on the second lap, Dave MacDonald and Eddie Sachs were killed in a multiple smashup. That accident occluded near the main stretch of the track. Today's wreck occurred at the first turn of the 50th anniversary running of the race. The cars had just started the first lap when the flaming pileup took place in front of the grandstand, just yards from the starting line.

Tony Lema Is O.C. Winner

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Give Tony Lema some high rough, the usual Oklahoma winds — which average 14 miles per hour — and he'd settle for a 284 over four days at Quail Creek Golf and Country Club.

But cut the rough short, take away the winds, and Lema is more than happy to walk off with the record-setting 17-under-par 271 with which he won the $37,000 Oklahoma City Open Sunday.

The Champagne Man from California darted six strokes in front of a closely packed field to pile up the biggest victory margin of the PGA tour this year. His final round was his strongest — a seven-under-par 65.

"I'm never coming back to Oklahoma," Lema joked, "because I want to remember it this way — windless."

But Lema, who sipped champagne with the press corps after his victory, had every intention of returning.

"This is a real good course," Lema said after butchering the 7,173-yard par-72 Quail Creek links. "The scores would be a lot higher with a halfway decent growing season and the usual winds. Under those conditions, I'd be happy to settle with a 284."

Lema started the final round one stroke behind young Tom Weiskopf, but quickly gained the lead by holing out a birdie chip on the second hole as Weiskopf was bogeying the first hole.

Weiskopf finished second, 11-under-par at 277. Oddly enough, the youngster from Columbus, Ohio, equaled the previous course record set in 1964 by Arnold Palmer.

Lema, in a threesome with third-place finisher Jack Nicklaus, felt the turning point came on the eighth hole, when he maintained only a three-stroke lead over the two-time defending Masters champion.

Nicklaus, who drove into a lateral water hazard on the par-5 eighth, was in position for a birdie after a magnificent three-wood recovery to the front fringe of the green.

But the slugger from Ohio missed a short par putt to take a bogey-while Lema picked up a birdie to go five strokes ahead. Nicklaus wound up with a 71 for the day and finished at 279.

Cards Plaster Midland Rebs

The Sacred Heart Cardinals hopped on Dominguez in the fourth inning Sunday at a 4-1 clubbed the Midland Rebs 9-3.

The Cards had hopped to a two-run lead in the first, but Midland tied it up with a run in each of the first two innings.

Three runs in the fourth chased J. Dominguez to the showers, and Sillro finished. The Cards bunched hits again in the seventh for four more runs.

Dominguez, first baseman for the Rebs, doubled for the only extra base hit.

Tony Fierro got credit for the win, scattering five hits well.

After the game was over, the Cubs' manager looked at the pictures — the video tape from the telecast of the contest.

"It was foul," Durocher insisted. "It hit the wall along the right field line, and the wall is about a foot away from the foul line. There's no way it could have been fair, and we can prove it. We reran the TV video tape on the play, and it shows the ball hit the wall."

In other National League games San Francisco nipped Philadelphia 6-5 in 10 innings, New York trimmed Los Angeles 7-6, Houston edged Pittsburgh 3-2 in 11, and St. Louis topped Cincinnati 3-2 in 10.

Ollie Brown tied the game for San Francisco with a run scoring single in the eighth inning, then won it by singling across Jim Hart with the winning run in the 10th.

THE FINAL BLOW
Hartley Benson Edwards plays last taps

Bugle Played Historic Notes, Now Retired

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hartley Benson Edwards, 71, played taps on his old bugle for the last time Sunday and handed the prized instrument to the Smithsonian Institute.

Edwards, of Denison, Tex., used the same bugle to play Taps at 11 a.m., Nov. 11, 1918, beside an old boxcar near Toul, France, marking the end of hostilities in World War I.

He served as bugler for Gen. John J. Pershing.

In the Great Hall of the Smithsonian Institute Sunday, Edwards gave a snappy Army salute, played the sad-sounding call and gave the bugle to Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Tex., who accepted it on behalf of the institution.

A spokesman for the museum said the musical instrument will be placed on display "where millions of Americans in future generations will be able to see it."

"They're all mighty good to come and see me," Edwards said.

Arrested In Murder Plot

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Four former Cabinet ministers were arrested early today on charges of plotting to murder President Joseph Mobutu.

The presidential office announced that Emanuel Bamba, Jerome Anany, Avariste Kimba and Paul Matamba were arrested at 1:25 a.m. A communique said they planned to drown Gen. Mobutu.

Radio Leopoldville started broadcasting at dawn today a long communique giving details of the alleged plot.

The situation was calm in Leopoldville.

Information Commissioner Jean-Jacques Kande said four foreign embassies were involved in the plot. He did not identify them but said a series of breaks in diplomatic relations could be expected soon.

Leaders of the plot were arrested at the home of Col. Bangala, the military governor of Leopoldville, during the night. He had won the confidence of the plotters but had kept Mobutu informed.

Kande said some members of Parliament also took part in the plot.

"The plotters will be tried for high treason and probably hanged on a public square," he said.

He denied an earlier report that high ranking officers were involved. He said all the military had remained faithful to Mobutu and Premier Gen. Leonard Mulamba.

Investigators Checking Saturn

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. (AP) — An investigation concentrated today on finding out why a prototype of the Saturn V's second stage rocket exploded on a test pad.

The blast Saturday was heard for miles around the Mississippi Test Facility while the fuel system was being pressure tested. Five men were hurt, none seriously.

The Saturn V is the rocket being built to send a manned space craft to the moon by 1970.

Viet Nam Fighting Men Hold Brief Services Today

SAIGON — South Viet Nam (AP) — Brief Memorial Day services were held today in South Viet Nam as American and Vietnamese fighting men and their allies went on with the war.

The commander of U.S. military forces, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, attended a service in Saigon sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

As part of a brief impromptu talk, Westmoreland read a letter from William J. O'Sullivan of Astoria, N.Y., whose son, Capt. Christopher J. O'Sullivan, was killed in action Memorial Day last year.

The letter said in part: "My son died willingly in the cause of freedom. He has not died in vain. On Memorial Day, 1966, I say to you, sir, I wish I had another son to send to you in Viet Nam. You and courageous men are holding back the forces of communism that threaten to engulf the whole world. God bless you gallant men. We at home are just beginning to fight for a free world. We will not fail you."

O'Sullivan was posthumously awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and the Silver Star for heroism and gallantry in action. The letter to Westmoreland quoted the captain, an adviser to a Vietnamese ranger battalion, as writing before his death: "If God wills I die here in Viet Nam, there is no finer cause for which a man must die than the cause of the people."

After his death, his family in New York complained of receiving cruel telephone calls and letters from opponents of the war.

Negotiating To Settle War

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Indonesia and Malaysia began negotiations today to end their three-year undeclared war.

Optimism was high that Malaysian Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak and Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik would resolve differences between their countries quickly. But some officials predicted it might be several years before there is a complete end to President Sukarno's "crush Malaysia" campaign.

