DESPITE TENSION

Good Prospects For Moon Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. House deputy press secretary Robert H. Fleming said: "It appears to support the stand taken by the President in the May 7 statement."

A State Department spokesman said "we are encouraged by the apparently affirmative interest shown by the Soviet government in President Johnson's proposal. We believe that work on a celestial bodies treaty should begin without delay, and it is for that reason that we asked for an early meeting of the United Nations Outer Space Committee."

The two countries are in agreement on the need for such a treaty, which also would provide for international cooperation in exploring the moon and other celestial bodies.

President Johnson had proposed May 7 that the United Nations should start early discussions of a moon treaty. The Soviet Union made what seemed to be a parallel proposal to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant Monday. It was disclosed in New York Tuesday by Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko.

The Johnson administration welcomed the Soviet call for action and said the subject is so important that work on it should begin "without delay."

Twins Delayed 'Til Friday, Target Is Waiting In Orbit

Guidance Gear Causes Trouble

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The hard-luck Gemini 9 flight was postponed two days today because of last-minute problems that prevented the Titan 2 rocket from being launched.

The space walk and rendezvous mission was rescheduled for 9:39 a.m. EDT Friday.

The flight was called off at 12:40 p.m. as the astronauts, Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan, waited out the countdown while sealed in their cramped Gemini 9 spacecraft atop a nine-story tall Titan 2 rocket.

The target satellite which the astronauts were to chase across the sky had been fired into space at 11 a.m. from another launching pad 4,000 feet away.

"I just can't believe it," said Cernan, a 32-year-old space rookie disappointed for the second straight time in his goal to take the longest space walk in history.

There was also a hint of trouble with the target satellite, even though it entered a near-perfect circular orbit. Ground stations were unable to confirm that a shroud covering the docking collar had fallen away as planned.

If the shroud did not come off, the astronauts will not be able to link up with the target, but will be able to carry out rendezvous missions.

Until they get within eyesight of the target, they will not know whether the shroud is off.

The guidance problem in the Gemini 9 spacecraft was not discovered until less than two minutes before it was to blast off on a three-day mission.

The countdown on the Titan 2 proceeded smoothly down to one minute, 40 seconds before lift-off. Then a hold was called and the Titan was recycled to three minutes and holding when a new signal was rejected by a computer in the spacecraft.

The guidance signal was designed to adjust the computer so that it would steer the Titan 2 into the proper path to begin the pursuit of the target.

The count was resumed twice in the hope of sending the signal through but each time it was rejected.

In order to catch the target today, the Titan 2 would have had to have been launched in a six-minute period ending at 12:44 p.m. EDT.

When it became apparent the condition could not be corrected in time, mission director William C. Schneider called the launch off for two days. The reason is that the target satellite will not be in position for a pursuit until Friday morning.

The space agency will have six minutes to get the Gemini off the ground the first time Friday morning. If that doesn't work, it will have 35 more minutes beginning at 11:15 a.m. the same day.

Moon Rocket Is Closing In

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 1, streaking toward a landing on the moon Thursday morning, carries not only a camera but this nation's hopes of making the first touchdown gentle enough for men to survive.

Surveyor is due to settle on a broad equatorial plain at 2:17 a.m. EDT and begin radiating pictures which will help scientists pick the safest areas for Apollo astronaut landings later in this decade.

If everything works, Surveyor will fire retro-rockets to break its approach speed from 6,100 miles an hour to 3 1/2 miles an hour, then drop gently the final 14 feet with less impact than a parachutist feels on earth.

The Soviet Union's ball-shaped Luna 9, which radioed the first pictures from the lunar surface last Feb. 3, apparently was ejected from a carrier vehicle at a height of several hundred feet.

"Information and pictures recently released in Moscow indicate the fall probably would have been fatal to an unprotected human," said Dr. Thomas Vrebalovich, of Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which is guiding Surveyor on its quarter-million-mile flight.

Dr. Vrebalovich, a Surveyor project scientist, said in an interview that the Luna 9 technique was similar to one abandoned by the U.S. space agency years ago.

He referred to the early Ranger shots, originally planned to drop instruments imbedded in balsa wood balls just before they crashed into the moon. The balls later were left off the spacecraft to allow more room for television cameras which radiated back history's first closeups of the moon as they plunged to destruction.

NOT DISCLOSED
The Soviets have never disclosed just how Luna 9 was landed, but Dr. Vrebalovich said it was obvious the 200-pound ball carried no retro-rockets.

Monitoring of Soviet signals indicated that the carrier vehicle fired a retro-rocket about 40 miles above the lunar surface and shortly afterwards ejected the crushproof ball, which popped open on impact and started a camera, he said.

Amends Rules On Allowable

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission announced approval today of an amendment to its rules increasing the number of discovery allowable oil wells in a new onshore field from five to 10.

This means onshore oil wells in a new field are exempt from market demand limitations for a period of 24 months or until the 11th well has been completed in the field.

The 24-month period was put in the commission's rules March 29, raising that limit from 18 months.

Texas oilmen, at two separate hearings, had urged increasing the discovery allowable limitations. They said it was needed to encourage oil exploration.

Shell Oil Co. was the first to propose publicly to the commission that the discovery allowable number should be raised from five to 10.

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission reported today the total average calendar day oil allowable is 3,168,940 barrels, a decrease of 101,558 barrels a day since May 15.

Addicts May Get Treatment Instead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House votes today on an administration bill that would shift the emphasis from punishment to medical treatment in cases dealing with narcotics addicts.

Rep. Robert T. Ashmore, D-S.C., the bill's floor manager, said he expected the measure to survive efforts to narrow its application.

Ashmore said the closest battle may come over a provision to permit persons 22 to 26 years old convicted of narcotics or marijuana offenses to qualify for treatment under the federal Youth Corrections Act.

Dominicans Voting Today, Aftermath Peace Doubtful

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Dominicans voted today for the first time in nearly four years in general elections expected to be relatively peaceful. The aftermath was doubtful.

Slightly more than a million men and women were eligible to cast ballots during the 12 hours the polls were to be open. Unless there is a landslide for one of the presidential candidates, definite results are not expected until late Thursday.

A close race is anticipated between the major presidential contenders, Juan Bosch, leader of the Dominican Revolutionary party, and Joaquin Balaguer, of the Reformist party.

A third candidate, Rafael F. Bonnelly, is considered out of the running. He is backed by a coalition of tiny conservative parties called the Movement of National Integration.

All three are former presidents, but Bosch is the only one who got the office by a democratic election. He was ousted by the military in September 1963 after seven months in office.

Also at stake in the election are all seats in the two-house national Congress and all elective municipal offices.

The voting gives the people a chance to pass judgment on the April 1965 revolution, launched to bring Bosch back from exile and restore him to the presidency. His supporters claim American intervention thwarted a massive popular uprising that would have restored Bosch.

Opponents of Bosch and of the revolution contend that the revolt was only a local power grab that never extended beyond Santo Domingo.

Balaguer and his Reformist party were not involved in the revolt. He and most of the party leadership were in exile, but most of the revolt's opponents have now rallied behind them.

Western Union Closed Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO Commercial Telegraphers' Union ordered a four-hour nation work stoppage today against Western Union in a contract dispute.

"We will close down all Western Union offices nationwide commencing at noon for a four-hour work stoppage," said union President E. L. Hageman.

The union represents some 20,000 Western Union employees around the country except in New York, where nearly 4,000 workers represented by the AFL-CIO Communications of America won a new contract announced earlier today.

The company had offered the Commercial Telegraphers' Union the same contract accepted by the communications workers, providing for an increase of about 4 per cent a year in wages and fringe benefits in a three-year contract.

"We are not accepting that offer," Hageman said.

The telegraphers' union is demanding wage increase of 7 per cent and 8 per cent in a two-year contract, plus improved pensions and vacations.

Civil Rights Conference Settles Down To Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House Conference on Civil Rights apparently patched up differences today and settled down to discuss a multibillion-dollar program to bring the Negro into full equality in society.

With scarcely a ripple of dissent, conference leaders announced a reluctant compromise with the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and other elements among the 2,400 conferees who had demanded a chance to vote formally on all issues.

Conference chairman Ben W. Heineman, opening the two-day session, reported the planning council had decided to allow each of the 12 discussion groups of some 200 conferees each to prepare and vote on resolutions at their last session Thursday afternoon.

While some—like Washington attorney Joseph L. Rauh Jr.—protested that the full assembly should be given a day to act formally on resolutions, CORE national director Floyd McKissick pronounced his satisfaction with the plan. McKissick earlier had denounced the conference as rigged.

McKissick said he no longer feels the conference is rigged.

Tax Lien Names Folk Singer

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — The federal government filed today in Monterey County Superior Court a $36,863.97 tax lien against folk singer Joan Baez.

Miss Baez annually refuses to pay 60 per cent of her tax bill because she says she does not wish to support the nation's war efforts.

Blast Injures Buddhist Leader

Buddhist Leader Hurt In Attack

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Buddhist leaders resumed their peace talks with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military junta today despite a mysterious grenade attack on one of the leading monks involved.

While the resumption of the negotiations seemed a hopeful sign in South Viet Nam's political crisis, rampaging student mobs sacked and burned the deserted U.S. consulate and at least three other buildings in the rebellious Buddhist stronghold of Hue.

In the war, U.S. pilots dodged half a dozen Soviet missiles in a near-record day of attack on North Viet Nam but conventional groundfire knocked down three American jets. The assault on the Communist north included the heaviest single raid of the war, an 18-mission strike against the Yen Bai storage complex along the Red River 80 miles northwest of Hanoi.

An Air Force spokesman said more planes were sent against Yen Bai than any other individual target since the raids on the north began Feb. 7, 1965. He reported 25 antiaircraft gun pits and 72 buildings destroyed and 44 buildings badly damaged.

ADD CIVILIANS
The resumption of the negotiations in Saigon's Gia Long Palace between the junta and monks of the powerful Buddhist Institute followed a public declaration by Ky to carry out his promise to add civilians to the 10-man ruling directory.

was possible the junta would be doubled — adding a civilian representative for every military member.

Buddhist youths burned a U.S. Navy Jeep in Saigon and threatened two GIs with clubs outside the Buddhist Institute compound shortly after an unidentified young terrorist threw the grenade at the monk's car as it was entering the gate of the Buddhist youth center on the outskirts of Saigon. The grenade bounced off the side of the car and rolled underneath it.

Other monks at the gate shouted a warning. The blast caught Minh and his driver as they scrambled out of the car.

Minh was taken to a hospital, where doctors said he was in a coma and receiving a blood transfusion. The driver was less seriously injured. Foreign Minister Tran Van Do went to the hospital but was not allowed to see the wounded monk.

Opening lead: Nine of ♠
A crafty defender capitalized on declarer's faulty technique to upset South's six spade contract.

The auction was direct. South, having 24 points in high cards and distribution and a six-card suit, opened with a demand bid of two spades. North properly raised to three spades with nine points in high cards and the queen of diamonds. With the trump fit confirmed and holding the controls in every suit, South proceeded without further ado to a small slam.

West opened the nine of spades and South won the trick in his hand with the king. He cashed the ace next card, then West discarded a heart, declarer switched to the ace of clubs before leading a third round of trumps to North's queen.

The ten of diamonds was led and finessed. If West wins the trick with the king, South is in position to claim, for he can discard one heart on the king of clubs and the other on dummy's long diamond. West realized, however, that it would not be prudent to release his diamond control too quickly, and he followed suit smoothly with the deuce.

The king of clubs was cashed as South discarded the eight of hearts and then a diamond was led to the jack. West produced the king and exited with a diamond, placing the declarer back in his hand. At the end South was obliged to surrender a heart for the setting trick.

Declarer's timing was faulty. He should be willing to give up a diamond trick early in the play in order to retain full control of the proceedings. It is suggested that the three of diamonds be led at trick two. If West puts up the king, it is the only trick he can take. South draws trump when he regains the lead and discards his hearts on the king of clubs and the queen of diamonds.

If West plays a small diamond when South leads the suit, dummy's nine will win the trick. A heart is returned and declarer puts in the jack, losing to West's king. South wins the return, cashing the ace of clubs and the ace of hearts, and then ruffs a heart in dummy. The jack of diamonds is discarded on the king of clubs, trumps are drawn and declarer claims his slam, having lost only one heart trick.

New Books Help Answer Pre-November Questions

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

Now is the time to catch up on your political background reading.

Right now Texas conservative and-or moderate Democrats are clanking they sandbagged fellow liberal and-or labor party members in precinct and county conventions.

The liberal-laborites are hinting there will be more fireworks at the September state convention.

And Texas Republicans are hoping the Democratic in-fighting will result in GOP gains in November.

Sound familiar? Like a broken record?

Texas politics generally defies historians but there are several publications that could answer your questions before the November elections.

Dr. O. Douglas Weeks, who retired Aug. 31 from active classroom work at the University of Texas, is one of the nation's authorities on political parties—Texas Democrats in particular. Weeks' latest, "Texas in 1964: A One-Party State again?" sketches "a 12-year cycle in the history of Texas politics and party organization which began and ended with the state having a one-party system."

However, Weeks suggests there really are four political parties in Texas—the middle-of-the-road or moderate Democrats which has always been the most numerous group; conservative Democrats; liberal Democrats; and Republicans.

Another view of Texas politics comes with the publication June 1 of "The Republican Party in Texas, 1865-1965," by Paul Casdorff, public welfare and social worker of Victoria (Pemberton Press, Austin).

Casdorff's book predicts the Texas Republican party will snap back from the 1964 disaster.

"Despite this strong personal allure of (President) Johnson, Republicans looked forward to the approach of the 1966 off-year elections, when Texas Democratic candidates would have to stand largely on their own mettle," he concluded.

Casdorff notes that the Texas Republican party itself arose from the conflict of two political factions, the Conservatives and Radicals, at the Constitution convention in 1866. The Radicals faction became a nucleus of the later Republican party organized at Houston in 1867.

Although the Democratic party has been dominant the past century, there has never ceased to be a formal organization of the Republican party in Texas since 1867, Casdorff says.

There has been only one elected Republican governor, Gov. Edmund J. Davis, but in four presidential elections—1872, 1928, 1952 and 1956—the state voted for a Republican nominee. Nine Republican congressmen and two GOP senators have been elected from Texas.

Two other books would be helpful to Texans with a serious desire to follow politics through the November elections.

"The Texas Almanac" will furnish statistics on past elections.

"Texas Election Laws, 1965-66 Edition," will help settle arguments and stop fights.

LBJ Park Is Inching Along

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — How soon will the controversial Lyndon B. Johnson State Park become a reality?

"I couldn't say," chairman Will Odom of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission told a news conference Tuesday.

Odom, trustee of funds contributed privately to buy land for the 644-acre park—separated by a narrow road from the LBJ Ranch, again refused to disclose details.

"This is a matter of private donations. I won't say who or how much," Odom said. "This is not newsworthy in my judgment."

The commissioners, including A. W. Moursund, principal trustee for the Johnson family business interests, designated the park in November, 1964, and enlarged it by 399 acres in an unannounced meeting this January.

Condemnation of land for the park, in cases where owners won't sell at the price offered, must be carried out by the Gillespie County Commissioners.

Dirksen Casts Dark Shadow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen said today no compromise will lessen his opposition to the housing provision of President Johnson's civil rights bill.

Thus Dirksen cast a dark shadow over the fate of the administration's measure as the White House Conference on Civil Rights gets under way. The Senate Republican leader was a key figure in the passage of previous civil rights legislation.

In a separate interview, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield frankly conceded that if Dirksen sticks by his contention that a provision banning racial discrimination in the sale or renting of housing is unconstitutional, there may be no civil rights bill in this session.

"We've got to have the votes of those he represents on the Republican side to get Senate action on the measure," Mansfield said.

The Montana Democrat, along with other Democratic congressional leaders, attended a briefing with the President Tuesday and later predicted Congress should be able to pass most, if not all, of the administration's legislative program by Labor Day.

Asked if he was satisfied with the congressional pace thus far, Mansfield said, "Oh, yes." There was, however, no mention of the administration's civil rights bill.

Second LVN Course Being Considered By College

A second licensed vocational nursing class is being considered at Howard County Junior College, according to Ben Johnson, academic dean.

The college has applied to the Texas Education Agency for the new class in order to meet the increased need for nurses in Big Spring, Johnson explained.

The three local hospitals affiliated with the program have agreed to place the extra class in the on-the-job phase.

The three hospitals participating in the HCJC plan are Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital, Hall - Bennett Memorial Hospital, and Cowper Clinic and Hospital. Medical Arts Hospital has its own licensed vocational nurse program.

Student LVN's train for one year. If the additional class is approved, tentative plans call for the first one to begin in September, and the second to begin in February, according to Mrs. Johnnie Amos, RN, instructor of the present class.

APPLY LATER

"We shall begin taking applications for the September class in the latter part of June," Mrs. Amos stated. "However, candidates should not apply until a public announcement is made to that effect." Mrs. Amos has taught the course at HCJC for the past eight years.

Students get an opportunity to work in every phase of nursing. They work general floor, surgery, obstetrics, pediatrics and clinical.

For the first two months, the student nurses attend eight hours of theory classes each day. In the third month, they begin clinical work for two hours each day and attend class the other six.

After five months, the women are capped in a formal ceremony and go on full time duty at one of the local hospitals. Training includes a chance to work all three shifts, day, evening and morning.

When a student nurse remains in the program for five months, her tuition is refunded. This leaves her with the initial expenses of books, uniforms, and Court Condemnation proceedings were halted by the commissioners two months ago.

"We have asked the commissioners to act. They will act in due course, I am sure," Odom said.

Moursund was asked about published reports he had conferred with the commissioners.

"I talked to a few of them," he said.

Only 18 acres have been acquired, all by condemnation, at a price of $450 an acre. The same price has been offered to other landowners in the park area. Most have turned down the offer.

"I think so," was Odom's response to a question on whether negotiations with landowners were making progress.

Odom said money for the LBJ park fund is in several banks — "I'm not sure any funds are in Mr. Moursund's bank," in Johnson City.