Grant To Help Water Supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department announced today a matching $208,000 grant for Mount Vernon, Tex., to improve its water supply system for the promotion of industrial development.

A Devotional For The Day

Behold, I send the promise of my Father upon you; but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high. (Luke 24:49)

PRAYER: Father, we thank Thee for the presence of the Holy Spirit with us to guide us in Thy way and to enable us in Thy work. May we ever be alert and obedient to the prompting of His voice. In Jesus' name. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

We're Proud, Too!

The 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron has added another great honor to its distinguished history. Last week Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, commander of the American Air Defense Command, came here to present the "A" award for exceptional operational performance.

This is one of the top ADC recognitions and one rarely bestowed. It represents not only a high degree of proficiency and alertness on the part of all assigned to the 331st, but it reflects a continuation of these qualities through exemplary devotion to duty.

The 331st has every right to be proud of this achievement. And this community is equally proud of the 331st. Of course the squadron belongs first to the nation and then to the Air Force, but we have always considered it our squadron, too.

In Memoriam

Pause today and say a prayer of thanks for men and women who have loved their country enough to give their lives for it.

It may have been in storming some bastion, in facing withering fire, or wading ashore with no place to hide; or rooting the enemy from holes and caves, in plodding through mine fields, taking sniper bullets, or languishing from disease and wounds.

It may have been in some great conflict, or it may have been on some isolated campaign or field; it may have been in some obscure spot known only to God. But whenever it came, or wherever it happened, each of them gave the ennobling and ultimate equalizer of dedication. In their agonizing moment of truth they did the thing which sets them apart from all others for all time.

As we offer our prayers of thanks, let us, in the words of a martyred president, "take increased devotion to the cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion — that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain . . ."

David Lawrence Our Determination In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — Uncertainty is one of the biggest factors that disturbs business. It affects not only long-range but current planning.

For many months now, uncertainty about the future of the Viet Nam situation has been hanging like a cloud over the whole economy. Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board, in a speech last week before the International Bankers Conference in Madrid, declared that basic decisions on the Viet Nam war constitute "the critical issue and the major problem" for the American economy. President Johnson himself has said he is trying to avoid a tax increase and wage-and-price controls.

COINCIDENTALLY, Secretary of State Dean Rusk has just made a speech in New York City which clarifies the American position and should have a decisive influence in bringing the Viet Nam problem closer to an early solution than was deemed possible a few weeks ago.

For the United States has recently cleared up many things. One of them is that America is not going to be swayed by the internal friction in South Viet Nam and intends to continue to protect that country against aggression. More important, however, is what Secretary of State Rusk has said to the rest of the world about the American position. His statement should remove all doubts that recent events would cause the United States policy to totter or perhaps bring about a withdrawal.

THE SECRETARY did not mention Senator Fulbright, but in the course of his speech rebutted some of the arguments that could amount only to appeasement if accepted. Mr. Rusk said: "If mankind is to achieve a peaceful world order safe for free institutions, it is of course essential that aggression be eliminated — if possible."

Billy Graham

I often hear you speak of conversion as if it were a once-for-all experience. Since Christians often stumble and fall, aren't we "converted" over and over again? E. W.

Christian conversion is the transformation which we experience when we are born of God. Since one is not born over, and over again, we must think of Christian development in two phases: birth and growth. A child, for example, is born once. True, he falls down many times, but when he falls he doesn't need to be born again. His falls, his bumps and bruises are all part of growing up. So it is in the Christian life. Birth is sudden, once and for all, but development is the work of an entire lifetime. Some people make the mistake of thinking that when we are converted that all our troubles are over. This is not true. In some ways we may experience more trouble than before because the devil, having lost us, will exert more pressure than ever upon us. But the Bible says, "In all these things we are more than conquerors." Christ always causes us to triumph. We can be converted in a moment. The precise moment that we accept Christ. But it takes a lot of prayers, Bible reading, church going, and Christian service to make a mature Christian. When you fall, don't just lie there. Get up, profit by your failure, and be stronger for it.

"If we confess our sins He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins" — John was talking to Christians in this passage!

WHAT OTHERS SAY

The ferocious reaction against communism in Indonesia is as noteworthy for its home-grown nature as for its intensity.

All indications are that the Reds were crushed by their anti-Communist countrymen, who plotted their own course.

A dispatch out of Hong Kong analyzing the Indonesian picture said that when the U. S. sent Ambassador Marshall Green to Jakarta last August he was told to do nothing and that he fully followed his instructions. Within a matter of weeks, after a coup attempt, the Communists were on the run.

"You can do us a great favor," a youth leader was quoted as saying to an American, "please don't try to teach us how to fight communism. We have our own methods."

The methods have been highly effective. Estimates consistently put the number of deaths into the hundreds of thousands.

The U. S. had tried to undermine President Sukarno, who allowed the Communists to grow to great strength. Falling in that, this country then tried to bring him around with aid.

He insulted the U. S. and dragged his country's economy downhill. Finally the aid was all but completely cut off and Washington assumed a hands-off position.

There seems to be a lesson in that. It might be one that would apply to other places, such as Egypt and President Nasser.

'Y' CAN'T TRUST A MAN WHO LOOKS LIKE THAT'

James Marlow

LBJ Wary Of China Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson appears to be wary of a senatorial proposal for a blue ribbon commission inquiry into U.S. relations with Communist China.

Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and George S. McGovern, D-S.D., who proposed the policy inquiry in recent Senate speeches have not been able to get any encouragement from the White House.

AT THE STATE Department, the word is that Johnson has turned thumbs down on the proposal. But the senators are not giving up hope of an eventual favorable decision.

If it chooses, Congress could set up a commission of recognized national leaders to hold hearings and advise it what to do about lessening tensions with Peking.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is reported favorable to that idea. But Kennedy and McGovern have no present plans to introduce a resolution for such an inquiry.

THE TWO SENATORS are reported to feel that their commission proposal, following the China hearings held by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has prodded the administration into reviewing its policies toward the Peking regime.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has moved toward enlarging unofficial contacts between Communist China and the United States but the State Department says these efforts have been rebuffed by Peking thus far.

Diplomatic contacts continue between the two governments in Warsaw and Rusk publicly has expressed U.S. willingness to sit down with the Chinese to discuss disarmament and non-proliferation of nuclear weapons.

RUSK HAS SAID the United States is avoiding the assumption that there will be "unending and inevitable" hostility between the two nations. He has tried to reassure Peking that this country does not intend to attack mainland China.

Men's Wigs Going Strong

LONDON (AP) — Jack McCann sits down just about every day and writes to Queen Elizabeth II.

The assignment makes him the most unusual political correspondent in the world.

FEW WRITERS have a smaller readership.

None reaches a more distinguished audience.

"Mr. McCann with his humble duty" he begins.

Then he sets forth an account of what has happened that day in the mother of parliaments.