He said the park had not been discussed with the Department of the Interior when asked about the possibility of federal assistance to buy land. George Harzog, director of the National Park Service, said April 5 he had looked over the park site at the request of state park officials. He said, however, there were no current plans for federal-state development of the site.

Odom and Moursund said the park was necessary to preserve the ranch area from commercial encroachment. Johnson's parents are buried in the family cemetery there. On a recent nationwide television special, the President said he, too, would be buried there.

Odom and Moursund gave Gettysburg battlefield as an example of a national shrine tainted by commercialism on adjoining land.

"There are beer joints all over the place," Odom said.

Farm Prices Still Climbing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm product prices continued their downward trend last month and moved into June about 3.3 per cent below their most recent peak, set last February.

They were 15 per cent below the record high set in February of 1951, during the Korean War. An Agriculture Department report Tuesday showed farm commodity prices dropped three fourths of one per cent between mid-April and mid-May. Largely responsible were lower prices for poultry, dairy products and commercial vegetables.

Prices paid by farmers for goods and services used in production and family living did not change between mid-April and mid-May from the record high level reached in April.

Most Folks Sign Up For Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security Administration reported today that more than 17 million Americans — 90 per cent of those eligible — paid $3 each to sign up for extra Medicare benefits. The deadline for enrolling was midnight Tuesday.

Commissioner Robert M. Ball credited the high enrollment to a massive campaign to inform all people who were 65 by last Jan. 1 of their rights to become eligible for doctor bill benefits, in addition to hospital benefits, on July 1.

Ball, who said he had expected about 80 per cent of those eligible would enroll, termed the 90 per cent turnout remarkable.

The deadline was extended two months to midnight May 31 by Congress at the request of President Johnson.

The commissioner said it would be a week or two before a figure will be available on the enrollment, but he said he thinks it may be around 17.3 million.

"The total was 16.8 million as of March 31," he said. "The two-month extension of the deadline gave us the opportunity to enroll another 400,000 to 500,000."

The benefits of both the medical care insurance and the basic hospital insurance under Medicare became effective July 1 and the monthly medical care insurance fee of $3 per person also begins to apply on that date.

For persons who became 65 since March 1 an enrollment period of seven months is provided. It begins three months before a person turns 65.

If a person fails to enroll as soon as he is eligible, the monthly insurance fee is increased 10 per cent for each full year that passes after the end of the initial period and before enrollment.

The Lone Star district committee will have its regular monthly meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at Couden Country Club. R. L. Tollett, chairman, said this was an important session since it will deal with the summer program.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Last week was a busy one what with farewell parties, parties for graduates, complimentary affairs for the brides-to-be and just normal affairs for business groups.

The yearly ABE dinner meeting had one of the most entertaining speakers we have heard in some time. He's a banker and is a better than average story teller. He's LEE HERRING, who works and lives in Grand Prairie. Even when he tells stories you have heard many times before, the stories are funnier than ever. MR. and MRS. IVAN YARBROUGH of Apartment came down to see their daughter, MRS. IVANELLE MARR, take over the presidency of the local ABE chapter.

At the party for the departing COL. and MRS. EDWIN WHITE and COL. and MRS. JOE SHEERWOOD at the home of COL. and MRS. CHESTER BUTCHER, we chatted with MRS. LARRY CROW who said she and Mr. Crow were good friends of MR. and MRS. LEE HERRING when they lived in Grand Prairie and she regretted having missed seeing him on his quick visit here. It was nice to meet the WILLIAM BLAKEMORES of Midland who came over to the party for their longtime friends the WHITES. Had a fine time listening to JIMMY BEALE talk of what he and Rosalyne have in mind now that he is retired. One thing sure he doesn't plan to sell his home here even though they'll spend much time up the coast.

With so many activities on the same night many well wishers of the DOUGLAS WIERRES made early calls to the GEORGE WEEKS home where friends entertained with a tea to enable many to bid adieu to the popular band director and his wife before their departure for Denton.

MRS. HENRY WILLIAMSON has returned from Loveland where she has spent the past six weeks with MR. and MRS. FRANK HUNT and their children.

The JOE GUNNINGS and the ABE RATLIFFS had a fine time on a recent vacation trip to Las Vegas, Nev.

Here for a weekend visit with his sister, MISS IMA DEASON, were MR. and MRS. L. A. (CURLY) DEASON who live at their cottage on Lake LBJ.

MR. and MRS. KEN GOOD and Jennifer who live in Richardson were here for the weekend with MR. and MRS. BILLY CLEMENTS, the Clements, who teach school here, are to leave soon for Denton where they will continue graduate work at NTSU.

MR. and MRS. W. H. HENRY have returned from a family reunion in Polk County and visit with three of her sons. In Cleveland they spent some time with MR. and MRS. ROBERT KEEFE and MRS. RUTH MCGEE, a sister of Mrs. Henry, who accompanied them to the HARVILLE family reunion in Polk County where the headquarters were at the home of an aunt, MRS. LIZZIE WILSON. After the reunion the Henrys went to Houston where they visited JIM and LEVI KEEFER and their families.

Anyone interested in joining the club is asked to call the president, Mrs. John J. Herbert, AM 4-7383 or vice president, Mrs. Doering, AM 4-6579.

Rebekahs Install Lodge Musician

Mrs. R. W. Hewett was installed as musician during the Tuesday evening meeting of the Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284. The members met at the IOOF Hall with Miss Shirley Lee presiding.

Mrs. Tom McAdams, lodge deputy, installed Mrs. Hewett and presented Mrs. A. F. Gilliland with a certificate of perfection in unwritten work.

Graduate Feted At Coke Party

Miss Rita Faye Saunders was honored with a graduation Coke party Saturday morning at the home of Mrs. John D. Knox, 1133 Lexington. Cohortesses were Sue Knox, Sena Goodlett and Mrs. W. S. Goodlett.

The color scheme was yellow and white, and the refreshment table was centered with a world globe topped with a mortarboard and surrounded by yellow and white flowers.

Among the 15 guests present was the honoree's mother, Mrs. L. B. Saunders.

Weekend Guests

Weekend houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Muegge were Mrs. Louis Metting and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Metting, all of Goddard. They attended the confirmation services of Ernest Louis Muegge at Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday morning.

A LOVELIER YOU Surround Yourself With Sweet Perfume

By MARY SUE MILLER
Used in the home, fragrance has the power to create a cool, serene atmosphere. You feel refreshed and at ease the moment you enter a room with sweet airs. In the summer, the balm is thrice welcome to one's family and guests. To one's self!

Fragrance for the home, of course, must have fresh, sparkling quality. For a living room that could mean a bouquet, wear on a tapestry of garden flowers. A single floral—white lilac or carnation—would bring a lift to bedrooms and closets.

Merely to spur your inventiveness, here are a few designs for perfumed living:

- Place a jar of potpourri or a bowl of sachet powder in the entrance hall or foyer.
- Fit triangular sachet corners under chair and sofa cushions in the living room. Or try the strategy of an electric perfume burner with burning perfume, an essence made for the purpose.
- Keep linen sweet with tuck-in sachets.
- Bureau drawers respond to scented flannels and perfumed vellum drawer liners.
- Snapped over coat hangers, shoulder-cover sachets lend a delicious scent to personal and guest closets and the clothing housed therein.
- For utmost femininity spray bedrooms, the inlets of make-up drawers and cleansing tissue holders, and the tops of light bulbs with sachet spray mist. (Spray bulbs before, never after lighting.)

Teenagers Entertained At 'Teen Town Festival'

The "Teen Town Festival," sponsored by volunteers from the Officers Wives Club at Webb Air Force Base, was held Friday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the teenage ward at Big Spring State Hospital.

Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Richard Trickett, Mrs. Clifford Gallanger, Mrs. William Zamboni, Mrs. John Omond, Mrs. Perry Rose, Mrs. George McKenna and Mrs. Benjamin F. Neascham.

Various games were played with the winners receiving free tickets to use as they pleased. One of the teenagers donned a turban and told fortunes, and Capt. Clifford Gallanger and Lt. William Zamboni called bingo and took pictures.

Members of Alpha Chi Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha provided cotton candy and there was a cupcake walk and fish pond procession.

Rice Bags Prepared

A rice bag party for Miss Sheri Andre, bride-elect of Michael Voss, was held Saturday morning at Odessa in the home of Miss Sue Ann Carley, 2901 Byron. Miss Sharon Ballard was colobostess.

Rice bags were made for the wedding, and china and milk glass were used to serve refreshments to the 27 guests. Those from out of town were the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. A. C. Andre, and Mrs. Allen Simpson.

A gift of a hand carved shisham wood book holder and cook book was presented to Miss Andre along with favorite recipes of the guests.

A Close One At Home Plate

Pitcher Orlando Rosas of the Indians puts the tag on first baseman R. J. Englert of the Kiwanis club before being upended in a close play at first base. The play occurred in the third inning of Tuesday night's opening game of the Hi-Junior Baseball League here.