"I try to capture the spirit of the proceedings in the chamber," McCann says.

"If the House erupts in anger I tell the queen why. If members double up with laughter I describe what started it all. And my aim throughout is to stay objective."

McCANN IS Laborite member of Parliament for the Lancashire seat of Rochdale.

He was appointed in April by Prime Minister Harold Wilson as vice chamberlain of the royal household.

The post carries with it a traditional duty started in 1783 by King George III.

The report is supposed to describe incidents and atmosphere in the House "during the early part of the day."

Monarch of the kingdom have been barred from entering the Commons in session ever since King Charles in the 17th century marched in and tried to arrest several members.

FUSSY OLD Queen Victoria used to insist on the prime minister of the day writing the report.

With the 20th century, British premiers discreetly delegated the duty to the vice chamberlain of the royal household.

McCann, who worked his way through night school, writes the report in his own hand Monday to Thursday when Parliament is sitting.

"It's left entirely to my own discretion as to what I present to the queen to read," McCann said. "Naturally I tried to make it chatty and readable and not merely a straight account of the proceedings."

McCann's reports average about 700 words but on dull days they are considerably less.

HE COMPLETES his dispatch three or four hours after the House meets.

Then he hands it in at the Commons post office.

It is delivered as a telegram to Buckingham Palace by a messenger.

The queen gets it just before dinner when she is in London. If she's out of the country the reports are turned into a weekly account and then radioed or delivered to her by courier.

As vice chamberlain and legislator McCann, 55, a former engineer, is paid $11,900 a year.

Many Mental Patients Return To Work

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Too often exists. To me it was an important item although it contained only three or four paragraphs — an announcement by the Health Insurance Institute that last year 18,000 mentally ill people were rehabilitated to the extent of holding useful jobs again.

The figures were based on data from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and evidently apply to people who were helped by state vocational agencies. It is fair to assume that a good many others with emotional illnesses were rehabilitated under other circumstances and are not included in these figures.

The Institute remarks: "Mental illness is one of the most widespread and disabling disorders in the United States. An estimated 19 million persons — 10 per cent of the nation's population — suffer from some form of it."

True. It is a very large problem. But I think the recoveries will increase in number as more people are made aware that folks DO improve with proper treatment. Such figures as the 18,000 going back to work in 12 months may dispel some of the hopelessness which still band has diverticulosis. Would he be allowed to drink milk? Also what laxative do you advise? He needs one every day. — MRS. T. K.

I see no reason why he should not drink milk unless there is some special factor — hypersensitivity, mainly — that you have not mentioned.

What laxative do I advise? I would advise that he use none at all for a time and see what happens. When someone tells me that a person "needs a laxative every day," I want to know WHY he thinks so.

His normal bowel pattern may be such that there is no need for a movement every day. There are many such people, and there is no medical reason for believing that everyone needs a daily movement.

Thus this laxative habit, instead of being necessary or helpful, may instead merely be irritating the colon into abnormal activity. This alone could make the diverticulosis more

How To Get To Uncle Sugar

Every day you read in the paper that the Congress of the United States has bestowed bounty upon some underprivileged community or nation. If the solons aren't giving money to provide some area with the wherewithal to build a reservoir, they're digging into the nation's pockets to finance a plan to study the feasibility of building a canal in some remote section of the world or voting to provide aid and comfort to the people engrossed in the study of pink elephants and purple dragons.

YOU MIGHT think it easy to qualify for such financial beneficence but, take my word for it, it isn't. I've been lending a lot of thought to the matter, trying to figure out a way to become eligible for such rewards. I've about decided the only avenue to such manna is by declaring war on Uncle Sugar, as some of the privileged few refer to him, and then suing for peace.

I've entertained the idea of having myself declared a DISASTER AREA and beg for succor. I've been told from time to time that I look like a native ruin. Maybe by importing a few more moths and wearing my shoes until they look like spats I can qualify.

BEING CLASSIFIED as a POVERTY POCKET might also make me eligible. That would be rather easy to be so indexed toward the end of any month, when the income sometimes fails to meet the outgo and some of the creditors begin to bow in the direction of Mecca and offer prayer that I make it until the first of the month.

I think a liberal interpretation of the statutes would qualify me as a member of the PEACE CORPS, even though I have never helped dig a trench in Ecuador or shown an African how to make do with left-overs.

THE NEWS organs remind us from time to time that our congressmen junket overseas and spend funds that would otherwise go to waste by taking advantage of credits we have built up in various places. I am perfectly willing to share such miseries with them, if it means running up a tab at the Caribe Hilton or swimming in the waters off the Riviera.

The best out for a tax dodge is through the establishment of a FOUNDATION. If the government would loan me the money to start such a project, I'd be happy to oblige, then repay the debt with the interest such a thing would pay.

AN AWESOME lot of the federal budget goes toward DEFENSE. Seems to me I would qualify for some subsistence in my fight against (1) sin, (2) fruit insects, and (3) old age.

Lastly, I might get in under the wire by qualifying for help under the SPACE PROGRAM. People say I am occupying more space than ever before, especially when I drag my chair to the dinner table.

100 Years Of The Poverty Program

WASHINGTON — "My name is R. Sargent Shriver," said the handsome young man on the couch of Dr. Clarence W. Couchmaster, the master psychiatrist. "And I'm all shook up about the Poverty Program."

"Are you sure you are Sargent Shriver?" asked Dr. Couchmaster gently. "I get patients who come in here and tell me they are Julius Caesar or Lydia B. Pinkham, so I'm pretty hard to fool. Mr. Shriver, Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, has every confidence in his program."

"THAT IS THE WAY I used to be," declared the patient. "I haven't been the man I was since I had a 100-year vision of the Poverty Program."

"You had a vision? You foresaw what the program might be a century from now?"

"Yes, in a manner of speaking, I certainly did," the patient insisted. "I studied a report on the current status of our Indians. It was recently put out by the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs. The American Indian has been a ward of the federal government for 100 years—and look what it did to him."

"I SEE WHAT you mean," said Dr. Couchmaster with sympathy. "You feel that federal wardship over the Indians may be the prototype of federal wardship over the poor."

"It is a deadly parallel," said the man who claimed to be Shriver. "The Indians were a victim of American Society; and that is what we are saying about the poor. The Indians are on the American conscience, and so are the poor. We have spent billions of dollars for the health, education and welfare of Indians, just as we are doing for the poor. Have you read the Interior Committee's report of April, 1966?"

"Nonetheless," continued the patient, "all these tribes are still in custody. The committee reported that the federal government simply would not let go of its wards. The bureaucrats on the payrolls showed no disposition to liquidate their web of paternalistic control, in the words of the Interior Committee."

"SUCH IS THE rule of life," said Dr. Couchmaster. "The wards become weaker, and the warders become stronger. But as sure as your name is Shriver, it is your job to reverse that process in the Poverty Program."

"That is what bothers me," said the patient.