Tribe, ABC Post Wins In Openers

The Indians and the ABC Club chalked up victories in opening games of the Hi-Junior Baseball League here Tuesday night. Formal dedication of the Teen-Age complex, which is being rechristened, will be held Friday evening. The Indians won their game from the Kiwanis in the sixth when Junior Almazan walked and eventually made his way home on a bases-loaded walk to Felix Martinez. Final score was 6-5. The Warriors could collect only two hits off Kiwanis pitching. Martinez doubled in the first and Chabarría singled in the second for the tribe.

Orlando Rosas and Billy Scott divided time on the mound for the Indians, surrendering six hits between them. Jerry Wilson and R. J. Englert each had two blows for the Kiwanis. The ABC club had an easy time with the Optimists in the after-piece, winning by a score of 9-1. Ronnie Steen fashioned the mound winning, surrendering a solitary hit to the losers. That was a fourth inning single by Charles Smith that didn't figure in the scoring. The Optimists managed their run in the fifth when Rocky Wooley walked and eventually legged it home after two stolen bases. Steen rapped out a double and a single to boost his own chances for victory. The ABC scored in every inning but the seventh.

Marichal Off Form But Racks Up Win

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Juan Marichal was tired. His elbow was hurting. His control was off, and he gave up the astounding total of three walks. His slider and screwball weren't working. He won. The high-kicking right-hander, despite the fatigue and ailing arm and off-form pitching, ran his perfect record to 10-0 Tuesday night in San Francisco's 5-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Marichal managed to double home the Giants' first two runs, striking out 10, blanking the Reds through six innings, and recording his ninth complete game in 11 starts. But he was tagged for two homers by Leo Cardenas, in the seventh and ninth, and his earned run average zoomed from 0.59 to 0.80. As for his three walks, compared to eight in his previous 92 innings this season, two came in succession in the fourth inning and loaded the bases. "I tried various pitches, but I couldn't get the plate in that inning," he commented. "I don't think rookie pitchers do as bad as I did sometime."

Marichal weathered that jam neatly — by striking out John Edwards. And in the next inning, he clipped loser Sammy Ellis for the two-run double and scored himself on Tito Fuentes' single. Jim Hart made it 4-0 with a homer in the seventh, giving Marichal the edge he needed to survive Cardenas' late-game slugging. By winning the Giants kept their National League lead at 2 1/2 games over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who made it seven victories in their last eight games with a 6-2 decision over Atlanta. Elsewhere in the NL — St. Louis won its fourth straight, beating Houston 3-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Ray Washburn and Hal Woodeshick. Bill White led Philadelphia over the New York Mets 6-4, and the Chicago Cubs nipped Pittsburgh 2-1.

Majors' Gate In Dramatic Rise Over '65

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball attendance at the 1966 season's first milestone was up 10.3 per cent over last year. Through Monday's Memorial Day games, the majors had attracted 6,073,519 paid customers compared to 5,505,719 in the same number of 1965 dates. This represents an increase of 967,800.

The California Angels and Atlanta Braves have accounted for most of the increase. The Angels show a gain of 224,758 in their new Anaheim Stadium while the Braves' attendance is 271,527 ahead of what it was in Milwaukee last year. Eleven other clubs are on the plus side. They are Baltimore 64,007, Kansas City 59,485, Minnesota 45,825, Detroit 43,616, Washington 34,434 and Cleveland 7,962 in the American League, and Pittsburgh 52,602, Los Angeles 52,041, St. Louis 51,427, the New York Mets 45,699 and Cincinnati 422 in the National League.

DEAR ABBY

The Dog's Too Big!

DEAR ABBY: I have a 170 pound problem, and it's not my husband. (He's over 200!) It's a lovable St. Bernard who crept into my affections when she was a mere puppy of 66 pounds. Joe "surprised" me with her because HE'S always wanted a St. Bernard. There are small children in our neighborhood and I must keep the dog chained constantly or, in the spirit of playfulness, she could knock a child down and break both his legs!

Children Keep Him Young

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — "Children keep you young," said John McNaught, 50, whose 22nd was born four days ago.

"It's amazing that we are such a happy family because we really live in appalling conditions," said McNaught. "For one thing, we don't even have a bathroom. The children have to be washed in the kitchen sink."

McNaught and his wife Margaret, 45, were married 30 years ago. Their 20 surviving children include 9 girls and 11 boys and range from Mary, 28, to David, four days.

The four eldest daughters are married.

McNaught, who makes $50 a week as a welder, said working children contribute $33 a week and his wife collects $12.32 from the government in family allowances.

Mrs. McNaught said: "I feel as young as ever, but let me say this, I'm not out to create records."

According to the British Medical Journal, Britain's record family totaled 39, in the last century.

Institute Deals With Deprived

LUBBOCK — A six-week institute on the teaching of the educationally deprived will be conducted at Texas Tech June 1 through July 8, according to Dr. Joe Tidrow, professor of education and philosophy.

The institute is designed for teachers, administrators and supervisors who are graduate students holding a valid teaching certificate and who are to be directly involved with the instructional program of the educationally deprived children during the 1966-67 school year.

The program will provide six hours of graduate credit. Registration is set for June 1-2. Classes begin June 3. Applications should be sent to Dr. Tidrow.

We live in Minnesota and it's too cold to keep her out of doors all winter, so she sleeps on our service porch. If we don't keep all the bathroom doors closed, she drinks out of the "johns." We are growing more attached to her every day, but it's like keeping a horse in the house! She has a fine pedigree, and Joe paid a good price for her, but I'm ready to GIVE her away. Abby, do you want a St. Bernard?

MARGE D. DEAR MARGE: Thanks a lot, but no thanks. They won't let us keep live stock in our apartment. Large dogs need room to run and romp. Ask around. Perhaps someone with a ranch or farm would appreciate her. Inquire, too, at your animal shelter. They are in touch with people who want pets, and all prospects are thoroughly investigated. Your husband may be a good Joe, but HE belongs in the doghouse.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to have a nice plump girl to call my own. I am not some kind of nut, either. I am a normal, fairly intelligent college-educated man, 32 years of age. Every girl I know either mixes a powder with water and calls it "lunch," or else she skips lunch entirely and eats a dry cracker that looks like a dog biscuit.

I long for the good old days when you could take a girl out BETWEEN meals and buy her a hot fudge sundae or a malted.

Most girls who are "watching their figures" are the only ones who are "watching" them because they are skin and bones and not worth looking at. If you run into a nice hefty gal between 22 and 32 years of age who likes to eat, but has trouble getting dates because she's so well padded, send me her name and address. It would be a pleasure to meet her. Sign this — "Sick of scarecrows," or "READY" IN SAN ANTONIO

FINANCED 'HATE-WHITE PLAYS' IN FILTHY LANGUAGE FOR KIDS

Antipoverty Funds Wrongfully Spent

NEW YORK (AP) — Rejected twice, Harlem's controversial Black Arts theater mysteriously tapped federal antipoverty funds on the third try and spent at least $115,000 on cultural programs including "hate-white" plays in filthy language for youth in the streets, a special investigating team has reported.

Black Arts financing was checked off last Sept. 7 just short of midpoint in its 10-week stand. Sargent Shriver of the Office of Economic Opportunity later called it one of the "disappointments of the antipoverty campaign," and said "no federal dollars should have gone to the Black Arts."

SINGLED OUT

A special study singled out numerous "wrongful acts" involving not only Black Arts but also another HARYOU-ACT project in the $2 million crash program to keep Harlem cool last summer.

Among examples cited were diversion of youth workers and supplies from public "vest-pocket park" projects to private construction, kickbacks of pay, a revolving open-end petty cash fund without controls, unauthorized spending, lavish use of rented cars and station wagons, and funding of imposter "ministers" with fake "churches" and "day-care" centers.

The study was made by an internal investigations committee of the HARYOU-ACT board of directors, set up last Oct. 11.

- Called a disappointment of antipoverty campaign
- At least $115,000 spent on Black Arts programs
- Imposter ministers, fake churches, pay kickbacks
- Special study has not yet been made public
- Shriver: 'No federal dollars should have gone to program'

The report was received by the board but has not been made public. A copy of principal sections was obtained by an Associated Press reporter team.

FORMER JUDGE

The committee was headed by Samuel R. Pierce Jr., former New York judge and member of various state and city boards who now is with a Park Avenue law firm. Its 12 other members included two other lawyers, two clergymen, three educators, a physician and an architect.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan began his own investigation last fall.

"Records show that the Black Arts theater was turned down for funding as part of the crash program and that OEO had also refused to grant it funds," the Pierce Committee report said.

"Had the board of directors been keen and observant," it added, "Black Arts could not have entered PUL (Project Uplift, the summer program) in the circuitous manner in which it did."

DAY CAMPS

"The Black Arts theater was made to appear to be operating as 'day camps' the report continued, 'with a condition which states that only $2,800 worth of 'consumable goods' was to be provided."

But that much was spent for just three items, the report said — $1,200 on men's suits, $800 for a tape recorder and $800 for a rented living room suite.

It added: "From documents in our possession, Black Arts spent at least 90 times the sum of $1,200."

That would be $115,200. Livingston Wingate, executive director of HARYOU-ACT, said in a recent "reconstruction" of summer program spending that Black Arts had cost $95,150.

PURCHASES

The Pierce report continued: "Purchases included women's stockings, shawls, fur pieces, men's clothing, men's shoes, four gravity knives, three blank pistols, gallons of house paint, electrical light fixtures, etc."

"There were hundreds" of Black Arts purchase orders and requests unaccounted for.

"Black Arts was also given a 'revolving petty-cash fund' of $100. There were no limits as to how often this 'fund' could be replenished, within what period, or for what items it could be spent.

"Black Arts was also supplied with typewriters, calculating machines and other office equipment which to date have not been accounted for."

"It appears that many of these items will never be recovered."

CARS RENTED

"We discovered that some 55 vehicles, pleasure sedans, station wagons, trailer trucks, etc., had been rented to the Black Arts theater. We could not pinpoint who justified the need for, or authorized the use of those vehicles."

The Black Arts theater then was headed by Negro poet-playwright LeRoi Jones, who left Greenwich Village to propagandize black nationalism in Harlem.

He founded the Black Arts repertory theater-school in April, 1965, with a corps of about 15 actors and 20 writers, sculptors and painters.

"I don't see anything wrong with having white people," Jones thundered. "Harlem must be taken from the beast and gain its sovereignty as a black nation."

BITTERNESS

The theater channeled Jones'

antiwhite bitterness into popular street-corner drama, with whites cast as villains. In one murderous travesty on the old Jack Benny radio program, called "Jello," the gravel-voiced Negro chauffeur, Rochester, winds up killing all the whites in the cast, including Benny.

The Pierce Committee listed as "minus" factors in the Black Arts plays:

"1. The use of inexcusable language under the guise of 'comedy expressions' which resulted in community protest.

"2. The unusual attack upon the role of the clergy of the Christian churches of the Harlem community, both past and present, was resented by the community."

DISREGARD

"There was a general disregard for the fact that in the summer a vast majority of the youngsters who would view these performances would not be mature enough to distinguish between filth and community expression in the language used by the performers," the report commented.

However, the report found good points as well in the Black Arts thrice-weekly program of drama presentations, dance and jazz concerts, classes in Negro culture, history and political philosophy, playwrighting, painting, sculpture and dance, and remedial reading and math.

No Major Incidents After Death Ruling

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police reported some window smashing but no major incidents in the Negro community Tuesday night after a verdict of accidental homicide in the controversial death of a Negro motorist at the hand of a white policeman.

area on a hair-trigger. Threats of further violence have been voiced since the young father was shot.

Neither Nova nor Mrs. Deadwyler was in court to hear the jury of eight men—one a Negro — and one woman give its verdict.

Candidates Polish Up Name-Calling

Enforcement of the so-called right-to-work law and the question of who's campaigning for whom engaged the attention of Texas' candidates for attorney general Tuesday.

Former Secretary of State Crawford Martin challenged his opponent in Saturday's Democratic runoff primary, State Sen. Franklin Spears, to take a stand on statutes banning union shop contracts.

Spears meanwhile expanded on previous utterances labelling

Martin "a clique-backed phantom who has said all he had to say on his billboards."

Martin campaigned in San Antonio, Harlingen and Corpus Christi as the election drew nigh. He planned to spend today in Dallas and Fort Worth.

Spears put in a full day at a series of 10 coffees in Dallas before returning Tuesday night to his home at San Antonio, where he expected to wind up the campaign.

Asserting he supports the right-to-work law fully, Martin wanted to know if Spears would enforce it as attorney general. He also inquired:

"What kind of promise did (Texas AFL-CIO President) Hank Brown extract from him (Spears) ... in exchange for his all-out support?"

Martin noted that Spears has called him a handpicked candidate of Gov. John Connally who would be a rubber stamp attorney general. He said he and

Burglary Trial Called Thursday

A burglary of two years ago is the basis for a trial slated for Thursday in 118th District Court.

Hurlie Johnson is the defendant.

He is to be tried for the burglary June 8, 1964, of the Bob and Joe Liquor Store.

Wayne Burns, district attorney, said the state is ready to proceed with the trial, and Judge Ralph Caton has instructed a jury panel to report to the court in the morning.

Johnson is represented by Norman Spencer.

The defendant was recently returned here from Huntsville, where he had just completed a sentence imposed in a burglary conviction in Dawson County.

Apparently the Johnson criminal case will be the only matter to be tried at the docket this week in the 118th District Court.

New Exile Group Admits Attempt To Infiltrate

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A newly formed Cuban exile group says it took part in last weekend's unsuccessful attempt to infiltrate Cuba and plans to step up its activities against the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The Cuban Exile Representation — RECE — announced Tuesday it has joined with two anti-Castro groups as a coordinated movement seemed to be gathering momentum among the divided exile front.

Intensive negotiations were reported for a wide-ranging alliance that would include at least four other militant anti-Castro groups.

"Instead of going it alone, exile groups now are going to coordinate efforts," said RECE spokesman — Ernesto Freyre. "Together we can accomplish our aim."

"Losing one battle does not mean you have lost the war," he said of the six anti-Castro revolutionaries who attempted to infiltrate Cuba by launch last weekend. Two were killed, two were wounded and captured and two are presumed drowned.

Freyre and other spokesmen for the new federation — composed of RECE, Comandos 1 and a faction of the 30th of November Movement — refused to discuss launching sites or any specifics of the weekend raid.

The Cuban government has charged that the six men intended to assassinate Castro and said the U.S. government's Central Intelligence Agency was connected with the plot.

The launch carrying the six embarked from Marathon Key, Fla., despite a U.S. moratorium on such attacks.

The Cuban government charges touched off an intensive inquiry in Washington. State Department officials said Tuesday night they had received no reports either from government agencies here or in Florida with direct information on the revolutionaries' takeoff point.

Officials stressed that the United States long has sought to discourage such raids and that a number of such expeditions have been halted in waters off Florida.

Moss is a milkman, and the notes were just goodbyes to customers, informing them he was retiring after 32 years on the route through suburban Holmby Hills.

That was in March that he put the notes in the bottles, announcing he was leaving them at the age of 65. Tuesday, the residents gave him a certificate of appreciation and a check for

Looking At The Realities

A two-lane highway is several times more dangerous than a four-lane one, even with controlled access and grade crossings eliminated. The reason: It cannot be divided, because of the passing problem, and thus allows the deadly head-on crash.

However, Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N. M., may be over-reacting by introducing a bill requiring all future interstate highways to have four lanes. The U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of Public Roads, which approves all interstate highway design, has given a reasonable explanation for 1,400 miles of the 41,800 interstate system being limited to two lanes.

The bureau admits some danger but argues that the two-lane mileage is in wide-open spaces where that type of highway will carry predicted traffic volumes for the next 20 years. In all cases, it adds, enough right-of-way is being obtained to expand the two-lane to four-lane highways when the volume of traffic warrants. Also, the two-lane stretches have the normal interstate-system safety factors of controlled access and grade-crossing elimination.

Texas (with 250 miles) is second to Montana (564 miles) in the amount of two-lane sections in its interstate system. That is only eight per cent of the 3,825 miles of interstate highways allocated to this state.

It has not been established that there is a more frequent accident rate on these two-lane stretches in remote areas.

Four-lane division of all highways would, of course, be ideal. But the cost of that would be prohibitive on the primary and secondary systems, and it is doubtful that the cost could be justified on the low-volume, isolated stretches of the interstate system. Congress is already balking at the rising cost of that system.

Timely Gesture

The surprise appreciation dinner last Friday for Mr. and Mrs. Horace Garrett was something which speaks well for the community as well as for the Garretts and the Dora Roberts Foundation.

Big Spring and Howard County have benefitted in many instances from the generous help of these, and yet it is possible to be grateful and yet not be gracious. Thus, to pause and say "thank you" is to express openly what all of us feel but do not always say.

Any time is a good time to express one's gratitude, and thus this gesture is a timely one.

What has been done and what has been made possible by these good people stands as its own memorial. It is an example of returning to a community something of which has sprung from it, and thus insure blessings for generations to come.

It is a course to be commended to others, but even if the example is not emulated, it is blessed every time a child is helped to become a better citizen or is helped to overcome some physical handicap or is encouraged to intellectual and spiritual values.

David Lawrence Restrictions Of Press Freedom

WASHINGTON — Quite a fuss was raised the other day when the South African government refused to admit a special group of newspapermen who were planning to accompany Sen. Robert F. Kennedy on his forthcoming visit to that country. Maybe the government of South Africa made a mistake in public-relations strategy inasmuch as the correspondents who regularly live in Pretoria can write about the senator's visit anyway. But what is paradoxical is that, while other countries, large and small, have barred American newsmen not just on occasional visits but all the time, no such vehement protests have been made as were expressed here in America concerning South Africa's action.

INDEED, there are probably more of the so-called "free republics" which today refuse to admit newsmen from publications whose criticisms they disliked than there are countries which are ready to open the gates to all, as, for instance, the United States and Great Britain.

In many countries, newsmen are not permitted to travel around freely. This is true of all the Communist countries with the single exception of Yugoslavia. Russia, for example, claims that its ban on movement by tourists and newsmen is confined to cities "where there are no hotel or travel facilities," but no American has been allowed to stay in Vladivostok since the Soviets took power.