'Monkey Law' Is Struck Down

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas' anti-evolution law has been struck down on grounds it restricts freedom of learning and teachings, but the state plans to appeal the ruling to the State Supreme Court.

Chancery Court Judge Murray Reed held Friday the 1928 law was an unconstitutional restriction on the quest for knowledge. Reed's action cleared the way for legally teaching Charles Darwin's famous theory of evolution in public school classrooms.

ATTY. GEN. Bruce Bennett, defending the law as a bastion against what he called growing godlessness, said he would appeal Reed's ruling to the State Supreme Court, and, if necessary, to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Susan Epperson, 24, a biology teacher at Little Rock Central High School, started the court test earlier this year with a suit challenging the constitutionality of the law, which was adopted at a statewide election in 1928.

Mrs. Epperson said, "It sounds very good and I'm very happy about it."

SHE, TOO, is prepared to continue the fight, if necessary, even though she is leaving Little Rock to continue her education with her husband, Jon, at the University of Missouri.

If the ruling stands, Tennessee and Mississippi alone will have the nation's two remaining so-called "monkey laws."

Reed voided the law because, he said, it restricts "freedom to learn and the freedom to teach."

Bennett argued the state, as an employer, had the right to tell Mrs. Epperson what she could teach in the public schools.

Quoting from a U. S. Supreme Court opinion defending the discussion of speculative theories in public school science study, Reed said any law designed to limit or restrict the field of inquiry should be examined.

HE SAID HE could find no reason for barring the evolution theory from the public schools, even though it 1966?"

"YES," SAID Dr. Couchmaster. "It says that 22,000 bureaucrats serve the needs of 230,000 reservation Indians, and that the recipients of all that federal money and care are the least educated, the most underemployed, the sickest and the least self-reliant group in the United States."

"A 100-year vision of the Poverty Program," the patient sighed.

"But, surely," said Dr. Couchmaster soothingly, "the poor will work their way into productive jobs and free themselves from the federal wardship that is so injurious to the human mind and spirit."

"WE HAVE PLANNED it that way," nodded the patient, "and the poor want it that way. But the record in Indian Affairs is not very reassuring. The Interior Committee reported that 12 years ago a number of Indian tribes were found to be qualified for full management of their own affairs."

"Well, then . . ."

"Nonetheless," continued the patient, "all these tribes are still in custody. The committee reported that the federal government simply would not let go of its wards. The bureaucrats on the payrolls showed no disposition to liquidate their web of paternalistic control, in the words of the Interior Committee."

"SUCH IS THE rule of life," said Dr. Couchmaster. "The wards become weaker, and the warders become stronger. But as sure as your name is Shriver, it is your job to reverse that process in the Poverty Program."

"That is what bothers me," said the patient.

Former Guard Buried In His Selected Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — Staff Sgt. William R. Spates Jr. had walked through the shaded groves of Arlington National Cemetery many times — leading a grief-stricken widow, parents and children as they went to place a wreath at the grave of a dead soldier.

Sunday, it was Spates' widow and his parents who walked through the groves and watched a brief ceremony at his grave in the cemetery.

Spates, 26, had selected his own gravesite a year ago, before he shipped to South Vietnam. He had been a relief company, 3rd Infantry Division, the company that supplies the men who guard the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

He wanted to be buried near the tomb where he had been stationed 10 months.

Last Oct. 25 Spates was killed in action in Viet Nam and was buried a week later at the site he had selected at Arlington. Sunday, a delegation of the Knights of Columbus — accompanied by Spates' widow, Felicia, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Spates of Washington — placed a wreath at Marker No. 432-48.

"He was a real good guy," said a soldier who remembered him, "and he loved the Army."

There were other families among the 50,000 visitors who came to Arlington on the sunny, breezy Sunday before Memorial Day.

Included were the sister-in-law of President John F. Kennedy, himself a former Navy lieutenant, and three of her nine children. Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy knelt in prayer at the Kennedy grave, which had been decorated by a wreath from President Johnson.

The assassinated president would have been 49 years old Sunday. His widow, Jacqueline, spent the day quietly at her country home in New Jersey, an aide said.

French Vets Recall Verdun

VERDUN, France (AP) — The old soldiers have gone home again and stillness has returned to the battlefield of Verdun.

President Charles de Gaulle, addressing the Verdun veterans Sunday, praised the valor that they displayed half a century ago.

He also used the 50th anniversary of the battle to appeal for closer cooperation between France and Germany. He spoke of national solidarity and the need for European unity.

But for the 30,000 veterans who returned to Verdun, scarcely one under 70, this was not a time for politics but for meeting old comrades.

"It cannot be. Is it truly you, Antoine?" exclaimed one.

"Henri, dear Henri," said the other, putting his loaf and garlic sausage aside.

They embraced and tears crept into their eyes.

Scenes of recognition multiplied. Afterward, the veterans swapped accounts of the battle and the roles they played in it.

Saturday night there was a brief ceremony with muffled drums, music and fireworks: Sunday morning Mass at the battlefield monument and then De Gaulle's speech.

Some 500,000 soldiers died at Verdun during the furious 10-month struggle.

The veterans have gone. The grave markers and the silence remain.

Woman With Implant Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Louise Ceraso, who for 12 days used an artificial left ventricle to aid her long-ailing heart, died today at Brooklyn's Maimonides Hospital.

The 63-year-old widow had been described as "doing well" until she suffered a stroke Saturday and lapsed into unconsciousness.

Mrs. Ceraso "was not able to respond to measures taken to sustain her following her cerebral vascular accident," a hospital statement said.

The woman entered the hospital with a medical history of being bedridden for the past six years with congestive heart failure. In addition she suffered from diabetes and kidney and liver disorders.

The artificial ventricle had been doing 50 per cent of the pumping of her heart.

Implanted May 18 by a medical team headed by Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz, the device was timed to match the natural pulse of an individual's heart, and used only part time.

The man-made ventricle — about eight inches long and 1 1/2 inches in diameter — was placed wholly within the body, but its control system was outside.

The part-time use of the device is to allow time for the body to correct any "subtle damage" done by it. There was evidence, it was said, that damage does occur when the ventricle is run continuously.

It had been hoped that if Mrs. Ceraso recovered enough to go home, the device could have been modified so she could work it herself.

The ventricle was tested on 350 dogs and one other human patient before it was implanted in Mrs. Ceraso, Dr. Kantrowitz said. The other human died later of complications not directly related to the surgery, he said.

Reports Viruses Causing Cancer

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A researcher from Duke University has reported what he calls the first experimental findings implicating viruses as a cause of liver cancer.

In a paper presented to the American Association for Cancer Research, Dr. Joseph W. Beard said he conducted experiments in which chickens developed liver tumors after being inoculated with a strain of virus called MC-29.

He said it was the first time liver tumors had been known to be caused by viruses.

DEAR ABBY

Gives Kids Bad Example

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I own a boat. We both love fishing and sometimes we stay on the river all night. Here's the problem: My husband can't swim a stroke and he refuses to wear a life preserver. He says he has to die sometime and he doesn't care how he goes. We have five children, Abby. They range from 13 years old down to three. I get frightened half to death when we are in the boat with him and the waters get rough or a storm comes up. I am becoming a nervous wreck over this. Can you suggest something? HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell your "hubs" that even if HE doesn't care how he goes, YOU do. And you also care WHEN! Remind him that you didn't have those five children without his help, and you don't intend to raise them alone either. That ought to busy the old boy up.

DEAR ABBY: About three weeks ago all of our relatives and several of our friends received wedding invitations to a mutual relative's wedding. We received no invitation and felt put out, but said nothing. You don't just call up people and ask them how come you weren't invited, do you? Three days before the wedding I got this tearful phone call from the bride herself, apologizing all over the place because she'd heard we didn't get an invitation.

She said we were on her guest list and the invitation must have gotten "lost" in the mail. She begged us to come, but I hadn't shopped for a gift, and I had nothing to wear, so I declined. Many of our relatives said they thought we weren't invited, do you? I would like your opinion.

OVERLOOKED: I think you should have attended. If you had not been wanted the bride would not have telephoned you personally. Your gift could have come later, and your attire would have been of little importance.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think about a high school that makes rules about how short a girl can wear her skirt? Also, they have rules about how the boys can wear their hair, and they won't let him raise a beard or mustache. Isn't that denying a person his individual freedom?

THE KIDS AT LINC DEAR ABBY: I think it should be up to the parents, not the school, to determine how students should dress and wear their hair. But more important than fashions and hair styles is RESPECT FOR THE RULES. If those who think the rules are unfair would invest as much time and energy in attempting to change them, as they do in defying them, the rules COULD be changed. And that, in my opinion, is the best way to strike a blow for individual freedom.

Poles Riot Following Talk

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Hundreds of Polish Roman Catholics destroyed a government signboard Sunday during Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski's visit to Gdansk.

Riot police dispersed the crowd of some 250 persons with no apparent violence. Witnesses said more than 20 persons who helped tear down and burn the large signboard were hustled into police vans and others were arrested later.

Three Western newsmen also were held for some hours and pictures they had made of the demonstration were confiscated by Communist authorities.

The incident began shortly after a sermon by Cardinal Wyszynski to a congregation of 22,000 inside the Basilica of St. Mary. Loudspeakers relayed the sermon to a cheering crowd of 100,000 in the streets.

Fresh from the flower-throwing ovation for the Polish Catholic primate, a crowd of homebound worshippers stopped and attacked a signboard in a square opposite the main railroad station. They ripped its two wooden signs from the steel frame and burned them, then toppled the 15-foot scaffolding into the flames.

The two posters displayed Communist slogans against the Catholic hierarchy's campaign of forgiveness for the Germans. The government has conducted a determined campaign against a letter the Polish bishops wrote to the German Catholic bishops last November proposing Polish-German reconciliation.

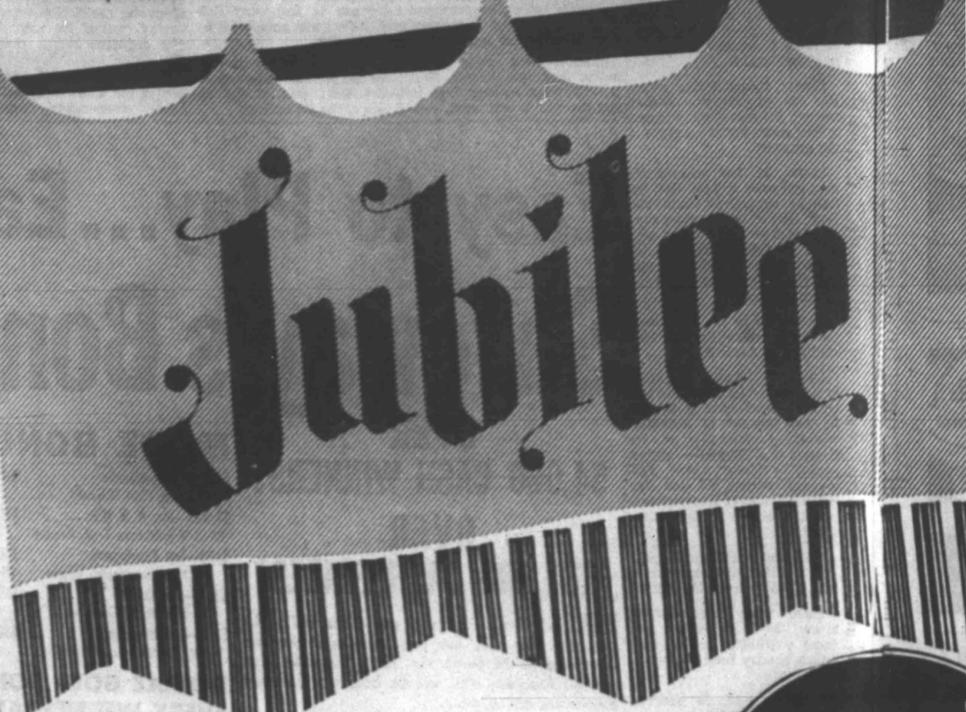

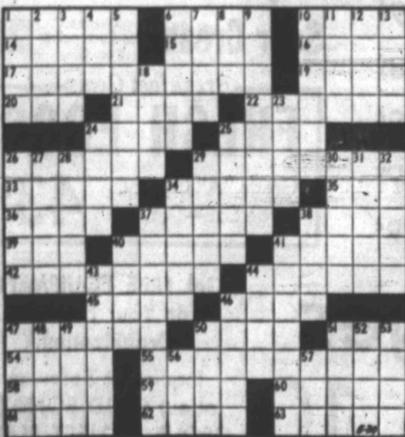

Cardinal Wyszynski is visiting a different diocese each weekend to celebrate Poland's Christian millennium.

Texas Traffic Toll Hits 14

By The Associated Press
At least 27 persons died violently in Texas during the past weekend, with accidents on the crowded highways accounting for 14 as Texans took time out for the Memorial Day holiday. Four persons drowned, eight were homicides and one was killed by lightning.

The Associated Press tabulation started at 6 p.m. Friday and continues through midnight Monday.
Roger Mack Rainey, 59, of Alice apparently drowned Sunday after being trapped in a private airplane which fell into the Gulf of Mexico near Padre Island. Two others swam safely to shore.

Paul Stephens, 47, of Baytown was shot to death Saturday night during an argument over a parking space on a street in Baytown, police said. Langster Haggerty, 40, of Baytown was charged with murder.

Mrs. Juanita Redmond, 47, of Houston was killed Saturday night in a two-car collision on US 153 north of Lockhart.

Herbert C. Schnupp, 39, of Kemah drowned Saturday night after his car plunged through a bridge railing into an inlet near Kemah.