SOME OF THE Communist governments, moreover, have kept out groups of newsmen when they have been assigned just to cover a particular story which the authorities in those countries feared would not be reported to suit them.

Most correspondents in the United States and other Western countries pulled out of Russia in 1949 due to restrictions, and today the newsmen stationed there regularly must get approval of the foreign office if they wish to travel outside of Moscow. This involves lots of red tape and delays.

MANY COUNTRIES have ejected correspondents and have notified them after they left that they could not return. Among them are Saudi Arabia, Iran, Syria, Iraq, Egypt, Haiti and several countries in Africa.

Red China for many years has been refusing to allow American newspapermen to enter any mainland area. In 1957, a group of 31 correspondents were cleared for travel to Red China by the United States, but the Peiping regime would not admit them. North Korea and North Viet Nam also have been closed to U.S. newsmen right along.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT from time to time has made perfunctory protests on this subject. When in recent months African countries have kept out some American newsmen, the United States government has had very little to say.

Unfortunately, control of the press is a counterpart of totalitarian rule. Freedom of the press is not being permitted in many countries in Africa, nor is it being respected in parts of other continents. The United States, however, is extending financial and economic aid to some countries which do not even permit American newsmen to enter their lands and to other countries which expel them when articles are written that are not to the liking of the existing regimes.

Already 'Salvaged'

MANILA (AP) — Underwater scavengers have taken a large brass bell, the steering wheel and the brass name plate from the sunken U.S. Navy ship Canopus.

The USS Canopus, built in 1918, was sunk in Mariveles Bay in the early days of World War II by Japanese planes.

The U.S. Navy asked local authorities if they could salvage some of the relics, including the ship's bell, for use as historic mementos in a new ship of the same name.

But when Navy divers went down to collect their souvenirs they found that some one had beaten them to it.

LOOKS PRETTY SERIOUS

James Marlow Conference Opens Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, a great believer in being backed up by a broad consensus when he tries to put an idea across, lays the foundation today for a lot of future action on civil rights.

A two-day White House Conference on Civil Rights, with about 2,400 people taking part at his suggestion, opens and, when it is over, will send him a bundle of recommendations.

IN A SPEECH a year ago Johnson said that trying to obtain justice for the Negro "will be a chief goal of my administration" for the years to come.

He said he would call a White House conference in the fall of 1965 — as a starter — to help the American Negro "fulfill the rights which after the long time of injustice he is finally about to secure."

He called the conference in the fall. Eight panels of civil rights workers, experts in various fields, and government officials were asked by Johnson to come up with ideas for a big White House conference this spring.

A planning council was created. Today that second conference begins.

THE DELEGATES include representatives of business, labor, all levels of government, churches, foundations, educational institutions, civil rights workers, and what the conference calls the "grass roots" of society.

The 2,400 delegates were to be divided into groups of 200 each to discuss a 100-page report which the council sent last week to all those taking part in the conference.

It contained dozens of recommendations for immediate and long-range action to bring the Negro into equal status in housing, education, economic and job security, and the administration of justice.

This conference will not be asked to vote on the proposals but discussions and suggestions will be recorded and reflected in a report to be submitted to Johnson within a few weeks.

THE CHAIRMAN of the planning council — Ben W. Heineman Jr., a railroad executive — sees the conference as a jumping-off point for a full-scale involvement by society at every level, by private citizens as well as government officials.

He denied the goals are "pie in the sky" although acknowledging that all the measures recommended might cost billions of dollars.

One idea emphasized by the council and already proposed to Congress by Johnson is running into tough opposition there. This was the call for an unrestricted market in housing.

In the years ahead as Johnson tries to translate into action the ideas from the council and the conference he can claim, especially to a Congress where he is bound to encounter some opposition, that the ideas didn't just spring from his administration. It will be a big help to him.

THIS WILL HOLD TRUE — since the council itself already has made recommendations — even if the conference should be badly distracted or damaged by some militant civil rights groups which, for one reason or another, are antagonistic to the conference.

Hal Boyle Might Help Career

By PHIL THOMAS
NEW YORK (AP) — There's a movie playing in town called "Rent-a-Girl."

Which isn't a bad idea. We have no idea what the movie is about, but its title could be a spur to the credit card economy.

Why not be able to rent a girl? And on credit. It might help your career if you could.

That's because so many of the giant corporations are becoming more and more interested in the personal lives of their executives. They're no longer content to know all they can just about the man, they also want to know all about his wife.

And, often, the man might miss a coveted push up the executive ladder because, even though he meets all the firm's requirements, his wife doesn't.

Suppose you've got the kind of wife who likes to "stay home nights and read the collected works of Shakespeare rather than going out on the town. This is fine in his fashion. But suppose you've also got a boss who's a swinger, a real drink-it-up, laugh-it-up until five o'clock in the morning kind of a guy.

He also is the guy who decides whether you get the promotion. And he decides he wants to meet your wife over dinner and drinks before making a decision about you.

What do you do? You know your wife will hate him, and he'll hate her. Don't panic. Just call your friendly "rent-a-wife" dealer. He'll put the proper wife in the party seat. Show him your credit card (it might be expensive but you've got 30 days to pay) and he'll run your request through a computer. In less than a minute it will pick out just the right woman to impress your boss — a fast-drinking, quick-laughing, redhead who can show your leader how to Watusi without giving him a heart attack.

You can pick up your "wife" yourself or she can be delivered, and in plenty of time for you to fill her in on what the boss expects in the wife of a rising junior executive.

The nicest thing is that when the evening is done and the sun is coming up you just return your rented wife to the store and drive on home to your real one.

No muss, no fuss, no bother. Eds: Hal Boyle is III.

To Your Good Health What Does Enlarged Heart Indicate?

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: You have never written concerning the meaning of an enlarged heart and its main causes. I don't smoke or drink. Is there any special way to take care of an enlarged heart? I am 65 and still working. —MRS. M.E.T.

Dear lady, you must have been somewhere else on the days that I have discussed enlarged heart. It is also described and discussed in my booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," which may be obtained by sending 25 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Big Spring Herald.

An enlarged heart is just what the words imply. The organ is bigger than normal. The principal causes are high blood pressure; disease or defects of the valves (often due to rheumatic fever); or certain Vitamin B deficiencies.

Whatever the specific cause, the heart is laboring under some difficulty that forces it to work harder to accomplish its task of pumping blood. Under such circumstances, the heart muscle thickens and enlarges just as other muscles tend to enlarge under continued stress.

An enlarged heart is not necessarily a weak one. It may have enlarged so successfully that it remains efficiently able to serve you well. It is even possible for the original cause of the enlargement to have been corrected in some way, so that although the enlargement remains it does not grow any greater. In other instances it may actually reduce in size.

What to do about an enlarged heart—if anything—depends on the cause of the enlargement. In some instances limiting the amount of physical exertion, to keep the demand for circulation within the limits which the heart can support without too much strain, might be the only requirement.

In the case of high blood pressure, control by adequate rest, diet, weight reduction and certain medications are in order.

There is no do-it-yourself method of evaluating an enlarged heart. Size is best determined by X-ray of the chest. You must leave that to your doctor, and you must look to him, consequently, for counsel on what to do for your heart, if it requires any special care.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it any use to give a "pap test" to a woman who had a hysterectomy 20 years ago? And what is malignant hypertension? It sounds like cancer to me. —K.M.

First question: Possibly, yes. The exact form of the operation, and just what was removed and what left in, would have a bearing. Second question: Malignant hypertension has nothing to do with cancer. It is a severe form of high blood pressure.

Count your calories the easy way! To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim Intrepid Explorers

Back in the old days, as I used to tell my sons, folks were just like they are now—they got the travelling fever when vacation time rolled around.

Naturally, striking out with old Dobbin was not recommended except for a short haul to the Concho and a few days of fishing and chiggers. Thus, the advent of the horseless carriage really fanned those Marco Polo instincts.

FRAGILITY of the machines and the absence of highways held back the wave of adventure, but not for long. By the time cow trails gave way to wavy, rutted roads, automobiles cast off their carbide lights and bulb horns.

Naturally, the limits of navigation were circumscribed by ruggedness of machine and roads. If everything went perfectly, you might make 100 miles a day. If fortune and elements ganged you, then you might not make 50—indeed, you might not turn a wheel until the hack brought in a new axle from Fort Worth.

NEVERTHELESS, intrepid autoists ventured out in full knowledge of the odds. By the time they got aboard all the apparatus, supplies and auxiliary equipment absolutely necessary, there wasn't much room left for personal gear.

For instance, those broad running boards (at least the one on the driver's side) were boxed in with an accordion type fence. One of the first things that went in was a can for extra water and a can for extra gasoline and maybe one for oil. Next, bedding was piled into the space because the tourist court was yet to come. Odds were that night would catch you where you would have to make down your couch. By the same token, the cargo also included a few cooking utensils and a grub box.

UNDER THE BACK seat you made sure that you had two or three cans of cold patch, a darn good pump, and a jack that would work. If you were really smart, you put in a couple of tire boots to spare, for aside from the innumerable punctures, you could figure on a first class blow-out or two.