James Brear Simms, 52, Houston lawyer, and his wife, Kathryn, 48, were killed Sunday when their automobile apparently went out of control and collided with a freight train near Pinehurst in Montgomery County.

Max Forbert, 64, was shot to death at his Houston home Sunday. Police said that Mrs. Elvora Ruby Forbert, 53, told them her husband had threatened her with his crutches during an argument. She was charged with murder.

Teofilo Gonzales Leal, 31, was slain by a volley of shots poured into a Dallas pool hall Saturday night. Another man was wounded.

Everett Lee Homer, 21, of Dallas was shot to death Saturday night during a fight with another man at a drive-in restaurant, police said.

Dr. Abner M. Peacock, about 48, was killed when struck by lightning at the Port Arthur Country Club golf course Saturday.

Oliver Smith, 50, died in Denton Saturday night after he was shot over an argument about a 25-cent pool game.

Milton Lewis Attebury, 29, a Greyhound bus driver, was killed Saturday when a trailer from a truck apparently came loose and smashed into the front of the bus. The accident occurred on US 90 east of Harwood.

Paul H. Anders, 23, of Jacksonville, died Sunday in a Shreveport, La., hospital of

Japs March On Sub Base

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP) — Yokosuka had its first visit today from a U.S. nuclear-powered submarine, and left-wing leaders brought thousands from Tokyo to demonstrate outside the U.S. Navy base.

The visiting sub, the Snook, is scheduled to remain until June 3. About 300 students from the radical Zengakuren Student Association stole a march on the police by appearing at the Navy base earlier than scheduled. The main gate was guarded by only three U.S. Marines and two sailors, and about 80 of the students forced their way 50 feet inside the gate.

One Marine guard sprained a wrist holding the students back until several hundred Japanese police rushed up and threw them out. Thirteen students were arrested on trespassing charges.

American nuclear-powered submarines have made eight visits to Sasebo, in southern Japan, and with each visit the number of demonstrators has dwindled. Because the Snook is the first to visit Yokosuka, and because of the city's proximity to heavily populated Tokyo, leftist groups stepped up their protests. Authorities mobilized 5,000 policemen to prevent demonstrators from getting out of hand.

Shepard To Get Service Medal

DURHAM, N.H. (AP) — America's first man in space — astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. of Derry, N.H. — will be presented a medal for distinguished service during the University of New Hampshire's commencement program June 12.

Shepard, who made the sub-orbital flight in 1961, now is responsible for development of space flight crew training program.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ 6 3 ♣ J 10 7 2 ♦ Q 10 2 ♣ K J 7 4
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Three no trump. This is not much of a hand and partner's bid is not forcing. Nevertheless, you should decline to give up the ghost at this point. Whereas your own no trump bid promised six points in high cards, you have seven plus two rather impressive ten.

Q. 2—Your partner has opened with one spade and you hold:
♠ 4 3 ♣ A 3 OAK 4 ♠ A Q 10 7 5 4
What is your response?
A.—A jump shift to three clubs is our choice, despite the fact that we have no special support for spades. This hand is worth 15 points and, unless the jump shift is made, it will be almost impossible to show the full strength of the hand on subsequent rounds.

Q. 3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ K J 8 6 ♣ K Q J 7 ♦ A 4 ♠ J 6 3
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♣ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Your hand contains considerably more than you might have had for a minimum opening, and you should do something other than make the mere routine bid of four spades, which would be a forced bid. The suggested call is a bid of four diamonds. This will not indicate a desire to play in the minor suit, since your major suit has been vigorously supported. It will merely serve as a mild suggestion for a slam, without incurring any additional expense. If partner is not interested, he will return to four spades.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ K J 8 6 5 ♣ J 8 ♦ K J 7 5 4 3 2
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ 1 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. A bid of two spades is not recommended. The likelihood of going places in spades is not great, and if partner finds it expedient to rebid three clubs you may be in difficulties.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ Q 5 ♣ Q 5 ♦ K Q J 8 4 3 2 7 4
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
1 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Two diamonds. The length of your diamond suit is not sufficient justification for a jump rebid, which in our methods is forcing. While two diamonds is admittedly an underbid, a jump to three would be a distinct overbid.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ Q 10 9 8 7 6 5 ♦ Q J 10 3 ♠ K Q 6 4
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Partner has obviously passed values which amount to a fair-sized trap but, in view of your unbalanced distribution, a no trump contract should be viewed with suspicion and an effort should be made to elicit a spade preference from partner. The suggested call is three clubs or three diamonds if you prefer.

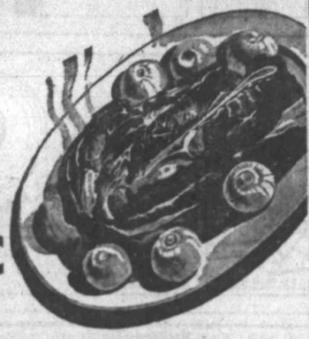

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ K Q 10 9 6 2 ♣ A Q 7 5 4 3 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—With a void in diamonds we would not rely on a no trump contract and would recommend a bid of four spades. This holding in the circumstances is more or less self-sustaining; an alternate call is four clubs, which we might be inclined to try if we had an honor in the suit.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ Q 10 6 2 ♣ 7 3 ♦ A 8 6 4 2 ♠ A K
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Three spades. While your values are ample for a game effort at no trump, a further exploratory bid may be made at the table. Partner might have a four-card spade holding which he temporarily suppressed in favor of showing the heart stopper.

Water Plan Proposes 53 New Reservoirs

higher priority needs to make it feasible to transport water from those sources for irrigation in West Texas.

As for the southward diversion of water from Northeast Texas, the plan says: "In planning exchanges of water, determinations of availability of excess water were based not only on the projected water requirements of the basins of origin for the plan's 50-year period, but also provided substantially for possible future requirements."

East Texas lawmakers voiced fears in the 1965 Legislature that trans-basin diversions might result in a water shortage in their area.

GREATER ROLE
A greater state role in constructing water conservation and conveyance facilities was recommended.

"The state must participate financially in the construction, operation, and maintenance of some elements of planned water shortage and conveyance facilities if it is, in fact, to guide that course through the plan," the report says.

SEWAGE TREATMENT
New sewage treatment facilities for the 21 major metropolitan areas of Texas will cost about $971 million by 1990, the report said.

The plan has taken full advantage of the large volume of water which will return to the streams as the result of the increased uses arising from municipal, industrial and agricultural growth. These return flows have been included with the total water resources available for additional uses.

CONFLICTS
An effective procedure for deciding water rights conflicts is essential, the plan said. New pollution control methods, including possible changes in the state tax structure to penalize those dumping waste materials in streams, should be considered, the plan says.

Sources Outside State Needed For West Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — The tentative statewide water plan released today says Texas "most urgent immediate water requirement" is getting enough surface water for El Paso, the Trans-Pecos and High Plains areas of West Texas.

"There is not enough surface water in the rest of Texas, excess to foreseeable requirements, to provide for the present level of water use in these West Texas areas," the summary of the Texas Water Development

Board plan says. HIGH COSTS
The plan says that even if water were available from East Texas, the cost—$168 per acre-foot—of transporting it would be excessive. An acre-foot is 325,851 gallons.

West Texas' future water needs are so large and urgent that "if the state is to continue to grow economically" water must be brought within 15 years from such outside sources as the Missouri, Mississippi or Columbia rivers, or even farther north, the plan says. "Studies by consulting engineers have shown that surplus water resources are available and that it would be physically feasible to import substantial quantities of water to meet these demands," the document says.

ACTIONS
The plan says West Texas' future vitally concerns the entire state and is tied directly to water for irrigation. Several actions to meet the area's needs are proposed: —"Active and vigorous" state leadership in proposals before congress for inclusion of West Texas in regional plans to move water from the northwestern United States or from the Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

—Texas Water Development Board participation in developing and financing such plans. —State financial participation in projects to recharge underground water formations and to use lakes as storage facilities.

Expensive 980 Mile Conduit Is Most Dramatic In Plan

AUSTIN (AP) — A 980-mile chain of lakes, canals, pumping stations and river beds—the so-called "State Water Project"—is the most dramatic and expensive proposal of the preliminary statewide water plan released today.

The "conduit" begins in the Sulphur River basin of the northeast corner of Texas. Water from the proposed Sulphur Bluff I and Naples I and II reservoirs and enlargement of the Texarkana Reservoir would serve as its basic supply. The Red River and Cypress Creek basins might be used at later stages to supplement this basic supply.

All Sulphur basin water would pass through Cooper Reservoir, also on the Sulphur, to the Trinity River, where some would be diverted for use in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. The rest would enter the Trinity River through Forney Reservoir and the East Fork of the Trinity.

Lower Valley To Benefit From Mammoth Conduit

AUSTIN (AP) — The Lower Rio Grande Valley, the state's prime fruit and vegetable growing area, would benefit from the 980-mile north-south water conduit proposed in the preliminary statewide water plan released today.

development through the year 2020. About 840,000 acres were irrigated with water from the Rio Grande in 1964, the plan says, but a recent district court decision has thrown in doubt future water for 174,000 of those acres, the plan says.

Project water would be diverted from Tehuacana Reservoir, in Freestone County, through a conduit to the Brazos River and flow for 170 miles downstream to the San Felipe vicinity in Austin County.

Miss Conrad Gets Master's Degree

DENTON — The Texas Woman's University 63rd annual spring commencement exercises were held Sunday, May 29, with Dr. John A. Guinn, TWU president, delivering the address.

Recent probes into car-safety features have thrown a spotlight on the Empire State's "go-it-alone" project to design a car aimed at cutting in half accidental highway deaths.

The state is in the process of allocating $300,000 more to pay for the actual design of the proposed car. That phase is to be completed by next year.

Permian Advances In Baseball Play

EL PASO — Odessa Permian defeated El Paso Jefferson in the rubber game of the three-game bi-district baseball series here Saturday night, 4-1.

The first step, a $100,000 feasibility study, has been completed. Engineers say the study clearly indicates that such a vehicle—a "streamlined strongbox" in the words of one—is a definite possibility.

Plans call for an expenditure of $4 million to $5 million to build 8 to 10 prototype models that could be crash-tested at various speeds to determine whether safety performance equals engineering promise.

Father Settles Racing Issue

RENO, Nev. (AP) — This classified advertisement appeared today in a Reno newspaper: "Disgruntled father offers red-hot 1964 auto for sale, has been checked at 100 miles per hour one time too many by highway patrol, sheriff's office and city police."

State officials have high hopes the federal government will contribute about 90 per cent of the over-all cost.

Assault Charge

Airman G. E. Coats, 3500th Supply Squadron, Webb Air Force Base, filed simple assault charges against an 18-year-old Big Spring youth Saturday, following a fight in which Coats claimed he was beaten up. The 18-year-old youth was jailed, but released Sunday on a $50 bond, officers said today.

The engineers concluded it would be possible to build a car that would cut—by at least 50 per cent—the chances of death or injury in a 50-mile-an-hour collision.

Guns Reported Taken From Car

Two thefts were reported to police Sunday. G. B. McNallen, 1700 Purdue, said a Browning Automatic 12-gauge shotgun, equipped with a Poly-Choke device, and a Remington 22-caliber rifle were stolen from his pickup while it was parked at the Purdue address. He values the weapons at $125.

California Clamps Down On LSD Drug

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California today becomes the first state to clamp controls on the fantasy-producing drug LSD. Gov. Edmund G. Brown explained a prime aim is to protect "young thrill-seekers."

The governor put the issue before the special session of the state legislature, and it responded after lengthy hearings with overwhelming support for the legislation.

Brown signs the bill into law today. He declared in a prepared statement, "This bill will not hamper proper use of the drug for legitimate purposes — experimentation and psychotherapy. It will help curb dangerous and unauthorized use."

"Congress is still debating a law for this drug," he said in noting recent congressional hearings. "We have one." His office said that while other states are moving against the drug, none has yet had a crack-down signed into law.

It makes unauthorized possession or knowing use of the drug a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum fine of $1,000 or a year in county jail.

Illegal manufacture, possession for the purpose of sale, or sale of LSD is a felony bringing penalties of one to five years imprisonment for the first offense and two to 10 years for repeated lawbreaking.

"As in our antinarcotics laws, we have reserved our toughest penalties for the people who would peddle this drug illegally," Brown said at his temporary Los Angeles home, site of the bill signing. Announcement of the bill signing came at Sacramento.

Brothers Charged In Two Of Seven Shootings

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Two brothers were in custody today, charged in two of seven recent shootings that took six lives and set fear loose upon the century-old cobbled streets of this city's East End.

Arrested Sunday were William Penn, 25, charged with murder, and his brother, Thomas Lee Penn, 18, charged with rape and malicious wounding. Police said the Negro pair was being questioned about all seven shootings.

William Penn is charged in the shooting death of James H. Wilkins, 20, a college dropout active in the peace movement, and Malcolm L. Norment, 31, a Richmond motel clerk. Their bodies were found in a weed-strewn East End lot, shot a total of 17 times. Carter, Wilkins and Norment were white.

Cynthia Johnson, a 16-year-old Negro, was found shot to death May 10, also in the city's East End, a deteriorating portion of old Richmond now largely occupied by Negroes.

The two other victims were Willie Sexton, 21, whose body was found April 17 in the nearby Chickahominy River and Mollie Leon Spencer, 78, a motel employe. Both were Negro.

Police said all the victims had been shot with a .22 caliber weapon. Results have not yet been made public on ballistics tests run on 32 bullets recovered from the six bodies.

Carter, 52, of nearby Sandston, whose body was found last Tuesday in a rural area just east of Richmond. He had been shot several times.