Another thing you made sure about was a set of chains in case you got caught in some clay flat in the middle of a shower. This also dictated the presence of a good tow chain or rope. Usually you carried a shovel to dig out of the super sandy spots in the road, and you had a set of eisenglass curtains which could be fastened—well almost—to the iron and wood frame over which the fabric top of the old touring car was stretched.

YOU MADE SURE about a pair of pliers, a pair of wire cutters for getting through fences if you got desperate when you got lost, a monkey wrench and a spark plug wrench.

You didn't particularly need a map, since the only available one was likely to be in Junior's geography book. If you did have one, those lines between towns didn't mean much. What came in handier was a knack for asking the nearest farmer how to get to the next town. But by golly, when the explorers got back from those trips, they really had something to talk about.

JOE PICKLE

Holmes Alexander Forcing The 'Melting Pot'

WASHINGTON—Fluttering about on the cutting-room floor of the White House these days is an old American myth—the theory known as the "melting pot."

To use police court language, you might say that this thesis of racial assimilation, dearly-beloved by the sentimentalists, was "dead on arrival" at this summer's White House Conference on Civil Rights.

THE ONLY REASON for the get-together of the bi-racial action groups, summoned by the President to meet at the Sheraton-Park Hotel here, is that after 300 years in America the Negro minority has not "melted." The stated purpose of the Conference, in the President's words, is "to shatter forever" the "barriers" and the "walls" between the races. In brief, giving accentuation to the positive, President Johnson is determined to join together by vigorous action that which time and history have thus far held asunder.

HOWEVER LOFTY the theme of universal fraternity among races, it is impossible to examine the methods that are proposed without some apprehension. There is hardly need to dwell upon such ideas as guaranteed annual jobs for Negroes, "fair" housing codes which flagrantly invade the sanctity of private ownership, and implied threats of "bussing" children to provide artificial integration in all schools "to prepare their pupils for life in our pluralistic society and ever-shrinking world."

Most of the corporate group is against government wage-price guidelines, while the professors are evenly divided on the issue.

THESE ARE conclusions drawn from replies of 340 university economists in 46 states and 220 economists employed by business firms in 29 states to questions asked by the economic research division of the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York.

Inflation is the most pressing economic problem now in the opinion of 54 per cent of the business group and 51 per cent of the teachers. But 25 per cent of the academic economists thought poverty more important now, against 8 per cent of the corporate group. Balance of payments deficits were voted the most pressing by 19 per cent of the business economists, against 9 per cent of the teachers. Only 2 per cent of each group thought unemployment the prime bogeyman.

Inflation is already under way, in the opinion of 94 per cent of the business economists, and 40 per cent of them think reduced federal spending would be the best way to contain it, with 28 per cent voting for higher taxes.

BUT OF THE 86 per cent of the professors who see inflation already here, only 27 per cent favored reduced federal spending and 34 per cent plunked for higher taxes.

Of the 60 per cent of the business group opposing wage-price guidelines, 52 per cent did so because it meant too much interference in the market and 32 per cent because other ways of controlling the price level seemed better. Half of the university teachers opposed the guidelines, with 44 per cent of those objectors favoring other government interference.

The more extreme backers of the New Economics—those who say that the business cycle is dead because of new techniques—found few adher-ents in either the academic or corporate groups. The business economists lined up 95 per cent for the view that the up-and-down business pattern is still with us, and so did 93 per cent of the university men.

THE GROUPS SPLIT on the conduct of the government's war on poverty. A majority in both camps favored the idea in general. But 56 per cent of the business economists disapproved the direction the war has taken so far, while 57 per cent of the teachers approved.

THE PLAN FOR compulsory assimilation of the races may work—who can say?—but historical evidence runs to the contrary. The sentimentalists always fail to note that two other minority races in America, the Irish and the European Jews, rose to the top in politics and business, the arts and the sciences, by overcoming discrimination on their own.

Historical evidence is very clear. Discrimination doesn't necessarily retard a race group in America, and special privilege is not needed for a race group that has the will to rise in American society.

THERE ARE certainly risks in the sad plight of the American Negro, for he has not learned, or earned, or lived as well as the rest of his countrymen.

But there are also risks in the President's plans "to shatter forever" the structure that contains this society of ours.

Sam Dawson Inflation Has 'Em Worried

NEW YORK (AP)—Economists are more worried today about inflation than about unemployment and poverty. And economists hired by business firms are more worried than are those who teach in universities.

In Khaki

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Women factory workers in South Africa are becoming increasingly fashion conscious. Gone are the days of drab khaki and off-white overalls.

Designers of work-wear for women now have to pay close attention to Paris hemlines and fashions, according to this country's National Occupational Safety Association.

The girls' safety, health and working freedom are no longer the only considerations of designers.

"Employers and unions alike see the psychological value of attractive protective clothing," says the association. "We cannot, however, follow fashions faithfully. Gimmicks for gimmicks sake do not make overalls more interesting or effective."

Current styling favors the simple shift-type overall, about 40 inches in length, made from a gaily colored synthetic material such as nylon, states the association.

Plant offer is in air-conditioning servicing. They also sell new and used air conditioners, and always have a large stock on hand.

In stock are all parts needed for air conditioners, ranging from pumps, floats, pulley, pads, to belts and fittings.

Pettus & Plant will wire a home completely, if you wish; re-wind any size of electric motor; repair oil well electrical equipment, and do it all well. Remember, Pettus has more than 30 years' experience in the field.

Pettus, who came to Big Spring in 1928, started in as an electrical apprentice in 1936. He opened the Pettus Electric Co. at another location in 1954, and

McMahon Has Masonry Needs

Now is a good time to get that patio built, flower bed borders set, or any other concrete work done around the home or business. Clyde McMahon Concrete Co., 609 N. Benton, has big mixing trucks rolling all the time, and is ready to back up to your job and pour the proper mixture for your program.

In addition to handling all kinds of ready-mix concrete jobs, he stocks many of the tools and supplies needed for the building contractor or do-it-yourself home-owner. Ready-made concrete items are also in stock at the yard. Some of these are concrete blocks, expansion joint material, concrete and masonry tools, vibrators and finishing machines.

Whatever you need in the way of concrete, Clyde McMahon can supply. Call AM 4-6348.

operated until Plant, an HJCC graduate and native Big Springer, began working with him in 1964. Early this year, he purchased half the firm.

Plant is in charge of outside electrical construction and service work for the company; while Pettus is in charge of sales and motor-repair sections.

DAY AND NIGHT

Pettus & Plant Electric offers day and night service for electrical breakdowns. During the day, until 6:30 p.m., call AM 3-7189. Nights, call Plant at AM 4-8786, or Pettus at AM 4-6785.

For fine electrical service, day or night, on any size job, be it industrial or residential or oil field work, remember to call on Pettus & Plant Electric, 501 E. 2nd.

White's Lawn Mowers Have Power, Economy

That lawn of yours is coming up already, and you will need to take a look at that lawnmower of yours and make sure it will work this summer.

If it won't, if you need a new lawnmower, the place to look for it is at White's.

Needed equipment can be bought at White's, 202-204 Scurry, and you don't have to go broke to purchase what you need.

If that old lawn mower is worn out, or you need a bigger one, it will pay to go by White's and take a look at the variety, from the small push

Mack Moore's Exterminates Pesky Insects

Mack and Max Moore of Mack Moore & Son keep abreast of the constant changes in insecticides and know just what to use to rid buildings of ants, roaches, termites, moths and other insects.

They have the equipment to get the chemicals into the most difficult places. A telephone call to AM 4-8190 or AM 3-6514 will get you information about, or service on, all kinds of pest control.

Even skunk odors can be eliminated with chemicals. Other offensive odors, such as those caused by smoke, may be "killed out" of the air or walls inside the premises.

Termites can do as much damage to concrete as they do to wood. Insects and pests can also develop immunity to pesticides and chemicals, requiring new kinds to be used for extermination.

Mack and Max Moore have pressurized portable equipment to enable them to get under concrete slabs, air hammers to drill into concrete foundations, and slabs where pressure forces chemicals into the entire area to exterminate termites.

So, if there is an offensive odor around the home, caused by smoke, skunks, or anything else, the firm has the chemicals to rid the air and premises of the offensive stink.

Three pressure tanks, on trailers, carrying 50, 100 and 200 gallons of chemicals, are ready to roll, along with two trucks carrying the necessary tools.

Mack Moore & Son own and operate the business and keep up with all new methods and chemicals. They are members of the Texas Pest Control Association and are ready to go anywhere in the Big Spring area.

If insecticides around the home or business are not proving effective, call Mack Moore & Son. They can do you and your home a lot of good.

DEPOSIT FACILITY
Makes it easy to bank at State National, night or day

State National Bank Has Conveniences, Services

One of the many features of the State National Bank is its convenient and easily-accessible all-night depository facility.

The depository is located in the north wall of the newer addition of the bank in a well-lighted area. A sign glitters brightly to make it easier to locate. You just drive up, drop in your deposit and you're on your way again, your banking done, and you haven't moved out of your car's comfort.

It is very easy to use. There is no key required. You just pull down the bar marked "envelopes" and insert the deposit in the opening. The deposit immediately drops into a safe within the bank as the bar is released.