Thomas Penn voluntarily gave himself up and was charged in the May 22 rape-shooting of a 14-year-old Negro girl. The victim, who survived four bullet wounds, told police her assailant had bragged about killing two white men the night before and also had spoken of a girl named Cynthia.

Slain May 21 were Addison Wilkins, 20, a college dropout active in the peace movement, and Malcolm L. Norment, 31, a Richmond motel clerk. Their bodies were found in a weed-strewn East End lot, shot a total of 17 times. Carter, Wilkins and Norment were white.

Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. William Navickas, Nugent's aunt, and Mrs. Joseph Matulenas, a long-time friend of the Nugent family.

Mrs. Navickas told newsmen after the party that Luci "was so happy with everything" she received. The shower, held at the Swedish Glee Club, was closed to newsmen.

Nugent was barred by tradition from attending the gathering, visited the club briefly to drop Luci off and to confer with Secret Service agents.

Luci and Nugent drove to Waukegan from Milwaukee Sunday morning, having attended a dinner-dance in their honor Saturday night.

Luci Honored With Shower

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — It might have been just another wedding shower, but for one big difference — it was for President Johnson's daughter, Luci.

Luci was honored Sunday by more than 100 friends and relatives of the family of her fiance, Patrick Nugent.

The shower netted her such useful items as lamps, clock radios, pots, pans, silverware and the usual line of things needed for setting up house-keeping.

Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. William Navickas, Nugent's aunt, and Mrs. Joseph Matulenas, a long-time friend of the Nugent family.

Mrs. Navickas told newsmen after the party that Luci "was so happy with everything" she received. The shower, held at the Swedish Glee Club, was closed to newsmen.

Patriotic Record Sells Like Wildfire

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A card burnings. After an initial, noncommercial recording by Lin Broadcasting Corp., Warner Bros. made the recording at Nashville with Tennessee baritone Johnny Sea and musical background.

"There's probably been nothing like it since the early Beatles days," says a spokesman, reporting:

—The firm's three plants in California, Indiana and New York switched from 8 to 24-hour operation to manufacture the records.

—A disc jockey's tip sheet reported a "wildfire" of radio station use and predicting a sale of two million copies within three or four weeks.

"Day for Decision," released May 11, sold 212,000 copies in two weeks. The record company chartered a plane to fly 12,000 copies to Chicago to meet demand. The recitation was played at high school assemblies and Sunday church services. The Chicago Tribune carried the text on page one.

Not all stations have played the record. KMPC, Los Angeles, rejected the narrative as inappropriate to its music format. KFVB, Los Angeles, on the first day of play, "took a couple of thousand phone calls, about 15 of which were from crackpots who said we shouldn't play anything like that. Otherwise the response has been favorable and fantastic. Mothers have called, crying."

Spokesmen say the recitation was written by Allen N. Peltier, newscaster for WMAK-Radio, Nashville, as a reaction to draft-to Germany to sing for U.S. troops, said his reaction upon hearing the text was: "What a great thing. I want to record it."

A partial text (Copyright 1966, Moss Rose Publication, writer Allen N. Peltier):

"... Old Glory has never fallen so close to the earth. Our embassies are being stoned ... Our young men are dying for ideals which don't seem to mean too much to Americans any more.

"The truth is, America's real trouble doesn't lie in the rice paddies of Viet Nam ... Her real trouble lies in the playgrounds of St. Louis, the hillside mansions of San Francisco, the slums of Chicago. ...

"This is the age of the American cynic, the year of the unbeliever. ... Old-fashioned love of God, country and family is passe. We stare at our shoe laces when they play the National Anthem ... Our heroes are the fast guys who get away with things. ...

"Our enemies ... have seen the newsreels of the discontented marching around the Capitol. They've distorted and blown up our mistakes ... This better-than-dead cancer is more feared by the American soldier than all the Communist mortar shells. ..."

Cubans Report Sinking Rebel

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Cuban navy said today that one of its torpedo boats fought and destroyed an exile raider craft in Cuban waters, Havana radio reported.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, said the announcement was in a special communique of Fidel Castro's navy department.

The communique reported the exile vessel fired on the government boat, wounding three crewmen. In combat that followed, the navy craft captured two of the six anti-Castro "pirates" and listed the others as missing.

The broadcast did not identify the exile craft or any of its crew.

Exile action groups, most of them with headquarters in Miami, have mounted many raids on Cuba in speedboats which they say they operate from secret bases outside the United States.

Pledges Support

GEORGETOWN, Tex. (AP) — The United States will support South Viet Nam "until aggression has been defeated," Edward A. Clark, U.S. ambassador to Australia, told graduates of Southwestern University here Sunday.

Clark, a longtime friend of President Johnson and an alumnus and benefactor of the school, received an honorary doctoral degree. Three other Texans, the Rev. Lamar S. Clark of Houston, the Rev. Horace M. King of San Antonio and Neely G. Landrum of Dallas also received honorary doctor's degrees during the ceremonies.

Viet Nam, he said, was symbolic of all small nations, especially those in the Western Pacific. "The question is: Can a small power in this area maintain its independence in the face of emerging Communist China?"

Speaking before 120 graduates at the school's 125th annual commencement, Clark said, "Not only is South Viet Nam at stake, nor only Southeast Asia; also at stake is the integrity of a U.S. commitment of extreme importance to peace right around the globe."

Variety Shows Will Have Subs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Variety shows, according to a widespread belief in network television, are as durable as facial tissues — good for one use only.

While it is considered routine to use the summer months for rerunning such lesser efforts as "My Mother the Car," "Camp Runamuck" and "The Smothers Brothers Show," most of the variety programs will have substitutes for the hot weather months.

Singer John Davidson will take over as star of a show to replace the Andy Williams hour. Singer John Gary will substitute for Danny Kaye. Comedians Rowan and Martin will head a cast of regulars while Dean Martin takes a holiday.

A collection of taped foreign variety acts called "Hippodrome" will be seen in Red Skelton's spot. Jackie Gleason will give way to another series of taped foreign acts under the title "Continental Showcase."

ABC, however, will rerun three months of "Hollywood Palace" shows.

will not be in the cast. Ben Alexander who played the part in the long-playing police action series, will be busy elsewhere.

This time Alexander will play a career cop and father of a detective in a new ABC series, "Men Against Evil." Costar will be Howard Duff, whose last television series was "Mr. Adams and Eve," in which he costarred with his wife, Ida Lupino.

Durward Kirby, whose television chores for the past season have consisted primarily of playing cohost on "Candid Camera," will rejoin Garry Moore next season when Moore returns to CBS with a Sunday night variety hour.

Kirby is leaving "Candid Camera" after six years. Moore and Kirby have been associated, first on radio and then on television, for more than 25 years.

CBS' "20th Century," which has been on the air for nine years, documenting and profiling everything from World War II to Pope Paul, will give way next season to a new Sunday night series called "21st Century."

Produced by the same team that turned out the old shows it will look ahead, predicting the future of medicine, transportation, communication, education and the like.