The depository is in addition to the new drive-in windows on the north side of the bank for more convenient banking-hours business by those who drive up, do their banking, and drive off, regardless of how they are dressed. The drive-in windows—the most convenient method of doing money business yet discovered—are just one of the many continuing steps made by State National Bank to keep just a little ahead of the time with conveniences for its customers.

These courtesies and conveniences have seen the steady growth of the oldest bank in Big Spring. It is home-owned and home-operated, so you know they're friendly folks.

So drop by the State National Bank for all your banking needs. You will find every convenience used by the most modern banks in the country, combined with old-fashioned politeness.

Graham Gets Mixed Reviews, London Crusade Launched

LONDON (AP) — American evangelist Billy Graham opens a month-long crusade in London tonight under the admiring gaze of his many supporters and close scrutiny of clerics.

It is being held in the Earls Court indoor stadium, which seats 25,000 persons, and is being carried to most of Britain's other major cities by closed circuit television.

For the duration of the crusade, Graham told his aides at a meeting Tuesday night, the auditorium "is going to be a cathedral, a sacred place." He predicted it would be remembered "as a place that God visited in 1966 and began a work that perhaps could teach and influence people in other parts of the world."

Thousands of stewards, counselors and advisers have been lined up to help in the crusade and a choir of 2,000 will sing. The cost is estimated at $840,000.

Graham told his followers: "During this month every one of you is going to be watched by your neighbors and the people you work with. You are going to be watched by the world."

Author James Mitchell wrote in the Guardian, a liberal daily, that Graham used a "deadly and destructive genius" in seeking converts and retaining their loyalty.

However, a Cambridge student's letter to the Guardian said: "Any message that can do anything to remedy the desperate apathy of this nation is to be received with open arms."

The Rev. W. Cecil Northcott, writing in the Anglican Church Times, called the crusade, Graham's second in Britain, a "redundant anachronism" and said it was "a kind of soft-sell in a supermarket which lacks the lasting qualities of the genuine article."

But the archbishop of York, second ranking prelate of the Church of England, said he admired Graham. The archbishop, Dr. Donald Coggin, said he thought "the man is wholly sincere and courageous in his approach."

In a British Broadcasting Corp. interview, questioners suggested his message was oversimplified, that he appealed to the emotions and that he projected an image of himself rather than Jesus Christ.

Graham replied that if he appeared to be emotional it was because he was preaching the gospel of God and that was enough to stir anyone's emotions. He added:

"It would be wonderful if people would forget Billy Graham and think only of Christ."

Rarity In West Texas

Eden Proposes Viet Settlement

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' public affairs program Tuesday night consisted of a forthright interview with Anthony Eden, now the Earl of Avon, on his suggestions for achieving a peace in Viet Nam.

Lord Avon, now in retirement, recently wrote a book on the subject. He is familiar with the conflict since he was chairman of the Geneva Conference which 12 years ago sought to solve the problem when the French were having a difficult time there.

Responding to questions by correspondent Charles Collingwood, Lord Avon proposed that Laos, Cambodia, North and South Viet Nam — formerly called Indochina — be declared a "neutral belt" under an international treaty made within the framework of the Geneva Conference.

He said that while neither China nor the United States is prepared to see the other in control of Viet Nam, they might be able to agree to a neutralized Indochina.

The former British foreign minister noted, almost in passing, that the massive bombing of Britain during World War II had the effect of strengthening, rather than weakening British resistance — a sort of "David and Goliath effect," he called it.

Jean Arthur, a fine light comedienne, will be the star of a CBS comedy series next season. She will play a lady lawyer.

Since it is impossible for even a team of writers to turn out enough scripts for a full season of television programs, the script-writing assignments will be divided among a number of professionals. The problem is to give each writer an adequate fill-in on the characters.

Jay Richard Kennedy, co-executive producer of the series, has whipped up a 14-page manual which is required reading not only for the writers but for everybody else on the show.

Patricia Marshall — Miss Arthur — is a widow with a son who also is a lawyer.

"The husband she once had must have been a wonderful guy," Kennedy wrote in his handbook, "and somewhere along the line she must have come to terms with losing him. The memory of the love must linger on, for the quality of a girl is still present in her; the face of innocence seems to be hers; the breathless, toasty headed, somewhat tomboyish quality is still very much alive."

Recommended tonight: "Guiltily or Not Guilty," NBC, 9-10 EDT, Bob Hope Theater, drama with Pippa Scott, Leslie Nielsen and Robert Ryan.

Boy Scouts Urged To Sign For Camp

Boy Scouts are being urged to sign for summer camp at the Davis Mountains.

Troops from this district are going the weeks of July 3 and July 10 in order to put the camp past the Little League season, said Frosty Robison, chairman of camping and activity. He asked Scouts or their parents to contact the scoutmasters as promptly as possible.

Ready For Hurricanes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Weather Bureau is ready for the 1966 parade of hurricanes. But when the howling procession will start, nobody knows.

"No one would be brave enough to stick his neck out on that," says Paul Moore, assistant director of the National Hurricane Service.

The Weather Bureau now puts its "master plan" for hurricane forecasts into effect June 1. Before last year, the plan was activated June 15.

This doesn't mean, Moore says, that earlier blows are anticipated. But somewhere in the hurricane belt embracing the Atlantic, Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico, a tropical storm has sprung up in every month of the year.

The master plan of the Weather Bureau brings a realignment of weather teletype circuits which hooks all coastal stations of the bureau, Navy, Air Force and Federal Aviation Administration together.

Air Force and Navy hurricane hunter aircraft already are on station at Savannah, Ga., Jacksonville and Puerto Rico. They fly daily patrols over a vast ocean area where ship lanes are sparse.

IGNORE MUSIC; READ LABELS

Housewives Given Hints For Grocery Shopping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housewives struggling with their mounting food budget can take this shopping hint from the President's adviser on consumer affairs: "You're not going in there for amusement. You can get romance somewhere else — cheaper."

"Grocery shopping," Esther Peterson, assistant secretary of labor, added in an interview today, "is a serious job to get done in the most efficient, economical way possible. Ignore the music. Read labels."

An Associated Press survey of 12 cities showed Tuesday that the cost of a typical week's shopping climbed nearly 7 per cent in the past year.

The AP housewife brigade concluded that the government price index fairly reflects a hard fact: It costs more to feed the family.

For housewives trying to save money, Mrs. Peterson, a mother of four and a specialist on shopping trends, has some ready advice:

1. Be a weekend shopper. Midweek prices range 7 to 10 per cent higher on many items.

2. Shop the specials. You can save 6 per cent on a weekly food bill of $30.

3. Plan your menus with an eye on the advertisements. Make a list. Follow it once you get in the store.

4. Avoid impulse buying.

5. Whenever possible, buy in quantity on sale. Buy cleanser this week, 10 cans of peas next week.

6. Shop alone when possible. Leave the children at home.

7. Test products. Buy one package each of four kinds of beans and compare them. Often, she says, store brands are just as good and cheaper.

8. Look for the lowest prices. You can knock $2 off an average $30 food bill by picking lower priced brands. Notice fluctuations.

9. Substitute foods: chuck for rib roast, dry milk for fresh, margarine for butter, poultry and fish for red meat, hamburger for steak, casseroles for meat dishes.

10. You pay high for convenience foods. Think: can I add the mushrooms cheaper? Maybe you don't even want mushrooms.

Male Nurses Are Drafted

KINGS PARK, N.Y. (AP) — What do you do when you're a 34-year-old male nurse with a wife and family and you suddenly find out you've been drafted?

That description happens to fit two Kings Park, Long Island, men — who also happen to be life-long friends — and they have different answers.

Calvin M. Cunningham says he'll leave his wife and three children in their home when he reports for induction July 8.

James J. Girvan and his wife plan to put their house up for rent and take their five children along with them.

Neither man is bitter about his forthcoming service. "It's my turn and I don't intend to burn my draft card in any sort of a protest," says Cunningham.

A Selective Service System spokesman said the call went out to draft male nurses because there weren't enough female nurses volunteering and "we can't draft women."

Girvan and Cunningham expect they'll receive eight weeks of orientation at an Army medical center in Texas before they're commissioned.

Youth Held On Bomb Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — A high school student set off three bombs in Manhattan in the past week, police charged.

The youth, Dominick Lattinelli, 18, of Manhattan, was apprehended Tuesday night at his home.

He was to be arraigned today on charges of felonious assault and malicious mischief.

Police Inspector Sanford Garelik said there was "physical and circumstantial evidence" to connect Lattinelli with the bombing incidents.

Two women were injured Monday in the most recent explosion of a homemade device resembling a large firecracker. One may lose an eye. The blast occurred in a subway station and ripped apart two telephone booths.

Police disclosed a similar bomb had been tossed into a manhole last week, temporarily impairing the hearing of two men, and another was placed in a sidewalk telephone booth but caused no injuries.

Authorities said Lattinelli was an English major in a vocational high school who was born in Italy and came to the United States from France six years ago.

The youth's father, Arturo, said he is one of four children — "a good boy — always home at 9 o'clock."
